Area avoids shortage of teachers for now

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Area schools are not suffering from a much-dreaded teacher shortage — yet. School officials say applicants for teaching positions are plentiful now, but worry about filling vacancies brought about by late resignations in August.

Harold Bentley, assistant superintendent at Big Spring Independent School District, said he has a large number of applications from some good teachers. "I'm in good shape now," Bentley said, "but I know in late August I'll begin to get in trouble."

Bentley said the teacher shortage situation was "much, much, worse than in the past" based on his visits with college placement offices and other teacher recruitment efforts. Bilingual and special education teachers are the hardest persons to find, he added.

Texas is benefitting from the teacher overflow in other states, according to Bentley. "In a three-week period, we received three out-of-state applications a day," Bentley said. He said that some of those applicants were being hired in the district.

While Bentley agreed with a Texas Education Agency study that smaller school districts would have the greatest difficulty in filling teacher vacancies, he said Big Spring ISD was not hurting at the moment for teachers.

"Plenty of applicants for jobs" is the way Coahoma ISD Superintendent Richard Souter described the district's teacher situation. "I'm not having any problems," Souter said. Despite a complete turn-over in some areas, Souter said he had "plenty of applicants for all positions."

However, Souter said he could run into "lots of problems" if hit with late resignations. "We have about one-half as many applicants as in the past," Souter said.

One obstacle faced by new teachers, and hurting teacher employment, was the housing shortage in the area, Souter said. "Everybody tells me housing is a big problem. With the economic crunch, people just can't afford to move," Souter said. "He cited one example where the district had extended a contract to a teacher which was turned down."

"I offered him a job, but he just couldn't find a place to live," Souter said.

Forsan ISD is not having many problems getting teachers due to its attractive salary scale, superintendent J.F. Poyner said, but "there's no question there's some (teacher) shortage." Poyner said areas such as math, art, speech therapy and band were the most difficult to fill. "We get lots of applicants and I don't see a shortage for our district, but some ...," Poyner warned.

Poyner said the Forsan district did not face any immediate shortage of teachers. "We can fill ours a little bit better than others. We get lots of couples here," he said. "We've maintained a competitive salary and kept the people we have."

Israelis down 4 Syrian jets

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets shot down two Syrian MiGs over the Galilee region of northern Israel today and two more MiGs in dogfights over Damour, 10 miles south of Beirut. Israeli commandos battled north along the Mediterranean coastal highway toward Amour and Israeli warshipshelled the Palestinian stronghold. Palestinian broadcasts claimed 60,000 Israeli troops were now in Lebanon and that they controlled the 50 miles of highway running from the border north to Damour. U.N. officials said five Israeli brigades plus commando units were in Lebanon. An Israeli brigade numbers about 3,500 men.

The intrusion of the MiGs over Galilee, as well as indications that Syrian artillery batteries were shelling Israeli forces inside Lebanon, marked a major escalation of Syrian involvement in the hostilities.

Israel launched an invasion Sunday to drive Palestinian forces out of southern Lebanon and prevent PLO artillery from shelling northern Israeli settlements. The Israeli government calls the operation "Peace for Galilee."

The flight of the MiGs over Galilee was the first incursion into Israeli airspace by Arab forces since the 1973 war. The Tel Aviv command said the MiGs were downed by Israeli interceptors, and an Israeli radio correspondent said the MiGs ap-

Gas prices begin to rise in Big Spring

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Big Spring's gasoline market, reflecting a nationwide trend and a classic case of supply and demand, has reversed a downward trend evident the first part of the year.

Wholesale distributors' gas prices have climbed eight to nine cents in the past 30 days, resulting in an increased price to retail dealers which is passed along to the customers at the pumps.

A random sampling of Big Spring stations Monday put prices at an average level of $1.17 for regular and $1.22 for unleaded. That sampling included nine self-service stations and three full-service dealerships.

The lowest price reported was $1.11 for regular and $1.15 for unleaded.

Tommy Tompkins, owner of TOMCO, a local Exxon distributorship, said, "I don't really know what's causing it — all I know is what I see on national television and read in the different industry journals."

From those sources, he said his feeling was that it was a classic case of supply and demand.

"At the first of the year, the refineries had a big supply at low prices, and the distributors were keeping low supplies on hand," Tompkins said. "When it started going up (in price), everybody started buying — it runs short."

Kent Wood, local manager of Petco (a Mobil distributorship) agreed that the higher prices were an example of supply and demand, but held a different theory about the dwindling supplies.

"In the Texas Oil Marketers' Newsletter, it said that the price for crude oil hasn't changed," he said. "All the refineries shut down for an extra long time on the turnaround when the prices were so low."

Neither man could make a prediction as to when gasoline prices would begin to go down.

"I don't know," said Wood, "I wish it would quit."

He said that several customers had complained to him about the increases, but said, "I get increases, so I have to pass them along."

Judge Tune named defendant in slander suit

A $2 million slander suit has been filed in Abilene federal court against Howard County Judge Bill Tune and former county attorney Harvey Hooser Jr. by the former superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital, Grace Renee Ferguson, who was superintendent of BSSH prior to June 30, 1980, claims Tune called her a "dope head" and Hooser used the remark for the purpose of having her fired from her position. The suit claims her discharge from the hospital resulted from slanderous statements made by Tune and Hooser. Ferguson, now a citizen of Louisiana, is seeking $1 million in actual damages and $1 million in punitive damages. The suit states Ferguson first learned of the remark and its results on June 5, 1981.

The complaint states the remark was made by Tune "on a date uncertain in the past" and the "dope head" statement was false and defamatory. Defendant Hooser reputedly republished the statement to induce Ferguson's employers to discharge her, according to the suit.

Tune recently was defeated in his bid for re-election as Howard County judge.

FARON YOUNG — Country music performer Faron Young pleased a crowd of "about 1,500" people in the Big Spring municipal auditorium last night, according to police Sgt. Dave Spillman, organizer of the show. Spillman, a member of the Blue Knights (a police motorcycle club), said "it was real good, we're real happy." The Blue Knights sponsored Young's Big Spring performance.

Temporary injunction prohibits sale of decoding devices in city

Big Spring Cable TV, Inc. has been granted its temporary injunction against C.L. Carille and Mutex Sound and Electronics prohibiting the sale of electronic decoding devices. 118th District Judge Jim Gregg made the ruling in district court Monday following a hearing between the two parties.

The cable TV company had filed suit last month against Mutex Sound and Electronics and Carille for distributing devices which allowed persons to receive Showtime Movies free without purchasing the service from the cable company. The court ruled the cable company would have to provide a surety bond of $30,000 in order to protect the defendants should the injunction be dissolved.

The injunction prohibits the sale of the decoding devices used to receive Showtime movies free from cable TV by the defendants.

Fire burns apartments

HOUSTON (AP) — Wood-shingled roofs helped fuel a fire's rapid sweep through a large apartment complex in southeast Houston, officials said.

Four firefighters were treated for smoke inhalation, but no residents were injured in the three-alarm blaze Monday afternoon, said fire department spokesman Lesley Busby.

Authorities said the fire may have started when someone tossed a cigarette on to the wood-shingled roof of one of the buildings.

Busby said the wood-shingled roofs also allowed the blaze to spread quickly at the Arlington Arms Apartments.

Eleven apartments were destroyed and 69 damaged by the fire that swept through four of the complex's 10 buildings, authorities said.

Efforts to contain the fire were hampered because fire hydrants near the apartment complex did not have any water pressure and firefighters were forced to use hydrants a block away.

It took firefighters about two hours to put out the fire, said Busby.

Texaco wants layoffs

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Reduced demand for petroleum is forcing Texaco to make staff reductions at its refinery here, the company said.

Texaco notified its union representatives that it wants to lay off a quarter of the 4,000 hourly workers who have been on strike since January at the refinery.

"The adjustments are necessary as a result of the industry-wide situation of reduced petroleum product demand," a Texaco spokesman said.

"The reduced level of operations and the need to improve efficiency are expected to reduce normal work force requirements at the Port Arthur refinery by approximately 1,000 hourly rated employees," the spokesman said.

Texaco hopes to accomplish the reductions through normal attrition, the spokesman said, and possibly by moving surplus employees to other work assignments.

Any lay off would be made when the strike ends. "Of course, any items subject to collective bargaining would be included in continuing negotiations between the parties," the spokesman added.

The strike began at midnight Jan. 8 when labor contracts with the oil company expired. Members of Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Local 4-23, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 390, the Office and Professional Employees International Union and several other unions represent the more than 4,000 workers idled by the strike.

Wood trial may be moved

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Pervasive pretrial publicity would prevent the man accused of killing U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. from receiving a fair trial in Texas or three surrounding states, a defense attorney contends.

Defense attorney Thomas G. Sharpe filed a change of venue motion Monday asking the court to move the trial of Charles V. Harrelson to Denver.

"The nearest prejudice-free state is Colorado and the defendant believes a fair trial can be obtained in Denver," the Brownsville attorney said in the motion.

Harrelson and imprisoned drug trafficker Jamel "Jimmy" Chagra were indicted for the murder of Wood and for conspiracy to kill a federal judge. Conviction on either charge could result in a life sentence.

Wood was shot by a sniper outside his San Antonio townhouse May 29, 1979. The killing prompted the most massive federal investigation since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Sharpe argued in the motion that pervasive publicity would prejudice a jury in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma or Louisiana. In addition, Sharpe contended, a fair trial could not be held in the courthouse named for the slain judge.

Hearings on pretrial motions are scheduled to begin July 19 in U.S. District Court in San Antonio.

U.S. District Judge William Sessions had set June 1 as the deadline for filing change of venue motions. Sharpe said in his motion that he confused that date with June 21, the deadline Sessions set for filing all other pretrial motions.

Harrelson, a convicted hired killer, is in the state penitentiary on unrelated state weapons and narcotics convictions.

GOP switches candidates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Republican party officials say they will replace Millard Neptune today with another GOP candidate for treasurer.

In a news release issued Monday, party officials said Neptune and state GOP Chairman Chester Upham would announce the new nominee at a joint Capitol news conference.

Former gubernatorial aide Allen B. Clark Jr. was mentioned as a possible substitute by Gov. Bill Clements last Friday. Clements said he had talked to Clark, who now works in Midland for an oil exploration company, about taking over the race but that no decision had been made.

Last Thursday, state Republicans withdrew Waller farmer Don Hebert from contention for agriculture commissioner. They replaced Hebert with Texas A&M poultry scientist Fred Thornberry.

Republican party officials had said all along they intended to replace the two candidates, who were unopposed for nomination on the May 1 Republican primary ballot. But Neptune briefly threw a monkey wrench into GOP plans when he said he did not intend to step aside.

The 71-year-old Austin geologist faced former Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards in the general election. Ms. Richards became the Democratic nominee when indicted incumbent state Treasurer Warren G. Harding withdrew from a runoff.

Harding has since pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor official misconduct charge.

Thornberry, 45, faces Jim Hightower, who defeated incumbent Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown in the Democratic primary.

White plans gas appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Attorney General Mark White said today he will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to reconsider its refusal to stop federal regulation of natural gas that stays in the state.

The court did not issue an opinion, but on Monday rejected arguments by Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma attorneys that the Natural Gas Policy Act is unconstitutional.

parently were trying to attack an Israeli army convoy in southern Lebanon.

The Tel Aviv command also said its jets downed two Syrian MiGs in northern Lebanon. The Syrian command in Damascus confirmed two of its MiGs were downed in dogfights over Damour, and claimed an Israeli Skyhawk also was shot down. Israel denied any of its planes was hit.

Another Syrian communique said

Israeli jets and artillery blasted the Syrian-controlled Lebanese town of Jezzini, killing 20 civilians in the predominantly Christian town. Jezzini is about 12 miles east of Sidon.

In another development, the Lebanese government announced electricity would be rationed because the power plant in the coastal town of Jijeh, 14 miles south of Beirut, was bombed out of action by Israeli forces.

In London, President Reagan said in a speech to Parliament that "the fighting in Lebanon on the part of all parties must stop and Israel should bring its forces home. It was Reagan's first call for an Israeli withdrawal, although Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. had done so earlier.

The Palestine Liberation Organization and Lebanese radio stations said most of the coastal highway south of Beirut was in Israeli hands following a landing during the night by helicopter-borne paratroopers and amphibious commandos who overran the town of Saadiyat, 13 miles south of Beirut.

Teachers

Band directors were the only position difficult to fill, Poyner said. "I've never had an applicant for band that I didn't have to hustle to get."

Representatives from two local universities said the job prospects are good for graduating teachers and the teachers are available. In fact, a spokesman for Texas Tech University's Placement Service said "It's a pretty good time to be in the teaching profession in Texas."

The Texas Tech spokesman said more jobs are available for graduating teachers than in the past.

"Positions are on the upswing," he said, "although there are more positions than teachers right now."

Jim Glossbrenner, placement director for Angelo State University, said fewer persons were getting into the teaching profession, but the teacher situation was "pretty good this year despite a gradual dropping-off over the past several years."

Glossbrenner said a statewide shortage of teachers certainly existed and could become a serious problem. "We have more people getting a degree, but never planning to teach," the director said.

The TEA's prediction that small school districts "would have difficulty in obtaining teachers was not totally accepted by either university spokesman. "As a general rule, students are attracted to larger cities," ASU's Glossbrenner said, "But ASU students prefer smaller schools."

Texas Tech graduating teachers usually go for the smaller school districts for the better money, the Tech spokesman said. "Teachers need to be flexible on their location if they want a job and money," he added.

Judge says Cryts is a thief

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Saying Missouri farmer Wayne Cryts is a thief, a federal bankruptcy judge has ordered Cryts and four others to pay a judgment of more than $287,000.

Cryts took 33,000 bushels of soybeans he said were his from an elevator at Bernie, Mo. in July. Baker said he issued an order that the grain be sold as part of a complicated bankruptcy case involving James Brothers Co. of Corning, Ark. Cryts had removed the grain earlier from one of the company's bankrupt elevators near New Madrid, Mo.

In a 19-page judgment filed Monday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court, Judge Charles Baker said if the five don't pay by today, they would be fined $1,500 more a day. Baker said any defendant could pay the money.

In another development Monday, Baker recommended to U.S. District Court and the U.S. attorney's office that the five be prosecuted for criminal contempt of court.

In addition to Cryts, the defendants are his wife, Sandra; his father, William Cryts Sr. of Dexter, Mo.; Evans Ippock of Buffalo, Mo.; and Bill Jewell of Long Lane, Mo. Pictures introduced into Baker's court recently showed them helping remove the grain.

Baker is the same judge who ordered the Puxico, Mo., farmer jailed April 28 for civil contempt after Cryts refused to say who helped him remove the grain from the elevator at Bernie.

On May 24, Baker ordered Cryts freed from the Pope County Jail at Russellville because, the judge said, an agreement was reached to divide the proceeds from the grain sale among creditors and farmers. The civil case, therefore, was closed.

The judgment is to cover losses suffered by farmers who had grain stored in the elevator near New Madrid. Among other expenses to be paid are attorney fees.

Charlie Cooper, a spokesman for the American Agriculture Movement which supports Cryts, said by telephone Monday night that attorneys probably would appeal the ruling. Cooper said the decision didn't surprise Cryts, who was unavailable for comment.

Baker said Cryts had stolen from the court and his neighbors. "He ought to be punished for his criminal acts," the judge said.

Police Beat

Juanita Ortega of 1202 Dixie told police that at 5:15 p.m. Monday someone stole a $300 watch and rings worth $2,000 from her vehicle parked at Gibson's Discount Center, 2303 Scurry, police said.

Elsie Merrell of 1601 Lark told police that between 5 p.m. June 3 and noon on June 4 someone stole a four-speed transmission worth $500 from her yard, according to police.

Someone shot a bullet from an unknown caliber gun through the front window of Derington Auto Parts, 300 N.E. Second sometime between 3 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 a.m. Monday, causing $160 damage, police said.

Someone broke the right door glass of a custom-built car at Mitchem Auto Sales, 700 W. Fourth, between 5 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 a.m.

Sunday causing $75 damage, according to police.

Denise Reed of 4044 Vicky reported to police that at 2:00 p.m. Monday an unknown white male pulled her out of her stopped vehicle at an unknown location north of Big Spring High School and cut her with a knife and then left in an older four-door green vehicle, according to police.

Wood released from county jail

Langford Wood, 43, was released from Howard County jail Friday after being held without bond since Nov. 13, 1981. Wood, of 205 N.W. 3rd, was charged with theft from a person and had been indicted by a Howard County grand jury. The charge was dismissed by the district attorney's office after the complaining witness dropped the complaint against Wood.

According to Don Richard, special assistant to the district attorney, the victim said he felt Wood had been punished enough by staying in jail so long.

Also released from county jail was Albert Riley, 60, Riley, of 610 1/2 11th, was arrested on a peace bond by sheriff's deputies. He was released on $2,000 bond. Bond was set by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin.

Sheriff's records also show the recovery of a vehicle reported stolen in Midland. The orange Corvette was found abandoned one mile south of Interstate 20 on Cauble Road, according to sheriff's office records.

CRMWD May consumption figures take nose-dive

The question of how much of the phenomenal increase in municipal consumption for 1982 was due to dry weather was partially answered in May deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

May was cooler and wetter, and deliveries to cities took a nose-dive to 1,254,884,800 gallons of water, or 8.42 percent below May a year ago. In contrast, deliveries for April were up 25.55 percent. The increase in municipal consumption dropped from 20.39 through April to 12.63 percent through May, or a total of 5,729,259,800 gallons for the five months period.

Oil companies took 221,813,936 gallons in May, a modest 3.12 percent more than for the same month in 1981. This made the total delivery figure through May 6, 738,314,361 gallons, or 11.10 percent over the same five months in 1981.

During May, Odessa required 596,994,000 gallons, down 6.63 percent from May 1981 but up 23.56 percent for the first five months of this year. Big Spring took 229,674,000 gallons, down 2.26 percent from May 1981, but up 15.92 percent for the first five months. Snyder received 70,026,000 gallons in May, a decline of 24.57 percent for the month, but up 4.75 percent through May.

New England mops up after weekend flooding

By The Associated Press

As floodwaters receded in New England and washed-out residents began the "long, tedious job" of mopping up after the rain that left 22 people dead or missing, powerful Midwestern storms knocked out power to thousands and swept two children down the Arkansas River.

A four-day, 11-inch downpour in Connecticut forced rivers over their banks, washed away seven dams and 13 bridges, and forced thousands from their homes before it ended Monday night. State police patrolled today in the lower Connecticut Valley town of Essex, one of the hardest hit communities, to guard against looting.

A preliminary estimate put damage in 16 southern Connecticut communities at more than $100 million. Smaller damage totals from the weekend flooding were reported in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, where rain was tapering off today.

Connecticut Gov. William A. O'Neill warned residents of his state they had a "long, hard, tedious job" of cleaning up after the storm. He asked for federal disaster aid but didn't have a precise estimate of the damage.

Thunderstorms dumped heavy rainfall early today along the Rio Grande between Del Rio and the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Forecasters said radar and satellite pictures indicated the area in Jeff Davis, Brewster and Presidio Counties may have received between 5-8 inches of rainfall.

The thunderstorm activity was triggered by a trough of low pressure that extended over West Texas from the Panhandle to the Trans Pecos area in Southwest Texas.

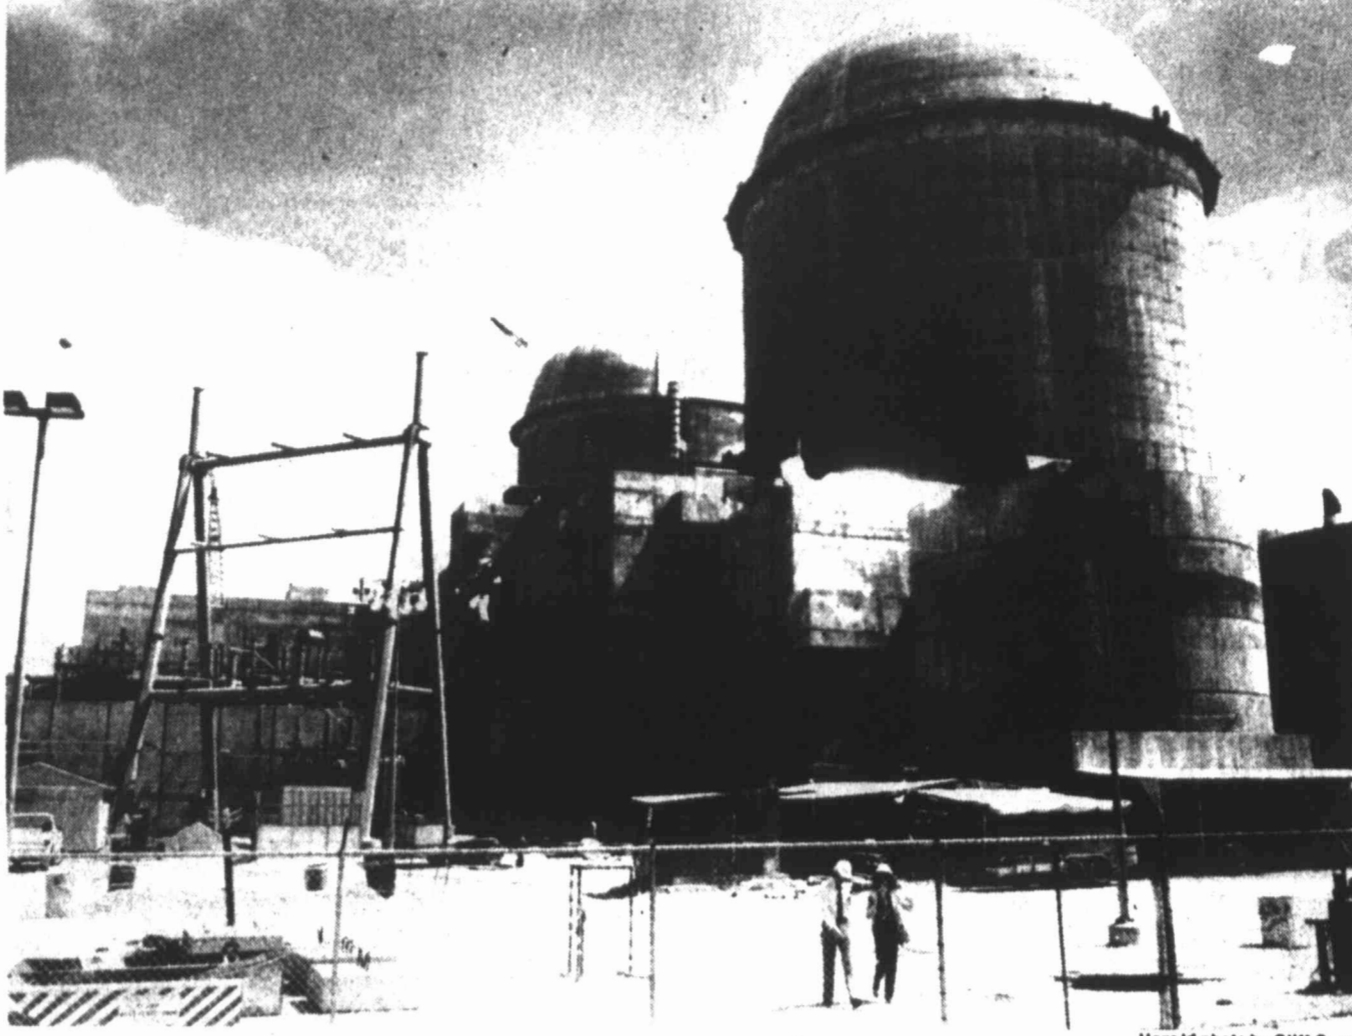

Skies were clear to partly cloudy across the rest of the state and temperatures were quite warm. Early morning readings were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 68 at Lubbock and 69 at Lufkin to 82 at Del Rio.

Forecasts called for cloudiness to spread northward from the Gulf of Mexico into South Texas and Central Texas today. Thunderstorms were expected late today and tonight over southwestern and western sections of the state, including the Panhandle.

Skies were to be clear to partly cloudy with warm temperatures elsewhere.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s, ranging from the upper 80s along the coast to near 100 in Southwest Texas.

Lows will be mostly in the 70s except in Northwest Texas where readings will be in the upper 60s. Highs Wednesday will be mostly in the 90s, ranging from the 80s in the Panhandle to near 100 in Southwest Texas.

Comanche n-plant cracks harmless, engineers say

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Large cracks in the shield wall of a reactor at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant are harmless, according to the testimony of construction engineers.

Testimony from the engineers came Monday during the opening day of a hearing being held by the U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board on a request for a license for the nuclear power plant located southwest of the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolis.

Kenneth L. Scheppele, senior vice president of Gibbs & Hill Inc. testified that two seven-foot-deep cracks developed in 1977 in a shield wall designed to keep radiation from escaping from the reactor.

Testifying for Texas Utilities Generating Co., Scheppele said the cracks split the doughnut shaped shield in half, but he said the shield was still held tightly together by steel support rods and had not lost its strength.

Scheppele said no radiation would be able to escape because the cracks are jagged and do not run in a straight line.

Two other construction engineers agreed with Scheppele that the cracks pose no safety hazard.

William S. Jordan, a lawyer representing Citizens

Association for Sound Energy (CASE), said he planned to present testimony today from a former quality control inspector at the plant who claims he was fired for doing his job too well.

Jordan said Charles Atchison will testify in support of the organization's claims that construction work was so shoddy that "it is impossible to render this plant safe."

Atchison, 40, of Azle, said he was fired April 12 by Brown & Root Construction Co. for reporting building defects that were not specifically within his jurisdiction.

He said he appealed his firing to the U.S. Department of Labor. He said the federal agency ordered the company to rehire. The construction company is now appealing the federal order, Atchison said.

The nuclear power plant, located near Glen Rose, was originally to be completed in 1980 at a cost of $779 million. The owners now estimate the plant will be completed in 1984 at a cost of $3.44 billion.

Britain renews surrender appeal

By The Associated Press

Britain made another appeal for surrender to the Argentine garrison at Port Stanley as its troops captured high ground north of the Falklands capital and closed the ring on some 7,000 Argentine troops.

"In another jump forward, marine commandos have outflanked the Argentines north of Stanley," reported Michael Nicholson of Britain's Independent Television News. "Strong British positions have now been established on the mountains.... British sea and land forces control and move freely along the northern waters of East Falkland and large quantities of stores, guns, ammunition and men have been moved up there."

In London the Defense Ministry said the British troops, believed to number 7,500, were "consolidating" their position and "patrolling forward territory."

Argentina said its patrols routed British units laying siege to Stanley and seized abandoned equipment for the second straight day. An Argentine communique also claimed anti-aircraft fire drove off three British Harrier jets attacking Stanley, and "one of the planes was observed trailing heavy smoke."

The Argentines also said the two forces exchanged artillery fire Monday, but the communique did not mention damage or casualties.

With the British assault on Stanley expected at any time, Maj. Gen. Jeremy Moore, the marine commander of the British ground forces, called on the Argentine governor of the islands, Brig. Gen. Mario Menendez, to surrender and "end the killing."

Moore radioed Menendez on a VHF transmitter, using a Spanish-speaking British captain as interpreter, Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency reported.

There was no indication of a reply from Menendez. But he had already said his troops "will fight to the last man and the last bullet." Twice last week British planes dropped leaflets over Stanley urging the Argentines to give up.

British Defense Ministry spokesman Ian McDonald said British soldiers and Gurkha mercenaries from Nepal were clearing out "Argentine pockets of resistance" inland from Stanley.

The British news agency said government sources reported as many as 60 Argentine soldiers were killed over the past five days in clashes with the British patrols, but this was not confirmed officially.

Britain praised for defense of freedom

LONDON (AP) — President Reagan, in a ringing defense of Britain on her own soil, told members of Parliament today that World War II might have been averted if free nations had stood as staunchly for their principles as Britain has in its fight for the Falkland Islands.

Reagan declaration was coupled with a call for Israel to "bring its forces home" from Lebanon. But he offered Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin some succor in the war against Palestinian guerrillas by saying, "We must all work to stamp out the scourge of terrorism that in the Middle East makes war an ever-present threat."

In a speech prepared for an unofficial gathering of members of the House of Commons and the House of Lords at Westminster Hall, Reagan said British forces in the Falklands were fighting for more than "lumps of rock and earth so far away."

Soviet Bloc mulls debt to the West

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Government chiefs of the Soviet Bloc countries gathered today for their annual economic session. It was expected to focus on their $80 billion debt to the West.

Shrinking that debt, realigning the East European common market's trade priorities and dealing with the bloc's increasing oil bill will be high on the agenda for the three-day meeting, Eastern and Western observers said.

The premiers of the Soviet Union and its close allies are meeting for the 36th scheduled session of the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance, or Comecon, which was organized in 1949 to coordinate the economies of the Soviet bloc.

Few previous meetings have had to cope with problems as severe as Poland's economic breakdown, economic instability in Romania and an increasing tendency for each Comecon member to protect itself in the competition for the world's shrinking export market.

The host country, Hungary, offers an example of divergence among bloc members and, possibly, a path for them to follow out of their current difficulties.

Hungary last month became the newest member of the capitalist-dominated International Monetary Fund. Its version of modified socialism, which allows private entrepreneurs to run their own small businesses, is being studied by bloc members, Western diplomatic observers say.

"Nobody has an exposure to the West like Hungary does," said one western diplomat.

Huge solar flare-up

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — If you totaled all the energy the Earth uses in a year, from earthquakes to electricity, it wouldn't equal the energy unleashed in a weekend explosion on the Sun, scientists say.

Sunday's solar flare, an eruption of ultra-hot gases, was so huge that scientific instruments couldn't measure it, said solar expert Phil Powell of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The flare appeared as a tongue of light and heat bursting millions of miles into space. On Thursday, the scientists had detected another major flare, but of smaller magnitude.

Army tests flying device

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — An engine similar to the cruise missile's is being used to propel a one-man military flying device reminiscent of the futuristic jet pods in the "Dick Tracy" comic strip.

The device and its 600-pound thrust engine, being tested here by the Army's Infantry Board, was demonstrated Monday by the military.

The Williams Aerial System Platform, or WASP, climbed to about six stories, ducked behind a row of trees, and came to a sudden stop 100 feet in the air. It can fly at 60 mph for 30 minutes and is equipped with a parachute, said its manufacturer, Williams International Co. of Walled Lake, Mich.

Chief raps race report

MIAMI (AP) — The chief of police says a U.S. Civil Rights Commission report on the city's May 1980 race riots is "destructive and erroneous" in citing a poor relationship between police and minority groups.

The 353-page report released Monday says the riots that left 18 people dead can be blamed on a "sense of powerlessness" feeding anger and frustration in the black community.

The report, alleging racial bias in the criminal justice system, called for the establishment of a committee to end the practices.

Jordan suspect transferred

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Avowed racist Joseph Paul Franklin has been ordered to face charges Thursday in the May 1980 sniper-shooting of former Nation Urban League leader Vernon E. Jordan Jr.

Franklin, already serving time in the killing of two black joggers in Salt Lake City, was scheduled for arraignment in U.S. District Court in South Bend, court officials said Monday.

U.S. Marshal J. Jerome Perkins said "all necessary precautions" will be taken in transferring Franklin from the Marion, Ill., federal prison for his hearing. Jordan was gunned down outside a Fort Wayne motel. The civil rights leader has since recovered from his wounds.

Man's huge arsenal is legal and for sale

By DEAN CHANCE
Fort Worth Star-Telegram

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Greg Rainone doesn't have class on Tuesday, so he likes to devote his Tuesday afternoons to tending the small business he runs out of his home.

One recent Tuesday, Rainone's home reverberated with the sharp sound of automatic weapon fire as a videotape of the famous mercenary movie, "The Dogs of War," reached its violent end on the television in the living room.

Enough of Rainone's business conversations on the phone could be heard over the din of the movie that even a casual listener quickly realizes Rainone is not the neighborhood brush salesman.

"Full automatic, that's an M-16, right ... I can't remember where those two guns are going ... Those should be two full-automatic M-16 rifles that I've got sold to that guy in Dallas."

Samples of Rainone's wares — machine guns — are spread throughout his well-protected home, and he is as comfortable around these exotic pieces of machinery as a photography buff is around developing equipment.

The living room is dominated by a .50-caliber machine gun: a 200-pound plus monster that fires cartridges the size of hot dogs, has a range of five miles and is capable of bringing down airplanes.

In another room, a visitor might find the Ingram Mac-10. The gun is small enough to shoot with one hand, but it can fire .45-caliber bullets at a rate of 900 per minute.

Rainone's business and his small arsenal are legal. Machine guns never have been outlawed flatly in this country, although federal and state laws do restrict their sale.

Rainone, 29, is sole proprietor of Wild Bunch Weapons Etc. A $200-per-year license fee entitles him to sell machine guns. He has been a registered dealer for about two years.

"Business is excellent," Rainone said. "Excellent is that I'm working and selling guns. And that's excellent."

At the Houston Gun Show, Rainone estimates he did more than $12,000 worth of business selling three M-60 machine guns for about $2,250 apiece "literally between noon and 3 o'clock."

The government defines a machine gun as: "Any weapon which shoots, is designed to shoot or can be readily restored to shoot automatically more than one shot, without manual reloading, but a single function of the trigger."

Rainone, a trim man with a handlebar mustache, prefers his own, slightly more colorful definition: "Full rock and roll with one pull of the trigger."

He says the fatigues, the mercenary posture, the "I'd rather be killing Communists" mentality that is a part of most gun shows is, for him, a joke.

"Listen," Rainone said, "All that stuff's tongue-in-cheek. There's nothing that hurts the gun business worse than that kind of thing."

He stressed he has refused sales to people who seemed flaky.

"I have never sold a gun to a guy who says, 'I've got my wife and family holed up in Arkansas. I've got 5,000 bushels of wheat and now I want to arm myself to the teeth,'" Rainone said.

"My point being that Joe Average buys my guns. He buys it as an investment because my guns always go up in value," he said. "Most of my customers are like you and me. I've sold to doctors, lawyers, dentists and policemen."

He said he has received calls from area residents who think he's either a war nut or an illegal operator.

A LITTLE BUSINESS ON THE SIDE — Greg Rainone makes a deal over the phone from his living room at his home in Arlington. The room is dominated by a .50-caliber machine gun. Rainone runs a weapons business in his spare time, when he is not in class at the University of Arlington. His business is legal, even though laws do restrict the sale of machine guns.

Computers will soon warn, inform, scientist believes

HOUSTON (AP) — Scientists at a four-day National Computer Conference beginning here today will review use of speech synthesis by computers that would bring warnings and information into households.

At least 50 percent of American homes could be receiving the computer data through terminals by the end of the decade, a scientist predicts.

Alan F. Mandel, a Westinghouse Electric Corp. scientist who helped design the company's "talking" elevator and other futuristic products, said computers will allow Americans to bank, shop and do other daily chores from their homes.

"It will be a convenience that will do some of the mundane things and let us be more creative in our careers and enjoy more leisure time," he said.

Mandel said there is a growing demand for microprocessors, the so-called "computer on a chip."

"It's because they're produced in very high volume and can be used in many different applications. They can be mass produced by the millions and the cost drops," he said.

Safety rules investigated

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The federal government is investigating safety standards at a Massachusetts Institute of Technology lab after the firing of a machinist who said he worked on radioactive material for 112 hours without knowing it, a published report says.

Dr. Donohue

Stroke: Three causes of it

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I understand that strokes can be caused by lack of blood to the brain (vessel blockage) or by too much blood (vessel rupture). Would you please contrast these different causes with regard severity and chances of recovery? — W.B.P.

A stroke is a sudden change in the brain's ability to function. That's why it's called a stroke; it comes on suddenly (or fairly suddenly), like a bolt out of the blue.

Now, as to why it happens. It has to do, as you say, with blood circulation to the brain, or a portion of the brain. That part of the brain does not get its needed supply of blood, so it malfunctions, sort of like a blown fuse blocking out a room or two in your home. One of the most frequent causes of stroke is thrombosis in a major blood vessel serving the brain. That artery has become blocked with deposits of fat. As a deposit grows, blood supply diminishes until finally, circulation is entirely blocked. A stroke ensues.

A second common cause of stroke is an embolus. This is a tiny clot that breaks loose from a large artery. It is swept into the circulation, and eventually may get to the smaller brain vessels. When it lodges there, it cuts off blood flow. A stroke follows.

The third form of stroke follows from a rupture of a brain artery. That can be directly related to high blood pressure, which eventually weakens the delicate walls of those little vessels. It bursts and blood leaks out into the brain. Such leaked blood does not nourish the brain area. Instead, it compresses it. The type of stroke is less common than the other two.

The relative severity of stroke, whether from thrombus, embolus or hemorrhage, depends on how much of the brain tissue is deprived of nourishment.

The same general rule applies to chances of recovery. When only small areas of the brain are affected, other parts can take over in time. Of course, even then a period of relearning has to take place — physical therapy. If the stroke has caused a person to be deeply unconscious for a long period, chances for recovery are less good. You will find a fuller discussion in the booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help." Other readers can order this booklet by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for printing and handling.

Mu Zetas reveal Phi Pals

Phi Pals for the 1981-82 years were revealed at the last meeting of the year for Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in the home of Diane Turner.

Members also selected Phi Pals for the coming year. Committees for next year were announced and Best program of the Year awards were given to Peggy Payne and Mrs. Eyskens.

Women have few regrets

Within a year after having an abortion, most women have few regrets or guilts. The magazine cites a recent follow-up study of 63 women who had abortions. Twelve months afterward, more than 75 percent had positive attitudes towards themselves and the event. More than one-third noted that abortion had been a positive learning experience that helped them to cope better with other problems in life.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I was just notified that my granddaughter has been hospitalized. The doctor says she has Ehlers-Danlos syndrome. It is said to be rare, and the doctor said it is connected with the tissue of the body. I can't find any information on this. Could you help? — R.B.P.

I believe you'll find her doctor used the term "connective tissue of the body," and not "connected with the body."

The body's connective tissue is difficult to define. Think of it as the glue and filler that holds the body together. Ehlers-Danlos syndrome is a defect in this tissue and the skin. There are six or seven varieties of this illness, and they range in severity and rarity. It can be serious or merely an annoyance. I truly hope your granddaughter has the latter variety.

Often, there is abnormally stretchable skin and joint looseness. For this, nothing need be done except to take precautions to avoid joint dislocation. If you could let me know just which type of Ehlers-Danlos you want to know about, I will be glad to fill you in privately.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

RDAs: Getting basics

Consumers taking a look at calories and nutrients in their daily diet might wonder how they can possibly get all of the Recommended Daily Allowances (RDAs) for vitamins, minerals and protein and still maintain proper weight.

The RDAs are set by a special committee in the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences. Members of the committee evaluate scientific research related to nutrition about every five years. Nutritional standards are set high enough to cover nutrient requirements of about 95 percent of the population, according to Doris Derelian, executive director of the California Dietetic Association.

"A level of nutrient intake is determined that will prevent disease," said Ms. Derelian. "These values have become somewhat inflated in the U.S. because the committee is dealing with a population recommendation they assume to be healthy," she said. "The inflated recommendations are high enough to cover the 'handful of people' who have unusually high requirements." There is no basis, in fact, it is dangerous for the general population to take megadoses of vitamins since the recommendations are more than adequate.

Derelian noted that one criticism of the RDAs is leveled because it makes no food intake recommendations. "It is the responsibility of nutritionists to translate nutrient amounts," she stated. "Food guides and suggestions that meals can be put together a certain way are the tools that nutritionists created which are supported by the RDAs," Derelian added.

The Four Food Group plan of eating, recommending: 2-4 servings from the Milk group, 2 servings from the Meat group, 4 servings from the Vegetable-Fruit group and 4 servings from the Bread-Cereal group, does assure a balanced diet.

Ms. Derelian suggested that any eating pattern or diet be evaluated by asking the question — does it have a good representation of the variety of foods from the four food groups? Derelian noted that most fad diets are grossly out of line with the four food groups system and therefore with the basic RDA.

Dear Abby

Judge frees himself from habit

DEAR ABBY: I am a 70-year-old retired municipal judge from the Philippines. Ten years ago I suffered a serious heart attack. I had been a chain smoker for nearly 40 years, averaging four packs of cigarettes a day. My physician ordered me to stop smoking. I objected vehemently, promising to cut down but not quit entirely.

In 1979, when I was strong enough to travel, my wife and I came to the U.S.A. On Nov. 18, 1981, I read in your column in the Long Beach (Calif.) Press-Telegram:

"Tomorrow will mark the Fifth Annual Great American Smokeout, a good-humored, upbeat, one-day campaign to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours — just to prove to themselves that they can. It's the brainchild of the American Cancer Society, which insists that anyone who can live without a cigarette for 24 hours can quit forever. So if you are hooked on cigarettes and have been meaning to quit, why not start tomorrow — for just 24 hours? It won't be easy, but I promise you it will be the best present you can give yourself and those who love you."

I decided to give it a try. I quit for one day, then another, and another, and I have not touched a cigarette since? The cough and chest pains I used to have stopped, and I no longer crave a cigarette.

I wish I could personally thank you for this, for if I could, I want not only shake your hands firmly, but would kiss them as well as a sincere manifestation of my appreciation and gratitude. You may use my name.

JUDGE JOSE L. COLLADO
DEAR JUDGE: Your letter is more than sufficient thanks for me. And if there are other readers who quit smoking on the Great American Smokeout Day, I want to hear from you!

DEAR ABBY: I deeply resent the pressure put on bosses to "honor" their secretaries by sending them flowers or candy and treating them to a lunch or dinner. As I see it, it's just another commercial gimmick to sell more flowers and candy.

After all, secretaries are paid for their services. And if the secretary does an outstanding job, let the boss show his or her appreciation as he or she sees fit.

Having a National Secretaries Week to "honor" all secretaries pressures all bosses to go along with the gimmick or look cheap.

I happen to be a wife as well as a secretary, and I do not need my boss to take me to lunch. I spend eight hours a day with him, and that's enough!

I know this letter won't change anything, but it sure felt good to get this off my chest.

NO HONORS, PLEASE
DEAR NO: You're right. It won't change anything, but I'm glad you got it off your chest. That's what I'm here for. Read on for a letter from a secretary with another point of view:

DEAR ABBY: Once again National Secretaries Week has passed unnoticed by my boss. I wonder how many other secretaries can identify with this:

On holidays and special occasions, nobody in the boss's family would be remembered if his secretary didn't remind him to send flowers or buy a gift. (And guess who orders the flowers and buys the gift? And when the boss receives a gift, guess who writes the thank-you notes?)

Believe me, the movie "Nine to Five" was no exaggeration. I would sign my name, but my boss is a very famous celebrity. Thanks for listening.

PTA plan trip to seminar

The City Council of Parent Teacher Association met recently to honor and provide information for the new officers of each local PTA unit. President Barbara Claxton and first vice-president Christine Lawrence were hostesses.

The purpose of the council is to develop and strengthen PTA leadership in the local units. Local units that were represented at the meeting were Kentwood, Marcy, Moss and Washington Elementary Schools. At city council meetings, members exchange ideas, and concerns and provide channels of communications with each school and community as well as Texas PTA and National PTA.

Mrs. Claxton announced plans for a car pool to the 1982 Summer Leadership Seminar, July 11-13, in Austin. All PTA officers were urged to attend the annual training and information seminar to be held at Jester Center on the campus of the University of Texas. Reservations must be turned in by June 25.

Workshops that will be held are "What Do I Do Now?", "Time Management", "Public Speaking", "Instructional TV", "PTA and State School Board Relations", "Resources for Increasing Involvement of Spanish Speaking Parents", "Organizing Parent Peer Groups", "Program Planning", "Talking to Your Child About Sexual Abuse", "Discipline Training for Parents", "Computer Awareness", "What Happens Between PTA Meetings?", "Parenting Teenagers" and "Parents, It's Time To Talk". Monthly meetings of Big Spring City Council PTA are open to all members of local PTAs. Regular meetings of the council will begin in September.

Dead grass could signal lawn pests

Noticed any patches of dead grass in your lawn lately? If you have, it may be the result of white grub feeding, warns Howard County Extension entomologist, David Foster. The immature stages of an insect commonly referred to as the May or June beetle, white grubs are beginning to feed in a few lawns now, he said, adding that dying grass can also result from diseases and lack of water.

Lawns suspected of harboring grubs should be examined during the critical treatment period, any time from now until August 15. They should be checked, the entomologist advised, by digging up 1-square-foot sections of sod and examining the roots and soil to a depth of four inches. Treatment usually is justified when more than four grubs per square foot are found. Because grubs normally are not distributed evenly in the yard, he urges gardeners to take several lawn samples to make certain an infestation justifies treatment. After examination, soil and sod should be replaced, pressed down and watered, he said.

Thatch (dead leaves) from lawn mowing can prevent proper water penetration to the grass root zone and chemically tie-up insecticides, reducing grub control efficiency. Thatch accumulation may lead to other problems. It provides a haven for disease organisms and insect pests and leads to shallow root growth, making the grass more susceptible to drought stress.

Insecticides for grub control are much less effective against eggs and large grubs than against small grubs he, informs. The toxicity of these insecticides is greatly reduced two to four weeks following application. Thus, insecticides applied too early may not be effective in the soil after the eggs hatch.

"Insecticides applied after the critical treatment period often prove ineffective because large grubs are more difficult to kill," Foster cautions.

When using granular insecticides, gardeners are urged to irrigate thoroughly so as to wash the insecticide into the root zone where the grubs are feeding. "If you use an insecticide spray, give the lawn about 1/4 inch of water before applying the spray. This will wet the grass and allow the spray formulation to better penetrate the soil," the entomologist adds.

Following the spray treatment, the lawn should be irrigated with a half inch of water to wash the insecticide all the way to the root zone.

When applying fertilizer-insecticide mixtures, gardeners are cautioned to apply the recommended amount of insecticide. A lesser amount than necessary to control the insect will give poor results and contribute to insecticide resistance.

Several states tighten brucellosis regulations

AUSTIN — Oklahoma and Missouri are two of several states which are tightening brucellosis regulations on Texas cattle, Dr. John W. Holcombe, executive director, Texas Animal Health Commission, reports.

Missouri has already imposed stiffer entry requirements on Texas livestock, and Oklahoma's tougher regulations go in effect July 1. Iowa has also put in effect a regulation which would treat Texas as a Class C state instead of a B and C state as provided for in federal regulations. That means more testing of this state's cattle for entry into Iowa.

"It appears that Texas livestock producers can expect more states to increase their requirements for Texas' cattle relating to brucellosis," Dr. Holcombe said.

He cited a couple of reasons for this:

1. Several states are taking action to comply with proposed federal rules;
2. State free or virtually free of brucellosis want to remain that way, and thus are imposing the more stringent regulations.

Missouri probably has the most stringent regulations on receiving Texas cattle: All cattle moving into Missouri, including steers, will require a prior permit from the Missouri Department of Agriculture Animal Health division. Other requirements include: individual identification on health certificates; two consecutive negative tests before movement for females over 18 months of age, followed by a 60 to 120 day quarantine and retest at owner's expense; and one negative test within 30 days of movement for females between four and 18 months of age followed by the same quarantine and retest.

Also, male or female calves under 12 months of age from quarantined herds and adult vaccinated cattle from Texas would not be allowed entry into Missouri under any circumstances. "These same restrictions apply to cattle from Oklahoma, Florida, Louisiana, and Mississippi entering Missouri," Dr. Holcombe noted.

Effective July 1, all female cattle born after Jan 1, 1982, which are four months of age or older, entering Oklahoma, must be official brucellosis vaccinates, S branded, or spayed prior to entry.

S branded cattle may move only to a quarantined feedlot or directly to slaughter. S branded cattle are those which may have been exposed to brucellosis.

In addition, out of state farm origin cattle may be consigned to an approved market in Oklahoma without prior test, permit, or vaccination. Before being released from such market, they must meet all of Oklahoma's requirements.

According to records of the TAHC, Oklahoma received 213,000 head of cattle and calves in 1981, Missouri received 4,000 head, and Iowa received 47,000 head.

Steer show judging discussed

LUBBOCK — What do height and length, ruggedness, heavy bones, smoothness and pattern have to do with breeding and slaughter cattle?

"Nothing," said Dr. Robert A. Long, "but that's what cattle are judged on at steer shows."

The Texas Tech University animal science professor, speaking before the National Steer Symposium at Oklahoma State University recently, said breeding cattle and slaughter steers should be largely evaluated on the basis of accurate estimates of carcass characteristics.

In terms of cutability and eating quality, maximum muscle and minimum fat is important to both packers and consumers. A steer, Long said, cannot produce an excellent carcass without being well muscled.

Data which illustrates the constant proportionality of skeleton and muscle has often been misinterpreted to mean that all cattle are the same and, to measure them the longest or largest is best, the researcher said.

Save energy with high-efficiency a/c and get a bonus from Texas Electric

The amount shown is for a 3-ton central electric air conditioner with an SEER of 8.5.

If you replace your central electric air conditioner with one that's more efficient, Texas Electric will pay you a bonus of $80 per ton.

Not only that, you'll save on your electric bill as well. For example, a high-efficiency 3-ton unit will save you up to $160 a year.

This equipment costs more initially, but the bonus from Texas Electric plus the savings on your electric bill will make up the difference in just a few years.

If enough people buy high-efficiency equipment, summer peak load growth will be slowed — and so will the need to build new generating plants. In the long run, this will help hold down everyone's electric bill.

Before you replace your old air conditioner, ask your dealer about central air conditioners, heat pumps, and window units that qualify for this program.

Boxing duo advances to Region tourney

JAIME BALDWIN
...state boxing champ

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

While most boxing fans have their minds on the Holmes-Cooney showdown Friday night, Big Springers Jaime Baldwin and Fernando Benavidez are having other thoughts about the ring.

The pair of 14-year-old local boxers will be in Jonesboro, La., for the Region IX USA-ABF Southern Association Boxing Tournament. The boys are making the trip by virtue of championship performances Saturday at the regional ABF Junior Olympics Tournament in Andrews.

Boxers from Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi will be in the Jonesboro ring hoping to advance to the national tournament the following week in Colorado Springs, Colo. The American Boxing Federation event is a preparatory tournament as the country searches for young fighters for the 1984 Olympic Games.

Baldwin won the 91-95 weight division in the Senior Division (ages 14-15) in Andrews while Benavidez took home top honors in the 95-100 pound class. The Howard County Boxing Club has two more winners as the first-year organization recorded four championships in its way to a second place finish.

Olton also had four titles but it was Amarillo, combining two of its local clubs into one, that won the overall team championship.

David Baldwin, 11, won the 95-100 weight class in the Junior Division while teammate Martin Baldwin, 10, won the 70-75 pound weight class. Both are state champs but do not advance any further because of their age.

"We are confident one of the boys (Baldwin or Benavidez) will advance to the nationals," said manager Jamie Baldwin. He and coach Jose Martinez will accompany the two fighters to Jonesboro for the two-day event.

Twenty-three teams — including those from Amarillo, Odessa, Lubbock, Abilene and San Angelo — were at the Andrews competition.

"They say we are just doing great since this is our first year," reports Baldwin. "A lot of teams have been up there five years trying for a state champion. And we get our first year."

"We are doing all this for Big Spring," he continued.

Because the tournaments fall one weekend after another, there isn't much time to prepare between fights. Light workouts were scheduled Monday and Tuesday with final training coming Wednesday. The trip to Jonesboro begins Thursday.

The tri-state tournament completes the summer program until school resumes in the fall.

Cooney's playing on stage

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gerry Cooney may not be a good standup comic, but then he won't be trying to make Larry Holmes laugh when they meet for the World Boxing Council heavyweight title.

"You better stick to boxing," said Cooney's trainer, Victor Valle, after the No. 1 ranked contender had cracked a couple of jokes at a post-workout news conference Monday.

"Which room you playing Friday night," somebody else asked Cooney after the fighter's brief attempt at being a comedian.

"The main room," said Cooney. Friday night Cooney won't be trying for laughs. He will be fighting Holmes in a 32,000-seat arena in a Caesars Palace parking lot.

It will not only be the "main room" at Caesars, it will be center stage in the world sports.

The 25-year-old Cooney appeared relaxed at the news conference, discussing a variety of subjects, a couple reluctantly.

Holmes addressed the fans attending his workout, but he did not meet with members of the media.

The movie boxing character Rocky was mentioned, and Cooney said, "Rocky is a great character. It (the series of three films) doesn't have to be about boxing. It can be about anything."

"The most important thing about it is he was an underdog and a regular guy," Cooney said.

One subject Cooney, who is white, didn't want to talk about was the race being an issue in the fight.

"I just forget about it," said Cooney. "I don't want to talk about it. The more everybody writes about it the worse it gets."

Another subject Cooney said he didn't want to talk about was Holmes, a man Cooney says he can't be friends with because of things the champion has said about him.

But he did talk about Holmes briefly, and one of the things he said was: "If I was married and had children, I wouldn't want them looking up to him."

"Gerry Cooney never had an obstacles to jump over," said Holmes, who says Cooney hasn't earned his No. 1 contender's ranking.

The champion also told fans that he didn't like some things that have been written about him recently.

"I'm bitter and angry. I admit it," said Holmes, who drew cheers when he added: "I feel each one of you deserve five minutes of my time."

At the beginning of his chat with the fans, Holmes said, "I'm ready and I'm going to put a

"I'm not bragging," said Holmes. "I'm telling the truth."

Can Lakers do it at home tonight?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was only a few days ago that the Los Angeles Lakers were being touted by many observers as one of the greatest teams in National Basketball Association history. Now, there are those who believe the Lakers have their backs against the wall.

The Lakers, with a 3-2 lead over Philadelphia in the best-of-seven NBA Championship Series, entertain the 76ers tonight in Game Six. The contest begins at 9 p.m., EDT.

The series moved back to Los Angeles because the 76ers rolled to a 135-102 triumph on their home court last Sunday. If the 76ers win tonight, a seventh game will be played at the Spectrum in Philadelphia Thursday night.

On the whole, the Lakers would rather not be in Philadelphia, at least not right now.

"It's going to be a heck of a basketball game because the Lakers are going to treat it like it's the seventh game," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham, speaking of tonight's contest. "They don't want to come back to Philly to play us."

Of course, the 76ers aren't too fond of playing the Lakers at the Forum, either. Los Angeles has won 40 of its 58 home games against Philadelphia over the years.

Philadelphia is trying to become the first team in the 36-year history of the NBA to win a Championship Series after trailing 3-1. As Lakers' guard Norm Nixon pointed out, the 76ers still have a lot to accomplish.

"Who's down 3-2?" asked Nixon after Game Five. "They have to win two games, we have to win one. They have to play two great games."

One 76er who played a great game Sunday was 6-foot-11 center Darryl Dawkins. However, about the only consistent thing about Dawkins seems to be his inconsistency.

Dawkins came off the bench to score 20 points, grab seven rebounds and play a key role as the 76ers held Los Angeles center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to only six points. In Game Two of the Series, Dawkins played only eight minutes. He scored nine points, but picked up five fouls.

NBA

Abdul-Jabbar hadn't scored fewer than 11 points in his previous 109 playoff games. The last time the 35-year-old, six-time NBA most valuable player failed to score in double figures in any game was opening day of the 1977-78 season. He scored two points then before getting into a fight with Kent Benson and being ejected.

Asked about the 76ers' strategy against him Sunday, Abdul-Jabbar said, "They just pushed and shoved."

"Philadelphia just wasn't going to allow him the kind of position he had in the two games in L.A.," added Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley, who said it would be a different story Tuesday.

Clippers on the move

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Diego Clippers have announced they will play in Los Angeles starting with the 1982-83 National Basketball Association season even though they have a written agreement to play at the San Diego Sports Arena for four more years.

Also, the Clippers made the announcement though they have yet to seek the required approval from the NBA's Board of Governors for such a move.

Donald T. Sterling, owner of the Clippers, wouldn't comment on the team's lease with the San Diego complex Monday when he announced the club would play at the Los Angeles Sports Arena next season.

Sterling said he has agreed to a three-year contract with options up to 20 years to play at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Alex Sachare, an NBA spokesman, said any transfer of a franchise requires three-quarters approval of the NBA governors who will meet at Coronado, Calif., June 22-23.

"So far, no proposal has been made to the board," he said. "If Sterling wishes the matter to be discussed there, I assume he will place it on the agenda."

The move would put the Clippers, who had the NBA's lowest average home attendance last season (5,477), about 10 miles away from the Forum, home of the Los Angeles Lakers.

Officials of the San Diego Sports Arena were unavailable for comment. Owner Jerry Buss of the Lakers issued the following statement:

Angels bedevil Wildcats, 10-4

The Angels continued their climb up the American Senior League standings with a 10-4 victory over the Wildcats Monday night. The game was tied 3-3 entering the seventh inning when the Angels erupted for seven runs to put the game away.

Mike Dodd drove in two runs with a triple

"I plan to attend the NBA meetings in two weeks and I will with great interest and open mind listen to what Don has to say about moving the Clippers to Los Angeles. I don't feel I can make any further comment until I am better apprised about all aspects of the situation."

Sterling was non-committal at his appearance at the meeting of the Los Angeles Coliseum Board. He referred most questions to Maxwell Blecher, attorney for the Coliseum Board.

"It is best for the team, best for him (Sterling) and best for the NBA to make the move to Los Angeles," said Blecher.

Sterling bought the San Diego franchise from Irv Levin a year ago after the team was moved from Buffalo for the 1978-79 season. The Clippers have had little success since moving west. They were 17-65 during the recently completed season.

Jim Hardy, general manager of the L.A. Coliseum and Sports Arena, said the addition of the Clippers would mean more than $500,000 in additional revenues for the Sports Arena in the next three years. That figure did not include parking and concession revenues.

Hardy said he was not worried about the Lakers vs. Clippers competition in the area "because we have 9 million people" with enthusiasm and anticipation.

It was also pointed out that the Clippers will have high draft choices this season, which should enhance their chances in the following NBA campaigns.

while Tony Rodriguez knocked in a pair with a single and double.

David Renteria notched the victory for the Angels with a five-hitter.

The Angels are now 5-3 for the year, trailing the first place Astros. The Wildcats slipped to an even 4-4 mark with the loss.

HC inks second hoop standout

Howard College coach Don Stevens inked his second recruit of the summer when he signed Celeste Van Auken of Tom C. Clark High School of San Antonio to a scholarship agreement.

Van Auken led the Cougars to a 31-5 record and District 30-A AAAA championship. The team won a bi-district title as their 5-6 point guard hit 66 per cent from the floor and 75 per cent from the foul line. She handed out five assists a game and averaged a couple of steals.

Among her honors was selection to the All-City All-Star team in San Antonio. "She is a very strong man-to-man defensive player, always assigned to opponent's best outside player and always held them below their scoring average," said a coach Micki Hudson.

Texas, Stanford meet in unbeaten's battle

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Texas carries college baseball's best record into Tuesday night's winners' bracket semifinal against Stanford, the team now carrying the hopes of the West in the College World Series.

Texas, ranked No. 1 with a 57-4 record, and Stanford, No. 6 with a 49-16-1 mark, meet at 7:10 p.m. CDT with the winner advancing to the winners' bracket finals at 7:10 p.m. Thursday. The loser meets Maine in an elimination game at 8:10 p.m. Wednesday.

"We had a really good season," said Longhorn Coach Cliff Gustafson. His club also had a good start in the CWS, blasting Oklahoma State 9-1 on Roger Clemens' five-hitter in Saturday's first round.

Stanford possibly is the hottest team in the field, scoring at an average of over 14 runs per game through the NCAA playoffs. The Cardinal shelled South Carolina 15-4 Saturday night and equaled a CWS record with 11 runs in a single inning.

Following the elimination of Cal-State Fullerton Sunday night, Stanford is the lone western schools' representative remaining in the playoffs. But the Cardinal must now get past Texas, whose 1975 team was the only NCAA Division I baseball champion outside the West since 1967.

"Obviously we're very proud of the baseball we play out west," said Marquess.

NCAA World Series

"And I think it makes a difference in the tournament. Every other team is shooting for you and you get their best shot. But it helps us out there because you're playing top-notch competition throughout the year."

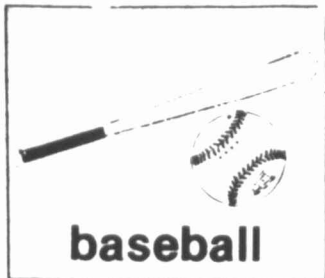

Stanford came through a regional playoff, besting three top 20-rated teams in Hawaii, Fresno State and Pepperdine.

"We're playing our best ball right now and that's a good thing because obviously all eight teams in the tournament come in playing their best baseball," said Marquess. "It's going to be a real challenge keeping that title in the West."

Fullerton, ranked third nationally coming into the CWS, went out in two games on a pair of shutout pitching performances by Wichita State's Bryan Oelkers and Maine's Joe Johnson.

"There's no way the West has a lock on this title ... not any more," said Fullerton Coach Augie Garrido, who had picked Stanford as his pre-tournament favorite. "These programs are getting better and better."

ROOM FOR TWO? — Todd Cruz (21) of the Seattle Mariners holds his place on third base, as Texas Ranger third baseman Buddy Bell (25) waits for a chance to tag him out during the fifth inning. Two Mariners scored on the play, Terry Bulling's single to center field Monday night in Arlington, Texas. Cruz was safe, but did not score in the inning.

Nelson haunts Texas American League

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Gene Nelson has returned to haunt the Texas Rangers. The 21-year-old right-hander, signed originally by Texas in 1978, came back to Arlington Stadium in a Seattle Mariners' uniform, tossed a two-hit shutout against his former mates and, adding insult to injury, used a pitch the Rangers taught him. "It's a three-finger changeup where I use my outside three fingers," Nelson said after the 6-0 Seattle victory, the Mariners' 10th win in 14 games. "When I went to tryout camp they (Rangers) wanted me to learn how to throw it. "I worked with it for a couple of years — the pitching coach here at Texas, Dick Such, worked with me on it — and finally it's become one of my better pitches. I got a couple of strikeouts with it." Nelson had a perfect game through six innings but ignored the old baseball superstition of keeping mum while a no-hitter is in progress. "In the seventh inning," Nelson said, "when we started to go out I said, 'Guys, I know it's there and I'm gonna go for it.'" So, with two outs in the seventh, Buddy Bell spoiled the perfect game with a line-drive single to center. "He hit a good pitch," said Nelson. "That was a fast ball that I wanted to waste. I threw the ball at least seven or eight inches outside and went out there and got it, just pulled it up the middle. After that, I just said, 'It's over with, just go ahead and pitch your ballgame.'" The only other hit — and base runner — Nelson allowed was an eightth-inning infield single by Dave Hostetter. Otherwise, he was in complete control. "He really stayed ahead of the hitters," said Seattle manager Rene Lachemann. "He faced 29 batters and on 19 of them he got the first pitch in for a strike. I don't think you're going to see much better than what he pitched today." "That's the best-pitched game I've seen all year," agreed Texas catcher Jim Sundberg.

Royals 5, Twins 4
How does Kansas City's ace reliever Dan Quisenberry pitch to the heart of the Minnesota Twins' lineup? "Very, very carefully," he says — particularly when he's pitching in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis. Quisenberry was in such a situation Monday night, with the Royals leading 5-4 in the 11th inning and the same three batters coming up that hit consecutive home runs in the eighth — Ron Washington, Tom Brunansky and Kent Hrbek. Quisenberry blew the ball by both Washington and Brunansky, then got Hrbek for the final out on a fly ball to left field, helping the Royals win their sixth straight game. Hrbek, incidentally, had hit a homer off Quisenberry in that explosive

Orioles 7, Brewers 2
Jim Palmer hurled a five-hitter and Benny Ayala capped a four-run fifth inning with a two-run homer, leading Baltimore over Milwaukee. The Brewers had scored 28 runs in their previous three games, but Palmer, 3-3, who entered the game with a 6.02 earned run average, allowed just Ben Oglivie's 11th homer in the seventh inning and Robin Yount's sixth in the ninth.

Blue Jays 7, Indians 3
Willie Upshaw belted his sixth and seventh homers of the season, including an inside-the-park shot in the third inning, to lift Toronto over Cleveland. Toronto right-hander Luis Leal, 5-3, scattered six hits, walked three and struck out four. Cleveland's John Denny, 3-6, surrendered all seven Toronto runs in five innings.

Pirates 4, Mets 3
Bill Madlock's RBI single in the 12th inning off Mets' reliever Neil Allen scored Lee Lacy with the winning run as the Pirates won their fifth game out of their last six. "We are now five games below the 500 mark, and we're going to reach that spot (.500) very soon," said Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner.

Braves 4, Dodgers 3
Dale Murphy belted his league-leading 17th homer — a three-run, seventh-inning shot of reliever Tom Niedenfuer — to pace the Braves' victory, which enabled first-place Atlanta to maintain a 1½-game lead over San Diego in the NL West. The Dodger defeat did not diminish the feat of first baseman Steve Garvey, who played in his 1,000th consecutive game.

Padres 6, Reds 5
Garry Templeton's two-run single ignited a five-run Padre third inning outburst, lifting Chris Welsh to his fourth victory against one defeat. The Padres once held a 6-2 lead, but the Reds scored three late runs before Luis DeLeon came on in the ninth for his third save.

Phillies 7, Cubs 5
Manny Trillo's infield single scored pinch-runner Luis Aguayo from second base with the winning run in the eighth inning as the Phillies beat the Cubs, who absorbed their eighth straight defeat.

Ballparks observe silence Popular AL umpire mourned

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Baseball officials today mourned the death of one of the game's most popular umpires, Louis John DiMuro, who died after being struck by a car on a busy street near Arlington Stadium.

DiMuro, 51, a 19-year veteran American League umpire, walked into the path of a car late Sunday after he officiated a Chicago White Sox-Texas Rangers game and was on his way to a fast food restaurant. "He was certainly one of the most popular and personable of all our umpires," American League President Lee MacPhail said in a prepared statement Monday.

"His sudden passing is a loss to all of us in baseball," MacPhail added. A special team of umpires was called to Milwaukee to work the Baltimore Orioles-Milwaukee Brewers game because the crew that had included DiMuro did not work the game because they were grief-stricken.

A moment of silence in DiMuro's memory preceded the Baltimore-Milwaukee game. "I had goosebumps when they had a moment of silence for Lou. It was a great tribute and it showed how close of a family we have here in baseball," said Rocky Roe, one of the substitute umpires. Roe described his feelings as "shock and disbelief."

LOUIS JOHN DIMURO ...umpire mourned

"It always seems like the misfortunes happen to the really good people," Roe added. Asked about reports that he will join the crew as DiMuro's replacement for the rest of the season, Roe said, "You can't replace a guy like Lou DiMuro and I wouldn't attempt to. It's really just a time for sorrow." Noting that DiMuro was survived by a wife and five children, ranging in age from 2 to 16, Roe said, "It's not only a loss of a fine gentleman in the game, but he was a great family man. Just an incredible shame for the kids."

An autopsy Monday showed DiMuro died of massive head injuries, the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office said. Witnesses told police DiMuro, who lived in Tucson, Ariz., walked into the path of a car driven by David Ray O'Toole at about 11 p.m. and smashed against the windshield on the driver's side of the car.

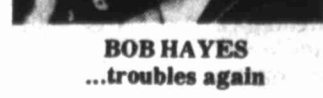

Two registered nurses who happened to be passing the scene administered cardio-pulmonary resuscitation until DiMuro was taken to Arlington Memorial Hospital. Police Capt. B.N. Wiggins said he was pronounced dead about 1 a.m. DiMuro was second in seniority among American League umpires behind Bill Haller. He began umpiring after a broken finger he suffered while serving in the U.S. Air Force benched him as a player.

He had umpired in two World Series in 1969 and 1976, worked league championship series in 1971, 1975 and 1978, and officiated at All Star Games in 1965, 1967, 1972 and 1981.

Hayes hearing set

DALLAS (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboy speedster Bob Hayes has been arrested for investigation of driving while intoxicated after Dallas police spotted the retired football star weaving in traffic, a county judge said. Hayes, once called "the world's fastest human," was released after several hours in jail Monday on a $200 bond set by County Court Judge Tom Price.

A hearing would be scheduled later this month, Price said. Hayes, 39, was picked up about 1 a.m. after officers saw his car weaving in traffic in north Dallas, police spokesman Vicki Eiker said. Police said that when Hayes emerged from the car he slurred his words, staggered and needed support to stand. Officers asked him if he would take chemical blood or breath tests to determine the level of alcohol in his body, and he refused, Ms. Eiker said. The former Olympic sprinter and star running back who retired from professional football in 1975 was released from jail about 6 a.m. The incident was not Hayes' first brush with the law. He was arrested in March 1978 on charges of delivering Quaaludes, a powerful tranquilizer, and cocaine. A year later, he was sentenced to five years in prison. Hayes was paroled in February 1980.

Rockets listen to purchase offering

HOUSTON (AP) — The owners of the Houston Rockets say they are listening to offers to buy the team, but insist it is routine and the National Basketball Association franchise is not on the auction block. Ray Patterson, general manager of the Rockets, confirmed Monday that the team's owners have received four or five offers to buy the team. "I assume there will be more discussions next week. If one of the parties concerned shows that it is really serious, then yes, there is a possibility that the club will be sold," Patterson said. But Rockets' President Gavin Maloof said Monday in Albuquerque that the franchise "definitely is not on the selling block."

George Maloof purchased the Rockets in 1979 for an estimated $9 million to $10 million. After Maloof's death in 1980, his widow Coleen and son Gavin, took control of the team. Offers to buy the Rockets — currently involved in high-stakes negotiations to sign star center Moses Malone to a new contract — are nothing new, said Mrs. Maloof. "We've had offers all along," she said. "George had an offer a week after he bought the team." "An offer really has to be attractive," Mrs. Maloof said. "Nothing has come up we would like to take on," said Gavin Maloof. Bud Reynolds, chief financial officer for the Maloof Companies, owners of the Rockets, said the Albuquerque-based company, which often finds it difficult to manage the team from New Mexico, is listening to offers. "Because because of the fact that we had a good game this year, there have been a lot of inquiries," Reynolds said. "In any business, it's the management's prerogative to explore all options."

Cronkite's Universe returns to television

NEW YORK (AP) — Welcome to "Walter Cronkite's Universe," the science series that travels so far around the world that it finds people who don't recognize Uncle Walter. Tonight, it finds a band of chimpanzees who can't keep their mitts off him.

For the 13-week series, returning to CBS for the summer, Cronkite journeyed to five continents and logged hundreds of thousands of miles. In Africa, he was in a village that didn't have mirrors. But it did have one TV.

"It's mostly for children's programs," said Cronkite. "We put a cassette in, and they got a big kick out of watching themselves."

Discovery, that's the beauty of "Walter Cronkite's Universe." It's an adventure story, the science of adventure," said the former "CBS Evening News" anchor.

In the African villages, Cronkite will have done a "Do you know me?" commercial for American Express. He was recognized, however, in Nairobi "from tourists and some Kenyans who are keen on foreign policy things," he said.

In coming weeks, Cronkite flies over the Arctic Circle, for a look under the aurora borealis; compares Western medicine to with doctors in Africa, and dives 8,000 feet in a three-man submarine to check the ocean's bottom.

What were the sensations down below? "A little boredom," Cronkite said. "We spent 10 hours in a tin can. After five hours, you've seen everything you can see." Cronkite is not really jaded about seeing the world — without joining the Navy. "I'm sure there are a lot of jealous scientists who wish they could have made that first dive to the bottom of the ocean, like we did."

The magazine series features weekly contributions from Cronkite, along with regular reports from Charles Osgood and other CBS News correspondents.

Osgood, a journalist with a nice light touch, provides the tickles, while Cronkite will concentrate on the serious, topical stuff. Remember, this is a production of CBS News.

Tonight, Osgood has an offbeat piece on demolition experts who bring buildings straight down, without damaging the adjacent structures. To make his point, and for the children of all ages in the audience, he destroys an edifice of blocks with one mischievous tug. The piece ends in Osgood style with a slow-motion replay of his wooden London Bridge all falling down.

FEMALE ARTIST OF THE YEAR — Barbara Mandrell accepts the first of four awards she won or co-won last night in Nashville during the annual Music City News Country Awards. Ms. Mandrell was voted Female Artist of the Year.

Mandrell takes 4 awards

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After pocketing more of the country music industry's awards, singer Barbara Mandrell says she'll turn her talents to making movies.

Miss Mandrell won or shared four honors at the 16th annual Music City News show, broadcast Monday night on syndicated television from the Grand Ole Opry House.

She won female artist of the year and musician of the year and shared awards with her two sisters, Louise and Iriene, for television show of the year and top comedy act. Miss Mandrell is star of the NBC TV program "Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters," which goes off the air this fall after two seasons.

Last October, Miss Mandrell won an unprecedented second straight entertainer of the year title from the Country Music Association. She also has been voted top female vocalist by the association twice in the past three years. The Statler Brothers and Shelly West were the other double winners in the awards presentations, which launched a week of special country music activities at the Opry known as "Fan Fair."

The Statler Brothers, hosts of the show along with Louise Mandrell and Ed Bruce, were chosen No. 1 vocal group and earned top album honors for "Years Ago."

More homeowners facing foreclosure

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The high unemployment rate and the shaky housing market are causing thousands of homeowners to fall behind on their mortgage payments and many of them are facing foreclosure — an often-lengthy process which can leave both borrowers and lenders at a loss.

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America said last week that mortgages on at least 100,000 homes were "in the process of foreclosure" as of the end of the first three months of 1982.

The foreclosure rate of just over half a percent was the highest since the group started keeping records in 1953. The numbers don't mean, however, that 100,000 families will lose their homes.

Mark J. Riedy, executive vice president of the bankers' group, whose members "service" or manage mortgages for lenders of all types, said that the term "in the process of foreclosure" covers many situations. It may mean that the lender has filed a first foreclosure notice; or it may mean that the final title transfer is under way.

Riedy said he did not know how many of the homes now in the process of foreclosure will be lost. In the past, he said, homeowners in trouble could sell their homes and pay off the mortgage. Today's economy makes sales more difficult and people who are unemployed over a long period simply fall further behind.

Walter C. Klein Jr., executive vice president of Advance Mortgage Corp., a Michigan-based company which services 185,000 loans in 40 states, said that the traditional pattern shows that about half of all foreclosure procedures are actually completed. The remaining borrowers come up with the back payments or sell their houses.

That may be changing, however. And Klein said the situation varies with location. The Detroit office of Advance, for example, recommended foreclosure on 1.71 percent of the mortgages it serviced in 1981. Almost three-fourths of the recommendations were completed.

Felix Beck, chairman of the board of Margaretten and Co., a national mortgage banker based in Perth Amboy, N.J., said his company does not institute foreclosure proceedings until a homeowner is at least four months delinquent in payments.

State laws affect the time that passes before the initial notice of foreclosure and the final loss of property. In New Jersey, Beck said, it generally takes at least six or seven months.

Bell upset by hotel surcharges

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Ma Bell is in a snit about the way her flock of customers is being treated by some overseas hotels. They're padding the bills on international phone calls, she says.

Upholstering might better describe the practice. According to AT&T, parent of the great Bell family of phone companies, surcharges range up to 300 percent.

The company also says it is fed up with the practice because, among other things, it loses millions of dollars a year when Americans traveling abroad believe rates are too high for them to call home.

Moreover, the company says, it gets the blame. Said a public relations representative: "They swear under their breath and decide to write a nasty letter to Ma Bell when they get home."

And they do. The company's director of correspondent relations, one of the fellows who deals with foreign phone companies, says the surcharges account for about 90 percent of complaints made to him.

He cites these examples:

- A traveler who made a $22 call from West Berlin to Philadelphia, and then found when checking out that he was billed $60 by the hotel.
- A guest who complained to a Paris hotel when billed $90 for two $7.50 calls, and was told the $75 surcharge covered the cost of phone equipment and staffing the switchboard with multilingual operators.

"Some modest charges are reasonable," said the PR representative. It is true, he said, that hotels in recent years have had to pay for more modern equipment and that they must have a multilingual staff.

"But they have made a profit center out of the switchboard," he complained.

In most instances, he said, the traveler has no idea he is being billed by the hotel at far above its actual costs. Burdened with luggage, and racing to make connections, the customer is in no position to argue very long.

While such surcharges might be standard in many overseas hotels, they are not customary in the United States, and that makes Americans particularly vulnerable to the practice.

So bothersome has the practice become that AT&T assigned a director — that's one step below vice president — to come up with a solution. E.E. Carr, the director, designed what is now called Teleplan.

Teleplan is an agreement with overseas hotels to set moderate surcharges and a fixed maximum, regardless of the length of the call. That latter consideration, the call's length, is important, since many of the offending hotels continue to surcharge by the minute.

At non-Teleplan hotels, advises AT&T, you may avoid big charges by briefly calling home — most surcharges are based on length of call, so the bill will be relatively small — and asking them to call you.

And though AT&T didn't say it, you can save even more by just not calling at all.

FINDING THE RIGHT PERSON FOR THE RIGHT JOB — Sue Brown and Rubi Taroni, personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

Big Spring Employment puts right person in job

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a position is better assured by calling a professional employment service such as Big Spring Employment Agency, located in the Coronado Plaza.

Many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the services of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

Finding the right person for the right job is the duty of Mrs. Sue Brown and Mrs. Rubi Taroni, the experienced personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

Big Spring Employment carries on an extensive testing program in the area of office skills, exposing applicants to personnel tests in business and industrial situations.

EACH EMPLOYER has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements for the work, the salary to be offered and the availability of applicants. With this mind, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Taroni carefully evaluate each applicant so employers do not waste time interviewing persons not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only those who measure up to the job's requirements.

Both the employment counselors and the employers may refer to these tests as an indicator of future possibilities.

Thus, fewer rejections plague the employer or the applicant. The employer sees fewer applicants, and fewer rejections make for better public relations. There is also a smaller personnel turnover, and the

From the minimum-wage clerk to the highly-paid executive, job applicants come to Big Spring Employment because they know private agencies are specialists in job hunting and can, because of experience and contacts, place them in desirable jobs sooner than they can locate job themselves. Applicants desiring employment in other parts of the state or country can be referred for interviews through associated agencies.
