County judge may step down

County Judge Bill Tune has submitted his application for the juvenile probation officer's position recently vacated by retiring Ed Cherry. Tune, if accepted by the Howard County Juvenile Board, may be stepping down from the judge's bench.

Tune made his application during a meeting of the juvenile probation board yesterday afternoon.

Tune told the Herald he was applying for the position because "I am qualified for the job. I've enjoyed working with young kids in the past. The responsibilities are not as great as this job (county judge)."

Tune also said the salary differences were not that great between the two positions. His salary is $23,290 with a $2,700 car allowance. The juvenile probation officer's salary, however, is negotiable based upon experience and other factors, according to the juvenile probation board. Cherry was drawing $20,804 and a $3,000 car allowance.

Tune said he would not be able to make a decision on whether or not to run for county judge until after the screening committee of the juvenile board made their selections for possible applicants.

The deadline for filing for county judge is Feb. 1.

The juvenile board decided yesterday to accept applications in the juvenile probation office in the Howard County Courthouse until Jan. 25. The three-man screening committee, also selected Monday, would screen the best applicants for consideration of the full board by Jan. 31, the effective retirement date of Cherry.

The juvenile probation screening committee is composed of Big Spring school board member Carol Hunter, chairwoman, County Commissioner Bill Crocker and city Councilman Robert Fuller.

Other board members include school Superintendent Lynn Hise, Commissioner David Barr and Councilman Jack Y. Smith, who said he expects to be placed on the board by the city council tonight. The board is chaired by Tune.

Tune told the board that the juvenile probation office duties were being handled through his office since Cherry is on vacation now.

He said he would work with state 118th District Judge Jim Gregg on further cases since he is an applicant for the position.

Tune currently is serving as juvenile probation officer for Martin and Glasscock counties.

If Tune is appointed to the juvenile probation officer's position, his term of county judge will be filled by an appointee of the county commissioner's, according to local Democratic party chairman M.H. "Slick" Boatler.

Boatler said the commissioners had already contacted him selecting a possible candidate, but he had checked state law to find the commissioners have the responsibility of appointing someone to finish the judge's term, rather than the political party of the judge.

On West 8th: they're wrecking the old school

By BILLY ELDER

Anybody for a little reading (CRASH!), writing (CRASH!) and arithmetic (CRASH!)?

Not at Cedar Crest Elementary School, where the sound of workers knocking down walls is all you're likely to hear these days.

The once busy school on West Eighth, a fixture of the local school district for 47 years before it was shut down in 1977, is being demolished to make way for housing units.

The owner, LTO Corp., is holding a "wrecking sale" this week as part of the initial tearing down of the structure. Everything — every brick and stick of wood — is being sold, according to Leon Reeves, owner of LTO.

"We'll have it down in 60 to 90 days," Reeves said yesterday as he paused in the dim, dusty building to point out some of the fixtures left for sale.

Business has been brisk, says the Hays County developer, since he announced Friday that he was selling the school's fixtures and building materials.

But aside from plenty of lumber, there doesn't seem to be much left worth buying — except for an unusual brick fireplace with nursery rhyme tiles sunk into its face. Reeves said he's asking $200 for the fireplace and has received an offer for it that's close to what he wants.

Meanwhile, Reeves is having blueprints drawn up for the apartment complex he hopes to construct on the approximately 90,000-square-foot site.

He's not sure how many apartment units eventually will be available, but intends to put "as many as would be allowed" on the site after he gets zoning approval from the city of Big Spring.

The Big Spring Independent School District sold the school at the end of the 1976-77 school year, according to district Superintendent Lynn Hise.

Hise said the school was built in 1930 and had a peak enrollment of 244 elementary-age children in the mid-1960s.

There were 204 students enrolled when the decision was made to close the school and sell it, Hise said.

A combination of dwindling enrollment and the maintenance cost of such an old building prompted the district to put the school out to bid, he said.

Only one bid was received — for $7,000, from local real estate investor Jimmy Ray Smith, Hise said.

Other factors such as the lack of playground space and the steep rocky hillside behind the property influenced the decision to close the school, the superintendent said.

After 47 years, Hise said, "the taxpayers got their money out of it." Smith got some money out of it, too, although he declines to say how much. When asked why he bought the building, he replied simply: "Profit."

He said he did make a profit on the sale to LTO, and added that in back of his mind he had considered turning the acreage into an office building or storage facility.

Smith, for one, was a bit sorry to see the old schoolhouse go.

"I went to grade school there," he said. "I'm a little sentimental about it. But I think (Reeves) is going to be successful at what he wants to do with it."

Crime board members picked

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners appointed three individuals to the area Crimestoppers board in yesterday's meeting. Wendell Shive of Coahoma, Buster McCartney of the district attorney's office and Lloyd Underwood were selected for the positions.

Commissioners also approved a request from the sheriff's office for two new automobiles. Advertising for bids should begin immediately with bids to be opened Feb. 5. County Judge Bill Tune noted that bids should be sent by certified mail.

Other action concerning the sheriff's office involved a motion by Commissioner Paul Allen to purchase six engravers for the office. Sheriff

A.N. Standard told the commissioners the engravers would be loaned out to residents to mark their property for identification purposes in case of theft. The commissioners approved the purchase.

Commissioner Bill Crocker spoke briefly with the sheriff about his policy concerning employees running for public office.

"In the past, people have taken leaves of absence because it looks bad," said Crocker.

"No one is going to use county vehicles or county time for this (campaigning). If I hear of anyone violating my provisions, I'll deal with them," Standard said.

The sheriff told the board that the person in question — deputy sheriff Milton Kirby — would be taking a leave of absence in the future, but at what time he couldn't say.

Crocker said the only thing the commissioners were worried about was the possibility of a candidate taking advantage of his position.

"No one will be campaigning on duty hours," Standard affirmed.

In other action, commissioners approved a land lease bid of 4.25 acres in the northern part of the county to Gary M. Goolsby for $100 an acre and a three-sixteenth royalty on the mineral rights. Commissioners also approved a road crossing by Cosden Pipe Line Co. on Snyder Highway.

Approval to raise the salary of a part-time employee in the county clerk's office to $4.46 was granted as well by the commissioners.

SUPER CHILL: DAY 2 Fuel use by Cosden reduced

By BILLY ELDER
Staff Writer

Super chilly weather settled into Big Spring for the second day in a row yesterday, forcing one local utility company to continue today its request for voluntary consumer cutbacks in use of fuel supplies.

Yesterday, Energas Co. asked two large Howard County industries — Cosden and Sid Richardson Co. — to curtail by 50 percent the amount of natural gas used as fuel for operating purposes, said Dearl Pittman, head of the Big Spring Energas office.

Pittman said mainline pipe pressure was down due to the increased demand for gas yesterday and this was the reason for the request for industrial fuel curtailment.

Both Cosden and Richardson complied with the request, Pittman said.

No figures were available for the increased gas demand yesterday. Pittman said Energas hopes it can return Cosden and Richardson to full schedule sometime today with the advent of somewhat warmer weather.

Texas Electric Service Co., which put out an appeal yesterday for a reduction in use of "non-essential" electrical appliances, decided it was unnecessary to re-issue the appeal today, said Hooper Sanders, head of the local TESCO office.

Sanders said there was an "immediate drop" in use of electrical demand after the TESCO request was publicized yesterday.

Meanwhile, temperatures are expected to climb a little higher today. The low for the Big Spring area yesterday was seven degrees, reached at 8 a.m., according to Charles Yates of the U.S. Big Spring Field Station.

Combined with a five-mile-per-hour wind, the temperature at 8 a.m. was one degree above zero with the wind chill factored in, Yates said.

The high temperature in the last 24 hours was 37 degrees, reached at 5 a.m. today.

80 die in U.S. deep freeze

Record cold blamed for at least 80 deaths across the country surged deep into Florida today with the hardest freeze in five years in places, flash-freezing oranges on trees and causing extensive damage to the state's billion-dollar citrus crop.

Some of the bitterest winter weather to hit the South in decades iced over bridges on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and spread sleet and freezing rain across Texas, from Del Rio on the Mexican border to the Louisiana border.

Elsewhere, Buffalo, N.Y., was digging out from a record 24-hour snowfall of 28 inches and hundreds of miles of roads were closed in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York because of blowing snow and drifts up to 6 feet deep. Travelers forced off the highways by blowing snow spent the night in highway service stations and church pews, and state office buildings in western New York were ordered to remain open as refuges.

In New York City, the Heat Complaint Bureau received more than 10,000 reports of apartments without heat.

Workers at Ashland Oil Inc. plant in Catlettsburg, Ky. were trying to clear a frozen pipe early today when explosions ripped through gasoline tanks, injuring two people, a company official said.

C-City schools close

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado school district students received an unexpected two-day vacation Monday.

Superintendent Charlie Uselton announced he had been contacted by Lone Star Gas Co., which asked that the school district curtail the use of its heating facilities, with a weak gas supply cited as the reason for closing the school building.

According to Uselton, "We probably will have school Friday, originally scheduled as an in-service day for faculty members."

"As for tomorrow, we'll advise students as soon as possible."

As for Laraine, classes were held today.

Oil union rejects pact

HOUSTON (AP) — Representatives of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union and officials of Shell Oil Co. met with a federal mediator today in hopes of averting a walkout of 2,100 OCAW members at a Deer Park refinery.

OCAW representatives in Denver Monday announced a new agreement had been reached with Gulf Oil Corp., providing a 16 percent pay increase and improved benefits over the next two years.

After the Gulf accord was unveiled, Shell made an identical offer to its Deer Park refinery workers, said company spokesman Bill Gibson.

The proposal called for a 9 percent wage increase this year, retroactive to Jan. 8, a 90-cent-an-hour raise in 1983, and increased hospitalization benefits, Gibson said.

But the offer, thought to be a trend setter for 55,000 OCAW workers nationwide, was rejected and negotiations resumed today.

Meanwhile, in Fort Arthur, workers braved sub-freezing temperatures and picketed the Texaco and American Petrofina refineries for the fifth straight day today.

A spokesman for Texaco said about 4,000 striking OCAW members stayed off the job and no negotiations were set. Officials for American Petrofina could not be reached for comment on the Gulf agreement.

One union member, who did not want to be identified, said "Any agreement will help. We just have to wait and see how the local issues are handled."

Twin brothers found hanged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two 20-year-old identical twins were found hanged in their home in an apparent suicide pact, a county sheriff's spokesman says.

The bodies of Michael and Marty Kimbrell were discovered by their mother in a bedroom of their house in Whittier on Sunday, Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy John Radele said Monday.

The twins, both unemployed, had left separate suicide notes explaining that "they were sort of depressed over life in general," Radele said.

The sheriff's department declined to give other specifics.

The phenomena of twin suicide is rare and little has been written about it, said Dr. Norman Farberow of the Los Angeles County suicide prevention center. He said he has never encountered it.

"With identical twins there is much evidence and also a lot of stories that what one feels, the other feels also," he said. "Certainly if they are identical twins and they spend all of their time together, one could expect that both of them will react in the same way."

Dr. Edwin Shneidman, who teaches courses in death and dying at UCLA, said he has never encountered twin suicides in his 30 years of work with suicide prevention.

"I know a half-dozen individuals whose identical twin committed suicide. That says to me that it is not the case that if one twin commits suicide, the other automatically does," Shneidman said.

"Twins are closer than almost any other two people in the world," he said. "They're closer than a man and wife. They've been in the same crib, fed at the same breast. It doesn't show anything except that they tend to think alike and support each other in action."

Cold spell sparks three fires in county

The extreme cold weather the area has been experiencing may have been an indirect cause of a fire at the George Bair home, 7306 Brent, about 8 p.m. Monday, authorities said.

Members of the Big Spring Fire Department were called to the scene to put out a fire when the insulation around pipes in the home was set ablaze, according to reports.

The fire began in a storage room where Bair was thawing out frozen pipes with a blow torch, and the insulation caught fire, firemen said. Damage was listed at about $200.

Fire Marshal Carl Dorton said firemen called to the scene "did a real good job" in containing the blaze.

Another fire in the city is under investigation today, according to Dorton. A closet in a home at 501 Union caught fire about 7:50 p.m., he said. Resident of the home is Nicky Cierninski.

Big Spring Fire Department personnel were also called to a fire in the county Monday night. The wall behind the fireplace in a home belonging to Andrea L. Cantor, at the corner of Jeffrey and Kyle roads caught fire after Ms. Cantor had been burning the fireplace all day, Dorton said.

Accused mass killer back in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Accused mass killer Stephan Peter Morin has been returned to the Bexar County Jail from Corpus Christi, where he was taken for arraignment on two charges of kidnapping and one of sexual abuse.

Morin, 34, a native of Providence, R.I., was to be arraigned here today on capital murder and attempted capital murder charges in the Dec. 12 shooting death of Carrie Marie Scott, 21, and the wounding of Dru Darnell-Valdes, 25.

Warrant officers John Quigley and Dan Defee drove Morin back to San Antonio Monday after he was arraigned in connection with the alleged abduction of Pamela Jackson, 23.

Christi Jackson, a Corpus Christi dental technician, was freed Dec. 12 by officers who surrounded a San Antonio motel three hours after the two women were gunned down in the parking lot of a local restaurant.

Morin, who eluded a San Antonio police dragnet and was arrested on Nov. 13 at an Austin bus station, also has been charged with the killings of a young woman at Golden, Colo., and two young Las Vegas, Nev., women in the desert of neighboring Utah.

Farmers should certify crops

Howard County farmers who have not certified their crops need to do so as certification could have an effect on future farm legislation, according to Tim Hall of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service's local office.

Hall said crop producers who have planted oats in 1980 or 1981 and have not certified those crops may do so without a late-filing payment. Verification of those old crop sales will be needed, however, Hall said.

Other crops, such as corn, cotton, grain sorghum, wheat and barley should be certified as well if they have not already been reported, but a late file payment will be charged.

The late charge is to cover costs required to make determinations through field visits, said Hall.

Any questions concerning the certification of unreported crops should be made through the Howard County ASCS office at 267-2557.

School board mulls projects

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Independent School District board of trustees was to meet at noon today for a work session with the district architectural firm of Huckabee and Donham, from Andrews.

Lamesa school Superintendent Neal Chastain commented Monday that the main reason for this special session is to discuss proposed improvements at the Lamesa High School building, which will come about due to the passage of a $3 million school bond election held in December.

According to Chastain, it is the first time the school board has met with the architects since passage of that bond. The architects were expected in Lamesa sometime today to go over plans with the school administration and then go over the issues with the school board.

The regular meeting of the board is set for Jan. 18.

Cosden sets safety record

On Monday, employees of Cosden Oil and Chemical's Pipeline Department completed three years without suffering a lost-time accident, Cosden officials said.

In a telegram to all pipeline employees, Cosden President Ken Perry congratulated each one on this accomplishment and commended them for their attention to safety, team work and consideration for their fellow workers.

Perry advised that the pipeline employees efforts, along with others throughout the company enabled Cosden as well as American Petrofina Inc. to set a new all-time safety record in 1981.

Sam Hunnicutt, vice president of operations for Cosden Pipeline, expressed his appreciation to all the employees and advised that as a token of the company's appreciation, each employee will receive a $100 gift certificate redeemable at participating Big Spring merchants.

DALLAS (AP) — Jody Powell, who served as press secretary to President Carter, has joined the Dallas Times Herald as its national political columnist, newspaper officials announced Saturday.

Powell's column will appear on Sundays and Thursdays.

said.

"There was not much damage," Dorton said.

Two people were arrested on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle about 1:30 a.m. today at the intersection of N.W. Sixth and Lamesa Drive.

James Kerry Ezell, 32, of Andrews, and Cindy Cole, 25, of 1106 E. 12th, were stopped and questioned by police when the 1979 Chevrolet Camaro Ms. Cole was driving did not have a rear license plate, police said.

A check revealed that the vehicle had been stolen from Odessa. Ms. Cole told police she did not know the vehicle was stolen, and Ezell told police that he had rented the car, according to police reports.

James Wayne, 61, was arrested on a public intoxication charge about 11 p.m. Monday, then held in city jail for theft over $20, when police noticed he was wearing a new pair of boots with a Gibson's price tag inside. The Working Texans, it's a time for charity

Unemployment in Texas has dropped to 4.9 percent, according to recent figures from the Labor Department. That puts Texas among the states with the least economic dislocation from the recession. The Texas decline from 5.5 percent reported in November reflects the state's economic health compared with the rest of the recession-mired nation.

IT MAY BE HARD, therefore, for Texans to realize that across the nation are 9.5 million people out of work.

The situation has become so dire in parts of the country that the Salvation Army is discussing plans to revive the soup kitchens which served the nation's poor during the Great Depression.

Of the 10 most-populous states, Michigan had by far the highest rate at 15.1 percent. Second was Ohio at 12.5 percent, followed by Pennsylvania with 9.8 percent.

Black unemployment stands at 16.1 percent. The teen-age rate remained stable at 21.7 percent.

THE SITUATION WILL WORSEN when an estimated 700,000 Americans lose federal Aid to Families with Dependent Children. There is little argument that the government should never have started many of its social welfare programs, but that does not lessen the economic impact when those programs are "zeroed out."

While we Texans bask in the glow of economic boom, it is important to remember the plight of our less fortunate countrymen.

AS THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT slows its massive public welfare program, we should consider increasing our donations to charitable organizations which will be under pressure to fill the resulting void.

Around the Rim

Monkey business

I'm told they do some pretty strange things in Arkansas, like holding trials to decide which theory of life's origins you want the kids to learn.

They called this recent Arkansas extravaganza "Scopes II," after the 1925 trial of John T. Scopes, who broke a Tennessee law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in schools.

The name has a ring to it, but there are major differences. The first is that the Arkansas law does not prohibit anything — it merely says that creation should be taught along side evolution.

The second difference is really sort of funny: in 1925 the evolutionists were demanding that their theory be given a chance for the sake of fairness. In 1981, the evolutionists, dressed like the American Civil Liberties Union, wanted no such free exchange of ideas. They want their theory taught, period.

IT'S GOOD THAT everyone can get their day in court.

As always, I am stuck between sides. I sometimes doubt the usefulness of legislation allowing the teaching of creation in public schools, since a teacher who does not believe the theory will not go out of his or her way to teach it well. After all the court fights that are bound to occur creation in public schools may end up doing the cause more harm than good.

But I do believe the creation theory and think it should be defended against those who say evolution is indisputable scientific fact and all else is "religious dogma."

Parts of the Arkansas trial seemed pretty shoddy. The ACLU, as always, was well-prepared but the state's attorney general didn't seem to believe in what he was defending. The only Arkansas who looked like he knew what he was doing was the fellow in the money suit who kept getting his picture in the paper.

BUT THAT'S THE law biz. This legal battle is going to go on for some time, with Louisiana, Georgia and Mississippi all having proposed creation laws. All will probably be in court soon, and all may end the same as the case in Arkansas did.

Judge William Overton ruled that the laws simply brought religion into the classroom, and the ACLU successfully argued that the law ushered in a "state religion."

Successful doesn't mean right. Evolution is in no way a neutral scientific fact; it requires its own brand of faith.

I can never resist quoting Charles Darwin's thoughts on evolution, expressed in a letter in 1881. He wrote, "The horrid doubt always arises whether the convictions of a man's mind, which was developed from the mind of lower animals, are of any value or are at all trustworthy."

An interesting thought. But it's amazing how much weight those convictions carry today.

Media madness

The media keep getting blamed for all sorts of crimes committed against the government, but very little is mentioned about how many times the press is used by the government to do its dirty work.

Take the recent firing of the President's national security stablehand who, when it came to Mr. Reagan's horseback riding, was considered one of his closest advisers.

The stablehand, Horatio Bridle, had irked high members of the White House staff with an interview he had given to Sports Illustrated saying the President kept slipping off his saddle. Since this was privileged information, the White House aides decided Bridle was not a team player and had to go. But no one had the nerve to break the news to the President's stablehand.

So one of the aides called up his good friend Sam Dunreedy of the ANC Evening News and said, "Ask me a question about Horatio Bridle."

Sam said, "What's going on with the President's stablehand?"

"I can't tell you," the aide replied and hung up.

THIS WAS ENOUGH for Sam. He went on the air that night and said, "White House sources hinted today that there could be a big shakeup in the President's stable. Mr. Reagan is said to have expressed dissatisfaction with the constant bickering going on between his national security stablehand adviser and the grooms at Quantico, where his horse is kept."

The next morning, crews from all the major networks were staked out at Bridle's house. When he left for work, cameras were shoved in his face, and he was asked if he was on his way out?

"No one has spoken to me about it," Bridle said. "The President has told me I could have the stablehand job as long as I wanted it."

That afternoon, Lilly Stall, the CBT White House correspondent was having lunch with a Reagan insider. He said, "Ask me if Charlton Dancer is being considered as a replacement for Horatio Bridle as the President's national security stablehand."

Lilly said, "Is Charlton Dancer being considered to replace Bridle in the White House?"

"There is no truth in the story, whatsoever."

Lilly rushed back to her place in front of the White House and reported to the TV audience, "Despite denials from the President, it has now been decided to replace Horatio Bridle with Charlton Dancer, who was stablehand to Mr. Reagan when the President was governor of California."

BY THIS TIME Bridle was becoming frantic. He went to the White House aides and asked to see the President, so that he could be assured once and for all that his job was not in jeopardy.

The President agreed to see Bridle, and afterwards said, "Horatio is the best stablehand I've ever had."

A White House aide standing next to Jackie Woodley of NBZ whispered to her, "Ask me if this is the last time the President will ever see Bridle again."

"Is this the last time the President will see Bridle?"

The White House man said, "No comment."

Jackie went on the air that night and said, "NBZ has learned today that despite the meeting between President Reagan and Horatio Bridle the President will announce the appointment of a new national security stablehand tomorrow. White House aides said the vicious attacks and innuendoes by the media on Bridle now make it impossible for him to do his job."

Grumbling about Poland

WASHINGTON — Within a week after President Reagan's Christmas message and subsequent imposition of sanctions against Poland and the Soviet Union had cheered them, hard-liners in the administration were grumbling that the air had gone out of the balloon.

"Flaccid," snapped one critical Reagan administration official of the current state of U.S. policy on the Polish crisis. He and other hard-liners grumble that plans to follow the first round of sanctions with a tougher second round of sanctions have gone nowhere, even though there is not the slightest sign of Soviet easing on Poland.

The blame is put on Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who follows the recommendations of the State Department bureaucracy. This is a continuation of State Department bureaucracy. This is a continuation of State Department objections to threatening and imposing sanctions in the first place.

NIXON NIXES STOCKMAN

Richard M. Nixon, as willing as ever to deliver judgments on all subjects, tells visitors to his New Jersey estate that David Stockman would no longer be around if he were president.

Although Nixon as president found it no less easy than Ronald Reagan to fire anybody, he now confides that Stockman's retention as budget director after his betrayal of the administration is an invitation to other infidelities. Smart as Stockman is, says Nixon, he would get rid of him.

A footnote: Stockman appears to have survived his crisis, but he and his aides were devastated by the president's refusal to go along with new cuts on the Headstart and urban development grant programs. One Stockman aide angrily suggested that the budget be sent over to the Oval Office for cutting there.

CLARK'S DEPUTY

William P. Clark's selection as President Reagan's national security adviser was quickly followed by a push from congressional conservatives to name a well-known anti-Soviet defense expert as his deputy.

Their candidate: William Schneider, who has served the past year as top defense official at the Office of Management and Budget. Considering Clark's inexperience in national security affairs, the identity of his deputy takes on special meaning.

Consequently, the Capitol Hill group does not feel Adm. James (Bud) Nance, who has been serving as acting national security chief, has the stature for the job. Schneider, who was defense adviser to then Sen. James Buckley and after that to Rep. Jack Kemp, is both knowledgeable and outspoken.

JERRY BROWN'S FORECAST

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California, who fancies himself an expert in Reagan-watching, predicts the president will transform the political climate before his term has ended with a U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms treaty, probably concluded in a summit meeting.

Bigger risks for consumers

ing enough to protect the public.

DESPITE THE LACK of any mandate to get the product safety commission "off our backs," the budget cutters have ignored warnings that the 30 percent cut will mean a corresponding increase in consumer risk. Here are just some of the effects, gleaned from internal documents by my associate Tony Capaccio:

— In 1979, there were 70,000 fires involving wood or coal stoves, factory-built fireplaces, furnaces or venting components, resulting in 200 deaths. In 1980, the number of such fires had risen to 112,000, and the death toll stood at 350. Now the budget cuts will effectively stop the testing of these increasingly popular products by the National Bureau of Standards.

— Faulty clothes dryers, electric light fixtures and extensions caused more than 23,000 fires in 1980, leaving hundreds dead or injured. The budget cuts will eliminate several on-going investigations in this area.

— Inhalation of toxic fumes from plastic and cellulose products found in homes causes about half the annual death toll in fires. The budget cuts will restrict the commission's investigations of these materials by 50 percent.

— Chainsaw "kickbacks" caused some 24,000 injuries in 1980. The industry has been working on the problem, but the budget cuts will prevent the agency's experts from properly evaluating the results of this effort.

— The agency's Chemical Hazards Section is one of the hardest hit by the budget cuts. For example, the commission will be unable to make sample checks of homes to determine the level of asbestos exposure resulting from deteriorating pipe insulation. Yet the National Academy of Sciences reported recently that this could be a greater hazard than the much-publicized problem of asbestos exposure in schools. Asbestos is a known cancer-causing material.

— The agency's effort to look into the dangers of "plasticizers" used in such baby products as rattles and pacifiers will be hampered by the budget cut, though 13 million pounds of one plasticizer alone, DEHP, are used annually in these products.

— The commission's primary function of encouraging and monitoring industry self-regulation will be made virtually impossible by the budget cuts. There simply won't be enough personnel to review the thousands of pieces of information that help the commission spot potential safety problems.

WATCH ON WASTE — Department of Energy auditors recently chastised the Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago for "writting off" small but valuable quantities of missing precious metals. Some of the lab's excuses for the missing gold, silver and platinum: "used up in research," "experimental losses" and — believe it or not — "evaporated."

Dear Abby

A personal gift is more precious

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, you offered some suggestions on what to give the older person for Christmas. Unfortunately, it was no help to me. My problem is what to give my mother-in-law. She's 74, widowed and living in a condo in Palm Beach, Fla.

This woman has jewelry, clothing, knickknacks, perfume — name it and she has it. And what she doesn't have, she can go out and buy.

OUT OF IDEAS IN N.Y.C.

DEAR OUT: She can't buy a charm for her bracelet (or necklace) with a personal inscription on it from you. And she can't buy a new picture of you and her son — and your children, if you have any. And she can't buy thoughtful letters from you during the year to let her know that you are thinking of her — which would be far more precious than one expensive store-bought gift at Christmas.

DEAR ABBY: Because of you, my Christmas was a lot merrier this year. Last year my husband drove me crazy sitting around the house doing nothing. He had just retired at age 65, was in good health, and didn't know what to do with himself. He'd worked hard all his life and never had time to cultivate any hobbies.

Kiddingly suggested he write to you, and he did. You told him to offer his services to some volunteer group, and you named a few. He called the Crippled Children's Society and was given the names of some handicapped children who needed transportation to and from the therapy clinic. He's never been happier.

Energy conservation is club topic

"Energy Conservation" was the topic of the Friday meeting of GFWC Modern Woman's Forum. The meeting took place in the home of Mrs. B.M. Keese with Mrs. C.R. Moad presiding.

Mrs. B.F. Yandell presented the energy program, reviewing points taken from "GFWC Clubwoman" publication. Production of oil, gas and coal depend largely on three things:

- time to bring the resources to consumers. An estimated 40 percent of oil needs in 1990 must come from fields not yet discovered.

- access to public lands containing potential reserves. About two-thirds of the reserves lie under federal land and water;

- and money to invest in order to develop the production.

Mrs. Yandell said if the United States maintains its present course, the dependence on oil imports will continue and possibly increase during the 1980's.

With some changes in government policies, laws

Aren't men peculiar? They'll listen to advice from a stranger, but just let their wives tell them the same thing and they'll say she's off her rocker.

Thanks, Abby. You gave me the best Christmas present I've had in years.

ANGIE

DEAR ANGIE: Don't mention it. Greet your wonderful husband for me, and thank him for giving me this opportunity to remind others that they, too, can improve the quality of their retirement years by volunteering their services. Everybody can do something.

...

DEAR ABBY: I am a Hungarian-born woman, 48, and am told that I am very beautiful. However, I have always had a tendency to be slightly plumpish. If I lose weight, my face will sag and become haggard. If I keep my face full and wrinkle-free, then my figure will be too full.

So since I can't have both, which should I choose?

ILLONA FROM BUDAPEST

DEAR ILLONA: Choose your face, and sit down.

Dr. Donohue

His arms fall asleep—nerves?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 29-year-old male construction worker. I am in generally good health. My problem is my right arm. It falls asleep on me temporarily, sometimes two or three times a day. I am worried about what this might indicate. —P.W.

I get tingling sensations or a feeling of an arm "falling asleep" can indicate abnormal pressure on a nerve. A dramatic example is what happens when you strike your "funny bone." The tingling and numbness is not coming from the elbow bone, but from the nerve next to it.

Another reader (L.H.) has the same experience as yours and she wonders about a circulation problem. Circulatory problems may cause this, but in those instances the unpleasant tingling and numbness are of longer duration, not of the fleeting type. That usually occurs in persons older than yourself.

I cannot comment on the seriousness or lack of seriousness of your condition. It may be due to the way you use some piece of equipment. Do you notice the phenomenon when you are on vacation or on weekends? Or it would be a chronic problem stemming from the entrapment of a nerve between two bones. I don't know. I am not even sure it is a nerve problem.

Try to remember just which part of your arm or which fingers are getting the sensation. That will help the doctor find just which nerve (if any) is being affected. A pretty simple examination will tell if something very serious is going on.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Have you ever heard of inward varicose veins? —M.W.

When you speak of varicose veins, the picture that pops into most people's minds is of those enlarged, twisting veins visible beneath the skin of the legs. True, those are varicose veins, but there are other veins that cannot be seen, but which may become varicose too. I like your way of describing them — "inward" — and I will settle for that label.

These inward veins are, in fact, more of a problem than the ones nearer the surface that produce the unsightly signs. I guess we can call those "outward" veins. But it is in the inward veins where clots may form and cause serious problems.

Bits of a clot may break off and eventually lodge in the blood vessels of the lungs, a condition called pulmonary embolus. This does not happen in the outward veins.

For some in Pontiac, it's the not-so-super bowl

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pro football's "big party" is coming to town with its limousines and fur coats, but some people here hold little hope that much Super Bowl money will trickle down to Pontiac, where one-quarter of the workers are unemployed.

The northern Detroit suburb of Pontiac, where Super Bowl XVI between the Cincinnati Bengals and San Francisco 49ers will be played Jan. 24, had a 23.9 percent unemployment rate in October, according to the Michigan Employment Security Commission's latest figures.

That means 10,900 people were unemployed, out of a workforce of more than 45,000 in the city. The area is heavily dependent on the slumping auto industry.

The Super Bowl "is going to be a big party, but nothing can take your mind off unemployment," said Marlene Smith, an assembly line worker at General Motors Corp.'s Pontiac division engine plant who will be laid off Friday for the second time in nine years.

"When your unemployment benefits run out and you no longer have (health) insurance and you're facing not being able to pay your bills...how can you take your mind off those things?" she said.

Ms. Smith, who was laid off from December 1973 to July 1976, blamed her layoff this year on large supplies of unsold cars.

For the six-county Detroit metropolitan area, the number of jobless totaled 55,300 people in October. The state's unemployment rate was 14.4 percent in December, the highest of the nation's 10 largest states, the MESC said.

Super Bowl planners say the game will help change the area's image.

The Michigan Host Committee for the Super Bowl estimates about 70,000 out-of-state visitors will attend the football championship game, spending $60 million, said Debi Hart, director of public relations for the committee.

Ms. Hart said visitors will spend $130 a day on room, meals, transportation and entertainment. She estimated individuals will spend $30.4 million, with group expenses providing $21.6 million.

Officials at the MESC, which tries to find jobs for the unemployed, said the Super Bowl won't make much of a difference.

"They may hire a few extra waitresses, bartenders and taxicab drivers for a couple weeks, but I can't imagine any long-term changes," said MESC spokesman Tim Nicholson.

Also, only 10,000 Super Bowl tickets have been allotted for state residents, although Michigan taxpayers have subsidized the Silverdome since construction on the $55.7 million stadium began in 1973, he said.

Average Pole shocked by Reagan's sanctions

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Many Poles are angered by President Reagan's sanctions and the threat to their supply of chicken and eggs. But intellectuals believe such moves can bring pressure to bear on martial law authorities.

The Reagan administration decided shortly after martial law was imposed Dec. 13 to suspend credits and government food shipments to Poland, including American corn.

The Polish government reaction has been predictably sharp, with almost daily condemnations carried in the official media. But officials at a news conference last week appeared undaunted.

"The government will somehow feed itself," government spokesman Jerzy Urban told reporters. "The Reagan measures will be felt mostly by the broad population."

That feeling, hammered home almost daily by the government-controlled media, is shared by many Poles who were surprised and even a bit shocked to hear of the aid cutoff.

One army guard at a checkpoint in Warsaw remarked to a foreigner: "The Americans won't send us their corn, but they want to drive around anyway."

Some economic analysts say the cut in corn will severely affect production of chickens and eggs, the alternative to scarce meat.

Poultry is the most available meat substitute for many families, and American corn was a staple for egg layers at the big state chicken farms. Eggs also are a vital alternative to meat because of their protein content.

Huge lines form as soon as eggs are delivered to shops, and their price at private markets — 25 cents apiece — reflects the demand. The official price is about nine cents.

"The feeling generally is that America, as a traditional friend of Poland, should now step up its help," one Polish journalist said. "Instead, it is imposing restrictions which make the government propaganda pointing out Soviet help really effective."

Some reactions are stronger. "He seems to be trigger-happy," a 35-year-old woman with a young daughter said of Reagan. "But only in words, and his sanctions will hit the man in the street first of all." But some intellectuals believe the authorities will only relax their grip on the nation under pressure. They say in private conversations that they regret West European nations have hesitated to join or back Reagan's moves.

Midland clips Hawks

There is still room at the top in college basketball for the little man. If you don't think so just ask the Howard College Hawks and their coach, Harold Wilder.

Last night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum the Hawks were dropped 89-83 by a one-man second half scoring show put on by the Midland Chaparrals' five-foot six-inch Anthony "Spud" Webb. Webb only had two points at the half, but he scored 21 points in the final half to lead the Chaps to a Western Conference win.

The loss now makes the Hawks conference record 3-2, while Midland is now 4-1.

For the first few minutes of the opening half the Hawks seemed a bit intimidated by the aggressive Chap defense that swirled around Howard's leading scorer, Nathan Givens. Early Hawk passes into Givens continually were flicked away by the outstretched arms of the Chaps.

However, Givens played hard under the offensive board and managed to keep the Hawks in contention.

With 15 minutes left in the half Coach Wilder called time-out to regroup his team. The time-out helped to break Midland's momentum and Hawk James Barnett came back out on the court to score six unanswered points to tie the game at 18-18.

A few moments later Leon Isaac managed two steals from the Chaps which resulted in a jumper by Barnett and a layup by Isaac.

The Hawks then jumped out to a 31-24 lead behind the scoring of Barnett and Givens.

The offensive barrage continued for the rest of the half with Midland barely hanging on and at intermission the Hawks were up 43-38.

At the beginning of the second half it look as though the Hawks were going to continue scoring at will as Jerome Johnson hit two jumpers right off the bat, but the Chaps slowly crept back into contention.

Depending on inside play by Chester Smith, Lance McCain and Jerome Crowe and helped by the ball movement supplied by Anthony Webb the Chaps took the lead at 51-50 with 15 minutes left in the half.

A critical fourth foul on big man Nathan Givens hurt the Hawks defense a few minutes later and Midland was able to establish domination.

For the last 10 minutes it was all Anthony Webb as he made free throws, drove the lane and hit from outside.

The Hawks had a couple of chances to come back. Once they had a chance to tie, but a foul on an offensive rebound turned the ball over and another time when the Midland bench was hit with a technical and the Hawk's faced the possibility of a six point play, but failed to make the front end of a one and one situation.

When the dust had cleared on the floor of the coliseum the Hawks were loser 89-83.

High point man for the Hawks was Nathan Givens, who had 22 points despite the intense pressure put on him by Midland. James Barnett added 19 for the Hawks.

Midland was led by Anthony Webb who canned 23 points for the night.

Coach Wilder said of the game, "Midland played well. We have a lot of freshmen who have no experience in intense game situations and that spelled the difference. Also Spud Webb played great the second half and we just couldn't hold him. He's so quick and can jump so high it's hard to defend him."

"We didn't have the game experience we needed, but now we do so hopefully we'll do better next time," Coach Wilder said.

The Hawks next game is Thursday at Odessa College.

HOWARD (83) Givens 10-22; Isaac 6-4-16; Barnett 6-7-19; Johnson 3-0-6; Hardwick 6-0-12; Childress 2-2-4; Sharp 0-0-0. Totals 33-15-83. MIDLAND (89) Webb 9-23; Wilson 6-0-12; McCain 4-12; McChristian 3-0-6; Crowe 5-4-14; Smith 11-22. Totals 38-15-89.

YOU'RE A BAD BOY, WIMBERLY — Jerome Crowe of the Midland Chaparrals appears to be slapping Hawk Wimberly Hardwick as if he disapproves of Hardwick's rebound in first half action last night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Harwick's effort, however, wasn't enough as the Hawks were defeated by Midland 89-83. The Hawks are now 3-2 in conference play.

Wood files suit against ABC

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — For 3½ months Gordon Wood refused to think, talk or speculate about his ongoing tussle with the American Broadcasting Company. After all, it was football season and Wood had to give all his attention to the Brownwood Lions.

But with the season ended, and another Class 4A state championship added to his already full trophy case, Wood turned his concentration again to the television producers who tried to "ambush" him on live national television Sept. 15.

Wood took his case to court Monday, filing a damage suit against the television network and the producers of its morning news-information show, "Good Morning America."

"Well, it (filing) is a relief," said Wood, winner of more football games than any other high school coach in Texas history. "It would be a weight off my mind if the whole thing were behind me."

Wood's problems with the network began when he was interviewed during a segment of "Good Morning America" dealing with violence in sports.

Host David Hartman then introduced a film clip which he said showed Wood. The coach in the film was seen cursing, beating and slapping his players.

After the clip ended, Hartman turned to Wood and asked how he could "justify such behavior."

"That wasn't me," said the surprised Wood. And, sure enough, ABC officials later admitted it wasn't.

"For a month after it happened, I couldn't function as a coach," said Wood, interviewed at his home in Brownwood by telephone. "Everyone was calling me, wanting to know what I was going to do. I finally had to leave my office and set up in a shop building just to get away and prepare for football games."

Wood's attorney, Gary Stephens of Houston, filed the lawsuit Monday in San Angelo U.S. District Court. It asks

$10,000 actual damages, the same amount in punitive damages and the opportunity for Wood to appear on the program again, but on his own terms.

ABC officials in New York declined comment late Monday, saying the company had not been officially notified of the filing.

The suit contends Wood's name was damaged and his life, both personally and professionally, has suffered.

Wood said in the suit that he was the victim of a setup. He claimed he was misled concerning the purpose of the program and that he was not told in advance that the film clip would be shown or that he would be named as the coach in it.

The show's producer, George Merlis, said he later wrote Wood a letter of apology to go with the apology Hartman immediately offered at the time of the slip-up.

Program officials also said later the entire episode was "a crude attempt to ambush" the coach.

Gregg's last Super Bowl ring is special reminder for Bengal coach

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Dallas Cowboys ring adorns Forrest Gregg's disfigured finger, a reminder of his last taste of the Super Bowl.

"I wear the Cowboys ring because it's the only one that fits," the Cincinnati Bengals' head coach said Monday. "I got my finger mangled in Bubba Smith's facemask."

Gregg was a player on two Super Bowl championship teams with the Green Bay Packers and on the Dallas Cowboys' 1971 championship squad, where he earned the ring he wears. Now, he's in a position to add another as he takes the Bengals to their first Super Bowl.

After resigning from his first National Football League head coaching job with the Cleveland Browns under heavy pressure, Gregg has taken a last-place team to the top in two years.

"I don't know that I'm any better of a coach than I was in Cleveland," Gregg told a crowd of sports writers in his Spinney Field office Monday. "I thought I was a good coach in Cleveland. I'm doing the same things that I did then. I'm a creature of habit. I believe in discipline. I've always believed in it because that's what I've seen succeed. And I believe in conditioning and mental preparation."

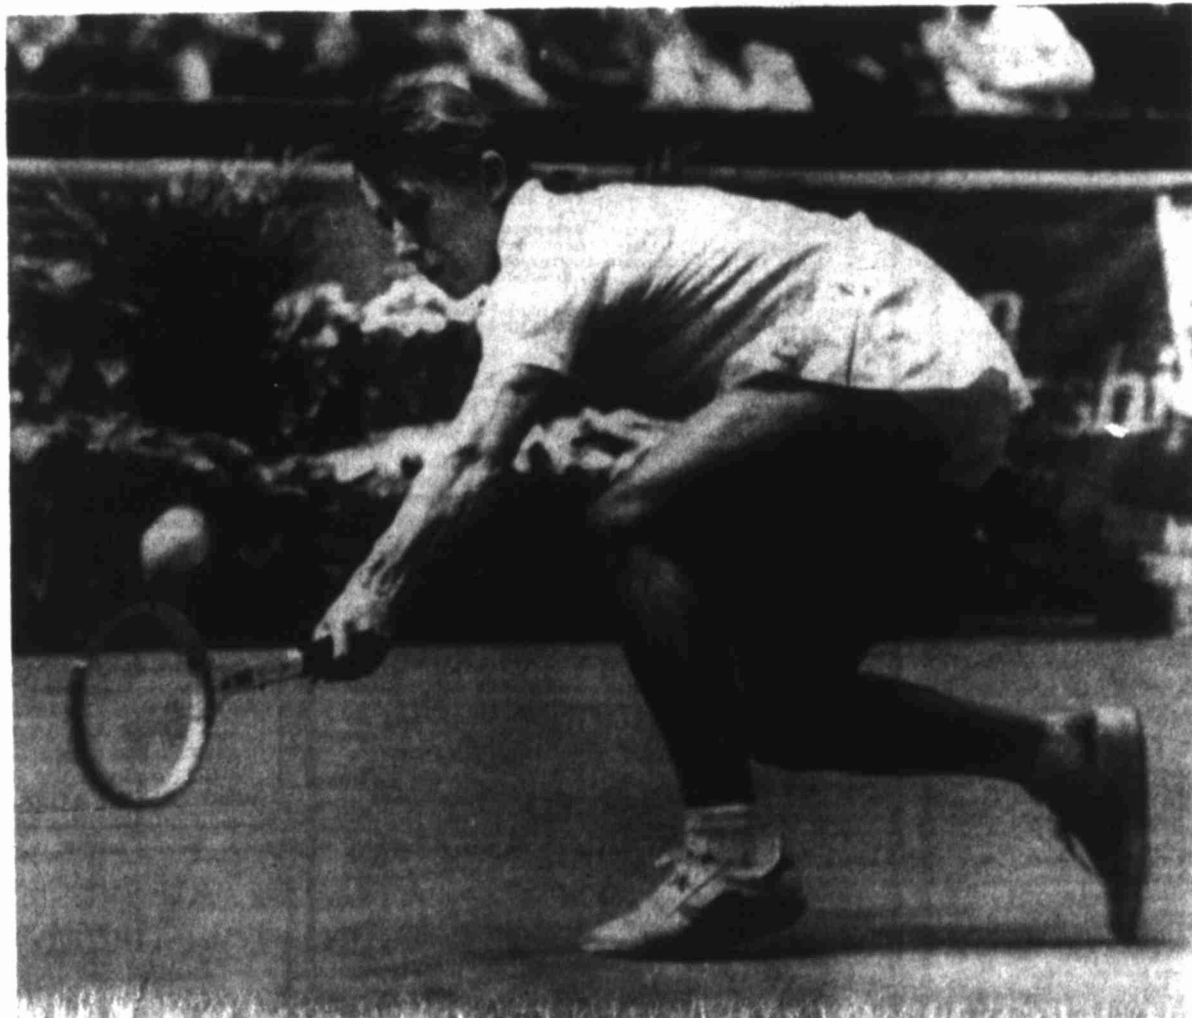

Gregg has been described as a disciplinarian akin to former Packers Coach Vince Lombardi. He brought his style to Cincinnati, where the downtrodden Bengals were coming off consecutive 4-12 seasons.

"Probably the one thing that I've tried to get these guys to think about is to give everything they can as football players, to work as hard as they possibly can in a football game for 60 minutes," Gregg said.

That devotion to the work ethic seemed to take root late last season, as the Bengals struggled to a 6-10 mark despite a rash of injuries. Gregg said it took a while for the players to get over their fear of losing.

"It seemed to me that every week we were getting better, even though we were losing," Gregg said. "We were playing good teams. We were getting beat, but not blown out. We were playing tough, not just rolling over."

Lady Steers stopped by Permian

ODESSA — The Big Spring High Lady Steers were felled last night by a physical Odessa Permian team by the score of 71-58.

Coach Sandy Brown said Permian took an early lead due to the cold shooting of the Lady Steers. Coach Brown said Permian effectively neutralized Big Spring's front line consisting of Shell Rutledge and Shirley Dixon.

"They (Permian) were just so physical that they shut down Shell and caused Shirley to accumulate four fouls by the start of the fourth quarter," Coach Brown said.

There were some bright spots in the game according to Coach Brown. She cited Elise Wheat, who scored 23 points, for her all around play. Monette Wise, a sophomore, scored 14 points and hit five jumpers from outside of 15 feet. Coach Brown also said Heidi Brown played well against the Permian team.

The loss dropped the Lady Steers to 1-3 in District 5-AAAAA play and to 10-11 for the year.

The girl's JV team edged the Permian JV 44-43 in an exciting contest. Stacy Bott hit four crucial free throws to pull the game out for Big Spring. Paula Spears was high point for Big Spring with 14.

The Lady Steers will be in action again this Thursday at Steer Gym to take on a tough Midland Lee team at 8 p.m. The JV games begin at 6:15 p.m.

BIG SPRING (58) — Doss 2-15; Rutledge 20-4; Wise 6-7-14; Randle 2-1-5; Wheat 9-2-23; Brown 1-0-2; Dixon 2-1-5. Totals 24-10-58. PERMIAN (71) — Hinds 5-0-10; Smith 7-7-16; Wright 4-0-8; Sorrells 1-0-2; Tolin 1-0-2; Davis 10-3-23; Harrison 5-0-10. Totals 34-3-71.

Golden Tornadoes face Sweetwater

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes boys varsity basketball team return to district action tonight at home against the Sweetwater Mustangs.

Both teams come into tonight's contest with 3-2 District records. Lamesa defeated Sweetwater 88-53 earlier in the season, during the first round of the North Angelo Lion's Club tournament. In that game, Lamesa Junior forward Victor Spencer scored a season high of 31 points.

In other area basketball action tonight, the Dawson Dragon's boys and girls will be playing at Sands with the girl's game beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Dawson girl's are one and two in District 9-1A, as the Sands girls come in with a 3-0 district mark.

In the boys contest tonight, Dawson brings in a 2-0 District mark, while the Sands boys are 1-1 in District. Other area games pit the Klondike boys and girls against Grady at Grady, and the O'Donnell boys and girls at Morton.

Runnels overpowered by strong Lamesa

The Runnels Junior High White girl's basketball team lost to a strong Lamesa team here Monday night by the score of 32-13.

Coach Barbara Fletcher

said her team failed to play a well rounded game. Coach Fletcher said she expected the team to be ready for Lamesa due to several good games in last weekend's Big Spring Tournament, but Runnels just couldn't get untracked.

Monique Jones led Runnels with 4 points, while paced her team with 12. Runnels will play again Thursday in Sweetwater as it attempts to get rolling offensively.

Golliad girls lose heartbreaker to Tors

The Golliad Black girl's basketball team lost a heartbreaker Monday night to Lamesa 29-26.

Golliad was leading going into the final minutes, but Lamesa managed to pull out a victory.

Tabitha Green scored 10 to lead Golliad followed by Sherri Myrick with 7 and Paula Jolley with 6.

Green also pulled down 8 rebounds and Jolley had 5 rebounds. Priscilla Banks contributed 5 steals in her defensive effort.

The girls played well throughout the game on offense and defense and just fell short of taking a victory of the Lamesa team.

Golliad will play again next Monday in Coahoma.

College Basketball

Tulsa trips West Texas St.

By The Associated Press

Phil Spradling missed a couple of games because of an appendix operation. It just wasn't the same Tulsa team without him.

"Of course with Spradling back, that made a difference in the ballgame," said Richardson after a 98-84 victory over West Texas State.

Spradling, who missed two games and played only eight minutes in Saturday night's loss to New Mexico State, scored 14 points as the 18th-ranked Golden Hurricane beat its Missouri Valley Conference opponent.

"Sunday he looked real good in practice," said Richardson. "He said he was ready to play. He said, 'I was ready (Saturday) at Las Cruces, but I was afraid.'"

Stadling was an important part of a fast-breaking Tulsa attack that thoroughly disorganized the Buffaloes. He played 22 minutes, hitting seven of 11 field goal tries.

"At halftime, they had 13 layups and made 12 of them," said West Texas State Coach Ken Edwards.

"We only had two. We didn't shoot with authority. We shot scared. They didn't do anything except beat us down the court. They beat us our own game."

Tulsa jumped to a 55-39 halftime lead. That lead ballooned to as many as 25 points midway through the second half. Hurricane freshman Steve Harris scored 20 points and 6-foot-10 sophomore Bruce Vanley added 16. Shawn Smith scored 18 points for the losers.

In other action involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 4 DePaul defeated Creighton 76-67; No. 15 Oregon State routed Stanford 81-38 and No. 20 Virginia Tech edged Tulane 65-64.

The Top Twenty

Terry Cummings scored 29 points and Bernard Randolph added 20 as DePaul beat Creighton. Trailing 38-35 at the half, the Blue Demons outscored Creighton 15-3 in the first six minutes to take a 50-41 lead with 13:23 remaining and never lost their advantage.

DePaul Coach Ray Meyer called the victory "a stinker," making it the second game in a row that he wasn't satisfied with his team's performance. He was visibly upset with Saturday night's 71-69 triumph over Dayton in his 1,000th game.

Paced by guard Lester Conner's 17 points and seven steals, Oregon State breezed past Stanford. The Beavers outscored Stanford 31-8 at the start of the second half in building up a 35-point lead and coasted the rest of the way.

Virginia Tech built a nine-point lead with 2:58 left behind Gordy Bryant's 17 points, then cut short a Tulane rally to nip the Green Wave.
