Burned bridge rebuilt

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Reconstruction is nearly completed of a northside railroad bridge which completely burned in an apparent act of criminal mischief a month ago.

The bridge, reportedly described by Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. officials as a $70,000 loss, burned in an April 4 fire near the West Texas Industries cotton compress along Interstate 20.

The fire consumed about six acres of hilly grassland as well as the trestle, which supported a spur line serving the Coors warehouse just off the interstate.

Constructed out of soil rather than timber, the new bridge resembles a tall earthen levee. The bridge was rebuilt out of soil, according to Charles Barbee, local freight agent for Mo-Pac, primarily because it's less of a fire hazard than the old timbers, which had been soaked in an oily preservative and burned for several hours.

It's also cheaper to make the bridge out of dirt, Barbee added. The new bridge, he said yesterday, is "just about completed. They're just waiting on the ballast (to go under) the track."

Barbee said the track may be laid on top of the bridge by the end of this week, enabling the Coors warehouse to take in shipments by rail again. For the past month, the warehouse has been getting its deliveries by truck, a Coors spokesman said.

Meanwhile, fire investigators continue to keep the case open. Big Spring Fire Marshal Carl Dorton said the blaze probably began as an act of criminal mischief by two juveniles.

"We do know it was kids. We don't know who for sure," Dorton said. "We just can't get anybody to point a finger." Dorton said investigators had questioned "a lot of people" who live in the vicinity of the fire. They found one witness who had seen two kids "but not enough to identify them," Dorton said.

The fire is believed to have begun in two places, he said. It sparked at about 5 p.m. on a Sunday afternoon, fanned across a ravine with the help of high winds and caught the trestle, which firemen from several communities poured water on until the blaze was doused at about 8 p.m. The fire stopped just a few feet short of a trailer housing employees of the cotton compress.

Dorton said a Mo-Pac investigator out of El Paso had assessed the damage as a $70,000 loss. The bridge, according to Barbee, was fairly old, having been built in the late 1930s, and once upon a time running as far north as the state hospital.

Decision nearing on new chief of police

By BILLELDER
Staff Writer

Two vacant administrative slots at Big Spring City Hall may be filled within six weeks, City Manager Don Davis said yesterday.

Davis, talking in the second of a series of weekly meetings with reporters, said decisions were imminent on hiring a new police chief and city attorney.

The city attorney's position may be filled as early as next week, he said, adding that he was reviewing "four or five" applicants for the job.

The job became vacant at the first of the year when Elliott Mitchell resigned to join a private law firm in Big Spring. Since then Mitchell has been utilized by the city on a retainer basis, and Davis said that was one reason why he had let four months pass without hiring a new city attorney.

"With Elliott on retainer, it's not as if we've been without legal counsel," Davis said. He added that he had been considering turning the job into a position which would be held strictly on a retainer basis, but nixed the idea since a salaried city attorney would have increased availability.

Filling the police chief position, vacated by Elwood Hoherz a month ago, will take a little longer. Davis said the cut-off date for applicants will be the middle of May, and a decision on the new chief might be made by 30 days after the application cut-off.

He said he probably would make the hiring decision without the benefit of a citizen's panel, which he used last time around in 1980 when Stanley Bogard left the force.

"The situation was different last time. It warranted using an outside board ... We were having union problems. There was controversy within the department and controversy outside the department. Those circumstances don't exist now," the city manager said.

He declined to name the applicants for either post, and indicated that the salary for each job probably would be near $30,000 a year.

In another matter, Davis said the city may not seek bids on the construction of the third and final hangar at the city airport, and instead will let the private Howard County Industrial Foundation build the hangar and sell it to the city.

Such a move would mean a cheaper cost to the city, since a provision of federal bidding laws covering public works projects could result in a 25 to 30 percent higher cost if the city itself seeks bids for the hangar project. The foundation built the first two hangars, privately putting them to bid among area companies. An agreement calls for the foundation to sell the hangars to the city upon completion of construction. The foundation built the first two hangars to help speed up the projects.

Also in his meeting with the news media, Davis pointed out that it's flower-picking time at city-owned Mount Olive Cemetery. Twice a year maintenance crews go through the cemetery and collect the flowers to keep the cemetery clean.

"We'll be doing that this month," he said, adding that all flowers will be removed except "those in the vases attached to the markers."

The city also will be doing some roadwork at the cemetery in the near future. The main cemetery road and possibly all the roads inside the cemetery will be sealed with a private donation of $40,000, Davis said. The road improvement will be carried out in conjunction with the county, which has an agreement with the city to trade road improvements for city fire protection.

In another matter, Davis announced that 11 Big Spring firemen are participating in a regional training program in San Angelo this week. Five of the firemen went down to teach in the program, while six rookie firemen are there to learn, he said.

Farmers' pleasure: 1.65 inches of rain

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Local farmers got just what they were hoping for yesterday evening as a chain of thunderstorms moving over Big Spring dumped approximately 1.65 inches on the area.

A cold front pushing into West Texas combined with an upper level disturbance to trigger the thunderstorms, weather forecasters said. The National Weather Service is calling for a 50 percent chance of precipitation through today decreasing to 30 percent by tonight. According to the U.S. Big Spring Field Station, the 1.65 inches brought Big Spring's year-to-date total to 3.68 inches. The normal for this time of year is 4.05 inches.

The rain was a welcome sight for farmers. "It's just what we would have ordered had we been able to order rain," said Bill Fryrear of the field station. "As soon as it dries up and clears up, I think we're going ahead with our planting. I think most farmers will too."

In other sections of the city, James D. "Red" Thomas of 107 E. 13th reported rainfall totalling 1.5 inches, and Boyce Hale, southwest of Big Spring, called in 1.24.

Although Big Spring was blessed with a gentle rain, some areas of the state experienced harsh weather. Midland and Odessa reported pea-size hail fell in that area late last night. A tornado was sighted near Quitaque in the Panhandle, and a flash flood watch was issued by the NWS for eastern counties in the Panhandle.

Local TV newscast might follow the loss of WFAA

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Big Spring cable viewers, lamenting the loss of WFAA's Dallas news programming, may be comforted to know a local news broadcast is coming in the near future. Bob Good, station manager for KWAB and its parent station KTPX, told The Herald yesterday a locally-originating newscast from KWAB is one improvement planned for KWAB, now that it's the only ABC affiliate in Big Spring.

Good, speaking from his Odessa office, said KWAB is looking like the "bad guy" in this entire affair because "people go home, turn on their TVs and there's the poor signal." But changes at KWAB have been in progress for quite some time. Good said, and the WFAA loss should speed up the process.

"We are concerned and we realize the signal is not the quality Big Spring deserves. We're going to change it," Good said. The first step in the process is obtaining a new transmitter for KWAB, but "these things take time — transmitters just aren't in stock anywhere," Good said. He estimated a period of "months" before a new transmitter is found.

Following the installation of a new transmitter, Good plans to remodel the KWAB studios at 2500 Kentucky and originate a local newscast from the station to serve Big Spring and the immediate area.

"I already have bids in on remodeling the station and bids on new studio equipment," Good said. The KTPX-KWAB station manager said he had looked into hiring news personnel for a local broadcast.

Part of the reason for the deletion of WFAA's ABC signal was a recent Federal Communication Commission's non-duplication ruling. This ruling prohibits a system, in this case

British destroyer sunk

By The Associated Press

Britain suffered its first setback in the campaign to recapture the Falkland Islands, losing a destroyer, a jet and about 30 men in one day. Argentina said about 360 seamen were still missing from its sunken cruiser.

British press reports said a missile fired from a land-based Argentine fighter-bomber 24 miles away hit the control room of the 3,500-ton Sheffield early Tuesday afternoon, turning one of the Royal Navy's most modern warships into a raging inferno.

The British Defense Ministry said the crew was ordered to abandon ship "when there was no longer any hope of saving the ship," and Defense Minister John Nott told the House of Commons as many as 30 of the 270 crewmen may be lost.

Some British press reports said the ship, one of three destroyers in the British war fleet in the South Atlantic, had sunk. But a British reporter with the task force said it was still afloat and burning more than six hours after it was hit.

The Argentine government was silent about the Sheffield, although news of the attack was broadcast by Buenos Aires radio stations quoting foreign news reports. The joint chiefs of staff said in a communique early today that an "air incursion" against the British task force was carried out "with results that still are not known."

The communique said the attack occurred 60 miles southeast of the Falklands about 40 minutes before the Sheffield was reported hit.

British planes made two attacks Tuesday on airstrips in the Falklands. The British Defense Ministry said a Harrier jet was shot down and its pilot killed, while Argentina claimed two Harriers were downed.

The British said a long-range Vulcan bomber, presumably flying from Ascension Island, made a "successful" attack on the airfield at Stanley, the Falklands capital, in the morning and returned safely to its base.

The Argentine communique said the Action/reaction: Berry unusual

Q. I put out some non-fruiting mulberry trees 10 years ago that have started making huge mulberries. I'm afraid to put out some more because they might do the same thing. Is there anything that can be done?

A. County Extension Agent Don Richardson says you can't do anything about your present trees — they were just a slip-up that happens sometimes. Richardson says the chances of getting more fruiting mulberries are slim.

Digest

Polish clashes reported

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Police clashed with youths who destroyed buildings and erected barricades in the northwest Baltic port of Szczecin for the second night in a row, it was reported here today.

Published reports gave few details of the unrest, which followed clashes Monday in more than a dozen Polish cities. The rioting was the most violent show of opposition to the government since martial law was declared last Dec. 13 and the independent union Solidarity suspended.

Official reports said the authorities clamped a curfew back on Warsaw and Gliwice.

In a surprise move, telephone lines in the capital and other cities reopened after being cut Monday night.

The East German news agency ADN said restrictions also were imposed in Szczecin and Gdansk, the Baltic port where Solidarity was founded in August 1980 and site of big anti-government demonstrations Saturday and Monday.

Meetings of student clubs and all public entertainment, including discotheques, were banned again.

Storm damage in Spur

SPUR, Texas (AP) — Winds gusting to 100 mph, large hail and rain damaged at least 600 homes in this South Plains community late Tuesday, authorities said.

Damage from the storm, which blew for about two hours, was estimated at $800,000.

Some residents reported sighting a funnel cloud shortly after 7 p.m., but there was no official confirmation of a tornado.

Officials estimated at least 80 percent of the town's 300 residences suffered some roof and window damage. In addition, the town's elementary school was closed Wednesday for repairs.

One storm-related injury was reported. However, it was not believed serious.

Stanton ends sale of water

STANTON — The Stanton City Council decided last night to stop selling bulk water to some companies due to difficulty in collecting payment. City Secretary Nelda Turner said the problems were with out-of-town facilities such as oil companies and fertilizer firms. The city's inability to collect bills led the council to end offering bulk water for sale.

In other action, the council approved a six-inch water line for Ed Lawson's new construction in the city. The council did not award bids for a sewer line cleaner. Commitment moved to postpone any decision on the cleaner for about 30 days, Mrs. Turner said.

In emergency action, the council approved the purchase of a used police car since the city is short a vehicle.

New March of Dimes director appointed

Eunice Durkee has just been appointed the new executive director of the March of Dimes for Big Spring. Ms. Durkee replaces Billie Davis, who is moving with her husband to San Antonio where he has a new job.

The appointment for Ms. Durkee came on Monday from Ed Remes, the MOD regional director in Lubbock. Ms. Durkee's past experience has been with the Public Health Service in Washington, D.C.

"I'm excited about the appointment. It is a challenging job and I enjoy meeting the public," Ms. Durkee said. She said her first project as director would be a MOD booth at the Health Fair to be held at the Big Spring Mall May 15.

Ms. Durkee said she would be planning the WestFest as her next project for the

EUNICE DURKEE...new director

MOD. The festival takes place in August in Big Spring.

Ms. Durkee said she would continue to work with the MOD chairperson, Barbara Holdampf, and the regional director.

Cosden donates $2,000 to symphony association

The Big Spring Symphony Association received a healthy boost to its budget last night when Ron Medley, vice president of Cosden, presented a check for $2,000 from the company to the association.

Medley, in presenting the check, said he had "good news" and "bad news." The "bad news" is that he soon will be leaving Big Spring, he said. Details of his transfer to Dallas will be announced soon, he told The Herald Wednesday morning.

The good news, of course, was the check for $2,000.

The gift boosts the symphony association's bank account to $9,954, which is just over a third of the association's projected 1982-83 budget of $27,781.

Sam Woodward, who is resigning from his job as general manager of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra to go into private business, congratulated members of the board for their success in the 1981-82 season and said "the sky's the limit" for future seasons.

He said the board, had accomplished in 3 months what normally would take 18 months in creating a viable symphony organization.

"I have so much hope for this community," he said, because of the spirit of the community and its willingness to support something "completely intangible and without economic justification" — music.

Woodward was installed as a new member of the local board of directors.

Sam Ainsworth was presented a plaque for serving as president of the board when it was organized, and Jerry Worthy received a plaque in recognition of his work as president the past year.

LeRoy Tillery and Sam Woodward received certificates for their work in initially establishing the Big Spring Symphony Association two years ago.

Johnnie Lou Avery also was recognized for her work on the board, and Joan Beil, Linda Ainsworth and Marjorie Dodson were cited for their success in establishing the Big Spring Symphony Guild as a support organization for the association.

New officers were installed, including Rick Hamby, president; Grady Cunningham, president-elect; Kelly Draper, vice president; Donna Fields, secretary; Steve Smith, treasurer; and Jerry Worthy, who will remain on the board as immediate past president.

New board members are Kae Wise, Shirley Shroyer, Mary Welch, Mrs. Toots Mansfield, Ed Zamora, Larry Don Shaw, Ralph Henderson, Joyce Wash, Dr. Charles Rainwater, and Woodward.

Pam Hahn of the Midland-Odessa Symphony entertained the group by playing the harp at the dinner which was held at the Big Spring Country Club.

Tip leads to stolen merchandise

A piece of information received by Big Spring detectives yesterday led to the recovery of $3,000 worth of merchandise taken in a March 22 burglary of the Western Auto store at 504 S. Johnson.

Detectives Lonnie Smith and Pat Dunham said they received a lead on the burglary that informed them where the merchandise probably was stored.

Smith said he then obtained a search warrant "for a residence on the east side." A subsequent search of the premises uncovered the stolen merchandise.

Recovered were several pieces of stereo equipment, video game cartridges, a television, tires, watches and other assorted items.

Ms. Dunham said police have four juvenile suspects in mind who may be connected with the burglary, and she expected the youths to be arrested sometime today.

Two women in separate incidents reported to police yesterday that they had received obscene phone calls from an unknown individual.

Ann Sigmon of 806 Lorilla received a phone call yesterday afternoon from a person threatening to do her harm, according to police reports.

Charlene Cook of 1105 E. 13th reported to police that she was assaulted at her home by a person unknown to her.

Shree Walker of 1905 Wasson complained to police that a male subject struck her at approximately 7 p.m. yesterday.

Jack Watkins of 1200 Pennsylvania told police that sometime yesterday someone stole 50 bricks from his backyard. Watkins did not estimate the value of the bricks, according to police reports.

Cable

Big Spring Cable TV Inc., from showing the same programming from a distant source as is being shown by a local source, KWAB, under the ruling, had to have precedence over the Dallas WFAA signal. Meanwhile, KWAB is planning to switch the NBC programming. The switch take place probably around September but the exact date is not set, Good said.

ABC programming at the same time.

However, according to Barrett Brick of the FCC cable office in Washington D.C., KMD could — like KWAB — assert non-duplication rights to keep out the WFAA signal.

"Big Spring is a significant market for KMD and is within the 55 mile protected zone. I believe they would be able to assert protection of their signal," Brick said.

mitted April 20, had been refused since the cable system did not include the technical data demonstrating KWAB's inferior signal, Brick said.

The FCC official said the cable service had until May 20 to submit the technical data so that the FCC could re-consider the request.

The final fate of WFAA lies with the cable system. Jim Lancaster, vice-president of Big Spring Cable TV, indicated that he would continue to review the situation.

"Subscribers need to have the full story and they may contact me for an explanation," Lancaster said in his only comment on the WFAA situation.

second attack was made in the afternoon by three Harrier jets on a dirt runway at Goose Green, 40 miles west of Stanley. Both airstrips were attacked by British planes Saturday in the first major strike of the air-sea offensive launched by Britain to recapture the island colony Argentina seized April 2.

Meanwhile, Argentina reported the rescue of at least 680 survivors from the cruiser General Belgrano, which a British submarine torpedoed and sank Sunday. The navy said it was "optimistic" that more would be found.

Shocked Britons reacted to the loss of the Sheffield with appeals for an end to the bloodshed and angry demands for retaliation that echoed those heard in the streets of Buenos Aires following the Belgrano sinking.

"Once blood is spilled, more blood is spilled," observed a Buenos Aires man. "That is not good for either side."

In Washington, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. held an unscheduled three-hour meeting late Tuesday with British Ambassador Nicholas Henderson, prompting speculation of a new peace initiative including a British cease-fire proposal. But there was no indication from London of such a move.

Hinckley jury sees tape of assassination attempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government prosecutors today showed jurors at the trial of John W. Hinckley Jr. a videotape replay of the event that shook the nation 13 months ago: the shooting of President Reagan and three other men outside a Washington hotel.

As the videotape was shown, first at regular speed and then in slow-motion, Hinckley, charged with attempted assassination of the president, sat with hands folded on the defense table and stared intently at the television monitor.

Hinckley's demeanor contrasted sharply with apparent disinterest Tuesday, when he never raised his head to look at two victims of the shooting incident who testified in court.

After showing the film, the prosecution plans to rest its case today. Then it will be the defense team's turn. The government needed only two days to present its direct evidence.

The videotape, shot by an NBC-TV cameraman, showed Secret Service agents and White House aides walking ahead of Reagan as they left the Washington Hilton Hotel that day.

Nine witnesses were summoned Tuesday to trace Hinckley's nine-month journey from a Lubbock, Texas, pawnshop, where he bought ammunition, to the hotel site where he acknowledges he shot Reagan and three other men.

61 teachers honored for years of service

Sixty-one teachers in the Big Spring Independent School District were honored with service pins at a banquet held last night at Big Spring High School.

The service pins, based on the number of years of teaching, were awarded to the educators for their dedication, hard work and continuing interest in education.

The pins were presented by Superintendent Lynn Hise and Carol Hunter, president of the BSISD board of trustees.

Teachers honored for ten years of service were: Bobby Alexander, Pennie Anderson, Mary Cluck, Donita Cunningham, British C. Daniels, Milton Laird, Alma Massey, Jessye Myles, Grady Nelson, Glenn Phillippe, Mary Proctor, David Reynolds, Ruth Salisbury, Mary Trim, Wanda Wilson and Joy Woods.

Those chalking up 15 years of teaching experience were: Betty Addy, Glenda Arnold, Betty Birdwell, Marvin Butts, Doris Canning, Freda Cushing, J.B. Cushing, Raenita Earnest, Mary Eckert, Shirley Ezell, Billye Grisham, Jean Hanke, Sylvania Henson, Ray Lawlis, Geraldine Martin, A.G. Martinez, Shirely Matthews, June McCasland, Inez Montanez, Joan Nash, Doris Randell, Melva Reed, Jose Saldivar, Judy Smith, Darla Swindell and Agustina Upton.

Twenty-year service pins went to Bonnie Coker, Dorothy God, Mildred Puckett, Herman Smith, Jane Smith, Ina Stewart, Dorothy Tidwell, Wendell Ware and Laura Jean Warren.

Honored for 25 years of teaching were: Sally Beam, Mildred Buchanan, Jo Carlile, William Irwin, Doris Knocke and Dorothy Yater.

Nancy Annen, Harold Bentley and Don Crockett were singled out for 30 years of service.

Allene Hamilton reigned supreme over all teachers with 35 years of teaching experience.

Introduced at the banquet were three presidents of local teacher organizations: Betty Leppard, Texas State Teachers Association; Bill Irwin, Classroom Teachers Association; and Jean Wilder, Association of Texas Professional Educators.

Providing entertainment for the evening were the girls' ensemble of the Meistersingers directed by Marjorie Dodson.

Weather

More rain in forecast

By The Associated Press

Heavy rainfall in the Panhandle and forecasts of more heavy rain prompted the National Weather Service to issue a flash flood watch for eastern counties of the Texas Panhandle.

Counties covered by the watch included Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler.

Almost five inches of rain fell at Shamrock late Tuesday. A tornado was sighted near the town of Quitaque in the Panhandle last night. Pea-size hail pelted the Midland-Odessa area early today.

Forecasters said a very moist and unstable air mass would remain over the eastern Panhandle through tonight. A cold front was pushing into the Panhandle to combine with the upper level disturbance to produce a few severe thunderstorms through tonight. As much as two-four inches of rain was forecast.

Widely scattered thunderstorms and showers were reported before dawn today from near Wichita Falls to Brownwood to Eagle Pass. The showers and thunderstorms were moving eastwards towards Central Texas.

Skies were partly cloudy to cloudy statewide today.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s. Extremes ranged from 52 at Marfa and 55 at El Paso to 73 at Brownsville.

Some early morning temperatures around the state included 58 at Amarillo, 65 at Wichita Falls, 69 at Dallas-Fort Worth, 63 at Lufkin, 64 at Houston, 70 at Corpus Christi, 69 at San Antonio and 59 at Midland.

Forecasters called for widely scattered thunderstorms throughout the Panhandle today and into North Central Texas by evening. A few possibly severe thunderstorms are expected in West Texas and Northwest Texas this afternoon and this evening. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for Central Texas and South Texas late today and for East Texas tonight.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Flash flood watch in effect for eastern Panhandle this afternoon and tonight. Numerous thunderstorms today and tonight, a few possibly severe east of the mountains this afternoon and tonight. Locally heavy rainfall may cause flash flooding eastern Panhandle this afternoon and tonight. Cloudy with scattered thunderstorms Thursday. Cooler north today and most sections Thursday. High in the 70s north to the low 90s extreme south Friday. High in the 40s north to the upper 50s south Friday. Low in the 40s north to the upper 50s south. High Thursday 60s east of the mountains to 70s and mid 80s mountains and far west.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — A chance of showers and thunderstorms Friday. A chance of showers and thunderstorms southwestern mountains. Partly cloudy elsewhere Saturday and Sunday. Warmer through the period. High in the 70s north to the low 90s extreme south Friday. High in the 40s north to the upper 50s south Friday. Low in the 40s north to the upper 50s south. High Friday 60s north to the mid 60s south Sunday.

Harding withdraws from race

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — He began this year unopposed for re-election, but State Treasurer Warren G. Harding now says he cannot take any more and has withdrawn from the battle.

Harding, 61, made the announcement to a surprised Capitol press corps Tuesday. He said he could not continue to campaign and "subject my family to further hurt and grief."

Four candidates lined up to challenge Harding just days before the Feb. 1 filing deadline after news broke that a grand jury was investigating the treasurer's office.

Indicted April 23 on two felony counts of official misconduct accusing him of having two state employees work on his campaign, Harding polled a poor second in last Saturday's Democratic primary.

But he did squeeze into a runoff with former Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards.

Harding's withdrawal hands the nomination to Mrs. Richards. The incumbent's withdrawal means the race won't appear on the June 5 runoff ballot.

An hour after Harding told a Capitol news conference he was pulling out, Mrs. Richards was in the same room saying, "It feels good to be the first woman in 50 years to hold a statewide office in this state."

That was a little premature, since she still must face a Republican opponent, Millard Neptune, 71, was presumed to be a stalking horse for a stronger candidate who would step in later, but Neptune says he now likes the idea of staying in the race.

Harding, accompanied by family members, read a brief statement and left without answering questions. He just pointed to a lapel pin and saying, "The flag of Texas — long may it fly." He would not say if he was resigning, but no letter of resignation was submitted to Gov. Bill Clements on Tuesday.

In his statement, Harding said, "While it is yet still possible for me to win, I cannot and will not engage in the kind of bitter campaign it would require."

"I would not subject anyone, opponents or otherwise, to what I and my family have been subjected to."

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle issued a statement saying Harding's decision "was not part of any plea negotiation" and that it "does not affect" an ongoing investigation of Harding's office, which prosecutors say includes allegations of sexual harassment of treasurer's office employees by Harding.

The penalty for each official misconduct count ranges up to 10 years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

New crude oil tax pushed

By WILLIAM GARLAND
States News Service

WASHINGTON — In an effort its backers compare to the push for the Windfall Profits Tax of 1978, a powerful group of northeastern congressmen Thursday will announce an effort to raise more than $17 billion with a whopping new tax on crude oil.

Called the "National Crude Oil Profit Sharing Act of 1982," a total of 75 percent of the tax would be used to reduce the federal deficit and 25 percent would form an Energy and Economic Development Trust Fund. The fund would help with conservation and other measures in states without energy production.

"This is really a major bill that has taken a lot of time and consideration," said one source from the northeast.

One Texas congressional aide said the bill would "even further divide northeastern and midwestern sections (of the United States) from the rest of the country."

And because of what he said was "an abysmal reaction to the windfall profits tax," he predicted the bill would not pass Congress.

A second major element of the bill, which its supporters say has received extensive work since the beginning of this session of Congress, would seek to limit the amount that states can raise in severance taxes on oil, natural gas and coal. The state of Texas supports its education system in part with such oil and natural gas severance taxes, which are imposed when the oil or gas is taken from the ground.

There have been a number of revenue-raising proposals based on energy taxes that have made the rounds on Capitol Hill this year. Congressional aides said the new bill will be the major energy taxation measure supported by members of the Northeast-Midwest Coalition, which with its 200 members is considered one of the largest and most influential groups in Congress.

Leading members of the coalition, including its chairman, Rep. Bob Edgar, D-Pa., are expected to announce the crude oil tax Thursday.

Details of the bill were not to be released until that time, but various sources said the new measure would call for a 30 percent tax on crude oil wellhead revenues. This would be in addition to the current windfall profits tax.

At her news conference, Mrs. Richards said that when she heard Harding had withdrawn, she "just couldn't believe it." About 20 of her supporters stood in the back of the room and broke into applause several times.

She read a telegram she sent Harding: "Dear Warren," it said, "I read your statement with understanding and sympathy. I pledge to you that as state treasurer, I will serve in that office in a manner that will be a source of pride to you and to all Texans. Your withdrawal today will help to unify the Democratic Party, and I am grateful to you for this act of dignity which means so much to me and my family."

Mrs. Richards said Harding should not have feared personal attacks in the runoff campaign.

"I insisted from the outset that this was going to be a clean campaign," Mrs. Richards said. "We were not going to get into what I call 'mudslinging' politics. I have never known from the very beginning the extent of Warren's problems. I just said I was not going to campaign on his indictment."

She suggested Harding's decision might have been a practical one, based on Saturday's results.

Harding received 34 percent of the vote Saturday to Mrs. Richards' 46 percent. Waco businessman Lane Denton was third with 13 percent. John Cutright of Austin received the remaining votes.

"Unquestionably, you could look at the numbers and know it was going to be virtually impossible for him to defeat me in June," Mrs. Richards said.

After already spending $600,000 in the primary race, Mrs. Richards said she would save about $500,000 from not having to wage a runoff campaign.

Cockerham behind Shaw in campaign spending

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Republican State Rep. Jerry A. Cockerham of Monahans is behind in the race for campaign contributions.

Cockerham, paired in the redistricting process with Democratic State Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, has collected a total of $2,750 through April 21 and spent $700, according to a campaign finance report filed recently with the secretary of state.

Shaw and Cockerham will meet in the November general election and are not required to file campaign finance reports until 30 days before the fall election.

Earlier this year, Shaw reported that through April 5, he had collected $10,224 and had spent $5,933.

Cockerham's major contributions include $1,500 from a political action committee (PAC) formed by bankers, $500 from a doctors' PAC, and $250 from new car dealers.

His major expenditures included $450 for campaign cards and $250 for bumper stickers.

Judge refuses to release FBI's report on Wood case

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Making public a statement El Paso attorney Joseph Chagra gave to FBI agents investigating U.S. District Judge John Wood's murder would prevent Chagra and four other defendants from getting a fair trial, according to a ruling by a federal judge.

Chief U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions issued a nine-page ruling Tuesday that a federal magistrate was correct in closing to the public and press parts of a bond-reduction hearing for Chagra April 22 and 23.

"In conclusion, the court finds at this early stage of the proceedings that the rights of the press and public of access to this particular information at this time must yield to the superior right of the defendant to be tried by a fair and impartial jury," Sessions ruled.

Attorneys for The San Antonio Express, The San Antonio News, The San Antonio Light and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram successfully delayed the bond hearing until Sessions conducted another hearing required by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Gannett Co. versus DePasquale.

The Gannett decision requires parties moving to close court proceedings to prove three elements: that an open hearing would create a serious threat to the defendant's right to fair trial, that alternatives such as change of venue would not adequately protect a defendant's fair trial rights, and that closing a hearing would be effective in protecting against the perceived harm to a defendant's right to a fair trial.

Sessions ruled in favor of the defense and against the four newspapers on all three Gannett issues.

He concluded that public dissemination of the evidence "would in reasonable likelihood create a serious threat to the fair trial rights of defendant Joseph Chagra and co-defendants."

Joe Chagra, 35; his brother, Jimmy Chagra, 37; Jimmy's wife, Elizabeth, 28; convicted hitman Charles V.

Harrelson, 43, and his wife, Jo Ann Harrelson, 41, have been charged in connection with Wood's killing on May 29, 1979.

Joe Chagra, charged with conspiracy in Wood's death, is accused of advising his brother to pay Harrelson $250,000 to shoot Wood to prevent the judge from presiding at Jimmy Chagra's 1979 narcotics trial.

After Sessions ruled that U.S. Magistrate Robert O'Connor was correct in hearing the FBI statement in private, O'Connor finished the hearing in which the defense sought to lower Joe Chagra's bonds which total $1.6 million. O'Connor asked news reporters to leave the courtroom during the last five minutes of the bond hearing.

O'Connor said he would rule after he receives a pre-bond report from federal probation officers, perhaps later this week. Dallas attorney Billy Ravkind, who said the sealed statement included discussions Joe Chagra had with the FBI last year to try to prevent his indictment, told O'Connor the $1.6 million in bonds was excessive.

"I feel it's very likely that the defendant (Joe Chagra) is going to be acquitted," Ravkind said. "The indictment charges not one single overt act and I suggest it's not charged because it's not there. I think the court should consider a reasonable bond. It's not an easy decision and not a popular one, but a proper one."

"What could be more serious than one brother advising another brother to kill a federal judge?" Assistant U.S. Attorney Ray Jahn said in opposing any reduction in bond. "The answer is, when the brother is a lawyer."

Jahn told O'Connor that Joe Chagra might try to flee if he were freed on bond.

"We're asking the court whether Mr. Chagra will believe it's worth an extra five years and flee this country," the prosecutor said.

Hopes diminish for finding missing 9-year-old girl alive

HAMILTON, Mo. (AP) — After three days of searching for 9-year-old Jennifer Rebecca Barden, hope is diminishing that the missing girl will be found alive.

"I think the longer it goes on without finding her, the slimmer the chances," said Daviess County Sheriff Kenneth Calvin.

The massive search for the girl, who was abducted from her home at Gallatin, Mo., during the weekend, was cut back after more than 150 volunteers and law enforcement officers combed Caldwell and Daviess counties failed to find the child Tuesday.

Caldwell County Sheriff Maurice Robison said he wasn't giving up hope the girl would be found alive, but he added, chances of finding her safe "are slimming down quite a bit."

Residents of the northwest Missouri counties were asked to search their rural property while authorities began dragging Grand River and Shoal Creek. A Missouri Highway Patrol helicopter and plane also will search the area for the girl.

Two dozen five-man teams searched farms, creekbeds and wooded areas for the girl Tuesday. Two busloads of schoolchildren from Gallatin checked roads in the area, but authorities said nothing was found.

"It's disappointing, more than anything else. That's a nice way of saying we're giving up," Gallatin Mayor Ed Gallagher said after Tuesday's search and the announcement the operation would be curtailed.

A way to slow oilfield crime

For an enterprising thief, Texas' oilfields offer endless opportunity. Thirty to fifty million dollars worth of oilfield equipment was stolen in Texas last year. These losses are pushing the cost of pumping oil sky high, and that affects each of us.

The drilling boom in Texas has created a demand for materials which are hard to come by. Any tool, large or small, can catch the eye of a thief, as it represents a pocket full of money. This problem is running rampant in Texas and is hard to detect. Items are often taken to another state where they are stripped of serial numbers, given a fresh coat of paint and resold, sometimes back to the original owners.

The industry is fighting back with rewards, recovery systems and better identification methods. Governor Clements and the Texas Legislature have implemented new laws to stop the growing crime wave in the oil patch — but they can't do it alone.

For the month of May, 1982, the Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" program on oilfield theft. Any citizen having information about oilfield theft is asked to call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS. Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of oil field thieves. Citizens do not have to reveal their name, just their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Locally, you can call 263-1151 to report information about any crime. A reward is offered.

Money wasted finding waste

WASHINGTON — The federal government is swarming with investigators constantly searching for waste and fraud. Sometimes they wind up spending dollars to retrieve nickels and dimes.

Take the case of Frank Smith, an Air Force produce manager. Government hawkshaws spent $50,000 or more to investigate the possible waste of a few hundred dollars' worth of cantaloupes. And a conscientious employee's career has been placed in jeopardy as a result of overzealous efforts to uncover what would, at best, have been a picaresque waste of the taxpayers' money.

Smith is an expert in the uncertain business of ordering the right amount of perishable fruits and vegetables for large numbers of people before the stuff goes bad. He plied his trade at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., the suburban airfield that is home base for Air Force One and other VIP aircraft.

Something went wrong with 14 cases of cantaloupes that were to be served to Air Force personnel at Andrews. Maybe they were little overripe when they arrived; maybe they were kept in storage improperly or too long.

Whatever the cause, Smith determined that the melons were unfit to serve, and ordered them thrown out. He was promptly accused of stealing government property.

The way Smith's boss, Commissary Officer Barton Hairr, went about building a case against Smith reads like something out of a television cops-and-robbers series. Hairr called in the Air Force Office of Special Investigations.

The OSI boys went to work as if it were a major spy case. They stalked out the unsuspecting dumpster behind the commissary. Hidden cameras were trained on the trash receptacle to record activity from every angle. Some 40 hours of film footage were taken during the supposed Canteloupe Caper.

The purpose of this elaborate operation was to determine if Smith was throwing out salable melons in cahoots with the trash collectors. No such incriminating evidence turned up on the hidden cameras' film, and the OSI declined to bring criminal charges against Smith.

The hidden cameras did record some incriminating evidence. But it incriminated the Air Force, not Smith.

What the cameras recorded was shocking: Air Force personnel, struggling to feed their families, were filmed searching through the trash in the dumpster for edible food — in much the way that starving women and children used to pick through GI garbage as far back as World War II.

When the identifiable scavengers were questioned by the OSI, they said it was common practice to go through the Andrews dumpsters. It was a humiliating but necessary way to make ends meet on an Air Force salary.

That was enough for Smith's boss. The hungry garbage scavengers were "proof" that Smith had been throwing out edible cantaloupes. They would not be picking through the swill, the brass reasoned, if Smith were not dumping edible food. He was accused of stealing government property.

The extent of Smith's alleged "crime" might have run into a few hundred dollars. Sources close to the investigation told the associate Donald Goldberg that the OSI spent upwards of $50,000 to make their case.

This ridiculous case of the Crummy Cantaloupes has worked serious harm on Frank Smith. After nine years in the produce department at Andrews, he is being treated like one of his rotten melons. He has spent the last several months sitting at home with his two young sons, hoping to be told he can return to work.

Meanwhile, there is no sign that the Air Force is doing anything about the plight of impoverished personnel who must raid garbage dumps to feed their families — other than recording their embarrassment with hidden cameras at a cost of thousands of dollars.

Footnote: Air Force officials refused to discuss the Smith case on the grounds it is still under investigation.

THE RELUCTANT SUICIDE: The Department of Energy was marked for extinction by Ronald Reagan before he was elected. But the DOE bureaucrats do not intend to "go gentle into that good night." They figure their agency is too young to die.

So when Reagan's unsympathetic budget-cutters tried to get DOE to lead the cheers at its own funeral, the energy people resisted.

In the so-called "sunset review" ordered by Congress when it created DOE in 1977, the agency had to justify its existence this year to stay alive. Understandably, the DOE brass performed this task with gusto.

Imagine their dismay, then, when OMB economizers ordered a rewrite of the sections that puffed up DOE's image. For example, an OMB editor scratched out six pages of the DOE's draft report, scribbling a note in the margin to the effect that the section "should be reduced to one page that emphasizes why it is appropriate to terminate all but a little basic research."

Marginal notes on the Urban Waste section said, "Rewrite explaining why this program can be terminated in 1983."

After a concerted outcry by DOE officials, the sunset review went to Congress without recommending the agency's dissolution. But a summary statement was stripped of its catalog of DOE's accomplishments.

WATCH ON WASTE: To determine how proficient GIs are in their particular martial art, the Army spends $15 million a year developing "Skill Qualification Tests" for the troops. It spends an additional $8 million a year to administer and grade the tests. But auditors recently questioned whether the effort was really worthwhile. They noted a tendency on the part of unit commanders to participate in special cram sessions beforehand, which means the tests reflect temporary memory skills, not permanent professional abilities.

Alcoholic seeks help

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have ruined my health and my family with alcohol. I want to put my life back together, but I don't even know where to start. Please let me know if God can help me. — A.N.

DEAR A.N.: Yes, God can help you, and I believe he will help you if you sincerely turn this problem over to him and trust him. That does not mean everything will suddenly be easy for you, for you may still have to battle the temptations that come your way. But you will have a new power — the power of the Holy Spirit — to help you.

I think you have already taken the first step in beginning to rebuild your life, by being honest about your helplessness and your need of God's help. Those who work with alcoholics regularly say the biggest barrier for many is their refusal to admit they cannot conquer their problem alone.

Then realize that God loves you. Frankly, you may even have a hard time loving yourself after all you have done to yourself and to others. But the Bible tells us an amazing fact: God loves us in spite of our sin and neglect of him. How do I know that? I know it is true because Jesus Christ died on the Cross. God loves you so much that he sent his only Son into the world to take your sins upon himself. He took the punishment you and I deserved. He died in your place, and he rose again to show he had conquered sin and death and hell.

Now God offers you his salvation. It is a free gift — you can do nothing to earn it. All you must do in turn to Christ in faith and repentance, and invite him to come into your life as Saviour and Lord. The Bible says, "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12). When you come to Christ, he forgives you, and cleanses you and makes you his child. You can start over again, with Christ in your life.

Turn your life over to him. And then seek the help and strength of other Christians also. With God's help, you can be changed.

They're anti-abortion

Dear Editor,
We write regarding the Planned Parenthood advertisement (Sun., April 19, 1982) asking readers to urge U.S. Senators to vote against the Hatch Amendment that would limit abortions on demand. The advertisement read: "Backing this amendment are right-wing U.S. Senators who want to impose their religious beliefs on you. Your friends. Your family. Everyone."
We want to point out that the pro-life anti-abortion movement does not base its convictions on mere religious beliefs. Many pro-life supporters base their view strictly on scientific fact.

This fact was aptly stated at the First International Conference of Abortion by a medical group made up of geneticists, biochemists, physicians, professors, and research scientists. This secular group stated: "We can find no point in time between the union of sperm and egg and the birth of an infant at which point we can say that this is not a human life."

This fact established, the U.S. is now killing 1.6 million babies a year; 12 million since the 1972 U.S. Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion. Twelve million human beings — this doubles the total murdered during the Nazi Holocaust.

Around the Rim

By MIKE DOWNEY

Who watches anyway?

The recent ruckus over the demise of WFAA has led me to examine the world of television in more detail than in the past. But, as expected, I found it sadly lacking, practically comatose. Who watches that stuff anyway?

Practically everyone who mourned the passing of the Dallas station stressed the loss of the news broadcasts; no one seemed to care that much for the programming itself. The news was about all that was watched anyway. So what about the programming?

I HAVE COME to the conclusion that no one watches television anymore — the ratings are just a figment of the corporate imagination. People turn their sets on at the appropriate times, then dutifully turn them off. I am certain few thinking folks actually attempt to absorb the banal programs and inane commercials. Nothing stays on long enough for anybody to follow a show for any length of time.

Let us briefly — ever so briefly — examine the current rave of the idiot box: the situation comedy. If there is any format which has long since passed its prime and is babbling in incoherent senility, it has to be the situation comedy. What sort of mindless morons do the networks take us for? We have had funny teachers in "Welcome Back, Kotter," a concept currently being regurgitated on CBS, funny detectives, funny maids, funny blacks, funny whites, funny Mexicans, funny garagemen, funny junkies.

The list is endless — is it the purpose of the networks to have personages from every occupation mouthing the same tired jokes in their own show? Will we be subjected to "Laverne and Leper," "The Nukes of Hazard," or "Mork and Mordician." The networks certainly never watch these things; otherwise, we might see a new show sometimes. ANOTHER THING that bothers me about television is the commercials. Now I know the advertisements are an easy target even as TV itself is an easy target, but they go too far. I realize the advertising dollar is important and product competition is tough, but it is really necessary to have feminine hygiene ads, hemorrhoid cures, and laxative complaints showing during the hours when most of the country is eating supper?

I may be weird, but these are not among my favorite topics in the course of an average day. Necessary — yes, but not during prime time. Most commercials are so insulting to the viewer that the advertiser must imagine the market has the composite cerebral matter of a field of onions. I still hate most toilet tissues, some headache remedies and almost anything with the words "beltless," "regular" or "nagging itch."

Why is the average American, the guy who can find his way to work successfully everyday, able to pinpoint the flaws of television so easily but the "experts" miss constantly? Do the creative minds behind such gems as "Mr. Merlin," "One of the Boys," and the "Dukes of Hazard" have to check their brains at the entrance to the studios? Whatever happened to intelligent dialogue, plausible situations — where is the dramatic premise that goes back to the Greeks?

THE NETWORKS are in trouble and they know it; the viewer statistics show them that much. The problem is, instead of striking out for the new concepts people want, the TV folk withdraw further into the same tired formulas, thus ensuring further viewer apathy and fewer viewers. Stop watching — someday they'll notice.

God. (The kingdom of God is not the church as you have heard, neither is it some sentimental something in men's hearts. The kingdom of God is God's Government. He will set up on this earth at His return, to rule all nations at His return for one thousand years.) Notice what I Corinthians chapter 15 verse 50 says concerning the kingdom of God. "Now this I say brethren, that FLESH AND BLOOD CANNOT INHERIT the kingdom of God."

If the church is the kingdom of God, then your Bible is a liar, for flesh and blood humans go in and out of the church every first day of the week. Notice verse 5 of John 3, "Truly, truly, I say unto thee, except a man be BORN OF WATER AND OF THE SPIRIT, he cannot ENTER into the kingdom of God." Here is your Bible definition plainly stated in verse 6 that any second grader could understand. "THAT WHICH IS BORN OF THE FLESH IS FLESH (you were born flesh and you will be FLESH until you die); and that WHICH IS BORN OF THE SPIRIT IS SPIRIT." You cannot see SPIRIT. You are now mortal flesh and blood.

The New Birth is a CHANGE from flesh and blood to SPIRIT. This takes place at the resurrection (Of course this pertains to the true Christians).

Now to all you BORN AGAIN Christians. What is the Kingdom of God like? How does it feel to be in the Kingdom of God? You say you are a BORN AGAIN Christian, so you have seen the Kingdom of God? You are in the Kingdom of God because you are born again. That is what your Bible says, and can be understood by any one that wants to read it. So come on and tell us what it is to be in the Kingdom of God.

No! Morin is NOT BORN AGAIN! He is still flesh and blood. He IS NOT a spirit being.

Those that understand the Scriptures never uses the words "Born again Christian."

What it means to be 'born again'

Dear Editor,
Defense attorney Pete Torres made the statement that Morin was "the worst, he was the scum of the earth, he was a cancer of society," but deserved life instead of death because he had been "born again" and was truly repentant for the slaying of Carrie Scott.

How many "professing Christians" of this city understand the meaning of Jesus' statement to Nicodemus, "You must be born again?"

What is the Bible definition of "You must be born again?" Notice what the Bible says concerning the New Birth in the Book of John chapter 3. Notice verse 3. Jesus answered, and said unto him, "Truly, truly, I say unto thee, Except a man be BORN AGAIN, he cannot see the kingdom of

Some very good news came from BOB JACKSON, of WESTERN CONTAINER COMPANY. Company officials are preparing the paperwork for a new bond issue to continue expansion and growth to meet the need for more production capacity. The company originally was approved for up to $10 million bond limit with its first bond issue for $4 1/2 million.

To meet the demand for products, the company has changed to a seven-day week, 24-hours-a-day operation. This necessitated hiring additional workers — 14 more have been hired within the past two weeks, plus two management people who will be moving to Big Spring shortly. Hiring will continue.

There has been some job realignment to meet the changing needs of the company operations. BOB GOBBI, former plant manager, was moved into the position of technical director. GREG HAHN is now the bottle manager which gives him more responsibility in the direct operations of the plant.

Jackson is optimistic about future growth and prospects: "It is on target with our projections, or has exceeded expectations," he said. "Western Container will continue to be a bright star in the economic picture of the Big Spring area."

IN A MEETING held a few days ago, BOB BOYD of CABOT discussed the transfer of part of the Cabot property to the Industrial Foundation. This transfer is scheduled to take place in July. Already the industrial team has prospects looking at this property.

The remainder of the Cabot property will be sold to a firm out of Midland who will use it as a company truck terminal. That company will be employing people for the Big Spring site just as soon as all legalities of the sale are completed.

Many long-time area residents will remember NELLIE GRAY who grew up in Big Spring, graduated from Big Spring High, was the first employee of the old bombardier school as secretary to the base commander, and who finally, after serving a short time in the WACS, enrolled in law school in Washington, D.C. She practiced law in the Federal service for 28 years before retiring to become a full-time volunteer and president of the National Right to Life Movement. In heading up this far-flung, influential organization, she serves as its major spokesperson, appearing regularly in the news and on television, before Congress and other groups.

Nellie recently visited with JOHN and RUTH BENNETT while they were on a trip to Washington to watch their daughter, Sarah, plead a case before the Supreme Court. Nellie reminisced about her many old Big Spring friends like the George McAlisters, C. G. Griffin, Agnes Currie, Nell Brown, Flossie Lowe and Joe Pickle. She said, "Despite the many years I've been away, it is impossible to disassociate myself from the Big Spring I knew and loved. Even in my early days when we were in the depths of the depression and it was rough, I have very happy memories."

She said she trusts Big Spring schools still give the solid foundation and training that enabled her to move from a small town to anywhere she wanted to go including a major university law school. For those interested, her address is 515 6th Street, S.E., Washington, D.C. 20003.

MIKE BARKER, of O.I.L., just got back from the Off-Shore Technical Conference at the Astro dome in Houston where O.I.L. has stolen the show. O.I.L.'s rig is featured in the Business Section of the Houston Chronicle, it has been shown numerous times on various television stations, and is talked about as the most prominent display at the OTC Show.

As an added feature, a large orange hard hat sits on top of the show rig. Therefore, every person who visits the display rig is given a bright orange hat, emblazoned with the O.I.L. emblem. Everywhere one goes at the Astro dome all week, he sees orange OIL hardhats. It has made quite an impression. The show rig will move away from the show onto a drilling site and never be brought back to Big Spring. That's quick sales!

As a part of the show, a professionally made movie is continually run, giving the OIL story in which Big Spring is prominently represented.

The new OIL theme has been unveiled there which you will be hearing about and seeing in print many times in the future. It is, "O.I.L. — the big rig factory in Big Spring, Texas." It was written up in the Wall Street Journal yesterday.

O.I.L. also is showcasing a new mobil rig which is trailer-mounted and can be used for both workover and shallow drilling.

ANTHONY'S Department Store has been a part of the Big Spring retail community for a long time. The organization now has a chain of nearly 300 stores and they are celebrating this week, on May 6 to be exact, their 60th anniversary. Congratulations to Bob Johnson, local store manager, and Cui Grigsby, supervisor, and all the friendly salespeople who serve the consumers.

THE BIG SPRING Mall will have on display an exhibit of THE TALKING WORLD BOOK on May 6, 7, and 8. Until now, visually-impaired students have not had practical access to sufficient reference material. Visitors to this exhibit will find the Talking World Book fascinating — a breakthrough for the blind that brings a new world of knowledge to their fingertips. THANKS BIG SPRING MALL for providing this exhibit.

Congratulations are certainly in order to DALE WORTHAN and PETE SANCHEZ of BOB BROCK FORD who have won prestigious salesmanship awards from the Ford Motor Company.

Soviets steer clear of Falklands

By STEVEN R. HURST
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is trying to make propaganda gains from the Falklands crisis, but ideology and pragmatism deter it from deeper involvement in the Argentine-British conflict. Strong support for Argentina's right-wing leaders could compromise the Soviets ideologically, alienate West European countries backing Britain and set a dangerous precedent in the case of the Kuril Islands, which the Soviet Union seized from Japan near the end of World War II. The Soviet Union, having suffered three poor grain harvests in a row, buys $2.7 billion worth of grain from Argentina annually and is its leading partner in trade.

Budget compromise hits a brick wall

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — While Congress belatedly begins drafting a new federal budget, Republicans are crowing that they have the Democrats in an election-year corner as advocates of increased spending and higher taxes.

Maybe so, but the Republican corner isn't very comfortable, either. The recession persists, unemployment is high, and the pollsters report President Reagan's job approval ratings down.

Those are not promising circumstances as Reagan seeks to reassemble his old team of congressional Republicans and conservative Democrats to pass the kind of budget he wants. "I am convinced that we are in the trough, as it is called, of this recession, and that we will begin to see recovery in the second half of the year," Reagan said in his speech on the budget.

That may not be soon enough for Republican campaign purposes. It takes three to make a budget, a president, the Senate and the House. Since the first two are Republican and the House is Democratic, the debate may become what all sides say they don't want: a sharply partisan debate that will have more to do with the coming elections than with economics.

Those were disputes that couldn't be bridged in the compromise talks that foundered a week ago. And the rhetoric since is not that of compromise.

VOTING RIGHTS — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., appears beside NAACP Director Benjamin Hooks Monday on Capitol Hill, to discuss the extensions of portions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. Republican and Democratic members of the Senate Judiciary Committee have arrived at a compromise on the measure, which has won the endorsement of Hooks and President Reagan.

Voting Rights approval near

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With only the most conservative members still opposed, the Senate now seems sure to swiftly approve a compromise extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Bill supported by liberal Democrats, President Reagan and the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights.

With chairman Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. in the majority, the Senate Judiciary Committee voted 17-1 Tuesday to recommend renewal of the measure.

A similar extension has already been approved in the House — 389-24 last October — so final congressional enactment seems certain before certain key provisions expire in August.

Supporters said more than 70 senators had indicated they will vote for the compromise which is likely to be debated and voted on in the Senate later this month. That would be enough to choke off any filibuster from arch-conservative opponents led by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Thurmond, who had opposed the compromise, said he voted for it reluctantly in committee because of the need to make sure the right to "register and vote will be protected against discrimination of any kind."

Sources said Thurmond probably will support some changes on the Senate floor, but vote for final congressional passage. During a lengthy and sometimes acrimonious committee meeting Tuesday, only Sen. John East, R-N.C. voted against sending the compromise — worked out among a divergent, bipartisan group of senators — to the Senate floor.

East said the compromise punishes the South for discriminatory practices which no longer exist and would extend unfair provisions from other states to the rest of the country.

Another Republican, Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., seated next to East, replied angrily, "Let's not blather about a double standard. This stuff (voting rights violations) never started in my state. When we are talking about voting rights, we are talking about civil rights."

East offered about a dozen amendments to weaken the compromise. Most failed by a wide margin, including one to make it easier for municipalities and counties accused of voting rights violations to escape Justice Department scrutiny.

Nine states and parts of 13 others now must seek Justice Department approval for any change in their election laws.

In other business, the Senate Judiciary Committee approved a compromise measure extending key provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. The plan was supported by civil rights groups and the Reagan administration.

The measure now goes to the Senate floor. Similar legislation has already been approved by the House.

Panel votes to let farmers demand loan payment delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee, trying to force the administration to keep financially struggling farmers afloat, has voted to give farmers a right to demand postponement on repayment of their federal loans.

Without repayment deferrals, says Rep. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., "We're going to see a lot of young farmers who are farming today, not farming in five years, and the country will lose a valuable resource."

Dorgan and other committee members, concerned over reports of increasing farm liquidations amid high interest rates and depressed farm prices, have been fighting for months to impose a full-scale moratorium on repayment of loans issued by the Farmers Home Administration, the Agriculture Department's credit arm.

While they lost that battle Tuesday when the committee approved renewal of the FmHA's basic lending authority, they easily won the repayment deferral clause.

They said it will effectively halt any federal effort to foreclose on or force repayment of FmHA loans before October 1983.

The Congressional Budget Office, in an unofficial analysis, said criteria for deferral are so broad that as many as 96,000 farmers holding $7.7 billion in FmHA loans could qualify. FmHA has about $23.1 billion in outstanding loans.

"We got what we wanted," Dorgan said, but he predicted a major battle over deferral in the full House.

The Reagan administration opposes the deferral clause as well as a formal moratorium.

In addition to the deferral provision, the legislation approved by the committee calls for FmHA lending ceilings generally higher than President Reagan wanted and retains lending programs and subsidized interest rates the president targeted for elimination in his drive to curb federal intrusion in the credit market.

FmHA handles about 12 percent of all farm credit, serving as a lender for farmers who cannot obtain credit through traditional channels.

Administrator Charles Schuman said the depressed farm economy has pushed delinquencies on FmHA loans 10 percent above last year's level. At the beginning of this year, farmers holding more than 66 percent of FmHA's four basic agriculture loans were $4.3 billion in arrears.

Canada to be energy independent: official

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada will be energy independent by 1990, despite the scuttling of a major pipeline project and decreased demand for foreign-owned oil companies, an official says.

Oil will be from different sources than originally anticipated, but we will be self-sufficient by 1990, said Marc Lalonde, minister of energy, mines and technical services.

Lalonde told the Offshore Energy Conference here Tuesday that production from the Hibernia oil field off the Newfoundland coast will help Canada become energy self-sufficient.

The conference, the largest annual trade show for oil industry equipment manufacturers, includes displays of equipment from 90 different countries. It is expected to attract more than 100,000 visitors to the Astrodome complex by closing time Thursday.

Lalonde predicted his country will be energy independent by the end of the decade, despite two recent setbacks.

Last week, subsidiaries of Royal Dutch-Shell Ltd. and Gulf Oil Corp. announced they were retreating from the world's largest synthetic fuel project designed to extract oil from tar sands in the Canadian province of Alberta.

Activity by foreign-owned oil firms also has dropped since the government of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau in 1980 imposed a policy designed to attain 50 percent ownership of oil companies operating in Canada.

Pipeline near Seminole will aid oil recovery

DENVER (AP) — ARCO Oil and Chemical Co. and Exxon Co. have announced a $1.5-billion construction project for a 100-mile Sheep Mountain Pipeline System. The pipeline will carry carbon dioxide from southeastern Colorado to West Texas for enhanced-oil recovery.

Exxon has a 50 percent interest in ARCO's carbon dioxide production in the Sheep Mountain Field, a development of the field near Walsenburg, Colo., already has begun.

Construction of the pipeline, which began April 4, is expected to be completed by early 1983. This coincides with the planned completion of the first phase of the development of the field.

The pipeline will consist of about 178 miles of 20-inch pipe between Sheep Mountain and a point near Bueyeros N.M., and about 227 miles of 24-inch pipe extending from Bueyeros to near Seminole.

SWCB honors 2 area residents

DENVER (AP) — Two area residents recently were honored by the Texas Water Conservation Board. Joseph Cowan will receive an award as the "Wildlife Conservationist" when the soil and water conservation districts in Region II hold their annual conservation awards program in San Angelo Thursday.

Also to be honored is Corey Flanagan of Colorado City, who took first place in a poster contest on the theme, "Resource Conservation."

David Crosby indicted

DENVER (AP) — Rock band leader David Crosby has been indicted on a felony charge of carrying a firearm without a permit in a court appearance at a Denver court last month. Crosby is a founding member of the group Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young. He was arrested on April 13 during a performance in his personal apartment Tuesday.

possessing a 45-caliber automatic pistol.

Grand jurors have yet to act on a charge that Crosby also possessed a controlled substance during the performance. Police said they confiscated several bags believed to contain cocaine and a green bag containing the pistol during a routine check at the club.

Crosby faces up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine if convicted of the firearms charge.

Health Fair Beat

HEALTH FAIR

Puppet show, satire planned

Kids of all ages, take note!
Big Spring's first Health and Safety Fair will have room for a little nonsense among the health screenings and educational booths. Those planning to go out to the Fair will want to check the show time marquee for a puppet show on mental health and a satire on "quackery."

Show times for both will be posted on the midway of the Big Spring Mall, Saturday, May 15, the day of the Fair.

"We'll present mental health concepts, though the use of puppets," said Betty Condray, Big Spring State's Hospital's medical unit administrator and Mary Butler, nursing service coordinator. BSSH employees will do the puppetry at the Fair.

The puppets are provided by the Department of Pastoral Counseling, for the Fair, and hospital personnel will be on hand to answer visitors' questions about mental health.

Skits to be presented are "Recognizing Mental Illness," "Is There An Alcoholic In The Family?," "Who's Listening?," and "Laughter — The Best Medicine." The skits will be presented hourly throughout the day.

A SHORT PLAY with a medicine show theme will be dramatized hourly by the VA Hospital, as one of their contributions to the Health Fair.

The play, complete with costumes and music, will be done by personnel from the Veterans Administration Hospital. A schedule of show times will be posted in the midway of the mall, on the day of the fair.

Quackery is the theme of the satire, according to Sam Ainsworth, microbiologist at the VA. A "quack" is an untrained person who practices medicine fraudulently. The play will stress the importance of seeking health care from a reliable, qualified, professional.

OVER THE YEARS, there has been an increasing interest in the physical and mental health and financial status of older people. But, little attention has been given to their families.

Families continue to be the primary source of care and assistance and information to older adults. However, these adult children do not know of or make maximum use of the resources available in the community. They do not know how to cope with the changing physical and mental problems of their parents. The adult child begins to ask "What can I do? What should I do?"

The "As Parents Grow Older" exhibit is designed to provide information for relatives of the aging. Films will be shown on sensory changes that occur during the aging process and on improving communication with aging parents. A special speaker, Jackie LeLong, will address current concerns of families with aging relatives. Mrs. LeLong is with the Texas Association of Homes for the Aged in Austin, Texas.

Brochures and other information on the "As Parents Grow Older" program will be available to those participating in the health Fair. The booth, films, and lectures are sponsored by Malone-Hogan Hospital and Malone-Hogan Hospital Volunteers.

DO YOU CONSTANTLY "Nag" your child about his or her posture? Perhaps you shouldn't. The child may have a physical disability known as "scoliosis," or curvature of the spine.

A screening to detect scoliosis will be sponsored by Dr. Halvard Hansen, of the Big Spring Chiropractic Center. Scoliosis is curvature of the spine, characterized by a defect in the bones and surrounding tissues of the spine.

Some of the clinical manifestations of scoliosis could include poor posture, one shoulder higher than the other, helmet hanging unevenly, one hip that seems more prominent, crooked neck, lump on the back, waistline uneven, and back pain.

Persons wishing to participate in this screening are encouraged to wear leotards under their regular clothing. The screening is recommended especially for children up to ten years of age, since treatment is most effective if initiated early.

Those who participate in the health screenings at the Fair will be encouraged to share all abnormal findings with their family physician, who can then assist them in seeking further consultation and diagnostic evaluation.

Health Fair Beat is the official column of the Big Spring Health and Safety Fair, slated for May 15, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the Big Spring Mall. The Fair is a community-wide project, sponsored by the City-County Health Unit, Chamber of Commerce, Health & Safety Committee, Hospital Council of Big Spring, Howard College, Texas Agricultural Extension Services, Corden Oil & Chemical, and the Big Spring Herald. For further information, call Barbara Holdampf, 267-8776, extension 266.

Inmates who testified in TDC case may go to federal prisons

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge says six inmates who recently testified against the Texas Department of Corrections may transfer to federal prisons.

Inmates Benny Earl Hudson, Chester Smith Jr., Robert White, Jack W. Thompson, Kelso Haynes and Donald R. Beasley testified at hearings earlier this year that "building tenders," or inmate guards, had been used at the prison.

In an order issued Tuesday, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice gave the inmates the option of transferring to federal institutions. Justice, who ordered the TDC to stop using inmates in supervisory positions, said a meeting would be called to explain the terms of transfers but set no date.

Justice also told TDC officials to explain by May 14 how they are complying with his order to provide each prisoner with 40 square feet of living space.

Rick Gray, executive assistant to Texas Attorney General Mark White, said the state will prove that "in every instance, there's more than 40 square feet per prisoner."

Abandoned 88mm shell traced

CUERO, Texas (AP) — Army weapons experts today were to continue trying to trace the origin of a live 81mm artillery shell that a construction crew scooped up from the muddy bottom of the Guadalupe River.

A Texas Highway Department bridge construction crew halted work when a crane operator dredged the 21-inch-long shell from the river Tuesday morning.

The surprised workman was dredging in the river when "he picked it up with a scoop and washed the mud off," DPS trooper David McEathron said. "He realized what he had and laid it back down."

He said the shell was Army green and "looked just like a little missile."

DeWitt County sheriff's officers said the shell could have been stolen from an Army base. It was turned over to the U.S. Army Depot in Corpus Christi.

REMEMBERING THE PHOENIX — Richard Smith, a former deckhand aboard the USS Phoenix when Pearl Harbor was attacked 41 years ago, watches films of vessel on local news Monday night in San Diego after it was sunk as the General Belgrano of the Argentine navy in the Falkland Islands conflict.

Little oil at Falklands, official says

HOUSTON (AP) — A British cabinet minister attending the opening day of the huge Offshore Technology Conference here claimed that little is known about any oil deposits around the Falkland Islands, an area contested in an armed clash between Britain and Argentina.

United Kingdom Minister of Energy Hamish Gray said there have been no oil companies conducting research in the disputed Falkland Island area.

"I can say very little about the Falklands because little information is available and little seismic work has been done," said Gray.

Industry sources, however, say that oil deposits between the Falklands and the tip of South America have been found by Esso, the Royal DutchShell group, and by the French oil company Total.

Gray made his comments at a news conference on opening day of the four-day Offshore Technology Conference, the largest annual trade show for oil industry equipment manufacturers. The conference is being held at the Astrodome and attracted more than 60,000 people on opening day. Conference officials expect more than 100,000 visitors by the time the conference ends on Thursday.

The show includes displays of equipment from 90 different countries and includes the highs and lows of the oil business: drill bits for the bottoms of wells and helicopters to fly over them.

At another news conference, Shell Oil Co. president John F. Bookout said he expects the price of oil will not increase in terms of constant dollars until 1985 or 1986, but that it will climb in terms of current dollars early next year.

Starting in 1983, said Bookout, he expects the price of oil, which has declined in recent months due to an oil "glut", will start increasing at about the same rate as inflation.

Former crewman remembers days before ship lost luck

SAN DIEGO (AP) — White-haired Richard Smith remembers the Phoenix, a sleek gray gunboat, as "a lucky hip." One of the few that survived Pearl Harbor, and four hard-fought years of Pacific combat.

"She went through a lot and never took a direct hit. She led a charmed life," said Smith, a 19-year-old deckhand when the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, leaving 18 U.S. Navy ships sunk or severely damaged, 170 planes destroyed and about 3,700 casualties.

Charmed it was, until Sunday. A British submarine sank the 43-year-old cruiser, since renamed the General Belgrano, Argentina's second-largest warship. Argentine officials say more than 500 are missing in the icy South Atlantic seas.

Smith, 60, heard the news while driving to work Monday morning and immediately feared the worst. "I knew it must be the Phoenix. It was one of the few big ships they've got," said Smith, a Navy retiree now working in the supply department at North Island Naval Station.

"It's a shame," he said in an interview with The Associated Press.

For five years, from 1941 to 1946, the Phoenix was Smith's floating home.

"It was my first ship, a fine ship. I'd probably still be on it if it wasn't decommissioned," said Smith.

Two years ago, when the Navy commissioned the fifth Phoenix, a submarine, in Groton, Conn., Smith was among 140 former Phoenix shipmates who attended. "We were dedicated to that ship," he said.

Smith was shining his shoes on the fateful morning of Dec. 7, 1941, when bombs began demolishing the surprised American fleet.

"The first thing I saw was the Arizona going up in smoke. We were too busy to think, we had to act. It took half an hour before we could fire a shot. We had to cut down the awnings that covered the guns and break locks on the ready boxes to get ammo," said Smith.

After escaping the holocaust unharmed, the Phoenix, St. Louis, Detroit and other remnants of the crippled task force assembled to search for the enemy carriers.

Close calls became commonplace for the charmed warship.

"It seemed like we were always dodging torpedos," said Smith, who remembers seeing Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the bridge of the Phoenix.

VA expands grave space

DENVER — Major management initiatives to ensure the best use of cemetery land are being carried out by the U.S. Veterans Administration.

VA Administrator Robert Nimmo said attention to the national system of 105 current cemeteries and five more under development was prompted by projections indicating a future increase in the burial needs of veterans.

The VA's national cemeteries in the Texas-Gulf states area with grave space open include those in Houston, Fort Bliss, San Antonio, Alexandria, La., Biloxi, Corinth and Natchez, Miss.

"It is estimated that by the year 2000, some 11 million, or 37 percent of the present living veteran population, will pass away," Nimmo said. "The VA is planning its new cemeteries and new sections in existing cemeteries to help use funds more efficiently." He added that the changes "will not sacrifice the quality service we are dedicated, and committed to provide."

Winn-Dixie sales are up

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Winn-Dixie Stores Inc. reported sales for the 12 week quarter ended March 31 of $1,588,032,000 as compared with $1,480,058,000 for the 12 weeks ended April 1, 1981, an increase of 7.3 percent.

For the 40 weeks ended March 31, 1982, the sales total was $5,063,810,000 compared with $4,373,892,000, an increase of 6.9 percent.

Consolidated earnings after taxes for the quarter were $28,627,000 or $1.16 per share, compared with $26,632,000 or $1.02 per share last year. Cumulative current year earnings amounted to $79,241,000 or $3.20 per share compared with $73,247,000 or $2.81 per share last year.

The company expects to open approximately 40 new stores and close about the same number during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1982.

Dr. Donohue

Osteoporosis

Dear Dr. Donohue: I recently read an article that paints a very discouraging future for people with regard to osteoporosis. It says the people will end up as invalids. Will you comment on this? I have made up my mind to prove the writer wrong. — Mrs. B.C.

The bone-thinning of osteoporosis is not a pleasant picture, but it is not one in which hope cannot be painted. First of all, osteoporosis is very common and it affects men as well as women. Not much comfort there. It does strike more severely in women and at an earlier age than in men. There are many factors involved — genetics, hormones, nutrition, exercise, or more properly, lack of it. I should take a few extra moments on the exercise part. Muscles attach to bones, so every time you move a muscle you place stress on bones somewhere. When the bone is stressed, it responds by laying down more calcium and becoming bigger and stronger. So the rule for women as they approach middle life should be — stay active. The more active you are, the less bothersome will be your osteoporosis.

The second factor in osteoporosis involves absorption of calcium from the digestive tract. As we grow older this absorption tends to wane. A way to counteract this is by making sure you get plenty of calcium in those years prior to middle age. Many adults shun milk and dairy products. They shouldn't. A glass of skimmed milk has about 240 milligrams of calcium. That helps. The need is for 1,000 milligrams a day, and some would say 1,500 is closer to the real need. The fact that the milk is skimmed skirts the cholesterol consequences.

Those are two ways to prove that writer wrong. There are others. One is a judgement called by your physician. Some doctors will prescribe low doses of female hormones. That seems to help calcium absorption by the bones. The reason all doctors will not prescribe this for all osteoporosis cases is that there is a small risk of uterine cancer. Also, experimentally, fluoride medicine has been evaluated to see if it will help rebuild weakened bones. Other drugs, like calcitonin, have been under study. I like your attitude. I am sure you will be able to reach your goal.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 77-year-old male. For the last seven years I have two or three movements in a week. I take a laxative pill every morning and one every other night. I don't want to, but I do. What is your comment on my situation? — R.J.M.

My first comment is that you are taking too many laxatives. The fact that you have been doing this for so long disturbs me. You don't have to have elimination every day. The two or three a week may be normal for you. But if you continue to take so many, you will weaken the natural pattern of your digestive-tract activity. You may need a doctor to get things settled down for you after all this time.

Instead of all those laxatives, increase the bulk in your diet. You can do that easily by sprinkling bran over your morning cereal. That may be all you need eventually. Begin with a teaspoon of it, then increase the amount as needed.

Dear Abby

Woman's no longer man she was

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman signed "Nervous in Northridge" caught my eye. She said she had a baby boy who was so beautiful that strangers used to stop her on the street and say, "That child is much too beautiful to be a boy, he should have been a girl!"

As a baby boy I was never particularly beautiful, but dating back to my earliest recollections, I always felt that I should have been a girl.

As I matured, those feelings became so strong and painful that I often considered suicide rather than living the rest of my life in the "wrong" sex.

When I was 31, I wrote to you about my problem and you recommended a Dr. Paul Walker, who practiced gender identification therapy in San Francisco.

I went to see him, and after several months, he confirmed that I was a bona fide transsexual. I decided to do whatever was necessary to become a woman physically. Dr. Walker explained what it entailed, and he guided me through the necessary stages.

The transition hasn't been easy, but it saved my life, and now I have a body that matches my mind and emotions. Best of all, I no longer have to pray to be a woman — I am one.

FROM HARRY TO HARRIETTE

DEAR ABBY: Last week I received an engraved invitation to my niece's wedding. Enclosed was a mimeographed letter. When I read it I couldn't believe my eyes. It said: "Gift suggestion: Because the bride and groom have everything they need, an ideal gift would be something that can be put into a pocket or purse." (I later learned that this letter was included in all the invitations — not only to family members.)

Abby, the bride's family is extremely wealthy, but even if they were in modest circumstances, is it proper to send a "gift suggestion" along with an invitation?

I believe that a gift is just that — a gift — and I prefer to select a gift myself, but now I feel that I no longer have that option. How should I respond?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Ignore the "suggestion," and select your own gift. It is never proper to "suggest" a gift, unless, of course, the giver asks for suggestions.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

It's still panda-monium at the National Zoo

By ANDI STEIN
Smithsonian News Service

It seems like only yesterday. Two green crates marked "Giant Panda" stood in the middle of the animal enclosures at the Smithsonian's National Zoological Park in Washington, D.C., as anxious zoo officials waited expectantly.

Suddenly, a fluffy ball of black and white lumbered out of one crate. Waddling around her pen, she excitedly sniffed the new surroundings, picked up her water dish, promptly turned it upside-down and plopped it on her head. Ling-Ling, a 136-pound, 2-year-old female giant panda who had just arrived from China, was making herself at home.

Meanwhile, in the adjacent enclosure, there was silence from another large wooden box. After some time, a 1-1/4-year-old male, Hsing-Hsing, cautiously emerged. He peered around his new home carefully, then beat a rapid retreat into his den.

So it was that almost immediately after their arrival, outgoing Ling-Ling and shy Hsing-Hsing (pronounced Shing-Shing) had already demonstrated their distinctive personalities.

THAT WAS 10 years ago, on April 16, 1972, when the two giant pandas took up residence in the National Zoo. Though they've changed through the decade, the personable Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing continue to attract and entertain millions of visitors.

The pandas were a gift to the American people from the People's Republic of China on the occasion of President Nixon's trip there in 1972. As the first giant pandas to live in the United States since Mei-Lan, a male, died at the Brookfield Zoo in Chicago in 1953, Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing offered a rare opportunity to learn about the care, behavior and breeding of these exotic creatures.

Natives of China, giant pandas are not found in the wild outside of that country, and only a few zoos around the world currently exhibit them. Even within China, the panda's habitat is limited to what conservationist Vinzenz Ziswiler calls a "vegetational island" of bamboo — the panda's principal food — in the mountains of southwestern China. It is thought that only about 1,000 animals remain in the wild.

From the sparse amount of panda literature available in 1972, Larry Collins, the first National Zoo curator responsible for the pandas, thought the animals would be dull-witted and uninterested in their surroundings. He was soon surprised.

"It was constantly a challenge to stay one step ahead of them," Collins recalls. Soon after his arrival, shy, retiring Hsing-Hsing became as rambunctious as his female counterpart. Both pandas reveled in ripping apart the bamboo planters in their enclosures, knocking over their water tubs and doing handstands in their dens. "There were few dull moments around the panda house," Collins says.

Even as youngsters, both animals were tremendously strong. One of the earliest problems was finding indestructible "toys" to amuse them. Collins thought the solution might be a basketball, specially designed, it was said, to withstand even a determined panda. But Ling-Ling quickly figured out how to sink her teeth into hers, turning the expensive plaything into a heap of deflated orange rubber.

In the summer, blocks of ice and tubs of water entertained the pandas. In the winter, Zoo staffers sometimes built snowmen for the animals. With one swift push of the paw, the figure toppled, rewarding the panda with the snowman's "nose" — a carrot.

LEARNING THE NEEDS OF the two lovable creatures was often a matter of trial and error. Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing liked to sleep most of the day, to the dismay of visitors who often came long distances only to find them curled up and snoozing. At first, Collins says, the staff thought they were nocturnal animals, but a round-the-clock "panda watch" revealed that the animals are active both in the early morning and early evening.

Then there was their diet. The Chinese had recommended a basic meal of bamboo stalks, carrots, apples and rice gruel. To this the Zoo added powdered cottage cheese, vitamin and mineral supplements and even a dog biscuit, which Collins thought would be good for their teeth.

But as the pandas flourished on this hearty fare, they also gained weight rapidly, soon reaching nearly 300 pounds. By this time, they appeared sluggish and moved clumsily around their enclosures. The overweight animals were put on a diet; by eating less, they eventually slimmed down to a trim 250 pounds, which seems to suit them well.

Over the years, the keepers have seen definite personality changes, although they don't know why. In the beginning, Ling-Ling was more lively and aggressive, the male rather meek and subdued. Today, the roles have almost reversed. Ling-Ling is often moody and aloof, while Hsing-Hsing has become an attention-loving ham.

Their behavior patterns have been studied by Dr. Devra Kleinman, head of the Zoo's department of zoological research. Kleinman immediately initiated a "panda log," with a team of volunteers and keepers to monitor the daily and nocturnal activities of the creatures and record their behavior.

Capital spending unaffected by stimulation from tax law

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The framers of last year's landmark tax law stocked it with measures to stimulate spending for new plants, production machinery and other so-called "capital goods."

The idea was to promote a much-needed modernization of industrial facilities in many industries, helping to increase productivity and to improve American business's ability to compete in the world economy.

But more than 10 months after the bill was passed, capital spending is producing barely a ripple on the economic charts.

There is little doubt in the experts' minds about why things haven't gone as they were supposed to. High interest rates shortened many a company's capital-goods shopping list; the recession, wiped out much of what remained.

Few observers see much chance for any early improvement in the outlook for this important sector of the economy. "Capital spending can be counted out this year," said Linda T. Kristiansen, economist at the Wall Street firm of A.G. Becker Inc.

To try to determine when spending for new plant and equipment is likely to pick up, many economists watch the monthly government statistics that track how much existing production capacity is in current use.

By tradition, when the capacity-utilization rate reaches 85 percent, it triggers stepped-up demand for new facilities. Since last fall, it has been far below that point. In March it stood at 71.4 percent.

But some Wall Street analysts who keep tabs on the capital-goods industries contend the boom hasn't been canceled, only postponed.

Frank J. Prezelski, has been telling the clients of his employer, Shearson

American Express, "the prolonged weakness in the economy has, in our opinion, only deferred the upturn we foresee."

Prezelski acknowledges not only that capital spending traditionally takes a beating in recessions, but also that it usually doesn't rebound until subsequent economic recoveries are well under way.

But whenever it comes, he maintains that there are several reasons to expect that "the next capital spending cycle will be stronger than recent experience."

One important factor, according to Prezelski, is the end of the era of cheap energy. High prices for fuel and petrochemical raw materials have led to a new urgency for companies in many industries to adapt and modernize their production facilities, machinery and processes.

One step closer: Steers win 5-0

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steers waded a little closer to the District 5-A AAAA title here Tuesday afternoon.

Playing in the rain for the final four innings, the Steers got shutout pitching from Moe Rubio and a home run by Tom Cudd to blank the Bronchos 5-0 for their 12th straight victory.

Big Spring is now 5-0 in the second half standings and has a one game lead over Cooper, 4-1, with two games left. The two teams are scheduled to play at 4 p.m. Thursday in Abilene weather permitting. The Steers close out the district schedule Saturday hosting San Angelo.

For the year, Big Spring is now 22-8 while Odessa is doing the reverse number, struggling through a long 5-22 season.

Big Spring again sat back and let Rubio do the paddling for them. The senior right hander continued his excellent pitching performance in district play with a third shutout in his last four outings. He scattered seven Odessa hits and was backed by errorless defense despite the rain, running his record to 9-2, best in the league.

The Steers jumped on the scoreboard immediately, scoring three times in the first inning.

Marcus Armendariz and James Walker singled and Blake Rosson doubled in the first run. With two out, David Anguiano singled in two more runs to make it 3-0.

Big Spring got another run in the second as Walker reached on an error and scored on Rosson's single after stealing second and moving to third on a wild pitch.

Cudd knocked his second home run in district in the third, upping the final count to 5-0.

Odessa had seven singles as David Olivias and Johnny Rodriguez had two hits each. The only problem was getting those baserunners across the plate.

Rubio has given up just one earned run in his last 29 innings.

5-A AAAA Roundup

Cougars keep hopes alive

Cooper needed a win over Midland Tuesday to remain in contention for the district playoffs. Billy Mitchell and Greg Galbraith did the job on the mound and Cougar bats did the rest in a 12-4 victory over the Bulldogs.

In other games, Abilene High continued its slump in the second half, getting bombed 8-2 by Midland Lee. San Angelo edged Permian 2-1 and Big Spring stayed ahead of the pack with a 5-0 shutout of Odessa.

Here's how they went around the league Tuesday:

Cooper 12, Midland 4

ABILENE — Six Midland errors, four of those in a five-run second frame, enabled the Cougars to take the easy win.

Mitchell pitched four innings, giving up just one run. Saving him for a start against Big Spring, coach Jim Reese put in Galbraith who surrendered the final three Midland runs.

Robert Wagstaff and Bob Brown knocked in four runs between them in the second inning as Cooper opened up a big 7-0 lead.

Brown had three hits on the day and Wagstaff and Chuck Cathey two each.

Midland Lee 8, Abilene 2

MIDLAND — Lee scored three runs in the first inning and those were all that were needed in the win over the Eagles.

Bryan Willis moved his record to 6-2 with the victory, outdueling Jeff Waits, 6-2.

Abilene managed just four hits int he game while Lee pounded out 11, three by shortstop Barry Blackwell. Blackwell's hits consisted of two doubles and a single.

SAN ANGELO — Bruce Hollander limited the Bobcats to three hits but catcher Mike King threw two throws away to score two unearned runs and saddle Hollander with his eighth loss of the year.

Abel Tarin scattered five hits to get his first victory of the season.

Colorful 'Tex' Cobb relishes idea of fighting one opponent

By HAL BOCK
 AP Sports Writer

When Gerry Cooney's bad shoulder forced postponement of his heavyweight title fight against Larry Holmes in March, promoter Don King began shopping around for a replacement. Randy "Tex" Cobb's name soon came up.

His credentials were good — a mean-looking, colorful character who wears a 10-gallon hat and has an impressive ring record. There was, however, one problem.

"He is, uh, indisposed," an advisor advised King.

"What do you mean, 'indisposed,'" King asked.

"Well, he broke his arm in a barroom brawl in Philadelphia," the aide explained.

Even King had to agree, that's indisposed, all right.

Cobb's explanation of the unfortunate event is very simple. He was merely trying to practice a bit of statesmanship in the wrong place at the wrong time.

"A friend of mine had a problem with some individual and I tried to negotiate a settlement," he said. "Alexander Haig did a better job negotiating in the Falklands than I did, and they're shooting at each other over there. I mean, those guys in Philly were experienced. There were about 30 of them and they were using bats and pieces of iron. They gave a whole new meaning to the term 'Civil Defense.'"

So Cobb wound up with his arm in a sling and had to wait a little longer for his championship chance. It will come June 2 in Atlantic City against Mike Weaver, the World Boxing Association heavyweight king. Cobb isn't terribly concerned about fighting the champ, not after the negotiating experience.

"Hey, I'm going against one guy, not 30," he said. "He's wearing leather, and I got a zebra in there with me to keep him from stepping on my throat."

Still, Cobb knows that when the other guy is throwing punches, it can be unpleasant.

"Everytime I get hit, I get hurt," he said. "Everytime. There's nothing wrong with my nerve endings. They all work."

Then why does he stay in the brutal business of boxing?

"It's easier than working for a living," he said. "I'm just flat out lazy. I couldn't stand working 9 to 5, punching a time clock every day. I will fight anybody on two legs to keep from working. Now that's lazy. Anybody who'll bleed before he works, he's lazy."

Cobb has lost only two of 22 career fights, both split decisions, first to Ken Norton and then to Michael Dokes. He does not believe he can win fights on points and is convinced that the only way he can beat Weaver is by a knockout.

Before becoming a boxer, Cobb played college football at Abilene Christian and was a teammate of Wilbert Montgomery, who now plays with the Philadelphia Eagles.

"Boxing's a tad more intense than football," he said. "But boxers aren't as good athletes as football players. Those guys are 6-8 and fast. They run like spotted apes. Fighters are just hard heads, too lazy to work, like me."

Holmes reconsiders basketball position

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Longhorn guard Denard Holmes, who had been quoted in published reports as saying he might leave the school's basketball team because of Bob Welch's coaching style, now says he is "leaning toward coming back."

Texas hired Welch from Mississippi after Coach Abe Lemons was fired March 10.

Since then, LaSalle Thompson, the nation's leading college rebounder, has announced he will skip his senior year to turn pro, and freshman guard James Tandy has decided to transfer to East Tennessee State.

Tandy chose to follow former Longhorn aide Barry Dowd to East Tennessee after Dowd lost out to Welch in his bid for the head coaching job at Texas.

Holmes, a 6-foot-4 sophomore transfer from Jacksonville Baptist College, said, "There are two things I'm thinking about now. One is getting my degree. I've gone so far that I'd hate to leave now and maybe never finish school. Two, I'm thinking whether we can have fun playing ball this year, and win some games."

"It's not too much fun if we go out and go 0-25 next year."

Denton is 5-5A bi-district foe

The Big Spring Steers can capture their first-ever District 5-A AAAA championship with either a win over Cooper in Abilene or at home against San Angelo.

Waiting in the wings are the Denton Bronchos who won the District 6-A AAAA title Tuesday with an 8-1 victory over Wichita Falls High. The team is coached by former Abilene High coach Tommy Blair who guided the Eagles to several successful seasons.

The bi-district series will be a best two-of-three event.

Big Spring is 5-0 in the second half race after tying with Abilene High for the first half championship with 6-1 records. A loss in either of the final two games would still give the Steers the title since they would have tied for both halves. Abilene has slumped in the second half, falling to 2-4 with Tuesday's loss to Midland Lee.

Should Thursday's game be rained out, it would be rescheduled Friday. If that is not possible, the Steers would play Saturday's game against San Angelo. By winning that game, the Cooper game would be meaningless and not played at all.

Big Spring is now 22-8, having won twelve straight and 15 of their last 16 games.

It's wrap-up time in the NBA

By The Associated Press

The Boston Celtics are always tough at home. Tonight they figure to be even tougher for the Washington Bullets.

"I hope they fall asleep and go off form," Washington guard Kevin Grevey says hopefully, "but I don't really think it'll happen."

Grevey reflects the popular opinion as the Bullets try to do the improbable — come back from a 1-3 deficit in their seven-game National Basketball Association Eastern playoff series.

If they are to overtake the league's defending champions, they'll have to start tonight at Boston Garden, where the Celtics had a 35-6 record during the regular season.

Ironically, the Bullets' only victory over the Celtics in this quarterfinal series — and their only win over Boston in the last 13 games — came in the Celtics' arena last Wednesday night.

A Celtics' win tonight will advance them to the Eastern finals, where they expect to meet the Philadelphia 76ers. The 76ers hold a 3-1 edge over the Milwaukee Bucks going into tonight's fifth game in Philadelphia.

In the other quarterfinal game, the San Antonio Spurs hope to clinch their Western series against the Seattle SuperSonics. A win tonight in Game 5 will put them into their division finals against the Los Angeles Lakers, which earlier swept the Phoenix Suns in four games.

The 76ers expect to see Milwaukee try to clog the middle and keep Julius Erving from driving. The Bucks have been double-teaming Erving and jump shooter Andrew Toney.

The San Antonio-Seattle series has been a tight one. All three of the Spurs' victories have been by two points.

"We're playing well, just not well enough to win," Seattle center Jack Sikma says. "We still feel we can take three (remaining) games, but we have to concentrate on one at a time."

"There can be no coasting," San Antonio guard George Gervin says. "I'm confident, but not cocky. There is no room for being cocky in this league. That will eat you up."

Gervin was perhaps remembering 1979, when the Spurs led the Bullets 3-1 and then lost the next three straight and the opportunity to play in the NBA finals for the first time.

Seaver silences Astros

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Manager John McNamara reached through the throng of reporters and shook Tom Seaver's hand.

"Welcome back," McNamara said. "Thank you. It's nice to be back," Seaver replied. "I never really left, but I was sort of incognito."

There was no doubt about Seaver's presence Tuesday night, as he hurled a four-hitter for seven innings to earn his first victory of the season, a 5-2 triumph over the Houston Astros.

The three-time Cy Young award winner had struggled through his first three starts, absorbing three losses as he tried to recover from a virus that hit him late in spring training and cost him eight to 10 pounds.

Although he wasn't strong enough to pitch a complete game, he showed Tuesday that he was getting back to normal.

"He knew he was going to throw well, sooner or later," said catcher Alex Trevino. "I guess it's just a matter of being in shape."

"He had that (virus). When you've been around and you're older, it takes you longer to come around and get back in shape."

Seaver wasn't sure whether to expect another rocky tone on the comeback road before the game Tuesday.

"I felt lousy in the bullpen. I felt awful," Seaver said. "I felt like I didn't have any movement or quickness. I said I was going to try to change speeds a lot early."

Relying on his breaking pitches, Seaver retired the first seven batters before surrendering a pair of hits in the third. He held the Astros hitless for the next three innings, until Art Howe singled and Phil Garner tripled for a run with two out in the seventh.

At that point, Seaver got a visit from Reds' pitching Coach Bill Fischer.

"I told him I'm going to get this guy out and I'm going in to have a beer," Seaver said.

That's what he did, retiring Kiko Garcia on a ground ball to end the inning. Tom Hume came on and gave up an RBI single to former Reds' third baseman Ray Knight in the eighth.

"I started to get tired in the sixth inning. I felt some fatigue setting in. I felt a little wobbly," Seaver said.

"I was running out of gas, and I didn't want to get caught out there if I didn't have anything left."

Former Astro Cesar Cedeño rapped three hits and drove in a pair of runs with a first-inning single off Bob Knepper, 1-3, to pace the Reds' attack. Dan Driessen also had three hits and one RBI.

Pirates 8, Braves 4

All good things must come to an end...like the Atlanta Braves' unbeaten road streak.

Mike Easler hit the first grand slam home run of his career to cap a five-run third inning and Omar Moreno collected four hits, scored three times and stole two bases as Pittsburgh halted a four-game losing streak. The Braves wasted home runs by Dale Murphy, Glenn Hubbard and Bob Horner. Rookie Joe Cowley was the losing pitcher.

Pecos plucks Lamesa, 7-3

PECOS — Pecos scored three times in the first and fifth innings to defeat the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes 7-3 here Monday night.

The loss was the fifth straight for the Tors after Lamesa had battled back from a slow start to an even 7-7 district. In the second half District 2-AAAAA race, Pecos is 1-0 and the Tors 0-2.

Lassaro Arrendondo was tagged for a dozen hits but his teammates didn't matter with five errors. Bobby Ray got the win for Pecos. The lefty improved the lefty pitching record to 6-0 this season against Lamesa.

Lamesa collected five hits in the game.

The Tors are back on the diamond Friday at 4 p.m. in a district game against Fort Stockton in Lamesa.

Devils drop first contest

Thanks to the Big Spring Herald Rangers, there are no undefeated teams left in National Little League.

The Rangers collected six singles and turned them into nine runs to upend the Anderson Music Devils 9-7 before the rains came Tuesday night.

The Rangers improved to 1-2 with the win while the Devils slipped to 1-1 in league play. Matt Garrett had a double and triples in four turns at the plate for the Devils.

American League Taff Wennik and Brent Hartfield combined for a four-hit shutout as the Cain Electric Astros topped the Fiber Flex Falcons 3-0.

Teddy Molina and Aaron Allen rapped doubles among six hits for the Astros who

National League

Dodgers 2, Mets 1

Dusty Baker's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning broke a 1-1 tie. Fernando Valenzuela, who snapped a personal two-game losing streak with a seven-hitter, set up the winning run with a leadoff single off relief ace Neil Allen. Steve Sax sacrificed and when Allen threw wildly past first the runners went to second and third.

At that point, Derral Thomas ran for Valenzuela and Steve Garvey was intentionally walked to load the bases. Baker, who started the night hitless in 17 at-bats, lofted a long fly ball to center over the draw-in Mets' outfield for the winning run.

Padres 7, Expos 3

First-inning home runs by Garry Templeton and Sixto Lezcano helped unbeaten Tim Lollar, who went 61-3 in innings, to his third victory of the season — a 7-3 triumph over all six games he has started — while winless Ray Burris suffered his fifth defeat.

Templeton's first home run as a Padre came on a 0-2 pitch from Burris and followed a one-out single by Juan Bonilla. After Ruppert Jones beat out a bunt but was caught stealing, Lezcano hit his third homer for a 3-0 lead. The Expos got a run in the fifth on Tim Wallach's homer. San Diego picked up two unearned runs in its half of the inning on throwing errors by Burris and Montreal catcher Gary Carter.

Phillies 9, Giants 4

Steve Carlton won his third straight game after starting the season by losing four in a row, striking out 10 batters in seven innings and hitting a three-run homer. Philadelphia's George Vukovich hit his first home run of the season, a three-run blast in the fifth off Rich Gale to break a 4-4 tie and the Phillies won their third game in a row for the first time this season.

Carlton's homer in the second inning was his first since 1978 when he connected off Don Sutton of Los Angeles in the National League Championship Series. It was his 10th regular-season homer in 18 seasons.

Cardinals 7, Cubs 4

Keith Hernandez belted his first home run of the season and George Hendrick hit his fifth, while Lonnie Smith singled and tripled and scored his 23rd and 24th runs, tops in the NL. In addition, winning pitcher Joaquin Andujar singled home the deciding tally in the sixth inning and picked up one of four stolen bases by the Cardinals.

Hernandez homered off Ferguson Jenkins in the third inning and Hendrick connected in the fifth.

Texas loss skein at 10 American League

A's 9, Yankees 7

DETROIT (AP) — A sullen silence hung over the visitors' clubhouse in Tiger Stadium as Texas Manager Don Zimmer tried to explain the play that extended the Rangers' losing streak to 10 games.

The Rangers had every reason to be dejected after committing three errors Tuesday night and dropping a 4-3 decision to Detroit, despite battling back from a 3-1 deficit.

Suddenly a tremendous explosion of sound rocked the room, startling Zimmer and reporters in his small office.

"Don't get excited," Zimmer said. "It's a wonder somebody ain't done it by now."

Later, a blue metal trainer's trunk — filled with bottles and jars — lay battered and beaten in the middle of the dressing room floor, where it had been flung. Just who caused the commotion was in dispute.

It really didn't matter. The hurt of the Rangers' worst streak since 1976 obviously was deep. They had wasted a combined four-hit pitching effort by Frank Tanana and Danny Darwin, 2-1.

"What can I say, Tanana went out and pitched good again," Zimmer lamented. "They get one run because we miss the cutoff man and they get the game-winner unearned because (Kirk) Gibson makes a terrific slide to take out our second baseman on a double play ball."

With the score tied 3-3, Chet Lemon led off the Detroit eighth with a walk and went to second when Darwin walked Gibson intentionally. Larry Herndon grounded to Buddy Bell at third who flipped to second baseman Doug Flynn, forcing Gibson. But Gibson's slide wiped out Flynn, whose wild throw to first for an error allowed Lemon to score the winning run.

Flynn had to be carried from the field on a stretcher, but he later walked from the stadium and was driven to Henry Ford Hospital for further examination of his right shoulder. Flynn said later by telephone he didn't think his shoulder was broken.

"That's what Gibby does," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said. "He looks to get down there and break up the double play. That's what Pete Rose used to do. He'd put you in left field."

"What's going to happen is guys are going to start clearing out of there (when Gibson's coming down the line at them). It's already happening."

Indians 6, Angels 5

Bill Nahorodny, 28-year-old journeyman catcher, says he can't get enough of baseball, but the California Angels probably have had enough of Nahorodny.

Acquired Sunday from Charleston of the Triple-A International League, Nahorodny rapped two of seven doubles by Cleveland hitters and collected two RBI Tuesday night as the Indians defeated the red-hot California Angels 6-5.

Mariners 4, Orioles 3

Jim Essian singled home the tying run in the ninth inning, and Al Bumby's error in center field allowed the winning run to score as the Mariners snapped a three-game losing streak.

Gene Nelson, traded to Seattle from the New York Yankees, earned his first victory in five decisions, checking Baltimore on four hits before getting last-out relief help from Ed Vandenberg.

Brewers 9, Royals 5

Charlie Moore's two-run homer in the sixth inning erased a 5-4 Kansas City lead, and Milwaukee scored three more runs in the seventh inning to beat the Royals.

Jim Slaton pitched 41-3 innings of one-hit relief, taking over from starter Bob McClure in the fifth after Jerry Martin homered to give the Royals a 5-3 lead. Ben Oglivie made it 5-4 with a fifth-inning homer, and the Brewers salted away the victory on a two-run error by Kansas City shortstop Onix Concepcion and an RBI single by Jim Gantner in the seventh.

White Sox 4, Blue Jays 3

Greg Luzinski's three-run homer highlighted a four-run rally as Chicago scored all its runs in the sixth inning off losing Toronto starter Dave Stieb, now 1-3. Britt Burns, who trailed 3-0 after four innings, made the lead stand up for his third victory in four decisions.

Red Sox 5, Twins 3

Glenn Hoffman ripped a two-run single in the third inning that snapped a 3-3 tie, and Bruce Hurst made the lead stand until getting eighth-inning relief help from Luis Aponte. The victory was the fifth in a row for Boston.

Clerc may skip Wimbledon

Lendl getting to be tough to handle

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Lendl, the Czechoslovakian tennis machine, is feeling well, and that could spell trouble for everyone else at the $500,000 WCT Tournament of Champions.

fell to countryman Eddie Edwards 6-3, 7-6 in the day's lone upset at the courts that until 1978 were the site of the U.S. Open.

"Give the guy some credit," Kriek said of his conqueror. "He beat me. I think I played pretty well — he just played better."

Clerc, who said he would skip Wimbledon if Britain and Argentina are still fighting over the Falkland Islands at that time, defeated Bruce Derlin of New Zealand 6-2, 7-6.

"I try to read the newspapers and see the TV every day," Clerc said. "I know it's very tough on my countrymen now. I know my country is in a war."

"If that continues, I'll not play Wimbledon."

Gerulaitis, who won this tournament in 1980, outlasted Erick Iskersky 6-3, 4-6, 6-0. Dibs, last year's winner, downed Brad Drewett of Australia 6-1, 6-0 and Gomez stopped Ndaka Odizor of Nigeria 6-2, 6-3.

Lendl, ranked third in the world, was to play another West German, Werner Zirnigibl, in today's second round, while Clerc's opponent will be Mario Martinez of Bolivia. McEnroe, who will take on Russell Simpson of New Zealand.

In other first-round matches Tuesday, Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia dropped Georges Goven of France 6-1, 6-0 and 16th-seeded Hank Pfister defeated Pedro Rebolledo of Chile 6-4, 7-6.

In second-round play, Teacher downed Marcos Hocevar of Brazil 6-4, 7-6; Sadri defeated Pat Dupre 4-6, 6-3, 6-3; Peru's Pablo Arraya dropped Bill Scanlon 6-4, 6-2; Chris Lewis of New Zealand ousted Brazil's Joao Soares 7-5, 6-1 and Shlomo Glickstein of Israel stopped Spain's Juan Avendano 6-3, 6-3.

The winner here collects $100,000 and a $43,000 fur coat. The runnerup takes home $40,000.

Saturday's semifinals and the finals Sunday will be nationally televised on ABC-TV.

Homers fly in Texas League play

By The Associated Press

Doug Wabeke slammed a two-run homer in the first inning to boost the Shreveport Captains to a 7-5 Texas League baseball victory over the Arkansas Travelers.

In other games Tuesday night, Jackson shut out Tulsa, 5-0, and El Paso edged Amarillo, 16-15, in 10 innings. San Antonio's scheduled game at Midland was postponed because of rain.

Wabeke's homer came in the bottom of the first inning and gave Shreveport a 2-1 lead. Teammate Kevin Torve had a homer, a double and single to boost his batting average to .429.

Tom Nieto had a solo homer for Arkansas in the ninth.

The winning pitcher was Jim Dunn, 2-1. The loser was Tom Thurberg, 2-2.

Scott Dye limited the Tulsa Drillers to only four hits as the Jackson Mets shut out the Drillers, 5-0. Only one Driller reached second base. Dye is 2-1 after pitching the first shutout and complete game of his four-year career.

Astronauts to resume space walks

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two mission specialists assigned to the November space shuttle mission may be the first astronauts to walk in space in nearly a decade, the space agency says. Astronauts Joseph P. Allen and William B. Lenoir are scheduled to blast off on the Columbia's fifth flight.

If the "space walks" are approved, Allen and Lenoir would work in the payload bay for about six hours, tethered to one of the shuttle's walls, the Johnson Space Center said Tuesday. The last "space walk" was performed in February 1974 during the Skylab 4 mission.

Immigration agents nab 121 illegal aliens

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents have detained 121 illegal aliens in Brazos County, many of whom worked for local construction companies. An INS spokesman said the raid on Tuesday was the largest here in five years. INS supervisor Juventino Garcia said the raid was not related to "Operation Jobs," a nationwide roundup last week that has drawn international criticism.

Garcia said the raid was also the second largest in his 81-county San Antonio district. Many of those detained were family members of workers, he said. INS investigators, accompanied by Brazos County sheriff's deputies, began the raid early Tuesday morning. Agents said that they had captured 76 aliens by noon. The prisoners were marched in pairs to jails, officers said. Garcia said 54 aliens and their family members were taken by bus to San Antonio, before traveling to Eagle Pass for return to Mexico.

Richard Casillas, INS district director, said many area companies were named in complaints received by the district office.

He said another county in the district would be the site of a raid in the next several days.

Texans fight burning of chemicals in Gulf

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Although tests on an earlier burn of PCBs are still incomplete, a chemical disposal company wants to expand the kind of toxic substances it can incinerate in the Gulf of Mexico.

The request by Chemical Waste Management Inc. to also burn DDT, Silverex and a mixture of 40 industrial compounds in the ocean has added to the fears of some officials and residents in Texas' Rio Grande Valley. They aren't sure there are enough environmental safeguards, and have asked for a meeting with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

"They keep feeding us this line that it's safe and perfectly all right, which may be true. But they've never given us or anyone else a chance to investigate," said Ted Campagnolo, Cameron County assistant district attorney.

The waste disposal company, based in Oak Brook, Ill., burned almost 700,000 gallons of toxic PCBs in December aboard the incinerator ship Vulcanus 177 miles east of here in the Gulf.

The Dutch-registered Vulcanus is a converted freighter equipped with a German-built chemical incinerator. The ship loaded its PCB cargo from Chickashaw, Ala.

The EPA monitored the burn but has not finished analyzing test data. The permit required a 99.9 percent incineration rate and the EPA has maintained that any residue would be neutralized by the ocean's alkalinity.

"There's just a little more data to come in. But it's pretty well assured that environmentally, everything is OK," said Gerald Chapman, an EPA biologist and co-chairman of the interagency board that supervises ocean incineration.

Charles Leighton, spokesman for Chemical Waste Management, added: "This is still at the infancy stage of trying a different technology. But we feel with these substances at-sea incineration is equal or better than on land. And if it's 150 miles away from land in the middle of the Gulf, it's a hell of a lot environmentally safer to do it out there than somewhere else."

PCBs — polychlorinated biphenyls — were manufactured until 1977 for use as cooling agents for transformers. The chemicals were banned after scientists questioned their possible link to cancer.

The pesticide DDT was banned in 1972 after studies showed its residue accumulated in animal tissues up the food chain and adversely affected wildlife.

Silvex, a restricted use herbicide, was voluntarily removed from the market as a home-use product after studies showed it to be a possible carcinogen.

If test results are favorable, the PCB burnings will resume until 3.5 million gallons are destroyed.

The EPA has not yet ruled on the other substances but the agency's handling of the controversy has angered officials and residents.

A newspaper notice of the PCB incineration application was placed in Houston, 350 miles away from this border city. The public has 30 days to comment on such applications and request official hearings. The comment period ended long before Cameron County residents knew anything about it, Campagnolo said.

His boss, District Attorney Rey Cantu, asked to be notified of future permit applications in January, only to learn that the DDT permit for 264,000 gallons had been advertised in November in a Corpus Christi newspaper, 150 miles away.

Federal rules only require an advertisement in the state nearest the burn site, without specifying the closest city.

A February notice of the "soup mixture," as EPA officials refer to the 40 compounds, was placed in the Corpus Christi paper without local notification.

"We thought they were acting in bad faith because by Feb. 23 (the permit notice) they knew we wanted notice yet they didn't tell us," Campagnolo said.

The EPA said it will conduct a public meeting in Port Isabel before resuming the PCB burns. However, the EPA is only obligated to take official notice of objections made at a public hearing requested during the 30-day comment period, not a public meeting, he added.

"What really scares us is that if something happens out there, if something spills or there is an accident, there's shrimping and commercial fishing that could be destroyed. The tourism trade could be hurt," Campagnolo said.

On April 13, Cantu wrote EPA Administrator Anne Gorsuch that the Gulf incineration site was "unacceptable."

He listed six objections, including "the potential environmental hazards of transporting said waste in a semi-enclosed body of water such as the Gulf."

Someone goofed by not notifying Cantu's office of the permits, said Marvin Rubin, a special assistant in the EPA's water division in Washington.

"These permits (DDT and the mixture) have not been approved. But someone should have made sure that the notice went to the newspaper and the office of anybody concerned about the problem," Rubin said. "There's no excuse for that."

The public meeting will be scheduled whenever test results are complete, Rubin said.

"The primary purpose of the meeting is to let people know what is going on. It won't take care of the people who are always going to be opposed to it," he added.

Ralph DeLuca of Port Isabel helped organize the Concerned Citizens Group for residents opposed to the burnings.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEA INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have many ideas today for gaining greater success in career matters, so be sure to follow through on them. Convince others by stating your exact wishes to them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know exactly what you want to accomplish in the future and formulate the right plan for such. Gain the cooperation of others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your most intimate aims and know how to gain them more readily. Avoid unnecessary expenditure of money.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact close ties and get their support so you can gain your aims more readily. Come to a fine agreement with associates.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to gain added prestige in outside activities. The evening is fine for the social side of life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study modern ways of doing things and become more successful thereby. Steer clear of troublemakers. Obtain the data you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use more modern methods to gain greater success in your line of endeavor. Come to a better accord with loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Work on those ideas you have that can bring more harmony with associates. Strive to have more security in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Engage in activities that will relieve anxieties you are under. Join an interesting group affair in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with family members how to have more harmony at home. A new activity could bring added income now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to complete an unfinished job before you engage in a new activity. Make plans for the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Consult a financial expert for advice you need. Make plans to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to concentrate on improving your financial status. Plan to save money to meet possible emergencies.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she could be a great help to humanity because of the inventive ideas in this nature. Be sure to give the finest education you can afford for this exceptional mind. Give spiritual and ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Acid rain problem in Scandinavia
 By HARALD MOLLERSTROM
 Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—With 40,000 Swedish and Norwegian lakes virtually dead and others dying from acid rain, Nordic scientists are increasingly worried about its damage to other forms of life.

Forests are already falling victim. One study estimated that acid rains in the 1970s reduced by 1 percent a year the yield from Sweden's woodlands, which produce one in every five of the country's export dollars.

Scientists suspect that acid rain is making trees less resistant to disease and pests, a possible explanation for extensive damage caused by insects in recent years.

"There are also possible adverse effects on human health from mercury and cadmium" in water exposed to acidification, said Dr. William Dickson, researcher of the Swedish Environmental Protection Board. "Fish that don't die because of the hazard become poisonous to predators that eat them—including humans—because of accumulations of such heavy metals in the fish's tissues."

A similar process takes place when soil is acidified, he said.

"Cadmium and other heavy metals are released and enter food chains," Dickson said. "High concentrations have been found in moose kidneys."

"More alarming is that ground water in western Sweden has been contaminated. In some parts of the country, high levels of aluminum and copper have been found in drinking water."

He describes acid rain as "the gravest disaster Sweden ever faced" as evidenced by the decimated plant and animal life in thousands of lakes in the Scandinavian peninsula. The rains also disfigure buildings and cause corrosion damage, estimated at some $200 million a year in Sweden alone.

Acid rain is caused by the transformation into volatile acids of sulphur dioxide and nitric oxides emitted by combustion of oil and coal. The acids are transported long distances by wind, eventually falling with rain or snow.

The phenomenon so far has been most severe in northeastern North America and in Scandinavia, victimized by northern European industry from Belfast to Moscow, wherever power plants burn oil and coal on a large scale.

Some 60 million tons of sulphur dioxide and nitric oxides were discharged in northern Europe in 1973, the peak year.

The only treatment has been putting lime into affected waters to counteract the acids, but that is only a life-sustaining method that does not restore a lake's vitality. In many Nordic lakes, pH value—the measure of acidity—already ranges between 4 and 5, well below the level in which fish can survive. Vinegar has a pH value of 3.

Although a British researcher identified the problem in the 1870s, it was not until the late 1960s that a Swedish scientist pinpointed acid precipitation as a serious threat to the environment.

Dr. Svante Oden proved in a 1968 study that acids emanating from Western industrial nations were having a serious impact on Swedish brooks and lakes.

The problems of geography and meteorology mingle with others of geology and climate. Over most of Scandinavia the bedrock is acidic granite with a soil layer so thin that it holds nothing to neutralize the acid rains.

Furthermore, roughly half the precipitation falls as snow, meaning the pollutants build up during the winter months. They wash out with the first melt, producing a sudden peak of acidity in lakes and rivers in the spring that coincides with the hatching and spawning of fish.

With public feeling about acid rain running high in Sweden and Norway, the governments have tackled the problems vigorously.

ELBOW FAMILY ON PARADE — Mrs. Wini Patterson, left, of Elbow, and four of her eight grandchildren, Bert, Todd, Lee and Tiffany were chosen to be Grand Marshals in the Walt Disney World Centennial Parade April 19 in Lake Buena Vista, Fla. The parade is part of a year-long celebration commemorating the 10th anniversary of the park.

Ethel Merman more than plain, ordinary

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "I never listen to music at home," the lady says. "Never. I don't know why. I don't like to listen to myself, to begin with. When I'm not working, I'm just plain, ordinary Ethel."
Ethel Merman never has been plain or ordinary to Broadway, but an institution whose powerful, brassy voice and flawless diction have triumphed in 14 musicals, all but one a hit.
Musicals like "Gypsy," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Call Me Madam," "Anything Goes," "Panama Hattie," "Something for the Boys," "Red, Hot and Blue," to name a few.
You think of Merman, you think of the songs she's introduced. A partial listing: Her anthem, "There's No Business Like Show Business"; "You're the Top"; "You Can't Get a Man with a Gun"; "It's Delovely"; "I Get a Kick Out of You"; "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries." and

"Everything's Coming Up Roses."
She was last on Broadway in 1970, the eighth star to play Dolly Levi in "Hello, Dolly!" She doesn't yearn to play Broadway again. But she keeps her hand — and voice — in elsewhere.
On Monday, May 10, she's doing a Carnegie Hall benefit for one of her favorite causes, the Theatre Collection of the Museum of the City of New York, singing a 20-tune medley of her biggest hits.
They're by a fairly distinguished congregation of composers — the Gershwins, Cole Porter, Irving Berlin, Jule Styne, Stephen Sondheim.
"I only fool around with the best," says the former secretary for the B.K. Vacuum Booster Brake Co., who began her long career with Broadway's best in 1930, in George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy."
There, she belted out "I Got Rhythm," holding the top note for 16 long bars, the note hitting the farthest reaches of the theater with nary a quaver.

As one awed writer noted years later, "it became clear that she had battleships in her vocal cords and a cross-bow in her larynx."
But she denies she's strictly fortissimo. "People say I'm a belter," she grouches. "I'm not a belter. I can belt a song, but I can sing just as softly as anybody else."
Her dad was a newspaperman, her mother a housewife. She was still a tyke when she first sang in public at a local Republican Club function in the New York borough of Queens, where she was born 70 years ago.
Vocally, she's always been doing what comes naturally. She's never had a singing lesson.
"Gershwin told me, 'Never go near a singing teacher, and I never have,'" she says at her apartment here, a sunny, tidy home filled with French furniture, paintings and odd bits of theater memorabilia.

ABC tries a 'Counterattack'

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Since CBS' "60 Minutes" became a habit viewing, ABC has had difficulty finding popular programming for its first hour Sunday nights. Now ABC is trying to scare America with "Counterattack: Crime in America."
"Counterattack," which premiered Sunday on the network considered most violent by the National Coalition on Television Violence, won't change any minds about ABC's propensity for hard knocks. It must have alarmed viewers, particularly youngsters who happened to be watching at 7 p.m. EDT.

The idea is to encourage viewers to join the battle against crime, but "Counterattack" may only cause Americans to triple-bolt their doors.
One suspects the reenactment of a Los Angeles "Cat Burglar" standing over the real victim in her bedroom, and other crimes, will induce more nightmares than constructive lessons.
And you have to question how much help local police will get in solving local crimes by asking a national audience to call a toll-free number with any information on two local investigations — one involving the ice pick murder of a St. Paul, Minn., high school girl, and one of a gun-toting thief who has terrorized stores in Nassau County on Long Island.

The eerie taped voice of a man confessing over the telephone to police that he had just killed a woman with an ice pick and wanted to be stopped from doing it again was sensational. The pleas from the woman's next of kin to call with information seemed like exploiting grief, not preventing it.
Ratings appear to be the real reason for "Counterattack," though, and it hasn't worked so far.

'Writer's Weekend' set at McMurry

Texas authors Shelby Hearon and John Graves will be featured in "A Writer's Weekend" scheduled May 21-22 at McMurry College in Abilene.
"Both are Texas writers who have achieved national reputations," said Patrick Bennett, McMurry English professor who is director of "A Writer's Weekend."
"Ms. Hearon is one of a handful of creators of intellectual fiction to come out of the Southwest since World War II," Bennett said. "Graves is probably the most respected contemporary Texas writer."
Hearon, a novelist whose eighth book will soon be published by Atheneum, will conduct master classes in fiction for those enrolled in the McMurry weekend.
Graves, a finalist for the prestigious American Book Award, will discuss both nonfiction and the art of the short story with participants.
Hearon and Graves will share a public reading

Friday evening, May 21, and a reception will follow, Bennett said.
Ms. Hearon's upcoming novel, "Afternoon of a Faun," will appear in 1983. Her previous books are "Armadillo in the Grass," "The Second Dune," "Hannah's House," "Now and Another Time," "A Prince of a Fellow," "Painted Dresses" and the nonfiction "Barbara Jordan."
Her work has also appeared in Redbook, McCall's, Texas Monthly, The Writer and other periodicals.
Her novels have won awards as Best Texas Fiction in 1973 and 1978. "Now and Another Time" won the LeBaron R. Barker fiction award in 1976.
Hearon was president of the Texas Institute of Letters 1979 to 1981 and served as literature panel chairman for the Texas Commission on the Arts 1980 and 1981.
She has taught creative writing and fiction techniques at the University of Texas in Austin, the University of Houston and Bennington College.

She now lives in the East where her husband, Dr. Bill Lucas, teaches philosophy at Manhattanville College in Purchase, New York.
Graves is the author of "Goodbye to a River" and "Hard Scabble," both winners of the annual Carr P. Collins Award for Best Texas Non-Fiction Book.
His recent "From a Limestone Ledge" was nominated for the American Book Award, publishing's Oscar, and "Goodbye to a River" was nominated for the National Book Award, as the American Book Award was then called.
Graves' other books include "The Nation's River," "The Water Hustlers," "The Last Running" and "Blue and Some Other Dogs."
For more information on the weekend event, contact McMurry College in Abilene at 1-692-4130.

'Mae West' strengthens ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC won the networks' prime-time ratings race for the first time in a month with six of the 10 most-watched shows, including a made-for-TV movie on the life of entertainer Mae West, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.
The ABC film, "Mae West," finished third in the competition for the week ending May 2, behind CBS' "60 Minutes" and another ABC show, "Dynasty."
The three highest-rated programs were new — though "60 Minutes" only partially so. Two of the newsmagazine's three segments had been broadcast before.
ABC's rating for the period was 15.4, compared to 14.7 for CBS and 13.8 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 15.4 percent of the country's homes with TV were watching ABC.

CBS had been first the previous three weeks, while NBC now has been last in the ratings 17 weeks in a row.
The rating for "60 Minutes" was 21.6. Nielsen says that means in an average minute of the program, 21.6 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to the newsmagazine.
NBC's top-rated program for the week was a movie, "Side by Side," in 11th place.
All five of the week's lowest-rated programs were episodes from series introduced this season. ABC's

"No Soap, Radio" was No. 63, followed by "Q.E.D." on CBS, ABC's "Counterattack: Crime in America," "Father Murphy" on NBC and NBC's "Jokebook."
ABC's "World News Tonight" won the three-way evening news competition for the first time since early November.
Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs: "60 Minutes," with a rating of 21.6 representing 17.7 million homes, CBS; "Dynasty," 21.4 or 17.5 million, and Movie "Mae West," 19.6 or 16.1 million, both ABC; "M-A-S-H," 19.5 or 16 million, CBS; "Fall Guy" and "Too Close for Comfort," both 19.1 or 15.7 million, both ABC; "Hart to Hart," 19 or 15.6 million, ABC, and "Magnum, P.I.," CBS. "Three's Company," ABC, and "The Jeffersons," CBS, all 18 or 15.5 million.

STRAWBERRY WHEAT GERM BOUNCE
1 package (10 oz.) frozen strawberries, partially thawed
1 carton (8 oz.) plain yogurt
1/2 cup unsweetened pineapple juice
1/4 cup Wheat Germ, Regular or Brown Sugar & Honey
2 Tbsp. honey, optional
Put all ingredients in blender container. Cover and blend at lighy about 1 minute. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

2 scoops lime sherbet
Club soda, chilled
In tall glass, stir together lime juice and sugar until sugar dissolves. Add sherbet; fill glass with club soda. Stir. Serve immediately. Makes 1 serving.

STRAWBERRY LIMEADE
2 (10-ounce) packages frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed
3 cups cold water
1 (8-ounce) bottle reconstituted lime juice
1/2 to 3/4 cup sugar
Ice
Whole strawberries or mint leaves for garnish, optional
In blender container, blend strawberries well. In pitcher, combine pureed strawberries, water, lime juice and sugar; stir until sugar dissolves. Serve over ice. Garnish as desired. Makes 1 1/4 quarts.

BANANA FLIP
1 1/2 cups cold milk
1 ripe banana, quartered
1/2 cup wheat germ
2 Tbsp. peanut butter
5 ice cubes
Put all ingredients in blender container. Cover and blend at lighy about 1 minute. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

PINK APPLE LIMEADE
6 cups (1-1/2 quarts) bottled cranberry juice
1/4 cup lime juice
4 1/2 cups water
4 cups (1 quart) bottled or reconstituted frozen apple juice
2 (6-ounce) cans frozen concentrated limeade
Mint sprigs, as desired
Combine all ingredients except mint sprigs; mix well. Chill. Serve over ice. Garnish with mint sprigs if desired.
Variation: float 1 quart of sherbet in a punchbowl filled with limeade. Serve a little sherbet with each serving of punch.

PEACH SHAKE
1 can (16 oz.) sliced peaches, drained
1/2 cup water
1-3/4 cup instant nonfat dry milk
2 Tbsp. Wheat Germ, 1 tsp. vanilla
5-6 ice cubes
Put all ingredients except nutmeg in blender container. Cover and blend at lighy about 1 minute. Pour into glasses. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

LIME SHERRY COOLER
1 1/2 cups dry sherry, chilled
3/4 cup reconstituted lime juice
3/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup sugar
Ice
In pitcher, combine sherry, lime juice, water and sugar; stir until sugar dissolves. Serve over ice. Makes about 3 cups.

LIME SODA
1/4 cup reconstituted lime juice
3 Tbsp. sugar

PINK SLIPPER
1/2 cup cream of coconut
1-3/4 cup reconstituted lime juice
1-3/4 cup light rum

2 Tbsp. gernadine syrup
4 cups ice cubes
In blender container, combine cream of coconut, lime juice, rum, and gernadine; blend well. Gradually add ice, blending until smooth. Serve immediately. Garnish as desired. Makes about 4 cups.

PURPLE PASSION
1 (6-ounce) can frozen sweetened grape juice concentrate, thawed
3 juice cans cold water
1 juice can vodka
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice
Ice
Purple or green grapes and mint leaves for garnish, optional
In pitcher, combine all ingredients except ice and garnish; mix well. Serve over ice. Garnish with grapes and mint if desired. Makes about 4 cups.

CLARET LEMONADE
3 1/4 cups cold water
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups claret wine, chilled
Ice
In pitcher, combine water, lemon juice and sugar; stir until sugar dissolves. Just before serving, stir in wine; serve over ice.

TOMATO CITRUS MEDLEY
4 cups tomato juice, chilled
2 cups unsweetened orange juice, chilled
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice
2 Tbsp. sugar
1 tsp. salt
Ice
In pitcher, combine juices, sugar and salt; stir until sugar dissolves. Serve over ice. Makes about 6 cups.

MINT JULEP COOLER
3/4 cup bourbon
1-3/4 cup reconstituted lime juice
2 Tbsp. white creme de menthe
2 (12-ounce) cans lemon-

lime carbonated beverage, chilled
Ice
Mint leaves for garnish, optional
In pitcher, combine bourbon, lime juice and creme de menthe. Stir in carbonated beverage; serve over ice. Garnish with mint if desired. Makes about 4 cups.

BLUSHING FRUIT QUENSCHER
1 (32-ounce) bottle cranberry juice cocktail, chilled
2 cups cold water
1 1/2 cups unsweetened orange juice, chilled
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
Ice
In pitcher, combine ingredients; stir until sugar dissolves. Serve over ice. Makes about 2 quarts.

LEMON TEA SPARKLER
2 cups brewed tea
1 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 (32-ounce) bottle ginger ale, chilled
Ice
In pitcher, combine tea, lemon juice and sugar; stir until sugar dissolves. Just before serving, add ginger ale. Serve over ice. Makes about 7 cups.

PARTY MAI TAIS
3 cups unsweetened pineapple juice, chilled
1 cup light rum
1 (6-ounce) can frozen unsweetened orange juice concentrate, thawed
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice
Crushed ice
Orange slices and maraschino cherries for garnish, optional
In pitcher, combine all ingredients except ice and garnish; stir to dissolve juice concentrate. Serve over ice; garnish as desired. Makes about 5 cups.

FRUIT MEDLEY PUNCH
Della Robbia Ice Ring, optional (see recipe below)
2 (10-ounce) packages frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed

3 cups apricot nectar, chilled
3 cups cold water
1 cup reconstituted lemon juice
1 (6-ounce) can frozen unsweetened orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 cup sugar
1 (32-ounce) bottle ginger ale, chilled
Della Robbia Ice Ring:
2 1/2 cups ginger ale, chilled
1/2 cup reconstituted lemon juice

Any of the following: canned apricot halves, drained; seedless white grapes; strips of orange peel, curled; whole strawberries; mint leaves; maraschino cherries, drained
Prepare ice ring in advance. Ice ring: In 1 quart measure or container, combine ginger ale and lemon juice. Pour half of mixture into 1-quart ring mold. Arrange fruits, peel and mint leaves in mold. Freeze. Pour remaining liquid over fruit. Freeze.

Punch: In blender container, blend strawberries well (about 30 seconds). In large punch bowl, combine strawberries, apricot nectar, water, lemon juice, juice concentrate and sugar; stir until sugar dissolves. Slowly pour in ginger ale; add Della Robbia Ice Ring.

COUNT THE AURORA ROSES

Tell us how many roses are pictured in this ad and you could win $12,000. Or one of 275 other prizes from Aurora, the beautifully soft toilet tissue that redecorates your bathroom with roses. To enter, follow directions on the sweepstakes form.

WIN

FIRST PRIZE: $12,000.
We'll give you something easier to count than roses: one dozen $1,000 bills.

25 SECOND PRIZES: $500.

250 THIRD PRIZES: KOSTA BODA SWEDISH CRYSTAL BUD VASE, 8 1/2" TALL.

PLUS 10,000 "THANK YOU" PRIZES

The first 10,000 people who send in a proof of purchase (Aurora Seal of Quality) with their entry will receive a coupon good for a FREE four-pack of Aurora/Aurora Soft Prints.

"COUNT THE AURORA ROSES" SWEEPSTAKES RULES 1) To enter, clearly print your name, address and zip code on either the official entry form or a 3" x 5" plain piece of paper. Include with your entry the Aurora or Aurora Soft Prints Seal of Quality (see official rules for details) or the words "Aurora/Aurora Soft Prints" printed on a 3" x 5" piece of paper in order to be eligible for prizes of $10,000. Thank you prizes of a coupon redeemable for a free four-pack of Aurora/Aurora Soft Prints. You must include the Aurora or Aurora Soft Prints Seal of Quality with your entry form. 2) No purchase required. Enter as often as you wish but each entry must be mailed separately to "Count the Aurora Roses" Sweepstakes, P.O. Box 4030, Young America, Minnesota 55358. Entries must be postmarked by October 29, 1982. 3) Prize winners will be determined in a random drawing conducted by Young America Corporation, an independent judging organization whose decisions are final. Eligibility for sweepstakes drawing is not dependent upon identification of correct number of roses in ad. Winners will be notified by mail. Odds of winning will be determined by number of entries. 4) Only one prize to a family or household. Prizes are not transferable or redeemable for cash. All prizes will be awarded. 5) Any and all the responsibility of the winners (winners may be required to execute an affidavit of eligibility and release). 6) Sweepstakes are open to all residents of the United States except employees of the sponsoring company and their families, its subsidiaries, suppliers, advertising and promotion agencies. Sweepstakes void where prohibited or restricted by law. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply. 7) For a list of major prize winners and for the number of roses shown in this ad, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Aurora Sweepstakes Winners, P.O. Box 1038, Young America, Minnesota 55359. 8) Merit-based representations of the official entry form or of hand-printed substitutes are not acceptable for entry.

Arkansas roadblock nets 240 arrests

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Police say a 24-hour roadblock that netted more than 240 arrests was a success. But some out-of-staters who found themselves in the drunk tank of the St. Francis County Jail weren't sold on the idea.

State police manning the roadblock which ended at 6 p.m. Tuesday, arrested — among others — drunken drivers, speedy motorists, drug law violators and illegal Mexican aliens in a crackdown on traffic violators and vehicles carrying contraband. Officers also issued warnings to 205 motorists.

Officers set up the roadblock, which ended at 6 p.m. Tuesday, 1.5 miles east of this north Arkansas city.

Some motorists tossed marijuana out of cars on the westbound side of the interstate after they spotted the police check. "Come back out here in a month or two," one trooper said, "and we'll harvest the volunteer crop of marijuana that's going to be growing."

At first, the jail was so packed, offenders had to stay in a drunk tank. But by Tuesday night, most had posted bond, and jailers had moved the remaining 22 offenders to 30-by-50-foot cells that hold about 10 double bunk beds each. Forty other inmates also were in the jail, which has a capacity of about 75.

"It's just all comical to me," jailer E.J. Jones said in a telephone interview Tuesday night. "They just come in here and they'll be cussing because they're being locked up. I just cuss back at 'em and agree with them and blame it on the state troopers, and then that way we get to be friends."

Jones put in a 17-hour shift Monday and reported back to work seven hours later Tuesday. "It was pretty hectic," he said.

Among those arrested were 49 for drug-related infractions. Three narcotics agents said they used instinct in deciding which cars to search for drugs. But assisting them was Murfy, a dog who sniffed out caches of drugs.

Jones said almost everyone cooperated except for the offenders. "The ones charged with possession were the ones raising cane," he said. "They were just griping about having dogs out there sniffing. They said it wasn't legal and things like that."

Police arrested motorists from several states, including Alabama, California, Texas and Florida. "One bunch of them said it was the first time they ever run up on something like that," Jones said. "They said they weren't come back. They said if they'd known what was going to happen, they wouldn't have come to Arkansas."

Immigration officials picked up eight Mexicans arrested for being in the United States illegally. Jones said the Mexicans were carrying false identification and couldn't speak English well. "So, we just listed them all as John Does."

At the state police headquarters in Forrest City, a radio operator who didn't want to be identified said no one seemed upset about the roadblock except reporters. He said in a telephone interview that people had donated refreshments to the busy policemen and had called to thank them.

The operator said the main purpose of the roadblock was to cut down on a continuing problem of drunken driving.

Bullfights decline along Mexican border

By STEVE BREWER
Associated Press Writer

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — The Plaza Monumental bullring here once was the pride of northern Mexico, comparable to a gaily-painted senorita who drew crowds of admirers for her ballets of death and glory.

But now the plaza is an old maid and the cheers of the crowd rarely disturb her.

The bullring was opened nearly 25 years ago with a fanfare that has yet to be equaled in Mexican bullfighting. From the opening in September 1957 until October 1969, the plaza held a record 123 bullfights.

During most of the bullring's lifetime, crowds packed in every summer Sunday to watch slender matadors in gilded costumes duel with raging, snorting bulls. But in the middle 1970s, the crowds began to dwindle and the operator of the ring was forced to reduce the number of corridos.

This year, there will be only five bullfights, all on American holiday weekends in hope of drawing tourists from the North.

"The bullfights are still here, it's the world that is different," said Major Jose Salvador Lopez Hurtado, owner of the plaza. "The world is the thing that changes, not the bulls."

Lopez Hurtado, 75, who also owns a seaside bullring in Tijuana, has watched the changes cause the slow decline of bullfighting along the border.

The most drastic changes have been economic — devaluations of the peso, a recession north of the border, higher taxes and higher costs to stage each corrida.

"It's an investment any time you put on a bullfight," Lopez Hurtado said through an interpreter. "At this point, I'm not even trying to make money. I'm just trying to break even."

Jim Kerby, a bullfight aficionado who lives across the Rio Grande in El Paso, Texas, recalled that the decline began when the gasoline crunch in the mid-1970s slowed the tourist trade.

"It started out with that economic crisis on the U.S. side of the border," he said. "Then the Mexican government doubled the taxes and wouldn't let you deduct for advertising costs. It made it impossible to continue the tradition of bullfights every Sunday. (Lopez Hurtado) began cutting back on advertising and increased the prices."

Lopez Hurtado said ticket prices had to rise — the worst seats now cost $6 each — because his costs were increasing rapidly.

"On the border, one of the problems is that the cost is higher because bullfighters and bulls must travel farther," he said. "Each matador has an entourage of six people and you have to fly them all in. You have to bring bulls in 15 days ahead of time to give them time to build up their strength after their train ride."

The cost of the bulls has risen from $600 a bull to $1,800 each.

"It costs about $10,000 just to buy bulls for a bullfight," Kerby said.

When bullfighting was more popular with Americans, it was easier to finance the events.

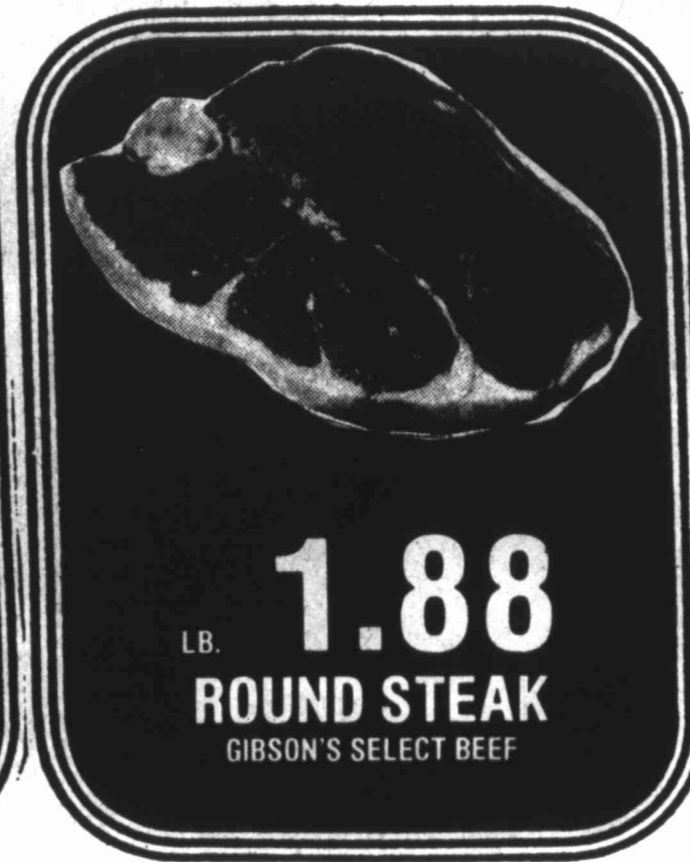

"There are a lot (of Americans) who can obviously afford it, but they're not aficionados," he said. "This is not a sport like football or baseball. This is an art. It is a drama. You have to have a special way of thinking for this."

For aficionados like Kerby and Charlie Zavala of El Paso, comparing memories of the plaza's heyday to its present decline is depressing.

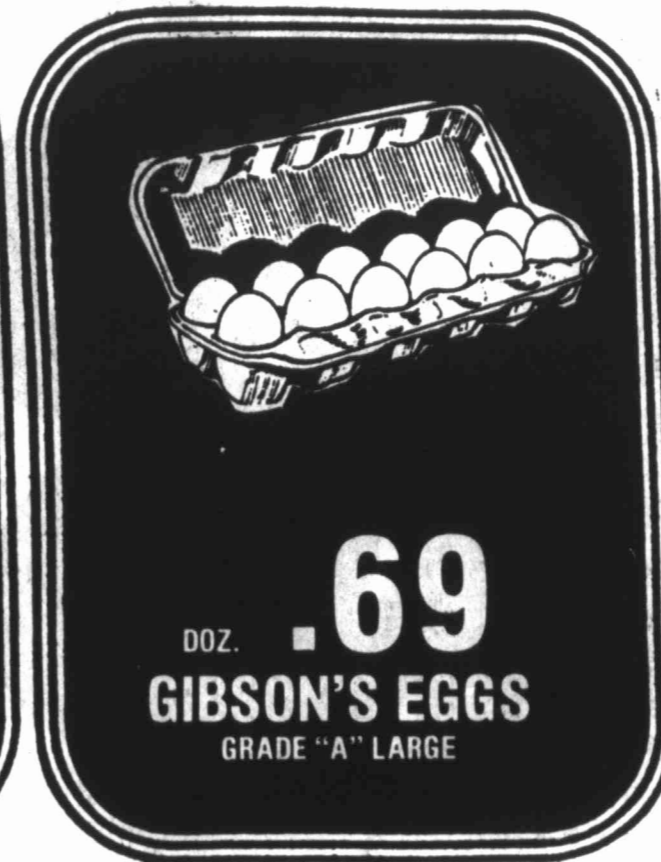

"Some of the old-timers who remember how things used to be say it has degenerated to the point where they don't go anymore," said Mrs. Zavala.

Called 5-year-old 'sexually promiscuous'

LANCASTER, Wis. (AP) — William L. Reinecke, a small town circuit judge whose comments in a sexual assault case brought him to national attention, chooses his words now slowly and with great care.

One phrase got him into trouble. He described a 5-year-old girl as an "unusually sexually promiscuous young lady," and now faces a recall election May 11.

Reinecke, 51, has been on the bench for 14 years in this community of 4,000 in southwestern Wisconsin. He leaned back in a chair in his second-floor chambers and placed a booted foot on the window sill as he talked of the events leading up to the recall.

It has been "an agonizing experience," he said. Reinecke made the controversial remark last Dec. 22, in sentencing Ralph Snodgrass, 24, of Gays Mills on a first-degree sexual assault charge involving the girl. Snodgrass was put in jail for 90 days under a work-release program and placed on three years probation.

Crawford County District Attorney Rod Satter said the child's mother was outside last Oct. 16 while Snodgrass was sleeping in the nude in her home. Satter said the girl crawled in bed and initiated sexual contact.

There was no intercourse, "no aggressive behavior on the part of the defendant" and no injuries, Reinecke said.

The judge said the girl's behavior probably resulted from her having seen Snodgrass and her mother have "sexual contact in view of that young lady."

Authorities learned of the case about a week later when a teacher noticed the girl was experiencing discomfort and a physician examined her.

When word got around that Reinecke had called a 5-year-old "sexually promiscuous," some Grant County residents formed a group called Citizens for Children and organized the recall drive.

The State Elections Board certified 5,027 signatures on recall petitions. Only 3,798 were required to force a recall election.

Ellen Day of Fennimore, who presented the petitions to the board in March, said at the time: "I feel real good that the people of Grant County are that concerned about their children."

Looking at the dictionary

—William Reinecke

The recall group has endorsed attorney James Dahlquist, 31, who says that other "very significant problems" with Reinecke's tenure are part of his campaign. He did not spell out the problems in announcing his candidacy.

Norman Kvalheim, 55, also entered the race. Reinecke could be out of a job May 12.

That prospect, the divorced father of eight says, is worrisome.

"This is the first time I've ever been criticized publicly for anything I've done as a judge," said the slightly built man with dark thinning hair.

"You know," he said, "the defense lawyers described her as a very sexually curious child. That probably would have been a more appropriate statement."

He said that in summarizing the case in court "I was attempting to use a phrase that was descriptive."

"I used the wrong phraseology. Looking at the dictionary definition, it was in no way inaccurate," he said. "But I probably just should have said the child was involved in unusual activities instead of saying she was sexually promiscuous."

Definitions in Webster's New World Dictionary include "showing little or no taste or care in choosing," and "without plan or purpose."

Reinecke, who has apologized publicly for the remark, said he and the defense both recognized the incident was not the child's fault.

"I clearly told the jury at the trial the law of Wisconsin is that whether the child consents to the act is not an issue. The child is incapable of consenting," he said. "The adult is to blame."

Why do his opponents continue their drive after his apology?

"The apology came too late and gave no indication that the judge had changed his attitude regarding children who are the victims of sexual abuse," said recall backer Jerry Brendenmuehl.

Still, Reinecke says he is known as a firm and fair judge and that people come up to him on the street and tell him they're behind him. He has received letters from throughout the country and abroad but hasn't noted how many are for or against him.

"Some are neutral, some are supportive and then there are those who are very supportive," he said with a grin.

Reinecke said he has been heartened by the public support given him by his former wife and 41 lawyers from Grant and nearby Crawford counties.

What is the campaign costing him?

"In dollars and cents, or heartwise?" he responded.

The dollars and cents came from his campaign manager, Pat McNamara. About $5,000, McNamara said. Plus another $5,000 if no one takes 51 percent or more of the vote May 11 and a special election must be held June 8.

"Heartwise," Reinecke said, the pressure will be off him if the vote is heavy next month. A good turnout, he believes will be in his favor. But the farmers, he said, may be in the fields instead of voting.

"After all, we are a rural county," he said.

EMBATTLED JUDGE — Circuit Judge William Reinecke, 51, who faces a recall election May 11, poses in his chambers in the Grant County Courthouse in Lancaster, Wis. A group seeks to remove him because he called a 5-year-old girl "sexually promiscuous."

Americans did not fill all jobs left by aliens

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans did not rush to fill job vacancies left in New York by last week's roundup of illegal aliens, so many of the aliens are back at work, the New York Times reports.

"I can't recall one American coming in here and asking me for a job," Anthony Spiale, president of the G & T Fruit Co. in the Bronx, told the Times, adding that of the 22 aliens arrested at his warehouse, all but four or five are back at work.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service arrested 523 aliens at about 50 companies in the New York area and an official said the raids "created 500 jobs for unemployed Americans, some of them paying $5 an hour or better."

But the Times reported that many of the jobs paid the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour and quoted a Brooklyn plastics factory official, Nick Amish, as saying that "aliens are the only people who will work for the minimum wage."

"It was true 30 or 40 years ago for Italians and Greeks, and it's still true today for Hispanics, and it will be true for someone else 20 years from now," Amish said.

He said about 70 percent of the 23 illegal aliens seized in his plant last week returned to their jobs on Monday.

Immigration officials said most of those arrested have been released pending deportation hearings.

Art Winick, spokesman for the state Department of Labor, said the businessmen could be right in saying "that these are marginal jobs that most people are not interested in."

Another official of the state employment service, Joanne Palmieri, told the Times that preliminary reports showed that "very few applicants have expressed any interest thus far in the jobs of the aliens that were arrested."

Elegant Buns too suggestive?

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The pickles and lettuce are on hold while Siggy Goffstein grills his landlord with spicy language to save the Oakridge Mall restaurant.

Goffstein went to court Monday to fight the Oakridge Mall, which demands that he change the name of his gourmet hamburger restaurant or leave the premises.

The restaurant is called Elegant Buns. "They said it was suggestive," Goffstein said. "It never occurred to me that it might be taken that way."

The restaurant's logo depicts a smiling hamburger with a monocle and top hat. "I wanted a name that would give the place some class," Goffstein said.

Goffstein got his take-out order from the mall March 10 and the owners sued last week after failing to evict him. In the meantime, he said, the mall seeks to triple his $2,000 monthly rent.

Goffstein, 50, claims his free speech rights are being violated.

The court documents refer to the need to "mustard defenses" and "get to the meat of the matter."

"We were trying to show that words can mean a lot of things," said Goffstein's lawyer, Ronald Rossi.

Goffstein had operated Brothers Pizza Galley at the mall since 1975 but switched to Elegant Buns two months ago at a cost of $50,000.

Rural America good for pitchers

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RED CLOUD, Neb. (AP) — Too bad George Steinbrenner wasn't around when bush league baseball thrived like wheat on these prairies. This might have been the richest town in America, buried under the leaves of his checkbook.

Of course, Red Cloud always has been rich — in history and culture and characters.

Willa Cather, my favorite American novelist, grew up here and conferred immortality on the place and its people in poignant, unforgettable novels like "My Antonia," "O Pioneers," "Song of the Lark" and "One of Ours," which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1923.

The whole town from the restored Burlington depot with the sparrows nesting in its tower to the Opera House upstairs over the hardware store, where she was valetorian for her three-student high school graduating class, is a living museum to Willa Cather's way with words and into people's hearts.

But Red Cloud and the cow pastures around it also had a way with the national pastime that brought another measure of fame. Two baseball Hall of Famers, Cy Young and Dazzy Vance, and famous spitballer Clarence Mitchell pitched for the Red Cloud Chiefs, when the team was in the Class D Nebraska State League or buried even deeper in the bushes. Sometimes they only called themselves the Indians.

Not many towns of 2,500 population can make that claim. But then again when the grand old game really was filling grandstands around the country not many towns that size could boast five newspapers, three hotels, two trolley cars and two telephone companies.

There must be something about following a mule down endless Nebraska furrows — "running on until they met the sky," Willa Cather said — that does wonders for a fellow's control. Young made it to the majors, where he tossed three no-hitters and, on May 3, 1904, a perfect game. Pitching for Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston, he chalked up 511 wins, the only player in baseball's first half century to pass the 500 mark.

Vance ushered in the Steinbrenner era. Sort of. He was the first major leaguer to draw a $25,000 salary. He was also the first to invest in Florida real estate.

Still, he remained a small town bush league pitcher at heart, which is how Red Cloud remembers him. According to scrap books in the Webster County Museum here, when he was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1955, one of the local papers headlined it:

"HASTINGS HIGH HURLER ELEVATED TO HALL OF FAME."

Pilots rap weather information

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of airline pilots said today they often are provided insufficient information on the condition of runways during severe winter weather even though, they claim, the technology is available to warn of an unsafe runway.

Capt. Henry Nash, chief pilot for US Air, said pilots must rely on subjective reports from other pilots or "the braking action of a pickup truck" to determine whether a runway is safe enough to land.

Nash was among a panel of five pilots testifying at the second day of federal hearings into the operation of commercial aircraft in severe winter weather.

The hearing by the National Transportation Safety Board was prompted by the weather-related aircraft crashes in January of an Air Florida jetliner in Washington and a World Airways DC-10, which slid off a runway and into the harbor in Boston.

The pilots said the technology is available to make more precise the measurement of braking on runways. They noted that Sweden has a system allowing detailed measurement of runway friction using a special metering device.

"I don't think we can afford to keep running airplanes off the runway when the capabilities are there," Capt. Robert Blyth of the Allied Pilots Association told the hearing.

The pilots said they must rely most often on reports from other pilots who have just landed. But they said those reports are often highly subjective.

In the first day of hearings Monday, airport operators and airline industry representatives acknowledged that runway conditions cannot always be gauged accurately and that communications breakdowns at times prevent pilots from receiving proper weather reports.

Wife caught paying hitman to kill husband

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A 52-year-old woman allegedly put out a contract on her estranged husband but was caught as she paid an intermediary after her husband found out about the plot, police said Tuesday.

Dolores Hinds, 52, of Yonkers, was arrested late Sunday night in the parking lot of the Carvel Inn on Tuckahoe Road in Yonkers after she delivered a portion of a $5,000 payoff.

Police said the payment was to have her husband, Duval Hinds, 34, murdered.

The intermediary was not arrested, police said. The Hindses are in the midst of divorce proceedings, police said. The husband, a construction worker, lives in Houston. He had alerted Houston detectives, who passed their information to Yonkers detectives, officials said.

Police would not comment on the motive for the alleged conspiracy or on how Hinds knew that his wife was trying to kill him.

She was charged with second-degree criminal solicitation and second-degree conspiracy and was being held at the Westchester County jail in Valhalla on $1,000 bail.

She is scheduled for a May 17 appearance in Yonkers Criminal Court.

Dog-sledders race in Arizona desert

By BRUCE KAPLAN
The Arizona Daily Star

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The desert dog drivers don't use the term "mush" to get their sleddog teams moving. These "sledders" have wheels, and the command their drivers use is "hike."

Traveling a desert road at 10 to 15 mph — or breaking through the crust of a snowcovered meadow in northern Arizona — "is really an experience you share with your dogs," says Pete Baum.

Baum, 32 and an administrative law judge for the Industrial Commission of Arizona, has been raising, racing and showing his six Siberian huskies for more than two years.

The Desert Dog Drivers Club was formed five years ago as an offshoot of several Arizona husky clubs that only show their dogs.

"All of our dogs are pets first," said Gary Jones, 36, a local insurance agent who has raced dogs for more than nine years.

Though they cite a variety of reasons for their interest, the Tucson drivers practice religiously and compete in three snow races in northern Arizona. They also compete in special cart races around the state.

And though they are friends, they readily admit their object is to win.

Richard Brace, 37, and his daughter Patty, 16, recently won a pair of races at Pichacho Peak. Baum won a three-dog, three-mile event near Flagstaff.

Professional dog-sled racers such as those who compete in 500-mile events for purses of $10,000 and more use specifically bred racing dogs for which they may pay thousands of dollars. Their sleds and harness also are expensive.

But the desert drivers say it's the camaraderie that's most important. Whole families participate.

"It's a real friendly sport," said Jones, explaining that when one isn't racing, one is usually helping others untangle lines, dogs, carts and people.

The dogs pull three-wheeled carts, most homemade of steel tubing. All can be steered and have at least one brake. Some are wired with lights for night driving.

The drivers spend most of their time running behind the carts, "pedaling" to ease the load while going up hills or across rough terrain, or to help the dogs to a final burst on the way in.

Training the strong-willed dogs to obey a sled driver is no small challenge.

While racing, "voice control is the only thing you have," another driver, Vernon Harvey, said. "I spent one year training to get them to run. They wanted to heel all the time."

Six persons are killed in 2 Anchorage shootings

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Three teenagers were shot and killed and a fourth was critically wounded in a popular downtown park just an hour after an apparently unrelated murder-suicide claimed three lives, authorities said.

Police criss-crossed the park as darkness fell Monday night, but the gunman who killed the teenagers wasn't caught, officials said.

An hour before the 8:30 p.m. park shootings, a gunman walked into the Black Bull Lounge, killed a man and a woman and turned his gun on himself.

"All I heard was 'bang, bang, bang,'" said a witness in the bar. "It sounded like firecrackers in there."

None of the dead was identified by police, who said the two sets of shootings apparently weren't related.

Anchorage police spokesman George Novaky said the two of the teenagers killed in the park were girls. The survivor, an unidentified boy, was reported in critical condition at an Anchorage hospital.

DALLAS (AP) — An Israeli diamond dealer was robbed of about $750,000 in loose diamonds and $31,000 in cash as he left his motel room Monday, police said.

A gunman confronted 62-year-old Zvi Nevo as he left the motel about 7 a.m. for a meeting with a client, officers said. The gunman deftly that Nevo return to his room, handcuffed his right arm to the bedpost and left with a briefcase containing the money and jewels.

"I definitely say it was a professional job and well planned," said investigator W. P. Orzechowski. "He (Nevo) alleges there was no one in town who knew where he was staying, yet this guy knew his name, where he was staying and knew what property he had without looking in the briefcase."

Nevo, a partner in Vanzo Diamonds of Tel Aviv, told police he had checked into the hotel Thursday and met with two clients Friday. He stole the diamonds in a hotel safe over the weekend, he said.

Herman Washom, a maintenance man at the motel, said the manager called him shortly before the robbery and asked him to check out a man wearing sunglasses and a brown suit who had been seen walking around the motel.

Washom said the man he was told to watch matched the description Nevo gave of the robber.

One of Nevo's Dallas clients, Tuck Tsai of Prime Art and Jewelry, described him as a "big dealer" who has an excellent reputation with clients across the United States.

Humble Oil founder's widow dies

HOUSTON (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled Wednesday for Elna C. Fondren, widow of the oilman who was a co-founder of what is now Exxon USA, the world's largest oil company.

Mrs. Fondren died here Monday at the Methodist Hospital. She would have been 102 on June 1.

She died at the hospital on whose board she served for more than 30 years. Mrs. Fondren donated more than $20 million in her lifetime to churches, hospitals and schools.

Her late husband, Walter W. Fondren Sr., who died in 1939, organized the Humble Oil and Refining Co. in 1917 with Ross Sterling — later a Texas governor — Frank Sterling, W. S. Farish, Harry Weiss and Lee Blaffer.

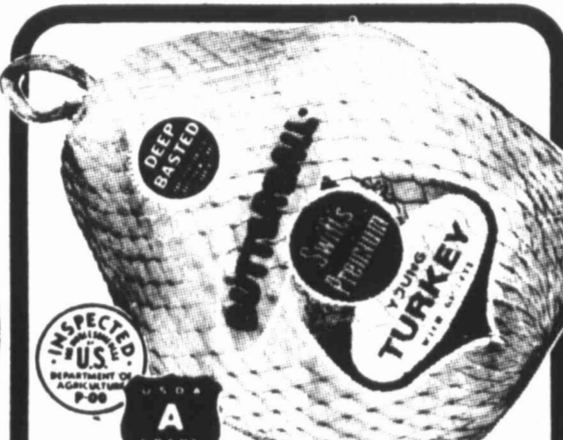

Humble later became Exxon USA.

The Fondrens gave gifts in the millions to Rice University, Southern Methodist University, Southwestern University, the Methodist Home in Waco and to Scarritt College in Tennessee.

Mrs. Fondren was on the board of Houston's Methodist Hospital and took part in work that changed that institution from a small 120-bed facility to one with 1,200 beds. She also made donations to St. Paul's United Methodist Church here and the Young Women's Christian Association.

Agriculture official predicts higher livestock prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says livestock producers "are showing the first sustainable positive feeding margins" in nearly three years, but stops short of predicting a major price boom in 1982.

Moreover, the department's Economic Research Service said Monday that the higher cattle and hog prices soon will be showing up at consumer meat counters.

By late April, hog prices were up by more than 25 percent since the first of the year, and steer prices by 15 percent, the department's Economic Research Service said.

"In spite of continued weakness in consumers' purchasing power, the primary reason for the higher animal prices is the sharp reduction in meat output that has resulted from poor feeding margins (profits)," the report said.

As the market prices of live animals rose, the middleman margins — also called the farm-to-retail price spread — became smaller. That was because wholesale and retail meat prices did not go up as rapidly as the prices paid for live cattle and hogs. Traditionally, retail prices "are usually less volatile" than livestock prices, the report said.

"Live animal prices have continued to rise in April," it said. "Consequently, higher prices and marketing charges will likely be passed on to consumers in coming months."

Total red meat and poultry production during the first quarter of 1982 dropped 3 percent from the same period of last year. During the rest of the year, output "will likely drop 4 to 5 percent from 1981," the report said.

"Consumer spendable income is not expected to improve until after the July 1 tax cut. A further increase in spendable income should come from economic improvement later this year."

Meanwhile, according to the economists, retail meat prices are expected to rise through mid-summer, with beef and poultry prices probably stabilizing by August and September as supplies increase.

For the year, consumers probably will pay 3 percent to 4 percent more for beef and poultry than they did in 1981 and 10 percent to 12 percent more for pork, the report said.

Department economists say that on an all-cut basis, retail beef prices averaged a record $2.39 a pound in 1981. Pork was a record of more than $1.52 a pound.

Looking at the market situation, the report said the average price of choice steers on the Omaha, Neb., market averaged $63.36 per 100 pounds in the first quarter of this year and is expected to edge up to the $66. to $70 range in the remainder of 1982.

School lunch requirement criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A public interest group has asked the Agriculture Department to stop requiring the Social Security numbers of needy families whose children get free or reduced-price school lunches.

Rodney E. Leonard, executive director of the Community Nutrition Institute, said the rule is an invasion of privacy, and asked that states, which comply with the order, be told to cease gathering the information.

Leonard made his request in a letter to Agriculture Secretary John R. Block. The institute is a non-profit group active in consumer and food issues.

The department's Food and Nutrition Service's regional offices issued the order last December. There was no public announcement through normal Agriculture Department channels here.

Leonard said the rule sprang from a provision in last year's budget act, in which Congress decided that requiring the Social Security numbers as a condition for free or reduced-price school lunches would help curb abuses and track down violators.

"You have failed to act according to the law, when you did not make known your intention to impose the disclosure requirement and allow the people time to examine the proposal and to comment on its provision," Leonard wrote Block.

The institute said its action followed a lawsuit filed by California residents and the California Department of Public Instruction.

Leonard said the state had refused to implement the Social Security requirements and filed the suit "to forestall USDA action to withhold federal funds for child nutrition services."

Jane Mattern, a spokeswoman for the Food and Nutrition Service, said Samuel Cornelius, administrator of the agency, agreed April 14 not to take action against the state and in return had been assured of California's compliance with the rule next school year.

Ms. Mattern said she was not aware of Leonard's request to Block that the rule be withdrawn.

Approximately 24 million children take part in the school lunch program. About 42 percent of them get free lunches and about 7.5 percent pay a reduced price for their meals.

Lubbock man is candidate for AMS post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department sources say Verne Highley of the Plains Cotton Cooperative Association of Lubbock, Texas, is a leading candidate to head the Agricultural Marketing Service.

An aide to Agriculture Secretary John R. Block declined to confirm or deny that Highley has been picked for the job. But John Ochs, the aide, indicated Monday that Highley at least is among those being considered.

Highley previously worked in the department during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

The top job in the Agricultural Marketing Service has been open since April 5 when Mildred Thymian resigned. The agency handles a variety of regulatory and marketing programs, including federal marketing orders for milk, fruits and vegetables.
