AFFECT TERRY FARMERS

Changes Are Made In Braceros' Housing

Changes in the minimum acceptable standards for housing braceros have been made by U. S. Labor Department. They replace those issued Jan. 7.

Wm. J. T. Robertson, Labor Department field representative in Big Spring, said the changes said the changes were made on the basis of (1) operating experience in the field and (2) consultations with the two committees which advise the department on farm labor policies and programs.

The two groups are the Special Farm Labor Committee, composed of agricultural representatives from each state, and the Labor Advisory Committee on Farm Labor, made up of organized labor representatives.

Said Robertson: "The changes in the minimum standards include addition of appeals procedures for employers. They also spell out in more detail the kind of housing and sanitary facilities which must be provided by employers."

Robertson continued: "The amended standards cover adequacy of shelter and space per worker, including water supply, cleanliness, sanitation, ventilation, heating, and facilities for eating and laundry."

Regional Director Ed McDonald of the Bureau of Employment Security in Dallas, said today that he is mailing a copy of the amended standards to all approved employers and associations of employers of braceros.

How lucky for you . . . with Easter only a scant two weeks away . . . that a brand new shipment of white lace and straw hats, as well as lovely colored ones, have just arrived at SHELTON's. These chapeaux are another item that are not quite describable. You just have to see them to know how beautiful they are. I think the new soufflé straws are elegant, and the completely lace ones are simply out of this world. You'll be the grandest thing in the Easter parade in one of these.

To slip under that new Easter suit (although they're too pretty to cover up!), Ida Mae and the gals at SHELTON's now have the most striking, dressy Morelove nylon blouses, with fancy embroidery and French knot trim down the front and on the whimsical tab neck closing. In white, pink and lilac.

Some of the most adorable sets for the young set . . . 6, 9 and 12 months, that is. For Little girls, minute polka dot waterproof pants peek out from under the matching swing top that has a yoke of solid matching material. And your son will be a king in the navy waterproof pants and white shirt piped in navy. Also new and very smart are the solid pants with matching striped sleevesless tops. One in a million is the new toddler's petticoat for the tiny girls . . . white batiste simply dripping with bands of lace and ribbon insertion. This is perfect under the perfect Easter dress of pink or blue cotton spiced with organdy puff sleeves and yoke and lace trimmed collar daintily embroidered with flowers. These are all for 6, 9 and 12 months.

Soft as a summer day and lovely for Easter is the so-smart shirtwaist touched with dainty lace from neck to hemline. Also, Madelyn (Mrs. Woody) Fryniere asked me this week to inquire around and see if anyone has a really good recipe for banana nut bread. She says she wants the "good old fashioned three-banana, milk and egg kind" with no cake mixes, etc. involved. So if you do have such a one, get in touch with her or me, please. Since it's almost disastrous trying to print a recipe in my column, I won't even attempt it, but if you, too, want the recipe, give me a buzz.

Seems like Saturday is the school election date. Think I failed to mention it last week so will do so now. This is a very important post to be filled, as any of you who have children know, so be sure to vote for the person of your choice to serve on your school board this term.

Also on the program will be Adolpho Autrey of Mexico City, personal representative of the president of Rotary International, Paul Lang.

town. Which won't be long, with everything busting with Spring. Hot days will soon be here, and it will be time for me to disappear beneath my sunshade until the first blizzard arrives next Fall.

THE FIRST STEP — Members of Brownfield VFW Post 6794 long have dreamed of a building they could call their own. First step in that direction was taken Sunday, when ground was broken for the project. Site is 1/4-mile north of the Mon Telford Farm, southeast of the city limits. From left above: L. T. Redding of 512 South Third; Jack Aaldrup of 612 East Hill, post chaplain; John P. Benson of 909 East Hill, post commander; Herschel McKay of 221 West Cardwell, immediate past commander; Bob Pool of Post; J. Ray Nichols of Lubbock, and N. T. Conner of Lubbock, district vice-commander. Behind them stands E. B. Blumberg of Post, past district commander. Other new Brownfield officers, elected last week, are Dewey-

Rogers, surgeon; M. O. Webb, three-year directors; Will Brown, senior vice-commander; Charles Kersh, junior vice-commander, and L. D. Bailey, quartermaster. Construction is scheduled to begin next week, said Aaldrup, and should be finished sometime this year. To cost about $15,000, the building will include a large hall, ticket office, concession stand, kitchen, rest rooms, its own water system. It will be of tile brick. Many of the Brownfield post members are making plans now to attend the district convention, April 27-28 in Levelland. Much of the money for construction has come from the post's Friday night bingo parties. New officers will be installed April 25. (Staff Photo)

Down Wellman Way

Martha Goza
Margaret Ingram

Hello! Everyone!
Mr. Six Weeks Test hit Wellman High School with a bang this week. The tests were given Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Good luck, everyone!

The sophomore play "Life of the Party" will be presented next Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The members of next year's student council returned from Gasketon Saturday night. The ones who went were Bill Adams-president; Margaret Ingram-Secretary and treasurer; and Alton Carmichael-reporter. A good time was reported by all.

Since James Duncan has moved to California, the sophomore class had an election Monday to elect a new president to take James' place. Winston Livesay was elected.

The homemaking classes are now sewing. Each girl is making a dress for herself.

The girls who played basketball received their jackets last Wednesday. The jackets are white nylon with black and gold letters and designs.

The junior class met Tuesday morning and selected the members for the decorating committee for the Wellman Junior-Senior Banquet. They are Clara Bolen, Cynthia Smith, Martha Goza and Danny Loe.

The members of the junior and senior classes are writing a series of themes in English class this week.

The freshman class had a car wash last Saturday. They made approximately $25.00.

Gerald Jordan, a '55 graduate of W. H. S. visited here Tuesday. Gerald is employed with the Santa Fe railroad in San Angelo.

See you next week.

District 14, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers—Greetings From Brownfield

City Leaders Welcome PTA Conventioneers

O. R. DOUGLAS
School Superintendent . . .

On behalf of the community, school board and members of the school staff, it is a genuine pleasure to welcome you to Brownfield for the convention of District 14, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Through the combined efforts of the PTA City Council, the local PTA units, the local arrangements planning committee, the various clubs, the county and city officials, the chamber of commerce, church, school and many interested citizens, preparations have been made to make your visit both pleasant and profitable. We trust this will be the case.

The citizens of Brownfield share with you the appreciation of the high ideals set forth in the objectives of our parent-teacher association. We believe one of the best ways to serve children and youth is through self-improvement in the understanding of how children grow and develop.

As evidence of this two local units chose for this year's program a study discussion course around the general topic, "Parenthood in a Free Nation". This is the first time in the nation that a local unit has attempted to use this course in this manner. Results have been most gratifying. We in Brownfield also share with you the belief that it is through the cooperative efforts of parents, patrons and teachers that youth is best served.

Please use our facilities to the maximum advantage. Ask any of the teaching staff, local PTA members or any Brownfield citizen for assistance when needed. Our schools will be in session during the convention. You are cordially invited to visit them.

You are truly welcome to Brownfield. We trust your stay will be enjoyable.

ARLIE LOWRIMORE
Brownfield Mayor . . .

Conventioneers of District 14, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers—welcome to Brownfield.

We particularly are proud that the district chose Brownfield as site of its 1957 convention. That the city is growing rapidly and is able to attract such an event pleases us greatly.

While you are here Tuesday and Wednesday, we invite your close attention to our school plants, fine homes, wide streets, business houses, and the farming land.

Drouth, needless to say, has wrought much havoc here. Despite the dry years, however, Brownfield and Terry County have fared well and have managed to expand.

As you conduct your convention proceedings, we hope you will be aware of the vital role government and our way of living in these United States are to be congratulated for their interest. For without people like you we would not have a good educational program of which we are proud. As county judge of Terry County, I extend a hearty welcome to all of our parents and have a successful convention and above all hope you enjoy your visit with us.

which PTA and education are playing here. Our citizens keenly feel the impact of both. Once again, welcome. The services of our city government are at your disposal. We wish for you a pleasant two days here and a safe journey to your homes.

JOE SATTERWHITE
C-C Manager

To our neighbors of the Parent-Teachers Organization of District 14, on behalf of the merchants and businessmen of Brownfield and Terry County, the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce extends to you our greetings and a hearty welcome.

We are honored with your presence and invite you to use our facilities in any way that will aid your comfort and convenience.

We are keenly interested in your efforts and fully realize that men and women like you, who so generously are giving your time and effort to our schools and children, is proof of your interest in democracy.

Our six schools, with accredited 12 grades, conveniently located in our city, under the supervision of a faculty who has accepted God as their creator, surely is a credit to our community.

While cotton is our big money crop, we are recognized

many, Mrs. Thomas and 9 year old Sandra pose with a German bobsled driver during a vacation the family took last year. The Thomases perform at an amateur night at the American Club, Kifissia, Athens, in the third picture. They took second prizes with their take-off of a famous Western movie star because the judges said they were "pro". The fourth picture is a scene of the Port of Pireaus in Athens, with the city rising in the background. Though parts of the city are quite modern, many of the old "flea markets" remain. In the foreground of the fifth picture, Sandra Thomas is a member of a fashionable Greek wedding party. Her role was similar to that played by a flower girl in American weddings.

LETTER TO BROWNFIELD RESIDENTS REVEALS

Life of American Family Among Greeks is Not Routine One

By GEE GEE PRIVITT
NEWS Staff Writer

"It's Greek to you and it's Greek to me, for as long as I live here."

Thus does B. E. Thomas explain life in Greece for himself, wife Dottie, and 9-year-old daughter Sandra.

Thomas revealed much of Greek way in a recent letter to his aunt and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Mize of 321 South Fourth.

The writer is with U. S. Army Intelligence in Greece, where "Sometime it does not seem real that we are here, and at other times it is just like home. We have become accustomed to our life here among the Greek people."

In the letter to the Mizes, Thomas said that the climate seems a likely opening topic.

"I used to think Greece and the words 'warm and sunny' were synonymous. I have since changed my mind," he writes. "The past year has been unusual, as it was universally, but as a rule the winters are mild and summers dry and hot." The nights are usually cool, however, he says, although the heat is extreme.

Last winter was one to be remembered with unhappiness for Greece, Thomas said, because the coldest weather of the century was accompanied by a heavy snow storm. Athens rarely has a snow flurry, but to have a snow storm and prolonged cold presented a terrible problem to the poor people who did not have ample clothing, heat or food.

There is little wood for fuel and the cost of buying it or coal is prohibitive. "Some of our trees were trimmed and the branches put across the street," he writes. "It wasn't long before a woman came with a rope which she tied about the wood and then around her waist. Next she laid down on the branches, and, hanging on to the two ends of the ropes over her shoulders, gave a big heave-ho and up she came with the biggest bundle of branches we'd ever seen anyone carry."

Flowers are beautiful in Greece the year round and the flower stalls are one of the most beautiful sights in Greece to Thomas. The stalls are grouped together, making a solid block of blazing color. The Greeks love to give gifts, no matter how small, but the one thing they love most to give is flowers, to the extent of having a bouquet in their cars, taxis, buses and trucks.

Sandra causes something of a sensation, with her reddish blonde hair, which the Greeks admire greatly. Most Greeks are dark-skinned with beautiful thick, black curly hair. Blondes and redheads are a rarity among them. They dress meticulously and spend a great deal of time in barber and beauty shops, of which there are many. Men's haircuts are ten drachmas, or about 30 cents. Most clothing is expensive and quite often Greeks will go without food to buy clothing.

The Thomases have some difficulty adjusting to the Greek custom of siesta, when all shops close at 1 p.m. and re-open at 4:30 or 5 and remain open in the evening. Most Americans, who have dinner between 5 and 6 p.m. are learning to adjust their schedules to fit the 2 or 3 p.m. lunch hour and the 9 or 10 p.m. dinner hour, he writes.

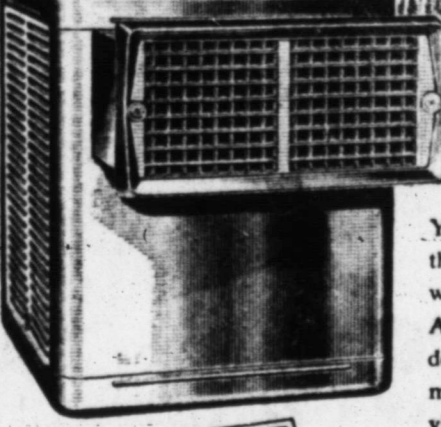

The Greeks love the sun and the minute the sun shines, they pop out like mushrooms, along with their bedding, which drapes all over the veranda railings and window sills.

Walking is one of the Greek's favorite pastimes and modes of travel. They love to "promenade" and girls walk together as do the men walk together. Some men even go so far as to walk arm in arm. Since entertainment is not so plentiful, the Greeks do lots of walking. Much of their walking is necessary, as going for food (refrigerators are scarce, as is storage space) is a daily "must".

The Greeks have an ancient dowry and marriage system, and most marriages are arranged by parents, very few for love. Each daughter must have a dowry, and naturally the girl with the largest gets the most proposals. Most couples are 30 or older before they marry. They have small families, but seem to love children very much.

are numerous and interesting to see, wearing long black robes, black hat and long hair and beard. Their hair is twisted into a knot and pinned like a woman's. Many religious holidays are celebrated, with Easter far more important than all the others combined. The carnival season precedes Lent. During Lent there is much fasting and they are not allowed to eat any animal product, nor even olive oil. The climax of the seasons comes when the church service is over the night before Easter and a midnight feast follows.

New Law Enforcement Agency Is Being Sought by Governor Daniel

AUSTIN — Governor Price Daniel says Texas must have "an immediate State-wide clean-up of rapidly increasing crime, and sporadic corruption if the good name of our State is to be saved from destruction by scoundrelism and lack of public confidence."

The Governor declared: "I call on every citizen and official of the State to join in a crusade for honesty, integrity and better law enforcement."

Daniel said an important weapon in the crusade for clean government "is the establishment by the Legislature of a nonpolitical nonpartisan State Law Enforcement Commission to investigate alleged misconduct in State government and means of improving law enforcement and crime prevention."

He continued: "The spotlight of truth and strict law enforcement are the surest means of preventing violations of the law and showing the world that dishonesty is the exception rather than the rule in Texas government."

"Texas is being damaged equally as much by the dishonesty and exaggerated accounts of official conduct by political demagogues and out-of-state publications. For selfish interests they thrive on making believe that isolated instances of corruption are typical of State government rather than the exception, but they too can be exposed if the new wrongdoers are so well investigated and punished that they are easily distinguishable from the overwhelming majority of honest public officials."

"There is enough to be done in our State to keep legislative committees and a state law enforcement commission busy. The committees are now working diligently, but they simply do not have the time to go into all matters which need investigation and at the same time continue the regular work of the session."

"If the state law enforcement commission were in existence today, the House of Representatives could refer to it completion of investigation of all the collateral matters which have arisen in the Cox case, such as the acid throwing attack, actions of naturopath lobbyists in previous sessions, and other matters not directly concerned with the specific charges against Mr. Cox.

"Also, instead of both a House and Senate investigating committee working during the session on the ICT insurance failure, the Legislature could refer this entire matter to the State Law Enforcement Commission for investigation and report."

The legislation was given an emergency label by Daniel in his January 17 message to the Legislature. The same designation and recommendation was given legislation for a strict lobby registration act, a code of conduct for State officials and employees, and registration of those who represent others before State agencies.

Daniel also pledged his full support to the good government bills backed by the Texas Press Association.

The State Law Enforcement Commission bill was introduced in the House this week by Representatives R. H. Cory of Victoria, J. E. Winfree of Houston, and many others. The bill was drawn by the Governor and his staff and Attorney General Will Wilson and his staff.

The Commission would be composed of a grand juror from each of the eleven Courts of Civil Appeals district, selected at district meetings of county grand jury foremen. A twelfth member, the chairman, would be appointed by the Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court and would be a person of previous judicial experience.

The Commission would be required to report its findings to the Governor, the Legislature, and local grand juries.

"The Commission is necessary to study means of crime prevention and the improvement of the enforcement of criminal laws," Daniel said. "Major crimes in Texas last year increased 39% since 1950, while our population increased only 22%."

"Our prison population has increased over 80% since 1947, nearly four times as fast as our population increase. Texas continues to rank above the national average in the increase of major crimes, and it is time for us to do something about it."

"This is a job not only for State officials, but for cooperation of local officials and every citizen who is interested in preserving the good name of Texas and protecting the lives and futures of our people."

Lubbock Christian College Administration Building

TO BE OPENED NEXT SEPT. 23

Construction at Lubbock Christian College Gets Under Way

With approximately $750,000 now subscribed to the Lubbock Christian College Development Fund, work soon will begin on construction of the first building. Cost: about $671,000.

The new school will be located on a 160-acre site in Lubbock on 19th Street just west of Chicago Avenue.

This building will be 350 feet long with a four-story tower area which will house five levels of book stacks. It also will contain the administrative offices of the school, a reading room sufficiently large to accommodate 300 students at tables, a chapel and study, and 17 classrooms and laboratories. Seven hundred students can be accommodated.

The school will open next Sept. 23 at which time registration begins. It is estimated that the student population this fall will be around 200 with an increase by fall of 1958 to 500 and it is presently thought that within 10 years 2,000 students will be in attendance.

Three men with Ph. D. degrees have been employed in administrative capacities as the two deans and registrar beginning this fall. Eight of the 20 additional faculty members have been employed and all will hold an MA degree.

Approximately $500,000 was raised by the membership of the Churches of Christ in Lubbock. At the present time a solicitation is being made of the membership of the churches throughout West Texas and the eastern section of New Mexico. $250,000 already has been subscribed in these areas.

Approximately 30 per cent complete. It is felt that this phase of the campaign will produce in the neighborhood of $600,000.

A campaign now is being organized for an additional $500,000 among business and industry in Lubbock making a total goal of the campaign of $1,500,000. As soon as the additional money is available, two dormitories, a gym and a student center will be erected.

Temporary buildings already have been moved on the site with full assurance that the school will open this fall.

FOUNDATION SEED NOW

Blight-Resistant Cotton Variety Ready For Texas Farmers for the '58 Planting

Texas cotton growers looking for a blight-resistant, open boll cotton may obtain Austin variety commercial seed in 1958, according to Plant Pathologist Luther Bird. It is recommended for areas of the state where an inch staple is desired.

Austin is highly resistant to Texas' most damaging race of bacterial blight and tolerant to the number two race. Resistance is highest where adequate soil moisture and available nitrogen are present.

Under blight-free conditions, Austin will yield as much as other open boll varieties grown in Texas. It will prevent 5 to 100 per cent yield losses under blight conditions depending on the degree of infection.

Tests conducted under Fusarium wilt-nematode conditions showed Austin with a 10 per cent yield reduction while susceptible strains suffered a 50 per cent reduction.

The new variety has performed exceptionally well under irrigated and normal rainfall conditions. Although it yields satisfactorily under drought conditions, the open boll may be extremely loose. It is suitable for yarn production and staple length is 30/32 to 33/32 inch.

The boll is larger than Delapine types but is smaller than Empire. Austin seed are satisfactory for cottonseed products and the variety's normal lint percent is 36 to 40.

Foundation seed are now available to individuals who wish to produce certified seed from the Foundation Seed Section, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station. Commercial seed will be available next year.

Don't Overlook the Value of Temporary Summer Pastures In A Grazing Program

Don't overlook the value of summer temporary pastures in your grazing program, advises E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist. Such pastures in form of ranch planning will permit a resting period for permanent pastures and provide a means for building up feed reserves.

Nothing can be left to chance however, for good summer temporary pastures must be planned well in advance and should be given the same care any cash crop received. Seeding the right plants and using good fertilizer management are also essential, adds the specialist.

Sudangrass is a natural for most Texas pasture programs according to Trew. It can be planted anytime after the danger of frost and until moisture becomes short in the summer.

Thirty-eight to forty-two inch row plantings at the rate of 7 to 10 pounds of seed an acre are best for grazing, but broadcast or close drilled plantings will produce more hay if only one cutting is planned. Broadcast seed at a 20 to 25 pounds per acre rate, Trew advises.

One to two acres of Sudangrass is recommended for each animal unit and different plantings should be fenced separately for maximum production. Staggered plantings made at two to four weeks intervals may extend the grazing season until late fall, Trew explains.

Sweet Sudangrass carries some leaf disease resistance and usually outyields Common in humid areas. Common is susceptible to leaf disease, but offers early production. Resel millet will outproduce Sudan on the sandy acid soils of East Texas, he adds.

Early planning for rotation grazing can increase production and raise the quality of forage. Old stems should be mowed after grazing to keep new growth coming, Trew says, and unused growth should be put into hay or silage.

Another advanced planning point is a soil test to determine the plant foods needed at seeding time. Side-dressing Sudan with 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre after each cutting when grazed down will produce big dividends if continued as long as plants are growing and moisture is available.

Egg Producers Are Warned Not To Feed Nicarbazin Rations

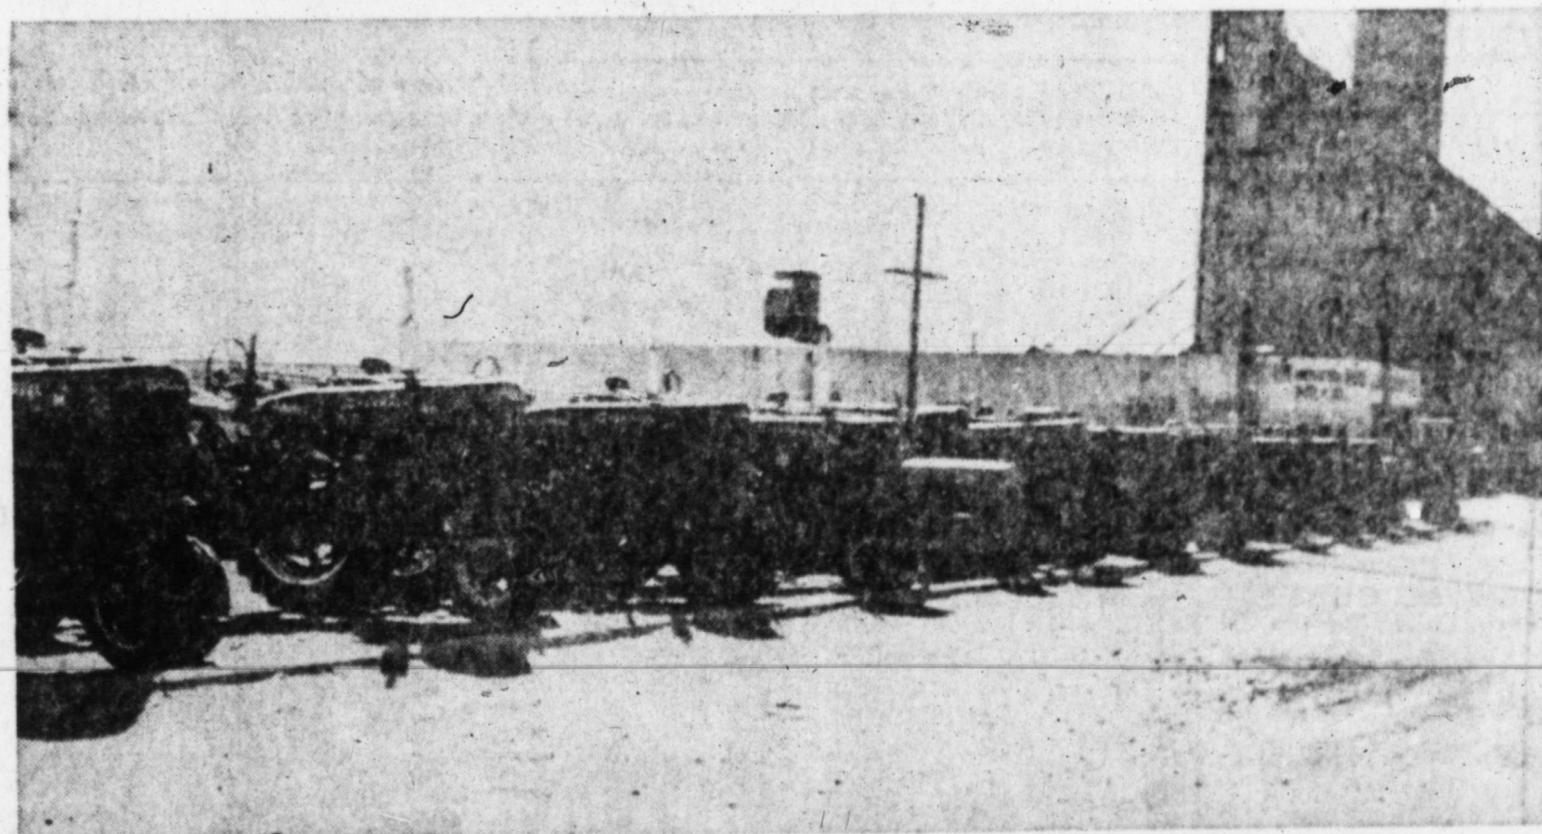

Rations containing nicarbazin should not be fed to laying hens. The drug, points out Kermit Schalm, extension poultry marketing specialist, is a good coccidiostat but should be fed only to growing chicks. This is in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations on its use, says Schalm.

Reports from over the state and results of tests made on eggs submitted for study to poultry scientists at Texas A & M College indicate that laying hens are getting the drug.

Schalm says if laying hens get the drug at a level of only 0.25 percent in their ration, those normally laying brown-shelled eggs will lay 75 to 95 percent less white or blue-shelled eggs.

TRACE ELEMENTS
in AMMO-PHOS

Ammo-Phos fertilizers, in addition to the major plant food elements, contain quantities of other elements used by crops. Because agronomic research shows that many soils contain a sufficient supply of minor and secondary elements, Mathieson has made no claim or charges for such elements contained in their fertilizers.

However, for the benefit of those who are interested in knowing, the following table shows the approximate percentages of sulfur, calcium, magnesium, and iron, which are in Mathieson's High Analyses Ammo-Phos Fertilizers.

In addition to the sulfur, calcium, magnesium, and iron in Ammo-Phos fertilizers, they also contain traces of other elements, which are usually plentiful in soils and are used in only very minute quantities by crops.

AND APRIL IS 'CANCER MONTH'

Brownfield's C-Day Is Monday

April is Cancer Month and Monday is C-Day in Brownfield.

For several months now, several Terry County organizations have held discussions on the dangers of this dreaded disease. Particular emphasis has been placed on the danger of not having regular physical check-ups from your doctor.

Two groups especially are active here: Terry County unit of the American Cancer Society and the Terry County Home Demonstration Council. Both are to be commended.

Cancer is one of those enemies which may attack any person at any time. Here's a figure which will send cold chills down your spine: More than 250,000 Americans died of the disease last year, and another 265,000 are sure to die this year.

Of every six deaths from ALL causes in the United States, one is the result of cancer. During every day the year round, about 700 of our fellow citizens die of the killing disease.

The breakdown can be carried even further: Every two minutes cancer kills a man, woman or child in America. The statistics should prove alarming to all of us.

The immediate present is the time for people everywhere in this great country to do all in their power to effect a cure and treatment. This is the great objective of the American Cancer Society.

From 6 p.m. until 8 p.m., Monday, many of your fellow townsmen will be ringing doorbells here. Purpose: To collect funds to meet the county's quota in this year's nationwide crusade against cancer.

We invite you to be prepared, with us, to hand your contribution to the bell ringers Monday.

Here are other facts for your consideration: One cancer victim in every three now is being saved. This means that of every six persons who suffer the disease, two will be saved and four will die.

Numbers 1 and 2 will be saved. Number 3 will die needlessly—he could have been saved with timely and proper treatment. Numbers 4, 5 and 6 will die of cancer which cannot yet be controlled.

The foregoing facts mean this: Half of our citizens who suffer from cancer could and should be saved. Is this not enough to incite us? We need workers and we need money to do our share in the needed tremendous research.

The society workers will have some vital information for you Monday night. They will hand you a leaflet containing valuable facts. If necessarily must be read. Emphasized will be the seven danger signals of cancer.

For the protection of you and your loved one, should any one of the seven signals be recognized, go immediately to your doctor.

THE AMERICAN WAY

NATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL WEEK

By George Peck

Under the sponsorship of the Laymen's National Committee, the thirteenth annual observance of National Sunday School Week takes place April 8 through 14. The theme of this outstanding event this year is: SUNDAY SCHOOL — SOURCE OF SPIRITUAL STRENGTH.

Serving as National Chairman is Cola G. Parker, Director of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation, and Chairman of the Board of Directors, the National Association of Manufacturers, who, in accepting this important post, had this to say:

"Back in 1900, fewer than 40 percent of Americans were church members. By the end of the 30's, this figure had risen to comprise half of our people. Now, church membership amounts to 60 percent of our mounting population. Such a surge in spiritual impetus can be of limitless benefit to our country, as our growing millions identify themselves more closely with the moral teachings of the church. This calls for the kind of conviction which comes with knowledge. In providing such knowledge, the Sunday School is a vital source of spiritual strength."

No less an authority than F. B. I. Director J. Edgar Hoover has again gone on record as endorsing the nation's Sunday Schools as a Source of Spiritual Strength. In a letter addressed to Cola G. Parker, National Chairman for Sunday School Week, Mr. Hoover wrote:

"The great and vital concept of government, which the Founding Fathers shaped and moulded, was based upon an indomitable and all-encompassing belief in God. Those men, who created the channels in which America's future was to flow, believed that, with God's help, the individual was capable of self-rule. "In this Atomic Age, we need, more than ever before, the moral strength which stems only from God-centered homes and communities. "If we are to prepare the spiritual values which have sustained our country throughout its history, the bulwark of sound religious training is vital. It is within the power of the Sunday School to provide such a bulwark. National Sunday School Week offers the opportunity to renew our dedication to this objective. "Spiritual leaders, both clergy and laymen, are unanimous in agreeing with F. B. I.'s Director Hoover that the Sunday School is the agency which above all others can help combat juvenile delinquency and give the youth of America the spiritual undergirding so essential to their success and happiness, with resultant benefit to the nation as a whole. "But while the Sunday School is popularly considered as an instrument principally for the religious education of our youngsters, it also does play an important role in the adult life of the nation's communities. It can play a much more important role, which is the hope of the Laymen's National Committee will be sparked during National Sunday School Week, April 8-14. H. Boyd Magill, Editor of the Dorchester Eagle-Record, weekly newspaper published at St. George, South Carolina, wrote an editorial for his March 14 issue entitled: "A Powerful Influence For Good." Editor Magill, taking note of the large attendance of men at a Bible Class in his community, made the following apt comment: "It is a manifestation of excellent leadership on the part of a few individuals, and it is proof that people will follow leadership. If that leadership is good, then the people will work for noble things; if their leadership is evil, their works will be evil. "By stimulating a large number of St. George men to become active and enthusiastic members of a Bible Class, a force has been set in motion that could change the history

Highlights and Sidelights FROM YOUR State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN—After five weeks of headline making, three legislative investigating committees still are busy.

House committee looking into ICT's failure was to run until April 11; Senate committee April 10.

Recent additions to the committee's massive records: 1. Several former ICT directors denied having signed a document wiping out a $900,000 debt owed ICT by Jack Cage and Co. Shown photostat of such a document, they said it was not the instrument they signed. 2. Leaders in the Texas Federation of Labor called Ben Jack Cage, former manager of ICT, a "scoundrel." Union members had invested millions in the company. 3. A number of union members and officials told how they were paid by Cage to help advance the cause of ICT among labor members. One said he thought he was paid to keep to himself his belief that Cage was a "crook."

4. Max Wayne Rychlik, son-in-law of former Insurance Commission Chairman Garland Smith, remembered an additional $9,800 he had received from a Ben Jack Cage affiliate. It made a total of $18,200 paid Rychlik for his "job" without work. 5. House members investigating bribery charges questioned the former executive secretary of the Texas Naturopathic Association. But Albert D. Brown, who was with the organization back in 1955, could give only estimate and guesses on how TNA had spent some $20,000 raised during the last session for "legislative education."

6. John McCully, labor union employee, had a difficult time accounting for his expenditures of union funds. In his operation of the union's publicity office, the Action Agency in Austin, he "accidentally" dropped a few political advertising bills into ICT files.

Big Push—Legislators face a killing pace for the next few weeks if they are to finish session in 120 days. After that point, their pay ceases. Time is almost two-thirds gone. Multiple investigations have diverted a lot of time and energy. Important bills are stacked up. But a major milestone — passage of the general appropriations bill — is in sight. Senate committee approved it for floor action this week. House already has passed it. Senate committee's version differs slightly. It includes a 10 per cent raise for lower-bracket state employees, 15 per cent for college teachers, Wrapping up the big money bill will put the session over to 14, should be a most propitious time for millions of members. Meanwhile, both girls, boys, women and men are starting putting themselves under that benign influence.

of St. George-yes, of the county, too. "Improved spiritual life of such a large percentage of men in this community will result in a better moral tone for the whole area, which will reach out to other communities. Not only will business be conducted on a higher plane, but a decided improvement in the political life will be in evidence." Yes, for Americans of all ages, Sunday School is a powerful influence if put to work with more people. National Sunday School Week, April 8-14, should be a most propitious time for millions of members. Meanwhile, both girls, boys, women and men are starting putting themselves under that benign influence.

NURSERY HINTS GIVEN

More and More Farmers Turning To Coastal Bermudagrass for Forage

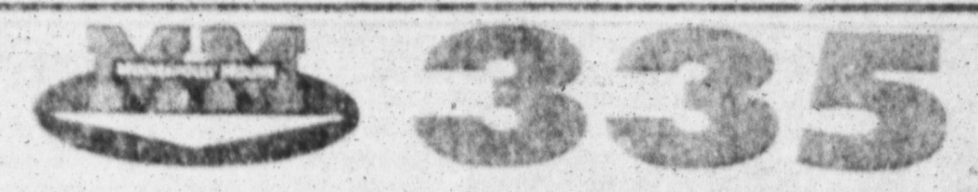

More and more farmers are turning to Coastal Bermudagrass for an efficient forage crop, says Extension Pasture Specialist E. M. Trew. It has several advantages over com-mon Bermuda, he adds, includ-ing ability to grow earlier in the spring and later in the fall, more drought, disease and nem-atode resistance, and higher forage production.

When this grass is a hybrid and must be started from sprigs, and rhizomes, Trew says a farm nursery is the most practical method of re-production. It will provide fresh, low cost sprigs optimum labor and planting conditions. Fresh sprigs are essential for a good stand.

Sprigs are difficult to re-mo-ve from heavy soils, Trew warns, and he recom-mends well-prepared clean sandy soil for the seedbed. Apply fertilizer heavily in the drill below and to the side of the sprigs, advises the specialist. If sprigs are dry at plant-ing time, Trew suggests soaking them in water from 12 to 24 hours.

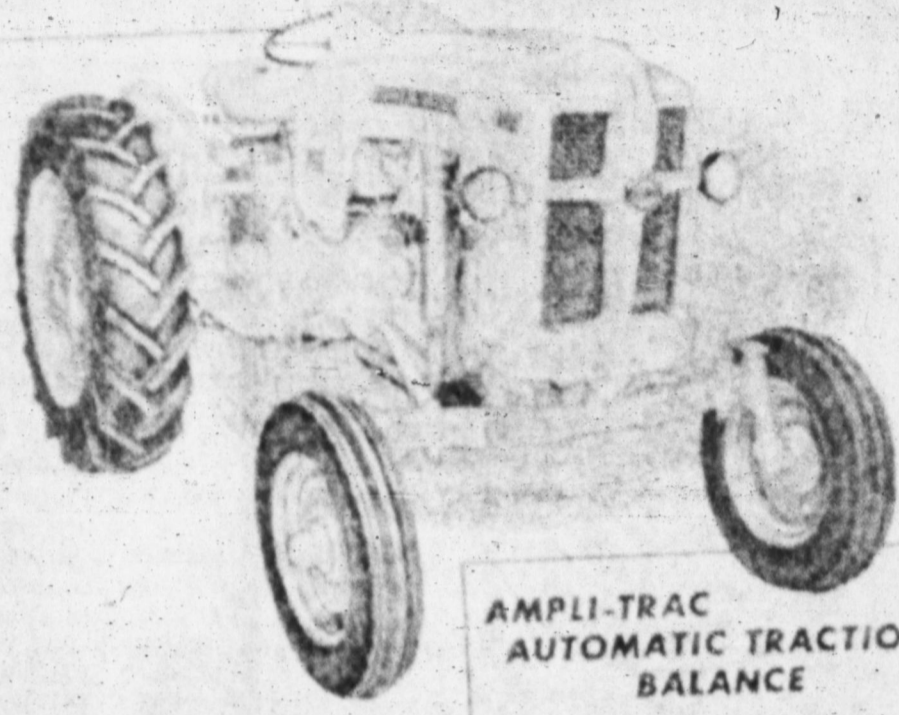

If the soil is dry, water each hill or irrigate the nursery, ad-vises Trew. Sprigs may be planted in a shallow furrow and the soil firmed with the foot, covering about two inches deep before packing with a tractor wheel. Shovels, hoes, sticks, sprayers, or tree transplant-ers may also be used to set sprigs.

Cultivation will aid in weed control which is essential until runners begin to cover the middles, then mowing may be substituted. The nursery is ready for harvesting when the stand becomes solid, but top growth should be removed by mowing and raking or burning before harvest. A spring tooth harrow or a chisel type plow and a side-delivery rake are the most practical harvesting tools.

Written Plan for Irrigation Guide Is Highly Recommended By Soil Conservation Specialist for Farmers in Terry County

By LEE H. WILLIAMSON
Big Spring Office
Soil Conservation Service
Irrigation wells are being started and systems put into operation for a pre-planting application of water to our croplands.

Have you made a plan to guide you in applying this and any future applications? Do you know how much water to apply without waste or leaching? Do you know how to estimate the moisture in your soil?

Do you know whether your irrigation system is operating as it should to put out the most water with the least pumping cost?

If your answer to the foregoing questions is "No" or "I'm not sure," then the chances are that you will not realize as much profit from your irrigated acres as you should.

In many instances, a negative answer usually returns to normal and yield mottling disappears.

Under the present egg market situation, Schlamb says, egg producers just can't afford to produce anything except top quality eggs. He cautions flock owners against feeding rations containing nicarbazin and feed companies to thoroughly clean their equipment after mixing rations containing the drug before mixing rations for laying hens.

Since this is the season when most replacement layers are being started, Schlamb points out that more opportunities are present for getting the drug into laying rations.

ative answer to any one of the questions could contribute to a loss of profit from farming operations.

Every farmer should have a plan to use as a guide in applying irrigation water. The plan should be based on the soil, topography of the land, amount of water available, crops to be grown, and the type of irrigation system to be used.

Included in the plan should be the course which will be taken in case of a pumping plant failure or a substantial decrease in the water supply.

If the plan of irrigation includes crops which require different amounts of water, it should guide the farmer as to when and how much to apply to each.

The foregoing and many other items should be worked out and written down before the irrigation season is too far along. The plan should be definite, but it also must be flexible enough to allow for revisions made necessary by weather, insects, unforeseen conditions of crop growth, tillage operations and other factors, including market conditions.

More than likely you, the farmer, are getting well along with your pre-planting irrigation. Are you applying the proper or desired amount of water, or are you making too heavy an application?

Too much water will penetrate below a point where it can be recovered by plants. As water goes into the ground, it dissolves and carries downward a lot of plant nutrients. These nutrients may be carried out of reach of plant roots if too much water is applied. At the same time, too little water applied at this time may be insufficient to prevent plants going into stress from lack of moisture before the next planned irrigation is made.

Enough water should be applied at this time of the year to bring the soil profile for the plant water extraction zone up to field capacity. What depth does this zone reach?

Take a look at your plan near white eggs. Too, egg size may decrease as much as 25 percent after a few days. But most important says the specialist the interior quality of eggs are affected.

Severe yolk mottling and occasionally yolk seepage into the egg white results from feeding the drug. Mottled yolks are hard to detect by candling but are very objectionable to consumers.

Continued feeding of rations the drug will cause a decline in egg production and eventually hens stop laying. Several days after the drug is removed from the ration, egg production may resume and shell color returns to normal. Egg size grad-

Fred Sedgwick, Wellman 4-H Club member, received a $15 check this week from Paymaster Farms of Plainview for placing third in the Terry County 4-H Cotton Contest. Donald Brown of Meadow FFA was given $25 for placing first in the irrigated division, and his brother Donald won $20 for second in the dryland division. Paymaster pays boys each year who won in cotton contests when they grow Paymaster Cotton. In addition to the checks, the company also furnished each winner with two sacks of Paymaster cotton seed for the following year. Seed either are Paymaster 54-B or Paymaster 101.

Wellman 4-H boys met Monday and viewed a film, "Handling Livestock for Market."

The film was produced by the A&M Extension Service Library. The Club members also discussed the April 18 livestock show here.

All 4-H boys and girls with beef calves to be shown April 18 are urged to bring in their calves on April 6 to have their heads and ears clipped. Site will be the Rodeo Arena.

The calf clipping will take place between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. The day also will be excellent time for you to weigh your calves before the show.

Progress on the Jaycees' annual 4-H and FFA livestock event is coming along at a rapid pace. Final plans are being made now for the one-day event, which is some two weeks off. Stanley Anderson, associate professor of animal husbandry at Texas Tech will judge. Hank Mathews of Anton will be the auctioneer.

Beware the Rabid Dog, Especially on Warm Days

The rabid dog is a constant threat to all children, asserts Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, especially on warm spring days when large groups of youngsters congregate in play areas. Rabies is currently a serious problem in several sections of the state, he adds, and should be a subject of real concern to pet owners everywhere.

Dr. Patterson says a warm-blooded animal is susceptible to rabies, but that it is most likely to be spread by the predator-type. Symptoms are hard to define, explains the veterinarian, but it's a good practice to suspect any animal if it loses the fear of man.

Keep under observation any suspicious animal should it bite a human, advises Dr. Patterson. If the animal is not available, the person should be placed under competent medical supervision at once.

Texas law now empowers commissioners courts to declare the county a rabies control area, Dr. Patterson says. This should extend more efficient control programs into the state's rural areas.

Vaccination of all pets and strict impoundment of every stray dog are essential features of a good control program, he adds.

Wild animals sometimes carry the danger of rabies to farms and ranches, endangering livestock as well as farmers. Dr. Patterson warns rural people to be on the lookout for strange-acting animals, particularly foxes, coyotes, skunks, and civet cats.

Pets coming in contact with any suspicious domestic or wild animals should be given a booster shot, he warns, even if already protected by a standard rabies shot.

Big Texas Department Is Now 50 Years Old

The Texas Department of Agriculture is 50 years old this month.

Voted into existence by the Texas Legislature in January of 1907 to become operative in March of that year, the original agency had four employees whose duty was nothing more than to organize farmer's institutes over the state to keep alive agricultural interests.

Future sessions of the legislature broadened the scope of activities and established greater powers for the protection and furtherance of Texas agriculture.

Today, 50 years after its inception as a bureau of limited function, the Texas Department of Agriculture is a major state agency charged with the administration of agricultural law and providing services to all Texans through its many and varied duties.

To carry out the numerous and important tasks of the department there are now some 140 employees with the Commissioner of Agriculture as head.

Briefly, the Texas Department of Agriculture serves to keep open the channels of trade within and without the state for Texas farm products.

It promotes, fosters and encourages expansion of Texas Agricultural Industry through Beth Geron, Judy Akers, Margaret Ann Blackstock, Ella Sue Nelson, Judith Timmons, Linda Hyman, Shaeron McWhorter, Carolyn Stowe, Barbara Nicholson and Patricia Turner.

The public is invited to at-recognized inspection procedures such as quarantine control measures against certain plant diseases and pests; makes available to farmers and seedsmen better planting seed, both registered and certified;

Protects the entire public through inspection services from fraudulent and dishonest weighing and measuring devices; prevents operation of improper nursery, floral and other agricultural businesses through licensing, registration and inspection; provides market news reports of primary benefit to the farmer; and expands and develops better markets for Texas agricultural products.

It is the only major state agency established by statute and is one of the few independent farm agencies remaining in the United States.

Through reorganization plans carried out in the last few years, the Texas Department of Agriculture has become more self-sustaining in order to provide more services to cost than at any time in its more than 50-year history.

GREGG COTTON

The happy farmer who has grown the field of Gregg cotton shown in the picture above has nothing to distract his mind from the satisfaction of knowing his cotton has IT—an excellent yield with good grades. The pleasure of growing a field of cotton like this is not only a joy to be experienced in a year like 1956—a year in which we have had an unusual amount of heat to mature cotton here on the Plains; but cotton fields of similar appearance should be grown on the Plains on almost any year with Gregg cotton. Gregg has been bred to produce under the adverse conditions of our cooler weather, and especially with its cooler nights; it should shine the brightest and show its colors the most on the really bad years; it should in a large measure cure those cotton headaches which are very common in our section of the country.

Early Maturity
Yes, cotton headaches are not a myth; they are a fact; for we have seen farmers in the midst of summer standing and discussing the problem of whether to water cotton, for fear that it would go to stalk and fail to fruit. Gregg with its close, quick, rapid fruiting has solved this problem for our farmers. For the past six years we have made it an experiment to water a small block of our cotton five times, finishing around the 25th of August, with excellent results even upon the coolest of years. Each year it fruited heavily and the maturity was good. With results like these there are no headaches in the summer, and there are no headaches in the fall either for you or anyone else who may have an interest in your crop.

Storm Proof
Our cotton is stormproof not only from the standpoint of its staying in the bolls, but also the bolls remain on the stalk well. As an experiment we have left cotton in the field until late spring, with no great loss from the wind storms.

Stripping
Since nearly all farmers are using the mechanical stripper in the harvesting of their cotton, either partially or completely, they are naturally interested in a cotton that strips well. When you consider the fundamentals of a good stripping cotton, you will find Gregg ranks high. Its stalk confirmation is well suited to the stripper, and because it is a close, heavy-fruited variety there is less trash, limbs, and leaves.

Staple Length
Our growing season on the Plains will not permit the growing of long staple cottons satisfactorily. Gregg has been bred to the optimum length, to give the best results on the Plains; combining with staple length, fiber quality of high character; for Micronaire, strength, and uniformity. Staple lengths, under irrigation, are generally from 31-32 to 1-1-32 for early hand pulled cotton, with slightly shorter staples for late machine-stripped cotton.

Clean White Seed
Clean white seed is an indication that white cotton came off the seed. Examine our seed in bulk at our farm or in open bag of our fuzzy seed which have been partially delinted, and note the absence of lemon or orange color seed.

It is a matter of public information that the classing office in Lubbock handled 1,622,000 bales the past year with 47.1 per cent of the grades light spots and 2.5 per cent fuzzy spots. This percentage figures 763,500 light spots, and 40,500 spots. It has been estimated by an authority that the average price over the entire season for light spotted cotton above the loan was 100 points; but even allowing 140 points there was lost on light spotted cotton $15 a bale, and for spotted $22, making a total of twelve million three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The point that should be of interest to farmers in this connection is that on our own farm we had less than 2 per cent light spots, with the rest white cotton; and we have had the report from many growers of Gregg that their grades were this good or better.

Self Defoliation
While Gregg cotton is growing and up till the time it begins opening, it will hardly lose a leaf; but when it starts opening, a rapid self-defoliation sets in, which is far greater than in any other cotton which we have seen or grown. This self-defoliation together with the natural tendency of Gregg cotton to go to fruit and not to stalk, makes for a maturity in cotton which is highly desirable for us who grow cotton under the conditions we have on the Plains.

Blight Resistance
Self-defoliation in respect to our cotton, however, may vary somewhat with conditions of heat and moisture, there being a difference in defoliation between dry land and irrigated cotton. Under irrigation on the Plains and with cooler weather after the middle of September, the self-defoliation of Gregg cotton is near perfect.

High Yield & Grade
As to the tremendous importance of both yield and grade to the farmer let us take the example of a field of cotton that makes a bale and a quarter to the acre and another field that makes a bale to the acre, but brings $15 a bale less when marketed. Figuring the extra lint and seed with the extra price and you have almost $60 an acre increase for the first field of cotton.

Seed
Farms confidently expect their cotton to perform according to the information given, and when you purchase seed from them, they believe you will get the same results which they have secured and other growers have also verified.

Visit The Gregg Farms
We cordially invite you to visit our farms any time during the growing season, to inspect our cotton for yourself and see its resistance to lead blight or any other points you may wish to observe. From the farms of our customers we have received many reports of high yields and good grades which are the factors which determine the farmer's profit. If you realize that it is feasible and possible to improve cotton growing on the Plains, Gregg is recommended as something different in a cotton. Contact your ginmer when the cotton opens the stalks will straighten again, thus making it possible to do an excellent job

DDT Residue Tolerances Listed for Fats

Regulations from the Pure Food and Drug Administration have established tolerances of 7 parts per million for residues of DDT in or on the fat of meat from cattle, hogs, and sheep, according to Extension Entomologist F. M. Fuller.

Residues of DDT in beef fat are likely to exceed this tolerance if beef cattle are fed forage on which any DDT application has been made or if they are fed on silage made from DDT-treated forage. Spraying, dipping, or dusting beef cattle with DDT is equally likely to result in an excess of the 7 parts per million tolerance.

Hogs and sheep can be dipped or sprayed with DDT preparations without exceeding the tolerance level, however, if they are held at least 30 days before slaughter.

Fuller says these are the first tolerances established for insecticides in or on livestock and stresses that they apply to DDT only. However, he adds, it is assumed tolerances will be established in the near future for other chlorinated hydrocarbons recommended for livestock use.

Fuller adds a word of caution for the dairy farmer. Although no tolerances have yet been established for residues of DDT in milk, it is assumed that they will be set at zero. Studies indicate that applica-

Several Factors Enter Into Good Range Plans

A combination of practices is essential in any good range management program, asserts Extension Range Specialist G. O. Hoffman, and all share equal importance.

Some of the most common ones are proper stocking, effective brush control, knowledge of range plants, range reseeding and range fire protection.

Don't plan on restocking pastures until this winter, warns Hoffman. Most of the current early spring growth which has followed recent rains is annual weeds and grasses and probably won't last over six weeks.

Where growth conditions are favorable, the specialist recommends planning for aerial spraying of oak and mesquite. Original or normal mesquite growth must be sprayed with at least 1/3 pound of 2,4,5-T or silvex mixed in 1/2 gallon of diesel oil and enough water to make 3 gallons of spray solution per acre. Swath width should not exceed 60 feet.

Hoffman says regrowth mesquite with heavy foliage should be treated with a mixture of 1/2 pound 2,4,5-T or silvex acid mixed in one gallon of diesel oil and enough water to make 4 gallons of spray solution per acre. Swath width should not be more than 42 feet, he concludes.

Other recommendations for good range management stressed by the specialist include brush control along fence rows around cultivated fields grazing program to take advantage of the early moisture supply. Local county agents, suggests Hoffman, can supply information on recommended range improving practices.

Household Control Of Insects Compiled Into New Pamphlets

Seldom can one observe a home and its surroundings without finding some form of insect life. That's the text of a new leaflet compiled by extension entomologists offering today's best control measures for household pests.

Certain pests may be found outside and controlled before they enter the home, say the specialists. Some pests live entirely within the home, however, and must be controlled by applying insecticidal sprays or dusts inside the dwelling.

Entomologists say insect activity changes from season to season. While some feed on fabrics, contaminate food, or attack dwellings, others bite humans, carry diseases, or cause infections. Sanitation and good housekeeping usually are effective in controlling or preventing most of these nuisances.

But even the best-kept homes sometimes become infested, point out the entomologists, and require more direct action. Many types of sprayers and dusters designed for use in controlling household pests are now on the market. This new bulletin classifies all major pests except the termite into specific categories relating to type of damage. Illustrations, descriptions and summaries of common habits supplement clear, concise control measures listed for each insect.

Some cautions listed by the specialists concerning application of oil solutions include: Never spray near pilot lights or other open flames; don't apply directly to the skin of humans or pets and always allow sprayed surfaces to dry before touching them to prevent smears.

Read the manufacturers' labels on all insecticides and follow directions to the letter. Store out of children's reach and label home mixtures.

Brown Patch in The Lawn Is Controllable

Brown patch is a rather common lawn disease in Texas. Most lawn grasses are susceptible but San Augustine lawns are most often attacked, says Extension Plant Pathologist Harlan Smith.

He says the disease starts as small spots in the lawn, but the circular brown areas spread rapidly and the grass soon takes on a dead appearance.

Infected areas often regain their green color following changes in the weather, says Smith. Brown patch is most prevalent during humid weather on lawns with a dense turf when night temperatures remain 70 degrees F. and above.

To prevent the disease, Smith says to avoid overwatering at all times. If serious outbreaks of the disease occur, avoid watering during the late evening or at night and apply fungicides.

The specialist recommends the use of Tersan, Semesan, Special Semesan, Kromad, Calochlor or Actidione. These chemicals, he adds, should be used in strict accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations, including precautions in handling them.

Brown patch disease is caused by the same fungus which causes serious diseases in cotton. Irish potatoes and many other crops. It lives in most soils regardless of the plants being grown and when conditions become favorable causes the disease outbreaks.

Glowing Dreams

Spinning out daydreams of a glowing future is a pleasant pastime and a national American hobby. Daydreaming alone though, won't make this world a better place in which to live, won't bring peace among the nations, law and order to the community or harmony to the family. It takes personal decision and personal commitment resulting in real work before any of these dreams can be brought closer to reality.

Only cooperative organized forces can change society. The Church is one of the greatest forces for an orderly, peaceful world. Your active participation is wanted and needed—Go to Church Sunday and put your shoulder to the wheel with a half-million others who serve one another in love.

Is something wrong with your life—an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure.

Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!

State Representative,
98th District

The House was adjourned Monday, March 25, in memory of Charlie Heilman, Jr., State Representative from District 6 in Nacogdoches, Texas, who died Saturday, March 23, after suffering a heart attack while at his desk in the House.

A number of local bills were cleared this week and sent to the Senate; however, there was considerable debate on a few general bills. After a stormy debate, H. B. 32 was passed and sent to the Senate. This is an act to make unlawful the employment by the State, School, District, County, or city; of any member of the N. A. A. C. P.

There was considerable debate on the floor of the House Thursday which consumed most of the day in conjunction with H. B. 3. This is an act establishing standards of conduct for state officers, employees, and legislators, in the area of business conflicts between their private interests and official duties.

Most of the debate concerned the operation of such a code of ethics and its effect on members who have various business interests in addition to their official duties. The bill passed by a good margin on Second Reading. Now the bill must be read and passed a third time before final passage in the House and later action in the Senate.

The General Appropriations Bill, H. B. 133, has been amended by the Senate, and at the present time, committees from the House and the Senate are meeting to reconcile their differences. This bill should be cleared within the next week and presented to Governor for his signature.

The I. C. T. Investigations Committee is proceeding favorably and uncovering considerable amounts of new information. During the next week or ten days, we are expecting a final report from the "Cox Committee". All of the members are anxiously awaiting this final report, for the members are making a sincere effort to clean their own House and maintain the confidence of the public. I will probably be able to give you the highlights of that report in my next newsletter.

How does the Governor react to recent scandals in state government?

He thinks there will be more shocks and disappointments on the part of all Texans before the current "cleanup activities" are finished. He has publicly warned the state that more is coming but did not give any idea about what to look for in the way of new scandals.

There will be some convictions and punishments meted out when some of these cases reach court," he said.

The Governor's recommendations for progress and good government include:

1. A lobby registration law.
2. A code of conduct for state officials, legislators and employees.
3. A law requiring registration of all persons who practice for pay before state agencies.
4. A complete reorganization of the Texas Insurance Commission.
5. Establishment of a State Law Enforcement Commission.

There are other recommendations, including establishment of a paid parole and probation system; revision of narcotics law; expansion of the Youth Development Council in an effort to curb juvenile delinquency.

The Governor's attitude toward recent scandals seems to indicate there's going to be more house cleaning. But he also points out that of the 40,000 persons on the state payroll, scandal or the hint of dishonesty has touched only a few.

All around the capitol a new desire seems to be growing. Legislators and employees alike are seeking ways to help restore the public's confidence in state government, and some think that the Governor's proposals may offer the answer.
