Perez guilty, gets 2 years' probation

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

It was 1 a.m. today when a weary six-man, six-woman jury, after 10 hours of deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty in the 118th District Court trial of Matias Lopez Perez, who was accused of threatening Big Spring police Officer Bobby Armstrong with a pistol. After returning the verdict the jury met for one more hour to assess two years' probation as punishment.

The 55-year-old Perez was found guilty of threatening Armstrong on Oct. 8, 1981, with the officer's pistol, while Armstrong attempted to arrest Perez' son, Roberto, on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

State District Judge Jim Gregg told the jury Perez could be sentenced to two to 10 years in prison and fined up to $5,000 for his aggravated assault conviction.

Defense attorney Sam Fadduol said earlier in the day that Perez "didn't need a conviction on his record. It's hard to live 55 years of clean living and see something like this happen." Fadduol did not indicate whether he would appeal the jury's decision.

Final arguments were presented to the jury yesterday until 1:55 p.m., at which time the jury broke for lunch and then began deliberating at 3 p.m. At 9 p.m. the jury went to dinner, coming back at 10 p.m. At 1 a.m. a tired foreman, W.J. Howard, announced the guilty verdict.

Within one hour after finding Perez guilty, the jury had decided punishment.

During his closing arguments, District Attorney Rick Hamby called Fadduol's defense "smoke and irrelevance." Hamby said the jury simply had to prove the indictment which said Perez knowingly threatened Officer Armstrong with bodily injury while pointing a pistol at him.

Hamby called the officer a "thin blue line" between the community and evil, and said it was up to the jury to support this "blue line."

"I don't believe Matias Perez is an evil man, but what he did was evil and wrong," Hamby told the jury.

Fadduol, on the other hand, said testimony given by officers on the scene was a conspiracy to cover up what had really happened the night of Oct. 8, 1981.

Fadduol also asked the jury to consider Perez' past history. "He doesn't drink, smoke cigarettes, own a gun, or go looking for trouble on the streets. You don't live 55 years like that to throw it away."

Officers Armstrong and Gary Parker testified Perez had pointed the pistol at Armstrong, while Armstrong struggled with Roberto Perez on the ground.

Perez testified that he had taken the pistol from the officer because he was afraid Armstrong was going to shoot Roberto.

PROUD ARTIST — Bill Brooks stands next to his three-piece stained glass window, which he finished installing in Trinity Baptist Church yesterday. Brooks is one of the few, and maybe the only, commercial stained glass manufacturers in Big Spring.

'Prettiest stained glass in Texas' installed in church

By BILL ELDER
City Editor

Signs and wonders. "I think it's gorgeous," Pastor Claude Craven was saying. "The prettiest in Texas."

"Well, maybe in Howard County," Bill Brooks replied sheepishly.

"No, I'm going to go with Texas. Absolutely," the pastor said.

The two men were standing in front of a large stained-glass window Brooks had constructed for Craven's church, Trinity Baptist Church on 11th Place. Brooks installed the window (actually a decoration, since it hangs against a brick wall) yesterday afternoon with the aid of Jack Barber, owner of Barber Glass & Mirror.

For the 41-year-old Brooks, perhaps the only commercial designer of stained glass in Big Spring, it was the biggest stained glass project he'd ever undertaken.

"This is the biggest one," he affirmed. He built it out of his one-man studio on Fourth Street, painstakingly putting together over 1,200 pieces of material to create a three-section Biblical scene. Each section measures about seven by nine feet. Actual construction time was three months, Brooks said.

Symbols in the glass, framed by a cool dark blue background, include a dove and wheat — and of course, a Bible and a cross. Hung against a wall behind the church pulpit, the whole scene is backlit by 1,600 watts of lighting.

It would be enough to make any pastor happy — particularly the pastor of Trinity Baptist, since the glass apparently will be ready for unveiling during this weekend's "homecoming" festivities (there still were some bugs to work out, like widening the big hole in the wall through which the glass is viewed).

After the glass was installed, the backlights were switched on and the rest of the lights turned off. It sure looked like a window now, with the backlights creating a bright, sunshiny effect.

Brooks and his wife sat in a back pew, quietly admiring the scene.

Signs and wonders.

Domino players

They're a dedicated but dwindling bunch

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

They almost always are older men. And most of them started young.

Virtually anywhere in the country, you can find older men playing dominoes, often in some rundown building that exists only for that one purpose. The rooms rattle with friendly banter and good-natured questions on the wisdom of a certain play.

Domino players came out of the woodwork this week to move into the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, as competition opened Thursday in the fifth annual National "Texas-Style" Partnership Domino Tournament.

They came from all over the southwest, and they left most of their banter behind as they came into Big Spring. They sit among the spit cans with cigars and cigarettes clenched in their mouths, some with wads of tobacco in their cheeks, and furrow their brows as they contemplate their next play. The pent-up garrulity comes bursting out at the end of each hand, though.

C.E. Cline is a typical domino player.

The 64-year old "really can't remember" when he started playing. "My brother and I started playing at home when we were just kids — there was nothing else to do."

"The longer I played, the better I liked it," he says as he waits for a deal in his striped overalls and cowboy hat.

He endured an eight-hour drive from his home in Purcell, Okla., to compete this week in his third Big Spring tournament.

The locust-like buzz-and-click of dominoes being shuffled in the room almost drowns out his words.

"I used to be good — a long time ago," he says, a face-splitting grin covering his face. "You know, you get up around 100 and you play, you get forgetful."

"My partner (Tommy Cobb, a man in his early 50s) was just a schoolboy — not even in high school — when I was at my best," Cline says.

The point may be arguable, for Cobb and Cline won a world championship in Carnegie, Okla., in 1980.

"The longer I played, the hotter I got. You win a few like that, and it makes you want to play more," Cline says.

CONTEMPLATING A MOVE — C.E. Cline of Purcell, Okla., casts a wary eye on the domino table during Thursday's competition in the National "Texas-Style" Partnership Domino Tournament held here through Saturday.

Cline concentrates on Texas-style dominoes, a game in which players draw seven dominoes and only the first double can be played as a spinner (a domino which may be abutted on all four sides).

"It's just a better game," he says of the relatively uncomplicated Texas style. "That 42 — I just don't like it at all. I like straight dominoes."

Although he loves the game, Cline concedes that domino-playing may be a dying sport.

"Actually, it looks like it is," he says with a twinge of sadness. "The young fellas are not interested. They've got these automobiles, and when they've got some idle time, they like to get out in their automobiles."

"I've got a boy here, and he's 30 years old," Cline says as he nods across the room. "With the exception of this boy here (an 18- or 19-year-old playing partners with his father), he's probably the youngest one here."

Cline and Cobb didn't fare too well today, but they'll be back tomorrow. Every team is guaranteed twenty-two 250-point games in the round robin tournament, tournament director John Weeks said.

Tournament play among the 58 teams will continue through Saturday, beginning at 8 a.m. each day and lasting until all the games needed that day have been played, Weeks said. "We hope it'll be over by 5 p.m. both days," he said.

Israeli jets, gunboats attack strongholds in West Beirut

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets and gunboats bombarded guerrilla-held west Beirut today, shattering the U.S.-mediated cease-fire after presidential envoy Philip C. Habib reportedly failed to get a commitment from the PLO to leave Lebanon.

The barrages started at about 4 p.m. (9 a.m. CDT), and the Tel Aviv command said: "The Israel Defense Forces does not see itself committed to keeping a one-sided cease-fire."

It said the guerrillas had breached the cease-fire that went into effect Wednesday by launching mortars at Israeli positions Thursday and firing Katyusha rockets and small arms today.

The bombardment followed a 20-minute artillery duel between Israeli forces and the PLO fighters near Beirut's paralyzed international airport. Palestinian gunners opened fire at the divebombing Israeli jets but none was seen hit.

Israel's prime minister was quoted as saying earlier today that Habib had not received a commitment from the PLO to leave Lebanon, and Lebanon's prime minister threatened to suspend talks with Habib if Israel maintained its blockade of the guerrilla enclave.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin told his Parliament's Foreign Affairs and Security Committee if there was no negotiated solution soon, Israel would resume its bombing of PLO-held west Beirut or order an assault on the city, Armed Forces Radio reported.

Lebanese Prime Minister Shafiq Wazzan said in a nationally televised statement that Israel's blockade on electricity, water, food and fuel to west Beirut was "one form of military option that negates the political option and makes us wonder why then these negotiations and why carry on."

"We have laid down these realities before Mr. Habib frankly and we shall wait for the outcome of his efforts to take certain positions on the domestic and international levels," Wazzan is Lebanon's official intermediary between Habib and PLO chief Yasser Arafat.

Israel's state radio quoted Begin as saying the Palestine Liberation Organization had offered to withdraw to eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, from where the guerrillas would later be evacuated to several Arab countries.

Habib rejected the proposal and insisted the guerrillas should go directly to Syria and from there be distributed among Arab countries willing to take them in, the radio quoted Begin as saying.

Reports from Beirut said a Lebanese army official and Arafat's political adviser had drawn up a tentative plan

Meter readers will be scooting around town

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

There's a new motorcycle gang in town and they're coming to your neighborhood.

City-employed gas and water meter readers soon will be buzzing through Big Spring's streets on two Honda Passport mopeds and two Kawasaki all-terrain cycles recently purchased by the city. The two- and three-wheelers replace a single vehicle previously used by all city meter readers.

Four employees are learning to operate the cycles in a 22-hour beginner safety course that will conclude with a written and a practical test.

The course, to be taught on three consecutive Thursdays by police Detective Robert Stapp, began July 22. And although some students are licensed motorcyclists, yesterday's practice run on the obstacle course caused some to feel like kids learning to ride bicycles.

"It's not as easy as it looks," shouted one rider as several traffic cones keeled over.

THE COURSE requires riders to complete 12 different range practices in "not less than 20 seconds," Stapp said. Points are lost for down- or up-shifting incorrectly, stalling, touching boundary lines or cones, and touching feet to the ground.

"Whether you're skinny or fat, you have to make it through" the course marked with traffic cones set about 18 inches apart, a meter reader said.

In another range course, students

Action reaction: Public records

Q. Why is the print for your 'Public Records' column so small?

Floods reported in Amarillo

By The Associated Press
Heavy thunderstorms in West Texas and the Panhandle have dumped as much as four inches of rain on some parts of Amarillo, causing flash flooding in an area near a man-made lake.
Lawrence Lake overflowed Thursday night and flooded some storefronts in a business district. Police closed off streets around the lake to prevent further flooding from waves made by passing cars.
The flooding occurred in the same area where a Labor Day flood last year caused $20 million worth of damage.
One resident of the lake's watershed area said he measured 4.1 inches of rain during the night.
Thunderstorm activity across a wide area of North, South and West Texas was triggered by a low pressure trough that extended from the Northern Panhandle southwestward into the mountains of Southwest Texas.
Elsewhere, skies ranged from cloudy over the northern half of the state and mostly clear over the southern half.
Early morning temperatures were in the 60s in West and Northwest Texas and in the 70s and 80s elsewhere.
The National Weather Service forecast called for more heavy thunderstorms over the Panhandle and South Plains and scattered thundershowers over North Central Texas and from Southeast Texas westward into the hill country. Elsewhere, the forecast calls for clear to partly cloudy skies and warm.

FORECAST
West Texas Cloudy and cooler most sections today. Scattered showers and thunderstorms more numerous and locally heavy Panhandle and South Plains today. Precipitation decreasing Saturday.
EXTENDED FORECAST
West Texas? Isolated thunderstorms mainly afternoon and evenings, otherwise sunny days and mostly fair nights. Highs near 90 Panhandle to 103 south. Lows mid-60s Panhandle to mid-70s southeast.
Saturday mid 80s north to mid 90s south except to 102 Big Bend valleys.

Reagan, Gandhi meet

Seek closer relations between India, America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says his "dialogue of discovery" with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will lead to renewed cooperation between the United States and India, despite differences between the nations.
"Although our countries may travel separate paths from time to time, our destination remains the same," Reagan told Mrs. Gandhi Thursday night at a state dinner in her honor.
"It is important," Mrs. Gandhi responded, "to keep in touch and exchange views even if it is not possible to agree on all the issues."
Although the two leaders made it clear that differences remain, they spoke of the goals and democratic traditions their nations share.
One U.S. official, who asked not to be identified by name, said that even if the meetings produce no changes in basic policies, "I think they dramatically improved the atmosphere of the relationship" between the two countries.
During the talks, Mrs. Gandhi invited Reagan to visit India and U.S. officials indicated he likely will accept.
Mrs. Gandhi, who is in the United States for nine days, planned to address the National Press Club today and to appear Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press." Her tour also includes stops in New York City, Los Angeles and Honolulu.
During her four-day official visit to Washington, the first since 1971, at least one longtime irritant to Indian-U.S. relations appeared to have been resolved.

It was announced that India and the United States agreed to a plan by which France will replace the United States as the supplier of low-enriched uranium for the Indian nuclear power plant at Tarapur near Bombay. India in turn will agree not to reprocess any of the spent fuel without U.S. approval.
Nicholas Veliotis, undersecretary of state for South Asian affairs, said the compromise broke an impasse that arose in 1978 when Congress adopted the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Act. The act barred shipments of nuclear fuel to any country which does not adopt international safeguards for all of its nuclear facilities, a step India has declined to take.
India exploded a nuclear device in 1974 with plutonium created by reprocessing spent fuel from another reactor.
Earlier, Reagan told a reporter the talks succeeded in changing the tone of U.S.-Indian relations long troubled by U.S. complaints of India's ties with the Soviet Union and Indian worries about U.S. military supplies to Pakistan.
"I think really that what it's all about is that problems in the world are caused by people talking about each other instead of two countries talking with each other," Reagan said.
"I think we've established a better understanding between us and it's very evident here tonight," the president added.

DINNER TOAST — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India raises a glass to toast President Reagan during a state dinner at the White House Thursday evening. Earlier in the day the two leaders met for a session in the Oval Office.

Man attacks clinic; kills three, then himself

By ROBERT E. GORLACH
Associated Press Writer
HAMTRAMCK, Mich. — A gunman who walked into a medical clinic and killed three people with a stolen pistol before fatally shooting himself had been treated there the previous day, his brother said.
Police said they were considering several possible motives for the shootings Thursday afternoon at the Hamtramck Family Medical Clinic in this town, which is encircled by Detroit, but they would not give details.
The gunman, 33-year-old Pjetar Gjokaj, walked into the clinic and asked to see a doctor, said police Lt. Larry Kulhavi. Gjokaj then fatally shot Dr. Bahman Morafah, 35, a receptionist and the clinic's owner with a 9mm automatic pistol before shooting himself in the chest, said Kulhavi.
THE OWNER, Uprial Lee Tate, 52, of Oak Park, and receptionist Nancy Antoncew, 28, of Hamtramck, were pronounced dead at Detroit Receiving Hospital.

The gunman's brother, George, said Gjokaj received an injection at the clinic Wednesday for an illness which required hospitalization for four days last week. Police Sgt. Don Milewski said the gunman was being treated for a urinary tract infection, but he declined to elaborate.
Gjokaj "told me that he (Morafah) was a good doctor. He said he was the best doctor he ever had," his brother said.
Ms. Tate was shot at least six times in the chest and abdomen and Ms. Antoncew was shot at least four times in the chest, said hospital spokeswoman Penelope Anderson. Morafah, who lived in Pontiac, was shot at least twice in the chest.
Police records showed the gun to be stolen, Milewski said.
Gjokaj, an Albanian who immigrated to the United States from Yugoslavia about 13 years ago and recently became a naturalized citizen, owned two restaurants in the neighborhood and also worked for Chrysler Corp., neighbors said.
He was married and had four children, police said.
Police said Gjokaj entered the clinic around 2:30 p.m. and waited about 30 minutes before being called.
"I noticed that he was jittery, very jittery. He kept crossing his legs constantly," said 19-year-old Rose Presswood, who sat next to the gunman as they waited in the clinic.
AFTER BEING called, Gjokaj was led by a medical assistant toward an examination room, but the gunman stopped outside the reception area where the doctor and the two women were standing, Milewski said.
The medical assistant then heard several shots and attempted to lock herself in the examination room. However, Gjokaj burst into the room and told the assistant she could leave and that he would wait for police to come. She then ran out of the building, Milewski said.
Police arrived minutes later, but did not storm the clinic because they feared the gunman might have hostages, Milewski said.

Falwell critical of administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell, president of the Moral Majority, is criticizing the Reagan administration for dragging its heels on anti-abortion, school prayer and tuition tax legislation.
If President Reagan wants to convince conservatives of his genuine commitment to those issues, "all the people around him will have to begin doing everything in the executive branch capability to press those through the Congress," Falwell said Thursday.
"I would like to see a vote on those issues before November," Falwell said at Family Forum II, a leadership training conference for conservatives.
Falwell said anti-abortion legislation is needed most. Calling abortion a "national sin," he said it is the biggest threat to the traditional family.
He also said the Moral Majority will make a "massive effort" to work with clergy in registering one million new voters before the November elections.
The Moral Majority, which claims to have three million members, including 82,000 clergy, proved to be an influence in the election of various conservative candidates in 1980.
Falwell proclaimed that he was "both encouraged and anxious" about the Reagan administration so far.
"My anxiety is with 2½ years left in his (Reagan's) first four years — and I certainly hope he has eight — I'm a little anxious that we have not had the same aggressive support of those three items that the balanced budget amendment of the last week enjoyed," Falwell said.

Fair crowd watches as mummy unwrapped

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Scientists unwrapped hundreds of yards of cloth from a 600-year-old Peruvian mummy to reveal the remains of a 2½-year-old child with a jewel on its forehead in a ceremony opposed by a group of American Indians.
A hushed crowd of about 800 people watched Thursday night as 13 white-robed Peruvian and American scientists spent 1½ hours slowly unwrapping the funeral bundle.
Beneath hundreds of yards of wool and wads of brown and white cotton, scientists found the child's body with a jewel affixed to its forehead. Also in the bundle were three child-size tunics, a silver ingot, shells, a mother-of-pearl necklace and several small carved figures.
"Somebody thought a lot of that little child to go to all that trouble," said University of Tennessee forensic pathologist William Bass, who helps law enforcement agencies in several states identify corpses.
The child probably died of malnutrition, said Bass, adding he could not tell the baby's sex.
Among dignitaries attending was Fernando Schwalb, first vice president of Peru and the South American nation's ambassador to the United States.
The unwrapping was supposed to have been limited to invited guests — mostly fair officials and civic leaders — with the press and public excluded.
But many reporters attended, and after the ceremony photographers and TV crews took pictures of the mummy while spectators filed across the amphitheater stage for a closer look.

The National Congress of American Indians had hoped to prevent that scene. Ronald P. Andrade, executive director of the Washington-based organization, urged Christians and Jews to boycott the fair because the unwrapping was sacrilegious.
"It's very improper based on religion, whether it's our religion or anybody else's," Andrade said. "We think our dead should be accorded the same respect as other dead. But apparently some people think it's OK to open up Indian burials."
No protesters attended the ceremony.
Arturo Jimenez, a Peruvian archaeologist who directed the unwrapping, said the child probably lived from 600 to 800 years ago. The date would place it shortly before the Incan Empire, which began about 1476 and vanished soon after the conquistador Francisco Pizarro invaded Peru in 1531.
X-rays taken earlier of the mummy had shown some of the objects buried with it, leading officials of Peru's World's Fair exhibit to speculate that the remains were those of a tribal chieftan. The mummy, buried standing up, was recently unearthed near Lima, Peru's capital city.

Jimenez, who at one point removed the skull so the audience could see it, defended the unwrapping as an event of historic and scientific importance.
"Tonight we are going to interrupt his dream," Jimenez told the crowd. "We should look at it with respectful eyes. This is not a spectacle, it is a ceremony."
Several spectators agreed.
"I don't think it's sacrilegious," said Peggy Tate of Knoxville. "I think it's history. If the person inside knew anything about it, that would be different."

East may leave GOP over anti-smoking bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John East, whose home state of North Carolina is a big tobacco producer, is threatening to leave the Republican Party if an anti-smoking bill introduced by some of his GOP colleagues becomes law.
East launched into bitter criticism of his party Thursday as the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee began a session to fashion the Comprehensive Smoking Prevention Education Act.
"I find it increasingly difficult to recognize the Republican Party these days. It's becoming the party of big taxes and, now, big government," he said.

"If this becomes law and sets a precedent for control of other industries, I could not in good conscience associate myself with that kind of political party," he said. "I might have to... become (ah) independent."
East's repeated asking of what he called "fundamental philosophical questions as to the role of government in contemporary society" prompted the committee chairman, Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, to warn against filibustering.
Similar legislation is pending in the House.

SELECTING FRESH VEGETABLES — Look for freshness when selecting fruits and vegetables. When choosing leafy green vegetables, make sure the outside leaves are green and fresh with no wilted or brown edges

Freshness counts in selecting food

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Singles, newlyweds and other folks often have problems selecting fresh fruits and vegetables when doing their grocery shopping. What should you look for? Here's a hint.

When buying fruits and vegetables, look for freshness. They should be comparatively dry with no sign of decay. Excessive moisture hastens decay. Signs of decay may mean soft bruised spots, splits in the skin and/or foul odor.

Buy fruits and vegetables at peak harvest. That is the time for the best prices and quality.

Don't buy damaged fruits and vegetables. They will not last long and will have very little good parts to eat. Floppy or shriveled carrots, carrots with green areas on top, or topped carrots with a new top growth are poor selections. They should be firm and totally orange in color.

When buying leafy vegetables, avoid those with wilted looking or brown edges. Don't buy soft tomatoes or ones with green or yellow areas. Also don't buy tomatoes with growth cracks around the stem scar. Tomatoes should be red and totally firm. If you buy green tomatoes, place them in a warm spot to ripen. Don't put them in the refrigerator first.

Onions with thick hollow, wooden centers in the necks or large green areas also aren't a good choice. Onions with sprouts indicate they have been stored for a long time.

Smell the stem scar on cantalope. If it smells good and like you think a cantalope should smell then go ahead and buy it. If not, leave it. You may have to compare the smells of several to be sure.

Celery should be firm and light green with fresh looking leaves, not limp and wilted.

Don't buy more fruits and vegetables than you can store and eat while fresh. When buying large quantities, you can often get a price break, but be sure to freeze, preserve or store the fruits or vegetables so losses won't occur. Canning is one method of preserving them. Many cookbooks give instructions for canning and preserving foods.

Below is a list of peak harvest months for Texas produce.

January and February: broccoli, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, spinach, lettuce and grapefruit. March: same foods as January and February plus oranges.

April: carrots, strawberries, oranges and onions.

May: tomatoes, cantaloups, sweet corn, cucumbers, strawberries and onions.

June: cantaloups, sweet corn, cucumbers, honeydew melons, tomatoes, onions, green peppers, watermelons and peaches.

July: cantaloups, cucumbers, watermelons, onions, peaches and peanuts.

August: cantaloups, watermelons, onions and peanuts.

September: carrots, sweet potatoes, watermelons, and peaches.

October: Carrots, cucumbers, sweet potatoes, lettuce, avocados, pecans and peanuts.

November: Carrots, cucumbers, green peppers, tomatoes, pecans, avocados and peanuts.

December: Spinach, cabbage, cauliflower, cucumbers, green peppers, tomatoes, peanuts, oranges, lettuce, grapefruit, pecans and avocados.

Dr. Donohue

Mastocytosis

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you please publish some information about a problem diagnosed as mastocytosis, its cause, treatment, etc.? — B.W.

Mastocytosis is a rapid growth of certain cells, called "mast" cells. The cause is not known. These cells begin their rapid growth in the body tissue and in some organs. It is found that they contain histamine and other chemical substances that account for the chief symptoms — flushing, itching, hives, blood pressure drop, increased heart rate and diarrhea. All of these symptoms can be due to those chemicals released by the mast cells.

Sometimes the mast cell growth is confined to the skin, and this happens mostly in children. Then the condition is called urticaria pigmentosa. The predominant symptoms are the flushing, itching and hives. It goes away in a year or two.

Because histamine is involved in the cause of symptoms, it stands to reason that the antihistamine drugs ought to be useful in controlling them. But that doesn't always work.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I saw a program on TV describing the use of "Procordia," a medicine which is used to clean out arteries. If that is so, bypass operations should be no longer necessary. Please comment. — W.F.M.

The generic name for Procordia is nifedipine. It is a good drug, but it cannot work miracles. It can widen heart muscle arteries which have been narrowed from spasm, and thereby get more blood through them. It doesn't clean deposits out of arteries. It is not a Drano. The bypass operation will be with us a while longer.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For 12 days I had a virus infection the doctor called herpes stomatitis. I never had such a sore throat in my life. It lasted for seven days. Would you please explain what kind of infection this is? Does it leave any lasting effects? — Mrs. H.E.

Herpes stomatitis is another one of the infections caused by the herpes virus, Type 1. The usual sequence of events is this: First there is a sudden onset of chills, fever and mouth pain; next, small blisters appear on the lips, covering them, the lymph nodes in the neck swell; the sores generally heal in 10 to 14 days.

There are no lasting effects, but the virus may reappear at a later date, but its infection is milder than the first time. There is no special treatment for herpes stomatitis, although numbing mouthwashes can ease the pain and aid in swallowing.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please tell us the correct upper and lower blood pressure reading for a woman who is 70 years old, and in otherwise good health? — B.M.D.

Rather than tell you an absolute high reading for your age, I'll just say that for a woman of any age, the upper reading (first one) should not exceed 160. The lower reading should be under 95. In fact, some say it should be under 90. The lower you bring those readings generally, the better off you are.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Here is a question I would appreciate an honest answer to: Would it be injurious to a person's health to smoke blended, used coffee in a pipe normally used for smoking tobacco? — E.M.B.

Yours is an interesting question and one for which I do not have an answer, honest or dishonest. In fact, I am answered only by strange looks when I ask colleagues. So, for both our sakes, I am publishing your letter as an appeal for help. Until then, I would suggest holding off on the practice, since I cannot think of any good it could be doing you.

Dear Dr. Donohue: You may not be a language expert, but you are a doctor. As such, have you any idea why we use the article "the" in front of some diseases, like "the mumps" or "the flu"? We don't say, "the" arthritis or "the" pneumonia. — S.O.

I don't know. I need help again. I do know that in Canada people do not put the article "the" in front of the word hospital. I am equally in the dark on that.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Light fingers puts fear in heart

DEAR ABBY: My 19-year-old daughter has been acting very moody and strange these last weeks. Finally she told me what was bothering her. It seems she was caught shoplifting in one of the large department stores in the mall. She said her purse was searched and a lipstick was found (under $2) she hadn't paid for. She was asked to sign a waiver using her Social Security number, saying she wouldn't sue the store for detainment. The people at the store wrote down a physical description of her (height, weight, hair color, eyes, etc.), and she was told they would keep that information in the store. She is not allowed to enter that store for three years!

This is making her sick with worry. What will they do with that information, Abby? Will it be used against her if she applies for employment anywhere in town? She said they didn't call the police, but a security man from the store read her her "rights" and they questioned her in the manager's office. She's a good girl and has never been in any kind of trouble before. She is petrified to go job hunting for fear the store will circulate the paperwork on her. How serious is this? Does she have a criminal record now? Please rush me your answer.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Unless the policy of this store differs from those with which I am familiar, your daughter need not fear that this information will be circulated anywhere. She was only apprehended, detained and warned not to come into the store for three years.

Go to the store, talk to the manager and ask him the questions you've asked me. It will give both you and your daughter much peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for three years, but we lived together for two years before that.

When people ask me how long I've been married, should I stick to the facts and say, "Three years," or should I explain that we lived together for two years first? Or doesn't the time we lived together count?

TRUTHFUL

DEAR TRUTHFUL: The time you lived together counts, but not as a marriage. When asked how long you've been married, say, "Three years." Period.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago I married a great kisser — his best feature. For 23 years, I put up with his tobacco clipping, chewing and smelly breath.

Two years ago I refused to kiss him unless he stopped chewing cigar clippings. He wouldn't stop, and I haven't kissed him since.

Who should give in? Sex without a kiss is a bummer.

MISSING KISSING

DEAR MISSING: You gave him a choice: tobacco chewing or your kisses. He chose the tobacco. Now the choice is yours: sex without a kiss, or sex with tobacco-flavored kisses. Choose whichever you hate the least.

That old chickering piano has a colorful history

By ROCH THORNTON
Associated Press Writer
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)

—It once belonged to a U.S. senator and the famed Gen. John "Black Jack" Pershing. It survived a fire that wiped out most of Pershing's family at the Presidio in San Francisco in 1915. And then, it disappeared for decades.

The 100-year-old piano now belongs to the Wyoming State Museum, donated recently by a woman who bought the piano 25 years ago from a disgruntled Cheyenne landlady for $100. A penniless soldier had left it in lieu of a rent payment.

"We consider it the greatest donation we've received in 1982," said museum spokeswoman Linda Rollins. "It's in remarkably good condition for its age."

Testimony to the piano's resilience is the fact that pianist Luciano Trebse played a concert on it to mark its debut at the museum in May.

The piano's eventful history began in 1882. Wyoming rancher Francis E. Warren — Wyoming's first state governor and a U.S. senator for 39 years — bought the piano new that year from the Chickering Piano Co. of Boston, Mrs. Rollins said.

Warren gave it to his daughter, Helen Frances, when she married the 44-year-old Pershing in 1905.

Pershing led the U.S. force that pursued Mexican freedom fighter Pancho Villa in 1916, and also commanded the American Expeditionary Force in France in World War I.

He was away from home on Aug. 15, 1915, when the upper story of his family's quarters at the Presidio burned down and his wife and three daughters were killed. Pershing's 5-year-old son — and the Chickering — survived.

Mrs. Rollins said that the piano eventually was shipped back to Warren's Belvoir Ranch southwest of Cheyenne. After several years at the ranch, the piano disappeared — until 1947, the year 14-year-old Judy Mason became its new owner.

Miss Mason, now married and living in San Diego, said that her mother had given her $100 and told her to buy the best piano available. She answered a newspaper advertisement placed by a rooming house landlady, who told her that the piano was "horrible" and that she probably wouldn't want it. But the young girl knew she had found a bargain.

After taking possession of the piano, she sent its number to Chickering Piano Co. and learned that Warren had bought it 75 years earlier. The senator's old housekeeper also identified the instrument, according to Mrs. Rollins.

Miss Mason moved to California, leaving the Chickering with a friend in Phoenix, Ariz., because the new home in San Diego was too small.

"We didn't contact her," Mrs. Rollins said. "She just came out of the blue last September or October and said she felt the piano should be back home so the citizens of Wyoming could enjoy it."

Lear group targets Texas

Wants to combat right-wing protests of schoolbooks

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — A national group formed by television producer Norman Lear and others to combat the "New Right," has opened a Texas office so it can join the fight over adoption of textbooks in the state.

Michael Hudson, Texas coordinator for People for the American Way, told a Capitol news conference Thursday the group sees Texas as the main battleground in the war against textbook censorship.

Hudson, a Houston attorney who formerly served on Houston Congressman Mickey Leland's staff, said he has asked to testify at textbook selection hearings, which begin Aug. 9.

"Texas is the second largest market for textbook sales, accounting for about eight percent of the nation's textbook purchases," Hudson said. "Education experts and publishers agree that a textbook that is rejected by Texas is almost guaranteed to be an economic failure nationally and results in either pre-censorship or removal of the book entirely."

STATE BOARD of Education rules do not provide for presentations other than specific protests at the hearings. Hudson complained. Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum had not yet responded to his request to testify, Hudson said.

"Important as the textbook selection process is, the public now has only one formal way to influence which books are adopted — by filing protests," Hudson told reporters. "Texas citizens who want to defend a book or who disagree with protests against certain books have no forum in which to be heard."

...Texas is battleground

Texas was chosen by the group, which has 2,500 members in the state but is based in Washington, Hudson said, because of the state's economic impact on publishers and because of the presence of Mel and Norma Gabler of Longview.

The Gablers are nationally active and are the most vocal conservative protesters against textbooks that come before the state textbook selection committee each year.

Hudson said of 900 pages of protests filed during the 1981 Texas hearings, the Gablers were responsible for 600 pages.

It is difficult to determine the accuracy of the Gablers' claims of success, Hudson said, because it is not clear which books were rejected for what reason during the lengthy selection process.

"The Gablers are part of a national network of censors, which also includes Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority and Phyllis Schlafly's Eagle Forum," Hudson said. "Members of this network are working to purge schools of all material that encourages thinking and discussion or is inconsistent with their narrow religious and political orthodoxy."

He said he had no figures on the success of more liberal groups, such as the National Organization for Women, in protesting books from a different standpoint.

Hudson distributed a list of sample protests filed by the Gablers this year.

A HOMEWORKING text suggests, "Find out how school rules are made in your school," the list said. "Find out how they can be changed. Describe the procedure to your classmates."

Plane overloaded, investigators report

By KRISTIN GAZLAY
Associated Press Writer

LINDALE, Texas — A light plane was so overloaded it could not climb above the trees fringing a private runway and crashed into a dense wood at a religious commune, killing 12 people, federal investigators said.

The dead included eight children and Keith Gordon Green, a gospel recording star who headed the Last Days Ministries, a commune in the rolling hills near Lindale.

The plane was flying in a tail-down, nose-up situation, said Warren V. Wandel of the National Transportation Safety Board.

"The shift of balance was to the rear and it just couldn't climb," he said Thursday. The Cessna 414 nosedived into a gully surrounded by heavy brush and trees about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, almost immediately after taking off from an airstrip owned by the commune.

Wandel said the plane carried 231 pounds over its limit and only had seven seats. He said his preliminary investigation indicated the overloading was the cause of the crash.

Wandel said the maximum weight allowed on the aircraft would have been 6,350 pounds. But he said the plane carried 6,581 pounds and the weight was disproportionate tionately high in the back of the aircraft.

"Both engines were generating power at impact," said Wandel. He estimated the plane never climbed higher than 75 to 100 feet.

Green, 27, ran Last Days Ministries, a commune that sits on about 500 acres of wooded hills.

Other victims included Green's daughter, Bethany Grace Green, 2, and son, Josiah David Green, 3. Diedre M. Smalley, 32, her husband, John C. Smalley, 37, their children, twins James and John Smalley, 7, Daniel Henry Smalley, 4, Timothy Neil Smalley, 3, Kathryn Elizabeth Smalley, 2, Mrs. Smalley's son by a previous marriage, Chet Allen Hysel, 11, and pilot Don Burmeister, 36, of Lindale. The Smalley family was from Simi Valley, Calif.

Wandel said the plane was traveling at about 76 knots when it clipped some 22- to 25-foot-tall trees about a quarter mile from the end of the runway.

"It went 150 feet and landed on its belly in the ravine. The fire happened when the tanks were scraped against the ground and ruptured," he said.

He said no structural faults were found in the plane.

Bank charters granted

AUSTIN (AP) — Charters approved in an emergency session cleared the way for two new banks to open today and takeover for two East Texas banks that failed, said Deputy State Banking Commissioner Glen Pool.

Depositors in the closed Guaranty Bond State Bank of Redwater and the Bowie County State Bank of Hooks will automatically become depositors in the two new banks scheduled to open at 9 a.m. today in the same locations, said Pool.

The charters were approved during an emergency session of the State Banking Board Thursday night for the New First Bank And Trust, Redwater, and First Bank And Trust, Hooks, said Pool.

"We have approved both banks, they are totally in business," Deputy State Banking Commissioner Glen Pool said.

The two banks near Texarkana voluntarily closed their doors Wednesday because of "questionable loans," officials said. State bank inspectors who went to the jointly owned banks for a routine visit three weeks ago discovered the problem loans, said State Banking Commissioner Robert Stewart.

The failed banks' depositors have not had access to their money since the banks closed Wednesday. But the deposits were guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which protects most amounts up to $100,000.

SPACE CENTER, Texas (AP) — A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman says America's first space baby, who developed a breathing problem shortly after birth, has been taken off a respirator and is "doing really well."

The four-day-old infant was taken off the respirator and breathing on his own Thursday, Nesbitt said. "He's doing really well."

RIPPLES DON'T CHANGE A THING

Ripples do not move water—they are only the marks of a momentary disturbance. Neat, orderly, symmetrical as they appear—they're just the "remains of a splash."

How often we've tried to make waves—and they turned out to be merely ripples. Our efforts brought no new flow of thought or action. We simply interrupted the tranquility. Or was it the stagnation?

There are new currents stirring today—positive, refreshing, hopeful currents. There are reverent, responsive people who believe it can become a better world.

Why don't you join the folks who are tired of making ripples who when they see a need or a problem plunge in to help?

You'll find many such people exploring the spiritual wells and springs. Their earnestness and enthusiasm is giving renewed energy to our churches. They would like to share with you their Christian opportunities and challenges.

Kelly ministers at prison

By RHONDA WOODALL
 Church Editor
 When the federal prison camp opened in Big Spring three years ago, Jerry Kelly was appointed to the position of chaplain. He also has served as a prison chaplain in El Paso and Englewood, Colo.
 Kelly became interested in the prison ministry when he was on the Colorado Council of Church Task Force on Criminal Justice. When Kelly was first asked to be a chaplain at the prison in Englewood, Colo., he refused. "I later asked for a year's leave of absence from my church to take a training course at the prison. I had an anxiety when I first went to the prison because I didn't know what kind of people I would find there. After six months that anxiety was gone and I realized that I had been called to serve the people in prison," Kelly said.
 "The ministry here is very similar to the parish on the street," Kelly said. "One thing I chuckle at is people ask me why I left the ministry. I didn't leave the ministry, I'm in a specialized setting meeting special needs.
 "In prison there is an honesty and candor I find refreshing. There are few people here who claim that they are innocent of all crimes and shouldn't be here," Kelly said. "They all deal with the fact that they are serving time.
 "The programs are built around on how to use the time that has been forced upon these men and to maintain and to stabilize family relations," Kelly said.
 "We have 100 volunteers in the ministry program here. We have a program where one family sponsors one inmate. Since this is a minimum security federal prison the family can come and pick the inmate up twice a month and take him to church and to eat dinner with them," Kelly said. "This allows the inmate to be in a christian home and see their struggles and how they deal with them. It also allows them to go to the church of their choice and to use the church as a School of Theology coming here for one year. One of my goals is to use this prison ministry as a training center for chaplains and young ministers," Kelly said. "I also want to expand the prison's interaction with the church and in the community and the men into the community and to have the remodeling of the chapel completed in the next year.

 "The beauty of the chapel is that it is in the center of the compound. With the flexibility we have with the chapel, we can seat 300 for special program, 120 for worship service, and hold two or three study groups simultaneously," Kelly said. "Sixty percent of the men are involved in the religious program one way or another, which we could not have had if we had had the chapel at the old base chapel (not on the prison grounds) instead of at the old officer's ballroom."

When he was an undergraduate in college, Kelly became interested in the ministry and was asked to be a volunteer in a mission in Brazil. He served in the forest of Brazil in Mato Grasso. "It was there that I saw the christian faith addressing all of humanity and being a global experience. I knew this intellectually but that was the first time experienced it. It was then that I was being called to serve God through the church," Kelly said.

Kelly was born in Montrose, Colo., and raised in Colorado Springs, Colo. He attended Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash. where he received his bachelor of arts degree and Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, N.J. where he received his masters of divinity degree. Kelly was ordained a Presbyterian minister in 1968.
 Kelly's family includes wife Sharon and daughters Erin, 11, and Caryn, 8. Kelly is active in the Howard County Ministerial Association, the American Association of Pastoral Council and the Presbyterian Agency Responsible for Criminal Justice.

resource to help make their adjustment back into society."

"As the chaplain, I am chaplain to the whole institution. This includes the staff as well as the inmates," Kelly said. "This is a very stressful system. This is probably the best federal prison in the United States. The staff is professional and humane, but there is stress on both staff and inmates. Stress that comes from family.

"The inmates are under stress facing the parole board, not knowing when they will be released, and how they will be accepted back into the community and church. My works deals with helping the men cope and using the stress constructively in their lives."

Kelly has three goals he would like to accomplish at the prison. "We have an intern, Pete Harris of the Perkins

A NEW DIMENSION — Robin Williams tests his versatility with a role that bears little relation to Mork or Popeye. He stars in George Roy Hill's film version of John Irving's "The World According to Garp."

Williams enters Garp's world

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD — The amazingly versatile world of Robin Williams assumes a new dimension this summer with a film role that bears no traces of Mork, Popeye or the wildly improvisational comic himself.

He had completed "Garp" more than a year ago, and now he had to deal with the reception of critics and moviegoers. "I'm pleased with it," he said tentatively.
