WIDE LOAD — Shoppers at Coronado Plaza and Highland South Shopping Center may have been startled to see a house pulling out of the parking lots of the two malls yesterday morning. The reason the house was towed through the lots? It was too tall to be towed under the Highway 87 overpass on F.M. 700. The moving crew was headed west on F.M. 700; the owner of the house couldn't be determined.

2 indicted for murder

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Two indictments for murder were among the 30 indictments released by a Howard County grand jury at the conclusion of a two-day session yesterday.

Isaiah Edwards was indicted in connection with the May 31 shooting death of Billy Roy Harris. Curtis Ray Williams was indicted in connection with the May 21 murder of Cynthia Moore.

Sondra Jackson, who had been arrested as a suspect in the Moore case, was not indicted by the jury.

The jury reviewed a total of 40 cases presented by Don Richard, special assistant to the district attorney, and Buster McCartney, investigator for the district attorney's office.

Indictments in cases of theft by check over $200 were returned against the following: Duane Jones, Don Clifton Pledger and Charles Sebrin.

An aggravated assault charge against Kenneth Walter Hilburn was reduced by the grand jury to simple assault, a misdemeanor. The case will be referred to county court, according to the district attorney's office.

The following were indicted in cases of theft over $200: Robert Huff, Abel Maladonado Magana, Yolando Rodriguez Alonso, Sally Ann Moreno, Ernestine Pistno and C.F. "Dusty" Rhodes.

Indictments in forgery cases were handed down to Carl Joe Mendez, Amy Lynn Oseland, John Tidman, Anne Mae Simpson and William F. Berreth.

Jorge Rodriguez and Fred Torres were indicted by the jury in connection with separate burglary offenses. Javier Ponce and Ofilio Esponza were indicted on a burglary of a habitation charge.

An indictment was returned against Thomas A. Stoddard, who is charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Catalina Onofre and Ricardo Tobias Gomez were indicted in connection with separate possession of marijuana offenses.

Indictments for driving while intoxicated (second offense) were handed down to J.N. McCarty and Fred Wayne Johnson.

Mark Allan Nolf was indicted in connection with a criminal mischief offense.

Tim Hatfield was indicted for an aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon offense.

Roy Lee Thompson was indicted by the grand jury on charges of failure to stop and render aid and driving while intoxicated (second offense).

Jerry Weeks, charged with theft of services, also was indicted by the grand jury.

Seven cases were dismissed by the grand jury: James McCarty, charged with aggravated assault, dismissed by request of victim; Robert Valentine, charged with criminal mischief; Big Spring Truck and Trailer, charged with theft by check over $200; Bobbie B. Dade, charged with theft by check over $200; Ronnie Clanton, charged with theft by check over $200; Rudy Rodriguez & Son Plumbing Inc., charged with theft by check over $200; and Glenn Wilkins, charged with theft by check over $200.

Two cases were passed by this particular jury: Lionso Jiminez, charged with unlawfully carrying a weapon, and an investigation into the injury of Mark Engerbretson. The cases can be brought before a grand jury again.

The following persons were no-billed (not indicted) by the grand jury: Michael Ford, who was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle; Rafael Hernandez, who was charged with burglary of a habitation; and Andy Renteria, who was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

An investigation into damage to Rose Carrillo's and Linda Hernandez' vehicles resulted in a no-billing.

City receives royalty check from oil wells

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A royalty check for $4,717 on 800 barrels of oil sold was received by the city of Big Spring last month, according to Airpark Manager Hal Boyd.

The announcement was made during an Airpark steering committee meeting held at the airport terminal building yesterday.

The city received the check from Mark-M Investments, a company holding oil and gas rights on city property on the west side of the Big Spring Industrial Park, Boyd said.

Mark-M reports that three wells currently are producing more than 25 barrels per day, Boyd said. He expects another royalty check from Mark-M sometime next week, he added.

The 20 percent royalties earned off oil and gas produced by Mark-M are exempt from windfall profits taxes because the land is city-owned, according to Boyd.

In other business, committee members learned that O.D. Landrum of Big Spring Aeroservice, who had been sued by the city concerning his contract on building 44 in the park, settled with the city out of court for $7,668.57, Boyd said. The amount covers delinquent rent and water bills, damages and taxes owed to the city and county, Boyd added.

In another matter, city legal adviser Elliott Mitchell has filed suit for termination of a lease with DeWees Automotive, which leases building 409 at the park, Boyd said. DeWees violated his contract by sub-letting the building to Industrial Automotive, receiving the same amount of rent, $400, as asked by the city, Boyd said. The committee agreed to recommend to the city council that Industrial Automotive be allowed to continue leasing the building from the city.

In construction matters, Boyd reported the new general aviation hangar, currently being constructed by D.D. Johnson Construction Co., has been framed and workers are hanging the doors on the frame. The insulation process should begin Monday, Boyd said.

Water lines connecting the city-owned hangars are finished and it "looks like they're in good shape," City Manager Don Davis said. Davis said the lines have been tested for purity and will be tested for pressure this week.

Argentine president replaced

By The Associated Press

Argentine military leaders conferred today to name a new president to replace Gen. Leopoldo F. Galtieri, forced from office and relieved of his army command because of his refusal to admit defeat in the Falkland Islands.

Meanwhile, Britain said it was given an Argentine guarantee of safe passage for British ships to return prisoners from the Falklands directly to Argentina and announced it would allow Argentine vessels to help transport the troops out. The guarantee came through the International Red Cross, officials said in London.

A spokesman for the Foreign Office in London said the requisitioned liner Canberra, with 4,000 prisoners, and the North Sea ferry Norland, with 1,000 more, were expected to sail later in the day for the Argentine harbor of Puerto Madryn.

Interior Minister Alfredo Saint Jean takes over as interim president, but expectations are he will be succeeded either by the foreign minister or the air force chief.

Robert Jones:

A Juneteenth story

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

STANTON — He first realized he was black as a boy of 11. His father taught him to love people, but to hate the bad things they do.

As Robert Jones of Stanton grew into a man with a family of his own, he kept his father's advice close to him, relying on it every day. He stayed out of trouble.

"His reason was in order for me to know how to stay in my place and so I wouldn't become entangled in the law of the U.S. He told me about how things happen... and how to act," the 84-year-old Jones said.

Jones was born and reared in Houston County, "a place where many a black came to harm," Jones said. "Papa taught me to be obedient to the Lord and the law of the U.S."

He was never harmed by men, Jones said, because he practiced his belief in obedience. "I thank God and give God the credit," he said.

Jones said the respect he had for all people caused them to return his respect and he believes that this attitude "will eventually cause love between blacks and whites."

"It causes the good love to come and the bad hate to go away," he explained.

With segregation "couldn't no love exist and people would do good and just hate doing it," Jones said with a chuckle. "They'd do you right and then hate you for it."

Jones said he still sees areas where progress is needed in attaining equal rights for black people, but believes his life has been a good one.

"What was bad was the places where we were not allowed to go. I wasn't allowed to go to nice cafes and sit among white people and couldn't go to the same bathroom," Jones said.

He remembers "before when black men would do something wrong and they would hang them or beat them. A bunch of men would get together and

Test: local students on par with state average

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

In a regular meeting last night, the Big Spring Independent District Board of Trustees heard a report concerning the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test that said local students are at or above the state average for proficiency in math, reading and writing.

The TABS test, which was mandated by the 66th session of the state legislature, has been administered to students in the state since 1979-80. The test, given to all third, fifth and ninth grade students, was administered to Big Spring students this spring.

Mrs. Janice Rosson, the district's secondary curriculum coordinator, presented a report on the ninth-grade results and said the freshmen increased their test scores over last year class in math, reading and writing.

Concerning the test's accuracy, Mrs. Rosson said since the test is prepared by a different testing agency each year and a new class is tested each year, there is "not a lot of statistical reliability in the tests of two different years."

However, she was quick to add that the tests do "tell us what we need to work on."

Mrs. Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator for the district, reported on third and fifth grade tests results, saying both classes averaged about even with last

Local sales up 6%

State Comptroller Bob Bullock reported recently that gross sales in Howard County for the fourth quarter of 1981 — October, November and December — totaled $466,134,624.

Fourth quarter sales in 1981 passed 1980 fourth quarter totals by $29 million, Bullock said, an increase of 6.8 percent.

Statewide, the fourth quarter totals amounted to $109 billion, which represented almost a 20 percent increase over last year's four quarter gross sales.

In surrounding counties, Mitchell, Dawson and Borden all registered increases, while Glasscock and Sterling had decreases in fourth quarter gross sales.

Mitchell County registered $22,239,407 in sales — a 32.6 percent increase from last year.

Dawson County's sales jumped 13.8 percent to $63,908,554, and Borden County gross sales skyrocketed 68.2 percent to $111,630 over last year's fourth quarter sales of $66,348.

Glasscock County's fourth quarter figures showed gross sales to be down 8.9 percent to $1,267,313. And Sterling County registered a 5.4 percent drop in its fourth quarter figures to $3,097,925.

Action/reaction: Bad berries

Q. Are pokeberries poisonous? I saw a paper telling about uses of the leaves for food.

A. Pokeweed, also known as pokeberry, pokeroot and pocan, is a perennial herb with shoots and berries that are edible. However, the berries have poisonous qualities and the herb was abandoned as a rural medicine due to many poisonings. The roots are very poisonous. The berries supposedly taste like spinach.

Forsan council ups water rate

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

For the second time this month Forsan residents have experienced an increase in their utility bills. First came an interim rate hike by General Telephone on June 2, and then in a meeting this week city aldermen voted to increase water rates.

The minimum bill was increased from $3 to $4 for the first 2,000 gallons of water; to $1 per thousand for the next 40,000 gallons; and to $1.50 per thousand for over 40,000 gallons used.

Cost for installing taps was raised to $25 for houses and mobile homes, but meter deposits remained the same at $12 for houses and $25 for mobile homes.

Mayor Woodrow Scudday said the rate increase was mandated because the city needs funds to drill a backup water well system for residents.

"We have only one good water well and if something happens to it we'd be in trouble," Scudday said. "The new well is basically for insurance."

In other action two new aldermen were seated. Oaths of office were administered to Benny Pickett and Owen Rawls, which brought Forsan's complement of aldermen up to full strength for the first time in several months, according to Scudday.

In business matters aldermen considered bids for sale of miscellaneous items. Bids were accepted and awarded for a pickup truck, typewriter, an air conditioner and an adding machine.

Israeli soldiers near guerrilla strongholds

By The Associated Press

Tightening their stranglehold on the bunkers of Yasser Arafat's besieged Palestinian guerrillas, Israeli troops moved into Christian east Beirut today and advanced to the "Green Line" frontier with predominantly Moslem west Beirut.

The Israeli infantrymen pushed closer to the guerrilla trenches in the west one day after Arafat challenged the Israelis to attack, vowing he would turn the Lebanese capital into their graveyard.

Meanwhile, sporadic shelling resumed around hastily-built guerrilla redoubts near the Beirut international airport on the southern edge of the city.

Phalangist Christian militiamen, who have held the eastern half of Beirut since this nation's 1975-76 civil war, guided their Israeli allies to the demarcation line, witnesses said.

The troops drove through the streets of east Beirut in armored personnel carriers and parked near checkpoints where civilian traffic moved unimpeded to and from west Beirut.

Black-bereted Lebanese army commandos checked identities under the watchful eye of the Israelis.

Most of the traffic was from west to east, as families sought to flee from a feared Israeli drive to crush the nerve center of the Palestine Liberation Organization in west Beirut.

The forward Israeli positions were within sight of Syrian army checkpoints on the west side of the green line, but there was no show of hostility between them. An Israeli-Syrian cease-fire has been in force for the past week.

In other parts of the shrinking Palestinian base, guerrillas were raising earth barricades across main avenues and planting minefields with the help of pneumatic drills.

$63,000 civil suit filed over traffic accident

Douglas L. White of Howard County is seeking over $63,000 in damages and expenses in 118th District Court for injuries he claims he suffered as a result of a traffic accident with the minor son of Thelma R. Isaiah.

White claims a vehicle driven by Milton Isaiah Jr. failed to yield the right-of-way Oct. 29, 1981, and was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by White. The suit claims Mrs. Isaiah was negligent in entrusting the vehicle to a minor.

White, who is represented by Bobby R. Bearden, is seeking $3,000 in medical expenses, $50,000 for mental anguish and $10,000 for missed work as a result of his injuries.

Ex-Cosden worker seeks $53,200 in compensation

A suit seeking workman's compensation totalling $53,200 has been filed in 118th District Court by a former Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. employee. Patrick H. McKinney Jr. is asking for 400 weeks of total disability payments at $133 a week from National Union Fire Insurance Co. of Pennsylvania.

McKinney claims injuries he suffered while on the job at Cosden in July 1980 qualify him for total or partial disability. The suit notes he was awarded $175 by the insurance company. McKinney asks for a trial by jury and is being represented by the Lubbock firm of Edwards and Associates.

Downtown Lions induct new officers tonight

Downtown Lions will induct new officers at a Ladies Night affair at 7 p.m. today at the Brass Nal restaurant on U.S. 87. Jimmy Holmes will succeed Jerry Phillips as head of the organization, which now is in its 52nd year of service in Big Spring.

Suit filed over account

Bruce Hatfield and Vince Hatfield of Quality Transport are suing Paragon Energy Inc. in state 118th District Court in Big Spring. The suit claims non-payment of a $12,300 account. The suit claims the account was for services provided by Quality Transport in the area of drilling and completion of oil and gas wells.

continue as (army) commander and president of the nation," the 55-year-old Galtieri said. "The generals ... want me to resign, which I am willing to do today to maintain the unity of the army and the armed forces," Galtieri told reporters at 4 a.m. before retiring for his final night in the Pink House, the presidential palace in Buenos Aires.

"I do so aware of the responsibility this means but sure that it can contribute ... in a positive way to the feelings of the Argentine nation and its international policy."

Galtieri's ouster Thursday as army commander cost him his seat on the three-man ruling-junta of army, navy and air force chiefs.

Britain's Foreign Office said two Argentine hospital ships, the Bahia Paraiso and the Almirante Irizar, were to sail for Stanley to help pick up wounded soldiers, some reportedly shot in the feet by their officers trying to prevent them from deserting during the fighting.

A spokesman for British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Britain has yet to receive an assurance Argentina considers hostilities in the South Atlantic at an end. Lacking that assurance, about 1,000 higher-ranking officers and commandos will remain British prisoners, he said. Britain says it took a total of about 10,000 Argentine troops prisoner after their commander surrendered at Stanley Monday night.

Four thousand Argentine prisoners waiting to leave the freezing Falklands on the British ship Canberra clapped and cheered when they heard of Galtieri's ouster, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported today.

Costa Mendez also is enjoying increased prestige for developing a compromise plan to repatriate captured Argentine troops via neighboring Uruguay, circumventing Galtieri's refusal to guarantee British ships safe passage to Argentina.

"I remember seeing a black man and a white man walking down the street ... the black man looking at him and him looking back. The white man said, 'What you lookin' at?' and just beat him up, just beat him up. I seen 'em do that. I was just 12 years old."

His hope for the future is that "black and white live more loving one towards another ... more cooperative."

If so, they will be at peace always," Jones said.

Mr. Jones and Julia, his wife, will try to celebrate Juneteenth tomorrow, he said. He recalled celebrations of the past.

"We'd call each other together, we'd pick out a certain place and give a big dinner ... we'd do the barbecuing of cattle and hogs and bring light bread, biscuits, cakes and pies."

"Then we'd ask the very wisest man we thought would be able to speak on improving the lives of the black race, and he would give a speech."

Jones said white and black people would be together on that day, but would stay segregated ... at the blacks' insistence.

"Some whites would come by and want to buy the food we had, but we wouldn't let them, we used to have a grand time," he said with a laugh.

The fifth grade made its highest mark on the writing sample, while reading proved to be the students' weakest point.

Halliburton, Dresser plan layoffs

DALLAS (AP) — Officials of Dresser Industries Inc. say they will lay off 450 workers this week, while a subsidiary of another oilfield service company has already laid off 650 of its employees in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas since June 1.

Spokesmen for Dresser and Halliburton Co. said Wednesday the layoffs are due to a downturn in drilling activity in the oil and gas industry. They said that the 2,924 rigs operating in the United States are down 25 percent from a year ago.

Dresser's Security Division, which manufactures rock bits, will lay off about 200 salaried and hourly employees at its Dallas plant, effective June 18.

And the Guberson Division plant of Dresser here notified about 150 salaried and hourly employees of their layoffs, effective Wednesday.

"These layoffs are a direct result of the downturn in oilfield drilling and completion businesses which use our products," said John Ray, industrial relations manager for Dresser. "We do not know how long the layoffs will last."

Halliburton Services Inc., a subsidiary of Dallas-based Halliburton Co., has laid off about 300 workers since June 1 at its Duncan, Okla., plant. Company officials said another 350 have been laid off at Halliburton Services plants in Davis, Okla., Coffeyville, Kan., and Amarillo.

"It's primarily due to the slump in the drilling industry," said John Birdsong, vice president of personnel at Halliburton. "It's industry-wide."

He said he did not know how long the present cuts would be in effect.

Frank Newton, district manager for Halliburton Services in Big Spring, said he doesn't foresee any local layoffs.

Halliburton is "keeping (its) head above the water" in Howard County, Newton said.

Halliburton employs 124 persons in the county, he said.

"The current pessimism in the domestic oil industry stems basically from reduced demand, declining or unstable oil prices, and high oilfield inflation," R.B. Kyle Jr., senior vice president of operations for Dresser, said in a recent presentation at an oil and gas seminar.

"These three factors together have translated into a downturn in the rig count," he said.

But Hyde added that he did not believe there is an oil glut.

"The domestic oil glut is a misnomer," he said. "The U.S. is importing almost 40 percent of its domestic requirements and will continue to do so for some time."

Court denies Franklin appeal

The Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin has denied Johnny Howard Franklin's appeal of two prison sentences handed him in the state's 118th District Court in Howard County Nov. 5, 1973.

The appeals court upheld Franklin's sentences of 25 and 30 years respectively for convictions of assault with intent to murder and aggravated robbery. Franklin had pleaded guilty to the charges in 1973 and the sentences were to run concurrently, the ruling states.

Franklin contended the two criminal charges were so alike that admitting to both amounted to double jeopardy. The appeals court, however, denied him relief and affirmed the district court's action.

Mental patients must be educated: court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that mentally retarded individuals committed to state institutions must be given training and education in addition to food, housing and medical care.

The court's 8-1 vote, involving a dispute over a Pennsylvania mental institution, is a major victory for the more than 100,000 such patients in the United States.

The ruling also severely limited a state's rights to shackle or otherwise restrain patients in its mental institutions.

The opinion, written by Justice Lewis F. Powell, said a patient's "liberty interests require the state to provide minimally adequate or reasonable training to ensure safety and freedom from undue restraint."

Powell's added that officials "may not restrain residents except when and to the extent professional judgment deems this necessary to assure such safety or to provide needed training."

In the case at hand, he wrote, "the minimally adequate training required by the Constitution is such training as may be reasonable in light of (the patient's) liberty interests in safety and freedom from unreasonable restraints."

"In determining what is 'reasonable' — in this and in any case presenting a claim for training by a state — we emphasize that courts must show deference to the judgment exercised by a qualified professional."

The court thus made it clear that while it was approving sweeping new rights for mentally retarded patients, it wanted to limit the intrusion by federal courts into the operations of state-run institutions.

Judge won't order release of Haitians

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge refused today to order the release of some 1,900 Haitians held in U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service camps around the country, but ruled that their detention violates administrative procedure.

U.S. District Judge Eugene P. Spellman scheduled a hearing for Wednesday hearing to determine their future.

Spellman said his ruling "does not mean to say that detention in and of itself is unlawful." He said the non-profit Haitian Refugee Center Inc. failed to prove that the policy of detaining the black refugees is racist, as was contended in the two-month trial by lawyers representing the Haitians.

"The mere fact that more Haitians were detained does not render the policy discriminatory," the judge said as he announced his ruling.

Deaths

3 suspended in Tyler police brutality probe

TYLER, Texas (AP) — An investigation into allegations of police brutality has led to the resignations of two officers and the suspensions of three others in this East Texas city, the police chief said.

The Tyler Courier-Times-Telegraph reported in a copyright story Friday that five of the 10 officers investigated have been exonerated of any involvement in the alleged beating of a prisoner.

Police Chief Willie Hardy told The Associated Press early today that criminal charges may be brought against two of the officers.

He said the 11-day investigation determined three officers may have violated departmental policy, but did not face any possible criminal charges.

"A comprehensive report has been given to the district attorney and it is up to him whether he will take it before the grand jury," said Hardy.

District Attorney Hunter Brush told the newspaper the grand jury would consider criminal charges against two officers next week.

The chief said the criminal charge being considered against two officers is a third degree felony charge of violating the rights of a prisoner.

"We have never had anything of this magnitude since I have been chief. This is a very unfortunate situation," said Hardy, who became police chief in 1979.

The newspaper said the investigation began after a police sergeant reported he saw officers hit the prisoner in the stomach and back while they were putting handcuffs on the man.

The investigation began after police Sgt. Bruce Wells reported he saw two officers beat a 31-year-old Tyler man as they handcuffed him inside a downtown jewelry store early June 6, the newspaper said.

Wells said one officer hit Randy Wayne Janowiak in the stomach and the other applied pressure with his knee to his back.

"This type of behavior cannot and will not be condoned by the Tyler Police Department," Hardy said.

Janowiak, who is being held on a $5,000 bond in Smith County jail on the burglary charge, did not file brutality charges, Hardy said.

Hardy said the city attorney had advised him not to release the names of the officers until formal charges are filed and the investigation is completed.

"Because several of the officers involved in this incident have been exonerated I will decline to release the names of the officers to protect them," Hardy said.

A source who asked not to be identified told the newspaper the three suspended officers were patrolmen Oren Hale, Dan Ross and Paul Black. The newspaper said Hale and Ross were suspended indefinitely and Black was suspended for two days.

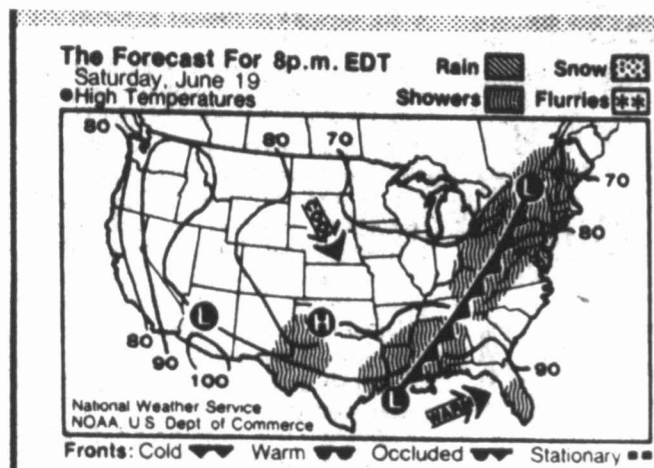

Hale told the AP Thursday night that he and Ross had been suspended because of the investigation. He declined further comment and Ross could not be reached for comment.

A woman who identified herself as Black's wife, said Thursday night her husband had been suspended for two days. She said her husband was asleep and she would not call him to the phone.

Police Sgt. Luther Taliaferro declined to identify the suspended officers or the two that resigned. But he told The AP that Hale, Ross and Black were three of the 10 officers being investigated.

Joseph Gilbreath, an attorney with the Austin-based Combined Law Enforcement Association of Texas, said Hale and another officer contacted him about the investigation and the patrolman's organization retained two Tyler attorneys to represent the officers.

High winds hit northern Texas

By The Associated Press

A severe thunderstorm spawned by a cold front brought high winds and heavy rains to North Central Texas early today, overturning a trailer house and tearing roofs off houses in one community, but causing no injuries.

Flooding accompanied the rains that prompted severe thunderstorm warnings for counties northwest of Abilene and near Mineral Wells. But authorities said no evacuations had been reported.

Small buildings were demolished in Haskell and water damage was received in houses and downtown businesses, a dispatcher for the Haskell County sheriff's office said.

WEST TEXAS — Scattered thunderstorms with no important temperature changes. Lows near 60 north to near 70 south. Highs near 80 north to near 103 Big Bend.

Appointment irks Democratic chairman

Clements picks woman for Supreme Court

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republican Gov. Bill Clements' choice of a Houston Democrat as the Texas Supreme Court's first full-time female judge has upset the chairman of the Texas Democratic Party.

Clements on Thursday picked State District Judge Ruby Sondock, 56, to replace James Denton, who died last week of a heart attack.

Mrs. Sondock, looking a bit nervous, said, "I'm seldom at a loss for words, but making history is something you just don't do every day."

In addition to becoming a part of Texas history, Mrs. Sondock — who said she is apolitical — almost immediately became a political issue.

State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle said the appointment was a "cynical gesture" and he indicated Clements wants to confound the State Democratic Executive Committee's selection of a replacement nominee for Denton.

Denton won renomination in May in a narrow win over State District Judge Bill Kilgarlin of Houston. Since there is no Republican candidate, the Democratic nominee most likely will get the seat after the November election.

Clements said he picked Mrs. Sondock, who he did not know, because he was told she is "beautifully qualified" for the job.

Slagle said Clements wants to "create a political climate of his choosing for us to operate in." The SDEC meets in Brownsville Saturday to pick a nominee. Kilgarlin is the favorite.

CLEMENTS AND NEW JUSTICE — Gov. Bill Clements, right, introduces Ruby Sondock of Houston at an Austin press conference where he named Mrs. Sondock to be a Justice of the Texas Supreme Court. She will serve through the next general election, replacing James G. Denton, who died last week.

"We in the Democratic Party are not surprised by Gov. Clements' sudden sensitivity to women since he is running for re-election and is currently behind in the polls," said Slagle.

"Such sensitivity more often expressed in a less political context might have stood him in good stead with Texas voters. But I believe that they will see this act for what it is — a cynical gesture by a losing political candidate," he said. Clements claims his poll shows him comfortably ahead of Democratic opponent Mark White.

Mrs. Sondock, the first woman and first Jew on the state's highest court, said she would not go to Brownsville to seek the nomination and she indicated she would serve only as an interim judge.

She is unopposed for re-election to her Houston judgeship.

The appointee said she has "probably the lowest profile politically of any judge in the state" and "I look forward to the day when the state of Texas will take judges off the contested ballot as we know it today."

Mrs. Sondock said judges should be appointed, and then be placed on the ballot for voter approval. The Houston native became a judge in 1973 when Gov. Preston Smith appointed her to a domestic relations court in Houston. In April 1977, Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed her a state district court judge.

The Texas Supreme Court was totally female for one case in the 1920s, according to Chief Justice Joe Greenhill. The male members of the then-three member court had to step aside in a case involving a fraternal organization to which they all belonged.

Three women were appointed to hear the case.

Clements said Mrs. Sondock "did not seek this position. We recruited her."

The grandmother of four said her term on the high court will be a "very nice legacy to be able to leave to them."

Senate nears renewal of Voting Rights Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wore down the determined and tenacious opposition of a small group of conservatives early today and set the stage for easy renewal of enforcement sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

A coalition of moderate Republicans and the 46 Senate Democrats was set to give civil rights organizations their only major victory of the 97th Congress.

After more than 13 hours of nearly continuous debate Thursday night and early today, the Senate was close to ending a year-long congressional battle after conservative Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., abandoned a filibuster against the legislation.

At the close of debate, many senators appeared exhausted, some slouching in their chairs and resting their heads on their hands.

Sources said "restless" Republicans pressured Helms to give up his filibuster. Helms, they said, realized continued delay might interfere with other issues of greater importance to him, such as a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget.

Specifically, the voting rights measure, which is certain to be approved later today, will:

—Retain federal supervision over all or parts of 22 states, mainly in the South, that have had poor minority voting records.

—Spell out new rules beginning in 1984 under which those states can bail out, or escape, from scrutiny of the Justice Department or federal courts.

For the first time, a county would be able to escape continued Justice Department oversight, even if the rest of the state is covered by so-called pre-clearance provisions of the law.

—Allow a federal judge to find that a city, county or state has discriminated against black or other minority voters if the effect of governmental action is racial discrimination.

—Extend language requirements under which minorities who do not speak English must be provided voting instructions in their native languages.

'Put aside horror,' Hinckley lawyer says

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attorney for John W. Hinckley is asking jurors to "put aside the horror" of the presidential assassination attempt and consider the mental illness of the defendant, who wept during closing arguments.

Chief defense lawyer Vincent J. Fuller today is continuing the summation that was interrupted Thursday after Hinckley's face turned red and he shielded his wet eyes with his hands.

A quick recess was called by U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker and Hinckley was escorted to a holding cell by marshals, who gave him a box of tissues and water. Moments later he returned, but Parker decided to adjourn court for the day.

No single remark by Fuller appeared to bring on the emotional breakdown, which seemed to build gradually after Hinckley sat most of the day as if he were in a trance.

He showed little emotion even during the closing argument of prosecutor Roger M. Adelman, who shouted what he said were Hinckley's thoughts on March 30, 1981: "Get the president. Get the president. Get the president."

Adelman will have one more chance to speak to the jury once Fuller ends his closing statement. Then Parker will give legal instructions and, probably by day's end, submit the case for deliberations.

Fuller, his voice alternately rising a falling, asked jurors Thursday to "put aside the horror of March 30 because it does not relate to the defendant's mental responsibility."

Hinckley contends he was insane and, thus, not legally responsible for shooting Reagan and three other men. Fuller hammered at that theme during the more than two hours he spoke to the jury.

"He lived a solitary life," Fuller told the jury of seven women and five men. "He was a prisoner of himself for at least seven years before this tragedy."

Hinckley was, Fuller said, "A psychotic who had a fear he was sick and was afraid to disclose it."

Adelman, the prosecutor, said Hinckley shot Reagan for fame.

But Fuller contended there was another reason. "Mr. Hinckley was living in such a self-contained world ... he was unaware of anything but his goal."

Man indicted in bombing death

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A 53-year-old man has been indicted for capital murder in the car bombing death of his former business partner.

John Clifford Skelton, who surrendered to authorities last week and was freed on $150,000 bond, was named in the indictment returned Thursday by Ector County grand jurors.

He was accused of intentionally killing Joe Lee Neal on April 24 while committing "arson of a vehicle" with the fatal explosives.

Police said Neal and Skelton had owned a steam-cleaning business together. Neal died when his pickup truck exploded after he turned on the ignition.

Future shock

In 1974, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce came up with a set of predictions about inflation. Based on continued deficit spending and inflation, the dollar, which had shrunk in value by 60 cents in purchasing power from 1946 to 40 cents in 1974, would further shrink to 16 cents in purchasing power by the year 2002. Federal government spending would rise to $762 billion a year, and the federal debt would rise to $1.2 trillion. A car costing $3,000 in 1974 would cost $7,500 in 2002; a $25,000 home would cost $62,500, and a $4,000 college tuition would cost $10,000.

"Well, we are often accused of being alarmists, and in fact our chief economist at that time did get a chuckle out of such speculation," Senior Economist Martin Lefkowitz recalls.

Well, the 40-cent dollar of 1974 is now worth 20 cents. Federal spending in fiscal year 1983 may be kept down to $785 billion. The federal debt, based on optimistic forecasts, will be $1.2 trillion by the end of fiscal year 1983. The median house now cost $68,400.

So what of the year 2002? If things continue the way they have gone from 1974 to 1982, here are the Chamber's revised predictions. In 2002, the 1946 dollar will be worth four cents; a $68,000 house will cost $363,000; the federal budget, which grew at a 13.3 percent annual rate from 1974 to 1982, will be $8.8 trillion, and the federal debt will be $9.5 trillion. The average worker, who now earns $15,000 a year, will have to make $80,000 a year just to stay even.

Don't forget. You read it here first.

Eye opener

One of the nice things about being a reporter is that the profession offers one the opportunity to meet a great number of people with varying viewpoints.

Sometimes, that exposure to so many different angles of a subject clouds your view. At other times, you may even change your mind.

A recent trip to Fort Hood with the Big Spring-Midland Company of the National Guard changed several viewpoints I had always held.

Often called "summer soldiers," "weekend warriors" or "part-time soldiers," National Guardsmen had always seemed to be second-class soldiers to me, poorly trained and a matter of last resort. Like most people, if I thought of them at all, it was in connection with disasters or civil disturbances.

I received quite a few jolts to that way of thinking last week.

THESE GUYS were not training in how to deal with riots, floods or tornadoes while I was there — they were in a simulated combat situation most of the time. Everyone was expected to have a weapon at hand at all times, and easy familiarity with which they handled their weapons was an indicator of their proficiency.

They trained in tactics and carried out and repelled attacks constantly.

Most of these men are veterans of one type or another, dispelling the myth that everyone in the Army during peacetime was there either because they couldn't find a job outside or because they were career men.

Like many other people who are raised being independent and familiar with firearms, I had never felt any need to join the military, feeling "I'm not going to join, but if the enemy ever comes over here, I'll fight him."

From what I saw last week, that would be an easy way to die quickly. Granted, no guerilla war has ever been successfully won by a professional army — but if you're a professional, the odds of living longer are better.

These soldiers train regularly in subjects such as gas and chemical warfare, support fire, and military tactics — things the guerilla must survive long enough to learn from

Billy Graham

Abortion wrong

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I've been asked to participate in a discussion on abortion at my school. Does the Bible seem to say anything about this subject? — D.R.

DEAR DR.: I am opposed to abortion, except in those very rare instances where the alternative would be even more evil, such as when a mother's life is clearly in danger. I am opposed to it because I believe the Bible gives us some principles which indicate abortion is wrong in the eyes of God.

First of all, human life is sacred in the eyes of God. Man is the creation of God — he is not here by chance or biological accident. Furthermore, man was created in the image of God, and that sets him apart from all the rest of creation. Man is not just another animal, and he is not just a physical being. Man has been given the wonderful capacity to know God and to serve him. Man also has a soul or a spiritual nature, and this is precious and infinitely valuable in God's eyes. God takes the worth of the human life so seriously that he was willing to let his Son die on the Cross to experience.

ANOTHER misconception which I had held was that the two-week summer camps the guardsmen attend each year were little more than vacations, with much time spent drinking and checking out women.

Looks like I was wrong again. The only women I saw were members of the National Guard — professional soldiers like the men. The only drinking I saw was an occasional beer.

As far as a vacation goes — forget it. The men had been in the field for a week, with few opportunities to even shower. Most of them smelled something like unwashed goats. They worked late, sometimes as late as 4:30 a.m., and I was shaken out of a fitful sleep in the barracks at the same hour.

In addition to all of this, there is the interminable waiting, hours spent doing nothing but waiting are interrupted by bursts of frantic activity and almost paralyzing fear.

Yes, fear. Accidents do happen. Last year, I was told by a sergeant, an Armored Personnel Carrier (a box-like vehicle for carrying troops, mounted on tank-like treads) sunk in 25 feet of water during a river crossing. If you're in the back, or troop area, there's no way out. A log had fallen on a man's arm leaving him with no feeling in the appendage. A simulator grenade went off in a man's face, burning him. Live rounds got mixed in with the blanks which were supposed to be fired.

THESE GUYS believe in what they're doing, and they take it very seriously. We owe them a debt of gratitude — they're training to deal with something most of us would rather not think about — war. And if it does come, they'll be among the first to go, right after active-duty regular army types. More than 50 percent of our current military forces is made up of guardsmen and reserves.

These unseemly soldiers deserve some of the respect we normally accord to those who wear the country's uniform constantly.

Weekend warriors ... well, yes, but good ones.

When John the Baptist's mother was visited by Jesus' mother, Mary, the unborn John kicked in his mother's womb. The Bible mentions this to show that John, although unborn, recognized the Messiah. Other examples could be cited.

There are also other factors that concern me. The motives of some who propose easy abortion are open to question. Some see it as a way to avoid the problems and results of sexual immorality. Some are only concerned with their own selfish life, and have no regard for the child they are bearing. I also find many, many women who have undergone an abortion have second thoughts.

redeem us.

Is the unborn child a human being in the eyes of God? Or is that fetus less than human? This is the heart of the problem. Certainly it is potentially a human, and that alone should make us very cautious about terminating its life. But Scripture also seems to indicate the fetus is human in God's eyes. God told Jeremiah, "Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, before you were born I set you apart" (Jeremiah 1:5).

When John the Baptist's mother was visited by Jesus' mother, Mary, the unborn John kicked in his mother's womb. The Bible mentions this to show that John, although unborn, recognized the Messiah. Other examples could be cited.

There are also other factors that concern me. The motives of some who propose easy abortion are open to question. Some see it as a way to avoid the problems and results of sexual immorality. Some are only concerned with their own selfish life, and have no regard for the child they are bearing. I also find many, many women who have undergone an abortion have second thoughts.

The Lebanese opening

WASHINGTON — Within hours after the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, the State Department threw together a "crisis task force" of its top Middle East specialists to give President Reagan and his foreign policy advisers the answer to the big question: What will happen next?

Based on their years of expertise in the arcane business of linking cause and effect in the tumultuous Middle East, the analysts produced their best estimate of the likely turn of events. One of these estimates, stamped "Secret," was shown to my associate Dale Van Atta.

The report breaks down the soothsayers' conclusions into short-term and long-term possibilities. In appraising the clarity of the experts' crystal ball, it is important to remember that these are the forecasts the White House relies on to plan U.S. responses to the fast-moving situation in this vital part of the world.

LET'S SEE what the crystal ball revealed. First, the short-term predictions, which were made 10 days ago: "Israel will expand the 'Free Lebanon' corridor nominally controlled by Major (Saad) Haddad's militia to include, at a minimum, the Litani River and Beaufort Castle. Most of the population, largely Catholic, will be driven out, as in 1978."

"It is unlikely that Israel will allow United Nations peacekeeping forces in the expanded Haddad corridor, nor is it likely that the nations contributing to the forces will wish to maintain troops in Lebanon under the circumstances."

"Syrian forces are unlikely to seriously engage Israel, except in demonstrative air intercepts, unless Israeli forces penetrate Bekaa Valley.

"European frustration with American initiatives in the Middle East will probably result in a renewed European initiative."

"Further American efforts to interest moderate Arab nations in the Camp David formula would probably be counterproductive."

"The future of the Palestine Liberation Organization is uncertain. If (Yasir) Arafat falls, the Palestinian movement will probably disintegrate into radical splinter groups ..."

IT'S BORING WITHIN — Does the

Even demonstrative actions have potential for escalation, of course."

Other estimates warn that full-scale Syrian intervention might well occur if local Syrian commanders elect to attack the wide-ranging Israeli troops; in this situation, the entire Syrian army could be dragged into the conflict. And because the Syrians are no match for Israeli forces, this leads to the most ominous short-term prediction of all: "In the event of a serious threat to the Syrian government, direct Soviet intervention becomes a distinct likelihood."

Now for the long-range predictions in the secret report: "Israel will continue to supply arms to Phalangist (right-wing Christian) forces in the North. The combination of increased Phalangist military strength and the weakened Palestinian position and the influx of refugees to the North is explosive, and may reinitiate the civil war."

"Much depends on the restrictions placed on Haddad's forces after the main elements of the IDF (Israeli Defense Force) have withdrawn. In the past, Israel has encouraged Haddad's unprovoked attacks on Lebanese civilian targets as a means of increasing popular resentment against the Palestinians."

"European frustration with American initiatives in the Middle East will probably result in a renewed European initiative."

"Further American efforts to interest moderate Arab nations in the Camp David formula would probably be counterproductive."

"The future of the Palestine Liberation Organization is uncertain. If (Yasir) Arafat falls, the Palestinian movement will probably disintegrate into radical splinter groups ..."

Poor, elderly need medical cost relief

Dear Editor, On behalf of the poor and elderly recipients of Medicare, I vigorously oppose Administration and Congressional proposals to reduce further Medicare benefits as hospital costs continue to escalate in most areas of the nation.

Last year, rollbacks in Medicare increased out-of-pocket expenses for beneficiaries by 27 per cent. Unless Congress takes the appropriate action, another reduction in benefits seems imminent.

One of the proposals would increase Medicare hospital patients' costs $18 a day for the second through the 60th day. Other proposals would increase beneficiary costs by even more.

It is particularly disturbing that the proposed cuts fail to address the primary cause of health care inflation — explosive increases in hospital costs. Hospital costs increased more than 19 per cent in 1981, compared to only an 8.9 per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index. Since almost three quarters of all Medicare expenditures are for hospital costs, failure to control these costs means that the pressure to cut Medicare expenditures will continue as hospital cost inflation increases Medicare costs.

I support strong limitations on the rate of increase in hospital expenditures and physician fees. These limitations must be applied across-the-board, not just on the public programs, like Medicare, but on private sector reimbursement as well. Such limitations would slow the escalation in Medicare expenditures and beneficiary costs and also reduce the rate of increase in private health insurance premiums.

Since the late 1970s some of the public supported hospital cost containment legislation which applied mandatory limits to hospital cost increases. Had hospital cost containment legislation not been defeated in Congress in 1979, federal savings in hospital expenditures would have been $920 million in 1981.

I contend that Congress could provide incentives for the states to develop their own hospital rate review systems. The six states which now have mandatory hospital rate reviews have been successful in holding down increases. If all other states had held hospital cost increases to comparable levels by those states, costs would have been $12 billion lower in 1980.

Congress must control hospital costs now, because continually escalating hospital costs will exhaust the Medicare Trust Fund by the latter half of the 1980s, concluding that the result would profoundly change Medicare benefits and likely lead to large scale cutbacks.

The poor and elderly need your support in this effort. We need the support of the U.S. Senator and the U.S. Representative of this county to

(1) not place additional burdens on beneficiaries and private-paying patients;

(2) support strong, across-the-board measures to limit the rate of increase in hospital costs and physician fees.

Boy forced to steal by parents?

SAYRE, Okla. (AP) — The mother and stepfather of a teen-ager who says he was beaten with a bullwhip to make him assist in burglaries have been served with warrants accusing them of paying an undercover agent to prevent his testimony.

Kenneth and Jeannie Yandell were jailed on seven burglary counts after a day-long preliminary hearing Thursday.

The hearing was interrupted when state Bureau of Investigation agents served them with warrants for conspiring to prevent testimony from the 16-year-old boy, Patrick Wayne Beats.

Paul Renfrow, an OSBI spokesman, said the couple allegedly gave an undercover agent $500 to kidnap the boy and promised $2,500 more if he was kept from testifying. Bail on the conspiracy charges was set at $50,000 each and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for July 26.

STOLEN GOODS — A Sayre, Okla. law official stands alone in a room filled with property stolen by 16-year-old Pat Beats. Beats testified Thursday during a preliminary hearing that his parents, Kenneth and Jeannie Yandell, forced him to burglarize homes in Sayre by beating him.

Gulf makes bid for Cities Service

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer

Gulf Oil Corp. is offering $4.89 billion in cash and securities for Cities Service Co. in a proposed takeover that would mark the third multibillion-dollar buyout of a medium-sized oil company in less than a year.

Gulf, the nation's sixth largest oil concern, announced late Thursday that boards of directors of both companies had approved the merger agreement.

The deal apparently will end the prolonged, sometimes bitter battle between Cities Service and Mesa Petroleum Co., which have made offers to gain control of each other and had taken their fight to court this week.

John Boros, a Mesa vice president, said Thursday from the company's headquarters in Amarillo, Texas, that Mesa had no comment on the Gulf deal.

Earlier Thursday, Mesa had announced that 45 percent of Cities Service shares had been tendered as of midnight Wednesday under Mesa's offer of $45 a share for 15 percent of Cities Service stock. Those shares can be withdrawn.

Cities Service had made its own tender offer of $21 a share for 51 percent of Mesa's stock. It is questionable whether it will carry through on that bid, now that Gulf apparently has put Mesa out of the running.

Gulf's proposal, which must gain government and stockholder approval, would create the country's seventh-largest industrial concern, based on their combined 1981 sales of $3.14 billion. It also would rank as the nation's fifth-largest oil company, surpassing Standard Oil Co. (Indiana).

Gulf said it would pay $63 a share in cash for 51 percent of Cities Service's 77.65 million shares and get the remaining stock by exchanging Gulf securities valued at $63 apiece. Gulf is about three times the size of Cities Service, which ranks as the 20th-largest U.S. oil concern.

In Washington, the Justice Department said it and the Federal Trade Commission had agreed the proposed merger would come under FTC jurisdiction. Both agencies handle antitrust investigations, and the FTC frequently examines oil company questions in that field because of the knowledge it has accumulated in past investigations of the industry.

Last fall the FTC sought to block Mobil Corp. from attempting to buy Marathon Oil Co., saying it saw possible antitrust problems with such a merger. Marathon eventually was bought by U.S. Steel Corp. for $6.3 billion.

Last September, in the biggest corporate takeover in U.S. history, Du Pont Co. paid $7.8 billion for Conoco Inc. Mobil also had sought Conoco, which ranked as the ninth-largest oil concern in the United States.

Some analysts said Gulf's bid for Cities Service fit Gulf's strategy to widen its U.S. energy operations while reducing its international activities.

Population of Lebanon learns to live with war

By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In the space of 200 yards, you can run the spectrum of Lebanon's crazy-quilt political scene.

Crossing from Christian east Beirut to the Palestinian enclave in the west, motorists have to talk their way past gun-toting Christian Phalangist militiamen, Lebanese army soldiers, Syrian troops, a leftist militia post and Palestinian guerrillas.

It takes an experienced eye to tell them apart. Syrians have green berets, Christian Phalangists carry U.S.-made M-16 assault rifles, leftist Murabitoun militias are camouflaged and hatless, Lebanese army regulars wear insignia showing a cedar tree with unruly branches while the Christian militia's cedar is tidy, and the Palestinians wear red berets.

"I really don't understand why everyone wants to have his own checkpoint," said one Lebanese taxi driver. "I guess they just want to demonstrate their power."

A convoy of Israeli troop-carrying trucks came rolling out of the mountains through the Christian-held eastern suburbs of Beirut. As the convoy screamed to a halt in front of a line of shops, a burly, bearded soldier jumped down and rushed toward a store selling lawn furniture — his arms embracing two men standing in the door in joyous reunion.

With the convoy idling patiently, a woman carrying a baby rushed out of the store and hugged the Israeli soldier.

"Mama, mama," the Israeli yelled. "How are you? It's been seven years."

The soldier, 32-year-old Alf Kleint, said he emigrated from Lebanon in 1975. "I used to work in this store," he said. "She is not my real mother, but she is as good as a mother to me."

In the west Beirut suburb of Bourj Abu Haidar, grain merchant Khalid Mughrabi was standing amidst dried beans and chick peas scattered on the ground from sacks blown apart by Israeli bombs.

"The Israelis have no humanity," he said. He pointed to a five-story apartment complex across the street stripped of its facade by an Israeli air raid — turning its occupants into refugees.

West Texas battles pesky elm leaf beetle

The elm leaf beetle is an annual pest on foliage of Siberian elm trees throughout West Texas. Feeding from this insect skeletonizes the left surface of leaves and causes premature defoliation of trees. This weakens the trees and makes them more susceptible to tree borers and disease organisms.

When daily temperatures become warm in the spring and the trees begin to leaf out, the adult elm leaf beetles become active. Adult beetles fly to the nearest Siberian elm tree and begin feeding on the new leaves.

The adult beetle is about a quarter-inch long, yellowish to olive green, with a black stripe along each side of wing covers. The eyes are black, and there are four black spots on the thorax.

The female beetles lay eggs on the back side of leaves in groups of 10 to 30. Eggs are bottle-shaped and yellowish orange in color. Eggs hatch in a few days into small worms that are nearly black in coloration and are covered with short black hairs.

The larvae or worm stage is the most destructive life stage of the beetle. When full grown, it is about half an inch long and has a dull yellow color with two black stripes. Larvae feed for about two weeks, then seek out crevices on the tree in which to pupate. In about seven to 10 days they change into adults. There are three or four generations per year.

Proper timing of a foliar spray application of carbaryl when the eggs start to hatch will control this insect pest. Mix and apply the foliar spray according to the manufacturer's directions on the label of the insecticide container. Wettable powder or liquid formulations of carbaryl may be used. Repeat the foliar spray at egg hatch of the second generation.

Thorough coverage of trees with the insecticide spray necessary to obtain satisfactory control.

LAST EDITION — The last front page layout for the Cleveland press lies on a composing room table early Thursday morning as the 103-year-old daily announced it would suspend publication. Employees reporting for work Thursday morning found a memo from publisher Joseph Cole informing them of the closing.

Cleveland Press publishes last edition

CLEVELAND (AP) — For eight years, Ray Leveranz stopped on his way home at Teddy's newsstand on Public Square to grab the evening paper, read it on the train and "take it home to the wife." He can't do that any more.

The sudden death Thursday of The Cleveland Press — the nation's sixth major afternoon newspaper in the last year to announce it was folding — surprised few people. The paper's 900 employees, who knew the 103-year-old paper could die at any time, were angered at being the last to know.

Several news organizations reported Wednesday on the newspaper's imminent demise without being able to obtain comment from Press officials. Employees were told of the closing in a private meeting Thursday morning.

"It was a great blow to us that it was leaked and not announced to the staff in a proper manner," said business reporter Mike Mahoney.

Publisher Joseph E. Cole, who bought the newspaper from the E.W. Scripps Co. in October 1980, said he ran out of money.

"With better economic conditions, I believe we could have made it," Cole said. "We ran out of steam, we ran out of money. We could carry it no further."

Mexia expects Juneteenth protests

MEXIA, Texas (AP) — Limestone County officials say they will not beef up security although organizers caution some of the 40,000 people expected at the annual Juneteenth picnic will protest the drownings last year of three youths arrested at the celebration.

Sheriff Dennis Walker said Wednesday deputies would guard against another drowning incident by setting up a command post within 200 yards of the celebration so any prisoners would not have to be ferried across the lake.

Three black teen-agers drowned while in custody last year when a boat three law enforcement officers used to ferry the youths to a command post across the lake overturned. The officers, who swam to safety, later were acquitted on misdemeanor charges of negligent homicide.

Organizers said some of the about 40,000 people expected to celebrate the 117th anniversary of emancipation for Texas slaves will be protestors angry about the drownings and acquittal of the deputies.

But Walker said despite the protests, security measures this year will be no different than last year.

"Our number one priority, the reason that we're out there, is to be a deterrent. We patrol largely for visibility," Walker said.

The annual celebration normally draws about 5,000 people, 19th of June Organization chairman Joe Louis Phillips said. But he said the memories of the drownings still haunt the festival and the publicity could swell attendance to 40,000.

Balance of trade jumps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's foreign trade balance jumped back to a $1.2 billion surplus in the first quarter of this year after dipping to a deficit of nearly $1 billion in the final quarter of 1981, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

Officials are predicting that the balance of payments — the broadest foreign trade measure and sometimes referred to as the "current account" — will show a surplus for the year, the third in a row.

Judge orders photos returned

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Public Library must return 1,180 old photographs that a woman said were stolen from her home and the man who sold the pictures to the library must pay her $3,500, according to a judge's ruling.

Sharon Strickland said her adoptive father's photos disappeared mysteriously four years ago after she had wrapped them in plastic bags and put them in a tin garbage can she kept inside her home.

Women enter arms debate

Some feminist groups fighting for nuclear freeze

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I was really afraid to speak out on these things," said Mary Grefe, who is no shrinking violet.

"I felt I may be the only one in Des Moines who felt that way, and I didn't want to be the only one in Des Moines on anything," she said. "I'm not the type of person who throws herself in front of tanks, you know."

What Ms. Grefe, the former president of the 190,000-member American Association of University Women, used to be reluctant to talk about in Des Moines is the arms race.

It was bewildering; she felt she didn't know enough to express an opinion.

This week, Mary Grefe and about 300 women community leaders who feel that women have been excluded from the great debate — over war and peace, defense budgets and arms control — gathered in Washington to talk about how they could get a foothold in one of the government's last male bastions, the national security debate.

Unlike the rest of government, the top echelons of the Defense and State Departments, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the staff of the congressional committees that deal in those areas remain a man's world.

A few defense jobs went to women in the Carter Administration, but the old order has reasserted itself.

Under the auspices of the Committee for National Security, formed by former arms negotiator Paul Warnke to promote discussions just such as this one, the women talked about ways to breach the gap, and about what difference it might make. A few broke away long enough to discuss their concern with a reporter.

Ann Cahn, director of the committee, said defense experts who addressed the women were given marching orders in writing: plain English, please; no jargon; skip the acronyms.

"We're not going to be bamboozled any longer," she said.

The special lingo of throw-weights and megatons frightens women (and men) away from even expressing opinions on national security issues, she said.

Ms. Grefe agreed. Congress hears aplenty from women on "women's issues," education funds or abortion, she said. Now women, aware

'We're not going to be bamboozled any longer' that arms spending is infringing into areas of their concern and fearful of the consequences of a world armed to the teeth, are willing to become knowledgeable about defense and demanding to be heard.

Eleanor Kesim came here talking about sludge.

She is the mayor of Elkhart, Ind. (where one of her first acts in office was to change the population signs outside of town to read, "41,305 persons") to underscore that men and women are equals in Elkhart).

Sludge, she said, is tied to the arms race because her city has a sewage problem, and Washington is cutting off funds to help fight it.

"I'll tell you, sludge is not a funny subject," said Ms. Kesim, warming up into a speech.

"The infrastructure of this country is decaying and this administration is cutting back on the cities," she said. "At some point this is national security. People are being taxed, almost to the limit, and they're being taxed and watching their cities fall apart. To me, this relates to a nuclear freeze."

Sharon Froom of Kalamazoo, Mich., said women can bring to the national security debate a dimension that men lack.

Mrs. Froom came to Washington fresh from a campaign that in four months gathered 385,000 signatures to put a referendum on the nuclear freeze proposal on the Michigan ballot.

It showed what concerned people can do, she said: "In my community there are people working together who six months ago would not have sat in the same room."

She argued that civilization has given women a skill that can be useful in controlling the arms race.

"That is the art of resolution of conflict," she said. "We've learned that we can't operate from a power base in a family, that we can get what we need for ourselves and other people can get what they need, if we work for the common goal of getting along. We can teach men that."

Added Mary Purcell of Wallingford, Pa., current president of the university women's group: "Women make it clear that there's more to the debate than just hardware. What kind of country are we going to have left to defend, if we ignore our home needs?"

And, with a nod toward Ms. Kesim, she added: "The deterioration of our society can bring us down the tubes faster than anything the Soviet Union can throw at us."

Poll: Many think another Watergate likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Washington Post-ABC News poll conducted on the 10th anniversary of Watergate says 36 percent of those surveyed believe a similar political scandal is very likely to happen.

Asked, "How likely do you think it is that another Watergate-type scandal could happen in U.S. politics," an even higher percentage — 39 percent — said they believe such a scandal is somewhat likely.

The results of the poll were published in today's editions of the Post. The poll, conducted May 24-28, surveyed 1,018 people.

Seventy-five percent said they thought then-President Nixon was "guilty ... of wrongdoing in the Watergate affair," while only 10 percent said they thought he was innocent. Among Republicans, 74 percent said they thought he was guilty; 13 percent, that he was innocent. Among Democrats, 82 percent said they thought he was guilty; 8 percent, that he was innocent.

Asked if they thought Nixon "should have been tried by a court of law or not for his role in Watergate," 56 percent said they thought he should have. Thirty-five percent said they thought he should not have.

Broken down by party, the results said 41 percent of Republican respondents said they thought Nixon should have been tried, but that 47 percent thought he should not have. Among Democrats, however, 67 percent said they thought Nixon should have been tried while 26 percent said they thought he should not have.

The newspaper also said that 28 percent of the poll respondents said they thought Nixon, "in the event that he could, ... should have a future role in national affairs." But 64 percent said they thought he should not.

Datapoint Corp. records first loss in more than a decade

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Datapoint Corp., whose marketing division underwent a shakeup last month, is reporting its first net loss in more than a decade.

The San Antonio-based computer company said the poor condition of the economy was the primary reason for its net loss of $22.99 million, or $1.14 per share, in the third quarter ending April 30.

That compares with a profit of $12.87 million, or 63 cents, for the third quarter of 1981.

After Wednesday's announcement, the company's stock fell to a new low, as its book value stock dropped to $17 a share from a high last summer of about $63 a share. Datapoint's common stock closed Wednesday at $11.25.

The company attributed the loss to a reversal in previously recorded sales and a weak order rate during the third quarter. Of the loss, about $4.4 million or 22 cents per share was attributed to a $15 million "chargeback" of revenue that was recorded previously but did not materialize.

Datapoint Chairman Harold W. O'Killy said when the deteriorating condition of the economy hurt the company's sales, some Datapoint sales officials engaged in practices that caused an unusually high rate of products being returned. He said controls are in place to assure that does not happen again.

Last month, Datapoint said it expected the third quarter loss and said it was investigating the cause. Five marketing executives and a director resigned.

Analysts said then that part of the problem was that the company was using aggressive sales practices resulting in sales the buyers later could not or would not pay.

There's a great satisfaction in surf-fishing at sunset. Why? Is it because happiness is the serenity of the evening hours or is it because happiness is serenity?

Our moods as well as our interests determine what happiness is for each of us. And our emotions, our longings, our appreciation of nature—all play a part.

What we believe makes a difference, too. There are countless individuals for whom happiness is faith. And there are others who lack this spiritual ingredient and they wonder why they aren't happy.

A scene like this gains new dimensions when you think of the sea as God's creation... and of man as God's child.

Dr. Donohue Nephrotic syndrome

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor says I have a kidney disease, "nephrotic syndrome." He says no one knows the cause. I have frequent blood tests for protein. This is supposed to be a gauge of how the disease is acting. Your comments would be helpful. — G.S.B.

The nephrotic syndrome may come on after the kidney has been damaged by a certain infection, like strep, or after certain drugs have been taken for another illness, like lupus. At other times, no cause is evident. Whatever the cause, the kidneys have stopped filtering blood properly.

The results are fourfold. Protein is lost into the urine, whereas with healthy kidneys little is lost. That leads to the second change — low blood protein. And that, in turn, leads to a third — body swelling. It is known that when blood is low in protein, its fluid flows out of the vessels into the body tissues. The blood gets too watery and leaks easily. With adequate protein, the blood is thicker and its fluid stays in the vessels better.

The fourth change that occurs because of the kidney damage is that the level of fats in the blood rises. Cholesterol counts rise. That happens because the liver starts making cholesterol whenever blood protein levels get low. I am trusting that you do not want me to get any deeper into this subject than that.

I am sure, also, that the question of what the future holds is in the back of your mind, even though you don't ask. To answer with any truth, I'd have to know what kind of nephrotic syndrome you have. There is more than one. Some improve rapidly.

You ask (another part of your letter) about creatinine. That is a blood chemical. It is a gauge of how well your kidneys are functioning. If it is high, that means the kidneys are not filtering well. That is why your doctor is insisting on the blood test. He's keeping tabs on your illness this way.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a female, 37, with Buerger's disease, a circulation disease. My main problem was numbness and pain in my right foot. When the sore there would not heal, I consulted a physician. He said I should stop smoking. I did, for a very short period. My toe healed. Now I have started smoking again. This is a mental problem for me. But I also have the pain again, in both feet. If I quit smoking, would this problem cease to exist? — S.C.

Let me answer your last important question first. Yes, your problem will cease to exist when you quit smoking. You already have evidence of that. I know it isn't always easy to quit smoking.

Buerger's disease is an inflammation of the smaller arteries of the lower legs and feet, and sometimes of the hands. The inflammation impairs blood supply. A common symptom of this illness is instep pain when walking. The feet may turn intensely red, and pulses feel at foot level are very weak.

The one thing we do know about Buerger's is that smoking makes it worse. Nicotine does constrict the vessels. What is even more peculiar is that is the very problem you speak about. People with Buerger's are among those who resist efforts to stop smoking the most. Even when they are threatened with amputation. I don't know why, but it's true. Call the American Lung Association or American Heart Association. They can help you quit or put you on the track of someone who will.

For Father's Day,

nothing satisfies like beef

Beef belongs to the meat group, one of the basic four food groups that comprise a balanced, nutritious diet. Two or more daily servings from the meat group are recommended in order to provide essential nutrients needed by the body.

Beef is high in protein, and contains all the amino acids necessary to build, maintain, and repair body tissues, and to strengthen the body's mechanism against disease and infection. It is an excellent source of the B-vitamins, iron, and phosphorus.

Beef is one of the most completely digestible and easily utilized foods. Most beef cuts contain fewer than 250 calories per 3 1/2 ounce serving of cooked lean meat so even weight watchers can enjoy it. Those on low-carbohydrate diets will be pleased to learn that beef contains no carbohydrates at all.

SUMMER FASHIONS — Sherry Thomas, above, modeled a skirted jumpsuit from Beall's at a style show held during a luncheon and seminar sponsored by Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association. The seminar was held at the Brass Nail Restaurant. Proceeds from the event will be used toward scholarships. The seminar included three speakers who discussed topics of interest to working women.

Class of '42 reunion will begin today

The 1942 graduating class of Big Spring High School is meeting at the Homestead Inn this weekend. Registration began at 5 p.m., today. A schedule of events and times will be posted at the motel and for more information call the Homestead Inn or Mardeena Smith at 263-4024.

Some class members have not been to Big Spring in 40 years. Members and their guests are from such places as Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas towns.

There will be a tour of Runnels Junior High, the class high school, BSHS and Howard College also will be toured.

The Chamber of Commerce has provided some literature on Howard County and Big Spring.

Members of the class that have not registered and made reservations for the breakfast honoring their teachers or the Banquet Saturday evening are urged to do so before Saturday morning.

Dear Abby

Family doesn't pray together

DEAR ABBY: I think you were right when you told that 15-year-old girl to date boys of her own faith. I had parents who tried to tell me that, but I didn't listen. I was raised a Catholic, but I fell madly in love with a Lutheran boy. (He converted to marry me.)

Now 22 years later I go to church alone, and our four children don't go to church at all. When they were youngsters, they went with me. Their father went occasionally, but his heart really wasn't in it and he slowly drifted away from the church. Soon the children stopped going, too.

I go to church because it is a vital part of my life. We never know when love will "hit," and when it does, it becomes the most important thing in your life. I love my husband, but there is something missing because we don't share our prayers and religious faith. Perhaps I shouldn't complain. It only hurts on Sundays.

THINKING OUT LOUD

DEAR THINKING: Yours was a refreshing relief from the many letters stating that dating was a far cry from marrying. However, I still maintain that dating usually leads to marriage. And if religion is an important part of your life, shop only in a store you can buy from.

DEAR ABBY: I have never been able to understand why a wife would expect a Mother's Day present from her husband. I've been married for 25 years, and if my husband ever gave me a gift for Mother's Day, I would personally throw it at him! I'm not his mother!

We are best friends and passionate lovers, but never would I accept a Mother's Day gift from a man who still turns my crank!

I'm signing my real name with permission to use it.

ETHEL PRICE, BELLAIRE, TEXAS

DEAR ETHEL: The Bible says, "A virtuous woman ... her price is above rubies." Your "Price" sounds like a jewel. Easy on the advertising, Ethel, lest you end up "Price-less."

DEAR ABBY: Your column in the Pacific Stars and Stripes is well-read by service personnel overseas, so if you print your answer you will be helping a lot of servicemen and women, who have the same problem I have.

Civilian friends are always asking me to purchase certain items for them through the Base Exchange (P.X.), which sells merchandise to those of us in the armed forces at a great savings. They also offer to give me the money in advance so I am in no way inconvenienced.

I don't want to be rude or unfriendly, but I really don't want to break the rules. So how do I get out of doing them this favor in the most courteous manner possible?

A.P.O. SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR A.P.O.: Tell them that because such favors are clearly in violation of regulations, you deeply regret that you can't accommodate them. Period.

Odd couple takes lead

U.S. Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The captivating but capricious Pebble Beach Golf Links took its toll on the world's finest players on the opening day of the United States Open, leaving Bruce Devlin and Bill Rogers, an unlikely couple, sharing the first-day lead.

Devlin, who says he plays the game mostly from memory, and Rogers, who has been unable to recall the formula that made him Player of the Year in 1981, both shot 2-under-par 70s Thursday on the windswept 6,825-yard layout.

That was one stroke better than Jim King, Calvin Peete, Danny Edwards, Bobby Clampett and Terry Diehl, all in at 71. Nine others, including 1978 champion Andy North and Tom Watson, were tied at 72.

Defending champion David Graham had a 73 and Jack Nicklaus, bidding for a record fifth Open title, fell victim to the winds and finished with a 74, as did current PGA champ Larry Nelson. Masters Champion Craig Stadler had a 76 and hot-shooting Ray Floyd, with two victories and a second in his last three starts, finished with an 81.

Rogers, who won seven tournaments including the British Open last year, has been struggling this season. But he came out fast with birdies on the second, third and sixth holes. He gave back two with consecutive bogeys on Nos. 7 and 8 before birdying No. 9 to make the turn in 34. He shot 36 on the back side with nine consecutive pars.

Devlin grinned when asked what he would have said if at breakfast Thursday someone had suggested that he'd be leading the open that evening. "I'd have told them they were mad," he said.

He had played in just eight tournaments all year and missed the cut in half of those. His top finish was a tie for 45th place and his four earnings for the year had been a meager $3,603.71.

"I've only played in a few tournaments and I've played miserably in all of them," he said. "I haven't enjoyed it. I'm sort of playing from memory."

Devlin hasn't won a tour event since 1972 when he finished first at Pleasant Valley and Houston and then went into semi-retirement.

He eagled the second hole Thursday and survived bogey-double, bogey at Nos. 6-7 and another bogey at 10 with birdies at 9, 15 and 16 to grab his share of the lead.

Watson had a strange round, finishing with five bogeys balanced by five birdies. "I'd rather be five bogeys and five birdies than five bogeys and one birdie," he reasoned.

Devlin's story has nice end

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — It was sporting of Bruce Devlin to shoot a 2-under-par 70 in the opening round and provide us with a nice "Father's Day" theme for the U.S. Open golf championship this weekend.

You don't have to be a sentimentalist to appreciate it. "I'm sure I'll give my dad a call Sunday if I am still in contention," the 44-year-old former Australian plumber said after tying British Open titleholder Bill Rogers for the first round lead in the big Pebble Beach shootout.

The story begins about 30 years ago in the little sheep town of Goulbourn some 40 miles from Sydney in New South Wales.

Bruce at the time is a skinny kid of 14 who helps in his father's plumbing shop when not horsing around with his pals.

One day, Bruce's father, Arthur, is driving a pickup down a dusty road when he is hit broadside by a loaded coal truck. The elder Devlin's right arm is severed at the shoulder.

Dazed and bleeding profusely, he squirms out of the battered truck and waits at the roadside for an ambulance. He signs himself into the hospital with his left hand.

"My dad had the most beautiful script I ever saw," young Devlin recalled. "This was the first time he had ever written his name with his left hand."

The father's favorite sport was golf. At every chance he was out on the local course banging the ball around with pals.

"Without his right arm, he was embarrassed about going out and playing again," the son said. "He asked me if I would mind accompanying him. I'd go, carry his clubs and play myself. I never liked the game. My sports were field hockey and Rugby League."

"We played almost every day. Strangest thing, my father shot better swinging the club with his left arm than he did when he was using both. He cut his handicap from about 20 to 14."

Young Bruce himself developed into one of Australia's finest amateur golfers.

U.S. men edge Chinese for gym title

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — American gymnasts are preparing for women's team competition in the United States Gymnastics Federation International Invitational, after a U.S. victory in the men's team contest.

Mitch Gaylord's final jump pushed the U.S. past the People's Republic of China by .05 of a point Thursday. Gaylord, 22, was the last to compete in the competition.

Abie Grossfeld, U.S. men's team coach, said Gaylord knew what to do. The gymnast, who trained under former Olympic competitor Kurt Thomas, had to propel the Americans to a score of 9.8 to win.

"We didn't tell Mitch what he needed," Grossfeld said. "We just told him to make a great vault and stick it."

The vault provided the U.S. a team total of 174.55 to move past the Chinese and into first place before a crowd of more than 4,500.

Teams from the eight countries involved will compete today for the women's team title.

The U.S. and China staged a battle from the first round on. Paired in the two-team rotation system, the Americans and Chinese alternately took the lead through the six-event meet.

The Americans led after the pommel horse and rings, the first two events. But the Chinese took the lead at the halfway point with a strong showing in the floor exercises.

China finished second with 174.50 points. Japan finished third and the U.S.S.R. fourth in the competition.

Weekend sports plentiful

A couple of big sports events are being staged in Big Spring this Father's Day weekend.

Tops on the agenda is the 3 p.m. Sunday battle between local sports boosters and former and current members of the Big Spring High baseball team. Tickets are $1 and can be purchased at the gate. Proceeds go to the Howard College baseball program.

All Little Leaguers get into the ballpark free.

Organizer Al Valdez has released some of the names of booster players in an effort to scare the "Longhorns." Some of the players are Pete Arrencibia, Jim Baum, Gil Guerra, coach Frank Ibarra, Bob Lewis, Harold Wilder, Mark Warren, Felix Martinez, Gary Gaswick, John Arrick, Eston Hollis, Jerry Foreyth, Billy Pineda, Tom Arista, Pat Martinez and fierro trio of Jimmy, Tini and Charles.

Jack Griffin and Tommy Hart are listed as probable umpires.

The game had originally been planned May 24 but was postponed because of the Steers' district championship.

Another weekend event is the Fourth Annual Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce slowpitch tourney at Johnny Stone Memorial Park.

Local softball czar Bill Bailey says 20 teams are entered in the three-day event. Among the entries are the Astros, Coors, Crowns, Fraleys, Kings, Pipeliners, Plowboys, Quiksilver and Turner Properties, all of Big Spring.

The tourney runs from 8-10 p.m. tonight, resuming Saturday at 9 a.m. and continuing through midnight and winding up from 9-12 noon Sunday. The championship game is set for 11 a.m. with a possible second game starting at noon.

Admission is free. For the tube-gazers, there's major league baseball and the U.S. Open to watch.

MOSES MALONE ...worth his money

MVP trophy accents Malone's worth

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Moses Malone believes he truly has won the right to be considered the Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association. He also believes he's worth a multi-million dollar contract.

Still, he says he wants to play with others who want to win as badly as he does.

Malone, 27, the six-foot, 10-inch center, who has played for the Houston Rockets six years, was a free agent on Wednesday when he received the MVP for the second time.

"When I won it the first time (1978-79) some thought it was a joke," Malone said. "I win it a second time and I won't be a joke. So I've won it two years and feel I have established myself as the MVP of the league."

His three-year contract with Houston, at a reported $1.1 million per year, has run its course. He leans toward staying there if the money and terms are right, but added, "I think Houston should have signed me last summer or four or five months ago."

Four days before the recent playoffs ended, he was offered a multi-year contract, reportedly for $1.7 million annually.

He turned it down but indicated he hoped Houston would increase its offer before he actually goes on the free-agent market.

Asked if he worried about any public reaction to wanting so much money on a five- to seven-year contract, Malone answered, "Gerry Cooney got $10 million for fighting one bout and he wasn't even the champion. I won't be a fool and turn it down."

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the champion Los Angeles Lakers, who had won the MVP honor six times previously, placed only 10th for this past season.

"My main concern is winning," said Malone who admitted there were only four or five teams in the NBA able to financially meet his conditions. He said he would let his representatives do the negotiating and that they had already talked to some other teams.

"I've got until September to decide, but in two or three weeks, my mind could be clear on the offers," he continued.

He was asked if the New Jersey Nets were one of the teams under consideration and hedged by saying, "New Jersey is really a good team. I wouldn't mind playing with them."

What makes it tougher for Malone, who went into pro basketball directly out of high school, was the sale this week of the Rockets by Gavin Maloof to Charles Thomas.

He says he never has met Thomas, a Houston bank president and millionaire. "But anyone that owns a team, he is a great guy."

Buck Williams of the Nets was voted the Rookie of the Year, beating out Kelly Tripucka of Detroit. Gene Shue of the Washington Bullets was named Coach of the Year and Bob Ferry, general manager of the Bullets, the Executive of the Year in various polls announced by the NBA.

The Comeback Player of the Year award went to Gus Williams of Seattle who stayed out of action a season ago because of a contract dispute. Malone drew 40 first-place votes and 507 points in the voting by a panel of 69 media members — three from each NBA franchise city.

Larry Bird of Boston had 20 top votes and 406 points. Following in order the top ten were Julius Erving of Philadelphia, 203 points; Robert Parrish of Boston, 131; Gus Williams, 115; George Gervin of San Antonio, 110; Sidney Moncrief of Milwaukee, 101; Magic Johnson of Los Angeles, 67; Jack Sikma of Seattle, 33; and Abdul-Jabbar, 31.

Shue, who won coaching honors in 1969 in a previous stint with the Bullets when the franchise was in Baltimore, became only the second man to win the honor two times. Bill Fitch, 1976 with Cleveland and 1980 with Boston, is the other.

SCORECARD

NFL union members can quit

By DENNIE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The National Football League Management Council, making a chess move outside the negotiating table, will mail its July newsletter to players Monday, detailing how they can resign from the NFL Players Association, The Associated Press has learned.

In the newsletter "The NFL and You," the NFLMC claimed it was not soliciting union resignations, just informing players of their rights.

"We are not encouraging players to resign from the union or to revoke their check-off authorization, but they should know they have that right," said Jack Donlan, executive director of the Management Council. "Whether a player maintains his union membership is his free choice."

Ed Garvey, executive director of the players union, was unavailable for comment at his Washington office.

The newsletter, which also will be mailed to management, coaches and the media Monday, pointed out that union security and dues check-off provisions end with the expiration of the current collective bargaining agreement.

It said what this means to players is: "The club will no longer deduct dues and a service fee and send it to the union after July 15."

"The player can resign from the union and avoid possible disciplinary action in the event of a strike."

"A player who resigns from the union may cancel his dues check-off authorization, ending any dues obligation to the union provided he notifies the union and his club between June 25 and July 5 of his intent to revoke the authorization."

The newsletter claimed "a volatile issue within the union has been the sharply increased union dues which went from $690 in 1980 to $1,122 last year, making NFLPA dues the highest for any professional sport."

Continuing, it said "the check-off authorization form which the player signs to authorize his club to deduct dues or a service fee contains an escape clause, that frees the player from further obligation."

"The clause states: I agree and direct that this authorization shall be automatically renewed and shall be irrevocable... unless written notice is given by me to the National Football League Players Association and the club not more than 20 days and not less than 10 days prior to the expiration of each collective bargaining agreement... the provision means that any player can release himself from the dues obligation by sending a letter, preferably by certified mail, to his club and to the NFLPA advising he wishes to revoke his check-off authorization... the letter must be postmarked no later than June 25 and no later than July 5 to be effective under the terms of the check-off authorization form."

The newsletter contained a box giving the address of the NFL Players Association in Washington 1300 Connecticut Ave. as the place to send their certified letters.

In a question-and-answer segment, the NFLMC said if a player has not signed a contract by July 15 when the collective bargaining agreement expires, he must cease direct negotiations with the club.

"Under union law, the union becomes the sole bargaining agent for each player who does not have a contract," the newsletter said.

It warned, "If a player maintains his membership in the union after July 1 and the union calls a strike, the player is required to participate."

Is Brazil team to beat in World Cup?

MADRID, Spain (AP) — All 24 teams have now played once, and pre-tournament favorite Brazil still looks the best. But two major upsets and three minor ones have jolted most other predictions about the World Cup soccer finals.

Defending Cup holder Argentina, European champion West Germany and host Spain were among the favorites to stop Brazil from winning the championship for a record fourth time.

But Belgium stunned Argentina 1-0 in Sunday's inaugural match, Algeria pulled an even bigger 2-1 upset of the Germans and Honduras forced Spain to fight back for a 1-1 draw.

As a result, both Argentina and West Germany face the humiliation of an early exit from the month-long competition if they lose either of their two remaining first-round contests.

Twelve teams, two each from six groups, will advance to the second round.

Brazil's odds among London bookmakers improved from 15-3 before the tournament to 6-4 Thursday after its come-from-behind 2-1 victory earlier this week over a Soviet team that must now be regarded among the favorites.

Belgium, whose clockwork organization reminds some coaches of the dazzling 1974 runner-up Dutch team, looks stronger than expected in its opener and can also be rated a contender. So can Hungary and England.

El Paso is first half champion

Solo home runs by Steve Michael to lead off the fourth and sixth innings helped El Paso clinch the first-half title in the Texas League western division in a win over Midland, 12-9.

The Diablos, who last won a Texas League baseball title in 1978, were aided Thursday by two-run homers from Bill Foley in the seventh and Mark Schuster in the eighth.

In other action, Amarillo edged San Antonio, 6-4, in a rare afternoon game, and Shreveport squeaked by Tulsa, 3-2. Arkansas took an early lead that Jackson couldn't surpass in a 12-7 victory.

Dave Grier, 7-5, took the win for El Paso, which stands 3 1/2 games above San Antonio with two games left for each team to play.

Midland's Bruce Chaney fired a two-run homer in the ninth. Doug Welenc, 7-5, took the loss.

Honeycutt throws 5-1 sweetie at Mariners

SEATTLE (AP) — Texas left-hander Rick Honeycutt knew he was back on track after Ranger coaches Darrell Johnson and Jackie Brown spotted a flaw in his delivery.

"It was like a miracle or something," Honeycutt said after he scattered eight hits in the Rangers' 5-1 Monday night victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Honeycutt, 2-7, lost his first seven decisions. But he began to get straightened out a few weeks ago after Johnson and Brown noticed how his pitching arm was trailing his lower body as he pitched.

"I was pushing everything," he said. "The ball was flattening out, and it was duck soup."

Against the Mariners, however, Honeycutt had his primary pitch, his sinker, working almost to perfection. He retired 19 Mariners on ground balls with three of those bouncing into double plays. He yielded three fly outs, struck out two and walked three.

Meanwhile, the Rangers' Buddy Bell doubled home three runs in the third inning and scored twice.

Texas Ranger Manager Don Zimmer said Honeycutt "the last couple times has had his sinker. That's his game. He's too good a pitcher to be 1-7. A couple games he could have won, but we didn't score."

Bell took care of that when he slammed a two-strike pitch from Gene Nelson, 5-8, off the left-centerfield fence to clear the bases.

The Rangers had loaded the bases when Doug Flynn and Mark Wagner singled and Johnny Grubb walked.

Bell said Nelson "threw me a changeup or an offspeed breaking pitch" for strike two. "I stepped out to get my thoughts together," he added. "I tried to get control of the situation."

Then Bell socked a slider. "The way I'm hitting I don't know where it was," he said.

With three hits, Bell raised his average to .298. Wagner also had three hits. Dave Hostetler singled home Bell in the third.

American League

In the fifth, Bell singled, moved to second on a ground out and scored on Mike Richardt's single.

Richardt, playing left, misjudged a liner by Seattle's Bruce Bochte for a double opening the fourth inning. Bochte moved around to score on ground outs by Richie Zisk and Al Cowens.

Red Sox 6, Indians 3

Although the Boston Red Sox have surprised nearly everyone with their first-place standing in the American League East, it's been a frustrating season for Mike Torrez and Dave Stapleton.

The pair made outstanding contributions Thursday night, however, as the Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 6-3 to snap a three-game losing streak.

Torrez pitched a four-hit shutout until he was reached for three more hits and all three Cleveland runs with two outs in the ninth inning. Stapleton slugged his seventh home run and a run-scoring double.

Angels 10, Blue Jays 8

California took a half-game lead in the AL West over idle Kansas City as Don Baylor and Bobby Grich drove in three runs apiece and Rod Carew had four hits to extend his hitting streak to 21 games.

Grich hit a three-run homer and Baylor added a run-scoring single to lead the Angels' six-run third inning against Toronto. Baylor also singled in runs in the fourth and sixth.

White Sox 11, A's 7

Tony Bernazard, despite three errors at second base, knocked in four runs for Chicago, three of them with a double to climax a four-run third inning.

Steve Kemp added three RBI with a double and a two-run single as the White Sox banged 16 hits off four Oakland pitchers. A's starter Mike Norris, 3-6, suffered the loss after leaving the game with a shoulder injury in the third inning.

Brewers 3, Tigers 2

Seldom-used catcher Ned Yost tripled in the 11th inning and later scored on an error by shortstop Alan Trammell to give Milwaukee its victory over Detroit.

Yost, who entered the game as a pinch-runner in the ninth, blasted a pitch from Tigers reliever Dave Tobik, 2-1, to the 400-foot mark in left-center field with two outs. After an intentional walk to Ben Oglivie, Gorman Thomas drilled a one-hopper that Trammell couldn't handle, allowing Yost to score.

Cubs 12, Expos 8

Home runs by Bill Buckner, Jay Johnstone and Bump Wills helped Chicago outlast Montreal. Pitcher Randy Martz aided the attack with a three-run double.

It was the Cubs' fourth straight victory, but Martz wasn't around long enough to get the victory, which went to reliever Mike Proly, 1-0. David Palmer, 1-1, took the loss.

Al Oliver and Jerry White homered for Montreal.

Reds 4, Giants 2

Cesar Cedeno continued his hot hitting with a two-run double and Eddie Miller drove in a run, then later scored as Cincinnati downed San Francisco.

Cedeno has hit safely in 11 of his last 13 games and is hitting at a .370 clip since early May.

Damage suit dismissed on Clemson coach

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A judge has dismissed a $12 million damage suit by two former high school students charging Clemson football Coach Danny Ford and others recruited them with "promises of gifts," including cash and homes.

Chancellor William Inman ruled Thursday that James Cofer and Terry Minor, who graduated from Knoxville Rule High School, "can hardly be expected to profit from conduct in which they readily participated."

Cofer and Minor were seeking the damages from Ford, head coach of the national champion Clemson Tigers, former Clemson assistant coach Billy Ware and Knoxville insurance executive Tom Breazeale, a Clemson alumnus.

In his opinion, Inman said the suit alleged that Breazeale had offered "cash and hams" to the players as an inducement to attend Clemson, while Ford and Ware were accused of offering cash.

Laker owner files against San Diego

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a maneuver designed to stave off any efforts by Los Angeles Lakers owner Jerry Buss to block the move of the San Diego Clippers to Los Angeles, the city's Memorial Coliseum Commission has filed a $50 million antitrust suit against Buss.

The suit filed Thursday by the commission, which runs the Sports Arena where the Clippers have signed a contract to play next season, seeks damages from Buss should he succeed in stopping the move.

The shift is expected to be considered next week by the National Basketball Association Board of Governors.

Pastor works at school despite disability

By RHONDA WOODALL
Church Editor

Dan Sanford, pastor of First Baptist Church of Sand Springs, is the school administrator of the First Baptist Church School in Sand Springs.

The school has over 50 students enrolled and there is not enough room for that many, Sanford said. Several applicants were turned down this year because there was not enough room. More will be turned away in the fall if a new school building is not built. The church plans to build a gym for the church and the school, but needs $10,000.

The school has two open classrooms and seven teachers. Students from the first thru twelfth grade attend the school. The first graduation of the school was held this year.

"My most rewarding experience has been the starting and building of the First Baptist Church school and watching the children grow academically and spiritually," said Sanford.

"You are bound to understand kids more when you have some of your own, but I think working with kids has helped me understand my own kids better," said Sanford.

Sanford has two sons and two of his nieces have lived with him and his wife, Joyce.

In his spare time Sanford enjoys motorcycle riding.

"I ride the thing (motorcycle) all over the country," said Sanford. "I enjoy the freedom, the freedom of the air."

Not long ago Sanford was thinking about retiring because of a physical disability. "I had a car wreck 25 years ago and injured my hip," Sanford said.

Fifteen years ago when Sanford bought his insurance policy, the in-

DAN SANFORD
...preacher and school administrator

urance company put a rider on his policy against his hip problem. "There are riders on insurance policies for previous injuries," Sanford said. "I could hardly walk or stand with a cane."

"I've grown to appreciate the Baptist Churches of the Big Spring Baptist Association. They took up $7,000 to $8,000 for my hip operation," Sanford said. "The people here had seen me go physically down over a period of time. They got together and asked me why I hadn't had the operation done. I told them I didn't have the money for the surgery." He had the operation in April this year.

Thirty years ago, he became a Christian under a Methodist preacher, but became a Baptist later in Corpus Christi.

"There was a Baptist preacher named L.L. Roloff that I admire. He took a firm stand on issues whether he was right or wrong. Whether I agree or disagree with him, I admire a man that takes a firm stand on an issue," Sanford said.

Before ministering at First Baptist Church in Sand Springs Sanford was pastor at Phillips Memorial Baptist Church twice.

"I left this area once and went back to Corpus Christi and chose to come back here because I love the area and the people," Sanford said. "I bought my home here with the intent of living here after I retire."

Growth of church membership increases

NEW YORK (AP) — Growth of American church membership is quickening after a period of sluggishness, according to the 1982 Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches.

The new statistics show that overall membership increased 1.3 million in 1980, the latest compilation available, bringing the total to 134.8 million.

The increase, a full percentage point, was more than twice that of the '04 percent the year before.

"We are seeing some early indications that declines in mainline churches may be leveling off," says Constant H. Jacquet, editor of the yearbook published by the National Council of Churches.

However, the gain did not keep pace with population growth, the proportion of U.S. church membership slipping from 60.5 percent to 58.7 percent of the population.

Church leaders criticize cutbacks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group of Christian, Jewish, Buddhist and Islamic leaders have sharply criticized federal funding cutbacks for social services, saying present budget priorities "place military spending above human need."

The group, headed by United Methodist Bishop Jack M. Tuell of Pasadena, Calif., charged a shift by the federal government "from a war on poverty to a war on the impoverished."

Their statement, issued at the close of a meeting on the matter, said:

"We believe that the general welfare of the American people is a primary responsibility under the Constitution and must not be left to the generosity — or lack thereof — of the private sector."

CHURCH OF CHRIST
DUGG MORRIS

Dr. Eleanor Galenson and Dr. Herman Haines, professors at Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, concluded an 18 month study of children with a report which states, "a father's role as a masculinity model is especially important for boys as well as girls, when they're between 16 and 24 months of age." The same report continued, "It's critical for dads to be available and involved with their children."

These professors have discovered what our kids know all along — "Dads are important." Children, bring your father to worship each Sunday, and especially on Father's Day.
