Israel says PLO near destruction

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israel's jets and gunboats unleashed furious bombardment of guerrilla positions in west Beirut today and Defense Minister Ariel Sharon said the PLO was on its way to "complete destruction."

Israeli tanks also closed in on the Syrian garrison in Aley after taking strongholds on either side along the key highway to Damascus, and Lebanese television said Israeli armor was on the move near the Beirut airport.

Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan resigned, charging that Israel's relentless assault was "escalated blackmail that renders me unable to execute the duties of my office." He handed his resignation to President Elias Sarkis at the Baabda palace as the Israeli bombing set off huge fires in west Beirut.

Lebanon's top leftist leader and PLO ally Walid Jumblatt also announced his resignation from the National Salvation Council which is trying to resolve the national crisis. He told a news conference Israel's demands for an unconditional PLO surrender were unacceptable.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio blared, "the battle for Beirut has begun!" as Israeli armor took the Syrian stronghold of Jambour, six miles west of Aley, and moved to link up with other tanks that captured Bhamdoun, three miles east of Aley.

Syria charged the Israelis used nerve gas in the battle for Bhamdoun, but Israel denied it.

Israeli Defense Minister Sharon, visiting troops in Lebanon, told Israel Radio, "The PLO is on its way to complete destruction in Lebanon and in Beirut, if we will not leave them now," signaling Israel's resolve to keep up the pressure on the guerrillas in west Beirut.

Sharon also said the Israelis had taken control of the Beirut-Damascus highway from Syrian forces, denying resupply to the PLO in west Beirut.

The cutoff of Aley will shield Israeli ground forces besieging Lebanon's capital against harassment from their rear if they go into Yasser Arafat's west Beirut enclave to crush the Palestine Liberation Organization and its leadership.

The Voice of Lebanon said the command headquarters of the pro-Syrian Saiga guerrilla organization near Beirut's mid-city race track was devastated by Israeli jets, which

RIDE 'EM DAD — Bronc rider Jim Richards of Newton desperately hangs onto his mount in last night's bareback bronc competition. Richards was cheered on by his family which includes wife, Jeannie and sons, Dustin and Joshua. Richards makes it a point to always travel with his family when on the road, which is a rarity in the rodeo world.

Cowboys' wives

They give their husbands needed support on circuit

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

It is sometimes thought that a cowboy's best friend is his horse, but in the case of bronc rider Jim Richards the proverbial four-legged animal has been replaced by a wife and family.

Richards' wife Jeannie was out early at the Big Spring rodeo last night with sons Dustin and Joshua to lend support to him in the bareback bronc riding event.

Mrs. Richards said they had driven 11 straight hours overnight from Newton, a small town in southeastern Texas, so Richards could participate in the rodeo. She was animated and eager to talk about her life as a cowboy's wife and the experience of traveling in the rodeo world.

The Richards are not typical because Mrs. Richards and the two boys accompany Jim on every trip he makes. He works a seven-day shift in the oilfield and then rodeos for the next seven days. Mrs. Richards said 10 days out of every month are spent on the circuit.

"We travel with him all the time and we're fortunate our children are preschool age or we'd have to arrange something else.

"He's a family man and he wants us to travel along, if we're not there he's disappointed. Our kids love it — they've both been traveling to rodeos since they were two weeks old," Mrs. Richards said.

She said she enjoys every aspect of rodeo and would miss it if not allowed to "load 'em up and move 'em out" once in a while.

"I enjoy it immensely. I'm as excited as he is just before they open that chute, and when they let him out I'm with him the whole way.

"It's fun to see a lot of towns and they all have something to offer. The people you meet also make the experience much greater. The people are what

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Bullrider Bart Wilkinson of Menard snatched the lead away from seven-time champion Don Gay during last night's performance of the Big Spring rodeo.

Wilkinson, aboard bull 9+, scored a 75, out-riding by one point Gay's Wednesday night's ride aboard S14.

Dave Robbins of Belton carded a 73 on bull 89, and Rusty O'Donnel, a hometown cowboy, recorded a 70 aboard bull 107.

Saddle bronc riding last night was marred by a freak accident which resulted in the death of a horse.

While Lubbock cowboy Scott Hopping was aboard, stock producer Tommy Steiner's "Bernie," bucking across the arena with its head down, ran head-on into the west arena wall just as the buzzer signaling the end of the eight-second ride sounded.

Hopping was tossed onto the fence, but was uninjured, recording a 65 on the ride.

"Bernie" died instantly as a result of a broken neck.

"He was a good horse," said Steiner. "We didn't pay that much for him, but he was worth a lot. What happened tonight wasn't anybody's fault."

SADDLE BRONC

George Anderson of Cushing had the high score in last night's saddle bronc competition, taking home a 74 aboard "Cry Baby." Tuff Hedeman of El Paso placed second on "Little Dreamer," with a 72 and Gene Reed of Cibolo took third with the aid of "High Test," scoring 70 points.

BAREBACK RIDING

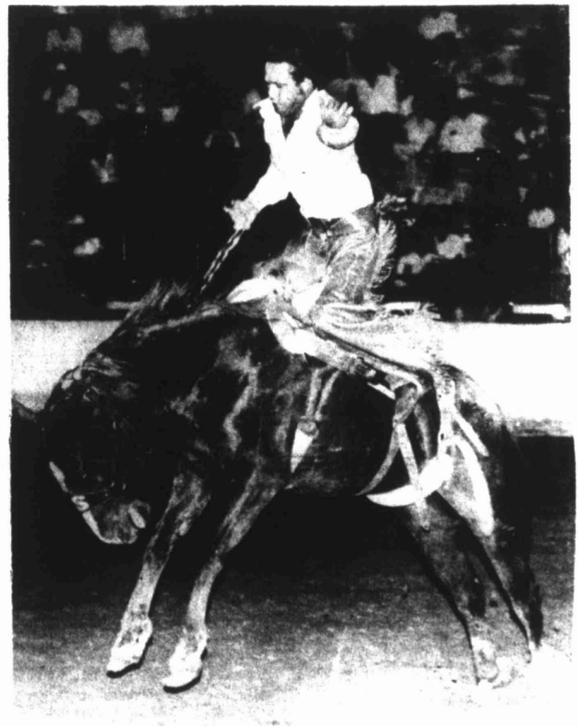

Only two bareback riders made qualified rides last night, as buck-offs and misses out of the chute (the rider must have both spurs over the point of the horse's shoulders on the first jump out of the chute) took their toll. Joe Cox of Greenville and Ron Below of Big Spring both received scores of 68 on their rides.

BARREL RACING

Jacqueline Moore of Utopia made the barrel race circuit in 17.52 seconds for the fastest time last night, followed by Connie Kirby (wife of bullrider Butch Kirby) with a time of 17.57. Karen Crosby of Christoval took home the third fastest time last night with a 17.97.

STEER WRESTLING

Gip Allen of Santa Anna downed his steer in 4.8 seconds, the fastest time yet recorded in this year's rodeo. Bob Blandford was right behind Allen, taking his animal down in 4.9 seconds.

MISS KC — Craig McMillan of Brownwood rakes his spurs to the cantle of the saddle during his ride at last night's performance of the Big Spring rodeo. McMillan and Miss KC (the horse) only raked a 66 for their efforts, not good enough to place in the event. Unlike bull riding, where riders can earn many points just by staying aboard, saddle bronc riders are scored on the spurring rhythm they maintain while perched in the saddle.

Justin Blandford, Bob's brother, came in third last night with a time of 5.5.

CALF ROPING

Justin Blandford also recorded the fastest time in last night's calf roping, tying his calf in 10.8 seconds. Bob Blandford was right on his brother's coattails, as he tied his calf in 11 flat for second place. Doug Bean of Ozona came in third with an 11.5.

TEAM ROPING

The roping team of Fred Lucero and Junior Campbell captured its steer in 6.1 seconds to take a share of Thursday night's lead. Big Spring's Steve Fryar and his partner, Gary Kiehne of Midland made their catch in an identical time for their share of the lead. Bob Northcutt and Ray Wilson, making their run during the slack (the overflow of contestants) after the rodeo performance, caught their animal in 6.8 to record the second fastest time last night, and Gary Shoemaker and Jerry Pair took third with a time of 7.8.

Trustee move means quieter high school gymnasium

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Big Spring High School gymnasium should be much quieter next year, as the Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees approved a $18,674 bid from Nicastro Co. in Irving for acoustical noise control panels.

The panels, which are eight and 10 feet long and 30 inches wide, will be fitted on the gym's ceiling and upper walls. The panels will cut reverberation time in the gym from six seconds to 2.5 seconds, according to Assistant Superintendent Don Crockett.

Reverberation time is the time it takes a sound to decay 60 decibels from its original level.

The 156 panels purchased by the school will not be installed by the Nicastro Co., but rather by an independent work force to be determined later by the district.

Commenting on the outlay for acoustical panels, trustee Charles Beil said, "I hope this does the job. It's a frustrating experience trying to sit through something in (the gym)."

In other business matters the trustees approved a bid from IBM for 12 Selectric typewriters for $7,260, awarded the fuel bid for the 1982-83 school year to Petco Distributors of Big Spring, and gave the nod to Long Flooring in Lubbock for a resanding and refinishing job on the Goliad Middle School gymnasium floor and the Big Spring High School auditorium stage floor. The bid was for $5,375 and the work should be completed by the end of July.

In equipment expenditures for the Goliad Middle School's classroom addition and remodeled classrooms in the south wing the trustees awarded several bids. American Desk received an okay on a bid for 23 cafeteria tables with benches at $422.24 each, Hoovers Co. was awarded a bid on two cafeteria tables at $280.78 each, Indeco received approval on its bids for 13 teacher desks at $159.26 each, 11 teacher chairs at $35.95 each and 15 filing cabinets at a total of $1,537.23. Indeco also was awarded a bid on 11 storage cabinets at $129.46 each and 10 bookcases at $93.25 each.

The board okayed a bid by Sterling Building Materials for 22 chalkboards at $177 each and 17 bulletin boards at $152 each. Indeco was awarded a bid for $124.55 for one chalkboard and a Hoovers Co. bid of $6,098 apiece for seven bulletin boards was approved by trustees.

The board decided to purchase 208 student lockers including installation fees for $7,904 from Vaughn Storage Systems. The board also okayed 25 full-length single tier lockers from Indeco Sales for $1,141.

In other action the board awarded a bid for 50 cafeteria tables for the high school cafeteria for $280.78 from Hoovers Co.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Royal family

Q. What is the (British) royal family's last name?
A. Queen Elizabeth II and her son Charles are from the family of Windsor, officially called the House of Windsor.

Calendar: Seniors swing

Senior Citizens Dance will be held at 8 p.m. at Industrial Park Building 487. Refreshments will be served. Guests are welcome.
The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will dance to club caller James Moore from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Lodge on West Highway 80. Participants and spectators welcome.

Rodeo clown Quail Dobbs will sign autographs and pose for pictures with kids from 1 to 4 p.m. at Bob Brock Ford, 500 W. Fourth.

The third night of rodeo thrills and spills takes place at the rodeo bowl on the west side of Big Spring at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2 for children, available at the gate.

SATURDAY

Competition ends tonight in the Big Spring rodeo. Roping time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the gate.
The Knott Homecoming will be held at the Knott Church of Christ from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Refreshments will be furnished.

Tops on TV: Reds or rodeo

Tonight might be a good night to sample the Big Spring Rodeo and Reunion as television viewing choices are slim. At 6:35 p.m. on channel 11 is a baseball game between the Atlanta Braves and the Cincinnati Reds. At 7:30 p.m. on channel 2 "Chicago Story" has the hospital staff investigating a gangland-style slaying with a surprising twist. At 10:35 p.m. channel 11 is showing the Steve McQueen movie "Bullitt."

Outside: Clouds

Partly cloudy and continued warm with the high temperature today in the middle 90s. There is a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms predicted for this afternoon and tonight. Low tonight upper 60s. Saturday should be fair with temperatures near 100.

make it," she said. She said the rodeo lifestyle is as attractive to cowboys as the competition. "It gets tiring sometimes. You might be due two states away and you get behind the wheel and drive it. The cowboy's endurance is tried and that's what he likes. They like pushing themselves and forging ahead," Mrs. Richards said.

SHE OFTEN IS asked if she's frightened for her husband's safety in the area — a question which elicits a quick and emphatic "no."

"I'm not scared. I'd be more afraid if I told him 'no, you can't compete' and he was hurt because he couldn't do what he loved."

"If I lost my husband to rodeo I wouldn't regret it, because I would know he died doing what he wanted to be doing. It's rare that anyone does what he wants to do in this world, but cowboys do, and I don't want to stop my husband," Mrs. Richards said.

Mrs. Richards enjoys the variety that rodeo life offers, explaining that each new day brings different performances, towns and people.

"Rodeo is kind of like the first person you ever fell in love with — that person always stays a part of you and you never stop loving them. All of it is romantic, very romantic," she said.

She feels the biggest reason that the cowboys climb on bulls, wrestle steers and endure the grinding hours is to try to establish for themselves a bit of immortality.

"The biggest dream is to make a name for themselves. It's not so much the money or winning as the thought of gaining the respect of other cowboys, to have their acknowledgement, to leave a mark. That's their goal, that's why they ride as often as they can and keep pushing up the road," she said.

She has seen sad times also as rodeos are filled with defeats, aches and the reality of long hours and short pay.

"The saddest thing for me is seeing a young cowboy get hurt so that he can't ride again. When you see his health and the love of his life taken away, that's really sad," she said.

The day-to-day setbacks also make her sad. "I don't like to see the hurt on my husband's face when he knows he could have done better. I don't like to see the disappointment in someone else," Mrs. Richards said.

WHAT HAPPENS when her husband gets too old to rodeo?

"You know the good thing is when you get too old to compete you can go into other parts of rodeo. You can produce stock, work somewhere on the circuit, buy a ranch."

My husband wants to go into selling equipment, but that'll be after his body is totally unable to compete. He won't stop until he has to. Rodeo is a disease of the mind and body," she said.

Last night when Richards climbed aboard his bronc his wife pulled her children close and shouted "ride 'em, Jim" as he came out of the chute.

Unfortunately, he received no score on the ride, but all was not lost since waiting for him were a supportive wife and two children, who made the cowboy feel like a winner.

Water district seeks reserves

Negotiations for additional water rights were authorized by the directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District at a meeting in Big Spring yesterday.

The district is looking at securing reserves toward the western boundary of the district in the Midland-Odessa area, district spokesman Joe Pickle said.

He said the reserves are needed to meet peak demands as well as to bolster supplies until the Stacy dam project is completed.

In other action, the directors authorized contracts to be signed with the cities of Midland and Odessa to issue $39 million in bonds for water and sewer improvements in those two cities.

Odessa councilmen originally had sought water district backing for a $26 million bond issue, then cut the district's participation to $16 million. The city of Odessa reportedly will finance improvements to its water treatment plant with a $10 million bond issue which doesn't involve the district's backing.

Pickle explained that the water district does not incur any liability by participating in the bond issues for Odessa and Midland. Midland also obtained district approval for a bond issue yesterday — in this case, $23 million in water and sewer bonds.

Also at yesterday's board meeting, board members heard an update on the district's suit against the Scurry County Canyon Reef Operators Committee. The district filed a lawsuit seeking approximately $250,000 which the district claims SACROC owes in a contract dispute.

SACROC, according to Pickle, had brought the case to federal court, where judge Halbert Woodward ruled that the case properly belongs in state district court, since the parties involved are Texas corporations. The case will be heard in state 32nd District court in Snyder.

In other action, the board:

- Denied requests from two companies, Sayres Operating Co. and Mabee Petroleum Corp., for contract alterations.
- Heard that a replacement well in Ward County is producing at the rate of 1,000 gallons per minute.
- Learned that a replacement well to supply Pyote has been completed and can deliver "twice its requirements," Pickle said.
- Swore in board members and officers for two-year terms. P.C. Harbour of Odessa, the last surviving member of the district's original board of directors in 1949, was re-elected as president of the board.

Other members sworn in for new terms are: John Taylor of Big Spring and R.D. Fields of Snyder as vice presidents; Joe Pickle of Big Spring as secretary-treasurer; R.S. Searls of Odessa, John Currie and Jim Little of Big Spring, Hubert Cargile and James Rosser from Snyder, as members.

Police Beat

Teen nabbed on weapons offense

Police said they arrested 17-year-old Robert D. Little Jr. of 3304 Auburn on suspicion of possession of a dangerous weapon, possession of drug paraphernalia and public intoxication at 3:13 a.m. today at the intersection of 17th and Lancaster.

Arresting officer Bobby Armstrong reported that he found Little apparently unconscious behind the wheel of his car with the engine running. The officer said he turned off the engine and then arrested Little.

Police said nunchucks, a weapon made of two wooden rods connected by a chain, were found in the back seat of the car.

Little was transported to city jail, according to police reports.

Arresting officers in the above case reported that during the arrest, a shot appeared to have been fired in that neighborhood, possibly around 16th and Bell. Officers said they were unable to locate the source of the sound.

• A one-ton flatbed truck said to have been stolen from McCutcheon Oil, 101 Goliad, was recovered in Fort Worth yesterday by Fort Worth officials, according to local police.

The abandoned truck was discovered on a main thoroughfare in the city, police Lt. John Wolf said. It was discovered missing at 7:15 a.m. yesterday by an employee at McCutcheon's.

• A Mercury Cougar driven by Minerva L. Garcia, 18, no address available, and a GMC one-ton truck driven by Joseph F. Williams of 2911 W. Highway 80 collided in the 400 block of Gregg at 3:26 p.m. yesterday, according to police. Garcia was ticketed for unsafe lane changing, police said. No injuries were reported.

• A Chevrolet van driven by Howard G. Callison of Gail Route Box 256 and a Chevrolet Impala driven by Reynaldo G. Flores of 508 N.E. Eighth collided at North East Eighth and North Runnels at 1:50 p.m. yesterday, police said. Flores was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way at an unmarked intersection, police said. No major injuries were reported.

Space shuttle countdown resumes

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The countdown for Sunday's fourth flight of the space shuttle resumed today after a planned 14-hour hold as workers girded for a big weekend of activity culminating with Columbia's blastoff.

During the overnight hold, most members of the launch crew were sent home to rest. A small contingent used the break to pump liquid helium coolant into a top secret Defense Department payload in the shuttle's cargo bay.

Assistant test conductor Bob Webster said the countdown has "been very smooth" since it began Tuesday. "We've been on schedule throughout with only very few minor problems," he said this morning.

Webster reported weather experts were keeping an eye on a storm front which passed through Georgia on Friday and was "hanging over North Florida" today. He said it is expected to move through this area sometime Saturday, leaving good conditions for Sunday's planned 11 a.m. EDT liftoff.

When the countdown resumed at 9 a.m. today, crews at Launch Pad 39A started up the shuttle's guidance system and began servicing the main engines, leading to the fueling of the spaceship early Sunday.

Astronauts Ken Mattingly and Henry Hartsfield planned to fly to Cape Canaveral from Houston late today for final training before liftoff for the seven-day mission, which is slated to end on Independence Day with a landing at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

On Thursday, meanwhile, a French test pilot and two Soviet cosmonauts blasted into orbit inside a Soyuz T-6 spacecraft, aiming for a linkup today with the Salyut-7 space station which is carrying two other Soviets.

The orbits of the Columbia and the Salyut are not near each other, NASA said.

Only once before have as many as seven men been in space at the same time. That was in 1969, when three orbiting Soviet ships flew a formation flight. It also will be only the third time that Americans and Soviets have been in space simultaneously. The last was a U.S.-Soviet mission in 1975, when three astronauts and two cosmonauts docked their spacecraft.

Israel

missions were shuttered and their nationals evacuated, and fears mounted that despite Israeli pledges not to invade west Beirut a ground assault might be near. Israel's army barred woman journalists from entering Lebanon, giving no reason.

Lebanese state television said U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib was to go from Beirut to Jerusalem today to plead with Prime Minister Menachem Begin not to order his troops into the 10-square-mile west Beirut enclave, where 8,000 PLO guerrillas have promised to fight to the death.

Israel invaded Lebanon with the announced goal of driving PLO gunners back 25 miles from the northern Israeli border. But the Israelis drove 50 miles north to Beirut, joined their Christian allies and surrounded the capital's west sector, the PLO's last major stronghold.

The Israelis have refused to withdraw from Lebanon until the PLO disarms, a strong central government emerges, the Syrians leave and the Jewish state is assured that Lebanon will no longer serve as a base for guerrilla attacks on Israel.

The Syrian high command claimed the Israelis used nerve gas Thursday to rout Syrian forces from Bhamdoun. Syria also claimed it downed two Israeli planes today over Lebanon.

The Tel Aviv command said the Syrian nerve gas report was "absolutely ridiculous. We totally and emphatically deny it." The Israelis also denied any of their planes were downed, and said the only aircraft put of action Thursday were two Syrian MiGs.

The Tel Aviv command said the Israelis also destroyed several Syrian SAM-6 surface-to-air missile batteries Thursday and took Bhamdoun, trapping a sizable part of Syria's 30,000-man garrison in Lebanon in the mountains along the strategic Beirut-Damascus highway, the Syrians' main supply route.

The Syrians came to Lebanon five years ago under a mandate from the Arab League to police an armistice that ended the 1975-76 civil-war between Lebanon's Christian militias and an alliance of Palestinian guerrillas and leftist Lebanese.

New wage schedule for Coahoma water works employees

Coahoma city councilmen voted last night to change the payroll schedule of water works employees from monthly to hourly figuration.

Mayor Joe Swinney said it is not clear at this time just how many employees will be affected by the new schedule.

"They were working a lot of overtime and we felt it was justified" to make the change, he said this morning.

In other action, the council approved the full-time hiring of Roger Whitson as a repairman for about $950 a month, Swinney said.

Whitson recently completed a three-month initial trial period of employment with the city of Coahoma.

The council also decided to advertise for bids on the sale of motor oil for city vehicles, and discussed the needed repair of a city pickup truck.

"We're undecided what to do with it," Swinney said of the truck.

Medfly found in California

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — The first discovery in seven months of a fertile Mediterranean fruit fly in the lush San Joaquin Valley is only a "minor setback" in the $80 million battle against the crop-destroying pest, officials said.

The find came just one week before workers were to end a costly and controversial spraying program. New aerial spraying was scheduled today over a 9-square-mile area in Stockton, where the fly was found Thursday.

A major medfly infestation in the San Francisco Bay area last year sparked boycotts of California produce in other agricultural states like Texas and Florida, although no flies were found in any commercial crops. The pest can infest 256 varieties of fruits and vegetables and is considered a major threat to the state's $14 billion agriculture industry.

Thursday's find, the first ever in Stockton, about 60 miles east of San Francisco, is a "minor setback at present," said Roger Blake, a spokesman at the Medfly Eradication Project, headquartered in Los Gatos. "It still has to be determined what it means. It could be a very minor find, but we don't know."

Blake said a special team of medfly trappers would go to Stockton today to set more traps and establish quarantine boundaries.

It remains to be seen whether Thursday's find indicated a new infestation or merely a leftover from previous infestations, he said.

"We've been expecting to find some more flies," Blake said.

The medfly discovery was the first found in California since Nov. 20, 1981, when one of the pests was discovered in San Mateo on the peninsula south of San Francisco.

"Actually, we should have seen them earlier," Blake added. "But this has been a strange spring." Recent wet and cold weather has inhibited the generation of the insects.

Officials will increase the number of traps in the Stockton area from 12 to 50 per square mile. About 81 square miles of San Joaquin County are expected to be put under medfly quarantine.

Officials had hoped to end spraying of about 10 square miles in San Mateo, south of San Francisco and about 64 miles from Stockton, next week. All quarantines in the state were scheduled to be completed in mid-September, he said.

The quarantine area last year eventually covered some 4,000 square miles, about twice the area of Delaware. About 1,300 square miles were sprayed from the air.

Alameda and San Mateo counties are still under medfly quarantine, along with parts of Santa Cruz and Santa Clara counties, Blake said.

Thousands of state workers have been involved in the medfly battle, which began in June 1980 when the pest first appeared in California.

The insect has marred the political career of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who initially balked at spraying last summer but backed down after the federal government threatened to quarantine all California produce.

Brown is the Democratic nominee in November's U.S. Senate election, but an aide said he did not expect the latest discovery to affect the campaign.

"I don't think it will have any effect at all, in fact, it might enhance it a little because we have a crack team down there... that's doing their best both humanly and scientifically to eradicate the medfly," said Brown's chief of staff, B.T. Collins.

Collins said the state director of food and agriculture, Richard Rominger, would meet today with agriculture industry officials to discuss the possibility of new boycotts and quarantines.

VA unit holds open house

Former residents and employees of the Nursing Home Care Unit at Big Spring's veterans' hospital are invited along with the public to a 12th-anniversary celebration of the unit July 1. There will be an open house from 10 to 4 p.m., with refreshments provided by the American Legion Auxiliary.

High Court discusses students book rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — A splintered Supreme Court ruled today that a New York school board may have erred in removing nine books from its public school libraries.

But the justices failed to come up with a new rule that will guide the nation's school boards on the limits to their power to remove controversial books from schools.

Today's case, from the Island Trees school district on Long Island, had been expected to spell out the rights of students to have access to controversial and sometimes sexually explicit books in public schools.

But a bare majority of five justices agreed only that the dispute had to back to a federal trial court to see if the school board members had "constitutionally valid concerns" that justified their removal of the books.

Only three other justices agreed with Justice William J. Brennan's opinion that would sharply limit officials' power to remove such books, while four other justices would give such officials broad discretion to ban books they find offensive.

Justice Byron R. White, in the middle, agreed only that the case has to have further proceedings.

The nine books were removed from the school library shelves in 1976 because school board members objected to the sometimes strong passages about drugs, sex and brutality.

The books, including Bernard Malamud's "The Fixer," Kurt Vonnegut's "Slaughterhouse Five," and "The Naked Ape" by Desmond Morris, also sometimes used vulgar, four-letter words.

Mall holds dress event

Big Spring Mall is holding a western dress competition tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the mall. The competition is open to all managers and employees of businesses at the mall, according to mall manager Mark Sheedy. The winner and one guest will be flown to Dallas, stay in the LeBaron Hotel, and attend the Oct. 3 Dallas Cowboys and New York Giants football game. Judging will be done by members of local news outlets.

Mitchell board OKs budget

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Mitchell County Tax Appraisal District approved its budget for 1983-84 last night in the amount of $160,077, down from the current budget of $173,863.

Additionally, the board tabled approval of a new contract with the appraisal firm of Pritchard and Abbott. Board members balked at a clause in the contract which calls for an escalation in the firm's $55,000 fee tied to the federal government's yearly inflation rate.

Democrats sharpen swords

Reagan is target as party conference starts

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Big name Democrats are polishing up the anti-Reagan rhetoric as they ready the opening of a three-day party conference that gives a half-dozen would-be presidents a chance to seize the spotlight.

"The bankruptcies, the unemployment, the pain we are suffering in America is something we think should be changed and changed directly," party Chairman Charles T. Manatt declared at a news conference, getting in his licks against President Reagan before others take over at today's opening session of the mid-term conference.

"We Democrats do not believe that an ideology that provides less jobs, high interest rates, social insecurity and the highest number of bankruptcies since the Great Depression is one we should support," the party leader said.

Even before the session opened, Manatt and others stressed the party was unified in opposition to the president.

"We are together on the essentials. We agree on 95 percent or more of the issues," said the Rev. Robert Drinan, the former House member who leads the liberal Americans for Democratic Action. "The Reagan administration is a disaster for this nation."

Amidst the anti-Reagan talk, GOP Party Chairman Richard Richards called a news conference in the Democratic convention city to defend the president and assert "the average American is better off today" than before Reagan took office.

Richards aside, though, there were indications of discord bubbling just below the surface among the Democrats.

Rep. Gus Savage, D-Ill., complained that a Reagan-backed budget mandating billions of dollars in cuts from social programs was able to pass Congress this week only with Democratic help.

While the party chairman was talking to reporters and chairing a meeting of the full Democratic National Committee, the unannounced presidential hopefuls spent their day at private meetings, news conferences and campaign-style public events.

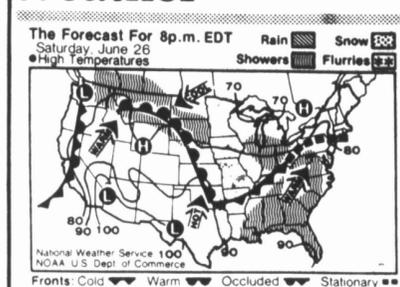

Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale met with unemployed automotive workers, rode a subway and attended a fund-raising luncheon for Rep. Bob Edgar, D-Pa., while his campaign aides distributed an ample supply of red and white "Mondale 1984" campaign buttons. "Be sure to vote for me on straw ballot," he later told several hundred people at a reception.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, called a news conference, the first of several he has planned, and said he hasn't decided yet whether to run for president in 1984. "I'm keeping my options open," he said in the time-honored phrase of a man who wants to run for president.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., met with reporters, insisting it was "too early for me or anybody else to be arguing our case" for the White House.

Sens. Alan Cranston of California, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts also were in Philadelphia pondering presidential candidacies.

Flooding reported in Stamford area

By The Associated Press

Residents around Lake Stamford were evacuated from their homes early today after heavy thunderstorms dumped up to four inches of rain across the area.

Flooding was widespread across Haskell County, the National Weather Service said. Highways between Rule and Rochester and Haskell to Rule and from Rochester to Stamford were closed due to high water.

The flooding came after heavy thunderstorms pounded portions of North Central Texas and the South Plains during the night and early today.

There were reports of possible tornadoes, hail, flash flood producing rainfall and wind gusts of up to 60 mph as the storms roared across a vast area of the northern half of the state.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for several counties and flash flood warnings were issued for Throckmorton, Wichita and Archer Counties.

Wind gusts of up to 60 mph were reported at Abilene, Haskell, Roscoe and in the Lampasas and Goldthwaite areas.

High winds overturned a mobile home on Texas 351 just northeast of Abilene.

One of the areas hardest hit was Throckmorton and Throckmorton County.

Street flooding was reported at Throckmorton where at least one store was damaged by high water, the fire department reported.

Throckmorton firemen also reported that U.S. 283 north of town and Texas 24 west of town were covered by water.

Veto likely, White House says

Emergency spending bill sent by Congress

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Reagan a second emergency spending bill, but the White House says it, like the earlier version, is unacceptable.

Only minutes after the Senate completed action on the slimmed-down version of legislation to keep several federal agencies operating through the summer, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes served notice that this second version also would be vetoed.

That would make two vetoes in two days in this latest battle between Congress and the president. Reagan vetoed the first emergency spending bill Thursday because it contained $3 billion to help lower and middle-income Americans buy new homes.

Unlike the first veto, there will be no attempt to override this veto. The House — which left Thursday for a two-week recess — has waiting in the wings a fall-back spending bill which, presumably, will be acceptable to the president.

That bill, passed Thursday but held at the desk, can be sent to the Senate next week to complete congressional action.

The House came surprisingly close to overriding Reagan's veto Thursday, falling only 17 votes short of the necessary two-thirds margin. And once it failed, it quickly moved to putting together the second version.

At one point, it appeared a spending bill shorn of the housing program would be acceptable to the president. But that quickly changed after the Senate completed congressional action on the bill.

Speakes, speaking as the Senate voted, declared "We want to serve notice here and now that the president will not tolerate deficit-defying, budget-busters."

The $5.9-billion substitute passed by Congress Thursday was essentially the same bill as Reagan vetoed except it no longer had the housing funds included.

But Speakes said the measure contained about $1 billion in "unrequested, non-urgent funds. It is a fat bill."

The third emergency spending bill — the one still held at the House desk — is even leaner. It is worth about $4.5 billion and would continue most affected programs only through July 20. The House approved it by a 342-25 margin.

Both of the new bills, like the one vetoed, would wipe out the $75-per-day tax deduction which members of Congress voted themselves late last year.

The unsuccessful House vote to override Reagan's veto, the fifth of his term in office, was 253-151.

In vetoing the $8.9-billion bill, Reagan cited several objectionable features but zeroed in on the housing provision.

The housing provision to which Reagan objected would have had the government pay up to 4 percentage points of the new-home mortgages of buyers with incomes of up to $30,000 — and up to $60,000 in some high-cost areas. Borrowers would have been required to repay the government if the house were sold or refinanced.

Texas wants U.S. to pay for alien schooling

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas officials say they may sue the federal government if Congress does not reimburse the state for the cost of educating illegal alien children.

Gov. Bill Clements said Thursday that Texas would ask Congress to pay the estimated $62.5 million tax for educating the state's illegal alien students, and may go to court if the government refuses.

Clements, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Texas Education Agency Commissioner Raynum Bynum and other state officials met Thursday to discuss the state's response to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that illegal alien children are entitled to a free public education.

"We are now spending about $62.5 million a year, so that's the amount we think Texas taxpayers are entitled to be relieved of," said Hobby, "because immigration is a federal matter and not under state control."

Hobby said there was "ample precedent" for the state's request, since the federal government now reimburses states for educating Vietnamese and Cuban refugee students.

The prevailing Supreme Court justices in last week's 5-4 decision advocated federal aid, Hobby said.

"This is no new situation," Clements said.

He said the state paid to educate illegal alien children until such expenditures were specifically outlawed in 1975 by the Legislature.

Hobby said the TEA's "best estimate" of the number of illegal alien students currently in Texas is about 25,000, with increases projected at 5,000 a year. Bynum called the figures "conservative."

The state spends approximately $2,500 per illegal alien student per year. Illegal aliens "high cost" students needing bilingual education and other programs, Bynum said.

Since the state cannot legally ask the immigration status of students enrolling in public schools, estimates are not always accurate, officials said.

Clements said the state would ask for the money "on an impact basis."

"Impacting by the federal government is not a new idea in the area of education," he said. "The Department of Defense and other federal departments have done this for many, many years. So we have a good case to make and we think this represents a real possibility."

FISH KILL — Millions of dead Menhaden and other varieties of fish coat the surface in the canals of Tiki Island, located near Galveston adjacent to Interstate 45. This scene was photographed Thursday. Officials with the Galveston County Health Department said the fish, which run in schools of up to a million, probably choked to death when they consumed all the oxygen in the canals.

Sheet of fish coats canal, fouls the air

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A sheet of tiny dead fish shimmering in a canal has fouled the air over a beach-house community and left residents wondering who will clean up the beautiful, stinking mess.

The fish, each about an inch long, suffocated when hundreds of thousands of them consumed all the oxygen in the enclosed canal. Ed Ibert of the Galveston County Health District said Thursday.

"This morning I saw thousands of tiny fish which appeared to be gasping for air at the surface," said Earl Milan, 57, one of about 100 residents of beach houses along the canal. "It looks like snow on the water. I've never seen anything like it before."

But Ibert said such kills of the fish, called menhaden, are not uncommon in summer.

Milan said vacuum trucks have been hired in other areas to suck the shiny coat from the water, but no one seems anxious to pay for the cleanup.

"We have no authority in that at all," said County Judge Ray Holbrook. Carl Covert, regional supervisor of Texas Parks & Wildlife, also said he did not believe his department is responsible.

Holbrook said eventually other organisms would eat the dead fish.

Menhaden are sought-after commercially in some parts of the country, but not around Galveston, Ibert said. He said they can be ground up and used as fertilizer, or their oil and protein extracted for cattle and poultry feed.

Fatherhood slowing down, Prince Charles

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Fatherhood made Prince Charles late for a royal appointment, where his subjects presented him with a 1901 feeding bottle, a knitted doll and two tubes of diaper rash cream.

They were gifts from the management and staff of a pharmaceutical factory he opened Thursday in southeast London.

A crowd carrying signs that read "Welcome

Dad," greeting Charles on his first public engagement since the birth Monday night of Britain's blond, blue-eyed heir apparent.

The Prince of Wales apologized for keeping his public waiting 20 minutes for his arrival — a rare occurrence on royal visits, which are usually timed to the split second.

"I had one or two things to contend with — which, I may say, I am delighted to contend with," he said.

British reporters immediately took this to mean Charles is giving Princess Diana and nurse Anne Wallace a hand in changing the baby's diapers. Buckingham Palace said only: "You'll have to put your own interpretation on it."

Like any proud father, Charles couldn't seem to stop talking about his child, who has yet to be named.

"The birth of our son has given us both more pleasure than you can imagine," the prince said.

ERA supporters claim victory

By PEGGY ANDERSEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though the fight to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment has failed, a leading supporter says the decade-long campaign has changed the nation.

"We have raised the consciousness of the nation about women," said Sonia Johnson on her return from Illinois where she had fasted for 37 days to demonstrate support for the ERA.

Ms. Johnson, who was excommunicated from the Mormon Church for her involvement in the ERA campaign, arrived at National Airport Thursday with Sister Maureen Fiedler of Washington and Mary Barnes of Raleigh, N.C.

The three women were among seven who participated in the Illinois fast.

Ms. Johnson of Sterling, Va., said the ERA effort "has revolutionized this country ... hundreds of thousands of women have been politicized."

During a 10-year lobbying campaign, only 35 of the needed 38 states have ratified the amendment. The deadline is June 30.

The National Organization for Women, the backbone of the ERA campaign, announced Thursday that it was shifting its focus in the fight for women's rights.

Congressional supporters have announced plans to reintroduce the ERA, but NOW president Eleanor Smeal said the organization would not seriously pursue the amendment again "until we've made a major dent in changing the composition of Congress as well as the state legislatures" to include more supporters of women's rights.

Ms. Johnson said women sought ratification by asking, begging, "crawling on our knees." But from now on, she said, "We'll take what is ours." She added that she personally would never work for a male political candidate again.

Rotary Club hits racism

It is heartening that Rotary International has taken pains to declare itself against organizational racism. This was done at the Dallas convention when the 3,200-odd delegates — by a strong, almost unanimous, voice vote — approved opening all Rotary clubs to members of any race.

The question had been raised by the club in Birmingham, Ala. It had voted to stick with the white-males-only dictum of a constitution dating back to 1913.

This prompted Rotary International's president, Dr. Stanley E. McCaffrey, to propose the motion challenging a racial requirement. His motion, significantly, was seconded by a Birmingham member, Leslie Wright.

Removing race as a bar to admission will not in itself guarantee an end of racism in Rotary clubs. Taking this action was, however, an essential and commendable first step.

Around the Rim

Playing with pain

"Playing with pain" is a phrase often thrown about in connection with sports, usually in connection with "recognized" sports, such as football, basketball or baseball.

Last night I saw a tremendous instance of an athlete — who was obviously in a great deal of pain — mentally forcing his body to do the things he asked of it.

He had to — one mistake could have cost him, or someone else his life.

Leon Coffee, a 5'11" rodeo bullfighter from Austin, was injured by a bull in Wednesday's Big Spring Rodeo. During a wind-dust-rain storm, a bull caught him in the knee with a horn — an experience Coffee's partner Mike Moore (the other half of the team of "Salt and Pepper") compares to "standing there and letting a baseball player hit you with a bat."

Knee injuries are nothing new to Coffee or Moore — both have had more than their share. Moore's even had a few operations, but Coffee says he won't let the doctors touch his knees.

Before last night's performance, Coffee said the injury consisted of a small cut and a bad bruise. "I'm just going to wear this light brace on it," he said.

The light brace wasn't enough. Both bullfighters say they won't touch drugs — not to get up for a performance or to kill pain. "I had an aspirin once," said Moore.

After a couple of bulls and the violent twisting and turning Coffee used to do his job — protect the bull riders — it was becoming evident that he was in pain. But he refused to quit.

Pain etched on his usually-grinning face, he continued to perform, with only an occasional limp revealing his hurt.

Most of the crowd probably never noticed.

Forcing his body to move, he taunted and teased the bulls, slapping their massive heads and scampering out of the way before the one-ton monsters could react to this darting nuisance of a man. Coffee was always right there with Moore, flashing in between the thrown cowboys and the bulls, annoying the behemoths into chasing him instead of the cowboys he makes his living protecting.

ONLY A FEW of us in the arena saw Coffee kneel in the shadows of the wall, shake his head and mutter "Jesus Christ" when the pain got to him. Only a few saw him lean on the chutes between the bull rides, trying to take the weight off the injured knee.

Asked as he left the arena "You gonna be all right, Leon?" he could only manage a grimace that might have passed for a grin and a shake of the head.

Later, as he sat with his friend and partner, Coffee admitted he hurt.

"Yeah, it quit on me a couple of times out there," he said. "Seemed like it was always at the wrong time, too," he added with a grin.

"I believe I'll be all right," he said. "Ain't no sense worrying about me — everything that happens to me, I bring on myself. Ain't nobody making me get out there."

There's a little more to it than that, however.

Wednesday, Coffee had said, "God put me on earth for two things — to make people happy and to help people. I'm doing both right out there in the ring."

WHATEVER it is that makes him keep coming back, the pull is strong. Leon fully intends to be in the arena tonight, injury or no injury.

"Oh, yeah, I'll be back," he said. "They (the bulls) may slow me down, but they can't stop me. If I have to come back in a wheelchair, I'll be back."

A comical picture — a bullfighting clown in a wheel chair, pumping frantically to get out of harm's way, or swooping in to protect a fallen rider.

But, listening to Leon, you almost believe he'd do it — the man can play with pain.

The favorable balance

WASHINGTON — After a spell in the wings, the two super powers came back to the center stage last week at the United Nations. Only without anybody seeming to have noticed, there had taken place a fundamental shift in the balance of power.

Thanks to the Israelis in the Middle East, and to the British in the Falklands, this country has suddenly acquired high ground for dealing with the Soviet Union. Between now and next fall, conditions are very right — indeed, they could probably not be more right — for a Reagan-Brezhnev summit meeting on arms control.

The recent change in the strategic balance was masked by several features. The Israelis and the British, for one thing, worked on their own account, not in explicit conjunction with Washington. In both cases, the drama of events on the ground drew attention away from the large diplomatic consequences. But once the comparison arises, a casual glance reveals how much the U.S. has been helped, and the Soviet Union set back.

The U.S. enjoys the fruits of striking military victories by two close allies. The supremacy of American technology has been reasserted with a vengeance. For in the Lebanese fighting, American military equipment proved itself far better than the latest Soviet tanks, planes and missiles. Moreover, even though Washington stood aloof from the fighting, the U.S. emerges the diplomatic arbiter. Margaret Thatcher and Menachem Begin, even in the full flush of victory, must look to Ronald Reagan to make good their larger purposes.

THE RUSSIANS, by contrast, have taken a drubbing visible to the whole world. Moscow's closest ally in the Middle East, Syria, has been shown to be a paper tiger. The Palestine Liberation Organization, which the Russians use as a point man in the area, has been cut to ribbons. Though the Russians themselves played it cool, their stooge in the Americas, Fidel Castro, failed miserably in his efforts to beef up Argentine resistance to Britain.

No outsider can be absolutely sure why Moscow allowed itself to be so clearly outpointed. But visitors to Secretary of State Alexander Haig come away with a roster of good reasons. He believes the Russians are under severe internal economic pressure. He thinks they are strained by difficulties in Afghanistan and Poland. He suspects the aging leadership, under Leonid Brezhnev, cannot make the quick responses now required by events. He is disposed to the view that the Russians are now constrained to be serious about an understanding with the U.S. on arms control.

Commonsense evidence supports that analysis. While the world was practically coming down around their ears, the Russians last week made only one big move — the Brezhnev declaration renouncing first use of nuclear weapons, which was spelled out by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to the special disarmament session of the U.N.

By itself the no-first-use declaration could be put down as mere propaganda. But in the context of the Gromyko speech, the thrust was far more serious. For, in two juxtaposed paragraphs, the foreign minister sketched the outline of a basic deal.

In one paragraph, Gromyko whined about the American tactic of stressing as "destabilizing ... only one kind of weapon" — namely Russia's monster missile, the SS-16. In the next paragraph, Gromyko talked about American superiority in a new bomber (the Stealth), and in cruise missiles. Which was a way of saying, "we'll yield on our advantages if you give on yours."

TO BE SURE, Soviet hints have to be carefully explored in private discussions. But, unless there is a hidden joker, the Reagan administration should be moving far more boldly than the President indicated in his speech to the U.N. on Thursday. For what he offered was a bare recital of past American proposals, on the one hand, and, on the other, a catalog of the "horror" of Soviet "tryanny."

But the Reagan proposals on arms control while better than many expected, are merely opening positions. They ask from the Russians more than this country's allies seek in the limitation of intermediate-range missiles based in Europe. They demand, in the matter of intercontinental weapons, that the Russians limit their best shot, while the U.S. retains its advantages. Moreover, the two sets of proposals are not coherently related.

So there is a critical reason to have the Reagan-Brezhnev summit both governments have repeatedly mentioned. Such a session is required to tie various proposals together, and to set guidelines for the future course of the negotiations. As to timing, it is hard to imagine, between now and the elections, when things could go sour for the President, a period more favorable to the American interest.

Billy Graham

Is music harmful?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think of some of the music that Christian young people seem to like today. I like more traditional music and don't get anything out of a lot of the more modern music. — J.S.U.

DEAR J.S.U.: I do not claim to be a musician at all, so I asked one of the musicians who has been part of our team for many years to give me his own opinion about this. He pointed out several things that might be helpful to you — I know they were to me.

First, he said that there is certainly some music today which some Christians (particularly young people) may like, but which is probably not actually helpful to them. This would include music that is very similar to some types of popular music, and which because of its close relationship is almost indistinguishable from music that has become associated with things like drugs or immorality. It especially would include music in which the words are impossible to understand, so that even if there is a Christian message it becomes lost.

In addition, he agreed with you that he prefers personally more traditional music — but that does not mean other kinds of music are wrong necessarily. The important thing is not so much whether I prefer certain types of music, but whether or not other kinds of music can help others grow spiritually. Some people (for example) may prefer folk music that has a Christian message, and it may be very helpful for them spiritually. The test, in other words, is not whether or not a certain type of music is according to my taste, but whether or not it is being used of God to minister to the hearts of people.

One of the glories of our Christian faith is that it is a singing faith. Musical tastes change from one generation to the next — some of our popular hymns that we love today would have sounded very strange to a Christian living several hundred years ago. But the main thing is that we all learn to praise God in every way we can — including the gift of music.

Class of '42 expresses thanks

Dear Editor: On behalf of the members and guests at the reunion of the Class of 1942, I want to thank you. Through the cooperation of you and your staff, in printing our plans and desires, we were able to have an outstanding 40th anniversary celebration of our graduation from Big Spring High School.

There were 114 registered for some or all of the events planned. After finally being able to identify one another, without having to look at name tags, we settled down to reminiscing of school days and our history since graduation.

We had eleven of our teachers present at the breakfast planned in their honor. You should have heard some of the stories they told us. The tour of our old High School (Runnels Junior Hi) was a huge success. The building is in very good repair and looked so familiar, although after forty years, it was difficult to pick out our special classes. The city has changed so much, for those who had not been here, but the changes were praised.

Thanks, again, for your splendid coverage of our reunion.

Khadafy and the A-bomb

WASHINGTON — One of America's most notorious fugitives was captured last week — ex-CIA agent Edwin Wilson. He was tricked out of his sanctuary in Libya, where he had been providing expertise in the black arts of espionage and terrorism to Col. Muammar Khadafy.

The government has charged Wilson and his old CIA sidekick, Frank Terpil, with illegally shipping U.S. explosives to the Libyan dictator. Federal prosecutors also suspect that Wilson tried to arrange an assassination for Khadafy.

My associate Dale Van Atta has been investigating Wilson's devious activities for almost two years. We began communication directly with the fugitive last fall, by telephone and other, more secure means.

Wilson told us that he also had been feeding information to the CIA during his exile, and felt that he had "contributed important background information of considerable value" to his old outfit. However, he avoided the question of whether he had been officially working for the intelligence agency — a suspicion that has been the subject of much speculation over the years.

ONE BIZARRE episode Wilson recounted has been confirmed by other sources. It involved the Justice Department's search for two international fugitives, Jose Dionisio Suarez and Virgilio Paz, wanted for the bomb assassination of Chilean exile leader Orlando Letelier and an American associate in Washington in 1976.

Through an agent code-named Omar, whom he had used when he was working for naval intelligence, Wilson learned the whereabouts of the two fugitives. He passed the information to his U.S. government sources, but the men had skipped by the time federal agents arrived.

Last year, in a secret meeting with a federal prosecutor in Rome, Wilson offered Omar's services again — obviously in a play for leniency in his own case. The offer was rejected.

Even wilder was Wilson's claim that he succeeded in keeping Libya from getting a nuclear bomb. He detailed this escapade in a report he smuggled out to us. Because it was in effect a confession that he had double-crossed his protector, Khadafy, we agreed not to use the story until Wilson was safe from the mercenary Libyan's wrath.

Here's what Wilson said happened: In late 1980, a Belgian named Armand Donnay contacted Wilson in his Tripoli hideout. Donnay demonstrated to Wilson's satisfaction that "he had access to equipment and technical data stolen from the French to manufacture an atomic bomb."

Wilson said he had the alarming information about Donnay conveyed to the CIA. He told us the agency "indicated no interest in the project."

Wilson said he played along with Donnay for several months, stalling for time. But he was unable to prevent the Belgian from making "certain technical information" available to the Libyans. In fact, Wilson said he sat in on three meetings Donnay had with the Libyan Atomic Energy Commission. The Libyans, he said, "indicated they wished to buy the equipment."

When the CIA continued to show no interest in the situation, Wilson decided to do the job singlehanded. He managed to persuade Donnay that the Libyans actually had no interest in his stolen nuclear material. Wilson said he did this "rather than allow the Libyans to purchase the equipment." He added that the stuff was subsequently sold to either Syria or Saudi Arabia.

The picture of a renegade American agent patriotically keeping Libya from getting the bomb at risk of his own life is of course suspicious at best, and obviously self-serving. Yet the substance of Wilson's strange story was considered important enough to be worth the time of Vice President George Bush's chief of staff, Adm. Dan Murphy; several months ago, he granted an appointment to a Wilson contact who delivered a briefing on the matter.

Footnote: In future columns, I'll report more of the incredible details of Edwin Wilson's undercover activities while he was a fugitive from American justice. They're spicy enough, but they do need a grain or two of salt.

CLEANUP JOB: In February, I reported charges of official misconduct by Herman Grace, director of the New Mexico Office of Community Affairs. He was accused of stockpiling firewood intended for the needy, and of misusing federal funds on personal indulgences.

Soon after my report, Grace resigned. In May he pleaded guilty to three counts of fraud. He faces a prison term of up to 12 years. Sentencing has been delayed to allow Grace to have surgery on a nerve in his arm, injured while he was arm-wrestling in a bar. Meanwhile, Gov. Bruce King's special assistant, Brian Sanderoff, was put in charge of the monumental cleanup job at the agency. The swollen staff of 63 has been cut to 20. The firewood has been delivered to the poor.

Most significant of all, Sanderoff has reformed the agency's procedures to eliminate the presence of cash — and temptation — to the extent possible.

The cleanup campaign has been a joint effort by the FBI, Health and Human Services Inspector General Richard Kusserow and New Mexico state agencies.

WATCH ON WASTE: Last February, I reported that Carolyn Davis, head of the Health Care Financing Administration, had installed a fancy audio-visual "teleconference center" for the agency's big shots, at a six-month rental of $115,000. She liked the equipment and it's been leased for another six months at $85,000. The equipment has required some $6,500 worth of office renovation, but at least the rent is going down: next year, it'll only cost $150,000.

There are about 290 species of pigeons in the world.

Woman hurt by tombstone sues Catholic Archdiocese

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A woman is suing the Catholic Archdiocese of San Antonio and Archbishop Patrick Flores for $123,000 because a tombstone fell on her at San Fernando Cemetery.

Rosalia Barajas, 72, said she was pinned to the ground and suffered a broken leg, scalp lacerations, loosened teeth and mental anguish when the tombstone collapsed on her on Aug. 25, 1979.

Mrs. Barajas said she was injured while visiting her husband's grave and will be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of her life.

The woman said she fell into a sitting position and reached for the tombstone near her husband's grave.

"It fell on my leg, part of my stomach and my head," she said in a deposition read to a jury in 285th District Court Wednesday. The woman claimed she was too ill to appear personally in court.

The Catholic Archdiocese denied the woman's allegations that its officials were negligent in not correctly anchoring the errant tombstone.

Instead, the victim was "negligent by pulling or leaning on the monument," the archdiocese countered in the trial which continued today.

BROADCASTING — Mother Angelica, a Franciscan abbess at Our Lady of the Angels Monastery, checks out the equipment at the Eternal Word Television Network studios Thursday in Irondale, Ala. Mother Angelica, who parlayed $200 and a lot of faith into a nationwide Catholic TV network, is hot on the heels of Ted Turner, bouncing her signals off the same satellite as the more popular cable channels.

The network has "state-of-the-art" equipment that cost $1.5 million and operates out of modern studios at the monastery Mother Angelica built east of Birmingham 20 years ago.

The 13 nuns cloistered at the monastery include a former executive secretary for Chrysler Corp., and Mother Angelica's real mother, who took vows and entered the monastery shortly after it was built.

The graceful monastery hugs the steep hillside, which is covered with tall pine trees. Below, a small flock of sheep graze near a 32-foot satellite dish, which allows EWTN, as Mother Angelica put it, to "feed the people with the word of God."

Mother Angelica anchors the program, which usually includes two hours of religious shows and two hours of family entertainment.

The network's purpose is "to reach the man in the pew" by using "sock-it-to-'em," down-to-earth messages, she says.

Broadcasting nuns get cable boost

By DIANA SMITH
Associated Press Writer
IRONDALE, Ala. (AP) — An unflappable Franciscan nun says it's "miraculous" that the Roman Catholic television network she began less than a year ago with $200 can now reach every cable TV system in the country.

The Eternal Word Television Network, anchored by Mother Angelica, made its debut last Aug. 15 when a 10-meter satellite dish at Our Lady of the Angels Monastery bounced a signal off the Westar III satellite.

On Thursday, EWTN moved to a transponder on Satcom III satellite — the same satellite that carries Ted Turner's Cable News Network, WGN in Chicago and movie channels such as Home Box Office.

The switch increases EWTN's potential audience by several million homes, network officials say.

"It was really miraculous," Mother Angelica said, explaining the satellite time was offered to the network "out of the blue." The monastery is subleasing four hours of satellite time a day from another company.

"The Lord has showed us just how great his providence is. We now have the potential of reaching every cable system in the country."

The idea for the network came up in September 1980, when the monastery had $200 in its operating budget. "People thought we were a little touched in the head," Mother Angelica said.

The nuns applied for the FCC license in October, and it was granted in January 1981. They borrowed money, and the studio was constructed and equipped as funds became available.

Today, 17 technicians, engineers and network employees offer a slick, four-hour program to cable systems seven days a week — free of charge.

The network has "state-of-the-art" equipment that cost $1.5 million and operates out of modern studios at the monastery Mother Angelica built east of Birmingham 20 years ago.

MacNelly back to cartooning

The editorial cartoons of Jeff MacNelly, who has won the Pulitzer Prize twice, have begun appearing again in the pages of the Big Spring Herald.

MacNelly, 34, who won the Pulitzers in 1972 and 1978, returned to his editorial cartoon on March 7 after a hiatus during which he concentrated on his comic strip "Shoe."

"I thought the country straightened out eight months ago," said MacNelly in returning, "but I see we're not, so it's time to come back."

He is now on the staff of The Chicago Tribune, and doing three national cartoons per week.

"I really missed editorial cartooning. I thought that through the strip I could vent

MacNelly has won The Reuben Award of the National Cartoonists Society twice, and the George Polk award.

He was born in New York, graduated from Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass., and attended the University of North Carolina. In his senior year at the university, MacNelly left to take a $120-a-week job as an artist and cartoonist for a weekly newspaper in Chapel Hill.

From 1970 through May 1981 he was the editorial cartoonist for the Richmond News Leader.

Though he considers himself a conservative, he can not be considered an ideologue. "I like to think that I call them as I see them," he says.

Texas on defensive for 10 years

Prison case full of irony

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Ten years ago, Texas Department of Corrections inmate David Ruiz filed a civil rights lawsuit against the prison system, complaining that conditions in TDC constituted "cruel and unusual punishment."

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice in 1980 sided with Ruiz, other inmates and the U.S. Justice Department and ordered the TDC to end overcrowding and revamp management of the prison system.

On Wednesday, a year after Ruiz was paroled, the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals threw out many of Justice's reform orders, and Ruiz was in an Austin court facing new charges.

Ruiz, 40, was paroled after serving 13 years of his 25-year sentence for armed robbery. But he has been in the Travis County jail since he was indicted earlier this year on an armed robbery charge. He was on trial Wednesday for possession of marijuana allegedly found in his cell.

Although Ruiz' suit was filed in 1972, it was six years before the case was heard. After plaintiffs and defendants presented 349 witnesses and entered 1,565 exhibits into evidence, Justice said the trial "lasted longer than any prison case — and perhaps any civil rights case — in the history of American jurisprudence."

The 34,000-inmate prison system is the nation's largest, and, according to some, third to only the Soviet Union and South Africa as the world's largest.

On December 10, 1980, Justice issued his 250-page order criticizing virtually every aspect of the prison system's management.

He ordered a systematic end to triple- and double-celling of inmates. The appeals court ruled Wednesday that Texas inmates are not entitled to individual cells.

Justice criticized the TDC for building expensive maximum-security units instead of opting for cheaper alternative methods of incarceration.

He said the state violated its own laws by allowing inmates to be appointed guards, called "building tenders." The state agreed to eliminate the practice.

Justice ordered improvements in inmate health care. The appeals court threw out the order.

But Justice especially irked state officials already inflamed by what they saw as his meddling in state business when he appointed Ohio attorney Vincent Nathan as a "special master" to make sure the state obeyed his orders.

State officials tried to have Nathan fired, accusing him of fomenting inmate unrest, but they later backed off.

The state spent more than $1 million on outside counsel to fight the lawsuit. The complicated and emotional issue fueled political in-fighting between incumbent Republican Gov. Bill Clements and his Democratic challenger, Attorney General Mark White.

White criticized Clements for blocking prison construction money approved by the state Legislature. Clements said White's handling of the case was incompetent.

Meanwhile, the TDC tried to meet Justice's order to end three-men-to-a-cell by housing some inmates in tents.

Hotel fire case ends in accident ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Arson investigators have ended a 15-week inquiry into a hotel fire that killed 12 people by deciding no charges will be filed because of the blaze they said was started by a dropped cigarette.

"We can't prove neglect and can't prove intent," Leonard Mikeska, chief arson investigator, said Wednesday. "There is no reason to believe the fire was anything other than accidental."

Mikeska said the March 6 fire at the Westchase

Hilton Hotel apparently began when a cigarette was dropped into an overstuffed chair in room 404.

The chair smoldered for about an hour, then exploded into flames when one of the guests returned early in the morning and threw open the door to rescue another man who was nearly overcome by smoke.

Guests above the fourth floor told investigators they smelled smoke about an hour before the blaze was reported at 2:28 a.m., Mikeska said.

He said investigators took that as evidence the fire was accidental.

"This is not indicative of an accelerant, but is indicative of a smoldering-type fire," Mikeska said.

Mikeska said two misdemeanor fire code violation charges, one against a hotel employee and the other against its management, were dropped in the course of the investigation in an effort to keep the hotel management's good will.

Consumer group sues agency

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Consumers Union has filed a lawsuit against the Texas Department of Human Resources over the agency's handling of an energy assistance program for the poor, the group announced today.

Carol Barger, attorney for the consumer advocacy group, told a Capitol news conference that a state district judge has granted a temporary restraining order prohibiting DHR from spending any of the federal money.

She said DHR is not following either federal or state law in its administration of the $42.3 million allocated under a block grant to the Home Energy Assistance Program, designed to assist poor people in paying heating and air conditioning bills.

The consumers group and two legal assistance organizations began battling DHR last winter over how the agency decides who will get the money.

Talent show is seeking contestants

For the fourth year, an annual Starlight Specials Talent Show is scheduled for July 17 at 8 p.m. in the Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater. Contestants must be of school age and be in the first through the 12th grades in school.

Contestants will be divided into three divisions: the elementary division (grades one through five); junior high division (grades six through eight); and senior high division (grades nine through 12).

Contestants may enter an individual contestant or as a group which does not exceed five members. A limit of three minutes will be allowed the contestants — whether individual or group. Contestants exceeding the three-minute allowance will be disqualified.

Individual contestants will compete for first-place trophies in their respective divisions. Group contestants will compete for a bronze metal or pins awarded to each member of the winning group in their respective division.

The winner of the senior high division trophy will be named Mr. or Miss Talent of 1982 and will be expected to make a public appearance at one of the noon day luncheons of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. He or she will be expected to be available for other civic appearances in Big Spring and Howard County.

A congeniality trophy will be presented this year to a contestant selected by the contestants themselves.

Honorable Mention Awards will be presented to all other contestants.

The Talent Show is an annual event for school age contestants and is presented as a summer recreational activity by the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. It is under the direction of its founder and coordinator, Frank Wentz.

For further information concerning the Talent Show, contact Frank Wentz at 263-6285.

A "Perfect" Rose

Look closely at a so-called perfect rose! Scan the petals, you will find they are far from perfect. But uneven shapes, blemishes or misshapen stems will not spoil the delicate color, rich fragrance and sheer beauty of the total flower.

How clearly a rose illustrates that nothing in life is truly perfect! But rather than discourage us, this should give us fresh confidence and strength.

God did not make the rose perfect—nor did He make us perfect. Yet He thinks none the less of us for our faults and blemishes. In His eyes we always have another chance. But it is up to us to take it.

Start by going to the church of your choice this week!

Church Preacher is allergic to cattle

By RHONDA WOODALL
Church Editor

Terry Cosby, pastor of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, grew up in Milford, a small farming community. "I couldn't stand farming. I have a great respect for farmers, but it was so boring driving a tractor in the fields," Cosby said. "I like the cattle farming aspect of it. I had thought I could be a veterinarian, and discover a new breed of cattle, but there was one problem. I was allergic to cattle."

Since cattle ranching was out of the question, Cosby thought he could be an athlete. He received an athletic scholarship to Howard Payne.

"A month after high school I was reading Deuteronomy. I was reading about Moses and got to the part about going into the promise land. I knew then that this was my calling," Cosby said.

TERRY COSBY
...pastor of Phillips Memorial Baptist Church and Baptist Student Union director at Howard College

"When I went to college to study theology I didn't know anything about church history but what I had learned in Sunday School," Cosby said. "The most influential professor I had at college was Nat Tracy. Tracy left a great impact on the people that went to Howard Payne and shaped their ministry. Tracy said people are not the center of life, God is. He showed me the purpose of salvation."

After college, Cosby attended seminary, but did not have a church because he worked 40 hours a week and attended classes 15 to 20 hours a week.

"All my friends had churches, I couldn't understand why I didn't have a church," Cosby said.

"During that time I learned about the working people," Cosby said. "Unlike the Cosden worker or teacher, I can study the Bible 15 to 20 hours a week. I am not better than them, I'm just set aside for the purpose. Through my studying I'm equipped to help people to carry out their ministry. Everybody has some kind of ministry."

"I love the freedom of the ministry. It gives me time to study the Bible and when you see some truth of God becomes reality, it is rewarding," Cosby said.

"Trivia is what I liked least. There are so many important things happen in a Christian's life, but we spend most of our time talking about the weather and things like that," Cosby said.

Cosby also is BSU (Baptist Student Union) director at Howard College. He coordinates and direct the BSU. "I like working with the college students. They are full of energy and very impressionable. They are willing to help when you need it," Cosby said.

He also enjoys working with senior citizens. "Senior adults have been through so much and have a great deal of wisdom," Cosby said. "I try to encourage them to reach for their goals."

Cosby has been working on projects at the church. "I'm proud of how the church is responding to the mission project. From October to Easter, members collected $1200 for World Hunger. They took rice bowls home and saved," Cosby said.

Through a donation from a member, the church is building a play ground. "We are just finishing a play ground and remodeling of the fellowship hall," Cosby said. "I like what one man said at a boarding meeting. He said 'We might not get a lot of growth from this (the building of the play ground), but we need to do this because it is right.' The kids need a place to play."

The ministerial climate is very good here, but something has happened. There's an awful lot of churches in the town and the town sort of seems burned out from churchness. The people have heard us talk, now they want to see us act," Cosby said.

Bonnington is church's curate

ORDAINED DEACON — Rev. Mr. Robert Bonnington (right) was ordained by The Right Rev. Sam B. Hulsey.

The Rev. Robert Lester Bonnington became curate of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Bonnington has a bachelor of science from Indiana University of Bloomington in Accounting, and a PhD in Economics from the University of Iowa in Iowa City. He has a certificate of Special Studies from the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest in Austin. He taught at Texas Tech for 12 years and is a CPA.

Bonnington was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y. He is married and has two children. Bonnington spent four years in the U.S. Air Force as a Russian Language Specialist during the Korean conflict.

Bonnington is an ordained deacon by the Right Reverend Sam B. Hulsey, Bishop of Southwest Texas.

WAYNE FANCHER
...director of "Continental Singers and Instrumental Ensemble"

Fancher directs singers

The "Continental Singers and Instrumental Ensemble," directed by Wayne Fancher on their 75-day international tour, will present a live concert of contemporary Christian music on Monday at 7 p.m. at the Hillcrest Baptist Church, located at 2000 FM 700.

Fancher will direct 16 vocalists, a 7-piece instrumental ensemble and a technical crew. They will appear throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Barbados, Trinidad and Jamaica.

Fancher was assistant director of the tour in 1981. He graduated from Mississippi State University in Mississippi State, Miss. with a Bachelor of Music degree in 1978. He has done graduate work in music at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, Ky. and is working toward a Master of Music in conducting at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

A member of several musical and professional honor societies, Fancher has served as teacher's assistant at the University of Kentucky and assistant director of the University chorus. He has served churches in Mississippi and Texas as Minister of Music.

Fancher will direct this year's program, "15th Anniversary Praise Celebration — You Just Can't Stop the Music."

The "Continental Singers and Instrumental Ensemble" is a presentation of Continental Ministries, of Thousand Oaks, Calif. with Cam Florida as president.

Church to vote on construction of building

The membership of the First Church of the Nazarene will vote on an unanimous proposal from the church board regarding the building of a new sanctuary, which would provide seating for 350 people plus a lobby, offices, rest rooms and Sunday School rooms. The estimated cost of the structure is $270,000. The location of the proposed building also will be determined by the congregational vote. The two options for the building site are the removing of the present building and to build there or building on recently acquired land on the north side of the present buildings.

Preceding the balloting will be the morning worship service at 10:45 a.m. Dr. Carl Powers, pastor, will give the sermon, "Faith Enough to Try." The Sanctuary Choir directed by Bob Spears will sing. The 6 p.m. service will feature music and Powers' sermon entitled "Maintaining the Glow."

4-H LEADER AWARD — Distinguished 4-H adult leaders from across the state were honored during 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University. Marie Ethridge (at left) is greeted by Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, (center) director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Jim Morris of Austin, trustee of the Texas 4-H Foundation. Recognition went to two leaders of each of the state's 14 Extension districts. Ethridge is from Howard County.

4-H leader honored

Two area 4-H leaders were among 29 in Texas honored at the 1982 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University June 9.

Marie Ethridge of Coahoma and Alice Couch of Ozona were recognized as the top adult volunteer leaders in the Far West District of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The Extension Service is the parent organization of 4-H. Each honoree received a special plaque provided by the Texas 4-H Foundation, the service organization of 4-H in the state.

Ethridge, a public school teacher for 23 years, has been an organization leader for the Coahoma 4-H Club for the past 10 years. The club has about 50 members. She worked with 4-H members on a variety of projects and activities. She has served as a project leader in clothing, foods and nutrition, home environment and judging teams as well as in most other areas. She played a key role in such 4-H events as omelet dinners, junior rodeos, county and district camps, parades, arts and crafts fairs, the Howard County Fair, and food shows and fashion revues.

A former Gold Star Award Recipient, Ethridge has been active in the county and district adult leaders associations and received the Howard County Adult Leader Award in 1980. The Texas Tech University graduate is active in the Texas State Teachers Association, Vocational Office Teachers Association, and the Texas Vocational Teachers Association.

52nd McNew Reunion is held in Lamesa

The 52nd Annual McNew Reunion was held June 13 and 14 in the Forest Park Community Center in Lamesa. Descendants of the late William and Mary McNew attended the event.

Many families were represented by four to six generations. Work on family genealogy, currently dating back to 1703, is being compiled by Gertrude McCann, Bonnie Skeen, Marcella Breeding and Alice Richards.

Delia McNew of Big Spring, 89, was recognized as the oldest lady and the oldest in attendance. Wesley Edmonson, 82, Lamesa, was the oldest man and Zackry Dea McNew of Seminole, five months old, was the youngest in attendance.

Families came from Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Ohio, California, Colorado and other cities in Texas to attend the reunion. Six first cousins were present, all past 70 years of

Lingerie shower honors Lisa Martin of Ackerly

Lisa Martin of Ackerly, bride-elect of Curtis Bailey of Pagosa Springs, Colorado, was honored with a lingerie shower in the home of Mrs. Quinton Colwell in Lubbock.

Yellow and white cookies, mints, and punch were served from a table covered with a yellow and white linen tablecloth. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow and white carnations accented with baby's breath. A corsage of white carnations was presented to

Dr. Donohue

Questions about MS

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I recently was advised that my 27-year-old son-in-law has multiple sclerosis (MS). I would like to have you answer some questions about it:

1. What causes it?
2. What is the prognosis?
3. Are there any new miracle drugs for it?
4. Is physical therapy helpful for it?
5. Would moving to a warmer climate help it?
6. Do vitamins help it?

Thank you. — S.R.L.
1. We do not know the precise cause, although viruses, allergies and changes in the supply of blood to the brain or spinal cord have been suggested. Some very promising work on a specific viral cause continues.

2. The outlook is unpredictable. Many do quite well. A few have a bad time with the illness. It is a problem that waxes and wanes.

3. There are no miracle drugs. Prednisone and ACTH are used when the disease flares up.

4. Physical therapy is helpful. Stretching exercises and active exercises with weights help keep muscles limber. Exercise programs should be guided. Swimming is a good exercise when the person can manage that. The coolness of the water lowers body temperature and the person is permitted to exercise more vigorously without bothersome symptoms. Water temperatures of 75 to 80 degrees is what I mean by "cool."

5. Vitamins do not help.
The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, 205 East 2nd Street, New York, NY 10017 has a great deal of good reading material that may interest you.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please write something about low blood pressure in your column. What causes it, and how might it affect a person? I am 59 and have this, or I was told by my doctor that I do. — F.K.

Many people have low systolic (first number) readings and their doctors do not have to do about it. By low, I am speaking of something in the range of 90 to 110. Most of those patients are normal. In fact, many have chances for longer lives than persons whose pressure falls within the averages for the population. If yours is in this range and your doctor has told you not to worry about it, chances are you can not only forget worrying about it, but even boast a bit.

Now, there are some illnesses where the blood pressure is low, and where the person feels the effects. I'll give you two examples. When the adrenal glands fail to work properly, the hormones they are supposed to make are not around in body, and the blood pressure drops. But with this, there would be other symptoms of the illness.

Another problem is failure of the pressure to adjust when a person rises from a prone or seated position. When you get up from a sitting position your blood pressure should go up to compensate. If it doesn't, then the blood circulation to the brain is insufficient. You feel dizzy, and may even faint. Again, a case of low blood pressure causing a problem.

But a blood pressure that is somewhat low without any signs or symptoms of illness is not an indication of future trouble or present illness. So if your doctor tells you that your health is good, don't worry about the slightly low blood pressure.

Mandy Barriball is honored with shower

Mrs. Joseph Diliberto, formerly Mandy Barriball, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Peggy Craven, 1605 E. 5th, June 16.

Hostesses were Peggy Craven, Nancy Twining, Helen Thomason, Wandy Petty, Debbie Moore and Josie Painter. The hostesses presented Mrs. Diliberto with lingerie and an iron.

The couple was married in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, June 18.

What is 'curry'?
The term "curry" is often used to denote a process or method of cooking, though actually "curry" is synonymous with the word "massala," an Indian word that means a combination of herbs and — or spices freshly ground together, says Rose Tindall Postel. Dr. Postel is a foods and nutrition specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Apple's flesh stays whiter longer
Try the Golden Delicious apple variety for fruit salads. This apple's flesh stays whiter longer than other apple varieties, says Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Dear Abby

High-living stepson is low rent

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are 62 and 63 and just retired. This is a second marriage for both of us. Her 24-year-old son by a previous marriage is living with us. He has a good job, but he likes to live high. He has a $35,000 sports car, a $1,200 health spa membership and plenty of money for ski trips, but he can't pay his mother the $25 a week he agreed to pay her for living at home, getting meals when he wants them and all his laundry done. My wife even has to pay his telephone bills.

This was bad enough, but then she had to pay his income taxes, I hit the ceiling!
I say this irresponsible young man should be put out on his own. He's had several chances to move in with friends and share expenses, but he doesn't budge. My wife and I would get along perfectly if it weren't for him. He is the only thing we ever argue about.

I finally blew up and told my wife that either her son moves out, or I will. Am I wrong?

UP TO HERE
DEAR UP: You're "wrong" only if you're not prepared to back your play. Moral: Never issue an ultimatum unless you're prepared to follow through.

DEAR ABBY: Are you familiar with the enclosed piece? I think it's beautiful and have been trying to find out who wrote it, but have had no success.

I hope you not only think it's worth sharing with your readers, but will help me find the author.

MARIE V. IN TACOMA
DEAR MARIE: I have heard portions of it quoted, but don't know who wrote it. Will the author please come forward? Please, only the author. (Whenever I publish something and ask who wrote it, at least a dozen people claim authorship.)

ON YOUTH
"Youth is not entirely a time of life — it is a state of mind. It is not wholly a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips or supple knees. It is a temper of will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions."
"Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years."

Bridal shower honors Debra Hart Tuesday

Debra Hart, bride-elect of Sammy Lewis, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Don Hodnett, Tuesday.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Hodnett, Mrs. Bill McIlvain, Mrs. W.L. Osborne, Mrs. Gary Burt, Amy Smith, Mrs. Jim Pedigo, Mrs. James Petty, Mrs. Wally Bumbullis, Mrs. Grady Hodnett, Mrs. Jennifer Andrews, Mrs. Willie McDaniel and Mrs. Howard Shivers.

The hostesses presented the honoree with stainless steel cookware and a corsage of yellow daisies. Similar corsages were presented to Mrs. Lowell Hart, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Sam Lewis, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Special guests also included Mrs. Homer Hart of Colorado City, grandmother of the honoree.

A white two-tiered cake decorated with yellow and white rose buds was served from a table covered with a yellow knit cloth. The table was centered by an arrangement of yellow and white daisies in a silver bowl.

The couple will be married July 2 in Hillcrest Baptist Church with the Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor, officiating.

Heartbroken elephant to be moved following death of her companion

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A zoo elephant who sank into loneliness after the death of her companion is being sent away for a cure because now she does nothing but pace in her cage, perhaps troubled by elephantine memories.

Wally, the Toledo Zoo's only female elephant, "has got some real problems," zoo Director William Dennler said Wednesday. "I'd say it will take a good elephant trainer a couple of months to bring her around."

Zoo officials hope that sending her to an animal farm in Texas will soothe her psyche and end the lonely blues that set in after the 1980 death of her companion, Amber.

Wally, an 11-year-old Asian elephant, probably was traumatized when she watched 31-year-old Amber die two years ago, Dennler said. Wally hasn't been the same since.

"I know it sounds strange, but she really has become neurotic," Dennler said. "All she does is pace back and forth in her cage. Elephants are very social animals, and two females will develop closer bonds than a male and a female."

"When Amber died, Wally was in the next cage area, and stuck her trunk through the bars to sniff, trying to find out what was going on," Dennler said. "She has never been without another elephant. Who knows what or more."

So in a two-for-one deal, Wally is being traded for two female African elephants, each about 3 years old, Dennler said.

The deal is a good one for the Toledo Zoo and for the International Animal Exchange of Ferndale, Mich., Dennler said.

Wally will be relocated first to the animal exchange's African Lion Safari near Port Clinton, Ohio. Eventually, Dennler said, the elephant will be transferred to the animal exchange's operations in Texas for breeding.

Wally is an untrained elephant, making her care more difficult, Dennler said, and animal trainers will begin working with her at the Safari.

"Wally is just entering breeding age and should be in that stage for the next 20 years," Dennler said. "So one of the factors involved in moving her is to increase the stock of Asian elephants, which are becoming hard to come by."

Dennler said the transfer of Wally and the two young elephants will probably be done next week.

Nebraska town trying to keep memory of writer alive

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 AP Special Correspondent
 RED CLOUD, Neb. — "Harry, I can't sleep. They're going to take the depot away, starting tomorrow."

But they didn't. Tomorrow will still be yesterday in Red Cloud, Neb.

The old Burlington and Missouri station, which figures in so many Willa Cather novels and short stories, and where she departed this prairie town without ever leaving it in her heart, still stands, complete with pot-bellied stove, iron-wheel baggage carts and the tall semaphore tower that in her time gave the green light to eight passenger trains a day between Kansas City and Denver.

Harry Obitz, the golf teaching pro, and his wife, Helen, who used to drive the taxi between the depot and the hotel, saved the depot for the Willa Cather Pioneer Memorial Foundation.

IN PRETTY MUCH the same whim of a way, Dr. Wilbur Bennett, the local country doctor, and his wife, Mildred, the historian who got him to move his practice here because of her interest in Willa Cather, saved the Cather childhood home on Cedar and 3rd St. Here Willa lived from age 10 to 17, gathering impressions and characters by the bushel for her later literary output, the way the farmers took in and stored winter wheat.

The Foundation faithfully restored the low, one-and-a-half story frame house pretty much as Willa knew it, even her drafty attic room with the double windows and the yellow rose wallpaper she bought working at Dr. Henry Cook's drug store, thanks to the photographic memory of her oldest friend, Carrie Minor Sherwood, who was 98 when the restoration began. Willa Cather dedicated her masterpiece, "My Antonia," to Carrie and her sister Irene "in memory of affections old and true."

Bill Mounford, then the mayor of Red Cloud, and his wife, Miriam, saved the old Dane Church, so important to Willa Cather's vision of early ethnic America. Each wave of immigrants had its own church and burial ground, but sent the children to the tin-roofed sod school house to turn them into Americans.

Starting in 1955 with eight people donating $20 apiece, Willa Cather's friends and neighbors in this prairie town of 1,530 the population was 2,553 when she left in 1899 to go to college at Lincoln have done for American literature what colonial Williamsburg does for American history. Bring it back alive.

Only more so. Here is an eerie mixture of fact and fiction, almost a duplication.

Red Cloud is more than just the railroad division point where Willa Cather grew up and became fascinated by the struggling European immigrants — the Swedes, the Germans, the Bohemians and Northwegians — and wandered lonely on the windwept "divide," between the Republican and Little Blue Rivers. It is the town she recreated out of her mingling of imagination and memory, and it has at least seven other lives, all of them immortal.

RED CLOUD is Black Hawk in "My Antonia," Moonstone in "The Song of the Lark," Hanover in "O Pioneers," Frankfort in "One of Ours," Haverford in "Lucy Gayheart," Sweetwater in "A Lost Lady,"

Skyline in "Old Mrs. Harris."

A.L. Rowse, the Oxford don and Elizabethan scholar, when he visited Red Cloud for a seminar on Cather, called it a "ville musee," a whole town into a museum. England, he said, had nothing like it outside of Stratford-on-Avon.

The perception of the novelist Willa Cather undergoes a change upon visiting Red Cloud, listening to the wind sighing in the unpainted eaves of Willa's attic bedroom, watching the orange-hued grass ripple like waves at sunset on the preserved Willa Cather Prairie, standing by the hay-burning stove at the back of restored St. Juliana's Catholic Church with its marble holy water font advertising the wares of "Overing Bros. & Co.," local tombstone crafters.

Unbranded cattle, horses easy prey for rustlers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Unbranded animals are easy prey for urban cow and horse rustlers in Texas, and livestock stealing is one enterprise not suffering from economic recession, a cattleman's association says.

They have been taking increasing numbers of horses and cattle, especially around big cities, said Cullen Ribonson, special assistant for the Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers' Association in Fort Worth.

Rustlers prey particularly on unbranded animals because "a brand is a cow's return address," Ribonson said in a telephone interview.

"Livestock producers in the metropolitan areas such as Dallas-Fort Worth and even San Antonio are losing more to rustlers than those in the wide-open spaces," he said.

Ribonson said one reason for increased urban livestock thievery is that the animals are more concentrated and often are not branded. Many owners consider it too time-consuming or expensive to get a few hands together to brand the animals, he said.

In rural areas, residents become suspicious if they see strange people and vehicles moving across the rangeland, and ranchers are more apt to heed the axiom: "Trust everybody but brand your cows," Ribonson said.

"But in a metropolitan area they can pull right up and load them up and nobody pays any attention."

The TSCRA has 32 field inspectors and 87 brand inspectors that attend every livestock auction in Texas. They have been investigating a series of 11 cattle thefts along I-35 between Austin and Oklahoma City.

One narcotics addict also is suspected of stealing five unbranded cattle and selling them at an auction, Ribonson said.

Rustling has increased in trailer-load lots along with freezer rustling, in which a thief takes only one head for meat to put in his freezer, Ribonson said.

Thieves have to sell stolen jewelry and electronic items at large discount to a fence, Ribonson said, but unbranded stolen livestock can be sold at market value.

"Livestock is the only thing they can sell at market prices, and it's all profit," he said.

With modern transportation, rustlers can reach markets and sell the cattle or horses before TSCRA bulletins on thefts can be circulated, Ribonson said.

"They can load at midnight and have them sold by 10 or 11 the next morning at a market far away."

Space shuttle flies laying fewer eggs

HOUSTON (AP) — Flies carried aboard the last flight of the space shuttle Columbia are laying less than half as many eggs as similar insects which never left Earth, a team of University of Houston biologists says.

Houseflies carried on the eight-day flight laid 57 percent fewer eggs during the study than those in a control group, members of the team said Wednesday. The flies normally reproduce every 10 days.

Team member John G. Baust said houseflies are "very advanced invertebrates" with chemical reactions during reproduction similar those of humans.

"Flies provide a model system that may hint at problems man could face in space," Baust said.

No astronaut is known to have fathered a child after returning from space, but two Soviet cosmonauts have had at least one child each.

Lufkin school offers students last chance

By ALLAN COOK
The Lufkin Daily News

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — If all public schools were like Lufkin's Alternative School, public education would be a nightmare.

Every student has a different curriculum. There is no corporal punishment. There are no football or basketball teams. There is no pep rallies. Little effort is made to keep students in class against their will. Students may smoke on campus if their parents say it's all right.

As one student puts it, that's what it's called Alternative: For most of them, it was Alternative or out of school and out of a future.

Some blew their chance. Some of the school's alumni are in prison, others are in Texas Youth Council centers. But many are working, successfully making their own in a world in which they might never have had a chance without the school. For them, Alternative gave them a future.

The school is the brainchild of Superintendent Allan Cannon, who brought the idea for such a school with him from San Antonio. He says it is his responsibility as an educator to provide an education to all children, even those who cannot or will not conform to the usual standards of behavior expected of students.

Alternative opened its doors five years ago in the old St. Cyprian's Episcopal Church annex, but it now sits on a couple of well-wooded acres that surround the 34-year-old Mabel McLeary School.

Appearances don't count for much at Alternative. It's what goes on inside the school's six unadorned classrooms and inside the minds of its students that counts.

At Stoddard, a tall, soft-spoken 47-year-old former Canton Elementary school teacher, is the principal and one of two teachers for the two dozen or so emotionally disturbed students.

EDs, they are called — who are enrolled in grades 7 through 12 at the school each semester.

On paper, the EDs make up only about half of Stoddard's responsibility

— he also is principal for a couple of dozen "school-age mothers" and a few students who are temporarily physically incapable of attending classes and who are taught at home — but they make up the overwhelming part of his day-to-day workload.

Stoddard's main official job is to teach basic academic skills to the EDs until they are emotionally and socially prepared to return to regular schools.

But the real job, he says, entails a lot more than that. This year he has been punched twice while breaking up fights. His students pile more verbal abuse on him than a drill sergeant does an Army recruit.

He says he often feels like a frustrated professor-friend-father figure-counselor-teacher-principal. Teachers don't queue up for a chance to teach there, he says. But he says he hasn't ever seriously considered quitting.

"Somebody's got to work with them," he said, "and I feel like I was called to work here."

"These kids have been losers who need a chance to be around somebody who's not yelling and screaming at them all the time," Stoddard said.

Of the 24 EDs enrolled at Alternative last spring semester, 17 — about 70 percent — were on probation for a number of crimes. Stoddard says that most of the EDs probably could be arrested for something on any given school day.

Their teachers try to solve the students' emotional and social problems through behavior modification, the method that says behavior can best be changed as rewarding good behavior and denying rewards for bad behavior.

The principal says spanking and other ordinary punishment are counterproductive: What purpose is served by spanking a mean and angry 17-year-old delinquent but to make him meaner and angrier?

The most visible example of behavior modification is a classroom chart outlining a point system for good behavior.

Fifty points are given for completing assignments; 20 for not talking back, arguing, fighting or cursing; 10 for staying in the classroom; 10 for bringing paper and pencil to class; and 10 for being on time. Students may earn a maximum 100 points a day.

Those who earn 350 points — 3½ days of exemplary behavior — get a free class period, in which they may do anything they like as long as they don't disturb their classmates.

Stoddard says smoking is tolerated because not to tolerate it would only complicate the school's mission. The students will smoke anyway, he says, so why complicate an already complicated problem?

The EDs are taught only basic courses in reading, writing, math, history, science and so on. There are no vocational or accelerated programs common at other schools. Stoddard said Alternative's goals are more modest: to help students get back into the educational mainstream.

The principal estimates the "success rate" at Alternative is about 25 percent, that about a quarter of those who return to normal schools never return. The remainder either return to Alternative after getting into trouble or drop out of school altogether.

Students seem grateful for the opportunity the school gives them. Four, ranging in age from 15 to 18, were interviewed under the condition their names not be used.

The first, a 15-year-old boy referred to the school by his probation officer, said he waged "guerrilla warfare" with Junior High East Principal Billy Bowman. He said he used to get licks six periods a day, but says the punishment "just made me want to do it more."

The young man, who is planning to work on an offshore oil rig when he turns 18, said he was put on probation after violating an order that he not enter the East campus.

"Most of us that's over here have problems in regular school and that's why we're here," he said.

He said that next year he will go to Lufkin High School.

Tankfulls of tequila poured but not wasted

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — For one brief shining day, Santa Ana rivaled Margaritaville as 43,000 gallons of tequila flowed without the long-lost shaker of salt. But it was not wasted away.

The city fire code classifies tequila as ethyl alcohol, in the same category of flammables as gasoline, so fire officials poured the 43,000 gallons Tuesday from sub-standard storage containers into tanks less likely to leak.

Fire officials said they worried about spillage, vandalism and the old tanks' proximity to John Wayne Airport, where they might pose a hazard to aviation.

"They weren't up to fire code," admitted Ralph Hansen, attorney for the tequila's owners.

The tank and tequila owners, DAK Distributing Inc. and Baja Industries, both pleaded guilty Tuesday to 10 counts of a 30-count misdemeanor complaint about the brimming tanks, which didn't meet city standards for wall thickness or ventilation.

Orange County Municipal Judge Alan Plaia imposed a $2,500 fine on John Hirshal, chief executive officer of Baja Industries, and placed him on three years' probation.

Plaia ordered probation only for DAK chief executive Francis Kluever.

Hansen, Hirshal's attorney, conceded the men hadn't gotten a permit before they loaded the tanks in November.

Now there's four Rangers, Devils, Hawks, Ponys win

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Mirror, mirror above the floor, where have we seen all this before.

Although it's a year later and few of the names have changed, the 1982 Big Spring Little League Championship Tournament is looking mighty familiar to the one played in town last summer.

Three of the four teams that advanced to tonight's semifinals made the final four a year ago. Only the Texas League Ponys are new, replacing the Texas League Tigers that successfully advanced two rounds last June.

In Thursday's night's games, the National Rangers edged the International Rangers 4-3, the Ponys scored late to nip the American Astros by the same 4-3 count, the American Hawks trounced the National Yankees 15-1 and the National Devils popped the American Pirates 11-5.

Two games are on the bill tonight as the Rangers host the Ponys in a 7:30 p.m. game and the Hawks entertain the Devils, also at 7:30 p.m. The winners play for the city title Saturday while the losers battle for third place prior to the title game. The time and site will be determined after tonight's games.

The trip to the semifinals is a similar one for the Rangers. Last year, the National champs won 17-2 over their International namesakes. This time around, however, the task was tougher.

Doug Mariott scored on a wild pitch for the Rangers in the second inning but Eric Kimmans' RBI sacrifice fly tied the game in the bottom of the frame.

In the fourth, pitcher Brant Nichols blasted a two-run homer to left-center field to give his team a brief 3-1 advantage. The International winners retaliated again in the bottom of the inning when Tim Scott followed hits by Lee Smith and Pat Collins with an RBI ground-out and the Rangers turned a double steal to get Collins home with the tying run.

The winning run came in the fifth. Joey Hinkle walked and scored on a ground-out by Jerald Savala. The loss not only ended the I-Rangers season, but snapped a 12-game winning streak.

Across town, the National champions for this year were making a return appearance in the semis.

The Devils trailed early in the game but tied things up in the third with a single run. The scored stayed at 3-3 until the bottom of the fifth when the hard-hitting Devils exploded for eight runs. Keying the comeback was Byron McElreath who rapped a pair of triples and Matt Garrett who had two hits. Both were the top two hitters in the National League this year.

Tom Cruz had two hits to drive in two runs for the Pirates while Craig Knocke knocked in two runs with a single.

The Devils lost to the Rangers in last year's title game, were 4-5 at one point this year but have now won seven straight to improve to 11-5.

Another exciting game was played at the Texas League park as the homestanding Ponys scored in the bottom of the sixth inning to upend the Astros.

With the scored knotted 3-3, Danny Lafer singled, went to second on a passed ball and scored when Jay Fryar rapped a triple with two out.

It was a hard-earned win for the Ponys as Sam Rodriguez and Damian Zarate combined for a three-hitter.

Fryar smacked in inside-the-park home run in the first inning to give the Ponys a 1-0 lead. Teddy Molina scored on an error in the fourth to tie the game. The Ponys went back on top 3-1 in the fourth on a pair of unearned runs against Aaron Allen. Pete Chavarria tied the game in the fifth with a two-run single before Fryar settled matters with his big hit in the sixth.

The only blowout of the night came at the American ballpark where the undefeated Hawks rolled to their 16th straight win with a clubbing of the Yankees. The game was called in the fourth inning.

STOPPING AT THIRD — Ponys pitcher Sam Rodriguez can't advance any further as he is forced at third base during the third inning of Thursday's game with the Astros. Making the catch at third is Pete Chavarria (2).

Kevin Pirkle had a single and double and Robert Guzman and Stephen Gonzales each had two hits for the Hawks. Joe Louis Paradez allowed just one hit — a single by Quade Weaver in the second inning — and struck out 10 batters.

The one run off Paradez was unearned as Weaver scored on an error.

The Devils-Hawks game is a rematch. Last year, the Devils won 6-5 to make the championship game. The Hawks took third place.

Saints tied to cocaine

By The Associated Press
George Rogers, the National Football League's leading rusher in 1981, and Dave Wilson, one of his teammates, reportedly are among more than a dozen present and former members of the New Orleans Saints who have told federal investigators they bought cocaine from a former Saints running back or a convicted drug dealer.

Rogers spent more than $10,000 last season to buy cocaine, the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the States Item said Thursday in a copyright story. The newspaper quoted sources as saying Rogers told a federal grand jury he paid for cocaine with personal checks on several occasions.

The New York Times, in today's editions, quoted unidentified Justice Department officials as saying Wilson, like Rogers a rookie last season, also told the grand jury of his purchase and use of cocaine.

Rogers and Wilson are expected to receive immunity from prosecution because of their cooperation with authorities, and because they were not involved in selling the drug, both reports said.

The New Orleans story identified the sources only as being familiar with the federal inquiry into cocaine use by Saints players.

The newspaper quoted its sources as saying Rogers was one of more than a dozen present and former members of the Saints who have told investigators they bought cocaine from either Mike Strachan, a former New Orleans running back who has been indicted by a federal grand jury on cocaine-distribution charges, or Joselyn Bruno, who was convicted of conspiring to sell the drug.

The New York Times quoted its sources as saying that the grand jury was told Strachan sold the drugs to Rogers and Wilson.

The trial for Strachan, who faces a seven-count indictment involving cocaine dealing and conspiracy to sell cocaine, is to begin next Thursday.

NFL officials declined to comment on the article, but said they are cooperating "with the authorities connected with the grand jury."

In another development, columnist Jack Anderson said on ABC's "Good Morning America" Thursday that undercover federal narcotics agents have secretly infiltrated a narcotics ring operating inside the NFL.

He gave no other details except to say that a federal investigation is now focused on the Saints, and that an "official, confidential" list of suspects contains the names of Rogers, ex-Saints player Chuck Muncie, now with the San Diego Chargers; Saints quarterback David Wilson and Strachan.

Murray wins sports award

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Jim Murray, columnist for the Los Angeles Times, received The Associated Press Sports Editors' annual Red Smith Award for long distinguished service Thursday.

Smith, who died in January, was the first recipient of the award.

Bill Dwyer, sports editor of the Los Angeles Times accepted the award for Murray saying the columnist could not attend because he was in poor health and was still shaken over the recent death of his 29-year-old son.

Dwyer read a message from Murray in which the columnist said he was deeply honored and appreciative to be named the recipient of the award.

Wilander sets advance

Swede, Connors get wins

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—A young English girl wearing the dark blue blazer of her school unfurls the color poster, looked at the young blond man stalking about the court, giggled and nudged her friend.
 The object of her attention was young Mats Wilander, who at 17 already is famous and successful beyond his wildest dreams. He is fast becoming the latest in a string of matinee idols at Wimbledon.

CONNORS' COURT—Jimmy Connors reaches for a double-handed return, during his Men's Singles Championship match against John Alexander of Australia at Wimbledon Thursday. Connors won: 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 7-6.

Wimbledon 82

"It bothers me a little bit, the recognition," Wilander conceded just minutes after escaping with his No. 7 seeding intact and a 7-6, 6-4, 6-0 triumph Thursday over Nduka Odizor of Nigeria.

The highest ranked men's player on today's card was No. 3 Vitas Gerulaitis, who took on New Zealander Bruce Derlin.
 In other matches, Stan Smith, who upset ninth-seeded Andres Gomez of Ecuador in a first-round match, met Hank Pfister; Chip Hooper, who scalped No. 8 Peter McNamara in the opening round, played Russell Simpson; fifth-seeded Johan Kriek of South Africa faced West German Peter Elter and No. 6 Gene Mayer played Australian Brad Drewett.

Only two ranked women were scheduled to see action today, with top-seeded Martina Navratilova taking on Anne White and No. 7 Pam Shriver going against 15-year-old Kathy Rinaldi.
 Wilander was part of a wave of younger players advancing through the draw Thursday that left two former women's champions—Virginia Wade and Evonne Goolagong—in their

the third round Thursday.

Candy Reynolds, 25, went against the trend by upsetting fifth-seeded Hana Mandlikova, a 20-year-old Czech, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, as did 27-year-old Joanne Russell, a 6-7, 6-3, 7-5 winner over No. 8 Mima Jausovec, 26, of Yugoslavia.
 Wade, the 1977 champion, extended Marjorie Blackwood, Canada's No. 1-ranked woman, to 7-6, 7-5 before bowing out. Goolagong was ousted by Zina Garrison, an athletic 18-year-old from Houston who is being favorably compared to the young Billie Jean King.

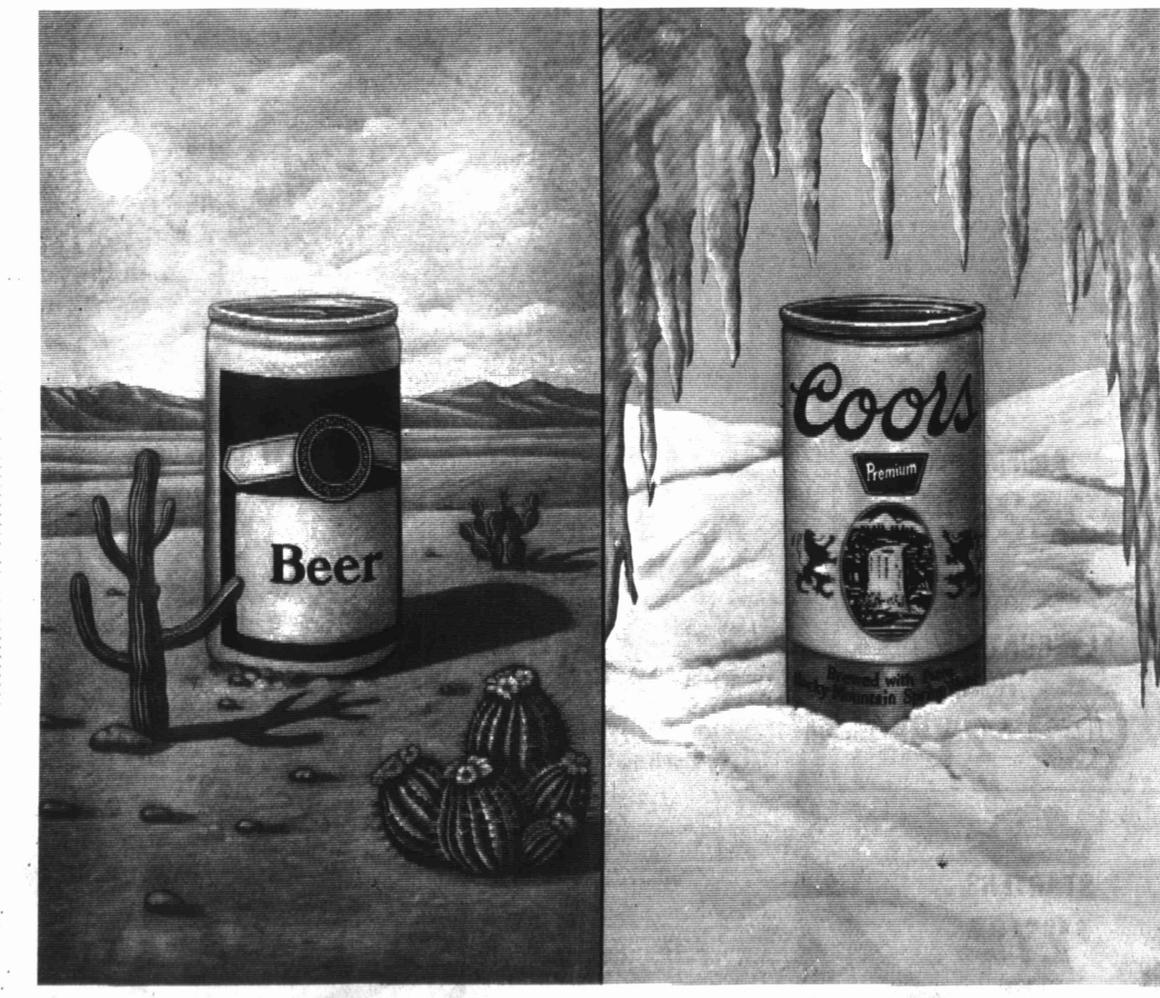

Meanwhile, the real Billie Jean King played her 100th singles match at the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club, scoring a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Claudia Pasquale of Switzerland.
 The remainder of the top 10-ranked women—all 16 received byes through the first round—advanced into Shriver defeated fellow American Kim Jones 6-1, 6-1, and No. 9 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany defeated American Paula Smith 6-2, 6-4.

On the men's side, Jimmy Connors got his first serious test from a resurgent John Alexander.
 Connors posted a 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 7-6 win to join top-seeded John McEnroe in the third round.

Niekro fluttered on his ninth inning and not one.
 Niekro's knuckled pitched Luis Pujols dizzily. Pujols capitalized on the wild pitch and won the game 1-0.

COORS BEATS THE HEAT THAT KILLS BEER TASTE.

Extreme heat destroys beer taste. In fact, because of the way other beers are processed and shipped, they are exposed to 140 degrees of this taste-killing heat even before they reach your store.

Not Coors. Only Coors is always packaged and shipped cold from the brewery to your store. In fact, Coors is kept cold longer than any other beer—and that means fresher tasting beer for you.

Sure, it would be easier to allow Coors to be exposed to extreme heat. And maybe some beer drinkers wouldn't taste the difference. But we think real beer drinkers would. Because keeping it cold is the only way to assure fresh beer taste. That's why your last

Matlack masters A's

American League

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jon Matlack was breezing along against the Oakland A's with a three-hitter, the bases empty and one-out to go when a funny thing happened to a chance for his first complete-game victory of the year.

"I looked up and saw someone coming ... I figured it was the manager," Matlack said.

Indeed, Texas Ranger Don Zimmer arrived with the hook and called Danny Darwin out of the bullpen to face slugger Cliff Johnson.

The right-handed Johnson had slugged a homer off the left-handed Matlack earlier.

Darwin made the heavily-boomed Zimmer look good by forcing Johnson to hit a pop fly foul out and the Rangers prevailed Thursday night 2-1.

"If I leave Matlack in and Cliff Johnson hits a home run I would have cut my throat," said Zimmer. "If he hits one off Darwin I can sleep."

Johnson said he thought Zimmer made the correct move.

"He showed me a lot of courage, taking out a man who is throwing a three-hitter," said Johnson. "But if I had been the manager I would have done the same thing."

Matlack, who earned his third victory in eight decisions, was not overly incensed at the move.

"I didn't expect it," Matlack said. "I thought it might happen if I let somebody get on base."

"But Don and I have an understanding. I would like to stay and finish what I started but Don did what he felt like he had to do."

Rookie Dave Hostetler's fifth-inning single gave Matlack what proved to be the winning run off starter and loser Rick Langford, 5-9.

Johnson hit his seventh homer of the year in the fourth inning to tie the game after singles by Billy Sample and Johnny Grubb and Buddy Bell's sacrifice fly had given Texas a first inning run.

"Matlack doesn't have many wins but he has been consistent all year," said Zimmer. "I just made a move I felt I had to make... don't care if I get booed."

It was the ninth loss in 10 games for Oakland which is now only a half-game ahead of the sixth-place Rangers in the American League West.

In Friday night's second game of the four-game series, Frank Tanana, 3-8, of the Rangers was to meet Steve McCatty, 4-1, of the A's.

Tigers 7, Orioles 1

The Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner have finally ended their silence.

The Tigers got home runs from Larry Herndon, Kirk Gibson and Lou Whitaker and snapped a 10-game losing streak by defeating the Baltimore Orioles 7-1 Thursday night.

"We were in a dry spell, but you have to give the other teams credit," said Alan Trammell, who had two RBI singles. "We were running into teams that were playing hot baseball. We let everyone back into the race, but deep down we knew it wasn't going to be a one-or two-team race. This division is too good for that and it will be a four- or five-team race."

Indians 5, Yankees 2

There was no sign of life, however, from the Yankees' punchless bats in a 5-2 loss to the Cleveland Indians. Instead, their volatile owner provided most of the offense by ripping into his slumping sixth-place ballclub in a postgame news conference and promised to chew them out face-to-face today.

"From now on, there will be no more excuses," Steinbrenner said, barely one week after he calmly blamed a run of injuries for the club's poor start. It was the Yankees' 14th setback in their last 21 games and dropped the defending American League champs 10 games behind first-place Boston in the East Division with a 31-34 record, one game from the cellar.

"That stuff about injuries is over," Steinbrenner added. "Maybe we're laying back like last year in the World Series, saying to ourselves that 'we'll get 'em tomorrow.' Well, we didn't get 'em tomorrow. Maybe that attitude still permeates here."

Toby Harrah's double and Mike Hargrove's RBI single broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning as Cleveland ended Ron Guidry's six-game winning streak. The Indians also got an RBI double from Chris Bando and run-scoring singles by Mike Fischlin and Jack Perconte. Dan Spillner, who replaced starter Rick Sutcliffe in the seventh and yielded a game-tying single to Jerry Mumphrey, was the winner. He allowed one hit over the last 22-3 innings and has not allowed a run in his last 261-3 innings.

"The guys that are supposed to produce are just not producing," Steinbrenner said. "They're not earning their money. The majority of them are bitter disappointments and should be ashamed to take the money they're taking. Maybe we made some mistakes. And if we did, we'll own up to them. Then we have to see who's advising us and make the necessary changes."

Steinbrenner held a meeting of his coaching staff into the early-morning hours after the latest defeat, while Manager Gene Michael announced there would be a workout next Monday, which is listed as an open date.

"I think this team needs a lot of practice," the owner said. "And if they need a lot of practice, we'll give it to them. They'll get all they need. I think they need a lot of things. Maybe we're fighting an age factor. Maybe I've waited too long on some guys."

"I'll tell you one thing — you'll see some of my young kids soon. I'm not against outright releases."

As far as tonight's team meeting goes, Steinbrenner said:

"I'm going to say a lot of things and they're not going to enjoy it. But I'm going to state simple facts. This club will improve. If it takes moves, we'll do that. If it takes practice we'll do that. Whatever it takes, we'll do."

Angels 7, Royals 2

Reggie Jackson's three-run homer — his 15th of the season and fifth in the last seven games — capped a six-run rally in the fifth inning and Geoff Zahn scattered eight hits as the first-place Angels moved 1½ games in front of the Royals in the AL West. Doug DeCinces also homered, while Don Baylor contributed a two-run single.

WINNING FORM — Texas Ranger pitcher Jon Matlack lets one fly during 5th inning action against the Oakland A's Wednesday night in Arlington Stadium. Matlack, pitched eight and two-thirds inning before leaving with one out remaining in the ninth inning. He held the A's to three hits and Danny Darwin came in to get the final out and preserve the Rangers 2-1 victory.

Cooper a quiet baseball star

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper, the hitting machine who plays first base for the Milwaukee Brewers, has a rigid, simple set of priorities.

Topping the list are his family, his privacy, hanging breaking pitches, and Milwaukee Bucks' basketball. Media attention ranks near the bottom. Although obliging to autograph seekers and cordial to fans, especially children, Cooper grants interviews sparingly. When he does, he chooses words as meticulously as the way he coils into the unorthodox crouch that has produced a composite .319 batting average over the last five seasons.

"It's not that I like being called the best kept secret in baseball," Cooper said. "Not really. I would like more recognition. But I'm not sure I'd want to pay the price. ... But I don't know if I'd like the hassle."

Cooper's carefully structured and well-guarded low profile ends in the batter's box. He currently is hitting .321 with 12 homers, and his batting average was above .370 until he injured a hip in Seattle three weeks ago.

While his name may not be a household word among baseball fans outside Wisconsin, he needs no introduction to American League pitchers.

"Cooper is probably the most underrated player in baseball. I'd put him right up there with anyone." New York Yankees' relief pitcher Rich Gossage said. "If Cecil played in a bigger market, like New York, L.A. or Chicago, he would be a lot more well known." Yankees' pitcher Tommy John said.

"But the people who play against him, his peers, know exactly how good he is," John said. "He's as good as Rod Carew, with a little more power. If the players voted for the All-Star team, Cecil would be the American League first baseman, hands down."

Cooper's most appreciative admirer is Brewers' Manager Harvey Kuenn, a .303 hitter in the big leagues from 1953-66.

"Coop is as good as there is," Kuenn said. "He's in a category with Al Kaline and Roberto Clemente, who could hit for both power and average. Like Hank Aaron, too, before Hank became a real pull hitter. I would say Coop is as good a hitter as Pete Rose, and he has more power."

Cooper has tinkered with his stance hundreds of times in efforts to perfect it. But he says mental readiness is a bigger key to his success than mechanics.

"To me, each time at bat is a new experience, a guessing game, a mini-series or confrontation. I try to learn something from every single time at bat. I guess I'm a perfectionist," he said.

Wildness costs Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astro pitcher Joe Niekro had too much flutter on his knuckleball in the early innings and not enough in the final one.

Niekro flutterballs danced catcher Luis Pujols dizzy as the San Francisco Giants capitalized on four passed balls and two wild pitches for a 4-3 tenning victory over the Astros Thursday.

Niekro, 6-6, allowed only eight hits over ten innings, but Jack Clark's 13th homer of the season, a solo blast to the left field mezzanine seats in the 10th inning, gave the Giants the victory.

Niekro's knuckleball aided San Francisco in each of its earlier runs.

"He was throwing the knuckleball awfully hard," explained manager Bill Virdon. "Later on, when he was tired, it got better."

"Earlier in the game, though, it was just impossible to catch. I imagine Luis was the only man in the ball park who could even come close to catching it."

Pujols admitted it was his worst night ever behind the plate. "I had no idea where the ball was going," the Astro catcher said. "The umpire couldn't call it and I couldn't catch it."

The Giants got an unearned run in the third inning when Joe Morgan reached on second baseman Phil Garner's fielding error, advanced on a passed ball and scored on Clark's single to left.

San Francisco added two more in the fifth. Max Venable led off the inning with a triple. After Morgan walked and moved up on a wild pitch, Chili Davis' groundout drove Venable home and moved Morgan to third. A passed ball brought Morgan in to make it 3-0.

Houston cut the lead to one in the bottom of the fifth on Garner's single and stolen base, Niekro's RBI single and a triple by Dickie Thon.

National League

Dodgers 5, Braves 3

Back on May 18, Steve Garvey was hitting a modest .238 with two home runs, and the strikeouts were coming faster than the runs batted in.

Now, with 10 homers — seven in his past 19 games — and a recuperating average of .256, the Los Angeles Dodgers' first baseman has seen his game skyrocket into the wild "Dodger Blue" yonder.

"It feels very good now," Garvey says. "Obviously the first month and a half was a struggle for me. Now I'm driving in some runs, which I have to do to contribute."

Garvey homered, and he and Ken Landreux each drove in a pair of runs Thursday night to back Jerry Reuss to his ninth victory in 14 decisions, a 5-3 triumph at Atlanta. The defending World Series champions are now in third place in the National League West after winning 10 of their past 13 games, moving within ½ game of division-leading Atlanta.

Reuss lost his shutout bid in the eighth when Claudell Washington doubled and Glenn Hubbard singled him home. Bob Watson's RBI double in the ninth, followed by a single by Jerry Royster, chased Reuss, and reliever Steve Howe allowed an RBI single to Washington before shutting down the Braves for his fifth save.

Phillies 10, Cardinals 2

Gary Matthews slugged a disputed home run and Ivan DeJesus contributed three RBI, including a homer, to pace Steve Carlton and the Philadelphia Phillies over St. Louis.

Carlton, 9-7 and winner of nine of his past 12 decisions, pitched a three-hitter, struck out six and walked three.

Astros

After Pete Rose doubled in the third inning, Matthews hit a long drive that appeared to have gone out of the park foul down the left field line. Third base umpire Bill Davidson called the ball fair, resulting in a heated argument and a 3-0 Phillies lead.

DeJesus' homer was his first of the year.

Mets 3, Expos 1

Bob Bailor sparked the Mets' three-run sixth inning with a bloop single that scored Mookie Wilson, and Charlie Puleo combined with Mike Scott to check Montreal on eight hits, snapping the Expos' six-game winning streak. The Mets, meanwhile, ended a three-game losing string and salvaged the final game of the four-game set with the Expos.

Puleo scattered seven hits over 8-3 innings, giving way after yielding a leadoff homer in the ninth to Gary Carter and a pair of walks.

The Mets scored their other runs on a line single by Mike Jorgensen and Ron Hodges' bunt single.

Padres 7, Reds 6

Tim Flannery hit a sacrifice fly in the top of the 13th inning that boosted San Diego over the Reds, who committed five errors. An error by shortstop Ron Oester contributed to the Padres' winning run.

Luis Salazar led off the game with a double off Bob Shirley. With Flannery at bat, Reds catcher Alex Trevino fired a pickoff throw to second that had Salazar caught off base. But Oester dropped the ball, allowing Salazar to advance to third and setting the stage for Flannery.

San Diego blew a 6-0 lead when Cincinnati scored five runs in the sixth and tied the score 6-6 with a run after two were out in the ninth. Oester singled, was sacrificed to second and scored the tying run on Dan Driessen's single.

Injury slows Hagler fight

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — A fractured rib will delay but not cancel middleweight champion Marvin Hagler's title defense against Fulgencio Obelmejias.

Promoter Bob Arum said Thursday he hoped for an Oct. 2 date for the fight, which originally was scheduled for July 15.

"I would hope that we'll be able to go right back to San Remo (Italy) for the Obel fight," Arum said.

Bodycentre presents martial arts program

Master Leo T. Gaje, a martial arts expert who has performed with Bruce Lee, will hold an exhibition in Kali-Arnis-Eskrima at 6:30 p.m. tonight at the Bodycentre. Joining Gaje for the exhibition are Guru Erwin Ballarta and Guru Ronnie Bautista. Ballarta was the 1980 Playboy International Full Contact Grand Champion and 1982 Midwest Full Contact Champion. Bautista is a fourth degree and third degree black belt in various forms of karate. Gaje's variety of karate was featured in last year's movie hit "Sharkey's Machine" and was also used extensively in the Lee classics "Enter the Dragon" and "Game of Death." The Filipino martial art has also been seen on "CHIPS" and "Force 7" on television.

Cubs lose two games

Dann Bilardello, Tom Beyers and Ed Amelung had homers as the San Antonio Dodgers took a 9-8 Texas League baseball victory over the Amarillo Gold Sox.

In other Texas League action Thursday night, Jackson defeated Shreveport, 4-2. El Paso swept a doubleheader from Midland, 4-1 and 9-1, and Arkansas and Tulsa split a twinbill. Tulsa took the opener, 2-1 and Arkansas won the nightcap, 2-0.

Beyers drove in a total of five runs in the 9-8 victory by the Dodgers over the Gold Sox.

George Hinshaw and Jeff Runk had homers for Amarillo.

John Franco, 5-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Steve Stone.

A single by Rick McMullen and a triple by Darryl Strawberry helped the Jackson Mets score three runs in the first inning in their 4-2 victory over the Shreveport Captains.

Kelvin Torver had a solo homer for Shreveport in the second inning.

Jackson's other run came in the sixth when Terry Blocker scored on a throwing error by Shreveport catcher Greg Baker.

The Captains scored in the ninth when Jeff Ransom singled home Rob Deer.

The winning pitcher was Rick Myles, 2-0. The losing pitcher was Frank Williams, 6-5.

Andy Beene gave up only seven hits in pitching the El Paso Diablos to a 4-1 victory over the Midland Cubs in the first game of their doubleheader.

Jon Perlman was the loser.

John Hanson had two of five home runs slugged by the Diablos in their 9-1 victory over the Cubs in the nightcap.

Hanson had a two-run homer and a solo homer. The Diablos got solo shots from Randy Ready, Dion James and Eric Payton.

Derek Tatsumo was the winning pitcher. The loser was Mike Thompson.

An error with the bases loaded in the bottom of the eighth inning helped the Tulsa Drillers take a 2-1 extra inning victory over the Arkansas Travelers in the first game of their doubleheader.

Third baseman Luis Ojeda made the error on a ground ball that allowed the winning run to score.

The winning pitcher was Tom Henke, 2-4. Tom Thurberg, 4-4, was the loser.

He is the World Commissioner for his martial art and has been featured on the covers of several magazines. He was the master instructor for the first American Full Contact Weapons Tournament and has been the U.S. grand champion from 1977-82.

Tennis clinic Saturday

A Beginner's Day is scheduled Saturday from 1-5 p.m. at the Figure Seven Tennis Center in Comanche Trail Park.

Pro shop director Leroy Prudhomme and Big Spring junior and senior high tennis coach Allan Holliday will be on hand to give free personalized instruction. A ball machine will be available for tennis players to use.

"There's no charge ... all they have to bring are tennis shoes and a racket," Prudhomme says.

The two tennis instructors are organizing a special division for the Big Spring stop on the summer Highway 80 tour. The division is for adult players that have not won a tennis tournament but would like to play against individuals of their own skill level.

The tourney is scheduled July 23-23 at Figure Seven. Contact the pro shop at 267-7777 for more information or to enter.

A's keep record clean

The Big Spring A's remained in the undefeated ranks with a 13-0 Big League win over Ackerly Wednesday night.

Tom Olague tossed a one-hitter and struck out eight batters. At the plate, Olague collected three hits to drive in three runs while Danny Arista and Adam Rodriguez contributed two hits.

In another game, the Braves clubbed Ackerly 14-2.

Robert Rubio got the win on the mound while Tom Cudd smacked two hits.

Astros stay in first

The Astros maintained first place in the American Senior League standings after an 11-1 win over the Stanton Farmers this week.

Calyton Franklin rapped a triple, double and single in the game while Colin Carrol had two hits. Chris Harwood and Mark Walker teamed for the win.

Red Sox play Sunday

The Big Spring Red Sox host the Big Lake Tigers in a Sunday afternoon doubleheader at Roy Anderson Complex.

Pitchers for the Red Sox in the 1 p.m. twinbill will be Luis Rodriguez and David Cruz.

BUT IS THERE LEG ROOM? — Six foot nine guard Ervin "Magic" Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers gets the glad hand from Lakers coach Pat Riley as they pose with the trophy and car awarded to the most valuable player in the NBA championship series in New York

Thursday. It's the second time in three years that Johnson has been named MVP in the playoffs by "Sport" magazine. The car, a 1982 Pontiac Trans-Am, is parked in front of the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

Magic accepts MVP award

NEW YORK (AP) — The wide smile and enthusiastic style of Earvin "Magic" Johnson may be better known than his on-court accomplishments.

The Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association championship series says, however, that the three facets of his life are inseparable.

"If I can't play that way anymore, I'll be out of the league," Johnson said Thursday after accepting the MVP trophy and a new car from Sport Magazine.

"Some people say I'm a little crazy out there. I slap hands so hard that it hurts my teammates, but I have to play that way," the effervescent Los Angeles star said. "I can't play if I'm not enjoying myself. It's part of my game."

The Lakers have the first choice in the first round of next Tuesday's NBA draft, and Johnson said that adding James Worthy, Dominique Wilkins or Terry Cummings to the team could cause his scoring average to dip.

"You may see a decline in my scoring. We have a lot of guys who can put the ball in the basket, and with a new guy coming in the draft, whoever he is, I won't need to score as much," Johnson said.

Johnson, however, didn't win the championship series MVP award on scoring alone, although he averaged 18.9 points per game during the regular season and 17.8 during the playoffs.

He took just three shots from the field and made nine free throws in the Lakers' final victory of the six-game championship series against Philadelphia.

Johnson's all-around play was typified by his 13 points, 13 rebounds and 13 assists in the last game. He also averaged 11.1 rebounds and 9.2 assists in 14 playoff games, 12 of which were victories.

"Magic reminds me of Bill Russell, who won championships all the time, although his numbers weren't that great," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "But his impact on the team was immeasurable. Magic is the same kind of player."

Gilder leads tourney

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Gilder has a goal for the year. "I want to win twice," Gilder said. "I feel like I can win again. I'm playing well enough, and I'm putting well enough."

"It's just a matter of getting in position to win again."

And, Gilder, who scored a five-stroke victory earlier this year in the Byron Nelson Classic, took a major step toward his goal with a 6-under-par 64 that gave him the first round lead Thursday in the $400,000 Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Golf Classic.

"I made three double bogeys in the pro-am Wednesday," Gilder said, "and I was a little hesitant about my swing when I went to the practice tee."

"But I started hitting it good. It came back to me. I felt I was in control, that I was controlling the ball."

He controlled it very well, indeed. He missed only two greens on the 6,329-yard Westchester Country Club course in suburban New York, and chipped in for birdie on one of those. He did not make a bogey, and he did not have a "5" on his card.

The mistake-free performance staked Gilder, who is off to the best season of his seven-year Tour career, to a 1-shot lead over veteran Dave Eichelberger and Chip Beck, tied at 65. Beck included a string of five consecutive birdies and a front nine of 30 in his effort.

Tom Kite, who stopped off in Austin, Texas en route from Pebble Beach, Calif. earlier this week for a crash-course putting lesson from his longtime mentor Harvey Penick, used, converted the instructions and rebounded confidence into eight birdies and a 66 that left him only two off the pace.

Kite, last year's leading money-winner, was tied with Lanny Wadkins, Lyn Lott and Billy Glisson.

The group at 67 included former Masters champ Charles Coody, D.A. Weibring, J.C. Snead, Doug Tewell and Japan's Isao Aoki.

Tom Watson, winner of the U.S. open last week, could do no better than match par 70 on the course that often yields some of the lower score Thursday. He was one of 72 players at par or better.

Masters champ Craig Stadler, who is attempting to defend his money-winning lead, was not there. He was 1-over at 71 and must improve today if he is to qualify for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Gilder chipped in from 20 feet for a birdie on the fourth, one of the two greens he missed. He saved with a 10-footer on the other.

He birdied all three of the par-5's, once getting up and down from a greenside bunker and 2-putting the others, including the final hole, where he left a 15-foot eagle putt inches short.

West Germans looking for win

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Humiliated in its opening match, West Germany has to beat archrival Austria to reach the second round of the World Cup soccer finals.

The showdown in Gijon pitted the powerful attack of the Germans, one of the pre-tournament favorites, against the tournament's only unscathed-upon defense.

A loss today would end the hopes of the West Germans, two-time Cup winners and reigning European champions.

"If we don't survive the first round," said goalkeeper Harald Schumacher, "I'll have to have facial surgery so nobody will recognize me back home."

Jupp Derwall, who has not lost to a European national team since becoming West

Germany's coach in 1978, was expected to field at least four injury-battered regulars including Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, leading goalscorer in this tournament.

The 26-year-old striker scored three of his four goals in West Germany's 4-1 victory over Chile while nursing a strained thigh.

The West German-Austria match was one of three that would decide the remaining five berths for Phase Two on this final day of the 24-nation opening round.

Spain sought to avoid becoming the first World Cup host nation eliminated in the opening round when it faced Northern Ireland in Valencia, England, one of the seven teams already qualified, played Kuwait in Bilbao.

Four teams — France, Honduras, Yugoslavia and Algeria — could have reached the second round Thursday by winning or winning big, but all failed and Honduras was eliminated. The other three had to wait for today's results.

Honduras could have advanced from Group Five by beating Yugoslavia, which in turn could have qualified by winning by a margin of two or more goals in Zaragoza. Instead, the Yugoslavs edged to a 1-0 victory on a penalty with two minutes left.

France, needing to beat Czechoslovakia to advance from Group Four, was held to a 1-1 tie in Valladolid on a penalty kick with five minutes to play.

Cowboys sign two

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys signed two more of their 16 draft picks, raising the National Football League team's total number of signees thus far to six.

A Cowboys spokesman said the team signed Bill Purifoy, a 6-foot-8, 248-pound defensive end from Tulsa and Joe Gary, a 6-foot-4, 262-pound defensive tackle for UCLA.

Purifoy was chosen in the 7th round of the NFL draft and Gary was a 9th-round pick.

The Cowboys also announced that Dick Bestwick, head football coach at the University of Virginia for the past five years, joined the staff as a scout.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 26, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when increased activity is like to occur. It's wise not to act too hastily. Consider all phases of a new plan before making a decision. Think along more constructive lines.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Instead of going off on a worthless fun spree, concentrate on your personal aims. Strive for greater rapport with friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Allow time for analyzing your position and what should be done to improve it. Taking risks now could be dangerous.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day to study the data that can help you get ahead in career activities. Steer clear of one who wants to waste your time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you understand and new business methods introduced in your line of endeavor. Improve your environment.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to meet with congenials and exchange ideas. Study a new outlet that could be profitable in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look over your surroundings and make plans for improvements. Take a new treatment to improve your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle chores early in the day and then join friends at the amusements that are mutually enjoyable. Think logically.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are in a mood to argue and could easily annoy others, so do something constructive instead. Sidestep a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Much care in motion is important now or you could get into trouble easily. Shop with care and count the cost.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make a point to study new ways and means of increasing your income. A business expert can be helpful with suggestions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to be too forceful with others in order to gain your aims. Use your charm in entertaining others for best results.

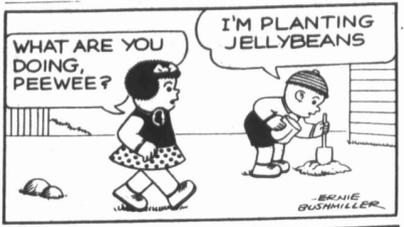

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is wise to handle your obligations efficiently now instead of trying to get out of them. Pay more attention to details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have unusual ideas and a strong desire to put them in operation. Be sure to give as fine an education as you can afford and the good in this chart will manifest itself early and properly.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Domestic spying debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI might adopt tougher measures to keep track of potential terrorists, but it wouldn't have much impact on individuals like presidential assaiant John W. Hinckley Jr., says FBI Director William H. Webster.

Webster testified Thursday before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee headed by Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., who said he is worried that subversive groups are allowed to operate free of government intervention.

Denton said the FBI may be hamstrung by guidelines adopted in 1976 that limit spying on domestic groups.

The subcommittee was to resume hearings on the guidelines today. The witnesses include two former FBI officials who were convicted in 1980 of violating the constitutional rights of friends and relatives of members of the Weather Underground, an offshoot of the anti-Vietnam War movement.

Webster told the panel Thursday the FBI is considering new guidelines to permit more aggressive spying on potential terrorist groups in the United States.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR OIL AND GAS WASTE DISPOSAL WELL PERMIT

Marallo, Inc. of P.O. Box 832, Midland, Texas 79702 has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to dispose of produced salt water or other oil and gas waste by well injection into a porous formation not productive of oil or gas.

The applicant proposes to dispose of oil and gas waste into the San Andres, T.P. Ryan, Well Number 2. The proposed disposal well is located 10 miles north of Big Spring in the Luther, SE (Silurian-Devonian) Field, in Howard County. The waste water will be injected into strata in the subsurface depth interval from 3207' to 3409' feet.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Chapter 27 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, Title 3 of the Natural Resources Code, as amended, and the Statewide Rules of the Oil and Gas Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Requests for a public hearing from persons who can show they are adversely affected, or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing within fifteen days of publication, to the Underground Injection Control Section, Oil and Gas Division, Railroad Commission of Texas, Denver 17677, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (Telephone 512-445-1372).

Princess Anne returns to London

HOUSTON (AP) — Princess Anne has flown home to London, ending a nine-day U.S. trip during which she was accused of being jealous of her infant nephew, heir to the throne of England.

"I should think she'll want to rest," said Richard Tallboy, British consul general, late Thursday. "She had a very interesting nine days. She's really had a very good visit."

The British consulate was forced to defend Queen Elizabeth's 31-year-old daughter for her responses to questions about the newborn son of her brother, Prince Charles, and his wife, Princess Diana.

"That's my business, thank you very much," she snapped at reporters in New Mexico who asked her how she felt about being an aunt.

Sex crime seminar to be held in Odessa

ODESSA — With the crime rate rising in the Permian Basin, Odessa College is hosting a three-day seminar on the investigation of sex crimes.

The 20-hour seminar will take place July 6 through 8 in the Learning Resource Center at OC.

According to OC law enforcement chairman Bill Cooksey, the course is aimed at law enforcement officers. Cooksey said the seminar also would be beneficial to mental health professionals and social workers.

Instructors include R.E. "Bob" Wiatt, retired FBI officer and special investigator to the Brazos County district attorney; an attorney from the office of the Ector County district attorney; Gae Glaspy, director of the Odessa Rape Crisis Center; Dr. Richard M. Cohen, pathologist, and Cooksey.

Fee for the entire seminar is $60 and fee for a separate eight-hour session is $24. Preregistration is requested. Interested persons may register by contacting the Adult Education Office in Deaderick Hall at OC.
