Tornado may have been spotted south of city

By BILLELDER
City Editor

A brief downpour and an apparent tornado topped off a sizzling day in the Big Spring area yesterday.

The temperature soared to 100 degrees, according to the U.S. Big Spring Field Station. And just as you were reaching for that 15th glass of cool water in mid-afternoon, dark clouds were forming south of the city and a tornado may have been spotted.

Big Spring police said they received a call from the Colorado River Municipal Water District shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday, reporting a tornado south of the city. Neither the exact location nor the time of the tornado were given, a police dispatcher said.

Rod Lewis, acting assistant manager of the water district, said this morning "that there was a story around (the water office) that some of our people had seen one, but we couldn't confirm it."

Boyce Hale, who lives south of the city near the Garden City turnoff on Highway 87, said he saw something at 3:15 p.m. that may have been a tornado.

"I wasn't close enough to tell whether it was a little old devil wind or a tornado. These little devil winds make a lot of dust fly if it's dry. Sometimes people mistake them for a tornado," Hale said.

He said the apparent tornado was located eight miles southeast of Big Spring and lasted for about three minutes before dissipating.

Hale also reported sixteen-hundredths of an inch of rain fell on his property during a late afternoon cloudburst.

Glasscock County Sheriff Royce Pruitt reported a small amount of rain and some hail fell in the Garden City area.

The U.S. Big Spring Field Station's gauge on the north side of town recorded no rainfall, according to Neil Rogers of the station.

She said the high temperature yesterday was 100 degrees, and the low was 68. The hottest June 9 on the farm station's books was in 1958, when the mercury climbed to 107 degrees, she said.

WATCHING SUSPECTS — Israeli soldiers guard three Palestinian suspects from their jeep (on the left). The Israelis captured the Palestinians near Tyre, inside Israeli-occupied Lebanon today and forced them to sit on

Israelis near Beirut

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets dropped leaflets over Beirut today warning that Israeli forces were about to storm the capital and calling on Syrian forces to leave the city "within a few hours."

"We shall capture the city (Beirut) in a short period," said the yellow, Arabic-language leaflets that were addressed to the commanding officer of the Syrian forces in Beirut and signed by the commander of Israel's northern front.

"Since we do not intend to fight the Syrian army ... therefore we have issued orders to our forces to let you and your forces leave the city (Beirut) unmolested," they said.

There was no immediate Syrian comment on Israel's ultimatum.

After the leaflets fell, Lebanese leftist organizations sent sound trucks into the streets warning citizens not to pick them up "because they are contaminated."

Meanwhile, Britain, Canada, France and The Netherlands urged their citizens to leave mostly Moslem West Beirut. Hundreds of local residents and foreign correspondents have begun moving to relatively tranquil Christian East Beirut.

Syria has maintained 30,000 peacekeeping forces in Lebanon since it stepped in to halt the 1975 civil war between rightist Christian militiamen and an alliance of Palestinian guerrillas and Lebanese leftists.

The leaflets were dropped shortly after Israeli jets and warships struck at the heart of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Lebanon today, pounding PLO chief Yasser Arafat's military headquarters in southern Beirut in a four-hour bombardment.

The PLO said its forces turned back repeated Israeli attempts to land troops at Beirut airport.

The early morning attack on the Lebanese capital followed a day of furious air battles in eastern Lebanon Wednesday in which Israel claimed it destroyed all of the surface-to-air missile batteries Syria moved in 14 months

Bullock blasted

Opponent levels charge in local visit

By BOB CARPENTER

State Sen. Mike Richards, R-Sugarland, a candidate for the office of state comptroller, began his Big Spring press conference yesterday by waving a two-inch sheaf of court documents in the air, emphasizing the papers represented over $1.6 million in unsatisfied judgments against his opponent, incumbent Bob Bullock.

Richards, who is on a week-long tour of 15 cities throughout the state, called the judgments against Bullock "a shameful account of circumstances in which (Bullock) entered into personal and business arrangements, made commitments and then failed to live up to them."

The bulk of the judgments were confined to three rulings handed down in three different state district courts between 1977 and 1981 totalling $1.1 million, according to Richards.

Bullock was ordered in two cases by the 53rd District Court in Travis County and the 37th District Court in Bexar County to pay for default on two loans, Richards said. The total amount the court ordered Bullock to pay in the two cases was approximately $1 million, he said.

In the third case, the 280th District Court in Travis County ordered Bullock to pay two individuals $140,000 they had loaned him and a business partner for an option to buy land in Harris County that never materialized, according to Richards.

After making his point about Bullock's financial status, Richards tossed the judgments aside and said, "...my opponent's inability to keep his personal financial house in order and his blatant disregard for the massive judgments against him should give rise to deep concern among all Texans about the men who run the financial office of our state."

Richards then proposed that state

STATE COMPTROLLER CANDIDATE — State Sen. Mike Richards, R-Sugarland, makes a point in his press conference held yesterday at the Big Spring Airport Terminal. The conference was part of a week-long tour of cities throughout the state. Richards is looking to unseat Democratic incumbent Bob Bullock from office in November.

salaries of elected public officials who ignore a court order be withheld until the matter is resolved.

The 44-year-old Richards, who just finished his first Senate term, promised to run the comptroller's office with "a lean, tight effectiveness." He said if elected he would ask for a financial and management study of the comptroller's office to help streamline the office's operation. "The office should be a model, not an embarrassment," he said.

After his 30-minute press conference at Big Spring Airport, Richards left for an engagement in San Angelo. He said he was feeling confident and qualified in his race against Bullock.

The state comptroller is entrusted with the responsibility of collecting the state sales tax, which is the major source of revenue to the state. The comptroller also is responsible for monitoring and authorizing all categories of state spending.

Mineral lease valuations discussed

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Concern that Howard County property owners might pay an unequal share of taxes next year in relation to mineral leases prompted the Howard County Appraisal Review Board to hold a meeting with the Odessa appraisal firm conducting oil and gas evaluations in the county.

The review board met in called session yesterday with representatives from Pritchard and Abbott, a valuation engineer firm, in an effort to better understand the appraisal process. The review board can equalize property values for the district after hearing protests from property owners. The board also can reduce the value of property which, in turn, would mean lower taxes.

Board member J.M. Sterling asked the mineral appraisers exactly what the fair market value was on oil and gas leases. An oil lease owner himself, Sterling used his property as an example.

"Its production is more than the appraised market value of the property. We (the review board) are supposed to equalize values for all taxpayers. All I ask for is comparable values," Sterling said.

Sterling's and the board's concern was that the method of setting values on oil was not equal to the method of setting property values, thus placing a heavier tax burden on property owners.

Pritchard and Abbott's district engineer, Boyce Bolton, told the review board that oil valuations are based on determinations of the reserve limit of oil, production income and other variables. Bolton noted that the main difference in oil appraisals and property appraisals is the unreliability of oil.

"When the oil's gone, it's gone. At the end of a number of years, there's nothing left with oil. The oil man has no control over oil," Bolton said. Property is more stable, he added.

Also in attendance at the review board meeting were members of the county's tax appraisal district board, which oversees the chief appraiser's office and the countywide re-appraisal. Board members Jack Watkins and Clay Reid expressed concern that oil and gas leases were getting more money than the assessed market value.

"I know houses and homes are paying more than oil," Reid said. "Oil is not on the tax rolls at 100 percent value. I don't think there's any basis to shift tax burden to farmland," he added.

Watkins questioned the definition of fair market value. "Fair market value is what it'll sell for, the income from production," he said.

Bolton said oil could not be based strictly on income but rather on an average. "You can't tax speculation," he said. P & A's district manager, James Rapier, told the board the firm took only known facts and applied them to property.

Review board President Jimmy Ray Smith thanked the evaluation firm's representatives for explaining the oil valuation process, noting that the board was interested ensuring equal taxation for everybody.

Howard County Fair gets a new emblem

The Howard County Fair has a new design logo, and Doris Vieregge of 1400 Runnels is $75 richer.

Ms. Vieregge designed the new logo and won first place in a contest held by the Howard County Fair Association.

Ms. Vieregge, who said she was "surprised" to learn she had won, is a commercial art student at Howard College.

"I just took the elements they asked for and incorporated them," she explained. The elements in her design show the farming, ranching, and oil interests of Howard County.

Second place winner is Sherree Moates of Gail Route, who won $50 for her design. That design will be used on t-shirts.

Third place winner is Tye Renfro, of Coahoma, who won $25.

There were 75 entries in the contest, according to contest sponsors.

The fair takes place Sept. 20 through 26. If you'd like information about setting up a booth, call Mrs. Janie Blizzard at 263-1263.

Phone rates go up in Forsan, Lamesa

Telephone customers in Forsan, Lamesa and other Texas cities experienced a rate change last Friday from Genreal Telephone Company of the Southwest, according to a news release from GTE.

The rates are being studied by the Texas Public Utilities Commission. Under rules set up by the state legislature, a utility such as GTE can place the rates in effect 125 days after filing a request for new rates with the PUC. The procedure is allowed if the commission hasn't acted on the request within 125 days.

Rates placed in effect are subject to refund if there is a difference between the interim rates and the rates ultimately approved by the PUC.

Should the commission approve higher rates than requested, the utility could not collect the difference in what was charged and what could have been charged during the interim period.

GTE President E.L. Langley said he expects a final order from the PUC in August concerning the rate request.

Pereira hits county for hiring maneuver

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District Board yesterday approved an immediate pay raise for an appraisal office employee to avoid losing her to another county office.

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira told the board the county had attempted to hire Mary Jara without notifying him in what he called a "highly unethical" practice.

The board unanimously approved an annual salary increase of $525 for Ms. Jara.

Board members were unable to take any action on the district's 1983 budget since three members had not received budget copies until the day before the meeting. The budget discussion was moved to the July meeting.

Atlantic Richfield tax representative Dennis Barry appeared before the board to ask how the county property valuation was going. Pereira informed Barry and the board that the re-appraisal was complete and all that remains is to place the field information into a computer for usage.

Pereira said the material would be available for public hearings Aug. 16.

In other action, the board discussed a possible incentive program in order to keep employees.

TEAR GAS RELEASED AT SCHOOL — Salem, Ore. high school teacher Darci Pickens pours distilled water into the eye of student Kiki Hammond after CS gas (a tear gas substance) was released in the school. Twenty students

Hays says a 4-year UTPB would hurt Howard College

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Another mile was paved Monday on the road to the University of Texas of the Permian Basin becoming a full-fledged four-year institution. A report from a two-man consulting team was turned over to the "Friends of UTPB," a group of citizens working toward UTPB's four-year status, that recommends the school convert to a four-year university as soon as possible.

The response to UTPB becoming a four-year school by one local education official was that the change would not be good for Howard County.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, said, "there's no question" that UTPB changing to four-year status would hurt Howard College.

Hays said if UTPB receives four-year approval it will have to venture out of the Odessa area to recruit students previously drawn to the area junior colleges. And Hays said this will ultimately hurt the enrollment of the community colleges.

"When you have an enrollment like ours at 1,300 to 1,400 and we lose 25 students, we feel it," Hays said.

Although the study is not an official act okaying UTPB to start conversion to four-year status — that will have to come from the University of Texas Board of Regents, the Texas Coordinating Board of Higher Education and the Texas Legislature — the feeling is that the study will influence the future decisions of these key governmental bodies.

"I feel the report will be very useful, not only to 'Friends of UTPB,' but to all advisory committees and governing groups who will be making important decisions about UTPB," said A.K. Barlow, president of "Friends of UTPB."

Barlow said his citizens group funded the study by Dr. Harold Enarson, president emeritus of Ohio State University, and Dr. Paul Sharp, president emeritus of Oklahoma University.

Barlow said the report points out that while UTPB currently is making substantial contributions to the educational needs of the people in this area, it will continue to suffer from the handicaps of low enrollment as long as it remains an upper-level school.

He added that if UTPB is to cater to the total education needs of the expanding Permian Basin, it must be converted to a four-year university.

Enrollment was the subject of main consideration in the report by Enarson and Sharp as they believe UTPB cannot sustain its upper-level status with junior college transfer students.

As an upper-division university... UTPB labors under great handicaps. Heavily dependent on transfer students from the Midland, Odessa and Big Spring community colleges, the university is destined to continue to suffer from very small enrollments," the report states.

Enarson and Sharp say UTPB requires more than double its present enrollment of 1,640 to provide the services that students and the public expect of a state university.

The study says if UTPB's role is unchanged, it cannot meet the expanding needs for advanced education in the fields of electrical, chemical and petroleum engineering in the Permian Basin.

Enarson and Sharp also say a survey conducted among community and business leaders in this area revealed a need for a strong regional university focusing its energies on the needs of the Permian Basin.

There has been some fear among the area junior colleges that UTPB turning into a four-year school would drain students from the two-year schools; however, Enarson and Sharp do not see this as a factor.

"We see little or no evidence for the concerns that the three community colleges (Midland, Odessa and Howard colleges) would somehow be damaged if UTPB enrolls freshman and sophomore students," the report said.

"In Midland and Odessa, where growth in total enrollments is expected, the growth in enrollment may be somewhat less than it would have been. Whether this ought to be the controlling factor in deciding the future of UTPB is a matter of judgment."

"In our judgment, the education opportunities for incoming generations of students... must not be held hostage to fears about enrollments or to community and institutional rivalries," Enarson and Sharp say.

Barlow said the study done by Enarson and Sharp has been sent to the UT Board of Regents and he feels the study will be useful for the regents' decision.

"We're expecting them to act on UTPB's status in their next meeting scheduled for August in San Antonio," Barlow said.

Hospital to hold alcoholism seminar

Big Spring State Hospital will conduct an alcoholism seminar Friday in the auditorium of the hospital, located on north Lamesa Highway.

The seminar is made possible through Big Spring State Hospital and is being held in conjunction with Howard College.

Wayne Kraitsberg, a clinical training specialist with the Texas Commission on Alcoholism in Austin, will be the consultant for the day-long seminar.

The seminar should be of interest to persons working in the field of chemical abuse and to anyone interested in learning more about this problem.

The seminar will be directed toward understanding the myths and realities of counselor "burnout." The goal is to discuss the topic of counselor burnout and how to prevent it, and to share practical skills and experiences with people who work in this field.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. The general session will begin at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged, with an additional charge of $1 for persons wishing to receive continuing education units from Howard College. (Persons wishing to receive full credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

Additional information may be obtained from Clyde J. Alsop, training officer in the Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program at Big Spring State Hospital.

Argentina claims British frontal attack repelled

By The Associated Press

Argentine planes inflicted heavy casualties on British forces southwest of Stanley, raising speculation that the assault on the Falklands capital might be delayed further, and Argentina claimed its troops also repelled a frontal attack on their main defense line.

"This is obviously some setback. But until we have assessed the situation, we do not know how much this will change our plans," the commander of the 5th Infantry Brigade, Brig. Tony Wilson, told a reporter after Argentine air strikes set two big landing ships crowded with troops afire and damaged the frigate Plymouth and a small landing craft.

The Times of London said some British sources believed the final assault on Stanley, anticipated since last weekend, might have to be delayed "such is the extent of the disaster."

The Argentine planes set the 412-foot landing ship Sir Galahad and Sir Tristram afire with bombs, rockets and cannon fire as they were putting 5th Brigade troops ashore Tuesday in a narrow estuary at Fitzroy Sound, 15 miles southwest of Stanley.

Shortly after the Beirut bombardment began, Israeli and Syrian jets clashed again in the city. The fierce bombardment shattered years of Arab-Israeli truce. The PLO said it was necessary to liquidate the PLO leadership.

The PLO said Arafat was directing resistance to the Israeli invasion from his secret command bunker, sending frequent morale-boosting messages to his troops over the Voice of Palestine radio, interspersed with appeals for collective Arab intervention to "stop Israel's anti-Palestinian genocide."

The Arab League was to meet today or Friday in Kuwait to discuss his appeal. The 10-nation European Common Market denounced the Israeli invasion.

Man wanted in Alabama arrested

Police said they arrested Ricky Joe Henderson, 26, of New Jersey, yesterday on a warrant from Alabama for escape and flight to avoid prosecution.

Police also arrested Michael Lee Horsley, 23, of 806 Johnson and Violet Lucinda Bass, 20, of Sterling City Route, Box 83 on charges of hindering apprehension in connection with Henderson's arrest.

The three were arrested at 6:27 p.m. yesterday at Horsley's residence after police received information on Henderson's whereabouts from Coahoma Chief of Police O.D. Majors and Deputy Sheriff Bill Shankles, police Lt. John Wolf said.

Horsley and Bass denied any knowledge of Henderson's location when questioned by police on Sunday and again yesterday, Wolf said.

Horsley and Bass were being held in city jail this morning pending arraignment and Henderson also was in city jail pending waiver of extradition, Wolf said.

Police said they arrested four men and a male juvenile at 9:34 a.m. yesterday in the 2300 block of Gregg after the five allegedly made obscene gestures and shouted profanity to an off-duty policeman.

Donald Wilcher, 23, of the Sands Motel, 2900 W. Highway 87, was arrested and charged with making alcohol available to a minor, police said. He was released on bond, police said.

Four minors were arrested on charges of being a minor in possession of an alcoholic beverage. Police identified them as Tommy Williams, 18, of 1005 N. Gregg; Robert Little, 17, of 3304 Auburn; James Sexton, 18, of 3310 Cornell; and a 16-year-old juvenile.

Police arrested Teodor G. Moya, 55, of 1201 Mesquite, on a charge of indecent exposure at 4:49 p.m. yesterday after officers allegedly found him nude in front of the Airport School on Airbase Road, according to Lt. John Wolf.

3 from county sent to prison

Three prisoners in Howard County jail were transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections in Huntsville this morning.

Tommy Gene Jones, 19, and Travis Eugene Jones, 17, both of 1506 Chickasaw, will each begin serving seven-year sentences after pleading guilty last week in 118th District court to aggravated robbery. Andres Pereira, 30, of 1315 Kindle, will begin a three-year term after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana over four ounces.

Ray Galaviz, 18, is being held in county jail without bond on a charge of revocation of probation. Galaviz, of 1903 Runnels, pleaded guilty April 2 to unlawfully carrying a weapon on licensed premises and received a three-year probated sentence in 118th District Court. Bond on the revocation charge was denied by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Sheriff's deputies arrested three persons on separate charges of issuance of bad checks. Darrell M. White, 18, of 1610 Nolan, was released on $500 bond, as was Richard Ray Chambers, 30, of 408 Douglas. Yolanda Sanchez Starr, 27, of P.O. Box 783, was released on $1,000 bond. Bonds were set by West.

Gary Lynn Cross, 22, of Comanche, posted $1,000 bond on a charge of driving while intoxicated and was released from custody.

Denny Mitchell Craddock, 27, of 608 E. 11th, was released on $1,000 bond on a charge of driving while license suspended.

Pope to visit Argentina

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II leaves tonight on a 15-hour flight to Buenos Aires to appease the Argentines for his visit to their British foes and to pray for peace between the two countries at war in the South Atlantic.

The 62-year-old pontiff has urged "an honorable solution" through negotiations, but neither he nor the Vatican has indicated what the church thinks such a solution might be.

The 30-hour visit to Argentina, 90 percent of whose population is Roman Catholic, was hurriedly arranged last month to answer the clamor there for cancellation of the pope's six-day visit to predominantly Protestant Britain.

"Mending fences with the Anglicans was far too important historically to throw out the window," said one Vatican prelate who asked not to be identified. "The pope had to make concessions to Argentina even if it meant he had to invite himself for the first time to a country."

On his past 12 foreign trips, John Paul has either been invited by the local Catholic bishops or by the governments of the countries. He had been planning a trip to Argentina next year, and this remains on the Vatican drawing boards.

Terming John Paul "a Kissinger dressed in white," Italian historian Ferdinando Viegas compared his trips to Britain and Argentina to the Middle East shuttles by the former U.S. secretary of state.

"Like the great popes of the Middle Ages, John Paul seeks to restore the church's primacy in temporal affairs," said Viegas. "Not through strength, or even spiritual means, but by taking his appeals directly to the people."

Iran rejects peace offer

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's official news agency today rejected an Iraqi peace offer that did not include the Iranians' key political condition, the ouster of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

"If the Baathist-Zionist Iraqi rulers were seeking peace they could have achieved it before the outbreak of the new war in southern Lebanon by giving a positive response to provisions set by Iran," the new agency IRNA said in a commentary.

It charged that the Israeli invasion of Lebanon was "a vicious plot of the reactionaries in the region to rescue Saddam and the Baathist government in Iraq."

Iraq's government television service announced Wednesday night that political and military leaders of the ruling regime offered to withdraw all Iraqi forces from Iranian territory within two weeks and "redirect its potentials to the war against Israel."

The Baghdad announcement said in response to an appeal by the Islamic Conference Organization, Iraq was "ready to end all forms of military action as soon as Iran agrees to a cease-fire."

Police poised for weekend DWI crackdown

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston driver coming into or leaving Harris County's jurisdiction this weekend will face a formidable law enforcement task force lined up with citation pads in hand and a ready wagon ready to cart violators to jail.

The traffic safety blitz is the combined work of the Texas Department of Public Safety, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Harris County Sheriff's Department and the Houston and Pasadena police departments.

If the jail gets too crowded, Rust said, a paddy wagon would be available to take traffic offenders directly to the Harris County jail.

Weather

Temperatures cool in western Texas

By The Associated Press
A weak front brought slightly cooler readings early today to western portions of the state, but no significant rainfall was reported during the pre-dawn hours.

Early morning temperatures dropped into the 50s and 60s in Northwestern West Texas, while readings hovered in the 70s over the rest of the state. Skies were clear to partly cloudy statewide.

In Rossville, East, rain-swollen Cross Creek forced evacuation of about 100 homes and a nursing home containing 60 residents. A dozen members of the Kansas National Guard were called out to guard against looters.

WEST TEXAS — Cloudy with scattered thunderstorms tonight and Friday. Highs upper 70s north to upper 80s south and middle 70s in far southwest. Lows upper 50s to 60s.

Israeli invasion on leaders' agenda

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP) — As tens of thousands of protesters took to the streets, President Reagan and NATO leaders mixed alliance summitry with Middle East peacemaking efforts today in an attempt to halt Israel's drive into Lebanon and prevent a widening war in the Middle East.

In an unexpected development, Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, Prince Saud al-Faisal, flew here for hastily arranged talks with Reagan, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and officials of France and West Germany who met with other leaders for the one-day meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

Reagan sent a message to Israel Prime Minister Menachem Begin demanding an immediate cease-fire in Lebanon, according to State Department spokesman Christopher Ross in Washington. He also said Reagan had been in touch with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev before sending the message.

The summit was expected to produce a statement on Lebanon, according to a member of the U.S. delegation, Richard Burt, assistant secretary of state-designate for European affairs. "It's a logical suggestion" that was made by Mrs. Thatcher, Burt said.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, accompanying Reagan, refused to reveal details of the message. "I won't go into the content, except that it is consistent with our previous position. We want a cease-fire. We want an Israeli withdrawal," said Speakes.

Administration sources in Washington said there was a possibility that Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. might fly to the Middle East following the summit. David R. Gergen, another White House spokesman in Bonn, said there were "no firm plans" for such a trip.

Thousands protest NATO meeting

PEACE DEMONSTRATION — A caricature of U.S. President Ronald Reagan in a cowboy outfit riding a horse was paraded through the streets of Bonn, West Germany, this morning as tens of thousands marched for peace at the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The sign calls for the United States to get out of El Salvador and the Soviet Union to get out of Afghanistan.

Wound self-inflicted, authorities say

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled today for the 37-year-old son of evangelist Oral Roberts who was found shot to death in his car, an apparent suicide, authorities said.

The body of Ronald D. Roberts was found early Wednesday in the front seat of his car in a rural area northwest of Tulsa, said Osage County Sheriff George Wyman.

confirmed through fingerprints, but was withheld for several hours while officers sought to notify the victim's parents.

George Stovall, a vice president at Oral Roberts University, said Oral Roberts and his wife, Evelyn, were in the vicinity of Tulsa but were out of telephone contact when officials began trying to notify them.

County gives state bill for housing prisoners

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County is sending a $48,000 bill to the state of Texas for housing prisoners waiting to be transferred to the Texas Department of Corrections.

County officials decided to send the bill after the TDC imposed restrictions in an effort to comply with a federal judge's order to reduce overcrowding in the prison.

Bury the waste, not the problem

Although by law the federal government is responsible for safely disposing of the radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants, three successive administrations have failed to create any waste disposal facilities. Worse yet, the goals of the federal research and development effort have shifted with each change in administration — leaving the nuclear industry uncertain about the future it must plan for, and alienating the states and local governments with a string of broken promises about the protections that will be provided at waste disposal sites.

It's been obvious for some time that Congress would have to step into the fray, but until now Congress itself was divided on the subject. And while Congress stalled, the nuclear utilities were running out of temporary on-site waste storage space, and the current administration was trying to hold up development of permanent disposal sites for budgetary and other reasons. The states, meanwhile, were refusing to cooperate in federal site-selection studies for either permanent or temporary disposal facilities, because they feared the administration would shortchange the program — that once any permanent or temporary facility was built, further funding for the full program would disappear.

As the Congressional Office of Technology Assessment (OTA) reported, the remaining technological problems with nuclear waste disposal paled before the mistrust and inconsistency that the politicians had created.

IN ITS RESEARCH, however, the OTA discovered that there were measures that would satisfy all sides in the nuclear waste debate and get the program moving again. These have now been incorporated in two bills — one that just passed the Senate and another that is now being studied in the House.

The key to breaking the logjam was not technical. The technical community, the OTA found, has been in nearly unanimous agreement for some time about what must be done: The radioactive wastes must be permanently buried thousands of feet below ground in stable geologic formations protected by redundant natural and manmade barriers. What Congress had to do, the OTA concluded, was create an agency with an independent source of funding and a plan of action written into law so that all participants would be assured that these facilities would actually be built.

Around the Rim

Blood and guts

Planning a summer vacation to the coast? Depending on whether you want to return to West Texas alive or keep your name in good standing, visit the Aransas County area. You're sure to find more things jumping than the fish off the sandy beaches.

Local auto dealer Jack Lewis slipped me a copy of The Toast of the Coast Herald Wednesday morning. You've heard of the National Enquirer and The Star? Well, the two giants of sensational news better subscribe to Pat and Erma Mullins' publication. This newspaper tells it all and in no uncertain words.

Having previously worked for a newspaper in which the weekend visitors of Bertha Blabbermouth could be the hot news item of the week, I know things can get rather boring in a small community. Not in Aransas County. Per capita, the police in this coastal area are busier than the man in blue in New York City.

The most "appealing" thing about the paper is its pictures. These folks must sit 24 hours a day around the police scanner waiting for something to happen. It could be a major auto wreck or an individual being cited for driving without a license — their pictures will likely end up in the next edition of the Coast Herald.

Speaking of accidents, this is a no-holds-barred newspaper. Most publishers outlaw blood and gore. Not here. Lewis reported that in one edition, a man publicly "relieving" himself showed up in the paper. That's what I call getting caught with your pants down.

There is hardly an item in the 36-page tabloid that doesn't deal with crime. In the May 26 edition, the pictures taken included: an accident that killed three youths; a self-inflicted shooting; a man caught at a driver's license check; an auto rollover; a drug overdose; an accidental drowning; a public intoxication; a sunken boat; and a man asleep on the floor of the local police station.

The pictures of the grisly auto wreck were accompanied by another picture. This one was of citizen Dale Lewin who fired a hot complaint at the paper for its crimson coverage. The outline included two obscene references that we can't reprint here.

Michael Boyd was shown in never-neverland after getting high on glue. "Boyd, smelled so strongly of glue that his presence was repulsive" the paper reported.

Adjacent to that picture was one of Charles Hensley who's eyes gave away the fact he was quite drunk. Holding him upright was DPS trooper Steve Davis, proudly showing off his catch with a wide grin on his face.

THE BEST READING came from "The Overview" by editor Pat Mullins. In his writing, he reprinted an ultimatum given local hoodlums in Bald Knob, Ark., by police chief Ralph Jordan. Not only was Jordan's writing humorous but so were the words following by Mullins.

"I'm tired of dopers. I'm tired of thieves. I'm tired of getting ripped off. I'm tired of the scum getting the breaks."

Later on he says, "I often drive by my office in the wee hours of the morning hoping to catch someone on my property. I'm getting rusty. It's been nearly twelve years since I shot somebody. Fellow doesn't want to get too much out of practice."

Well, you thought the Wild, Wild West had dried up in some canyon in Arizona. Wrong. It just moved down to the Texas coast where it's thriving right along side the baracudas and marlin in the ocean.

In a time and day when people again are cheered for standing up and speaking their minds, this newspaper has gone too far. Sure it brings grins from the newspeople who thumb through its pages. It's not for a job well-done. It's how they get away with abuse of the codes journalists are supposed to follow.

The news story on the big accident included several paragraphs on the newspaper's involvement at the scene. "The scene of the accident was packed with blood-thirsty gawkers who jeered and booed the Herald photographer who was there at the request of the Ingleside Police Department and Department of Public Safety to take photos."

Accidents are certainly newsworthy events, though we would like for them not to happen. The accident photos should tell the story but somehow shots of blanket-covered corpses strewn around the wreck goes a bit too far.

It's embarrassing enough to get caught drunk in public but to have the incident captured for life in print goes too far. Just leaving through the paper, a reader finds name after name of intoxicated individuals. Why single out one poor soul for a feature photo?

Another picture had the back of a boy in it. The outline said, "The boy in the foreground made a pest of himself by asking questions and getting in the way of everyone, including medical personnel." That's a pretty low blow. The paper has apparently lost its purpose in reporting the news.

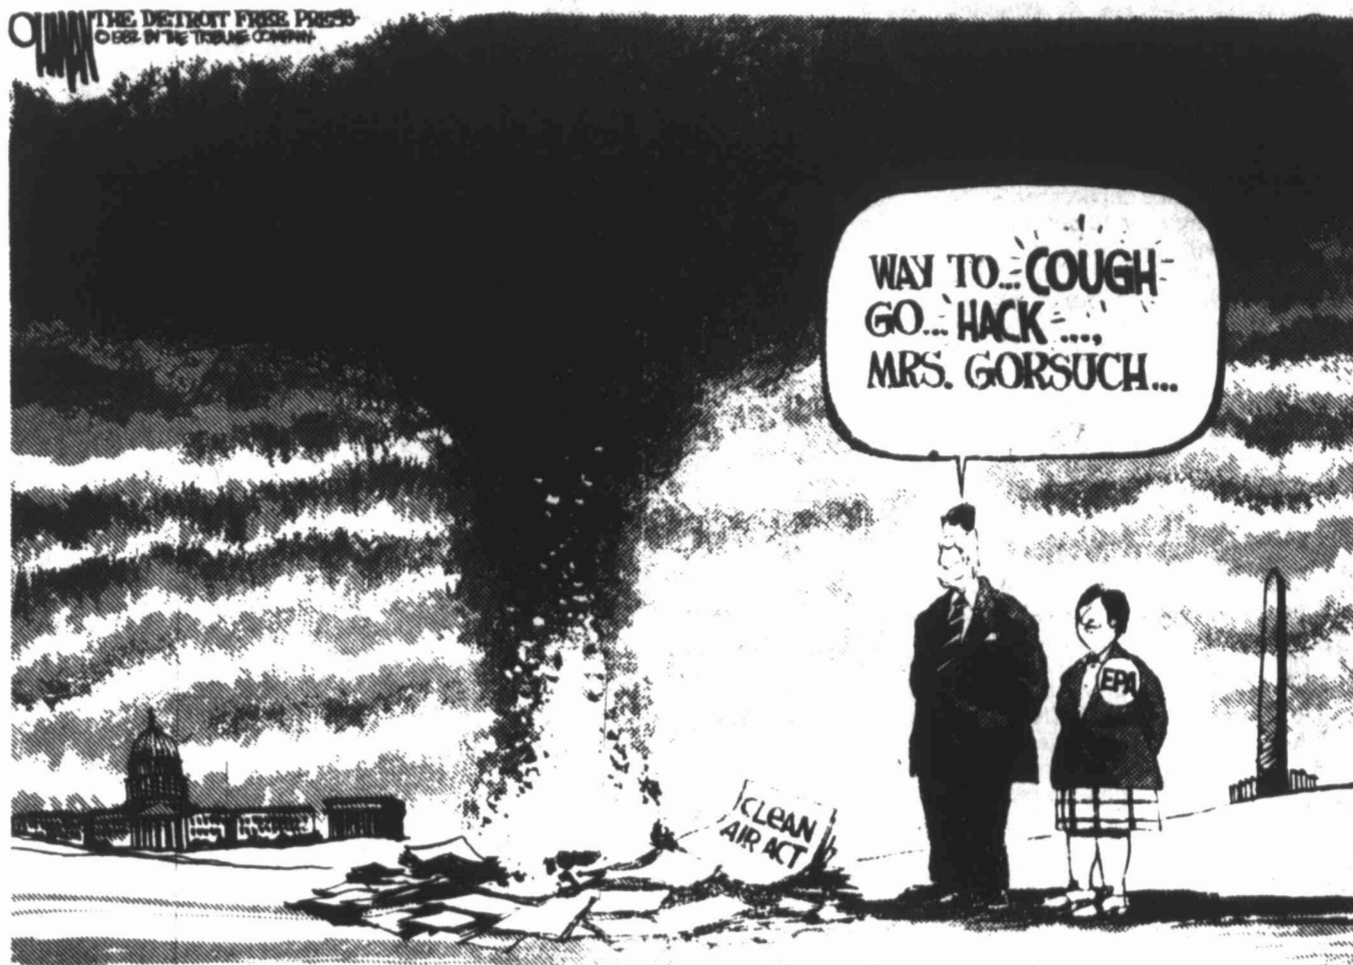

NO WONDER people are getting a poor image of newspapers. Some seem to concentrate only on ads (that make all the money) and fill up the empty spaces with news. Now here's a paper that sells itself because it is almost brazen beyond belief. Sure these guys are making big bucks with the Toast of the Coast because people like to read about the misfortunes of others. But is it ethical?

C.L. Jones of Killeen wrote in to the paper to say, "First, congratulations on your fine 'Tell it Like it is' paper. Never before have I read a newspaper like the Toast of the Coast. Keep it going."

Hopefully Jones will never be seen around the streets of Rockport intoxicated or be involved in an auto accident. Then his problems will be turned into the chuckles of the curious public.

Frankly, I'm surprised The Toast is a recognized member of the Texas Press Association. This "Cure For the Common Newspaper" seems only to bring more ill than remedies for the public it is serving.

Besides, what kind of promotional service is it doing for Aransas County? No way are you going to catch me down on that part of the coast. My idea of a vacation is not spending a night in the Rockport jail or in the county morgue.

Reagan rips Tip

WASHINGTON — In a meeting with House Republican leaders that lasted over one hour, President Reagan dropped his good-guy posture and vented his intense personal dissatisfaction with Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill.

The congressmen were surprised to hear Reagan personally blame O'Neill for the embarrassment he faced on the eve of his European grand tour. The president attacked the speaker as responsible for no budget resolution passing. Reagan took that failure personally because of its coincidence with his departure for Europe.

A footnote: Supply-siders at the meeting — led by Reps. Ed Bethune of Arkansas and Jack Kemp of New York — came away with mixed results. They got Reagan to declare he was committed only to one year of deficit-reducing "tax" increases. But they could not convince the president to junk the deficit-expanding economic assumptions of David Stockman's Office of Management and Budget.

NO MIDEAST SUMMIT
Despite Reagan administration efforts, a proposed Mideast summit conference in Washington between President Reagan, Egyptian president Hosni Mubarak and Israeli prime minister Menachem Begin never got out of the planning stage.

High administration officials, including Secretary of State Alexander Haig, were looking for some way to break the Egyptian-Israeli deadlock on West Bank autonomy talks. Bringing Mubarak here to join a previously-planned meeting between Reagan and Begin looked promising.

VA boss won't cut own fat

WASHINGTON — The man who is tightening the screws on the nation's veterans evidently feels that budgets cuts don't apply to him. Veterans Administration boss Robert Nimmo has been squandering the taxpayers' money on personal perquisites and creature comforts.

"We have to cut the fat where the fat is," Nimmo has told reporters. But evidence gathered by my associate Jack Mitchell suggests that a lot of the VA fat is located in the administrator's own office.

The word has already leaked out that Nimmo is tight with veterans but generous to himself. In fact, both the General Accounting Office and the VA's own inspector general are looking into allegations of impropriety — and possible illegality — in Nimmo's operation.

The investigators are checking, for example, on broadcast reports that Nimmo spent $46,000 to redecorate his private office suite, apparently in defiance of President Reagan's direct order to all federal agencies against such refurbishing.

The economy-preaching Nimmo allegedly has spent official funds remodeling an elevator for the exclusive use of himself and his top aides. And GAO sleuths are looking into reports that Nimmo used a government car and chauffeur to travel to and from his suburban home — which not only flouted regulations but cost the taxpayers an estimated $8,000 in overtime for the chauffeur.

Nimmo's luxurious tastes reportedly troubled his legal adviser, who warned Nimmo in a written directive that the perks he has arrogated to himself violate federal statutes.

NIMMO'S TRAVEL habits should also be scrutinized. He has made frequent trips to his home state of California — often flying first-class. On one occasion, he allegedly commandeered a military plane for his return trip to Washington.

His congressional liaison chief, Fielding Cochran, flew off with other Reagan officials to Rome in the middle of a bitter battle on Capitol Hill over the VA's $24 billion budget request.

Nimmo might be forgiven some of his lordly ways if he were in fact bringing tight, no-nonsense management to the agency he heads. Unfortunately, this doesn't seem to be the case.

Of five top officials named to key administrative posts just months ago, two have quit and a third has been relieved of his original duties. Nimmo's first No. 2 man, Alan Clark, quickly departed because of friction with the boss, and White House sources have confided that the current deputy, Chuck Hagel, has submitted a tentative resignation and wants to leave within 60 days.

A big part of the problem, according to insiders, is that Nimmo stubbornly refuses to let decisions be made at the staff level. Yet the VA boss, a wealthy former California legislator, seems more enthusiastic about his sultan and his golf game than about his official duties. He reportedly was playing golf on the afternoon in March when the Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated a few blocks from his Washington office. Meanwhile, he rejected suggestions that VA employees be allowed to attend the ceremony on the grounds that it was conducted during business hours.

The resulting administrative chaos at the VA has caused Nimmo, a World War II veteran, to be roundly denounced by virtually every veterans group, whose Washington representatives usually try to play down their differences with a VA chief.

Footnote: Nimmo declined to be interviewed. In fairness, it should be noted that the administration's cost-cutting efforts would inevitably generate hostility toward the agency head who must enforce them. But Nimmo's lackadaisical attitude toward his job was illustrated by his admission to Congress that he has never had a conversation with the president devoted exclusively to veterans' affairs.

BONUS BABIES: Since the late 1970s, businessmen charged with employment discrimination were themselves victims of subtle bureaucratic discrimination when dealing with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission: The agency's 1,400 "specialists" earned merit pay bonuses based on the number of cases they settled and the size of the penalty levied against the employer.

AFTER STANLEY'S FALL
Behind the scenes at the Paris and Bonn summit conferences, President Reagan is trying delicately and diplomatically to sell British prime minister Margaret Thatcher on giving up the idea of self-determination as the final solution of the Falkland Islands war.

What Reagan wants is a display of great magnanimity by Thatcher. She wants Reagan to agree on a contingent of American troops — perhaps a couple of hundred or less — as part of the post-war peacekeeping force on the islands.

Some advisers are urging Reagan to agree on grounds it might strengthen his hand against self-determination. Falkland Islanders would opt for permanent British sovereignty, and that makes self-determination unacceptable for Argentina.

Billy Graham

Don't use drugs as a substitute

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think getting involved with drugs may make a person more susceptible to the devil? — C.R.

DEAR C.R.: Yes, it may very well be true. The reason is that drugs may make a person less alert, and cause him to lower his guard. It is interesting that the word which is usually translated "sorcery" in the Bible is the same word from which we get the words "pharmacy" and "pharmaceutical." The reason is because sorcery was believed to be closely related to the use of drugs in some instances, and it was also seen as closely related to the worship and service of Satan.

It is also interesting that in our own time the use of heavy drugs and the worship of the occult have often gone hand in hand. That is not by accident — refusing God's way of life automatically exposes us to the temptations of Satan and his influence.

But there is something else to be said. When a person becomes involved in drugs, it often is because down inside there is a hunger for something greater than they have experienced before. A person may not realize it, but this is actually a hunger for God — a vacuum in the human heart which only God can fill. But whenever we substitute anything for God — whenever we try to fill that spiritual hunger with anything (or anyone) other than God — we have been deceived by Satan. Satan's whole efforts are directed at keeping people from God, and he will use any means at his disposal to accomplish this. This can include drugs, or any number of other devices Satan will try to use.

Satan is a liar. He promises happiness and peace of mind, but in the end all he gives is misery and slavery. The Bible says, "Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (James 4:7). Satan is strong, but Jesus Christ is stronger. He alone can give real meaning and joy to life. Don't accept a substitute — let Christ take control of your life and let him give you true joy and peace.

Reader wonders about Judge Heflin

Dear Editor,
As an out-of-state subscriber to your newspaper, and former resident of your city, I was very upset over Mr. Heflin's objections over Mrs. Linda Arsiaga attending a three-day seminar in Odessa.

Does Mr. Heflin feel threatened by this? He has won the election. Or does he feel come next election, Mrs. Arsiaga will defeat?

I hope Mrs. Arsiaga will decide to run next election. And also I would like to encourage all the Hispanics to support Mrs. Arsiaga in this matter.

After all this has been done in the past, with no objections. What is Mr. Heflin afraid of?

Respectfully yours,

Bridging gap between college, job

Program gives students a look at future careers

FOREST GROVE, Ore. (AP) — Business and professional people who remember what it was like being in college, not knowing for sure what career they wanted to follow and having little information about some of the potential careers, are helping current students bridge that gap.

They are working with Pacific University students in an unusual "extern" program started this year by Peter DePaoli, director of the campus Career Development Office, and his assistant, Sarah Lohaus.

During the spring students applied to spend a week of vacation time experiencing a daily work week in the field of their choice to learn what that career is like. The Career Development Office then sought sponsors for the students among alumni and others in the business and professional world.

The 20 students in the program worked with: a veterinarian, an optometrist, a dentist, a technical writer, in the offices of a county juvenile department, a marketing firm, a public relations company, a chemistry laboratory, a clothing manufacturer, a hearing and speech center, a physical-therapy clinic, hospitals, a printing firm, and savings and loan institutions.

In an after-the-fact evaluation students said that they had benefited from the week. Most had their interests in particular fields reaffirmed. All said that they had gained more information about careers.

"It tested my patience," says Ken Crutch of Tacoma, Wash., who spent a week with an attorney. He learned more of what he has to do "to prepare for law school and the legal profession after school."

Most of the students said "it was too short" or "that's a bigger field than I realized." But Glen Uekewa of Hilo, Hawaii, said with a laugh, "I had pictures made to send home of me in my suit and tie; that doesn't happen too often."

The business and professional sponsors also evaluated the program. John Jordan of Washington Federal Savings and Loan in Hillsboro, Ore., said that the extern program gave students a realistic idea of what to expect and offerred the participating institution an opportunity to examine itself and see how others perceive it.

"The process of explaining and answering questions can reveal factors about itself to the business institution," he noted.

Attorney John Rodgers of Forest Grove agreed. "It gave me a chance to explain what I had never explained before." He added that when he was a student he "would have jumped at the chance" to be an extern.

After the extern matches were made between students and off-campus sponsors, the individual student and his sponsor made the final, specific arrangements for the "externship."

DePaoli likes to use the word "hook up" in speaking of the matches. "Hooking a freshman with an alumnus can be good for all," he explained. The student gains knowledge and background he needs, and the alumnus learns more about current students and draws closer to his alma mater while performing a service, DePaoli pointed out.

If a student enters the program as a freshman, he could have a four-year relationship with his sponsor, said DePaoli, who this year had students from all four classes.

Doctor surplus seen in Texas in eight years

DALLAS (AP) — A special task force predicts Texas, plagued for years by a shortage of doctors in rural areas, will have a surplus of physicians by 1990 and suggests a possible freeze on new medical school admissions — or an outright closure of some schools.

The prediction of a national glut of physicians is new to Texas, where a shortage of doctors has been a reality for years for rural residents.

Authorities say 12 Texas counties have no doctors and 73 counties have more than 3,000 residents for each physician.

But the Governor's Task Force on Higher Education said the ratio of doctors to residents in Texas has improved to one doctor for every 590 people.

Dallas County has one doctor for every 434 residents and Harris County has one doctor for every 496 people; the committee said.

The ideal ratio established by the Graduate Medical Education National Advisory Commission is 1-520.

"There is no question that we are getting saturated in Dallas," said Dr. Charles Sprague, president of the University of Texas Health Science Center.

The number of doctors practicing in Texas has jumped from 13,855 in 1970 to 22,900 in 1980, according to the committee.

The panel also concluded that Texas does not provide enough post-graduate training for its medical students. Figures released recently show 57 Texas medical school graduates, whose education cost taxpayers $8.4 million, were forced to go out of state for training.

The task force also reported a surplus of dentists in Texas, but noted there are vacancies for 10,000 nurses at hospitals throughout the state.

Authorities said a surplus of doctors could result in across-the-board enrollment cuts at state medical schools — or closures of some facilities.

Data presented to the committee indicated that a 20 percent cut in enrollments only would increase the Texas ratio to one doctor for every 541 people.

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Bell Helicopter Textron, blaming slow sales this year, has laid off 160 union workers and some non-union management personnel in the first stage of a round of cutbacks.

The move "comes down to how many helicopters we're manufacturing," said Raisch.

Top state officials generally opposed additional domestic taxes on energy but agreed an oil import tax would be the "lesser of evils."

Production could increase

Energy adviser foresees no summer gas shortages

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' energy adviser says despite what Americans may hear from the press, there should be plenty of gasoline to go around for summer vacation travel.
"It would not surprise me to see the Texas press and the national press start talking about gasoline shortages this summer," Ed Vetter told the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council Wednesday.
Vetter said he had asked the council's staff to put together a report on motor fuel supplies.
"Interestingly enough," he said, "Exxon, Gulf, Mobil, Phillips, Shell, Texaco, Conoco and Chevron, which are the major suppliers of gasoline in the state, are putting their dealers on some kind of allocation."
"The allocation tends to be 100 percent of the contract requirements, and there's no reason to believe that there's going to be any fuel shortage, if everybody does not panic."

Vetter said there is a 30-day supply of gasoline on hand, on a national average. This is relatively low, he said, because the supply in May 1979 — "before trouble arose" — was 32 days.
"However," he said, "there is an enormous amount of crude oil."
He said refineries are running below capacity and could increase production to match a rising demand.
Council members voted Wednesday to oppose any additional domestic energy taxes, saying if an energy tax is absolutely necessary it should be placed on imported oil.
Texas' top statewide elected officials on the council — Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton and Attorney General Mark White — all supported the resolution.
Since the resolution deals with domestic taxes, it would not cover a tax on oil imports, which has been proposed in Congress to reduce the federal budget deficit projected for next year.

Hobby said more energy taxes would increase the disparity between the money Texas sends to Washington and the amount it gets back.
The council was told a $5-per-barrel tax on imported oil would raise $12 billion in 1983.
Although such a tax would increase incentives for domestic oil production and would reduce imports, the council staff said it also would cost consumers up to $30 billion per year and would raise the inflation rate by up to 1 percent and the unemployment rate by as much as 0.3 percent.
Clements said the import tax "is the most likely and the most desirable" of the proposals before Congress.
Those proposals include a barrel tax on imported and domestic oil; an increase in the federal gasoline tax; a tax based on the energy content of fossil fuels and a 30 percent national severance tax on crude oil.

Central Texas city locates its roots in Ireland

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — When this Central Texas city held its centennial celebration recently, it wanted to offer its citizens a little something extra, something to stir their roots.
So city fathers, with the help of a ham operator and history buff Theron Johnson, traced the hometown of the Killen's namesake — Irishman Frank P. Killen.
Killen, they learned, fled the great Potato famine which swept Ireland in the 1840s and came to America. He was assigned general manager of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad as it laid new tracks across Texas toward Santa Fe, N.M.

The first train pulled into what is now known as Killen on May 15, 1882.
Killen came from Claremorris, County Mayo, Ireland, a town of 3,000 which can trace its roots back several hundred years — if not to the Norman conquest.
Killen city and centennial officials contacted Claremorris and the two are now sister cities.

The Texans learned that Killen means "little church" or "little cemetery." They spoke to a Mrs. Betty Killen, whose family runs the oldest public house in Claremorris. The street on which she lives contain so many Killen families at the first part of this century that it was called Killen Street.
Telephoning Claremorris officials was not as simple as it would have seemed, although they eventually got through.
The planned linkup became a media event. All the area radio and television stations stood poised as Centennial Commission Chairman Cecil Johnson dialed the overseas operator.

The line was busy.
Call back in 15 minutes, advised the operator.
Johnson did as ordered. The call went through.
"Hello, is this the Chamber of Commerce of Claremorris, Ireland?" Johnson asked.
"Well, yes it is," came the answer.

Outgoing Baptist president raps 'social gospel'

HOUSTON (AP) — The outgoing president of the Southern Baptist Convention says born-again Christians are the only Christians on earth and cautioned that the "social gospel" of liberal denominations has done little for humanity.
The Rev. Bailey E. Smith, a fundamentalist preacher from Del City, Okla., made the comment in an advance text of his farewell address to the convention.
Copies of the speech Smith is scheduled to give in New Orleans when he steps down June 17 were obtained and distributed by Southern Baptist moderates. Parts of the text were published in Wednesday's Houston Chronicle.
"We will not escape the deadness of the so-called social gospel that has done very little good for society and has no gospel. They speak of race relations, world hunger, temperance and human ethics, but it has always been the evangelistic Bible-honoring church that has opened its doors to all races and put food on the table of the hungry."
"No one in hell is glad that he went to a liberal church," the speech said.
Smith, who once said God does not hear the prayers of a Jew, also insisted there is only one kind of Christian in the world and that it is "inexcusable" for Southern Baptists to be a humanist, teach evolution or say the Book of Genesis is not fact.
"There is only one kind of Christian on Earth and that is born-again Christian. If you have not been born again, you are not a Christian...." the speech said. "A person without Jesus Christ is one heartbeat from eternal hell."
He also chastised Southern Baptists who have strayed from the conservative line.
"It is inexcusable for a Southern Baptist to say he is a humanist and proud of it. It is inexcusable for Southern Baptists to pray for the opening of a brewery," the speech said.
"It is inexcusable for a Southern Baptist to say Genesis is political rhetoric and not historical fact. It is inexcusable for a Southern Baptist to teach evolution in our schools. It is inexcusable that any Southern Baptist would social drink and have no shame about it," the speech said.

A place birds can call hospital, home

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — She was called "Killer."
It wasn't irreverent, it wasn't cute; it was just descriptive. It told staff and volunteers which bird they were talking about at this unusual clinic.
"Killer" had been shot by a hunter. The bullet fractured her right wing and left her flightless. A game warden stumbled onto her last October, a weakened and starving bird in the woods near Hudson, Wis. No one knows whether that hunter knew he patients. They are strong birds with arrow-sharp talons and formidable beaks. And even by bald eagle standards, this particular bird was a real scrapper. Hence, "Killer."

Dr. Patrick Redig, chief surgeon at the clinic, patched up the wing and started the bird on antibiotics. Soon the fracture had healed and the infection had stopped, but the bird that had been near death was not yet able to fly. In December, she broke her leg, thrashing about in the captivity that the bald eagle seems to resent even more than the other great raptors.

eagles, all on the mend, but not quite ready to survive in the wild. Once a week, they are all flown on giant tethers attached to their feet. The exercise is necessary to keep some tone in their wing muscles as they recover.
Flying an eagle is not exactly like walking a dog.
First the eagle must be caught and they — "Killer" in particular — will run and flap a seven-foot wing span at and around the pursuer. Then the beak that easily rips apart the muscles of its prey must be carefully watched. But it's the talons that bear the closest watching. They are the eagle's lethal weapons.
Rawhide gloves are worn by staff and four high school students who are volunteering to fly "Killer" this overcast spring afternoon.
Once caught, the instinctively enraged bird is carried to a windswept bluff overlooking the St. Croix River. Stubble from last year's alfalfa crop, ruts and holes from rain, farm machinery and mole hills dot the field, a field where volunteers must run alongside the flying eagle to keep the tether from snagging and crashing the eagle to the ground.
"Killer" is tossed into the air and she flies on a straight line, unable to soar upward. She's caught again and again and tossed up five or six times, traveling a fair distance, but with no real lift, the result of months of captivity.
But Redig is optimistic. He likes what he sees.
"She'll be ready to go within a few weeks," he says.

This unusual clinic has saved more than 160 bald eagles and thousands of other birds.

fired at an endangered species as well as this country's national symbol.
"Killer" is an American bald eagle. And thanks to the University of Minnesota's Raptor Rehabilitation and Research Program, she's about to fly free again.
This unusual clinic, where patients are likely to come in in brown corrugated boxes, has saved more than 160 bald eagles and a dozen peregrine falcons, also endangered, and thousands of other birds of prey.
It hasn't been easy, particularly with the eagle, which is always difficult to work with. They are prone to infection and the very qualities that contribute to their majesty in the skies make them less than ideal "Killer" needed more surgery. Redig put her down with anesthesia in the small operating room on the St. Paul campus and inserted pins to hold the bone in place. In January, he took the pins out and she seemed to be using the leg well. In February, "Killer" was taken out of the eagle room at the Veterinary School and transferred to an outdoor pen at the Carpenter Nature Center near Hastings, Minn., about an hour's drive from campus.

"The eagles outside do 200 percent better than the ones we keep indoors," says Redig. "We don't know why, but they do."
"Killer" was in a large wire and wooden pen with a half dozen other

WASP II — The Wasp II fanjet was demonstrated at Fort Benning, Ga. It faces two weeks of testing to determine if it has military promise.

Army testing one-man flying platform

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The U.S. Army is testing a one-man, jet-powered flying platform that resembles a fictional aircraft in the Dick Tracy comic strip.
Test pilot Robert F. Courter took the Williams Aerial System Platform, or WASP, on a demonstration Monday to kick off two weeks of tests by the Infantry Board at Lylet Heliport on this large military base in western Georgia.
The vehicle resembles the "bucket" at the top of a snorkel-type fire truck or the fictional, anti-gravity flying machine in the Dick Tracy comic strip.
With a deafening roar, the WASP climbed to about six stories, ducked behind a row of trees, performed various maneuvers, and came to a sudden stop 100 feet in the air.

The WASP can fly as fast as 600 mph for about 30 minutes, according to the manufacturer, Williams International Co. of Walled Lake, Mich.

It is powered by a jet engine that develops 600 pounds of thrust and is similar to those used in cruise missiles. The tests will focus on safety, the ease with which soldiers learn to use the device and maintenance and supply considerations, Army officials said.

Retaining order may halt Mesa takeover

HOUSTON (AP) — A drunk driver coming into or leaving Harris County's northside this weekend will face a formidable law enforcement task force lined up with citation pads in hand and a paddy wagon ready to cart violators to jail.

As many as 100 police officers and 35 units will participate in saturation patrolling of major thoroughfares as part of the first coordinated crackdown of city, county and state agencies against drunk drivers.

The traffic safety blitz is the combined work of the Texas Department of Public Safety, State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Harris County Sheriff's Department and the Houston and Pasadena police departments.

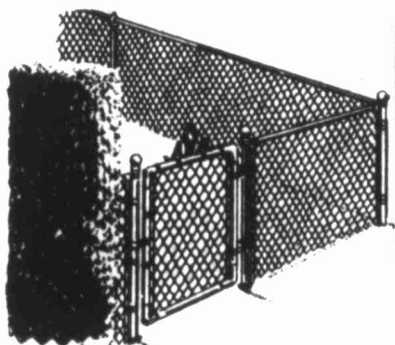

"Instead of eight or 10 units in that area, there will be 35 to 40," said Department of Public Safety Lt. Harold Couch, a member of the Traffic Safety Awareness Task Force. "We will not only be looking for drunk drivers but for all violations that might endanger motorists' safety."

The effort, announced Wednesday, will begin Friday about 6 p.m. and continue until about 6 a.m. Saturday. It will be coordinated from a central post to prevent agencies from overlapping patrol areas.

Officials admit that carefully combing one area will not solve the overall problem.

"I don't think this will solve the problem but by concentrating on one area the public will at least be aware that we are trying to do something," said task force chairman Jim Freeman of the state highway department.

Couch said the DPS has individually attempted similar blitzes without lasting success.

Immigrant insects crawling across the land

By JOY ASCHENBACH
National Geographic News Service
WASHINGTON — This is not meant to sound unfriendly, but foreign bugs can be the biggest pests.

Whether they're Medflies from Africa, gypsy moths from Europe, fire ants from South America, or other alien insects, they worm, sting, crawl, and chew their way into every corner of the country in a most uncontrollable manner.

On balance, alien creatures cause more damage than native American bugs. At least half of all agricultural losses in the United States — about $22.9 billion worth a year — are attributable to foreign pests, most of them insects.

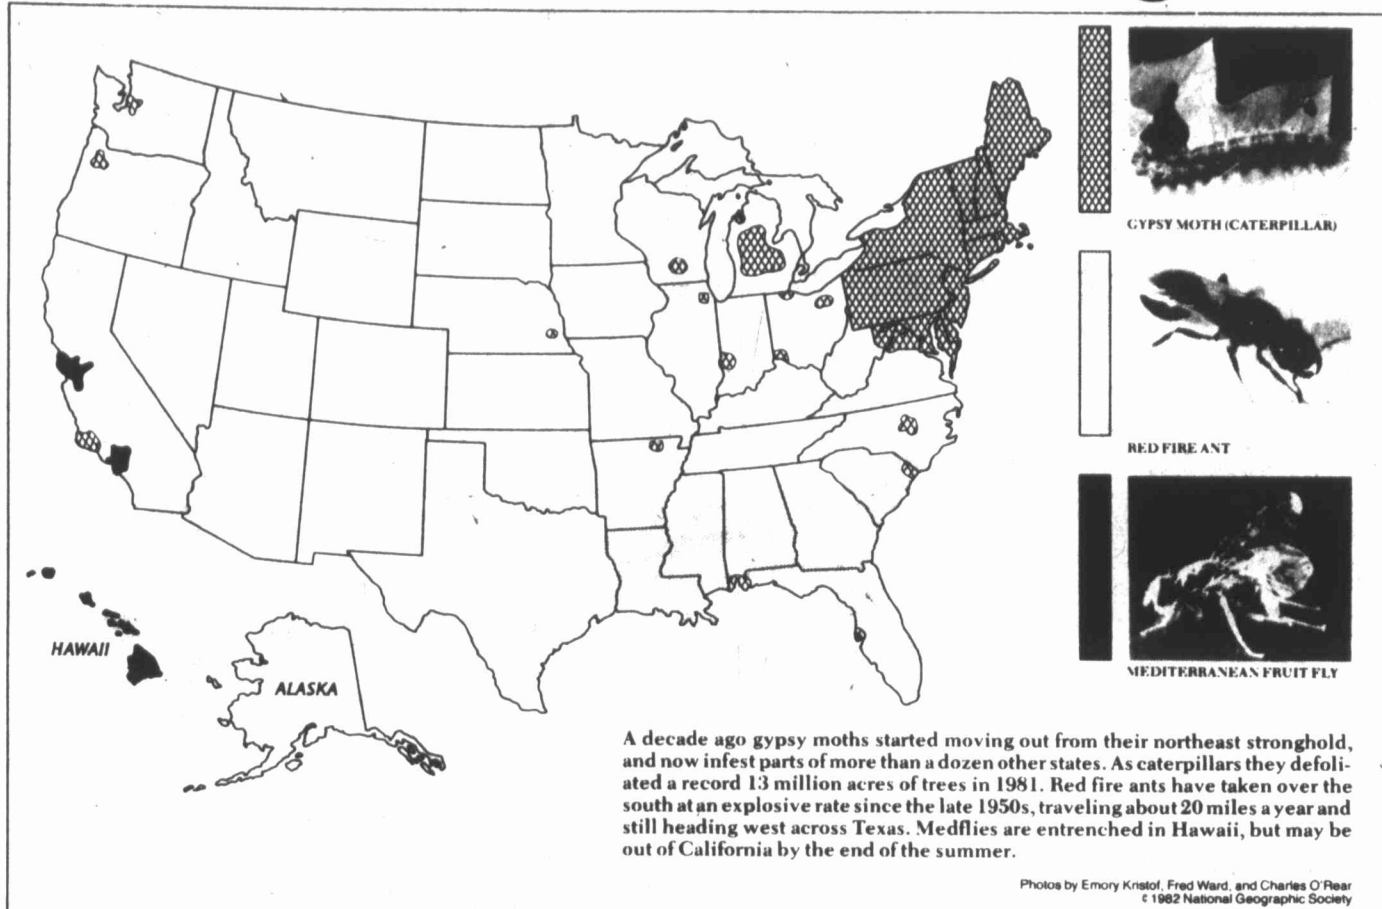

Foreign insects do so well on U.S. soil basically because they leave their natural enemies, their "biological control agents," back home. Some are so well established here that there's no getting rid of them. Science simply has not moved as fast as the bugs.

SCIENTISTS ADMIT that the best hope at this point is to try to reduce their numbers to levels that most people can live with. But the insects don't make that job easy. There are more insect species than all species of plants and other animals put together.

So far nearly a million distinct kinds have been described, and an estimated 2 to 9 million more unknown varieties are crawling around out there. The United States has 150,000 to 200,000 kinds, about 600 to 700 of which are foreign in origin.

Only about 5 percent of all insects are considered pests, but about 40 percent of the foreign ones here are. Alien insects are so unwelcome that the only way they can legally enter the country is dead: dried and preserved.

Most of the unwanted live ones — those not issued special visas to be used for scientific research — slip in with returning or visiting travelers. Right up there at the top of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's current "wanted list" of foreign bugs are the various fruit flies: Mediterranean, oriental, and South American.

A decade ago gypsy moths started moving out from their northeast stronghold, and now infest parts of more than a dozen other states. As caterpillars they defoliated a record 13 million acres of trees in 1981. Red fire ants have taken over the south at an explosive rate since the late 1950s, traveling about 20 miles a year and still heading west across Texas. Medflies are entrenched in Hawaii, but may be out of California by the end of the summer.

USDA inspectors intercept more fruit flies than any other bugs. It would take just one infested piece of souvenir fruit to create another California Medfly crisis.

NEARLY $100 million already has been spent trying to eradicate the flies from California, the only state besides Hawaii in which they are now found. Medflies have been longtime residents of Hawaii, the probable source of the California infestation.

Officials hope to declare California completely Medfly-free by the end of the summer. Fields have been sprayed, traps put out, and a citizen Medfly program set up. Residents are to turn in any Medflies found in backyard fruit trees. The rice-size Medfly larvae live off more than 200 varieties of fruit and vegetables. The well-traveled gypsy moths, which arrived here from Europe before the first quarantine laws of 1912, have established residency in the Northeast and are moving south and west, showing up as far away as Florida, California, Oregon, and Washington.

In their voracious caterpillar stage, gypsy moths eat the leaves off a record 5 million acres of trees in 1980 and more than doubled that last summer, defoliating 13 million acres.

"It looks like winter in July in the forests," said entomologist Dr. Warren Johnson of Cornell University. This summer is expected to be as bad or worse.

And the gypsy moth is here to stay. It has been in this country so long that it is practically a naturalized citizen. The moths were first brought to Massachusetts in 1869 by a French naturalist who was trying to breed a better silkworm. Some moths escaped from the lab and by 1889 the caterpillars were so thick on the trees that they "stuck together like cold macaroni."

At the rate they're now traveling, they may eventually change the character of some forests, Johnson said. The moths travel long distances on the underside of campers and recreational vehicles, where the non-flying female frequently lays her eggs.

Although the caterpillars like numerous species of trees, they prefer oak. "Oak is no longer going to be the dominant tree in some areas," Johnson said. "One day there may be no such thing as an oak hardwood floor." It takes a heavy infestation to actually kill a tree, which can survive two or three defoliations.

BECOMING ALMOST as infamous in the South as the boll weevil, which crossed the border from Mexico in 1892, red fire ants have invaded more than 230 million acres in nine southern states. Officials are trying to keep them from moving farther west across Texas.

The vicious ants, which probably boarded a freighter in Brazil and sneaked into the country through Mobile, Ala., in the 1930s, have made a real nuisance of themselves. They sting people — repeatedly. They wreck farm equipment by building foot-high nesting mounds that are as tough as tree stumps when dry. Each mature mound swarms with 200,000 ants and there may be 50 mounds per acre.

The world's most destructive pest of stored grains, khapra beetles from India started infesting U.S. spice processing plants and warehouses in 1980 and 1981 for the first time since the 1950s.

The return of these hardy beetles, who hitchhike into the country in spice shipments and packing crates, forced the USDA this year to make fumigation mandatory for such things as brassware from India and chili peppers from Pakistan. Inspectors of the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service intercept the beetles at seaports 150 to 300 times a year.

Not all foreign bugs are bad. Some are actually sought after by USDA agents based in Europe, Asia, and South America. Most are brought here because they like to eat bad bugs. None has turned out to be a pest.

IN 1981, 65 species of insects from 17 countries were let in. Thirty-eight different kinds were released against 20 pests. "Almost all pest insects have enemies. I can't think of one that doesn't," said Dr. Jack Coulson, head of USDA's Beneficial Insect Introduction Lab. "The gypsy moth alone has over 100 natural enemies."

But scientists have established only 12 here. Most haven't survived the new environment, especially in winter. More gypsy moth predators were brought in last year from the Soviet Union, India, and Japan.

It's still not enough. "We've given up looking for the silver bullet. Our real target is to cut the population down to acceptable levels," Coulson explained.

Search is on for diamonds in N. Michigan

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — Blue earth, a mineral that could be the harbinger of diamonds, has been found in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, and representatives of four mining concerns are interested in the chance to find sparklers.

At least one company has begun to search for the diamonds, although state officials acknowledge the odds of finding commercially valuable stones are about one in 100. The only significant deposit of diamonds found in the United States is in Arkansas.

On the Kekeweenaw Peninsula, a small finger of rugged land poking into Lake Superior in the western Upper Peninsula, the U.S. Geological Survey found an outcropping of kimberlite, known as blue earth, the rock that hosts diamonds.

Geologists at Michigan Technological University, working with the USGS, are testing the Limestone Mountain area south of Houghton for more kimberlite. So far, none has been found but tests are continuing, according to Gordon Frantli, head of the geology department at the school.

Rollie Harmes, acting chief of the land division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said four mining concerns have come to Michigan to "talk about diamonds" within the past six or eight months since the USGS report.

One company said it has spent between $1 million and $2 million "just on surface exploration," said Jack Van Alstine, a regional geologist for the state Department of Natural Resources. "I have no way of vouching whether they had or not, but I do know they had crews up here." He would not identify the company.

Kimberlite is a rock that usually is a weathered yellow on the surface and blue beneath the surface, Van Alstine said.

Boy Scouts sue over office fire

DALLAS (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America have sued a Dallas security company, claiming it breached its contractual obligation by hiring a man who later was convicted of setting fire to the group's national headquarters in the suburb of Irving.

Guy Wayne Buckley, a 19-year-old former Explorer Scout, was convicted of arson in the November 1980 blaze, which caused more than $1 million in damage. He was sentenced to 10 years' probation last September.

The blaze started inside a second-story storage closet and spread through the building, police said.

The suit claims Wackenhut Corp. is liable for Buckley's actions and for the damage caused by the fire.

Wackenhut officials could not be reached for comment.

Dr. Donohue She jumps to conclusions

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was told that the rash on my right hand was lichen planus. I had been taking medicine (Dyazide) for high blood pressure. When I learned that this could have caused the rash, I changed to another medicine, which my doctor prescribed. It has not gone away. So now I have stopped taking the second medicine. What causes lichen planus and what should I do for it? — Mrs. J.J.

One thing you don't want to do for it is to discontinue a medicine designed to control your high blood pressure.

Why are you jumping to the conclusions about your medicine? Don't stop your medicine because you THINK it might be causing a skin rash. Lichen planus is an itchy area of shiny, reddish violet skin. There are little bumps. One tipoff to lichen planus is that those bumps have gray lines on their surface.

If it is lichen planus, it will usually last for 15 to 24 months and then go away. It acts this way no matter what medicine you are taking for high blood pressure. Incidentally, lichen planus can also be located in other areas than on exposed skin. It can occur on the inside of the mouth.

The lichen planus rash may look like a drug eruption, but it is not. So I think you were a little hasty, perhaps even a bit foolish, ascribing the cause to your medicine. The steroid cream you tell me you are using for it is standard treatment. Be patient. In time your problem should subside. Please do me a favor and report to your physician that you have stopped taking your high blood pressure medicine. Will you?

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had a most annoying symptom for some time now. It is a burning tongue. And it seems reddish when I look at it. I am 78 years old, if that is meaningful. I know you can't diagnose, but can't you suggest something to help me? — Mrs. E.P.

A burning, reddened tongue is often seen in people who are deficient in riboflavin and niacin (B vitamins). I suspect much of this can be laid at the doorstep of poor nutrition. Unfortunately, too many older people fall into such nutrition traps.

I should also mention that certain fungus infections can cause such burning, and it sometimes can be related to anemia. I am sending on a booklet you might find interesting relating to vitamins. It is titled "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know." Other readers may have a copy by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents to cover printing and handling.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had this lump in the lower urinary tract, and the doctor said I had Peyronie's disease. I am taking vitamin E. What causes this? I am 51 years old. I am worried. — Mr. J.A.M.

The cause of that dime-sized lump in the penis is scarring resulting from inflammation of the area. The cause is just not known.

There are many therapies for Peyronie's disease. Vitamin E is one. The drug, Potaba, is another. Other treatments have been tried — diathermy, ultrasound and steroids among them. Each has its proponents.

Keeping frozen food good

Once you learn how to properly prepare and package food for frozen storage, your freezer can be a friend. But what happens when it breaks down or the power goes out?

"First of all, try to find out how long it will be before your freezer is working again," says Dr. Al Wagner, food specialist at Texas A&M University System.

A fully loaded freezer will stay cold enough to keep food frozen for two days, notes Wagner, while one half-full will only keep food cold for a day. The main thing is to keep the freezer closed and not to check food regularly.

Meats that still contain ice crystals or that have been kept at 40 degrees F. or below for less than two days may be safely refrozen. Some quality may be lost but the product is still wholesome. However, throw out foods which have an unusual or off-odor, and never refreeze ice cream.

If it looks like the power will be off for a long time or your freezer cannot be repaired for several days, use dry ice. If dry ice is placed in the freezer soon after the power goes off, 25 pounds should keep the temperature below freezing for two to three days in a 10-cubic-foot half-full freezer and three to four days if the freezer is full.

Handle dry ice carefully and be sure not to touch it with your bare hands, cautions Wagner. Make sure the room where the freezer is located is well ventilated. Place dry ice on cardboard or wooden boards on top of packages in the freezer. Do not open the freezer again except to put in more dry ice or to remove it once the freezer is working again.

If using dry ice is not possible, move food to a locker plant in insulated boxes (ice chest) or thick layers of paper or other wrapping to prevent thawing, suggests Wagner.

First child is born to Lands

Jeff and Donna Land, 711 E. 18th, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Samantha Leighanne, at Martin County Hospital in Stanton at 2:19 p.m., June 6. She weighed 4 pounds 13 ounces and measured 17 1/2 inches long.

Samantha's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cantwell, Gail Rt. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Garland Land, 605 E. 18th.

HONORED GUEST — Johnny Johansen was presented a certificate for the formation of the Johnny Johansen Scholarship by Mrs. Paul Guy, president of Big Spring Garden Club, at a meeting on June 5.

Club honors Johansens

Johnny Johansen was honored by the Big Spring Garden Club at a luncheon at Big Spring Country Club, June 5.

Mrs. Edna Womack presented a biography of Johansen's life. Johansen has helped the club with the development of Cottonwood Park, and the Rose Garden, in the Comanche Trail Park. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1937 with a degree in Landscape Architecture. He was superintendent of public area for the city of Big Spring until 1976. He spent several years getting a mobile home park established in Comanche Trail Park.

Mrs. Paul Guy presented the certificate of the formation of the Johnny Johansen Scholarship. Donations for the scholarship are being accepted by the Council of Big Spring Garden Club. The members of the Council are Mrs. Paul Guy, Mrs. Womack, and Mrs. Annie Matt Angel.

CowBelles prepare for Round-Up, Symposium

The Tejas CowBelles planned the Agriculture Round-Up and Symposium at their meeting at the Shack in Snyder, Tuesday.

The Round-Up and Symposium will be at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, July 10. Congressman Jim Collins will speak at 1:40 p.m. and Congressman Charles Stenholm will speak at the barbecue that evening.

Other speakers will be Anne Anderson of Austin on Consumer Demands, Jim Powell of Washington, D.C. on Tax Reforms, Becky Terry of Alpine on How CowBelles Help, Dub Waldrip of Lubbock on Legislative Problems, Hilmar G. Moore of Washington, D.C. on "Somehow, Nothing Satisfies Like Beef", and Dr. Dennis Stiffler of College Station on Innovations in Beef.

CowBelles will meet at the Chamber of Commerce in Big Spring at 9 a.m. July 7 to get registration packets and ditty bags ready. They will meet at 1 p.m. at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum July 9 to decorate. Maureen Morris reported on the Colorado City "King for a Day" contest for Father's Day. The winner of the essay contest will receive a beef gift certificate.

Jean Everett discussed the "Beef for Father's Day" drawing to be held in Snyder. The winner will receive a brisket, a steak dinner for two, a CowBelle cookbook and two tickets for the Agriculture Round-Up and Symposium.

The local CowBelles will be responsible for demonstrations at the National Beef Cook-Off in San Antonio, Sept. 19-22. The demonstrations will include Morris Ellis giving a meat cutting demonstration, a Cuisinart food processor demonstration and a microwave cooking demonstration. Tejas CowBelles able to attend need to have their registration mailed in by Aug. 28.

Robbie and Tony Stewart, 1604 Sunset Ave., announce the birth of their second child, a son, Zack Anthony. He was born at Malone-Hogan Hospital at 7:48 a.m. June 1. He weighed 8 pounds 13 ounces and measured 20 1/2 inches long.

Stewarts announce birth of daughter

His paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Hayworth of Big Spring. Zack Anthony was welcomed home by his sister Tara, 4.

Zack's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Zack Gray of Weatherford.

Dear Abby

Self-control tests faith, love

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the 19-year-old Texas "boy" who "tested his manhood" by getting two girls pregnant, let me tell you about another 19-year-old boy's test of "manhood".

He has been my special friend for almost two years. Six months ago, he asked me to marry him. He talked to my father, explaining that because of our ages (I'm 18), finances and college ahead of us, it will be some time before we can marry. We are normal teen-agers with the same desires as other kids and very much in love.

Many miles separate us, and we see each other only once every six weeks, but we have stayed with our commitment to keep our relationship pure and holy.

His test of "manhood"? When he is tempted to go beyond a kiss, he has me place my hand beside his on his Bible, and he asks God to give him the strength to be the man he needs to be.

Abby, our love is strong, but our faith in the Lord is stronger, and we have resolved that when we take our sacred marriage vows, we will do so with a clear conscience.

WALKING WITH GOD IN BAY, Ark.

DEAR WALKING: God bless you both. And he will.

DEAR ABBY: I just about cracked up when I read the letter in the Dodge City Daily Globe from the person who received the wedding invitation with the note: "Because the bride and groom have everything, the idea gift would be something that can be put into a pocket or purse."

I can't wait to get a wedding invitation with a similar message. I will simply put together a collection of the following items that "can be put into a pocket or purse": a small comb, mirror, toothpick, dental floss, handkerchief, money clip, key ring, etc.

I'm sure my gift would cost considerably less than the usual $40 or $50.

DORIS IN DODGE CITY

DEAR DORIS: And don't forget a "lucky" penny for good luck!

Davis speaks at meeting

Bina Davis, physical therapy student, was guest speaker at American Business Club at the Holiday Inn, June 4. Miss Davis, affiliated with Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, spoke on the qualifications a student must achieve before taking state board exams to become a licensed physical therapist.

The Big Spring Rodeo Association met with a committee from the ABC's to plan the club's participation in the rodeo. The club will be in charge of the concessions and the rodeo programs. Five members will be attending the National Convention in St. Louis, Mi., June 23-26. Members that will attend are Jerry Reid, president, Ken Olsen, Calvin Davis, Ray Alexander, and Wayne Rock.

Club plans meeting

The Big Spring Prospectors Club will meet at 606 East 3rd at 7:30 p.m., today. Anyone interested in geology, gems, minerals, silver and gold casting or any other facet of lapidary work is invited to attend the meeting.

The clubhouse shop has been updated and lessons will be offered to members. Field trips are planned as a part of summer activities.

Stewarts announce birth of daughter

His paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Hayworth of Big Spring. Zack Anthony was welcomed home by his sister Tara, 4.

Zack's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Zack Gray of Weatherford.

Foreigners beware

Despite openness, China suspicious of outsiders

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — "We have friends all over the world," goes the ubiquitous slogan, but the recent deportation of an American woman discloses China's deep seated suspicion of foreigners and China's own roadblocks to friendship.

Lisa Wichser, a 28-year-old English teacher, was accused of spying and stealing secret documents. After intense interrogation she said she confessed to unknowingly having innocuous "state secrets" and to certain "relationships" with Chinese.

After returning to the United States Friday night, Miss Wichser, whose parents live in Indianapolis, called her week-long detention "a nightmare, something I don't understand." She had been in China two years collecting material for a thesis on agricultural changes since 1969.

While all the details and underlying causes of the case are not known, Miss Wichser, finally, may just have gotten too close to the Chinese people for the comfort of authorities. She was fluent in Chinese, had many Chinese friends and was engaged to marry a Chinese man, who is now under detention.

Her case has put both Chinese and foreigners, from Chinese hotel room boys to foreign researchers, on their guard and reminded them to keep their distance. Wariness of foreigners is a by-word in China, frequently enforced by internal directives, warnings by superiors and horror stories in the press about crime, drugs, divorce and moral bankruptcy in the west.

Several months ago China gave wide publicity to the case of an editor sentenced to five years in prison for telling a foreign journalist the date, place, agenda and discussions of a party meeting. The warning was clear.

Both cases arise in a period when China aggressively is throwing open the door to foreign technology and investment but trying to slam it in the face of western decadence, bourgeois democracy, tight pants, love songs and pornography.

China's love-hate, superiority-inferiority feelings toward foreigners have long been documented. The suspicion of foreigners is ancient, China long called them barbarians and the word for foreigner literally means "outsider."

Today China still tries to prevent meaningful contact between Chinese and foreigners, except on a superficial tourist level.

Today China still tries to prevent meaningful contact between Chinese and foreigners, except on a superficial tourist level or on professional exchanges.

China's former propaganda chief Wang Renzhong recently warned there are foreign spies in China, a warning that has been picked up in the provinces. Some school authorities, too, have warned Chinese students that foreign students may be spies and to be cautious and vigilant.

Chinese and foreign students, like Chinese and foreigners in general, are segregated in their living quarters as a rule.

School authorities also have been ordered to squelch any romance between Chinese and foreigners. It is not uncommon for the Chinese to be ordered to break off their relationship and even be detained and interrogated about the political and moral nature of their connection with a foreigner.

Most Chinese must have special permission from their work unit even to go to dinner with a foreigner, including foreign journalists. Chinese at every hotel must register when they walk in and everyone knows if they are going to see a foreigner — plainclothes police are watching. Too much mingling very likely can prompt a police inquiry.

Chinese guests must register at the gates of foreigners compounds. They must be escorted in by the foreigners or present an invitation card — a practice many Chinese consider intimidating and degrading in their own country. Authorities say it is for the "protection" of foreigners.

A Chinese professional woman told her American working colleague that she and her husband debated for hours whether to invite her home for a New Year's meal. They decided not to and the woman later said apologetically that their neighbors might talk and report them.

Another Chinese woman who had extensive contacts with foreigners passed a promotion exam with high marks. She was told, however, that she would not get the promotion "because you know too many foreigners."

She put out the word to her foreign friends. "Please don't call me any more."

NO PILLAGING THIS TIME — The Hjemkomst, a replica of a Viking longboat circa 900 A.D., ties up in New York Wednesday. The 20-ton wooden vessel, a copy of a Viking ship that was unearthed in Oslo, Norway a century ago, is preparing for a 3½ week sea voyage to Norway. Carrying a crew of 13, the Hjemkomst set forth from Duluth, Minn. May 6, relying on an auxiliary engine and its 32 oars for propulsion. At sea however, the ship will rely solely on wind power.

Judge halts sale of 24 oil leases

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The drive by Interior Secretary James Watt to speed up oil and gas exploration on the West Coast has hit another roadblock, with a federal judge halting auction of 24 oil leases in the waters off Southern California.

U.S. District Judge Cynthia Holcomb Hall on Wednesday granted a preliminary injunction against the sale, saying that Watt did not "adequately consider the economic impact of the lease sale on the coastal communities."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who on Tuesday won the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, said, "Once again, Secretary Watt's efforts to despoil the California coast have been declared illegal by a federal court."

The administration announced an emergency appeal on the decision and is accepting bids, which will not be opened if the ruling stands.

The Interior Department had planned to sell the disputed leases Friday as part of an auction of 164 tracts off the California coast. The 24 challenged lease areas were located in Santa Monica Bay, Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors and off the Orange County coast.

"While the court recognizes the strong public interest in developing domestic oil and gas resources, the balance of hardships in this case tips in the plaintiff's favor," the judge said.

Peter Steenland, a Justice Department attorney representing Watt, said the ruling would be appealed. In Washington, Interior Department spokesman Andy Newman said the department would proceed with the sale Friday of 140 other California offshore tracts, which are more than three miles offshore.

Interest rates must fall to help American homebuyers

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If the interest on mortgages dropped from around 17 percent to 13 percent — a possibility but not a likelihood this year — perhaps 5 million additional families could afford to buy homes.

It is figures such as this that demonstrate the remarkable impact of interest rates, which many if not most economists now believe are the controlling factor in the nation's economic health, or lack of it.

Some would say that interest rates are merely a symptom — of a big budget imbalance, of government overspending, of a need to restrain the economy — but what economic factor isn't cause and effect?

The example was drawn from housing because housing vies with cars as the industry most devastated by today's extraordinarily high rates, which were expected to fall but didn't when inflation began to ease.

Under the impact of those interest rates, the capital spending plans of heavy industry are shrinking too, and so is the spending plans of smaller businesses, and some consumers and municipal governments.

But it is in housing, an area personally familiar to most Americans, where the carnage is most observable.

The Commerce Department reports that sales of new, single-family homes in April plunged 15.3 percent to a record low annual rate of 315,000 units, 32.5 percent below the April 1981 figure.

Congress urged to change Clean Air Act

HOUSTON (AP) — Both union and industry spokesmen here say they believe the federal Clean Air Act is a "drag on the economy" and they want Congress to change it.

In a news conference Tuesday, the union and industry officials urged support for a bill that would amend the clean air act. The amendment proposal has been stalled for several weeks in the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

Gale Van Hoy, executive secretary of the Houston Building Trades

Council, said a proposed Environmental Protection Agency rule banning construction of major new industrial plants in Houston if the city fails to meet clean air standards would be "extremely disastrous" to construction workers.

Engineer lauds sunken rig

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It had to be something other than structural failure that sank the giant offshore drilling rig Ocean Ranger with 84 men aboard, said an engineer who helped design the $60 million rig.

The Ocean Ranger went down in 260 feet of water 175 miles east of St. John's, Newfoundland, shortly after midnight on Feb. 15, 1982. Winds were gusting up to 90 miles an hour. Waves were 50 feet high.

"The structural design of the unit was first class," said Carmon Costello, a design engineer for Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co. of New Orleans, owner of the rig.

"We used only the best steel we could find, we minimized welding problems, there were no (metal) fatigue complications. From a designer standpoint, it is hard to imagine a structural problem."

Costello was questioned Tuesday by men on a Coast Guard Marine Board of Investigation and the National Transportation Safety Board. They are trying to solve the mystery of why the rig, built to withstand much rougher weather, went down.

The mystery was deepened by the fact that so few radio reports involving the rig's status were made to drilling headquarters in St. John's — a remarkable deviation from normal procedure.

Questioning has returned time and again to the potential vulnerability of the ballast control room, where operators keep the rig stable as it stands in the sea.

The Ocean Ranger was a semisubmersible. When drilling, the working decks are 50 feet above the sea surface on six 284-foot steel towers, which serve as legs. Big ballast tanks, on the bottom of each leg, are sunk 80 feet deep. Anchor lines radiate in all directions.

It takes a lot of weather to make a semi heave, pitch or roll. Costello said special safety procedures need not be undertaken until sustained winds reach 70 miles an hour.

On ODECO semisubmersibles, the ballast control room is located in one of the legs with glass deadlights, a sort of window, so the operator can see out.

Costello said a storm wave smashing against the glass could generate pressure of almost 1,000 pounds per square foot. However, he said ODECO recently ran pressure tests on the glass, which is five eighths of an inch thick, and found its strength to be "three or four" times over the prescribed safety standard.

The fact remains that a radio report from the rig reported cleaning up some water from the control room where electrical switches control the pumps which shift tons of water around in the ballast system to keep the rig level.

This week of hearings is the final round scheduled by the board. Previous hearings were held in Boston, St. John's and Washington.

Another weekly cruise down the freeway of sports in and around Big Spring.

Kelly Rogers, the trapshooter from Big Spring High, is leaving this area soon for the National Rifle Association's 1982 Junior Olympics National Shooting Camp at Colorado Springs, Colo.

He will join 35 potential Olympians at the camp scheduled June 14-25. The main purpose is to have the best young shooters in the nation meet and learn under the supervision of NRA coaches. The training will be both mental and physical at the U.S. Olympic Committee's Training Center.

It's a freebie for Kelly as the Olympic Committee picks up the tab. For West Texans, this is one way all those contributions that are solicited on TV are put to good use.

The "Strongest Man in Football" contest is coming to Brownwood June 25. The program will be filmed for ESPN viewing later in the year.

The seven-man field will include 1980 champ Mike Webster, of the Steelers, Tom Condon of the Kansas City Chiefs, Steve Courson of the Steelers, Joe Klecko of the New York Jets, Ed Newman of the Miami Dolphins and Craig Wolfley of the Steelers. Another participant is Brownwood's own Bob Young.

Tickets go on sale Monday at the B-wood Chamber of Commerce. Call 646-9535 for ticket information. Reserved seats on the floor and box seats are $10 with general admission at $4 and $3 for children and students.

Beginning June 21, only player's wives and girlfriends will be allowed to attend softball games at the Big Spring Federal Prison. No children or spectators will be allowed.

Recent misconduct and lack of parental supervision of kids forced the new rule.

It was nice to hear from Sherill Easterling earlier this week.

The female distance runner from Coahoma has been sidelined for sometime by a leg injury that kept her from running in her second Boston Marathon. The injury, a painful one that extended from her hip to her tibia, forced her to rest until it had repaired. To bring herself back into running shape took hours on weights, the bicycle and swimming.

The work paid off as she won the women's division at a West Texas Running Club 10-kilometer run this past weekend in Levelland. She ran the course in 39:53 while runningmate Donald Webb toured the distance in 39:13.

It was Webb's first competition since he ran in Boston a few months ago.

A note for you golfers. A low-ball event is scheduled this weekend at the Big Spring Country Club. The WA handicap division has an 8:30 a.m. shotgun start Saturday while scratch golfers hit the course with a 2 p.m. shotgun start.

Entry fee is $40 per man. Contact Gary Hammer at the Country Club to enter.

A couples tournament is planned June 19-20 in Big Lake. The field is limited to the first 64 paid teams with entry deadline June 17. Entry fee is $50 per team.

Phone 884-2633 or 884-2191 to enter or get more information on the event.

It's the women's turn at softball this weekend. The First Annual West Texas "Belles" Tournament will be played at Johnny Stone Park Friday-Sunday. The next weekend it's the Fourth Annual Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Invitational Slo-Pitcher Tourney.

Entry fee is $90 with a June 16 deadline at 6 p.m. The double-elimination event is limited to 40 teams. Awards included trophies to top six, individual trophies to top four, 10-player all-tournament team, home run trophy and a most valuable player.

Contact Bill Bailey at Big Spring Athletics 915-267-1649 or 263-8525 at home after 6 p.m. to enter.

For the fisherman, channel cat are biting at Lake E.V. Spence with striped bass also doing well.

For you serious boxing fans, the Holmes-Cooney battle of the punches will be shown on closed circuit television tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in Odessa.

Odessa is the only location in the entire Big Country that will show the highly-publicized fight. Tickets are $25 and $30 and went on sale this morning. The scene is the Ector County Coliseum, located on the Andrews Highway. Doors open at 7 p.m. with the punches flying first at 8 p.m.

Texas, Miami meet tonight

NCAA World Series

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The College World Series last year was expanded to allow all 12 or 13 games of the double-elimination tournament to be played at night and Miami Coach Ron Fraser says the format pays dividends.

"It's great, especially if you have only two pitchers," said Fraser, whose team has two days rest heading into Thursday night's winners' bracket final against Texas.

Both No. 1-ranked Texas, 59-4, and fifth-ranked Miami, 51-18-1, intend to return tonight with the pitchers who won first-round games over the weekend.

The winner of the 7:10 p.m. CDT game plays again Friday at 8:10 p.m. against one of the winners of Wednesday night's elimination games matching Wichita State and Oklahoma State at 5:10 p.m. and Maine against Stanford at 8:10 p.m. The other survivor of the elimination round faces Thursday's loser at 5:10 p.m. Friday.

"We played Friday night, then we played Monday night with two days of rest," said Fraser. "Now we'll play again Thursday with two more days of rest. I can bring (Sam) Sorce back on Thursday. In other years you'd have to go with your third pitcher."

Sorce, 10-5, is considered Miami's top pitcher right now, according to Fraser. The right-hander went seven innings in a 7-2 first-round win over Maine.

Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson also intends to return with his pitching ace, Roger Clemens. Clemens came into the tournament with three straight shutouts and held first-round foe Oklahoma State to five hits in a 9-1 win.

"We'll pull out all the stops to do what it takes to win," said Gustafson, whose team went 12 innings to clip Stanford 8-6 Tuesday night. "Miami is the big game for us now."

"Everybody likes to stay in the winners' bracket," said Miami catcher Nelson Santovena, who hit one of three Hurricane homers in a 4-3 Monday win over Wichita State. "We're happy to be in the winners' final and we'll be ready to play no matter what."

"I'm looking for another game like this one against Miami," said Texas star Mike Brumley after the extra-inning Stanford win. Brumley had four hits, including a two-run homer against the Cardinal.

Maine strokes Stanford, 8-5

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Maine Coach John Winkin said he felt his team lacked respect at the College World Series prior to a victory over third-ranked Cal-State Fullerton.

The Black Bear baseball team, a 6-0 victor over Fullerton on Sunday, gained more respect Wednesday night by sideling the other half of the western contingent in an 8-5 whipping of sixth-ranked Stanford.

The victory vaulted Maine into the final four of the double-elimination tournament and set up a rematch Friday with Miami, Fla.

Eighth-ranked Maine, now 34-13, lost to fifth-ranked Miami 7-2 in last Friday's first game but battled back through the losers' bracket to become only the second Northeast team to reach the final four in the past 10 years. The Black Bears earned a fourth-place finish in 1976.

Wichita State, a 13-2 winner over Oklahoma State Wednesday, will meet Texas in Friday's other tournament semifinal.

Wary of Cooney

Holmes men respect the challenger

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Eddie Futch and Ray Arcel, the two elder statesmen who are preparing Larry Holmes for Friday night's defense of his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship, don't expect challenger Gerry Cooney to be any pushover.

"Gerry Cooney is young, strong and ambitious," said Futch, who, at 70, is the junior member of this training tandem. "He's got power in his left and he's learned how to use his right."

Arcel, who is 82 years old and has been in the business of boxing for most of that time, echoed Futch.

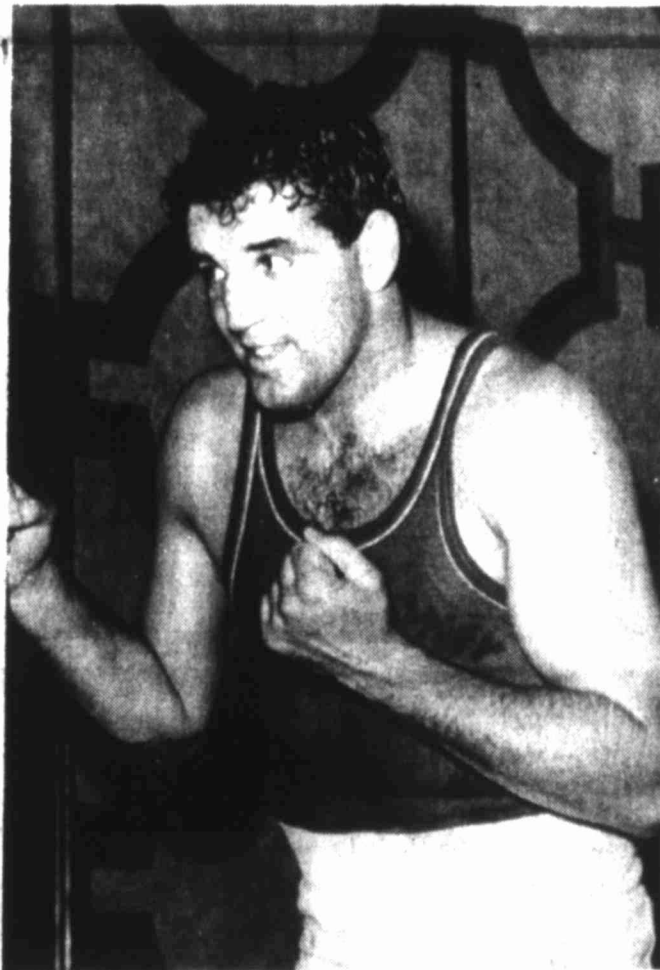

"We're in with a strong, young bull who wants to be champ," he said. "We're not underrating him."

Victor Valle, responsible for preparing Cooney for this richest bout in boxing history, thinks Holmes' braintrust is approaching this thing sensibly.

"Gerry changes from a human being to a beast in the ring," he said. "You can see it in his eyes. You can tell when I give him his last instructions."

Friday's fight comes almost two months after it was originally scheduled. The March 15 date was postponed when Cooney hurt his left shoulder in training. But Valle says his man is 100 percent now.

He said he thought Cooney's injury may actually have helped the

CHALLENGER GERRY COONEY
... "We're not underrating him" challenger's preparation for the biggest fight of his life.

"It helped him develop his right hand more. Now he can hurt you with either hand," Valle said.

Holmes' people are aware that Cooney packs a punch. But they're convinced their man can handle it.

"Larry has the tools, the knowledge and the experience," said Futch. "He knows what he has to do. Larry is a disciplined fighter. He will do what he has to do to win. I'm looking for a good fight and a successful conclusion."

Valle has the proper respect for Holmes' abilities, evidenced by 10 knockouts in 11 defenses since he won the championship from Ken Norton four years ago.

"He moves well. He's got good jabs and he punches good. But Gerry fights better against better fighters," the trainer said.

Holmes took Wednesday off while Cooney went through a final workout before today's weigh-in.

Fight to bring in $$$

By The Associated Press
Any doubts Lou Falcigno might have had about the appeal of boxing on closed-circuit television were dispelled a few years back by rock star Mick Jagger.

Falcigno's company, Momentum Enterprises Inc., was doing closed-circuit work on a West Coast concert by Jagger and the Rolling Stones, and the two men started talking about why fans would pay some $25 to watch two men slug it out on a giant TV screen.

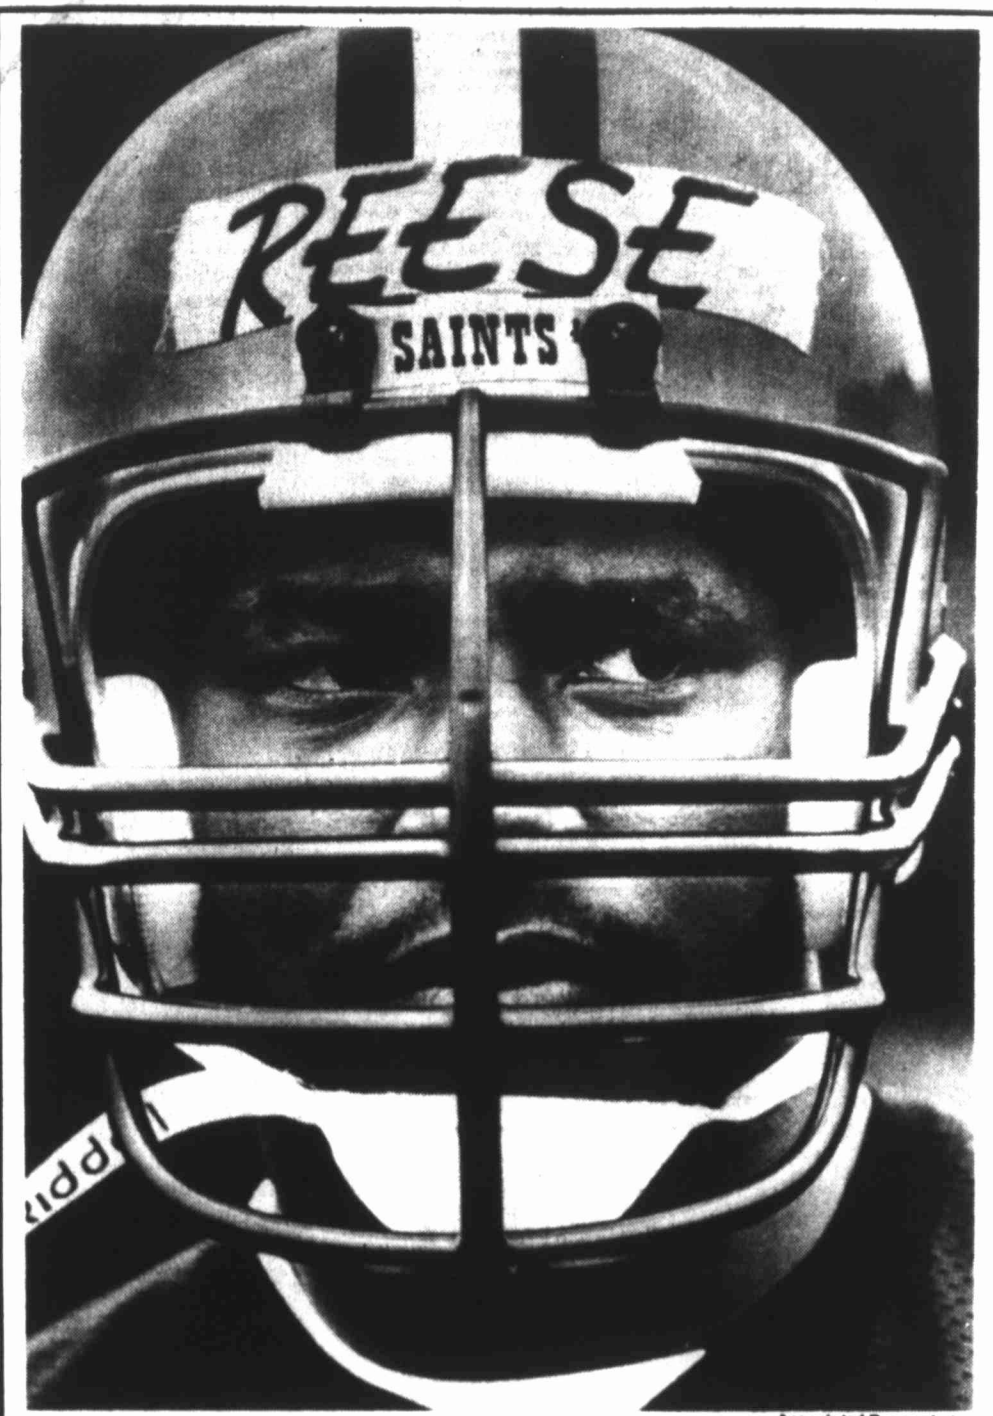

"Jagger said it had to do with the emotions of the crowd," Falcigno recalled of the conversation with the millionaire rock star. "Then he told me, 'Back in England, me and my friends save our money and go to the closed-circuit fights. We sneak a flask in and have a great time.'"

Friday night, an estimated 3.1 million fight fans will pay an average of $25 each in hopes of experiencing that difference as they watch Larry Holmes defend his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship against Gerry Cooney.

Momentum Enterprises, which bills itself as the nation's largest closed-circuit TV company, is handling the telecast to more than 300 theaters, arenas, restaurants and nightclubs across the country. If Falcigno's estimates are accurate, it will be the largest closed-circuit fight crowd ever, surpassing the 1.5 million fans for the first bout between welterweights Sugar Ray Leonard and Roberto Duran on June 20, 1980. The $77.5 million gross also would be a record.

In addition, broadcast industry sources reported that ABC has purchased network TV delayed rights to the fight for about $3 million, and will be aired Friday night, June 25.

CLAIMS COCAINE CLOUD OVER NFL — Former National Football League defensive end Don Reese, shown here in the uniform of the New Orleans Saints in 1980, alleges in a copyright story in Sports Illustrated that "a cocaine cloud covers the entire league." Reese served one year in prison in 1977 for selling cocaine.

Cocaine claims stir up protests in NFL

By DENNIS D'AGOSTINO
Associated Press Writer

The first reactions are bearing up at least some of the NFL's owners, but that it would be said he had exaggerated the extent of a cocaine problem in the National Football League.

At the end of his magazine article about alleged widespread cocaine use by NFL players, Reese said, "Rather than reform, what is more likely to happen is that the NFL will say I've exaggerated everything here."

In a copyright story in the June 14 issue of Sports Illustrated, Reese said that "Cocaine can be found in quantity throughout" the NFL. Reese, 30, played for Miami (1974-76), New Orleans (1978-80) and San Diego (1981) as a defensive end. He and former Dolphins' teammate Randy Crowder, a defensive tackle, spent a year in jail during 1977-78 after pleading guilty to selling cocaine to undercover agents.

In the article, Reese wrote that there were drug problems on all three teams he played for, and named several NFL players with whom he played as cocaine users.

San Diego owner Gene Klein dismissed Reese's allegation that the Chargers have "a big drug problem" as "ludicrous... total nonsense."

"We're not claiming we're lily-white," Klein told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Wednesday.

"There's no question in my mind that pro athletes are using narcotics and chemicals, just as other parts of our society are. Our policy has been to help anyone who comes forward. But we can't be their keepers."

Klein said he feels "sympathy for Mr. Reese. He's obviously down at the bottom, the dregs of humanity. I understand Sports Illustrated picked up his drug rehabilitation bills and paid him $10,000 for the story. That's checkbook journalism and I don't agree with it."

Sports Illustrated publicity director

"Cocaine can be found in quantity throughout the NFL."

Don Reese
Former defensive end

Jane Gilchrist said that the magazine had been approached by Reese, who offered to do the story. "We may pick up the tab for the detoxification program he has undergone, or maybe part of it," said Gilchrist. "Anyone who is not on the staff and does a first-person story, as he did, gets paid for it, and the pay may take that form. As far as I know, Reese has been paid only $100 to $200 for expenses so far."

In the article, Reese said that Chargers' Pro Bowl running back Chuck Muncie introduced him to free-basing cocaine, a procedure where the drug is heated and the fumes inhaled.

Reese said Muncie "has to be a superman to do what he does on the field and use coke the way he does off it."

Klein said he has seen "no shred of evidence" that Muncie has been involved in drugs. Repeated attempts to locate Muncie were unsuccessful the last two days.

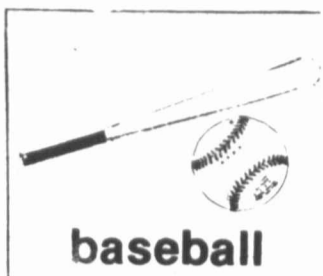

The Chargers' office said his whereabouts was unknown, and several calls to Muncie's attorney also went unanswered.

Four Razorbacks booted by Holtz

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz says four football players have been suspended and won't be back for the 1982 season.

He announced Tuesday that senior linebacker Bruce Sutherland, senior safety Randy Wessinger, senior fullback Steve Douglas and junior offensive guard Nick Llewellyn won't play this fall.

There was no other comment.

The eligibility of Sutherland, Wessinger and Douglas is over because they have used their redshirt year.

Wessinger and Darrel Eason shared the starting spot at safety at the end of spring practice. Douglas was the second string fullback and Sutherland was a strong prospect at outside linebacker. Llewellyn was a backup guard.

Wessinger and Douglas each lettered three times. Sutherland earned two letters.

Cubs nip San Antonio to go over .500 mark

By The Associated Press

The bats carried most of the weight Wednesday night in Texas League play.

The first case was Arkansas' Andy Van Slyke. He hit two triples and his seventh home run of the season as the Travelers beat Tulsa 10-2.

Starter Jerry Pate, 2-4, picked up the win. Marty Leach, 4-7, took the loss for the Drillers.

Darrell Strawberry did not fare too badly in two trips to the plate. He hit a three-run homer and drove in another run to pace Jackson to an 11-4 win over Shreveport.

Jackson piled up 16 hits as Steve Ibarguen, earned the win. The loser was Jaun Tisel, 6-3.

But the slugfest of the night took place in El Paso, where the Diablos picked up a 10-7 win over Amarillo.

El Paso got home runs from Steve Michael, Bill Foley and Dion James.

Louis Quiones and George Hinshaw hit two round-trippers each for the Gold Sox.

Andy Beene, 4-0, picked up the win in relief while Derke Tatsuno earned his third save of the year. The losing pitcher was Marty Kain, 5-4.

In another Texas League contest, Midland edged San Antonio 5-3.

Tom Smith mopped up to save the win for Mike King. John Franco took the loss.

Guru predicts Cooney win

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bundini's back, and Gerry Cooney's got him.

"All because of a dream," said Drew (Bundini) Brown, explaining how after nine years with Sugar Ray Robinson and 18 with Muhammad Ali, he suddenly has popped up as the spiritual guru in the camp of boxing's No. 1 heavyweight contender.

"Not a 'go-fer,' not a clown, not the court jester, like some people say," Bundini added. "Other people handle the physical things. I handle the spiritual things."

"When I was with Ali in Zaire in 1974 for the George Foreman fight, President Mobutu anointed me an official zombie of his country because I was going around and helping the poor people."

"That's what I am — a zombie, child of God. I can't see you, I can only feel you."

As a zombie, Bundini professes to unusual occult powers.

People will remember him as always at Ali's elbow — in triumph and in tragedy. He led chants when Ali won. He wept unashamedly when his hero lost. In October, 1980, when WBC champion Larry Holmes battered Ali into complete submission, it was Bundini who refused to give up.

Now, with Ali retired, Bundini has shown up in Cooney's camp wearing a tee shirt with the inscription on the back, "Not the White Man, But the Right Man."

"Cooney will win in two," Bundini announces with unflinching certainty, in predicting the outcome of Cooney's title fight against Holmes Friday night at Caesars Palace here.

IN THE COONEY CAMP — Drew 'Bundini' Brown, for years the spiritual guru for Muhammad Ali, displays a tee shirt supporting heavyweight challenger Gerry Cooney in the upcoming championship fight with Larry Holmes at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. Brown says he's had late night dreams predicting a second round win for Cooney.

"I saw it all in a dream two months ago. It was as clear as if I was watching on a big screen. Cooney comes out punching. He drops Holmes twice in the first round, then finishes him in the second. "I was so excited I sat upright in my bed."

Mariners complete Rangers sweep with win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Richie Zisk is not popular among Texas Ranger fans. Zisk wore a Texas uniform for three seasons but never lived up to his power-hitting potential and now, when he visits Texas in a Seattle Mariner uniform, Zisk hears scattered boos when he is introduced.

It doesn't bother him. "It's unfortunate that I couldn't produce while I was a Ranger, but I'm glad I'm producing for my team now," Zisk said Wednesday, after he powered his fourth home run of the season and drove in the winning run with an 11th-inning single.

The Mariners beat Texas 4-3 in 11 innings, completing a three-game sweep of the Rangers, their 12th win in 16 games, and reaching the .500 mark for the first time this year.

"In the past," said Zisk, "the Mariners would come to town and the home teams would plan on taking winning two out of three, or three out of four. Now, it's our turn."

In the three games Seattle pitchers allowed the Rangers a total of four runs. "They might have the best overall pitching staff we've seen this year," said Texas outfielder Billy Sample.

American League

"We're basically a young team - I'm the oldest guy on it except for Gaylord (Perry) - and there are no stars. Nobody is walking around with a big head," said Zisk. "We may not be a championship caliber team yet but we're going to be the thorn in some people's sides before the year is out."

Zisk crashed his fourth home run of the year Wednesday, off knuckleballer Charlie Hough.

"It was a good knuckleball, it broke down and in," said Zisk. "I didn't get a big swing on it, just reacted instinctively and used my strength to snap it over the fence."

Blue Jays 5, Angels 4

It was decidedly against accepted baseball strategy - but Toronto Manager Bobby Cox did it anyway.

With the Blue Jays trailing the California Angels 4-3, Barry Bonnell led off the bottom of the ninth inning with a single. Lloyd Moseby came to the plate and just about everyone in Toronto's Exhibition Stadium expected him to try to bunt Bonnell into scoring position.

But he didn't. Moseby instead swung away at the first pitch from reliever Doug Corbett, 1-6, and lashed a triple to right center that tied the game. The Blue Jays later won it 5-4 on Al Woods' bases-loaded groundout.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 3

Tony Perez belted his 360th major-league home run and Bruce Hurst and Bob Stanley combined on an eight-hitter as Boston beat New York for its fifth straight victory.

Reid Nichols had a double and a single, scoring Boston's second run and driving in the third in helping to send the Yankees to their fifth straight loss.

Royals 8, Twins 5

Kansas City's Amos Otis hit a three-run homer in the third inning, sparking the Royals to their eighth straight victory. The struggling Twins lost for the fifth straight time and 19th in the last 20 games.

Winner Paul Splittorff, 5-4, left in the midst of a three-run rally in the eighth. Reliever Dan Quisenberry came on to quiet the rally and post his 15th save.

A's 5, White Sox 4

Tony Armas hit a three-run homer in the eighth to lead Oakland over Chicago and snap a five-game losing streak for the A's.

With two outs, Dwayne Murphy and Dan Meyer both singled before Armas belted his sixth homer to break a 2-2 tie and saddle LaMarr Hoyt, 9-3, with his first career Comiskey Park defeat. Hoyt was 16-0 at home in three seasons.

Orioles 8, Brewers 3

Joe Nolan singled and homered to drive in three runs and Mike Flanagan pitched a six-hitter as Baltimore beat Milwaukee for its fifth straight victory. Flanagan, 5-4, recorded his fourth complete game and allowed only one earned run.

Tigers 2-3, Indians 1-3

Jerry Turner hit a two-run homer and Jack Morris scattered seven hits to lead Detroit's first-game victory over Cleveland.

The second game was suspended by the American League curfew law which prohibits any inning from starting after 1 a.m.

Niekro topples Giants with nifty 3-hitter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - "That was a perfect defensive game," said Joe Niekro.

In other areas, the Houston Astros were at least near perfection Wednesday, beating the San Francisco Giants 6-1. Niekro tossed a three-hitter and the Astros totaled eight hits including four for extra bases.

"This was my 13th start of the year, and I'd say I've pitched well in all 13. But I've made a few mistakes, our defense hasn't been too good, and we haven't been scoring many runs," said Niekro.

A fine play by third baseman Ray Knight may have saved Niekro from falling behind in the first inning Wednesday. Joe Morgan drew a leadoff walk and Jim Wohlford followed with a line drive down the third base line, but Knight speared the ball and threw to first for a double play.

"That was an awfully big play. We don't know what might have happened with two on and nobody out," said Giants Manager Frank Robinson.

The Astros came back from a 7-3 loss on Tuesday night, when three errors helped the Giants.

"We're lucky to be as well off as we are. There are a lot of us who have to get going hitting," said shortstop Craig Reynolds, who had a .214 batting average before improving it with a single and his first homer of the season.

Houston, 25-30 going into tonight's game in San Diego, moved back into a virtual tie with the Giants for fourth place in the National League West.

"What we need now is to put the good pitching, defense and hitting together long enough for a six, seven or eight-game winning streak," said Niekro, who stopped a four-game Giant victory streak.

Phillies 4, Cubs 2

Steve Carlton let his arm do the talking, and that had the Chicago Cubs talking to themselves.

Carlton hasn't talked to the media since the 1978 playoffs. And not even a 16-strikeout performance Wednesday night in the Philadelphia Phillies' 4-2 victory changed that. "Steve Carlton comes from a different mold," said Philadelphia Manager Pat Corrales. "They threw that mold away."

The 16 strikeouts were a one-game major league high for this season. Gaylord Perry had whiffed 13 for Seattle against California in April.

Carlton shares the major league record for most strikeouts in a nine-inning game with 19. He did it when he pitched for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1969. Tom Seaver duplicated the feat for the New York Mets in 1970, and Nolan Ryan struck out 19 with California in 1974.

Expos 5, Cardinals 1

Gary Carter's two-run homer, his 11th of the season, powered Montreal past St. Louis. Bill Gullickson, needing last-out help from Jeff Reardon, got his fourth victory in nine decisions.

Loser Bob Forsch, 7-2, left the game after six innings when he was struck in his pitching hand by a line drive off the bat of Andre Dawson. It was to be examined in New York today.

Mets 3, Pirates 2

Pinch-runner Rusty Tillman raced home on Hubie Brooks' bases-loaded grounder to short to cap a two-run ninth inning and give New York its victory over Pittsburgh.

The Pirates helped the Mets' winning rally with two errors on one play. Catcher Tony Pena was not charged with an error when he dropped shortstop Dale Berra's high throw as Tillman slid across the plate with the winning run.

Reds 4, Padres 3

Consecutive home runs by Cesar Cedeno and Johnny Bench powered Cincinnati past San Diego and gave Tom Seaver his eighth straight victory over the Padres, although he needed ninth-inning relief help.

Braves 11, Dodgers 5

Biff Pocoroba knocked in five runs with a double and four singles to lead an 18-hit Atlanta attack as the Braves crushed Los Angeles. The victory completed a three-game sweep of the Dodgers as Atlanta improved its lead in the National League West to 2½ games over San Diego.

State baseball tourney starts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Palmer, which won a state championship in 1979 and advanced to the finals the next two years, was matched in the opener of the schoolboy baseball tournament today against Krum, a tournament newcomer.

Palmer's roster includes tournament veterans such as shortstop Dennis Robinson, the team's leading hitter at .472, and pitcher-outfielder Wayne Mathis.

Krum lists four hitters over .400, including junior pitcher Barry Clearman at .600.

The tournament has a new look with half of the 20 teams making their first tournament appearance.

Semi-final games today in A, 2A and 3A were scheduled for Burger Center, a high school field, and first-round games in 4A and 5A were set for Ditch-Falk, the home field of the Texas Longhorns.

All five championship games Friday are scheduled for Ditch-Falk.

Riviera, another 1979 champion, returns in 2A, along with Pottsville, a semi-finalist in 1980-81. Riviera edged defending champion Shiner, 2-1, to gain the tournament.

In 3A, the only tournament veteran is Crockett, which was a semi-finalist two years ago.

Class 4A includes 1981 runner-up Lubbock Estacado and Austin Westlake, which returns five players from its 1980 championship squad. The other two semi-finalists are El Campo, which won state titles in its two previous appearances in 1962 and 1968 and Weatherford.

Astros stay on top in Senior League

The Astros continued their winning ways in American Senior League play with an 18-6 drubbing of the Oilers.

Chris Harwood went the distance on the mound for the Astros, outdueling Oilier hurlers Gregg Miller and Doug Walker.

The win boosted the league-leading Astros to 9-1 in the standings after having played each team in the league twice.

USGA Softball

The Texas Electric Dynamite rapped 29 basehits and clubbed Big Spring Athletics 24-17 in a USGA game this week.

Lisa Saldana and Missy Wilson each hit home runs for the Dynamite. Wilson added three singles and a double to complete her five-hit evening while Lori Gonzales also collected five basehits.

Connie Swinney and Katrina Thompson homered to highlight the 11 hits recorded by the Athletics.

In a Division I game, the First National Bank Blue Devils topped the Energas Starlets 18-4.

Teresa Averette won the game with a seven-hitter to keep her team in first place in the league race. Jana Jones and Mitchell Chavarría combined for five of the 21 Blue Devil hits.

Rotary race restrictions banned; no women

DALLAS (AP) - Delegates at the annual convention of Rotary International voted unanimously to ban racial restrictions on membership, but a last-minute attempt to allow women to join was thwarted by constitutional rule. The convention delegates approved the resolution to prohibit racial restrictions Wednesday in a resounding voice vote, prompted by a Birmingham, Ala., chapter rule allowing only whites to join. The delegates inserted into the Rotary bylaws a section stating that no club may "limit membership in the club on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin." Jack Friend of Atchison, Kan., asked for an additional ban against restricting membership because of sex, saying he wanted the resolution "taken to the natural conclusion that we are not a discriminatory organization." But Friend's effort was ruled out of order because the Rotary constitution refers to members as "adult male persons" and that document cannot be amended by the convention. Rotary President Stanley E. McCaffrey said the legislative assembly of the organization, which has members in more than 150 countries, would vote in March 1983 on a constitutional amendment to admit women. The amendment then would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote of the delegates of the next Rotary convention. "The role of women in society is approached in many different ways in many different lands," McCaffrey said. "They (other countries) don't necessarily look at women the way we do here." Leslie Wright, past Birmingham chapter president, said the vote to uphold an old, discriminatory constitution was motivated by pride in the chapter's early beginnings - not racism. "We have some outstanding leaders in Birmingham, Alabama, that are members of the black community," Wright said. However, none is a Rotary member, he said. The proposal, which goes into effect July 1 and affects all Rotary chapters, was seconded by Wright to loud applause. "The world now doubts the motives of Rotary," said the 850,000-member group's incoming president, Hiroji Mukasa of Japan. "We must act now to remove any doubt that Rotary believes in the equality of all mankind." McCaffrey proposed the elimination of racial restrictions and, after a rousing speech, secured a standing ovation from the 3,217 delegates representing almost 20,000 Rotary chapters. "To my mind, this is the greatest thing that has ever happened in Rotary," said Shadrach Mgawo Nyabam of Nigeria, whose country was represented by a delegation of 546 members. Harold Eugene Hall, a black delegate from Seattle, called the Birmingham club's actions "idiotic" and an attempt to perhaps tear up all of Rotary. The proposal was put on the convention agenda after Birmingham Rotarians voted in May to retain a 1913 constitution that allows only white males to join the chapter. The Birmingham members are scheduled to vote June 30 on whether to overturn that decision. The members, pressured by Rotary International, voted 208-1 last week to have the board reconsider the matter. On Monday the chapter's board voted unanimously to recommend replacing the 1913 constitution with the standard Rotary constitution drafted in 1922, which has no racial restrictions. The issue was raised by Birmingham Post-Herald editor Angus McCaffrey, who resigned from the club after the May vote. McCaffrey, of Stockton, Calif., said he knows of no other chapters that have racial restrictions.

Man linked to 100 contract murders seized in Florida

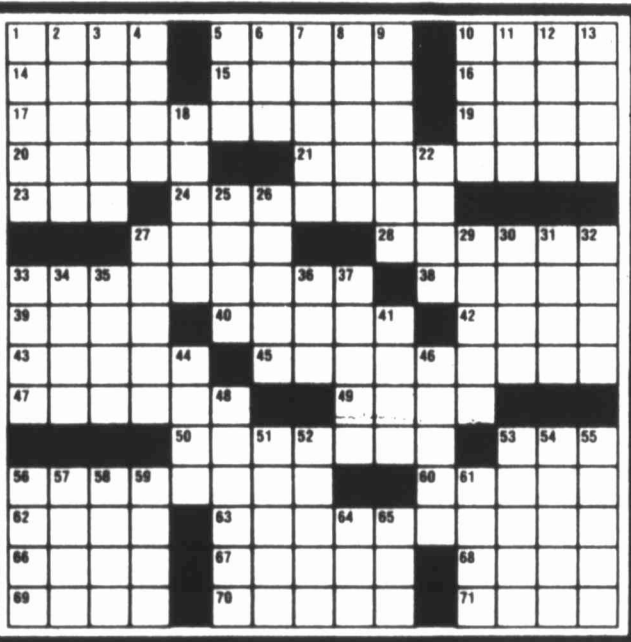

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - A man linked by police to 100 contract murders around the nation was seized along with the deadly tools of a hit man's trade - automatic pistols, silencers, brass knuckles and handcuffs. Bernard Barton Hunwick, being held without bond Wednesday in Broward County jail on charges of attempted murder, kidnapping and armed robbery, may be responsible for "about 100" murders nationwide, said Broward County sheriff's Sgt. Dale Adams. "We have information that Hunwick is one of the biggest hit men in the nation today," Adams said at a news conference Wednesday. Police said Hunwick, 37, of Plantation, was the leader of a small hit squad responsible for 100 to 300 slayings nationwide. He was believed to be linked to 14 slayings in Florida in the last five years, as well as slayings in Boston, New Jersey and Lafayette, Ind. Hunwick was jailed after the shooting of Alan Chafin, 34. The victim was abducted, shot five times May 19 and left for dead on a roadside. He recovered from his wounds. Police believe the shooting was over a drug debt. Hunwick appeared before a county judge Wednesday, was advised of the charges against him and then returned to the jail, said

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A new attitude adopted in business matters and being able to add modern methods to your activities brings desirable advancement, which is important to you at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Analyze your financial situation and make plans to have greater security in the future. Be more encouraging to others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure your activities are well organized before you get started on them. Make plans to have greater abundance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use reason in dealing with both debtors and creditors and you get better results. Express happiness with loved one.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you listen more carefully to what others have to say, you can combine efforts and get fine results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may have a slow start at your work early, but stick to it and then all moves to your advantage. Express happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on how to improve your creative skills. Wait until the afternoon before delving into amusements that appeal to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You know how to go ahead with a new venture, so stop wasting time. Think along optimistic lines and get ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy and improve a routine that could give you increased income in the days ahead. Improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Even though you have other work to do, take time to analyze your monetary status and know where you stand.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your intuition is working fine in the morning, but don't rely on it later. Make long-range plans for the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan a campaign for advancement in your line of endeavor and look for excellent results. Be more aggressive.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If sociability is on your mind, make sure it won't interfere with business matters. Make this a worthwhile day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those capable persons who can formulate a good, practical plan and then carry it through to successful completion. Much success is possible here during lifetime. Don't neglect ethical training.

Documentary on U. S. auto uses nuts and bolts style

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — We drive them; in turn they motor our lifestyle, power the national economy and fuel-inject the American dream. The "Beach Boys" sing tributes to them.
But foreign imports from Japan and the U.S. recession have put the American car industry skidding toward disaster. Domestic cars are not an endangered species, but they are in danger. That's a message from "U.S. Autos: Gearing Up For Survival," which gets the award

American who's been working for Ford for 18 months. He's been consulting Japanese car manufacturers since 1950.

Television

for the most straightforward, full-speed-ahead TV documentary this year.

The program, syndicated by Capital Cities Television Productions, will be broadcast on 150 stations over the next two weeks. Narrated and co-written by Tom Wicker of the New York Times, this pithy documentary proves how much more information TV can offer when it throws glitz and glitter out the window.

"U.S. Autos: Gearing Up For Survival" is no-nonsense, well-communicated, nuts-and-bolts journalism.

Wicker is not your typical blow-dried host. With tie askew, he does his first stand-up in front of Floyd Rice's New And Used Cars. "This is not just Detroit's crisis," he says. "One of six Americans are employed in an auto industry that also produces 18 percent of the U.S.'s goods and services."

Through interviews with the most knowledgeable talking heads in the business, Wicker examines how "the once-complacent auto companies are facing stiff challenges from overseas." They're doing it with science and engineers, which Wicker calls "America's best assets."

America needs to improve car quality. According to the Consumer Reports dot charts, where red is good and black is bad, Japanese cars columns are blood red, meaning they rarely break down. GM cars register a black sea of ink.

Ford, which lost $1 billion in 1981, renegotiated a contract with its workers, cut management salaries and redesigned cars to compete with small imports. Ford, which invented the assembly line, has turned to statistical analyses to bolster quality control.

Highly-praised songwriter starts 1st tour in a decade

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeature Writer
Richard Thompson is a guitarist-singer-songwriter of high praise and low profile.
He, his wife Linda, and a band are touring the United States, his first tour here since 1972 when he toured with Fairport Convention and Sandy Denny was in the group. Richard and Linda Thompson's new LP, "Shoot Out the Lights," on Hannibal Records, is their first released in the United States in about four years.

RICHARD THOMPSON ...new album released

He was here, solo, in January, shortly before his wife had their third child at home in England. The New York Times critic said of him then, "Richard Thompson is almost certainly the greatest English composer of contemporary folk music."

Rolling Stone said of the new record "Richard is a vividly gifted songwriter and a breathtaking guitarist and Linda is a singer of extraordinary grace and subtle power."

The Thompsons made three records for Island, in 1974, 1975 and 1976, and two for Chrysalis, in 1978 and 1980. The first of those, "I Want To See the Bright Lights Tonight," probably sold the best, Thompson says, though "Shoot Out the Lights" may do as well. "It helps a great deal to be touring," he says. "It helps to create interest in the record."

Thompson also cut an instrumental record, "Strict Tempo," for his own label, Elixir. He says, "That was a direct result of the recession in the British record industry. Chrysalis dropped us. It was hard to find another deal. In the meantime it would be nice to release something. It also seemed a better idea to release something at a tangent to what we usually do and leave ourselves open to doing another vocal record at another time."

"I'd been thinking about it a long time. Here was the opportunity. I think Hannibal will release it in the U.S. later this year."

Thompson says the instrumental record "is mostly traditional dance music from Britain with the odd Duke Ellington number and one thing I wrote on it. It's basically solo, with a drum on some tracks. It's multitracked, made extremely cheaply but doesn't sound cheap. I played an acoustic and electric guitar and mandolin mostly."

"There is one track that is Elizabethan; a North African tune is probably twice as old as that." The Ellington piece was "Rockin' in Rhythm," which Thomson said he gave "a string band version."

Joe Boyd, president of Hannibal Records, with headquarters in New York and an office in London, then signed the Thompsons to his label. Thompson says, "He's an old friend of mine; he used to produce Fairport Convention. He produced this album, too. We recorded to need songs to finish." Thompson met singer Linda Peters through Sandy Denny, vocalist in Fairport Convention. He says of Miss Denny, "She was a very fine singer; she died tragically. She was one of the great but underrated singers."

In 1972, Thompson, Nicol and Miss Peters toured in England together and in that year Thompson and Miss Peters married. They have three children, 8, 6 and 3 months, none of whom came to America for the tour here. They live in London.

The U.S. tour started, Thompson says, "with us going up and down the East Coast, in no logical order. A week after an appearance at New York's Bottom Line, usually a rock hall, the Thompsons were back in the Lone Star, a country spot. There was one Hank Williams song on the program at each place."

Their music, Thompson says, is "mostly the one style, traditional-based contemporary music." It often is called folk rock. Thompson says, "I don't see what it has to do with folk. Traditional and folk to me aren't the same. Traditional means the accumulated songs of a particular place or country. They've been handed down, usually orally, and they're still performed."

"Folk would be the music of a community, usually a working community or a poor community, that is thrown up from that environment. These days, communication has altered the world so much that communities are no longer isolated. Now, especially in England, bank clerks can get together in clubs or pubs and sing sea chanteys. Folk music is good fun but it's a middle-class hobby."

Thompson says he listens to music a lot, though not to other guitarists. "I listen to a lot of British traditional music, classical, pop, gospel, country. I love Hank Williams and Felice and Boudleaux Bryant who used to write for the Everly Brothers. They had something in common with the old Scottish ballad tradition — the ability to get a whole story into one verse."

BIG SPRING (TEXAS), THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1982

Funeral escorts get bigger lights

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

The city will spend up to $400 to purchase equipment to heighten visibility of motorcycles used in funeral escorts, Big Spring city councilmen decided last night.

The council also approved a proposal by City Manager Don Davis to hire an additional clerk so the fire department can assume the responsibility of weed and junked vehicle abatement.

Also, the council approved the purchase of 120,000 postcard type utility statements from Gage, Van Horn and Associates with advertising space on the cards sold to Citizens Federal Credit Union.

The $400 allocated for the motorcycle escort service will be used to purchase four large rotating lights that can be elevated above the motorcycles to improve visibility, Davis said. Local ministers had complained that the motorcycles weren't visible enough and had led to some near traffic accidents.

The council decided to continue using the present service with off-duty policemen using their own motorcycles, with the additional equipment purchased by the city for a six-month trial period.

"It's more appropriate for the city to buy the equipment," Davis said. "If the program is abandoned, the equipment could be utilized for the dog catcher truck or some other department."

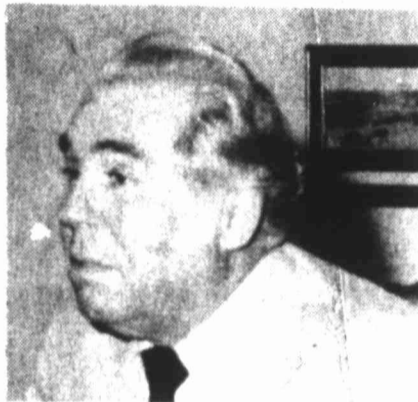

In other action, the council approved hiring a clerk to handle the paper work involved in issuing citations for failure to comply with a city code requiring property owners to not allow "or permit weeds, trash, etc., to accumulate or remain on any lot."

The code provides that the owner can be served 10 days' notice to correct the condition. Failure to do so will mean the city may do the work, charging the owner for expenses as a lien on the lot.

Failure to pay the citation is classified as a class C misdemeanor, Davis said.

Rather than employing additional personnel to care for city property, street and parks personnel will provide the labor on an overtime basis, Davis said.

Also last night, the bid on utility billing statements was awarded to Gage, Van Horn and Associates in Abilene, who submitted the low bid of $1,098.

PASTOR CLAUDE CRAVEN
Wants better escorts

Finance Director Tom Ferguson said in a memo to the council that selection of the postcard utility statement represents a cost savings of $16,165 over the current billing method.

The $2,400 projected revenues from the advertising on the card will be turned over to the water fund and used to help offset postage costs, Davis said.

Davis said the only problem he foresees with the postcard billing method is "the effect on cash flow." "It's been said that you don't get payments back as quickly" because no return envelope is provided by the city, Davis noted.

In another matter, the council agreed to discuss at a later date a proposed ordinance to prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages on public property between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

In other business, the council: •Heard a presentation on a proposed land lease and hangar project by Hexagon Buildings Inc. of Austin.

•Approved the first reading of an ordinance requesting a zoning change from two-family to office in the 1700 block of Main.

•Approved the final reading of an ordinance establishing regulations for the design and construction of access driveways, both commercial and residential.

•Approved the first reading of an ordinance setting minimum specifications for fixed-base operators at the airport.

•Approved the first reading of a resolution authorizing the mayor to execute a lease agreement with Trans Regional Air.

•Approved a resolution urging the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation to select Highway 87 as a four-lane limited access highway connection between Interstate 27 and Interstate 10.

•Appointed Bob Gribble, a State National Bank vice president, to the city's Planning and Zoning Board.

Wanted: local rodeo entries

Can't have a local rodeo without local cowboys.

Entries for the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion — Rodeo are being taken today, with a deadline set for tomorrow at 5 p.m.

You can enter at the Driver Insurance Agency, 215 Runnels.

Hours to enter are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrow.

All entry fees and charges must be paid in cash at the time of entry, according to rodeo organizers.

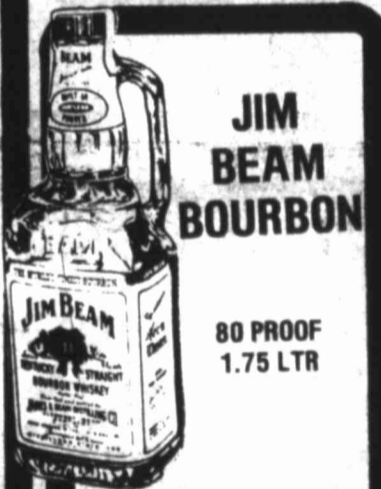

This year's annual rodeo will be held at the county's rodeo bowl June 23 through 26.

Winnsboro man arrested here

A Winnsboro man was released to the Wood County Sheriff's Office after being arrested by local police on a charge of driving while license suspended. Thomas Richard Sipes, 34, was transferred from Howard County jail while being held on $1,000 bond.

Bond for Sipes was set by Howard County Judge Bill Tume. Sipes was charged in Wood County on a warrant of probation violation, officials said.

Wayne Howard Brown, 67, of Lamesa, was released from Howard County jail on $1,000 bond after being charged with driving while intoxicated.

Johnny Lee Dugan, 34, of 1411 Princeton, was released from jail on two bonds totaling $2,000. Dugan was charged with DWI and driving while license suspended, officials said.

Howard County Sheriff's deputies said they arrested Erza Cecil Eddins, 56, of Odessa on a charge of disorderly conduct. Eddins was fined $36 by Justice of the Peace Bob West and released, according to courthouse records.

Jerry Wayne Byford, 36, of Denver City, was transferred out of Big Spring to Tarrant County authorities yesterday. Byford was arrested June 2 by city police on a Tarrant County warrant of fraud, officials said.

Two persons were sentenced to seven-year terms each in the Texas Department of Corrections Friday by state 118th District Judge Jim Gregg. Travis Eugene Jones, 17, and Tommy Gene Jones, 19, both of 1506 Chickasaw, pleaded guilty to aggravated robbery before sentencing.

GREAT TIRES AT GREAT PRICES ...at Creighton Tire Co. in Big Spring

Creighton Tire Co.: for tires, tune ups

Creighton Tire Co. at 601 Gregg Street in Big Spring is one of the best places in town to get your engine tuned up or tires checked. They've long been recognized as experienced tire salesmen and repairmen — now they offer tune ups on any make of car for a reasonable price.

WITH HOT weather here, you need to have your engine checked one last time. Creighton Tire Co. can service your car's cooling system and make sure you have enough coolant to keep you running trouble-free throughout the summer.

There is nothing more important for your safety than having tires that are in good condition. If your car's tires are badly worn they will not have the traction they may need in an emergency situation.

To be safe, check with Creighton's. It is one of the most experienced tire businesses around, and manager Dalton Carr is one of the most experienced tire businessmen in the Big Spring area.

Creighton's features Michelin and Sonic tires, two of the best and safest tires on the market today. Michelin makes tires for both big and small cars.

Call Carr and let him tell you about the special advantages in safety and cost that Michelin and Sonic tires can offer.

Creighton Tire Co. also does tire balancing and can service brake shoes. They can also service foreign cars.

The number at Creighton is 267-7021.

FINDING THE RIGHT PERSON FOR THE RIGHT JOB — Sue Brown and Rubi Taroni, personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

Big Spring Employment puts right person in job

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a position is better assured by calling a professional employment service such as Big Spring Employment Agency, located in the Coronado Plaza.

Finding the right person for the right job is the duty of Mrs. Sue Brown and Mrs. Rubi Taroni, the experienced personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment.

EACH EMPLOYER has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements for the work, the salary to be offered and the availability of applicants. With this mind, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Taroni carefully evaluate each applicant so employers do not waste time interviewing persons not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only those who measure up to the job's requirements.

Thus, fewer rejections plague the employer and the applicant. The employer sees fewer applicants, and fewer rejections make for better public relations. There is also a smaller personnel turnover, and the efficiency of employees tends to rise.

Many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the services of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

Big Spring Employment carries on an extensive testing program in the area of office skills, exposing applicants to personnel tests in business and industrial situations.

Both the employment counselors and the employers may refer to these tests as an indicator of future possibilities.

ALL SERVICES are handled on a confidential basis.

From the minimum-wage clerk to the highly-paid executive, job applicants come to Big Spring Employment because they know private agencies are specialists in job hunting and can, because of experience and contacts, place them in desirable jobs sooner than they can locate job themselves.

Applicants desiring employment in other parts of the state or country can be referred for interviews through associated agencies.

Smith chosen as teacher of year by auxiliary

Jimmy Smith, speech instructor at Big Spring High School, was presented the annual Teacher of the Year award of the Veteran of Foreign War Auxiliary at a meeting at the Post Home, June 1.

A Loyalty Day Program also was presented at Immaculate Heart of Mary School on May 17. The students in the first, second and third grades drew posters about Loyalty. Students in fifth, sixth and seventh grades wrote essays. The posters were displayed in the lobby of the VA Medical Center on Memorial Day.

Mrs. Ethel Knapp was elected president of District 25 Auxiliary at the District 25 convention held in Odessa, May 15-16. Clara Lewis was appointed secretary of the district and Katie Spivey was appointed District Musician.

A savings bond was presented to Jerry Grimes Jr., for winning first place in the Voice of Democracy Program at BSHS.

The Auxiliary, assisted by Boy Scout Troop No. 16, had a Poppy sale on May 29. A Memorial Day service also was held at the VA Medical Center on May 31.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be July 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the Post Home.

Installation held...

Mrs. Leroy McKendree was installed as Worthy Matron of Laura B. Hart, No. 1019, Order of the Eastern Star during a ceremony in the Masonic Hall, 2101 Lancaster, June 4. Serving with Mrs. McKendree as Worthy Patron will be E.A. Fiveash.

The invocation was given by Ross Callahan. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Marzee Wright, the first Worthy Matron of the chapter. She was assisted by Mrs. Richard McCormick, installing marshal; Mrs. Tom Martin, installing chaplain; Mrs. Brookie Martin, installing organist, and Mrs. E.A. Fiveash, installing secretary, promoter.

Mrs. McKendree's theme will be "Friendship". Her motto is "First There was a Wagon." Her emblem is "The White Wheel." Her colors are colors of gingham and white lace while her flowers are "all the flowers combined with beautiful wood." Her scripture comes from I Kings, 7:33.

Officers installed were Mrs. Paul Malone, associate Matron; Paul Sweatt, associate Patron; Mrs. Richard Sayers, conductress; Mrs. Louise Klein, associate conductress; Mrs. Marvin Steen, secretary, and Mrs. C.C. Hughes, treasurer. Others were Mrs. Wright, chaplain; Mrs. Carol Huff, marshal; Mrs. Noel Reed, organist; Mrs. Errol Porter, Adah; Mrs. Paul Sweatt, Ruth; Alice Sayers, Ester; Mrs. Fiveash, Martha; Mrs. Evie Eastham, Electa, Marvin Steen, Warder, and Mrs. Bill Smelser, Sentinel.

Mrs. Martin played background music while candles were lighted by Mrs. Steen. The Bible was read by Leigh Ann McKendree and the Square and Compass was presented by Mark McKendree.

Mrs. Steen presented Mrs. McKendree with the traveling Worthy Matron's pin. Steen presented Mrs. Steen with the past Matron's pin and Edith Knous presented Verlin Knous with the Past Patron's pin.

Violin solos were given by Mrs. M.A. Barber, accompanied by Linda Lindell. Mrs. McKendree presented all officers and installing officers with hand crocheted corsages made by Mrs. Klein.

The Past Matron's Gave Club presented the Worthy Matron's workbook. A Bible marker was presented by Mrs. Fiveash; a guest book by Mrs. Sweatt; a picture album by Fiveash and a gavel by the installing officers.

Dear Abby

Son's letters worth thousand gifts

DEAR ABBY: Just before Mother's Day you ran the following item: "Confidential to Junior Citizens: Next Sunday is Mother's Day. You're broke? Don't sweat it. Sit down and write her a letter, telling her how much you appreciate her, and don't worry about getting too sentimental. I promise you, she'll appreciate it more than a $100 gift. (And I'll bet she saves it.)"

Well, I wasn't exactly a "junior citizen" at age 34, and I wasn't broke, either, but I took your suggestion. I want you to know that my 74-year-old mother said that my letter was the finest Mother's Day gift she had ever received, and that's saying something because she has eight other children!

Please run that suggestion every year.

MICHAEL

DEAR MICHAEL: I shall. And thanks for a perfect segue to remind my readers that June 20 is Father's Day. And since fathers are just as sentimental as mothers, the

DEAR ABBY: Prior to Mother's Day you had a "Confidential to Junior Citizens" suggesting that an appropriate gift for Mother would be a letter of appreciation. May I suggest that such a letter to Father would be just as valid on Father's Day? I know, because my 28-year-old son, Eric, who lives in Houston, sent me that kind of gift, and it was the greatest present I have ever received. No amount of money could have brought anything that could have pleased me more. In fact, I framed the original and am sending you a copy.

JOHN TAYLOR, MERRITT ISLAND, FLA.

TO MY FATHER ON FATHER'S DAY
I remember my dad when he would come and sleep with me so the "boogie man" wouldn't get me.

I remember when my dad helped me win the space derby when I was in Cub Scouts.

I remember when my dad helped me to tie my first necktie before going to church.

I remember my dad teaching me how to drive when I was 16.

I remember my dad cheering me on when I won a swim meet.

I remember my dad looking proud when I graduated from high school.

I remember my dad when I first moved out of the house — on my own.

I remember my dad when we buried his father and then his mother.

I remember my dad's joy when my own son was born. I will always remember that no man on earth will ever have a greater influence on me and my life than my father.

4-Her prepares bread for contest

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer
Using new and different recipes can make a typical meal a gourmet dinner. In a short time, you can make a great dinner by using new recipes, that are real contest winners. The following recipes can provide a whole meal with a new taste.

SUGARPLUM BREAD
Paula Allen
4 1/2 to 5 cups of sifted flour
2 packages of active dry yeast
1/4 tsp. of nutmeg
1-3rd cup of milk
1/2 cup of sugar
1/4 cup of shortening
1 1/2 tps. of salt
2 eggs
1/2 tsp. of vanilla
1 cup of nuts
1/2 cup of cherries or mixed fruits

Combine 2 1/2 cups of flour, yeast, and nutmeg. Heat milk, sugar, shortening and salt until warm; stir to melt shortening. Add to dry ingredients. Add eggs, vanilla, nuts, fruit and enough remaining flour to make a soft dough.

Turn out on lightly floured surface and let rest 10 minutes. (Resting allows flour to absorb liquid and tightens dough, making it easier to handle.) Knead unit until smooth, for 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl. Turn dough until lightly greased on all sides. (This keeps a crust from forming on the outside of the dough. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 1 hour. Punch down. Divide dough in half. Cover and let rest for 10 minutes. Shape half the dough into Baby Sugarplums, half into Little Sugarplums loaves, or shape into 2 Sugarplum Round loaves.

BABY SUGARPLUMS
Divide half the dough in six pieces. Shape each piece into six balls. Place in greased muffin pans. Cover and let rise until almost doubled, 45 to 60 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. If desired drizzle each with glaze and trim in walnuts.

LITTLE SUGARPLUM LOAVES
Divide half the dough in four pieces. Shape each into a loaf. Place in 4 greased 4 1/2 x 3 x 2 inch loaf pans. Cover and let rise until almost doubled. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Drizzle each with glaze and trim with candied or other fruit.

SUGARPLUM ROUND LOAVES
Shape each half into a ball. Place on greased baking sheets and pat top to flatten slightly. Cover and let rise again until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Drizzle with glaze and trim with candied or other fruit.

CONFECTIONER'S SUGAR GLAZE
1 Tbsp. of milk or light cream
1 cup of confectioner's sugar (sift if lumpy)
1 tsp. of vanilla
Add enough milk to sugar to make desired consistency. Add vanilla. Stir to blend well.

BORSCH
Doris Paschall
1/2 pound or 1 small head of cabbage, chopped
3 1/4 cups of water
1 8-ounce can of diced beets
1-3rd cup of borsch soup base
Add cabbage to water; bring to a boil. Add beets, tomato paste and borsch soup base. Simmer for 10 to 15 minutes. Yields 1 quart.

ITALIAN CREAM CAKE
1/2 cup of margarine
1/2 cup of vegetable shortening
2 cups of sugar
5 eggs
2 cups of flour, sifted 2 times
1 tsp. of soda
1 cup of buttermilk
1 3 1/2-ounce can of coconut
1 cup of chopped nuts
1 tsp. of vanilla extract
1 tsp. of coconut flavor

Separate eggs and beat whites until stiff. Set aside. Cream margarine, vegetable shortening, and sugar. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Dissolve soda in buttermilk; add alternately with flour. Beat well. Add coconut, coconut flavor, nuts and vanilla extract. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into 3 greased and floured 9-inch cake pans, using 2 cups of batter in each pan. Bake in preheated 350 degrees oven for 25 minutes.

CREAM CHEESE ICING
1 8-ounce package of cream cheese, softened
1/2 cup of margarine
1 1-pound box of powdered sugar

1 tsp. of almond extract
Combine ingredients and beat well. Spread between layers and on top of cooled cake.

SWEET AND SOUR SAUSAGE
1 green pepper
1 onion
3 tomatoes
1 lb. of smoked ring

sausage
1 Tbsp. of cornstarch
1/2 tsp. of ginger
1/2 tsp. of dry mustard
1/4 tsp. of garlic flakes
1 Tbsp. of vinegar
1 Tbsp. of soy sauce
1/2 cup of apricot preserves
2 cups of pineapple chunks, drained
Rice
Cut pepper, onion, tomatoes and sausage into pieces and saute for five minutes. In separate container, combine cornstarch, ginger, dry mustard, garlic flakes, vinegar, soy sauce and apricot preserves. Stir into sausage mixture. Heat until thickened. Add pineapple chunks and continue cooking until heated through. Serve over rice. Make 4-6 servings.

MEATBALL STEW
1 1/2 pounds of ground beef
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup of small bread crumbs
1/4 cup of finely chopped onion
2 Tbsp. of beef soup and gravy concentrated
1 cup of water
1 can (16 1/2 oz.) of condensed tomato soup

1/4 tsp. of Italian seasoning
1 can (1 pound) of sliced carrots, drained
1 can (1 pound) whole white potatoes, drained
1 can (8 oz.) small whole white onions, drained parsley
2 Tbsp. of shortening
Combine beef, egg, bread cubes and onions, shape into

CLAM CHOWDER
3 cups of water
1 cup of diced raw potatoes
1/2 cup of finely chopped onion
1-3rd cup of chopped celery
1/2 cup of cream soup base
1/4 cup of flour
1 cup of milk
1 6 1/2-ounce can of minced clams, undrained
Simmer vegetables in 1 1/2 cups of water in a covered 2-quart saucepan until tender. Do not drain. Combine cream soup base and flour. Add milk and the remaining

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP
3 cups of water
1/2 cup of finely chopped onions
1/2 cup of cream soup base
1/4 cup of flour
1 cup of milk
1 8-ounce can of diced asparagus
Simmer onions in 1 1/2 cups of water in a covered, 2-quart saucepan. Do not drain. Combine cream soup base and flour. Add milk and remaining water. Add this slowly to the onion-water, while stirring. Add the asparagus. Bring to a full boil, stirring occasionally to prevent scorching on bottom. Yields 1 1/2 quarts.

BROCCOLI, Cauliflower, Celery, Mushrooms or Spinach may be substituted for or combined with the asparagus.

TURTLE TREATS
1 1/2 cups of flour
1/2 cup of packed brown sugar
1/4 tsp. of salt
1/4 tsp. of soda
1/4 tsp. of vanilla extract
1/4 tsp. of maple flavor
1/2 cup of butter or margarine; softened
2 eggs (reserve 1 white)
2 cups of pecan halves
Chocolate frosting
In large mixer bowl combine all ingredients except pecans and frosting. Blend well at low speed. Chill dough until stiff enough to handle. Arrange pecan halves in groups of 3 or 5 on greased cookie sheets to resemble head and legs of turtle. Shape dough into balls, using a round tablespoon for each. Dip bottom of balls into unbeaten egg white; press lightly onto nuts. Be sure tip of pecans will show when cookie is baked. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Do not overbake. Cool; frost tops with chocolate frosting.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING
2 cups of powdered sugar
1/2 cup of chocolate dessert mix
1/4 cup of vegetable oil
1-3rd cup of cream
1/2 tsp. of vanilla nut extract
Combine ingredients in medium-size bowl and mix with beater for about 2 minutes or until desirable spreading consistency. Add more cream or powdered sugar as needed. *Makes about 30 cookies.

SEAFOOD NEWBURG
Joan Rock
1/4 cup of butter
1 1/2 cups of salt
1 1/2 cups of light cream
1/4 cup of dry sherry or water
1 1/2 Tbsps. of flour
1 tsp. monosodium glutamate
2 egg yolks
1 pkg. of cooked lobster, crab, shrimp (12 oz.)
Melt butter in 1 1/2 qt. glass casserole in microwave oven. Blend in flour and salt. Combine cream and egg yolk; mix well. Stir into flour mixture to form a smooth paste. Add sherry and seafood. Cover. Cook for 6 minutes, stir, and cook for 5 to 6 minutes longer, or until mixture thickens. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. Serve over toast, patty shells, or cooked rice.

TAMUNUT TOFFEE BAR
Cream together:
1/2 cup of margarine
1/2 cup of shortening
1 cup of brown sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon of vanilla
Add to creamed mixture:
1 1/2 cups of all-purpose flour
1/2 cup of glandless cottonseed flour
1/4 teaspoon of salt
Press into greased 9x13" pan or cookie sheet with sides. Bake at 350 Degrees F.

Pageant looking for contestants
The next Miss Texas USA Pageant will be Aug. 16. Women between the ages of 17 and 24 will be competing. Women interested in competing in the pageant as a contestant-at-large for Miss Midland and Miss Odessa will be interviewed by Paula Leach, the Midland-Odessa area director. Two women will then be chosen by Miss Leach to compete as contestants-at-large for Midland and Odessa in the final Miss Texas USA competition. Each contestant must meet the following qualifications: Entrant must be a high school graduate, at least 17 years old by May 1, 1982 and under 25 years of age by May 1, 1983. She may compete in only one state pageant in any pageant year and must be a resident of the city or county which she is selected to represent in the Miss Texas USA Pageant. Each contestant-at-large must agree to assume all financial responsibilities concurrent to participation in the Miss Texas USA Pageant. She may secure sponsors to assist her in meeting these requirements. Franchise fee to the Miss Texas USA Pageant is $500. Anyone interested in competing for Miss Midland or Miss Odessa should contact Pamela Leach, Area Director for Midland-Odessa-Miss Texas USA, (915)694-1663.

Police Beat Funding's rough for spouse abuse

Wallet stolen at city pool

Joe Tolson of P.O. Box 1703 told police that at 6 p.m. yesterday someone stole his billfold and contents, valued at $15, from a city pool locker with a combination lock.

• Equipment of an unknown value was stolen from the Evans Tank Co. in the Big Spring Industrial Park sometime between 4:30 p.m. and 8:50 p.m. yesterday, police said.

• Delores Heler of the Northcrest Apartments, 1002 N. Main, reported to police that at 11:57 p.m. yesterday someone damaged the windows on a pickup truck owned by Mark Brightman of Mountain Trailer Park while the truck was parked at the apartments.

• Jeff Prosen, whose address was listed as West Third, told police that at 3:40 p.m. yesterday a person known to him broke the windshield of his Camaro automobile while it was parked at the city pool, causing $400 damage.

• Larry Stevens of 1407 Wood reported to police that at 3 p.m. yesterday a person known to him struck his juvenile son and knocked him off his bicycle.

• Peggy Davenport of the Northcrest Apartments, at 1002 N. Main told police that at 12:30 p.m. yesterday a male juvenile dropped a cooking pot on her head from the apartment above hers.

• Jamee Scarbro of 516 Edwards reported to police that at 9:45 p.m. yesterday two men tried to run over him with a vehicle while he was walking in the 400 block of Edwards, according to police.

• A Yamaha motorcycle driven by Joe Marvin Tolson of Box 1703 Wasson and a GMC pickup driven by Ella Raffett Morrison of 2806 Coronado, according to police. Tolson was ticketed for improper passing, police said. Only minor injuries were reported.

Staff Writer

The Texas Senate Committee on Human Resources held a hearing in Big Spring yesterday on methods of responding to spouse abuse, and committee staff members were told that funding is a problem with most family violence shelters.

The hearing was the sixth in a series by the committee and is part of a comprehensive study of family violence. The study was mandated by Senate Resolution 764 passed during the 67th Legislature, which directed the committee to deliver its findings to the 68th Legislature prior to convening in 1983.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena, chairman of the committee, was unable to attend the hearing, which was held at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Two members of his staff presided over the testimony.

"We're here to generate discussion, publicity, ideas and opinions on the subject of spouse abuse," said Duwain Dumas, a member of Brooks' staff. "So far, we've gotten a lot of good ideas and we encourage people to come and give us ideas."

Dumas said the hearings were concentrating on availability and adequacy of services for victims, effectiveness of current Texas statutes and the response of the criminal justice system.

Another staff member, Leslie Lemon, pointed out that most family violence shelters serve battered women and provide a haven for them. She said the shelters furnish counseling and housing for a limited time until the woman can get herself and her family situated either at home without the threat of violence or away from the source of violence.

The subject of funding was foremost in all testimony given, whether it was for the expansion of facilities or pay increases for staff employees.

Laura Lee Bachman, director of the San Angelo shelter for battered and abused spouses, said the funding for such shelters are based on a city's population rather than on the amount of people served by a particular shelter — a regulation she would like to see changed.

"Allocation based on population may be adequate for some areas, but when you operate twenty-four hours a day like we do, there's just not enough money to go around," she said. Mrs. Bachman said the San Angelo center possibly could serve more people than another shelter in a larger city, but gets less funding because of a smaller population.

Dr. Paul Madden, a professor at Abilene Christian University, advocated extra funding to attract and keep qualified professional personnel in the field of social work.

He said he had seen quite a few social work graduates leave the field because salaries did not compensate for long hours and stress encountered in the job of family violence counseling.

Diane Mahaffey, director of a family violence center in Abilene called NOAH, echoed Madden by saying her center was "in need of trained staff personnel to deal with on going family violence."

Mrs. Mahaffey also stressed the need for complete family counseling that involved not only the battered woman, but also her husband and children.

As for abused spouses in Big Spring, Detective Pat Dunnam of the Big Spring Police Department said in most cases the women are referred to local ministers, the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Outreach Clinic at Big Spring State Hospital, or family violence shelters in Midland and Odessa.

Ms. Dunnam said all the police can do is refer the women to one of these counseling centers and hope they heed the department's advice.

The hearing drew only 10 people from the surrounding area and only four of those 10 testified; however, committee staff member Leslie Lemon said she was pleased with the quality of ideas expressed. Also testifying was Sally Brammer of the Permian Basin Shelter for Battered Women in Midland and Odessa.

The results of the hearing will be summarized and sent to each senator, according to Mrs. Lemon.

C-City hires 2 patrolmen

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council last night hired two new patrolmen and heard a recommendation from new Chief of Police Ed Wheat to hire a Snyderman as police lieutenant for the city.

The council okayed the hiring of officers Robert Taylor and Charles Goins to replace officers who resigned in April.

Wheat's choice for lieutenant is Chester Simons, 39, of Snyder, who has 18 years of police experience, according to Wheat.

The council is considering Simon for the position, according to a spokeswoman for the city.

However, the council did approve a bi-weekly salary of $585.60 for the lieutenant position, the spokeswoman said. Wheat replaced former police chief Jimmy Roundtree, who was indicted by a grand jury in late May on simple assault and official oppression charges.

HC summer classes open for enrollment

Dan Shockey, administrative dean for Howard College, has announced that there are a number of slots available for young people to enroll in summer courses through the Continuing Education Department at the college.

The special summer program, referred to as College For Kids, includes a number of special-interest, self-improvement courses designed especially for young people aged nine to 14. The College For Kids is organized and coordinated by Ms. Josie Salazar, associate director for adult and continuing education.

"The program was such a success last summer, that we wanted to repeat this special experience for young people again this summer," Ms. Salazar said.

Shockey added that College For Kids is an extension of the regular Continuing Education and Adult Basic Education Program of Howard College.

Young people may register for classes by reporting to the continuing education office located in the Horace Garrett Building. The office is open for registration from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday. Students should enroll immediately in order to receive the full benefit of the course, Shockey said.

According to Ms. Salazar, enrollment is being accepted in the following courses:

Fun With Math, Photography and Darkroom, Reading Improvement, Body Building, Racquetball, Typing, Small Engine Repair, Gymnastics, Aerobics, Fun With Art and Beginning Computers.

For information regarding the dates, days and times of these class meetings, interested persons may contact the continuing education office at Howard College at 267-6311, extension 216.

Griffin signs Snyder pitcher

Howard College baseball coach Bill Griffin beefed up his pitching corps with two recent signings of West Texas high school standouts.

District 2-AAAA Most Valuable Player John Wilson has signed a scholarship agreement to play on the first Hawk baseball team next season. He joins Abilene Cooper all-district pitcher-outfielder Billy Mitchell on a team that now includes five local and are players.

Wilson struck out 90 batters in 73 innings this past spring while compiling a 10-1 record. His earned run average of 1.43 helped the Tigers win a sixth straight district title and advance into the AAAA state playoffs. Snyder lost 7-3 and 3-1 to Lubbock Estacado, a team that will be in Austin for the final four state championship series this week.

When not pitching, Wilson contributed his skills as a third baseman. In addition, the senior batted .396 at the plate.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy-intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy-saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation. To buy, sell, trade or rent, place your ad in the classified section, CALL 263-7331 Herald Classifieds Get Results! BIG SPRING HERALD
