ANIMAL CONTROL OFFICER — Big Spring Animal Control officer Alice Vargas is shown in the cab of the city's Ford pickup used to collect animals. A dognapper believed to be operating in Big Spring is allegedly using a similar truck, but, according to Vargas, the thief's pickup lacks the "Animal Control" legend shown on the door, and does not have "City of Big Spring" printed on the side.

Dognapper puzzles city animal officials

Cindy Halbert has lost her dog.

That's not too uncommon — dogs are always wandering off through open gates or jumping fences and disappearing. But animal owners in Big Spring have noticed that some of the dogs which have vanished here in the last four months have suddenly developed supernatural abilities.

"I'm pretty sure she was stolen," Ms. Halbert said of her collie, which disappeared from a friend's yard May 22. "She's incapable of jumping the fence — she has a hip disorder, and the gate was closed." A puppy which was also in the yard and "would have gone with her if she got out through a hole in the fence" was still there.

"Thirty or forty" registered dogs have vanished in Big Spring during the past three months, according to animal control officer Alice Vargas. She thinks the disappearances may be the work of thieves who are selling the animals to "an experimental laboratory in Dallas or Houston."

A purebred dog (as most of the vanished pooches have been) will bring "$250 and up — maybe not quite that much," said Ms. Vargas. "They get more for a high-grade dog than they can for a mutt."

As far as the methods used by the culprits, "as we know is that he is driving a white Ford pickup like ours," said Ms. Vargas. "It's got a star on the side, but it doesn't have 'City of Big Spring' or 'Animal Control' on the emblem. It's got black cages all the way around the truck. All we've got for a license plate is the letters BY."

During the first part of last month, Ms. Vargas said, a man suspected of being the dognapper, had a holding area set up in a field near Abrams and 11 streets.

"Some guy caught on because he (the thief) took his cocker," she said. The victim followed the truck and when the dognapper left, retrieved his dog and let several others out of their cages. A second trip to the location for the victim netted nothing, but Ms. Vargas said areas where the cages had been were visible in the grass.

The dognapper's tactics work because of the his truck's similarities to the official vehicle, Ms. Vargas said. However, there are some differences besides the discrepancies in appearance of the two vehicles.

When animal control officers (Big Spring has two — Mrs. Vargas and 25-year-old Roger Oliver) enter a yard, it is only with the permission of the owner.

"We don't go in unless we've got a volunteer slip and an OK from the owner," she said. "Other than that, we don't go in."

The city's animal control officers would like to see the dognapper caught, Ms. Vargas said, because "he's giving us a bad name."

Anyone who sees anything suspicious should call the police department, she said. "If we get some help, we can probably catch him — If they see anything strange or can get a license number."

Six miles west of Big Spring

Man slain near I-20

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The body of a murdered Ohio man was discovered yesterday afternoon six miles west of Big Spring just off of Interstate 20. William Boyd Hite, who would have been 23 next week, was declared dead on the scene at 4:10 p.m. by Peace Justice Bobby West of what West called "extensive gunshots."

According to Sheriff Standard, the body was discovered at 3:45 p.m. Tues. by a member of the Texas Highway Department maintenance crew who notified the sheriff's office. Deputies Paul Silva and Bill Shankles went to the scene on Farm Market Road 2599 at the interstate overpass with Justice of the Peace West, Standard said. Hite was shot with a heavy caliber weapon, the sheriff said.

The 22-year-old male was dressed in casual clothing evidently prepared for traveling, Standard said. A backpack was found approximately one or two miles east of the body which was later identified as belonging to the deceased Hite. "It is apparently intact," the sheriff added.

Hite's most recent address was Meridian, Miss., but he had evidently stayed in Big Spring for a period of time, Standard said. "We think he was here a day or two, we have someone who can put him here," he said.

The motive for Hite's slaying is as yet undetermined, the sheriff said.

"We do have some general information we're sifting today but as to where it will lead, we don't know yet," Standard said.

Peace Justice West estimated the time of the shooting at 3:15 p.m., only thirty minutes prior to the discovery of the body. "I have ordered an autopsy, but he died of extensive gunshot wounds. We recovered four bullets at the scene," West said. Dr. Robert Rember of Malone-Hogan Hospital is performing the autopsy, West added.

Suspect arrested in Harris shooting

Police arrested 37-year-old Isaiah Edwards of 501 Goliad yesterday in connection with the shooting death of Billy Roy Harris after Edwards turned himself in to a Midland attorney, according to Lt. John Wolf.

Edwards returned to Big Spring with the attorney and turned himself over to police officials, Wolf said. He remains in city jail pending arraignment.

A warrant of arrest for Edwards' was issued after he allegedly shot Harris, 45, of 712 Willia at approximately 11:15 p.m. Monday. Approximately 75 persons were at the scene of the alleged slaying, according to police reports.

Investigating officers found Harris lying to the right of the front door of the Zodiac Club at 311 North Lancaster, with a .25-caliber gunshot wound in his chest, police said.

Harris was described by police officials as a "silent partner" in the club's business operations.

Peace Justice Bobby West pronounced the victim dead upon arrival at Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to police.

Into 'fender-bender' mishaps

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Big Spring police will begin investigating fender benders tomorrow, the state has begun replacing the intersection of Third and Birdwell, the city will begin seal coating Goliad today or tomorrow, and airport improvements continue however "prospects are not good" that Braniff will store idled planes at the Industrial Park, City Manager Don Davis announced yesterday.

Davis said police officers will "start investigating and reporting on all vehicle accidents beginning tomorrow." He said officers will be issuing citations when it is determined that one party is at fault, "not to punish the violator, but to protect the non-violator."

The Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation has begun replacing the intersection of Third and Birdwell with a concrete pad, Davis said.

The intersection is "going to be a mess" and traffic on Birdwell will be rerouted, Davis said. Although the street will not be closed the entire projected two weeks of construction, Davis encouraged drivers to begin

"using another route."

The project is part of a program that calls for improvements of six intersections on Third and Fourth.

Additionally, traffic will be interrupted as work begins today or tomorrow on the summer seal coating project. Davis said Howard County will provide the labor and equipment and the city will provide the materials and structural fire protection to seal coat streets in the city cemetery, West Side, Coronado Hills, Highlands and East Side areas.

Workers will begin the project on Goliad, using an experimental asphalt donated by Cosden, Davis said. The experimental asphalt will be used only on Goliad, he added.

Davis said the seal coat project "certainly will be an inconvenience, but we will try to keep it where people are unable to gain access to the driveways only in parts of the day."

Davis said the seal coat program has been in existence three years and has "proven to be very cost effective, I guess to both the county and the city."

"The work done at the cemetery will be done for about fifth percent of what we could have contracted it for,"

A LONELY DEATH — Blood has washed away part of the chalk outline where the body of William Boyd Hite was discovered west of Big Spring. Law enforcement officials estimate Hite was shot several times with a large caliber weapon at approximately 3:15 p.m. Tuesday. The investigation continues according to the Howard County sheriff's office.

City to restart accident inquiries

Davis said.

Perman Utility of Midland started installation today of a water line connecting hangars at the city airport, Davis said. He said construction will probably continue "a couple of weeks."

Also bids were opened Thursday for construction of a third airport hangar.

The low bid was by Kenny Thompson Construction Co. of $179,500. Davis said this will complete all the bids for construction at the city airport and the entire project should be completed in October.

Davis said Industrial Park Manager Hal Boyd "has been in touch" with Davis, page 2-A

Cosden rumor squelched

Rumors that Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. refinery in Big Spring has been sold are false, a company official said today.

"There is nothing to the rumors," said Paul D. Meek, president of American Petrofina, Inc., parent company of Cosden. "The plant has never been for sale. It is not for sale, and there are no negotiations for any kind of sale. There are no layoffs planned," Meek said.

The rumors began circulating in Big Spring last week that the refinery was being sold to Atlantic-Richfield Oil Co. and that some 30 workers would be laid off.

William Cahill, a spokesman for American Petrofina, told the Herald this was the second time in the past few weeks a similar rumor had been spread.

"It's time to put an end to this nonsense and get on with really important business," Cahill said. "Cosden has been a part of the community for many years and it will be a part of the community for many years to come."

Energas plans increase

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

If you're a Big Spring area farmer dependent on natural gas to power your irrigation systems, you'll be paying more to water crops come July 1. The West Texas System of Energas Co. recently announced a 10 percent irrigation rate increase that will affect 10,500 rural customers in an area from the central Panhandle to south of Odessa.

The reason? Well, it's the same song with the repeating verse — inflation. Judith K. Kerr, vice president for communications in the Amarillo Energas office, said the adjusted cost of purchased gas has forced the company to raise its rates for the first time since February, 1979.

"Energas contracts to purchase gas to distribute to its customers, and over the past three years prices have gone up," Ms. Kerr said.

To boil it down simply — when wholesalers raise Energas' purchasing price, Energas must pass the increase along to consumers, according to C.K. Vaughn, president of Energas.

Other reasons cited by the Energas officials for the price increases include inflation expanded operating and overhead costs.

"Energas has experienced increases across the broad front (overall), as well as in the gas contract prices," Ms. Kerr said.

The following examples show the price difference between the old and new rates with a 10 percent discount for payments received within 15 days of the billing date.

Minimum monthly bill, $4 increasing to $4.42; first 1,000 cubic feet per month, $4.95 increasing to $5.47; next 3,000 cubic feet per month, $3.36 increasing to $3.71; next 6,000 cubic feet per month, $3.20 increasing to $3.53; next 40,000 cubic feet, $3.10 increasing to $3.42; next 50,000 cubic feet per month, $2.95 increasing to $3.24; and for usage over 100,000 cubic feet per month, $2.72 increasing to $3.

Ms. Kerr said the increase has not brought many complaints from customers.

"We are not insensitive to the needs of the agri-industry and we know times are difficult, but our customers are aware of our situation and realize why we have to increase prices."

"One good thing about the increase is that since the increase does not go into effect until July 1 most customers will not receive bills until August or September and maybe they will have gotten well into their watering season before the increase starts," Ms. Kerr said.

SATURDAY

The Big Spring Outriders AASP&RC Horse Show has been scheduled for Saturday at the Howard County Sheriff's Posse arena on the Andrews Highway. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. with the show starting at 10 a.m. For further information call 263-8726.

Hinckley's brain appears abnormal, doctor testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A radiologist who studied X-rays of John W. Hinckley Jr.'s brain says it is "abnormal" for a man his age but acknowledges the pictures don't reveal anything about the defendant's behavior.

A federal jury saw the X-rays Tuesday as the presidential assailant's trial resumed after the long Memorial Day weekend.

Hinckley has admitted shooting President Reagan, but he has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

"Absolutely, this is an abnormal brain," said Dr. Marjorie LeMay of Harvard Medical School, who testified the X-rays show Hinckley's brain is slightly shrunken for a 27-year-old man.

Today, the defense will ask Dr. Daniel R. Weinberger of the National Institute of Mental Health to explain his research findings, which statistically link brain shrinkage to schizophrenia.

Defense psychiatrists said Hinckley suffered from severe schizophrenia, a disorder characterized in part by a withdrawal from reality.

Absentee voting ends

Absentee voting for the June 5th Democratic run-off primary has ended with 359 ballots cast in the Howard County clerk's office. A total of 147 people cast absentee ballots yesterday on the last day of absentee voting.

County Clerk Margaret Ray reports 41 ballots have been mailed out with 31 already returned.

Ray announced that all election judges should come by her office Thursday or Friday and pick up their election supplies.

Coahoma water rates hiked

Water bills will be going up in Coahoma soon as the city council moved recently to raise rates 50 cents per 1,000 gallon. The council took the action while meeting in regular session at city hall.

Mayor Joe Swinney said the unanimous council decision to raise rates from $1.80 per thousand gallons to $2.30 per thousand was made due to increased repair costs. "We've had a terrible lot of lines breaking," Swinney said. The mayor estimated the increase would raise the minimum rate by $2.

In other water-related matters, the council decided to raise the fee for connecting new water lines into the main line from $150 to $250. The new charge will be for a three-quarter inch water tap.

A third decision by the council gave Robert Helm, head of the water department, permission to send registered warning letters to residents who have open sewers. The letters will request that residents running waste water onto the ground stop the practice.

Lamesa bank raises loan interest rates

LAMESA (SC) — The Federal Land Bank Association of Lamesa recently announced that the interest rates on all land bank variable rate loans will be increased to 11 and one-half percent on farm loans and 12 percent on rural residential and farm-related business loans, according to K.G. Hamilton, president of the institution.

The new rates went into effect June 1, 1982.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Lamesa makes long-term real estate loans on farm and rural residence property in the counties of Dawson, Gaines, Andrews, Upton, Glasscock, Howard, Martin, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Crane and Borden.

THE GIFT OF KNOWLEDGE — Dr. Buerk Williams, director of the Malone-Hogan Hospital School of Radiologic Technology, holds a newly-donated textbook for the school. The traditional book donation comes from the person who leads the invocation and benediction at the school's graduation exercises. This year, Father David Bristow of Saint Mary's Episcopal Church made the donation. Williams noted the three 1981 graduates of the school are now employed in the Big Spring area.

British nearing capital

By The Associated Press

British forces held the high ground overlooking the Falkland Islands capital of Stanley today. But military sources in London said the ground troops may delay their advance for two or three days, until troops moving up from the west and southwest bring the assault force to some 4,000 men.

Meanwhile, British artillery on the heights, warships on the sea side and Harrier jet fighters were expected to give the Argentine positions a constant pounding.

"Stanley is cut off. Time is on our side. The Argentines have nowhere to go, and they know it," said one source in London.

Argentina's ruling junta dispatched three high-ranking military officers to U.N. headquarters in New York to try to make peace. But Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said they "aren't carrying any new proposals."

And Gen. Mario Menendez, the Argentine governor of the Falklands, delivered a rousing martial broadcast to his estimated 6,000 troops, calling them "To arms! To combat!"

Menendez told his men: "Argentina is watching us — our parents, wives, girl friends, children... We not only have to defeat them (the British), but we must do it in such a way that their defeat is so crushing that they will never again dare to invade our land."

The British Defense Ministry continued a virtual blackout on news of current military operations. But correspondents with the British forces, in dispatches passed by the censors, reported the capture of 1,535-foot Mount Kent 12 miles west of Stanley, and Bob McGowan of the London Daily Express said marine commandos stormed the strategically vital Two Sisters ridge three miles closer to the town.

"Opposition throughout was slight," McGowan reported. "We found enemy trenches with boots, ammunition and clothing still in them, indicating that the Argentines ran when they saw the British sweeping in on them."

The Argentine junta acknowledged indirectly that the British had taken Mount Kent but claimed they were unable to advance. A spokesman for the joint chiefs of staff said as a result of Argentine bombing, "British forces stayed on Mount Kent. They have not passed Mount Kent."

Another 3,500 British troops are reported to have landed north of Stanley, but the Defense Ministry has not confirmed this and there has been no mention of their location in correspondents' reports from the British task force.

Losses on both sides increased. Britain said 250 Argentine soldiers were killed in the fighting for Goose Green Saturday.

Police Beat Gunshot pierces woman's ear

A 61-year-old Lubbock woman was shot through the outside right ear at 9:30 p.m. yesterday and is in good condition after being treated and released from an hospital, according to police.

Bonnie Birmelin of Route 11 box 363 in Lubbock, told police that a person known to her shot at her head at a 653 Settles residence where she was visiting. She apparently turned her head to avoid the bullet causing it to pierce the outside of her right ear, police said.

Ms. Birmelin may file a formal complaint sometime today, police said.

A dictaphone worth $562.65 was allegedly stolen from a Big Spring State Hospital Outpatient Clinic office sometime between noon and 2 p.m. Tuesday, according to police.

W.J. McNew of 504 Aylford told police that between 6 p.m. Monday and 6 a.m. Tuesday someone broke a front window of his residence and took an undetermined number of items, police said.

Hank Smidt of Route Three box 54 reported to police that sometime last weekend someone removed the battery and drained the diesel from a bulldozer parked on a building site in the 1800 block of W. Fourth, according to police.

Martha Morales of 503 1/2 W. Eighth told police that between 8:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tuesday someone removed her purse containing various documents and $150 cash and food stamps from her car parked at her home, police said.

Charles Lamont Shreiner of Route one box 77E reported to police that between 7:15 p.m. Tuesday and 12:45 a.m. Wednesday someone entered his residence and took a "priceless" black leather jacket and six cash boxes worth $18 and ransacked the house, according to police.

James Wilson Jr. of Garden City Route Box 103 told police that between 9 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. Tuesday someone cut a tire on his car and his employee's car at McDonald's Restaurant at Interstate 20 and Highway 87, police said.

Jimmy Hall of 200 N.W. Second reported to police that at 2:30 a.m. today someone in a white car drove into his yard and ran into a fence, damaging a fence post, police said.

A phone line was allegedly cut on the north side of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. building, 1600 Scurry, sometime between 8 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Tuesday, according to police.

Jack W. Langley of a Sterling street address told police that at 12:20 a.m. today someone unknown to him deliberately tried to ram his vehicle into him at FM 700 and the south Highway 87 overpass, police said.

A tractor driven by Gregory Glenn Smith of 5102 Durango in Abilene allegedly collided with a Pontiac Bonneville driven by Samuel Salinas of Stringer Trailer park in Lamesa at the intersection of N.W. Fourth and Gregg at 3:16 p.m. yesterday, according to police. No injuries were reported, police said.

In the 200 block of Gregg at 3:05 p.m. yesterday a Chevrolet Malibu driven by Shonie Wayne Bean of Route three box 348 allegedly collided with a Ford station wagon driven by Beatrice Casarez Aleman of Gail route box nine, police said. Bean was ticketed for following too closely, according to police. No injuries were reported, police said.

Odessa man pleads guilty
 An Odessa man pleaded guilty Tuesday in 118th District Court to the charge of indecency with a child. John Elton Allison, 56, was assessed a 10-year probated sentence by Judge Jim Gregg.

Jimmy Wayne Bledsoe, 29, of 4201 Oak was released from Howard County jail on $1,000 bond after being charged with driving while intoxicated.

James Milton McCarty, 50, of 1110 Owens was released on $10,000 bond. He is charged with burglary.

Carvin Kellar Jr., 20, was arrested by sheriff's deputies on a charge of theft. Kellar, of 903 Rosemont, was released on $5,000 bond.

Execution date not in sight for 'Candy Man' Ronald O'Bryan

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors say there's no way to predict when or if condemned trick or treat killer Ronald O'Bryan will ever be put to death.

O'Bryan, 37, (a former Big Spring resident) delayed his execution for seven years on an appeal that was turned down at every level including the U.S. Supreme Court. He has now started the process all over.

"He's going to spend a lot more time on death row than his kid had on this earth," said assistant District Attorney Calvin Hartmann.

O'Bryan's 8-year-old son Timothy died about an hour after eating cyanide-laced powdered candy from a plastic straw given him by his father during a 1974 Halloween trick-or-treat outing in suburban Pasadena. Prosecutors said O'Bryan's motive was greed — he had bought more than $60,000 in insurance policies on his son and daughter.

This time, O'Bryan's appeal challenges the way prospective jurors were excluded during his trial on the basis of their feelings toward capital punishment.

O'Bryan's first appeal brought up similar juror selection issues and also alleged there was not sufficient evidence. The jury foreman said after the 1975 trial the circumstantial evidence was "overwhelming," and the appeal was turned down at all levels.

After O'Bryan's first appeal failed, State District Judge Michael T. McSpaden set a May 25 execution date. But McSpaden withdrew that date last month after O'Bryan's attorneys started a brand new appeal action. McSpaden said he favors death for O'Bryan, but withdrew the May 25 date to speed up the appeals process.

"I knew a federal judge would grant a stay of execution anyway," McSpaden said. "This cuts out some of the steps. It was purely an administrative action."

Defense lawyer Stanley Schneider said if O'Bryan goes through all state and federal courts and loses again "he could be in trouble." He said a third attempt at an appeal would have to be based on a different point of law, and would probably go through the courts much more quickly.

Hartmann said since O'Bryan has successfully avoided the gallows for seven years by virtue of his first appeal, he could not forecast how long the second appeal would take.

"If everybody did what they are paid to do, ideally, this appeal should not take longer than nine months" to reach the U.S. Supreme Court and be ruled on, assuming it is not reversed along the way, he said.

Secret Services probes bogus bills

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Secret Service says it is continuing an investigation into a ring suspected of operating out of Houston or Detroit and manufacturing counterfeit $100 bills.

Five San Antonio residents were indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of conspiracy and possession of counterfeit currency in connection with the alleged plot. One of the suspects allegedly was selling the fake $100 bills for $30 apiece.

Investigators said that $11,000 in fake money has been discovered in the San Antonio area and much more is believed to exist, but that none of the five local people indicted was suspected of being involved in printing the money.

Stanton City Council awards $10,500 bid

STANTON — The Stanton City Council awarded a bid of $10,500 to Environmental Sales and Service for a new water-pressure cleaning system for the city's sewer at a regular meeting last night. According to City Secretary Nelda Turner, the system will help to keep the city's sewer clean and free of congestion.

In other business the council discussed and considered a new Environmental Protection Agency grant that will help to rebuild part of the city's sewage treatment plant. Mrs. Turner said the EPA will be releasing the details of the grant at a later date.

The council approved the closing of an alley on block one in the Sun Set Addition so that Terry Shanks, a private citizen, could build a storage shed in the area.

In monetary matters, the city fathers agreed to give Stanton citizens a 20 percent homestead exemption for 1982, according to Mrs. Turner.

In final action the council approved a motion to sell a 1978 sanitation truck, and start condemnation procedures of the old Chevrolet building that burned during the winter.

High Court broadens police search powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is stripping away more of the protections motorists enjoy against searches of their cars by police acting without a warrant.

The court ruled 6-3 Tuesday that police do not need a warrant to search closed bags and other containers found in a car — if they have reasonable grounds to believe the objects contain illegal drugs or other contraband.

The ruling overturns the court's 1981 decision in an unrelated case that police needed warrants to search closed parcels and containers found in a car trunk.

Since 1925, the high court has ruled that police have much more freedom to make so-called "warrantless" searches of cars than of homes and other buildings.

All police need to justify searching a car without a warrant is a reasonable factual basis — or "probable cause" — to believe that illegal items will be found.

Tuesday's decision is designed to clarify power of police to search through closed containers or bags located out of sight somewhere in the car.

The opinion by Justice John Paul Stevens makes clear that police, acting with probable cause that they will find illegal items, now have the power to search through containers found anywhere in the car.

All police need, Stevens said, is the same degree of certainty that would allow a judge or magistrate to issue a warrant to search for illegal objects.

"If probable cause justifies the (warrantless) search of a lawfully stopped vehicle it justifies the search of every part of the vehicle and its contents that may conceal the object of the search," Stevens wrote.

The justice warned police that there are limits to their powers to search cars without a warrant.

Tuesday's decision reinstated the heroin-possession conviction and prison sentence of Albert "Bandit" Ross Jr., arrested in the nation's capital four years ago.

In other action Tuesday, the Supreme Court:

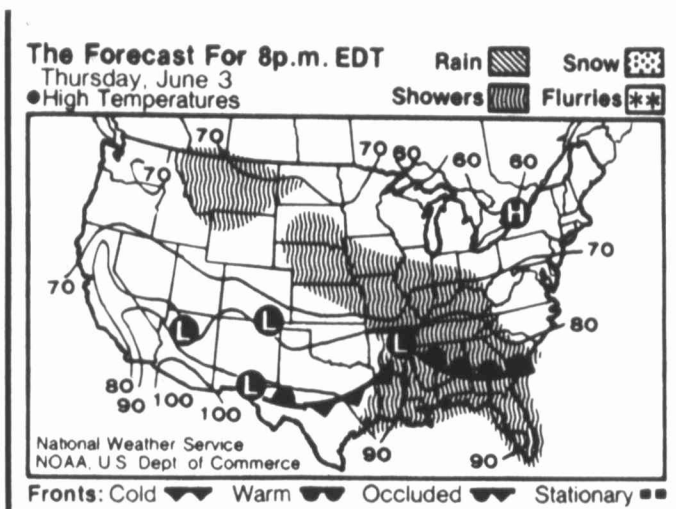

- Ruled that a company that wins an unfair labor practice complaint against a union is not entitled to recover the cost of lawyer fees.
- Agreed to decide whether individuals can serve simultaneously as directors of a bank or bank holding company and an insurance company.

— Refused, without comment, to let New York authorities ban the use of topless waitresses and topless female dancers in liquor-serving establishments such as bars and nightclubs.

In other business, Rehnquist refused to reinstate Georgia's congressional redistricting plan, which the Justice Department says discriminates against some black voters.

Weather

N. Texas braces for severe weather

By The Associated Press

Severe weather was possible in North Texas today because southerly winds were pumping moisture back into the state, forecasters said.

The moisture was being pumped all the way to North Texas and Northwest Texas. A dry line front was expected to move eastward from New Mexico in West Texas and North Texas. The combination of the moisture and the dry line front was expected to create a good chance for showers and thunderstorms, some possibly severe.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures over South Texas. Scattered thunderstorms were expected over northern and western sections of the state. It was to be mostly fair over East Texas.

Highs today were to be mostly in the mid 80s to mid 90s with readings ranging upward to near 110 in Southwest Texas.

Lows tonight will be in the 50s in the Panhandle and the 60s and 70s elsewhere. Highs Thursday will be mostly in the 80s and 90s, ranging from the 70s in the Panhandle to near 100 in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s. Extremes ranged from 60 at Amarillo to 77 at both Laredo and Del Rio.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Scattered afternoon, evening showers and thunderstorms and warm through the weekend, except turning cooler, north Sunday. Highs in the 70s north to upper 90s Big Bend valleys except mid 60s north Sunday. Lows in mid 50s north to mid 60s south.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Clear to partly cloudy today and tonight, with widely scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms east of the mountains today and north and southeast tonight. Warmer today. Generally fair Thursday. Not so warm north. Highs mid 80s mountains and Panhandle to near 110 Big Bend. Lows low 50s Panhandle to upper 60s extreme south. Highs Thursday upper 70s Panhandle to near 100 Big Bend.

Seeks popular support

Reagan leaves today on European journey

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

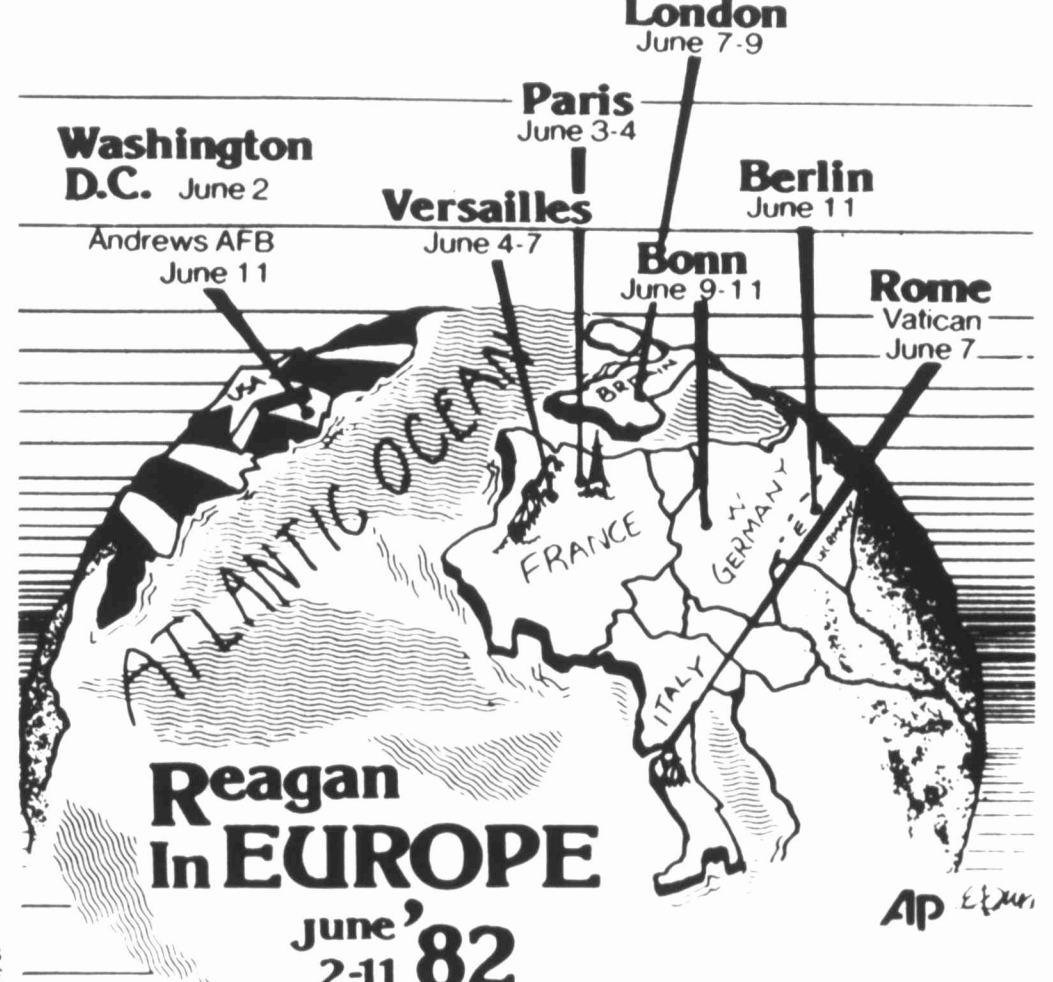

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, off on his first European trip since taking office, will discuss mutual economic problems with leaders of the major industrial democracies and try to win popular support among the allies, aides said.

The president, who is beginning his 10-day tour today, said Tuesday that U.S.-European ties are closer than they have been "for some years." He added: "I think we're seeing much more eye-to-eye than we have in the past."

But he told European reporters in a live television interview that he wonders whether opponents overseas "think I am a threat to peace" as a result of "some imagery that has been concocted for them."

The president, who is scheduled to leave Washington this morning and arrive in Paris shortly before midnight, Paris time, said he would seek to portray himself "as someone who believes very much" in the U.S.-European alliance.

The president's aides have emphasized efforts at winning popular support in Europe almost as much as they have stressed the substantive issues of high interest rates and

Arkansas blue law ruled unconstitutional

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansans who want to buy paint or pantyhose on Sunday may soon be able to do just that.

The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled Tuesday that the 1965 state law banning the sale of certain items on Sunday is unconstitutional because it is too vague. The ruling won't take effect for 17 days, to allow for appeals.

Assistant Attorney General R.B. Friedlander said Tuesday that Attorney General Steve Clark hadn't reached a decision on whether to appeal the decision.

The Supreme Court reversed a lower court ruling that ordered five merchants in Little Rock to stop selling some items on Sunday. Seven individuals and five retail stores filed the earlier lawsuit.

The Supreme Court said the law must be clear enough for people to know when they are breaking it. The law failed, Special Justice Charles B. Roskopf said.

"Indeed, the act raises more questions than it answers," the ruling said. "For example, are yard sprinklers and high-pressure hoses within the category 'other manual and power driven outdoor gardening equipment'?" Can a merchant sell an electronic strobe light for a camera, which performs the same function as a permitted flashlight? Is a non-musical comedy phonograph record within the classification of "musical instruments and recordings"? Is the sale of a toy drum prohibited, even though sales of toys are not?

The defendants had said that classifying up to 70,000 items for sale in 14 categories of prohibited items was impossible.

A spokesman for Handy Dan Improvement Centers, one of the five stores sued, said plans are under way to open this Sunday.

Eugene M. Pfeifer III, president of Mechanics Lumber Co., one of the firms that filed the lawsuit, said the ruling could change lifestyles and retailing practices.

"I think weekend shopping trips to Little Rock from outlying counties will increase and retailers there will suffer to some extent," he said.

Pfeifer said his firm might open on Sundays, depending on what his competition does.

"At least now we'll be playing by the same rules," he said. "Previously, they had the advantage of breaking the law with impunity, due to poor enforcement while we were observing the law and suffering the consequence."

Glenn A. Black, Arkansas Retail Merchants Association president, said the ruling had been needed for some time. He said merchants who obeyed the law felt discriminated against.

Black said he didn't expect the association to ask the state Legislature to write a new law. The association had requested the original legislation. Black said members disagree now on the enforcement of blue laws.

"I think everybody's glad to have a definite ruling, because the law has been so irregularly enforced, nobody was really sure where they stood," he said.

Five 17-year-old inmates charged

Teen tortured, killed after being jailed on traffic warrants

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A teen-ager jailed on warrants for $60 worth of traffic violations was tortured and killed in a jail exercise yard, and the assault went unnoticed for hours because the jail was low on staff for the Memorial Day holiday, authorities said.

Christopher Peterman, 17, died Monday of head injuries, said Ada County Chief Deputy Coronor Erwin Sonnenberg. He had been put in the county jail for the outstanding traffic warrants after his parents decided he should take responsibility for his actions.

Five 17-year-old inmates who had shared a cell with Peterman were charged Tuesday with first-degree murder in his death. The youths — Randall McKeown, Sean Matthews, Andy Anderson, Joseph Krahn and Richard Engie, all of Boise — were charged as adults and scheduled for arraignment today before Magistrate George Carey.

Assistant Ada County Prosecutor Greg Bower said Peterman, of Nampa, was repeatedly "kicked, gouged, beaten and burned" over a 4 1/2-hour period Monday. He was revived by paramedics at 2 p.m., but died four hours later of head wounds in the St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center emergency room.

The injuries included burns to his feet, Bower said. Ada County Sheriff E. Chuck Palmer said the youths rolled up pieces of toilet paper, stuck them between Peterman's toes, and set them on fire.

"I guess (someone) got mouthy," said the victim's mother, Janice Peterman. "Two or three boys beat him up."

"He was beaten horribly," she said. "His head was nothing but mush."

Palmer said no weapons were used. He said none of the youths had previously faced charges involving violent crimes.

Authorities said they knew of no motive for the slaying.

Peterman had been arrested Friday on a bench warrant by an Ada County Magistrate Court marshal for failing

Elevator switch cause of blast, officials say

HOUSTON (AP) — An elevator switch may have ignited a natural gas explosion that shattered windows, injured at least 15 people and touched off a flash fire in a downtown office building, authorities say.

Two Entex Inc. employees who were changing a broken gas meter in the basement of the Commercial Bank Building at the time of the Tuesday afternoon blast were hospitalized with burns, said Deputy Fire Chief C.J. Hooker.

Fire officials said they suspect the gas traveled up an elevator shaft, where an electrical switch may have sparked the explosion.

"It's a wonder a lot more people weren't hurt," Hooker said.

The explosion tore through the basement and the first two floors of the six-story building, located on the north end of downtown Houston, Hooker said. The blast sparked a small flash fire in the basement, but it was extinguished quickly, he

Texas Marijuana farmers targeted

Farmers harvested crops valued at 4 billion dollars last year. These crops helped to feed and clothe the entire population of the United States and much of the world.

Yet there is a prosperous crop in Texas that doesn't do anybody any good — it's marijuana, and last year alone 8 million dollars worth was seized in our state. Extensive land area, a sunny climate, and rich soil have made marijuana farming in Texas a profitable endeavor.

FORMER LARGE SCALE drug smugglers have become domestic growers in Texas to reduce the risks of transporting marijuana across international borders and open seas. In addition, these growers are seeking quality control in nurturing the most potent plants for the best market price available.

After a series of drug raids last year, netting thousands of dollars worth of marijuana, the Department of Public Safety has stepped up its search in isolated areas across the state for the illegal crops, but they can't do it alone.

FOR THE MONTH of June, 1982, the Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" on marijuana farming. If you have information on this criminal activity, please call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS.

Cash rewards are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of marijuana farmers. Citizens do not have to reveal their name, just their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Or, locally, you can call 263-1151 to report any type of crime. A reward is offered.

FBI offers no regrets

WASHINGTON — There are many weasely ways to slink away from a perpetration like ABSCAM, but the FBI has taken none of them. Its stubborn chief, William Webster, has offered no apologies, no excuses, no regrets over the FBI's undercover tactics.

On one occasion, he strode into a House hearing room, head high, with the aplomb of a man who moves familiarly in a world of marble floors, lofty ceilings and cut-glass chandeliers. ABSCAM, he insisted, had been carefully planned, meticulously executed and strictly controlled.

The truth is that ABSCAM was sloppy, sleazy and largely out of control from start to finish. My associates Jack Mitchell and Indy Badwar have reviewed the sworn testimony and picked out the FBI's misstatements. Some examples:

FICTION — The FBI relied on the likes of convicted swindler Mel Weinberg and bagman Joseph Silvestri to recruit politicians who might take bribes. Webster swore that the judgments of Weinberg were carefully evaluated at high levels before approval was given to go after the unsuspecting politicians.

FACT — Undercover meetings with public officials were often set up and secretly videotaped, without the Justice Department's approval. Not until four to six weeks afterward would a proper authority usually see the taped scenes and receive the prosecution proposals.

On one occasion, Webster authorized a last-minute substitution of victims. Silvestri wanted to bring Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., to a clandestine meeting and offer him a $30,000 bribe that had been approved earlier for Rep. William J. Hughes, D-N.J. Neither legislator succumbed to the FBI's siren song.

FICTION — The ABSCAM investigators would not pursue members of Congress, the FBI insisted, until after "reasonable suspicion" of wrongdoing was established.

FACT — The ABSCAM agents constantly misled the prosecutors by giving false information to justify their investigations. For example, the investigators claimed that Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., had already taken a $100,000 bribe before he was targeted for ABSCAM. This was a deliberate FBI lie to allay the prosecutors' concern over the "reasonable suspicion" requirement.

FICTION — The undercover activities were closely monitored, swore the FBI. Accurate transcripts supposedly were kept of the informants' conversations to make sure they didn't con the FBI or otherwise deceive.

FACT — Great numbers of such conversations were never recorded. The transcripts that were delivered to the Justice Department often were out of sequence and as much as 18 months late. Weinberg and his FBI supervisor, Tony Amoroso, were especially reluctant to tape their conversations. In several instances, transcripts were falsified.

FICTION — The FBI assured Congress that undercover informants were carefully screened to ensure their reliability. They were allegedly then given thorough instruction in such legal areas as entrapment and were kept under regular surveillance to make sure they didn't get out of line.

FACT — Government officials admitted under oath that neither chief prosecutor Thomas Puccio nor Weinberg's FBI handlers knew what the convicted swindler was doing or even where he was at times. The top Justice Department official directly in charge of ABSCAM was neither briefed about Weinberg's shady background nor shown a copy of his voluminous criminal record. Meanwhile, the glibful Weinberg easily manipulated his FBI watchdogs; they had little control over him.

FICTION — The FBI claimed its "safeguard policies" assured that ABSCAM targets were fully aware of the criminal nature of the undertakings they were invited to join. No one was to be brought to an undercover meeting unless he was prepared, in Webster's words, to "make up-front promises that would violate their legal trust."

FACT — The FBI's own videotapes and transcripts reveal that Weinberg was assuring congressmen they wouldn't actually have to perform the acts they were supposedly taking money for doing. In some cases, it was evident that the targets had no idea what the undercover meeting was all about. In other cases, the victims clearly were seeking legitimate financing. Then, as a precondition to the loans, they were told to bring in some politicians.

FICTION — The bureau was always careful to protect innocent third parties and would usually shut down an operation if such persons were threatened with irreparable financial harm.

FACT — Several respectable businessmen were ruined when an FBI con man roped them into a crooked scam for his own profit. The FBI learned of the swindle but lied to the victims to keep the ABSCAM "cover" from being blown.

FICTION — Any respectable congressman should have detected immediately that the ABSCAM stingmen were engaged in shady doings, the FBI contends.

FACT — The FBI went to elaborate lengths to create a legitimate front for ABSCAM. A phony bank account was even established at the prestigious Chase Manhattan Bank, which assured inquirers that the FBI's phony sheik was worth millions.

OUT OF THE CLOSET: Two years ago, the Social Security Administration did a study of disability recipients and concluded that about one-fifth of them didn't belong on the benefit rolls for one reason or another. But when the General Accounting Office asked for information from the study for a report to Congress on the disability system, it was told the study was "privileged."

Enter the Reagan administration, determined to show there were chiselers on the Social Security rolls. Phase Two of the SSA study showed that about 27 percent of those getting disability payments didn't deserve them, at a cost of about $4 billion a year. Far from being declared "privileged," the information was released to the press by SSA.

Billy Graham

How to be a Christian

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would really like to become a Christian, I think, but I am confused by all the various denominations and ideas. Where should I start in my search? — S.D.

DEAR S.D.: I am thankful for your spiritual hunger, because that shows that you are sincere and really want to come to know God personally. The Bible promises, "You will seek me and find me when you seek me with all your heart" (Jeremiah 29:13). The Bible also tells us that God "rewards those who earnestly seek him" (Hebrews 11:6).

I gather that you have little religious background, and I cannot blame you for feeling bewildered at the various denominations you see. It is true there are some differences between various groups, but it is also important for you to know that all Christians hold certain essential convictions in common. Also, remember that becoming a Christian is not just a matter of joining a church, although that will be something you will want to do.

God's Word, the Bible, tells us what it means to be a Christian, and how you can become one. The Bible tells us first that we need God, because we have sinned against him and are separated from him. The Bible also tells us that we cannot bridge that gap between ourselves and God by trying to be good, because God is completely holy. But the Bible also tells us that God loves us. You see, God is a person — he loves you and he wants you to love him.

How do we know God loves us? Because he sent his Son, Jesus Christ into the world to die on the Cross for our sins. In a way we cannot fully understand, Jesus Christ — the sinless Son of God — took my sins and your sins upon himself. We deserved to die on that Cross, but Christ died in our place.

Animal shelter needs our help

Dear Editor, On April 11th Tina Miller, Life Style Editor, wrote a very heart breaking article (with pictures) concerning the plight of lost, unwanted, and forsaken puppies and kittens at the animal shelter.

I am very surprised that there have been no public comments made. I am sure there are hundreds of Big Spring residents who would help support any sensible solution.

I hope those who opposed the new animal shelter in the 1980 bond election, slept well at night, with a clear conscience.

One of the cities where we lived in Wyoming, placed small card board containers at checkout counters in their stores and businesses. Hundreds of people each week dropped in pennies, nickles and dimes, to help maintain expenses for the local Shelter.

I feel we do have enough concerned citizens who would help back up such a proposal. Many of us have such a busy schedule, it is time consuming to even write a check. However dropping change in a container is both effortless and non-loss of time.

Sincerely,
V.J. NIDIFFER

Settling for less

Once when I was six, I stood among my toys staring out the window at the pasture behind the house. In my most serious little boy manner, I thought hard about my world, as a breeze chased itself across the grass. A line separated brown earth from blue sky as I stared lazily forgetting some imaginary game in wonder of a simple world I was wrong.

I can not recall, unfortunately, what my thoughts were then in that hazily-remembered time. Never again would things be quite so pleasant or simple.

WHEN I WAS thirteen, I stood on the threshold of that experience, so easily dismissed in books written by adults with short memories, as "growing up." How easy it is to pass off the teenage years as "just a phase he's going through." The awkward pain of a body and mind racing and crawling at the same time still leaves memorable scars of humiliation.

My friends and I thought we had brain damage because of the spasmodic problems we suffered whenever we were in the vicinity of females. I thought then I could handle anything if I could just get where I could talk without stuttering to a girl. I was wrong.

When I was 18 approaching a stately 19, the world was in the palm of my hands. I knew everything about anything. I had survived the turbulent teens, not a kid anymore. What more could there be for me to learn about the world anyway? I knew all the important stuff: sex, how to make money, how to have fun. What was left? I had it all. I was wrong.

I shudder now to think of the shallow, insipid existence I might have led if I had never gone to college. I suppose I would be wasting away in bland ignorance in some menial job in my hometown.

When I was 22, I left college with a teaching degree and a burning desire to educate the leaders of tomorrow, or something like that. Caught up in my idealistic pursuit to show all my students the wonders of knowledge, I forgot the very lessons of my own school days. At first puzzled by students' apathy, then angered, and finally resigned, I was disenchanted with my inability to penetrate emotional turmoil with intellectual concepts. I was wrong.

How egocentric I must have been to think my concern would have made a difference. None of my former students made an effort to seek anything outside of the sheltered community where they all still remain.

AND NOW, now I find myself facing another uncertain phase in life, but strangely at the same time when so many people seem to have the answers. With the exception of a few, the majority have chosen mediocrity, the easy out, the way of sheep. Thought and imagination have been abandoned for the 30-second commercial and the situation comedy.

Quality has been replaced by average: in literature, television, music, government. People retreat more into black and white, refusing to consider different ideas or new concepts. An apathetic collapse to the old ways, the "tell me the answer," the path of least thinking has taken over.

The bare details of my past I felt would show the universal passage most people follow. But why are so many of my peers, and those older and younger, settling for a plastic, simplistic life of numbing tedium? What have I missed? Or gained? Am I wrong — again — to still question so much?

Perhaps I ask too many questions and protest too much. Perhaps I should follow the advice of Elvis Costello: "I used to be disgusted, now I try to be amused."

WASHINGTON — After months of wasted time pondering costs that are truly piddling, the administration has a golden chance to let the Soviet Union know that Ronald Reagan has not, after all, forgotten about martial law in Poland.

That chance is to mark six months of martial law, both in Moscow and in Warsaw: Announce a major expansion of U.S.-financed radio broadcasts to the Soviet empire, including Radio Free Europe (RFE) broadcasts to Poland's news-famished millions.

Yet, in the Reagan administration the powerful White House staff system is capable of blocking the best laid plans from the outside. Nothing can be certain.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig's original letter asking the president for emergency RFE money was sent into the White House bureaucracy on Jan. 5. Whether Ronald Reagan saw it then, weeks later or ever is not known. What is certain is that Haig's proposal raised the hackles among budget-

Rowland Evans/Robert Novak

Golden chance for Reagan

cutting money-savers in the Office of Management and Budget and among sticklers for bureaucratic form at lower levels of the National Security Council staff.

THIS WEEK marks the passage of five months since Haig's letter to his boss. Next week will mark six months of martial law in Poland under worsening conditions. When Reagan imposed sanctions against the Soviets in late December, there was more than an implication — there was a virtual promise — that if conditions did not improve, sanctions would be broadened. They haven't been.

Lech Walesa, under house arrest since Dec. 13, has been moved down to southeast Poland, near the Soviet border, scarcely evidence of improved conditions. Officials here not give no better than 50-50 odds that Walesa, the worker who headed the 10-million-member Solidarity union, will ever be given his freedom by the frightened group of military and Communist Party operatives who are trying to run Poland as a nation behind bars.

That Reagan could fail to perceive the opportunities in expanding America's radio news transmissions into Poland is a mystery that has puzzled and angered Reaganites — outside the White House. Candidate Reagan declared on Oct. 7, 1980, that the foreign broadcast policies of the Carter administration were "a sorry situation" that "a Reagan-Bush administration will turn around."

Presumably, the president is aware of what an expansion of radio broadcasts into Poland would mean to Communist Party politicians in Moscow and Warsaw. On May 10 the party-controlled Polish radio aired the first of four attacks on RFE in an effort to reduce its influence, blaming it for trying to "erode and dismantle" the communist system. The fourth broadcast charged it with "urging passive resistance, calling for strikes, instigating unrest and destabilization of the country" — all of which amount to "brutal interference in the affairs of a sovereign state."

WHEN HAIG met Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko in New York last September, among other things on his mind were Soviet aggression in Afghanistan and Solidarity's stunning success in slaking the political thirst for freedom in Poland. Haig was surprised when Gromyko launched his counterattack: A demand, repeated ad nauseam, that the U.S. must tone down its radio broadcasts into the Soviet orbit; that they were unacceptable.

A quote from Polish radio might explain Gromyko's anxiety. "These radios," said the voice of Poland last month, "are largely responsible for what happened in Poland as well as what may happen in the future."

With the congressional slashing of Reagan's defense budget being read in Moscow as lack of will, a presidential decision to turn up Radio Free Europe a mere $55 million worth in 1983, much of it for capital improvements, would look particularly good on that red-letter day of June 13, the half-year mark in Poland's long night.

Despite all the gloomy reports that dominate front page news about the economy, there is more and more encouraging news about the economic developments. Here are some of the good economic news.

For the first time since mid-September all three major U.S. automakers reported that sales were higher than a year earlier. In addition, truck sales were even more robust.

The Department of Labor reported that full-time job openings available through 161 state employment-service jobs banks across the nation were up an average of 28 percent in March over February. The gain is the first month-to-month increase since September 1981.

Consumer prices from January through March increased at an annual rate of 1 percent. The GNP implicit price deflator indicated an annual rate of inflation of 3.6 percent.

Initial claims for unemployment insurance declined during the week ending May 1 for the fourth week in a row and reached the lowest level since February. In addition, the number of individuals collecting unemployment insurance declined by 89,000 from the previous week.

The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation reported home mortgage rates have declined for the tenth time in 11 weeks.

March was the second consecutive month that durable-goods orders increased. Durable-goods orders in March were 5.5 percent above the January level. Orders for machinery were up 3.5 percent during March.

The 90-day Treasury bill rate fell from 12.67 to 12.18 percent over the latest week, and is down from 15.58 percent in early September.

Non-residential investment spending has declined 1 percent during the current recession from its peak in the third quarter of last year. This is compared with an average decline of 4 percent during the first two quarters after the peak in the seven previous postwar recessions.

F. W. DODGE announced the value of new construction contracts awarded in March was up 8 percent after seasonal adjustment, with non-residential building up 9 percent seasonally adjusted largely because of new awards for shopping centers.

Retail sales were up 1.4 percent over March. Retail sales have risen 3.5 percent since January. This is very significant considering the 1 percent inflation in consumer prices in the first quarter.

The federal budget deficit for the first six months of fiscal 1982 was $6.7 billion more than the same period in fiscal 1981. This is significantly less than the doubling of the deficit indicated by most economic forecasts. Individual income-tax receipts have grown by 9.1 percent more than twice their projected growth, while corporate tax receipts were virtually unchanged compared with a forecast decline of 24 percent.

Forbes magazines reported business travel, depressed since the spring of 1980, made a sharp turnaround in March. This resulted in reported increases of 23 to 40 percent in automobile rentals.

Airlines are reporting more traffic. Despite the recession, domestic air traffic this March was up 11.5 percent from a year ago.

Private non-agricultural employment increased by 285,000 in April, including an increase of 100,000 workers in the construction industry.

Real disposable personal income has continued to grow during every quarter of the recession as a result of the reduction in the rate of inflation. This means consumers have more buying power than they did when the recession started.

Braniff, Pan Am mull agreement

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for grounded Braniff International and Pan American World Airways have begun talks aimed at getting Braniff back into operation under the Pan Am name, officials for both carriers said.

Braniff Vice President Sam Coats told KXAS-TV Tuesday that the talks, which began Monday, are still in the preliminary stages and it is too early to speculate on what form any agreement might take.

A Pan Am spokesman in New York told KDFW-TV that the talks began after the airline proposed Braniff resume its old routes under the Pan Am name.

Pan Am Public Relations Director James Arey said the talks are "active, serious and aimed at getting Braniff back into operation as soon as possible."

However, he too said the talks are preliminary and few details have been settled.

Braniff suspended all flight operations on May 13 and on the next day filed for protection from its creditors under chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws.

Coats said senior management officials of the two airlines have not met to discuss any possible joint operation, acquisition or merger.

He said the talks have been only between attorneys for the two carriers and he advised former Braniff employees not to abandon job prospects in hope the airline will fly again any time soon.

Argentines prepared for victory in defeat?

BY DOUGLAS GRANT MINE

Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's military rulers are preparing their people for defeat in the Falkland Islands. But they insist any setback will be temporary, that Argentina has done itself proud in the fight with Britain and that it will eventually own the archipelago.

President Leopoldo Galtieri set the new line in an Army Day speech Saturday after British paratroops had overrun key Argentine positions.

"May god grant that, beyond the fortunes of the unequal battle against the extra-continental aggressor and those who support her, that the torch we have lighted to illuminate the awakening of our America not be extinguished," he said.

One of the president's top advisers, who asked that his name not be used, spelled out the government position to The Associated Press.

"We have already won," he said. "We could not have been expected to defeat militarily the third and first most powerful nations in the world."

"When we lose, you will hear Galtieri, who is now a Latin American hero, say, 'Our islands have been occupied by means of vastly superior military force. I negotiate nothing nor do I cede any of our legitimate demands. I believe in the retaliatory power of my people, and we will again recover the islands.'"

Argentines who for weeks have been served a heavy dose of encouraging news — "Victory" headlines and "We're winning!" magazine covers — are beginning to read worst-case scenarios.

The Buenos Aires newspaper Conviccion said Monday: "The adult Argentina should get ready to assimilate, with virile sadness but not with desperation and much less with shame, the possibility that Great Britain, with the aid of the United States, temporarily re-establishes by force a colonial usurpation."

The paper, which has close ties to the navy, pointed out positive effects of the conflict: "With just what we've done up till now, leaving aside the surprises we've yet to give, we have acquired a dignified and gravitating presence in international society."

It added that Argentina has also learned the hard way that its friends are and that the world is run according to vested interests and force.

"We see now we can only depend on ourselves," said Demetria Garcia, a grocery store worker. "We don't need North America and Europe, and we are going to start concentrating on building up the nation from within."

"People have matured with this," said office messenger Omar Moreno. "The national unity is incredible. I don't know a single person who is not doing something to contribute to the war effort."

Moreno, father of two, said he and other volunteers spent the weekend crating C-rations for the troops.

"We're fighting for something much greater than our islands," says the latest radio spot in the government's Argentine to Victory propaganda campaign.

Democrats '82 Party seems more fearful of itself than Republicans

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Democrats complete planning for their midterm conference later this month in Philadelphia, they are acting like a party more afraid of itself than of the Republican opposition.

Freewheeling debate on issues will be banned at the Philadelphia meeting. The rules leave no place for bloody floor fights decided by a stinger roll call vote. In fact, the meeting is designed to be so orderly and well-planned that a stranger dropping in might mistake it for a Republican gathering.

In his effort to rebuild the Democratic Party after its disastrous showing in the 1980 elections, party chairman Charles T. Manatt took many clues from his Republican counterparts. He concentrated time and money on important technical services the Republicans had quietly developed during the last decade.

Since Manatt took command of the party machinery, the Democrats have become better at raising money and recruiting and helping candidates.

They remain hopelessly behind the Republicans in fund raising. But in other areas, the Democrats are closing the gap. And recent polls make the party optimistic about 1982.

No longer do they fear that the conservative wave led by Ronald Reagan that swept so many Democrats out of office in 1980 will run as strong this November. Few Republicans are talking about bucking history and winning control of the House this year. That talk has shifted to predictions the Democrats will be held to minimal gains.

Yet, there is a nagging fear among many Democrats as they look toward the 1982 elections. First, they worry about Republican messages about the fact that GOP candidates will far outpace their Democratic opponents. A big advantage in money means a big edge in the most costly of campaign commodities, television advertising time.

But beyond Republican money, Democrats also fear themselves. They remember all too clearly past conventions — Chicago in 1968, Miami Beach in 1972, Memphis, Tenn., in 1978 — all of them ending in bloodshed with various wings of the party going off in separate directions.

The Chicago and Miami Beach conventions foretold the defeats in the presidential elections that followed. And the 1978 midterm meeting in Memphis opened wounds that never healed between Jimmy Carter and his party's liberal wing.

The Democrats were so busy fighting each other at those conventions, criticism of Republicans seemed almost secondary.

Republican crusade highlights senate race

By PATRICK BRESLIN
Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The contest for the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate from New Jersey features a former aide to Ronald Reagan who is well-versed in economic theory and a popular moderate congressman who is the model for a comic-strip character.

It's Jeffrey Bell vs. Millicent Fenwick in what undisputedly is the state's most exciting race in the June 8 primary.

Bell, 38, is a lanky boyish-looking intellectual who can quote economic theories and the results of military studies during casual conversation.

Mrs. Fenwick, 72, is the charming, eloquent former model and Vogue editor whose pipe-smoking caricature is known nationwide as "Lacey Davenport" in the popular "Dooonesbury" comic strip.

The winner faces one of nine lackluster Democratic candidates in the general election to replace convicted Abscam defendant Harrison A. Williams, who resigned in March after 24 years in the Senate.

Although Mrs. Fenwick is the acknowledged leader, Bell is counting on a final blitz of television commercials this week to stop her momentum.

Bell, who was Reagan's national political scout in 1974 and a campaign worker in 1976 and 1980, has warned that Mrs. Fenwick would become the president's leading Republican critic if elevated to the Senate.

Bell's television and radio commercials are critical of Mrs. Fenwick, including charges that she frequently voted against major weapon systems backed by the Reagan administration.

But Mrs. Fenwick has emphasized her support of Reagan's economic programs and "for a tough, lean national defense."

The heir to a family fortune, Mrs. Fenwick is part of the wealthy moderate Republican wing in New Jersey. She has a 20-year political history, including two elections to the state Assembly, two years as the state consumer affairs director and eight years in Congress.

She has been endorsed by 10 of the 21 county GOP chairmen and by 44 of the party's 55 state legislators.

"I've never seen a member of the House of Representatives who has started a (statewide) campaign with such visibility," said John Dearthoff, Mrs. Fenwick's media consultant. "She's as strong a candidate as our firm has ever worked with."

So far, this apparent popularity has not been seriously undercut by Bell's intense fact-filled campaign. Officials in both camps say their private polls indicate Mrs. Fenwick is well ahead.

All out spending cuts urged

Archer wants budget deficit reduced...at all costs

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, feels that when Congress returns this week in another attempt to approve a federal budget for 1983, it will concentrate more on spending cuts than it did last week.

Archer is one of the leading advocates for such an approach. He argued in vain for the proposition of Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., that would have balanced the budget immediately by freezing all federal salaries and programs at current levels and raising taxes by $20 billion.

"The overriding problem with the nation's economy today is high interest rates, and the only way to reduce the interest rates is to cut the deficit," Archer said.

Recognizing the fierce opposition of the House's liberal bloc to the spending cuts Rousselot suggests, Archer doesn't envision the Congress voting for any 1983 budget that would balance the budget immediately.

But he does feel his colleagues will agree to hold the line on the rapid growth of the entitlement programs, and he says that will result in a significant slash in the deficit.

The three budget plans that drew the most support last week all would have resulted in a deficit of more than $100 billion for 1983, and Archer said passage of any of them would have sent the wrong kind of signal to the nation's financial leaders.

"We must come up with a budget that will cut the deficit considerably below $100 billion," Archer said. He found encouragement in remarks early, early Friday morning by House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., and House Budget Committee chairman Jim Jones, D-Okla., after lawmakers had refused to pass any budget.

Both leaders indicated a more conservative approach would be needed this week in the new attempt to pass a budget.

As in 1981, conservative Democratic "Boll Weevils" from Texas sided with Republicans most of the time in last week's budget battle.

An exception was Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, who supported Rousselot's balanced budget plan but voted against the six other proposals that came before the House.

Hance was the Democratic sponsor of President Reagan's tax legislation last year. But he had left some clues that he was only lukewarm for the compromise that Boll Weevils worked out with Republicans, particularly the concessions that were made to preserve money in some of the social programs to keep moderate Republican "Gypsy Moths" in camp.

When Boll Weevils called a news conference week before last to announce their support for the compromise, several Texans were there, but not Hance.

"When it became clear the House might not pass any budget at all, I decided that however imperfect, the Jones proposal should then be supported because of the potentially disastrous implications of the House failing to decide on a budget for 1983," Hightower said.

"I did not favor the Jones version originally because I thought it cut the rate of defense increase too much, and it went too far in raising tax revenue at a time when we should be reducing the tax load on the American people."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, supported the Democratic position throughout the budget debate. He has supported increases in funding for social programs, suggesting that money be saved by cutting out what he views as widespread waste and mismanagement.

An example is a study by the General Accounting Office, at Brooks' request, that concluded the Department of Commerce could save $24.6 million in the cost of acquiring computers for two of its agencies.

The National Bureau of Standards and the Environmental Research Laboratories had asked for $65.7 million for computers.

Brooks, chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, said the GAO recommended that the agencies cancel plans for separate procurements and share a large-scale scientifically oriented computer in a department-wide data center.

Officials of the agencies have agreed with the proposal and plan to modify their procurements accordingly, Brooks said in a letter to Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

"These are substantial savings, particularly in view of the current budgetary problems," Brooks told Baldrige. He urged the secretary to act promptly on the GAO recommendations.

Rep. Jim Collins, D-Dallas, is seeking to force House consideration of an anti-busing bill that the House passed almost a year ago.

Texans in Washington

Asked if Hance was with the Boll Weevils on the legislation, their chairman, Rep. Charlie Stenholm, D-Stamford, had suggested that reporters ask Hance about that. But Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, added: "Hance and I have never been on opposite sides of a budget vote."

Unlike last year, the Boll Weevils weren't the only Democrats who refused to vote for the plan offered by Jones and backed by party leaders. Black congressmen, including Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, complained that the leadership gave little consideration to the views of the black caucus and helped defeat Jones' proposal.

However, several Democrats, including Boll Weevil Jack Hightower of Vernon, voted for the Jones proposition after the Republican plan was

U.N. tries to save ruins in Cambodia

By BETSY KENEDY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In the jungle of northwestern Cambodia the ancient ruins of the awesome temple city of Angkor have sat abandoned and deteriorating since 1972, silent testimony to the plight of the nation they symbolize.

Since a French archaeological expert and his staff of 800 restorers were chased from the Southeast Asian country by war 10 years ago, the temples have fallen prey to the unchecked forces of nature — wind, rain, creeping jungle and corrosive dung from resident bats — and a series of continuing wars.

Now, the United Nations has launched an effort to resume restoration of Angkor, the capital of a dozen Khmer kings built between the 9th and 13th centuries. It hopes to do so by skirting Cambodia's complicated political situation with a proposal to neutralize the area where the ruins are located.

The chances of the proposal being approved by both the warring Vietnamese-backed government in Phnom Penh and the ousted communist Khmer Rouge appear, for now, to be as remote as the jungle that is slowly choking Angkor.

A 40-square-mile complex with 72 major monuments, it includes the world's largest — and one of its most beautiful — religious buildings, the temple of Angkor Wat.

Once the capital of the ancient Khmer empire, the brick and stone Angkor monuments are renowned not only for their breathtaking configuration and design, but for what they have told historians about the brilliance and power of that empire.

The effort to restore them was mounted jointly by the National Geographic Society — which sent a three-man team to Cambodia in October — and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

In an attempt to win international support for its proposal, UNESCO sponsored, and National Geographic produced, a picture and slide exhibit which was displayed in April at the United Nations.

Juxtaposing photographs taken by National Geographic editor Wilbur Garrett first in 1968 and again in October, the deterioration is evident. But Garrett expresses relief that most of the site is intact, and says it could be saved with proper action.

The current Vietnamese-installed government in Phnom Penh, capital of the country now called Kampuchea, has indicated it would welcome a restoration team.

But its leader, Heng Samrin, cannot formally invite UNESCO, because the United Nations does not recognize the government, and UNESCO can do nothing that would appear to indicate acceptance of the regime, according to UNESCO's New York director, Doudou Diene.

The Khmer Rouge, who have been accused of killing an estimated 2 million Cambodians during their reign under Pol Pot from 1975 to 1979, are recognized by the United Nations, but do not control the country.

Installed in border areas of Kampuchea, they and a separate group of non-communist resisters continue to fight the Vietnamese.

Bound by its own rules, UNESCO hopes to get around the obstacles by having both sides agree to the neutral zone. The United Nations could then allow dispatch of a UNESCO-sponsored restoration team.

"We agree with the idea of a neutralized zone," but only on condition that Vietnamese troops withdraw from the country first, Thioum Prasith, the U.N. ambassador of Democratic Kampuchea, said in a recent interview.

Equating Angkor with the "national heritage of Kampuchea," Prasith accuses the Vietnamese of using the restoration issue to gain credibility for its regime.

He says Angkor will have to wait "until (there is) a political solution."

"We're frustrated by the system," said Joseph Mehan, a spokesman for UNESCO's New York office. The Geneva-based organization has been sponsoring Angkor's restoration since 1967.

The April photo exhibit in the General Assembly building was the subject of "a very delicate bit of negotiating" by UNESCO leaders, Mehan said.

Members of the Kampuchean mission agreed to the exhibit only after they excised all photos that showed Vietnamese soldiers who currently control the region of Angkor.

The Khmer Rouge protected the complex during their reign, but fighting has left the monuments bullet-scarred. Vandals and thieves have beheaded statues, marred and taken others.

All parties agree the temple city has suffered far less than the nation it represents.

Bernard Groslier, former curator of the Angkor Conservancy and perhaps the world's foremost authority on Angkor, told National Geographic, "The most important thing is to save the people. For the time being, the monuments can wait," he told National Geographic.

Congress nearing approval of Endangered Species Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Endangered Species Act, subject of bitter debate in past years, is moving toward renewal by Congress this year with few changes and little controversy.

While environmentalists had predicted major battles over industry attempts to weaken the law, committees in both the House and the Senate have approved three-year extensions for the law without major changes. The legislation could be acted upon by the two chambers by the end of June.

"We are a little surprised that the bills... are as good as they are," said Michael J. Bean, an attorney for the Environmental Defense Fund. "Some of the major industry groups had proposed major weakening amendments, but those are not reflected in either the House or the Senate bill."

Bean said environmentalists are "relatively optimistic" of final passage with no major changes in the law, which now is scheduled to expire Sept. 30.

The act's quiet slide through Congress contrasts to its last appearance on Capitol Hill, which came in the wake of the Tellico Dam fiasco. In that dispute, a multimillion-dollar dam project in Tennessee was stopped cold by the presence of a tiny but endangered fish called the snail darter.

The law at that time forbade federal agencies from taking actions that might destroy the habitat of a creature on the endangered species list.

The debacle resulted in Congress' decision in 1978 to create a special panel to review projects and allow the extinction of a species if the cost of preserving it is too high. But it also required federal agencies to work more closely with biologists to prevent threats to endangered species. Against that background, industry lobbyists said early this year they wanted to narrow the types of species that would be eligible for protection and the degree of that protection. Environmentalists predicted a major battle over the act's renewal.

But the administration was largely silent in the debate, with the Interior and Commerce departments openly disagreeing over how the law should be changed.

And the industry amendments found little support in either the House Merchant Marine Committee or the Senate Environment Committee, with committee aides saying industry lobbyists were unable to come up with examples of any major problems caused by the law in its current form.

The panels instead opted for relatively minor streamlining changes in the law while preserving its basic framework.

Church congregation patrols for arsonists

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Four arson fires at churches in the past month have prompted congregations to set up night patrols to protect their buildings, officials say.

The latest fire, Sunday morning at the Unitarian Church of Harrisburg, was extinguished before it did extensive damage. Fires at the Holy Name of Jesus Church and at Epiphany Lutheran Church did about $150,000 damage each.

Expert storyteller spellbinds audience

By MARIANNE McQUIDDY

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — One minute, he's a little bitty ant, asking a passing traveler to "blow the dirt off my feet and then I won't track up your tortilla."

The next instant, he's a big black beetle, and then he's a mouse, or maybe a frog digging a hole with his "little frog shovel."

The change between characters is instantaneous and total, and the audience sits transfixed waiting for the next move.

It's all in a day's work for Joe Hayes.

Hayes, of Santa Fe, N.M., is one of a rare breed. He's a professional storyteller, traveling the area sharing his repertoire of tales with people, and is one of only 200 who do it full time.

He was in Alamogordo recently as part of the annual "Writers' Connection" sponsored by the International Reading Association of Otero County.

"I've been telling stories for six years," he said, "and have been making a living at it for the past two years."

Hayes said he had always been fascinated by stories, and had collected the sagas as a hobby. "I started fantasizing about doing it for a living, and, you know what, it worked!"

"I tell stories to children, adults, anyone who is interested."

He says he has no favorite story because he likes every one he tells. "Any one I remember I like."

Hayes says that many people like scary stories, and always ask him for those.

He explains that he has no set program. "I vary what stories I tell you the type group. I generally decide the second story I am going to do after I've started the first one."

What makes a good storyteller?

You must communicate well with your audience, "but it has to be real. You cannot put it on. You've got to believe and feel what you are doing."

Also, a good storyteller is one who has the guts to know himself.

"There's got to be a strong child living inside of you — someone whose not afraid to wonder and react to the tale. You need to have a good sense of humor."

Hayes generally will pick a story that everyone in the audience can understand and relate to.

"You want to make sure it doesn't go over the head of the little ones. They cannot get the more subtle humor," he said.

At the performance here, he started with the Spanish saga of a young shepherd who goes to Madrid to see the king's daughter dance and to guess what the skin of the tambourine is.

Kansas City kids play at business

KANSAS CITY, Mo (AP) — A unique program cofunded by Kansas City's business community and school districts is teaching basic economics to 13,000 school children a year.

Fifth-graders from 22 Kansas City area school districts complete a month of classroom study before becoming capitalists for a day at Exchange City, a simulated town where the children act out adult roles ranging from disc jockey to bank president.

Widely praised by educators, the Kansas City program is viewed by its corporate founders as an investment in America's future.

"The state of our national economy points up the need for consumers, producers and policy-makers who are economically literate," said Bill Hall, president of the Hallmark Educational Foundation, which launched the program with a $100,000 grant.

Scientist see new uses for sound waves

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Scientists may one day be using sound waves to aid in drug manufacture, make new plastics, and detoxify poisonous pesticides, according to North Dakota State University researchers.

They are using high-frequency sound waves — or ultrasonic waves — to greatly accelerate some important chemical reactions that have applications in these areas.

How ultrasonic works is not completely understood, the researchers told a recent American Chemical Society meeting here, but they believe that when a solution is irradiated with ultrasonic waves, bubbles form and then collapse, creating extremely powerful shock waves that literally vibrate a surface clean.

When impurities are removed from the surfaces of solid chemical reagents, they can react more quickly and result in products that are more pure than would otherwise be expected, the researchers explained.

LBJ library reopened

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The $2.3 million renovation at the Lyndon B. Johnson Library will mean a "richer educational experience for the busloads of children who come here," says Lady Bird Johnson.

The refurbished library at the University of Texas reopens Saturday and will include new displays on Vietnam, the Great Society and other facets of the Johnson era.

Harry Middleton, museum director, said declassified documents will show visitors the "anguish and agony" faced by LBJ as he tried to sort out conflicting advice on the war.

U.N. tries to save ruins in Cambodia

By BETSY KENEDY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In the jungle of northwestern Cambodia the ancient ruins of the awesome temple city of Angkor have sat abandoned and deteriorating since 1972, silent testimony to the plight of the nation they symbolize.

Since a French archaeological expert and his staff of 800 restorers were chased from the Southeast Asian country by war 10 years ago, the temples have fallen prey to the unchecked forces of nature — wind, rain, creeping jungle and corrosive dung from resident bats — and a series of continuing wars.

Now the United Nations has launched an effort to resume restoration of Angkor, the capital of a dozen Khmer kings built between the 9th and 13th centuries. It hopes to do so by skirting Cambodia's complicated political situation with a proposal to neutralize the area where the ruins are located.

The chances of the proposal being approved by both the warring Vietnamese-backed government in Phnom Penh and the ousted communist Khmer Rouge appear, for now, to be as remote as the jungle that is slowly choking Angkor.

A 40-square-mile complex with 72 major monuments, it includes the world's largest — and one of its most beautiful — religious buildings, the temple of Angkor Wat.

Once the capital of the ancient Khmer empire, the brick and stone Angkor monuments are renowned not only for their breathtaking configuration and design, but for what they have told historians about the brilliance and power of that empire.

The effort to restore them was mounted jointly by the National Geographic Society — which sent a three-man team to Cambodia in October — and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

In an attempt to win international support for its proposal, UNESCO sponsored, and National Geographic produced, a picture and slide exhibit which was displayed in April at the United Nations.

Juxtaposing photographs taken by National Geographic editor Wilbur Garrett first in 1968 and again in October, the deterioration is evident. But Garrett expresses relief that most of the site is intact, and says it could be saved with proper action.

The current Vietnamese-installed government in Phnom Penh, capital of the country now called Kampuchea, has indicated it would welcome a restoration team.

But its leader, Heng Samrin, cannot formally invite UNESCO, because the United Nations does not recognize the government, and UNESCO can do nothing that would appear to indicate acceptance of the regime, according to UNESCO's New York director, Doudou Diene.

The Khmer Rouge, who have been accused of killing an estimated 2 million Cambodians during their reign under Pol Pot from 1975 to 1979, are recognized by the United Nations, but do not control the country.

Installed in border areas of Kampuchea, they and a separate group of non-communist resisters continue to fight the Vietnamese.

Bound by its own rules, UNESCO hopes to get around the obstacles by having both sides agree to the neutral zone. The United Nations could then allow dispatch of a UNESCO-sponsored restoration team.

"We agree with the idea of a neutralized zone," but only on condition that Vietnamese troops withdraw from the country first. Thioung Prasith, the U.N. ambassador of Democratic Kampuchea, said in a recent interview.

Equating Angkor with the "national heritage of Kampuchea," Prasith accuses the Vietnamese of using the restoration issue to gain credibility for its regime.

He says Angkor will have to wait "until (there is) a political solution."

"We're frustrated by the system," said Joseph Mehan, a spokesman for UNESCO's New York office. The Geneva-based organization has been sponsoring Angkor's restoration since 1967.

The April photo exhibit in the General Assembly building was the subject of "a very delicate bit of negotiating" by UNESCO leaders, Mehan said.

Members of the Kampuchean mission agreed to the exhibit only after they excised all photos that showed Vietnamese soldiers who currently control the region of Angkor.

The Khmer Rouge protected the complex during their reign, but fighting has left the monuments bullet-scarred. Vandals and thieves have beheaded statues, marred and taken others.

All parties agree the temple city has suffered far less than the nation it represents.

Bernard Groslier, former curator of the Angkor Conservancy and perhaps the world's foremost authority on Angkor, told National Geographic, "The most important thing is to save the people. For the time being, the monuments can wait," he told National Geographic.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements on Tuesday distributed $299,999 in grants to the state's 24 regional councils of governments.

Clements said the money, approved by the 1981 Legislature, would be used to support management improvement for local governments and regional councils.

Expert storyteller spellbinds audience

By MARIANNE McQUIDDY
Alamogordo Daily News

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — One minute, he's a little bitty ant, asking a passing traveler to "blow the dirt off my feet and then I won't track up your tortilla."

The next instant, he's a big black beetle, and then he's a mouse, or maybe a frog digging a hole with his "little frog shovel."

The change between characters is instantaneous and total, and the audience sits transfixed waiting for the next move.

It's all in a day's work for Joe Hayes.

Hayes, of Santa Fe, N.M., is one of a rare breed. He's a professional storyteller, traveling the area sharing his repertoire of tales with people, and is one of only 200 who do it full time.

He was in Alamogordo recently as part of the annual "Writers' Connection" sponsored by the International Reading Association of Otero County.

"I've been telling stories for six years," he said, "and have been making a living at it for the past two years."

Hayes said he had always been fascinated by stories, and had collected the sagas as a hobby. "I started fantasizing about doing it for a living, and, you know what, it worked!"

"I tell stories to children, adults, anyone who is interested."

He says he has no favorite story because he likes every one he tells. "Any one I remember I like."

Hayes says that many people like scary stories, and always ask him for those.

He explains that he has no set program. "I vary what stories I tell you the type group. I generally decide the second story I am going to do after I've started the first one."

What makes a good storyteller?

You must communicate well with your audience, "but it has to be real. You cannot put it on. You've got to believe and feel what you are doing."

Also, a good storyteller is one who has the guts to know himself.

"There's got to be a strong child living inside of you — someone whose not afraid to wonder and react to the tale. You need to have a good sense of humor."

Hayes generally will pick a story that everyone in the audience can understand and relate to.

"You want to make sure it doesn't go over the head of the little ones. They cannot get the more subtle humor," he said.

At the performance here, he started with the Spanish saga of a young shepherd who goes to Madrid to see the king's daughter and to guess what the skin of the tambourine is.

Kansas City kids play at business

KANSAS CITY, Mo (AP) — A unique program cofunded by Kansas City's business community and school districts is teaching basic economics to 13,000 school children a year.

Fifth-graders from 22 Kansas City area school districts complete a month of classroom study before becoming capitalists for a day at Exchange City, a simulated town where the children act out adult roles ranging from disc jockey to bank president.

Widely praised by educators, the Kansas City program is viewed by its corporate founders as an investment in America's future.

"The state of our national economy points up the need for consumers, producers and policy-makers who are economically literate," said Bill Hall, president of the Hallmark Educational Foundation, which launched the program with a $100,000 grant.

Scientist see new uses for sound waves

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Scientists may one day be using sound waves to aid in drug manufacture, make new plastics, and detoxify poisonous pesticides, according to North Dakota State University researchers.

They are using high-frequency sound waves — or ultrasonic waves — to greatly accelerate some important chemical reactions that have applications in these areas.

How ultrasound works is not completely understood, the researchers told a recent American Chemical Society meeting here, but they believe that when a solution is irradiated with ultrasonic waves, bubbles form and then collapse, creating extremely powerful shock waves that literally vibrate a surface clean.

When impurities are removed from the surfaces of solid chemical reagents, they can react more quickly and result in products that are more pure than would otherwise be expected, the researchers explained.

LBJ library reopened

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The $2.3 million renovation at the Lyndon B. Johnson Library will mean a "richer educational experience for the busloads of children who come here," says Lady Bird Johnson.

The refurbished library at the University of Texas reopens Saturday and will include new displays on Vietnam, the Great Society and other facets of the Johnson era.

Harry Middleton, museum director, said declassified documents will show visitors the "anguish and agony" faced by LBJ as he tried to sort out conflicting advice on the war.

Dr. Donohue

Disc Space Infection can cripple

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have a son who was diagnosed in the hospital as having disc space infection. He was put in a body cast and given a drug called Prostaphlin. He was about a year old when he got this, and that was 20 years ago. I was told the disc space infection was extremely rare. I've never talked to anyone who has any new information about this problem. My son was pronounced cured three years after his treatment and the cast was removed. Just a few years ago, he was checked again and was given the go-ahead to play football. I'd like to know if any new research has been done on disc space infection lately. — D.D.

Between each of the sections of backbone (vertebra) is a spot where the shock-absorbing cartilage called the disc is located. That is the disc space. And this space can become infected. It is a rare, but not unheard of, infection. This infection is hard to diagnose. For one reason, it is difficult to detect with X-rays of the back. Also, the low-back pain associated with it can come from a multitude of causes. The germs that cause the infection get to the disc space by way of the blood. It is not known why they decide to settle at that point. Your son was treated with a drug that kills the staph germ, one of the most common causes of disc space infections. His cast was to rest his back and the disc area specifically. I am happy to hear that your son's infection responded so well to treatment and that he's able to play football now. He should send his doctors a couple of free tickets to his next game. They were alert in detecting his problem and treating it promptly, especially in one as young as he was at the time.

I can't report on any recent research having to do with disc space infection generally, but there is a tremendous amount of study trying to find the best way to kill germs that cause it. If we lived today without antibiotics, disc infection could be a permanently-crippling illness. Now, antibiotics attack the organism before there can be spread of infection to bone, which can cause collapse of the spine. We can be thankful for all the research that has gone on in the past few decades, leading to development of such a wide array of antibiotics.

Denise Johnson honored with bridal shower

Denise Johnson, bride-elect of Roger Dean Coates, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower, Saturday morning, in the home of Mrs. Ted Fowler of Coahoma. Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. David Barr, Mrs. Marty Brooks, Mrs. Rodney Brooks, Mrs. Stella Brooks, Mrs. Bob Cathey, Mrs. Ray Echols, Mrs. Fowler, Mrs. W.A. Flashback, Mrs. A.V. Lewis, Mrs. Leon Menser, Mrs. Don McKinney, Mrs. Bill Milliken, Mrs. O.D. O'Daniel, Mrs. Clovis Phinney, Jr., Mrs. Donald Webb and Mrs. Jack Wolf. The hostesses presented the bride-elect with a vacuum cleaner, a centerpiece of silk daylilies and a corsage of blue lilies. Similar corsages were presented to Mrs. Del Shirey, Big Spring, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. James Coates, Coahoma, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Mrs. F.C. Appleton, grandmother of the bridegroom. Other special guests were Mrs. F.J. Firenza, Lubbock, Mrs. John Appleton, and Mrs. Eldon Appleton, both of Big Spring, aunts of the bridegroom. The couple will be married in the Chapel of First Baptist Church of Big Spring, June 26.

First child is born to Bonners

Mr. and Mrs. Greg C. Bonner, Midland, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Sheena Dawn, at Midland Memorial Hospital, May 23. She was born at 7:40 p.m., weighing 8 pounds 8 ounces and measuring 20 inches. Sheena Dawn's maternal grandparents are Lt. Colonel (Ret.) and Mrs. Bobby G. Walls, Mineral Wells. Her paternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Bonner, 2504 Larry. Her maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Catherine Rogers, Hagerstown, Maryland, and her paternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Mae Bonner, Mart.

Drug may be cure to psoriasis

An old drug in a new, very low concentration may prove to be the best treatment for psoriasis, the chronic scaly skin disease. Anthralin ointment, introduced in 1915, has been used for psoriasis in a standard concentration of 0.1 to 1.0 percent. According to Dr. Leopoldo F. Montes of the University of Alabama, Birmingham, the skin problem cleared up among the vast majority of 130 patients who used Anthralin ointment as part of their treatment. They applied a low concentration of ointment (.1 to 0.5 percent) once daily along with using mild ultraviolet light, bath oil, emollient (softening cream) and antihistamine. The treatment was successful in every case of scalp psoriasis. What's more, reports Dr. Montes, the low-concentration ointment doesn't irritate or stain.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: You have written that it is important to distinguish Alzheimer's disease from other diseases. And you mentioned fluid buildup in the brain, which can occur and which can be treated. How can fluid buildup be identified, and what doctor should one go to for it? — M.F.

When I mentioned brain fluid buildup I was not referring to Alzheimer's disease, but to a condition called normal pressure hydrocephalus. Alzheimer's is an entirely different problem — a premature shrinking, if you will, of brain tissue. That can be a part of aging. However, the symptoms of Alzheimer's and those of the brain fluid problem can be similar, hence the need to carefully rule out one or the other.

Now just a word about normal pressure hydrocephalus. It means that there is an obstruction of the flow of spinal fluid from the brain out to the spinal cord. As the fluid builds up it presses against brain tissue and causes it to shrink. At first, the fluid pressure is high; later, as time goes on, it returns to normal. That is why the condition is called normal pressure hydrocephalus. As mentioned, the symptoms are quite like those of Alzheimer's disease. There may be loss of mental acuity, loss of urinary control, a shuffling walk, etc.

Brain scans help identify normal pressure hydrocephalus. Unlike Alzheimer's disease, surgical treatment is available for it. The goal is to re-establish flow of spinal fluid. With that, symptoms improve markedly.

Six 4-H members visit Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION — The Texas A&M University campus will be a hive of activity June 8-10 when some 2,000 4-H members from across the state gather for the 1982 State 4-H Roundup and State 4-H Congress. Roundup is traditionally held on the A&M campus each year, but this year the State 4-H Congress, a leadership event for senior 4-H members, has been scheduled to coincide with Roundup activities.

Theme for the three-day event will be "Discover Your Tomorrow," says George McArthur, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The Extension Service is the parent organization of 4-H.

Activities will begin with the State 4-H Food Show the first day followed by a special assembly that evening at 7 p.m. in Rudder Auditorium. Five individuals and businesses will be honored for their long-time support of 4-H and 72 outstanding 4-H members who will be awarded scholarships totaling $350,000.

Competition in 39 different contest areas begins bright and early Wednesday, June 9. These range from method demonstrations in agronomy and clothing to judging of horses, livestock and soils.

Six 4-Hers from the Howard County area will attend the roundup and congress. Paula Allen of Coahoma 4-H Club will participate in the food show. David Bristo of Forsan 4-H Club will participate in the public speaking contest. The livestock judging team of Cole Hunt of Knott 4-H Club, Jamie Phillips, Gregg Miller and Blair Richardson, all of Lucky Acres 4-H Club, will participate in the livestock judging contest.

State 4-H Congress, with some 800 participants, begins at 8 a.m. that same day with a general assembly in Rudder Auditorium. Congress participants will be involved in a number of special seminars the remainder of the day dealing with educational and career opportunities. And the State 4-H Project Show gets under way at 10 a.m. in Rudder Exhibit Hall. A special luncheon that day will honor 29 outstanding 4-H adult volunteer leaders from across Texas who have been selected from the 14 Extension Service districts. Roundup contest winners will be recognized at a special assembly that evening at 8 p.m. in Rudder Auditorium. The final day's program will include special activities for Congress participants, including tours and visits in various academic departments at Texas A&M.

Dear Abby

Toddlers get in over their heads

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure everyone has heard of people who have found superhuman strength or courage in times of extreme emergencies.

I just want to write and tell you about my daughter, who is 2 years old. Her best friend is her cousin, who is also 2. One day while I was on the phone, the two little girls wandered out in the backyard where there is a 10-foot-deep swimming pool. Before I could get off the phone, my little niece had fallen into the deep end of the pool. Before I could get to her, my little 2-year-old girl had already jumped into the pool and pulled her cousin out! It was a miracle. I didn't even know my child could swim, let alone rescue someone. That just goes to show you what a 2-year-old can do.

PROUD MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I think it is indeed wonderful that your 2-year-old child could save another child's life as yours did, and you have a right to be proud. But I am wondering, "Proud Mother," why two 2-year-olds were allowed to wander unsupervised in the backyard where there was a 10-foot-deep swimming pool?

I'm glad you wrote. It gives me another opportunity to warn parents, grandparents, baby sitters — anyone who is in charge of children: Do not take your eyes off them for 5 seconds! Their lives are in your hands.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 60-year-old single male. I never married because I never met a woman I wanted to spend the rest of my life with. I am not bad looking and don't look my age. The problem is with a young woman in her early 20s who lives near me in this small town. She has indicated to me many times that she would like to go out with me, but I've pretended not to notice. Then her parents started to put some pressure on me to take her out. I did nothing about it, so now they are very unfriendly to me. I do not want to lose their friendship, but I am not going to date their daughter just to please them.

How should I handle this situation?
BACHELOR BY CHOICE
DEAR BACHELOR: If you lose their friendship because you refuse to date their daughter, you haven't lost much. Clear the air by them that you would not feel comfortable dating a girl who is young enough to be your daughter.

DEAR ABBY: So many women write to complain that every man they meet expects them to go to bed after the first date. Thanks, Abby, for saying that all men are not alike, that there are plenty of gentlemen around who respect a woman for saying no. I know, I married one.

We met on New Year's Eve, 1976, at a singles club. I was 56 and had never been married. He was 59, had been a widower for nine years and had five grown children. We started dating, and after we got to know each other better, I told him that I was still a virgin. At first he couldn't believe it, but said it was refreshing to find a woman who could hold out as long as I had.

I was no prude, and I wasn't ugly. I had plenty of dates and plenty of chances. I didn't condemn unmarried women who weren't virgins, but I had my own standards and wanted to save myself for the man I married.

On June 30, 1979, we were married, and I'm proud to say I was a 58-year-old virgin. I am signing my real name, but if you print this, please sign me ...

GLAD I WAITED IN PA

Rubio signs HC pact

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Signing his third local baseball standout in two weeks, Howard College coach Bill Griffin boosted stock in his pitching staff when he inked Big Spring High pitcher Moe Rubio Tuesday afternoon.

Rubio joins District 5-AAAAA Most Valuable Player Blake Rosson and 1981 all-district center fielder Mark Warren on the first HC Hawk baseball roster. Griffin was in Abilene Wednesday to sign Cooper High pitcher-outfielder Billy Mitchell.

"Signing Moe Rubio ins like bingoing," an elated Griffin said in his office. "We bingoed today."

Griffin bought the league's top pitcher to the HC campus when Tuesday's agreements were completed. The Steer star compiled an 11-3 record as a senior and went 6-1 in district games.

After losing the league opener 4-2 to Abilene, Rubio won six straight games. Four of his last five wins were shutouts as he blanked San Angelo 1-0 in nine innings and one-hit Midland High.

His earned run average in district was 0.45. He struck out 52 batters in 47 innings and walked just 16.

He won the bi-district opener against Denton 6-0, limiting the Broncos to just two hits. With only two days rest, he was forced to take the mound again in the series and lost 4-0 in Denton.

Rubio and San Angelo's Zeke Barron were the two 5-5A all-district pitchers for 1982.

"Moe's going to do a hell of a good job," Griffin predicted. "He has a great disposition for a pitcher to have. He's completely aware of what he wants to do on the mound — that's something that is sometimes difficult to teach a kid."

"I think I'm making a good decision on coming to Howard," Rubio said. "I think they have a real good program and I just happened to like the coach — he's shown a lot of interest in me."

Griffin explained that his new pitcher has great pitching fundamentals and will just need experience. "He's got the tools to be an effective college pitcher. There's going to be some things that are different but he's mature enough to learn them," Griffin said.

"Moe's a winner," he continued. "He's got that air about him."

Rubio does indeed bring a winning tradition with him to Howard. The Steers were 13-13 his junior year and soared all the way to 24-11 this past spring, winning their first-ever district championship.

Texas teams rained out

Tuesday games involving the Texas Rangers and Houston Astros were both rained out.

Lakers 'Kareem' Sixers as Abdul-Jabbar rests

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It got very quiet at the Forum late in the first quarter when perennial all-pro center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar drew his third personal foul and went to the sidelines.

But the Los Angeles Lakers proved long ago that they can function quite well without their captain. Because of his foul problems, Abdul-Jabbar missed the final 14:15 of the first half Tuesday night in Game Three of the 1982 National Basketball Association Championship Series. But the Lakers rolled to a 129-108 triumph over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Los Angeles, which never trailed in taking a 2-1 lead over the 76ers in the best-of-seven series, led 24-17 with 2:15 to go in the first quarter when Abdul-Jabbar was saddled with his third foul.

If anything, that served as an inspiration as the Lakers scored 16 of the game's next 19 points to take a 40-20 advantage. The 76ers weren't closer than nine points after that.

Los Angeles showed what it could do without Abdul-Jabbar two years ago against the 76ers in the sixth game of the Championship Series. Abdul-Jabbar sprained an ankle in Game 5 and couldn't play at Philadelphia a few days later, but that didn't matter as the Lakers rolled to a 123-107 victory to win the NBA title.

Last December, the six-time NBA most valuable player missed six games because of an injury, and the Lakers were victorious in all six.

Bob McAdoo, who played center most of the time Abdul-Jabbar was watching Tuesday night, was a key factor in keeping the Lakers on top as he scored all 14 of his points in the first half.

"I think it's indicative that when a team loses at this level it always responds with a much-better effort," said Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley, whose club dropped a 110-94 decision at Philadelphia on Sunday. "The only adjustment we made was in attitude."

"I really thought the effort and the intensity level was up defensively in the first half, and that's really the nature of the game. At this level right now, you can talk about adjustments and going back to the chalkboard, but it comes down to who plays the hardest."

"I expect Philadelphia to come back in a different frame of mind Thursday night."

Riley referred to the fourth game of the series, which also will be played on the Lakers' homecourt, starting at 6 p.m., PDT.

While the Lakers got fine efforts from just about everyone who played, the 76ers were generally unimpressive outside of guard Andrew Toney.

Super Swede records second major upset

PARIS (AP) — A second major upset by Swedish teenager Mats Wilander left it up to Jimmy Connors to break America's string of frustration at the French Open tennis championships.

Vitas Gerulaitis, the No. 5 seed, was the 22nd American to be eliminated from the Grand Slam event Tuesday when the unseeded 17-year-old Wilander toppled him 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 and qualified for the semifinals.

Now, only Connors can become the first American man in 27 years to win the $917,000 clay court tournament, one of the major events on the world circuit.

Top-seeded Connors played Spain's Jose Higueras today in the quarterfinals. Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, the No. 3 seed, met Frenchman Yannick Noah, seeded eighth, in the other remaining quarterfinal.

The 29-year-old Connors, who has never made the finals of any French Open, had won five of his six previous matches against Higueras, the No. 14 seed who is ranked 17th worldwide.

Wilander's victory moved him a step closer to ending his compatriot Bjorn Borg's distinction of being the youngest man to win this event.

Borg, who is not competing this year, won his first of six French titles in 1974 six days after his 18th birthday. Wilander, whose style is similar to that of Borg, celebrates his 18th birthday Aug. 22.

NBA Championship

"I just thought they were a step quicker than us in every phase of the game," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "The reason we lost is they played so well. We just did not play well as a team. We looked to establish something and we just did not do it tonight."

Toney scored a game-high 36 points, connecting on 13 of 21 field-goal attempts and nine of 10 free-throw tries. The other 76ers combined to make just 26 of 67 floor shots and 20 of 30 from the foul line.

Overall, the 76ers made only 44.3 percent of their floor shots to 54.9 percent for the Lakers. Including team rebounds, Los Angeles outrebounded Philadelphia 66-54.

Three other 76ers scored in double figures: Julius Erving had 21 points but pulled down only three rebounds; Maurice Cheeks had 17 points and nine assists, and Darryl Dawkins had 14 points and a game-high 13 rebounds.

Norm Nixon led the Lakers with 29 points, all but eight coming in the second half. Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 22 points, making eight of his nine field-goal attempts. He also led his team with nine rebounds and eight assists.

Jamaal Wilkes and Abdul-Jabbar added 17 and 16 points, respectively, for Los Angeles.

"This is the first game we were able to take command early," said Nixon, who had only six points on three-of-14 shooting in Game 2. "We made a conscious effort to get to the front early."

"I think if I don't have a good night scoring, I hurt my team. So I went out from the gun and tried to score. I found my rhythm in the second half. I lost it in the second game."

The Lakers scored the game's first six points, but the 76ers came back to tie the count at 8-8. Los Angeles scored the next six points to go ahead for good.

Philadelphia battled back from the 40-20 deficit to get as close as nine points four times late in the second quarter, but the Lakers made it 60-48 at the intermission on Michael Cooper's three-point field goal as the first half ended.

Los Angeles ended all doubts by outscoring the 76ers 13-2 in the opening 3:39 of the second half to go ahead 73-50. Philadelphia never got closer than 15 thereafter.

Twins lose 13th

By The Associated Press
It took 20 years for Billy Gardner to return to the Minnesota Twins, but not nearly that long for him to experience a sense of déjà vu.

Gardner was an infielder with the Washington Senators when they moved to Minnesota in 1961, became the Twins and suffered through a 13-game losing streak.

Gardner was traded to the New York Yankees last season and didn't put on a Twins uniform again until last year, when he signed on as a coach after a 12-year managing career in the minors. He replaced Johnny Goryl as manager of the Twins on May 22, 1981, and Tuesday night, Gardner's youthful 1982 Twins tied the 1961 club record of 13 consecutive losses when they dropped a 6-4 decision to the Cleveland Indians, who have won nine in a row.

Minnesota, which blew a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning when Cleveland's Andre Thornton hit a three-run homer, his 15th of the season, tied the game 4-4 in the top of the eighth on Kent Hrbek's infield hit.

Tigers 2, Angels 1

Dan Petry pitched eight shutout innings and Dave Tobik notched his first save of the season as Detroit moved into first place in the AL East, one-half game ahead of Boston. The Tigers scored their runs in the second inning against Ken Forsch. A single by Richie Hebner and Larry Herndon's double set the stage for a run-scoring grounder by Lance Parrish and an RBI single by Lou Whitaker.

A's 3, Red Sox 2

Rickey Henderson, who stole his 50th and 51st bases earlier in the game, hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning for the tying and winning runs. Henderson's steals gave him 51 in 51 games. The homer of Chuck Rainey was his fifth of the season and his second in two days. In the third, Tony Phillips singled and was forced by Henderson, who stole second and scored on a single by Dan Meyer.

Oakland's Rick Langford allowed three hits and two runs in the first inning but only three more hits until he was replaced by Tom Underwood in the ninth.

Royals 4, White Sox 3

Kansas City relief ace Dan Quisenberry pitched out of a seventh-inning jam to pick up his 13th save of the season. Quisenberry, who leads the AL in saves, pitched the final three innings to preserve the victory for Vida Blue and hand the White Sox their fifth straight loss.

Kansas City erased a 2-0 deficit with two runs in the bottom of the first. George Brett doubled home Willie Wilson, who singled and stole second. Brett scored on a single by Hal McRae. The Royals made it 4-2 in the fifth on singles by Frank White, Wilson and John Wathan and Amos Otis' grounder.

Quisenberry entered the game in the seventh after Jim Morrison homered and Bill Almon walked. Ron LeFlore singled Almon to third, but Quisenberry picked Ron LeFlore off first after faking a move to third, then got two ground balls to end the threat. However, he issued his first walk of the season—he has worked 402-3 innings—when he passed Jerry Hairston with one out in the ninth.

"I can't seem to throw a strike when I need one," Quisenberry said with a smile.

Blue Jays 5, Yankees 2

Barry Bonnell drove in the tying and lead runs on a bases-loaded single off New York relief ace Rich Gossage in the eighth inning and Jesse Barfield added a two-run double. Gossage came on with one out and runners at first and second. He walked pinch hitter Buck Martinez and Bonnell rapped his next pitch into center field for the game-winning hit. Dale Murray was the winner with three innings of one-hit relief.

Brewers 2, Mariners 1

Pete Vuckovich blanked Seattle on two hits for seven innings. Ted Simmons homered in the second inning and Roy Howell singled home the Brewers' other run in the seventh. Vuckovich lost his shutout bid in the eighth when Joe Simpson doubled and Bruce Bochte singled him home. That chased Vuckovich and Rollie Fingers came on to record his 11th save.

Padres 9, Cubs 1

Ruppert Jones slugged a three-run homer and Broderick Perkins drove in three runs with a triple and a single to power San Diego over Chicago.

The Padres scored four runs in the second inning and four more in the third to wrap up the game early and make it easy for John Montefusco, who worked only five innings. Randy Martz, 4-4, took the loss.

Braves 7, Mets 3

Dale Murphy's three-run homer keyed a four-run first inning, triggering Atlanta over New York. Murphy took over leadership in the NL home run race with 15. He also is the leader at driving in runs with 42.

Pirates 3, Dodgers 1

John Candelaria and two relievers combined on a five-hitter and Bill Madlock hit a two-run homer to lead Pittsburgh over Los Angeles.

A LIFE OF EXTREMES—Two years after Jim Craig was the goalie on the U.S. Olympic hockey team that captured the gold medal and the hearts of millions of Americans, he is searching for the success and peace of mind that has eluded him since that miraculous day in 1980. He seems to be plagued by ill-fated luck. Bob Woolf, Craig's agent said Tuesday, "The only way I can explain it is there must be some type of compensation god that gave him so much one year and now is evening things out."

Olympic hero in trouble

WAREHAM, Mass. (AP)—Professional hockey goalie Jim Craig has court hearings pending here and in Edgartown, the first stemming from a fatal highway accident and the second on complaints allegedly from an incident off Cape Cod.

Craig, former Olympic star and now a member of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, Tuesday asked for a hearing in Wareham District Court before misdemeanor charges of vehicular homicide and operating to endanger can be issued against him.

Mattapoisett Police have requested that the two complaints be issued against Craig in connection with a two-car accident in that town Saturday in which Margaret Curry, 28, of New Bedford, was killed and two other women injured, one seriously. Craig is a summer resident of Mattapoisett.

Craig's attorney, James Fagan of Taunton, has requested a hearing before Clerk-Magistrate Paul Walsh in the next four-to-six weeks.

In the other case, Trooper Dan Flynn of the state police said Craig, two of his brothers and three other men, all aboard a small boat, were escorted May 7 from Cuttyhunk Island after the Coast Guard sent two boats and helicopter to the island off Cape Cod following residents' complaints.

They were handed over to state police on the mainland at Woods Hole.

Flynn said the six were ordered to appear before a magistrate in District Court June 10 in Edgartown on Martha's Vineyard. At least three Cuttyhunk residents plan to appear in court to press charges, he said.

No one was arrested, Flynn said, but he has applied for six charges of disorderly conduct and one additional charge of malicious damage against one of the men for allegedly breaking the glass in a public telephone booth.

In the 11:50 p.m. Saturday accident, police identified Craig, whose 25th birthday was Monday, as the driver of one of the cars involved in the fatal crash.

After his triumph with the Olympic champions at Lake Placid in 1980, Craig joined Atlanta in the National Hockey League, then moved to the Boston Bruins. He was benched and later injured.

By last February, Craig was with the Erie Blades of the minor American Hockey League and hospitalized for two weeks with back spasms.

Fairbanks accepts NY franchise job

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Chuck Fairbanks, who amassed a dismal 7-26 record during his three years as head football coach at the University of Colorado, has resigned to return to professional football.

Eddie Crowder, athletic director at Colorado, told a news conference Tuesday that Fairbanks has submitted his resignation earlier in the day and left immediately for New York City to begin formation of the New York franchise in new United States Football League.

Fairbanks was scheduled to appear at a news conference today to announce that he will be president and coach of the franchise.

Jim Valek, director of development for CU's football program, also resigned to serve as general manager of the new team which is owned by oilman J. Walter Duncan.

Fairbanks coached the New England Patriots of the National Football League immediately prior to taking job at CU.

Crowder and several other university officials met with CU President Arnold Webber Tuesday night but there was no announcement of a replacement.

"We bandied about several names and I will be on the phone early in the morning," Crowder said after the meeting.

Duncan, contacted at his office in Oklahoma City, would not confirm Fairbanks' selection as president and coach of his team. But he said he and Fairbanks have been friends for years.

Clark stays hot

By The Associated Press
San Francisco outfielder Jack Clark is a tough man to keep down, even when he's hurting.

Last week's National League Player of the Week, Clark was held out of the starting lineup Tuesday night against the St. Louis Cardinals because of a sore foot.

But it didn't stop him from pinch-hitting in the 11th inning—and winning the game with a run-scoring single as the Giants topped the Cardinals 4-3.

"I didn't want to make any mistakes," Clark said. "I talked to the doctor at 7 o'clock. He said I couldn't hurt it any worse. I just wanted to swing and get it over."

Which is exactly what he did, hitting reliever Doug Bair's first pitch into center field to bring home Darrell Evans from second base.

His game-winning hit made the foot feel a lot better.

Reggie Smith and Evans opened the 11th with singles and Smith was forced at third on a bunt by Milt May before Clark belted his game-winning hit.

Reds 4, Phillies 1

Greg Harris pitched a five-hitter and singled in a run as Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia. The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the third on Dave Concepcion's RBI single, then made it 3-0 in the fourth on run-scoring singles by Larry Bittner and Harris.

In the fifth, Concepcion singled with one out, took third on Dan Driessen's single and scored on Mike Vail's infield hit.

Harris, 2-0, who was recalled from

National League

Indianapolis of the American Association May 20, struck out three and walked four in gaining his first complete game.

The Phillies scored their run in the sixth on Bo Diaz' RBI double.

Padres 9, Cubs 1

Ruppert Jones slugged a three-run homer and Broderick Perkins drove in three runs with a triple and a single to power San Diego over Chicago.

The Padres scored four runs in the second inning and four more in the third to wrap up the game early and make it easy for John Montefusco, who worked only five innings. Randy Martz, 4-4, took the loss.

Braves 7, Mets 3

Dale Murphy's three-run homer keyed a four-run first inning, triggering Atlanta over New York. Murphy took over leadership in the NL home run race with 15. He also is the leader at driving in runs with 42.

Angels record another win

The Saunders Company Angels continued their surge in American Senior League with a 19-7 romp over the Gartman Refrigeration Trojans Tuesday night.

Mike Dodd rapped three basehits to drive in five runs and David Renteria doubled in four RBI's to pace a 15-hit Angel attack.

Dodd was also the winning pitcher, limiting the Trojans to six hits.

The Angels are now 4-3 in the league standings while the Trojans slip to 3-4. The Astros lead with a 6-1 mark.

Threesome wins Chicano Golf

Juan Ramirez, Nat Nunez and Raul Hernandez combined for a 63 to win the Chicano Golf Association Louisiana Draw this past weekend at the Comanche Trails Golf Course.

Second place went to the threesome of Ansel Finley, Jesse Hinojos and Joe Juarez with a 66. A 68 was good for third, put together by Juan Ortega, Martin Deportivo and Manuel Correa.

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Davis' attempt to move the Oakland Raiders to Los Angeles — given a boost last month when a jury ruled against the National Football League in its efforts to keep the club in Oakland — is the paramount topic of conversation of the 28 league clubowners.

taken. Judge Harry Pregerson is expected to rule shortly on the Raiders' request for an injunction, clearing the way for the move to Los Angeles, and the NFL's request for a stay of that injunction.

The owners met today for the first time since a Los Angeles jury ruled against the league in a suit filed by Davis.

Also, the owners were scheduled to hear a report by the NFL Management Council on continuing negotiations with the NFL Players Association.

Davis is expected to attend the sessions but will not participate in any discussions concerning his team's situation. Instead, the 27 other owners, as defendants in the case, will have a privileged session with their attorneys, with Davis excluded.

The meeting is the last scheduled for the owners before the July 15 collective bargaining deadline, and the Management Council bargainers will make a report on the progress of negotiations.

The owners will get an explanation of the verdict as well as recommendations from the attorneys on what further action can be

On Thursday, the clubs will listen to Super Bowl presentations from 10 cities, although no decision is expected this week on the awarding of future Super Bowls.

Some meat, poultry items to remain high

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans may not spend any more on meat and poultry than they did last year, although prices will be up for some items, says the Agriculture Department.

That is because production and consumption of meat and poultry, overall, will be down in 1982. Much of the decline will be due to cutbacks by hog producers.

According to the department's Economic Research Service, per capita consumption of red meat and poultry is expected to drop 5 to 7 percent from 1981, including declines of 1 to 2 percent for beef and poultry, and 14 to 16 percent for pork.

The figures, published in the agency's latest livestock and meat situation report, showed that on a per capita basis Americans spent $329.75 on meat and poultry last year, up from $320.17 in 1980.

"Total expenditures on red meat and poultry are expected to remain stable in 1982," the report said. "Declining per capita consumption of red meat and poultry, coupled with only slightly higher retail prices, should further reduce the proportion of income spent on red meat and poultry."

Last year, it said, Americans spent an average of 3.72 percent of their disposal income to pay meat and poultry bills, compared to 3.97 percent in 1980.

But the report said the forecast for 1982 could be altered by economic developments, particularly in the second half.

"The net result of a combination of modest economic growth, a July tax reduction, and a moderating inflation rate will be a slight increase in consumer purchasing power for this year," it said.

Per capita consumption of meat and poultry averaged 207.9 pounds last year, down slightly from 208.4 pounds — computed on the basis of retail weight — in 1981.

Beef consumption was up for the first time in some years, averaging 77.3 pounds per person against 76.5 pounds in 1980.

Pork, on the other hand, averaged slightly less than 65 pounds, down from 68.3 pounds in 1980.

Lamb and mutton consumption showed a slight gain to an average of 1.5 pounds per capita from 1.3 pounds in each of the three previous years.

Veal consumption, reflecting the decline in calf slaughter the past several years, was unchanged at 1.7 pounds. In 1977, by comparison, per capita veal consumption was 3.4 pounds.

Total red meat consumption in 1981, according to the report, averaged about 145.5 pounds per person, down about two pounds from 1981.

In the poultry sector, per capita consumption last year overall averaged about 62.4 pounds of retail weight, up from 60.6 in 1980.

Of that, broilers accounted for approximately 48.6 pounds, turkeys 10.8 pounds, and other chickens the remaining 3.1 pounds.

In 1980, the breakdown included: broilers, 47 pounds; turkeys, 10.5 pounds; and other chickens, 3.05 pounds.

Essential oil exports up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exports of essential oils — the kind that give off aromas — were valued at $96 million last year, up about $1 million from 1980, says the Agriculture Department.

Beetle problem explained

COLLEGE STATION — Blister beetles can be a serious problem to different classes of livestock, but their toxicity is most severe in horses, according to a Texas A&M entomologist.

The beetles cause severe blistering of the esophagus, stomach and intestinal tract of animals.

"Blister beetle poisoning in horses is manifested as a severe colic," points out Dr. Clifford Hoelscher, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Cantharidin (toxic chemical produced in the beetle) causes severe blistering of the mucus lining in the animal's digestive tract and other internal tissues." "The chemical is not broken down in the digestive process and must be excreted in the urine."

Positive diagnosis of animal poisoning is possible by tissue or urine analysis at the Texas A&M Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory in College Station.

A local veterinarian can suggest treatments for poisoned horses, says Hoelscher. Drenching animals with mineral oil to help protect the digestive tract lining is a first step in treatment.

"Clinical symptoms in other livestock types include a general depression, loss of appetite and constant urination," Hoelscher says. "Expressed symptoms depend on the amount of cantharidin in the feed (mainly hay), general vigor of the animal and its species."

About 35 species of blister beetles occur in Texas, notes the entomologist, and all produce varying amounts of the toxic chemical. This area is presently under study.

If a horse eats just two to five blister beetles of a certain species, the animal can die within 12 to 24 hours, emphasizes Hoelscher.

"It's important for hay and feed producers to determine if beetles are present in a field before hay is cut," explains Hoelscher. "Infested hay fields can be treated with insecticide, but the effectiveness of this has not yet been determined."

So, Hoelscher recommends these producer management strategies to reduce losses: inspect individual hay fields for adult blister beetles before harvesting, don't harvest beetle-infested areas of hay fields, and be sure a field scout can readily distinguish blister beetles from other insect species.

"Knowledge about the problem is the key to reducing animal losses from blister beetles," he says. "Know what blister beetles look like, what to do with an infested field, and how to get help in treating poisoned animals."

Cold, avalanches won't stop rescue team

By PAUL JENKINS
Associated Press Writer
FORT GREELY, Alaska — The message from the mountains jutting above the wind-buffed Army helicopter is loud and clear: This is a good place to get killed.

On the other side of the chopper's plexiglas windows, it's 30 below. Winds are scouring the peaks. In that environment, exposed skin freezes in moments. Staying alive, even with the best equipment and training, is a full-time job.

While the peaks are a no-man's land for most, the Army's High-Altitude Rescue Team — the court of last resort for Alaska rescues — uses them as a training ground the year-around.

The climbing team is supported by specially equipped helicopters from the 242nd Aviation Co. at Fort Wainwright, near Fairbanks. It is prepared for rescue work anywhere in Alaska with four-hour notice from the Rescue Coordination Center at Elmendorf Air Force Base, at Anchorage.

A dozen sets of highly specialized civilian climbing gear are stowed in lockers at the Northern Warfare Training Center here, where 40 instructors teach courses in how to survive and work in the mountains.

"It's either a plum assignment or a terrible one, depending on your point of view," says Lt. Col. Thomas Leavitt of Gardner, Mass., the 40-year-old commander of the training center.

During the Alaska climbing season, May through August, at least four team members are on round-the-clock call.

In 1972, a twin-engine Army plane crashed on Mount Iliamna, killing five, but no military unit had specific responsibility for high-altitude rescues. That gave birth to the rescue unit.

Drawn from cadre at the training center, the team has since participated in 40 to 50 rescues, a half-dozen "at altitude" — 10,000 feet or higher — including one last December in which the team and civilian climbers plucked two plane crash survivors off Mount McKinley. Two others aboard the plane were killed.

Facing the risk of acute high altitude sickness, avalanches and rapidly changing weather, team members say they seldom are called until it's too late.

Leavitt says that in the event of an emergency involving civilians, the Rescue Coordination Center first tries to bring in civilian aircraft and climbers, although military helicopters often are called in to assist. The Army team is the ace in the hole.

"Whenever possible they try to use a machine to make the rescue," Leavitt says. "It's quicker and more efficient. We are the court of last resort, unless there are military personnel in need of rescue, then we are called first."

"In my experience, most of the people we have found are dead."

Leavitt draws primarily on volunteers for his team, but he says he doesn't hesitate to draft likely candidates from the center's cadre.

"We try to look for a certain skill level ... mature and capable of functioning under pressure," he says. "I feel confident I've got 20 guys who can do anything that needs to be done. I could put 40 up there I had to."

Instructors and members of the rescue team spent 177 of 300 training days in the field last year, much of it on Gulkana Glacier and at the Black Rapids Training Site, both near Fort Greely.

And there's the physical training. "I'm a little bit of a nut on physical training," Leavitt says.

Political information service planned

NEW YORK (AP) — A computerized service designed to provide news and information on candidates, issues and other campaign matters will be introduced by The Associated Press and Mead Data Central, Keith Fuller, AP's president, announced.

The AP Political Service expands the political databank offered by the AP in 1980 as a research tool for writers, editors, broadcasters and others outside the news media with interest in the political process.

The AP developed a databank for staff use during the 1976 presidential election year.

The new service, which will start in late June, will include regularly updated information on candidates and issues, as well as background material relating to the primary and general elections for Congress and key state offices.

AP bureaus in every state will contribute to the constantly expanding electronic library, and material will be coordinated by senior editors in Washington and New York.

The information will be available through NEXIS terminals provided by Mead Data Central, a division of the Mead Corp., and can be reproduced on high-speed printers.

Candidates for Congress and governor will have separate files in the Political Service library. Listing biographical and other information.

Cottonseed products can be used in cooking

Women's Cotton Promoters, a newly-formed organization of farmers wives who promote cotton farming and products, furnished several recipes this week that use cottonseed products in cooking.

According to an extension service pamphlet "Food Products From Cottonseed," cottonseed is used in such foods as cooking oil, high protein beverages, whipped topping, Tamunuts, textured meat extenders and cottonseed flour.

Cottonseed oil is the major edible product derived from cottonseed. At least one of the many food products made with cottonseed oil is consumed by families each day. Some of the products include margarine, shortening, salad oil and melleorine.

Cottonseed flour has been important in combating malnutrition in Central and South America since the late 1950s. It offers many "plus" factors such as improved shelf life in baked goods, better machining and controlled spread in cookies, reduced fat absorption in doughnuts and better nutritive value in many foods through the addition of high-quality protein.

Researchers at Texas A&M University developed a nut-like product from the blandless cottonseed kernels called "Tamunuts." The Tamunuts have a pleasing nutty flavor and can be eaten directly as a snack or used in candies, bread, cookies and other baked items. The kernels may be boiled and eaten as a vegetable also.

Glandless cottonseed products have many food uses. Some of the uses are in simulated meat products, fortified cereal products, bakery goods, pastas, snack foods, gravies, sauces, puddings and other desserts such as soft ice cream.

The cotton products for cooking may be ordered from Cindy Hopper at 353-4444. They may be bought from Farmer's Co-op Gin in Knott.

ROASTING GLANDLESS COTTONSEED KERNELS-TAMUNUTS

Spread cottonseed kernels on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees F. until golden brown (about 15 minutes) stir every 5 minutes. Tamunuts may be eaten as a snack or used in any recipe as a substitute for pecans or peanuts.

GLANDLESS COTTONSEED BUTTER

1 cup of Tamunuts
5 Tablespoons of vegetable oil
1/2 teaspoon of salt
1 1/2 Tablespoons of honey
Using a blender, grind the Tamunuts (roasted cottonseed kernels) into a powder. Add vegetable oil, blend until well mixed. Add salt and honey, blend thoroughly.

Makes 1 cup of "Cotton Butter". It can be used as spread or a substitute for peanut butter in recipes.

CHOCOLATE COTTON BUTTER FROSTING

1/4 cup of cocoa
1-3rd cup of hot water
1 cup of cotton butter
1 teaspoon of vanilla
1/4 teaspoon of salt
1 pound of confectioner's sugar, sifted
Combine cocoa and water. Add cottonseed butter, vanilla and salt; beat until smooth. Gradually add sugar. Beat until creamy. Frost two layer cake.

COTTON BUTTER CAKE

1/2 cup of Cotton butter
2-3rd cup of water
1 box of "butter recipe" cake mix
1/2 cup of butter or margarine
4 eggs
Blend cotton butter and water. Add cake mix, butter and eggs. Continue preparation according to directions on box. Frost with Chocolate Cotton Butter Frosting.

COTTON PRALINES

1-3rd cup of corn syrup
1 1/2 cups of sugar
2-3rd cup of water
1/4 teaspoon of salt
2 cups of Tamunuts (roasted kernels)
4 teaspoons of butter
Combine sugar, syrup, water, and salt in saucepan. Stir until sugar is dissolved, then cook over moderate heat until mixture reaches soft ball stage (236 degrees F.). Remove from heat. Add glandless cottonseed kernels and butter. Beat until mixture begins to thicken. Drop by spoonfuls onto buttered foil. Cool.

COTTON BUTTER BISCUITS

2 cups of all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons of baking powder
1/2 teaspoon of salt
1/2 cup of shortening

1/4 cup of glandless cottonseed butter
1/2 to 3/4 cup of milk

Mix flour, baking powder, and salt. Cut in shortening and cottonseed butter, until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Stir in milk a little at a time, just enough that dough leaves side of bowl and forms ball. Turn out onto floured pastry board. Knead gently 20 times. Roll 1/4" thick. Cut with biscuit cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes.

For a breakfast treat:

Blend:
8 oz. of cream cheese
1-3rd cup of sugar
1/4 teaspoon of cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon of allspice
Stir in: 1-3rd cup of chopped canned fruit, drained; set aside.

Prepare Cotton Butter Biscuit dough (above recipe). Roll dough 1/4" thick, and cut into 5" circles. Divide fruit mixture equally among circles, placing mixture in center of each circle. Pull edges of each circle up to center, gently twist together and pinch to seal filling inside. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 10 minutes or until golden brown. Combine 3/4 cup of confectioner's sugar with two tablespoons liquid (from fruit). Drizzle over warm pastries.

NUTTY CHEESE BALL

8 oz. of cheddar cheese, grated
8 oz. of cream cheese, softened
3 Tablespoons of onion, finely minced
3 Tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon of hop pepper sauce
1/2 teaspoon of garlic salt
1/2 cup of Tamunuts (roasted kernels), crushed
Mix ingredients together (kernels may be added to mixture or reserved to roll balls into coat outside), blend well. Chill several hours, shape into balls. Wrap; refrigerate or freeze.

COTTON BUTTER-HONEY REFRIGERATOR COOKIES

2-3rd cup of Cotton Butter
1/2 cup of sugar
1/2 cup of honey
1 egg
2 1/4 cups of Bisquick baking mix
1/4 teaspoon of baking soda
1/2 cup of Tamunuts, roasted kernels
Mix cotton butter, sugar, honey and egg. Mix in remaining ingredients. Divide dough into halves: shape each half into rolls about 1 1/2" in diameter. Wrap and refrigerate at least 8 hours. Heat oven to 400 degrees. Cut rolls into 1/4" slices. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake for 8 minutes or until light brown. Makes 6 dozens.

2 cups of shortening
3 cups of sugar
4 eggs
Sift together and add to creamed mixture:
4 1/2 cups of all-purpose flour
3/4 cup of glandless cottonseed flour
1 tsp. of salt
1 teaspoon of soda
4 teaspoons of cream of tartar

Chill. Roll into 1" balls. Roll balls in mixture of 4 teaspoons of cinnamon and 4 tablespoons of sugar. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet for 16-18 minutes at 375 degrees F.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEA INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when planetary pressures could disrupt previous plans. Progress toward success could be delayed. Use more self-control and be as cheerful as possible.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The situation at home could be difficult now, but use tact for best results. Remove conditions that cause disharmony.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure to safeguard your personal property at this time. Much care in motion is needed to avoid possible mishap.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stay within your budget today even though you may be pressured into doing otherwise. Strive for happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may want to withdraw because you think others are not treating you properly, but this is not true.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Some anxiety could keep you from operating in a constructive way if you allow it. Be sure to handle duties efficiently.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some friends are not in a good mood in the morning but later they give you the support you need. Exercise more patience.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Instead of just worrying about a career matter, do something constructive about it. Be more firm in business dealings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure you don't make radical changes today or you could regret it later. A business expert can give you good advice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to meet your obligations honorably. Study a new outlet that could be profitable in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Associates may seem annoyed now but it is because they have problems of their own. Sidestep one who talks too much.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle routine tasks ahead of you and show that you are most efficient at them. Improve your appearance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep busy at work ahead of you since this is not a good day for the recreation you have in mind. Relax at home tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those highly emotional young persons who should be taught to use this vital force constructively. Any field connected with government work is fine here. Give good religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Mesa, Cities Service announce takeover bids

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Cities Service Co. officials say an offer by Mesa Petroleum Co. to acquire a majority of its stock is "a rather weak tactical maneuver in response to Cities Service's cash tender offer for Mesa."

In another barb aimed at the smaller Mesa, Cities said in a company statement released Tuesday afternoon that "it would be highly unlikely that any financial institution now would underwrite Mesa's attempt to launch a hostile takeover of Cities Service."

The two energy companies are locked in mutual takeover warfare and analysts indicate it is too early to predict a winner.

Mesa, an oil and gas exploration firm based in Amarillo, Texas, made a written offer to Cities management Tuesday to acquire control of the Tulsa-based energy company in a transaction estimated to be worth more than $1.6 billion.

Cities Service officials said the Mesa offer "is unclear in a number of respects."

"This is not a tender offer," said Mesa's vice president, John Boros. "It would have to be agreed to by the board of Cities Service."

Cities, following through with an announcement made Friday, said Tuesday the company is commencing an offer to buy 51 percent of Mesa stock for $629 million.

The companies have multimillion dollar lawsuits pending against each other concerning Mesa's alleged efforts to take over the larger Cities Service and Cities' efforts to block a takeover last year.

Cities Service is the nation's 20th-largest oil company. It reported revenues of $8.55 billion on assets of $6 billion last year. Mesa had 1981 revenues of $408 million and assets of $2.1 billion.

Cities, in an unattributed news release, said Tuesday it was offering to acquire up to 37 million shares of Mesa common stock at $17 a share in cash.

In trading on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday, Mesa stock rose $2.75 to $19.50 per share.

The Cities offer will expire June 10 while the withdrawal deadline is June 21. The offer is due to expire June 28 unless it is extended, the company statement said.

Cities estimated the total funds required for the acquisition of 37 million Mesa shares at $635 million. That includes about $6 million for miscellaneous fees, including legal fees and printing costs, Young said.

Cities has available $1.7 billion under unsecured credit facilities which can be used to purchase shares of Mesa, the company said.

In July 1981, Mesa bought 4.1 million shares, or 5.3 percent of Cities Service stock.

In a statement, T.B. Pickens Jr., president and chairman of Mesa, said the proposed acquisition of Cities Service would be carried out "either by means of a cash election merger at $50 per share or by a two-step transaction in which the first step will consist of a cash tender offer by Mesa at $50 per share for a number of shares, which, together with stock already held by Mesa, will constitute a majority of the voting power of Cities Service."

Shadow of debt falling on many Americans

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Credit problems pervade the American economy, farm and factory, individual and corporation, borrower and lender, big business and small, seller and buyer, public sector and private. Anyway you look at it, and wherever you look, you hear a too-familiar story about the shadow of debt: Recession has taken away income. And disinflation—in some cases even deflation, which is an actual drop in prices rather than a drop in the rate at which prices are rising—has reduced the value of assets. One common response to the problem is to borrow, but if rates are high and assets weak, borrowing is difficult and costly.

And dangerous too. Farm foreclosures are rising. Business bankruptcies have reached levels unseen since the Great Depression. Sellers of homes often must offer loans that, three years later, buyers cannot repay. Consider the farmer:

A few years ago crop prices were high and the market value of farmland was rising. Many farmers borrowed on existing land to expand their acreage. Then farm prices began falling and collateral shrank.

The U.S. Agriculture Department reports that after rising 16 percent in 1979 and 9 percent in 1980, farmland values fell an average of 1 percent from Feb. 1, 1981 to April 1, 1982.

Consider homeowners: Having seen market values double in a decade, and feeling certain the trend would continue, many sold existing homes and put the money into bigger houses.

To do so, they took larger mortgages at higher interest rates. Now, in some neighborhoods, although not in the country as a whole, owners are seeing an actual decline in market values—but not in carrying costs.

Business knows all about the consequences of expansion and debt. Among casualties are AM International, Bobbie Brooks, Braniff, IteL, Laker, J.W. Mays, McLouth Steel, Saxon Industries, White Motor, Wickes. And many large companies are endangered, notably International Harvester.

The level of short-term corporate borrowing during the recession is far in excess of what many economists had foreseen.

In times of general economic weakness, inventory liquidations and the low level of corporate investment plans, such as now, the demand for funds by corporations is generally expected to be weak.

Woman accused of biting daughter faces murder rap

DEMONS MADE HER DO IT — Police officer and matron escort Jeanette Hernandez, 27, from Central Booking to court in Queens, N.Y. Tuesday night. Mrs. Hernandez was charged with murder Tuesday after she allegedly put her 1-year-old daughter and two other children in a closet to protect them from "demons," bit the toddler on the face and neck and placed a plastic bag over her head, according to police.

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman who said the Holy Spirit and demons told her to bite her 1-year-old daughter and put a plastic bag over her head has been charged with murdering the infant and endangering the welfare of her other two children, authorities said.

"Demons told her to do this," Deputy Inspector Roy Richter said after the woman's daughter, Melinda, was pronounced dead at Booth Memorial Hospital early Tuesday. Melinda's older brother and sister, found alive in a closet in their apartment in the borough of Queens, had bite marks on their bodies, police said.

The woman also said "the Holy Spirit told her to do it," said detective Owen Kelly.

Jeanette Hernandez, 27, was arraigned in Queens Criminal Court before Judge Nicholas Tscoualas late Tuesday. She was ordered held for psychiatric examination.

Richter said the medical examiner's autopsy showed the child died of asphyxiation after a plastic garment bag was placed over her head.

Richter said that at about 4:30 a.m. the mother took Melinda, Samuel, 7, and Bernadette, 10, into a closet to protect them from demons which she said she had been hearing for about a week.

Two hours later she left the closet and ran to her sister-in-law's house nearby. She returned a few minutes later with her father, Pedro Melendez, who found the baby still alive.

The children were rushed to Booth Memorial Hospital where doctors found all three to have bite wounds. Richter

"She appears to have been a good mother. She just went off the deep end," he added.

"She appears to be an emotionally upset person," Richter said, noting that she had recently been depressed.

Mrs. Hernandez's husband, Angel, is in the merchant marine and has been "away at sea for the last three months," the inspector said.

Court restores air bag rule -- at least for now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has been ordered to reconsider its decision to throw out a rule requiring that new cars be equipped with air bags or automatic seat belts.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia on Tuesday termed the administration's action in junking the rule last October "arbitrary and capricious," but noted the case involved sensitive issues surrounding a "politically controversial safety standard."

The rule, issued under the Carter administration and approved by Congress, required that beginning with 1983 models, some cars be equipped with the automatic restraints to protect passengers in crashes. By 1984, all new autos would have required them.

Lowell R. Beck, president of the National Association of Independent Insurers, called the court decision "a life-saver," saying implementation of the standard would save 10,000 lives annually and an estimated $2.4 billion a year in medical care, lost wages, disabled benefits and other costs.

Raymond Peck, head of the Transportation Department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, eliminated the rule because, he said, most motorists would disconnect the restraints, making the requirement ineffective. He also gave other reasons, including higher gasoline prices, smaller cars and an ailing auto industry.

On Tuesday, the rule was restored and the agency given 30 days to submit a schedule for resolving questions raised in the court opinion. The court said a review of the issues in the case should lead to throwing out the standard or coming up with a schedule for implementing the standard or an amended standard.

Baker may intercede for teacher held for espionage by Chinese

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker said today he has appealed to Chinese officials to release an American woman who has been detained for alleged espionage.

Baker said he hopes that Lisa Wicher, 28, will be able to leave China by Friday. "I am confident the case can be satisfactorily resolved," he told a press conference after two days of meetings with Chinese leaders.

The Tennessee Republican said he raised Miss Wicher's case in a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Vice Foreign Minister Zhang Wenjin.

Baker declined to discuss the unofficial Chinese allegations that Miss Wicher, an English teacher and graduate student with an interest in agricultural economics, stole Chinese state secrets. "My objective was to try to help get this girl out," he said.

Baker said Zhang had assured him that "all terms" of the consular treaties and conventions between the two countries "would be met."

The U.S. Embassy has protested China's handling of some aspects of Miss Wicher's detention, including the time taken to notify the embassy and Miss Wicher's access to embassy officers.

An embassy official visited Miss Wicher this morning for half an hour at the foreign affairs office of the Public Security Bureau — China's police department. The embassy said the authorities have not brought specific charges against her.

The embassy statement said, "She continues to be in relatively good spirits and stated she had been treated considerately." She has received two "care" packages from friends.

Miss Wicher was taken into custody Friday at 1 a.m. after being lured from her room at the Friendship Hotel by a ruse about an urgent telegram. Friends said she resisted and was handcuffed before being led away.

The Chinese Foreign Ministry has said that she was detained because she violated the law, but no formal charges have been made.

Coahoma scholars honored

COAHOMA — The United State Achievement Academy recently announced that three Coahoma Independent School District students have been named 1982 United State National Award winners.

Gary Leonard Newton was named a winner in English. He is a 1982 graduate of Coahoma High School, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindell Newton of Route 2, Big Spring.

Junior high student Stacey Lynn Ream was an award winner in science and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Caffey of Sand Springs.

Also named to the English achievement academy was Shanna Cobb, a student at Coahoma High. Shanna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Cobb.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest, aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, and motivation to learn.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An angry Police Chief Robert Heuck took personal charge of an investigation into the early morning burglary today of the police station locker room.

Almost two dozen lockers in the basement dressing area were broken into and the thieves took pistols, ammunition and other police equipment, officers reported.

Heuck was so outraged that he refused to discuss the burglary with news reporters.

"This is just round one," the police chief said.

Police fingerprint experts were called in and news reporters described the scene as "a virtual cloud of fingerprint powder."

Police department robbed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An angry Police Chief Robert Heuck took personal charge of an investigation into the early morning burglary today of the police station locker room.

Almost two dozen lockers in the basement dressing area were broken into and the thieves took pistols, ammunition and other police equipment, officers reported.

Heuck was so outraged that he refused to discuss the burglary with news reporters.

"This is just round one," the police chief said.

Police fingerprint experts were called in and news reporters described the scene as "a virtual cloud of fingerprint powder."

Delivers the taste of cigarettes with up to twice the tar.

—Landmark Smoker Study

Extensive research proves 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT consistently matches the taste of leading higher tar brands.

Latest research offers the most conclusive evidence yet confirming MERIT as the proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

MERIT Taste Does It!

In impartial tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Taste Debate Ends.

In a second part of the same study, smokers confirm that MERIT taste is a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.
