Increased police patrol urged

Wasson Road speeders pose problem

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Citizens concerned about the possibility of more deaths on Wasson Road told the Howard County commissioners yesterday increased law patrol was needed to control speeding on the road. Two fatalities have been recorded there in as many years with the most recent taking place March 15.

Tony Taroni of Wasson Drive said the road is marked as 35 miles per hour, but the speed limit is ignored. Taroni stated another problem in the area was the lack of reflectors on a certain intersection as well as a yield sign which was always twisted away from the proper street.

The most constant violators of the speed limit were Halliburton services company and Price construction company but even a school bus had been observed speeding, Taroni said.

"We've got to get some law enforcement out there and start handing out some cotton-picking tickets," Taroni said. While he saw speeding problems only after 5 p.m., two women attending the commissioners meeting attested to the fact that most vehicles violated the speed limit on Wasson Road.

Taroni told the commissioners he was on the scene when the accident took place March 15 in which Steve Clark was killed. He said the city police arrived on the scene in 12 minutes and Schaffer Ambulance arrived in 15 minutes. "They both should be commended for getting there so fast," Taroni said. Sheriff A.N. Standard told the commissioners and the Wasson Road citizens that the sheriff's office would begin to patrol the road occasionally and the highway patrol would possibly begin radar checks on the area also. Sheriff Standard said he had contacted three companies which had been violators of the speed limit on Wasson Road. They had voluntarily agreed to slow their trucks and other traffic on the road, he said.

Commissioners discussed other possibilities for solving the speeding problem including a caution light and putting up stop signs. Taroni stressed to the commissioners that "we don't want to cost the county a lot of money but we just want to save life."

The commissioners met briefly with the Department of Public Safety about increasing patrols on Wasson Road.

In other action, commissioners heard from Jean Connelly, representing the Ambulance Review Committee, concerning a proposal from Schaffer Ambulance to buy a new ambulance.

The proposal asks for an additional $12,000 a year from the city and county to buy the $24,000 ambulance, but the committee proposed to have the city and county buy the machine and lease it to the ambulance service.

Connelly told the commissioners the purchase by the city and county would give them an ambulance in case anything happened to the present service. Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown, also on the ambulance committee, told his colleagues the ambulance cost should be divided the same as the current city-county cost is divided, with the city paying two-thirds.

Commissioners moved to have Judge Bill Tune propose to the city that the ambulance cost be divided the same as the $54,000 ambulance service cost. Presently, the city pays $36,000 and the county $18,000. No decision was reached by the commissioners.

Two accused liquor store bandits nabbed

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Quick action by store employees averted what could have been a dangerous situation during an attempted robbery last night of Pinkie's North Store on the Lamesa Highway. Two men are in Howard County jail following an armed robbery attempt of the liquor store on north U.S. 87.

Two Lamesa men, Timothy Hastings, 23, and Mark Kennedy, 20, are jailed on a charge of aggravated robbery. Sheriff A.N. Standard said, however, that a formal complaint was still pending with the district attorney's office.

The two men are being held without bond until formal charges are established, according to sheriff's office records.

Sheriff Standard said the two men allegedly entered Pinkie's at 8:10 p.m. carrying guns and attempted to rob the store. Deputy Sheriff Al White was summoned to the scene where he discovered an employee, identified as L.C. Caffey, had confronted the robbers with a gun, the sheriff said.

Deputy White, the store employees and later Deputy Carl Thurman forced the men out of a rest room where they had sought refuge and physically subdued them. Standard said shots were fired but that no one was shot nor was anyone seriously injured during the scuffle to disarm and subdue the alleged bandits.

Standard commended the calm, quick action of Pinkie's employees in preventing a potentially hazardous situation from getting out of hand.

Pinkie's manager Martha Caffey said she was "real proud of her employees for the way they handled themselves." She identified last night's employees as Laverne Winters, Martha Belew and Cody Carroll. She said her husband, L.C. Caffey, was on the scene as well.

Workshops will highlight alcohol, drug abuse meet

Big Spring's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum will be the site of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission's 9th Annual Regional Institute of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Studies. The Institute will be held on Friday.

Featured at the Annual Institute will be workshop sessions on youth and alcohol, kids from alcoholic homes, how to help the troubled employee, self-image modification training and the Texas Breath Alcohol Testing Program.

The special luncheon speaker will be Ross Newby, executive director of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism. A highlight of the Institute will be the performance of a skit, "Four Friends and a Fifth" by the Coahoma High School Student Council. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. with workshop sessions beginning at 9 a.m. and ending 3:30 p.m. Cost for attending the Institute is $15, which includes the luncheon.

The speakers for the Institute are Frank Stone, Texas Commission on Alcoholism Area II Coordinator, Dallas; Dr. David Martin, U.T. Health Science Center, Houston; Norma Trollinger, Technical Supervisor, Texas Breath Alcohol Testing Program, Midland; and Marcia Friedman, Women and Prescription Drug Abuse Project, Dallas.

For information regarding the Institute contact Cathy Clayton in Midland at 563-1061.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Street signs

Q. Why don't the street signs in Big Spring have numbers designating the block? It is impossible for a newcomer to find anything. Are there plans to correct this?

A. Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle says the signs were without block numbers before he came here seven years ago. An effort was made last year to work a change of street signs into the budget, but it didn't make it. The city is trying to place a multi-year change-over of street signs into next year's budget, Feazelle said.

Inside: Farm loans

TWO TEXAS SENATORS have joined with others to introduce legislation that would open up $600 million in economic emergency loans for farmers facing their biggest crisis in half a century. See story on page 3A.

THE 2,000 ILLEGAL Haitian immigrants being held in detention centers doubt they will ever be released unless a judge orders them free, said a lawyer sent on a fact-finding mission by a federal judge. See story on page 2A.

Tops on TV: 'Oliver Twist'

On Channel 7 at 7 p.m. is the premiere of "Q.E.D." Quentin E. Deverhill, an American science professor in 1912, goes to England in search of adventure. AT 8 p.m. on Channel 7 is a new adaptation of "Oliver Twist." George C. Scott and Timmy Curry star in this timeless Dickens classic about the troubles of a poor orphan boy. The movie coincides with the Spring City Theater's version scheduled for this Friday and Saturday.

Outside: Cloudy

Considerable cloudiness today turning fair tonight and Wednesday. High temperature today in the low 70s, while the low tonight is expected near 40. Winds today from the south at 10-15 miles per hour switching to westerly at 10-15 miles per hour tonight.

Columbia's tests under way

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Columbia, its tail broiled by the sun, soared through space today, its astronauts a little tired but eager to guide the ship through a demanding series of tests. They suggested one additional task: an inspection of some chipped tiles on Columbia's nose.

Overall, the mission was going nicely. "We've really got a gem going here," flight director Neil Hutchinson said at Mission Control. "We expected everything we wanted to do the first day, and we're looking forward to a really busy schedule for the next five or six."

Early today, Earth time, astronauts Jack R. Lousma and C. Gordon Fullerton were awakened to Willie Nelson's country music classic, "On the Road Again." Fullerton reported, "We've read the morning paper off the teleprinter," referring to overnight messages from Mission Control.

Lousma said that several of Columbia's 30,000 heat-protection tiles were missing and Fullerton suggested, "I'm thinking we ought to work in a little tile inspection" during the mid-day exercise of Columbia's robot arm.

The silica tiles, which protect Columbia during reentry, were apparently chipped, not missing, according to experts at Mission Control in Houston. The damaged squares are apparently located in a non-critical area, above the so-called sear line. "It's not a matter of concern, it's a matter of engineering curiosity," said Charles Redmond of NASA.

The astronauts said they did not sleep well and reported uneven cabin temperatures — sometimes too warm, sometimes a little chilly.

Overnight, said Lousma, "There was noise in my ear every time we hit the high point in the orbit ... I think we're going to make it through the day and hope to do it better tonight." Fullerton said, "I stripped down to my underwear for a while," while trying to sleep, but that it was cool enough this morning that "we both have our jackets on."

Doctors who spoke by radio with Lousma and Fullerton before they retired for their first night reported "they're enjoying what they're doing."

Especially Fullerton, the rookie. "Unbelievable — much fun," the space novice said Monday. At one point he was so busy gazing at the spectacular view that Mission Control broke in: "If we can interrupt your sight-seeing, we have a few items for you."

Lousma suffered from some "slight nausea," on Monday, but Hutchinson indicated this wasn't unexpected since he had suffered motion sickness and thrown up several times during the 59-day 1973 See Shuttle, page 2A

Reagan deficits criticized by banker

Has bottom dropped out of oil market?

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The head of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. says he supports the objective of President Reagan's economic programs, but he severely criticizes growing deficit spending written into Reagan's 1983 budget.

"That we face the prospect of a 50 percent increase in the national debt over the next few years from an administration elected to office on a platform of fiscal responsibility and restraint seems hardly believable," John F. McGillicuddy said Monday at a convention of the National Petroleum Refiners Association.

The banking leader spoke to about 1,000 refinery officials after the group's chairman, Robert H. Chitwood, told them that "the bottom has literally dropped out of the (oil) market."

"Oil prices seem to be falling faster than the stock market crash of '29 and many oil experts are beginning to wonder if we have indeed dropped into a bottomless pit," Chitwood said.

"These are perplexing times. A year ago we certainly didn't realize the kind of impact the recession and consumer conservation would have on the demand for our products," the refinery leader said.

No deadline on applications for police chief

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

Applications for the job of chief of police in Big Spring could be accepted by City Manager Don Davis for quite some time, Davis said this morning.

Davis yesterday named Lt. Bob Dugan as interim police chief in the wake of Elwood Hoherz' resignation from the chief's job. Davis said today he hasn't set a deadline for applications or a firm deadline for choosing the new police chief.

Dugan became acting chief of police yesterday and will be assisted by Hoherz until Hoherz' last day on the Big Spring force: March 31.

Hoherz is moving on to Weatherford where he will be chief of a 33-member police department. The Big Spring force employs about 70 persons.

Dugan is a patrol lieutenant with 25 years of law enforcement experience.

Davis reportedly will advertise in police and government journals for applicants for the job.

Applications from within the Big Spring Police Department will be accepted, Davis said, adding that he was unsure if any applications from within the department had been submitted yet.

A check with some ranking police officers this morning revealed that many are studying the opportunity and haven't made a firm decision yet.

Detective Lt. John Wolf was the only officer questioned who said his mind was made up about whether to pursue the chief's job. Wolf said he probably wouldn't seek the job.

Both Lt. Arvin Henry and Capt. Sherrill Farmer said they were undecided.

Skylab mission. Lousma took some medication and before turning in he reported to Mission Control's Sally Ride that he felt fine, ready for today's busy schedule.

The thermal tests, considered the most important of the flight, began Monday night, about 10 hours after Columbia had thundered majestically into orbit for the third time. Lousma, the ship's newest skipper, turned the tail to the sun, planning to hold it there for 25 1/2 hours.

Surfaces exposed to the sun register temperatures up to 250 degrees Fahrenheit; in shaded areas readings can drop to 215 degrees below zero.

Lousma planned later to turn the nose to the sun for 80 hours and then the top, exposing scientific experiments to solar rays for 26 hours.

Except for a few nagging technical problems, the winged spaceship was a flawlessly functioning machine.

"We've got a very clean spacecraft, and we're off to a great start," flight director Tom Holloway said five hours into the flight. "So far we've had a bright day."

In the early minutes, Mission Control detected overheating of one of the ship's three Auxiliary Power Units and directed the astronauts to shut it off. The units operate steering systems needed to get the craft into orbit back to Earth, but one is enough to do the job.

Later, Holloway said the same problem occurred on both previous flights and it appeared to be associated with the liftoff phase. He said the errant APU was expected to right itself when cool, and in any event would have no impact on the mission.

Coup attempt in Guatemala?

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Tanks surrounded the presidential palace at noon Tuesday and air force planes flew overhead in what appeared to be a military coup attempt.

Telephone calls to the palace could not get through. Sources said the international La Aurora airport was closed down and all civilian personnel told to leave.

Candidates face quiz at March 30 forum

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will host an Open Forum, Tuesday, March 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Tumbleweed Room at Howard College.

The forum is being presented to give the voters an opportunity to meet and hear the candidates seeking election on April 3, 1982.

Invitations have been mailed out to all candidates seeking a term on the Big Spring Independent School Board, Howard College

No shots were heard but heavily armed troops and tanks were seen around the main plaza in front of the presidential palace and behind it, where the presidential residence is.

An officer who answered the phone at the Army Chief of Staff's office declined to give his name and said only he could "neither confirm nor deny" the rumors of a coup.

Anyone may submit questions by letter or may leave at the Chamber office, to be presented to the candidates. Deadline for submitting questions will be 5 p.m., March 29, 1982.

The Governmental Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce urges everyone to register for the May 1 Primary. Deadline for registering is April 1.

Police Beat

Man faces assault, gun charges

Police said they arrested Clyde Myles of 1516-A Sycamore for unlawfully carrying a weapon and aggravated assault at 9 p.m. yesterday.

According to police reports, Officer Bobby Armstrong was called to investigate a disturbance at the above address and was told by Donna Gibson, also of 1516-A Sycamore, that Myles had pointed a gun at her.

Armstrong said he spotted Myles and apprehended him at the intersection of 11th and Victory after a brief motor vehicle chase.

Myles allegedly was found with a .22-caliber revolver on him, according to police reports. The weapons offense is a class A misdemeanor under the Texas Penal Code.

Linda Maxwell of the OK Trailer Court was arrested at 5:20 p.m. yesterday for failure to identify herself as a witness after she allegedly gave a police officer a false name and address on traffic citations.

The Medlock Corp. office at 1002 N. Main was the scene of a $4,690 burglary recently, according to police reports. Numerous tools worth that amount were reported stolen to police yesterday after the office manager returned from out of town, police said.

Western Auto at 504 S. Johnson was the scene of a recent burglary when $2,737 worth of items were stolen from the store, according to police reports.

Former City Manager Harry Nagel told police a money bag was stolen from his 509 Dallas home. Inside the bag were credit cards, cash and checks worth an undetermined amount, according to police reports.

Knack Joshua Cox, who was set to go to trial Monday, pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) in 118th District Court Monday to the charge of indecency with a child by exposure.

Shirley Oakley of the Howard House Hotel, 118 E. Third, told police the radio was stolen from her automobile while the vehicle was parked in the hotel's parking lot recently.

A .38-caliber pistol was reported stolen from the City Pawn Shop at 204 Main yesterday, according to police reports.

Deaths

E. Montelongo

Eliseo S. Montelongo, 88, of 411 NW Fourth, died at 4:45 a.m. this morning at his daughter's home. Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Funeral services are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Born June 14, 1893 in Zacatecas, Mexico, he came to El Paso with his parents in 1904. He moved with his family to New Mexico and later to Big Spring in 1905. He received his U.S. citizenship on Sept. 3, 1975. He was retired from the Texas and Pacific Railroad.

He married Jovita Villa and she preceded him in death in 1945. He later married Casamira Velarde on Oct. 7, 1948. She preceded him in death in 1966. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Survivors include three daughters, Magdalena Silvas and Antonia Terrazas, both of Midland, and Maria Louisa Rodriguez of Big Spring, 17 grandchildren and 43 great-grandchildren.

Virgie Quaid

STANTON — Virgie McNabb Quaid, 73, of Stanton, died Sunday evening in Odessa after a lengthy illness.

Services were at 3 p.m. today at the Bellview Church of Christ in Stanton with Rick Laninge, minister of the church, officiating, and assisted by Loy Mitchell of Odessa. Interment will be in Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

She was born June 10, 1908 at Elmore City, Okla. She had been a resident of Stanton for 23 years. She was married to George Leland Borger, Winnetta Todd of Bartlesville, Okla. and Laverne Robinson of Austin; two sisters, Bertha Foster of Duncan, Okla. and Audra Files of Kilgore; 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Survivors include one son, Darrell Quaid of Stanton; five daughters, Lelia Bryant and Dena Baggett, both of Odessa, Gay Coston of Borger, Winneta Todd of Bartlesville, Okla. and Laverne Robinson of Austin; two sisters, Bertha Foster of Duncan, Okla. and Audra Files of Kilgore; 12 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Two placed on probation

Knack Joshua Cox, who was set to go to trial Monday, pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) in 118th District Court Monday to the charge of indecency with a child by exposure. Cox was given a three-year probated sentence by District Judge Jim Gregg.

For the record

Brandy Taylor's mother and stepfather were inadvertently omitted from a photo caption identifying Brandy as winner of the Elbow Elementary School Spelling Bee. The caption should have said that Brandy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George West of Sterling City, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Taylor.

A story on page two of Monday's Herald states Steve Clark, who was killed in an automobile crash March 15, was killed on the scene, as reported by DPS trooper Dean Richardson. Actually, Clark died after transfer to the hospital, according to DPS personnel.

Lawyer: Haitian detainees doubt they'll leave detention centers

MIAMI (AP) — The 2,000 illegal Haitian immigrants being held in detention centers doubt they will ever be released unless a judge orders them free, said a lawyer sent on a fact-finding mission by a federal judge.

Miami attorney Joel Hirschhorn, asked by the judge to visit detention centers in Puerto Rico, Texas and New York, made the statement Monday during testimony in a trial to determine whether the Haitians are being illegally held by U.S. authorities.

Hirschhorn told Ira Kurzban, attorney for the Haitian Refugee Center Inc., that "the Haitians in those facilities don't think they'll ever be released until a judge orders them released."

But Hirschhorn was not permitted to testify about the circumstances under which he was appointed special master by U.S. District Judge James Kehoe — to find out if 92 Haitians who had abandoned efforts to be admitted to the United States had been coerced into the decision.

The current trial before federal Judge Eugene Spellman concluded its sixth day Monday, with only questions of illegal detention and access to lawyers by Haitians yet to be ruled on by Spellman.

Following his appointment as special master last November, Hirschhorn visited detention camps in Fort Allen, Puerto Rico, Otisville, N.Y. and La Tuna near El Paso, Texas.

Inflation's gain is small

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempered by falling gasoline prices, inflation rose at an annual rate of just 3 percent in February, the smallest gain since July 1980, and much the product, economists said, of the sharp recession.

In advance of today's report by the Labor Department, some economists even predicted the recession, a worldwide oil surplus and abundant food supplies might actually produce small declines in the Consumer Price Index in the coming months.

For February, the department reported today, inflation rose a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent, off from the 0.3 percent of January, until last month the smallest advance since the summer of 1980.

February's gain was well under the 1 percent increase of February 1981. If last month's figure held for 12 straight months, the annual rate would be 3 percent.

For all of 1981, inflation rose 8.9 percent, well below the 12.4 percent of 1980 and the smallest increase in four years. Most analysts are forecasting an increase ranging from 6 percent to 7 percent for all of this year.

Consumer prices rose 7.7 percent in the last 12 months, the smallest yearly advance since the period ending in June 1978, the department said. In another sign of the slowdown in inflation, the department also said consumer prices had risen at an annual rate of 3.7 percent for the three months ending in February, the lowest gain since the period ending in May 1976.

Today's report said food prices climbed 0.6 percent in February, a little lower than January's 0.7 percent. Housing costs were up 0.4 percent, about in line with the gains of the last three months.

Energy costs, however, tumbled, as did prices for new cars due to the rebate programs offered by domestic automakers.

Gasoline prices fell 2.3 percent after a 1.7 percent drop in January. The drop was the biggest since the 2.7 percent drop of April 1981. New car prices were down 0.8 percent, following a 0.1 percent fall in the previous month. Used car prices were up 0.5 percent, compared with the 0.3 percent of January.

American Airlines seeks London route

DALLAS (AP) — American Airlines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to let it fly Braniff International's London route, a weekly newspaper to employees says.

The American newspaper said Monday that the airline pointed out what it considers strong points over Braniff in seeking the prized route, of which Braniff was given temporary custody in 1978. Braniff's two-year authority will expire next January and a CAB hearing for permanent authority on the route will be conducted later this year.

In a question-and-answer column in the same newspaper, American agreed with an employee who said he considered it "discriminatory" for lenders to make concessions to

Texas senators favor emergency farm loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the time the Farmers Home Administration processes all the operations loans the nation's farmers need to continue in business, it will be too late to do them any good, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says. The Texas Democrat and 17 other senators, including Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, joined in introducing a resolution Monday that would open up to $600 million in economic emergency loans for farmers facing their biggest crisis in a half century. Senators and representatives from both parties have made similar pleas to Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, both privately and in congressional hearings in the past several weeks. Bentsen said Block's only response is to say that at some unspecified time he will issue proposed regulations for the program. "This is totally inadequate. Many farmers have already started planting. They should already be well along on land preparation, and they do not have time to wait around for the bureaucracy," Bentsen said. "They need financing now — not next week, next month, or next year. For many farmers, there is no next year." Other senators sponsoring the legislation are John Stennis, D-Miss.; David Boren, D-Okla.; Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb.; Walter Huddleston, D-Ky.; David Durenberger, R-Minn.; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.; Carl Levin, D-Mich.; Paul Sarbanes, D-Md.; Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.; David Pryor, D-Ark.; J. Bennett Johnston, D-La.; James Exon, D-Neb.; Wendell Ford, D-Ky.; James Sasser, D-Tenn.; and Max Baucus, D-Mont. The resolution noted that farm income is lower than it was in 1932, which for agriculture was the worst year of the Depression.

Economic recovery years away

After 100 days, Poland still hurting

EDITOR'S NOTE — Today marks the 100th day of martial law in Poland. In that time the lot of the average Pole has hardly changed and the problems that led to the military crackdown remain the same. By W. JOSEPH CAMPBELL, Associated Press Writer. WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The lot of the Poles has not improved in 100 days of martial law and rulers say economic recovery is at least two or three years away. "I don't think they have that kind of time, or that the people can wait that long," a Western diplomat said. "Poland is already an economic basket case." Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's Dec. 13 military crackdown has enforced order in streets, factories and mines, ending 16 months of labor turmoil. But the same refrain is heard from shoppers waiting in long lines for scarce goods: there are still no fresh oranges. "The people are weary," one government official said. "They have no idea of how the future is going to turn out, and that is a cause for much concern." Jaruzelski meant to stop what the government saw as a challenge to the Communist Party's supreme authority by the independent union Solidarity. The 9.5 million-member union was suspended in the crackdown, its leaders were detained or are in hiding. The premier said he also wanted to stop Poland's economic decline that brought chronic food shortages, strikes and a $25.5 billion foreign debt. But statistics indicate production has sharply declined in almost all industries since the military took over, and that authorities must increasingly rely on the Soviet Union, Poland's main ally, for food and raw materials. Recent government figures show meat deliveries will be one-third less this quarter than the same period last year. This has prompted officials to warn of more meat rationing, now limited to about five pounds a month for adults. The government blames many of its food problems on the economic and trade sanctions imposed by the Reagan administration to protest the crackdown. It is unclear how Poland expects to pay the $10 billion of foreign debt that falls due this year. It took the government three extra months to pay the interest due in 1981. The faces of people remain strained and the government seems determined to rule by coercion. An all-night curfew is still enforced and soldiers with automatic weapons are a common sight. "Martial law shocked people, this is true," Justice Minister Sylwester Swadzki said last week. "But it also made them rethink the past, re-establish their values and look for new ways." Most Poles are doubtless still coming to terms with the effects of the precision military action that shattered Solidarity, the first union in the Soviet bloc free of government control. Despite rumors that remnants of the union have planned some sort of spring resistance, no effective opposition has taken place.

U.S. releases chemical warfare report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reagan administration officials acknowledge its detailed report charging the Soviets with using chemical weapons in Asia contains little new information, but they hope it will convince other nations to join in condemning the Soviet Union. The State Department released a 31-page report Monday that said Soviet-provided chemical weapons have killed more than 10,000 people in Afghanistan, Laos and Cambodia. The report, which also was sent to Congress and the United Nations, said 6,310 people were killed in Laos and 981 in Cambodia, chiefly from "yellow rain." An additional 3,042 were killed in Afghanistan, including some by an unknown "mystery agent." Since last year, administration officials have claimed repeatedly that the Soviets and their allies are using chemical weapons, and Monday's report was billed as the most comprehensive collection of evidence to date.

"Those who have followed this issue over the years may not be surprised, either by the substance, or the straightforward nature of these conclusions," Richard Burt, head of the State Department's bureau of politico-military affairs, told a Senate subcommittee after the report was released. "On the other hand, those who have not followed these developments closely, or who have formed the impression from press reports that evidence of chemical weapons use consisted of no more than a single leaf and stem, should be struck by the extent of information in this report, and by the variety of sources from which it is drawn." Burt acknowledged that there still will be critics who say the administration hasn't proved its contentions. "There are some who will never be persuaded, but this report leaves them little to justify their skepticism," he said.

Shortly after the report was issued, the Soviets branded the charges as "dirty lies." The Kremlin didn't say toxins are not used in Afghanistan, but said they were supplied by the United States to "bandit units" fighting Soviet troops since they entered the country in 1979. As for Southeast Asia, the Soviet news agency Tass called the "yellow rain" reports "fables" and said the Soviets have "never used warfare toxic agents anywhere." Four months ago, officials from the United Nations investigated the U.S. charges and concluded they could neither verify nor dismiss the contentions. Burt, in presenting the report Monday, said it was being issued to refute charges that the United States had little or no evidence for its claims. The report said the conclusions were based on eyewitness accounts from victims, bystanders and defectors from Soviet-backed forces.

Weather

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for Wednesday predicts flurries in parts of Wisconsin and Michigan turning into a band of snow in Canada. Showers are expected through the Virginias, Carolinas and coastal Georgia. Showers are also likely in the Appalachians from Arkansas to New York state.

Twister sighted in Southeast Texas

By The Associated Press. A funnel cloud was sighted in Liberty County early today as heavy thunderstorms moved across Southeast Texas. There was no damage and no evidence indicating that the twister touched down when it was sighted about 20 miles west of Daisetta, the National Weather Service said. In addition to the thunderstorms in Southeast Texas, showers and a few thundershowers were reported during the night in Northeast Texas and some light rain fell in the San Antonio area. Skies were clear over the Panhandle and West Texas early today and cloudy elsewhere over the state.

Early morning temperatures were in the 30s and 40s in the Panhandle and West Texas and in the 50s and 60s over the rest of the state. Extremes ranged from 30 at Amarillo to 67 at Corpus Christi. Some early morning readings around the state included 37 at Wichita Falls, 51 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 53 at Lufkin, 55 at Houston, 54 at San Antonio, 52 at Midland and 42 at El Paso.

FORECAST: WEST TEXAS — Generally fair through Wednesday. Warmer most sections today. Highs low 60s Panhandle to near 90 Big Bend valleys. Lows low 30s Panhandle to near 50 extreme south. Highs Wednesday mid 60s Panhandle to low 90s Big Bend valleys. EXTENDED FORECAST: WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy. A chance of thundershowers southwest Friday and entire area Saturday. Continued mild afternoons and cool nights. Highs 50s and 60s north to 70s and 80s south. Lows 30s north to 40s and 50s south.

Budget cuts may force closing of 'moon lab'

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — While the shuttle vaults America into a new era of space exploration, budget cuts are threatening to shut down one of the last elements of an old era — the laboratory that houses the Apollo moon rocks. More than 800 pounds of lunar material brought to Earth in six moon-landing missions are stored in air-tight vaults at a curatorial facility at the Johnson Space Center. Thousands of samples have been processed in the lab since the return of Apollo 11 in 1969, and about 14,000 samples are still under study by scientists around the world. But a proposed bare bones National Aeronautics and Space Administration budget may force the moon laboratory to shut in 1983, cutting off the lunar material from further study. Michael Duke, curator of the facility, said it takes about $1.5 million a year to keep the laboratory in full operation. Plans under study would shave the lab budget by at least half and perhaps to as low as $300,000. "Just to maintain the integrity of the samples will take about $300,000 a year," said Duke. "That would put us at a bare caretaker level. A cut to $700,000 would enable us to do some work." Two hundred laboratories around the world have studied the lunar rocks, but the number of scientists has declined in recent years. There are now about 50 teams analyzing samples, said Duke. For astronomers and astrophysicists, the lunar rocks have been a bonanza. The material has provided a fundamental understanding of planetary formation, said Duke, and much that has been learned can be applied to the Earth. "We are only now putting together a story of the moon's crust. When we understand that, then we'll know also how the Earth's crust was formed," said Duke. "Everything we've learned helps us to pinpoint on Earth where mineral resources can be found and to learn how volcanoes operate." There is no other facility in the world like the moon lab. First called the Lunar Receiving Laboratory, it was initially designed to conduct studies of the moon samples and to isolate returning moon astronauts. Scientists for a time worried that the moon rocks, and the men who collected them, could be bringing to Earth bacteria or viruses that could cause disease. After three moon missions, NASA dropped the requirement for isolating the specimens, but continued to keep the rocks in stainless steel vaults filled with dry nitrogen gas. The lunar material has been studied in hundreds of different ways. Age tests dated some of the rocks at 4.5 billion years, the oldest material known. Dust samples were fed to laboratory animals and insects, with little effect. Seeds were grown in some of the lunar samples and scientists found that certain plants thrived in the soil.

Two more Texas firms charged with bid-rigging

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Road contracting firms from Denison and Wichita Falls are the latest to be charged in a multi-state investigation of bid-rigging. Named in federal "information" — a charge from the U.S. Attorney's office rather than an indictment from a grand jury — were Lattimore Materials of Denison and Dircon Corp. of Wichita Falls. Lattimore was charged with conspiracy to restrain trade in connection with a Lamar County highway project contracted in April 1980. Dircon was charged with restraining trade in bidding on a Wichita County highway contract in June 1977.

New study cites TV bias

Did the TV networks help or hinder the American public in understanding the causes and finding cures for the energy crisis of the past decade?

The answer to that question, according to the Media Institute in Washington, is that "television taught us very little ... in fact, it may have contributed to the public's confusion."

THAT CONCLUSION is the result of an exhaustive study of network news coverage of the '73-'74 and '78-'79 oil crises. In its study, the Media Institute examined nearly 1,500 separate evening news telecasts by the three major networks. These are some of the findings:

- The networks virtually ignored the rule of supply and demand in discussing causes or cures. "Price was depicted as a problem rather than a possible solution."

- Conservation, rationing, regulation and price controls received three times as much coverage as free market solutions.

- The networks relied on the government as their main source of information more than half of the time. Outside experts were the source of information only 2 percent of the time.

- The oil industry and OPEC were identified as the cause of the crisis four times as often as government. But when solutions were discussed, more than three-fourths of the ideas came from government sources. "With near single-mindedness, television covered a narrow set of solutions that featured the government and ignored the price mechanism."

BILL MOYERS recently observed that "Most of the news on television is, unfortunately, whatever the government says is news." The Media Institute's study clearly indicates that the networks did not provide the viewing public with balanced coverage of the oil crises, utterly failing to examine the government's role in causing and prolonging the energy crunch.

Winter brings out the worst

WASHINGTON — There is something about winter that brings out the worst in all of us. I realized this when I was watching the "Today" show, and Willard Scott was standing in front of his map of the United States.

Willard started off by telling me that the northwest part of the United States was experiencing heavy rain and sleet from Seattle to Billings, Montana. "Good for them," I said to myself. "They deserve it." I have no explanation for this type of reaction as I have nothing personal against anyone in Seattle or anywhere between it and Billings, but for some reason it didn't bother me that the people in that area were going to have a bad day.

Willard continued his report: "A large arctic front coming down from Canada should drop a foot of snow on Nebraska."

"Better than than us," I said to the TV set. "Besides, Canada must have a good reason for dropping a foot of snow on Nebraska."

"Chicago can expect wind-chill factors of minus 20," Willard continued, "with winds up to 35 miles an hour."

"If people are dumb enough to live in Chicago," I told Willard, "then they can't complain about the wind-chill factors."

The map showed a dark line coming up from the Gulf of Mexico. Willard said, "Down here a storm is developing that could hit Galveston and Houston by noon. It is not yet a hurricane, but the National Weather Service is watching it carefully."

My wife came into the bedroom at that moment. "What's going on?" she asked.

"Willard says there could be a hurricane in Houston."

"Will it hit us?"

"No way," I laughed gleefully. "It will blow itself out before it gets to Oklahoma."

"I'm glad we don't live in Houston," my wife said.

"It's 86 in Los Angeles, 90 in Phoenix and Albuquerque," I told my wife. "As for the East Coast, cold air from the North and warm air coming up from Georgia could cause snow and frost from Virginia to Boston."

"What's so funny about that?" I shouted at Willard.

"And now for a forecast from your local station," Willard said.

A voice-over intoned, "Washington can expect an inch of snow by late this morning. Travel advisories are out as driving conditions could be very hazardous."

"Wouldn't you know it?" I said to my wife. "We always get the worst weather in the country."

Just then the phone rang. It was my friend, Ira Harris, calling from Palm Beach, where he owns a condominium.

"I see you people are going to have a blizzard," he said in a voice filled with joy. "It's 79 down here and I'm on my way to play golf."

"Thanks for rubbing it in," I told him. "Some people can't have a good day unless they know someone else is suffering."

A failure

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a failure as a person. I don't like my personality or my physical appearance, and I don't think I can do anything about them. Does God care about me? —A.L.T.

DEAR A.L.T.: Yes, God cares about you very much, and he does not want you to feel that you are a failure or unimportant and insignificant. He created you, and he did not make a mistake. That does not mean you should be complacent about yourself — there certainly may be things you need to do to grapple with some of your problems. But God loves you, and the proof of that love is that he was willing to send his son into the world to die for your sins. "This is how we know what love is: Jesus Christ laid down his life for us" (1 John 3:16).

The first thing you need to do is accept by faith the fact that God loves you. You can do this by inviting Jesus Christ to come into your life and cleanse you of your sins. Realize that you are very special to God, and he wants to enter your life and make you his child. "How great is the love the Father has lavished on us, that we should be called children of God!" And that is what we are! (1 John 3:1).

This can be your experience if you will accept the fact that God loved you so much he was willing to let Christ die for you. Ask God to help you see yourself the way he sees you.

Then ask God also to give you the wisdom and strength to change things in your life that are critical person who has a hard time getting along with other people, or maybe there is another aspect of your personality that you know is not right. Commit this to God, and ask him to help you overcome these and replace them with the fruit of the Holy Spirit. "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control ... Since we live by the Spirit, let us keep in step with the Spirit" (Galatians 5:22-23, 25).

Finally, commit your future to Christ and seek his will. He has a purpose for your life, and there is no greater joy in life than discovering God's purpose and doing it. Let that be your experience.

Around the Rim

Red River

RED RIVER, N.M. — It's almost quitting time in this little resort town in the southern Rockies.

At the end of March, Red River will close down for a couple of months. Its population, roughly 300 people, will close down the shops and condominiums and ski lifts. Most of them will leave the area and travel down to the flatlands.

Where will the inhabitants of this increasingly popular vacationland go? On vacation, of course.

Red River is not your normal town. It is devoted almost entirely to tourism and recreation. Located in an Alpine valley close to the New Mexico-Colorado border, it has been a well-kept secret for a number of years. Those who know about it and have visited it cannot be convinced that there is any place better.

That, in a way, is how Red River attracts its residents. Ron Perryman, a fireman in Irving, Texas, for a number of years, is an example. He visited Red River many times for vacations and in October of last year moved his family to the town.

"I wouldn't trade it for anything," Perryman says. He now works for Red River Stage Lines Inc. and drives to Albuquerque to pick up guests. He also takes tourists on snowmobile excursions in the winter and jeep excursions in the summer. Mostly, he says, he enjoys living in the town.

"THE PEOPLE are great," he says. "Most of them are here for the same reason. They love the area and they love the opportunity to work here."

Residents of Red River fall into two groups. All of them are called "locals." One group, referred to as "the older ones," resent the town's development and the influx of skiers and backpackers. They live in Red River because they enjoy seeing mountains out their windows.

The other group, the "younger" ones, have come to go into business. They either open their own stores, or like Perryman, go to work serving the tourists. They work with the crowds instead of complaining about them.

Like those crowds, many of the residents come from Texas. Mary Wallace, who manages Johnson's Gift Store, has taught school in Wichita Falls. "I've been living in Red River in the summer for 14 years," she said. "This is the first time I've come out here in the winter. I absolutely love it."

"I came out here with my parents when I was a teenager," she said, "but I got my job teaching school in Wichita Falls. I'll go back there during the off season, but it's hard to leave this place for very long."

Then there is Jimmy Coleman, a singer and guitarist from a small town north of Houston. He came out in January and has been performing at Texas Reds restaurant and "drinking establishment." He stands on the stage, downs tequila and beer and goes through such songs as Creedence Clearwater Revival's "Proud Mary" ("People in Red River are happy to give," he sings) like he'd written them himself the night before.

Coleman will be performing in a Houston restaurant when Red River is quiet from April until June. Other "locals" will take the word "vacation" seriously and vacate. They'll go to visit relatives or see other parts of the country. Summer at Red River is actually busier than winter, since more Americans like to fish and hike than like to ski. A period of rest is probably needed.

AS ONE STORE owner (an Oklahoma City native) put it, "This is our home. Like everybody else we want to get away."

Even if your home is nestled in the Sangre de Cristo range of the Rocky Mountains.

Fable of the bear

WASHINGTON — A Bear was traveling across Europe by train. A Rabbit came into the compartment, sat down beside him and began to show signs of extreme nervousness.

"You seem upset," the Bear said to the Rabbit. "What's the matter?"

"I lost my ticket," the Rabbit said.

"The conductor is going to come by and ask for the tickets. When he finds that I don't have mine, he'll throw me off the train."

"Don't worry," the Bear said. "If there's any trouble, I'll protect you."

Half an hour later the conductor started coming through the train. Just before he reached their compartment, the Bear opened the window, scooped the Rabbit up in his left paw and held him outside the train.

The conductor asked the Bear for his ticket. The Bear handed it over with his right paw. The conductor punched it, and started to leave. Then a gleam of suspicion came into his eyes.

"Are you hiding something outside the window?" he asked the Bear. "What's in your left paw?"

"NOTHING, absolutely nothing," the Bear said. He dropped the Rabbit, who was crushed beneath the train. Then he brought in his left paw, and held it up to the conductor. "You see," the Bear said. "It's empty."

That story was told by Yuli Kvit-sinsky, the chief Soviet delegate to the Geneva talks between Russia and the U.S. on the limitation of intermediate-range nuclear forces based in Europe. While there may be Aesopian nuances to the tale, the central thrust seems clear.

The Bear, of course, is the Soviet Union. The Rabbit is West Germany, or more specifically the government of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt. The conductor is the administration of Ronald Reagan. The train represents the Geneva talks — and by extension the whole arms control negotiation.

West Germany is currently a plaything of those talks. The Schmidt government approved, back in 1979, the famous double-track decision. It provided that the U.S. and its allies would begin stationing 572 Pershing II and cruise missiles on the Continent in 1983, unless Russia agreed to scale back the SS-20 and other intermediate-range missiles it has been deploying.

Since then many West Germans have developed cold feet about stationing more nuclear weapons on their soil. In that sense, Bonn has lost its ticket to the disarmament train. Now all of the chancellor's hopes are based on a successful outcome of the Geneva negotiations for scaling back intermediate-range missiles on both sides. In that sense, the Rabbit has put itself at the mercy of the Bear.

As to the conductor, the Reagan administration has, to an astonishing degree, played the part of the heavy. It complained extravagantly about the trickiness of the Bear, and the need to be on the alert for traps, particularly in arms control talks. It introduced only grudgingly last December a proposal whereby the U.S. would cancel plans to deploy the new Pershing and cruise missiles providing the Russians dismantle all of their SS-20s plus some other nuclear weapons targeted on Western Europe.

THE BEAR HAS now responded with a new bid to protect the Rabbit.

Mailbag

Dear Editor,

Each tax season year I am bombarded with questions on why taxes are so high. Why does the government spend so much money? Why does one person pay a greater percentage of his income in taxes than another person? What can a person do to get this changed?

These are all valid questions of which there is few answers. The main answer being "It is the law as written by Congress."

A new question has been brought to me this year. "What do you think about the way Congress gave themselves a raise by reducing the amount they have to pay in Federal income taxes." My answer, "It really does not make any difference, because it is impossible for a Federal employee to pay income taxes." Immediate shock and disbelief sets in. Our tax man has lost his marbles. He has gone off the deep end. The old boy has lived through too many tax seasons and is now a prime candidate for the funny farm.

After all of the snide remarks are completed I then say, "Please, let me explain."

The best example to use is to start with twenty-five (25) federal employees who are being paid one-thousand five-hundred dollars (1,500.00) per month. The total annual salary for these employees is four-hundred fifty-thousand dollars. Each employee is married and has two children. The total Federal income tax required to be withheld is forty-five thousand six-hundred seventy-five dollars.

Now lets play a short sweet game of government service and mathematics. For the first year budget everybody will pay taxes. For the second and following years the federal employees will only be paid from the taxes that they pay.

We now have all the ingredients to prepare a budget. It

On Tuesday Leonid Brezhnev announced the Kremlin had decided to stop deployment of SS-20 missiles in western Russia. He called on the U.S. to cancel plans for deploying the new Pershing and cruise missiles. He warned that unless there was a positive reaction, Russia would kick off a new arms race.

By way of reaction, the U.S. once more reverted to its conductor role. The President, the White House staff and the State Department all warned that the Soviet offer was a "trap." They thus assured that there would be growing pressure, in this country as well as Europe, for the President to take a more flexible position.

As it happens, it is very easy for Washington to show more flexibility, and in a way that enlarges the scope of the arms control talks and takes West Germany off the hook. The basic requirement is that the Reagan administration surface proposals for limitations on the intercontinental missiles covered in the SALT II treaty negotiated with Brezhnev by Jimmy Carter and subsequently held up in the Senate. The Russians clearly want that treaty. The Reagan administration could easily ask an extra price — namely that Moscow dismantle the most destabilizing of all present weapons, the monster SS-18 nuclear missile.

But how come the opportunity is not grasped? The answer is that most of the Reagan supporters in the Congress and the Pentagon oppose arms control and want the President to go on playing tough guy conductor. Officials who sense the chance to lead dare not risk their hides in combat with the hard-liners. So the administration will be paralyzed, and on the defensive, until the President himself cuts through the deadlock and asserts his own interest — and that of the country and the world as well — in an early arms control accord.

will look like this:

FIRST YEAR BUDGET
Required 25 employees at $1,500.00
Per Month for 12 months total cost	$450,000.00
Amount Withheld for Federal Income Taxes	45,000.00
Net amount paid to Federal Employees the First Year	$404,400.00

SECOND YEAR BUDGET (SURPRISE)
Amount Withheld from Federal Employees for Federal income taxes - See First Year Budget	$45,000.00
Required 25 employees at $1,500.00
Per Month for 12 months	$450,000.00
(Dismiss) 22.5 employees Federal Employees to Balance Budget	(405,000.00)
Keep 2.5 Federal Employees at a cost of	(45,000.00)
Amount withheld for Federal Income taxes	4,500.00

Amount Available for Third Year Budget $5,160.00

The third year will only sustain one employee for three and four tenths months. Then there will not be any Federal employees.

When you follow the mathematics you immediately realize that it is impossible for the Federal and/or any other government to create "Jobs." You will also learn that the government bureaucrats, officials, labor unions and economist have been leading us down the primrose path to destruction.

Dear Abby

Sagging morale needs a lift

DEAR ABBY: Do you know of any doctor who would give me a face-lift free of charge? When I get up in the morning I hate to look at myself in the mirror because of the way I look. I am a 48-year-old woman, but I look like 80! I would be willing to let a doctor experiment on me like a guinea pig. Regardless of how it came out, I couldn't look any worse than I do now. I would even be willing to sign a paper to that effect.
I am a poor woman, barely able to make ends meet, Miss Abby. Please help me. Sign this ...

PRUNEFACE

DEAR PRUNEFACE: I know of no plastic surgeon in private practice who would be willing to take you up on your offer. But you have nothing to lose by inquiring at your local medical school. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My parents retired 18 months ago, sold their home up north and bought a condo in Florida to be near my husband and me. (I am their only child.)

They come here at 10 a.m. for coffee, stay for lunch and wait until the children come home from school. Since they are still here when I start dinner and they never have any plans, I invite them to stay for dinner. They don't sponge off us — they usually bring steaks, fresh fish, or something good for dessert.
They do many things to help us. Dad works in the yard and Mom sews and darns. I never drive anywhere alone — not even to the dentist. They go along for the ride and are content to just sit in the car and wait for me.

Although there are many retired couples in this community, my folks want no part of "old" people. We are their only interests. When they were newcomers, our friends were very generous about including them, but, Abby, they should be making their own friends. My husband has been very patient, but we don't have a life of our own since they moved here.

Well, Dear Abby, my problem is somewhere in this rambling letter, so if you can find it, perhaps you'll offer a solution.

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Your problem wasn't hard to find. You lack the courage to extricate yourself from a situation that has become stifling.

Try hard to prevail upon your parents to socialize with others. Introduce them to other interests and stress the importance of establishing their own circle of friends. The longer you wait, the more difficult it will be.

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to you, although I have been a fan of yours ever since you commenced publishing your column in the Atlanta Constitution.

One of my grown sons, knowing what an ardent fan you have in me, presented me with a copy of your new book, "The Best of Dear Abby," for Christmas. I have thoroughly enjoyed the book, but I must inform you that you left out my favorite letter, which I think is one of your best. I am enclosing that little gem, hoping that you will print it again so I can cut it out for my wallet. As you can see, the one I have is worn out.

CLAYTON H. PERRY, DECATUR, GA.

DEAR MR. PERRY: Thank you. It's one of my favorites, too, but with the voluminous material, small wonder it was overlooked. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this real neat guy who keeps telling me I don't have to worry about his getting me pregnant because he was injured while playing football. Should I believe him?"

NANCY"

"DEAR NANCY: No. He sounds to me like he's trying to complete a pass. Kick him in the end zone."

Dr. Donohue

Reserve antibiotics for serious needs

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you comment on the advisability of taking tetracycline pills as a preventive of "tourist disease"? I am told I would have to take this medicine every day. I have had sensitivity to tropical sun. I have also heard that Pepto-Bismol tablets or liquid can be used to prevent the problem. What is your opinion? — C.R.

Both bismuth subsalicylate (Pepto-Bismol) and the tetracycline pills you speak of have been shown to reduce the likelihood of diarrhea in visitors to tropical areas. But I have to tell you about the drawbacks of each. For the bismuth subsalicylate to work, you have to take two ounces four times a day. That's a lot of medicine to cart around, even if you stayed only a week.

The tetracycline preparation, doxycycline, is also effective as a diarrhea preventative, but it is not indicated for everyone. It can stain the teeth of young children, and it can sensitize a person to sunlight, which is a problem you already have. It can also promote growth of germs that are resistant to antibiotics. I think that kind of medicine should be saved for those persons whose health would be seriously affected by a bout of diarrhea — the very old, for example.

Your best bet is to avoid raw, unpeeled vegetables and fruit. Boil or otherwise purify your drinking water or use only bottled, carbonated beverages. Be careful about unboiled water in any form — ice for example, which, of course, will be no factor where you are going, except in cube form.

Dear Dr. Donohue: About 20 years ago, a friend of mine was afflicted with disabling arthritis, which he said his doctor told him was due to the rosacea skin problem he had. Since I have had rosacea for about five years, and now am having some arthritis, I am concerned. Is it true that there is an association between rosacea and arthritis, and is it a particularly disabling kind? — H.F.

Rosacea is an inflammation which causes a flush-like area on the face. The cause is unknown, but it is more common among fair-skinned individuals.

I have never heard of a connection between rosacea and arthritis. Was your friend perhaps referring to psoriasis? There is a connection between that and arthritis. About 5 percent of people with psoriasis have arthritis also. A doctor can tell you if symptoms you have are from arthritis.

Guidelines given to trim clothing

COLLEGE STATION — Trim up your fashions expertly with just a few guidelines, says Alma Fonseca, a clothing specialist. Fonseca is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Trims are everywhere — on blouses, pants, skirts and jackets.

Since many of today's new metallic trims are bulkier than most lace trims and cannot be applied easily by machine, overcast them in place with matching metallic thread or invisible thread.

Apply cement glue to the ends of metallic trims to avoid raveling.

Then work the ends into appropriate seams by hand stitching for a professional finish.

Shower honors Miss Claxton

Shana Marie Claxton, bride-elect of Allen McGee, was feted with a lingerie shower March 16 in the home of Helen Hicks.

Hostesses were Ms. Hicks and Cathy Miller. Special guests included Mrs. Lloyd T. Claxton, mother of the honoree, and Mindy Claxton, her sister.

The refreshment table was covered by an ecru cloth. An arrangement of yellow daisies, accented by small items of lingerie made into flowers, centered the table. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Various hors d'oeuvres were served.

The hostesses presented Miss Claxton with a long gown and matching robe.

The couple will wed April 3 in College Baptist Church.

DISCUSSES WORK — Joseph P. Kennedy II, eldest son of the late Robert Kennedy, sits in his office in Boston and discusses his work with Citizens Energy Corporation, which helps supply low cost heating oil to the poor and elderly in Massachusetts.

Young Kennedy has oil interests

BOSTON (AP) — He works out of a cramped apartment instead of a Texas skyscraper. His mop of curly hair has probably never been inside a 10-gallon hat and his style is more Robin Hood than J.R. Ewing.

Joseph P. Kennedy II admits he'll never be one of the big boys in the petroleum business. But the 29-year-old self-taught oilman says he's happy beating major oil companies at their own game — and helping poor people in the process.

Kennedy, the oldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, is founder and president of the non-profit Citizens Energy Corporation. Through the company, he has helped supply about 18.5 million gallons of low-cost home heating oil to more than 175,000 households of poor and elderly Massachusetts residents the past three winters.

Though he bears one of the nation's best-known political names, he says he's interested in petroleum, not politics.

"You don't have to be in public office to perform a public service," Kennedy said from his crowded office, located in an apartment suite overlooking the Statehouse parking lot. "The most important thing is to help people, to fight back a little bit...I'm able to do it without a big office or bureaucracy — or even a boss."

Kennedy's program is a model of simplicity. He buys a barrel of crude oil, refines it, retains the home heating oil component of the crude and sells off byproducts like gasoline, kerosene and petroleum jelly at a profit.

His company uses the profit to sell the home heating oil to the state at a discount of 35 percent to 40 percent. State officials can stretch their federal fuel assistance funds by buying Kennedy's oil at a lower price, buying more of it to serve more people.

Kennedy sounds like a seasoned wildcatter when he talks about the merit of premium Arabian Light crude versus cheaper fuels.

The current world oil glut has been "devastating" to his young operation. "In order to stay in business we have to make a profit on other products. While the cost of a barrel of crude has remained high, prices have fallen on the other products," he said.

The glut also has prevented Citizens Energy from expanding the fuel aid to other states, he said.

Kennedy launched the program after spending two frustrating years in the Community Services Administration in Washington, helping monitor the success of anti-poverty programs. He said the idea came up in a 1978 conversation with Kennedy family adviser Richard Goodwin about the rapidly rising profits of major oil companies.

Kennedy conceded his name has been helpful in getting businessmen "to answer my telephone calls."

Another factor in his company's quick success was the industry practice of giving 30 days' credit on crude oil purchases, which allowed Citizens Energy to begin operations in 1979 without raising large amounts of start-up capital.

Three-piece suits and appointments with oil ministers around the globe are a big change from Kennedy's lifestyle 10 years ago.

"If you suggested we go out mountain climbing right now I'd probably go with you," he laughed. "The thing that's changed is that I have a family to come home to. I'd love to go sailing or make a TV show, but when I look at that versus spending a few hours with my children, I think I'd take my children."

Kennedy and his wife, Sheila, moved last August to a large home in Marshfield, on the shore south of Boston, to have more room for their twins, Joseph III and Matthew, now 17 months old.

With his rugged good looks and winning smile, Kennedy is viewed by many as heir to his family's political fortunes in Massachusetts.

But after heading the 1976 re-election campaign of his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his political career got off to a false start when news leaked that he was interested in running for state treasurer.

Scientists explain cause of tornadoes

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — They're the most violent storms on earth, capable of inflicting millions of dollars in damage and decimating lives and property. And Texans face the specter of an average of 120 tornadoes a year.

Last year, 178 tornadoes were reported in the state.

"A tornado is the most violent wind force on Earth. There's nothing whatsoever that can match its violence," said Alan Moller, meteorologist with the National Weather Service here.

"The three basic factors that create tornadoes are warm air masses coming up from the Gulf of Mexico, warm and very dry air masses coming from the West, and the jet stream," he said.

The collision of low air masses from the Gulf with those from the West cause violent thunderstorms, and the swift upward rush of warm air produces great towers of cumulonimbus clouds, from which the probing fingers of tornadoes reach earthward.

The strong updraft of air begins a counterclockwise rotation, the start of tornadic activity.

Meteorologists say most twisters occur between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m.

"The ground heats up rapidly," Moller said. "When the heat is released, warm air rises through cooler air, and the stronger the updraft the better chance for large hail and tornadoes."

Most tornadoes occur between March and June, when the jet stream — a narrow band of winds moving at more than 100 mph at altitudes from 20,000 to 40,000 feet — blows from the southwest to the northeast across the lower level air masses.

"In the summer we get a lot of thunderstorms, but the jet stream has shifted northward into Canada and tornadoes do not occur as frequently," Moller said.

Scientists at the Disaster Research Institute at Texas Tech University in Lubbock have found that wind speed does the damage, not — as was once thought — the vast difference in air pressure inside and outside buildings caught in a tornado.

Tornadic winds flowing over the roof of a building create a strong updraft. Once the roof is lifted, the walls collapse, said Kishor Mehta, a scientist at the institute.

Meteorologists, using an intensity scale developed by University of Chicago researcher Ted Fujita, now place tornadoes in three basic categories.

"Weak" tornadoes have rotating winds with speeds up to 110 miles an hour. About 62 percent of all tornadoes are in this group. The March 14 twister that struck Duncanville and did $250,000 in property damage was a "weak" storm.

This kind of tornado usually causes extensive roof and exterior wall damage to buildings.

The "strong" tornado has rotating wind speeds from 110 to 200 mph. About 36 percent of all tornadoes are in this group.

"Violent" tornadoes are the most dangerous.

What to do when a twister hits

DALLAS (AP) — The whirling winds of a tornado are bearing down on your house. Conventional wisdom says, "Open the windows." Don't.

"We really do not recommend that anyone waste precious time opening a window," said Kishor Mehta, a scientist at the Disaster Research Institute at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. "Opening a window will not likely reduce or increase damages. It won't make much of a difference."

Once, people were told to open windows to equalize air pressure inside with the extremely low pressure produced by the tornado outside.

But now researchers say the only things that can come from an open window are broken glass, swirling debris and serious injuries.

If you have a basement in your home, go there for maximum safety during a tornado. In homes without basements, take cover in the center of the house on the lowest floor in a small room such as a closet or bathroom, or in an interior hallway.

Mobile homes offer no protection against a tornado. They — like garages and carports — can easily be ripped from foundations.

If you live in a mobile home, evacuate when a tornado warning is issued.

Steers, Eagles open 5-5A baseball

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

ABILENE — Frank Ibarra says his Big Spring team is ready. Word from the Eagle nest to the East is Abilene High is also ready. Baseball fans, then, better be ready for a big showdown between the two squads as District 5-AAAAA play begins this afternoon around the league.

"We've improved a lot since the beginning of the season, Ibarra reports. "We had a lot of errors but we've cut them down to one or two a game. That's really helped us."

Ibarra thought he might have some good sticks in the lineup when the season began and those ideas proved to be true. Entering Monday night's pre-district finale at Andrews, Big Spring was batting .327 as a team. That average probably made a good jump upward after the Steers, 12-1 pounding of the Mustangs.

Leading the way has been senior first baseman Tommy Olague. Olague hit .446 for 16 games and knocked in 12 runs. The only disappointment until Monday night dilemma in the final non-league game, Olague smashed a pair of two-run homers and drove in five runs to give him 17 RBI's for the year.

Senior shortstop Blake Rosson was another Steer over the .400 mark. Rightfielder Tom Cudd topped a list of five batters over .300 with a .365 mark and was second in RBI's with 20. He notched three more Monday.

A big surprise for Ibarra has been second baseman Marcus Armendariz. Known for a good glove in the infield, the senior has also batted .341 and knocked in 14 runs.

Big Spring (10-7) at Abilene (9-4)

Site: Blackburn Field
Time: 4 p.m.
Pitchers: Domingo Rubio (4-1) vs. Jay Tindol (2-0)

Leadoff batter Oscar Limon, despite a hard slump in the middle of the non-district schedule, finished at .333 and topped the team in RBI's with 21.

Alan Trevino and James Walker each hit home runs during the first 16 games.

Ibarra will start ace Domingo Rubio against the Eagles. Rubio, 4-1, will face AHS's Jay Tindol, 2-0, and is hoping to continue his mastery over Abilene. He won 4-3 in Big Spring last year and then came back with a 5-2 win over the Eagles in Abilene.

Adam Rodriguez tossed Monday night's victory and improved his record to 3-2. Limon is 2-0, junior Jinx Valenzuela 1-3, and Tony Ontiveros 0-1.

Errors have played big roles in the seven Big Spring losses. Two of those were to Abilene and in those games, the Steers were charged with 13 mistakes alone. Twenty of the 42 errors came in the first five games of the season.

"Abilene High is very good at taking advantage of things like that," Ibarra warned. "I feel we will hit Abilene's pitching. I feel that the only way we'll lose is if we beat ourselves."

Big Spring was tabbed as the district No. 5 team for this spring with the Eagles finishing runnerup to crosstown enemy Cooper. In between are the Midland schools, High and Lee.

"I think the poll was pretty accurate. There isn't much difference between the first five teams," Ibarra commented. He added that last-place pick Permian will knock off a few teams as will San Angelo and Odessa High.

"No one team will dominate the league this year, not even Cooper," he added.

Ibarra will go with Olague at first, Armendariz at second, Rosson at short and David Anguiano (a .296 hitter) at third. In the outfield, he'll start Limon in center and Cudd in right is still undecided whether he'll go with Tracy Spence or Trevino in left.

Behind the plate is steady Marty Rodriguez who contributed a .300 bat to the offense.

In Monday's 12-1 tuneup victory over Andrews, the Steers collected a dozen basehits as Olague and Cudd combined for seven safeties.

Cudd had a perfect night at hve plate, getting four hits and driving in three runs to take over the team lead in that category.

Olague belted two-run shots in the first and third innings to stake Big Spring to a 4-0 advantage. It became a 7-0 ballgame in the fourth when Olague and Cudd drove in runs.

Big Spring struck for five more runs in the fifth as Andrews errors and hits by Cudd and Anguiano accounted for more runs.

Rodriguez got his third win, allowing just four hits, walking four and striking out three.

REPORTING TO SPRING TRAINING — Los Angeles Dodgers' pitcher, Fernando Valenzuela, seated, with his manager, Tony DeMarco pointing at him announced Monday in Los Angeles that he would report to training camp and play for the Dodgers in 1982. The Cy Young and Rookie of the Year winner will receive $350,000 for his efforts with the Dodgers this season. The man on Valenzuela's left is unidentified.

Lefthander still without contract

Valenzuela ends holdout!

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela, the 21-year-old Mexican-born left-hander who won the National League's Cy Young Award last season, has ended the holdout he staged against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The pitcher announced Monday that he will report today to the Dodgers' spring training camp in Vero Beach, Fla. But Valenzuela says he won't sign a contract. He even turned down a last-minute offer of more money through an incentive clause.

"Yes, we made them a new offer," Dodger owner Peter O'Malley told reporters at a Vero Beach, Fla. press conference. "Why they turned it down, I don't know. The last offer was significant. It had substantial incentive clauses."

"We made several calls. We made every attempt possible to resolve the matter," said

O'Malley. "I'm as puzzled today as I was a week ago, a month ago, two weeks ago. There is no bitterness or bad feelings on our part."

Valenzuela's attorney, however, said that the offer was nothing but, Dick Moss described it as "a little bone, a couple of little performance clauses."

The club, however, says it has not closed the door to the possibility of later raising Valenzuela's salary.

Even without his signature on a contract, Valenzuela will collect the reported $350,000 offered by the Dodgers compared with his $42,500 salary of last year when he won the National League's Cy Young Award as its best pitcher and the Rookie of the Year Award. He was the first player to win both in the same year.

"I have decided to report to the Los Angeles Dodgers in Vero Beach," Valenzuela said through an interpreter. "I will be doing so because of what I believe to be my duty to my family, to my teammates, to my friends and to myself. I am not reporting to sign a contract."

Valenzuela added that he did not believe his teammates would criticize him for the holdout. But he came under severe criticism from the Mexican-Americans in Los Angeles for his demands of $1 million and later $850,000 for the season.

"My representatives and I have never had any real negotiations with the Dodgers," Valenzuela's prepared statement said. "There have been meetings but the only negotiations have come from us."

The Dodgers have maintained that no second-year player has earned more than the figure they offered Valenzuela.

NIT Tourney Roundup

Better 'Sooner' than later — Bradley says

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Versace, basketball coach at Bradley University, would like to forget the things he said about the NCAA tournament.

After the field for the NCAA tournament was announced March 7, and after Bradley was not among those chosen, Versace became incensed.

His team had won the regular-season title in the Missouri Valley Conference, then was picked to the National Invitation Tournament field. He criticized the NCAA selection committee for bypassing his team, and he told his Braves to play "angry" in the NIT.

"I hope I've put that to rest," Versace said Monday night after his team earned a berth in the NIT final against Purdue. The two teams will meet Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

"I don't want to belabor the point. I don't care to discuss it anymore, and I don't want it to overshadow the performance of my team (in the NIT). Right now, I'd like to talk about our players and the 25 wins we had this season."

Bradley's 84-68 victory over Oklahoma in the NIT semifinal Monday night gave the Braves a 25-10 record. Purdue downed Georgia 61-60 in the other semifinal.

Senior forward Mitchell Anderson scored a team-high 25 points for Bradley and teamed with forward David Thirkill and guard Barney Mines in a 13-3 run early in the second half that broke open a close game.

Oklahoma, 22-11 and runner-up in the Big Eight Conference tournament, trailed by only one point, 38-37 at halftime, and the Sooners still were only one behind, 42-41, when Bradley's game-breaking burst started.

Mines, a junior, hit a three-point play, and Anderson hit two free throws to make it 47-41. After one free throw by Oklahoma's Les Pace, Thirkill scored a pair of baskets to make it 51-42. David Little hit the second of two free throws for Oklahoma, and Anderson and Mines finished off the run with a basket each to make it 55-44 with 14:45 left.

Bradley stretched its lead to 19, at 65-46, by scoring nine straight points, and the Braves led by as many as 22, 76-54, on a pair of baskets by senior center Donald Reese with 4:04 to play.

"We felt like we were struggling in both halves," Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs said. "Offensively, we were never really in the game. If it hadn't been for Chuck Barnett getting hot in the first half, we'd have been out of it then."

Barnett scored 23 of his team's 37 points in the first half and wound up with 31. Mines added 18 for Bradley, and Reese had 13.

In the other game, sophomore center Russell Cross took a feed from Dan Palombizio along the baseline, pump-faked and put up Purdue's winning points with four seconds left.

UP FOR THE BALL — University of Oklahoma's Les Pace (54) is caught in the middle as he tries to control the ball Monday night during semi-finals of the National Invitation Tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden. Up against Pace are Bradley University's David Thirkill (35) and teammate Donald Reese (50). Action came during first half of their game.

Exhibition Baseball Roundup

Texas cools hot Braves

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A single by Bump Wills broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning and Leon Roberts knocked in an insurance run in the ninth as the Texas Rangers downed the Atlanta Braves 3-1 in exhibition baseball Monday.

A Ranger double by Mark Johnson off Braves' reliever Gene Garber preceded Wills' clutch hit, which came with two outs.

Two Texas pitchers, Frank Tanana and Mark Mercer, limited the Braves to seven hits. Tanana, signed as a free agent in January, allowed four hits and the only Atlanta run in his six innings.

Texas scored first on an opening-inning single by George Wright, a double by Roberts and a force out. The Braves tied it in the fifth on a Terry Harper home run.

Mercer got the victory for Texas. Garber was the loser.

Baltimore 3, Houston 2
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — John Lowenstein hit two home runs to drive in all the Baltimore runs as the Orioles defeated the Houston Astros 3-2 in an exhibition baseball game Monday.

Lowenstein smashed his homers in the second and fourth innings, the last one with a man on base, almost over the exact spot in right-center field.

The two teams meet again Tuesday night to end a two-game exhibition series to raise funds for the sports complex built in honor of the late Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder Roberto Clemente, who died in a plane crash on New Year's Eve 1972 just a few miles from Hiram Bithorn Stadium, where Monday night's game was played.

A crowd of 15,600 was on hand and $63,000 was raised for Ciudad Deportiva, the complex built in honor of the Hall of Fame outfielder.

Around the league ...
Fernando Valenzuela was set to return to Dodgertown, but didn't want anyone to consider that a sign of surrender.

The Atlanta Braves, meanwhile, announced that six-year veteran outfielder Brian Asselstine had been placed on waivers. Asselstine's first full season with Atlanta was 1978. His most active campaign was 1980, when he appeared in 87 games. As an outfielder and pinch-hitter, Asselstine compiled a career .254 average with the Braves.

In exhibition play, Warren Cromartie singled home two runs in a three-run first inning against Ron Guidry as the Montreal Expos defeated the New York Yankees 6-1.

Home runs by Tony Bernazard and Harold Baines sparked the Chicago White Sox to an 8-4 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Willie Aikens hit a grand slam homer and drove in five runs to pace the Kansas City Royals to an 8-2 rout of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Keith Hernandez's two-out single snapped a tie in the fifth inning, and Tommy Herr knocked in three runs to power the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cleveland pitcher Rick Sutcliffe was hit by a line drive and injured his thumb as the Indians took an 8-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Gary Gaetti hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning off reliever Steve Howe and Ivan Mesa blasted a solo shot in the seventh as the Minnesota Twins beat the Dodgers 6-4.

John Lowenstein hit two home runs to drive in all the Baltimore runs as the Orioles defeated Houston.

Gaylord Perry hurled two-hit ball for five innings to lead the Seattle Mariners to a 4-1 victory over the California Angels.

Mark Bomback, Matt Williams and Steve Senteny combined for on a three-batter and Hosken Powell walloped a home run as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0.

Sub Gettys now hero

HOUSTON (AP) — Reid Gettys' teammates used to laugh when the University of Houston forward gave a Bojangles click of the heels on his driving layups.

"All the guys make fun of me because when I shoot, I bring my feet together real fast," Gettys said.

But no one's laughed since Gettys walked off St. Louis' Checkerdome court Sunday, looking like the new kid who had just aced his first arithmetic test.

The 6-foot-6 freshman reserve stood at the foul line 10 times, each time with Boston College challenging for the lead. All of his shots were true, providing enough scoring to advance the Cougars into the Final Four for the first time since 1968.

The Horatio Alger heroics by seldom-used Gettys sidetracked unseeded Boston College's try for a fourth straight upset as the Cinderella team of the NCAA Midwest regional stayed alive with a season record of 25-7.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

Broadway stars protest demolition

NEW YORK (AP) — The wrecking crews were playing Broadway today, closing one of the Great White Way's long-running melodramas by demolishing two historic theaters that a star-studded cast of protesters failed to save.

Stars like Colleen Dewhurst, Richard Gere, Celeste Holm and Tammy Grimes were arrested with more than 160 other people Monday for trespassing when they moved into the path of machines waiting to raze the Helen Hayes and Morosco theaters.

After police carted off the protesters, a huge backhoe bit into the east wall of the Morosco, eliciting sobs and moans from the crowd. Some yelled "Shame!" and others sang "America the Beautiful." Protest leaflets fluttered from a window down to West 45th Street.

"I felt like I was being hit ... I started to cry," said Joseph Papp, the Broadway producer who organized the protest.

He hugged Miss Dewhurst, who was sobbing, as the bricks fell and dust swirled up.

"These theaters will be missed, I'm not kidding you," Papp said. "We need theaters where audiences can hear the human voice without amplification and where they can tell which actor is talking, without someone holding a hand up."

Demolition crews worked through Monday night to tear down the theaters, which are to be replaced by a hotel by Atlanta architect John Portman. The hotel plans call for a 1,500-seat theater, which opponents claim will be too big for good theater.

Papp led 170 protesters into a lot between the theaters Monday morning, a few minutes after the U.S. Supreme Court allowed the demolition.

MOROSCO DEMOLITION — Policeman watches the wrecking arm bring down the side wall of the Morosco Theatre in midtown Manhattan Monday, despite public protest exemplified by the picket sign in foreground.

Summer becomes study time

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer

Summer time is study time for a growing number of Americans who are spending their vacations on college and university campuses.

The summer programs vary in length, cost and subject matter. Most provide separate schedules of activities for parents and children. The "students" do not get educational credit for their work, but they do get the chance to explore new areas of learning in a limited period of time.

The vacation colleges offer schools a way to make additional money and use facilities which frequently would otherwise be idle during the break from regular classes.

They offer consumers an alternative to traditional holidays, usually at a lower cost; meals and accommodations in college dormitories generally are included in the price. The vacation colleges also allow the whole family to vacation together, while providing enough flexibility to satisfy different age groups and interests.

There are several ways to select a vacation college. If you are interested in visiting a particular area of the country, check schools in the surrounding cities to see if any of them have special summer programs. You also can contact professional organizations for summer courses which are job-related.

One of the oldest vacation schools is the Dartmouth Alumni College in Hanover, N.H. which was founded in 1964. This summer's program, "The Renaissance: Forms, Reforms and Revolutions," will run from Aug. 8 to 19. There is a junior program for youngsters age 7 to 17. The college is open to graduates and non-graduates alike, although the majority of participants are Dartmouth alumni. The college has room for 320 adult students in this summer's program; more than 160 people already have signed up. The price, including accommodations, food and all necessary materials, is $975 per couple. The junior program costs $375 per youngster. Information is available from: Dartmouth Alumni College Office, 308 Blunt Alumni Center, Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., 03755.

In contrast to the Dartmouth Alumni College — which does not provide a choice of subject matter or dates — Cornell's Adult College in Ithaca, N.Y., offers dozens of topics over a five-week period from July 4 to Aug. 7.

There are three major courses: "The American Economic Climate of the '80s," "Health, Society and the Individual" and "China!" In addition, there are seminars on everything from home computers to chamber music.

Club plans playday

The West Texas Appaloosa Horse Club is having an open playday Saturday, March 27, at the arena 2.2 miles south of Interstate 20 on the Rankin Highway in Midland.

The 10 a.m. show will feature events for halter, performance, and speed. All age groups and all breeds of horses are welcome to participate. Show organizers urge people to "Come to train or come for fun."

For information, call Kathy Rebeck at 393-5959 or call in Midland for Casey Warner at 683-0958.

Kerrville Folk Festival set

KERRVILLE, Texas — The Kerrville Folk Festival, which began here ten years ago as a gathering of 13 musical friends and combined audiences over three days of 2800, begins its second decade May 27-31 and June 4-6.

Still informal and fun and filled with good music, the festival is held outdoors at Quiet Valley Ranch, nine miles south of Kerrville on Texas Highway 16 on two week-ends, eight days, and 20,000 music lovers are expected to bring lawn chairs and camping equipment and enjoy the more than 60 performers on eight 6 p.m. evening concerts and nearly two dozen other events.

Attendance of 20,000 sounds like a lot of people, but divided up over an eight day period, the crowds are no more than would attend an indoor concert in a medium sized concert hall. But Quiet Valley Ranch offers the hills and the moon and stars and an occasional spectacular rain storm to refresh escapees from the city.

Original 1972 performers returning to Kerrville as the festival starts its second ten years include popular stars Michael Murphy, Steven Fromholz, Ray Wylie Hubbard, Allen Damron, Carolyn Hester, Peter Yarrow, Bill and Bonnie Hearne, Bobby Bridger, Robert Shaw, Kenneth Threadgill and Peter Yarrow.

Appearing for the first time this year will be Dotsy, Bob Livingston, Rosalie Sorrels, Dave Van Ronk, James Durst, Louisiana Aces, Octave Doctors, Southern Manor, and Bob Zentz along with Gimalkin and the Banded Geckos, while returning favorites from last year include Beto Y. Los Fairlanes, Gatemuth Riders, Odetta, and the Browns in the Sky.

For a complete list of the more than 60 performers, ticket and camping information, inquiries should be addressed to Folk Festival, P.O. Box 1466, Kerrville, Texas 78028. Phone inquiries will be answered after 10 a.m. weekdays at (512) 896-3800.

The festival is produced by Rod Kennedy.

Farmers testify on economic crisis

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Agricultural producers and businessmen compared stories on economic hard times Monday at a hearing a farmers' union held to call attention to the scope of farmers' financial problems.

About 50 people testified before the National Farmers Union hearing, the first of nine regional meetings to gather evidence for presentation to congressmen and President Reagan.

"Our financial situation is becoming critical," said the school superintendent of a Panhandle agricultural community. "We are facing the possibility that much of our irrigated farmland may become dryland production, due to rising gas prices and low crop prices."

"If this happens, we no longer will have a large enough tax base to operate an accredited school," said Hartley school district superintendent Bill Reisdorph.

A Plainview implement dealer said his business has alternately made and lost money in the last six months. Carl Tillerson said his sales have dropped 53 percent, while parts and service revenue dropped 10 percent.

"Washington doesn't understand the farm crisis," said George Stone, NFU president. "Urban people need to recognize that they depend on agriculture. A lot of congressmen and people in the cities do not realize the problems and plight of farmers."

Big Spring takes third in Andrews

ANDREWS — Big Spring placed third in the team race at the Andrews Invitational Tennis Tournament over the weekend.

Big Spring built up 86 points to finish behind Abilene High's winning total of 107 and host Andrews at 97.

Kip McLaughlin won the boys singles trophy by defeating Abilene's Adam Dixon in the final. Dana Cannon was second in girls singles, with teammate Kim Madry finishing third.

The doubles team of Cavan McMahon and Scott Nelson was third in doubles while Aubrey Weaver won the consolation singles title. Weaver lost in the first round to Dixon and then advanced undefeated the remainder of the tourney.

Big Spring hosts Midland High Thursday afternoon before playing in the Abilene this weekend. Big Spring junior high players are also in action Thursday hosting Sweetwater in a dual match at the Figure Seven Tennis Center.

Junior highers were in Odessa for a tournament. Sixth graders Kendra Madry and Perry Prudhomme advanced to the semifinals of the seventh grade bracket before bowing out.

Rebecca Reed, Margie Shaw and Michelle Basham made it to the consolation semifinals in the seventh, eighth and ninth grade divisions, respectively.

The doubles team of Mark Slate and Jance Allen were consolation runners in the eighth grade bracket as was Stacy Basham in ninth grade singles.

Forsan runs to record in meet

STERLING CITY — The Forsan Buffalo Queens were second and Buffaloes fourth at the Sterling City Relays held Saturday.

Karla Cregar picked up two individual firsts and ran on the championship 1,600-meter relay team. Her first blue ribbon came in the 100-meter dash (13.1 in finals but new record of 12.9 in prelims) followed by a 27.6 time for first in the 200-meters.

The relay team ran a 4:28.8 for a new record as Carla Nix, Lorri Roman, Cregar and Teresa White ran the legs.

White also got a first in the 800-meters (2:32.2) and was third in the high jump with a 5-2 leap. Vicki Baggett won the 1,600-meters (6:09.4) while Roman was runnerup in the 400-meters in 65.4.

The only victory for the boys was by Wade McMurray in the 400-meters. His effort of 52.8 was good for a meet record.

The 1,600-meter relay of Kelly Long, Mitch Hays, Preston Daniels and Andre Alcantar was third in 3:44.8. Bristow was third in the high jump at 6-0 while Long was third in the 800-meters in 2:10.7.

American continues sign-ups

Little League sign-up continues all this week from 5-7 p.m. daily for ballplayers in American Little League.

These signups are in addition to the 10 a.m.-4 p.m. sign-up Saturday at the ballpark.

Bob's Custom Woodwork offers expanded service

Bob's Custom Woodwork has moved into a new, larger building and has expanded to offer you the best carpentry and furniture repair service in town.

Bob's is now located in Building 613 of the Industrial Park, off of Warehouse and First streets. Bob and Jan Noyes, owners, are open from 8 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

They are able to help you with all your remodeling needs and have the skill and material to do the best job for the least cost. Bob's Custom Woodwork has the largest selection of veneer and hardwood in Big Spring.

Services offered by Bob's include general contracting for additions, remodeling and such jobs as building cabinets and doors. They also provide a "furniture doctor" service that will do complete furniture repairs either in your home or in the shop.

They will also do refinishing, caning and insurance estimates. The Strip Shop will do wood and metal stripping for home furniture or industry. If you like they can do the stripping and let the do-it-yourselfer do the refinishing.

All in all there's not a better carpentry or repair service in Big Spring. There's no job too small for Bob's Custom Woodwork, whether it be furniture or special gift items and signs.

They can also install microwave ovens and dishwashers as well as Majestic heat circulating fireplaces and mantels. They'll make room for you in your closets and many other home improvements. And they guarantee old-fashioned service.

So call Bob's Custom Woodwork and use one of their services, general contracting, furniture repair and strip shop. Their number is 267-5811. Call them today.
