PARKING

Sweetwater is up against the same proposition that has already proved vexatious to other cities, i. e., the problem of automobile parking. This problem is not exceptionally acute most days except Saturdays, but there simply isn't room enough for cars when folks from Sweetwater's trade territory come in.

This is a problem that is bound to get worse as time goes on. It should be faced now and solved. Some cities have a time limit on parking of cars, which is more or less of a makeshift arrangement at best, but does help out. The folks who come to town to shop here in most cases would be satisfied with a two hour parking limit but it is difficult to enforce at best and then there is always the risk of giving offense to some good friend from the territory.

One thing that can be done is to use vacant property for car parking. There are several lots that are available until built upon. One of these is the Federal building lot, there is another on West Second, others on West Third and also some vacant property on Elm Street opposite the Toler Motor Co. Consent of the owners should be secured, and arrangements made to park cars in these spaces, and by throwing a short time limit on parking on the square, keep the business streets freer from congestion and permit a much larger automobile population during the height of the fall busy season. The Board of City Development or other civic body could well make some moves along this line for the benefit of everyone. The problem should not only be attacked from a temporary angle, it should also be studied with reference to the needs five years from now, and adequate provision made for future requirements.

SWAT HIM NOW!

Fly swatting campaigns are usually staged in the spring, it being assumed that if you kill one fly in April you automatically destroy her entire progeny, which under favorable conditions, should amount to many millions later on in the season.

In the fall, however, it is equally important to swat the fly, for it is the fly that manages to hibernate thru the winter that starts the new crop in the spring.

Flies are especially dangerous in carrying the germs which cause diarrheal diseases fatal to so many children, according to health authorities.

The fly is not discriminating about the disease he carries, however. It may be the cause of infection in cases of typhoid, tuberculosis, diphtheria and possibly other diseases.

As cooler weather comes on flies seek the warmth of houses and later crawl into any crevice they can find to hibernate. It is therefore of double importance to swat the flies that get indoors in the fall.

THE ROMANTIC SEASON

A spirit of romance pervades autumn of the year which few, for fear of ridicule will admit sensing. Perhaps romance is something for lovers, the adolescent and women folk and to be spurned by sober manhood, yet most men if honest with their fellows, would be compelled to confess to a quickening of the pulse when the first leaves fall and darkness comes before supper.

For an explanation of this fall romanticism one might harken back to the days of boyhood when autumn was the cue for hunting nuts, squirrel shooting, corn roasts and football. Ask any boy which is the best season in the hills and the question will find autumn on the tip of his tongue.

The spirit of romance encountered this time of the year in the workaday world may also be traced to the fall holidays and festivals. There are Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving Day. What festivals could be more symbolic of the harvest season than these, and both abound in tradition, adventure and romance. Imagination is nine-tenths romance and Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving Day exercise a strange appeal to the imagination.

And if the adage is true that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," then the harvest account for a part of the romantic atmosphere of the season. Where is to be found romance in greater abundance than in a golden brown pumpkin pie, in a glass of sweet cider and in a basket of new apples?

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON.—Of all the

into foreign lands, the experts whom our big agricultural implement houses dispatch as field representatives to stinker with the farm machinery they have sold abroad average the highest type.

Our mechanic on foreign service is well paid but not on a scale to put up at the leading hotel—where he might just as well be at home—on reaching his destination. He finds quarters in a native boarding house and associates with the people of the country.

He sees something of urban life but all of his time is spent in the "boonies," learning the country's best life, and language and while he average American does.

A few years of this and then the mechanic know it better than his own—inside out.

Once every winter or two he gets a couple of months in the United States to keep him up-to-date and in touch with home, but invariably he's shipped away again. A specialist, by this time, in foreign fields, he's too valuable to be spared from them long.

Then maybe he's transferred to another country, which he learns too, as thoroughly as he did the first one. I have met these mechanics who have lived in most of the Latin American republics, in Germany and Spain, in the Balkan states, in North Africa, in European and Asiatic Russia, who speak half a dozen languages with considerable fluency and who understood world politics and conditions as mightily few so-called authorities do—not from formal study, but at first hand.

Of course not every mechanic, any more than every man in any other calling, is made of the raw material to profit by such advantages, but some of them are—men who would fill an ambassador's post with a credit mightily few ambassadors have a right to claim. Ambassadors, however, aren't picked that way.

Everybody on a political machine wants to blow the horn. And nobody wants to buy the gas.

Only trouble with the harvest moon is you see so many autos parked by the road fixing punctures.

All Chrysler models are protected against theft by an exclusive, patented car numbering system, which cannot be counterfeited and cannot be altered or removed without conclusive evidence of tampering.

Out of Chrysler engineering and manufacturing skill come the extraordinary performance and value of Chrysler Four—plus quality and beauty never before equaled in its price class.

The Chrysler Four is, in the most precise sense, a fine car—fine in principle, fine in materials, and fine in its standards of manufacture and assembly.

It is built with painstaking care, and to a degree of accuracy and precision, heretofore unknown among cars of its price—in the most modern and scientifically equipped manufacturing plants.

Obviously, when such quality is combined with the unusual roadability which results from Chrysler designed spring suspension and balloon tires; with low center of gravity, pivotal steering and the option of Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes to give utmost safety; and with Fisher bodies for maximum comfort—the result is unapproached motor car value in the thousand dollar class.

Everywhere, men and women who know motor cars are favoring the Chrysler Four. Women, who like fine things, say it is a delightful car to drive and to ride in. Men are enthusiastic over its extraordinary performance, its economy and its durability. Test it out, yourself behind the wheel. We are eager to provide the opportunity.

Stops carbon knocks

It gives us great pleasure to announce NO-NOX our new Motor Fuel. NO-NOX is the product of many months of exhaustive, scientific and chemical research by a staff of our own skilled chemists, infinite care being given to all details to insure the absolute perfection of NO-NOX Motor Fuel. Strenuous nights and days were spent in our thoroughly equipped laboratories by these scientists before NO-NOX Motor Fuel was perfected. Hard grilling road tests followed to develop any weakness overlooked in the laboratory, and we are now ready to offer the most efficient anti-knock fuel in the world.

Manufactured in one refinery under the same skillful supervision and from the same grades of crude, it is continuously uniform which means much in carburetion. When the carburetor is once properly adjusted it requires no further change—care should be taken to see that the mixture is not too rich as NO-NOX works best with a thin mixture, thus insuring economy. With NO-NOX, perfect combustion takes place at just the right position of the piston head which entirely does away with carbon knocks or motor detonation—promoting greater efficiency of the engine, smoother operation of the car on the road, in traffic, and especially on heavy grades.

This wonderfully efficient gas is guaranteed to be Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline.

NO-NOX is priced only three cents per gallon higher than That Good Gulf Gasoline.

Drive to the nearest Gulf Service Station and try it out. It is readily distinguished by its color.

PICK PIRATES TO WHIP SENATORS

Pittsburgh Looks Better Than Washington in Opinion of Close Observers of Game

DEPENDS UPON THE BREAKS

Two Freakish Balls Bounding Over Lindstrom's Head Gave Senators Deciding Game 1924

By Henry L. Farrell (United Press Sports Editor.) NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Pittsburg will win the world's series from Washington, many smart National League men believe. Their opinion is not based entirely upon loyalty or influenced by prejudice.

Most of the members of the New York Giants for instance, figure that the Pirates are too fast and hit too hard for the Senators. Six of the nine New York players who were asked for their opinion, said they would back Pittsburgh to win. The others were asked for their opinion, said they would back Pittsburgh to win. The other three thought the Senators would win on steadiness and on the perfection of their inner defense.

Those of the Giants who like the chances of the Pirates and other baseball men who pick the Pittsburgh team to win figure it this way:

The Pirates will be a stronger club against the Senators this fall than the Giants were last year. The Senators beat the Giants on luck last year and if the Pirates are stronger than the Giants it will take more luck to beat them.

American League supporters will not agree that luck gave the Senators the 1924 world's championship, but they will agree that the Giants did not get as many breaks as the American League champions did.

That argument brings up the old question—what are breaks? It also repeats that a good team makes its own breaks and the argument never gets anywhere.

It is a matter of record, however, that the Senators won the world's series last year when two hits took a wild freakish bound over Freddy Lindstrom's head in the deciding game of the series and let in the tying and winning runs.

Pittsburg fans will lay you odds no such hits get away from the rangy "Pie" Traynor. From a standpoint of national interest, the world's series last year was the most popular that has been staged in many years. The whole country was pulling for the Senators not only because of Walter Johnson and Bucky Harris, but because there had been too much of New York in the last four years.

The series this year with Pittsburg Washington or Philadelphia furnishing the entertainment may be even more popular because it is sure to bring out some great baseball and regardless of the opponents there will be two popular teams in the battle.

The whole country was pulling for Washington last year because, even in New York, the fans wanted to see the Giants beaten. This year opinion is sure to be divided and it is the difference of opinion that develops the interest in any sport.

Even if they are not a popular team, the Giants will have to be given the credit of being good losers. No team likes to lose, of course, especially when there is so much money at stake and no manager of the type of John McGraw find any joy in bowing to a better team. But the Giants, even before the Pirates had attained the mathematical certainty, saluted them as the winners and said they were a fine ball club and deserved to win.

In the long run, the loss of the championship this year may work to the benefit of the Giants. They are still a good ball club. They were wrecked by injuries this season but they didn't alibi it. They were pennant stale and they knew it.

The Giants are not going to crack next season like the New York Yankees did this year. It is quite certain that the Giants will be up there next year because McGraw is always building with an eye to the future.

Beyond the difference in first and second place money, the New York players will not feel such a loss, but to McGraw it will be a heavy jolt. He had his heart set on winning five consecutive championships. He made a major league record when he won four pennants in a row but he wanted a fifth so he could establish a record that might never be equalled. With the loss of the pennant this year he would have to start all over and no one knows better than he that the task of winning five in a row from scratch is hopeless.

Many smart baseball men believe that this year will mark the end of Washington's reign in the American League. The Senators would look good enough for another season if it were not for the threat of the Philadelphia Athletics. Connie Mack's team looks like a cinch for the pennant next season with all its natural class and the experience it gained this year.

Amarillo Deluged

AMARILLO, Sept. 21.—A severe hail and rain storm swept Amarillo over the week end. Nearly two and a half inches of rain fell within two hours, accompanied by hail. Plate glass windows in two downtown stores were blown in and the tops of several motor cars downtown were blown off.

COTTON PICKING CHAMPIONS

Children Near Stamford Set High Mark in Grabbing Bolls

STAMFORD, Texas, Sept. 21.—G. C. Hicks and family are out on a farm near here picking cotton. They came from Whitney, Bosque County, and are here to pick during this fall. Albert Hix, aged twelve, picked between seven and ten pounds of cotton. J. Anita Hix, aged eight years, picked one hundred and eighty eight pounds of cotton between suns. Weldon Hix, aged six years, picked eighty eight pounds of cotton between suns. These are children of Mr. and Mrs. Hix. Besides beating every man and woman in the cotton field, Albert beat his father, an even hundred pounds, and his father presented him with $5 for picking more than he did.

West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 194 Madison Avenue, this city. "In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time. "My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time."
