Firemen and other personnel used the "jaws of life" and an Ace Wrecker to free the injured woman. She received fractures and multiple lacerations. Following surgery yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Powers was in stable condition at Malone-Hogan Hospital while her four-year-old daughter, Rebekah, was treated and released. The Lamesa truck driver, Antonio Ruiz, was taken to a private physician by private auto. Ruiz was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way. A Shaffer ambulance crew, Malone-Hogan nurses, city police, and sheriff's deputies were called to the scene to assist. Department of Safety Trooper Gen Redmon inv - tigated the Gov. Big Spring pastors are scratching their heads and wondering what motivated an apparent lone burgular to break into three churches and a lodge Monday night or Tuesday

According to police reports, the following churches were the scenes of break-ins between Monday evening and noon Tuesday: the St. Paul Lutheran Church at 810 Scurry, Emmanuel Baptist Church at 2107 Lancaster and the 14th and Main Church of Christ. Additionally, the Masonic Lodge at 2101 Lancaster was reported to be the scene of a break-in.

The curious thing is, nothing was taken in any of the break-ins except a pair of calculators from the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

"It doesn't make any sense why they would go through the trouble to break in and then walk off," said Carroll Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Kohl told police a window and a door handle and lock were broken at the church between 10 p.m. Monday and 8.30 a.m. Tuesday. There was no indication anything was taken, Kohl said.

David Womack, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, told police a door knob and lock were broken at his church between 6:30 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. Again nothing was taken.

I don't have any idea (why it happened)," Womack told The Herald this morning. "I've thought about it but came to no conclusions, when

Church, had a window shattered and for my time and effort," he said. Executive director of local YMCA quits

By MIKE DOWNEY

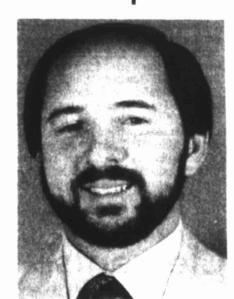

Staff Writer Bob Cappel, the executive director of the YMCA since 1980, is resigning effective April 9. Cappel made the announcement Tuesday in Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty's office. Hardesty is president of the YMCA board of directors.

Hardesty said a replacement for Cappel has already been named. He is Wallace Gill, presently executive director of the Palestine YMCA and formerly director of the Wichita, Kansas and Victoria YMCAs.

Cappel said he was leaving in order to try something new. "I've been in the YMCA business for 14 years and I felt it was time for a change away from the Y to see if I'd like it. I like Big Spring, but I'll be moving to East Texas at Longview.'

The resigning YMCA director said the Big Spring YMCA had been a "good learning experience, but the good shape it was in now was due to people's believing in it and their involvement." Cappel credited the board of directors for their support and confidence in his abilities.

Board President Hardesty praised Cappel for his efforts at the YMCA. "He is responsible for the best start we've had in 20 years. He's leaving the

The new director will not take the position until May 15, Hardesty said. The interim period between directors would be filled by the board of directors, he added. The officers include City Manager Don Davis, vice-president; James Welch, treasurer; and Sherry Bordofske,

HAROLD DAVIS

1. Do you think Southwest Institute for the Deaf should become a separate entity from Howard College? Why? Yes, but only because of financial reasons. The Board was led to believe that Federal and State funds would be provided to fully support SWCID. This has not happened. Howard County taxpayers should not have to assume the additional burden of providing funds for a separate institution composed primarily of students from other Counties and other States.

2. What is the most important thing a junior college should offer its

Our College should offer a quality education and a well rounded program of activities for all students. For those planning to attend a senior college, we should provide the proper educational background to prepare them for the advanced courses at the upper level institutions. Vocational students should be offered the necessary courses needed to enable them to become productive members of our community. Adult and Continuing Education is also an important facet of a Community College.

3. If you feel changes should be made in the Howard County Junior College District, explain those changes.

1. Do you think Southwest Institute for the Deaf should become a separate entity from Howard College? Why?

I believe the full value and worth of the Southwest Institute for the Deaf must be realized. It is not a stepchild of the college district but rather a contributory asset. SWCID has unique needs that we must meet. I support a concept of SWCID and Howard College being two entities within the district under separate administrative control.

2. What is the most important thing a junior college should offer its students?

The first responsibility and priority of any educational institution is the maintenance of the highest standards of excellence in its academic programs. This requires faculties of excellence in the many disciplines and just salaries to attract and retain the faculty; dedicated and supportive administrative personnel; and a physical plant that is conducive to learning.

3. If you feel changes should be made in the Howard County Junior College District, explain those changes.

Our world is ever changing and if we are going to enable our students to meet the challenge of a changing world, then we must seek innovations, number of people in this particular community who need the services of training in the above noted institution. Furthermore, we, at Howard College, are a 2-year college, and it is my feeling that Southwest Institute for the Deaf should sooner or later become a 4-year institution. Some large metropolitan center would probably be a better location, due to the fact that there are more hard of hearing people in those areas. Furthermore, private finances are more readily obtained if it is not connected to a public or tax-supported institution.

One additional reason for such a change is the fact that students going to such institutions with hearing difficulties probably could more readily find certain types of employment in a larger city in order to help support them in college.

Action/reaction: More Leisure?

Q. Why can't the Big Spring Herald print the complete TV schedule? I refer to the programs shown for Tuesday March 23, 1982. The last programs shown are for 11 p.m. and then only for Channels 3 and 13.

A. There has been such a rapid increase in demand for advertising in the Leisure section, we have been cut short on space for listing some of the late night programs. As a result The Herald is seriously considering a major expansion of the section to provide more space for the TV logs and additional leisure-related features.

Convicted forger flees prison camp not represent any pet program or interest group, rather what is needed

By BILL ELDER Staff Writer

Big Spring Federal Prison Camp officials continued their search today for a man who escaped from the minimum-security prison camp Saturday night.

Missing is Kerry Perkins, who is serving a three-year sentence for forgery, according to John Allman, superintendent of the prison camp.

Allman said Perkins was discovered missing just after midnight Saturday. "We had a midnight count and he was found missing. He was officially declared missing at twelve-thirty," Allman Local, state and federal law enforcement authorities have been notified of the escape — and a $200 reward has been offered as well, Allman said. "The reward is standard procedure," Allman explained. "Anytime anybody escapes from a federal institution, there's a $200 reward for information leading to the apprehension of the person who escaped.

It's possible that Perkins, who was convicted in Deming, N.M., may have been headed back to New Mexico. Allman said.

Perkins began his sentence in June 1981

"If he's apprehended, he'll be arraigned before a federal magistrate and tried for escape," Allman said. If convicted, Perkins will be placed in a federal prison with heightened security.

"He's blown his chance at staying in a Level One institution," Allman said.

Level One institutions have the least amount of security within the federal prison system and are designed to hold inmates who are judged to be of no damage to the community, the superintendent said.

Typical criminals held at the Big Spring facility are those convicted of so-called white-collar crimes such as forgery and mail fraud.

"This is the first (escape) we've had in a long time,"

The audience heard brief statements from unopposed City Councilman Larry Miller and BSISD board member Jerry Foresyth. Mayor Clyde Angel also spoke briefly. HCJC board of trustee candidates Dr. P.W. Malone, David Huff, Gail Earls and Harold Davis addressed the crowd as

4. What do you have to offer the HCJC board?

I am a trained and certified educator. I entered my candidacy at my own choice and not at the solicitation of any interest group. I have the time and will attend board meetings unlike an incumbent who has missed 20 percent this past year. I offer a new perspective for the 80's. 5. What sort of programs would you

6. How do you feel each board member should be involved in the board's activities?

A trustee must be active to the fullest. This means attendance at meetings and not absenteeism. A trustee is a public servant and as such must get out and meet people, know their needs and interests and feedback if you are to truly represent. To meet and speak only at election time is not sufficient.

7. Where do you feel the finances of the college district should be con-

Each dollar represents a public trust that must be expended wisely. Our first priority is academic excellence and this is where first expenditures must go — faculty salaries commensurate with credentials: sound physical plant maintenance. A conservative economic appraoch to reduce waste and frills, preserve academic achievement and give the community a dollar's service for their hard earned tax dollar.

What sort of programs would you like to see come to Howard College?

I do not know of an urgent need for any additional programs at this time. As needs are brought to our attention, they are given careful consideration. A board member is elected to represent the residents of Howard County in the operation of the Junior College District. He should strive to see that all funds are handled in the best interest of the taxpayers. Other than this, his other major duties are to select the President of the College and set the policies under which he and the college shall operate It is not the responsibility of a board member to become involved in the day to day operations of the college.

7. Where do you feel the finances of the college district should be con-

I do not feel that the finances should necessarily be concentrated in any one area. We should strive to provide students with a well rounded program. However, it stands to reason that more money must be expended in areas where the largest number of students can be served.

Some early morning temperatures around the state included 50 at Wichita Falls, 68 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 70 at Lufkin, 71 at Corpus Christi and Houston, 69 at San Antonio, 47 at Midland and 44 at El Paso.

Forecasts called for a slight chance of thunderstorms over East Texas today. Elsewhere skies were to be partly cloudy over the Panhandle and West Texas and partly cloudy elsewhere.

Astronauts tell of adventures

spectacular "toboggan" ride from space, astronauts Jack R. Lousma and C. Gordon Fullerton begin a week of debriefing today, recounting for experts their eight days of adventure aboard the shuttle Columbia

Columbia landed with a thump Tuesday at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico after staying in orbit an extra day to wait out a sandstorm that scrubbed a landing the day before.

It was the third test flight for Columbia, its toughest and longest. The spacecraft faces but one more test mission before it starts flying cargo for paying customers. Lousma, arriving in Houston, called the mission "spectacular from end to end, particularly the toboggan down from upstairs.' In overcoming all its problems, he said, "Columbia demonstrated a maturity that was really unexpected." The spacecraft landed at 10:05 a.m. CST Tuesday, completing a journey of more than 3.3 million miles and 129 orbits of the Earth. It dropped from space and sped across western Mexico and the United States before diving toward a safe touchdown on a dry lakebed amid New Mexico's mountains. Except for some missing tiles on its skin and a few scars and scratches, Columbia was in good shape. Technicians quickly drained surplus fuel and chemicals and towed the stubby-winged craft to a service area beside the desert runway. In about eight days, the spacecraft will be lifted atop a jumbo jet and flown to the Kennedy Space Center for refitting. A fourth flight is planned in June.

For Lousma and Fullerton, the adventure is over and it's time for the paperwork. The astronauts will spend hours over the next seven days speaking into tape recorders and answering engineering questions about the performance of Columbia. There was no question about how the two spacemen felt.

Pressure against Duarte mounts

Army retakes El Salvador's 4th largest city

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Troops retook El Salvador's fourth largest city from the leftist guerrillas as rightist pressure grew for the ouster of moderate President Jose Napoleon Duarte in post-election political maneuvering.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said 15 soldiers and 100 leftist rebels died in four days of fighting in Usulutan, 60 miles southeast of San Salvador. He said the situation in the city of 60,000 was "now controlled."

A heavy guerrilla attack in Usulutan Saturday prevented voting there and in five neighboring towns in the elections Sunday for a constituent assembly to name a new interim government and write a constitution. Reporters who returned from there Tuesday said the rebels escaped into the countryside as fresh troops attack-

In San Salvador, Duarte's centrist Christian Democratic Party maintained its plurality as zhe election tally neared completion, but the right-wing National Conciliation Party that controlled the government from 1961 until the 1979 coup emerged with the balance of power.

Although composition of the assembly will not be known until all the returns are in, the Christian Democrats have been talking about an alliance with the Democratic Action Party, the most moderate of the five right-wing parties. But it was in fourth place and apparently would not win the additional seats the Christian Democrats need for a majority.

National Conciliation was in third place with the prospect of about 14 seats that it could throw behind the Christian Democrats or a right-wing coalition led by the ultraconservative Republican Nationalist Alliance (ARENA) led by former Maj. Roberto d'Aubuisson.

The five other rightists appeared Tuesday morning to be near agreement to unite in a majority coalition. But by afternoon, prospects of such an agreement receded.

"The only consensus at this point is that Duarte must general Raul Molina Martinez told reporters. "Without us, there is no government. The Christian Democratic party secretary, Julio Adolfo leave the presidency," National Conciliation secretary-

Rey Prendes, told reporters his party stands firmly behind Duarte, and "without the Christian Democrats, there will be no social peace in this country.' "If we're not in the government, people will lose faith."

he said. "If they lose faith in democracy, they'll have to find other ways to change things.

The chief obstacle to a rightist coalition appeared to be the presidential ambitions of d'Aubuisson, a right-wing firebrand accused of sponsoring at least one anti-leftist paramilitary "death squad."

One National Conciliation official, Luis Lagos, said d'Aubuisson was not likely to become interim president "because the leader cannot be a caudillo (a military dic-

O'Hair should go 'straight to hell,' congressman suggests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Sam B. Hall has suggested activist atheist Madalyn Murray O'Hair should take a fact-finding mission in her effort to block federal funds for congressional chaplains and "go straight to hell. Stunned silence initially greeted the comment Hall made Tuesday on the floor of the House of Representatives, but then other congressmen and spectators in the galleries cheered and applauded. Moments later, the House voted 388-0 for a bill that reaffirms the right of the House to have a chaplain open daily proceedings with a prayer. Mrs. O'Hair, whose suit years ago led to prohibition of prayers in public schools, is seeking to prevent Congress from spending public money for chaplains.

Hall, D-Texas, said he'd followed for several years the lawsuits brought by Mrs. O'Hair and couldn't restrain himself from going to the rostrum to make the impromtu

"It's a terrible thing to have to be faced with a creature like Madalyn Murray O'Hair, who believes in neither hell nor heaven," Hall said.

"But I would like - with all the force that I can command, as it be within the power of my being able to say on the floor of this body — to request that Mrs. O'Hair, since she does not believe in hell, immediately go straight to hell and make what determination she can as to what she believes in is true or false," Hall said.

Mrs. O'Hair, who lives in Austin, Texas, could not be reached for comment later Tuesday.

In a recent 2-1 decision, a federal appeals court in Washington, D.C., overturned a lower court decision and ruled that Mrs. O'Hair has the right as a taxpayer to sue the government to stop payment of congressional chaplains' salaries.

She contends spending public money for chaplains is a violation of the constitutional separation of church and

Reagan's view of economy criticized

controlled Senate Budget Committee, repudiating President Reagan's optimistic forecast for the economy, says the country faces tougher times than the administration wants to admit and much bigger budget deficits.

At the same time, the committee began its work on a 1983 spending plan Tuesday with a bipartisan display of impatience over Reagan's refusal to compromise on his proposed budget.

"It's absolutely urgent we move and move with dispatch," said Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., the committee chairman. He favors a series of steps to reduce budget deficits, including higher taxes, less spending on defense and limits on cost of living increases for Social

"This isn't a game of budget chicken. This is a very serious business," said Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., ranking Democrat on the panel and author of another alternative to Reagan's budget. "The president needs to get on line," echoed

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La The committee, which is expected to complete its redrafting of Reagan's budget after a twoweek Easter recess, began the job Tuesday by voting 13-1 to reject the president's optimistic forecast for the economy. Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., was the lone dissenter, urging his Republican colleagues not to begin their work by rejecting Reagan's own.

But the committee adopted a forecast that said the economy will rebound more slowly from recession this year and show less growth in the following two years than the White House predicts. The panel also assumes that inflation, unemployment and interest rates will generally be higher than the president forecasts.

It said the actual deficits will climb from $121.8

billion in fiscal 1983 to $136.4 billion in 1985 even if Congress enacts all the spending cuts the president is proposing. In contrast, Reagan says the deficits will be $96.4 billion in 1983, declining to $71.2 billion in 1985.

Despite the break with Reagan, Domenici said the vote could represent the first step in producing a "credible" plan to reduce budget deficits.

In addition to Domenici and Hollings, there are five or six other committee members who have drafted alternatives to Reagan's budget. All are based on the less optimistic economic forecast.

Reagan has shown little inclination to make concessions in his budget in recent weeks, although White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III has begun a series of private meetings with House Democrats on a possible bipartisan compromise

Bingo helps youth

A decision to vote to legalize bingo for the county in Saturday's special election should not be difficult to come by if one considers the composition of the Texas Bingo Enabling Act. The basic nature of the act is to enable specific organizations the opportunity to raise money for charitable purposes.

Section 11, subsection d of the act states, "The net proceeds of any game of bingo and of any rental of premises for bingo shall be exclusively devoted to the charitable purposes of the organization permitted to conduct the game." Licenses are granted only to religious societies, non-profit organizations, fraternal or veterans organizations or volunteer fire depart-

PROCEEDS FROM BINGO cannot but help any area where it is allowed. In Big Spring, the funds go for children of all ages in numerous activities. Also, gross receipts over $2,500 are eligible for taxation by the county — a painless method of increasing revenue through bingo.

The Texas Legislature — made up of our elected representatives — has been careful not to allow this admitted game of change to become an opportunity for corruption and personal aggrandizement. Safeguards from the state comptroller's office and local peace officers should ensure strict control over receipts and conduct.

Of course one cannot ignore the basic moral issue at hand with bingo; bingo is a game of chance and technically must be considered gambling. The dangers inherent in gambling, however, have been considered by the lawmakers. Limitations on how often games may be held, restricted prizes, strict licensing procedures and careful supervision of records are all provisions to avoid abuse of the game.

THE ORGANIZATIONS which promote bingo do not and cannot profit from these games — the law specifically prohibits it. If violated, the organization faces criminal charges

What the children of Howard County stand to lose without the support of bingo proceeds is more than the possible dangers of a simple game of chance. Without the various activities promoted with bingo proceeds, the idle time left by their vacuum could cause problems yet to be foreseen.

A cancer

An ugly trend is creeping across America, worming its way into the very fabric of American freedoms. This insidious happenstance is censorship, more particularly book banning, and its revival threatens every thinking person even as it should anger every parent or teacher who hopes to raise the consciousness of another being

The banning of books is taking place in every state in the libraries and the schools. One might understand the overprotectiveness in the school bannings, but the forbidding of books to adults through libraries is incomprehensible and reeks of fascism. From Hitler to Mussolini to the Ayatollah, the first step in crushing individual thought is to destroy a country's literature.

AN EXAMINATION of just a few of the banned books makes one believe an attempt is being made to rid the world of every creative and thoughtprovoking piece of literature ever written. Keep in mind in some places in America these books cannot be read: "Gone with the Wind", "The Grapes of Wrath," "One Flew over the Cuckoo's Nest", all of William Shakespeare but two plays and all of Charles Dickens but one book

J.D. Salinger's "The Catcher in the Rye," which has pulled more than one generation of high-schoolers through early adulthood, was banned because it was "part of an overall communist plot." John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath," a stunning portrayal of one family's suffering in the Great Depression, was dismissed as "profane, vulgar and obscene." Even the American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language was thrown out because it had 39 "objectionable of "Julius Caesar" or "Tale of Two Cities." But the banning of these books removes more than the print censorship removes thinking. Imagine how many writers were inspired by an idea from some book or play and gave life to some other form

How many laughs were drawn from one source and given again in another fashion? It was once said every show on television could trace its roots to a Shakespearean play — TV has managed to mess Will's work up, though. The ideas, the laughs, the tears, the enrichment of life: so much filters to us all from the free study of imagination.

CENSORSHIP IS like a cancer; it rarely affects only its intended target. A banned book denies chances of laughter, opportunities of learning. worlds of tears and - most importantly - denies freedom of choice for someone. Who knows what entertainment or insights the world loses when someone is forbidden a book? What moments are even lost between friends due to denial of literature? The cancer is closing in. Last week, a San Angelo High School play was disqualified in UIL competition because two words - hellfire and damnation - "offended the morals of the people of Midland." What about the hundreds of hours of practice by those students? What of the students themselves? Why do so few decide for so many? Blind and spreading, the Raising clenched fists to rail at the stupidity of others is not enough, nor is the flippant dismissal of book bannings correct. Freedom from censorship is freedom to think, to create. to enjoy, to decide. The fight for what others have to say is important because, next week, they may be deciding what you can't do.

Reagan needs strong England

WASHINGTON - In World War II, the rock on which Adolf Hitler's dreams ultimately foundered was the close working relationship between Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill. Now, 40 years later, Ronald Reagan and another British prime minister, Margaret Thatcher, seem to have arrived at a similar alliance against the threat of Soviet worldwide aggression.

Top White House advisers tell me that President Reagan is greatly encouraged by Thatcher's steadfast support of his anti-Soviet policies, and would be crushed if she showed signs of wavering, as, for example, our West German allies have done

Reagan is evidently sincere in his belief that the Kremlin poses a cona threat that overshadows the cutbacks in domestic programs for which he is taking so much heat. But the president has not succeeded in persuading most of our European allies that the Soviet threat is as dangerous as he thinks it is. They prefer to minimize the threat — and do business with the Soviets.

The most important exception to this attitude has been Margaret Thatcher's Britain. I sent my associate Dale Van Atta to London to gauge the depth of the British commitment. If the British are uncertain, the Reagan administration's foreign policy is in big trouble

FROM INTERVIEWS with military, intelligence and political sources in both London and Washington, this is the picture that emerges about Britain's position in the East-West struggle:

The British are unquestionably our strongest ally against the Soviets but this stalwart support could be jeopardized by domestic political developments; that is, if Thatcher is unceremoniously given the heave-ho, as Churchill was at the very moment of victory in 1945.

Unlike other NATO countries, Britain has supported the alliance consistently and at great sacrifice, including a commitment to increase its military budget by 3 percent at a time when its economy can ill afford such an expenditure. Unemployment is far worse in Britain than in the United States, yet Thatcher has kept up her support of increased defense expenditures

In fact, the weight of classified evidence shows that Thatcher is determined to maintain the British military commitment. A top-secret Pentagon report discloses that Britain provides bases for 156 American nuclear bombers, contributes 56 nuclear bombers to the NATO front in West Germany and has four nuclear British nuclear planes and subs, as well as 400 U.S. Poseidon missiles, are under the control of the Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, who has always been an American.

In addition, the British are cooperating on U.S. programs to upgrade joint nuclear missile forces so that the anti-ballistic missile defenses of Moscow can be penetrated a vital deterrent to any Soviet plans for a first strike against the West.

The British government has also agreed to allow 160 ground-launched cruise missiles to be placed in England — a decision not without its touch of irony, considering that Britain was the first victim of the cruise missile's German ancestor, the V-2 rocket of 1944.

What concerns the White House, though, is the political equation in Britain. Secret CIA analyses have warned that the Reagan-Thatcher love affair, like that of Roosevelt and Churchill in World War II, may be blown away.

And in this case, unlike the situation in 1945 when domestic policies were the cause of Churchill's defeat, the Thatcher government's determined support of Reagan policies could be a serious contributing factor to its downfall. The growing strength of leftist Labor in Britain is traceable to the British public's distates for nuclear weapons in their backyard as well as to domestic economic conditions.

SETTLING IN: The Selective Service System is clearly preparing for the long haul. At a time when most federal agencies are feeling the budget pinch, the draft people have put in for a vastly increased budget.

For one thing, Selective Service has moved from relatively modest digs on Capitol Hill to the high-rent district along the Georgetown waterfront. Then it's asked for six more emlovees this fiscal year and 26 more next year. The added workers will be needed, the budget request explained, to feed the names of draft registrants into the agency's computers — and to track down the dodgers.

Selective Service has already asked Congress for an extra $1.6 million about this year's $18.7 million appropriation. And for next year, it has requested $23.4 million.

Perhaps the most significant item in the budget request is the $48,000 earmarked for bulletproof windows at the agency's new Washington headquarters.

WHITE HOUSE PIPELINE: Faulted by the Humane Society for a plan to slaughter 2,400 wild horses, Interior Secretary James Watt was defended by White House insiders. "He has been wrongly accused of not caring about wildlife," said one, adding: "Watt owns animals, as does the president." Some of his best friends, in fact ... On industrialist Justin Dart's public criticism of the Reagan team, a top White House aide said: "Dart means well, but some of his statements of late don't make much sense ... Dart has been quite

Prayer unanswered

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have prayed and prayed that God would make me a better Christian but I don't seem to make much progress. Why doesn't God answer my prayer? -

DEAR H.W.: Have you ever thought about how God might answer your prayer? Often, I find, when a person prays like this they somehow hope that God will suddenly give them a great burst of spiritual strength that will solve all their spiritual problems. But this is not the way God usually operates.

God wants you to be a better Christian, and I am glad that this is your desire as well. We are told in the Bible "so then, just as you received Christ Jesus as Lord, continue to live in him, rooted and built up in him, strengthened in the faith as you were taught, and overflowing with thankfulness" (Colossians 2:6-7). Notice that the Bible gives us a clue about how we grow in Christ: we are to "continue to live in him". But how do we do that? Just as a plant is rooted in the soil and draws its nourishment from it, so you and I are to be rooted in Christ, drawing our spiritual strength from him. When we do that, we grow and bear fruit.

How do you "continue to live in him"? Here is the central thing you need to see: God has given you the means by which this is to be accomplished. Especially important is the Word of God, the Bible. Spiritual growth does not take place in a vacuum. Just as you need food to strengthen you physically, so you need spiritual food to strengthen you spiritually. And God has given this to us in the Bible.

Note carefully what the Bible tells us: "Faith comes from hearing the message, and the message is heard through the word of Christ'' (Romans 10:17). Are you listening to the voice of God each day, by reading his Word and studying it prayerfully? This is the most important thing you can do to strengthen your faith and grow as a Christian. God wants you to be a better, stronger Christian and he has made it possible. Turn to him each day in his Word, and ask him to help you apply its truth to your life.

office is suddenly beginning to fall apart. Not just because of budgetary pressure, and still less because of the anti-nuclear movement.

The true challenge is posed by defense specialists in the Congress who sense a gap between the strategy enunciated by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and the force structure the Pentagon plans to build in the next five years. Addressing that problem has become a top priority for the White House, and especially for Tom Reed, a former Air Force secretary who has come to play a central role as a temporary consultant to the National Security Budget stringency is, of course, a fact of life. The $215 billion in total outlays requested for military spending in fiscal 1983 is sure to be cut. But probably not by much. Indeed, some leading critics of the Reagan defense program have not yet accepted the need to chop at all.

The anti-nuclear movement is plainly gathering force on the campuses and in the press and television. But officials here believe they can demonstrate the proposal for an early freeze on nuclear weapons is bad - even for arms control. The claim it would undermine the present round of talks with Russia in Geneva aimed at cutting back medium-range nuclear weapons based in Europe. They also say they can top a freeze with proposals for reductions in intercontinental missiles when talks on that subject begin with Russia this

On the defensive

FAR MORE difficult to handle is the line of questioning opened by Sen. Sam Nunn, the Georgia Democrat, and his allies on the Armed Services Committee. The starting point is the strategy laid out by Secretary Weinberger in the annual Defense Posture statement. The emphasis there is on a "global" approach that features the need to fight simultaneously, and perhaps for an extended period, in many areas - not only Europe, but also the Middle East, the Caribbean and Korea. An estimate of what it would take to fund such an effort was made by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and it came to about $750 billion more than the $1.6 trillion requested for the 1982-1986 period.

Secretary Weinberger dismissed the estimate as a "wish list," and his deputy, Frank Carlucci, said that when it was presented, "We spent all of 30 seconds on it." But various military men have been far less casual.

Edward C. Meyer, the Army chief of staff, said of the document on costs: "I don't consider it a wish list, if you believe the defense of the nation is important." In response to a question as to the meaning of the gap between the ambitious "global" strategy and the huge expenditures, Gen. Meyer said: "I think the message that comes from the gap is that we are accepting tremendous risks with the size of the force that we currently have to do what we have pledged to do."

The implications of that line of attack are devastating. It is bipartisan in character, and includes strong military support. It makes the Reagan administration appear to be just what it said about the Carter administration on defense — not serious.

The White House has finally become aware of the problem. William Clark, the President's new National Security Adviser, overcame political resistance to bring former Air Force Secretary Reed onto his staff as a consultant. Reed has completed 60 days service, and is beginning another 30-day stint. He has been in all the top White House offices including that of the President, whom he knows from way, way back.

HIS FIRST MAJOR task is the preparation of National Security Study Directive Number 1 — a paper that will attempt to harmonize strategy and force structure with the budget. The hope is that an authoritative document, bearing the presidential stamp, will make it possible for the whole defense community, including Democrats and military men, to regroup around the President.

But Reed understands that to chieve that goal he will have to stop the Pentagon from ignoring the implications of decisions the President has made. He hopes to force out an explicit recognition that a "global" strategy requires allies and novel ways to meet conventional attacks, and credible proposals on arms

Above all, he hopes to break the bureaucratic habit of delaying response. "I have the reputation," Reed said recently, "of being prepared to entertain any idea. however farfetched it may seem to me. But when I'm working for the President I want to entertain it in a timely way — say Monday at 9:30 in the morning."

Open for business

When Vince Lombardi came to coach the Green Bay Packers, he faced a defeated, dispirited professional football team. He stood before them, looked them over silently for a long time, and then in a quiet but intense way said, "Gentlemen, we are going to have a great football team, and we are going to win games. Get that! You are going to learn to block. You are going to learn to run. You are going to learn to tackle. You are going to outplay the teams that come against you. Get that!

"And how is this to be done?" he continued. "You are to have confidence in me and enthusiasm for my system. The secret of the whole matter will be what goes on up here." (He tapped his temple.) "Hereafter, I want you to think of only three things: your home, your religion and the Green Bay Packers, in that order! Let enthusiasm take hold of you!"

THE MEN SAT up straight in their chairs. "I walked out of that meeting feeling ten feet tall!" said the quarterback. That year they won seven games — with the same players who had lost ten games the year before. The next year they won a division title and the third year the World Championship. Why? Because, added to hard work and skill and love of the sport, enthusiasm made the dif-

What happened to the Green Bay Packers can happen to a church, to a business, to a country, to an individual. What goes on in the mind is what determines the outcome. When an individual really gets enthusiasm you can see it in the flash of his eyes, in his alert and vibrant personality. You observe it in the spring of his step. You can see it in the verve of his whole being. Enthusiasm makes the difference in one's attitude toward other people, toward his job, toward the world. It makes a great big difference in the zest and delight of human existence. Catch enthusiasm! (Borrowed from Norman Vincent Peale.)

ONE SUCH enthusiastic group was honored last night for the organization's professional leadership and its members' dedication and service to the Big Spring parents and students. This group, The Educational Secretaries Association, was recognized with a plaque presented by the administration and board of the local public school system. DARLA SWINDELL, president, accepted it on behalf of the membership. We, as human beings, are quick to critizice but slow to praise. It's nice to see employees getting some justifiable praise.

PRINCESS HUNTING TEXAN - Princess Alexandra von Anhalt and her nephew Jurgen von Anhalt talk to reporters in their Dallas hotel room

Princess seeks rancher husband

DALLAS (AP) - Marie-Antoinette Elisabeth-Alexandra Irmgand Edda Charlotte Anhalt is looking for a prince of a guy.

The woman, who calls herself Princess Alexandra von Anhalt, has checked into a suite at the Fairmont Hotel here and says she won't leave until she finds a Texas rancher to marry

"I need a Texannie," the German woman says in broken English. "I need a rancher who will offer me his arm when we walk.

Fairmont officials said the princess arrived Friday with her nephew, who calls himself Prince Jurgen von Anhalt. The pair paid $3,000 in advance for the twobedroom, $350-a-night Republic Suite, hotel officials said.

There's a little royal mystery, though.

The woman's passport lists the regal-sounding - and lengthy name. But the Anhalt name is list d neither on the protocol list of the German embassy in Washington nor in "Who's Who in Germany." The German consuls in Houston and Dallas have not heard

Embassy official Charles

Bentlean said the Anhalt name comes from a house of nobility in the 15th century, when Germany was divided into several principalities led by titled aristocrats.

"In other words, there are hundreds of Germans who could give themselves a prince or princess title because they are descendants of those old families," said John Knops of the Houston consulate.

"We are — how do you say? — a crazy family," the red-haired, 52year-old woman said Monday as she leaned back against a sofa, smoking a cigarette.

Support for nuclear freeze grows

WASHINGTON (AP) - For Mark Hatfield, the only U.S. senator who witnessed the devastation of Hiroshima, this is a magic moment that may never recur.

His reasoning goes this way: Since the United States and the Soviet Union are roughly equal in nuclear weapons - and thus need not fear the other side has an advantage — the sensible thing is for them to agree to a freeze in production, testing and deployment.

"It's a very simple resolution," the Oregon Republican said of a measure now moving through Congress aimed at pushing President Reagan into approving freeze talks with the Soviet Union.

But Fred C. Ikle, the undersecretary of defense, is concerned that Hatfield's idea would keep the United States from adding weapons "that would be more survivable," like the B-1 bomber and new Trident nuclear submarines.

Since those weapons are less vulnerable to Soviet attack than some current arms, adding them to the U.S. arsenal now would help prevent war, Ikle said in a recent inter-

"We are not adding weapons systems just for the sake of increasing the numbers on our side," said the former U.S. arms control director.

The views of Hatfield, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Ikle, the Pentagon strategist, typify a growing international debate that Reagan plans to address it at his news conference tonight.

Indications are he will support a freeze, but only after the United States overcomes what the administration considers to be a Soviet lead.

The idea of a freeze — stopping the nuclear buildup in its tracks - is rapidly gaining momentum in and out of Con-

Hatfield's resolution, co-sponored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., calls on the United States and the Soviet Union to "pursue a complete halt to the nuclear arms race." Twenty-two other senators, including Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, and 161 representatives support the measure.

Under the resolution, the two superpowers not only would agree to "a mutual and verifiable freeze" in warheads, missiles and other delivery system, but would "pursue major, mutual and verifiable reductions.

Other freeze proposals have been aired. The bestknown, advanced by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, would halt — and even trim back — deployment of Soviet missiles based roughly near the Urals and trained on Western Europe

The rub, from the U.S. view, is that this also would prevent the installation of 572 U.S. Pershing II and cruise Tomahawk missiles in West Germany, Britain and Italy, scheduled to begin in December 1983.

The government's report of a 0.9 percent rise in February orders for new manufactured goods matched a pattern of modest improvement in economic activity from January, when harsh weather hampered business and industry.

Yet a major obstacle to economic recovery - high interest rates - is showing no signs of retreating. Rates in the nation's money markets were slightly higher Tuesday, contributing to a broad decline in bond

Those high rates, which have persisted for more than two years, are taking an increasing toll on the housing industry. Samuel R. Pierce Jr., the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, told a Senate panel that President Reagan is studying legislation to provide federal subsidies for some new home mortgages. Pierce said the administration had no plans for a bailout of the housing industry.

While he agreed that the homebuilding industry is in dire straits, he noted that "a lot of industries are in trouble; automobile,

The administration argues that if Congress goes along with further cuts in federal spending, the financial markets will exhibit greater confidence in the prospects for economic recovery without a burst of inflation. That in turn will push interest rates lower and provide relief for troubled industries.

But while some economic indicators are pointing to improvement from the low marks of January, few economists see any immediate and robust recovery.

The Commerce Department reported a 0.9 percent increase in orders for new manufactured goods in February. That was a major improvement from the 1.4 percent decline in January, but most of the growth was in orders for military hardware.

LAFAYETTE, N.J. (AP) — Three and a half days of digging, drilling and blasting ended when rescue workers removed the lifeless body of a state trooper from a narrow tunnel where he had been trapped since leading a group of Boy Scouts on a weekend cave exploration.

The body of Sgt. Donald Weltner was removed late Tuesday night, ending a drama that began Saturday at the Crooked Swamp Cave when he apparently dislodged a stone that wedged him tightly inside the crevice 15 feet

Reporters filed past the excavated cave and were shown the narrow and dark passage where Weltner's body had

Reagan attack changed conservatives' minds

Struggling guns control movement is reborn

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan held firm to trols his support of gunowners' rights after he was shot outside a Washington hotel a year ago, but the wounding of a president with a cheap handgun nevertheless gave new life to the struggling gun control movement.

"What we're seeing across the country is a resurgence and new people coming into the handgun control movement in many different states," said Charles Orasin, executive vice president of Handgun Control, Inc.

Morton Grove, Ill., population 24,000, put itself on the map earlier this year with a local ordinance banning handguns. In Chicago, the City Council has passed a measure prohibiting the registration of new handguns after April 9. Friendship Heights, Md., a suburb of the nation's capital, found itself prevented by a state law from bann-argument, but the fever is spreading. In Massachusetts, a move is afoot to outlaw snub-nose pistols, while a licensing and registration law is being considered in Ohio. The Maryland legislature has pending a bill to outlaw carrying a handgun outside home or place of ing handguns, so it tried the next best thing: banning the bullets to go in them. That one is still caught up in a legal

County, Fla., is seeking to toughen its gun law. And California has a voters' initiative brewing, this one to cap the supply of handguns. Movement on gun control is a new development. Public opinion polls have shown for the past 50 years that most people would like some effective controls on handguns. but that opinion never became an emotional issue to most voters — and most of the voters that did care opposed con-

Orasin believes the assassination of former Beatle John Lennon in New York on Dec. 8, 1980, was seismic in its effect, because it stirred a generation that had not been involved in the gun issue before.

"The John Lennon tragedy really sensitized the Beatles generation," Orasin said. "This is a very new, young generation, a large group of people that can vote, are acquiring property, becoming taxpapers, the future leaders.

"And the poll data we're seeing is that the intensity of support for handgun control is much higher in this group than among older people," Orasin said. "So, as each year passes, they'll have a greater influence on the handgun control debate."

The Reagan shooting, on March 30, 1981, reached even more people, Orasin reasons.

"To begin with, because of television," he said, "you had almost an instant replay of how the president was shot, and millions of Americans saw how a small, easily concealed handgun was able to penetrate this Secret Service protection and almost kill the president.'

The attempt had a greater effect because the victim business, with a mandatory jail term for violators. Dade was a Republican and a conservative, Orasin said. "What you find is that many conservatives who in the past had either not spoken out for handgun control or had taken no position on it, after this shooting were prompted to say something has to be done," Orasin said. "Because the focus became narrow. It was no longer gun control — not rifles and shotguns — but specifically handgun control, pistols and revolvers," Orasin continued. "So, in that one incident the debate was focused and they saw exactly what people were talking about, just concealable handguns

'The issue had always been looked upon as a liberal Democratic issue. Now it's an issue for all parties, all ages, all religions, all colors. People realize something has to be done," Orasin said.

At the time Lennon was shot, Handgun Control, Inc.. which is generally considered the spearhead of the control movement, was struggling.

Compared to the National Rifle Association's 2 million members and $40 million budget, Handgun Control, Inc., had a mailing list of about 65,000 and was running an office and small staff on about $1 million a year.

In the weeks after Lennon was shot, Handgun Control's mailings brought in an unexpected $300,000. The group's leaders were pondering how to use this windfall wher Reagan was shot. They decided to sink almost the entire bundle into a recruiting campaign, primarily full page ads in 22 major daily newspapers.

Unlike most efforts, the ads did not ask for money, only that people sympathetic to handgun control fill out a coupon and mail it in. Since then the organization's computerized mailing list has gained some 500,000 new names. people who can be alerted to contact lawmakers from city hall to Congress when a critical vote is up.

The group's contributor list now totals another 165,000, and collectively the name banks represent a ten-fold increase since a handgun bullet pierced the president's chest a year ago.

Although this still leaves Handgun Control Inc. and several other groups far behind the anti-control forces,

Orasin says the ability of the gun lobby "to really dictate to the Congress what should be done on this issue" may be

"As a result of the Lennon and Reagan shootings and this new awareness on the issue...,we have this growing army of handgun control supporters who can be mobilized, not only here on the national level but in state and local

Texas road costs dropping dramatically

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Costs of Texas highway projects have dropped dramatically since a federal investigation into bid-rigging began two years ago, the Austin American-Statesman reported Monday

The multi-state federal probe has resulted in 21 Texas road construction firms being accused of participating in schemes to pre-arrange bids on highway projects. Although the number of bidders rose and road costs began dropping dramatically after the federal probe began, one highway department official said economic factors are the most likely reason for the decline.

After three years of averaging about 3 percent above state estimates, the paper said, road construction contracts dropped in 1980 to an average of 10 percent less than the estimates, then declined to 22 percent below the estimates in 1981.

So far this year, the paper said, road costs are averaging 18 percent below estimates.

Texas Attorney General Mark White attributed the lower costs to the investigation. "Apparently this legal action has prompted free competition," White said. 'As a result, we have seen lower bids. White has filed civil lawsuits on behalf of the state against firms found guilty of bid-rigging. So far, four companies have agreed to pay the state combined damages of $960,000.

Because of the lower road costs, the paper said, the highway department will return almost $300 million to the state's general revenue

Bell to begin rate refunds on May 5

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said Tuesday it will begin rate refunds to customers on May 5 instead of April 11 as originally planned.

The Public Utility Commission has ordered refunds of more than $20 million on rates charged by the company while the PUC was studying Southwestern Bell's rate increase request

The company has ap pealed the PUC order to the 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin, claiming the refunds should total only $600,000. The court has not acted on the appeal.

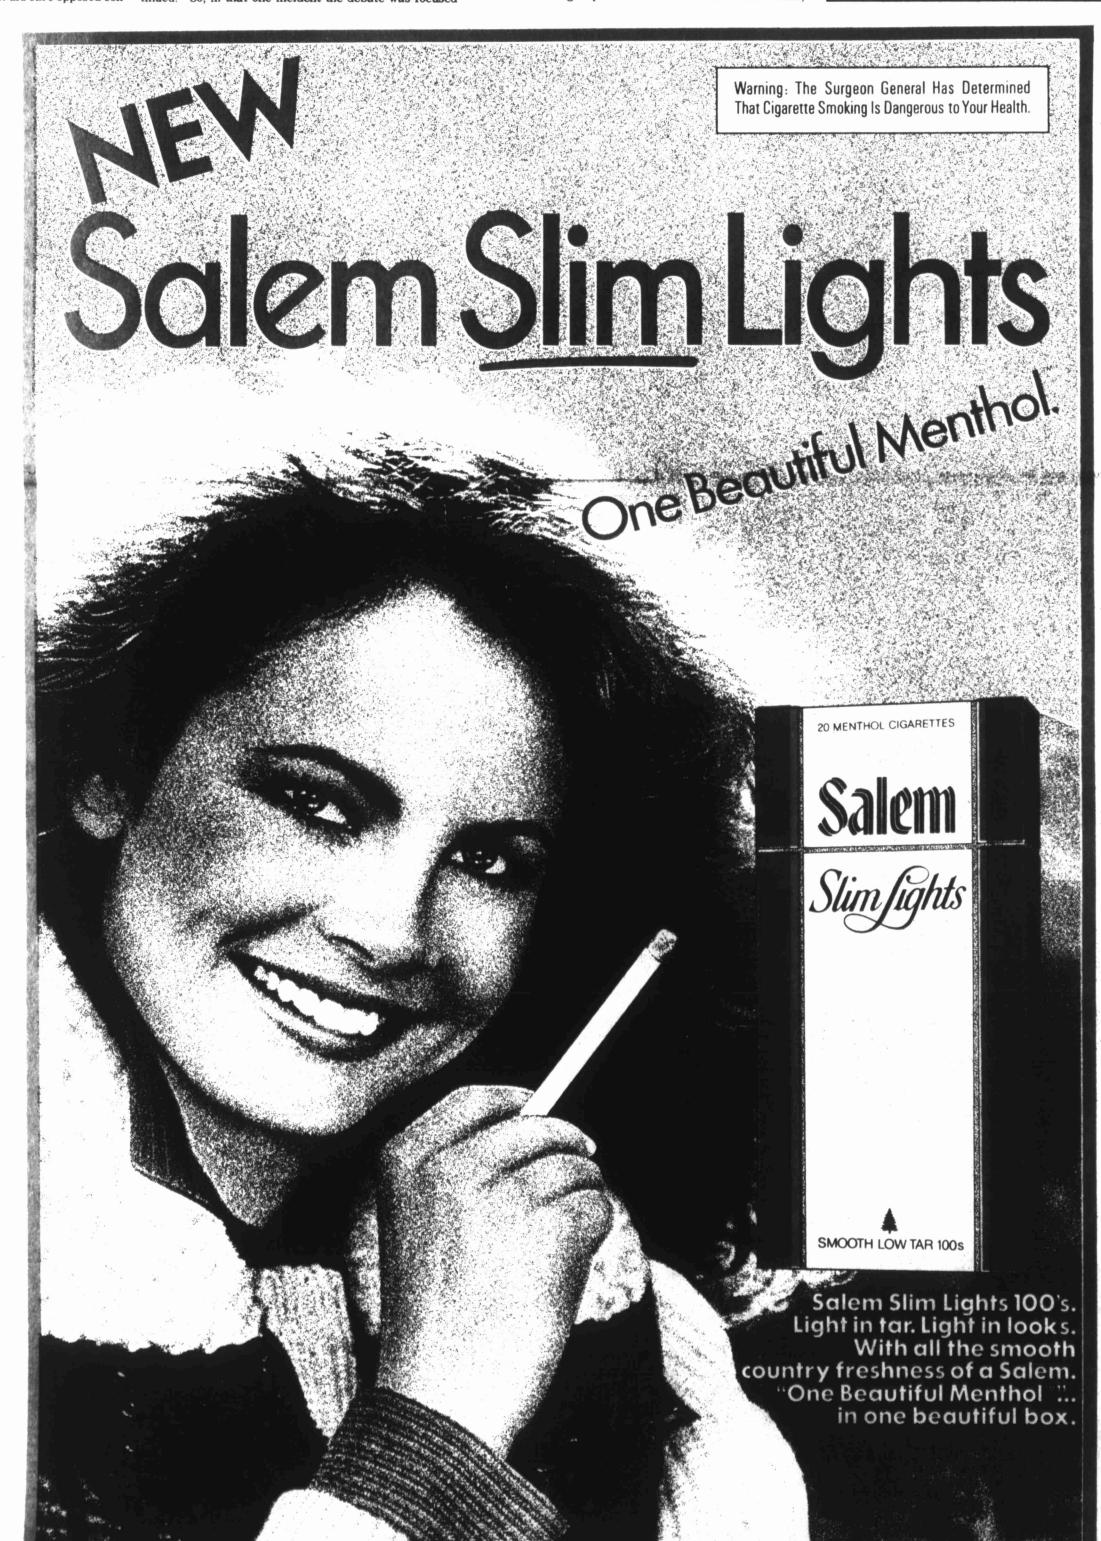

The company said in a statement Tuesday it originally thought the refunds must be started April 5 in order to be complete by June 12, as PUC ordered.

Dear Abby

Affair has age W.E. Singleton was hostess. old ending

DEAR ABBY: When I see letters in your column from young girls who fall in love with older men, I ache for them because I know what they're feeling.

When I was 16, I baby-sat for a divorced man who had two young children. I fell in love with him the first time I saw him. I was thrilled that an older man would even look at me. (He was 30). I lost my heart (and my virginity) to him. Our affair went on for a year and a half. I never realized that all he saw in me was a bed partner when he felt the need. Meanwhile he was on my mind night and

My love for him took me out of ciruclation at school. Boys my own age seemed like infants. I missed the school proms and all the activities and fun high school girls have. And worst of all, it made a liar and a sneak out of me. My parents never knew, thank God.

What did I get instead? The constant fear of pregnancy. (I was just plain lucky; he was selfish and inconsiderate and refused to use protection).

Hs said he was "thinking" of marriage. He was. But not to me. In the middle of our big love affair he married a woman he had said was "just a friend." My heart broke into a million pieces.

That was 15 years ago, Abby, and I've never told anyone about it. If you think this will help someone, use it in your column, but please don't say where it came from YOUNG AND FOOLISH ONCE

DEAR YOUNG: Thanks for the testimonial. Girls, if the shoe fits, wear it, and run as though your life depended upon it, because it does.

DEAR ABBY: This is a tough one. A very dear friend of mine (I'll call him Tom) recently had a physical examination and his doctor found a spot on his lung. Tom was a three-pack-a-day man, so the doctor told him he had to quit smoking.

Well, Tom has quit buying cigarettes, but he hasn't quit smoking. Whenever he sees someone with a cigarette he asks for "just one drag." Of course, no one would refuse him. I plead guilty to having given Tom many drags, even though I know I shouldn't.

So how do you say no to a friend when you know he's dying for a cigarette!

GOOD BUDDY

DEAR BUDDY: It won't be easy, but if you really care for Tom, you'll say no. And if that's too difficult for you, never smoke in Tom's presence.

Dr. Donohue

Using propranolol

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am writing to find out what your opinion is on using Inderal as a medication for migraine headaches. I was told if you stop taking it abruptly you could have a heart attack. This seems to be a possibility for me as I sometimes vomit for two days and cannot take the medicine. -

A word in general, first, about propranolol, another name for the drug you are taking. It is used for many unrelated medical conditions, one of which is angina, the chest pain due to a deficient blood supply to the heart muscle. If a person is using proprancial for that reason (control of angina) the medicine should not repeat not - be stopped abruptly. The reason for the gradual stopping of the nedicine is that there have been eports of angina getting worse in ome people who discontinue it abruptly. Even heart attack is a possibility. Let me repeat that this reaction has been found only in those who had the poor circulation to the heart muscle (angina) to begin with. Now to your quite different problem. You are using propranolol to prevent migraine attacks, a legitimate use. You are fearful that your vomiting for two days might cause you to be abruptly deprived of the medicine and that you will have a heart attack. Again, problems in stopping propranolel abruptly have not, as I said, been recorded in those who have been using the medicine for nonangina control purposes and who have healthy hearts.

NOTE: If any person is taking high doses of propranolel, it may still be advisable to reduce dosage slowly over two weeks rather than stop abruptly. The individual doctor can advise on this specifically.

Incidentally, propranolol is not used to stop migraine attacks, but to prevent them from occurring, are you sure you cannot keep some of your medicine down by taking it with small sips of water?

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition. write to Dr. Donohue, in care of The Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Prison reform group raps paroles board

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If the Pardons and Paroles Board were doing the job ordered by the 1981 Legislature there would be no need for prison inmates living in tents, Charles Sullivan said today. Sullivan is executive director of Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants, a prison reform group.

"The board was given the money by the Legislature to do their job and they are not doing it," Sullivan told a news

Sullivan said CURE's figures show the board is running about 48 percent behind the Legislature's expectations for the number of prison inmates released in the first six monthe of this fiscal year. He said the board's own figures show it to be 27 percent behind.

He suggested some of the slowdown might be accounted for because one board member, Ken Casner, is new, and the board chairman, Ruben Torres, is a Democratic candidate for Congress.

Sullivan said there have been 2,515 regular paroles and $31 conditional paroles or a total of 3,446 during the past six menths of the state's business year. He said a provision of the appropriation bill said it was the intent of the 1981 Legislature that the funds appropriated "affect a reduction in the population of the Department of Corrections by a direct increase in the number of persons paroled by the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

"CURE believes that the Legislature and the governor instructed the Parole Board to parole 26,300 prisoners over the next two years or 13,150 a year or 6,575 each six months. The Pardons Board on the other hand believes that they are to parole only 19,000 in the biennium or 9,500 a year or 4,750 each six months," Sullivan said. Whatever figure is used the violation of the Legislature's and governor's intent is making worse an already dangerous overcrowding situation in the prison system. The Texas Department of Corrections is now over 33,000 with 3,500 prisoners in tents.

"If the Parole Board would do its job as its bosses, the Legislature and governor, mandated, there would be no need of tents," Sullivan said

Crafty thieves steal two-ton brass indian

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Enterprising thieves have stolen the two-ton brass Indian that had graced the 88-foot high dome of this city's old train station for 75

But Efraim Abramoff has it all figured out. 'It's definitely a professional crane job," says the owner of the now defunct Missouri-Pacific depot.

The 15-foot tall brass statute was worth $2,000 as salvage, but reportedly has an artistic value as high as

Ironically, police said an informant tipped them a week ago that the historic statue would be stolen, but officers did not take the tip seriously and did not notify Abramoff of the threatened heist — dubiously described as the heaviest theft of art in the city's history

"I plan to ask the FBI to enter the case because I believe the theft was a violation of federal laws," Abramoff said.

He said federal laws may come into play because the old depot and statue have been declared national and historic Abramoff said truck tread tracks and chain marks were found next to the building where the statue was discovered missing over the weekend. The marks were similar to those made by a heavy-duty crane, he said.

"Whoever did this planned it out. It's professional. I had thought that they might have used a helicopter to pull it off the roof. But it looks like a crane job," the disconsolate

Yanks, Giants, Royals swap hurlers

By The Associated Press

George Steinbrenner "invited" the New York Yankee to saving training nearly two months ago, on Tuesday he welcomed Doyle Alexander back into the fold. That left a few of his new and well-tanned — teammates shaking their heads in dismay.

Alexander, you see, hasn't been to spring training since last year. He sat out this year's, holding out for a better contract from the San Francisco Giants. He and the National League club couldn't agree on an extension of his six-year contract, which expired at the end of the 1982 season

So the 31-year-old right-hander, a Yankee during the second half of the 1976 season and their World Series opening pitcher that year, was dealt back to them in exchange for two minor leaguers, pitcher Andy McGaffigan and infielder-outfielder

Ted Wilborn. Alexander's new contract with the Yankees reportedly is worth $2.2 million over four years.

Alexander wasn't the only Giants pitcher changing uniforms. San Francisco also traded former Cy Young Award winner Vida Blue and another left-hander, Bob Tufts, to the Kansas City Royals in exchange for pitchers Renie Martin, Atlee Hammaker and Craig Chamberlain and a player to named later. Martin is the struggling to come back from a near-fatal stroke in 1980, can agree to go to the minor leagues or be placed on the major league club's injured reserve, manager Bill Virdon says.

Cudd's homer makes Valenzuela winner

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Sports Editor For an afternoon of many firsts, it was the last word that counted the most.

Tom Cudd's first home run in a Big Spring High uniform, on the first offering from Bruce Hollander, gave Jinx Valenzuela his first 5-AAAAA victory and handed the Permian Panthers their first loss of the first half race.

The Steer designated hitter cracked the first pitch offered him by Hollander with two out in the bottom of the eighth inning over the 370-mark in center field to lift Big Spring to a 3-1 win over Mojo on the BSHS diamond Tues-

The dramatic victory moved the Steers to 2-1 in the first half standing, dropping Mojo to the 2-1 position. For the season, Big Spring is one win away from matching last year's victory total with a 12-8 mark. The loss leveled Permian's mark at 10-10.

Hollander has thrown all three Permian district games, going seven innings each in wins over Midland and Abilene. The victory over the Eagles was a five-hit shutout just last Saturday and the Panther ace not only had to return to the mound Tuesday, but had to do some

After swift James Walker outran an infield bounder to reach first, Hollander wiffed Blake Rosson and got Tommy Olague to bounce out. The big righthander then made his biggest mistake of the day ... giving Cudd one too many fastballs.

There was no doubt when Cudd made contact, driving the ball over center fielder Bob Carrasco and the fence he was running for.

"It was a fastball," said an elated Cudd after the game. "That was my first hit in district ... I knew it was gone. He had been throwing fastballs all day.

Surprisingly, Cudd's shot was the only ball hit well that afternoon despite a stiff wind out of the west.

Cudd's blast made a winner of Valenzuela — no relation to El Dodgero, but also a lefthander. A last-minute substitution for an ailing Moe Rubio, the junior kept the ball down to prevent the long fly to left and scattered seven hits in eight full innings. 'We played good defense and hit the ball when we need-and sinking fastballs were his top weapons for the day. "It was tough, I was really tense out there. Cudd's hit sealed Valenzuela's first district win but the pitcher had to work out of several jams to keep his team in

ed to," he said, adding that his assortment of knuckeballs

A doubleplay helped in the third and he stranded two in the fourth and sixth. In the seventh, Hollander and Koy Stribling led off with rollers up the middle before Valenzuela induced Stace Gaddy and Eddy Bizzell to pop up. With two outs, pinch hitter Craig Steen battled Valenzuela to a full count, fouled off several pitches and finally drew a walk to load the bases.

It was up to Kirk Strahan, a man who unfortunately had ended each inning in which he had previously batted. The magic worked again for the Big Spring pitcher, as he unleashed a fastball that Strahan missed with a huge swing to end the frame.

"I knew I had to throw my best pitch ... a fastball/slider," Valenzuela said later. "I knew as soon as I let it go that it was a strike."

The only run scored off him came in the first inning when predictions of a high-scoring game looked to be on target. Carrasco led off with a single and Marty Martinez followed with another basehit. Hollander popped up to Marcus Armendariz, and although he was out under the infield fly rule, both runners moved up when the Big Spring second baseman muffed the catch.

Stribling made the Steers pay when he drove in Carrasco with a long fly to right field.

Big Spring continued to muddle in the scoring column for three innings before tying the game with a run in the Tommy Olague led off the frame with a single to leftcenter and after David Anguiano singled pinch-runner Alan Trevino to third, Big Spring knotted the game on Armendariz's RBI fielder's choice. Shortstop Brian Hart gloved the chopper and went to the plate to save the run but could not beat Trevino who had broken with the pitch.

The Steers never threatened again until the eighth. "We survived the first five innings blues," sighed coach Frank Ibarra. "Poor, poor baserunning killed us again. I think it's stuff we work on but the kids get overly excited when we play Mojo for some reason. It cost us some runs in the early innings ... that's something we have to work hard on before Saturday." Walker was nailed trying to steal third in the third inning and Anguiano put out on a squeeze play that misfired in the fourth. Several other baserunners failed to advance when signaled, causing Ibarra to shake his head in wonder Despite the mental errors, Valenzuela kept the fire out until the offense bailed him out.

"Jinx did a super job for not having thrown for quite awhile," Ibarra agreed. "We also played some good defense. That helped and his gusty pitching.'

Freshman get district win

Tors lasso Mustangs, 8-5

ANDREWS - Gilbert Arredondo tossed no-hit baseball for 5 1-3rd innings but needed late strikeout relief from Tony Cervantes to nail down an 8-5 victory over Andrews here Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Golden Tornadoes to 2-0 in district play and gives coach Lee Alamaguer's crew five wins in their last six games. Andrews slips to 1-1 in 2-AAAA play and 5-11-1 overall.

The Tors host Pecos at 4 p.m. Friday in their next league encounter.

Arredondo, the freshman righthander, did not yield a hit until the sixth inning when Eloy Piero singled with one out. Control problems in the fifth chased in two runs and led to another in the sixth.

Arredondo lost his touch in the seventh. Pitching with an 8-3 lead, he gave up a lead-off single to Sonny Martinez and Robert Ramirez tagged him for a tworun homer. When Tootie Gonzales followed with another basehit, Alamaguer signaled for Cervantes. Cervantes put out the fire when he fanned Fiero,

Scott Sears and Eric McCullough to end the game. Lamesa wasted no time jumping on Mustang starter Floyd Cornejo. Blake McKinney began the game with a double to center and scored on a single by Leroy Rodriquez. Arredondo then singled him home to make it 2-0.

Lasaro Arrendondo singled, stole second and joined Gilbert in the dugout when Steve Teague rapped a twoout single to right to drive them in.

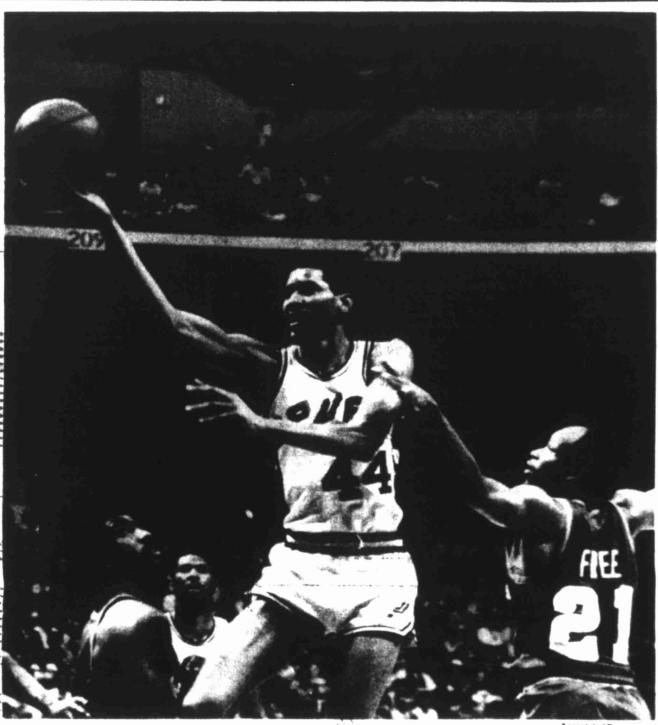

The Tors added three more runs in the fifth. Lassaro Arrendondo reached and scored on three consecutive Mustang errors. With one out, Alfred Morales walked and Teague collected his third and fourth RBi's of the day with a two-run home run.

Andrews got two runs back in bottom of the frame when Arredondo walked three, two scoring when Teague booted a grounder hit by Martinez.

The teams traded runs in the sixth — Morales hitting an RBI ground-out for Lamesa and Bill Morrison walking with the bases loaded for Andrews — before the Mustangs staged their rally in the seventh.

"When Leavell took his shot, the ball seemed to fall right in front of me. I grabbed it and fortunately, it went in," said Malone. "It was just an unlucky play for us," said Jim

Drugs prevalent for hoop fans

OAKLAND (AP) — Marijuana smoking seems to have become a tradition for some Golden State Warriors fans and club officials say trying to stop it would be "more hassle than it's worth.

The Hayward Daily Review said Tuesday that on Friday and Sunday night, more than 800 people were seen openly using marijuana, cocaine or other drugs at halftime on the darkened ramps of the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum Arena.

"The way we look at it is that it's not causing any problems and we feel that if we come down on it with police, it's going to be more hassle than it's worth," said team spokesman Joe Dearborn. "These people are basically having a good time. They're not hurting anybody.'

A security guard, who identified himself only as Ray, said the drug use has been going on for three or four years. "It's just an accepted part of the game, but only at halftime," he said. Although most users brought their own, a few bought marijuana or cocaine from low-key venders, one of whom murmurded, "cocaine, cocaine" as he held a tiny packet of paper over his head. In California, possession of less than an ounce of marijuana for personal use is a misdemeanor. Possession of Although Coliseum officials say they are aware of the game dopers, they say they have never received a written complaint from Warriors management.

Bob Bestor, the Warriors' director of marketing and the man who would forward any security request to Coliseum management, said he hasn't asked for drug enforcement.

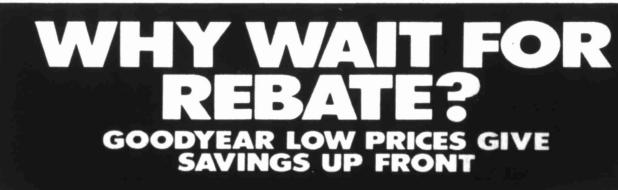

"I have had a lot of people tell me about it, but I've never seen it with my own eyes," Bestor said Monday, adding, "If we saw anything on a continuing basis that was counterproductive to what we are trying to do, we would point it out to (Coliseum management).

"It's a difficult situation to deal with," said Coliseum Assistant Manager Bob Quintella, who acknowledged management has avoided strong enforcement for fear it would create "a giant confrontation at halftime." On Sunday, the vast majority of people apparently smoked marijuana brought from home. But for those without drugs, there were several vendors ready to supply Although the assistant manager placed responsibility for effective enforcement on the Oakland police, Deputy Chief Thomas Donohue said Monday his department has never been asked to patrol inside the arena at basketball games and was not aware of the drug activity.

The newspaper quoted a source as saying that when season ticket holders were asked in 1979 which halftime show they most enjoyed, many answered, "The ramp."

Clements wants Arkansas water ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill at a news conference.

Clements' mouth is watering over something Texas lacks and Arkansas seems to be swamped with - spring Clements says he believes Arkansas will send Texas its surplus water in the 21st century, despite Arkansas Gov. Frank White's emphatic rejection of the proposal. "But that's today," Clements said

Tuesday while in Abilene for a fun-What you have to do is court the girl," he told newsmen and supporters

"The first time is not a willing seller-willing buyer proposition," he said, evoking laughter. "I'm working on Gov. White in Arkansas," he said, to louder laughter. White, a fellow Republican, has flatly refused to sell Texas the surplus floodwaters from Arkansas' southwestern corner

Clements said the media have done the public a disservice by not making it clear that solutions to the water problem are long-range, not im-

The governor also said he was disappointed in the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to block the May 1 state primaries, pending consideration of redistricting lawsuits. He said the districts left intact by the high court violate "commonality, or community interest" in several metropolitan counties.

The 118-member Abilene Police Association, which is affiliated with CLEAT, has endorsed Buddy Temple, one of three Democratic officeholders running to unseat Clements.

United States storing record amount of rice, report says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Record quantities of rice are being used to make beer but the Agriculture Department says there is still plenty left for rice pudding and weddings.

In fact, according to a new analysis by the department's Economic Research Service, the U.S. rice stockpile on Aug. 1 — when the next crop season begins — will be approximately 51 million hundredweight, a record. That would be more than triple the 16.5 million hun-dredweight in the year-end carryover last Aug. 1. Arkansas is the leading rice producer, but the crop also is grown commercially in California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Texas.

Because it is important in world trade, rice production and demand has an impact on virtually all grains in the international market. And that, in turn, affects prices received by American farmers.

Last year's U.S. rice harvest was a record of 185.4 million hundredweight. Added to the carryover of old-crop rice last Aug. 1, that made a total supply in 1981-82 of about 202 million hundredweight.

Domestic use is expected to require about 56.5 million hundredweight this season, including 39.5 million to be used as food, 5 million as seed for the next crop, and 12 million for beer. Alberta Smith, a statistician in the agency, said Monday that the projected use of 12 million hundredweight of rice by brewers would be a record for that purpose. In 1980-81, brewers used about 11 million hundredweight, and in 1979-80 they used 11.2 million, the previous high. Corn and barley are the other grains that are used by American brewers. Rice is one of the world's leading food grains. Most of it is eaten in the countries where the crop is produced. The United States, although a relatively minor rice producer, uses only a small portion of its crop and thus has most of it available for export.

"World rice production for 1981-82 is forecast at 410 million metric tons, rough basis, about 14 million more than last year," the report said.

"Virtually all major exporters had excellent crops, as did some major importers - particularly Indonesia and South Korea. World rice trade is projected at 12 million tons in calendar 1982, about 1 million below last year's

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and, in the case of rice, is equal to approximately 22 hundredweight

For 1981-82, the report showed, exports may be about 91 million hundredweight, down slightly from last year'r record of 91.4 million.

"Following two years of record sales to South Korea. U.S. medium-grain exports will drop dramatically this season," it said. Even so, other markets appear to be taking up the slack.

Agriculture board backs budget plans

WASHINGTON (AP) -The National Agricultural Research and Extension Users Advisory Board has announced its general support of the administration's proposed budget for food and agricultural sciences.

The board said Monday in a report sent to the White House and Congress that the Agriculture Department "should mainly emphasize and support basic programs not funded by other federal agencies, by states or by private concerns.'

But it added that the federal government "must also conduct research where it is the primary beneficiary, particularly when it is the responsible steward of a public resource, such as forests and rangelands."

The board said it is appropriate that state and private funds be spent for food and biger research where the benefits flow primarily to state and private sectors.

"However, the national agricultural system should have the capability to respond to urgent national needs and to stimulate innovations in technology that can lead to productivity growth," the report said.

Congress established the dependent group develop reccommendations on needs and budget priorities for research and extension in the food and agricultural

The board's members represent a wide array of interests, including producers, suppliers, processors and transporters of agricultural commodities, forest and aquaculture products.

Others include consumers, animal health, marketing and environmental interests; those engaged in rural development and human nutrition; and labor organizations concerned with food and agriculture.

Government backs down

on contracts WASHINGTON (AP) -

The government has decided not to require written contracts between shippers and haulers for interstate movement of agricultural commodities otherwise exempt from federal regulation.

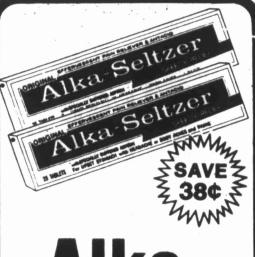

Officials said Monday the Agriculture Department and the Interstate Commerce Commission decided not to require such contracts after studying the issue for more than a year.

Congress required the study in the Motor Carrier

A federal requirement for written contracts was supported by independent truckers but was opposed by most shippers of fresh fruit and vegetables, who indicated they would turn to other means of transportation if such rules were put in place.

Martin F. Fitzpatrick Jr., director of USDA's Office of Transportation, said a mandatory contract of haul, even with minimum rules to implement and enforce it, would result in "serious problems for the fresh fruit and vegetable industry that would not produce any meaningful benefits" for the independent owneroperators.

"The contract of haul is an extremely important public: policy decision affecting all agricultural interests,"

Food processor battle is churning market

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A year after Cuisinarts and Robot-Coupe crossed blades in a fight for dominance in the high-priced food processor market, the dispute is churning again in a battle that may turn on the shape of a tomato.

Cuisinarts has won a following with its expanded feed tube, a processor bowl with a large oval-shaped opening that accepts larger foods whole.

But, asks Robot-Coupe International President Al Finesman, who ever heard of an oval tomato? Robot-Coupe is countering this spring with its own "Le Grand Opening," which Finesman says is big enough for four whole tomatoes or 10 lemons.

The feud erupted more than a year ago when Robot-Coupe — a worldwide maker of food-processing appliances under different brand names stopped making machines in France for Cuisinarts, ending a seven-year

Robot-Coupe entered the U.S. consumer market with its own product. And it went after Cuisinarts' lock on the high end of the foodprocessor market - above $100 a machine — with feisty advertising attacking Cuisinarts.

But now, after winning court rulings blocking some of Robot-Coupe's most offensive.

The Greenwich, Conn.-based company is launching an aggressive new marketing campaign this spring to introduce its DLC-7 Pro, a larger processor than ones currently on the market and expected to retail initially at about $275. The advertising will promote professional qualities of the machines, even though it will be geared to the consumer.

"It's approved for restaurant use, but it's a consumer model," says Dick Tarlow, president of Kurtz & Tarlow, Cuisinarts' New York advertising

Japan. Cuisinarts started having machines built to its specificatons in Japan in mid-1978 when it first ran into problems with Robot-Coupe over delivering defective machines about two years before Robot-Coupe canceled its manufacturing agreement with Cuisinarts.

Tarlow said ads with the tagline "This year, turn pro," will run beginning in early April in national and regional magazines, and television commercials will air shortly before Mother's Day. Tarlow declined to say how much Cuisinarts, a private company, is spending to promote the new product, but he said the advertising budget is a "multimillion-dollar" one.

Robot-Coupe's Finesman, however, is readying his own spring advertising blitz to chip away further at Cuisinarts' market share.

Industry sources, who declined to be quoted by name, put Cuisinarts' share at "more than 50 percent" of the approximately half-million highpriced food processors sold last year, with Robot-Coupe, Waring and Sunbeam taking the rest. In all, about 3 million food processors were sold, but the other 2.5 million were priced

But some retailers say Robot-Coupe is gaining acceptance, especially among cooks with gourmet tastes who want a French-made machine, such as Robot-Coupe's, over one made in Japan, such as the new Cuisinarts.

"Cuisinarts is like Kleenex," says Murray Klein, co-owner of the popular Zabar's food emporium in Manhattan. "If you want to buy tissues, you say you want Kleenex. Cuisinarts has the name. It's still the best seller.

"But Robot-Coupe is taking business away from them. The more sophisticated customers buy Robot-Coupe because they know it's the original," he said. "I think this year Robot-Coupe will catch up with them (Cuisinarts)."

Artist began painting at age 70

BRUMMLEY GAP. Va. (AP) - Minnie Soyphers began painting at age 70 and, in the 14 years since then, has nearly filled the walls of a former Virginia school house with her artwork.

"I just took a notion," she said, when asked why she started. "Well, I've tried about everything else. And she has, at that - quilting, playing musical instruments, even writing poetry on a miniature typewriter that sits on her kitchen table. She published a book of her poems in 1965 — "Minnie Ma's Poetry," using the name by which she has become known in the 25 years she has lived in this southwest Virginia valley.

"I wanted to show people that you don't have to have a big education to do something," she said. "If they can doit, I can doit.'

Minnie Ma, who makes her home in what was once a school building, said she got only to the sixth grade, "But I never let my age or lack of education stand in the way when I take a notion to do something.

Born and raised at Hayter's Gap, just up the road from this area in Washington County, Minnie Ma has played the organ and piano and, when she saw someone playing a guitar and "French harp" simultaneously, drew jeers when she said she wanted to Ignoring her detractors. she bought a guitar and harmonica and was soon playing them for audiences such as church groups and school gatherings.

"My favorite now is the accordion," she said, and proceeded to play a few tunes on one, tapping a toe in time to the music and not missing a note.

She said she had never taken a lesson in music, art, writing or any of her other activities.

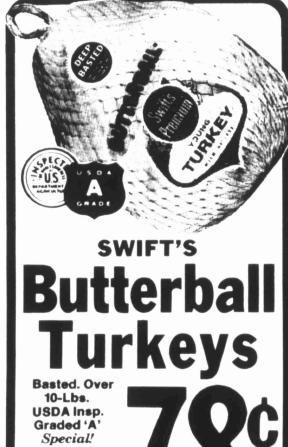

When her daughter — age 9 at the time — had trouble finding a song for a Sunday school Mother's Day program, Minnie Ma sat down with her and wrote one. It is included in her book of poetry, which she sells for $2 a copy

Minnie Ma became a television personality during a recent trip to Cincinnati, where her daughter now lives and where Minnie Ma went for eye surgery. She was interviewed on a local television station, demonstrated her prowess on the accordion and plugged her book.

These days, she is in the process of turning the 43yearold schoolhouse into an art gallery. Minnie Ma said she had probably done about 300 paintings since she started. Most of the art hangs on the walls of her home, but other examples are sprinkled through homes in the community.

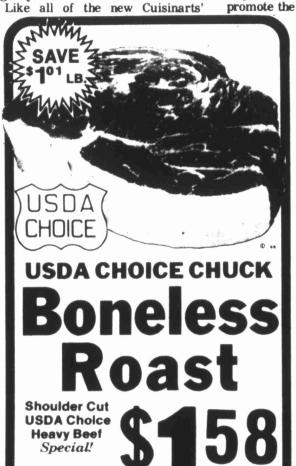

The subjects, like the sizes, are varied. Some show buildings easily recognizable as churches, homes and other structures in the community. There are seasonal paintings, from winter to summer. Minnie Ma did all the framing as well as the painting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late Lyndon B. Johnson is remembered as one of the Capitol's great masters of political footwork, but he almost tripped himself the time he tried to get the oldest committee chairman in Senate history to step aside.

Johnson's pas de deux with Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island is depicted in a newly published transcript of a closed meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee 23 years ago.

But even the transcript doesn't tell the whole story. The Senate Historical Office turned up the behind-the-scenes details in an oral history interview in 1980 with Pat M.

Holt, former chief of staff of the committee. Johnson, then Senate majority leader and later vice president and president, attended

Green, 91, had just had an eye operation and also was having trouble with his hearing. He told the committee, "I know that once in a while a word fails me in speaking." A newspaper editorial had appeared urging him to step down.

As Holt remembered it, Johnson went to Green and told him, in effect, "You've earned respite and relaxation and here you are with the burdens of the world on your shoulders and these ingrates...are saying you ought to quit."

Green thought this over and wrote Johnson a letter asking to be relieved of the

"So Johnson grabbed this before the old man could change his mind, and although he called a meeting of the committee to deal with this," Holt recalled.

To judge from the transcript, however, a reader would think the last thing Johnson wanted was for Green to retire.

"I...told him that I thought it was a mistake," he told the committee. "I talked to him later about it and urged him to continue as chairman. I have tried to persuade him. I have assured him, as best I could, of the feeling that all of us have for #### will create millions of new jobs in the 1980s, according to a corporate strategic planner. "Not only are there extreme labor shortages in jobs related to information technology - but the business depends to a large extent on minds, not factories, so information workers will be well paid," says Paul A. Strassmann, vice president, Xerox Corp.'s Information Products Group.

The jobs emanating from high technology are vast, Strassmann explains. They include electrical engineering, programming, systems analysis, training, counseling, marketing, clerical, service and management.

He says almost all of the new jobs will be directly based on or influenced by new technologies such as computers, microcomputers and word processors.

Strassmann says the faster job category growth will be among professionals and technical workers with 5 million new jobs by 1990, followed by secretaries and clericals with 4 million new jobs. The business area that will see the greatest growth is health and business services with 4 million new jobs in the next eight years, he predicts.

"But, to pursue even the least technical of these careers," Strassmann says, 'people need certain fundamentals. First, they need quantitative skills strong science and math background.

'Second, they need functional skills - the use of microprocessors, editors and the like.

3 sentenced for Krugerrand counterfeits

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) A fourth Amarillo man still faces sentencing after pleading guilty to participating in a conspiracy to manufacture and sell counterfeit South African Krugerrands. Former bank president

Robert Finis Ringo, 46, was sentenced Tuesday to three concurrent one-year federal prison terms for failing to report loans of more than $10,000 by making the payments in cashier's checks under that amount. David Patrick Merchant,

45. a former Amarillo building contractor now living in the Denver area, has yet to be sentenced. Merchant has pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting Ringo and faces a $500,000 fine, five years in jail or both.

Ringo admitted approving $270,000 worth of loans using the lead-centered, goldplated South African coins as collateral while he was president of Tascosa National Bank.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson could have sentenced Ringo to a maximum of three years in jail and fined him $3,000.

Sidney James Heard, 39 was sentenced Monday to seven years in prison for conspiracy and fraud in the same case. He was accused of scheming to defraud two Houston men by selling them bogus Krugerrands.

The problem: lung donors simply can't be found.

Many times during the last six years, the hospital has admitted a patient with severe lung disease usually emphysema — who could be saved only with a lung transplant. Each time, doctors anxiously searched for donors. Each time, they

Veith, the head of Montefiore's lung transplant team, has watched with mounting frustration as the patients In the past year, the situation has become even more vexing, because of a dramatic new development that will inaugurate a "dawning era" in transplantation, according to Veith. Researchers have found a new drug cyclosporin A — that is vastly better than previous drugs at blocking the body's rejection system. That rejection system would normally attack and destroy any foreign material in the body - including transplanted organs. Dr. Calvin Stiller of University Hospital in London, Ontario, who has been studying cyclosporin A, says the drug may make transplantation of almost any organ fairly routine within

If future tests confirm the effectiveness of cyclosporin A, Stiller says, then "we're talking about one of the most effective therapies in medicine - the 'penicillin' of transplantation."

The dawn of the new era in transplantation has already begun at Stanford University, where five combined heart-lung transplant operations were done in 1981.

Four of the five patients are still alive, and the first of them has now survived nearly a year. No previous heart-lung transplant recipient had lived more than a few weeks.

Despite Stanford's luck in obtaining donors, Montefiore has still been unsuccessful.

Finding lung donors is much tougher than finding heart or kidney donors for several reasons, Veith says in his office, where chairs, the desk and much of the floor are piled high with medical monographs. One is that the size of lungs varies, and the donor lungs must roughly match the size of the patient's lungs. Another reason is that lungs are tougher than hearts or kidneys to transport and keep alive, he says.

Donor hearts and kidneys can be removed from the donor and kept alive for a matter of hours, while they are transported to their recipients.

But lungs must be transported inside the donor's body, and then removed and transplanted immediately.

It is also tough to find lungs that are not already diseased or have been damaged by whatever killed the donor usually an accident or a gunshot.

And when suitable lungs are found, the donors' families often refuse to let them be used, a response that Veith attributes to "a lack of education in a situation that's already emotionally draining. Veith and his colleagues have tried to solve one problem by developing a way to transport the lungs outside the body and preserve them for as long as

The system involves flushing the lungs and filling them with a special preservative liquid, cooling them to almost-freezing temperatures, and carrying them in an insulated metal container.

The transport system has been tested with animal lungs, but Veith says the doctors are not yet confident enough of it to try it with humans. Veith is not sure why Stanford has been able to find donors while Montefiore hasn't, but part of the answer apparently lies with the Los Angeles Regional Organ Procurement Association, which supplies about 70 percent of the hearts and lungs transplanted at Stanford.

Group demands pension reform

WASHINGTON (AP) - A great many American women are being forced to live their later years in poverty because of the inequities in the nation's pension laws and corporate pension policies, the nation's largest organization of working women asserts.

"The feminization of poverty among older women is about to become an American trademark," says Phyllis Harrison, president of the 165,000-member National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs (BPW). "Currently two out of every three older Americans living in poverty are women, and the inequities in our pension laws and programs are a major factor behind this travesty.

In an attempt to reverse the situation, BPW members around the country are now working for the passage of legislation to eliminate discrimination against women in pension coverage.

"Pension discrimination against American ing woman, but also the homemaker," Ms. Harrison declares. One of the worst problems, she points out, is women is rampant, affecting not only the work-hat federal law does not require pension coverage for individuals under the age of 25. "The greatest percentage of women in the American work force are between the ages of 20 and 24," says Ms. Harrison. "When you realize that most of these women are not covered by pension plans, and add to that the fact that women in their mid-to late-20s often quit work to have children, you realize the magnitude of American women who are unable to gain pension credits."

On a broader scale, women are clustered in jobs where no pension plans are provided, she notes, citing recent data which shows that while women constitute 43 percent of the U.S. labor force, only 31 percent of all women workers were covered by a pension plan. Many of these covered workers will never a tually receive any retirement benefits. In 1972, only 21 percent of retiring women workers received pension benefits compared to 47 per cent for men. Because of the efforts of women's groups such as BPW, Ms. Harrison says, working women and becoming more aware of the inequities they face in gaining adequate pension coverage.

"Unfortunately," she adds, "the same is not true for the non-working homemaker. Too often these women incorrectly assume that theth husbands' pension programs will provide them with adequate income during retirment.

American women must begin to question cor porations more thoroughly on their pension plans, advises Ms. Harrison.,

Horror story writer ooks for dark side

By MARLENE AIG Associated Press Writer

Writing horror stories is looking for the dark side of says Howard Kaminsky, who, with his wife, Susan, has just published his second horror story, "The Seventh Child," under their pen name Brooks Stanwood.

"It's standing on the bank of an idyllic stream and what is going on underneath.

a deadly threat to the hap-know piness of several families who have moved to a seemingly idyllic New England community and have been given every material object they could ever desire.

But, as time goes on it is clear that this community is dominated by a 300-year event which may occur again and destroy chosen children. 'The Seventh Child' joins the slew of other horror tales and stories of bizarre and mcabre happenings that have grabbed hold of public interest in recent years.

Being scared is in. "People have liked horror for a long time," Kaminsky says. His own background includes a stint as a screenplay writer, and one of those screenplays was for a horror film, "Homebodies." "The stories may be horrible and terrible nightmares, but they're a respite from today's horrors of mass murders and random brutality," he says. "Nothing is more horrible than the 6 o'clock news.' Tales that thrive on terror have a long history with notable participants, including Edgar Allan Poe, Mary Shelley, Alfred Hitchcock and most recently,

Stephen King. Of late, the horror genre has captured not only the book market, but the movie market as well, with the number of films featuring fangs, mutilation and beastial cults

ver desire. Initially, they are happy. 4 paratroopers killed, 71 hurt

FORT IRWIN, Calif. (AP) - A paratrooper whose pelvis was broken in a huge airborne military exercisé that left four dead and 71 injured says a gust of wind hit him about 50 feet above the California desert, snarling the straps of his parachute.

"I hit the ground, rolled about three times and started to pass out," said Army Spec. 4 Danile Maynard, 24, of New York City, one of 2,300 soldiers who took part Tuesday in the first exercise of units of the Rapid Deployment Force from all four military services. The jump was one of the largest ever in peacetime U.S.

military history

Three of the injured paratroopers were reported in critical condition with head injuries at Loma Linda University Medical Center, 60 miles from the jump site; Three other soldiers were hospitalized there and five were at other hospitals. Lt. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, commander of the Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force, said the exercise was conducted in winds varying from 6 to 10 knots. He said 13 knots, about 15 mph, is considered the maximum allowable wind velocity in peacetime training exercises such as Gallant Eagle 82. Deputy San Bernardino County Coroner Marshall Franey said Tuesday that an external examination of the four bodies showed the men "appeared to have died of head or neck injuries," and one had a fractured arm and

"We won't know the exact cause of death until autopsies" are completed, but the injuries suggest they were dragged by their parachutes," he said, referring to all four vicetims. Asked about reports that two parachutes had malfunctioned, he repeated that the cause of the deaths was still uncertain.

Kingston said, "One soldier apparently was dragged." Two paratroopers were killed after their parachutes malfunctioned and the fourth landed on a piece of heavy equipment, officials said.

The 2,300 paratroopers, members of the 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N.C., jumped from C-141 jets 800 feet above the Mojave Desert just after dawn Tuesday? Late Tuesday, two C-130 cargo planes took 60 injured paratroopers to Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino, where they were loaded onto a C-141 Starlifter for a flight back to Fort Bragg.

Maynard, speaking from his bed at Loma Linda hospital, said the jump had been called off once as the planes approached the drop zones after authorities estimated winds were gusting to 45 mph on the ground. But shortly afterward the soldiers were told the jump was Maynard said the troops expressed no concern about the wind and wished one another luck as their plane flew toward the target area.

"On the plane they told us it (the wind) was only 4 to 6 knots," said James Davis, 19, of High Point, N.C., who was hospitalized with groin and back injuries at Loma Linda. Davis said when he jumped he found himself wrestling with what he estimated was a 35 knot, or 40 mph.

"My feet hit first, then my rear end, then my head," Davis said. The wind caught the chute, and Davis estimated he was dragged three-quarters of a mile over rocks and plants before the wind died.

As he slid across the ground, Davis said he saw other men in his unit being dragged across the rugged terrain and trying to control their parachute canopies.

LIKE MOM, LIKE SON — Actress Barbara Hale, better known for her role as Della Street in the "Perry Mason" series, poses with her greatest American son William Katt, known as Ralph Hinckley in ABC's "Greatest American Hero," during taping for an upcoming segment which will feature Miss Hale as Ralph's mother, Paula Hinckley. ## Cheryl Ladd special is satire, spectacle

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Television Writer NEW YORK (AP) - "Chervl Ladd Scenes from a Special" is unconventional in that it both parodies and embodies the variety format. Given the limitations of this form, tonight's ABC special is fairly successful both as satire and spectacle.

At best, variety shows can only offer snippets of satisfaction. Burdened by commercial interruptions and parades of guests, performers can't build an act as they would in night clubs.

The result is that the whole is smaller than the sum. A typical variety show acquires a look and sound similar to a radio station offering some chatter, some favorite tunes and some real losers.

Producer-director Don Mischer seems to understand this. By spoofing the genre, "Cheryl Ladd...Scenes from a Special" has a sense of purpose and theme that sets it apart from recent, floundering efforts by Olivia Newton-John and Suzanne Somers. Miss Ladd nokes fun at the usual mindle variety-show banter. This is when guests are supposed to be chatting easily, although they are obviously uncomfortable, and their conversation is about as spontaneous as the Gettysburg Address.

Miss Ladd welcomes her guests, Carol Burnett and Rick Springfield, with simple "hellos," and later engages in "A Quiet Moment" with Miss Burnett. Both performers are on stools, the typical setting for upbeat togetherness, but the two women say

In another segment, which some may find offensive, "A Short Dance Number" is performed by a dwarf named Billy Barty. Later, in a reprise, Barty is joined by another tiny dancer.

Unfortunately, whenever the special moves in this mocking direction, a patronizing laugh track makes sure viewers find the

Miss Ladd, who replaced Farrah Fawcett on "Charlie's Angels," has a sweet sound, but one lacking gusto. Her voice does gain credibility against Springfield's

ABC wins rating week

'Happy Days' spinoff lands in second place

LOS ANGELES (AP) - "Joanie Loves however, with ABC's "Phoenix" series Chachi," and television watchers seem to adore them both, as the "Happy Days" spinoff rocketed to second place in the ratings last week in its series premiere, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

The 26.6 rating for the new show and the 21.3 rating for another new ABC entry, "9 to 5," helped ABC win the week ending March 28 with an 18 overall rating, according to figures released Tuesday. The "9 to 5" series is a spinoff from the movie of the same name.

CBS placed second overall with 17.8 and NBC trailed at 14. The networks say that means that in an average prime-time minute, 18 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to ABC. In the season to date. CBS has won 17 weeks, ABC seven weeks, and ABC and CBS tied one week. NBC has not won a week this season.

NBC didn't even place a show in the top 20. Its highest-rated show was "Hill Street Blues," which came in 21st.

"Dallas," on CBS, led the pack again with a 28 rating, which means that of all the nation's TV-equipped homes, 28 percent saw at least part of the show.

Another prime-time soap opera, ABC's 'Dynasty,'' continued its climb toward the top of the ratings, placing seventh. Last
