

Snow, arctic blast ices roads in area

By CAROL HART
Staff Writer

Area residents who saw the need to drive this morning had to battle icy roads and a gentle snowfall to get to their destination.

And for some motorists, maneuvering along the glazed streets in the city was an impossible task. Many people left their cars at the side of the road and chose instead to get to their appointed destination on foot.

At least one motorist ran into heavy trouble on the roads today. At 11 a.m., members of the Texas Highway Patrol were dispatched to mile marker 191 on Interstate 20 to investigate the turnover of a van. No details of the condition of people inside the van were available at press time. An ambulance was called.

Travelers' advisories are up from Dallas to El Paso and Lubbock to San Angelo, according to a spokeswoman at the Big Spring Police Department.

Road conditions "are really bad," she warned today.

Cloudy conditions and freezing drizzle and snow are forecast to continue through today for the Big Spring area, according to the National Weather Service.

Highs today should reach the upper 20s, with lows tonight forecast in the lower teens.

Winds today are forecast at northeasterly, 10 to 15 miles per hour. A 20 percent chance of continuing precipitation is forecast.

Big Spring saw a high of 20 degrees on Thursday. The night's low was recorded at 10 degrees. The accompanying wind chill factor saw temperatures fall to 18 degrees below zero.

The record low for Feb. 4 was set in 1956, when the city saw a high of 10 degrees.

But records were broken in several neighboring cities. Lubbock saw a low of three degrees at 2 a.m. today, breaking a record of nine set in 1923. Amarillo's low fell to five degrees below zero, breaking a record of two degrees set in 1906.

The record cold temperatures and precipitation is being attributed to a cold front pushing through Texas southward.

A check of road conditions around the state this morning shows many roads covered with a thin layer of ice. In Odessa, Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Abilene, Dallas, Amarillo and Brownwood, conditions are said to be extremely hazardous with ice forming on roads and bridges.

In Austin, motorists are contending with mist and drizzle, with bridges beginning to ice.

SLOW-DRIVING — Big Spring motorists had to take it easy today, as area roads were covered with icy glaze due to a continuous light snowfall which began Thursday. Travelers' advisories are out for the West Texas area. This photograph was shot from the U.S. 87 overpass, overlooking F.M. 700.

Buying furniture out of truck 'good deal,' Coahoman says

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

A recent spate of off-the-truck furniture sales which prompted Big Spring furniture merchants to raise a protest has generated favorable as well as unfavorable comments by customers buying from the trucks.

The Herald told the story Tuesday of a Big Spring couple who felt they had been overcharged $1,000 by a North Carolina company when it passed through town, and were able to obtain a refund in that amount from the company.

Yesterday, a Coahoma purchaser of furniture from an out-of-state truck offered a different side to the story.

Mrs. Jayne Mansfield said she bought a recliner and a sleeper sofa from a truck which had parked and opened for business on F.M. 700 one day during the last week in January.

"People have made fun of us for buying out of the truck," she said, "but we got a good deal."

She said she couldn't find anything in local stores which matched the sleeper sofa she bought for $425, but she did find a sofa that was similar which retailed for "about $500."

While she probably wouldn't have paid much more for the sleeper-sofa, Mrs. Mansfield said she felt she got the right quality of merchandise for the money she paid.

"Not all these people are illegal," said another buyer, who declined to give her name. "They help the people who can't buy expensive furniture by giving them a good deal."

It's a different problem, however, that has irked local merchants and raised the eyebrows of both the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin as well as the Texas Comptroller's Department.

The merchants held a meeting in the office of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce earlier this week and discussed the problem with BBB and comptroller's representatives.

Apparently, some of the dealers selling from trucks have not obtained sales tax permits from the state or either of two city permits which may be needed to carry out street sales.

Tom McCright, a Midland-based enforcement officer for the state Comptroller's Department, said he had the addresses of two companies in North Carolina and he was checking into whether the companies had sales tax permits for Texas. Both had made sales inside Texas, he said.

"We'll pursue this until we get some satisfaction," McCright said.

Big Spring police report that the dealers have not been obtaining itinerant merchant or door-to-door solicitation permits, which are necessary for certain kinds of sales in the city.

The itinerant merchant permit costs $100 per day and is needed by a seller who parks his truck and opens up for business, while the other permit costs $50 for the duration of the salesman's stay in Big Spring and is needed by a salesman who goes from door to door, said Capt. Claude Morris.

"I don't know of any one of them that came in and got either permit," Morris said yesterday. He added that police had been unable to make any arrests in connection with the problem.

"We can't arrest them for just driving down the street," Morris said. "We have to catch them selling to somebody, or have somebody come in and complain about a specific dealer, he said.

Many of the dealers have told customers the reason they're selling from their trucks is because they had deliveries turned down by retailers and need to unload their shipments on the return trip to their warehouse.

Local merchants are skeptical of such stories and insist reputable merchants don't do business that way.

"Any merchandise refused by a dealer is either returned to the factory or sold to another retail outlet," said Neil Moser, an Omaha-based furniture salesman who happened to be on hand when The Herald contacted Carter's Furniture on Scurry.

"I've never known a manufacturer to sell direct to the public and I've been in this business 29 years," he said.

Some of the truckside dealers are middlemen, rather than representatives of the furniture manufacturers. They're the go-between who connect wholesale warehousemen with retail dealers.

The scenario which emerged from the chamber of commerce meeting was that the drivers were selling at prices that ensured a profit after they had received orders to dump their furniture at wholesale prices somewhere along the route.

One warehouseman, who asked not to be named, said there were "no unscrupulous drivers" working for him and all his drivers were instructed to "get whatever permits are required" when they stop to do business in a city.

The North Carolina warehouseman explained why he had his drivers sell from the back of a truck: "I can sell my merchandise out there at cost, rather than haul it two times across the U.S. Even if I lose money on the sale, I make money by getting rid of (the merchandise)."

It boils down, he said, to a dispute between local merchants and out-of-towners.

"If we sell to their people, and they're selling at retail and we sell at wholesale, I can see why they'd be disturbed," he said.

Nation's unemployment rate dips unexpectedly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployment rate unexpectedly dipped slightly last month, possibly a reflection of fewer post-holiday layoffs in an economy already hit by recession, the Labor Department said today.

The national jobless rate declined at an annual rate of three-tenths of a percentage point — from 8.8 percent to 8.5 percent — as the number of people out of work fell by 270,000.

Overall, 9.2 million Americans were out of work in January as the labor force shrank by 300,000.

An analyst with the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics indicated the reversal of recent sharp rises in unemployment may have resulted from the declining business activity.

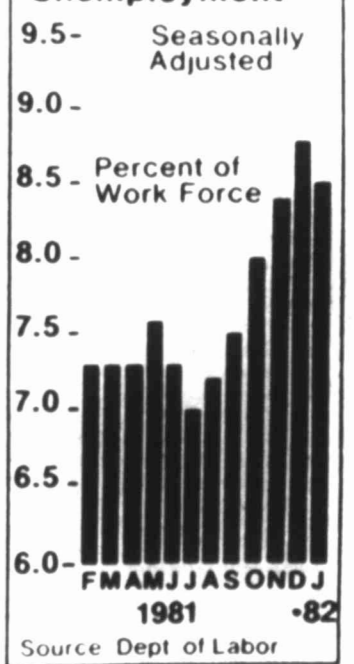

"Many of the industries that typically lay people off were so depressed they had no extra people to lay off," said Deborah Klein.

She noted that traditional rising joblessness following the Christmas holiday shopping season was reversed this year because many retail stores had not brought extra people onto the payroll.

"Because firms didn't hire as many people as they usually do in December, they didn't lay off as many," Ms. Klein said.

The department's figures for January were adjusted to take into account, for the first time, population statistics from the 1980 census and the regular year-end readjustment of unemployment figures for seasonal factors.

Unemployment

The department revised figures for all of 1981 to reflect new seasonal patterns, dropping the previously reported unemployment rate for December from 8.9 percent to 8.8 percent.

Q. Where can a person go to register to vote and how long must a person live in a town before he is eligible to vote?

A. The place to register is the tax assessor-collector's office in the Howard County courthouse. One needs to be registered and living in the county for 30 days before an election in order to be eligible to vote in that election, according to County Clerk Margaret Ray. This is true for city or county elections.

Reagan submits draft treaty to Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, striving to counter Soviet charges that it is "foot-dragging" on arms control, has submitted a formal draft treaty to Moscow on reducing medium-range nuclear weapons targeted on Europe.

President Reagan announced the proposal Thursday and called it "a major contribution to security, stability and peace."

The Soviet Union had no immediate response to the draft treaty, which was submitted Tuesday in Geneva to Soviet arms control negotiators.

The draft treaty mirrors Reagan's Nov. 18 plan to sharply reduce or eliminate medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe and was made public on the heels of complaints by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev that the United States is avoiding serious negotiations on the issue.

White House spokesman David Gergen rejected Brezhnev's allegations that the United States is using "various far-fetched pretexts" to delay arms negotiations.

"I think we wanted to make it clear that there is no official who asked not to be identified."

Hughes' 'widow' rebuffed

HOUSTON (AP) — Terry Moore, a 52-year-old actress who says she is Howard Hughes' widow, has been rebuffed a second time in her efforts to lay claim to the late billionaire's estate.

The Texas 14th Court of Civil Appeals upheld a probate judge's ruling Thursday and refused to order a jury trial to test the validity of Ms. Moore's challenge.

Last July, Probate Judge Pat Gregory threw out Ms. Moore's claim to the estate because she failed to produce a marriage license or other documents proving she is Hughes' widow.

Ms. Moore will have 15 days to ask for a re-hearing and 45 days to appeal her case to the Texas Supreme Court.

Ms. Moore could not be reached for comment, and her attorneys in Los Angeles failed to return phone calls from The Associated Press.

Hughes died April 5, 1976, aboard a medical flight from Mexico to Houston. Following an unsuccessful worldwide search for a valid will and numerous trials, Gregory declared 22 relatives as the heirs to eccentric recluse's estate, valued as high as $2 billion.

Other appeals are pending in the estate fight, including one before the U.S. Supreme Court on whether Texas or California can collect inheritance taxes.

In the appeal Ms. Moore, a Hollywood starlet in the late 1940s, claimed she secretly wed Hughes in 1949 aboard a ship sailing from California to Mexico and never divorced him.

Cubans leave Chaffee

The American Civil Liberties Union is considering action in international court against the U.S. government for violating the human rights of Cuban refugees by placing them in prisons.

Sandra Kurjiaka, executive director of the ACLU in Arkansas, said Thursday that complaints to other international groups, such as Amnesty International, have been discussed.

Beginning Jan. 23, the Justice Department sent most of the remaining 392 refugees at Fort Chaffee, Ark., to a federal prison in Atlanta and a federal prison hospital in Springfield, Mo. The last 22 went to Chicago's Metropolitan Correctional Center on Thursday, where they are to stay a month or two, a center spokesman said. A 23rd refugee went to a federal prison in Texarkana, Texas, earlier this week.

Demonstrators sentenced

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Military courts sentenced 17 workers to prison terms ranging up to seven years and 101 young demonstrators to jail terms of one to three months for rioting last weekend in Gdansk.

The stiffest of the sentences, and some of the most severe given under martial law, went to nine coal miners convicted of leading a 12-day sit-in strike by 1,000 miners at the Ziemowit coal mine in the Silesian fields.

The miners stayed in the mine after the imposition of martial law Dec. 13. They came out on Christmas Eve. PAP, the official news agency, said one of the convicted men was sentenced to seven years, another to five, one got 4 1/2 years and six received three-year terms.

Radio Warsaw reported another military court in Slupsk, a Baltic port, sentenced eight members of Solidarity, the suspended independent trade union, to prison terms ranging from one to 4 1/2 years for forming strike committees and printing anti-government leaflets. They also were fined an average of a month's pay.

The student demonstrators in Gdansk, the birthplace of Solidarity, were given speedy trials and were sentenced Thursday in an apparent effort to head off further protests against martial law.

Fifty-one youths got three months' detention, 17 two months and 33 one month, PAP said. Thirty-three others were fined between $25 and $62.

Probationer jailed Dec. 4 is released

Lester Fred Lang, 24, was released from Howard County jail Thursday after being held there without bond since Dec. 14, 1981. Lang was being held on a revocation of probation warrant. His address is 1002 N. Main.

Lang was released under authority of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, according to sheriff's office records.

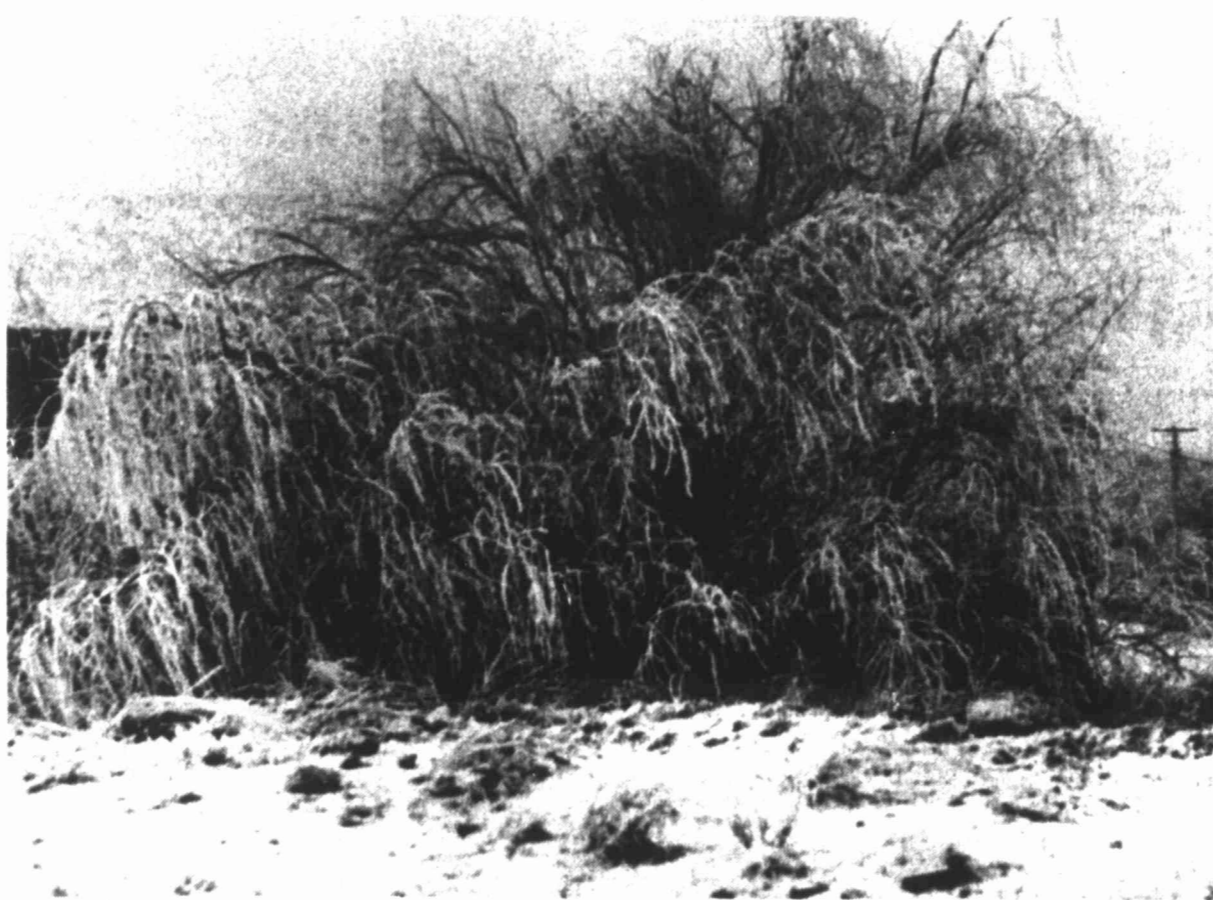

Gary Lee Willingham, 26, was released on $15,000 bond Thursday after being charged with burglary. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin. Bail for Willingham, of Gail Route, was posted by Wayne Basden and J.J. Willingham.

A continuous light snowfall blanketed roads, making driving hazardous for area residents. A 10 percent chance of continuing precipitation remains in the forecast today.

Police Beat

Glazed roads causing woes

It's the kind of weather low-truck operators love. Police reported this morning that icy city roads were causing a lot of difficulty for drivers. Four minor accidents had been reported to police by mid-morning, said Sgt. Ted Lancaster.

His advice? "Do it (drive) if you have to and don't if you don't have to."

Bruce Pitts of the OK Trailer Court told police an Atari video game and tapes were stolen from his home yesterday afternoon.

Patsy Talamantez of 212 N.E. 10th told police a .32-caliber revolver was stolen from her home between Jan. 28 and Feb. 2.

Police said they arrested Gary Welborn, no address available, on a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon after he allegedly was found to be carrying an illegal knife at the Greyhound Bus Station on Third last night.

Police investigated the attempted burglary of a semi-trailer parked at the Motel 6 off I-20 at about 9 p.m. yesterday.

The trailer apparently was being driven either to or from the Yuma Marine Air Base in Arizona, according to police reports. Officer Bob Stapp noted in his report that the trailer was carrying parts from a wrecked plane. Nothing appeared to have been taken from the trailer.

Sherri Smoot of 107 Canyon told police an unknown person threatened her husband yesterday morning.

Police said motor vehicles driven by Priscilla Gutierrez of Lenorah and Rosie Green of 1300 Stanford collided on East Fourth at Johnson at about 1:54 p.m. yesterday. There were no injuries reported.

Motor vehicles driven by Bobby Price of Wilson Road and Jane Dominguez of 713 Lorilla collided in the 1800 block of East Third at about 3:50 p.m. yesterday, police said. There were no injuries reported.

Police said they arrested Betty Buck of Route 1 on a charge of driving while intoxicated after a vehicle driven by her and a vehicle driven by Heidi Hunt of 1302 Lamar collided in the 800 block of Birdwell at about 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

Reagan will go 'extra mile' to help farmers, aide says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the Farmers Home Administration claim they never planned to foreclose against thousands of farmers in Texas and other states, as a widespread rumor has suggested for several weeks.

Frank Naylor Jr., under secretary of agriculture for small community and rural development, testified before doubtful congressmen Thursday that the Reagan administration plans to "go the extra mile" to keep farmers in business.

"I think what's dawned on them is that if they foreclose now and take the equipment or whatever they can seize or sell, they're going to get about 25 cents on the dollar," said Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas.

Marvin Meek, the national president of the American Agriculture Movement, said he remains skeptical of promises by Agriculture Department officials to do all they can to keep farmers in operation.

"I'm not going to be satisfied until I see some results in county offices, when I actually see farmers who have been refused before now, being re-financed," Meek said in a telephone interview from his home in Plainville, Texas.

"I just don't think they've been real truthful with the American people about how serious the problem is," said Meek.

Hance represents Meek and hundreds of other West Texas farmers who say they are in financial straits because of another year of low farm prices.

A few months ago, local officials were getting the word from state and national FmHA officials that the number of delinquent loans had to be slashed and that low commodity prices were "not an acceptable reason" for farmers not to make their payments.

FmHA administrator Charles Shuman met with Hance Wednesday and told him the FmHA will work to keep farmers in business and that 69 FmHA workers processing loan applications in Texas will not be laid off later this month as scheduled, said Hance.

Hance said Shuman also said he thinks they will find enough money to keep 80 percent of the loan processors working for the rest of the application period and maybe through May.

More farmers were in danger of being foreclosed on in the districts of Hance and Rep. Jack Hightower of Vernon than in any other in Texas, Hance said. The FmHA sent threatening letters to about 480 farmers in Hance's district, 400 in Hightower's and 150 in Stenholm's, he said.

Hance said Shuman said the number of foreclosures in Hance's district would be cut to "between 75 and 100."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, says the nation's farmers are "worse off than at any time since the depression."

Hightower got a Manila envelope in the mail this week from a constituent. It contained no letter — just seven pamphlets publicizing 27 farm sales in the area.

"And nobody's showing up at the auctions," an aide to Hightower said.

Hance said when he was in his district over Christmas, tractors were being sold for $15,000 for auctions "that should have brought $40,000."

"We've got farmers who had equipment in 1975 worth $500,000 who now are $300,000 in the red. They don't have anywhere to go, and no choice but to stay in and hope they can make a comeback," Hance added.

Clements raps House-passed Voting Rights Act extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements, in a move that surprised civil rights groups in his state, testified that while he favors extending the Voting Rights Act, he does not support the House-approved version of the legislation.

He drew the wrath of some civil rights groups Thursday by telling a Senate Judiciary subcommittee that they support simple extension of the present act, rather than the House-passed bill.

The Supreme Court has ruled that the present law requires that litigants prove that local officials intended to discriminate when they designed discriminatory voting laws or practices. But under the House-passed version, the government could prove the act was violated if they proved simply that discrimination resulted.

In Texas, Diana Clark, president of the League of Women Voters of Texas, disassociated her group from Clements' testimony and withdrew her organization's support for his position.

"We understood the governor's position to be support of the House of Representatives-passed version which restores the original understanding of Congress that effect of discrimination would be a determining factor," she said. "We regret this misunderstanding."

Ralph Neas, executive director of the Washington-based Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, said several Texas affiliates of the conference were sending telegrams of protest to Sen. Orrin Hatch, chairman of the subcommittee.

Clements said he favored "bail-out" provisions, which would enable some areas to earn exemptions from the act. But he criticized the provisions as contained in the House-passed bill.

"The 'bail-out' provisions (in the House-approved bill) are so stringent and cumbersome it is doubtful that any covered jurisdiction could become exempt," Clements said.

"For example," he said, "the proposed House legislation provides that every jurisdiction in a covered state must be granted bailout before the state can achieve bailout."

"It could, therefore, take only one of Texas' 254 counties to prevent the state from becoming exempt or one out of 1,102 school districts in the state of Texas from preventing the state from 'bailing out,'" the Republican governor said.

Scent fools bomb-sniffing dogs

HOUSTON (AP) — A suspicious looking suitcase left one of the Houston Police Department's most valuable members a little red-faced and now he's in the doghouse.

Sam, the department's bomb-sniffing dog, gave police at Hobby Airport a scare Wednesday after officers responded to a silent alarm at an oil company hangar.

When they arrived on the scene officials found a suitcase leaning against the Quinta Petroleum Co. hangar, located next door to the police helicopter hangar.

Sgt. G.D. Williams decided to call Sam into action and police were surprised when the dog's reaction indicated explosives were in the suitcase.

After studying the situation, a bomb squad officer opened the suitcase. Inside he found a baby blanket and a moldy shower cap.

Williams explained the blanket carried traces of urine, which has substances similar to the smell of ammonia sulfate, a main ingredient of gunpowder.

The suitcase was turned over to Quittans. Bomb-sniffing Sam was sent back to the doghouse.

Debby Calley enters commissioner contest

Debby Calley is announcing her candidacy for county commissioner, precinct two, subject to the Democratic primary May 1, 1982.

DEBBY CALLEY...candidate

The native Big Springer is married to Kevin Calley, and they have two children, Robbi and Mike. Mrs. Calley graduated from Howard College in 1975 with an associate degree and is presently employed as a substitute teacher.

Mrs. Calley says her greatest advantage to offer the voters is the fact she does not have a full-time job. "I can devote as much time to the job of commissioner as it requires, and that means the taxpayers will be getting more for their money. A person with a full-time job, as the other candidates have, will only be able to give a limited amount of time to the people in Precinct 2. I feel the taxpayers want and deserve more than that."

The decision to run for commissioner was made by Mrs. Calley when she and her neighbors had difficulty getting a road repaired. "My neighbors and I finally went to commissioners' court and got some response. I don't feel the taxpayers should have to spend that much time or go to that much trouble to get some action."

Mrs. Calley's only "campaign promise" is to do her best to see that all the people are served and to devote as much time as it takes to see that the job is done right. "I don't plan to play favorites, and I don't plan to appear in commissioners' court twice a month and neglect the job the rest of the time."

Energas promotes Self to manager at Tahoka

Weldon H. Self, son of Oscar and Ola Self of Coahoma, has been promoted to manager of the Tahoka office of the Energas Company.

Self, 38, joined Energas in 1966 as a construction and maintenance crew member in Lubbock. He transferred to Slaton as a general plant operator in 1968, and continued in that capacity until 1979, when he returned to Lubbock as an irrigation inspector.

In 1980, he transferred back to Slaton as a service technician, the position he held at the time of his selection as office manager.

He is a native of Big Spring, and a graduate of Coahoma High School. He is a member of the Slaton Volunteer Fire Department, and once served there as captain.

Air traffic control system judged safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private consultants hired by the Federal Aviation Administration concluded today the air traffic control system is as safe as it was before 11,400 controllers were fired last August, and recommended against rehiring any of the controllers.

The study was commissioned by the FAA several weeks after the controllers went on strike Aug. 3. The consulting firm said the FAA "maintained a hands-off policy," and the conclusions were solely those of the investigators.

Flight Safety Foundation Inc., an Arlington, Va., firm, examined the air traffic control system for 120 days and came to many of the same conclusions reached several months ago by the independent National Transportation Safety Board.

The consultants concluded that the present controller work force, which is about two-thirds as large as the work force before the strike, has handled air traffic on "an equivalent level of safety to the pre-strike system."

The consultants added, however, there may be some decrease in safety in some instances because of the increased practice of private pilots flying under visual flight rules.

The consultants said they found no evidence that unqualified controllers were directing aircraft. They said concerns about controllers' fatigue "have not been realized to any significant extent."

Rightwingers disappointed

As if he didn't have enough trouble with Democrats, President Reagan is faced with growing antagonism and grumbling from rightwingers within his own party.

Richard Viguerie, publisher of the Conservative Digest, and Howard Phillips, director of the Conservative Caucus, chastised the President on national TV last weekend for real or imagined offenses against rightist ideology.

Part of the dissatisfaction of Viguerie and Phillips is undoubtedly rooted in the failure of the administration to push the social agenda of the New Right: legislation banning abortion, authorizing official prayer in schools and opposing court-ordered busing in school integration cases.

IT SEEMS CLEAR, however, that President Reagan has chosen a practical — and we believe correct — course in rejecting the counsel of Viguerie and Phillips.

Since Ronald Reagan's election, the highest national priority has been to restore the country's economic health.

In order to get his economic program enacted, the president needs support from moderate Republicans and conservative Democrats. Had he pressed for action on the New Right's goals to ban abortion, to inaugurate government-approved prayer in schools and other highly controversial rightwing social and religious goals, the result could only have been a time-consuming national donnybrook that would have divided his following and threatened his whole program.

The president has been wise not to muddy political debate with a slew of divisive cultural issues, especially those involving the use of Federal power to enforce a particular set of religious views.

EVEN IF THERE were no economic problems, these questions should be left to the individual conscience rather than Congress.

The Federal Government has plenty to do without getting into spiritual regulation.

Alphabet soup

IRA, ERA. Bankers will tell you it's the beginning of an era for IRA, and realistic feminists will admit it's the end of an era for the ERA.

But what few folks seem to understand is that American society has gone acronym crazy. That's a FACT. You say it ain't so? Well, whip out the old IBM calculator and let's add up a few cases which illustrate my point.

We all know about the BBC, the CIA, DDT, the PLO and so on — but observe some of the more far-fetched acronyms turning up as big bold letters on the American scene.

FOR EXAMPLE, have you heard of the latest touchy-feely gooo-gaaga "human-potential" cult? The group goes by the acronym of EYT. The letters stand for — are you ready — Eat Your Toenails.

Sign up for an EYT course and not only do you solve your ingrown toenail problem, you also lose all anxiety, stop smoking and drinking, find the meaning of life and become married happily ever after. And all for a few minutes of munching on your toenails each day.

Or this one: ORTUPS. This is an organization with a wide membership in our area. To join, all you need is an annual income of one billion dollars. Members are often seen driving sleek, expensive, spanky-clean sports cars in the vicinity of bubbling, spurting, grimy oil wells. ORTUPS? It's shorthand for Oilmen Reaching The Utter Pinnacle of Success.

Or this one: IDWID-BIGHI. Surely you're familiar with IDWID-BIGHI. Everybody has one. IDWID-BIGHI? I Dunno What It Does — But I Gotta Have It.

The list goes on. It's a true case of ACRO fever sweeping the nation. It doesn't matter whether the place is New York (UN, ABC, KGB) or Big Spring (BSHS, BSSH, BSISD, BSHSHSH, BSISISS, HCJCJCJCJC).

The fever's just the same, and the people who've got it talk like this:

First guy: "Hey, Ed, howya doin'?" Heard the results of that EKG yet? You know what they say: You're either AOK or DOA. Ha! Boy, I was watchin' CBS on TV last night and this guy was really OTW. Really off the wall. Said the GNP and PGB were downswinging — but you and I know it ain't so, don't we, VP?"

"That's for sure," says the second guy. "ZIP Co. is in just the second year of its existence and already our EPS is up thirty percent, our DM&L is up nineteen and a half, R&D looks good, R&R looks good, and heck, it's just RFPs all the way, Joe."

So it goes. A sea of alphabet soup has washed through the American language, putting big capital letters where once words used to be. Beautiful, functional, meaningful words. And now it's just a bunch of CRP. If you ask me.

BULLY to acronyms! Bring back the English language!

Policemen lead pressured lives

Dear Editor:

I have refrained from writing in response to Lisa Gilstrap's letters because of my unfamiliarity with the "issues" involved. However, I now feel compelled to write about something with which I am familiar.

I do not want to discredit Ms. Gilstrap; if her "issues" are legitimate, by all means they need to be resolved. So should the generalities about the conduct of our police department. Knowing a few does not make one knowledgeable over all. Her credentials are impressive; however, such does not qualify or disqualify one from being above reproach, "scum", or otherwise. Some of our policemen have "credentials" just as impressive; however, being public servants, the fact that most of them are professionals and act accordingly is seldom mentioned. Neither is the fact that it is this professionalism and the desire to help others (with little expectation of gratitude) that makes a person work for a salary that may easily qualify one for food stamps. They are expected to uphold city, county, state and federal laws as well as act as public relation liaisons. At times these roles conflict.

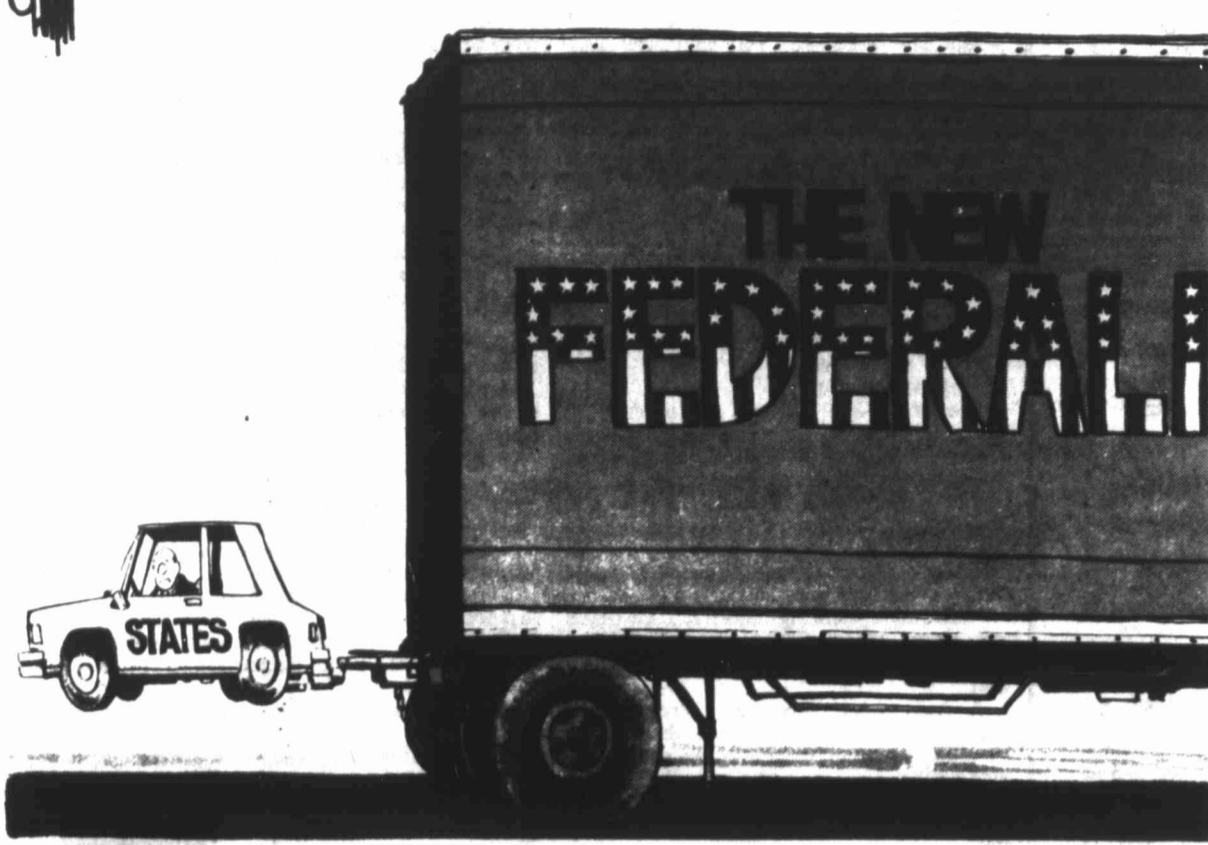

Due to the nature of their jobs, policemen work under a great deal of pressure. To go into a bar and be attacked while a crowd watches is expected; to attempt an arrest and be shot at or verbally & physically abused is expected; to enter into dangerous situations without adequate protection (such as a bullet proof vest) is expected. So is delivering death notices or helping a teenage drunk or drug addict get straight. Unfortunately also expected is the worry of giving the "wrong person" a ticket; losing a neighbor's friendship because he can't "get him out of this one"; whether the next person arrested is going to shout police brutality because that is the thing to do; or being forced to get an unlisted telephone number due to harassing telephone calls to one's family.

Maybe every application for policeman should be marked "This occupation may be hazardous to your health" and a modified Miranda warning given to academy graduates "Everything you say and do can and will be used or construed against you. You are guilty until proven innocent." Split second decisions affecting more than themselves are made daily. Being human, the decisions may not always be right and are sometimes fatal. Being married to a policeman I know these pressures exist and have witnessed the worst that can happen and still ask myself, "Why does he continue in this line of work?"

Russia top dog at South Pole?

WASHINGTON — In a development that gives literal meaning to the phrase "cold war," President Reagan's intelligence advisers have warned that the Soviet Union may take the top position at the bottom of the world.

A classified report, now under review by the National Security Council, warns that the United States is in danger of losing its leading role at the South Pole — just when decades of investment might begin to pay off.

If the United States loses its foothold in Antarctica by default, it would be a historical irony — a reversal of the way we acquired Alaska in 1867 from a Russian government that couldn't see the potential value of that inhospitable icebox.

In 1959, the 12 nations with interest in Antarctica signed a treaty that suspended territorial claims for 30 years and reserved the continent for peaceful research. The treaty has been observed scrupulously ever since — probably because no nation thought a scientific laboratory in the world's most hostile environment was worth quarreling over.

BUT THAT ATTITUDE has changed now. In recent years, the scientific research — mostly by Americans and Russians acting independently — has revealed that there's a lot more to Antarctica than penguins and paralyzing cold. The continent could be another Alaska in the value of its natural resources.

For example, Antarctica has been found to have huge beds of krill, a shrimplike species that may well be the world's richest marine protein resource — an important con-

Changing the subject

WASHINGTON — Nobody can complain that the President isn't sticking to his original script. But the odds lengthen against a solution of basic problems during his term in office.

For a sinking economy and a hemorrhaging budget now deepen the plague of stagflation. But what Mr. Reagan has done is to change the subject by offering as his major new proposal a swap in federal and state responsibilities. That surely confounds confusion, and probably soaks the poor.

The original Reagan program centered around a massive tax cut that will chop federal revenues by $750 billion over the next five years. Big increases in defense spending are underway. While significant reductions in social spending have repeatedly been promised, all that has been accomplished so far is a reduction of about $40 billion.

The combination of huge revenue losses with bigger defense spending and relatively small cuts in social services points to gargantuan budget deficits and continuing inflation. Against that logic, the President has deployed the theory of supply-side economics. The theory is that tax cuts induce more work, more saving and more investment. Business flourishes and creates the revenues necessary to meet deficits and balance budgets. The flow of goods and services swamps scarcities and breaks inflation.

BUT SO FAR, there has been no increase in work, or saving or investment. The Federal Reserve Board, committed to a long-term fight consideration for a country like the Soviet Union, whose agriculture routinely fails to meet the demands of its huge population.

Antarctica also is known to have oil under all that ice; some experts suspect it has more than Alaska. And scientific studies indicate that minerals are abundant.

My associate Dale Van Atta, just back from a personal inspection of Antarctica, has seen top-secret CIA and National Security Agency reports and an exhaustive review by a 14-agency Antarctic Policy Group. These documents note that the Soviet presence on the frozen continent has increased greatly in recent years. The Russians now have eight bases in Antarctica to our four — though the U.S. scientists are still ahead of the Soviets in research.

Part of the U.S. preeminence is due to the Amundsen-Scott South Pole Station, the American base, that sits right on the spot where six nations' territorial claims meet. But the policy group expressed concern that the U.S. presence will diminish, despite the longstanding presidential order that the United States will maintain an "active and influential presence" in Antarctica.

"Continuing decline of the U.S. presence and level of effort in Antarctica will force the abandonment of the prestigious South pole station to probable occupation by the U.S.S.R.," the group has warned.

The ease with which the Russians could take over the South Pole if we abandon it was made clear in February 1981, when a Soviet aircraft — an IL-14 equipped with skis — flew 12 Soviet scientists from their base at Druzhnaya and landed at the U.S. base. This and other developments, the policy group warned, may have given the Russians a new "mobility, flexibility and reach."

Our confidential document said that the U.S. program's budget is already "dangerously close to a level that will force a choice between a mere presence and a low-visibility but quality research program."

Should the United States be reduced to a "mere presence," the advisers warned, it would forfeit its influential role in "determining the political and economic future of this continent, its surrounding oceans and its continental shelf." The vacuum would be filled, no doubt, by the Soviet Union.

PAPER, PAPER EVERYWHERE: The Small Business Administration has long been the target of complaints by businessmen who are outraged at the amount of paperwork the agency requires. If it's any comfort, the SBA is just as hard on its own employees.

The administrator's office just ordered headquarters employees to prepare a file copy of all their correspondence. That's in addition to the copy for the executive secretary and the copy for the special assistant to the administrator — and, presumably, the original for the addressee.

Not only that, but the file copy must be designated either "policy" or "routine," and categorized further as External, Central Office, Regional Office or District Office. No wonder federal workers use the telephone whenever they can.

authorities. With the programs will go the right to finance them by excise taxes. Financially, the swap proposed for 1984 does nothing to staunch the hemorrhaging of the federal budget. But it raises a genuine philosophic question. AFDC provides income support to indigent families. Medicaid provides health care to the same group. So why should one be a federal responsibility and the other a matter for state and local officials?

No explicit rationale came from the President. One has the impression he is not even aware of the problem. But a possible explanation arises from his well-known animus against social programs.

Medicaid, which he proposes to move to Washington, is a program now characterized by marked discrepancies between generous benefits offered by such states as New York, California and Michigan and the more meager assistance extended by the smaller and poorer states.

Once Medicaid is in federal hands, the Reagan administration will probably put a cap on payments — thus cutting back the generous programs.

Welfare, by contrast, is now sustained by federal standards which impose minimum benefits on all the states. A good guess is that in many states, the withdrawal of the feds will become the occasion for eroding the standards.

For these and other reasons, the proposed swap in federal and state responsibilities has little chance of clearing the Congress this year. But it may serve as a smoke screen obscuring the sinking economy and the hemorrhaging budget. It is even possible that a cyclical pickup in the economy will save the President's bacon for the 1982 elections. But the numbers and the logic say that the long-term outlook is for high unemployment and high inflation. In 1984, we will probably all wish that Reagan had not, this year, ducked stagflation.

Billy Graham

Is baptism necessary?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Is it absolutely necessary for a person to be baptized in order to have salvation? I recently accepted Christ but have never been baptized. — S.J.

DEAR S.J.: I know there are some aspects of the question of baptism that are matters of debate among sincere Christians, and it would not be helpful for me to try to deal with such questions in this brief column. But there are two things especially I want to point out in answer to your question.

First, if you have accepted Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior I would urge you to be baptized. Everywhere in the New Testament baptism is a public sign that we belong to Christ, and declares our belief in Christ. On the day of Pentecost, Peter declared to the crowd, "Repent and be baptized, everyone of you, in the name of Jesus Christ so that your sins may be forgiven" (Acts 2:38). We read that about 3,000 people came to Christ on that day. In the same way, throughout the history of the early church which we read in Acts we see many other examples of people who came to faith and were baptized.

Second, remember that it is not the physical act of baptism that saves you, but Jesus Christ and your faith in him. Baptism will naturally accompany our faith in Christ, but it is not an action that somehow by itself guarantees or gives us salvation. Our salvation is by faith alone, through Christ alone. The thief on the cross turned to Christ in faith just before he died. He had no opportunity to be baptized, and yet Jesus promised, "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise" (Luke 23:43).

I suggest that you speak with your pastor about this matter. Your baptism would not only be a symbol of the fact that your sins have been washed away by Christ, but would also be a public witness of your faith in him.

Reagan may try for heavy cuts in health programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will try to squeeze more than $5.1 billion from Medicare and Medicaid next year by making the elderly pay more of their hospital bills, allowing liens on the homes of Medicaid patients in nursing homes and imposing a host of other economy measures, budget documents show.

"When people find the health programs cut, they're going to find big holes in the 'safety net,'" said Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., who disclosed cuts in Medicaid and the Public Health Service.

At the same time, House Democrats charged Thursday that Reagan's budget also could leave the Environmental Protection Agency without enough funds to police hazardous chemicals and clean up dangerous spills, spell the demise of Amtrak everywhere except the Northeast corridor and tilt the nation's energy policy toward nuclear power. The Democrats said administration sources had leaked copies of the budget. They acknowledged that Reagan could make some changes before he sends the budget to Congress on Monday, but said they would be slight.

In addition to $2.96 billion in Medicare savings and $2.16 billion in Medicaid, they said Reagan will try to cut $562 million from the Public Health Service's $8.3 billion budget.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., said Reagan's proposals would force states to deny thousands of mothers or children health care or food due to a 25 percent cutback in the $348 million Maternal and Child Health Block Grant and the Agriculture Department's $934 million special nutritional program for Women, Infants and Children, which would be lumped together.

Medicaid cuts will force hundreds of thousands of aged, blind and disabled poor people to "lose some or all of their health care coverage for such optional services as prescription drugs, eyeglasses, hearing aids and dental care," he said.

Budget documents from the Health Care Financing Administration, which runs Medicare and Medicaid, indicate Reagan will seek a 2 percent across-the-board reduction in Medicare reimbursement of hospitals to save $650 million in fiscal 1983, which starts Oct. 1.

Most Medicare and Medicaid cuts would be in the form of lower payments to hospitals, institutions, physicians, state agencies and other providers.

Medicare and Medicaid, which now cost $70 billion a year, provide health insurance for 52 million elderly, disabled and poor Americans. By next year, 53 million are expected to be covered.

Medicare, which provides health care for elderly people regardless of their income, would be cut by requiring patients to pay part of the cost — possibly 10 percent — for the first 60 days of hospitalization up to $2,500. After that, new catastrophic coverage would provide unlimited free hospitalization. The program now pays for days 2 through 60.

While this catastrophic coverage would save the elderly $50 million in fiscal 1984, budget documents indicate the cost-sharing provision would cost them $1.44 billion.

Reagan also will ask Congress to approve Medicare vouchers, which would allow the elderly to enroll in private health plans.

Another Reagan proposal would allow states to place liens against the homes or other real property of Medicaid recipients in nursing homes. States could sell the property to recover

Medicaid costs after the patient died and when the property was "no longer needed by the recipient, spouse or minor children," according to the HCFA document.

This provision, plus an initiative to allow states to make adult children of Medicaid nursing home patients contribute to their parents' care, would save $212 million.

Ottinger said Reagan plans to put 87 percent of the energy technologies budget into nuclear energy, virtually eliminating spending on conservation, solar energy and other renewable resources.

Florio said Reagan wants to cut the EPA's budget from the $1.3 billion it received in fiscal year 1981 to $975 million. That means "the public health and the environment will be jeopardized by increased exposure to chemical risks," he charged.

Hunt loses court battle in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Texas millionaire Nelson Bunker Hunt has been ordered to pay the equivalent of $31.6 million to British Petroleum after losing a seven-year court battle with the British oil giant over profits from a Libyan oil field.

The Law Lords, Britain's highest appeals court, Thursday dismissed Hunt's appeal of a lower court ruling in favor of BP.

Lawyers said legal costs could add another $5.5 million to Hunt's tab.

Lord Brandon, announcing the Law Lords' ruling, said that in 1957, Libya's then ruling monarchy granted

Hunt a 50-year oil exploration and extraction concession in the desert 310 miles south of Tobruk.

Hunt did not have the resources, equipment, practical knowledge or experience to develop the concession on his own, Brandon said.

In 1960, he concluded an agreement with BP in which the company agreed to explore, develop and operate the concession at its own expense and its own exploratory risk. The accord included a complicated arrangement for sharing any oil produced.

Dr. Donohue

Man has brain shrinkage disease

Dear Dr. Donohue: What do you know about Alzheimer's disease? The case I am writing about involves a man in his mid-50s who suddenly began losing his ability to do work he had done all his life. After an examination by a neurologist, Alzheimer's disease was diagnosed. I understand it relates to brain cells.—B.W.R.

As you know, the brain is a large aggregation of nerve cells and their interconnecting cables. As we grow older, the brain does shrink, because there is a gradual loss of nerve cells. Now, I don't have to tell you that this doesn't mean a person becomes less wise or less alert. But it does mean that there are fewer nerve cells in the brain and hence learning may become a bit more difficult. For most, the accumulated knowledge of a lifetime more than compensates for any diminished capacity to take on more data.

But the degree to which this loss of cells goes on can vary. In some, a really great loss of nerve cells may cause changes in memory, behavior and thought. That is called senile dementia. When this process begins at an early age, it is given the name Alzheimer's disease. It is a premature loss of nerve cells from the brain.

The progress of Alzheimer's disease is not predictable, and currently there is no medicine to halt the illness. Why it happens at an early age we do not know. A brain scan shows the cell loss.

Finally, it is important to distinguish Alzheimer's from other diseases that cause similar symptoms. I am thinking particularly of a condition called normal pressure hydrocephalus, in which fluid buildup in the brain occurs. This is treatable, and treatment leads to improvement.

Dear Abby

Man's behavior appalls couple

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were invited to dinner by a childhood friend of mine. We wanted our husbands to meet. The invitation was extended after I had called and invited them to our home for dinner. She insisted that we come to their home first, saying they would come to ours next time.

Abby, the evening was a total disaster! Immediately following dinner, her husband picked up a magazine, read a little, then promptly fell asleep in our faces.

My friend kept making excuses. ("He's tired.") The three of us carried on a conversation as best we could. It was very embarrassing. My friend and I talked about "old times," while my husband just listened. I felt sorry for him.

As soon as it was proper for us to depart, we said our goodbyes, and our hostess woke up her husband to see us to the door. He never once apologized for his rude behavior. I felt sorry for my friend, who had gone to a lot of trouble preparing a delicious dinner.

Naturally my husband and I were appalled by this incident. Do you think we did the right thing by staying while the host slept? Or should we have departed as soon as he fell asleep?

Should we invite this couple to our home? My main concern is preserving the friendship that my friend and I have maintained for 27 years.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: There is a possibility that your friend's husband has a health problem. Ask her, in any case, do not subject yourselves (or them) to another such evening. If you want to preserve the friendship, do both husbands a favor and meet your friend for lunch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old divorced father of a daughter, 18, and a son, 19. We live together in a three-bedroom apartment and share expenses equally.

I feel uncomfortable when my daughter has her boyfriend sleep with her, which is practically every night.

I have explained my feelings to her, but she says since she is paying her share of the rent, she will do as she pleases, and if I don't like it, I can look the other way.

I love my daughter, but I think she and her boyfriend should find another place to live if living together is their thing.

Is my thinking old-fashioned for the 1980s?

ALLENTOWN PAPA

DEAR PAPA: No. Don't look the other way — look for another apartment. Or tell your daughter to.

DEAR ABBY: You're supposed to know everything, so maybe you can tell me why nobody wants to use those pretty little guest towels people have in their homes.

I have had the same half-dozen guest towels displayed in my powder room for months on end, and I have had many guests, but not one guest towel has been used. Instead guests choose to dry their hands with Kleenex, toilet paper, the bath towel, the bathmat and even the curtains, while the guest towels remain untouched. Why?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: It probably has something to do with your guests' early training. ("Save the guest towels for 'company!'")

Volunteers sought by foundation

Medic Alert Foundation is seeking local volunteers to help conduct Medic Alert public education projects within our community.

According to the American Medical Association, more than 40 million Americans have one or more special medical conditions such as diabetes, a heart condition, allergy to medication or epilepsy.

Medic Alert, the best recognized system of emergency medical identification in the world, currently serves 1.2 million members in the United States. Close to 600,000 others are served by 16 affiliate foundations outside the U.S.

"There are still millions of men, women and children who need Medic Alert's special protection in medical emergencies," states Luther L. Terry, M.D., Director of Medical Affairs for the Foundation. "We need volunteers who will serve in their own communities to reach these people for us. They will be helping to provide a very real, potentially life-saving service to their friends and neighbors."

Persons interested in volunteering for Medic Alert should write: Medic Alert, Turlock, CA 95381 or call toll-free 800-344-3226. In California call 209-668-3333.

It was bruises, lacerations and a sprained ankle the first time Dale and Fred went skiing. They were going to learn this sport together—and they did. For they brought to it excitement, courage and a commitment to sharing all of life's adventures.

It's been a couple of years since Fred and Dale were married in the college chapel. Now they've settled here in our town and we see them in church every week. No doubt when they start to raise a family we'll be seeing the youngsters in Sunday School, too.

Dale and Fred seem to have a very simple but profound philosophy of life. They're on the slopes together—sharing each other's love—and God's.

Sedinger aids Afghan family

By TINA M. STEFFEN
Church Editor

"I have a definite and committed sense of calling to the ministry," says Victor Sedinger, pastor of First Christian Church. "It didn't come out of the sky like a bolt of lightning. I felt I'd been given gifts for the ministry and when I got out of the Marine Corps, I felt my life was a total wreck. I had made a mess out of my life."

Sedinger served in the Marines during the Vietnam War and was stationed in Okinawa, Calif. "When I got out of the Marine Corps, the time and responsibility of being an NCO, being responsible for several men's jobs was gone," he said. "I had free time and I began to wonder what life was all about, my existence, why I am here."

"During a period of five months after I got out, the Lord had moved me to a position where I could accept him. Because of that closeness, I was able to see talents I had had all my life that I never used before, except for myself. I think looking back on it, that realization probably helped me make that decision."

He began his ministry in March, 1972 by serving as youth director at his home church, Polytechnic Christian Church, Fort Worth. He was an undergraduate student at University of Texas at Arlington at the time.

He pastored at Memorial Christian Church, Graham; Westmont Christian Church and Bethany Christian Church, both in Lubbock, before coming to Big Spring. He was a carpenter with his own business for one year before he pastored at Bethany. He has been at First Christian, located at 10th and Goliad, since August of 1980.

Carolyn, his wife, is a dental hygienist and works for Dr. James Cave. They have two children, Leah, 8, and Adam, 3.

A 1965 graduate of Eastern Hills High School, Fort Worth, Sedinger earned a bachelor of arts degree in sociology from the University of Texas at Arlington in 1973 and a master of divinity degree from Bible Divinity School, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, in 1976. He has taken several continuing education courses and workshops.

SEDINGER HAS a special interest in the refugee situation. "Our congregation sponsored a young Vietnamese family about six years ago," he said. "That impressed me when I interviewed with the (Church) board. The invasion of Afghanistan by the Soviets had just occurred. Our denomination and ecumenical agencies made appeals to congregations all over the country and maybe the world to sponsor refugees. When the appeals came out, Afghanistan was in the headlines a lot."

There was a lot of publicity of Afghan Freedom Fighters. The Freedom Fighters were trying to get the control of their country back. They were called 'Mujahidin.' They were poorly equipped and were fighting the heavily armed and modern equipped Soviet army and the Soviet-controlled Afghan army. I found myself in sympathy of that cause, so we moved as a congregation to sponsor a family." The Afghan family arrived in Big Spring in May and have been learning the American way of life since. For their protection, Sedinger did not disclose their names at their request.

The Afghan woman's sister recently fled Afghanistan with her three boys. She is in Pakistan and can't leave due to bureaucratic red tape, Sedinger said. "I'm seeing what I can do from this side of the ocean to get her to go to the U.S. Embassy to apply to come over (to the United States)...if that works out. There's no way of telling."

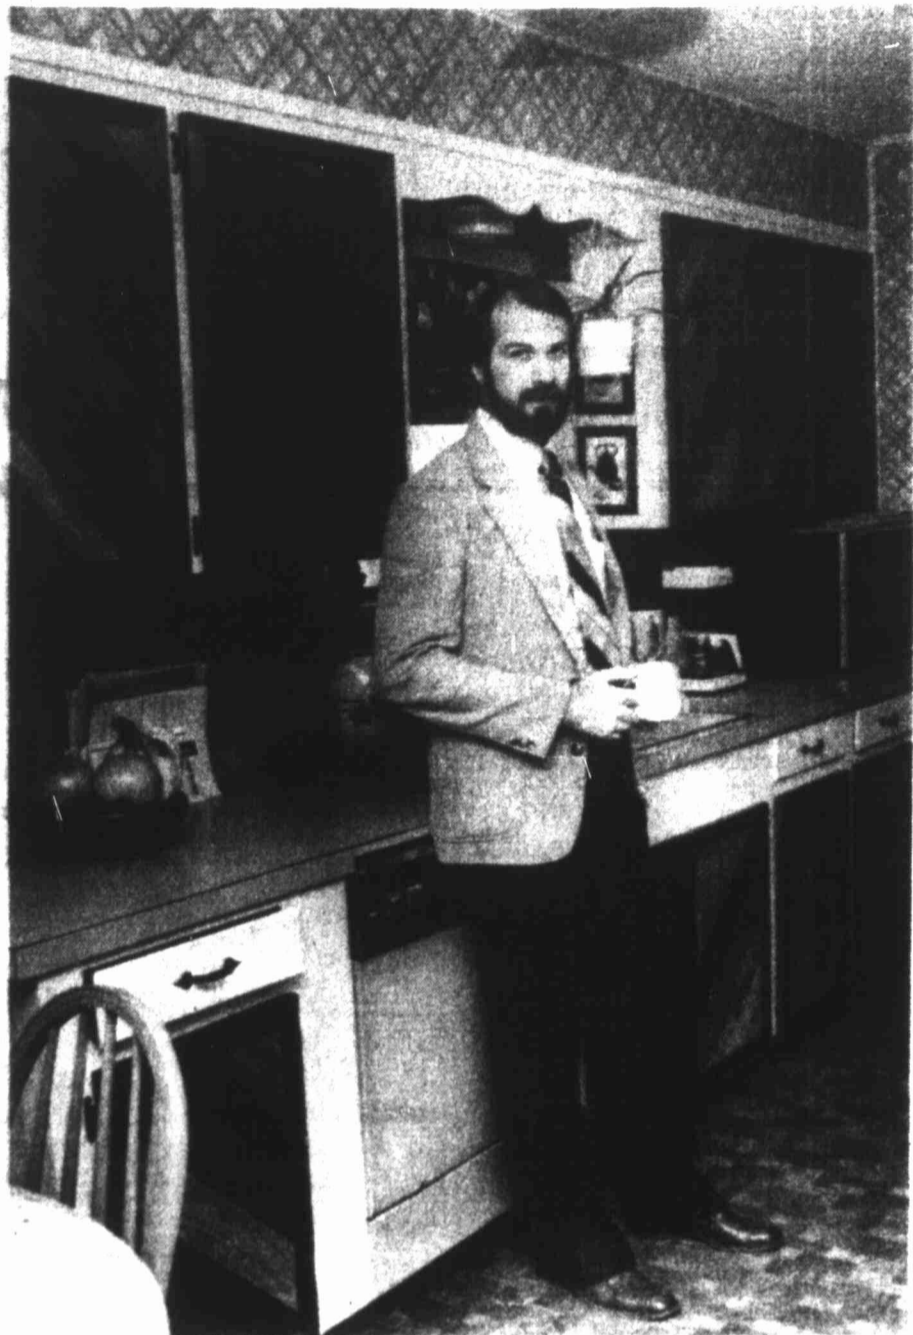

"In September (1981), the (church) board voted to sponsor another family," he said. The second family has not arrived yet. "I think they've gotten tied up in the bureaucratic red tape. I have heard the immigration quota for 1982 is 3,000 for Afghans. I'm afraid the new family, because the paper work hasn't started, may be squeezed out this year."

This special interest of his also is the most memorable experience he has had during his ministry. My most memorable experience is "helping the Afghan family our church is sponsoring...trying to communicate to them and they're trying to communicate with us...The whole process of being responsible for an entire family and their assimilation into the American society. It has been a real learning experience. Frustrating at times, but a great learning experience."

Sedinger's goals are twofold. Professionally: "to help our congregation experience a 100th anniversary (which will occur in November) and to learn just how valuable they are to this community." Personally: "to work on establishing a better balance between being a better husband and father and being a professional minister."

Sedinger is a member of the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club, the Y.M.C.A. Membership Drive and he is on the board of directors of Easter Seals. He also is president of the Howard County Ministers' Fellowship.

He enjoys fishing, basketball and racquetball. "Carpentry is somewhere between a hobby and self-defense," he said. "Carolyn wants to remodel our home. We can't afford to hire someone to do it so we do it ourselves. It is kind of a hobby, but it's just getting motivated to doing it."

Committee helps the handicapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special Roman Catholic committee on the handicapped has urged church officials at every level "to provide jobs under their control to qualified handicapped people and to become firm advocates for handicapped people with other employers in the private and public sectors."

Largest biblical library tops 39,000 volumes

The American Bible Society, possessor of the world's largest collection of Bibles and related Biblical documents reports that at the end of 1980 the library contained nearly 39,500 volumes in 1,615 languages. Dr. Ivan Nothdurft, an officer of the Society, said this represented an increase of 24 new languages in the Scripture collection, some with such exotic names as Mixteco and Silacayoapan, Pangutaran and Samo-Kubo. "The new languages indicate that God's Word is being made available to more people everywhere, and that we fully intend to carry out the Biblical mandate to carry the Good News via the medium of the Scriptures to the four corners of the earth," said Alice Ball, an ABS general secretary. Recent figures reveal, however, that more than 80 million people representing 200 languages and dialects still do not have at least one

Portion of Scripture available to them in their own languages. Miss Ball noted that the library contains more than 6,600 reference volumes available to scholars for translation work, adding that the work of translation is now going on in more than 750 countries of the world. "We are urgently trying to meet a deadline to translate and publish Scriptures for New Readers in all of the major languages by 1985, including a full range of Portions (one complete book of the Bible) and Selections. This will enable the readers to move toward the use of common language translations," she said. The United Bible Societies, the worldwide fellowship of autonomous Bible Societies of which ABS is a member, is exploring the potential for communicating the Biblical message through nonprint media and developing appropriate Scripture materials.

"We want to assist the reader to understand the meaning of the Biblical text by including helps in all Scripture publications, especially introductions in Portions and Selections, while at the same time avoiding notes or comments of a doctrinal nature," she said. It was noted that nearly 1,000 microfiche items had been added to the reference collection making it easier for scholars to draw upon the extensive ABS archives. Other figures revealed that last year nearly 5,000 visitors passed through the Society's library from 41 states and 51 countries and were able to see the fragments and copies of the Dead Sea Scrolls and facsimile of the Washburn Bible. The American Bible Society was founded in 1816 and throughout its 165 year history has sought to translate, publish and distribute the Scriptures without doctrinal note or comment and without profit.

Committee to aid Vatican is organized
WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee of U.S. Roman Catholic bishops has been set up to develop ways of increasing financial aid to the financially troubled Vatican. Archbishop Edward O'Meara of Indianapolis was named chairman of the new bishops' committee on Economic Concerns of the Holy See, with five other bishops appointed to serve on it. Its formation was requested in July at the first meeting of a 15-member council of cardinals set up by Pope John Paul II to examine and help improve the Vatican's slumping financial affairs. At the time, the Vatican issued a statement projecting a deficit of more than $25 million for 1981.

Quartet presents three services

The "Sonlight" Quartet will be featured in three special services at Hillcrest Baptist Church, 200 FM 700, and Emmanuel Baptist Church, 2105 Lancaster, Sunday.

Hailing from Springfield, Mo., this quartet has traveled throughout the United States presenting positive alternatives to the problems of young and old alike. Sonlight has been featured in more than 1,000 church services and concerts and are regularly featured in rallies and crusades with James Robison, evangelist.

"They were in Big Spring when the James Robison Crusade was here in the spring," David Womack, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist,

Major agreement aids in Christian unity

NEW YORK (AP) — Church scholars see a new agreement by representatives of all the world's major Christian traditions on long-disputed doctrinal issues as a watershed in the quest for Christian unity.

The agreement, variously called the "convergence document" or "Lima test," was reached at a meeting in Lima, Peru, of representatives of Roman Catholicism, Eastern Orthodoxy and the various branches of Protestantism.

The accord is "an ecumenical achievement of historical significance," says United Methodist theologian John Deschner of Dallas.

Roman Catholic theologian Jean Tillard of Canada called it a "framework for church union" and "proof that the Holy Spirit is at work."

The 16,000-word document, developed through years of interconfessional dialogue, offers broad agreement on three of the thorniest issues dividing Christianity — baptism, the eucharist and the ministry.

The consensus reached calls for acceptance of varying approaches to these practices and asks the churches to make official responses to the agreement at the "highest appropriate levels of authority."

It was approved unanimously at a meeting in January of the Faith and Order Commission of the World Council of Churches. Its member denominations as well as others are represented on the commission.

Anti-Semitic incidents in U.S. doubled in 1981

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-Semitic incidents in the United States more than doubled last year, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith reports, although several states toughened laws against religious or racial vandalism.

The report listed 974 cases of anti-Jewish vandalism in 31 states and the District of Columbia in 1981, compared with 377 such episodes in 1980.

In addition, bodily assaults and mail or telephone threats against Jews as Jews more than tripled to 350 cases, up from 112.

New laws imposing stiffer penalties on religious or racial vandals were enacted in 1981 by eight states, including the three states with the most such "bias crimes" — New York, California and New Jersey.

Church honors "Miss Susie" Brown

"Miss Susie" Brown received a big surprise from her church during the celebration of her 90th birthday Sunday. The Fellowship Hall of Coahoma First United Methodist Church was named in her honor and a portrait of her was hung in the room by the hostesses.

Among the 150 in attendance at the celebration were two former ministers, the Rev. Lyrenard Harrison and the Rev. Ray Elmore, both of Merkel, and her son, James Brown, of Hawthorne, Calif.

Women's group studies India

The Women of the First Church of God met in the church sanctuary Monday. Hettie Minix, president, presided over the meeting and gave the meditation using the scripture Philippians 2:5-8. The scripture emphasizes the importance of humility as a Christian woman.

Prayers were voiced by Arah Phillips, Virginia Chappell and Frances Miller.

Betty Reagan, missionary education director, presented the program on the study of India entitled "Green Garden of Opportunity in South India." India has a population of over 400 million. The average Indian can only expect to live 27-30 years. A dialogue of Christian Indian women was presented by Arah Phillips, Jewel Smallwood, Kathryn Thomas and Virginia Chappell.

Officers for Group 1 were elected for a two year term. They are as follows: Hettie Minix, president; Arah Phillips, finance director; Virginia Chappell, stewardship director; Susan Wood, parliamentarian; and Lucille Harrington, membership and attendance chairman.

The next meeting will be held March 1 at the church.

Henning is guest minister

St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 10th and Goliad, will host the second in a series of Union Worship services Sunday at 7 p.m. The Rev. William Henning, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will be the guest minister.

The date for the service was inadvertently published in the Herald earlier as being Jan. 31.

The Union program is a cooperative effort between four Big Spring Churches: First Christian, First Presbyterian, First United Methodist and St. Mary's Episcopal.

CHAINED TO GATES—An unidentified Church representative reads a statement to women protesters outside the gates of the Mormon Temple in Kensington, Md. Saturday. The women chained themselves to the gates of the temple in protest to Judge Marion Callister's recent decision in the ERA case in Idaho.

Women protest church's intervention in politics

WASHINGTON AP — Nine women, including two Mormons, chained themselves to the gate of the Washington Mormon Temple in suburban Maryland recently to protest what they called the church's intervention in national politics.

A group of more than 50 women, including the nine, spent an hour at the Kensington, Md., temple and left peacefully after reading a statement criticizing the recent federal court decision in Idaho against the Equal Rights Amendment.

Shirley Wallace, a Mormon who was spokeswoman for the group, said in the statement that the protesters "are outraged that the Mormon Church, by openly and fiercely fighting against the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, is keeping all women in chains."

Ms. Wallace said the decision by Judge Marion Callister in Boise, Idaho, is an example of unwarranted Mormon influence on legal matters and national politics.

"We are affronted and scandalized that a Mormon judge, in following the direction of church leaders, has betrayed cherished American values and sought to deny equal rights for women under the law," she said.

The three-day seminar entitled "The Christian and Public Education" will meet at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Other public school issues to be discussed include the private school phenomenon, church-state relations, and the responsibilities of churches in education.

Elderly arrested for playing poker

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Thousands of elderly people who had little recreation save for their card games will be affected by the gambling convictions of eight retirees arrested at a "nickel-and-dime" poker game, says Peter Leck, one of the "Largo 8."

As for Leck, he's through with poker. "I don't want a record at this late date," said the retired steelworker from Buffalo, N.Y. At 63, he was the youngest of the men found guilty of violating Florida's gambling law. "I'll probably play gin rummy — but just for fun."

Two Pinellas County undercover detectives had gone to a recreation hall in Largo, the Rancho Village Mobile Home Park, on a complaint Nov. 4. While playing pool, she watched the retirees' card game over their shoulders for an hour.

Assistant State Attorney Ron Crider had the evidence: a deck of cards, poker chips and $24 cash seized from the card table that day.

After a two-day trial, during which two of the defendants were hospitalized, a jury of four women and two men deliberated less than an hour to reach a verdict.

One of the hospitalized defendants was in intensive care with a heart problem and the other had cataract surgery. Pinellas County Judge William Blackwood withheld adjudication of guilt, which means if the defendants meet the court's conditions they can petition to have their records wiped clean. He gave the defendants 30 days probation and ordered each to pay $75 court costs.

"I'm trying to be philosophical, but it hurts," defense lawyer David Kurland said. "The defendants were stoic. They paid their court costs and left."

In court, Kurland had argued the misdemeanor gambling law doesn't even mention poker by name. Other forms of gambling, such as the dog track, the horse track and jai alai, are legal in Florida.

Poker is a game of skill — not chance — so it shouldn't even come under a violation, he said.

Wealthy parts of Houston designated as 'blighted'

HOUSTON (AP) — Some of this city's most influential residents are now living in or near "blighted" areas, thanks to the action of the Houston City Council.

Kathy Whitmire, perhaps the country's best-paid mayor, lives one block south and one block west of one of the areas. Former Republican gubernatorial candidate Hank Grover lives inside it.

The entirety of downtown is "blighted." So is the Astrodome. Rice University is across the street from the designated region, but the nearby Texas Medical Center is smack in the middle of it.

The City Council drew the line around a huge portion of Houston Tuesday to make the area eligible for development through industrial revenue bonds. The council, like others around the country, hopes the federal tax exempt bonds will spur millions of dollars worth of commercial development.

"This area might not be blighted by your definition, or by mine, or by Noah Webster's," City Councilman George Greenias, chairman of a committee on industrial revenue bonds, said Wednesday. "This is a legal and legislative definition."

The idea, Greenias said, is to use the bonds, which offer firms low interest financing because of the tax break they give investors, in areas where firms might otherwise be reluctant to build.

Not everyone is enthusiastic about the idea. Those who have doubts are the federal government and a number of taxpayer groups.

Victor Penuel, chairman of the Texas Association of Concerned Tax Payers, said the bonds contribute to unfair competition and drive up interest rates of other municipal bonds.

"In effect, you're giving companies in the designated areas a break of four to six interest points below the average bond," he said. "That is purely unfair."

Penuel, of Corpus Christi, contends his home town is one of the worst violators of the ideals behind the tax exemption.

"In our instance, the area involved is one of the most beautiful in the city," Penuel said, referring to the beachfront property involved in Corpus Christi's decision. "We consider this to be capricious, certainly."

Penuel's group has asked the City Council to replace Corpus Christi's "Sparkling City by the Sea" image with a "Blighted City by the Sea" slogan.

Penuel said that far from encouraging small business in depressed areas, Fortune 500 companies are high on the list of those taking advantage of the industrial revenue bonds, which are approved by the Texas Industrial Commission.

The board approved one such issue in 1979, 96 in 1980 and 162 in the first 10 months of 1981.

Treasury officials also are concerned about the amount of money the bonds are taking from federal coffers.

Greenias contended his committee will ensure that specific guidelines are adopted for the type of enterprise that can take advantage of the bonds.

"That's the next step in the process," he said. "I think you'll see a variety of projects because we've designated such a large area."

Something has to be done about health care costs

Within the past three decades, health care costs have multiplied nearly 20 times and as a percentage of gross national product have almost doubled.

And something has to be done about this, John Bingham, administrator for Malone & Hogan Hospital, said in a talk to the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

Because of expertise in many facets of health care, hospitals are one of the logical instruments of attack primarily in the field of preventive activities.

In 1950, Bingham told the club, the national health care bill was $12.7 billion; by 1980, this had risen to $247 billion. As a percentage of GNP it was 5 in 1950 and 9.4 last year. Obviously this can't go on, said Bingham.

Businesses have a tremendous stake in preventive measures which will reduce health care costs. Of the 80 percent of people covered by health insurance of some sort, 70 percent of the $55 billion premiums is borne by business. As of now, 96 percent of expenditures are for the treatment and cure of diseases—only four percent for education and prevention which, until now, has largely been in the field of vaccinations, inoculations etc.

New trends are developing, he continued, with renewed interest in nutrition ("you are what you eat"); physical fitness; stress management environment (better working conditions, training, etc.).

"The jury is still out," Bingham told the Lions, "but there are some interesting and encouraging statistics from industrial studies." One company going into a preventive program, reduced absenteeism 42 percent and reduced turnover from 15 down to 1.5 percent. Another cut lost days from 6 to 3.5 percent; still another cut its medical costs by 55 percent.

Tower offers interns program for 'seniors'

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) today announced he is accepting applications from Texas senior citizens who wish to participate in an intern program in his Washington office May 17-21.

The program is designed to provide increased communication between the retired community and their representatives in Congress. Tower was the first member of the Texas Congressional delegation to participate in the initial program in 1977.

The two citizens selected from the applicants will spend a week in Tower's Washington office observing the legislative process, meeting with representatives of departments and agencies, and participating in the operations of a Congressional office.

According to Tower, the interns selected last year, Sue King of San Angelo and Edward Rader of El Paso, "both contributed much to my understanding more fully the needs and concerns of our senior citizens."

"I once again look forward to learning firsthand more about our senior citizens' problems, needs, and opinions," the Texas Republican said. "At the same time, I hope the interns will learn more about the legislative process and government programs designed for their needs and then share with their peers the experiences and information gained in Washington."

Tower said the interns' demanding schedule of activities will include meetings with various agency, department and committee representatives, and the opportunity to attend committee hearings. Plans also include a private tour of the White House and social activities with the Congressional staff and other interns.

South Plains gets chilly reception

Queens turn cold shoulder, 73-39

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Cindy Robinson signaled to the official scorekeeper that she was going into the game, knelt down on the side of the court and said, with a shiver, "Whoooo, it sure is cold in here."

Yes, Cindy, it was a little cool in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Thursday night but especially cold at the South Plains end of the court. The two top defensive teams in Western Junior College Athletic Conference went head-to-head and the Texans of South Plains received a frigid reception from the Howard College Hawk Queens.

The Queens completely shut down the Texan offense, forcing South Plains to shoot an icy 25 per cent from the field. In the end, which came none too soon for the Texans, the Hawk Queens had chalked up their 13th straight win with a 73-39 victory.

Howard moves to 8-1 in conference play and 19-6 overall while the Texans skidded to 3-4 and 16-7. The Queens travel to Kerrville Monday night for a non-league game with Schreiner.

The Hawk Queen defense was simply amazing. Trailing 21-15 with 7:24 left in the first half, Howard outscored South Plains 58-18 the rest of the game. That's 18 points in the last 27:24 of the game for the Texans, folks. Are you ready for this? South Plains, from the 7:24 mark in the first half until the final buzzer, sank just six of 34 shots for 17 per cent. It was warmer outside the gym.

Meanwhile, the Hawk Queens were playing some of their better basketball and coach Don Stevens began dusting off the bench with 10 minutes to go.

"That really surprised me," Stevens said with a shake of his head. "Those were the two top defensive teams in the conference. We had given up just one more point more than they had. Our gals just shut them down."

It was supposed to be a great defensive matchup. Both teams were limiting their opponents to 57 points a game and the Texans had indeed given up one fewer point than the Hawk Queens. There was defense but only by the Hawk Queens. South Plains must have left their game plan in Levelland.

The early portion of the game did live up to its pre-game billing. The Hawk Queens had trouble turning the ball over against the Texan defense. The Texans had trouble getting a shot off before the 30-second clock expired and sent up several bricks.

Lori Gerber hit a free shot to give South Plains a 9-8 lead at 14:19 and the Texans moved in front 19-12 at 9:22 on a 12-foot jumper by Sharon Gerber. Teresa Stone scored to make it 21-15 and then the lights went in Georgia.

The Hawk Queens reeled off 16 straight points as Pam Roberson scored seven points. South Plains missed 10 consecutive shots before Regenia Melton hit a shot from the corner to cut the halftime lead to 31-23 for Howard.

The Queens kept the heat on at the start of the second half with 10-2 start as Neil Haskins tossed in six points. Behind 41-25, the Texans struck for five straight points on baskets by JoAnn Prince and Melton and then the ice storm hit again.

For the rest of the game, Howard outscored South Plains 32-9. Midway through the second half, Miss Robinson checked into the game, giving the perfect description of the kind of night South Plains was having to endure.

The secret to the game was the early defensive strategy by the Hawk Queens. Starting all his height—Susan Cordell, Melissa Luna and Haskins—under the basket, Stevens intended to intimidate the Texans near the hoop and force them to take shots from the outside. When those didn't fall, South Plains came, tumbling down.

"Susan played a heck of a game," Stevens said of his 6-6 freshman from Fort Worth. Not only did she play good defense, blocking several Texan Shots, but she hit six of seven shots for 12 points.

Howard's intimidation forced South Plains to shoot 25 per cent, a big drop-off from their normal 43 per cent. The Texans came into the game as the top free throw shooting team in the conference, hitting 72 per cent from the line. Thursday night, they sank just nine of 19 attempts.

The Queens hit 48 per cent of their shots from the field for the night. Haskins had her usual game, 23 points and 10 rebounds—both equaling her averages, while Roberson joined Cordell in double figures with 11 points. Ten Howard players scored in the game.

The victory was the 13th straight for the Queens who were once sitting still with a 6-6 record.

"We always play a lot better before the break," Stevens said. He said his team seemed to slump a little around Christmas but he has worked to build them back up, hopefully to peak during the Region V tournament scheduled here in early March.

Hot Hawks melt Texans, 91-77

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Down by two points at halftime, Hawk coach Harold Wilder must have told his players he didn't want any of the last minute stuff again. One double-overtime game a week is enough.

If he did so advise his team in the locker room, the pep talk had its effect. Howard College quickly went ahead on a jump shot by Nate Givens and never looked back in smothering South Plains 91-77 in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference battle Thursday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The comeback win maintained the Hawks' strong hold on third place in the league with an 8-4 mark. Overall, Howard is now 18-6 while South Plains drops to 14-11 with loss.

Monday night, the Hawks trailed at halftime and waited until the final five minutes of play to rally into a tie at the end of regulation play. Howard pulled the game out in two overtime periods and Wilder was not hoping for a repeat performance Thursday night.

"I thought the key to the game was that we were more patient on offense and played aggressive defense the first five minutes into the second half," Wilder said after the game.

Down 40-38, the Hawks outscored the Texans 15-6 to open the final half as Leon Issac hit eight of 10 Hawk points in one stretch. South Plains closed to within 55-50 on two free throws by Keith Gilbert but Howard responded with an 11-1 tear that put the Hawks back on top 66-51 after a basket by Nate Givens.

From that point, the Hawks waltzed to the victory. The game had two offensive stars. The first was Givens had scored 20 of his game-high 36 points in the first half. He and the Hawks had a great first half in the shooting department. Givens hit eight of 12 shots to lead Howard to a 17-for-26 performance. That's a red-hot 65 per cent.

South Plains wasn't doing badly either, hitting 20 of 35 tries for 57 per cent. The difference in the half turned out to be turnovers. The Hawks lost the ball three straight times down the court in the final minute of play and the Texans got layups by B. J. Jones and Dicky Winter to erase a 38-36 Howard lead in the final 26 seconds. Givens continued to score at will he second half but it was Issac, who turned on the steam for the Hawks. His two free throws at 10:49 gave him 13 of the last 20 points scored by the Hawks at one point as they built a 64-51 lead.

Card Of Thanks C-6

TO ALL of you who honored me on my 90th Birthday, I want to express my love and sincere gratitude. Especially, I want to thank the hostesses and the members of the Coahoma United Methodist Church for the beautiful tribute in naming the Fellowship Hall the "Susie Brown Fellowship Hall" and for hanging my color portrait. I was thrilled to see and hear from so many of my friends on this occasion and I want each of you to know how much I appreciate all you did for me. The gifts and money were truly a wonderful surprise and I am so very grateful.

FHA loan guarantees to be expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to bolster the sagging housing industry, the Reagan administration plans to propose expanding popular FHA home loan guarantees to cover variable rate and other non-conventional mortgages.

The proposal to amend the Housing Act of 1934 will be disclosed as part of President Reagan's 1983 budget plan, Department of Housing and Urban Development officials said Thursday.

But the budget plan, to be unveiled Monday, will not include any direct measures to reduce the record mortgage rates, which industry officials have blamed for the slump in house sales, White House officials said.

"It's not part of our plan to fiddle with interest rates," said one aide, who asked not to be identified.

Shakespeare exhibit set for Globe

ODESSA — "Shakespeare," a unique photographic exhibition which celebrates the life and world of William Shakespeare, goes on display Thursday, February 23, at the Globe of the Great Southwest in conjunction with the Fourteenth Annual Odessa Shakespeare Festival.

Developed by the Texas Humanities Resource Center under a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, "Shakespeare" is based on the great Folger Library multi-media exhibition, "Shakespeare, the globe, and the world," which has been making a six-city tour of the United States. The small exhibit was created with special assistance and support from the Folger Shakespeare Library.

THE EXHIBIT WILL be on display at the Globe Theatre four weeks, through Saturday, March 20. Special public showings of an accompanying slide-tape program, "Shakespeare, the Globe, and the World," have been scheduled for Feb. 25-Mar. 20 from 10 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Saturday and Sunday or by appointment.

The exhibit consists of ten panels of photographs which illustrate major aspects of the Renaissance world and Shakespeare's world of the theatre. Of special interest is a panel of photographs and lithographs showing how the balcony scene in Romeo and Juliet has been staged in productions dating from 1750 to 1970.

Other panels highlight the religious turmoil of the age, including the publication of the King James Version of the Bible; the Elizabethan notion of America; and fashions and costumes of the day.

"This traveling exhibition gives us a Shakespeare who was an actual person living in a very real world," David Weaver, Globe Business Manager stated. "For most people Shakespeare unfortunately is the name of a man who wrote plays that are hard to read and harder to understand, even though teachers in school told us that they were great. By presenting the exhibit in conjunction with our Shakespeare Festival, we hope to let people see another dimension of Shakespeare," he said.

THE ODESSA SHAKESPEARE Festival will feature "The Tempest" performed by Texas Christian University, Feb. 25, 26, and 27; "Twelfth Night" performed by the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, March 5, 6, 7, 11, 12, and 13; and "Macbeth" performed by North Texas State University, Mar. 18, 19, and 20.

Hours for the exhibition are 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily, except for Saturday and Sundays. Group tours and special visits may be arranged by calling The Globe at 332-1586. There is no charge for the exhibit.

Wholesale petroleum prices are falling

NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale prices of gasoline and home heating oil are falling sharply, putting intense pressure on the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to cut production and lower contract prices.

The recent flurry of wholesale price declines was spurred by weak demand for petroleum products, due mainly to conservation and economic recession. The slack demand comes despite a bout of severe winter weather that in past years meant greater demand for home heating oil.

Although wholesale prices are falling, the savings are not necessarily passed on to consumers, analysts say, because gasoline and fuel oil dealers are trying to increase profit margins, which have eroded in recent months.

The lack of buyers for petroleum products on spot, or non-contract, markets has added to the worldwide oversupply of crude oil and products that some oil industry analysts estimate at as much as 2 million barrels a day.

By insuring mortgages that lenders might otherwise be unwilling to extend, the Federal Housing Administration has enabled millions of Americans to buy their own homes.

But under current law, FHA insures only fixed-rate mortgages, which have set interest rates and either fixed monthly payments, usually for 30 years, or a graduated payment schedule with lower initial payments to aid first-time homebuyers.

Fewer and fewer lending institutions are providing fixed-rate mortgages because of volatile interest rates. Increasingly, lenders are demanding mortgage arrangements that allow for periodic interest rate adjustments.

One HUD official, who asked not to be identified, said the administration's legislative proposal is designed to place more emphasis on helping first-time homebuyers secure mortgages.

Because of record interest rates, most would-be buyers have been unable to qualify for a mortgage, and the housing industry has been in its worst slump since World War II.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

Building A Home

- Place your refrigerator in the coolest part of the kitchen, well away from the range and oven.
- Install the water heater as close as possible to areas of major use to minimize heat loss through the pipes; insulate the pipes.
- If you live in a warm climate, remember that light-colored roofing can help keep houses cooler.
- Install windows you can open, so you can use natural or fan-forced ventilation in moderate weather.

These energy-saving tips are brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

Gulf, OCAW contract may be in trouble

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — An agreement between Gulf Oil Co. and 2,400 members of the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers union may be in trouble, a union official says.

A ratification vote for the union's main plant group, representing refinery workers, has been set for Saturday.

But the union's chief negotiator, Kenneth Wigham said Thursday, "We could have some problems Saturday. We have quite a few controversial issues we agreed to."

A group of about 150 office workers represented by OCAW approved a two-year contract Thursday calling for a nine percent salary increase this year and 90 cents per hour in 1983 plus improved benefits, a spokesman said.

The proposed contract for refinery workers requires employees to work an extra day a month and receive benefits based on a 42-hour work week. In exchange, Gulf agreed to a no-layoff provision.

The extra day would be paid at overtime rates, with benefits calculated on an average 42-hour week. Officials said the change would improve productivity by allowing Gulf greater flexibility in scheduling.

If the agreement is not approved, "We'll go on strike," Wigham said.

The workers have been on the job since Jan. 8 without a contract.
