Desegregation. plan turned down

4-3 vote kills BSISD proposal

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

By a narrow 4-3 margin the Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees voted Friday not to accept a consent decree to settle a desegregation lawsuit filed against the district in 1980 by the U.S. Department of Justice. The suit objects to students that now are being bused past Bauer Elementary School to Washington Elementary School because it creates a racial imbalance, the department says.

The matter thus remains in litigation, according to school district attorney Guil Jones III, and the case possibly will go to trial in federal court this fall or early spring. Schools will open this fall with no changes, according to Jones.

The consent decree, which had been approved by the Justice Department, would have ended the last traces of a dual school system within the district. The primary proposal — a proposal which drew much dissent from parents affected by it - called for all northern rural students (approximately 150 students) in the district to be transported to Bauer Elementary School rather than Washington elementary, where they currently attend school.

Jones said he was "somewhat surprised" at the board's decision, adding that the board's decision to move the voting time from Thursday to Friday night "probably indicated there was some switching" in the minds of the trustees on which way they would vote

After opening the Friday meeting, the board listened to approximately 20 minutes of discussion from the crowd of 50 people assembled and then adjourned into executive session.

Following the executive session, board President Carol Hunter called for a show of hands on the propoal. Four hands went up against the measure while three hands filled the air for the proposal. The result was met with wild applause from the Voting against the consent decree were Al Valdes, who made the motion not to accept the plan, Delbert Donaldson, Jerry Foresyth and Jimmy Anderson. Voting for the proposal were Mrs. Hunter, Charles Beil and Dwayne Fraser.

Jones said negotiations concerning desegregation with in the district will continue with the Department of Justice. Since negotiations are ongoing, Jones indicated that a trial might be avoided if a solution is reached; however, he said the Justice Department probably "would start laying plans for a trial" when informed of the board's decision.

Jones said a Justice Department ruling in a trial could bring 'somewhat worse remedies'' to the district than the solution proposed in the vetoed consent decree. Jones indicated that cross-town busing could occur along with cluster schools. Cluster schools are schools that require different grades to be housed together. That means all the students in the first grade would go to one school, all the second would go to another, and so on.

The main message given out by the speakers over and over again in the coliseum Saturday was "get involved and get organized.

"Nothing's going to get fixed unless we do it," U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm said about low farm and ranch prices. We have allowed others to redefine the world market and we're paying the price." He was referring to European countries subsidizing their farmers in the free world market in order to capture the market. Stenholm urged "grassroots input" and encouraged people to first get involved in government at home, hammer out some solutions and then bring them to Washington.

Stenholm was joined by fellow U.S. Rep. Jim Collins at the symposium.

ACKERLY - Voters here by a margin of two to one approved a $2.3 million bond issue yesterday which will pay for improvements within the Sands Independent School District The vote was 202 in favor of the bond issue and 93 against, said district Superintendent James Blake.

"I'm very excited. In fact, I'm just overjoyed," Blake said. "The people of Ackerly responded beautifully The bond vote was prompted by an inspection of the district's facilities by a Texas Education Agency accreditation team, according to Blake. Improvements to be financed by the bond issue include five new classrooms, lighting, wiring, plumbing, heating and cooling renovations, District officials indicate the revenue from the bond issue probably won't become available until the start of 1983. Blake was unsure what im-

Reason for plane crash undetermined

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Workers pulled more bodies from the scattered wreckage of a jetliner as federal investigators said Saturday night they had no hard evidence to determine what causd the Boeing 727 to smash into a residential neighborhood, killing at least 153 people. Patricia Goldman, vice chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, said the consensus of 25 people who saw the crash was that no lightning hit the plane as it was taking off in a rainstorm from the New Orleans International Airport on disaster in U.S. history.

Ms. Goldman also said tape recordings of conversations between the crew and the airport tower showed no indication before the plane came down that anything was wrong. There was no emergency call that

In El Cajon, Calif., the Cunnings family was driving to the mortuary to see the body of Lawrence Cunnings, a 28-year-old father of four killed in a motorcycle-truck accident on his way to work Wednesday. The entourage included Lawrence's widow and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G.

Cunnings, of Howell, Mich. Lew Daves, the funeral home director, had to tell them that two of Lawrence's sisters, Judith Cunnings and Patricia Hartford, and the women's three small children, had perished in the Pan Am crash.

"We had quite a trauma," Daves said Saturday. When they heard the news, the mother who had lost three children and three grandchildren within three days suffered a mild heart attack, he said.

"And a neighbor friend suffered a near fatal heart attack," he said. "It's just about all we can do to cope with it ourselves," Daves said. The mother was treated by a doctor and not hospitalized. The neighbor was taken to a hospital. The two sisters and their children had been visiting friends in Florida when they heard of their brother's death and had rented a car to drive across the country for the funeral.

Official foresees stiffer DWI penalties

Staff Writer

What does a jury conviction for driving while intoxicated mean in Howard County?

County Attorney Bob Miller says its County Attorney Bob Miller says its impact goes beyond just the person found guilty. A jury conviction shows the prosecutor how the community feels about the crime, he said. Miller used as an example the Howard County jury which found Jimmie Lee Sundy, 38, guilty Thursday in county court of DWI and gave him 90 days imprisonment (probated to two years) and a $300 fine.

"This jury was a cross-section of the

"This jury was a cross-section of the community," Miller said. Persons from different jobs, different religions and races composed the six-person jury, he added.

"I'll use their punishment next in plea bargaining other DWI cases," Miller said, adding that the last jury conviction for DWI — back in September - assessed a 30-day sentence (probated to six months) with a $250 fine. This was for a first offense and has been more or less a standard to follow until now, the county attorney

"Next case, I'll hear all of the good excuses and I'll say I understand, but that jury heard the same thing and did this — why should I be less than the jury?" Miller said. With an increased fine and jail sentence for a first offerse he can pursue stiffer repealties. fense, he can pursue stiffer penalties for persons with prior DWI convictions, Miller said.

The stronger sentence makes the prosecutor's job easier and could offer encouragement to members of law enforcement, as well Miller says. "It helps move cases and may make officers feel they're getting somewhere," Miller said.

Thursday's sentence "tells future juries to do what you think is right Apathy kills us."

While Miller hopes Sundy's twoyear probation for a first offense will set a precedent in DWI sentencing, he says it "may not do any good. It may help in district court — a jury may say 'they got 2 years probation just for DWI' and be stricter — but it may not help."

Noting that national sentiment is for stronger DWI punishment, Miller said the Sundy conviction would be noticed by local lawyers — if not now then in future cases where plea bargaining is used. (The county attorney's office and the county judge handle 40 to 45 DWI cases a month, Miller said, and "wow con't try all of them.")

'you can't try all of them.") Whatever impact a jury conviction has, Miller said he sees it as how the community feels about that particular crime and he will prosecute ac-

"'I'd just like to enlighten people that you can get convicted in Howard County," Miller concluded.

BANK PROBES

Abilene National Bank still investigated by FBI

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The FBI says it is continuing its investigation into the activities of some employees and customers at the Abilene National

"The investigation continues. Until you're finished with all the steps leading up to prosecution, you're not finished," said Ray Loll, the FBI agent in Dallas in charge of the investigation.

Loll would not comment on specifics of the investigation. A Dallas newspaper reported Friday that agents have questioned an unidentified former bank officer who reportedly arranged about $5 million in loans to an oil driller on the condition that he kick back

The bank's aggressive lending to oil businessmen helped increase assets from $20 million six years ago to more than $470 million, according to The Dallas

Abilene National Chairman Don Earney said Friday the bank reported a possible "violation of the law" the FBI in March after "we discovered a problem with one of our customers

A bank spokesman said the bank is not in financial

An attorney for Humble Exploration Co.'s creditors, Kenneth Stohner Jr., told a judge during a Brio Petroleum bankruptcy hearing earlier this week in Dallas that the bank's records show that if the $160 million in letters of credit were called in at once, the bank would exceed its loan limit

"Any time anyone is in a bankruptcy trial, they'll use almost any tactic to win their case, whether it's fact or said Steve Chapman, president of Abilene National. "We've never had any problem with our Loll said the federal investigation was not related to the possibility that the bank might at some point exceed its loan limit "because that is a regulatory, not a criminal problem. Loll said the FBI is called in to check all possible criminal violations turned up by bank auditors routine monitoring of bank records, and that in Texas the Dallas bureau normally has more than 100 cases

Defunct Penn Square Bank under FBI scrutiny, too

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The FBI has begun a probe into allegations of criminal misconduct within the now defunct Penn Square Bank, officials said.

An FBI statement issued Friday said the investigation was being launched as a "result of certain allegations" reported to the bureau's Oklahoma City

C. Edwin Enright, special agent in charge of the state's FBI bureau, said in a statement that the probe centered on allegations of "misappropriation, misapplication and embezzlement of funds" on the part of a bank officer, who was not identified by the There were also allegations of false statements given to the bank by borrowers in order to secure credit,

The Saturday Oklahoman & Times reported Saturday an FBI source had confirmed that although the bureau had not been asked to begin an investigation, agents had been told that a bank officer was allegedly arranging letters of credit from Penn Square Bank to be used to secure drilling loans subsequently obtained from the same bank

In the event that the bank had to foreclose on such a loan, it would be in the position of trying to collect from itself, the newspaper said

Meanwhile, an attorney for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp said Friday that customers of the defunct bank withdrew more than $51 million this

Albert Tumpson, attorney for the FDIC legal division, said some 3,500 checks totaling $51,677,544 had been written to customers with one or more accounts We are doing our best to prepare the assets for sale," Tumpson said, but added it would be "months before the first dividends were paid. The bank, which was declared insolvent Monday was re-opened this week by the FDIC as the Deposit Insurance National Bank of Oklahoma City.

Penn Square Bank, Oklahoma City's fourth largest bank, had some 28,000 accounts and total deposits of $465 million when it was closed on Monday.

June water delivery down from year ago

A wet June, particularly in the eastern part of the district, dulled water demands for the Colorado River

The 1.8 billion gallons delivered to customers in June was 1.2 percent less than for the same month a year ago.

However, this made 8.5 billion gallons pumped during the first half of the year. This was 649 million gallons more than for the same period in 1981, district officials said

Municipal deliveries, which have been showing the largest gains this year, amounted to 1.6 billion gallons in June, which was up 4 million.

June municipal deliveries included Odessa with 873 million gallons, up 6.3 percent; Big Spring with 260 million, down .74 of one percent; Snyder with 88 gallons, down 21.8 percent; Midland 387 million gallons, down 4.6 percent; San Angelo 2 million gallons (none pumped the previous June); and Stanton 9 million gallons, down 37.4

POWs REMEMBERED - An audience of former prisoners of war, their families and friends gathered in the Big Spring VA hospital Friday for a local remembrance on national POW-MIA Recognition Day.

POWs, MIAs remembered

Staff Writer "I share the feelings of millions of Americans when I say thank you," state Rep. Larry Don Shaw told his audience at Big Spring's POW-MIA Recognition Day Ceremony Friday.

Words are never, never enough," he said, "but they are all that we can offer to those of you who have sacrificed and those of you that went through the torment of being in an enemy prison camp. Though it may be small, thank you is all we can say

Shaw was keynote speaker at the ceremony, held in the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center. His audience consisted of about 50 persons - ex-POWs, their families, families of MIAs, veterans and others.

Perhaps a dozen ex-POWs could be seen scattered throughout the crowd, their faces a mixture of pride and sadness as memories and emotions occasionally brought

Shaw recognized the pride these men felt at having served their country, saying, "Most of us in this room especially those of you who have served in the armed ser vices, those of you who have been prisoners of war, and certainly those that are in our minds that are missing in action - realize what it means to be an American, and what it means and what it takes for this country to be

"I wish that there were no need for war," Shaw continued. "I wish that there were no need for people to give their lives in defense of their country, but that need exists. Those of us in this country who enjoy this freedom owe a great deal to those of you who have provided that sacrifice, who have provided that service in the defense of our freedoms and the defense of what we hold true.

All of us can try to interpret and try to understand the sacrifices or the abuses or the suffering that you may have experienced during those days of incarceration, but we can never truly feel what you have felt," Shaw said.

A proclamation signed by President Ronald Reagan and read by Mayor Clyde Angel said, in part, "On this day we should recognize the special debt owed to our fellow citizens who gave up their freedom and their families in the service of our country. We must also remember our still-missing servicemen, for whose families, relatives and friends the anguish and bitterness of war are enduring aspects. Our nation must not forget and will continue to seek answers to their fates.

Shaw went a little further, calling for a break in diplomatic relations unless the fate of MIAs is made

We must reaffir ourselves as a nation that we will not do business with a nation, we will not continue diplomatic relations with a nation that refuses to tell us what happened to our soldiers who were missing in action," he said.

Along with Shaw's and Angel's speeches, Chaplain Anderson C. Hicks gave an invocation, Vic Ames, vice, commander of the Permian Basin Chapter of American Ex-POW Inc. led the pledge of allegiance, medical center director John H. Steward gave a short welcoming address and Tom Balderach, assistant to the director, served as master of ceremonies

The James Horton Group provided patriotic music as the assemblage visited together after the ceremony

A former page, Leroy Williams, 18, is the chief accuser, and at least one other page, Jeff Opp, is known to have told law enforcement officers of sex and drug parties involving pages and congressmen.

Williams told House ethics committee investigators Friday that he had homosexual affairs with three members of the House and arranged a similiar liaison between a senator and a male prostitute, according to his lawyer, Bob Scott. William's credibilty remains an issue. He gave the FBI the names of those he said were involved but he acknowledged he had flunked an FBI lie detector test.

Officials say there will undoubtedly be changes in the way congressional pages are supervised, regardless of the outcome of current investigations into the homosexual and drug Soviet-backed Syria jammed U.S. negotiating efforts Saturday by still refusing refuge to Yasser Arafat's guerrillas trapped in west Beirut, and Israeli and PLO artillery plunged into a new round of bombardment.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Morris Draper tried to persuade the government of Syrian President Hafez Assad to reverse its refusal Friday to grant entry to the estimated 8,000 PLO fighters from west Beirut.

But after a meeting Saturday with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam, official sources in Damascus said the foreign minister reiterated Syria's refusal to accommodate the guerrillas.

"We would rather hear from Washington on plans to evacuate Israel's invading forces rather than arrangements to evacuate Palestinians or others," Khaddam told Draper, Lebanon's state radio

The Syrian sources said Draper was heading back to Lebanon to report to U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib, who has been trying for three weeks to arrange a PLO evacuation.

Whether Habib will take Syria's no for an answer, his chances looked rather remote to conclude an early agreement on a PLO evacuation from west Beirut, where an estimated 500,000 civilians and the guerrillas entered a second week cut off from food, fuel and water

Police said at least 50 people were killed and 200 wounded in nine hours of non-stop bombardment of west Beirut by Israeli tanks, artillery and warships Friday night.

Lebanese police say more than 10,000 people, mostly civilians, have been killed since the Israelis invaded. Israel says less than 2,000 have been killed, mostly guerrillas, in addition to 281 Israeli troops. The Israelis also have taken about 9,000 suspected guerrillas prisoner in southern Lebanon.

Habib has discussed busing the guerrillas in Beirut to Syria, as well as sending them on French, Canadian, Belgian or Greek ships rather than U.S. 6th Fleet vessels, but the PLO says a peacekeeping force must be in

For Haitians,

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — When news that a federal judge had ordered the release of detained Haitians penetrated the barbed wire-topped fences of the Krome Avenue camp, women rushed to pack their bags and men kicked a soccer ball around or danced to music blaring from a phonograph. But that was three weeks ago. Since then, the jubilation has faded into despair. Many of 451 Haitian men and women, some of whom have been here more than a year, now believe they were victims of a cruel "joke."

"My only occupation is being heartbroken," Florian Bazin, a stocky 25-year-old Haitian tailor who has been at Krome since Aug. 25, said Friday. "They don't think about freedom anymore. To them it's become a joke. We thought the judge's decision would be the word but it turned out not to be.

Reporters were allowed into the camp for the first time since Judge Eugene P. Spellman's June 18 ruling that the 1,800 Haitians incarcerated around the country were being held illegally.

"When we heard the news, everybody was happy,"

"After the judge spoke we heard it on the news and thought something is going to happen," added Smith Dumas, a 30-year-old mechanic who arrived here from Haiti last July. "But now time has passed....Now we hear that this freedom thing has loopholes in it.

Although Spellman subsequently ordered their "forthwith" parole to sponsors, the government has fought for a stay.

Spellman, who expressed concern about the 'psychological and emotional damage'' that could be done if the Haitians' hopes were dashed again, refused. But the government filed an appeal in the U.S. District Court of Appeals in Atlanta Wednesday, while asking for a stay of a lower court order freeing the refugees.

Arguments on the stay are scheduled July 14.

An INS spokesman said Friday that the government is making a "good-faith effort" to move ahead with the Haitians' paroles, and said the first releases could come "in a few days.

But at Krome, a converted missle base where the population has been nearly halved since chaotic disturbances and mass escape attempts late last year,

INS offers some English and arts and crafts classes. but there is little to fill the interminably long days in the humid, mosquito-filled Everglades camp. Men and women are segregated. Some of the refugees, desperate and confused about the legal wrangles, are contemplating suicide, said Bazin. "This whole situation is a joke. They're just playing around with us.

Almost all of them are depressed," he said. 'If it (freedom) ever happens I'll take the occasion of getting free. If I have to stay in here I can only think INS spokeswoman Beverly McFarland confirmed that despair is deep at the camp, especially among the women, and the anxiety has resulted in "verbal out-

THE WAITING - A young Haitian refugee leans against a padlocked fence at a detention camp in Miami. His future depends upon the appeal of an order granting him and 1,800 other refugees their release.

Thursday night, the women began moving mat tresses around and some chairs were thrown in the men's barracks, she said.

'We've been telling them it will take a couple of weeks. They're packed and they want to go," she said. "If it drags on much longer, they won't have anybody left. I'm sure I won't last that long," warned Bazin. At least 10 attempted suicides, none successful, have been reported this year at the detention camps.

Bazin and Dumas, like the other refugees at Krome, have asked for political asylum to remain in the United States, and claim they cannot return to Haiti. Even when released, they will face immigration hearings and possible deportation.

Bazin left behind in Haiti his mother, sister and grandmother, because of a run-in with the Ton Ton Macoutes, he said. He said he interfered with a policeman bothering a woman. "Haiti's my country and if I could stay there I would never have left it.

If he is released, Bazin wants to study. He knows only a few phrases in English, but recites from memory the name, address and phone number of his American sponsor, a cousin in Jamaica, N.Y.

By The Associated Press

Rain and thunderstorms were scattered from the eastern half of the Gulf Coast through the lower Appalachians, the lower Missouri Valley and the upper Mississippi Valley into the upper Great Lakes region on Saturday

Skies were fair from the upper Ohio Valley to New England, and from the Pacific Coast to the Plains. Rainstorms Friday night and early Saturday dumped nearly 5 inches of rain in Washington, Mo., prompting evacuation of a trailer park.

A tornado was sighted early Saturday near New Orleans, but no injuries or damage were reported, the National Weather Service said.

In Kansas, storms during the night dumped up to 6 inches of rain on the central part of the state. Winds were clocked at 70 to 80 mph at Reading, 10 miles northeast of Emporia, Kan.

Communities receiving heavy rain in the six hours ending 2 p.m. EDT Saturday included Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with 0.87 inches; Park Falls, Wis., 0.83 inches; Chicago, 0.77 inches, and Bowling Green, Ky., 0.68 inches Thunderstorms were forecast for Sunday from the Tennessee Valley and North Carolina through Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Showers and thunderstorms were expected along the rest of the Atlantic Coast, and westward from the Great Lakes across the western half of the Gulf Coast. Fair skies were forecast elsewhere.

FORECAST WEST TEXAS: Clear to partly cloudy through Monday with widely cattered thunderstorms east Sunday. Lows 65 to 75. Highs 90 to 97.

Tulsa man in custody after state trooper shot

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — A 34-year-old Tulsa man is in custody after an Oklahoma Highway Patrol trooper was shot three times by a motorist who had been stopped for speeding along the Indian Nation Turnpike, officials Trooper Norman Kious, 53, was shot three times by a motorist he had pulled over about 7:40 a.m. Saturday for speeding.

Bloodhounds, airplanes and ground crews combed the thick woods in southeastern Oklahoma after searchers found the fugitive's car submerged in a creek about six miles south of the shooting scene. Jerry Bruce Sherman was taken into custody without resistance about 2 p.m. Saturday at a nearby church in the community of Chambers, the Highway Patrol said.

Kious was listed Saturday afternoon in satisfactory condition at an Oklahoma City Bospital after undergoing surgery for the gunshot wounds. .

Who will take abandoned girl?

police found a 3-year-old girl sitting patiently in front of a church, where her mother had told her to wait for other children arriving for Sunday school.

The tiny child with blue eyes, straight brown hai: and 'such a personality' said her name was Bobby Jo. Left with two boxes of toys, a bag of clothing and two jelly sandwiches Friday night, Bobby Jo said her mother had told her to wait for children arriving for Sunday school Clad in a yellow Holly Hobby T-shirt, red terry-cloth shorts and beach sandals, she was noticed in front of the Congregational United Methodist Church just before 11 p.m. by passers-by who called police. 'We're pretty sure this is a case where she has been abandoned," said police Capt. Donald Strand. However, police said Saturday afternoon the girl's mother had been found in Iowa City and that she said she did not want to give up custody of the girl. They would not elaborate, saying the case was "very touchy Assistant Johnson County Attorney Dan Bray said he would begin legal paperwork to have the girl placed in the custody of juvenile court. Police said the mother told them she would stay in Iowa City until at least Monday. She was not in custody, police

The mother and a male companion were spotted near the University of Iowa by campus security officers, who had been given a description of their vehicle

Before the mother was found, Strand had tried to determine where the girl was from and find out about her parents, but without much luck. "I sat her on my knee and we started talking. The first thing she said was 'Give me a Coke. "She's a bright little kid. She tells me she's 3 years old. She's about the same size as my 3-year-old (boy), so I guess she could be. She's a lot more mature than my 3-Police said the name "Bobby Jo Gilson" was written on the inside of a book in a box of toys.

Bobby Jo told Strand she had been riding in a small truck that was pulling what Strand believes was a small camping trailer

"She said they had been staying in truck stops, but judging from the bug bites on her legs and the trailer ... I think probably they were staying in rest areas. Strand said the girl was dirty and not wearing underwear when found, but appeared to be well-fed, weighing between 25 and 35 pounds. Bobby Jo is now staying with a foster parent. "I just think it's horrible, myself," Strand said.

Q. We've a conventional mortgage at a good interest rate and would like a buyer to assume the mortgage. However, there is a "due-on-sale," clause in our mortgage which worries us. Will we "get burned"?

A. The "due-on-sale" clause is a standard provision in many conventional mortgages. When you sell your house, your lender can demand payment in full on the outstanding balance of your mortgage. The buyer would then have to negotiate his own mortgage. However, most lending institutions don't enforce the clause, but may raise the interest rate. (FHA and VA loans don't contain the "due-on-sale" clause and, therefore, can be assumed at the original interest rate.) Realizing assumable mortgages are helping strengthen the current home buying market. 14 states have recently moved to restrict the lender's ability to enforce the "due-on-sale" clause.

Tank goes on West German joyride

MANNHEIM, West Germany (AP) — Someone stole a U.S. Army M-60 battle tank Saturday and wreaked havoc on a wild drive through Mannheim before the 50-ton plunged into the Neckar River, trapping the driver inside, police reported. They speculated that the driver was an American soldier because the tank was taken from a U.S. Army base, but U.S. officials said they could not confirm that.

Three other Army tanks were sent to the bridge to try to remove the upended tank that was in water 16 feet deep but the effort failed when the steel cable snapped, police

It was not known if the driver was alive. Police said

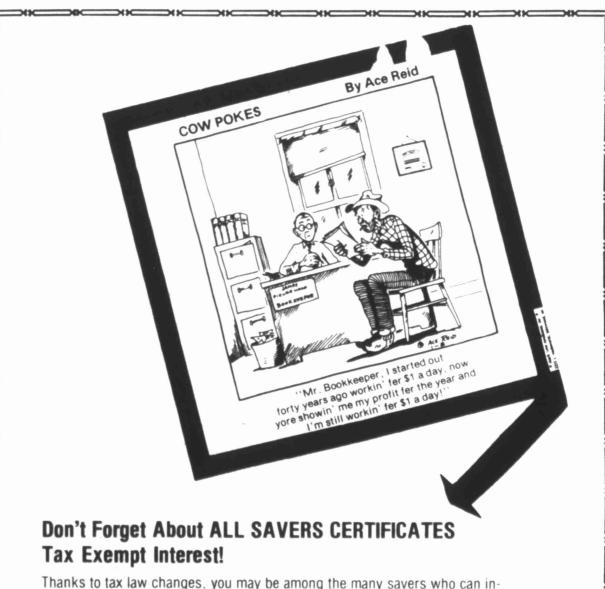

Army officials told them the tank was designed to keep out water, but fire brigade divers trying to rescue the driver said water was leaking into the vehicle.

They also reported the tank's hatch was bolted from the

The tank left a trail of destruction behind it in the city's center, a grid of narrow streets.

One unidentified American was slightly injured when he tried to jump on the tank and open the hatch, police said.

Three other people were injured, one seriously, as the tank lurched through Mannheim, crushing at least 10 parked cars and damaging the fronts of several shops and houses, police said.

The people have spoken

Only time will tell whether the board of trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District made the right decision in refusing to sign a desegregation consent decree with the U.S. government

The consent decree would have resulted in the busing of rural students to Bauer Elementary instead of to Washington Elementary; would have sent gifted students from Runnels Junior High to Bauer; and would have allowed voluntary crosstown transfers as space permitted. It would have ended a pending federal lawsuit which alleges there still are vestiges of a dual school system in the Big Spring district.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S lawyers advised trustees to go ahead and settle the lawsuit by approving the consent decree because of the strong possibility the school board would lose the case in court.

The fact that Bauer is 98 percent minority is strong evidence for the government's case. The fact that rural school buses drive past Bauer and on to Washington Elementary certainly could be construed in court as further evidence of discrimination, the lawyers pointed out

The school lawyers said if the district did indeed lose the court battle, the very least that could happen is that the court would order that rural students be dropped off at Bauer. The very worst that could happen is that the school district would be slapped with a criss-cross maze of court-ordered busing that would boggle everyone's mind.

It was the lawyers' advice to go ahead and settle with the government now, knowing the outcome, rather than go to court where the outcome would be uncertain and possibly unpleasant for all concerned.

RURAL PARENTS strongly objected to the plan, saying they felt their children were being picked on, saying their property values would decline, saying Bauer Elementary is in an undesirable part of town, and expressing fears about the security of their children.

In an apparent turnaround of opinion, the school board rejected the advice of their own lawyers and voted not to sign the consent decree, in effect saying they'll take their chances in

It was democracy in action. The people spoke; their elected representatives listened. The majority prevailed.

Only history, however, will reveal whether or not the right decision was made

Agony vs. art

The past five or six years have seen Americans become unprecedentedly enamoured of the autobiography Never more than this year has the tell it all tome come to constitute summer reading around the pool.

In autobiography distinguish two distinct strains - the self-aggrandizing and the selfdeprecating Of the former, frequent examples are provided by politicians military men, and celebrities anxious to set the record straight even if it requires rewriting history and stretching the truth to accommodate their version of events. These books are apt to be full of lines like, "When (hurchill came to me for help. I had no choice but to serve the cause of international peace self-deprecating autobiographies, the message usually seems to be. "I am not what I appear to be Some call me a saint, a man of God, but actually I am weak, vain, and sinful." With disarming honesty the author turns relentlessly objective techniques of observation and analysis upon his own person. producing a book in which he admits that while most people consider him a brilliant intellectual or poet, he in fact has countless bad habits and suicidal preoccupations.

HAVING discovered a source of literary (and financial) strength in their personal many contemporary weaknesses, writers have pursued this confessional mode to the point of selfdestruction, while critics and readers have stood on the sidelines applauding every trip to the asylum, every shot of heroin, every slash of the razor, every masochistic metaphor This is not to say that some of these doomed writers haven't turned out excellent work, but at the same time their careers seem to have given rise to an absurd assumption that drinking, drugs, psychopathic symptoms, and suicidal tendencies are absolute prerequisites for artistic

Suffering came to be considered the first step toward art, and then as art itself, once personal misery became inseparable from poetry. Like the crowds that gathered to see whether Judy Garland - her face already a death mask, her body an animated corpse, her voice a ghostly echo could croak her way through another concert, certain readers waited in a state of exquisite tension to see whether Sylvia Plath or Anne Sexton could squeeze out a last poem before turning on the gas

LITERATURE can become nonsensical, replacing aesthetic standards and rational critical discussion with physical pain, emotional anguish, and the imminent danger of

When, for example, Sylvia Plath's autobiographical novel, "The Bell Jar," appeared posthumously, many acted as if the author's suicide somehow validated the protagonist's suffering and compensated for the shallow motivation and lackluster prose. The book soon became literature's Love Story, an excuse to sink into a slough of sentimentality.

What most people appear to have ignored is that suicide is simply another literary subject, selfdestructive behavior just a pose. In and of themselves, they are neutral, neither intrinsically interesting nor boring

If an author writes well about suffering, disease, insanity, and despair, that's fine. But if he doesn't, a reader should be free to say so without fear of desecrating the dead or insulting the walking wounded.

And it should be understood that the agony of an author's life cannot redeem his work

You won't hear the clacking of typewriters anymore when you enter The Herald office. That's because this week the newspaper will be converting to computers.

The video display terminals have been sitting at our desks for about two weeks. The trainers arrive Monday, and Monday afternoon we'll begin our intensive training. Within a week we should be 100 percent converted

It's going to be an exciting new world for us.

IN THE PAST, after a story was written and edited, it took about two hours to process a story in the composing room. Now it should take no more than 15 minutes.

Here's a simplified version of how a story was processed in the past: (1) A reporter wrote the story; (2) The city editor read and corrected the story; (3) a typesetter re-punched the story; (4) a punched tape of the story was fed through a machine and came out in typeset form; (5) a proofreader proofed the type for typesetting errors; (6) typesetting errors were corrected; (7) the headline was set on a separate machine; (8) proofread for a final time. On our new computers, it will go something like

The beginning of a new era

this: (1) A reporter will write the story; (2) The city editor will read and correct the story and put a headline on the story; (3) The city editor will push a button, and minutes later the story and headline will come out of a machine, ready to be pasted on the page

As you can see, the new process is much simpler and there are fewer opportunities for errors to creep in

THE COMPUTER system will allow us to add a high-speed Associated Press wire. In the past we've had the "slow wire," which, as its name implies, delivered stories at a slow rate of speed and usually delivered only one version of a story.

With the new high-speed wire, stories will be electronically delivered into our computer system at lightning speed. We may get 12 or 13 versions of a breaking story as it develops. We'll get tons of additional features in news, sports and lifestyle. In fact, the amount of copy sent in one afternoon cy cle will fill up 607 single-spaced computer printout pages - I just counted them. That would be an awesome amount of copy for a news editor to dig through, but the new computers will sort them into separate computer files for easy access - files such as national, international, state, Washington, business, features, entertainment, sports, etc. These files will be indexed for ready reference.

The new system will also allow us to interface with our Austin Bureau. In the past we've had to take our Austin stories over a tele-copier, but now they automatically will be fed into the computer, ready to go

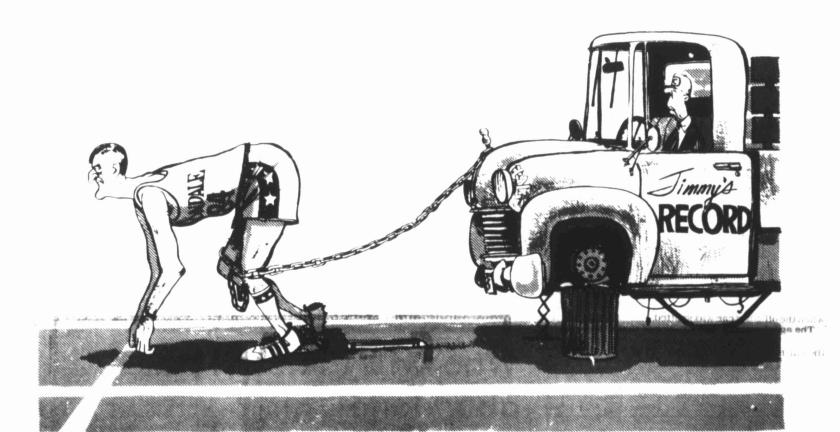

Classified advertising will also be computerized into a more efficient operation.

We've been waiting for a while to get these computers, but the wait has been well worth the while. While we were waiting, technology was advancing, and thus our computers are more sophisticated and easier to use than most

Please bear with us this week while we're training and getting any kinks out of the system. We think you'll love the results.

Dear Editor, I just finished reading the story on page one concerning the B.S.I.S.D. hearing. It compelled me to write this

I have been a special education teacher for the B.S.I.S.D. for six years. The first two years at Washington, the next three years at Moss and the past year at Bauer.

In my career as a teacher I have never worked with a better qualified or more congenial faculty (than at Bauer). This faculty is concerned with educating children regardless of race or ethnic origin. The principal at Bauer is the kindest, most fairminded man that I have had the privilege to work for. He is the type of man who has a genuine love and concern for children.

The children at Bauer are the best behaved and well-mannered students of the three schools where I have taught in Big Spring I really feel sorry for the children in the paper who thought they were going to be bused to Bauer because it's just like Mr. Suggs said at the meeting, "Adult fears and rumors have unnecessarily scared the hell out of these children.

Now because of a large amount of bigoted rumors the B.S.I.S.D. has decided to spend a great deal of taxpayers money by continuing to fight a futile lawsuit and bus children all the way across town.

This desegregation shall come to pass eventually. Why can't the people of Big Spring try to work together for the good of our taxpayers and our children's education's Sincerely yours

Teachers defend Bauer Elementary

Dear Editor. The derogatory remarks made by some of the people at the school board meeting on Tuesday night seem to be a slam against the teaching staff at Bauer. This we resent, for we feel these same people need to check out our school before making accusations of violence within our walls and the type of education received therein. We ive a staff of teachers that are highly qualified and do an outstandingly good job for the Big Spring

If you don't believe it check some of the news facts from your local newspaper. One of the Bauer students was valedictorian in 1981. One won an academic scholarship to college (University of Texas) for 1982. The baseball team that you were probably rooting for this past season had a number of Bauer students on it. Your football, basketball (both boys and girls), volleyball, cheerleading, choir, band — each of these have our former students involved, and many leading the way. One of our former students plays pro football for the Kansas City Chiefs, running back J. T. Smith. Carla Jackson - remember seeing her name in your newspaper? She is an outstanding track star, and may even be seen in the Olympics. She was a Bauer student.

Our kids are also quite capable of running the cash registers at many of the places where you shop daily. Do you mean you aren't afraid they are going to ring up your supplies in-correctly? Or how about a loan? Have you spoken to one of our former students about it? Some of our students have gone into the medicinal field such as lab technicians, X-Ray, nursing. Some may be your beauticians. Some may be preparing or serving you at many of our restaurants around town.

The Adult Education Program at Howard College is headed by a former Bauer Student. We would also like to note that many of the former clerks and-or aides at Bauer were inspired to return to college and are now in the teaching field.

We also would like for you to know that we have one of the best libraries in the system, an excellent cafeteria, speech program, an individualized program for those in need, an exensive reading improvement program — Bauer along with Marcy and Washington receiving an exemplary award by the state of Texas for their title one Reading program, and the only program in our system for the deaf children. Lillian Hill, our teacher for this deaf class, was named Teacher of the Year by the Instructor Magazine in 1981. We also have several teachers who have been named to Who's Who in Texas Teachers. We also feel that we have just as many teachers with masters degrees as any other elementary school in Big Spring. Yes, people, we do teach at Bauer. contrary to some beliefs. We don't just let the students run wild! We spend much time after regular school hours inservice to the Big Spring School, because our job comes first, ask our

We would also like to know, how many of your children have the opportunity of extra-curriculum: choir practice, or special art training, plus learning sign language in after school hour classes? Time is donated by the teachers that have already completed a full day of teaching duty, and perhaps lunch duty.

No, parents, we teachers at Bauer spend our time helping the children no matter what you believe or have heard. You may be assured our school is quite safe. Your children would be just as safe at Bauer School as they are in any other school in Big Spring. Teachers in every school supervise the children and their safety and it is no different at Bauer. Some adults put fear into their own children by saying untruths which have not been substantiated.

Students, if we have left any field out that you are in, our apologies for we are very proud of you and our teaching staff at Bauer, and last but certainly not least our principal, Mr. Harlan Huibregtse. We are No. 1.

You people who were so objectionable to the proposed situation should take into consideration that your tax monies as well as ours is going to be used to fight the federal government and that same money could have been used to improve the schools in the Big Spring District. Such as the improvised classrooms in various schools, curriculum improvements, equipment badly needed n many areas, books, and many other things which we as teachers realize the needs. Many of the schools may be affected instead of just Bauer and your tax money will have to be used to pay the cost of extensive busing instead of improving what we already have.

Bauer has several rooms (very nice and large) that at this time are not being used. We feel that all this could have been prevented had you taken the time to visit our school and observed our classrooms.

Mr. Valdez, perhaps you should have spent more time in our classrooms observing our teaching, instead of in the lounge when visiting in our school the very few times you were there.

The old adage is still true: THOSE THAT YELL THE LOUDEST DO THE LEAST.

She wants more proof

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe that Jesus lived and that he was a very great man. But where do Christians get the idea that he was the Son of God? — Mrs. M.O.

DEAR MRS. M.O.: Christians believe this because they are convinced this is what Jesus himself taught. They also believed it because of the evidence of what Jesus did evidence which sets him completely apart from ordinary men.

I hope you will read the Gospels of the New Testament for yourself with an open mind and heart to see who Jesus Christ really is. Notice what he claimed about himself. He stated, for instance, "I and the Father are one" (John 10:30). Those who were his enemies wanted to kill him because 'he was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal with God" (John 5:18). He also claimed that he had the ability to forgive sins something only God can do (see Luke 5:17-26). When asked at his trial if he was the Son of God, he replied, 'You are right in saying I am'' (Luke 22:70). After his resurrection, Thomas, one of his disciples who at first was full of doubt, worshipped Jesus by saying "My Lord and my God!" (John 20:28), Jesus accepted his worship as legitimate.

But as you read the Gospels notice also what Jesus did to support his claim to be the unique Son of God. He performed miracles repeatedly that only could have been done by God's power. But most of all, he rose again from the dead - thus demonstrating that he was unique and that God's power was with him. Christ "was declared with power to be the Sone of God by his resurrection from the dead" (Romans 1:4). It was the great Cambridge scholar C.S. Lewis - at one time an atheist but later a Christian - who said that either Jesus was a liar, a lunatic, or actually God in human flesh. The evidence points in only one direction: Jesus Christ was the Son of God.

Gangs plunder border trains

By STEVE BREWER Associated Press Writer

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - It sounds like a horse opera -Mexican banditos jumping onto moving trains and plundering the riches they find there.

But it's a very real modern-day problem that has 'railroad police working long hours and searching for new enforcement methods

Trains traveling tracks near the Rio Grande are targets of gangs who cross the river from Mexico and burglarize boxcars.

"Cargo theft is our worst problem," says Southern Pacific division special agent Charles Wood. "All along this route, we've had more problems than in other parts of the country . . . I don't know of any way we could halt it

Railroad police, certified law enforcement officers employed by the rail lines, have beefed up their staffs and have begun using locks to protect boxcars loaded with valuables such as food, furniture, electronic equipment and department store goods. Santa Fe Railroad special agent Joe Moran says his company is having success with the new methods, but adds, "We still have one hell of a problem with that kind of crime. It's not a new problem. Wood said the Southern Pacific line was laid in the 1880s and, "We were having problems with theft and vandalism then. The predicament is the nearness of the Rio Grande, a muddy ribbon that separates El Paso from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, a bustling city of nearly one million

"Our track's only 20 or 25 yards from the middle of the river," drawled Santa Fe special agent Leon Puckett.

"They can hit us and they're gone before we know it." Fellow agent Mario Reyes recalled a radio call he received from another agent one night. The agent had discovered bandits had broken into a boxcar and furniture was scattered across a nearby levee road, abandoned when the officer's car was spotted.

The agent secured the boxcar and made the two-minute drive to the office to pick up Reyes. When they returned, the car had been pilfered again. They locked it again and the agent returned Reyes to the office.

"He called me again and said, 'Mario, you're not going to believe what's happened," Reyes said. "They had hit us again. There must have been 20 to 25 guys working and we couldn't find a soul."

The bandits cross the river at the railroad bridges in Mexico, many scrambling over tall, jagged steel gates erected to keep them out.

"Four or five of them will come over on our side of the gate and come up there and steal stuff out of the train,' Puckett said. "Then they'll pass the stuff back to the gate like a water brigade. They know that once they get across that river, there's nothing we can do."
Southern Pacific's problem is with moving trains, said

T.J. Monsen, assistant special agent in charge of the El Paso office. "Two years ago, we knew we were being hit on moving trains in the Globe Mills area," Monsen said. "As trains went through there, a group of about 15 guys would constantly hit the trains. Monsen and his men dressed as hoboes and started riding the trains. They made arrests, but Monsen won't reveal how many or the method used because, "We've got a group like that one operating right now."

Southern Pacific has more traffic than Santa Fe because its main line runs through El Paso. Moran says to strike in the trainyard.

He said Santa Fe's yard is more accessible to the aliens because it is at one end of the so-called "Tortilla Curtain," a hole-riddled fence erected by the government to try to slow the flow of illegal aliens.

The railroad police are convinced that illegal aliens are responsible for virtually all of the cargo thefts. Moran said almost every burglar arrested in the past five years at the Santa Fe yard was illegally in the country.

"Most are in their early teens to early 20s and most are illegal aliens," Monsen said

Monsen said Southern Pacific arrests between 30 and 40 burglars a year. Moran said his men made 32 arrests in the first five months of the year. Burglary is not the only problem the railroad police have with aliens. Many illegal aliens find the relatively deserted rail yards preferable to the busy downtown area Monsen said the Border Patrol apprehended 2,000 aliens in the Southern Pacific yard during the first four months of the year. Moran said 2,200 were picked up at Santa Fe's vard in the first six months. Another problem is what Moran calls the "river rats," gangs of youths who virtually live under railroad bridges and who prey on other aliens attempting to get into the Moran conducted negotiations with Mexican authorities that led to joint raids on the bridges. He thinks further cooperation may be the way to slow the burglaries. 'We've been pretty successful with these raids." he said. "They'll run toward Mexico because they know we can't cross the river. What they don't know is that the Mexican authorities are waiting for them on the other

The railroad police also are trying other methods in their battle with the burglars

'Cargo theft is our worst problem. Along this route, we've had more problems than in other parts of the county.'

Ohio archbishop to succeed Cody

CHICAGO (AP) — Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin of Cincinnati, considered a social progressive but conservative on church doctrine, was named Saturday by Pope John Paul II to head the 2.4 millionmember Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago.

The announcement by the Rev. Pierfranco Pastore, deputy Vatican spokesman, ended more than two months of speculation on the choice of a successor to Cardinal John P. Cody, who died April 25 at age 74.

The appointment is effective immediately, Pastore said. Bernardin, who was informed of his appointment during a private audience with the pope last week, was returning Saturday to Cincinnati from Rome.

Bernardin, 54, had been frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Cody, whose final months were haunted by allegations that he misused up to $1 million in church funds. A federal investigation of those charges was closed Tuesday without indictments.

News of Bernardin's appointment was greeted with joy and relief in Chicago, where the church has been rocked by dissension stemming from the financial scandal and what some had considered an autocratic church administration under Cody.

A former president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, Bernardin was named archbishop of Cincinnati in 1972 by Pope Paul VI, becoming the youngest Roman Catholic archbishop in the United States. Bernardin becomes the 11th man to head the Chicago archdiocese, the nation's largest and wealthiest. The last four archbishops were named cardinal after being appointed, and Bernardin is expected to receive that title as well, although no date has been set.

In a prepared statement issued

Texas Board of Education upholds teacher dismissals

State Board of Education on Saturday upheld the dismissals of two teachers — one who slapped a second-grader for laughing during the singing of "The Eyes of Texas" and one who cursed when he got excited at athletic events.

The board also denied the appeal of a Midland high school student who was suspended after she kicked a teacher who had dressed as a witch for an off-campus 'Spook House'' fundraiser.

Mary Mathis, who had taught for more than 20 years, was fired by the Angleton Independent School District for slapping a boy who laughed during singing May 28, 1980. The laughter was prompted by another student who sang out a vulgar word.

The boy's babysitter complained to the school principal that the blow had left a mark on the boy's face, and an examination the next day verified there was a welt on his face.

In a brief submitted to State Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum, Ms. Mathis' lawyer recalled that Gen. George Patton had 'impulsively slapped a hospitalized combat veteran accused him of cowardice" yet Patton was only reprimanded - not discharged.

Bynum on May 7 said Ms. Mathis' action "represents a clear and present danger to the welfare and safety of the child," and he denied the teacher's appeal.

On Saturday the board upheld the commissioner's ruling 16-4, although board member Jim Hollingsworth of DeSoto said, "I don't think any irreparable harm was done to the child. ... I might failing to turn in grade have done the same thing myself."

Teacher-coach Jesse
Johnson of the Karnack Independent School District lost his appeal from a Dec. 1, another ruling by Bynum. Johnson had been accused of using profanity, failing to pay school bills, leaving his classes unattended, making long-distance telephone calls on the school phone and of Bynum's May 5 decision said Johnson "readily ad-mits having used profanity during particularly excitable moments while coaching." In support of his motion to member Don Cook of Mesquite said, "How many coaches do you know across the state of Texas who have used profanity during the heat of an athletic event?" "I would object very much India

Handicapped 6 size up Guadalupe

GUADALUPE NATIONAL PARK, Texas (AP) Guadalupe Peak, the highest point in Texas, is a monolith of stone that dominates the surrounding plains. But for six men, the mountain is merely a stepping stone toward other goals.

The six — all bound to wheelchairs because of paralysis or amputation - will begin an expedition up the mountain Monday to draw attention to the capabilities of the handicapped and to raise money for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

'They're magnificent men and it's a magnificent thing to do." said Jack Grimm, an Abilene oilman who is helping organize the climb. The "Mountain Men," as the climbers call themselves face a grueling, 412-mile trail that rises 3,000 feet to the flat summit of the red and orange peak, which has a total altitude of 8,751 feet. Michael "Shorty" Powers, 30, of Dallas, leader of the expedition, says the ascent probably will take two days and the descent will take one day.

But we might just spend a day on the top after we get up there," he said confidently. Powers and two other members of the team - Donnie Rogers, 26, of Dallas and John Galland, 31, of Mound, Minn. - took part in a climb last year in the Uintah Mountains in Utah. They and the other members participate in wheelchair athletics and rehabilitation programs for the handicapped.

The others are Dave Kiley, 29, of Los Angeles, Bobby Leyes, 30, of Raleigh, N.C., and Joe Moss, 32, of Dallas. Moss lost his legs in the Vietnam War and the other

No record of $999 cab trip

HOUSTON (AP) - Yellow Cab Co. officials say they are investigating a report of a $999-ride taken by two Algerian tourists from Houston to the West Texas city of Odessa but so far have not found any file on such a trip.

This is a weird one. How can people ride that far and not get a cab number?" said Freeman Rivers, supervisor of Yellow Cab drivers here.

Kheira and M'hamed Mahallem flew to Texas July 1 to visit Mrs. Mahallem's brother in Odessa. The couple, who spoke little English, thought the West Texas city was nearby, so they hailed a cab, told the driver where they wanted to go and settled back for the ride.

But they said the cab driver wasn't exactly sure where Odessa was, and drove there via Galveston and Dallas. After arriving at the home of the couple's relatives 15 hours later, the driver demanded a fare of $999. After some negotiating, the Mahallems gave the driver $300 every penny they had. Rivers said Friday that a check of airport manifest records showed no entry for the out-of-town trip. Neither the Mahallems nor their relatives noticed the name of the cab company but recalled the vehicle was yellow. In Houston, the only such vehicles belong to Yellow Cab,

Although no record of the trip has been found, it doesn't mean Yellow Cab didn't make the trip, he said, adding that an out-of-town cab could have delivered another passenger at the airport and then picked up the Mahallems

Bride burning

Indian problem grew over unpaid dowries

Ms. Narula was the latest victim on a growing list of young Indian women to die from burns after their parents failed to pay promised dowries or were unable to meet demands by inlaws for more money or goods.

Authorities estimate that as many as 400 newly married wives died of burns last year in New Delhi. Many of their in-laws say the deaths were cooking accidents but some parents call the burnings cold-blooded slayings. In Ms. Narula's case, her husband, her mother-in-law and her father-in-law are in jail, awaiting trial on murder charges. They are accused of pouring kerosene on the young woman's clothing and setting her on

There have been only a handful of arrests in connection with the deaths. In most "bride burnings," the assailants go free because of lack of evidence, authorities say.

The deaths of Ms. Narula and eight other women in New Delhi during June triggered weekly demonstrations by several women's organizations that formed an antidowry committee.

Chanting slogans like "Brides are not for burning," "Marriage is not a commercial transaction" and "Send murderers to the gallows," these activists have staged noisy protests outside houses where young women were fatally burned.

They are concentrating their efforts on organizing street-corner meetings and marches to create a greater awareness among women of their rights and force authorities to punish those responsible for the burnings.

'Increased public revulsion against bride burning has not been matched by any change in the traditionally lackadaisical attitude of police," the Times of India said in a recent editorial. "There is nothing to show that they are either more vigilant with a view to preventing bride burning or more energetic in investigating

The Dowry Prohibition Act of 1961 forbids giving a dowry or accepting it, with penalties of six months in prison and fines. However, the custom seems to be growing, particularly among the urban middle class.

A dowry is usually paid in cash, clothes, jewelry, electric appliances and household furnishings. According to a government survey, the size of a dowry is based on a man's education, social standing and job. The higher he ranks in all three categories, the larger the dowry his family can

Members of the elite government services — the Indian Administrative Service (IAS) and the Indian Foreign Service (IFS) - are the most soughtafter bachelors, commanding up to $40,000. They are followed by doctors and engineers, who get up to $35,000, according to the Women's Vigilance Forum, a women's rights group.

Strong social pressures on parents to arrange marriages for their daughters before they graduate from college and the difficulty in finding good bridegrooms from the same social caste enable the dowry custom

"The increasing demands for gifts and ostentatious weddings impose a tremendous strain on the family finances and expose young girls to an extremely unfair competition in which their own worth is hardly recognized," the National Commission on the Status of Women has reported.

Marriage in India's maledominated Hindu society of 700 million people is not just the union of a man and a woman but a sacred act cementing a network of kinship and social ties. A woman would face social embarrassment and stigma if she were to leave her husband's family and return to her parents during a dowry dispute.

Consequently the bride has little escape from dowry harassment by inlaws. A recent government study estimated that thousands of young women are driven to suicide every year because of the country's dowry

'Woman has been the most exploited member of our society," said Pramila Dandavate, a member of the Indian Parliament. "At her parents' house, she is treated as a burden and a liability. After marriage, the dowry she brings is more important that she

In Bihar, India's poorest and most crime-infested state, the dowry system has created an unusual phenomenon.

Demands for exorbitant dowries and lavish weddings were the main reasons for the recent kidnappings, India Today, a popular newsmagazine, said. There have been reports of nearly 500 such "shotgun weddings" in the northern Indian

FISHING FOR MOOSE — A U.S. Coast Guard boat is pulled for a ride by an 800-pound calf moose in Lake

Moose cuts loose in Duluth

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — It took police, zookeepers, game wardens and finally the Coast Guard to capture a moose on the loose in downtown Duluth.

The chase began when the 7-foot-tall, 1,000-pound female moose was sighted asleep in a parking lot around 10 a.m. Thursday

Four hours later, with four tranquilizing darts stuck in her, the moose jumped into Lake Superior and swam out about a half mile before the Coast Guard managed to herd her to shore, said Richard Laine, senior zookeeper at the Duluth Zoo.

"I was concerned for its life when it was in the water," said Julene Boe, a zookeeper. "I don't think it realized how big a lake it was in." she said

Ashore, the moose was wrestled to the ground and given more sedatives. Nearly five hours after the chase began, the moose finally surrendered on the grounds of Glensheen mansion, a Duluth tourist attraction. It was shipped off to the woods in a snowmobile trailer and released about 5 p.m.

"When we untied the ropes, it just took off," Laine

Laine said the moose was healthy, but apparently became disoriented in the city of 100,000 people

"I'm happy things worked out. It's a relief." said Ms. Boe. "It was worth going through all the hassle and running around to get the animal back into the woods were being turned over "I can tell you the tapes will be turned over to me and the investigation is continuing," he said. Enquirer editor Iain Calder said the publication decided to "make available" the materials "only in response to statements made by Toronto attorney for Miss Smith in which he claimed that key portions of the Enquirer story were misleading.

Greenspan said that during the interviews with the newspaper, Ms. Smith was under the influence of alcoho supplied by her interviewers and was further impaired by drug consumption.

"I don't know if they (reporters) bought her a drink or not, but they did not ply her with liquor," said Calder.

Calder issued a prepared statement responding to the allegations that Ms. Smith was misquoted. "That simply isn't true. Our story is accurate.

"The Enquirer invested some 5,000 man-hours of work looking into Belushi's death. As soon as we learned Cathy Smith was the 'mystery woman' with the comedian just before he died on March 5, we began negotiating with our Los Angeles attorney for an exclusive interview with her Our negotiations with her attorney broke down after three weeks, but our reporters continued to hunt for her.

Scouts agree to pay paralyzed teenager

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Boy Scouts of America have agreed to pay damages of $4,000 a month for life to a 13 year-old boy paralyzed from the waist down in a wimming accident during a scout camping trip.

Patrick McGlone, whose spinal cord was severed two years ago when he dived head-first over a waterfall into the Guadalupe River about 20 miles from Blanco, will get $4,000 a month for life, compounded at 3 percent annually.

Actuarial tables say he will live another 59 years. The out-of-court settlement Friday also pays $250,000 to the boy's mother, Susan Pollock, a member of the University of Texas nursing faculty Ms Pollock said her son "has to be on a respirator almost 24 hours a day. She and her son sued the Boy Scouts of America, Troop 31 of Capital Area Council 564, scoutmaster Jake Almond Jr. and assistant scoutmaster Jack Grosskopf for $10

The suit alleged that the campers should have been better supervised and that the boys should not have been allowed to swim at a dangerous site

Somehow after watching Tron, the latest effort from the fine folks at Walt Disney, you may feel the sensation of viewing the 1980 version of "The Wizard of Oz."

Instead of Dorothy being wisked off to the land of Yellow Briclroads and the Emerald City, it's Kevin Flynn, (Jeff Bridges) laser-beamed into the world of computer circuitry. The Wicked Witch of the East is missing but taking her place is evil Ed Dillinger (David Warner) and the traditional battle between good and evil wages videogame warfare right before your unblinking eyes.

Walt Disney used to be the master of animation. We've grown up with the classics "Bambi," "Fantasia" and 'The Jungle Book'' but in recent years, it's been a new crop of fantasy-adventure geniuses - Steven Spielberg, George Lucas, etc. - that has brought fun movies back to the wide screen.

Disney attempts a comeback with "Tron," hoping for much better success than the boring "The Black Hole." Steve Lishberger accomplishes a major victory in his superb animation of the inside world of today's computers. While the special effects are stunning, the movie plot is basic and sometimes drags when the eyes of the au-

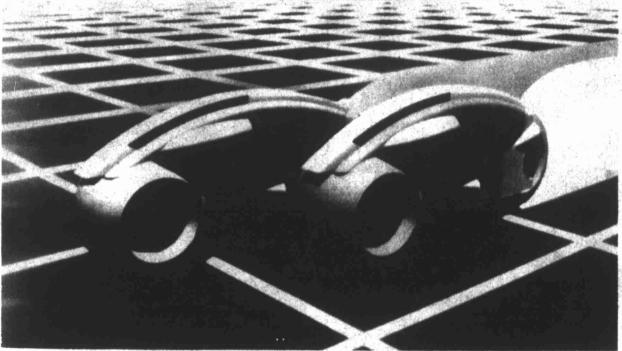

The movie brings out two worlds - the real and imaginary land of programs, computer bits and discs. Flynn, trying to gain proof that his employer has stolen his computer games inventions, is zapped by the giant corporation computer into the fantasy world where he has to battle his way to righteousness.

Upon his arrival, he discovers more. The computer system is being used to tap the private systems of other companies and now plans are in the works to steal from the Pentagon and Moscow. All this added drama really isn't important as the prime thrust of the film is to entertain with its visual imagery.

Flynn meets up with two characters — Tron and Laura and the threesome fights the Master Control Program. Just like in Oz, Tron and Laura are computerland characters strangely familiar to Flynn's buddies from the real world.

The movie contains much to look at and enjoy. Trying to figure out the intricacies of the computer world is too much trouble. Fans of video games and computers will love it while the general audience will find it enjoyable if

Farm

Water -- too much, too little continues to be plagued by excess moisture while the southern part of the state is too dry, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension But he said the cotton harvest continued at full speed in South Texas this week, and farmers in the South Plains, Rolling Plains and portions of North Central and Northeast Texas have gone back to their hail-damaged fields to prepare for replanting grain sorghum and soybean crops where cotton had been hopelessly damaged.

Rains and damage from hail, which continued almost on a nightly basis this past week, slowed progress of remaining cotton acreage in the South Plains. There, damage to corn and other crops also was extensive. More than half of the South Plains cotton crop was knocked out by hail, sand damage, washing rain and diseases, said Pfannstiel

In the Panhandle, the cotton crop continues in poor condition, with much of the acreage being replanted to other crops. The Rolling Plains area also received ex tensive damage to the cotton crop, some of which will be replanted. Some replanting of cotton land also is getting under way in West Central Texas. Rain, wind and hail also destroyed most of the cotton in Far West Texas. As fields dried out in northern areas, the wheat harvest also resumed. Now in full swing in the Panhandle, wheat is making fair to good yields in areas of the South Plains not damaged by hail, and harvesting is getting under way again in the Rolling Plains. Home gardens are generally producing well in portions of the state with adequate moisture. Blossom end rot has caused losses of tomatoes in some gardens. In southern counties, high temperatures and moisture stress are serious garden problems.

While some 35 percent of the peach crop in Wichita County was damaged by hail and heavy rains, peaches and pecans are progressing well in many areas. In East Texas, the peach crop looks good but growers are unable to meet the demand.

Melon and cantaloupe harvests continue in South Texas and in Far West Texas the cantaloupe harvest is expected to start about July 20.

Extension district directors reported the following

PANHANDLE: The wheat harvest is in full swing after delays caused by turbulent weather. Much of the cotton acreage damaged during the past several weeks by wind and hail has been replanted to other crops. Potatoes, onions and sugar beets are making good progress. The corn crop looks good and most sorghum is growing well. SOUTH PLAINS: With more than half of the South Plains cotton crop knocked out by hail, sand damage washing rain and diseases, continuing rains this week have slowed progress of remaining cotton. Hail also continued almost on a nightly basis, and has damaged corn and some other crops. Replanting to grain sorghum and soybeans continues on hail-shredded cotton land. Wheat harvesting also has resumed, with yields fair to good where not damaged by hail. ROLLING PLAINS: Wheat harvesting has resumed in a few fields that are sufficiently dry, as other farmers await more open weather. In Cottle County, some 80 percent of the cotton is expected to be replanted. About 10 percent of the 30,000 acres of cotton lost to hail in Hall County is not expected to be replanted. Grasshoppers are a problem in several counties. Home gardens are producing well, and peaches and pecans are making progress in most counties. Wichita County, however, sustained damage to about 35 percent of its peach crop

NORTH CENTRAL: Dry weather is needed in order to harvest wheat and hav crops. Some cotton is squaring, and corn looks good although some ear worms are reported. Sorghum is growing well, and some peanuts are still to be planted. Some gardens are producing well, although some tomatoes are dying from Septoria Blight. The pecan crop appears to be light in some areas, yet peaches are doing very well. Livestock are in excellent NORTHEAST: Grain sorghum is heading out and cotton is squaring, although growth is hampered by wet conditions. Rains have delayed the wheat harvest, and hay yields and quality vary with rainfall. Ranges and pastures are in good condition. Fly control measures are under way in regard to livestock. Both quantity and quality of peaches are good, and home gardens are generally good. FAR WEST: Wind, hail and rain have destroyed most of the cotton crop in the district. The cantaloupe harvest is expected to begin around July 20. Livestock and ranges in the Midland area are in good condition.

WEST CENTRAL: The wheat harvest is about 95 percent complete. Some replanting of cotton acreage may bs necessary following hail damage. Grain sorghum is about 60 percent headed, with yield indications excellent. Hay cuttings were delayed by wet fields, but yields should be good. The peach harvest is in full swing, and the pecan crop appears to be developing normally. Hardest-hit by hail storms were the northeast portion of Runnels County and most of Coleman County.

CENTRAL: Field activity has accelerated as portions of the district have dried sufficiently to allow machines to operate. Some peanut areas are still too wet to work. Grain sorghum prospects look good, although late plantings may be damaged by midge if it is not controlled. Cotton is progressing well, and the hay harvest is in full swing with good quality and yields reported. Peanuts are generally doing well.

EAST: Hay harvesting is continuing with yields good. although rains have delayed it in some areas. A good vegetable harvest is under way, although diseases and insects are problems in some areas. The sap beetle is a concern in some peach areas, but generally the crop is good although growers are unable to meet the demand. The pecan crop looks good. Rains were excellent on newly-planted pine seedlings in Shelby County. SOUTH CENTRAL: Some cotton irrigation is continuing. Sorghum midge is causing some problems. In Guadalupe County, between 2,000 and 3,000 acres of sorghum were damaged by wind. The hay harvest continues, but most counties need moisture for crops. Livestock generally are in good condition, althogh patures

UPPER COAST: The rice harvest has started, and the soybean harvest is nearing completion. Harvesting of grain sorghum will begn soon. Pastures are getting quite dry and could use moisture. Cattle are in good condition. Harvesting of spring vegetables has been completed.

SOUTH: Moisture is short to very short throughout the district, with 96-to-98-degree days depleting remaining soil moisture. Cotton harvesting is proceeding at full speed, with insect control generally good. Sugarcane is making good progress, along with tomatoes, okra, squash and mixed vegetables. Citrus frit is developing, with irrigation and fertilization of trees continuing. Ranges need moisture.

SOUTHWEST: Continued hot, dry weather is causing ranges and pastures to need rainfall. The melon harest continues. Some armyworm activity has been noted, and webworms are becoming a problem in untreated trees.

USDA payment dispute?

WASHINGTON — A policy war apparently has broken out in the Agriculture Department over whether to provide disaster relief to West Texas farmers.

Top USDA aides told Senate News Service that Agriculture Secretary John Black is concerned that disaster payments to West Texas farmers could discourage farmers nationwide from buying federal crop insurance.

However, USDA Deputy Undersecretary John Ford, who is heading a department task force on the West Texas situation, reportedly was outraged when he heard about the statement and asked for a meeting with Black, according to USDA sources

Ford, a Lubbock resident, has been quoted in Texas papers as saying, "It (the flooded West Texas farm land) was the damndest thing I've ever seen.

After a four-hour meeting with Black, Ford called States News Service and said, "I am the spokesman for this situation. The etarv Jack Block believes that the federal crop insurance program should not be a consideration. These folks (the farmers) went through a disaster.

But an hour after Ford's statement, Black's press secretary John Oaks reitarated that Block feels the disaster payments could send a signal to farmers that they do not need to buy crop insurance.

ITALY'S PAOLO ROSSI ..top scoring threat ready

Healthy Italy meets ailing Germany

MADRID, Spain (AP) - Italy may carry a heavy advantage into the the final match of the World Cup soccer tournament Sunday: its most prolific scorer is healthy, West Germany's is

Paolo Rossi, the sensational 25-year-old striker who has scored all five Italian goals in the team's last two matches, will start. But West Germany's Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, whose fifth goal of the tournament ignited a rally which pulled his team through the semifinal against France, will be listed as a substitute because of a nagging thigh injury

The match in Madrid's Santiago Bernabeu Stadium features two teams which have won the title twice — Italy in 1934 and 1938, and West Germany in 1954 and 1974. West Germany is the current European champion, while Italy is the world's hottest team off its 2-1 victory over defending champion Argentina, a 3-2 conquest of tournament favorite Brazil.

Poland captured third place in the tournament Saturday with a 3-2 victory over France. Andrzej Szarmach scored the first goal of the game for the Poles and the team never looked back in taking the big victory.

Rossi has staged a remarkable comeback following a twoyear suspension from soccer after being implicated in a bribery

France played Poland in Alicante Saturday for third place. "Overconfidence is the first step toward tragedy," Italian Manager Enzo Bearzot warned his team. "We have to rely on the psychological strength of our team, on our high morale which is the result of our scoring. We must not emphasize our merits, just as we must not dramatize our problems.h' "We will fall back on our reserves of strength on Sunday," West German Coach Jupp Derwall told reporters in Madrid on Friday. "I am optimistic that the Italian team has already had its best matches of the 1982 competition."

The Germans have always been masters of the substitute strategy. Rummenigge. twice European Footballer of the Year, sat on the bench for 90 minutes during Thursday's semifinal against France. Then he got into action in the 30-minute overtime period and scored a vital goal that helped his team rally from a 3-1 deficit to tie, then win on penalty kicks

At whatever stage Rummenige goes onto the field, the Italians will have a man waiting to deal with him - Claudio Gentile, the big defender of Juventus of Turin. He will be the Italian team's policeman to try to keep Rummenige out of shooting range.

Rossi scored all three goals in Italy's sensational 3-2 win over Brazil, the favorite for the Cup, last Monday. He also scored both goals when the Italians downed Poland 2-0 in the semifinals

Gentile missed the game against Poland because he was serv ing a one-match suspension. But in Italy's previous games he was given the job of tying up stars Zbigniew Boniek of Poland, Diego Maradona of Argentina and Zico of Brazil - three of the most dangerous shooters in the tournament - and he succeeded

The World Cup final is expected to attract a worldwide television audience of 1.5 billion, according to the Spanish organizers. Meanwhile, officials of the world soccer federation (FIFA) are already planning for future World Cups. Kurt Lamm, secretary general of the United States Soccer Federation, said here after a FIFA congress Friday that the U.S. federation has applied to host the World Cup in 1990.

Congress delegates also were talking of the U.S. stepping in to run the 1986 World Cup if Colombia, the designated host nation, withdraws. Financial problems in Colombia, including the reluctance by both political parties to allocate any funds, might endanger the '86 tournament being played there. But Lamm, one of three U.S. delegates at the congress, said this was based on conjecture at the moment

"I am sure Colombia will go through with it," Lamm said in an interview. "We have no ambition to take it away from Colom-

ST. LOUIS (AP) - John McEnroe and pressure are constant companions, and the tempestuous left-hander from New York turns it into another weapon in his well-equipped arsenal.

"It's tough to stay on top," McEnroe said after he teamed with Peter Fleming to crush Anders Jarryd and Hans Simonsson 6-4, 6-3, 6-0 in doubles Saturday and give the United States a 2-1 lead over Sweden in their Davis Cup tennis quarterfinal match. "It's a lot easier when you're trying to get there."

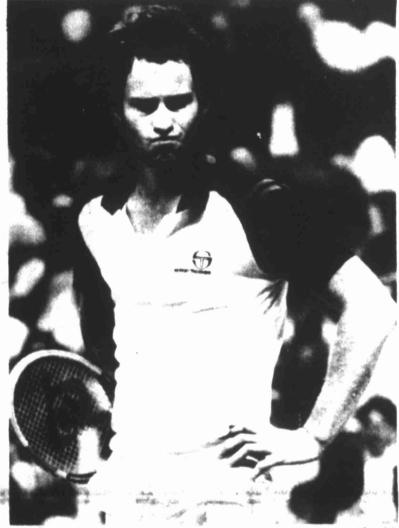

It was the first time the American pair have faced competition since they lost the doubles final at Wimbledon last Sunday in straight sets to Australians Peter McNamara and Paul McNamee.

'We're not playing better as a team than we ever have before,' McEnroe said. "Lately, we've had our problems. We should play all our matches like

McEnroe said the Swedish players were not at their best today. But they are young and will be back in the Sunday's final two singles will send

Philip Ringener tries to make it in pro bowling

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Sports Editor
Pro football players are big. Pro basketball players are tall. Pro baseball players have big forearms. Pro golfers have good tans. But pro bowlers are pretty much an indistinguishable group of athletes until they roll strikes down the lanes at various tournaments around the country on the Pro Bowelrs tour.

But Spring's Philip Ringener looks a regular at the local Bowlarama, with a habit of spending as much time at the video machines as he does at the ball return. He sets himself apart from the rest of the crowd, though, when he takes his stance, winds up and through his bowling motion and releases a blur that usually ends up as a strike when it meets the pins.

Ringener has made his way from the local lanes to Pro Bowlers Association events. Although he is just a newcomer, he made big news when he finished sixth at the 1982 PBA U.S. Open in Houston. He was the alternate to the final round of competition and just missed bowling on national television in the fina

'The Houston tournament was definitely my best finish," he recalls. This year, he has entered 10 tournaments and has come away with $9,000 in earnings. "In golf, that would come out to be around $30

His most recent venture was to the PBA Doubles Classic in Las Vegas He bowled Dee Munsell of Fort Worth and the duo "didn't bowl well" by Ringener's admission. Part of the blame could go an injury to Munsell in the 11th game of the tournament for the pair. He split a finger on his bowling hand and "things went downhill from there,"

Ringener reports.
It was the first pro test for Ringener after a long spring and early summer layoff. He had to stay close to Big Spring as wife, Penny, delivered the couple's first child, Tiffany Michelle. It was only after the baby girl was two months old

Players no fans of public's all-star picks

It may be time the fans were benched. After years of striking out with the selection of players for the annual summer All-Star game, it's time the public was sent back down to the minors to bring their senses back. Perhaps even a few weeks in the instructional league where they would learn how to punch out the hole beside the players most deserving of a position on the All-Star team.

The term "all-star" wasn't around when Webster was working on his dictionaries but its general accepted meaning is a person who excels at his sport. Take a look at this year's picks for the American and National teams and you'll find players that are exceling who will miss the game, others who excel that will be riding the bench when the first pitch is thrown and players in starting positions that aren't exceling at all.

The idea behind having an all-star game each year is to reward those players having a banner season during the mon-ths of April, May, June and July. It's understandable picking players that had good stats the year before but not ignoring the players currently having perhaps their best year ever.

FIRST LET'S LOOK at the American League. The batting average of the eight starters combined is a torrid 285. The highest average is the .322 mark of shortstop Robin Yount who only nipped Bucky Dent (.143 average and riding the Yankee pine) at the last minue for the position. Reggie Jackson is in the outfield again despite making fans blink with an eye-

The reserves, picked by the managers, are averaging .315 among the dozen. That's 30 points higher, folks!

Fans passed up quiet Cecil Cooper who's a premier hitter in the league year-in, year-out. He's batting a .326 in 1982 with 17 home runs. Then there's Toby Harrah, a curse word in Texas, but nonetheless hitting .350 with a league-leading 99 hits and 14

How about Willie Wilson, .333 with KC, or Carl Yazstrimski, the elder statesman of the league, who has guided the Red Sox to the East pigeon rest with a .306 stick and numerous gamewinning hits'

It's a wonder Rickey Henderson is in the outfield. After all he's only stolen over 80 bases already this year. That means he's overqualified for the job, especially since his .268 average is tops on the Oakland line-up of whiffle ball hitters.

SICK ENOUGH? Let's peak at the National League. The National starters are all solid bats, hitting .291 as a team. That's better than the American starters but lower than their reserves who are batting .304. There's Manny Trillo of Philly at second with his .262 average while backup Steve Sax is batting .294 with a league-leading 94 hits. The rookie Sax, of course, wasn't on the ballot so we can't blame the fans for that one. Tim Raines is starting in the outfield with a .285 mark and almost 40 stolen bases. But how about Cardinal Lonnie Smith who is listed in almost every offensive category in the league. He got a ton of doubles, the most stolen bases, scored the most runs and is hitting .310. But he's on the bench for this game.

But where's Keith Hernandez? A Gold Glove winner, he's hitting .300 but is in missing persons for this game. The managers do a good job with the pitching but made a few blunders this year. Billy Martin forgot about Pete Vukovich of Milwaukee who is 10-3 and had an even better mark last year. Or Geoff Zahn, 9-3 for the Angels? Or Cleveland reliever Dan Spillner who has an ERA of 1.33 to lead the league?

In the Nationals, Tommy Lasorda overlooked Atlanta reliever Gene Garber who is 6-3 and has a 1.40 ERA. Tim Lollar of San Diego is 8-2 but will be on the bench when the game starts. Don Sutton of Houston is 9-4 (and that's great considering Houston's .242 team batting average) while Jerry Reuss of the Dodgers is 9-5.

IT'S ALL IN THE BOXOFFICE. The fans want to see the names they have associated with all-star status in the past and managers wouldn't dream of leaving off names like Carlton, Valenzuela or Gossage. The wrath of the fans would be terrific

The system needs reexamining. The players most deserving of the honor are many times left out or resigned to the bench. I like Reggie and have seen him do unknown things at all-star games (remember the homer in Detroit?). But Reggie today isn't the Reggie of the A's or Yanks, even.

The game is for the fans — although the players enjoy the millions they are paid, too - but if the fans can't do a good job with punching out their ballots, maybe it ought to go back to peer selection.

Just chalk it up another losing season for the fans.

A final note.

With a name like "Jaklewicz," it's only natural I would be proud of Poland for its third place finish in the World Cup tournament. And I am.

Ed Chiles mad again

Rangers may lose $6-7 million this year

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers may lose as much as $7 million this year, and club owner Eddie Chiles says if the condition of major league baseball doesn't improve, he may think about selling the club.

The Dallas Morning News quoted a club source as saying the franchise is projected to lose between $6 million and $7 million this year.

"But this team has lost money every year; we lost four million last year," said Chiles, a Fort Worth oil man. "So this is no big deal. We're going as well as we can with the conditions we're working under

The Rangers' sometimes outspoken owner said that if baseball's financial situation doesn't get better, he may get out of the game. He said he expects to lose as much this year as he did last year.

Chiles said he will advocate a restructuring of the leagues at baseball meetings next month in San Diego. If owners don't curb Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's power, Chiles said, "baseball will self-destruct."

Asked if he would consider selling the team if changes in the structure of baseball are not made, Chiles replied,

"Yes, possibly." "Very few teams are making money — only a half-dozen teams are," Chiles said. "Of course we're not happy about losing money. We're not happy with our attendance. It's lower than we've ever had.'

"But the reason we're losing money is the players salaries are higher than ever," Chiles said.

He met with his board of directors Tuesday to discuss the Ranger financial situation. Rangers executive vice president Ed Meason said the Rangers are losing money because the cost to run a major league team has risen from $5.8 million to $9.5 million in the last two years. Meason, who heads Rangers business operations, denied he has been criticized by some board members for excessive spending.

"Not one owner we have likes the fact we're losing money," Meason said. "But I haven't heard a single owner complain about me.

Chiles said he still supports Meason. "I wouldn't trade Sam for anyone I know," Chiles said

Pitcher wins with baby girl

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Orioles pitcher Mike Flanagan and his wife, Kathy, were described as "kind of ecstatic" over the birth of their 8pound, 8-ounce daughter, the nation's fourth test-tube baby.

Mrs. Flanagan, 30, and the baby,

Kerry Ellen, were reported doing fine Saturday, the day after the birth. "They're kind of ecstatic," said Greater Baltimore Medical Center spokesman Gary N. Michael. He said doctors who oversaw the delivery were "elated" because for the first time in the United States a test-tube baby was delivered without William Englehart, Mrs. Flanagan's obstetrician, said the birth followed a "perfectly normal pregnancy," and he described the new parents as "terribly excited."

Mrs. Flanagan went into labor about 8 a.m. Friday and gave birth at 4:53 p.m. without anesthesia, Englehart said.

Flanagan, 30, winner of the 1979 American League Cy Young Award, pitched a full nine innings in Seattle against the Mariners on Thursday night — the Orioles lost, 4-3 — and returned early Friday while the ballclub moved on to Oakland, Calif., to play the A's. He arrived in Baltimore about 10 a.m. and went directly to the hospital, where he stayed with his wife throughout the rest of her labor.

The conception was performed at the Eastern Virginia Medical College in Norfolk, Va. In the process, the egg is taken from the mother's body where it is fertilized in a glass dish, then transferred into the mother's womb. Pregnancy occurs if the fertilized egg implants itself.

The process was pioneered by Drs. Patrick Steptoe and Robert Edward of England, where the world's first testtube baby was born in 1978.

Last month, the third test-tube baby conceived in the United States was born in Los Angeles. The first testtube baby born in this country was delivered Dec. 28, 1981, to a Massachusetts couple. The birth of the second was announced last April.

Winning at semi-pro keeps. local Red Sox on their feet

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Sports Editor
The Boston Red Sox are the surprise team of the American League this year, in first place when they weren't expected to be. The Big Spring Red Sox are winning a lot of games, too, but that comes as no

After a late start this year, the Red Sox swept to three wins last weekend in a tournament in Big Lake to win the championship and improve to 7-1 this year. The Sox, together with the Cardinals and Yankees, give Big Spring one of the best semi-pro baseball programs around this part of Texas.

The Sox weren't together as such when the baseball season began. Manager Bill Diaz says the Cardinals and Red Sox decided to join forces this summer and form one super team. After the Pecos tournament (won by the Cardinals), we decided to split up again," Diaz says. "We just had different ideas ... no hard feelings, it was just we were two different teams. We got along too well.

And so the Red Sox began their season well after all the others but still have managed to reach a competitive in short time

We have seven Red Sox that were starting for the Cardinals," Diaz recalls. "We didn't fit in well and weren't at ease. Now we feel we are one team." The Red Sox are run similarly to the Cardinals. Their schedule includes tournaments and games with teams in the West Texas area - Snyder, Big Lake, San Angelo, Abilene, Alpine and Marfa.

"We aren't in any league," Diaz explains. "We play on a game-to-game basis. We play some of the same teams as the Cardinals but we haven't booked any of them yet. We'll play the Cardinals and the Yankees

The Red Sox play at the Roy Anderson Complex, usually scheduling Sunday games. This week the Sox are in Abilene to play the Pirates in a 1:30 p.m. single game. "We were the first to play at Anderson and it's been a great help," Diaz says.

The players have bought their own uniforms and the team's travel money comes from concessions, donations and out of the team's pocket.

"It's getting harder and harder to field a team," Diaz moans, echoing the feeling of Cardinal manager Raul Rubio. "It's really hard to break even now. For awhile, semi-pro was the only game in town.

The games are played on a guarantee basis. When a contract is reached with the team, the squads play home-and-home series. The home team pays the expenses of the visitor and then is reimbursed when they David Cruz manages the team, scheduling all the games and taking care of the equipment needs. Diaz takes care of the team on the field." Cruz falls under his command when he's in uniform but otherwise it's Cruz who's the boss of the show.

"We like to play ball," Diaz answers when asked why the Sox hit the diamond each summer. "There are guys that felt like playing after school and couldn't get it out of their system. I guess they are sort of some 'Sunday

"We take the field to win and we play hard," he continues. "We have a good ballclub and we like to have a good time."

'We like to run," Diaz says about his team's philosophy. "We like to hit and run and be aggressive. This is what we like to call 'sandlot semi-pro.

The team's best years were a 22-8 record in 1979 and that he was allowed to return to action.

"It took awhile," he said of regaining his touch after the layoff from competition. "It takes a lot of concentration. I started bowling pretty good around the fifth game on out. We were bowling pretty decent until my partner split a finger. We still had a chance until then. In the 10 tournaments he bowled in prior to the Doubles Classic, Ringener made the final 24 four times and was in the cash (the top 48) once more. Each tourney has an average of 160 contestants with 360 entering the U.S. Open. 'I've been bowling in more ' he said of tournaments each year.' his three-year start on the BBA tour. 'I've been bowling all my life and thought I was good enough to give it

To get on the PBA tour, he had to fill out an application with the organization and have it approved by the regional director. Once they confirm he has the talents to enter pro competition, a bowler is sent to a two and a half day school before he is declared eligible to bowl

Pro bowlers are divided into three classes: resident one; resident two;

and touring one and two. Resident one bowlers can bowl in all national tournaments while resident twos can compete in those tournaments within their region of the country.

The touring pros are further divided into two groups. Touring one bowlers make 67 percent of all the events in the circuit while touring two bowlers attend 50 percent. Ringener is currently in the latter group, making half of the 33 big tournaments the PBA schedules during the year. Touring one bowlers also include the top 10 money winners on the tour, and Ringener would like to be included among that group for sure. Bowling is a living to most,"

As for styles, he reports "everyone has their own. I hook the ball a little." he says

Keeping that style going for so many games at tournament takes concentration. Ringener had his mind game working in Houston and almost made the televised finals.

"It was a real heartbreaker not making it but I think I'm getting closer," he said. "One of these days I hope to be there.

Being there means in the company of such greats as Earl Anthony who is tearing up the circuit again this year after being named Bowler of the Year in 1981. Bowling with the recognizable games is a perience Ringener admits.

'Some of them have a good attitude while some have their nose up in the air. Mostly they are all-right guys," he says with a grin.

Most of the bowlers have been at their sport for many years. "I think there's one guy that's been bowling only three years but he has a natural talent for the game.

The next big tournament for Ringener is the Aquafest-Mr. Gatti's Open Aug. 13-17 in Austin. He is in Wichita Falls this weekend for a local doubles tournament. The bowling year, he says, takes in 35 weeks of the year with breaks between different stops. The tour winds down around Nov. 1 and doesn't get going again until the second week of January.

Among the best stops on the tour are the PBA Nationals, Firestone Tournament of Champions, the PBA U.S. Open and the Miller High Life Opens in Los Angeles and Milwaukee. "They are all pretty big, though," he said. Television coverage by ABC extends to 23 of the 33 major events.

Ringener hasn't made it to the Tournament of Champions yet, an event only for those bowlers having won a title on the tour

'But I hope to soon,' he adds. Soon might be in 1983 for the Big

Levi leads Milwaukee Open

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Hawaiian Open champion Wayne Levi, the only top 10 money-winner in this field, moved into a 54-hole tie for the lead Saturday with Canadian rookie Dick Zokol in the Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament

The 29-year-old Levi, one of the most consistent players on the PGA Tour, posted a third consecutive 68 for a total of 204, 12 under par for three trips around the Tuckaway Country Club course.

Zokol, who barely made this field with a 73 qualifying score, blew the lead with consecutive bogeys on the 16th and 17th holes.

However, the 1981 Canadian Amateur champion, wearing a radio headset between shots to settle his nerves this week, kept a share of the top spot for the second straight day with a 70. Tied for third place, a single shot behind, were 1979 Milwaukee champion Calvin Peete and veteran Victor Regalado of Mexico. Regalado had 68 and Peete 69. They were at 205, 11 under par.

Meanwhile, Terry Diehl, the 36-hole leader with Zokol, bogeyed two of his first three holes and slipped from the lead. He still matched par 72 and was next at 10-under 206 with Jim Colbert, the winner here 10 years ago. Colbert posted a 70.

WAYNELEVI eagles No. 6 hole

Jay Haas, the defending champion also came in with a 72 and was all but out of contention with 211, nine shots

Barring a total collapse in the final round, Zokol assured himself of his best American tournament with his steady play Saturday. He has finished no higher than 32nd in 20 tournaments this year.

He needs a 22nd-place finish here Sunday for $2,800, beating his entire 1982 money total.

Levi and Zokol were never more than one shot apart after the Canadian newcomer bogeyed his opening hole. An eagle-3 on the 524-yard sixth hole pulled Levi, the No. 8 money-winner with almost $180,000 this year, into a tie with his less-heralded opponent.

Zokol, after a birdie on the seventh, led briefly before successive bogeys at eight and nine dropped him back into a tie with Levi.

They remained deadlocked until Zokol's seventh birdie of the round gave him the lead at 14. He stayed in front until his fourth and fifth bogeys of the windy, rainy day at 16 and 17. That afforded Levi the opportunity to tie, and the New York state native did it by parring the last tyo holes on this 7.010-yard layout

At stake is a first prize of $45,000.

NFL rookies are offered contracts NEW YORK (AP) - All unsigned rookies can expect to get written contract offers from the National Football League in the next six days. And if they don't sign them, there's a chance it'll be a while before they're allowed to suit up and begin working out. Players NFL The Association, seeking to work out a new collective bargaining agreement with the league through talks with the owners' Management Council, says players will not be permitted to conduct contract talks with teams either directly or through agents when the existing agreement expires at midnight next Thursday.

Unsigned veterans will be able to report to training camp. They will receive either a 10 percent pay raise over their 1981 salary or the amount of the team's last written offer, whichever is more, said Ed Garvey, executive director of

The days of easy money in real estate are gone. But the intelligent, hard working, well trained sales associate today is still earning between $30,000 and $50,000 annually.

ERA can help you make that kind of income. We offer ambitious self-starters an extensive package of introductory and ongoing training programs to keep them on top of the latest developments in the business. We also offer some of the most innovative sales tools available like the Buyer and Seller Protection Plans, the Sellers Security PlanTM, the Moving Machine® and over 38 methods of creative financing, such as the ERA Partnership Morgage TM. If you're self-motivated and interested in making an outstanding income, call us. We'll help you earn what you're worth.

All-Star Game first played outside border

MONTREAL (AP) — Major league baseball moves it All-Star Game out of the United States for the first time Tuesday night as this Olympic city hosts the 53rd edition of a contest which in recent years has become the sole possession of the National League.

Olympic Stadium has long been sold out for the game. Seating capacity for baseball is 58,838 and organizers expect the stadium's baseball-attendence mark of 59,282 to be broken.

"It's probably the biggest attention-getter for Montreal sports in the history of this city for a one-day event," said John McHale, the president and general manager of the Montreal Expos.

In honor of its hosting the first All-Star Game in a foreign land, and the inclusion of baseball as an Olympic sport in 1984, Montreal has adopted an international baseball theme for the event.

Former all-stars from nine nations have been invited to throw out the ceremonial first pitches, and the pregame show will spotlight 46 national baseball federations.

The game is scheduled to start at 8:40 p.m. EDT. It will be televised in the United States by ABC.

Gary Carter, the Expos' multimilliondollar catcher and the leading vote-getter, was among three Montreal players picked by the fans as a starter. Outfielders Tim and pitcher Steve Rogers added to the roster NL Manager Tom Lasorda of Los

In the rest of the starting lineup for the Nationals, who have won the past 10 All-Star Games and 18 of the past 19, are first baseman Pete Rose, second baseman Manny Trillo and third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies; shortstop Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds and outfielder Dale Murphy of the Atlanta

As of Friday, Lasorda had not named a starting pitcher.

In the American League, which trails the series 33-18-1, Oakland's Billy Martin is the manager through an ironic twist. On one of the two times he was fired as manager of the New York Yankees, Martin was replaced by Bob Lemon. This spring, Lemon was fired after taking the Yanks to the World Series in 1981; Martin was picked to replace him here because the A's were last season's AL West

Four California Angels are on the AL starting lineup, including outfielder Reggie Jackson, who as a Yankee was constantly in hot water with Martin. The other Angel starters are first baseman Rod Carew (starting his 13th consecutive All-Star game), second baseman Bobby Grich and outfielder Fred Lynn. There are no

12 teams ready for Little League tournament

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Sports Editor LAMESA — The site of the 1982 District III Little eague All-Star Tournament is different and Texas League manager Joe Grigg hopes that's the only change there will be in the annual summer event this year.

Although Grigg wasn't the manager last year, Texas did quite well, topping Midland Eastern 5-3 in the championship game. After taking a look at his players this week in practice, Grigg thinks his group of all-stars is even better than those district champions of 1981.

The tournament gets underway here Monday with a pair of 8 p.m. games. Texas begins defense of its title right off the bat, squaring off with Midland Mid-City, the third place team last year. That game will be played at the Little League ballpark adjacent to the Lamesa Boys Club.

Ag the same time, International tests Midland Eastern at the LL field next to Lobo field, the high school baseball park.

The two remaining Big Spring all-star squads step into action Tuesday against each other. By the luck of the draw, American and National meet head-on their potential. Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Lobo park. The second game Tuesday pits Midland North Central against West Rodriquez battled the American Hawks from the mound and tossed seven innings of shutout baseball before giving up an unearned run in the eighth inning.

Cobb to fight Weaver for WBA heavy title all parties involved to have

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Mike Weaver is no longer without an opponent.

James Binns, the American counsel to the WBA, said here Friday that the boxing body has sanctioned Weaver's July 25 bout with Randall 'Tex' Cobb as a title defense.

And if Weaver wins, Binns said, he'll have to meet within 60 days "whoever is the leading available contender at that time. Michael Dokes is currently sitting in that spot and waiting, Binns said.

The decision to approve the 15-round match as a title contest followed a second day-long closed hearing held by Binns, who also is chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

The meetings were called to sort out the dilemma that occurred when Weaver pulled out of a scheduled June 2 title bout in Atlantic City with Cobb. Weaver reported a shoulder injury while training

The matter was further complicated when a sixmonth period passed without Weaver making a mandatory defense of his crown against Dokes, the WBA's No. 1 contender.

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Bandt, a Russian wolfhound, spent the morning watching television at the D-FW Pet Resort It made him hungry

He had a big lunch: an appetizer of braised chicken livers with a dollop of sour cream, followed by smothered steak, Louisiana dirty rice, and steamed yellow squash with butter. For dessert, butter pecan ice cream with strawberries.

Sugar, a Lhaso Apso in for her weekly grooming and fashion makeover, had the dieter's special: grilled chicken patties with cottage cheese, doggies kisses for dessert

But good grub isn't the only amenity at the 10-acre "pet hotel" near the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport

Kennel accommodations are posh 'roomettes" and "suites" with theme interiors. The Villa Del Mar wing, for example, has a photo mural of the Spanish Costa del Sol, candle sconces on stucco walls, Spanish tile trim, and wrought iron

In The Cabanas wing, coddled canines loll under yellow canvas canopies in rooms papered in yellow-and-orange stripes. There are palms and seashells The chi-chi Le Boudoir wing (ladies only) is elegantly appointed with French silk moire drapes, crystal chandeliers, and French Impressionist prints.

The Japanese Pagoda wing, still incomplete, will have fountains and a Japanese garden.

Rates include walking and exercise three times daily, meals from the menu or to owners' orders, and time with attendants in the den: lounging on the furniture, playing ball, watching TV or listening to the stereo.

We wanted it to be just like at home There are owners who actually ask that their pets get in their TV time," said Fran Gresham, a fashion and interior designer who is a partner in the pet resort with Deana Butler, who had owned kennels in Kansas City before moving to Texas last year.

The resort has a grooming salon, and a whirlpool bath for dogs. There is dog training. English and western horseback riding, and jumping lessons.

The Pet Resort also operates a transportation service for pets whose families are moving

It would cost about $425, for example, to board a medium-sized dog for a week to 10 days, obtain health papers, airline ticket and kennel, and deliver him to his new home in New York City

In the future, the resort plans more kennel and stable space, a cat hotel, a pet cemetary, and a boutique with designer dog and cat fashions and furnishings: carpeted dog houses, hand-crocheted afghans, leather booties, velvet doggie tuxedos, pajamas with mink collars, and diamond collars

The royal treatment helps put owners at ease, say the partners

'Pets are a part of the family now. ... In many cases, a pet is just like a child," said Ms. Butler. "I've known people who would stay home from vacation because they wouldn't leave their pets just anywhere.'

T've known people who have had really bad guilt feelings if they have had to leave their pets," said Ms. Gresham. "It makes the owner feel good to leave a pet in a place

Scientists study motion sickness

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A device resembling an amusement park ride instead of a scientific tool is being used to try to help scientists learn what causes motion sickness

Recent complaint by astronauts about queasy stomaches inspired the project, which is being conducted by researchers from the Massachussetts Institute of Byron Lyctenburg, a payload specialist and candidate for future space flights, was strapped into a mechanized sled Thursday take a series of about 100 rides during the next two weeks, said test manager James Evans.

The tests are designed to gauge Lyctenburg's reactions to linear acceleration and to measure the response of the vestibular system, or the part of the inner ear controlling the body's reaction to motion. The information will be compared with data recorded from astronauts in space or just returned to earth, said Jerry Homick, a space center psychologist and a specialist in the effects of space flight. 'The vestibular system is very much a part of this whole process of motion sickness," Homick said. "By learning more about how it works and how it may change its function in weightlessness, it may begin to give us some insight into the mechanisms that are involved.

Lyctenburg's trips down the 16-foot rail will be tame compared to most that he could take in an amusement park. The device can accelerate to about 15 mph in a halfsecond, researchers said.

"The sled is designed to get up to only about a half-G," or half the force of gravity as felt on Earth, Homick said. "You could reach that fairly easily in a powerful car."

Shelter wants to help, not hurt animals

By RHONDA WOODALL Lifestyle Writer

"We are not the bad guys. We are here to help," Alice Vargas said. Ms. Vargas is Aminal Warden at Big Spring Animal Shelter.

We clean the cages and feed the animals. We pick up dead animals and try to keep the animal population of loose dogs down. We investigate dog bites and reports of rabid dogs. We also dispose of dead animals for the verternarians," Ms. Vargas said.

'We do pick up other animals other than cats and dogs. We've had calls about horses, cows, donkeys, peacocks and turkeys," Carrie Harvell, secretary of the Animal Shelter said. "Most of the calls are about loose dogs, and barking dogs. We get phone calls about mistreated

'We had to go to a man's house who felt he needed rattlesnakes for protection. We got rid of them and issued him a citation," Ms. Vargas said as she recalled her second day on

"On Roger's first day, we had a steer in the kennels. It nearly fit into the kennels. Roger had to play cowboys," Ms. Vargas said, speaking of Roger Oliver, a former animal warden.

Ms. Vargas became interested in her job when she was rodeoing with her supervisor from Hobbs, N.M. "A lot of people think that because I'm a dog catcher that I hate animals, but that's not true. I get kind of discouraged by the way people treat their animals. If I had a place I would take everyone of them (the animals at the shelter) home," Vargas said. One thing I would like to do is hold the dogs for a longer time than we do. in order to give them a chance to be adopted.

"In the winter time, we would like to go around to the elementary schools if the principal and teachers would allow us and talk to the third to sixth grade students on how to take care of their pets," Ms. Vargas said.

'People have always considered us a last resort. People think that if we have picked up their pet then it is probably dead," Ms. Harvell said.

"We have returned a lot of pets to their owners. We trace tags but most people don't put tags on their pets. We do the best we can do to find an animal's owner. It wuld be helpbul if the owner would keep tags on his pets. If people would spend a dollar for a secretary for the Animal Shelter, comforts a citizen about his lost dog over the phone city tag, that would help," Ms. Harvell said. If a dog is reported missing to the animal shelter then the animal wardens keep an eye out for it. Besides finding pets, they also help find homes for them. "We aren't as effective as an ad on the radio or in the newspaper, but we do try." Ms. Harvell said. The Animal Shelter has picked up more animals and adopted out more animals this year than in the

"Both the animal wardens are extremely careful. They do not go on private property to get the owner's pet unless they have written permission. If you see them in someone's backyard taking a pet, it is because we have written permission from the owner," Ms. Harvell said.

and Roger are gone on calls when we get another call then that call is going to have to wait. We get there as fast as we can, but the dog may be gone when we get there. We will go back to a house as many times as it takes for us to get a dog," Ms. Harvell said.

"It would help a lot if people would cooperate with us instead of against us." Ms. Vargas said. "We want people to give us good description of the dog they reported. We don't want to pick up the wrong dog." People tell us it was a big, black dog. That fits the description of 99 percent of the dogs in Big Spring," Ms. Harvell added.

To catch a dog, the animal wardens may have to use a tranquilizer. They judge the amount of medicine to use according to the dog's weight. "The reason a dog dies is because his system cannot take the medicine. This only happens to a few dogs," Ms. Vargas said. "Sometimes he dies because of unkown factors, like he was sick or was on some other medication and sometimes we just misjudge. We don't do it on purpose. 'Our medicine is veternarianapproved, and we are instructed on how to use it ... we do not use a 22 to shoot an animal unless someone's life is endangered and the tranquilizer doesn't work," Ms. Harvell said. If a dog must be shot then the animal wardens call the police department for a policeman to come out and shoot a dog. "A lot of people say we destroy dogs just for the purpose of doing it. We don't," the animal warden said. The animal shelter is not responsible for the health of dogs kept there. We do scrub the kennels and spray. but the shelter is old. We can't guarantee that we get all the germs, but we do try. We can't get rid of distemper, which is an air-born disease. A dog could get distemper from anywhere. Another reason dogs get sick is because they may have low resistance," Ms. Vargas said.

We have taken dogs home to have puppies so they wouldn't have them in the kennels," Ms. Harvell said.

If the animal shelter gets a rabid dog, they will hold it for ten days. They keep a padlock on the cage, put a See Vargas, page 2-0

Armstrong reads what handwriting reflects

By TINA M. STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor

WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND - Alice Vargas, animal

"You're a what? Ed Armstrong get this reaction often when someone asks him his occupation. He doesn't mind because it gives him a chance to explain what he does. Armstrong is a psychographologist graphonanalyst

What is that you ask? A psychographologist is one who makes handwriting analysis. It is as if Armstrong can read the mind of his listener. He explains that handwriting is a permanent record of personality, a mirror that reflects character traits, abilities, emotions, orientation toward environment and people in general; intellect; approach to tasks; values; strong and weak points; past experiences and present state of development; and the amount of physical strength and resillence - all set down by the stroke of a pen.

The close association between personality and handwriting is due to the fact that writing impulses emanate from the brain's cortex from which they are conveyed into the finger muscles via the nervous system, Armstrong explains. The finished product could be considered "brain" writing rather than "hand" writing. The hand merely holds the pen or pencil. It is the brain that directs the hand's movements, which is responsible for the manner in which letters are formed or lines are spaced.

Handwriting is a frozen gesture of personality - like a photograph that catches someone unaware. Each person has his or her own style of

LOOPS STROKES AND BARS — In handwriting analysis, the analyzer looks at the forms of letters and how they relate to other letters. Armstrong says the placing of the bar in the letter "t" tells much about an individual. If the bar crosses high on the letter or above the letter, the person is an impractical dreamer. The length of the bar is a clue to enthusiasm, while the pressure used in making the bar shows strength in their ideas in life.

personality. Each feature of hand-mind. writing reveals something about the writer's character. All features have to be examined and the meanings put together like a jigsaw puzzle. Features such as size, slart, width, zones, regularity, connections, forms of connections, pressure, strokes, lines, spacing and margins are all

FINGERPRINTS everybody's signature is unique and uniquely revealing. While handwriting reflects the attitude of the author, a signature reflects what the person wants the outside would to

Just as personality changes, handwriting changes. Therefore, securing handwritings of the same individual over an extended period enables Armstrong compare the states of mind and the development or deterioration that takes place. The best material for analysis consists of one or more pages of spontaneous ink writing on unlined paper, including the signature. Pen writing is preferable to pencil writing because of its greater clarity. The writer's sex, age and writing hand should be indicated prior to the analysis.

The professional graphologist's function is not to make isolated character traits, nor make iron-clad diagnosis, but rather to attempt a description of the individual as he is able to function.

Psychographology, then, is the study and interpretation of handwriting as the strokes of a pen reflect life's learned experiences (peran indelable stamp of sonality stored in the subconscious in the treatment of mental or

Although a systematic study of handwriting began in Europe many centuries ago. Armstrong said "In the United States, the subject of handwriting analysis was introduced in the early thirties by Europeantrained physicians and psychologists who worked toward determining a method by which states of mind could be diagnosed from handwriting." He said graphoanalysis is gaining popularity and acceptance and is the fastest growing technique for understanding personality potential and knowing enough about it to predict human behaviour

Armstrong looks like a cross between a scholarly professor and a down-to-earth next door neighbor. He projects a genuine niceness and sincere interest in people that makes people have faith in him. He obviously enjoys what he does and believes there is a deep growning need for it.

Armstrong uses his talents in this work by evaluating new employee's personalities, helping in selection of personnel, improving employee efficiency and client-customer relations, in solving human relations problems and interpersonal relationship conflicts on the job, in determining causes of deviant behavior such as alcoholism, as another tool in job placement, promotions, evaluations and transfers, and in helping employees reach their full potential.

Armstrong is employed by Avery and Associates, a firm that specializes in corporate, organizational and personal development.

It is important to note that graphoanalysis is a very useful tool, a diagnostic aid that should be used with all other methods when time and resources allow. However, Armstrong said graphoanalysis is proving to be so effective in dealing with personality potential that it can invariable stand alone and be held accountable

Although Armstrong primarily works as a industrial graphologist, he also works in the following areas: in healing professions using handwriting analysis as graphodiagnosis, and using it in medical and phychological practice as an appraisal of physical, emotional or mental disturbances from handwriting specimens.

Physicians are using handwriting as a means for detection of ailments not immediately apparent through medical check-ups, especially with elderly patients. Mental and emotional disturbances and a barometer of regressions or progress through this method

HANDWRITING ANALYSIS is a valuable took in counseling. Currently it is used in determining preparedness for marriage, in premaritial counseling as a guide to understand present and future problems and conflicts, and to determine problem areas and points of friction in parent-child relationships or sibling relationships.

Handwriting analysis is being used more often in social welfare, juvenile delinquency and criminology to affect the diagnosis and rehabilitation of all criminals and public offenders. It can reveal in a few hours a detailed picture of character structure and background as far as emotional influences are concerned. It also can reveal possible mental disturbances of the individual which makes handling the case easier. This enables the caseworkers and or courts to determine the form of treatment as well a

In cases of parole, or when criminals have served their time, a handwriting check-up may show whether certain hostile and antisocial aspects will exist. Armstrong says, This procedure has been in use by European criminologists for over seventy years."

In the hands of properly educated, trained and qualified analyst, phychographology can be a most efficient tool. It operates on the premise that there is no insoluable human relations problem, providing that the personality of the other person is properly understood. It fill a need in every field of human contact and can contribute toward the solution of intrecate of human adjustment problems and cooperation in the interest of greater unity and peace.

It is also beneficial to individuals who want to understand themselves when selecting their most successful career paths and determing personal potential and self-development.

Throughout his entire work history, Armstrong devised and kept a detailed log of "people problems at the workplace." He records ways in which people interact withothers, their work settings, and with machines and tools used to do their work. From years of observations, he devised an effective constitution philosophy returning his brand of industrial and personnel phychology to the working society. Alice Vargas cares for animals kept at shelter

Continued from page 1-C warning sign up and keep the other animals away from it. "If a person kills a dog and thinks it is rabid then he is responsible for sending the head to Austin to find out if it has rabies. We don't have the funds to do it for them. If we catch a dog running loose and it has bit someone, especially a child at school, we feel we are responsible for finding out if the dog is rabid. If the dog is alive, we can have a veter narian come and look at it," Lt. Arvin Henry, supervisor of animal wardens,

"A lot of times, people call on rabid dogs, but it is the heat. People don't realize it is the heat and the dog is thirsty. Salavia coming out of the mouth doesn't always mean rabies," Ms. Vargas said.

If the animal shelter is called on a loose dog the owner will be warned to keep it put up, it if happens again the wardens will give the owner a $35 citation. If this has no effect, then the owner is cited again and the animal is

If a dog is kept in the shelter for any amount of time ther is a $10 fee to get him out. If the dog needs rabies shots then that is $5 and city tags are another $1. "Every dog that we release has to have a city tag.

"We do not chase cats. We have cages that we will let a person have for a $5 deposit. It is humanely impossible to catch a cat unless it is njured," Ms. Vargas said.

We also have skunk cages, but the best thing for getting rid of skunks is to put out mouth balls. If a skunk is under a house put out a cage, because we won't crawl under a house," Ms. Vargas said.

"Our animal people do a very good job. They are not commissioned officers but issue citations as citizens.

If a person needs help finding a missing pet, getting a new pet, or getting rid of nuisances they can call the City of Big Spring at 263-8311 and ask for ext. 67 or the Animal Shelter.

Mixed anxiety and depression is common in people over 65

by anxiety is common in at times aggravate the people over the age of 65, according to Thomas H. Crook, PhD, of the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH). Addressing a symposium on "Anxiety and Depression in the Elderly" explained that mixed anxiety-depression may be associated with very real environmental changes, or changes in neuromuscular, mental, and social capacities of the elderly representing serious losses to the individual involved. While available drugs for anxiety and depression may safe and effective in younger individuals, he said, emotional states of older patients. Side effects may produce confusional states and cardiovascular effects which could increase the dangers of falls and consequent serious injury in the frail, elderly patient.

Dr. Crook described a new antidepressant available in the U.S. as trazodone (Desyrel), and said it appeared to be a relatively safe agent for elderly patients and virtually free of anticholinergic effects (dry mouth, blurred vision, constipation, delayed urination, hypotension). (The medication also is Today, a tendency to reestablish family unity exists in our society. People need to be part of a special. group - a family - with all the special feelings and bonding it provides, she explains.

Taylor is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Even in marriage breakups, some positive feelings of being married still exist, the specialist says. Couples resort to separation, desertion or divorce when they choose not to stay married or when they cannot cope with with responsibilities of maintaining a particular relationship. In fact, for every two couples who marry this year, another couple in Texas will split, she

Increases in family breakups are most often related to social change acceptability of single lifestyles, later marriages and changing attitudes about infidelity, Taylor says. At the same time, society is more tolerant now of family splits, the search for in-dividual happiness, remarriage and step families, she says.

Remarriage offers a chance for commitment to another person and for reestablishing family unity. Just because a person is

Deciding on when to use credit

The decision to use credit is a personal one. Each person or family is different. Families have different amounts of money, as well as different wants and needs, resources and skills.

To decide if you should use credit, it is helpful to know credit means you can use the credit and the bad points.

Below are the advantages of using credit: Loss of income - using credit may help you make it through times when your income is not regular or is stopped for awhile.

Immediate Needs — Using

credit and make your payments on time, it gives you a good credit rating. Sales — Using credit, you may buy something while it is "on sale" even though you can't pay for it right then. Savings - Using credit can help you to save money.

Credit Costs Money -Usually when you use credit, you pay for it directly. If you don't know about the cost of credit, you could be paying a lot more for credit than you

Softball shoulder threatens to end career

Dear Dr. Donohue: My softball career ended in midseason because I found I could not throw the ball without developing pain. Am I doomed to spectator status? What do you recommend for training of an arm that falls apart in the fifth inning? - R.I.

I want you to continue your softball career. And first of all, I will assume that you have been examined and that nothing is amiss anatomically with your arm. Without proper arm conditioning, the repeated throwing of a ball at top speed is just too much for a normal arm to withstand. It can end up a total disaster area for some people, although some seem to be born with leather ligaments and tendons. The shoulder is the part most affected, because that is where maximum stress is exerted. Read the sports pages and you will read of highly-conditioned professionals having such shoulder trouble. Weekend beer leaguers are not exempt.

Since your shoulder is crying out for training, you have to respond. You must go to some lengths to assure flexibility of the muscles and tendons there.

So when your arm feels well, try these exerciese. First, grasp your hands behind your back. Bend at the waist and try to raise your arms as high as you can without pain. Hold for 20 seconds. Repeat. you will be able to raise them higher as time goes on.

A second exercies: Raise your elbow to try to touch your ear. Right elbow to right ear, left to left ear. The hand goes behind the head, and you should be able to increase that range in time. Hold for 20 seconds, repeat.

In response to reader requests, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems. Readers wishing this list can write him in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

DEAR ABBY: The wife of a professional photographer is "Baffled" because they've been friends with another couple for 20 years, but when it came time for their friends' daughter's wedding, another photographer was engaged to take the pictures. May I be "Dear Abby" for a

'Dear Baffled: Haven't you ever heard that it's not wise to mix friendship with business? Perhaps because this couple values your friendship so much, they hired an outside photographer.

"Reason No. 1: They want you to attend as a guest - not someone who has come there to work. (Taking pictures is a lot of work if it is done properly.)

"Reason No. 2: Even if your husband is the greatest photographer in the world, something could go wrong, or the bride might not like the shots, and she will scream. 'You ruined my day!' Then a 20-year-old friendship would

"Please give your friends the benefit of the doubt Believe me, they're doing you a big favor. SADDER BUT WISER

DEAR SADDER: "Understanding in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y." adds Reason No. 3:

"Your friend may have engaged another photographer becuase she feared that your husband might use his professional talents and materials without charging you, and this is her way of avoiding an embarrassing situation."

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to add my 2 cents' worth about wedding pictures: It doesn't really matter who takes them as long as they're taken by a professional. The worst mistake anyone can make is letting a friend or some member of the family take pictures of a wedding - or any other memorable occasion

I know. My brother was an amateur photographer, and some of his pictures were pretty good, so when he offered to take the pictures of my wedding I said OK.

That was the dumbest thing I've ever done. Some of the film was bad, and most of the pictures didn't turn out at all. Also, he was trying to make an impression on a girl at the time, so he brought her to the wedding, and, Abby, every single picture he took had this girl in it!

He just followed her around and took pictures of her. We do not have one really decent picture of the bride and groom. The famioy and members of the wedding party were totally ignored.

It's been years now, but every time I think of it I get mad all over again.

HAD IT WITH AMATEURS

DEAR HAD IT: If my readers can stand one more bit of recycled advice: "Hire the best photographer you can get to cover special occasions, because once the occasion has passed, it's gone forever. Don't rely on well-meaning amateurs just because they have a fortune in equipment and 'love' to take pictures."

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's booklet: "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Number 2 of a Series

Flo Watson

Behind the voice that answers the phone af First National are twenty-six years of dedicated service. Flo Watson went to work at First National in 1956. two years after she moved to Big Spring with her husband Berry and their two Flo's roots are in Crews, Texas, just on the edge of Runnels County. She grew up on the family farm where she learned to work. But the work turned out to be enjoyable because her father, John Edgar Simpson, loved children and made a game out of everything they did. He would get up in the morning. help his wife fix breakfast, then wake up their five children, loving and lifting them out of bed. When they went to the field, whoever got to the end of the row first got a prize. And the last one in the creek in the afternoon when work was finished was called a rotten egg.

Flo learned how to drive in a model T, driving from one side of the country roads to the other. But there was nobody out there, so it didn't matter all that much. She and her brothers and sisters were all driving by the time they were twelve or thirteen. Getting a driver's license was easy then. There was no written test and they didn't have to parallel park. The officer simply asked the applicants a few questions, then accompanied them on a two or three block

The school in Crews had only eleven grades. And all grades were in one building. After she graduated, Flo moved to Winters for her first job away from home: keeping house for one of her former teachers and taking care of her little boy. The job paid very little; room and board, mostly, but Flo enjoyed it because she liked her teacher. After doing that for a couple of years, Flo moved to Ballinger, where she married Berry. Soon after the marriage, they moved to Brownwood. It was the first of several moves the couple would make. Berry enlisted in the Marines and was sent to California for boot camp. Flo's aunt and uncle lived in Van Nuys, California and she went there to stay with them for awhile. It was during World War Two and several items were rationed. They would save all the gas ration stamps they could, getting some extra ones by trading shoe and sugar stamps. Then on week-ends, her aunt and uncle would take her to San Diego to see Berry. When her husband went overseas, Flo moved back to Crews where she raised chickens and cane, gathered eggs and made syrup. Flo was three monthe pregnant when Berry enlisted. He didn't get to see his daughter until she was eighteen months old.

After the war ended, Flo and Berry moved to Idaho, where Berry's brother had a place. Berry got a job there, but it was too cold and there was too much ice and snow, so the couple came back to Texas. Berry went to work for Wacker's, the variety store chain and the family went to Carisbad, New Mexico. Wacker's transferred Berry to Big Spring in 1954.

Flo got her job at the bank thru Clyde Angel, then a loan officer. The two had become acquainted at the First Baptist Church. She started as a file clerk, then posted, then worked in bookkeeping until a year ago, when she took the switchboard job.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed it," says Flo. I love talking to people, helping them over the phone." When she first went to the bank, she certainly didn't visualize being there twenty-six years. She didn't even think she would be in Big Spring that long. But it's home now. Berry has been retired nine years and wouldn't think of moving back to Ballinger, as were the original retirement

Flo's hobbles are horseback riding and water skiing. And she enjoys keeping in touch with her daughter, Shirley Ann Browning and her son Wesley Wade Watson. Shirley is married to a serviceman. They've spent most of their married life in Europe. Now they're in Spain. Wesley lives in Midland where he works for Southwestern Bell. Flo has taught a Sunday School class for a long time and for seven years taught a class for retarded children. Every Christmas, First National would give presents to the youngsters in the class.

Flo has developed lots of friends at First National during her twenty-six rears there. "It's sort of like family. We stick together. If somebody at the bank loses a loved one, there's food provided, flowers sent, and plenty of friendship and fellowship. I've just never seen any bunch of people who provide like those at First National."

Flo Watson: one of your friends at First National.

Many problems with fabrics stem from consumer carelessness - or a combination of that and other pitfalls, says the specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. One advancement that will help keep fabric costs down without lowering quality is the much faster loom.

Modern high-speed looms make fabrics more quickly and they use less energy. They need fewer production steps, and they create wider fabrics. All of this helps keep prices from soaring, the specialist says.

Another development is the application of dyes, sizing and other finishes they are foams instead of liquids.

One advantage here is more speed, which, in turn, means that more fabric can be processed in a day. Foam dyes and finishes require less energy and less chemicals than liquids. All of these factors keep prices, down, too.

A third major develop-ment involves fibers — in the garment industry and others.

Two big newsmakers are the extremely strong fibers and the hollow fibers.

Some are made into strong woven and nonwoven fabrics and cables. They are used for such things as airplane fusilages, tire cords and offshore oil-rig anchor cables. These textile products

Along with all the benefits, there are some problems resulting from textileindustry changes, Miss

Vanderpoorten says. "One major problem is the loss of color-fastness in dyes

"Many manufacturers are encouraging the use of dyes with poorer color-fastness because they believe that used for apparel.

consumers don't really need as much fastness as they've been given in the past, especially if using poorer dyes will help hold prices

So, many fabrics may fade after just a few launderings, she says. A consumer's only recourse is to return the article to the retailer or manufacturer with a letter explaining that fading is the reason for return.

Consumer care will help tomorrow's fabrics do the most for the money, the specialist points out.

Read labels and follow the instructions carefully, and learn about fabrics — what will hurt them and what won't, she advises.

Take fading, for example: it isn't always due to poorer in many acne preparations.

Rapid fading of fabrics in some cases is caused by a chemical called "benzoylperoxide," an ingredient

It will cause garments to fade, as well as drapes, upholstery, linens and even carpets. Before sending complaints, check your medicine cabinet.

How much longer does she plan to deliver newspapers? 'I couldn't no more tell you than a man on the moon, but I sure feel sorry for the next one that takes over. I've got everybody spoiled.

Tread lightly when breaking traditions traditional routines is a normal part of growing up. But, since the upcoming holiday season marks a time of family togetherness, teens must proceed with caution when trying to break established customs. "Change is a necessary part of life," explains Scott Ranks, the director of Adolescent Services at Hampstead Hospital in New Hampshire. "But if the change isn't handled sensitively, people can become hurt, disappointed, or even angry," he says. Although a desire to avoid the usual routine may be reasonable and understandable, any break with tradition is a change that takes some getting used to, the article

According to Sandra Dahl, a psychiatric social worker, the change you want is going to affect all the members of your family, not just you." She suggests teens take the other family members into consideration when attempting to break a family tradition, whether it's a desire to shop for gifts on your own for the first time or to spend New Year's Day with a friend instead of family

Since any change in tradition can be a delicate matter, here are some hints on how to bring up the subject to parents, as well as how to deal with their reactions:

"Before talking with your parents, think about what it would feel like to be in their position," Ms. Dahl counsels. "If you can understand how they might feel, you'll be better able to sympathize
