Campus Sweater Fashions

BY EDNA MILES

COLLEGE girls are the last to want a change in their sweater fashions. Fashions are created on the campus, true, but once a co-ed becomes fond of Bermuda shorts or plaid slacks or a simple cashmere sweater, her loyalty is likely to hold for her entire campus career.

While jeweled and fur-trimmed sweaters were generally popular outside the campus, college girls would have nothing to do with them, not even for date wear.

Now the fashion picture with regard to campus sweater fashions is changing slightly. College girls still don't want anything elaborate but they no longer cling to the pullover and cardigan. Too warm and often too bulky, they say. If they wear pullover and cardigan as a set, and they still do, the cardigan goes over the shoulders only.

They'll now take their cashmeres with slight trim, three-quarter length sleeves, convertible neckline. And they like both pastel and vivid tones on the campus. This fall, silver green Collared slipover is cut with V-neckline that can be worn high or folded back. Three-quarter sleeves have buttoned-over cuffs.

haze blue, pink and mustard new. While college girls are partial to cashmeres, they also like lambs wool and wool-and-angora sweaters if they have the classic cashmere styling.

stable, 2,216; Leonard Lang, county Democratic chairman, 2,311; Harold Simms, Precinct 1 chairman, 763; J. M. Burleson, Precinct 2 chairman, 589; Robert J. Beasley, Precinct 3 chairman, 304; and H. L. Holleman, Precinct 4 chairman, 350.

Here is how voting went concerning the three troublesome referendums, No. 1 (mixed schools) 2,367 AGAINST and 563 FOR; No. 2 (mixed marriages) 2,435 AGAINST, 477 FOR, and No. 3 (interposition) 2,364 FOR and 378 AGAINST.

Election judges reported much confusion and time lost because of the tricky wording to the first two referendums. Some say that they do not believe the counts, which show many to be in favor of the first two items, to be a true picture of the voters' wishes.

County Clerk Wade Yandell said this morning that absentee balloting for the Aug. 25 A total of 213 were cast in such fashion for Saturday's election.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA — Pictured here, left to right, are Dr. Ghamal Nabi Lasi of Pakistan; Richie Privitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Privitt, and Robert L. Bowers Jr., both of Brownfield. Dr. Lasi, 29-year-old anatomist, is one of 19 persons who visited Tuesday and Wednesday in Brownfield under the sponsorship of the Rotary Club and the Association for World Travel Exchange. A qualified medical doctor, the Pakistani is now living in London, doing postgraduate work, but will return to Liaquat University in Pakistan in two years to a professorship of five years duration in service with the government. Bowers and Dr. Lasi were exchanging information on the workings of government in their respective countries and finding that actual mechanics of both governments are much alike. Young people are taking more and more active interest in Pakistan, Dr. Lasi observed, but its development is slower because of lower economic standards. While in Brownfield, Dr. Lasi was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Privitt at 504 South C. (Staff Photo)

MEDICAL FORM DISCUSSED—Center of interest in the picture above is the Medical Record Form required of Brownfield children who will enter school for the first time this fall. They may be had at South Plains Health Unit from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday, Thursday and Friday. From left standing, they are Dr. Tim Faulkenberry, president of the PTA Council; Vernon Brewer, principal of Jessie G. Randal, and Bryan Jones, principal of Colonial Heights. From left seated: Mrs. Bob Campbell, PTA's representative, and Mrs. Lewis Simmons of the unit. Birth certificate, medical examination, medical record signed by doctor and shots (whooping cough, small pox, diphtheria)—these will be required of each child, officials have said. (Staff Photo)

Brownfield All-Stars Lashed by Snyder

The Snyder Little League All-Stars, unleashing a bombastic barrage of base-hits, measured Brownfield's Little League's 29 to 1, in the district semifinals played in the Southwestern Pony League ballpark at Lubbock Wednesday night.

Charles Gladson, the Snyder second baseman, was the key in the 25-hit Snyder attack that rattled the fences in all corners of the park. Gladson hit three homers, two of them grand slammers, and his mates produced 10 other extra base hits.

Both teams failed to score in the first inning but Snyder broke loose in the top of the second and when the dust had cleared, 16 runs had crossed the plate.

Brownfield's lone tally came in the bottom of the sixth when Woody Harbin connected for a four bagger to save the local lads from being shut out.

Brownfield earned the right to appear in the district finals by defeating Andrews, 7 to 6, in the area Finals that were played here last Friday.

Commissioner's Son Family Return Home

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Burnett, son and daughter-in-law of Commissioners and Mrs. Bob Burnett, returned this week to their home at Farmington N. M.

The younger Burnetts had been convalescing here after dismissal from an Albuquerque hospital, where they were taken following a May 9 auto crash.

The commissioner said this morning that his son "was greatly improved and probably would return to work soon." Mrs. Burnett will have casts removed from her legs in Albuquerque this week. They are accompanied by his mother and three sisters, Laura Lea, Peggy Jo and Mrs. Doyle Rowland.

Evangelical Methodist Revival Is Scheduled

The Rev. J. C. Waters Jr., pastor of Evangelical Methodist Church of Brownfield, has announced the beginning of an open air revival to be held at 907 South Eight from Aug. 1 through Aug. 10.

The Rev. Jack Wease will be the evangelist and Zed Robinson of Enochs will do the singing. The Rev. Wease was graduated from Asbury College in Kentucky, and is now a resident of Dallas.

Ruidoso Downs Sets Peter McCue Stakes

The Peter McCue Stakes, named in honor of one of the greatest short horses of all times, is slated to be run this Saturday at Ruidoso Downs.

The race—a 400-yard dash—spotlights a field of seven of the best quarter horses on the grounds. Co-favored in this race will be Bob's Folly and Brigand. Both have shown disappointing efforts in their last attempts, but should live up to their reputations in this race.

Captain Dick, equal weighted with Brigand at 122 pounds, has run two very good seconds at Ruidoso. Sure Now, running third Saturday to Go Man Go, should improve this

mum on their farm east of Meadow. A cross between Johnsongrass and some other sorghum, the plant apparently has made its first appearance in Terry county. The Doaks have five acres of it. They got their seed from a brother-in-law at Wellington. It's averaging about 6 feet in height. Doaks said that he planted the sorghum alnum last May 20, and will sell the seed. It's a perennial, which needs replacing every four years. The sorghum has been grown by the Lubbock Experiment Station for more than 10 years. Officials there say Common and Sweet Sudan both appear to be superior. The seed shatter, they say, making seed harvest a problem and making it a weed problem when it is followed with other crops. However, Doaks is enthusiastic about it and plans, perhaps, to follow it through.

Drouth Forces Supplementary Dairy Feeding

The lack of moisture in many areas of the state has stopped the growth of pasture plants and brought about a need for supplementary feeding of dairy herds.

Farm management specialists of the Texas A&M College System point out as plants mature, their nutritive value declines, especially the percentage of protein.

As protein content of the roughage drops, the loss must be offset by increasing the protein in the concentrate ration if top milk production is to be maintained.

plants.
They also offer a tip on buying hay. The best buy, they say, usually is hay which was cut while the plants were young. Hay from such plants is higher in leafiness and protein content and is actually a better buy even at a higher price than is hay made from mature

Fertilizer Sales Are Increasing At Rate of 10 Per Cent Annually

Fertilizer sales are increasing at the rate of about 10 per cent a year, reports Gordon B. Nance, University of Missouri. This is a remarkable growth for any established industry, he said, having been attained by only a few venturesome ones such as air-conditioning and television.

Statistically-wise, according to Mr. Nance, in a recent 10-year period, steel production increased 50 per cent, electricity increased 115 per cent and fertilizer production increased 270 per cent.

Nance said the fertilizer industry has a growth potential much greater than "for any other I know, either established or new. The products of using fertilizer have been established and demonstrated for as long as I can remember.
These have been called to the attention of practically every farmer and other person that can read, hear or see. Fertilizer pays dividends at a rate that is almost unbelievable to investors in general or to farmers."

Consider the Return

Nance said: "Let us consider the rate of return on some of the more popular investments.
General Motors pays less than 5 per cent, Standard Oil of New Jersey and U. S. Steel 3½ per cent, General Electric 3 per cent, and DuPont 2½ per cent. People bid up the prices of these stocks to where the returns are this low."

"Compare this to the returns received from fertilizer. The data in the form that suited me best were from below-average corn belt land planted to corn which was priced at $1.20 a bushel. The first $6 worth of fertilizer per acre returned 291 per cent, the second $6 worth 227 per cent, and so on, and they had to use $40 worth an acre before the return from the last addition declined to 5 per cent."

"The marvel of the ages is that while everyone knows this, practically no one acts on it—and I mean practically no one.
I don't know 'ary one man who does. How many of you—that own farms and supposedly know what fertilizer will do—use fertilizer to the extent that the last increment returns only the current interest rate? It would only embarrass you. But if and when I go to farming on my own—not in partnership—I'm going to apply fertilizer until the last $1 worth barely returns that dollar. It is not that I will want to swap dollars, but that I want to make sure of getting the maximum profit on the preceding amounts, and I will count on what's left after the first year paying interest on the last dollar's worth."

Why Fear Risk?

"Some have advanced the idea that farmers are loath to make investments, and that the risk of having a bad year in which they do not get their fertilizer money back limits fertilizer use. This may be true. If it is true, it is indeed strange that they raise, buy and feed cattle and sheep, that on an average pay $1.24 for each $1 worth of feed consumed, and one year in five doesn't even pay $1 back, he said."

"Others have said that it is lack of finances and credit that prevents increased use of fertilizer. I am not impressed by this argument either. Farmer's debts are less than 10 per cent of their total assets and less than their liquid assets—cash, bonds, etc. Of course, some farmers lack money or credit to buy fertilizer, but these are indeed a very small percentage."

Blind Spot Will Go

"Sooner or later this mental blind spot in regard to fertilizer will disappear, and farmers will use fertilizer as businessmen use other factors of production—they will apply fertilizer up to the amount that the last increment returns only its cost plus the going interest rate. Then, fertilizer use will be perhaps 6 to 10 times the piddling little 30 to 40 pounds now used on the average acre of cropland and pasture in the United States and the 50 to 60 pounds used in Missouri."

"Now don't ask me when we will use 6 to 10 times as much fertilizer as we do now. It is likely to be several years, but I'm certain that the increase in the next decade will be 2 or 3 times as rapid as in the last 10 years."

Are You Watching For COTTON INSECTS In Your Cotton Regularly?

HERE ARE SOME COMMENTS FROM YOUR COUNTY AGENT

- ... There seems to be a little lull in most fields that have been examined lately. However, this does not mean for you to forget your cotton.
- ... We suggest that you check your cotton every day, or at least every other day. By doing this, your insects cannot get very far ahead before you can do an effective job of killing them.
- ... Caution . . . Do not poison just because your neighbor is poisoning. Too much money, time, and effort is being spent by poisoning un-necessarily.
- ... If you are a irrigation farmer, we suggest you watch closely for boll worms.
- ... For dry land farmers, keep watching for flea hoppers, and boll worms.

IN TIMES OF COMMUNITY'S FAILURE

Only Residents Really Can Save Town

Every now and then some American community finds itself in deep economic trouble — a possibility that is greatest in areas which are heavily dependent on one industrial company or one farm crop for their wherewithal. Then, as the Wall Street Journal points out, varied courses of community action are open. A common one is to turn to the government for assistance, and have the town named a "disaster area." But this, even if successful, usually turns out to be only a palliative. And, the paper says, "the palliative, by removing the sense of urgency, has too often deterred the people themselves from building their community better."

Another course of action is for the community to get down to work and solve its problems by its own efforts. An outstanding example of this is South Bend, Indiana. John D. Williams, also writing in the Wall Street Journal, tells what has been done there.

For a century, South Bend was pretty much a one-company town, and Studebaker (now Studebaker-Packard) was the company. If Studebaker was doing well, the town did well. If Studebaker suffered hard times and cut the payroll, the town felt that in its vitals.

Studebaker, together with some other motor companies, has been undergoing financial storms. According to Mr. Williams, it "is having the toughest time of its century." South Bend naturally hopes the company will come back and prosper. But, important as Studebaker is to South Bend, it is no longer the dominant factor. As an ex-mayor told Mr. Williams, "There's not that desperate feeling any more."

THANK YOU TERRY COUNTY

I am Grateful!

that South Bend is not now a one-company town. Some three years ago a committee was established and a delegation was sent to Birmingham, Alabama, to study that city's extremely successful booster group. Then $385,000 was raised to promote the South Bend area "as a good place for new business."

The going wasn't easy. In the first year, not even one company was gained. A blow was suffered when the Singer Manufacturing Company moved elsewhere. The committee redoubled its efforts. Person-to-person sales talks were made to likely prospects. One factory came in. Then another. Mr. Williams writes, "And so the parade grew, each little bit adding up to a lot."

All in all, about 24 new companies have come to South Bend and the neighboring town of Mishawaka. Their products include doors, industrial displays, furniture, sun glasses, tools, plastic boats and so on. The committee is still hard at work.

As a result, despite Studebaker's troubles and greatly reduced employment, South Bend savings deposits, retail sales, residential construction, and other standard barometers of economic conditions are holding up and in some cases showing gains. South Bend people, Mr. Williams reports, are "convinced they've weathered their worst economic storms; the town is shored up, battered down and determined to stay prosperous."

The moral is expressed in the last line of the Wall Street Journal's editorial: "It remains true that whatever people build for themselves is the best built."

THE AMERICAN WAY

BOSS PUBLIC

By George Peck

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Chairman of the Board or the National Labor-Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.)

In the final analysis, Mr. John Q. Public is the boss. This columnist has not hesitated from time to time over the years to criticize certain actions of certain businesses and businessmen. While championing the cause of our American Capitalistic System of Free Enterprise, I have not been blind to the fact that certain injustices have been committed. It is an indisputable fact that, after all, businessmen are simply human beings and it is inevitable that some have not been without sin. But, because of this, businessmen as a whole should not be condemned, no more than should the Christian churches because an occasional minister or priest fails to live up to the high standards of his noble calling.

Businessmen who, in the past, resorted to unfair practices, in the long run, automatically eliminated themselves from the business picture. It did not require the passage of legislation to attain that salutary result—Boss Public took care of it. Those few businessmen who now are not playing the game according to the rules set up by society, eventually will be expelled from the business arena. Further, those who, in the future, selfishly disregard the rights of others, also will fall by the wayside. As in the past Boss Public will see to that.

But as time goes on more and more businessmen are coming to realize that it is good business to deal the cards off the top of the deck—that honesty and fairness are essential to permanent success—that Boss Public must be obeyed. And honest, fair businessmen more and more decry the small minority of dishonest ones among them, and are doing all in their power to expose and expel these parasites. See AMERICAN, Page 3

AUSTIN—Texas' teacher shortage and some reasons for it are spotlighted in two reports just released.

With school bells due to ring in a month, an estimated 7,615 teaching positions still are vacant in Texas, according to the Texas State Teachers Association. To fill these jobs only 1,310 teachers are known to be available.

This means six openings for each teacher wanting a job, said TSTA Executive Secretary Charles Tennyson. Almost 4,000 teachers left the profession last year.

Apparently explanation for this wholesale snubbing of classroom posts came in statistics reported by Dr. Hob Gary of the University of Texas as Teacher Placement Bureau.

This year's education graduates will average $346 per month for nine months, said Dr. Gray. But the engineering-science graduate can expect $431 per month all year.

Teachers with master's degrees do a little better, averaging $358 monthly. But a master's degree in engineering or science commands an average salary of $557.

Almost all University graduates go to schools paying more than state minimum requirements, said Dr. Gray. Highest school salaries in the state are at the West Texas oil town of Snyder. There the beginning minimum is $4,000 for nine months, or $445 monthly.

Less affluent districts have to scramble. University graduates can be quite choosy since demands for their services are exceptionally high. Ratio of jobs to graduates is 10 to one in all positions, 100 to one in mathematics and science.

Court Upholds Union Shop—Texas' controversial right-to-work law has lost another round in the courts. But champions of the law say the issue is far from being finally settled.

By a 6-to-3 decision the State Supreme Court upheld a closed shop contract between unions and Santa Fe Railway Co.

Texas law prohibits compulsory union membership, but a 1951 act of Congress authorized closed shops in the railway industry.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepherd, who had intervened on behalf of Texas law, predicted a motion for rehearing after the court reconvenes Oct. 3. "The full question of compulsory union membership is yet to be determined," said Shepherd. "Nor do I think the majority decision abrogates our right-to-work law."

Their decision, majority judges noted, paralleled a U. S. Supreme Court ruling in a similar case from Nebraska. Union shop contracts, said the Texas ruling, do not "compel full union membership, but only assessments."

Dissenting judges spoke out against "Compulsory financial support of a private organization by those who do not subscribe to its program" as "the chief evil to be forever prohibited."

1957 Road Program Announced—Plans to spend $229,000,000 on building new roads in 1957 have been outlined by the Texas Highway Department.

In addition, $35 million will be spent on maintenance. Through the federal aid bill, Uncle Sam will absorb $117,000,000 of the $2654,000,000 total.

Motorists can look forward to smooth sailing on the road planned under the new federal-state building program. Some 3,000 miles of modern expressways without cross traffic or railway crossings are due in the near future, said State Highway Engineer De Witt Greer. Many will be divided highways. Two-lane roads will be built so two more lanes can be added.

In anticipation of this flood of highway spending, road contractors are trying to get enough engineers and skilled laborers to do the work. Texas Highway Branch, Associated General Contractors, is considering two plans.

One is to grant scholarships at engineering colleges. Another is to set up a training school on operation of machinery and heavy equipment at some University.

More Integration Predicted—More integration in Texas public schools next year is predicted by the Texas Commission on Race Relations. Austin headquarters of the anti-segregation commission said last week that 300,000 students in 71 districts attended wholly or partially integrated schools last year.

This meant that one in five of the state's 1½ million students and one in 26 school districts were affected. None of See HIGHLIGHTS Page 3

Here's the latest info concerning the participation of Terry farmers in the Soil Bank acreage reserve program. It was released Tuesday by Carl Golden, chairman of the county committee, ASC.

As of the release date, 152 Terry farmers had placed 6,305 acres of cotton and 1,019 acres of wheat in the reserve, for a total of 7,324 acres.

Payments, explained Golden, will approximate $132,650 for the cotton acreage and $6,114 for the wheat.

Attention, farmers: It's still not too late to join the Plains Cotton Growers. PCG has been extremely active during the past few months, and it's working to prevent further reduction of your cotton acreage.

The struggle between East and West Texas, one to increase and the other to hold what it has, still goes on without let-up. PCG was instrumental last month at College Station in getting favorable reaction for reducing the State Reserve from 10 per cent of the allotment to 2 per cent. The final step has not yet been made.

Two Brownfield youths returned this week from Dallas where they took part in the annual statewide convention of Future Farmers of America. Avon Floyd and William Smyrl, Brownfield Chapter members, both brought back Lone Star Farmer Degrees, the highest which they can win on the state level.

In addition, Smyrl was granted a $175 educational award by Santa Fe Railway Company. The two were accompanied by their advisor, Walter Meyer, vocational agriculture teacher in Brownfield High School.

A new publication for High Plains cotton producers has been written by staff members of the Lubbock Experiment Station and published by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station.

The publication, "Cotton Production on the Texas High Plains," includes illustration and the newest research for all phases of cotton production in the Lubbock and South Plains area.

Cong. George Mahon has written the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of efforts made by his office to help with the shortage of cotton bale ties for the 1956 crop.

Mahon has contacted officials of two major bale tie producers and both firms reported no steel bale ties would be available until the present steel strike is settled.

these was located in the eastern quarter of the state nor in the major cities of Houston, Waco, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Ninety Negroes are expected to enroll with some 18,000 white students at the University of Texas this fall. Thirty will be freshmen who, passed admissions tests; 19 transfers from other colleges and about 40 returning graduate students.

This will be the first time for Negroes to attend the University's undergraduate schools.

Vaccine Supply Overflows—In April, Texas had too little polio vaccine for too many people. Today the problem is reversed.

Despite the State Health Department continuing campaign for wider use, Texas turned back 90 per cent of its most recent vaccine allocation. Lack of demand was given as the reason.

In Austin the county polio chapter chairman suggested Salk shots be made compulsory for school entrance, just as smallpox and diphtheria vaccines. School Board members promised to consider it at their meeting August 13.

Short Skirts—Manufacturers will be asked to discontinue production of insecticides containing thallium sulphate, a State Health Department official reports. At least three children have died and dozens more have been hospitalized from thallium poisoning, said the announcement. Texas will be asked to provide 687 men in September draft call, said State Selective Service Headquarters. At the same time draft boards will be asked for 1,140 men to take pre-induction physical and mental examinations. Lower Rio Grande in livestock feed since the first of the year.

The feed formula tested includes mesquite, molasses and cotton seed meal. Grain will be added to the formula for the next feed tests. Ground mesquite averages 1,400 pounds to a ton of feed for herd feed and 1,000 pounds to a ton for calf fattening.

"We tried feeding the mesquite without any grain in the ration," Dr. Shrewsbury said. "This does not work well. However, we feel that if grain and mesquite are combined in the ration, the formula may have value. We expect to test this in the near future."

C. E. Doolin of Rio Vista Farms near Big Wells, Tex., has pioneered the use of mesquite in livestock feeds. J. B. Thompson of Crystal City is planning a feed business based on mesquite and has contracted for the mesquite harvesting in Doolin's ranch.

Doolin has fed 1,200 calves on the mesquite feed during the past three years and reports that they have gained an average of two and a half to three pounds daily. No feed records were kept so the cost of grain cannot be figured. Most of the finished calves brought top prices or the San Antonio market. Medium-size bushes are used in preparing the mesquite feed, using the woody part of the plant and avoiding leaves and twigs. The mesquite is cut by hand, gathered in piles and cured for about two weeks. It is then fed from the piles into a Fitchbrough Chipper. This machine will chip three tons of mesquite an hour from the piles, then blow the chipped mesquite into a truck. It requires three men to operate and the operating cost, not including labor, is $2 an hour. After going through the chipper, the mesquite chips are ground through a hammer mill and come out ready to use in the feed. The final product is fibrous, with fibers about a fourth of an inch long.

from the realm of business. Thus, business as a whole, and without outside regulation, with an assist from Boss Public, purges itself and moves closer and closer to a more idealistic condition.

Some fifteen years ago, an outstanding American business leader who came from the cornfields of Iowa, gave public recognition to this Boss Public. In a speech made before the Seventh International Management Congress at Washington D.C., this ex-Iowan, Lewis H. Brown, then President of the International Management Corporation, had this to say in part:

"We who are responsible for the management of business in supplying the needs of the public for goods and services and who recognize our obligations to stockholders and employees believe:

"That we should constantly seek to provide better values at lower costs so that more people can enjoy more of the world's goods; that we should strive to develop the efficiency of industry so as to earn a fair return for the investing public and provide the highest possible reward for the productivity of labor; that we should stimulate the genius of science and utilize the methods of research to improve old products and create new ones so as to continuously provide new fields of employment; that management should encourage fair trade practice in business which, whether affected by competition or cooperation will be so shaped as to be to the best interest of our customers and of society as a whole; that it is management's duty to be alert to its own shortcomings, to the need for improvement, and to the new requirements of society, while always recognizing the responsibility values your Brownfield merchants are offering you. Mrs. E. G. Oliver of 821 E. Ninth street in Littlefield dropped into the office this week. She wanted to buy a classified ad from us but we decided that it was such a nice tribute that we would make a news item of it instead. It seems that Mrs. Oliver stopped at a local service Sunday and while she was away from her car, someone took her handbag. To quote Mrs. Oliver, "I would like to thank Brownfield police for their cooperation in finding and returning my purse with contents there with the exception of the money." Brownfield police were called as soon as Mrs. Oliver discovered her loss and within five minutes were on the spot. The handbag was found in an alley with only the money missing. Mrs. Oliver was most grateful to get back her valuable papers and I think it is quite a compliment to our local gendarmierie that she would wish to publicly thank them through a newspaper ad.

Just as lucky in recovering stolen articles were Gene Mason, Tommy Street, Gerald Jenkins, and Bob Wilkerson, who slept out in Gene's back yard Saturday night. Sunday morning, Mary Dee went out to wake Tommy to take a phone call but the boys were unable to get up in her presence. Seems some cad had stolen the boys' jeans during the night. After doing some sleuthing on their own and after consulting the police, the boys received a call telling them they could recover their pants, billfolds, etc. if they would be at the high school at 8 Sunday night. Arriving at the school, imagine the chagrin of the four to see their jeans wafting in the breeze atop the flagpole.

And speaking of these teen agers, Gloria and Harold Klein would like to announce that anyone wishing to call them on the telephone now have a wonderful chance of getting a clear line. Joyce, their pert teenager, is at camp near Kerrville for some of us Rotary families to welcome the 19 foreign students who visited here Tuesday and Wednesday, sponsored locally by the Rotary club and nationally by the Association of World Travel Exchange. Our house guest was Dr. Ghamal Nahi Nahi from Pakistan, but studying at the present time in London, and I'm afraid we kept him pretty busy answering questions. It's certainly enlightening to get their views on various subjects and you'll find that most Europeans are quite frank in giving their observations. You can almost always bet your sweet life that Europeans know much, much more about the United States than we know about their countries.

The immense fullness of tulle, net and satin was emphasized with crinolines worn underneath. Her veil of silk illusion net depended from a bonnet type cap of lace embroidered with iridescent sequins and outlined with a tiny ruffle of pleated tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis cent-red with a white orchid showered with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. W. L. Cleveland of Tulia was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Linda Fent of Oton, sister of the bride, and Gail Klatt of Lubbock. All were attired in identical gowns of pastel green crystaletta over taffeta and fashioned after the bride's gown, with portrait necklines and fitted bodices. They wore matching bandeaux of transparent braid outlined with seed pearls and carried cascade bouquets of white daisies.

Wayne Brown of Lubbock was best man. Ushers were Don Nafzger and Jay Nafzger, both of Oton. Groomsmen were Jerry Dennis of Oton and Sammie Nafzger of Plainview. Karl Sfogren of Kress, cousin of the bride, and Henry Max Thomas of Oton, nephew of the bride, lighted the candles.

A reception was held in the church parish hall. The serving table was laid with white lace over green, and decorated with the attendant's bouquets. Baskets of white flowers and greenery formed the back-
