Big Spring residents should heed the cardinal rule during a tornado and stay home since only three community storm shelters can be found in the city. And the shelters can be used only if the local civil defense agency rules so. City Councilman Larry Miller, who heads Big Spring's civil defense agency, said he is not aware of any designed tornado shelters in town except for a shelter at the fire station at Eighteenth and Main. The basement, of the county courthouse actually is considered a nuclear fallout shelter rather than a tornado shelter, he added.

The third community shelter is the basement area of the post office on Main. Postmaster Frank Hardesty said the designed shelter had been used only twice, but nevertheless is available for use.

"If the civil defense ruled, it could be used during a people in here the last time. It's inconvenient since we don't have chairs or anything - everybody just huddles together.

A fireman at the Eighteenth and Main fire station said their cellar holds about 22 people.

"One family asked to use it a few years ago during some bad weather, but no one since then. We keep it clean and it is usable." he said

Other facilities in town have emergency plans for the facilities' residents and employees, but none involve the use of an underground shelter. John Keller, administrative technician at Big Spring State Hospital, said the hospital buildings were surveyed by an expert who had designated the safest areas in the structures. Keller said these safe areas have been used by patients and staff during storm conditions.

facility does not have a shelter, but "we do take care of our in-house patients and employees." A spokesman for Hall-Bennett Hospital said the building is not a designated shelter, but the administration takes precautions for patients and employees during hazardous weather.

Pat Johnston, administrative assistant at Canterbury Apartments, said the senior citizens facility has no underground structure. However, due to the building's sturdy construction, residents have been moved into hallways during threatening weather.

Hal Boyd, manager of Big Spring Industrial Park, said no underground shelter exists at the park, located at the old Webb Air Force Base. Also at the old base is the federal prison camp. Assistant Superintendent Jerry Edwards said no underground shelters exist on prison property but the two main barracks are used for storm protection by inmates and employees.

A check with other facilities revealed no designated tornado shelter at Howard College and no underground shelter at Highland South Shopping Center, spokesmen for those facilities said.

Sunday

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MAY 23, 1982

Big Spring is not alone in not having many community facilities for shelter from tornadoes and other natural disasters. As civil defense official Miller said, "Other towns don't have (many shelters) either." A civil defense spokesman in Midland said no community storm shelters exist in the Midland area "at the present time, although they have been proposed." The spokesman knew of one private tornado shelter in the entire city.

A Lamesa City Hall representative said the city did not have any community tornado shelters, but some nuclear fall-out shelters could be found in the city. Colorado City is looking for a place for a community storm shelter, a spokesperson said, but no area has been found yet.

Curtis Ray Williams, a suspect in the alleged fatal shooting of 19-yearold Cynthia Moore, attempted an escape from Big Spring police station Friday afternoon, police Lt. John Wolf said Detective Bud Jones "had to tackle'' Williams after Williams tried to "run off" during questioning at about 3:15 p.m., Wolf said. Williams was subdued and "taken back upstairs (to the jail)." No one was hurt in the incident, Wolf added.

Police arrested Williams, 20, of 1508 Wood and Sondra Jackson, 18, of 910 N.W. Fourth, on charges of homicide Friday in connection with the alleged shooting of Ms. Moore early Friday morning.

About two hours before her death, Ms. Moore told police Williams had assaulted her by striking her in the mouth with his fist. He then forced her to walk to his residence at 1518 Wood, according to police reports. After arriving at Williams' house: Ms. Moore then ran to the 807 Wyoming residence, where she, Anthony Valentine, his wife and their sixmonth old child lived, police said.

Williams and Jackson later followed her to the house, according to police. Williams is alleged to have then shot Ms. Moore.

There was only one gunshot, which entered Ms. Moore's chest, Wolf said. Police previously had said an injury to Ms. Moore's chin might be another bullet wound, but the injury apparently was received during the first assault, Wolf said.

Action/reaction: Water office

Q. The city water office has been in "temporary" quarters in a trailer for eight years without rest rooms or running water. If money has been approved for improvements and city officials are remodeling their offices, why haven't they done something?

A. Assistant City Manager Paul Feazelle replies: "Money for the new water office was included in the bonds sold for the first year of the Capital Improvements Program. However, the city council felt that a heavy emphasis should be placed on initiating the water line replacement program due to the problems experienced during the last few years.

"The staff is now preparing a request for proposal to be sent to various architects in order that the design may be accomplished. Upon completion of this, the city will advertise for and accept bids for construction of the building.

- Britain hangs tough on Falklands

By The Associated Press

Despite the loss of a second warship and 20 of its sailors, Britain vowed Saturday to regain the Falkland Islands and said it had 5,000 men ashore in a secure beachhead. But Argentina claimed only 400 British commandos landed Friday and said they were "being cleaned up."

The British Defense Ministry said Saturday evening it had no reports of any Argentine attacks and claimed two of its carrier-based Harrier jets "on routine patrol ... attacked and severely damaged an Argentine patrol boat" in Choiseul Sound, about 25 miles south of Stanley, the capital of the Falklands

Ministry officials said "poor" weather on the Argentine mainland reduced the threat of any major air strike "for the time being.

The British Defense Ministry said. "There have been no reports of any Argentine action against the task force or disembarked British forces" and the lull was being used "to contiune our consolidation of the position.'

In Buenos Aires, the U.S. Embassy stepped up evacuation of nonessential personnel. At the United Nations, Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez and British Ambassador Sir Anthony Parsons heard Spain open a Security Council debate on the Falklands by urging the council to bring about a cease-fire, negotiations and peace.

Pope John Paul II appealed for peace and was reported leaving it up to Roman Catholic bishops in London to decide whether the escalation of the South Atlantic fighting should prompt him to abandon plans to visit Britain starting Friday.

The sinking of the frigate Ardent by Argentine jets was announced by British Defense Secretary John Nott, who told reporters in London that about 30 men were wounded in Friday's Ardent attack in addition to the 20 lost crewmen. He said another British warship had an unexploded bomb in its engine room that was later defused, and that three other ships suffered minor damage.

The Ardent was the second British warship sunk since the crisis erupted April 2 with the Argentine seizure of the Falklands from Britain. The destroyer Sheffield and 20 of its men went down after a missile fired by an Argentine fighter-bomber blasted the ship in the icy South Atlantic May 4.

Just before the British launched their assault Friday a helicopter ferrying British troops ditched in the ocean, leaving 21 dead. Britain reported two more servicemen killed. three missing and 27 wounded in the Falklands assault itself.

But the British said despite the losses they were back on the islands to stay with a total landing force of 5,000 including men. marines. paratroopers, artillery, engineers, medics and other support personnel.

Ex-officers indicted on assault, oppression charges

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

A Mitchell County grand jury indicted former Colorado City police chief Jimmy Roundtree and former Lt. Jesse Dominguez on misdemeanor charges of official oppression and simple assault, according to Mitchell County Assistant District Attorney Lonnie Markley. Both Roundtree and Dominguez were indicted on each of the charges by the jury Thursday. Officials said the charges stem from an investigation by Mitchell County Attorney Pat Barber into a Jan. 24 incident during which Roundtree and Dominguez are alleged to have physically assaulted two prisoners in the Colorado City jail.

After the indictments were served Friday, both Roundtree and Dominguez voluntarily surrendered to the Mitchell County Sheriff's Office and posted $1,000 bond apiece - $500 for each offense as set by the grand jury

Barber said misdemeanor cases usually are not brought to a grand jury but "considering the political ramifications of the investigation I have been conducting, I thought it advisable to present evidence obtained to a grand jury for their consideration and action if any,

"The grand jury only had time to fully consider one of the incidences covered by the investigation. The remainder of the cases will be presented at the next session of the grand jury."

Barber said he could not release details on the number of incidents being investigated by his office.

Roundtree was unavailable to comment on the indictment.

This was twice the number of troops ashore given previously.

At a Defense Ministry news conference in London, Marine Lt. Col. Tim Donkin said a beachhead of about 10 square miles had been established at Port San Carlos, about 50 miles west of the capital of Stanley. He said the operation "involves a total of over 25,000 men in ships at sea and something over 100 ships...At a range of 8,000 miles from the U.K. (United Kingdom) base." He said this includes all elements of the task force and its maritime supply line strung out across the Atlantic. Previous estimates put the total British force at about 5,000 men

Asked about Argentine claims to have "complete control" of British landing forces, Donkin said the British assault "has not been repelled, nor will it be. We are there to stay.'

But Argentina's official Telam news agency said Britain managed to land just 400 troops in the San Carlos area, that they "are completely controlled" and were "being cleaned up" by Argentine forces Saturday.

The commander of the Argentine air force, Brig. Basilio Lami Dozo. said his pilots proved their skills in attacking the British fleet.

Cannibal Draw reunion looms

2-A

The fifth annual Cannibal Draw Reunion - held for individuals who resided in the Cannibal Draw area in east Big Spring 50 or more years ago -- has been set for June 19 at 7 p.m. at the Brandin' Iron on Highway 87.

The reunion was conceived by H.M. (Mack) Underwood several years ago after he moved back to Big Spring from the Los Angeles area. He said approximately 100 persons are eligible to attend the reunion and well over half that number have attended at least one of the meetings in the past.

Underwood said the largest turnout came in 1980 when the event drew 49 participants.

This year's banquet will again be a stag event. There has been talk at past reunions that wives and female friends would be invited to the affair, but those plans have never crystalized, he said.

The old-timers will meet at the Brandin' Iron and will order from the menu Dutch treat. After that there will be time set aside for stories and talks about old times.

"I am eagerly looking forward to meeting again with all my good friends who have attended in the past, and to the prospect of seeing those we have identified as Cannibal Draw old-timers, but who have not attended any of the reunions," Underwood said.

For further information concerning the reunion, call 263-0915

Bottle maker seeks $2 million bond sale

Western Container Corp. of Big Spring hopes to make an application to the Howard County Commissioners Monday for a $2 million industrial development bond, according to Bob Jackson, general manager of the company.

Jackson said Western's bonding attorneys are at work preparing an application for the bond for possible submission at the next regular meeting of the commissioners.

"We hope the application will be ready for May 24, but if it's not we'll probably submit it June 14 or 28," Jackson said.

He said the bond will be for expansion of Western's facilities in the Big Spring Industrial Park.

"The $2 million bond is to continue expansion of the work we've been doing here. We've been looking at an air compressor, some new blower equipment and some more half-liter equipment," he explained. The equipment will produce half-liter synthetic soft drink bottles found on grocery shelves.

"We are continuing to expand the project as developed. We are also adding more equipment because we have picked up more business," Jackson said.

County Judge Bill Tune said Western's request had been put on Monday's agenda despite the possibility the company might not have the application prepared in time.

Man gets death penalty

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)- A 22-year-old Dallas man, convicted of capital murder in connection with a spree of robberies, has been handed the death penalty for the slaying of an Aledo man.

Following a six-week trial, Bruce Collins was found guilty of the robbery-slaying of Allen Huckleberry and the robbery of two other bar patrons in West Fort Worth.

Collins also on Friday was assessed two life sentences and two $10,000 fines for the robbery convictions

Huckleberry, 27, was killed during a holdup on June 27.1980.

Prosecutor Greg Pipes described Collins as "a oneman crime wave" who began a four-year spree of robberies in 1978.

Storms roaming southern plains

By The Associated Press

A frontal system spread thunderstorms across the southern Plains and the lower Mississippi Valley on Saturday, with storms over Arkansas and Texas producing large hail and a tornado.

The tornado was sighted south of Hughes, Ark., west of Memphis, Tenn.

Large hail stones pounded West Memphis, Ark., and hail the size of golf balls fell at Carlisle, Ark., east of Little Rock.

Strong thunderstorms developed across northern Texas and over the Midwest, and severe thunderstorm watches were issued for north central Texas and most of Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Thunderstorms also spread across the Appalachians to the middle Atlantic Coast. Buffalo, N.Y., got 1.76 inches of rain, and Crewe, Va., near Richmond, got 1.20 inches in 30 minutes. Washington, D.C., got 1.13 inches of rain.

The North Central states were cool and temperatures only in the 50s covered most of the Great Lakes region and the Midwest.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 45 degrees at Milwaukee, Wis., to 94 degrees at Gila Bend, Ariz., and Needles., Calif.

Massacres blamed on Guatemalan military

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congressional fact-finding team, just back from a five-day trip to Guatemala, claims army massacres of civilians are continuing in some parts of the country despite a sharp drop in government-sponsored violence in other areas. The team's findings conflict with the Reagan administration's assessment that political violence attributable to the military has virtually stopped in the two months since a coup by junior officers put Gen. Efron Rios Montt in power. The three-member team's findings could stiffen congressional resistance to administration plans to resume military aid to Guatemala, where leftist guerrillas are battling for power.

"I am far less inclined to go ahead with resumption of military aid following the trip," said Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., who sent one staff aide on the fact-finding visit. The two other aides worked for Reps. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, and Gerry E. Studds D-been told, "there seems to be a refocusing of the war on the Indians in the rural areas." He said he is now "absolutely, irreversibly" against military aid to Guatemala.

Even before the trip, the administration was backing away from immediate plans to approve the sale of $2 million in military helicopter parts to Guatemala, moving instead to provide economic assistance, State Department officials said.

One official, who asked not to be identified, said economic aid to Guatemala would be announced "in the very near future" with the helicopter parts sale following in one or two months.

Key members of Congress had urged that the administration provide economic help first as a sign of approval for the reforms begun by the new president, Rios Montt. They recommended withholding military aid until the junta's policies became clearer.

U.S. military aid was cut off to Guatemala in 1977 because of the government's alleged role in hundreds of political assassinations. Rios

Montt took power in March vowing to stop the politically motivated killings and wipe out government corruption. Since then, the Reagan administration has praised the junta's success in ending "violence not directly connected to the insurgency" and has publicly suggested a resumption of military aid as a sign of support for the changes.

However, a number of mass killings involving civilians have been reported recently in the Guatemalan countryside. Although the government has blamed leftist guerrillas, the team and some witnesses have said the evidence points to the military.

In an April 25 incident, 18 people were shot to death in a house in western Guatemala. The government announced that guerrillas had committed the murders, but surviving villagers accused the army

The team reported that based on numerous interviews and visits to the countryside, it concluded that the military is continuing to massacre civilians in rural areas where guerrillas have been active.

Taxes keep on rising

Judging by political debates and nightly newscasts, most Americans probably think that they received a sizable cut in federal taxes in 1981.

In fact, they didn't. An in-depth analysis by Enterprise News Service — based on official data from the Treasury, Office of Management and Budget, and Congressional Budget Office reveals the following:

•Despite the tax package passed last year, U.S. wage-earners experienced a net increase in federal taxes - amounting to roughly $15 billion.

•Federal taxes are scheduled to keep increasing in the years ahead just as they did in '81 - and in the years preceding.

.Last year's tax "cut" is more accurately described as an effort to roll back the series of hikes – an effort that was only partially successful.

THESE FINDINGS CAST new light on the contention that the budget deficit facing us occurs because we have cut back too much on revenues. Our taxes have continued rising — though not as fast as they would have without last summer's legislation.

To see how this is possible it is necessary to understand the workings of the revenue system. As it has evolved in recent years, tax hikes are built in on an automatic basis, requiring no additional action by the Congress.

One such hike is the annual tax increase for Social Security, which went up again this January 1 and is scheduled to keep rising throughout the decade. By 1990, counting employee and employer contributions, the total Social Security levy for an average American earner will increase by more than $2,000.

Another automatic increase comes from something called "taxflation." This is the process by which inflation pushes us into higher brackets where we pay a bigger fraction of our incomes to Uncle Sam – even though our purchasing power remains the same.

THESE FACTORS TAKEN together increased the federal fax load by an estimated $270 billion between 1977 and 1980. "Taxflation" alone, if not corrected, could add an annual total of $140 billion in federal taxes between 1985 and 1990, according to figures from Data Resources, Inc.

Last year's tax package sought to counter this process of continued hikes, first through a series of rate reductions, then through so-called "indexing." Beginning in 1985, the latter feature would adjust tax brackets to ward off further tax hikes through inflation.

What the package means to individual taxpayers depends on the assumptions used, but most analysts agree it is not a "cut" just a partial rollback of an increase. Kathleen and Martin Feldstein of Harvard estimate that, even after the rate reductions are phased in, "most households will pay a larger share of their income in taxes in 1984 than they did in 1979.

Economists Stephen Meyer and Robert Rossana, associated with the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, figure that "most families will actually wind up facing higher Federal tax rates in 1983 than they did in 1980, if their dollar incomes keep pace with inflation."

Hoop snakes, jointed snakes, other jive

I don't care what my Uncle Volley used to say, I do not believe in hoop snakes

Uncle Volley and I used to sit on the back porch and he would tell whoppers. Once upon a time when I was young and impressionable - I believed in hoop snakes

But that was before Uncle Volley told me the Cow Tail Story

He told how he had taken an old cow tail and thrown it on top of a slop barrel. After a while he looked up and by george, that tail had turned into a snake and was slithering away

After that, I knew that Uncle Volley was a downand-out liar and I told him so. Well, he said sheepishly, sure nuff that story about the cow tail wasn't perzackly the pure-dee truth — it was just a tail he made up to amuse me. But hoop snakes, well that's a whole nother story, he said, and true to boot. He had actually seen a hoop snake with his own eyes

NOW FOR ALL you greenhorns, a hoop snake supposedly moves around all over the country by taking its tail in its mouth and rolling along like a hoop. Kind of like a living Hula Hoop rolling merrily along.

Honestly! How many times have you been driving down I-20 and looked over your shoulder and seen a hoop snake rolling down the cotton fields?

But there are people who swear by them. I think they must all belong to the Secret Order of the Hoop Snake Story Snorters, in which all members swear an oath never to admit that the hoop snake is a fabrication of their imagination.

THE ONLY THING worse than a group of hoop snake story tellers is a group of Jointed Snake jive artists. They belong to a separate order of story telling knights, all dedicated to the perpetuation of viper myths.

Their tale is that the Jointed Snake is a small black snack constructed like a cane, or an oldfashioned fishing pole, with sections of its body held together by joints. The legend is that if this type reptile is struck with a hoe or heavy object it. will fly into several pieces. Later the pieces will reassemble and the snake will eventually become whole again and crawl away.

Somehow, to me, it's a story that falls apart.

However, I have an open mind. If any of you have actually seen a hoop snake or a jointed snake with your own eyes, write me, bring me a picture, or better yet, bring the snake itself and we'll take a picture of it and run it on the front page of the newspaper. No lie

The National Journal, a respected research publication in the nation's capital, puts it that "no category of taxpayer will have a significantly lower tax burden in 1984 than 1977." (See table.) Similar conclusions come from economists at the W.R. Grace Co. and the Office of Tax Analysis at the Treasury.

The bottom line: Federal taxes have not been cut. They have increased and are increasing - and if revenue measures currently before the Congress are adopted, they will increase still further.

A time to arm?

I spent most of my life in a small Texas town where people are hospitable and it is a major crime wave when teen-agers steal street signs to decorate their bedroom walls. T know now that the open door, the keys left in the car ignition, the long walks to piano lessons lent a sense of freedom to my childhood.

But it's not like that in many places. For most people, life is locked and alarmed. It has to be. There is robbery; arson, assault, all the usual. every day. We worry about noises and strangers in the neighborhood.

We have adjusted, albeit reluc-tantly, to a choking inhibition in everyday life. Only now I think more and more about my own self-defense. I have yet to adjust to that.

EVERY DAY in the newspaper there are fascinating stories about guns. Last Tuesday a 12-year-old boy in Washington killed his mother, critically wounded his father and then was himself killed with a gun

Last year there was the three-yearold boy in rural Maryland who shot his mother with a .357-caliber Magnum he thought was a toy. "Is this what I pull mommy?" he asked before the bullet entered her chest.

Another .357-caliber Magnum pistol accidentally discharged and killed a 16-year-old boy in Arlington when a man, investigating a noise in his yard, found the boy talking to his three teenage stepdaughters.

These are perfect anti-gun pieces, highlighting every horrifying reason I can list against owning a gun: Children. Innocence. Accident.

It's not a friendly world, people say. And they're right. It makes sense to have some protection ... but often the means to protect our loved ones is the means of their death.

THEN THERE IS Chip Eliot who, in words filled with regret, wrote an Esquire story that included just about every reason I can list in favor of owning a gun: Criminals. Danger. Self-defense.

Eliot went from lamenting handguns to owning handguns in ten weeks. He experienced our worst fears. His life was replete with robberies, muggings, car burnings.

Eliot bought a gun and used it simply to protect his "right to walk around town with a lousy $35 in my pocket and not be afraid for my life. He is a man bitter at a forced choice between being victimized or armed.

Most of us have gotten used to living behind locked doors but don't want to get used to living with guns. The fear of accident, the maiming, murderous mistake is still greater than the fear of crime

Yet how easily the fears can change. How easily we add one more instrument to the community arsenal. We have adapted to other detestable, stupid situations. And we can adapt to this one. Not all of us. Not yet.

Dear Editor,

In reference to your article in the newspaper May 11, 1982 about Mr. Heflin's objections to the Commissioners Court allowing Mrs. Arsiaga to attend a three-day seminar which will be held in Odessa, Texas. It is my understanding that this type of seminar is available to any Justice Court Clerk that has a desire to go if the Commissioners Court will pay for it. It is my understanding that the Commissioners pay only for gas allowance to the Peace justices and the Justice of the Peace Association pays for the rest. Correct me if I'm wrong.

When Mrs. Linda Arsiaga chose to run against Mr. Heflin I campaigned for her. I am proud to say that through it all she remained non-commital when questions or suppositions were made about Mr. Heflin. She maintained allegiance to anyone or anything associated with the courthouse. I campaigned for her because I felt the need for someone of her caliber and qualifications was needed. Unfortunately not everyone felt as I. It was truly a shame that so few showed their strength through voting. I cannot help but feel devastated by tood" (Proverbs 16:29). It also says 'My son, "if sinners entice thee, consent thou not !!! My son, walk not thou in the way with them, refrain thy foot from their path" (Proverbs 1:10,

The first step for you is to turn your life over to Jesus Christ, and let him become the center of your life. God loves you, and he wants you to follow him and be his child. He has a perfect plan for your life which is far greater than anything you will ever be able to discover apart from him. You may have felt at first that there would be adventure following the crowd, but Christ offers you the greatest adventure of all - the adventure of being his disciple and following him all your life. So turn to him. God sent his Son to die for your sins, so you can be forgiven and come into a personal relationship with him.

Then you will need to take practical steps to deal with the temptations you now face. You may well need to separate yourself from your companions. That is not easy, but trust God to give you new companions who will not only be good friends and good influences on you, but will also help you grow spiritually. Ask God to lead you to Christians who can help you.

Remeber what Jesus Christ did for you. He was willing to die on the Cross alone, rejected by the world. We too may sometimes have that same sense of rejection as we follow him, but that must not worry us or cause us to turn our backs on him. "Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame ... Consider him who endured such opposition from sinful men, so that you will not grow weary and lose heart" (Hebrews 12:2-3).

Welcome back to Austin

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - Dear State Legislators: Welcome back to Austin. There are worse places to be in late May, but there are better places, too.

Depending on your hometown and your personal and professional status, you may or may not be happy to be here

If you're from Dullsville, need a break from the family and won't suffer any personal financial loss by temporarily abandoning your professional pursuits, our little special session may be just what you need.

If you're involved in a political campaign this year, the special session could be an opportunity to demagogue and try to convince the voters that you're up here saving them from the horrors of the state property tax.

Some pesky reporters likely will point out that you're saving them from tax that hasn't been collected for years and isn't likely to be. But don't let that stop you from claiming credit and helping your campaign - Gov. Bill Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby won't.

Even if you don't need campaign help and you're happy at home, Austin can be a nice place to make the best of the situation

University of Texas students have finished finals, and most have left town. That means restaurants, bars and theaters won't be as crowded.

If things become too dull for you in the Capitol, you can walk down Congress Avenue to the State Theater and see "Clash of the Titans" for $1.50. No, it's not about your reelection fight.

You'll also be disappointed if you go to some moredistant theaters thinking these films are about politics or the special session: "Wrong is right," "Parasite," "Sleeper," "Silent Rage," and "Deathtrap." Also, don't go see "Polyester" thinking it's a legislative fashion show.

"Conan the Barbarian" is the most popular movie here right now, but it might be too tame for someone used to the ways of the Texas Legislature.

Most of your favorite restaurants and watering holes from the 1981 session have survived and have eagerly awaited your business

You may be disappointed if you liked to toss down the booze at the Cowboy nightspot near the Capitol. The place now is called Dooley's and features young-set stuff, such as a bicycle and a canoe hanging from the ceiling, lots of video games and pita-bread sandwiches filled with sprouts and such.

Actually, the drinks and sandwiches are pretty good, and you might enjoy the place if your legislative dignity doesn't suffer too much.

If you're into the get-healthy craze, you'll find the jogging paths near the Colorado River uncrowded since the students left.

But watch where you step. It's trendy among Austin joggers to take their dogs along. You shouldn't have any problems, though, if you've been through a few legislative sessions, where dodging such obstacles is considered an art form.

The weatherman is predicting some rough times for the next week or so in the Austin area, with thunderstorms expected to dump more water on the already-wet ground and possibly cause some flooding.

You will be safe on Capitol hill, of course, but we hope those dark clounds hanging over the Capitol this spring aren't an omen of how the special session will go. Again, welcome back.

Houston's troubled hospitals

By ANDREW M. WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Hospitals for the poor here lead the nation in two areas in which its administrators would just as soon finish second - delivering babies and treating emergency room cases.

Caught between a tenant that won't vacate three floors and a three-story hospital annex closed by fire code violations, Jefferson Davis Hospital has begun releasing many mothers and their newborns within 24 hours of birth. The hospital will deliver more than 15,000 babies this year, assistant administrator Alan MacDonald said.

"We've passed Los Angeles County for the past couple of years," MacDonald said of the number of births. "But I don't think either one of us wants to win.'

The hospital's overcrowding problems have been critical since March, when fire department inspectors forced the hospital to close an annex with 42 of its 150 beds, citing code violations including the lack of a sprinkler system, ventilation deficiencies and narrow stairwells. Ben Taub Hospital, Harris County's other hospital for the poor, has no fire code problems but is every bit as crowded

Patients with a variety of gashes, gouges and fractures were packed into Ben Taub's emergency room last fiscal year at a rate more than twice what that facility was designed to hold, health officials say himself. We have patients waiting on beds all the time," said Mike Bullard, administrator at Ben Taub. "We could easily admit many more patients if we lowered our standards even a little bit. 'You've got to be very, very sick to get into Ben Taub.'' Richard Durbin, head of the agency in charge of Harris County's two charity hospitals, said 114,027 emergency cases were treated last fiscal year in a facility designed to accommodate 50,000. That makes it the busiest hospital emergency room in the nation, Durbin said. One complaint that will get you to the front of the line in an emergency room where patients frequently outstrip PHONE space in surgery and outnumber nurses 20-1 is repeated 263-7331 cardiac arrest. Develop that and you will travel a tortuous path -nurses and attendants will wheel you down a corridor, Climber dies on Everest bast a visitors' area and take you up one floor with someone performing open heart massage the while.

"What you wind up with is everyone running down the hall, yelling 'Hold that elevator' with their hand in a chest," said Cheryl Bautsch, who directed Ben Taub's emergency room for five years.

She resigned in exasperation last November, complaining that administrators would not replace what she said were unreliable life-saving machines - defibrillators, used to shock a stopped heart back into action.

The hospital district is responsible for the physical health needs of 517,000 impoverished people in two hospitals and a handful of neighborhood clinics. Patients wait an average of three months for non-emergency surgery, Durbin said.

Dr. John Griffith, the only full-time examining psychiatrist in the county's mental health agency, said there were also serious manpower shortages and dangerously long waits in treating the mentally disturbed. If your friends and neighbors report to the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Authority that you're acting strangely, Griffith says, it will be four to six weeks before doctors will be able to examine you.

Than Van Nguyen was one man who couldn't wait. A mental health warrant was issued for the arrest of the 25-year-old Vietnamese immigrant March 16 after worrelatives reported his threats to kill them and

Life in space'll be Spartan

By STEVE BREWER Associated Press Writer

EL PASO (AP) — If man ever colonizes space, life up there won't be as free and easy as some science fiction writers predict, says a researcher at the University of Texas at El Paso.

Ellwyn Stoddard, a professor of sociology and anthropology at UTEP since 1965, has been studying the possible social structures of space communities and he thinks space pioneers will have to answer to a strong central authority and give up many of their individual freedoms

"Most of the people in this field have the mistaken idea that the farther we get away from Earth, the further we will be from Earth institutions," Stoddard said. "That's the last thing that will happen in space.'

Although Stoddard is sure of his theories, he admits that studying the social life of space colonists is primarily speculation. His most recent paper on the subject is a blend of what is known and what is anticipated, drawing from both sociological sources and science fiction.

"I'm an avid science fiction reader," he said. "That's not easy. I have my heroes, like (author) Isaac Asimov, that I have to take to task on this.'

Stoddard said most science fiction writers express the "liberal ideology" of space pioneers' being rugged individualists with a freedom of choice that he believes won't exist

The liberal view is shared by many people in the space sciences, he said.

"I first presented this paper to the American Astronomical Society, which is dominated by space engineers and, well, idealists who say we have to learn to live in space so that we'll be able to escape when we blow up the world," he said. "This was not really the thing they wanted to hear.

Stoddard believes, first of all, that while colonizing space is an attractive idea, it will be a long time coming if it happens at all. The reason is money. He said economic resources will not be turned to taming the wilds of space until after problems here on Earth - particularly energy are solved.

But if Earth can afford the ventures into space, the pioneers will need a structure for their social interaction and that's where Stoddard's theories come in.

There's little hard information to work from, he said, because there have been no projects where fairly large numbers of people worked together in space with some autonomy from Earth.

"The Skylab kind of thing does not tell us what a non-Earth colony will be like," he said. "It only tells us what a group of scientists in space will be like. . . It's very dependent on Earth. It's always going to be a messenger

"A lot of people have talked about establishing a colony on Mars because it is probably the least harsh of the other environments in the Solar System. But Mars isn't exactly next door. You go a further distance from Earth and you have to be autonomous.

Stoddard worked with two models in writing his paper, which will appear in the fall edition of Space Journal. One is for colonizing space relatively close to Earth and the other is a "doomsday mode.

"I say doomsday mode because I don't know of any other reason for throwing a man out of the galaxy," he said. "There are two ways of thinking about how we would select people to carry on our civilization after we blow up the world. One version would be an Earth microcosm, like a little United Nations. If you put, say, 10,000 people on the colony, you would put some of every kind of person to broaden the genetic pool.

The other possibility is placing the "best and the brightest," the experts in various fields, aboard the

In both cases, a dictatorial central authority would be needed to run the operation, he said. In the first example, it would be necessary because "these people aren't any more apt to get along with each other than in the UN." It." would be needed in the second model because of the, 'prima donna'' nature of those chosen.

In colonies set up by an Earth that did not destroy itself, a strong authority still will be needed because the precarious existence in space will require it, Stoddard, said.

"Space is inhospitable and unforgiving," he said. "The more critical the survival is, the more centralized your family life. It's too costly.'

social system is going to be."

He compares the system to the wagon trains that took settlers West. To stay with the group, the settlers had to give total control to the wagonmaster, even if it meant giving up their personal freedoms.

"The frontier society, not modern society, approximates the model of space societies," he said. "The survival of the total society has to be secure. Only when survival of the society is safe enough will there be individual freedoms.

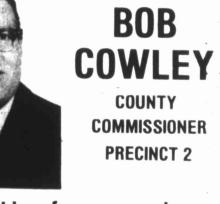

Stoddard predicts some specific systems for particular types of colonies. Again, science fiction comes into play. Stoddard even gives the types whimsical names 'like 'I Factory Town, Space Prison and Ore-ville.

Three of the types, an orbiting prison, a hospital and a military base, would be run much like they are on Earth, with one "boss" that everyone answers to and a range of understructures.

But life in a space factory or mining operation would be much different from working in their Earth counterparts, he said. For example, there would be little or no recreational or family life.

'We're not going to have families sent up, too," he predicted. "We're not going to have normal family life. In space, it's too costly

At Ore-ville, his imaginary mining operation, "the structure would be very, very rigid, like a military base! It would be like a prison with a sort of goluntary membership.

PEKING (AP) - Marty Hoey, lone woman member of an American expedition trying to climb Mount Everest, has died in a fall about 2,400 feet below the summit, the official news Xinhua said agency

Saturday. Ms. Hoey fell on May 15 while approaching the expedition's camp No. 6 at 26,600 feet on the 29,028-foot mountain, the world's highest, Xinhua said. The accident led to abandonment of the group's first planned assault on the summit, the news agency said. Xinhua said the second and final assault is planned Monday

Word of Ms. Hoey's death was reported by expedition leader Lou Whittaker of Tacoma, Wash., after he descended to the base camp on May 19, Xinhua said.

A message received Saturday in Peking from the China-Everest Rainier expedition said it planned to break base camp on May 30 and reach the Tibetan capital of Lhasa by June 2, arriving in Peking by June 5.

Storms cause crop damage

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Most of Texas now has good soil moisture to boost young crops and forages following widespread rains the past week.

While the rains brought much-needed moisture to western areas, they also caused some flooding and crop losses in some locations.

Heavy rains and hail destroyed some 1,200 acres of corn, cotton and vegetables in Southwest Texas and damaged another 1500 acres, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Heavy rains in some central and coastal areas along with recent cool weather also have damaged cotton and grain sorghum, and a considerable amount will be replanted.

The rains also delayed the wheat harvest in Southwest Texas and the Coastal Bend and caused a slowdown in hay harvesting in eastern areas and in alfalfa harvesting in western sections.

In addition, some fruit was lost due to heavy rains and high winds in North Central Texas.

Some early peaches are now being harvested in eastern areas and in Gillespie County in the Texas Hill Country, said Pfannstiel. This year's peach crop generally looks good although it is lighter than expected in some locations.

Cottoon planting is active in the South Plains, where more than half the state's cotton is grown, and in Far West Texas and the Trans-Pecos area. Planting will start May 20 in the Rolling Plains and about May 24 in West Central Texas, according to uniform planting dates that are part of a coordinated effort to control boll weevils.

While some young crops and pastures are off to a good start, most need warm weather and sunshine, noted Pfannstiel.

Livestock conditions generally are good although ranchers in South Texas are concerned about the first case of screwworms in about a year. The case was reported May 18 near the boundary of Starr and Hidalgo counties.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Rains over much of the area should boost ranges and young crops. However, most dryland wheat needs more moisture. Some hail caused scattered damage to wheat. Cotton planting has started and should increase as field conditions permit. Corn and sugar beets look good but have been slowed by cool weather. Ranges are responding rapidly to improved moisture conditions.

SOUTH PLAINS: Planting moisture is still short over parts of the region, but cotton planting is in full swing in many counties. Irrigated corn and wheat are making good progress but dryland wheat is still in poor shape. Sugar beets look fair. Ranges are improving rapidly where rains have fallen.

ROLLING PLAINS: Rains have generally provided good moisture for cotton planting which will start May 20 — the uniform planting date — as part of a coordinated effort to control boll weevils. Wheat is ripening and harvesting will start about June 1. Cattle on graze-out wheat are in excellent shape and stock tanks are full.

NORTH CENTRAL: Rust continues to be a problem in both wheat and oats, and insects are increasing in young cotton and grain sorghum. Recent heavy rains and high winds damaged some fruit and vegetable crops. Livestock and grazing conditions are good to excellent.

Bealls

NORTHEAST: Heavy rains have damaged some wheat and young corn, cotton and vegetables. Some cotton is still being planted. A few first cuttings of hay are under way. Some early peaches are maturing and melons look good. Crops and pastures needsunshine.

FAR WEST: Farmers are busy planting cotton following recent rains. First cuttings of alfalfa are being harvested, with some damage due to rains. Livestock and grazing conditions are improving; sheep shearing is active. Peach and pecan crops look good.

WEST CENTRAL: Grain sorghum and hay crops are making good growth and farmers are getting ready to plant peanuts. Wheat is about 75 percent headed and prospects have improved with recent rains. Cotton planting will start about May 24, the uniform planting date, as part of a coordinated effort to control boll weevils. Early peaches are being harvested in Gillespie County; prices are good. Livestock are in good shape.

CENTRAL: Some cotton will have to be replanted due to damage from heavy rains and cool weather. Rust continues to cause considerable damage in wheat. All crops and pastures need warm weather and sunshine. Some oats are being baled for hay.

EAST: Some corn and vegetables are in poor shape due to flooding and cool weather. First hay cuttings have been harvested in some areas. Early peaches are being harvested and pecans are setting nutlets. Livestock and grazing conditions are improved. Livestock prices are up some.

UPPER COAST: Flooding from heavy rains has damaged some young crops, and some fields will have to be replanted. Farmers in Waller County are getting land ready to plant peanuts. Grazing conditions are improving. Producers are spraying pecans to control casebearers.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Heavy rains have damaged some young cotton and grain sorghum, and some fields will have to be replanted. Wheat and hay harvesting will get under way as field conditions improve. Some early peaches are being harvested. Crops and pastures need warm, open weather.

SOUTHWEST: Heavy rains and hail caused extensive crop losses. Some 1200 acres of corn, cotton and vegetables were lost and another 1500 acres were damaged. Wet fields are delaying wheat and onion harvesting. Grain sorghum is heading but most cotton does not look good due to cool weather. Livestock have excellent grazing.

COASTAL BEND: Cotton and rice need warm, open weather. Grain sorghum is starting to head. Some 5,000 acres of sorghum have been lost to yellow sugarcane aphids in Lavaca County. Most corn looks good but early soybeans have been hurt by too much rain. Wheat harvesting has started. Peaches will be ready to pick soon. Pecans are being sprayed for casebearers.

SOUTH: Corn and grain sorghum are making good progress. Cotton needs hot, open weather. Cucumbers, onions, beans, cabbage and carrots continue to be harvested, with other vegetables making good growth. Only about 5 percent of the late oranges remain to be harvested. Ranges are furnishing good grazing. The first screwworm case in Texas in about a year was reported May 18 near the Starr-Hidalgo County line.

Fuel from cotton gin trash?

What do you do with cotton gin trash besides have as much of it as there is of baled cotton?

A chemical engineer at Texas Tech is developing the technology for the production of fuel grade ethanol from that trash.

Cotton gin trash has a high cellulose content that can be broken down into soluble sugars for fermentation to ethanol. Even the most modest estimates indicate the production potential for 40-50 million gallons of ethanol per year from Texas cotton gins.

This type of new technology, together with many others, tried and true systems and equipments, will be on display in Houston, June 1 to 5, at the Albert Thomas Exhition Hall.

The conference and exhibition is called "The Renewable Challenge" and is emphasizing nenewable resources for agricultural applications.

Among the nearly 300 exhibits are displays of solar grain drying, small scale alcohol production, solar assisted petroleum extraction, a pavilion on wind energy, and a variety of solar electric configurations for more isolated operations. There will be products and systems from all over the world; many from countries such as Japan and Israel that depend heavily on renewable resources for their energy.

Gov. William Clements has declared the week of May 31 to June 6 Renewable Energy Week in Texas, and there will be a variety of events, workshops, and product demonstrations connected with the trade fair.

Coahoma

By TOMMY McDANIEL

Wallis 82-83 council president

Coahoma graduation will take place on Tuesday, May 25. This year graduation will be different because of a decision by the senior class to hold the event in Bulldog Stadium. Salutatorian this year is Louise Shive. Louise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Shive. Leisa Reid is the Valedictorian. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Reid. T. Joe Shirley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Joe Shirley, is the High Ranking Boy. Graduation will begin at 8 p.m.

Student Council Officer and Representative Elections were held last week for next year. Kathi Wallis was elected as Student Council President. Dee Cagle was elected first vice president. Chosen as second vice president was Vickie Buchanan. Jana Higgins was selected as parliamentarian-reporter. Senior representatives for the 1981-82 school year are Tommy McDaniel, Lisa Musser, James Gilbert, and Debbie Kirkpatrick. Junior representatives are Orlando Muniz, Dana Souter, Charles Calvert, and Janna Griffin. Shawn Justiss, Kristi Wyrick, Victor Dela Cruz, and Leslie Fisher were chosen as sophomore representatives. Serving their first year in high school, freshman representatives are Johnny Helm, Lois Hardison, and Shellie Dorn.

The Big Red Band Banquet was held Tuesday night at the La Posada. A buffet was served and the speaker was Lane Scott, a former band director from Ozona. Highlights were given by John Gibson, and he presented the John Phillip Sousa Award. Receiving the award were joint winners Kelli Birkhead and Louise Shive.

The colorguard will meet Monday in the band hall to measure for uniforms next year. The meeting will take place at 3:30 and flags are reminded to bring the money that they owe.

The Coahoma FFA Chapter held their annual banquet Thursday night. The crowd was fed barbecue and treated to a film that had been taken throughout the year. Awards were also given that night. Rickie Long, president, received the President's Plaque along with being chosen as Top Showman. Mike Hodnett, chapter secretary was chosen as the Star Chapter Farmer. Jeff Clifton won The Lamb Feeder Award, while Greg Parrish was chosen as Star Greenhand. Bryan Murphree was chosen as the Top Swine Showman, and Greg Blyth was chosen for the Top Poultry Feeder Award. Senior Bruce Meyers received the Ag Mechanics honor, and Jesse Metcalf walked away with the Senior Award. David Neff received the Top Salesman Award for selling several thousands of dollars worth of turkeys and fruit last fall. Mike Griffith won the Leadership Award. Renee Balckwell received the Horse Proficiency Award that she won at the Area II contest last week. She also received her Lone Star Farmer Degree. All first year ag students were awarded their Greenhand buttons, and all second year students were given their Chapter Farmer buttons. Also recognized during the program were honorary members. Those elected were Jake Parrish, John Ezell, Rob Ethridge, and Mary Womack. Maride Ethridge and Shanna Souter were also given gifts to thank them for their help with the banquet. Advisor Stanley Blackwell was also given a plaque

White House still waiting on interest rate

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — By its own admission, the best laid economic plans of the White House might not produce a strong recovery if interest rates remain at their extraordinarilly high levels.

Economists of almost every persuasion agree. And by their actions, so apparently do leaders of lending institutions, industrial corporations, farmers, smallbusiness operators, and savers large and small.

But even more depressing is the failure to achieve any consensus about the reason why rates remain so high, and the public exasperation and confusion of those you might expect to understand the situation.

On almost any day you may find government blaming money markets, money markets blaming the Federal Reserve, the Fed blaming spenders, and potential spenders blaming uncertain fiscal and monetary policies. According to President Ronald Reagan, money markets are not convinced the government will hold the line against inflation and excessive spending. Henry Kaufman, the interest rate guru, tends to disagree.

They are high because credit markets have been revolutionized by deregulation that in turn let loose an unprecedented flow of new types of credit instruments: negotiable certificates of deposit, floating rate loans, zero coupon bonds, variable interest rate mortgages, money market funds, NOW accounts, indexed bonds. You get the point.

Simultaneously, he maintains, there has been a "liberalization of credit standards and practices," which is another way of saying that money has been lent to customers who once would have been turned down.

The result has been a growth of debt in the United States to $4.5 trillion at the end of 1981, "three times the $1.5 trillion of 1970," Kaufman told the Association of Inter-

"Why shouldn't interest rates be high," states Kaufman "when the growth of debt is excessive, when quality is more questionable than in the past and when participants have the capacity to innovate Rates are high not because of inflationary expectations or economic growth or some notion that there is a mystical, normal interest rate, says Kaufman, a partner national Bond Dealers yesterday. in the Salomon Brothers investment house

Panel sets guidelines for artificial hearts

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - A special University of Utah review subcommittee has completed new proposed eligibility guidelines for heart patients wanting to receive the school's artificial heart.

University spokesman John Dwan said Thursday the guidelines would be submitted Monday to the university's Institutional Review Board for consideration.

If the board approves the guidelines, they will be sent to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, which would have 30 days in which to reject or give final approval of them, Dwan said. University officials refuse to release the new guidelines, but Dwan said they are to be broadened expanded to include some patients who suffer from an inoperable heart disease called cardiomyopia.

Dwan said he expects the board to approve the guidelines, since five members of the subcommittee also are members of the 13-member board.

The board's vote on the guidelines will be open to the public, he said.

The board agreed to review a request to expand the criteria after Dr. William C. DeVries, chief of cardiothoracic surgery and the only university surgeon authorized to implant the heart, asked that they be Dale Lott, a Florida man who suffers from an inoperable degenerative heart condition, threatened to sue the university because he was denied eligibility to receive the heart under the old guidelines.

Guidelines approved by the FDA last fall specified that the device be implanted only in patients whose hearts stop while on the operating table and cannot be restarted. In such a case, the patient would have died without the heart, officials had said.

and even years, university officials have operations.

It's not known if the new guidelines would affect Lott's eligibility to receive the heart, Dwan said.

DeVries has said that candidates chosen to receive the heart would have to talk to a social worker, a psychiatrist and physicians who would explain the risks beforehand.

The recipient would have to spend the rest of his life tethered by air hoses to a compressor that powers the heart, DeVries said. Artificial hearts have been implanted in humans twice before, both times by Dr. Some victims of degernative heart Denton A. Cooley in Houston. Footnotes from the County Library

Loan system for readers' use

By REBBECCA TAYLOR Reference Librarian

The interlibrary loan program is perhaps the most visible presence of the Texas State Library System at the local level. The Howard County Library makes this service and a number of others available to the local patron by maintaining membership in the system.

For those of you who have never used the ILL (interlibrary loan) service, here is a brief example of how it works. Let's say that a farmer in Howard County wants to go into goat raising on the side. He knows a little about raising goats, but not enough to invest money in it. He comes to the county library to see what he can find, but there are only one or two general books

He then asks the reference librarian if there might be something available at another library. The librarian has two choices: (1) make a subject request asking for in depth information on raising goats as a business or (2) let the farmer look at a list of titles of books in print to choose those that appear most appropriate.

The librarian telephones Lubbock City-County Library and makes the request. Lubbock sends or reserves what materials they own on goat raising. If more information is required or if the book ordered is not owned by Lubbock, the request is sent via computer network to other libraries across Texas and the United States. Our requests have been filled by libraries from Florida to California

Recently, the State Library System has suffered cutbacks in budget. The result will be a cutback un services. The system needs to know which services are most valuable to the library user.

To help in this, some ILL users are receiving surveys to see how useful this service is to them. Among other questions is this one: How much will patrons be willing to pay if there were a charge for the Interlibrary Loan Service? If further cutbacks in funds are in the future for libraries, many free services may have to be abandoned or made fee-based. This would effectively ban a portion of the community from needed services. Remember, "Libraries will get you

Astronaut is against space weapons assigned to operate a Defense Department payload in SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - One of the astronauts who will operate the space shuttle's first military payload next month said Friday he hopes space never becomes a potential battlefield.

"I would personally hate to see weapons introduced into space," said Henry Hartsfield, who will pilot the shuttle Columbia's fourth and final test, a seven-day mission set to start June 27.

"Space is a new frontier, important to all of us," Har-tsfield told reporters. "National defense has its place there, but I'd hate to see it become a potential battlefield.'

He said many shuttle flights in the future will carry military cargo. But he added they would not be weapons, but payloads for communications, navigation, surveillance and other military defense assignments.

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, SUNDAY, MAY 23, 1982

4's twice end playoffs in 3

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

DENTON - Irony and sports go hand in hand like high school sweethearts. The Big Spring Steers have no love, however, for the role irony played in Friday's bi-district doubleheader here at Denton High's ballpark.

Not having been shut out all season and having only previously claimed no team in Texas could accomplish said feat, the Steers bowed out of the state AAAAA baseball playoffs when Kevin Hooper blanked them 4-0 in the decisive game of their best-ofthree series

Denton took advantage of mid-game pitching woes by Adam Rodriquez to score all its runs and win the opener 4-1, evening the series at that point one game each and sending the playoff into its rubber game.

The Steers end their season at 24-11 while Denton takes an 18-5 record a step further in the playoffs against Fort Worth Southwest. Not only was it ironic that Big Spring concluded its season being zeroed for the first time but that Hooper was the man to turn the trick. The Denton High senior had been the goat Tuesday in absorbing the brunt of a 6-0 loss to Big Spring. The Steers were ready to ride the Bronco fastball again Friday but Hooper bucked that idea.

A single by Blake Rosson in the third inning and a double by David Anguiano in the sixth were the only hits the Steers could manage off Hooper. Despite pitching in draining humidity that weighed down like a leaden hand on players and fans alike, Hooper managed to keep his cool until the seventh inning when he walked the bases full with two out.

The Steers had one final chance when Tom Olague stepped into the batter's box as the tying run in the game. After going high on several pitches when he walked into trouble, Hooper kept the ball down and induced Olague to roll a swing up the middle. Second baseman Keith Cullum was there, scooped up the ball, carefully tagged second for the force-out and Denton gloves filled the sky above the diamond

"I was scaring myself to death," Hooper said of his seventh inning struggle. "They (the Big Spring fans) were yelling and we were yelling and you get so nervous out there. I tell you what, they are the most disciplined team I've ever pitched against in my life.

Hooper had walked just two before the seventh and struck out six for the game.

"Kevin did a real good job," said Denton coach Tommy Blair. "For the most part, except for that last inning, he threw strikes. Big Spring hit the ball well but right at us."

Big Spring went with Moe Rubio, the hero of 'Tuesday' 6-0 win at home. Not used to pitching with only two full days rest especially not under balmy 86-degree heat, Rubio was much less his usual self on the mound. Denton tagged him for seven basehits before an injury forced his unexpected departure in the sixth inning.

Looking stronger since the third inning when he gave up his last run, Rubio was hit by a rocket shot off the hat of Bart Rue. The ball glanced on his right shin and after he almost made the play at first, the senior hurler crumbled to the grass in agony

After being helped from the field, Rubio was propped up in the dugout with a massive tape-job mummifying his leg and watched junior Jinx Valenzuela complete the game without giving up any further runs.

Denton already had scored all the runs it needed. Clark Cole lined a single up the middle in the first inning to score Todd Carlisle with the only run the Broncs would need for the afternoon. Two more came across in the second as Tim Sutton scored on a throwing error by Rosson and Carlisle collected his third RBI of the day with a double. Another undearned run scored in third as Mark Cole singled in the game's final tally

The Steer offense hadn't fared much better in the first game. Mark Cole limited Big Spring to just four hits with the only run the first of the game - coming on Tom Cudd's lead-off home run in the second inning on 13 tries. Most of his runs came by making the corner and turning upfield, while field partner Stephen used bursts of strength up the middle to pile his yardage. Harris has been looking to his defensive crew to make the big plays next fall and several were made Saturday. In the second quarter, linebacker George Bancroft of the Gold team intercepted a pass at his own two and returned it to the Black 43 before being pulled down. Another potential Black drive was snuffed out when Scott Eggleston - the converted linebacker - intercepted in his own end zone in the third quarter. Still, though, there were times when the secondary personnel were beaten badly and Harris had a thought about that.

ween the Black and Gold Saturday afternoon was that everyone wearing helmets, jerseys and cleats will be on the same Big Spring Steer roster next fall.

Although the Black squad dominated the Gold 48-22 in a far more offensive game than head coach Ralph Harris could have dreamed about. there was a feeling of excitement that next starting squads on offense and defense will be composed of the best players from both Saturday's units.

"There certainly was a lot more offense than I thought there would be," said Harris after the scrimmage. "It's hard to be rational in a scrimmage like this but we wanted the kids to hit, hustle, have fun and make some things happen."

The offense units of both teams made things happen indeed. Senior running back Danny Stephen plowed over the Gold defense for 120 yards on 17 carries and scored two touchdowns. Even more impressive to Harris was the performance of Black guarterbakck Dean Gartman.

Gartman rushed eight times for 77 yards in the first quarter and later scored on a oneyard run. When he went to the air, Gartman found targets seven times for 144 yards. One of the completions was a 68-yard bomb to Scott Griffin and another was a 13-yard completion to Alan Trevino, both going for touchdowns

For the Gold team, quarterback Adam Rodriguez showed improvement as the scrimmage went on as he faced hard contact for the first time this spring. In the final quarter when the Gold team scored twice. he hit a 30-yarder to Billy Thompson and a 20-yard to John Roemer.

Another promising back was Eric Sherman of the Black team who gained 77 yards

"We have got to get better in the secondary," he said. "We got a little out of our pass offense but that concerns you in a scrimmage like this.

The quarterbacks were under pressure many times unless the escaped the pocket rush by rolling out. "We still are weak on our offensive and defensive lines," Harris agreed

Most of the errors the coaching staff saw Harris thinks will disappear with more practice. "Some of the fumbles on snaps and handoffs come in situations that don't concern me too much. Those things repitition will overcome.

Looking back on the past three weeks, Harris is glad drills have closed. Although he was pleased with his team's attention span, he knew it was hard especially as the end of the school year drew near.

"Now what we need is committment from our young men to work on things this summer. If they work hard, then we can get after ole Snyder," he added.

The only serious injury in the scrimmage was possible damage to Fabian Salazar's right knee

START OF A GREAT SEASON? - Rodriquez had to forget about Friday's bitter disappointment and return to the football field Saturday afternoon for the annual Black and Gold Game. Rodriquez (11) directed the Gold team at guarterback but Scott Griffin's (89) Black team won 48-22.

Greg Jaklewicz

Welcome back, Mr. Rodriguez

"Adam Rodriguez isn't it? The baseball pitcher? Right. My name's Scott Griffin. Coach Wall calls me 'Hoss.' What we play out here is football. When a guy like you throws it, you just can't stand there and watch. You might get hit. In fact, you might get hit before you throw it. Hard. Oh, you're a little sore already? That's good. That's what football is all about. Nice to bump shoulder pads with you, Adam. And hey, let me brush off some of that grass out from under your tongue. Good things, helmets are, huh? Well, got to get back into my huddle. Tell those linemen of yours to block better. We can't go on meeting like this."

I'm not sure if defensive end Scott Griffin got in all those words while he was enveloping Gold quarterback Adam Rodriguez Saturday afternoon on several quarterback traps. He might only have had time to say, "Welcome back to big-time football, Adam.'

Regardless if my quotes are exact, Rodriquez joined the ranks of ordinary Saturday. For three weeks he's been as carefully protected from injury as the bald eagle is from rifle-bearers. He was an endangered species of sort, as he split his sports time wearing a football helmet and baseball cap. When Denton rallied to win Friday's bidistrict series, it took the name "Rodriquez, A." off the "handle with care" list and put it on the Black team's "hit" list. And boy did he land with some thuds.

Despite the heavy hits and a right arm already sore from throwing baseballs Friday, Adam survived. In fact, as the final spring scrimmage went on, his quarterbacking skills improved. His passes became sharper, his decisions on the option quicker and his determination greater.

Although he's tops on the list for the quarterbacking job next fall, Adam can't afford to let up at all. Also impressive Saturday was another senior-to-be, Dean Gartman. Gartman's passes looked better too and he reeled off some good runs including a 47-yarder early in the contest.

But let's hear for the baseball players who stepped off the diamond and onto the gridiron without so much as stumbling. Outfielder Danny Stephen ran for 120 yards and played some mean linebacker for the Blacks. Receiver Alan Trevino - who chases flies in the outfield also - caught a touchdown pass and played aggressively in the secondary for the Blacks.

Another good thing about having some baseball guys on the football team is perhaps the winning attitude developed this spring in baseball will dilute itself among the football team.

Now if Ralph Harris can keep from having Adam diluted all over the playing field by his own teammates, the Steers will be okay.

A special request. James Walker was having difficulty holding all the tears back Friday after the loss to Denton. But despite his feelings, he asked if he could thank the Elks Lodge for sending his mother and family to the game on the chartered bus. It meant a lot to him he said and spoke well of the local Elks.

Nice going, gentlemen.

Celtics stun Sixers, 88-75

AERIAL BATTLE — Boston Celtics Larry Bird, foreground, and Philadelphia 76ers Julius Erving take to the air in pursuit of a loose ball during an NBA playoff game in Philadelphia Friday. The Celtics won 88-75 to tie the best-of-seven series 3-3.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Boston Celtics, who made Philadelphia's offense and its once-formidable series lead disappear on the same day, are one victory away from completing their second straight miracle playoff comeback against the 76ers.

The Celtics held Philadelphia to a record-low 27 points in the second half Friday night and posted an 88-75 victory to even the National Basketball Association semifinal playoff series at 3-3.

The 76ers, who blew a 3-1 lead in the Eastern Conference finals against Boston a year ago, will suffer the same fate again unless they can beat the Celtics at the Boston Garden in Game 7 Sunday.

"We can't overlook the fact that this is still a sevengame series," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "We still have to go home and play hard."

Fitch said he felt no sense of deja vu regarding this series and last year, saying: "I have enough trouble with English without trying French."

Some of the Celtics players said they didn't believe last year's comeback would help them Sunday.

"This game (the sixth) and what happened in the past is history," said center Robert Parish, who scored 14 points and pulled down 13 rebounds for the Celtics. "The only thing that matters is Sunday."

But forward Cedric Maxwell added, "It's not over, but in the 76ers said what they really feel inside, they would say they had lost a golden opportunity to end the series at home.

"I'm so tired of hearing about last year," 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham said. "We're down, but we'll get a good night's sleep, practice some tomorrow and then go up to Boston and try to win."

The 76ers shot only 35 percent for the game, but their offense was especially ineffective in the second half, when they hit only seven of 34 shots for 20 percent.

The 27 second-half points was an NBA playoff low since the league adopted the 24-second clock in 1954. The previous record was 28 points by Los Angeles against Milwaukee on April 7, 1974.

The 11 points scored by the 76ers in the fourth quarter tied the playoff record low held by three other teams. In the final 18 minutes of the game, the 76ers had four field goals, and two of those were on goaltending calls.

Philadelphia guard Andrew Toney, who scored 39 points in one 76ers' victory and 30 in another during the series, scored three points and was a nightmarish 1-for-11 from the field.

"Offensively, we couldn't generate anything in the second half," Cunningham said. "When we had good shots, we didn't make them, and the Celtics were very effective at blocking shots inside.'

"It hurts. It would have been great to end it tonight," said Julius Erving, who led all scorers with 24 points although he was only eight of 20 from the field. "We had the nice crowd. Now we have to win one on the road at Boston Garden. It will be tough. We know it's all uphill."

The 76ers appeared to be ready to silence talk about last year in the first period as they took a 25-10 lead with 3:42 left on a basket by Toney, but that was to be his only field goal of the game.

The Celtics, who have won an unprecedented 14 NBA titles and are seeking to become the first team to successfully defend their championship since 1969, cut the deficit to 26-20 by the end of the first period.

Boston tied the score four times – at 51-51, 53-53, 57-57 and 67-67 - but didn't take the lead until Parish scored with 7:58 left in the game for a 69-67 edge.

Helton takes Bovina post

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

Big Spring High assistant football coach Larry Helton has accepted the position as head football coach and athletic directior at Bovina High School.

Helton will assume his new position at the conclusion of the current school year at the Class AA school.

A native of Big Spring, he attended Big Spring High and graudated in 1965. He attended Howard College and North Texas State University before entering the be to hire five coaches for the Mustang coaching profession. He coached in staff.

Dublin, Sealy and Stanton before returning to BSHS where he has served the past four years. His duties have included coaching the offensive and defensive lines at the high school. He also has assisted in basketball and track.

"I have mixed feelings about leaving Big Spring but this is a chance for me to advance in the coaching profession and run my own show," he said Saturday evening. His first duties as athletic director will

Nelson extends Atlanta lead 📻

ATLANTA (AP) - Larry Nelson made a late surg-shot lead with a 68 in the rain-delayed third round of the $300,000 Georgia-Pacific Atlanta Golf Classic Saturday. Nelson, the reigning PGA king, had started the day with a 1-shot lead, but managed only to birdie the par-5 second hole, until he scored another at the par-3 13th.

He then reeled off consecutive birdies at Nos.16 and 17 to carry a 15-under-par 201 total into Sunday's final round over the 7,007-yard, par-72 Atlanta Country Club course.

Keith Fergus, who had shared the first-round lead with Nelson, Peter Jacobsen and Ray Floyd made the strongest runs at the leader.

Fergus fired a 66 and Jacobsen a 67, leaving the pair in a tie for second place at 204.

Floyd, who has been struggling all year, moved into contention with a brilliant 8-under-par 64 that left him with a 205 total

The tournament, plagued by weather delays each day, was stopped for 2 hours, 15 minutes Saturday during a thundershower

Roger Maltbie and Wayne Levi trailed Floyd after each shot 69 for 206 totals.

Tom Watson, the defending champion, had a 69-207 that left him tied with Lee Elder, 68, and Gibby Gilbert, who fashioned his third consecutive 69.

Scott Hoch, who started the day one shot off the pace, skied to 74-208 and was tied with Tommy Valentine, who had a 68

Lanny Wadkins also had his problems. Playing in the final threesome with Nelson and Hoch, Wadkins took a triple bogey six on the third hole, followed that with a bogey and soared to a 74 that left him well back at 210.

Floyd was pleased with his comeback from a mediocre start this year

"I saw it as a mental problem," Floyd said. "There's nothing wrong with my game that some good mental preparation won't cure'

Floyd birdied the first four holes, the third by chipping in from 23 feet after missing the green. He had a 25-foot putt for his birdie at No.4 and scored from 30 feet at No.16, his longest birdie putt of the day.

"I'd say it was a pretty solid round of golf," said Floyd, who has finished in the top ten only three times this year and missed the cut twice, including last week in the Colonial National

Whittington brothers fill up Indy positions

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - in the same year. Dale Whittington joined his Indianapolis 500 as nine the fastest starting lineup in the race's history.

Michael Chandler, who finished 12th in his first Indy race a year ago, churned out a four-lap qualification average of 198.042 mph, Saturday's best effort and good for a tentative start in the middle of the eighth .

The nine qualifiers raised the field to 31, leaving two spots to fill for the 33-car, race-day grid. After the lineup is complete, bumping will begin, with each subsequently faster ca5 displacing the slowest of the already-qualified cars oneby-one.

But the 31 cars already in the field averaged 197.832 mph, compared with the 33car record of 192.584 set in 1978. The top 31 last year averaged 190.187.

The fourth and final round of qualifications was scheduled from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. EDT Sunday.

Chandler, 24, of Dana Point, Calif., was driving a Chevrolet-powered Eagle entered by car-builder and former Indy-car driver Dan Gurney. The car's engine was the fastest of the socalled stock block (normally aspirated) power plants ever to qualify for the 500.

Whittington, 22, of Orlando, Fla., made history when he became the third member of his family to earn a starting spot. Dale and older brothers Don, 36, and Bill, 32, are the first sibling trio ever to qualify for Indy nearby hospital, where he

The slowest qualifier among the first 31 was Bill Alsup, one of 10 rookies in last year's Indy race. Alsup qualified a Penske-Cosworth Saturday at 193.123 mph. Last year's slowest qualifier was Jerry Karl at 186.008.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Pinch-hitter Randy Bass drilled a sacrifice fly to trigger a two-run rally and lift the Texas Rangers and knuckleballer Charlie Hough to a 3-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals in 12 innings Saturday night.

Bass's game-winning fly off reliever Dan Wuisenberry, 1-2, came with the bases loaded and scored Leon Roberts, who had opened the inning with a single.

George Wright then followed with a single for his fourth hit of the game to drive in Mario Mendoza from second base. Mendoza had reached on a fielder's choice and gone to second when John Grubb singled to load the bases for Bass Hough evened his record at 3-3 scattering six hits over 12 innings, striking out five and walking two.

George Wright opened the Texas sixth with a double for his third hit of the game. Mike Richardt's bunt single moved him to third and he came home on Buddy Bell's sacrifice fly to give Texas a 1-0 lead.

Kansas City tied the score in the bottom of the inning. Frank White led off with a single, snapping a string of 14 consecutive batters retired by Charlie Hough. White moved to third on a sacrifice by Onix Concepcion and an infield single by Willie Wilson before coming home on George Brett's RBI grounder to first.

Texas third base coach Wayne Terwilliger was ejected from the game in the fourth after contesting umpire Durwood Merrill's foul call on a hit down the third base line by Leon Roberts.

White Sox 7, Indians 3

CHICAGO (AP) - Harold Baines drove in three runs with a home run and a single and Tony Bernazard and Greg Luzinski had three hits each Saturday night to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 7-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians

Steve Trout, 4-3, was the winner, and Jerry Koosman earned his third save of the season.

Bernazard tripled, Luzinski doubled, and Baines singled as each drove in a run in a four-run first inning, and Bernazard singled in another run in the fourth.

Baines smashed his second homer after Luzinski had singled in the fifth inning off loser John Denny, 2-5, as the Indians tumbled to their fourth straight defeat.

Yankees 1, Twins 0

NEW YORK (AP) - New York's Dave Righett shackled Minnesota on four hits in eight innings Saturday night as the Yankees blanked the Twins 1-0.

Righetti, who had a 5.26 earned-run average and 2-3 record in seven prior starts, struck out eight and walked four before leaving with a man on first and nobody out in the ninth.

Relief Goose Gossage gave up a double to Dave Engle, who had three of the Twins' five hits, to put men on second and third. But he left the runners stranded by striking out two batters and getting another on an infield popup. The game's only run came on Dave Collins' fifth-inning

sacrifice fly

American League

Red Sox 7, A's 4

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Stapleton punched a run-scoring single to right to snap 4-4 tie and Boston rapped three doubles in the eighth inning as the Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 7-4 on Saturday.

Stapleton's hit followed a double by Carl Yastrzemski. Rich Gedman doubled to score Stapleton and a double by Rick Miller scored Gedman.

The tie-breaking hit came off A's starter Bo McLaughlin, 0-2, who took the loss.

Bob Stanley, 4-1, got the victory. He pitched 8 1-3 innings in relief of Bob Ojeda, who was hit for three runs in the first.

Tigers 5, Angels 1

DETROIT (AP) - Jack Morris pitched five no-hit innings and teamed with Dave Tobik on a two-hitter to pace the Detroit Tigers to a 5-1 victory over the California Angels Saturday.

Morris, 6-3, allowed only one baserunner, on a secondinning walk to Reggie Jackson, until shortstop Tim Foli homered for the first time this year on the first pitch of the sixth inning.

Morris was replaced at the start of the eighth inning by Tobik. Morris had complained of a stiff shoulder.

Lance Parrish provided the offensive spark with a tworun triple as the Tigers won for the ninth time in their past 10 games.

Orioles 6, Blue Jays 0

TORONTO (AP) - Dennis Martinez pitched the Orioles' third consecutive shutout, and John Lownstein homered for the second day in a row Saturday to lead Baltimore to a 6-0 win over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Lowenstein drove in three runs, two with his ninth homer of the season and another with a sacrifice fly, backing the six-hit pitching of Martinez, 4-3. Martinez struck out six and walked two. The loss went to Dave Stieb, 2-5

Mariners 7, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Rookie Jim Maler slugged a grand slam homer to cap a seven-run rally in the third inning as the Seattle Mariners defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 7-1 Saturday.

Gene Nelson, 2-6, was the winning pitcher, tossing a four-hitter.

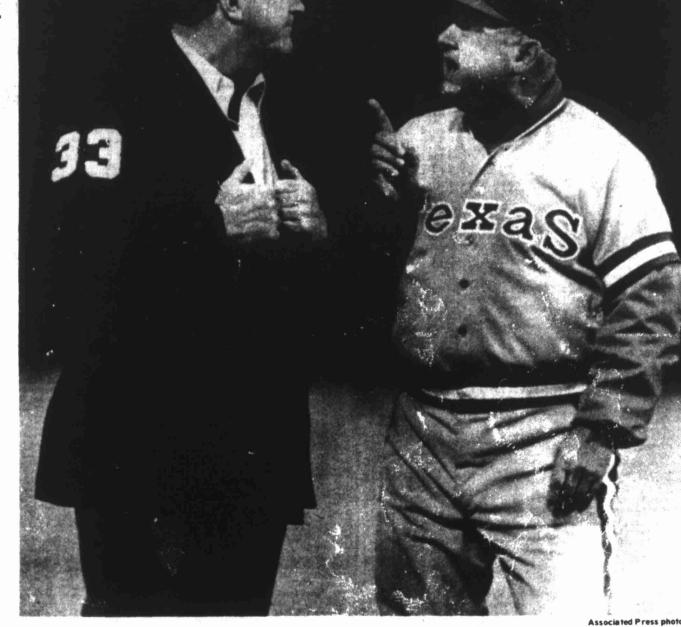

Randy Lerch, 3-4, took the loss.

Seattle broke a three-game losing streak and it was the Brewers' eighth defeat in 12 games.

In the third, Bud Bulling hit an infield single for Seattle, Paul Serna bunted on, Al Cowens was hit by a pitch and Gary Gray singled home two runs. Todd Cruz followed with an RBI single.

Dave Henderson got on when shortstop Robin Yount fumbled a grounder, loading the bases, and Maler lined Lerch's first pitch into the left field bleachers.

SPEAKING HIS MIND - Texas Rangers manager Don

HOUSTON (AP) - New York catcher John Stearns raced home with the winning run on a bunt by pitcher Neil Allen in the 12th inning to give the Mets a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday night

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

The Mets had blown a four-run lead in the ninth when Allen, 1-2, loaded the bases and yielded a grand slam homer to Astros right fielder Terry Puhl.

Stearns walked with on out in the 12th, stole second and went to third on a fly to center by Hubie Brooks. Stearns then scored the winning run when Allen bunted down the third base line. Pitcher Randy Moffitt, 0-3, flipped the ball to catcher Alan Ashby, but Ashby lost the ball in a collision with Stearns.

Jose Cruz and Phil Garner opened the Houston ninth with singles off reliever Craig Swan, and Craig Reynolds reached on an error by first baseman Dave Kingman to load the bases for Puhl. Allen, the third Met pitcher, relieved Swan.

The Houston right fielder hit Allen's 1-0 pitch over the right field wall for his fourth homer of the season and his first career slam

The Mets scored their first run in the third inning on George Foster's RBI groundout. Houston tied the game in the fifth on Puhl's run-scoring triple before the Mets went ahead 2-1)in the seventh on Kingman's RBI single.

The Mets added a run in the eighth when Stearns tripled and came home on Rusty Staub's sacrifice fly, and scored two more in the ninth as Dave Rajsich doubled in one run and Stearns singled home another

ATLANTA (AP) - Pete Rose drilled a two-run double to cap a three-run fifth inning as Philadelphia defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-2.

The Phillies' Mike Krukow, 4-2, was the winning pitcher and Ed Farmer got the save. Larry McWilliams, 2-2, was the loser. Rose's double off McWilliams scored Krukow, who had singled, and Bob Dernier, who doubled. Rose came home on a single by Bo Diaz.

Atlanta's Glenn Hubbard was thrown out at the plate by Dernier when he tried to score on Dale Murphy's single in the first and Rafael Ramirez was nailed in the second inning by Gary Matthews when Ramirez tried to score from second on Brett Butler's single. Murphy slugged a solo home run in the fifth.

Cubs 2, Giants 1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Right-hander Allen Ripley and two relievers silenced San Francisco on four hits, and Steve Henderson belted a two-run single to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 2-1 victory over the Giants Saturday.

Ripley, 2-0, spaced three Giants hits over his seven innings

The Cubs broke a scoreless tie in the fifth after Larry Bowa singled with one out and moved to third on Ryne Sandberg's single. Sandberg stole second, and Henderson scored both runners with a ground single to right for a 2-0 lead against Atlee Hammaker, 2-2.

The Giants averted a shutout when Dave Bergman led off the fifth with a walk, went to third on Jim Wohlford's hit-and-run single and scored on Johnnie LeMaster's sacrifice fly.

Spurs tire of Gervin's wants

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Spurs President Angelo Drossos says he is tired of the "increasing one-sidedness" of professional player contracts and does not intend to meet high-scoring guard George Gervin's demand for renegotiation.

Drossos spoke out during a news conference Thursday, at which he announced Stan Albeck had been rehired for three more years as head coach of the National Basketball Association team. It was the longest contract ever offered a Spurs coach.

"I would say at this time we don't plan to renogtiate or extend the contract of George Gervin," Drossos said in response to questions.

On July 28, 1980 Gervin signed a six-year, $3.6 million agreement that Drossos called a "lifetime contract" to let Gervin, 31, finish his career in San Antonio.

But Gervin's attorney, Pat Healy, said earlier this week that the four-time NBA scoring champion wants another four years at $1 million a year added to his contract. That would mean a fourth re-opening of Gervin's contract in the past nine years.

"There is an increasing one-sidedness to contracts." said Drossos. "It seems like more players sign contracts and the ink isn't even dry ... and they want a new contract.

"But to take contracts you enter into in good faith and say, 'I changed my mind - ' ... You can't do that when you buy a home; you can't do that when you join the Army; and I don't think you should do it in professional sports. I've never heard a team go to a player and say 'you had a bad year. We want to lower your salary.' They'd laugh you out of the room.' "

The signing of Albeck, 51, ended speculation the past season that he was a candidate for coaching jobs with the New York Knicks, the Los Angeles Lakers and, most recently, the Chicago Bulls.

He has guided the Spurs to two Midwest Division titles and a 100-64 record during his stay in San Antonio.

"I did talk to Chicago, but it never got farther than to tell them I was talking with San Antonio," Albeck said. "We enjoy San Antonio as a city ... and the fans are the best in the league. And the team, they play hard and they're winners.'

Albeck's salary was not revealed, although one local report said Albeck would be paid $175,000 the first year. "He did not make salary an issue, but his salary is in line with what he is, one of the top coaches in basket-ball. It's a very substantial raise," Drossos said.

Drossos also will try to negotiate new contracts for Albeck's assistant, Morris McHone; guard Johnny Moore, the NBA's assistant leader last season; backup center Dave Corsino and reserves Mike Bratz, John Lambert and Rich Yonaker.

HIGH FIVE HOMER — Tom Cudd rounds third and prepares to slap hands with coach Frank Ibarra after hitting a solo home run Friday against Denton. Cudd's hit provided the only run of the day for Big Spring as Denton swept the bi-district Arguello defends title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Alexis to hit him first but I guess he hit me first." Arguello admitted he was confused Saturday by the southpaw style of challenger Andrew Ganigan.

But the World Boxing Council lightweight champion solved the puzzle quickly by knocking out Ganigan in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

"I never saw that kind of style before," said Arguello, a veteran of 79 professional fights and one of only six men to win championships in three different weight divisions

Arguello was knocked to the canvas by a Ganigan left hook in the first round, but came back to knock down the challenger in the third round and send him sprawling one second before the bell in the fifth round.

The challenger lay prone on the canvas for several minutes after referee Carlos Padilla d the 10-count

Ganigan, 135, kept Arguello, 1343/4, off balance with his southpaw style in the first round and late in the round rushed in and caught the champion with a left hook that knocked him down.

But Arguello quickly got up, took the mandatory eight count and was able to finish the round.

In the third round, Arguello unleashed a right lead that put down Ganigan. He took the eight count, but Arguello hurt him again with a right that bounced the challnger off the ropes.

Ganigan came back with a left hook of his own that stunned Arguello in the fast paced round. But Arguello again rocketed Ganigan with a right into the ropes.

Arguello began to find the range in the third round and was able to hit the over. challenger at will with flurries of left jabs Septien, one of the leading kickers in the and right hands. For Arguello, one of only six fighters to win titles in three different weight divisions, it was his 19th consecutive title fight victory. The Nicaraguan native, now living in Miami, Fla., won the lightweight title last June from James Watt and sucessfully defended it four times, all by knockout. Ganigan was the No.1-ranked challenger injury entering the bout. He was coming off a second-round knockout of former World Boxing Association lightweight champion Sean O'Grady last October.

The Steer junior then stepped off the mound, glanced at the dugout and returned to strike out Drew Harris, get Denny Watts to fly out to short left field and fan Jim Duryea to end the big threat.

Big Spring had a chase to steal the momentum but when the home plate umpire ruled Marty Rodriguez's bunt hit him in fair territory for an out the Steers went limp. If one play took the salt out of the Big Spring attack for the rest of the day, that was the one Rodriquez hung a pitch to Carlisle in the bottom of the fifth and the Denton senior outfielder crashed a shot over the left field fence to make it 3-0. Sutton's RBI single with one out upped it to 4-0 before Harris whiffed again to end the inning.

"We weren't as aggressive as we have been," said Big Spring coach Frank Ibarra. 'I guess when you travel this far, it does something to you. A good ballclub has to be able to win on the road."

"Denton played well today and deserved to win it. I have all the respect for them in the world," he continued. "We've had one heckuva year - I'm disappointed that we lost but I am very happy that we went as far as we did. The kids worked very hard for the 24 wins this year.'

Winning the first game did give the Broncos incentive in the second game both coaches agreed. "That's why we had the coin flip. If we would have won we would have played the last games at home," Ibarra said.

"I definitely felt like we had some momentum after the first game," Blair said. "I'm just elated. It was so tough because Big Spring competes so well. I never felt like we had a comfortable enough lead against them. They've got some guys that can really hit the ball. Undoubtably, they are the best team we've played this

At one time she knocked all the barrels down during two At one time she knocked all the barrels down during two rounds of barrel racing. Next month she will represent Region Two in the Texas High School Championship Rodeo to be held in Seguin. A champion barrel racer and roper, Kristi Taylor is a sophomore at Big Spring High School and the secretary of her local rodeo association. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Taylor, 2800 S. Birdbaell Birdwell.

If Kristi wins the event she is competing in at that rodeo, she will advance to the National High School Championship Rodeo to be held in Douglas, Wyo., in July, In the state finals, she will compete with about 40 others in each of her events. At the national finals, there will be 150-175 competing in each event. "That would be a thrill to win," she said.

Kristi practices three to four hours every afternoon, either roping or training barrels," her father said! From now until the middle of August, she will compete in about 25 rodeos

She practices all through the week before a competition except the day after she gets back from a rodeo. That is a day of rest for her and the horses. "I practice every day ... except when I have a lot of Biology homework."

"I work the barrel horse once or twice a week before a rodeo. I exercise her the rest of the time by lopping, walking, trotting and turning her on her back feet." Turning horses on their back feet is an exercise that trains them to turn better around the barrels. Kristi's idol is Toots Mansfield, world champion rodeo cowboy. He helps her practice for the competitions. "My dad always helped me. We've always had horses around,' she said. "I've always been on a horse ... since I've been able to walk ... My mom supports me. They are there when I need them," she said.

How does she prepare for the contests? "I don't think about them until I get there, then I go over things that I must remember. There are just a dozen things to remember and go over in my head. I try my best not to get nervous.'

AROUND THE BARRELS - Kristi Taylor practices with her horse Sugar for the upcoming barrel racing contests she will participate in. She plans to attend 25 rodeos this summer including the Texas High School Championship Rodeo in Seguin.

AT THE RODEO "I don't feel nervous. I'm excited. I enjoy them more than anything else and I look forward to them a whole lot.

"Each time I go out there I'm going to try my best and my best is as it is. I'm going to try.'

Right before her turn in a competition she is concentrating on what she is about to do.

During the time she is out in the arena, she has to be thinking about what (she) will do next - the techniques and then get home. "There is not time to think about anything else. I think the same thing just before going into the arena and what I'm fixing to do." The seconds? "They seem like hours. They seem pretty long.'

After her events, she likes to stay and watch the rest of the rodeo ... unless they have to get home to take care of the horses. They might have a dance every once in a while and I'll go to that.

Although she placed higher in barrel racing in the Regional High School Rodeo, her favorite event is roping. "It is more exciting and aggressive I guess. It is not more competitive than barrel racing. They are both competitive."

Kristi has been thrown off horses many times. "I had two horses that would buck me off. Once we finished running through barrels, practicing, and the horse saw the orange gates and didn't think he could stop in time. He put on the brakes and I flew over his head.

"I haven't gotten any broken bones yet," she said. However, she has been bruised and cut up often. "We hit barrels a lot in practice and my knees show it.'

HER FAMILY had a dog that would nip at her horse's heels. One time the dog nipped a horse's heel and the horse tried to kick the dog. It missed and kicked her in the arm. "It came very close to hitting me in the head. That could have killed me if it had hit in the right spot."

Another time, her horse Fury threw her off during the grand entry of a rodeo and she hit a wall. The horse didn't want to go around the flag.

Kristi says a good personality is one of the key ingredients it takes to be a good competitor and rodeo champion. "You've got to get back on your feet after you've had a defeat and know there is always another one and a better one. You can't be stuck up. People can't take that. And then of course you've got to have a lot of devotion to do what you're doing. You can't go out playing, you've got to practice most of the time.'

Kristi says she eats, sleeps and breathes rodeo. "I never get tired of it and I think I never will.'

Kristi plans to become an veterinarian when she gets older. "I've always wanted to be a veterinarian since I was 8. I'll probably follow that field. I'd like to follow the professional field or rodeo, but I can't live off that. Some men can, but I can't.'

She plans to attend Sul Ross State University in Alpine for four years and then go to Texas A & M University in College Station.

Kristi has been awarded dozens of trophies, money prizes, and nine belt buckles for competition in horse

Arroya Seca Group Home serves its residents' needs

By TINA M. STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor

There are ten of them and they have an IQ of between 40 and 69. By living together and sharing responsibilities, they learn the expectations of others in a normal world.

They live in Arroya Seca Group Home for Mentally Retarded, located at 1315 Baylor. Erwin McCorkle, the home's director, is like a father to them.

With the required IQ and adaptive behavioral levels, mentally retarded people able to feed, bathe, and clothe themselves do not have to be institutionalized if their needs can be better met in a more "normal" situation.

Big Sky Joint Venture, owners of the home, believe these people are not getting their needs met in institutions and could function in a less restrictive environment. That is why Big Sky started its organization of 17 similar homes.

Just like other people in the community, the home's residents attend movies, play miniature golf, attend church, go bowling and shopping. "The things most people would do in the community, we try to do with our residents," McCorkle said.

With the goal of employment in mind, the residents learn work skills and habits in one of their classes. They are required to attend classes in meal preparation and nutrition, money management, grooming, personal and social adjustment. Although some residents attend Adult Basic Education classes at Howard College, most classes are held in the home.

None of the residents are now employed. However, one is expected to be employed within the next month. All residents are engaged in some form of responsible activity such as room cleanup, laundry, meal cooking and washing dishes. The objective of these activities is to instill in the resident a desire and motivation to competively work.

Using the tasks they learn at the home, they are employed in jobs that don't require formal training. Such as motel maid, janitorial assistant, small motor repair or dishwashing.

In-house meetings are held once a week to discuss and solve group problems. As with any group or classroom situation there are problems. When one person acts up, "the whole group is in an uproar," McCorkle said.

There also are problems when someone new joins the group. It is a change for the new resident and for the group as a whole. McCorkle expects to have two to three new residents in the next few weeks coming to the home.

"Anytime the composition of the group changes, you have a different group to adjust to and the group a new individual to adjust to," McCorkle said. The classroom and the in-house group discussions help ease the situation.

Before a new resident comes to the home, the staff spends two hours visiting with him or her to get an idea of how well the resident will fit in. Once the person comes to the home, the staff works closely with him or her to ease the transition to adjust.

From the initial assessment of the resident, the staff plans an individualized program to use in meeting the person's needs. Not only is it a plan for meeting their needs, but for meeting the needs of others in their adjustment to the person.

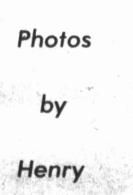

The group home will have open house June 6 from 1 to 4 p.m.

SUPPERTIME - Pam Epps, left, and Cindy Swenning are taking their turn in the meal preparation responsibilities. Residents are all required to help in the work to be done around the home.

Dear Abby

Needs divorce from missing spouse

because it wasn't love.)

DEAR ABBY: I was married to John in the Catholic Church back in 1956. John disappeared in 1958. He took a ride one Sunday afternoon and never came back. Nobody knows what happened to him. The police looked for him, but after several years they gave up.

I never filed for divorce because I kept thinking that one day John might turn up. He never did and his family say they have no idea where he is. For all I know he may be dead, or married to someone else.

Is there any way I can get a divorce? Or do I need one after all this time? I'd like to start my life over as a single woman, but how can I if I'm still married? I'm tired of waiting. I don't think the pope would have waited this long

HELP ME IN MISSOURI

DEAR HELP: Your parish priest can help you. In recent years the Catholic Church has become more liberal concerning annulments. I am advised that your marriage could be annullled with very little difficulty.

* * * DEAR ABBY: I'm crazy about the U.P.S. man who delivers the mail to my office very day. He seems plenty interested in me but isn't making any moves. I have reason to believe that he thinks I am not available, but I am.

What do I say to a guy I see for only as long as it takes me to sign his clipboard? I want him to know that I am available and would like to get to know him better. LUCY IN BUFFALO

DEAR LUCY: You need a pal in the office to help further your cause. You could conveniently just happen to be away from your desk the next time Mr. U.P.S. delivers the mail. Your "co-conspirator" could then say to him, "I think Lucy could be interested in you; would you like me to arrange it?"

DEAR ABBY: "Loves Love, Not Sex" and her husband have a communication gap. I used to feel the same way she does and hated every time my husband wanted to have sexual relations. (Notice, I did not say "make love,"

My husband was an unkempt, selfish boor who disregarded his partner's feelings as well as the basic rules of personal hygiene. I talked to him, I bought him underwear, soap, deodorants, but to no avail. Gradually, I was so repulsed, I became frigid and gave up. When I could no longer stand the smell, I divorced him. Now I'm married to a man who "makes love" instead of just relieving himself. Tell "Loves Love" if she really loves her husband she will tell him what she likes and what she doesn't like. And if he loves her he will change his habits to try to please her. And if he doesn't, she had better change husbands. MAKING LOVE AT 52

DEAR MAKING: It's amazing how many readers (men as well as women) write to complain about their spouses' total disregard for hygiene. And as for lovemaking, the getting is always in the giving.

Nemember when everybody went to Grandmother's for Sunday or holiday dinners? Chances are, the dining room furniture was very much like Tell City Tanbark Oak. Note the finish. Rich, dark, yet showing off all the beautiful oak grain. Note the styling. Sturdy, solid, yet graceful and appealing in a way that never goes out of style.

And the craftsmanship! It, too, is out of the past. Remember, Tell City has crafted furniture for well over a century. And Tanbark Oak, like all Tell City furniture, is open stock. Pick exactly what you want now. Add to it as family needs change. Come see. You'll be charmed by Tell City Tanbark Oak. Out of the past, and into your future.

Dr. Donohue Youngs

Youngster wants advice on conditioning for sports

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I want to become a major league pitcher. I am 12 years old. I know you have all the stuff about scientifc ways to do this, so please, give me the straight dope on this. I know that to be good in sports you have to train hard, but how, that's my question. — J.H.

have to train hard, but how, that's my question. -J.H.For you to realize your dream to be a major league pitcher, the most important thing is to be dedicated to your sport and to conditioning, to throwing form, and to protection of your throwing arm.

Conditioning means training for both endurance and for strength, and it is a year-round thing. Now the bad news.

The best part of training is the six weeks before the season starts, so I wish you had written a little earlier. But anyway, you can keep what follows in mind for next year and years after that.

Even though a pitcher is not required to do a lot of running around, he still has to train for endurance because he sometimes throws more than a hundred pitches a game. You build endurance with both distance and windsprint running. Without this kind of training you will not last more than a few innings.

For arm protection, be sure you warm up before each game or training session. That means starting 15 to 30 minutes before the game. Use every pitch you have in your arsenal, but your speed should be only about half of what you would use in competition, and you should throw about 75 pitches. You're doing all this to get the blood flowing in your arm muscles and to limber the tendons and ligaments. Those structures have to adapt to the full force of a pitching effort before they can tolerate that. And even before the warm-up pitching, you have to do stretching exercises.

Finally, your form is important. You don't have to alter your style to that of a hero. Throw the way it is most comfortable; don't try to imitate a form that is not comfortable for you. And remember that most of the power in a pitched ball comes from the legs and the trunk. So you have to do exercises to stretch and strengthen them. Parents of the Bride Responsibilities

The parents of the bride are an integral part of the wedding, with many financial and functional responsibilities. Hence, they may be a bit nervous. Here at the Accent Shoppe, we suggest they simply relax, and remember that: since they are host and hostess, they should see that every guest is in-troduced to the groom's parents. They ought to attend the rehearsal. And finally, they should be available for group pictures before the receiving line begins. And, oh yes, they should not forget to enjoy themselves!
