LESS than DEALERS Pay

This is a sample of our Furniture prices. Here is a couch which the factory sells to your dealer at about $8.00. Your dealer's price to you is not less than $10.00 or $12.00 for a couch of equal grade.

Our Price
to You is

$7.25

Order No. R132

Price, $7.25

State color of plush preferred. We supply Dark Green, Dark Red, Dark Blue or Brown. Dark Green is most popular and will be sent unless otherwise ordered.

An unusually large, luxurious couch, made of selected oak, or, if preferred, in mahogany finish, handsomely carved throughout, and supported by massive carved claw feet. It has six rows of deep hand-made tufts, fastened with the celebrated steel tufting buttons which cannot pull off or pull through the cover.

It is well filled and contains the best grade of steel springs turned from special high-carbon wire, over which is placed heavy duck canvas instead of the burlap commonly used, the best grade of figured velour plush in all the staple colors being used for upholstery.

From a sanitary point of view the open bottom presents a special feature. It allows good ventilation and a free circulation of air, which is disastrous to moths and germs.

The frame is massive and substantial, the workmanship first-class, the appearance neat and artistic; a good, serviceable couch at the lowest price ever offered. Size 30 inches wide, 78 inches long. Weight, 100 pounds.

We do not care to ship goods unless freight charges are guaranteed. If you do not wish to send the full amount, $7.25, send us $1.00 to show good faith, and we will do the rest. If you really think that you ought not to take even this risk, write us and say that you prefer to have the couch sent C. O. D. and that you will pay the full amount upon arrival and examination.

We want to be reasonable from every point of view. It may be returned at our expense if not satisfactory. Send us your order now; do not wait. Order Number R132.

Our large Furniture Catalogue, illustrating and describing eighteen different styles of couches as well as four hundred other articles of furniture, will be sent on request, absolutely free. The above is only a specimen of the marvelously low prices quoted in this book. Your local dealer cannot buy the goods at lower figures than our prices to you.

Our General Catalogue lists over 70,000 articles which we sell direct to customers at wholesale prices, including nearly everything that you use, wear or eat. It contains over 1,000 pages, 17,000 pictures, and 70,000 of the lowest prices ever quoted. It weighs almost four pounds, and the postage alone costs 30 cents. We will send you this catalogue by mail or express prepaid on receipt of 15 cents. It will save an ordinary family at least $100 per year, and may save that on one purchase. If you are not satisfied with it we will return your 15 cents.

Ours is the largest mail order house in the world. Established 1872. We have 52 acres of floor space covered with merchandise; 2,000 employees, and two million customers. We quote lower prices, for values given, than any other house in existence.

One-Horse Farmers.

An exchange has the following to say of what it terms the "one horse" farmer:

He will alarm the neighborhood by getting up two hours before day and then sit around and not go to work until sun up.

He will ride around a whole week looking for a $2 hog.

He will complain of hard times and then tear his pants climbing a fence where a gate ought to be.

He will pay $3 for a new bridle and then let the calf chew it to pieces before Sunday.

He will get all his neighbors to help in getting a cow out of a bog and then let her die for want of attention.

Stock will get in and destroy his crop at a place in the fence he has been putting off fixing for six months.

He will sprain his back lifting something to show how strong he is.

He will talk all Sunday on what he knows about farming, and then ride around the neighborhood Monday hunting seed potatoes.

He will go in his shirt sleeves on a cold day to show how much he can stand, then return home and occupy two-thirds of the fire place until bed time.

He will go to town on Saturday and come back with fifty cents worth of coffee, a paper of pins, a dollar's worth of chewing tobacco, and his hide full of whisky.

A few stock trains went east Sunday.

The real character of man is found out by his amusements.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

For seven months ended July 31, the number of cattle exported from United States was 237,376, an increase of 38,656 over corresponding period last year.

The breeders of Angus cattle will not participate in the combination show and sale to be held in Kansas City the latter part of October. The date will be probably postponed from October 21st to the 25th.

H. C. Alexander, of Kiowa, Kans., had forty head of two-year-old steers stolen recently. They were branded on the right hip with what is known as the tuning fork. He offers a reward of $250 for the arrest and conviction of the thieves.

Dolds to Rebuild at Wichita.

The splendid packing plant of the Jacob Dold Packing Co. will be rebuilt. These words with no other comment are enough to inspire renewed enthusiasm in the hearts and minds of a numberless host of people scattered throughout the southwest territory tributary to Wichita. On Wednesday, the seventh, Mr. Fred Dold arrived in Buffalo N. Y. to attend a general meeting of the Board of Directors of the corporation, of which he is third vice-president. The outcome of the critical meeting was wired to Wichita on Saturday afternoon. Almost breathless had been the mail. At once all the factories, mills, laundries and locomotives got into the game and for a third of an hour, noise and roar reigned in the altogether. Ever since the disastrous fire no one could even formulate an intelligent guess as to the probable outcome. If the company rebuilt all knew it would be on a grander scale than ever, and the destiny of this city as a packing center was assured. If they did not, only discouragement and perhaps permanent failure would be the outcome. Only a few months ago the company finished their splendidly arranged new slaughter department. This was confessedly the finest equipped slaughter house in the United States and the general constructing and erecting engineers who came out. The buildings all will be constructed in the most modern style and they will be as completely fire proof as it is possible to construct them. The buildings will be so arranged that one section might take fire and be destroyed and all the rest remain intact. The big cooler rooms will have a fire wall extending through the center north and south and all the openings will have eight foot vestibules of twenty-two inch solid masonry. There will be a 100 ton ice plant which will contain the refrigerating tanks for cooling the house. The hog house will be four stories with tanks in the south end and will contain the dressing floor, sausage room, and lard refinery with all modern appliances. The cooler building be taken in the construction to guard against fires. There will be no stairways inside the buildings to make draft funnels in case of fire, but every stairway will be of steel and on the outside of the buildings. There will be but one connecting bridge and that will be between the coolers and the killing house and that will be constructed entirely of steel. The roofs of all the buildings will be either asbestos or brick. There will be no roofs on the new buildings to conduct fire. The entire new plant will be run by electricity, and there will be no shafting such as was used in the old house. To secure the power to operate the new plant there will be installed a generator of 300 horse power, and there was plenty of steam power saved from the fire as the engine houses and boiler rooms were not injured. Dold has one of the finest steam plants in the west and it was always a matter of great satisfaction that this was saved.

When the fire wiped out the vital parts of the plant with its millions of pounds of meats in various stages of curing, the company had under way a big addition which was to be the coolers. This was about all that was contemplated for the time, but minor repairs and little patchings here and there were to be made. Now, however a grand great big all new plant will rise up out of the ashes and the enterprise and persistent push and energy of Mr. Fred Dold assures not only a big affair in itself but of Wichita as a pork packing center.

Panhandle Farming.

A writer in the Wichita Eagle tells about the attempt to farm in the Panhandle country, which joins Woodward County on the west, as follows:—

When Mr. Meyers of the Panhandle division of the Rock Island road, was in town a few days ago, some one in the crowd told a peculiar story about an attempted settlement of the Panhandle country by farmers several years ago. It was in the eighties that a man from Missouri purchased a county or two of land in the Panhandle at the rate of one dollar an acre and got forty years to pay for it at 6 per cent interest. He knew a great deal about corn culture and he picked out nice spots in various places, principally in the meager bottom lands of water courses, and planted corn there. It grew fine of course, and about the time it was ripe he arranged for a big excursion of Dunkards to visit the country. Several train loads of them were taken down there free and the man from Missouri took good care to show them the corn, explaining that those who planted it were shiftless American farmers who did not have the industry to plant more of it. The Dunkards examined the ears and found them good. They became convinced that the Panhandle was a better corn country than Kansas and every man of them bought the cheap lands at a good profit to the man from Missouri. They settled there in great numbers and began planting corn. Of course nothing grew on the uplands, and as there were only a few patches of bottom land, they soon starved out and went back to their old homes in Iowa and other states. They were badly betrayed by the man from Missouri.

Red Polled Bull, BUTTERFIELD 2499, at the head of RIVERSIDE HERD, owned by C. W. FARR, MAQUOKETA, IOWA, Weight over 2400.

suspense on the part of the officers remaining at the plant who had been for three days on the qui vive awaiting the tremendous result. When the glad tidings finally reached the plant Superintendent Chas. D. Darrigrand at once issued orders to the chief engineer to tune up. A full head of steam was made and then the big two hundred and fifty horse power boilers let go their full strength and through the brazen throat of the mighty whistle was screamed for twenty long minutes the announcement that Wichita, and Southern Kansas, and Oklahoma would take on a new spirit of industrial activity and Dold's would rebuild. At once the telephone exchange was stampeded by enquiring subscribers as to the cause of the turhere to superintend the placing of their specially constructed machinery admitted this. It was the only abattoir with the killing rooms on the ground floor, and every known device in mechanical excellence; every conceivable apparatus for lessening time, expense, or labor, was sought out and set in position. This will not be altered any in the new building as there is absolutely no chance to improve upon that. But the rest of the immense institution will be on a scale far out reaching the former house. The new plants will have a capacity of 2,500 hogs a day through the summer months and can be increased several hundred during the winter season. This will be more than three times the capacity of the one burned will be seven stories and will have all the necessary chill rooms and apparatus for handling 2,500 hogs a day. The fertilizer will be an up to date, two story brick edifice with basement and it will be 80 by 128 feet and thoroughly outfitted with the finest machinery to convert all the blood and tank waters into commercial fertilizing products, allowing nothing but the clarified water to empty into the city sewers. This fertilizer building will be situated on the east side of the creek and away from the packing house. The box factory will be a modern brick building of one story and supplied with all the most modern machinery, among them being three newly patented nailing machines. Every conceivable precaution will

HOG DEPARTMENT

HOGS.

It is a waste of feed to give all of the hogs on the farm the same kind of feed.

To secure choice pigs the selection of the male is of the most importance.

It is a mistake to breed a young sow too soon: she should be at least eight months old.

The hog having a variety of food will thrive more and maintain a more healthy appearance.

Desirable breeding qualities are fixed in a herd by a long line of breeding and careful selection.

The brood sow should have a good head, broad between the eyes, ears light and well covered up.

While a hog may show his thirst by drinking slop, it is not a good plan to compel him to do so.

Hogs fed too long on corn show it by a contracted appearance, even the skin having a fiery look.

Spirits of turpentine can be used with good results to cure thumps and cough in pigs; a teaspoonful a day is sufficient.

Swine breeders and farmers are reducing the vigor of their pigs by breeding so much from young, immature boars and sows. The practice of raising a litter of pigs from a young sow and then fatten her for the market has reduced the vitality of our hogs and made them the victims of hog cholera, and other ailments. More care should be given to get a good boar, when he proves to be a good breeder keep him as long as you can. Select the best sows for breeding and keep them as long as they breed large litters of strong vigorous pigs.

Close breeding may easily be carried to excess, especially with hogs. At least this is the opinion of some of our most successful breeders. While in-and-in breeding has served the public well, it must be conservatively conducted to give the best results, which means that it must not be made the whole thing. The stamina must be preserved. Nature has evidently declared against this kind of breeding, and this fact makes it unnatural. Just what the laws are underlying it we do not know, but we have only to look over the tendency in the human family to understand that incestuous breeding is unnatural. This principal may not be as strong in the lower orders as in the highest one, but doubtless the law to some extent holds good in all life.

CAN PIGS BE FINISHED TOO YOUNG?

There is a medium in everything. This would appear to apply as well to the feeding of young pigs for bacon production as to most other matters. In some experiments which have been in progress in Canada during the past season it has been found that in order to obtain the finest quality of bacon, not only must certain foods be used, but the animals producing it must be allowed to reach a certain stage of maturity before they are slaughtered. If, through the use of specially suitable food rations, the animals are forced in growth at such a rate that they become fit for slaughtering at a particularly early age—say five or six months—it has been found that the quality of the bacon produced is somewhat soft in texture and in other ways defective in some of the points usually regarded as essential to a high class cure. No definite conclusions can yet be drawn from the experiments which are being carried out on this subject, but, so far, the results go to show that it may be found advisable to deprecate the production of baconers at an age of from six to seven months instead of the nine or ten months which has heretofore been the common practice. Here at home the aim of breeders always is to have their pigs in fit condition for the bacon curer at the age of between seven and eight months, and we have never heard any complaints on the score of "softness" because of marketing the pigs of such an age.—Agricultural Gazette, Ireland.

SHEEP AND GOATS

This is the Jefferson City, Mo., version of the old rhyme:

"Mary had a billy goat,
Its tail was sort o' bent,
And everywhere that Mary goes
The goat was sure to went.
It followed her to school one day,
It made her hot as fire,
For she had gone there on her wheel
And billy ate the tire.

Regular feeding makes even and well marbled mutton.

Keep the lambs growing; they will never recover from a set-back.

Regular feeding and steady growth make good wool as well as good lambs.

In a mixed lot of sheep the best suffer by being sold with the inferior.

The sick and unthrifty sheep should be kept separate from the rest of the flock.

The best wool and the best mutton are secured from sheep that have been kept growing steadily.

When sheep are kept in large numbers they require the attendance of one who is acquainted with their habits.

Foot rot and other maladies to which the feet of sheep are liable are promoted by wet pastures.

Keep the sheep off the timothy sod; they bite so closely as to destroy its bulbs, when it cannot sprout again.

It is hardly economy to wash the sheep and then handle the sheep wool so carelessly that it becomes foul again.

Sheep restore to the soil a larger proportion of the elements they take from it in grazing than any other class of stock.

A fattening animal of any sort should never have more food of any kind placed before it than it will readily eat up clean.

One of the best ways of ridding the pastures of briars and sprouts is to turn in the sheep and allow them to pasture them down.

An owner of a nice little flock of seven thousand sheep whom we know finds it to be a most profitable thing to dip the sheep twice or even three times a year; says the Field and Farm. He claims that the increase of wool alone has paid the whole expense, for a healthy fleece can grow only on a clean skin.

FEET OF THE FLOCK.

The sheep's feet should receive careful attention during the dry hot season, for the grinding down of the sole and the grit between the claws will soon cause inflammation of the interior of the feet, and one result of the pain thus caused is a general low condition which encourages disorders of other kinds, and so sheep are lost which might have been saved by a little attention in due season, says American Sheep Breeder. To keep the hoofs soft and elastic some simple foot ointment should be used frequently and attention especially given to parting the surplus horn to avoid the turning under of it under the sole so as to gather sand, which will grind down the horn.

Mexico is a queer country, but things may be learned wherever one may go. Sheep are kept in flocks of about 2,000 and with every flock there are ten or a dozen billy goats for leaders. The sheep never stampede when billy is in front and he is not made that way, for he is brave and pugnacious and up in arms and eager for the fray. When billy stops and looks around him the sheep just stand and wait for him without searing at anything. Moreover, a goat understands what is said to him as well as a dog and does as he is told with equal obedience. Hence they lead the flocks and, along with the Mexican dogs to help, the sheep are safe and well managed. It is the habit of the goat to keep on the move and thus the sheep not only get a belly full but they do not bite the range so closely as they might otherwise do. The Mexican dog has as much sense as a collie, though it is as mean naturally as a cayote to which it is thought to be not so far distantly related.

HORSES AND MULES

Flying Jib 2:04 recently pulled a wagon over the road from San Francisco to San Jose, California, a distance of fifty miles, in four and one-half hours and finished fresh.

It costs no more to feed a well-bred animal than it does to feed a scrawny creature without any pedigree whatever, except one that nobody cares to have recorded. Take the horse of the plug variety, for instance. His growth is slow, his sale is slow and the price he brings is too small to encourage anyone in raising and caring for him. A good animal is as easily cared for in every way as a poor one, and see the difference in the price he brings.—The Homestead.

After the day's work every night the shoulders of the work teams should be thoroughly washed and dried. It may be that you are tired and that the chores will keep you busy until late but it will pay to leave the fields half an hour earlier and groom your team. Wash the inside of the collars and pound the padding into shape. You don't want any sore shouldered horses, remarks the Farm Journal.

The farmers of Maia and others of the New England States have revived the horse breeding to a degree greater than existed during a period of nearly ten years. The reincarnation of the horse market. The scarcity of good horses particularly in the east and the vain endeavors of eastern farmers to supply their wants from the altogether too limited horse population of the west has put the sturdy ruralists of northeastern states on their mettle and the proportion of mares bred to good stallions within the last year has been beyond all sanguine expectations.

A successful horseman prevents cribbing by keeping a bucket of water in the stall and feeds in low boxes. He asserts that the horse becomes thirsty and contracts the habit, which water handy prevents. Georgia pine mangers prevent a cribber from biting; the rosin taste is non relished. There is a wood preservative that also prevents cribbers from biting the mangers, and is harmless to the horses, besides preserving the wood from decay.

In the counties around San Antonio, Texas, there is considerable interest now being manifested in the breeding of mules and in some sections this industry is already assuming large proportions. Among those in Schleicher county who are extensively engaged in the business is Lee Williams, who has at present 175 mares which he is breeding to imported Spanish jacks. Mr Williams says the tendency of the times is for stock of superior quality, which applies to mules as well as to any other branch of live stock, and the one who is indifferent to it will sooner or later find out that he has wasted precious time.

A member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, says it is an easy matter to tell a horse's character by the shape of his nose. If there is a gentle curve to the profile, and at the same time the ears are pointed and sensitive, it is safe to describe the animal as gentle and at the same time high spirited. If, on the other hand, the horse has a dunt in the middle of his nose, it is equally as safe to set him down as treacherous and vicious. The Roman-nosed horse is sure to be a good animal for hard work and safe to drive but he is apt to be slow. A horse with a slight concavity in the profile will be wary and need coaxing. A horse that droops his ears is apt to be lazy as well as vicious.

The following remedy is a sure and speedy cure for blind staggers. It has been tried in thirty different cases this year on Waggoner's ranch in Wilbarger county, and Mr. T. M. Holt, the manager, says that not one case in ten was lost: One pint of whisky, two teaspoonfuls of turpentine, one-fourth ounce of quinine; mix well and drench the horse. The above quantity is enough for two drenches but is seldom necessary. After drenching, rub the horse between the eyes with turpentine, but be careful not to get it into the eyes.—Amarillo Live Stock Champion.

"Piggies' Troubles" is a new book containing much valuable information for swine breeders. It contains a whole lot of new matter written by the most prominent authorities on the American continent. It tells what to do and how to do it. It is chock full of suggestions that cannot but help to better the swine breeder's condition and we are authorized by the publishers, the Zenner Disinfectant Co., Manufacturers of Zenoleum, to say that anyone addressing that company at 113 Bates St., Detroit, Mich., and mentioning this paper, will receive free of charge a copy of this work. Medals for Students' Live Stock Reports.

The Zenner Disinfectant Co., Detroit, Mich., announces its offer of silver and gold medals at each State fair and at the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago, Ill., November 30th to December 6th, for the best report of the stock exhibit written by students or recent graduates of agricultural colleges. These medals will be struck from the same die and will be of pleasing design; the silver medals will be offered at the State fairs and the gold medal at the great Chicago show. Notice of the offer of these trophies has been communicated to the agricultural colleges by Prof. C. F. Curtis, Director of Iowa Agricultural College, in the following letter:

"I am authorized by the Zenner Disinfectant Co., Detroit, Mich., to announce that that company will offer a silver medal at each State fair and a gold medal at the International Exposition at Chicago in December for the accurate man. Knowledge is power only when it can be put to use. Training in the work of putting clearly on paper the impressions gathered at a show and the strong and weak points of the prize winners will stand the student well in hand in all his future work whether in college or on the farm. The Zenner Disinfectant Company is to be congratulated on the happy thought which leads it to institute such important competitions and provide rewards of merit for the winners.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING THE ZENOLEUM MEDAL CONTEST.

1. There must be at least five entries in each state to complete a class and make its college eligible to such competition.
2. The competition will be open to all bonafide students of the state agricultural colleges and to those who have graduated within two years from date of contest.
3. The contest shall be based upon a report of not less than 1,500 and not of the Animal Husbandry Department in each state.

5. The awards shall be made by a committee of three, one of whom shall be an agricultural newspaper man and one an agricultural college man, the selections to be made by the Director of the Experiment Station, or Dean, and the head of the Animal Husbandry Department.

6. The reports must be all in the hands of the awarding committee not later than one week from the close of the Fair, and the name of the successful contestant in each state and a copy of his report shall be forwarded to the Zenner Disinfectant Company, of Detroit, Michigan, within three weeks of the close of the Fair.

Have you a dust bath for your hens? Corn is very heating and should not be fed now.

The gosling will enjoy a bathing place while the weather is hot.

Do a good job of whitewashing the inside of your poultry house soon.

Save all the sunflowers you can. The seeds are fine for molting hens.

We are too apt to pet and baby purebred stock. They are often overfed and made aseless.

Cleanliness is next to godliness even when it comes to your poultry house. Clean up at once.

Overfeeding at this season is liable to cause bowel trouble, or what is sometimes called cholera.

All the old wells, pits and holes should be kept covered very tight or the young ducks will fall in.

Young chicks do not eat much at a time, but they eat often. Do not omit a meal. Feed at regular hours.

Try tincture of iron in the drinking water for leg weakness. One teaspoonful to every quart of water.

Try some of the advertised lice killers. They are good, and save you lots of time. Time counts in many yards.

Plaster, muck, fine dirt and sifted coal ashes may be used as absorbent materials to throw on the poultry house floors.

Better sow a patch of millet now and grow some seed for the scratching pen. If planted at once it will have time to ripen.

At this time the fowls need plenty of shade and cool water. Feed very little grain. Green bone and meat will do well now.—Inland Poultry Journal.

A careful selection of good layers year after year will undoubtedly develop an exceptionally heavy laying breed, and if followed up we may confidently expect to see the 200-egg hen a reality. Food and care have much to do with the production of eggs, but no amount of kindness will induce poor layers to produce eggs. Develop the laying strain, and then the work and food will not be wasted on them.—Poultry Herald.

A poultry raiser, discussing the feeding of chickens, gives the following opinion of what their food should be:

"No hard and fast rule can be laid down, but, roundly speaking I would say when the food is one-fourth green stuff, one-fourth animal food, the proper balance is not far away. The animal food will include ground bone meal, meat cooked and ground fine and dried, scraps from butchers and prepared blood meal. Any of these articles is what the agriculturalist needs for his stock. And the flock is remarkably healthy that is thus fed."—Poultry Herald.

POULTRY ON THE FARM.

Professor Gilbert, of Ottawa, Canada in answer to the question, "Why is Poultry Valuable to the Farmer?" gives the following reasons:

1. Because he ought, by their means, to convert a great deal of the waste of his farm into money in the shape of eggs and chickens for market.

2. Because with intelligent management, they ought to be all-year revenue producers, with the exception of perhaps two months during the molting season.

3. Because poultry will yield him a quicker return for the capital invested than any of the other departments of agriculture.

4. Because the manure from the poultry house will make a valuable compost for use in either vegetable garden or orchard. The birds themselves if allowed to run in plum or apple orchard, will destroy all injurious insect life.

5. Because, while cereals and fruits can only be successfully grown in certain sections, poultry can be raised for table use or layers of eggs in all parts of the country.

6. Because poultry raising is an employment in which the farmer's wife and daughters can engage, and leave him free to attend to other departments.

7. Because it will bring him the best results in the shape of new-laid eggs during the winter season, when the farmer has most time on his hands.

8. Because, to start poultry raising on the farm requires little or no capital. By good management poultry can be made with little cost a valuable adjunct to the farm.

HOW TO START RIGHT.

The young man or woman starting to breed fowls should get the best stock they are able to buy, and then go for advice to the most practical breeder they know of. There is lots of real, genuine rot about poultry culture floating in the papers, some, too, which gives beginners wrong impressions, and starts them wrong. There is no old breeder, who will not help a beginner with private advice, if asked. The writer has answered hundreds of such letters, and we have always felt it a duty to assist beginners in all ways possible. If beginners start right, they will save time, money and worry.—Practical Poultryman.

THE EGG PRODUCING HABIT.

The pullet that begins to lay at the earliest age and continues to lay the longest is the ideal mother for a strain of layers. It does not matter so much what the breed may be, so the proper feed and care is given. A hit-and-miss plan of selecting breeders will never improve a breed. The man who would develop a strain of layers must know the individual members of his breeding pens so well that he knows for himself which ones are oftenest on the nest. This he will soon learn if his powers of observation are at all good. It is because this is true that we must have poultry fanciers—men who will give their whole attention to their stock. The average market poultryman has other things to do and other work that must be attended to. He must look to the fancier for breeders which will produce a large number of eggs for his foundation stock. But there is something beyond this. A laying strain must be started ahead of the eggs from which its members are hatched. The hens must be in the best possible condition before the eggs are laid. The eggs they produce will hatch out strong, vigorous chicks, and these should be forced to the limit in order to make them lay early. Here is the beginning of profitable poultry. Feed and care may force production to the utmost limit. Vigorous constitution means a capacity to produce a large number of eggs. Good feed and care induce continued vigor. The artificial stimulus grows into a characteristic that becomes fixed and descends to the progeny generation after generation, and in the end a laying strain is established, and the value of such a strain is undisputed. Any one who breeds poultry may do something toward increasing the general average by attending to the details of care and feeding. Upon productiveness depends the profit that may be made from commercial poultry, to a large extent. These are not idle theories; they are facts that have been established by years of experience and observation. The study of them is a material factor in making improvements in our flocks.—Commercial Poultry.

Just inside of one of the drug stores of Wayne' Neb., there is a blackboard which is used very effectively for advertising purposes, the advertisements thereon being got up in a very catchy manner. For instance, the following was written on it the other day to catch the eye of young lady customers: "Have you a sweet heart? If so, buy him a bottle of Florida water." A young man who dropped in for a glass of soda saw it. Next day he was passing by with his girl and as they were going in to get some soda he told her to read the sign. He spoke before he looked, for to his dismay the inscription on the blackboard was: "Have you a baby? If so, use sterilized milk."—Dairy item in Taloga Times.

"Talk about South Omaha being a bargain counter for sheep buyers, it isn't in it with the cattle market," said a well known Nebraska shipper on the market yesterday. "Recently I thought I would patronize Nebraska's infant industry by shipping a load of stock there. The first day I was telephoned that the best bid on the cows was $1.25, and as it would take $1.75 to let me out with a whole skin, I told my commission firm not to sell. The next day I was 'phoned that they could not better the bid, and I told them to buy a few more and load them up and ship to South St. Joseph. They bought a few head at $1.25, which they said were better than any I had in my load, and shipped the lot to South St. Joseph, where they sold upon arrival at $2.15. If I had sold in Omaha I would have lost over $100, but by re-shipping to South St. Joseph I turned the loss to a good profit."—St. Joseph Stock Yards Daily Journal.

RANGE NOTES.

The loco weed which the Oklahoma experiment station is after is a queer thing, says the Wichita Eagle. When two steers eat one, one steer says:—"Have one with me," and so on until a 10,000 acre pasture gets so narrow that they fall out of it.

The fact that there has been a great deal of fatality among cattle from eating Johnson grass, has led to a pretty thorough investigation. One of the latest theories is that it is due to grasshoppers eating and depositing on the grass. Various theories are advanced, and the party with the correct solution will have the thanks of a large number of cattlemen.

Arizona reporters state that ranges have been greatly improved by recent rains. Feed and water is now abundant and stock is in good condition.

CAPLE, O. T., August 7, 1901.

Publisher LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR:—The rains, on and since July 28th, have helped forage crops and grass considerably, however, there are some very dry places not yet reached by the rains. At Liberal, Kans., it is as dry as I ever saw it anywhere. Cattle are in fair condition on the average range. Where they have plenty of grass and water they are in fine shape. No trading here to speak of. Chas. Summers, the merchant of Liberal, Kans., and Greymore, O. T., recently sold his ranch and stock in northwestern Ochiltree Co., Tex., to a Mr. Wood from Springfield, Mo., price about $10,000, which is close to last years prices.

Disputed History.

In a recent issue of the Wichita Eagle appeared an article, headed "Dispute over Border History," in which the old timers are all taking a hand. It is in regard to the bank robbery at Medicine Lodge, Kansas, over seventeen years ago. Andy Richards, of Wellington, and Jim Gano, of Medicine Lodge, are the chief disputants. Each one has corroborative evidence that his version of the great robbery is correct, from such old timers as John Fisher, arney O' Connor, Harvey Horner, Judge McCandless and Jerry Simpson. In giving his opinion, Harvey Horner said he always understood that Tom Doran, of this place, was the chosen leader of the posse. A reporter for the INSPECTOR immediately hunted up Mr. Doran, and obtained the following statement, which undoubtedly gives the exact facts, and the INSPECTOR hopes it will settle the question to the entire satisfaction of all the disputants. Mr. Doran said:—

"In regard to Mr. Richard's statement that the posse that chased the robbers into the canyon had threatened to burn them out with coal oil, is wrong. The robbers were not threatened with anything of the kind, but after we had them surrounded, one of our posse went to town and explained the situation to the mayor of the town and he suggested the coal oil scheme, but before they could get started with the oil the robbers had given themselves up. Henry Brown, the leader, was the first one to come out, leaving the other three back in the canyon to wait and see what he might find out. As soon as he got close to us he recognized Barney O'Connor and myself, and taking us to one side, asked what damage they had done. We told him they had done very little damage and we advised him to have the other fellows come out and give up, as they had friends enough in Caldwell to get them out of the trouble. Had O'Connor and I told Brown the straight of it, the thing would have been different. More than likely we would all have been killed, as none of the robbers knew that they had killed a man until we had started to town with them. Brown rode in along side of me and on the road asked me what they had done, and I told him they had killed two good men. He immediately went wild and was willing to make a big fight. If Jim Gano will refresh his memory a little, he will remember that the coal oil was talked of, although there was very little coal oil used in Medicine Lodge at that time as Carrie Nation did not live there. It is different now.

I will agree with Mr. Gano that there was no particular leader, although Barney O'Connor was the first to leave town in pursuit of the robbers, the rest of the posse following close up and we were all close together when the first battle came off and stayed together all the way through, except one man and he was so unfortunate as to lose the cylinder out of his pistol and had to quit the chase. In regard to Harvey Horner thinking I was chosen leader, that is a mistake, as we had no time to choose a leader. Now as to Judge McCandless and Jerry Simpson thinking Lee Bradley was leader of the posse, is a mistake also. That impression might have been gotten on account of Lee talking so much, but if my memory serves me right, the only time Lee was in the lead was in going from the post office over to the restaurant to give the robbers their dinner. Now, Jerry and McCandless are old friends of ours and I don't see how they figure that Lee was our leader, although Judge McCandless may be a little sore at me, as some years ago when he was running a little hotel in the Lodge, I went in late at night and found him asleep. Taking him for a corpse, I sat up with him, and I guess he doesn't appreciate the joke."

FITZGERALD COLONY MAY MATERIALIZE.

Rumor That It Has Secured Camp Supply Lands.

Guthrie, O. T., Aug. 10.—The Fitzgerald colony scheme is about to materialize at last. The announcement has been made that P. H. Fitzgerald of Indianapolis, Ind., has purchased the old Camp Supply military reservation, comprising 36,000 acres of choice land, for colony purposes. Fitzgerald is the man who started a colony in Georgia, which flourished for awhile and caused much comment over the United States. Since the establishing of that colony, Fitzgerald has been anxious to establish a colony in Oklahoma.

The land is a fine rolling prairie, and is as fine as can be found in Western Oklahoma. The plan of establishing a colony in Oklahoma was much agitated last spring. All over Kansas it was rumored that people were gathering for the purpose of taking land in the colony. Men were sent into Oklahoma to look over the country and see if they could secure a large tract of land at that time and

From Our Traveling Representative.

WELLINGTON KANS.

This is the county seat of Sumner county, Kans., and this county is claimed to be the banner wheat county of the state. This beautiful city is situated on a rolling plateau. This place is noted as a railroad and stock town. The town is very beautifully laid out, giving plenty of room. Some fine buildings with good accommodations. Parties coming to Wellington will do well to stop at the Ward Hotel, three blocks from the Union depot, corner 4th St., and Washington Ave., S. L. Ward.

BELLE PLAIN.

The plain of luxury and beauty. This is one of the finest tracts of land in Kansas, at one time the home of the editor of the LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR. We met with many friends, and, in short his friends are numbered by his acquaintance. All through this part of the live stock country, the stock are doing well. Owners are talking of feeding wheat this fall and winter. The soft wheat is generally unity and is the center of a great wheat belt. Medford is a wide awake little city and has just been reaping a harvest from the El Reno excursionists. The Chwartz Hotel is the most centrally located, very near the Rock-Island depot and conveniently near the Santa Fe. The management are clever people, making one feel at home to stop with them. Their rates are reasonable, however. Their fare is substantial.

MULHALL CITY.

This thriving little city is situated on a tributary to the Cimmerron river and is noted for some nice cattle and fast horses. Mr. Zack Mulhall, for whom this little city was named, in an interview says he thinks the cattle in the short grass region will not do so well after the heavy rains, as the rains will have a tendency to wash the substance out of the grass that has been killed by the hot sun, when if left dry is fattening. We see more shipments of hogs than any other stock. With the present prospects for corn, together with present price, 80c per bushel, the likelihood is, hogs will go beyond even this spring's market. The heavy rains they have had around Perry, Orland, and Mulhall, will greatly assist in the preparation of land for early fall wheat and rye to figure so greatly for winter supply of feed.

People from all parts of the United States through the streets of the towns along the main lines of the Santa Fe in Oklahoma and southern Kansas. El Reno has been the center of attraction while now this great collection of people will be left to drift to other parts of the country for homes. Grant, Clay and Noble counties have stood the dry weather fairly well. The cattle have suffered for an abundance of water, but no great shipments have had to be made. Mr. C. C. Cowels, of Bramen, O. T., has just shipped some fine registered Short-horns from Nebraska to his farm.

GUTHRIE.

The capital of our Territory is a hustling city. The dry weather was changed the first of the month by good rains, thereby relieving the stockmen and farmers of Logan county. Farmers along this line of the Santa Fe are beginning to make arrangements to feed wheat as principle grain feed.

ARKANSAS CITY.

When we trace history back to the 70s or 80s of the last century we find that this part of Kansas' inhabitants were the savage (?) Indians with an occasional frontiersman now and then, seeking fame or fortune or possibly both in those early pioneer days.

To-day the roaring in the distance, caused by thousands upon thousands of buffalos that ranged the fertile valley of the Arkansas river is no longer heard. But in their place flowed the tide of civilization and to-day stands this beautiful little city, surrounded by country that is productive and inhabited by men who are progressive.

MISS EDITH ANTHEM BROWN.

The LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR includes in its series of prominent stock growers and those interested in the live stock trade, the wives and sisters also, and in this issue presents the charming profile of a sister to Charles Brown, assistant manager of the Evans-Snyder-Buel Texas house at Fort Worth. Miss Brown also resides in Fort Worth and holds the responsible position of State Superintendent of Medal Contests for the state of Texas, in the W. C. T. U. work. Years ago when the Publisher was a teacher in Mulvane, Kansas, Miss Brown was a pupil and he is pleased to present her now to the army of LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR readers, in this manner, through her connection with the live stock interests in which her brother is engaged.

from all indications the scheme was dropped for the time being.

The plan of the colony is to have a colony store, a colony town and a newspaper in the interests of the people of the colony. A nominal fee is charged to get into the colony and this money goes to the running of the scheme. Oklahoma people have the impression that such a colony would not be a success. What the result of it will be remains to be seen, but with the opening of the new country and other chances to secure good homes, it is a serious question among Oklahoma people whether enough people can be secured to make up the colony.

Camp Supply was abandoned several years ago and the land sold. Under government control the camp was kept in splendid condition, and was one of the most beautiful places in Oklahoma. In early days, there were many encounters on that reservation between Indians, and adage has it that years ago it was the favorite camping ground of the Indian.

HARPER.

This beautiful little city is situated on the Panhandle division of the A. T. & S. Fe. It is surrounded by an excellent agricultural district. Wheat is fine. Stock is doing very well. Sam Neff sold one three-year-old registered Short-horn cow and bull calf to Mr. Bonifield, of Whitehead, Okla. Mr. Neff is a stock and real estate dealer. The LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR has several friends at this place. This is quite a center for stockmen and those visiting the place can make no mistake when they go to the 3rd Ave. Hotel, for first class accommodations and reasonable price. Receipts.

Following were the receipts for Wednesday, August 21st:-

Cattle	11,000
Calves	1,552
Hogs	7,315
Sheep	965
Horses	510

Following is a table showing the total receipts for the year up to August 20th:-

Cattle	1,137,417
Calves	50,921
Hogs	2,507,557
Sheep	614,252
Horses and mules	65,572
Cars	83,605

All show an increase over receipts for the same time in 1900.

CATTLE-NATIVE DIVISION.

BEEF STEERS:-Supply was not heavy but too large for a very satisfactory market. This was due to the fact that the supply was largely common to medium quality. Trade was slow and prices ranged from 10 to 25c lower. The percentage of finished cattle was small, and sold at strong prices. Prices ranged from $4 25 to 5.70.

COWS AND MIXED:-Good heavy cows, also corn fed heifers were scarce and prices were steady. Western and native grassers steady to 10c lower. The bulk of the cows sold for $2.25 to 3.60; stock cows and heifers $2.25 to 3.35; bulls $2.50 to 3.10; heifers $2.75 to 4.40; calves $2.50 to 4.25.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS:-Receipts were liberal. Shipments to the country amounted to 69 cars. Good yearlings sold readily. General market on 2's and 3's was slow and steady to 10c lower. Demand from country light. Bulk of sales from $2 50 to 3.90.

RANGE CATTLE:-Beeves dull and lower. She stuff steady early in the day, but declined 5 to 10c. Western steers sold from $3.40 to 4.80; western cows $2.35 to 2.60, southwest steers $3 35.

CATTLE-TEXAS DIVISION.

Receipt light, 771 head cattle and 560 calves. Cows sold steady, and although the movement on steers was slow, prices remained steady and unchanged. Texas and Indian steers sold at $2.60 to 3 75; cows $2.40 to 2.50, calves $3.00 to 4.25.

HOGS.

Hog receipts were light. The good finished hogs were moderate, with quite a number of dry weather hogs from certain sections.

Trade opened slow. Some of the early bids were 5 to 10c lower, but few if any hogs sold over 5c lower. Some hogs sold steady and more sold weak to 2 1/2c lower than any other way. After buyers all got to work prices firmed up and closed about steady.

Heavy hogs sold from $6.00 to 6.15 and looked from steady to 5c lower. Butcher weights sold up to $6.12 1/2. Mixed packing sold largely at $5.90 to 6.05. There were some sales reported 5c lower and a few sales quoted strong. Light mixed held up well where quality was good. Pigs sold weak to 5c lower. Boars are selling dull at $3.00 to 3 50.

Top was $6.15 against 6.20 yesterday. Bulk was $5.85 to 6.10 against $5 85 to 6.10 yesterday.

PIGS AND LIGHTS:-Light butcher weight hogs were nearly steady. Highest price was $6.00, but bulk went from $5.85 to 5.95. Pigs sold from $3.50 to 5.60.

SHEEP.

Owing to the light supply, buyers bid actively upon all offerings. Sheep sold generally steady, but lambs showed some strength, especially the medium grades. Stock sheep show an advance over last week of 15c. Prices ranged from $3.00 to 5.00.

SOME SHIPMENTS TO EVANS-SNIDER-BUEL COM. CO.

Also, you are indebted to these men for helping to support a paper, which from its location and personal interests in your country, is more in touch with your country and you than is possible for any other to be. Stand by the people who stand by you and consign your shipments to those who by their support enable your editor to publish a paper devoted solely to your interests.

Angoras in Arizona.

PHOENIX, ARIZONA, August 16.-At the rapid rate the Angora goat is securing a foothold in the west and southwest the time is not far distant when the goat industry will take precedence over the time honored business of cattle and sheep culture. Since 1849, when the first Angora goat was brought to this country by Dr. James B. Davis, of South Carolina, as a present from the Sultan of Turkey, the goat has slowly but surely gained a standing among the industries of the west, until there are many times over a million goats in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, California, Idaho, Utah and Oregon.

Stockmen are awakening to the great possibilities in the Angora, and at a most opportune time, when the raising of sheep and cattle is at a point when profits are on the decline. Almost every locality of the west is possessed of the peculiar requisites to the attainment of the best results in the raising of Angora goats.

Our company headed by James F. Perrin, formerly one of the largest sheep owners in the west, has secured the Cook range of 150,000 acres in the Mogollon mountains, New Mexico, and will put in 50,000 goats the coming winter. As rapidly as they secure the pure Angora stock they will add to their herds, and intend to incidentally increase their land holdings until they have 200,000 or more acres and a herd of 100,000-by far the largest goat ranch in the world.

Perrin has made extensive experiments with goats in the past five years and is confident of better results than he has ever gathered from the sheep business. The hair or wool is worth twice as much per pound as sheep wool, and the flesh is unsurpassed for sweetness, cleanliness and healthfulness, while the goats can browse and secure food in the rocky hills where sheep will not venture, and are more hardy than sheep or cattle, being better able to withstand the extremities of heat and cold.

A Remarkable Fact.

The first census of live stock taken by our government shows the remarkable fact that the most hogs are in Chicago and that the most asses are in New York, says the National Provisioner. This, of course, refers to the four-legged variety, though the populace of each place have persistently insisted, before the census was taken, that it simply refers to population. The Union Stock Yards are a great hog ranch daily. The number of cattle in the country will soon be known, as this census will show. We will also see the value of the annual live stock census itself.

The Greenleaf's have a great way of breaking wild broncos to the halter, says the Geensburg Signal. After they have succeeded in roping one of the creatures a new halter is put on the animal and a two foot halter rope attached in the end of which is a snap then a heavy set burro is brought into the game with a rope about his neck to which the short halter rope is attached and the pair turned loose to do as they please. The bronco proceeds to do a great deal of plunging and jumping and the burro to stand pat. After about an hour of this kind of play the bronco gives it up as a bad job and can be lead any place you want it to go.

A cure for tick fever, it is said, has been discovered by a Mr. Carmichael, of Gladstone, Queensland, who gives an ounce of nitre to affected animals, and in every case they recover within twenty minutes, although they are for a time rather weak. The remedy has proved effective, he says, ever when the animals were apparently dying. If this is correct it is a most important discovery.-South Australia Journal of Agriculture.

Meeting of Live Stock Sanitary Board:

An adjourned meeting of the Oklahoma Live Stock Sanitary Commission was held at Dill, in Kiowa county, on August 15th. Reports of Inspectors were approved and formal notice of quarantine of the stock shipping pens at Granite was given.

Appointments of meat inspectors were considered and the secretary was authorized to make nominations to the Governor at every point in Oklahoma not already supplied.

It was decided to hold a meeting at Mangum some date in the near future, at which time the cattlemen of Greer and surrounding counties will be invited to meet with the Board.

After full consideration it was decided best not to place special quarantine on Indian pasture No. 2 at this time.

Notice was given by printed slips of the action taken by the Board Aug. 6th in placing a strip one mile wide around the west end north boundary of the Kiowa and Comanche country, extending from Red River and following the Federal quarantine line to the east line of Canadian county.

On motion the headquarters of Lee Watkins, Inspector for Dist. No. 2, was changed from Mountain View to Dill, Okla., on account of lessening expense for telegrams and the further reason that Dill is nearer the infected country around Granite and south of there along the line.

The illustration on page 5 is of the mare Sallie Bronston, by Gambetta Wilkes, with a record of 2.12 1/4, and is the property of E. W. Backus, of Minneapolis, Minnesota. St. Louis Market.

Receipts of live stock at St. Louis on the 19th were as follows:—Cattle 3,580; hogs 3,970; sheep 1,247, horses and mules 532.

Receipts of live stock for the year 1901 up to and including the 19th were:—Cattle 486,115; hogs 1,240,991; sheep 346,216; horses and mules 88,850.

CATTLE.

BEEF STEERS:—Trade in the native division was hampered by a lack of supplies, beef steer offerings being confined to a couple of loads of fed Westerns and a single load of native steers of medium weight. There was an urgent inquiry and sales were made on a stronger basis, being variously quoted from steady to 10c higher, the stronger opinion prevailing. They sold at $4.25 to 5.40.

The assortment of butcher cattle was a miscellaneous one, and there was a scarcity of full loads of good killers. Prices generally steady. The canners sold a shade lower than last week.

The stocker and feeder trade was rather quiet, the supply being small and the local dealers in a waiting mood. The market was steady, steers selling from $2.50 to $3.30.

Receipts of southern cattle were 89 cars, containing 2092 cattle and 562 calves. Early business on steers was strong and a train or so went at little better prices than the close of last week; some few single loads found strong outlet early on eastern orders. A weakness set in later and the movement was slower. The bulk of sales were made at $3.25 to 3.90.

Not more than half of a good supply of hogs arrived and they did not average very well in quality. Good heavy hogs were very scarce while quite a good many pigs and lights were on sale. The trade opened with the best hogs selling actively at strong prices and in a few places five cents higher than Saturday. Trashy and common stocks of all kinds showed no improvement and was very slow of sale. The close was on a strong basis with the demand for the good hogs not half filled.

The top of the market was $6.17½ and the bulk of the hogs above 150 pounds average sold at $5.90 to 6.05 as against $6.17½ for top and $5.85 to 6.05 for the bulk on Saturday. Fair to good heavy hogs 240 pounds average and above sold at $5.75 to 6.17½. Medium weights 160 to 240 pounds average sold at $5.90 to 6.10 the bulk at $5.00 to 6.10, lights 150 to 190 pounds sold at $5.65 to 6.05, the bulk $5.80 to 5.90. Light lights 100 to 150 pounds average sold at $4.00 to 5.60, the bulk at $5.25 to 5.50, pigs under 100 pounds sold $3.50 to 5.00, heavy culls at $4.50 to 5.25, good mixed hogs at $5.65 to 5.95 and common to fair mixed lots at $5.00 to 5.50.

SHEEP.

A moderate supply of sheep was on sale and they averaged fairly good in quality, there being two loads of choice lambs among the arrivals. The market opened with a good demand and trading was active so long as the supply lasted. Good to best sheep and lambs sold strong to a shade higher, but common stock was only steady. The stocker trade was very quiet with only a few on sale and demand limited.

Sales included fair to good lambs at $3.50 to 5.00, the bulk at $4.50 to 4.90, cull lambs at $2.25 to 3.00, mutton sheep at $2.50 to 3.25, stock ewes at $2.50 and buck at $2.50.

Aug. 16, 1901.
The LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Sir,

Under only fair receipts for this time of year the Territory cattle have seen a slow gradual decline beginning Monday and winding up today 15 to 20c lower than the close of last week. This applies to the common grades of steers. Better grades will not show quite this decline. Good quality, heavy fat steers weighing around 1050 or better, are a shade lower than a week ago. Cows and bulls a dime to 15c lower. Calves about 50 cents per head lower than close of last week.

Hogs steady with the last week's close.

Yours very truly,
BARGE LIVE STOCK COM. CO.

There is no one thing that so conduces to the comfort, welfare and happiness of a people as an adequate supply of good pure water. There is no extreme to which people will not go to secure good water. On the other hand, taking the country as a whole, exclusive of the cities and the larger towns, no subject receives so little real sound thought and consideration as the water supply. Of course every man in building or buying a home looks out for a water supply but in a majority of cases they are satisfied with just enough and do not assure themselves of a supply that will last through such trying times of dry weather as the country has recently been suffering from. The really safe plan is to make sure that you will have a supply of water for both home and live stock use that will not fail under the most adverse conditions of drouth. Experience demonstrates that the only way to secure a never failing water supply is to bore into the earth a sufficient depth to tap a stream of water of such strength and flow that there will be no doubt about its holding out. For the purpose of boring or drilling such a well we know of no better machine than that regularly advertised in our columns by the Star Drilling Machine Co., of Akron, Ohio. We present a cut of the machine with this article. If you are interested or can interest a neighbor with you in the purchase of such an outfit it will be well to correspond with these people. Ask them for their latest catalogue, prices, etc. Kindly state that you saw this in our paper.

St. Joseph Market.

South St. Joseph Mo., Aug 15. While receipts of cattle have been fairly liberal for the four expired days of the week, yet show a decrease as compared with the same period of both a week and a year ago. The fat cattle trade has been characterized by the good demand for beeves that had weight and flesh, and prices display no quotable change for the week on this class of offerings, while on the other hand buyers have discriminated quite sharply against those of medium and quality and flesh and the kinds that competed with quarantine steers, and the decline for this class of cattle foots up to 25c to 35c since last Friday. Cows and heifers ruled in moderate proportions and the demand the best in several weeks, which resulted prices advancing mostly 10 to 15c, with cases of best grades showing more of a gain in price. Bulls and stags are 10c higher, and veals show a gain of 25c. The country demand was of heavy proportion for stock cattle while the receipts were not heavy, and prices advanced 15 to 25c, with good young cattle selling to the best advantage. Arrivals in the quarantine division were moderate and offerings were mostly steers that ranged from light steers of common quality at $3.00 and good, weight grades at $3.65, which sales are quoted steady for the week.

Marketing of hogs continue fairly liberal at this point and the demand is just as large proportions as any time this year, which resulted in sharp competition for supplies and prices being maintained at a higher range than any other western market and comparatively higher than at eastern places. While the tops have been just silky and the tail ends every bit as mean as last week, the general quality did not average as well in that more of the packing grades arrived than for some time, although weights averaged as strong. Pigs are also meeting with an excellent demand and best kinds sold to $5.15 all week. Prices today ranged from $5.65 to $6.15, with the bulk of sales at $5.85 to 6.05.

Under reduced supplies of both sheep and lambs and an excellent demand from all the killers the market for the first half of the week showed a gain of 25c in prices for lambs, and mutton sold 15 to 25 cents to the better, but owing to the slump in prices in the east on Thursday the local market weakened in sympathy and the decline was lost, except on the best lambs, which are steady with advances of early in the week. Best Idaho lambs sold at $5.25, Idaho yearlings and wethers brought $3.65, fair finished and heavy pelted Wyoming wethers fetched $3.25, with Idaho ewes at $3.25. G. F.

WICHITA MARKET

The Wichita hog market the past two weeks has seen a steadily growing improvement, so far as tone and strength are concerned. Top hogs have struck the six cents mark again, and they were not tippy hogs either at any season. There was one load of wheat fed medium heavies which sold at the $6.00 point. $5.85 and up has been the average price. There are lots of scallawag hogs coming in and the quality has not been at any time anything desirable. Lights and runty thin stuff has been the rule, and while they are all healthy and sound, yet when dressed there is little of them. Buyers have been eager for hogs and have readily absorbed everything that came along, but would pay better prices for better hogs. The volume of receipts has been better although there are yet too few hogs coming in. Cudahy and Armour are both keen after porkers and the welcome announcement that Dold would rebuild cast a spurt of enthusiasm over the crowd and everyone about the yards feels jubilant. It is hoped that as the mid-summer dullness and usual lethargy pass off the receipts will be more liberal. What was at first expected to be a total crop failure as to corn is now expected to be much more hopeful. Many sections in the bottoms will show up a very fair yield and at least some of it will be saved. The country still has lots of young stock hogs coming on and with feed for them there ought not to be any great falling off in the supply. As to cattle there has been considerable activity in that division also. The drouth panic which at first sent all sorts and conditions of cattle rushing into market has largely worn off and rough feed is assured and farmers are holding their cattle. Prices went all to smash but many feeders are now picking up all the cheap cattle they can get.

Among the regular shippers who had stock in during the last fortnight were the following: E. P. Wilson, Ponca City; W. J. Norris, Oxford; Joe Knoblauch, Colwich; Scott & Huffbauer, Mulvane; Townsend & Lamon, Andale; O. B. Chicago Market.

Chicago received nearly 2,000 more cattle than the previous week and 8,900 more than a year ago, being the second largest week's total of the year.

The average cost price of the 146,900 hogs received at the Chicago Stock Yards this week was $5.87, against $5.84 two weeks ago, $5.20 the corresponding week a year ago and $4.70 two years ago. Average cost price today, $5.88, against $5.87 Friday and $5.85 a week ago.

Cattle received Saturday, the 17th, 200; hogs 14,000; sheep 2,000. Total for week, cattle 65,000; hogs 146,900; sheep 78,100.

This week's receipts, compared with the previous week, increased 1,700 cattle and 8,300 hogs and decreased 2,500 sheep. As compared with the corresponding week a year ago, there was an increase of 9,500 cattle, 26,900 hogs, and 16,800 sheep.

CATTLE.

While the market held up in pretty good shape for the extra prime natives, everything else showed weakness from the beginning of the week; and the decline amounted to 10 to 25c on the common to good kinds. The market was somewhat uneven, and while some found the market exceedingly dull at the decline noted, others could see only 10 to 15c decline from last week with business fairly active.

BEEF CATTLE:—The market has included a number of good fat cattle, which sold relatively low. The extreme range of prices was from $3.50 to $6.25, but the bulk of sales were from $4.50 to $5.60.

There was an increase in the receipts of western rangers, and the best sold at $5.65, with the bulk selling at $4.60 to $4.80.

About 3600 Texas cattle were received in the Quarantine division, many very good in quality. Tops sold at $5.25, with bulk at $4.55 to $4.75.

Butchers and cannors were not so strong in demand. The supply was large, and the price 15 to 25c lower than a week ago. Price ranged from $3.00 to $3.75.

Prices early in the week on stockers and on feeders were strong to a little higher, but later lost all the gain. During the week prime well-bred steers, carefully selected, sold at $3.80 to 4.25, but good, useful steers sold at $3.40 to 3.60, and a large number of medium light weight stock steers sold at $2.50 to 2.75, with inferior grades down to $2.25.

HOGS.

A very good week in the hog trade finished in strong tone today on a run of 14,000, making 146,000 for the week, an increase of 8,000 over number here for the previous week.

Fair to good mixed sold at $5.75 to 5.90, largely around $5.80 to 5.85, but with an all good quality running exclusively to butcher and heavy at $5.95, coarse and common mixed packing lots sold within a range of $5.50 to 5.70 with sales largely at $5.65 to 5.70. Butcher weights of 190 to 230 lbs sold at $5.95 to 6.05.

Heavy packing and shipping hogs sold from $6 to 6.15. Fair to good packing heavy sold at $5.75 to 5.90 and common to fair, including the big percentage of underfat brood sows, $5.50 to 5.70.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The week's receipts were liberal, running largely to native sheep and lambs. There was only a fair run of western rangers. Closing prices were about as follows: Good to choice native lambs $5.00 to 5.25; inferior to medium $2.00 to 4.00. Fat ewes $3.00; range sheep, $2.85 to 3.75; range lambs $3.75 to 5.15. Compared with Monday and Tuesday native sheep were 40 to 60c lower, choicest lambs 25c lower and medium lambs 75c lower. Range sheep were 40 to 50c lower than early in the week.

DREAM.

Last night I dreamed I saw my mother young,
I never knew her till her hair was gray.
Last night I saw the wrinkles smoothed away
And pearls about her satin shoulders strung.
Out from our homely tools of toil among
She came as if she knew them not.
There lay
Old hopes in her young eyes. Faintly today
Are sounding the dead madrigals she sung.
I, who had watched the stolen march of rays,
And would not see the days they stole away,
Moved breathlessly to meet her, mute with praise.
But, ah, the vibrant hand that in mine lay
Was not the one I love upon my hair;
Not hers the mother eyes, deep, deep with prayer.

—Zona Gale in the Bookman.

IN THE LAST DAYS.

As we grow old, how softly, slowly close
The doors of sense, and shut us from the world,
Like tender petals of some ling'ring rose
That, of a frosty night, have inward curled Dim as the figures in a dream now pass
Those glitt'ring shows that stirred our youthful hearts.
Poor, hurrying shadows in a misty glass,
Each but a moment seen ere it departs.
No sight, nor sound, nor taste, of earth's delights
Can longer please; these things are past and gone.
The soul will put her quiet house to rights,
And in the upper chamber watch the dawn.
—James Buckingham in New York Tribune.

Sorrow makes life richer, grander.
Lives full of sunshine become commonplace and the heights of happiness are only reached after you have felt the depths of sorrow.

There was once a child who was blessed with no other gift but that of loving. She longed to be able to do some good deed, out of her great love for others, but she could do nothing.

Her sister went out into the world and became a great singer, but the child staid home with her mother.
Day after day she ministered to her wants, her only regret being that she could do so little.

At last she lay on her death bed.
After all her longing, she had failed to accomplish anything. And then in the night she heard her mother praying.

"Oh God, take not my daughter from me. My only comfort in my old age, my only solace. The world has claimed my other, but leave Thou her to me."

And then a great joy filled her heart.
Her life had not been in vain, and the glory of God filled her soul until it burst the bonds of mortality and ascended heavenward. But as in life her spirit clung to her mother's and drew it with her.

And when the morning came and they found her dead body, and that of the mother kneeling at her side, they said,

"God is merciful."

It is said that Italian girls never flirt. There is love making, of course, but this is done with a view to marriage and flirting as a pastime has not yet penetrated the domain of Italy.

A young college girl had a very good plan for keeping her ribbons, stock or belts unwrinkled. She had a number of toy rolling pins and on removing a ribbon or stock would wind it about one of the rolling pins and fasten it with a pin. It removed the crush, and kept them fresh for a much longer period than would have been possible otherwise.

If people must have fads, why not follow some pretty fancy of your own instead of aping the multitude. One young lady had a great love for flowers and whenever possible wore a few in her hair. It came to seem a part of her and furnished one of the most pleasing details in my recollection of her.

J. Sterling Morton in the Conservative says no American parent has any right to rear a child without teaching it industry. The human being, who from infancy to maturity, is indulged in all things asked for, makes it selfish, inconsiderate, and a useless member of society. Human beings who do not work, get very little of real honey out of life. They are offensive and repellent. They are in old age remorseful and unhappy. The very room they occupy on the globe is be-grudged them.

A rich farmer, who recently died in Erie county, Pennsylvania, had the right idea of how to improve the lot of people who live on farms, namely,
by bringing to them some of the advantages town people enjoy. In his will he provided for the founding and maintenance of a library at a crossroads remote from any village. Beside the library, the building will contain a kitchen, reception rooms and a hall that may be used for lectures, entertainments and religious gatherings.

A DINNER PAIRTY.

A novel entertainment was described in a recent magazine. It is suitable for a tenth anniversary or other occasion. In the invitation the guests can be informed that the topic for conversation will be upon the labor question, and opinions of the guests upon trade unions will be desired.
Anecdotes relating to the subject will add to the interest. Refreshments will be served the workmen in tin dinner pails. Sandwiches may be wrapped in paraffine paper, and in other ways
the contents of the dinner pail may be presented attractively.

THE SENSIBLE GIRL.

The sensible girl is one whom everybody likes. You can tell her the moment you see her. She is neat, refined, kindly and well dressed if possible.
She attends to her toilette carefully and when that is completed, puts the thought of her looks entirely out of her mind. She does not attempt a ridiculous walk because some one says it is fashionable. She does not study the most artistic way to raise her eyelashes. She does not make goo-goo eyes. If she likes a man she can let him know it without resorting to silly methods. She does not affect babyish ways or stacy actions.

She is a girl who can become so interested in her friends that she forgets herself. She can cultivate a strong friendship for a man without thinking of a flirtation and when one of those friendships develop into love, she settles down into a married life of sweet, sensible happiness, unbroken by the silly actions that mar the life of her foolish sister.

THE CLUB WOMAN.

The man who objects to his wife joining a club should take some things into consideration. Of course if she over does it, he has a right to object, but if she does not, the woman who attends a club has a healthful diversion for her mind.

She is not the one that sits at home,
and mopes and broods over every disaster that has befallen the family for the past ten years. She is not the one who loses all pride in herself, so that her husband is ashamed of her. She does not become so absorbed in scrubbing, etc., that he is afraid to bring any of his friends home, knowing that his wife will not have one word to say pertaining to anything outside the four walls of her home.

The ideal club, however, to my mind is one which meets in the evening, when men can go with their wives; where they indulge in a short literary study, which is better digested for not being too extensive, and then finish with what everyone needs—kindly sociability.

ABOUT JEWELRY.

A recent fad is to wear a profusion of rings, some women covering the fingers of one hand and leaving the other bare. If possible, they will cover the fingers to the knuckles with rings of one stone, wearing only rubies, at one time, emeralds another, etc.

Good taste, however, will prefer a neatly kept hand with very few rings to an ostentatious display that seems almost vulgar.

The subject of jewelry recalls an article by a French savant, where he denounces the practice of civilized women wearing ear rings. Aside from the fact that it is a relic of barbarism, it is now a well known fact that any wound or abrasion of the skin may be productive of dire results from germs or microbes, and lacerations of the flesh—for the purpose of displaying jewelry is something that the woman of today should be ashamed of. So says the savant.

This brings to mind the fact that earrings are not so commonly worn as a few years ago. When we remember the enormous earrings our grandmothers wore, which drew down and permanently disfigured the lobes of the ears, we feel that mankind—or,
rather, womankind—is improving.

The improvements that are made, however, are done by those who follow the dictates of common sense and true refinement and reject some fads which, if the approval of the smart set was not stamped upon it, would be considered vulgarly ostentatious and barbaric.

THE SEQUEL TO A ROMANCE.

A wealthy society woman has just returned from a four years' exile on account of a scandal in which she was involved, and now society is wondering what to do with her. She is very young, which seems to be the only extenuating circumstance.

Blessed with a young, gay and affectionate husband, who gave her everything she could wish, she left him and her little baby to elope with the husband of her dearest friend.
He was middle aged, plain and poor.
Society was surprised when he had won the beautiful Spanish girl who was now his wife. But she and his two little ones were forgotten in his love for Mrs. Bradbury.

They were arrested shortly after their elopement by an agent for the Society for the Suppression of Vice. After their arrest Mrs. Bradbury had this to say:

"You may call this an elopement, a love match, a scandal or anything else you like. I call it a sweet little romance. I want happiness and this is my way to get it. I have a beautiful home, jewels, and all that, but I want more; I want love. Mr. Ward loves me and that is enough. This is our own affair and I don't care what the world says. We are not living for the world but for ourselves. We will make our own world."

But after twelve hours in jail, the world Mrs. Bradbury was making for herself did not appear so roseate, and upon her dismissal from the trial by the courtesy of the court, she left the jail without a message to the man whose love had been worth the destruction of two homes.

So this woman, who, according to her own statement, had everything but love, returned to the husband whose love was strong enough to forgive her and unselfish enough to seclude himself at the Bradbury mines in the Sinaloa hills of New Mexico, from whence they have just returned to California.

Mrs. Ward, who with her little ones had been on a visit to England at the time of the elopement, also showed her nobility of character and the depth of her love by promptly cabling her husband $2000 to pay his fine and the message, "Come home."

He left immediately, saying he would beg his wife's forgiveness and live down the disgrace but he was very despondent and committed suicide on the way.

The sequel of this "sweet little romance," as Mrs. Bradbury called it, is a widow and two fatherless little ones on the other side of the ocean and a tarnished name and saddened memories in the hearts of two on this side of the water.

As a general thing there is not as much real love in these romances as there is in apparently prosaic lives.
Persons who allow themselves to entertain feelings that may develop into a passion for those who have pledged their lives to others are usually selfish and he who tries to win happiness at the expense of another's broken heart deserves to find that duty, maligned
as she is, brings in the end more happiness than selfish love.

There is more beautiful, romantic love in that which can remain faithful through the little trials of every day life than in all this gush and sentiment.

BEAUTY HINTS.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice in a cupful of tepid water makes a good wash for the hands. It whitens the nails and loosens the cuticle far better than a pair of scissors will do.

The peel of oranges and lemons should be thrown into the water pitcher on your washstand. They will soften the water and give it a delightful perfume.

Tomatoes are an excellent aperient
for the liver and improve a yellow skin. It is also said that, if eaten freely and often, they will improve the complexion greatly and add to the beauty of the eyes. Cultivate your taste for tomatoes.

RECIPES.

BEEFSTEAK WITH GREEN PEPPERS.— Beefsteak is delicious served with broiled green peppers. Half a dozen young green peppers should be cut into quarters and the seed removed.
Broil over a very hot fire until the edges curl. Put a tiny bit of butter and a dash of salt on each piece, and serve on the steak.

ICED SOUP.—This is a summer soup popular in Russia and other foreign countries. Wash a handful each of sorrel, fennel and young beet leaves, put in a sauce pan, cover with water, add a sprinkle of salt, and boil half an hour. Strain and mix with a pint of boiling stock, and half a pint of cream.
Season with salt, pepper, minced parsley and a dash of cayenne. Set on ice until cold. When ready to serve, cut up half a dozen hard boiled eggs and add to the soup.

One step won't take you very far—
You've got to keep on walking;
One word won't tell folks who you are—
You've got to keep on talking.
One inch won't make you very tall—
You've got to keep on growing;
One little ad won't do it all—
You've got to keep them going.—Ex.

I wonder how many of our little ones try to be good to mamma? One of the ways to be good to her is to do the little things she asks without saying, "I don't want to." Another way is to talk kindly to her. Some little girls talk as if their mothers had to mind them instead of them minding their mothers.

Dear Aunt Joe:—I read some good riddles the other day, which I would like to ask the children. If they can't guess them, I will tell the answers October 1st.
Why is a boy like a postage stamp?
Why is a galloping horse like a stick of candy?
Why is a boy looking at a pudding like a wild horse?
I hope some one will try to guess these and send some others. I intend to save all the conundrums I get hold of.

THE BUTTERCUP AND THE DAISY.

In the sunniest and most beautiful part of France, out in the green wood, a little daisy and a large yellow buttercup were growing side by side.
The daisy was a beautiful one but very meek and gentle. The buttercup really was beautiful but his proud and haughty way spoiled it all. He would say to the daisy,
'Oh, how I pity you! Look at my fine yellow coat.'
And the daisy would meekly answer,
'Indeed you are very beautiful.'
This would gratify the buttercup, who would look prouder and more haughty than ever.
One day a small peasant girl came through the wood, driving some sheep. The buttercup stuck his head out as if to say, "Look at me," while the modest daisy sank behind the buttercup.

The sheep came on and trampled the wicked buttercup to the earth. And there sprang up a poison vine which poisoned everyone who touched it with a deadly poison. The little peasant girl dug up the daisy, took it to her home and planted it in her garden.

The daisy bloomed in summer and winter, its bloom never withering, giving a sweet perfume to weary travelers. A hundred years have passed and the daisy is still blooming there as sweet and pure as ever. The poison vine still lives also, doing so much harm, while the daisy is still making people happy with its sweetness and purity.

ASTORIETTE.

Once there was a little girl who thought she looked like her grandma. Her grandma thought so, too. But everyone laughed at the idea of little rosy cheeked Ethel looking like dear wrinkled old Grandmamma.

But Ethel knew it made grandma happy to think so, and she determined to prove it to everybody. She saved every cent of money she could get and about two weeks before the dear old lady's birthday, she asked mamma to give her the money she would allow her for Grandma's present.

Then one day when every one but mamma and Ethel had gone for a drive, a very queer little old woman left the house and went up town. Her face was remarkably fresh and smooth, but for all that she must have been very old, for her clothes—well, she had a plain dress on, with a large handkerchief folded over her shoulders. An old-fashioned cap was on her head, and a pair of "spees" rested on her nose. She had her yarn and knitting needles with her in an old-fashioned reticule.

And on Grandma's birthday, she received a large photograph of this very same old lady with the unusually smooth face. As she bent down to give Ethel a big, big hug, the little girl pointed to the picture and said, "Now, I do look like Grandma, don't I?"

And everybody at last said that she really did.

WHEN MY MAMMA WAS A LITTLE GIRL.

I can't make up any stories, but I can tell you some things about when my mamma was a little girl. It won't be an old-fashioned story, for my mamma is not old, but it seems as if it was a pretty long time ago to me.

She lived in the country with a big front yard, and back of the house was an orchard. In the fall months she would go to school through this orchard and fill her dinner basket with apples. In the winter time, when the snow was on the ground, she would ride to school on her papa's back, with her arms around his neck, because she was only five years old.

She tried to be good but it is hard work when you sit with your cousin, and you like her awfully well. So she whispered, and the teacher, a nice, kind man, would shake his head and put a ruler along the middle of the desk, so she would know which was her side and not get so close to her cousin.

Her cousin's name was Dora, and she had pretty black eyes and black curly hair. She was pretty but not very strong. My mamma was plump, and had blue eyes and brown hair that was real curly, and I know she must have been pretty, too, although she does not say so.

My mamma's name was Mary, 'cause she says her parents were plain, old fashioned folks who did not like fancy names.

When her oldest brother was a baby, her father and mother were young and fanciful, she said, and they named him Ulysses, for they wanted him to be a great man.

But all the country people said, "Ulysses? why I thought your baby was a boy!"
So they thought they had better change his name and called him Simon.

One time there was company there from the city and my mamma, who was still only five years old, had a pretty new dress on, a pretty new calico dress, I think. So all the children went to hunt eggs, but Mary was the littlest, and she only found one.

She was pretty fat and it was hard to go so far to the house for one egg, so she put it in her pocket. After they played awhile they sat down under a large tree, and my mother rolled over—and that egg soaked through.

Well, this is a long letter, but if you ever want me to come again and tell you about my mamma,—for she did lots more things—you must tell me so.

MARIE LOCH.

As this is the Children's Corner, Aunt Joe will leave it to the children to say whether Marie shall tell us more about her mamma. You must tell us what you like—and also help us by your own letters.

To All Cattlemen:

The Oklahoma Live Stock Association is an organization maintained by Cattlemen and Stock Farmers; it has secured laws which protect your interests; it has secured existing quarantine regulations and thereby prevented the removal of the National line to the borders of Kansas; it has aided in ridding the country of thieves; and it maintains a system of protective benefits which has stood the test for years. Why not add your name to its list, if you are not already a member? You can join at any time during the year by listing your brands with the Secretary, (either by mail or in person) at Woodward, Oklahoma.

Zenoleum Kills Spanish Itch.

One of the most annoying, persistent and destructive diseases incident to cattle raising is "Spanish Itch." Cattle fall away in condition very rapidly when suffering from it, and if not checked serious losses follow. Its spread is swift and whole herds quickly become contaminated with it. Experiment and steady use demonstrate that will cure it more surely and cheaply than any other remedy known. Cattle should be dipped in or sprayed with a solution of ZENOLEUM and water, 1 part of ZENOLEUM to 50 parts of water. It will instantly kill the mite which causes the disease and turns disaster into profit. It is equally good for ticks, screw-worms, mange and foul in foot. Its application will to a certainty give your stock immunity from flies. Sample gallon express prepaid, $1.50, or 5 gallons, $6.25. Larger quantities at lower prices. Send for free copy of "Zenoleum Veterinary Advisor." Treats of all diseases and their cure.
