Sand Springs hit by tornado

Chute,
ain't no
trouble!

James Sanders, above, appears to have no trouble bringing down this steer in chute-dogging competition in yesterday's Coahoma High School Rodeo. Sanders clocked in with a time of 5:09 seconds. In photo to the right, team ropers Mike Hodnett, front, and Brett Sterling concentrated hard on their task, but finished without a time.

3 buildings damaged, no injuries reported

By BILL ELDER
City Editor

A tornado dipped down in Sand Springs last night, damaged three buildings and vanished without injuring anyone, officials said.

The twister hit between 7 and 7:30 p.m. near Interstate 20, according to Howard County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Shankles.

Doyle Fowler, an insurance agent for all three homeowners suffering damage from the tornado, described what happened:

"A little old tornado just dipped down and picked up a storage building on Johnny Cameron's yard and carried it about 100 yards, then dropped it, rolled it like a ball and tore it all to pieces. Then (the tornado) picked up the entire roof off of Mrs. G.W. Bradberry's mobile home. When it dropped that, (the roof) landed between the south service road and I-20. Then it jumped the interstate and ripped the front porch off the Henry Paige home."

After that, Fowler said, "I guess it went on back up in the air." Nobody was hurt by the tornado, he added.

The Sand Springs twister occurred as a storm front blew through Martin, Glasscock and Howard counties between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. last night.

A sighting of a tornado in Martin County had been reported to the Martin County office of the state Department of Public Safety, but Trooper C.W. Turner said he couldn't confirm the sighting.

"The weather bureau said one was spotted but it was never confirmed. There wasn't any clouds — just some wind," Turner said.

Turner pegged the time of the Martin County tornado report as 6:45 p.m.

A third report of a tornado last night located a twister in Glasscock County near the Sterling County line but a Glasscock County Sheriff's Office spokeswoman couldn't confirm the report.

"We didn't spot any (funnel activity). We had some hail and rain — no reports of any damage," said Pavie Murphy.

Hail and rain hit Big Spring at about 6:45 p.m., although the city's official gauge of rainfall, the U.S. Big Spring Field Station, reported neither rain nor hail for last night, according to Nell Rogers of the farm station.

Boyce Hale, a farmer near the Garden City turn-off on Highway 87, said marble-sized hail fell on his property along with nearly three tenths of an inch of rain.

The hail "broke some of my tomato plants and pepper plants, but it wasn't big enough to dent my car," he said.

Head Start funding OK'd

By BOB CARPENTER

The Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission yesterday passed a resolution to accept the Big Spring Independent School District's application for continued funding of the district's Head Start program. The application will now go before the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services for final approval, according to Jerry Pschauer of the planning commission.

The BSISD application asks for $314,271 from the federal agency, with the district supplying $76,705 in funds for a total project budget of $390,976.

The program will serve 215 children three and four years of age with 10 percent of this number being handicapped. The primary objective of the BSISD's Head Start program is to ensure that no child lacks environmental stimulation and opportunity to develop his or her abilities.

Pschauer said he expects to see the program okayed without much trouble.

"Big Spring has always had a good track record with its program. I don't think they'll have too much difficulty having the application passed," Pschauer said.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services should pass a ruling on the application in the next 60 days, See Head Start, page 2A

Tax appraisers go into overtime

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board yesterday approved an additional $7,335 in overtime expenses to complete the countywide re-appraisal as soon as possible. The approval was given during a meeting marked with occasional squabbles.

The board was meeting for the first time since the March meeting when more than 100 taxpayers protested the appraisal of boats and other recreational items. An April meeting was not held due to the lack of a quorum.

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira told the board the appraisal office was close to completing the re-appraisal field work for the county and was concentrating all its effort on placing the information into a computer.

"We're so close; it'll be a big savings in the long run to taxpayers if we complete it now," Pereira said.

The chief appraiser said all the information would be in the computer for use on the tax rolls by August. Pereira said, however, rough information would be available for taxing entities to use until then. He also noted the board of review, which equalizes the appraisal tax roll and hears protests, had set June 17 for review of oil and gas valuations.

Board member Jack Watkins' contention the board of review had also set a date — June 21 — to review real and personal property valuations was contested by Pereira. Pereira said the board only discussed the date and did not take official action. The review date would be the first opportunity for real and personal property owners to appeal their appraisal values.

"The board is prepared to meet on June 21 — I was at the meeting," Watkins said. Pereira, who was also at the meeting, said no action was taken to formally set the date.

The chairman of the board of review, Jimmie Ray Smith, was contacted after the appraisal board meeting and said the board thought it had set the date at June 21 for real and personal property appeals at its last meeting. Smith then announced a meeting for the review board on May 17 at 9:30 a.m. to officially set June 21 as a review date for real and personal property.

In other action, the board approved amending the district's budget following 20 minutes of discussion on what board member Lila Estes called "splitting hairs" on budget matters. Board President Roy Watkins brought the discussion to a vote when the chief appraiser and Jack Watkins began arguing over who had put together more budgets.

The board also moved to advertise for bids for the mineral evaluation of the district following a motion from board member Billy T. Smith. The board moved to re-invest $80,000 in certificates of deposit to give the district sufficient funds in the heavy expenditure months of July and October.

Attending the meeting were representatives from five oil companies and one school district, who questioned the chief appraiser at the end of the meeting about the re-appraisal going on the tax roll this year. The companies' concern about being able to contest oil and gas values was expressed by Dennis Berry of the Atlantic Richfield Co., who said: "We don't want to seal our fate in minerals without a chance to protest."

Pereira told the companies represented — Conoco, Sun Oil, Getty Oil and Amoco — the review board could meet other times during the year to hear protests. J.F. Poyner, superintendent of the Forsan Independent School District, also was in attendance.

Braniff officials file for bankruptcy

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Officials of Braniff International airlines, which lost $160 million last year, initiated bankruptcy proceedings early today at the home of a federal bankruptcy judge.

Judge John Flowers said Braniff chairman Howard Putnam and two attorneys appeared at his house just before midnight to file the papers under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law. The filing protects the airline from its creditors and gives it the right to continue operating.

"They can continue operating; whether they will or not is something I don't know," Flowers said.

The Braniff failure is the first by a major domestic airline since the industry emerged in the 1930s from the barnstorming era. Earlier this year, Laker Airways, a British carrier, went bankrupt. The filing came as thousands of Braniff passengers scrambled for standby seats on other flights following the airline's suspension of service Wednesday.

In 1980, based on passenger traffic, Braniff was the No. 8 domestic airline. It served 12.2 million passengers that year and had a fleet of 96 aircraft. However, an undetermined number of those aircraft have since been sold.

Flowers said the Braniff officials got him out of bed.

"They got here just a little bit before midnight and said they wanted to file right after midnight," he said.

Flowers, who admitted the filing was "an unusual step," said he gave Braniff 30 days to file the necessary papers describing its financial situation. Ordinarily, businesses which file for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 have 10 days to file such information.

The bankruptcy filing "was essential to maintain the existence and integrity of Braniff and provide the company with an opportunity within an orderly and controlled environment to attempt to reorganize its business and resume operations as a viable and going concern," said senior vice president Sam Coats.

"This was a very difficult decision for Braniff, but it was, in our judgment, the only way we could ever

Q. What is the velocity of tornado winds?
A. According to the 1982 Texas Almanac, the high speeds of a tornado were first tracked by the U.S. Weather Bureau in 1958 in Wichita Falls. Rotating winds up to 280 miles per hour were recorded. In comparison, the highest wind gust in Texas during hurricanes is said to be 180 miles per hour.

hope to reorganize the airline," he added. "We have incurred net losses of more than $300 million during the three years ended Dec. 31, 1981 and during the first quarter of 1982 we lost over $43 million. As a result, our ability to remain an active competitor in a deregulated airline environment has been severely impacted."

In a statement, Braniff said its holding company, Braniff International Corp., and subsidiaries Braniff Airways, Inc. and Braniff Realty Co. each filed a petition for reorganization.

The company said the move was "the most prudent means available to preserve the company's assets and resources to stem the deteriorating cash position of the company and permit management to attempt to reorganize the company under the protection of the bankruptcy court."

Braniff officials blamed competitors, creditors, travel agents and the recession for the airline's financial straits.

"Our operations have been seriously impacted by the competitive actions of other major airlines, the inability of the company to achieve sufficient revenue levels to accomplish an early and major restructuring of its debt, the unwillingness of travel agents to book passengers on Braniff flights, and the recession-riddled economy," Coats said.

Coats noted that Braniff's efforts to reduce expenses resulted in the cost per available seat mile decreasing from 8.5 cents to 7.24 cents during the past year.

Braniff's suspension of flight operations Wednesday left passengers, employees, stockholders and competitors uncertain about the airline's future and how far repercussions from the shutdown will spread.

Coats announced the suspension of all operations, foreign and domestic, late Wednesday. That decision was reached during a directors' meeting that convened at 3:05 p.m. CDT, five minutes after the New York Stock Exchange closed. Braniff stock fell 1/2 Wednesday to 2 1/2.

"I can't believe this," said Braniff passenger Jim Skyles, ordered off Braniff Flight 494 before it left Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport for Houston. "It's terrible. And I feel sorry for the people, the employees. One of the stewardesses was crying. It's a shame."

"We don't know anything," said a Braniff flight attendant who lives in San Antonio but was stranded in Dallas by the surprise shutdown. "We still don't know if we have jobs. We just don't know. We're not supposed to be talking to you (reporters), but what are they going to do, fire us?"

She declined to give her name as she stood in line to buy a ticket from a competing airline so she could get home.

Ticket counters, lounges, boarding ramps, bars, gift shops and newsstands were abandoned and dark along Braniff's sprawling, 24-gate terminal at D-FW Airport.

A skeleton crew of Braniff employees stayed past 5 p.m. Wednesday, the official shutdown time, to help passengers on late-arriving flights find their luggage and shift to other airlines. But ramp agent Arthur Jordan said those employees who stayed late were doing so voluntarily.

"I've been here since 6 a.m. but I'm not being paid for anything past 5 p.m.," said Jordan. He continued to struggle with lost bags and irate travelers well past 9 p.m.

"I'd say it's a major disruption of my travel plans," said Ross Shelton, whose trip from Corpus Christi, Texas, to Memphis, Tenn., was halted at D-FW by the Braniff shutdown.

SHOW OF SUPPORT — Sgt. O'Neal, a Los Angeles International Airport security guard, points out the sticker of support that was posted on the door of a Braniff Airways loading dock shortly after the carrier's Dallas headquarters announced it was suspending all domestic and foreign flights Wednesday.

Argentine jets downed; British destroyer hit

LONDON (AP) — Two Argentine Skyhawk fighters were shot down, a third fighter crashed and a British warship was damaged slightly in Wednesday's battle off the Falkland Islands, the British Defense Ministry reported today.

On Wednesday, the ministry had said two of three Argentine Skyhawks were shot down by British Sea Wolf missiles when they attacked a British warship about 30 miles west of the disputed islands.

But ministry spokesman Ian McDonald said today a third Skyhawk was "seen to crash" during the engagement in the five-week dispute.

McDonald said there were no British casualties and the Royal Navy task force was continuing its patrols in the South Atlantic to keep Argentine planes from resupplying forces on the islands.

He said a British warship sustained "comparatively minor damage" which was being repaired. He would not elaborate.

The latest British announcement came hours after a London Broadcasting Corp., an all-news radio station in the British capital, reported two Argentine Skyhawks were downed and a British destroyer torpedoed in fighting Wednesday.

"One of Britain's warships in the South Atlantic, a type 22 frigate, is believed to have been hit but not badly damaged by a torpedo during the incident yesterday in which two Argentine jets were shot down," the radio said.

Britain is known to have two type 22 frigates, the Broadsword and Brilliant, in its Falklands task force.

Earlier, the British defense ministry reported one of its Sea King helicopters ditched in the sea, but said its four crewmen were rescued. The ministry said there was no evidence Argentine forces shot the aircraft down.

Argentina's account said two British frigates shelled Stanley, the Falklands capital, late Wednesday morning and Argentine planes attacked British frigates three hours later, causing "considerable damage to them," and Argentine shore personnel shot down the helicopter.

"As a result of these actions, two Argentine airplanes were downed," the communique said.

Neither the British nor the Argentines said anything about the Skyhawk pilots, and it was assumed they were lost.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said he did not think the continuing clashes would have any effect on his efforts to negotiate a framework for peace negotiations.

Hobby suggests special session on prison funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he's not sure Texas' prison problems need to be added to the narrow agenda of a special legislative session even though the prisons have hung out a "no vacancy" sign because of overcrowding.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby met with Clements Wednesday and asked him to open up the May 24 session, which now is scheduled only to consider repeal of the state's ad valorem tax.

Among other things, Hobby wants the state to fund contracts with county jails to house surplus prisoners. The Texas Department of Corrections is under a federal court order to end overcrowding. On Monday, the 19-unit system's inmate population reached 33,917 and the TDC board closed the system to any more inmates.

The Huntsville unit accepted 14 inmates but sent 54 inmates back to Harris County when county officials tried to deposit them at the prison.

"I'm not sure we need any emergency action at this point," Clements told reporters Wednesday.

Clements said the state Parole Board planned to release 450 prisoners by Monday, bringing the prison into compliance with U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's order.

"On Monday, we will be in balance, and I think we can handle the situation," Clements said.

Five airplanes seized

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Five planes from an air charter company have been seized and eight employees subpoenaed by a federal grand jury in connection with allegations the planes were used to fly illegal aliens to Houston.

A sixth plane was in Mexico when agents arrived Wednesday with a seizure warrant and will be impounded on its return, said Larry Richardson, U.S. Border Patrol sector chief in McAllen.

Richardson said Border Patrol agents and investigators from the Houston office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service obtained the seizure warrant from a U.S. magistrate.

He declined to discuss details of the case. John Hess, manager of Hunt Pan Am charter service, said agents subpoenaed eight company employees to appear next week before a federal grand jury. Those subpoenaed included pilots, receptionists and management personnel, he said.

"It came as a total surprise," Hess said of the seizures. "I didn't realize we were violating any laws, if we were. That's what I'm still not clear on."

Shriners to seek donations

Mayor Clyde Angel has proclaimed May 15 as Crippled and Burned Children's Day in Big Spring.

Beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, members of the Big Spring Shriners will be passing out Shiner magazines and taking donations at all major intersections, shopping centers and neighborhoods of Big Spring.

According to Travis Floyd, publicity chairman, all monies collected will go to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Houston and the Shriners Burn Center in Galveston, which offer free services to all children who are burn victims or have a crippling disease.

"We intend to make this a real team effort and cover as much of Big Spring as possible on Saturday," Floyd said. Pointing up the significance of this event and the outstanding work of the Shriners, state Rep. Larry Don Shaw will present a citation to the local fraternal organization signed by the speaker of the Texas House and himself.

In order to accept donations, the Shriners office at 101 Goliad will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, or, a Shiner will pick up donations if you call 267-9177.

Deaths

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Trinity Memorial Chapel of Memories with the Rev. Johnny Griffith of the People's Church of Breckenridge officiating. Burial will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born July 5, 1927, in Texas and had lived in Big Spring for the past 28 years. He had been the owner and operator of numerous service stations in the Big Spring area for 20 years.

Survivors include his wife, Wanda Acuff of Big Spring; four sons, Jackie Acuff of Odessa and Dale, Johnny and Ricky Acuff of Big Spring; and four grandchildren.

The family will be at 4008 Dixon.

It could be inferred from Sunday's story on the top graduates from Big Spring High School that John Dolenz had the third highest grade average. Jeri Cox, with a 96.11 average, is the third-ranked student from BSHS. Dolenz is the highest-ranking boy with a 95.02 average.

Also, the Mary Sanchez of Route 1 reported arrested on a charge of shoplifting in Sunday's Police Beat column is not the Mary A. Sanchez of 709 Douglas who is employed in the Rannels Junior High Cafeteria.

The Reagan administration is counting on a resurgence in consumer spending to help end the recession that started last summer.

Such as food and clothing "is probably more indicative of the overall consumer picture," said David Ernst, a vice president at Evans Economics in Washington.

Robert Parry, chief economist at Security Pacific National Bank in Los Angeles, said the April increase may signal the start of a sustained recovery in retail sales.

"The prolonged period of declining sales is behind us," he said.

But any good news was offset by Wednesday's announcement that financially troubled Braniff International suspended its flights. The airline, which employs 8,500 people, lost $160 million last year and $41.4 million in the first three months of 1982.

The Reagan administration is counting on a resurgence in consumer spending to help end the recession that started last summer.

The group presented its thoughts, ideas and concerns to House Democratic leaders three weeks ago "for their information and study and input as to whether we were in the ball park, or whether our suggestions were achievable," Stenholm said.

Since then, the group had "worked earnestly" with House Budget Committee chairman Jim Jones, D-Okl., in an attempt to agree on a budget that would meet the concerns of a broad spectrum, Stenholm added.

"Those negotiations broke down (Tuesday) when it became apparent that no sincere effort was being made by our side of the aisle to come to grips with the problem," Stenholm said.

Jones unveiled details of his proposal late Monday, and Boll Weevils learned then that most of their concerns had been ignored. Members of the coalition criticized Jones' budget for cutting military spending and raising taxes to allow more money to be spent on social programs.

"Everybody is opposed to raising revenue, but we are going to have to raise it some to correct the tremendous deficit we now have," Gramm added.

Police Beat Shooting victim hospitalized

Upon answering a call of a possible shooting last night at the Sands Motel at 2900 W. Highway 80, Big Spring police say they discovered an 18-year-old male with a gunshot wound to his abdomen.

Police received a tip about the shooting around 10:40 p.m. and upon entering a room at the motel found Ronald Dean Richmond of Grandfalls sitting in a chair with a single stomach wound.

Richmond was transported to Malone-Hogan Hospital by Shafer Ambulance Service. He remains there today in stable and good condition, according to a hospital spokeswoman.

Police say they believe the wound may have been self-inflicted.

The manager of Gibson's Discount Center at 2313 Scurry complained to police today at 7 a.m. that an unknown person had attempted to gain entry to the store from the roof sometime last night. The manager estimated the suspect caused approximately $100 in damage to the roof, police said.

Christine Talamente reported to police that while her car was parked on the lot of Big Spring Printing at 112 W. Second yesterday someone stole a pocket watch worth $170 from the vehicle.

Sue Schaaf of 2519 Hunter complained to police that yesterday at 7:50 a.m. while her 13-year-old son was waiting for a school bus on Randolph Street, he was beaten up by another juvenile.

Vehicles driven by Michael Stephen Forshee of 1310 Lexington and Melvin Ray Heffington of 4111 Muir collided Wednesday at 8:40 p.m. in the 300 block of West 18th, police said. Police reports indicated neither driver was injured.

Jack Y. Smith, a Big Spring city councilman who sits on the PBRPC board of directors, said, "We passed the application with favorable comment. Everyone seemed entirely enthused with the project. I feel like the application will go on through the Health and Human Services Department."

Carol Hunter, president of the BSISD board of trustees, said, "We are so very proud of our Head Start program. It's just excellent and we are lucky to have Dr. E.S. Morgan and a fine group at Lakeview Elementary to run the program."

The Head Start funds will provide wages for 25 employees and money for various supplies and equipment. The funding is for the 1982-83 school year.

Retail sales up in April

By The Associated Press

A government report that retail sales rose 1.4 percent in April is encouraging news for the economy, but may have overstated the real spending increase, analysts say.

The increase, which followed a slump of 0.6 percent in March, included a 5.6 percent rise in auto sales, the Commerce Department said Wednesday. But the figure is misleading because the number of new cars sold in April actually fell, said Jack Lavery, chief economist at Merrill Lynch & Co.

The dollar volume of auto sales rose partly because manufacturers ended rebates, resulting in higher prices compared to March, he said. Sales of used cars also may have risen during the month, he added.

Boll Weevils to propose budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since the Democratic leadership wouldn't work with them, Boll Weevils will propose a federal budget of their own and seek the support of Republicans, the chairman of the Conservative Democratic Forum told a news conference.

"The only way we are going to get a budget is to attract other conservatives who believe as we do that it is time for action instead of political rhetoric," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, of Stamford.

"We will be talking with everybody, trying to get 218 votes, and we are going to be extremely dedicated toward that task," he said Wednesday.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, of College Station said he feels the group will offer a budget that will be acceptable to a majority of the members of the House of Representatives.

"The president has indicated strong support for the basic thrust of our ideas. The president called me and said he is eager to work with us," said Gramm.

The Boll Weevils met for an hour Wednesday afternoon in the Cannon House Office Building and then held a news conference to announce their plans.

Bonnie Franklin attends county treasurers' meeting

COLLEGE STATION — Some 100 county treasurers from across Texas, including Howard County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin, are expected to take part in the 10th annual County Treasurers' Seminar at Texas A&M University Monday through Wednesday.

This year's program is designed to give county treasurers more opportunity to share ideas and discuss issues pertinent to their work, according to John Gilmartin, coordinator of the V.G. Young Institute of County Government, a part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which is sponsoring the seminar in cooperation with the County Treasurers Association of Texas.

County treasurers will address topics such as courthouse dealings, depository contracts, investment of county funds and alternate methods of finance.

Guest speakers will include State Treasurer Warren G. Harding, Larry McNeill, Austin attorney; Doug Aurand, board chairman of the National Association of County Treasurers and Finance Officers; Ronnie Jackson, extension fiscal and management affairs officer; Larry Lilly, Bryan businessman; and Mickey Deison, co-chairman of the County Officials Advisory Committee to the governor.

Band program may be cut

LORAIN (SC) — School Superintendent Glen Sanders presented a report Tuesday night to the school trustees that indicates some belt tightening will be necessary in the Loraine school system.

Sanders said the board might have to consider eliminating the band program in order to save dollars. The board indicated it will seek input from community residents concerning such a step.

Additional business included routine approval of the Title I program next year and transfer of one student from Colorado City.

Loraine mayor hospitalized

LORAIN (SC) — Mayor Royce Beights has been hospitalized in New Braunfels after suffering a heart attack earlier this week.

Beights was in New Braunfels with a group of students from Loraine, serving as a chaperone for the senior trip when the attack occurred at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

He is in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Heavy flooding reported in Wichita Falls

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes spawned by roaming bands of heavy thunderstorms injured at least 29 people in Texas and floodwaters from torrential downpour in Wichita Falls left people stranded in cars, homes and trees.

Wild weather dominated most of Texas today and the flood and flash flood producing rainfall was expected to continue in most areas for most of today. Forecasters said the drenching rains were to be ending from west to east late today.

Water ran as deep as five feet in some streets at Wichita Falls as Holliday Creek cascaded from its banks and spread flooding throughout the city. Authorities used boats and large trucks to evacuate hundreds of residents from flooded or flood-threatened homes.

Evacuation centers were set up at two elementary schools and an auditorium at Midwestern State University.

There were no reports of injury. Initial reports indicated at least one tornado struck Wichita Falls, but the National Weather Service and city officials could not confirm the reports.

High winds damaged signs, homes and trees before the raging floodwaters swept through the streets of Wichita Falls.

Much of North Texas was under a flash flood warning early today and many areas of the state were under flash flood watches, tornado watches and severe thunderstorms warnings.

A flood warning was issued for the Trinity River after flooding was reported early today in the area around Carrollton, just north of Dallas.

The heaviest reported rainfall by early today was at Bonham in Fannin County where nearly 12 inches had been reported.

Road flooding was widespread, authorities said, in Cooke, Grayson, Denton, Stephens, Parker, Wise, Fannin, Delta and Lamar Counties.

Farm Roads 605 and 2746 in the Abilene area were closed to automobile traffic and portions of Farm Road 1082 between Hawley and Lake Fort Phantom were under water at dawn today. Street flooding was reported at Anson.

Flash flood warnings were also issued early today for persons in Bandera and Real Counties after more than three inches of rain fell in that area.

Authorities said tornadoes Wednesday injured 16 people in Seminole in far West Texas, five at a mobile home park 23 miles from Seminole, at least six at a mobile home park west of Weatherford and two in Palo Pinto County in Central Texas.

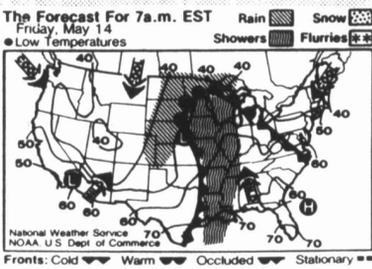

Officials said another tornado may have been responsible for the crash of private plane that killed four people near Lubbock.

The National Weather Service reported 3.91 inches of rain fell on Wichita Falls by 11 p.m. Wednesday. And heavy rain continued throughout the night.

CITY TAKES A DUNKIN' — More than doughnuts took a dunking Wednesday night in Wichita Falls as more than five inches of rain fell on parts of the city.

Suspect captured; pontiff unharmed

Fake priest attacks pope with bayonet

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The man in priest's robes who tried to kill Pope John Paul II lunged at the pontiff with an 18-inch bayonet with a sharpened 12.5-inch blade, police said today. The pope blessed both the bayonet and the attacker after the episode at the Shrine of Fatima, police sources said.

Police said the assailant identified himself as a priest and a disciple of traditionalist Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, leader of a fundamentalist group opposed to Roman Catholic Church reforms imposed by the Vatican II conference. But the movement's headquarters in Geneva said the assailant constantly disagreed with Lefebvre and left the traditionalists two years ago.

Lisbon Police Inspector Daniel Polonio identified the assailant as Juan Fernandez Krohn, 32, a native of Madrid who had been living near Paris, and said he was charged with attempted homicide. Polonio told reporters Krohn's passport identified him as a "religious," a term generally used to describe clerics as well as seminarians.

Krohn was being interrogated by anti-terrorism investigators at police headquarters in Lisbon, 110 miles southwest of Fatima, and would be arraigned Friday morning, Polonio said. If convicted, he could be imprisoned for 15 to 20 years.

The inspector said Krohn, dressed in a clerical collar and robe, attacked the pontiff with a bayonet that goes with German Mauser rifles still used by Portuguese police.

Security guards overpowered the attacker when he lunged at the pope Wednesday night from about six yards away as the pontiff was approaching an altar erected on the steps of the basilica at the shrine to the Virgin Mary.

The attack was made on the eve of the first anniversary of the assassination attempt in St. Peter's Square in which the pope was critically wounded by shots fired by a Turkish terrorist. The would-be assassin, Mehmet Ali Agca, is now serving a life sentence in an Italian prison.

The pontiff had come to the Shrine of Fatima, in central Portugal, to thank the Virgin Mary for sparing his life a year ago. The shrine marks the spot where three shepherd children said Mary appeared to them six times in 1917, and the assassination attempt occurred on the anniversary of the first apparition.

Police sources in Fatima identified the latest assailant as Joan Fernandez Krohn, 32, who was born in Madrid but has been living near Paris. They said he entered Portugal from Spain Wednesday on a Spanish passport. He was taken to Lisbon, 65 miles to the south, and questioned there by police through the night.

Dressed in a clerical collar and robe, he shouted "Down with the Pope!" and "Down with Vatican Two!", a reference to the 1962-65 ecumenical council that charted a course of church reforms. But a Portuguese priest who saw the attack said when the man was seized, his black cassock fell open to reveal an ordinary white shirt of a type not worn by priests.

Hinckley leaves room during Foster testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr. hardly stirred while his father wept on the witness stand, but sprang to life and stalked out of the courtroom during videotaped testimony of actress Jodie Foster recounting how she rejected his advances.

Jurors at Hinckley's trial were to hear Miss Foster again today, although not via television sets as they did Wednesday.

Instead, they'll be listening to two recorded telephone calls with Hinckley. In one, the actress reacts, "Oh no, not you again."

Following the telephone recordings, the defense was to begin calling psychiatrists in its effort to show that Hinckley was insane when he shot President Reagan, White House Press Secretary James Brady and two law enforcement officers on March 30, 1981.

Hinckley's lawyers contend the defendant's attack on the president was an attempt to impress Miss Foster.

The blonde actress, appearing confident on the videotape, said Hinckley began leaving love notes and poems under her dormitory door at Yale University after she enrolled there in the fall of 1980.

When he got no response, she said, he telephoned her twice. His tape recordings of those calls, seized from his Washington hotel room after the shootings, will be available to the jury. Portions of the calls were heard on the videotape.

When Miss Foster's testimony began, Hinckley put on his glasses and leaned forward toward the television monitor. But he abruptly left 25 minutes later, after Miss Foster said, "I didn't have any relationship with John Hinckley."

The half-dozen U.S. marshals who walked out with him led him back to the defense table almost the instant the videotape ended.

Hinckley's sudden exit followed by several hours the dramatic testimony of his father, who in a confidential tone told jurors, "I am the cause of John's tragedy."

The father, John W. Hinckley Sr., then buried his face in a handkerchief and wept. His sobbing wife, JoAnn, was led from the courtroom seconds later. Young Hinckley sat through it all without any outward show of emotion.

The elder Hinckley told the jury that the "greatest mistake" of his life came when he forced her son out of family home in Evergreen, Colo., three weeks before the president was shot.

"We forced him out at a time when he just couldn't cope," the senior Hinckley said.

According to earlier testimony, Hinckley's parents were following the advice of the psychiatrist treating their son when they refused to let him return home. The idea, according to witnesses, was to prod the young Hinckley to be more responsible for taking care of himself.

Miss Foster, who said she would be out of the country during the trial, was videotaped March 29 and the next day. The defendant was present for the taping, but the courtroom was closed to the public and the camera never once captured his reaction.

"Do you know him at all?" the actress was asked.

A No.

Q. Do you have mutual friends?

A No.

Q. Have you ever been introduced to him.

A No.

Q. Or him to you?

A No.

Miss Foster said from March 4 to March 6 of 1981, Hinckley left additional messages under her door.

One read, "Jodie Foster love. Just wait. I'll rescue you very soon. Please cooperate. J.W.H."

The actress said a similar note was sent to the prostitute she portrayed in the movie "Taxi Driver," a movie the defendant saw 15 times.

Prison director subpoenaed

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas prison director W. J. Estelle was served with a Harris County subpoena late Wednesday night and said he would respond appropriately to a district court's order that he explain why no more prisoners are being accepted by the Texas Department of Corrections.

In a telephone interview, Estelle said he was served with the subpoena, issued by District Court Judge Ted Poe, at a Huntsville airport Wednesday night.

Poe ordered Estelle to appear in a Houston court on Monday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for failing to accept prisoners sent to the TDC on Tuesday night.

Estelle said he was sympathetic with the plight of counties with overcrowded jails, but said he had no choice but to refuse more inmates in TDC prisons because of a federal court order.

School director held hostage

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Agriculture students holding their school director and 15 million insects hostage here say they are prepared to continue their protest through the weekend.

The students at the Hermanos Escobar agriculture school claim Mexico's Secretary of Agriculture reneged on an agreement that would have meant nearly $5 million for the school.

They said they intend to hold school director Rigoberto Delgado Perez hostage in his office until the terms of the agreement were met.

The students initially took about 15 people hostage at the school, two agriculture offices in downtown Juarez and an insect laboratory in nearby Zaragoza. However, they allowed free movement Wednesday of all of the hostages except Delgado.

The 15 million insect larvae are kept in special artificial living quarters and are released full-grown during the cotton planting season. Delgado said the insects are predators that eat insects dangerous to the cotton crop.

Student leader Hector Reyes said that if the students' demands were not met, they would shut down the insects' life support systems — an action Delgado said could cost area farmers millions of dollars.

Government needs 'truth in advertising'

Rep. Ron Paul (R-Texas) wants federal agencies to stop saying that government products and services are "free of charge."

A bill he's introduced would require them to state: "This product or publication has been paid for with United States tax dollars; therefore it is available at no cost in addition to the tax expenditures already made for its production."

Why shouldn't "truth in advertising" rules apply to the government's products and services, Rep. Paul asks.

If they did, Uncle Sam would have to admit that "there's no such thing as a free lunch."

Around the Rim

Muscling up

The young businesswoman strolls down the sidewalk, imitation leather briefcase in one hand, this morning's newspaper tucked under the opposite elbow. There's a smile on her face as she recalls her afternoon presentation of a new marketing plan for Lady Elegant perfume. That ought to get her a good raise.

Suddenly she stops dead in her high-heeled steps. A muffled cry directs her attention to the alley she was about to pass. Turning the corner, she sees a mugging in action — a huge form engulfing a much thinner one, arms flailing in a mock attempt at combat.

Sally drops her briefcase and paper and rushes to the nearest phone booth. Out from under her classic tailored styling appears a lavender dansekin and a body of rippling muscles. No longer is she Sally Dimple, career woman, but now Conanetta, the wonder woman, as she races to aid of the muggee.

ALL YOU SAY, what an imagination. Or is that from the new movie starring Olivia "Let's Get Physical" John? Or has all the recent rain waterlogged my brain and transformed me into another Mickey Spillane?

Actually the above story could be quite true. Have you noticed how many people are into getting into muscles these days? Especially the women. The world is no longer safe for us 5-10, 150-pound sorts.

Just take a look at Sunday afternoon TV or drop by the local muscle hut. You'll see just as many muscle women working that body as musclemen. For the ones not wanting to become an East German look-alike, the workouts do wonders for toning up bodies. I'm not talking about natural athletic types but secretaries, salesladies, nurses, almost any type of career woman.

Just one peek in the door and you can bet there's heavy business from the male clientele. Once upon a time, the person sweating and grunting beside you was an ugly brute who parked cars by placing them on his back and carrying them to their designated resting space.

Now it could very well be gorgeous blonde who's toning up for the outdoor pool season. She doesn't leave a puddle of sweat on the bench and doesn't smell like a pen of Hampshire hogs. But watch out. If she doesn't like those two eyes following her every repetition, she just might blacken both of them.

IT SEEMS America is on another nostalgia kick. Only this time we're going all the way back to the days of the Greeks and Romans when the perfect body was worshipped. There weren't any Jackie Gleasons wadding around. All the last names sounded something like Schwarzenegger.

I guess it all started a few years ago — seems more like centuries — when disco arrived on the scene. To get into those tight-fitting knits and silk shirts, people had no choice but to get in shape. Besides, how can you do the hustle or bus stop when you move around the floor like Meatloaf?

These haven't been really any great movies about this new craze — except maybe for "Pumping Iron" a few years ago — but there have been a few songs. Lovely Olivia turned notes into gold with "Let's Get Physical" while Diana Ross is now heating things up with "Work That Body."

These and other work-out tunes can be found on albums, tapes or cassettes for women to work those thighs and tummies in the privacy of their own homes. Or they can go to aerobics or jazzercise classes and get down while juggling, twisting and reaching.

One other influence I have to believe is the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders. All the girls want to rah-rah now and to do it, they've got to look the part. No use going down to the local department store and buying one of those blue and silver jackets if it's going to go on a ton of cellulose. They don't even make them to fit a walrus, anyway.

THE GUYS ARE just as bad. The hot item — besides bikini briefs — is Muscle Digest. Pages and pages of biceps, triceps, quadriceps, pectorals and bulging veins on bodies that producer George Lucas could have created.

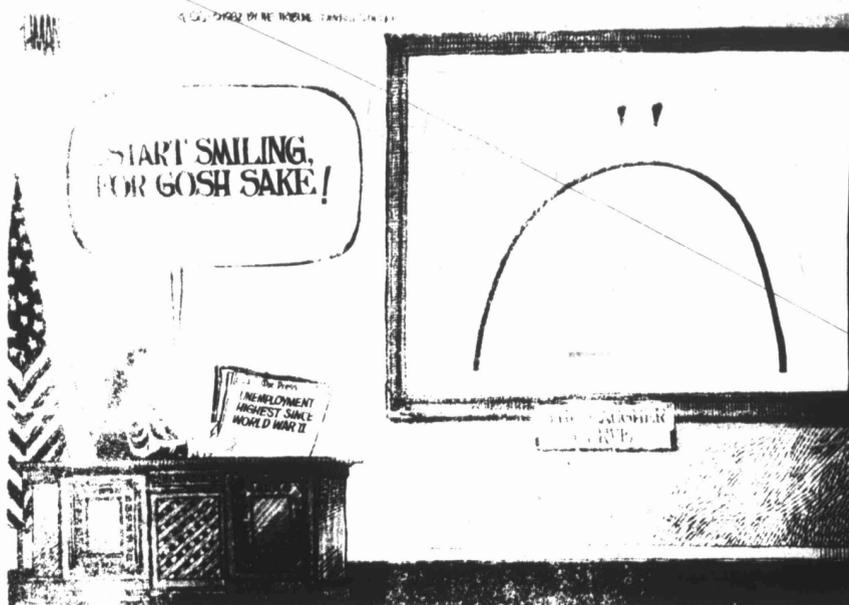

There are advertisements for diet supplements such as Liver Argentina (I thought those guys had enough trouble with the British), bee pollen, kidneys, frolic acid and other yummy stuff. You can buy posters of your favorite Mr. This and Mr. That, weight-training equipment, books, films and all sorts of junk for your hunk.

Now a nation of pudgy men and women, once trapped in front of a television cramming chips, dips, sodas and beers into their collective mouths are taking the kids and family dog to the muscle hall down the street and becoming physical specimens.

This all makes me very happy. I was really glad to have Sally come along and beat up on that animal that jumped me in the alley behind the Herald. After she put her muscles away, she turned out to be a nice chick, serving in her spare time.

She only has one hang-up. She likes to spread my arms apart, put 50 kilo weights on each and do 25 curls with my body.

At least she doesn't drop the weights.

Poland's military problems

WASHINGTON — Intelligence analysts believe the threadbare military regime of Poland's Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski may be coming apart at the seams. Secret intelligence assessment suggests that the Polish Army itself is showing signs of serious strain.

Here is some of the evidence on which the analysts base their conclusions:

—In the violent suppression of recent demonstrations, security police have done the dirty work, while the army stayed on the sidelines. As in other communist countries, security forces are likely to be more ruthless and dedicated to the regime, whether from self-interest or ideology. But the anti-government riptides in Poland make it doubtful if security police can control the population, sooner or later, the communists will have to call on the army.

—The army, however, may be unreliable. In fact, a number of military men were spotted in the ranks of the Solidarity union demonstrators, protesting the martial law they are supposed to be enforcing.

—The Polish Army appears to be suffering a shortage of officers. Winning a military commission used to be highly competitive, and entrance examinations were tough. But in recent weeks, the armed services have virtually dropped their entrance examinations, taking just about anybody they can lure off the street. Intelligence analysts interpret this as a direct result of the widespread bitterness against the military since the imposition of martial law.

—In the lower ranks, which have none of the prestige and perks of commissioned officers, the situation may be even more ominous for the Polish regime. The customary two-year term for conscripts was extended last fall, according to intelligence sources. When martial law was actually decreed in December, the length of service was extended once again.

The new recruits may be a different story, though. They are young men who were impressionable teenagers during the Solidarity ferment of the last couple of years. Drafted from factories, shipyards and universities, many of them were members of Solidarity; ordering them to crush their friends and co-workers could be a risky proposition.

—Once held in high esteem by their fellow countrymen, members of the armed forces are increasingly viewed with suspicion. This has created a serious morale problem among both officers and men, and a corresponding resentment of a regime that transformed them from heroes into oppressors, intelligence sources told my associate Lucette Lagnado.

It is a tragic irony of the Polish situation that the cracks in Poland's military machine may lead to disaster, not just for Jaruzelski and his fellow generals, but for the entire nation.

The sad reality remains basically what it was when the democratic "excesses" of the Solidarity movement led to declaration of martial law five months ago today. Indeed, the reality is the same as it has been for the last 38 years: The Russians are ready, willing and able to descend on Poland in overwhelming force if the military loses control of the situation.

The Kremlin may have mellowed a bit since Joseph Stalin's bloody era, but postwar Soviet leaders have never shown any compunctions about striking ruthlessly when their communist empire's vital interests are threatened. It's no secret that they consider Poland a key part of that empire.

Throughout history, the Poles have shown a hunger for freedom that often bordered on the suicidal. Polish lancers charged Nazi tanks and machineguns with incredible courage — and little else. Whether their descendants will decide to settle for the grim but survival oppression of martial law is not at all clear.

KICKING THE HANDICAPPED: Last month I reported that the Reagan administration was trying to shirk federal responsibility for the education of handicapped children — and was hoping to trick Congress into agreeing, by sneaking legislation up to Capitol Hill a piece at a time.

Apparently there is no limit to the Education Department's bureaucratic pettifoggery as it tries to wriggle out of its legal duty to see that the handicapped are given "free, appropriate, public education." In a mean-minded attempt to keep parents from finding out how well — or how badly — their handicapped kids are being educated, the department issued only 200 copies of its required annual report on the law's application in each of the states. After a storm of protest, the department grudgingly agreed to print some more.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Even in the devastation of a nuclear war, bureaucratic red tape will survive, impervious to blast or radiation. The Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service is charged with providing rations to survivors once a refugee family's recommended week's supply is gone. But according to a USDA instruction sheet, only those foodstuffs available under price-support and surplus-storage legislation will be distributed. And state agencies must send written requests to the nearest Food Distribution Division office within 30 days to qualify for replacement of food given out.

Military wives

Dear Editor, This is an open letter to all the children and to all the ex-wives of service men now retired or about to retire.

Do you realize what the U.S. Supreme Court has done to you? They say that your father, husband or ex-husband can drag you all over the world — during which time the wife is busily engaged in bearing and caring for his children so that the wife cannot work outside the home to build up her own Social Security Account; then when he retires he says "Bye Bye" to wife and children. If divorce ensues he may be ordered to pay child support (no alimony in Texas). If he is so ordered he simply disappears and the mother and dependent children find themselves demoted from a fairly comfortable life as a service man's family to a fatherless home dependent upon welfare. His retirement pay cannot even be attached to cover court ordered child support.

Part of the remuneration of a service man is his very very liberal retirement pay with its twice annual raise of such an extent as to be ridiculous.

Texas Law says that all earnings of husband or wife become Community Property. Congress passed a law that the retirement pay of an ex-serviceman cannot be attached to pay child support or to pay the ex-wife her portion of the Community Property (not alimony) that she became entitled to during the years of marriage.

So the U.S. Supreme Court said that the bill passed by Congress is constitutional because the U.S. is higher than the 50 states.

Bills are pending right now in Congress to make a retired serviceman liable for his just obligations to those that he abandoned. How could any person with any moral responsibility, or even any conscience advocate the killing of these bills?

Service wife — take action now. If your serviceman husband is not willing to join you in asking your Congressman to pass one of these bills you should wonder about his future plans for you. Ex-wives of retired servicemen — you write your congressman. Dependent children — make yourselves heard.

Born again

Dear Editor, I would like to commend Mr. Bill Walters on his letter of May 4th. So many of us have been brainwashed as to true Biblical meanings, including many who preach the gospel.

There are many who claim there are many interpretations and twist meanings to fit their own needs and wants. Any one who really understands the Bible can read that we are reborn only on the day of Judgement if we qualify. Until then even the dead are asleep (with their spirits.)

The hour is coming, in which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth! They that have done good, unto the resurrection of life! And they that have done evil unto the resurrection of damnation.

Job 21, 30-32
The wicked is reserved to the day of destruction, yet shall be brought to the grave, and shall remain in the tomb. The Bible is specific that only He can judge as to whether we are reborn and we as humans of blood and bones, will not know until day of judgement whether we have been reborn or not.

A question of shrinks

One of the things I can never understand is why learned psychiatrists, who are hired by the government and the defense in a major crime case, can arrive at such different opinions when it comes to the sanity or insanity of a defendant.

I asked a defense lawyer why it was impossible for opposing psychiatrists, when testifying, to agree on the mental condition of the accused at the time he committed the crime.

"Doesn't it confuse the jury?" I asked.

"I guess it does. So, as a lawyer, I have to be very careful when selecting a shrink that he looks and sounds as if he knows what he's talking about. When you're going for an insanity plea you don't want your expert to look like a quack."

"Suppose you hire a psychiatrist to examine your client and he decides the person was sane at the time he committed the crime."

"I fire him. Obviously he is not sufficiently qualified to be a defense witness. You waste a lot of money when you hire a psychiatrist with an open mind. I've had cases where five shrinks have examined my client before I could get one to say he was crazy."

"And that was the one you called to the stand?"

"If I called the other four, I could have been sued for malpractice."

"How do you find your medical experts?"

"We have lists of shrinks who believe anyone who commits a major crime is crazy, just as the government has lists of doctors who are willing to testify that anyone involved in one was sane. We don't use their lists and they don't use ours."

"Besides the lists you work from, what else do you look for in a psychiatrist for the defense?"

"Appearance counts for everything with a jury, so you want your shrink to look more psychiatric than their shrink. I personally prefer one with a beard and glasses so he will remind the jurors of Sigmund Freud. If I can't get a guy with a beard, I'll settle for one that looks like Alan Alda. People believe the medical opinions of an Alan Alda. If my expert has a tweed suit I always ask him to wear it. I don't want my doctor to look too rich, or the jury will suspect he's in the testifying business for the money."

"I imagine that prosecutors prefer their experts to look the same way."

"Yes. Sometimes it's hard for the jurors to distinguish which shrink has testified for the defense and which one was a witness for the state. That's why it's better, to have a psychiatrist with a German name, and preferably an accent."

"I always insist that my man testifies in language that will not overwhelm the layperson. But I want him to use enough medical jargon to show he isn't just some doctor who walked in off the street."

"The most important thing of course is that my shrink does not become rattled in cross-examination by the prosecution. I don't want him to lose his cool when they start questioning him about his childhood."

"How do you cross-examine the government's psychiatrist?" I asked.

"Ruthlessly. I must make the jury believe the government's expert should never have been granted his medical degree."

"The trick is to trip him up so badly he starts behaving on the stand like Captain Queeg in the Caine Mutiny trial. I might even raise the question of his sanity before I get finished with him."

"One final question. What type of psychiatrist is willing to spend all his days in court and put up with this kind of abuse?"

"Mostly one who is tired of listening to people's dreams."

Billy Graham

Satan is real

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Although I grew up in a religious home, I got involved in Satan worship about ten years ago. Only recently have I been freed from this through the power of Christ. Will you tell people for me that Satan is real, and can gain control of our lives in a terrible way if we let him? — S.W.L.

DEAR S.W.L.: Your own testimony is a witness to the dangers we face when we wilfully turn our backs on God. Yes, Satan is real, and he seeks to do all he can to keep us from God. With some people (such as yourself) this may take extreme forms, including even the worship of Satan himself. You will remember that Satan even tried to get Jesus to worship him, and Jesus' response was what ours should be: "Away from me, Satan! For it is written: 'Worship the Lord your God, and serve him only'" (Matthew 4:10).

But your life is also a witness to the saving power and grace of God. God is greater than Satan, and he is able to save anyone who turns to Christ in repentance and faith. What a wonderful truth that is! The Bible says, "As for you, you were dead in your transgressions and sins, in which you used to live when you followed the ways of this world and of the ruler of the kingdom of the air, the spirit who is now at work in those who are disobedient. ... But because of his great love for us, God who is rich in mercy, made us alive with Christ" (Ephesians 2:1-2, 4-5).

Your life is also an encouragement to parents who may be deeply hurt because of a son or daughter who has strayed from God. No doubt there were many who prayed for you, including your parents. The memory of your Christian home also stayed with you, and God used that to bring you back to himself.

May God bless you and especially may he give you a real hunger to grow in your faith. God has called you "out of darkness into his wonderful light" (1 Peter 2:9), and he can use you to help others find Christ, the light of the world.

Texans in Washington get fired up by coal

By WILLIAM GARLAND
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Getting energy to Texas seldom is viewed in Washington as a serious source of lost sleep. Nor are Texans and energy generally mixed without a mention of oil and gas.

But for Texans in Washington Tuesday, the topic was coal; how to get more and how to use more.

Before a meeting of the Texas Energy Forum, Rep. Thomas Loeffler, R-Hunt, said a solution is at hand if only the slow gears of Congress would more quickly end a 20-year legislative dispute.

"A coal slurry pipeline is the answer," the two-term congressman told the gathering of about 60 congressional aides, industrial lobbyists and others interested in Texas energy at the meeting sponsored by the Texas Office of State-Federal Relations.

A coal slurry pipeline mixes coal with substances such as water to transport the coal.

Western states oppose the pipelines because they would use water, which is scarce, to send the coal to Texas. Texas, which has coal-fired energy plants, wants coal as a substitute for oil and gas.

LOEFFLER'S EMPHATIC support for a pipeline, currently a topic for hearings in the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, was backed up by a state coal expert who predicted the state would increase its consumption of coal three-fold by 1990.

William L. Fisher, director of the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas, told the forum that coal imports would rise to 50 million tons and that overall coal use would reach 150 million tons in Texas by the end of the 1980s.

One reason to build the pipeline, Loeffler told the forum, is that the Burlington-Northern Railroad has a monopoly on the current transportation of coal to San Antonio. He said the railroad also charges too much for the delivery.

There currently are two primary plans for coal slurry pipelines that would bring coal across West Texas to Houston. Legislation pending before the House and Senate would allow rights of way to construct the pipelines from western states to Texas.

A third pipeline plan, which is considered further along in planning stages and which would go from the Montana-Wyoming area to Louisiana, also is seen as a possible coal transport route to Texas, according to Howard Pyle of Houston Lighting and Power and a member of the forum's steering committee on coal.

That pipeline being planned by Energy Transportation Systems Inc., might include a "spur" — an extension off the main pipeline — and would bring coal to Houston.

RAILROAD COMPANIES and a water shortage in the West are primary holdups to the pipeline, according to Loeffler aide Jim Whittinghill. Legislation in Congress would settle the dispute with railroad companies, which don't want pipelines built across their land, but it would not solve the problem with water, needed as a mixing agent to send coal in the pipeline.

Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee and an opponent of the slurry pipelines, suggested to his committee in hearings Monday that pipeline venture groups approach the water problem with a possible solution that was considered with initial slurry pipeline proposals 20 years ago.

McClure said a dual pipeline should be constructed, one bringing water to the coal area from the pipeline termination point and the other to transport the coal. Studies have focused on the possible effect of blending coal with salt water, Pyle said. Another possibility would be to mix the coal with oil, possibly from the rich petroleum-producing area of the Williston Basin in South Dakota.

T.L. Austin Jr., chairman and chief executive of Texas Utilities Co., was more hesitant than Fisher to speculate on how much coal Texas might need in the future.

WE DON'T KNOW how much we've got (in Texas). We don't know how much (coal) we need," said Austin, the third speaker Tuesday.

CANCELLED — A flight information monitor in the Braniff terminal at Dallas-Fort Worth-Regional airport shows almost all flights cancelled Wednesday afternoon.

Passengers caught by surprise

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Most of the passengers arriving at Braniff International's huge Dallas-Fort Worth terminal Wednesday night were not aware the airline had suspended operations until they heard it from fellow passengers scrambling to find their luggage.

Braniff's decision to suspend operations caught its passengers and employees completely by surprise and frustrated many travel plans.

"Yes, I'd say it's a major disruption of my plans," said Ross Shelton, trying to return to Memphis, Tenn., from Corpus Christi, Texas. His trip was interrupted when he arrived at D-FW airport, where he was to change planes, only to find all Braniff facilities closed except the baggage claim area.

Shelton said he was not told anything of Braniff's shutdown until he was off the airplane and into the baggage area. "We understood bad weather was causing the delay. While we were airborne, one of the stewardesses told me one of the (D-FW) runways was closed."

"Just as we departed the pilot came on the intercom and told us to be sure and check our connecting flights as soon as we reached D-FW," he continued.

Election notes

Primary candidates pick up the pieces

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Half right, half wrong ... Two days before the May 1 Democratic primary State Sen. Jack Ogg cited two statewide polls that indicated he would face U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox in a June 5 runoff for their party's attorney general nomination.

"I'm looking forward to it," Ogg said. "It won't be a low key campaign."

Ogg finished last in a four-man field, Mattox, meanwhile, made it into the runoff against former U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler.

DON'T FORGET, IT'S TAX DEDUCTIBLE ... Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple has abandoned, at least for 1982, his gubernatorial aspirations and dropped out of a June 5 Democratic runoff with Attorney General Mark White.

Temple, a millionaire and heir to an East Texas timber fortune, borrowed more money — at least $1 million — than any of the other six candidates that competed in the race.

Asked the future of the debt at a recent news conference, Temple said simply "I'm going to pay it ... Since I've got all of you here, if anybody wants to send money ..."

DOES FISHER COVER IT? ... Republican Gov. Bill Clements, who will take on Attorney General Mark White in November, is convinced some backroom politics led to Buddy Temple's decision to drop out of the race.

That's despite Democratic Party assurances to the contrary. "When I look back over the events of the last several months I'm not impressed with this so-called unity and all this smell-the-spring-flowers and so forth and so on they're putting out. That's not exactly the smell I've been getting out of that campaign."

SOME NAME DROPPING FAILURES ... For once large numbers of Texas voters didn't opt for certain candidates just because they had some interesting, historical names.

Texas voters, after all, have elected such figures as Jesse James and Warren Harding (both as treasurer) and others just because the names ring a bell. But look at the familiar sounding names that were defeated in the May 1 primary. Woodrow Wilson Bean (Supreme Court), Andrew Jackson Shuval (Court of Criminal Appeals) and Robert C. Calvert (comptroller).

THE PRICE YOU PAY ... The polls had been closed for a couple of hours and Attorney General Mark White was assuring his campaign supporters that things were going well. At the urging of photographers, his wife, Linda Gale, gave him a victory kiss.

White then was trying to make his way back to the privacy of a hotel room upstairs, when a young man stopped to tell a hard-luck story about needing a job. White listened briefly before turning the man over to a campaign aide with instructions to "see what we can do."

The aide assured the man that White was interested in helping. "That's why I voted for him," the young man replied.

Lubbock man guilty of murder

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A jury took only two hours to convict a 22-year-old Lubbock man of murder in the shooting death of a Texas Tech student.

Kevin Dale Petty was sentenced to 20 years in jail Wednesday in the Oct. 15 slaying of 20-year-old Blake Wade Jameson of El Paso.

The jurors returned the sentence after 30 minutes of deliberations.

District Attorney John P. Montford had asked the jury to return a 99-year sentence against Petty, saying "this was a brutal, senseless killing, a murder in the first degree."

Montford also pointed out that Petty was on probation for burglary at the time of the shooting.

But defense attorney Wanda Rae pleaded for acquittal, saying Petty believed Jameson was going to harm him. She asked the jurors for a "fair verdict and justice in their pronouncement" saying Petty could be rehabilitated.

Petty had testified that a carload of men parked in the lot of a local tavern had threatened him. Petty said he went to his car, got a gun and fired a warning shot.

'Not much optimism'

Farmers call in to Rep. Stenholm

By PHILLIP SWANN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Texas congressman Charles Stenholm, grim-faced, his brow damp with perspiration, had just spent one hour on the telephone listening to 15 vocal Iowa farmers complain about the sagging agriculture economy.

The event was a national call-in forum Tuesday with more than 65 Washington lawmakers which was designed to dramatize the plight of the farmer. The Iowa farmers took full advantage of this opportunity to vent their frustration.

Stenholm, who represents many struggling farmers in his district, is no stranger to such an outburst of farmer concern, but he said it was still disappointing to hear the farmers plead their case.

"There was no much optimism (about the future of agriculture)," said the Stamford Democrat after Tuesday's conversations. "They are concerned about high interest rates and continued low prices. It is hard to be optimistic."

THE AGRICULTURE Department reports that the farm debt is soaring

the farm economy," said Karen Voight, a spokeswoman for the Agriculture Council of America, which sponsored the call in.

The ACA attempted to cast a large spotlight on what they called the crisis in agriculture. Photographers and television crews were in abundance. Charts detailing the farmer's woes were strategically stationed in the room. Congressmen, their sleeves rolled up, sat on the edge of their chairs attempting to assure farmers that better times are ahead. And, although there were always at least 40 officials answering the toll-free calls, the phones kept ringing.

Farmers, who traditionally only agree to disagree, offered a variety of solutions for the nation's agriculture ills.

Earl Hamilton, an Arkansas soybean farmer, said he may have to go out of business unless the government immediately raises farm price supports.

"We're cutting back on everything but raising hell," Hamilton said.

But Bob Schwyhart, a California cattle farmer, said the government should not get involved in agriculture.

while farm income continues to plummet. And most farm observers say there is no short-term solution to the problem. "If the call-in will not make the problems disappear but it does provide visibility for the problem in

Rising postal costs hurting fund-raisers

By RANDOLPHE SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as federal officials look to private charities to take up more of the nation's social burden, fund-raising by those groups has suffered a sharp blow in postage costs.

Budget cuts have reduced government payments to the postal service, and that resulted in rate hikes Jan. 10 affecting a variety of subsidized second-, third- and fourth-class mail.

"It's killing us," complained Joan Holmes, executive director of the San Francisco-based Hunger Project.

The higher rates have killed Sign magazine, a Roman Catholic monthly that folded this month after 61 years of publication.

And officials of the American Kidney Fund say the higher rates may have been associated with the death of a Virginia woman because every dollar paid in additional non-profit postage is taken from those waiting for financial help to obtain treatment.

"The relationship between non-profit postal rates and deaths from kidney disease is direct and real. In January, after the abrupt and staggering increase in postal rates, a woman on our waiting list died," Ellen Kay Hatch, executive director of the fund told a House subcommittee.

While she did not name the patient involved, Ms. Hatch noted that her organization raises 99 percent of its funds via mail, and the rate increase meant that in January it had $16,000 less to spend assisting individuals.

The woman, she said, had died that month while awaiting assistance from the foundation. It was the first fatality on the group's waiting list, which grew to about 500 people last fall, Ms. Hatch said.

Subsidies holding down the rates for certain classes of mail had been scheduled to be phased out gradually by 1987, but the Reagan Administration convinced Congress to end the subsidized rate early.

Known as "revenue foregone," the subsidy for 1983 was proposed at $500 million by the administration. However, the House postal operations subcommittee has recommended a subsidy of $913.2 million, which would roll back the rates to the original schedule. The question is now before the House Budget Committee.

Under the administration cuts, non-profit organizations soliciting money now have to pay 27 cents a pound for bulk mail, up from 15.8 cents. And those using second-class mail to distribute publications that contain little advertising saw the per item charge jump from 0.9 cents to 4.5 cents.

The rates for first-class mail and most for-profit magazines and newspapers were not affected, having gone up last November. The January hike did involve an increase for some newspapers, those circulated within one county. That rate went from 3.4 cents to 3.9 cents per pound, or 1.3 cents to 1.9 cents per item.

"People are going to have to cut back on the amount of mail they send out. That's going to affect their returns," observed Clyde Shorey of the March of Dimes.

A 2.1 cent increase means an extra cost of $2.5 million in mailing 120 million solicitations, he said.

Charles E. Taylor, president of Wilberforce University in Dayton, Ohio, complained that the rate hikes will mean less income for the United Negro College Fund and thus less money for assisting students at his and other schools.

"Without any doubt, fewer young Americans will be able to break the cycle of poverty as a direct result of the sudden and steep increase in non-profit third-class postal rates," he said.

Jane Biral of United Negro College Fund told a congressional subcommittee that the January rate hike forced her organization to cut back mailing by 60 percent, resulting in a decline in income of $500,000.

That, explained Taylor, results in an average of $12,000 less for each member college, and "assuming institutional aid of $500 per student, it would mean that Wilberforce's freshman class next year would be at least 5 percent smaller than the freshman class on our campus today."

Carolyn A. Emigh of the Non-profit Mailers

Federation noted that these subsidy cuts come at the same time the government wants private groups or charities to take over more of the nation's social service needs.

Susan Dunlop of the International Labor Press Association said many members of her organization are considering changes to save money, with cutbacks in frequency and combination of publications most common plans.

Kent Rhodes of the Magazine Publishers Association has complained that magazines paying regular second-class rates currently pay 146 percent of the actual costs of delivery, at an average of 13.3 cents per piece.

This means they are subsidizing other postal operations, such as thousands of small rural post offices, he told a House subcommittee hearing.

Because Congress is eliminating subsidies to the Postal Service, the people who benefit from local post offices are not contributing via appropriated funds.

OUT OF CONTROL — A general alarm fire raged out of control in Fall River, Mass., Tuesday afternoon after starting in the Notre Dame Cathedral, upper left, and spreading to surrounding buildings. The church building was destroyed, and at least eight other buildings were damaged as at least 36 families were evacuated from their homes.

Workman's accident destroys church, leaves many homeless

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — A fire that started while a workman was soldering metal to preserve the landmark Notre Dame de Lourdes Church ravaged the towering structure and 34 nearby buildings and left at least 140 people homeless.

The Red Cross estimated that at least 140 and perhaps as many as 300 people were forced to flee their homes and buildings. The fire caused caused an estimated $13 million in damages.

The 76-year-old stone church was being renovated, and the flames apparently started while a workman was soldering on the roof top Tuesday afternoon, said Fire Chief Louis Shea. "It looks like an accidental fire," he said, adding that investigators still are looking into the matter.

More than 100 National Guardsmen patrolled a nine-block area of the neighborhood where electricity was shut off. They were expected to remain there for the next day or two. No looting was reported.

Flames still flickered along the turrets at the top of the building and water gushed down the sides of the streets late Tuesday night. The scaffolding that had been used in rehabilitation hung like a huge twisted cobweb over the front door of the church.

The fire spread quickly to a block of three-story apartment buildings in the congested neighborhood near the church, virtually destroying it.

"The wind picked up from the north and there was a tremendous amount of heat from the church itself," Shea said. He put damages to the church at $10 million and to surrounding buildings at $3 million.

No one was injured seriously in the general-alarm blaze reported about 2:30 p.m. At its peak, 450 firefighters were at the scene.

Nigerian indicted on gunrunning charge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a Nigerian man on gunrunning charges.

The indictment accuses Nosakie Ize-Iyamu of purchasing hundreds of handguns in the United States, mostly in Texas, and illegally transporting the weapons to his native country.

Ize-Iyamu, already in state custody on an unrelated bad check charge, was ordered held in lieu of $250,000 bond after the indictment was returned Wednesday afternoon. Judge Harry Wellford of U.S. District Court also ordered Ize-Iyamu to surrender his passport.

Herbert Okolie, who has been indicted on gunrunning charges in Houston, was mentioned as an undicted co-conspirator in the Memphis indictment. Authorities said Okolie, whose native home also is Nigeria, has fled the U.S. but they do not know his whereabouts.

Wednesday's indictment said Okolie spent $19,000 on 180 handguns at a Houston gun shop and that Ize-Iyamu spent $300 for 14 pistols at another Houston gun shop.

Tim DiScenza, an assistant U.S. attorney, said federal authorities had linked Ize-Iyamu to the purchase and shipment of 566 handguns. In Nigeria, the defendant could sell the weapons for nearly $400 each, the prosecutor said. Ize-Iyamu was arrested in New York last September as he was preparing to board a private plane to return to Nigeria, DiScenza said. Authorities confiscated nearly 30 handguns.

DiScenza argued Wednesday for a $500,000 bond against Ize-Iyamu, saying there was a likelihood the defendant would flee the U.S. should he be released pending prosecution. There is no extradition agreement between the U.S. and Nigeria.

The weapons charge carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

In a lawsuit filed in Circuit Court earlier this year, Commercial & Industrial Bank of Memphis charged Claude V. Scott, an official of State Technical Institute at Memphis, helped Ize-Iyamu bring thousands of dollars into the U.S. from Nigeria.

The lawsuit — which said Scott was paid nearly $20,000 — stems from eight bank drafts totaling $78,000 which were deposited into a C&I account. Each draft was drawn on the First Bank of Nigeria Ltd. and was made payable to State Tech and to a fictitious student, the lawsuit said.

Veterans venting anger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam veterans are bringing their anger and frustration to the nation's capital this week, seeking aid from their government and attention from their fellow citizens.

"I want to be counted, I'm a Vietnam veteran and an American," said Bill Keene of Dallas, one of hundreds gathered on the National Mall in green Army fatigues.

Shep Gurwitz of Revere, Mass., said he was in town to talk to members of Congress, hoping to keep the United States out of any more wars like Vietnam.

Peter Zastrow of Chicago, a national coordinator of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, charged that Vietnam vets have been used by the government and then tossed aside.

Mike Sutton, Washington coordinator for the group, said veterans are expected from at least 23 states. A week of lobbying is planned, with gatherings on the Mall, visits to Congress, a silent vigil at the White House and, if permission can be obtained, a wreath-laying at Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. America meets press

NEW YORK (AP) — Rhonda McGeeney, the three-married Mrs. America 1982, said Wednesday that she hopes to inspire "women to be all they can be."

Mrs. McGeeney, 29, who married for the first time at age 18 and again at 22, was with her husband of three months, Pat McGeeney, 32, at a Manhattan news conference. She wore a black fur coat over a scarlet bathing suit.

"When you consider the statistics that one of every two marriages fail, divorce is a problem millions of women have faced or will face," said Mrs. McGeeney, a 29-year-old mother of two. "It is difficult for any man or woman. I hope to inspire women to know that when times seem darkest, one will grow and can determine one's own future."

Mrs. McGeeney, who owns a recruiting firm in Houston, was named Mrs. America in Las Vegas on Friday night, topping 449 other contestants. She said it was her first beauty contest.

Conservative newspapers hit Ivy League

By STEPHEN C. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — In button-down shirts and blue blazers instead of jeans and T-shirts, a new breed of campus press lord is descending upon the Ivy League, promoting conservatism and raising the hackles of liberal academics.

Supported by traditionalist pundits William F. Buckley Jr. and William Rusher, and bankrolled by grants from corporate foundations, conservative newspapers are making their presence felt across prestigious Ivy campuses, criticizing liberal student editors, professors and administrators in much the same way the "Berkeley Barb" attacked the establishment in the turbulent 1960s.

Conservative publications have appeared at Harvard, Princeton and Dartmouth and are planned at other universities.

Even the venerable Yale Literary Magazine — "The Old Lady in Brown" to generations of Yale undergraduate writers — has turned to the right. Bought 3½ years ago by Yale graduate Andrei Navrozov, whose father, Lev, is a writer who fled the Soviet Union in 1972, the Lit has been filled recently with articles blasting the Soviet government, The New York Times and the New York Review of Books.

Author John Hersey, adjunct professor of English at Yale, says the magazine "has become more of a political journal than a literary magazine, but since the First Amendment is so important to us, we can't condemn it entirely on this ground. But it calls itself 'Yale Literary Magazine,' and that's the problem in my mind. It doesn't seem to be what it represents itself to be."

"The campus mood is more amenable and oriented towards conservative ideology," says John Goodwin, a Princeton University senior who is publisher of the Madison Report, a monthly tabloid named in honor of President James Madison, a 1777 graduate of the university who espoused limited government and a strict interpretation of the Constitution.

"What's common on a lot of campuses, and especially here at Princeton, is that students are bothered by the entrenched liberal orthodoxy present in the daily press on campus and also in the school administration and faculty. The academic environment as well as the journalistic media on campus both are dominated by liberals. We want to offset and neutralize that dominance," says Goodwin.

In its first editorial, the Madison Report acknowledged that liberalism is still a dominant political force on American college campuses and promised to "search for alternatives to the Kennedy liberalism that is still pervasive at Princeton and other Ivy League schools."

Goodwin says if the Madison Report and similar publications are to be successful, they must present "distinctly conservative views which bite with sarcasm. We're going to be progressively more biting and provocative."

Stona J. Fitch, chairman of the established student newspaper, the Daily Princetonian, says "a lot of people find it amusing when they take a very snide attitude." Students, as he sees it, find Madison Report "either amusing or offensive, depending on how seriously they take them... But they do offer a different point of view."

The Madison Report stirred some controversy on campus by opposing the use of endowment funds to pay for student abortions and by supporting an anti-abortion group organized at the university.

The Harvard Salient, on the other hand, is more of a "think piece" journal with lengthy articles and editorials on economic policy, foreign affairs and other issues.

By far the most biting and provocative conservative campus publication is the Dartmouth Review, a one-year-old newspaper that has already drawn fire from the administration, faculty and student groups at the Hanover, N.H., university.

Last spring, the newspaper published parts of correspondence and membership files from Dartmouth's Gay Student Alliance, much to the chagrin of those students whose names suddenly appeared in print. The Review has sharply criticized Dartmouth's affirmative action, women's studies programs and courses it considers "truly ridiculous."

In a recent issue, the Review poked fun at a sociology professor teaching a course entitled "Identity, Self and Society," and recommended an award for those able to translate the course description into English.

SCIENCE IN ACTION — Sponsors Gary and Danna Tucker of Andrews High School, Andrews, react differently to an amusement park ride that exerts 4.8 times the force of gravity on the human body. The park became a science lab for 570 students in town for a science fair, who observed principles of physics on seven rides and charted their biological responses before and after each ride.

Science at Astroworld

Laughter, screams come from students

HOUSTON (AP) — Passers-by probably thought the laughter and screams coming from the Astroworld amusement park were just a bunch of silly youngsters going wild on the rides.

Regardless of what they sounded like, the people on the rides were actually students serving the interests of science.

Schoolteachers determined to prove science can be fun turned 570 out-of-town teen-agers loose in the park Monday night and told them to ride the rides to study principles of physics and biology.

Experiments were performed to study such things as G-forces, velocity vectors, momentum rolls, and the effects the various rides have on bodily functions such as coordination, pulse rate, skin moisture and blood pressure.

"The data we're gathering here are fun for many people, but for us they are very important," Professor Howard L. Jones said, raising his voice to be heard above the screaming science students nearby.

"The kids can deal with science in a more touchable way," he said.

The students were in Houston to attend the International Science and Engineering Fair. They represented the 50 states and seven foreign nations, and each was a local science project winner.

As they waited in line to board the "Texas Cyclone" roller coaster, they discussed it in terms of gravity, centrifugal force and acceleration. But once the three-car train was falling down the first hill, a 94-foot incline of 53 degrees, all scientific discussion stopped.

"You don't have time to think of science up there — you're hanging on for your life," said schoolteacher Marcia Steinwand of Belfield, N.D.

"We want to get them to look at science in their everyday lives," said Jones, a University of Houston education professor who is director of the National Science Foundation-funded project.

Amusement parks in Hershey, Pa., Kansas City, Mo., and other places are also participating to spur an interest in science. The project is in the second of a three-year, $291,000 science foundation grant.

For the first time Monday night, biological data were collected on the students before and after they rode various rides.

Previously, the students merely observed principles of physics at work on the rides.

It will take a month for the data to be evaluated, but Jim Collins, a science teacher from nearby Pasadena, Texas, said preliminary results were predictable — "we're finding increased pulse rates, higher blood pressure and sweeter palms after the rides."

He said the most dramatic results were shown after students rode a shuttle loop known as "Greezed Lightning."

Physician sees better cancer fighting drugs

HOUSTON (AP) — Heat treatments can enhance the cancer fighting ability of interferon and will be used in combination with the drug injections in the future, a researcher predicted.

Dr. Jordan U. Gutterman, head of an M.D. Anderson Hospital research team, said Tuesday interferon's effectiveness in reducing the size of cancer tumors seems to be enhanced by heat.

The doctor said he and other researchers have discussed combining interferon injections with thermal treatments, but the idea is still in the talking stage.

"We'll do it in the future," said Jordan. "I'm sure." The researcher said that in very limited experimental trials with synthetic interferon, the drug tends to cause a rise in the temperature of patients.

Gutterman said the studies suggest that the natural production of interferon in the body may be responsible for the fever that generally accompanies viral infections, such as colds and flu.

He said it is not known precisely what function the natural rise in temperatures serves in the body's attempt to fight infection.

Other doctors are experimentally using applied heat to artificially raise the temperature of patients with cancer. The elevated temperatures, it has been found, tend to slow the growth of cancer cells.

Gutterman's team at M.D. Anderson and a group at Stamford conducted experimental trials with synthetic interferon on 16 cancer patients last year. They found that the drug caused the reduction of tumors in seven of the patients.

But Gutterman said it is too early to tell if interferon will be the so-called "magic bullet" long sought by medical science as a cure for cancer.

There are a number of types of interferon, he said, and it is not yet known which is the most effective for cancer treatment. Gutterman said it will take years of experimentation before interferon is well understood.

Gutterman is just beginning an experimental test of the drug on 100 selected cancer patients. He said the studies are a continuation of the earlier experiments which were planned to determine the proper dosage regimen for the drug.

The Gutterman team is using synthetic interferon in its studies. This is a type of the drug that is produced by manipulating the genes of the E coli bacteria. A gene is inserted into the nucleus of the bacteria, tricking it into producing interferon in the laboratory.

Gutterman said he detected little clinical difference between the synthetic interferon and natural interferon from human cadavers.

Dr. Donohue Bedwetting

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could there be a relationship between heredity and bedwetting? My daughter will be 5 soon and still wets the bed every night. I've tried everything I can think to help her. I'm becoming so frustrated with the situation, but am at a loss as to what I should do next. I've discussed this with our doctor and he said just to wait it out. My husband was a bedwetter until quite late, and I'm wondering if this could have any bearing on our daughter's problem. The doctor says it might be an emotional problem related to the birth of another child recently. Do you think so? — B.G.

Bedwetting is more common in children either of whose parents had been a bedwetter. It is not strictly an emotional problem, although an emotional upset can provoke the problem — a family move, the birth of a rival sibling, or a death in the family.

Children vary widely in attaining control over their bladders, so a child is not really thought to be a true bedwetter until age 5. Even then, as many as 20 out of 100 children still wet their beds at night. By age 10, only five out of 100 have the problem, a certain number of whom may still be having a delay in maturation of that part of the nervous system that gives one control over the bladder emptying.

I am glad you talked this over with your doctor. A child certainly should have a physical examination and a check of his urine to be certain there is nothing wrong with him. Sometimes, there is a real problem, like infection.

But most of the time, it is only a matter of maturation at your daughter's age, with nothing really wrong, and nothing to really worry about. Approaches to the problem are many and varied, as you can imagine. Having the child urinate before going to bed, limiting pre-bedtime liquids, using conditioning devices (like bed pads that sound an alarm when they become damp) are examples.

Perhaps your best role now should be supportive. Stay calm. Do not punish or humiliate the child, no matter how frustrating this becomes. Give the child reassurance that this will not be a permanent condition.

Wait for the child's nervous system to mature to the degree that bladder control at nighttime should be possible. For now, you have done the most important thing of all — gotten the physical examination. See the discussion in the booklet "Bed-Wetting: Ways to Stop it." Other interested parents may order a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents to cover printing and handling.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Maid of honor steps down

DEAR ABBY: Gloria (made-up name) and I were best friends in college. Gloria announced her engagement at graduation and asked me to be her maid of honor. I accepted on the spot, although no date was set for the wedding.

After graduation, Gloria stayed in that college town to be near her fiance, who had another year of graduate school, and I returned to my hometown in the Midwest.

Gloria wrote in April saying she's getting married "in a few months" and she'd "understand" if I had changed my mind about being her maid of honor. I wrote back saying if she was trying to let me off the hook because of the expense of plane fare and the gown, I had already saved the money, and even arranged the time off from work for the occasion. (The wedding will be in Gloria's hometown in New Jersey.)

She called last night asking if I'd changed my mind because there was another girl she could ask, but she'd have to ask her before it gets too late. Then she added, "But you are welcome to attend the wedding anyway." I got the message. I'm crushed, but I didn't let on how hurt I was. I told her to go ahead and ask the other girl. Abby, I don't think I could bear to attend the wedding and see some other girl take my place as Gloria's maid of honor. Should I try to be "big" and go to the wedding feeling so hurt and rejected? Or should I stay home?

LUMP IN MY THROAT
DEAR LUMP: Feeling as you do, the wedding would be a bummer. Skip it. And use the money to treat yourself to a fun vacation when you're in the mood.

"The Best of Dear Abby," featuring Abby's best answers and favorite responses during the past 25 years, is now available. The Shoppersmith people will be here later on this summer with one of their fine demonstrations. The list goes on and on, but let me remind you that if you have a special art or craft or maybe a line of merchandise that you feel would sell good here at the mall get in touch with me. Snelson presents tax repeal bill, denies 'flip-flop'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Sen. Pete Snelson says his legislation to repeal the state property tax is consistent with his previous stand on the issue despite his opponent's claim that he 'flip-flopped.'

Snelson, who is chairman of the Senate Education Committee, told a Capitol news conference Wednesday he had previously introduced legislation to replace a 10-cent ad valorem state property tax with general revenue funding.

The constitutionally mandated 10-cent levy funds construction at colleges other than the University of Texas and Texas A&M University, which receive funds from the Permanent University Fund.

Snelson said reduction of the levy to a 3-cent tax was an alternative measure to eliminating it.

The Midland Democrat faces Austin lawyer Garry Mauro in a June 5 runoff for land commissioner. Mauro has said Snelson took up the standard of tax repeal for purposes of "political expediency."

The Legislature voted to eliminate the 10-cent tax during the 1979 session, but Midwestern University challenged that action, saying the Legislature could not eliminate a constitutional provision with a statute.

To short-circuit Midwestern's suit, Gov. Bill Clements called a special legislative session for May 24 to repeal the tax and appropriate funds for construction at the affected colleges.

"I agreed to a request by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to carry this legislation," Snelson said. "I agreed to do this because it is in my area of responsibility as chairman of the Senate Education Committee and as a responsible member of the Senate who has long been involved in efforts on behalf of higher education."

Snelson said he would work in the special session for a permanent solution to the non-PUF colleges' funding problems "provided the governor includes it in the session call."

He said he expects a dedicated fund from general revenues will be the only solution for the 17 who had received money from the property tax, but added, "I firmly believe that the colleges that do not participate in the PUF must reach a mutual agreement on an alternate source of funding and come together to address the Legislature."

His proposal to reduce the ad valorem tax and establish a fund last session won support from only two college boards of regents, Snelson said.

Turning to his campaign for land commissioner, Snelson referred to his opponent as "a self-proclaimed 33-year-old kid."

"I suppose that I should congratulate Garry for at least seeking a four-year job. That is twice as long as any job that he has held," Snelson said.

Mauro was executive director of the state Democratic party and previously served as deputy comptroller for tax administration.

The two Democrats left out of the runoff after the primary, state Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale and Paducah rancher George Fore, endorsed Mauro Monday. Snelson said he had not "directly" solicited their endorsements.

Bridegroom stabbed for kissing too long

HOUSTON (AP) — Painted signs on their car proclaiming they were "just married" did not stop an angry motorist from stabbing a bridegroom who kissed his bride at an intersection and blocked traffic, police said.

Darren Mayeaux, 19, was treated at Rosewood General Hospital for stab wounds in his left side and released. Police said they have no suspects.

Mayeaux said after he drove away from the intersection, the angry motorist behind him swerved in front and stopped.

"He got out of the car, so I jumped out of the car," Mayeaux said. "We went over to the curb, where he knifed me in the gut."

The new Mrs. Mayeaux said she jumped out of their car and pleaded with the assailant to stop hurting her husband.

"The guy had to know that we were just married because we had it all over our car," she said.

Mayeaux, an Air Force enlisted man stationed in Bossier City, La., and his 18-year-old bride were traveling to Galveston for their honeymoon when the attack occurred Sunday. The couple said they have postponed their honeymoon trip until the bridegroom is feeling better.

Wentz leads in fund-raiser

Downtown Lions Wednesday crowned Frank Wentz "Lumens Bulbous Rex," king of the lightbulb salesmen, in recognition of his pace-setting in the Lion's recent fund-raiser.

Thus far, reported Dr. James Cave, chairman of the annual lightbulb sale, nearly $7,100 in sales have been reported. This means that club projects such as aid to blind, the eye bank and children who need glasses, crippled and diabetic children will receive upwards of $3,500.

Wentz' team turned in just a few dollars less than $1,700, Dr. Cave reported. He thanked Big Spring people for supporting the effort, termed one of the most successful ever.

Teen-age abortions increasing in Japan

By DEBORAH SMITH
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Despite an overall decrease in abortions in Japan, the rate of cases involving teen-agers has doubled in the past two decades — leading social workers and doctors to urge a lifting of taboos against sex education that still exist in many schools.

"It is not a question of whether (teen-age) sex is right or wrong, but whether the young person has the ability to make the decision. That is our job — to give them information," said Tsuguo Shimazaki, assistant director of the Japanese Association for Sex Education.

"Teachers and parents think sex education is important, not the mechanics but from the view of human sexuality. But when it comes to when, where, who, what and how far the topic should be handled, they can't agree," he said.

In feudal Japan, ordinary farmers practiced "mabiki," or abortion and infanticide, in order to meet rice quotas and still manage to feed their families.

Mabiki was banned in the late 1800s, abortion legalized in 1948. Japan later acquired a reputation as an "abortion haven" that attracted women from other countries. Today the majority are Japanese who take advantage of the law allowing abortion for economic hardship reasons.

In 1980, there were 596,084 abortions reported, according to the Health and Welfare Ministry, but the actual number is considered higher. "In order not to be taxed, doctors don't always report all the abortions they perform," said Dr. Seiichi Matsumoto, a medical-school director who specializes in adolescent pregnancies.

Matsumoto said some parents feared increased sex education would lead to more sexual activity. Yet it is generally recognized that Japanese youths know little about birth control — the pill is seldom available — and that, plus social pressure against the unwed mother, is blamed by some authorities for the rise in teen-age abortions.

Records show 19,048 abortions were performed on girls 15 to 19 in 1980. Some officials contend the real figure is twice that. The rate of 4.8 abortions per 1,000 teen-age girls was almost double the 1965 rate of 2.5. And the ratio of teen-age to total abortions has risen from 1.6 percent to 3.2 percent.

child is adopted, it also lists the natural mother's name. A copy is required for application to schools or companies and often by prospective in-laws.

Sachiko Kanematsu, a counselor with a Tokyo welfare office, said fear of "dirtying the family registry" sometimes acted as a "brake." However, she said, young people are enticed by magazines which romanticize sex.

Schools routinely expel or suspend pregnant students, leaving the teen-age girl with few job opportunities. Many unwed mothers work in nightclubs, taking advantage of bar-operated nurseries.

Mrs. Kanematsu said, "When parents hear that their child has gotten pregnant, they are shocked and worry, sometimes to the point of suicide."

Some girls never tell their parents and end up giving birth in public restrooms, she said. Others ask friends to help raise the 100,000 yen ($425) or more needed for an abortion.

Sex education is generally restricted to biology or health classes.

"But since this subject doesn't appear on the university exams, the prevailing attitude is that even if they don't spend much time on it, it is okay," Shimazaki said. "They spend a lot of time memorizing mathematical formulas but the time spent on learning about human sexuality is nil."

Graham seeks own detente

MOSCOW (AP) — Billy Graham is seeking his own detente with the Soviet government, avoiding criticism of it in the hope that the Kremlin will let him return and preach a lot more.

The 63-year-old Baptist evangelist who used to attack atheistic communism told The Associated Press in an interview Tuesday that since his arrival in Moscow last Friday, he has gotten an insight into the problems and concerns of Soviet officials.

"I'm very grateful that they've given me the invitation to come here and preach the Gospel," he said. "The government has been very friendly to me. I've had the opportunity to see a number of top officials, and have had frank discussions with them. I've gotten a new insight, at least, into some of their problems and some of their concerns. And this helps me in my understanding."

Since his arrival, Graham has also been dogged by questions from Western reporters about his commitment to human rights.

Why, he was asked, didn't his sermon in Moscow's only Baptist church Sunday include any criticism of Soviet violations of human rights? Why didn't he comment on the arrest during the service of a woman who raised a banner protesting religious persecution in the Soviet Union?

Why, he was also asked, didn't he greet 300 Christian believers who assembled at the church but couldn't get inside because they didn't have tickets. Police barriers kept them 200 yards from the church, and while Graham preached inside they sang hymns outside.

He was also asked why he didn't go soon after his arrival to see the six Siberian Pentecostals who have been living in the U.S. Embassy for four years claiming they are victims of religious persecution.

"In a host country like this," Graham said during the interview Tuesday, "it's been my practice through the years never to take political sides and get involved in their local problems because then it means my own ministry is limited."

He said he "made representations" about the Pentecostals to Soviet officials and raised the question of human rights during his speech Tuesday to the international conference against nuclear war that he came to Moscow to attend.

His 11-page, single-spaced speech contained one paragraph urging "all governments to respect the rights of religious believers." And he visited the Pentecostals for 75 minutes Tuesday night and prayed with them.

U.S. officials in Washington reportedly opposed Graham's trip because they feared his presence would give the anti-nuclear conference additional exposure and credibility. The United States has been attacked regularly at the meeting, as everyone knew in advance that it would be. But Graham said he met with President Reagan, and "the president never objected to me personally."

The evangelist saw the conference as an opportunity to take his ministry to Moscow. He said he "would like to come back and preach in many places throughout the country, if I'm invited and all things work out."

Can chaos be averted?

Poland seen as a festering wound

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials believe there is virtually no chance that Poland's military government can stem Poland's steady slide into chaos if it holds to its current strategy.

It worries officials here, who see Poland as a festering wound complicating U.S.-Soviet relations and fraying U.S.-NATO ties.

"Something has got to give; the economy is in terrible shape," said one State Department Polish expert. He said the Polish leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, is immobilized in his policy options because he is "caught between Moscow and his own people."

In the meantime, the Reagan administration has cast aside its previous position of not undertaking new negotiations with the Soviets while the Polish crisis remains unresolved.

President Reagan on Sunday proposed beginning arms reduction talks with the Soviets this summer and has signaled his willingness to meet at the summit with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in the fall.

But rioting during the first week in May in at least 13 Polish cities has underscored the seriousness of the situation in Poland. "Things are really ugly there," one official told a reporter.

U.S. officials, who did not want to be identified, told a reporter in a recent briefing that they expect more violence.

Officials here believe the Soviet Union gave the orders to suppress the demonstrations, igniting violence. The latest rioting was a setback to the government. Officials here say the Jaruzelski government appears to lack a strategy for resolving Poland's crisis, especially its severe economic problems, which worsen daily.

The Communist Party is currently a "shell" of its former self, after extensive resignations, which are continuing, officials say.

At the same time, they say Solidarity is "learning to live underground" and has an effective communications network that includes an illicit radio station that broadcasts periodically.

Although Lech Walesa, the Solidarity leader, and other leaders remain in custody of authorities, Solidarity has evidently established a new cadre of leaders who operate underground.

One U.S. official said Jaruzelski had tried to ease martial law to show "the illusion of progress" to the rest of the world in hopes of having economic sanctions eased, particularly the ban on official loans by the United States and major Western European governments.

Officials agreed that Jaruzelski also wanted to create an impression of a return to normalcy in advance of a conference of the International Labor Organization in Geneva beginning June 3.

Despite their concern, officials here say there is little the United States can do to influence events in Poland.

Both government and commercial bank credits from the West have virtually dried up, the officials say, making it impossible for Poland to purchase the machinery and raw materials it needs to keep its already depressed industrial sector operating.

Officials admit that the United States is reluctant to declare default because the European allies, who have extended most of Poland's $26 billion in foreign debts, are opposed.

U.N. leader may succeed in Falklands crisis

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — If Javier Perez de Cuellar mediates a solution to the Falklands crisis, he will win back some of the prestige the United Nations has lost because of its failure to resolve other such conflicts.

A quiet-spoken Peruvian, the world organization's fifth secretary-general quickly won the confidence of both British and Argentine negotiators after the collapse of Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig's peace initiative.

"I can't imagine anyone who could have handled this better," said a well-placed British source. He added that Perez de Cuellar was proving to be strictly impartial despite his Latin American roots.

British Ambassador Sir Anthony Parsons says he is "strong, quiet and determined."

As an aide to Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, Perez de Cuellar was involved in peace efforts in Cyprus and Afghanistan. But the Falklands conflict is his baptism of fire as U.N. chief. He succeeded Waldheim Jan. 1.

U.S. Ambassador Jeane J. Kirkpatrick observed that the Falklands crisis is not encrusted by Soviet-American rivalry. For this reason, "it's quite possible that this kind of a problem will turn out to be one in which the secretary-general...can make a contribution," she said.

U.N. peacemaking goes back to the early days of the 37-year-old organization, but of Perez de Cuellar's predecessors, only Dag Hammarskjold took such a first-hand role in the operation. It cost him his life.

Under Trygve Lie of Norway, the first secretary-general, a three-nation Security Council committee that included the United States got a truce in the 1948 Indonesian rebellion against the Netherlands. This led to Indonesian independence a year later.

Also in Lie's administration, Ralph J. Bunche, an American in the U.N. secretariat, mediated talks on the island of Rhodes that led to the signing of the 1949 armistice agreements between Israel and Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria. But three other Arab-Israeli wars followed, and mediation by the United States not by the United Nations produced the only Arab-Israeli peace treaty, the Camp David agreement between Egypt and Israel.

Grain prices to stabilize, analysis shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a new analysis by the Agriculture Department is accurate, farmers may not see much change in grain prices during the year ahead.

But officials cautioned Tuesday that the figures "are highly tentative" and could vary widely because of U.S. and global harvests and economic conditions in the months ahead.

For example, the report said world and U.S. demand "should benefit from some general economic recovery" which could stimulate exports and domestic use of key commodities.

"Global grain supplies are likely to increase, despite a smaller U.S. crop, particularly if Soviet production recovers from last year's poor out-turn and acreage expands in major exporting countries," the report said.

The early indications, it said, point to record 1982-83 world harvests of wheat and coarse grains, which include corn, oats, barley and sorghum. Those are feed grains in the United States.

World rice output "is expected to match the record" harvest of 1981-82, the report said.

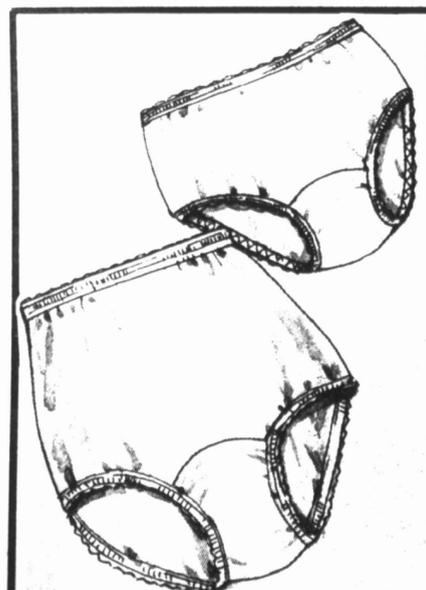

Cotton production worldwide is expected to decline in 1982-83, while soybean output prospects are still uncertain.

Looking at some of the key commodities, the report included these observations:

Wheat
"U.S. winter wheat prospects have been favorable, with the May 1 production forecast of 2.06 billion bushels only 2 percent less than last year's record. Total U.S. wheat production in 1982 may be down modestly from 1981, but supplies will be virtually unchanged because of larger carry-in stocks."

The projected average price of wheat at the farm for the marketing year which will begin June 1 was shown at $3.60 to $4 per bushel for 1982-83, compared to $3.70 estimated for 1981-82.

Feed Grains
"The U.S. crop is expected to be below the 1981 record as the acreage reduction program will decrease acreage, and yields may not match last year's record."

Thursday Notes

The Thursday notepad is full of sports happenings in and around Big Spring

A chartered bus is being organized for the trip May 21 to Denton for the Big Spring-Denton bi-district baseball game. The two teams play a single game here Tuesday and then go east for a possible doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m.

Craig Fisher reports 47 passengers are needed to get a bus. Cost is $25 each and that includes a ticket into the game. Scheduled departing time is 7 a.m.

Fisher needs to know if he can fill a bus by 5 p.m. Friday. Call him at the high school (267-7461) or at home (263-1585) or call Janice Rosson at school (267-8245) or at home (263-4033).

A student bus has also been organized.

Kelly Rogers is still shooting up a storm. The Big Spring High junior collected more honors this past weekend at the Texas Zone IV Championships in Stephenville. In three events — singles, doubles and handicap — Kelly hit 282 of 300 targets. His 98X100 in singles was the second highest among 175 registered shooters during the day. He hit 90X100 in doubles and 94X100 in handicap (24 yards out).

He'll be in Odessa Saturday for the Zone II Championships.

An added note. Dudley Coleman, father of international trapshooter Mike Coleman, won the Class A singles (98X100) at a shoot recently in Amarillo.

The Third Annual Marquez Brothers Invitational Handball Tournament is scheduled this weekend at the local YMCA.

Divisions include Masters, open, and class B and C singles. Play starts at 5 p.m. Friday and continues through the same time Saturday.

If the tornadoes give us a break, a partnership golf tourney is planned this weekend at the Comanche Trails Golf Course.

Entry fee is $30 per man and should be paid at the pro shop. Pairings and tee times will be left up to the players Saturday only. Flights will be established after the first round and tee-times and pairings assigned for Sunday.

Entry deadline is 5 p.m. Friday.

Turning to fishing, Walter Driessner of Abilene caught a striped bass at Lake Spence measuring 36 inches long and weighing 27 pounds, 10 ounces. Officials say larger stripes have been caught before on troilines and Parks and Wildlife biologists have netted stripers up to 35 pounds near the dam.

Driessner used a Pico Pop lure for his big catch.

Fishing report reads bass fishing and channel catfish strong at Lake Spence with white and black bass dominant. At Lake Thomas, crappie fisherman were having best results with channel and Yellow cat increasing.

THE DOCTOR RETURNS — Philadelphia 76ERS Darryl Dawkins dunks the ball over Boston Celtics Robert Parish during first period National Basketball Association playoff action Wednesday night at Boston Garden in Boston. Dawkins took himself out of the last playoff game with the Celtics complaining of pain in his leg.

Sixers return in win over Celtics

NBA Playoffs

BOSTON (AP) — If there was a single player who symbolized the Philadelphia 76ers' turnaround from a 40-point loss to an eight-point victory over the Boston Celtics, it was Caldwell Jones.

The 7-foot center was scoreless in a 12-minute stint on Sunday as the 76ers looked nothing like the team that had the second-best record in the National Basketball Association this season. Boston won that opener of their best-of-7 semifinal playoff series 121-81.

On Wednesday night, Philadelphia won 121-113 as Jones scored 10 of his season-high 22 points in the fourth quarter, when he displayed a jump-shooting ability that belied his 7.9-point season scoring average.

The third game is Saturday in Philadelphia.

"I felt I earned my pay tonight, unlike the other day," said Jones, who settled for No. 2 scoring honors on the 76ers behind Andrew Toney's 30 points. "I only shot when I was open. I didn't try to create anything."

Jones moved outside in the fourth quarter to avoid the intimidating presence of Boston center Robert Parish. The 7-foot Parish was scoreless in the first half, when he played only 12 minutes because of foul trouble, but he scored 19 in the second half.

In contrast to the opener, when the Celtics took a 17-point halftime lead and pulled away during the entire second half, Game 2 had 24 lead changes and 14 ties, including 15 lead changes and 11 ties in the wild third period.

Neither team led by more than two points from the 11:18 mark of the third quarter until the 76ers scored six consecutive points for a 105-100 lead with 5:49 remaining in the game.

From that point, Jones kept the 76ers ahead with his outside shooting. He scored eight straight Philadelphia points in the next three minutes to counter four points apiece by Parish and Nate Archibald, who led the Celtics with 24 points.

Then Toney hit three straight baskets for the 76ers for an insurmountable 119-111 margin with 22 seconds remaining.

Seven 76ers scored in double figures, including Toney and Jones. Julius Erving had 20, Maurice Cheeks 18, Darryl Dawkins 11 and Bobby Jones and Clint Richardson 10 each.

For the Celtics, Kevin McHale scored 20 and Larry Bird 18, but only six of his came after a brilliant first period.

Bird had 12 points and eight rebounds in the quarter, including six in a row to start a 12-2 Boston spurt that turned an 18-13 deficit into a 25-20 lead with 3:51 left in the period. But that was as far ahead as the Celtics got in the game.

Albeck—Spurs OK

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Coach Stan Albeck maintains that his San Antonio Spurs can beat the Los Angeles Lakers when the National Basketball Association Western Conference championship series shifts to HemisFair Arena Friday night.

But Albeck admits the Spurs have had their hands full so far trying to contain the Lakers' stellar lineup while falling behind 2-0 in back-to-back losses at Los Angeles.

"LA has a tremendous team," Albeck said. "Four All-Stars and Superman. Who could ask for more?"

Albeck referred to the Lakers' bespectacled forward, Kurt Rambis, who snared 15 rebounds — most of them at the right time — as the Lakers won the second game Tuesday night 110-101 after taking the series opener 128-117.

The all-stars are Kareem Abdul-Jabbar who had 16 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots; Jamaal Wilkes, 22 points; Norm Nixon, 22 points and nine assists; and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, 19 points, 11 rebounds and nine assists in the latest Lakers win.

"The Lakers don't scare us," Albeck said after the second loss. "Why should they scare us? We missed some shots at the end that we usually make. That was the difference."

Albeck contends San Antonio can even the series with back-to-back victories before expected capacity crowds here Friday and Saturday nights. But only four times in NBA history has a team come from two games down to win a best-of-seven series.

"The last two games we've been missing the little things. People that we don't expect to hurt us have killed us," San Antonio forward Mike Mitchell said.

Mitchell was speaking of Bob McAdoo, who came off the bench to hit 21 points in the first loss, and then Rambis, who dominated the backboards in the second game.

"We came out and concentrated on McAdoo, and Rambis got loose on us," Mitchell said.

The teams exchanged differing opinions about on whom the pressure rests coming into the two San Antonio games.

"Look, the pressure is all on them," Los Angeles' Nixon said. "All we have to do is go down there and try to steal one. Believe me, they are aware of that. I don't mind playing at their place. I like it when people are booing you and getting on you. That brings the best in me."

"The jury is still out. There's no verdict yet on this series," countered Spurs center George Johnson.

The Lakers have an extra incentive to win Friday night — keeping an unbeaten streak alive in the playoffs after retiring Phoenix 4-0 in the semi-final round.

Only four other teams in NBA playoff history have won six straight.

Canucks have high hopes

VANCOUVER (AP) — The way the Vancouver Canucks are talking, "you'd never know they're trailing 2-0 in the Stanley Cup finals."

The two-time defending National Hockey League champion New York Islanders won the first two games of the best-of-seven series 6-5 in overtime and 6-4 at Nassau Coliseum. The third game will be played here tonight, with Game 4 slated for Sunday night.

The Islanders have had trouble with Vancouver's rough slowdown tactics so far, which has encouraged many of the Vancouver players.

"Who cares what happened in their building?" said Vancouver's Dave "Tiger" Williams, the most aggressive of the Canucks. "Now we have our crowd and our referee."

Williams apparently likes the fact the Andy Van Hellemond will work tonight's contest. He likes the aggressiveness the Canucks have shown in their first finals even more.

"We proved we belong here in New York and now we're going to even the series," he said. "If it wasn't for a couple of bad calls and breaks they got, we'd be winning."

"We've got a tough road to hoe because we came to New York to win one and didn't. Anyone who doesn't believe that is a fool."

"But anyone who doesn't believe we'll come back doesn't know what he's talking about."

Thomas Gradin, the Canucks' smooth center from Sweden who has performed marvelously in the playoffs, was certain his team would be ready for the next two games.

"We couldn't get prepared right away after the Chicago series and one day off before starting the finals," he said.

"But we only lost the first game in overtime. To us, getting here was more important than winning those first two games in New York."

Relievers pitch well in both leagues

By The Associated Press

Yes, the Oakland A's do have a bullpen. Not only that, they have some effective pitchers in it.

The Oakland quartet of Dennis Kinney, Bo McLaughlin, Bob Owchinko and Dave Beard out-pitched Baltimore's Jim Palmer, Tim Lincecum and Tippy Martinez Wednesday as the A's rallied for four runs in the eighth inning and a 5-4 victory over the Orioles.

"Their bullpen shut us down," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said. "I was expecting one of those guys from our bullpen to come in and close it down for us, but no one did."

White Sox 9, Blue Jays 2

Greg Luzinski and Bill Almon drove in three runs apiece to back the six-hit pitching of Dennis Lamp. RBI singles by Luzinski and Harold Baines gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Mark Bombardier. Luzinski drove in another run with a third-inning grounder and Almon hit a solo home run in the fourth.

Yankees 6, Angels 5

Dave Collins keyed a four-run New York rally in the fourth inning with a two-run single as the Yankees wiped out a 2-1 California lead on Reggie Jackson's two-run first-inning homer.

Royals 9, Brewers 7

Hal McRae and Greg Pryor drove in three runs apiece for Kansas City, offsetting three solo home runs by Milwaukee's Paul Molitor and leading the Royals to a sweep of their three-game series. Pryor tagged Randy Lerch for a two-run double in the fourth inning that put the Royals on top 4-2 and he scored on John Wathan's single.

Red Sox 4, Twins 1

Jim Rice drove in three runs with a pair of homers and Dennis Eckersley struck out 11 batters in eight innings before needing help from Mark Clear in the ninth. Eckersley was scored on when Kent Hrbek homered in the fourth inning and extended his hitting streak to 22 games, five short of the major league record for a rookie.

Indians 8, Mariners 5

Joe Charboneau collected three hits and drove in three runs for Cleveland. Charboneau delivered RBI singles in the first and second innings when Cleveland built a 5-0 lead against Floyd Bannister. He added his second homer of the season — both in the three games in Seattle — in the fifth to put the Indians ahead 6-4.

Phillies 11, Dodgers 3

Ron Reed was making his first pitching start in five years, so Philadelphia Phillies Manager Pat Corrales asked him to give him just "five or six good innings" against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He got more than that from the right-hander, and some offense to boot, as the Phillies routed the Dodgers 11-3 Wednesday night.

The 39-year-old Reed, a relief pitcher since 1977, allowed just six hits in seven innings to record his first victory of the season.

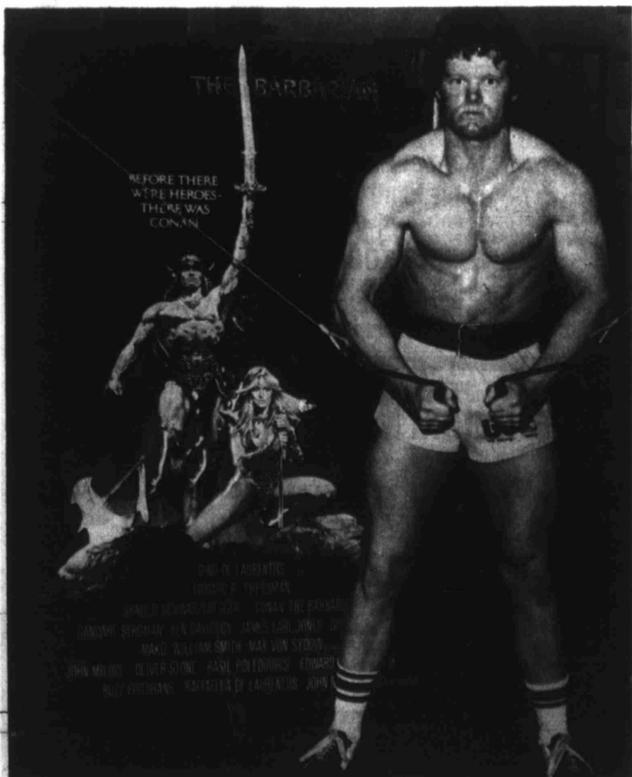

Braves 6, Cubs 3

Ken Smith drove home the tie-breaking run with a pinch single and Dale Murphy knocked in three runs, two of them with a ninth-inning homer, to lead Atlanta over Chicago.

Bob Walk, 4-2, picked up the victory for Atlanta with relief help from Gene Garber, who gained his seventh save. Randy Martz, 3-3, took the loss for the Cubs, ending a four-game Chicago winning streak.

Giants 3, Expos 2

Bill Laskey combined with two relievers on an eight-hitter and San Francisco capitalized on three Montreal errors for a pair of unearned runs in the third inning to defeat the Expos.

THE NEXT CONAN? Big Spring welder Don Walker works out in preparation for the Conan Contest tonight at the Bodycentre. The event, which begins at 7 p.m., hails the opening of the movie "Conan — The Barbarian" at the College Park Cinema Friday. Walker's body has three years of muscles on it.

Lasorda won't fine shortstop

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Tommy Lasorda says he doesn't plan to fine Bill Russell over the shortstop's running blunder Tuesday night.

Lasorda and Russell had a closed door shouting session after the Dodgers lost, 9-8, to the Philadelphia Phillies.

The manager threatened to fine Russell, who said he would refuse to pay.

The incident occurred in the seventh inning with the Phillies leading 9-6. Los Angeles had the bases loaded and two out.

Ken Landreaux struck out, but the ball ticked off Phillies catcher Bo Diaz' glove and rolled about four feet from the plate.

Diaz went to pick it up and dropped it. When he finally threw to first, Landreaux had beaten the throw. Russell started home from third, but stopped.

First baseman Pete Rose threw home and Diaz tagged the confused Russell for the third out.

The manager said he would fine the player, and Russell said he wouldn't pay the fine.

Russell said the play was his fault. Lasorda had the right to be angry.

Lauda blames driver Mass for Villeneuve accident

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Austrian auto racing ace Niki Lauda says Jochem Mass should not absolve himself in the death of Ferrari driver Gilles Villeneuve because he had no business changing lanes with the Canadian so close behind, according to a published report.

"This was not a normal accident (but) a deadly error," Lauda said in an interview published by the Swiss newspaper Blick. "Just like on the autobahn (highway), you can't change lanes at the last moment when you see a much faster driver coming right up behind."

Villeneuve, 32, of Montreal, was pronounced clinically dead hours after his Ferrari, traveling 170 mph, touched Mass' rear wheel in an overtaking maneuver during a Belgian Grand Prix qualifying trial. The car flipped about 150 feet and Villeneuve was thrown into a catch fence.

The mass-circulation tabloid quoted Lauda as saying Mass should not feel himself totally cleared of fault in Villeneuve's death because after seeing him in the rear view mirror, Mass should not have changed lanes.

Lauda also lashed out at Mass for starting in Sunday's race, one day after the crash.

"He didn't qualify, and only got a starting position thanks to this accident. Personally, I would have felt very shabby," Lauda reportedly said.

Thousands of race fans, townspeople and Canadian government officials showed up for Villeneuve's funeral mass Wednesday at his boyhood church in the small Quebec village of Berthierville. Diplomats from Belgium and Monaco — where Villeneuve lived with his wife and two children — also were present.

His coffin was draped with a black and white checkered winner's flag. It was brought to the St. Genevieve-de-Berthier Roman Catholic Church on the back of a 4-wheel-drive pickup truck.

"He was the fastest driver in the world and he went doing something he loved," said Jody Scheckter of South Africa, a former Ferrari teammate and world driving champion who delivered a brief eulogy.

"He had a love of risk that pushed him to continually surpass himself," said the Rev. Eugene Dumontier, who officiated with five other priests at the funeral.

Houston's Williams turns to NBA

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston guard Rob Williams has ended three bittersweet years with the Cougars to try his corkscrew layups in the National Basketball Association.

Williams, who was the center of praise and criticism last season when UH advanced to the NCAA's Final Four, announced Wednesday he would forgo his senior year with the Cougars to take advantage of the NBA's hardship rule.

Williams was the toast of the team when he was named the outstanding player in the NCAA Midwest Regional at St. Louis. He was heavily criticized when he failed to score a basket against North Carolina in the national semifinals.

Williams said his on-again, off-again relationship with the fans had no bearing on his decision.

But it did leave scars.

"I was pretty upset about it," Williams said. "For three years I've been out breaking my back and sweating to try to have a winning program. For me to go and give my all and then when I have a bad game for it to all tumble on me, well, how soon we forget."

RACER A.J. FOYT
 ...25 years at Indy 500

Racing in 25th Indy Texan Foyt back again

By STEVE HERMAN
 AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Neither time nor unparalleled success can dim A.J. Foyt's memory of his first Indianapolis 500. It was almost enough to keep him from ever driving again in the race he has come to dominate.

It was 1958. A 15-car crash on the first lap killed veteran driver Pat O'Connor — "one of the worst feelings I ever had," Foyt says. "They tell you everything to look for, and then they had the bad wreck," he recalls. "And Pat O'Connor, who helped me a lot, I see him upside down there, with the car on fire. I didn't know if I really wanted to race or not."

"That was probably one of the biggest things that stuck in my mind. I was only 23 years old, and I had never really seen anything like that or experienced anything like that. And it just kind of shocked me pretty much."

He did come back, of course. The next year, he improved his 16th-place finish to 10th. Two years later, in 1961, he won Indy for the first of an unprecedented four times.

Now, at age 47, Foyt is the veteran, preparing for his silver anniversary race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30 and coming off his own potentially career-ending crash.

He suffered a compound fracture of his right arm in last July's Michigan 500 when his car veered into the wall and slid on its side. Foyt says he was lucky not to lose the arm, and he still can't straighten it.

Foyt is the last link between two racing generations. He started racing before many of the younger drivers were even born. He admits he doesn't even know who some of them are. He's a throwback to the generation of grease-covered, lead-footed drivers who did everything themselves. Yet he has bridged the generation gap with extraordinary success.

Foyt has won 67 U.S. Auto Club races for Indy-type cars, 32 more than his nearest competitor, Al Unser. He has driven more than 9,000 miles in race competition at Indianapolis, more than 2,500 miles more than second-place Bobby Unser. He holds the record for most Indy starts (24), most races leading the field (12) and most winnings ($1.4 million).

These days, Foyt doesn't do everything himself, although he remains in complete charge of his operation. He's as comfortable in a Texas leisure suit as he is in overalls. And despite his reputation as a curmudgeon, he can even be a bit modest.

"A lot of people have said I'm probably one of the best," says the stocky Houston driver. "But I don't feel I'm better than anybody else. That's my personal opinion."

El Paso on top of West standings

By The Associated Press

Randy Kaczmeiski and Dave Purpura provided the hitting and the Shreveport pitching staff provided the walks as the Amarillo Gold Sox whipped the Shreveport Captains, 14-9, in Texas League baseball.

In the other Texas League game Wednesday night, El Paso defeated Arkansas, 7-4. Jackson's scheduled game at San Antonio and Midland's game at Tulsa were postponed because of rain.

Kaczmeiski had three hits in four trips to the plate and drove in three runs and Purpura had four hits in five plate appearance and drove in two runs for Amarillo.

But the game was decided in the eighth inning when Amarillo scored five runs aided by five straight walks issued by Shreveport pitcher. Two of the five runs came on bases-loaded walks.

Greg Baker had a three-run homer for Shreveport and drove in a total of four runs.

Mike Couchie, 1-1, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Jeff Cornell, 2-2.

El Paso handed the Arkansas Travelers their sixth straight loss, 7-4.

Dave Grier, 5-2, was the winning pitcher. Charged with the loss was Ricky Horton, 1-5.

ON THE JOB — Actor Daryl Anderson who stars as Animal on CBS' "Lou Grant," pauses while taking photos of the scores of people who turned out Monday night in Los Angeles to protest the network's cancellation of the popular television series.

Angelos to protest the network's cancellation of the popular television series.

Next fall: Comedy replaces law-and-order programming

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Growing conservatism didn't mean Americans wanted to watch cops chase robbers every night on television. So, that lesson learned, the networks' fall schedules will lean heavily on comedy and action-adventure.

By nearly any measure, the 1981-82 season was a failure. Most new shows were canceled and the networks lost 1 million viewers. Additionally, no new program was successful enough to be copied.

In fact, the only entertainment vehicle flattered by imitations next fall will be "Raiders of the Lost Ark," a big box-office adventure movie.

What happened? "Magnum" was the most successful show in the previous season, and we thought people wanted more of it," says Harvey Shepard, CBS' chief programmer.

So what the networks offered were law-and-order shows with old stars like James Arness, Robert Stack and Mike Connors.

"The government was more conservative, and we thought the public was in the mood for it," Shepard adds. "Obviously it was a mistake."

Magnum, played by pin-up boy Tom Selleck, is a private investigator who doesn't take himself too seriously. But what the programmers learned was that if the public, primarily women, likes Selleck, it didn't mean audiences would appreciate tired beefcake like Arness, Stack and Connors.

So now the networks are trying something new. For fall, ABC, NBC and CBS have opted for escape rather than capture with 10 new comedies and several light-hearted dramatic series, three of which resemble "Raiders" — ABC's "Brass Monkey," NBC's "Knight Rider" and CBS' "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

"Nobody says CPAs (certified public accountants) are in, so next year, let's have more CPAs," says Bud Grant, president of CBS Entertainment. "One year, 'Dallas' became a big hit, and a trend was established. So we had 'Dynasty,' 'Flamingo Road' and some others. It's the hits that really establish the trends."

There will be a trend-maker of sorts from this season's TV fare.

By both critical and ratings measurements, NBC's "Hill Street Blues" became a bona fide hit in its second year. Next season, NBC will offer St. Elsewhere, a realistic hospital drama that resembles "Hill Street" in its ensemble cast and expected style and realism.

What elevates "Hill Street" is clever writing and full-bodied characters, who ooze humanity, flaws and feelings. The audience likes some, hates others, but can't be indifferent to any.

"Hill Street," which has its final original episode of the season tonight, was the result of a rare TV deal:

So, while ABC has canceled "Taxi," NBC has "Taxi's" production team for the comedy "Cheers" this fall. And, while CBS has canceled "Lou Grant," NBC has one of its original producers to do another comedy, "Family Ties."

'Dynasty' remains strong

ABC wins first week of May ratings race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC finished on top for the first week of the May "sweeps," but the No. 1 show was the fast-paced, slapstick movie "Caddyshack" on CBS, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

"Dynasty," ABC's fast-rising prime-time soap opera, was second in the ratings. The show completed its current season of original programming with a series of cliffhangers that won't be resolved until next fall.

ABC took the first week of the May ratings ending May 9 with a rating of 15.7. CBS finished a full point behind with 14.7 and NBC was third with 13.3. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute, 15.7 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to ABC.

The sweeps, held several times a year by the ratings services, are checks on how many people watched particular shows. Sweeps are conducted for a month at the local station level, and the networks usually enhance their programming to help their affiliates' score.

TV's Censored Bloopers, an NBC rerun, was third, and completing the top five shows were ABC's "Too Close for Comfort" and "Three's Company."

Perennial CBS frontrunners "60 Minutes" and "Dallas," which are now showing reruns, did not make the Top 10. "60 Minutes" was in 11th place and "Dallas" was 25th.

Here are the Top 10 shows: movie: "Caddyshack," a rating of 23.2 or 18.5 million households, CBS; "Dynasty," 22.7 or 18.1 million, ABC; "TV's Censored Bloopers," 21.6 or 17.3 million, NBC; "Too Close for Comfort," 20.5 or 16.4 million, ABC; "Three's Company," 19.5 or 15.6 million, ABC; "Facts of Life," 19.3 or 15.4 million, NBC; "Hart to Hart," 18.9 or 15.1 million, ABC; "M-A-S-H," 18.8 or 15.0 million, CBS; "Inside the Third Reich," Part I, 18.8 or 15.0 million, ABC; "Battle of the Network Stars," 18.3 or 14.6 million, ABC.

Here are the next 10 shows: "60 Minutes," CBS; "The Fall Guy," ABC; "The Dukes of Hazzard," CBS; "The Love Boat," ABC; "Real People," NBC; "Teachers Only," NBC; "Diff'rent Strokes," NBC; "Gimme a Break," NBC; "Magnum, P.I.," CBS; "Hill Street Blues," NBC.

Here are the five lowest-rated shows: "Goldie and the Kids," ABC; "Chicago Story," NBC; "Father Murphy," NBC; "Crime in America," ABC; "Jokebook," NBC.

79 awarded HC degrees

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Jennifer Jeffers-Grant told the graduating students at Howard County Junior College District commencement exercises last night that today marked the start of "an exciting adventure into the rest of our lives." Miss Jeffers-Grant, a graduate student herself from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, was one of the featured speakers during ceremonies that saw 79 students receive degrees.

Miss Jeffers-Grant praised the foresight and dedication of the men who started HCJCD and SWCID, saying "it takes so much for a new venture like this to get off the ground." The student speaker said she was honored to belong to the first group of graduates from SWCID.

She told the assembled crowd she had realized years ago how important education can be. "I had to work twice as hard as a normal person," she said, but "a dream has become a reality." Miss Jeffers-Grant is an elementary education major and is the daughter of Mrs. Priscilla Grant of Bermuda.

District President Dr. Charles Hays told the crowd the district "does some things a little different here" in having students speak at commencements rather than bring in an outside speaker. Hays said parents and students prefer to hear what the students feel is important. The second student speaker was Gregory B. Wright, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Wright of Coahoma.

Wright said he had chosen Howard College because he wanted to continue to be in a small school. "I took pride in knowing everybody's name in high school and I wanted to do everything in college." The honor graduate took the opportunity as speaker to thank fellow students for being an important part of his life.

Howard College gives students the opportunity for individual instruction in a good atmosphere, Wright said. He praised all of his instructors for their work during his college years.

Prior to the ceremonies, 10 members of the Associate Degree in Nursing Program were honored in a nursing convocation held in the college auditorium. ADN Director Barbara Holdampf presented two awards at the brief ceremony, including the Dorothy Garrett Award to Victoria Berry. Mrs. Berry also was the HCJCD valedictorian. A second nursing award went to Mary Harwell.

Mrs. Berry had a grade point average of 3.92 on a 4.0 scale. The HCJCD salutatorian was Irene P. Smith, who had an average of 3.86.

Dr. Bobby Wright, vice president for the district, announced the certification of candidates for degrees, while Hays and Harold Davis, chairman of the Board of trustees, awarded the degrees.

Those receiving Associate in Arts degrees were: Paul Abundez, Kim-

Also receiving Associate in Arts degrees were: Norma Molina, Farris Monroe, Kellie Mull, Frankie Noyola, Natividad Nunez, Charles Parker, Paula Richardson, Robin Rivers, Toya Rivers, David Scholfield, Keith Sheedy, Irene Smith, Tony Spears, Ralph Torres, Ana Walls, Carol Wasserman, Mary Kay White, Imme Williams and Greg Wright.

Those receiving Associate in Applied Arts degrees were: Robert Barkey, Deborah Butler, Jerome Holten, Timothy Lelek, Joseph Leyva, M.E. Leyva, Cay Luedecke, Richard Mound, Bryan Neff, Adrian Ornelas, Robin Robinett and Lynn Simpson.

Those receiving Associate in Applied Science degrees were: Victoria Berry, Gregoria Brooks, Cathy Carter, Margurette Davis, Mary Dennard, Frances Ferguson, Clotilde Flores, Roger Foster, Fermin Gonzales, Charles Hamner, Kathy Harrell, Millie Hartfield, Mary Harwell, Maria Hernandez and Masayuki Kera.

Also receiving Associate in Applied Science degrees were: Cynthia Martinez, Maurice Meek, Angel Miranda, George Quintero, Doris Raines, Michael Smith, Mary Tanner, Anthony Thixton, Phyllis Vickers, Janice Wagner, Peggy Williams, Robert Wolf, Raymond Woolverton and Vonda Wrye.

Honor graduates for the HCJCD were: Malinda Claxton, Betty Downey, Carrie Lutrick, Javier Martinez, Norma Molina, Frankie Noyola, Paula Richardson, Irene Smith, Greg Wright, Victoria Berry, Cleotilde Flores, Charles Hamner, Angel Miranda, Phyllis Vickers, Robert Wolf and Vonda Wrye.

The first four graduates from SWCID were Randy Baker, Cliff Bodiford, Sherrie Daniels and Jennifer Jeffers-Grant.

Food

Have fruit and cheese for dessert

If you missed the Fruit and Cheese, Please demonstration at Energas Cooking School, you missed a delicious sampling and informative program.

Diane Calley, hostess, demonstrated how to use fruit and cheese partnerships for appetizers or desserts. She also showed how to make fruit and cheese snacks that will turn a simple gathering into a festive occasion. Butler's Pantry, Midland, provided the imported cheeses for the demonstration.

But fear not. Below are recipes and information Mrs. Calley shared for you to use too.

FRIED CHEESE WEDGES

16 ounces of assorted natural cheeses, cut into appetizer-sized wedges.
 1 egg, beaten
 2 cups fine dry bread crumbs
 cooking oil for deep fat frying
 Dip cheese in egg, then into bread crumbs. Repeat to make two layers of coating. Heat 2 to 3 inches of oil in deep saucepan to 375 degrees. Place cheese pieces a few at a time in hot oil. Cook until golden brown on all sides. Makes 20 wedges or 40 cubes.

FRUIT PIZZA

1 (18 ounce) package of refrigerated sugar cookies
 1 package (8 ounce) cream cheese
 1-3rd cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 1/2 cup orange marmalade
 2 Tablespoons water
 Assorted fruits
 Cut cookie dough into 1/2 inch slices. Line an ungreased 14-inch pizza pan with slices, overlapping slightly. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 minutes. Cool. Combine cream cheese, sugar, vanilla and spread over cookie crust. Arrange fruit on top. Glaze with marmalade-water mixture. Cut into wedges. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

QUICK LEMON FONDUE

1 package lemon frosting mix
 1/4 cup plus 2 Tablespoons hot water
 2 Tablespoons corn syrup
 Blend all ingredients. Beat until smooth. Pour into dessert fondue pot to heat. Makes 2 cups.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE BALL

2 (8 ounce) packages of cream cheese, softened
 1 cup drained, crushed pineapple
 2 teaspoons season salt
 2 cups chopped pecans, divided
 Beat cream cheese until smooth. Add the rest of the ingredients (1 cup pecans), and mix well. Shape into a ball. Roll in remaining pecans. Chill 1 to 2 hours. Garnish with fresh fruit, and serve with assorted crackers.

SPICY CHEESE GEM

2 cups flour
 1 Tablespoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 1/2 cup molasses
 1/2 cup butter/milk
 1 egg, beaten
 1 cup butter, melted
 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
 1/4 cup chopped raisins or dates
 Sift together dry ingredients. Stir molasses and buttermilk into beaten egg. Add to dry ingredients along with butter, cheese and raisins. Mix only until moistened. Fill greased muffin pans about 2-3rd full. Bake 12-15 minutes at 400 degrees. Serve hot. Makes 14-16 muffins.

BULL'S EYES

1/2 cup butter
 1/2 cup dark brown sugar
 1-3rd cup creamy peanut butter
 1 egg
 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 3/4 cups flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Assorted jams
 Cream butter and brown sugar. Blend in peanut butter, egg, cheese and vanilla. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Lightly flour hands and roll dough into 1-inch balls. Place on cookie sheet. Make thumb indentation on each. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Fill center with assorted jams. Makes 4 dozen.

KIWI CHEESE PIE

2 (8 ounce) packages of cream cheese, softened

2 eggs
 2-3rd cup sugar
 1 1/2 grated lemon peel
 1 gingersnap crust (recipe below)
 1 Tablespoon apricot preserves mixed with 1 1/2 tsp. water, divided
 2 Kiwi fruits, peeled and thinly sliced
 In large bowl, beat first four ingredients until smooth and shiny. Pour into prepared crust. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Turn off oven and leave pie in closed oven for 30 minutes. Remove; cool to room temperature. (For best flavor cover and chill 6 hours). Just before serving, brush with half of apricot mixture. Arrange kiwi on top and brush with remaining mixture.

and desired cheese until creamy. Add orange peel (omit if using orange-flavored cheese), and vanilla. Combine sugar, flour, salt and gradually blend into cheese mixture. Add 2 eggs and egg yolk. Beat until just blended. Stir in milk. Pour half cheese mixture (about 2 cups) into another bowl. Stir 2 squares melted chocolate to remaining until blended. Alternate layers of light and dark filling into crust. Use narrow spatula to gently stir through butter to marble. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce to 300 degrees and bake 40 minutes or until center appears set. Remove from oven. Cool 15 minutes. Loosen sides from pan with spatula. Cool 30 minutes more. Remove sides from pan. Cover and chill at least 2 hours.

Preparing topping: Melt 6 squares of chocolate and shortening over low heat. Spread on top of cheesecake. Chill until set. To serve, garnish with ring of halved orange slices and finely shredded peel, if desired. Cut into thin wedges. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

Errors spell tax loss

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Bad news came to the school district board of trustees from business manager Jay Craddock at the board's regular meeting Monday night.
According to Craddock, errors in the 1981 tax roll, following last year's re-evaluation program, have cost the district $3,529 in valuations, which means a loss of almost $28,000 in tax dollars.
Craddock says the greatest amount of reduction is the loss in value due to agricultural land being classified in error and then being reduced to ag-value for the corrected amount.

Also in Monday night's meeting, Superintendent Charlie Uselton said he is not ready to make a recommendation for the upcoming middle school principal's position. Uselton indicated applicants' references are being checked and additional applications still are sought.
Board members spent considerable time studying the music program in the schools and will be working on a priority list for both the middle school and the high school, which will include uniforms and instruments.

Uselton reminded board members of the high school's baccalaureate ceremonies at 4 p.m. May 23 in the high school auditorium and graduation ceremonies at 8 p.m. May 28 in Wolf Stadium.

Council paves way for better streets

By BILLELDER
City Editor

Street improvements occupied much of the Big Spring City Council's attention when the council met last night.

Councilmen discussed improvements of entry roads to the city industrial park, a state project to improve half a dozen intersections on Third and Fourth streets and a city project to sealcoat 98 blocks of city streets.

For the airport, councilmen approved some design changes in the entry road off Highway 80 which will turn the road into a four-lane thoroughfare capable of accommodating large trucks.

At the east end of the park, councilmen voted to improve the Avenue A entrance. Following a discussion about making design changes at the entrance in order to reduce speeds at the intersection of 16th and Avenue A, councilmen decided the intersection could do without the design changes — but would get the benefit of surface improvements.

City Manager Don Davis told the council he had learned the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation is expected to begin a project this month calling for improvements of six intersections on Third and Fourth streets, collectively known as state Highway 80.

The intersections are Third and Birdwell, Third and San Antonio, Third and San Jacinto, Third and Galveston, Fourth and San Antonio and Fourth and Abrams.

The construction company awarded the project will work two or three intersections at a time, closing half the width of Third and Fourth at each intersection as the improvements are made. The work at Third and Birdwell will necessitate closing Birdwell between Fourth and Third for eight to 10 days, and Birdwell from Second to Third for an additional eight to 10 days, according to Davis.

The project is expected to begin May 17 on the northern lanes of Third at San Antonio and San Jacinto.

Meanwhile, the city is planning to forge ahead with the sealcoating of 98 blocks of city streets. The streets are on the west and southwest sides of the city and include the entire Coronado Hills and Highland South subdivisions.

The work is expected to begin as soon as the city buys the gravel necessary to complete the project. The city has been somewhat frustrated in its attempts to purchase the gravel; for the past two council meetings the council has rejected bids for the gravel sale either because the gravel offered wasn't up to specifications or else the price was too high.

Upon Davis' recommendation, the council decided last night to buy the gravel in quantities small enough to avoid going through the bidding process.

Also last night, the council accepted bids from Western Kawasaki and A-1 Cycle Shop to sell the city two motor scooters and two all-terrain cycles. The city had been prepared to purchase three motor scooters and two cycles but would have gone $549 over the budget for the purchase. Acting on a suggestion from Councilman Larry Miller to buy four vehicles and thus stay within the budget, the council decided that the city's meter readers — who are slated to use the vehicles — will have to get along with just four vehicles.

Currently, Davis pointed out, the city's five meter readers use only one vehicle. The scooters and all-terrain cycles are a "pilot project," Davis said, and will be closely monitored to test their effectiveness.

Another experimental project given preliminary approval last night is self-mailing water statements bearing advertising on the backs of the envelopes. The council has been seeking bids to sell the city the statements, and decided last night to seek additional bids on the sale of advertising space on the back of the envelopes.

Davis told the council Midland uses a similar program "and they not only paid for their envelopes (with the advertising revenue) but made a $5,000 profit."

The council ultimately decided to seek bids on post cards too so that all three programs — post cards, envelopes with advertising and envelopes without advertising — can be tabulated and compared for their cost-savings.

Also last night, the council:

- Awarded the right to hold the city's money to Security State Bank, based on its apparent best bid. The agreement with the bank will last two years, at which time the right to be the city depository will be put to bid again.

- Voted to go on record as opposing efforts in Congress to diminish the tax-free nature of municipal bonds, since it will "cost us more money in the long run to sell our bonds" if bondholders become taxed, Davis said.

- Suspended for another 30 days a 120-day suspension of a rate increase requested by Texas Electric Service Co. Big Spring joined other Texas cities served by TESCO in December to suspend the request pending a study of it.

- Awarded a temporary mobile home permit to Rube McNew of 1906 Settles.

- Reappointed contractor Jim Bill Little and banker

John Currie to new two-year terms on the board of directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

- Reappointed the firm of Lee, Wilson, Reynolds & Co. to do the annual independent audit of city finances at the close of the current fiscal year.

- Approved requests to use Comanche Trail Lake for a fishing tournament and the city swimming pool for school and YMCA programs.

- Approved a flashing light at the intersection of 15th and Runnels and stop signs at the intersection of First and Wright streets in the industrial park.

- Heard from Nancy Patrick about the possibility of using the vacant and never-used Northside Daycare Center.

- Awarded resolutions to the Big Spring High School Color Guard "Mariah" for the guard's recent slew of awards; to the Big Spring High School girls track team and particularly Carla Jackson for their accomplishments in the 1982 season — and to the Steers baseball team for winning the District 5-5A championship for the first time.

The Mall Street Journal

This weekend at the Big Spring Mall the long awaited Health and Safety Fair will be in full swing. Be sure to come by and participate in this event. The Health and Safety Fair represents many long hours of research and planning on behalf of Barbara Holdampf and her fine committee. In appreciation of the efforts of this committee the merchants of the Big Spring Mall will be donating gifts to be given away during the Health and Safety Fair. I want to urge everyone to attend the Health and Safety Fair it promises to be very educational and beneficial to all that attend.

Don Fisher at J.C. Penneys would like to announce that soon he will be hosting the registration of the Big Spring Soccer league here in the Big Spring Mall. Don tells me that Pepsi Cola will be here with a film featuring the greatest soccer star of all time, Pele. All you kids interested in soccer be listening for the date.

Last week I didn't have room to tell everyone what was going on in the stores here at the mall so maybe now I should make up for that. At Emphasis the Calvin Klein and Sasson jeans have been reduced 30 to 40%. At Peanut Shack, just in time for the Health and Safety Fair, manager Carol Szabo will be offering Nachos. Everybody better keep an eye on this place, the owners have got lots of good ideas for new items. At Zales there is a special on gold chains and bracelets, also gold nugget rings that are regularly $1050 are now $799. Regis has a new girl working with them that I would like to welcome to the Big Spring Mall family, Twila Liles joined us just this week. At Radio Shack, the 22 Watt receivers are going for $159.95, while a group of 40 channel CB's are at $59.95.

Now that warm weather is here, Jennys Old Time Treats is offering snow cones in various flavors. Helen Vaughn, the owner of Helens, tells me she has some new arrivals in and that there is one group of shoes at 40% off. Helen also has a good deal on handbags, buy a pair of shoes at regular price and get the bag free. Be listening to radio station KBYG this week as the Kopper Kettle is the KBYG sponsor of the week, which means there is a drawing every hour on the hour for merchandise from the Kopper Kettle. If there are any clubs or organizations that would like a cooking demonstration by the Kopper Kettle all you have to do is ask. At Bealls this week there are over 400 pieces of Buster Brown infant and toddlers playwear reduced to half price. The sale on exclusive Armadillo knit shirts is still on at $12.88, and a good looking five piece luggage set is at half price.

In the future at the Big Spring Mall there are some exciting events planned. Around the first two weeks of June there will be a glass blower set up right in the mall displaying, creating, and selling his wares. The Shopsmith people will be here later on this summer with one of their fine demonstrations. The list goes on and on, but let me remind you that if you have a special art or craft or maybe a line of merchandise that you feel would sell good here at the mall get in touch with me. It is possible that I can set you up here on a temporary or permanent basis, a day, a week, a month, I can be very flexible. For more information on rental and leasing feel free to contact me at 267-3853 or come on by the mall office.

Odessa man charged in bombing death

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Police planned to continue their search today for an Odessa businessman charged with capital murder in the death of a former employee.

John Clifford Skelton, 51, was charged Tuesday with killing Joe Neal, 46, said Peace Justice Manuel Valles. Skelton has not been arrested and was believed to be out of the state, police Sgt. Jerry Smith said.

Neal was killed when his pickup truck exploded shortly before 7:30 a.m. April 24 as he turned the key and triggered a device wired to the ignition system, police said.

The blast scattered debris as far away as 1,000 feet. Neal was preparing to drive his 14-year-old daughter to meet a bus, but the girl was still in the house at the time of the blast.

Police said Tuesday that their investigation determined Skelton had threatened to kill Neal "on several different occasions." Police declined to elaborate.

However, Neal's widow, Peggy, said she knew of no direct threats against her husband.

Skelton is a former owner of Husky Steam Cleaners, where Neal worked as a salesman in 1979 and 1980.

Glasscock water board meets new district manager

GARDEN CITY — The Glasscock County Underground Water Conservation District met here recently for its monthly board meeting. The new district manager, Mark Hoelscher, began his training at the meeting.

Hoelscher, who replaces Kathy Kohls, is a graduate from Texas A&M with a Bachelor of Science degree in agronomy. He has a wife, Sharon, and two children.

Board members also decided to set July 31 as the deadline for filing for election to the board as a representative of precincts 3 and 4. The election will be held Aug. 21.

The board additionally set May 18 as the date for a town meeting at 8 p.m. to discuss effluent from Midland. The board also discussed salt water disposal sites and set June 14 as the date for the next meeting.

No bail in mischief case

Robert Lewis Valentine, 22, of 205 N.W. Third, remains in Howard County jail today in lieu of $3,500 bond. Valentine was arrested by city police Friday on a charge of felony criminal mischief.

Dear Abby

Child has right to be wanted

DEAR ABBY: You published my letter last March in which I took issue with your statement, "If the parents cannot agree whether to terminate the pregnancy, the decision should be the mother's because it's her body."

I said, "Pregnancy is not simply the state of a woman's body. It is also the stage in another person's life. The whole issue of abortion is difficult enough when both parents agree, but to deny one parent his share in that decision, just because he doesn't agree with the other parent who by biological accident happens to be in control, is unconscionable." My closing remark was, "After all, you could not claim as your own another person's car parked in your garage."

In your published response you said, "A woman's body is not a garage that can be rented by the week or month." In a subsequent personal unpublished letter to me you wrote, "Now don't tell me you aren't with the right-to-lifers. You're certainly not pro-choice!"

Wrong! All right! I am still getting letters of congratulations from pro-lifers, which shows how poorly I expressed myself. However, I am not with the pro-lifers; neither am I with the pro-choicers. I have enormous difficulty with the issue of abortion.

In the case of an unwanted child who would be severely emotionally or physically crippled by child abuse because he wasn't wanted in the first place, I would have to opt for abortion to prevent that kind of suffering. But I cannot take lightly the argument that abortion is murder.

HERBERT S. HEINEMAN, M.D.

bit is one of the oldest and rottenest lines ever invented! Does he love you? It doesn't sound like it. Someone who loves you wants whatever is best for you. But now figure it out. He wants you to:

Commit an immoral act. Surrender your virtue. Throw away your self-respect. Risk the loss of your precious reputation. And risk getting into trouble.

Does that sound as though he wants what's best for you? This is the laugh of the century. He wants what's best for him... he wants a thrill he can brag about at your expense.

Love? Who's kidding whom! A boy who loves a girl would sooner cut off his right arm than hurt her. If you want my opinion, this self-serving so-and-so has already proved that he doesn't love you.

The predictable aftermath of "proofs" of this kind always find Don Juan tiring of his sport. That's when he drops you, picks up his line and goes casting elsewhere for bigger, and equally silly, fish.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

ON MAY 23-26, Chamber executive LEROY TILLERY will be heading to Denver, Colorado, for the American Economic Development Council meeting. While there he will take the all day examination to become a Certified Industrial Developer. It will consist of three parts: an objective test, a test of case studies, and an oral examination. All LeRoy's work with the Big Spring industrial efforts should certainly prepare him for this exam. Good luck, LeRoy!

DEBBIE/FARRIS, of ERA REEDER REALTORS, brought by information about a 2-hour free home buyers seminar that will be held Monday, May 17, at 7:30, at the Holiday Inn Patio Room. Anyone who is about to buy or sell real estate should consider attending this no-obligations meeting to learn more about alternative methods of financing and other home buying/selling issues.

The program will consist of a local residential appraiser, TEDDY GRIFFIN — the procedures and costs of appraising; PAULA SMELSER, closing agent for West Texas Title — loan closing costs; SID CLARK, accountant — tax advantages of home ownership; CARLA HENRY, loan officer with First Federal Savings & Loan — loan programs available with their institution; JIM MUIR, branch manager of Johnson Mortgage Company of Midland — special financing programs; and LILA ESTES, of Reeder Realtors — ERA's home warranty program, partnership mortgage, and other beneficial programs for the home buyer.

DALE WORTHAN and PETE SANDERSON will attend the annual Ford Motor Company dinner in Dallas this month to pick up Pete's first diamond ring and Dale's second as Ford Master Sales Counselors. They join an elite circle of Ford salespeople. BOB BROCK said that in order to qualify for this important award, a salesperson must sell 300 units a year and only two of his salespeople have ever done this! He also reported that four others in the sales force will receive the Professional Sales Counselor award: RANDY GEE, W. A. ALLEN, JACK THORP, and ED LAWSON.

DEAR ABBY: Do you remember the column you had about girls needing to go all the way like a moose needed a hat rack? Well, I cut it out when I was 12 and gave it to a girlfriend who needed it more than I did at the time. She said it helped her make the right decision. It helped me, also, later on.

Please run it again for other girls who are struggling with that problem. Thank you.

DEAR MISS R.: Here it is: Girls need to "prove their love" through illicit sex relations like a moose needs a hat rack.

Why not prove your love by sticking your head in the oven and turning on the gas? Or playing leapfrog out in the traffic? It's about as safe.

Clear the cobwebs out of your head: Any fellow who asks you to "prove your love" is trying to take you for the biggest, most gullible fool who ever walked. That proving

No action on Arsiaga request

Howard County commissioners took no action yesterday on whether to allow Linda Arsiaga to attend a Justice of the Peace school in Odessa May 25. Mrs. Arsiaga, secretary to Peace Justice Bobby West, encountered opposition to her request from Peace Justice Lewis Heflin during the commissioners' meeting yesterday.

Mrs. Arsiaga ran second in her attempt to claim Heflin's position in the recent Democratic Primary. Heflin told the commissioners the county should not be spending money sending secretaries to peace justice schools.

In other action Tuesday, the commissioners awarded fuel and oil contracts to three companies. Western Marketing out of Abilene was awarded the unleaded gasoline contract with the county with a bid of 97 cents per gallon. Western Marketing also was low bidder on engine oil, $167.52 per 55-gallon drum; hydraulic oil, $133.23 per drum; and lubrication grease, $41.53 per cartridge.

Petco Distributors of Big Spring received the contract for diesel fuel at 94 cents per gallon. Pat Boatler's bid of $169 a drum garnered the transmission and differential oil contract.

Dr. Donohue

Angioedema are hives

Dear Dr. Donohue: I want to know about angioedema. Has it anything to do with aging? I am 64. Has it anything to do with the blood? I have it, and bad. My lips, nose, cheeks and eyes are swollen much too often. I've had it for five years. Will it ever disappear? — J.H.

Angioedema and hives are closely-related conditions. Hives are reactions occurring on the surface of the skin. Angioedema is deeper. The conditions may appear together, or either may occur by itself. The cause of either may be an allergy, very often food allergies, particularly involving certain fruits, shellfish, chocolates, nuts, tomatoes.

Angioedema can have other causes in addition to the run-of-the-mill allergies I mentioned. Cold and sunlight have been known to cause it. Inflammation of blood vessels (vasculitis) is another cause. Some can have it as a response to drugs.

A rarer form is inherited. Even though this kind is inherited, it may not make an appearance until the person is in his 50s. That's the only relationship to age I know of. And this inherited form has the only relationship to blood with which I am familiar. In this form, a certain blood chemical is missing.

BIG SPRING'S TIDY CAR STAFF ...Elbert Clark, Freddie Mae White, Hosea Young

Tidy Car will make your car look new

When the West Texas winds blow, the sand, dirt and grit can give your car a natural, but totally unwanted coat.

That's why there's Tidy Car Car Wash, located at 200 W. Second.

TIDY CAR does more than give your car a good washing and cleaning, it can protect the beauty of your car's finish against the weather and whatever else can damage its looks.

It offers the Preserve-a-Shine process, an exclusive formulation that provides a protective, glass-like finish to seal out the harmful effects of oxidation, salt, snow and sun-fading.

This buffed-in process is made possible and economical because of the exclusive equipment used by the Tidy Car. It mechanically duplicates the action of the human hand, except about 250 times faster than the human hand can work.

TIDY CAR can also restore the shine on older vehicles.

For the inside of your car, Tidy Car offers Upholstry-Gard 2, a process that takes the worry out of pet stains, food spills and other stains on seats and rugs. The secret of the process is a special "wicking action" that surrounds every thread and fiber of your car's upholstery with a permanent protective seal.

Tidy Car does much more than just wash your car. It protects it and makes it as beautiful as it was the day you bought it. Check with Elbert Clark at Big Spring's Tidy Car today.
