Argentine troops surrender

By The Associated Press

The Union Jack flew today over the capital of the Falkland Islands, a British reporter said, and Argentine troops throughout the islands surrendered to British forces that had shattered the defenses at the Stanley garrison.

British Defense Ministry sources said about 14,800 Argentine soldiers laid down their arms, 11,000 of them in Stanley alone. The figure astonished British commanders, who had estimated Argentine troop strength on the Falklands at about 8,500, the sources said.

The office of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher announced early today that Argentina had formally surrendered at 9 p.m. Falklands time (8 p.m. EDT), after a 74-day war that began with the Argentine invasion of the islands April 2 and killed a total of more than 1,000 servicemen, according to British count.

Independent Television News correspondent Michael Nicholson reported later from Stanley that British forces had raised their country's flag over the governor's Government sources said Britain was working through the Swiss Embassy in Buenos Aires to secure a stable peace on the South Atlantic archipelago.

The Buenos Aires government announced that the military commanders of the two forces had drawn up a document "establishing the conditions for a cease-fire and the withdrawal of the (Argentine) troops." The junta's communique made no mention of surrender, but said the document would be made public when the text is available. "Great Britain is great again,"

Mrs. Thatcher said outside her Downing Street office just before midnight Monday. A crowd of about 100 sang "Rule Britannia" and "God Save the Queen" as she returned from addressing Parliament.

Aides to Mrs. Thatcher said she was considering a visit to the Falklands and had postponed her scheduled address Wednesday at the U.N. special session on disarmament in New York until later in the week.

The official communique from her residence at 10 Downing Street quoted marine Maj. Gen. Jeremy Moore, commander of British land forces on the Falklands, as saying that arrangements were being made to assemble the captured Argentines for return to the mainland with their arms and equipment.

"Falkland Islands once more under the government desired by their inhabitants — God save the Queen," Moore's message read.

With his forces poised on the outskirts of Stanley, Moore had flown through a snowstorm into the Argentine garrison to accept the surrender from Brig. Gen. Mario Benjamin Menendez, British

Lions honor Andries

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Boys' Club Director Charles (Bert) Andries was named Outstanding Citizen of the Year by the Big Spring Evening Lions Club yesterday.

Meeting at 7 p.m. in Furr's Cafeteria, the Lions honored Andries in recognition of "what he does for the community," said second vice-president John Reilly in his presentation speech.

"You can tell Bert really cares about the place and really cares about the children. It's obvious," Reilly said.

Andries said the Boys Club has grown in membership from 150 in 1971, when it first became a full-time operation, to 550 in 1982. The club began in 1967 on a parttime basis, he said.

"It's really the citizens of Big Spring that run the Boys Club," Andries said. He gave credit to local citizens for both moral and financial support by contributing to the club indirectly through donations to the United Way.

Club officers for 1983 also were named last night. The new directors are Dee Rounsaville and Larry Sheppard, one-year directors, and Milton Kirby and Gene Kimble, two-year directors.

1983 Lions president is Douglas Hedges. Vice presidents are Al Valdes, first vice president; John Reilly, second vice president; and Dennis Smiley, third vice president.

The new officers will take position in July.

County OKs work in district clerk office

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners yesterday approved a bid of $1,875 for painting the furniture in the district clerk's office in the county courthouse. Only one bid was submitted to the commissioners, by D.D. Johnston.

In other action, the commissioners discussed construction costs to the county and Energas Co. for proposed state improvements on Highway 87 toward Forsan. All pipelines and right-of-ways have to be cleared before construction can begin. Various companies are having to move pipelines with the county providing aid but most costs have been carried by the companies.

Energas had proposed its $36,042 cost be paid solely by the county. The commissioners moved to provide Energas the same service as other companies, noting Cosden had paid close to $60,000 for its pipeline moves.

Commissioners also approved new county employees and salary increases. They are the following: Melba Soles of the county attorney's office, raise to $998 a month, also the hiring of a legal assistant for the attorney's office; Deputy Sheriff

George Thurman's regular six-month raise of $50 a month; Lorie Bristow, hired May 13 in the county treasurer's office and Jill Vernon, hired May 13 in the county tax office.

A proposed meeting with Larry Skiles on the possibility of the commissioners setting up a financial housing authority, a political entity to process low-interest housing loans, was postponed due to Skiles' absence. The commissioners had met with Skiles in May and decided to check out the proposal with local lending institutions.

Rodeo opens June 23

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Clowns, cowboys, ropers and wrestlers will converge in Big Spring for the 49th annual Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo slated for June 23-26 at the rodeo bowl on the west side of town.

The four-day event will kick off with a downtown parade at 4 p.m. Wednesday, June 23. Nightly dances will be held at the fair barn with Hoyle Nix' West Texas Cowboys providing the music.

"We take pride in putting on an entertaining, fast-moving event with the best cowboys, best stock and best performers," rodeo director Skipper Driver said. "It's geared strictly for family entertainment."

There are 345 total contestants registered for the seven events in the rodeo, the number down from the total 424 contestants entered last year. Driver said he partially attributed the decrease to another rodeo being held

About 20 past champions will compete in Reno, Nev. at the same time. Approximately 20 past champions and national finalists will compete locally in the bare back and saddle bronc, bull riding, calf and team roping, steer wrestling and barrel racing events.

Driver said the rodeo is "probably the largest single drawing card ... bringing people to this area" on a yearly basis.

Livestock will be furnished by Tommy Steiner of the X Bar S Ranch in Austin, which produces "for most of the bigger rodeos in both the state and nation." Driver said. The ranch has furnished the livestock for the Big Spring rodeo for 15 years, he added.

Performances will begin at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for children purchased in advance or at the gate. Thursday, June 24, is half-price night for tickets purchased at the gate.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Unemployment

Q. How long do you have to work at a job before you are eligible for unemployment?

A. According to Gerald Damm, local Texas Employment Commission manager, it's not how long you work, it's how much you earn. Another aspect of determining eligibility for benefits is the reason for separation from a job, but length of employment doesn't matter, Damm said. Questions about unemployment can be referred to TEC, Damm added.

Calendar: Artists meet

TUESDAY

The Big Spring Art Association meets at 7:30 p.m. at the Kentwood Community Activity Center with Carolyn Mauldin of Lubbock providing an artist's demonstration.

WEDNESDAY

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will meet at noon at 215 W. Third for a regular meeting.

THURSDAY

Take Off Pounds Sensibly meets at 6:30 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center with weigh-in from 6 to 6:30 p.m. Guests and prospective members interested in TOPS are urged to attend. Call 263-8633 or 263-1468 for more information.

FRIDAY

The Salvation Army Advisory Board meet at 7 a.m. in the basement of the church. Donuts and coffee will be served.

SATURDAY

The Webb-Spring Lions Club will hold a barbecue at Comanche Trail Park at 11:45 a.m. Tickets are available at the site for $4.50 per plate. Proceeds will benefit sight conservation.

Tops on TV: ERA special

On channel 5 at 7 p.m. is the special "We Are Not Summer Soldiers." The Equal Rights Amendment is looked at in this special with concentration on the constitutional arguments, statehouse politics and the women involved. At 8 p.m. on channel 7 is the movie "The Streets of L.A." starring Joanne Woodward.

Outside: Hot

Sunny with a slight chance of thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight. High temperature middle 90s, while the low tonight is expected near 70. High Wednesday middle to high 90s. Winds today from the south-southwest at 15-20 miles per hour.

Free alien education upheld

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — States must provide free public education to illegal alien children, the Supreme Court said today.

By a 5-4 vote, the court ruled that a Texas law allowing such children to attend public schools only if tuition were paid was unconstitutional.

Lower courts had reached the same conclusion.

In what legal scholars had anticipated as a decision of major significance, the justices said the Constitution's guarantee of equal protection under the law applies to illegal aliens as well as to citizens and to aliens who are legally in the country.

"The 14th Amendment provides that 'no state shall ... deprive any person ... within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.' Whatever his status under the immigration laws, an alien is surely a 'person' in any ordinary sense of that term," Justice William J. Brennan wrote for the court.

Today's decision is particularly important for those states bordering on Mexico, where the treatment of illegal aliens is a sensitive political question.

The decision also will have an impact on the 1 million to 6 million illegal aliens the Census Bureau estimates are living and working in the United States. Other estimates put the figure closer to 10 million.

The Supreme Court previously had granted such "undocumented" aliens some of the same rights enjoyed by citizens and legal aliens. It has required that state and federal officials give illegal aliens "due process" hearings in criminal deportation and other legal proceedings.

Today's decision marks the first time in the court's history that illegal aliens have been declared eligible for all the individual liberties and rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

Joining Brennan's opinion were Justices Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell and John Paul Stevens.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White, William H. Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor dissented.

Brennan said public education is "not a right granted to individuals by the Constitution," but "neither is it merely some governmental benefit indistinguishable from other forms of social welfare legislation."

He wrote: "Education has a fundamental role in maintaining the fabric of our society. We cannot ignore the significant social costs borne by our nation when select groups are denied the means to absorb the values and skills upon which our social order rests."

Illegal aliens are excluded from such federal benefit programs as food stamps, Medicare, Medicaid, unemployment compensation and general welfare.

One group that had urged the Supreme Court to uphold the Texas law said that to do otherwise might force the federal government to include illegal aliens in such other programs.

The Federation for American Immigration Reform told the justices in a friend-of-the-court brief that a victory for the illegal alien children "could, at the very least, open to legal challenge state and local government efforts to prevent illegal aliens from utilizing various government programs other than education."

Brennan's opinion did not appear to discuss that contention directly.

"We trespass on the assigned function of the political branches under our structure of limited and separated powers when we assume a policymaking role as the court does today," Burger said.

Prof wants to make computers 'friendly'

AUSTIN — When you sit down at a computer terminal, are you intimidated by it? Do you stare blankly at the machine and feel totally lost? Dr. Donald Foss, a University of Texas psychologist, is trying to make it easier for you, the novice computer user.

He is studying ways to design computers that are "user friendly" — adapting the computer to the person and not vice versa.

"More and more people today are being asked to interact with the computer," said Dr. Foss. "But should they have to go to night school just to learn how to use it?"

The psychology professor has received a three-year, $246,814 grant from the U.S. Army Research Institute for his project entitled "Experimental Studies of Novice Computer Users." He is being assisted by Mary Beth Rosson and Penny L. Smith, two University of Texas graduate students.

As millions of persons are beginning to sit down at terminals, both at home and on the job, Foss believes a principle must be discovered for making computer learning material easier to understand.

"The manuals should build on what the person already knows and get rid of some of the jargon that gets in people's way when they're learning the new techniques," the psychologist pointed out.

Foss noted that he is not a "computer freak" himself. That's why he's so interested in the novice user. He specializes in the psychology of

Man finds bear claw lying in his front yard

By MIKE DOWNEY

When Scotty Cowan of Gail Route found what he thought was a human hand lying in his front yard, his first thought was to find out whose it was so his family would not be next. But despite its gruesome appearance, the "hand" turned out to be just an old bear claw. Cowan said he and his wife found the object Sunday afternoon and called the Howard County Sheriff's Office. "We all thought it was a human hand," Cowan said.

However, an inspection by Dr. Robert Rember of Malone-Hogan Hospital determined the remains were not of human origin, Sheriff A.N. Standard said.

"Where did the hand-now-claw come from? Cowan suspects that the claw came from the remains of a bear that a neighbor had killed and thrown away. "He had a bear prepared by a taxidermist and may have thrown parts away," Cowan said.

language and is particularly interested in how people comprehend. Co-author of the book "Psycholinguistics," Foss sees the computer novice as a special case in the problem of comprehension. "The freak will go through anything and learn anything to be able to use the computer," he added. "But for you and me it's a tool." The computer industry, he noted, is very interested in the novice, too. "They know they need to make their equipment accessible to the layperson," he said. Foss describes a "user-friendly" computer as one you don't want to slug and one that helps you but doesn't frustrate you. He and his team of researchers already have begun to work with novice users, those persons with no experience with computers. Some of the signs of frustrations they have observed are "people just sitting there not knowing what to do even after studying the manual and those sitting there looking like they're about to cry." The particular system they investigated was a line-oriented text editor. That system, Foss noted, is a good model to investigate because it presented to the novice user many programs that arise in other, more complex systems involving more extensive commands. He reiterated the importance of the learning material or manual. "The novice must comprehend the instructions given on how to use the system," he said. "Effective utilization requires prior comprehension." The psychologist pointed out that learners "do better when they understand what they are doing." In his experiments, Foss is giving half of the participants a standard manual and the other half a simplified manual. The modified manual, he explained, differs from the other in several respects. Although its content is identical to that of the standard manual, its form is quite different. It was organized to first present the basic information about printing (displaying text on the computer), inserting and deleting, the professor said. "Only after the simplest forms of these basic editing commands were discussed were more advanced commands such as finding and substituting introduced," Dr. Foss said. People, he noted, are learning how to use the computer faster with the simple manual. "But what was it that made it simple?" Foss asked. "And how can we make it even better?" Further research supported by this project will be aimed at answering those questions.

Bell seeks rate increase

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwestern Bell will try again to get a more than $400 million rate increase from the Public Utility Commission, company officials announced. Bell Vice President Paul Roth said in a news release that the company will submit a new rate request to the commission next week. The new request "will be in the range of the company's 1981 filing for $469.8 million," Roth said. The commission granted Bell a $243.7 million 1981 rate increase in December and ordered the company to pay customers $21 million in refunds for overcharges made while the rate case was under consideration. Bell appealed the ruling and the case is currently before an appeals court in Austin. Roth said the new increase is needed because "today's telephone rates do not produce even the 11.79 percent return on Texas investment currently authorized by the PUC." Bell's 1980 rate request, lowered by the commission to $114 million from the $326 million Bell had requested, also is in court, scheduled for oral arguments before a district judge in Austin this Friday. Roth said the new rate proposal would include "significant changes in local rates," but would not involve local measured service or increases in long-distance rates. Details of the rate proposal will be made public when it is presented to the commission, Roth said.

Snyder firm awarded for safety programs

SNYDER — Concrete Inc. of Snyder, a division of Price Construction Inc. of Big Spring, recently was awarded a safety certificate by the Texas Aggregates and Concrete Association for the company's safety program, as well as for no lost time injuries at either of its facilities in Midland and Big Spring. James P. Hill accepted the award on behalf of Concrete Inc. Winston DePew, president of the TACA, said, "The employees of Concrete Inc. are to be commended for their excellent safety record. Achieving a safety record like that of Concrete Inc. is not easily attained." Recipients of the safety awards, presented annually at the Texas Aggregates and Concrete Association Convention, were determined by accident and injury statistics provided by the association's membership.

Stenholm speaks at commissioner meet

AUSTIN — Congressman Charles Stenholm of Stanford will be one of several speakers as commissioners of agriculture from throughout the South convene in Austin June 20-23 for the 982 Summer Conference of the Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown said. Brown, president of the influential regional organization, will welcome the group to Austin at 9 a.m. June 21. Stenholm, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture and the Small Business Committee, will speak at 9:15 a.m. on "Congressional Politics and Agriculture." Stenholm will be followed on the opening day program by discussions of promising new crops and technology; the use of microcomputers in farm and ranch management; and marketing techniques, including packaging and promotion for the overseas market.

MG clinic set for Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Residents of the South Plains will have an opportunity to attend a free clinic for the diagnosis and treatment of myasthenia gravis when the Northwest Texas Chapter of the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation and the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Medicine co-sponsor such a clinic June 21. The clinic will begin at 8 a.m. at the TTUHSC School of Medicine, Fourth and Indiana, Lubbock. The clinic also will provide consultation services for MG patients already diagnosed, said Jenne McVicker, secretary of the chapter. She also stated that an appointment is required; to make one call 806-743-2391. Mrs. McVicker said, "When you call to make your appointment, clearly state that you are calling in regard to the Myasthenia Gravis Clinic. Also, patients who have not attended an MG clinic previously will be required to have their physician's referral."

Lamesa airport board meets

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Municipal Airport Board will hold a specially-called meeting Wednesday at the chamber of commerce meeting room at 1 p.m. The board plans to review reorganization of board officers, to hold a discussion with Bennie Lybrand, and to discuss minimum standards for the airport.

BRITISH REJOICE — A montage of this morning's headlines from London newspapers shows the British reaction to news that Argentine soldiers of the Falkland Islands had put down their weapons and surrendered.

eyewitness reports said. Britains rejoiced and Argentines chanted, jeered and wept over the British victory, which frustrated Argentina's 149-year-old dream of sovereignty over the windswept South Atlantic archipelago. Queen Elizabeth II, whose second-oldest son Prince Andrew, 22, is a helicopter pilot with the Falklands task force, was "delighted and relieved" at the news, press secretary Michael Shea said today.

The Argentine junta reported Monday that the commander of its soldiers around Stanley agreed to a cease-fire as British forces swarmed forward in a three-pronged attack on the port town. But the Joint Chiefs of Staff said there was no official truce or surrender. In a dispatch from Stanley, correspondent David Norris of the London Daily Mail said: "Abandoned Argentine vehicles, bandoliers of ammunition, rifles and cans of food, littered the approaches. The only people I saw apart from British troops were forlorn, gray-clad Argentine soldiers, hands on head — glad it was finally at an end." Norris said most of the estimated 1,050 residents of Stanley had fled after the Argentine invasion. A high British government source said many of the Argentine soldiers were suffering from exposure, exhaustion and frostbite, and food was in short supply.

Fighting picks up near Beirut

By The Associated Press
Israeli tanks and artillery battled guerrillas near Sidon in southern Lebanon today and tightened the ring around Beirut. The PLO claimed Yasser Arafat and his aides were directing "stubborn resistance" from west Beirut, but Israeli newspapers said Arafat was believed hiding in the Soviet Embassy. Israel radio said other guerrillas, expecting an Israeli assault, took 75 lecturers hostage at the American University in Beirut. At a refugee camp, near Sidon 20 miles south of Beirut, Israeli press reports said Israeli tanks and artillery were battling 250 to 800 guerrillas holed up in two mosques for the fourth day. The reports, subject to Israeli military censorship, said attempts to persuade the Sidon guerrillas to surrender at the Ein Hilwa refugee camp failed when the guerrillas either killed the Arab emissaries sent to talk to them or kept them hostage. They said the guerrillas were led by Haj Ibrahim Hawim, a fanatic Lebanese Shiite follower of Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and that Hawim ordered his men to resist to the death. In west Beirut, the Palestine

Liberation Organization said the only top guerrilla leader not in the PLO enclave was Farouk Kaddoumi, and that he was at the United Nations in New York. In Israel, Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan said Arafat took refuge in a foreign embassy in Beirut and "we know which one." The Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow said it had "no information" on reports that Arafat had taken refuge in its mission in Beirut. Lebanese President Elias Sarkis was conferring with U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib in the Israeli-tinged presidential palace.

Two persons arrested by the Texas Department of Public Safety on separate charges of driving while intoxicated have been released on $1,000 bond each. Nelta Shannon Thompson, 54, of 1609 Avion, and Robert Don Hodges, 41, of Big Spring, were released without being confined in Howard County jail.

It's almost time for that Cannibal Draw

All members of the old-timers Cannibal Draw group are reminded to polish up their biggest yarns to tell buddies during the fifth annual Cannibal Draw Reunion, which will be held Saturday beginning at 7 p.m. at the Brandin' Iron Inn. Ninety-eight letters were sent out this year, and organizers hope that a new record for attendance will be set this year. The old record is 49, set in 1980. A certificate of honor which was presented to the group last year during the centennial will be on display.

Laté tax penalty to increase soon
All Howard County citizens who haven't paid all their 1981 taxes should be aware that on July 1 those delinquent taxes will accrue an 18 percent penalty, plus an additional 15 percent attorney fee charge, Dorothy Moore, county tax assessor collector, says. This 33 percent increase can be avoided if taxes are paid before July 1, Mrs. Moore says. Auto registrations for June also are due this month, she adds.

Cheese handed out by Salvation Army
The Big Spring Salvation Army will be handing out free cheese for the needy Wednesday through Friday from 9 a.m. until noon, according to Rosie Stapp of the SA. She said approximately 3,000 pounds of American cheese will be given out to persons in Howard County who qualify as "needy" individuals and families. Mrs. Stapp said people wanting cheese will have to sign a form stating they are eligible for the cheese and they also must bring identification. Only persons in Howard County are eligible for the cheese, she said. Distribution will be at the Salvation Army office at 308 Aylford.

Reagan visits Clements fund-raiser tonight

HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan will dine with a few thousand Republicans tonight to raise an unprecedented $3 million for Gov. Bill Clements' re-election campaign.

In contrast to the GOP's "silk tie" affair, Harris County Democrats have scheduled a $5-per-person gathering with hot dogs and country music.

More than 3,000 guests are expected to pay $1,000 each for the Republican dinner, said Clements' campaign press aide, Mary Jane Maddox.

"That would be a record amount raised at a single event for a single candidate," she said. Texas Republicans claim the existing record off $2.9 million raised last year at a Clements fund-raising dinner in Dallas.

Clements scheduled an afternoon press conference in advance of tonight's dinner.

Besides Reagan, other guests who have accepted invitations to the black tie affair include former President Gerald Ford and former Texas Governors Allan Shivers, John Connally and Preston Smith.

Clements, who spent about $7 million in winning his first political victory four years ago to become the state's first Republican governor in 105 years, has already raised about $4 million for his current campaign.

Reagan was flying more than half way across the country to sit at the head table with Clements and former President Gerald Ford at Houston's convention center and make a 15-minute speech.

Before leaving Washington, Reagan planned to meet with congressional leaders about the budget and preside over a Cabinet meeting.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said the administration "had some difficulty" with the different Republican budget bills approved by the Senate and House. While Reagan would sign either bill, Speakes said, he hopes the package will be improved in House-Senate negotiations.

Even by Texas standards, sponsors expected to raise a lot of money at tonight's $1,000-a-plate event.

Clements, who squeaked to victory in 1978 as the only Republican ever elected governor of Texas, pulled in $2.9 million at a dinner last June. Tonight's goal was to beat that mark, and perhaps exceed the $3.5 million raised at a Washington dinner last year by the House-Senate congressional campaign committees.

"The dinner looks like it could be a record-setter," said George Bayou, finance chairman for Clements' campaign. "I think we have a good shot at it."

Pope pleads for worker freedom

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Pope John Paul II, on a hectic 12-hour visit today pleaded for worker freedom in a speech to the International Labor Organization and greeted two members of Poland's suspended Solidarity union.

His 60-minute speech made no direct reference to the military crackdown on the movement in his homeland, but the Polish-born pope said freedom of workers to associate in unions was a fundamental human right.

"Yet it is severely threatened, often flouted," the pope said. "It seems essential to point out that cohesion of the forces of society ... must be the outcome of free decisions by those concerned, taken in full independence from the political authorities and arrived in full freedom ..."

The pontiff, speaking before almost 1,800 delegates to the annual conference of the 149-nation ILO, said "the worldwide common good requires a new solidarity without frontiers."

The pope exchanged greetings with Solidarity representatives during a private meeting with worker delegates. The encounter with the Solidarity activists, who were outside Poland when martial law was imposed, was unexpected and brief.

John Paul arrived in Geneva earlier today to proclaim his message of peace and social justice.

It was the pontiff's 14th foreign trek and his third in less than three weeks. He earlier traveled to Britain and Argentina, leading thousands of Roman Catholics in prayer and urging those nations to end their undeclared war over the Falkland Islands.

The pope's Alitalia Boeing 727 landed at Geneva's Cointrin Airport at 8:40 a.m. (3:40 CDT). Under cloudy skies the 62-year-old pontiff emerged, dressed in white robes, to a greeting by Swiss President Fritz Honegger and church and civic leaders.

The pope was accompanied by Cardinal Agostino Casaroli, the No. 2 man at the Vatican as secretary of state; Cardinal Bernardin Gantin, the Benin-born prefect of the Vatican Peace Commission, and other prelates.

Vatican officials said the pontiff planned no rest during the brief tour and would make several speeches, say a Mass and reiterate the themes of peace and social justice that have dominated his other trips.

The pope addressed the United Nations International Labor Organization conference.

John Paul scheduled addresses to the 148-nation International Labor Organization, committed to promote workers' rights, and the International Committee of the Red Cross, founder of the worldwide humanitarian movement. Both are Nobel Peace Prize winners.

The pope also planned to visit the European Nuclear Research Center, the largest international research facility, employing 2,300 scientists from all over the world. Vatican sources said John Paul would reiterate his conviction that technological developments must not be allowed to advance to applications harmful to man and the environment.

The crowded schedule provides for one public appearance: a pontifical Mass with a prayer for peace in Geneva's new exhibition center, where 35,000 people were expected to converge on a surface twice the size of St. Peter's Basilica in Vatican City.

Geneva police deployed hundreds of officers at strategic points of the papal route, banning private traffic and controlling access to all events. Everybody attending the Mass had to pass through metal detectors.

White House reports 'difficulty' with GOP bills

Congress starts work on budget compromise

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next step in creating a 1983 federal budget is getting under way with House and Senate negotiators bargaining over the size of the projected deficit, tax increases, spending cuts and other differences in their respective spending plans.

Conferees were expected to start work this afternoon on a compromise between the $784.3 billion outline adopted by the Senate last month and the $765.2 billion package endorsed by the House last week. Both plans were drafted by Republican leaders in each house.

Earlier in the day, President Reagan was meeting at the White House with a bipartisan group of congressional leaders.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Monday the administration "had some difficulty" with the different GOP budget bills. While Reagan would sign either bill, Speakes said, he hopes the compromise package will be an improvement.

Negotiators were likely to be working through the week on the compromise that will set targets and goals for congressional committees as they draft legislation for spending and taxes. The full House and Senate each must ratify the compromise.

The Senate plan carries a deficit of $115.9 billion while the generally more conservative House measure projects the flow of red ink at $99.3 billion — a figure that congressional economists say is underestimated by $10.5 billion.

Both plans would meet the projected deficits through a combination of tax increases and spending cuts.

The deficit figure agreed to by the negotiators will be crucial to the future of any compromise budget outline in the House, where outnumbered Republicans acknowledged that last week's victory was due, in part, to keeping the deficit in their plan below $100 billion.

Aside from the deficit, the negotiators face tough election-year decisions on tax increases and spending reductions.

While it is likely that Republicans in the Senate will be able to use their majority strength to pass the compromise and enforce its targets, there are signs that achieving the savings will be difficult in the House, even if it ratifies the compromise.

Several committee chairmen in the Democratic-controlled House already have served notice that their panels cannot or will not meet some of the domestic spending savings outlined in the House measure.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, which rejected major benefit cuts next year for food stamp recipients, has decided to require as many of them as possible to work or lose their coupons. A bipartisan majority voted 11-5 on Monday to require states to set up mandatory work programs for able-bodied food stamp recipients by July 1983.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker moved Monday to end a filibuster which has blocked consideration of extending portions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act. He filed a petition which will permit a vote today placing the measure before the Senate.

In other news:

- The Senate unanimously approved a one-year, $1.5 billion reauthorization for the Council on Environmental Quality after adding an amendment prohibiting oil and gas leases in the watershed that provides drinking water to Seattle and Tacoma, Wash.

Rep. Peter A. Peyser, D-N.Y., said he will seek an amendment to the debt ceiling bill to extend for six months the cutoff date for eligibility for post-secondary student Social Security benefits.

Ten injured by twister

SPEARMAN, Texas (AP) — Thunderstorms which spawned a tornado that flipped over mobile homes and injured 10 people Monday night moved out of the state today, leaving a cleanup task behind for the Panhandle city's residents.

"Neighbor will be helping neighbor," said a Hansford County sheriff's dispatcher. "And the power company employees are coming up to help. It got dark so quickly after it hit that we don't know how much needs to be done."

Winds from the twister broke out windows in the county jail, damaged some homes and downed power lines east of the city. Hansford Hospital spokeswoman Carol Fletcher said those injured had been treated and released.

"They just had cuts and abrasions from the hail and the glass that broke," she said.

Remaining scattered thunderstorms dissipated as a cold front moved through the northern Panhandle, pushing southeast. Cooler temperatures and partly cloudy skies were expected for the Panhandle behind the front.

Early-morning readings were from the 60s in the Panhandle to near 80 along the lower Rio Grande and the coast.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield losing UT account

DALLAS (AP) — Financially struggling Blue Cross-Blue Shield will lose its second largest account, the University of Texas, on Sept. 1, officials say.

The UT Board of Regents voted unanimously Friday to drop Blue Cross, which had provided health insurance for UT employees for 41 years. The decision was the latest defeat for the insurer, which has lost $81 million in the last two years.

There are 42,000 insured employees in the UT system. Last October, the Texas Farm Bureau ended its 37-year-old relationship with Blue Cross and withdrew 50,000 health contracts.

Other prominent clients to withdraw from Blue Cross include Du Pont Co., the Dallas Independent School District and A.H. Belo Corp.

The insurer's largest account, covering almost 100,000 state employees, was recently renewed until 1983.

Claude Hempel, personnel director for the UT System, said officials decided to switch to Aetna Life Insurance Co. because of lower rates.

Aetna offered a 15.5 percent increase over the old Blue Cross rates. Blue Cross wanted to increase their rates 17.6 percent.

"It came down to who could offer us the lowest bid," Hempel said.

Blue Cross president John Melton said his company did not want to lose the account, but could not afford to bid lower.

"With all the problems we've had, we weren't about to bid any lower than we had," he said. "We thought we made a competitive bid, but Aetna came in lower."

State Board of Insurance chairman William P. Daves said the loss would be "substantial, but they (Blue Cross) may be better without it."

He said many of the insurer's problems may have resulted from quick growth in 1979 and 1980.

"They overextended themselves, and their rates were not adequate," Daves said.

This year, Blue Cross increased its rates and has consequently not been able to remain the lowest bidder for all companies, he said.

The error rate during a six-month period in 1981 was 6 percent.

Taking the offensive

Often on the defensive in the continuing struggle with the Communists, the United States these days has a chance, for once, to go on the offensive.

Events in Poland demonstrate that Soviet communism has an Achilles heel: People living under the system don't like it. If they can consolidate their dislikes into a coordinated movement, they can give the commissars plenty of trouble in their own backyard.

One of the major elements in the success of Poland's Solidarity movement was Radio Free Europe, broadcasting out of Munich, Germany. Its programs spread the news of the resistance and helped coordinate its various components.

The same could happen elsewhere — except that RFE has been allowed to go downhill in recent years in terms of help and hardware. It can reach only 10 per cent of the Soviet population with its message, and badly needs some new equipment.

A move is under way in Washington to beef up and modernize RFE. If we want to gain the initiative in the Cold War, that move should be supported.

Around the Rim

On writing well

ATTENTION! screams the newspaper ad.

DO YOU WANT TO IMPROVE YOUR WRITING SKILLS? DO YOU WANT TO INFLUENCE AND CONTROL PEOPLE WITH THE WRITTEN WORD?

My Lord, you could resist an offer like that? I read further. THEN SEND OFF FOR THE BOOKLET "BE AN INFLUENTIAL WRITER!" NO MORE CONFUSION! NO MORE WEAK ARGUMENTS! JUST PERFECT WRITING! YOU CAN MASTER THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE!

That's not a bad idea, really. Writing is my life's ambition and goodness knows it is craft I need to work on.

But should I shell out the $8 for this booklet? Am I in bad shape as a writer? I have never had a serious writing course. I learned mostly from reading other writers' works.

THANKS TO some persistent English teachers in junior high and high school, I have a basic understanding of the rules. I'm fairly good on knowing where to place commas, like there for instance. I can tell you all about split infinitives and dangling participles, although that doesn't keep me from using them.

What I want to know is, can anybody master this crazy English language? Certainly some serious writers have come close, but it's different when you write as a journalist. If James Joyce and William Faulkner were to get jobs on a newspaper today they would probably be drawn and quartered by the editors after they had turned in their first stories.

The English language is without peer when it comes to silly and inconsistent rules. Remember the one that goes, "I before 'e' except after 'c' or when sounded in 'neighbor' and 'weigh'?" That's all very well and fine until you get down to words like "seize" and "seismic" and "weird." Those words don't have a "c" in the strategic place. They don't sound like "neighbor" or "weigh." And why in God's name isn't "seize" spelled the same as "siege"? Who decided where the "e" or "i" would go anyway? It's weird, man.

And then there are rules nobody follows except for "old school" grammar teachers who seldom write anything. For some reason, it was at one time considered poor writing to end a sentence with a preposition. Winston Churchill was told this once and replied that it was the kind of nonsense up with which he would not put. I agree with him. I suspect we don't follow this rule anymore because we can't remember all the prepositions.

There is one rule I have always been taught is absolute. Never use exclamation points, except in direct quotes. My teachers always said that if you use an exclamation point you might as well be holding up a sign for the reader that says "Laugh" or "Be surprised."

I notice that this ad in the newspaper has used no less than five exclamations points. Right away I am feeling better about my need for the book they're hawking.

Billy Graham

Young people face challenges

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think it is harder for young people today than it was in previous generations? Do you think they face more temptations? — Mrs. M.O.

DEAR MRS. M.O.: Yes, in many ways I suspect it is harder for young people today. Our modern, secular, materialistic society places so much in front of young people. The mass media — something which is unique to our generation constantly presents a barrage of ideas and values which may be very different from Christian belief. The pressures to conform are stronger today, and there are so many ways in which our society gives easy access to harmful sins — sex, drugs, alcohol, etc.

But I find many, many young people who refuse to yield to the temptations all around them, and I think this is encouraging. These young people have discovered that the meaning of life is not to be found in selfish pleasures or false and empty ways of living. They have learned that Satan dresses up his temptations in very attractive dress — but his pleasures are still wrong, and they will still destroy you because Satan is only interested in trapping you. These young people have discovered that Jesus Christ gives joy to life, and they have found out that following him is a far more satisfying way of living.

At the same time, there are many young people who have been enticed by the temptations of this world, and this is tragic to see. I wish I could tell every young person in our nation about the love of God, and how he wants them to know him and serve him because that is the best way to live. I believe every parent should take his responsibilities seriously, and do all he can to help his children to know God in a personal way through Christ. We live in a difficult time, and we need to do all we can to help our young people fight the temptations of our age — many of which we have allowed to be tolerated in our society.

Jack Anderson

Anti-PLO chief 'trigger-happy'

WASHINGTON — The man directly in charge of Israel's punitive expedition against Palestine Liberation Organization strongholds in Lebanon, Maj. Gen. Rafael Eitan, is a cocky, singleminded soldier who scoffs at peaceful negotiations to achieve national goals. This is the confidential assessment of U.S. intelligence analysts.

Eitan is a latter-day George Patton, who "has faith in the strength of his forces and knows total victory can be achieved," the psychological profile says of the Israeli chief of staff. "He is not concerned with the nuances of territorial prerogatives: winner takes all and the enemy who loses the battle loses the war and relinquishes all rights to his possessions."

The confidential profile, one of a series on Middle East leaders obtained by our associate Indy Badwar, is not flattering to Eitan. He is characterized as a rather simpleminded, trigger-happy warrior, who, at the age of 50, "has not matured beyond the young officer of a parachutist's mentality."

The assessment says Eitan is "happy in planning and leading battles," and continues: "He is unaware of the costs to men's lives and the financial strain on his country and allies, because he is too identified with the game rather than the purpose... He is the center of his world, with little sensitivity to others in his environment except those who, through need for his strength, can communicate with him."

One Israeli leader who reportedly can communicate with Eitan is Prime Minister Menachem Begin, whose headline policies please the general. Insofar as he thinks about politics at all, Eitan appears to share Begin's view that Israel must depend for survival on her own military might rather than the diplomatic support of friends.

ONE REASON Eitan admires Begin, the intelligence profile suggests, is that "rigidity in purpose

WASHINGTON — White House chief of staff James Baker, who convinced President Reagan not to fire Budget Director David Stockman for disloyalty last November, has soured on Stockman so much that he now tells close associates that it might be time for him to go.

The last straw was Stockman's persistence in pressing for Social Security cutbacks in an administration policy meeting not attended by Baker, even though that violated the powerful chief of staff's orders. It was at that point that Baker privately said Stockman had outlived his usefulness. Nevertheless, Stockman has proved to have so many political lives that nobody knows if or when he will be gone.

A footnote: The current favorite to succeed Stockman, if and when he leaves, is Baker deputy Richard Darman. He is regarded by the Republican right as a sinister force, but has ingratiated himself with the president.

REAGAN'S UNDELIVERED SPEECH — Although President Reagan's speech to the British Parliament was eloquent, it would have been a lot tougher had he accepted a draft submitted by Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist George F. Will.

Will's draft hit hard against the Soviets, but Reagan heeded State Department concerns that overly-aggressive prose would hurt the NATO alliance. The result was an amalgam of State Department language, a draft by White House speechwriter Tony Dolan and Will's effort.

A footnote: Although high hopes at the White House for Reagan's European grand tour were blighted by the United Nations vote foul-up and Israel's invasion of Lebanon, the president would not have known it if he relied on his daily news digest for information. That White House-produced private publication gave the impression of a triumphant Reagan conquering Europe.

DISARMERS' COLD WAR — The cold war waged by the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) to ease out Lt. Gen. Edward Rowny as START negotiator before beginning the new talks with the Soviets took a bizarre turn when the use of Rowny's official title was protested.

A cable alerting U.S. embassies in Europe to a forthcoming trip by Rowny referred to him as "chief U.S. arms control negotiator" — the official title given the retired Army officer when appointed by President Reagan last year. ACDA Director Eugene Rostow objected to the use of the title as an encroachment on his authority and sent out a superseding cable that canceled the previous message.

Rowny is an expert on arms control who was Pentagon representative at the SALT talks for six years before retiring from the service in protest over the SALT agreement. He is considered a hard-nosed negotiator who ACDA's civil servants want removed before START begins.

REAGAN'S MAN IN N.H. — A commitment by Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, President Reagan's friend and adviser, to campaign for a longtime Reaganite in New Hampshire's crowded Republican primary for governor signals a slight breach in rigid White House neutrality on State Republican nominations.

Laxalt will deliver a fund-raising speech for state Senate President Robert Monier, an ardent Reagan supporter in the 1976 and 1980 New Hampshire presidential primaries. Considering Laxalt's intimacy with Reagan, Monier's opponents contend the speaking date breaks the neutrality rule.

Although there is no evidence that the White House supported Laxalt's move, old-line Reaganites inside the administration would be happy if it is interpreted as presidential blessing for Monier. They were disgusted that there was no slight hint of White House support for ex-Reagan aide Jeffrey Bell in his losing New Jersey Senate primary against Rep. Millicent Fenwick.

New French souvenirs

PARIS — The French have always been noted for their perfume and beautiful clothes. But recently have become famous for their a ground missiles.

I went into a high-class hop on Rue Royale the other day to buy for a souvenir.

The clerk said, "Can I help Monsieur?"

"I was looking for an Exocet missile as a gift."

"Alas," he said. "We are all out of stock. Peru bought the last ones."

"What about the one in the dow?"

"It is sold to Saudi Arabia."

"How long would I have to wait to get one?"

"We have orders from all over the world. Everyone wants an Exocet even Libya."

"Well, is there something particularly Parisian?"

"How about a new Mirage fighter? They can shoot at anything in the sky."

"Can I get it on the plane?"

"We'll wrap it for you in bubble paper so it won't break."

"If I can't get an Exocet, would you suggest I put on it?"

"Perhaps the Super Matra missile's the top-of-the-line rocket and be launched at anything from a p to a tank. It has a delayed fuse doesn't explode until it's in the target. The Egyptians are very happy it."

"Do you have anything smaller?"

"We're now making a helico with rocket launchers that is perfect for destroying buildings."

"How much is it?"

"Less than a million dollars. If you don't want it with rocket launch we can sell it to you for $750,000, since you live in the United States don't have to pay French sales tax."

"I don't know. Do you have anything else that says France over it?"

"What about a torpedo boat? Nicaraguans are very happy they are. Our torpedoes are so activated and can home in on a ship's motors at 10 miles."

"That's nice. What else are selling?"

"We sell everything, Monsieur. are the third-largest suppliers military equipment in the world. Perhaps you would like a French tank? It comes equipped with a tank that follows its target by day night."

"I don't think my friend would like tank."

"Perhaps an automatic French machine gun, made in France under license from the Israelis. automatic and can spray anything within 60 yards."

"That's not a bad idea. How do I get it into the United States?"

"We can ship it to you through French Canada."

"Do you take American Express credit cards?"

"Of course, Monsieur. How much did you want?"

"Maybe a dozen."

"Ah, Monsieur, we don't sell it by the dozen. Our minimum order is 5,000. If we sell a few of them I could get into the wrong hands."

"I see your point. What's that that looks like silly putty?"

"Plastique. You just stick it anything and insert this fuse everything goes BOOM. We've had for years but it is still very popular. Third World countries, where everything goes BOOM all the time."

"Well, I must say for a souvenir you're very well stocked. I don't have any perfume, do you?"

"You mean that can be sprayed with bacteria?"

"No, I just meant perfume that could smell."

"You must be crazy. What kind French store do you think we are?"

Watergate prosecutor learned lesson early

By SHARON HERBAUGH
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — In one of his first cases, Leon Jaworski defended a black accused of murdering two whites. In his last case, he helped force the resignation of an American president.

Jaworski says he faced hatred in both cases, but adds that both created "inner satisfaction that you have done your duty."

As a young lawyer Jaworski was appointed by the court to defend a black sharecropper accused of murdering a white farmer and his wife.

Despite criticism from friends, crank phone calls and threatening anonymous letters, Jaworski recalls, he "put up quite a stubborn fight" for the illiterate man who had scrawled his "X" on a confession.

The sharecropper was twice convicted and eventually put to death in the electric chair.

But the lesson prepared the 23-year-old lawyer for a test nearly a half century later when Jaworski, the son of a preacher, would become the adversary of President Richard Nixon — a man he liked and a candidate he had voted for.

"That taught me to cross the barrier of doing things that were unpopular, to live with them and to realize that after the ordeal is over, you feel inner satisfaction that you have done your duty," he said.

Jaworski, 76, and the grandfather of four, hasn't returned to the courtroom since 1974, when he successfully secured the tape recordings linking Nixon to the Watergate scandal.

"You just don't argue another case after you've argued the United States versus Nixon" before the Supreme Court," he said.

Jaworski, known to his family and associates as "Colonel," keeps an office and acts as counsel to Fulbright & Jaworski, a firm he watched grow from 10 to 300 lawyers.

The tanned, silver-haired barrister, slimmer than he was during his days as Watergate special prosecutor, keeps a schedule that might tire much younger men and recently overcame a battle with cancer.

Doctors discovered during an operation in February that Jaworski had cancer of the pancreas. Surgeons feared it would be too dangerous to remove the cancer because it was near a blood vessel.

LEON JAWORSKI
...reflects on Watergate

After completing a series of radiation treatments last month, Jaworski said, doctors "gave me a clean bill of health."

He accepts speaking engagements, is a member of the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, board chairman of the Texas Medical Center and a fundraiser for two Houston hospitals and his own non-profit foundation. During the last presidential election he headed "Democrats for Reagan."

He also retreats to his 400-acre ranch in the Texas Hill Country, where he wrote his Watergate best-seller, "The Right and the Power," his memoirs, "Confession and Avoidance," and the autobiographical "Crossroads."

Jaworski began practicing law in his hometown of Waco with two friends, defending bootleggers during the Prohibition and the black sharecropper, Jordon Scott.

"I was held in such disfavor. In those days, a black murdering a white farmer and his wife was something that aroused the passion of the community. But I believe this man was entitled to the same standing in court as a rich white man," Jaworski said. "That's probably one of the reasons I came to Houston."

He went on to represent Lyndon B. Johnson in court battles against the Republicans, and to prosecute, among others: Nazi war criminals, a Mississippi governor who refused to admit a black student to a state university and Korean influence peddlers.

But Jaworski considers his successful battle for the Nixon tapes — "the smoking gun" — the apex of his legal career.

At times, Jaworski says, "I'd rather talk about anything but Watergate. But I'm constantly surprised how interested in the subject has continued at such a high level. I thought interest in Watergate would wind down within two years."

Jaworski, then president of the American Bar Association, said he closely followed the events of the June 17, 1972, burglary at the Democrats' Watergate headquarters in Washington, D.C.

When Archibald Cox was fired as special prosecutor in October of 1973, Gen. Alexander Haig asked Jaworski to take over the job. He accepted after receiving assurances he would have the independence he wanted.

But Jaworski's appointment was greeted by a flood of criticism.

"For the first couple of months, I didn't think I had a friend. The conservatives couldn't forget my past record and that I was Lyndon Johnson's lawyer, and the liberals considered me an 'establishment lawyer' hand-picked by Nixon," he said.

At first, Jaworski said, he didn't believe Nixon was involved in the cover-up. That opinion changed after he heard the tape of Nixon and his chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, discussing how to avoid telling the truth and still avoid a perjury charge.

"That's when I realized he was right in the middle," Jaworski said, his voice rising. "I knew just how traumatic that would be for the country and I shuddered. For a moment, I wished I'd never been asked to take the job."

Jaworski and his staff went to the U.S. Supreme Court and successfully won the release of the tapes, and Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974.

Jaworski said he believes Nixon would have been forgiven by the American public if he had only admitted his misdeeds.

Crisis far from over, prison director says

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Overcrowding problems at Texas prisons will not go away soon despite the new $55.5 million appropriation by the Legislature, says Department of Corrections Director Jim Estelle.

"This problem didn't happen overnight and it won't be solved overnight," Estelle said. He said Texas' booming population growth, hard economic times and public sentiment toward stiffer criminal penalties contributed to the overcrowding made worse because new prison construction did not match the inmate growth.

"As long as the Texas population continues to grow as fast as it has been, there's going to continue to be a crisis," he said Monday in an interview in El Paso, where he was attending the annual conference of the Texas Corrections Association.

Estelle said the appropriation will enable the corrections department to add inmate space faster, but not fast enough to solve the problem.

"You have to be happy that some money was allocated," he said. "But the corrections board had proposed $85 million and we got $56 million. We're still $30 million short of what the board thought would be necessary."

Estelle said completion of a new 1,000-bed facility is more than a year away. But he said construction of other facilities is being accelerated and some facilities intended for other programs will be used to house inmates.

Judge orders completion of new county jail section

HOUSTON (AP) — County officials say they foresee no problems completing a new downtown jail in time to begin the court-ordered transfer of prisoners from the old, overcrowded lockup before a Sept. 15 deadline.

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue ordered county commissioners Monday to do everything they could to ensure completion of the new jail's basement and first nine floors by Sept. 15.

The partial ruling, issued after four days of hearings, ordered Sheriff Jack Heard to begin moving inmates into the new jail by Sept. 15 and to complete by transfer within a month.

Officials have said 3,000 prisoners are now housed in a jail designed to hold only 2,000.

Noting that the county has failed to meet previously targeted move-in dates, Bue said the court "will not look favorably on any application for an extension of time to commence or complete the movement."

Bue's order, however, did not address several related proposals by the prisoners' attorneys, including closing the present downtown jail after Nov. 1 and limiting the number of inmates housed in the new facility.

"Harris County has the opportunity here to show this federal court that it can deal with the problem itself," Birnberg said.

Texas, Oklahoma border feud ends

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Sooner state and the Lone Star state — rivals in everything from football to chili — have reached a Supreme Court-backed agreement on where Texas ends and Oklahoma begins.

A 32-month-old dispute over part of the border ended Monday when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the boundary will continue to be the south bank of the Red River, even where it is submerged under Lake Texoma.

The new decision is the first high-court ruling on the border since the construction in the early 1940s of Lake Texoma, which straddles the state line.

Texas filed a suit against Oklahoma, not because it disagreed with the river boundary but because a federal energy agency had suggested that the border be shifted southward along the lake.

Such a move would have given Oklahoma more land, along with the Denison Dam and its hydroelectric power plant.

The change was opposed by Texas, the only state in the union whose power companies are not under federal regulation because they operate only in the state. The move would have put Texas power companies, which buy energy from the dam's power plant, under regulation by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for the first time.

Oklahoma was satisfied with the river-bank border and believed the power plant was south of the river.

The case before the Supreme Court was "a friendly effort between the state of Oklahoma and the state of Texas," said Michael L. Bardrick, assistant attorney general for Oklahoma.

Bardrick said the new decision should put to rest any litigation over the border.

Leon J. Barish, assistant attorney general for Texas, said he was pleased with the court ruling, which he predicted would settle the matter "once and for all."

The four-page court order was a reiteration of the recommendations both states made to the court last year.

Harris County administrative judge dies

CONROE, Texas (AP) — Services were pending for Harris County Administrative Judge J.D. Guyon, who died of a heart attack.

Guyon, 56, died Monday at Doctors Hospital here.

Born in Winnsboro, La., Guyon grew up in Livingston and served as a member of the 82nd Airborne Division during World War II.

He attended Little Rock Junior College and received a bachelor of business degree from the University of Houston. He earned a law degree in 1961 from South Texas College of Law in Houston.

He was running unopposed in a bid for re-election. The Democratic Party will choose someone to fill the vacancy.

Dear Abby

Help for children of aging parents

DEAR ABBY: I read in the Bucks County (Pa.) Courier Times, that there is a new organization in that area called "Children of Aging Parents." That's exactly what I need: some people who are in the same boat as I am—people who can guide me in caring for my aging parents.

I need to know how to deal with the physical and medical problems of my parents—now both in their 80s. Also, I need to know how to be more patient when they become forgetful and repetitious, and sometimes paranoid and hostile.

Please tell me how to reach this great group, THANK YOU!

LOYAL FAN IN LEVITTOWN, PA.

DEAR FAN: Children of Aging Parent (CAPS) is a non-profit organization serving the lower Bucks County area. It consists of adult children who have the responsibility of an aging parent or family member. CAPS provides training, education, counseling and rap sessions as well as information and referral services related to caring for the older person. It is a loving, caring, supportive organization.

For information, contact Mirca Liberti, its founder and president. This wonderful organization deserves to go national, and I hope it does!

The address: 2761 Trenton Road, Levittown, Pa. 19056. And the hot line is: 1-215-547-1070. When writing, please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since our son was born (six months ago), my husband started calling me "Mamma." I really don't like it. I've told him I don't like it and to please quit, but he still calls me "Mamma."

How can I get him to stop? It turns me off in bed. NOT HIS MAMMA

DEAR NOT: Remind him. In bed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a new mother this year, and what did I get? Nothing! I have a beautiful baby girl—she's 6 months old—but my husband evidently doesn't consider me a "mother."

I expected some flowers or a card. Even a "Happy Mother's Day" would have been nice, but the day came and went with no mention that I was a mother, too.

I felt so bad, I mentioned it before we went to sleep, and he said, "You aren't my mother."

Well, I'm his daughter's mother, and she's too young to shop. Should I get him something for Father's Day?

HURT would be appropriate.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has never given a present for Mother's Day or any other occasion since the day we met seven years ago. He simply doesn't care about special dates. Do I feel hurt or "forgotten"? No! Why? Because he never forgets to take out the garbage, wash the truck, bathe the dogs, take two preschool children out alone on a weekend afternoon, clean the basement, trim the hedges, repair whatever needs fixing in the house, deposit his paycheck, and come right home after work.

And yes, he never forgets to give me a hug and tell me he loves me. So who needs presents? LUCKY IN PITTSBURGH

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rebekahs celebrate three June birthdays

Olean Melton, Mabel Morrison and Jewel Thompson celebrated their birthdays during the June 8 meeting of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284.

Thirteen reports to the sick were visited during the meeting.

Marion Savell resigned as treasurer and Iva Kenny was elected treasurer. Correspondence was read from Lupe Dominguez, chief of Volunteer Services at the Veteran's Administration Medical Center. She thanked the chapter for cake and coffee served to veterans at the hospital. The Past Noble Grand meeting and social was held in the home of Mildred Collins Monday.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Lillian Rhyne, Frances Loftis, Jewel Thompson and Timmie McCormick.

Rebekahs hold memorial service for deceased members

Under the Good of the Order, LaVerne Rogers presented the District Deputy Jewel to Odelle LaLonde during the June 8 meeting of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153. Pauline S. Petty, noble grand, reported. Resolutions of Sympathy were read for Elva LaVelle McDaniel Hill and Ethel Parlee (Jackie) King.

A memorial service was conducted by Odella LaLonde for the members and past officers of the Rebekah assembly that had past away this year. Members taking part in the service were Mrs. LaLonde, Mary Cole, Mrs. Rogers, Beatrice Bonner, Juanita Hamlin, Lois Hood and Fannie Kent.

Retiring teacher is honored

Mrs. Nancy Annen, Home Economics Cooperative Education teacher, was bid farewell Thursday morning by her fellow faculty members during a coffee given in her honor. The event was held in the living room of the Big Spring Homemaking Department.

W.A. McQueary, high school principal, presented Mrs. Annen a gift of brass candle sticks and a brass pitcher. The homemaking teachers presented her with a pink carnation corsage and a brass vase.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Billye Grisham, Mrs. Charlotte Hamilton, Mrs. Virginia Martin, Mrs. Alma Wrightsil and Mrs. Sue Wilbanks, all homemaking teachers.

Mrs. Annen has retired after 40 years of teaching. Her plans include traveling, gardening and playing with her grandson, Michael Quintinn Newman.

Dr. Donohue

Skin disease affects 2-year-old

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 2-year-old granddaughter has been seen by a dermatologist for a rash on her scalp and body. He said it was molluscum contagiosum, and that it was contagious, and that it was caused by a virus. He has suggested use of two different ointments. Then, when that didn't help, he suggested scraping the places affected. He said he would give her something to just make her drowsy when he did that. He wants to do this in his office. It just doesn't sound right to me. Could you please write about this?—Gramma Molluscum contagiosum is a skin infection. (You made a valiant effort with that spelling, Gramma, and I have to look it up myself.) The infection is from a virus, one of the largest known to man. It produces tiny white, pearly warts, and at the center of each wart there is a sunken area. The wart often exudes a small amount of cheesy material.

Let me tell you the good part first. This is an illness that eventually goes away without any scarring. The bad part is that it may take as long as three years. Your granddaughter's dermatologist has given you a good plan. The individual warts can be scraped off, and it is a little painful, so just enough medicine to make her sleepy is needed. Sometimes, the warts are left alone. Some physicians opt for use of chemical applications to remove them. The chief consideration is not to harm the skin and to avoid future scarring.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have corns on top of my toe, and I have tried everything to get rid of them. I can hardly wear a shoe. I would appreciate it very much if you could tell me what to do for them. I read your column every day.—Mrs. M.S.

If you read this column every day, you are bound to find your problem. So for you, Mrs. M.S., corns it is.

Corns means that the skin of the feet are caught, figuratively speaking, between a rock and a hard place. The rock is your shoe and the hard place is your toe bone. Because of the pressure, the skin thickens and in time becomes compacted to form a corn.

That's one kind of corn—the hard corn. Then there is the soft corn. That comes from the pressing of the skin against adjacent toe bones. They stay soft only because of the moisture present between the toes, which keeps them from drying out.

The cause? The shoe is not always at fault, although it usually is a factor. The toes themselves may be at fault. They can bend from age or from arthritis, and cause the pressure. That can be the problem in corns on top of the toe also.

You can buy separators to place between the toes for corns there. If they are on top, you have to adapt your shoe to them or pad the corn to relieve the pressure. That's all in the way of prevention.

The corn itself can be pared away. Please don't try it yourself.

BEEP'S NEW BEAK — Beep the Goose appears a little groggy after her new beak was installed in Santa Ana, Calif., recently. Her new upper beak, a plastic prosthesis, replaces the one she lost in apparent battle with a dog or coyote.

Beep accepts new beak

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Beep the goose, who lost part of her beak to a predator, was "looking good" after receiving an artificial beak and may return to her keeper's home by Thursday, according to a pet hospital employee.

Beep, a 6-year-old American gray goose, achieved celebrity status after she lost the upper half of her beak to a coyote and was fitted for the orange acrylic transplant.

"She seems to be accepting her beak," Bunny Ickes, a talent agent and part-time employee of Grand Avenue

Pet Hospital, said Sunday. "She's spreading her wing ... She's looking good."

Beep has been inundated with get-well cards and letters, Miss Ickes said, and Beep has several invitations to school graduations.

The goose, which is owned by pet hospital administrator Larry Day, was injured by the coyote after she lost her mate in a similar attack.

Doctors first gave her a beak from a dead goose, but Beep's body rejected that transplant. Experts then decided on a prosthetic beak.

Deaf, blind woman earns degree

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A 47-year-old woman who says years of drug and alcohol abuse caused her to go deaf and blind has received a doctoral degree in clinical and counseling psychology from the University of Oregon.

Adeline Becht of Portland and Beth Schmidt, her interpreter and companion through five years of study, were cheered by thousands of spectators who gathered Sunday in the university's football field for the graduation ceremony.

Ms. Becht, who received a master's degree from Lewis and Clark College in Portland in June 1976 even though she has been both deaf and blind for 14 years, said in an interview Saturday her drug addiction began when she was a child and a doctor prescribed painkillers for osteomyelitis, a bone disease.

"I started losing my hearing when I was 11 years old," she said. "By the time I was 22, I was profoundly deaf."

Ms. Becht was reluctant to discuss her early life and referred questions to Mrs. Schmidt, who said Ms. Becht became separated from her parents at age 14 and spent most of her youth in juvenile homes, where she was introduced to other drugs, including heroin.

Ms. Becht eventually turned to street crime to pay for her drug habit, Mrs. Schmidt said.

After moving to Portland in 1959, Mrs. Schmidt said, her friend kicked the drug habit, but turned to alcohol, which took her several more years to overcome.

By that time, Ms. Becht had permanent damage to her sight and hearing, Mrs. Schmidt said. She was declared legally blind in 1969.

For her part, Ms. Becht, whose diction is precise despite her handicaps, says she prefers to look to the future.

She said she plans to expand a private psychological counseling practice she started in Portland.

She credits her academic success, in part, to Mrs. Schmidt, who supported both of them and at times worked 12 hours a day attending lectures and transcribing them into Braille.

Mrs. Schmidt translates questions into sign language against Ms. Becht's hand.

Elvis souvenirs selling fast this summer

By WOODY BAIRD
Associated Press Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Every summer, thousands of Elvis faithful make a pilgrimage to their idol's former house — and departing renewed, most leave a few bucks at the trinket center across the street.

That cluster of more than a dozen shops is devoted primarily to souvenirs — Elvis ashtrays, money clips, belt buckles, posters, postcards, pictures and plaques.

Most of the stuff is made in Taiwan or Japan and goes for less than $10, but a few items, mostly jewelry, list for as much as $400 or more.

And all of it sells.

"It's amazing," shop owner Howard Rouse said, "that one man can pull in so many people after he's been dead for so long."

And store managers expect an especially good season this year, with Elvis Presley's Graceland Mansion open to the public for the first time.

"You make a good living from May to October and then you starve the rest of the year," said Rouse, who hopes with the opening of the mansion business will continue year-round.

As he talked, a clerk pulled special sections on Graceland from a local newspaper and marked them for resale at $1 each.

A nearby TV played a tape of Elvis in concert. Throughout the shopping center, the background music is Elvis, and there's even a gum-ball machine filled with Elvis trinkets.

Coffee mugs, $3.95 or two for $7; letter openers with Elvis' picture on the handles, $2.95; Elvis rings, $1 to $29.95; postcards 50 cents.

Basically, the shops carry the same items, but prices vary.

A replica of the garnish white-and-gold belt he wore at a concert in Hawaii sells for $125 at one store and for $100 a few doors down. An Elvis concert jacket goes for $34.95 at one shop and for $37.95 at another.

Elvis throw pillows, $6.95; bedspreads, $87.50 to $150; a book written by his nurse, $3.95; Elvis pens, $1; beer steins, $7.95; cigarette lighters, $2.50.

Michael Baney, a clerk, showed off a pair of $65 sunglasses imported from France. Elvis wore that kind, and, if a customer has doubts, Baney can produce a picture of the singer wearing a pair.

"Summer is when the real Elvis fans are here," he said. "Some of them are kind of looney, but they buy expensive stuff."

Framed photographs or paintings of Elvis, $11 to $250; snapshots of him at home at Graceland, 95 cents; license plates saying "Smile if You Love Elvis," $1.95; license-plate holders saying, "On The 8th Day, God Created Elvis," $1.95.

Store manager Les Tubbs said the business in Elvis souvenirs got hot after the singer died in 1977 of heart disease.

The highest priced item in Tubbs' place is a gold pendant selling for $495.

Save energy with high-efficiency a/c and get a bonus from Texas Electric

The amount shown is for a 3-ton central electric air conditioner with an SEER of 8.5.

If you replace your central electric air conditioner with one that's more efficient, Texas Electric will pay you a bonus of $80 per ton.

Not only that, you'll save on your electric bill as well. For example, a high-efficiency 3-ton unit will save you up to $160 a year.

This equipment costs more initially, but the bonus from Texas Electric plus the savings on your electric bill will make up the difference in just a few years.

If enough people buy high-efficiency equipment, summer peak load growth will be slowed — and so will the need to build new generating plants. In the long run, this will help hold down everyone's electric bill.

Before you replace your old air conditioner, ask your dealer about central air conditioners, heat pumps, and window units that qualify for this program.

STEALS 63rd — Rick Henderson of Oakland A's steals his 63rd base of the year from short stop Alfredo Griffin at second base during American League action in Toronto, Monday. Umpire John Shulock calls the during the game, won by the A's 4-2.

Changes in the games

• Judge strikes at NFL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge's injunction may enable the Oakland Raiders to move to the Los Angeles Coliseum in time for the 1982 National Football League season.

The injunction Monday by U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson invalidated an NFL rule that had prohibited the Raiders' move. But after issuing the injunction, Pregerson temporarily stayed it to allow an appeal by the league.

Pregerson said such an application to the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals must be served and filed on or before June 21, and the temporary stay would be dissolved July 2.

At the courthouse following Pregerson's ruling, NFL Attorney Patrick Lynch said, "We will probably make our appeal immediately against the injunction and ask for a stay."

Although Los Angeles Coliseum Commission President Mike Frankovich said, he didn't see how the Raiders "can be down here this fall," another spokesman, Bill Robertson, disagreed.

"I talked by phone with Al Davis (managing general partner of the Raiders) and he told me there would be no problems," Robertson said.

Davis wasn't present when Pregerson issued his ruling, nor was NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"The overwhelming jury verdicts for the Raiders were upheld by the federal court today," said Davis from his San Francisco office. "Aside from the National Football League's anti-trust violation, the ruling reaffirms that the actions and conduct of the league were in bad faith and unfair dealing."

On May 7, a jury of six women found the NFL in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Law and a second law applying to fair dealing in the league's refusal to grant the Raiders permission to move.

The decision came in a retrial. A first trial in the matter ended in a hung jury last August.

The Raiders challenged an NFL rule requiring that team moves be approved by three-fourths of the league's 28 owners.

• MLB sets remodeling

CHICAGO (AP) — The grand old game is on its way to taking on brand new look that, while it won't be noticeable on the field, could have a significant impact on how organized baseball is governed.

Major league baseball's 26 owners endorsed a restructuring proposal Monday that would remodel the sport's hierarchy structure.

"It was the most constructive day baseball has had in my 13 years as commissioner," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who took over baseball's top job in 1969 with the promise to revamp its structure.

"The administrative structure was good until we got to the modern era, where telecasts, marketing and other factors begin to have a more profound impact on the game," Kuhn said.

Also Monday, the owners filed suit to shut players out of money from televised baseball. Ray Grebey, director of the owners' player relations committee, said the suit seeks a permanent injunction to recognize the clubs as sole owners of all baseball television rights.

Marvin Miller, president of the Major League Baseball Players Association, vowed to fight the owners' suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago. "I'm confident that we'll win on the merits of the issues involved," Miller said. The restructuring proposal calls for merging the two league offices into the commissioner's office and a more centralized business operation "from the auditor ... up to the owners," according to restructuring committee co-chairman Roy Eisenhardt, president of the Oakland A's.

Under the plan, the 26 owners would operate "like a board of directors and the commissioner would be like the chief executive officer," he said.

Other proposed changes include: —Shortening the commissioner's term to five years from the present seven.

—Increasing the number of owners' meetings to four each year from the current two.

—Giving an eight-member owners' executive committee broad powers to oversee the operation of baseball between owners' meetings.

—Building closer relations between the promotion and player relations departments of the commissioner's office.

In another move, National League owners voted to abolish their unanimous voting rule, under which any owner can veto a request for expansion, inter-league play, a team's change of division or expulsion of an owner. Such actions will now require approval of only nine of the 12 National League owners.

Hot Mariners melt Rangers

SEATTLE (AP) — With his Mariners just about major league baseball's hottest team, Seattle Manager Rene Lachemann admitted he'd spent most of the day on the phone with the media.

"I told them it started with defense and pitching," Lachemann said after the Mariners beat the Texas Rangers 4-0 Monday night to win the 15th victory in their past 20 games. "Then we make three errors."

But the pitching came through as Jim Beattie, 3-4, scattered three hits over six innings and Mike Stanton, picking up his fourth save, was flawless the final three.

Meanwhile, Al Cowens, Bruce Bochte and Dave Henderson belted homers.

Orioles 9, Brewers 4

Dan Ford was getting sick of watching the Baltimore Orioles. Having a seat on the bench does that to him.

Ford capped a five-run, seventh-inning outburst with a pinch-hit grand slam homer Monday night as the streaking Orioles downed the Milwaukee Brewers 9-4 for the eighth victory in their last nine games.

American League

Yankees 5, Red Sox 1

Dave Collins, mentioned in several trade rumors, with the deadline set at midnight PST, may have had his last hurrah as a New York Yankee.

Collins, acquired as free agent last winter, smacked his first homer since August 30, 1981, a two-run shot, to back Ron Guidry's five-hit pitching as New York downed Boston.

Indians 5-2, Tigers 0-1

Len Barker fired a four-hitter in the opener and Rick Sutcliffe and Dan Spillner combined to duplicate the performance in the nightcap as Cleveland swept Detroit and snapped a five-game losing streak.

Barker, 8-3, struck out 11, recording at least one strikeout each inning. It was his first shutout of the season.

A's 4, Blue Jays 2

Tony Armas' sacrifice fly drove home Oakland's deciding run in a two-run third inning and Rickey Henderson stole his 63rd base of the season as Oakland beat Toronto.

Matt Keough, 6-7, who gave up Willie Upshaw's eighth home run of the season, a two-run shot in the first inning, got the win with relief help from Tom Underwood and Dave Beard. Jim Gott, 1-4, was the loser.

Royals 3, Twins 0

Paul Splittorff and Dan Quisenberry combined on a five-hitter and George Brett slammed a solo homer as Kansas City handed Minnesota its 22nd loss in 24 games.

Twins rookie first baseman Kent Hrbek had his 17-game hitting streak halted as he walked three times and grounded out in the eighth. Quisenberry chalked up his 16th save.

National League

Cubs 12, Phillies 11

The way they've been playing for the last few weeks, the Chicago Cubs knew they were due for a good game one of these days.

They finally got one Monday. "We needed that," said Bump Wills after the Cubs broke a 13-game losing streak by pounding 19 hits in a wild, wind-blown 12-11 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Cubs' streak had tied their all-time record for futility, set in 1944, and was the longest in the National League this season. The last Chicago victory this season was a 3-2 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers May 29.

Mets 2, Pirates 1

Ellis Valentine hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning and New York overcame 10 strikeouts by Don Robinson to nip Pittsburgh.

Winner Pete Falcone, 4-2, allowed only five hits in eight innings before Neil Allen pitched the ninth and posted his 15th save to cool the Pirates, who had won eight of their 10 previous games.

Cardinals 2, Expos 1

Darrell Porter tripled home Ken Oberkfell in the third inning and scored on Dane Iorg's sacrifice fly, leading St. Louis over Montreal.

Bob Forsch, 8-2, held Montreal to six hits and one run through seven innings, but left the game in the eighth in favor of Bruce Sutter after leading the bases with nobody out.

Dodgers 4, Padres 3

Dusty Baker hit his 11th home run with two outs in the 11th inning to lift Los Angeles over San Diego before a crowd of 49,973, the second largest in Padres' history.

The teams played to a 3-3 tie through 10 innings before the Dodgers won for their first time in five games in San Diego.

Astros bombard Braves, 9-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston had just limped home from a disastrous road trip, faced the hottest team in the National League, and was opening a tough 13-game homestand. But the Astros' Phil Garner said they were due to break loose.

The battered Astros opened their longest homestand of the year Monday night by pounding the Atlanta Braves 9-0 behind the six-hit pitching of knuckleballer Joe Niekro and a season-high 15 hit attack.

"We were due to break loose sometime," said Garner, one of three Astros to belt three hits. "A lot of things went right. When you play against the guys ahead of you, you've got to take it to them."

The victory came on the heels of a 1-5 Astros road trip and against the team that had whipped Houston in all six previous meetings this year.

"Anytime a pitcher shuts them down, he's doing good," said Niekro. "We just played the type of ball we're capable of playing. They were 14-1 on the road against the West, and that's what

Saints deny high cocaine usage

HOUSTON (AP) — Allegations by a former New Orleans Saints lineman that half the team used cocaine during the disastrous 1980 season are "ridiculous," said owner John Mecom.

Mecom said he believes some players took cocaine, but he estimated no more than "maybe 10 percent" of the athletes used the drug when the Saints compiled a 1-15 National Football League record two years ago.

"I think the NFL has a drug problem, and maybe everyone will admit it now. I don't think the players' association or management wanted to admit it. Now maybe we can all work together to clean it up," he said.

Mecom, who lives in Houston, said he was out of the country when "Sports Illustrated" published former lineman Donald Reese's allegations.

In the first-person article, Reese said, about half the Saints' players used cocaine in 1980.

"It was ridiculous for Donald to claim that sort of thing went on," Mecom said of Reese's charges that players often got high before the games and again in the dressing room at halftime.

"I'm very much an anti-drugger. Something like that would have caught my attention," Mecom said.

The 6-6, 280-pound Reese, once convicted of selling cocaine to an undercover agent, has been treated recently in a drug rehabilitation program.

The Saints offered to get Reese into a detoxification program even after they had released him and the San Diego Chargers cut him in 1981, Mecom said.

Mecom did not deny that there was cocaine use on his team.

"But the story made it seem that if a few of them were involved, then many players had to be in on it," Mecom said. "A misery-loves-company sort of thing..."

The postfight pain hadn't yet fully invaded Larry Holmes' tense and trim body; Gerry Cooney hadn't had his wounds stitched... but the word was already in the air — "rematch."

And, the morning after Holmes battered Cooney into defeat in the 13th round to keep his World Boxing Council heavyweight title, Victor Valle, Cooney's trainer, said, "I hope Larry Holmes retires, but I hope he doesn't retire until he gives us a rematch."

A lot of people side with Valle, not exactly for the same reason. Holmes-Cooney One was a box office smash, and it's just smart business to bring a rematch.

Before last Friday night's battle of unbeaten fighters at Las Vegas, Nev., Cooney had said, "I believe the pressure is on him, not on me. He is the champion, he has everything to lose."

Now the pressure will be on Larry Holmes again. He'll be told that he can make as much or more in a second fight — each fighter might realize about $10 million from their Las Vegas match — and that this time he will be respected as champion, that he will not have to give the challenger a pride-bruising 50-50 split.

And it is a sure bet that Holmes will be told he should prove that his win over Cooney was no fluke.

Larry Holmes has to prove nothing to anybody, and hopefully, he has nothing to prove to himself. Holmes has climbed into the professional prize ring 40 times, and 40 times he walked out a winner. He has defended the title 12 times against anybody promoter Don King and the WBC politicians put in against him.

Time after time, Holmes has risen to the occasion. He won the title from Ken Norton while fighting with a pulled muscle in his left bicep; he overcame in own overconfidence and beat Mike Weaver; he got up from smashing knockdowns to stop Earnie Shavers and Renaldo Snipes, and he handled his victory over Muhammad Ali in a no-win situation with grace.

And, he handled the pressure of the Cooney's fight racial overtones — Cooney entered the ring with a big ovation from the predominantly white crowd; it was boos for Holmes.

If he fought Gerry again, who would it be for, what would it be for? Holmes will be 33 on Nov. 3, and it is conceivable he could be almost 34 by the time of a rematch.

The champion could fight a fringe opponent in Scranton, Pa., where he turned pro in 1973, or in Easton. That would enable him to end his career in a fight in which he would be the star and not be treated as second banana as he generally was against Cooney.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds a number of problems that come from broken promises, so avoid those who are upset and avoid moodiness yourself. Strive to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day to put a new plan in operation. Your hunches are not good, so don't rely on them now. Be more cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to arrange a meeting with higherups and get the support you need. Attend group meeting and get fine results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An ally wants to talk over a business matter with you, but await a better day for that. Sideswap a troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to argue with co-workers today, and remain poised and collected. Take needed health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid a temptation to overspend where recreation is concerned. You can join with good friends later for inexpensive fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to have any long conversations at home until evening or there could be serious arguments occurring.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can now make better plans regarding your personal finances. Talk with an expert about ways to increase your income.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Wait until the afternoon before going through with a practical matter you have in mind. Strive to get ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you are not forceful with others now or you could meet with delays. Help a friend in need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be careful not to fall into some kind of a trap during the day or you will find it difficult to get out of it later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many obligations to attend, so doublecheck with officials so you don't make mistakes. Don't lose your poise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some unsavory situation could ruin your good name, so refuse to become involved in it. Express happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will like to study every aspect of any situation and then reach the right decisions, be it in business matters or in dealing with friends. This can be a successful life if the best education is provided.

Lawrence Welk plays last concert

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — A generation of "wonderful, wonderful" music came to the last bar as champagne music maker Lawrence Welk turned off the bubble machine.

The 79-year-old maestro, who enchanted swing-and-salsa audiences for more than 40 years, played his last concert Sunday in the Concord Pavilion in this bedroom community near San Francisco.

At the concert, one of Welk's daughters, Shirley Fredericks, came on stage and said, "Dad's retiring. He'll have more time to girl-watch and listen to jazz from now on."

"Don't retire!" shouted an adoring audience of 5,000 people, predominantly middle-aged and elderly.

The man who once billed himself as "Lawrence Welk and His Hawaiian Fruit Gum Orchestra" gazed out at the folks who helped make him one of America's most successful entertainers and pronounced them all "wonderful."

Watching from her wheelchair, Lillian Pitts of Alhambra murmured, "He makes everybody happy."

In 1959, Welk fired one of his most famous "champagne girls," Alice Lon, for showing too much knee.

"Cheesecake doesn't fit into our show," Welk grumbled then.

The critics sneered, "Welk is a square." "Now how can I possibly resent that?" Welk responded.

Welk, announcing Sunday that he was turning off his bubble machine forever, said:

"This is about the nicest place I've ever played in my life. You folks are spoiling me. You're just wonderful."

The crowd cheered wildly. Welk's 17 musicians and singers, clad in peach chiffon dresses and suits, handed out plastic roses to the audience.

Welk told reporters before the performance that he had planned to retire at 65, but kept going because he felt it would be unfair to the performers who had been with him for many years.

His television show, which made its debut in 1955, was canceled early this year and is now in reruns.

He said his February retirement from television is total, and he doesn't even plan any specials.

After organizing his band and playing on a South Dakota radio station in the 1930s, Welk began getting bookings throughout the Midwest.

After years on the road, he was "discovered" by ABC at the Aragon Ballroom in Chicago.

Welk succeeded in a television slot where big-name bandleaders such as Sammy Kaye, Wayne King, Freddy Martin, Paul Whiteman, Vincent Lopez and Eddie Condon didn't.

Another generation leaves it to Beaver

By FRED ROTHENBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — Who says there's nothing worthwhile on television? Every day, millions of Americans are watching Beaver Cleaver learn the lessons and lumps of life from the likes of Eddie Haskell and Clarence Rutherford.

As Theodore "Beaver" Cleaver might say, "Gee Wally, that's neat." The more things change, the more they stay the same; another generation is growing up with "Leave It To Beaver."

The 25-year-old situation comedy, which had a six-year run on CBS and then ABC, is experiencing a renaissance in 35 markets, capturing a national Nielsen rating of 3.5 last March. That translates into almost 3 million households.

Nowhere is Beaver's grip stronger than in Ann Arbor, Mich., where seniors from Huron High School have made it a daily ritual to watch June, Ward, Wally "and Jerry Mathers as the Beaver."

"Greater Houston was selected as the first site because it is one of the fastest growing metropolitan areas in the country," said Nelson Schwab III, executive vice president of Taft's attractions group.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Houston was chosen over more than 20 major market areas for a Hanna-Barbera Land park, which features entertainment that can be shared by both children and adults, the Taft Broadcasting Co. says.

"Greater Houston was selected as the first site because it is one of the fastest growing metropolitan areas in the country," said Nelson Schwab III, executive vice president of Taft's attractions group.

Class rings popular again, but not in gold

By HAL SPENCER
Associated Press Writer

ATTLEBORO, Mass. (AP) — The class ring, that symbol of school spirit and teen-age romance, has recovered some of the luster it lost during the student unrest of the 1960s and soaring gold prices a decade later. "Seventy percent of highschool students now buy class rings," compared to 80 percent 15 years ago, says Dick Crawford, director of marketing for Balfour Co., the second-largest maker of class rings in the United States. Crawford knows a lot about class rings. "When I meet people, I look at their fingers first," he jokes. His firm sold about 500,000 class rings this year to high-school and college students, about a quarter of the market, he says. The company stores "tens of thousands" of molds for class-ring designs that have endured for generations, he says. The biggest change in the market is the drop in the number of rings made with gold. A quarter of a century ago, 90 percent of class rings were made of gold. Those days are gone. The reason is obvious. The price of gold has gone from $35 an ounce to more than $800 at one point in the past 10 years. Many students can't afford the cost. The price of gold has been falling since December 1981 and now hovers around the $350-an-ounce mark. "About 55 percent of the rings we sold this year are gold. That's up from about 42 percent last year." When gold prices took off, Balfour executives realized they would have to do something. So the firm developed new alloys including palladium and celestrum, a stainless steel alloy, that now accounts for 25 percent of ring sales. The anti-establishment mood of the 1960s also hurt class-rings sales, especially at the college level, Crawford said.

Economists must make decisions

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — These are tough times for economic forecasters, which is to say the times demand decisions. Will the economy bounce, or will it just drag itself along as it has been doing? Or even fall again?

Billions of dollars conceivably could be at stake. If, for instance, the economist foresees an improvement, he might tip his company's decision in favor of plant expansion. He can tip it the other way too.

And, you might surmise, if he makes the wrong decision he could tip himself right out of a job. The heat's on, presenting forecasters with the toughest job of all, which is to call a turn in the economy.

While many economists aren't in the forecasting business, those most often in the public eye are, and their reputations could be ruined by a bad call. True, the public has a short memory, but corporate managers have long ones; they aren't inclined to forget faulty advice.

Based on the facts, Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers, reaches one conclusion, Edward Yardeni, economist for E.F. Hutton, the securities firm, reaches another.

"Business has been reducing inventories at an extremely rapid rate," says Weidenbaum, who understandably takes a positive approach. "Meanwhile, consumer spending in real terms has increased slightly."

In a statement to the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, the Reagan aide expressed his opinion that the July tax cut will expand consumer saving and spending.

Two days later Yardeni began his weekly "Economics Alert" with the opinion "The economy is falling off a cliff again." No, he said, the economy is not coming out of recession. It's going deeper into it.

Using much the same data, along with favorite indicators of his own, Yardeni expressed the opinion that "the worst of the recession still lies ahead."

Generally speaking, no number of internal factors can compromise reputations more than incorrectly calling major turns in the economy.

Right now the challenge keeps many economists awake nights, counting sheep and various numbers that spill out of their computers. Decisions, decisions.

Layoffs reported

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Treanor Equipment Co. has been forced to lay off about 200 employees since the first of the year because of a 50 percent dip in oil field-related business, the company's president says.

About 100 employees have been laid off since June 1 by the company, which supplies heavy equipment to the oil field industry, Stan Treanor said Monday.

The employees were taken off the payroll at the company's Abilene and Odessa operations, he said.

Treanor said the company now has about 240 employees at the two locations. "Part of the problem was a large workforce to meet the demand of the best year in the company's history in 1981," said Logan Cravens, Treanor's promotion manager.

The workforce was expanded even further by projected increases in sales in 1982 and had to be trimmed after sales dropped, Cravens said.

A GREAT SELECTION OF CANDIES
At Rainbarrel Gifts and Candies at College Park Center

Make the summer fun with Rainbarrel candy

The Rainbarrel Gift Shop in College Park Shopping Center already has a reputation for offering the most unusual of gifts. Now they are tempting Big Spring's collective sweet tooth with some of the finest candy made anywhere.

Rainbarrel owners Steve and Amy Lewis have just opened an old fashioned candy store in the gift shop. Now Rainbarrel Gifts and Candies carries not only quality, unique gifts, but also delicious, hard to find candies.

SOME OF THE more famous candy brands they stock include Lammes Candies from Austin, Sweet Shop candies from Fort Worth, and Lee's Country Candies, also out of Fort Worth, makers of the much-loved Fudge Loves. They also carry Jelly Belly jelly beans, the jelly beans made famous by President Reagan. These are candies that are sold at the finest department stores.

They have handmade gourmet chocolates with no preservatives added. They have fruit slice candies, mini-fruits, rock candy, brandy trifles, and grape, lemon, cherry and tangerine sours.

Rainbarrel is also the only place in town that you can find white chocolate.

In addition, they carry thousands of containers that are perfect for gift giving. The candy is also available in gift boxes to make a perfect gift.

THIS OLD fashioned candy counter only adds to the great selection of gifts already available at the Rainbarrel. They still have stained glass, candles, chimes, and gag gifts.

The Rainbarrel is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. If your sweet tooth yearns for some of the finest candies made, or if you're looking for the perfect gift for someone, check our Rainbarrel Gifts and Candies.
