Amnesia victim reunited with his mother

HAPPY REUNION—Doris Galloway embraces her son, Larry, after the two were reunited Saturday. Galloway has been working at the Big Spring Salvation Army since May.

He was suffering from amnesia, and was using the name John Neill. A series of hypnosis sessions helped him claim his past.

Larry Galloway's past caught up with him Thursday. And the 22-year-old amnesia victim, known to many Big Spring residents as John Neill, is very glad that it did.

Galloway has been suffering from traumatic amnesia since May 18. The amnesia was triggered by an incident in which he was robbed and almost killed.

Through several hypnosis sessions supervised by Dr. Ron Cohorn last week, Larry began grabbing on to objects in his past. But it took a lot of work to piece the puzzle together.

And today, Galloway is still not sure about many things in his past. But through the hypnosis sessions, the blocks he had built in his memory were pushed aside.

And gradually, as each day passes, Galloway will remember something new.

GALLOWAY AND SEVERAL people working with him at first thought he might be from Richmond, Va., because in his first sessions with Dr. Cohorn, that city seemed very familiar.

Galloway was writing down the names of things he remembered, assuming they were in Richmond. Several of the roads he was naming were not checking out in the Richmond area, but many of the things he was remembering could be traced to Richmond.

Lt. Carroll Braun of the Salvation Army called all the Neills in the Richmond phone book. None of them knew a John Neill.

Galloway, his doctor and several people involved in the chase of his past were beginning to become frustrated.

A MAJOR CLUE was Galloway's remembrance of a job he had held with the Domino's Pizza chain.

Lt. Braun and David Womack of the Emmanuel Baptist Church checked with Domino's Pizza in Richmond, Va. The restaurant had no record of a John Neill ever having worked there.

The restaurant recommended the searchers call the branch restaurant in Richmond, Ind.

There, the chase got warmer. A Don Temple had worked in Richmond, Ind., as restaurant manager. But the manager had transferred to Louisville, Ky.

Although Temple was never notified, Lt. Braun and Rev. Womack began checking street names and the names of people in Louisville, just as a matter of chance.

They still thought John Neill was Galloway's name, and the name was clouding up the search.

Galloway had remembered the names of two ministers, H.C. Massey and A.J. Lewis. Lt. Braun and Rev. Womack found an A.J. Lewis listed in Louisville.

The men called Mrs. Lewis and began questioning her about John Neill, a name which meant nothing to her.

"The Lewis" thought it was a bad prank at first," Rev. Womack said.

But then Mrs. Lewis told the men about Larry Galloway, a man who disappeared from the area last May. Galloway, according to Mrs. Lewis, had been an important part of the church.

The three then began discussing Galloway's description.

Finally, Mrs. Lewis said "Oh, my God. It's him."

BY THEN, it was late Thursday evening. Lt. Braun and Rev. Womack asked several other questions of Mrs. Lewis, and "Everything finally jived," the men said.

One of the things that Galloway had been able to remember was that his mother's name was Doris. He was assuming her name was Doris Neill.

Lt. Braun and Rev. Womack asked Mrs. Lewis what Galloway's mother's name was.

"Doris Galloway," she said. She was a member of the church, and was living in Louisville.

Mrs. Lewis agreed to contact Galloway's mother. Friday morning, Mrs. Galloway placed a call to the Salvation Army here.

When Mrs. Galloway called to see if John Neill might indeed be her son, she said she recognized his voice on the phone. And Larry, in turn, said hearing his mother's voice triggered his own memory.

Mrs. Galloway said "I said 'Hello, Larry,' and he said 'Mom!' and he started to cry. He knew my voice, and I knew his voice. It's just remarkable."

Mrs. Galloway went through her own personal torment while her son was searching for his past. She explained what has happened to her since May 18.

That day, Larry left home "To get glasses," Mrs. Galloway said. "He said 'I'll see you tonight.' Tonight never came, until now."

For many nights during the nine months he was missing, Mrs. Galloway said she would lie awake at night and wonder "Is he cold? Did he have anything to eat?"

Finding her son "has lifted the burden of the unknown," Mrs. Galloway said. "I'm just thankful the Lord led him here to people who took care of him," she added.

ARRANGEMENTS WERE MADE to fly Mrs. Galloway to Texas immediately to see her son. The tab for the trip is being handled by the Salvation Army, which also is facing a $300 phone bill for the many calls made in search of Larry Galloway's past.

Lt. Braun and the Rev. Womack took Larry to the Midland Regional Airport Saturday afternoon to meet his mother.

Through the sessions with Dr. Cohorn, Larry had pieced together a mental picture of his mom. He recognized her as she got off the plane.

Mrs. Galloway said the first thing she noticed when she got off the plane was her son's big grin.

"When I got off the ramp and saw that grin, we both just ran to each other," she said tearfully.

"I just thank the Lord," she said.

So for Larry, the nightmare of not knowing who he is over. But there are still bits and pieces of his past which pop up in his memory. And there are things in his background which need to be clarified.

Dr. Cohorn told Galloway his memory had blocked out several traumatic incidents.

One incident which was blocking his memory was when he was robbed, beaten and placed in a car which was set afire.

"I'm just thankful the Lord led him here to people who took care of him."

—Mrs. Doris Galloway

That incident, which Larry thought took place in Indianapolis, Ind., really took place in Louisville. His confusion left him believing he had been in Indianapolis to view the Indy 500. He didn't know he was really at home, so he caught a ride out of the city, and was brought to Texas.

Galloway was also working as a Baptist minister in Louisville. He apparently got in trouble over insufficient funds in his checking account. He was also going to school and holding down two other full time jobs. The situation was just too much to bear, Galloway said.

The last straw was the robbery. But the worst is over now.

He says he plans to make restitution for the money he owes on the checking account. He also plans to make a career out of the Salvation Army, the place he's been calling home since May.

BUT WHAT DOES the immediate future hold for the young man?

"I'll stay here until income tax time is finished," Galloway said. He is working for the Beneficial Company.

Then, "I'll go home. My grandmother will be 90 years old in July, and there will be a big reunion. That will be good for me."

Larry also has to get re-acquainted with six brothers he had forgotten about. He can rattle their names off now with apparent ease.

"I've got lots of brothers," he begins. "There's Jim, Ron, Bob, Charlie, Roger and Billy Joe."

Lt. Braun, Rev. Womack and others who have known Larry as John Neill are also elated that his memory has come home.

As they sat talking with him Friday, someone asked "What do you want to be called now?"

"Larry," said the former amnesia victim with a big grin. "That's my name."

Texas teacher shortage looms

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The bright, attractive 21-year-old had good grades and a special kind of enthusiasm her professors believed would make her an exceptional teacher.

But after getting her degree, she decided not to teach. Instead she will attend "Hamburger U." As a fast-food restaurant manager, she's guaranteed a salary of $26,000 a year.

"My fiance and I decided we just can't live on a teacher's pay," she told a disappointed college dean who has been watching his education department shrink and his graduates turn away from the teaching profession.

The woman is just one example of a trend that is frightening many educators who predict that increasing population, teacher defections and steadily declining enrollment in education programs are leading to a Texas teacher shortage of crisis proportions.

The Texas Education Agency says in seven Rio Grande Valley counties alone there are over 300 "emergency certified" teachers who don't meet state standards, and the Texas State Teachers Association says most school districts started last year with too few teachers.

"A couple of years ago, people told me I was crying wolf, but I wasn't," said James Muro, Dean of Education at North Texas State University. "I'm not at all optimistic about the situation."

Muro said his department's enrollment has dropped 42.8 percent since 1970, while total university enrollment

A. There are no plans at the present to add "Doonesbury" to the daily comics. Of course, the Herald would reconsider if a popular demand for the strip developed.

Beall's will open Wednesday at new mall

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

Stressing strong customer service and brand name merchandise, Beall's department store will officially open its doors Wednesday in the new Big Spring Mall.

"We're looking forward to giving the people of Big Spring personalized customer service and quality merchandise, along with a strong promotional program to make them aware of our sales and so forth," said Gene Masden, general manager of the store.

Masden comes to Big Spring from Austin where he managed a Bealls store, and was a high ranking ready-to-wear salesman. He has been with Beall's since 1975 and he has 31 years of experience in the retailing business.

A native of Richmond, Va., Masden attended the University of Illinois and is a member of the Lutheran Church, a Mason and a member of the Lion's Club. He and his wife, Barbara, have four children ranging in ages from 23 to 32.

Helping Masden with the administrative duties will be Don Boedecker, assistant manager and Johnny Jarosek, division manager. According to Masden, Beall's prides itself on being a name-brand store. Bealls will stock such labels as Jordache, Calvin Klein, Levi's, Bobbie Brooks and other in the juniors' and ladies' ready-to-wear department.

The men's department will feature items from Arrow, Van Heusen, Haggard, Levi's, Botany 500 and Ratner lines.

Masden said the store departments will include cosmetics, jewelry, ladies' and junior's ready-to-wear, girls, infants, lingerie, sleepwear, home goods, and men, young men, boys and family shoes. Beall's will carry no hard lines of merchandise, according to Masden.

"We want to provide good customer service to help people find what they need without our salespeople being overbearing. We also are looking forward to providing nighttime shopping for the people of Big Spring six nights a week," Masden said.

Store hours will be 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Masden said. He added that the store will employ 40 to 50 people.

For added convenience, Beall's offers its own credit card, as well as accepting Visa, Mastercharge and American Express. Masden said layaway plans also were available for customers.

"Beall's is strongly customer service oriented and we will continue in this tradition for the people of Big Spring," Masden said.

Teachers

declined only 13 percent. Meanwhile, he said, NTSU's business department saw an increase of about 20 percent.

"We're not getting the talent, either in quality or numbers, that we need," Muro said.

William Bennie, director of the teacher placement service at the University of Texas Education Department sings a similar song.

"Our enrollment has decreased 40 percent in the last 10 years," Bennie said. "It's a double-barrel problem — this is an in-migration state and Texas' birthrate is getting higher, so there are more children and on the other hand fewer and fewer people enrolling in teacher education."

A TEA report on 1979-1980 teacher supply and demand, predicted the first wave of real crisis will hit in 1984-1985. That's when an almost 10 percent rise in Texas births from 1978 to 1979 translates into six-year-olds ready for their first day of school.

Intersect that statistic with a 4 percent-a-year drop in teacher enrollments and the fact 9,400 — almost 6 percent — of Texas' teachers quit last year, and... well, panic, say the experts.

Several studies of teacher "flight" have turned up the same reasons — low salaries, "loss of esteem" and complaints about administrative hassles, said TSTA Public Relations Coordinator Annette Cootes.

The Legislature determines the base pay for teachers. Currently, an inexperienced teacher with a bachelor's degree can expect to start at less than $13,000 a year.

Local school districts can sweeten the pot, and most do, adding about 10 percent, Ms. Cootes said. But she says Texas still ranks 28th nationwide in teacher salaries.

"If I had a math degree and had a choice of going to IBM for $20,000 or the Austin school district for $13,000, there's no doubt where I'd go," said Bennie.

One of the cornerstone businesses for the new Big Spring Mall will be J.C. Penney's with its 33 merchandise departments and a catalog order center that puts 100,000 items at customer's fingertips.

According to Don Fisher, store manager, the business will open at 10 a.m. Feb. 10. Fisher announced that store hours would be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

"A combination of high-speed communication and air or truck delivery service makes the quick filling of orders throughout the Penney catalog network."

"As soon as an order is placed at the store, either by telephone or in person, it will be relayed to the regional distribution center through electronic transmission equipment. There will be daily deliveries of merchandise to the store," Fisher said.

J.C. Penney executives will be joined by Big Spring civic and business leaders in a brief opening ceremony at the mall Wednesday. The store is the firm's 127th in the Texas area.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast for Sunday in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi according to the National Weather Service.

Winter storm threat continues for Texas

By The Associated Press

A high pressure system that pushed low temperatures to new records Saturday, brought freezing rain to the lower Rio Grande Valley and was blamed for four deaths there, as well as more snow, sleet and freezing drizzle across most of the state.

Travelers' advisories were in effect from the Hill Country southward. A winter storm watch was posted for North Central Texas.

Icy road conditions were reported Saturday on highways across the state, and more snow, sleet and freezing drizzle were predicted for West Texas and central and eastern parts of the state through Sunday.

Texas military gains benefits from budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has submitted a defense budget to Congress that asks for more than $201 million worth of Texas military construction.

Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Bliss and Goodfellow Air Force Base are the largest recipients under the request, which is for the 1983 fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1.

"Texas military installations play a very significant and visible role in our national defense capability, and I am most hopeful that the Senate will approve these suggested improvements," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, who is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Texas projects include:

Randolph AFB, $4,380,000, including $1,060,000 for approach lighting system, $2,850,000 to alter administrative facilities, and $480,000 for energy conservation investment program.

Reese AFB, $3,750,000 to alter unaccompanied enlisted personnel housing.

Shuttle testing ahead of plan

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Testing of the space shuttle Columbia's electrical circuits began Saturday, two days ahead of schedule, in preparation for the spaceship's third trip into orbit on March 22.

Space agency officials said the experience gleaned from two earlier missions was making the launch job easier.

"This is the third time around," NASA spokesman Dick Young said as the testing of electrical circuits and shuttle connections began. "We're becoming better and better at it; our processing is going very smoothly."

The tests were set to start Monday, but technicians gave the go-ahead to begin check-ups which officials hope will lead to the moving of the Columbia out of the Vehicle Assembly Building and to the launch pad about Feb. 20.

Young said NASA plans three mock flights on Friday and Saturday involving Mission Commander Jack Louma and pilot Gordon Fullerton and their back-up crew, Ken Mattingly and Henry Hartsfield.

Vice President George Bush, who was at the Kennedy Space Center Friday, announced the shuttle's March liftoff date. He said the Columbia will return to its California landing site at Edwards Air Force Base on March 29.

NASA officials say the objectives of the test shuttle mission will be to continue "engineering evaluation" of the orbiter "with particular emphasis on its thermal characteristics."

Skills are key to employment

Big Spring's employment picture is bright. According to Gerald Damm of the local Texas Employment Commission, the city's unemployment rate in December was among the lowest in the nation at 2.9 percent.

The business boom fed the oil and gas industries plays a big role in Big Spring's economic health. But there is nothing unusual about the city's employment picture. In times of healthy economic growth, workers are in demand and unemployment is low.

BUT THAT UNEMPLOYMENT rate could be misconstrued. There are jobs available, but that does not mean anyone can find employment in Big Spring. The keys — as always — to a well-paying job are education and training. Big Spring has an abundance of jobs, but only for workers with the proper skills.

Employment specialists here say demand is greatest for welders, bookkeepers, secretaries, machinists, and trained mechanics. Those are not the sort of jobs one gets with a high school diploma and at least some additional schooling or job training.

IN SHORT, as Damm put it, the demand is not for unskilled laborers.

The worker in least demand continues to be the high school dropout with no job skills. A booming local economy isn't going to help him one bit.

BIG SPRING IS BLESSED with economic health that most of the nation does not have.

We all hope that one day cities like Detroit are again the productive centers they once were. We all long for days of robust economic growth on a national scale.

BUT FOR TOMORROW'S WORKERS to participate in that growth, they must sharpen their job skills today.

Big Spring proves that the benefits of economic health accrue only to those with the necessary job skills. That's an important lesson for high school students considering dropping out.

The Saddest Words

Remember, fans, it's not the end of the world. It's much worse — the end of the football season.

THE STATE SENATE in Oklahoma turns down the ERA. But it's not Alan Aida's fault. Blame it on Walter Mondale — he was there last.

Some lawmakers resent celebrities coming in to tell them how to vote — unless that's how they intended to vote anyhow.

When the Sooner Senate tally on the ERA was announced, there were loud cheers — from House members, who now won't have to vote on it.

PERSISTENT PETE FOWLER, long-shot candidate for president, says: "Los Angeles finally got a championship team. The 49ers practiced there."

Maureen Terrell, one of the most prolific writers in Big Spring, offers:

THE SADDEST WORDS...
He was not a bad boy,
Not really,
Not in the beginning.
He wanted not to be ignored.
His mother?
Well, she was chairman of the board,
And his father...
Just so busy making a living.
Such potential he had!
And he was lovable,
So lovable,
Had such need for love.
And now he is in trouble...
With the LAW!

No one in the editorial department of the Big Spring Herald smokes or chews tobacco. Very few newspapers in America can match this brag.

SASSY CINDY COLE, Herald word chaser who celebrated her birthday

Thursday, claims a sponsor's idea of the ideal TV program is an episode that gives the viewer a headache, followed by a commercial that sells a headache remedy.

"Not everyone talks about the weather these days," says marvelous Margaret Ray, who celebrates her birthday next Tuesday. "Some can only shiver."

FORMER HERALD classified employee, Mary Helen Saldivar, who observes her birthday next Saturday, insists if Detroit had been on its toes, it would have switched long ago from making cars to electronic games.

Gene Kimble, former circulation man now good with Herald figures and who recently tossed his crutches away following leg surgery, says: "Business firms don't seem to be using their tax-cut money to expand. The only outfit that's investing heavily is the mill that makes socks for industry to keep its money in," adds Gene, a heavy investor in Pogo.

BACKSHOP BOSS BOB Rogers, who celebrates his birthday Valentine's Day and has "only suffered three heart attacks" during his 27 years employment with the Herald, says: "San Francisco is still shaking from the celebration after the Super Bowl game. 'It was the city's biggest victory since the Great Earthquake.'"

Bob provides the final words on the 1982 Super Bowl: "Somebody clearly forgot to tell the Cincinnati Bengals to have a nice day."

"Bill Walsh, the San Francisco coach, got a telegram from President Reagan. The loser, Forrest Gregg, kept thinking he'd probably get one from Richard Nixon."

FRANK GONZALES, also known as the "Coahoma Kid," says: "It's refreshing now for some of us to turn to basketball, a sport in which we can be sure no one will ever be named Too Tall."

Editor's Column

By LINDA ADAMS

Anybody know a good cold joke?

Yesterday's warm weather seemed like a heat spell after all the icy cold we've been suffering.

The "heat wave" reminded me of some heat jokes I've collected over the years. Then I realized I don't know a single "cold joke."

So here's the deal: I'll share the heat jokes, if you'll write in your "cold jokes" this week. I'll print the jokes and your name in this column next Sunday.

In the meantime, here are the heat jokes:

• A neighbor asked Mr. Dockrey how his hogs had fared in the hot, dry weather. He said, "You know, they just done fine, right up till they died."

• It was so hot we let the family dog inside and he curled up next to the cook stove to cool off.

• It was so hot yesterday the corn started popping in our garden; the donkey thought it was snowing and froze to death!

(There are many versions to that joke. Here's another version: It really is hot in Howard County. We have a large patch of corn out in the west part of the county, and it got so hot the corn started popping. Cattle in a nearby pasture thought it was a snowstorm and three baby calves froze to death.)

• Wolf 1: Chihuahua, you see the curves on that girl?

Wolf 2: Relax. That's just skinny Becky. The heat waves from the ground do that.

• Dogs don't need fire hydrants anymore. They just walk down the sidewalk and never leave a visible trail.

• The milk of human kindness just ain't the same when it comes powdered.

• Sorry, we're all out of watermelons. Would you settle for the concentrate?

• A Big Spring Boy Scout leader was giving his troop some pointers on astronomy. "The sun is approximately 92 million miles from the earth," he said. A sweating Scout pondered this bit of information and asked, "Sir, have you checked that distance lately?"

• A local resident declares he saw a horned toad go into a drug store and ask for suntan lotion.

• A pair of Texans was discussing the current heat situation. "I wonder how hot it is in purgatory," one mused. "Beats me," the other replied, "but I hear they send their thermometers to Texas for testing."

• It's so dry in Big Spring Mrs. Smith had to staple the stamps on her envelopes.

• It's been so hot in Colorado City, the lizards are taking turns riding piggyback so they can cool their feet.

• You know it's hot in Big Spring when you see a lizard standing on one foot.

• It's so hot, the lizards are walking around with sticks in their mouths, so when they stop they stand on the sticks to keep their feet from burning.

• The ground is so hot the horned toads and lizards are walking on stilts.

• It's so hot that I make my wife mad just to feel the breeze from her flapping jaws.

• How hot is it? Well sir, last Tuesday in a hot dry pasture I saw a dog chasing a jackrabbit and they were both walking.

• It's so hot my neighbor's chickens are laying three-minute eggs.

• It's so hot, our chickens are not only laying hard-boiled eggs, but the eggs are already deviled.

• It's so hot our water taps are now labeled "Hot" and "Hotter."

• It was a hot dry day. The temperature was about 125, and the humidity was about minus 25.

The cowpoke was ambling along on his pony at about half a mile an hour. He was getting a little moisture from his chewing tobacco, and he tried to spit. About that time, a whirlwind twisted by and the spit just exploded in his face, leaving him with the darndest set of baked-in freckles you ever saw.

• I now enjoy having our own milk cows. I never cared much for sweet milk, but it's been so hot the cows are giving melted butter.

• We had a good peach crop this year, but this is the first time they made preserves on the tree.

• You do have to watch for the rattlesnakes now. The heat has melted the rattles off and you can't hear them.

• Mr. Smith tells of a neighbor who got hit with a drop of rain; it took two buckets of dust to revive him.

• Then he has some ducks out there who are seven years old but don't know how to swim yet.

• How hot is it? It's so hot that the fish I caught was a sunfish. He was wearing sun glasses and eating a popsicle.

• It's so hot that a robin was in the grocery store looking for Bird's Eye frozen worms.

• It's hot, dry, no water, the pasture is burned and the cattle are starving. The cattle are so thin, by using carbon paper we now brand two at a time.

• A church sign states, "You think it's hot here?"

• It's so hot and dry here in Howard County we had to pull our well out of the ground and run it through a wringer to get water for the canary bird.

• It's so hot my cup runneth under.

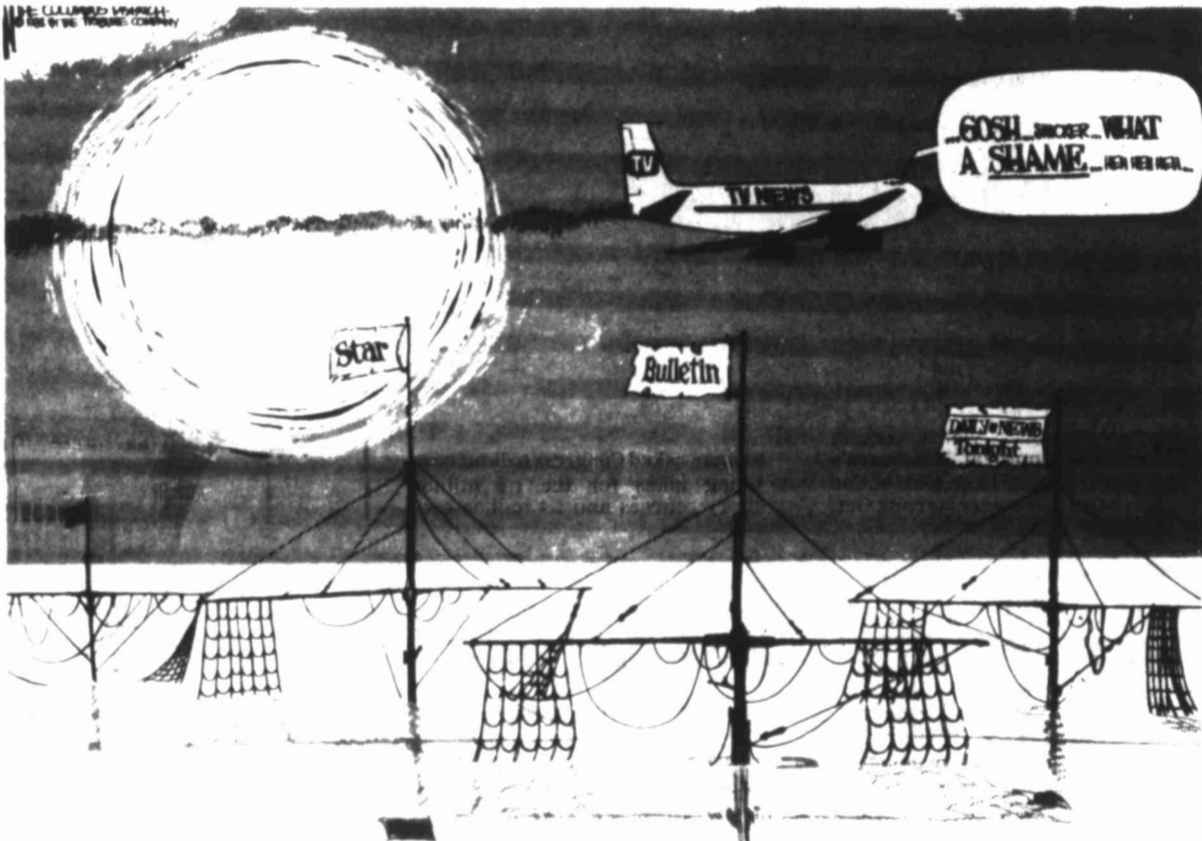

• It's so hot my turnips won't turn up.

• It's so hot the temperature is higher than the price of gasoline.

• The bulls sweated so badly at the rodeo that the riders had to wear water skis.

• It was so hot that the only shade in town was at Dolly Parton's feet.

Well, that's my part of the bargain—now it's your turn. Send your "cold jokes" to Cold Jokes, care of Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring 79720. Or call me at 263-7331.

Is U.S. losing its grip on Antarctica?

WASHINGTON — To save a few dollars, the United States may lose its leading role in developing the uncalculated wealth of the world's "last frontier": Antarctica. This would please the Kremlin, which is able, willing and eager to dominate the frozen continent.

A 14-agency advisory group on Antarctica has urged the National Security Council to maintain a "basic balanced program" at the South Pole — lest we lose our influence over the ultimate fate of this uninhabited but potentially rich continent. The price tag the advisory group puts on this "basic balanced program" is from $80 million to $90 million. That's less than half the estimated cost of a single B-1 bomber.

I sent my associate Dale Van Atta to Antarctica to find out what was going on in this farthestmost corner of the earth. I asked him to look for any sign that the project was a gigantic boondoggle — a multimillion-dollar popsicle for the enjoyment of scientists at the taxpayers' expense. He found no evidence of significant waste, quite the contrary. By and large, he found a group of dedicated scientists, working under harsh conditions and performing valuable research on a tight budget.

THE NEAREST THING to waste that my associate found involved a tracked vehicle that quit at the South Pole and was left sitting for a couple of years. Then, almost on a whim, a worker jumped into the vehicle's cab and got the engine to turn over. It has been doing its job ever since — as have two C-130 transport planes that crashed into the ice and were pieced back together.

Some Americans at McMurdo, the main supply base, still live in cramped "temporary" quarters put up in 1957-58. There has been no money for new water plants, and the full-time residents can take showers only about once a week. My associate was there 10 days without a shower; why waste precious water on a visitor who would soon be back in civilization?

One budgetary problem is unique to the hostile environment of Antarctica: The wind-whipped ice and snow have a way of swallowing up man's puny "improvements." The U.S. station at the South Pole, for example, is being inexorably reclaimed by the Antarctic weather, and it will cost $20 million to replace.

Perhaps the basic financial problem of our Antarctic program is that its current $70 million budget is about one-tenth of the National Science Foundation's. This led to internal criticism that the Antarctica budget "may be an unnecessarily large commitment of Science and Technology funds."

They had no complaint about the science itself. In fact, a confidential

State Department document describes the United States as "the preeminent nation in the scientific investigation of Antarctica."

But one of the policy groups' reports noted that the U.S. effort has suffered "a real decline since 1979" because of escalating fuel costs, military salaries, and "special expenses associated with maintaining a self-contained infrastructure on an otherwise barren continent at the end of an 8,500-mile supply line."

The advisory group warned: "U.S. credibility and leadership among (Antarctica) Treaty nations derives from U.S. emphasis upon scientific research..."

Without the U.S. commitment, the international treaty preserving Antarctica for peaceful scientific research will die, the advisers predicted, leading to "conflict over disputed territory among claimants and non-claimants, and almost certain Soviet hegemony."

Billy Graham

God judges nations through disasters

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know you have said sometimes that God judges nations that do not honor him. But how bad must a nation be before he will judge it? Do you think our nation is approaching that point? — C.F.

DEAR C.F.: Yes, it is true that God judges nations as well as individuals. This is clearly taught in the Old Testament in many passages. For example, the first chapter of the book of Amos speaks of the nations which surrounded Israel, listing their sins and declaring God's judgment on them — judgments which in fact took place. Many parts of the first chapters of Isaiah also detail God's judgments on various nations which had turned their backs on him. The New Testament also speaks of this subject.

It is difficult to say how "bad" a nation must get before God's judgment comes upon it. One reason is because God's judgment is seen in several ways. At times, for example, God judges nations through events which punish them — an invasion, a famine, a drought, or some other disaster. The nation may continue its existence, but it still feels the hand of God's judgment. But sometimes God acts in very drastic ways, even to the point of destroying a nation completely. Ancient Israel often felt God's judgment when it turned away from God, and eventually the nation was destroyed for its sins.

I am sure God's judgment is at work in our world today, although we may not always recognize it. No one can say if our nation is at the point at which God will allow it to be destroyed. But we need to take seriously what the Bible teaches about God's judgment, no matter how near we may be to the brink.

There is only one answer to sin, and that is repentance and faith in Jesus Christ. The real question is not so much what may be happening in our nation or world, but what is happening in our individual hearts. Have you ever turned from your sins, and asked Christ to come into your life? Are you seeking each day to live for him and follow him in holy living?

GOP congressmen shocked by size of budget deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's massive deficit forecast sent shock waves Saturday through the GOP ranks in Congress, and Republicans and Democrats alike said they doubted his tax and spending recommendations would survive an election-year session.

Several sources predicted Republicans would spend the next several weeks debating whether to simply abandon Reagan's blueprint and develop an alternative of their own. "I was just sort of in a state of shock as I listened" to a briefing on the president's budget on Friday, said Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, the deputy Republican leader.

He said Reagan's deficit forecast of $91.5 billion assumed enactment of "a series of recommendations, some of which didn't fly before and I'm not sure they're going to fly this time."

"The deficits are enormous. And they're (the predictions) probably too low," said one Republican member of Congress, who asked not to be identified by name.

House Republican Leader Bob Michel of Illinois conceded, "The president's budget will be difficult to pass in its entirety." But he said Reagan is "on the right course and the public is very much committed to that course."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kansas, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said, "The Republicans I talk to... are frightened about the deficits..."

He said the committee he heads would not "present a package in opposition to the president's package." But he said there are a lot of proposals in the budget "that are going to be very distressing to members of Congress."

Democrats agreed that Reagan underestimated the deficits — $96.1 billion this year, declining only to about $72 billion in 1985 — and also condemned the rest of the president's proposals as unrealistic.

DAVID STOCKMAN...at budget briefing

"I think the budget is unworkable, unwise and unfair," said the assistant leader of Senate Democrats, Alan Cranston of California, a potential presidential contender for 1984.

Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., said Reagan's program amounted to "more... laetrile for a nation suffering from an economic cancer."

But if the Democratic reaction was predictable, comments from the Republicans were in marked contrast to the chorus of praise that greeted Reagan's initial call last year for budget and tax cuts.

Republicans moved in virtual lockstep then to enact Reagan's proposals intact in the Senate and found enough defectors from a Democratic majority in the House to prevail there too.

This time, Republicans said there would be strong pressure in the Republican-controlled Senate as well as the House to trim Reagan's proposal for a $33 billion increase for the Pentagon.

At the same time, Stevens said, some party members would attempt to raise taxes against Reagan's wishes.

In a score or more of proposals that would affect millions of people, Reagan is suggesting that the government stop doing some of the things it has been doing, or charge people for some of the things it has done free or for less than cost.

Reagan explains his philosophy: "The federal government is the taxpayer's steward. It has the obligation to ensure that the resources surrendered to advance the public welfare are put to the most effective and proper uses."

Reagan proposed lots of ways — 50 cents here, a dollar there — to save the government's money, but at a cost to the average American.

Take the brucellosis eradication goal.

The Agriculture Department tests for the disease, tries to find its source, quarantines infected herds, requires the slaughter of infected animals, pays their owners indemnities and vaccinates uninfected animals. States pay 40 percent of the cost.

Reagan said the program amounts to "a subsidy to beef and dairy producers for what otherwise would be a normal management practice."

He said ending the program would save state and federal governments $1.1 billion between now and the year 2000.

Ending it, he said, would increase producers' responsibility for vaccinating their herds, eliminate unnecessary costs of retesting immune animals and cut out "an unwarranted intrusion of federal government into the operation of private businesses."

Time for money game

AUSTIN—A Texas Riddle: If State Sen. Peyton McKnight, who made millions in East Texas oil fields and drives a limousine longer than my list of bills, isn't rich enough to run for governor, who is? Answer: Buddy Temple and Bill Clements.

It's not a very funny riddle—not very funny at all. Ben Sargent, political cartoonist for The Austin American-Statesman, provided more yuks last week with his version of the McKnight-out, Temple-in scenario.

His six-panel cartoon showed two representatives of the Texas Democratic Party testing potential candidates by showing them the bank statement for Gov. Clements' campaign.

McKnight says, "Yaaaaauuggghh! That's the most awesome thing I've ever (choke) seen! Air! (gasp, choke) Give me air!"

John Hill says, "No! No! There's not that much money in the world! I...I...Aarrrrrrrghh!"

Buddy Temple says, "Uh—is this IT? Looks like a normal, everyday bank statement 't me."

One Democratic tester says to the other: "I think we've got a keeper."

NOT SO LONG AGO—try five years—three million dollars has considered sufficient for a first-class statewide campaign, even in a state the size of ours.

Clements, a rags-to-riches type with a flare for having things his way, changed that concept in 1978 with a $7.5 million effort that won the Governor's Mansion for the Republicans for the first time in 104 years. He did it by being wealthy enough to loan the campaign a few million when it needed help.

He'll never know how much of a gamble that was. By winning, Clements came to a position of power that convinced all sorts of people that they should contribute money to retire his political debts. If he had lost, the line of those wanting help of Bill would have been much shorter.

McKnight faced the same sort of gamble, and blinked. He said he wasn't willing to jeopardize his family's financial future to satisfy his political ambitions.

Temple, scion of the huge Temple family financial empire of East Texas, probably could finance his own campaign for president without worrying about the future. He and the clan can put up the money needed to start a major campaign.

And he has another major advantage: He can—and will—remain on the Texas Railroad Commission while running for governor. He has four years left on his six-year term.

PERSONS AND FIRMS regulated by the commission—those involved in oil and gas and transportation—tend to have money and tend to spend some of it on political campaigns.

A sitting Railroad Commissioner has an edge when seeking financial support from those special-interest groups.

What energy-industry lobbyist or special-interest group wants to risk of fending one of the three persons who regulates them?

None, of course, but neither does anyone want to offend an incumbent governor, particularly one who is in the oil business himself.

Temple's candidacy presents the energy industry with a tough question on how to spread the money around in the governor's race. That won't be a major problem in the primaries. The industry can spread a little among all the major Democratic candidates, just in case Bob Armstrong or Mark White wins, but give more to Temple.

If Temple wins the primary and faces Clements in November, however, the questions get a bit tougher for the energy and transportation industries, who should they support? What will be the repercussions should they back a loser?

Will elderly be hurt by budget?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan spared Social Security retirement benefits from his budget ax, but asked Congress on Saturday to cut nearly $3 billion from the companion Medicare program and to impose sharp new curbs on the growth of military and civil service pensions.

The 26 million elderly and 3 million disabled Americans now covered by Medicare would be forced to pay for some services now free and they could face higher charges and reduced service brought on by reductions in what Medicare pays hospitals and physicians.

"Our administration has not and will not turn its back on our elderly or needy citizens," Reagan declared in his budget message to Congress. But he said it is time to rein in "the explosive growth of medical programs — 16.7 percent per year since 1978."

Even with Reagan's long list of economy measures which require congressional approval, Medicare's cost is slated to grow from $49.5 billion to $55.3 billion in the year starting Oct. 1.

Social Security's cash payments to 36.7 million retired or disabled workers, their dependents and survivors will climb from $155 billion to $173.5 billion in fiscal 1983 — nearly 23 percent of the entire budget.

Reagan's budget provides for the full projected Social Security cost-of-living increases of 8.1 percent this July and 6.5 percent in July 1983.

Reagan asked Congress to limit cost-of-living hikes for the 1.1 million military retirees and 1.4 million civil service retirees to the Consumer Price Index increase or the average pay hike for active duty workers, whichever is lower.

Who will replace Brezhnev?

MOSCOW (AP) — Konstantin Chernenko, a close ally of President Leonid I. Brezhnev, is off to a flying start and appears to be leading the field in the Kremlin powerstakes to succeed the ailing Soviet leader.

The jockeying to succeed Brezhnev intensified with the death last month of 79-year-old Mikhail Suslov, top Communist Party ideologist and a ranking member of the ruling Politburo.

Had Suslov outlived the 75-year-old Brezhnev, he was expected to have played a major role in selecting the new Soviet leader. But with Suslov's death, it was left to his Politburo survivors to fight it out among themselves.

Western diplomats and East European sources give Chernenko, 70, high marks for the rapidity with which he put himself in the limelight. An East European source, who asked to remain anonymous, said Chernenko was the front-runner from the moment Suslov died.

The battle to assume Brezhnev's all-powerful position is viewed by Kremlin watchers here as a three-way race among Chernenko, 75-year-old Politburo member Andrei Kirilenko and 67-year-old Yuri Andropov, Politburo member and chairman of the powerful KGB secret police and espionage network.

Chernenko got off to the quickest start. Five days after Suslov died, the silver-haired Chernenko was hosting visiting Greek Communist Party officials. Then last week he flew to Paris for the 24th congress of the French Communist Party. Kirilenko was relegated to seeing Chernenko off at the airport.

Chernenko hit that theme hard in a Paris speech to the French Communists who have stood fast behind the Soviets even on issues such as Afghanistan and martial law in Poland.

Small-town library will 'open up world'

ANTHONY, Texas (AP) — When Peggy Davis was growing up, the way to experience new things and travel to faraway lands was through reading a book.

But nowadays, she said, too many youngsters — especially in this small town — are willing to close their minds to the outside world.

"There's a whole big world outside this little town and they don't know anything about it," she said. "It's like we have a wall around us."

Mrs. Davis has a plan to break that wall. She is trying to start a library and recreation center for young people.

"Right this second, it's a dream," she said. "But it's certainly more viable than it was a year ago."

In the past month, Mrs. Davis has been contacting private foundations around the country in an attempt to get funds for her project, called the Sunshine Library.

"These people say, 'You mean there's no library in this town?'" she said. "They can't believe it."

"We don't have anything for these kids to do, but we've got seven bars in three blocks. There are two video games at a restaurant and they stand in line to play them. This bubble has got to burst."

Anthony's problems are more complicated than just the slow pace of most small, rural towns.

One of the problems is that the Texas-New Mexico border runs through the middle of the town, making it hard for citizens from either side of the line to get aid from the states.

"When you meet somebody here, the first question they ask is what side of town you live on, as if it makes a difference," she said. "I hope something like this will bring this community together."

The other problem, she said, is a seeming willingness among the local youth to live their whole lives in the tiny town, shutting out the rest of the world.

The 52-year-old widow is a relative newcomer to the community, having lived here nearly five years. She came to the area from Las Vegas, Nev., where she was a second chef. "I came out here to work at a restaurant in El Paso," she said. "It went out of business."

In 1978, she had a heart attack and her days in restaurant kitchens were over. Now, she does odd jobs — babysitting, cooking, housesitting.

She decided to stay in Anthony because her 17-year-old son, Sam, was involved in school activities and was happy here.

Through her involvement in Sam's activities and a summer-long job as the town's recreation director, she began to see the need for a facility for young people.

"I see children who don't read," she said. "I see children in Boy Scouting who can't read the Boy Scout manual. I've had to teach kids how to use a compass and they don't know there is a north or south. These children are familiar with nothing but failure."

Mrs. Davis is determined to make the library a success. "I've got everything I own sunk into this," she said.

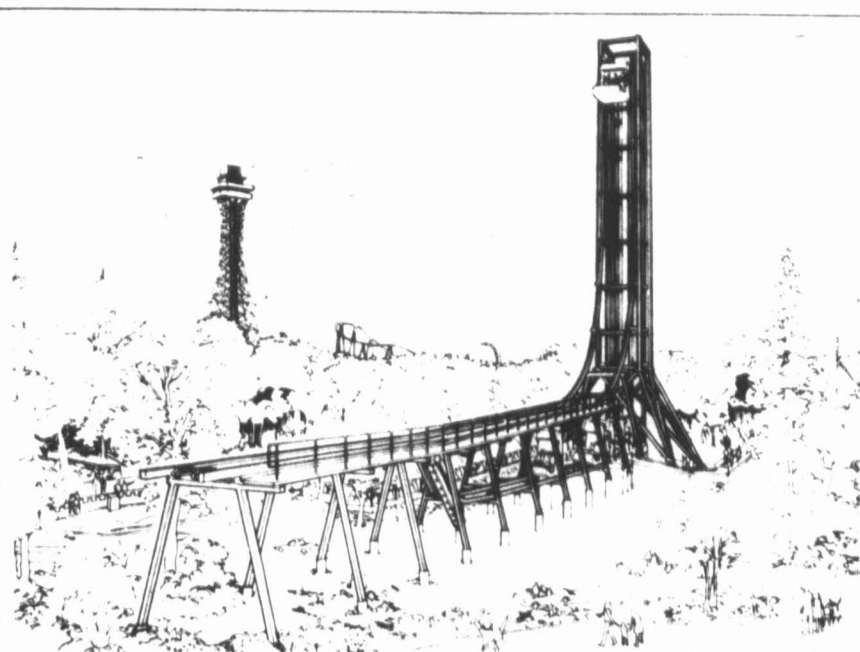

While preparing her proposals for the various foundations, Mrs. Davis used her own funds to put up earnest money on a $30,000 house that she hopes to convert into the library and recreation center.

As she leads a visitor around the cluttered house, her dream begins to take shape. A concrete garage becomes a theater where children can while away lazy Saturday afternoons watching movies on videocassettes. Different rooms of the house become reading rooms filled with books on various subjects.

"I want to rebuild this fireplace so that they can pop corn, stretch out and read a book," she said. "I'd much rather have them doing that than sitting in the back of a car smoking pot. That's what they're doing now."

In these days of federal budget cuts, Mrs. Davis sees charity as the only way to make the dream a reality.

"This free sucking off the government has got to stop," she said. "I'm not afraid to ask for things."

TEXAS CLIFFHANGER — The world's first total freefall ride, the Texas Cliffhanger, will open in late April at Six Flags Over Texas. Riders will be dropped at freefall speed from the top of the 128-foot tall tower. Passengers will end up riding flat on their backs as the ride's computer-controlled brakes bring the gondolas to a stop.

'Cliffhanger' announced by Six Flags over Texas

ARLINGTON, Texas — The world's first total freefall ride, the Texas Cliffhanger, will debut late this spring at Six Flags Over Texas.

The Arlington theme park's general manager, Ray Williams, said the towering, $2.1 million ride will give thrill-seekers "the same falling sensation they would feel if they stepped off the top of a nine-story building."

Williams said the ride has no precedent in the industry. "Even our loop coaster," he said, "had 'ancestors' that were built around the turn of the century, but there's nothing in amusement ride history which resembles the Texas Cliffhanger."

Williams, who recently rode the prototype model of the ride at the Intamin AG factory near Geneva, Switzerland, said, "The sensation is unlike anything developed up to now. There's no way to compare it to even the biggest of roller coasters, or any existing ride."

The "L-shaped" ride tower juts 128 feet into the air. Passengers board the Texas Cliffhanger on the underside of the tower. They will be seated four abreast in sleek, padded gondolas. The gondolas rise one at a time to the top of the tower, with the trip up taking only ten seconds.

At the top, the gondolas move into "drop position" and will be held at that point for ten seconds. Riders, protected by over-the-shoulder "lap bars," have an unobstructed view of the area in front of them.

After the pause, the gondolas — weighing 1,500 pounds without passengers — drop at freefall speed, guided by tracks.

WTSU Chorale performs Tuesday

The West Texas State University Chorale will perform at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the auditorium at the First Baptist Church.

Big Spring is only one of several stops the Chorale is making on a spring semester tour. The group will also be performing in San Angelo, San Antonio and Oklahoma City.

The Chorale has received state, national and international recognition and acclaim for its high musical standards and excellence in performance.

The group has appeared before the Texas Music Educators Association, the Music Educators National Conference, and the Southwest Division American Choral Directors Association convention.

The Chorale is comprised of selected students from WTSU. The group annually performs at two formal concerts at the University, concerts with the Amarillo Symphony, the National CBS Christmas Broadcast, and the concert tour.

Dr. Hugh Sanders is director of Choral Activities at WTSU, and has held that position since 1970.

In addition to conducting the WTSU Chorale, he supervises the master's program in choral music in the graduate school.

Before coming to West Texas State University, Dr. Sanders was director of choirs at Thomas Jefferson High School in Port Arthur and Pampa High School. He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from Baylor University and his doctorate from the University of Colorado.

He has served the Texas Music Educators Association as president, state vocal chairman, and All-State choir organizer.

Illinois bank fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — First National Bank and Trust Co. of Tuscola, Ill., was declared insolvent Saturday, and the Federal Deposit Insuranc Corp. was appointed receiver to protect its customers' funds and to arrange sale of the bank.

The bank failure, first since Midtown National Bank of Pueblo, Colo., was declared insolvent in October 1981, was announced by acting Comptroller of the Currency Paul Homan.

A spokesman, Carole Austrian, said the Illinois bank probably will be sold soon under terms being arranged by the FDIC, subject to federal court approval.

"Over the last two years, FNB experienced very serious loan losses and other earnings problems," Homan said in a statement.

Reception held for hospital employee

Friends and co-workers of Diana Graves, long-time employee at Malone-Hogan Hospital, attended a reception in her honor from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Friday in the classroom of the hospital.

Mrs. Graves retired in January after 30 years as Director of Housekeeping.

The reception was delayed to allow Mrs. Graves to recuperate from emergency surgery, which she underwent in late December, according to Administrator John Bingham.

"We celebrated her recovery as well as her retirement. We will miss Mrs. Graves, and appreciate her long years of service to this hospital," said Bingham, handing her a gift from the hospital.

Mrs. Graves received an engraved plaque recognizing those years, which began Sept. 3, 1950.

"A lot of changes take place in 30 years. I was the 'executive housekeeper' when I went to work here in 1951, but I also supervised the kitchen, and thought nothing of turning a boiler valve or two back in those days," said Mrs. Graves.

When she first went to work at Malone-Hogan, the hospital and clinic were one organization.

"We were much smaller then. I made drapes for the patient rooms, 'chest wraps' for examination rooms, and the mending. The doctors would come by with drawings of what they wanted, and I'd go down town, pick up fabric samples, and sew them up," Mrs. Graves said.

Once someone suggested that she go to nursing school, but she has always liked her job. "I liked going up to check the rooms and talking with the patients and their families. Family members knew that the welcome mat was out and the coffee hot in the housekeeping office," she said.

Doctors liked to stop by, too, so Mrs. Graves came to know and appreciate them. She learned to appreciate their concern for their profession, and the depth of concern they felt toward their patients.

"I think they really do put the patient first, although we may not always understand. I remember an old lady who came to Dr. Marcum, after falling and breaking her leg. He realized that she was nearly blind because of cataracts over both her eyes. He suggested that she allow Dr. Malone to remove them at the same time he set her leg in surgery, else she would probably fall again and break her leg again. Or maybe a hip. She couldn't afford it, she told him. They did the surgery without charge, but that's not really what I set out to tell," Mrs. Graves went on.

"I went by her room everyday, as usual, and she came to know me by my voice, because her eyes were bandaged. Then one morning I went in, and the bandages were off. 'I saw my doctor for the first time,' she said, speaking of Dr. Malone, 'and he's so pretty!' When I told Dr. Malone about it, I thought we'd have a good laugh. But he was very serious as he told me that most people who cannot see because of cataracts, often react that way. For that reason, he always made it a point to have a family member or friend stand where the patient would see them first. That sort of experience belongs to the patient and the family, he said. Of course, the lady had no one, but I will never forget that," Mrs. Graves remembers.

Houstonian, Princess Margaret reminisce

HOUSTON (AP) — The last time Salvatore Manzo saw Princess Margaret of Great Britain was when he helped her feed canapes to her dog.

Almost 33 years later, Manzo had the chance to see the princess again and, much to his surprise, she remembered him.

Manzo, director of executive development in the Jones Graduate School of Administration at Rice University, was one of about 500 guests who attended the opening of an exhibition of 50 sketches drawn by artist Leonardo da Vinci more than five centuries ago.

The exhibition, on loan from the Royal Collection at Windsor Castle, was opened officially by the princess Friday at the Museum of Fine Arts.

Admitting he was anxious to see the sketches, Manzo was more enchanted with the opportunity to talk once again with the younger sister of Queen Elizabeth II.

The last time the two met, Manzo was in the Air Force and was the first man to bring a B-29 bomber into Sculthorpe Air Base near the royal family's residence at Sandringham.

"It was Feb. 22, 1949, George Washington's birthday," he recalled. "But nobody mentioned that."

Then King George VI invited some of his neighbors, including Manzo, to a "sherry party."

"It was just like a cocktail party you'd have in your living room," Manzo said. "It was the first time that I ever had ice in my drink in England."

While impressed by the trappings of royalty, including the pheasants bearing the royal crest, the American serviceman said he was more taken by the royal family.

"They just acted like ordinary people. Someone told me to go in and talk with the king. I said, 'What can a say to a king?' and they told me just tell him a funny story," he said.

Though no funny stories came to mind, Manzo did sit with the British monarch and talked for about 15 minutes.

"They were just very nice people. The king, Elizabeth the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret, were just marvelous," he said.

But that was 33 years ago, and the princess has met many people at social gatherings since.

As her highness toured the da Vinci exhibit, wearing a peach dress and a gem-encrusted brooch, Manzo managed to edge closer and closer to her.

Between examining the delicate sketches and discussing them with the Royal Librarian Sir Robin Mackworth Young, the princess paused to chat with bystanders and Manzo got his opening.

He carried with him a list of everyone who attended the Sandringham gathering in 1949, introduced himself to the princess and was rewarded when she beamed recognition of the event.

"Here, let me see it," she said when he told her of his guest list. Scanning the guests, she noticed the parents of her lady-in-waiting, Lady Ann Tennant, were present and immediately called her over to introduce her to Manzo.

An evening that started with the faint hope of jarring a long-ago memory turned into another memorable event for Manzo.

"The one thing I'll always remember about her is the twinkle in her eyes," he said as he watched the princess walk through the exhibit.

Stolen car strikes four at school

DALLAS (AP) — Three first-graders and a school crossing guard were injured Friday afternoon when they were struck by a stolen car that sped through an East Dallas intersection, police said.

The 24-year-old driver was arrested about 4 miles away and was being held on investigation of driving while intoxicated, auto theft, failure to stop and render aid, driving with a suspended license, failure to leave identification and giving a fictitious name.

One of the Oran M. Roberts Elementary School students suffered a broken leg and the others were not injured seriously, hospital officials said.

"I was walking with my flag up," said the crossing guard, 68-year-old Nathaniel Smith. "Either he didn't see it or he ignored it."

NO AGENT AVAILABLE — Ivan Schinderman arrived at the Laker Airways' mid-Manhattan office Friday to pick up his plane tickets. The company announced earlier Friday in London that they were out of business because of debts. Schinderman waits an agent to straighten things out.

Britons pledge $500,000 for airline

LONDON (AP) — Britons pledged over $500,000 Saturday in a touching expression of hope that cheap-fare pioneer Sir Freddie Laker would somehow get his financially wrecked airline flying across the Atlantic again.

The Daily Express called him "a hero of our time," and said he "put the world into ordinary people's hands. ... For a lot of little people who looked up to him, and whose wings he spread, this morning's skies will be very empty."

Laker announced the demise of Laker Airways on Friday after giving up trying to obtain a rescheduling of his $359 million in debts, much of which came from orders for new aircraft.

But a group of hotel owners in Shoreham, England, said they had raised $463,000 in pledges by mid-day Saturday. A London businessman said he had drummed up $93,000 in pledges.

"Freddie has given so much to the British public, they should now come and support him in his hour of need," said the London businessman, Colin Rayworth.

A Laker Airways spokesman said a 76-year-old woman had refused to leave the ticket counter at Gatwick airport until her check for $1,850 had been accepted.

"It is hard to believe," said the spokesman. "It is difficult to think that the firm could go under with the amount of support being shown."

Laker said in a TV interview, "I am overwhelmed by the public reaction and the public support. The telephone lines are blocked by people ringing up to ask, 'Where can we send money to and what can we do to help?'"

Laker also met with bank-appointed accountants charged with trying to salvage Laker Airways.

A statement said they were seeking Laker's "views of the best method of preserving those parts of the business which are viable. We will assess the financial condition of the company and see what can be done to preserve the business and the jobs of (2,500) Laker employees."

The accountants handling the Laker crisis, Bill Mackey and Nigel Hamilton of the firm Ernest and Whinney, said Pan Am, British Airways, Air Florida and British Caledonian had agreed to honor the return half of Laker tickets in the United States, subject to seating availability on their flights.

Since its founding as a scheduled carrier in 1977, Laker Airways rose to capture 25 percent of the passenger traffic between Britain and the United States.

Apes with leprosy may lead to new treatment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five apes infected with leprosy may hold the key to how the human body responds to the age-old disease, how it is transmitted and what can be done to improve treatment of the "incurable wound," scientists say.

Leprosy — more properly known as Hansen's disease or Mycobacterium leprae — has blighted mankind since the beginnings of history and has frustrated medical researchers because it refuses to grow in a test tube or tissue culture.

It was 1971 before researchers at New Iberia's Gulf South Research Institute learned that armadillos could catch the disease, but it took more than four years to cultivate the disease.

"The problem with armadillos as an animal model is that they don't have a typical infection. They're simply overwhelmed by the disease," Dr. Robert H. Wolf of Tulane University's Delta Regional Primate Research Centers said in a recent interview.

Enter Louise, a sooty mangabey monkey who was part of a high cholesterol diet experiment at Gulf South Research when strange growths appeared on her face. The growths turned out to be leprosy.

But it was premature to conclude that Louise could be a successful host. This was only the second time that a spontaneous case of leprosy was recorded in a non-human primate.

The first, in 1977, was a chimpanzee, but Delta Research's efforts to cultivate the disease in another chimp were unsuccessful.

The Gulf South researchers, knowing the center's interest in infectious diseases, offered Louise to Dr. Peter Gerone, the center's director. Although it was unlikely that Louise could transmit the disease, Gerone figured it was worth a try.

Delta got eight other mangabeys from the Yerkes Primate Center in Atlanta and "took some of the material from the face lesions of Louise and directly transmitted it to others," Gerone said. "One showed symptoms in three months, the other in four months."

To buttress their findings, the Delta researchers took human leprosy, inoculated an armadillo to increase the concentration of the disease, then inoculated four mangabeys and waited.

"We have four inoculated animals, all of which came down with the disease," Gerone said. "It's not a scientific breakthrough, but in terms of finding a primate host, it is."

500 fetuses found at former med clinic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An employee of a container company said he "cried and stared" when he looked into a repossessed storage bin and saw that it contained as many as 500 preserved human fetuses.

"They're all in formaldehyde, in separate plastic containers, labeled with women's names, dates, going back to 1979," police Detective Larry Kallestad said. "There were fetuses, records, medical things. It almost looked like this was a storage cabinet."

Authorities said the 20-by-8-foot metal box may contain as many as 500 fetuses and some weigh as much as four pounds.

The discovery was made Friday when the Martin Container Co. of Wilmington, Calif., opened the bin the company had repossessed from a defunct medical clinic.

Martin employee Ron Gillette, who was one of four workers who opened the bin, smelled an awful odor and found that three boxes inside the bin were open, revealing their contents. "I had tears in my eyes," he said.

Mel Grussing, district supervisor of the Health Facilities division of the county Department of Health Services, said Martin workers notified authorities. The medical center, which had been renting the container, sent a check to buy it. But the check bounced at the bank, so Martin repossessed the box.

"When they opened it up, it was completely filled with boxes, like all the way to the top, front and back," Kallestad said. Initial inspection indicates "most of it is fetuses."

"I noticed what looked to be lab-type specimens, which included fetuses from probable abortions," he said. "I saw about six or seven pathological specimens (fetuses) in formaline solution."

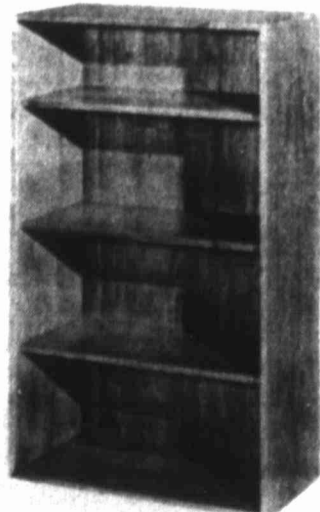

"They (the fetuses) look like lab specimens," he said, noting that the round, opaque plastic containers "would be the usual course of disposing something like that."

Commissioner Crooker answers civil suit

County Commissioner Bill Crooker has answered the civil suit filed against him and Mr. G's Garden Center in 118th District Court by denying ownership of the center.

The Vaughan Jacklin Corporation of Illinois had filed suit in January against Crooker and the garden center for an unpaid account. In his answer filed in 118th District Court Wednesday, Crooker stated he had never done business with the corporation and did not do business as Mr. G's Garden Center.

The answer states Crooker has no interest in the business, that it is the sole separate property of Joyce Crooker.

The answer also states if such action exists, the statute of limitations has run out on the supposed 1979 debt. Denial of relief to the corporation is asked by the answer since the suit was filed against the wrong party. Crooker is being represented by Wayne Basden.

Don't blame the weatherman, it's the computer

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Feb. 7, 1982 11-A

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those curious about the weather across the country have been getting sometimes confused and inaccurate information lately from the National Weather Service.

And the weather service said Thursday that the problems, caused by computer and code mixups, may continue for a while.

Joe Friday, deputy director of the service, said that problems with late and incomplete data tables may keep coming up as the agency overcomes technical difficulties with new codes and computers.

"We are not 100 percent certain when the problems will be resolved," Friday said in an interview, "but we hope it's soon. We've had a lot of complaints."

The biggest problems have come in compiling and transmitting daily tables summarizing conditions, such as high and low temperatures, in U.S. cities.

This information normally goes from computers at the National Meteorological Center near Washington to local weather bureaus. This data then goes to national news services, which relay it to newspapers and broadcast stations for public distribution.

For more than a month, this operation has been erratic. The news media often have not received the data in time to meet deadlines and have been forced to print incomplete and sometimes out-of-date information.

Problems of moving outdated data occurred Thursday, for example, because workers at the center didn't know they had computer trouble until it was too late to send out correct information by alternative means, Friday said.

Russell on Oklahoma scandal

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Political fun-poker Mark Russell says that even Washington is amazed at the size of Oklahoma's county commissioner scandal, in which "if you want to confess, you have to take a number."

Russell, in Tulsa to address a Town Hall meeting, said he was "fascinated" to learn of the number of the state's county commissioners "lined up to plea bargain."

Farmers feel winter's return

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Winter weather returned to Texas again this week, keeping the pressure on livestock feeding and slowing down cropland preparation.

Grazing was at a minimum as small grain crops over the state made little or no growth in the cold, and some also were hurt by short moisture conditions, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most livestock remain in good shape although there have been the usual weight losses due to the recent adverse weather, said Pfannstiel. Lambing and calving are active in some areas. Some ranchers in West Texas are reducing cattle and sheep due to poor range conditions.

Farmers are planning 1982 crops and getting land in shape for spring planting, only several weeks away in South Texas. This week's cold weather caused some delays, but land preparation is generally ahead of schedule in most areas.

Some harvest operations continue in the Rio Grande Valley and Winter Garden, Pfannstiel said. Harvesting of sugarcane, citrus, carrots, lettuce and cabbage remains active in the Valley and spinach and cabbage are moving to market in the Winter Garden. Both vegetable and citrus markets have improved in recent weeks.

While harvesting of the state's 1981 cotton crop is complete, some ginning of modulated cotton continues in the South Plains and Trans-Pecos area.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Wheat is generally dormant due to cold, dry conditions. Farmers are busy preparing cropland for spring planting as weather conditions permit. Snow covered much of the area but brought little moisture. Cattle remain in good shape, with feeding active.

SOUTH PLAINS: Some ginning of modulated cotton continues. Some land preparation is under way, and full-scale field work will start soon. Wheat is making little growth due to cold weather and lack of moisture. Topsoil moisture is short but subsoil moisture is good. Cattle are in good shape, with feeding active.

ROLLING PLAINS: Recent moisture helped small grains some, but the region generally remains dry. Rain and warmer weather are needed to boost small grains. Farmers are getting cotton land ready for planting but are taking a wait-and-see attitude on buying inputs for the '82 crop. Cattle feeding continues.

NORTH CENTRAL: Wheat and oats generally are in poor shape due to recent freeze damage and lack of moisture. Greenbugs have also damaged some wheat. Some farmers are just now planting oats. Land is being prepared for cotton. Cattle feeding remains active, with poor grazing conditions.

NORTHEAST: Recent rains have helped small grains and winter pastures, but most remain in poor shape due to cold weather damage. Land is being prepared for grain crops and vegetables, with some early vegetables being planted. Livestock feeding continues, with grazing conditions generally poor.

FAR WEST: Ginning of modulated cotton continues, but operations are winding down. Farmers are getting cropland in shape for spring planting. Onions and cabbage are making good growth. Ranges generally are poor and need rain. Livestock feeding continues and early lambing has started.

WEST CENTRAL: Small grains and ranges are in poor shape due to cold, dry conditions. Many ranchers are reducing cattle and sheep numbers due to poor grazing conditions. Supplemental feeding of livestock remains active. Lambing continues.

CENTRAL: Cropland preparation and livestock feeding remain the major farm activities. Livestock conditions are declining due to adverse weather and lack of grazing. Small grains are making little growth due to cold temperatures and lack of moisture in some locations. Lambing is under way.

EAST: Small grains vary from good to poor depending on moisture conditions and damage from recent cold weather. Land is being prepared for field crops and vegetables, with onion and cabbage planting continuing. Growers are also planting peach trees. Dormant oil sprays are being applied to fruit and nut trees to control scale insects. Livestock feeding is active.

UPPER COAST: Farmers are busy getting cropland prepared for spring planting. Winter pastures continue to recuperate from recent cold weather damage but are offering little grazing. Cattle feeding remains active.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Small grains and winter pastures are making little growth due to low temperatures and lack of moisture. Some oats were lost to the recent freeze. Farmers are busy getting cropland ready for spring planting. Most cattle are in good shape, with supplemental feeding active.

SOUTHWEST: Small grains and ranges are in poor shape due to dry conditions. Lack of grazing continues to put pressure on supplemental feeding of livestock. Farmers continue to get cropland ready for spring planting. Some winter vegetables, including cabbage and spinach, continue to move to market.

COASTAL BEND: Farmers remain busy getting cropland ready for spring planting, which is only a few weeks away. However, most of the area needs a good rain. Small grains are starting to show moisture stress and pastures and ranges are dry.

Pull-tab theft charged

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The wife of a Fort Worth police officer was arrested Friday after she was accused of popping tabs of discarded Coca-Cola cans at the bottling plant where she worked.

Some of the tabs, which were marked with cash amounts as part of a promotional drive, were turned in for money at local convenience stores, police said.

Police said the woman, who was fired from her job on a conveyor line at the bottling plant, removed the tabs from cans that had been contaminated or discarded.

"Sometimes the cans aren't completely full or are contaminated when they fall on the floor," said police Lt. A. M. Patterson. "She would pull the tab off if it had a cash amount on it and throw the can in the trash."

Another person turned the tabs in for money, police said.

Q. We are seriously considering selling our home, ourselves, to save the realtor's commission. Can you give us an idea of the sales costs we might encounter?

A. Begin with the cost of advertising your home. Then add to that the cost of your time, effort, etc., spent in showing the home to many people before finding a buyer. Next come closing costs which may include the following: 1) mortgage prepayment penalty if the old mortgage is paid off; 2) legal and escrow fees, often split between buyer and seller; 3) transfer fees; 4) portions of real estate taxes and utility fees; and 5) title insurance fees, etc. A good and reputable real estate agent can, among many other services, help to negotiate with the buyer in paying some of these expenses. You may end up paying more than you would have in the agent's commission.

Mondale assails Reagan

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Former vice president Walter Mondale says the Reagan administration's economic policies offer an "almost unbelievable devotion to the already well-off in America" and could spur him to run for president in 1984.

Before speaking to a regional gathering of the National Education Association Friday, the Democrat told reporters President Reagan's "dismal and appalling" education assistance cuts are among the reasons he may run for president.

"For some reason, this administration cannot seem to understand that most wealth in this country comes from the trained mind," he said. "Why they fail to understand that I don't know, but it's wrong, and it robs America of its future."

Planned cutbacks in federal education assistance and the elimination of the Education Department threaten the next generation's earning ability, he maintained.

"This administration has singled out children," Mondale said. "If they missed anything (to cut) that provided for children's needs, it was because (Budget Director) David Stockman was tired that day."

On the whole, Reagan's policies are causing "profound suffering" for the working class while catering to the rich, he added.

Mondale said he would propose eliminating tax loopholes and deferring 1983 tax cuts, along with less stringent Federal Reserve Board practices.

"I want a strong defense, but there are ways of paring defense expenditures," he said.

Ralph Lauren counterfeits alleged

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has issued a temporary restraining order preventing two companies from using the trademarks of Polo by Ralph Lauren.

U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer Friday also ordered federal marshals to accompany attorneys for Polo Fashions Inc. to seize merchandise believed to be counterfeit.

Allen Butler, attorney for Polo Fashions, and a U.S. marshal's office spokesman said they could not comment on whether any merchandise was seized from the offices of Taighmor Limited Inc. or DFW Sales Corp.

Polo Fashions has sued the two companies, claiming they manufactured, distributed and sold apparel and accessories bearing counterfeit Ralph Lauren trademarks and a polo player logo.

Paul C. Beasley, a private investigator, said in an affidavit filed with the suit that he bought 4 shirts from DFW Sales with counterfeit trademarks.

A salesman told him that "when the shirts were resold at retail, there could be no advertising because representatives of Polo Fashions Inc. would cause trouble if they were aware of DFW's sales of these shirts," Beasley said.

Hawks march past Military, 81-70

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Charles Prescott, watch out. Nathan Givens has his sights set on you. Givens, the 6-6 freshman forward for Howard College, tossed in 36 points for the second consecutive game to lead the Hawks to an 81-70 victory over New Mexico Military Institute in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday night.

The win was the third straight for Howard and boosted its conference record to 9-4, good for third place. For the season the Hawks are 19-6 while NMMI fell to 10-15 with the loss. Givens entered the week the No. 2 scorer in the conference with a 24.9 average, trailing Prescott of New Mexico Junior College. Givens scored 23 in the double overtime win over Western Texas, 36 in the win over South Plains and then 36 again against the Broncos. His average is up 25.7 and Prescott is feeling the pressure.

A jump shot by Reggie Childress six minutes into the first half gave Howard Collee a 10-8 lead the Hawks were off and flying. NMMI cut it to 16-14 on two free throws by Anthony Collins but technical fouls on J.C. Baty and the Bronco coaching staff allowed Leon Issac to hit three bonus free throws. The Hawks got the ball again and scored on shot by Givens to open a 21-14 lead.

The lead grew to as much as 10 points on jumper by Jerome Johnson with 6:33 to go in the first half. Howard then went into a short doze, letting up enough to allow the Broncos to come back to within 35-31 on two more free shots by Collins.

For the final two minutes of the first half, neither team seemed to want to do anything but head to the locker room. Finally Larry Barbour hit two free throws to make it 35-33 before Givens was fouled at the buzzer and made a free shot with his team heading toward the dressing room.

Givens fed a basket and scored himself to open the second half for Howard. Reed Milliken scored for NMMI at 17:31 to make it 44-37 but the Texans would not put points on the scoreboard again until 13:19 when Baty hit a shot from the lane.

The Hawks began mixing up the scoring as James Barnett began making his presence known. He handed out a handful of assists when he wasn't hitting his patented long distance jumper. The Hawks moved to a 13-point lead on a shot by Johnson to make it 56-43 at 10:18.

That was the biggest lead until the Hawks took off on another tear started by Issac's basket at 7:31. The lead grew to 17 points, 68-51, on a bank shot by Givens and then to 20 points when Earl Morris came off the bench to rip a long jumper.

Howard's big lead peaked at 79-55 when Barnett took a pass from Morris and scored to make it 79-55. The Broncos retaliated with two baskets but at 2:03, Givens brought the house down with a break-away power slam.

Coach Harold Wilder began putting in all sorts of players at the end and NMMI, behind 81-61, scored the last nine points of the game with its subs on the court.

Johnson, Barnett and Childress each scored 18 points to follow the 36-point performance by Givens. Milliken had 21 and Baty 20 points for the Broncos.

The Hawks travel to Midland next Thursday night for a battle with second place Midland College. Next home game is Feb. 15 when Howard entertains Odessa College.

Stadler at 10-under

Walrus takes Crosby lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Craig Stadler, gunning for a second early-season victory, swarmed out of the pack with an 8-under-par 64 and established a two-stroke command Saturday in the third round of the 41st Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament.

Stadler, a winner in the Tucson Open that kicked off the 1982 American tour, used the best round of the tournament to compile a 54-hole total of 206, 10 shots under par after one round over each of three Monterey Peninsula courses.

This one was at Cypress Point and represented a tournament record for that scenic, 6,506-yard layout.

"It could have been a helluva lot worse," said Stadler, the man called "the walrus" by his fellow tourists.

"The bulk of the round was the fifth, sixth and seventh, where I went birdie, eagle, birdie. Other than that, just a good, solid round. I didn't make a bogey, really didn't have a chance to make a bogey."

Jim Simons, with a 71 at tough Spyglass Hill, held second at 208, followed by former amateur champion Hal Sutton, at 209 after a par-72 at Spyglass Hill.

Jack Nicklaus put himself in position to make a run at it, got to within a single stroke of the top spot with a birdie-birdie start, and then stopped.

"From then on, I just didn't make anything," said Nicklaus, who played with former President Gerald Ford as his amateur partner before an enormous gallery that took advantage of brilliant sunshine and warm temperatures at Pebble Beach.

He finished with a 71 and was tied at 210 — four strokes back — with Bobby Wadkins, who had a 71 at Cypress Point.

"I had quite a few chances and should have made something. But I just didn't make anything," said Nicklaus, a one-stroke runner-up last week in San Diego.

"I'm only four back. And there's only a couple of guys in front of me. If I can play a good round tomorrow, it's as much my tournament as it is anybody's else."

The group at 211 included Joe Inman, Scott Simpson and veteran Dave Stockton. Inman and Simpson each had a 69 at Spyglass Hill and Stockton shot 70 at Pebble Beach.

George Burns, the second-round leader, took a fat 77 at Spyglass and dropped back to 213.

Stadler, currently the year's leading money-winner at $61,596, shrugged off his spectacular effort that saw him play the par-5 holes five under.

"It was just like it's been all year," he said. "On days when I make the putts, I shoot a good round."

Bigtime boxing in Big Spring

It's north of the railroad tracks, left off Gregg on Fourth street. At the end of the winding street stands the yellow structure, sorely in need of hours of attention. A fresh paint job would be a good start.

The pale yellow coat of paint may be peeling on the outside but those inside the building are not too concerned. They're happy to be there boxing. At last the Howard County Boxing Team has a home and transforming the interior into a training facility, boxing arena and a place for visiting teams to stay overnight are the primary goals at this point.

Saturday was the first day in the building which originally housed Big Spring's YMCA. It had been standing empty for several years, empty until County Commissioner Louis Brown and County Judge Bill Tune obtained the key which may unlock the youth boxing future of the city.

Youngsters from ages 5-21 were on hand Saturday for practice bouts in the ring. The club is happy even to have that.

The ring itself is borrowed from Roscoe and the mat is on loan from Sweetwater. Still, the echoes of gloves meeting flesh resounded with enthusiasm and coach Jose Martinez and manager Jamie Baldwin were all smiles yesterday afternoon.

"This place will work out great," Baldwin said, glancing around his gym. "The heat is our biggest problem. Maybe we can rent some portable heaters."

It was cold inside, as cold as it was outside. Martinez added, however, that the intensity of the day's fights had drenched the boxers with sweat. There was even a smattering of blood on the mat in one corner of the arena. The boxing had indeed been intense.

"We are getting ready for the Golden Gloves," said

Martinez. Snyder, he hopes, will make it to Big Spring next weekend for practice bouts before the main event comes up Feb. 17-20 in Midland.

"This place is open for everybody. Anyone willing to make a sacrifice and work hard can come. We had the whole neighborhood here today," Martinez said proudly.

Questions have been raised about sending kids into a ring and teaching them to knock out one another. But as Martinez and Baldwin see it, it's better the punches fly in a supervised activity than out in the streets and alleys where there are no rules and no fair play.

"We don't want the kids to learn boxing and go out in the streets and be bullies. We teach them clean boxing. Our goal is to encourage kids to participate in sports and get them off the streets," explained Baldwin. The adults are particular about who steps into the ring.

"We are not going to have any juvenile delinquents in here. We are in the American Boxing Federation and everything is going to be done just right," he stressed.

Boxing also serves as the means to get the kids under supervision where they can learn more than just athletics. "We emphasize school," Martinez points out. "We recommend giving up boxing if the grades aren't good."

The Howard County Boxing Team already has made a name for itself. Recently the team went to Crane and won a tournament sponsored by the Optimist Club. Not only did they bring home a trophy but now can say they are the West Texas Junior Olympic Regional Champs for 1982.

About 25 kids make up the team and Martinez reports that even a couple of girls have shown an interest in boxing gloves. He isn't sure, however, if he wants to get into that.

While the ring holds two eager boxers, the work on the building's interior goes on around them. There are plenty

BOBBY EARL WILLIAMS
...to sign with UTEP

Williams signs football letter

Standout Big Spring running back Bobby Earl Williams, is expected to sign a national letter-of-intent with the University of Texas at El Paso Wednesday morning.

The announcement was made this weekend by Big Spring head football coach Ralph Harris. Williams is the first local athlete to announce intentions of playing college football.

Williams was the top rusher in District 5-A-A-A-A-A as a junior in 1980. He piled up 970 yards on a 6.7 average per carry to be named to the first team backfield.

High expectations for 1981 were dashed in the fourth game of the season when Williams went out for the year with a knee injury. At that point he had 420 yards and averaged 7.1 yards each time he touched the football.

He was also an all-district pick in basketball as a junior but personal problems forced him to leave the team earlier this season. He is currently participating in track Harris reports.

"Bobby Earl has a great future ahead of him," Harris predicts. "He is a great leader and is very enthusiastic. He's had to overcome a lot of problems but then we all have."

of rooms and plans have been made for most of them. Renovation plans include turning one large room into a mini-motel for visiting teams to stay in when in town for a tournament.

Equipment is coming from the Budweiser folks for boxing trunks, travel bags and punching bags. The arena needs bleachers and, of course, the club would like to have its own ring and mat. There is hope of putting in a kitchen to feed the visitors and sell refreshments to make a little money.

These are ambitious plans that will take time if the local community continues its support of the youth program. "Some donations have already been made to the boxing club from clubs and private donors and we want to thank them for their most generous gifts," Martinez said.

Commissioner Brown and Judge Tune have seen to it that the lights are on and water is running. Next comes the gas for heating purposes. Boxing is tough enough without shuffling around the ring in jeans and overcoat.

The program has been successful to this point, Martinez and Baldwin agree. The club has a home of its own—they formerly boxed at the fair grounds—and more than two dozen kids have come indoors off the street.

Both men ask the community for its support. They are more than willing to talk boxing with anyone. Their mailing address is Howard County Boxing Club, Box 2937, in Big Spring. Martinez can be reached at 263-3462 and Baldwin at 263-0067.

Many kids in the program have been down but are not out. Boxing is looking to become big-time in Big Spring and the Howard County Boxing Club hopes to be a real knockout at the Golden Gloves tourney later this month.

6-AAA leaders breeze

COAHOMA — The playing time might have been a little different but it sure didn't affect the top two teams in District 6-AAA.

The Coahoma Bulldoggettes shut out Denver City 20-0 in the first quarter and rolled to a 66-25 victory. The win boosted the Bulldoggettes, 21-3 overall, to 4-0 in second half. Should Coahoma defeat Crane Tuesday night on the road, the Bulldoggettes would clinch the district championship.

"Denver City didn't put out a lot of effort," coach Billy Gordon said. He was able to get all his players into the game and all but one put points on the scoreboard. Leading the way were Karl Robinson and Gayla Paige with 13 points each while Robbie Ritchey tossed in 10.

It was the last home game for seniors Robinson, Paige, Ritchey, Cassie Abernegg, Robin Burchett and Deborah Gilbert.

Lisa Middleton had nine points for Denver City.

Denver City showed its gun-and-gun style in winning the boys game 93-62. The Mustangs are 4-0 in second half play after winning the first half title. Coahoma slipped to 0-2 and 5-18.

Five Mustangs scored in double figures. Denver City led 52-23 at halftime and then matched points with Coahoma in the second half.

Bobby Joe Tucker had 15 and Ricky Martin 12 for Coahoma.

Hogs trip Texas, 62-55

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Key steals by junior guard Darrell Walker and senior guard Tony Brown ignited 14th-ranked Arkansas for a 62-55 overtime victory over 12th-ranked Texas in Southwest Conference basketball action Saturday night.

After regulation ended in a tie at 51, Texas won the overtime tip. But, 48 seconds later Walker stole a pass and raced the length of the floor for a layup that put Arkansas in front for good.

Baylor 66, Rice 55

DALLAS (AP) — Michael Young hit a layup to send the game into overtime, then connected on an eight-foot jumper with one second left in the extra period as Houston defeated Southern Methodist, 73-71, Saturday in Southwest Conference basketball.

With the game tied at 71 and five seconds left on the overtime clock, SMU's Dave Piehler forced a 15-foot jump shot that fell short. Lynden Rose rebounded for Houston and passed to Young on the baseline for the game-winning shot at the buzzer.

Texas Tech 71, TCU 65

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Balanced scoring brought Texas Tech a 71-65 Southwest Conference victory over TCU here Saturday afternoon, snapping a five-game winning streak for the Horned Frogs and knocking them out of second place in the conference race.

Charles Johnson, scoring 14 of his game-high 18 points in the second half, led the Red Raiders hile Doug Arnold canded 16 points for the Frogs.

The victory evened Tech's league record at 5-5 (13-7) and dropped TCU to 6-4 (11-8).

Houston 73, SMU 71

HOUSTON (AP) — Baylor's Terry Teagle scored 26 points, becoming the third player in Southwest Conference history to surpass the 2,000-point mark as he led the Bears to their 66-55 basketball victory over Rice Saturday night.

Teagle now has 2,005 career points and ranks third in all-time league scoring behind Texas Tech's Rick Bullock and Arkansas' Sidney Moncrief.

DePaul survives

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Terry Cummings scored 20 of his 24 points in the second half as fourth-ranked DePaul staved off a last-minute Marquette rally for a 67-66 victory in college basketball Saturday.

Freshman Kenny Patterson and Skip Dillard scored 12 points each for the Blue Demons, 20-1 with a 15-game winning streak. Freshman Dwayne Johnson scored 14 and Marc Marotta 12 for Marquette, 15-7.

DePaul trailed by three points at halftime, but grabbed a 49-46 lead, its largest to that point, with 11:51 to play.

The Blue Demons began asserting control of both backboards and intercepting passes. They ran off seven consecutive points to lead 56-40 with seven minutes left.

Johnson retaliated with four baskets from the baseline for the Warriors, who trailed 60-56 with 3:50 left. Cummings sank six consecutive free throws, and DePaul led 66-56 with 2:52 left.

A basket by Johnson with 48 seconds left and a tip-in by Dean Marquardt with 16 seconds left pulled the Warriors to within 66-64. But after a DePaul timeout, Dillard was fouled in the Demons' backcourt and sank one of two free throws to make it 67-64 with three seconds left. Marquette's Terry Reason sank an uncontested layup at the buzzer for the final one-point margin.

Indiana 58, Minnesota 55

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana guard Jim Thomas hit two pressure free throws with nine seconds left Saturday as the Hoosiers edged sixth-ranked Minnesota 58-55 in Big Ten basketball.

Indiana improved to 12-7 overall and 6-4 in the Big Ten. Minnesota fell to 15-4 and 7-3.

Indiana's 7-foot-2 center Uwe Blad more than nullified the Gophers' 7-3 center Randy Brewer. Blad held Brewer to nine points, while scoring 18 points and grabbing eight rebounds before fouling out.

Indiana fell behind 37-29 at the half, and the Gophers scored the first two points of the second half for a 10-point lead. But Indiana came back with 10 straight points to tie it up.

Minnesota jumped back in the lead 44-39, but Indiana came back to outscore the Gophers 10-1 and take a 49-45 lead. Minnesota got back into it and the lead saw-sawed in the final minutes.

With 1:10 left, Indiana held a 55-51 lead. But Minnesota pulled to within 56-55 with 15 seconds remaining, setting up Thomas' free throws which put the game out of reach.

Thomas finished with 16 points. Darryl Mitchell led Minnesota with 17, followed by Trent Tucker with 12.

Iowa 69, Ohio St. 65

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Freshman Michael Payne scored 25 points, a season high for fifth-ranked Iowa, in leading the Big Ten Conference basketball leaders to a 69-65 overtime verdict over Ohio State Saturday night.

Payne, a 6-foot-11 center, hit eight straight shots at the start of the second half to keep Iowa in contention. Payne's two free throws with 17 seconds left in overtime gave Iowa a 69-63 lead.

The victory was the Hawkeyes' seventh straight for a 9-1 league record and 17-2 overall mark.

It marked the sixth time in the last eight games Ohio State, 5-5 and 14-8, has played overtime, setting a Big Ten record.

Payne's free throw with 40 seconds left had tied the game 59-59 and forced the extra five minutes.

Clark Kellogg scored 22 points to pace Ohio State.

North Carolina 67, The Citadel 46

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Second-ranked North Carolina, sparked by Sam Perkins' 18 points and Jimmy Black's 14 points, romped to a 67-46 college basketball victory over The Citadel in the nightcap of the North-South Doubleheader Saturday night.

In the first game, North Carolina State took a 67-55 victory over Furman.

The Tar Heels moved to an 18-8 lead at the 12-minute mark, but the Bulldogs' tight 2-3 zone defense clogged up the lanes and kept North Carolina from getting the ball inside. The Tar Heels suffered a scoring drought and allowed the Bulldogs to cut the lead to 32-26 with 40 seconds left before halftime.

North Carolina eventually held a 34-26 edge as both teams went to the locker room.

Using a man-to-man press at the start of the second half, North Carolina forced two turnovers and converted them into baskets and a 38-26 advantage. Baskets by Perkins and Black helped the Tar Heels build a 57-40 lead with four minutes to play.

Perkins and Black were the only Tar Heels in double figures as their record climbed to 18-2.

Felipe de las Pozas led The Citadel with 12 points. Wells Holland and Gerald Toney added 10 points apiece as the Bulldogs fell to 11-9.

Kentucky 77, Tennessee 67

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Jim Master and reserve Dickie Beal helped Kentucky hold off a frantic Tennessee rally in the second half as the ninth-ranked Wildcats defeated the Volunteers 77-67 in Southeastern Conference basketball Saturday night.

The Wildcats led by 12 points at the half, 43-31, but the 16th-ranked Volunteers forged a 47-47 tie with 12 minutes to play before Beal and Master went to work.

After a 49-49 tie, Master hit a layup and Beal followed with a fast-break basket that started the Wildcats on a seven-point run that gave Kentucky a 56-49 margin with 9:40 left.

The Volunteers twice closed to within four points, the second time on a basket by Dale Ellis that made it 58-54 at the 7:40 mark. But Beal scored two easy baskets on length-of-the-court drives to put Kentucky back up by eight, 62-54, with 5:58 left.

Virginia 80, Virginia Tech 60

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Ralph Sampson, Virginia's 7-foot-4 center, scored 25 points, pulled down 21 rebounds and blocked seven shots Saturday night to lead the third-ranked Cavaliers to an 80-66 college basketball triumph over Virginia Tech.

Freshman Tim Mullen added 13 points, freshman Jimmy Miller 12 and sophomore Othell Wilson 10 for the Cavaliers, who won their 10th straight game and bettered their overall record to 22-1.

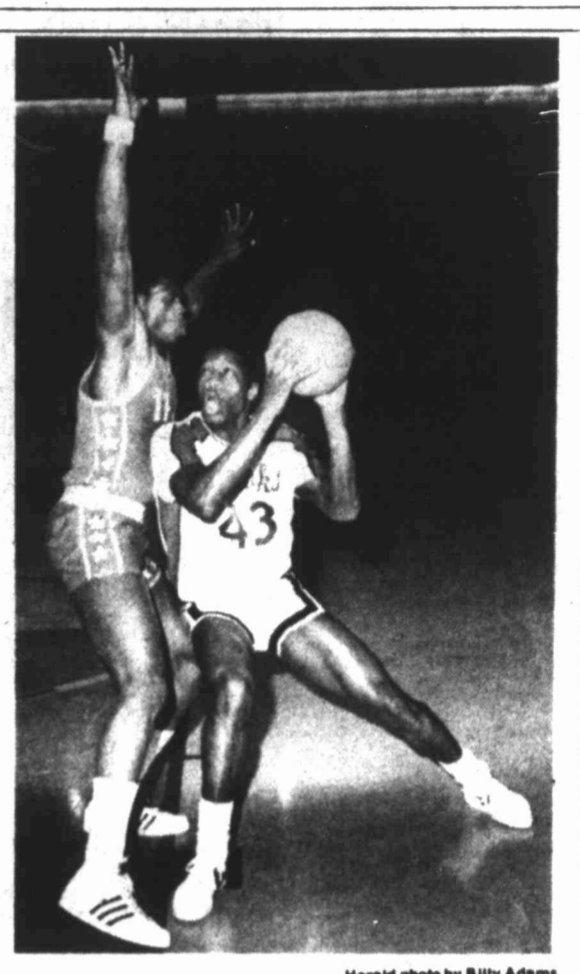

Virginia Tech, losing to Virginia for the seventh straight time, fell to 15-5 on the season. Mickey Hardy led the Hokies with 20 points with Dale Solomon contributing 16 and Jeff Schneider 12.

HSU mashes Mercer

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Miguel Tison scored 21 points and Jake Bethany added 17 as Hardin-Simmons upset Mercer, 78-63, in a Trans America Conference basketball game Saturday.

The Cowboys trailed at halftime but took the lead for good, 36-34, on a layup by Patrick McArthur early in the second period and pulled steadily away.

Mercer was led by Morris Thompson with 16 points. Hardin-Simmons scored its last 11 points from the free-throw line as Mercer was forced to foul in the late going to try to catch up.

FAN'S MAIL

Dear Greg,

As a Big Spring Steer fan, I have but a few questions to ask along with some comments to make.

First, I was wondering if the rest of the Steer varsity basketball team had quit? and if so, how are they winning? What I mean by the term "rest" is—for the past few weeks all I have seen and read about is Jerald Wrightsil. Nothing against Jerald, because I played for the Steers when he was a freshman.

Second, why do you give all the credit to Jerald as you did in the story of how Big Spring beat Abilene High? Come on Mr. Jaklewicz, did he (Jerald) "do it all" as you stated.

Like I said earlier, I did play with Jerald, and he is good. But I also played with three others. Blake Rossan for example, played his sophomore, junior and now his senior year. Robert Rubio and Johnny Green have also done the same. But take a closer look at Blake and Robert—open your eyes.

Those two guys are quality leaders and players, on and off paper. They're both very consistent players.

Sure, Wrightsil scores—but why? Well because he is a member of a quality team, not an individual standout. And that is why the Steers are doing well, because they are playing as a team this year and not as individuals as in the past as Steer team often have done.

If you are going to continue to write about the Steers winning games, write because of the way each member played and excelled during the game, not how one guy supposedly took charge and won a game of one-on-five.

Lady golfers finish sixth

SAN ANTONIO—Patricia Jones fired an 87, good for fourth place in the medalist race, to lead Big Spring to a sixth place finish in the season opening golf tournament here Thursday.

The tourney was called off Friday because of cold weather and drizzle and the team didn't return home until Saturday because of icy roads.

Jones and Rikki Cantu of East Central of San Antonio each fired 87s with Cantu winning the playoff for third place on the second hole.

Kelli Mobley of Midland High won a playoff for medalist over Carissa Betran of Alice. Both girls had 84s over 18 holes at the Riverside Municipal Golf Course.

Edinburg won the one-day affair with a 384. Second place went to San Antonio McArthur with a 429, third was Eagle Pass at 431, San Antonio Nixon fourth with a 434 and Travis fifth at 436.

Sandra Arellano shot a 110, Dianah Johnson a 112; Chrissy Percoskie a 131 and Deborah Edwards a 134 for Big Spring. Team total for the Lady Steers was 440.

Husted wins bowling

HOUSTON (AP) — Dave Husted of Milwaukee, Ore. averaged 252 Saturday as he roared from fourth place to take his first career championship on the pro bowling tour, winning the $13,000 Bowling Proprietors of America U.S. Open.

Husted, 21, opened with seven consecutive strikes in the championship match and routed top-seeded Gil Sliker 255-180. Husted had rolled 752 in his first three matches after qualifying for the finals in fourth place.

His total pinfall of 1,011 for four games was ten short of the Professional Bowlers Association championship round record set by Larry Laub in Kansas City in 1974. Husted's victory was worth $21,000.

"I had a great shot on the lanes," said Husted. "The first game I had butterflies but got over them as soon as I started to throw some strikes. When I got past Earl (Anthony) I felt I had a great chance to go all the way."

Husted, started his march with a 269-200 win over Frank Ellenberg, throwing strikes on 10 of 12 shots. In the next game, Husted ran together seven straight strikes to whip Charlie Tapp, 258-180.

The second-seeded Anthony was the next victim 229-186. He could get no closer than 41 pins, and that still proved to be Husted's closest match of the day.

Sliker made $11,000 for second, his fourth runner-up finish in the last 11 months. "I'm disappointed but it would have been worse if it had come right down to the end and I lost by a few pins."

Anthony earned $7,500 for third place. Tapp, who lead the tournament in the fourth through the sixth round, made $6,000 for fourth.

Pro Basketball

Rockets blast Suns

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Calvin Murphy says the key to igniting Moses Malone is getting the ball to him inside and then watching the Rockets' center turn on the heat.

Malone scored 45 points and pulled down 20 rebounds to put the pressure on Phoenix as Houston handed the Suns their fifth consecutive loss, 106-104, in a National Basketball game Friday night.

"The key with Malone is to get the ball inside to him," Murphy said after the game. "If they are double-teaming him and he is moving the ball, he even becomes more valuable. If they can't stop him in close, he is dynamic."

Rockets coach Del Harris praised Malone's effort, as Houston improved its record to 23-22 and pulled to within a half a game of the second-place Denver Nuggets.

"When a team fronts Moses, as they tried to do tonight, they put themselves at a disadvantage because when the shot is taken, the man finds himself behind Moses and that is where we were cashing in," Harris said.

Suns' Dennis Johnson scored a layup to tie the game 102-102 within the final few minutes of play, but Bill Willoughby and Malone each hit baskets within a 26-second span to give the Rockets a 106-102 lead with 1:04 remaining.

Johnson hit two free throws to cut the Houston lead to two and Phoenix got the ball back with seven seconds remaining on a turnover by the Rocket's Tom Henderson.

But Walter Davis missed a shot with two seconds left and Malone outbattled the Suns' Richie Kelley for the rebound.

"Houston was much improved from when we played them earlier," said Suns coach John McLeod. "We didn't rebound offensively like we should and it hurt us. Moses had a very good game and when he is playing like that, he is awfully tough to stop."

Bucks 117, Mavs 92

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Scott May said there was no way the Milwaukee Bucks were going to lose a second game to the Dallas Mavericks.

"It's not that Dallas isn't capable," May said. "Any team in this league can beat you at their home. But we just shouldn't lose to Dallas. We made sure we were ready to play."

The Bucks, still stung by a 109-104 defeat at Dallas Jan. 20, jumped on the Mavericks Friday night and took a 23-9 lead. They kept up the pace by shooting at a 55.2 per cent clip and rolled to a 117-92 National Basketball Association victory behind 19 points apiece by Brian Winters and Sidney Moncrief and 18 by May.

With Marques Johnson sidelined by a sprained ankle, Bucks' Coach Don Nelson started May ahead of Alton Lister at forward because he wanted a quick, aggressive lineup that would take charge at the outset. "I think we were ready to play tonight," Nelson said.

The Bucks built their early lead by scoring almost at will against Dallas' inside defense. Moncrief, posting along the baseline, sank two twisting layups and Bob Lanier scored three times from around the lane in the early minutes.

The Bucks sank 17 of 22 field goal attempts, including their last seven, in the first quarter, which they finished with 38-20 lead. They scored on seven offensive rebounds and outrebounded Dallas 25-10 in the first half.

The Bucks also shut off Dallas' "flex" play, which the Mavericks had used extensively when they rallied from 15 points down late in the third quarter to defeat Milwaukee in the teams' earlier meeting.

The "flex" is a maneuver in which Dallas' center plays a high post and sets or directs a series of picks designed to free an open shooter near the basket.

"They burned us on that play down there," May said. "They must have got seven or eight layups with it. We weren't ready to play that night and we weren't communicating on that play. I don't think they got one layup tonight until late in the fourth quarter."

Kings 109, Spurs 102

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Kings had to beat San Antonio at its own game to get the monkey of an eight-game National Basketball Association losing streak off their backs.

And that, says Kings Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, was not your normal monkey.

"It's good to get that gorilla off your back," said Fitzsimmons after the Kings rode a 32-point, 19-rebound performance from Cliff Robinson to defeat the Spurs 109-102 Friday night.

"Some people think it's a monkey, but losing eight in a row, four at home, isn't a monkey. It's a gorilla, and he was heavy." The Kings won their first game since Jan. 15 by out-rebounding San Antonio's famed "Bruise Brothers" 59-43 — only the 17th time in 45 games that the Spurs have been beaten on the boards.

"We outbrued the bruisers," said Fitzsimmons. "We got the boards, and that was a big difference in the game. Our defense and rebounding held up."

San Antonio is 24-4 in games in which it has out-rebounded opponents, but just 6-11 when it has not.

"The boards were the telling story," agreed Spurs Coach Stan Albeck. "When you're not shooting well, combined with the rebounding night we had tonight, we were lucky to be behind by only 10 at half."

Robinson, a 6-foot-9 forward in his third year from Southern California, scored 22 of his game-high total in the first half, when Kansas City grabbed a 60-50 lead.

"I didn't realize I had 32 points and 19 rebounds. I didn't realize I did that well," said Robinson. "I was so caught up trying to break the losing streak."

ATTEMPTED STEAL — Houston Rocket Robert Reid (50) attempts a steal from Phoenix Sun's Dennis Johnson (24) but only manages to grab Johnson's wrist. Reid was not caught committing the foul however, during first quarter N.B.A. action at the Houston Summit Friday night.

Faces Lendl Sunday

McEnroe reaches finals

TORONTO (AP) — John McEnroe, the world's No. 1-ranked tennis player, upended Australian Peter McNamara 6-2, 6-4 Saturday in the semifinals of the $350,000 Molson Tennis Challenge.

McEnroe, 22, will battle Ivan Lendl for the $125,000 first prize Sunday. The Czechoslovakian whipped defending champion Vitas Gerulaitis 6-2, 6-0 in less than an hour in the other semifinal Saturday.

Gerulaitis and McNamara, who started the tournament as the lowest-ranked player in his round-robin group, earned $45,000 for their efforts this week.

The losing finalist will earn $75,000. McNamara, 26, had upset Americans Jimmy Connors and Eliot Teltscher on the way to the semifinals.

The one player McNamara didn't beat in his group was Lendl, who tore apart Gerulaitis' game with an overpowering serve and steady ground strokes. Gerulaitis, ninth in the world, ruined his chances with five double faults and numerous unforced errors at critical situations.

"When you step on the court you have to expect a very difficult match, but if you get it easier, it's just what comes," said Lendl of his one-sided victory.

Lendl said he hopes to return serve better against McEnroe Sunday. The two have split their six Grand Prix tour career matches with Lendl winning their latest confrontation — 6-4, 6-2 at the Masters in mid-January.

It was a heart-breaking loss for McNamara, who showed flashes of brilliance early in the second set after being soundly thumped by McEnroe in the first set. McNamara, ranked 10th internationally, took a 3-1 lead, breaking McEnroe's serve by matching shots with the quick left-hander.

"I was starting to return a little better," McNamara said of his second-set resurgence. "But he was always so close to the net and he kept pressuring me that it was difficult to keep things going."

McNamara stretched the lead to 4-1 by holding his serve, but then McEnroe reeled off five straight to take the match. The turning point came in the seventh game when McEnroe broke on two unforced errors by McNamara.

Givens dominates WJCAC statistic

Nathan Givens continues to give chase while Nell Haskins continues to hold off the chasers in the latest Western Junior College Athletic Conference basketball statistics released this week.

Givens improved his average to 24.9 points a game with a pair of 30-plus efforts last week against Amarillo and Frank Phillips. He scored 23 points Monday nights in a double-overtime win over Western Texas.

Despite his big games, Givens still trails Charles Prescott of New Mexico who tops the conference with a 26.1 average. Seventh is Howard's Leon Issac with a 19.0 average while James Barnett remains in the middle of the pack with a 14.5 average.

Givens is also second in rebounding with an 11.4 average. Chester Smith of Midland is No. 1 with a 12.0 average. Those two players are the only double figure rebounders in the league.

Givens is tops in one category—field goal percentage. He has hit 203 of 327 shots for .621 per cent. Issac is second in free throw percentage at .796 per cent.

Howard College is second in team defense, averaging 91.8 points but the Hawks are second to last in defense, surrendering 85.5 points each contest.

Howard is on top of team free throw percentage at .688 and fourth in field goal percentage at .516.

Haskins, like Givens, is a one-woman show for the conference-leading Hawk Queens.

She is first in scoring average at 23.1, fourth in rebounds with a 10.1 average and has the high point game of the year with 36 against Western Texas College Nov. 21.

Susan Cordell is second in blocks with 58 in 20 games and has the top individual performance with nine against Schreiner Jan. 16.

Kelli Mull is fifth in steals and is tied with two others for top game with nine against Western Texas No. 21.

Howard College is fourth in team offense with 71.7 points a game and No. 1 in defense, giving up just 57 points with South Plains.

A 'miracle recovery'

After plane propellor accident, man elects to live

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The two veteran California paramedics took one look at the horribly mutilated body crumpled beside a plane and assumed their next stop would be the coroner's office.

Moments before, Jim Boardman, the son-in-law of Utah's governor, had scrambled from the cockpit of the twin-engine Cessna in a hurry to find the nearest bathroom at Burbank-Glendale-Pasadena Airport.

The 30-year-old Associated Press newsman climbed from the wing and inexplicably turned into the idling aircraft's churning left propeller.

"Picture an egg and a knife that whacks it," said Dr. Joel White, Boardman's neurosurgeon. He looked as though he'd been attacked by "somebody with a machete."

Doctors say the seven slashing blows Boardman received the night of April 20, 1981, should have killed him.

His left arm was severed at the shoulder, he sustained three blows to the head and a blade sliced through his chest wall, diaphragm and spleen, White said.

Boardman's survival, considered a miracle by the staff of Saint Joseph Medical Center in Burbank, is a testament to superb emergency medical care.

And Boardman's subsequent battle to regain a life of quality — when life itself had seemed impossible — is a testament to the man himself.

At the airport, paramedic Bob Reinhardt was so sure that Boardman was dead he didn't bother to carry life-support equipment when he left the ambulance to look at the body.

It was then that Boardman, his head a mass of blood and exposed brain tissue, began to groan.

"He had organs protruding through the slash in his back. There were flaps of skin that were just folded over and we had to place them over his exposed spleen," remembers paramedic Lynn Johnson. He radioed the hospital four miles away to round up a neurosurgeon, a thoracic surgeon and a plastic surgeon.

Two of the three specialists were waiting when the ambulance arrived, its floor awash with blood. They were astounded that Boardman, in profound shock and registering no blood pressure, remained conscious.

"I just don't know what his heart was pumping," said Reinhardt. "We were putting it in a stream and it was gushing out in a river."

Past sunrise, seven doctors and more than a dozen other medical personnel toiled desperately to repair the damage while fighting to keep the patient alive. Boardman ultimately received 46 pints of blood.

Meanwhile, Boardman's wife of 10 months, Lu, and her mother Norma, life of Gov. Scott Matheson, flew in from Salt Lake City. Boardman's parents arrived from Phoenix.

Boardman has no memory of the accident. But he recalls lying semi-conscious and confronting a clear choice between life and death. He says he chose life when a red-bearded male nurse told him, "You can! You can!"

The nurse, Ron Havens, a 35-year-old former medic in Vietnam, believed at first that Boardman "didn't have a prayer."

When Boardman regained consciousness 17 days after surgery, "it was extremely startling because he just woke up," Havens said. "At that point there was a lot of 'egging on,' telling him that he could make it." Havens believes that was when Boardman elected to live.

On May 19 Boardman walked aboard a plane bound for Salt Lake City and the University of Utah Medical Center. There he underwent surgery to restore the left side of his skull with synthetic material, was fitted with an artificial arm and began therapy.

In November, Boardman transferred to the Southwest Institute for Head Injury in Phoenix, where he has been logging six hours of therapy a day. He lives in a nearby apartment and jogs on his lunch hour.

Nearly all of approximately $150,000 in medical bills to date are covered by insurance. The Social Security Administration denied disability benefits, but Boardman is appealing.

A brief report just released by the National Transportation Safety Board offers few clues on the cause of the accident. The Cessna 404 cargo plane involved was owned by Zonic Airlines Inc. of Phoenix and was piloted by Boardman's brother, Kim, the night of the accident.

The most serious consequence of the accident — and the most galling to Boardman — is severe impairment of his ability to speak. He manages phrases, mostly void of verbs, prepositions and conjunctions.

PRACTICE MAKES NEAR-PERFECT — Jim Boardman, 30-year-old son-in-law of Utah Gov. George Matheson, practices working with his artificial arm at a Phoenix rehabilitation center.

The propeller severed a branch of the middle cerebral artery which covers major speech areas located on the damaged left side of Boardman's brain. White thought Boardman would never speak again.

Dr. Anne May, a clinical psychologist at the Arizona facility, says Boardman's memory and intellect appear surprisingly intact.

"He is certainly in the upper range in terms of the rate of recovery. He's very resilient and continues to improve at a rapid rate. He's stubborn and persistent enough to stay with things."

She said it's probable Boardman eventually will be able to communicate at about 80 percent of an average level.

Is depression a problem for him? "Yes and no," Boardman said. "Today, fine. But tomorrow, maybe no. A see-saw."

In late December, Boardman returned to the Burbank hospital for a visit.

"When I saw him I was almost tearful because I was really happy for him," said White, the neurosurgeon. "And also part of me was very sad because he has a hell of a deficit to live with."

Will Mexican railroad come to San Antonio?

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A delegation of city officials will travel to Mexico City today to advance a proposal that the Mexican National Railroad bring its trains across the border to provide daily first-class passenger service to San Antonio.

"They are anxious to talk, maybe more than we are," said city councilman Bob Thompson, heading a delegation to sound out Mexican railway officials on the idea.

Thompson, Bexar County Commissioner Jeff Wentworth and Carlos Orellano, executive director of the Institute of the Americas, planned to drive to Monterrey, Mexico, today, then board the Mexican "Aztec Eagle" train for the remainder of the trip into Mexico City.

Lester Noble, the local Amtrak agent who has been involved in rail service here since 1941 and is a longtime proponent of daily passenger rail service linking the two countries, estimated such an agreement could result in $50 million a year in commerce.

The colorful Noble, who advanced the proposal to City Council late last year and is serving on a committee to study it, said he visualizes making San Antonio a link between the Mexican National Railroad and Amtrak, which furnishes passenger service from here west to Los Angeles, east to New Orleans, and north to St. Louis and Chicago.

He nostalgically remembers when local hotels were filled by "drummers" — American businessmen who came by train to show their wares — and Mexican businessmen who came to San Antonio by rail to purchase the goods, before direct train service to Mexico was terminated 13 years ago.

Noble said he believed many Mexicans and Americans both would choose trains rather than airplanes if the option were provided.

Riding one of Amtrak's new trains, which are suspended by air, "is just like flying across this country on the magic carpet of Bagdad," Noble said with a laugh.

Thompson said no breakthroughs were expected at the initial discussion with the Mexicans, but that the matter could come up later this week when Texas Gov. Bill Clements meets with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Monday's meeting was arranged to pinpoint problems in extending Mexican train service to San Antonio and determine whether the problems can be overcome, Thompson said, and will involve such issues as customs inspections, a route for the trains, schedule frequency, and risks and benefits.

Thompson said if the idea seems feasible, the San Antonio delegation would meet with Clements' aides to have the matter added to the agenda for the Clements-Lopez Portillo talks, Thompson said.

Amtrak last Oct. 1 discontinued its Laredo leg of the "Inter-American" route that linked Chicago with the border city, where passengers could transfer to the Aztec Eagle.

Senate debate not ready for prime time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's debate over televising itself is not ready for prime time. The script hasn't been bad, but it's a play without much of an audience.

A capacity crowd would be 561, but the galleries are seldom full. That's fair enough since a capacity crowd of senators is 100 and that seldom happens either.

There are not many momentous moments in a chamber frequented and observed by people who sardonically describe it as the cave of the winds. The TV debate was not among the momentous moments, although it has been a decent enough show.

It offers Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., a political dramatist of the old Southern school, arguing that if television got into the place, senators would make a lot of long speeches. He has been doing exactly that, for years.

Leading man in the cast of TV advocates is Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, who observed that anyone concerned that senators could use in-house television to run for president should think again.

Which is not to say that senators with an eye on the White House wouldn't try out their stuff in the Senate, with or without televised coverage.

The issue before the Senate is whether to let television cameras into a chamber that always has resisted electronic gimmicks, preferring an image built around quill pens and inkwells. It would cost up to $3 million to put the cameras in, and about $300,000 a year to run them. According to Baker, that annual expense equals 600 pages of the Congressional Record.

By the time the Senate gets around to a debate on a major issue, everybody — or almost everybody — who is going to vote on the matter at hand has decided what that vote will be. The debate is a matter of explanation, seldom of persuasion that is going to change any minds.

The House has been on television since 1979, although most people don't know it. The same arguments were made there before the cameras were installed. But at Baker pointed out, House sessions have been shorter since television than before.

But the rules are different. House debates are conducted under strict time limits. There are none in the Senate.

Indeed, Long said television might doom the timeless refuge of the determined minority, the Senate filibuster. He may yet wage one against television. But it seems more likely people would turn off the TV set than raise a cry for the Senate to get rid of the rules that allow filibusters.

That's the flaw in the whole debate. It presupposes that if television does get into the Senate, viewers will tune in and stare at the proceedings all day. Baker says otherwise, and the House experience supports his argument.

RESCUED AFTER SIEGE — Personnel of a Memphis, Tenn., hospital rush Jean Marie Cox to the emergency room after a dramatic rescue by police tactical squad officers. None of the three hostages were injured, but all were taken to the emergency room as part of the rescue plan. The gunman, Robert Michael Goulet, who had held the hostages for 31 hours was killed in the raid.

Bereaved father who held hostages is killed in raid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A renowned cancer specialist held hostage a day and a half by the bereaved father of a leukemia victim wrestled his captor to the floor before police burst in and shot the gunman to death, officials said.

The police assault on the hospital examining room Friday night freed the doctor and two women hostages who had been held with him.

Dr. Paul Bowman suffered a dislocated shoulder during the struggle at St. Jude Children's Hospital with Jean Claude Goulet, 40, of LaPlace, La.

"The doctor attacked Goulet on the table, tackling him and wrestling him to the ground," said police Inspector S.O. Jackson.

Three officers battered down the door of the room where Goulet was holding Bowman and two others hostage. Patrolman Jay Thurman fired four shots from his M-16 rifle, striking Goulet twice in the head and twice in the chest, said Police Director F.W. Chapman.

Bowman, who had treated Goulet's 6-year-old son Robert until the child died a year ago, was held at gunpoint along with psychologist Jo Cummins and nurse Jean Marie Cox. After they were released, all three were taken on stretchers to the emergency room at nearby St. Joseph Hospital where a trauma team had been on standby duty since the ordeal began Thursday.

Goulet released a fourth hostage, Dr. George Marten, unharmed about 5 p.m. Thursday in exchange for a hamburger, potato chips and soda pop.

Jackson said the decision to move in on Goulet was made 32 hours after he walked into the hospital with a .357-caliber Magnum and took his first hostage.

Police negotiators, who had an open telephone line to the room where the hostages were being held, were able to hear the clicking of the gunman cocking the hammer of the pistol, Jackson said.

The officers began creating a diversion in the false attic above the room. Goulet climbed atop a table to investigate and Bowman wrestled him to the ground, Jackson said.

"A woman — we don't know which one at this point — screamed. She was concerned about the doctor and was trying to help him."

"The scream occurred just as we went through the door," Jackson said.

The women hostages were returned to St. Jude in wheelchairs after being examined. Miss Cox was sobbing as she was wheeled up the hospital ramp, escorted by two tactical squad officers armed with automatic weapons.

Goulet's body was removed from the hospital about two hours after he was killed.

The ordeal began shortly before noon Thursday when Goulet took Miss Cummins hostage in her small office in the east wing of the hospital. The gunman had the three others summoned to the room.

Police arrived about 1:30 p.m., opened a telephone line to the office and began negotiations to free the four hostages. Goulet, speaking most of the time through one of the hostages, told police he was upset over the death of his son.

Robert Michael Goulet died at St. Jude Dec. 27, 1980, nearly 2 1/2 years after he began leukemia treatment at the famous research hospital, founded 20 years ago by entertainer Danny Thomas. Bowman, chief of the hospital's leukemia service, was the boy's favorite doctor, according to Goulet's ex-wife, Phyllis.

She described Goulet as a "very sad, very lonely man" who was unable to cope with his son's death.

Police said Goulet and his former wife were living in Lima, Ohio when Robert, the eldest of their three children, was diagnosed as having leukemia in June 1978.

The Goulets were divorced in November 1979 and Goulet moved to LaPlace, 25 miles west of New Orleans, where he worked as a welder at a nuclear plant under construction at Taft.

Jury recommends death for 21-year-old

DALLAS (AP) — A jury late Friday recommended that Fletcher Thomas Mann Jr. be sentenced to death for the murder of a young North Dallas man.

Mann, 21, looked on impassively as State District Judge Ron Chapman read the verdict at 11:35 p.m.

Jurors had deliberated about an hour and a half before deciding Mann should die by lethal injection for the September 1980 shooting death of 22-year-old Christopher Lee Bates.

"Nobody else now has to go through what we went through," said the victim's father, Bill Bates of Tulsa, Okla. "No one likes to see a man die, but what else were we going to do for our son? We did this for Chris."

Mann gave police a statement in which he admitted shooting Bates as he lay face down in a field. Mann also is charged with the rape and stabbing death of Barbara Hoppe, 22, and the attempted murder of Bates' roommate, 24-year-old Robert Lee Matzig, who was wounded in the neck.

In closing arguments, Assistant District Attorney Jim Burnham called the defendant "a wicked man with a wicked heart."

"His calling card is violence," Burnham said. Defense attorney Paul Brauchle said Mann should not die by such an uncivilized act as lethal injection.

"The 12 of you don't kill Tommy Mann," he told the jury. "Each one of you do it individually."

That's your doing."

Prosecutors said Mann and 23-year-old Martin Verbrugge broke into Bates' apartment, where they raped, choked and stabbed to death Miss Hoppe. Bates and Matzig were forced to drive from grocery to grocery, cashing checks, then were taken to the field and shot. Matzig was the state's key witness.

Verbrugge, also charged with capital murder, rape, robbery and attempted murder, will be tried later.

In returning the death sentence, jurors had to answer three questions: whether Mann's conduct was deliberate, whether it was unreasonable and whether there was a probability he would murder again.

After the medfly

A fruit-killing bird shows up

SAN DIEGO (AP) — As if the battle over the Mediterranean fruit fly wasn't enough, California agricultural officials now have a new imported crop-threatening pest to fight: the exotic Indian white eye.

It's a bird, a tiny one with green and yellow feathers. A pair escaped from a zoo eight years ago and now the state says the species is going through a population "explosion" that could endanger fruits and vegetables if left unchecked.

Armed with tape-recorded love calls, state bird trappers have nabbed about 100 of the birds and hope to confine the threat to the San Diego area by the end of this year.

The Southeast Asian birds, which peck through the skin of tomatoes and other soft-skinned vegetables and fruits, are the descendants of the pair that escaped the San Diego Zoo.

State officials weren't aware the birds were on the loose until 1980 when an amateur ornithologist spotted one on a eucalyptus branch in San Diego's sprawling Balboa Park, which surrounds the zoo.

"We've known about its potential detriment for at least five years before we found it here, based on what the bird has done after being introduced in areas like Hawaii," said Mike Keffer of the exclusion and detection division of the Department of Food and Agriculture.

"So we will get it out of the wild even if we have to destroy them," said Keffer.

State restrictions on the bird prohibit private ownership and require zoos to have special permission to exhibit the species.

The state workers are trying to keep the birds from migrating north into Southern California's vineyards or into the vast fruit orchards of central California.

State officials say the white eye ranks near the top of the list as an agricultural pest, just behind the medfly, which burrows into the fruit.

The medfly invades 256 types of fruit and vegetables and is considered a major threat to California's $14 billion agricultural industry.

Cascot Certified Cottonseed Can Mean 25% Bigger Yields!

Custom Ag Service, now a leader in the market, has selected, tested, and developed four cottonseed varieties which are early maturing, disease resistant, and give consistently higher yields, as much as 25% over your current yields.

CASCOT C-13
Being released for the first time this season, C-13 has shown great yield potential. Growers have had consistently high yields in excess of two bales per acre from C-13. But, book early for this variety because supply is extremely limited.

CASCOT B-2
Probably the fastest maturing cotton on the market, this stripper variety has good cold tolerance which allows for earlier planting.

CASCOT L-7
A great producer on dry land, even better when irrigated, L-7 is cold tolerant, early maturing, and possesses as much wilt resistance as any commercial seed.

CASCOT BR-1
Fast fruiting, excellent yield potential, outstanding lint quality, extra early maturity (120-130 days), and premium micronaire are characteristic of this variety. Plus BR-1 is a proven producer on dry or irrigated land.

"Who's Who For Service" Can Work for you! Just Ask Deborah Lancaster of Tiara Glassware

"Selling Tiara Glassware has been a rewarding experience for me and also very profitable. Using the 'Who's Who For Service' has helped me a lot. In the short time my ad has run, my sales and parties have gone up immensely. This is a marked improvement over the years before. Every production in Tiara glassware is a reproduction of the original mold, most of them dated in the early 1800's. Tiara's collection has at least one piece of glassware for everyone's taste and they back up each piece of glassware against breakage at half its original cost. This guarantee plus my advertising in 'Who's Who For Service' has helped make my business grow. It can make things happen for you in your business, too!"

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

Building A Home
 • Place your refrigerator in the coolest part of the kitchen, well away from the range and oven.
 • Install the water heater as close as possible to areas of major use to minimize heat loss through the pipes, insulate the pipes.
 • If you live in a warm climate, remember that light-colored roofing can help keep houses cooler.
 • Install windows you can open, so you can use natural or fan forced ventilation in moderate weather.
 These energy-saving tips are brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

OPEN WIDE—Denver dentist Peter Emily works on one of Sophie's teeth at the Denver Zoo on Friday. Sophie, a 21-year-old polar bear was knocked out for the operation which involved a double root canal.

Polar bear, age 21, gets trip to dentist

DENVER (AP) — Every dentist has to deal with nervous patients. And sometimes a patient has to deal with a nervous dentist, especially if the patient is a grouchy bear.

Dr. Peter Emily performed a double root canal Friday on Sophie, a 21-year-old, 384 pound polar bear who lives at the Denver Zoo. Sophie is not famous for her pleasant disposition.

"We made sure Sophie was good and drugged up before the dentist started working on her mouth," zoo foreman Rex Williams said Saturday. "I wouldn't put my fingers in there while she's awake for anything."

Keepers took Emily to the zoo after they noticed Sophie had three discolored spots on her lower jaw and guessed they were tooth infections.

Emily, whose patients generally are of the human variety but who likes to work on an occasional animal bicuspid, had no difficulty with the root canal — once Sophie was safely sedated, Williams said.

The case of Kendall Webb is to be presented to the grand jury for consideration of indictment based on an examining trial held today before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Evidence against Webb, who is charged with burglary and attempted capital murder, was presented by District Attorney Rick Hamby. Testimony concerning the Jan. 16 incident in which local officers were allegedly fired upon by Webb when they interrupted a burglary at Gibson's was heard from Officers Bill Cooper and J.D. Carter, Hamby said.

Webb was represented in the hour-long hearing by his attorney, Wayne Basden.

Letterman's show offers fresh viewing

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — David Letterman follows Johnny Carson in NBC's programming and pecking order. But the newest offering for insomniacs and other night people is really more a direct descendant of Steve Allen's "Tonight" show.

The spontaneity and surprise of "Late Night With David Letterman" is a welcome liberation from conventional talk shows. "Saturday Night Live" was successful because it dared to be inventive, and it looks like Letterman will be consistently fresh, late-night air because he'll risk failing to raise the art of comedy.

Wednesday night's broadcast was the strongest of the first three shows, highlighted by a wacky look at "Alan Alda: A Man and His Chinese Food." A picture of Alda, flanked by the owners of a New York Chinese restaurant, was the inspiration for this profile via interviews with the proprietors who know him best.

After learning that Alda likes string beans and cold noodles with sesame, Letterman probed further. Does he like soup? Does he use chopsticks? Is he a good tipper? Did he ever order too much and have to take it home? And what about rice? Steamed or fried?

The camera then zooms in on Letterman, the crusading journalist: "I feel I know Alan Alda a little better now."

Monday night, the earnest investigative reporter tackled "The Shame of the City," the misspelled delicatessen sign: "Planing A Party? Try One Of These." Another blight on society remedied, "and I'm proud to be part of it," Letterman said in his best pomposity-popping tone.

The comic genius of Letterman is finding humor in the mundane and the incongruous. On Tuesday night, he brought out Dr. Norman Hoffman for "Limited Perspective," a dentist's view of the movie "Reds."

Dr. Hoffman said the actors' teeth were not convincing as pre-Russian Revolution dentures. "Pretty much ruined the film for you, huh?" wondered Letterman.

If Carson is show biz and tell-us-about-your-book in 30 seconds, Letterman is unorthodox. So far: comedians Bill Murray and Pat Paulsen, Mr. Wizard, screenwriter Steve Tesich of "Four Friends" (rather than the movie's stars) and home run king Hank Aaron.

At 34, Letterman has a contemporary curiosity that blends well with his mid-American (Indiana) boyishness. Part of the show's unpredictability is his left-field questioning: Why didn't Aaron ever lose his cap, like Willie Mays and Roberto Clemente?

As the successor to Tom Snyder in the 12:30 a.m. EST Monday-Thursday slot, Letterman doesn't look like he's ever going to interview Charles Manson. His thing is the daffiness of the world.

And at 12:30 in the morning things are looking funnier than at 10 a.m., when Letterman's first NBC talk show failed and was quickly yanked. "This is going to be a big three or four days for NBC," Letterman said opening night.

Weak from the heart

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

ONE FROM THE HEART is something like a wedding cake with a fortune cookie baked inside. Such a big production for so tiny a message. Francis Coppola apparently intended to make a revolutionary musical, but it isn't a musical at all. Except for one chaotic production number, performed partly in shadows, the music consists of soundtrack songs, a kind of lounge Muzak.

As director, Coppola has concocted a dazzling array of visual stunts—long trucking shots over surreal landscapes, instant lighting changes, scenery shifts with the aid of scrims. As co-writer (with Arman Bernstein), Coppola has burdened his players with dialogue that parodies early Marlon Brando (hero overlooking his junkyard: "I do my best thinking out here.")

The fragile story concerns a junk dealer (Frederic Forrest) who breaks up with a travel agent (Teri Garr) after five years of living together. She has a fling with a Latin (Raul Julia), he with a circus performer (Nastassia Kinski).

Except for Miss Kinski, the principals are devoid of charisma. The film which Coppola says is unfinished, bore no rating at the Los Angeles preview; the minor nudity and sexual play would indicate a PG.

OSHA closes seven offices in three states

DALLAS (AP) — A regional director for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration says closing seven Southwest offices won't affect OSHA's effectiveness as a watchdog agency for the workplace.

Gilbert Sauter, director of the federal agency's regional office in Dallas, said OSHA offices in Tyler, Clear Lake City, Fort Worth, Harlingen, San Antonio, New Orleans and Tulsa, Okla., would be closed on April 25.

He said the remaining nine OSHA offices in the five-state region would oversee operations in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

"We'll have the same number of people available," said Gilbert Sauter, director of the federal agency's regional office in Dallas. "We may suffer a slight loss of time when a quick response is needed, but that's the only adverse effect I can see from this reorganization."

He said some employees in offices slated for closure would be transferred to remaining OSHA offices.

QUEST FOR FAME—Executive producer Michael Gruskoff, center, watches the filming of 20th Century-Fox' "Quest for Fire," his hardest sell yet, according to the once hard-driving agent who put together deals for "Easy Rider," "Midnight Cowboy" and "They Shoot Horses Don't They?"

Prehistoric thriller proves to be tough sell

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Michael Gruskoff once was a hard-driving agent who put together deals for "Easy Rider," "Midnight Cowboy" and "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

He is now a hard-driving filmmaker who has produced "Young Frankenstein," "Lucky Lady" and now "Quest for Fire," his hardest sell yet.

Imagine approaching the decision makers of Hollywood with a prehistoric adventure which includes no cave-man laughs and no Raquel Welch in scanty furs. A less persistent salesman than Mike Gruskoff never would have gotten past the secretaries.

After four unsettled years, Gruskoff is smiling, at least tentatively. The fate of "Quest for Fire" won't be known for a few weeks, as 20th Century-Fox releases the film across the country. The plan: premieres in New York, Los Angeles, Montreal and Toronto this month, gradually adding cities until a nationwide release at Easter.

"The picture has opened only in France and Switzerland," the producer reported. "The reviews have been great, and business is better than the Bond pictures and 'Raiders of the Lost Ark.'"

Mike Gruskoff's quest began in October 1977, when he was in Paris finishing up "Nosferatu," the Klaus Kinski version of "Dracula." The producer met with Jean-Jacques Annaud, the promising young director of "Black and White in Color" and "Coup de Tete." Annaud said he wanted to film a book about the struggle over fire among prehistoric tribes.

"I had never heard of it," Gruskoff admitted. "It had been written (by J.H. Rosny Sr.) in 1911 and had sold 20 million copies. After I returned to Hollywood, Jean-Jacques sent the book to me, and I fell in love with it.

"Jean-Jacques came over, and we agreed on how to approach the subject. But how to convince people to get it made! Tell them the basic elements of the picture and they would laugh at you. They had to be convinced that with the right makeup and the right locations, the picture would work."

Gruskoff's salesmanship succeeded, but he ran into the Hollywood game of musical chairs. Daniel Melnick approved the project for Columbia Pictures, but by the time a script had been written, Melnick had left the studio. In a period of two weeks, Gruskoff had 18 meetings in search of a new sponsor. Alan Ladd Jr. of 20th Century-Fox said, "I'll give it a shot." But when the film approached production, Ladd had gone from Fox.

The new bosses agreed to leave $3 million in pre-production costs in return for U.S.-Canada distribution rights, but Gruskoff had to seek other bankrollers to get "Quest for Fire" made. It became a Canadian-French production.

Gruskoff's problems weren't over. The Screen Actors Guild went on strike just before filming was to start in Iceland. All the logistics, including transportation of London elephants to double as mammoths, had to be scuttled. The delay added $1.2 million to the final cost of $10.2 million.

"Quest for Fire" was filmed in Scotland, Canada and Kenya with American-based actors as the leads: Everett McGill, Ron Perlman, Rae Dawn Chong (daughter of Tommy Chong of Cheech and...), Nameer El-Kadi.

Mike Gruskoff remembered the period of his life that he calls "Quest for Finance":

Cowboy cheerleader gets change of pace

OLD CALLIHAM, Texas (AP) — Nancy Parrish, a Dallas Cowboys cheerleader until last year, has traded the glitter of the big city for the seclusion of an old country town with no people by a lake with no water.

Mrs. Parrish, 24, the former Nancy Towns, danced for five years with the Dallas Ballet and was a member of the elite Cowboys Cheerleaders in her hometown during the 1980-81 National Football League season.

Now her idea of a big night on the town is going to the Dairy Queen in Three Rivers, a town of 2,500 residents 10 miles up Texas 72 from Old Calliham.

Last October, she moved here from Corpus Christi with her husband Jeff, 26, and her daughter, Madeline, 5, in a house with no neighbors, one television channel to watch and, until last week, no telephone.

They have the entire town to themselves, because the 200 people who used to live here were moved up the road two miles to make way for the Choke Canyon Reservoir which eventually will leave Old Calliham on a peninsula of a 27,000-acre lake.

Jeff says this lends itself to long private talks with his wife on the stoop of their brick house, formerly occupied by the town school teacher.

Their love story matches a popular big city beauty with a handsome outdoorsman who prefers nature to the hubbub of a metropolis.

The Parrishes moved from Dallas to Corpus Christi for several months last year when he landed a job with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, then came to Old Calliham a few months later.

"We've gotten smaller and smaller," Nancy laughed.

Jeff, reared in what he terms the "outbacks of Indonesia" where his father was a geologist, is in charge of a state park envisioned where Calliham used to be.

"Here I refused to live in Dallas," Nancy said. "The farther away from civilization, the better," her husband added.

"It's been a huge transition, but I think we're adjusting real well. We've made some friends in New Calliham," she said. "Madeline and I go into town and I go (75 miles) to Corpus Christi to work twice a week."

Nancy, five months pregnant, is a registered nurse who works part time in labor and delivery at Spohn Hospital in Corpus Christi.

The couple first met as students at Richland Junior College, then Jeff went on to North Texas State University in Denton and to Corpus Christi State University. Nancy attended Texas Woman's University while working at the Presbyterian Hospital in Dallas.

Parrish said he and his wife met through his participation in gymnastics and her study of dancing at the junior college.

The Bureau of Reclamation said Choke Canyon Dam should be completed by early summer, but that it might take up to five years for it to back up enough water from the Frio River to bring the lake up to Old Calliham.

In the meantime, Jeff will be busy overseeing the construction of a state park here that will feature modern boat ramps, camping grounds, tennis courts and a swimming pool.

Old Calliham originally was known as Guffeyola when it was founded in 1918 as a city of tents and shotgun houses to support an oil boom.

Cats — part of the family

PATROKLAS AND FRIEND — Mrs. Robert F. Penner of 2 Highland Cove is shown here with Patrokias, a Seal Point Siamese. Patrokias loves baby food. Not long ago he was trying to let Mr. Penner know that he was hungry. When Mr. Penner did not respond immediately, Patrokias went to the kitchen cabinets, opened a door, pulled out a jar of baby food and dropped the jar on Mr. Penner's foot. Mr. Penner got the message.

Photos by Billy Adams

WE ARE FAMILY — Pepper, 5, is half Feist and half Chihuahua and "was raised by cats," according to owners Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cline of 1519 B Sycamore. The cat shown here with Pepper is Einstein, and Einstein used to nurse on the dog. Einstein, 3, has all the markings of a Classical Tabby cat. The Clines used to breed cats in Louisiana that were trained to kill snakes. "When we got Pepper as a puppy, we had a bunch of cats and they took care of her. The mama cat took Pepper under her wing. Pepper must think she's a cat because "she even tries to purr," Mrs. Cline says.

PEPPER AND EINSTEIN NUZZLE UP TO EACH OTHER
...dog was raised by cats, and this cat nursed on the dog

TIME TO RELAX — Squealer is "just a stray cat that took up with us," says Mr. and Mrs. Danny Miller of 2404

Runnels. Like most cats, Squealer is a loveable, playful and intelligent member of the family.

PLAYFUL — Patrokias loves to play with a pretty little doll. Owner Robert Penner says, "Like most men he prefers blondes."

As any cat owner will tell you, cats are intelligent companions to have around. "They're extremely keen animals," says Mr. Robert F. Penner.

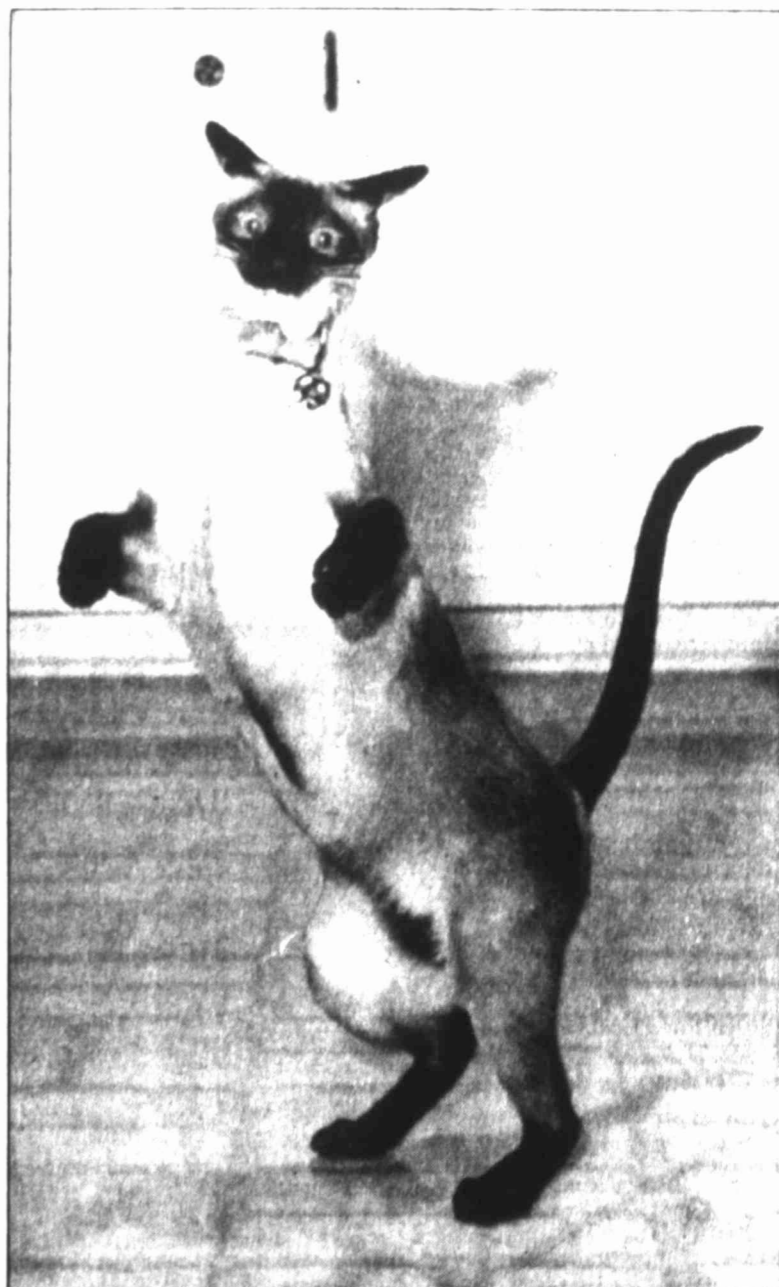

"They are excellent companions if your children have left home," Mrs. Penner said. "Having a cat around is an excellent means for teaching a child caring and sharing, how to be kind. Cats have feelings."

A CHAMP — Justinian, a Blue Point Siamese, is a cat who was mistreated when the Penner family obtained him. Since then he has recovered so well to go on and win grand championship at at least one cat show.

ELEGANT — Prissy is one of the pets of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cline. "Most cats stick their heads in a glass of milk and get stuck," Mrs. Cline said. "But Prissy dips her paw in the glass and licks her paw." Prissy is a blue Tabby.

TIME FOR FUN — Patrokias, named after the Greek mythology friend of Adonis, is a playful cat and often performs for the Robert Penner family and friends. Here he is shown prancing with a furry toy in his mouth. Mrs. Penner says he will jump a couple of feet in the air to retrieve toys thrown at him, and will return the toy to his master.

H & R BLOCK SAYS "MANY WILL OVERPAY"

H & R Block, the income tax people, would like you to read a quote worth quoting. Recently a former IRS official said, "Many taxpayers will leave money on the table, will actually overpay their tax liability."

Taxpayers overpay their taxes because of a lack of tax knowledge and the fear of an audit. People file the form they receive without checking to make sure that they have taken all of their deductions and credits. H & R Block believes every client should have a complete personal interview and the return done while the client is with the tax preparer. Block knows taxes. Not only are they the world's largest tax firm, they also conduct the world's largest tax school.

Most Taxpayers feel their return is done correctly and to their advantage if they are not audited, and they receive the refund shown on their tax return. This is not always true. The IRS does not check every return to see if the taxpayer took all legitimate deductions, or if the taxpayer's financial circumstances have changed from year to year. H & R Block, using a thorough interview, makes the tax laws work for the client. Every return is then double checked for correctness in both math and theory.

H & R Block will make the laws work for you at their Big Spring office — located at 1512 Gregg, Telephone Number 263-1931. Appointments available. Closed Sunday. ADV.

Effective remedies for discomforts

To beat persistent bad breath, cope with blisters, hangovers, hangnails and dislodged tooth fillings and caps, try the following quick fixes. They're culled from a recent issue of Family Circle magazine feature on effective home remedies for common aches, pains and discomforts.

Brush your tongue for sweeter breath. Some people have tongues with irregular surfaces that accumulate food debris which decays and causes odor. Brushing your tongue removes the debris.

Whoops, there goes a filling or cap, and the hole in your tooth feels like the Grand Canyon. The tooth may be sensitive and you may want to protect the cavity from food particles. What you need is a temporary repair. Make your own from two drugstore items: zinc oxide and oil of cloves (eugenol). Mix them to form a white paste. The paste hardens fast, so pack it quickly into the cavity and clean up the edges. The repair will dry to a firm, bright white and should hold for two or three days. By then, you should be able to see your dentist for a more permanent solution.

Oh, your aching head. If you've had too much to drink, eat a pickled herring (yes, a pickled herring) and drink a couple of glasses of water before going to bed. This hangover prevention remedy from a noted gastroenterologist isn't as far-fetched as it might sound. Alcohol dehydrates you, robbing water from cells. The salt content of the pickled herring prods the water you drink back into the cells.

Instead of cutting and hacking away at oh-so-painful hangnails, take a tip from the current Family Circle magazine. Get a cream containing 10 percent urea from your drugstore. According to the magazine, the urea very effectively softens rough, tough skin. Massage in cream several times a day and you should see improvement in two or three days.

To help cure bleeding gums and prevent periodontal disease, the cause of most tooth loss, try this simple, minutes-a-day routine. First, freshly prepare a paste of baking soda moistened with hydrogen peroxide. Then smear the paste along the gums with a rubber tip or toothpick and then with an electric toothbrush. Finish with a salt solution through a Water Pik, and floss thoroughly. Gum bleeding may stop in weeks, says the magazine article.

Blisters always seem to occur in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Dr. Donohue

Blow causes 'rubber legs'

Dear Dr. Donohue: My brother and I were fooling around, punching each other. He gave me a good jab in my stomach that put me down on the floor. My dad said he hit me in the solar plexus and that is why I got the wind knocked out of me. What does the solar plexus mean, and what does it have to do with getting the wind knocked out of you?—N.D.

In the middle part of the abdomen there is a large blood vessel, an artery with many branches radiating out from it like solar (sun) rays. That's where the solar part of the term originates. The plexus part refers to a network—here the network of smaller blood vessels. Solar plexus.

A blow to the solar plexus (actually technically it should be called the celiac plexus) causes blood to be shunted away from the abdominal organs. That triggers a reflex that makes the legs turn into rubber. You fall down. Rest restores normal function of the artery and its network, and you are OK.

It is not really having the wind knocked out of you, and, come to think of it, maybe this is what really happens in most cases where that term is used, as when a football player "just had the wind knocked out of him." We've both learned here.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a part-time coach for our school's wrestling team, pressed into service because of a cut in the athletic budget. I don't mind the job, in fact I enjoy it. My problem right now is a concern about some of my athletes who foolishly, I think, limit their water intake for days before a match to make their weight class. I have warned them not to do this, but they have done it in the past and I know they continue despite my warnings. Is there any way I can check up on them to see that they are not doing it?—B.V.

You are to be applauded for your very sensible concern in trying to reverse this practice. You can use a simple test to find out if they are dehydrating themselves. Measure the specific gravity of their urine. It's not so difficult. You put a hydrometer in a specimen of the urine and read the number. If it is much above 1.015 they are on the dry side; their urine is too concentrated. It is much like measuring the amount of antifreeze in the car radiator. A hydrometer can be obtained from any medical supply store.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Out of curiosity, is there such a thing as being punch drunk, and what is it?—B.W.

Yes, there is such a thing as being punch drunk. It results from multiple small bleedings into the brain and eventual formation of scars there. The damage can be mild, causing only a slight weakness of a foot or leg, and some unsteadiness. Or it can be more severe, causing the person to drag his feet, suffer tremors of his hand, have constant dizziness, loss of hearing, and even mental deterioration. That is why it is so important that boxers have adequate head protection and that fights be stopped whenever a boxer begins to show evidence of confusion.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a jogger. I get stricken periodically with sharp pain on the left side of the abdomen. I have to stop running and walk slowly when it happens. Can you comment?—D.P.

Sounds like a side stitch. The best explanation is that it represents a cramp in the diaphragm muscle, the one that separates the abdomen from the chest cavity.

There are a couple of maneuvers to use for side stitches. One is to exhale through pursed lips, as though you were whistling. Abdominal breathing is another way to combat side stitches. Your abdomen should go out as you breathe inward. When you feel a stitch coming on, raise your arms upward and away from your body instead of using the usual back-and-forth swinging motion. That helps abdominal breathing.

These are only tips. If the pain is persistent, you cannot blame it on a side stitch. You would have to be examined to learn the cause. In fact, you should do that anyway, because you cannot really tell (nor can I at this distance) whether what you have is a side stitch. There may be something else going on.

In response to reader requests, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems. Readers wishing this list can write him care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for return mailing.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Happy Valentines: say it another way

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Saying "Happy Valentines!" to the ones you love may be a long-standing tradition, but the way you say it doesn't have to be traditional or typical by any means. The February issue of Seventeen describes endless ways to bake, to make, and to create personally-tailored valentines greetings ... just the kind that are sure to strike the object of your affection as heart-warming and special:

— Create a collage by cutting out pictures and words from magazines. Use items that reflect your guy's likes, dislikes, and hobbies, or that are reminders of the good times you've shared. Glue them on to poster board, cover with several coats of clear shellac, and put a hook on the back for hanging.

— Bake a heart-shaped cake and impress him (or your friends and family) with your culinary talents. Use an 8 or 9-inch square cake and one round cake the same number of inches in diameter.

110 Texas children died of abuse in '81

At least 110 children died of abuse or neglect in Texas in the year ending August 31, 1981. The Texas Department of Human Resources received 47,340 reports of suspected abuse or neglect involving nearly 69,000 children from September 1980 through August 1981.

Being a parent is not as easy as having a child. Mothers are especially exposed to a complete change in life style and to situations demanding much of their time and attention, often, without apparent reward. The results can be depression, anger, tension, and stress.

Child abuse is a complex human problem. Factors related to child abuse are:

1. Stress, such as that caused by unemployment and financial difficulties.
2. Lack of skills in coping with life.

3. Lack of training in child care, including unrealistic expectations of children.

4. Absence of one parent from the home, which places stress on the remaining parent.

5. Isolation from family, friends, neighbors, or other caring people, and lack of access to community services which might be helpful.

6. Alcohol abuse, drug abuse, legal problems, and overcrowded or inadequate housing.

7. Children with handicaps, illness in infancy, and premature or low birth weight infants, which can prevent the formation of a nurturing, loving bond between some parents and children.

8. Parents who themselves were abused or neglected as children.

One look and you'll understand why Dutch treat dating has become the fashion.

Dear Abby

Man steals and wears lingerie

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter from "Light-Fingered in Iowa," the teen-aged shoplifter, I had to write because I have the same problem but for a different reason.

I steal ladies' lingerie from stores, not because I can't afford to buy it, but because I am a male. If I were to buy ladies' lingerie, the saleslady would know that I am a transvestite, and that would be embarrassing.

I get most of my things by mail order to satisfy my compulsive cross-dressing habit, but when I see a pair of lacy nylon panties, a pretty garter belt or slip I really want to have, I find them much easier to steal than buy.

I have nightmares of being caught, which would be doubly worse for me because of what I steal. I've tried to fight these compulsions with everything that's in me and would gladly go to see a shrink, but I'm too embarrassed for that, too.

From appearances I am male in every way. I am definitely not gay, nor do I want a sex-change operation. I just love wearing feminine clothing in the privacy of my home. (I've done this for more than 20 years.)

I'm sure there are other men who steal ladies' undies from stores, friends and clotheslines, so perhaps a good piece of advice from you would help us all.

LIGHT-FINGERED TRANSVESTITE

DEAR LIGHT: Stealing for any reason is a crime. But wearing whatever brings you pleasure in the privacy of your home is not. So if you see something you want, buy it with confidence and without embarrassment. And don't worry about what the saleslady might think. She's there to make a sale, not a judgment.

DEAR ABBY: My husband was reassigned to the night shift some months ago. I work days. When he comes home at 2 a.m., he's wide-awake and ready for romance. I am already three hours into a deep sleep.

He can't understand why I don't wake up, ready, willing and able. Our weekend love life is fine, but the weeknights are killing me!

So how can I keep him happy and get enough rest at the same time? No jokes. This is serious.

TOO TIRED FOR LOVE

DEAR TOO TIRED: The only viable solution is to synchronize your work schedules so you will both be ready, willing and able at the same time.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is about to become engaged to a young man from a socially prominent family. We have never met his parents. His mother told my daughter that she is waiting for me to issue an invitation to her and her family for dinner "or something" so we can meet! Apparently she is under the impression that the parents of the bride should invite the parents of the groom over first.

I am amazed that a woman who travels in such a ritzy social circle doesn't realize that the parents of the groom are supposed to invite the parents of the bride first.

I don't want to start off on the wrong foot with my daughter's in-laws, so what do you think I should do?

WALKING ON EGGS

DEAR WALKING: Go ahead and issue the first invitation and never mind what is socially correct.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Builders can be liable for defects

Homeowners, if structural defects are uncovered in your home, you may be able to get the builder to fix them, even if you aren't the original owner, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist. In the past, homebuilders' warranties have traditionally covered only problems encountered by the original owner, but the courts have ruled in South Carolina and in Wyoming that builders can be liable for latent defects discovered within the first few years.

Berry is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Connie Butler honored with bridal shower

A bridal shower honoring Connie Butler, bride-elect of Jerome Mayberry, Big Lake, was given at the home of Pauline S. Petty Jan. 30. Mrs. Larson Lloyd co-hosted the event.

Mrs. Robyn Householder registered guests and Mrs. Petty took pictures. Gifts were opened and passed around. Twelve women attended the shower.

How to combat housedust sensitivity

COLLEGE STATION — Has housedust invaded the clean breathing air in your home? If so, you may show symptoms of "housedust sensitivity" or dust sensitivity.

Housedust contains particles of dirt, lint, hair, textile fibers, mold spores and microscopic housedust mites, says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Dust particles are stirred up during housecleaning, and since homemakers spend much of their time in the home, dust is constantly inhaled, she points out.

Symptoms of "housedust sensitivity" include inflamed nasal passages, cold-like symptoms, hives or skin rashes. These will vary depending on how sensitive you are to dust and what the dust is made of, Owens says.

Cleanliness is the key to limiting housedust. Frequent cleanings will help eliminate most dust, the specialist adds.

Also, take precautions to help you lower housedust conditions around your home in the first place, she advises.

Here are some precautions:

1) Don't use dusters, mops and brooms. They scatter dust. Instead, use a damp cloth to wipe moldings, light fixtures, shelves, doors and windows.

2) Upholstered furniture, heavy draperies and long-pile carpeting generate dust, so consider using washable, lightweight draperies or curtains that hang straight or smooth plastic-coated shades that are easy to clean. Short-pile or washable rugs limit dust accumulation, too.

3) Choose wood furnishings with simple lines and cushions stuffed with synthetic fibers to reduce dust accumulation.

4) Encase mattresses and pillows in dust-proof covers.

Weddings

MRS. CRAIG A. SHIPMAN
...formerly Patricia K. Chenault

MRS. ROBERT GLENN SMITH
...formerly Tina Ann Rogers

Chenault-Shipman Rogers-Smith

Hillcrest Baptist Church was the setting for the Friday evening wedding of Patricia K. Chenault and Craig A. Shipman. The Rev. David Hutton, pastor of Cedar Ridge Church of Christ, officiated the 7 p.m. rite before an altar flanked by two candelabra adorned with flowers and a unity candle.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darvis G. Chenault, 3902 Parkway Rd. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gluege, 1811 Runnels.

Music was provided by Melinda Blackburn, pianist, and LaVera Mitchell, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal-length gown featuring a ruffle trimmed yoke of lace, a wedding band lace collar and bishop sleeves trimmed in matching lace ending with lace ruffled cuffs. From the empire waistline fell a full skirt and chapel-length train. She wore a chapel-length veil edged in lace to complete her ensemble.

The bride carried a round bouquet of white carnations and apricot rose buds.

Barbara Chenault, Hobbs, N.M., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Michelle Chenault, Hobbs, N.M., niece of the bride, was flower girl. Gordon Grinnan, was best man. Ushers were Mike Chenault, Hobbs, N.M., brother of the bride, and Brett Morton, Midland, cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception in the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table featured a three-tiered wedding cake in apricot and white. It was topped with love birds that held a ring in their bills. The bride's and matron of honor's bouquets adorned the table.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Security State Bank. The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Abilene Christian College. He is employed as manager of the sporting goods department at Gibson.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

The wedding vows of Tina Ann Rogers, Post, and Robert Glenn Smith, Crane, were solemnized Jan. 30 in an evening ceremony at First Baptist Church, Post. The Rev. Steve McMearns, assistant pastor, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The altar area was adorned by two wicker baskets of assorted mums, gladiolas and carnations. The altar rails were covered in greenery and lighted with crystal globes.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Rogers Jr., Post. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clea Smith, 4208 Walnut, and Bob C. Smith, 4048 Vicky.

Music was provided by Mrs. Glenn Norman, organist, and Mrs. Mike Flanagan, pianist. Phil Alford, was the vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a tea-length gown of candlelight crepe and white embroidery. The gown featured a square neckline and long bishop sleeves and a scalloped hemline. Completing her ensemble she wore a picture hat layered with bridal tulle and a ruffle in matching fabric as the dress. The crown of the hat was embellished with embroidered motifs also of matching fabric.

The bride carried a bouquet of apricot and candlelight silk tiger lilies and white silk stephanotis. The bouquet was accented with candlelight ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Randy Melton, Post, Man-made fibers require more care

Be aware. Acetate and rayon, both man-made fibers, are far more demanding to care for than you probably realized, according to a guide to the advantages and disadvantages of various fabrics in the current Family Circle magazine.

Acetate requires a great deal of care, says the magazine. Most acetate garments must be dry-cleaned. And of those that can be washed, hand-washing is usually necessary.

cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Michael Perez, Lubbock, was best man. Randy Melton, Post, cousin of the bride, and Chris Smith, brother of the bridegroom were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the church's Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered in candlelight lace and was centered by an arrangement of two crystal globes and the matron of honor's flowers. The table featured a three-tiered candlelight wedding cake topped with wedding bells. A buffet supper was served from a table covered in a candlelight linen cloth. Guests were registered by Tandi Rogers, Post, sister of the bride. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Bobby Cowdrey, Mrs. Clarence Gunn, Mrs. Wade Peppers, Mrs. Margie Harper, Mrs. Curtis Williams and Mrs. Virgil Bilboall from Post.

The bride graduated from Post High School in 1980 and attended Angelo State University.

The bridegroom is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Texas Tech University.

The couple plans a trip to Washington at a later date. They are making their home in Crane.

Careful planning can help cut the cost of your wardrobe, regardless of season. The first step is to analyze existing garments to see which ones can still be worn this year. Decide what items are needed to complete ensembles and to give this year's look to your wardrobe.

Focus on family living

Planning cuts wardrobe costs

List the things you need to buy or make. A brief description of what you want may be useful.

Attach samples of fabrics to be matched or coordinated with new garments and accessories. If you can't snip a sample carry the garment with you while shopping.

Carrying samples helps prevent costly and time-consuming mistakes. It is especially important when shopping for fabrics since they cannot be returned.

Plan to vary the quality of items you buy. Coats, suits, and everyday shoes need to be of good quality because they will receive hard wear over several years. These clothes will cost the most. Blouses and other accessories may be of less quality.

Garments or accessories that will be fashionable for just one season can add spice to your wardrobe. These items may be of fairly poor quality as they will not be worn long. Look for the lowest price regardless of quality when buying these.

Planning ahead saves money by ensuring that you get what you really need to make your wardrobe work for you.

Burks-Hancock

Sarah W. Burks became the bride of Jake Hancock in a ceremony held Jan. 30 in the 14th and Main Street Church of Christ Chapel. Byron Corn, minister of 11th and Birdwell Church of Christ, officiated the ceremony before an altar flanked by a seven-branch candelabrum adorned in carnations. An arrangement of dusty rose colored silk roses and baby's breath and a white Bible sat atop the altar.

Vocal selections were provided by Leslye Overman, the bride's granddaughter.

The bride wore a strawberry colored three-piece suit with beige accessories and a corsage of white silk carnations, dusty rose roses and baby's breath to complete her ensemble.

The bride carried a bouquet of white silk carnations and dusty rose sweetheart roses accented with baby's breath and dusty rose and white streamers.

Mrs. Jane Overman, and Mrs. Jeanine Huskey, both daughters of the bride, were matrons of honor.

Don Osborne, son of the bride, was best man. D.W. Overman, son-in-law of the bride was usher.

Roni Osborne, Abilene, granddaughter of the bride, was candlelighter. Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the church parlor. The bride's table was draped in a burgundy cloth with white chantilly lace overlay. Centering the table was a silk arrangement in colors of dusty rose, beige, mauve, pink and burgundy. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white and pink roses and topped with a white wedding bell.

Feeding an infant: Economic factors

COLLEGE STATION — Milk for an infant costs money, whether the mother decides to feed by formula or by breastfeeding, so it's wise to include economic factors in the decision, says Cass Ryan-Crowe, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Dr. Ryan-Crowe is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

One of the reasons to consider breastfeeding is that it is more economical, the specialists say.

On the surface, breastfeeding may appear to be free, since it doesn't require the purchase of equipment or formula ingredients, but it does cost some money in terms of extra food for the lactating mother, Dr. Ryan-Crowe says.

How much it costs depends on food choice. In some cases, the cost can be as little as 50 cents a day extra, the specialist adds.

The mother requires an additional 500 calories per day — along with 20 more grams of protein and 400 more milligrams of calcium. Furthermore, she requires some increase in almost all other nutrients, Dr. Ryan-Crowe explains.

If the mother chooses to obtain these extra nutrients from two glasses of milk and two tablespoons of peanut butter each day, the cost would be less than 50 cents per day.

On the other hand, a steak, natural cheese and whole milk would be more expensive.

DINNERWARE TERMS

Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE we think you should understand the different terms used to describe different types of dinnerware. "Porcelain," made from highly refined clays is also known as "fine china." "Bone china" is a type of fine china made from clays mixed with bone ash, which gives it a white color. "Stoneware" is made from impure clays that take on a dark color when fired at high temperatures. The pieces are strong, opaque and nonporous. Which one is for you?
