Small snowflakes sock Big Spring

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Big Springers were greeted by a bleak, gray world today as they emerged from their warm homes to shiver all the way to work. Most people found the biting arctic-like air disagreeable as fingers went numb and vehicles struggled to start.

At approximately 9 a.m. small snowflakes began to cover windshields and turning streets white. If depression could be a day it quite possibly might resemble today's outside picture.

The National Weather Service predicted today that West Texas could expect light snow along with temperatures that will plunge into the upper teens tonight.

Forecasters said the Big Spring area has a 20 percent chance of light snow today and Friday with winds from the northeast blowing at 15-20 miles per hour.

The NWS said the bitter weather is being caused by a storm system coming in from the New Mexico Rockies. Accumulations of up to two inches of snow are expected in an area stretching from eastern New Mexico to the Panhandle and south to the Permian Basin.

Travel advisories remain in effect today in the Panhandle and Central Plains as temperatures are not expected to get much higher than 12 degrees in Amarillo and 20 degrees in Lubbock.

Big Spring can look forward to at least one more day of considerable cloudiness and cold mixed with occasional light snow. According to the NWS Friday has a 20 percent chance for snow and temperatures will hover near 30.

The NWS predicts a slow warming trend for Saturday through Monday for the state in general. Big Spring's forecast anticipates partly cloudy skies with highs in the 40s and lows in the 20s.

West Texan killed by bubonic plague

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The form of bubonic plague that killed a 23-year-old Ector County man Jan. 10 is not contagious person-to-person, says acting county health director Robert Rowntree.

The man, whose name was not released, is believed to have contracted the disease from a flea bite while rabbit hunting in northern Ector County in December, Dr. Rowntree said.

"This is the first confirmed case in Texas since 1953," Rowntree said.

Dr. Tom Betts of the state health department in Austin said more than a dozen cases of the disease were reported in New Mexico in 1980 but "it's been a considerable amount of time" since a previous bubonic plague case was confirmed as having originated in Texas.

The state health department laboratory in Austin confirmed Tuesday that the Ector County man died of bubonic plague, Rowntree said.

Hypnosis helping amnesia victim

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

John Neill, a traumatic amnesia victim, has spent the last six months at the Salvation Army here in Big Spring trying to remember who he is.

Neill lost his memory on May 18 when he was robbed and almost killed in an accident on Interstate 65 in Indianapolis, Ind. Since that date he has been struggling with the help of the SA to regain some thread of knowledge that will tell him of his past.

Recently, Neill began having flashes of his former life under hypnosis by Dr. John Cohorn, who is helping the SA to "find" Neill's life before May, 18, 1981.

Neill said he remembers living in Creek Road in Richmond, Va., but subsequent checks showed there was no such road around Richmond.

There have been other deadends: Neill said he remembered an Oak Ridge Road and county loop near his home — no such highways; he remembered

IT'S COLD OUT THERE — The temperature sign at First National Bank recorded -4 degrees Celsius at 10:30 a.m. today as easterly winds ripped through Big Spring bringing light snow and the threat of even colder temperatures Friday. A -4 degree Celsius converts to 24 degrees Fahrenheit, but anyway you measure it — it's cold!

Big-hearted Howard County comes through $4,500 given for ill woman

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

What began as just regular bidding on a lamb at the Howard County Junior Livestock Show Auction Saturday night ended with $4,500 being donated to a desperately ill woman. Howard County comes through again.

Thirteen-year-old Michael Crenshaw had taken his lamb into the auction ring hoping to get around $200, like most of the others had been getting. Since he had placed 22nd in the competition, the Goliad student wasn't expecting as much as a champion would bring.

But when the bidding jumped rapidly to $1,200 — much more than the grand champion lamb brought — Michael's shock was mirrored on the faces of most of the 300 at the auction. As his grandmother put it: "You really had to see him — mouth open, a shocked look, really surprised. All the other kids were surprised, too," Michael's grandmother said.

The puzzlement — and some anger — at why an ordinary-looking lamb should rate such big money was quickly erased when Ronnie Wood of Coahoma took over the public address system to explain the circumstances.

He told the crowd that Michael's mother, Pam, had cancer. Wood explained how she had been undergoing expensive treatment in Houston which could no longer help her. Her only hope now lay in a trip to Athens, Greece for special help there, he said, but the family lacked funds for such a trip.

The people gave.

Gail Earls of the county extension agents' office said she had never seen anything like it. "It was a spontaneous reaction even before everyone knew what was happening, but when people saw the need, they reached into their pockets. People from all walks of life — some who had the money to give and some who didn't — gave. There is some good still left in the world," Mrs. Earls said.

Betty Crenshaw, the mother of Pam's husband, Jim, said the generosity at the stock show auction was not expected by the family. "It was a big surprise to us, especially when his (Michael's) lamb went so much more than the other children's. Then Ronnie (Wood) told everybody what was happening — it was wonderful."

She said the Greece trip was "the only ray of hope for Pam now. This money is the only means of going. Without this ... they said they couldn't do anything else for her at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston." The Crenshaws' leave Feb. 10 for Greece, she said.

Mrs. Earls told the Herald a fund has been set up for Pam Crenshaw at the First National bank. She said, "It's for the children, for the family." Shanna, 10, and Michael are the couple's two children.

"They are so thankful to everyone," Mrs. Crenshaw said.

'He's having terrible headaches remembering places ...'

a Dodge pickup with a tag number — Virginia authorities said the state does not record plate numbers as Neill remembers; Neill recalled Creek High School and the school's mascot — the Tigers, but as with the other clues a deadend was reached as no such school exists.

On a positive note; however, Neill has remembered two of his former teachers and the Richmond school authorities have confirmed the teachers were employed at Henrico High School in Henrico County, Va. Lt. Braun said the school officials are now attempting to get in touch with teachers to see they remember Neill.

Lt. Carroll Braun of the SA said, "Dr. Cohorn is just shocked because he knows John is telling the truth, but we just keep hitting a deadend." Dr. Cohorn's fees are being paid by the Emmanuel Baptist Church and the Rev. David Womack helped to secure the funding for Neill's hypnosis.

"John said he remembers working at Dominoe's Pizza and we're checking that out. I've called all the Neills in Richmond and none of them know John. The state of Virginia has no birth record for John. We just don't know what to do, we keep hitting a deadend," Lt. Braun said.

Lt. Braun said he's going to send a picture of Neill to Richmond with information in hopes someone will recognize him and come forward with the vital information Neill is desperately seeking.

Lt. Braun said Neill was meeting with Dr. Cohorn today in another attempt to regain his memory.

"He's having terrible headaches remembering places and things, the drain on him is obvious. Hopefully, something he gives us will turn into the lead that tell him who he is," Lt. Braun said.

Teen back in city jail after mental exam

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

A 16-year-old Big Spring boy is back in police custody after undergoing an examination at Big Spring State Hospital in connection with the Jan. 17 shooting of Gilbert Franco, authorities said.

The youth — whose identity is held confidential according to state law — reportedly was ordered to the hospital for a psychiatric evaluation Jan. 21 by County Judge Bill Tune. The suspect was arrested by police Jan. 18 and confessed to shooting the 42-year-old Franco in the head, said detective Lt. John Wolf.

The youth was returned to police custody Jan. 29 to await a hearing in state court, said Detective Pat Dunham.

Hospital tests determined that the boy "didn't fully realize the extent of what he was doing" when he committed the crime to which he reportedly confessed, Ms. Dunham said.

Although the youth was ordered to the hospital by the county judge, his hearing will be held in state court under 118th District Court Judge Jim Gregg. Texas law permits both county and state courts to handle juvenile cases but Tune, who is serving as acting juvenile probation officer, can't be both judge and probation officer in the same case, he explained.

Tune said this morning he hadn't received a report from the hospital on the boy's condition and hadn't put together any recommendation to be presented at the hearing. A date for the hearing apparently has not been set.

The youth is being held in the police station jail in a separate cell for juveniles, according to Ms. Dunham. A charge of aggravated assault stemming from the wounding of Franco in his 309 N.E. Eighth home is pending, she said.

Three possibilities are open as far as the youth's future is concerned. He could be sentenced to the Texas Youth Council to serve time as a juvenile offender, or he could be certified as an adult and sentenced, as he is in court.

The third possibility is a period of treatment in the hospital, according to Ms. Dunham.

The Texas Family Code permits juveniles over 15 to be certified as an adult when facing criminal trials, she said.

Tune, who seeks re-election to his county judge post, also has submitted an application to the Howard County Juvenile Board to fill the job recently vacated by former Juvenile Probation Officer Ed Cherry.

Retired nurse recalls braceros, refinery blast, hospital event

By EMILY WARD
Special to the Herald

Do you remember Wacker's Variety Store, when it was located downtown next to Fisher's Department Store? The annual arrival of the Mexican braceros in the 1940's at cotton picking time? Do you remember the explosion at Cosden Refinery in 1970, and the dedication of the new Malone-Hogan Hospital in 1975?

If you've been around that long, then you probably know Mauguarette Bryant, who retired Friday, after working for Malone-Hogan Hospital for 31 years.

Mrs. Bryant was the honored guest at a recent reception hosted by the hospital in their private dining room. After presenting her with an engraved plaque recognizing her service to the hospital, Administrator John Bingham said, "It is always the hospital's loss when someone of Mrs. Bryant's calibre leaves our employee ranks."

Mrs. Bryant was also given a gift certificate from the hospital, and her co-workers gave her a plant.

She was working in the office at J.C. Penney's in 1950, when she heard from a friend that there was an opening in the business office at Malone-Hogan Hospital. She was apprehensive at the thought of working in a hospital, at first.

But looking back, she said the best part of working in a hospital is that, regardless of where you work, you feel that you are truly helping people who need you very much.

"This is particularly true when it comes to insurance, which is what I've done during most of my years here. Older people have a particularly hard time filing their insurance claims. I had lots of opportunities to help," said Mrs. Bryant.

She's worked most of her life, working several years at Wacker's

Mubarak wants American dialogue with Palestinians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's forceful support of a "national entity" for Palestinians is dimming U.S. hopes for a significant breakthrough toward a lasting Mideast peace.

Mubarak, on a four-day official visit to Washington, met at the White House today with President Reagan, their second meeting in two days.

The Egyptian president's call Wednesday for establishing a "national entity" for 1.3 million Palestinians living in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Gaza amounted to a harder line than his predecessor, the assassinated Anwar Sadat, had taken.

In a toast at a White House banquet Wednesday night, Mubarak urged President Reagan to open an "American dialogue with the Palestinians."

"No party should be excluded from this process," he said in an apparent reference to the Palestine Liberation Organization, although he didn't specifically mention it. Americans, including Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., have talked recently with moderate non-PLO Palestinian leaders such as Mayor Elias Freij of Bethlehem.

Johnson Flying Service signs airport contract

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Municipal Airport Board met Tuesday and a contract with Johnson Flying Service was signed and agreed upon, Neil O'Brien, board secretary, said.

The Johnson Flying Service had been managing the airport without a contract for more than two years, but the local arbitration board labored many hours to close the gap between the service and the board. The contract calls for a 10-year lease agreement with a 10-year renewal clause.

President Don Lybrand of Johnson Flying Service, along with Secretary Larue Johnson, were present at the session to sign the contract. The duties of the management are now clearly defined in the terms of the management contracts, and the manager has the right to improve the facility with buildings, but approval from the airport will be required.

Lease prices will be reviewed and should be arrived at by the next meeting.

O'Brien said he would like to thank arbitrators Wendell Strahan, Walter Bray and Roy Renner, who worked out the details in the lease agreement and the management contract.

Students in Lamesa ISD face exams Feb. 16-17

LAMESA (SC) — Students in the Lamesa ISD will be given examinations in the areas of written composition, math, and reading Feb. 16-17, according to Lamesa school administrator Charley Keese.

Keese says students in the third, fifth and ninth grades will be tested on the items believed to be essential. Scores will not be used to determine any kind of promotion although they will provide teachers with valuable information needed to develop programs to help students to improve in those basic skills.

Parents are encouraged to see that their students are in school to take the tests and encourage them to do well.

Kennedy reportedly taped White House conversations

BOSTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy secretly recorded conversations and telephone calls with world leaders, congressmen and his aides while he was in the White House, the director of the Kennedy library said today.

"I have no reason to think they knew they were being taped," Dan Fenn Jr., the library director, said of the people recorded in 100 to 140 hours of taped meetings and conversations. The tapes are being examined in Boston at the library in preparation for their release to the public, possibly this summer.

Fenn said 250 telephone conversations and 325 meetings in the Oval Office or Cabinet Room in the White House were recorded from mid-1962 to Nov. 7, 1963, 15 days before Kennedy was assassinated.

Among those recorded in telephone calls were Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, evangelist Billy Graham and Adlai Stevenson, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations under Kennedy. The list also includes members of Congress, according to an index of the tapes that Fenn had.

The Washington Post said today that an index of the recordings it had obtained also shows Kennedy taped conversations with members of his family, including his wife, Jacqueline.

The subjects of the conversations included Vietnam, the Cuban missile crisis, the integration of the University of Mississippi and civil rights in general.

"I haven't the vaguest idea why Kennedy used the tapes or saved them," Fenn said. "I hope we'll be able to open some of them early this summer."

Material from the tapes was not available.

"When they're available, they'll be available to anyone, junior high school students, Arthur Schlesinger or anyone."

Any potentially classified material will be referred to the originating agency, which will decide whether to keep it classified or allow the museum to release it, Fenn said.

"There was no attempt to hide the existence of this material," Fenn said early today in an interview at his Lexington, Mass., home. "We said those tapes did exist."

"I think one reason for all the excitement is that some people expect great big secrets to be exposed. But my experience with the world of research materials is that they're going to give nuances, dimensions and interesting insights into the workings of a political process. But nothing really surprising or revolutionary."

Fenn said the tapes "were not a very high-priority project," in part because of the knowledge that some of the material still would have to be kept secret for national security reasons.

Fenn said he hasn't had time to listen to most of the tapes.

"I have heard bits and drabs but I have other things to do besides this," he said. "Research staff who copied the tapes onto better tapes have also heard them."

Evelyn Lincoln, Kennedy's secretary, was quoted by the Post as saying Kennedy threw a switch to signal her to start taping. She would activate either a recorder attached to his telephone or microphones in the Oval Office or the Cabinet Room if he were in either of those places.

The Post quoted her as saying that Kennedy made the recordings "for history."

"He was very conscious of history," she told the Post. "He was always wanting to get exactly what was said... to pinpoint precisely what was said. These were for history and he wanted to have them for that and never once went back and listened to one."

The Post said the most frequent names listed among participants were Attorney General Robert Kennedy, the president's brother, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara.

Two suits in 118th asking for $325,000

Of the 12 civil suits filed Wednesday in 118th District Court, two are asking for more than $325,000 in total damages resulting from automobile accidents.

The suit further asks for damages "for the mental pain and suffering sustained by plaintiff (Wilson's)" each, in the amount of $45,000. The Wilsons are represented by Wayne Basden.

In the other personal injury-auto case, Edna Creek and R.E. Creek are suing Prime, Inc. and David Lee Conner for $95,000 in damages, plus all costs and losses, in the death of Mrs. Creek's husband, Glen E. Creek.

The suit alleges, on Nov. 13, 1981, that Conner, driving a freight liner truck trailer for Prime, Inc., was negligent in causing the death of the 80-year-old Creek. The suit alleges Conner failed to stop at an intersection while facing a red light, excessive speed and failure to yield the right-of-way and struck Creek's vehicle, Wayne Basden, is representing the Creeks.

The incident, which took place in Fisher County, resulted in injuries to 65-year-old Mrs. Wilson she will suffer from the rest of her life, the suit says. Damages in the amount of $87,000 are sought.

Mr. Wilson, also 65 years old, suffered injuries and heart attacks from the accident, the suit states, and is seeking $98,000 in damages.

Variety Sore when it was located next door to the old Fisher's Department Store downtown. That was in the 1940's, when merchants looked forward to the fall of the year when the Mexican braceros would cross the border of Mexico to work in the cotton harvest in Howard County.

"On Saturdays, they poured into town, and Wacker's was a favorite place, with it's long lunch counter, and the popcorn machine up front. The cosmetic department, which I ran, was also popular with the Mexican nationals, who bought lots of cosmetics to send home to the wives they left at home in Mexico," remembers Mrs. Bryant. "Do you remember Cashmere Bouquet Dusting Powder? That was a favorite."

Two events that happened during her years at Malone-Hogan Hospital stand out in her memories, as she looks toward retiring from her job at the hospital.

She remembers the crowded hospital corridors the day of the big explosion at Cosden Refinery in 1970. One man died, and three or four seriously injured. Many others were brought into the hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

"We finally had to have the police to come out to direct the heavy traffic on Main Street, in front of the hospital. People rushed to the hospital to see if a family member or friend had been injured in the explosion. Telephones lines were jammed, of course. It happened in the morning, as I remember, because the doctors and staff worked all day, and all night, taking care of those who were hurt. I remember how tired they all looked when I came into to work the next morning," she said.

Her fondest memory was the dedication of the new Malone-Hogan Hospital, as it took place on a Sunday afternoon in March, 1975.

"I was filled with something like pride, I guess you'd call it, that we had built this hospital. I didn't expect to feel so strongly that it was a part of me. I looked up at the mountain, and the ramp where Dr. Hogan and Dr. Malone stood with Dr. Marcum and others from the community. And at the thousands of people crowding the huge parking lot. Then suddenly I realized what a significant day it was. For us and the community, I was very touched," Mrs. Bryant remembers.

Her husband, Orville, retired in 1961 from Petco Oil Company. They have one son, Don Edward Bryant, of Lamesa, and three grandchildren.

- Sue Schauf of 2519 Fairchild told police her 13-year-old son was waiting for a school bus on Randolph at 7:45 a.m. yesterday when an unknown older student approached the boy and hit him with his fist.
- Police said they arrested Gary Willingham of Gail Route on a charge of burglary at 5:04 p.m. yesterday after a warrant was issued for his arrest.
- Motor vehicles driven by Kay Wilson of 1204 Johnson and Michael Gold of 1707 Young collided in the 1700 block of Johnson at 3:20 p.m. yesterday, police said. There were no injuries reported.

White House unveils new set...and it's a hit

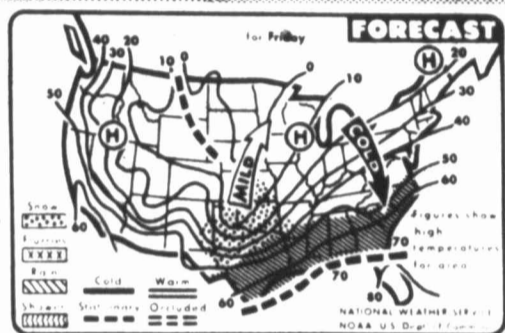

CHINA MEETS THE PRESS — Photographers and reporters gather round a place setting of the new White House china Wednesday at the White House. The ivory china with a red and gold border was introduced to the press before being officially introduced during a State Dinner for Egyptian President Mubarak Wednesday night.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan's new china set survived its White House debut intact. Nary a $48 cup was broken. And despite its $209,000 price tag — paid with a donation from the nonprofit Knapp Foundation — there didn't seem to be a critic in the house. Even the butlers loved it, according to chief usher Rex Scouten. The 4,372-piece set, which the first lady had said was so "badly, badly needed," was unveiled Wednesday night at a state dinner honoring President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt. It was the first thing he mentioned in his after-dinner toast. "Before I start, let me first congratulate Mrs. Reagan for the new china which very elegant," Mubarak said. The 120 dinner guests applauded and the first lady laughed. Mubarak wasn't the only one with compliments. The butlers "are mighty proud of it," Scouten said. "They are thrilled to death. It's beautiful." Vice President George Bush called it fine china and said it was outrageous to criticize the first lady since she acquired it at no cost to the taxpayers. "I think she should get some credit," he said. Lyn Nofziger, who recently quit his White House post of political director, said it was "about time we had some new china here and I don't know what all the fuss is about."

The 220-piece setting service was ordered seven months ago and arrived by truck Tuesday in time to be hand-washed for Wednesday night's dinner. The ivory china with a red and gold border was the showcase for a dinner of filet of mountain trout farcie with fleurons, supreme of chicken with red peppers and white rice, green beans amandine, port sault cheese, watercress and mushroom salad, chocolate mousses and petits fours. Each place setting consists of 19 pieces, but only seven were used Wednesday: service plate, salad plate, dinner plate, fish plate, dessert plate, demitasse cup and saucer. The other pieces are: soup plate, finger bowl plate, butter plate, tea cup and saucer, bouillon cup, cream soup cup and stand, berry bowl, cereal bowl, ramekin, and cocktail cup. In addition, 60 extra demitasse cups and tea cups were ordered, along with 72 large platters. According to Mrs. Tate, the only other White House china that was not paid by taxpayers was the Johnson service, contributed by an anonymous donor. Mrs. Tate made the following cost comparisons with other White House china: FDR — $9,301.20 actual cost; $74,108 in 1981 dollars. Truman — $28,271.40 actual cost; $96,100 in 1981 dollars. Johnson — $80,028.24 actual cost; $195,000 in 1981 dollars. Reagan — $209,508 actual and 1981 cost. "I thought it would be interesting historically," Mrs. Tate said of the comparison.

Atlanta slayings trial

Williams' hatred for race cited as motive

ATLANTA (AP) — After producing witnesses to place Wayne B. Williams with two slain young blacks on the days they disappeared, a prosecutor says he'll show Williams' hatred for "certain elements" of his race was a motive for the slayings. Defense lawyer Alvin Binder objected Wednesday when prosecutors in the murder trial asked witness Denise Marlin if she ever heard Williams make derogatory remarks about blacks. After Judge Clarence Cooper excused the jury, Ms. Marlin testified that Williams used a derogatory term to refer to "his own race." "He used to call his own race niggers," Ms. Marlin testified after the jury left the courtroom. Assistant District Attorney Jack Mallard told Cooper during a hearing out of the jury's presence that the state has several witnesses who will testify about racially derogatory remarks by Williams. "We expect to show by several other witnesses that this was his bent of mind toward his own race, toward certain elements of his own race," Mallard said. "This goes to motive, to his bent of mind." Cooper adjourned the hearing to his chambers without giving Binder a chance to argue in open court against admitting the testimony about motive. The judge later promised he would rule on the issue today. Williams is charged with the murders of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of 28 young blacks whose deaths during a 22-month period have been under investigation by a special police task force. There have been no arrests in the 26 other slayings. Robert I. Henry, a surprise witness discovered by prosecutors Monday, testified Wednesday he saw Williams and Cater holding hands on an Atlanta street the night of May 21. That was just hours before Williams was stopped near a Chattahoochee River bridge where prosecutors contend Cater's body was dumped. The body was pulled from the river May 24. And A. B. Dean, an elderly Douglas County resident, testified Wednesday he saw Williams and Payne standing next to a taxi in west Atlanta on April 22, the day Payne disappeared. Dean was the first witness in the 6-week-old trial to place Williams with Payne, whose body also was found in the Chattahoochee River. Earlier, Margaret Carter testified she saw Williams and Cater together in a park a week before he disappeared. The testimony by Henry and Dean came as prosecutors began wrapping up their case of circumstantial evidence against the 23-year-old black free-lance photographer and aspiring talent scout.

Prior to Ms. Marlin's testimony, the only hint of motive provided by the state has been the testimony of two black teen-agers who claimed Williams offered them money to perform homosexual acts. Williams has denied he is a homosexual, and also says he did not know any of the 28 victims. The testimony from Toland came after Judge Clarence Cooper barred the prosecution from introducing evidence of racial slurs Williams may have used in referring to his own race. Williams, a 23-year-old black free-lance photographer and self-styled music promoter, is charged with the murders of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of 28 young blacks whose deaths over a 22-month period have been investigated by a special police task force. There have been no arrests in the 26 other cases.

Soviets break out in hives over 'super mosquitoes'

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet literary newspaper claimed Wednesday the CIA is using radiation and genetic science to breed "super mosquitoes" in a laboratory in Pakistan for spreading disease in neighboring Afghanistan. The Literary Gazette, published weekly by the Soviet writers' union, identified the laboratory as the Pakistani Medical Studies Center in Lahore, which it said is affiliated with the University of Maryland and funded and directed by the Central Intelligence Agency. In Washington, CIA spokeswoman Kathy Pherson denounced the report as "ridiculous Soviet propaganda."

Roz Hiebert, a spokeswoman for the University of Maryland, said, "I've never heard of such a thing in all the research at the University of Maryland. Absolutely not, and I know a good deal about the research that's going on." A spokesman for the Pakistani Embassy in London, Minister Qutubuddin Aziz, told The Associated Press the story was "a complete fabrication" and "utterly untrue." He said, "There are no such laboratories in Pakistan." Soviet forces intervened in Afghanistan in December 1979 and an estimated 85,000 Soviets have remained to help fight Moslem insurgents trying to overthrow the Kremlin-backed government of President Babrak Karmal. Western military analysts say the number of Soviet troops in Afghanistan is expected to double by spring. Existence of the mosquitoes came to light, the Literary Gazette said, when 30 people near the laboratory were stricken by yellow fever carried by a breed of mosquito not usually found in the area. The Literary Gazette also quoted a representative of the Afghan regime saying his government had discovered the mosquitoes were bred under CIA auspices "to start a catastrophic epidemic of infectious diseases in Afghanistan." The Literary Gazette said it sent a correspondent to interview the director of the alleged laboratory and identified him as David Nellin. It quoted him as saying, "Our task is breeding new super mosquitoes. For this reason, we are crossing different kinds of mosquitoes, subjecting them to radiation, using chemicals and applying the techniques of genetic engineers." The paper said the story was first reported in the U.S. Communist newspaper Daily World, quoting it as saying the laboratory was designed "to develop the most effective methods of poisoning the maximum number of people in the course of bacteriological war."

Tape: Pilots knew ice was on wing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tape recordings from the Air Florida jet that crashed into the Potomac River last month support theories that ice or snow on the wings made it stall — and strongly suggest the pilots knew of the problem before taking off, according to a report in today's Washington Post. The cockpit voice tape suggests the pilot and copilot had seen a buildup of ice or snow on the Boeing 737's wings but went ahead with the ill-fated flight anyway, an unidentified source close to the National Transportation Safety Board investigation told the newspaper. Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Ira Furman and Francis McAdams, head of the NTSB investigation, could not be reached for comment on the report Wednesday night. According to a preliminary transcript of the tape, pilot Larry Wheaton and copilot Alan Petit spoke to each other repeatedly about the heavy snow falling on Jan. 13 as they prepared to take off, the Post said. One source told the newspaper that their words suggest they at one point looked out their windows specifically to check for snow or ice on the wings, noted there was some, but took off anyway. About 30 seconds later, Petit's final words to Wheaton reportedly were, "We're going down, Larry," and Wheaton responded, "I know it." Seventy-four of the 79 people on the jetliner, including Wheaton and Petit, were killed when the plane hit a busy commuter bridge and smashed into the icy Potomac.

Litigation glut

U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger has suggested that a greater number of civil lawsuits be handled through negotiation and arbitration rather than trial.

Burger told members of the American Bar Association the state and federal courts simply cannot handle the burden placed on them.

IT IS CLEAR that American courts are being asked to resolve an ever-growing number of lawsuits on more and more complex matters. Lawyers revel in breaking new ground with litigation or legal argument. But, too often, when that ground has been plowed and seeded, the resulting crop is thick with weeds — cases which do little but clog the courts.

Burger's solution is for fewer cases to be taken to trial. In general, that's not a bad idea. Certainly, there are many kinds of legal disputes which could be better resolved through some means other than a courtroom trial. Burger suggests divorce, child custody, adoptions, personal injury, probate, and landlord-tenant cases would be ripe for non-trial resolution.

THE KEY, OF COURSE, is how well the individual's rights can be protected by non-trial means. Can litigants be persuaded that some other system will protect them just as well as a trial? Arbitration, for example, will only be effective to the degree that parties accept an arbiter's findings as final and forgo an appeal.

There are a great many questions unanswered about Burger's suggestion, but every day it becomes clearer that some alternative must be found to the litigation glut.

THE TOUCHSTONE OF SUPPLY-SIDE ECONOMICS, AS IN THE PRIVATE SECTOR, MUST BE, OF COURSE...

Tragedy linked to poor planning

WASHINGTON — The investigation of the recent Air Florida crash has focused mainly on determining what caused the airliner to plow into a commuter-clogged bridge and careen into the ice-covered Potomac River. The tragedy happened within seconds after the plane took off from Washington's National Airport.

But while the investigators seek to assess the blame, I have been investigating the airport itself. It is cramped into a tiny area, surrounded on three sides by the river. It is flanked by high-rise buildings. The runways are too short, and just a few hundred yards beyond the runways loom four bridges.

Yet National Airport is one of the most congested airports in the country. Why? The story can be summed up in one word: Congress. National Airport is controlled by congressmen; it's their private fiefdom. It's wonderfully convenient; a congressman can get from his office to National Airport in less than 15 minutes.

That's why it handles as many as a thousand flights a day. And that's why the safer Dulles International Airport, a 45-minute drive away, is still not used to capacity.

Was National Airport adequately prepared to cope with the Air Florida disaster, which cost 78 lives? My reporters Tony Capaccio and David Field put the question to pilots and former air controllers. The Airline Pilots Association made its findings available. The conclusion is chilling but inescapable: The airport was not prepared to conduct an efficient rescue operation on the river.

This is hard to believe. Because National caters to probably the greatest concentration of VIPs of any airport in the world, its safety and rescue plans presumably would be first-rate. And because virtually every plane that uses the airport takes off and lands over the Potomac, it would seem logical that water rescue would be part of any contingency plan.

Unfortunately, this is not the case. The airport's emergency operations manual, dated July 1977 all but ignores the possibility of a plane crashing or ditching in the Potomac. This manual, sources say, has not been changed substantially since it was published.

In a petition submitted to the Federal Aviation Administration in December 1980, the pilots association noted this blind spot in the emergency manual. For example, it didn't even list the telephone numbers or radio frequencies for the harbor police, the petition disclosed. In the Air Florida crash, authorities were first notified by a passing motorist with a CB radio.

The ALPA petition continued: "Further, all the planning maps (accompanying the manual) illustrate land areas adjacent to the airport; water areas are carefully excluded. This failing of the airport's emergency plan is reflected in its water rescue capability."

The maps in the manual listed three rescue areas in order of importance. The Fourteenth Street bridge, which the Air Florida plane hit, was not included in any category, though it is only a few hundred yards from the airport.

Here's the manual's only mention of water rescue procedures: "In the event water rescue is required, the D.C. fireboat and Coast Guard are available. The Coast Guard will be notified directly through the direct phone in the (control) tower."

But the fireboat is a mile-and-a-half from the crash site, the Coast Guard even farther away. One veteran air controller alleged: "I'm not sure the Coast Guard are on the list up there (in the tower). I think I saw a card in the phone file once, when I was on midnight duty and had nothing else to do."

Two other former National controllers, with a combined total of 15 years in the airport's tower, agreed that all of National's emergency planning was based on the assumption that any crash would take place on a runway or adjacent land area.

Footnote: An airport spokesman said a new map has been issued, but would not say whether water areas were now included. An FAA spokesman said the agency is still studying the pilots' 1980 petition. The truly frightening thing, of course, is that National Airport's emergency plans meet FAA regulations.

OUTSMARTING TEACHER: Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y., has sent out 6,400 letters to high-school guidance counselors around the country, telling them how to get around the Reagan administration's move to cut off Social Security benefits for college-bound students whose parents are deceased, disabled or retired pensioners. Reagan's budget-cutters hoped to cut off the Class of '82 by denying Social Security payments to eligible children not enrolled in college as of next May.

But Peyser, acting on the inspiration of high-school principal John O'Mahoney of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., is urging school counselors to adopt O'Mahoney's scheme: Get the Social Security offspring enrolled in college before graduation, and let them complete their requirements for a high-school diploma by showing up part-time. That way, the 1982 seniors will be able to collect their government stipend — $250 a month average — until they finish college.

WATCH ON WASTE: The federal government is engaged in educating consumers about food and nutrition — at a cost of billions of dollars a year. The regulations and studies involved are mindboggling. For example, food transportation alone is the subject of 1,300 regulations by 14 federal agencies, and they take up 9,752 sections of the Code of Federal Regulations. And there were 11 different studies on polysaturated fats: Five of the studies recommended reduced intake of these fats, five didn't and the eleventh study didn't even make a recommendation.

Rowland Evans/Robert Novak

A case of poor timing

between the president and half a dozen top business leaders Jan. 20 that clinched Reagan's decision once and for all against any new tax increases had a less welcome note: a passionate attack on defense spending as wasteful, inefficient and economically dangerous.

PepsiCo's Donald M. Kendall led the attack of the business tycoons by questioning the multibillion-dollar DEW line of radar defenses across northern Canada. Kendall wondered about the "relevance" of the post-World War II DEW line in view of modern AWACS aircraft equipped with long-range radar to pick up incoming attackers. He was followed by LTV's Paul Thayer, who heads a company deep in defense contracts.

Thayer said the average cost of most military aircraft bought by the U.S. could be radically reduced by better cost-accounting and contract procedures.

Reagan was surprised. Increased military spending is the core of his foreign policy and he has no intention of cutting back. But he promised Kendall to have counselor Edwin Meese III "look into" the DEW line to evaluate its current status.

Creation letters

missed the point

Dear Editor, After reading Dr. Wennerlind's four-part letter to the Herald concerning the Creationist vs. Evolutionist court case in Arkansas, I feel that, persuasive as the doctor is, he missed the central issue of the case.

At issue was whether or not "creation-science" should be taught side-by-side with the theory of evolution in the public schools in Arkansas. Dr. Wennerlind devoted a great deal of space disputing the scientific validity of the evolution theory, while at the same time suggesting that "creation-science" had at least more basis in scientific fact than its evolutionary counterpart. Whether it does or not is irrelevant. Whether you call it "creation-science" or "creationist theory" or "mumbo-jumbo," essentially it is still the theory that God created the universe and everything in it. To teach it in public schools is in direct violation of the Constitutional dictum of church-state separation. The judge in the case, therefore, was correct in striking it down.

The message of all this should be clear. Parents, if you want to teach your children that God created the world, teach them at home, take them to church, or send them to a private school that teaches such things. Our public schools are not only for Christians, but for people of all faiths, including those who choose not to believe in God.

Union move

damages teachers

Dear Editor: During the past decade, as a veteran Texas teacher, I have witnessed the deleterious effects that a political action element can render to an educational association. I am especially concerned that an effort to foist such a scheme upon the only non-union, state teachers association (Texas Classroom Teachers Association) is imminent.

I'm sorry some teachers in Texas are blind to the impetus of a political action group. The more an association acts like a union, the less the general populace view them as professionals. That's just a fact of life.

Teachers have made inroads, but I believe a move like this can be very damaging in terms of public relations and respect — especially among legislators. Intelligent people don't achieve victories via threats.

Considering the profile of unions right now, one would think that would be an image teachers would seek to avoid. And as long as short-sighted people hold the reins of TCTA, the future of any further progress becomes precarious. It is difficult, however, to make impatient people see this.

Perhaps if all the public schools were to close and all teachers forced to enter the private sector for one year, they'd begin to realize just how fortunate we have been. And in the long run, such an occurrence could very well come to pass unless some quality-control doesn't become a major focus.

Too many teachers aren't earning the salaries they've already been given, and it's inexcusable in the eye of John Q. Public. Once that has been resolved, remaining teachers might have a chance of progressing financially and in status.

Dog depression

All the attention the Herald has been focusing toward cats lately makes me feel a little left out.

I don't have any cat stories to tell, because the longest I've ever owned a cat was about three weeks, and I was about six years old at the time.

We must not have been too close, because I don't remember his name or what he looked like.

But some of my closest friends are devoted cat-lovers, and I don't question their judgment. There's obviously many redeeming qualities about cats that I may never know.

DOGS, ON THE OTHER HAND, are a subject I am better-versed in. I have one of my own, Nicky, and today he's a year old.

At least, I think today's his birthday. Nicky was an orphan dog, and I'm not exactly sure Feb. 4 is his birthday, but it's close enough.

Now that he's a year old, he's a full-fledged adult dog. He can pretty much hold his own with the neighbor dogs and cats who invade his territory.

One thing worries me, though. Nicky seems a little bit prone to depression lately. I guess he found out like the rest of us that adulthood isn't all it's cracked up to be.

LUCKILY, I received in the mail several tips on how to combat doggie-depression. Number one rule is to "make dog-attention a priority."

Nicky gets a lot of attention. He's around human beings so much I think he thinks he's just a short person. Maybe he could use more attention from other dogs.

Which is tip number two. "Make sure your dog has companions," the letter says. Inanimate companions are all right, it adds. That can't be the problem, because the backyard is so cluttered with inanimate companions no one can walk around back there.

Here's one tip I haven't followed. "Get down on all fours at least once a day and play with your dog at dog level."

I guess I'll have to resort to that if Nicky doesn't snap out of his doggie-depression soon. I must remember to ask some of my cat-loving friends if they have to go through the same thing.

Billy Graham

I am not a true Christian

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a teenager, and all my friends in church believe I am a Christian. But I know down inside that I am not a true Christian. How can I become a real Christian? — G.L.

DEAR G.L.: I am thankful that you are honest enough to admit you do not know Christ. It would be tragic for you to assume that since you are active in church you must be a Christian. I fear many people today make that mistake. It is important for a Christian to be involved in a church, but that is no substitute for personal faith and trust in Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior.

You can become a true Christian because God loves you and wants you to be his child. What must you do? First, you must admit your need of Christ and his forgiveness. You have sinned against God, and you need more than anything else to be forgiven of your sins. Only God can do that, but you must first turn to him and confess your sins to him.

Second, realize what God has done for you in Jesus Christ. Christ was the sinless Son of God, and yet he willingly came to earth and died for your sins. He took upon himself your sins and allowed himself to be punished for them. You deserved to die on the cross, but he died in your place. He did that because he loves you.

Then turn from your sins and accept Jesus Christ into your life as your Lord and Savior. You can do that by a simple prayer of faith. Jesus said, "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will go in" (Revelation 3:20). Jesus stands at the door of your heart and life, knocking and asking to come in. What must you do? Open the door and invite him in. When you do, he has promised to come in and forgive you and make you his child.

Here is a little prayer I have urged people to make across the world and I urge you also to make it sincerely: "O God, I know I am a sinner. I am sorry for my sins, and I am willing to turn from them. I openly receive and acknowledge Jesus Christ as my Savior. I confess him as Lord. From this moment on I want to live for him and serve him in the fellowship of his people. In Jesus' name, Amen."

Some Texas oilmen angered by New Federalism

WASHINGTON AP — A Texas oilman called the office of Rep. Kent Hance this week and asked an aide if "Kent's going to support that New Federalism program?"

The Midland oilman, an avid supporter of President Reagan, obviously favored the plan to shift more than 40 federal programs to state and local governments.

"Well, I don't know. You know how they're going to pay for that, don't you?" the aide responded.

"The windfall profits tax is going to pay for over 60 percent of it, with the state of Texas paying about 25 percent of the entire amount," the aide continued.

The oilman gasped. "He Reagan was down here campaigning to do away with it, and now he wants to give it away to everybody," the oilman exclaimed.

The exchange reflects an about-face some Texans, particularly oilmen, are making as they hear they would foot the bill for much of the new program Reagan unveiled in his State of Union address.

Of the $28 billion fund the president proposed to finance programs turned over to the states, $16.7 billion would come from the windfall profits tax on crude oil, $6.1 billion from taxes on alcoholic beverages, $2.7 billion from tobacco taxes, $2.2 billion on gasoline taxes and $300 million on telephone taxes.

-Rep. Kent Hance

windfalls tax or about $5.3 billion. It also would pay 30 percent of the gasoline taxes, since major companies collect the tax at the refineries, many of which are in Texas.

In all, Texas would provide more than $6 billion, or 21.6 percent of the $28 billion total.

Congressmen from Frost Belt states have criticized Reagan's program because they fear their costs will exceed the federal revenues they receive for welfare, food stamps and other social programs.

Hance, D-Texas, and other Southern conservative Democrats had joined with Republicans to give the president major victories in his economic programs last year. But it is becoming apparent Reagan cannot automatically count them in his camp on this issue.

"In concept, it sounds good, but there are some real problems, some very real problems that concern me," Hance said Tuesday.

Congress passed the windfall profits tax a few years ago to keep in check the large profits the oil industry was making. The tax is supposed to expire in 1987.

With 60 percent of the $28 billion fund coming from the windfall profits tax, Hance said, "It doesn't take a genius to figure out that that tax becomes a permanent tax the minute the president's New Federalism program passes."

"And Texas," he added, "winds up financing a great percentage of the food stamp and welfare benefits for the rest of the country."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, also said he is having trouble supporting the president's proposal.

"By using the so-called windfall profits tax in this New Federalism program, the administration is calling on a handful of states like Texas, which have oil production, to carry a lot of the load," Bentsen said.

"We'd have money going out of Texas to subsidize state capitals throughout the country. My concern is to make sure that the program, however it winds up, treats Texas fairly and equitably," he added.

Lloyd Unsel, executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said he assured Treasury Secretary Donald Regan by letter the vast majority of the association's 7,800 members support programs to decentralize the federal government.

But Unsel confessed he has "serious misgivings" about proposals to finance the programs with the windfall profits tax that Reagan promised during his campaign to abolish "when fiscally feasible."

"We are convinced ... that earmarking these funds would foreclose any opportunity he may have to do so."

Unsel suggested that instead, general fund revenues be earmarked to finance the program.

Hance said he supports efforts to transfer as many programs as possible to local and state governments. But he admits to doubts about whether states can do an adequate job with the numerous programs Reagan wants to transfer.

He said if the federal government did not provide adequate funding, the states could be forced to increase property taxes.

"I think this is going to be a long, drawn-out procedure that we are going to have to look at carefully," said Hance.

NCPAC's Texas operations neutral due to GOP failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The failure of Texas Republicans to challenge House Majority Leader Jim Wright has left a controversial political action group so disillusioned that it's reconsidering the role it will play this year in Texas politics.

"Right now, our operations in Texas are neutral," Steve De Angelo, press secretary of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, said Wednesday.

Although denied of a run at its chief target, NCPAC officials say they may help finance campaigns later in the year against "the very liberal" Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, of Beaumont and Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas, of Dallas.

The organization "may or may not take sides" in some of the races in which conservative Democrats — Texas members of the "Boll Weevils" — have drawn GOP opposition, he said.

NCPAC felt it had a formidable rival for Wright, a Democrat from Fort Worth, in the city's former mayor, Woodie Woods, who had announced for the race. But Woods stunned GOP leaders on Thanksgiving Day by announcing he would not run, after all.

"There were others who were interested in running, other qualified, credible candidates, but I suppose when Woods pulled out, everybody must have thought he knew something they didn't," De Angelo said.

"It's a real disappointment, because we thought Jim Wright was vulnerable, in spite of the fact that he was a very powerful political figure in Washington," said De Angelo.

Even after Woods pulled out, NCPAC applied for television time in the Dallas-Fort Worth area to air its commercials against Wright. They were turned down by all three.

"We were denied access to the market, totally shut out. We finally ran something on an independent station, but to be effective against an entrenched liberal incumbent, like Jim Wright, you have to get your message across. But Jim Wright was effective in getting us shut out," De Angelo said.

NCPAC director Terry Dolan suggested in December that Wright persuaded the stations not to accept NCPAC's advertising — a charge dismissed by Wright as "utterly untrue and without any basis in fact." He denied any conversations with station officials about the commercials.

The organization drew criticism for its attacks in 1978 television commercials against candidates it opposed.

The commercials were abrasive and often misleading, but usually effective in persuading voters to support NCPAC's candidates. Other stations across the country also have turned down NCPAC applications for air time this time around.

The thousands upon thousands of dollars that NCPAC was committed to spend in advertising to defeat Wright would have benefited any opponent, De Angelo contended. "I'm sure it discouraged others who might have jumped in to challenge Wright," said De Angelo.

The commercials, he said, "would have had the effect of convincing the people of Fort Worth that Mr. Wright was more interested in partisan politics, the Democratic Party and in obtaining a high position of power than in the good of the country."

"One of the stations called it a hatchet job, another said it was too early, and another, to its credit, said simply that it didn't accept any advocacy advertising — any commercials from a political action group that came in advancing a certain position," De Angelo said.

In the same TV spots attacking Wright, NCPAC was going to try to persuade voters in the Dallas-Fort Worth area to oust Frost and Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Texas, of Dallas, both of whom followed Wright and other Democratic leaders in opposing President Reagan's economic recommendations.

"It looks like restricting did them in, anyway," said De Angelo.

Mattox has filed for Texas attorney general rather than seek reelection in a district that has had thousands of new Republican voters injected and thousands of minority voters shifted into Frost's district.

West Texas oilfield workers submitting to drug searches

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Oilfield companies are beginning to require on-site body and personal property searches of their workers because of the use of alcohol and drugs on the job.

"The problem may not be new, but the concern is only two or three years old," said Charles Booker, author of a drilling magazine article concerning drug and alcohol use in the oilfields.

In the past two years, drilling contractors and other oilfield employers have started requiring their workers to submit to impromptu body and personal property searches. A 1980 federal court ruling allowed that such searches were legal, as long as employees were forewarned.

Booker says government statistics indicate that 42 percent of all oilfield workers smoke or have smoked marijuana. The use of hard drugs by oilfield workers, however, is proportional to hard drug use by the population at large, he added.

"The recent explosion of drilling activity has brought new people into the industry who weren't in it before," Booker said. "A lot of them are younger people with 1960s values — including drugs."

Amoco Production Co. posts a memo that defines the type of "contraband material" — including drugs, weapons and alcohol — outlawed on company property.

The memo states that any employee "who refuses to submit to a search or is found in possession of any such illegal or unauthorized items" will be disciplined and possibly fired.

Amoco officials said inspections can occur at any time, although it requires the written consent of the person being searched. If a worker refuses to cooperate, he is asked to leave company property, officials say.

A. L. Mitchell, director of corporate security for Tom Brown Inc. of Midland, said the industry first noticed the alcohol and drug use problem on offshore rigs.

Mitchell says oilfield companies now realize the problem has moved to land-based drilling operations as well.

Mitchell's company began posting notices last spring similar to the Amoco memos and embarked on a drug education program for field and middle level supervisors, Mitchell said.

"We're telling our employees up front that certain rules apply ... to provide safe working conditions," he said. "We will not search anyone who does not agree to be searched. But those who do not agree will be asked to leave," he said.

Eddie Everett, security director for MGF Oil Corp. of Midland, says his company employs "aggressive searches, enlightened education and tougher screening processes" to stem the tide of drug and alcohol abuse on the job.

Florida first in nation

Texas' business climate is rated No. 2

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

In 1981 Texas had the second-best business climate for general manufacturing in the 48 contiguous states, according to a study done by Alexander Grant and Co., a Chicago-based accounting firm.

The 48 states were ranked as to their evaluation on 22 criteria which included state and local government fiscal policies, state regulated employment costs, productivity and other manufacturing related issues.

Ranked ahead of Texas was Florida and rounding out the top five states were Colorado, Kansas and North Dakota.

The bottom five states were Pennsylvania, Michigan, Rhode Island, New York and West Virginia.

In addition to its high national overall ranking, Texas ranked among the top five states nationally on seven of the 22 factors covered in the study. Texas also placed first overall in the south central region of the U.S. which included Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

The study was made in co-operation with the Conference of State Manufacturers' Association, a trade organization operating in Texas through the Texas Association of Business.

Selwin Price, author of the study, said the findings are meant to be general in approach to business climates rather than all-encompassing.

He said the study provides businesses with one tool that can be used as an initial step when considering the location of new facilities, relocating existing facilities or consolidation of existing facilities.

A polling of the COSMA's 38-member organizations was used to determine the weight given to the 22 factors in the rating study.

The most important factors were: energy costs, unionization, wages, workmen's compensation rates and man-hours lost.

Least important factors were: state and local debt per capita, annual average employee hours worked per week, population change, welfare expenditure and population density.

The Grant study reported that Texas' business climate is excellent because it has the lowest company unemployment benefit payments in the country ($32 paid per covered worker per year), the fourth lowest level of unionization in the U.S. (11 percent of the non-agricultural workforce), the fifth lowest workmen's compensation insurance payment ($133 for temporary total disability) and the fifth lowest public welfare expenditure ($105 per capita).

The state's workforce is the third most productive in the U.S. adding $4.99 for each dollar of production payroll. The workforce also works the third longest work week (41.2 hours) in the nation.

The Grant study is an expanded update of similar studies conducted in 1979 and 1980. Price said his firm has established a new and more comprehensive base for ranking the attractiveness of each state for general operations.

Bonnie Franklin seeking re-election as treasurer

Bonnie Franklin, is announcing that she will seek re-election for a second term as County Treasurer of Howard County, Texas, subject to the Democratic nomination in the May primary.

Mrs. Franklin began her public service as a deputy clerk under Lee Porter for three years, terminating her employment to join her husband, who was in the Air Force during the Korean war. Upon returning to Big Spring, she again entered public service by working for Elton Gilliland, then District Attorney, for two years.

At times, while her children were young, she filled in as secretary for the offices of County Judge and County Attorney, giving her knowledge of how these various offices within the Courthouse function.

"This is an asset to me because you are involved with all the offices of the County as treasurer," Mrs. Franklin said. Just prior to taking office she had several years experience in receiving and disbursing money by closing loans for various lending institutions while employed by a local law firm.

In October, 1978, she was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Frances Glenn. She was nominated to represent the Democratic Party as County Treasurer in the General Election that year and was sworn into office Jan. 1, 1979, giving her these years of actual experience in the office of County Treasurer.

During the past fiscal year she has handled county funds totaling over three million dollars coming into the treasury of Howard County, from collections of all offices in the Courthouse, State funds and Revenue Sharing. She has been able to earn the County an additional amount of $78,746.00 by investing some of these funds until needed for the operation of the County budget. She attended Howard County Junior College at night taking a computer course to enable her to more effectively and efficiently handle the County payroll, which is on computer at this time.

Mrs. Franklin, was reared in Midland County until 1943, at which time she moved to Howard County with her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Thomas Gill. She graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College. She married George Franklin, son of Roy and Lucille Franklin, then area farmers. They own their home in Big Spring and have two children, Janice Monteleone and Clayton Franklin, a student at Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Franklin and her family are members of The First Baptist Church. She is a member of Howard County Democratic Club, Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, VFW Auxiliary, Les Girls Investment Club, Big Spring Squares and County Treasurers Association of Texas.

"Economical, efficient and effective county government continues to be my goal," she said. "I feel, with the past years experience, I can again administer sound business judgment in the administration of our county money. It has been my privilege to serve the people of Howard County. To the many friends who have been so kind to me, I say thank you and ask for your continued support."

Brilab lawyers file suit

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawsuit alleging Prudential Insurance Co. was partly responsible for implicating two Austin attorneys who were indicted but cleared in the Texas Brilab investigation has been filed in state district court.

In the suit filed Wednesday in Travis County, Donald W. Ray and Randall Buck Wood contend Prudential — "for business purposes" — willingly participated in the FBI investigation by providing cover for federal agents and informants.

The lawyers, represented by Houston attorney W. James Kronzer, seek an unspecified amount of damages from Prudential.

Wood, Ray and Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton all were acquitted on charges of racketeering, wire fraud, conspiracy and extortion.

In their petition, Ray and Wood contend Prudential, "with full knowledge of the purposes, clothed one Joseph Hauser, a confessed criminal, and members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other agencies, with authority to represent (Prudential's) actual interest in the investigation."

Prudential "was aware at all times or certainly should have been aware" that giving authority to "such persons" would result in harm to innocent persons, the suit alleges.

Prudential officials will not comment on the action until they see the suit, a spokesman said Wednesday.

House fire kills four

OLNEY, Texas (AP) — Fire destroyed a city-owned house near Olney's water treatment plant, killing a woman and three children, fire officials said.

Olney Fire Marshal Derral Schoonover said the fire, which began about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, was believed caused by a butane heater in a back bedroom of the wood-frame, one-story house.

The victims were identified as Angelia Lynn Marlow Mullis, 25; her son James, 9; her nephew Jason Anthony Garner, 3; and 3-year-old Walter Doyle Stengel III.

The Stengel boy's father, Walter Doyle Stengel Jr., suffered cuts and burns and was listed in stable condition at Hamilton Hospital in Olney. Stengel works at the treatment plant, at Lake Olney about six miles from Olney.

Decision on creation appeal expected today

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Attorney General Steve Clark planned to announce his ruling today on whether to appeal a U.S. District Court decision that voided the state's creationism law.

The law approved by the state Legislature in 1981 required public schools to teach the theory of evolution and the theory of creation-science if either was taught. It would have been effective in the fall of 1982.

U.S. District Judge William Overton ruled Jan. 5 that the law was unconstitutional because it violated the separation of church and state. The deadline to appeal Overton's ruling is today.

The American Civil Liberties Union challenged the law on behalf of 23 plaintiffs, many of them religious and education figures. It said the law violated the separation of church and state, was too vague and was an infringement on academic freedom.

Creationists believe a supernatural force formed the world suddenly and relatively recently. Evolutionists say life developed slowly over millions of years.

Clark said last week that at least 50 percent of the telephone calls to his office are by people supporting an appeal. He said Tuesday in Baton Rouge, La., that some people hate him for losing the case and some for defending the law.

Criteria for fire ant programs are released

AUSTIN—The criteria for county participation in a co-operative imported fire ant control program this year have been mailed to officials in all infested areas, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

"We wanted county officials to know the process for entering into a program before they make final decisions," Brown said. "The funds and possibly the bait approved for application will be limited."

"There has been a lot of misinformation distributed concerning the Department's role in county efforts to control the imported fire ant," Brown said. "The Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) is not going to force a county to use a specific pesticide or tell them what kind of application to make so long as their programs are in accordance with law.

"The County Commissioners Court is the local body which determines the county's participation in a program and the option to be adopted," Brown said.

"AMDRO is the only pesticide which has been approved for both aerial and ground applications, and counties must abide by EPA and TDA regulations. AMDRO and MC-96 are the only pesticides that have any kind of state or Federal funding at this time," Brown said. "If counties wish to use some other type of control and handle their own funding, they can certainly do so if they abide by all pesticide regulations."

Bush to address Cotton Council

Vice President George Bush will address the National Cotton Council's 44th annual meeting in Dallas February 7-9. His speech is scheduled for 11 a.m., February 9.

Cotton industry leaders also will hear talks by Senator David Boren (D-Okla.), House Minority Whip Trent Lott (R-Miss.), Political Analyst Horace Busby, and Monsanto Executive Nicholas Reding.

Council President Frank Mitchener will deliver the keynote address.

In other cotton-related news, a team of federal-state scientists have completed a plan for eradication of boll weevils from North Carolina and South Carolina.

The program — judged feasible by the team — would take 24 months from a proposed July 1, 1982, starting date. It would phase in with the current containment program in North Carolina which is protecting an area cleared of weevils during a successful three-year trial, the National Cotton Council states.

'Comparable worth'

Nurses in San Jose strike for higher pay...and more

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — There is an eerie silence in the hallways at San Jose, Good Samaritan, O'Connor and Alexian Brothers hospitals. More than half the beds are empty, furniture is stacked for cleaning and the bustle of nurses, doctors, patients and visitors has vanished.

Some 1,300 registered nurses, members of the California Nurses Association, are on strike for higher wages. But more than that, they want pay comparable to equally trained professionals in male-dominated professions.

They say, for example, that hospital pharmacists, mostly men, receive $31,800 a year, while full-time registered nurses, mostly women, earned $22,700 to $24,300, depending on experience.

"This is an issue that goes far beyond four employers in San Jose," said Robert Brueckner, San Jose Hospital administrator. "What is the comparable worth of different jobs? Potentially, it's a very significant question that needs to be answered by society."

The "comparable worth" concept was first tested in this city, the nation's 17th largest, last summer, when city workers, demanding sexual equality in wages, walked out.

They returned to work after the city offered $1.5 million toward reducing wage disparities, as well as a 15.5 percent general pay increase worth $3.5 million.

At that time, Mayor Janet Gray Hayes hailed it as "a first giant step toward fairness in the workplace for women."

A nurses' victory would be a big step toward recognition of their increasing professionalism and could alter their relationship with doctors and other hospital employees.

"There are about 15,000 CNA nurses under contract in hospitals around California," said CNA vice-president Dr. Lorraine Hultquist. "Certainly what happens here in San Jose is being carefully watched throughout the state and probably around the country."

The strike by the nurses is a bid for more money — about 37 percent more over 18 months. The hospitals are offering the nurses about 21 percent more over a three-year period.

There's another issue, not spelled out in the strike demands, which bothers some nurses.

"Hospitals are here to give patient care and it's the nurses who give 95 percent of that care," said Florence Gallup, a registered nurse for 23 years. "Neither the doctors nor the hospital administrators fully appreciate the importance of nurses and that has to change."

Mrs. Gallup said that with the increased specialization of doctors and the growth of medical knowledge, nurses have had to assume more responsibility. California nurses are required to take 30 credits of continuing education every two years to keep up with medical advances.

"As an assistant head nurse, I'm in charge of a 10-bed unit that includes critical patients," Mrs. Gallup said. "When I take patients, I am responsible for them for perhaps eight hours."

While many of her responsibilities involve medical knowledge, "I do many things I shouldn't have to do," she said, "like mopping floors, changing beds, emptying laundry, moving equipment, running lab tests, going to the pharmacy, even cleaning toilets because there aren't always enough housekeepers or the system isn't working."

Mrs. Gallup and other CNA members contend that nurses have traditionally been underpaid because they were considered part-time or secondary wage earners. Many nurses now are full-time professionals with four or five years of higher education and nearly half provide the primary or sole support for their families.

In recent years, more lucrative careers have opened for women who once might have become nurses. That has helped to create the current national nursing shortage and overload existing nurses.

Dr. Donohue

Get injured shoulder mobile

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband, who is 57 years old, has a frozen shoulder. He had it for about six months before he went to see his doctor. I would like to know what causes a frozen shoulder. What is the treatment? Is it curable with physical therapy, which he is doing?—Mrs. K.

Joints must move. If they don't they become stiff. And that, in short, is how a frozen shoulder happens. It can come from an injury that produces a painful shoulder, painful enough to make the person want to protect it by immobilizing it. At least, that is the common setting. And the "freezing," if you will, can come about in short order.

The first and foremost treatment for it is to try to regain mobility by physical exercise as soon as possible. The physical exercise you tell me your husband is doing for this is to be encouraged.

Be patient. Don't get discouraged. It may take as long as nine months to unfreeze the joint and regain full range of motion. I am sure your husband's physical therapist has made other specific suggestions, such as using a hot pack to the shoulder. And at nighttime it often pays to elevate the head of the bed by putting 12-inch blocks under the bed's legs. Otherwise, when one lies down, the shoulder tends to fall backwards. That puts greater tension on already painful joint. The idea behind the block is to avoid that.

Your husband's shoulder will eventually come around. His experience might serve as a reminder to others who have had such shoulder injuries. The message is to attempt to get the joint back into motion as soon as the pain level allows it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told by my doctor that my blood sugar level is too low. It was 68 following a four hour glucose test. I have heard that one should avoid all carbohydrates and eat a high-protein, high-calorie diet. I am not sure if this means literally no carbohydrates. Since the test, I have stayed away from all carbohydrates. Could you clarify this diet matter a little more clearly for me?—S.D.S.

It doesn't mean absolutely no carbohydrates. It means to reduce the total amount of them in your diet. Carbohydrates provide 55 percent of the total calories in a normal diet. For a restricted-carbohydrate diet the percentage should be cut to 35-40 percent of the total.

Normally, blood sugar should drop to about 60 in a glucose tolerance test before the diagnosis of reactive hypoglycemia is made. I suggest you check back with your physician to find out just how restrictive your diet was to be. If blood sugar drops to 60 in a test, and if the patient has symptoms of low blood sugar — nervousness, sweating, faintness, etc. — corrective action is in order. Have another talk with your doctor about this.

To be certain, one must have the precise results available, which your doctor has. You may want to study the booklet "Help for Hypoglycemia (Low Blood Sugar)." Other readers may order by writing me care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Reader partial to full text

DEAR ABBY: Recently I had the sad task of correctly identifying a beautiful passage for inclusion in the eulogy for a young neighbor who died suddenly. I was, therefore, pleased but left unsatisfied to see a pale facsimile of it submitted by a Michigan reader and run in your column.

Your applied title of "Perspective" was good, but not as apt as the real one, "A Parable of Immortality." Further, the author's name is not Henry Scott Holland, but Henry Van Dyke, a famous American preacher, poet and philosopher — and the full text, while still brief, deserves to be printed. I enclose a copy for your use.

WILLIAM D. SANTORO, M.D.
"I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength and I stand and watch until at last she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come down to mingle with each other. Then someone at my side says, 'There she goes!'"

"Gone where? Gone from my sight ... that is all. She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side and just as able to bear her load of living freight to the place of destination. Her diminished size is in me, not in her. And just at the moment when someone at my side says, 'There she goes!' there are other eyes watching her coming and other voices ready to take up the glad shout, 'There she comes!'"

DEAR ABBY: Should a mother tell her daughter she is loud, and if so, how?
My daughter is truly a lovely person, and I am so proud of her for many reasons, but when she is in a group of people she tends to get loud and strident; she talks constantly and laughs raucously. These are not easy things to say to one's daughter. However, she is 35 years old, and I'm sure these are qualities that cause men to shy away from her. She is a beautiful girl, kind, happy and intelligent.

Can you suggest a way to handle this?
STYMIED MOM
DEAR MOM: Be as gentle and diplomatic as possible. First let your daughter know that you think she is "truly lovely, beautiful, kind and intelligent." Then suggest that at times her enthusiasm causes her to come on a little too strong, so if she could try to tone down a few decibels, she would be even more attractive.

DEAR ABBY: When signing cards, letters, invitations, etc., whose name appears first, my husband's or mine? We have been arguing about this for some time.
Also, where can I buy a breast pump?
RUTHIE IN ERIE

DEAR RUTHIE: If you write the card, letter, invitation, etc., your name appears first. If your husband does the writing, his name appears first.
You can purchase a breast pump at your local drugstore.

Be suspicious of work at home ads

"$180.00 per week part time at home. Company needs home workers to update local mailing lists. All ages, experience unnecessary."

Possibly, you have seen an advertisement such as this in a newspaper or magazine which offered "huge profits" while working at home. Since the ad gives the impression that earning money is easy, you probably have been tempted to respond. Unfortunately, thousands of people have answered similar ads, only to lose their hard earned dollars.

A nationwide investigation in 1980 by the Better Business Bureau of 55 work-at-home promotions revealed that those wanting to supplement their income by investing in work-at-home opportunities were losing their money to unscrupulous promoters using misleading advertising claims. The investigation showed that advertisements promising hundreds of dollars for a few hours work were simply lures by the advertisers to sell information on how to set up your own business or conduct the same scheme as the advertiser's. No actual employment existed. On the contrary, would-be workers would have had to first pay for details purporting to show how to make the claimed income, and then invest more money in ads, envelopes, postage and other items.

A typical advertisement for a work-at-home opportunity claimed "$356.00 Weekly Guaranteed. Work two hours daily at home." Investigation disclosed, how-to details if the worker's own efforts failed to produce the weekly income. Another typical ad promised $1,000-$3,000 monthly stuffing envelopes. BBB shoppers answering such ads did not receive the expected envelopes for stuffing, but instead got promotional material asking for $8.00 to $25.00 just for details on money-making plans. To make matters worse, to pursue the plans would have required spending several hundred dollars more for advertising, postage, envelopes and printing.

The initial details the aspiring worker receives about a work-at-home plan usually turn out to be booklets telling how to go into the business of placing the same kind of ad the advertiser ran in the first place. In short, the work-at-home scheme participant begins recruiting others for the same business of offering a work-at-home plan. It is not difficult to see that this system is one which feeds on continuous recruitment of persons to offer the same plan. By such a geometric progression, soon everyone in the country would be trying to sell envelope stuffing plans in true pyramid fashion.

A variation of this theme is a plan whereby a company offers to pay $25 to $60 per envelope stuffed and submitted to us according to instructions. One must buy the company's circulars on "money-making plans and place advertisements at his/her own expense in newspapers and magazines inviting interested parties to send him/her a self-addressed stamped envelope for information on earning money at home. Each envelope received in this manner is then to be stuffed with the company's circular and, once a required number of letters is accumulated, sent to the company for payment. Earnings by participants are entirely dependent on the number of responses to the ads.

Advertisements which claim that you can earn unusually high income with little or no effort on your part should be viewed with suspicion. If the opportunity sounds too good to be true, chances are that it is. Before you send any money, call the BBB at 563-1880 for a report on the company.

Sharon Lee Andrews receives national honor

The Andrews received an announcement of their daughter's achievement from Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of General Federation of Women's Clubs and chairman of the Board of Advisors.

"In every community there are young women like your daughter, Sharon Lee Andrews, working diligently to make their city a better place in which to live," Mrs. Arnold said in the announcement. "They participate in varied activities. They volunteer their time and talents. They achieve personal excellence in their chosen professions, homes, clubs and churches. They are very important to their communities and deserve to be recognized for their achievements."

Leaders from various civic, religious, academic and professional organizations select women between the ages of 21 to 36 who merit recognition.

Study says standardized tests not biased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Standardized tests used for civil service and college entrance screening are not systematically biased against minorities, who usually score below average on them, a National Academy of Sciences panel has concluded.

The panel, after four years of study, said the tests can help predict performance for blacks as well as whites. But it cautioned against overreliance on test scores and urged employers, schools and colleges to take steps to mitigate the potential adverse impact of tests on minorities.

The academy's National Research Council created a 19-member Committee on Ability Testing to study the pervasive and often controversial use of tests in America. The panel included professors from a variety of academic fields, only a few of them test experts.

The report also urged college admission officers to reconsider their mandatory use of entrance exams taken by nearly 2 million high school seniors each year. The "vast majority" of colleges are not selective and the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the American College Test may be an "unnecessary expense and inconvenience" for students applying to those colleges, it said.

The 241-page report, issued Tuesday, said tests are neither a scapegoat nor "a panacea for deep-seated social ills."

Allan Nairn, who authored a Ralph Nader report in 1980 attacking standardized tests, criticized the report. "On most major points, it simply reflects the industry line," especially on the question of test bias, he said.

The panel endorsed the use of standardized tests by elementary and secondary schools, which spent $52 million to buy tests in 1978. But, it said, "No important decision about an individual's educational future should be based on a single test score considered in isolation."

Any state or local rule that sets a numerical cutoff score for deciding whether a child is retarded or needs special education "should be seriously questioned," it said.

In the workplace, the panel declared it had found no "alternatives to testing that are equally informative, equally adequate technically and also economically and politically viable."

Hance attacks Reagan plan to tax interest, dividends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Withholding taxes on interest and dividends would discourage Americans from putting money into savings, Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, of Lubbock said Tuesday in an attack on a recent recommendation by President Reagan.

Hance was co-author of the legislation last year that cut personal income taxes by 25 percent over three years. He said imposing a withholding tax on interest-bearing accounts would work against the savings incentives enacted in 1981.

"The individual saver would be robbed of the benefits of interest compounding to the extent that earnings are withheld,"

Hance said. "The United States already has one of the lowest personal savings rates in the industrialized world. And withholding would only increase the paperwork and regulatory burden on financial institutions, businesses, industries and private citizens."

Hance succeeded in striking a similar proposal during the Carter administration. His amendment to a Treasury appropriations bill carried 401-4 in the House in August of 1980.

"It is time, once again, to remind the executive branch that Congress opposes this withholding tax," the Texas Democrat said.

Justice lawyers rap Reagan exemption plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's decision to grant tax exemptions to private schools that practice racial discrimination has prompted more than half the Justice Department's civil rights lawyers to sign a letter of protest.

It is the second mass protest in six months by career government lawyers in the department.

The first was over an internal memo that suggested blacks "are more disruptive in the classroom" as one argument against pressing a school discrimination case.

The latest letter protests Reagan's decision to change an 11-year-old government policy of denying tax exemptions to schools that discriminate against blacks.

The letter said the change "violates existing federal civil rights law, as expressed in the Constitution, acts of Congress and federal court interpretations thereof."

It was delivered a week ago to Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, head of the civil rights division. The Associated Press obtained a copy Tuesday.

The lawyers said they had received no response from Reynolds by Tuesday.

When asked about the protest Tuesday, Reynolds said he had been too busy preparing explanations of the policy for Congress but would move quickly to see that division lawyers received those explanations, too, and would meet with them if they wanted.

Meanwhile, department sources who asked not to be identified said the tax exemption reversal also was opposed by the department's tax division, the solicitor general's office and the Office of Legal Counsel, which prepares legal advice for the entire department.

Sources also said the Internal Revenue Service opposed the change.

The Justice and Treasury Departments announced Jan. 8 that the administration was reversing the administration's position in Supreme Court cases involving Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and Goldsboro (N.C.) Christian Schools and would grant them tax exemptions.

After a storm of protest, the White House announced four days later that it would seek legislation denying tax exemptions to schools that racially discriminate.

Sources said more than 200 civil rights division employees, including more than 100 lawyers, signed the protest letter. The division has about 370 employees, including 170 lawyers.

Their letter said, "Many of these schools were established for the purpose of perpetuating racial segregation in communities which were in the process of desegregating their schools pursuant to the requirements of federal law."

It said reports that Reynolds and his special assistants worked on legal justifications for the change "cast serious doubt upon the division's commitment to enforce vigorously the nation's civil rights laws."

Nofziger sees hard time for President

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A predicted $100 billion budget deficit coupled with high unemployment and interest rates will hinder President Reagan this year in dealings with Congress, the president's former political affairs advisor said.

And Lyn Nofziger, who left the administration on Jan. 22 to become a conservative spokesman, predicted Tuesday a sluggish economy could also undermine the President's Republican support in Congress.

"I will say this. The economy has to turn around before the 1982 elections or we will find that the American voter has gone out and blamed the Republicans to the extent that they will throw out a lot of Republican members of Congress," he said.

However, Nofziger told nearly 5,000 members of the National Cattlemen's Association he remains confident Reaganomics will work and that the economy would begin showing improvement by late spring or early summer.

"I wish I could tell you that everything was going to be better soon and know what I was talking about. I believe frankly by late spring or early summer that the economy is going to be better. They wouldn't let me out if I didn't say that, but I do think that is so," he said.

But he said Reagan likely would not have the success this year he had in 1981 in dealing with Congress because of 9 percent unemployment, 16.5 percent interest rates and the projected $100 billion federal budget deficit.

The former California journalist who has been a close associate of Reagan since 1966 said he resigned his administration position "specifically because I do not like government. I tell people I went there to help demolish it, not help build a better bureaucracy."

"Basically I think in many respects I can be more helpful to the president on the outside than I can on the inside," said Nofziger.

His speech, entitled "An Insider's View of the Reagan Administration," sounded much like an early campaign speech for a 1984 Reagan re-election campaign, and Nofziger said he was betting Reagan would be re-elected.

West Texas Youth Orchestra organized

A group of interested parents and teachers have organized the West Texas Youth Orchestra to give junior high and high school students of the Permian Basin a musical experience in addition to that offered by the school orchestra or band.

The purpose of this orchestra is to foster good relations among various West Texas communities by giving students the opportunity to "make music" together on a non-competitive basis. Orchestra members will work with professional musicians. Brian Groner will serve as conductor and members of the Thouvenal String Quartet of Midland will serve as coaches.

Planned activities for the West Texas Youth Orchestra include a joint performance with a youth ballet, a joint performance with a youth choir, a concerto competition, a weekend camp, and an opportunity to work with guest conductors and guest soloists.

Rehearsals will take place at the Midland-Odessa Symphony facility at Midland airport. Auditions are open to any student; there is no age or grade level requirement. Auditions will be held on Feb. 7 from 2 to 5 p.m. For further information, call 694-9461 or 362-6039.

SERVICE AFTER THE SALE "A MATTER OF FACT"

Convenience store director hopes to cover the Southwest

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — From his office in northwest Clovis, Lonnie Allsup oversees a network of 225 convenience stores stretching from Gallup, N.M., to Boise City, Okla. — and pretty near everywhere in between.

The 48-year-old Allsup is doing his best to make the Allsup's Convenience Store slogan — "There's One Near You" — a reality to citizens of cities ranging in size from the 900 residents of Tatum, N.M., to the 400,000 who live in Albuquerque.

"It's an exciting business, a fast-moving business," Allsup said in a recent interview, although admitting that his role as head of the family-owned corporation draws him away from his first love, working directly with customers and selling.

Now, he has about 1,800 employees to do the job of helping manage, plan and build the Allsup's chain, which he says will sell $80 million in groceries and dispense 60 million gallons of gasoline in the fiscal year ending in March.

Next year, he projects grocery sales of $100 million and sales of 80 million gallons of gasoline at his stores, most of which are open 24 hours, 365 days a year. The 225 stores are split between Texas and New Mexico, with the Boise City, Okla., store the first of what Allsup hopes will be many in Oklahoma.

"One of my goals is to cover the entire states of New Mexico and Texas," Allsup said. Toward that end, he has set an objective of reaching the 500-store mark within five years.

Allsup believes in goals, from the time 26 years ago when he borrowed $6,500 to open his first store — Lonnie's Drive-In Grocery — in Roswell, N.M.

Raised in Morton, Texas, near the New Mexico border, Allsup began working in a grocery store when he was 10, standing on a box to sack and bag. His father operated a Chevrolet dealership, but Allsup found he liked "the fast part" of the grocery store business better.

When the Korean War broke out while he was attending Texas Tech, Allsup enlisted in the Air Force. After a tour in Japan, he was assigned to a radar station outpost in the desert near Las Cruces, N.M.

Allsup and his wife, Barbara, took over the Roswell store shortly after leaving the service, launching one of New Mexico's most successful business stories.

"I had a goal to build five stores," Allsup said. "I bought the one store and as I began to operate it, I felt that with five stores I could have a viable business. With one store, all I could do is stay inside and run one store."

Business quadrupled within six months, Allsup said, as he tried such features — now prominent in present operations — as cooked food, expanded hours, bright lighting and top placement for such high-traffic items as cigarettes, candy, soda pop, bread and milk.

He purchased a second store in Roswell, borrowing the downpayment from an employee, then expanded to Ruidoso and Alamogordo, N.M. In 1964 he sold the chain of 12 stores to Southland Corp. of Dallas, owners of the giant 7 Eleven convenience store chain. To this day, Allsup's original store bears the 7 Eleven name.

"I felt like they offered me too much money," Allsup said of the sale. "I was 30 years old and they offered me a quarter million dollars in the clear."

He said he "came real close" to returning to college to study law, but couldn't shake the convenience store fever and moved his family to Clovis to open four stores.

When Allsup first entered the market in 1956, there were about 500 convenience stores in the United States. Today, there are about 38,000 — and he believes the sale of gasoline at the stores is one of the biggest reasons for the growth.

"In my opinion, self-service gas at the convenience stores has been the motivating force in the tremendous growth of the industry," Allsup said. "That's when I took off. It was the turning point for me and the convenience store business."

Profits from gasoline sales are not large, Allsup said, but it produces extra revenue and generates more traffic into the stores.

The chain of Allsup's stores began to multiply quickly.

"I began setting goals of 25 stores, then 50, 100 and 200," Allsup said.

He opened his 200th store, in Clovis, last summer and Allsup says the corporation now ranks as the 24th largest convenience store operation in the country.

Barbara Allsup, who kept the first store's books in the bedroom of their Roswell home, today is financial vice president of the corporation. Their son Mark, 25, works in the commercial real estate business in Dallas and another son Todd, 20, is in junior college.

ICEMAN—Firefighter Gene Carson's hair, eyelashes and mustache were covered with icicles after battling a condominium fire in southwest Denver on Wednesday.

Temperatures dropped to near zero throughout eastern Colorado late Wednesday afternoon as an Arctic front passed through the state.

3 businessmen track down burglary suspects

HOUSTON (AP) — Three auto supply store executives admitted their methods were unusual, but they said they were convinced they'd done the right thing after strapping on their guns and tracking down three robbery suspects.

"I know it sounds like the Old West," Joe Anderson said Tuesday after police arrested three suspects in the Monday night robbery of a northeast Houston auto parts store. "But we had a few clues to go on, and we just couldn't wait until the police had time to look into them."

Anderson and Gary Bolton, co-owners of two auto supply stores, and Mario Muriel, assistant manager of one of the stores, searched out a truck Muriel said robbers drove away in after taking $700 from the cash register and his billfold, which contained $200.

With the help of friends on the police force, the men traced the license plate number to a used car lot, then obtained the name of the truck's owner from a salesman at the lot.

"They armed themselves and drove to the home of a man identified as the truck's owner, where they encountered three men. While the auto parts store workers were considering what to do, a patrol car drove by."

"We decided to flag it down and let them handle it," Muriel said. "But it sure was tempting to handle it ourselves." Detective R.L. Maxey said the suspects, aged 17, 21 and 33, probably would be charged with aggravated robbery.

"What really instigated the thing was not just the money, but the fact they took my wallet," Muriel said, noting it had a number of mementos. Muriel said the arrests took "a big load off my mind," but said his wallet was still missing.

"Give us a little time, though," he said. "We'll find it."

Retarded student, 19, admits starting fire

DALLAS (AP) — The fire that killed a mentally retarded youth last week apparently was set by another student at the developmental residence center, investigators say.

Arson charges probably would not be filed, however, against a 19-year-old mentally retarded student who said he started the fire with a cigarette lighter, said fire Capt. Levi Whitlow. Whitlow was scheduled to testify today before a Dallas County grand jury.

Todd Gregory Tucker, 17, of Athens was killed in a four-alarm fire in his apartment at the Lynne Developmental Center in Richardson. The blaze destroyed a structure that housed five of the center's 38 students, firefighters said.

Whitlow said Tuesday night that a student who lived down the hall from Tucker admitted starting the fire, but that he apparently does not understand the effects of his action.

"In an arson case you have to prove intent. That may be hard to prove in this case," he said. The student said he took a house parent's cigarette lighter and "set fire to the bedclothes," one investigator said. "He didn't even know why he did it."

Spending more money to ease expenditures

$16.2 million offered to cut health costs

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1980, Americans spent $247.2 billion on health care, an amount that accounted for 9.4 percent of the nation's entire output of goods and services.

rise that it seems any lowering of costs depends, of all things, on spending more money. That is the conclusion reached by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, which Wednesday offered up to $16.2 million to help cut health costs.

In the first stage of the foundation's program, grants of up to $100,000 each will be made over 18 months to as many as 12 communities to help them develop projects for lowering costs.

the responsibility shift to local government and the private sector. He suggested some possibilities that could be considered for grants. One of them: A new method of reimbursing hospital and doctors, "possibly on the basis of a fixed annual amount per person treated," with an emphasis on ambulatory care "that could minimize the need for costly inpatient hospital treatment."

'Hunchback' creates essential ingredients

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Television Writer

This classic book, set in 15th century Paris and written by Victor Hugo, has been produced for the movie theaters three times. Lon Chaney, Charles Laughton and Anthony Quinn each played Quasimodo, whose grossly deformed body belies the gentleness and compassion inside.

Hopkins needed five hours of make-up work before each day's shooting to achieve the necessary disfigurement. But if you can get past the ugliness — and this tale is certainly not for everyone — then the beauty of the beast shines through in his sensitivity and kindness.

Quasimodo falls in love with the gypsy Esmerelda (Lesley-Anne Down), and three scenes express beautifully his painful plight, illustrating that his deformities have wounded him but have not arrested his emotions.

No such limitation exists in 1981, and Rosemont's production provides greater emphasis on Dom Claude, the archdeacon driven to criminal and anti-spiritual acts by his lust for Esmerelda. Derek Jacobi, star of "Masterpiece Theater's" "I, Claudius," portrays Dom Claude with an obsessive blackness.

Wacky SWC: Joke on Aggies, finally

CLOSE ACTION — John Addison (11), of Southern Methodist University tries to outsmart James Tandy (30), and Denard Holmes (22), of the University of Texas in this action from the first half of their game at Austin Wednesday night.

By The Associated Press
 A game delayed two hours when a band member knocks over a power pole, a coach draws a double-technical foul that cost his team the game, three of the top four teams shuffle places in the standings, a squad that didn't even play takes the top spot — just a routine night of Southwest Conference basketball.
 The wackiest Wednesday night scene was played out in Waco where a bandsman trying to park a car smashed into a utility pole, disabled a power transformer and knocked out all the lights in Heart O' Texas Coliseum, where the Baylor Bears and Texas Aggies were trying to play.
 A&M coach Shelby Metcalf agreed to play the second half only under the threat of forfeit. As it turns out, he could have stayed in the locker room.

 Terry Teagle hit 24 points, including two late free throws on a key technical called against A&M assistant coach Barry Davis, Baylor won it 58-55 and knocked the Aggies out of first place in the SWC standings.
 In other games, Texas broke a three-game losing string with a 69-56 win over hapless Southern Methodist, Texas Christian nudged Rice 58-57 on a last-minute field goal and Houston slid by Texas Tech 83-80 when Red Raider coach Gerald Myers drew a double-technical foul for protesting the officiating.

Foward march for Forsan

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
 Sports Editor
 "Fiddler on the Roof" had tradition. The Kennedy family has tradition. The Mojo of Odessa is tradition. And let's not forget the tradition of Forsan High School.
 Although the fame of the Forsan Buffalo Queen basketball team may not extend too far away from the South Plains area, coach Ronnie Taylor and his girls are hoping to enlighten more folks around the state on their excellence inside the gymnasium.
 Forsan has already achieved its third consecutive 20-victory season under Taylor and notched at least a district playoff spot. Seagraves sneaked up on Forsan and defeated the Buffalo Queens 51-49 in overtime in the opening game of the second half after the Queens compiled a spotless 6-0 first half record.

Karla Cregar is the point guard and although she doesn't do much scoring, her ballhandling makes the offense go.
 "Karla does a real good job," says Taylor. "She's been one of our scorers in the past but moving to guard, she's limited. She's adapted to the role well, though."

The pride of Forsan is its defense and that centers around senior Joni Poyner. "She's our main cog in our defense. She's quick and hustles all the time. Joni is real important to our ballclub," praises Taylor.

Rounding out the starting unit are juniors Teresa White and Vicki Baggett. Baggett is second on the team in scoring with a 9.0 average. After Gaskins, Taylor points out, the scoring is equally balanced among the other four starters to give the team a 51.5 average each game.

On those nights when the offense bogs down, Taylor can look to his defense to keep the Queens in the game.

"We press up the floor and run a half-court pressure defense," explains Taylor. "That's what we pride ourselves on ... our defense. We've held our opponents to 34.8 points a game."

Forsan runs the whole game, fastbreaking to the opposite end of the court after a rebound. Taylor adds that his team's style proves that girls can play non-stop basketball for four quarters despite accusations from critics of the five-man game that they could not.

Among the highlights of the year have been a team championship at the Garden City tourney, a defeat of Robert Lee (22-2), two wins over Klondike which has lost just three and the first half title in District 5-AA.

"This team is a little different from what I've had in the past," Taylor says. "We weren't supposed to be real strong this year but we won our first 10 games."

Taylor was 25-7 in his first year and 26-4 last year when Forsan lost by two points to New Deal in the regional finals.

This year he hopes to take his team a step further — a trip to Austin for the Class AA state tournament. That he hopes to make a new tradition at Forsan High School.

San Diego clips Mavs 113-106

DALLAS (AP) — San Diego Clipper coach Paul Silas overhauled his offense against the Dallas Mavericks and started a center — Joe Bryant — who had never played the position before.

It worked. Bryant, normally a forward, scored 32 points, 20 of them in the second half, and grabbed nine rebounds to rally the Clippers from a 10-point deficit for Wednesday night's 113-106 National Basketball Association win over the Mavericks.

"We were short-handed and outmanned, but got a major contribution from Joe Bryant," said guard Phil Smith, who aided the Clipper cause with 20 points, 14 of them in the second half.

"Bryant played well in the high post," Silas added while discussing the Clippers' second-half resurgence. "We started going to the open man instead of shooting over people. Dallas did not execute well in the second half and we doubled up well on defense."

Silas' use of Bryant was not a premeditated piece of strategy — it was made necessary when none of the three regular centers could suit up. Sven Nater is on injured reserve, Jerome Whitehead sat out the game with an injured right wrist and rookie Tom Chambers had flown home earlier in the day because of an illness in his family.

"Bryant had a fantastic game playing out of his normal position," said Dallas coach Dick Motta, who drew his third ejection of the year in the second half when he protested the officiating too vigorously.

"It was almost like a circus out there," said Motta wryly of his departure. "I forgot my popcorn and peanuts so I thought I would come back to the dressing room and get them."

Dallas center Wayne Cooper, who set a club record with 19 rebounds, said, "Bryant was a little too quick for me. I know he has played guard in this league before so I knew he could do things away from the basket."

Rookie forward Jay Vincent led Dallas with 25 points.

San Diego posted only its fifth road victory of the year in improving to a 14-31 season mark. Dallas slid to 13-31.

College Basketball Roundup

Sampson topples Carolina

Steve Stipanovich, Jon Sundvold and Ricky Frazier combined for 37 points, leading Missouri over Colorado. Stipanovich scored 14 points, Sundvold added 12 and Frazier had 11 as Missouri gained its 19th straight victory this season and its 29th consecutive at home. Both streaks are Missouri records.

Othell Wilson and Ralph Sampson led Virginia to a 17-point lead early in the second half and the Cavaliers held off two North Carolina rallies to beat the Tar Heels.

Wilson scored 20 points and Sampson added 18 as the Cavaliers took over the Atlantic Coast Conference lead and avenged their only defeat in 22 games overall. It was only the second loss in 18 starts for North Carolina, which had beaten Virginia 65-60 less than a month ago at Chapel Hill.

Terry Cummings scored a game-high 17 points, including a tip-in at the end of the overtime period, to help DePaul beat St. Joseph's. With the score tied at 44 and only seconds remaining in the overtime, Kenny Patterson put up a 20-footer. The ball kicked off the rim to teammate Jerry McMillan, whose 15-footer from the left side missed the iron, but Cummings came up with the air ball and banked in the layup at the buzzer.

Alabama, playing without flu-stricken senior forward Eddie Phillips, survived a scare from Mississippi State and used a four-corner offense to beat the Bulldogs. The Crimson Tide got balanced scoring from its starters, led by Phillip Lockett with 17.

Second Ten
 Sophomore guard Denard Holmes moved into injured forward Mike Wacker's spot and scored 22 points as Texas defeated SMU. The victory improved Texas' record to 15-3 and halted a three-game losing streak that began when Wacker, a 6-foot-9 sophomore and the team's second-leading scorer and rebounder, went out for the season with a knee injury.

Freshman Adrian Branch scored seven of Maryland's final nine points in the last 45 seconds as the Terps upset Wake Forest. Branch made one of two foul shots with 45 seconds remaining to give the Terps a 53-50 lead and then rammed home a dunk shot on a pass from Herman Veal with 31 seconds left to make it 55-50. He added two more free throws in a one-and-one situation before Danny Young hit a field goal for the Demon Deacons. Fouled again, Branch made two free throws with 13 seconds left and finished with 20 points.

TCU win streak at four

 "Certainly the technical was a big difference because it came at a crucial time," said Baylor coach Jim Haller. Davis was whistled for gripping about the officiating and Teagle converted both free shots.

But the hot topic was the lights—or lack thereof—in a coliseum notorious around the loop for dim lighting even when all the lamps are burning. Even after power was restored, only 40 percent of the coliseum's vapor lights came back on, with Metcalf claiming his team's end of the floor was completely unplayable.

Head official Lynn Shortnacy, after conferring by telephone with SWC Commissioner Cliff Speegle, ordered the Aggies to play the second half.

"It will be a forfeit game, coach, if you don't get your team on the floor," Shortnacy said.

Ironically, one minute into the second half, all the lights in the stadium suddenly and inexplicably ignited.

"I bet he (Speegle) is mad we woke him up," Metcalf said.

The loss dropped the Aggies, 6-3, into a second-place tie with Texas and TCU. Arkansas, which was idle, backed into first place with a 6-2 mark.

TCU won its fourth straight SWC game when Darrell Browder drove the length of the floor and canned an 18-foot jumper against Rice.

"It was just a typical game for us," deadpanned Horned Frog coach Jim Killingsworth.

Tech coach Gerald Myers ran onto the court in the Houston game when his Vince Taylor drove the lane and drew some Cougar elbows, but no foul call late in the close game.

He was handed a double-technical foul, Rob Williams hit all four shots and the Cougars won it by three.

"The officials definitely decided the game," Myers grumped. "I got the technical fouls because the kid on defense made contact and the officials didn't make the call."

Golden Bear renews enthusiasm

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus comes into one of his favorite tournaments with renewed enthusiasm and, according to Nicklaus, with his game in better shape than in years.

"I'm in better shape for the Crosby than I have been for years," Nicklaus said before teeing off today in the first round of the 41st Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, an event he has won three times.

"That relates to the shape of my golf game," continued Nicklaus, now 42 and holder of a record 17 major professional championships.

"I had to get my golf game in shape for South Africa. That was early in the year. And I played very well there. I played well last week.

"Now, I'm coming here, instead of coming off a mid-winter break, I'm coming in with a couple of weeks of golf behind me. I'm anxious to play."

And he's anxious to win.

"I'd love to get one or two wins under my belt before August."

Dolly's brother trades hair-styling for music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For the past couple of years, Randy Parton has wanted to do something for his big sister Dolly — style her hair.

Parton, who is about eight years younger than his famous sister, spent 15 months studying to become a hairdresser, and then styled hair professionally for a year.

"If you're asking if I'd like to do her hair, yes I'd like to style it," Parton, 27, said in an interview.

But there are three problems: 1. Miss Parton, a singer-actress, nearly always wears a wig, which has become one of her trademarks. 2. She's had a personal hair stylist for 15 years. 3. Little brother Randy has decided on a music career of his own, giving up the scissors and hot-air blower for his bass guitar and recording sessions.

Randy Parton, the eighth of 12 Parton siblings (Dolly was the fourth), has had three moderate country music hits during the past year — "Hold Me (Like You Never Had Me)," "Shot Full of Love" and "Don't Cry Baby."

Parton is one of the few people who have seen Miss Parton's real hair, which he said is blond like his.

"But she keeps it blended with her wigs," he said. Speaking as a professional hairdresser, he said he thinks the wigs are vital to her image of flamboyance and flash.

"Taking away her wigs would be like taking away the gaudy clothes of Elton John or Liberace," he said.

Parton, who was born in the Smoky Mountains and still has a mountain accent, said Dolly has helped him, but that he has still carved out a career mostly on his own initiative.

"I've gotten help from Dolly — she's very supportive," he said. "Some people may think I've gotten special treatment because I'm Dolly Parton's brother, but I've gotten in a van at 2 in the morning with five guys I've never seen before to go play someplace on the road, too."

Parton said he still bristles at media reports in the mid-1970s that Miss Parton had fired family members, including him, as her band and replaced them with musicians more accustomed to playing pop music.

"She has band changes all the time because she's off the road for eight to 10 months and has to find new ones," he said. Some of her relatives, he said, made their own decision not to return to the band. Parton himself continues to play off-and-on in her band.

"There's no animosity," he said. "We're all real close." Parton, a backup singer on his sister's hits "It's All I Can Do" and "Old Flames," said Miss Parton became a superstar because of charismatic talent.

"She writes great songs and she's blessed with charisma. Dolly's got it, Johnny Cash has got it and Elvis Presley had it," Parton said. "There are a lot of talented people, but Dolly has that something extra."

And he said he liked her in her acting debut in "9 to 5" with Jane Fonda and Lily Tomlin.

"She was excellent for her first time. Of course she had good company with Jane and Lily," Parton said. "It was a good, entertaining, family show."

4 Braniff VPs terminated

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International Corp. has terminated four of its vice presidents and at least 117 sales personnel and is closing ticket offices in 20 cities.

The cutbacks, designed to reduce the cost of operating the troubled airline, were announced Tuesday by President Howard Putnam.

The airline said other Braniff officers will assume the responsibilities of the four vice presidents. Losing their jobs were David Cummings, vice president-marketing planning; Donald Fraser, vice president-international; John Richard, staff vice president-field sales, and Raymond Chanaud, staff vice president-public relations.

The airline also is implementing a major reorganization of its sales operations by closing most of its sales offices that serve large commercial accounts and travel agents. Sales offices will remain open in Dallas, Houston, Seattle, New York and Miami and other, unspecified cities.

The latest reductions, combined with other layoffs since last summer, made the workforce a third smaller than the 15,000 on the payroll two years ago.

For the first nine months of 1981, Braniff had a net loss of $85 million. The carrier's 39 lenders, who hold $722 million in long-term debt and equipment obligations, agreed last month to extend a debt and interest payment forgiveness.

Bond posted by teen girl

Kathy V. Wells, 17, was out on $20,000 bond Wednesday, according to Howard County sheriff's office records. Wells, of Gail Route in Big Spring, is charged with burglary.

Bond was set by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin with bond posted by Basden & Conway.

Sheriff's deputies also arrested two persons for issuance of bad checks who were released after posting bond. Jay Morren, 24, who listed his address as Motel 6, posted $300 bond while Michael E. Jones, 26, of 506 Nolan, was released on a $500 personal recognizance bond.

Chubby Checker is hospitalized

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Singer Chubby Checker was in serious condition at a hospital early today, suffering from an undisclosed ailment, hospital officials said.

Checker, 40, was admitted Tuesday night to the Boone Hospital Center under his legal name, Ernest Evans, after he canceled an appearance at a local nightclub.

The club said Checker began preparing for two shows Tuesday evening, but left after a short time. He later canceled the shows, citing health reasons, the club said. Hospital officials would not comment on the nature of his illness.

Checker gained fame in the early 1960s for launching the dance craze called "The Twist."

BOSS OF THE YEAR — Dorothy Ragsdale, center, owner of Skipper Travel, was named Boss of the Year by the Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association Tuesday evening. Nominating Mrs. Ragsdale for the award were Rose Thomas, left, and Mary Ann Davis, right. The award was presented at a dinner meeting of the chapter held at the Brass Nail Restaurant.

Dorothy Ragsdale is named ABWA's Boss of the Year

By TINA MILLER
Staff Writer

Dorothy Ragsdale, owner of Skipper Travel, was named Boss of the Year Tuesday evening at the annual Boss Night of Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association. The event took place at the Brass Nail Restaurant.

Mrs. Ragsdale was presented the award by Gene Grisham, 1981 Boss of the Year. She was nominated by Rose Thomas and Mary Ann Davis, two of her employees. In their letter of nomination, the women said Mrs. Ragsdale "treats her employees as total people."

Audrey Wilson, president, presided over the meeting. Bosses of many of the chapter's members were present for the event.

Guest speaker for the evening was Larry Don Shaw, state representative of the 63rd District. Shaw spoke about the role of women in government, saying, "This was an exciting year (for women) in Austin." He said that people in Austin are respected according to their ability regardless of their race or sex.

Shaw also related his impressions of his first term in office. "Freshmen are to be seen and not heard, to some extent," he said. Many freshmen were nervous about being in Austin, Shaw said, because they found themselves elected and were not sure exactly what to do.

Pressure from other representatives is often intense, he said.

"You have to be able to work with the system," he said. To be effective, he said it was necessary to work, read and study harder than most considered necessary.

Each representative must make important choices, Shaw said. In order to get legislation passed to benefit their own district, often the representatives must cast votes for bills they do not believe are good or necessary.

"We are far from reaching our potential as a people he said, "and we must change or stagnate." Shaw said his term had educated him "in ways I never dreamed of."

Woman hurt in car accident 'stable'

Tina McDaniel, 19, is listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit at Odessa Medical Center Hospital. Mrs. McDaniel of 108 E. 15th, received head injuries in an accident Friday on the Snyder Highway. Her husband, Nolan Michael McDaniel, and infant son, Kenny, died as a result of injuries received.

According to Mark Cranford, an EMT with Shaffer Ambulance Service, the infant and his mother were taken to Malone-Hogan emergency room about 8:33 p.m. Friday. The infant died about 9:15 p.m.

McDaniel was taken to Malone-Hogan in a separate ambulance unit called to the scene. He died Saturday.

Yoga classes

to begin Feb. 9

Yoga is an extraordinary journey and the destination is within yourself. There are many benefits that come along with the adventurous journey.

To mention just a few of the benefits of the practice and experience of Yoga, there is the toning and strengthening of muscles, increased flexibility and agility of your movements, a deeper sense of awareness and understanding regarding your thoughts, feelings, and action and increased confidence and balance throughout your physical, mental and emotional states of being.

It has been said that Yoga is a "cure-all." The basis for this statement is that there is not one area of your physical or mental makeup that the practice of Yoga is not able to touch or effect.

Yoga is truly an upbuilding and explorational journey into yourself. The vehicles of transportation are methods of stretching, moving, breathing, and relaxation that you yourself learn to apply.

New classes begin Tuesday, Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

Furniture rip-offs?

Victims warn of truck bearing 'good deals'

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

On the surface, it looked like a good deal: a $5,500 dining room set could be theirs for just $2,300.

But a bargain this was not, and when Reggie and Fran Smith (not their real names) found out they'd paid $1,000 more for the set than they should have, they confronted the company which sold the furniture and demanded a refund.

The Smiths (who requested anonymity due to fear of reprisals) were lucky. Scores of other Big Spring families have fallen for the same furniture scheme and wound up paying far more for furniture than they would have had they done business with honest merchants.

The families have fallen prey to an apparently unconnected group of furniture dealers selling off the back of their trucks — dealers who are alleged to have sold furniture without obtaining the necessary permits, to have sold furniture far above the normal retail price to unsuspecting customers, to have passed off average-quality furniture as furniture with status-bearing brand names.

For the Smiths, the furniture scam developed late last Wednesday afternoon. A friend called Mrs. Smith and told her two men in a truck were parked outside the friend's business establishment. The men, the friend said, were selling a recliner the friend knew Mrs. Smith wanted for her home. The price? Just $188. Mrs. Smith was stunned — she knew they went for about $400.

So she had the men drive over, and when they got to the Smith residence the pair began to show off what they had in back of the truck. Mrs. Smith's eye was caught by the price tag on the dining room set.

"They said it retailed at $5,500. They were selling it to us for $2,300," she said.

It wasn't until a day or so later that she realized she had been had.

"I wanted a server that goes with the set," she recalled. But when she called the North Carolina company whose name was on the receipt, "I found the price was nowhere near what I expected it to be."

She called the company on Friday, called back on Monday and talked to a "higher-up," who explained that the truck driver had charged the Smiths $1,000 more for the dining room set than he should have.

The official, she said, promised to refund the $1,000 and yesterday the Smiths got their money back.

"They did me right," she said in an interview with The Herald this morning. "I got my money back."

Even so, she said, people need to be wary of the type of scheme she fell for.

"(The drivers) said they were two days late for a delivery in Dallas and the furniture store there turned down the delivery. They had a pickup to make in El Paso and the truck had to be empty when they got there, so they had to unload the furniture somewhere."

Similar stories have been told by other out-of-town furniture dealers selling right off their trucks in Big Spring, according to the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin. The BBB met with several area furniture merchants and police officials in the office of the local chamber of commerce yesterday to discuss the problem, which has occurred sporadically over the past year but seems to have worsened in the last month.

There doesn't seem to be much people can do except be wary.

"Our recommendation is that you don't purchase anything off a truck unless you determine the dealer has a license," said Carl Trim, president of the area BBB. "And then I would do some comparative shopping with merchants."

"My advice," said Mrs. Smith, "is if you bought the more expensive pieces, do what I did: you just have to go in and give the company the benefit of the doubt. You have to believe it was the driver's fault and hope the company will give you a refund."

"We came out even — that's all you can ask for."

Foreclosure push denied

Farmers to get advice to pay delinquent debts

By PHIL SWANN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Farmers Home Administration head Charles Shuman last August wrote a memorandum, leaked Tuesday by the American Agriculture Movement, which sets a March 31 goal for the "elimination" of almost 25 percent of the nation's delinquent FmHA loans, including 2,359 in Texas.

According to the AAM, the FmHA plans to begin widespread foreclosures.

Shuman confirmed the Aug. 25 memorandum is authentic. But he said the FmHA hopes to "eliminate" the delinquent loans by helping farmers improve management so they can meet the payments and not foreclose.

"There's no way we are going to start foreclosing," Shuman said Tuesday. "No way. No way ... we're just going to get involved in the (farmer's) operation to ensure he is successful."

He said there are no plans now to reduce funds to states with high delinquency rates, but that such a move is possible in 1983.

There are about 10,000 delinquent FmHA loans in Texas, more than any state, according to the FmHA.

David Senter, legislative director of the AAM, countered that the FmHA now is backing off from plans to increase foreclosures because "they got caught. He (Shuman) is going to love us, ain't he?"

Senter said the organization received the memorandum from an unidentified South Dakota attorney and is releasing it now after proving its authenticity.

The memorandum, addressed to state FmHA directors, emphasized that farmers with delinquent loans should receive management counseling to help them make payments.

"If FmHA does not start supervising and servicing loans ... FmHA losses could be tremendous," Shuman wrote.

But the letter also complained that FmHA loans have hit a record high, $50.9 billion, and the government cannot afford the growing delinquency rate. There are about $2 billion in delinquent FmHA loans.

"FmHA has had a ... high degree of reliability in not only reaching the loan objectives with borrowers but protecting the security interest of the government," the memorandum said.

Shuman said that foreclosure is still an option to reduce farm delinquencies.

"Any lender has to reserve the right to make that final step," Shuman said. "But it's a last resort."

The FmHA director said it is unlikely his agency will meet its March 31 delinquency reduction goal.

Futch was unavailable for comment Tuesday but a spokesman for his office said there is no move to increase foreclosures in the state.

He is now serving as director of the YMCA board, the Howard County Fair Association, and the Texas A&M Club.

He is married to the former Jan Webb, daughter of Mrs. Hollis Webb. The Foresyths have two children, Jacklyn, 22, and Jana, 20.

The family resides at 801 Marcy Drive. Mr. Foresyth is a member of First United Methodist Church where he has served on the church's board of directors.

Hearing set for Feb. 25 in $109,102 civil suit

A hearing has been set for Feb. 25 in 118th District Court in the $109,102 civil case a Dallas company has brought against Oilfield Industrial Lines in Big Spring.

Bob Chastain, Inc. of Dallas, through its attorney Addison Wilson III, filed a motion for summary judgment on Jan. 25. Basically, a summary judgment motion claims the facts in a case are unarguably plain so that the case should be summarized and settled. If the hearing finds the facts in favor of Chastain, Inc., the motion states the damages should be awarded then.

The suit was brought against O.I.L. on Dec. 18, alleging a breach of contract on O.I.L.'s part stemming from a May 27 incident when the plaintiff (Chastain) expected payment of a commission.

O.I.L.'s original answer to the suit on Jan. 7 from its attorney, Richard C. Milstead of Big Spring, denied all allegations of the suit.

District Judge Jim Gregg set the hearing for the summary judgment at 9 a.m. Feb. 25.

Crime Stoppers to pay reward

Two men foil oilfield burglary

Two witnesses who interrupted a Forsan oilfield burglary will receive a $500 reward authorized Tuesday by Crime Stoppers, Inc.

The reward is the first to be paid by Crime Stoppers which was organized late in 1981.

The burglary occurred last Dec. 21 at the Exxon Oil Co. production office and warehouse at Forsan, according to A.N. Standard, Howard County Sheriff.

About 7:22 p.m. the two witnesses saw a vehicle parked in the fenced compound with its trunk open. They also saw a broken lock on the gate.

The two men watched, they saw a man enter the car and drive out of the compound. The witnesses pursued the vehicle several miles over oilfield roads and obtained the make, model and color of the vehicle, the license plate number, and a description of the driver.

They then called the sheriff's office and told deputies which direction the vehicle was traveling. Sheriff's officers apprehended the suspect a short time later on F.M. 821 near Interstate 20.

Deputies found several hundred dollars worth of equipment in the car including equipment that later was identified as missing from a Mitchell County oilfield earlier that evening.

Standard identified the suspect as Jim Bob Weatherford of Lubbock who was charged with burglary. He was indicted by the Howard County Grand Jury on Jan. 21.

The Crime Stoppers board was particularly impressed with the thoroughness of the information provided by the two witnesses and the risk they took to obtain it, said Tom Watson, Crime Stoppers president.

Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that leads to an arrest and indictment in any felony crime. Informants may remain anonymous if they wish and will be given a code number to use for further information and for identification in paying rewards.

The Crime Stoppers hotline telephone number is 263-1151. It is manned from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

As she was searched at the police station she was additionally charged with possession of a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia, according to police reports.

A .243-caliber rifle worth $268 was reported stolen at about 6 p.m.

yesterday by Robert Moore, who told police the gun was stolen from his automobile while it was parked at his residence.

A forged check for $100 recently was passed by an unknown person at the College Park Safeway, according to police reports.

Police said they arrested James Wayne at the Gregg Safeway at 7:20 p.m. yesterday on charges of public intoxication and theft after he allegedly stole a carton of cigarettes.

Dr. J.R. Fish of 606 Hillside told police his Oldsmobile automobile was parked in the 200 block of East Seventh yesterday afternoon when a tire and the roof of the car were slashed.

Newtons visit sons

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Newton, 1212 Lloyd Ave., recently visited their son, David Newton, his wife Connie and their sons, David and Jack, at their home in Whitehouse, a suburb of Tyler.

David Newton teaches American history and sociology at Robert E. Lee High School, Tyler. He was chosen model teacher of the Year for the 1980-1981 school year. Both degrees are from Stephen F. Austin University, Nacogdoches.

Connie Newton teaches at Gary Elementary School, Tyler.

Also visiting were the local Newton's other son, Jeff, wife Julie and son Paul, from Alcedo.

Bealls schedules opening

The Bealls Department store chain is observing 59 years of business this year, having been founded in 1923 by three brothers, Archie, Willie and Robbie Beall. Their first store was in Henderson, Texas. Their newest store will be opening in Big Spring Feb. 10.

For many years, Bealls was primarily a small east Texas chain selling only dry goods and shoes. In the late 50's, expansion to all corners of that state began with the average size store much larger than previous. The 60's and 70's saw the most rapid expansion of the company with numerous new units in Texas and a move into Oklahoma. At the end of the 70's, ninety-six stores were in operation.

Although there is an 'a' in the company name, Bealls is pronounced Bells.

The 'a' is silent. The name has been spelled and pronounced this way through family generations. Some confusion exist in new areas where the company is not known.

In 59 years of operations, three presidents have headed the organization. W.F. "Willie" Beall, R.G. "Bob" Beall and Royce Beall.

Operational headquarters are in Jacksonville, Texas, where the home office has been since the mid 30's. Along with Buying, Accounting, Credit, Advertising, Data Processing and numerous other daily operations, a complete warehouse for distribution of goods is maintained. A Ready-To-Wear buying office is also operated in Dallas.

Today's Bealls features nationally advertised name brands and new stores have cosmetics, better jewelry and gift departments, along with regular soft goods departments. Store fixturing is new and modern with eye-pleasing decor and an open look throughout.

Bealls presently operates 116 stores. Texas stores are in Henderson, Nacogdoches, Mt. Pleasant, Longview (3 stores), Kingsville, Gilmer, Jacksonville, Paris, Center, Kilgore, Lufkin, Greenville, Sulphur Springs, Marshall, Beaumont (4 stores), Conroe, Baytown (2 stores), Stephenville, Bryan, Sherman, San Antonio (5 stores), Weslaco, Eagle Pass, Bay City, League City, Killean, McKinney, Laredo (2 stores), Victoria (2 stores), Corpus Christi (4 stores), Seguin, Austin (6 stores), Lake Jackson, Orange, Athens, Silsbee, Denton, Del Rio, Brownwood, Denison, Temple, Harlingen, Corsicana, Alice.

Extra funds for jobless may reopen TEC offices

By DIANE BALLARD
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — About 50 of the 71 Texas employment offices scheduled to close may be reopened if Congress quickly restores $243 million to job placement programs as the president has requested, state Employment Commission officials said Tuesday.

President Reagan announced his support Monday for reinstating money from a 12-percent federal cut in employment program funding made in December. That reduction has evoked an outcry from many states, including Texas.

The president Tuesday ordered all state employment agencies to stop their planned closures until Congress acts on restoring funds to the employment program, according to an Associated Press story.

In Texas, about 65 offices have closed as of Monday, TEC officials said, thus, Reagan's order would stop closure of only about 6 offices.

The president's reversal surprised Texas commissioners, who hope that the restoration will keep on the payroll 500 employees who were scheduled to be cut by the end of the month.

Even if the 12-percent cut is reversed, however, it will not be an even trade for Texas.

The cost of negotiating new leases and reinstalling equipment and telephones will not allow the agency to reopen all 71 offices, said Ernie Tullis, commission administrator.

"There will have to be quite a bit of funds expended," Tullis said. "It will be difficult to get back with some of the landlords," he said. "They may already have negotiated a new lease."

The commission expects from $11 million to $17 million to be restored to Texas if the budget proposal passes.

About 96 percent of that money would go into job placement and the rest for the unemployment insurance program, said Jim Hine, commission assistant administrator.

U.S. House Democrats also have proposed adding an extra $1.9 billion to the unemployment insurance program because of rising unemployment. But Texas may get only a small share of the extra money, Hine said.

"We expect the bulk of that to go to high unemployment areas in the northern states," he said.

Texas may need whatever it can get because, as with the rest of the country, unemployment here is rising rapidly, agency statistics show.

Unemployment insurance claims filed during the week ending Jan. 23, 1982, are 72.9 percent higher than during the week ending Jan. 24, 1981, according to a report by Jim Jackson, director of the state unemployment insurance program.

During that week this year, 13,203 claims were filed, compared with 7,638 for the same 1981 period, the report shows.

Bush's armored limousine struck by 'unknown object'

WASHINGTON (AP) — An armored limousine carrying Vice President George Bush to work was struck early today by an unknown object — almost certainly a rock, according to the FBI. No one was injured and it was unknown where the rock came from.

Ron Dervish, a spokesman for the FBI, said, "It appears that a rock hit the car." The dented car was examined by technicians and "they are 90 to 99 percent sure it was a rock."

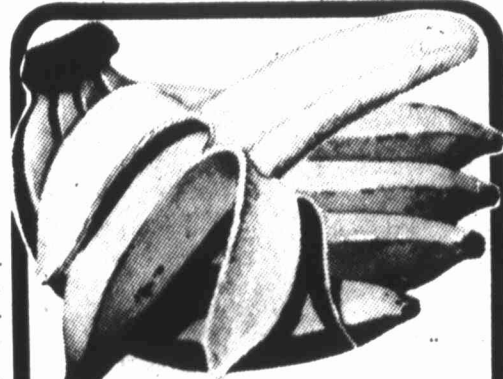

But he did not know how it happened. "The rock might have been thrown or picked up by another car," he said.

Secret Service spokesman Jim Boyle said agents had not found "anything at this time to indicate there was a bullet involved."

He said the car could have been hit by a rock. District of Columbia police spokesman Joseph Gentile said police "still don't know" what hit Bush's car.

Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said the motorcade proceeded to the White House, where Bush went to his office and took part in what an aide called a "routine meeting."

Warner said agents and experts were "going over the car." Speculation is that it was a gunshot, but we have not definitively concluded that.

Kimberly West installed

Kimberly Ann West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard West, 2703 Clanton, was installed as worthy Advisor of Big Spring Assembly No. 60, Order of the Rainbow for Girls Saturday. The installation took place at 7 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Miss West dedicated her term to her mother and father. She chose as her theme "Peace and Love" and named II Corinthians 13:11 as her scripture. Her poem, "Where There is Love," was read by Mrs. Eddie Fryar, and her song, "Peace in the Valley," was sung by Jean Knox accompanied by Anne Thomas.

Her colors were blue and white, her flower was the blue tiger lily, and her symbol was the dove.

Mrs. West presented her daughter with a Rainbow Bible. Gordon Myrick, James Potter and C.E. Russell presented their daughters Keri, Amy Dwire and Jence Shaughnessy, respectively, with gavels.

Amy Smith was installing officer and Jean Knox was installing marshal. Others were Anne Thomas, installing musician; Rhonda Woodall, installing recorder; and Ronda Beene, installing chaplain.

Doug Morris, youth director of 14th and Main Church of Christ, presented the message. Charlie Clay voiced the benediction.

Following the ceremony, Miss West was honored with a reception. Laura Beene and Shana Brasel registered guests.

The table was covered in blue cloth overlaid with white lace. A candelabrum circled by blue tiger lilies centered the table and a cake, topped by doves was served.

Serving were Mrs. Christine Riordan, Susan Thomas, Mrs. Leona Thompson and Charlie Clay.

Officers that will serve with Miss West include Jence Shaughnessy, worthy associate advisor; Amy Dwire, charity; Keri Myrick, hope; Kim Blount, faith; Anne Thomas, recorder; and Ronda Beene, treasurer.

Others include Shelly Brasel, chaplain; Christy Moore, drill leader; Jami Norwood, love; Natalie Cunningham, religion; Denise Vigus, nature; Keri Murphy, immortality; Michele Wilson, fidelity; and Jana Whitehead, service.

Completing the list are Dana Anderson, confidential observer; Diane Crocker, outer observer; Holly Parham, musician; and Sherry Keller, choir director.

The Rainbow Girls will attend 10 a.m. Services at 14th and Main Church of Christ today.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 9 at 7 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Book donations welcome

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

Inventory has been completed. It was a big job but well worth it because now we know what we need to repair, replace and discard. As we went through the library collection we found books that were out of date, seldom used, and in bad condition. These books have been withdrawn and added to the book sale collection.

The book sale sponsored by the Friends of the Library last fall was very successful. The book buyers loved the bargains and many left with boxes and bags full of books...and big smiles. Those of us who worked on the sale enjoyed seeing so many happy readers.

So with all the enjoyment engendered by the previous sale, the Friends are looking forward to holding another book sale this spring.

While we have added substantially to the books already in the book sale rooms, we welcome any new contributions provided by Howard County residents.

As you clean closets and book shelves, you may decide you have no further use for some of your books. If that is the case, we would appreciate your contributions of those books. When books are donated to the library (whether they are fiction, juvenile, non-fiction or paperbacks) we check to see whether they can be added to our collection.

If they cannot they are put in the book sale room. If you donate books or magazines, and wish a letter of acknowledgement for tax purposes for instance, please provide a list of items with your name, address, phone number, and date.

The book drop may be used for book donations as well as the return of books 24 hours a day.

The Friends group has set aside money earned at the last book sale for a word processor or microcomputer. A word processor would facilitate preparation of catalog cards. We have many new books now on the shelves with no corresponding cards in the card catalog because their preparation is such a lengthy process.

One book may have as many as ten or twelve catalog cards. For instance, Diet For Life has cards under Diet, Nutrition, Reducing diets, Low-fat diets, and Salt-free diets subject headings as well as the author and title cards. A word processor would speed up preparation of those cards so that patrons would be able to find the new books as readily as the older ones already in the card catalog.

So think of us as you decide what to do with books you no longer need...perhaps they can help us get that much needed word processor!

Puppeteers to present 'Peter and the Wolf'

Bringing puppets to life is no easy task. Just ask Kelly Draper and his band of puppeteers.

Draper and a group from Big Spring will be in Tyler Feb. 5 for a performance with the East Texas Symphony.

The group includes Cecelia McKenzie, Carolyn Withuhn, Crystal Dean, and Shannon Mullen. Together the group will present a puppeteers' version of

"Peter and the Wolf" with the aid of the East Texas Symphony.

The group has done similar performances of "Peter and the Wolf" with the Midland-Odessa Symphony, in Big Spring, Midland and Odessa.

To stage a puppet show, Draper and his puppeteers must wear heavy knee-pads and scurry around behind a curtain, holding the puppets over their heads.

Anyone who's painted the ceiling with a roller can relate to the feeling the puppeteers get after holding the puppets up over their heads for an extended period of time.

But the group seems to have fun as they weave out the story of "Peter and the Wolf."

Puppetry is something Draper has been involved in "for 10 to 12 years. I'm a member of the Puppeteers of America, a national organization, and UNIMA, an international organization of puppeteers."

He got his start in puppetry years ago when his parents purchased a pair of puppets from a group at the family's church. Since that time, he has collected more than 150 puppets, some of which he made himself.

Beginning Squares graduate

Big Spring Squares will graduate the 1981-1982 class of Beginning Square Dancers this evening at 7 p.m. The event will take place at the Square Corral on Chapparral Road. Randy Phillips, Abilene, will conduct the ceremonies, and last year's graduates are in charge of the activities.

Vernon Jones, son of Jon Jones, well-known square dance caller, will call the Anniversary Dance for the Squares Saturday. The event begins at 8 p.m. at Square Corral.

Members also plan a special dance at the Corral March 13. Chris Vear, Lockhart, will be caller. The annual May Festival will be held May 1. Bobbie and Willis Burchett will chair the festival which will take place at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Chuck Bryant, San Antonio, will be caller.

The Squares have recently danced to the call of David Davis, Midland. Squares from Midland, Odessa, Snyder, Colorado City, Andrews and Big Spring attended. Members also attended the Permian Basin Square and Round Dance Association Dance Saturday in Odessa. Teen Twisters hosted the dance and Sleepy Browning, Jayton, was caller.

The Squares would like to offer beginning square dance lessons beginning in late February if enough persons are interested. For more information, call D.W. Overman, 267-8437, or Walter Alexander, 263-1404.

Older means happier

Older is happier. That's what writer Gail Sheehy discovered through her unique Life History Survey, answered by over 60,000 people.

"Consistently, in every sample of my survey, those with the highest well-being...were most likely to be older people." Women in their 40's are much happier than they expected to be, says Ms. Sheehy in the magazine. Except for marital strains, they present their lives as relatively free of serious problems, and are less likely to be depressed than women 10 to 20 years younger.

According to the survey, life satisfaction gradually rises on the women's happiness graphs through the mid-50's. Then, around age 57, "it takes off and soars," Ms. Sheehy notes in the magazine. One reason for this new-found happiness, she says, is that the issue of trying too hard to please others is overcome between the mid-50's and 64.

For many men, says the Family Circle feature, a takeoff into high satisfaction also occurs in the late 50's, rises in the early part of the 60's and, for a considerable number of years, levels off beyond that on a high plateau.

Wooring and Weddings is chapter program

Mrs. Jack Lipscombe presented a program on "Wooring and Weddings," by Sharon B. Cosner at a meeting Saturday of the Colonial Dames of the 17th Century, Richard Hubbell Chapter. The meeting was held at the Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. C.G. Barnett presided.

The program was about courtship and marriage when America was young. Courtship and marriage customs differed from colony to colony. The marriage institution was highly esteemed by colonies; it was a man's duty and a woman's reason for existence. Mrs. Lipscombe recounted the trials and tribulations the young swain encountered before courting the girl of his choice.

Maryland passed a tax on single men and Connecticut passed a law in 1636 making it illegal for them to live alone. A girl unwed at age 20 was referred to as "ancient virgin" or a "stale maid," who suffered continual ridicule from the male edited newspapers throughout the colonies. A young man first proposed to the parents, and if accepted, was allowed to court their daughter in a very restricted environment. Tradition and superstitions dominated every phase of the wedding preparation, even to the wedding day. Wednesday was considered the best day for a wedding as it had the word "wed" in the spelling.

Colonial life was hard. Expectant mothers had very little medical attention and few married women lived past 35, and most men remarried early after the death of a spouse. George Washington's brother was married five times before he was 47.

The next meeting of the Colonial Dames will be in April. The date will be announced at a later time.

Tidy Car will make your car look new

When the West Texas winds blow, the sand, dirt and grit can give your car a natural, but totally unwanted coat.

That's why there's Tidy Car Car Wash, located at 200 W. Second.

Tidy Car does more than give your car a good washing and cleaning, it can protect the beauty of your car's finish against the weather and whatever else can damage its looks.

It offers the Preserve-A-Shine process, an exclusive formulation that provides a protective, glass-like finish to seal out the harmful effects of oxidation, salt, snow and sun-fading.

This buffed-in process is made possible and economical because of the exclusive equipment used by the Tidy Car. It mechanically duplicates the action of the human hand, except about 250 times faster than the human hand can work.

Tidy Car can also restore the shine on older vehicles. For the inside of your car, Tidy Car offers Upholstry-Gard 2, a process that takes the worry out of pet stains, food spills and other stains on seats and rugs. The secret of the process is a special "wicking action" that surrounds every thread and fiber of your car's upholstery with a permanent protective seal.

Tidy Car does much more than just wash your car. It protects it and makes it as beautiful as it was the day you bought it.
