STORM DESTRUCTION — Searchers dig through what once was a mobile home Monday night after a tornado hit a home park in Ada, Okla., located about 85 miles southeast of Oklahoma City. Authorities said more than 30 people were injured by the storm.

Twisters hit Oklahoma

Half a dozen tornadoes kill one, injure 92

By The Associated Press

Half a dozen tornadoes that crunched mobile homes in Ada like matchboxes and gouged a path in downtown Bartlesville were blamed for killing one man, injuring 92 other people and causing damage in the millions.

National Guardsmen dug through the rubble this morning of scores of mobile homes destroyed in Ada where the storm claimed one life. Floyd Fullingim, 60, died at an Oklahoma City hospital of injuries he suffered when the twister struck about 7 p.m. Monday.

The tornadoes fell from an unseasonably early storm line spanning the state as it moved into eastern Oklahoma. The front moved out of the state early this morning, the National Weather Service said.

Related story, page 3A

Other National Guardsmen armed with axes and shovels were standing watch against looters in Bartlesville this morning.

Some damage but no injuries were reported at Holdenville, Konawa, Marietta and Lenapah, where tornadoes also struck.

Half the 120 trailers at the Brook Mobile Home Park in Ada were destroyed when a tornado blew in, said park manager Art Aydelott. He spotted it as it "began to whirl at the back end of the park like a dust devil. Next thing I knew, I saw the roof blow off a mobile home. Then the next one went like a matchbox folding. I hit the floor in the living room."

Fullingim was one of five people rushed to Oklahoma City hospitals in critical condition. One of them, Donna Bond, 22, was eight months pregnant. The three others were identified as Steven Eric Bond, 3; Lisa Ragsdale, 4, and her father, Terry Ragsdale. In all, 35 people were reported hurt in Ada.

Officials at Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City said Lisa Ragsdale was in serious condition but would not say what injuries she had suffered in the Ada tornado. The others were reported to be in critical condition.

Guardsmen patrolled business streets of Bartlesville until first light when rescue workers could check the damage wrought by at least one funnel cloud that chewed into the western edge of the city about 7 p.m.

Auto accidents claim two men

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Two men are dead as a result of separate motor vehicle accidents in Howard County within the past 24 hours, officials said.

Steve Clark, 24, died at Malone-Hogan Hospital at about 11:30 p.m. yesterday from multiple internal injuries received in an accident at Wasson and Borden, according to reports.

Details about the accident are sketchy but four people including Clark were injured in the accident, said Emily Ward, Malone-Hogan spokeswoman.

The four were admitted to the hospital at about 7:20 p.m., Ms. Ward said.

One of the persons, 17-year-old John Grayson of Sterling City Route, was in fair condition in the hospital's internal care unit, she said. Michael Johnson, 23, and Johnny Johnson, 17, both of 1506 State Park Dr., were listed in good condition at the hospital this morning by officials.

Clark was a utilities crew leader for the city of Big Spring, said city Personnel Director Emma Wiggins. He had been with the city since last August and was due to turn 25 years old today, she said.

In the other accident, 73-year-old Andrew Thomas of Dallas was killed by a motor vehicle which struck him on Interstate 20 at about 2:30 a.m. today, authorities said.

Thomas apparently was hitchhiking when the accident happened, said highway patrolman Dean Richardson.

The accident happened near Cosden, Richardson said, adding that the body of Thomas was found near the east-bound lanes.

Thomas had been traveling with some clothes on a hanger, according to Richardson.

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin arrived on the scene and pronounced Thomas dead, according to police reports.

"I theorize he was walking down the highway and somebody ran over him," Richardson said, adding that he knew of no witnesses to the accident and thus had no description of the vehicle which struck Thomas.

Teens who burglarized mall are sentenced

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Sentencing was handed down in juvenile court yesterday for two teenagers charged with the burglary of six stores at Big Spring Mall Sunday morning.

Presiding Juvenile Court Judge Bill Tune put one of the youths, a 14-year-old boy, on one year's probation with the stipulation that he provide restitution for his crime. Tune sentenced the second youth, a 15-year-old boy, to the Texas Youth Council. Under the state's indeterminate sentencing laws for juveniles, the boy was not sentenced to TYC for a specific length of time.

A third boy arrested in connection with the mall break-in was not charged with a crime because investigators felt he hadn't participated, said police detective Lt. John Wolf.

Police were summoned to the mall at about 6 a.m. Sunday when a burglar alarm went off at Zales' Jewelry store, according to police reports. One of the teens was arrested at the scene and a subsequent investigation led police to the other two youths a few hours later.

About $25,000 in stolen cash, checks and merchandise was recovered from the boys, Wolf said. Some of the jewelry was returned to Zales but most of the cash remains in police custody pending a determination of how much each store is missing, said Detective Pat Dunham.

The two boys convicted of the break-in are believed to have entered the mall through an unfinished door at the rear of the mall, which had its grand opening March 3 and is still undergoing some construction work.

Once inside, they used carpenters' tools such as hacksaws to break through sliding chain guards and bar guards protecting the stores, police said.

One of the youths, the one sent to TYC, is a repeat offender and had been arrested and put on probation for burglary, according to Ms. Dunham. The other youth was arrested for the first time when police apprehended him in connection with the mall burglaries, Ms. Dunham said.

Tune, who is the acting juvenile probation officer for the county in the wake of Ed Cherry's retirement, said he surrendered his duties as presentencing probation officer in the case of the two youths because he was the judge in each case.

For recommendations as to the disposition of each case, he said he relied on counsel from County Attorney Robert Miller and from Ms. Dunham who is the juvenile officer on the Big Spring Police Department.

He added that while a youth sent to TYC or put on probation needs a probation officer to report to, in presentencing the youth is not required by law to be examined by a probation officer.

Each of the two youths was represented by a court-appointed attorney, Tune said.

Soviets announce freeze on missiles

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev today announced a freeze on deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in the western part of the Soviet Union.

But he warned of "retaliatory steps" if no progress is made at Soviet-American talks on arms limitations.

Brezhnev's announcement was quickly rejected by the Reagan administration as a trick to maintain Soviet arms superiority.

Brezhnev said the freeze would remain in effect until Soviet and U.S. negotiators in Geneva — who today recessed their talks to May 20 — reach agreement to limit the deployment of medium-range missiles in Europe, or until the United States begins "practical measures" to deploy Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in Western Europe.

Brezhnev did not elaborate on the "retaliatory steps" but analysts interpreted the statement to mean the Soviets would station missiles near Western borders.

Socialite found guilty of trying to murder wife

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A jury today found socialite Claus C. von Bulow guilty of twice trying to murder his heirless wife with insulin injections that plunged her into an irreversible coma.

Von Bulow, 55, could be sentenced to a maximum term of 40 years.

The jury of seven men and five women filed back into the courtroom at about 11:15 a.m. after deliberating 36 hours over six days.

The tall, balding defendant, seated at the defense table with hands folded in front him, maintained the stoic poise he displayed throughout the nine-week trial as jury forewoman Barbara Connert announced the two verdicts.

Mrs. Connert, in a clear voice, twice responded "Guilty" when asked by the court clerk for the jury's finding on the two counts of attempted murder.

Von Bulow's lawyers had said they would appeal a conviction.

If given concurrent 20 year terms on the two counts, von Bulow would be eligible for parole in 7½ years. If the terms are consecutive, he would have to serve nearly 14 years behind bars before parole review.

Smiling and chatting with spectators, the jury had entered the courthouse at 9:15 a.m. Von Bulow, for the second straight day, walked the two blocks from his harborfront hotel to the court.

The jury had deliberated for 36 hours over six days, beginning Thursday.

Von Bulow, free on $100,000 bond since his arraignment last July, faces up to 40 years in prison on the two counts of attempting to murder Martha "Sunny" von Bulow.

Republicans appoint new precinct chairmen

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Howard County Republican Party yesterday met for an organizational meeting to discuss appointing precinct chairmen and the possible election of a temporary Republican Party chairman for the county. The party's present chairman, Bill Sheppard, is recovering from brain surgery.

Ben Bancroft, Big Spring attorney, said, "The problem confronting us is that Bill Sheppard will be out for at least five more weeks. We need to draft a name we can enter as a write-in candidate for the upcoming Republican primary."

After some discussion the crowd of approximately 20 decided to form a committee to help draft a candidate in the coming weeks.

"Hopefully, Bill will be able to return as chairman, but it does appear he will be recovering for some time so we must be prepared with at least a temporary chairman," Bancroft said.

The party also appointed five precinct chairmen. They are Polly Mays, Precinct 15; Becky Cenicerros, Precinct 2; Bill Henning, Precinct 3; Bill Hanson, Precinct 22 and Peggy Wennerlind, Precinct 16.

The Republicans also were addressed last night by Jim Reese, who announced his candidacy for the 28th Senatorial District on Friday.

Reese, an ex-Odessa mayor and two time contender for U.S. Congress, announced his top priorities, if elected, would be: public education, water, illegal aliens and continued support for law enforcement officials.

"I think I can provide the type of leadership needed in the Texas Senate. Texas is growing everyday and I think I have the vision and new ideas to take advantage of this growth and still maintain the atmosphere we all enjoy here in West Texas," Reese said.

Reese is joined in the race for the 28th Senate seat by John J.C. O'Shea, an Odessa attorney and John Smith, an Odessa attorney.

The 52-year-old Reese served as mayor of Odessa from 1968 to 1974. In a race for the U.S. Congress in the 19th District in 1976 against 21-term incumbent George Mahon, he garnered 46 percent of the vote.

In 1978 Reese carried 16 of the 17 counties in the 19th District when he sought the Republican candidacy for Congress, but narrowly lost the run-off to George W. Bush of Midland, son of the vice president.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Liability cards

Q. What are the auto liability cards from an insurance company supposed to say? If you are arrested, can you sue the company for not providing the correct card? What can you carry instead?

A. All the people we contacted — Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon, County Attorney Bob Miller, and several insurance agents — said it is up to the individual to show proof of the liability coverage on his vehicle. DPS Trooper Redmon said the card must have the policy number, beginning and expiration date, amounts or fact of liability minimum. He also said if the insurance covers the auto, the auto must be on the card — if the driver is covered, his name must be on the card. County attorney Miller, reading from Texas Civil Statute Article 6701H, said "that vehicle" — you're driving — must be proved to be covered. He said any civil action was up to the individual. Carry your policy itself.

Calendar: Ballot draw

Zoning change in Lamesa nixed

LAMESA (SC) — A crowd of approximately 85 people yesterday packed a meeting of the Lamesa City Council concerning a proposed zoning change.

Most of the crowd came favoring a zoning change that would switch Big Mac's Restaurant on South Akron from residential to commercial. The purpose of the change was sought to permit Big Mac's to serve alcoholic beverages as a private club.

Forty-two residents had signed a petition in favor of the change. Strong objection was voiced by Pastor Henry Jackson, whose church is across from the restaurant.

"Allowing a private club in the area will increase the crime rate and allow for other commercial businesses to establish themselves near the church," Jackson said.

Currently Big Mac's is zoned residential, but is allowed to operate as a restaurant by a special city council variance.

After much discussion the council denied the change, but allowed Big Mac's to continue operating as a restaurant without serving liquor.

In other section the council gave $1,766 to the Texas Municipal League to fight a proposed 24 percent increase from General Telephone. The money will be used to defray the cost of legal fees.

Lamesa is the 22nd of a growing number of Texas cities and towns banding together to fight the telephone increase proposed for April and October.

The council also agreed to purchase 20,000 gallons of water from the city of O'Donnell for the cost of $3,100.

Finally, the council called for bids to purchase four new police cars, one car for the fire chief and three pickups for the water department. All dealers were encouraged to place bids for the vehicles. The council will review bids March 30 at 5 p.m.

State National Bank promotions announced

State National Bank recently announced several promotions at annual stockholder's meeting.

Elected to executive vice president was John Arrick. Arrick has been with the bank since March, 1971. He is a graduate of Texas Tech with a BBA in finance.

Delbert Donelson was promoted to senior vice president in charge of agricultural department. Donelson began work with State National in December 1972. He has a B.S. degree in agricultural economics. He had been serving as agricultural loan officer for the bank.

Lynn Simmons, who joined the bank in 1981, was elevated to vice president of agricultural loans. Simmons is a graduate of Tarleton State University with a degree in general agriculture.

State National's board of directors was also re-elected at the meeting. The board for the upcoming year will include Wilson Connie Edward, Florence Hall, Jim Bill Little, Merle Stewart and John Currie, who will serve as chairman of the board.

C-City trustees renew contracts of 10 persons

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City Independent School District trustees met Monday night and renewed the contracts of 10 supervisory personnel.

Those receiving extensions on contracts and annual pay are Athletic Director Tom Ramsey, $26,442; Tax and Business Manager Jay Craddock, $26,716; Transportation Supervisor Troy Adams, $18,539; Lunchroom Supervisor Christine Cooley, $11,180; Kelly Elementary Principal Bobby Lemons, $27,961; Hutchinson Principal Delp Riley, $30,579; Middle School Principal Doyle Lowrance, $30,246; Colorado High Principal Jerry Reynolds, $34,380; Community Education Director Barbara Gray, $14,676; and Administrative Supervisor Geneva Sindelay, $21,331.

Additionally, Superintendent Charlie Usseltin reported to the board that bills passed out by a Middle School student have been tested and classified as "dangerous." The board has expelled the student.

In other business Monday night the board approved the spring trip requested by the high school band and the 1982-83 calendar was adopted.

In final action Julian Mendoza was hired as a skilled laborer, the textbooks committee recommendations were accepted and election judges for the forthcoming school board election were approved.

Police Beat

Woman reports $4,595 burglary

Kay Ferrell of 2510 Wasson told police a burglary of her apartment resulted in the loss of $4,595 worth of possessions.

Missing in a burglary Monday morning are a stereo system, a color television set, a telephone and other items, according to police reports.

David Pittman of Knott Route told police someone known to him stole his automobile while it was parked in the lot of the Sands Motel at about 10:45 p.m. yesterday.

Four wheel covers valued at $414 were reported stolen from Bob Brock Ford, 500 W. Fourth, over the weekend, police said.

Sandy Burroughs told police someone shot a BB gun twice into a window at the 608 Scurry private office of County Attorney Robert Miller on Sunday or Monday.

Scott Sherman, 18, of New York, was arrested by police for soliciting without a permit in the 1700 block of Scurry at 4:45 p.m. yesterday, according to police reports.

Reagan rejects nuclear freeze

By JAMES GERSTENZANG Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Reagan has rejected a congressional proposal to freeze the number of U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons, saying the plan doesn't go far enough and that "verifiable reductions" in arms are needed instead.

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading sponsor of the freeze concept, contended the president's "approach is going absolutely nowhere."

On Monday, Reagan responded to the congressional proposal advanced last week by nearly one-third of the members of the House of Representatives and one-sixth of the Senate.

"A nuclear freeze at this time would legitimize the position of great advantage for the Soviets," the president said in a speech to a joint session of the Tennessee Legislature in Nashville.

The congressional resolution called on the Reagan administration to try to negotiate a nuclear freeze agreement with the Soviet Union under which no more nuclear weapons would be manufactured, tested or deployed.

But Reagan said the Soviets would have no incentive to reduce their arsenal under the freeze proposal, and that in Europe they hold an advantage of at least 3-1 and possibly 6-1 in nuclear weapons.

Kennedy quickly answered Reagan's criticism, saying he was not calling for a freeze only in Europe, a step "which we reject."

Rather, Kennedy said he sought "a global freeze" in which case the United States would have 9,000 strategic weapons and the Soviets would have 7,000.

On Nov. 18, Reagan said there were 250 SS-20 Soviet missiles deployed with 750 warheads aimed at the population centers of Europe. At that time, the president unveiled a proposal that the Soviet Union dismantle its missiles aimed at Western Europe and said the United States would not proceed with planned deployment of corresponding systems.

"Today, less than four months later, and while we are negotiating, the Soviets have 300 SS-20 missiles with 900 warheads," Reagan said. "That's the nature of the threat we face."

But Kennedy disputed these figures, contending there are 1,200 U.S. warheads in Europe,

Owners of head shops challenge state law

DALLAS (AP) — Owners of head shops have filed suit in federal court challenging the constitutionality of a law prohibiting sale of drug paraphernalia.

The suit filed Monday charges that the law deprives the store owners of their constitutional rights.

The stores were raided Feb. 17 by police, who netted merchandise valued at about $100,000.

The owners claim the law deprives them of property rights and guarantees under the Bill of Rights. But a spokesman for the Texas attorney general's office said a federal district judge has already ruled the law constitutional in a similar case.

Rob Wiley, attorney general's spokesman, said he could not comment specifically about the suit.

Judge denies Martin's change of venue request

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas (AP) — State District Judge Robert Barton today ruled that state Rep. Mike Martin, charged with lying to a grand jury, can get a fair trial here despite large amounts of publicity concerning the case.

At the same time, he said that under former President Carter's energy program, "which depended on government planning, bureaucracy and regulations," there were higher prices and shortages.

Reagan did not mention in the text of a speech prepared for delivery to the joint session of the Oklahoma legislature that it was under Carter that the government began to phase in oil price decontrol.

However, prosecutor Bill Wilms fought the latest defense request to move the trial.

Some vital still bad. She somewhat but Baum said of the film "Hag LaMotta, the LaMotta."

Cities served by CRMWD are showing heftier thirst

Cities served by the Colorado River Municipal Water District are showing a heftier thirst during the first two months of this year.

For February, municipalities received 932,873,500 gallons of water, or 12.72 per cent more than for February 1981. This brought to 1,973,045,900 gallons for the first two months, up 15.12 per cent for the cities.

Oil and industrial users also took more water, or 174,439,367 gallons, a gain of 12.35 per cent. For the first two months, these deliveries aggregated 386,408,705 gallons, up 21.01 per cent.

For January and February deliveries amounted to 2,359,454,605 gallons, about 326,000,000 gallons or 16.04 per cent more.

The initial 10 days of March are showing even greater percentage gains.

For February Odessa took 420,182,000 gallons, up 17.42 per cent; Big Spring 202,992,000 gallons, up 16.30 per cent; Snyder 65,011,000 gallons, up 9.00 per cent; Stanton 8,976,000 gallons, up 21.43 per cent. The Midland draw of 233,410,000 gallons was up only 1.88 per cent, but then Midland only receives part of its total supply from the district.

Colorado City dad charged with murder

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A 63-year-old Mitchell County man has been charged with murder in the shooting death of his 34-year-old son.

Charges were filed Monday against Jim Jones, of Colorado City.

According to Sheriff Wendell Bryant, bond for the elder Jones was set at $20,000. The shooting occurred prior to noon Saturday about a mile north of C-City following what is described as a family argument.

Game Warden Ronnie Aston reported choppy waters made the search for the man extremely difficult. The search resumed early today.

SEARCH RESUMES FOR BODY IN LAKE

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Drugging operations at Lake Colorado City were suspended at approximately 4 p.m. Monday for a 34-year-old Snyder man, who is thought to have drowned Saturday in an area 100 yards by 500 yards, with depths ranging from seven to 20 feet.

Game Warden Ronnie Aston reported choppy waters made the search for the man extremely difficult. The search resumed early today.

Twisters kill five; thousands are homeless

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes zig-zagged across the Great Plains, pulverizing buildings and killing at least five people, while Midwestern rivers sent ice floes through living rooms, drove more than 4,000 people from home and lapped at mounds of sandbags.

The water was 10 feet above flood stage and still rising early today in the three-river city of Fort Wayne, Ind., where 3,100 people were evacuated and one killed as thunderstorms and thawing snow threatened to make the flooding as bad as in 1913, when 732 people died.

At least five people drowned over the weekend in northern Indiana, Ohio and southern Michigan, and more rain was expected to fall today on the already waterlogged Midwestern earth.

The tornadoes late Monday killed three people in Kansas, one in Missouri and one in Oklahoma just as President Reagan was arriving in Oklahoma City, which was spared by the twisters.

A half-dozen buildings along U.S. 166 in Tryon, Kan., were damaged and two were destroyed by a tornado that killed one man, officials said, and a twister ripped through a trailer park in Ada, Okla., leveling mobile homes, killing one person and injuring 35.

A tornado skipped across northern Texas without causing any damage, one day after five tornadoes hit west central Texas and another hit a Dallas suburb.

Indiana Gov. Robert D. Orr, his pants rolled up over his rubber overshoes, visited swamped areas of Fort Wayne and saw by helicopter that the only way to recognize the banks of the St. Mary's River were two parallel lines of trees standing in water.

"It's just horrible," said Fort Wayne Mayor Winfield Moses Jr. "It's an eerie situation to see some of the homes. There are ice floes going through the living rooms."

Some of the thousands of people driven from their homes returned by boat Monday to retrieve belongings, and Marylou Rose, 55, readied a wire cage for a boat ride to pick up her three stranded cats.

The flooding has done an estimated $16.3 million in damage, including the landmark home of Hugh McCulloch, secretary of the Treasury under President Lincoln.

The St. Mary's meanders from the south into Fort Wayne, where it joins the St. Joseph and the Maumee to form one stream, which takes the Maumee name as it flows east out of town. Volunteers unloaded sandbags Monday to reinforce a dike and keep the Maumee out of homes in the Lakeside subdivision.

"I've never seen anything like this in my life," Orr said as firefighters pumped water from a sewer system and city trucks delivered more sandbags. Moses was worried that with more rain, sandbags and dikes could give way, touching off a flood worse than the March 1913 disaster, when the water was 11 feet above flood stage, one foot higher than on Monday.

Downstream in Grand Rapids, Ohio, the Maumee dropped nearly a predicted today.

"I wouldn't care if it snowed and froze over. Give us anything but rain," said Sheriff Doug Viegler of nearby Defiance County, Ohio.

About 200 families were forced from their homes in Ohio along the banks of the Maumee, Tiffin and Auglaize rivers, and officials estimated the flooding did nearly $2 million in damage. Gov. James A. Rhodes asked Reagan to declare six counties a disaster area.

Flooding in Michigan caused the evacuation of 1,300 people and left dozens of roads under water from the Ohio state line to Saginaw, but many of those evacuated had returned home. A dozen streams in southern Michigan were at or near flood stage because of rain and melting snow. About 900 of the 2,500 people in Dundee left home Monday when a 15-mile stretch of the Raisin River overflowed.

MONDAY MORNING BOAT RIDE — Two old women ride a rowboat as firemen steer during evacuation of an old persons housing project in Monroe, Mich. on Monday. About 150 seniors were evacuated after the Raisin River flooded. Weather Service spokesmen are calling for additional rain in the next 24 hours.

Actress stabbed by fan?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Theresa Saldana, critically injured in a stabbing attack outside her West Hollywood apartment, may have been stalked for days by a "fan" who kept track of her whereabouts in a diary, authorities said.

A truck driver on a delivery run stopped the attack on Ms. Saldana on Monday by taking away her assailant's 4-inch kitchen knife and pinning him to the ground by standing "on his neck" until authorities arrived, officials said.

After 4 1/2 hours of surgery to repair multiple knife wounds, including a punctured left lung, the 27-year-old brunette was listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Cedars-Sinai Hospital, spokesman Larry Baum said Monday night.

"Some vital signs are good but some are still bad. She appears to be recovered somewhat but she's still in intensive care," Baum said of the actress, who appeared in the film "Raging Bull," portraying Lenore LaMotta, the sister-in-law of boxer Jake LaMotta.

Arthur Richard Jackson, 46, was booked for investigation of attempted murder, said

Theresa Saldana...condition critical

Deputy Terry Gingerich. He said Jackson had a British passport and was believed to have come to Los Angeles from New York two weeks ago.

Belushi's 'all-night revelry' is detailed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian John Belushi, whose arms bore "multiple fresh needle puncture marks" at the time of his death, spent his last hours in all-night revelry that included heavy drinking and narcotics, a detailed coroner's report says.

Belushi was vomiting and pale, but stayed up on March 5 until 8 a.m., 4 1/2 hours before he was found dead, according to the report issued Monday. It also outlined another night that week when the actor drank and used drugs into the early-morning hours.

Belushi, 33, died from an injected overdose of cocaine and heroin, Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi said last week.

In New York, meanwhile, the Daily News reported today that Belushi left his wife, Judith, more than $2 million from three life insurance policies.

A detailed report by Deborah Peterson, an investigator at the coroner's office, said that on March 1, Belushi and an unidentified woman stayed up "drinking wine and inhaling cocaine...and injecting the drug."

Police Lt. Dan Cooke identified the woman as Cathy Evelyn Smith, a backup singer for rock groups. Miss Smith also is believed to be the last person to see Belushi alive.

On March 5, the coroner's report continued, Belushi and his woman companion were at "Rock City," a private club, where he was "drinking heavily" until about 1 a.m. He reportedly asked someone to drive him back to his rented bungalow at the Chateau Marmont

Hotel.

The comedian needed help getting inside the bungalow. He began vomiting and appeared "pale and sweaty," the report said, but "the ingestion of the liquor and drug apparently continued."

Unidentified visitors were at the bungalow between 3 and 3:30 a.m., the report said. Belushi showered about 6:30 a.m. and went to bed about 8 a.m., when the woman observed he was "shaking and wheezing."

The woman was quoted as saying she heard "a loud wheezing" about 9:30 a.m., so she woke Belushi to ask if he was all right and gave him water. When she checked about 10:15 a.m., he appeared to be sleeping and she went out for breakfast in his Mercedes.

Nestle implements baby formula standard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nestle, the world's largest maker of infant formula, announced today it is voluntarily complying with the World Health Organization's international code for marketing breast milk substitutes.

Rafael D. Pagan Jr., president of the Nestle Coordination Center for Nutrition in Washington, said the company's aim is to ensure that its formula is not marketed in a way that discourages mothers from breast feeding.

Nestle said it will implement the WHO code "on its own initiative in all countries where no measures have been taken to apply (it)."

Last year, Nestle said it endorsed the principles of the WHO code. The company has been the target of a boycott by groups opposed to its infant formula policies.

In today's announcement, the company included copies of precise, lengthy instructions it has sent to its managers worldwide for them to follow in observing the code.

The WHO voted 118-1 last May 21 to adopt its non-binding code to restrict the promotion of infant formulas. Among other things, the code prohibits mass media advertising of infant formula, giving free samples to mothers and other sales incentives.

Used properly, infant formula can sustain life and promote growth.

But critics contend that formulas often are used improperly in Third World countries where water contamination, illiteracy and poverty are common. Incorrect use can lead to malnutrition, disease and death, critics claim.

The United States cast the lone dissenting vote on the infant formula code at the WHO. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said at the time, "We did not want to make the WHO the international Federal Trade Commission."

Pentagon spokesman raps El Salvador news coverage

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The leftist minority in El Salvador has won a propaganda victory in the U.S. media by portraying the Democratic backers of President Jose Napoleon Duarte as "vicious military monsters," a Pentagon spokesman says.

The Duarte government in El Salvador has received a "bum rap" by the media, Assistant Secretary of Defense Henry Catto told reporters Monday.

Catto — a native Texan, former ambassador to El Salvador, and former officer of the Houston Post and Washington Journal Review — said Duarte is the "only torture-tested guaranteed genuine Democrat involved."

"Whereas the people on the left, who have never run for everything, who represent a tiny minority of the country, who indeed are not willing to let their ideas be tested at the ballot, they have managed in many cases to run away with a propaganda victory and make it look as if Duarte and the Democrats are vicious military monsters, if you will," Catto said.

Catto criticized Western media coverage of the El Salvador situation after speaking to the Texas Daily Newspaper Association convention and chiding reporters as "con artists."

"They are constantly searching for controversy, conflict and contradiction," Catto said.

His boss, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, was to make a speech "of special importance" at the end of the convention today.

Catto, who conducts twice-weekly briefings for news reporters at the Pentagon, told the delegates that some reporters are so busy searching for "con leads" at the State Department, Defense Department and White House that some news stories are going begging in Washington.

"Frequently when a briefing is over, not a single one of the things that we thought might come up, comes up," he said.

He criticized "arrogance" on the part of some reporters, a "Chicken Little" syndrome he said results in some false story leads, a theory he said was advanced by a network editor that only "bang bang" violence in El Salvador was newsworthy, and editorializing in some reports.

The late President Lyndon B. Johnson once said that news reporters were a lot like blackbirds sitting on a telephone wire: "When one flies off in a given direction, all the rest will follow."

Catto said he agreed and sometimes uses that tendency to steer Pentagon correspondents away from touchy subjects.

Catto said the power of the press was necessary to the government, but that the media must be sure to be accurate and fair to avoid attempts by the people to curb some of the power.

"The free press is indispensable to a free government. We may get mad at you. We may cuss you, in moments of irrationality, we may even blame the leaks on you. But deep down most of us know without you, we would not be free," Catto said.

Harte-Hanks president honored at conference

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Texas Daily Newspaper Association presented the fourth annual Pat Taggart award for newspaper leadership Monday night to Robert G. Marbut, president of Harte-Hanks Communications Inc.

The association also made a special award to Frank W. Mayborn, publisher of the Temple Telegram, for his contributions to the newspaper business for more than 50 years.

The Taggart award, named for a retired publisher of the Waco Tribune-Herald, is presented each year to the state's outstanding newspaper leader.

Marbut was cited for "his unrelenting crusade to keep the future of telecommunications free and competitive, both nationally and in Texas, and his inspiring leadership which has served every facet of the American newspaper."

Marbut heads the telecommunications committee of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, which has actively resisted efforts by American Telephone & Telegraph to provide the content of electronic communications to the home.

Mayborn, who also owns the Killeen Daily Herald, was presented a special award.

"For more than 50 years," the citation said, "from reporter to editor and publisher, he has dedicated a vigorous life to giving service, leadership and vision to the newspaper business and making exemplary, lasting contributions to a better quality of life for the people of his city, state and nation."

U.S. still has plenty of friends

News coverage of recent ban-the-bomb rallies in Western Europe has left a strong impression that anti-Americanism is sweeping the continent.

But a closer look reveals that the U.S. still has plenty of friends and allies on the other side of the Atlantic.

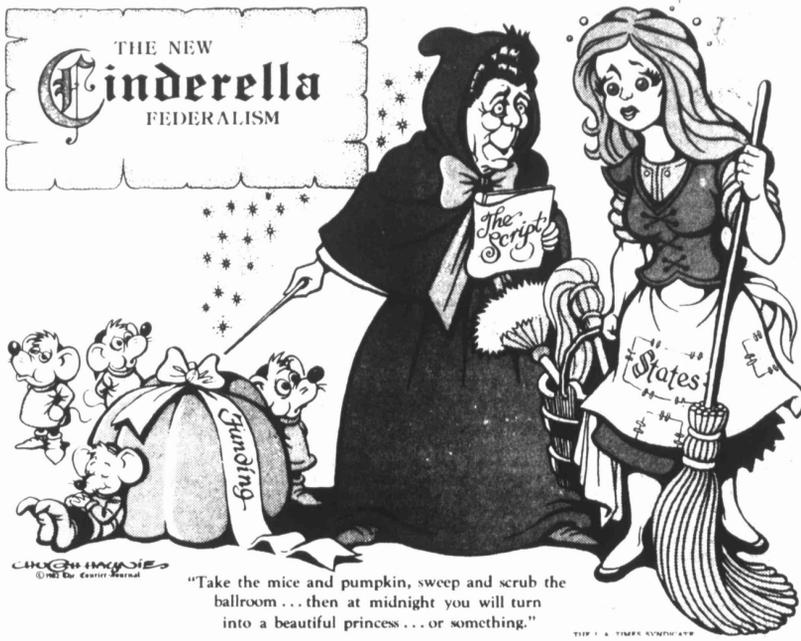

A U.S. News & World Report survey, for example, finds that in some areas there actually has been an upturn in support for the United States. "The improvement in America's standing," the magazine's European correspondents report, "comes in the face of a Soviet campaign to discredit America" and to exploit pacifist sentiment.

A RECENT POLL taken by the respected West German magazine, Der Spiegel, asked the people of that country if they favored closer ties with the U.S. or the Soviet Union. The U.S. won hands down, 56 percent to 1 percent.

A similar survey in France found that nearly 75 percent favored closer ties with the U.S. And a poll in Italy revealed that Italians have a better image of the United States than they do of their own country.

MEANWHILE A Japanese newspaper poll found that only a small minority — less than 20 percent — did not favor maintaining ties with the U.S. at current or stronger levels. Asked to list the "most trustworthy" nation on earth, the Japanese put America at the top. The Russians didn't even make the list.

America's critics, at home and abroad, make plenty of noise and get more than their share of headlines, but they don't speak for the silent, pro-American majority.

The Jupiter effect

LOS ANGELES — As many people may have been aware the end of the world was to have taken place last Wednesday, March 10.

The prediction was based on the so-called "Jupiter Effect," when all the planets lined up on one side of the sun and were supposed to cause earthquakes and volcano disruptions.

I happened to be in L. A. on March 10, which is the best place to be if the world is going to come to an end, because Southern Californians seem to take things like this more in stride than any people I know.

All the stuff about them being laid back does happen to be true.

On the morning of March 10, I started making my farewell telephone calls to dear friends. I called up Newcombe first.

"Well, Newcombe, I guess you know what day this is."

"Wednesday?" he said, taking a wild guess.

"It's the day the world is coming to an end."

"You mean the L. A. Dodgers haven't signed Fernando Valenzuela yet?"

"It's worse than that. We can expect a Jupiter Effect and we're all going to be swallowed into the ground."

"That happened to me a couple of months ago during a mudslide at my house. I was sucked in right where my Jacuzzi was. But it always sounds much worse than it is. The trick is to take a deep breath and fight your way to the top of the muck."

"Goodbye, Rick. You made my stay on Earth worthwhile."

My next call was to Bernheim:

"Alain," I said, "I called to say au revoir."

"What do you mean, au revoir?" he said. "We're giving a dinner for you Sunday night."

"There is no Sunday night. The world is going to end today."

"But what about the caterer? He's already ordered the avocado dip and potato chips."

"I'm sorry you went to all that trouble, but our fate is in the stars. The planets are against us."

"You want me to tell that to a Los Angeles caterer?"

"Don't tell him anything. When the earthquake comes, he'll disappear with his avocado dip and never be the wiser."

I then called my next friend, Angie Dickinson:

"Angie," I said, "today's the end of the world. Would you like to come over to the hotel for a final drink?"

"Oh, my God. I'm glad you called. I read about it yesterday and made a 3 o'clock appointment with my hairdresser."

Before I could make the next call, the phone rang.

"My name is Peterson and I'm with the B&H Real Estate Company. As you know, the world is going to come to an end today so I'm happy to announce one of my clients in the San Fernando Valley is willing to sacrifice his $6 million, two-bedroom ranch house for $5 million."

"Suppose the world comes to an end before I get to look at the house?"

"Then the $5 million asking price will be negotiable."

No way to curb drunk drivers

Dear Editor,
I notice in the 4 March edition of the Abilene Reporter-News where the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals (TCCA) has reversed a guilty sentence and fine of $50. That was done on a mere technicality. Apparently there was no doubt as to the guilt of the driver of the vehicle. The prosecutor failed to show that the driver was using a public road prior to going into the ditch.

Just such reversals as this clearly indicates that the judiciary of the higher courts of the TCCA should be investigated. It is my opinion that they are unfit to hold that office and should be removed.

Such practices as this is no way to get the drunken drivers off our public roads. It has been proven that more than 70 percent of the highway fatalities involve one or more persons under the influence of alcohol and — or drugs.

I do not advocate the abolition of the TCCA, on the contrary, but it should be staffed with people who are more interested in the safety of the general public and not the absolute protection of the criminal.

New party seeks policy change

Dear Editor:
The war-like stance of the present Administration calls for new U.S. Senators and Representatives who will dedicate themselves first and foremost to the protection and preservation of the United States, and see that U.S. servicemen not be sent to fight for a dubious cause the Administration calls "peace with freedom" for "all people."

The U.S. Defense program is not planned for the defense of the United States. The Defense Department is planning a world-wide war against "oppression" in other lands to which America will be expected to sacrifice its fighting men while losing large portions of the American homeland in calculated nuclear devastation.

Most of the present Congress accepts this "foreign policy." We are seeking candidates for the November election who will be concerned about America, its people, and its fighting men.

Gimme a break

"Liz and Dick... AGAIN," screams the magazine cover. "After a loving London reunion, Taylor is coy — but Burton still carries the torch," it whippers.

Raise your hand if you're getting tired of hearing about Elizabeth Taylor.

I hope I'm not the only one, because she certainly seems to be the talk of the world right now. The cover of "People," the cover of "Life," countless covers of gossip tabloids. Where will it end?

It won't. Three weeks ago, the Associated Press sent 23 pictures of Miss Taylor, plus a color photo. They were labeled, "For use as desired with stories slugged Taylor — 50th birthday." Apparently she is the only actress to live half a century.

I really have nothing against Elizabeth Taylor personally. Her lifestyle is a little exasperating at times, but she's done nothing to earn anyone's dislike. I just don't care to hear about her all the time, and I'm not sure why she is being treated like a national treasure.

By trade she is an actress. Her first film was "Lassie Come Home," filmed in 1943 when she was but 11 years old. Other film roles include "National Velvet," "Little Women," "A Place in the Sun," "Giant," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

HER MAIN INTERESTS include marriage. Her first marriage was in the 1940s to Conrad Hilton. Other husbands include Richard Burton, Michael Wilding, Michael Todd, Eddie Fisher and John Warner. She's married Burton twice. All together she's strolled down the aisle seven times. She recently separated from Mr. Warner, a politician.

To many people, the latter list is far more interesting than the former. Elizabeth Taylor Hilton Wilding Todd Fisher Burton Burton Warner is not really a bad actress. She is British born and was evacuated to Hollywood during World War II. She got her start in movies for the same reason Brooke Shields got hers: they were unusually lovely for their age.

She recently came out of retirement to appear in "The Little Foxes," both on Broadway and in London's West End. For this, she has been given more press than any performer deserves. For any other actress it would have been a minor role, but for Miss Taylor it's as if the planets had lined up on the same side of the sun. "The Little Foxes," by Lillian Hellman, is basically a writer's play. It doesn't really matter who the performer is since what's spoken is more important than who speaks. But it's been treated as if it were the starring role of the decade.

While she was in London, she created quite a stir when she danced cheek to cheek with Richard Burton, himself married four times. Between them there are 11 shattered vows. Would you buy a used car from either of these people?

PHILOSOPHERS HAVE a word they sometimes use for this lifestyle. They call it hedonism. People who are hedonistic believe that pleasure and gratification of desire are the chief goals of life.

Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are probably not hedonists, but it's hard to tell by looking at their lifestyles. To my knowledge they have never given a reason for divorce that didn't have something to do with their wanting more excitement out of life. Their current mates didn't offer all they'd hoped for out of existence, so they break up amiably and search for another Romantic, isn't it?

And Americans, including myself, tend to gobble this up. We call it gossip and entertainment because that makes it sound like real people aren't involved. When Elizabeth Taylor or Richard Burton break up, it's treated like the latest episode of a long, running situation comedy. You could feel sorry for them if they didn't seem to court all the attention.

Well, if Liz and Dick should get back together AGAIN, I hope they can find a good life together. All this breaking up and getting together and all these photo sessions and interviews with gossip reporters must get tiring. Richard Burton probably put it best when he described the relationship between himself and Elizabeth Taylor: "We love each other with such a passion that we burn each other out," he said.

You guys are burning us out too.

EPA chief gets bodyguards

WASHINGTON — Environmental chief Anne Gorsuch clearly didn't come to Washington intending to win any popularity contests. Her cold, abrasive personality has frosted not only environmentalists aghast at her policies, but subordinates and congressmen who deal with her. She quickly won the sobriquet "Ice Queen."

But now, apparently, Gorsuch is afraid she may have made too many enemies as she presides over the virtual dissolution of pollution controls that the Environmental Protection Agency administers. For she is hiring three "personal security officers" — or, in plain English, bodyguards.

EPA officials were at a loss to explain Gorsuch's sudden concern for her personal safety. When questioned by my associates Lucette Lagnado and John Dillon, they insisted that their boss had received no death threats.

Some agency employees hostile to Gorsuch — and there are plenty of these — suggested that hiring personal bodyguards is just another example of Gorsuch's cavalier self-indulgence in an administration that is preaching the gospel of sacrifice.

THEY POINT TO her penchant for fur coats — a slap at environmentalists — and her choice of a taxpayer-funded limousine: an Oldsmobile 98 diesel-powered Regency Brougham. Equipped with wire wheels, power windows and a telephone, the elegant Olds not only cost four times what her predecessor's car did, but it is one of the most pollution-prone passenger-car models made in this country.

Disgruntled and demoralized EPA employees also note that Gorsuch, her old friend and assistant James Sanderson and two or three other administrators have expropriated office space on the top floor of the EPA headquarters that used to house a dozen officials comfortably. The 12th floor, incidentally, is accessible only by a private elevator attended by a guard.

Gorsuch's aides are loath to admit that her policies and practices have given her cause to fear for her life. At first, they denied that any bodyguards were being contemplated for their boss. Key officials finally acknowledged that three "personal security officers" were being hired.

At a time when EPA personnel are being thrown out of their jobs, the hiring of three personal finkies — at salaries of $20,000 to $30,000, and possibly more — will obviously do nothing to repair the shattered morale in the ranks. So the three bodyguards, who will be authorized to carry sidearms, are being disguised as part-time investigators in the EPA Inspector General's office.

But how much investigating they'll be able to get done is problematical; they'll be on call for guard duty whenever Gorsuch feels the need.

EPA OFFICIALS insist that the three new employees will be much more than bodyguards. They will be trained professional investigators, possibly recruited from the Secret Service, the FBI or the Air Force Office of Special Investigations. They will also be expected to do advance work and unspecified "liaison" chores, the officials said. This means, of course, that they'll cost a lot more than ordinary bodyguards — and will be operating at less than their full qualifications when they're serving as Gorsuch's armed escorts.

Though some officials hinted, off the record, that Gorsuch's life may be in danger from some crazed environmentalist or ex-EPA employee, others wrote the move off as just Gorsuch's way of asserting her power and importance. Personal bodyguards will put the EPA administrator right up there with the big boys, like Secretary of State Alexander Haig, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

Divorce

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband has left me for another and sued for divorce. Although I cannot discover any way in which I was at fault in this matter, I find myself burdened with guilt and feelings of unworthiness. Can God help me overcome these? — M.D.

DEAR M.D.: You are really asking yourself why your husband has rejected you, and down inside you are feeling that maybe it is because you were not adequate in some way. But that is not necessarily the case, in spite of your feelings. It is regrettable that you are being sued for divorce, and I hope you have done everything you can to avoid this. But if your husband has left you for another the important thing now is to look to the future and do what you can to have a stable and productive life.

Your letter indicates that you have never thought about God very much. Perhaps he would use this situation to make you think more seriously about the meaning of life, and the need you have of God's guidance in your life.

Yes, God can help you overcome these feelings you have. He can help you overcome the guilt you feel because he will forgive you if you turn to Christ in repentance and faith. Even if you can find no reason for guilt in the matter of your divorce, the Bible tells us that we all are guilty before God for the many sins we have committed — both big and small. Jesus Christ came to take away our guilt and our sin, and by trusting him and inviting him into your life you can know the joy of full forgiveness. "As far as the east is from west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us" (Psalms 103:12).

God also wants to help you with your feelings of unworthiness. How? By assuring you of his love. You are worth something to him. You are worth so much that he sent his Son to the cross to die for you. "God so loved the world" — including you — "that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3:16).

Dear Abby
Medical airline is successful

Dr. Donohue
Arthritis causes breathing woes

DEAR ABBY: This is to bring you up to date on AirLifeLine, the non-profit association of airplane pilots (and others) who volunteer their time and planes to fly medical personnel, equipment and supplies, free of charge, in emergency situations.

We are progressing very well. We now have almost 500 pilots in 40 states. Money remains a problem, but I suppose that is the constant battle any group of our type faces.

Recently several volunteer pilots engaged in a four-month project flying mother's milk twice weekly from Sacramento to Modesto, Calif., to save a 1-month-old baby who had been kidnapped with his mother two weeks earlier.

The baby was found near his brutally murdered mother and taken to Modesto Memorial Hospital. There the doctors found that the baby was allergic to baby formula and might not survive without mother's milk. The call for mother's milk went out, and 13 mothers responded! Members of the Sacramento-based AirLifeLine donated their time, flight costs and privately owned craft in making the 60-mile hop between Sacramento and Modesto on a "mother's milk run" to keep the baby alive. The infant is alive today and doing well.

AirLifeLine also made three mercy flights to Culiacan, Mexico, in cooperation with the non-profit Surgical Eye Expeditions International in sending teams of specialists to perform corrective eye surgery at a clinic. They have provided free medical service to 131 Culiacan patients.

AirLifeLine recently flew a kidney to San Francisco where it was transferred to a commercial airline and delivered to a patient awaiting a transplant in Tennessee. Another pilot flew a rare blood type north to Oregon for an accident victim who might have died without it.

AirLifeLine is a network of caring professionals who volunteer their services to deliver vital human organs, tissue and rare blood types to recipients in remote areas not reachable by commercial carriers.

Your publicizing AirLifeLine has provided great impetus to our organization and has inspired our board of directors to name Dear Abby its first Honorary Life Member.

For those interested in membership, or in making tax-deductible donations, our address is: AirLifeLine, 1005 8th Street, Suite 302, Sacramento, Calif. 95814. Phone: (916) 442-6230.

Again we thank you, as do the increasing number of beneficiaries of AirLifeLine services. Sincerely yours,
FREDERICK J. SIMONELLI,
 EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

DEAR ABBY: Not every mother takes it lying down when she is neglected by her children. Enclosed is the note I received from my mother.

"Dear Son: Where in hell is my Christmas present? I didn't even get a blasted card! What gives? — Your everloving so-called mother."
 "P.S. If you have died, please disregard this letter."
 NO NAMES, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAMES: "What gives?" your mother asks. Obviously, not you, son.

DEAR ABBY: To the "Light-Fingered Transvestite" who stole women's undies rather than be embarrassed by buying them: Tell him to simply pick out what he wants and ask the saleslady to have them gift-wrapped. The saleslady will then envy the lucky lady who's to receive the gift rather than suspect the gentleman of cross-dressing.

BUYS A LOT OF GIFTS IN WICHITA

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Several years ago I was told I had a form of arthritis called "ankylosing spondylitis." Now I have a slight stoop from the back of my neck. My lower back is stiff and I have shortness of breath. I don't want to feel that this is hopeless, no matter what I am told about it. I would be grateful for your comment and advice, especially with regard to the breathing problem. — Mr. S.S.

Ankylosing spondylitis is a special form of arthritis of the spine. We don't usually think of the spine as having joints, but it does. Often the first joint affected in your ailment is where the spine joins the pelvic bone — the sacroiliac joint. It may progress to cause a spine stiffening all the way from the lower back up to the neck. That causes the stooping; the head is fixed in a downward gaze because of inability to bend the neck.

Breathing difficulty results because with this condition the ribs, which join the spine, lose their ability to expand when one is breathing in. This is particularly noticeable with deep breaths.

The goal of treatment is to minimize immobility and deformity. The patient is told to maintain as erect a posture as possible at all times, even when sitting.

From a deleted part of your letter, I gather that you are on the right therapy track. Sleep with a flat, firm mattress, using a very small pillow or none at all. Aspirin and indomethacin are examples of drugs taken to ease pain.

Try exercising the diaphragm muscle. Take a deep breath. Feel your abdomen pushing outward? The diaphragm muscle is doing that. Belly breathing can minimize breathing difficulty from ankylosing spondylitis, a condition which often begins in the 30s. More men than women have it. See the booklet "How You Can Control Arthritis" for a discussion of control measures for various forms of the disease. Other readers may order a copy by writing me care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

NOTE FOR E.S.D. — Your question is: Should a little girl with repeated urinary tract infections have X-rays? The answer is: Yes. She should have them to see if there is something in her urinary tract that is causing them.

For example, if her ureter (the tube from the kidney to the urinary bladder) has a narrowed section, there can be stagnation of urine there and that can cause stagnation of urine in the kidneys. The blocked urine provides a setting for infection, and repeated infections of the kidney can do irreparable harm. The X-rays are taken to find such faults and to see if they can be corrected surgically.

We all want to limit X-rays as much as possible. I am not blaming you for a natural concern. But we should not refrain from using X-rays to find out valuable information not available any other way. Proper precautions are taken and the appropriate organs and body parts are shielded in the process.

BEDWETTER

LET THEM HAVE A DRY BED

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family, too, is an end to this serious problem, and make no mistake, bedwetting is serious. It can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Send for our free brochure, "Bedwetting — What It's All About and How To End It!", a report by two medical doctors. No obligation.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PROBLEMS — Public drunkenness and disorderly conduct have plagued the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York for years, as seen in this 1981 photo. Schools will stay open this year to keep youths off the streets and police numbers beefed up to combat the annual unruly behavior.

New York's wild on St. Patrick's Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Schools stay open to keep children off the streets. Passengers are searched as they board trains. Emergency rooms brace for the busiest day of the year. A section of Central Park is closed. Up and down the main avenues, police are posted at every corner.

It's midtown Manhattan on the verge of St. Patrick's Day.

About a million people are expected to gather Wednesday to celebrate the importance of being Irish and watch the nation's biggest and oldest St. Patrick's Day parade move up Fifth Avenue.

But in recent years the parade has been afflicted by a plague of youths, many of them out of towners, who seem to regard New York on March 17 as a time for drinking, pushing, shouting, trashing, swearing, relieving themselves, vomiting and fighting in the streets.

This year, saying something had to be done "before we lose the parade," Police Commissioner Robert McGuire has assigned more than 3,700 police officers — 1,100 more than last year — to the parade.

"We've had thousands and thousands of teenagers consuming thousands and thousands of cans of beer and alcohol, terrorizing people, urinating in public and throwing up and worse," McGuire complained.

Last year Cardinal Terence Cooke urged that the celebration of the archdiocese's and Ireland's patron saint not be riddled with "outrageous" behavior, saying it had caused a day "of spiritual and cultural celebration" to lose much of its original meaning.

The cardinal will not attend the parade this year. At the request of Pope John Paul II, he will be in Rome for a special meeting of the Council of Cardinals. It's the first time since Cooke was named archbishop in 1983 that he will miss the parade.

And if he found the 1980 parade outrageous, 1981 was worse: 17 people were arrested, 20 injured and 52 given summonses for alcoholic offenses. Almost 150 cases of beer — a truckload were confiscated, as well as five keys.

It began early, as commuter trains and buses arrived from the suburbs. A member of the school board in suburban Brewster recalls seeing youths riding atop a New York bound Conrail train, drinking and throwing bottles.

By afternoon drinking was so widespread that police usually looked the other way if they could, despite a city law against consumption of alcoholic beverages in public.

The party spread from the streets into Central Park, where hundreds of kids scrambled up the rocks and hills around the skating rink, smashing empty bottles against the rocks. At the zoo, youths threw bottles at lions and tigers and swam in the sea lion pool.

One boy climbed up a 50-foot flag pole as a crowd chanted "Go, go, go," and others spiked beer cans atop the skating rink's comfort station. A few mounted the weather vane and swung around above the pavement.

Father's body pulled from lake

LAKE DALLAS, Texas (AP) — Authorities say they have closed their month-long investigation into the baffling disappearance of four members of a Lake Dallas family now that a fourth body has been pulled from Lewisville Lake.

The body of Kenneth Merrill, 32, was retrieved Monday. The body of his wife, Alice, 27, was discovered Saturday, along with the body of a 9-year-old daughter, Kendra Lee. The couple's other daughter, 6-year-old Kayleen, was found floating in the lake Feb. 21.

Autopsies showed that all four members of the Merrill family drowned, according to Eve Gray of the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office.

"They have no medical proof that anything happened except drowning," said Denton County Sheriff's Lt. Ron Douglas. "We'll let it go at that."

The Merrills disappeared on Valentine's Day after they left home on a family outing to gather firewood. The weekend trips had become something of ritual in the year since the family moved to the community of Lake Dallas from Adrian, Mich.

Labor leader says Texas farm workers underpaid

SAN JUAN, Texas (AP) — Farm labor leader Cesar Chavez accused the U.S. Labor Department of failing to enforce minimum wage laws with the result that many Texas farmworkers earn almost $1 below federal requirements.

"We tried to cover the entire Rio Grande Valley is a wage survey and found people are making $2.45 an hour," Chavez told a news conference Monday. "I couldn't believe it. That's lower than the Carolinas and Florida."

He said the survey conducted in the past two weeks covered 300 agricultural employers from Brownsville to La Jota.

Chavez arrived in Texas to lead a march beginning today at the federal courthouse in Brownsville. The marchers will cover 50 miles and meet Sunday here with another march originating from La Jota.

The two marches are to publicize farmworkers' wage demands to be paid the $3.35 minimum wage. Growers for years have disputed the union's claims of low wages.

Chavez said he will hand "hundreds" of wage complaints to Labor Department officials before the march.

However, the Labor Department's Brownsville office is located several miles away from the federal courthouse. Investigators will be at the office to receive complaints, a department spokesman said Monday.

"We have been acutely aware of the allegations of the UFW and we have re-extended a special invitation to them to bring their complaints," said Bill Nogues, assistant area director of the Labor Department's wage and hour section in Corpus Christi.

Nogues said in a telephone interview that 90 percent of cases involving alleged minimum wage violations are discovered by field crews driving through the Valley during harvest season.

"We're not waiting from complaints to come in from farmworkers. We're out there beating the bushes," he said.

UFW officials say they hope to attract more marchers along the route, as the group rallies each night in different towns before resuming the trek each day at 8 a.m.

Beware Red Heads — Bullies ready

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

WESTWOOD, Calif. — John Wooden, legendary basketball coach at UCLA, announced this morning that he has accepted the coaching duties for the Big Spring Bullies for tonight's exhibition game against the All-American Red Heads.

"This is the most unusual assortment of players I've ever seen," Wooden said at an interview at Pauley Pavilion where the team has been training in secrecy. "I don't know if they can handle Randle or can stall with Wall but there couldn't be a Wilder bunch."

Wooden has chosen a startling lineup that includes 5-8 Frank Ibarra at center, 5-11 Todd Spencer at one forward and 5-8 Dennis Launarey at the other. At point guard is 6-5 Harold Wilder with 6-5 Mike Randle playing a deep outside wing.

"Our strong points? Well, uhhmm, let's see, well, okay, aaah and that's about it," Wooden said. "Our only weaknesses are team speed, rebounding, shooting, ball-handling, quickness, defense, depth and calling time-outs while dribbling the ball."

As to stopping the scoring and rebounding of Red Heads star 6-10 Susan "Spike" Callahan. Wooden says, "She'll be no factor what-so-ever in tonight's game. I've assigned Launarey to guard her so close, he'll find out if she has pierced ears. Holiday wanted to guard her but always taking a 'vacation' on defense."

As for having Herald sports editor Jaklewicz on the roster, Wooden exclaimed, "I didn't know he was! I thought he was second team scorekeeper. Well, when we get ahead by 40 or 50 I'll try to sneak him in."

The Bullies bring a 0-0 record into the game, this being their world debut. The Red Heads have won 2,064 games in a row and are hoping to extend that win streak against the Bullies. Everett Blackburn will be on hand to administer salt pills, Geritol and triple-strength Gatorade to the players. After-the-game arrangements are being handled by Ron Logback.

In addition to representatives from Sports Illustrated, Texas Sports, the Associated Press and United Press International scouts from the professional teams Boulder Bouncers, Little Rock Longshots and Columbus Clutzes will be in the audience with contracts in hand.

Big Spring Bullies vs. Red Heads
Game time: 8 p.m.
Place: Steer Gym
Tickets: $3 adults, $2.50 children

For those unfamiliar with the Bullies, here is a player prospectus and quotes on tonight's game from each member:

MIKE "MAGIC" RANDLE (6-5) — A man with many great moves, just ask a couple of women he knows. A shy, laid-back type, he gets aggressive on the court. Sleeps with a basketball underneath his pillow.

"I've been trying to fake an injury so I don't have to guard the 6-10 girl. I'm also hopin' they need me to coach. Seriously, I'm a diversionary tactic ... I'll let them look at my body and we'll steal the ball."

FRANK "FOUL-PRONE" IBARRA (5-8) — A man with excellent pair of hands, so Red Heads watch out. Top notch defense, prefers man-to-man, especially tonight when his man is a woman. Known in some parts as the Ibarra Express. Best weapon is the hot tamale behind-the-back shot.

"I hope I don't get brain damage (from guarding Spike). We'll try to keep the score down. Since they are ladies, we'll give them a break."

ALLAN "HALF-COURT" HOLLIDAY (6-1) — An all-around athlete whose prime weapon is his bushy hair that often gets mistaken for a basketball. Great leaping ability, high jumped 4-3 in high school.

"My specialty will be the snowbird. I'll come off the bench, stand under our goal and yell 'Throw the ball!' I don't know what I'll do if I have to shoot over the 6-10 girl. Probably aim for the rafters."

RALPH "HOOK-SHOT" HARRIS (6-2) — A man who loves the game and will be out to have a little Tuesday night fun. Before that, however, he'll concentrate on the game. Once had a scholarship to Virginia but was bypassed to offer the big bucks to Ralph Sampson. Dedicated player, good for one or two points a season.

"We'll make them look good. I've had too many lessons in humility to endure this but I'm a good sport."

LARRY "LONG-SHOT" HELTON (6-0) — Probably in the best shape of any player on the team. Credits his conditioning to diet of raw fish, Johnson grass salad and cauliflower ice cream. Deadeye shot from the 2-3 foot range. Tough on the boards. Ask the players he's given licks to.

"I just hope I don't shoot a lot of bricks."

ROBBIN "OFF THE ..." WALL (6-0) — A real sleeper on the team. Found doing eight separate times behind the water cooler in practice. Says he knows how to handle these girls but isn't sure what he can do on the court. Excellent on drives to the basket, was told this week he'd have to leave his car parked outside.

"If we can handle their big woman, we'll be okay."

TODD "SPIDER" SPENCER (5-11) — Got his nickname because he's always crawling on the boards getting rebounds. Vertical leap of six and one quarter inches (off springboard). Once scored 29 points against Notre Dame in college with his shoes tied together. Drafted by A&W Root Beer out of Hoopstown State.

"I hear they're good and pretty big, that's all. I think a lot depends on the play of Coach Wall."

DENNIS "LADIES DELIGHT" LAUNAREY (5-8) — Wooden is worried that the game may have a late start when the Red Heads find out this guy is single. Could be a plus for the Bullies. While all five Red Heads guarding him man-to-man, leaves other four to score unmolested. Spaghetti at his house after the game.

"I have been dribbled by a few women in my life but tonight will be an exception."

Baseball reps, city set plan

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Representatives of all versions of hardball and softball met with city officials Monday to discuss the rising cost of electricity used by this form of summer recreation in Big Spring.

More than 40 persons crowded into the City Council chambers to give their views to Paul Feazelle, assistant city manager, and Tom Decell, director of public works, concerning additional charges to the various leagues for electricity.

After almost an hour and a half of discussion, agreement on a plan was reached. League presidents or qualified representatives will meet with city officials separately this week to give concrete proposals on how they can reduce electrical costs at their respective ballparks this summer.

When all five organizations have met with the city, the information will be studied and presented to the City Council for approval.

Because of rising costs, the city had suggested passing the cost on to each league, setting a meter at each ballpark. The idea met with heavy opposition and Cotton Mize informed Feazelle and Decell only one city — Lubbock — had meters at its ballparks.

Quoting from his research Mize stressed that most cities provided the service for its residents. Several other persons said the city received a great deal of revenue from out-of-town visitors coming to Big Spring for tournaments.

Electrical costs for 1981 totaled $12,963.11 with this summer's figures expected to rise to $15,000.

Little League representatives will meet at 4 p.m. today, men's and women's slow-pitch representatives at 11 a.m. Wednesday, girls softball at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Church slow-pitch at 4 p.m. Wednesday and fast-pitch at 6 p.m. Wednesday in an effort to list cost-reductions for 1982. All meetings will be in the Council chambers.

RON "LANE VIOLATION" LOGBACK (6-3) — Most modest, polite member of the Bullies. Named Man of the Year in 1938 by Red Man Chewing Tobacco Company. Will spend all night camped in the lane, guarding him in his Coleman tent could present a problem for Red Heads.

"I have very limited ability. I'm not sure as to whether or not I can make it for 2 or 3 minutes but I should be good for 20 or 30 points during that time. I have outstanding rebounding ability and that 6-10 girl should give me no trouble."

AUBREY "TIME-OUT" TODD (6-1) — Another 'darkhorse' on the team, Todd has the strength to muscle in there with the big girls. Meanest player on the team, once fined and suspended in college for fighting with Larry Bird. Called him a 'turkey.'

"We'll try to keep the scoring down. We hope, with our outstanding play, to discourage them from ever coming back again."

HAROLD "WIN, WIN, WIN!" WILDER (7-0) — Once was considered top prospect in country but too small. Always has envied Don Stevens' job of coaching girls so he's looking forward to tonight's game to show what he can do with five women. Best ball-handler on team, once dribbled through Times Square without being called for traveling.

(Wilder was not available for comment. He had an appointment with his guru in southern slopes of Andes Mountains.)

GREG "CAPTAIN JACK" JAKLEWICZ (height varies) — Key player to tonight's game, he'll have the key that will unlock the gym before the game. Brother of '76ers star Julius Erving (what do you think Dr. J stood for anyhow?). Likes half-court setshots, gunshots, hotshots and tetanus shots.

"I think our defensive secondary is stronger this year. Our running backs are improved and quarterback can hum the ball."

Aggies hound Huskies

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington Huskies lost their see-saw match with Texas A&M partly because they "couldn't foul quick enough," says Huskies Coach Marv Harshman.

Texas A&M's Claude Riley put up three key jumpers down the stretch, including the go-ahead bucket in the final minutes to put the Aggies on top, 69-65 in the National Invitational Tournament's second round.

After a ragged first half that saw the Aggies ahead at halftime, 33-31, the lead changed hands 10 times in one six-minute stretch as 6,000 basketball fans sat on the edge of their seats until the final minute.

Despite dropping behind 55-50 after Washington's Dan Caldwell sank two free throws with 9 minutes 25 seconds to play, the Aggies rallied behind 6-10 forward Riley and 6-0 senior guard Milton Woodley.

Riley hit the go-ahead bucket for a 62-61 lead with 2:58 to play before fouling out with 16 left.

He topped the Aggies with 17 points while Rudy Woods, who also fouled out, added 14. Caldwell paced the Huskies, 19-10, with 20 while guard Steve Burks added 18.

Woodley picked up his third foul midway in the first half. Without him, A&M's offense struggled for Woodley leads the team in assists.

Over three minutes, the Huskies ran off eight straight points for a 25-22 lead, but A&M bounced back to lead at the half as they turned to a slow-down game.

In the game's closing minutes, Woodley sank four of five free throws. His miss with :46 left and the Aggies leading, 64-63, gave Washington a chance to lead. But the Huskies' Brad Watson missed.

"We got the shot exactly where we thought the zone would give it to us," Washington Coach Marv Harshman said, adding his team found itself trailing in the final minute partly because "we couldn't foul quick enough."

Aggies Coach Shelby Metcalf said he "didn't change anything after Woods fouled out. Rudy fouls out of about half our ball games. We had people play tonight who hadn't been in more than one or two conference games."

The Aggies also lost guard Reggie Roberts to fouls with 4½ minutes to go. But reserves like Kevin Cunningham and Mike Thomas came through.

Metcalf said his club will be better prepared when it meets Purdue Friday night in third-round action.

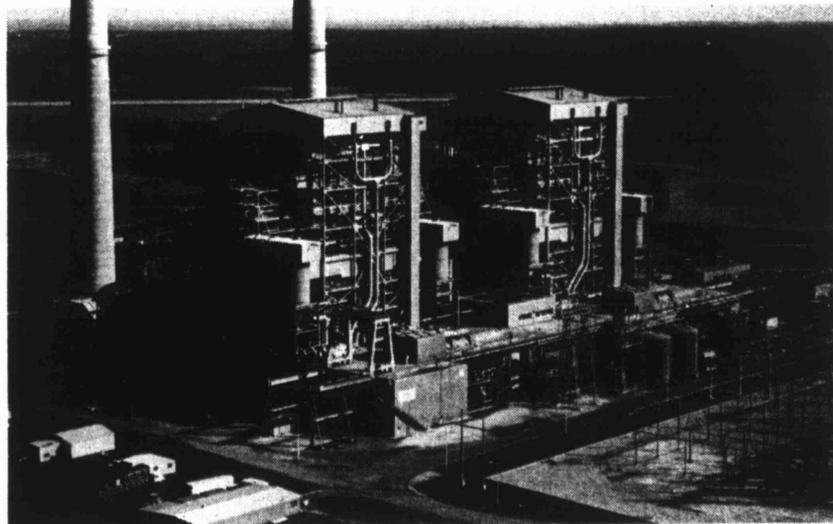

"One more win and we go to the Garden (for the final four in New York)," he said. The Aggies, who finished in third place in the Southwest Conference, are 20-10.

The Aggies shot 52 percent from the field compared with the Huskies' 46 percent.

"For a club that's shooting 46 percent from the field all year, they shot awfully well," Harshman said. "We've lived on the 15-footer all year and it just didn't work out for us at the end."

No question, electricity costs more now . . .

let's see why.

When this lignite-fueled plant was built in 1971-72, it cost $125 per kilowatt of generating capacity. Because of inflation and new regulations, this figure was up to $460 on a unit completed in 1981, and will climb to more than $1,000 in a few more years.

We Americans have always liked getting our money's worth on whatever we buy, and electricity is no exception. None of us like what's happened to our bills over the past 10 years.

The typical residential customer uses about 25% more electricity than 10 years ago, even with conservation.

But there's a bigger difference than that in our bills, and it's because the actual cost per kilowatt hour is now about 2½ times what it was that same 10 years ago.

Before 1970, kilowatt hour costs had been moving downward.

In those days we were building low cost plants to run on cheap fuel. But in the '70s, fuel stopped being cheap and the cost of building all power plants skyrocketed.

From 1971 to 1981, the price of natural gas went to 10 times what it had been, and the end's not in sight. That's why the plants your electric company has built and must build to meet customer needs use less expensive fuels like lignite coal and uranium.

The increasing cost of these plants, however, reflects the effects of inflation and new regulations. A million-kilowatt lignite-fueled generating plant which cost $125 million in 1971 would cost more than eight times as much (more than one billion dollars) if we started building it this year!

We don't like the way the price of electricity has gone up any more than you do. We do think it's important for you to know why it's gone up.

Rice cooking opponents

By The Associated Press
While the Boston Red Sox know the main man in their lineup is Jim Rice, who has been tearing apart opposing pitchers in spring training, they probably wish he would save some of those offensive exploits for the summer.

The Red Sox lost a 9-1 decision to the Cincinnati Reds Monday, but Rice wasn't to blame. He stroked three base hits and has seven hits in a row over the last three games.

In their first meeting since the 1981 World Series, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Yankees again, this time 6-4.

Elsewhere, the Toronto Blue Jays edged the New York Mets 3-2, the Atlanta Braves downed Florida State University 7-1, the Minnesota Twins took the Houston Astros 3-2, the Texas Rangers handed a split squad of Montreal Expos an 8-1 beating. Also, the Detroit Tigers outscored the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-3, the Baltimore Orioles bombed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-2, the Chicago Cubs blanked the Cleveland Indians 4-0, and, in night action it was the Chicago White Sox 12, the St. Louis Cardinals 4 in 11 innings and the Ucatan Lions over the Seattle Mariners 8-3.

Concern mounts on Rose injury

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The speculation continues over seriousness of Pete Rose's back injury. Rose, the Philadelphia Phillies first baseman, says it's a muscle pull he expects to go away soon. But the 40-year-old all-star has been able to practice just once this spring, and that concerns some.

"It's somewhat disturbing that the muscle spasms are still hanging in there," Dr. Phillip Marone, the team physician, said Monday. "Usually, a couple of weeks go by and it's OK. But this thing is three weeks old, now working on four."

Marone did say he thought Rose would be ready by April 6, when the Phillies open at home against the New York Mets.

"It doesn't hurt when he swings the bat," Marone said. "It hurts, though, when he plays first base." Rose has been limited to catching the ball during a pickoff drill. Under Marone's orders, Rose is not allowed to bend for ground balls.

Marone, who left Monday for Philadelphia, said Rose won't practice again until Friday, when the doctor returns to the camp. Rose first injured the muscle Feb. 20, and then hurt himself again in his only workout. But he brushed off reports that the injury was a significant one.

To demonstrate that his condition has improved, Rose on Friday showed reporters he could bend over and touch his ankles. "I couldn't tie my shoes the first two weeks," he said. "Can you tie them now?," someone asked. "I'm wearing snaps," he replied.

Texas stops Expos, 8-1

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Pat Putnam and Bobby Johnson both hit home runs Monday as the Texas Rangers defeated the Montreal Expos 8-1 in exhibition baseball. The Rangers, who improved their Grapefruit League mark to 4-3, worked over four Montreal pitchers for nine hits, including the blasts by Putnam and Johnson.

Texas pushed across its first three runs in the third on an RBI single by Al Oliver and a two-run double by Leon Roberts.

Oliver knocked in another run in the fifth when his double off Darren Dilks brought across the Rangers' fourth run. A sacrifice fly by first baseman Lamar Johnson made it 5-0.

Putnam and Johnson drilled their homers off the last of Montreal's pitchers, Greg Bargar, in the eighth to round out the scoring. Putnam's was a bases-empty blast, Johnson's came with a man aboard.

Montreal's only run came in the ninth when Dave Hostetler hit a solo homer off the Rangers' Bob Lacey.

John Butcher, who worked the first three innings and shut the Expos down on a pair of hits, picked up the win. Jeff Taylor got the loss.

Twins rally by Astros

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Minnesota's Dave Engle hit a two-out single in the ninth inning to rally the Twins to a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over the Houston Astros Monday.

Ray Smith reached base on third baseman Joe Pittman's error to start the Twins' ninth inning and Gary Ward followed with a run-scoring double to tie the game. Ward went to third base on shortstop Dickie Thon's error and scored on Engle's hit.

Houston took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on second baseman Phil Garner's two-run triple after Thon had singled and Terry Puhl had walked.

Little takes Olympia golf another year

CITY OF INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Sally Little once felt slightly guilty about collecting the $22,500 first prize in the Olympia Gold women's golf tournament.

Monday, however, she soothed her conscience — and picked up another $22,500 — for winning this year's tournament.

Little was declared the winner in 1981 because she led after the first two rounds. The final 36 holes were rained out. This time, the tournament again was plagued by rain, but it went the full 72 holes and Little scored a come-from-behind victory over Donna H. White.

"I just think I was meant to win it," Little said Monday after her 3-under-par 70 gave her a 2-stroke victory over White, who faded to a closing 76.

Earlier in the tournament, Little remarked that she "felt a little guilty" about winning the tournament in 1981 without going the distance.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 17, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you need to use tact and diplomacy in dealing with others since there is unusual sensitivity in the air. As the day progresses you'll find conditions improving.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to those duties ahead of you without delay and don't ask others for help. Not a good day to ask for advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't take advantage of the rights of others today or you could meet with stiff opposition. Maintain your poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Anything of a civic nature needs to be handled carefully at this time. Be sure you handle credit matters wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may feel you want to delve into new projects that appear inviting, but it's better to wait for a better day.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 21) Don't overlook obligations you must meet today. Loved one may be moody, so keep your distance. Cooperate more with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Pay close attention to the wishes of others today, particularly where your associates are concerned. Strive for success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take more time to engage in duties that could add to your income. Rely more on yourself than others at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be cheerful, even though those around you may be stern. Don't spend too lavishly on amusements now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An outside affair should await a better time before you go ahead with it. Establish more harmony with family ties.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Recheck a routine matter today and avoid a costly mistake. Being critical of an associate is unwise at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day for delving into money matters since your judgment is not up to par. Be more helpful to others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be positive in any business dealings today for best results. Avoid a group affair. Follow your hunches which are accurate now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will have a knack for getting in trouble, so teach ways to solve problems instead of creating them, and then this becomes a successful chart. There is musical talent here. Don't neglect ethical training.

Texans survey tornado damage

GOLDSBORO, Texas (AP) — Claud and Madeline Smith surveyed the destruction inflicted on their West Central Texas ranch by a weekend tornado and tried to figure out what to fix first.

"There's no way anyone could believe what happened without seeing it," Mrs. Smith said Monday. "Everything is gone ... There's nothing left except our home and ourselves."

"One of our friends suggested to him that we should throw up our hands and quit, but Claud said he was going to start all over and rebuild it," she said.

A funnel cloud skipped through a section of North Texas Monday, one day after at least five tornadoes flattened buildings in a three-county triangle of West Central Texas and a sixth hit a Dallas suburb.

The funnel was reported over a rural area about 12 miles southwest of Gainesville. No damage was reported.

The bulk of Sunday's destruction in the West Central Texas town of Winters.

At least five twisters were reported Sunday morning in a three-county triangle bordered by the West Texas communities of Norton, 57 miles southwest of Abilene, to Goldsboro, about 20 miles to the northeast, to Buffalo Gap, about 15 miles to the northwest.

Tornadoes also were reported in the Dallas suburb of Duncanville, where 18 houses were reported damaged early Sunday morning.

Witnesses in inmate trials want transfers

HOUSTON (AP) — Nineteen Texas Department of Corrections prisoners who testified in behalf of an inmate accused of killing two prison officials have asked a judge to transfer them to federal custody.

The inmates, who testified in Eroy Edward Brown's capital murder trial, charged Monday they were "harassed, intimidated and/or placed in fear of serious bodily injury at the hands of" prison officials before the trial.

They asked for an injunction barring TDC officials from using excessive force and violating the constitutional rights of the plaintiffs.

Brown also is charged with capital murder in the shooting death of prison farm manager Billy Max Moore.

Government renews toy ladder recall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced on Monday a renewed recall of a toy ladder on which a California child was killed last month, and one official criticized the toy's maker for a "very inadequate" recall effort the first time around.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission, in announcing it was cooperating in the recall of the Creative Playthings Indoor Gym House ladder, said as many as 239,000 of the toys may still be in consumers' hands.

The CPSC said the toy's manufacturer will replace the ladders free with a similar device with improved design.

The toy consists of a small ladder which leads to a platform, with a slide on the other side. Sandra Kitzes of the CPSC's compliance division explained that children had strangled on the device by sticking their heads between the top wrung of the ladder and the platform and getting stuck.

Economists surveyed

What's the value of an IRA?

How much is an Individual Retirement Account REALLY worth?

Figures compiled for The Associated Press show that if you had been able to open an IRA 30 years ago, you could be collecting more than $11,000 a year today.

You couldn't have opened an IRA in 1952, of course. They didn't exist until the mid 1970s and workers who were covered by company pension plans couldn't open an IRA until this year.

But the AP asked the U.S. League of Savings Associations to look at what might have happened in the past in an effort to put future IRAs into perspective.

The ads for the tax-deferred retirement accounts have been criticized for painting a false picture. Those ads say, for example, that $2,000 a year invested at 12 percent interest compounded annually will yield more than half a million dollars in 30 years and about a million in 35 years.

But the ads don't tell you — and no one knows — what a million dollars will be worth in 30 or 35 years.

To test the growth of an IRA in terms of spending power, the AP asked the league of savings associations to draw up a hypothetical account opened in 1952 by someone who was then 35 years old.

Economists for the league found contributions and interest to that hypothetical account would total nearly $70,000 today. The account would provide an annual payout, before taxes, of $11,509 — about half the median family income and more than double the average Social Security benefit.

The economists made several assumptions: —The account started with an annual contribution of $584. That's the equivalent of $2,000 today.

—Contributions rose gradually, with inflation, reaching the $2,000 level last year. The law governing IRAs sets the maximum contribution today at a flat $2,000 and does not provide for increases, but many people have suggested that the investment level will be raised in the future to reflect inflation.

—The interest rate was tied to the interest rate on three-to-five-year U.S. government notes. It started at 2.5 percent and rose gradually to 14.2 percent in 1981. Interest was compounded annually.

—The accountholder began withdrawals in 1982 at age 65. While contributing, he or she was in a 30 percent marginal tax bracket.

The league economists said contributions to the account over 30 years were $27,225. Interest was $41,109. The total: $68,334.

The law requires withdrawals to be made at a fast enough pace so that the money in the account will be exhausted by the time the holder has reached his or her life expectancy. In the case of the holder of the hypothetical account, the league economists said withdrawals would have to be made over an 11-year period.

Businesses seeking advice from elders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Feeling the pressures of a depressed economy, business is turning to older workers for solutions, a University of Southern California survey shows.

"When companies face some kind of crisis, as many are in the recession, they turn to a seasoned person," said Pauline Robinson, a specialist on the elderly and their employment problems and potentials.

There is a feeling these people have faced hard times before and that the experience may help companies, said Ms. Robinson, employment and retirement division director at USC's Andrus Gerontology Center.

Responding to a request from the House Select Committee on Aging, Andrus Center researchers surveyed 15 executive recruitment companies, finding that the age of executives being recruited has been rising.

"In the past, 55 seems to have been a sort of top limit over which a person isn't going to get hired," Ms. Robinson said. "But there may be some give on this now."

Although the USC survey dealt primarily with executives and managers, Ms. Robinson observed that companies also are showing interest in older workers for lower-level positions. She attributed that in part to the birth rate decline in the late 1950s and early 1960s, the "baby bust" that has resulted in fewer workers entering the marketplace now.

"Companies that need entry-level workers, such as fast-food chains, are now turning to older workers because we have fewer entry-level workers in our population now because of the baby bust," she said. "Other companies which need specific skills, such as those in the aerospace industry, are also turning towards the older worker."

Ms. Robinson said some industries, notably motion pictures and recording, discriminate because they believe a youthful image is important. But in finance or insurance, she said, older workers are often preferred.

The trend toward recruiting older workers could have several beneficial effects, Ms. Robinson believes. "It might help save the Social Security system and private pensions if work like this is extended, and it will also help older individuals who are grappling with inflation," she said. "There's another speculation. If we move from very large numbers of young people to more older people, we may find an increase in productivity."

Older workers, she explained, tend to be more productive because they require less training. "There's definitely less turnover with older workers, and there also may be a generational difference."

She also believes older workers may have a greater commitment to work. "They show up on Monday and they're not as demanding of the workplace," she said.

ELDRED GRAY
...certified public accountant

Eldred Gray can help you gain from tax act

This is income tax time. April 15 is only a little over three weeks away and you're probably looking for ways to get the most out of your return. Because of the Economic Recovery Act, your tax preparations are most important if you are to receive the best benefit possible.

It's complicated, but Eldred Gray, a Big Spring certified public accountant can help you sort through it all.

THE MOST IMPORTANT thing you need to do is review your entire tax plan so that you can benefit from the tax act. It's too late to do that for 1981, but Eldred Gray can help you make the smallest income tax payments possible. And he can get you started on a review of your tax plan for 1982.

Although it is against the law to not pay income tax, it is wise to pay as little income tax as possible. The government has given tax breaks for a number of things to make individuals' payments lower. Eldred Gray can help you find and use those breaks.

Among the things that can be deducted to make tax payments smaller are moving expenses, energy saving measures for the home, and job related expenses. Political contributions and contributions to charitable organizations can also be written off for savings to the taxpayers.

ALL OF THIS is not easy to understand; it often takes several different forms to get the needed breaks. Eldred E. Gray can help you. He has the qualifications necessary. He's been a certified public accountant for 15 years and has 25 years experience in preparing income tax forms. He knows the best ways to claim exemptions and dependents and can help you take advantage of the tax laws to the greatest advantage.

Eldred E. Gray is a self-employed accountant working in Big Spring. Call him today to make an appointment, and take a taxing load off your mind. Call Mr. Gray at 267-5938. He also offers services for bookkeeping, money management, and audits. He is open in the evenings for your convenience.

FOR JOB PLACEMENT
...see Big Spring Employment

Big Spring Employment puts right person in job

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a position is better assured by calling a professional employment service such as Big Spring Employment Agency, located in the Coronado Plaza.

Finding the right person for the right job is the duty of Mrs. Sue Brown and Mrs. Rubi Taroni, the experienced personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

EACH EMPLOYER has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements for the work, the salary to be offered and the availability of applicants. With this in mind, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Taroni carefully evaluate each applicant so employers do not waste time interviewing persons not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only those who measure up to the job's requirements.

Thus, fewer rejections plague the employer or the applicant. The employer sees fewer applicants, and fewer rejections make for better public relations. There is also a smaller personnel turnover, and the efficiency of employees tends to rise. Many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the services of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

BIG SPRING EMPLOYMENT carries on an extensive testing program in the area of office skills, exposing applicants to personal tests in business and industrial situations.

Both the employment counselors and the employers may refer to these tests as an indicator of future possibilities. All services are handled on a confidential basis.

From the minimum-wage clerk to the highly-paid executive, job applicants come to Big Spring Employment because they know private agencies are specialists in job-hunting and can, because of experience and contacts, place them in desirable jobs sooner than they can locate job themselves.

Applicants desiring employment in other parts of the state or country can be referred for interviews through associated agencies.
