Old settlers

Friends get together for fun, reminiscence

"Old friends ...
Lord, when all my life is done,
bless my life and grant me one,
old friend."

— Roger Miller, Willie Nelson and Ray Price, "Old Friends."

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Their ranks are a little thinner than before and they move a little slower than they used to, but today, they were young again.

The 58th Annual Howard-Glasscock County Old Settlers' Reunion began this morning with a trickle of oldtimers entering a pavilion at Comanche Trail Park.

One could almost see their steps liven as they entered the Old Settlers' Pavilion — they were once again among old friends.

"Who are you?" an elderly man asked a woman as he peered through thick glasses at her name tag.

She quoted the name tag.

"Well, I know that," he said with benign indignance. "But who were you before you married?"

The Old Settlers' Reunion is a gigantic family reunion, and the questions and actions are much the same.

"I haven't seen you since ..."

"You're looking good ..."

"Whatever happened to old ..."

Sometimes the questions were repeated several times, as the old-style country music of "The Sweet Old Boys" made conversing difficult for those with hearing problems.

As they talked, the old friends touched frequently — showing their affection unashamedly and sometimes needing the comfort of physical contact.

Whip-thin Keith Crawford warmed up for competition in the fiddlers' contest, his fingers and the horsehair bow moving on the fiddle tucked under his chin.

Octagenarian Clay Bedell, bandanna draped around his throat, watched the goings-on through thick glasses under a battered hat — his face wrinkling into an occasional smile.

Snow-bearded, whiteheaded Toxey Cathey, who drove to the reunion from California sat locked into conversation with Mary-Margaret Orsman from Kansas.

And, over in the corner, 96-year old L.S. Johnson sat in his wheelchair and reminisced with his friend of 40 years, 83-year old Ira Dement. It may have been difficult for the two to converse over the background noise, but judging from the looks on their faces, the attempt was well worth the effort.

Old friends.

AUTHENTIC OLD-TIMER — Eighty-eight-year old Clay Bedell decked himself out in style to come to the Old Settlers' Reunion this year. Clay planned to compete in the "most authentic dressed" contest, but other contests available included ones for the eldest lady and man, most children, most grandchildren, traveling the greatest distance to attend, and married longest.

Man dressed as a woman robs Safeway

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A man dressed as a woman and possibly armed with a .45-caliber pistol robbed the Safeway at 1300 Gregg of $1,050 this morning, police Lt. John Wolf said.

Safeway employee Bobby Arista, who worked in the courtesy booth, told police that about 8:15 a.m. an armed man — wearing a straight, blond wig, ruffled pink blouse, gloves and sunglasses — held out a green bag and told him to put in it all the money in the safe, Wolf said.

Arista said he put eight $100 bills and 50 $5 bills in the bag and the disguised man left the store, heading north, Wolf said.

"Whoever did this had it well planned," Wolf said. He said the suspect probably lives in the area and was able to reach his residence quickly to hide out.

The suspect is described as a white male, 5 feet 5 to 5 feet 8 inches tall, heavily built and 28 to 30 years old, Wolf said.

Apparently Arista thought the robber was a woman until he asked for the money, Wolf said.

Police received the call at 8:20 a.m. and "several units" responded, Wolf said.

Commissioner adds voice to tax debate

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Another elected official added his voice to the opposition gathering against the new appraisal values, although computations indicate the appraisal office itself has heard complaints from less than 4 percent of the accumulated taxpayers in Howard County.

Commissioner David Barr today urged everyone "to file a protest and meet with the appraisal review board."

According to Ruth Mitchell of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Office, 914 persons have called the office or registered to meet with appraisers at the office as of Thursday. The 914 represents 3.8 percent of the approximately 24,000 local and mineral tax accounts.

Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore estimated the 22,000 local accounts and 12,000 mineral accounts would probably yield 24,000 accounts with some duplication.

Mrs. Mitchell also said 130 persons have signed protest forms to meet with the appraisal review board when it convenes August 16. The 130 is six-tenths of one percent of the local tax accounts.

BARR, EXPLAINING his opposition to the county's new valuations, said, "With the inflated values placed on homes and property, the taxing agencies will attempt to set a lower tax rate so taxes will not increase."

Israelis hold firm

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets and gunboats bombed guerrilla targets in west Beirut today after Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government refused U.S. and U.N. demands to give up new military gains in the PLO stronghold.

"We hope to persuade our American friends that (U.S. mediator Philip C.) Habib's efforts will collapse unless there is a credible military option," Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman Avi Pazner said in Jerusalem.

Israeli officials said they had not been formally notified of the PLO's latest proposal, whereby the guerrillas would evacuate Beirut within 15 days of the arrival of an international peacekeeping force.

"Unless we see indications on the ground that the PLO is ready to leave, we remain skeptical," said an Israeli official in Jerusalem who refused to be named. "Until now all we have heard are words and more words and we don't believe them any more."

The warplanes struck after "repeated cease-fire violations" by the guerrillas and all the jets returned safely to Israel, the Tel Aviv command said.

The planes bombed near the Lebanese prime ministry, collapsing two four-story apartment buildings in rapid divebombing sorties that shattered a 30-hour lull in the war.

The buildings were on Assi Street in the Sanayeh area, where sources close to the PLO said guerrilla security offices were located. PLO chief Yasser Arafat was seen in another section of west Beirut at the time of the bombing and Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan was in suburban Baabda.

There was no immediate word on casualties in the bombing. But ambulances rushed victims to the American University hospital from the bombed buildings, which are about 300 yards from Wazzan's office.

Police said 12,000 people streamed out of west Beirut on foot and in bumper-to-bumper traffic Thursday after Israeli forces opened one exit for eastbound travel, and that the exodus was continuing this morning. But Israel maintained its 12-day-old blockade of food, water and power supplies to the 480,000 civilians believed remaining in west Beirut.

State jobless rate declines

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas unemployment continues to set records, but the July rate of 7.3 percent released today is lower than June and considerably lower than state unemployment officials had predicted.

Although the figure dropped some, it compares with a state unemployment rate of only 5.5 percent this time last year. Last month's rate was 7.7 percent.

National jobless figures, also released today, were the highest in 41 years. The national rate for July was 9.8 percent.

Terence Travland of the Texas Employment Commission's economic research division said the state has only been keeping comparable unemployment figures since 1970, making historic comparisons difficult.

"Last month was the highest rate for June that we had since 1970, and this 7.3 percent appears to be the highest July that we've had, also," Travland said.

The percentage figure translates into 542,400 Texans out of work in July, Travland said.

Bible Fund donations start to come in

Donations are starting to come in for this year's Bible Fund Drive to provide Bible classes in local high schools.

A total of $345 had been deposited as of Thursday. This year's goal is $14,000.

Contributions may be sent to the First Baptist Church or the Big Spring Herald. Persons making gifts to the fund will be listed in the Herald.

Thursday's donations included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Duff	$10.00	Mrs. C.L. Rowe	15.00
Dr. and Mrs. D.H. McGonagill	50.00	Dacia Preston	20.00

Focalpoint

Action reaction: Sewage smell

Q. A terrible sewage smell comes from the drains on Fifth and Main Streets. Can't the city do something about the odor?
A. Public Works Director Tom Decell said Thursday he had just assigned crews to find out what the smell is and to begin steps to remove the problem.

Calendar: Old Settlers Reunion

TODAY
Events at the 58th Annual Old Settlers Reunion will be held throughout the day at Comanche Trail Park. The reunion will be topped off with a dance at 8:30 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

The Senior Citizens Club will meet from 8-11 p.m. in Industrial Park building No. 487. Guests are welcome.

New students planning to attend Coahoma High School should register from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1-3 p.m. at the high school. Elementary and junior high new students will register at a later date.

TODAY and SATURDAY

An exhibition and sale of rocks and gems will be held at the Big Spring Mall. Admission is free.

MONDAY

The Coahoma Band Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Coahoma High School band hall. Parents of all band students are encouraged come.

Inside: Emmy nominations

"HILL STREET BLUES" took 21 Emmy award nominations in balloting yesterday. For details, see page 8-B.

Tops on TV: 'Angel in My Pocket'

Andy Griffith and Lee Meriwether star in "Angel in My Pocket" at 7:05 p.m. on channel 11. The 1969 movie tells the story of a newly ordained minister trying to unite his quarrelling parishioners. On "Falcon Crest" at 9 p.m. on channel 7, Lance stands up to Angie when she tries to destroy his romance with a young woman.

Outside: Hot

The high today should hit 100 degrees, and the low tonight is expected to be around 70 degrees. Partly cloudy skies and a high in the upper 90s are forecast for tomorrow.

Mutilated rabbits found in city pool

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

The mutilated bodies of four jack rabbits were found in Comanche Trail swimming pool Tuesday, public works director Tom Decell said.

Apparently someone snuck into the park after hours and left the carcasses in the pool, Decell said. They were discovered by lifeguards while preparing to clean the pool, he said.

The pool was closed yesterday for cleaning and to add chemicals to "insure the water was clean," Decell said. Decell said the pool remained closed all day yesterday because it took so long for the chemicals to disperse and to clean the pool.

City officials don't have any leads as to who did it, Decell said, except that they would have to be "s-i-c-k."

"They would have to be sick to kill an animal and then mutilate it that way. And then too, something that creates some imposition in town," Decell said.

The pool has been cleaned and is open again today, Decell said.

Two new businesses being built at Mall

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Two new businesses will open soon at Big Spring Mall and several old businesses are adding on or making alterations, according to the city's July building permit report.

The new mall businesses — still under construction — are Royal Optical and Endicott-Johnson shoes.

At Rip Griffin's Truck Terminal, Interstate 20 and Highway 87, construction on a new convenience store on the west side of the complex will be complete "hopefully in about 90 days," complex manager Ken Welch said.

Welch said the store and self-service station, to be called Rip Griffin's Travel Center, is part of a project "to update the whole facility into a project." Other improvements include additional motel units, restaurant improvements and a recently completed truck fueling facility.

Another convenience store will open on Gregg in late August, Western Marketing division manager Dean Sipes in Abilene said. Jiffy Conoco, 1800 Gregg, will be remodeled into a Westigo convenience store with gas pumps. Sipes said Western Marketing is a Conoco jobber in West Texas, he said.

Also, Sister Lucy Keane, principal of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church school said construction of their new learning center was "slow in getting started."

Sister Lucy said she had "dreams" of opening the new Science Laboratory and Learning Resource Center this month, but now she can "invision" its completion "only in October or November."

The city issued only one house construction permit, to Plainsmen Homes for a $42,000 home at 3241 Duke.

Mitchell ag tour slated

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Sept. 2 has been set as the date for the annual Mitchell County Ag Tour, according to Chamber of Commerce President Van Mills.

Mills announced that Dr. Don Newberry of Western Texas College will be the speaker.

The ag committee of the chamber, of which Murrell Blasingame is the chairman, will meet Aug. 17 to firm up plans for the tour's itinerary. Mills said.

Sheriff's Log

No bail made

Jakie Lee Patten, 27, who listed his address as Motel 9, remains in Howard County jail in lieu of bonds totalling $45,000, according to sheriff's office records. Patten was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin in connection with possession of a controlled substance and burglary.

• Dave E. Crawford, 24, of 110 East Goliad, also remains in county jail in lieu of $25,000 bond in connection with a burglary charge.

• Clyde Myles, 53, and Donna Jean Gibson, 28, of 1516 Sycamore, posted $10,000 bond each and were released from custody. The two are charged in connection with a burglary, according to sheriff's records.

• Released from county jail after serving a three-day sentence was Felix Rodriguez Sosa, 54, of Florida. Sheriff's records indicate Sheriff's records show Sosa appeared before County Judge Bill Tune and was assessed a $50 fine and the jail time.

Merchants wary after peso devalued

By The Associated Press

Many border businessmen are taking a wait-and-see posture over Mexico's announcement that the peso has been devalued for the second time this year.

Since the price of the peso is expected to float for several days, some businesses will refuse to take them.

San Antonio banks this morning suspended trading of the Mexican currency until further notice. The peso closed Thursday at 52-1 with the discount rate at 46-1 in the Alamo City.

Laredo jewelry store owner Robert Mendez didn't know if the reports he was hearing about another devaluation of the Mexican peso were true, but he did know what he planned to do if they were.

"I hope it's not true, but if it is, I'm not going to take pesos until we see what's going to happen," Mendez said.

He wasn't alone. Roque Vela of Laredo said he, too, will wait to see how the market responds before he resumes accepting pesos at the two bowling alleys and entertainment centers he runs.

U.S. jobless rate nears 10%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate pushed closer to the 10 percent level in July, hitting a 9.8 percent rate, the highest in 41 years, the government reported today.

The jobless rate had held nearly steady as the recession continued through the spring — rising only from 9.4 percent in April to 9.5 percent in May and June. But today's Labor Department report was filled with newly discouraging figures.

In July, the report said, about 10.8 million Americans were officially unemployed — actively looking for jobs but not finding them — about 360,000 more than in June. About 1.5 million more have given up, the government reported last month.

July's jobless rate for adult males, who make up the bulk of the nation's blue-collar workers, rose to 8.8 percent, a post-World War II record. Unemployment for blacks held steady at 18.5 percent, although the jobless rate for black teen-agers declined slightly to 49.7 percent from June's 52.6 percent.

Unemployment rates rose 0.3 percentage point to 8.7 percent for whites and to 8.4 percent for adult women of all races.

The current overall jobless rate is already the highest since the 9.9 percent for all of 1941 at the end of the Great Depression. Unemployment hasn't been over 10 percent since the 14.6 percent of 1940.

In the last 13 months alone, the unemployment rate has risen from 7.2 percent to 9.8 percent, the government's commissioner of labor statistics, Janet Norwood, said.

In that period, she said in testimony before the congressional Joint Economic Committee, unemployment rose by 2.9 million as 1.8 million people joined the labor force and the number of available jobs fell by 1.1 million.

Summing up the newest figures, she said simply, "The employment situation data released today show little labor market strength in July."

Ranchers Roundup set for Aug. 10

Only a short time remains for Howard County ranchers to make plans to attend the International Ranchers Roundup, according to Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson.

The Ranchers Roundup gets under way Aug. 10 and runs through Aug. 12 in Del Rio. Richardson says details about registration and motel accommodations are being coordinated through the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce by phone (512-775-3551).

This year's Roundup features about 100 Australian,

Mexican and American ranching experts and industry leaders who will discuss every facet of the ranch operation during the three days of general and concurrent sessions.

"The theme of Roundup '82 is 'Effective Ranch Management' and its basic purpose is to help ranchers preserve their livelihood," says Richardson. "One noted speaker will outline several basic cost-cutting measures and tax incentive techniques which most ranchers normally overlook."

Appraisal

crease. "But what about those properties that were not reappraised at the inflated values such as oil and utilities?" he asked. "Their taxes will also be lowered when the rate is reduced. Then who is going to make up the difference?"

Barr said that, despite Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira's contention that Pereira has nothing to do with taxes, "Mr. Pereira has everything to do with equalizing taxes." Barr also said the chief appraiser is not an elected official and answers to no one.

A CLAIM MADE by several callers to the Herald — that persons could not file a protest to meet with the appraisal review board without talking with the appraisers — was rebutted by Chief Appraiser Pereira. "We're not turning down people who ask for the forms," Pereira said. He did say his people were asking persons if they would not prefer to first talk with the appraisers. "If they say no, we give them the form," Pereira said.

Pereira said that the appraisal notices only contained estimated taxes. "I'd like to stress the 'estimated,'" Pereira said. He admitted the office was making changes in some appraisals since "I'm getting the proof (of miscalculation) by records and such."

These changes being made by the appraisal office are what Jack

Watkins of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors believes will drive the tax rate, and taxes, upward. "These spot reductions will reduce the tax base down and the rates will have to go up," Watkins said. "We're going to end up with the same patchwork appraisals we had before the appraisal began. I question the quality of this appraisal."

Watkins also said the small number at the appraisal office was the result of working persons' inability to leave work to question their valuations. "Lots of people would like to go, but they have to make a living. They can't take off and stand in line for two hours," Watkins said.

Police Beat

Arson suspected in truck fire

A welding truck burst into flames and was "completely burnt" last night at the Southland Apartments on Air Base Road, possibly the result of arson, police and fire department officials said.

At 1:20 a.m. today an 18-year-old man stopped a police officer at a nearby 7-Eleven on W. Highway 80 and said a truck had just exploded at the apartment house, police reports said.

The man also claimed he saw running away from the truck a black male, about 19 or 20 years old, wearing a black shirt, dark pants and a light colored baseball cap.

Police officers said they found the Ford pickup truck and welding equipment in flames. A fire truck with three fire fighters extinguished the fire, although the rig, owned by Donald Patton of Southland apartment 3, building 33, was "completely burnt," a fire report said.

Arson investigator Rodney Phillips is handling the case. No other property damage was reported.

Police reports also showed the following: • Three white male juveniles were arrested on suspicion of delinquent conduct and child in need of supervision after police officers observed the vehicle they were driving did not have a hood and had two bullet holes in the driver's door. The juveniles were stopped at the 3200 block of W. Highway 80 at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

• Robert Louis Valentine, 22, of 205 N.W. Third was arrested on suspicion of theft under $5 after Gregg Street Safeway personnel observed a black male leaving the store with four cartons of cigarettes at 5:20 p.m. yesterday. Valentine was released on bond.

• Kathy Bigelow, 19, of West Wind Motel, 2004 Gregg, was arrested on a theft of service warrant at 10:12 a.m. yesterday. She was released on $100 bond.

• Ruben Juarez, 22, of Northerest apartment 41, 1002 N. Main, was arrested on two aggravated assault warrants yesterday. Bond was set at $40,000 by Peace Justice Lewis Hefflin.

• Bobby Eugene Masters, 43, of 1108 E. 13th was arrested on a simple assault warrant at 12:25 p.m. yesterday. He was released on $65 bond set by Peace Justice Bobby West.

• Mary Ybarra, 31, of 1001 N.W. First was arrested on two traffic warrants at 4:53 p.m. yesterday. She was released on $115 bond.

• Sherry Wylie of 1508-B Wood said someone stole a sun tea jar she left on her porch while she went to 7-Eleven between 4 and 4:15 p.m. yesterday.

• Valinda Martin of 903 Runnels said her ex-boyfriend vandalized their rent house. Reported damages included a busted door, a phone ripped from its connection, broken china and 20 albums stolen between 7:30 and 8 p.m. yesterday.

• Robert Thompson of 1604 Settles said someone stole a stereo system, portable color TV, 12-gauge shotgun and an AM-FM digital clock radio between 12:01 p.m. Saturday and 11 p.m. yesterday.

• Domingo Hernandez of 4207 Walnut, number 1, said someone stole a variety of welding tools worth $400 from his welding truck parked in front of his residence between 3 and 4 a.m. yesterday.

• Ronnie Hill of Gail Route Box 16 said someone stole two stereo speakers from a 1963 Oldsmobile parked at Western Container in the Industrial Park between 8 and 12 a.m. yesterday.

• Donald C. Bryan, a patient at the V.A. Hospital, said someone stole a Winchester rifle from a 1968 Ford pickup truck parked at the hospital between Monday and 6:05 a.m. Tuesday.

• Joseph Binns of 104 W. Eighth, apartment 1, said a man known to him pulled him out of his car and threw him to the ground at 10:37 p.m. Wednesday.

Rotary official to visit Big Spring

John R. Collard, governor for district No. 573 of Rotary International, will be visiting the Big Spring Rotary Club the first of next week.

Collard will first visit with club members at an assembly on Monday at 6:30 p.m. in Garrett Hall at the First Methodist Church. On Tuesday he will deliver an address to the club at noon in the Cactus Room at Howard College.

Collard has been in the insurance, farm management and real estate business in Spearman for 33 years. In 1978 he was awarded the Chartered Life Underwriters diploma.

He is married to the former Marjorie Davis and they have three children and four grandchildren.

Fund established for accident victim

Friends and neighbors of Arvil J. Henry, who was severely injured in a motorcycle accident Wednesday afternoon, have set up a fund to help the Henry family bear the cost of medical care.

Henry received head injuries in the accident and was taken by ambulance to the Lubbock General Hospital intensive care unit. He has been moved to a private room where his sister-in-law, Lou Campbell, reports he is "doing real good" and is "out of critical condition."

"He's a little disoriented because of head injuries, but he's doing better," Ms. Campbell said.

Alabama commission indicted

BESSEMER, Ala. (AP) — The city clerk and entire city commission of this northern Alabama community, already shaken by a jail scandal, have been indicted on 65 counts of improper use of city funds, including thousands of dollars spent on liquor, flowers, candy and clothes.

The indictments alleging violations of the Alabama Ethics Law were handed up by a grand jury Wednesday and served Thursday.

They were based on a state audit that said the officials misappropriated more than $50,000, with some of the money spent on liquor, clothing for female employees, club dues and travel expenses for officials' wives who went on city business trips.

Mayor Ed Porter, Public Safety Commissioner Max Williams, Public Improvements Commissioner Amos Hyche and City Clerk Hugh Mitchell were named in the indictments, which said they "grossly abused the travel expense system." The mayor is a member of the three-man commission.

Last October, Williams and four other Bessemer lawmen were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to abuse young black city prisoners with electric cattle prods, beatings and other illegal methods. Their first trial in February ended in a partial mistrial and acquittal, and a second federal court jury returned innocent verdicts in May.

Porter, who won re-election during a regular city election in July, was charged with 19 counts of violating the state ethics law; Williams, who lost re-election in Tuesday's runoff election, eight counts; Hyche, who narrowly won re-election in the same runoff, 15 counts, and Mitchell, 23 counts. Bond was set at $300 for each count.

Williams blamed his election defeat on publicity from the audit and the cattle prod trial.

The audit, released in May, disallowed more than $50,000 in city expenditures. It cited 17 violations of the state bid law — particularly for paving contracts — and said city officials illegally purchased civilian clothing such as jackets, pants and skirts for female clerical workers.

The audit also disallowed some travel expenses and expenditures for liquor on business trips, and expenses claimed for city officials' wives, who were allowed to accompany their husbands on the trips.

The city, about 10 miles southwest of Birmingham, also spent money on items such as flowers, candy, greeting cards and membership dues for civic clubs, the audit said.

Porter, Hyche and Williams said they were unaware such expenditures were not allowed.

On a Mobile trip, the audit said Hyche asked for $6 reimbursement from the state for "beer on the way."

More than half of the disallowed expenses, $26,000, involved golf cart fees at the city's golf course. The audit said course manager Lee Harper improperly received a portion of each rental fee under his contract with the city.

In 1979, Williams lost his left hand and was nearly blinded when a mail bomb exploded in his City Hall office, killing a police officer and injuring another employee. A man accused in the bombing was acquitted in a second trial after the first ended in a mistrial.

Autoworker layoffs up

DETROIT (AP) — More U.S. autoworkers were reported on indefinite layoff this week compared with last week, while an industry trade journal said car production in July was at a two-year low.

Automotive News said Thursday the major U.S. automakers built 455,558 cars in July, down 12.1 percent from 518,456 in July 1981. It was the lowest level since 417,038 cars were built in July 1980.

But truck production last month rose as the companies built 161,912 trucks, up 32.8 percent from July 1981's 121,933. It was the largest number of trucks built in the month since 205,265 in July 1979, Automotive News said.

The five major automakers said 213,921 hourly workers were on indefinite layoff, up from 213,473 last week. Chrysler Corp. reported a boost of 400 workers on indefinite layoff, while Ford Motor Co. said bookkeeping changes added 50 workers to its indefinite rolls.

DARING PILOT — Australian businessman Dick Smith took off from Fort Worth yesterday in a helicopter which he intends to fly around the world by himself.

A solo adventure

Aussie to circle the world in helicopter

FORT WORTH (AP) — Dick Smith, a millionaire businessman from Australia, admitted he'd rather have two engines to depend on during his around-the-world jaunt.

But the small, single-engine chopper he boarded Thursday morning is so fun to fly that "it's worth it," he said.

"Most people you talk to say it's impossible to fly a helicopter around the world. I think that's the challenge," said Smith, 38. "You can do it in a 747, but you're up too high. I'll be just a thousand feet up, so I can see everything. I'll see the world like it's never been seen before."

Smith took off at 10:25 a.m. Thursday from the Bell Helicopter Textron plant, which built the $350,000 single-engine Bell JetRanger-III he is flying.

Smith is dividing the journey into three segments — arriving in London Aug. 19, in Sydney in early October, and back in Fort Worth next July 22, the 50th anniversary of the date Wiley Post finished the first solo flight around the world in an airplane.

To make the flight safer and more comfortable, Smith and mechanics have equipped the aircraft with an automatic pilot, an auxiliary fuel tank and a VLF Omega navigation system that will tell Smith how to get anywhere in the world, which course to take, how many miles off course he is, and what time he will arrive.

Smith will carry a full range of safety and survival equipment, including a life raft, and will wear a special Arctic survival suit during the North Atlantic crossing. Smith has been an active amateur radio operator for more than 20 years and said he will be on the air constantly during the flight.

He'll cover close to 30,000 miles during the flight. In taking a year to complete the trip, Smith acknowledged he won't break any speed records. He plans to film his entire journey — to be shown on television later in 1-hour documentaries about each segment of his trip — and to write a book about the voyage.

His first leg takes him northeastward toward Washington, D.C., and New York City.

Smith said the riskiest part of his trip will come within a week when he flies over Greenland, hits generally poor weather across the Arctic Circle, then heads over the windblown North Atlantic for Iceland and London.

Smith will stop in 12 countries on leg two to Australia. He will lay over in Sydney several months, pass through Southeast Asia and land either in the Soviet Union or on ships offshore if he is denied permission to land in the U.S.S.R.

He will reenter the United States at the Aleutian Islands and head south for Fort Worth.

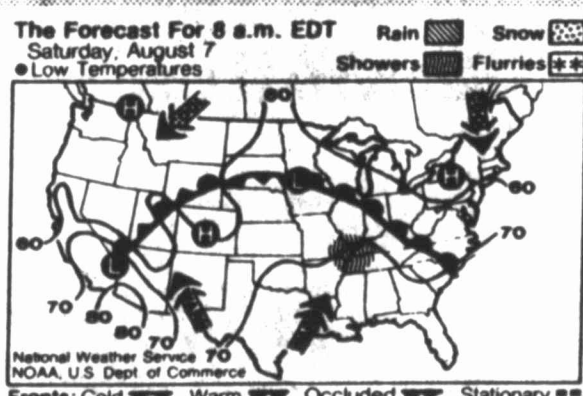

His total flying time in the air is estimated at more than 260 hours.

Smith describes his interest in aviation as "passionate." He was the first person to organize commercial charter flights over Antarctica.

But he considers the around-the-world solo helicopter junket his greatest challenge.

"It's the world's last great aviation adventure," he said.

Another hot one today

By The Associated Press
 Another hot day was in store for Texas today with forecasts calling for widely scattered thunderstorms across southeastern, northeastern, far western sections of the state and the Panhandle.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s, ranging upward to as warm as slightly above 100 in North Texas and to as hot as 105 in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas. Lows tonight will be mostly in the 70s.

A few showers and thunderstorms were reported early today in the Panhandle. A thunderstorm moved across the El Paso area during the night.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s in the mountains of West Texas and in the Panhandle and in the 70s elsewhere. Extremes ranged from 89 at Amarillo to 79 at Galveston and Austin.

FORECAST
 West Texas — Widely scattered late afternoon and evening thunderstorms north and far west through tonight and most areas Saturday. Cooler north Saturday. Highs 90s north to near 105 extreme south. Lows 60s mountains and north to mid 70s Big Bend valleys. Highs Saturday mid 90s north to near 105 Big Bend.

EXTENDED FORECAST
 West Texas: Isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms Sunday becoming widely scattered Monday and Tuesday. A little cooler most sections Sunday. Lows low 60s north to mid 70s south. Highs mid 90s north to mid 100s south except to near 105 Big Bend valleys.

Bess Truman 'serious but stable'

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former first lady Bess Truman remained in serious but stable condition in the intensive care unit at Research Medical Center today for treatment of a kidney ailment, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The 97-year-old widow of President Harry S. Truman was able to get out of her hospital bed and sit in a wheelchair Thursday, and may be able to go home this weekend, hospital officials said.

Although Mrs. Truman's vital signs have improved since she was hospitalized Sunday, she was listed in serious condition because of her age, a spokeswoman said.

Mrs. Truman was admitted to the hospital suffering from hyperkalemia, a buildup of potassium caused by diminished kidney function.

Dr. Wallace Graham, the Truman family's longtime physician, said the blood supply to Mrs. Truman's kidney has been diminished by arterial sclerosis.

 ALMOST CHRISTIANITY

Almost Christianity will reveal itself in countless subtle ways. I know many who claim that "with Christ all things are possible" — except to help them lose weight. I know those who extol the benefits of quiet time — but don't have enough time for contemplation themselves. Others lecture on the resurrection — and try to do everything on their own power. I know people who give sermons on the Lordship of Christ — but who can't slow down, because they think the world would collapse without their activities. Some people applaud the security we have in Christ — but are unwilling to take any chances. And still others glorify the freedom that is ours — but are still enslaved to their work.

Teacher shortage growing critical

The population of Texas is growing by leaps and bounds, yet the college graduates entering the teaching profession already have decreased substantially, creating a teacher shortage that will become severe in the future.

According to Dr. Richard Bain, director of teacher education at Sul Ross University, 39 percent of the people who received a baccalaureate degree in the United States in 1969 were prepared to teach. "By 1977, only 19 percent were prepared to teach, and current data indicate that only 11 percent of our nation's graduates are prepared to enter the teaching profession," Bain said.

THE SITUATION HAS reached the point where a special legislative committee is preparing a proposal designed to relieve the shortage of public school teachers facing the state by the end of the decade.

An information release from Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the Select Committee on Education, said that a proposal attacking four problem areas concerning the anticipated teacher shortage, salaries and benefits, recruitment, training programs and improved professional conditions, would be submitted to the 68th Legislature, scheduled to convene in January.

Public education has become a critical factor in the state's economic development, particularly with the continuing massive influx of out-of-state residents moving to Texas. "The Texas 2000 Commission has predicted that 170,000 new jobs will have to be created each year just to maintain present levels," Hobby said.

THE POST-VIETNAM WAR baby boom will have a considerable impact on public school education. Enrollments across the state should increase by 20 percent this decade. By the 1990s, high schools should have about 32 percent more students, and by the turn of the century, public school enrollments should be about 50 percent larger.

The bottom line factor in the teacher supply-demand problem is the salary structure for teachers. For example, engineering graduates at Texas A&M who have attached college for four years receive an average annual starting salary of $28,000. The state base salary for a beginning teacher who has four years' college preparation is slightly more than $10,000 a year.

In addition, many teachers are leaving the teaching profession in favor of private business and industry positions.

With fewer and fewer students enrolling in teacher preparation programs, something must be done to make teacher salaries more attractive. The teacher shortage already is critical and will get worse in the immediate future.

Around the Rim

By Bill Coffey

Settled down

I got a call from an old friend the other day, and amidst the usual conversation, he sprung a bombshell on me.

"I'm getting married next month," Bill said.

I couldn't believe it — was this the same guy who'd always said, "I'd rather be happy than married?"

I know it's always a shock when you tell your friends you're getting married — one friend only gave me a week's notice — but I just wasn't prepared for this.

After I wrapped my tongue around my incisors a few times trying to get out my congratulations, I finally told him how glad I was.

WE'RE OLD friends, going back at least to the sixth grade, and we grew up together, with all the joys and sorrows that entails.

I first met Bill when his father was digging a stock tank for my father. We found out that we shared a lot of common interests, and our friendship grew.

Through adolescence, we were companions, which sometimes led to strange situations.

We drank our first beer together, a hot, bitter can which we stole from his father.

We occasionally ended up liking the same girl, and, while we never came to blows over it, we occasionally grew very hostile toward each other. But we always decided our friendship was more valuable than the girl — with the result that neither one of us ended up with the object of our affections.

We spent countless hours thrashing out the mysteries of life, love and happiness, and happily abandoned all our carefully-wrought theories when any new situation occurred.

His checkered college career followed the same lines as mine, and as we ducked in and out of bars and honky tonks, we continued the search for the "Perfect Woman."

That "Perfect Woman" eluded both of us until a couple of years ago.

WHEN I MET my future wife, Bill was one of the first to wholeheartedly endorse my selection.

He masterminded the bachelor party. The bachelor party, held far out in the country where we wouldn't disturb anybody, included mass quantities of alcohol and half-cooked food (we could never seem to wait until it was completely done).

Bill was the life of the party, clowning around as always, doing John Belushi imitations, crumbling potato chips on me, dashing about in a maniacal frenzy, and driving me home when the festivities wound down.

Bill served as groomsman, his comic antics helping keep my nervousness under control at the wedding.

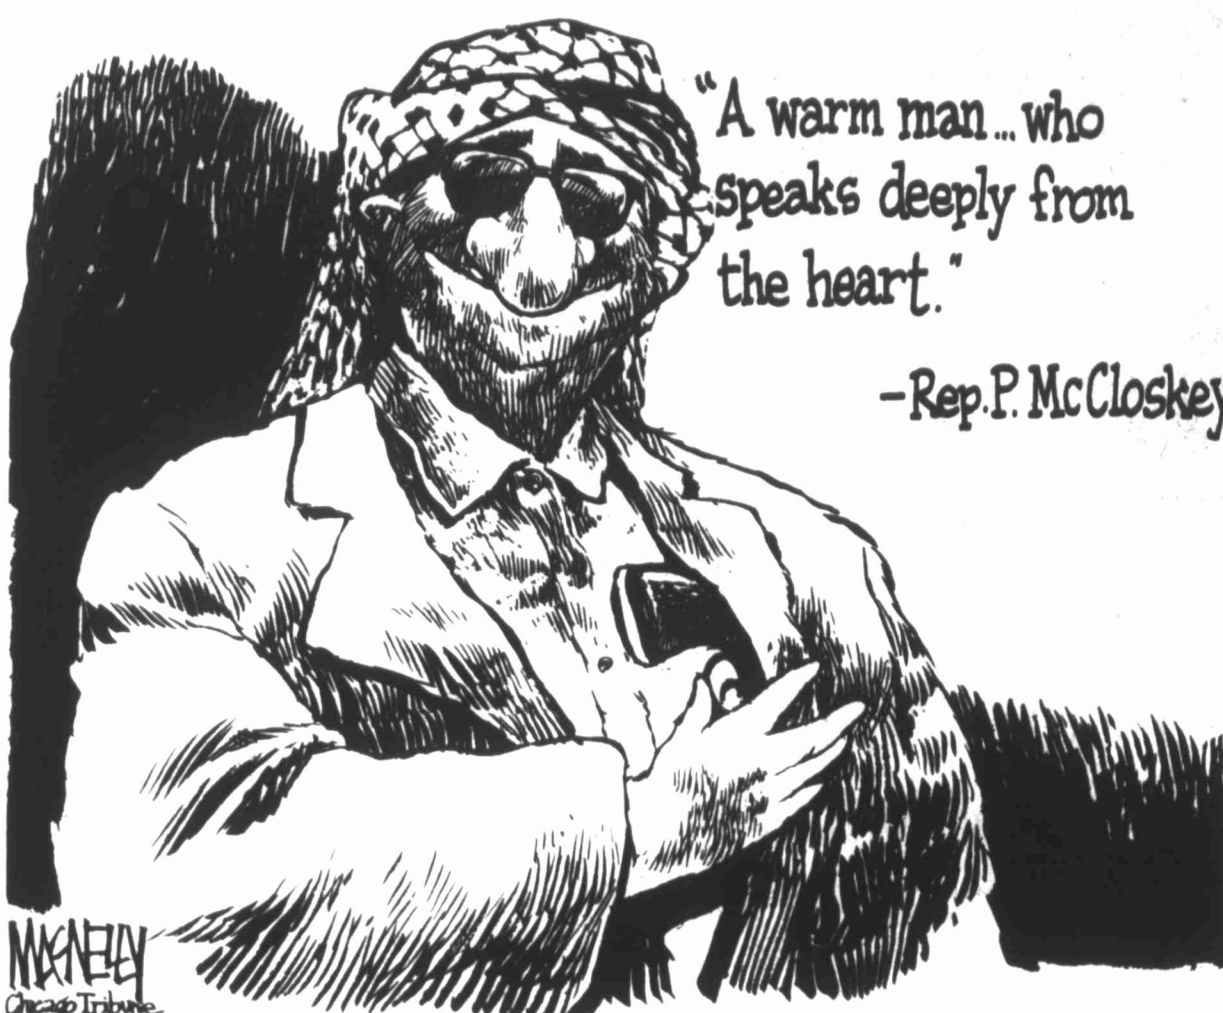

Unlike many male friendships which end at the altar, ours continued. Then, during this past year, Bill met his "Perfect Woman."

At the urging of my wife and me, Bill somewhat reluctantly accepted a blind date with one of Kit's friends.

Kim and Bill seemed to hit it off immediately. Kim's one of the sweetest girls I know, but she somehow seems to be able to keep Bill's maniacal frenzies under control. She's also bolstered his ambitions considerably.

She finally allowed Bill to persuade her to take the giant step, and I feverently hope it works out for both of them. I feel certain it will.

"All my rowdy friends have settled on down," to quote Hank Williams, Jr. Congratulations, Bill and Kim.

Indian-FBI murder case suspicious

WASHINGTON — Leonard Peltier, a 37-year-old American Indian Movement leader, is serving consecutive life sentences for the murder of two FBI agents on a South Dakota reservation in 1975. But there is disturbing evidence that the FBI doctored the case against Peltier with the knowledge of the federal prosecutor.

The FBI were understandably desperate to nail Peltier for the death of their two former colleagues in a shootout on the Pine Ridge Reservation. Of the four suspects in the killings, two were tried and acquitted and charges against a third were dropped. Only Peltier remained as a means of avenging the agent's murder.

But Peltier had fled to Canada. It was the FBI's task to produce sufficient evidence for his extradition.

A persuasive part of their extradition case was affidavits from one Myrtle Poor Bear. She made three sworn statements, but only the second and third were sent up to the proceedings in Canada. It's not hard to see why.

IN HER FIRST affidavit, Poor Bear claimed to have been Peltier's girlfriend and that he told her he had killed the two G-men. (Peltier and other witnesses testified at his subsequent trial that they had never heard of her.)

The second affidavit, obtained by the FBI two days after the first, was identical except for the addition of two significant sentences: "I was present the day the Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were killed. I saw Leonard Peltier shoot the FBI agents."

The third affidavit, obtained still later, was a lurid account of the shooting by the self-proclaimed eyewitness.

Obviously, the affidavits contained serious internal contradictions. If Poor Bear had been present and seen Peltier shoot the agents, why would he feel obliged to tell her he had shot them? The timing and progressive strengthening of Poor Bear's accounts were also suspicious.

At Peltier's trial, Poor Bear recanted all her affidavits. She claimed the FBI had threatened her, and she said she hadn't even read the statements before she signed them. But the trial judge refused to allow Poor Bear's testimony of FBI abuse to be heard by the jury.

The appeals court judge, Donald L. Ross, was not so obliging. He chastised the prosecutor for using the conflicting affidavits to extradite Peltier.

"Why the FBI and the prosecutor's office continued to extract more to put into the affidavits in hope to get Mr. Peltier back to the country is beyond my understanding," he said, "because you should have known, and the FBI should have known, that you were pressuring the woman to add to her statements."

THE PROSECUTOR, U.S. Attorney Evan Hultman, denied any involvement in selecting which of Poor Bear's statements were used in the extradition request.

"Your Honor, I personally was not present at that stage," he said. "I read the affidavits after they had been submitted, so I want the court to know that."

But FBI documents obtained by my associate John Dillon and Indy Badhwar, show that Hultman may have misled the judge about his role. Referring to William Halperin, the Canadian government attorney who represented the United States at the extradition hearing, an FBI memo states: "It was upon Halperin's recommendation, with the concurrence of special prosecutors Evan Hultman and Robert Sikma, that only Myrtle Poor Bear's second and third affidavits were used in the Peltier extradition."

Besides the Poor Bear affidavits, there was testimony from another "eyewitness" — an FBI agent who claimed to have identified Peltier through a telescopic rifle sight at a distance of 800 yards. Yet Hultman did not disclose to the jury, or the defense, the existence of an FBI test that cast serious doubt on the possibility of such an identification.

In a memo to Hultman, the FBI reported that its expert recreated the situation and found that he was "hampered by extreme mirages at ground level." The defense had tried to make this point with its own witness, but didn't know the FBI itself had corroborated the theory.

Finally, FBI documents show that the FBI suppressed the result of initial ballistics tests, which said the shell casings found at the murder scene were "not identifiable" with the rifle that Peltier owned.

Footnote: Peltier has requested a new trial. Hultman did not return our calls.

NIMMO RESPONDS: In a recent column, I called Veterans Administrator Robert P. Nimmo the worst of President Reagan's appointees, citing his penchant for personal perks while the VA budget was being slashed, as well as accusations from close aides that he was uncomfortable around the handicapped and unsympathetic to Vietnam veterans.

Calls to Nimmo for his side of the story went unanswered. But within hours of the critical column's publication, I got a hand-delivered letter from him. Here is the response he failed to provide in time for inclusion in the original article:

"I am not uncomfortable dealing with the handicapped," he wrote. "Any suggestion that I didn't want 'no-legged' persons around me is personally repugnant and without foundation."

"Your quote ... that I referred to veterans who seek aid from the VA as 'malingering welfare bums' is also totally without foundation."

Nimmo characterized the allegations as based on "falsehoods, half-truths or statements taken out of context."

Billy Graham

Reincarnation does not exist

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a friend who believes strongly in reincarnation. He believes that once he dies he will come back to this earth in a new form of life. Doesn't the Bible disagree with this? — Mrs. J.E.

DEAR MRS. J.E.: Yes, you are right. The Bible explicitly teaches that reincarnation is not true. We are born on this earth only once, we live only once, and we die only once. The Bible says, in the New Testament book of Hebrews, "man is destined to die once, and after that to face judgment" (Hebrews 9:27). This is the consistent teaching of the whole Bible.

Let me explain why certain non-Christian religions teach reincarnation — the idea that a person returns time and time again to earth. Those who hold to the idea of reincarnation know that man is imperfect and sinful and before he can go to Heaven (or some similar state) he must somehow get rid of his sins. They hope that by repeatedly coming back to earth they will have the opportunity to get better and better, until eventually they are without sin. But Christians do not hold this. They agree that man's biggest problem is sin. It cuts him off from God, and it makes him a spiritual cripple in this life. But sin is so serious that man by himself will never be able to rid himself of its guilt and its power. Even if a man could live a thousand years, he still would be a sinner in need of God's forgiveness.

But more importantly, Christians know that Jesus Christ has acted decisively to take away our sins. We could never free ourselves from it — but by his death on the cross he made it possible for us to be forgiven. All we have to do is trust him — and that is what we must do if we are to be saved. "So Christ was sacrificed once to take away the sins of many people, and he will appear a second time, not to bear sin, but to bring salvation to those who are waiting for him" (Hebrews 9:28). Christ alone is our hope, and we look to him alone for our salvation.

Dear Editor:

For organizational purposes, the National Association of Civilian Conservation Corps Alumni (NACCCA) is trying to locate about two million former members and persons who were connected or affiliated with the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) during the 1930's and 1940's. It is a known fact that many of these persons reside in Texas and areas serviced by the "Herald".

I am sure that many of your readers have often wondered what became of the CCC. You can tell them the CCC lives again in the NACCCA. It is a young and growing organization with chapters in many of the states throughout the nation, and one of its major objectives is to reinstate a permanent CCC II.

Hiding the wine from the heathen

Not all the revelations in the Woodward & Bernstein version of Nixon's last 100 days are unsympathetic to him. For example, one thing that struck me was an item that the former President was a wine buff and preferred a very expensive Chateau Margaux. When he went cruising on his yacht Sequoia, he instructed his stewards to serve the Margaux wrapped in a towel to obscure the label, while they served his guests on board a cheap vintage Bordeaux.

Some might think that Mr. Nixon was being petty, but anyone who knows the pleasures of a great wine like Chateau Margaux can appreciate why the former President wouldn't want to waste it on the people he invited aboard the Sequoia.

I have always felt the same way about my good wine. Several years ago, I was given a gift by Baron Philippe Rothschild — a case of Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1955. The nectar at that time sold for about $40 a bottle. (The rule of any newspaper syndicate is that I cannot accept any gift that I can't eat or drink in 24 hours. Since I figured I could drink a case in 24 hours if I really tried, I never bothered to return it.)

But I didn't drink it. I stashed it away in the cellar, carefully placing each bottle on its side with the labels face up so I could go down at night and stare at my treasure.

The trouble with having a case of rare wine is that you don't know anybody worthy of serving it to.

Every time someone came to the house for dinner, I would greet him at the door and mentally say to myself, "This bum wouldn't know a Chateau Mouton Rothschild from a bottle of Manischewitz."

As the years went by my wine became more valuable, but harder to open. My biggest fear was that if I served a bottle of it and my guests made no comment, I would go berserk and scream at them, "Do you fools realize you're drinking an $80 bottle of wine?" My second fear was that there would be some guests who would recognize it for what it was, and become so enthused I'd have to open a second bottle which would deplete my treasure.

Once I was working on a television show with an important Hollywood producer and writer in my home. My wife fixed us a sandwich lunch. When we walked into the dining room I discovered to my horror that she had opened one of the bottles of Mouton Rothschild.

Without thinking, I screamed at her, "How could you open a bottle of Mouton Rothschild for these bums?"

The TV show went down the drain. I did open a bottle for my daughter's 18th birthday, and another when a French friend from Paris visited me. So that left me with nine bottles to count before I went to sleep.

Then the Vietnam war riots started and all discipline broke down in our house. Our children had turned rebellious and nobody was talking to anybody. Strangers in blue jeans with beards and clenched fists kept walking in and out of the house. I forgot all about my wine cellar.

But one day in 1973, I went up to the attic to find a suitcase. I took a flashlight and as I was shining it around, I saw a pile of glass in the corner of the attic. I went over to it. There were nine empty bottles of Chateau Mouton Rothschild, labels lying on the floor. Apparently, during one of my absences, the flower children had had a wine party in the attic.

I let out a scream and my wife rushed upstairs. She found me on my knees sobbing and pounding on the floor. "What I have I done? What has happened?"

It's been years, but I still haven't gotten over it. Every once in a while I'll break down and say, "If I had only put the Blue Nun in the wine rack, I would be a rich man today."

So when I read about Mr. Nixon trying to protect his Chateau Margaux from his heathen guests, my heart went out to him. He could have shared it with them, but as he told John Dean, "It would have been wrong."

Brazilians get ready to move toward promised civilian rule

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazilians are getting ready for their most wide-ranging elections in more than 20 years, under a promise by the military government to move toward civilian rule. But economic troubles and recent political backtracking cloud the picture.

On Nov. 15 more than 52 million registered voters will have the opportunity to pick mayors, city councilmen, state legislators, governors, federal congressmen and one-third of the Senate. The government-backed party and four opposition groups — which include leftists but not Communists — are competing.

President Joao Figueiredo, a retired general who currently heads the military regime that seized power in 1964, has promised a "political opening" and affirms that the elections "will be held."

But many Brazilians are asking whether he can keep the promise, with the economy in recession, inflation approaching 100 percent and a foreign debt of over $60 billion.

Opposition groups are calling for the resignation of Planning Minister Antonio Delfim Netto, who is responsible for overall financial policies. Figueiredo says he will keep him on.

Figueiredo sent several bills to Congress in Brasilia, currently controlled by the government's Social Democratic Party, to change election rules. Opposition politicians say the changes — which all passed — are to keep the Social Democrats from losing control of Congress, statehouses and state legislatures. Opposition leaders claim the people, pressed by economic hardship, would normally vote against the government.

JANIO QUADROS, the last civilian to be directly elected as president only to resign in August 1961, eight months after taking office, now is a candidate for governor of Sao Paulo, the nation's richest and most populous state. He is a candidate of the opposition Brazilian Labor Party ticket and calls Figueiredo's liberalization "a farce."

Labor leader and controversial strike organizer Luis Inacio "Lula" da Silva, a Workers Party candidate for the same office, says Brazilians who believe in the president are "fools."

Despite these criticisms, Figueiredo, whose term runs from 1979-1985, has granted full amnesty to more than 5,000 leftist dissidents who had gone into hiding or fled the country. He then allowed them to participate in the current political campaign with virtually no holds barred. Figueiredo also eliminated press censorship.

But certain recent events, principally the election-rule change that forbids ticket splitting — and thus appears to favor the Social Democrats over the newly formed opposition parties — have caused skeptics to question Figueiredo's true intentions.

In June, two French Roman Catholic missionaries were sentenced to prison terms of 10 and 15 years, under the National Security Law, allegedly for stirring up social tension between rich landowners and poor peasants.

Shortly before that the Superior Censorship Council banned the movie "Pra Frente Brasil" ("Let's Go Brazil"), which is about an innocent man brutally tortured by right-wing government goons who mistake him up for a leftist. The story is fictional but is based on events that happened during the early 1970s, when the military regime liquidated leftist terrorists.

In July, the press revealed that the National Intelligence Service, which during the earlier days of repression allegedly fingered suspected subversives and tapped telephones, had been secretly called in to monitor the books of big-spending government-run companies and keep tabs on their executives.

Navy ends search of airmen lost at sea

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The U.S. Navy today gave up its fruitless search for six airmen missing since their reconnaissance jet plunged into the Indian Ocean during a training flight two days ago, a 7th Fleet spokesman said.

One crew member, Petty Officer 2nd Class Robert L. Huff, 21, of Wheaton, Md., survived the crash of the EA-3B Skywarrior reconnaissance jet, and was rescued, apparently unhurt, said Lt. Steve Honda, a 7th Fleet information officer at the Subic Naval Base, northwest of Manila.

Honda said the following men today were declared lost at sea and presumed dead: Lt. Frank N. Kertscher, 26, Hopalong, N.J.; Lt. Michael F. Brown, 28, Dallas, Texas; Lt. David A. Pies, 26, Mesa, Ariz.; Petty Officer 2nd Class William B. Snider, 21, Loxley, Ala.; Petty Officer Brian S. Watson, 23, Wilmington, Del.; and Seaman Terry D. Smith, 19, Detroit, Mich.

Honda said the aircraft carrier Ranger, four other navy ships and a P-3 Orion plane from the Diego Garcia Island base abandoned the search for the crewmen after finding only scattered debris from the plane.

The plane was assigned to the 7th Fleet's Air Reconnaissance Squadron 1, stationed at Agana, Guam, but was operating from the Ranger at the time of the crash, Honda said.

The cause of the crash was not known and is under investigation, he added.

Dr. Donohue

Premenstrual syndrome

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have just read an article about premenstrual syndrome (PMS), and have scheduled tests in two weeks. I suffer many symptoms, including depression. I've tried suicide. I am irritable and I scare and confuse my whole family, including myself. My joints ache, I have water retention, and weight gain, acne, clumsiness and fatigue. Do you think the expensive evaluation and treatment are legitimate and/or successful? Or is there another answer to my problems? I feel this is my last chance for a normal life. I am 25 and have a child. — Anon.

Premenstrual tension syndrome is a complex array of symptoms, both physical and psychological. They may appear as early as seven to 10 days before the menstrual period. There may be great breast tenderness, abdominal bloating, fatigue, emotional turmoil and depression, even to the extremes you have experienced. These symptoms tend to resolve promptly after the period is completed, only to return the next month.

There are many possible explanations of why this occurs in some women — hormone excess or hormone lack, low blood sugar, or a change in the natural morphine-like substance the brain makes: endorphins. Those are just examples.

Yes, from your letter I would certainly say that it would be worth the expense for you to be evaluated and treated. The treatment is not the same for every woman. It depends on which, if any, of those problems I alluded to are present. Some women need hormone supplements. Some need diet changes, salt restriction (to ease bloating) or sugar restriction if hypoglycemia is present. Some may need diuretic pills to be taken at certain times of the month. Some may need only simple medicines to relieve the pain. Some may need psychiatric help.

Many women, like yourself, have found successful treatment for this unpleasant condition. You have my wish and that of my readers for a speedy resolution of your problem, wherever it may lie.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please give me some information on familial ataxia? I have been to several doctors in the last 20 years and no one seems to know much. I am 59 and a female. — L.H.

For other readers, I should note that ataxia means an inability to coordinate muscle movement. Familial refers to types that can occur in families.

There are a whole group of hereditary or familial diseases that have one thing in common — something awry in the cerebellum. That's the part of the brain that gives us our sense of balance. Thus, the symptoms are related to a loss of balance. There may be unsteadiness in standing or a lurching type of walk. Or there may be trouble getting the hands and legs to work together. It is not known why this happens or how it may be passed on within families.

This illness usually starts in mid-life with slow and gradual progression. I am sorry I cannot tell you much more about this, but I hope this little bit has added something to your understanding.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Girls participate in Fashion Revue

The Glasscock County 4-H Fashion Revue was held recently in St. Lawrence. This year's revue theme was "Garden of Fashion." After the judging, garments were modeled in a spring garden setting and awards were presented.

In the 9-year-old division, Della Schafer placed 1st and Tiffany Jost was alternate. Stephanie Seidenberger received honorable mention and Terri Lyn Murphy received a blue ribbon.

Winning 1st in the 10-year-old division was Paula Wilde with Deanna Wilde as alternate. Jean Schraeder received a blue ribbon.

The 11-year-old division had Dana Hoelscher placing 1st with Dana Hillger as alternate. Blue ribbons went to Elizabeth Glass, Suzanne Halfmann, Mandy Havlak, Kristi Jones and Mary Schafer.

In the 12-year-old division, 1st place went to Carol Schwartz and alternate was Charlene Schraeder. Lee Ann Seidenberger, Wendy Hillger and Jacque Jost received blue ribbons.

Michelle Pechacek placed 1st in the 13-year-old division and Tavia Carol Murphy was alternate.

In the Junior Division, Dana Hoelscher and Michelle Pechacek were chosen to represent Glasscock County at District with Paula Wilde and Carol Schwartz as alternates. Both received blue ribbons.

Senior winners were Karen Halfmann entering in the Daytime Tailored Category with a matching grey wool skirt and jacket. Daytime non-tailored category winner was Gina Wilde wearing a blue print prairie skirt and peach ruffled blouse.

In the Active Sportswear Category, Carol Hoelscher won with a white print blouse and blue shorts. Stephanie Frerich won the Evening and Speciality Wear category wearing a white with gold pin-stripes after-five dress.

The four senior winners also represented Glasscock County at the District 6 Fashion Revue in Fort Stockton July 28. All of them came home with blue ribbons.

Dear Abby

Smoke alarm can save lives

DEAR ABBY: Last week a man here in Dayton lost his wife and three children in a fire. The fire chief said a smoke alarm might have saved them.

It hit me hard, Abby, because I lost my three daughters in a fire, wrote to you, and you printed my letter. Please run it again. My three daughters are gone, and that man's three sons plus his wife are gone, but if a rerun of my letter can save one life, it will be worth the space.

By the way, Abby, I'm getting along just great. Thank you very much.

VIRGINIA IN DAYTON

DEAR VIRGINIA: Here's your letter — it's worth the space:

DEAR ABBY: Last Memorial Day our house caught fire. Our three daughters were asleep upstairs, and my husband and I were asleep in the downstairs bedroom. The fire spread so fast and the smoke was so thick we weren't able to get the children. Melinda, 5, was dead on the scene; Suzanne, 2, was dead on arrival at the hospital; and Tonya, 7, was in a coma for two days. She died without coming out of it.

My husband and I still can't believe our little girls are gone. Maybe if we had had a smoke alarm we would still have our children.

While Tonya was in a coma, we were expecting the worst, so we willed her kidneys to the organ bank so that two children who needed a kidney could have them. That gave us some comfort.

Please print this. It's too late for us, but it may save some other parents from having to go through what we went through.

Rebekahs vote on initiation

The Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 voted to initiate two new members Aug. 17 during their meeting Tuesday evening.

Mabel Morrison presided at the meeting and 26 visits made to the sick were reported. Fifteen past noble grands were present. The lodge will hold its team practice Sunday at 2 p.m.

After the meeting, August birthdays were celebrated. Janet Branhill, Jewel Fields, Norma Newton, Lona Crocker, Delia Sullivan and Lila Holland were in charge of refreshments.

The next meeting will be held Aug. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

For the record

In the engagement announcement of Teresa Sherman and Roy Colvin published Sunday, the announcement listed the prospective bridegroom's parents as the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Colvin of Midland. His parents are the Rev. Alfred Colvin and Mrs. Willie Mae Thomas, both of Midland. The Herald regrets the error.

Loch Ness monster may be a log, man says

LONDON (AP) — Theories on the Loch Ness monster get stranger every year. The latest suggests that Nessie may not be an animal at all but a Scots pine log propelled from the bottom of the Scottish lake to the surface now and again by a build up of natural gas.

Robert P. Craig, a retired Scottish electronics engineer, presented his theory in an article that appeared today in the respected weekly British magazine The New Scientist.

Craig said his theory was based on the considerable depth of the loch — 754 feet — and the fact that it is surrounded by Scots pines, which grow to 120 feet and have been around in Scotland for 10,000 years.

As Craig tells it, one or several may have fallen into the loch, become waterlogged, gradually sank to the bottom and been partly covered in silt.

The enormous pressure at the bottom of the loch resulting from the depth squeezed together the layers of resin-laden trunk to form a strong, waterproof outer skin around the log.

As the log decayed, natural gases built up inside the sealed trunk, driving resin and tar oils in the tree toward the stumps of the branches and the ends of the trunk.

"These resins and oils thus form extrusions or blisters, filled with minute gas bubbles," he wrote. "The process continues and in time the blisters in effect become buoyancy tanks. The log once more can float."

On nearing the surface, the internal pressure of the gas inside the trunk is well above the pressure outside. The log breaks the surface, the

Gene-splicing patent is delayed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A patent that would give two universities control over products developed through a gene-splicing technique has been delayed by the U.S. Patent Office.

The licensing fees from such products could be worth millions of dollars to Stanford University and the University of California, both pioneers in the genetic engineering process.

The two institutions learned Wednesday that the government is seeking clarifications in their patent application.

But none of the questions raised by the Patent Office poses an "insurmountable" problem, and the universities expect the application to be approved, said Stanford spokesman Mike Goodkind.

The universities already hold a patent on the cloning process, and the patent at issue would cover the genetic materials known as transformants that are developed through gene-splicing, he said.

Different transformants can produce a variety of compounds that previously were available only through natural processes.

Patenting the transformants essentially would give the universities control over all products resulting from them, Goodkind said. But he added it would be "naive" to assume that other researchers wouldn't soon come up with another means of achieving the same results.

Since the first patent was issued in 1980, the universities have collected $1.4 million by licensing 73 private companies to use the technique. The cost of an individual license is $10,000 initially and $10,000 per year. Goodkind and Niels Reimers, Stanford's director of technical licensing, both believe the Patent Office will approve the second patent after the universities clarify some points of the application.

because they're in Big Spring for the annual City Championship tournament.

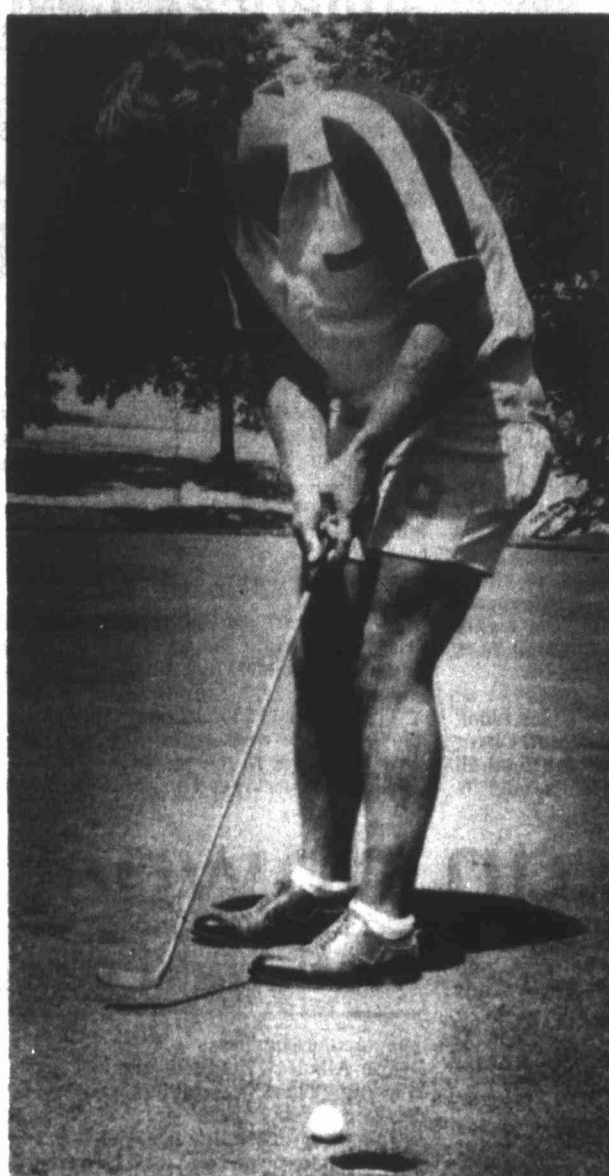

Two-year defending champion Howard Stewart will try to fend off challenges from several former winners when the tournament swings into action Saturday. After first day scores are in, golfers will be flighted and tee-times assigned for Sunday's final round. Both rounds will be played at the Comanche Trails Golf Course.

Entry fee for the two-day event as 6 p.m. today with entry fees set at $20. Golf pro Bobby Maxwell is hoping the tourney will be the biggest in years since the event was a three-day tournament and played at the city golf course, country club and Webb AFB golf course.

"We should have a good tournament," Maxwell predicts. "A score of three or four under should win it. A 138 would be close."

Stewart, golf coach at Big Spring High School, has won the last two championship tournaments with Jimmy Welch taking the trophy in 1979. With two titles under his belt, Stewart is gunning for the record of four set from 1955-58 by Bobby Wright. Wright returned to win back-to-back championships in 1960-61 to give him six titles in all in the 32-year-old event.

Challenging Stewart will be Bob Waters, George Murphy, Royce Cox, John Basden, Bruce Carroll, Ben Garcia and Jim Newsom. Newsom has won twice — in

The course has undergone vast improvements in the past few years reports Maxwell, a champion himself in the very first city tournament in 1948 (and again in 1953). "We done a lot of dirt work and have been trying to cover up the rocks. Nos. 10-18 were real bad," Maxwell said.

Floyd treats Tulsa

Ray fires amazing 63 in first round

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The round of Ray Floyd's life was just one swing short of perfection.

Floyd hit the ball 63 times Thursday to take the first-round lead of the 64th PGA Championship and there's just one stroke he wants back.

"I blocked a drive on the third hole and missed the fairway," he said of his record-shattering 7-under-par round. "I would say that was the only ball I hit that was not a good shot."

Floyd parred the hole anyway on a 102-degree day during which he beat Jack Nicklaus by 11 shots, Tom Watson by nine and runners-up Bob Gilder and Greg Norman, who had a 66s, by three strokes.

Nine straight 3's highlighted Floyd's round over the steamy Southern Hills Country Club in which he played the sixth through 15th holes in 30 shots.

"It's the best round I've played anywhere and something I will remember forever," Floyd said. "I might not ever shoot a score like that the rest of my career."

Floyd broke his own competitive course record of 65 and tied the best 18-hole record in PGA history set by Bruce Crampton in 1975.

It was the lowest first round ever in the PGA, shaving Bobby Nichols' 1964 record by a shot.

Golfing millionaire Floyd one-putted nine times over the tricky bent grass greens.

After routinely parring the first six holes, Floyd exploded on his historic round with a 16-foot birdie putt on the 383-yard No. 7.

Floyd, the 1969 PGA champion, saved par out of a bunker on the eighth green and holed a 10-footer for birdie on No. 9, going out in 2-under 33.

He tied the PGA nine-hole record on the backside with a 5-under-par 30. However, Fred Couples later broke the mark with a 29 by making birdies on the last six holes.

PGA Championship

Floyd birdied the 10th with a 3-footer, the 12th with a 15-footer, the 13th and 16th with a 2-footer, and the rugged 434-yard closing hole with an 8-footer.

"I feel drained but I managed to beat the heat for the most part by staying in the shade and taking fluids on every tee," said Floyd, who took advantage of a 9:24 a.m. CDT tee time.

Floyd was in a 1:36 p.m. CDT pairing today with Gary Player and Hale Irwin.

The 39-year-old native of Ft. Bragg, N.C., is known as a tough front-runner on the tour. Give him a lead and he's tough to catch.

"Sure, I like to get ahead," said Floyd. "It's a good feeling to have control."

Floyd said the biggest change in his game in recent years is that he has become more of a thinker.

"Nicklaus beats all of us with his mind," said Floyd. "That's what separates a lot of players. I used to be too damn aggressive. Now, I know when I should gamble."

Floyd has won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic and the Memorial Tournament in 1982. He's fourth on the money list at $226,000.

The lifetime winner of $1.7 million, Floyd owns two major titles in his 15 victories, the aforementioned PGA title and the 1976 Masters.

"That 63 by Floyd was just incredible," said Couples.

At 3-under-par 67 with Couples were Rex Caldwell and Nick Faldo. Vance Heafner, Mark Pfeil, David Graham, Jim Simons and John Jackson were at 68.

Asked why there were so many sub-par rounds, Caldwell said, "There was no water and they were watering the greens every 45 minutes. The greens held great."

Watson, trying to add the PGA to his current U.S. and British Open titles, needed 35 putts for his 72.

Howard brings in more stars

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Mike Rivera, an all-state center-fielder from Valley High School in Albuquerque, N.M., signed a scholarship agreement with Howard College baseball coach Bill Griffin Thursday afternoon.

Griffin also announced the signing of Odessa College sprinter Hector Sanchez, bringing his list of recruits to 21 for the first-year program.

Rivera batted .485 his senior year and led the city in home runs with six and in doubles with 11. From his lead-off position, the outfielder knocked in 20 runs to lead his team which finished third in the district race.

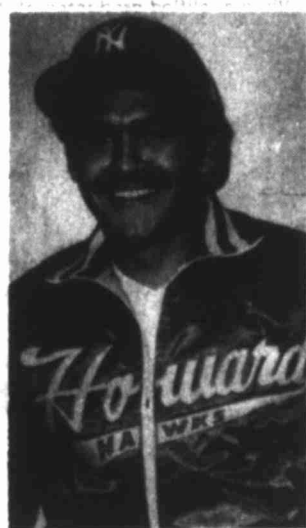

His post-season honors included all-district, all-city and all-state laurels. He was chosen as the team's most valuable player and played on the North squad in the North-South all-star game, won by the North team two games to one.

As a junior, Rivera hit .308 and was a three-year letterman at Valley High.

"It's a fine school and the baseball program sounded real good to me," Rivera said of signing with the Hawks. "He (Griffin) amazes me. He sounds like a good man and has done a lot already."

Griffin recruited the outfielder away from three Arizona colleges and from the U-Texas at El Paso. "What interested him about this place was that it is a first-year program and freshmen will play. That's the factor that swayed him," Griffin said.

Griffin did some thinking ahead when he inked Sanchez to a letter-of-intent. The speedy Sanchez — clocked at 9.4 in the 100 — was a track all-American at Odessa College this past spring but would like a shot at baseball.

...bring big bat

He hit .349 and knocked in 20 runs as a senior shortstop at Odessa High in 1981.

"What are those fast animals — gazelles? — well I said I was going to get me one," Griffin said of his speedy prospect.

The Howard coach plans to use Sanchez as a designated pinch runner for his catchers or his pitchers. "He's the type of kid that can be a key to this ballclub not even playing defense or even swinging a bat," Griffin continued.

Rivera and Sanchez both will get chances in already full outfield.

"I think we'll have some good competition out there," Griffin predicted of fall workouts. "But I think that's the way it ought to be. I can move those center-fielders around anywhere."

NFL owners dislike all-star arrangements

DETROIT (AP) — The National Football League will go to court, if necessary, to block plans by players to organize their own league in the event of a strike this fall, a league spokesman said Thursday.

Officials with the National Football League Players Association and the Atlanta-based Turner Broadcasting, confirmed Thursday that they have an agreement to televise a series of all-star games involving six teams, each representing one NFL division.

The players union has threatened to strike unless NFL team owners agree to give players a set percentage of total NFL revenue. The players are asking for 56 percent.

However, Jim Miller, spokesman for the NFL's Management Council, called the players' plans for an all-star league "a stupid idea" and said the league would go to court to block any such games. He said the standard player contract bans players from playing for any organization but the NFL.

NEW YORK (AP) — The pressure is off Charlie Hough. But, even more important, it's off the man who decides where and when he'll pitch.

Hough, a knuckleballer in the vein of Hoyt Wilhelm and Joe Niekro, was converted from a relief pitcher to a starter by the Texas Rangers this season, and he leads the staff in victories.

His seven-inning stint Thursday night, during which he scattered eight hits, was good enough to beat the New York Yankees 7-2. Rookie Dave Hostetler helped Hough a 5-0 lead with four RBI in the first three innings — two with a first-inning homer.

Hough said that moving from the bullpen into the rotation had changed his style of pitching slightly. "I don't throw my knuckleball any different," he said. "Although I don't try to throw as hard as much. I mix in a few more fastballs and sliders now."

"It's taken some of the pressure off me, as far as having to come out of the bullpen, but it's really taken the pressure off the manager," Hough said.

Hough left Thursday night's game after walking Oscar Gamble to lead off the eighth inning. He had thrown 138 pitches, about 70-75 percent of them knuckleballs.

Hostetler, a rookie who came to Texas along with Larry Parrish in the deal that sent Al Oliver to Montreal, said he picked on a high fastball from Yankees right-hander Doyle Alexander, 0-5, for his 17th homer this season. The Rangers added a second-inning run when Parrish doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Mike Richardt.

After a walk to Lee Mazzilli and a double by Buddy Bell in the third, Hostetler drove in two more runs with a single, chasing Alexander.

Yankees left fielder Dave Collins, who had two of the hits off Hough, said the Rangers knuckleballer was particularly tough on the hitters "when he gets ahead, when he's getting that knuckleball over, Hough struggles when he's behind."

Paul Mirabella relieved Hough in the eighth, helping himself out of the inning when he flagged down Graig Nettles' grounder to start a doubleplay. He retired the Yankees in order in the ninth.

The loss was New York's sixth in its past seven games.

Twins 8, Angels 6

In his return to the major leagues, old Luis Tiant ran into the young Minnesota Twins, who haven't been showing much respect for their elders lately.

The 41-year-old Tiant, purchased by California earlier in the week from the Mexican League, saw his return to the majors spoiled Thursday when the Twins tagged him for four runs and five hits in 31-3 innings — including a three-run homer by Ron Washington — and defeated the Angels 8-6.

Tiant, who last pitched in the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates a year ago, started out like a late entry for Comeback Player of the Year, striking out five of the first nine Twins he faced.

"I really got fired up for Tiant," said 22-year-old rookie Kent Hrbek, who got a single before Tiant left. "I remember meeting him in Minneapolis when I was 8 years old."

Orleans 5, Royals 1

Jim Palmer held Kansas City hitless for five innings and finished with a three-hitter for his seventh consecutive victory as Baltimore snapped a six-game losing streak to the Royals. However, Kansas City held on to first place in the AL West, one percentage point ahead of the Angels. The third-place Orioles are 3½ games out in the AL East.

Palmer shut Kansas City out until the seventh inning when George Brett homered.

Tigers 5-7, Blue Jays 2-4

Jerry Turner drove in three runs with a homer and single in the second game after the Tigers won the opener behind Jerry Ujdur's seven-hit pitching. With Toronto leading 2-1 in the nightcap, Larry Herndon opened the Detroit fourth with a single and scored on Turner's homer off Roy Lee Jackson. The Tigers wrapped it up with three runs in the fifth on Tom Brookens' two-run single and Turner's RBI single.

Expos 9, Phillies 2

Joel Youngblood kept busy running around for the second straight day with three hits, three RBI, a stolen base and an excellent fielding play in right for the Expos.

The pace was slightly less hectic Thursday for Youngblood, who was traded to the Expos Wednesday, although he had to go some to keep up with teammates Tim Lincecum (5-for-6, three runs-scored and two stolen bases) and Tim Lincecum, who belted his first major-league grand slam.

Cubs 5, Mets 1

Randy Martz was reached for singles by Ron Hodges in the second and eighth innings and nothing more. At one point, he retired 17 straight Mets. Jay Johnstone slammed a two-run homer for Chicago in the third inning after Bill Buckner's single to snap a 1-1 tie.

Cardinals 7, Pirates 3

Ken Oberkfell rapped a pair of two-run doubles and Steve Mura hurled a four-hitter in the rain-shortened contest.

"I'm going to suggest to my general manager and tell him I want to put in a protest. It looked like they were just trying to get the five innings in," said Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner. "We didn't get the chance to come back. I just think we got jobbed."

The game was called in the bottom of the fifth after a two-hour, two-minute rain delay.

San Fran downs Astros, 5-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Houston Astros put Bill Laskey to a serious test just once, and the tall San Francisco rookie earned an A grade with one of his best fastballs of the night.

"It came down to me against Dickie Thon. If he gets a base hit, we're behind 2-1," Laskey said after the Giants' 5-2 victory Thursday night.

Laskey, 10-8, allowed seven hits over seven innings and left the game with a 5-0 lead. In the fifth, with the score 1-0, the Astros left runners at second and third when Thon hit a soft fly ball to right field for the third out.

"We're just leaving too many runners at third base," said Astros Manager Bill Virdon. "We seem to do better when we have runners at second."

The Astros had two hits off Laskey in only two innings. The first time, in the second, Laskey avoided serious trouble by picking Jose Cruz off first base.

In the fifth, Phil Garner and Art Howe singled, and there were runners at first and third with one out. Astros pitcher Verne Ruhle, 5-8, then was called on to punt.

"We were looking for the bunt and weren't sure if it would be a squeeze or a sacrifice. Luckily, it was just a sacrifice," said Laskey.

J.R. debuts Saturday

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — J.R. Richard is about to take Step II on his comeback trail to the major leagues.

The one-time Houston Astro fireballing right-hander — fighting his way back to the pinnacle that a stroke knocked him from two years ago — has moved up to the club's Triple-A Tucson Toros farm team.

He'll make his Pacific Coast League debut Saturday night in a doubleheader against the Spokane Indians.

"Sometimes (I feel) like I'm almost there and sometimes I feel like I'm not there at all," he said. Richard added that his fastball has been timed recently at about 89 mph.

The beauty of raising a large family is that at least one of them may not turn out like the others.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"If Barfy starts meowing it's 'cause he ate Kitten's food."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 7, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to consider how you can place yourself more in tune with up-to-date methods that could help you advance in career matters. Take positive steps to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look over your environment and make plans for improvement. Make contacts that will improve your social life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure not to disturb anyone who has power over your affairs or you could regret it later. Safeguard your reputation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure you first investigate thoroughly any new project you want to engage in. Spend your money wisely.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some family members may not agree with your views now, so try to understand theirs better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day to look over your business records and make sure everything is in proper order. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take added steps to improve your environment. Show more interest in civic affairs and gain added respect.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make long-range plans that could give you added income in the days ahead. Plan how to gain your most cherished aims.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show appreciation to those who have done you favors in the past. Be sure to keep promises made to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are filled with new ideas but you have to study them better before you put them in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day for serious talks with allies, since they are busy with other things. Be more willing to cooperate with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't try to force your ideas on others and avoid getting unexpected rebuffs. Express happiness with congenials.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make plans to have more favorable conditions around you in the days ahead. The evening is fine for social activities.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can understand both sides of a problem and intuitively will know how best to solve it. The field of law is particularly good in this chart. Give spiritual and ethical training early in life.

Keeping in touch

That mail-box on the city corner... that post office at the country crossroads... what would we do without them?

Life is too complex for us to live by ourselves. Man's interests and his welfare reach far beyond the boundaries of his community. Communication with people and corporations hundreds of miles away is a part of modern living that we take for granted. We have to "keep in touch."

But long before life became so complex, men discovered their need for another kind of communication—prayer. The courage and faith and hope which steel men for the challenge of each day come from God. The deep spiritual needs of the soul can be supplied only by keeping in touch with God!

We think our mail-boxes are indispensable! Even so, one church means more to a community than all its postal facilities. For not so long ago men lived very happily without a postal system. But men have never lived happily without God!

Minister enjoys watching people

By RHONDA WOODALL
Church Editor

"I like the mix of experiences the ministry has. You have got all kinds of people in a week's time and you have all kinds of experiences," said the Rev. Keith Wiseman, minister of the First United Methodist Church. "You have a birth one minute, a death the next. You are dealing with a child one moment and maybe an older person the next. No one day is like the day before."

What is the key ingredient of being a minister? "To be a minister you better love people, because if you don't love people you are in trouble," Wiseman said.

"I love to watch people," Wiseman said. "As a minister you get to watch people in their intimate moments such as in sickness, happiness and troubled times."

Visiting members and visitors of the church allows Wiseman to study the personalities of people in their own environment. "I do a lot of visitation. I love being in people's homes because you can get the feel of the personality of the people," Wiseman said. "If there are books in the home you know that person likes to read."

How does Wiseman feel about his church as compared to other churches? "I hope we (the church) are more spiritual, more exciting, more enthusiastic and more outstanding (than other churches), but that is the personality of any church," Wiseman said.

Wiseman attributes his professional growth this last year to the change to a "larger church, larger staff, larger town, the great responsibility, the larger program and more demand on (his) time. "There are more people to visit. It's a challenge," he said.

"My goals for this year are to be more professional at what I do, more prophetic at what I say and be more priestly in representing the church of Jesus Christ," Wiseman said.

Wiseman enjoys participating in church activities and is a member of the choir. "We have an outstanding choir. Not too many ministers in town sing in the choir. I do that. I don't do a good job, but I try. I love music. I love the discipline, the challenge and the excitement of music."

How did Wiseman decide to become a minister? "I had been preparing for this (the ministry) all my life. My family had a deep Methodist tradition. One day I realize that I wanted to be a minister," Wiseman said. "My decision was a sudden realization, not a voice from God or a burning bush or thunder and lightning. My family has always been very supportive of ministers."

Wiseman was born in Hartley. He graduated from Dumas High School in Dumas, McMurray College in Abilene with a bachelor of arts degree and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas with a master of theology degree. Wiseman has ministered in Perryton, Lubbock, Levelland, Amarillo, Panhandle and Andrews. In Andrews, Wiseman served on several committees and boards and received the citizen of the year award for 1980.

Wiseman's family includes his wife Nancy, daughters Karla, Karyn and Kim. Wiseman and his wife toured Israel for one week in 1979. "My wife and I were given a trip to the Holy Land by the church in Andrews," Wiseman said. "That was an exciting event."

Wiseman has worked with youth work teams in Soldotna, Alaska and Mira Flores, Mexico. "In Alaska, we built an addition on to a church and did some renovation on the rest of the church. We also had a vacation bible school for the children," Wiseman said. "We did basically the same thing in Mexico."

Wiseman also spent a month touring Southeast Asia and preached evangelism in the Philippines for two weeks during a preaching mission in 1968.

Church celebrates anniversary

Edgar Carlisle

W. W. Pettus

The Birdwell Lane Baptist Church, located at 1512 Birdwell Lane, will celebrate its 40th anniversary beginning Sunday with an all day fellowship and revival meeting. Revival meetings will be held August 8-13. There will be another all day fellowship August 15.

Brother Edgar Carlisle, independent Baptist evangelist from Yukon, Okla., will lead the revival meetings. The meetings will be at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Birdwell Lane Baptist Church began August 11, 1942 as a local independent Baptist church. Under the name "Mount Zion Baptist Church," it had 14 charter members. Two of the charter members are still active in church work. The Mount Joy Baptist Church of Knott led in the organization of the church. Brother W. W. Pettus was the first pastor of the church.

The first year, the church met in the David Roten Building and homes of members. A permanent site was chosen at 1000 Lancaster Street in August of 1943. In July of 1946, the church moved to 608 N. E. 10th where it met until January of 1957 when the present location at 16th and Birdwell Lane was purchased.

The church moved the stucco building from the Northside location to the present location and met in it, until the erection of the present brick structure in February of 1964.

Brother Jack Collier, pastor, invites the public to the revival.

Women have prayer retreat

The women of the First Church of God held its Annual Prayer Retreat, Monday evening, in the home of Arath Phillips. Kathryn Thomas directed the Retreat titled "Intercessory: Is It Worth It?" written by Rev. Ross and Ina Minkler. Objectives were to learn the deeper meaning of Intercessory through biblical examples, personal experience and testimonies of others.

Betty Reagan reviewed the true story of Intercessory Prayer by the Minklers. The chorus, "Whisper a Prayer in the Morning" was used throughout the program. Lucille Harrington led the discussion on what it means to intercede and Hettie Minix revealed a personal experience through intercessory prayer. Vera Blackburn read the poem, "Because you Prayed."

Several key scriptures were read and briefed by Mrs. Harrington, Ms. Phillips, Joan Dickson, Virginia Chappell and Ethel Hickson.

In closing members formed the friendship circle and sang. Prayers were voiced by Frances Miller and Ms. Smith.

The next meeting will be September 6 at which the fall study on "Pluralism" will be directed by Mrs. Reagan, missionary education director.

Driggers to speak at church

Sherman Driggers of Trent, lay preacher and evangelist, will be guest speaker at the Calvary Baptist Church, located at 1200 W. Third, August 8 and 15. The services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. each Sunday.

Driggers has traveled to Indonesia, Brazil and other places to hold crusades. He and his wife are looking forward to seeing friends they have made in Big Spring during past revivals as guest speaker said Herb McPherson, pastor.

The public is invited to attend the services and hear Driggers speak.

Bridgeman is guest speaker

Evangelist Edgar Bridgeman of Sudan will be the guest speaker for a weekend revival at The Church of God of Prophecy, located at 15th and Dixie, tonight to Sunday. The services will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and at 6 p.m. on Sunday. Curtis Sculthorp, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Church to have evening VBS

Sand Springs First Baptist Church, located on 120 near Coahoma, will have Vacation Bible School, August 9-13, at 7:15 to 9 p.m. The VBS will be for all ages from nursery to adults.

An evangelism Bible study for the adult department will be led by the Rev. Odell Daugherty, pastor of the Second Baptist Church in Aransas Pass.

Friday night will be church wide fellowship time. Joe Rhodes is in charge of the VBS. The public is invited to join in the vacation bible school.

Stewardship is topic at service

Dr. Don Sewell of Fort Worth will speak on "Christian Stewardship" emphasizing the theme "Not Equal Giving But Equal Sacrifice" at the 6 p.m. Sunday service at the First Church of the Nazarene.

The church is entering a Capital Stewardship program which will be one of the most exciting and challenging efforts in her history according to Dr. Carl Powers, pastor.

At 9:45 a.m., Dell McGuire will lead the Sunday School in its "Stump the Summer Slump" promotion assisted by the "Mystery Absentee". The 10:45 a.m. service will feature the Sanctuary Choir directed by Jerry McGuire and accompanied by Vanessa Cooper and Gerry Spears. Dr. Powers will present the morning sermon entitled "The Successful Church."

'Hill Street' takes 21 Emmy award nominations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's "Hill Street Blues" repeated its outstanding performance of last year, capturing 21 Emmy nominations for the 34th annual presentation of the television awards.

The off-beat police show, which won nine Emmys in 1981, dominated many of the drama categories and in one overwhelmed all opposition with five nominations for best supporting actor in a drama series.

The closest competitor, with 12 nominations, was "Fame," an NBC rookie series based on the hit movie about New York's High School for the Performing Arts.

NBC, third in the ratings, swamped its more popular opposition with a total of 90 Emmy nominations. CBS, the front-running network in the ratings, had 83, and ABC got 70. PBS received 29 nominations, including 11 for "Bridgeshead Revisited" and 13 nominations went to syndicated shows.

OTHER SHOWS receiving multiple nominations include CBS' "M.A.S.H.," with 10, NBC's "Ain't Misbehavin'" and "Marco Polo," with eight apiece, and "Taxi" — the comedy show ABC canceled and NBC snatched up — with eight.

"Lou Grant," the newspaper drama whose unexpected cancellation by CBS caused a storm of protest, received eight.

ABC's "Inside the Third Reich," NBC's "SCTV Network" and Operation Prime Time's "A Woman Called Golda" each received seven.

"Barney Miller," the adroit police comedy ABC put on the retirement list, got five nominations.

"Hill Street Blues," last year's big winner, was nominated as best drama series, and Daniel J. Travanti was nominated as best lead actor in a drama series. The show took all five nominations for best supporting actor in a drama series: Taurean Blaque, Michael Conrad, Charles Haid, Michael Warren and Bruce Weitz.

Barbara Bosson and Betty Thomas were nominated for best supporting actress in a drama series. The show also received two nominations for best direction, four for best writing, plus nominations for best art direction, film sound editing and in other craft categories.

ABC will broadcast the awards live from Pasadena Civic Auditorium on Sept. 19.
