Sen. Short talks re-election

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

State Sen. E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, was in Big Spring yesterday to announce his bid for re-election in the 28th Senatorial District.

Howard County is unofficially in Short's district because of the recent senate redistricting plan drawn up by a board consisting of Bill Hobby, Bill Clayton, Mark White, Bob Bullock and Bob Armstrong. The plan will go into effect as soon as the state supreme court rules on the constitutionality of the plan.

There have been several suits filed on both the senate and house redistricting plans questioning whether the new districts violate the Voting Rights Act.

Pending any drastic changes it appears that Howard County will be placed in the 28th Senatorial District. Previously, Howard County was in the 30th District and represented by Democratic Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls.

Sen. Short read a prepared statement which said, "Being senator is like most other jobs — a person must learn the rules of procedure and the people for whom he works."

Short said he believes in letting people get actively involved in government rather than government thrusting rules and procedures on the people.

SEN. E.L. SHORT
...discusses water plan

"I don't care to do very much in Austin except what the people want me to do. I have no particular ax to grind in Austin. I let the people relate their needs to me and if there is enough interest in my district I go to work and see what can be done, and I have been successful with most of my bills," Short said.

One of Short's principal upcoming projects is a water plan for Texas. He hopes his water plan will garner public input and support and ultimately replace the water trust fund amendment that votes defeated at the polls in November.

Short said instead of the legislature designing a plan it thinks is in the best interest of Texas, the plan should be drawn up by public input and decision.

"Education is a big factor toward getting public acceptance of a water plan. We might be doing the state and ourselves a favor by putting on a first class public relations campaign in Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and the places that primarily defeated the water trust fund in November."

"People are not saying they're against water and water matters. They're saying, 'show us a plan. Explain to us a more understandable and business-like approach to our state's water problem,'" Short said.

Short said after many statewide hearings and much lobbying he hopes to introduce two constitutional water amendments into the next legislative session.

The first will allow the state to guarantee local water bonds and the second will permit the state to pay up to 12 percent interest on bonds sold.

Short said he could not say what form of collateral would be used to guarantee the bonds, but he had three ideas in mind.

"There are many ways I can think of: First each project would be authorized locally. That bond election would require beneficiaries of that project to pledge its own collateral, as it presently does."

"Secondly, the state could co-sign with local entities of government."

"And thirdly, the state's good faith toward bond guarantees could be from general revenue of the state or the state could come up with a new source of funding," Short said.

Short said at the present time he has not acted on his water plan, but he is making arrangements to begin his lobbying effort possibly next month.

Another priority on Short's agenda is to provide better incentives to teachers in the form of higher salaries and stepped-up benefits.

He said he would also like to see one cent of the state sales tax returned to the school districts in the form of tax relief. He indicated this would ease the tax burden on homes, businesses and farms.

Sen. Short said that to his knowledge, he is the only candidate so far in District 28. There have been reports that John Smith, R-Odessa, might oppose Short in November of 1982.

Short concluded by saying he plans to become very familiar with Howard County in the coming year and he said, if re-elected, he would consider establishing an office in Big Spring since Howard County is the third largest county in the 28th District.

Short currently has offices in Lubbock and Odessa.

'Free' cheese for needy expected

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Several needy families in Big Spring may benefit from a government surplus of cheese which is being distributed across the country.

Locally, the Salvation Army is handling the formal request for some of the surplus cheese. Rose Stapp, a Salvation Army employee, told the Herald today.

The surplus is a result of the storing of 560 million pounds of cheese because of federal farm laws assuring dairy farmers a minimum price for the product.

The surplus is being stored because producers can get more by selling it to the government than by selling it in the marketplace.

Ms. Stapp said she was contacted by James Clinton, an assistant in the commodities division of the Texas Department of Human Resources, headquartered in Lubbock.

Clinton asked Ms. Stapp to prepare a request for the cheese, "showing a need" for a share of the proposed distribution in this area.

Related story, page 9A

Clinton told the Herald today that the cheese distribution in this area "is at a standstill" as compared to other areas of the country. "The Federal Government is not sending us any" cheese at present, but he said he expects a shipment to the West Texas area within a week.

The cheese is to be distributed "to non-profit institutions, such as the Salvation Army," Clinton explained today. Other agencies are also being considered for a part of the distribution, agencies "which will be responsible for donating time to the actual distribution."

Clinton also said that there are no guidelines for the distribution to the surplus cheese, and that families who "come in and sign papers" certifying that they are in need of the cheese will probably receive the amount they request.

Clinton said if Big Spring receives an approval for the cheese, a city agency will have to collect the cheese from a government warehouse in San Angelo.

After stories of the surplus were released, Clinton said "we don't have the surplus to meet those needs. We don't have the (amount of cheese) in stock to meet those demands."

He added that area warehouses kept a supply of cheese and other foodstuffs on hand for public schools and other agencies who normally receive food from the government, and that these agencies were receiving what they were requesting.

But large orders for the surplus cheese, for example, a request for 4,000 cases from El Paso, and 1,000 cases from Sweetwater, are being handled as surplus supplies arrive.

Paula Talbot of the State Department of Human Resources' local office stressed that her office was not responsible for the distribution of the cheese. The local office did assist the Salvation Army in preparing a formal request for a part of the surplus to be sent to this area.

Not all institutions in the country are benefiting from the surplus, though, according to John Allman, superintendent of the Big Spring Federal Camp.

Allman said recently that the prison received a large supply of peanut butter, and that his staff was swapping the peanut butter in order to get some cheese locally.

With surpluses of cheese being shipped in car-loads around the country, "We couldn't get any," Allman said.

Political pot boiling in Howard County

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Clerk's office has been a busy place this week with persons showing their intention of running for the 11 county offices open for election this May. Eight persons have filed Designations of Individual Campaign Treasurer's with the clerk's office.

The designations are the first step in the process of running for public office, according to County Clerk Margaret Ray. "People have to file the designations before they can spend any money seeking an office," Mrs. Ray said. "They show an intention to run, but are not a filing for a county office."

The actual filing for county office comes when the person pays his $300 filing fee to the chairman of the party under which he is running — Democratic or Republican, said Mrs. Ray. "The designations show only an unofficial intent to run for office. We have had several file designations in the past years that did not follow through with the process."

Howard County Democratic Chairman M.H. "Slick" Boatler said no one has paid a filing fee to the Democratic treasurer as of today.

Ray also said the designations do not require persons to state which office they are running for, but most people do.

The following persons have filed designations with the county clerk's office for these offices:

County judge — Milton Kirby, John Manley.

County clerk — Margaret Ray.
County treasurer — Bonnie Franklin.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2 — Bob Smith, Lewis Hefflin.

Justice of the Peace, Precinct 2 — Willie Grant.

District clerk — Peggy Crittenden.

Construction since 1950 tops $138 million

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Q: How much was all the construction carried out in Big Spring since 1950 worth?

A: It's worth $138.8 million, according to figures released yesterday by the city building inspection office.

This grand total was released along with the regular year-end and monthly reports on building activity in the city by Chief Inspector Dewey Byers.

Thirty-seven building permits were issued in December, according to the reports, bringing the year's total to 399. The permits earned the city $14,871 in fees for the year, and were issued to carry out $7.4 million worth of construction.

There were 350 permits issued in 1980, which brought the city $12,207 in fees. The 1980 permits okayed construction worth $4.9 million.

Highlights of construction activity last month include 18 permits issued to Albinde-Bramelea, owner of the Big Spring Mall (scheduled for its grand opening in March).

The Big Spring Education Employees Federal Credit Union bought a permit to construct an office addition, Byers said. Estimated cost of the construction is $100,000.

Four permits were issued to build new residential structures.

Despite the increase in permits brought on by construction of the Big Spring Mall on F.M. 700, December was only the fourth busiest month of the year in terms of the number of permits issued.

In terms of monthly value of construction given the go-ahead by the city, December ranked sixth.

Only five times in the last 31 years has the cost of construction given permits risen above the $7 million mark.

The leading year was 1978 with $10.3 million, followed by 1974 with $8.3 million (with construction of Malone-Hogan Hospital chipping in $4.5 million).

Also included in the reports were figures on water and sewer service hookups. There was one sewer tap in December, bringing the year's total to 47 (compared with 63 in 1980). Four water taps brought the 1981 total to 86 (compared with 64 water taps the year before).

Son of deceased Dawson couple can inherit land despite goof

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The son of a deceased Dawson County couple can inherit some property described wrongly in the couple's will, the Texas Supreme Court agreed today.

By upholding the judgment of District Judge George Hansard, the court ruled that the will of A.J. and Lela Cohorn should be probated, with son B. J. Cohorn receiving a tract of land in dispute.

Five children of A.J. Cohorn by a previous marriage challenged the probating of the will as applied to their father.

An appeals court earlier upheld Judge Hansard's ruling in favor of B.J. Cohorn. It said the will "clearly and intelligently" gave him a tract of land but no land fitting that exact description exists. The Cohorns owned two tracts of a similar description, the court noted.

The Supreme Court found no error in the lower court rulings.

Mitchell County's first 1982 baby

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The first baby born in Mitchell County is four-pound 15-ounce Naomi Salazar Liedeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Liedeker.

The brand new Mitchell County resident was born New Year's day at 8:34 a.m.

According to the proud parents they are happy to have a healthy baby girl.

Liedeker said, "Next time we'll have a boy, but right now we're looking forward to the time when we can take Naomi home from the hospital."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: First baby

Q. Why is it that an out-of-town couple got the recognition for having the first baby born in Howard County in 1982? I thought the family eligible for prizes in the First Baby of the Year contest had to reside in Howard County.

A. There was no contest for first baby of 1982. The old contest did have as a stipulation the couple be from Howard County, but the Herald's story concerned the first baby born in the county regardless of residence.

Mudslides hamper rescue efforts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An avalanche of mud and toppled trees blocked rescuers from reaching up to 20 people trapped today inside buried houses as mudslides continued to tear away hillsides around San Francisco Bay a day after a ferocious storm ended.

At least 21 other people died in mudslides, drownings and other accidents related to the storm, one of the worst in northern California history. Scores were injured and an undetermined number were missing.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. declared a state of emergency Tuesday in six storm-battered counties as estimates of property damage climbed toward $100 million.

In the town of Ben Lomond, about 60 miles south of San Francisco, mud churning down a steep canyon toward Love Creek buried at least eight houses, keeping rescuers from reaching people trapped inside and standing uphill residents, authorities said.

In Marin County, across the bay from San Francisco, two or three homes toppled down a Sausalito hill, killing one person, and from 450 to 3,000 people were being evacuated from their homes, officials said. Mudslides forced closure of the Golden Gate Bridge.

Mudslides in Marin County were undermining U.S. 101 leading to the Golden Gate Bridge and were threatening houses below in Sausalito, said Paul Douglas of the California Highway Patrol.

In Pacifica, 10 miles south of San Francisco, a father had just grasped his son's hand to pull him from their wrecked home when a cascade of mud swept them apart, said Fire Chief Cal Hinton.

The boy and his two sisters were trapped when a mudslide and part of an uphill home crushed their house. The girls' bodies were recovered late Tuesday, and rescue workers and dogs continued to search for the boy, who was presumed dead.

The mudslides were caused by a storm that pounded northern California from Sunday until Tuesday morning with an average of 10 inches of rain and gusts of 50 mph.

Brown's declaration freed state money for repair work and allowed the state to request low-interest loans from the federal government. The counties are Marin, Contra Costa, San Mateo and Santa Cruz for the current storm, plus Humboldt County for damage in a storm that began Dec. 19.

Among the victims of mudslides was an acclaimed 59-year-old professor of Chinese language and literature at San Francisco State University. Kai-yu Hsu died when mud engulfed his Tiburon home in Marin County.

In Santa Cruz County, mudslides claimed lives in Boulder Creek, Santa Cruz, Soquel, Felton and Ben Lomond.

"The death toll will probably rise substantially in Ben Lomond" as rescue workers fighting eight acres of mud and fallen redwood trees reach the buried homes, said sheriff's investigator Joseph Henard.

Officials who flew over the mud-swamped hillside estimated from eight to 15 people, possibly as many as 20, had been trapped in the buried homes.

There was "no way" to get in Tuesday, although rescuers with four-wheel drive vehicles tried to climb the mudslide, Henard said.

Homes in the higher reaches of the canyon escaped the slide and dozens of people managed to get out but officials still were "concerned with getting people that are alive out of the area," Henard said.

Signup at HC's Lamesa campus begins Monday

LAMESA (SC) — Registration will be held Monday and Tuesday at the Lamesa Campus of Howard College, located on the Lubbock Highway in Lamesa, for the spring semester.

The semester begins Jan. 13. There are 14 class offerings available for Lamesa and Dawson County residents.

According to Jody Furlow, campus secretary, an average of 135 people consistently take courses each semester. A new campus director, Dan Shockey of Plainview, has been named. He will begin duties at the campus this week.

Sign language

NOON

Robin Byers, an interpreter at the SouthWest College Institute for the Deaf, signs "noon" in the photo here.

To sign "noon," the fingertips of the left hand, palm down, support the right arm which is held straight up with the open palm facing left.

Dr. Lottie L. Rieckhoff in "The Joy of Signing" says this sign represents the sun in the overhead position.

Chamber panel mulls motivation workshop

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Members of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Business Committee, chaired by George Weeks, met Tuesday at the chamber offices to discuss a possible motivation workshop to be offered to area retail businesses.

Weeks expressed his disappointment that more people did not attend the planning meeting Tuesday. But those present heard Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery and Associates, and Joel R. Combs, president of Developmental Training Services, discuss how each of their companies would conduct a motivation workshop locally.

Combs, who headquarters out of Amarillo, told the group that his company offers a developmental training workshop for employees which deals with improving employee attitudes and memory work.

Mrs. Avery said Avery and Associates could offer a similar program but added that her company could also offer a sign language course to retail businesses in this area, a feature which "would cater to this buying population," she said.

Mrs. Avery said she would like the time to prepare a formal presentation for the chamber committee which would outline what her company would offer.

Weeks said he felt a workshop would be beneficial to area merchants because "we're all in this together," and that the goal of such a workshop would be "improved sales."

Weeks outlined what he says he sees as the average attitude of a salesperson today.

"They are looking forward to 5:30 p.m. and payday," he said. "There's more to it than that."

Weeks said he wants to see workshops which could motivate employees to seek advancement within a certain sales team, and to help employees find satisfaction with the work they are doing.

"The number one problem is that we can't find anybody who wants to work," he said.

Police Beat

$1,255 burglary reported

Police are investigating a $1,255 burglary reported at the 704 Pine residence of Robert Evans.

According to police reports, Evans told police someone entered his residence while it was vacant Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Stolen were two television sets, a cassette player, 30 albums and about $70 worth of meat, police said.

Officers called to investigate the burglary said they found no sign of forced entry. A search for fingerprints was unsuccessful, police said, adding that there were no suspects in connection with the case.

• A thief possibly looking for expensive items found religion instead when he entered a car owned by Sarah Pollard of 1002 N. Main.

According to police, Ms. Pollard's Chevrolet was parked outside Herman's restaurant, 1601 Gregg, between 11:30 p.m. yesterday and 1 a.m. today when the theft took place.

The stolen items? A Bible and two church secretary books, according to police reports.

Police said Ms. Pollard told them the car was not locked at the time the theft occurred.

Also said to have been taken was a bag of food.

• James Barton of 1514 Sycamore told police $500 worth of old coins were stolen from his home between Dec. 4 and Jan. 5, according to police reports.

• Detectives are looking into the theft of $233 in cash reportedly taken from the office of Nu-Wa Janitorial Service on Warehouse Road in the Big Spring Industrial

Mrs. Avery told the group that both she and Combs would like to know exactly what area retailers wanted to see in the workshop. She questioned what area of the retail field would be targeted.

Weeks complained that "we can't get enough people out to see what they want to do. We've never had enough people out," but added that trend reversed during the 1981 Centennial celebration.

Combs told the group that through his experience in offering workshops, he had found that "there are certain things that every employee needs to be trained in."

He added that in his experience in offering workshops "People just don't jump up and go to a training meeting." Combs said he felt it would be "a fair thing (for the stores) to pay tuition charges, and the employees to pay with their time."

Combs also had words of praise for Mrs. Avery, saying "I think you have a lady here in your community who could do a good job."

Mail flow in Lamesa continues constant

LAMESA (SC) — Lamesa postmaster, Dick Edwards, says that even though the holiday season has passed the mail traffic flow in Lamesa has been constant.

Edwards says there are several reasons for this. Publishers Clearinghouse and Reader's Digest are currently holding Sweepstakes contests, and many local and area residents have received brochures.

Also many of the large department stores have sent out catalogues this month. And various magazines have sent subscription notices and information pertaining to new subscriptions to their readers.

Edwards said January has been just as busy as the latter stages of December. During the past week, he said some days were busier than days during the peak season prior to Christmas.

Park. The money was said to have been in a bank bag and is believed to have been taken between 5:15 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. yesterday, according to police.

• A thief may have stolen more than he can handle when he took Bruno — a half-St. Bernard, half-timber wolf weighing 120 pounds — from the 2001 S. Monticello residence of Dennis Bin. Bruno, who Bin said was chained to a porch, is believed to have been taken between 7 and 8:30 a.m. yesterday, police said.

• Charles Clark of 1503 Wood told police $170 in cash and coins were stolen from his home yesterday morning after his apartment was broken into, according to police reports.

• Terry Stockton of Gail Route told police a wheel and tire to her pickup truck were either stolen or lost recently.

• Police said they arrested James Bence, 24, of Coahoma in the emergency room of Malone-Hogan Hospital last night on charges of public intoxication and disorderly conduct. The arrest was made at 11:05 p.m., according to police reports, after Bence had been brought to the hospital by ambulance for treatment of injuries received in an assault. The fight took place about an hour earlier at Faye's Lounge, 3317 W. Highway 80, according to police reports.

• Motor vehicles driven by Terri Cate of 511 Owens and Maria Chavez of Pecos collided in the 200 block of West Third at 2:19 p.m. yesterday, police said. There were no injuries reported.

Ambulance ordinance amended in Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa City Council met Monday and unanimously passed an ordinance on the second and final readings amending a chapter of the city code.

This move will exempt ambulance services whole or partially owned by government bodies from requirements in the chapter, which included a rule that the operator of the ambulance services obtain a permit for serving the city.

Leroy Olask, the Lamesa manager of the Texas Electric Service Company, explained an application to amend tariff and establish a new procedure concerning the company's fuel cost factor tariff schedule.

The company plans to receive fuel costs estimates from their affiliates, then file an estimate of those costs 70 days before the billing month. The amount Texas Electric Service customers would be charged under this procedure would be the same amount the company would pay for fuel and fuel charges and services.

The Council, however, voted to suspend the application for 120 days in order to check with the Texas Municipal League to get an opinion from them on the issue.

In a related item the council voted to authorize City

Manager Carroll Taylor to intervene in the company's tariff case before the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

In other action, the council decided to bypass any decision or discussion on a proposed ordinance which would authorize an additional 15 percent penalty to be charged on delinquent taxes. That item is expected to be discussed later.

In a tax related issue, the council approved, as expected, the contract with the Dawson County Tax Appraisal District for assessment and collection services, and the council also appointed Mike Watson as the city's chief appraiser and assessor-collector.

City taxes will now be paid at Watson's office on the Lubbock Highway, next to the Lamesa Campus of Howard College.

The council passed a request by property owners in the North Park addition to have street lights in that addition turned on. The council also approved a request by the Lamesa School Board that elections be held in conjunction with the city council elections, set for April 3.

The council took no action concerning a request by the school board that the school district be granted use of Lamesa's Lobo Park for the 1982 baseball season.

CRMWD revenues top estimates by $250,000

Revenues of $673,054 in November pushed Colorado River Municipal Water District revenues past the $6 million mark for the year. But expenses of $403,045 during the month brought the 11-month total to $5,008,382.

Another way of saying it is that while revenues were a quarter of a million over estimates for the period, expenses exceeded estimates by half a million.

Nevertheless, the district will finish the year in the black and with ample reserves to meet required debt service coverage. Income of $524,121 from the cities made it $6,371,132 from this source for the 11 months of 1981. Oil companies paid in $132,351 in November, making their total $1,496,096 for the year.

For November operating expenses included $290,161 for electric energy, making the total $3,371,055 for the 11 months. Payments were based on water sales of $65,335,000 gallons to the cities, making 11,039,301,000 gallons for the first 11 months of the year 218,657,000 and 2,289,153,000 gallons to oil companies; or 1,184,192,000 gallons for November and 16,328,954,000 gallons for the 11 months.

Of the total production in November, 1,009,056,000 gallons came from Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence, or 85 percent, while only 5,622,000 came from the potable wells, or half of one percent.

For the 11 months, well production accounted for 2,138,363,000 gallons, or 13.09 percent of the total production. Obviously, the wells are getting a rest. Combined storage in the two lakes Nov. 30 was 313,535 acre feet, or 54 percent of capacity. Withdrawal in November was 3,096 acre feet.

Volunteer units douse three fires in county

Volunteer fire units were called to three separate fires Tuesday in Howard County. No residences were damaged and no one was injured in the blazes, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard.

An 11 a.m. fire was reported north of Corbell Electrical Co., Farm Road 700. It was extinguished by the Jonesboro volunteer firemen, according to sheriff's office records.

A 3 p.m. grass fire behind Stuckey's off Interstate 20 was handled by volunteers from Jonesboro and the Silver Hells addition. Also on I-20 east of Coahoma, a truck fire was handled by the Coahoma Fire Department. The truck, owned by Abate Cotton Harvesting Company, Marlin, was not seriously damaged, Standard said.

Worried About How You'll Look With A Hearing Aid?

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Department 26439 Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service predicts rain Thursday for parts of Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, the Carolinas and Virginia. Snow is predicted for parts of New Mexico, Arizona, Maine, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Montana and North Dakota. Showers are predicted for parts of Florida and Georgia.

Snow possible in West Texas

By The Associated Press cloudy to cloudy skies and Spring-like weather was warm temperatures expected to come to an statewide today. Highs were abrupt end across most of to be mostly in the 60s and Texas by tonight as a cold front pushed its way south- ward, bringing with it much colder temperatures, blustery winds and the threat of some widely scattered snow.

The widely scattered snow or rain mixed with snow was forecast as possible late tonight and early Thursday in portions of the Panhandle and West Texas.

The cold front was expected to push its way across the state by early Thursday. Forecasts called for partly

By The Associated Press Poland's military regime reported nearly normal production in the country's coal mines and also announced plans to resume domestic air service later this week.

PAP, the official news agency, said production of coal, Poland's chief export, totaled 617,041 tons Monday, "the first such daily yield for a long time and a good forecast for the new year." The claimed tonnage was 90 percent of the average daily output in 1979, before labor unrest swept the country the next year, and 40,000 tons more than the target set by the government last year.

As other evidence of "progressing normalization," PAP reported LOT, the national airline, would resume domestic flights Friday between Warsaw and Gdansk, Cracow, Szczecin and Wroclaw. Domestic air travel was suspended when martial law was proclaimed Dec. 13, and the news agency said service initially would be limited to one flight daily to each city.

PAP also reported theaters in some cities reopened Tuesday and one Krakow playhouse presented "Hamlet."

The easing of martial law began Monday with an announcement that telephone and telex service was restored in 10 of the 49 provinces and elementary and secondary schools had reopened. Radio Warsaw said the ruling Military Council of National Salvation hoped to reopen the universities by mid-February.

There was no easing yet of other restrictions on travel and communications. Western correspondents were allowed to file only curtailed censored dispatches, and uncensored reports said the government planned to isolate the captive hero of the independent labor movement, Lech Walesa, in a Roman Catholic monastery.

Walesa, the leader of the Solidarity labor federation, is under house arrest and is being moved frequently to prevent his escape, the Paris newspaper Le Matin reported. It said an unidentified Catholic priest close to Walesa reported he was in

Keston College, a British educational charity that monitors religious activities under Communist regimes, said a reliable source in Poland told it the military authorities agreed to put Walesa under the protection of the Catholic church on condition that he be kept in an isolated monastery and denied communication with the outside world.

"Walesa is an embarrassing prisoner for them and they did not know what to do with him," said Alexander Tomsy, one of Keston's Polish experts. "Now the church has accepted responsibility for Walesa on condition that he is kept incommunicado. It is a neat way of silencing the very important prisoner — and the church could hardly refuse the proposal."

The New York Times, in a censored dispatch from Warsaw, today quoted a Jaruzelski adviser as saying that there was

"a place" for Solidarity as "an independent, self-governing trade union" in Poland as long as it did not stray into opposition politics.

The paper quoted Capt. Wieslaw Gornicki, a spokesman for the new military council, as saying in an interview that Jaruzelski and his ruling military council "have no intention of dissolving Solidarity."

"The crucial thing," Gornicki was quoted as saying, "is that, in all the documents of the military council, it is repeated that in our system there is a place for an independent, self-governing trade union — independent from the state employer, but also independent from manipulation by political operators."

In an apparent attempt to divert attention from the sentencing of union leaders who fomented strikes and other protests against martial law last month, the military government on Tuesday began a much-publicized show trial on corruption charges of Maciej Szczepanski, former chief of the state radio and television services and a close friend of Edward Gierek, the ousted Communist Party chief blamed for Poland's disastrous economic situation.

Szczepanski went on trial with four former aides in Warsaw on charges of accepting bribes from foreigners, forging documents, misappropriating state funds and mismanagement.

Szczepanski's power in the state-run media was unchallenged in the Gierek era. He symbolizes what many Poles regard as the corrupt and amoral practices of the Communist Party during the 1970s when living standards declined, and his trial was viewed as an attempt by Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, the Communist Party's current leader and the head of the military government, to demonstrate that culprits within the party as well as those in Solidarity will be brought to justice.

The government claims and the uncensored reports from Poland could not be confirmed because of the censorship and the restrictions on travel and communications.

Schmidt says he supports sanctions against Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, attempting to squelch speculation of serious differences with President Reagan over the Polish crisis, says he supports the U.S. economic sanctions against the Soviet Union.

At the same time, Schmidt predicted Tuesday that the reprisals will pack little economic punch and made clear that his country has no plans for similar steps although he concurs with Reagan that the Soviets bear heavy responsibility for the military crackdown in Poland.

Schmidt and Reagan issued a joint communique at the end of their talks Tuesday blaming the Soviet Union for inspiring the crackdown and denouncing it as a "serious violation" of the Helsinki human rights accords. "It is obvious that the action would not have taken place without strong Soviet pressure," Schmidt told reporters.

The West German leader complained that the U.S. media had misrepresented his view by reporting that he did not share Reagan's assessment that the Soviets were largely to blame for the imposition of martial law in Poland.

Schmidt was leaving Washington today after a working breakfast with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

Bidding farewell to Schmidt outside the White House on Tuesday afternoon, Reagan said: "I emphasized my belief that a tangible alliance response to the Polish crisis must be made now. Should we fail to insist that the Soviet Union stop pressuring Poland directly and indirectly, the gravest consequences for international relations could ensue."

Schmidt said his government would not undermine the U.S. sanctions and the two leaders pledged that their governments would continue discussions on the Polish situation next week in Brussels at a meeting of the NATO foreign ministers.

But the West German leader did not announce any punitive measures his government might take to parallel the U.S. sanctions that Reagan has directed against Moscow.

A grain embargo is not included in the Reagan sanctions.

Pass the cheese, please

Perhaps President Reagan's order to give 30 million pounds of cheese to the needy caught your eye.

If it did, consider these numbers.

ALL TOLD, the government has in storage 530 million pounds of cheese, more than two pounds for every citizen in the country.

It also has 848 million pounds of nonfat dry milk and 212 pounds of butter, frozen in 68-pound blocks.

IT COSTS about $43 million a year just to store these dairy products. What prompted the cheese giveaway this year is the fact that cheese only keeps about 2 years before it ruins.

Thus the government was in the truly scandalous position of allowing 30 million pounds of cheese to ruin at a time when there were hungry people in the U.S., not to mention the rest of the world.

THE REAL SCANDAL in this situation, however, is in the manner in which the U.S. government acquired the dairy products.

It bought them as a part of the long-standing policy to prop up prices on dairy products. Thus dairymen continue to produce far more than can be sold to the public each year, confident the government will pay for the surplus.

In fact, President Reagan announced the cheese giveaway at the time he signed still another price-support bill, this one for $11 billion.

NO DOUBT the dairy lobby can offer sophisticated arguments telling us why it is in the consumer's interest to continue to subsidize the overproduction of dairy products (and other food products).

But there is something amiss when one group of citizens is given tax money lifted from their fellow citizens to make products for which there is no market.

CIA doesn't trust FBI

WASHINGTON — The FBI and CIA are playing a little game of Snow White: "Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who's the purest of them all?"

The CIA, it seems, has its doubts about the FBI's elite, 110-man counterintelligence staff. This is a role-reversal of the days when the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover doubted the CIA people's loyalty. Here's one incident:

In late October, the FBI assigned two G-men to the CIA for liaison duty. The FBI agents belonged to the bureau's counterintelligence force, supposedly the creme de la creme.

But in the course of their duties, the FBI men would have access to documents even beyond the top-secret category for which they had been cleared. So the CIA made them submit to the agency's rigorous polygraph tests, something the FBI does not require.

One of the G-men passed the lie-detector test; the other flunked. The CIA refused to give the second man clearance.

The questions in the CIA's polygraph examinations are extremely personal. They include such subjects as sexual preference and practices, past and present, and other personality traits that might render a CIA employee vulnerable to blackmail, greed or ideological temptation.

All CIA employees know that they may be asked to take a lie-detector test at any time, without warning or stated reason. An innocent-looking red security pass merely turns up on the employee's desk. It's a non-refusable invitation to the security office for interrogation — while hooked up to the sweat-and-pulse beat machine.

But FBI agents aren't accustomed to such treatment. So when the one agent failed the CIA polygraph, his bureau bosses were unimpressed.

The questions the G-man flunked involved his continuing contacts with the KGB. Sources told my associates Dale Van Atta and Andy Badhwar that the agent, as a counterintelligence officer, dealt with undercover KGB people as part of his job. He may have expressed some sympathy for one of his KGB targets. No big deal, according to the FBI.

But to the CIA, the FBI man was a potential double agent. CIA Director William Casey and his deputy, Adm. Bobby Inman, were reportedly alarmed by the polygraph test results. They suggested that all 110 FBI counterintelligence agents be run through the CIA's lie-detector tests. Inman, a fan of polygraphs since his days as head of the National Security Agency, strongly urged the idea.

When FBI Director William Webster broached the idea tentatively, he was confronted with a virtual rebellion. The counterintelligence staff refused to submit to the rival agency's polygraphs, and some threatened to quit en masse if required to do so. Webster told the CIA to forget about the polygraph tests.

What Webster didn't realize, according to my sources, is that there were two reasons his counterintelligence agents didn't want to take the polygraph tests. One was their professional distaste for being pushed around by another bureaucracy.

But the main reason was fear that the CIA lie-detectors might turn up some unpleasant information.

Footnote: A CIA spokesman denied that any such dustup with the FBI has occurred. My sources that the spy agency has a new policy of denying everything, that it is still worried about the FBI's security. Hoover must be whirling in his grave.

HEADLINES & FOOTNOTES: Perhaps beguiled by the name of the comic-strip dog "Snoopy" — an alleged beagle — the Navy has decided to recruit a whole pack of beagles to snoop for illicit drugs on U.S. warships. Though not nearly as intimidating as the German shepherds used by police departments to sniff out drugs, beagles will have a deterring effect on sailors who try to bring illegal pharmaceuticals on board, the Navy hopes. So the Navy plans to deploy 200 teams of trainers and dogs — most of them beagles — throughout the fleet this year.

—Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi has for years been suspected of wanting to acquire nuclear weapons, and the State Department thinks he may now be trying to build a nuclear capability from the ground up. A recent briefing paper notes that many of the Libyan students enrolled in American universities are taking courses in various aspects of nuclear energy. Some of the students have been sponsored by the Libyan Atomic Energy Commission. However, the briefing paper also noted that "the training which (the Libyans) receive is at a relative low level of sophistication and could be obtained in a number of other countries."

WATCH ON WASTE: The old dictum, "Garbage in, garbage out," is especially applicable to computers.

Wonderful as the machines are, they cannot rise above the quality of information fed into them by the programmers. Yet federal auditors recently found that in seven out of nine agencies surveyed, there weren't even any inspection standards to guarantee that the computers were programmed correctly. Uncle Sam's 18,000 computers cost the taxpayers more than $15 billion a year.

Reader replies to letter writer

Dear Editor: I would like to answer the person who was critical of our President in a letter to you that was in the Sunday paper.

Any President should have at his disposal the men and equipment to protect his safety and to permit him a time of relaxation from the most demanding job held by any person of the face of this earth.

Please don't misunderstand my position; I'll join with him in an attack on waste and over indulgence in high places. The Social Security Admin. discovered by matching death claims and retirement records that they were making monthly retirement payments to 6000 plus persons that were dead and 55 had been paid death claims. That is waste; criminal waste!

On the same page as the letter was "Around the Rim" where Walt Finley outlined accurately the actions of a selfish self-serving Congress that is determined to vote for itself a whopping raise in pay and shamefully trying to hide it.

Sooner or later they will slip it by and the cost of that one over indulgence will cut much more than our President's use of government men and equipment for short vacations. With all the protection that is given it is still a risky business to be Presi-

Billy Graham

Is hell real?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you honestly believe that Hell is a place of torment? I believe that Hell is just another name for the grave. — N.N.

DEAR N.N.: I cannot agree with you for one basic reason: the Bible will not allow me to do so. It is clear that Hell is real, just as Heaven is real, and that every soul on this earth will spend eternity either in Heaven or Hell.

It is interesting that the one who spoke the most about Hell in the Bible was Jesus Christ. Not only did he teach that Hell is real, but also that it is a place of great distress. He called it "outer darkness" (Matthew 25:30), and a place of "everlasting fire" (Matthew 25:41). He also spoke of Hell as a place of "everlasting punishment" (Matthew 25:46) or "torments" (Luke 16:23). The Bible also talks about those who are not saved: "He will punish those who do not know God and do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus. They will be punished with everlasting destruction and shut out from the presence of the Lord and from the majesty of his power" (2 Thessalonians 1:8-9).

These are sobering words, and should warn us against thinking about Heaven and Hell in casual terms or joking about them. They should cause us first of all to examine ourselves, to see if we truly know Christ and are trusting him for our salvation. There is a sense, you see, in which God does not send anyone to Hell — we send ourselves by our refusal to accept God's means of salvation in Jesus Christ. I hope that you personally will face your own need of Christ and embrace him as your Savior. God loves you, and "He is patient with you, not wanting anyone to perish, but everyone to come to repentance" (2 Peter 3:9).

They also should remind those of us who know Christ about the responsibility we have to share Christ with others. Jesus commanded us to "go and make disciples of all nations" (Matthew 28:19). Are we seeking to witness to others, and are we supporting — by our prayers and gifts — the ministry of others who are taking the gospel to people who do not know Christ?

dent. Don't forget that he has already been seriously wounded once.

As for his economic plan, we should give it a chance to work. It took 30 years to get us in this mess. It will take more than 1 year to work out.

I thank the Lord that we live in a country where both he and I can speak out.

Board official will not re-file

Dear Editor: It now comes time for me to announce to the people on the 17th Congressional District that my elected term on the State Board of Education extends for three more years. Following the 1980 census, redistricting is necessary, and each State School Board Member will have to ask for reelection in 1982.

The courts are now trying to determine the new districts. Should the determination of districts not be made in time for filing I will serve the remainder of my term. If the districts are timely established I will not file for reelection.

You have honored me by electing me for 10 years service on the State Board of Education. My family and I will always be grateful for your confidence.

Bent maxims of life

"Eat a live toad the first thing in the morning and nothing worse will happen to you the rest of the day."

Don't you wish you had known that about six a.m. today? Maybe not, but this rule is just one of the many sayings that reflect the twisted maxims of our world. The laws of science and legislation never really apply in the real world, as we all know.

Take the Unspeakable Law: "As soon as you mention something — if it's good, it goes away; if it's bad, it happens." How many times have you heard Cosell or Dandy Don say "He's made 3,000 straight field goals without a miss"? — you know the ball will blow up for sure.

Sports are not the only place where the quirky rules apply. Ever been in line before? What does the other line do? Etorre's Observation: "The other line moves faster." Physical laws of gravity and momentum are meaningless when that guy who got in "the other line" has been in Bermuda a week while spiders weave webs between you and the jerk in front of you.

PERHAPS THE BEST enunciator of life is Murphy with the old classic: "If anything can go wrong, it will." But what about his equally shattering "Nothing is as simple as it seems"?

You set out to wash the car only to end up rotating the tires and changing the brake pads. You're only going to vacuum the living room — but finish by re-painting the entire house. A simple request to your Uncle Ernie to kindly leave your house rapidly culminates with a SWAT team sprinting across your patio while a bullhorn gives you five seconds to surrender. Life isn't orderly.

Did you know there is even a rule taking into account those incredibly embarrassing situations when the wrong words emerge? It's Hartig's How is Good Old Bill? We're Divorced Law: "If there is a wrong thing to say, one will."

I'll never forget asking the engaged girl for a date back when I was single. How was I to know she was engaged — just because his name was branded on her forehead and she had an ENGAGEMENT ring with a diamond the size of a dinosaur egg?

Ever ask a friend about the girl he used to date in front of the girl he's now dating? Ever greet a long-lost friend with the wrong name? Ever ask about ole so-and-so who turns out to have "passed away"? Ever realize in the middle of asking a question just how stupid it is, that even the wall-paper knows the answer? Yes, we've all been there.

RULES FOR OUR imperfect world can be found for all situations. From Dhawan's Law for the Non-Smoker: "The cigarette smoke always drifts in the direction of the non-smoker regardless of the direction of the breeze" to the Old Children's Law: "If it tastes good, you can't have it. If it tastes awful, you'd better clean your plate," answers can be found to soothe our way.

If you cannot remember but two of the basic rules of modern-day survival, (all collected in Paul Dickson's "The Official Rules"), remember these — Panic Instruction for Industrial Engineers: "When you don't know what to do, walk fast and look worried," and Avery's Observation: "It does not matter if you fall down as long as you pick up something from the floor while you get up."

Thoughts

There is no man, however, she, who has not at some time in his youth said things or even done things whose memory he would wish to see expunged.

— Marcel Proust

We all originally came from the woods; it is hard to eradicate from any of us the old taste for the tattoo and the war-paint; and the moment that money gets into our pockets, it somehow or another breaks out in ornaments on our person, without always giving refinement to our manners.

— Edwin Percy Whipple

The day of the printed word is far from ended. Swift as is the delivery of the radio bulletin, graphic as is television's eyewitness picture, the task of adding meaning and clarity remains urgent. People cannot and need not absorb meanings at the speed of light.

Dr. Donohue

Rib inflammation a painful condition

Dear Dr. Donohue: I'd like your opinion on a condition I have. The doctors called chest pain I have costochondritis. I have had this for four months. What causes it and what can I expect? I'm now taking Motrin for it. Any exertion causes pain, so I have been unable to go back to work. Will this disable me in the future? I am 57 years old, a female who has been active all her life. — R.A.

You can expect that eventually this will go away. It almost always does. The ribs are attached to the breastbone by cartilage, an arrangement that allows us to expand our chest with each breath we take. Costo (for rib), chondro (for cartilage) and itis (for inflammation) add up to a bothersome ailment. Its pain can be severe enough to be mistaken for the pain of angina pectoris, to which, of course, it has no relationship. For some, it may be merely an annoying ache. Analgesics and the anti-inflammatory medicines, like the one you are using, usually work well, but it does take some time to come around. I mentioned angina pectoris. That is chest pain caused by insufficient blood supply to nourish the heart muscle. The real importance in diagnosing costochondritis is to rule out the angina.

When that is done, both the patient and doctor can breathe a sigh of relief, as they say, although to be truthful, when costochondritis is severe, the patient feels a twinge with even the mildest of sighs. But at least the cause of the pain is not life-threatening and if your pain relievers and anti-inflammatory medicines do not do the trick, the sore area can be injected with Novocaine-like drugs. Your real allies are time and patience.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A question has been eating at me for some time. Why has it become the custom for doctors and nurses to call one by her first name? A hospital experience is a traumatic one at best. A strange bed, hospital gowns, strangers inspecting and probing the most intimate parts of one's body, various stickings here and there. They all combine to give a concentration camp feeling. You are no longer a rational person with human dignity.

I accept all that as necessary in the complex art of the practice of medicine today. But why the coup de grace of addressing one as if he or she were senile, childish or a social inferior? If I wish to be called by my given name I'd like the privilege of suggesting it. — Don't Call Me Ann.

Madam, you have written to a kindred spirit. You have taken the thoughts out of my head and the words out of my mouth. First-naming is a practice that grates me, too. I don't know why, but when it is done, it's worse for me than the screeching of chalk against a blackboard. You have my support.

What can we do to fight back?

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Looking ahead

Now that we've discarded our 1981 calendars and face the blank pages of 1982, let us look for a moment at the unfinished business of the old year, and the agenda for the new.

CERTAINLY 1981 was a watershed year for American government. In response to the overwhelming mandate of the citizenry, Washington ended the old "business as usual" approach. For the first time in a generation, firm replaced rhetoric in the battle to control the size and cost of government.

Bureaucrats who for 20 years have looked complacently as politicians came and went — secure in what they perceived as the invincibility of their red-tape fortress — suddenly realized that this time the people and their representatives were serious. Not only has growth in government spending been curbed, but also a new philosophy has emerged in which every program, every use of the people's money, must be justified.

The cuts in growth enacted in 1981 are only the first step, however. There still are vast areas of the federal budget which must be scrutinized and controlled in 1982 and beyond.

Progress has been made in reducing the number of federal regulations. The panel chaired by Vice President Bush has made a good start in identifying regulations which are unnecessary, counter-productive or cost-inefficient. A cooperative effort between the executive and legislative branches of the government in the coming year could yield significant results in the effort to reduce the intrusiveness of government.

Decontrol of crude oil prices in 1981 was a major step toward ending disruptions in the market forces. Decontrol, if allowed to work, encourages production as well as efficient use of fuel. Natural gas controls currently have a negative effect in these same areas, and legislation will be needed next year to deal with this area of counter-productive regulation.

IN THE AREA of national defense, several strides in 1981 started to reverse the deteriorating trend in our defense capability. The President's strategic modernization plan, improvements in our readiness capability, military pay and benefit improvements to help keep trained men and women in the service and an improved shipbuilding program were enacted this year.

However rebuilding our defense capability will take sustained commitment over a period of years. We must be prepared to withstand the almost inevitable pressures from those who wish to protect narrow-interest domestic programs to back off from our rebuilding effort.

During 1982, I expect to see the benefits of the economic recovery program enacted in 1981 to revitalize our economy. Already interest rates are dropping and the inflation rate is out of the double-digit range. There is unfinished business here, too, however. Congress failed to enact all of the domestic budget cuts that were part of the President's economic recovery proposal. Particularly, we must deal with the so-called "entitlement" programs over which Congress has yielded its obligation to control spending levels. This is essential if we are to control the deficit and eventually balance the federal budget. True, long-term economic recovery and renewed prosperity can come only if we are able to tame the deficit monster.

Later this month we will convene for the second session of the 97th Congress. I am optimistic that we will be able to tackle the unfinished business from the first session, and that we will end 1982 with better, more responsible government than when we begin.

Demos welcome organized labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Party is welcoming organized labor back into the fold and hoping union leaders will bring the rank and file with them.

Democratic Chairman Charles T. Manatt met Tuesday with the presidents of 20 unions and acknowledged the session was a "recognition of the last 10 years of organized labor not taking a direct and active role in party activities."

He described the Reagan administration as "the most anti-union, anti-worker administration in this country in the last 50 years."

The union leaders said in a statement: "The economic policies of this administration are a tragedy for the nation and a particular hardship for American working men and women."

But the unanswered political question is whether rank-and-file union members are ready to follow their leaders back into a strong alliance with the Democrats.

In 1980, Reagan ran surprisingly well among blue-collar voters despite the endorsements that Democrat Jimmy Carter received from most union presidents.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll of voters on Election Day, found Reagan winning support from 45 percent of blue-collar workers. Carter polled 48 percent among this traditionally Democratic group.

Glenn Watts, president of the Communications Workers of America and co-chairman of the Democratic Party's labor council, said labor defections to Reagan reflected the fact that "the American people were frustrated with the pattern of things and they voted for a change."

Watts said he hopes "to mobilize the members of our labor movement much better than we have in the past."

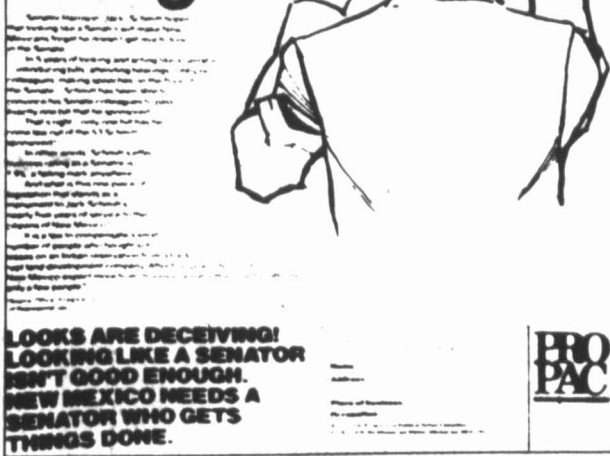

He said that while he would not try to tell members how they ought to vote, the CWA leadership "certainly does wish to give all its members as much information as it can."

John Joyce, president of the Bricklayers Union and co-chairman of the council with Watts, said: "Our members have too vital a stake in this whole thing to stand to one side."

The union leaders brushed aside criticism, from Republicans of the strengthened relationship with the Democratic Party. Joyce said the Republicans haven't asked labor for similar participation in party councils.

Watts said he would encourage Republican members of CWA to participate in GOP affairs.

Jack Schmitt may not get much done in the Senate, but he sure looks good doing it.

LOOKS ARE DECEIVING! LOOKING LIKE A SENATOR, BUT NOT DOING ENOUGH. NEW MEXICO NEEDS A SENATOR WHO GETS THINGS DONE.

CAMPAIGN ADVERTISING — This is an advertisement which ran last month in six New Mexico newspapers opposing Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M. The Progressive Political Action Committee is planning to spend $350,000 on 1982 advertising.

PROPAC takes on NCPAC

Negative political ad campaign picks up

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One advertisement depicts a handsome senator holding a mirror up to his face as he combs his hair. "Jack Schmitt may not get much done in the Senate, but he sure looks good doing it," is the message.

A second shows a man in sheep's clothing. "When Orrin Hatch cries 'wolf,' big business sends money," it says.

A third shows a couple cowering in their bed while a policeman shines a light in their faces. "If you think Jesse Helms is against big government, think again."

Each is a variation on a single theme adopted by the Progressive Political Action Committee: It's time to give political conservatives a dose of the negative advertising they've been administering to liberals.

It's a tiny dose so far, but more is on the way.

Only one ad has appeared in print — the anti-Schmitt appeal that claims the New Mexico Republican has managed to get enacted only one of the 53 bills he has sponsored in five years in the Senate. "Looks are deceiving," the ad says. "Looking like a senator isn't good enough. New Mexico needs a senator who gets things done."

The Schmitt ad ran last month in six New Mexico newspapers, timed to coincide with a visit Vice President George Bush made to the state on behalf of Schmitt and Rep. Manuel Lujan, R-N.M.

So far, at least, Schmitt is giving the advertising campaign the back of his hand. "The senator's stand is he has no comment on the ads," said an aide, Kay McKinney.

But PROPAC — as the Progressive Political Action Committee calls itself — has spent about $6,000 to run the Schmitt ads and is hoping they and others will generate a lot more reaction at the polls.

It plans more advertising this month and in February, expanded to include Helms, R-N.C., criticized for his bill to outlaw abortions; Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., depicted as an ineffective senator; and Hatch, R-Utah, criticized as a junketeering lawmaker who represents big business in general and the oil industry in particular.

PROPAC claims to have raised about $250,000 so far and hopes to have $350,000 to spend on its 1982 advertising, including radio and television messages as the 1982 elections draw closer.

By contrast, the National Conservative Political Action Committee spent $4 million in a 1980 campaign that apparently helped unhorse several liberal senators. This year, it has committed $1 million to defeat three House Democratic leaders and Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.

"I'm not discouraged by the catchup time," says Harriet Matthews, an official of PROPAC. "We're giving it to them just as they've given it to the progressives all these years."

APPLYING PRESSURE — Mayor Clyde Angel, left, receives a lesson in giving blood from Shirley Goetz, San Angelo, director of donor resources of the United Blood Services. Angel holds a signed proclamation declaring the month of January as National Volunteer Blood Donor Month. According to the proclamation, "in our community there is a need for 45 units of blood per day for the protection of patients in our hospitals."

Loss of appetite is serious

COLLEGE STATION — Lost your appetite? That's serious, and it signals a need for immediate action, says Mary K. Sweeten, a food and nutrition specialist.

Even though today's dieters may view loss of appetite with envy, it poses a major threat to good nutrition, body maintenance and healing from disease, the specialist says.

Sweeten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Senses of taste and smell play a key role in appetite, especially in relation to flavor, Sweeten explains. Smell is so closely related to flavor that when smell becomes distorted, the sense of taste suffers drastically, she says.

Permanent or temporary loss of these senses may result from allergic conditions, long-term physical disease, emotional illness or accidental fractures of the jaw or nose involving surgical correction.

Cancer can cause appetite loss — due to changes in the body chemicals, emotional problems and treatment side effects.

Many older adults also suffer from a loss of taste and smell, and they lose their appetites. Certain dental problems cause bad tastes, and this can affect the appetite, Sweeten notes.

Putting the appeal back in a meal creates quite a challenge in some cases, Sweeten admits, so experimenting with several ideas is her "worth a try" advice.

Here are a few suggestions: Try glass of meat broth or a glass of wine before meals. These stimulate the gastric juices, and that can result in better appetite.

If certain types of meat no longer have appeal, try others, such as beef, veal, lamb, chicken, pork, turkey or fish. Or try dairy products or eggs.

Barbeque meats, especially strongly flavored ones, for a more exciting taste adventure.

Try a variety of marinades to enhance meats. Sweet fruit juices, wines, Italian dressings or tomato juice will add flavor.

Use more and stronger seasonings in cooking, such as basil, tarragon, bay leaf or oregano.

Experiment with tart flavorings, such as lemon, vinegar or orange juice — these tend to enhance other flavors, too.

To flavor vegetables, add bacon bits, water chestnuts, onions, nuts or sliced ham strips.

To add more flavor to soups and sauces, add wine or mayonnaise. To increase their protein, add chunks of meat or cheese.

To help remove strange tastes from the mouth, drink more liquids, such as tea, juice or water — or eat fresh fruits or hard candies.

Appetite is important and necessary to maintain good nutrition, Sweeten says.

Proper recovery from an illness or surgery, in fact, requires extra protein and other nutrients for repair of the body tissues, such as skin, hair, muscles and organs.

Dear Abby

Second chance possible

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing to thank you for printing the ALMA (Adoptee's Liberty Movement Association) address in your column. After getting in touch with the organization, I've been reunited with my natural mother after 31 years!

She and I are both thrilled to have found each other. I never would have known about ALMA had I not read it in your column.

Words are inadequate to express my appreciation to you and ALMA.

ROBERTA IN FLORIDA

Now, please stay tuned for a word from Roberta's mother:

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for publishing the details about ALMA in your column. It has made possible a contact with a child I had given up for adoption 31 years ago. I read about ALMA in a news story in 1974 and registered with it under my maiden name. In 1981 my daughter read about ALMA in your column, and she wrote to register her name.

We found each other, and a Thanksgiving reunion was planned! I never dreamed this could happen. Thank you! ROBERTA'S MOTHER, WASHINGTON STATE

DEAR MOTHER: I am glad that I was able to play a part in this wonderful reunion. Yours is only one of many. Readers: ALMA's address is: P.O. Box 154, Washington Bridge Station, New York, N.Y. 10033.

Parents and their children can be "matched" only if both parties are agreeable.

This is not an agency that locates the natural parents of adoptees, or searches for children who have been adopted.

DEAR ABBY: I've run into a situation that requires your help. When a friend or neighbor asks to borrow kitchenware she knows I have, and I do not want to lend it to her, what should I tell her without hurting her feelings or telling a falsehood, which I don't want to do?

HOUSTON POST READER

DEAR READER: Tell her the truth: "I don't want to lend my kitchenware out." And don't be surprised if your candid refusal puts a slight crimp in your friendship, because it probably will.

...

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby: 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Use proper needle to hem heavy fabric

CLEVELAND — Sewing on heavy fabrics such as denim, canvas, upholstery, vinyl and leather can cause difficulty for the home sewer. Hemming these fabrics can further complicate things since you are often sewing through multiple layers of heavy fabrics. Distorted and skipped stitches and broken needles are frequent results.

If you're planning a sewing project that involves hemming a heavy fabric, Carole Fantel, education director for White Sewing Machine Company, offers a few tips to avoid the potential pitfalls. "Proper needle selection is critical for success when hemming heavy fabrics," said Ms. Fantel. "For denim, canvas and some upholstery fabrics use a No. 14 American size (No. 90 European) denim needle. This extra-sharp needle also works well on rip-stop nylon fabric used in backpacks and tents. Sewing leather, vinyl or suede requires the use of a size No. 14 wedge-point needle which doesn't leave perforation marks," she added. "When sewing on any heavy fabric, use a metal or teflon-coated presser foot, which will slide along easier and feed the fabric better."

"When hemming double thicknesses of heavy fabric you may prefer to use a roller foot — one that has feed dogs that act like tiny bulldozers. This foot provides good support and helps you ease over a bumpy thick seam. Some sewers think that you must use heavy wire-like thread when hemming heavy material. That's not true. A good grade 100 percent nylon or polyester thread is fine," said Ms. Fantel.

"Most household sewing machines and needles will not accommodate a double-thickness hem of heavy fabric, such as denim," she added. "So you have to 'cheat' a little. After washing, drying and pressing your fabric, measure the hem, leaving about a ¼-inch edge. Then overcast the edge with a zig-zag overlock stitch. This way, you are only sewing on a double layer."

Great American cheese giveaway spreads through California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — On a chilly day before Christmas, the deliveries began: volunteer trucks jammed with thousands of pounds of surplus American cheese wended their way through California, dumping their free loads for the needy.

Now, two weeks later, nearly a third of the state's 3.3 million-pound cache of cheese has been given away, and about 100,000 pounds are being delivered daily in five-pound blocks.

But the "great cheese giveaway" has faced major obstacles from the beginning, including a shortage of volunteers during the holiday season and northern California's worst winter storm in a quarter century, which closed roads and flooded towns.

"In my view, it was a miracle that any of the cheese was distributed," said Robert Gnaizda, a lawyer for Public Advocates, a legal group for the poor. "To have it released before Christmas would have been impossible."

The food represents a fraction of the 560 million pounds of cheese stored by the government because of federal farm laws that assure dairy farmers a minimum price for their products. The cheese was originally put into storage because producers could get more money by selling it to the government than selling it in the marketplace.

Frances Duarte, a mother of six who received free cheese in Fresno, said she was happy to get the food. "Poor people pay for everything anyway," she said. "They never take anything from the rich. But I wish they had more stuff to give."

On Dec. 22, President Reagan authorized the release of 30 million pounds of cheese nationwide, and California, which already submitted a distribution plan, received 3.3 million pounds. In California, the cheese is stored in 10 warehouses scattered about the less-populous northern part of the state.

The following day, the "cheese runs" got under way: trucks packed with thousands of pounds of cheese delivered their cargo to charitable "food banks" throughout northeastern California which shipped the cheese to neighborhood distributors.

"I'll feed my six children. We'll just sprinkle it on macaroni, and have macaroni and cheese," said Mary Ingram as she waited on Christmas Eve for six 5-pound blocks of cheese in San Francisco.

The pre-Christmas deliveries totaled about 168,000 pounds. Subsequent shipments, some of them in loads of 30,000 and 40,000 pounds each, took the cheese into Southern California where the bulk of the state's poor live.

Reagan's order followed pressure from groups representing consumers, the poor and the elderly urging him to free the cheese.

"We are trying to service any group which can establish a need," said Dick Thompson, a spokesman for the state Food and Agriculture Department. "There are about 3.3 million poor people in California...so theoretically there is about one pound per poor person, but we don't realistically believe we'll be able to deliver that."

State officials have estimated that the free cheese ultimately will get into the hands of about 300,000 of California's needy.

In Los Angeles, civil defense official Michael Regan said "survival" crackers could be added to the cheese giveaway, ridding the city of the stored crackers which officials have been trying to unload for six years.

Regan has been giving them to relief agencies in other nations and was preparing to ship thousands of pounds to Indian reservations in Arizona when the connection was drawn between the crackers and the surplus cheese.

Cheese shipments to the San Francisco Food Bank were interrupted late last week and officials there were waiting for volunteers to get them resumed. Hopeful recipients also were waiting for the giveaway in Modesto, where much of the cheese had been stored before statewide distribution.

JUDGE AND THE DEFENSE — Arkansas Attorney General Steve Clark, left, participates in a radio call-in show after U.S. District Judge William Overton, right, ruled the state's creation law unconstitutional. Clark, who defended the law, says he has not made up his mind on whether to appeal.

Creationists vow to go on offensive

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Creationists vowed to "take the offensive" after a judge overturned a state law requiring schools to teach creationism if they teach evolution, and the Mississippi Senate struck the first blow, passing a similar statute.

"If anything, creation-scientists' efforts will be intensified," Duane Gish, associate director of the Institute for Creation Research in El Cajon, Calif., said after the ruling. A challenge of Louisiana's new creationism law is expected to be heard this spring.

U.S. District Judge William Overton ruled Tuesday in Little Rock that the Arkansas law violated First Amendment guarantees of separation of church and state.

"It was simply and purely an effort to introduce the biblical version of creation into the public school curricula," Overton, the Methodist son of a biology teacher, said in his 40-page ruling.

"I believe that this case will deal creation-science a fatal blow," said Robert Cearley Jr., who represented the American Civil Liberties Union in the suit against the law.

Steve Clark, the Arkansas attorney general who defended the law in court, said he has not made up his mind on an appeal.

The law, which would have gone into effect in autumn, said public schools teaching evolution must also teach creation-science.

Evolutionists believe the Earth is billions of years old and life forms began developing gradually several million years ago. Creationists generally hold that the Earth and most life came into existence suddenly about 6,000 years ago.

The ruling, based on a nine-day trial last month, is "a very serious blow to academic and religious freedom," Gish said in a telephone interview.

Gish said he had greater confidence in Louisiana's defense of its new creationism law, also being challenged by the ACLU.

Louisiana Sen. Bill Keith, the author of Louisiana's creationism law, said his confidence was unshaken by the ruling.

Arkansas was "outgunned and outmaneuvered," Keith said. "I'm confident that with the proper defense, proper testimony, we'll win in Louisiana."

Last year, Arkansas became the first state to adopt such a bill, based on a premise that public schools can be required to teach creation from a scientific standpoint without religious materials.

Creationists have circulated the bill in most states and have offered it to Congress for national action.

The ACLU filed suit in May for 23 plaintiffs, including 12 clergymen, challenging the Arkansas statute and saying creation-science was religion in disguise.

The ACLU asked that the law be stricken on the religious issue and on grounds it is too vague and infringes on academic freedom. Overton ruled only on the religion issue.

More justice for Simonis

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Jon Barry Simonis, the admitted Ski Mask Rapist who already faces imprisonment for 20 life terms plus 2,191 years, was to be arraigned in his hometown today on three charges of armed robbery and one of rape.

Simonis, 30, was to appear at 9:30 a.m. CST with his court-appointed lawyer, City Councilman Wilford Carter, before District Judge L.E. Hawsey Jr.

In previous court appearances in four other Louisiana cities, Simonis apologetically pleaded guilty immediately after the charges were read. The judges then imposed the severest of penalties the same day during the earlier hearings at Jena, Donaldsonville, Baton Rouge and DeRidder.

Since his arrest here Nov. 28, Simonis has admitted 81 sex and/or robbery crimes in 11 other states, state police said. Men already had been convicted and imprisoned for crimes he admitted in Texas and Ohio.

One of the three armed robberies in Lake Charles involved the theft of $400,000 worth of gold and silver which later was fenced for about $4,000, according to the Calcasieu Parish district attorney's office.

Natural gas price increase predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of gasoline will rise 6 cents a gallon and homeowners who heat with natural gas will see their annual bills rise by $110 during 1982, according to the latest government predictions.

The Energy Department also says foreign oil imports, which have fallen sharply the last two years, will resume their upward climb in 1982.

Natural gas customers, who have enjoyed a substantial price break over their neighbors with oil furnaces, will see that advantage eroded somewhat in 1982, the DOE said.

The government predicted natural gas prices for residential customers will increase 22 percent in 1982. Natural gas, which cost $4.58 per thousand cubic feet in 1981, will cost $5.57 in 1982, the DOE predicted.

For the average residential customer buying 111,000 cubic feet annually, that will mean a total increase of approximately $110.

Price controls on natural gas are being lifted gradually under a 1978 law, which the Reagan administration has attacked for working too slowly. Energy Secretary James Edwards has said the administration will ask Congress next month to speed up the decontrol process.

Homeowners with fuel oil furnaces also are likely to see their bills rise in 1982, but only slightly. The DOE estimates that fuel oil, which averaged $1.21 per gallon in 1981 will sell for $1.23 in 1982.

Gasoline prices will rise by 6 cents a gallon during the year, the DOE said, from a $1.36 average for all grades in 1981 to $1.42 this year.

However, the department estimates this increase actually will trail the country's overall inflation rate by 3 percent.

DOE predicted U.S. petroleum consumption will decline by about 1 percent this year, continuing a trend that started after the 1979 Iranian revolution.

However, it predicted that despite the drop, the nation's appetite for foreign oil will rise by 2 percent in 1982 to 6.21 million barrels a day. This would come on the heels of 19 percent and 11 percent declines in oil imports in 1980 and 1981, respectively.

Ed Rothschild, director of Energy Action, a consumer group, said the sharp increases predicted for natural gas prices show that acceleration of the current decontrol program would be unfair since consumers already are seeing their bills increase by more than 20 percent a year.

Justice Department opposes ERA request

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment are losing a powerful ally in their drive to quickly overturn a federal court ruling that threatens to doom the amendment.

The Justice Department said Tuesday that it opposes a request by ERA advocates for an immediate appeal to the Supreme Court "since the entire matter may be rendered moot in the months ahead."

The department said it would only favor Supreme Court action if the ERA is ratified this year by three additional states by the June 30 deadline. The ERA has been approved by 35 of the 38 states needed to ratify a proposed constitutional amendment.

On Dec. 23, U.S. District Judge Marion Callister ruled in Boise, Idaho, that Congress violated the Constitution when it extended the deadline for states to ratify the proposed Equal Rights Amendment from March 29, 1979 until June 30.

The National Organization for Women sought immediate Supreme Court review of the ruling, arguing that it would dampen prospects of getting three more states to approve the amendment.

Assistant Attorney General Paul McGrath said Monday the Justice Department would appeal Callister's ruling in both the Supreme Court and in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco. He declined then to say on what basis the government would appeal.

Lawyer opposes telling aliens of asylum rights

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Immigration officials are not obligated to tell illegal aliens they can petition for political asylum in the United States, says a Justice Department lawyer.

"If we routinely advised each alien of a right to asylum, each would want to stay and we would have them in the U.S. for three or four months longer," said Allen W. Hausman of Washington. "We don't have the facilities and the detention camps to hold them all."

Hausman spoke Tuesday after a federal court hearing on a challenge several illegal aliens made concerning immigration practices.

"The attorney general of the United States has decided one Miami is enough," Hausman said of the uncontrolled arrival of Cubans and Haitians by boat to that city in recent years.

Lee Teran of San Antonio, a lawyer for the illegal aliens, argued her clients should be told of the asylum option.

"They are not advised at all in this district of their right to asylum," she told U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela. "Ninety percent of these cases never get to an immigration judge."

A large percentage of illegal aliens apprehended along the Texas border agree to "voluntary departures" and return to their home country without a hearing, she said.

Many aliens captured along the Texas-Mexico border come from El Salvador, Guatemala and other Central American countries torn by civil disorders.

The U.S. Border Patrol counted 2,639 Salvadorans apprehended in the first 11 months of 1981 between Brownsville and Rio Grande City, 100 miles to the west. The aliens' lawyers have argued that Salvadorans face danger, and possibly death, on returning home.

Vela said he wanted to study the asylum matter further and gave lawyers 10 days to file written arguments in the case.

"I see where the ruling here has the prospects of affecting world-wide immigration matters," he said.

"I tend to think that we should let them know (of asylum)," the judge said. "But that is not an educated statement, in that I have not studied the law on it."

Vela also said he would rule later on whether illegal aliens could act as paralegals. A paralegal assists lawyers in filling out forms and receives training from individual law offices, said Ms. Teran.

"Don't use them anymore until I rule on this," Vela said.

The judge told lawyers to draw up an agreed order applying to other practices at an immigration detention center near Port Isabel.

The two sides agreed that immigration officials should not take personal papers from aliens when captured.

Lisa Brodyaga, another lawyer for the illegal aliens, said at times U.S. Border Patrol officers have removed pages from personal address books belonging to aliens.

The pages contained telephone numbers and address of friends and relatives in the United States, she said.

"This leaves them so helpless that they must go home," she said.

The agreed injunction also will direct detention center officials to allow lawyers flexible visiting hours with their clients, require immigration officials to notify lawyers if a client suddenly opts for deportation and establish a policy of allowing self-help materials to be placed at the center for inmate use.

First official candidate files

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Richardson appliance salesman, David L. Young, a 37-year-old Democrat, is the state's first official candidate for governor.

Young, a former traveling religious educator, paid his $1,500 filing fee Monday, the first day for filing for the 1982 primaries. The deadline is Feb. 1.

Already announced for the race, but without paying the filing fee, are Republican

Gov. Bill Clements and Democrats Atty. Gen. Mark White, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, and state Sen. Peyton McKnight of Tyler.

Treasurer Warren G. Harding, Democrat, also paid his filing fee Monday for a reelection campaign.

State Republican headquarters said George Strake, former secretary of state and an announced GOP candidate for lieutenant governor, planned to file Jan. 11.

Airlines owe government millions?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airlines owe the federal government "substantial amounts" of money — maybe as much as $8 million — in refunds for unused tickets, the General Accounting Office says.

In a report requested by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., the congressional auditing agency said reviews of the operations of three airlines over 4½ years uncovered $1.1 million in refunds due the government.

The estimate of $8 million was made by Edward E. Thomas, a Civil Aeronautics Board accountant who discovered the situation in 1979 while investigating airline compliance with a credit reporting regulation.

At a CAB meeting Thursday, Chairman Dan McKinnon is scheduled to present Thomas with an $11,000 bonus drawn from the budgets of the government agencies that saved money as a result of his work, much of which he says he did in his spare time.

GOP redistricting plan criticized

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Six Republican senators who insist that a redistricting plan should be based on "qualified electors" — not population — never suggested such a thing when the 1981 Legislature was fashioning its plan, a redistricting expert has testified.

Lynn Moak, director of research for Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, also said in court Tuesday that a GOP plan based on "voting age population" — or qualified electors — would have a "negative impact on minority districts."

Diluting minority representation would violate a federal standard for redistricting.

The GOP's court test of the Senate redistricting plan was scheduled to resume today before State District Judge Herman Jones.

The Legislature approved a redistricting plan for the next 10 years based on population figures from the 1980 census, but Republican Gov. Bill Clements vetoed it. His veto switched the task of drawing new districts to the Legislative Redistricting Board, which is made up of five Democratic officeholders.

The plan they approved in late October could cost the GOP three of its eight Senate seats, according to a bipartisan legislative study group, and the six senators and state GOP chairman Chester Upham sued to block it.

Their petition asked the court — in this case Jones — to draw new districts, presumably using suggestions from the GOP.

Moak testified that a plan presented by Republicans during the Legislature was based on population. He was asked if any of the six senators had urged a plan based on qualified electors, who must be at least 18 years of age.

"At no time did any of the senators — to the best of my knowledge — advocate any position other than total population," replied Moak.

Jim George, a lawyer representing the Republicans, said the board had simply used what was convenient in drawing a plan from population figures.

"You simply can't do it (draw a plan) because it is more convenient, and I believe that's what they did," George said.

John Harmon, also representing the GOP, contended the board plan "ignored growth patterns in the state," but Moak testified, "I know of no way to draw districts that are equal in population in 1980 that also would be equal in population in 1990."

"If you hope to hit the nail on the head in 1990, you know you're going to be wrong in 1982," asked Jones.

"Yes," responded Moak, who later added, "I cannot see" that the GOP plan took into account growth patterns in the state's population.

The case apparently attracted no spectators from the general public the first day, but 21 reporters showed up for the morning session and half that many in the afternoon.

Clements raps TEC officials' budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — As Texas Employment Commission officials were looking toward Washington for the official bad budget news, Gov. Bill Clements delivered a jab at the way the commissioners have handled the cut in funds.

Assistant Administrator Jim Hine told the commissioners at their Tuesday meeting they can expect an additional $10.5 million reduction in funding for fiscal 1982 — for a total decrease of 33 percent from last year.

The cuts mean more than 600 additional positions may have to be eliminated by the end of the month, Hine said. That would bring the agency's total reduction to about 1,200.

Meanwhile, Clements issued a statement criticizing the agency for not making preparations for the cuts.

"It was clear in March of 1981 that TEC was going to have to operate at a considerably reduced level in 1982," Clements said.

The governor said he gave TEC "an estimated funding level which very closely approximated the appropriation the agency is to receive under the current continuing resolution."

"Since TEC has one of the lowest employee turnover rates in the state ... it was not reasonable to assume that the reductions could be handled solely by attrition."

TEC officials have suggested that 59 local offices around the state be closed because of the cuts. Associate Administrator Pat Joiner said the reduced overhead may scare up enough money to save some jobs, but he added, "There's no way we can save 600 positions."

More than 200 jobs might be salvaged, he said. The three commissioners heard more bad news Tuesday. Joiner told them they will have to decide which employees will be fired.

Joiner said the agency has two options, neither of them attractive. One would eliminate employees on the basis of seniority, the other on the basis of a "relative productivity ranking."

The "last-in-first-out" option means minority employees will be hardest hit, Joiner said, because the agency has beefed up minority recruitment recently.

But the ranking system could cause problems, Joiner said. Employees could appeal the ratings through the state Merit System and the courts, possibly leading to hundreds of individual cases.

Commission Chairman Nolan Ward said he couldn't face the task at the commission's regular meeting and asked to put it off.

"We're only dealing with people's lives, that's all," he said.

Ward said the commission would meet again when it gets the official budget figures, which he said might be available today.

SCRAMBLING DANNY — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Danny White scrambles away from Tampa Bay's David Logan (76) during first half action Saturday in the NFC's divisional playoff game in Texas Stadium. The Cowboys won the game going away to advance the NFC Championship game against the San Francisco 49ers in San Francisco Sunday.

49er field a problem

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys figure they will not get a chance to work out at soggy Candlestick Park until the day of the National Conference title game although they are arriving in San Francisco Friday.

"It looks like we will probably practice at California-Berkeley on Saturday," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who will send the team through a workout before the Cowboys' charter departs at 5 p.m. Friday.

"It would be nice if we could practice at Candlestick. But it's so muddy about all you could do right now is jog around and that's certainly not going to help much," he said.

Landry said a swampy field gives the advantage to the 49ers. "They've been playing there all year and know the bad spots," Landry said.

The Cowboys were whipped 45-14 in October and were surprised by the poor condition of the field.

"We had no idea it was going to be that bad," Landry said. "Of course, the field didn't beat us that day. We showed up for the game half asleep."

Landry said he hopes the condition of the field doesn't bother his team psychologically.

"If the team starts thinking about it (the field) then can become a disadvantage," he said. "We've just got to concentrate on hitting the field and playing hard and not thinking about it."

Landry Tuesday called the 49ers the "best club in the league."

He added "I think we are better than we were last year."

Odds makers have rated Sunday's NFC title matchup a tossup despite the 49ers' whipping of the Cowboys three months ago.

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh, speaking on a telephone hookup at Landry's weekly press luncheon, suggested that the most intense rivalry of the 1980s in the National Football League could be between the 49ers and the Cowboys.

"We take pride that we have become competitive with Dallas and in the 1980s San Francisco and Dallas could become as big a rivalry as there is," Walsh said.

Landry later quipped "We appreciate Bill thinking we will stay up there in the 1980s. Certainly, anytime good teams compete there will be a rivalry. San Francisco will be good for a long time, a dominant force in the '80s because the 49er team is so young."

"We have a lot of respect for the Dallas organization," said Walsh. "They are the team to beat in the NFL."

San Francisco surprising team

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — There's a team practicing here for the National Football Conference championship game, a fact which wouldn't have raised an eyebrow prior to the 1981 season. But, as it turned out, there was a surprise — the club isn't the Los Angeles Rams.

While the Rams were plummeting from a Super Bowl team in 1979 and an 11-5 record in 1980 to a 6-10 mark during the past season, the San Francisco 49ers were going from 2-14 in 1979 and 6-10 in 1980 to 13-3 this season.

So it's the 49ers who are preparing at Rams' Park for Sunday's battle with the Dallas Cowboys at Candlestick Park in San Francisco. The winner qualifies for a berth in the Super Bowl at Pontiac, Mich., Jan. 24 opposite the winner of Sunday's AFC title game between San Diego and Cincinnati.

The 49ers were unable to practice at home Monday and moved 400 miles south because of the violent rainstorm which left their practice fields in the San Francisco area too wet to use. The team is scheduled to return home Thursday night.

"I don't think it was a disruption for us to come down here," said Coach Bill Walsh after Tuesday's two-hour practice. "The championship game is all that's on our minds. This might have been a disruption if we had to come down here during the regular season."

However, light rain fell on the 49ers at their workout Tuesday, which must have made them feel right at home. Occasional showers were predicted for this afternoon in southern California. It is expected to be clear Thursday.

Jack Reynolds, the San Francisco linebacker who played with the Rams 11 seasons, said, "None of this is any problem for me. It just gives me more time to study and work on the game."

"The inconvenience will only last a few days," said guard Randy Cross. "It's not going to kill us. When you consider that the Super Bowl is at stake, it's really no big deal."

"Whatever it takes to get us to the Super Bowl, we'll do it, even if we have to go to Hawaii," said assistant coach Chuck Studley. "Now that's a thought."

In San Francisco, the rainstorm ended Tuesday morning but the field at Candlestick Park remained covered because of a forecast calling for possible rain overnight. Clear weather was forecast for the rest of the week but a long range forecast called for the possibility of another storm hitting the area Sunday.

College Basketball Roundup

Texas smashes Tech

LaSalle Thompson went up, and down came Texas Tech. "LaSalle really got tired tonight," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons after watching his high-flying center lead the Longhorns to a 55-50 college basketball victory over Texas Tech Tuesday night. "That was a lot of work out there for him."

The 6-foot-10 Thompson continually soared above the crowd to collect rebound after crucial rebound at the Super D in Austin. He pulled down 17 rebounds in all, in addition to scoring 14 points in the battle between two of the Southwest Conference's better teams.

The Red Raiders had rallied from an 11-point halftime deficit to make a strong challenge and moved ahead by two points midway through the final period. But with 7:26 left in the game, Texas outscored Tech 11-3 with the help of Thompson and a tough defense to clinch the victory.

"Our defense was very good," said Lemons after watching his team force the Red Raiders into several second-half mistakes. "I was pleased with that."

The Red Raiders had won their first SWC game Saturday by upsetting Arkansas, a Top Ten team, but were not patient enough against the Longhorns, according to Coach Gerald Myers.

"When we did get up, we didn't handle the situation very well," he said. "Our shots were not great shots. We should have taken better shots when we had the lead, the pressure was on them."

The Top Ten Eighth-ranked San Francisco, the only Top Twenty team in action Tuesday night, defeated San Jose State 78-66 as Quintin Dailey scored 20 points. The Spartans were never in the game, scoring just four points and committing seven turnovers in the first nine minutes to fall behind 16-4.

They trailed by 11, 32-21, at halftime and got within eight four minutes into the second half. But USF ran off eight straight points to take a 56-39 lead and the Spartans never got closer than nine points the rest of the way.

Unranked Teams Russell Schoene had 24 points as Tennessee-Chattanooga beat Appalachian State 81-63. Brian Burke scored a season-high 16 points to lead Dartmouth over Massachusetts 62-46. Winfred Reid's 23 paced East Tennessee State over Furman 82-74, two baskets and a free throw by Dave Williams in the last two minutes rallied Illinois-Chicago Circle over Florida A&M 64-62. Rich Simkus scored his only field goal with 1:12 left in overtime to give Princeton a 50-49 victory over Fairfield. Orlando Phillips scored 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead Pepperdine over Fullerton State 95-76. Leonard Agee scored six of his game-high 27 points in overtime to lead Loyola of Los Angeles to a 75-68 triumph over Los Angeles State and Texas A&M stopped TCU 60-54 as the Aggie front line of 6-11 Rudy Woods, 6-9 Claude Riley and 6-7 Roy Jones dominated the smaller Horned Frogs.

Montana, White square off

Joe Montana. The name has the ring of a gunslinger in one of oldtime movie Westerns. Quick on the draw. Bold. Fearless. Cool as an iccube. Shoots from the hip. Can remove the eyebrow mof a housefly from 40 yards away.

The image fits the name. Montana will ride shotgun for the swash-buckling San Francisco 49ers in the National Football League's NFC championship game Sunday.

Danny White. Could as well be Billy Bob White. The All-American boy. Short hair. Clean-cut. Serious. Does his homework. Minds his parents. Nice to old ladies crossing the street. He should always wear a white helmet.

The image fits the name. Danny will be on the other side of the line, leading the disciplined, machine-like, Super Bowl-hardened Dallas Cowboys against Montana's brash and brassy interlopers from Out West.

They call Dallas "America's Team." You can almost smell the apple pie.

The rival quarterbacks are mere microcosms of the two teams and the cities they represent who will battle it out in San Francisco's rugged Candlestick Park for a spot in the Super Bowl.

The 49ers get their name from hardy pioneers who went west to grub for gold — tough, rowdy, devil-may-care. Heaven-help-the-hindmost. Their old city, sitting on a hill, has survived earthquakes and riots. The football team came from 2-14 in 1979 to 13-3 this season, best record in the whole NFL. It knows what disaster is.

Dallas. The "Big D." Once a boisterous Western frontier itself, it now swims in liquid gold — oil. People wear $500 boots, $100 wide-brimmed hats, velvet-trimmed topcoats and pick their teeth with 14-karat toothpicks.

It is only fitting that the Cowboys' coach, Tom Landry, should extend the marked contrast. Landry strides the sidelines, dapper in a felt hat, immaculately pressed suit and spit-polish shoes — utterly unflappable, looking like a Baptist deacon going to church.

His San Francisco counterpart, Bill Walsh, craggy, silver-haired, intense, disheveled, stomps up and down the field enmeshed in wires that connect him with assistants in the upper stands. He is wholly involved.

If Dallas and San Francisco have a little backyard brawl between the straight arrows and the free-wheeling roustabouts, the other conference should offer a slight change of script with what could be the wildest sky bombardment of the year at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Bengals, who like the 49ers bounced back from a losing season, have the best passer in pro football, by 1981 gauges. Ken Anderson led all quarterbacks with 300 completions in 479 attempts for 3,754 yards, 29 touchdowns and only 10 interceptions.

Steer JVs beat Abilene, 61-50

The Big Spring Steers JV basketball team took advantage of a 22 point scoring out-put from Juan Williams and coasted to a 61-50 win over Abilene High last night. Also helping to bolster the Steer attack was Jerry Wright with 14 and Jimmy Brown with 10.

Others scoring were Darren Green, 8; Jesse Woodruff, 5; and Fred Rubio with 2. The next JV game will be

2,000 fans watch Golden Tors

LAMESA (SC) — An estimated crowd of 2,000 jammed the Lamesa Middle School gym last night to watch the Andrews Mustangs battle the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes in a District 2-4A basketball showdown.

The game was tight throughout, but Andrews pulled out a 63-60 victory behind 21 points each from Mike Murry and Keith Brooks. Lamesa was led by Victor Spencer with 24. At half-time, Lamesa held a 36-34 advantage, but the Mustangs outscored the Tors in the third quarter, to lead 49-46 at the end of that period. In the fourth quarter, it was nip and tuck all the way, with Andrews forcing several turn-overs late in the game, providing the difference.

Andrews pushed their District record to 4-0, while the Tors dropped to 2-2 in District.

Lamesa is now 17-3 and Andrews is 17-1. Lamesa will play at home Friday against Pecos.

Lamesa girls upset by Andrews

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Golden Tornado girls dropped two basketball games to Andrews Tuesday night, as the varsity lost an 82 to 47 decision, and the JV's lost 70 to 26.

The Andrews girls led from a second period on, and were never threatened after half-time. Leading Lamesa in the varsity contest was Angela Hawkins with 17 points. LaDonna Douglas added 14. The varsity girls from Andrews have lost only one game this year.

Colorado City girls win big, 58-30

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City girls' basketball team brought its record to 8 wins and 8 losses by whipping Tahoka 58-30 in Tuesday night's action in Tahoka.

Angie Neff paced the Wolves with 16 points followed by Larla Baum with 11. Paula Herm and Kim Feaster with 10 each. Darlene Mitchell 5, Stacy Hamrick, 4 and Carline Green, 2.

The next action for the high school varsity girls will be in Ballinger Friday.

The Wolves boys' team dropped a one point heart-breaker in overtime in its game with Tahoka 52-51.

According to Mike Hart, "We didn't play well overall and it was the defense that hurt us most of all. I think we were overconfident for the

Dawson Dragons slay Klondike Cougars

WELCH (SC) — The Dawson Dragons boys' varsity basketball team defeated the Klondike Cougars in the district opener for both teams Tuesday night, 60-43. The Dragons were led by the hot-shooting of Joel Bennett and Marty Sires, who combined for 29 points. The Cougars were led by Tim Cope with 12 points. Mike Arismenendez added 10. In the girls game, Roxanne Airhart scored 16 points.

Pistons have rookie stars

By The Associated Press

Kelly Tripucka and Isiah Thomas quickly established themselves this season as two of the best rookies in the National Basketball Association. Now the Detroit Pistons' stars appear to be settling into roles — Tripucka as a scorer and Thomas as a playmaker.

Tripucka increased his average to the 20-point mark Tuesday night when he scored a career-high 38 points, while Thomas scored only eight as he also matched a career high by dishing out 13 assists.

The result was a 124-101 victory over the powerful Philadelphia 76ers, their worst loss of the season. The 76ers still have the best record in the NBA, 24-7.

In other NBA games, Atlanta tripped Cleveland 113-103, Indiana edged Phoenix 87-82, New Jersey beat Washington 114-108, New York defeated Milwaukee 112-102, Chicago outlasted Denver 134-128, Portland stopped San Antonio 115-110, San Diego slipped past Kansas City 112-104 and Houston nudged Golden State 112-111.

The Pistons never trailed after Tripucka hit a basket and a free throw to break a 20-20 tie late in the first period. They opened a 27-22 lead after the first quarter, then increased it to 52-42 at the half.

Tripucka pumped in 12 of his points in the third quarter when the Pistons swelled their lead to 84-60 after three periods. With Tripucka adding 13 more in the final quarter, the game was a runaway.

"The guy is a pro," Philadelphia's Julius Erving said of Tripucka. "He is one of the better rookies in the league this year."

Erving led the 76ers with 29 points.

Kneeks 112, Bucks 102

Sly Williams scored 21 of his season-high 34 points in the second half and Randy Smith scored 25, leading New York to its fifth straight victory. Milwaukee, the fourth-best team in the league at 22-10, nevertheless continued to have problems at home, losing for the fourth time in its last six decisions.

Rockets 112, Warriors 111

Elvin Hayes' turnaround jump shot with 18 seconds left gave Houston its road victory over Golden State.

After the basket by the 13-year-veteran, which came with no time showing on the shot clock, Purvis Short missed a 22-foot attempt that would have won the game for the Warriors.

Bernard King of Golden State led all scorers with 34 points, while the Rockets' Calvin Murphy had 31.

Clippers 112, Kings 104

Michael Brooks scored 15 of his 26 points in the second half to give San Diego only its eighth victory in 30 games this season.

Rookie center Steve Johnson scored 15 of his game-high 28 points in the first quarter to lead Kansas City to a 36-27 advantage after 12 minutes.

The Kings led 61-60 at halftime, but San Diego took the lead for good midway through the third quarter on a short jump shot by Phil Smith, making the score 74-72.

Blazers 115, Spurs 110

Mychal Thompson and Billy Ray Bates scored 25 points apiece for Portland to offset 47 points by San Antonio's George Gervin.

Sixteen fourth-quarter points by Bates helped the Trail Blazers maintain a slim lead throughout the final period.

Pacers 87, Suns 82

Mike Bantom scored 25 points and gathered 12 rebounds for Indiana, which won despite a 15-0 spurt by Phoenix in the second half.

The Pacers led 67-57 before going the final minute of the third quarter and the first 4½ minutes of the fourth period without a point, as the Suns went ahead 72-67.

Nets 114, Bullets 108

Ray Williams scored a season-high 32 points and Len Elmore and Albert King made strong contributions for New Jersey at the site of some of their collegiate heroics.

King and Elmore, both formerly of Maryland, scored 20 and 14 points, respectively, in their first appearance this season at Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

Bulls 134, Nuggets 128

Reggie Theus scored 20 points to lead seven Chicago players in double figures against Denver.

The Bulls, who broke a four-game losing streak against the Nuggets, took a 26-point lead in the second quarter, but still had to fight off a Denver rally in the second half that cut the edge to five.

Dan Issel had 30 points for Denver to lead all scorers.

SWC Roundup

Texas and A&M win openers in SWC

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M and Texas captured their Southwestern Conference basketball openers, but not without a struggle.

In each case, the favorite built a big early lead, then had to stifle a strong rally by the underdog to hold on to victory.

The Longhorns and Aggies are now tied for the top spot in the league standings, as a result of those narrow Tuesday night victories.

The Longhorns beat back a determined Texas Tech club for a 55-50 win in the Super Drum at Austin while the Aggies took a road win against a game but outclassed Texas Christian squad, 60-54. Post-game sentiments were remarkably similar.

"All in all, we were lucky," said Texas coach Abe Lemons.

"I feel fortunate to leave with the win," said A&M coach Shelby Metcalf.

Tech's Red Raiders rallied from an 11-point halftime deficit and took the lead at one point, pulling ahead 41-39 when freshman sensation Vince Taylor hit a 10-foot jump shot.

The teams traded baskets until forward Verdell Howland rammed home a layup to give Texas a 49-47 lead and the Raiders could not close the gap again. In fact, Texas outscored Tech 11-3 in the game's final 7½ minutes, with 6-10 center LaSalle Thompson soaring high above the crowd for rebound after crucial rebound, collecting a total of 17 for the night.

"LaSalle really got tired tonight," Lemons said. "That was a lot of work out there for him."

In Fort Worth, rebounding also told a big part of the story as the huge Aggie front line — 6-11 center Rudy Woods, 6-9 forward Claude Riley and 6-7 forward Roy Jones — dominated the smaller Horned Frogs.

"It's hard to shoot against a team like A&M," said TCU coach Jim Killingsworth. "They all stick their hands out and they reach out to the portals."

The Horned Frogs, down by 12 at the half, pulled within four points, 46-42 with 5:39 left, when Doug Arnold hit consecutive jump shots.

Dorsett named to All-Pro backfield

By The Associated Press

George Rogers of the New Orleans Saints and Tony Dorsett of the Dallas Cowboys, who finished 1-2 in rushing, and Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, the passing champion, make up the backfield of The Associated Press All-Pro team for the National Football League's 1981 season.

Two rookies also are on the first team — cornerback Ronnie Lott of the San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants.

The Cowboys and 49ers, who play Sunday for the National Conference championship, placed 11 players on The AP's first and second teams announced Tuesday and selected by a nationwide panel of 84 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Dallas players joining Dorsett on the first team are guard Herbert Scott, defensive tackle Randy White and place-kicker Rafael Septien. Tackle Pat Donovan and defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones are on the second team.

San Francisco's other first-team representative isn't even on the 49ers' first team. He's defensive end Fred Dean, corner-back Mel Blount of Pittsburgh and kick-returner LeRoy Irvin of Los Angeles.

free safety Dwight Hicks and guard Randy Cross.

The Bengals and San Diego Chargers, competing Sunday for the American Conference crown, have seven players on the All-Pro team.

Along with Anderson, Cincinnati has tackle Anthony Munoz and punter Pat McInally on the first team and rookie Cris Collinsworth on the second team.

For San Diego, the first-team members are tight end Kellen Winslow and defensive tackle Gary "Big Hands" Johnson, while the second-team representative is defensive tackle Louie Kelcher.

The rest of the first-team players are wide receivers James Lofton of Green Bay and Alfred Jenkins of Atlanta, tackle Marvin Powell of the New York Jets, guard John Hannah of New England, center Mike Webster of Pittsburgh, defensive end Joe Klecko of the Jets, nose tackle Charlie Johnson of Philadelphia, linebackers Bob Swenson of Denver and Jack Lambert of the Steelers, safeties Gary Fencik of Chicago and Nolan Cromwell of Los Angeles, cornerback Mel Blount of Pittsburgh and kick-returner LeRoy Irvin of Los Angeles.

Scully, 54, first joined the Dodgers in Brooklyn in 1950, working with Red Barber, and accompanied the team to the West Coast for the 1958 season.

HOCKEY NEW YORK (AP) — Center Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers, who became the first player in hockey history to score 50 goals in fewer than 50 games, was named NHL Player of the Month for December.

Gretzky scored 19 goals and assisted on 25 others for an astounding total of 44 points in 14 games during the month. He reached the 50-goal plateau in his 39th game, smashing the record of 50 goals in 50 games set by Maurice Richard of the Montreal Canadiens in 1944 and matched in 1981 by Mike Bossy of the New York Islanders.

BASKETBALL

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Sidney Moncrief, who led the Milwaukee Bucks to a 12-2 record last month, was named the NBA Player of the Month for December.

Moncrief averaged 21.5 points, 6.4 rebounds and 4.9 assists per game during the month, while shooting .566 from the field and .766 from the foul line.

Spur's Gervin scores 47 in win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers couldn't stop San Antonio's George Gervin Tuesday night, but they outscored him in a 115-110 National Basketball Association victory over the Spurs.

Billy Ray Bates and Mychal Thompson scored 25 apiece to pace the Blazers to their first victory of the season over the Spurs, who saw their three-game winning streak stopped.

Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer with an average of 33.5 points a game, poured in 47 points, equalling his single-game high for the season. He scored 45 against the Blazers earlier in the season when the Spurs beat Portland in San Antonio.

Gervin hit 19 of 30 shots from the floor, including a three-point basket, and eight of nine from the foul line.

"Our overall defense, despite Gervin's performance, was very good," said Blazers coach Jack Ramsay. "Gervin is a special player. The responsibility for playing him rests more with the coach than any player."

"It is up to me to devise something to stop Gervin. I don't know how to do that. Maybe I'll have to get him in the parking lot before the game."

Bates came off the bench in the second quarter to score nine points and spark the Blazers to a 58-53 half-time lead.

Bates got 16 more in the fourth quarter. Nineteen of Thompson's points came in the second half.

San Antonio took a 65-64 lead midway through the third quarter on a jumpshot by Mike Mitchell, who finished with 26 points.

But the Blazers, led by Jim Paxson, Kelvin Ransey and Calvin Natt, outscored the Spurs 12-4 for a 76-69 lead.

Portland led the rest of the way, although San Antonio got to within one point at 86-85 early in the fourth quarter.

In the last minute of play, with the Blazers on top 113-107, the Spurs launched eight attempts from three-point range. They made one, by Mike Bratz.

Paxson scored 18 points and Natt, 17, for the Blazers. Ransey scored 12 points and had eight assists.

The Blazers out-rebounded the taller Spurs, 44-42, as Thompson and Kermit Washington hauled down nine apiece.

"The key part of the game for us was when we were five points down and had four easy shots at the basket, including two layups, and missed them all," said Spurs coach Stan Albeck. "Ice (Gervin) single-handedly kept us in the game."

Albeck drew a technical foul when he threw the ball and it bounced off the head of referee Jess Kersey.

The loss left the Spurs with a 20-10 record.

Houston Rockets squeak by Golden State on last second jumper by Elvin Hayes

OAKLAND (AP) — Time was gone from the shot clock as the ball rose from Elvin Hayes' hand, and the Golden State Warriors were gone when it sank through the basket.

"I only had five seconds. I knew that. By the grace of God, it went in," said Hayes, after his turnaround jump shot with 18 seconds left gave the Houston Rockets a 112-111 National Basketball League victory over the Warriors Tuesday night.

"I was up on him. He just made it," said Warrior forward Larry Smith. "It was really a tough shot, but they're a good team and they make tough shots." The Warriors, after calling time out, came downcourt for their final shot but were forced into a long, 22-foot attempt by Purvis Short that hit the front rim and bounced away.

The victory, following a see-saw contest, was the fourth in five road games for the Rockets, who improved their record to 14-18 while the Warriors slipped to 18-13.

"We just went back to basics and we're playing good ball now, the way we should," said Calvin Murphy, who led the Rockets with 31 points.

"I always seem to be peaking when we meet the Warriors," Murphy said. "I just like to play against them."

Warrior Bernard King's 34 points were high for the game. The Warriors shot 57.5 percent from the field, while Houston hit on 51 percent.

Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg preparing for struggle

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Bengals demolished the San Diego Chargers during the regular season, but Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg isn't feeling smug as he prepares for the rematch in the American Football Conference championship game Sunday.

Gregg said that his club's 40-17 mauling of the Chargers on the West Coast doesn't offer much security for the latest meeting which will be on Cincinnati turf.

"What happened is that we jumped on them early, got the turnovers and an interception that turned the tide," Gregg said Tuesday. "Otherwise, that game was a lot closer than the score indicates. I never relaxed during the whole game and the players didn't, either."

Cornerback Louis Breeden's 102-yard return of an interception gave Cincinnati a 31-10 halftime lead, and the Bengals coasted. The Cincinnati defense sacked Chargers' quarterback Dan Fouts six times and recovered three fumbles in San Diego territory.

"Our defense did a miraculous job last time holding them to 17 points," said wide receiver Cris Collinsworth, who caught four passes for 97 yards in the game on Nov. 8. "We'll probably have to score 35 or 40 points to win this time. It'll probably be a circus like they had in Miami."

Collinsworth was referring to the Chargers' 41-38 overtime victory over the Dolphins in last Saturday's conference semifinal.

Tight end Dan Ross, who has been the favorite target of quarterback Ken Anderson, agreed that the earlier victory on the Chargers' home field is meaningless at this point.

"They're going to put some new plays in on offense and defense, and we are, too," Ross said. "There could be a reversal. They have such an explosive offense that they can score from anywhere on the field."

The Bengals lost Anderson to a shoulder injury in the earlier meeting, but the National Football League's passing champion — selected as the league's most valuable player in a vote conducted by the Associated Press — is healthy for the rematch.

"We're really in pretty good shape," Gregg said, noting that none of his players has a serious injury. "That's part of being able to have a winning season."

Some of the Bengals' players are hoping for wintry conditions Sunday for the team from southern California. But Gregg, who played for the Packers in frigid Green Bay, said the temperature won't matter much.

"It's not much of a factor unless the wind is blowing hard," Gregg said. "In Green Bay, we felt that 20 degrees was like the tropics."

Gregg, who was an offensive lineman with the Packers during their glory years in the 1960s, said that he's enjoying his postseason success as a coach.

"You get that same thrill of being in the playoffs, just the sheer enjoyment of competing and being in a position to compete for the championship," Gregg said.

Winslow expects full attention of Bengal defense Sunday

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Kellen Winslow, a dominant figure in San Diego's high-flying offense, has a blunt analysis of a loss by the Chargers to the Cincinnati Bengals earlier this season.

"We took me out of the game plan," the towering tight end said Tuesday as the Chargers prepared for Sunday's clash in Cincinnati for the American Football Conference crown and a berth in the Super Bowl.

Winslow, the NFL's reception leader the past two years with 89 and 88 catches, caught a season-low of three passes for 33 yards in the 40-17 loss two months ago in Cincinnati.

He expects two things Sunday at Riverfront Stadium: a San Diego game plan geared to exploit his immense talents, and the full attention of the Bengals' defense.

"I expect a lot of bump and run from them," said Winslow. He was referring to the popular defensive strategy that allows one defender to make contact with a receiver within five yards from the line of scrimmage. The play is utilized to break up the rhythm of a sophisticated passing offense.

Because the Chargers have no shortage of surehanded receivers, Winslow has been used as a decoy, to draw double coverage. On one occasion this season, he was even lined up at fullback, a move that bewildered the opposition.

While he jokes about "my elephant style of running," he's not laughing matter to enemy defenders. Understandable, considering he stands 6-foot-5½, weighs 250 pounds and has the speed of a wide receiver.

"He is amazing, simply amazing," says Ernie Zampese, the Chargers' receivers' coach. "You know, if we wanted him to, he could catch 100 balls a season easy. I mean easy."

Ironically, three years ago, when the NFL draft opened, scuttlebutt had Winslow headed to Cincinnati as one of the Bengals' two first-round draft choices.

Instead, with the fourth choice on the list, the Bengals took Washington State quarterback Jack Thompson and used the No. 12 pick on running back Charles Alexander of Louisiana State University.

Owl coach has Rice basketball improving

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice Coach Tommy Suits, who in one swift move has jerked the Owl basketball program up by its own sneakers, has an interesting coaching philosophy — he tells his players they can't win.

"You'd be surprised at some of the things I tell them," Suits says. "I just try to be honest with them and give them a realistic picture."

Suits told the Owls they couldn't beat cross-town rival Houston Monday night and he was right. But the Owls took the 14th ranked Cougars down to the final buzzer before losing 63-61.

"I'm also the guy who told them they couldn't win in Hawaii," Suits said with a laugh. "But you see, we can talk all we want to but the only thing that really matters is what the players think."

As a result, the Owls defeated the University of Hawaii, eighth-ranked San Francisco and 15th-ranked North Carolina State en route to the Rainbow Basketball Classic championship last week.

"They KNEW they were going to beat San Francisco, it was just me and the coaching staff that were scared to death," Suits said. "Then there was no question in their minds that they would beat N.C. State."

The Owls, conference doormats for the past decade, already have surpassed last season's win total with their 8-5 record. Rice was 7-19 last season, their ninth consecutive losing season.

The Owls have turned high-scoring forward Ricky Pierce loose to shoot at will, imported junior college transfer Renaldo O'Neal for experience, turned Tyrone Washington into a defensive demon, solidified their senior leadership and gained bench strength.

Suits said boosting the sagging confidence levels of Kenny Austin and Bobby Tudor also has been a key factor in the Owls' quick start.

Pierce, among the nation's leading scorers this year, hit 37 points against the Cougars, who tried every defensive maneuver to stop him.

"If you turn a lot of players loose like we do Ricky they'd shoot you right out of the game in five minutes," Suits said. "But Ricky's shot selection is phenomenal. He could have done the same thing last year but we didn't turn him loose."

The Owls host Texas Christian Saturday night after eight games on the road and Suits is still talking to his players "realistically."

"I really don't think we can win (the SWC title)," Suits said. "I don't think we have the depth to go through the conference schedule. We have to have all the factors going right for us to win. If we do that, we have a chance to get into the tournament and win it."

Suits also hopes they continue not listening to their coach.

Frank Tanana becomes a Texas Ranger, but only after bargaining by team leaders

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — It took two full days of negotiations, a couple of free meals and a meeting with "The Man," but Frank Tanana finally agreed to become a Texas Ranger for the 1982 baseball season.

"We've agreed in principle, now it just depends on the contract language," said Rangers vice president Eddie Robinson, who did the negotiating with Tanana.

The free agent left-hander played out his option with the Boston Red Sox, where he had a 4-10 record and a 4.02 earned run average in 1981.

In five full seasons with the California Angels, Tanana won 82 games as a fast-ball pitcher.

Then, however, he developed arm trouble and spent a season developing his control and off-speed pitches.

Robinson said Tanana will be penciled into the Texas starting rotation, but that manager Don Zimmer will have the final say concerning Tanana's role with the club.

"He strengthens our starting staff and gives us some movement that we didn't have before, within our pitching staff," Robinson said. "Of course, it's Zimmer's responsibility to sort it out and put it together the best way."

Robinson said the team would hold a news conference at 11:30 a.m. today to make a formal announcement of Tanana's becoming a Ranger. The final hurdle in the negotiations were cleared by telephone, said Robinson.

"He's in town, but we were together during the evening, then we were apart, he talked to his agent, then we discussed things by phone," as I know right now, things are pretty well set."

Robinson spent four hours Monday with Tanana and his agent, Tony Attanasio, including a session with the team's majority owner, Eddie Giles.

"When you meet with Mr. Giles, you're talking to 'The Man,'" Attanasio said.

"We have to get our attorney and his agent together to talk about the language of the contract," Robinson said. "Once we do that, I don't foresee there will be any problem. As far

Louisiana Tech women looking for national title

RUSTON, La. (AP) — Coach Sandra Hogg stood firm in her "play them one-at-a-time" theory as her Louisiana Tech women's basketball team, the unbeaten defending national champion, prepared to play Northeast Louisiana at home tonight.

A victory would place the Lady Techsters within a half-dozen wins of the record 51 in a row by the Delta State teams coached by Margaret Wade from 1974 through 1976.

Tech was 34-0 in winning last year's national championship and is 11-0 this season.

"Everybody's talking about this turned winning streak. I haven't paid any attention to it," she said. "I know they (her players) haven't thought about it."

After Northeast Louisiana tonight, Louisiana Tech then travels to 2nd-ranked South Carolina on Friday and 19th-ranked Tennessee on Sunday.

A home game against Montclair State of New Jersey is scheduled Jan. 15, then a road trip to 12th-ranked Stephen F. Austin the next night.

Should Tech survive that, it's home again for an assault on the record — Long Beach State in a game that could tie the mark Jan. 19 and Oral Roberts to set the new standard Jan. 22.

Again predicated on a continued victory streak, the Oral Roberts game could be the 200th coaching victory in Hogg's eight years at Tech. Her record is 193-45.

So far this year, Tech has already met and defeated four teams which were ranked at the time — Old Dominion, Rutgers, Kansas and Illinois State.

"We play just about everybody but the Russian women's Olympic team — in Russia," Hogg said.

Tech is deep, balanced and versatile. Nine players have participated in every game, and the team's second-leading rebounder, Deborah Rodman, comes off the bench.

Senior two-time All-America Pam Kelly averages 20 points and 9 rebounds a game. Sophomore Janice Lawrence averages 15 points and 7 rebounds.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You could find confusion and muddled thinking exists due to planetary reasons and this could be a nonproductive day unless you channel your energies in constructive outlets.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure your regular activities are wisely scheduled and then carry through in a sensible manner. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Obtain important information for a project you are interested in before you go ahead with definite plans. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you handle routine duties in a modern manner, you gain benefits. Study a new plan before making any changes.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't neglect important work early in the day. Try to cooperate more with co-workers. Strive for harmony.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure you don't take on any heavy expenditures of money in the evening. Allow time to engage in creative activity.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Postpone going ahead with a new interest you have in mind. Wait until a better time. Evening is fine for recreation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve the foundation of your life so you can have more abundance in the days ahead. Get rid of annoying conditions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Iron out any problems with others in a quiet and tactful manner. Seek the company of congenial friends in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to use careful thought in handling monetary affairs today. Use your intuitive faculties for best results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use a different attitude in handling a puzzling situation and you get better results. Seek the company of friends tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have hidden desires that need more study before you pursue them. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some of your friends may have problems so be sure to give a helping hand. Show others you have practical wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who comprehends the problems of others and knows instinctively how to solve them. Be sure to give the best education you can afford to bring out this ability. A good life in this chart.

Don't be chicken about cooking poultry

The Recipe Exchange has received a recipe request from Pete Fowler. Fowler said he had received pecans as a Christmas gift and wanted the best pecan pie recipe we can give him.

Pecan pie is a favorite in many families, and there probably are many different recipes as there are families. So send us your favorite so that we may share it with Fowler and other readers.

With the holidays now over, we hope you have settled back into your normal routine. Since most of our readers have been out of pocket, we are unable to get any local recipes this week. We hope you will find the chicken dish recipes tasty, and we hope to have local recipes back again next week.

OVEN-FRIED CHICKEN PARMESAN
1/2 cup (2 ounces) grated parmesan cheese

1/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
dash of pepper

2 1/2 to 3 pound broiler-fryer, cut up

1 egg, slightly beaten

1 Tablespoon milk

1/4 cup liquid margarine

Combine cheese, flour and seasonings. Dip chicken in combined egg and milk; coat with cheese mixture. Place in baking dish; pour margarine over chicken.

Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or until tender. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

SHERRY CHICKEN

1 large onion, thinly sliced

4 boneless chicken breasts

2 Tablespoons melted butter

1/4 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper

2 medium zucchinis, cut into 6-inch strips

1/4 cup basil

1 can (10-1/4 ounces) cream of mushroom soup

1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained

1/4 cup sherry wine

Tear off four lengths of heavy duty aluminum foil large enough to permit adequate wrapping. Divide onion slices between foil sheets. Remove skin from chicken breast and coat with melted butter; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Toss zucchini strips with basil. Roll each chicken breast around 4 zucchini strips; place seam side down on bed of onions. Bring two foil sides up over chicken; fold down loosely in a series of locked folds allowing for heat circulation and expansion. Fold short ends up and over again;

CHINESE CHICKEN CHIPS WITH DIP

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, boned, skinned

1/4 cup soy sauce

5 Tablespoons cornstarch

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

2 cups cooking oil

Dip

1/2 cup chili sauce

2 Tablespoons pineapple preserves

1 teaspoon soy sauce

On hard surface with meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, pound chicken to 1/4-inch thickness and square shape. Cut each flattened thigh into 4 pieces and place in a shallow pan. Pour soy sauce over chicken, cover, and marinate for 10 minutes in refrigerator. In shallow bowl, mix cornstarch and ginger. Add chicken, one piece at a time, dredging to coat. In large frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken and cook turning to brown on both sides, about 5 minutes. Remove chicken from frypan and drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot or cold with dip. Makes 4 servings.

Dip: In small bowl, mix together chili sauce, pineapple preserves and soy sauce. Serve with chicken chips.

CHICKEN SKILLET DINNER

1 broiler-fryer, cut in parts

1/4 cup flour

1 1/4 teaspoon salt (divided)

1-16ths teaspoon pepper

1/2 cup shortening

1/2 cup rice

1/4 cup chopped onion

1/4 cup chopped green pepper

1 (7 oz.) can stewed tomatoes

1 (1 oz.) jar chopped pimiento

1 (1 oz.) jar ripe olives, sliced

1 1/2 cup water

1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

1-16ths teaspoon saffron

1/2 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen green peas

In shallow dish mix flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper. Add chicken, one piece at a time, dredging to coat. In large frypan place shortening and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 10 minutes or until brown on all sides. Add rice, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, pimiento, olives, water, garlic salt, saffron and remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt. Stir to mix. Cover and simmer 15 minutes; add peas and simmer about 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

SPANISH CHICKEN WITH RICE

1 broiler-fryer chicken, quartered

2 cups water (about)

1 Tablespoon cooking oil

1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced

1 green pepper, chopped

1 onion, chopped

1 cup brown rice

2 cups canned tomatoes

1 cup dry sherry

1 bottle (3 ounce) stuffed olives, with juice, sliced

3 cloves garlic, minced

3 bay leaves

1/2 teaspoon basil leaves

1/2 teaspoon marjoram leaves

1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves

1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves

1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce

1 package (16 ounce) frozen green peas

1 can (16 ounce) artichoke hearts with juice

In deep saucepan, place chicken; add water, cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Cool. Place broth in 2 cup measure and, if needed, add water to measure 2 cups; reserve. Separate meat from bones; discard bones and skin. Cut chicken in bite-size pieces and reserve. In large frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add mushrooms, green pepper, onion and brown rice; stir. Cover and cook for 10 minutes. Add tomatoes, sherry, olives, garlic, bay leaves, basil, marjoram, oregano, thyme and hot pepper sauce; stir to mix well. Cover and simmer 15 minutes. Add reserved chicken and broth and simmer 30 minutes. Stir in peas and artichokes and simmer about 10 minutes longer or until peas and rice are tender. Makes 4 servings.

crimp to seal. Grill over hot coals 20 minutes. In medium size mixing bowl, combine soup, mushrooms and sherry. Carefully open each packet; spoon soup mixture evenly over chicken. Reseal packet; grill an additional 10 to 15 minutes or until chicken is fork tender. Makes: 4 servings.

CHEESY CRISPY CHICKEN

12 broiler-fryer chicken drumsticks

8 ounces bottled blue cheese dressing

2 cups bread crumbs

1/2 teaspoon celery salt

1/4 teaspoon dill seed

1/4 teaspoon pepper

In shallow dish, pour blue cheese dressing. In another shallow dish mix together bread crumbs, celery salt, dill seed and pepper. Roll chicken drumsticks, one at a time, first in blue cheese dressing; then in the bread crumb mixture. In large baking dish, place drumsticks in a single layer. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Turn drumsticks carefully to avoid disturbing crust; return to oven for 20 more minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 servings.

CHINESE CHICKEN CHIPS WITH DIP

8 broiler-fryer chicken thighs, boned, skinned

1/4 cup soy sauce

5 Tablespoons cornstarch

1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

2 cups cooking oil

Dip

1/2 cup chili sauce

2 Tablespoons pineapple preserves

1 teaspoon soy sauce

On hard surface with meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, pound chicken to 1/4-inch thickness and square shape. Cut each flattened thigh into 4 pieces and place in a shallow pan. Pour soy sauce over chicken, cover, and marinate for 10 minutes in refrigerator. In shallow bowl, mix cornstarch and ginger. Add chicken, one piece at a time, dredging to coat. In large frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken and cook turning to brown on both sides, about 5 minutes. Remove chicken from frypan and drain on absorbent paper. Serve hot or cold with dip. Makes 4 servings.

Dip: In small bowl, mix together chili sauce, pineapple preserves and soy sauce. Serve with chicken chips.

CHICKEN SKILLET DINNER

1 broiler-fryer, cut in parts

1/4 cup flour

1 1/4 teaspoon salt (divided)

1-16ths teaspoon pepper

1/2 cup shortening

1/2 cup rice

1/4 cup chopped onion

1/4 cup chopped green pepper

1 (7 oz.) can stewed tomatoes

1 (1 oz.) jar chopped pimiento

1 (1 oz.) jar ripe olives, sliced

1 1/2 cup water

1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

1-16ths teaspoon saffron

1/2 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen green peas

In shallow dish mix flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper. Add chicken, one piece at a time, dredging to coat. In large frypan place shortening and heat to medium temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 10 minutes or until brown on all sides. Add rice, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, pimiento, olives, water, garlic salt, saffron and remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt. Stir to mix. Cover and simmer 15 minutes; add peas and simmer about 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

400 E. 3rd 267-2732

Two-thirds cup carrots, sliced and cooked
1 teaspoon salt, divided
1/4 teaspoon pepper, divided
1/4 cup margarine
6 Tablespoons flour
2 cups chicken broth
1 cup applesauce
1 prepared 10-inch pie crust, thawed
2 Tablespoons grated parmesan cheese

To cook chicken: In saucepan, place chicken thighs. Add 2 cups water; 1 small onion, sliced; 3 celery tops; 1 teaspoon salt; and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken from pan and cool, reserving broth. When chicken is cool, remove bones and skin and cut meat into bite-size pieces.

In deep, round (10-inch) 2-quart baking dish, place cooked chicken, peas with onions and carrots. Sprinkle with 1/2 teaspoon of the salt and 1/4 teaspoon of the pepper. In frypan, place margarine and melt over medium high heat. Stir in flour until smooth; slowly stir in chicken broth, then add applesauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thick. Pour over ingredients in baking dish. Top with pie crust and sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake in preheated 425 degrees F. oven for 25 minutes (if necessary to keep crust from getting too brown, cover with foil for last 5-10 minutes). Makes 6 servings.

Phobia clinic: Learning to cope with fear

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Doug felt so trapped when he got into an elevator that he began ripping at his clothes. Judy's hands shook when she served food. Marleen could not drive across a bridge or shop in a crowded store.

They are phobics — people whose lives are hampered by terrifying fears generated in their own minds.

Now Doug, Judy and Marleen are learning to change by doing the very things they fear most. It begins at a phobia clinic like the one at the White Plains Hospital Medical Center.

"I had to deliver some papers at school. I got up there and handed them to the woman and I got red. My tongue was tied. I got these weird physical feelings," Marleen said at a recent session where participants spoke to a reporter with the understanding that their real names not be used.

Her fellow phobics nodded as the woman continued: "You never know when it's going to happen."

Marleen has a form of agoraphobia, commonly called "housewife's disease," but authorities say it affects men and women alike. It encompasses many fears — traveling away from home, being in crowded places, being alone in an elevator, riding a train or subway.

It can prevent phobics from living normal lives.

Doug lives in the suburbs but works in New York City. His fear of being closed in will not let him take a commuter train to work. Instead, he opts for the headaches of bumper-to-bumper driving.

He is afraid of elevators, so psychiatrists at the phobia clinic sent him out with a trained aide to conquer the fear.

An aide stood outside the elevator as Doug went in alone. The doors closed and a maintenance man stopped the elevator between floors.

"I pressed the 'on' button to make it work again. It didn't work. I don't remember what happened next," Doug told the group, twisting the end of his shirt in his hands.

What happened is that Doug felt himself trapped and began removing his clothes. He was barechested when the aide and maintenance man freed him from the elevator.

Psychiatrists say that Doug is getting better by doing the thing that scares him, at first with the aide and then alone. The clinic teaches phobics that they can control their panic if they just let it happen and monitor the fear as it rises and falls.

"You go through a couple of terrible experiences and it goes away," Dr. Frederic J. Neuman, leader of the group, told Doug. "You say to yourself, 'If I didn't go crazy then, I won't.'"

Phobics are not crazy, psychiatrists say. They are afraid of fear, afraid of losing control, afraid of embarrassing themselves. They have taken a natural, healthy emotion — fear — and let it run their lives.

Ordinary events such as entering a new store for the first time set off alarm bells of panic, sweating, rapid breathing, a feeling of impending death or collapse and dizziness, all for reasons the phobic cannot understand.

"If you imagine the most terrible thing in the world happening, a phobic person feels that in an ordinary, everyday circumstance," said Jo Ann Antonelli, an aide and former phobic who for 12 years was afraid to leave her house.

Dr. Manuel D. Zane, who founded the clinic 10 years ago, said that phobias develop because of stress, usually in the early 20s as young adults confront for the first time emotional upheavals like death, sickness, graduation, childbirth, marriage or divorce.

"They get into life a little bit and start getting some of the real pressures and that's when it starts to happen, when the stresses begin," Zane said.

The feelings are increased by the fact that the phobic feels alone with the fear, he said.

"No one talks about it. You grow up in a society where you don't ordinarily disclose what we're feeling," Zane said.

Apartment fire claims five women

CLEVELAND (AP) — Nearly 200 people, many elderly or handicapped, were made at least temporarily homeless by a fire that killed five people and injured about 20 others, authorities said.

The blaze Tuesday night started in a third-floor apartment in the six-story, 133-unit Rockefeller Park Towers on the city's east side, officials said.

"It consumed a suite on the third floor and was then dancing down the hallway," said Edward Rawlins, assistant fire chief. "The flames were confined to that floor, but floors three, four, five and six were all loaded with smoke and heat."

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Among the 20 people injured were four firefighters, three of them treated for smoke inhalation and one suffering a broken leg.

About 180 residents were forced to seek shelter elsewhere.

Most found relatives or friends to stay with, and 10 were lodged at a nearby motel, said William Lentz, Greater Cleveland Red Cross disaster services director.

"Probably a couple of floors could be occupied tonight, but this building will be buttoned up for now. Everybody will be evacuated," Lentz said.

The Cuyahoga County coroner's office identified three of the dead early today as Mae Etta Torrence, 47, Emma Virden, 81, and Marion Merchant, 78. Two others were not immediately identified.

"When I first opened the apartment door, I thought it was coming up the elevator," said Evalyne Matthews, 53, who was visiting fourth-floor resident Robert Teacher, 58. "But when I opened the (stairway) fire door, the smoke hit me and I said, 'Go back in the room.'"

Ms. Matthews said she and Teacher drenched some towels and sheets, hoping to wrap themselves up and fight through the smoke.

"I thought we could get down on the floor and get out but there was no way," she said. "I went to the windows to holler for help. They didn't see us at first. I've been overcome by smoke before, and I was afraid of that because I have asthma."

The two were among seven or eight who were rescued on fire department ladders, Rawlins said.

Battalion Chief Walter Zimmerman estimated damage at more than $100,000, but he indicated the figure could go higher.

Two exotic birds hunted in 10 states

DENVER (AP) — Two exotic birds smuggled from South or Central America are being hunted in 10 states because officials fear they may infect commercial poultry with Newcastle disease.

The smuggling of the birds — yellow-headed Amazons — was exposed by a Colorado Springs pet shop owner who lost 250 birds that came in contact with a diseased animal. The shop owner said he bought the bird last week from a man who said he smuggled in 10 of them. Investigators found seven more diseased Amazons in the Colorado Springs area.

The birds are being hunted in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, California, Montana, Idaho and Oregon.

Reagan won't receive actors guild award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Charlton Heston, who for six years was president of the Screen Actors Guild, has criticized the union for reversing a decision to give its annual award to President Reagan because of his handling of the air traffic controllers' strike.

The annual award goes to those who have fostered the "finest ideals of the acting profession." A committee voted last month to give the 1981 award to Reagan, also a former SAG president, and informed the White House of that decision. But then a lobbying effort centered on Reagan's handling of the controllers' strike prompted SAG's board to rescind its decision.

Heston, who starred in "The Ten Commandments" and "Ben-Hur," called the action "embarrassing" and said that reversing the decision, "although entirely legal...is, I think, questionable."

SAG officials said there would be no recipient for its 1981 award.

Agriculture official defends boll weevil program

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes to fighting boll weevils, the Agriculture Department says it knows a thing or two about those legendary cotton pests and how best to cope with them.

Harry C. Mussman, administrator of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, took issue with a critical report last summer by a National Research Council committee.

Since they invaded the United States in the late 1800s, boll weevils have been a costly enemy of cotton farmers from the High Plains of Texas to the Atlantic Seaboard.

Annual losses have ranged from 7 percent to 9 percent of the U.S. cotton crop in recent years. That's a hefty dip into a harvest that has a farm value of about $5 billion annually. Moreover, farmers spend about $300 million a year on insecticides to control the pests.

In its report last August, the committee said the department's program to eradicate or keep boll weevils in check in test areas of Virginia and North Carolina did not prove successful enough to warrant expansion into a national program across the entire Cotton Belt.

Instead, the committee said efforts should be concentrated on "integrated pest management" programs that combine insecticides, short-season and insect-resistant strains of cotton, and natural insect predators to combat cotton pests.

Mussman said the committee's recommendation was based on "two key areas of disagreement" with his agency's approach.

Those included the use of sterile boll weevils for reducing the number of natural pests and the actual rate of eradication of weevils in the trial area.

In both cases, Mussman said, department scientists confirmed that the procedures were effective.

Further, he said, evidence suggests "rather clearly that singling out only one or two options" for boll weevil control on a large scale under all circumstances "would be impracticable and unwise."

Mussman's remarks were in a speech prepared for delivery to a cotton research conference in Las Vegas, Nev. Copies of his talk were distributed here by the department.

Farmers' interest rate inches down

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's still double-digit, but the interest rate farmers pay on government crop price support loans has come down a notch.

Agriculture Department officials said Tuesday the interest rate on loans made in January will be reduced for the first time in nine months.

The rate will be 12.25 percent, compared to the 14.5 percent which had been in effect since April 1.

Everett Rank, executive vice president of the Commodity Credit Corporation said the reduced rate also applies to outstanding 1981 crop loans made before Jan. 1.

The corporation is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the department, with the authority to borrow money from the Treasury to operate price support programs. Rank said the lower rate "reflects the interest rate charged CCC" by the Treasury in January.

Rank said the interest rates also apply to loans made by the CCC to help farmers build crop storage facilities.

Farmers use their crops as collateral to obtain the loans. The normal practice is to repay the loans when market prices are above the loan rates so the commodities can then be sold on the cash market.

But if prices are severely depressed — to near the loan rate — farmers can let the government foreclose on their commodities. In that case, the debt is canceled.

Officials said the interest rates will be reviewed each month and adjusted, if need be. However, they said any adjustment — down or up — would apply only to new loans during the month affected.

Lester W. LeCompte, CCC controller, said that a farmer taking a new loan in January, for example, would be "locked in" at an interest rate of 12.25 percent for the entire loan period, which normally is nine months.

If the loan rate is changed in February, for example, a farmer taking out a new loan in that month would pay the new interest rate, LeCompte said.

Ag officials gain bonus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Besides their salaries, which mostly are around $50,000 a year, 52 of the Agriculture Department's top bureaucrats are getting cash awards totaling $328,200.

The bonuses are authorized annually to members of the government's senior executive service for "outstanding performance" on the job.

This year's awards ranged from $5,512 to $10,023, the department said Tuesday.

Driver sentenced for role in theft

HOUSTON (AP) — An armored car driver who admitted helping others steal almost $500,000 in cash and checks from his vehicle has been sentenced to 10 years and a day in prison for theft.

Raymond Najera, 29, was sentenced Tuesday in the April 18 crime. He had pleaded guilty earlier.

Prosecutor Jack Frels said the defendant told authorities other suspects paid him $5,000 to set up the robbery.

Najera said he turned over the money in the Security Transport Co. van — about $34,000 in cash and the remainder in checks from department stores and banks — to several accomplices.

He said he then cut the fan belt on the vehicle so that it would stall in traffic. A guard who was in the truck said that two men robbed her of the money after it stalled.

SERVE YOURSELF A GREAT FUTURE
Excellent food and inviting decor and prime locations. All are good reasons for our overwhelming success. But mostly it is the people who serve our customers that have been responsible for making Denny's what it is today.
For that reason we make working at Denny's more than simply a job. It's the foundation for a great future and here's why:
• Top Pay
• Company Paid Insurance
• Profit Sharing
• Paid Vacations
• Flexible Schedules
• Promotion From Within
So if you are seeking a full time or part time opportunity it makes good sense to look into a position with Denny's. Take a moment to apply in person at:
