SEES A SHADOW — Groundhog club President Charles M. Erhard, left, gets the word from Punxsutawney Phil that he saw his shadow and there will be six more weeks of winter weather on tap for the nation Tuesday morning in Punxsutawney, Pa. Jim Means, Phil's handler looks on with the rest of the club's inner circle for the 95th prognostication.

Punxsutawney Phil predicts six more weeks of winter

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — Punxsutawney Phil, the underground oracle named for this town, saw his shadow when he peered from his groundhog burrow this morning and tradition says that means six more weeks of the calamitous winter of '82.

Charles M. Erhard, president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club, roused the slumbering rodent from his electrically heated burrow.

The long-range forecast issued by the National Weather Service concurred with Phil's findings in a year that has seen record cold temperatures nationwide.

"The National Meteorological Center checked with Uncle Phil before they put out their extended forecast, and they agree with his prognosis," said meteorologist

Frank Lucadamo in Pittsburgh.

According to myth and legend, spring would have been right around the corner if Phil had not seen his shadow. The rodent has predicted an extended winter every year but two since 1960.

Similar events were planned across the state in Quarryville, Pa., and Sun Prairie, Wis. But townspeople here insist that Phil, who has been making forecasts since 1877, is a peerless prognosticator.

The groundhog lives in a glass-enclosed pen with his mate, Phyllis, in the center of town. They eat a diet, recommended by a zookeeper, of dry dog food, animal vitamins, apples and carrots.

Phil is put into his burrow on Gobbler's Knob just before the big event on Groundhog Day.

There is no scientific evidence that any animal can forecast the weather. And the National Geographic Society once pointed out that groundhogs normally hibernate until March, not early February.

But this town of 7,792, located 80 miles north of Pittsburgh and named by the Delaware Indians for a vicious species of black flies that once thrived here, has cultivated international fame by promoting a myth that can be traced back to ancient Scotland.

To mark the occasion, the local high school crowns a groundhog king and queen. And the town honors its man and woman of the year at a Groundhog Day banquet, held after Phil's prediction, which is duly recorded in the Congressional Record.

Bush's armored limousine struck by 'unknown object'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An armored limousine carrying Vice President George Bush to work was struck early today by an unknown object — almost certainly a rock, according to the FBI. No one was injured and it was unknown where the rock came from.

Ron Dervish, a spokesman for the FBI, said, "It appears that a rock hit the car." The dented car was examined by technicians and "they are 90 to 99 percent sure it was a rock."

But he did not know how it happened. "The rock might have been thrown or picked up by another car," he said.

Secret Service spokesman Jim Boyle said agents had not found "anything at this time to indicate there was a bullet involved."

He said the car could have been hit by a rock. District of Columbia police spokesman Joseph Gentile said police "still don't know" what hit Bush's car.

Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said the motorcade proceeded to the White House, where Bush went to his office and took part in what an aide called a "routine meeting."

Warner said agents and experts were "going over the car." Speculation is that it was a gunshot, but we have not definitively concluded that.

Action/reaction: Girl is qualified

Q. When I called the city about a sewer back-up at my house, it sent a girl about six hours later who didn't seem to know much about sewer problems? Doesn't the city have trained personnel for sewer calls?

A. Yes, says City Administrative Assistant Bill Hall. The girl — woman — in question is qualified and has handled numerous calls on her own, Hall said. Since the city has no formal training for utility personnel, employees learn skills with on-the-job training under competent supervision, Hall said. "No one is dispatched on their own until they are qualified to do the job," Hall said. Hall notes the city can only handle sewer main problems, and many back-up problems are the responsibility of the property owners.

Employment picture is bright locally

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Despite Big Spring's enviable unemployment rate of 2.9 percent, job seekers migrating here might be destined for disillusionment unless they come experienced, well-trained and armed with skills in demand.

According to Gerald Damm of the Texas Employment Commission Agency the demand seems to be loudest for welders, mechanics, machinists, secretaries, experienced sales clerks, bookkeepers, oil field related jobs, dispatchers and clerical jobs.

"Skilled people are much easier to place. If they have a particular skill in demand then there are quite a few jobs available," Damm said.

"We have positions open for skilled and unskilled workers and have not had much trouble placing people. Of course, it is easier to find a job if you are skilled. People might get the wrong idea from our low unemployment that there are many jobs here and flood the market. Right now though, there are positions open," Mrs. Taroni said.

According to TEC figures Big Spring's unemployment rate was down to 2.9 percent in December — a 1.3 percent drop from November figures.

Damm said the percentage might be a bit misleading because many people drop out from actively seeking a job in December because of the holiday season. Damm said a popular misconception by people is that they haven't found a job by Dec. 1 there is no use looking for work until the first of the year.

"People think a lot of other people are looking for work during Christmas so they think the competition is too rough," Damm said.

He said the civilian work force is made up of people actually working and those actively seeking employment. If people seeking jobs drop out of the work force then it makes the unemployment rate fall which misleads people into thinking there are a wealth of jobs.

Damm said Big Spring's low unemployment has attracted people from the economically declining northern United States.

"We get about 250 to 300 new applications a month and approximately one-third of those are from out-of-state. See Employment, page 2A

Local furniture dealers rap door-to-door peddlers

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Expressing concern over a group of peddlers who appear to be doing business illegally, about a dozen Big Spring furniture dealers met with police and chamber of commerce officials late this morning.

For the past year, and particularly in the past month, the peddlers have been selling furniture out of the back of trucks without obtaining the necessary city and state permits, the merchants complained.

The Permian Basin Better Business Bureau has investigated the complaints and sent its president, Carl Trim, to this morning's meeting. Also attending was Alan Cotton from the Midland office of the Texas Comptroller's Department.

Trim said the BBB investigation had learned the peddlers — apparently working out of four or five trucks — had neither obtained state sales tax permits nor permits from the city to do business both as itinerant merchants and door-to-door peddlers.

In some instances, the peddlers are reported to have passed off low-quality furniture as brand-name furniture, though chamber Executive Vice President LeRoy Tillery said "we can't substantiate that."

"It's cost the city and state maybe $10,000 in the last year," said one dealer. "Plus it's hurting the merchants."

It costs $100 per day to use an itinerant merchant permit. Trim said.

Trim closed the meeting, held in the chamber's West Third office, by sounding a warning to Big Spring furniture customers.

"Our recommendation is that you don't purchase anything off a truck unless you determine the dealer has a license," he said. "And then I would do some comparative shopping with merchants."

One of the peddlers was working out of a white van, according to a description supplied to a dealer.

4 seeking commissioner's post

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Four political offices in Howard County are being sought by candidates with a commissioner's race containing the most persons. Monday was the deadline for candidates to file for county offices.

The County commissioner for precinct two position is wanted by four persons including Democratic incumbent Paul Allen. Challengers for the office include Robert Cowley, Shannon Boyles Jr. and Debbie Calley. Mrs. Calley said her decision to run for commissioner was prompted by slow action on road repair.

"As a general rule, it is a hassle to get roads fixed and I decided to do something about it. Also, commissioners have had full-time jobs as a general rule, but I can spend more time on the job," Calley said.

Another important county race will be for county judge. Democratic incumbent Bill Tune has opponents in John Stanley and Milton Kirby. Stanley, a former city councilman for six years, says his experience in business and government has brought him in contact with many Howard County residents.

Kirby has been in law enforcement for over 30 years and says this experience will aid him in carrying out the duties of judge. Kirby has singled out the rural fire departments as an area needing upgrading.

Two other races in which an incumbent will not have a free political ride are in the justice of the peace positions. Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin (precinct one, place two) will face two opponents: Linda Arsiaga and Bob Smith. Smith is currently constable and feels he is qualified for the position due to his experience in law enforcement.

Smith spent four and a half years on the local police force and two years as chief of police in Stanton.

Arsiaga says her seven years of working in a justice of the peace's office would allow her to do a good job for the county. "My years of working in the JP office will help me carry out the duties of the office," she said.

Peace Justice Peflin is asking for a second term based on his experience and capabilities for the JP position. Heflin has been in office since 1979.

The other justice of the peace race is for the position in precinct two (Coahoma). With the decision of incumbent Lulu Adams not to seek re-election, the office is open for two candidates: Willie Grant and Jane Gilmore. The two women are seeking their first political offices.

Mrs. Grant has been employed for the last seven years in Peace Justice Adams' office and says her experience there will help her discharge the duties of the office. Mrs. Gilmore, presently a visiting nurse, says her knowledge of the community along with her nursing background will allow her to successfully handle her duties as justice of the peace.

All candidates seeking county offices have filed with the county Democratic chairman, M.H. "Slick" Boatler. No Republican candidates have filed for county offices, according to the office of Bill Sheppard, county Republican chairman.

Three incumbent councilmen file for race

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

The official filing period for the April municipal elections opened yesterday and all three incumbent city councilmen facing re-election filled out ballot applications, according to City Secretary Tom Ferguson.

Asking voters to return them to the council for two more years are Mayor Clyde Angel and councilmen Larry Miller and Robert Fuller.

All had indicated some time ago that they intended to be in the April 3 elections.

The filing period will close March 3, Ferguson said.

To enter the race, a person must have lived in Big Spring for at least one year prior to the election. Two forms need to be filled out: a designation of campaign treasurer and an application to be placed on the ballot.

There is no fee for filing, Ferguson said.

So far, no one challenger to the incumbents has publicly emerged: Jerry Higgins, who indicated last fall he intends to battle Angel at the polls for the mayoral post.

As of this morning, Higgins had not filed with Ferguson's office.

Employment

We've had applicants from Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and New Hampshire. For some reason the people in the north think the streets here are paved with gold."

"Most of the time we can find them jobs, but people get awfully frustrated when they can't find work," Damm said.

"They have painted a rosy picture of West Texas up north it seems and people are trying to take advantage of the situation. We have jobs open, but we don't need a lot of people flocking in here thinking there is an endless supply of jobs," Mrs. Taroni said.

Damm said he wouldn't discourage people coming to Big Spring, but he said he would inform them of the present shortage of housing in Big Spring and that the pay scales of West Texas might not be quite as high as people were used to.

However, Damm said the cost of living in Big Spring makes up for lower wages which helps people to ease into the economy.

"I wouldn't come to Big Spring with less money than it would take to live for a month or until I could find a job. We have a lot of people coming in with no money and expecting instant results, which means they are going to be disappointed."

"If they have an applicable skill they probably won't have much of a problem finding work, but they could be just as discouraged here as back home if they are unskilled," Damm said.

The TEC itself has experienced its own sort of unemployment as four of the 10 employees at the TEC have been laid off due to the Reagan Administration cutbacks.

Also feeling the cuts were the TEC offices in Lamesa and Sweetwater which were forced to close their doors.

Damm said the Big Spring TEC has had a few people from those two towns in to look for work and he expects more people to make the trip to Big Spring as time goes on.

Stanton audit discussion set

STANTON — Terry McWhorter of Bolinger, Segars, Gilbert and Moss will address the Stanton City Council during a 7:30 p.m. meeting today.

McWhorter will discuss a city audit.

Pat Perez will request an option on 13,200 square feet for a two year period at the Stanton Municipal Airport.

In other business, the group will discuss trash at the Stanton Grocery, will listen to Ed Lawson, and will discuss dumpster charges.

Adam Saenz will address the city council about the truck route.

The council will open bids on an old police car and on sanitation trucks, and will interview police chief applicants.

Davis seeking re-election to board at Howard College

Harold Davis, Chairman of the Board of Gamco Industries, Inc., has filed for re-election to the Board of Trustees of the Howard County Junior College District.

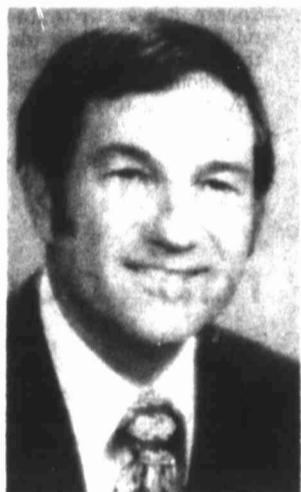

A graduate of Louisiana Tech, Davis also has a Masters Degree in Business Administration from North Texas State University and additional graduate work at the University of Texas.

Davis has been associated with the college off and on for 34 years. He joined the faculty at HC in 1947, the second year of the school, as HC's first basketball coach. Besides serving as the head basketball coach at Howard College for 12 years, Davis was also Athletic Director, Dean of Students and Business Instructor at HC.

During his coaching tenure at Howard College, Davis' basketball team won the state championship once and lost by only one point in another. The Hawks were conference champs four times and were regional champs twice, and lost to the eventual national champions by only one point on a third occasion.

Under his direction, the Hawks advanced to the national tournament twice and as far as the semi-finals on one occasion, playing the final night for third place.

His baseball teams were state finalists twice and were in the national playoffs once. His golf teams were conference champions on several occasions and won the state championship twice.

HAROLD DAVIS asks re-election

In 1959, Davis moved to El Paso where he served as head basketball coach and associate professor at the University of Texas at El Paso. After two years in El Paso, Davis was persuaded by George McAlister to return to Big Spring to help in the development stages of Gamco Industries, Inc.

He immediately started working to fulfill his long time dream of building a college on the campus of Howard College. He was first appointed as the chairman of a committee in 1963, and again in 1968, to work on the feasibility of this project.

After becoming a member of the HCJC District Trustees in 1971, he continued his work on this project and finally, on a Sunday afternoon, October 15, 1978, his dream was fulfilled as the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum was dedicated and officially opened.

Davis served as President of Gamco for 12 years and was recently elevated to the position of chairman. He also serves as Vice President and Director of Gamco's parent company, Siboney Corporation, New York. In addition to these duties, he is a Director of Siboney Communications, Inc., Dallas, Vice President and Director of Deep Flex Plastic Molds, Inc., Ft. Worth, and Director of Siboney Resources, Inc., Dallas. He is also a Director of the Security State Bank.

Davis has been highly active in civic endeavors. In addition to serving as a Trustee of the Howard County Junior College District for the past 12 years, he was past president and campaign chairman of the United Way and a past director of the following organizations: Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Medical Center Memorial Hospital, Boy Scouts, YM-CA, American Business Club, and Big Spring Country Club. He also served several years as Chairman of the City Parks and Recreation Board and was a charter member of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District Board.

Davis is a veteran of World War II and Korea, having recently retired as a Colonel in the United States Marine Corps Reserve. He served in the Pacific with the 4th

Marine Division as an Infantry Commander and was awarded the Silver Star and Purple Heart for action and wounds received on Iwo Jima. He is also a graduate of the National Security Management Course, Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

He and Mrs. Davis, the former Janell Wood, reside at 701 Capri and have two children, Alan, a CPA and Vice-President of Dixon Exploration Company in Abilene, and Mrs. Chris Manis, an elementary teacher in the Arlington Public Schools. Janell is co-owner of Sun Country Realtors, Inc. They are members of the First Baptist Church.

Stating his reason for re-election, Davis said, "I have been associated with the college in some manner most of my adult life and it has been a great source of pride, over the years, to watch the college grow from the old hospital section at the former Webb Air Force Base to the outstanding facilities we now have. I love Howard College and would be proud to serve the community as their representative for another term if re-elected. I feel that my 14 years experience as an educator, 20 years experience in management at Gamco Industries, Inc., and 11 years experience as a trustee of College District (the last four as Vice-Chairman of the Board) qualifies me to represent the community in this very important position."

Gross sales in county exceed $432 million in third quarter

State Comptroller Bob Bullock reported recently that gross sales in Howard County for the third quarter of 1981 — July, August and September — totaled $432,792,890.

Bullock's report details gross sales — all sales made by Texas businesses — as well as those subject to sales and use tax.

The Comptroller said that gross sales for the entire state totaled more than $80 billion and first, second and third quarter sales in Texas for 1981 now total $228.1 billion.

Surrounding counties and gross sales follow: Borden, $82,432; Dawson, $38,851,799; Glasscock, $372,856; Martin, $12,905,299; Midland, $963,909,735; Mitchell, $19,837,045 and Sterling, $2,574,685.

Police Beat

Big Spring man found dead

An 83-year-old Big Spring man was found dead in the Howard House at about 2:45 p.m. yesterday, police said.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin ruled that Nathaniel Decker of 1513 Main died of natural causes, according to police reports.

Police investigators say they are unsure why Decker was at the hotel, located at 118 E. Third, at the time of his death.

Mrs. L.B. Edwards of 2703 Crestline told police a .45-caliber pistol worth $600 was stolen from her home between 3 and 10 a.m. yesterday.

A woman stole a purse worth $10 from Montgomery Ward in Highland South Shopping Center at about 4:35 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

A 19-year-old Big Spring man was admitted to Malone-Hogan Hospital around 9:50 p.m. yesterday with a gunshot wound, police said. According to reports, the youth shot himself after an argument. He was listed in "stable" condition in the hospital's intensive care unit this morning and is expected to be taken out of intensive care today, said a hospital spokesman.

L.G. Roberts of 812 Creighton told police he loaned a blue 1968 Rambler to a person he knows at about 3:25 p.m. yesterday and the car was not returned.

Dennis Hunt of 1022 Main told police yesterday someone broke a door at that address on Friday.

E.M. Olivas of 603 N. Douglas told police some mail had been stolen from that address recently.

Kathy Matthews of 1305 Mobile told police she lost her purse yesterday afternoon somewhere between Furr's Cafeteria in the Highland South Shopping Center and her home.

Police said a motor home driven by Bert Lante of Minnesota struck a gas pump at 1610 E. Fourth yesterday. There were no injuries reported.

Camille Keith, public relations director for Southwest, said Monday's accident occurred at 2:24 p.m. on Runway 13-Right as the pilot started his takeoff.

Bruce said that as the pilot applied full power, the right engine broke up internally and spewed parts back through a rear portion of the right jet engine, scattering pieces along 1,000 feet of the runway.

The pilot then reduced power in the remaining engine and taxied back to the gate.

Jack Vidal, vice president of maintenance for Southwest, said the airline won't know exactly what happened until the engine is taken apart and examined.

Prince to take witness stand in murder trial

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The jury sitting in judgment on Claus von Bulow is beginning his trial fresh from a tour of the seaside mansion where the wife he is accused of trying to kill was found in a deep coma, lying on a marble bathroom floor.

The newly sworn-in jurors walked past sparkling snow into the house Monday, more solemn than tourists, and were shown the rooms where the state alleges von Bulow tried to inject Martha "Sunny" von Bulow with a fatal dose of insulin and barbiturates.

The prosecution and the defense were to present their opening arguments today, and then the state planned to call as its first witness Prince Alexander G. von Auersperg, von Bulow's stepson.

Von Bulow, a Danish-born financial consultant, is accused of twice trying to kill his wife out of love for another woman and greed for his wife's $35 million fortune. The alleged attempts on his wife's life came during Christmas visits to Newport in 1979 and 1980, prosecutors say.

Von Auersperg has said that during a night search of his stepfather's locked closet, he and a private investigator found a black bag containing an insulin-tainted hypodermic needle.

The state claims an insulin injection caused Mrs. von Bulow's blood sugar to fall to a dangerous level, leaving her in a coma from which she is not expected to recover.

The defense claims she brought on the coma herself by ignoring medical advice to abstain from sweets and alcohol.

The gates of the von Bulow mansion, Clarendon Court, were battened down for the winter with green-painted plywood when the seven men and five women of the jury arrived for their tour of the mansion, which was built at the turn of the century and stands beside other luxurious homes in Millionaires' Row. Jurors used a side entrance in the vine-covered, 8-foot wall to get inside for the 25-minute tour.

Prosecutor Stephen Famiglietti said he couldn't say how the jurors, mostly middle-class working people, responded to the mansion.

After the jury was sworn in, Judge Thomas Needham cautioned the panel the house was not evidence in the trial and was being shown to them so they would be familiar with places mentioned in testimony.

Famiglietti said the jurors were shown Mrs. von Bulow's bathroom, where her husband said he found her lying unconscious in her nightdress Dec. 21, 1980. Three non-jurors on the tour who asked not to be identified said the walls are covered on four sides with mirrors and the light switch has a marble plate.

Texas estimates cost of 40 federal programs

By BILL GARLAND States News Service WASHINGTON — If Texas had operated under President Reagan's "New Federalism" in 1982, the state would have spent $1.9 billion to keep alive the 40 federal programs Reagan wants to transfer to the states in 1984, according to estimates released Monday by the Texas State Office in Washington.

The figure was calculated by Texas officials Monday for the first time, almost a week after Reagan proposed the program in his State of the Union address.

Under the Reagan plan, a significant portion of that cost would be offset by expenditures from a $28-billion federal trust fund, until it expires in 1991. After that, the states would be responsible for keeping the programs going with their revenues.

Although the $1.9-billion figure represents a large chunk of the $28 billion that would be shared by all 50 states in 1984, the Reagan administration has emphasized the federal programs would be switched to the states only after further federal budget reductions. "It sort of indicates that they're talking about some fairly massive budget cuts for 1983," said Lynn Leverty, human resources co-ordinator with the Texas office.

If approved, Reagan's program would not go into effect until the 1984 fiscal year. The administration has released figures for 1984 in regard to the programs turned back to the state, but the administration has said the figures are only for "illustrative" purposes and not meant to be accurate portrayals of how the program would work.

In that Reagan model, partly as a result of the budget cuts, the 40 programs in 1984 would cost $2.458 billion, significantly lower than the current $1.9-billion figure estimated by the Texas office.

Weather

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service predicts for Wednesday rain along the East Coast except for the southeast. Snow is forecast for the Great Lakes region, the southern Rockies states and the upper Midwest.

Storm dumps snow in Texas Panhandle

A winter storm dumped up to three inches of snow on the Texas Panhandle this morning, reducing visibility to near zero, slicking highways with a dangerous layer of ice and stalling cars.

The National Weather Service said additional snowfall up to two inches was possible in the Panhandle today. The storm was expected to march into North Texas later this afternoon, with two to four inches of snow possible.

Blowing snow hampered visibility from Amarillo northward to the Oklahoma border and westward stretching into New Mexico.

"We've got a lot of accidents and stranded cars," said Mabel Abernathy, a deputy in the Potter County Sheriff's Department in Amarillo. "The roads are very slick and dangerous, and with the blowing snow the visibility is very poor."

Thundershowers clustered along the Texas coast, and fog clouded parts of South Central Texas. Skies were clear only in West Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 20s in the Panhandle and West Texas, reaching the 50s and 60s in South Texas. The morning extremes ranged from 21 degrees at Amarillo to 68 degrees at Brownsville.

Forecasters predicted the snow in the Panhandle would spread to North and South Texas this afternoon in the form of snowfall and showers. Temperatures were expected to get even colder statewide tonight.

WEST TEXAS Travelers advisory north today. Chance of snow north. Partly cloudy south, with a slight chance of rain southeast today. Additional snow accumulation of 1 to 2 inches north today causing hazardous driving conditions. Cloudy north, partly cloudy south tonight becoming cloudy most sections Wednesday. A slight chance of snow north and ... in mixed with snow south central and southeast Wednesday. Colder most sections through Wednesday. Highs today mid 20s Panhandle to mid 50s extreme south. Lows tonight mid teens Panhandle to upper 20s extreme south. Highs Wednesday upper teens Panhandle to mid 50s extreme south.

EXTENDED FORECAST WEST TEXAS Partly cloudy to cloudy and continued cold Thursday with a few snow flurries Panhandle. Partly cloudy and not so cold Friday and Saturday. Highs in the 30s north to 40s extreme south Thursday warming into the 40s north to 50s south by Saturday. Lows zero to 10 degrees above zero north to the 20s south Thursday moderating into the teens north to near 30 south Friday and Saturday.

Dozier 'embarrassed' by his kidnapping

VICENZA, Italy (AP) — Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier today said he ignored warnings by Italian authorities and failed to take adequate precautions to prevent his kidnapping by the terrorists of the Red Brigades.

"You are looking at an embarrassed guy... I take full responsibility," the 50-year-old American general told his first question-and-answer news conference since his rescue last Thursday from an apartment in Padua where he was held captive for 42 days.

"I was warned, but the warnings said the terrorists did not have U.S. personnel in mind... and I was so busy."

Dozier said he spent most of his time in captivity playing cards, reading, dozing and doing exercises.

"My problem was to fight excruciating boredom... My life changed abruptly from super-sensory existence to subsonic existence," he said.

An Army spokesman, Lt. Col. Jack Barham, told reporters after the news conference that Dozier's left foot and right hand were chained to a steel cot throughout his captivity and he was confined to a two-square-yard tent in which he could barely sit upright in one corner. A 40-watt bulb illuminated the tent by day and was changed to a blue bulb at night.

Barham said Dozier had to use a chemical toilet in the tent and his captors would bring him some water and a towel about once a week to wash himself with.

After the news conference, Dozier was to fly to Rome to lunch with President Sandro Pertini at the Quirinal Palace to "express my gratitude and admiration."

U.S. officials said he would then return to Vicenza and would fly to the United States Wednesday.

Dozier met the press at the chapel of the U.S. military base in this northern Italian city where he has been resting and undergoing questioning by the Italian police since his rescue. He wore a green uniform with the ribbons of his decorations on the left chest, and his wife, Judith, in a floral print blouse and large pearl earrings, sat beside him.

In a brief opening statement, he said he could not discuss certain questions that might impede the investigation into the Red Brigades or help terrorists still at large. Then he answered questions in English, and an Italian official translated them for the Italian reporters.

Asked about the moment Italian police commandos burst into the terrorists' hideout in Padua, Dozier said: "I was dozing, and I had a sense of movement in the apartment. I looked at my guard standing at my side. I looked up and a pistol was pointed at me. Then he was overpowered."

He said the terrorists did not make a "serious effort" to extract military secrets from him.

Italian newspapers reported today that his captors asked the general to write a letter to President Reagan asking him to negotiate his exchange for imprisoned Red Brigades founder Renato Curcio. But Dozier in response to a question said: "I was not asked to write or say anything" about such an exchange.

He said despite his poor Italian, his captors spoke only Italian to him. After a week, they gave him an Italian-English dictionary.

In addition to "personal freedom" and his family, "the prime thing I missed was physical exercise," Dozier said. He added that he was in the habit of jogging two and a half miles a day, but his exercise in captivity was limited to moving his body and his hands to improve his circulation.

Dozier said he after leave in the United States, he would return to Italy and "get back to work." But a U.S. official reported his superiors think it would be too dangerous for him to return to his NATO post in Verona.

"He is almost adamant... He is arguing that his premature transfer would be seen as NATO being dictated to by the Red Brigades," said the official, who asked not to be identified.

"He feels his continued presence would help boost morale and serve as a humiliating blow to the Red Brigades."

The general is the highest ranking American at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization base in Verona. Before Italy's most feared terrorist organization kidnapped him on Dec. 17, he was scheduled to complete a two-year tour of duty in the summer.

Dr. Malone asks re-election to board at Howard College

Dr. P.W. Malone, 78, has announced he will run for re-election to the Board of Trustees of the Howard County Junior College District.

Dr. Malone, the only founding trustee still serving on the Board of Trustees for the HJCDC, has served as a trustee continuously since 1945 when the HJCDC was established. He also holds the record for having served longer as chairman of the board of trustees than any other trustee in the college's history. He was chairman from April 1949 until April 1958.

He has also served in every capacity of leadership with the board of trustees. Dr. Malone's involvement with education is not limited to Howard College. He has also served on the board of trustees of Wayland Baptist College for eighteen years.

Dr. Malone was instrumental in obtaining the approval of the Texas Education Agency for the Licensed Vocational Nursing Program for Howard College in 1958. With his assistance, the college also received approval of an Associate Degree in Nursing Program in 1975, and a Physician's Assistant Program in 1972.

At the state level, Dr. Malone helped establish the Texas Association of College Administrators and Trustees and was a nominee for the prestigious M. Dale Ensign Award of the Association of Community College Trustees.

Dr. Malone was born in 1903 in Wilson County, Tenn. He received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Carson-Newman College in Tennessee and his Medical Degree from the University of Tennessee School of Medicine. He began medical practice in Big Spring in 1930 and still maintains an active practice.

Dr. Malone and a partner established the Malone-Hogan Hospital in 1938. Having outgrown the earlier facilities, in 1975 an ultra-modern, 60,000 square foot clinic facility was completed. This clinic houses over 20 physicians and is considered one of the most outstanding facilities in West Texas.

Dr. Malone was also instrumental in causing the new Malone-Hogan Hospital to become a reality. The hospital is one of the most modern in West Texas. It has 153 beds and was dedicated in March, 1975.

Dr. Malone's professional organizations include memberships in: American Medical Association; Southern Medical Association; Texas Medical Association; Permian Basin Medical Society; American Laryngological, Rhinological and Otolaryngological Society, Inc.; Texas Ophthalmological and Otolaryngological Society; Texas

Ophthalmological Society; American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology; Pan American Association of Ophthalmology; Texas Air Medical Association; Fellow American College of Surgeons; Flying Physician's Association; and Alpha Omega Alpha Med. Fraternity.

Dr. Malone states his reasons for running as: "Being one of the original founders of the institution and having served on the board continuously, I've been able to watch it grow and develop. I would be willing and even enjoy continuing to serve for an additional term, because I feel that the college has done more to improve the education of this community than any other factor," said Malone.

"So many boys and girls have been able to get college training that otherwise would have not, had it not been for Howard College. We have a fine Board of Trustees and administration and I hope to see the wonderful spirit of co-operation continue," concluded Dr. Malone.

'Blood and Money' figure's house is destroyed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A $100,000 house belonging to Ann Kurth has been destroyed by fire, marking the second time a home belonging to the "Blood and Money" figure has burned.

Investigators said the early Monday fire appeared to have started near an electrical heating unit at the Lake Travis residence.

Mrs. Kurth was a prominent figure in the 1976 bestseller about the mysterious death of Houston socialite Joan Robinson Hill, whose physician husband, John Hill, was accused of causing her 1969 death.

Mrs. Kurth married the Houston plastic surgeon after his first wife died of a massive, undiagnosed infection.

Mrs. Kurth lost a libel suit against Thompson in 1981.

Save the land

Intercom, the international population news magazine, has challenged much-publicized reports that America is in danger of running out of food because of disappearing farmland. Some scare stories surfaced last year after a report that the U.S. has been converting agricultural land to non-agricultural uses at the rate of about 3 million acres per year. According to Intercom, most of those 3 million acres consists of land that never could be used for crop production.

EVEN WITH conversion of some prime agricultural land, the magazine states America does not face a near-future shortage of farmland.

The Intercom report is welcome news. It clarifies statistics that have been misinterpreted or exaggerated. But that does not mean there is no problem. Despite excellent conservation programs that began in the 1930s, soil erosion continues to eat away at productive land. By some measurements at least, the problem is growing worse.

Americans used to high crop yields have become complacent. Not enough attention is paid to the need for crop rotation and the dangers of artificial fertilizers. As a result, more and more of America's most valuable resource is being lost each year.

ARTIFICIAL FERTILIZER often causes two problems. It can foster a lack of attention to the long-term nutrient needs of the soil, and excess fertilizer washes into rivers and streams where it creates pollution.

Farmers need to be reminded of the dangers of stripping the topsoil. Quality farm land is one resource we cannot afford to misuse.

Around the Rim

Six-year terms

It happened right on schedule. One year ago, it looked like Ronald Reagan could do no wrong; it now looks like everything he tries turns out wrong or gets fudged up in some way.

At least that is the way it is reported. Last week, both the national news magazines carried bleak stories about the President's problems; they sounded like death notices. Time's story was titled "An Unhappy Anniversary," while Newsweek's carried the headline "The Hard Times of Ronald Reagan."

Of the two, Time was the rudest. It listed Reagan's inaccuracies and misquotes in a box called "There He Goes Again..." — a direct quote from Reagan during a presidential debate with Jimmy Carter.

And then there are the polls. A Newsweek poll said only 52 percent of Americans approved of the way Reagan was handling the job. Fifty-four percent approved of Jimmy Carter at this same time in 1978.

WHO KNOWS WHAT all this means? Who cares? One thing it underlines is the fact that nobody much likes a president after he's been around for a year or so. It also reminds us that, glory-be, there is another presidential campaign within smelling distance. Not a pleasant smell at all.

We already see a developing cast of characters. In one corner we have the Far Right, led by former jock Jack Kemp, whose members are loading their God-given pistols for a shootout with Reagan. They say he has betrayed them and their causes.

On the other hand we have Walter Mondale, roaming around the North Country, shrugging his shoulders and saying, "Jimmy who?" Then there is George Bush, who, "What a good boy am I," as he wanders around supporting the president's programs which he probably still thinks are nothing more than voodoo economics.

There are even scattered rumors that Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter may toss their hats into the ring. Those are only rumors.

I voted for Jimmy Carter in 1980, for a lot of reasons that don't make sense to me today. I thought Reagan was too far removed from most normal people to understand their problems. I thought he had solutions that were too simple-minded to be true. In 1979 I thought he was totally unelectable.

I voted for Gerald Ford in 1976. He seemed to be doing a fair job, and Jimmy Carter looked like someone with a tailor-made image for the post-Watergate era. I figured you could never trust a guy who said, "Trust me," and then smiled.

THE 1976 ELECTION was my first at voting age. I wound up on the losing side, but at least I could look back and say, "Don't blame me, I voted for Ford." As you can tell from this confession, I'm probably one of the things that's wrong with democracy.

Now I suppose I could say, "Don't blame me, I voted for Carter." But I'm not up to that point yet. I don't support Reagan totally, and I don't like a lot of the people he hires, but he is going in the opposite direction of his predecessors. Considering the problems we had when Reagan took office, his actions won't make things that much worse.

If Reagan's economic program (tax cuts, budget cuts, federalism) is bad, then couldn't half of Reagan's program be catastrophic? That is what we have now. It's like giving a heart patient only half a bypass operation — he can only get worse.

More and more I find myself desiring a single six-year term for presidents. Once they are in, we would banish all polls concerning their performance. It would make the president deal with his programs and not worry about getting re-elected, and it would make voters be more careful about whom they put in office. Anything to cut down the number of elections and campaigns.

Reagan himself showed what presidential campaigns amount to these days. Remember his economic definitions that he used against Jimmy Carter in 1980? I'll paraphrase:

A recession is when your friend loses his job. A depression is when you lose yours. And recovery is when whoever's president loses his.

I'm afraid that's the most tested economic theory ever.

Begin under pressure

WASHINGTON — The troubles between Israel and the United States are "behind us," Secretary of State Alexander Haig has declared.

Accordingly, the United States vetoed United Nations sanctions against Israel over the Golan Heights annexation, and Prime Minister Menachem Begin personally assured President Reagan that Israel would not break the truce in Lebanon unless "provoked."

But there is still a residue of hard feelings against Begin inside the White House. The president's advisers blame the acerbic Israeli prime minister for the lack of communication between Washington and Tel Aviv over the annexation.

On the other hand, sources told my associate Ron McRae that Begin has his supporters in some unlikely places within the Reagan administration. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, Assistant Secretary of State Nicholas Velotes and Middle East analysts in the intelligence agencies believe Begin is getting a bum rap on this one.

THEY VIEW BEGIN as — of all things — a moderate in Israeli politics. They're advising the White House that Begin's successor is likely to be even more intransigent and unpredictable.

Personally, Begin is a likeable and congenial man. But he is under continuous pressure from extremist factions in Israel, and must respond with tough talk and hardline policies to keep their support. Here are some examples of the pressures on Begin, as presented by his reluctant but realistic defenders in the administration:

—Though the Camp David accords passed the Israeli parliament, Begin was the only member of his own Cabinet who voted for them.

—One million Israelis — out of 3.2 million — signed petitions last December demanding that Begin stop the return of the Sinai to Egypt.

—One hundred thousand demonstrators called for the expansion of Israeli territory to its onetime Biblical borders — from the Euphrates River on the east to the Nile on the west. This would include nearly half of Egypt, and most of Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Iraq.

—In a poll of secondary-school students last November, 60 percent favored the radical right-wing Tehiya ("revival") party, which calls for the physical expulsion of non-Jews from Israel and the occupied territories.

—Settlers in the Sinai village of Yamit are threatening to secede from Israel, and vow they'll resist any attempt by the Israeli Army to force them out.

—Radical Jewish terrorist groups have attacked government offices with Molotov cocktails to protest the Sinai withdrawal.

With zealots like these snapping at his heels, Begin's annexation move and his interperate scolding of the United States are understandable if not particularly palatable, argue Weinberger and the others. Begin depends on the extremists for his razor-thin parliamentary majority — and if he fails, his successor might be less able to resist their pressure.

What Weinberg, Velotes and the Middle East experts are advising Reagan to do is forget the personalities involved and address himself to the issues that divide Israel and the United States — particularly the Palestinian question. It's the issue that must be answered if close ties are to be restored between the two allies.

Footnote: A spokesman for the Israeli Embassy pointed out that the signatures on the Sinai petition have not been verified and that the secondary-school students who participated in the poll do not vote.

More bad news for GOP

A hardening of opinion against Ronald Reagan marks the political scene as the Congress reconvenes. The recession, as distinct from personal qualities, probably explains the drop in favor.

So an economic bounce-back could restore the administration's political health. But if the economy does not rebound by itself, then the President's personal flaws come seriously into play.

Polls provide unambiguous evidence as to the general drift of opinion. Apart from fluctuations that go with such dramatic events as the assassination attempt, Reagan's support has held relatively constant. The Gallup Poll found that in February of last year his performance was endorsed by 51 percent of the sample. Now he has a 49 percent approval rating.

Disapproval, however, has risen steadily. Only 13 percent of the sample was negative just after Reagan took office. A poll in the middle of last month found that figure at 41 percent — a staggering change. A contraction in the don't-knows accounts for most of the negative bulge. The no-opinion figure, which stood at 36 percent in February, 1981, was down to 10 percent last month. So the President has been losing the soft center which makes up the swing element in the electorate.

TWO PIECES OF evidence identify the recession as the key shaping factor. History, for one. A study by Andrew Kohut, president of the Gallup organization, finds four previous instances of significant rises in unemployment over the past 25 years. In each, there was a dramatic drop in presidential standing — Eisenhower down 12 points in 1958; Nixon down nine in 1970; Ford down nearly 30 points in 1974; and Carter down nearly 25 in 1980.

As to Reagan, secondly, the evidence suggests that the country has been wary all along about his handling of unemployment. In March, when his approval rating ran above 60 percent, only 40 percent approved his handling of the job problem. Now less than a third give him good marks on unemployment. An NBC-Associated Press poll shows that unemployment is now the most salient economic issue.

A rebound from high unemployment has been the historic pattern in the postwar era. And for obvious reasons. Demand for goods, which drops and causes recession and unemployment, eventually builds back. Consumers start buying again, orders multiply and industry begins rehiring. On top of that, every previous administration has moved to offset recession by stimulative measures.

This time, though, it is different. There has been a steady growth of the consumer side of the economy, and a shrinkage in manufacturing. But it is manufacturing, the rehiring of workers by industry, that has always provided the big rebound in the past. Moreover, since interest rates are hanging high, consumers are apt to postpone for an even longer time purchases of such big ticket items as autos and houses.

STIMULUS WILL BE required all the more if there is no automatic rebound. But the Federal Reserve Board under Chairman Paul Volcker is committed to a long-term fight on inflation. The Fed is not about to ease the pressure now, and run the risk of being charged later with responsibility for reigniting inflation. That leaves the initiative up to the administration, and at that point, the President's personal qualities come seriously into the picture.

Washington is agog these days with

Billy Graham

Why does God control?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why does God want to control our lives? Wouldn't he be more loving if he just let us be independent and live as we want to instead of trying to take over our lives? —E.Y.D.

DEAR E.Y.D.: I want you to think about a very young child for a minute. Suppose that child decides that he would like to go outside and play in a busy intersection. Would the parent really be loving that child if he said, "Well, the loving thing to do is let him do whatever he wants, so I'll just let him go on out and play in the traffic?" No! A parent who loved his child would say "no" and keep his child away from something that would harm him.

In the same way, God loves us and wants what is best for us. He knows that if we do certain things that are wrong — things that he has told us not to do — then we will be harmed. His love is demonstrated by the fact that he wants us to do right because that is what is best for us.

It is easy to see this in some situations. For example, God has told us in his Word, "Do not get drunk on wine, which leads to debauchery" (Ephesians 5:18). Yet every year countless thousands are killed on our highways because of drunk drivers. The Bible is clear: if we fail to obey God's way for us, we will harm ourselves.

But it is especially true when seen from God's perspective on eternity. Since man first rebelled against God and decided he wanted to be independent, the human race has been paying the price for its rejection of God. Eventually, if a person continues to turn his back on God and refuses to accept God's offer of forgiveness in Christ, that person has only himself to blame for being eternally separated from God in Hell forever.

God loves you. He loves you so much that he wants you to quit living for yourself and turn to him in faith and obedience. I urge you to give your life to Jesus Christ right now and let him give you joy and peace like you have never known before.

Police Explorers proud of department

Dear Editor, Through the past few weeks, we have read and set back the various letters, good and bad, of our fellow citizens regarding our Police Department.

Now, it is our turn to have a say. We are a part of the Department, but this letter was written on our own, from the bottom of our hearts. This is what we know and believe.

First of all, we would like to say that the so-called "new Chief of Police" with

(who has been here a little less than two years) is no longer new. This is a very fine man, doing a great job, and we are personally glad to know him.

Second, you would have to be with the Department to realize all of the good that he has done for the Big Spring Police Department, as well as the City of Big Spring and the people who live in it.

Now, we would like to take the opportunity to say a little to Sgt. Jimmie Wallace, one of our many great (and we mean great) Police Officers, who, at the very moment Ms. Gilstrap's letter appeared in the Herald, lay in a local hospital with injuries he received in the line of duty.

This is not an unusual fact, for we know that any Police Officer at the Big Spring Police Department would risk his or her life to save the lives of others. We take our hats off to Sgt. Wallace and we would like to say, others may not appreciate to the full extent what you did, but, the members of the Big Spring Police Explorers do.

In conclusion, we would like to say to the other officers at the Big Spring Police Department, stand in there and keep up the good work. We are going to stand behind you, like each and every one of you has done for us.

As for Ms. Gilstrap, we are proud of the state in which we live, and even prouder of the City of Big Spring and its fine Police Department.

So, you see, it will take a lot more than the likes of you to change any one of them.

Martin, 1910 Nolan; Leigh Ann Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Wallace, 2803 Crestline; Kristine Del Bosque, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Del Bosque, 1909 Utah; and Austin Biel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Biel, 3310 Drexel. Marcia Rogers, standing, is president of Washington PTA. A total of 528 local elementary school students participated in the program.

Dear Abby

Cats' hair covers flair

DEAR ABBY: A charming young married couple we know well are both gourmet cooks, college graduates and from well-to-do families. They enjoy entertaining and do it with great style — setting their table with the finest china, crystal and silver.

The problem? They have two long-haired cats who have the run of the house. I have seen these cats walk all over the countertops in the kitchen, sniffing the food, lying down and shaking themselves while this couple prepares the food. Naturally, an occasional cat hair is found in the food. We find this most unappetizing, and so do others who have eaten there.

Many of their friends are beginning to decline their invitations. It is so sad to see an intelligent couple with so much to offer losing friends by such carelessness. Isn't this unhygienic? Or are we being too finicky?

CARING FRIENDS

DEAR CARING: Although I doubt if a cat hair (or a human hair, for that matter) ever killed anybody, the appearance of same could easily kill one's appetite. As good friends, you should be able to talk candidly to them about their carelessness. Speak up, and don't pussyfoot around.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 39, divorced, have four kids, am on welfare and I think I'm pregnant again. That's bad enough, but what's really bothering me is my hair won't hold a perm.

Can you please advise me?

ELAINE IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR ELAINE: First, see a doctor. It could be due to your physical condition. If it's not that, inquire at a beauty parlor that specializes in hair care.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the letter from "Confused in Indiana": She complained that some people "have so little respect for the dead that they would bury a spouse in the afternoon and dance the same evening."

Abby, there are many reasons why the widowed woman would "celebrate" the death of her husband. One may be that she hated his guts for a long time but couldn't divorce him because of her religion.

Personally, I think the death of a loved one is a time to celebrate, not a time to cry from selfish grief if the person who dies is out of pain and misery at last.

Incidentally, I am 13, and my folks agree with my views. They both want big parties after their funeral services.

KATY

DEAR KATY: Thanks for writing. I wish more young people would express their views.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for sending the booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know." It was the best $2 I ever spent. I have already witnessed a miracle. My 15-year-old son not only read it, but passed it around in a class at school.

Normally he reads only under duress from parents or the night before finals. Now his secret is out. At least one teacher and about 15 kids know he can read.

JEAN T.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

PTA contest winners chosen

Five winners in city level competition of the National PTA's cultural arts Reflections project have been chosen by the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Those chosen are: Jennifer May, Washington second grader and winner in first through third grade art division; Kristine Del Bosque, Marcy fourth grader and winner of fourth and fifth grade art division; Melanie Martin, College Heights third grader and winner in the first through third grade literature division; Leigh Anne Wallace, Marcy fifth grader and literature division winner in fourth and fifth grades; and Austin Biel, Moss fifth grader and winner of fourth and fifth grade music division.

JENNIFER MAY
...arts winner

Theme for the competition was, "What Makes Me Smile." Judges in art and literature competition were Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum co-ordinator; Vicky Stewart, Goliad Middle School art teacher, and Felice Logan, Bauer Elementary first and second grade teacher. Judges in the music division were Joyce Bradley, Marcy music teacher; Laurie Sloan, Goliad Middle School choir director; and Bill Bradley, Runnels and Big Spring High School band director.

The five winning entries have been forwarded to PTA District 17 competition to compete with entries from other West Texas cities. Fifteen Texas winners will compete with other state winners for prizes including medallions, encyclopedias and cash.

In addition to the five city winners, school winners were:

First through third grade art — Robin Cave, Marcy second grader; Caryn Kelly, Kentwood second grader; and Louisa Rodriguez, College Heights third grader.

Fourth and fifth grade art — Dreama Armstrong, College Heights fourth grader; Scott Hardy, Washington fifth grader; Donnie Hill, Kentwood fourth grader; and Vance Christie, Moss fifth grader.

First through third grade literature — Caryn Kelly, Kentwood second grader; Angela Porter, Moss first grader; and Jennifer Blount, Washington second grader.

Fourth and fifth grade literature — Eric Hillyer, Kentwood fourth grader; Greg Jones, Washington fifth grader; Brian Arceneaux, College Heights fourth grader; and Jimmy Miller, Moss fifth grader.

Fourth and fifth grade music — Kathryn Whitaker, Kentwood fourth grader.

Dr. Donohue

Neurofibromas treatment needed?

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please discuss the occurrence and treatment of neurofibromas. Although I am a regular reader, I have not seen anything about these annoying growths. My physician tells me they are not uncommon, and suggested no treatment. I hope I have the name correct. I am referring to small growths on the nerves of my arm in at least two places. When these growths are rubbed, a tingling occurs over the length of the arm. — J.A.B.

I cannot resist once more the much abused comparison of nerves to electrical cables. Nerves are, indeed, much like wire cables, however. They even have outer coverings like the rubber insulation around an electrical cable. Neurofibromas are growths of this nerve "insulation." They are soft, and appear a little like cauliflower sprouting from the skin. If they cause symptoms, they can be removed surgically.

Most neurofibromas cause no problems. However, growth can take place internally and press on the inner body structures, eroding them. Those kinds of growths have to be removed. Another, more serious form of this condition is Von Recklinghausen's disease. In that, the neurofibromas occur in great numbers and can be crippling because of their extensiveness. Von Recklinghausen's disease is a genetic illness, one that is caused by some genetic quirk in individual development.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I've got an ulcer. I read that drinking milk is not good for coating the stomach. I take Mylantin in some milk four or five times a day. Isn't that OK? Please send me material on ulcers. — D.A.

Antacids and milk have been used to "coat" the stomach but to neutralize the acid the stomach makes. But milk, because of its calcium content, actually stimulates acid production, so for that reason it is not recommended so much in ulcer treatment. Antacids of course are.

My recommendation would be that you reduce your milk intake unless you are specially advised otherwise. You will find treatment discussed in the booklet "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." Other readers can order a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had to have an operation to drain a Bartholin cyst. It had been painful. I want to know, since this was the second drainage I have had, if I will always have them? — Mrs. T.V.G.

There are two Bartholin glands, one on either side of the vagina. Like most glands, they have ducts that bring their secretions to the surface. If the duct is plugged, it may enlarge to form a cyst. Infection can plug a duct, and if the infection does not drain on its own, then antibiotics and incision of the cyst may be necessary to allow drainage and halt the infection.

If a duct is damaged during delivery, it may plug. That in turn can lead to infection and enlargement. Yes, these cysts can recur, but two episodes do not augur a lifetime of recurrence. If they continually recur, the entire cyst can be removed.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been trying to get pregnant for two years. I have been under a doctor's care for an overactive thyroid gland. I am not able to get pregnant is because of my thyroid. Is this true? — B.J.

An overactive thyroid gland often causes menstrual irregularities and thereby may affect fertility. That is true. Once the overactivity is controlled there should be no connection between the past thyroid problems and continued inability to become pregnant. An overactive thyroid does not always affect fertility, so other causes of infertility have to be looked for.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

McKnight drops out of governor's race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Peyton McKnight's early-starting campaign fizzled out Monday and Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple barely beat the deadline to get in the Democratic scramble for a gubernatorial nominee.

Oil millionaire McKnight, who announced his campaign back in October, gave up. No money, said the Tyler oil millionaire.

Moments after McKnight withdrew, Temple, a millionaire whose fortune is built on the pineywoods of East Texas, walked into Democratic headquarters and beat the filing deadline by 25 minutes.

Temple said the other major Democratic contenders — Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Attorney General Mark White — have drawn "yawns" around the state with their campaigns. So Temple, a Diboll native and son of timberman Arthur Temple Jr., stepped in and proclaimed himself the man who can oust Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

"I have toyed with the idea for some time. In the last few weeks more and more people told me they didn't see the present Democratic candidates capturing the imagination and support of Democrats around the state," he said.

Skip Holcombe, Armstrong's deputy campaign director, said, "Basically, we replaced one East Texas millionaire with another East Texas millionaire."

Temple, 39, was elected to the Railroad Commission in 1980, ousting incumbent John Poerner in the primary. He said he talked with McKnight earlier Monday, and was told that McKnight was having second thoughts about the race.

Who filed for what?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Here are the statewide candidates filed at the Democratic and Republican headquarters in Austin through Monday afternoon.

U.S. Senator:
 Democratic — Sen. Lloyd Benham, 60, Houston, incumbent.
 Republican — James M. Collins, 45, Dallas, incumbent congressman.
 Donald Luther Richardson, 53, San Antonio businessman; Walter Mengden, 54, Houston, incumbent state senator; Joe Sullivan, 52, San Antonio College professor.

 Democratic — Charles E. Miller Jr., 37, Dallas, county criminal courts judge; Roy Rawl, 49, Austin, executive administrator of Court of Criminal Appeals; Mel Bruder, 40, Dallas attorney; Bill Black, 54, Belton, district judge; Andrew Shoval, 48, Austin, director of the Prosecutor Council.

Republican — Roy Moses, 41, Houston attorney.

RIVERFRONT PARKING — A car parked along the St. Louis riverfront was partially submerged in the river from the rain and snow which caused the river to rise 10 feet. The storm that dumped 20 inches of snow on the St. Louis area made the removal of this and other cars parked along the river levee a real effort.

Coping with your income tax

Fewer tables simplify figuring

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the final article in a series of five articles written to help taxpayers prepare their 1981 income tax returns. This article discusses the revised tax table system.

By JIM LUTHER

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax tables that show how much you owe the federal government have been simplified for this year's returns — condensed from four tables into one.

As it was last year, the zero-bracket amount (formerly the standard deduction) is built into the tax table — $2,300 for a single person, $3,400 for a couple filing a joint return, and $1,700 for a married person filing separately. But now you account for your exemptions before you turn to the easier-to-read table.

Here are the basic steps in filing out a return as a result of the changes:

If you file the short Form 1040A, total your income and subtract $1,000 for each exemption to determine taxable income. Look on pages 17-22 of the instructions for the figure that corresponds with your taxable income, read over to the column that lists your filing status (single, joint etc.) and find your tax.

An example: A couple with two children has wages of $20,000 and $500 interest from a savings account. Since up to $400 of interest is tax-exempt, subtract that from $500, leaving taxable interest of $100 and total income of $20,100. Subtract $4,000

($1,000 for each exemption), leaving taxable income of $16,100.

That fits into a taxable bracket covering income of at least $16,100 but less than $16,150. Reading over to the column headed "married filing jointly" shows a total tax of $2,266.

For most filers of the long Form 1040: Add up your income, subtract any adjustments, subtract any itemized deductions, and subtract $1,000 for each exemption claimed. That leaves taxable income; look on pages 34-39 for that figure, read to the column that lists your filing status and you've found your tax.

An example: A couple with two children and filing a joint return on $30,000 of wages, $600 of interest, and a state incometax refund from last year of $250. Subtracting the interest exemption leaves $30,450. The couple has itemized deductions (detailed on Schedule A) totaling $5,100 from which $3,400 is subtracted to account for the zero-bracket amount already built into the tax table. Subtracting the remaining $1,700 and $4,000 for the four personal exemptions leaves taxable income of $24,750.

Carrying that total to the tax table and the column for "married filing jointly" produces a total tax of $4,504.

If your income after deductions and exemptions is $50,000 or more, you may not use the tax tables. You must use the tax-rate schedules on page 40 of the instructions for Form 1040.

No matter what your income, you may qualify for one or more tax credits, which are dollar-for-dollar offsets for taxes owed. The major credits:

—Whether you file the long or short form, you may subtract half the money given political candidates; the maximum credit is $50 for a single return and $100 for a joint return.

—If you earned less than $10,000 and there is a dependent child at home, you may qualify for the earned-income credit of up to $500. This can be paid even if you have no tax liability. Check the instructions to see if you qualify.

These credits may be taken only if the long Form 1040 is filed.

—A special credit is allowed some elderly people, there is one set of rules for those 65 or over (Schedule R) and another set (Schedule RP) for those under 65 who worked for the government. The calculation can get tricky but the Internal Revenue Service will figure the credit for you if you think you qualify.

—A credit is allowed for 20 percent of certain expenses involved in caring for a child or handicapped dependent. The maximum credit is $400 if one child is involved, $800 if there are two or more. Use Form 2441.

Bob Smith relinquishes auto business to son

Bob Smith, owner of Bob Smith Imports-Foreign Car Service Center, recently announced that after 18 years of servicing and selling cars, he was turning the business over to his son, Chris.

Smith said his son will become manager of the business, while Smith himself, takes on an advisory role in the service center.

"Chris will be an asset to the business. He has worked with me for 12 years and he will maintain the same services and level of service I did," Smith said.

Smith said he was giving up his business so that he could devote more time to his political career.

Smith is a candidate in Big Spring for Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, Place 2.

NTSU names Hurley president

DENTON, Texas (AP) — North Texas State University announced today that Alfred F. Hurley, vice president for administrative affairs, was appointed president and chancellor of the 16,500-student university.

Hurley, 53, succeeds Frank Vandiver, who resigned Aug. 27 to become president of Texas A&M University. Howard W. Smith, NTSU vice president for academic affairs, had been acting president since the departure of Vandiver, who in 1979 succeeded C.C. Nolen as NTSU president.

Hurley was appointed NTSU vice president in June 1980 after 30 years in the Air Force. He held the rank of brigadier general when he retired from the Air Force that year.

When he joined NTSU, he had been chairman of the Air Force Academy's History Department since 1966 and chairman of the academy's Humanities Division for three years.

The Brooklyn native graduated summa cum laude from St. John's University in New York and he received master's and doctoral degrees from Princeton University.

Woman killed by intruder

DALLAS (AP) — A 60-year-old Dallas man has been hospitalized in serious condition after being shot by a robber who killed his wife and escaped with an undetermined amount of money, police said.

Joseph Clements was in serious condition Monday at Parkland Hospital, according to hospital spokeswoman Iris Gibson.

Nancy Clements was dead at the scene Saturday night, said Dallas Police Department spokeswoman Vickie Eiker.

Your electricity will cost more in 1982 mainly because the fuel to make it will cost more.

In 1982, we'll have to pay more for the fuels used to produce your electricity. Partly this is because another contract for low-cost natural gas fuel has expired. But mainly it's because the price of all fuel continues to rise.

We spent about $200 million in 1980 for fuel to make your electricity. In 1981, the fuel bill was about $400 million. And in 1982, we estimate we'll have to spend $640 million for fuel.

Approximate Cost of Fuel

Year	Fuel cost paid by Texas Electric	Your average annual fuel cost per kilowatt hour
1980	$200 million	1 cent
1981	$400 million	2 cents
1982*	$640 million	3 cents

*Estimated

We buy all our fuels at the lowest price available. We charge our customers exactly what we have to pay for fuel. And each month, we show on the bill the "fuel" part of the total cost of electricity.

At Texas Electric, we're trying to hold down fuel costs by making as much electricity as possible in plants built to use lignite coal — a cheaper fuel. And we're building a plant to use uranium, the lowest priced fuel available to us.

You can help hold down your electric bill by conserving at home. To learn how, please call us.

Howard deals Western Texas deuces

Hawks awaken for double OT victory

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Persistence pays off. No one famous may have ever said it quite that way but Howard College coach Harold Wilder would like to submit his entry after Monday night's basketball game with Western Texas.

Down by 11 points with less than six minutes to play and down by three with less than a minute left in the first overtime, Wilder's Hawks overcame a nightmare of cold-shooting and turnovers to whip Western Texas 85-75 in two overtimes in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The win snapped a two-game Western Junior College Athletic Conference slump by the Hawks and marked the fourth overtime loss in 11 league games for the Westerners. Overall, the Hawks are 17-6 for the year while Western Texas drops to 11-3.

After missing two opportunities to win the game at the end of regulation play and the first overtime, Howard College ran away with matters in the second five-minute bonus period.

Jerome Johnson ripped a 20-foot jumper to give the Hawks a 73-71 lead and it was all over for the Westerners.

Nate Givens followed with a 10-footer and scored again from an assist by Johnson to give Howard a six-point cushion. WTC had to resort to the foul to get back into the game and the Hawks responded with points from the foul stripe to insure their comeback victory.

It hadn't always been that easy. In fact, if a coroner had been called into the gym after the first half of play, he would have pronounced the Hawks ready for a casket after checking their vital statistics — 31 percent field goal accuracy and double digit turnovers.

Halftime seemed to pump a little new blood into the Hawks, as Howard closed to within two points, 45-43, on a rebound basket by Givens. From that point, however, the Hawks occupied the offensive end of the court like the living dead and appeared eternally doomed when the Westerners built an 11-point lead with less than six minutes to play.

Clarence Cephas sank two free shots with 5:37 to play to give Western Texas a 62-51 bulge and things looked bleak for the Wilder bunch. But persistence pays off and those patient souls in the bleachers had to figure something would bounce the Hawks way.

Down 62-52 after Leon Issac hit a free throw, Nate Givens came up with a steal and James Barnett hit a couple of free shots after being fouled. A violation gave the ball back to Howard and Jerome Johnson canned a jumper to make it 62-56. Darren Lee countered with a pair of free shots for WTC with 4:47 to play but those would be the last Westerner points in regulation play.

Givens stole the ball and brought the crowd to its feet with a slam to cut it to 64-58. Johnson stole the ball and dropped in a layup and it was 64-60 with 3:39 to go.

Daryl Ward was called for a backcourt violation and the Hawks had the ball again. Barnett, who has had his own share of problems off the court in the past week, nailed a 12-foot jumper to bring Howard within two.

Ward was whistled for traveling giving Howard its chance to tie the knot. Barnett let loose another jumper and it was dead even at 64 with 2:29 to play.

Both teams traded turnovers before Wimberly Hardrick got a steal with 46 seconds left. The Hawks worked for the last shot but Isaac's attempt from the left corner wouldn't go.

Overtime. Issac quickly atoned for his miss with a jumper and the Hawks were briefly out in front. Barnett tied the game at 68 with 2:19 left in the first overtime but Western Texas grabbed a 71-68 advantage on three free throws. Things looked bad in Boston for the Hawks but persistence pays off, they say.

Queens recover in second half

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

When a team has the kind of first half the Howard College Hawk Queens had Monday night, that team usually has dug too deep a hole to crawl out of in the final 20 minutes of play.

Despite some cold shooting from the floor and handling the basketball as if they were wearing catcher's mitts, the Queens stormed back in the second half with a 15-point turnaround to overcome Western Texas College 73-65.

The win was the 12th straight for the front-running Queens of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. Coupled with a 94-89 overtime win by Clarendon over Amarillo, the Hawk Queens moved into a two-game lead in the WJAC with a 7-1 record with four games to play. Overall, Howard is 18-6 while the Dusters dropped to 18-5 with the loss.

Howard managed just 36 percent of its field goals in the first half and trailed the Dusters 39-30 at intermission.

"I told them that if we were just nine down after all that mess, we were all right," coach Don Stevens said later. His team turned out to be in good shape indeed.

Neil Haskins scored eight straight points early in the half to overtake a 45-40 Western Texas lead with 12:53 to play. The Dusters recovered momentarily to regain three-point leads, 53-50 and 55-52, but a steal and layup by Kelli Mull tied the game at 58 and a hoop by Melissa Luna from Susan Cordell gave the Queens the lead for good with 5:34 to play.

Both teams were tight in the early going but Western Texas assumed control upon the entrance of Cindy Goltl into the game. Her bank shot tied the game 8-8 and the Dusters were off on a spurt that took them into a 19-10 lead. In that 13-2 charge, Goltl had eight points and fed Vicki Teal for another score.

Howard College slowly recovered from the streak and began making up points. A rebound bucket by Cordell brought the Queens within four and a jump shot by Carrie Lutrick cut it to two, 23-21, with 6:42 to play.

The Queens kept it within four until the final couple of minutes when Maddox hit another patented shot from outer space, Valerie Wells converted a three-point play and Teal scored to make it 39-28. Pam Robertson scored for the Queens to cut the halftime deficit to nine points.

Robertson had 10 points at the halfway mark while Teal had nine and Goltl eight for the Dusters.

Howard's second half recovery was due in part to the play of Haskins. She finished the game with 25 points with all but seven of those coming in the final half.

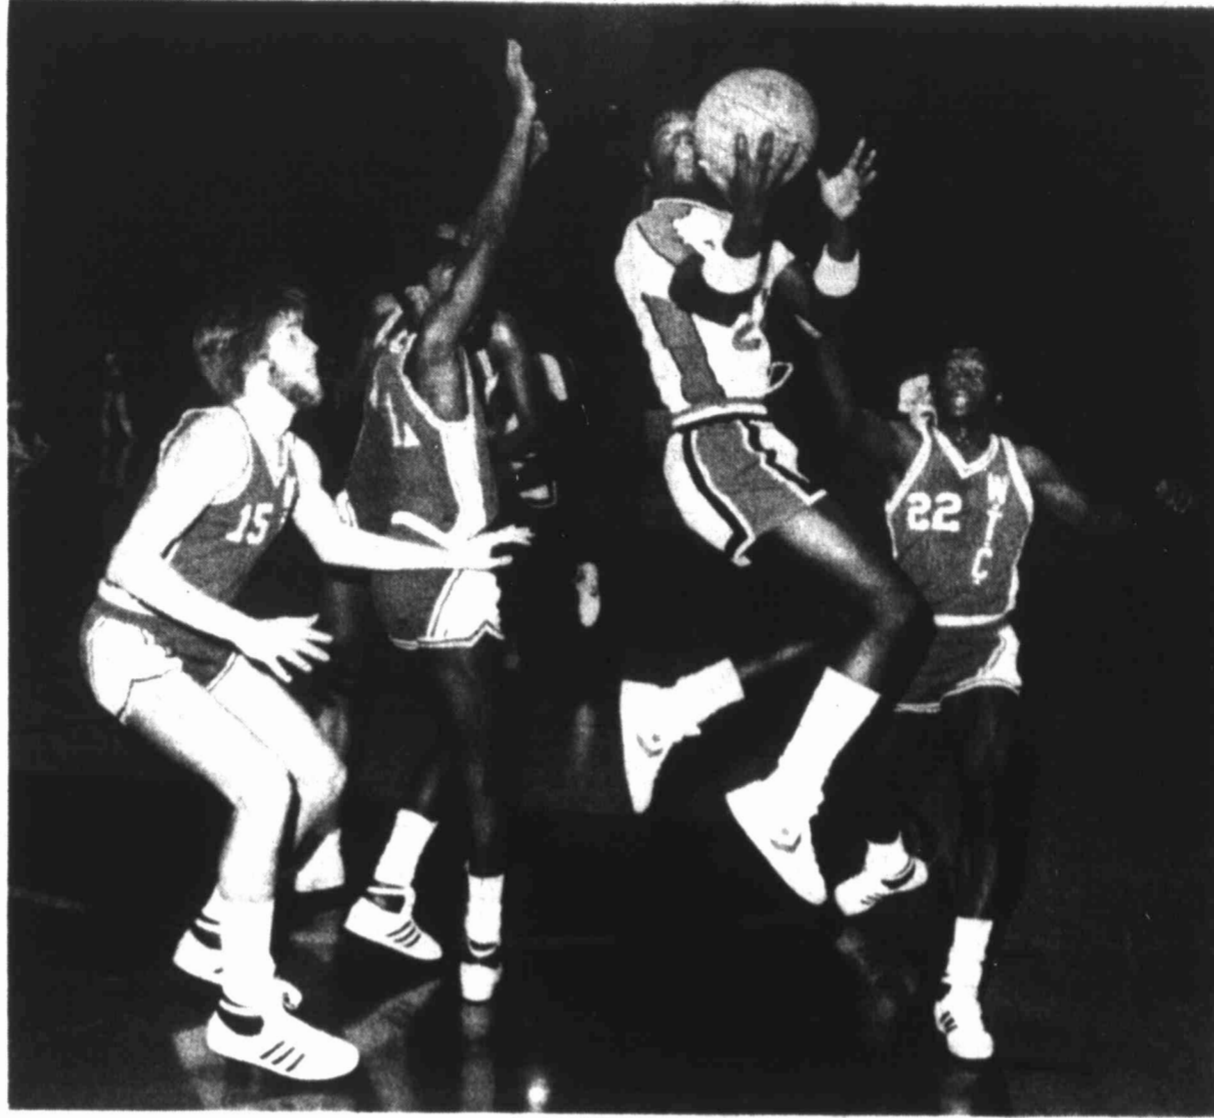

"We played good in the second half," Stevens said. "My front people were getting out of position by sagging too much in the first half."

Stevens made a few adjustments in the locker room and the Hawk Queens looked like a different team in the last half.

"We moved the ball a lot better on offense and our people did better on defense. Western Texas also went cold from the outside."

Following Haskins' 25-point effort was Robertson with 20. Teal topped the Dusters with 16 points while Maddox connected on seven field goals from long distance for 14 points and Goltl cooled off to 10 points.

WESTERN TEXAS (85) — Cindy Goltl 5-0-10; Cindy Maddox 7-0-14; Valerie Wells 3-3-9; Norma Frazier 3-0-3; Vicki Teal 5-4-16; Dorcas Perkins 3-1-3; Fredenburg 1-1-3; Totals 27-11-17-45.
HOWARD COLLEGE (73) — Yencie Toran 1-0-0-3; Carrie Lutrick 2-0-2-4; Kelli Mull 3-1-4-7; Neil Haskins 9-7-23; Pam Robertson 10-0-2-20; Melissa Luna 3-0-1-4; Cindy Robinson 1-0-0-2; Susan Cordell 3-1-7-7; Totals 22-9-20-73.
Halftime Score — Western Texas 39, Howard 30.

TWISTING THE NIGHT AWAY — Hawk Leon Issac (24) spins through three Western Texas defenders for a first half layup. Issac scored 18 points, including the tying free shot in the first overtime, as Howard College tripped the Westerners 85-75 in two overtimes.

Midland rips Big Spring

MIDLAND — Midland High kept pace with Abilene High and San Angelo with a 45-32 victory over Big Spring Monday night.

The win boosted Midland to 3-0 in second half play to remain in a three-way first place tie with Abilene and San Angelo. Abilene won its third straight with a 59-49 victory over Permian in Odessa while San Angelo topped Lee 67-60. In another 5-A AAAA game, Abilene Cooper thrashed Odessa 40-24 in Abilene.

San Angelo and Lee tied for the first half title with 6-1 records.

It was Janice Littlefield in the first half and Sheila Christian in the second half to provide Midland's 1-2 punch. Littlefield scored all of her 12 points in the first half to spark the Bulldogs to a 19-12 lead over the cold-shooting Lady Steers.

Big Spring shut down Miss Littlefield in the final two quarters but Christian tossed in 10 of her dozen points to pick up the slack.

Although they shot miserably from the floor in the first half, the Lady Steers were still in the game at intermission. Midland promptly outscored Big Spring 20-14 in the third quarter and held on for a 49-46 victory.

Paula Spears had 18 points and Teresa Smith 15 for the Lady Steers. Both teams return to BSHS gym Thursday for a doubleheader with Permian. Games are set at 6:15 and 8 p.m.

Rice stuns 'Horns'

By The Associated Press

Humiliated? Shucks, no, said Abe Lemons.

"I've never been humiliated over a basketball game. Turning against your country might be humiliating, but not losing a basketball game," the Texas coach said Monday night after the Longhorns, ranked No. 12 in today's Associated Press college poll, were blown out by unheralded Rice 80-49 in a Southwest Conference game.

Actually, it wasn't much of a game for very long. Ricky Pierce pumped in 14 of his 32 points in the first half as Rice rolled to a 34-17 halftime lead and the Owls went on to post their first home-court victory over Texas since 1970.

"This is not the first time we've played this well," said Tommy Suits, who has rejuvenated Rice's basketball program in his first season as head coach. "We played some other games on the road, but this is just the first time the home crowd has seen it."

Last month, the Owls defeated a pair of nationally ranked teams, San Francisco and North Carolina State, to win the Rainbow Classic. This time, they were off and flying from the start, hitting 13 of their first 16 shots.

"Any time you play Texas you've got to make some outside shots," Suits said.

"Before the game, I was worried about our scoring, but it turned out differently, didn't it? We realized after the first few minutes that we could guard these guys."

But Texas couldn't guard Rice. Bobby Tudor hit five of seven first-half shots and wound up with 18 points as the Owls handed Texas its third consecutive setback, all in SWC games. The Longhorns were led by Denard Holmes with 19 points.

Texas, which hadn't lost until last week, was the only member of The AP Top Twenty in action Monday night.

In another SWC game, Claude Riley, whose shot beat Texas in overtime Saturday, pumped in a career-high 38 points and pulled down 18 rebounds to help Texas A&M pound Houston 95-77. The victory lifted the Aggies into a tie with Arkansas for the league lead. Riley hit on 15 of 25 floor shots and all eight free throws. Rob Williams paced Houston with 25 points.

Still in the SWC, Darrell Browder's 30 points led Texas Christian to an 83-80 victory over Baylor. Terry Teagle of the Bears led all scorers with a career-high 37 points. Doug Arnold added 26 for TCU.

Chicano golf sets meeting

The Chicano Golf Association of Big Spring meets at 7:30 Thursday in the Coors Hospitality Room.

Topping the agenda of business is the election of new officers for 1982. Representative Manuel Ramirez encourages all interested members to attend.

Martin seeks new change of venue

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The lawyer who said Rep. Mike Martin needs to get "as close to Alaska as possible, or maybe Hawaii," has filed for a second change of venue in Martin's trial for aggravated perjury.

At lawyer Frank Maloney's request, the Martin trial was moved from Austin to Fredericksburg, 80 miles away, and now Maloney has asked the court to move the trial again.

"Fredericksburg was not a good choice initially," Maloney said Monday.

He said the Austin media, especially television, "had penetrated" the Fredericksburg area. "They (Fredericksburg residents) are really quite sophisticated," he said.

Maloney's motion for another change of venue is expected to be heard at the pre-trial hearing in Fredericksburg on March 15.

Martin, R-Lonview, faces an aggravated perjury indictment charging he lied to Travis County grand jurors when he denied staging his own shooting.

WIN AWARD — Actress Diane Keaton and Warren Beatty leave the New York Film Critics Awards held at New York's Sardi's restaurant Sunday evening. Beatty's film "Reds," which he directed and stars in with Diane Keaton, was voted best movie of the year by the critics.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS
Maintaining Your Car: Check tire pressure regularly.

Underinflated tires increase gas use. You can lose about 2 percent in fuel economy for every pound of pressure under the recommended pounds-per-square-inch.

This energy-saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

Family confirms contact with missing instructor

DENVER (AP) — The daughter of a Texan who disappeared Dec. 3 while leading a showboating expedition near Buena Vista, Colo., says she has met with her father and that he appears "well and healthy."

In a telephone conversation from her Abilene, Texas, home Sunday night, 18-year-old Denise Wood told the Denver Post she had visited Bobby Lee Wood at an undisclosed location last week.

Wood, 42, was the object of an extensive search almost two months ago when he disappeared from a group of ROTC students from Hardin-Simmons University, while the group was on a snowshoeing trip near the Continental Divide.

Two helicopters and ground teams combed the rugged terrain for nearly a week after Wood's disappearance. Chaffee County authorities, who described Wood as an outdoors expert, had speculated that Wood simply had skied away from the campsite, as tracks from cross-country skis were found leaving the scene.

There was no immediate explanation from Ms. Wood as to why her father had departed suddenly from the group he was leading.

VAMC schedules salute to hospitalized vets

The Big Spring VA Medical Center will carry out its ninth annual National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans on Feb. 12. The nationwide effort, sponsored annually by the Veterans Administration, pays special tribute to the more than a million veterans who enter VA medical facilities for medical attention each year.

Through the Salute program, veteran, civic, religious and youth organizations in the Big Spring and surrounding area are encouraged to organize special activities for the medical center's patients.

Activities planned for this year's event include a display of war mementos during the week of Feb. 8-12. A patients' domino tournament will take place during the same week and the grand finale will take place on Friday, Feb. 12 beginning at 6 p.m. in the main lobby of the medical center. Patients will be entertained by the country-western band of the Big Spring Federal Camp Inmate Band; the Big Spring Squares will do a square dance presentation at 7:30 p.m. and the winners of the domino tournament will be announced.

The public is invited to take part in the activities.

Family confirms contact with missing instructor

DENVER (AP) — The daughter of a Texan who disappeared Dec. 3 while leading a showboating expedition near Buena Vista, Colo., says she has met with her father and that he appears "well and healthy."

In a telephone conversation from her Abilene, Texas, home Sunday night, 18-year-old Denise Wood told the Denver Post she had visited Bobby Lee Wood at an undisclosed location last week.

Wood, 42, was the object of an extensive search almost two months ago when he disappeared from a group of ROTC students from Hardin-Simmons University, while the group was on a snowshoeing trip near the Continental Divide.

Two helicopters and ground teams combed the rugged terrain for nearly a week after Wood's disappearance. Chaffee County authorities, who described Wood as an outdoors expert, had speculated that Wood simply had skied away from the campsite, as tracks from cross-country skis were found leaving the scene.

There was no immediate explanation from Ms. Wood as to why her father had departed suddenly from the group he was leading.

Coahoma student inducted into PTK chapter at WTC

SNYDER — Darla Thomas of Coahoma has been inducted into the Psi Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa at Western Texas College.

Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) is the only nationally recognized honor society for students in junior colleges. To be eligible for membership, candidates must be full-time students with a grade point average of 3.2 or above.

Dr. Mary Hood and Dr. Duane Hood serve as faculty sponsors for the PTK chapter at WTC.

A graduate of Coahoma High School, Miss Thomas is a freshman at WTC and a member of the Duster basketball squad.

Big Spring student named to Emporia State honor roll

EMPORIA, Kan. — Debra K. Thurston from Big Spring, was one of 425 students named to honor rolls at Emporia State University for fall semester 1981, according to John Visser, E-State president.

Thurston, a senior at E-State, was named to the President's Honor Roll.

In all, 149 Emporia State students were named to the President's list and 276 were named to the Dean's list.

Students named to the President's Honor Roll received a perfect 4.0 grade point average for the semester's work of at least 12 graded hours. Grade point average requirements for the Dean's List vary to include 10 per cent of each class for the semester's work of at least 12 graded hours: seniors—3.77-3.99; juniors—3.79-3.99; sophomores—3.69-3.99; and freshmen—3.40-3.99.

In addition to the two honor rolls, the Top 10 in each class were named. The Top 10 is based on cumulative grade point averages, and students must have completed at least seven hours in the semester.

Texas gets new area code

HOUSTON (AP) — Rapid population growth in the Houston area has forced Southwestern Bell to create a new telephone area code in southeastern Texas, officials said.

The change, which will affect only customers now in the 713 area code, will become effective in March 1983, said telephone company spokesman Ken Brasel.

Houston and 29 nearby cities will keep the 713 area code, while the much larger surrounding area will be assigned the new area code 409, Brasel said.

"If we hadn't done this we would have flat run out of numbers," he said.

The new 409 code will be assigned to about 180 cities outside the metropolitan Houston area, leaving a 713 area code "island" with Houston at its center.

The change will leave out of numbers in the 713 area code by early 1984.

Brasel said that for about three months after March of 1983, both systems will work. "It will be a grace period," he said.

After that, for about six months, callers who forget to dial the new area code will reach a recording.

Brasel said no changes in Texas' five other area codes were contemplated.

Want-ad leads to wedding

DALLAS (AP) — She's the modern-age model of a mail-order bride.

Judy Culbertson answered Harold Stern's ad in the classifieds that read, in part, "Wife wanted." She wanted a husband. A few days later, they both got their wish — marriage.

Ms. Culbertson called Stern after reading a Dallas Morning News story about Stern's search for a wife and his ad in the "personals" section of the Dallas Observer, a semi-weekly tabloid. The ad read:

"Wife wanted — that means marriage, that also means immediately. I am a professional person, 43 years of age. I am a dental lab owner. Wife is to be 23-35 years of age. Children okay. I am 5 foot, 10 inches, not good-looking, not ugly, and warm heart. And one more thing, this is no long courtship, 2-3 weeks, then marriage. This ad is for real."

Ms. Culbertson called Stern on Tuesday. They met Wednesday, over lunch. He proposed at dinner that night, and she accepted during dessert. They were married Saturday in Las Vegas.

"It's been a wild week," he said.

Ms. Culbertson, 31 and divorced, explained.

"He offered what I wanted most — marriage," she said.

"There have been men who have offered me things lately, but none of them was marriage. I don't care how quick this has been, I wasn't going to let it slip by."

"He's exaggerated about a few things," she said, "but that's because of his crazy personality. We've been very honest about the important things. I've checked him out. I feel very comfortable about marrying him. I don't think there are going to be any big surprises."

The day after Ms. Culbertson called Stern, his story was picked up by wire services and sent to newspapers across the country. He said he was contacted by more than 600 women. Some sent flowers, some sent telegrams and one sent a message via a stripper, he said.

"I'm just thankful she saw the story early," Stern said of Ms. Culbertson.

"Otherwise, she never would have been able to get through. I kept a notebook by the telephone and rated the women who called. Judy got four stars. That's because she wasn't silly. She didn't play around. She just sounded sweet — and serious."

Stern, whose previous marriage ended in divorce, said he was amazed at the number of women who called.
