'Whistle Off' turns Big Spring crowd on

By BOB CARPENTER

They huffed and they puffed and almost blew Highland Mall down.

The event was a "whistle off" sponsored by the Mall merchants, "Crazy Ray," the one-man cheering squad for the Dallas Cowboys and purported to be the world's greatest whistler, was on hand Saturday afternoon performing magic tricks, making balloon animals, dancing and

— yes — whistling his head off.

Ray gathered up about 15 contestants who promised "to increase the hearing aid business in Big Spring" and away they whistled.

The contestants were divided into three categories: loudest, most unusual and "the best at calling the dog or your husband."

Loudest was taken by Melvin Perkins who let loose an ear-drum-shattering gust of air that blasted all the other contenders away.

Mike Wilson won the dog-calling whistle as hounds in Martin and Mitchell counties were reported to have heard Wilson's piercing whistle.

And the most unusual whistle was captured by Sharon Dockrey who amazed judges with her unorthodox style of pulling on her lower lip and sucking in lung-fuls of air.

Crazy Ray, however, was not to be outdone. He displayed a 60-second long wolf whistle, imitated several kinds of animals and made like a freight train that almost had several people watching for a locomotive.

The blue-in-the-face winners won a $10 gift certificate from mall merchants, while the crowd of children attending the event received an autographed picture of Crazy Ray and a balloon.

Williams convicted

ATLANTA (AP) — A jury found Wayne B. Williams guilty with surprising speed Saturday of murdering two young black men, ending a sensational trial stemming from the string of 28 slayings that terrorized this southern capital for nearly two years.

A "heartsick" Williams, still insisting he was innocent, was immediately sentenced by Superior Court Judge Clarence Cooper to two consecutive life prison terms. The 23-year-old Williams will be eligible for parole review in seven years. The defense said an appeal was likely.

"We the jury find the defendant Wayne Williams guilty on count No. 1 and guilty on count No. 2," District Attorney Lewis Slaton said, reading from the verdict handed him by jury forewoman Sandra Laney in the packed fourth-floor courtroom in the Fulton County Superior courthouse.

The defendant, dressed in a brown suit, remained seated at the defense table, surrounded by deputies and out of sight of reporters, as the verdict was read. Then, accompanied by his lawyers and his father, Homer Williams, he strode to the podium and said in a calm, steady voice:

"I maintained all along through this trial my innocence and I still say so today."

"I hold no malice against the jury, the prosecutors or the court," he said. "I hope the person or persons who committed these crimes can be brought to justice. I did not do this."

He then was hurried out by deputies to be driven back to the county jail where he has been held since his arrest last June.

The jury of eight blacks and four whites deliberated only 12½ hours after nine weeks of testimony before deciding that the free-lance photographer had murdered both Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21.

The prosecution had said it would not seek the death penalty, and Georgia law allows for no lesser sentence than life imprisonment on a murder conviction.

Deputy Sheriff T.H. Connolly said any defendant sentenced to more than five years in prison is entitled to appeal his sentence to a review panel but must give 30 days notice he will do so.

Before court recessed, Williams' father told the judge: "I feel that this is an error in justice. I don't see how anybody anywhere could find my son guilty of anything. It's unjust, and I will say that anywhere in the world."

Williams' mother, Faye, whose emotional appeal for acquittal had closed the defense case, was not in the courtroom, but she told reporters at her home later the verdict was "most frightening news I've heard" since her son was arrested last June.

"I feel like my life is over," she said.

Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young called the trial "eminently fair," and Dr. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said, "There's no reason not to believe that they delivered what they believed was a justifiable verdict."

Payne's mother, Ruby Jones, said she felt "satisfied they finally came up with something to explain my son's death," but parents of some of the other victims expressed doubt the whole case had been solved.

"The prosecutors' job was to prove he was guilty and they did not," said Camille Bell, whose 9-year-old son, Yusef, was slain in November 1979.

TRUCK CRASH — Late Friday afternoon Lonnie Moore of Seagraves lost control of his 18-wheeler on Interstate 20 when the steering wheel popped off of the steering column causing Moore to slam into a guardrail. The accident occurred just east of the FM 700 exit and blocked traffic in the eastbound lane for approximately 30 minutes. Moore was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital for head and chest injuries where he remains in good condition.

Suspect arrested in hot check scheme

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Coordination and cooperation between law enforcement officials, the county attorney's Hot Check Department and local merchants has led to the arrest of a woman who may be wanted in as many as 17 cities for passing bad checks.

Shirley Ann Roden is being held in Howard County jail following her arrest by sheriff's deputies Allen Parrish and Alvin White Wednesday afternoon. According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, she is being held on a Texarkana warrant for forgery.

THE TALE BEGINS Wednesday morning when employees of Big Spring Savings and Loan Association received a tip sheet of possible hot check writers. Upon checking, they discovered a woman fitting the description of one "hot checker" had just opened an account at the savings and loan.

Big Spring Police Detective Bud Jones picks up the tale: "I got a call from the president of the savings and loan about their bulletin on a woman with an Eva Park alias. She had opened an account the day before with a forged check from Abilene."

Jones said he ran the information through the computer to discover her Social Security number and Texas Drivers' license number were both fictitious. The detective said the "Park" alias had done the same thing in Houston, New Braunfels, and Brady.

"I then called Melba (Melba Soles of the county attorney's Hot Check Department). She can do in 30 minutes what it takes us all day to do," Jones said. "She could put out an SOS (warning on hot checks) to the merchants through the Chamber of Commerce."

Mrs. Soles said she had the Park woman's given name plus two fake names she used, in addition to the number of her temporary drivers' license and a full description of the woman. "On the SOS, the Chamber calls three merchants who in turn call three more and so forth until everyone is warned about the hot check writer," Soles said.

THE "PAY-OFF" came late Wednesday afternoon when Winn-Dixie employee Susie Gartman identified a woman alleged to be one mentioned in the SOS, Soles said. She called the sheriff's office and the woman was arrested outside of the store by deputies Parrish and White.

Sheriff Standard told The Herald Roden had warrants in four other cities, plus inquiries from 12 more places. He said a pattern seems to have developed of opening accounts with a forged check from another city, then writing checks in excess of the account and then leaving for another town.

"We may have a filing here. She passed four checks locally," Standard said.

Although the suspect, who may have had as many as seven false names, was nabbed this time, Soles said such arrests need to happen more

Action/reaction: Chill factor

Q. How do you explain the wind chill factor and what effect does it have on the temperature?

A. Wind speed is one of the factors used by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (National Weather Service) to determine the feeling of coolness or extreme cold. Temperature is also a factor used in figuring coldness on a human. "Wind chill" does not actually lower the temperature, it only reflects how cold the human body feels as a result of the combination of temperature and wind velocity.

Panel hands down Congressional remap plan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — With one judge calling the state's plan to redraw its congressional districts an "insidious" attempt to dilute minority voting strength, a three-judge panel ordered the districts redrawn Saturday.

The plan handed down by U.S. District Judges Sam Johnson of Austin, William Wayne Justice of Tyler and Robert Parker of Beaumont goes far beyond the changes requested by the U.S. Justice Department when it rejected the Legislature's plan Jan. 29.

Texas gained three congressmen because of population growth shown by the 1980 census, boosting its delegation from 24 to 27.

The congressional districts as approved by the Legislature in August were expected to eliminate at least one Democratic congressman and carve a new district expected to elect a Republican.

The court plan, in redistributing minority voters the judges said were "packed" into certain districts, would appear to help Democrats. But the order issued Saturday was described by census tracts with no accompanying maps.

The changed districts include those currently represented by Reps. Jim Collins, R-Dallas; Jim Mattox, D-Dallas; Kika de la Garza, D-Mission; Martin Frost, D-Dallas; and two newly created districts in southern Tarrant County and South Texas.

Mattox had opted to run for attorney general after the Legislature's plan included heavy Republican areas in his district. But with a delay in the filing deadline, he still could run for re-election.

Mattox scheduled a 4 p.m. news conference. But Tom Green, Mattox' administrative assistant, said he did not think Mattox would reconsider running again for Congress.

"This new plan clearly creates a better Democratic district than Jim has had for the last six years," Green added.

"We're disappointed that the court did not create a minority district and the second Democratic district as the Legislature attempted to do and as we attempted to get the court to do."

State Rep. Dee Travis, who with former Dallas city councilman Steve Bartlett had filed to run in the Republican primary for Mattox' seat.

"As far as I can tell they put all of the announced Republican candidates in the same district (in Dallas)," Travis said.

"I feel like it's probably a pretty political decision, because it's the same plan — or very similar to — the plan we defeated in the Legislature. This is the Maury plan... It's certainly not an accurate reflection of the will of the people."

Bartlett was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Other state officials available for comment Saturday had not yet seen the plan and affected officeholders and seekers were scrambling to redraw maps to see how they fared.

The ruling also moved up to March 12 filing deadlines for 11 districts that most recently had March 19 deadlines. The affected districts are 1, 2, 4, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16, 17 and 19. The remaining districts' deadline was Feb. 1.

In his written opinion, Johnson said the task of increasing minority voting strength was difficult because "neither Congress nor the courts have articulated a precise prescription. There is no mechanical formula."

Justice complained that the court plan did not go far enough, particularly by failing to make any changes in Harris County districts.

He accused the Legislature of packing minority voters into one district for an "insidious effect on minority voting strength in Harris County."

Justice also took Republican Gov. Bill Clements to task for his support of the Dallas County plan. Clements was adamant in his support of a minority district in Dallas.

But Justice said in his opinion that Clements' "strong sense of the unfairness of the existing apportionment was intertwined with his partisan political position as a leader of the Texas Republican Party."

The ruling also took Cameron County out of the 15th district, represented by Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, who has served the Rio Grande Valley in Congress since 1964. The county was placed into the new 27th district.

When the Justice Department overturned congressional redistricting on Jan. 29, it ordered that more Hispanics be placed in the new South Texas district.

The federal agency, which enforces the 1965 Voting Rights Act, criticized keeping both Hidalgo and Cameron counties in de la Garza's district.

William Bradford Reynolds, an assistant attorney general in the civil rights division, said one of the counties should have been placed in the new 27th district, giving Hispanics a clear majority in an area where two-thirds of the residents are Mexican-Americans.

But the Justice Department made no mention of arguments that had been raised about the way district lines were drawn in the other areas. Minority groups who challenged the Texas plan asked for changes in Dallas, Harris, Tarrant and Bexar counties and in South Texas.

A separate lawsuit against the state House and Senate districts is pending in Dallas before three federal judges.

MRS. GERALDINE BEDWELL
Massachusetts native wins nurse award

Dream becomes reality for Nurse of Month

It is a long way from Massachusetts to Texas but Mrs. Geraldine Bedwell thinks it was well worth every mile of the way especially when it was announced by Charles A. Weeg, administrator of Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, that she had been selected as Hospital Nurse of the Month for March.

While still a young lady, Mrs. Bedwell migrated with her family to Texas and with her came her childhood and cherished dream of someday becoming a nurse.

It was in the Lone Star State that she found her pot of gold at the end of the rainbow when her dream became a reality graduating from the Howard College School of Vocational Nursing in April of 1974.

When she received the announcement that she had won the award as Hospital Nurse of the Month, Mrs. Bedwell, affectionately known as "Mickie" to her host of friends and co-workers, had said, "I feel that it is an honor to win this award."

Airways regular flights suspended

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kuwait's national airline has suspended regular flights to Beirut indefinitely because of a nine-hour takeover by Moslem Shiite gunmen of one of its jetliners, airport sources said Saturday.

The sources, who requested anonymity, said the Kuwaiti Airways employees at Beirut airport have been absent since the seizure Wednesday of the Kuwaiti Boeing 707 with 105 passengers and crew members aboard.

The gunmen, who were demanding an international investigation into the disappearance four years ago of their spiritual leader, Iman Mousa Sadr, surrendered later to Syrian peacekeeping forces and freed all the hostages unharmed.

Trip worthwhile despite arrest

HAMILTON, Ontario (AP) — Irish nationalist Edward Howell, banned from Canada for life, said his trip was worthwhile because it publicized the Sinn Fein's goal of the reunification of Northern Ireland with the Catholic republic in the south.

Howard, 34, was arrested earlier this month with four other persons on charges of trying to enter the United States illegally.

HOUSTON (AP) — Susan Keech McIntosh found her work last summer so riveting she fell into an odd routine — most days at lunchtime, she would climb out of the pit where she worked and faint.

"I'd get so interested in what we were doing I'd forget to drink," said the Cambridge-educated Rice University professor of anthropology. That can be a hazard for someone during manual labor in West Africa's 115-degree heat.

What fascinated Mrs. McIntosh, 31, and her 30-year-old husband, Roderick McIntosh, also a Rice professor with degrees from Cambridge, were the ruins of a city they discovered in 1977 — archaeological evidence they say has changed the way the world views the development of African civilization.

Their find was Jenne-jeno. "It is the oldest known city in sub-Saharan Africa," McIntosh said. The McIntoshes say the town was established by 250 B.C. "And it is the earliest walled town that we know of."

The wall, they say, was massive — it had a circumference of more than a mile and a half and was three feet thick.

McIntosh said further study of the data they gathered in their eight-month 1981 dig confirmed what they had theorized four years earlier.

Contrary to previous beliefs, the McIntoshes say, complex civilizations existed in Africa south of the Sahara long before the Arabs spreading the word of Mohammad took over trade networks in the area after 1000 A.D.

"We came up with this really magnificent gold earring, right under the city wall, that dated to 600 A.D.," McIntosh said. "Mohammad was just a babe in swaddling clothes then."

Their work has also turned up funerary urns and the skeletons buried in them, pottery, structural remains of houses and a terracotta statuette which the McIntoshes theorize was a protective household spirit.

"We found a lot of different pieces that we're fitting together to get the big picture," Mrs. McIntosh said.

The lack of progress in the area has helped them do that. Many of the artifacts are similar to items still in use.

"There's a terrific continuity between Jenne today and Jenne-jeno 1,000 years ago," Mrs. McIntosh said. The present-day city of Jenne, in what is now Mali, was built a few miles from Jenne-jeno when the ancient city was mysteriously abandoned about 1250 A.D.

"It's like you stood on a corner in downtown London for 15 centuries," said Mrs. McIntosh.

The McIntoshes' observation post last year was centered in a mud brick hut. They battled blistering heat and contended with a variety of parasites in the food and water that gave them dysentery.

Their work, done on an $80,000 budget which included transportation costs for the couple and four graduate students, served to establish that Jenne-jeno "was much larger and more complex than we originally thought," McIntosh said.

He said he now estimates the 60-acre town may have held 20,000 people in the 6th and 7th centuries A.D.

"The town was supported by and grew because of the gold trade," he said, citing the gold earring and other pieces as evidence.

The nearest gold mines, he said, were at least 500 miles away, indicating a complex system of trade routes.

Mrs. McIntosh said the couple's next expedition, which will probably not take place for several years, will concentrate on Timbuktu, Jenne-jeno's sister city 300 miles away. She said they would seek evidence of trade between the two.

She is sure they'll find it.

"For one thing, Timbuktu cannot feed itself," she said.

"Jenne-jeno was in the granary of Africa. Traditionally, there shouldn't have been a Timbuktu without a Jenne-jeno."

In the meantime, the McIntoshes hope anthropological interest in Africa picks up. Of 250 applicants for an opening in Rice's anthropology department recently, only 10 had done work in Africa, he said.

"The money is there and, God knows, the work is there," McIntosh said. "The Niger River Valley civilization is not a freak." He said he knows of at least two other sites in West Africa where he believes similar societies existed.

He said culture shock — the scarcity of goods and the different way of life — is one thing that discourages exploration. Another factor, he said, is Africa's political instability.

In the eight months the McIntoshes were in Mali in 1981, there were two coup attempts.

But mostly, he said, scientists stay away because they are reluctant to break away from more commonly explored areas.

"If there was a tradition of finding big, splashy sites in Africa, people would go in spite of the coups," he said.

If they did, McIntosh thinks they would find they are welcome, if his experience with officials of Mali is any indication.

"They want to build up a pride in their precolonial past," he said. "This has let them say, 'We are poor because of colonialism — but before the French came in, we had a civilization.'"

Water items clog Stanton council agenda

STANTON — The Stanton City Council will meet in a regular session Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall.

Items on the agenda include:

— Meet with J.W. Heidilberg concerning leasing airport property for T-hangers.

— Meet with Roy Knooe concerning water outside the city limits.

— Consider a request from Bill Coggins to pave an alley in his neighborhood.

— Consider a request from Martin County for a street light at museum.

Lobo Park tops agenda

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Park Board will be making several recommendations to the Lamesa City Council at the council's next regular meeting scheduled Monday at Lamesa City Hall.

The board, recently reorganized, has been meeting on a regular basis to discuss problems relating to the city's recreational areas. One area of interest the board has emphasized is Lobo Park. Lobo will be the main topic of discussion during the board's presentation, according to board chairman Steve Wilkes.

Wilkes says a major facelift for the facility will be recommended including lighting, fencing, bleachers and dugouts. Lamesa High baseball coach Lee Almaguer has organized efforts to improve the infield area of the field with plowing work and the planting of grass seed, but more work is needed.

Lots of L'Amour

NEW YORK (AP) — Bantam Books says there are 125 million copies of novelist Louis L'Amour's 80 books in worldwide print.

SIERRA COMMUNICATIONS OPENING — The Ambassadors of the Chamber of Commerce recently welcomed a new business in town. Sierra Communications, located on FM 700 south of Interstate 20. From left are Ambassador Jerry Thurman, co-owner Jesse Mulanax, Sweetwater office manager Dorothy Kinsey, co-owner Cliff Sharer, Big Spring shop manager Royce Rowden, and County Judge Bill Tune, who is an Ambassador.

Judge modifies Horton's sentence

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge has changed the terms of the sentence handed a Midland man convicted of concealing assets from the government along with Billie Sol Estes.

Raymond K. Horton originally was sentenced to three years in prison and a $10,000 fine by U.S. District Judge Robert Hill. He and Estes were convicted in 1979 of conspiracy to conceal assets from the Internal Revenue Service.

Hill Friday changed his sentence to six months, followed by a 4½-year probation.

Horton's attorney had asked for probation so that his client could continue paying restitution to companies that authorities say were cheated out of $600,000 by Horton and Estes. Horton has been free pending an appeal.

Estes was convicted of swindling a West Texas farmer out of $30,000 as well as of conspiracy to conceal assets.

Eight killed in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Volkswagen packed with about 100 pounds of TNT rigged to a timer blew up Saturday near a Syrian army checkpoint in Moslem West Beirut, killing eight civilians and wounding 35, police said.

It was the second car bombing in the area in five days and was claimed by the same group, the Front for the Liberation of Lebanon from Foreigners. A double car-bomb blast Tuesday killed 12 people and wounded more than 30.

Saturday's bomb was outside a lumber warehouse and not far from a Moslem orphanage and crowded sandwich shop.

Communications firm operates radio tower

Sierra Communications had its official opening this week.

The firm, located on FM 700 south of Interstate 20, is a Motorola service center, authorized to install and repair two-way communication equipment.

Motorola also has a sales force in the office, offering factory direct sales of FM two-way radios such as those used by police, firemen and oilfield personnel.

Sierra also operates a 500-foot radio tower on South Mountain in Big Spring, leasing space to area two-way radio users. Equipment can be installed on the tower enabling lessees to increase their broadcasting power.

Jesse Mulanax and Cliff Sharer are co-owners of Sierra Communications. Their main office is in Sweetwater, where both reside. Future expansions are on the board, they said.

Royce Rowden is manager of the Big Spring shop. He has lived in Big Spring all his life, except for six years, and has been in the radio service business for 15 years. He and his wife Sue reside on Dawson Road with their five children.

Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors participating in the event included Jerry Reid, James Balios, Travis Floyd, Gordon Myrick and Cliff Clements.

Special people: farmers, ranchers

The Herald today salutes farmers and ranchers in a special section, "Pride of the Land."

It illustrates an American tradition as old as the flag: the family farmer, the family rancher. They are a vital part of our society.

If there was a single theme pervading the stories, it is the love farmers and ranchers have for their land, their families and their way of life.

It's a force that has compelled them to stay on the land, even when it wasn't economically feasible to do so. These people live for the land, and they share that love with their children.

IN RECENT YEARS farmers and ranchers have had to cut corners, to find new management techniques just to break even. In the end this will make them stronger. The new techniques generated by economic necessity will make them all the more prosperous as the general economy improves.

It is our hope that these stories will give non-agriculture people some insights into the lives and problems of those who make their living from the soil. The world is shrinking so rapidly that all people must become aware of how the lives of their neighbors affect them.

A farmer or rancher's affinity for his land is a special quality — a combination of love and dedication. "Pride of the Land" illuminates this quality of the agriculturalist of today.

THE CREDIT FOR gathering these fine stories goes to reporters Bob Carpenter, Mike Downey, Bill Elder and Richard Horn and photographer Billy Adams. Extra effort was put forth by all departments of the newspaper in preparing the section.

We're sure you'll agree after reading the stories — as if you did not already know — farmers and ranchers are special people.

How can I get born again?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have heard people talk about being born again spiritually, and I believe I need that in my life. How can I be born again? — J.W.

DEAR J.W.: The Bible says that every one of us needs to be born again spiritually because each one of us is a sinner who needs to be touched by God. We need spiritual rebirth because our lives need to be changed and made right. We also need to be spiritually reborn or renewed because only in that way will we be fit for Heaven. This is why Jesus declared, "I tell you the truth, unless a man is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God" (John 3:3).

How can you be born again spiritually? How can you be spiritually made new and begin a whole new way of living? First of all, realize that this is something only God can do. You cannot be spiritually reborn by making a new list of resolutions or trying to turn over a new leaf and live differently. Only God can touch your heart and make it

new. But the important thing is this: God wants to do this in your life, and he is able to do it if you will but open your heart to Christ.

We are reborn or made new spiritually when the Holy Spirit of God comes to dwell within us. And the Holy Spirit comes to dwell within us when we accept Jesus Christ into our lives and turn to him as our Savior and Lord.

Our greatest need is spiritual. We need forgiveness from God, because we have sinned against him and turned our backs on him. We also need his presence and power in our lives, so we can live as he would want us to live. Jesus Christ came into the world to deal with the problem of our sins, and the Holy Spirit has been given to help us spiritually every day. How can you be born again? Turn to God in prayer, confessing your need of forgiveness and new life to him. Then ask Jesus Christ to come into your life as your Savior and Lord. He has promised to do so, and when he comes in you are a new person in Christ.

City editor deadpans again

The Herald likes to think of itself as a community information center. Thus, when someone called last week to ask whose face is on a $100 bill, we scrambled around to find out, despite the fact that it had nothing to do with producing a daily newspaper.

City editor Walt Finley, who took the call, first deadpanned to news editor Richard Horn who was sitting next to him: "Richard, look in your wallet and see whose face is on a $100 bill."

Richard was already reaching for his wallet when the end of the sentence hit him. (It's so nice to have a city editor with a sense of humor.)

Anyway, in case you don't know, it's Benjamin Franklin on the $100 bill.

Now to catch up on some cold jokes. These were brought in by Walter W. Stroup, insurance-calender man:

● It was so cold that when we milked the cows, we just squirted the milk across our arms, broke it off in sections and carried it in like stove wood!

● We were bothered with mice, and we made traps by placing cheese beneath a well thermometer. During the night the temperature would drop. When the mice came to get the cheese, the mercury dropped so low that it pinned the mice to the floor making a very effective mouse trap.

Sig Rogers wrote in a joke about being chased by a bear. Rogers said he ran so fast the heat burned up his britches ... he went around corners so fast his hip pockets dipped sand ... he ran so fast he met himself coming back, but the bear was still after him. According to Rogers, he started running in July and didn't quit till December, and by this time he was getting tired.

To make a long joke short, Rogers finally turned around, rammed his fist down the bear's throat, grabbed him by his tail and pulled that bear inside out and he went the other way. The bear died. Rogers writes — the hair on the inside tickled him to death.

What does the joke have to do with cold? "This joke is so old it has to be cold by now," Rogers says.

One of the best things about this job is the nice people you get to meet. Last Sunday I accompanied a reporter and photographer to the Alfred Schwartz farm at St. Lawrence. (The Schwartz family is featured on the cover of The Herald's special agriculture edition today.)

It was a beautiful day, and here are some of the things I won't forget: the sight of 46 baby pigs sucking on their huge mammas ... riding in the back of a pickup in the open air ... picking pecans off the ground ... eating homemade beef jerky fresh out of the smokehouse ... looking at the massive farm machinery ... smelling the wet earth as irrigation water trickled down the newly plowed rows ... sitting around a table eating a freshly baked pecan pie.

The Schwartz family wouldn't let us leave without taking a grocery sack full of pecans from their orchard.

These tangible pleasures were heightened by the warmth of the family not only to us but to each other. They take great pride in the land and in their way of life. It's easy to see why. Families like them have made America great.

The next time you feel rushed, hemmed in, drowning in paper work and about to have a nervous breakdown, I have the perfect prescription — get thee to a farm, fast. It worked for me.

Report raises questions

WASHINGTON — In the past columns, I have reported on Labor Secretary Ray Donovan's disturbing ties to a company that is allegedly controlled by underworld characters. A special prosecutor is investigating the specific allegation that Donovan was present when a mob payoff was made.

But unexpectedly, my investigation has now uncovered a document that raises some questions about Donovan's principal accuser. In fairness to Donovan, I want to put on the record at once exactly what this document has to say.

The accuser in question is a hard-driving union reformer named Mario Montuoro. He's the one who claims that Donovan, as the then-president of the Schiavon Construction Co., was present at a 1977 luncheon when a company executive slipped a $2,000 payoff to an official of Blasters Union Local 29 to buy labor peace in the highly competitive New York-New Jersey construction scene.

Donovan told my associate Tony Capaccio about the still-secret Labor Department report — prepared two years before Donovan took over as labor secretary. The three-page report, which we obtained from sources other than Donovan and his associates, describes a Feb. 27, 1979 interview of Montuoro by Labor Department investigators Joseph Greco and Norman Romney.

Nowhere in the report is there any mention of the luncheon at Prudenti's, a Long Island City restaurant, at which the illegal payoff was allegedly made by a Donovan associate. But there are two paragraphs in the report that are relevant to the current charges against him.

Referring to Montuoro and Local 29 boss Louis Sanzo, the 1979 report says, "He (Montuoro) also said Sanzo told him in 1976 and 1977 that the Yankee Lumber Yard, Radcliffe Ave., The Bronx, delivered lumber to Sanzo's home that was needed to build Sanzo's pool and garage and that DeSimone Construction was billed for the lumber."

What makes this relevant is that Montuoro has charged that Sanzo was given lumber paid for by Donovan's company. This would have been a violation of federal law.

The report identifies the company as DeSimone not Schiavone. "Why don't you print that?" Donovan asked us.

ANOTHER ALLEGATION that has plagued Donovan since his stormy Senate nomination hearings is that his construction company employed "ghosts" — workers who were paid for doing nothing, presumably at the behest of corrupt union officials. This was another of Montuoro's charges.

But the report by the Labor Department quotes Montuoro as saying there were about three "ghost employees," but that Donovan's company "probably doesn't know about this."

Montuoro dismisses the significance of the document that Donovan puts such weight on. He notes that the report refers to "two-by-fours and four-by-fours used to build Sanzo's swimming pool deck," and adds: "These had nothing to do with the garage and greenhouse."

Sanzo told me that the lumber came from Jerry Liguori. Liguori was an executive of Donovan's construction company who was allegedly present at the crucial 1977 luncheon — and had a girlfriend who was a waitress at the restaurant.

But Montuoro said this about Donovan's defense: "I can't say that Donovan knew about the lumber or the no-shows (the ghost employees)."

If all this who-stuck-who-about-a-few-free-two-by-fours-and-a-few-ghost-employees seems like small potatoes, it should be borne in mind that these are the practices that show mobster control. Donovan knows this; that's why he's so anxious to disassociate himself from even the pettiest transaction that might link him to the underworld.

Footnote: In an earlier column, I reported that Donovan had been "chided" by a federal judge for failing to take timely action in a case involving a Local 29 election. In fairness, I should point out that, at the time, Donovan had been in office only six weeks. His predecessor, Ray Marshall, had nine months to probe the questionable election and failed to do so.

INSTANT GRATIFICATION: On Feb. 5, I quoted from a classified intelligence study submitted to the National Security Council on Antarctica. It recommended that the United States keep up the funding for scientific research on the frozen continent, and specifically urged the president not to abandon the strategic U.S. station at the South Pole to the eager Russians.

President Reagan, on the very day my column appeared, signed a memorandum supporting the advice of his scientific advisers on the minuscule risk continent.

"The United States Antarctic Program shall be maintained at a level providing an active and influential presence in Antarctica designed to support the range of U.S. Antarctic interest," the president's memo said. "This presence shall include the conduct of scientific activities in major discipline; year-round occupation of the South Pole and two coastal stations."

JUSTICE JOURNAL: Shortly before the Reagan administration decided to settle the marathon antitrust action against the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the federal attorneys on the case had a batch of T-shirts printed up.

Sardonically parodying Ma Bell's "Reach Out and Touch Someone" slogan, the T-shirt depicted a Bell log and the motto, "Reach Out and Crush Someone." They sold fast, and a notice was pinned to the antitrust division's bulletin board: "We have a request from Assistant Attorney General William Baxter to do another T-shirt order so he can purchase a 'reach out' T-shirt."

The sudden AT&T settlement, meanwhile, has apparently left the antitrust staff with time on their hands. Some of their Wang word processors have been programmed for electronic video games.

Mailbag

Letter writer

is answered

Dear Editor:

This is in regard to Mr. Kevin Lewis's letter to the mailbag.

Mr. Kevin: You made the statement in Sunday's paper, Feb. 22, 1982 that you were not the least bit proud to live in a country where there are atomic bombs, cruise missiles, and other technical weapons whose sole purpose is to annihilate human beings. You also said it is difficult to believe that people assume that killing (in time of war) is morally acceptable, and whatever happened to "Thou shalt not kill?"

The "Ten Commandments" is God's Spiritual Law He gave to man in order for him to live happy, contentment, joyous and prosperous.

But the Western World of professing Christianity's gospel today is...The Ten Commandments is part of Moses' law. Therefore they were done away with at the cross. This is a terrible error.

Adam and Eve knew the Ten Commandments in the Garden of Eden. They broke this law. What was the results? It led to murder. Brother killing brother.

Abraham obeyed the Ten Commandments. Where did it get him? He became the father of the faithful. Abraham was 430 years before Moses. So how could they be Moses' law?

Please read these Scriptures for yourself. Romans 7:12, 14; Matthew 19:17; John 14:15; 1 Timothy 6:14; 1 John 2:3; 1 John 3:22; 1 John 5:2,3; Revelation 12:17; and Revelation 14:12.

Now, if the Ten Commandments were done away with at Christ's death, WHY? Did the apostles after Christ's death, teach that in order to be a True Christian we must OBEY and LIVE by the Ten Commandments? Did they know what they were teaching were facts, or were they liars?

Thousands today worship God. But who is this god? Read for yourself the following Scriptures. Revelation 12:9; II Corinthians 4:4 and Ephesians 2:2. This is where "THOU SHALT NOT KILL" went.

If you would like to know what sin is...Read I John chapter 3 verse 4.

This law is the Ten Commandments.

Thank you

Off-campus courses defended

By DANA PALMER

Harte-Hanks
Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — College and university officials from across the state have told a House subcommittee that the legislature seems to have some misconceptions about off-campus courses.

Consequently, they said legislators acted somewhat unfairly last session when they reduced funding in that area to 75 percent of what is received for courses taught on campus.

Some cases of the payments have been reduced to 65 percent.

Most of the dozen or so witnesses, including Bryan Cole, associate dean of Texas A&M University's College of Education, asked that the 100 percent funding be restored.

At anything less, he said, many worthwhile off-campus courses would have to be dropped.

Off-campus courses are a lifesaver for those people who can't afford to leave their jobs, families and hometowns, witnesses said.

Typically, such students desperately need professional training, agricultural offerings or, in many cases, continuing education classes, especially teachers and some other professionals who must go back to school before receiving state-required certificates.

For those reasons, a Corpus Christi State University official said, "We have regular requests from our service area to teach off-campus courses."

Richard Sheppard, an associate professor in CCSU's College of Education, added that officials at his school are reluctant to commit themselves to going off campus.

Currently, CCSU offers only a small number of off-campus courses, in part because high-quality classes often cost as much or even more than on-campus courses, Sheppard said.

"We feel that with 75 percent funding, there is no way that we can come up with anywhere near the funds needed to teach the course without some source of outside funding," he said.

Despite such assurances, the legislature seems to believe that colleges use off-campus courses as money-makers, said Lowell Bynum, a professor of education at Southwest Texas State University, San Marcos.

"If you look at one isolated course under certain circumstances, you might find a money-maker but look somewhere else and it's not," he said.

Other popular misconceptions, he said, are that off-campus courses by nature are poorer quality and invite widespread abuse. One incident that may have fostered that idea, Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth Ashworth said, was a well-publicized case involving some Fort Worth police officers who received credit for an East Texas State University off-campus course in which there were no classes or assignments.

"This really brought up the question of whether these off-campus courses can be adequately supervised by the parent institution," Ashworth told the subcommittee of the House Higher Education Committee.

He said the state auditor's office has been asked to make spot checks to confirm enrollment figures and to learn whether the classes are meeting as reported.

Opponents of fluoridation applaud judge's ruling

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A ruling declaring Illinois' fluoridation law unconstitutional may have national and even international importance, an attorney for the plaintiffs said.

John Graham, a Minneapolis attorney who represented the plaintiffs in the Illinois class action lawsuit and is pursuing similar cases in Pennsylvania and Texas, said the ruling is a "great victory."

Edward G. Moorman, chief counsel for the Illinois Pure Water Committee, which filed the suit, said Neimann "wasn't saying that fluoridation causes cancer. We don't know what causes cancer. He was saying that faced with a certain amount of evidence, there are facts it causes some harm."

"The truth has been suppressed in this long enough," said Ruby Hale, an Alton resident who spearheaded the suit after organizing the committee in 1968. "It's a great victory, important because now the people have the right to choose."

Illinois State Dental Society spokeswoman Susan Nye disputed the findings, saying, "We don't feel there is a health risk and certainly we'll support the state's position in an appeal."

Graham said Neimann's decision reinforces a precedent-setting 1978 judgment in the Court of Common Pleas in Allegheny County, Penn. Scientific research was introduced in that case to allege that fluoridation was harming the health of water users in suburban Pittsburgh.

He said the law — which requires the fluoridation of public drinking water — amounts to "an unreasonable exercise of police power."

Richard W. Cosby, first assistant Illinois attorney general, said his office will appeal the decision and would go to court Monday to seek a delay in enforcement of Neimann's order.

Cosby said if properly worded, the decision could apply statewide. But, he said the ruling probably will have no immediate effect outside Alton.

The decision came a year and a half after a trial before Neimann on a 14-year-old lawsuit filed against the state and Alton's water company by fluoridation opponents.

'Doughnut Dollies' fight Vietnam syndrome

By STEPHEN C. SMITH
Associated Press Writer
MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — Their tools were large urns of Kool-Aid and "clubmobile kits" filled with construction paper signs, props reminiscent of grade school show-and-tell exercises and games such as "Concentration" and "Go."

They were the "Doughnut Dollies" of the Vietnam War, sent overseas by the Red Cross to help boost the morale of American troops fighting in Southeast Asia.

And they came home with some of the same problems and anxieties that have afflicted the men who served there.

Between 1965 and 1972, 627 women worked for the Red Cross' Supplemental Recreation Activities Overseas program. They logged thousands of miles visiting soldiers in the field and conducting simple audience participation programs for lonely and frightened GIs.

"I remember one instance where on one side of me they were throwing body bags off a truck while on the other side there was a ward of freshly wounded soldiers," says Jeanne Marie Christie, who was in Vietnam in 1967 and 1968. "It was a rude awakening...body bags on one side, freshly wounded on the other and we were in the middle and supposed to be effervescent."

Mrs. Christie served in Nha Trang, Da Nang and later at Phan Rang Air Base, witnessing the brutality of a war that claimed the lives of more than 55,000 American soldiers.

She left Southeast Asia in 1968 and returned to the United States, where she married and settled into the routine of wife, mother of two children and teacher.

Over 15 years, her memories of Vietnam faded. But last December as she talked with a group of friends who had served in Vietnam and viewed slides one of the men had taken, dark memories came crashing down around her.

"We were talking and discussing (the war) and all of the feelings I had suppressed really came back," Mrs. Christie recalled.

For two weeks, her life was in shambles.

"I was thinking a lot about Vietnam...but my mind was a void in many areas. My kids were scaring the devil out of me."

"I kept seeing this kid in Vietnam rushing down the street with a grenade and they shot him," Mrs. Christie said. "My kids would run up to me and put their arms around me and I would go right up the wall."

She was displaying the symptoms of delayed post-traumatic stress syndrome.

After being turned away at a Veterans Administration outreach center in New Haven because she was not a veteran, Mrs. Christie contacted Claude Thomas, a counselor at the Veteran's Outreach Center in Boston, who helped talk her through the crisis.

Mrs. Christie says she felt guilty for surviving the war while so many men she knew had been wounded or killed.

"We did a lot of talking about the feelings...I had a sense of abandonment. I felt somewhat betrayed the fellows who really trusted and believed in us," she said. "Sometimes we had moved without saying goodbye. The guys counted on us coming back and we couldn't get back. We talked these (feelings) through for a long time and I eventually came to grips with them."

Thomas, a helicopter crew chief who suffered a severe shoulder injury in Vietnam, said although there likely are thousands of women suffering from post-traumatic stress, few seem willing to step forward.

Thomas added that when women veterans approach the VA for help they're usually made to feel unwanted.

But Mrs. Christie has been able to cope. Mrs. Christie is attempting to reach out to other "Doughnut Dollies" and about 33,000 other women who served in a variety of roles in Vietnam and who have been virtually ignored by those concerned with treating post-traumatic stress.

She has placed advertisements in upcoming issues of veterans' magazines and requested the names of former "Dollies" from the Red Cross in an attempt to let them know help and information are available.

"I'm not a psychologist and cannot solve their problems," says Mrs. Christie. "What we can do is give them support and tell them where they can go to get help and information."

"A lot of them just need to talk," she said. "And they have to talk with other women who were there. We have to talk our experiences out and put them in perspective."

"When you're in a combat situation, you're undergoing a particular stress and strain that you just can't understand unless you are there," she said. "You really can't explain it to just anybody. What these women need is to find somebody who really can deal with them, help them and talk. Talking it out will do them good."

HELPER — Jeanne Marie Christie goes over a file at her home in Milford, Conn., recently as her daughter, Sarah, 6½, watches. Christie, who served in Vietnam as a member of the American Red Cross' "doughnut dollies," has learned the hard way that women, too, can suffer delayed, post-traumatic stress as a result of the war. She is trying to help other women who may have suffered as she did.

Reagan program hurts poor, helps rich, CBO insists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Families with incomes below $20,000 will suffer almost two-thirds of the social program cutbacks while getting only 15 percent of the tax savings under President Reagan's economic plan, the Congressional Budget Office said Saturday.

In a detailed analysis of the administration's economic program, the CBO said about 85 percent of estimated tax savings for individuals in calendar year 1983 would go to households with incomes over $20,000.

The analysis also estimated that during fiscal years 1982-84, "about 60 percent of the savings from reductions in grants to state and local governments will come from programs targeted toward low-income individuals or those receiving public assistance."

The findings provide fresh ammunition for congressional Democrats and some Republican "Gypsy Moths" from the economically hard-hit Northeast and Midwest who charge that Reagan's approach is unfairly skewed to aid higher-income families.

Over-all, the CBO said, the administration's program would mean an average net loss of $240 for households with income less than $10,000 in 1983 and an average net gain of $15,130 for the 1.2 percent of U.S. households with incomes of $80,000 or more.

The nonpartisan congressional agency said net gains were expected to average $220 next year for households earning $10,000 to $20,000; $810 for those in the $20,000 to $40,000 range, and $1,700 for households with incomes of $40,000 to $80,000. About 22.5 percent of all American households have incomes of less than $10,000 and another 24.8 percent are in the $10,000 to $20,000 range, the report said. It estimated that 35.2 percent are in the $20,000 to $40,000 income range while 16.3 percent are in the $40,000 to $80,000 range.

Administration officials have contended their program of slashing both taxes and non-defense spending will spur investment and a sizable upturn in economic growth.

"If the program changes taken together should significantly raise the rate of economic growth and reduce unemployment, then they would provide higher incomes (beyond the tax cuts) that would offset the reductions in benefits," the CBO said.

The study was released by Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., ranking Democrat on the Senate Budget Committee.

"A critical element in any budget had to be its fairness," Jones and Hollings said in a joint statement.

"The CBO study speaks clearly on the fairness of the Reagan program as enacted in the first session of the 97th Congress."

Q. We are buying a home from a gentleman who is acting for his mother, in whose name the title is filed. He says the signed power of attorney is at his attorney's office in another city. How can we protect ourselves?

A. Your best protection is the advice and guidance from a real estate broker. Your broker will insist on receiving an owner's title insurance policy. With the policy in hand, it is then the insurance company's problem to determine the validity of the title, and, in your case, the seller's power of attorney. This is just one of the risks covered by a title insurance policy, at a very reasonable cost. Also, this is another example a real estate broker can give peace of mind by handling the necessary legal requirements.

Spring planting fever strikes

COLLEGE STATION, (AP) — Texas farmers are catching spring planting fever, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, with corn and grain sorghum going in the ground throughout South Texas and the Coastal Bend and even into the Central Texas Blacklands.

In his weekly crop report Pfannstiel added that Central and West Texas remain too dry for much planting, as do parts of the Coastal Bend and East Texas, where grass and forest fires have been a severe problem this past week.

Soil temperatures are getting warmer, he said, but chances still are good for a killing frost or freeze over most areas of Texas.

Four-inch-deep soil temperature averages (in degrees Fahrenheit) recorded by the National Weather Service the past week included: 56 at Austin, 62 at Beaumont, 62 at Beeville, 56 at College Station, 70 at Corpus Christi, 60 at Eagle Lake, 66 at Dilley, 53 at Lavon Dam (near Dallas), 61 at Longview, 55 at Lufkin, 58 at San Angelo, 59 at Stephenville, 68 at Uvalde, 50 at Waco, and 70 at Weslaco. Minimum soil temperatures suggested by the Extension Service for planting to insure good seed germination are 50 degrees for corn, 55 for grain sorghum and 65 for cotton.

Farmers not yet planting are getting land prepared, Pfannstiel said. Full-scale field work has started in the Panhandle and South Plains and remained active in most other areas. Some ginning of modulated cotton still continues in the South Plains and Trans-Pecos areas.

Winter vegetables continue to be harvested in the Winter Garden and Rio Grande Valley. The sugarcane harvest is winding down in the Valley but citrus harvesting remained in full swing.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Warmer weather the past week allowed wheat to grow but rain is needed. Some wheat is providing grazing for livestock but supplemental feeding continues. Farmers are busy getting cropland in shape for spring planting.

SOUTH PLAINS: Full-scale land preparation is under way and farmers are applying fertilizer and herbicides. Some ginning of modulated cotton continues. Wheat is making little growth due to lack of surface moisture. Livestock look good, with feeding continuing.

ROLLING PLAINS: Lack of moisture continues to limit wheat growth although recent warm weather has helped growing conditions. Some cattle are making good gains on wheat and other small grains. Farmers are reducing cattle herds to generate some cash flow. Land preparation continues for spring crops.

NORTH CENTRAL: Some farmers have started to plant corn and will begin planting grain sorghum soon. Land preparation continues for cotton. Cool-season vegetables are being planted. Small grains are starting to make good growth with warmer weather.

NORTHEAST: Wheat is improving with warmer weather; farmers are applying nitrogen to boost growth. Land preparation continues, with some cool-season vegetables being planted. Winter pastures are recovering from cold. Clovers appear to provide some grazing. Rice is increasing in some herds. Calving is active. Landowners are involved in fire ant control.

FAR WEST: Dry conditions continue, causing further decline in pastures and ranges. Livestock feeding is increasing due to the lack of grazing. Lambing has started. Farmers continue to prepare cropland for spring planting. Some ginning of modulated cotton continues.

WEST CENTRAL: Some areas received scattered rains the past week, but more moisture is needed for small grains, pastures and ranges. Greenbugs continue to infest some small grains. Livestock feeding remains heavy due to short forage conditions. Homeowners and growers are pruning and spraying pecan trees.

CENTRAL: Some corn and grain sorghum planting has started although planting moisture is short over most of the area. Small grains are suffering from lack of moisture and greenbug infestations. Livestock feeding continues.

Three members of HC team place in Sul Ross rodeo

Three members of the Howard College Men's Rodeo Team placed in the Sul Ross rodeo recently staged at Fort Stockton, announced Skipper Driver, coach of the team.

Jessie Doss, a sophomore at Howard College, and Jacky Buchanan, of Texas Tech University, placed fourth in team roping long-go and fourth in average. Jessie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Doss of Big Spring.

Cliff Kirkpatrick, a sophomore at Howard College, placed third in the due to short grazing conditions. Home gardening activities are increasing.

EAST: Most of the area has good moisture, but grass and forest fires have been a serious problem. Pastures remain in fair to poor shape so livestock feeding continues. Farmers are liming and fertilizing pastures where moisture is adequate. Calving is active. Land preparation continues along with planting of cool-season vegetables. Some peach trees are in the pink bud stage due to the recent warm weather.

UPPER COAST: Farmers continue to get cropland in shape for spring planting, and a few have started planting corn and grain sorghum. Soil moisture is getting short in some locations. Pastures and ranges are starting to green up with the warm weather, but some cattle feeding continues. Vegetable gardening is increasing.

Bare-root roses are an excellent buy and now is the time to plant them. It is a good idea to immerse entire plant in water for several hours to be certain all comes and roots are plumped up. Be sure to make holes large enough to spread out roots without bending or cutting back. Set plant in hole so that bud union ("knob" from which stems grow) is just above soil level. Use a root stimulator and soil conditioner in the hole. After you have planted a rose and watered it well, mound soil, damp past moss or sawdust over bud union and around bases to conserve moisture. Gradually remove it when leaves begin to expand. To protect new roses from hot spring winds it is wise to place a protective wrap, such as plastic or cardboard around the plant, leaving the top open so that the plant will receive full sun.

Choose fruit trees with care

DON RICHARDSON
County Agent

Consider the selection, planting and care of a fruit tree as an investment. Because it will be a long-term investment, the variety should be well adapted to the area. Unfortunately, not all fruit tree varieties sold are adapted to our area. Remember that buyer demand generates seller supply. If buyers demand a fruit variety, even though it does not produce well locally, a seller will stock that variety to satisfy customers.

Tradition usually determines what people buy. When most people think of grapes, they think of Concord or Thompson Seedless. They think of Bartlett pears and Red Delicious apples. Everyone has eaten Elberta peaches — or were they?

Many people fail to realize that there are hundreds of varieties of each kind of fruit. Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station personnel are constantly testing the many varieties to evaluate their potential in various areas. This is quite a job since each variety may perform differently in each location. Remember, Texas is a big state with several climates.

How can a change in climate affect something as tough as a fruit tree? Many fruit trees have what scientists call a "rest period." This is a natural period of inactivity for the plant caused by chemical growth factors. During this rest period most plants will not grow regardless of weather conditions. Not all varieties of peach (or plum, apple, pear or apricot) have the same rest period requirement.

Have you ever purchased a peach tree with a short rest period and had it bloom in the winter? Unfortunately, if a homeowner in our area of Texas purchases such a tree, the rest requirement can be fulfilled early in the winter, and the tree will start growing during warm spells in midwinter. This results in reduced fruit production since blooms are killed and the tree may eventually die.

The Rio Grande peach requires only around 450 hours of temperatures below 45 degrees F before the tree will "leaf out" properly in the spring. The Rio Grande variety of peach would very likely bloom during a warm spell of February or March in West Texas. The blooms or immature fruit would almost certainly be killed by a late frost. For this reason, The Rio Grande peach is not recommended for West Texas.

Now is the time to start selecting fruit trees for your yard. A fruit tree can add beauty to your spring landscape, cooling shade in the summer, and colorful fall foliage while adding nutritious fruit to your dining table. Plant now to enjoy the fruits of your labor. Some varieties of fruit you may want to try are listed. Remember that all fruit trees respond to good management programs composed of pest management, proper water applications, fertilization and pruning.

Recommended varieties for our area:

Peaches: Ranger, Springgold, Redglobe, Jefferson, Sentinel, Loring, Dixiland, Redskin, Frank, Allam and June Gold.
Pear: Orient, Keiffer, Ayers, Moonlow, LeConte and Garber.
Plum: Methley, Bruce, Morris, Ozark Premier and Santa Rosa.
Fig: Celeste and Texas Everbearing.
Apples: Red Chief, Jerseymac, Holland, Starkspur Golden Delicious, Mollie's Delicious and Ozark Gold.
Grapes: Ruby Seedless, Flame Seedless, French Colombard, Chenin Blanc, Barbera, Ruby Cabernet, Emerald Riesling and Thompson Seedless.
Apricot: Moor Park and Tilton.

Social Security panel 'unshackled'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of President Reagan's advisory commission on Social Security said Saturday that the panel is "free and unshackled" to consider any solution to the system's fiscal problems — even those opposed by the administration.

Alan Greenspan, who chairs the National Commission on Social Security Reform, warned, however, that "it's not going to be easy to reach a consensus which will be sufficiently broad to carry the nation with us."

Reagan stayed away from the panel's initial meeting Saturday to avoid giving a mission to the commission's work, said deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

But in a letter read by Greenspan, Reagan exhorted the 15-member panel to produce "a truly bipartisan solution to this great national problem" by the end of the year.

Reagan said there was "no more important domestic problem requiring resolution than restoring the integrity of Social Security ... without penalty to those dependent on the programs. Every American of every age has an important stake in the success of your work."

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., told his fellow panel members, "We may have to do something on a temporary basis in Congress this year with Social Security, notwithstanding the president's indication that we should not ... There are several proposals to freeze this and freeze that."

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., has proposed a freeze on all federal cost-of-living increases, including the one due 36 million Social Security beneficiaries in July, and other government spending as an alternative to Reagan's fiscal 1983 budget and its $91.5 billion deficit.

Asked if Reagan was opposed to a freeze on the cost-of-living increase, Speakes said, "We'd just have to wait and see if it comes to us and in what proposal."

Reagan created the commission after abandoning his own controversial Social Security proposals of last May that would have delayed cost-of-living increases and slashed early retirement, disability and all other benefits.

Reagan, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. each appointed five members to the commission, which includes business and labor leaders, seven members of Congress and two former lawmakers, including the most prominent Democratic critics of Reagan's Social Security policies and Republicans who have stoutly opposed using general revenue funds to bail out the dwindling old age trust fund.

PROVIDES PRINTOUTS — Dr. Robert Griffin, internist at Big Spring's Malone-Hogan Clinic, scans a 24-hour tape of a patient's heart activity with EKG technician Caroline Smith. This console, part of Malone-Hogan Clinic's new Holter Cardiology System, provides printouts of cardiac activity recorded by a light cassette recorder which accompanies a patient home for a 24-hour monitoring period. Recently added to the clinic's diagnostic equipment, the portable monitor enables physicians to pick up cardiac abnormalities which an electrocardiogram of shorter duration may not show.

Portable cardiac monitoring system added to med arsenal

"You can talk to a patient until you're blue in the face and not know what's behind his symptoms," said Malone-Hogan Clinic internist Dr. Robert Griffin of the common complaints he hears of heart flutters and palpitations.

A standard electrocardiogram (EKG) is of short duration and many times will show no indication of a suspected cardiac problem. For years the electrocardiogram was the physician's mainstay in diagnosing heart problems. It still is.

However, a new tool — the portable cardiac monitoring system — has been added to the physician's arsenal of diagnostic equipment.

Malone-Hogan Clinic recently purchased one of these devices, the Holter Cardiology System, according to Dr. Buerk Williams, president of the Malone-Hogan Clinic board of directors.

The 22-physician clinic has used heart monitoring systems for several years, but when superior technology became available the multi-specialty group decided to purchase the Holter monitor.

The device is used to follow heart function in hospitalized cardiac patients, but its prime value comes in letting a physician monitor persons on an outpatient basis, explained Griffin who is one of the six Malone-Hogan Clinic internists who use the Holter unit. The equipment permits monitoring of two patients daily.

"We are proud to have the Holter Cardiology System," said Dr. Griffin. "It provides us with a 24-hour EKG recording and is an invaluable aid in detecting abnormalities in heart rhythm like premature ventricular beats, tachycardias (i.e., fast heart rates), and heart blocks."

Griffin catalogued the many uses of the heart monitor. "We use it following acute myocardial infarction," he said.

Myocardial infarctions are heart attacks in which heart muscle dies. After such attacks physicians look in particular for heart irregularities like premature ventricular beats. The monitor can find them. Determining whether a patient's undiagnosed chest pain is cardiac in origin is a basic use of the monitor, according to Griffin.

"In patients complaining of palpitations or fast heart beat, we can use the monitor to detect the exact nature of the abnormality. The results help determine a course of treatment," the internist said.

Dizziness, fainting or seizures can be symptoms of cardiac malfunctions, according to Griffin. The monitor is an important aid in correlating these patient complaints to the heart malfunction that may be causing them.

Griffin said the monitor's other uses include detection of abnormal cardiac rhythms in patients with mitral valve prolapse and identification of coronary artery spasm, a condition which is now treatable with the new drug Procardia.

"The EKG technician is an important part of a cardiac monitoring program like this," said Griffin. The technician hooks up the patient and instructs him in use of the recorder. She also scans the completed 24-hour tape, making EKG printouts of abnormalities for the physician to evaluate.

Veteran EKG technicians Caroline Smith and Frances Pate of Malone-Hogan Clinic's internal medicine department prepare patients for cardiac monitoring and scan the resulting tapes. Cardiac monitoring was Mrs. Smith's exclusive duty at the Ft. Worth hospital where she was employed before joining Malone-Hogan Clinic in November.

Does it take 24 hours to read a patient's tape? "No," replied Mrs. Smith. She reported that the Holter unit can be set to scan continuous 30-second to 2-minute segments of heart activity. A cassette containing fairly normal heart activity will take Mrs. Smith about one hour to scan, while one with many abnormalities may take up to two hours.

A Big Spring patient whose heart was monitored recently explained that she was able to carry the heart monitor as easily as a shoulder bag. If she noticed any symptoms of cardiac problems, she was instructed to press a button that marks the tape. Then she was to record in a pocket diary the time shown on the recorder's digital clock, noting her symptom and her activity at the time the symptom occurred.

"I hardly noticed the monitor," the woman commented, "but I did faithfully record what I was doing throughout the day, so my doctor would have a good idea how various activities affected my heart."

"Persons wearing the monitor may feel somewhat 'bionic' at first," chuckled this patient. "When wearing the monitor, you have five small electrodes taped to your chest. It doesn't take long to forget they're there."

These five electrodes are attached to the recorder which holds a 24-hour cassette that documents heart activity over the course of an entire day. The Holter unit can be carried by a shoulder strap or attached to a belt.

"An important diagnostic tool for our area," is how Griffin summed up Malone-Hogan Clinic's new cardiac monitoring system.

Physicians are careful to point out that the Holter cardiography unit and systems like it do not replace standard electrocardiography. Electrocardiograms still provide a more complete short-term picture of heart activity because they can look at heart action from 12 angles instead of the two that a portable monitor uses.

Portable cardiac monitoring systems do, however, add new dimensions to the diagnosis and treatment of heart problems, according to Malone-Hogan Clinic physicians.

Tax & financial planning

TURNING OLD INTO NEW (And Saving Taxes)

Buildings do not qualify for the regular ten percent investment tax credit. However, if you renovate an old building, the new tax law allows investment credit that can turn an otherwise marginal project into an economically sound venture.

Briefly, here are the rules. Qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred after 1981 on nonresidential buildings are entitled to investment credit depending on the age of the building — 15 percent for structures at least 30 years old, 20 percent for structures at least 40 years old. A 25 percent credit is allowed for certified historic structures, and both residential and non-residential structures qualify. The expenditures must "substantially rehabilitate" the building; improvements in a two year period must exceed $5,000 or the adjusted basis (cost) of the property, whichever is greater. Those who lease property can qualify for the credit if the lease runs for at least 15 years after the work has been completed. Costs of acquiring an old building and costs of related expenditures, such as building a parking lot, are not eligible for the credit. The rehabilitation costs will provide a depreciation deduction as well as the credit; however, the amount subject to depreciation must be reduced by the allowable credit.

Suppose you put $50,000 into renovating a 40 year old building. The first year's depreciation deduction would be $4,800 which, depending on your tax bracket, could give you up to $2,400 in tax savings. Add that to the $10,000 investment credit and you have a first year tax savings of $12,400. The depreciation deductions over the following fourteen years could save as much as $17,600 in taxes. $30,000 or 60 percent of your $50,000 renovation costs would have been paid for by tax savings.

Before you start a remodeling project, discuss the tax advantages with your tax advisor.

Surprises promised by lawyers

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Claus von Bulow's lawyers promise "a few surprises" when they begin their defense Tuesday of the Danish-born financier charged with attempting to kill his wealthy socialite wife with insulin injections.

But they refuse to say whether the tall, balding von Bulow will take the witness stand in his own defense.

Among the surprises, according to lawyer Herald P. Fahringer, will be an explanation for the incriminating black bag containing an insulin-tainted hypodermic needle and drugs. They were found, according to testimony, among von Bulow's belongings a month after Martha "Sunny" von Bulow fell into a lasting coma.

The promise came from Fahringer four weeks ago when he outlined the defense case to the Superior Court jury which will decide whether von Bulow was responsible for comas his wife suffered on two separate occasions during Christmas visits to their Newport mansion in 1979 and 1980.

The first coma was brief. Mrs. von Bulow has been in a coma since December 1980 and is not expected to recover.

The state contends the 55-year-old von Bulow used insulin injections in an attempt to kill his 50-year-old wife so he could inherit half her $28 million estate and marry soap opera actress Alexandra Isles.

Big Spring(s) mentioned on TV's 'Dallas' thanks to librarian's tip

By JUDITH GRAY
County Librarian

Sometimes an exciting reference question is asked. Sometimes it pays to stay after closing and answer the telephone. It was true about a month or more ago. A gentleman representing a research firm in Los Angeles called for information about Big Spring State Hospital. He wanted to know the founding date and what cases were treated at the hospital.

He said, "I am doing research for Dallas. You know, the television show." Of course I know. Every Friday evening I join the legion of "Dallas" fans and see what J. R. is up to this week.

I called a good local source on our other telephone line, and quickly got the information. Then I relayed it to the L.A. researcher.

The next day, I told the library staff about the call. There were many conjectures. They continued with each weekly program. Would it be used this season? Who? J. R. was falling to pieces after his daddy's death, but he picked himself up and turned mean as ever. Was he going to get Sue Ellen committed so he could get John Ross back? Ray Krebs started falling apart. What about Pamela? What if she found out who Christopher's parents were—would it send her back into her illness?

Finally, the month of waiting and conjecture was over. The episode Friday night finally mentioned Big Spring. An "s" was added to the name, but there it was. If you saw the program, you know and I know how it came up as a subject, but we still don't know who was committed to the State Hospital. Will we find out next week? I am going to tune in and see.

Such events are what make library work rewarding and exciting. I enjoy reading. I enjoy helping people of all ages find books or recommending books. I enjoy demonstrating how the library has a place in their lives. Most of all, I love reference and research. I love a question that forces me to delve into my memory, to be imaginative and search out all the possible (and sometimes improbable) sources. There is great satisfaction in finding the information.

Blue Cross reports $36 million loss

DALLAS (AP) — The president of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Texas says the company's net operating loss of $36 million last year results partly from benefit payments and administrative overhead.

John D. Melton, commenting on the financial results released Friday, also cited management decisions, data processing conversions, premium ratings, inflation and "over-utilization of health services" as having contributed to the losses.

"I want our customers to understand, however, that we are not attempting to make up for losses for the past two years with our present rates," Melton said. "We are simply rating to assure there are no losses in

Anti-nuclear rally draws

TOKYO (AP) — Some 2,000 people attended an anti-nuclear rally Saturday at Shizuoka to mark the United States' first nuclear test on the Bikini Atoll in the Pacific Ocean on March 1, 1954.

At Yaizu, 12 miles west of Shizuoka and about 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, about 500 persons gathered before the grave of Aikichi Kuboyama, radio operator of the "Fukuryu Maru" (Lucky Dragon) tuna fishing trawler. He died Sept. 23, 1954, after being showered by radioactive dust from the test.

The Shizuoka rally adopted a resolution calling on the government to strictly observe Japan's principles of not possessing, making or introducing nuclear arms into the country. It also called on the government to encourage the total ban of nuclear arms and world disarmament at the United Nations.

Daves said that based on the information filed with his office, "we are satisfied as to the solvency of the company. Continued operations of the company do not appear hazardous to policyholders, certificate holders or the general public."

"Although Mr. Melton has announced a reduction of $15 million in the company's operating expenses for 1982, the key to the continued turn around in operations this year is the commitment on the part of doctors and hospitals in Texas in cooperating with the company's health care cost containment program," Daves said.

Company efforts to improve its statutory surplus position include selling its downtown Dallas office building, coinsuring a "substantial block" of its individual life business and reappraising its property in Richardson, Melton said.

In Austin, Chairman William Daves Jr. of the State Board of Insurance said the loss reported by Blue Cross-Blue Shield represented about 3 percent of the company's gross premium volume of $1 billion. The loss reported in 1980 represented about 5 percent of the company's $900 million premium volume, he said.

The $36 million loss for 1981 compares with a $45 million loss for 1980.

Melton said Blue Cross-Blue Shield last year returned to its members $927 million, or 96 cents of every health care dollar collected.

He also said the company's statutory surplus totaled $35.9 million as of Dec. 31.

Region V champ one step away from national tournament

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

The Region V basketball tournament. Howard College coach Don Stevens compares it to the national junior college tournament. Even better he says with anyone of six teams possessing enough talent to win it.

Dorothy Garrett Coliseum on the Howard College campus is the site of the four-day tournament beginning Sunday evening. The single elimination event progresses to the championship game Wednesday evening. Along the way to the final two, Stevens assures area fans will be treated to perhaps the best bit of basketball in the country.

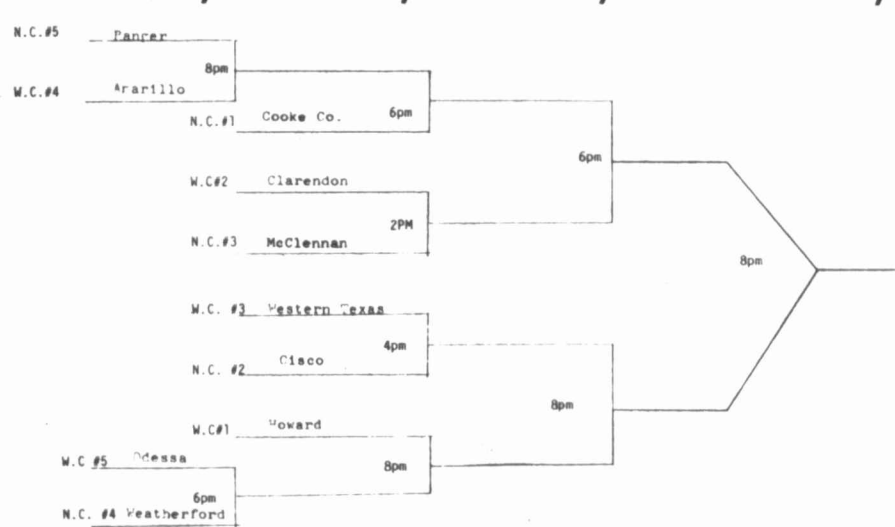

His Hawk Queens are the top seed among teams from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference. Clarendon, Western Texas, Amarillo and Odessa follow in that order...although Stevens says there really isn't any order—he's just as wary playing the Lady Wranglers of Odessa as he is planning a game against the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs.

A coin-flip decided the championship of the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference. Cisco and Cooke County tied for first place and a toss of the coin gave the top seed to Cooke. McClennan of Waco, Weatherford and Ranger are the other three tournament participants from that league.

The winner of the Region V tournament advances to a bi-region playoff against the winner of Region IV. The team surviving that game can then fill the team bus with gas or make airline reservations for Kansas City, Kan., the site of this year's national tournament.

Amarillo won last year's Region V tournament and because it was a bi-region playoff year, advanced to the national tourney in Kansas City. Among the 16 finalists, the Lady Bulldogs finished sixth.

Don Stevens has taken three Howard College teams to the tournament finals in his six years as coach of the Hawk Queens. His luck has run out at that point, however, and with a team he calls his best yet, he hopes to find a place in his office for the championship trophy this year.

A few months ago, winning the Region V title was the last thing on Stevens' mind. He had a young team with immense talent. Things looked good but his team struggled to a 2-5 start.

"Our season got off to a dismal start," he recalled. "There was frustration on the team, frustration with the coach. It wasn't dissention but everyone knew we should be playing better. We had freshmen at key positions and they were playing good but it wasn't fitting together."

He doesn't remember if any one particular game turned things around for the Queens but like the light bulb that suddenly brightens, so did the season for the Hawk Queens.

Howard leveled its record at 6-6 around the Christmas break and like a New Year's resolution, the Queens began 1982 hoping not to lose another game. They didn't—for 15 games—before Clarendon nipped the Queens by two points last week in Clarendon. The winning streak included eight straight conference wins and took the Queens to first place in the league race.

"We were squeaking by teams we should have been really beating," Stevens says. "Then it seemed like a light bulb came on. The winning streak was never mentioned and never talked about in the locker room. Other people were talking about it and the team picked it up from there."

Stevens credits the rise to success to a blending of talent and good play from all his players. When a starter had trouble on the court, such as falling into a shooting slump, Stevens would call for help on the bench. The competition for those five starting positions proved to be a motivation key for the Hawk Queens.

Not only is Stevens pleased with the way his young players knitted together to form a well-seamed unit, his squad did so with great success in a league that has improved each year with hardly any difference between each school.

"The conference seems to improve each year," he said. "I consider it an immense feat to go through conference with a 10 record."

Who will win the tournament? "There are six to eight teams that can win it," shrugs Stevens. "The team that plays the smartest, stays out of foul trouble and the most consistent will win it. There are a lot of big stars in this region...if they get foul trouble, it can hurt their teams."

The tournament bounces off to a good start Sunday when Odessa and Weatherford meet at 6 p.m. with Ranger and Amarillo squaring off at 8 p.m. Howard College is the winner of the late game at 8 p.m. Monday. Cooke County tests the winner of the early game at 6 p.m. Monday.

Hawk Queens coach Don Stevens has sights set on taking his team to the national tournament for first time Play Ball!

New-look Steers lineup ready to take diamond

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

"Play ball!" That's the theme for Tuesday at the Big Spring High diamond when the Steers break out the bats and gloves to open the 1982 baseball season against Lameza.

Coach Fran Ibarra welcomes three returning starters from last year's 13-13 team and has brought up a batting cage full of top prospects from the junior varsity team. The combination should give the Steers a good shot at the District 5-AAAA title when Big Spring opens league play in Abilene March 23 against the pre-season favorites Abilene High Eagles.

Back on the mound is righthander Domingo Rubio. The senior hurler used to rely mostly on his "junk" but has worked on his curveball and fastball to become a more complete pitcher. He will be the veteran on a staff that is now the biggest question mark in Ibarra's mind.

It's not that he doesn't have the arms but more a decision of which arms will be in the starting rotation. He has senior lefthander Oscar Limon, senior righthander Tony Ontiveros, junior lefthander Jinx Valenzuela, junior lefthander Tom Cudd and junior righthander Adam Rodriguez to choose from.

Ibarra plans to use the non-district games and tournament outings to take long, hard looks at these pitchers. By the time district play begins, he hopes to have a set group of hurlers.

Returning is the right side of the Steer infield with Tom Olague at first and Marcus Armendariz at second. Olague slipped to a .289 season last year after a .310 year as a sophomore but Ibarra is confident he will have his stick back this season.

Armendariz is a solid .270 hitter and works well with Olague.

There are six to eight teams that can win it.

— Coach Don Stevens

As Don Stevens sees 'em---

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Coach Don Stevens of Howard College thinks any of six to eight teams can win the Region V women's basketball tournament. That list includes his Hawk Queens who won the Western Junior College Athletic Conference and are the top seed among teams from that league.

Looking at his competition, Stevens sees no good teams represented at the Region V tournament there may be at the national tournament in Kansas City. As Stevens sees 'em...

Northern Junior College Athletic Conference

Cooke County Lions (28-6, 14-2), Gainesville — "I haven't seen Cooke play but I understand they have a real good inside girl (6-1 freshman Kay Erown) to along with their great player Dee Dee Polk. She is out assists like biscuits. She is truly a great player."

Cooke is third in the nation in team scoring with most 87 points a game... Polk is fourth individual with 28 points a game while Brown adds 20 each contest. Lions won top seed in tournament by virtue of coming over Cisco... lost by six points to Cisco Thursday all into first place tie.

Cisco Lady Wranglers (22-9, 14-2), Cisco — "They are playing now as good as they ever have and they weren't playing bad early in the season. Their post Peggie Taylor is a great player and they have a great outside shooting guard (Sherrille Hill) from Hedley. Those are their two principal players. They are very quick."

Cisco stopped the Hawk Queens by four points in Cisco but the Lady Wrangler forfeited a game at Dorothy Garrett... Lady Wrangler lost to Cooke, by two, and McClennan early in the conference race and then finished league play with a long string of wins.

McLennan High Lassies (21-8, 12-4), Waco — "The McLennan-Clarendon game will be one heck of a battle. McLennan is very quick and runs an excellent press defense. That's the same type of team Clarendon is. It will be like playing in a mirror. It's liable to be very high scoring."

Sophomore guard Jackie Jones is another player to watch with 16 points a game... Felise Lewis gets 13 more, playing at small forward.

6f2 Coyotes (N.A., 11-5), Weatherford — "We beat Weatherford by 15 points in our Classic. They have an all-American candidate in Kay Cole. She was nominated last year and should deservedly be nominated again this year."

Swimmers qualify for regional meet

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — Coach Harlan Smith wasn't totally happy with the way things went at the Mabey Memorial Swim Center here Saturday afternoon. He was encouraged, however, at the way his swim program at Big Spring High School is progressing.

Big Spring swam to a fifth place finish in the boys division while the girls finished behind the other seven District 5-AAAAA teams at the district meet held by the City of Midland. Midland High won both boys and girls divisions.

The big highlight of the day for Smith was the performance of his 200 medley relay team. Goggle to goggle with Midland after the fly, breast and backstrokes, Big Spring slipped on the freestyle leg but managed to splash to a second place finish in 1:49.73. That was almost four seconds better than the time registered in Friday's preliminaries.

Midland took the gold in 1:48.18.

Todd Loyd also qualified for the regional swim meet March 12-13 in Lubbock with a third place finish in the 100 yard breaststroke. Loyd was timed in 1:06.59 and was barely nipped for the silver medal by Pat Ramey of Midland who was recorded in 1:06.53.

Snakes, kids and Crazy Ray

It wasn't your basic interview.

Cornering Crazy Ray of the Dallas Cowboys Saturday morning, we talked for 20 minutes about snakes while he chomped on liver and onions. Not snakes, now. Snakes. As in black mambas, cobras, rattlers and cottonmouths.

Unlike our hero Indiana Jones in Raiders of the Lost Ark, Crazy Ray has little fear of those slimy creatures that usually fill a body full of poison when they sink their teeth into a victim. Actually, snakes aren't slimy—but I haven't been close enough yet to check, thank you—and they don't have teeth. No local dentist I checked with has removed any molars from these guys.

After relating his experiences with snakes—walking through a floorful of them somewhere in Oklahoma for example, Ray poured out his life story. One thing he isn't crazy. It's a lot better leading cheers for American's Team than it is shining shoes in depths of downtown Dallas.

After doing some time in the military in the Far East—he found some snakes out there too, Ray returned to Dallas where he made his glistening up shoes. A humble way of existence to be sure and Ray soon found another way to pick up some extra bucks. He sold pennants and assorted treasures at the local football games, especially those at the Cotton Bowl. His big days were Southwest Conference games, the annual Texas-Oklahoma brawl and the State Fair of Texas.

That wasn't too bad. He got in free, didn't he? The only problem he says, he was so bashful, he only made a dozen or less sales a game.

Not good, said the people wanting to get rid of the souvenir merchandise. Ray thought about what he could do to increase his share of the pond stumbled upon that old adage, "actions speak louder than words."

Not being too fond of speech, Ray decided to get people to look his way by wearing a strange costume and making a few strange whistles. That ought to do it, he reasoned.

Suddenly he was a big hit. His sales shot up and people began looking for this guy in the weird get-up. Even the vision folks were interested and would zoom their lens in his direction. National exposure. Good for business.

When the Cowboys came to town Ray became a fixture in blue and white. "I had a different costume for every game," he recalls, and when the Cowboys traded in the Cotton Bowl for Texas Stadium, he took his act uptown.

"Then I got seven suits, each a different style and color. And I've been going ever since," he added.

If you remember the old day—when Don Meredith was just a kid—you may recall Ray's giant hat with the faucet on front. The faucet did produce anything—at first—but Ray got it to pour later. Next came a little bourbon and Ray surprised more than a few folks in the stands with a quick sip between quarters.

Crazy Ray began dressing up show. He started stomping on opponent's pennants, fling the crowd to cheer for the Cowboys and other ant. He eventually added his stick horse. But no need to.

Ray has survived the poppy boom of the Cowboys cheerleaders. He has no confon with them, while the kids love his sown, their dad entertained by the leggy bunch.

"I love kids. I like to keep happy... you know people need to laugh sometime," Ray says sincerely.

Incidentally, Crazy Ray, where did you get that nickname?

"People ask me, 'Why do you want to be called crazy?' You're not crazy." And I say to them "You don't know me very well. My wife thinks I am."

Actually he got the name from his days as the mascot of the Dallas Tornadoes soccer team. "They've called me Birdman, Whistling Horse and Crazy. Anyway, Crazy is easier to write than Whistlin'."

Ray travels all over the country promoting goodwill and the Cowboys. He's been to Canada and is planning a trip to Japan soon. Everywhere he goes he finds Cowboys fans but he doesn't go with the team to opposing stadiums much anymore. "A lot of people don't like it. They are rude to you in Washington. I've had two guns stolen and my hats and vest pulled off."

Still, it's been a good life. Crazy Ray has been with Dallas for 23 years and missed just one game. "One home game, I went fishing and didn't get back in time. Another game I was late in traffic and everybody was going, 'Where's Crazy Ray?'"

"When I got there, Pat Summerall said I just got out of jail for getting drunk," he continued, "People started writing in and ooh..."

He added that Summerall and Tom Brookshire are good friends of his and even though others told him to sue, he didn't take the bait.

After all, Crazy Ray isn't in this for the money. He's a happy man with making others happy. Nothing crazy about that.

Wonder if he makes snakes happy?

SAY HEY CRAZY RAY — Crazy Ray and Jamie Hinojos play a Dallas Cowboys version of patty-cake Saturday at Highland Shopping Mall. Ray was a big hit with the kids, autographing pictures and making people and things out of balloons. Jamie is the daughter of Jamie Hinojos.

Mavs trip up Rockets by 3

DALLAS (AP) — Rookie Mark Aguirre hit a 12-foot jump shot to send the game into overtime, then hit the winning basket with two minutes left in the extra period as the Dallas Mavericks beat the Houston Rockets 108-105 in Saturday night National Basketball Association play.

Houston, the league's hottest team in February with an 11-3 record, had won nine straight games from Dallas before Saturday's game. The Rockets squandered a 15-point third quarter lead and went the final 10:17 of the contest without scoring a field goal.

Moses Malone, the game's high scorer with 44 points, missed a jumper at the buzzer that would have won it in regulation for Houston. But Aguirre's bucket with 17 seconds left knotted the score at 101.

Houston's last field goal came with 5:17 left in regulation, a bucket by Major Jones that gave the Rockets a temporary eight-point lead, 97-89.

Allan Bristow then made consecutive layups to open the overtime period for Dallas. Houston's only points in the extra period were free throws by Elvin Hayes and Robert Reid.

Mavericks guard Jim Spanakel hit a free throw with three seconds left for the final margin.

Jay Vincent led Dallas with 23 points.

Malone pulled down 16 rebounds. Hayes had 13 points and Reid 18 for the Rockets.

Wayne Cooper and Rolando Blackman had 18 each for Dallas.

Swimmers take medals

Speight Grimes was sixth in the 100 backstroke in 1:07.28 to qualify for regionals, lowering his Friday time 1:09.37.

Lloyd was sixth in the 100 fly in 1:00.96 and Chris Batlor was sixth in 100 freestyle in 54.22, also lowering his time.

The girls 400 freestyle relay team qualified for Lubbock 4:30.93, almost four seconds better than Friday's timing of 4:34.89. That was good for fifth place ahead of Lane High.

The boys relay knocked off almost five seconds in swimming to a 3:46.95 and fifth place finish ahead of Midland 4:00.00.

Permian won the boys 400 relay in 3:29.86 while Midland took the girls in 4:01.58.

Finals qualifiers for Big Spring were Paula Wisen in the 200 freestyle and Rita Fleckenstein in the 500. Willadsen was eighth in 2:25.59 while Fleckenstein was eighth in 29.23 in her event.

"I can't complain ... the kids did a super job," Smith said after the meet. "They all dropped their times. The meet was really tight this year."

A pleasant surprise was the medley relay finishing second dropping four seconds on their time. Also the free relay coming in fifth ... we have never had one in the six before."

Final totals — Girls: Midland High 103, Midland Lee 60, San Angelo Central 36, Permian 25, Abilene Cooper 24, Abilene High 17, Odessa 14, and Big Spring 4.

Final totals — Boys: Midland 60, San Angelo Central 55, Permian 52, Abilene Cooper 37, Abilene High 22, Big Spring 21, Midland Lee 20, Odessa 19.

Steers learning

Competing for the starting job at shortstop is senior Blake Rosson and David Anguiano, a junior. Rosson hit the ball from the designated hitter's position last year and his bat is his strong point.

Third base is up for grabs between junior Adam Rodriguez and senior Tony Ontiveros. Ontiveros has a strong gun at third while Rodriguez has a great glove and no fear of the ball. It will be a tough decision for Ibarra.

Tracy Spence is in leftfield with Limon roaming in center if he isn't on the mound. He'll also be in the leadoff position when the Steers are at bat.

"He's our best defensive outfielder. He has the speed and the arm and covers a lot of ground," says Ibarra.

Rightfield is a battle between James Walker, a senior, and Cudd. Walker has a tremendous speed but is still learning his territory while Cudd is strong defensively. "Both hit the ball real well," adds Ibarra.

The catcher's job goes to sophomore Marty Rodriguez who took over as a freshman last year. "He has a real strong arm ... could be the strongest in the district," Ibarra reports.

Other members of the Steers roster are Danny Stephen, a junior catcher and outfielder; Alan Trevino, a junior outfielder; and Matt Warren, a junior second baseman.

In addition to deciding on his pitchers, Ibarra is working hard with his defense. Although the team has been on the diamond for less than a month, Ibarra hopes to see more consistency and a reduction in errors.

Steers strengths are good depth and hitting. "We should be able to hit the ball well, we have so far in practice," Ibarra says.

To prepare for district, Ibarra has put together a very tough non-league slate of games.

After opening with Lamesa Tuesday, Big Spring plays Monterey in Lubbock and then hosts Monterey here Thursday. Monterey is the defending state champions and always a baseball powerhouse.

Big Spring plays in two tournaments, the first in Odessa next weekend and another in Abilene the following weekend.

Weekday district games are played at 4 p.m. with Saturday league contests slated for 2 p.m.

Congratulations!

Now here's something to get upset about!

Not a good Saturday for top 10 college basketball teams

TO THE VICTOR — University of Maryland head coach Lefty Driesell gives the victory sign after Maryland beat number one ranked Virginia, 47-46 in overtime, Saturday at the Cole Field House in College Park, Md. Art Tirchert, an usher at the field house, gets ready to congratulate Driesell after the victory.

Upset!

Maryland 47, Virginia 46

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Adrian Branch scored the last of his 29 points on a jumper from the foul line with one second left in overtime as Maryland defeated top-ranked Virginia 47-46 Saturday.

The loss ended a 15-game winning streak for the Cavaliers, 27-2 overall and 12-2 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Terps, who had lost in overtime to Virginia earlier this season, forced the extra period Saturday when Herman Veal sank a field goal as time ran out in regulation.

Jeff Adkins sank the front end of a one-and-one foul situation to give Maryland a 45-44 lead with 4:33 remaining in overtime.

Ralph Sampson — Virginia's 7-foot-4 center, who was held to one field goal — then sank two free throws with 4:10 left to put the Cavaliers back on top 46-45.

Maryland held the ball the rest of the way before the winning shot by Branch. The Cavaliers argued that they had called time out, but after officials conferred, the game was declared over.

Branch scored 18 of Maryland's 24 points after the Terps had taken a 23-21 halftime lead. Craig Robinson led Virginia with 11 points, while Sampson and Jeff Jones had eight apiece.

Oregon St. 45, Southern Cal 36

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Lester Conner made the key plays down the stretch Saturday as fourth-ranked Oregon State came from eight points behind to defeat Southern Cal 45-36, clinching its third straight Pacific-10 Conference basketball title.

The Trojans built a 23-15 advantage 13 minutes into the first half and were on top 26-21 at halftime. But Southern Cal managed only six points in the first 19 minutes of the second half and failed to score during a 10-minute stretch while the Beavers built a 41-32 lead.

Conner had two steals during the Beaver surge. His backcourt steal and three-point play gave Oregon State a 36-32 advantage with 10 minutes to go.

Oregon State, 15-1 in the conference and 22-3 overall, was paced by Charlie Sittion, who scored 12 points. A.C. Green added 10 points and Conner nine.

Maurice Williams scored eight points to lead the Trojans, who fell to 11-5 and 17-8.

Upset!

Rutgers 74, West Virginia 64

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Kevin Black scored a team-high 18 points Saturday to lead Rutgers to a 74-64 upset victory over sixth-ranked West Virginia, ending the Mountaineers' 23-game winning streak, the longest in the nation.

Rutgers improved its overall record to 18-8 and 9-5 in the Eastern Eight, while the Mountaineers dropped to 24-2 and 13-1.

Joining Black in double figures for the Knights were Clarence Tillman with 15 points, Brian Ellerbe with 13, and Chris Nieberlein with 10. Reserve Darius Griffin came off the bench to add nine.

With 4:57 left in the game, the Mountaineers closed within 52-50 on a jumper by Greg Jones. But Rutgers took over, scoring 10 of the next 12 points to grab a 62-52 lead with 2:18 remaining, and then running off 10 of the next 16 points.

Both teams came out hot in the second half as West Virginia tried to reduce a 26-20 Rutgers' halftime lead. Nieberlein gave Rutgers an 8-point lead on a 3-point play, 34-26, with 16:55 left. Jones, who scored 15 points, and Phil Collins, who scored 12, answered for the Mountaineers, making the score 34-30 with 16:19 left.

Upset!

LSU 94, Kentucky 78

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Derrick Taylor, Stafford Johnson and Howard Carter combined for 72 points and Louisiana

State ran off 21 straight points in the first half to jolt No. 7 Kentucky 94-78 Saturday.

The loss knocked the Wildcats out of the co-lead in the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky went into the game tied with Tennessee for the SEC lead and needed a victory to gain at least a share of the title.

Kentucky led 23-20 with 8:43 to play in the first half when LSU went on its scoring binge. Taylor scored seven, Taylor six, and Johnson a pair of three-point plays in the run, as LSU boosted its lead to 41-23 with 2:45 left in the half.

LSU went ahead by 35 in the first eight minutes of the second half, and Kentucky never came closer than the final margin.

Carter finished with 29, Taylor 24, and Johnson a career-high 19 plus 10 rebounds in a reserve role. In ending a five-game losing streak, LSU built its record to 11-7 in the SEC and 14-12 overall.

Derrick Hord led Kentucky with 24, Chuck Verderber chipped in with 14, and Jime Master added 11. Kentucky fell to 13-5 in the SEC and 20-6 overall.

Upset!

Bradley 82, Tulsa 79

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Bradley used clutch free throws in overtime to edge eighth-ranked Tulsa 82-79 Saturday and win its second Missouri Valley Conference regular season basketball championship in three years.

The victory boosted the Braves' season record to 20-9 with 13-3 in the conference.

The Golden Hurricane bowed out at 21-5 and 12-4.

Bradley connected on nine of 11 free throws in overtime, including two by Mitchell Anderson with two seconds left to clinch the victory.

Kerry Cook, who attempted only nine free throws all season, hit two with eight seconds left in overtime to put Bradley ahead 80-77.

Leading Bradley's scoring was Voice Winters with 18 points. Steve Harris topped Tulsa with 22.

Bradley took a 37-31 halftime lead as Winters got 10 points.

Tulsa stormed to a 59-55 lead with 8:16 left. But Bradley rallied and David Thirskill's 20-foot jump shot in the final 39 seconds knotted the score 67-67 and sent the game into overtime.

Ark. Little Rock 67, Hardin-Simmons 55

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Vaughan Williams scored 18 points to lead Arkansas-Little Rock as it clinched its first Trans America Athletic Conference regular season basketball crown Saturday night with a 67-55 win over Hardin-Simmons.

The Trojans, now 18-7 on the season and 11-4 in conference play, also got 17 points from Jimmy Lampley and 16 from Dexter Young.

Miguel Tipton led Hardin-Simmons with 26 points as the Cowboys fell to 6-20 on the season and 2-14 in conference play.

Stadler putters around to lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Struggling Craig Stadler dropped a critical 40-foot putt to bogey the final hole and salvage a 73 that left him in sole control of the lead Saturday in the third round of the $300,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

Stadler, who also led the first and second rounds, had to make a remarkable turnaround to retain the top spot at 208. He was eight shots under par on the windswept, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

A single stroke back at 209 were Jerry Pate, Andy Bean and Mike Nicolette. Pate shot a 69 in the gusty winds, Bean matched par 72 and the longshot Nicolette, who said he's "only looking to finish in the top 20," had a 71.

Jack Nicklaus, who once shared the lead after a birdie-birdie start, Scott Hoch and Cal Peete were at 210. Peete shot a 70, Hoch 71 and Nicklaus a 72.

"It was very erratic," Nicklaus said. "I just didn't play well at all. I guess you could say my golf game was on vacation."

Ray Floyd, winner of this event the last two years, had a 75 and was at par 216. Lee Trevino had 75-221.

The chunky Stadler, a two-stroke leader when play started, immediately encountered difficulties, going 4-over par after six holes.

That opened the gates for a flock of challengers, and Bean, Nicklaus, Nicolette and Pate all shared the lead at one time or another. But, one by one, they began dropping back, and Stadler regained his composure.

He got back to even par for the day with a mammoth, 80-90 foot birdie putt on the 17th hole.

Then he faced the pivotal 18th, a water-guarded, 437-yard par-4 that Stadler called "the toughest finishing hole on the tour."

His assessment proved correct. Of the seven men atop the standings, only Peete and Nicolette were able to make par. The other five — Nicklaus, Bean, Pate, Stadler and Hoch — all had bogeys. Pate dumped his third in a bunker. Nicklaus made a remarkable recovery from shallow water, then blew a 5-6 foot par-saving putt. Bean 3-putted. It was a golfing horror show.

And Stadler had the toughest row of them all.

It took him four to reach the green and he was staring straight into the face of a disastrous double bogey-6 which would have cost him sole control of the lead. But he made the 40-foot bogey putt — the fifth time in three days he's scored from that distance or more — and salvaged the top spot.

"I could have gone for a very high number after that start," Stadler said. "Those two putts at the end, 80 or 90 feet for birdie on the 17th and the 40-footer for bogey on the last, that kind of turned things around."

North Carolina 84, Duke 60

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — No. 2 North Carolina endured a 45-minute power outage and, behind James Worthy's 20 points, turned the lights out on Duke 84-66 in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball Saturday.

The victory enabled the Tar Heels to tie Virginia for the conference championship at 12-2 after No. 1 Virginia was upset by Maryland 47-46.

The lights went out on both clubs after 1:34 when a power outage struck the south portion of the University of North Carolina campus.

Worthy scored 16 of his points as the 24-2 Tar Heels rushed to a 42-17 halftime lead. Matt Doherty, who was four-for-four from the floor, and senior Chris Brust each added eight first-half points.

The Tar Heels led by as much as 40-12 after Worthy slammed a dunk over Duke's Jay Bryan and added the free throw.

Worthy was supported by Sam Perkins with 12 points, Doherty and Michael Jordan with 11 each and Brust and Jimmy Black, who contributed 10 each.

Duke, which closed out its regular season at 10-16, 4-10 in ACC play, was led by Vince Taylor's 22 points and Chip Engelland with 20.

Unkown wins marathon

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 22-year-old worker running in only his third marathon and a 32-year-old Rowlett woman were the winners at Saturday's annual Cowtown Marathon, which attracted an estimated total of 7,000 participants.

Ricky Cox of Fort Worth finished first in the 26.2-mile race in two hours, 22 minutes and 30 seconds, 2:17 short of the record.

And Sue Moen was the first woman across the finish line in a time of 2:51:06, beating the women's record of 2:59:31, set in 1980 by Cinda Adams of Waco.

Parker not a Ranger

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Pittsburgh outfielder Dave Parker will not be traded to Texas this season, or any other, according to the Rangers' owner.

"The Parker 'thing' is totally dead," said majority stockholder Eddie Chiles. He had been asked about a trade that would send Ranger outfielders Al Oliver and John Grubb plus pitcher Danny Darwin to the Pirates for Parker and first baseman Jason Thompson.

"It will not come up again. I can promise you that. Neither will any trade involving Danny Darwin or Al Oliver," Chiles added from his oil company offices here.

At the Rangers' training camp in Pompano Beach, Fla., Texas vice president Eddie Robinson had told reporters earlier, "Parker is just the guy we need."

And Ranger manager Don Zimmer chimed in, "I'd love to have Parker."

However, Chiles slammed on the brakes when he learned that Parker's annual salary, through various incentive clauses, could exceed $1 million.

Stevens wary of teams

She's from Brock and they're always a strong basketball school. She plays all over the court but is basically a wing. They need the good post player, though.

The Coyotes were the Northern conference favorites but didn't play well early in the league and that cost them the title.

Ranger Range Anns (8-20, 8-8), Ranger — "We beat Ranger twice and they shouldn't be one of the strong teams. They have a good coach in Ron Butler."

The Ranger Anns have a balanced scoring attack... use both man and zone defense and will press occasionally.

Odessa Lady Wranglers (19-10, 5-6), Odessa — "Odessa is as capable of winning this thing as anybody. They are again a difficult team to figure out."

Bebe McBride is third in the WJAC conference in scoring with 19 points a game and gets 11 missed shots... she also is tops in steals... Odessa is second in the league behind Howard in team defense and second behind Clarendon in team shooting percentage.

Western Junior College Athletic Conference

Clarendon Lady Bulldogs (19-6, 8-4), Clarendon — "Clarendon scares me more than any team in the tournament. They may be the best team in the country right now. Rather play anyone else. We can't match up against them, you can't zone them and if you get in a man-to-man, then you're really in trouble."

The Lady Bulldogs are led by Cassandra Crumpton who recently moved ahead of Howard's Nell Haskins in the league individual scoring race with nearly 23 points a game. She also leads the WJAC in rebounding with 14 each game... Lady Bulldogs are second in team offense and tops in field goal percentage.

Western Texas Dusters (23-6, 8-4), Snyder — "Western Texas has a very good ball team but they've also had a great deal of luck against us. We lost to Western Texas the first week in December in Snyder by nine points. We got behind and had to foul. Western won 70-69 in the Hawk Queen College Classic game in November."

Vickie Teal of the Dusters is among the top scorers in the conference with 17 points a game... she also gets nine rebounds each outing and is second in free throw shooting percentage... the Dusters are tops in team offense and second in free throw shooting.

Amarillo Lady Badgers (16-13, 7-5), Amarillo — "Amarillo is a difficult team to figure. I think consistency has gotten them in trouble this year. I can't believe Amarillo has lost 13 games. They're as good as anybody around. You never can figure what is going to happen when you play them. The last time we played, we could've gone all night."

Kelly Richardson is the sparkplug for the Lady Badgers, getting 17 points a game... Mitzi Marquart adds 14 as well as handing out 7.5 assists... Amarillo is third in team scoring and third in free throw.

Pair found innocent

HIGHLAND PARK, Texas (AP) — Two runners have been cleared of charges they jogged in a street of this affluent Dallas suburb.

Mark Kendrick, 30, and Susan Sanders, 38, were ticketed Feb. 12 for crossing a street under a new ordinance prohibiting jogging in a roadway.

The pair contended they were crossing the street to avoid a dog.

Judge Pat Robertson found them innocent Friday, saying they "have a perfect right to cross the street to avoid being attacked by a dog."

Officers have given $15 fines to 13 people in the last three weeks for violating a state code that prohibits pedestrians from walking in the street. Highland Park adopted the law in 1967.

For years "officers didn't do anything about it until we started getting complaints from motorists," said Police Chief Henry Gardner. "We started warning and warning people, but occasionally we'd have an injury because of jogging. We were trying to get compliance without tickets."

About a month ago, a jogger running in the street was injured seriously when she was hit by a car.

Kendrick and Ms. Sanders said they believe they were singled out from other joggers the day they were ticketed because they don't live in Highland Park.

"That's the first question (the officer) asked us, if we were residents," Ms. Sanders said.

Texas cotton farmers to get $200 million

COLLEGE STATION — Texas cotton farmers will be getting almost $200 million in deficiency payments for their 1981 Upland cotton crop because of poor market prices.

The payments are part of an estimated $530 million to be paid to cotton farmers across the U.S. Texas farmers normally produce 35 to 40 percent of the nation's Upland cotton.

"This is the first time ever for cotton farmers to receive deficiency payments," points out Dr. Carl Anderson, cotton marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The framework for deficiency payments was set up by farm legislation in 1974," notes Anderson. "But it had not been necessary to issue deficiency payments until the 1981 crop when a record world crop and weak demand drove cotton prices below target (support) prices."

U.S. cotton farmers received an average price of 63.20 cents a pound during the 1981 market year compared to the target price of 70.87 cents per pound. That means that eligible producers who reported their 1981 crop acreage and filed an application for payment will receive 7.67 cents a pound, says the economist.

"Payment will be based on last year's planted acreage multiplied by the payment yield for each farm as determined by the local ASCS office," explains Anderson.

Payments to growers who increased their 1981 acreage from the previous year will be reduced to reflect a 93 percent allocation factor, he adds.

Farmers will be receiving their payment checks through local ASCS offices as soon as possible.

Church urges end to martial law

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's Roman Catholic bishops, in their strongest statement since martial law was imposed, on Saturday urged the nation's Communist leaders to end military rule and begin a dialogue with Solidarity to avoid "catastrophe."

The statement, drafted at a two-day meeting of the episcopate that ended Friday, was the church's most forceful plea to date for reviving the only independent union in the Communist bloc, ending martial law and freeing some 4,000 people interned under military regulations.

"The situation in which the country and nation finds itself bears all the markings of a true moral, social and economic catastrophe," said the communique, which was distributed to Western correspondents.

"The bishops and all of society expect at the very earliest the lifting of martial law, the release of interned persons and the amnesty for those convicted of martial law offenses..."

"Those now in hiding should be allowed to come out safely and no one should be fired for membership in trade unions," the statement said.

The 60 bishops from across Poland, where 80 percent to 90 percent of the nation's 36 million people are Catholic, strongly endorsed renewed efforts by the authorities to talk to Solidarity officials, and called for a reactivation of youth organizations and suspended Catholic groups.

The statement by the bishops was their first since Archbishop Jozef Glemp, Poland's primate and frequent critic of martial law, returned two weeks ago from the Vatican where he met with Polish-born Pope John Paul II to discuss martial law.

The Polish authorities so far have failed to hold negotiations with the independent Solidarity trade union or its sequestered chief, Lech Walesa, and have served notice they intend to keep any future unions under strict control.

A Justice Ministry official bolstered this view Saturday, saying failure of unionists to follow the law could result in a court suspension of their activity and that any strikes would have to be preceded by a seven-day notice.

The Parliament, concluding a two-day session here Saturday, passed a host of measures on miners' and workers' pensions, and made minor personnel changes in the Cabinet of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who is Poland's premier, defense minister, martial law chief and Communist Party leader.

At its opening session Friday, the Parliament passed bills aimed at rescuing Poland's shattered economy from shortages of food and raw materials and a crippling foreign debt estimated at $28 billion.

Pinewood race lures big crowd

Cub Pack 305's double-header drew a record attendance at the First Baptist Church Thursday evening.

Approximately 150 parents and children turned out for the annual Pinewood Derby in the activities building, then adjourned to the fellowship hall for the traditional Blue and Gold banquet.

Twenty-eight boys had fashioned small racers with which they competed in the derby. Joe Juare was the winner, followed by Michael Roberts and then Tiger Crane. Top performers will participate in the district contest. Best looking car was entered by J.R. Gaitan.

At the banquet, Tiger Crane and Michael Roberts were inducted into the Webelos den; Jason Sauter received his Wolf badge, and Junior Garcia got two activity awards.

Cubmaster Glenn Pierce recognized the den mothers, headed by Barbara McQueary, for arranging the banquet, providing the decorations. They included Beth Tevis, Charlene Allmond, Linda Branderberg, Tony Hamby. Pierce introduced Kim Cornish as a new Webelos leader, recognized the derby judges, and announced plans for Scout Exposition ticket sales.

Dawn-to-dusk strike called

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — University students called a dawn-to-dusk general strike in the northeastern city of Agartala on Saturday to protest the death of a youth in police custody, the United News of India reported.

UNI said the strike shut down stores, offices and public buildings. Agartala, 200 miles northeast of Calcutta, is the capital of India's communist-ruled Tripura state.

Ely blast on stage

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There is no other way to describe Joe Ely's entrance — he blasts onto the stage. One second he's not there, the next second he is, his audience already in a shrieking fever before he's even opened his mouth.

In his red jacket, string tie and black patent-leather cowboy boots, he is a smaller, dark-haired reminiscence of late rock'n'roller Bill Haley.

The fans are on their feet. As if on cue, their hands become a spidery mass as they wave their spread fingers over their heads. They are pounding make-believe keyboards in response to one of Ely's showcase numbers, "Fingernails."

"I keep my fingernails long, so they CLICK when I play the pe-anna," he sings, barely audible above the throb of the boogie-woogie beat.

Ely is a small man, but he is in charismatic control, bobbing up and down over his guitar and striding back and forth across the stage.

It doesn't seem possible, but the tempo heats up even more when he begins firing the machine-gun lyrics of "Musta Notta Gotta Lotta," the title tune from his album that Time magazine named one of the top ten rock'n'roll recordings of 1981.

"Please understand me, everything's all right, 'I just musta notta gotta lotta sleep last night."

Ely has come a long way from the shy singer who in the early '70s asked an Austin club owner if he could play quietly in a corner for what he could get by passing the hat through the sparse crowd of drinkers.

Off-stage he is a shrugging, toe-digging Lubbock boy, perplexed by all the fuss. He picked the place for the interview — Austin's only Indian restaurant. He says he developed a taste for eastern food on a half a dozen tours in England.

Ely recently returned to his Austin ranch — he moved from Lubbock about a year and a half ago — after opening for the Rolling Stones at the Sun Bowl in Phoenix on their U.S. tour.

Rolling Stones guitarist Keith Richards "knew the last album we did, 'Musta Notta Gotta Lotta,' so I guess it came down through that," Ely says of the invitation to play with the superstars before 80,000 fans.

"Needless to say, I was terrified," he said. "It was three times bigger than anything we'd ever played. I just lost sense of scale. It was almost like playing to nobody."

"It's no wonder they (the Stones) like to break off from the big shows and play small clubs."

Playing small clubs became a way of life for Ely and two other Lubbock-produced musicians who have written much of Ely's material — Butch Hancock and Jimmie Gilmore. The three have tried to analyze the mystical role of their West Texas upbringing in their creative lives.

"There's not any real physical inspiration there," Ely said. "Butch always theorized it had something to do with the wind. It constantly blows about 30 miles an hour."

"I kinda think it's just the sheer flatness of it — that bowl of sky all the way around you."

But if West Texas was bereft of scenery, it had a healthy music scene that left an early impression on the son of a Rock Island Railroad worker.

Dummies, spare that Rubik's cube

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Don't peel the little squares off, don't pull it apart, don't pound it with a hammer — in other words, spare that Rubik's Cube and give one last try at solving the little devil.

That's the cry from two 20-year-old business majors at the University of Texas who have stumbled onto a big business — teaching us dummies who can't do it to solve the confounded, multi-colored, three-dimension puzzle that seems to have countless twists and no solution.

Marc Ostrofsky and Ernest Rapp, both of Houston, estimate there are several million cubes — the real Rubik's or bootlegged versions — and only about 10 percent can be solved by their owners.

The rest are left to languish on coffee tables, their nine-square sides an embarrassing, haphazard assortment of the four different colors.

"Children can solve it because they don't make it hard," Ostrofsky said. "And the other mistake people make is turning it over in their hands. No brain can take that confusion."

So in a two-hour course, Marc and Ernie will teach you six moves, and they guarantee that if you repeat the six moves, you will solve that Rubik's Cube and your friends will either step back in awe or never speak to you again. And you'll get a handy "tip sheet" that includes such reminders as the center square always dictating the color of the side.

The two planned to teach their first class Sunday at UT, then teach a series of classes at Foley's department stores around Texas. Then they're hoping to go national with the company that owns Foley's.

Ostrofsky said he first encountered the cube when he bought one for his sister, an engineering student. She solved it. But he learned to solve, too, and could do it faster.

"That was exciting," he said, "because I'd never been able to beat my sister at anything."

On the lookout for business opportunities — Ostrofsky has had his own marketing company since he was a freshman — the young entrepreneur visited a wholesale trade mart in Dallas to "see what was hot." The Cube was. So Ostrofsky offered to buy 300 from a California importer.

"But he said he believed in me and sent me a thousand," Ostrofsky said. "When you have a thousand cubes, you don't know what to do with them. But I sold them all within a week."

Ostrofsky and Rapp, who handles the books for the fledgling business, insist there's no end in sight for the popularity — or infamy — of Rubik's Cube.

Gifted and talented Students aim higher

By TINA M. STEFFEN
Lifestyle Writer

"Aim at the sun. You may not reach it, but you will fly higher than if you've never aimed at all." This saying, found on a wall in a gifted education classroom in Coahoma, sums up the philosophy behind the school's AWAKE program.

The AWAKE program is an effort of the Coahoma Independent School District to meet the needs of its gifted and talented students. It seeks to challenge the academically gifted students with a program whose content, materials and activities provide a climate that allows students to develop their abilities to their highest potential. It also seeks to develop a more adequate self-concept and to become more independent and effective learners.

AWAKE is an acronym for Aware of the World Around Us through Knowledge and Education. The AWAKE program in the Coahoma schools began four years ago. "We really have to give the parents credit for the program," Danella Souter said. Mrs. Souter is one of three teachers presently involved in the program.

The parents realized some children were missing something in their education and needed help. They approached Bill Fishback, school principal, about it. Fishback discussed the matter with the teachers and planning began for a gifted program in the schools.

Students have to be tested and screened to determine if they qualify to participate in a gifted program. Once they have been tested and qualified, then they are admitted. The Coahoma gifted program is serving about 10 percent of the student enrollment with 110 students now in the program. They offer their program to students in kindergarten through the eleventh grades. Next year they will add a twelfth grade program.

"We most assuredly don't want to overlook a gifted child, and we want to give them the most opportunities that we can," Mrs. Souter said. "We give each student two IQ tests — a verbal and a visual one. We then go on their achievement test scores. We feel that the gifted child will be at least two years above average in an area and will be able to maintain that."

MOST GIFTED CHILDREN are not gifted in all areas. "It is a rare bird to find one that is gifted in all areas," Mrs. Souter said. "We are usually gifted in one area. You might find a student who is extremely gifted in science and will just barely be getting by in language arts. Really struggling. That is why a large jump in an area is a good indicator that a child is gifted in that area."

Coahoma schools also have recommendation forms the teachers fill out to rate learning characteristics. The school has a total of four areas of testing before a child is admitted to the AWAKE program.

A student can be nominated to the program several ways. The parent, teacher, administrator, counselor, the individual student, or a friend can nominate them. "They just come in and say 'I want to be tested,'" Mrs. Souter said. The teachers will pull out their achievement test scores to see if the student was at least two grade levels above in any area. The student begins the additional testing to see if he or she qualifies. "For those who don't realize they are gifted and aren't getting their needs met and should be in the program, we really have to rely on their teachers a great deal," Mrs. Souter said.

"A lot of teachers make the statement when they find out so-and-so is in the gifted program, 'They can't be. They are flunking everything. They are a complete failure. They don't hand in their work. They don't listen in class. They are a discipline problem,'" Mrs. Souter said reflecting on the characteristics of gifted children. "Those are characteristics of many gifted people because they are bored and are not challenged enough. We are constantly trying to reach those levels where we can challenge them and keep their minds busy.

How can one tell if their child or someone they know is gifted? Mrs. Souter lists several characteristics of gifted children. They see something that interests them and they research it on their own. They are aware of what is going on around them. The children usually enjoy reading, and may create things much of the time. They are involved in hobbies that interest them and are learning from these hobbies. Their minds are working. Children that bubble over with many questions about the world around them are learning very much. "Unfortunately they drive their parents up a wall," Mrs. Souter said. A gifted child may be extremely interested in specific areas and tend to be so involved in them that it consumes their time. Gifted children show some of these signs all the time.

"You can present an idea to a gifted child and in a regular classroom you can spend a whole day on that one idea. In the gifted classroom, you may go through maybe twenty ideas or twenty lesson plans in one day. It is the most challenging thing I've ever done," Mrs. Souter said. "It is fantastic to see these kids' minds. You introduce them to something and their little eyes just sparkle. They just take off and play with the idea."

In elementary, they come for half a day a week to the gifted classroom. It's a pull-out program, which we feel it needs to be. They need to be associated with other children who are like them. For example, you only have one gifted child in a regular classroom and they get to thinking 'You know, I really am pretty sharp. This is easy for me.' They are not challenged. When you pull them out and put them with other gifted children, then they begin to realize 'Hey, I'm not pretty sharp after all.' Other kids are just like them."

Sixth through eighth grade students are in the program a half day twice a week. High school students are in the program for two periods on Fridays.

"WE TRY to incorporate all the major subject areas in any subject that we do," Mrs. Souter said. "But our curriculum is not broken up into different subject areas like 'for the next hour we will work on science.'"

Mrs. Souter says "the program has to have the kind of quality that sets it apart from the regular classroom. 'If we are doing things in AWAKE that can be done in a regular classroom, then we are not really serving as a gifted program."

"We try to get on the upper levels of thinking, knowledge and learning. (They work on different learning levels to reach the higher levels of knowledge). We base this on Bloom's Levels of Taxonomy the higher the level, the more difficult and more challenging it is."

Mrs. Souter said that in the regular classroom students usually reach the first two or three levels of learning — knowledge, comprehension and application — before going on to something new.

"The elementary students are working on an overall Indian unit this year, studying all facets and particularly those Indians native our locale here in Howard County. They are going into both the Indian and the western, or cowboy influence. It is a study of the chiefs, the people, the laws and their culture. Some of the laws we have today were handed down from the Indians."

Some students visited Quail and Judy Dobbs. Dobbs is a nationally famous circuit rodeo rider. Some students went to the Pottor house to see Caylor's paintings and to the cemetery to find his tombstone and grave.

"The junior high and high school students' curriculum this year is centered around the brain. They are just beginning to realize just how much we can do with our brain. It has mushroomed out and the students are doing independent studies on the brain."

"We have an advertising unit that we are just about to embark on. We will go into all facets of advertising and will expand into the students selling and producing their own advertising."

The money the students will make from advertising and from a dinner theater they will perform in the spring will go toward financing a trip to NASA in Houston. The students are working toward the trip by earning points for each level of learning they obtain in each of their projects and from their independent studies. The students must earn 1000 points each in order to go on the trip.

"EVERY STUDENT in AWAKE has to have what we call an independent study project," Mrs. Souter said. "That is something they do that they are extremely interested in. They research it, put it together, evaluate it, create some kind of product, produce a product and then display it or give it to someone."

"There are some really neat independent studies going on right now that are the result of our cowboy and Indian unit," she said. "We try to make everything as much fun as possible, but everything we do is a learning experience."

The program has five computers the students use. "Some of the kids are already doing their own programming," she said. "They are a step beyond playing games or doing packaged programs. A lot of older students are using the computer as their independent study project. We have some students who know they want to go into a computer field. They are putting a heavy concentration into computers this year."

"We have a tremendous amount of community support," she said. "Anytime that AWAKE has needed anything, the community has been right there to support us. The first computer was purchased from funds we received from the historical society in Coahoma." The society raffled a quilt they had made and donated the proceeds from the sale to buy the computer.

In past years the AWAKE program has published a newspaper called "Wide Awake." This year they are producing a magazine called "Beyond the Horizon." The students are responsible for all phases of producing the magazine. They write the material, are responsible for photographs, ideas, the name of the publication, the layout and everything else that goes into putting a magazine together.

"We are putting our kindergarten, first and second graders into what we call our Enrichment Program. They will be in the Enrichment Program until the end of second grade. At that time they are re-evaluated. If they are still meeting the criteria we have set for admittance in the AWAKE program then at the beginning of third grade they will actually be admitted to the program."

"We test the kids in kindergarten. We have them in this Enrichment Program which is a pull-out program and they are given the same curriculum and opportunities everybody else in AWAKE is given. It gives us an opportunity to re-evaluate these students at the end of second grade and see if they have been able to maintain."

The AWAKE program is basically the same as other gifted programs around the country. "It just depends on what the needs of the community are," Mrs. Souter said. "Our school board asked us to make it available to as many students as we could, and that is one reason we are serving a little over 10 percent. The greatest burden that we have as teachers in the program is we may be missing some child that is gifted. I don't want to overlook an Einstein."

"The parents are fantastic, eager to help and are pleased most of the time," Mrs. Souter said. "They want their children to have the experience and opportunity to learn all they can learn and experience. They are very eager to help sponsor any extra activities that we may have. I really believe that the reason that the AWAKE program is here today is because the parents in the Coahoma district were concerned. They have maintained that concern over the years."

'Stress and Tension' is program topic

Janet Rogers, County Extension agent-home economics, presented the program, "Stress and Tension" to members of the Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday. The meeting took place at Lee's Chinese Garden Restaurant with Mamie Roberts presiding.

Mrs. Rogers said that by learning to recognize the symptoms of stress one is better able to cope with it. Stress can be beneficial or counter-productive, she said, depending on one's ability to channel it in the proper direction.

Stress can be relieved in several ways: by expressing emotions instead of keeping them inside; by doing something pleasant for someone else; or by abandoning the stressful activity for something that is more satisfactory. Characteristics of stress include diminished initiative, anxiety, appetite extremes, worry and decreased creative ability. Stress can lead to heart problems and ulcers, Mrs. Rogers said, and many other diseases are brought on by stress.

The individual who is feeling stress should try to take control but not be afraid to ask for help. One should learn to adapt to situations which cannot be changed and try to maintain a sense of humor and self-esteem.

It was announced that a scholarship to Howard College for the Associate Degree in Nursing program was awarded to Mrs. Beverly Foster.

Mrs. Leslie (Tiny) Clawson and Mrs. Edith Murdock were in charge of the program.

Select luggage carefully

When you shop for luggage take into consideration durability, secure locks or zippers, a neat finish, ease in packing, comfortable handle, size, ease of carrying when full and good looks.

There are two basic types of luggage, made from boxes or molded shapes, and soft-sided, made with or without interior frames. Other varieties include specialty pieces like duffel, roll and tote bags, leather accessories such as brief cases, tennis and other sport bags, garment bags, wardrobes and foot lockers.

Hard-sided luggage is available in plastic covered with vinyl, leather, suede or fabric exterior or in aluminum, which is durable and more expensive.

Soft-sided luggage is lightweight and less sturdy but more storable. It works best for persons who travel occasionally. Exterior coverings include denim, canvas, nylon, oxford and twill, brocade damask, leather and crushed vinyl, plastic coated fabric, the wet-look and imitation leather. It is available in latch or zipper closings.

Soft-sided luggage with interior frames are semi-rigid. It can't take the wear and tear like hard-sided, but is sturdier, can retain shape better, and can be packed to bulging and still close. Soft-sided luggage without interior frames can fold or collapse for storage.

Soft-sided luggage can be stashed more easily than hard-sided and bags that zip shut are not as theft proof as those that latch-lock with key or combination.

Most luggage comes in a wide variety of sizes. Most travelers find three suitcases adequate for most kinds of travel. Choose a size that is easy for you to carry when it is fully packed. Too much luggage can be expensive and costly if not used frequently, so choose wisely.

A 24- or 26-inch piece is generally easy for owner to carry. An overnight bag is handy for short trips and as carry-on luggage when traveling by plane.

For an extended trip choose a large sturdy suitcase you can fit everything into and carry a shoulder bag, leaving a free hand. For shorter trips, a smaller piece of luggage and a garment bag are easy to carry and will hold adequate clothing.

Book review

Spy thriller worth reading

"Masterstroke," (Marilyn Sharp, Berkley Publishing Corp., 311 pages, $2.95 in paperback).

From cover to cover, "Masterstroke," is a masterful tale that keeps the reader intensely interested and totally unprepared for the series of events that lead to the climax of the plot.

The action centers around a plan for the United States and the Soviet Union to come together for a conference on human rights — the Korcula Conference. In theory, the conference should end with an agreement between the two countries on the importance of human rights, a lessening of hostilities between the two super powers and freedom for group of imprisoned Russian dissidents, known as the Soviet Six.

Things begin to go awry, however, when the dissidents escape from prison and are systematically killed by the Soviet secret police. Each of the dissidents carries a mysterious tape which the KGB is desperately trying to recover, but all except one of the tapes is blank. Much of the book's action is the result of the search for the original tape.

The book's main character, Peter Lucas, is the originator of the idea of the conference. As Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights, Lucas does everything in his power to ensure the success of the conference until he discovers that things are not as they seem.

Murder, a series of international incidents, double-crosses and people who are not what they appear to be lead Lucas to the conclusion that Korcula may not be what it appears.

The author carefully feeds the reader pieces of information small enough so as not to give away too much, yet significant enough to keep the reader interested. Though complicated, the plot is never tedious or boring though it is, at times, far-fetched. The final chapter, however, is realistic enough to send chills down the spine and raises questions concerning how high a price should be paid for peace.

"Masterstroke" is free of sex, has little bad language and while violence is present, it cannot be called "gory." If books could be rated, this tale of espionage would be a PG.

— Tina Miller

Marijuana popularity decreasing

Parents of high school students, breathe easier. Your children, according to a nationwide survey of nearly 17,000 high school seniors, are less likely to be exposed to marijuana smoke today.

One reason, a government spokesman told the Health Insurance Institute, is that young people don't consider the pot scene "in" anymore.

Another reason is that marijuana users are becoming more aware of the drug's dangers.

Consequently, there has been a marked drop in marijuana use since 1978, when its popularity in high schools seems to have peaked.

A study, conducted by the University of Michigan and funded by the Federal government, found that less than 10 percent of students in the class of 1980 smoked marijuana regularly, a drop of nearly 2 percentage points since 1978.

For example, daily cigarette use in 1980 dropped from 25 percent the previous year to 21 percent (or about 1 in 5 students).

Seven local women are recognized

Seven local women have been selected for inclusion in the 1981 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Those selected are Cheryl Denise Sparks, 2619 Coronado; Kathy Sue Nichols, Coahoma; Judith Ka'ren Nichols, Rt. 1; and Norma Jean Hester, Garden City. Also selected were Ethel Irene Little, No. 6 Highland Cove; Sharon Lee Andrews, 538 Westover; and Leslie D. Swanson, 2618 Hunter.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program honors women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, professions and communities. Nominations are made by women's organizations, college alumni associates and public officials.

Club makes donation

Members of the Sew and Chatter Club announced at their Wednesday meeting that a donation had been sent to the March of Dimes. The meeting took place in the home of Mrs. Avanel Cook with Mrs. Della Nobles as co-hostess.

Ruth Appleton presided and several members cut cards for use as future Christmas decorations. Other members crocheted and did needlework.

The next meeting will take place in the home of Lona Crocker. Members will begin work on another quilt.

Hypertension has no symptoms

Blood is moving through your vessels, performing its vital function without complaint. You probably feel fine. But, unknown to you, the blood may be pushing against the walls of the vessels with excessive pressure.

Doctors call this disease hypertension. Most people refer to it by its common name — high blood pressure.

About 20 percent of adult Americans have it, according to the Texas Medical Association. But only half know they do.

The reason is that hypertension is a "silent" disease. It has no symptoms, and the person does not feel sick. But it is the major cause of strokes, heart failure and kidney failure. Each year in the U.S., high blood pressure is the primary cause of about 60,000 deaths and plays a role in the more than 1.5 million heart attacks and strokes. It also can lead to vision loss.

Most cases of high blood pressure are related in some way to the improper functioning of arterioles, muscular tubes that connect arteries and capillaries. (Arteries carry blood away from the heart to body organs, and capillaries then deliver the blood directly to the tissues.) The arterioles regulate the blood pressure. When an arteriole contracts, the pressure of the blood against the vessel walls increase behind it. The higher the pressure, the harder the heart must work.

High blood pressure usually is detected during a routine examination by a physician. To control the disorder, the doctor may prescribe medication and urge the patient to lose weight, reduce salt consumption, cut back on smoking and alcohol, and adjust his lifestyle to reduce emotional strain.

High blood pressure usually begins in people about age 30 and becomes increasingly more common in higher age groups.

Nonetheless, it can occur at any age and in anyone. The disorder occurs more often in men than women, more often in blacks than white, in obese people, and in relatives of people with high blood pressure.

Dr. Donohue

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., Feb. 28, 1982 7-C

Training for hockey is special

Dear Dr. Donohue: I ran five miles a day in preparing for hockey, but I am not so sure it helped me much. I don't see much improvement in my game. Was it a waste of time? — N.N.

"I'll bet the running increased your endurance. I know it improved your cardiovascular system and your lungs, so they should be serving you better than they did before your running program. You may not notice it, but I am sure that has happened.

But back to hockey, your specific concern. I know what you mean. It is a very demanding sport. Among with endurance, you need skill, strength, agility, speed and balance. It is a sport calling for a series of short, high-intensity burst of activity. Long-distance running will not build up your hockey skill, agility, or your ability to handle those intense bursts of activity. So you need to train for those.

I would like to comment further about those short-burst needs. Short bursts of activity call into play anaerobic energy. Don't worry about that term. It is a kind of counterpoint to the other kind of energy often spoken of — aerobic, the kind involving the heart and lungs. Aerobic is the kind you improve with long running stints. You required anaerobic exercise for your short-burst needs.

In hockey, a player spends at least 20 percent of his time doing high-intensity work — anaerobic work. You have to specifically train for that. You have to skate or run at top speeds for a minimum of 10 to 15 seconds, up to 30 seconds if you can do that. You repeat those bursts eight to 12 times, with 10-second recovery periods in between.

I am not giving you a specific exercise program, but leaving that up to you and your common sense. It's the principle that counts, or am I launching here into a technical discussion of the metabolic differences between the two kinds of energy — aerobic vs. anaerobic — which I have covered on several occasions.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Here's a really up-front sports medicine question for you: Does xavng sex interfere with an athlete's performance? — Anon.

An up-front answer is that it probably doesn't. Some professional coaches have been known to recommend against intercourse on days prior to contests. I have heard that this was done more to create greater aggression for the upcoming contest. But recent studies have put this idea to rest. One sports medicine authority has said that intercourse would affect an athlete's performance only if it were accompanied by socializing, sleep loss and drinking.

In response to reader request, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems.

Dear Abby

Pregnant past bears record

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago, a woman in Jonesboro, Ill., wrote: "Dear Abby: I gave birth to three babies in 25 months and one week. Dates of birth are July 19, 1956; June 21, 1957; and Aug. 26, 1958. I was wondering if I'd broken a record. — Busy Mom."

Your response was: "Dear Mom: Perhaps a mother who has delivered twins or triplets may have topped you, but for individual births, I'd say you were out in front again."

Well, Abby, I have that lady beat. Is there a prize? I gave birth to three babies in 23 months and one week. Dates of birth are Aug. 23, 1959; June 25, 1960; and Aug. 15, 1961. My real name is Nina Beckman, but you can sign me. — EXHAUSTED IN PLATTSMOUTH, NEB.

DEAR EXHAUSTED: Unless someone else writes in to

Extension Homemakers

Four area Extension Homemakers Clubs held February meetings using program topics such as "How Our Tax Money is Spent," and "Health." Members also discussed plans for the District meeting to be held in Howard County April 14. Members answered roll call with their place of birth.

COAHOMA
Coahoma Extension members met for a covered dish luncheon Feb. 10 in the home of Mrs. Hattie Swan. Mrs. Swan presided over the meeting and Mrs. Frankie Pelton was welcomed as a guest.

The devotional, Romans 12:9-15, was read by Cindy O'Daniel. Francis Mason presented the Extension Homemakers Council report and asked members to participate in the "Sun Giant Cookie Cutter Offer."

Hattie Swan was elected as delegate to the District and State meeting. The state meeting will be held in El Paso during September. Lulu Adams won the door prize.

The next meeting will be held March 10 in the home of Virginia Tinner. Members will make spice ropes to be given away at the District meeting.

CENTER POINT
Emily Ward, public relations director at Malone-Hogan Hospital was speaker at the Center Point Extension meeting. The meeting took place in Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center.

Mrs. Ward related new ideas concerning nutrition and explained hospital problems including a shortage of personnel. The Council on Aging is launching the Vial of Life program in this area. Complete records of illness, drugs being taken and names of doctors are printed on a special card and kept in a specific place in the home for easy access during an emergency. Those interested should call the county extension agent for more information.

Mrs. Hazel McCrary was welcomed as a new member, and Pearl Coffee won the door prize.

Frankie Walker and Faye Irons attended a workshop on "Closet Clutter vs. Clever Clean Up" Feb. 15. The club held a pot luck dinner Tuesday to make "ditty bags and stocking stuffers" for the District meeting.

Sterling Place Settings
Most sets of sterling consist of from 4 to 12 place settings, plus a collection of serving pieces. Because sterling patterns are "open stock," you can collect exactly the number and size of place settings and the kinds of serving pieces that suit your way of life. Here at the ACCENT SHOPPE, we suggest you start with the basics — knives, forks, teaspoons and salad forks — and add extra pieces as your needs and fancy dictate. Maybe you'll want soup spoons, or iced beverage spoons, or butter knives. Whatever you choose, you know it's special because it's sterling silver.

top your record, you win. There's no prize, but if I were to offer one, it would be a two-week vacation at your local Holiday Inn. Alone!

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet you never heard a problem like this before. I've been married for 26 years. I am 45 and my husband is 55. We have three grown children. I was a model and still do some modeling in addition to holding down a part-time secretarial job.

A few years ago, my husband started to go bald, so he used some of my dark-brown eye makeup to cover the bald spot. The balder he got, the more makeup he used to cover it up. It became more and more obvious until people began to look at him and snicker. It's terribly embarrassing to me, but he thinks it looks better than a bald spot.

I hate to go anywhere with him because he looks so foolish. Last year he started to lose his teeth! Now he has only one tooth left in his mouth! Abby, can you imagine a man going around like that in this day and age? He has insurance where he works, but he won't go to a dentist. With no teeth, he looks like an old man.

Our son announced last week that he is getting married later this summer and he asked his father to fix himself up for the wedding. (Quit painting his head and get some teeth.) My husband flatly refused, saying, "I'm happy. Why should I?"

I love my husband, but I can't go on this way. Please give me some suggestions.

NOWHERE TO TURN

DEAR NOWHERE: Let your husband know that you love him and want to be proud of him, and if he wants to hide his baldness, there are some wonderful hairpieces available. Also tell him that going toothless is bad for his general health and makes him look old and unattractive. Beg, plead, bargain, do whatever you can to convince him. If he turns a deaf ear, please get him to a doctor for a complete physical checkup.
