WATCHING IT FLY — Big Spring Country Club pro Gary Hammer watches the flight of his ball on the sixty-third hole of his one-man tournament to raise money for the local March of Dimes drive. Hammer was three hours into his ten-hour attempt and averaging a round every 20 minutes.

Local businessmen pledged to donate various amounts of money for every hole Hammer played between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. today. As of 11 a.m., members of the local Key Club, acting as spotters for Hammer, estimated he had raised approximately $1,000.

Armstrong stresses agriculture experience

Holds press conference in Big Spring

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Bob Armstrong, winged his way into Big Spring this morning for a brief news conference with local media. Armstrong was eager to talk about agriculture and he extolled his agricultural experience over that of his two opponents.

"There aren't many people running for governor that understand what agriculture is about. Neither of my opponents (Mark White and Buddy Temple) has had any extensive experience in this area. One of the things I'm hearing most is that politicians have no real interest in what's happening in agriculture," Armstrong said.

He proposed that if elected he would form a committee of agricultural advisors to work exclusively on the problems of agriculture. Armstrong said the committee could then inform the governor about the agricultural community and its problems.

"We need someone in Austin who will listen to the problems of farmers," Armstrong said.

RECENT REPORTS have shown that Armstrong is the "poorest" as far as financial weaponry for campaigning, but he is undaunted by this claim.

"The only weakness a candidate has is not enough votes to win an election. I don't feel Gov. Clements won because he spent more money than the Democratic candidate," Armstrong said. "He won because we failed to work hard at winning. If we work hard it won't matter how much he spends."

Also on Armstrong's mind was the plight of education.

"I always said education was one of my top priorities. We are losing teachers because we don't pay them enough and through teacher burnout. We need to look at the whole educational system as a whole."

Armstrong stated he would allocate the first dollar of his new administration to increase teacher pay. He also advocated raising the pay of law enforcement officers. ON THE GENERAL water problems in Texas, Armstrong said, "fresh water should not be used for drilling and secondary flood recovery methods." He encouraged the use of salt water as a substitute in drilling purposes.

ARMSTRONG MAKES A POINT — Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, a candidate for governor, was in Big Spring this morning for a brief press conference. The 49-year-old Democrat talked with news men about such topics as agriculture, education, water and immigration. Armstrong is touring West Texas today by airplane.

Armstrong said he would like to see a decrease in highway spending in Texas.

"For years we've built highways like post offices. It's just something legislators did to get elected. We need to take a good hard look at the priorities of highway building. We can keep the good highways we have now with maintenance rather than building new highways all over the state."

Armstrong sees the race between himself, White and Temple as growing closer. "I feel confident about the race. As we get closer to the end it seems as though things are tightening up."

After the 30 minute news conference Armstrong was off to several other West Texas cities including San Angelo, Midland, Odessa and El Paso. Today, along with a small staff, Armstrong was being followed by a camera crew from WFAA television in Dallas.

Carol Hunter 'surprised' Tune is not job applicant

Carol Hunter, chairman of the selection committee for a new juvenile probation officer, told the Herald this morning she is surprised County Judge Bill Tune is not a candidate for the probation officer job.

"It is certainly news to the selection committee that Judge Tune is no longer an applicant for juvenile officer," she said. "He was one of the three finalists and was so informed in February and he has never let us know that he did not want to be considered."

Tune stated in a front-page article in Sunday's paper that he is not an applicant for the job and hasn't been since he filed to run for re-election as county judge. He said, "Once I decided to run for county judge, I had to make a firm commitment to the voters and my supporters." He said he was "virtually eliminated" from the probation officer job when the selection committee did not reach a decision by Jan. 31.

MRS. HUNTER outlined for the Herald her version of the sequence of events concerning the Juvenile Board:

"At the Jan. 11th meeting of the Juvenile Board, it was decided to open the position for juvenile probation officer for selection as quickly as possible.

"In the motion to do so, it was very plainly outlined (1) we would take applicants for a two-week period; (2) we elected a selection committee of myself (school district), Bob Fuller (city) and Bill Crooker (county) which would interview all candidates and narrow the field to three or four to present to the whole board. (3) When finalists were selected, the whole board would meet, interview the finalists and select a juvenile officer. It was agreed we would have all members present for this next meeting.

CAROL HUNTER
...news to her

"Because Judge Tune was an applicant for juvenile officer and was selected to serve as temporary (acting) juvenile officer, the Board respectfully agreed to attempt to make a decision before his filing deadline for county judge (Jan. 31)."

"However, because of the tremendous response from applicants — we had 12 — and the need for the selection committee to be responsible to the public in selecting the best person for the job, the selection committee could not credibly finish all interviews before Jan. 31.

"Bobby Fuller and Bill Crooker then told Judge Tune there could not competently be a decision made and he should make his personal decision about running for county judge. We could not and would not rush our decision.

"It is certainly news to the selection committee that Judge Tune is no longer an applicant for juvenile officer. He was one of the three finalists and was so informed in February and he has never let us know that he did not want to be considered.

"After the three finalists were selected, the selection committee requested a meeting for Feb. 8 because David Barr would be in town for a commissioners court meeting that day; otherwise, he would be gone for two weeks. I never heard about the meeting for Feb. 8, so I assumed Barr could not come and awaited a call for a meeting after he was back.

"Perhaps the county does things differently, but at the school meetings, when we have pending business from a motion (i.e. the motion on Jan. 11th's board meeting), we make every opportunity to handle the business at the first opportunity without anyone's making formal requests again and again. It is not necessary to have anything but a standing request.

"PERHAPS IN THIS lies the miscommunication. I assumed the chairman would handle the carrying out of the board's motion and intent.

"The Juvenile Board has regular meeting days once a month. Neither in February or March was anyone from the city or schools called about a meeting. I assumed that was because one of the county members was unavailable. Nevertheless, there was not a meeting called either month.

"I have worked successfully for many boards. When I am chairman, I call meetings. When I am not, I try not to usurp anyone's authority. I was chairman of the selection committee only. Fuller's, Crooker's and my job was finished when we told the juvenile officer (Tune) we had three finalists (around Feb. 3).

"Logic would follow that we were ready for a full board meeting when all seven could get together," she said.

Oil rig worker not detained by Argentines

LA PORTE, Texas (AP) — An oil rig worker from this Houston suburb says his family misinterpreted his two phone calls from Argentina last week and contacted a congressman and the State Department, believing he had been placed under arrest by Argentine authorities.

Michael Martinez Jr., who worked on a British oil rig near the Falkland Islands, said that Argentine authorities cut off communications and shipments to the rig for three days after Argentina invaded the islands April 2.

"We had plenty of food and went about our jobs," said Martinez, who returned home Sunday.

Martinez called his wife Friday and Saturday. He said his wife, Marion, contacted the State Department after the first call, believing he was under arrest in Argentina.

Martinez' mother, Mary Martinez of Amarillo, also contacted Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Texas, whose office got involved.

Mrs. Martinez told The Associated Press she understood her husband to say the military was monitoring the conversation and that "the company did not know where he was for two days."

Martinez said the company always knew where he was and that he believed a telephone operator listened in on the phone call.

Martinez, 31, was working for Sonat

Exploration Co. on the British drilling rig InterOcean 2 about 500 miles west of the Falkland Islands.

"That was the extent of it," Sonat official Aubrey Cornelius said when he heard what Martinez said Sunday. "There are no problems down there now."

Martinez said that when flights from the land base resumed April 5, each helicopter carried an armed Argentine soldier.

"But we were never threatened," he said.

Martinez said the crew members were "about 80 percent British" but declined to specify how many workers operated the rig. He said he was not the only American aboard but also refused to give an exact number.

Martinez arrived in the coastal town of Rio Gallegos on April 9, four days after he was scheduled to leave for the United States, and was questioned by soldiers each time he stepped outside.

"It wasn't like a gестаapo thing," he said. "They asked me where I was going and what I was doing there. I assumed it was for security reasons."

He said he was told "I would probably not leave Argentina because the airport was being taken over by the military... I became quite alarmed and frightened and called my wife and told her I had been detained. I also told her if I did not arrive home in two days to call the State Department."

Mrs. Martinez also said she had apparently misunderstood another company official, thinking he told her the InterOcean 2 was being moved into Chilean waters. Cornelius said the rig had not been moved.

Mrs. Martinez said company officials had called her Thursday to tell her the crew change on the rig was being delayed, but that nothing was out of the ordinary.

Cornelius said the crew change took longer than usual because the company was trying to hire non-British workers.

Britain begins Argentine shipping blockade

LONDON (AP) — Britain's ban on Argentine shipping around the Falkland Islands went into effect today, but a Buenos Aires newspaper reported that Argentina ducked a confrontation by keeping its warships out of the war zone proclaimed by the British.

No shooting was reported as Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. returned to London with peace proposals from Argentina and met with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The Buenos Aires newspaper La Nacion reported that Argentine warships were patrolling the coasts of the mainland — well away from the Falklands — and that the rest of the navy's ships were docked in their home ports "until they are needed to face the adversary."

Confirmation of the report was not immediately available in the Argentine capital or London. But the British Defense Ministry reported on Sunday that all but two ships of Argentina's invasion fleet — a destroyer and a frigate — returned to their home ports before the war zone went into effect at midnight Falklands time (10 p.m. CST Sunday).

La Nacion said officials did not identify told it Argentine naval aircraft were "in action" monitoring ship traffic and making preparations for attack missions.

Haig, making his second trip to London in four days, arrived shortly after Britain's 200-mile "maritime exclusion zone" around the South Atlantic islands went into effect. Britain had said any Argentine vessel found in the zone would be sunk.

"I am bringing here to the British government, to Mrs. Thatcher and her ministers, some ideas which have been developed on the basis of United Nations Security Council Resolution 502, and look forward to these discussions," Haig said on his arrival at London's Heathrow airport.

WELCOME VISITOR — Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, greets U.S. Secretary Alexander Haig outside No. 10 Downing Street, London, Monday, Mr. Haig arrived in Britain early Monday morning from Argentina in his role as peacemaker in the Falklands crisis.

Mexia drownings defense opens

DALLAS (AP) — Defense attorneys open their side of a racially sensitive trial today in an attempt to show three Limestone County officers did not cause the drownings of three teenagers through negligence.

The youths were among several thousand blacks at Lake Mexia last June 19 for an annual celebration of Juneteenth, which commemorates the day in 1865 that Texas slaves learned of their freedom.

Testimony indicated the officers hustled the teenagers through the crowd to a 14-foot boat they had brought across the lake from a sheriff's command post.

The boat, which had neither life jackets nor running lights, capsized 40 yards from shore. The three youths — one of whom could not swim — drowned. The two white officers swam back to shore and the black officer clung to the overturned craft and was rescued.

Defense attorneys were expected to arrive in court with case law to show why jurors should not hear the defendants' testimony before a Limestone County grand jury last summer.

Dallas County Criminal Court Judge Tom Price tentatively admitted the testimony into evidence, but said he would consider defense arguments today.

In place of the grand jury testimony, the defense wants deputy Kenny Elliott, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie and probation officer David Drummond to take the stand to give their accounts of events that June

Flood threat in north California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rivers swelled near flood stage today after a weekend storm drenched Northern California with up to 7 inches of rain that loosened tons of muddy earth, while gale-force winds toppled trees and lightning darkened thousands of homes.

The storm, which swept out of the Pacific from the Gulf of Alaska, killed at least four people and left four missing.

The downpour added to already-record rainfall for the century in several parts of California, including San Francisco and Sacramento. Weather officials said between 2 and 7 inches of rain fell in northern and central areas of the state in a 24-hour period ending Sunday afternoon.

Forecasters predicted a new but weaker storm would dump more showers from central California northward through Tuesday.

The San Joaquin River was forecast to reach 12 feet today — two feet short of flood stage — at Mendota, about 20 miles east of Fresno, and the Cosumnes River, a San Joaquin tributary, was forecast to reach 45 feet — one foot away from flood stage.

The Coast Guard continued searching for two yachts missing since Saturday in a 60-mile race to the Farallon Islands, about 30 miles offshore from San Francisco. Two people were aboard each boat.

Dr. Donohue

Less reactions with newer shot

Dear Dr. Donohue: Recently a dog turned against me and bit a deep gouge in my lower lip that required stitches and a tetanus shot. I am 30. Within hours, my nerves became jangled and my arm swelled and ached. Now I am concerned about the whole matter. Can you tell me what I should do in the future? — E.M.K.

There are two kinds of tetanus shots. The one I'll talk about first is the tetanus toxoid. This is the series of shots usually given in childhood before entering school. They contain an inactive form of the tetanus poison. That protects against tetanus germs by alerting the body to make antibodies when it encounters them in the future. Thereafter, people need booster toxoid shots every 10 years; a few will get reactions. More on this later.

The other kind of tetanus shot is with tetanus anti-toxin, the actual tetanus antibodies themselves. This is given as treatment to someone who has had a bad injury and who has not been previously immunized with the toxoid. That person does not make the antibodies against the tetanus poison. Until recently, the antibodies were obtained from horses and did cause some painful reaction. Today, antibodies come from humans and reactions are less likely.

Back to your situation. I am pretty sure you had the first kind of shot — a booster. That is the one required every 10 years anyway. However, since you did have an apparently severe reaction, there are steps you might take in the future. About a year before you are due for your next booster — which would be nine years from your last one — you might have your blood tested. If your antibody levels are high, you may not need the 10th-year booster. If your antibody levels are low you will need the booster.

You can have that if the doctor is aware of your proneness to reaction. He will be prepared to help you if you have another reaction. It is better to run a remote risk of reaction than that of getting tetanus itself.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 76 years old, and since last June I have been seeing a doctor for a stubborn case of seborrhea, a scalp condition. I have faithfully used the shampoo and lotions he recommends. Is seborrhea contagious? — I. J. O.

Seborrheic dermatitis is not contagious. Contagious illnesses are those caused by germs — viruses or bacteria.

Your skin problem is not an infection. Seborrhea is caused by skin glands producing the oily skin, crusts and scales. Family history can be a factor, and even emotional stress can play a role. You tell me (an unused portion of your letter) that you recently lost your husband. I wouldn't want to say emotions are the chief factor in your individual problem, but they might be.

I have to modify my earlier statements. Germs do not cause seborrhea, but they can certainly complicate it. A bad case of seborrheic dermatitis may become infected. This is something to be alert to, and one your doctor will want to look into if your condition does not improve.

Also, take the advice I gave quite recently to another letter-writer with the problem. Be sure you are giving your scalp the benefit of the shampoo and lotion, not just your hair. The scalp is where the problem lies and it is what requires the treatment. Rub the stuff in.

FOR MRS. A.C. — You ask why edema happens. Edema is fluid buildup. The liquid part of the blood leaks out of the blood vessels and remains in tissues. Often feet and ankles are sites of this problem because they are the lowest parts of the body, the most natural places for fluid to collect.

I'll give you the most common reason for edema: If the heart does not pump with its customary vim and vigor, blood flow becomes sluggish. That permits the buildup and leakage out of the vessels into surrounding tissue. Your water pill helps the kidneys eliminate more fluid so that it does not pose such a problem.

Do you have problem hair? Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," shows how proper treatment can result in healthier, more attractive hair. To get a copy, write Dr. Donohue in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Male stripper crashes shower

DEAR ABBY: Recently my married daughter and several of her girlfriends gave a shower for a bride-to-be. As a surprise gift, one of the girls hired a male stripper to "crash" the party and put on a striptease dance.

None of the girls knew that a male stripper was going to barge in and go into his act. The bride's mother, a very dignified lady of 60, was terribly embarrassed, but she just sat there and made the best of it. (Afterward the girl who had hired the stripper apologized to the bride's mother.)

This is my problem: My youngest daughter just announced her engagement, and I know there will be showers given for her. My mother, who is 79, will surely be invited, and she wouldn't appreciate a male striptease act. How can I be sure that this doesn't happen?

I am not a prude, but I couldn't sit there in the presence of my elderly mother and just "make the best of it." If a male stripper were to show up at my daughter's shower, would it be all right to get up and leave the room? Or do you think I'd be making a fool of myself?

So if it's a large wedding, can you imagine saying, "Sorry, I can't shake your hand; I have arthritis," 150 times or more? Or should she hang a sign around her neck, or have a public announcement made?

I have four daughters, and I also have painful arthritis in my hands. I, too, have wondered what I will do when they get married. I hope someone will write in with a better solution than the one you offered.

CHRIS IN FERGUS FALLS, MINN.

DEAR CHRIS: Several did. "Hold a small nosegay in both hands." (How's that for a bloomin' good solution?)

DEAR ABBY: Quite some time ago you printed a "Prayer for Secretaries." I framed it and hung it on the wall over my desk.

I just returned from my vacation to find that the office had been painted. You guessed it. My "prayer" had been taken down, and nobody knows what happened to it.

WITHOUT A PRAYER

DEAR WITHOUT: Your prayers have been answered. Here it is:

PRAYER FOR SECRETARIES

"Dear Lord, help me to do my work well; to have the memory of an elephant, the patience of a saint and the hide of a rhinoceros. And when the boss asks me to stay late to type a three-page letter that absolutely must go out today, and he doesn't get around to signing it until tomorrow, please help me to keep my mouth shut.

"Dear Lord, never let me lose patience, even when the boss has me searching the files for hours for something that is later discovered on his desk!

"Help me to have the knowledge of a genius, although my education is limited to high school and secretarial training.

"Help me to understand and carry out all instructions without any explanation.

"Let me always know exactly where my boss is and when he will be back, even though he never tells me when he leaves.

"And Lord, when the year ends, please give me the foresight not to throw out records that will be asked for in a few days, even though I was told emphatically, 'Destroy these — they are cluttering up the place!'"

AMEN"

Protest and parades mark Easter '82

Peace marchers were arrested in South Dakota and Montana. New Yorkers paraded their finery down Fifth Avenue and thousands braved rain in Los Angeles to attend Easter sunrise services as Americans celebrated Christianity's most sacred holiday.

A Catholic priest and a Protestant minister were among four people arrested as they tried to place Easter lilies on a nuclear missile silo in Kadoka, S.D.

"The lily stands for Jesus' victory over sin and death," said the Rev. Christopher Dunphy, a priest from Brookings, S.D., who called on the government to turn missile silos into grain silos.

Fifteen people were arrested in Great Falls, Mont., after about 100 anti-nuclear marchers crossed a white line marking the boundary of Malmstrom Air Force Base.

A group calling themselves "peace pilgrims" left Seattle on the third day of a march to Bethlehem, Christ's traditional birthplace, from the ammunition gate of the Navy's Trident nuclear submarine base at Bangor, Wash.

In a different march, thousands of New Yorkers strolled Fifth Avenue from 34th Street to 57th Street for the annual, informal Easter Parade of pedestrians.

Cardinal Terence Cooke celebrated Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral, where more than 2,000 worshippers attended each of six hour-long services, said police Capt. Thomas Barton.

In front of the cathedral, two sisters dressed in revealing bunny suits cavorted among the paraders.

Dyana Darnell, 24, said she and her 16-year-old sister Danielle chose the costumes because "it was the only thing I could think of that was sexy."

Others sported traditional Easter bonnets, including flower pots and a white hat with red rhinestones spelling, "Jesus is Risen."

It rained on the 12th annual Easter parade in Los Angeles, where four floats were put out of action and another half-dozen got soaked.

"There was a crowd, even in the downpour — we didn't believe it," said a relieved Margaret Warran, who coordinated the parade.

Easter in Europe was marked by massive anti-nuclear protests in West Germany, a pistol salute in Northern Ireland and a call by the head of the Roman DOCTOR WATSON, I PRESUME? — Dr. Arthur Liebman and his wife, Joyce wear their Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson attire along the Easter parade on New York's Fifth Avenue Sunday. They were celebrating the 100th anniversary of the Holmes-Watson collaboration and were two of many New Yorkers decked out in designer clothes and costume.

Archbishop Jozef Glemp, the Polish primate, in a sermon to 3,000 worshippers in Warsaw, urged the Poles to put aside grudges in order to work toward a national accord. He also asked Poland's military leaders to create a climate that would make people feel "at home everywhere — in the church, in the streets, at our places of work."

British explorers cross North Pole

LONDON (AP) — Two British explorers bade farewell to the North Pole and began the last and possibly most hazardous leg of their 52,000-mile journey around the world via both poles.

Sir Ranulph Fiennes and Charles Burton, who planted a Union Jack on their arrival at the top of the world Sunday, mounted their snowmobiles for the 600-mile ride to the edge of the Arctic Circle. They were expected to rendezvous in five or six weeks with a ship that will carry them home to England after nearly three years away.

The two set a record by crossing to the North Pole from the Canadian coast in 45 days.

In a message relayed by radio to the British Broadcasting Corp., Fiennes warned that hazards were now posed by ice breaking into floes due to unseasonably warm weather.

"Satellite pictures and aircraft have reported enormous areas of open pack ice and sea normally frozen for another two months," he said.

Kristofferson's daughter, Eric Heiden hurt in crash

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP) — The daughter of singer-actor Kris Kristofferson was in serious but improving condition after a motorcycle accident that also slightly injured Olympic gold medalist Eric Heiden, authorities said.

Tracy Kristofferson, 20, who suffered internal injuries and a head injury, remained in the intensive care unit of Antelope Valley Hospital Medical Center here, hospital spokeswoman Frankie Richards said Sunday night.

Heiden, who won five gold medals in speed skating at the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y., was released after treatment for scrapes on his legs and head, and a chest bruise following the Friday night accident, Richards said.

Heiden was driving a motorcycle on Highway 14 in the Mojave Desert with Miss Kristofferson as his passenger when he braked to avoid a dog that ran across the road, said California Highway Patrol officer Larry Duncan.

The motorcycle was then hit from behind by a camper that Heiden had just passed at a high rate of speed, Duncan said.

Ag Task Force continues planning for the year 2000

COLLEGE STATION — Planning for agricultural, veterinary and forestry programs to best serve the needs of Texans by year 2000 continues to be the main objective of a special Agricultural Task Force as it studies and reviews current efforts of the Texas A&M University System.

The task force developed specific recommendations in many areas during its most recent meeting at Texas A M University March 29-30, and plans call for final reports to be aired at another gathering in late May.

The task force, made up of 67 agricultural and business leaders in the state, is looking at six major parts of the Texas A&M University System — the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Forest Service, Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory, and non-academic programs of the College of Veterinary Medicine and College of Agriculture.

In examining these units and making projections for the future, members are looking at four major areas of concern: mission and programs, clientele served, resources, and organization, management and inter-agency relations.

Jay Pumphrey of Fort Worth, an independent ranch manager, is chairing the task force, with Charles Scuggs of Birmingham, Ala., vice president and editor of "Progressive Farmer" magazine, serving as vice chairman. Pumphrey reviewed the many key issues facing the agricultural industry in Texas. "Water is the single most important item to the future of this state," he said. "The time is right for Texas A&M to become the 'water center' of the U.S."

Pumphrey also emphasized that use of computers and communications technology is vital to the survival of agriculture in the years ahead and challenged task force members to give their best thinking to these areas.

Task force members also were briefed on the progress of the Texas 2000 Commission by the group's former director, Victor Arnold. Arnold emphasized that the work of the commission appointed by Gov. Bill Clements last year was aimed at helping Texas avoid crises in the years ahead and at making the most of its resources.

He noted that the commission has identified seven key issues in looking ahead to the year 2000: water, energy, agriculture, transportation, research and development, government finance and relations with Mexico.

"Water is the greatest single issue," Arnold emphasized. "Water scarcity could disrupt the entire Texas economy. It's estimated that we will have a water deficit of 8.5 million acre feet by the year 2000."

He added that the commission also will be looking at other key issues in Texas, including education, health, housing and human services.

Local surgeons attend conference

Two Malone-Hogan Clinic physicians, Dr. James E. Mathews and Dr. J.W. Cowan, attended the spring meeting of the Texas Surgical Society last week in Corpus Christi.

The 19 papers the surgeons heard included a presentation on a new surgical carbon dioxide laser and pediatric surgery in the People's Republic of China.

Other topics ranged from vascular surgery to selected diseases of the stomach and colon to treatment of breast cancers and salivary gland tumors.

FEATURED SPEAKER was Dr. G. Tom Shires, chairman of the department of surgery at Cornell University Medical College in New York. Dr. Shires spoke on the current management of surgical shock and pancreatic trauma.

In addition to his local practice, Dr. Mathews is an assistant clinical professor of surgery for Texas Tech School of Medicine. He is a diplomat of the American Board of Surgery and holds memberships in the American College of Surgeons, the Southwestern Surgical Congress, the Permian Basin Medical Society, the Texas Medical Association and the American Medical Association.

President of the Permian Basin Medical Society, Dr. Cowan is an assistant clinical professor of urological surgery for Texas Tech School of Medicine.

DR. COWAN is also a diplomat of the American Board of Urology and a member of the Southcentral Section of the American Urological Society, the Texas Urological Society, the University of Texas Medical Branch Singleon Surgical Society, the Texas Medical Association and the American Medical Association.

Physicians attending the April 4 to 6 meeting in Corpus Christi earned up to 13 hours of continuing medical education credit.

The Texas Surgical Society was founded in 1915 and has a membership of 430 Texas surgeons.

Stadler plays 'masterfully' to win tourney

GREEN JACKET FOR STADLER — Craig Stadler, right, winner of the 82 Masters Golf Tournament, receives the Augusta National Golf Club green jacket from last year's winner Tom Watson Sunday in Augusta, Ga.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — He's not stylish in the image of Madison Avenue, his golf game is mostly self-taught, he has no agent, and, until now, making a run for big riches outside golf has not been of interest.

He's roundish, his mustache a bushy kind that hangs far over his upper lip. He looks more like a construction worker than a country club golfer.

His nickname is Walrus, he fights being overweight a is tucked under his protruding stomach.

He vents emotion more freely than most of his peers, and he's had to work hard at not throwing clubs, not stomping his feet, not losing his cool when the going got tough on the golf course.

He is Craig Stadler, the new Masters champion. He could be the guy next door.

"When I was a kid, I'd do what many do. I'd drop a couple balls on a green at 5 or 6 at night and say, 'I got to sink this to win the U.S. Open or the Masters,'" Stadler said after he beat Dan Pohl on the first hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday at Augusta National Golf Club.

"The Masters was something as a kid I dreamed of just seeing.

"Just seeing it for the first time in 1974 was a dream come true.

"This... this is just unbelievable."

Stadler, 28, may not fit the image of a Masters winner, but he has the $64,000 check and he has the green jacket. He earned them.

Earn them he did. He escaped disaster after blowing a six-stroke lead he had at the turn.

He started the day three strokes ahead of Jerry Pate, his playing partner, and Spain's Seve Ballesteros, the Masters champion in 1980.

With birdies at two, six and seven, however, he stretched the lead to six strokes over Ballesteros and Tom Weiskopf, who had gained one stroke. Pate, meanwhile, fell off the pace by eight strokes with bogeys at one and four.

His game started to stray on the par-3 12th hole, where he took a bogey after missing a seven-foot putt.

Meanwhile, Pohl, the longest driver on the tour, but a non-winner in more than four years, had birdied 12 with a 10-foot putt, and now the gap was suddenly four strokes.

Pohl, who had played eight straight holes — the last six holes of the third round and the first two of the fourth — in eight under par that included successive eagles Saturday, also birdied the next hole, No. 13, a par 5.

He just missed an eagle on a 10-foot putt after hitting a

Con't. 2B

Chubby Stadler joins heavyweights

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "Will it fit?"

That was Craig Stadler's first question as Tom Watson draped the Masters' green jacket over his bull-like shoulders Sunday.

It didn't. There was a noticeable strain when the new Masters champion attempted to button the coveted coat over his bulging midsection.

Across the country, watching the scene on television, millions of average American men with bulging waistlines must have broken into contented smiles.

Nobody loves a fat man, they say, but the world is full of them — underexercised and overfed, according to government health experts — and Sunday was their day to gloat.

Old Walrus, as they call him, is Craig Robert Stadler, 28-year-old winner of the first of golf's four Grand Slam championships for 1982.

He is a roly poly man, 5 feet, 10 inches tall with 210 pounds of weight that is uniquely distributed. A bushy mustache gives him the look of a walrus — reference to which doesn't offend him at all.

He sort of gloats on it, and may commercialize.

In fact, his wooden golf clubs are kept encased in walrus gloves, a present from his pretty wife, Sue. Stumpy, with short, thick legs and sloping shoulders, he literally wobbles over the fairways, his stomach bouncing like Jello under a tight-fitting sports shirt.

As new Masters champion, Stadler joins a selective club of overweights who have made their mark in bigtime sports.

The most famous undoubtedly was the great Babe Ruth, whose plump torso hung over the belt of his baseball uniform like an extra pillow. It never interfered with his mighty home run swing. He hit 714 in his career.

Hall of Famer Johnny Mize and pitchers Wilbur Wood and Mickey Lolich were other baseball stars who never let a little extra weight disturb their athletic endeavors.

Drop two to Chicago

Yankees' opening day was a big disappointment to fans

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees waited nearly a week to open their 1982 baseball season.

As it turned out, it wasn't worth waiting for.

Hosting an opening-day doubleheader at Yankee Stadium Sunday, after a record four games were postponed by bad weather, the defending American League champions lost both games to the Chicago White Sox — a 7-6, 12-inning decision in the opener and 2-0 in the nightcap.

The last two major league teams to open the storm-delayed season, Chicago and New York played before a crowd of 31,008 that didn't have much to cheer for as far as the home team was concerned.

A big reason for that was Chicago shortstop Bill Almon, who belted five hits against the Yankees' finest pitchers and figured in more than one White Sox rally. With 18 family members from Rhode Island in the audience, Almon led off the 12th inning of the opener with a 425-foot triple off Yankee relief ace Goose Gossage and scored the winning run on Ron LeFlore's single.

"That's about as deep as I can hit a ball," he said. "He got a fastball down over the plate, but I'm a pretty good fastball hitter. Goose was pitching in his fourth inning and I think he was starting to lose a little. I was geared for a Goose Gossage fastball, and maybe it was a little less than that."

Earlier, Almon singled off Ron Guidry in the third inning and started a two-run fifth with a single off George Frazier.

In the second game, Almon singled twice off Tommy John. The first one was wasted, but his single with one out in the sixth ignited a two-run inning. Almon took second as LeFlore grounded out and scored on Tony Bernazard's double. Steve Kemp singled Bernazard home.

"Charley Lau (the White Sox' batting instructor and a Yankee coach the past three years) told us that you can't pull John," Almon said. "You've got to hit the ball where it's pitched but he got a couple of sinkers up and I was able to pull them."

The Yankees scored all their runs in the opener off Chicago starter Jerry Koosman, but were held to one scratch hit over the final 61-3 innings by Dennis Lamp and Kevin Hickey. In the second game, Britt Burns and Salome Barojas combined on a five-hitter.

In other AL games Sunday, Detroit edged Kansas City 2-1, Seattle tripped Oakland 6-3 in 16 innings in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the nightcap 3-1; Milwaukee routed Toronto 14-5, Cleveland walloped Texas 13-1, Boston stopped Baltimore 6-0 and Minnesota beat California 3-1.

Tigers 2, Royals 1
Dave Rozema hurled a four-hitter in eight strong innings and got batting support from Enos Cabell and Kirk Gibson as Detroit edged Kansas City.

Vida Blue, making his Kansas City debut and his first American League start since 1977, surrendered only five hits in nine innings. Cabell led off the Tiger fourth with a double, then Gibson tripled and scored on Larry Herndon's sacrifice fly.

Mariners vs. Athletics

Jim Essian's fifth hit of the game, a bases-loaded, two-out double in the 16th inning, drove in three runs and gave Seattle its first-game victory over Oakland. The game lasted 61-2 hours, including a rain of more than one hour in the 10th inning. It was the A's second 16-inning loss in four days, and their third extra-inning game in the week-old season.

Rickey Henderson smashed three hits and scored the go-ahead run for the A's as they beat the Mariners in the second game. Rick Langford, pitching the A's first complete game of the year, scattered 11 hits. The doubleheader took 91-2 hours to complete.

Brewers 14, Blue Jays 5

Milwaukee batters shelled Toronto starter Jim Clancy for seven runs in the first inning and Charlie Moore smashed four hits as the Brewers crushed the Blue Jays.

Ben Oglivie had four RBI for the Brewers, including a two-run single in the game-breaking first, and a two-run homer in the ninth.

"I don't know if it was magic, but we got some bloop base hits," said Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers. "We hit a few balls right on the nose, too."

Indians 13, Rangers 1

Toby Harrah drove in four runs with three singles and Len Barker scattered eight hits as Cleveland routed Texas. The Indians went up 2-0 in the third inning against Rangers starter Doc Medich on Harrah's two-run single, then chased Medich with a four-run fourth that virtually locked up the game.

Barker said his fastball and curve were not at their best, but he managed to shackle the Rangers by keeping the ball in good locations.

"He's pitched better," said Sundberg of Barker. "We got some pitches to hit. With the situation, you knew he'd be throwing a lot of fastballs. You didn't have to look for much of anything else. We didn't hit well, field well or pitch well."

Red Sox 6, Orioles 0

John Tudor hurled a six-hitter and Carney Lansford drove in four runs to lead Boston over Baltimore. Tudor pitched out of threats in the second and fourth innings and Lansford singled home two runs, forced another in with a bases-loaded walk and drove home another with a sacrifice fly.

Twins 3, Angels 1

Randy Johnson hit his first major league home run and drove in the winning run as Minnesota beat California. The game-winner came in the seventh when Johnson doubled in Kent Hrbek, who had walked and was sacrificed to second. Pete Redfern got the victory for the Twins, scattering seven hits.

Astros blanked by Braves, 5-0

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves are perfect after five games and so is right-hander Rick Mahler, who has hurled two shutouts in two starts, including his latest gem, a five-hitter over the Houston Astros.

Mahler's job was made easier Sunday when Dale Murphy drilled a two-run homer off Astros' loser Nolan Ryan in the fourth inning and Bob Horner snapped a 0-13 streak with a solo blast in the eighth inning off reliever Frank LaCorte as the Braves won 5-0.

Rafael Ramirez and Brett Butler drove in Atlanta's other runs with run-scoring singles while Mahler mowed down the Astros, striking out five and walking only one.

"It sure feels good," Atlanta Manager Joe Torre said of the 5-0 start, the best since the Braves arrived here in 1966. The start also equals the record of the 1957 Milwaukee Braves, who went on to capture the World Series.

"We beat a good club and we're playing well," Torre said. "We beat Ryan today. He pitched careful to Horner and walked him and then our hot guy (Murphy) got the home run."

For Murphy, it was his third home run of the young season and sixth RBI while Horner finally got his first hit with a drive over the center field fence.

"I've been hitting the ball hard and wasn't frustrated since we were winning," Horner said. "As long as we're winning there's no pressure."

Mahler, who was thrust into the starting rotation late last season in his first full year with the Braves, finished with an 8-6 record in 1981 and continued in the season opener, blanking San Diego 1-0 on a two-hitter.

"He's been great. He never had a shutout in his major league career and now he's got two in one week," Torre said of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound right-hander.

The bearded Mahler also admitted to never throwing two shutouts in a season since he turned pro in 1975, and credited his performance to the team.

"We got runs today and good defense. We made big plays all day. I'm not a strike out pitcher. I just try to throw strikes and hopefully they'll hit it at somebody. So far they have," Mahler said.

"Nobody expects to throw shutouts but that's what you intend to do when you go out there," he said.

And no one expected Atlanta to break out of the gate with a 5-0 record, except maybe, the Braves.

"I think it's tremendous," Mahler said. "We came here with a winning attitude (after an 18-7 spring) and now we expect to win."

Ryan, who left after yielding three runs and four hits in five innings, is another not surprised by the Braves.

"Those guys are playing real well. They're getting good pitching, defense and hitting. It's hard to beat them right now with them doing everything right," he said.

"I think everybody thinks they're a contender. The Los Angeles Dodgers are favored and then there's Cincinnati and us and Atlanta who have a good chance of winning," Ryan said.

Yanks have most expensive subs

By The Associated Press

Like an art dealer assembling a gallery of masterpieces, George Steinbrenner continues to add expensive exhibits to his burgeoning collection at Yankee Stadium.

The problem is the Yankees' owner is beginning to run out of wall space on which to display all of them.

The Yankee bench is crowded with expensive players. In the first game of Sunday's doubleheader against the Chicago White Sox, New York had Dave Collins ($600,000) and Roy Smalley ($600,000) heading the roster of reserves. In the second game, when both Collins and Smalley started, it forced Ken Griffey ($1 million) and Bucky Dent ($300,000) into the dugout.

This, plus Manager Bob Lemon's disclosure that he would platoon Dent and Smalley, sent Dent rushing to run out of wall space on which to display all of them.

Meanwhile, permanent members of the Yankee shock troops in the dugout who serve as designated or pinch hitters with occasional visits to first base or the outfield are Oscar Gamble ($350,000), Bob Watson ($350,000), Bobby Murcer ($333,000) and Lou Piniella ($333,000).

Part of the problem is the American League lets you play only 10 men at a time. Deciding which 10 is Lemon's job and it is no easy assignment.

When Collins signed a three year $2.4 million free agent contract, last winter it was with the understanding that he would play fulltime, perhaps in the outfield, perhaps at first base, perhaps, if necessary, as a designated hitter, but certainly fulltime. The money was nice, but he made it clear that he would not have signed with the Yankees without the assurance of playing regularly.

Collins came to spring training and worked hard at first base, a new position for him. But when holdover Dave Revving had the hottest bat in camp, Collins was squeezed out there. There was no room in the high-priced New York outfield of Griffey, Jerry Mumphy and Dave Winfield so it became obvious that he could not crack the lineup, a condition that didn't thrill him.

SAFELY STOLEN — Atlanta Braves Brett Butler rights himself after sliding safely into second base Sunday on a steal against Houston Astros shortstop

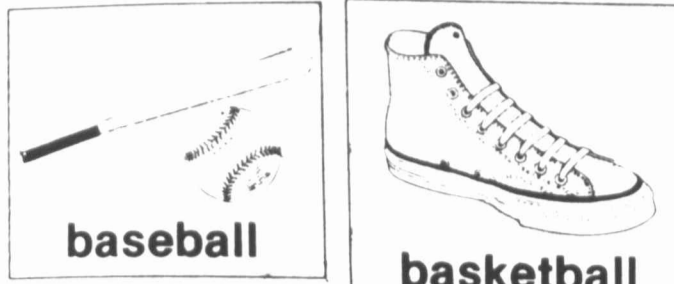

Dickie Thon. The action came in the fifth inning of the game played in Atlanta. The Braves won their fifth game, 5-0.

Celtics pass 76ers in OT

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics wanted to get Cedric Maxwell involved in the offense, and the Philadelphia 76ers hoped to do the same with Darryl Dawkins. While Maxwell got hot, Dawkins just got in hot water.

Maxwell scored 17 of his 25 points in the third quarter, turning a 13-point halftime deficit into an 81-81 tie, and the Celtics went on to post a 110-109 overtime victory over the 76ers Sunday.

Larry Bird scored the game-winning field goal with 55 seconds left in overtime as the Celtics ended the season series against their National Basketball Association archrival with a 4-2 edge. It was the first time in three years the two teams didn't split their six games.

Meanwhile, Dawkins scored two points on 1-for-7 shooting from the field, prompting 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham to say, "Darryl axgibbet get going more or we'll have to let him takkagger off."

The powerful Philadelphia center has struggled for most of the 12 games he's played since missing seven weeks with a broken leg.

In other NBA games, San Antonio stopped Kansas City 126-121, Dallas upset Houston 109-97, Atlanta bombed Chicago 108-89, Detroit beat New York, Los Angeles, nipped Seattle 107-104, and Portland topped Golden State 116-106 in overtime.

four-iron — "my best iron shot in a long time."
 Pohl then bogeyed the 14th and, with Stadler at the 11th, Pohl was still four strokes back.

But Pohl birdied the par-3 16th, and Stadler's fortunes went further awry.

He bogeyed 14 with three putts, then took a bogey at 16 when he hit his drive in a bunker.

His sand wedge shot went past the hole and slid down the other side of the glass-like green about 40 feet. He two putted coming back.

"I was at 14 when I saw Pohl on the board," Stadler said. "He was four under and I was seven under. I thought, 'I have to get another birdie.'" It was not to happen.

Pohl birdied 16 and now the margin was just one stroke, and what had been a stroll for Stadler became a struggle.

Stadler hit a drive and a five-iron to 20 feet of the hole on 18. It looked like a routine two-putt par.

But he hit his putt weakly and left a six-footer. Then he missed that, too.

Pate, who needed to make a 15-foot putt at 18 to tie for the lead, left it short and fell into a third-place tie with Ballesteros.

The playoff started and ended on the 10th with Stadler making a routine par, and Pohl hitting a poor second shot to the right of the green, then missing an eight-foot putt for a bogey.

Cooper stops Moses: Mavericks win 109-97

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Coach Dick Motta says Mavericks center Wayne Cooper turned in the best performance of his 3-year-old pro career by cooling off hot-shooting Houston Rockets center Moses Malone.

Cooper was more modest.

"I was just trying to work hard today," he said Sunday, just after the Mavericks downed the Houston Rockets 109-97 in a National Basketball Association game.

Cooper's 20 points and 16 rebounds offset Malone's 26 points and 10 rebounds. Though Malone's points were game-high, the veteran center averages 31.4 points and 14.6 rebounds to rank second and first, respectively, in the NBA.

Cooper might have done more if he hadn't gotten into foul trouble after 38 minutes of play.

"I think this was the best game I've ever seen Cooper play," Motta said. "I don't know if he can play much better."

Longhorns down TCU

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas' Randy Davis blasted a two-run homer in the ninth as the Longhorns easily downed Texas Christian 9-1 Sunday in a rain-delayed Southwest Conference baseball game.

Texas had jumped to a 4-0 lead by the third inning and spaced five runs over the last six frames.

The Horned Frogs got their only run when John Herrick doubled off reliever Kirk Killingsworth in the eighth and was singled home by Denny Day.

Texas starter Mike Capel threw six and a third inning without giving up a hit and picked up the win before being relieved by Killingsworth. Jeff Long took the loss for Texas Christian.

The Longhorns improved their record to 39-2 on the season and 7-2 in SWC play. The Frogs dropped to 13-18-2 and 3-10-1 in the conference.

Dallas win inspires Spurs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It wasn't as dramatic as Knute Rockne's "win one for the Gipper" speech, but it was just as effective.

San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck announced at halftime, with his Spurs trailing the Kansas City Kings by four points, that Dallas had beaten Houston. A two-game lead in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division was theirs with a victory. The Spurs listened, then rallied to beat the Kings 126-121.

Guard Mike Bratz's three-point basket from the corner with 2:52 remaining put the Spurs ahead 119-117, and George Gervin's bucket moments later increased the lead to four points.

Kansas City missed two opportunities to score in the final minute and slipped to 27-51, just one loss away from a team record. Although the Kings won't make the post-season playoffs, they still must play Houston

It's all in the racket, Vilas says

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Argentina's Guillermo Vilas credits a racket change with helping him upset Ivan Lendl in the title match of the $300,000 Monte Carlo Grand Prix tennis tournament.

"I changed rackets earlier this year and have now won three of my four tournaments with it," Vilas said Sunday after his 6-1, 7-6, 6-3 triumph over the 22-year-old Czech who had been the top seed at this clay court tournament.

"I think the new racket has improved my game," Vilas said. "It's a racket that should be on the market next year. I was asked to try it out and, for me, I think it's perfect."

It was the first time Vilas, seeded second, had defeated Lendl in two years. The 29-year-old Argentine has now won four of his 12 encounters against the Czech.

"It was an important win for me," Vilas said. "The last time we played, he beat me very badly. When there's someone whose beaten you a lot, it's important to break that trend."

Vilas, his shoulder-length hair flapping, needed two hours and 39 minutes to earn the $60,000 winner's purse and his second title at Monte Carlo.

GOP officials visit Dallas for convention negotiations

DALLAS (AP) — Republican Party officials planned to tour this city's hotels and meet with Dallas officials this week to resume negotiations aimed at satisfying President Reagan's wish and holding the 1984 GOP convention here.

"They want it badly down there," GOP Chairman Richard Richards said from Washington Sunday. "I think we're going to get together."

The party's convention site selection committee, headed by Richards, will meet with Dallas officials today and Tuesday and then report to the GOP executive committee, which will meet here Wednesday.

"Assuming we get together on the terms of a contract, I think the site committee will recommend Dallas," said Richards, adding that the recommendation would then have to be ratified by the Republican National Committee when it meets in June.

If Dallas is chosen this year, it would be the earliest either major party has made its convention choice.

Hobbs appointed general manager of Midland Hilton

Michael J. Hobbs has been appointed the general manager of The Midland Hilton, Midland, Tex., according to Allen C. Hermansen, senior vice president of operations, Hilton Inns, Inc.

Hobbs was formerly the general manager of a golf and country club in Muttontown, Long Island, N.Y. He has had considerable experience in hotel operations since graduating from Cornell University in June 1974 where he earned a bachelor of science degree in the School of Hotel Administration.

Hobbs is a member of the American Hotel & Motel

"I don't think they have acted this early," said Richards. "But I'll tell you, in years ahead they're going to have to get this early because even now, for us to go in, the city of Dallas has to change a couple of conventions they already have scheduled."

"These companies and associations schedule their conventions so far in advance now that the political parties have to act well in advance."

What appeared to be the only possible stumbling block for Dallas winning the GOP convention was the city's long-standing tradition against using public funds or facilities to bring conventions to the city. The local contribution for such events has always come from private sources.

The city has asked the Federal Election Commission for an opinion on whether it could use such private funds without it being considered a campaign contribution.

Morin's 'victim' to testify

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors planned to call a Corpus Christi woman to the stand in the capital murder trial of Stephan Peter Morin, after she testified at Morin's examining trial that he held her captive for 12 days.

The trial of Morin, charged in five slayings in three states, was to resume today.

He is being tried on a charge he shot Carrie Marie Scott to death in the parking lot of a San Antonio restaurant on Dec. 11 while trying to steal her car. He also is accused of wounding Dru Valdes, a companion of Miss Scott's, in the same shooting.

Morin has pleaded guilty to murdering Miss Scott, but State District Judge David Berchelmann said that corroborating evidence is required in addition to the guilty plea in capital murder cases.

Prosecutor Susan Reed said she planned to call Ms. Valdes and Pamela Jackson to the witness stand today.

Mrs. Jackson testified at Morin's examining trial that he held her hostage for 12 days, the ordeal ending when police looking for Morin came to the San Antonio motel room where she was being held. That was the day after Miss Scott was shot.

Morin, who says he is 31 although the FBI lists his age as 35, is charged with aggravating kidnapping in the abduction of Mrs. Jackson.

At the time of his arrest in Austin on Dec. 12, Morin was on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives and had been sought since 1976 in connection with a charge that he raped and brutalized a 14-year-old girl he hung from a ceiling hook in San Francisco.
