5 arrested on alcohol offenses

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Big Spring police made several alcohol-related arrests last night, according to police reports.

Three persons allegedly were found inside Comanche Trail Park after hours and were arrested by officers on several charges.

Police said they arrested Herman Orosco of 405 N.W. Fourth on charges of being a minor in possession of an alcoholic beverage, public intoxication and criminal trespass.

Edward Ramirez of 611 N. San Antonio was arrested on charges of criminal trespass, criminal mischief, public intoxication and making alcohol available to a minor.

Also arrested was Miguel Hinojos of 1003 N. Rannels on charges of being a minor in possession of an alcoholic beverage, public intoxication and criminal trespass, police said.

The trio were held in the police station jail overnight.

In a separate event, police officers arrested a 22-year-old man and a juvenile on intoxication charges last night.

Police arrested Daniel DeLeon, no address available, on charges of making alcohol available to a minor, public intoxication and resisting arrest.

The juvenile was arrested for public intoxication and resisting arrest, according to reports.

IT'S IN HIS BLOOD—Dwight Storke Jr., chief park ranger at the George Washington Birthplace National Monument in Westmoreland County, Va., is also related to the nation's first president. Washington was born 250 years ago today, although his birth was celebrated February 15. That won't stop Storke, however. Washington's great grandfather is Storke's ninth grandfather. This memorial house was built in 1931 and stands near the site of the original house, which burned down in 1779.

Are lousy lice local problem?

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Lice are lousy.

Are lice a problem in Big Spring schools? "Well, of course, head lice are always a problem," said Lynn Hise, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District.

"They are worse than usual this time of year because the kids are inside more. We have medication we send home with the kids if they have lice.

"Lice are difficult to deal with, but you could get them just as easily if you went to the circus or a movie — they aren't confined to just the schools," Hise said.

The schools get quite a few complaints about lice, Hise explained. He said the complaints are legitimate, but he added that the school system has an enrollment of almost 5,000 students, which makes it hard to isolate every case of head lice.

School nurse Addie Brown said, "You can get lice off of an upholstered surface, so you can see lice aren't only in the schools."

Ms. Brown said the school district periodically examines children in elementary schools for head lice. If a child is found to have lice or lice eggs (called nits) the school contacts the child's parents.

At that stage the parent is informed of a prescription medicine which he can buy for his child to rid him or her of the insect. If the parent cannot afford the medicine, then the school will send some home with the child.

Ms. Brown said the case is routinely followed up after treatment has been made.

Dr. Brian Caplan of Malone-Hogan Hospital said head lice are more common in children than adults because children share their combs, brushes and caps with one another. Caplan also said head lice are more common in girls than boys.

"Head lice usually start very slowly, but if undetected can spread and become serious. If a parent suspects his child has lice he can inspect the child's scalp. If the child has lice there will be red, flat areas on the scalp, usually near the nape of the neck and above the ears."

"Lice itch very badly and there may be scratch marks and scabs on the scalp. There also may be eggs or 'nits' on the hair shafts," Caplan said.

Caplan said treatment for head lice comes in the form of several brands of prescription shampoos. He also recommended an over-the-counter shampoo called "Rid" as being effective on lice.

Bingo election set April 3

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners set April 3 as the date for county voters to decide on legalized bingo. Commissioners today approved petitions containing 686 signatures which had been certified by County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Mrs. Ray had received 41 petitions from various organizations to reach the required 635 registered voter signatures needed to call a special election. She told the commissioners today that $2,500 from bingo receipts was tax-exempt, but that the county had the option of imposing a two-percent tax on earnings after that figure.

COMMISSIONERS ALSO approved two bids for automobiles for the sheriff's office. A bid of $7,997 with trade-in was awarded to Pollard Chevrolet and a bid of $8,059 with trade-in to Bob Brock Ford. Following a brief discussion with Dale Wortham from Bob Brock Ford, commissioners decided to re-submit bids for three pick-ups for the Road and Bridge Department and the county agent's office.

Wortham pointed out to the commissioners that the bids were not for similar-line models from the automobile dealerships. Commissioner David Barr moved to have the bids ask for "base-line models" so that dealerships would be on equal footing.

Commissioners also moved to change county precinct lines to conform with changes in the city limits. Mrs. Ray told the commissioners this precinct change will affect some voters and is required by law.

APPROVAL ALSO was granted to County Auditor Jackie Ottag to advertise for bids for 11 typewriters, six calculators, two filing cabinets and drapes for the computer room in the tax collector's office.

Commissioners were expected to meet later with five persons on separate items: Max Green on presentation of the 1980-1981 audit; Judith Gray on the library; Judge Bobby West on personnel; Tom Vernon of the ABC Club on the Rattlesnake Roundup; and Larry Tubbs to report as county trapper.

Council will consider maintenance bids Tuesday

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

The awarding of bids for police uniforms and radio maintenance contracts are among the items the Big Spring City Council will consider when it meets Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in regular session.

The council also will consider putting to bid a pickup truck needed for inspection of construction projects.

Also on the agenda: a presentation from Bennett Reaves of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, the firm engineering the city's five-year Capital Improvements Program.

A claim for damages arising out of an accident involving a city truck will be heard, and Cecil Gilstrap is scheduled to give a presentation to the council regarding the city's peddling and solicitation ordinance.

An audit report from James Welch of the firm Lee, Wilson & Reynolds also is listed on the council's agenda.

The council is expected to discuss granting an easement on city property to Texas Electric Service Co. so TESCO can serve an oil well pump. Also on the agenda: appointment of judges and alternates for the two polling places in the April 3 city elections.

Brown, Hightower tangle over powers

By DIANE BALLARD
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Agriculture Commissioner candidate Jim Hightower says incumbent Regan Brown has been a "do-nothing" commissioner. Brown says Hightower doesn't have enough experience to know what he's talking about.

Both Brown and Hightower or their representatives are scheduled to be in Big Spring tomorrow for a dinner and rally in support of Democratic candidates for local and state offices.

But an underlying difference between the candidates goes beyond their experience or skill to each one's interpretation of the Texas Civil Statute defining the commissioner's powers.

Hightower's interpretation view is more like Andrew Carnegie's attitude towards high finance: "Anything that's not nailed down is mine, and anything I can pry loose is not nailed down."

He says the statute defining the commissioner's authority is intentionally vague to give the commissioner plenty of rein.

Brown, however, interprets the Texas Civil Statute as more restrictive.

He says Hightower doesn't have the authority to carry out his plans for curbing rising food prices and investigating price-fixing schemes.

"We are a regulatory agency," he says. "We have almost nothing to do with agriculture policy."

Hightower wants to dispatch investigative terms out of Austin to look into price-fixing schemes and abuses within the agricultural industry at the request of local groups or merchants.

"This SWAT team concept is part of what I call the advocacy role of the agriculture commissioner," Hightower says.

Kristy Ozmun, campaign spokesman for Hightower, says: "Why not use our skilled personnel instead of having them just push paper?"

But Brown says Hightower "doesn't know what he's talking about."

"There's no constitutional authority to do anything about that (price fixing)," he says.

The Texas statute defining the commissioner's authority does not specifically prohibit conducting such investigations.

If staff members discover price fixing, prosecution could be handled several ways, says Mary Hardesty, spokeswoman for the attorney general's office.

Criminal charges would be turned over to local attorneys; federal charges would be turned over to local U.S. attorneys; and an anti-trust suit would be handled by the state attorney general.

Rex Cauble given 10 five-year terms

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal judge today sentenced North Texas millionaire rancher Rex Cauble to five years in prison for his part in an elaborate marijuana smuggling ring.

U.S. District Judge William Steger actually assessed the 66-year-old Denton rancher 10 five-year terms — one each for the 10 indictments against him — but the sentences are to run concurrently.

His lawyer, G. Brockett Irwin of Longview, said he would appeal.

Cauble was convicted last month on charges of embezzlement, conspiracy and racketeering. Prosecutors contended Cauble was the kingpin of the "Cowboy Mafia," which smuggled 106 tons of marijuana from South America to Texas in 1977 and 1978.

Steger also interviewed two jurors who Irwin claimed were prejudiced against Cauble and then ruled there was no evidence to back that claim, saying the jurors acted in good faith.

Before sentencing, former Texas Gov. John Connally testified as a character witness for Cauble, who once served as chairman of the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Connally said he did not believe Cauble was guilty of the charges.

Cauble's former ranch foreman, Charles "Muscles" Foster, said the "wrong man" was being sentenced. Foster, who did not testify during Cauble's trial, took blame for the operation of the ring. He was found innocent by reason of insanity of charges stemming from the case.

Cauble could have received up to 95 years in prison and fines up to $125,000. His holdings, worth up to $25 million, also are subject to federal seizure.

Irwin filed a motion in federal court here Wednesday asking that Steger call a special hearing to interview jurors, who the attorney said might have been biased against Cauble.

Irwin contended that one juror's son and stepson had been convicted on drug charges and another juror's brother was convicted of racketeering charges.

The 10-count indictment under which Cauble was convicted said that his holdings — including six Texas ranches and the chic Cutter Bill's Western World stores — were gained or used in a conspiracy.

Watt proposes a long-term ban on wilderness drilling, mining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary James Watt, dramatically reversing field, says he now favors a long-term ban on new drilling and mining in the country's 80 million acres of wilderness lands.

Many environmentalists, who have spent the past year battling Watt over wilderness development, hailed the announcement Sunday as a "real victory." Others said they wanted to look at the fine print before passing judgment.

In an appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press," Watt said the administration will propose legislation to put federally owned wilderness land off-limits to oil and gas drilling and mining through the year 2000 — an 18-year moratorium.

He said the only exception would be if the president and Congress determined there was an "urgent national need" for oil, natural gas or strategic minerals during times of foreign embargoes or other crises.

Until Sunday's announcement, Watt had favored just the opposite approach, supporting proposals to extend for 20 years the right of oil companies and other developers to obtain mineral leases in wilderness areas. The 1964 Wilderness Act had set a Jan. 1, 1984, deadline for issuing such leases.

Before the Reagan administration took office, few leases had been issued, but Watt gave notice that he favored energy development on public lands. Energy companies have pushed for approval of about 1,000 pending oil and gas lease applications in 200 wilderness areas in 25 states.

Action/reaction: School decisions

Q. Who makes the decision to have school when the roads are treacherous and the weather is bad?

A. Big Spring ISD Superintendent Lynn Hise says, "The decision to hold classes or not is mine. We get out early and check the roads and determine if our buses can operate safely. If they can, we have classes." Hise said the administration figures if buses can make it, then so can people bringing children to school.

Prisoner hangs

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County jail inmate was found hanging from a sheet tied to the bars of his cell early today, sheriff's officers said.

Officials were holding the name of the 32-year-old man pending notification of next of kin.

Guards found the prisoner about 1:45 a.m., sheriff's officers said. They said a medical officer was called immediately and found no sign of life.

The man was alone in the cell, officers said.

World's tallest woman dies

PEKING (AP) — The world's tallest woman, who stood 8-feet 1-inch, has died of diabetes and complications, the Peking Evening News reported today.

The newspaper said the 17-year-old peasant, Zeng Jin-Lian died Feb. 13 in Hunan province in central China. She had been hospitalized in October for treatment of diabetes and returned home for the lunar new year holiday.

She developed a fever Feb. 9 and her condition worsened, it said.

'Murray the K' dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Murray Kaufman, the disc jockey known as "Murray the K" who rose to fame in the 1960s as "the Fifth Beatle," died early today in his sleep at home in Los Angeles, his former business manager said.

Deborah Alexander said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles that Kaufman's son, Peter Altschuler, confirmed his father's death.

She said Kaufman, who had been battling cancer for more than two years, left a Los Angeles hospital last week and returned to his home in Studio City, a section of Los Angeles.

Court refuses to revive grain anti-trust case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to revive a giant antitrust case against six grain export firms and a former government official stemming from huge grain sales to the Soviet Union in the early 1970s.

The court, without comment, let stand a ruling throwing out three separate class-action lawsuits filed on behalf of 56,000 farmers in three states.

The farmers, from Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, claimed that the grain companies had deliberately conspired in 1972 to withhold news of impending wheat and corn sales to the Soviets.

The farmers said the conspiracy resulted in a depressed market condition.

That allegedly allowed Continental Grain Co. and other grain exporters to buy wheat from middlemen and the farmers at lower prices than would have been the case if the information had not been suppressed.

Mardi Gras rolls on

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Even behind his Mardi Gras disguise, Gene Orgeron was easy to recognize among the masked men throwing beads and doubloons from the floats of the Poseidon parade. He can't hide — he's too generous.

"Gene Orgeron throws like nobody else," said Barney Mahler, a friend who often rides Orgeron's $30,000 float in a Mardi Gras parade.

The Krewe of Poseidon, a Jefferson Parish organization, was one of 10 parades that rolled through the streets of New Orleans and surrounding parishes Sunday as the Carnival season continued toward its climax on Tuesday.

Orgeron "doesn't believe in breaking open a bag of beads," Mahler said. "Me, I like to break open a pack and throw it up with two hands and watch the people scramble. But Gene, he throws whole bags, a gross at a time."

The trinkets tossed by people atop the floats are a big hit among Mardi Gras parade-goers. The throws include silver dollar-sized aluminum coins called doubloons and brightly colored plastic beads.

The day's events climaxed with the parade of the Krewe of Bacchus, a lavish affair that features a celebrity as parade king and a big drunken dinosaur called the Bacchusaurus. This year's king was comedian Dom DeLuise.

Spy charges dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Military Appeals today ordered the Air Force to dismiss espionage charges against 2nd Lt. Christopher Cooke, the Titan missile officer who allegedly conveyed secret information to the Soviet Union.

The court, in a 2-to-1 ruling, said that the Air Force had denied Cooke's due process by promising him immunity in return for a full confession, then attempting to prosecute him after he made that confession.

Cooke, a Richmond, Va., native, never denied during the preliminary stages of his court-martial that he had made illegal contact with Soviet officials or had conveyed information to them. He and his attorney, F. Lee Bailey, instead concentrated on winning dismissal of the charges with the immunity argument.

The Air Force contended that Cooke had not received his immunity promise from the only officer entitled to give it, now retired Gen. Richard Ellis, who was commanding officer of the Strategic Air Command in May 1981, when Cooke was interrogated.

The court said the Air Force's contention that only Ellis could grant immunity was not "a panacea for prosecutorial misconduct ... and does not create a shield for the convening authority (Ellis)."

"Such technical preoccupation with this provision of the Manual for Courts-Martial obfuscates the expressed dictates of Congress ... that the service member be afforded due process of law in the military justice system."

County officials, governors have doubts about federalism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the nation's county governments joined governors today in expressing strong reservations to President Reagan's plan to transfer billions of dollars in federal programs to state and local governments.

After a 90-minute debate, the National Association of Counties adopted a statement generally praising Reagan's good faith efforts but seriously questioning his methods.

The main disagreement was the county leaders' insistence that the federal government take over full responsibility for the nation's basic welfare programs.

The "new federalism" Reagan unveiled in his State of the Union speech last month would have Washington take over the expensive Medicaid program providing health care for the needy. But it would give state and local governments full responsibility for Aid for Families with Dependent Children, the nation's fundamental welfare delivery system.

The county officials also questioned Reagan's plan for financing the program transfer.

They said in a resolution that local governments should get a share of the federal revenues now devoted to fully funding the programs that would be transferred to them.

Reagan wants to finance a "new federalism" transition fund with money from excise taxes and the windfall profits tax on petroleum. The state and local officials say the taxes Reagan prefers could not be collected equitably at the state and local levels.

The county leaders, who are holding their annual convention here this week, and delegates to the annual winter meeting of the National Governors Association were scheduled to meet with Reagan at the White House later today.

State and local leaders from both parties on Sunday flatly rejected Reagan's plan that they separate the 1983 budget battle from his "new federalism."

Top administration officials also made little headway when they asked governors and state legislators to consider the president's proposed program on its long-range merits and not get bogged down in an argument over budget figures.

After budget director David Stockman and Rich Williamson, Reagan's advisor on intergovernmental affairs, had made their pleas and left, spokesmen for the governors were asked whether they were agreeing to separate the issues.

Officers bust smuggling ring

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso Border Patrol agents have hit the heart of a Chicago-based alien smuggling ring by going along for the ride.

Two Hispanic Border Patrol agents were planted in a truckload of 21 Mexican citizens Thursday headed for Chicago. When they arrived undetected Saturday morning, Chicago Border Patrol agents were waiting. Eleven smugglers were arrested, acting El Paso chief agent Jack Richardson said Sunday.

Richardson said he doesn't believe the head of the smuggling organization was among those arrested, but he said he was confident the other smugglers would lead agents to their boss.

"It's funny the way people change their mind about talking when the questions are from a U.S. federal judge," he said.

Of the nine men and two women arrested, only one is a U.S. citizen. Three are resident aliens, and the others are Mexicans in the United States illegally.

One of those arrested was in possession of counterfeit citizenship documents, Richardson said.

Besides the arrests, three "drop houses" — places where aliens are left in transit by the smugglers — were identified, four smuggling vehicles were confiscated and an undisclosed amount of payoff money was seized, Richardson said.

"We had surveillance on the truck all the way up there," he said. "We videotaped all the activity once they reached Chicago."

Richardson said the videotape would make it difficult for the smugglers to claim they were unaware their passengers were aliens.

The smugglers were paid $650 each for their human cargo. Richardson said the smuggling operation probably ran 500 aliens each month from the border to Chicago.

Although Richardson said the smugglers "never came close" to discovering the planted border agents, the operation was not flawless.

The Border Patrol car following the truck broke down outside Amarillo and two Chicago agents following the smugglers had their car smashed by a drunken driver.

"This is a government operation so you have to expect something to go wrong," Richardson quipped.

Richardson said he would arrange to have the 11 smugglers prosecuted by the U.S. attorney's office Monday.

Watt

Sunday that Watt's intention is to award none of those leases if Congress agrees with his package.

"This is a real victory for wilderness preservation," said William Turnage, executive director of the Wilderness Society. "This is a complete turnaround in the administration's policy."

John McComb, Washington director of the Sierra Club, said Watt "is responding to the overwhelming public rejection of his leasing proposals."

But McComb said he has major reservations about certain aspects of the plan, which Watt said would be introduced later this week.

As outlined by Watt and Interior Department officials, the proposal would:

- Require the Interior Department to report to Congress every five years on the potential energy, mineral and timber resources located in wilderness areas. This would be done through field work by the U.S. Geological Survey under restrictions barring the building of roads or otherwise harming the pristine areas.
- Set deadlines for Congress to consider adding some 30 million acres of land to the wilderness system. Under current law, that land is protected until Congress decides whether to include it. Watt's proposal would set deadlines — in some cases two years — for Congress to act or the land would lose its wilderness protections.
- That just tells our opponents that all they have to do is block legislation and they will get what they want," McComb said.

2 nabbed on forgery, drug charges

Two women suspected of passing a forged check wound up getting arrested on drug charges at 12:30 a.m. today, police said.

According to police reports, the College Park Safeway notified police that a woman had attempted to pass a forged check at the store late last night.

Supplied with a description of the suspect's vehicle, police kept a lookout and spotted the vehicle at 11th and Settles, according to reports.

A search allegedly turned up two syringes and a substance suspected of being illegal, said Lt. George Quintero.

Police arrested Beatrice Evans of 803 Pine on charges of passing a forged instrument, possession of a controlled substance and public intoxication, police said.

● Dwight E. Moore of Gail Route was arrested last night on a burglary charge, police said, after a warrant was issued for Moore's arrest.

Moore, 51, was apprehended at his home at 6:30 p.m. after city police and Howard County sheriff's deputies were called to the residence to investigate a domestic disturbance, police said.

Moore was arrested in connection with the alleged theft of $1,025 worth of tires from Fleet Tire & Service at 1607 E. Third, said detective Lt. John Wolf.

The burglary is believed to have occurred early Sunday morning.

● A 20-year-old was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of theft over $10,000, according to police reports. Ricky Harrington was arrested at his 1612 Donley home in connection with the alleged theft of a jeep from an Odessa residence Feb. 8, said detective Sgt. Lonnie Smith.

● Police arrested Jerry Walton on a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon on a licensed premises Saturday night, according to reports. Walton, who gave his address as the Thrifty Lodge, was arrested at the Other Place bar with a loaded .357-magnum in his boot, police said.

● Lonnie Wright of 1618 E. 16th told police someone broke into his home and stole a TV set, a .22-caliber rifle, watches, jewelry and other items Saturday night.

● Albert Salazar of 1316 Utah told police someone broke into his home between 7 and 9 p.m. yesterday and stole two telephones and a TV set worth $300.

● Police said three motor vehicles collided at Gregg and Edwards at about 7:45 p.m. Sunday. No one was injured when vehicles driven by Davy Kidd of Stanton, Kelly Watkins of 1200 Pennsylvania and Keith Walker of 2508 Central allegedly collided.

Black History: did you know...?

Daniel Hale Williams (1856-1931) graduated from Chicago Medical College in 1893 ... became a surgeon ... started Provident Hospital in 1891 for the use of all races ... performed many operations ... was the first surgeon to operate on the human heart ... became famous throughout the country ... saved many lives through his work in heart surgery.

Big Spring residents are observing Black History Month with several events this week at the Veterans Administration.

Culminating the week's activities will be a city-wide event at 3 p.m. Sunday at Big Spring Municipal Auditorium. Theme of the program will be "Afro-American History: Blueprint for Survival." Several residents will portray famous Black Americans, such as Harriet Tubman, Gwendolyn Brooks, Martin Luther King and Dr. George Washington Carver.

The public is invited.

8-year-old girl dies after liver transplant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cassie McPherson, who underwent two delicate operations to replace her defective and diseased liver, died today, a hospital spokesman said.

The 8-year-old girl from Seagoville died at 11 a.m., said Children's Hospital spokeswoman Betty Bachman. She gave no details, although a liver transplant Saturday was the second for the child in five days.

She underwent the transplant a second time after complications forced surgeons to halt a transplant operation last week before it was completed.

The first transplant attempt was stopped after a 13-hour operation because of excessive bleeding, hospital officials said. Doctors were unable to complete the task of connecting hundreds of blood vessels to the donor liver.

Dr. Thomas Starzl, a pioneer in organ transplants, performed the operations.

In the first operation, surgeons could not locate the girl's portal vein, which connects the stomach and liver and is essential to healthy liver function.

A 3-year-old New York City boy who had been kept alive by a respirator was the first liver donor. The second liver came from the body of a 2-year-old Louisville, Ky., boy who died after being beaten and submerged in a bathtub.

Carolyn McPherson, Cassie's mother, said the girl's liver had malfunctioned because of a congenital disorder. Without a new liver, she would have died within six months, Ms. McPherson said.

Official urges taxpayers to learn about new tax law

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state official says Texas property owners should familiarize themselves with their rights under the new property tax laws that become effective in most counties this year.

Owners also should learn about the remedies possible under the new laws, says Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board.

"The property tax is the primary source of local government revenue in Texas, and will generate approximately $6 billion this year to help fund the operations of public schools, cities, counties and special districts," Graeber said.

"We urge all property owners to become familiar with the tax process and to file renditions and apply for all exemptions or other tax relief measures to which they are entitled."

Graeber said that in all but 17 counties, the new central appraisal district required by state law became effective on Jan. 1.

Local officials delayed appraisal district operations until 1983 in Bexar, Glasscock, Gray, Hartley, Jasper, Jeff Davis, King, Leon, McMullen, Moore, Oldham, Rockwall, Stonewall and Zapata counties.

Implementation of full appraisal district operations was delayed until 1984 in Harris, Bowie and Crockett counties.

Masons, teachers to meet

The three area Masonic lodges (Staked Plains Lodge No. 596, Big Spring Lodge No. 1340 and Coahoma Lodge No. 992) are sponsoring a breakfast for all local and area school teachers, their husbands and wives. The breakfast will be held at the Howard College cafeteria March 1 at 7 a.m. All area teachers and master masons and their wives are urged to attend.

WATER FROM THE WELL—A couple gather water from a well outside their home in Plock, Poland Friday. The Plock area was flooded after the nearby Vistula River flooded following an unusual post-Christmas thaw. The couple's home, one of the few not ruined, rests on high ground. Approximately 15,000 people were reportedly displaced by the flooding.

Polish paper attacks Walesa

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The hardline army newspaper today lashed out at Lech Walesa and other Solidarity leaders, accusing them of preparing for a "bloody fight" before the military crackdown.

The criticism by the daily Zolnierz Wolnosci came as the military government issued official guidelines for allowing trade unions to be reactivated. The government made it clear unions must stay away from political issues and follow the leadership of the Communist Party.

All unions were suspended when martial law was imposed Dec. 13 to curb the 9.5 million-member independent union Solidarity. Thousands of union activists were interned, including Walesa.

The army newspaper said Walesa had joined other union chiefs in calling for construction of gallows for party officials at a union meeting in Radom 10 days before martial law was declared. That meeting was held after security forces, backed by helicopters, stormed a firefighters school occupied by cadets demanding that they be exempted from Interior Ministry call-ups for police duty.

The state-controlled press has generally avoided direct criticism of Walesa, who was seen as a moderate compared to some of Solidarity's national leadership. The army newspaper's article seemed an attempt to link Walesa more closely to union radicals.

PAP, the official news agency, said the government's proposed future guidelines for unions would be discussed with workers first.

"Organizational principles, structure and practical functioning of the trade unions must guarantee that they will remain just a trade union, without any ambitions to play the role of a political party," PAP reported.

The right to strike, which Solidarity won when it was formed during the nationwide strike wave in the summer of 1980, will be employed only as a last resort, the report continued.

"The strike weapon should not be overused or used on every occasion," it said.

15 die in bomb blast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb hidden in a garbage truck blew up outside a Revolutionary Guards barracks in east Tehran today, killing 15 people and wounding 61 others including school children, the official Iranian news agency said.

The force of the blast shattered the truck, gouged a nine-foot crater in the street, wrecked 20 nearby cars and blew out windows more than 1,000 feet away, said the Islamic Republican News Agency (IRNA), formerly known as Pars. Most victims appeared to be early morning rush-hour commuters waiting for buses in the bustling district, it said.

Statements issued in Tehran indicated officials in the capital blamed the blast on the Mujahedeen Khalq urban guerrilla group, which has waged an eight-month campaign of bombings and assassinations against the fundamentalist Islamic regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"The explosion was so powerful that the truck had been smashed into pieces, therefore it was not possible to determine the type of explosives used," the news agency quoted Tehran's police chief as saying. He was identified only as Col. Niknejad.

State-run Tehran radio said throngs of people converged on the scene of the blast to condemn "counter-revolutionaries," a term reserved for insurgents. The radio said they held a street demonstration shouting "death to America."

The broadcast said the bomb exploded outside the barracks of the Revolution Guards, Iran's militia. IRNA said at least three of those killed were guardsmen and two others were school children, whose lunchboxes were found near their bodies.

Word of the blast came shortly before IRNA announced a fresh crackdown on the guerrillas in Iran's northeastern Khorasan province.

The Tehran explosion occurred at 7:18 a.m. — 10:48 p.m., EST — in front of the barracks in Sepah Square, the agency said.

Irna quoted the Tehran police chief, identified only as Col. Niknejad, as saying, "The explosion was so powerful that the (garbage) truck (in which the bomb was planted) had been smashed into pieces, therefore it was not possible to determine the type of explosives used."

A Tehran resident reached by telephone from Beirut said he heard the blast, followed quickly by the wail of sirens from ambulances rushing to the scene.

Man convicted of murdering 25 laborers granted retrial

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — Eleven years after the slashed bodies of 25 laborers were unearthed in clusters of graves in Yuba City peach orchards, Juan Corona, whose conviction in the mass murders was overturned, is being tried again.

The retrial of the 47-year-old man, who has been in prison since his arrest in 1971, was to begin here today before Colusa County Superior Judge Richard Patton, who presided over the first trial. The retrial, which could cost $4 million and is expected to take six months, is being held in Alameda County court because of a change of venue.

San Francisco. All but one of the 25 victims had their heads chopped or slashed with a knife or machete. Most were stabbed in the heart or left lung.

"I never lost faith in God that someday I'll be free, because why should I be in prison for the rest of my life if I didn't commit those crimes?" Corona said in a 1973 interview when asked about his chances for acquittal in a new trial.

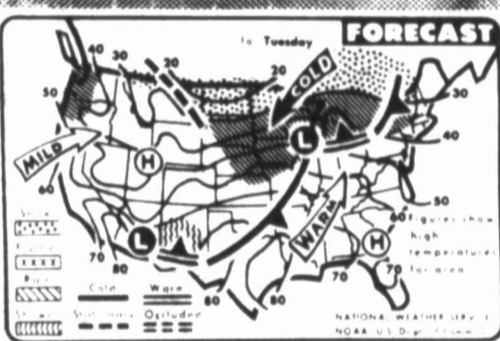

Corona was convicted that year and sentenced to 25 consecutive life sentences. The prosecution's case was based on elaborate circumstantial evidence, including the discovery of meat market receipts bearing Corona's name at the gravesites.

An appellate court overturned the convictions in 1978, ruling Corona was entitled to a new trial because his first defense by attorney Richard Hawk was inadequate.

WEATHER FORECAST—The National Weather Service forecasts rain over the Pacific Northwest Tuesday and snow along the Canadian border from Montana to the Great Lakes. Rain is expected over the Midwest from South Dakota to Kansas and east to New England with showers forecast for New Mexico.

Clear skies, warm temps forecast

By The Associated Press

Unseasonably warm temperatures were forecast for all of Texas today.

Forecasts called for clear skies statewide. Highs were to range from the upper 70s along the coast to the 90s in extreme South Texas with most of the state to have readings in the 80s.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 40s and 50s, ranging from the 30s in the mountains of Southwest Texas to the 60s in extreme South Texas. The unseasonably warm weather is expected to continue Tuesday with highs to be mostly in the 70s and 80s.

Dense fog reduced visibility to near zero along the coastal bend and in the Lower Rio Grande Valley early today.

FORECAST
West Texas—Partly cloudy and cooler. Highs mid 50s north to mid 70s south. Lows upper 30s north to mid 40s south.

EXTENDED FORECAST
West Texas—Fair through tonight becoming partly cloudy Tuesday. Continued warm afternoons. Highs 80s. Lows 40s except 30s mountains.

Flooding continues in Pacific Northwest

The rains stopped but rivers continued to bulge as weekend floods and mudslides in the Pacific Northwest caused at least five deaths, blocked roads and forced some people to sandbag or flee their homes.

Warm temperatures melted snow, compounding the problems in the Midwest, where ice jams melted in Missouri's Grand River, flooding 300,000 acres of uninhabited farm land in up to 3 feet of water. No injuries were reported, as water surrounded Sumner, a town of 150 people, on three sides.

Some of the rivers at flood stage in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Iowa and Washington began to recede Sunday, but warnings of brimming waterways remained posted for others.

Minor flooding was reported in Nebraska and Indiana.

Mudslides and avalanches damaged or destroyed homes, roads and bridges. Two major highways near Boise, Idaho, were closed, but some roads in Oregon that were shut Saturday reopened on Sunday.

In Washington, Flora Woodruff, 47, was killed and two other people were missing Sunday after their car hit a washout on Highway 142 near the Little Klickitat River, the state patrol said.

Oregon state police said three people died Saturday when their van was swept into Lobster Creek by a mudslide on a mountain road 15 miles southwest of Alesia in northwestern Oregon.

"They do call it a creek but it was like a raging river last night," Sheriff John Dolan of Benton County said Sunday.

Seven-year-old Jason Greenman of Bothell, Wash., died Saturday in the collapse of a tunnel he was building in a rain-soaked sand and gravel pit, authorities said.

In Iowa, the Nishnabotna River in Red Oak reached 17.8 feet Sunday afternoon, 2 1/2 inches short of flood stage. But Montgomery County sheriff's officers said it began to recede later Sunday.

In northern Idaho, residents near the flooding St. Joe and Coeur d'Alene Rivers sandbagged their homes as the rivers reached flood levels late Sunday and early today. Gov. John Evans canceled a trip to remain in the state in case emergency declarations were needed.

On the Oregon coast, about 1 1/2 inches of rain fell at Newport and North Bend during a 24-hour period that ended Sunday morning.

Take romance out of liquor

Are we teaching our kids to become alcoholics? The question is startling but frighteningly relevant in light of the fact that 14 million Americans suffer from alcohol abuse.

The father who heads for the martini pitcher at 5 p.m. in order "to relax" and the mother who says she needs a drink, sips it, and sighs with relief are both teaching their children a lesson that won't be forgotten.

Dr. Morris E. Chafetz, founding director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, says: "Obviously the problem is not in the substance itself. It's in the use and attitudes toward drinking. We have a tendency to take our liquor as we live life—rapidly and tensely. The general aim is to feel 'good' in the shortest period of time."

THE MESSAGE THAT alcohol can be used as a painkiller for "instant relaxation" or as a mood alterer causes kids to wonder why one should suffer at all when relief can be had so easily. Can parents prevent this message from reaching their child? Dr. Chafetz believes they can. "Despite outside pressures," he asserts, "parents are still a great influence. By serving as models of sensible and healthy alcohol use, we can lower the chances that our children will develop destructive drinking practices. Responsible use of alcohol at home is our number one bulwark against alcohol abuse."

HERE ARE SOME guides that can help you encourage your child to treat alcohol with respect.

1. Refrain from giving alcohol a romantic allure by putting it under lock and key or by equating its use with manhood and maturity.
2. Phrases such as "I need a drink" infer that a quick drink sends troubles away. Avoid them.
3. Try not to attach any particular importance to the fact that someone drinks or doesn't drink.
4. Alcoholic beverages should be consumed slowly, and along with meals.
5. Let your children know that there is nothing funny about a drunk. Explain that the drunk is sick and hurts himself or others if he gets behind the wheel of a car.

According to Dr. Chafetz, "If we're ever going to get a handle on this terrible disease, we must control what I call the 'contagion factor'—the spread of irresponsible, unhealthy drinking behavior to the young."

Untold stories

The other day I was standing in the express line at a local discount store trying to figure out why express lanes are always the slowest lines when I'm truly in a hurry.

I was in line with the usual express lane people—those of us who are tired and short on patience. And we always have the unfortunate luck to be behind a person with 12 items instead of the mandatory eight or trapped behind some joker who is trying to give the clerk a check in the cash-only express lane.

ANYWAY, THERE I was with nothing to do except read the headlines of the National Enquirer. As usual, the headlines consisted of sin, sex and another new miracle cure for cancer. They must have cured cancer about a million times now according to Enquirer reports.

Loni Anderson and Burt Reynolds were facing each other in totally unrelated photographs, but bold headlines exclaimed their romance was sizzling.

As most journalists probably do, I scoffed at the stories the Enquirer was boasting. But deep down I had an irresistible urge to actually buy the thing!

I mean Joseph Pulitzer probably rotates in his grave every time one of these scandal sheets is bought and here I was wanting to add to his rpm's.

I found I was drawn to juicy pieces of information such as: "Is Victoria Principal's hair really falling out," and "Herve Totto Villechaize hires bodyguards after bizarre death threats." I guess Totto's bad acting finally got to somebody.

She's lonely

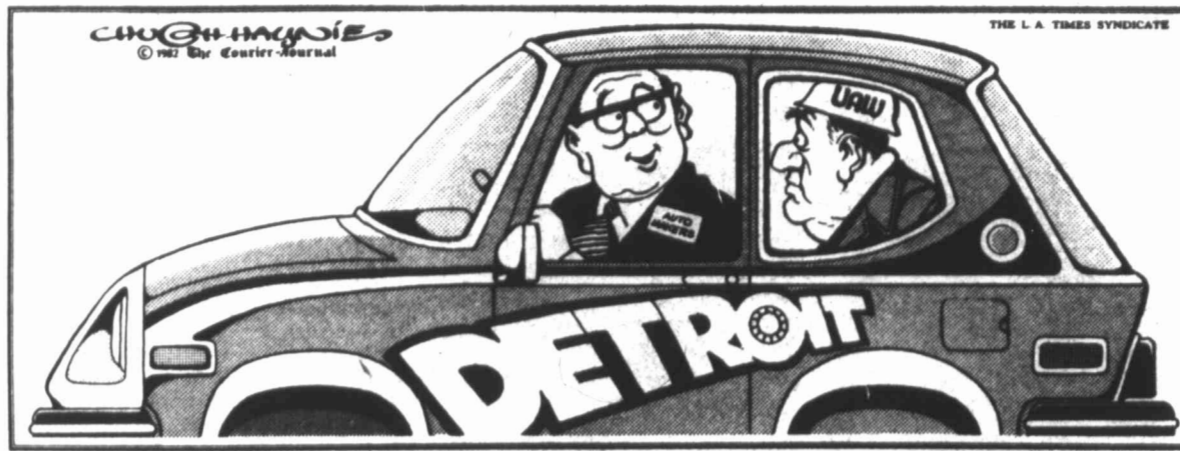

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I get so lonely I sometimes wonder if life is worth living. I am a widow and all my children are grown and away from home, and everyday seems so empty. If only I had someone who would care for me.—Mrs. R.V.P.

DEAR MRS. R.V.P.: Before I answer your question I know there will be many people reading this who are younger and do not have your problem right now. But I hope your question will remind them of the fact there are many, many people in our society who are very lonely and we need to do more to visit them and befriend them. Those of us who are Christians should especially do all we can to show Christ's love to those who feel lonely around us.

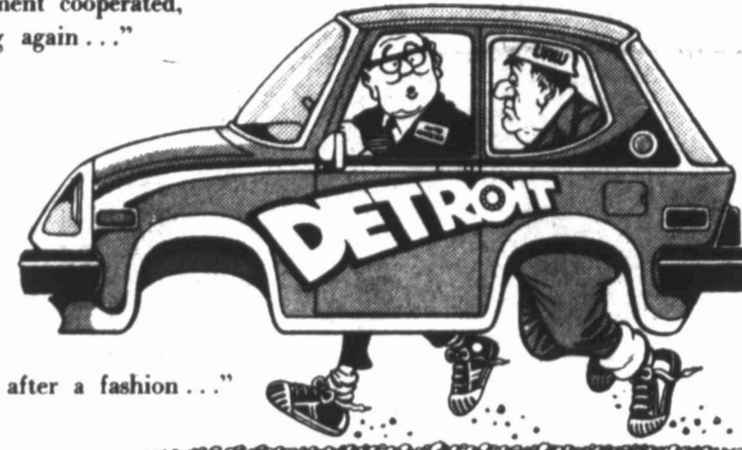

There is one who cares for you—far, far more than you could ever imagine. That one is the Lord Jesus Christ. You are not alone in this world—Christ is with you, and he wants to enter your life and fill your heart if you will let him. The Bible says, "There is a friend who sticks closer than a brother" (Proverbs 18:24). Jesus Christ is that friend. Have you ever asked him to come into your life? Right now you can take that step in a simple prayer, asking Christ to enter your heart and make you his own. "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12). He will be with you now, and he will be with you throughout eternity because you will be with him in Heaven.

There is another aspect of being a Christian that is also important. When you come to Christ you not only have him within you, but he also makes you part of his family, the Church. You need the strength and encouragement other Christians can give, and you will find true Christians love you and want to help you.

A merciless smear campaign

WASHINGTON—Somewhere in the Justice Department there must be someone with the conscience and compassion to cry "Enough!" The department's star ABSCAM witness, Mel Weinberg, is running amok. He is now spinning a spiderweb of lies around his late wife—a simple, sensitive, frail woman who loved him and believed he loved her. "To my darling wife Marie..." he had written, "I do love you very much."

Then she began to tell her story of ABSCAM, which disputed his own sworn version. "I'm not a liar," she explained simply. "I can't lie." To discredit her, he began clawing at her good character.

IT WAS MORE than she could take. Late last month, she hanged herself. Beside the body was a note in her authenticated handwriting. "My sin was wanting to love and be loved, nothing more," she had written, "but the campaign is being made by Mel to discredit me. I haven't the strength to fight him anymore."

Now that she cannot defend herself, his campaign of vilification has become all the more vicious. Won't the prosecutors, in the name of decency, please tell their Frankenstein's creation to leave poor Marie in peace?

Tragically as it turned out, the unfortunate woman stumbled upon Mel's secret diary and read his account of the "lies and deceit" he had perpetrated. The shock sent her to my office with evidence that he had lied at the ABSCAM trials and had diverted some of the ABSCAM bribe money into his own pocket.

In a taped interview with my associate Indy Badhwar, Marie described how he had reacted. "He says, 'You know I can take JR away from you.' This was the son whom Marie adored. 'I said to him, I said, 'Mel, there's no way. How are you gonna take JR away from me? You're not gonna hurt JR!'"

"He starts laughing, laughing. He says, 'I can make you an unfit mother. I can get guys to say they were out s...ing you.' Now wait, when I heard that, I really got physically sick." She choked and began to cry. "I mean," she wept, "what does he want from me?"

But Mel pressed remorselessly. He threatened that he would also tell about a suicide attempt 20 years ago and portray her as a mental case. "A crazy lady, this is what he's trying to pass me off as," she said.

TRUE TO HIS threat, he later telephoned Steven Tinney, a reporter for their hometown newspaper, to tell Marie's 20-year-old secret. The story was spread across the pages of the Stuart, Fla., News for all her neighbors to read.

About the same time, Mel's son by his first marriage, Richard Weinberg, telephoned Philadelphia Inquirer reporter Bill Marrimow and bad-mouthed Marie, calling her crazy. Richard offered to put the reporter together with his father to get the story of Marie's past. Marrimow wasn't interested. But other newspapers printed Mel's smear.

FOUR DAYS AFTER this ugly publicity, Marie Weinberg took her own life. Philadelphia News reporter Greg Walter attended the memorial service. He wrote:

"JR, who is a high school honor student and wants to be an FBI agent, wept bitterly as he sat alone in an anteroom of a small chapel.

"His father stood outside the funeral home in the warm Florida night air smoking a large cigar. He chatted—and often laughed loudly—with an old friend, FBI ABSCAM agent Anthony Amoroso...

"Weinberg has shown little remorse. 'She was a cuckoo,' he told a reporter. 'Something wrong up here,' he said, tapping his head."

Like Amoroso, the FBI's other ABSCAM agents also had a lot of laughs with the ingratiating Mel Weinberg. They inscribed his book with such sentiments as "Don't forget all the good times" and "It's been a pleasure working with you," and

Shattered Trioka

White House for a Cabinet post.

JAMES BAKER, second man in the trioka, is responsible for managing such functional business as congressional and press relations. Though under attack by right wingers for his long-standing ties with Vice President George Bush, Baker and his lieutenants have not been damaged by the fire from that quarter. Many even think that he will eventually dominate the White House staff.

But Baker is in the position of the advisers to Lyndon Johnson who gentled him into the Vietnam war and then tried to turn him around without success. Baker organized the key votes won by the President in Congress on economic policy last year. That victory has turned Pyrrhic with the record budget deficits of this year. Baker and his aides tried to organize a process for turning the President around in the preparation of this year's budget. As a result, the President made a series of decisions—no defense cuts; no new taxes; more cuts in social spending, including some in entitlements. Though each decision was close at the margin, the total budget package added up to a monster. So Baker bears every responsibility for the budget deficits set up last year, and the terrible problems of cutting them this year.

Moreover, his chief ally, Budget Director David Stockman, is limping. Stockman understood early the problem created by the success of 1981. He tried to go public with his misgivings in the famous Atlantic Monthly interviews. But he then allowed himself to be seen taking it all back "in the woodshed" with the President.

Now Stockman is subject to withering fire. Virtually every

Mailbag

A modest proposal

Dear Editor, When Der Bund der Gerechten, a conspiracy of big business monopolists and international bankers paid Karl Marx to write the Communist Manifesto, the tenth plank of this manifesto was government schools known in America as public schools.

Also in the tenth plank is strong child labor laws. The Communists will tell you quite frankly, that the reason for the tenth plank is to encourage juvenile delinquency.

The first amendment to the U.S. Constitution says in plain English that government shall not establish a religion. Yet in spite of this, government schools, correctly called a harmful monopoly, are making Secular Humanism the national religion. Taxing Christians to support the religion of the Anti-Christ and then forcing Christians to send their children to these institutions is religious persecution that would do credit to the Emperor Nero.

The U.S. Constitution along with the ninth and tenth amendment expressly forbid the U.S. government to be in the education business and Christians worth their salt as Christians should rise up in anger and demand the abolition of all government schools both federal and state. The fourteenth amendment applies this rule against the so-called public schools to the states as well.

Just think what a boost to our failing economy would flow from the abolition of government schools and the legalization of child labor. Six-year-old children could work a 30 to 40 hour work week and go to school if they have been good and done all their chores quickly and cheerfully. If a father failed to punish a lazy or unruly child he should be held up to ridicule by the community. Think how much sicker a 12-year-old boy would be at Cosden than playing football.

I am not being cruel. I am just describing how most children were raised until rather recently. This system of education gave us the likes of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. What a boost to our economy would follow a generation like these great people!

Dr. Donohue

Temporal arteritis treatment

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My wife and I would appreciate your discussing temporal arteritis, since she is now suffering from it. Specifically, we would like to know whether the vein problem appears in other parts of the body besides the head, such as in the extremities. What causes it? What treatment is now available? For how long?—E.A.H.

It used to be thought that temporal arteritis was inflammation of just one artery—the temporal artery. That is the one you can feel pulsating on your face—in front of the upper part of the ear, from where it courses upward to the scalp. Now it is known that other arteries can also be inflamed. The cause of the inflammation is not known. Temporal arteritis almost always is found in those over 50, causing headache, visual disturbance, scalp tenderness, jaw pain and fever. A laboratory test is a tipoff. Called a sedimentation test, it measures how fast blood settles to the bottom of a small tube of liquid. In temporal arteritis, the rate is very high.

Temporal arteritis is treated with steroids, and usually responds very quickly. How long steroids must be used depends on the severity of the disease and whether it flares up again when stopping the medicine. It is important to treat temporal arteritis promptly to avoid permanent visual problems. It is also important to know that this artery inflammation is frequently seen with another disease—polymyalgia rheumatica, which causes an achesness of the shoulder and hip muscles. That ailment, too, responds well to steroids.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a 61-year-old man. All my life I have been told I have a functional heart murmur. Can you please define this term for me?—Reader.

A functional heart murmur is a harmless quirk in the functioning of an otherwise normal heart. Sounds at the back of an auditorium might be a bit of chit-chat between friends, or they may be a signal that a civil disorder is about to break out. Once it is determined to be only the functioning of a normal audience, fears subside. So it should be when one is told one has a functional heart murmur.

How does a murmur occur? There are four chambers in the heart, each one filling with blood sequentially. As the blood passes from one chamber to another, there's usually no sound. If a sound is heard, that is a murmur. It represents a tiny eddying in the flow of blood.

However, this does not have to mean something is wrong with the essential function of the heart. Murmurs occur in hearts that are perfectly normal. Even a heart that is tipped just a bit forward may produce one of these functional (harmless) murmurs. Again, no problem.

Remodeling homeowners are energy cost conscious

Homeowners who remodel are more concerned about cutting high energy costs than improving appearance and comfort of their homes, according to a Dow Chemical Company survey, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economics staff.

Dow surveyed 823 homeowners in 10 cities and found that most had several reasons for remodeling.

here's how the reasons "stacked up" in terms of priority and percentages of homeowners mentioning them:

- to lower cost of fuel bills (66 percent); to cut future maintenance (55 percent); to increase resale value (50 percent); to improve the interior appearance (47 percent); to increase comfort (46 percent); to improve exterior appearance (37 percent); and to increase living space (36 percent).

Cut out calorie-rich foods to lose weight

Cut out a few calorie-rich foods and drinks here and there and you can lose quite a few pounds. Painlessly. So says Dr. Albert Stunkard, a leading expert on the causes, psychology and treatment of obesity.

For example, look at how much weight you could lose in a year if you eliminated these foods: two pats of butter a day...15 pounds; a cola a day...15 pounds; a "fast food" hamburger and one portion of french fries a week...7 pounds; two martinis and five glasses of wine a week...10 pounds for a total of 42 pounds!

Dr. Stunkard lists calorie-rich foods and drinks and notes how much weight could easily be lost in a month if they were cut out. For example: Cut out one slice bread and butter (125 calories) three times a day and lose about 3-1-5 pounds in one month; one ounce (2 tsp.) French Dressing (176 calories) once a day and lose 1-1-2 pounds; one chocolate bar (180 calories) three times a week and lose 2-3 pounds; or one 12 ounce beer (150 calories) twice a day and lose 2-1-2 pounds.

Dr. Stunkard, professor of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania, heads the University's Obesity Research Group and is author of The Pain of Obesity and editor of the medical textbook Obesity. Virtually all his patients stick to their program and reach their weight-loss goal. By contrast, only 30 percent of those who undertake commercial weight-loss programs stick it out.

Dear Abby

Handyman may be out for money

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend (I'll call her Emily) living in Illinois. I live in California. Emily and I have been like sisters for over 60 years. Her husband died two years ago and left her a lot of money and property. She's 81 and never had children.

About three months ago she called and told me she had rented a basement apartment to a 63-year-old man she hired as a handyman for that apartment building. (She owns several.) Then she called a few weeks later to tell me this man had been "courting" her. Now he is pressuring her to get married. She said at first she told him he was crazy, but he refused to take no for an answer. They were going to get married in June, but now he wants to move it up to April.

Emily acts like a schoolgirl in love for the first time! She called and said, "Don't worry, I haven't lost my virtue." I told her it was her money—not her virtue—I was worried about.

Last year when I was visiting her I checked out another man who wanted to marry her and found he was a liar and a phony. Emily is a sweet and generous person. I want her to be happy, but I'm so afraid some fast-talking slicker will win her heart and clean her out.

Abby, dear, am I wrong to interfere? What should I do?
CONCERNED OUT WEST

DEAR CONCERNED: Wrong? No way! You have good reason to be concerned about your sweet and generous friend. Write or call and tell her to discuss her plans with her attorney. Her handyman may be a dandyman, but he, too, should be checked out.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a nice-looking guy, 6-2, 190 pounds, athletic build and have no trouble getting dates. My problem is every girl I take out wants to get serious. I'm 30, like my independence and have no intention of giving it up for a long time.

I don't want to lie or lead a girl on, but if I'm too truthful about how I feel—that's the end of the romance.

So what does a guy do when all he wants is a few laughs and no commitments?

Club entertained by prison band

The Federal Prison Band entertained the National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees at their meeting Thursday.

The meeting was held at the Kentwood Older Adult Center with W.C. Cole, president, presiding. A pot luck supper was served.

A moment of silence was held in memory of Ben Borough and N.O. Decker who recently passed away.

A red letter alert from National president J.L. Carver was read. It concerned the proposed merger of Railroad Retirement and Social Security, thus closing the Railroad Retirement office in Chicago, Ill. Members were urged to communicate with their representatives and congressmen voicing their disapproval of the merger.

B.B. Henson was appointed legislative representative, H.L. Ross, chaplain and Ray Scott as second vice president. Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Henson were welcomed as new members. W.C. Cole was elected delegate to the National Convention to be held in Kansas City May 25-27.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. H.L. Ross and Mrs. C.C. Nichols. The next meeting will be March 18 with a pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m. and a business meeting at 7:30 p.m.

DEAR HARVEY: Take a hyena to lunch.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Prefers a Preview" prompts this letter. I also fell in love with a man who respected me too much to go beyond a kiss until we were married. "Prefers" learned too late that her husband was gay. My story has a different ending.

When I married, I was a 23-year-old virgin. Nothing happened on our wedding night—or on any other night for a year after that. My husband finally admitted that he was unable to consummate our marriage because he had no sexual feelings whatsoever. He said he knew this when he married me but he didn't want to lose me. I cared for him, so I accepted this terrible disappointment.

Then Pearl Harbor came and changed my life. My husband, a college graduate, went into the service and overseas. Before he left, he said, "When I come home, I want to find you the way I left you—a virgin."

Well, he didn't. I went to work in a defense plant and met a man I couldn't resist. The inevitable happened and we fell madly in love. (He couldn't believe he had actually met a 25-year-old married virgin!) Within six months I was pregnant, so I wrote my husband a "Dear John" letter, telling him the whole truth. He divorced me on the grounds of adultery and I married my lover, who by that time was the father of our baby girl. We had four children after that, and they're all grown with children of their own.

I'm 64 now and my husband is 73. We've had our ups and downs, but I have no regrets. My life probably reads like a soap opera, so if you print this, sign me...

Companies indicted for bid-rigging given state contracts, report says

DALLAS (AP) — Three highway construction companies indicted in a massive bid-rigging investigation will be allowed to bid on state projects until their cases are completed in court, Texas highway department officials say.

The three companies have been awarded more than $4 million in state contracts since being indicted, a Dallas newspaper reported Sunday.

A federal investigation of highway bidding practices that spanned 11 states resulted in indictments of 13 Texas paving companies. The companies were accused of conspiring to raise the cost of road projects artificially by deciding which company would bid lowest on certain projects.

State records show one of the companies — High Plains Pavers Inc. of Plainview — since has been awarded $3.6 million in road contracts, according to the Dallas Times Herald. The newspaper said two other indicted companies, Brannan Paving Co. Inc. of Victoria and Kerr Construction of Lubbock, have received contracts for $508,262 and $92,951 respectively.

Top executives of High Plains and Kerr Construction also were accused of violating federal law, the Times Herald reported. High Plains president Hulon A. Wall was charged with conspiracy to restrain trade and perjury, and Kerr president Kenneth M. Hancock was accused of conspiring to restrain trade.

Trials are pending for all the defendants, who have pleaded innocent.

Highway department officials, under the guidance of the attorney general's office, say they will allow the companies to bid until the court cases are settled. A new department rule would allow the state to take action if they are convicted.

"I'm as mad as you are about anybody trying to defraud the state, and I have absolutely no sympathy for them," said Robert Dedman, chairman of the Texas Highway Commission.

"But I don't want the revulsion on my part to cause me to start assuming that somebody is guilty until proven innocent, because I think that would be a bigger mistake and a bigger miscarriage of justice.

"I think if they're proven guilty, we should throw the book at them," he added.

In the meantime, he said, the state would be unfair to bar the companies from bidding on state contracts because some of them could go bankrupt without state business.

In several other states, however, highway contractors accused of rigging bids have been barred from further bidding on state projects, the Times Herald said.

In North Carolina, state officials disqualified indicted highway contractors by using a law that requires consideration of bids from all "reasonable" companies.

"This is not a criminal case," said North Carolina Deputy Attorney General Gagne Smith. "The competitive-bidding law is not made for their benefit, and administrative agencies really have a duty to protect the system."

Girl's body found in lake; search resumes

LAKE DALLAS, Texas (AP) — Law enforcement officers made plans to meet early today to resume their search for three members of a missing family, after the body of a 5-year-old girl was discovered floating in a lake, sheriff's officials say.

The body, tentatively identified as Kendra Lee Merillat, was found about 5 p.m. Sunday by two people walking along the banks of Lake Lewisville, which is separated from Lake Dallas by a dam, police said.

Dallas County medical examiners were attempting to positively identify the body early today.

Ken Merillat, 32, his wife Alice, 27, and other daughter Kayleen, 6, still were missing. The four members of the family were last seen Feb. 14 as they left their home to gather driftwood for their home fireplace.

Workers had dragged the lake unsuccessfully Sunday, but did not resume their efforts Sunday night after the body was discovered, said a Lake Dallas police dispatcher, who asked not to be identified.

"It's just too dark to go out there," she said.

Lawmen planned to scour the surrounding areas today, said Alan Williams, a dispatcher with the Denton County Sheriff's Department.

Criswell collapses at wedding

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. W.A. Criswell has been hospitalized in fair condition after collapsing during a wedding, apparently due to a mixture of a flu-like virus and medication he had been taking to combat it, officials say.

Criswell, pastor of the world's largest Southern Baptist congregation, was hospitalized for rest and observation at Baylor University Medical Center, officials said.

Paige Patterson, an assistant pastor at the First Baptist Church, said he had tried to talk Criswell out of performing the wedding Saturday, but that Criswell had insisted.

"He would have felt humiliated if he had not done it," Patterson said.

Criswell kept ambulance attendants waiting while he completed the ceremony wedding Ann Wilkins and Paul Leroux. The 70-year-old pastor had just led the groom through his vows about 2:30 p.m. when he fainted.

"There were two or three minutes when we were very, very concerned," said Grover Wilkins Jr., the bride's father. "He just lay back for a moment, and then completed the vows."

I DID IT!—Golfer Tom Watson reacts after sinking a 40-45 foot putt on the third extra hole of sudden-death playoff to win the $300,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament Sunday afternoon in Los Angeles.

Beats Johnny Miller in sudden-death

Watson captures LA Open win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Watson was tired of being asked if he was tired, why his putts didn't go in the hole, and why he didn't make approaches to the green that were close to the pin.

After eight months of not winning a tournament, Watson silenced his critics Sunday. He finally won a Tournament Players Association event, and he had an explanation.

"I got lucky," said Watson after sinking a 30-foot birdie putt that gave him a sudden-death playoff victory over Johnny Miller in the $300,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament. "I actually got lucky on three holes."

So, for a while, Watson won't have to answer questions about his problems. The leading money-winner on the men's tour for five straight years starting in 1976, Watson beat Miller on the third extra hole. His long putt gave him a birdie and ended the first Los Angeles Open playoff in 32 years.

It provided Watson with the $54,000 first prize while Miller took home $32,400 for finishing second.

Watson and Miller deadlocked at 271 for the regulation 72 holes at the par 35-36-71, 7,029-yard Riviera Country Club course. Watson had a 67 in the final round to Miller's 69.

The total score was one shot off the tournament record of 270 established by Miller last year. Miller could have wrapped up his second straight title had he not bogeyed the 17th and 18th holes.

The pros have now finished up their Western tour with no double winner — Miller missed his chance to become the only one. Now they move to Miami, Fla., and start up the East Coast with the Doral-Eastern open this week.

Had Miller not bogeyed his final two holes, he would have become the first since Ben Hogan to win the tournament twice in a row at Riviera. Now, he'll have to wait.

Because the PGA Tournament is at Riviera next year, the Los Angeles

Open will be switched to Rancho Park, a Los Angeles city course. It comes back to the rugged Riviera course for 1984 and 1985.

Tom Wieskopf, with a 73, was third at 275. He earned $20,400. Wieskopf entered the final round tied for the lead with Miller but couldn't keep pace.

Bill Rogers and Lennie Clements tied for fourth place at 276 and earned $13,200 each.

While Watson gladly met with reporters after the tournament, Miller skipped his assignment. After being available all week, he suddenly decided he did not want to discuss his round with members of the press.

Watson started the final round two strokes behind Miller and Wieskopf, but caught up rapidly as the two faded.

Watson made putts of 30 and 20 feet to move him up early in the day. He said he thought he would have to have a 65 or 66 in the final round, but his 67 wound up being good enough.

College Basketball Roundup

LSU beaten twice

By Associated Press

It was a long, lost weekend for the LSU Tigers, highlighted by an eight-second stretch which may go down as college basketball's version of boxing's long count.

The scores will merely show that LSU lost 54-53 to Tennessee on Saturday and 66-65 to Wichita State on Sunday, both in the so-called friendly confines of the Tigers' own Assembly Center.

The Bayou Bengals had no one but themselves to blame for Sunday's setback, missing the front end of one-and-one free throw situations four times in the final 3 1/2 minutes before succumbing to Antoine Carr's driving basket with 26 seconds to play.

LSU Coach Dale Brown refused to comment on Saturday's windup when Tennessee's Dan Federmann scored a controversial tip-in basket as the buzzer sounded. More than a half-hour after the stormy finish, LSU Chancellor James Wharton said the school would ask the Southeastern Conference office to order the final eight seconds replayed during next month's SEC Tournament.

Tennessee called a time out after Leonard Mitchell's basket gave LSU a 53-52 lead. Federmann then tipped in the rebound of Steve Ray's shot as the LSU coaching staff surrounded the scorer's bench hollering that the clock hadn't started on time.

After a conference among Brown, Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe and the game officials, the winning Vols left the arena. DeVoe said one of the officials told him the game was over. "When he said that, he was it," DeVoe said.

"The Tennessee team has dressed and left," Wharton reported shortly thereafter. "The Tennessee coach refuses to replay the game. We are not going to settle this thing today. Emotions are too high."

When the Vols put the ball in play under the LSU basket, the clock apparently didn't start for several seconds until a Tennessee player was almost at midcourt. Larry Jones, LSU's interim athletic director, reported that timekeeper Tom Henry "punched it (the clock) and it didn't start. That's what he said."

The triumph kept Tennessee alone atop the SEC at 13-3 to 12-4 for 10th-ranked Kentucky, a 73-69 winner over Vanderbilt. A victory would have left LSU one game off the pace and tied with 19th-ranked Alabama, which nipped Florida 70-69.

The nation's 1-2 teams had close calls Saturday. Top-rated Virginia shined North Carolina State 45-40 and runnerup North Carolina edged Clemson 55-49. Third-ranked DePaul was idle while No. 4 Missouri was trounced by No. 13 Georgetown 63-51.

Elswhere, fifth-ranked Oregon State downed Washington State 40-36 and No. 6 Tulsa whipped Indiana State 77-64. The 7-8 teams, both members of the Big Ten, were beaten, No. 7 Iowa bowing to Michigan 88-58 and No. 8 Minnesota losing to Illinois 77-65. However, ninth-ranked West Virginia stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 22 games by trimming George Washington 52-37.

In games involving members of The Associated Press Second Ten, 11th-ranked Idaho beat Montana State 77-63. No. 12 Memphis State shaded Penn State 52-46. No. 14 Wake Forest turned back Maryland 48-42. No. 15 Fresno

State thrashed Fullerton 71-51. No. 16 San Francisco whipped Gonzaga 69-53. No. 17 Arkansas held off Rice 72-65 in overtime. No. 18 Kansas State beat Kansas 63-53 and Purdue knocked off No. 20 Indiana 76-65.

The Top Ten

For the second time in 10 days, N.C. State pushed Virginia to the limit but the Cavaliers, 26-1, prevailed thanks to a pair of free throws and a blocked shot by Ralph Sampson in the final 24 seconds.

North Carolina's Jimmy Black made eight consecutive free throws in the closing minutes to help the Tar Heels fend off Clemson, which lost to Virginia on a last-second shot a week earlier. "I'd like to say that if Virginia is No. 1 in the nation and North Carolina is No. 2, then we're pretty darn good ourselves," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster.

Georgetown handed Missouri its second setback of the season as Eric Floyd scored 16 points and freshman Patrick Ewing won the battle of big men from Missouri junior Steve Stipanovich.

Rob Holbrook and A.C. Green combined for 11 points in the final seven minutes to help Oregon State stay ahead of Washington State. Freshman reserve Steve Harris scored 20 points to lead Tulsa past Indiana State.

Another first-year player, Michigan's Eric Turner, scored 28 points and added four steals as the Wolverines upset Iowa and senior Craig Tucker pumped in a career-high 32 points in Illinois' victory over Minnesota.

Arkansas sitting on top

By The Associated Press

Texas and Texas Tech, a pair of teams apparently bound for nowhere, try to pick up the remnants of a disappointing season tonight in the only Southwest Conference basketball team on the card.

But the Arkansas Razorbacks think the SWC regular season might as well be over. The Hogs thumped Rice 72-65 in overtime Saturday night and that puts the 'cap on the year, according to Arkansas guard Darrell Walker.

"I feel like this win decided the conference," Walker said. "If we lost here, we might have shared the title. ... This game had 75 percent to do with the conference."

Arkansas now enjoys a full-game lead over Houston and Texas A&M as the regular season draws to a close.

In other Saturday matches, Houston broke Baylor's heart 78-74 in Waco, even though Bear forward

Terry Teagle set a SWC career-scoring record; Tech breezed by Southern Methodist 71-44 and Texas A&M embarrassed Texas 91-70 on regional television.

"We had one young guy try to drink a cup of water and he spilled it out both sides. It was that kind of day," said Texas coach Abe Lemons.

The Longhorns' seventh loss in eight games dropped them two games below .500 in SWC play.

"They just buried us. We had 13 turnovers at halftime, which is ridiculous," Lemons said. "We started out this year leading in have to get ready for Texas shooting and free throws and rebounding, and now we've lost all that."

Red Raider coach Gerald Myers, on the other hand, cleared his bench against the hapless Ponies, who sank even deeper into the SWC cellar.

"This was a good win and we'll enjoy it — until ... we out this year leading in have to get ready for Texas shooting and free throws and rebounding, and now we've lost all that."

NBA Roundup

Milwaukee whips Kansas City

By The Associated Press
When the Milwaukee Bucks get in trouble, Coach Don Nelson has a way to dig deep to find something extra. No, Nelson doesn't have a big bag of tricks. He just has the kind of bench that you need to win 12 National Basketball Association games in a row, including a 110-104 victory Sunday over Kansas City.

All-star guard Sidney Moncrief, who leads Milwaukee in scoring, rebounding and assists, didn't play against the Kings because of the flu. But sharpshooter Brian Winters started in his place, scoring 15 points, including eight in third quarter when the Bucks overcame a 52-48 halftime deficit to go ahead 78-76.

Lakers 132, Nuggets 131
Los Angeles scored the final five points of the game to pass Denver.

The Nuggets went ahead 131-127 with 1:55 to go on a basket by Alex English, who had all scorers with 34 points. But two free throws by Michael Cooper and a three-point play by Jamaal Wilkes with 27 seconds left put the Lakers on top.

Norm Nixon and Earvin "Magic" Johnson led Los Angeles with 26 and 25 points, respectively, while Dan Issel had 31 for Denver.

76ers 109, Suns 102
Philadelphia won its ninth straight game as Julius Erving scored 28 points, grabbed eight rebounds and made seven steals against Phoenix.

The two teams were tied at 73 late in the third period before a 9-2 streak gave the 76ers an 82-75 lead going into the final 12 minutes.

Philadelphia extended its lead to 15 points with 7:42 remaining before Phoenix made a late run that cut the margin to four, 102-98, with 1:09 left.

Dennis Johnson led the Suns with 25 points, 10 rebounds and seven assists.

Knicks 122, Rockets 106
Randy Smith scored 26 points and combined with Michael Ray Richardson to lead a second-quarter rally that brought New York from nine points behind Houston to nine points ahead. Smith had 14 points and Richardson 11 of his total of 20 during the second period, when the Knicks outscored the Rockets 37-19.

Moses Malone scored 30 points and Elvin Hayes 25 to lead Houston, which had won 10 of its previous 11 games. Sly Williams had 23 for New York, which snapped its four-game losing streak.

Pacers 118, Nets 97
Louis Orr scored 20 points and seven other Indiana players were in double figures against New Jersey.

Orr scored 10 of his points in the first seven minutes, giving Indiana a lead it never relinquished.

Buck Williams led the Nets with 22 points.

Mavericks 113, Bulls 97
Brad Davis, who normally concentrates on playmaking, scored a career-high 32 points and added seven steals and nine assists to lead Dallas over Chicago.

SuperSonics 103, Celtics 100
Gus Williams scored 34 points, including two free throws with three seconds left, as Seattle edged Boston. The Celtics trailed 63-43 at halftime but rushed back to take a 100-99 lead with 39 seconds left when Robert Parish scored on a dunk.

Parish scored 21 of his 34 points in the second half.

Golf great refuses to grow old

Sarazen still going strong

The "Squire" is back, knickers and all, and that steel trap mind that age can never dull.

"Now that I don't have to compete against all those golfers any more, I can speak my mind," Gene Sarazen told Golf Digest before sitting down to rank the greatest golfers of the century.

He just refuses to grow old. The Masters will be coming up in a couple of months or so, and there will be Gentleman Gene, sitting on the back porch of the Augusta clubhouse, wearing those familiar knickers and a hat sitting jauntily on his coal-black hair.

Gene Sarazen is a golfing anachronism — a link to the past whose career spanned four eras of the game from Vardon to Nicklaus. He played them all, including Vardon, father of the most accepted grip.

He is both an anachronism and a contradiction. His attire is attuned to the 1920s, his incisive mind to the Space Age.

No other man is more qualified to assess the golfers of the 20th century. So when he says Nicklaus is the all-time No. 1, you better believe it.

When he says Joyce Wethered, the English star of the 1920s and 1930s, was the best of the women, you are permitted a dissent.

The Squire, who can shoot his age, has been shaking up the establishment almost ever since he came out of Harrison, N.Y., son of a poor carpenter, to get his formal education on the golf links of the world.

He insists putting plays too important a part in the game — half of it. He once suggested the cups be enlarged to 4 1/4 inches.

Ben Hogan might come back if that happened.

For years Sarazen has argued that golf courses were too big, that they should be half their size to enable businessmen to get a full 18-hole round in during the lunch break or after hours.

There's too much emphasis on power at the expense of finesse, anyhow, he says.

Another Sarazen crusade has been aimed at slow play and he has hand-picked his targets, pointing to Hogan, Cary Middlecoff and Jack Nicklaus as chief offenders.

Nicklaus proceeded to speed up his game materially.

Oh, yeah, Sarazen's all-time top 10 in order: Nicklaus, Bobby Jones, Hogan, Walter Hagen, Harry

Bunge captures Avon Tournament

HOUSTON (AP) — There's no telling what Bettina Bunge, the little girl with the big serve and bazooka passing shots, will expect next.

As a 17-year-old schoolgirl last year, she was content to gain the finals — her first as a pro — in the $100,000 Avon Tennis Championships of Houston, where she lost in straight sets.

But that wasn't good enough for Bunge in the same event Sunday. She had the dazzle out of her eyes and willed top seeded Pam Shriver 6-2, 3-6, 6-2 to win her first tournament on the pro circuit and collect the $22,000 first prize.

"I was satisfied just to get to the finals last year but this time I wanted to win it," the 5-7, 120-pound teenager said. "This tournament was the turning point for me here last year. After this tournament, I reached the semifinals at Seattle, Los Angeles and Dallas and finished third in the Avon Championships in New York."

Bunge blitzed Shriver with powerful passing shots in the first and third sets and used a strong serve to take control of the net. It all left Shriver, the No. 6 ranked player in the world, muttering to herself on the court.

Bunge won the first set with a blistering backhand cross court passing shot at set point that Shriver could only watch and admire.

"She did hit some spectacular shots," Shriver said. "What was that shot to win the first set, about 150 or 200 miles per hour?"

Shriver made her best run at Bunge early in the second set when she broke the 18-year-old Coral Gables, Fla. in the second game and fought off a challenge to hold service in the third game.

"I started to get a little nervous," Bunge said. "I was seeing that I could win the tournament. I had to talk to myself and say that I couldn't win it until the last point is over."

College Basketball

Once-beaten West Virginia's triumph over George Washington, paced by Quentin Freeman's 11 points, enabled the Mountaineers to tie the school single-season record of 23 victories.

Derrick Hord led Kentucky with 26 points and the Wildcats rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to defeat Vanderbilt. It was the 300th coaching success for Joe B. Hall.

The Second Ten
Idaho's Gordie Herbert equaled his career high of 23 points to lead the Vandals over Montana State. Derrick Phillips included some key free throws in the final minutes among his 20 points as Memphis State downed Penn State.

John Toms' jump shot with 12:02 left triggered a 13-2 burst that powered Wake Forest past Maryland. Fresno State, led by Rod Higgins' 16 points, clinched at least a tie for the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title by defeating Fullerton.

Quintin Dailey's 25 points led San Francisco over Gonzaga and Tim Jankovich had 19 as Kansas State knocked off Kansas. Two free throws by freshman Ennis Whatley with 2:04 remaining enabled Alabama to nip Florida and Mike Scearce scored 25 points, while Keith Edmonson added 24 as Purdue surprised Indiana.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, FEB. 23, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to put things in the right order, including matters that have to do with your home, and conditions will run more smoothly in the days ahead. You can gain your aims now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to give more thought and attention to home affairs if they are to work out more satisfactorily. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can handle business matters efficiently now by getting an early start. Engage in favorite hobby with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to do important work that will help you get ahead faster. The evening is fine for the romantic side of life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Pursue what is uppermost on your mind and gain the support of associates in a new project.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you try to please higher-ups, you can advance more quickly and add to present prestige. Show more devotion to loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Personal affairs can be handled early in the day for best results. Evening is the best time to engage in new activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle conditions that are annoying and forget the fun side of life for the present. Sidestep one who is argumentative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study new moves you want to make where career is concerned. Obtain the information you need from the right sources.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Carrying through with responsibilities you have assumed is fine. Give more attention to loved one who is downhearted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to please an associate who is depending on you now. Plan how to gain your goals more readily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of routine duties early in the day so that you can have a leisurely and happy evening with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contacting those who can help you become more successful is the best way to proceed now. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be instilled with a romantic nature that will be pleasing to others. Send to the right schools so that your progeny will be able to make a fine mark in the world. The theater, politics and selling are all fine here.

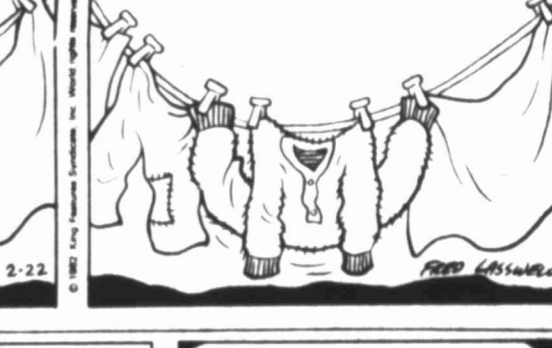

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

At income tax time, organize for success

By The Associated Press

Does the approach of income-tax time send you rummaging through closets in search of receipts?

Do you wind up with a tax return that's based on scribbled notes and a hazy memory?

Are you losing money because you don't have the records to back up your deductions?

If so, now is the time to organize your financial life and your two most important assets can be a filing system and a waste basket.

A consumer guide from the federal government points out that you don't have to keep copies of every financial record. The guide, "Keeping Family Records: What to Discard," is available at no charge from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 591K, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

If you throw out what you DON'T need, the guide advises, it will be easier to find what you DO need.

You should, for example, keep paycheck stubs until the end of the year. But you can throw them out after you check the deductions against the W-2 form you get from your employer to make sure there is no discrepancy.

You do not have to keep all canceled checks. You can usually get copies from your bank if you need them in an emergency. Save only those checks that relate directly to tax deductible expenses — contributions to charity, medical payments, etc.

Keep copies of your federal income tax return for at least three years. That's how long the Internal Revenue Service has in which to audit your return.

The three-year limit on auditing returns does not apply, however, in all cases. If you fail to report more than 25 percent of your gross income, the IRS has six years to collect the tax or start legal action. There is no time limit at all if you filed a fraudulent return or did not file any return at all and were required to do so.

You don't need a lot of fancy equipment to set up a filing system. You DO need to set aside a separate place — no matter how small — where you will keep your records.

Informant says Chagra paid fugitive

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A former employee of El Paso attorney Joe Chagra who became an informant for the Drug Enforcement Administration says Chagra gave $300 to a prison escapee in 1980.

Chagra's attorney, Billy Ravkind of Dallas, said last week that he expects his client to be indicted on charges related to the investigation into the slaying of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Ravkind said the charges could include accessory after the fact and obstruction of justice.

Wood was cut down by a sniper's bullet May 29, 1979, in San Antonio.

Federal agents have searched Chagra's house in connection with the judge's assassination. Chagra's brother, Jimmy, and convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson have been labeled prime suspects in the case by federal agents.

On Friday, a federal judge ruled the government could seek Joe Chagra's car, which was confiscated by federal agents for transporting drugs. DEA informant Tom Prout delivered a sample of cocaine to Chagra that was used as grounds for the confiscation.

Prout told The El Paso Times that Chagra gave the $300 to fugitive William Mallow on Aug. 2, 1980, at an El Paso motel. He said Harrelson, also a fugitive at the time, was staying at the motel and that Chagra met with him.

Hours after Chagra allegedly gave Mallow the money, the escapee from a Colorado prison was seriously wounded by police gunfire in a shootout at the motel. Prout said Harrelson escaped from the motel during the gun battle.

Harrelson was arrested five days later after a standoff with police near Van Horn.

 SITUATE, R.I. (AP) — Two pilots were critically burned when they braved a cockpit fire to crash-land a twin-engine commuter plane onto a frozen reservoir, while horrified passengers smashed windows as thick smoke filled the cabin.

One passenger died in the crash Sunday in western Rhode Island, but the nine other passengers aboard the Pilgrim Airlines DeHavilland Twin Otter turboprop were taken to local hospitals in conditions ranging from fair to good.

"Catastrophe was obvious, but the pilots stayed fast. It was a very brilliant and smooth landing," said Dr. Ziegfried Kra, a passenger on the Grotton, Conn., to Boston flight who was taken to a Providence hospital.

"I can't tell you how brave the pilots were to sit there in the smoke, it was so pungent," he said.

Loretta Stanczak, in her 50s, of Manchester, N.H., was killed, said Barry Wilson, spokesman for the Grotton-based carrier.

Critically burned and taken to Rhode Island Hospital in Providence were pilot Thomas Prinster, 36, of North Kingstown, R.I.; and co-pilot Lyle Hogg, 27, of Grotton.

Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board planned to continue an investigation of the crash begun by the FAA Sunday night.

Kra, 51, of New Haven, Conn., said the plane was about 12 minutes out of Grotton when a sheet of ice formed over the windshield.

"The windshield wipers suddenly ceased to move. A short time afterward, a block of ice touched the window, and I began to wonder how they (the pilots) could see anything," Kra said.

The smell of window cleaner filled the plane, but did not affect the windshield, said Kra, who was sitting about 5 feet behind the pilots.

"About four minutes after that, a little trickle of smoke came out in front of me, a short time later it was quite overpowering."

A man used a squash racket to break a window and other passengers shattered two other windows to let in fresh air, Kra said.

Wilson said the pilots reported a fire on the plane and were cleared for an emergency landing at Green State Airport in Warwick, southwest of Providence.

But then the pilots said they were going to land on the Scituate reservoir, about 11 miles northwest of Green State, Wilson said.

"The plane trembled and we headed down," Kra said.

The plane landed on the ice, its nose breaking off and the fuselage skidding 200 to 300 feet, said Tommy Shorthall, a Green State airport official. The plane, which did not submerge, continued to burn.

The passengers "just got out and in a split second the plane became an inferno, engulfed in fire," Kra said. Divers were called to the scene in case some passengers fell through the ice, but Kra said "it was a miracle the ice was as firm as it was."

DA doesn't want Ozzy Osbourne playing hard rock in Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Pay attention, Ozzy Osbourne. District Attorney Ossie Brown says you'd better keep your hard rock band and your nasty habits out of East Baton Rouge Parish.

The DA said he found out you were arrested for being drunk in public — and police said you didn't bother to use the men's room when you went to visit the Alamo the other night.

The Alamo is where Texans fought for their independence from Mexico in 1836. Remember?

You said your main goal in life is to use the White House as a public restroom.

And you said if you had a kid, you wouldn't let him see your show.

Brown, who pronounces his name OH-see, said he wants to make that official.

He didn't like it when you bit the head off a live bat at one of your concerts. And he doesn't trust those rabies shots you took.

"Everywhere this guy goes, it is the same thing, something happens," Brown said. "One place he bit the head off a bat. He might expose some of our young people to rabies."

Brown has vowed that you won't be allowed to perform at the Baton Rouge Centroplex — even though your promoter, Michael Fontenot, booked you into there for March 3 and plans to sell tickets for the gig.

"I have tried to call Michael Fontenot, his promoter in Texas, to tell him that Ozzy Osbourne will not use the Centroplex facility, period," Brown said Saturday.

Fontenot hasn't been available for comment.

The man who runs the Centroplex, Richard Born, said he's barred you from playing there by refusing to sign a month-old contract. They're a little edgy at the Centroplex, ever since the newspaper reported flagrant drug abuse, crowding, and lax security at an AC-DC concert last month.

AC-DC is a loud rock band, almost as loud as yours. Did you ever hear about the AC-DC concert?

The City-Parish Council has launched an investigation. They're expected to act on security and safety proposal made by an investigating committee.

Born said he paid back Fontenot's $1,000 deposit, but your promoter said he didn't ask for it and hasn't gotten it, and he'll sue the city-parish if the contract isn't signed.

Ossie Brown stands foursquare with Born.

"They don't have a contract," Brown said. "If I were Mr. Born, I wouldn't make the mistake of signing a contract. Mr. Born has been advised of this. The $1,000 was merely a deposit to reserve a date."

"They must return the deposit, they can't keep it, but they didn't sign a contract."

"I have advised Mr. Born that with a character like this that he need not sign a contract. We don't need things like this in Baton Rouge. We don't need scum like that here."

Stay away, Ozzy. There aren't any bats in the Centroplex.

Shuttle test loading starts today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A loading test of the space shuttle's huge external tank fuel will be the "major activity" on the launch pad this week, Kennedy Space Center officials said.

"This is a little more difficult than driving up to the gas station and saying, 'Fill it up,'" KSC spokesman Dick Young said Sunday night of the loading exercise.

A mock flight of the Columbia was successfully completed Friday by astronauts Jack Lousma and Gordon Fullerton despite a 16-minute delay caused by a computer problem. Officials said the malfunction would have scrubbed an actual flight, as would the fog that hung in the air.

Young said workers today were to begin preparing a large insulated pipe designed to carry the super-cold liquid hydrogen and oxygen fuel to the shuttle's huge external tank. The actual test loading will take place on Thursday and Friday, he said.

Young said the test-fueling will mark the first time the shuttle's tank has been filled at the launch site. For the Columbia's two previous flights, the tank was filled at a National Space Technology Laboratories testing facility near New Orleans and transported to Cape Canaveral by barge, he said.

Hydrogen, at 423 degrees below zero, and oxygen, at 297 below, are the main propellants for the shuttle's three main engines, Young said.

The actual fuel loading process takes two to three hours, Young said, but once the external tank is full, it will be emptied back into holding tanks for the spacecraft's third flight into space.

He said the loading of the propellants will be completed during the first and second weeks of March.

The Columbia, the world's first reusable spacecraft, is scheduled to blast off for its seven-day mission on March 22.

Within 10 days, technicians will begin preparations for the loading of the hypergolic ignition system, Young said. Hypergolics is a self-igniting system used to ignite the propellants for the orbiter maneuvering system and the reaction control system. Both systems maneuver the craft in space.

Despite official speculation the blast off may be moved up two or three days because work is ahead of schedule, Young said no plans have been made to change the March 22 date.

"I know of no plans to move the launch date," Young said. "That would be only speculation at this time. As far as I know, we still plan to pick up the countdown right on time at 3:30 a.m. EST on March 18."

Infrared may find cavities

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Like soldiers using a sensor on a battlefield, dentists may someday use infrared cameras to detect cavities in the mouth, a professor says.

Steven Batterman, a professor of bioengineering at the University of Pennsylvania, says cavities give off heat. He said infrared sensors can find cavities that are hidden beneath fillings, which X-rays can't do. But he said the techniques he has been able to develop thus far do not detect small cavities and refined machinery made especially for dentistry would have to be developed.

Writing Texas' laws is now costly, complicated process

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Writing Texas' laws was once a part-time profession where the state's pioneers mostly donated their efforts.

Not any more. Making Texas laws now is a widespread and costly operation.

Some will argue that Texas voters get a lot more from their legislators and allied legislative functions now, but all admit it costs much, much more than 10 or 20 years ago.

In 1961, when the 57th Legislature met in a regular session and two called sessions, the total spent from all sources, including legislators' pay, was $1,489,285 — $312,180 spent by the Senate and $1,177,105 by the House.

In 1971, when the 62nd Legislature met in one regular and one called session, the total appropriation from general revenue was $8.8 million — $3.3 million for the Senate and $5.5 million for the House.

In 1981, when the 67th Legislature met for a regular session and one called session the estimated total expenditures were $39.68 million, according to the auditor's report. The House has total expenditures of $24.57 million and the Senate $15.11 million.

The legislative budget for the next two years, including the 68th Legislature starting Jan. 11, 1983, calls for spending $68.7 million — which includes $23.68 million to be spent by the House and $18.55 million by the Senate. The overall legislative budget also covers operations of the Legislative Council, the State Auditors department, the Legislative Reference Library and a legislative information computer system.

Back in 1961, as a result of a constitution change voted the year before, Texas senators and representatives started receiving a salary of $4,800 a year plus $12 a day for personal expenses during the first 120 days of a session. They got 10 cents a mile travel money for their personal cars and 16 cents a mile if they had a plane.

The big spenders 20 years ago included Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress, who spent $3,219 during the regular session for supplies, telephone, telegraph and postage stamps. Rep. Myra Banfield of Rosenberg spent $1,193, tops in the House.

The big spenders in 1971 included Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas, who spent $40,998 for staff salaries, supplies, telephone, postage and travel. Rep. Jack Ogg of Houston had a total of $19,462 for the same items.

During the past two years, Texas legislators got an annual salary of $7,200 plus $30 a day for personal expenses during the full 140 days of a regular session and for each day of a special session. They had travel expenses of 20 cents a mile for personal cars and 25 cents a mile for personal airplanes.

During the 1981 session, senators limited their office expenses to $10,000 a month including employees' salaries, supplies, travel, postage, and communications expenses. House members, with fewer employees, had an operating budget of $5,500.

High man in the Senate for the past two years was Sen. Walter Mengden, Houston, with a total of $162,275 for office expenses, including $41,660 for postage.

In the House, Rep. Albert Price, Beaumont, had a total of $70,779.

What the legislators will have for office budgets in 1983 will not be known until they meet and pass resolutions in each house setting the limits.

The issue of increasing the $600 a month salary for Senate and House members also is likely to come up in 1983.

The monthly salary was raised from $400 to $600 in 1975 by voters.

Notice to Telephone Customers

WE ARE PROPOSING CHANGES IN THE RATES FOR CALLING OVERSEAS AND MEXICO.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed with the Federal Communications Commission a plan, to be effective May 17, 1982, to restructure rates for Overseas and Mexico Message Telecommunications Service (MTS). The restructure will result in rate increases and decreases and is designed to have no overall effect on interstate earnings. The purpose of the filing is to encourage calling during lower-priced discount and economy periods, relieve peak-period calling, simplify international rate schedules, and encourage use of customer dialing.

Operator Station and Person-to-Person calls will retain the 3-minute initial period rate.

- Establish 3 levels of rates on customer-dialed calls and for each additional minute on all classes of calls: STANDARD (highest rate), DISCOUNT (middle rate), and ECONOMY (lowest rate). (At present there are only 2 rate levels applicable to many countries.) Operator Station and Person-to-Person initial 3-minute period rates will be uniform throughout the day regardless of the time called.
- Establish 9 world rate regions and eliminate multi-rate zones (except Cuba). The regions are: Europe (continental), United Kingdom/Ireland, Africa, Near East, Caribbean/Atlantic (except Cuba), Central America, South America, Indian Ocean, and Pacific.
- Rate all collect calls billed in the U.S. at the Person-to-Person rate only. (At present collect calls from many countries are billed in the U.S. at Person-to-Person rates only.)

Here are the proposed changes Overseas Message Telecommunications Service

- Establish a 1-minute initial period rate on all customer-dialed calls. (At present there is a 3-minute initial period rate on all classes of calls.)

*For countries that are not dialable, additional minute rates are somewhat higher. For customers who do not have international dialing, the dial rate will apply when special operator assistance is not required.

U.S.-Mexico Message Telecommunications Service

(The following changes apply only to the U.S. portion of the call. Additional charges applicable to the Mexican portion of the call are added to charges for the U.S. portion.)

- Change time-of-day and day-of-week rate periods of the U.S. portion of the call to align more closely with those in effect in Mexico. Day rates apply from 7am-7pm Monday through Friday. Evening rates apply from 7pm-11pm Monday through Friday, 7am-11pm on Saturday, 5pm-12 midnight on Sunday. Night rates apply to all other hours.
- Decrease the initial 3-minute dial rate for the U.S. portion of the call on calls over 430 miles. For example, the initial 3-minute dial rate for a call from New York to Mexico City will be reduced from $1.58 to $1.45, for the U.S. portion only.

- Increase the initial 3-minute dial rate for the U.S. portion of the call on calls up to 430 miles. For example, when the U.S. portion of a call is from 1-10 miles, the initial 3-minute dial rate for the U.S. portion will be increased from 23¢ to 35¢.
- Reduce the present 14 rate steps to 9.
- Introduce a 40% discount for the evening period and a 60% discount for the night period on customer-dialed calls and for additional minutes on all classes of calls.
