Absentee voting to start Monday

Absentee voting for the Democratic and Republican primaries will begin in the county clerk's office on Monday, according to Margaret Ray, county clerk.

The clerk's office, located in the Howard County courthouse, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Absentee voting continues until April 27, Mrs. Ray said.

The county clerk urged all parents with out-of-town college students to have their children apply for an application now to have ballots mailed to them. Mrs. Ray said the last weeks before the election were often very hectic and problems arose in mailing ballots under those conditions. She stressed parents could not pick up ballot for their children — only the voting student could request by mail a ballot.

Hefty phone bill raises predicted

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Local telephone bills in the United States will rise an average of 76.4 percent over the next five to six years because of inflation and deregulation, a Commerce Department study predicts.

In testimony before a U.S. House subcommittee Wednesday, Commerce Department Undersecretary Bernard Wunder said the study estimated average phone bills would increase from $9 to $16 a month.

Wunder's statement was given to three Oklahoma congressmen, Glenn English of Cordell, Wes Watkins of Ada and Mike Synar of Muskogee, all Democrats.

Wunder said rates would rise even more in areas with scattered populations, such as Oklahoma. The study forecast an 83.9 percent increase in Oklahoma's local rates, because stringing telephone lines across rural areas to sparse populations is very expensive, he said.

BUNNY VISIT — Annie McDonald, 17-month old daughter of Mark and Catherine McDonald, gives the Easter Bunny a close inspection Wednesday. Annie, a visitor to Big Spring from Fort Worth, and several local youngsters climbed into the bunny's lap for a short visit. The Easter Bunny will be at the mall for the rest of the week, receiving visitors from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m. weekdays and 11 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday.

Five killed in Michigan mass murder

YALE, Mich. (AP) — A 16-year-old "friend of the family" has been jailed as a suspect in the rural killings of a woman and her four children, who were shot in the head with a rifle in Michigan's third mass murder in two months.

The unidentified boy had attended high school with one of the victims and lives within a mile of the home where the five bodies were found Wednesday, police said.

A powerful storm that buried Michigan under 8 inches of snow shut down the rural Yale schools Tuesday and Wednesday, and town schools superintendent Albert Kimmel said they would remain closed today because of the killings.

"I don't know what time the slayings occurred, but it's possible the children might have been in school had it not been for the storm," Kimmel said. "Everyone here is in a state of shock."

"There are no charges formally filed at this time but the juvenile subject is being held in custody" pending a decision on whether to charge him in Probate Court, Prosecutor Robert Cleland said.

He identified the victims as Betty Giuliani and her four adopted children, Erick, 19, Kathleen, 16, Cindy Joe, 13, and Dino, 9.

Mrs. Giuliani's husband, Richard, was at work at the General Motors Corp. Tech Center in the Detroit suburb of Warren during the morning when the slayings are believed to have occurred, said St. Clair County Sheriff David Doktor. The home is 55 miles north of Detroit.

Detective Bruce Lindke of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department said all five were shot with a 22-caliber rifle. Assistant St. Clair County Medical Examiner Benjamin C. Clyne said all five were shot in the head. Autopsies were planned today, Cleland said.

A neighbor who had planned to go bowling Wednesday with Mrs. Giuliani found the bodies inside the home shortly before 8 a.m., authorities said.

Youth Achievement Award entry deadline is April 19

Those who plan to enter nominations for the Yale-Herald Youth Achievement Awards are being reminded the deadline for forwarding names to The Herald is Monday, April 19.

Seniors in the four area high schools — Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands — are eligible. Four students will be chosen from each school and will attend the annual Yale-Herald Youth Achievement Banquet scheduled for May 17 at the Brass Nail.

The top student at each school, as chosen by a neutral committee, will be recognized during the banquet. Parents of the nominees, school administrators and civic leaders in each community will also be invited to the banquet.

School personnel, parents and friends of the students can nominate students for the honors. Pictures of the nominees should be included with the information returned to the Herald.

Nomination forms can be found on page 4-B of today's paper.

$3.51 million in benefits listed

$1 million in food stamps distributed

Some $3.51 million in benefits and services were rendered in Howard County last year by the Texas Department of Human Resources.

The state agency's recently released 1981 annual report shows that $1.02 million in food stamps were distributed in the county in 1981.

Expenditures for aged and disabled adult services totaled $1.85 million. These services include nursing home care, Medicaid assistance and community care for aged and disabled such as adult foster homes.

More than $359,000 was spent locally by DHR for services to families and children, which include child abuse prevention, foster care for children and employment programs for welfare recipients.

Some $285,000 was spent in the county for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children Program. AFDC assists children in families in which one or both parents may be dead or disabled, or may have deserted the family.

Compared to 1980, welfare expenditures in Howard County last year increased by $0.31 million over the $3.2 million spent in 1980. Statewide, $1.68 billion was expended by the agency on benefits and services to the state's needy, sick and elderly.

Frank Taggart, DHR regional public information officer, said DHR plays an important role in the life of Howard County and its economy.

"Our annual report is a compilation of impressive numbers and dollar amounts," he said. "But the statistical data by no means reflect what our agency is doing to help people in the community."

Scientists at Baylor clone gene

HOUSTON (AP) — Cloning an identified gene from the human X chromosome has given science a "toehold" that may lead to a treatment for a type of mental retardation, two Baylor College of Medicine scientists say.

Dr. C. Thomas Caskey and Dr. John Brennard said they isolated a gene known to cause a type of mental retardation called Lesch-Nyhan syndrome and then caused a bacteria host to endlessly reproduce the gene.

Caskey said the achievement, reported in the current issue of the "Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences," marks the first time that a gene with a known function has been isolated and cloned from the X chromosome, one of the sex-determining genes.

This, he said, gives science a "toehold" on the X chromosome and may enable investigators to study genes associated with other inherited defects.

In the sequence of DNA, the so-called genetic blueprint in all cells, the cloned gene is linked to those causing hemophilia and fragile X syndrome, another type of retardation.

Scientists achieved the cloning by using what Caskey called the classic method of gene replication. The researchers transferred the gene to the nucleus of a bacterium called E. coli, and the gene became part of the genetic makeup of that particular bacterium. As the E. coli reproduces, it carries into each new generation the transplanted gene.

"At present, we don't know what leads to a new mutation," said Caskey. But by studying the newly cloned gene, "we may be able to determine at a molecular level what takes place."

Dusk has settled in for the British Empire

LONDON (AP) — In one swoop last Friday, Britain lost five-sixths of its remaining inhabited empire.

That figure says less about Argentina's seizure of the 4,870 square mile Falkland Islands than about the steady process of de-colonization that's reduced the once-mighty British Empire to a smattering of 13 colonies and one associated state since World War II.

"The Falkland Islanders are the last victims of our refusal to be honest with ourselves," wrote Ferdinand Mount in the conservative British political weekly The Spectator. "We have clung to the rhetoric of empire long after we have lost the desire or ability to maintain its reality."

The reality today is a collection of widely scattered islands that play host to tourists, fishermen, scientists and military bases, a vast Antarctic wasteland and one modern metropolis.

Hong Kong, with its 5 million people, is the only significant population or economic center remaining to overseas Britain. Hong Kong Island and Kowloon Peninsula, which contain most of the population, were leased "in perpetuity" by China to Britain. A lease on the rest of the colony, the 366 square-mile New Territories on the mainland, runs out in 1997.

The decline of the empire began peacefully at the turn of the century, with independence in 1901 for Australia, followed by New Zealand in 1907. Canada, which had self-rule since 1867, was granted fully independent dominion status in 1931.

South Africa's white minority have ruled themselves and the country's black majority since 1910.

Britain was left with a huge empire of mainly black, brown and Asian peoples, which it did not begin to shed until it emerged economically battered from World War II to face the nationalistic aspirations of its millions of subjects.

The Jewel of the Empire, India, went in 1947 after a long protest struggle led by Mohandas K. Gandhi. A separate dominion of Pakistan was set up at the same time.

Since then the Union Jack has come down in another 41 nations across the globe — from Africa and Asia through the Pacific islands and the Americas.

Ranging from India, the world's most populous democracy with nearly 700 million people, to Nauru, an 8.2 square-mile South Pacific island with 7,500 inhabitants, they form the 45-nation Commonwealth, a loose association of Britain and her former colonies.

The British began moving out of Africa — carved up by Britain, Portugal, France, Spain and Belgium in an 18th century scramble — in 1957 with independence for Ghana.

Most of Britain's other African holdings followed over the next decade — amid agitation from their black majorities and protests from their white settlers.

In the words of Harold Macmillan, Conservative prime minister from 1957 to 1963, the "winds of change" down the African continent would not be stopped.

The whites of Rhodesia, however, held them up, declaring independence unilaterally in 1965 in a bid to avoid black rule. After years of war between the rebel colony's whites and black nationalist guerrillas, Britain finally negotiated peace and what is now black-ruled Zimbabwe became independent in 1980.

In the last year, the flag has been lowered on two more colonies, Belize, Britain's last holding in the Americas, last Sept. 21 and the Caribbean island of Antigua on Nov. 11.

Hong Kong faces a question mark after 1997. Most Hong Kong Chinese want to stay British and Britain hopes to negotiate a new lease for the New Territories from the Communist giant.

Also uncertain is the future of Gibraltar, a strategically-placed rock on the southern tip of Spain, with 30,000 pro-British inhabitants, long claimed by Madrid.

Of what remains, the largest land area is the British Antarctic

Territory, some 690,000 square miles of frozen tundra and ice, trod only by the occasional explorer or scientist.

The Falklands, with dependencies South Georgia and the South Sandwich Islands, were the next-largest chunk, a windswept archipelago just above the Antarctic circle, with 1,900 British-descended inhabitants and 600,000 sheep.

Other islands ruled by Britain are more scenically inviting.

They include such popular tourist spots as the British Virgin Islands at the east end of the Greater Antilles; Bermuda, 570 miles east of the North Carolina coast; the Cayman Islands, coral outcrops northwest of Jamaica, and Montserrat, a Caribbean island chain southwest of Antigua.

Guerillas, soldiers clash

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — El Salvador's army has clashed for the second time this week with leftist guerrillas trying to capture the strategic transit point of San Vicente, a military official said.

Fighting ended early Tuesday when the army drove the guerrillas from the provincial capital 37 miles east of San Salvador, the army reported. But the rebels returned Tuesday night, and fighting continued Wednesday, the official said.

Late Wednesday night, there was no word available in San Salvador on the outcome or of casualties.

San Vicente is at the junction of the Pan-American Highway and a road to the coastal highway. It has been a focal attack point for the guerrillas fighting the U.S.-backed civilian-military junta.

Guerrilla bands also were stopping motorists on the western portion of the Pan-American Highway, demanding payment of a "war tax" and emptying buses at gunpoint and shooting out the tires, travelers said.

But residents of San Francisco Gotera, near the Honduran border, reported there was no fighting in their area for the first time in 10 days. They said they had been without water since Friday, when guerrillas blocked the source of their supply three miles to the north.

"It's been pretty ugly," one resident told The Associated Press by telephone. "The damages are great."

With all government offices and most businesses closed for Holy Week, many people ignored the threat of violence and flocked to the beaches.

The guerrillas' Radio Venceremos (We Shall Overcome) announced special daily broadcasts of Roman Catholic Masses today through Saturday. But San Salvador's Church of the Conception canceled the nightly "procession of silence" it usually holds through the city. A spokesman said church officials feared a large crowd after dark would attract violence.

Meanwhile, a U.S. congressional delegation was expected today to assess the civil war that has taken more than 33,000 lives in the past 29 months.

New business signs with Big Spring Mall

Local business man Dirk Rambo will soon start construction on a 1375 square foot eating establishment. Jacob's will feature quality food in a relaxing atmosphere. The new establishment will be able to give quick service and have comfortable seating for more than 45 people.

The menu will feature homestyle hamburgers, sandwiches, sirloin on a bun, and a large salad bar. Also there will be something new for the areas dining pleasure. Jacob's will serve frozen yogurt, a delightful creamy dessert that has been a sensation in all of the newest of Malls.

Jacob's will be fashioned in the tradition of English Tudor, featuring stain glass, rich warm wood and brass fixtures and hearty brick. The restaurant will be accented with hanging plants and cut glass.

The addition of Jacob's is just one more sign of the Big Spring area's continued growth and development.

First Presbyterians plan noonday Good Friday service

Three 25-minute periods of worship and meditation are scheduled at the Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church, 701 Rannels Street, on Good Friday. The first of these services will be at noon. The other segments of worship will begin at 12:20 p.m. and 12:40 p.m. Worshipers are invited to come for one or more of these segments of prayer and meditation, based upon the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

Jesus was crucified at 9 in the morning. He hung on the cross until 3 in the afternoon. Thus, at noonday the painful ordeal of crucifixion was at midpoint.

The three periods of meditation at the Good Friday Service at First Presbyterian Church will focus on the words spoken in connection with the crucifixion of Jesus as reported in the Gospel of St. John: The words of Pilate (the Roman Governor), the words of the People, and the words of Jesus. The church's minister, W.F. Henning Jr., will give the meditations and lead the worship.

Persons through Big Spring who would like to stop for a few minutes of reflection and prayer in connection with the meaning of Good Friday are invited to take time during the lunch hour on Friday to attend.

FIREBIRD IN DITCH — A vehicle driven by Augustin Fierro Jr. ended up in a ditch Wednesday afternoon as it was involved in an accident with a station wagon drive by Tommy E. Domino. No injuries were reported by investigating officers.

Police Beat

Kidnapping, forgery raps filed

Big Spring police arrested one person for kidnapping and another for forgery.

Louis Aguilar, 34, of 502 Bell is charged with kidnapping Arthur Miramontes, 1703 W. 3rd, on Friday night. Miramontes told police he had been held in the trunk of his car until he was able to escape.

Aguilar was released on $5,000 bond Wednesday.

Aguilar's bond was posted by Chester Coffman of 200 E. 24th. Bond was set by Peace Justice Lewis Hefflin.

Also arrested but still in police custody is Robert Stalie, 24, of Howard House. Stalie is charged with possession of a controlled substance.

The athletic department of Big Spring High School was the victim of a theft sometime between 1 p.m. Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. today. Everett Blackburn of the school told police someone had taken approximately $300 from a filing cabinet in the athletic office.

The thief used a screwdriver to remove a latch and padlock from the office door, then pried open the cabinet to take two bags of Coca-Cola machine money, $200 in change, Blackburn said.

Curtis Bruns of Pollard Chevrolet reported to police someone hit the rear window of a vehicle parked on the Pollard lot. He estimates the damage at $150.

Francis Lee of Big Spring complained to police that he returned home after four days away to find some lumber missing. He valued the lost at $60.

A customer at De Vore's Exxon Station had a flat fixed yesterday morning while he filled up his car with gas. He paid for his tire, but drove off without paying for the gas, an employee told police. The amount of gas was valued at $23.03.

A major accident at 5:17 p.m. Wednesday involved vehicles driven by Augustin Fierro Jr., 106 E. 24th and Tommy E. Domino, 1801 Duquoin. No major injuries were reported although Fierro did strike a reflector pole. No tickets were issued, according to police.

Budget compromise depends on mood of Reagan, O'Neill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in budget talks between the administration and Congress say the search for an alternative to President Reagan's plan will fail unless Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. compromise.

House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois said Wednesday that he and other participants in the secret discussions "are laying the groundwork for those two."

Michel said he and the other negotiators have at least the outlines of a budget compromise within their reach, but must persuade Reagan and O'Neill to accept the same framework.

"The rest of us are kind of in there chipping away at both those poles," Michel said, referring to the Republican president and the Democratic House speaker.

Another negotiator, Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okl., chairman of the House Budget Committee, told a Chamber of Commerce group earlier Wednesday that "We're going to have to figure out some way in which both principals can come on board."

But he warned that time is running out.

"If we are unable to reach a bipartisan consensus before the end of this month, then I don't think we're going to have a responsible budget program passed by the Congress this year," Jones said.

Michel, meanwhile, said he blows "hot and cold" about the prospects for an agreement.

Michel and Jones have been participants in the private talks along with White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III, budget director David A. Stockman, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan and key Democrats and Republicans from the House and Senate. Neither Reagan nor O'Neill has participated directly.

The talks are on hold — probably until next week — while Reagan and O'Neill review the progress so far.

Sources have said the negotiators are discussing a delay and reduction in cost-of-living increases for Social Security and other benefit programs as well as higher taxes to reduce budget deficits.

Ex-officials urge end to 'first use' U.S. nuclear weapons policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan group of former senior U.S. officials are urging President Reagan to seriously consider renouncing the first use of nuclear weapons in Europe.

All four former officials agreed that it is virtually impossible to guarantee that a nuclear war can be limited.

"If we continue to depend on a strategy of first use deterrence will fail and Western civilization as we know it will be destroyed," one of the officials, former defense secretary Robert McNamara said at a news conference Wednesday.

The four rejected Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.'s assertions Tuesday that their plan is "tantamount to making Europe safe for conventional aggression."

El Paso jailers charged with soliciting sex

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Six El Paso County Jail detention officers charged with misconduct allegedly were soliciting sexual favors from inmates for themselves and others, Sheriff Ray Montes said Wednesday.

Five of the six were arrested Tuesday and charged with official misconduct, a Class A misdemeanor. Each was freed on $1,000 bond.

A sixth jailer was transporting prisoners to the state penitentiary at Huntsville when charges were filed, but was expected to return to face the charges.

Montes said the charges "amount to having sexual affairs between detention officers and trustees" and inmates. The inmates were unwillingly removed from their cells "and forced to commit sexual acts," Montes said.

Jail Administrator Charles Newman said the allegations were reported Monday by four inmates who were not victims of the harassment, but had been "intimidated and solicited" and "feared reprisals from officers for their refusal."

Newman said he created a special section at the jail where the four inmates are now in protective custody. Access to the inmates is forbidden to any officer except the sergeant in charge, he said.

Nuclear unit price tag soars to $3.4 billion

When TESCO and two other members of its utilities family started on Comanche Peak nuclear reactor in 1972, the price tag was $780 million and start-up date was 1981. Now the projected tag is $3.4 billion and on-stream target 1984.

Still, the uranium powered unit should produce electricity at a considerably less cost than conventional fuels, Alex. Jimenez, engineering coordinator for TESCO, told the Downtown Lions at their Wednesday meeting at Howard College.

Repeated design changes, dictated by the Atomic Energy Commission, have stretched out building time and expanded costs, ostensibly in the interest of safety. Jimenez fell that the 4 1/2-ft. thick walls rising 300 feet high on a 120-ft. diameter, and will re-enforced with steel bars as big as a man's arm, will make the plant entirely safe. Other changes in vessels and operational patterns will insure this, he said. Nineteen years of waste storage has been provided on-site alone.

There are 475,000 cubic yards of concrete in the two units, more than in the entire D-FW regional airport.

TESCO embarked on extensive archeological and ecological studies before starting the plant 4 1/2 miles west of Glen Rose. The first undertaking was to impound Squaw Creek reservoir, but the water demand is so great additional water will have to be piped from Lake Granbury.

Jerry Phillips, president, announced that officers will be elected at the next meeting.

Reagan's plan to build a nuclear unit should produce electricity at a considerably less cost than conventional fuels, Alex. Jimenez, engineering coordinator for TESCO, told the Downtown Lions at their Wednesday meeting at Howard College.

TOASTING SEAGA — President Ronald Reagan offers a toast to Jamaican Prime Minister Edward Seaga, left, during a "working dinner" Wednesday evening in Kingston, Jamaica during Reagan's brief visit to the Caribbean Island. This is the first time a U.S. president in office has made an official visit to Jamaica.

Haig shuttles to Britain for mediation

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. flew to London today seeking a peaceful end to the crisis over the Falkland Islands, but Britain threatened to start sinking Argentine ships around the disputed territory on Monday.

Haig, who U.S. officials said wanted to be an "honest broker" between two friends of the United States, was to confer with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Foreign Secretary Francis Pym. He will go to Buenos Aires later in the week to talk with the generals running Argentina's military government.

The Foreign Office said Pym welcomed Reagan's decision to send Haig as a mediator. It said he came as a "friend and ally."

Haig met in Washington with Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez, who said later he remains confident a peaceful settlement can be achieved.

"All points are negotiable as part of a package deal," he said on ABC-TV's "Nightline."

Costa Mendez told the interviewer an arrangement like that of Hong Kong — with Britain recognizing Argentine sovereignty over the islands but continuing to administer them — "could be negotiated."

He also did not rule out compliance with Britain's demand for withdrawal of the invasion troops before negotiations, saying only that he wouldn't discuss it before Haig's visit to Buenos Aires.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary John Nott announced a blockade of the Falklands starting at midnight local time Sunday (11 p.m. EST Sunday) to limit reinforcements and supplies reaching the Argentine troops who seized the windswept archipelago 250 miles off Argentina's southern coast last week.

Nott proclaimed a "maritime exclusion zone" of 200 nautical miles around the islands. He told the House of Commons any Argentine warship or support vessel found inside that area would be considered hostile and could be scuttled by British forces.

The Argentine government replied by declaring a "South Atlantic theater of operations" extending 200 miles from the Falklands and Argentine coasts, and said any ship considered hostile to the nation's security would be attacked.

Argentina's interior minister, Gen. Alfredo Saint Jean, said the islands will be defended "to the last Argentine soldier." A "partial recall" of draftees who recently completed military service was announced.

The Royal Navy's carrier-led armada en route to the Falklands was going into the fourth day of its 8,000-mile voyage and still had about 12 days to travel. But British government sources said several British submarines, including the nuclear-powered Superb, arrived in the Falklands area Monday, armed with powerful, long-range "Tigerfish" torpedoes that home on their targets. The Superb carries 20 of them.

Former Defense Minister Denis Healey, the opposition Labor Party's chief spokesman on foreign affairs, said in a TV interview that the blockade was "a very sensible first step." But he pointed out Argentina could supply the islands by air.

Nott said the naval force sailing south included the aircraft carrier Invincible and Hermes, the assault ship Fearless, five destroyers, six frigates, five oil tankers, two supply ships and five landing craft.

They are to be joined by more warships from Gibraltar.

British army paratroops, trained to fight as seaborne commandos, left for the Falklands Wednesday aboard the 45,000-ton cruise liner Canberra. Artillery and helicopter landing pads also were put aboard.

The Argentines have at least 2,500 troops on the Falklands and swear they will not retreat.

Reagan proposes Caribbean aid

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — President Reagan winds up the business half of his working vacation today at a meeting in Barbados with leaders of the eastern Caribbean after accusing Cuba of trying to undermine democracy in the region.

Missing from the working luncheon the president had scheduled in Bridgetown, the capital of Barbados, was Grenada, an island U.S. officials say will be excluded from Reagan's proposed Caribbean Basin aid program because of its close ties to Cuba.

Flying to Bridgetown this morning after an overnight stop in Jamaica, the president was to meet with Prime Ministers Tom Adams of Barbados, Mary Eugenia Charles of Dominica, Vere C. Bird of Antigua-Barbuda, Milton Cato of St. Vincent and the Grenadines and Premier Kennedy Simmonds of St. Kitts-Nevis.

Reagan's proposals to aid their region and Central America includes trade concessions, investment incentives and $350 million in additional aid this year. But the majority of the funds are proposed for Central America and the larger islands, and the smaller islands say they would like a bigger chunk.

Foreign Minister Lester Bird of Antigua-Barbuda said the $10 million in supplemental aid for the eastern Caribbean should be increased to at least $6 million for each of the "lesser developed countries," and there should be greater effort to channel funds to them for such "infrastructure" projects as roads and water supply needed to attract industry.

Bird said the prime ministers would stress that last year their imports from the United States totaled $282 million, or eight times what the United States imported from them.

After finishing his work sessions, Reagan and wife Nancy planned to relax in the sunshine as guests of actress Claudette Colbert, an old friend, at her Barbados home. They will return to Washington on Easter Sunday.

During his stay in Jamaica, the president hailed the accomplishments of Prime Minister Edward Seaga, whose strong support for private enterprise closely parallels Reagan's own.

He accused Cuba of a "large-scale attempt to undermine democracy throughout the Americas, financed by its master across the sea," the Soviet Union. He said the civil war in El Salvador "bears the imprint of this interference," but voter turnout in the recent election showed lack of support for the leftist rebels fighting to topple the U.S.-backed government.

In a dinner toast to Seaga, Reagan said the Caribbean Basin plan was "our invitation...to join a vast and dynamic market."

Earlier, on his arrival, he said Jamaica was "an inspiration to all of us who believe economic development and freedom are compatible and in practice are mutually reinforcing."

Seaga's Jamaica Labor Party was elected in November 1980, ousting Michael Manley's People's National Party which angered the United States by its close ties with Cuban President Fidel Castro.

By The Associated Press

Winter-like temperatures returned to the Texas Panhandle early today as strong, cold northerly winds at 20-30 mph dropped temperatures into 30s. Colder weather was in store tonight for the Panhandle when lows were expected to dip into the 20s by dawn Friday. Temperatures in North Texas were expected to drop into the mid 30s tonight.

New winter storm freezes April showers

Another big winter storm flipped out of the Oklahoma panhandle today and landed on the Midwest just as residents were recovering from the coldest weather ever to turn an April shower into snow.

Fifty cars and trucks piled into one another on Interstate 80 as snow arrived in Des Moines with the Wednesday night rush hour and at least two more people died in Pennsylvania, bringing the death toll to at least 41 in the unprecedented spring storms since Tuesday.

Winter storm warnings were in effect today throughout the Midwest and forecasters said the snowfall was only half over when up to 5 inches had fallen in Iowa. A half-foot of snow was expected today in Missouri and Illinois.

The National Weather Service said the storm developed Wednesday night over the Oklahoma panhandle, and forecasters warned it could bring snow east to Pennsylvania and Massachusetts by Friday.

A storm that dumped up to 9 inches on Chicago on Monday moved on to the Northeast and became a blizzard the next day, dumping up to 2 feet of snow and bringing Boston and New York City their biggest snowstorm of the season.

Winds up to 50 mph raked New Jersey on Wednesday and the 17-degree low in Newark was the lowest April temperature ever recorded.

The temperature sank to 8 degrees in Chicago and Moline and 14 degrees in Peoria early Wednesday — the coldest April weather recorded in those cities.

Southern Illinois apple growers said most of the apple crop had been saved, but one grower, Terry Boyd, said: "I definitely think we're going to have a reduced apple crop this year, apples are going to be high in the stores, there's no question."

Interstate 80 was closed Wednesday night just east of Des Moines, Iowa, because of the 50-car pileup, which started at about 7 p.m. and reportedly caused no serious injuries.

Dave Robbins, a Carlisle, Iowa, truck driver, said the pileup began a few vehicles in front of him when a livestock truck crashed and cars began smashing into it. He said a beer truck plowed into two cars, which were pushed into his truck.

Records fell Wednesday at Pennsylvania's Allentown-Bethlehem-Easton Airport, where the 31 degree high broke the 1938 record for the lowest maximum temperature of 38. In Philadelphia, the mercury crept up only to 36 degrees, breaking a record of 39 for the lowest high.

The freezing weather contributed to the deaths of two people in a head-on traffic collision on Pennsylvania Route 6 near Corry Wednesday.

5,000 villagers still trapped on slopes of volcano

VILLAHERMOSA, Mexico (AP) — Officials and rescue workers anxiously scanned the skies over southern Mexico today, looking for rain to wash away clouds of volcanic ash hiding the fate of an estimated 5,000 villagers trapped on the slopes of the Chinchonal volcano.

Medical authorities said they had little hope any of them were alive. The trails to their villages were buried under three feet of volcanic ash, and it was assumed the accumulation in the villages was as deep.

"Every day that goes by we fear more for their lives," said Dr. Rigoberto Garcia, chief of medical services in Chiapas state. "Their principal lack must be water and the rain of rocks their biggest threat."

The eruptions that began March 29 stopped Wednesday, but a dense pall of ash, dust, steam and white-hot sand still hung over the 4,340-foot volcano in the Sierra Madre range of southeast Mexico.

Jose Luis Iracheta, a forecaster at the Villahermosa airport, said there was a 70 percent chance the first spring rains would fall by tonight. Officials hoped they would clear the sky enough for Mexican army paratroopers to be dropped into five villages on the slopes of the volcano that have been isolated since the first eruption.

Ten American helicopter pilots flying for Pemex, the government petroleum monopoly, also were waiting. They have been grounded because the volcanic debris clouding the skies for miles around would clog their engines.

At least 21 people have been killed, more than 500 have been injured, and some 60,000 people have been driven from their homes by the eruptions. Most of the victims are poor peasants whose small farm plots now are buried in runous ash and rocks from the crater.

Paris death toll hits nine

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — An 11-year-old boy who was injured in a tornado that struck Paris, Texas, has died, bringing the death toll in the Paris twisters to nine.

The boy, Robert Partridge, died about 10:15 a.m. Wednesday at Wadley Hospital, said a hospital spokeswoman who asked not to be identified. The youngster was taken first to a local hospital in Paris then transferred to Wadley.

The twisters struck Paris on Friday, killing eight people and injuring more than 200. A woman also died that day from injuries suffered in a tornado in Dodd City,

Bear market for mergers

Only months ago, takeover fever had taken over Wall Street. American's giant oil companies were in a bidding war for other American firms.

Last year was the biggest year this country has ever seen for mergers and takeovers.

The takeover bug posed a real threat to the underpinning of Reaganomics — the theory that generous tax cuts would encourage business reinvestment and, ultimately, produce more goods for the same costs.

American oil companies felt the safer investment was to buy smaller companies with existing supplies of natural resources. Particularly attractive to buyers were mineral companies.

BUT, A STUDY by the New York Times indicates that the takeovers did companies more harm than good. Oil companies which bought coal and copper companies would have gotten a better return on their money had they bought more oil.

Atlantic Richfield, for example, bought Anaconda copper in 1977. But though Anaconda produces some 230,000 tons of copper a year, last year it closed down its smelting and refining operations in Montana.

Standard Oil of Ohio bought Kennecott copper for nearly $2 billion last year. But Kennecott produced a $39 million loss for Sohio's mineral division in the fourth quarter of 1981.

IN SHORT, the investment in corporate takeovers hasn't always paid off. But then what investments have? American businesses will have little opportunity to demonstrate productive power while interest rates remain at stifling levels.

The biggest threat to Reaganomics is no longer merger fever among American corporations. The chief threat today is that interest rates will keep consumer demand insufficient to justify the industrial modernization the president's economic program was supposed to foster.

"Gee! If this keeps up, we'll lick that ol' inflationary problem in no time!"

Movies and morals

WASHINGTON — Oscar time invites a look at that supreme social indicator, the movies. But what message comes from such diverse films as "Reds," "Atlantic City," "Chariots of Fire" and "Live on the Sunset Strip"? And how do they fit with such other features of the scene as the televised version of "Brideshead Revisited" and the defecation of Elvis Presley and John Belushi?

The answer is that almost all the action takes place on the fast track to glamour, riches and fame. In most cases the track leads straight to disaster. The endings that are happy, or even orderly, take place in the dim past, or somewhere else, or in conditions that strain credulity.

Consider Presley and Belushi. They were blessed by early success, pots of money and genuine talent. They destroyed themselves with massive overdoses of drugs. Nothing unusual there. The performing arts demand an intensity of focus that requires release. Gene Krupa, the great drummer of the Big Band Era, is a case in point. But there was no Krupa cult.

BY CONTRAST, something like a mass movement — replete with pilgrimages and trances — already exists for Elvis Presley. A more modest version is in the works for John Belushi. What used to be a kind of private adulation, the property of a small in-group, has been dispersed and democratized. A considerable part of the population burns incense to the drug culture.

The socko success of Richard Pryor in "Live on the Sunset Strip" makes the point with special force. The movie centers around a kind of competition. Jim Brown, the former football player turned actor, keeps pushing Pryor to go straight. Pryor asserts against the square life the pleasures of cocaine. He nurses his pipe: "Pipe talks to me: 'I understand you. Nobody else does.'" Pryor admits that mixing coke with ether, which then exploded, caused the accident that resulted in the awful burns he suffered back in 1980. Still, the implication of the film is that the choice between drugs and life is the quintessential hard choice.

John Reed and Louise Bryant, whose life stories are told by Warren Beatty in "Reds," are on the fast track of 70 years ago — Greenwich Village and Provincetown; free love and free verse. They smoked the opium of the intellectuals, Bolshevism. But history's unambiguously negative verdict on that choice is softened in the film. What goes wrong there is not Lenin's doctrine but the bureaucracy that grew up around it. Reed and Bryant come off as admirable figures because their intentions were okay.

AN UNAMBIGUOUSLY good outcome occurs in "Atlantic City."

The aging hood, played by Burt Lancaster, parts company with the mob. The young woman played by Susan Sarandon kicks loose from a drug-pushing husband and a spaced-out sister. But they make their escapes more by accident than by choice.

The British sprinters in "Chariots of Fire" do hew by acts of iron will to the straight and narrow. Harold Abrahams holds to the faith of an achiever to win the 100-meter dash in the 1924 Olympics. Eric Liddell, obliged to give up his chances in that event because his faith forbids sports on the Sabbath, hangs in to win the 400-meter run. The effect is truly exhilarating. Still, it all happened long ago, in another country.

"Brideshead" owes its success almost entirely to an evocation of the remote. It offers an enchanting glimpse of Oxford 60 years ago, and of life as lived then in the great country homes of England and the palazzos of Venice. But the series, like Evelyn Waugh's novel, drags as soon as there emerges the theme of sin — the more so as it is supposed to exist only for well-born Catholics.

The common theme in all of this is a denial, or cheapening, of moral choice in America. Living in this country comes across as a mindless maelstrom. The object of faith lies more and more in mere release. It is less and less deemed possible to live the good life.

Appointees anger diplomats

WASHINGTON — Career diplomats in the State Department are growing mutinous over President Reagan's marked preference for political cronies as ambassadors.

Members of the American Foreign Service Association — the diplomat's union — have taken the unusual step of compiling case histories on what they regard as the worst Reagan appointees. It is their contention that professional Foreign Service officers should have been given the assignments.

No one questions the right of a president to name anyone he chooses to an ambassadorship. As the eyes and ears of the president in a particular country, an ambassador who is a personal friend or political ally is sometimes the most effective envoy the country can have. The president listens to him and trusts his judgment which might not be the case with a career diplomat whom he doesn't know.

So the Senate, in giving its "advice and consent" to presidential nominees, has historically been lenient toward the appointment of political hacks and money men to sensitive posts overseas.

The present discontent may have been stirred at least partly by dashed hopes. Over the past half century, presidents have relied increasingly on career officers. The number who have attained ambassadorial rank has steadily risen, to the point where 73 percent of Jimmy Carter's ambassadors were professional diplomats.

But that situation has changed drastically in the Reagan regime. The number of career ambassadors has dropped to 56 percent. Critics in Foggy Bottom and on Capitol Hill — including Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., author of the 1980 Foreign Service Act — told my associate Lucette Lagnado that Reagan has appointed a greater percentage of political ambassadors than anyone since Herbert Hoover.

HERE ARE A FEW of the Reagan appointees who have drawn the scorn of the professionals: — David Funderburk, in Romania. A former history professor who is fluent in Romanian, Funderburk is disparaged as a fierce critic of the government he is accredited to, as well as of the American press, fellow academicians and State Department careerists whom he regards as soft on communism. He once charged that Rev. Billy Graham had been "duped by communist officials in Hungary" on a 1977 visit.

— Fred J. Eckert, in Fiji. A former press agent and New York state senator, he has no discernible background in diplomacy. But he is reportedly disdainful of the Foreign Service professionals — who return the disfavor.

— Keith Foote Nyborg, in Finland. Though his wife is a Finn and he speaks the difficult language fluently, the Idaho rancher (name of his spread: Finlandia) is faulted as a lightweight who's not equipped for the intricacies of Finnish foreign policy.

— William Robert Casey Jr., in Niger. This Central African country, which is mostly Sahara desert, is hardly a diplomatic plum, but the career officers resent Casey's appointment, possibly because young Casey once worked in Niger as a mining engineer for Conoco.

— Milan Bish, in Barbados. He's a Nebraska cattle rancher, and the professionals grump that the Caribbean is too important an area for a neophyte.

Not all of Reagan's politically chosen appointees have earned the disdain heaped on them. Republican stalwart Maxwell Rabb has turned out to be an excellent ambassador to Italy. Robert Dean Nesen, a California Cadillac dealer and old Reagan pal, has hit it off well with Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, who, like Nesen, is well over six feet tall and is something of an automobile buff.

Other political ambassadors who reportedly measure up are Mark Evans Austad, in Norway (a former ambassador to Finland) and Arthur Burns, former Federal Reserve boss, in West Germany.

On balance, it appears that the career diplomats' unhappiness is a story of "Great Expectations" — with Ronald Reagan providing a surprise unhappy ending.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: I've already reported on the cooperation between Peruvian terrorists and dope smugglers. Cocaine traffickers bankroll the rebels, who then bust the dealers out of jail as the need arises. Now my sources say they suspect the Peruvian military may actually be encouraging the terrorists, too. The theory behind this Byzantine plot is that the people will get so sick of President Fernando Belaunde's inability to contain the terrorists, the populace will cry, "Bring back the generals!" And that'll mean bye-bye, Belaunde.

Teacher thinks winner overlooked

Dear Editor: As most teachers, I have seen my share of science exhibits that appear to be the sole work of eager parents. We all know that competent judges can expose imposters with their well-chosen questions to the student concerning his project.

I am more concerned with a different kind of contestant. I know one Elementary School contestant and his parents well. I know that they have been helping their child win since the day he was born. Their help comes through encouragement, respect and a great deal of their time. They seem to enjoy listening to what their child has to say and they answer his many questions the best they can. Yes, these parents did heap their child with his science project. They frequently discussed his science-subject and was interested in his hypothesis. Many trips were made to the library and they bought him books and supplies he needed, the total cost probably didn't come close to the cost of Pac-Man. They helped him as any loving and caring parents. Seeing him do his own work was important to them.

I am concerned that this student did not receive the award he was entitled to. Did the judges know the student had worked most of a year on his project? Did the judges decide that this exhibit he made was just too complex for his age? Did the judges know enough about his subject to ask the pertinent questions needed to decide? I think not.

I trust that next year the Science Fair will have the kind of judges we need. I hope my young friend and perhaps others, will still be interested. Isn't this what a Science Fair is all about?

Huff thanks his supporters

Dear Editor: A tremendous thank you to all the fine people of Howard County that I had the privilege to meet during the recent campaign and especially to that 30 percent of the electorate who selected me as one of their choices for College Trustee.

I have no regrets in my decision to seek the trustee's seat. I was not victorious but then I did not lose either since to lose means to have something that you no longer possess or is taken away from you. I had nothing at the start of the campaign and expected nothing from serving on the college board than to give of my talents, time and interest in our junior college. I had no motive or expectation of personal gain and so I lost nothing. I offered a progressive or as The Herald said "contemporary" approach which apparently our citizens were not ready to have for their college.

I wish Mr. Davis and Dr. Malone my congratulations and support in their endeavors for Howard College. To Dr. Hays and the Board of Trustees, my offer still holds to make myself available to you in the future, if you find a need or contribution you feel I can make to our college district.

Sincerely,

The Sandman

I tossed and turned violently in my sleep Monday night. I was tired enough to have slept like the proverbial log but a medley of songs about the wind kept haunting me.

Just as I was about to drift off to sleep and dream about Bo Derek, Bob Seger came crashing through with "Against the Wind." A few hours later, I bolted upright in bed when The Association popped in with "Windy." Finally, just before dawn, the curtains in my mind went up and hence began the production of "Paint Your Wagon," featuring the show-stopper "Mariah."

As I stared into the dark, my body reminded me of my wind-blown ordeals of the past few weeks. I had bloodshot eyes, chapped lips, a ruby face and enough soot in my nose to change my breathing habits.

I remembered my suffering car in the parking lot, its shiny paint job buried under several layers of West Texas sanddust. Somewhere in this world there must be a place where the wind does not blow. I wonder if they could use a sports writer?

What should I expect, however? Statistics have shown that on the average day, West Texas is the windiest part of our country, far outdistancing even the Windy City of Chicago. Webster has even removed the definition of "calm" from the dictionaries it sells in Texas. What should we know about "calm," "tranquil," "peaceful" and "still."

MY SLEEPLESS nights come from recent ventures into our own Arabian Desert to cover baseball, track and tennis. No, Friday's track meet in Midland was not called off despite 60 mph winds. Usually a 40-minute drive, the journey to Midland last week took well over an hour.

The worst part of the trip came at the Stuckey's about seven miles west of Big Spring. As drivers came over the rise before the store, they were greeted by a chalk-white bank of sand that resembled a dense fog bank. Once inside, vision was limited to the front of the hood. Speeds dropped to a crawl for about a mile when the patch abruptly cleared.

Inside this swirling void of nature's stuff, my gray car turned to an off-white. My nose lost all sense of smell. My eyes clouded over and began to rain.

I was listening to an Odessa radio station whose announcer must have been locked in a weather-proof booth. Twice he read a forecast of partly cloudy and chance of slight blowing dust. Good job, buddy, I thought. There was a greater chance I would perish in his slight blowing dust.

He must have been alerted to the situation, however. Later he reported to Odessans to avoid a particular intersection where a billboard had toppled under the wind's force and crushed two passing cars. Now you have the picture, my man.

All this sanddust might be tolerable if we dressed like our good friends in the Middle East. If I had known the conditions would mirror those in the African deserts, I would have shopped at Ayatollah's Dry Goods, brought some figs and dates and traveled to Midland by camel.

IN ABILENE, we had one or two dusters a spring. That was bad enough. I asked some of the locals here if the recent winds were typical for this time of year. "No," they answer. "We haven't had a bad one yet. Just wait until we get our first sandstorm."

Wonderful. Right now I'm not sure if I'm getting a good tan or I just can't get clean. I'm glad I don't own any white towels.

Well, now that I can't sleep, I may as well watch late night TV. I take that back. My choices range from Peter O'Toole in "Lawrence of Arabia" to a re-run of Days of Our Lives (like sands in the hourglass...).

Back to the nightmares, I guess. Who is this fellow in the pointy shoes, funny hat and gown. The Sandman! Oh no. And there goes the group Kansas singing "Dust in the Wind." I'm getting blown away...

Billy Graham

Money is a tool

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why does it seem like preachers are always asking for money? This disgusts me, especially about some of the preachers I see on television. — J.C.M.

DEAR J.C.M.: The Lord's work requires money, but I agree with you that no minister should spend a great deal of time emphasizing money or using high-pressure techniques. I have always tried to be very careful about this in my own ministry. In our television specials we want to let people know there is a great need for money to support the work we are doing — television has become extremely expensive — but we always want to avoid acting as if money is the central concern of our ministry. My concern is to preach the Gospel through every means God has given us today.

At the same time, every Christian has a responsibility before God to be a faithful steward of whatever money we have had entrusted to us by God. Everything we have ultimately comes from God. He gave us the abilities and the opportunities to earn it, and we are accountable to him for it. The question is really this: are we concerned about God and his work in the world above all else? Or are we instead concerned about ourselves first of all, and only willing to give God whatever is left over after we have taken care of our own selfish needs?

Whenever I mention the subject of money or our responsibility to use it wisely for the Lord's work, I remember first of all that God has given us far, far more than we can ever give back to him. Most of all, he has given us his son to die on the cross for our sins. Christ is our example in giving. "For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that you, through his poverty, might become rich" (2 Corinthians 8:9).

Former attorney general says Carter officials obsessed with re-election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Attorney General Griffin B. Bell says the Carter presidency was hurt by the White House staff's obsession with getting their boss re-elected.

Bell's assessment of the Carter presidency is contained in his memoir, "Taking Care of the Law," scheduled to be published later this year. The Associated Press obtained proofs of the book on Wednesday.

Bell also said former Vice President Walter Mondale was one of the major reasons the Carter presidency "failed."

Mondale, Bell said, represented the Democrats' liberal wing, not the constituency that elected Jimmy Carter. "Their views were not the same. The attempts to gloss over some of the fundamental differences also helped produce the unclear, all-things-to-all-people voice the public heard so often from the administration," he wrote.

The former president made a mistake in allowing Mondale to have an office in the White House and giving him a role in policy formulation, Bell said.

From the time Carter took office, Bell said, the White House staff was "obsessed" with winning the 1980 campaign.

"Kowtowing to single-interest groups to hold their loyalty for the next election prevented him from appearing to have a coherent presidency," Bell wrote.

In the book, Bell said he frequently considered resigning because of what he felt were efforts by the White House staff to undermine his authority.

Citing one case, he said Mondale and domestic affairs adviser Stuart Eisenstat persuaded Carter to overrule Bell and instruct the Justice Department to favor allowing parochial schools to use federal job training funds to hire teachers and aides.

Bell had decided that such use of federal funds would violate the constitutional separation of church and state.

Besides Mondale, Bell said Carter should not have put the "Kennedy and McGovern people of the Washington government-in-waiting" in middle-level jobs because they were not loyal to Carter or his ideas.

On another matter, Bell said Pentagon officials once asked him to direct Justice Department lawyers to lie in court to protect a secret that had already fallen into the hands of the Soviet Union.

The incident occurred while the Justice Department was preparing to prosecute William Kampiles, a former CIA clerk, for selling to the Soviet Union the secret manual for the United States' KB-11 spy satellite. Kampiles was eventually convicted of espionage and sentenced to 40 years in prison.

Bell said Pentagon lawyers, whom he did not identify, asked Justice Department lawyers to say in court that the KB-11 satellite had never been put into operation by the United States.

If the judge appeared skeptical about why the Soviets would want a manual for an inoperative satellite, Bell said the Defense Department lawyers suggested four possible answers.

"The Pentagon approach showed no respect for the integrity of the criminal justice system," Bell said. Misrepresenting facts in court is a violation of U.S. criminal statutes and legal ethics, he said.

Bell said he refused the Pentagon request and was not overruled by the White House.

A Defense Department spokesman who asked not to be identified said there would be no immediate comment on Bell's account.

Reagan preparing for 'vacation chat'

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The never-ending quest on the part of the White House for the perfect way to present the president, any president, to the American people, has taken yet another turn.

Over the last several years, a trend had developed. Whenever the president was greeting a visitor, and the White House staff decided the president's image might be boosted by being shown with the guest, photographers were summoned. Reporters tagged along.

The "photo opportunities" were used whenever the president had something on his mind that he wanted to publicize, while avoiding a visit to the White House press briefing room for a formal statement.

The current White House staff has hit on two new methods to get their man in the public eye — but actually they were tried before.

President Reagan has begun a series of 10 weekly radio broadcasts, a la Franklin D. Roosevelt's fireside chats. They place Reagan in a familiar role, delivering in five-minute chunks his view of the world and how he would like to make it better. Stay tuned on Saturday for his portrait of how the world looks from Barbados, where he will be spending an extended Easter weekend.

Taking a cue from Harry S. Truman and other presidents, the White House staff has also taken to inviting reporters to cluster around the president's ornate desk in the Oval Office and spend a few minutes chatting about current events.

Staff members, concerned about the free-wheeling photo opportunities that left Reagan verbally fencing with reporters seeking a snippet of commentary, are trying to ban any give-and-take in the sessions.

So they have said that the president will not answer any questions called out by reporters. Instead, he will invite them into the Oval Office from time to time, strictly to chat.

The radio commentaries, which started last week, were begun after aides sought ways to shore up the president's sagging public image. The idea of nationally broadcast pep talks on the economy and foreign policy was kicked around within the White House for several weeks.

The president, who was a sports announcer 50 years ago in Iowa before heading to Hollywood, spent the years between his 1976 and 1980 presidential campaigns taping radio commentaries on the state of the nation and the world.

Returning to that forum, he will take to the airwaves from the Oval Office, Camp David, his 688-acre California spread and, in June, Versailles, France.

Ecology party gathers strength in W. Germany

By ALISON SMALE
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP) — Established political parties in West Germany used to play on fear of communism and war against the Reds. Now they fear the Greens.

Formed two years ago from an assortment of "alternative" and ecological movements, the Greens political party has just 20,000 members.

Most are young, aged between 18 and 35. Some are 50- or 60-year-olds determined to improve the world now that they are out of the career race and their children are grown.

They stand for more than windmills and solar energy over nuclear power. They want a demilitarized Europe over NATO and the Warsaw Pact, a humane, clean environment over the technocratic society they contend is making us ill.

In keeping with the motley assortment of membership and the Greens' proclaimed desire to be "democratic from the roots," party meetings are haphazard affairs. Women knit and breast-feed their babies and gangling, bearded youths in baggy sweaters roll their own cigarettes.

In a country where most burghers still don their finest clothes to go for their constitutional Sunday walk, the Greens' political style hardly seems destined to strike fear into the established political parties, the ruling Social Democrats of Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, or the opposition conservatives, the Christian Democrats.

But they have reason to worry. In 1979, even before the Greens became a nationwide party, a "Green Alternative List" had already won representation in the parliament of one of West Germany's 11 states, the city-state of Bremen.

In the spring of 1980, the Greens surpassed the 5 percent barrier necessary to gain parliamentary seats at all in West Germany and four deputies won their way into state parliament in Baden-Wuerttemberg, the southwestern region that includes Stuttgart and Heidelberg.

In state elections in Lower Saxony this March 21, the Greens won 11 seats in the legislature, one more than the mainstream Free Democrats who are the junior partners in the Bonn coalition government.

Opinion polls give the Greens a good chance of getting into state parliaments in polls in Hamburg in June and in Hesse in September because of their increasing power to draw votes from leftists discontented with Schmidt's Social Democrats.

The shiver that is going through the institutions as a result rests on more than electoral triumphs.

For the Greens are more than a party. As one of their leaders, Lukas Beckmann, put it: "This is a movement, a way of life."

The "movement's" talk puts that in perspective. A "Green man" in West Germany is not a pub, as it would be in England, or an inexperienced guy, as he might be in the United States.

He is an "alternative," believes in saving bottles and aluminum foil, swapping the big, bad, technological and industrial world for a communal farm and "Small is Beautiful" principles.

Such people exist in almost all Western societies. The difference in West Germany is that they have formed a political party that seems to have won enough credibility to overcome critics who complain that ecology is no basis for a policy that must confront the many and varied problems of a developed industrial world.

Here they have been helped by several factors:

—The 5 percent law. West German media pay great attention to any party passing this barrier to parliamentary representation. The Communist party has never achieved this.

—Local resentment of nuclear power or other projects such as the third runway at Frankfurt airport. In local elections, the Greens win support from citizens who would otherwise not vote for an avant-garde party.

—A certain philosophical kinship with the increasingly restive left wing of Schmidt's Social Democratic party.

In the Hessian village of Volkmarren, for example, where the state plans a nuclear reprocessing plant, the Greens got 41.6 percent of the vote in last year's municipal elections.

Checker cabs reach end of line

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Checker Motors Corp. will stop building taxicabs later this year, the company has told workers in a letter.

"In July of this year, the corporation will phase out the taxicab manufacturing operation, and at this time there are no plans for future automobile manufacturing at this location (Kalamazoo)," said the letter, parts of which appeared in today's Kalamazoo Gazette.

Marcia Schill, director of communications for Checker, confirmed the letter had been sent by Checker officials to 800 Checker factory workers. She would not discuss the contents of the letter and said the company's officers would have no comment.

The letter mentioned the continued refusal of Checker's union workers to renegotiate their contract. It said concessions granted to General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. by other unions would put Checker at a "tremendous disadvantage" in competing for automotive work on a contract basis.

But one union official who asked not to be identified said: "We don't know whether or not to believe the letter."

Banks form electronic network for consumers

NEW YORK (AP) — Three of the country's largest banks today announced formation of a 26-bank network to allow customers with electronic banking cards access to basic services nationwide.

Bank of America, Chase Manhattan Bank and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. and 23 other banks have formed Plus System Inc.

Plus System President D. Dale Browning said the new network would provide several services — including cash withdrawals and account transfers — at automated tellers nationwide, but could not accept deposits over state lines, pending "corrective legislation."

He said up to 4,000 automatic teller machines would be available to customers in mid-1983 and 10,000 by 1987. Under the Plus System, a bank customer with an access card could use any automated teller in the nation, no matter the location of his home bank.

At a news conference, Browning said the automated teller network could be operating late this year.

The system is one of about a dozen in the planning stages as bankers look for ways around federal regulations against interstate banking and out-of-state acquisitions by bank holding companies.

U.S. Attorney General William French Smith joined protests over those restrictions in a speech in Phoenix on Tuesday.

Smith told the Association of Reserve City Bankers that although interstate banking prohibitions were intended to stem financial monopolies, the laws have become "unjustified and regulatory barriers to competition in the banking industry."

The new bank network grew out of the Plus System run by the credit-card processing arm of Colorado National Bank, one of the participants. Browning is senior vice president of the bank.

Bond set for man who held two hostages in post office

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 28-year-old man accused of trying to win the freedom of an imprisoned friend with threats to blow up a post office and two hostages is being held here under $50,000 bond.

Dennis Bruce Kuykendall was taken before a U.S. magistrate Tuesday to hear a formal FBI complaint that he assaulted two federal employees and made threats over a telephone. Magistrate Alex McGlinchey set an April 14 hearing in the case.

Parker County Sheriff Billy Cain said a man took Springtown postal clerk Audrey Williams and postmaster Raymond Robinson hostage and threatened "to blow everything up" with dynamite unless he was provided a car and $5,000. He also demanded a friend be released from a state prison at Huntsville.

Investigators later discovered the man had no dynamite. His friend in prison was identified as Mike Riddle, about 30, serving 40 years for murder and a former cellmate of Kuykendall, said Cain.

Neither hostage was injured and the man surrendered after four hours.

Springtown is about 40 miles northwest of Fort Worth.

Proposition 8

Californians will vote on measure to toughen criminal laws

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — In 1978 it was Proposition 13, a measure which made historic changes in California's taxing and spending laws. This year, residents of the nation's most populous state will vote on Proposition 8, an initiative which promises an extensive overhaul of the state's criminal laws.

Paul Gann, co-sponsor of the Proposition 13 and sponsor of a government spending limit initiative in 1979, calls his new initiative the Victims' Bill of Rights, though only a few of its 12 provisions deal with crime victims.

The measure was ordered onto the June 8 ballot last month by the state Supreme Court, which deferred until after the election a challenge based on the state constitutional requirement that an initiative cover only one subject.

Among its provisions are authority for judges to hold non-murder defendants without bail, a narrowing of the insanity defense, an attempt to limit plea-bargaining for serious crimes, a substantial increase in sentences for repeat criminals, and permission for victims to speak at parole and sentencing hearings.

"They're arresting the same people over and over because they're being turned loose...by the courts, in plea-bargaining," Gann said. "People are so upset at crime and the lack of control over crime."

One of the chief targets of the measure is the state Supreme Court, which has had a liberal majority for about 30 years but which has come under increasing attack in the last few years.

As the U.S. Supreme Court has narrowed previous rulings on defendants' rights, the California court has increasingly set out on its own, under the state constitution, in areas like police searches, confessions and insanity.

The result has been accusations of judicial lawmaking, attempts to defeat Chief Justice

PAUL GANN
...proposes victims' bill

Rose Bird at the polls, and now the Gann initiative, which would overturn many of the court's rulings.

The 69-year-old Gann, who spent most of his life selling real estate and automobiles, burst from obscurity four years ago when he and Howard Jarvis spearheaded the drive for Proposition 13.

Next to the tempestuous, headline-grabbing Jarvis, Gann was a quiet, calm figure. In 1980, Gann won the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate but was defeated by Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston by 1.6 million votes.

'They're arresting the same people over and over again because they're being turned loose...'

Even some of the measure's supporters say major portions of the measure are unconstitutional — for example, a provision that appears to admit all evidence from illegal police searches.

But the current anti-crime mood makes its passage likely, and if it survives court challenges, its impact could equal the shock wave caused by Proposition 13's $6 billion tax cut.

For instance:

A provision eliminating the automatic right to bail, and making public safety the first consideration in granting bail, might repeal the bail schedules that govern release of more than a million arrestees a year.

In that event, critics say, every local police jail would need a judge to set bail and, as the initiative requires, state reasons for each release.

Another provision would declare a constitutional right for all public school students and staff to attend "safe, secure and peaceful" schools.

Supporters say the purpose is simple, to promote school safety. Opponents say the potential consequences are staggering: parents refusing to send their children to "unsafe" schools; busing from inner-city schools to suburbs; reduction of police street patrols in order to station officers on campus.

Then there is the provision declaring, with a few exceptions, that criminal courts shall consider all "relevant" evidence.

The chief purpose, sponsors say, is to reverse California court decisions on the exclusionary rule, which bars the use of evidence from illegal police searches and illegally obtained confessions.

California courts have applied the rule more broadly than the U.S. Supreme Court — for example, a defendant in California can challenge evidence from an illegal search of someone else, and can object to items found in a full-body search after an arrest for a minor crime.

But the initiative isn't limited on its face to state court decisions, and can be read to admit evidence from searches that would be barred by federal courts as well. One of the measure's draftsmen, George Nicholson, has said the measure could allow the U.S. Supreme Court to reconsider the entire exclusionary rule.

Opponents also warn of huge costs: from $339 million to $1.45 billion over five years for expansion of the state's already-overcrowded prisons, according to state officials, plus millions more to give the required notice to every shoplifting victim, for example, that the criminal is being sentenced.

Nicholson, a former prosecutor who is running for attorney general, says the warnings are unfounded speculations by liberals who are trying to defeat Proposition 8 and ignore the savings from its deterrent effect on crime.

Says Pasadena Police Chief Bob McGowan, president of the California Police Chiefs Association, "The message to those in the Legislature who would totally frustrate the will of the people should be loud and clear: If you refuse to do anything about crime, we'll do it for you."

Navy commodores 'not too shabby'

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

CHARLESTOWN, S.C. (AP) — Well, shiver me timbers and part my periwig with a belaying pin, the U.S. Navy has brought back the rip-roaring rank of commodore. The one-star rank is equivalent to brigadier general.

A flotilla of new commodores, approved by the president from the recommendations of a Navy selection board, is about to be sworn in, if they haven't been already.

"I have not yet begun to fight." "Don't give up the ship." "We have met the enemy and they are ours." "My country right or wrong." "Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead." "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."

I never did find out why Gridley wasn't ready, because Clark Gable and Burt Lancaster always were in the movie, but commodores sure had a way with words in our history. The broad stripes seem to have done most of the fighting, too. There's something about buckling on the sword of a senior captain (which is what a commodore really is) that brings out the swash in a fellow. When there wasn't any enemy about, commodores fought among themselves.

Some of the most illustrious names in naval history polished their luster as commodores.

Commodore John Barry, often called the father of the U.S. Navy, although he was actually its third boss, captured the first British ship in the Revolutionary War.

Commodore John Paul Jones in the Bon Homme Richard took on the British man-of-war Serapis off Scotland after all but two of the 40 ships in his squadron had bugged out. Jones' flagship had five feet of water in the hold and all its guns out of action except three 9-pounders when the British captain, a chap named Pearson, pulled alongside to inquire if he cared to surrender.

"I have not yet begun to fight," answered J.P., and with that he boarded and captured the Serapis. Just in time, too, because his Bon Homme Richard sank the next day.

Commodores came into their own and set the tone for countless future movies in the War of 1812 with Commodore John Rodgers, aboard the 44-gun frigate President. And long before novelist C.S. Forester raised Horatio Hornblower to the envied rank, commodores in both the British and U.S. navies were considered brave, reckless lusty and a bit eccentric.

Spending limit stalls space laser weapons

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spending limitations have delayed secret Pentagon research on a space-based laser weapon that could give the United States a revolutionary defense against missile and bomber attack, government investigators say.

The General Accounting Office has told Congress and defense officials it questions whether the space-based laser program is "well-structured, funded and managed."

GAO urged that Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger "commit the necessary funds to meet...objectives and to maintain stability" in the program. The congressional investigative agency also proposed management and other reforms to speed the effort.

Its suggestions and criticisms were contained in a sanitized digest of a report. GAO said the full report included classified security information. No dollar amounts were mentioned, either those being spent or those recommended.

The digest said GAO had discussed a draft of its report with "high-level officials associated with management of the program, and they agreed with the facts presented."

Both the United States and the Soviet Union have been conducting research for years on high-energy laser concepts. Theoretically, laser weapons shooting intense beams of light through space could be used to destroy missile warheads in flight, as well as satellites and bombers.

Laser weapons research is part of a wider scientific hunt for what are called "directed-energy" beam devices which GAO said "may revolutionize military strategy, tactics and doctrine."

Many defense scientists agree with GAO's opinion on the future importance of beam weapons. Generally, they believe that such weapons are possibly a decade away from combat-readiness.

No 'effective medical response'

Doctors urge halt to nuclear arms race

By ROBERT GLASS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Prominent doctors from 31 nations Wednesday urged President Reagan and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev to cease production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons, saying there is no "effective medical response" to a nuclear catastrophe.

"Ultimately nuclear weapons must be destroyed before they destroy humanity," the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear Weapons said in a letter to the two leaders.

Copies were distributed at a news conference in London after the group's second international congress at Cambridge University. About 130 doctors and medical scientists from 31 nations, including the United States and Soviet Union, attended the five-day meeting.

Dr. H. Jack Geiger, professor of community medicine at City College of New York, said it was the first time representatives of both nations agreed in a public document to urge a nuclear freeze.

Delegates considered the immediate and long-term effects of a nuclear conflict and Geiger said "estimates of the consequences were strikingly similar."

In independent studies, delegates concluded that a nuclear exchange in Europe involving several thousand megatons would kill 170 million people instantly and leave 150 million seriously injured, he said.

The doctors told Reagan and Brezhnev in the letter: "It is within your power to ensure that the removal of the threat of nuclear war be given the highest priority... The imperative of our time is to rule out the very idea of the use of nuclear weapons, in any form or on any scale."

"Nuclear war would be a catastrophe for any country and any people against whom those weapons are used."

"There is no possibility of an effective medical response in the ensuing chaos."

The doctors said any survivors of an initial attack would "face the prospect of prolonged agony and slow death... Widespread starvation, epidemics and psychological stress would be inevitable."

They said added nuclear weapons "increase the possibility that a nuclear conflict may be triggered by tragic accident" and declared that "the arms race is killing people now by diverting scarce resources from urgent health needs."

"We urge as a first step, the nuclear powers cease all production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons and their delivery systems. This should be accompanied by mutually acceptable methods of verification."

The letter marked a departure in the non-political nature of the congress, which claims 31,000 members, since its goals were first outlined in a meeting of three Soviet and three American physicians in December 1980.

Speaking through an interpreter, Dr. Nikolai Blockhin, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, said "today physicians cannot remain unconcerned" about the danger of million of people dying in a nuclear exchange.

Hunt empire ordered to pay beet growers

DENVER (AP) — The Hunt brothers' empire in Dallas has been ordered by a federal judge to pay Western sugar beet growers $25.3 million, and the judge denied efforts by the Hunts to modify the award, saying there is "no just reason for delay."

A jury in January had found for the growers in a lawsuit stemming from the Hunts' alleged refusal to share profits with the growers that the Hunts had made on the commodities market in the mid-1970s.

U.S. District Judge Zita Weinshienk's order on Wednesday made final the jury's award of $11.8 million in actual damages and $13.5 million in punitive damages in the case.

Every grower who had more than 10 acres of sugar beets during 1974 and 1975 and who had contracts with the Hunt companies will be eligible for part of the award, according to the judge's order.

Hilton suite rebuilt for toxic fume study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appearances notwithstanding, the Consumer Product Safety Commission is not going into the hotel business. It is collecting hotel furniture to explore the possibility that fire and man-made materials may combine to produce deadly cyanide gas.

The mattresses, chairs, television set and other goods arriving this week at the CPSC lab in nearby Gaithersburg, Md., represent a virtual copy of a room in the Westchase Hilton Hotel in Houston.

Eleven people died during a fire at the hotel March 6. There is an indication some victims died not from such traditional dangers as flames or carbon monoxide, but from toxic fumes emitted from synthetic materials common in modern furniture. None of the victims was in the room that actually burned.

Jeanne D. White, the commission's regional director in Dallas, said the victims all showed levels of cyanide in the blood above the normal level for the area, 0.2 to 0.3 parts per million. Two young boys had particularly high levels, she said.

"A 3-year-old child had 10 parts per million and a 5-year-old had 8 parts," she said.

LAST MAN OF 40 — Walter P. Wilson, left, president and treasurer, and Henry F. Bamberger, secretary, both of Philadelphia, two of five surviving members of the Society of the Last Man of Forty Veterans, touch glasses during annual luncheon meeting Tuesday in Philadelphia. The World War I vets formed the society 50 years ago when they agreed the final survivor would get a bottle of cognac that has been aging all those years. The other survivors are too ill to attend.

The last men

For 50th year, World War I buddies observe tradition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A bottle of cognac that awaits the last survivor of a 50-year-old society of World War I veterans stayed tightly corked as two of the five living members toasted their annual reunion.

"I haven't missed a year," said Henry F. Bamberger, 88, the secretary of the Society of the Last Man of 40 Veterans. "Even when I was in the service, I got leave to come here."

William P. Wilson, 83, the society's treasurer, also attended Tuesday's luncheon and, in a newer tradition, both men brought their wives.

"To swell the crowd, in other words," Wilson said.

The other three surviving members couldn't make it to the luncheon.

The society was formed July 13, 1932, from among commanders of American Legion posts in the Philadelphia area, and began meeting every April 6, the anniversary of the American declaration of war in 1917.

There was "quite a formality" at those early meetings, Wilson said.

"We used to have set up all 40 places," he said. "As the roll call was called, we would take a rose and put it in a vase at the place of a deceased member and give a hand salute—just like at the cemetery."

Some things have changed. The old fighters no longer sing "Auld Lang Syne," and the meetings, once held in the upstairs George Washington room of the Engineers Club, were moved to the first floor when the veterans began having trouble climbing the stairs.

But the fifth of Hennessy's V.S.O.P. cognac, presented to the society by the French consul in Philadelphia in 1932, still will be given to the member who outlives the others. The last veteran also will collect $1,800 in the group's treasury.

The cognac rests in a mahogany coffin lined in satin that was built by one of the members. "It got to be a burden to bring it in," said Wilson, a retired controller.

The changes don't matter much. The men still enjoy the yearly salute to the dead and the living among them.

"We're all buddies," says Bamberger, a retired engineer who also served in World War II. "We all followed the same course. It's just living."

As the roll was read Tuesday, "deceased" followed 35 names. The third club member still living in the Philadelphia area, president Henry E. Abbott, 87, was kept from the meeting by an unusual April snowstorm. "He's a little feeble," said Bamberger.

The other survivors are Clarence Evans, 90, in a retirement home in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Charles W. Miller, 83, in a Veterans Hospital in Tomah, Wis.

After the annual reading of the role call, Bamberger paused.

"May their souls rest in peace," he said.

"Well, now the first toast," said Wilson, raising a glass.

"There's just the two of us," Bamberger said.

"I know," Wilson replied.

Despite ACLU suit

Officials approve Easter service

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Federal officials have agreed to permit the Wichita Mountains Easter Sunrise Service Association to hold its annual ceremonies for another 10 years at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge.

The area, commonly referred to as the Holy City, has been the site of an Easter sunrise service while the grounds have been open year-round to people visiting a chapel and other structures built there.

The Holy City was the subject of controversy last year when the American Civil Liberties Union filed a federal lawsuit asking to revoke the permit and challenging the constitutionality of the religious structures, including a statue of Christ.

A federal judge dismissed the suit last December.

Association president Fred C. Larrance announced that the contract for the permit will be signed Saturday.

Larrance said Wednesday that he and refuge manager Bob Karges had been negotiating the permit for the past year. Larrance said the present 20-year permit expires this year.

Larrance announced the agreement during a

Tuesday night rehearsal for the annual Easter service, which will start at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Karges said a significant difference in the new permit is that it only gives the association exclusive use of the area 60 days before the pageant and 30 days after. The old permit gave the group rights to the area all year.

"We have tried to neutralize the permit as much as possible to avoid any conflicts with the First Amendment, which requires separation of church and state," Karges said. "Outside of the 90-day exclusive-use time period, the area may be used by other groups."

Broken freezer ruins data from shuttle test

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Scientists anticipated problems in space with a biological experiment conducted on the last space shuttle mission, but they never thought malfunctions on earth would ruin the sample and the test, a space agency spokesman says.

A faulty ground transport freezer allowed frozen blood and kidney cell samples to thaw and spoiled much of an experiment designed to test the process a drug company wants to use to make a costly and difficult-to-produce drug in the weightlessness of space.

"The tests went very well in orbit. But we just ran into problems on the ground," said Dr. Dennis Morrison, principal investigator at the Johnson Space Center.

Two batches of red blood cells and six batches of human kidney cells were processed on the Columbia's eight-day flight and stored in a stainless steel, double-walled cylinder lined with insulation that holds the freezing agent, liquid nitrogen.

Scientists had hoped to use the specimens to produce urokinase, a substance produced on Earth at high cost and used to dissolve blood clots.

Within two hours after the spaceship landed March 30 in the New Mexico desert, the freezer was placed on a training aircraft and flown back to Houston, said NASA spokesman Brian Welch.

But they discovered the samples had thawed when they opened the container Monday, Welch said.

"Of all the things that could have gone wrong," said Dr. Stewart Nachway, chief of the bio-medical applications branch. "The freezer was the last piece of equipment we would have expected to have trouble with."

Space center technicians were trying to determine what caused the freezer to fail.

Scientists said the freezer was designed to store the samples at least 10 days and, in earlier tests, had functioned properly for 12 days.

"Everyone was aghast that such a simple piece of equipment would go down," Welch said. "You almost expect to have some glitches come up on the flight, but you don't expect something like this to happen."

Welch said analysis of the kidney cells is impossible now, but he said NASA officials believe on-board photography will provide most of the data they were expecting from the red blood cells, which provided a test for how well the process worked in micro gravity.

"We have the cell samples and the equipment to try again in the future if circumstances permit," Morrison said.

The experiment was one in a series NASA is conducting to verify theories of manufacturing in space to produce materials which cannot easily be made because of Earth's gravity.

In lowered gravity, cells in a solution will not settle. By applying an electrical current to the samples, the cells are forced to migrate away from each other and allow the development of super-pure drugs.

Dear Abby

Should God be blamed?

DEAR ABBY: I have a comment that was prompted by your reply to "Damned in Dallas," whose 18-year-old daughter had a life-threatening automobile accident while under the influence of drugs.

You told this man to tell his daughter that the Lord spared her because he (the Lord) wanted her to live.

So you are assuming that the Lord made the decision to spare her life. There is nothing unusual about this. It is very common for people to thank God for the good things, like recovering from a serious operation or a life-threatening accident. Anything good is supposed to come from God.

And who should we blame for having put the girl in a position to lose her life in the accident? Why did the Lord not intervene then? Why don't we say, "The Lord is uncaring about his people"? Couldn't he have prevented the accident?

When the hostages came out of Iran, the consensus was that the Lord had rescued them from their captors. My question at that time was, "And who refused to help them when the Iranians were trying to take over the American Embassy in Tehran?"

If we are going to thank the Lord for the good things, should not we also blame him (or her) for the bad times as well?

WONDERING IN DEL MAR Your question brings up an ancient unresolved theological question that would take far more wisdom and knowledge than I possess to answer.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me start a crusade against people introducing friends as old friends.

Why can't they say, "Good friends whom I have known for a long time"? I am 75 and resent being called "old."

FRANK R. LAMB, RICHMOND, VA. Old habits die hard. Curious that old wine is better. So are old violins. And the older the antique, the more valuable.

In other cultures (the Oriental), age is respected and revered. Only in our culture is there a premium on youth, where everyone wants to live a long time but nobody wants to be "old."

Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Dr. Donohue

Vitamins alone not enough

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a second-year medical student and a faithful reader. It is uncanny how often you discuss a topic we must have presented in class. It is a great reinforcement. You just have a pipeline. And now my question: After biochemistry, physiology, and pathology of nutritional diseases, I still can't come up with a good answer for my brother. He wonders why the big deal "about carrots" etc., when you can get the right balance of amino acids, vitamins, etc. in pills, which, with a bit of fiber, should be all one needs. — E.H.

Your brother is only partly right. Theoretically, a person can be maintained on completely artificial diets so long as all the necessary protein, carbohydrate, essential fats, vitamins, bulk and trace elements are included. There's the rub. It is a formidable task and takes a great deal of attention to detail. All of those minuscule trace elements needed would have to be measured out, and that might require a visit to a laboratory. Any grocery store can supply all those ingredients in amounts pretty close to ideal.

As an example, has your brother figured out his zinc and copper needs? He won't have to worry about that if he gets a normal diet. A second argument arises from the fiber idea. The "bit" of fiber he is talking about may not be enough to keep the intestinal tract operating well.

If this is not argument enough, give me time to think more about it. There may come a time when a purely artificial diet will be necessary (space travel?). But until nutritionists have it all figured out, let's stick with the supermarkets.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband has the grouch in his ankle. He has been to the doctor's and it is very painful. What causes this? What can you eat when you have it? What is it? He loves beer. Does that have an effect on it? What kind of medicine can he take? — Mrs. S.T.

I theorized that your substitute for what I certainly think was meant to be "gout" was Freudian slip, indicating that your husband has become a grouch. Am I correct? Anyway, here is what gout is all about.

Gout develops when the blood uric acid levels get too high. Uric acid causes pain and swelling if it settles in joints and forms crystals. Diet was once the only way to try to control gout, and your husband still has to be careful about foods with high purine content. Purine changes into uric acid in the body.

Organ meats (such as liver and sweetbreads) anchovies, sardines and meat extracts and gravies all are high in purines. Alcohol can provoke an attack. Let your husband wear that shoe if it fits.

Some medicines for gout stop production of the uric acid. Others help the kidneys rid the blood of excess amounts. Still other medicine is used to relieve sudden painful attacks. There are others, and with one or a combination of them your husband can get his gout under control. He may want to read the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It." Other readers may order a copy by writing me, care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Signal program to be viewed

"Thank you, PTAs, for helping us," Helen Gladden said Tuesday of the role PTAs played in rounding up the 55 adult volunteers who served at the recent Permian Basin Regional Science Fair.

Mrs. Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator for the Big Spring Independent School District, spoke at the April meeting of the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association. The group met at Big Spring High School.

Mrs. Gladden invited PTA Council members to look in on the school district's new Signal Program for gifted and talented students. PTAs can see fourth and fifth grade Signal students in action during a regular class period Wednesday.

Two of teacher Darlene Archer's sessions in the Signal classroom on Bunnels' third floor will be open to PTA visitors. They are the fourth grade class, 10-11 a.m. and the fifth grade class, 1-2 p.m.

Questionnaires on parent involvement in schools were distributed to local PTAs at the Council meeting. Southwest Educational Development Laboratory in Austin had requested response from Big Spring parents in a study it is conducting to determine the importance of including parent involvement material in teacher education. Questionnaires should be returned to PTA Council president Leslie Earnst, 2604 Ann, before May 1.

Council members learned that local PTA member Nelda Reagan has been nominated as District 17 PTA vice president for Howard, Martin and Glascock counties.

Mrs. Reagan currently is serving her second year as Marcy PTA president. In other business, the Council elected officers for the 1982-83 year. They are: Barbara Claxton, president; Christina Lawrence, first vice president; Marcia Rogers, second vice president; Duanna Chester, recording secretary; Nelda Reagan, corresponding secretary; and Charisa Myers, treasurer.

Coming events for PTA calendars are:

April 21 — District 17 PTA Spring Conference, St. Luke's Methodist Church, Odessa. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m.

May 3 — Big Spring PTA Council insolation dinner. July 11-13 — Texas PTA leadership seminar in Austin. PTA officers are urged to attend. Registration is limited, and early registration is advisable.

Two Brilab suspects given probation

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge branded Port Commissioner John Garrett and Deer Park labor leader L.G. Moore as "corruptors" but said imprisonment would punish their families far more than themselves.

U.S. District Judge Norman Black on Wednesday sentenced each to five years probation, imposed fines of $10,000 and ordered each to devote 350 hours to community service work during their probation.

He also warned the two men he would not be as lenient next time.

"If you ever stand before me again, you might as well have your suitcases in hand because you are headed for a federal correctional institution," Black said.

Garrett, 59, and Moore, 47, were charged in a scheme uncovered during the FBI's "Brilab" sting operation in 1979.

The two men were convicted Feb. 25 of using a long distance phone call to make a bribe and influence the awarding of health insurance contracts for municipal employees.

The judge told the two men he came "very close" to sending them to prison.

"You are corruptors. You bribed a public official," Black said. "However, I feel that to send you to a federal correctional institute would punish your families far more than it would punish you."

"I'm going to give you a chance to show you can be good citizens," the judge said.

Prosecutors refused to comment on the judge's decision, but defense lawyers said the sentences were fair.

"I thought it was a judicious, well-tempered, well-thought-out sentence," said Moore's attorney, Mike Ramsey.

Texas crime rate drops, DPS official says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' crime rate declined last year, but the total number of major crimes rose by 22,110 from the previous year, according to director Jim Adams of the Department of Public Safety.

The 1.5 percent decline in the crime rate, which is based on the number of major crimes per 100,000 population, was the first drop since 1977, Adams said Wednesday.

The 1981 crime rate was a fraction over 6,042 crimes per 100,000 population. The number of major crimes, however, rose to 891,549 last year.

Adams said in a statement 21 percent of the major crimes were cleared by arrests.

The figures, he said, were compiled from data submitted by 737 law enforcement agencies representing over 97 percent of the state's population.

Violent crime, which increased 14.8 percent in 1980 over the previous year, increased less than 1 percent last year. Robbery cases declined by 3.4 percent in 1981, while murder, rape and aggravated assault increased by 2 percent, 1.8 percent and 3.6 percent respectively.

Property crimes — burglary, theft and motor vehicle theft — rose 2.7 percent in 1981.

"The estimated value of property stolen during the commission of all major crimes in 1981 totaled over $945 million," Adams said. "Approximately $188.4 million worth of property was recovered by law enforcement agencies last year."

Of the 829,042 arrests last year, 52,458 were drug arrests, a 16.7 percent rise over 1980.

Five Texas police officers were killed in the line of duty by criminal action, half the number who died in 1980. Nine officers also died in "duty-related" accidents last year.

Arson cases reported to the DPS in 1981 totaled 8,424, a decrease of 1,178 from the previous year. Property loss from arson last year was estimated at $94.4 million.

Mayor aids police in arrest of robbery suspect

COPPERAS COVE, Texas (AP) — A Fort Hood soldier remained in city jail here on robbery charges after an arrest which police credit to the community's mayor.

Army Spec 4 Sylvester Robinson was arrested Wednesday after a robbery at First National Bank in which an undetermined amount of money was taken. The cash was later recovered, police said.

Mayor Ken Ambler, who is also the bank's vice president, copied the license plate number of a vehicle which he said the robbery suspect drove from the institution about 11 a.m.

Ambler reported the information to city police who tipped military police. Robinson was arrested less than an hour after the robbery at the base commissary, officers said.

Labor union sues Braniff

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International is being sued by a labor union that claims the airline abrogated a contract for maintenance and security personnel the union represents.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters filed suit charging that the airline has contracted for its maintenance and security workers with a company that is violating the airline's collective bargaining agreement with the Teamsters.

DallasFort Worth Regional Houston Intercontinental airports and at the airline's corporate headquarters. Bekins Building Maintenance Co., which the suit alleged hires non-union workers, took over the contract from BIC last month.

Braniff officials consider the suit meritless, said a Braniff spokesman Sam Coats. He declined further comment.

BIC was ruled a subsidiary of Braniff in an earlier suit, according to the union's suit, which was filed Tuesday in U.S. District Court.

From 1973 until February, BIC Guardian Services Inc. supplied maintenance and security for the Braniff terminals at Bekins kept some of the supervisory personnel and junior employees but did not hire many employees who were working under the union agreement, the Teamsters suit said. The union, which said it has a contract with Braniff though the end of the year, asked in the suit that the contract be reinstated.

Thursday Notes

Midland College's smooth shooter Puntus Wilson was named to the National Junior College Athletic Association first team All-American team. The 6-3 sophomore was one of two Texans on the first team ... the other was Stan Cloud of Henderson County Community College in Athens.

Frank James of San Jacinto College and Niles Dockery of Henderson were honorable mention choices.

According to Midland athletic director Delnor Poss, the school just pushed one player for All-American honors. Dynamite guard Spud Webb seemed to be another candidate qualified for national recognition.

The all-Region V team was composed of Wilson, Maurice Dorsey of Ranger, Charles Houston of Cisco, Lowell McHenry of Hill County, Robert Dickerson of Amarillo and William Boatright of McLennan.

Dee Polk of Cooke County and Lola Reescano of Henderson were named first team All-Americans for women. Cassandra Crumpton was a second team choice for Clarendon College along with Margaret Peters of Henderson.

It was Henderson that swamped Howard College in the bi-region playoffs. Henderson lost to the eventual national champion in the national tournament.

How can a team battling just .190 be in first place? Good pitching to back 'em up, that's how.

Big Spring's .300 average as a team before district has slipped below the .200 mark as the Steers have averaged less than five hits in their first five league games. Senior shortstop Blake Rosson at .352 and rightfielder James Walker at .312 are lone players over .300.

The pitching of Moe Rubio, Adam Rodriguez and Jinx Valenzuela has made the difference. In 35 innings, the trio has given up just eight earned runs. The Steers, after losing 4-2 to Abilene in the league opener, have won twice by 3-1 scores, once a 5-3 and another at 7-6.

Speaking of baseball, former Big Spring player Dickie "Trick" Wrightsil is doing his thing for Southwest Texas, now 12-11.

In a recent doubleheader with Prairie View A&M, Wrightsil collected four hits in two games and boomed a home run in another twinbill against Prairie View.

Former Big Spring high golfer Bruce Carroll won medalist honors at the Angelo State Invitational played Monday and Tuesday in the Concho City.

Carroll, now playing for Midland College, fired rounds of 77 and 76 into the brisk westerly wind for a 153 total card. Angelo won the meet with a 634 score followed by Midland at 648. ACU was third at 649.

The tourney was played at the Bentwood Country Club.

Country Club golf pro Gary Hammer — what a name for a golfer — is ready to go with his super-human effort to aid the March of Dimes.

From 7 a.m.-7 p.m. next Monday, Gary will try to play 100-175 holes of golf from the bed of a pickup truck to raise greenback for the M of D. Steve Childress of Trinity Memorial Funeral Home will pay $1 for every hole he plays in the 12-hour span and has challenged all Big Spring businesses to do the same.

Somehow it all seems appropriate with the Masters tourney coming up for golf fans.

The Big Spring Herald version of Wimbledon '82 continued last week. Bob "Ken Rosewall" Carpenter had his lobs working well against this famous sports writer, Greg "Bjorn" Jaklewicz, but fell 6-4, 6-1.

Then along came Mike "Stan Smith" Downey who challenged the undefeated Jaklewicz. The match began around 6:30 and was not over until 8:45 when Downey rallied to claim a 14-12 one-set victory.

Jaklewicz, of course, threw a fit and was fined by The Herald Executive Committee for his behavior. He said he would never play Figure Seven again unless invited by Downey.

Downey took it all in stride but was late to work the next morning complaining of a sore body.

Spence inks scholarship

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Big Spring High quarterback Tracy Spence has signed a scholarship agreement with Panhandle State University of Goodwell, Okla.

Spence is the third Big Spring athlete to sign a football letter this spring. Earlier, Bobby Earl Williams inked with the University of Texas at El Paso and Richard Evans signed with Angelo State University.

"They will look at me at quarterback and probably start me out in the junior varsity," Spence said. "They have a good JV program and play Texas Tech, the Air Force Academy, West Texas State and Oklahoma State JVs. I'm looking forward to a shot at the varsity, though."

The 6-0, 155-pound senior started all but one game his junior and senior years under coach Ralph Harris. "When I came here they said we didn't have a quarterback in town. I guess they didn't know about Tracy."

"We had an option football team and Tracy makes good decisions under fire. He's tough physically and I think he's got a bright future. He would have had a big year if we had a healthy football team."

Spence is currently a member of the Big Spring baseball team and also was a cornerback on defense in football.

Panhandle was 9-0 in the regular season last year and lost in the NAIA playoffs to eventual national champion Austin College. The Aggies return 17 lettermen and hope to go further in the playoffs in 1982.

"We are very proud of all our signees. With an 11-game schedule and a five-game JV schedule, every player that we sign will be important to the success that we achieve in our program," said Rich Lawrence, head coach at Panhandle.

Nicklaus figures to be a contender

Can Jack master Masters?

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Three weeks ago, Jack Nicklaus wasn't particularly looking forward to playing in the Masters, a tournament he has mastered five times.

He had missed the cut in two consecutive tournaments and needed a tonic for a golf swing gone awry.

"I had to go back to basics and find them myself," Nicklaus said Wednesday, the day before play was scheduled to begin in the 46th Masters Tournament.

He said he found the flaw and that his game is "better than it's been in a long time."

If his game is back, he figures to be a contender for this prestigious event, won last year by Tom Watson.

Rain was predicted for today, and tournament officials said if the round is washed out, the 76 participants will play 36 holes Friday.

The sun shone Wednesday on the splendor of the Augusta National Golf Course and talk centered on the slick greens — so slick that Calvin Peete was putting three feet for a birdie during a practice round and wound up with a 20-foot putt back for a par.

Even Hord Hardin, the tournament chairman, said workers had been ordered to change the speed of two greens, now in their second season with bent grass.

Nicklaus favors the longest drivers because they will be able to use a shorter iron on their approach shots.

Watson and Tom Kite differ. They give the edge to the best putters, but not necessarily the longest drivers.

All three agreed, however, that pin placement was the key to whether scores will balloon.

So the key will be to keep the approach shots below the pin.

Kite, one of the most consistent players on the tour, likes the chances of Bill Rogers, the PGA Player of the Year in 1981 and winner of the British Open.

Watson, who won the Heritage Classic two weeks ago and is the only two-time winner this year, likes his chances of repeating — with one question. He won the tournament last year with a 280 total, eight under par.

Kite, for one, thinks 5-under-par will be a good score this year if the greens remain as quick as they are.

Both Watson and Nicklaus said the mental part of the game will be an especially critical factor.

Nicklaus scored a record low 13-under par 271 in 1975 when he won the tournament. The following year, Raymond Floyd matched the score.

It would take something of a miracle to score that low this year.

The Masters, a tradition-rich tournament, is the first major tournament of the season.

Kite, Watson, Nicklaus, Jerry Pate, Bruce Lietzke, Craig Stadler, Andy Bean, David Graham, Larry Nelson, Johnny Miller, Tom Weiskopf are some of the names to watch, some of the veterans who have a good chance to win the green jacket given to the winner.

Ray Floyd devoted to Chicago Cubs

Former Masters champ loves baseball

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — When Ray Floyd woke up this morning and prepared to tee off in another Masters golf tournament, the first thing he didn't do was practice his putting stroke on the hotel rug.

He didn't turn quickly to the front sports page of The Augusta Chronicle and read what Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson and Tom Kite were saying about their chances during the next four days.

No, sir, Floyd leafed over to the agate section and studied the baseball boxscores.

"It's always the first thing I do," said the bull-shouldered 200-pounder, Masters champion in 1976 and co-holder with Nicklaus of the tournament record 271. "I study all of them, not just who hit the home runs or pitched a good game but even down to the attendance."

The 39-year-old Floyd, long one of pro golf's top players, is more than just a baseball fan. He bleeds with the Chicago Cubs.

In that respect, he shares a role with the president of the United States, who in his early days broadcast Cubs' games on the radio.

Like Ronald Reagan, Floyd is on the mailing list of the Emil Verban Memorial Society of Washington, D.C., a unique organization.

The society was formed by a handful of die-hard Cubs supporters seven years ago and since then has pushed its membership to 200, including Reagan and former press secretary Jim Brady, wounded in the assassination attempt on Reagan a year ago.

When the Cubs won their opening game 3-2 against the Cincinnati Reds on Monday, the society, including Reagan, dispatched a quick wire of congratulations to General Manager Dallas Green & Co. of the Chicago Nationals.

He was born in Fort Bragg, N.C., an Army brat whose father later took over the Cypress Lakes Golf Club in Fayetteville. Adept in both baseball and golf, he had a tough choice to make.

"Just out of high school when I was 17, I got a chance to sign with the Cleveland Indians," he said. "But after winning the National Jaycees golf title in 1960, I decided to go in the golf direction."

Since then, he has won 15 tour events, including the 1969 PGA, 1976 Masters and World Open and the Tournament Players Championship last year when he finished second to Tom Kite in the money winning list with $359,360.

Cincinnati's bats club Chicago, 6-2

By The Associated Press
In the minor leagues, Paul Householder and Dickie Noles had a running feud going.

It's still going strong in the majors, and Wednesday night Householder got some licks in with his bat.

"I wanted to get him — I wanted to hit him good," Householder said after hitting a home run and triple off Noles to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. "I had a little more incentive tonight."

It was a measure of revenge for a minor league incident that triggered antagonism between the two. Householder said that he and Noles exchanged words during a Class AAA game last summer, when Householder was with the Reds' Indianapolis farm club and Noles was on the disabled list playing for the Philadelphia Phillies' farm club in Oklahoma City.

"The next day in the outfield during batting practice he stopped me, challenged me and we threw punches," Householder said.

Householder said Noles later hit him in the ribs with a pitch in a minor league game, nearly setting off an on-the-field fight.

Householder hit a two-out homer in the fourth inning and a run-scoring triple in the sixth, for two of the four hits allowed by Noles in 52-3 innings. Bruce Berenyi got the victory with late relief help.

In other National League action, it was Houston 3, St. Louis 2; Atlanta 6, San Diego 4 and Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 2. Two games were postponed by cold weather — Montreal at Pittsburgh and New York at Philadelphia.

In the American League, Minnesota trimmed Seattle 7-5 and California blanked Oakland 7-0. The Baltimore-Kansas City game was postponed by cold.

Braves 6 Padres 4
Dale Murphy stroked a single, double and home run and knocked in two runs and Brett

Butler added three singles and drove in two runs as Atlanta defeated San Diego.

Bob Walk pitched seven strong innings, allowing five hits before Rick Camp relieved in the eighth when the Padres scored three unearned runs and Gene Garber finished up.

Dodgers 9 Giants 2

Ron Cey slugged a home run and singled twice and Ken Landreaux collected four singles to lead Los Angeles over San Francisco.

The Giants contributed three costly errors. Right fielder Jack Clark dropped a fly ball that led to three unearned runs in the third inning when the Dodgers scored five times. Third baseman Darrell Evans committed two errors in the fifth inning that led to two more unearned runs.

Winner Bob Welch gave up three hits in the second inning when the Giants scored their two runs, then retired 11 batters in a row to earn the victory before Alejandro Pena took over in the seventh. Steve Howe finished up for the Dodgers, pitching the ninth.

"Billy Ball" turns into silly ball

American League

By The Associated Press
The Oakland A's like to play "Billy Ball."

But Wednesday night, the California Angels made it look like silly ball.

"You almost have to get a lead to beat that club — it takes a lot of their game away from them," said Geoff Zahn after pitching the Angels' to a 7-0 victory over Billy Martin's team with a classy four-hit.

The night before, the A's clawed out an 11-inning, 3-2 victory with their usual style, which includes a lot of daring baserunning. But they weren't able to play Martin's wide-open game Wednesday night, after falling behind early.

Fred Lynn and Rod Carew, each of whom had three hits and scored two runs, paced the Angels to a 4-0 lead after three innings.

The shutout was the eighth of Zahn's major-league career, but only his first since he pitched a three-hitter against the A's two years ago.

"We haven't had a lot of success against them recently," he said. "I lost to them last year in April and they hit me pretty good."

Brian Downing also was an offensive star for the Angels, driving in two runs, with his second homer of the year and a sacrifice fly. The loser was Mike Norris, who was reached for five hits and four runs in 41-3 innings.

In the other AL game Wednesday night, the Minnesota Twins defeated the Seattle Mariners 7-5. The Kansas City-Baltimore game was postponed by cold weather.

In the National League, it was Atlanta 6, San Diego 4; Cincinnati 6, Chicago 2; Houston 3, St.

Louis 2 and Los Angeles 9, San Francisco 2.

Twins 7 Mariners 5

Jim Eisenreich's two-run single and Kent Hrbek's solo home run lifted Minnesota over Seattle. The single was Eisenreich's first major league hit and it keyed a five-run fourth inning. Hrbek smashed his first homer of the season in the fifth inning to cap the Twins' scoring and give them a 7-2 lead at that point.

Another Twins' rookie, designated hitter Randy Johnson, had two doubles and a single for his first major league hits.

A crowd of only 5,213 witnessed the Twins' victory at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome after a state-record audience of 52,279 saw the Mariners win 11-7 Tuesday night.

Jim Maler, Seattle's rookie first baseman, had his second homer of the season and now has six runs batted in.

UNCOVERING 'A NEW TRADITION' — The new electronic scoreboard at Wrigley Field in Chicago tells all Wednesday as grounds crew workers remove the remains of Monday's snowstorm from the outfield grass. The Cubs are scheduled to open their home season Friday against the Mets.

Caulkins claims 36th swim title

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Tracy Caulkins, on the verge of topping Johnny Weissmuller's record 36 individual national swimming titles, says her record indicates that women athletes have come a long way.

"It says a lot for women in sports that I broke a man's record," Caulkins said Wednesday night after winning the 200-yard backstroke, her 36th championship victory to match the legendary movie Tarzan's record set during the 1920s. "Women's swimming is really improving and I hope this helps."

"I've always wanted to be one of the best swimmers in the world," said the 19-year-old University of Florida freshman, who won her first national title in 1977.

Caulkins, who is swimming in the four-day United States Swimming Short Course Championships at Florida's O'Connell Center pool, said the possibility of breaking Weissmuller's record is not something she dwells upon.

"Maybe not until I retire from swimming and look back on it," she said. "I guess it is a milestone in swimming history."

Caulkins, competing with her hometown's Nashville Aquatic Club, swam the 200 backstroke in 1 minute, 57.77 seconds. That was short of her American record of 1:57.02, but better than Patty Gavin's 1:58.91 and Mary Wayte's 1:59.79.

She also is entered in the 200- and 400-yard individual medleys and the 100-yard breaststroke here. She holds American records in all three events and is considered the favorite in each race.

In other events Wednesday, Jeff Kostoff, a 16-year-old from Upland, Calif., set American and U.S. Open records with his 8:49.97 in the 1,000-yard freestyle, besting Brian Goodell's 8:52.45.

"I didn't know about the record but I thought I could win," said Kostoff, who emerged as a potential American distance threat going into the World Championships this summer.

Ironically, Goodell's mark was first declared a U.S. record on Wednesday, according to USS spokesman Randy Hart. He said Goodell hit the speed in 1979 while swimming for UCLA against Texas. At the time, USS did not count the 1,000 yarder as an event, and slow paperwork after it was acknowledged accounted for the lag in Goodell getting the recognition, Hart said.

Spurs defeat Kings

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — For a while there, it looked as though the San Antonio Spurs did not want to win the NBA's Midwest Division championship.

After leading the division all season, the Spurs suddenly went into a late-season swoon and suffered their longest losing streak of the year — four games — falling within easy reach of second-place Denver.

But the best therapy for losing is a win and, after Wednesday's 118-113 victory over Kansas City, the Spurs believe the worst is behind them.

"Everyone had us buried and had thrown the dirt on us," said Spurs coach Stan Albeck. "But our team kept its confidence and we've got the harness from around our necks. I hope the albatross has been lifted."

San Antonio beat the Kings partly due to Mike Mitchell's 40-point effort — taking up the slack from George Gervin — and partly because three Kansas City starters fouled out.

"My team gives a good effort all the time, every night," growled Kansas City coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "If a team doesn't come out playing hard against us they'll get beat. But foul trouble really hurt us tonight. Our entire front line (Leon Douglas, Reggie King and Reggie Johnson) fouled out."

San Antonio blew open a tight contest by scoring eight straight points over a two-minute span late in the fourth quarter, putting Kansas City out of the picture.

But Gervin, the leading scorer in the National Basketball Association, contributed only 14 points, spending much of the second half benched with four fouls. He was more concerned with the team's problems than his own, however.

Aguirre sparks Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Rookie Dallas forward Mark Aguirre scored 21 points to help his team snap a three-game Utah winning streak, including a late spurt where he personally outscored the Jazz 9-2.

So what did he want to talk about afterwards? His defense, of course.

Aguirre guarded Utah's Adrian Dantley, the third-leading scorer in the National Basketball Association this year, and held him to just 14 points in Wednesday's 123-109 Dallas victory, allowing him only two points in the first half.

That was in sharp contrast to the previous night when Dantley hit 40 points and led Utah past the Mavericks 129-114.

"I was so embarrassed after what happened last night at Utah," Aguirre said. "I talked to Allan Bristow before the game tonight and he helped me to acquire a style to play some good defense against Dantley."

"I thought they played a lot tougher tonight," said Dantley, who averages 30.5 points a game this season. "Every time I got the ball, I was swarmed."

The Mavericks enjoyed several big scoring spurts, hitting a 17-4 run in the first quarter and a 14-2 surge in the second to go with Aguirre's outburst in the fourth period.

Dallas took a 22-point lead at the half and Utah never got closer than 12 the rest of the way.

Rookie Jay Vincent led Dallas with 31 points.

"I think if they picked anyone else for rookie of the year, it would be a disrespect to the way Vincent has been playing," Aguirre said. "He's had a super year."

Darrell Griffith led Utah with 27 and rookie Danny Schayes added 22.

NL West: major league baseball preview

Will Reds turn red?

By The Associated Press

Once upon a time, you could find the team with the best record in the World Series. In recent years, the best record at least got you a spot in the championship series of the league you happened to be in.

Such will be the case this year if the Cincinnati Reds win the National League West, but all the best record in baseball — 66-42 — got them last season was a lot of heartache. Any resemblance between last year's Reds and this year's edition is purely coincidental.

The 1981 outfield of George Foster, Ken Griffey and Dave Collins calls New York home (Foster with the Mets, the others with the Yankees), third baseman Ray Knight works for the Houston Astros and Johnny Bench, once the best catcher, dropped the tools of ignorance to put his chest in front of ground balls at the hot corner.

Nevertheless, Manager John McNamara insists "we're a better team right now. ... The big improvement is going to be in our pitching. Tom Seaver, in my opinion, was the best pitcher in the National League last year and we will build the staff around him."

The others include Mario Soto, Frank Pastore and Bruce Berenyi, with Tom Hume, Jim Kern and Joe Price in the bullpen. McNamara also loves the strong arms behind the plate (Alex Trevino, who came from the Mets in the Foster trade) and in the outfield, where Clint Hurdle, Cesar Cedeno and Paul Householder are the names from left to right.

Besides Bench, the infield consists of Dave Concepcion at short, Ron Oester at second and Dan Driessen at first. McNamara says he will stak it up against anyone's defensively. He concedes that "some people have doubts about our power, and I'll agree that we won't have any one player who will hit as many home runs as Foster." Instead, he hopes everyone contributes to what he calls "collective power."

In Los Angeles, Manager Tom Lasorda says the world champion Dodgers "have neither the cause nor the time to be pomplacent ... we have every reason to believe we will be stronger this year."

The big change takes place in the infield, where the old gang which played together for a record nine seasons was broken up when second baseman Dave Lopes was shipped to Oakland. His replacement will be rookie Steve Sax, a .346 bat champ in the Texas League.

The rest of the quartet still finds Steve Garvey at first, Bill Russell at short and Ron Cey at third. If Russell has any more erratic tendencies, Mark Belanger and his Hall of Fame glove have signed on as a backup.

Dusty Baker and Pedro Guerrero will man two outfield spots, with Ken Landreaux or rookie Ron Roenicke in center. Mike Scioscia and Steve Yeager again will share the catching. Fernando Valenzuela, Jerry Reuss, Burt Hooton and Bob Welch are the top four starters and Steve Howe heads a young bullpen.

The last two seasons have been close but no cigar for the Houston Astros. The experts say their only weakness is power, but the Astros have outthundered the opposition in each of the last three years.

Manager Bill Virdon feels he will have a stronger club than last year's. His long suit is pitching — Nolan Ryan, Bob Knepper, Joe Niekro, Vern Kluhle, Don Sutton, Joe Sambito, etc.

The catching is handled by Alan Ashby and Luis Pujols. In the infield Art Howe is at first, Phil Garner at second, Craig Reynolds at short and Ray Knight at third. The outfield of Jose Cruz, Tony Scott and Terry Puhl "is equal to any in the league," says Virdon. He's looking for a spot for power-hitting Alan Kincely, a catcher.

The San Francisco Giants posted their first winning season since 1978. Manager Frank Robinson says they have "strong starting pitchers, a deep bullpen from both sides, aggressive young players at every position, power from both sides of the plate."

Robinson may be overstating it. The Giants got pitchers Rich Gale and Dan Schatzeder to go with Vida Blue, Al Holland, Greg Minton, Gary Lavelle and Fred Breining, but Doyle Alexander has worn out his welcome over a contract dispute. Other key newcomers include Reggie Smith at first base, Duane Kuiper at second and hotshot rookie Chili Davis in left field. The best of the holdovers are right fielder Jack Clark, third baseman Darrell Evans and shortstop Johnnie LeMaster.

The Atlanta Braves have a new manager in Joe Torre, but the team will bear a strong resemblance to previous Atlanta clubs. The nucleus consists of third baseman Bob Horner, center fielder Dale Murphy, first baseman Chris Chambliss, right fielder Claudell Washington, ageless knuckleballer Phil Niekro, plus relief ace Rick Camp. Torre has high hopes that rookie Steve Bedrosian can join the rotation.

The Braves should improve up the middle as catcher Bruce Benedict, second baseman Glenn Hubbard and shortstop Rafael Ramirez mature.

The Montreal Expos were coming off a last-place finish when Dick Williams became manager in 1977. Two years later, they were legitimate contenders. He says he sees "no reason why the Padres can't do the same thing." For 1982, San Diego's new chief only says they will "be a fundamentally sound team that will run a lot."

New shortstop Garry Templeton will get most of the headlines, but third baseman Luis Salazar and second baseman Juan Bonilla had solid seasons in 1981. Terry Kennedy is a fine young catcher and Gene Richards has a lock on left field. The rest of the outfield probably will consist of Sixto Lezcano, acquired from St. Louis, and Rupert Jones, who was among the league leaders in doubles. The pitching staff is wide open, although Juan Eichelberger, Chris Welsh and Rick Wise appear set, backed by bullpener Gary Lucas. Free agent John Montefusco has been a pleasant surprise in spring training.

Prediction: Los Angeles, Houston, Cincinnati, San Diego, Atlanta, San Francisco.

BORG RETURNS — Bjorn Borg is shown here in action in the Monte Carlo Open Tennis Tournament. The Swedish superstar won the match against Anriano Panatto of Italy in three sets.

Astros edge St. Louis on Niekro's pitching

FACE OF DUST — Houston Astros' centerfielder Tony Scott gets a face full of dust as he dives for home and a run in the sixth inning of the National League game at Houston Wednesday.

HOUSTON (AP) — St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog's idea of disarmament talks would be to ban Houston knuckleball specialist Joe Niekro and his brother Phil of the Atlanta Braves.

Herzog got another example of the devastating effects of Niekro's dippy-doodle knuckler Wednesday night when the Astros recovered with a 3-2 victory only hours after being bombarded 14-3 by the Cards in Tuesday night's opener. It was Niekro's seventh consecutive victory over the flailing Cards.

"That's what I don't like about Niekro and his brother, they don't walk anybody," Herzog said. "That's just unfair. They get it over the plate all the time."

Niekro walked one batter in eight and one-third innings on the mound and scattered seven hits. Niekro lost his shutout in the eighth on Lonnie Smith's single that scored David Green and left the game in the ninth after Darrell Porter parked his second homer of the season.

"I feel comfortable pitching in St. Louis and I feel comfortable pitching in the Astrodome," Niekro said, trying to explain his mastery of the Cardinals dating back to 1978. "It's a good feeling to beat a good hitting team like the Cardinals. We found out last night that they can hit."

The Astros and starting pitcher Nolan Ryan, embarrassed by the Cards' 18-hit attack Tuesday night, struck first in the second inning when Jose Cruz walked, stole second and scored on Tony Scott's double.

Two more runs scored in the sixth when Art Howe walked and went to second on Scott's single. Both runners reached home on Luis Pujols' double to the leftfield corner. Although third base coach Don Leppert waved for Scott to hold at third base, the fleet-footed centerfielder never slowed down, sliding head-first into home plate.

"Anytime the ball is down the line like that, I'm going to keep running and running," Scott said. "I just gambled on the play."

Scott's gamble turned out to be the winning margin after Niekro waivered in the ninth inning. "I didn't get tired but it's hard to complain when you've got relief pitching like we do," Niekro said. "I think I was just pressing a little bit and got behind the hitters."

Sambito came on to retire pinchhitters Tito Landrum and Mike Ramsey for his first save of the season.

"I hadn't been in any pressure situations in spring training and really it's not the same in spring training," Sambito said. "If you come through, fine, if you don't it doesn't make any difference."

About that time, Ryan shouldered his way through reporters to ask Sambito "Why didn't you save MY game last night?"

Bengal player arrested for jumping bond

HOUSTON (AP) — Don Bass, a wide receiver for the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League, was arrested for jumping bond on a theft-by-check charge, the Harris County sheriff's office said this week.

Bass, who made a key pass reception to help carry the Bengals to the Superbowl, was arrested Monday night on a warrant from Dallas County. He was freed later on a $3,000 bond.

A Dallas County sheriff's official said the warrant was issued on March 26 in connection with the forfeiture of a $1,500 bond that had been levied against Bass last year. The original bond was set on a charge of theft by check.

Bass is a former University of Houston football star and lives in Spring, a Houston suburb.

More than just 'goatropers and cowboys'

New cavalry soldiers live in two worlds

MERCEDES, Texas (AP) — As a bulger sounds "Charge," the blue-shirted mounted troops of the U.S. Cavalry gallop off behind their waving standards in a trail of dust.

The scene is not from an insurance company's television commercial or a western movie.

It is acted out several times a month by regular troops of the Army's only mounted cavalry platoon.

These 16 men stationed at Fort Hood in Central Texas have given up driving tanks and other modern assignments to don 1880s-style uniforms, sabers, Colt .45-caliber pistols and 1873-model Springfield carbine rifles.

"All these guys live in two worlds," said platoon commander Lt. John Touchton of North Wildwood, N.J. "They have to be soldiers of the 1880s Indian Wars period, plus they still must maintain their training for the Army in the 1980s."

Touchton and his specialty unit travel the country performing 20-minute shows of close-order drills, fancy shooting and saber wielding.

They appeared recently at the Rio Grande Valley Livestock Show here after joining a group of civilians on a 70-mile trail ride from Port Isabel.

A soldier must be permanently assigned to the 1st Cavalry at Fort Hood, have a clean military record and have his commander's permission before taking a riding test to join the platoon.

The horseback duty generally lasts one year. After that, members usually rejoin their old units.

Platoon members must pass skill tests during their year's service to show they have not forgotten their modern training.

When not on the road seven to eight months a year, the unit pulls duty at ceremonies, weddings and "hauling Santa Claus around" at Fort Hood.

Although they wear the full western uniforms only during shows, the men stand out from other soldiers at Fort Hood with their riding boots, black cowboy hats and black belts.

"You definitely get some stares," Touchton said. "People sometimes just look at me on post and don't even salute."

The unique uniforms and travel make the assignment more a hobby than a job, said several Army cowboys.

"It's a terrific feeling. We're the only ones at Fort Hood dressed like that," said Spec. 4 Clifford Riggs of San Diego, Calif. "I once had a colonel come up to me and say, 'You're out of uniform.'"

The platoon gets kidded about being "goatropers and cowboys."

"The truth of it is that the people saying that wish they could be in it," said Pvt. Gary Park of Buffalo, N.Y. "They treat you like a person here, not a soldier. They treat you with respect."

The men range in age from 18 to 38. Members have come from all 50 states. Many but not all grew up riding horses or working on ranches.

A private organization of former members and supporters, the 1st Cavalry Association, supplies the horses and much of the equipment. It costs $3,000 to outfit one man and his horse, estimated Sgt. Ray Turner of Lampasas.

CALVARY'S COMIN' — Sgt. Ray Turner barks orders at far left for members of the Army's 1st Cavalry horse platoon from Fort Hood. The unit is the only horse-mounted

The sabers are authentic, dating to between 1861 to 1864. Many of the rifles also were originally issued in the 19th Century and later found among collections or donated by individuals.

Some of the saddles date from between 1900 to 1930 but the wood is weakening and reproductions are replacing them.

Saddle bags and leather gear are made at the Texas prison in Huntsville according to original specifications. Horses must be 15 hands tall and dark with a minimum of white markings.

platoon in the modern Army, keeping the Old West spirit alive with demonstrations around the country.

The men usually wear a five-button wool shirt over riding britches — the daily uniform of the Old West troopers. A five-button dress coat is issued for formal occasions.

Gloves, bandanas and saddle blankets complete the picture. Two men also ride a mule-drawn 1851 Studebaker wagon.

In the last year, the unit has had an 80 percent turnover. The new recruits say they are too busy learning the routine to have history lessons on their unit's past. The platoon has given up to 15 riding tests a day at Fort Hood to soldiers anxious to join.

The group rode in President Reagan's inaugural parade, the 1981 Cotton Bowl parade. It also went on a special trek to Valley Forge, Pa., for the 1976 bicentennial.

Spectators usually seem surprised to see soldiers on horseback.

"A lot of people ask us if we're with that insurance company," said Pvt. Lance Hallman of Fort Worth. "We tell them those were the Hollywood boys."

The Army had an estimated 3,500 horses in 1935 before it phased out the mounted cavalry at the start of World War II. The 1st Cavalry was headquartered at Fort Bliss, outside El Paso, when it shipped out to the Pacific in 1941.

In 1971, the 1st Cavalry returned from Vietnam to Fort Hood and the horse platoon was organized.

During their travels, the modern cavalry troops have met many soldiers from earlier regiments, including one who said he rode in 1915 with Gen. John "Blackjack" Pershing against Pancho Villa, Touchton said.

Sgt. Barbara McArthur, one of four truckdrivers, is the only female soldier assigned to the unit. She does not ride in the shows but is in charge of the convoy of two horse trailers, an equipment trailer, flatbed trailer for the mule wagon, back-up truck, a pickup and several sedans.

"The guys were a little leery of me at first," said the Kiel, Wis., native. "I was a little leery too because I didn't know what to expect. I had never heard of the horse platoon until a truck driving position opened."

It takes up to three hours to get ready for each show by polishing the gear and grooming the horses.

The group charges into the arena with hoots and hollers as Touchton reads a program over a loudspeaker.

A tape recorder has replaced a live bugler.

After several precision riding drills, the men shoot out balloons while at a gallop in a marksmanship display with both pistols and rifles.

Others charge a series of sandbag targets with sabers. Without stopping their mounts, two riders simultaneously "rescue" two downed colleagues on foot.

When it's all over, many present-day troopers are thankful they can get in a car and ride to the next show.

"I wonder how it was to ride across the desert," mused Hallman. "I don't see how them old boys could take it."

Proposal for stereo AM radio creates confusion

DALLAS (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission's decision to authorize stereo broadcasts by AM radio stations is creating tremendous confusion — and concern — among the nation's broadcasters.

More than 1,000 broadcasters crowded into a ballroom here late Tuesday during the annual National Association of Broadcasters convention for the first extended debate on the issue since the FCC's March 4 decision.

The problem is the FCC's refusal to select one of five competing stereo systems to become the industry's standard. Instead, the commission decided after five years of study to leave the selection "to the marketplace."

However, federal antitrust laws prohibit broadcasters from sitting down together and picking a system. And to make matters worse, all five systems are incompatible.

That means if a broadcaster in one city selects one system and a second in the same city selects another, consumers would have to buy two different receivers to listen to both signals in stereo.

The exhibit floor at this 60th annual NAB convention has thus become a battleground for the AM stereo developers, each plugging his system as superior, touting sales figures like box scores and courting the manufacturers of radio receivers to line up on their side.

To make matters worse, broadcasters are afraid the service will never materialize if a decision isn't reached quickly or that the Japanese, who dominate the consumer electronics industry, will dictate a choice.

Finally, some broadcasters doubt whether the AM radio industry needs stereo even though FM radio, with its stereo capability solidly established in the public's mind, has surpassed AM in the size of its audience.

"If you pick the wrong system, my opinion is that AM radio as it now exists is doomed," Leonard Kahn, an engineer and pioneer developer of one of the five systems, told the NAB crowd Tuesday.

"AM radio is too forward looking to become the only one-channel (monaural) system left," agreed R. McCarthy of Magnavox. "This will breathe new life into our oldest broadcast service."

"The death of AM radio has been predicted for a long time and I don't think it's ever going to die," countered an unidentified broadcaster who rose to question Tuesday's panel.

Besides Magnavox and Kahn, Belar Electronics, the Harris Corp. and Motorola have developed competing AM stereo systems.

Pioneer Electronics of America, one of the largest receiver manufacturers and a subsidiary of Pioneer Electronics Corp. of Japan, is also backing Magnavox.

WHAT HATH NATURE WROUGHT? — Andrew Stumler, of Starlight, Ind., surveys acres of strawberries that have been threatened by the recent cold snap in the Ohio Valley. Many growers, including Stumler, used irrigation to cover the plants with a protective coating of ice to keep the plants from freezing. So far, the tactic seems to have worked.

Reagan's economic advisor Murray Weidenbaum is eclectic and conservative

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preachers of fashionable economic doctrines — monetarism, supply-side theory, even the lure of the gold standard — abound in the Reagan administration, with each seeking to make a convert of the president.

But the man Ronald Reagan has anointed as his high priest of economics worships at none of these altars.

Murray L. Weidenbaum, the affable, down-to-earth chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, calls himself a plain, old-fashioned conservative economist.

Some observers believe Weidenbaum has less influence in the Oval Office than his predecessors because he often finds himself selling policies shaped personally by the president. That hasn't seemed to faze him. He has taken to his high-profile job with unabashed enthusiasm and constant delight.

Although Weidenbaum repeatedly has been on the losing side of economic decisions by a president who calls his own shots on taxes, spending and budget deficits, his loyalty to Reagan and his zeal in promoting Reaganomics have not diminished.

He does not count himself among the original suppliers who constructed Reagan's three-year tax cut plan and think there is too much fretting over large federal deficits.

He does not consider himself one of the new-style "monetarists" who predicted interest rates would have plummeted by now because of public convictions that the government was serious about eliminating inflation through tight limits on the growth of the nation's money supply.

He does not agree with the "gold bugs" who argue that the only true way to eliminate inflation is to go back half a century to the days when a dollar could be traded for a fixed amount of gold.

Weidenbaum is just a conservative and an "eclectic" who has made peace with the different economic strands that have been woven into the president's program of tax cuts, tight money and record deficits.

"Saying I'm a conservative economist means I've been concerned with the idea of reducing the tax burdens on the private sector to free resources and provide greater incentives for production, work, saving and investment," he told a reporter.

"That's the heart of supply-side economics, so that's why I feel very comfortable."

Weidenbaum, who now has the uncomfortable task of defending the record budget deficits Reagan is proposing, says he also was convinced a year ago that the president could achieve his now-abandoned goal of balancing the budget while cutting taxes and boosting defense spending at the same time.

"If I didn't think it could be done, if I didn't think it would be done, I wouldn't have taken the job," says Weidenbaum, adding: "I've always been concerned about deficits."

A 52-year-old New Yorker, Weidenbaum was one of the last Cabinet-level appointees named by Reagan for a job that was being downgraded in importance, according to reports at the time. By the time Weidenbaum was aboard, the main elements of Reagan's economic program already were in place.

One of the principal tasks of the Council of Economic Advisers is to prepare official administration economic forecasts. Weidenbaum notes with pride his role in shaping these more realistically and credibly than preliminary forecasts before his arrival.

A forecast early in 1981 that was widely criticized as being too rosy about the prospects for strong economic growth and falling inflation in 1982 was even more optimistic until Weidenbaum toned it down, aides say.

A new forecast in February maintains the administration's upbeat view of the economic future but again avoids the more optimistic projections that administration supply-siders envision.

"I've avoided saying in public what the different positions of different people were," Weidenbaum says, "but yes, frankly, it's been a task of reconciling a variety of viewpoints."

Before assuming his present job, Weidenbaum was best known for his work on the economic cost of federal regulation of business. It was this research at Washington University in St. Louis, where Weidenbaum is on leave, that first attracted Reagan's attention in 1976 and led to his appointment as chairman of a regulatory advisory task force during the 1980 presidential campaign.

"Honest broker" is the way one aide describes the low-keyed, amiable Weidenbaum, who has at times been overshadowed by his two chief economic partners, Budget Director David Stockman and Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan.

Weidenbaum is aware of occasional grumbles from some administration officials that he isn't a forceful enough policy advocate, but he rejects that idea.

"I've taken strong positions and advocated as forcefully as I could," he says. "It's not my style to pound the table and shout. I guess it's the teacher in me. You want to persuade, you don't want to beat someone into intellectual submission."

Weidenbaum says he argued as strongly as other senior White House officials over the winter on the need to lower projected deficits by seeking higher tax revenue and cutting the Pentagon's budget. Reagan ultimately rejected that advice, choosing a record-deficit budget over defense cuts and personal tax increases.

Weidenbaum places a high premium on getting along with his colleagues. "I pride myself on having very good one-to-one relations with Don Regan, with Dave Stockman, with (Federal Reserve Chairman) Paul Volcker, for that matter. That doesn't mean I don't have disagreements with reach of those people... but I work at having good relationships. I think it's important."

Recent snowstorms halt spring planting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rain, snow and cold over vast areas in recent days have stalled spring planting and other field work in much of the nation, says the government's Joint Agricultural Weather Facility.

But in some other parts of the world, including sections of the Soviet Union's winter grain area, a lack of moisture is raising concerns about 1982 harvests. China is another country where dry conditions are causing worry.

Officials said Tuesday the "intense storm" systems during the week of March 29 through April 4 caught U.S. farmers in the midst of planting corn, sorghum, cotton and other crops.

Generally, however, the winter wheat crop was "in mostly good condition" as the April storms developed, the report said.

Kansas winter wheat showed good growth and started to joint in the south-central and southeastern parts of the state, the report said.

Oklahoma wheat was reported in "good to excellent" condition, and the Texas crop was rated in "fair to good" shape. Nebraska and Montana prospects also were said to be fair to good.

Corn planting moved northward in Virginia and began in Kansas, the report said. "Progress ranged from 16 percent completion in North Carolina to 79 percent completion in Georgia."

Cotton planting gained momentum in Arizona and Texas and began to get under way in New Mexico, South Carolina and Georgia. Some cotton was planted in California but wet weather slowed field work and put growers behind schedule.

Tobacco transplanting was 30 percent finished in Georgia and 36 percent complete in South Carolina, the report said. In other areas, producers "seeded and cared for beds. Plants were in fair to good condition."

Rice planting was reported 3 percent finished in Mississippi, 14 percent in Louisiana and 31 percent complete in Texas by April 4.

He traded football for animals

Former Texas halfback adapted when cheering stopped

DALLAS (AP) — Ted Koy says he always knew the cheers would die, the crowd turn away, the spotlight shine on someone else. But he didn't know what it would mean when people stopped telling him what to do.

From his earliest days he was a team player, a good sport, a follower of the rules and the other big little boys who eventually play for pay. But one day his life's work ended: he couldn't play any more. And though he had long prepared for that day — and he would, in fact, handle it better than most — he hasn't forgotten his disappointment.

Football was what Koy did. It was what all the men in his family had done. When he's asked about sports now, he says he thinks they're good for children, because athletics "give a kid a way to burn up energy, so he won't sit around being idle."

But at one time, the game was anything but child's play. It did, however, keep him somehow childish. "All you need to do as an athlete is put on your uniform and go out and perform," Koy said. "As an athlete — especially in today's society — you're very mature, very accomplished in athletics, but outside of that you're pampered."

"It makes you helpless, in a way. You're like a big queen in the bee hive, and all the workers are just moving you around. Everything's planned for you. You don't have to do a thing but get dressed and get undressed and hang onto your itinerary."

Koy started playing serious football in the fifth grade in Bellville, a little southeast Texas town on the fringes of the Hill Country and the skirt of the ### Coastal Plain.

His childhood hero was a veterinarian named James Lamp. But Koy was the baby in a family of sportsmen. His father, Ernie, was three times an All Southwest Conference running back at the University of Texas in the 1930s, and played major league baseball for more than a decade after.

Ernie Koy Jr., five years older than Ted, was a standout running back for the Longhorns, and played pro football six years for the New York Giants.

"Ted wanted to follow along. In fact, here at the house when he was young, sports was about all you'd hear," Koy said. "The family always ate together — breakfast, dinner and supper — and when the meal was over we'd huddle, and that's what we talked about."

"Ernie never did push the boys into sports," Jane Koy said. "He kept saying it was up to them." "But we were living in a small town, and it's a football-oriented town, so I guess it was just natural," Koy said.

And naturally, Ted played. He was a high school star, and the football powerhouses sent their coaches down to Bellville to court him. Like his father and brother, Koy chose the University of Texas.

His big year was 1969. He was team captain then, a senior.

That October, over 15,000 people, mostly students, gathered on the Capitol grounds, in Austin to protest the war in Vietnam.

In November, busloads of UT students joined hundreds of thousands of others in a Washington march.

In December, Koy played in the "game of the century" against Arkansas, and afterwards stood next to Richard Nixon to receive the plaque naming Texas the president's No. 1 team.

A Dallas sportswriter used Koy as a metaphor for all the good boys who wore short hair and were public patriots, despite the fact that the Koy fought only a 100-yard war and was drafted only by the NFL.

The events that tortured the country at that time left Koy untouched.

"I don't think I was directly affected by the unrest," Koy said. "There might have been some members of the team who felt the way the other protesters did, but you just don't have time to get into it."

Koy was the Oakland Raiders' No. 2 draft pick in 1970. But it was soon obvious that he wasn't quite good enough.

In California, he made the cut but not much else. He was no longer a running back, and the next year he was traded to the Buffalo Bills.

There, he knocked around the lineup, working as tight end, strong safety, linebacker, and O.J. Simpson's backup man. He ended up most often on the suicide squad.

Koy knew he was on the way out. He wasn't happy about it, but he wasn't particularly surprised.

"My father had been a star, and he saw all the glamor fade, the spotlight fade, and he always said, 'You can't eat the ball when you get through with it,'" Koy said.

"As a pro, football is just a business. You still enjoy the game, but it's a matter of your services being rendered. And if someone else can render those services then you're out of a job," he said. "It's very easy to realize that the profession is really temporary. Every year you see some of the old greats being thrown by the wayside."

"And then what's sad is not so much the superstars, but the guys who were kind of marginal players. ... The typical feeling is, once a player's cut and he's getting old, that he doesn't really believe it."

"They feel that they've got one more year or one more half year in them, and that they can latch on to some other team."

But not Koy. In Buffalo, he had begun to save money to prepare for the time when he would be unemployed. At age 24, he was not, his wife Lynn Alderson Koy recalls, her idea of a professional football player.

"The fellow who fixed us up — it was a blind date — asked me if I wanted to go out with Ted and I said no, I didn't want to go out with a pro football player. I thought he would be the stereotype everyone has: fast lane, thinking he's great," she said. "But when I met him, he was so much different from the college boys I was dating. He was so stable, so mature."

They were engaged after about 15 dates, Koy said.

"Ted knew what he wanted to do, I think, is what made him so different. He had his goals," Mrs. Koy said.

Returning to the passion of his very early boyhood, his pre-football days, Koy decided to become a veterinarian.

FROM FOOTBALL TO VETERINARY MEDICINE — Dr. Ted Koy treats a dog in his Dallas office. Koy, who was the Oakland Raiders' No. 2 draft choice in 1970, went back to school in anticipation of the day he would no longer play football.

Pineapple pesticide found in mother's milk

HONOLULU (AP) — Tests on samples of mothers' milk revealed unusually high levels of a pineapple pesticide that contaminated some of Honolulu's milk and ice cream supplies, health officials say.

The officials said the levels of heptachlor, a pineapple pesticide, do not pose a danger to mothers or their infants, and recommended continued breastfeeding. Health officials made similar assurances after four milk recalls last month and Monday's ice cream recall.

"The executive committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics, Hawaii Chapter, and pediatricians of the Board of the (Hawaii Mother's) Milk Bank have stated that the value of continuing breastfeeding outweighs any known health hazard," Charles Clark, chief of the Department of Health, said Tuesday.

Heptachlor, used to control ants on pineapple fields, entered the food chain after pineapple leaves were chopped up to make feed for dairy cattle. It has been linked with cancer and can cause liver and kidney damage in laboratory animals.

Leland Parks, head of the University of Hawaii's Pesticide Hazards Assessment Project, said the tests were performed on six samples of mother's milk collected in February and March. The samples were taken from women who had consumed large amounts of cow's milk.

The tests showed levels of heptachlor ranging from 0.12 parts per million to 0.33 parts per million. The cow's milk and ice cream recalls were ordered when heptachlor levels reached 0.3 parts per million, the highest amount judged acceptable by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Groups deny Denton endorsement statements

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — The heads of several organizations have accused state treasurer candidate Lane Denton of claiming falsely that he had been endorsed by the groups.

"Neither the Texas State Teachers Association nor the Texas Educators Political Action Committee has endorsed Lane Denton for state treasurer," said Charles Donaldson, TSTA executive secretary.

The ISTA and nine other organizations are depicted on material passed out by the Denton campaign as endorsing the former Waco legislator.

Donaldson said he became aware of the material from an article published Saturday in the Valley Morning Star in which the alleged endorsements were described.

Denton's Waco campaign office said today the candidate could not be reached immediately for comment on the charges.

Other organizations mentioned in the sheet which have denied endorsing Denton include the Texas Farmers Union, the Texas Trial Lawyers Association and the Texas Classroom Teachers Association.

He said Denton's campaign staff sent him a statement on a blank sheet of paper for his signature.

'The Centurion: An Easter Cantata' scheduled tonight

"The Centurion: An Easter Cantata," by Jack Coleman will be performed by the Chancel Choir of First Christian Church on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The cantata is a musical based on the story of the Roman Centurion at the foot of the cross of Jesus. The Roman leader is reported to have proclaimed that the dying Jesus was indeed the Christ, the Son of God.

The performance will begin after a baptismal service in the sanctuary, located on 10th and Goliad. Ms. Sharon Andrews, the Music Director of the church, will be directing. At the organ will be Mrs. Delores Bash and the pianist will be Mrs. Virginia Martin. The public is invited and there will be a nursery provided for children four years old or younger.

Oscars, 'Happy Days' spinoff boosting ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC won the networks' prime-time ratings competition for the second straight week, thanks in large measure to the Academy Awards show and a sitcom spinoff, "Joanie Loves Chachi," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

But CBS, winner in the weekly competition this season 17 times to eight for ABC, continues to lead for the period that began Oct. 5 by a full point, and two CBS shows, "Dallas" and "60 Minutes," remain the TV year's top-rated programs.

The rating for ABC in the week ending April 4 was 18.4 to 17 for CBS and 14.6 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 18.4 percent of the nation's homes with television were watching ABC.

The Oscar competition, a perennial hit with viewers, ended a three-week run by "Dallas" as the No. 1 show in prime time. The rating for the ABC broadcast — up against some stiff competition — was 33.6, the highest for any winning, non-sports program this season.

Nielsen says that means in an average minute of the show, 33.6 percent of the country's TV-equipped homes were tuned to the Oscars.

"Dallas" was runnerup with "60 Minutes" third, and CBS' broadcast of the NCAA basketball championship game between North Carolina and Georgetown universities, on at the same time as the Academy Awards, finished 12th in the ratings, with a 21.5 score.

ABC and CBS each had five of the week's Top 10 programs, and each network had a new series in that select group ABC's spinoff from "Happy Days," "Joanie Loves Chachi," was sixth, and CBS' "Falcon Crest," eighth.

Other programs introduced by the networks this spring were at best moderately successful. "T.J. Hooker" on ABC tied for 32nd, CBS' "Cagney and Lacey" finished in a tie for 45th, ABC's "Phoenix" tied for 47th, and "Baker's Dozen" on CBS was No. 58.

"Facts of Life" was NBC's top-rated show, tied for 17th place with ABC's "Love Boat," but the network had two movies in the week's Top 20 — "Meatballs" 18th and "Wild Horse Hank" 19th.

NBC had three of the week's five lowest-rated programs, starting with No. 65 "One of the Boys" and followed by "Chicago Story" and a movie, "Let's Do It Again." A CBS News special was No. 68, and "Love at First Sight," also from CBS, finished 69th.

Here are the week's 10 highest rated programs:

The Academy Awards show, with a rating of 33.6 representing 27.5 million homes, ABC, "Dallas," 29.1 or 23.8 million, and "60 Minutes," 25.6 or 21 million, both CBS, "Three's Company," 25.1 or 20.6 million, "Too Close for Comfort," 24.6 or 20.1 million, "Joanie Loves Chachi," 23.5 or 19.2 million, and "Hart to Hart," 22.7 or 18.6 million, all ABC, and "Falcon Crest" and "Dukes of Hazzard," both 22.2 or 18.2 million, and "Magnum P.I.," 22.1 or 18.1 million, all CBS.

'Smurfs' strike gold for NBC

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the best moves Fred Silverman ever made for NBC were to stick with "Hill Street Blues" and trust his daughter's judgment about "The Smurfs."

Tonight Hill Street's men in blue share NBC's prime-time lineup with those cuddly little creatures in light blue. "The Smurfs," a phenomenal ratings success on Saturday morning, have earned a chance to stay up late — along with young viewers on Easter recess — in "The Smurf Springtime Special."

The Smurfs, created by Belgian cartoonist Pierre Culliford in 1958, became a merchandising hit, and it was in this capacity that they were introduced to Silverman when he was president of NBC.

He saw his daughter playing with the little figures at a checkout counter. When she said she had colonies of Smurfs at home, he commissioned animators Hanna-Barbera to make them TV stars.

At the time, NBC's Saturday morning schedule was faring in third place, like most of the network's programs. But "The Smurfs" became an instant hit. It's the top-rated children's program, leading NBC's Saturday morning lineup to first place on several occasions.

On March 27, "The Smurfs" recorded a 9.6 rating (about 10 percent of all TV homes), which is higher than some of NBC's Saturday night shows. It also drew a "Dallas"-like 44 share of the audience watching TV for the 8:30-9:30 a.m. EST period.

The success of "The Smurfs" was one of the factors in persuading NBC to scrap plans to expand

"Today" to Saturday. It's also expected to influence children's cartoons on all the networks.

Lucy Johnson, in charge of NBC's daytime schedule, says the development boards are filled with soft, warm colorful cartoon characters stressing comedy-adventure.

Ms. Johnson considers "The Smurfs" redeeming children's entertainment. "It reinforces family and group relationships."
Peggy Charren, head of Action for Children's Television, questions NBC's definition of family.

Juvenile Probation Board to meet Annual Girl Scout Council meeting held

A meeting of the Juvenile Probation Board has been called for next Tuesday in Carole Hunter's office, 603 Periman Building.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss the hiring of a juvenile probation officer.

Mrs. Hunter said she has "no authority" to call a meeting because she is "only a member of the selection committee," but she said she and Bobby Fuller had decided to call a meeting anyway.

"I certainly have not wanted to drag our feet on this," Mrs. Hunter said, adding that the selection committee had been ready with its recommendations two weeks after the board's last meeting on Jan. 11. "I can't meet by myself," Mrs. Hunter said.

She said she felt "hamstrung" because she hadn't felt she had the authority to call a meeting. "I've made every request (to board chairman Bill Tune) to have the meeting, Lynn Hise has been requesting a meeting, Fuller has requested a meeting."

She said the "biggest problem is that we did agree that we would have all seven board members at the meeting."

She said it was her understanding Tune was supposed to call the meeting, but that "the out Judge Tune has" is that all seven members have not been able to get together at one time.

Mrs. Hunter said she is concerned that it appears the selection committee was dragging its feet in the matter.

"I would like for it to be known that the selection committee worked with great haste ... we worked day and night so that we could present our three candidates" within two weeks after the Jan. 11 board meeting. She said she did not understand why the meeting had not been called yet.

Several area members of the West Texas Girl Scout Council attended the 1982 Annual Meeting of the Council held March 27 at Briarstone Manor in Abilene. The revised Council Bylaws were adopted by the voting delegates during the meeting.

Seven members-at-large were elected to the board of directors for a three year term. Among them were Bill Bradford and David Gomez, both of Big Spring. Mrs. Monte Jones, Colorado City, and the Rev. Carroll Kohl, Big Spring, were elected to serve on the board nominating committee from Jan. 1, 1982 to Jan., 1985.

Special guests at the Annual Awards Luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grable, executive director of Abilene United Way, and Don Knecht, executive director of Chisholm Trail Boy Scout Council. A Boy Scout certificate was presented by Knecht to the West Texas Girl Scout Council in appreciation for the use of Camp Booth Oaks for a wood badge training course for West Texas Boy Scout Leaders in 1981.

Representing the program services committee, Bradford presented awards and recognitions to the four areas of West Texas Girl Scout Council. More than sixty members were awarded tenure pins for five, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 35 years of Girl Scout membership.

Awards and recognitions for Area IV of the West Texas Girl Scout Council are as follows: Mrs. Judy Staggs, Ackerly, director of Junior Badge Weekend; Mrs. Eunice Thixton, Big Spring, day camp director; and Mrs. Brownie Roberts, Lamesa, day camp director. Each were awarded plaques.

Tenure pins for five-years were awarded to Medina Corwin, JoAnna Hamilton, Shannon Phillips, Robin York, Tammy Marshall, Laura Ainsworth, Patricia Pride, Melinda Hernandez, Ruth Oliver, Trisha Murley, Dana Kohl, Sherry Marlow, Yvette Garcia, Rebecca Thompson, Delia Ortiz, Barbara Smallwood, Jennifer Poe, Rebecca Read and Kristie Allen, all of Big Spring.

YMCA executives honored

By CLIFF COAN Staff Writer

A Tuesday afternoon reception honored both outgoing Big Spring YMCA director Bob Cappel and incoming director Wallace Gill.

Gill, a 32-year veteran with the YMCA, was named to fill Cappel's position after Cappel announced his intention to "try something new."

"I've been in the YMCA business for 14 years," said Cappel. "I felt it was time for a change away from the Y to see if I'd like it."

Gill and his wife Jane are natives of Kentucky, but, as he added jokingly, "Texans by choice."

A graduate of Western Kentucky University, Gill is currently executive director of the Palestine YMCA. He also served as director of the Wichita, Kansas and Victoria YMCAs.

Gill, who has been a YMCA director for 19 years, said his priorities as executive director of the Big Spring Y would be "to increase membership and work with the board of directors on building improvements and renovations."

"Probably the biggest function of a Y now is in the area of personal fitness," Gill said, "with the need people see to stay healthy and in good shape."

Gill's appointment won't officially take effect until May 15, he said. Postmaster Frank Hardesty, president of the YMCA board of directors, said the interim period would be filled by the board of directors. Officers of the board include city manager Don Davis, vice president, James Welch, treasurer and Sherry Bordofoke, secretary.

"We're looking forward to coming to Big Spring," said the 55-year old Gill. "It's a little different from East Texas, but it's the people that count."

Smith Youth Talent Extravaganza booked

The Bob C. Smith Youth Talent Extravaganza has been scheduled for Saturday, April 17 at 7 p.m. in the Howard College Auditorium. All Howard County youth between the ages of 5-20 are invited to participate on an individual basis. The show is sponsored entirely by Bob C. Smith.

There is no entry fee and awards will be given to all who participate. Only first place winners of each age group will be announced to the audience.

"We are always hearing bad things about our youth like drug abuse and crime, but that is only a small portion of our youth," Smith said. "Let's take into consideration our talented youth who should be uplifted and praised for their many abilities and accomplishments."

For those interested in the competition information can be had by calling talent coordinators Jerrie Dunbar at 263-4183 or Ann Weaver at 267-6457. Smith is also available at 267-6256.

There will be no admission charge for the public.

"I urge each citizen of our county to attend this event and support the youth of Howard County," Smith said.

Retired employees to meet

All retired federal employees and interested guests are invited to attend the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Chapter 1095 meeting Thursday. The meeting will begin at Kentwood Older Adults Activities Center. The meeting will consist of fellowship, refreshments, business meeting and a program.

Recommendation on student suspension to draw study

The Big Spring Independent School District Board will meet Thursday to hear several pieces of new business.

The board will review an administrative recommendation on student suspension, and discuss Title I budget amendments.

Superintendent Lynn Hise will give reports on attendance and several miscellaneous items.

Superintendent for Business Donn Crockett will present an analysis of tax department collections and report on delinquent taxes.

In other business the board will canvass the recent school trustee election and reorganize the board.

Deputies arrest accused bandit

Howard County deputies arrested Timothy Eugene Hatfield this morning for the aggravated robbery of Joe's Country Store on March 27. Hatfield, 22, of 1012 East 21st Street, is being held in county jail on $15,000 bond for the robbery charge and $1,500 for a second misdemeanor charge of worthless checks. Bond for Hatfield was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

The Saturday night robbery Hatfield is charged with involved the use of a knife to seal an undetermined amount of cash from the store on Highway 87. According to the Deputy Sheriff Carl Thurman who investigated the robbery, a thief "hung around the store for about 10 minutes and then grabbed the clerk and held a knife to his throat." The clerk, identified as Paul Stovall, then opened the cash register and the culprit made his escape. The 8:20 p.m. robbery was made by a man wearing sunglasses and an orange ski cap, according to sheriff deputies' reports. Hatfield was arrested by Deputies Bill Shankles and Eddie Owen.

Drugs pose problems for older adult

Coping with special risks that drugs pose for older adults takes care and understanding, cautions Judith Warren, a family life education specialist on aging.

Older people themselves need to assume greater responsibility in their own health care and drug management. Warren is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To help older people cope with their special risks, the National Institute on Drug Abuse has recommended several steps they can take:

Give clear information to your doctor. Tell your doctor (s) about all the medicines you are taking.

Also, alert him or her to any allergies or known drug sensitivity you have.

Consider making a written list of your medicines before you visit the doctor.

Get clear information from your doctor.

It is your right to ask for — and your doctor's responsibility to give you — information about prescribed medications.

Make a list of any questions you have — such as those below — and ask them.

The information you get could save you headaches and dollars.

- What is the drug's name?
- Why am I taking it? What's it for?
- When and how often should I take it?
- Under what conditions and why should I take it? At meals, with certain foods or drinks?
- Should I avoid certain things, such as driving?
- How long should I take the medicine?
- What are the possible side effects?
- When should I report any problems?

For example, one side effect may be a headache, but if the headache is a very bad one, the doctor probably needs to know.

• How should the drug be stored? In the refrigerator or away from heat, for example.

If you don't get all the information written down while you're with the doctor, stop in the waiting room and finish up the answers before you leave.

That way, they will still be fresh in your mind. Other safety steps to take are just as important as giving and getting clear information. Don't stop taking a drug without asking your doctor — even if you feel OK.

Don't take drugs prescribed for anyone else, and don't share your medications with others.

Keep your medicines in their original bottles. Throw out old or expired medicines.

Finally, remember these "musts" above all: follow the doctor's instructions and alert your doctor to any problems you have. When in doubt, ask.

With medicines, it's better to play it safe.

Insecure girl gets support

DEAR ABBY: You really blew it to "Underdeveloped," the unhappy, flat-chested eighth-grader who wanted a bra but whose mother wouldn't get her one until she had something to put in it. You told her to be patient — maybe she was a late bloomer.

Girls that age have enough to deal with without feeling inadequate because they're flat-chested. As a former flatso myself, I know how that girl felt. Fortunately, my mother was more understanding than hers. She bought me a padded bra, and it made all the difference in the world to me. Instead of feeling ashamed of my underdeveloped body, it gave me a lot of self-confidence.

I'm still a flatso underneath it all, but I've been wearing a padded bra for 25 years and I feel good about myself.

NO BOOBS IN BURLINGAME
DEAR NO: Let's hear it from a lady lawyer who accepted Mother Nature's verdict with grace:

DEAR ABBY: This letter is addressed to "Underdeveloped": Your letter to Dear Abby struck a responsive chord in me because I had the same problem at your age. My mother bought me a bra, and everyone made fun of me because it kept slipping up. (I had nothing to fill it.) Added to that, I was extremely tall and skinny. I was called "Stringbean" and "Telephone Pole." I, too, wanted to cry often.

MADE THE BEST OF WHAT I HAD IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: Someone told me that a recent poll was taken to find out which professionals and business people are the most respected, and real estate dealers were way down at the bottom of the list. Can you check this out for me?

SELLS REAL ESTATE IN DALLAS

DEAR SELLS: The Gallup Poll listed the following 24 professions in order of their reputation for honesty, integrity and ethical standards. The results of the poll showed that ministers were most respected, followed by pharmacists, then dentists, next M.D.s, engineers, college professors, policemen, bankers, TV reporters, newspaper reporters, funeral directors, lawyers, stockbrokers, senators, business executives, building contractors, congressmen, local officeholders, real estate dealers, union leaders, state officeholders, insurance salesmen, advertising practitioners and auto salesman. Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Planners OK subdivision, lumber company

By BILL ELDER
Staff Writer

The housing industry in Big Spring got a double boost yesterday afternoon when the city's Planning and Zoning Board approved a 30-lot subdivision as well as a new store which will sell lumber and other building materials.

The subdivision and the lumber shop, both to be located on the south side of town, need ultimate approval from the city council — but as far as clearing hurdles at the planning board level, the sailing was clear.

Meeting at Big Spring City Hall in the council chambers at 5:15 p.m., the board approved with little discussion the final plan presented by Cunningham Development Corp. to develop a 30-lot subdivision of single-family homes on Craigmont in Coronado Hills.

Representing Cunningham, Lanny Hamby unveiled the plans for the subdivision, which had earned preliminary approval at the March planning and zoning board meeting.

HAMBY TOLD the board Cunningham had made the one change requested by the board: extending by 10 feet the utility easement on the north side of Craigmont. The board approved the plan, with member Walter Wheat dissenting.

The next item of business paved the way for the third and final item on the board's agenda. After passing an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing sales of building materials in light commercial districts as long as the proper permit is obtained, the board then granted an Odessa company a permit to build a lumber firm on a three-acre tract across F.M. 700 from Big Spring Mall. The property is zoned for light commercial business.

When last publicly discussed, the amendment was in the hands of the Big Spring City Council, which was scratching heads and trying to figure out how to let small lumber companies open for business in light commercial districts without at the same time allowing larger lumber yards incompatible with their surroundings to move in to light commercial areas.

The council had passed on preliminary vote a proposal submitted by legal advisor Elliott Mitchell which devised a formula for determining whether a seller of building materials is doing retail or wholesale business. Retailers, the council proposed, would be allowed to sell building materials in light commercial zones.

BUT AFTER THINKING about the formula and how hard it would be to enforce, city officials scrapped it and decided to allow companies selling building materials in general to open for business in light commercial districts — but with one provision, that the company go before the council and seek a specific use permit.

"We decided the best way to control where (the companies) are placed is by issuing specific use permits," Public Works Director Tom Decell told the board prior to its vote.

That still left a problem of the department stores which had been selling building materials in light commercial zones prior to the amendment. Would they now have to get a specific use permit from the city? Decell said they would not.

"It's our opinion that they don't fall into the category of principally merchandizing" building materials, Decell said after the meeting. The old zoning ordinance had been written, he said, to prevent businesses which do a large volume of building material sales from setting up shop in light commercial districts.

April is month of celebration

Perhaps early spring — more than any other time of year — is perceived by those of religious belief as a "new beginning for life" throughout the world. If so, it is for good reason. April's days of religious celebration this year include Palm Sunday, Good Friday, Easter and Passover. Each is a reaffirmation of the spirit for Christians and Jews.

The customs and traditions of Easter and Passover are much a part of today's society. The customs, described in their historical context, as compiled by researchers for the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, follow:

Easter, of course, marks the celebration of Christ's resurrection. Easter Sunday — April 11 this year — concludes the season of Lent which begins on Ash Wednesday. The latter precedes Easter by 40 days, excluding Sundays.

Ash Wednesday stems from the Hebrew tradition of repenting for sins in sackcloth and ashes. Early Christian penitents would sprinkle ashes on their heads on this occasion. Church bishops often decreed that penitents not wash, speak or wear shoes during Lent. This was a period of fasting. It was also a time for converts to Christianity to meditate before baptism.

Palm Sunday — the Sunday before Easter — is the first day of the Holy Week and it commemorates the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem when the people shouted "Hosanna" and scattered palms in his path.

Good Friday marks the day of Christ's crucifixion. Passover — April 8 this year — is the oldest festival of the Hebrew liturgical calendar, observed by Jews for more than 3,000 years. It marks deliverance of the Jews from Egyptian bondage and commemorates the barley season as a relationship of Israel with the soil.

Seder, the Passover feast, is celebrated in the home and marks the first experience of the nation of Israel with God. Seder begins with a ritual washing of the hands. In celebration, the home is perceived as a sanctuary wherein secular time becomes sacred time. The history of the Jewish exodus from Egypt is recounted for family members and invited participants.

Matzos, or unleavened bread, are served during the Passover feast in remembrance that the Jews, in their flight from Egypt, were unable to leaven the breads they baked and ate.

Sheaves of wheat, grapes and other seasonal fruits, herbs, matzos and goblets of wine are among the symbols of the Passover feast portrayed on greeting cards for this special occasion.

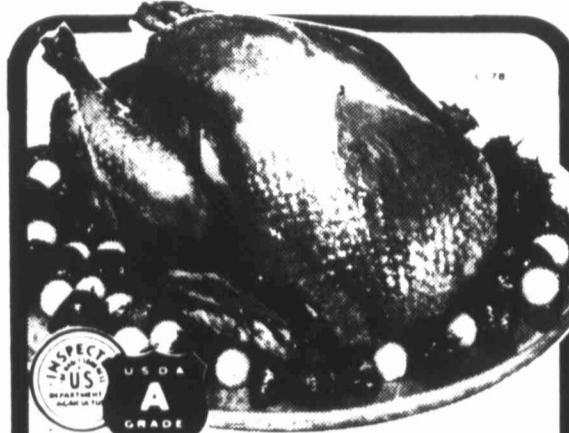

New homes are more efficient

COLLEGE STATION — New homes really do save energy for the most part, says Dr. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist.

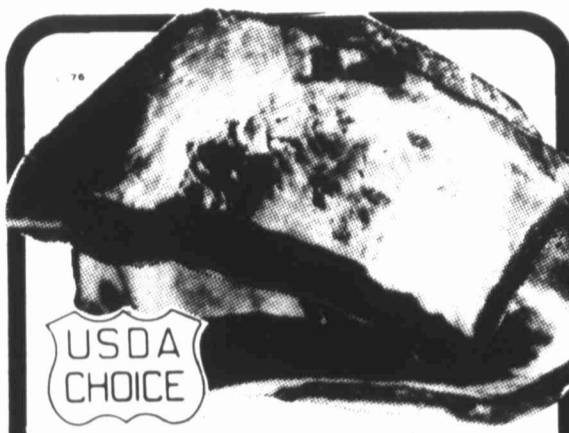

That's good news for new-home buyers — they can expect less energy consumption than was possible in less expensive homes of past years, she says.

Even though home buyers are paying more for less space, they are getting houses they can afford to finance and operate.

"Price tags on many new homes reflect the added costs of beefed-up insulation and other measures that will result in long-range energy efficiency," she says.

RAINBOW ICE CREAM CAKE
CRUST
 1 cup graham cracker or vanilla wafer crumbs
 3 Tablespoons sugar
 3 Tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
 1/4 cup finely chopped "M&M's" Plain Chocolate Candies
FILLING
 1/2 gal. vanilla ice cream
 Green, red and yellow food coloring

4 teaspoons grated orange rind or
 3/4 teaspoon orange extract
 3/4 cup chopped "M&M's" Plain Chocolate Candies, frozen
 For crust, combine crumbs, sugar and butter; mix well. Press onto bottom of 8 or 9-inch springform pan. Sprinkle 1/4 cup chopped candies over crust. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Cool thoroughly; freeze.
 For filling, divide ice cream into thirds; return 2 portions to refrigerator until ready to use. Combine 1-3rd portion ice cream and 10 drops green food coloring in large bowl; mix well. Spoon over crust; freeze about 30 minutes or until firm. Combine 1-3rd portion ice cream, 7 drops red food coloring and 14 drops yellow food coloring; mix well. Add orange rind and 3/4 cup chopped candies; mix well. Spoon over green layer; freeze about 30 minutes or until firm. Combine 1-3rd portion ice cream and 10 drops yellow food coloring; mix well. Spoon over orange layer. Cover securely with foil; freeze overnight. Remove from freezer 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Remove rim from springform pan; cut into wedges to serve. Makes one 9-inch ice cream cake.

EASTER EGG COOKIES
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
 1 egg separated
 2 cups all purpose flour, sifted
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon baking powder

1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1 teaspoon cloves ground
 1 teaspoon ginger
 1 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 Cream together shortening, sugar, and molasses. Add egg yolk. Mix well. (Reserve egg white for frosting). Sift together flour, salt, baking soda, baking powder and spices. Stir in flour mixture. Mix well. Chill.

To make Easter Egg Cookies. Roll out a portion of the dough, 1/4" thick on lightly floured board. Keep remaining dough chilled.

Take 1 lb. empty coffee can, with both lids removed, bend into oval or egg shape and cut out egg shaped dough, place on ungreased sheet. Bake in 350 degrees F oven, 8-10 minutes. Cool. Yield 2 doz. five-inch egg shaped cookies.

To decorate: Ornamental Frosting: Sift together 1 1/4 cups sifted confectioners sugar and 1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar. Add reserved egg whites and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Beat with rotary or electric beater until frosting holds its shape. Cover with damp cloth until ready to use. If frosting's not stiff enough for decorating, add a little more confectioners sugar.

To make colors, use vegetable dyes and follow instructions, using small batches of frosting for each color.

Begin by giving cookies a smooth white coating using a rubber spatula and gently smoothing white frosting over the cookie. Make a decorating tip by rolling waxed paper and filling it with frosting, or use your cake decorating tips. Imagination does the rest. Just remember, don't pile your cookies too high, or your design will suffer.

CHOCO EASTER CUPS

1/4 cup vegetable shortening
 1 1/2 cups "M&M's" Plain Chocolate Candies
 1/4 cups coconut
 3/4 teaspoon water
 4 drops green food coloring
 "M&M's" Peanut Chocolate Candies
 Melt shortening in heavy saucepan over low heat; add plain chocolate candies. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly with metal spoon and pressing candies with back of spoon to break up. (Chocolate mixture will be almost melted and pieces of color coating will remain.) Place two (doubled) paper baking cups into each of 9 medium-size muffin cups. Spoon 2 tablespoons chocolate mixture onto bottom, spreading with back of teaspoon up sides 1 1/2 inches high to form cup. (If chocolate mixture becomes stiff, reheat; stir constantly, over very low heat to soften.) Chill chocolate cups until set. Store covered in cool place. Combine water and food coloring in small bowl. Add coconut; toss with fork until evenly tinted. When ready to serve, gently remove paper cups from outside of chocolate cups. Fill with tinted coconut and peanut chocolate candies. Makes 9 servings.

Variation: For a dessert treat, omit coconut; fill chocolate cups with softened ice cream. Freeze. Remove from freezer about 15 minutes before serving.

ASPARAGUS SOUFFLE

2 Tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
 One 10-oz. pkg. frozen cut asparagus, thawed
 1 cup milk
 1-3rd cup enriched corn meal
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 2 Tablespoons butter or margarine
 4 egg yolks
 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease a 1-qt. souffle dish; coat bottom and sides with 1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese. Place asparagus, milk, corn meal, salt and nutmeg in blender or food processor. Blend to make a smooth puree. In medium saucepan, melt butter; add asparagus puree. Cook over medium heat about 5 minutes or until thickened. Stir small amount of asparagus mixture into egg yolks; return to asparagus mixture, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Fold in egg whites. Pour mixture into prepared souffle dish; sprinkle with remaining Parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 degrees F. about 35 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 1-qt. souffle (about 4 servings).

Fifteen minutes later, police arrested two suspects in the burglary: Tonya Starr, 19, Sandra Gale Apartments, and William Riley Bounds, 17, 712 Washington. Starr posted a $10,000 bond on the burglary charge through Roy Ford and was released. Bounds is still being held in city jail.

Thank you, Spring City Theater, for presenting OLIVER. Cecelia McKenzie, Spring City Theater director, Dave Justice, play director, and all the production crew, musicians, and cast deserve our applause! Their next production is the annual melodrama held in the amphitheater in early summer ... but the next live theater offering will be sooner than that when The Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf will present a play written and directed by faculty member, Stephan Baldwin, entitled, CAUGHT IN BETWEEN. It is a comedy-drama about a 15-year-old hard-of-hearing girl deciding between a residential school for the deaf and a public school education.

...Grandmother's Delight is ready for Easter

Grandmother's Delight has gifts for Easter

Grandmother's Delight is a new store located in the courtyard in College Park Shopping Center that specializes in children's clothes, as well as gifts for children.

Like the big rabbit that J.J. is standing by in the photo above, Grandmother's Delight still has a big selection of Easter apparel for boys and girls.

They also carry clothes from infant sizes to size 14. That includes dresses, blue jeans and girl's lingerie.

The store is managed by Cecilia and Guy V. Speck. They have created a friendly, pleasant atmosphere and are willing to help you in any way they can.

Besides clothes for the new arrival (including premature clothes), Grandmother's Delight is a great place to shop for unusual gifts for infants and young children. These include stuffed animals, piggy banks and picture albums and frames. Also combs, brushes, luggage and many fun gifts with cartoon designs.

Grandmother's Delight is designed to provide the finest in children's clothing and gifts. The store is located in the courtyard at College Park (next door to Young 'n' Alive). It is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Their phone number is 263-1868.

While shopping at Grandmother's Delight be sure and register for the big four-foot Easter Bunny that will be given away this Saturday. All the merchants at the shopping center will have a giant bunny to give away. They invite you to shop at College Park and register today.
