Denatured Alcohol For Farmers.

The United States government has sent experts to Germany to study the manufacture of denatured alcohol and the relation of the farmer to this industry. This is a step in the right direction, for this new industry promises to be of great benefit to farmers. But we want to suggest that at the different agricultural meetings to be held during the coming winter this subject ought to be discussed. Why not secure experts from the United States Department of Agriculture, or wherever they can be obtained, and have them explain to farmers how this industry will affect them. It seems to us this is worthy of consideration. Manufacturers of gasoline engines have announced that their engines can now be run by alcohol, just as well as by gasoline, but the price o alcohol will likely not be lowered until after January 1, when the internal revenue tax is removed.

The manufacturers however, seem to be getting ready to use the alcohol before the farmers understand the relation of the new industry to their business.

Farmers want to know if they can make the alcohol on their farms. If they can, they want to know how to do it. And if it is impracticable to make the alcohol on a small scale, they want to know how large a co-operative plant will be needed to supply the requirements of a neighborhood. This is an important and interesting matter, and is worthy of discussion before every agricultural society.

The Story of Mary.

Mary had a little lamb;
One day it got the croup;
She sold it to a packing house—
It's now canned ox-tail soup.

Mary had to have a pet;
She bought a cunning cow,
Which died of splitting headaches soon
It's country sausage now.

Mary wept and wept and wept,
And then a piggie got;
The piggie died of tummy ache—
It's boned ham, like as not.

Mary saw the packers make
A fortune from her pets,
But she could hardly clear enough
On them to pay her debts.

Mary bought an ailing sheep—
She knew it was a sin—
And when it died she promptly called
An undertaker in.

This precious pair embalmed the sheep
And sold it all for cash.
The folks who bought it of them said
"What lovely corned-beef hash!"

The undertaker and the girl
Decided then to hitch;
They organized a packing house,
And, gee, but they are rich!

"Do you think that the automobile will displace the horse?" asked the conversational young woman. "It will," answered the nervous young man, as he gazed down the road, "if it ever hits him."—Journal of Agriculture.

A man may travel everywhere over the old settled states of the east, enjoy living at its best, strive all in his power, practice all the art and skill of which he may be master and yet, without the "opportunity" fail miserably in more than maintaining a mere existence.

Why? Because of the ever increasing competition in the struggle for success in life among his brothers. Because the demands of development are fewer and fewer each year, the impulse dies, the energy stagnates, there is no future within a reasonable span of years.

How vastly different are conditions here in the young and growing west! How much there is to bring out the best there is in growing manhood! How widely does Golden Opportunity sweep within his grasp the motive, the idealization and the visible substantial materialization of his hopes, his efforts and his energies.

With this in mind, the writer respectfully calls attention to Woodward, the Peerless Pearl of the Prairies of western Oklahoma.

For many years after its founding, Woodward was affectionately dubbed "a wide place on the Santa Fe track", best known as the point of the heaviest initial shipment of cattle in the known world. The broad fertile prairies produced fortunes for any who chose to turn their herds upon them. The cow-camp and the branding iron ruled society and little or no attempt was made at permanent development by these Nomads of the western plains. And perforce, Woodward in its earlier days gave little heed to the future. It was content with present conditions. No paupers ever petitioned for charity--there were none! Few farmers cultivated the fertile valleys and up-lands yet those who did, reaped rich harvests and feed was equivalent every year to cash.

It was only about four years ago, that the resistless tide of immigration, dammed for a short period by the Kiowa and Comanche opening, rolled into and over the rich prairies of Woodward county. The struggle of the cattleman to hold possession of untitled acres was brief. The settler and the settler's shepherd dog made grazing unprofitable and the vast herds melted into the markets and more distant and less profitable range countries of the northwest and southwest, and Woodward, settled and inhabited on every quarter section, roused from its lethargy and there arose the Empire County of our own Beautiful Oklahoma, the very best that ever happened!

At this time Woodward city began to take on new life. Tax-deeds were purchased on vacant lots. Stores, lumber yards, residences, everything, took on new life, multiplied and the sturdy growth which has since characterized it, began the jubilant march to a metropolitan market, great in its power to become at some day one of the chief cities of Oklahoma.

Much might be said and written of its progress since then. To see it is to regard it as a city which has never yielded to a boom, but has gone forward with steady stride until it challenges the admiration of a continent. The reason is apparent from the splendid location of the town. Midway between the sultry scorch of the hot midsummer sun on the east and the wheezy tuberculosis air currents of the higher altitudes on the west; half way from the icy grasp of a northern winter and the enervating palsied pulse of the southern climes, it retains just sufficient frost to vitalize the best energies and yet warm enough to not require the expenditure of all summer wages to go through the year in comfort of body and soul. The splendid equi-zone of nature, the most perfect spot of an all wise God's Creation!

Its natural advantages are now being supplemented by the hand of art and craft. For instance:

In less than one more year, the great bands of heavy railway steel which unites Woodward with Chicago and the Pacific coast, will echo to the rumble of countless cars over the great Santa Fe making Woodward the gateway of California products for distribution to all parts of Oklahoma; and in time, segregating here the splendid products of Oklahoma in every form to find profitable sale in the mountains of the Californian and northern coasts.

Why should not Woodward feel proud of these facts?

But listen: Not only will the above be true, but every day the clanging irons are going down to connect Woodward in an air line with the inexhaustible coal fields of Colorado; and another line is rushing from here to the great lumber regions of Arkansas. And with cheap lumber and cheap coal, is there a human being anywhere who can foretel the future growth of Woodward? Not one!

Recently the governor of Oklahoma proclaimed this as a city of the 1st class.

Recently the P. O. department has notified Woodward that its volume of business entitles it to free city delivery of mail. Its electric light plant is of best construction and its water plant is up with the times in being owned by the city.

With every possible advantage naturally in its favor, it is also the seat of a county which is as fertile in soil as the ancient valleys of the Nile and vast in expanse, bearing the promise of more "opportunity for energy and effort than any other city of its size in America.

Corroboration in court is the best of evidence. If there be any who read this who doubt our claims, please confer with any or all of the following business men of Woodward who will cheerfully certify to the correctness of all herein stated. All questions, by mail or in person cheerfully answered by this paper, or by any of the following named business interests:

POST OFFICE BOOK STORE.

This store is conducted by Mrs. Ora Shontz in the post office building and carries at all times the latest books novels and periodicals, maps of the county and stationery of all kinds. She also carries a full line of domestic and imported cigars and smokers' goods. School supplies are a late acquisition and she has a full stock. All the latest shades and designs in wall paper are also carried and many of the finest homes in the city have been supplied from here. "Mrs. Shontz has been proprietress of this up-to-date little nook for the past seven years and by her courteous treatment and accommodating efforts has made many friends. This paper takes occasion to commend her place of business to the public in general.

R. A. BOYLE MFG. CO.

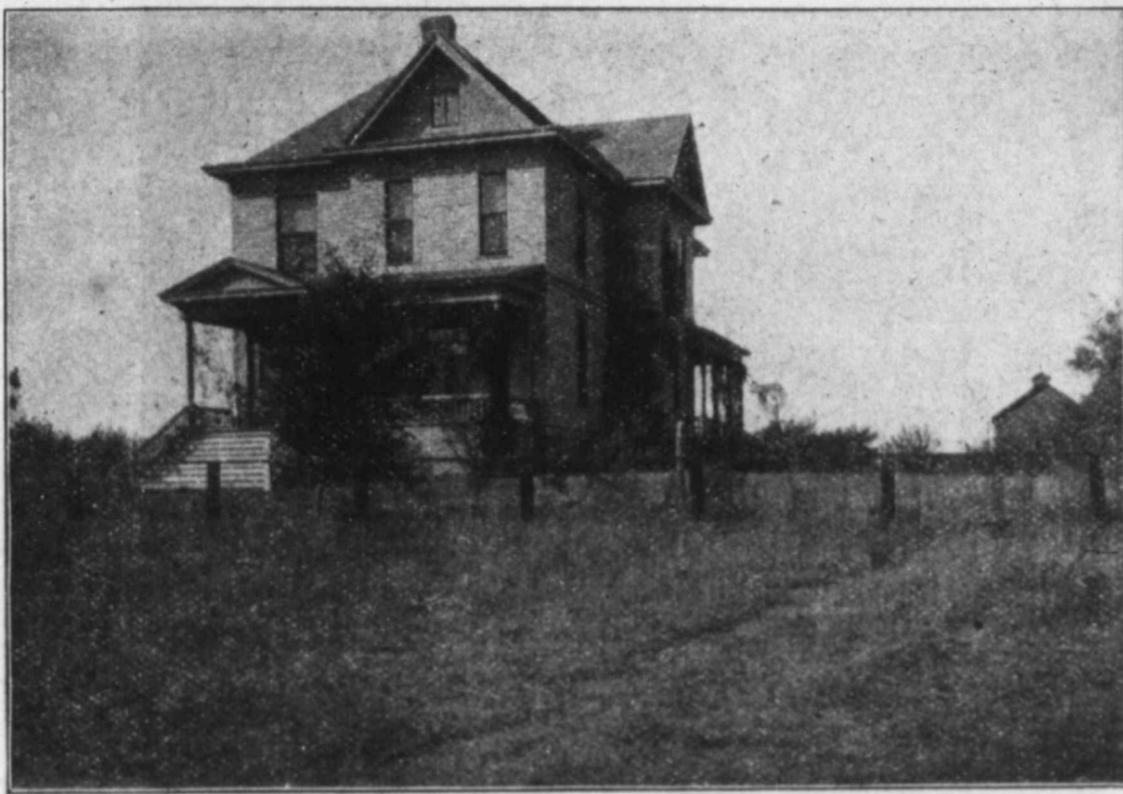

This firm has been in Woodward for the past three years and during that time have succeeded in building up a good business from a small beginning. This firm is composed of two brothers, R. A. and J. R. Boyle. Galvanized steel tanks and cisterns for stock, straw or hay burning stoves and well casing are a few of the many things they manufacture. Besides doing a general tin shop and plumbing business they make a specialty of house heating, either by hot air, steam or hot water. Their motto is "service will tell" and they always do the work just the best it can be done knowing that service will tell in time to come.

A. H. TANDY, RESIDENCE, WOODWARD.

This is the principle on which they are building their business. They are always glad to furnish estimates on all kinds of work in their line. We take this occasion to commend these gentlemen to the favorable consideration of the general public.

MEUNIER & GESSLER.

The proprietors of this store established it some two years ago and since then by fair and honorable dealings have built up a large trade. They carry a complete line of general merchandise embracing staple and fancy groceries, meats, dry goods, notions, boots and shoes and a staple line of clothing. All goods sold by this store are fully warranted and will prove just as represented. As this paper will be read by a great many country people we take this occasion of commending them to the general public.

L. H. OLDFIELD.

In the manufacture of harness we must not fail to call attention to our late citizen L. H. Oldfield who recently moved here from Wichita, Kansas, and has since built up a large and growing trade. This store is filled with all kinds of horse furnishings, such as double and single harness, whips, saddles, collars, bridles, etc. A large workshop in the rear equipped with all the necessary tools and machinery occupies the proprietor's time and it is here that he manufactures the harness that supplies the country. He carries the largest and most complete stock in the county and his prices are as low as first class goods can be sold for. We extend to our new brother the glad hand of fellowship and wish him well in his enterprise.

CATTLE KING HOTEL.

One of the hotels that has done much to establish the reputation of Woodward as a good hotel city is the Cattle King. This hotel has thirty nice clean and inviting guest chambers and a large dining room capable of seating 100 people. The rooms are well kept and the table is furnished with best the market affords. It is most conveniently located being opposite the United States Land Office, one block from the court house and only one block from the Post Office. No pains are spared to make the stay of the guest pleasant and make doubly welcome all who enter the parlors of The Cattle King.

EZRA BOYLE.

Among the leading business men of Woodward a prominent place must be accorded the above named gentleman who has been engaged in the hardware and furniture business here for the past fourteen years. He carries a large and complete stock of shelf and heavy hardware, stoves and ranges, tinware and everything usually found in a first-class hardware store. Mr. Boyle commenced business here in a modest way but by applying the golden rule to trade principles has built up an extensive trade. He is a liberal, enterprising business man and a public spirited citizen and to such men as he Woodward owes much.

WOODWARD BAKERY.

From every window, showcase and counter of this inviting establishment good things to eat tempt the appetite and appeal to the palate. The lightest of bread, rolls and cakes, pies and pastry that will melt in your mouth are heaped and stacked. Mr. H. A. Wales the genial proprietor, is a past master baker and uses nothing but the choicest ingredients. He carries a nice stock of fresh confections, candies, cigars, fruits, etc. A special feature is his delivery system and you have only to telephone your order in and the goods will be delivered promptly. Mr. Wales is a broad minded business man who never stands back when the best interests of the town are at stake. He is accommodating and courteous and fully deserves the liberal patronage that he enjoys.

GERLACH-HOPKINS CO.

Among the leading mercantile establishments of Woodward special mention should be made of the department store of Gerlach & Hopkins. This store was established here in 1893 and by fair and honorable dealings have built up a large and growing trade. They carry a large and complete stock of clothing, furnishing goods and everything new, fashionable or fine in footwear. In the grocery line they carry a full stock of staple and fancy groceries, feed and flour and their prices are as low as first class goods can be sold for. They also carry a complete stock of china, glass and queensware, while their stock of crockery and hardware is unsurpassed. Everything used on the farm is found here in the way of barb and woven wire fences. They occupy commodious quarters on main street and their fixtures consisting of the basket system and other modern improvements are in keeping with their high-grade stock. The firm is composed of George and John Gerlach and J. H. Hopkins, who is manager of the store here. These gentlemen are well known all over western Oklahoma as representative business men and citizens of high standing. As this paper will be read by people all over this county we take this occasion of commending them to the favorable consideration of the buying public.

PROF. BOH MAKOVSKY.

The cultivation of music is one of the higher arts that go hand in hand with civilization. There is nothing that tones up and educates the finer feelings of our nature like music. In this connection we feel called upon to mention Prof. Boh Makovsky, the proprietor of the only music house in Woodward. The professor is an artist in his line and besides keeping a first-class music house teaches the art to those desiring to learn. His reputation in this line is more than local and brings him trade from a distance. He carries in stock a complete line of musical instruments, supplies and all the latest sheet music. His place is the headquarters for the local "400 and is very popular. We take this occasion to commend this gentleman to the music loving people of Woodward and Woodward county. All the standard makes of pianos are carried by him.

THE CENTRAL EXCHANGE BANK
Commenced Business Sept, 19 1904.

Few financial institutions so completely enjoy the confidence and esteem of the general public as the above bank. This bank has a paid up capital stock of $12,000.00 and a surplus and undivided profits of $3,253.27. Careful and conservative it is an institution that can safely be relied upon and recommended to all who have occasion to open or carry account or any loan deposit or collection requiring the care, protection or advice of a safe competent banking institution. The officers are gentlemen of integrity and of known financial responsibility with and abiding faith in our city and county. The official roster is as follows:— John Garvey Pres, H. N. Roberts Vice Pres, W. J. Martin Cashier.

WOODWARD STEAM LAUNDRY.

The natural advantages of this city bid fair to soon become developed into their highest degree and a great step in this direction was made when The Woodward Steam Laundry was established here some four weeks ago. This laundry is fully equipped with all the latest machinery and only competent help is employed. The work turned out by this laundry is as fine as can be had in the state. This is home industry, the proprietor Mr. H. D. Kuhn has come to this city to make it his home and grow up with the country. He is a gentleman who has had metropolitan experience in this line and thoroughly understands the work. He is on the lookout for live hustling agents in every town along the Santa Fe and solicits their correspondence. We take this occasion of recommending this industry to the people of Woodward and this county.

D. H. KUHN, PROP. WOODWARD STEAM LAUNDRY, AND SON.

H. B. GREER MEAT MARKET.

The art of properly handling meat so that it may be delivered to the cook in proper condition for preparation into an appetizing table dish is one that cannot be learned in a few weeks or months. H. B. Greer, the genial proprietor of this shop learned his trade in the severe school of experience and has been actively engaged in the butcher business for the past three years. A large refrigerator to keep his meats and products in is one of the chief features while in the back part of the store is a large ice house with heavy refrigerator doors and a cement floor. He does all his own killing which is good news to the public during these days of adulteration. A complete stock of fancy groceries is the latest acquisition and has already assured itself of a permanent home by the large trade it has built up. Greer's lard is a household word and is justly famed for its purity and lasting qualities. Mr. Greer buys and sells hides and pelts and will always pay the highest market price for same. This paper will be read by hundreds of people all over this county and we take this occasion to commend this popular little establishment to the public in general. Mr. Greer is going to build a large poultry yard near his shop and put in a bone grinding machine to save the by-products of the market.

A. J. VIETS

We are reminded that winter is here and it is time for the wise and careful to examine his wardrobe with a view of replenishing the same. This leads us to say that A. J. Viets carries a large and complete stock of clothing and a full line of gent's furnishings and his prices are as low as first class goods can be sold for. Mr. A. J. Viets is a good buyer and is in touch with the best markets in the country. His large stock enables customers to make suitable selections and the reputation of this gentleman for handling high grade goods is a sufficient guarantee that you will get full value for every dollar expended with him. Mr. Viets established this store the first of last April and by applying the golden rule to trade principles has built up a large and growing trade. When you see the name of Viets on a package you can rest assured that the purchaser has the value of money expended in dependable merchandise. We take this occasion to commend this store to the buying public of this county. This is the only exclusive clothing store in the city.

JERSEY KITCHEN.

In this swift commercial age, the restaurant is truly a boon. The modern cafe has become a most popular place for meeting the wants of the inner man. This prompts us to say that the restaurant commonly known as The Jersey Kitchen is the most popular place in the city. Mr. Louis Charvoz, the genial proprietor is a most worthy gentleman, accommodating, courteous and reliable in every sense of the word. It is due to his systematic managing and by his persistent efforts to please that the restaurant has acquired its present high standing. Accommodations are provided for all who may apply and the premises are neat, clean and inviting. The restaurant is open day and night and you can get anything you want at any time.

GUS KEMPF,

This gentleman removed here from Carrolton Mo., some five months ago to east his lot with us and has since coming here built up a large and growing trade in the present advanced age no man will wear loose made clothing that looks cheap and shoddy when for an additional outlay he can get a tailor made suit which will fit the form, wear and look better. Mr. Kempf does his own cutting and guarantees to fit the customer. Good workmanship, perfect fit and fine finish characterize the clothes turned out by him. We extend the glad hand of fellowship to this enterprising man and welcome him to our midst.

ST. ELMO HOTEL.

In reviewing the business interests of Woodward we must call attention to the St. Elmo Hotel, T. H. Campbell, proprietor. This gentleman has had charge of this popular hostelry for the past five years and during this time has by his accomodating efforts and courteous treatment built up a large and growing trade. The St. Elmo is a strictly first class hotel having hot and cold baths and being lighted throughout with electricity. While the accommodations leave nothing to be desired, it must not be supposed that their prices are high for on the contrary they are most reasonable. The proprietor is one of Woodward's leading business men and spares no pain or expense in making his guests feel at home. The next time you are in town stop at the St. Elmo Hotel.

J. THOMAS.

Well regulated drug stores are one of the prime necessities of all cities. This leads us to direct attention to the drug store conducted by Mr. J. Thomas. This gentleman came here when all this country was barren and unsettled and Beaver county went under the name of "No Man's Land." This was some nineteen years ago and six years later he embarked in the present business which has been steadily growing as the years multiply.

T. H. CAMPBELL, PROP. ST. ELMO HOTEL, WOODWARD.

The prescription department is most important and Mr. Thomas gives his personal attention to this branch of the business. All kinds of stationary, medicines and the thousand and one other things that go to make up a first class drug store can be found here. A well stocked cigar case filled with the best brands on the market and every cigar a gentleman's smoke is another acquirement. By liberal dealings, personal competency and close attention to the wants of his customers he has built up a large trade. Mr. Thomas is a pleasant, courteous gentleman and stands well in this community.

W. E. JENNINGS.

The real estate men have done much for this country and among these we feel called upon to make special mention of Mr. W. E. Jennings. This gentleman has been in business here for the past three years and by fair and honorable dealings has built up a most satisfactory business. He has a long list of city and country property and would be pleased to show same at any time. The prices of lands he has listed range from $8.00 to $20.00 per acre according to location and improvements on them. If you have any land to sell place it with him and he will find you a ready buyer. If you want to buy, drop him a line or call at his office and he will show you some great bargains. To the people in the north or east who reads this special edition we wish to say that place your confidence in Mr. Jennings and rest assured he will look after your interests to your advantage.

J. W. MILLER.

Carrying a complete line of groceries feed and flour this gentleman has been in business here for the past six months. The stock carried by him is well selected and during his short term of business has built up a most satisfactory trade. His stock is fresh and pure and the price are as reasonable as anyone's in town. We heartily commend this energetic reliable man to the general public and this paper together with a host of friends wish him continued success in his new enterprise.

The new settlers in Oklahoma are usually anxious to learn whether the northern or southern grown trees should be selected for setting in Oklahoma. The experience of tree planters indicates that there is little difference in the trees grown in the north and south and the home grown trees. The tree that has been best grown and is best packed for shipment is the one that should be expected to give the best results in the orchard.

This has been the experience of many people who have tested this question to their own satisfaction. It usually pays to buy trees of the local nurseryman and secure them as soon as they are dug from the nursery row and take them home and heel them in well or set them in the orchard at once.

Discontent.

The mail is full of letters
And the soup is full of peas,
There's sugar in the coffee
And the yard is full of trees;
The fields are full of stubble
And there's grass upon the ground—
But the world is full of trouble
If we only look around.

The corn is full of kernels,
There are lilies in the brooks;
The towns are full of people.
There are stories in the books;
The orchard's full of apples
And the meadow's full of hay—
But what troubles we discover
If we're only built that way.

The lilac's full of blossoms
And the trees are full of leaves,
The meadow's full of clover
And the fields are full of sheaves;
The bread is full of flour
And the rain is damp and wet—
But how much there is to fret us
If we really want to fret.

The bees are full of honey
And the apples full of juice,
The banks are full of money
But—be happy? What's the use?
The beach is full of pebbles,
There is water in the creek—
But nothing really suits us
If we really want to kick.

J. W. Foley.

Woodward will be a city of 10,000 people in five years more of present growth.

The Homeseekers that went to Texas last week were treated to six inches of snow near Amarillo Texas, these parties should come to sunny Oklahoma, the best place on earth, with the best climate.

The report trade in American butter is growing very rapidly. In 1904 and 1905 the amount exported was 10,000,000 pounds each year. In the fiscal year, ended June 30, 1906, it had increased to 27,360,537 pounds, the value trebling in the two years.

The farmers of Woodward county are now doing what should have been done sooner, aiding the officers in the enforcement of the game law. The quail is the farmer's best friend and destroyer more harmful bugs than any other bird. Keep out hunters and you will raise good crops every seasonable year.

Fires will soon be necessary for comfort, and it would be well for all residents of the town to examine flues, particularly the zinc ones, and see that they are in good repair. It would be a good idea for the marshal to examine such flues and see that they are fixed where repairs are necessary. The cool spell of this week reminds us that winter is near.

The following table shows the corn produced last year and latest verified estimates for this year. Save it!

State	1905	1906
Oklahoma	110,000,000 bu	190,000,000 bu
Texas	139,000,000 "	163,700,000 "
Kansas	193,000,000 "	190,000,000 "
Ohio	112,000,000 "	92,000,000 "
Indiana	187,000,000 "	136,700,000 "
Missouri	203,000,000 "	161,700,000 "

All of which proves that Oklahoma is "going some" and will soon excel every state in the union raising corn.

At Pittsburg, Pa., one day last week, thirty caddies employed by the Beaver Valley country club, went on strike for higher pay, just as a scheduled match game was to be played. The demand was refused and the boys ordered off the grounds where upon the boys stationed themselves near "hole No. 6" and pelted the players with mud balls until their demands were granted. The strike was effective and lasted less than twenty minutes.

Country Editor's Power.

The power of the weekly press is not to be underestimated. The country editor is close to the people. He knows what every man in this community is talking about and thinking about; knows where he stands. He can reach him directly and almost as personally as through a personal conversation. As a moulder of the opinion of the public which it reaches the weekly paper has few equals. The country editor can get his finger on the pulse of his community. The independent editor of a weekly paper is not usually rich in money, or in this world's goods. If he were he would not be a country editor. But he is rich in something else if he is truly untrammelled, and that something is character.—Atlanta Journal.

Now is the Time to "Graft"

Letter From a St. Louis Firm Showing How Easy It Is to "Graft" the Tax Payers.

The following is a verbatim copy of a letter received from a well known printing concern in St. Louis and shows how Smith or any other party "boss" may graft the taxpayers by pulling the blinkers over the people before election. The concern named is not guilty of any offense—they merely enable party bosses to make dupes of the taxpayers. Read this and then assert your manhood by refusing to vote for any candidate on any ticket at any time, who is not known to be heart and soul in favor of giving ALL public work to the lowest responsible bidder for same:

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 10, 1906.

To the Woodward News and All Other County Newspapers:

Do you want to increase your business?

If so, now is the time to get in your "Graft."

Usually about this time all the County officers are looking for re election and of course OTHERS are out after the same office and its up to the newspaper (or up to YOU) as to who shall be elected. Your INFLUENCE will go a great ways toward electing or defeating a candidate and why not get some benefit out of it?

You are entitled to and should have all the PRINTING and BLANK BOOKS that are used in your county so long as you meet the OTHER FELLOW'S prices, and you can get the work if you will only go out after it. The small work you can do yourself and the large work and record books we can do it for you at a price that will leave a PROFIT FOR YOU, as we save the traveling man's expenses. We make a specialty of this class of trade and have on our books a great many newspapers in various parts of Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Texas and Indian Territory, and we feel that you ought to get in line also, and get after YOUR COUNTY WORK.

We do ruling, perforating, punching, numbering, wire stitching, folding, blank books, and loose leaf devices and anything else that comes under the art of book binders. When in St. Louis we cordially invite you to call and see our plant, but in the meantime go after the business, and make the money that is now going outside the county.

For further information write us, and we will help you to get the business.

Yours truly,

BLANK & Co.

P. S. When asking for QUOTATIONS ask your county clerk to give you a sheet out of end of book, this will show us quality of paper, style for ruling and printing and clerk will mark number of pages desired and style of binding.

Would it not be just as easy for an honest officer desirous of serving the people without regard to "party" to get the same quotations and save money to the taxpayers?

Or do you prefer that the present style of wholesale loot and robbery for the benefit of a few political pets whose pockets are bulging with the taxes on your toil continues?

Look this matter squarely in the face and resolve now to be a man instead of a puling partisan, capable only of robbing yourself for the benefit of your bosses?

UNIFORM PROHIBITION.

The whisky question is the paramount issue in the present campaign in this territory. Of course there is a strong effort being made to sidetrack the Prohibition movement. Many questions of less importance are filling up the pages of the press, and in some quarters never a word either pro or con appear in our Oklahoma papers. Why is this? Every man with a soul and with any degree of morality left in him knows the Oklahoma issue is the liquor question.

Shall we have the saloon or shall we have prohibition? We argue in favor of prohibition for all of Oklahoma. Some are favoring one thing and some another but it is clear the object of all this is to divide the prohibitionists and clear the track for the perpetuation of the saloon. Let every temperance man stand firm for prohibition to be written in the constitution. Nothing else will suffice; anything else is a farce. I see the saloon element is working like a Turk to get a separate submission. What does this mean? It means the defeat of one of the most important questions to come before the constitutional convention. Why not have every other proposition and section proposed at that convention submitted to a separate vote? There is just as much sense in it that way and you cannot prove it otherwise.

Indian Territory will have prohibition for twenty-one years—why not have the same kind of a law for the whole state? If not it would probably be taken into court and decided unconstitutional. Then where would our statehood be? We do not want Indian Territory to have a say as to what Oklahoma must have when we have no say in the former's affairs. The state would be divided. A house divided against itself cannot stand.

Give us a "square deal". This separate submission would not be right unless Oklahoma proper, could settle this for herself. The delegates elected to make the constitution are trusted to write the fundamental law of the state on everything else: they certainly have sense enough to be trusted in this. Another cry being spread is for local option. The whole state must have the same kind of law. If prohibition is needed in Indian Territory it certainly is in Oklahoma. Whisky makes the white man just as big a fool as it does the Indian or negro or any other kind of an animal. I think the sensible thing for our delegates to do is to make the law uniform. Then there would not be any unconstitutional danger ahead of us.

With Kansas on the north with her prohibition law, with Arkansas dry except 2 counties, with Texas at least 75 per cent prohibition what would western Oklahoma be with her saloons in full blast but the dumping ground for all the scabs and off-scourings of the surrounding country. We want to be decent and up-to-date. But you ask why should we have prohibition in the constitution? We answer for the same reason that we have the initiative and referendum or any other clause or law. We should have it because it is right, it builds up morality; lessens crime; benefits the church, the school, the state, fraternal organizations and industrial institutions. The liquor traffic is in direct opposition to all of the above. It causes crimes, gives the courts much to do, fills the jails and penitentiaries. It separates man and wife, breaks up families and homes. It debauches and blasts the young and old alike. It creates disorder and brings reproach upon the innocent. It helps to build up gambling and ruins our girls forever. It is hell legalized and fits its subjects for that place in the future. "Hell from beneath is moved to meet them at their coming" It populates the regions of the dead and brings many a useful and happy soul to an early and immature death. "No drunkard can inherit the kingdom of God." He must get converted. "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."—Prov. 20:1. "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him, and maketh him drunken also."—Heb. 2:15. "Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine, they that go to seek mixed wines. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it moveth itself aright. At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."—Pro. 23:29-33.

Prohibition in the constitution will remove the cause of the eternal damnation of the one who might sell it, who might drink it who might vote for it. This would be right from a scriptural view, from an ethical view, from a legal view. Let everyone who is not willing to sell his soul to the devil for a drink of booze and possibly damn himself forever show himself a man and work tooth and toenail for prohibition in the constitution.

A PROHIBITION DEMOCRAT.

A Kansas Was Story.

Emporia Gazette.—Solomon Lanham had been to Kansas City with two cars of steers and was returning home to Oklahoma Thursday on No. 5. He was in the smoking room of the rear sleeper with another passenger and they were telling "war stories," ac-ording to the Eldorado Republican. A third man entered the sleeper at Topeka and after lunch they all three reengaged in conversation about the war, which was continued until the train arrived at Emporia.

"At the battle of Nashville, which was fought in December, 1864, my brigade was ordered to charge," said Comrade Sol. "We were going up a hill at a lively clip when we came to an old fashioned 'stake and ridged' rail fence. I was on the top rail when a rebel shell exploded over our heads. A piece of it cut a gash across my breast to the bone, and I fell off the fence as good as dead. My old bunkie—we had messed and slept and fought together for three years—got hit in the head. When I came to I raised myself on my elbow and not ten feet from me was my bunkie. He was on his back. The blood was streaming down his face, which was as pale as death. Poor Jim was as dead—"

"You're a damned liar, Sol," exclaimed the comrade who got on at Topeka. "Sol, you old fool, you are dead. I came to pretty soon after I was hit and looking around saw you was as dead as you will ever be. I saw you die, Sol"—and they fell on to each other and they hugged and they cried and they cried and they hugged—while the other fellow—he cried, too. "Where are you going, Jim?" said Sol. "Going to Colorado." "No you are not. You are going home with me." And thus did Comrades Sol Lanham and James Santerson meet forty-two years after the war.

International Live Stock Exposition, Dec. 1 to 3, 1906, Chicago.

Farmers' sons not at college and students of the agricultural colleges will welcome this piece of news.

Last year the boys entering into competition in the students' judging classes had no hope of personal reward. The best they could do was, as a group from a college, win a trophy that would go to their school and farmers' sons competing singly could only pick what comfort they could from the glory of winning. This year good friends of the boys come forward and put up cash prizes that they can win and use as their own, and we all know what that means to a boy at school. McLaughlin Bros., the horse importers, desiring to aid in interesting young men in the study and improvement of the various breeds of animals offer the following premiums, in addition to the trophies offered by the management of the International Live Stock Exposition,

For the boy doing the most proficient work a cash prize is offered:

1st	$70.00
2nd	60.00
3rd	50.00
4th	40.00
5th	30.00
6th	25.00
7th	15.00
8th	10.00

Total

200.00
 This generous offer will undoubtedly arouse a great interest throughout the country and be appreciated by the boys.

Col. W. F. Dean is the most popular traveling salesman coming to town but this is not the reason why the Lawrence Barret cigars he sells meet with such favor. It helps some, of course, but the fact is the Lawrence Barret-cigars put out by Hershberger & Annabil of Kansas City is the best cigar sold in Woodward.

A five display of fruit may be seen at this office now, grown by D. Pauline 1-2 mile west of town. It consists of fine winter apples, choice late peaches and the largest Egyptian crab apples ever grown any where. The exhibit simply adds more proof that Oklahoma cannot be excelled any where for choice fruit.

There is not so much broom-corn coming in this week on account of not being able to get cars to ship it out. The ware houses are all full and a great amount is piled along the railroad track exposed to the weather.

James Reynolds is building a fine residence at the east end of main street. Jim is one of the original settlers of Day county, but has made up his mind to locate in the best town in the west.

Mrs. Wm. Wright's residence north of the track is going up in a hurry and it will not be many weeks until she can entertain her friends in one of the finest residences in Woodward.

Ambrose Lake of Rawdon, delivered 42 bales of broom-corn here last Saturday at $65 a ton. Broom-corn and prosperity greet every comer in Woodward county, so says Mr. Lake.

Geo. W. Carr, the giant of Day county, is visiting in the city this week. Mrs. Carr lives in the city, but George is a confined farmer.

The Claunch place is being laid out in lots and they will soon be on the market.—Verily the Peerless Pearl of the Prairies.

J. E. Hudson has sold his property north of the Christian church to Mr. Sweek. consideration $750.

G. W. Spencer of Kansas City, was shaking hands with his many friends in Woodward last Saturday.

CARE OF OLD HENS.

The old hens that are expected to lay the eggs during the winter are the ones that should receive the most attention during the fall months. The pullets that were hatched early should also be separated and fed so as to develop sturdy frames. Unless the hens and pullets are looked after now they will not begin to lay until late and instead of being a profit they will become an expense.

TIME TO BUY.

Now is the time to strengthen your broods for next year. At this season breeders are generally reducing their stocks, and farmers can buy to good advantage. By purchasing a trio of young birds before winter begins, giving them good care and all the comforts at your command, you will have large broods of pure-bred chicks next spring and your investment will prove itself a profitable one. One advantage in purchasing a trio over that of buying the eggs is that little chance is taken on the trio, while on the other hand one always runs the risk of eggs failing to hatch.

PAYS ALL THE TIME.

The poultry business is one from which the keeper gets money every month in the year. It is because this is true that so many do not realize the amount of money produced by the very ordinary flock of fowls in a year. The man who raises cattle, hogs or sheep, works with his stock the year through, but gets no money for it except once or twice a year, when he sells his surplus stock to the butcher or his wool to the wool buyer. Then he gets his returns for the work of the year, and as it come in a large amount he feels that he has accomplished something. The same amount invested in laying hens that is invested in any other kind of stock will make a larger return than the stock would bring, but the money received is coming in every week in small dribbles, and the poultry keeper that does not keep books does not realize how much money his hens are bringing him.—Poultry.

DAWSON ON THE AMERICAN HEN.

We hear a great deal about the glory of the American eagle. Artists in the past have painted birds of plumage, but the American hen is entitled to a tribute for her industry, her usefulness and her productivity. The American hen can produce wealth equal to the capital stock of all the banks in the New York clearing house in three months and have a week to spare. In less than 60 days she can equal the total production of all the gold mines in the United States. She can produce as much wealth in six months as all the iron mines in the country can produce in a year. Give her one year and 10 months and she will pay off the interest bearing debt of the United States. The above is from a speech made in Congress by Dawson of Iowa.

GAME BIRDS ON THE FARM.

The rapid decline of the game birds of America has demanded the production of something to take their place. For some time past squabs have been raised extensively as a substitute for quail and birds of that nature. Now some of the poultry plants in the east are producing guineas. Guinea broilers are said to be superior to prairie chicken. They find a ready market at large hotels and restaurants as prairie chickens. The birds are easily raised. They require very little attention and are not susceptible to the diseases common to chickens. It is deemed advisable to keep them in an enclosure until about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. After that they may be given the whole farm. The idea is to keep them shut up so they will lay where the eggs can be found. Another important point is to give an abundance of room in their enclosure. The guinea is a semi-civilized fowl, and if you try to use entirely civilized means in caring for it, you will be apt to fail.

POULTRY NOTES.

With proper exercise there is not much liability of the fowls being over-fat.

Lime, gravel and bone should be kept where the fowls can help themselves.

Growing chickens and laying hens should be well supplied with bones or shells.

Egg-eating is a habit that can be cured only by killing the hen. It is contagious.

A pound of poultry can be grown at less cost than a pound of beef, and it is worth more.

Clean dirt is a first class disinfectant and purifier, and so long as it is dry and friable can hardly be used to excess.

Introduce new blood into the flock every year by either buying cockerels or a setting of eggs from a reliable breeder.

Fowls affected with contagious diseases may be predisposed beforehand, and though cured should not be used for breeding.

A dark nest is a hen's choice every time. A nest on the floor is preferable to one where the hen is compelled to fly up to reach it.

Liberal feeding means liberal profits. As a rule, feed well, or kill the flock. Oats may be fed as a change twice a week.

Agents can make an average of $7.00 per day selling the Pump Equalizers made by the Equalizer Mfg. Co., Waseca, Minn. Write them for particulars and mention this paper.

Kids.

I wonder why some pas have none,
And others have so many.
It seems the poor pas have the most,
And rich ones haven't any.

The richest man I know in town
Has just one small boy only;
But pa says, Gad! he pities him
In that big house so lonely.

It seems to me 'twould be so nice
If kids all come out even;
And when I asked pa why they don't,
He said, "Be quiet, Stephen!"

Then fam'lies all'd have bills like pa,
For us five kids together,
He says, would bust a cattle man.
We wear out so much leather.

But when the circus comes to town
Pa's glad he has so many,
For he has more fun takin' us
Than if he hadn't any.

My pa says some day that he'll be
Too old to go on workin',
And then he hopes that none of us
Our duty will be shirkin.

You bet we won't! We all love pa,
But wouldn't it be funny
To have your father hangin' round
And askin' you for money?

I've' most a quarter in my bank
To buy a bullet molder,
But now I think I'll save it up
For pa when he gets older.
—May Kelly, in Lippincott's.

THE PROPER ANGLE.

There is no getting around the fact that the bread giver on the farm has a hard time of it generally, but especially during the summer months. I think if we would stop for a few moments and review the past three months we will see our labors in a different light.

In my own case I can see that it was not so much work as worry that wore me out. In looking back I see that several times a week during that period my work was really and truly done—I had caught up. At the time, however, I did not realize the fact. Instead I worried about the vast amount of work awaiting me. I did not let my mind rest while my body tried to take comfort.

We women are appalled by the work of the future, and disheartened by the prospect. We forget to rejoice that we have achieved so much in fulfilling our destiny, and enjoy the present lull.

If we did we should gather new strength with which to meet the work ahead, and accomplish it with far greater ease than if we worried about it.

If we have done our duty in the past, and are doing it at present, we need not fear that the future will bring us burdens we cannot bear.

Stand off from your "life" for a little while, look at it and get the proper angle, and sun up the result.

If we look at our work along the slant angle we will see it is drudgery pure and simple.

If we look at it by the angle of love and willingness it will become sweet and easy, and our service to those we love will become a rite that ennobles us.

Try this plan: When you awake some bright morning, look at the new day from the angle of cheerfulness and goodfellowship, and that day will pass as a pleasant dream.

Another bright day view it from the angle of self-pity and egotism, and you will find your work exceedingly irksome, and by night your heart will be sore and rebellious.

Which plan is best?

The old-fashioned soft soap, the making of which in a big kettle out in the yard was one of the first duties of early summer, has been superseded in these modern days by soap that is equally good and at the same time not so hard on the hands, in either the making or the using. For this take one can of patent lye to two tomato cans of grease. Dissolve the lye in cold water, heat the grease, and when both are lukewarm pour the lye into the grease, stirring all the time. Add immediately one cup of ammonia and two tablespoonfuls of borax which has been dissolved in one-half teacup of water. Stir until as thick as honey. Pour into a baking tin the bottom of which has been covered with paper. Crease in squares in a few hours and in a couple of days break apart and put in a warm place to dry. It will be ready for use in a week, but is better if kept a month.

For a simple paste that will keep a year, and easy to make, get an ounce of the best gum tragacanth at a drug store. Sometimes it comes in a lump, and sometimes it is shaved. If the former, pick it clean; if the latter, pick any trash out of it and put it into a wide-mouthed jar. Pour on it one and a half pints of clear, cold, soft water; cover the jar and let stand for twenty-four hours. Then stir the gum all through with a stick, and add a few drops of oil of wintergreen or oil of sassafras, stirring it well into the mass, to prevent the paste from souring. Stir it several times that day, then leave it to form a smooth, white mass like thick jelly. Take out a small glassful, and cover the rest closely and set aside for future use.

International Live Stock Exposition, December 1 to 8, 1906, Chicago.

The dean of the college of agriculture in one of our leading agricultural states should be well equipped to advise as to the value of the great exposition to the country generally, and to his state in particular, therefore, to give the benefit of expert testimony to the American people, Dean Curtiss, of Iowa Agricultural College, was asked to write an article on the International, and here follows:

"The educational influence of a great live stock show as the International, can not be fully estimated. The success of the International has been phenomenal. Each year it appeals to a wider constituency. It is truly international in its scope. The magnitude and excellence of its exhibits has been a marvel to foreign visitors. The magnificent new pavilion was overtaxed the first year, and the ring has been extended to make room for the coming show. No other show on either continent brings together such an array of superior breeding stock and prime animals fit for the block, as may be seen at this show. This feature is particularly interesting and instructive. The block test furnishes the final proof of excellence and affords a standard to measure the value of types and breeds. This is the one great contest where breeds meet in competition after individual excellence has been measured within the breeds.

"A feature of marked interest in this battle royal is the work of the foreign judge, who annually passes on the championship classes. For exacting task, the most competent judges of Great Britain have been selected Sheppard swine measure strength for supremacy in the show ring and on the block. In the carload classes the competition is equally as sharp and here again, animal excellence is measured by the practical standard of market demands.

"Probably the keenest and most inspiring battle of the show is seen when the great draft horses in harness, of all breeds and all countries, meet on the tan bark, clad in the armor of peaceful though mighty warfare. It is this final challenge of the best of each breed, and of breed to breed, in the form of an ultimatum following the scrimmages down the state fair circuits, that gives an intense interest to International ring. The 1906 International promises to be, in every way a fitting climax to a show season of unparalleled records."

THE BACON HOG.

From the booming that the packers are giving the bacon hog the uninitiated would think that they were the only thing in the porcine line at present worthy of being grown on the farm. There is no doubt that the bacon hog is the hog for the farmer in the north, but along with this talk that is how going the rounds of the farm press there should be said about the feeding and management of His Baconship. We are the last ones to tell farmers to tumble into the breeding of something or crossing with something they know nothing about. The farmer who knows nothing about the bacon hogs has best learn something of them before he undertakes their breeding. There is no getting around the fact that the bacon hogs will be a good thing for the packers, but what will the packers do to show that they are really interested in the production of them.

The bacon hog has always taken more time and feed to grow than any other type, and consequently should bring a figure commensurate with the cost. Will the packers tell us whether the farmer who grows hogs to their order will receive a profitable price for his product? A few sidelights on the prices these hogs will be able to command over the fat hog from the corn belt will greatly interest us. One thing the packers have not advised the farmers to do is to sell off their pure bred hogs and go into the bacon hog exclusively. They only advise crossing with bacon hogs when bacon hogs when the farmer is not growing pure bred article. The successful breeder would not change his breed, no matter how much advised he was. He is doing well enough as he is. The man who will change breeds quickly is the one who cannot make success of the hog he is breeding, and he would fail, no matter what he was working with.—Western Swine Breeder.

THE DAIRY PIG.

There is no animal that can turn the tail ends of dairying into gold as fast as his majesty, the pig. All dairy are not successful in raising pigs, but in spite of this fact dairy farmers generally should try to keep a small rove. It is not necessary that these should be thoroughbreds. In fact, I could not advise this at the start because it represents too heavy an outlay for breeding stock. Nobody has better facilities for maturing pigs quickly than the dairy farmer with plenty of skim-milk. The best type is the hog that matures quickly, is prolific and turns all dairy waste into ready cash. He should be an easy feeder, and not too large.

HOG NOTES.

Are the hogs lousy? If so get after them as suggested for mange.

The fall pigs should be coming now. Don't neglect them for you may need the money next spring.

Just watch those slab-sided hogs fill out when fall pastures revive and corn is added to their ration.

Fall rye and winter wheat will make pasture for hogs until snow covers it. It takes quite a freeze to kill rape.

Begin rather slowly on new corn. If the corn is fed green while the stalk is fresh and the grain in the milk and kept up until the corn is mature there is little danger.

The only way there is any money in fall pigs is to have a warm dry place to winter them in. Then they will grow right along and be ready to market in May or June.

If the hogs are naked and rough skinned look out for mange. Dip them a few times, and disinfect the shed and burn the old bedding. Don't harbor the disease another week.

Keep the fall pigs growing. A good rich slop of ground grain and tankage if no skim milk is fed, once a day and an ear of corn once will, with pasture, keep them on the gain.

New corn does not give hogs cholera. It only throws their whole system so completely out of order when not fed with caution that disease can not be resisted by the hogs. If cholera germ are about they find a very suitable home in the weakened hogs.

Don't sell the good brood sows this year. There is a temptation to let them go and use young sows. It is a bad practice. Keep a sow as long as she is any good. How many have sows ten years old? Only a few breeders who know their business.

When a pig comes hurrying to his breakfast with a glad squeal it is a sign his health is at par.

Fall pigs will soon be due? What is the condition of your sows?

Clean pork depends on more than the packing.

No matter how sanitary the packing plant, the garbage fed hog can't make No. 1 pork.

Circumstances After Cases.

"Some partners," said Dr. R. A. Torrey, the well-known evangelist, "remind me of one of the women managers at a fashionable bazaar. They do very well for themselves, but not quite so well for the firm. This woman manager, the day before the bazaar opened, was engaged, along with another woman, in putting the prices on the goods.

"In due course the busy pair came to a superb oriental rug.

"A Khazak rug," said one woman "On the ticket the cost price is put at $125. When shall we mark it to be sold at?"

"Oh, what a beauty!" cried the other. "I've been wanting one for my library for the longest time. Just mark it $30, and I'll buy it myself."—Journal of Agriculture.

CHAS. G. MILLER,

"If a newspaper man knew how many knocks he received behind his back he would adopt another calling," remarked a citizen the other day. The citizen was mistaken. The news paper man who succeeds expects to be maligned by every law breaker, swindler and hypocrite, every harping critic, every lover of notoriety who is ignored and in fact by all persons who don't agree with him on public and private matters. Dead beats also take a knock at him. The newspaper man who expects to get through life without being misrepresented and unjustly censured should make arrangements to die young.—Rockfor, Ohio, Press.

A prospector remarked to us a few days ago that he didn't see how this county ever did anything, that it didn't raise much of anything except feed stuff and alfalfa. Leaving out the many other crops which this man ignored it is probable that he was not very well acquainted with alfalfa. This product sells for $10 to $15 per ton and produces three and four tons a year. Not being acquainted with the gentleman's idea of what constitutes a good paying crop we can't say whether $35 per acre off of $15 per acre and is what he considers a paying proposition.—Banner Stockman.

YOUNG STOCK FOR SALE

THE DAIRY DEPARTMENT

THE COW PAYS CASH.

Dairying is a cash business. The cow pays for her board every day if she is the right kind, and in this connection the wise dairyman is particular to note whether the cows do pay for their board or not, as he is not anxious to run a charitable institution.

Milk, butter and cheese are always cash products, and the dairyman is not obliged to wait six months or longer for returns from his efforts, consequently he runs no bills of any kind.

He sells for cash and buys for cash and gets the benefits of all discounts.

He always has money and many dairymen pay their hired men every Saturday night, the same as manufacturers do.

Dairying is not a good business however, for the man who likes to be away from home part of the time and who entrusts the management of his business in part to others.

Dairying by proxy seldom proves satisfactory or remunerative, and men with many irons in the fire had better cut out dairying; they will do far better in some other line of live stock farming that does not require the constant watchfulness and personal supervision demanded by the cow and her produce.

Then too the by-product from the dairy has more value than that from other industries of the farm, and especially when butter is the only commodity sold and the skim milk and buttermilk are fed on the farm.

There is no feeding value or fertility in butter worth considering; it is all in the skimmilk, and this when rightly used brings good returns in many ways.

There is no business of the farm that pays as well as dairying when right methods are in vogue in every detail of the business, and when the proprietor is wide awake and anxious to improve and take advantage of every condition that promises improvement in cows, feed and feeding, care of animals and marketing the products.

If a dairyman is to know what each cow is producing he must either churn the cream separately or test it and the test is far the easier and much more accurate; and what farmer can afford to keep cows and not know what each one is producing?

If he does not know their value for the dairy, from what shall he raise calves? Shall he guess at it?

Then the poorest cow will perhaps have a equal chance to live and eat up the profit made by a good cow and also perpetuate her kind.

SMALL SEPARATORS FOR THE FARM.

The plan of having small separators on the farms and sending only the cream to the factory is now quite common and on the increase. The skimmilk is thus made available at once for feeding and is warm, sweet and not adulterated with factory washings. The cream only needs to be cared for and delivered to the factory, making quite a saving in labor of transportation. The cream gathering plan will do away with the return to the farm of the contents of a filthy skimmilk tank that contaminates milk cans and endangers the lives of calves and pigs. The chance of young stock taking a disease that may be on a distant farm, the germs of which may be delivered to the creamery and carried away in the skimmilk to other farms, is thus avoided.

Any system which does away with the seemingly useless labor of handling 8 or 10 pounds for the delivery of one will be most welcome.

In the season of bad roads it is a hard job to haul large loads of cans, and sometimes it is impossible to transport milk to the creamery when cream alone might be carried.

Besides the advantage of having to haul only a small amount instead of a large amount, it is an advantage to have cream removed on the farm so that the skimmilk may be fed when fresh.

The gathered cream system with deep set milk gives these results only partially.

DAIRY NOTES.

It costs more to produce certified milk, but it brings more, too.

Running a cow to and from pasture is like throwing money away.

Other things being equal, the cow that is not afraid of her owner will do best.

A new cattle barn costing $20,000 is to be built for the agricultural college in Ohio.

It is surprising to see how much better care a herd will get when the farmer begins to test.

Bad tastes and foul odors in milk are usually caused by bacteria which enter after the milk is drawn.

Some cows will chew their cuds during the milking process, some won't even eat. It depends on the milker.

Every milker thinks he knows how to milk. The cows often have a different opinion, and they are best able to judge.

In feeding the dairy cow liberality is the best policy. Find out how much she can use to good advantage, and then give her that much.

There is a woman up in Minnesota who has about 10 acres of land. She keeps 10 cows and from these she gets between $1,000 and $1,100 a year beside the dairy products used in the family. She buys all the feed.

The Markets.

St. Joe Markets.

So. St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 23, 1906
A better tone prevailed the cattle market today in all departments, supplies were about normal at this point but there was an initiation in the movement of buyers that they regard the big storm in the west as threatening to immediate supplies in the way of curtailing the range movement of stock. Native steers sold strong to 10c higher although there was nothing here on the really good to choice order, the best selling at $5.75 with a fair showing at $5.00 @ $5.60. Range steers were strong to 10c higher for grassers and 15c to 20c higher for short fed stuff. All classes of fat cow and heifer stock sold steady, but canners did not meet much favor. Good quality feeding cattle sold actively at firm prices but everything in the stocker line was steady to a shade lower.

Hog receipts continue to moderate volume but show a small tendency to increase. The packers are continuing their bearish movements and have succeeded in putting prices down about 10c this week. It is likely however, that the market may show about the same movement as last week and finish up with a firmer tone. There is nothing in the movement of hogs to indicate that the country will sell except at satisfactory prices, and with hogs as healthy as they are coming, it is likely that old tactics will prevail with the producers and shipments be curtailed on serious breaks. The market here today was quite active with prices averaging around 5c lower than Monday. Hogs sold largely at $6.15 to $6.27½ with tops making $6.30. Receipts are continuing to run quite liberally to light and medium sized droves with only a fair showing of mediums and heavies and remarkably few little pigs for this season of the year, all of which favor moderate supplies and good health of hogs in red-lots.

LIVESTOCK AT 1909 FAIR.

Executive Committee of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exhibition Makes Appropriation for Exhibition.

Seattle.—The executive committee of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition has set aside $100,000 for a superior livestock show to be a surprising feature of the fair. The decision to spend so large a sum for the stock show at the fair is regarded locally as one of the most useful features in the exposition outlook. The northwest is tremendously interested in livestock, and the eastern breeders are coming more and more to appreciate the importance of the market for fancy breeds opening before them. The result is certain to be a show far excelling anything of the sort ever before attempted in America. The stock show at the Portland fair, which was to most people's thinking the most attractive feature of the cozy exposition, cost only $40,000.

The show is to be held under direction of the livestock committee of the exposition, of which J. W. Glise, president of the Washington Trust Co., of Seattle, and an authority on livestock is chairman. Associated with Mr. Glise are C. D. Stimson, W. Paulhams of Puyallup, D. Edward Frederick and Theodore N. Haller.

"We westerners are not yet an industrial people," said Mr. Glise in discussing the coming show. "We are for the most part farmers and stockraisers. The people of Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington are all stock raisers. Show me a man anywhere who has become well-to-do on his farm and is not interested in live stock."

"We will have at this fair not only the best that the northwest can raise, but the best herds from all over America. Besides, there will be extensive importations from abroad made especially for the show at Seattle."

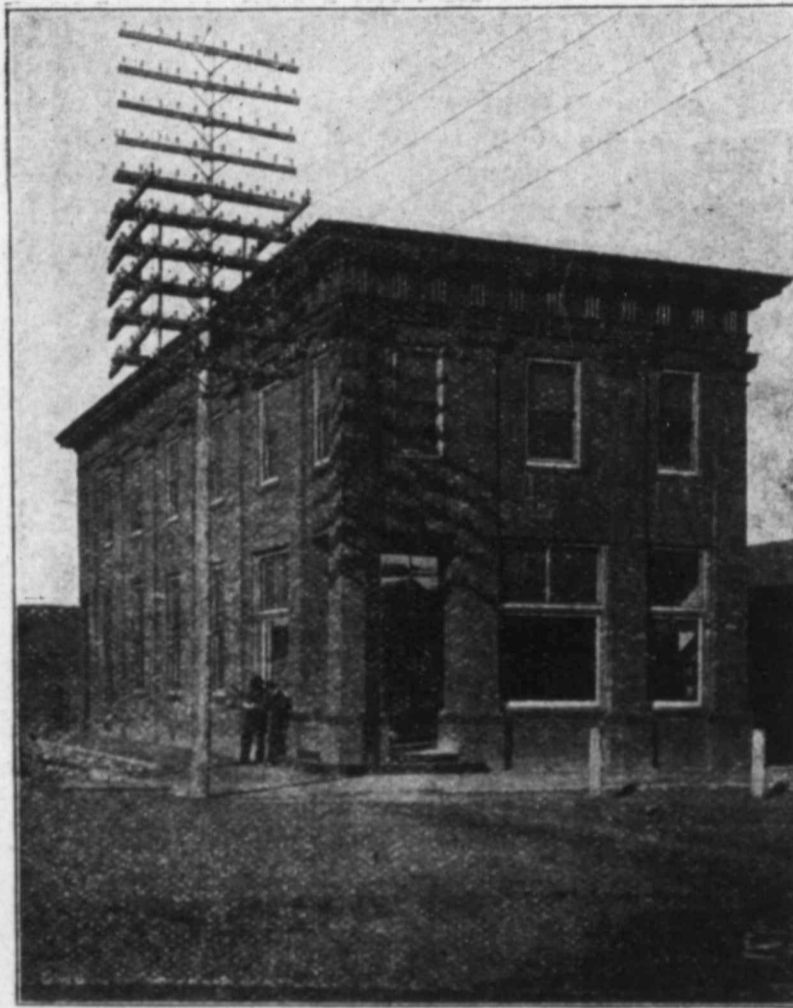

It is becoming increasingly evident that the Pacific northwest is an ideal region for stock raising. The coast countries where the rainfall is heaviest, afford pasture almost the year round, making the problem of winter feed almost nil. On the ranges in the eastern part of Washington and Idaho the farmers are coming to raise alfalfa by irrigation for feed, a few acres thus adapted being sufficient to keep a large herd during the short time when pasturage is poor.

Sheep likewise are proving big money-makers, and the sheepman are improving their herds from year to year. The western farmer is not particularly strong on hogs as yet, because he has not yet developed a corn that can be grown in this wet climate, with its cold nights, in competition with that of the middle-west. A fair substitute has been found in alfalfa and vetches, however, and the number of hogs raised is increasing every year. The biggest hog in the world, shown at the Portland fair last year, was raised by Kiddle Brothers of Isand City, Oregon.

At the Portland fair, Oregon and Washington cattle won repeatedly in competition with the world. The best cow at the St. Louis show was Lucretia D., owned by W. M. Ladd of Portland. P. A. Frakes, of Seapoose, who had lived on his farm for seventeen years, improving at every opportunity his herd of Holsteins,
