Henry Fonda dies of heart failure

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Henry Fonda, the plain-speaking Midwesterner whose gentle manner and sense of fair play epitomized for 50 years what Americans wanted in their heroes, died today after a long battle with heart disease. He was 77.

The Academy Award-winning actor, who starred in such film classics as "The Grapes of Wrath," "Mister Roberts," "Young Mr. Lincoln" and "Twelve Angry Men," died of heart failure at 8:15 a.m., said Larry Baum, a spokesman for Cedars Sinai Medical Center.

Fonda's wife, Shirlee, was at his side when he died. His Academy Award-winning actress daughter Jane and actor son Peter arrived just afterward, Baum said.

The veteran actor had been hospitalized at Cedars Sinai since

Sunday for a readjustment of his heart medication.

"He expired at 8:15 a.m. this morning with his wife at his bedside. His daughter Jane and son Peter came immediately to be with her," Baum said.

"His wife wanted it announced that Mr. Fonda willed his eyes to the Manhattan Eye Institute," Baum said.

Fonda, a giant of the stage, screen and television, kept up a vigorous acting schedule until 1981 despite implantation of a heart pacemaker in 1974. He underwent exploratory heart surgery in May 1981 and had been in and out of hospitals since.

According to his wife, Fonda had been virtually bedridden for more than a year. Prior to his last hospitalization, he was hospitalized for two weeks in July for a urinary tract infection, assessed tooth and adjustment of his heart medication.

Fonda won the best-actor Oscar for his role as a retired professor in "On Golden Pond," but was too ill to accept in person at the March awards ceremony. While he watched the telecast at his Bel-Air home, his daughter Jane accepted the award for him. His wife said he wept.

It was his first acting Oscar in three nominations, although he had won an honorary Academy Award for his distinguished career the year before.

A funeral was unlikely.

"I don't like funerals," Fonda told his biographer. "And it's in my will that there won't be one."

From the beginning of his film career, his lanky frame, easy grace of movement, deep, unclouded eyes and matter-of-fact Midwest speech fitted Fonda ideally for the American hero.

He brought freshness and a wide range to each role; from tragic, searching Abe Lincoln in "Young Mr. Lincoln" to battered migrant Tom Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath" to the light comedy of "The Male Animal" and "The Moon's Our Home."

Born in Grand Island, Neb., on May 16, 1905, Henry Jaynes Fonda grew up in Omaha, where his father ran a printing plant. Acting seemed an odd choice for the Eagle Scout, young clerk for Retail Credit and aspiring journalist, and his father initially was not enthusiastic.

"But don't you see? It's therapy for me," Fonda said late in life. "I loved the theater from the beginning because it gave me a mask. It ain't me playing a role up there; I'm Tom Joad or Mister Roberts or Clarence Darrow."

When he was a teen-ager, Fonda witnessed a lynching in Omaha.

He told his biographer, Howard Teichmann, that his father, William Fonda, had taken him to watch a mob that had gathered outside the jail where a rape suspect was held. The man had not even been charged.

"They took him, strung him up to the end of a lamppost, hung him, and while his feet were still dancing in the air, they riddled his body with bullets. Then, they cut down the body, tied it to an auto and dragged it through the streets of Omaha," Fonda said.

His father, he recalled, "never said a word to me. He didn't preach, he didn't make a point, he just made sure I saw it."

HENRY FONDA
...died today

FONDA DIES — Actor Henry Fonda, shown with actress Katharine Hepburn in a scene from his Oscar-winning performance in the film "On Golden Pond," died this morning after a long battle with heart disease in Los Angeles. He was 77 and had been in 91 motion picture and television productions during his career.

A lovable hero

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Henry Fonda was an actor critics praised for his captivating simplicity — a lanky plainsman who conjured images of "the average guy ... the unspectacular hero."

Tall and broad-shouldered, he was a man who could play presidents or dirt-poor Okies. His distinctive, resonant drawl carried him through more than 80 movies and countless stage performances.

But although his career star shone in New York and Hollywood, his roots remained in his home state of Nebraska.

"I'm Midwest and proud of it," he once told an interviewer.

Fonda, who won an Oscar as best actor this year for his work in "On Golden Pond" and, earlier, a lifetime achievement Academy Award, did not consider himself a great, serious actor — just lucky.

Without luck, Fonda said, "I may never have made it."

Born Henry Jaynes Fonda on May 16, 1905, in Grand Island, Neb., he was raised in Omaha as the son of a printer. He played baseball, was a Boy Scout and said he never had planned to be an actor. He took it up only after dropping out of the University of Minnesota, where he had been a journalism major.

Fonda returned to Omaha, and at the suggestion of a family friend, Dorothy Brando (mother of actor Marlon Brando), he stopped by the Omaha Community Playhouse. The director handed him a script.

Fonda told another interviewer he had to be pushed on stage the first time, but, "I liked the feeling of being up there after I realized that all eyes were not on me all of the time. I lost most of my self-consciousness and began to relax. It took me three years to decide that maybe this was what I really wanted to do."

From the beginning of his film career, his lanky frame, deep, unclouded eyes and matter-of-fact Midwest speech fitted him ideally for the American hero. Yet he refused to lapse into stereotype. He ranged from the tragic Abe Lincoln in "Young Mr. Lincoln" to the battered migrant Tom Joad in "The Grapes of Wrath" to the light comedy of "The Male Animal."

He favored movies with a strong social conscious, having been deeply affected by witnessing — at age 13 or 14 — the lynching of a rape suspect in Omaha.

Fonda later made a picture about a lynching, "The Ox-Bow Incident," and similar themes carried through many of his films and stage plays.

In "The Grapes of Wrath," Fonda was nominated for an Oscar for his performance as Tom Joad, an itinerant Oklahoman displaced by dust storms and the Depression into the vineyard's of California.

Five-times married, Fonda became the patriarch of an acting family that included his daughter, Jane Fonda, and son, Peter Fonda. He adopted another daughter, Amy.

Four of his five marriages were failures. He rebelled against authority at a time when stars were totally controlled by studio contracts. He devoted himself to liberal causes but was appalled at Jane's politics and was estranged from her for some time, at one time saying: "I have no daughter."

Later he became close with Jane and with son Peter, who also had been anti-establishment. Of Jane, her father said: "Basically, I think she's a good soul who has good instincts."

"They appeared together in 'Golden Pond.'"

In 1966 Fonda married Shirlee Adams, a former airline stewardess 28 years his junior. His fifth marriage proved enduring.

Tax office to remain open

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Tax Appraisal Office will remain open through next week to hear troubled taxpayers' appeals concerning new property values, according to Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira.

The appraisal office, which has met with more than 1,500 persons through today, is planning to work "until the last taxpayer has been heard," Pereira said.

Pereira said the original plans were to stop meeting with the public after two weeks, but, due to the deluge of persons in the office, the decision was made to remain open.

Many persons have complained to the Herald that they have been unable to register at the appraisal office. Mamie Lee Dodds of Drexel Street said she went down to the appraisal office to sign up and was told to come back the next day.

"They're not telling you you don't have to wait to get a protest form (for the appraisal review board)," Mrs. Dodds said. She also said the office was "coming down on values sight unseen."

Kathy Wornack said she stood in line two days in a row only to be told to come back the next day.

Ruth Mitchell of the appraisal office said the staff was registering about 120 persons in the morning and was forced to tell other people to come back the next day. The five appraisers can only see approximately 120 people a day, she said.

The staff was working from about 7:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. everyday, she added.

What about filing protests with the appraisal review board? "Taxpayers can come in next week to talk to us and if they're not satisfied, they can still file for the appraisal review board," Pereira said.

At present, the board of review has only set up Aug. 16-20 to meet.

However, other times are expected to be established, Pereira said. Presently, 435 persons have filed protests to meet with the board, according to Mrs. Mitchell.

If the board maintains its 15-minute limit on appeals while meeting from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., it will have approximately three weeks of hearings.

Utility values up or down?

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

One of the biggest questions being raised during this reappraisal turmoil is: "Why will my taxes go up?"

Many officials claim an unequal decline in mineral and utility valuations is responsible for switching the tax burden to homeowners. Although a check of 1981 county tax figures shows a decline in mineral values, an assertion by Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira that utilities' values have increased may not be accurate.

The major utilities in Howard County — Energas, Texas Electric Service Company and Southwestern Bell — show very little change in value when tax figures from 1981 and 1982 are compared. According to the 1981 tax roll from Tax Assessor-Collector Dorothy Moore's office, the utilities had the following taxable values: Energas $2,537,570; TESCO $10,133,800; SW

Bell $9,094,600.

Appraised values from Pritchard and Abbott, the appraisal firm that handled the district's mineral and utility appraisals, show a decline in Energas and TESCO and only a slight increase in SW Bell's values.

According to District Manager Jim Ruppel of P & A, their records show the following: Energas $2,167,020; TESCO $9,435,070; SW Bell $9,580,520.

Chief Appraiser Pereira said the values from P & A do not take into account the real estate value. "We get that property value," Pereira said. Adding those values to the values from P & A will give the increase for utilities as he had been saying, Pereira said.

Representatives of P & A explained Tuesday at a meeting of the tax appraisal district board that oil and gas valuations had decreased due to the drop in the price of a barrel of oil.

Auto insurance board debates rate increase

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Board of Insurance today planned to listen to conflicting testimony on how much to increase automobile insurance rates.

The board staff has proposed a 17.3 percent average statewide increase, adding up to $306 million in additional revenues.

However, the insurance industry announced Wednesday it wants a 33.2 percent increase.

A Texas Automobile Insurance

Service Office release said the big increase is justified by a "marked increase in both the number of claims and the average costs of those claims."

TAISO said accidents jumped 6.2 percent in 1981 up to a total of 792,763.

The organization also reported 10.8 percent increase in the number of traffic injuries and a 6.3 percent hike in traffic deaths.

"These statistics mirror the dismal picture for both insureds and insurers alike," the release said.

"The member companies of TAISO believe that their recommendation is both fair and realistic in that it takes into account the most recent automobile loss experience, the consideration of future losses, and the legitimate needs of the Texas automobile insurance industry," according to the release.

Israel steps up attack

By The Associated Press

Israeli jets today launched their heaviest strikes on west Beirut in the 9-week-old war. Lebanese leaders suspended talks with the United States on evacuating the PLO and appealed to President Reagan and King Fahd of Saudi Arabia to intervene to stop the bloodshed.

Lebanon's state and private radio stations said a cease-fire was negotiated to go into effect at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. CDT), but there was no official confirmation. The air strikes continued after more than 10 hours, and the radios claimed more than 300 people killed or wounded.

They said the operating room in the Berbir Hospital in west Beirut took a direct hit and that patients were evacuated. The stations also reported more than 100 buildings destroyed in at least 92 divebombing raids by the hovering jets.

"These wholesale massacres and mass obliterations of innocent lives and civilian casualties by Israeli warplanes must be stopped," Lebanon's Christian president, Elias Sarkis, said in telegrams he dispatched to Reagan and Fahd, the state radio and television reported.

Lebanon's Moslem prime minister, Shafik Wazzan, and Sarkis met for one hour with U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib in suburban Baabda, then suspended the talks. Wazzan said the "unwarranted and unprovoked" air attacks were a "clear proof that Israel was determined to destroy the Lebanese capital anyway."

"I have told Philip Habib that I cannot carry on in these talks while these thousands of tons of explosives are wreaking mass destruction in my city, my capital. I did not break up the talks. But I have told him I cannot carry on and hold him as well as the United States responsible for the consequences."

Fryrear honored for local research

NEW ORLEANS—Donald (Bill) Fryrear, agricultural engineer and research leader for the U.S. Department of Agriculture Big Spring Wind Erosion and Moisture Conservation Unit was named a Fellow of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

The Fellow Award is the highest honor the society confers on its members. It is given for professional excellence and for service to the organization. Society President Robert C. Baum of Oregon presented the award to Fryrear at the conclusion of the organization's 37th annual meeting held recently in Louisiana.

Fryrear was honored for his outstanding research contribution to southern Great Plains agriculture in the area of wind erosion and moisture conservation.

Fryrear was credited in particular for his work in developing wind erosion control systems compatible with prevailing agricultural production practices. Fryrear, who has been with the USDA Agricultural Research Service for 22 years, has authored more than 45 publications on the subject of erosion control and moisture conservation. He has been in Big Spring since 1965.

The Big Spring scientist's accomplishments include a method for using cotton gin trash to control wind erosion, a graded furrow system for minimizing water erosion, a method of estimating dust storms one year in advance to allow for protective measures, a system for using high-altitude photography to determine wind erosion effects and an engineering system for computing the wind erosion tolerance of crops.

BILL FRYREAR
...research cited

Fryrear also has designed a unique wind tunnel to evaluate crop injury, soil erodibility and water evaporation from sandy soils. A mini-conservation-ridge concept, developed by Fryrear to control water erosion, is assumed to have the potential to reduce construction costs of dryland terracing practices by 30 to 50 percent.

RUNAWAY CAR — The owner of this 1980 Mercury Zephyr, Sarah Wright of Sand Springs, was surprised to find her car had rolled across Gregg, jumped the curb and slid into the ditch across from Security State Bank about noon yesterday, paying no attention to the "No Trespassing" sign. "I was in the bank filling in a job application and people kept going to the window wondering whose car it was. I looked out and said that's my car!" The car suffered only minor damage, but it took two pick-up trucks to push and pull it from the three foot deep ditch, Ms. Wright said. "I was lucky," she said. Oh, she got the job, too.

DAR tells textbook board some books teach socialism

AUSTIN (AP) — After three days of hearings, State Textbook Committee members have been putting a little more bite in their questioning of protesters who want to eliminate schoolbooks from public school shopping lists for various partisan reasons.

The hearings continue today, the fourth of five days of testimony. At Wednesday's hearing, the committee was told by the Texas Daughters of the American Revolution that some of the schoolbooks promote violence and teach "socialist" beliefs.

Mrs. Billy C. Hutcheson of Fort Worth also complained that one civics book put too much emphasis on rights instead of duties.

"Where in the text do you find that people should obey the laws?" she asked. "Always, what are your rights?"

One member of the committee, which hands anonymous, written questions to a hearing examiner, asked Mrs. Hutcheson, "Are you saying that students are not American citizens?"

Another committee member insisted Mrs. Hutcheson document her claim that yoga, suggested as an activity by one health book, is a religious practice.

Mrs. Hutcheson said her group found one civics book to "promote violence" because it included a sample of authority. "Speeches designed to get people to destroy property may not be given on school grounds."

"Why bring it up?" Mrs. Hutcheson asked the committee. "If you tell a child not to put a bean up his nose, the first thing he'll do is put a bean up his nose, and it'll swell and then you'll have problems," Mrs. Hutcheson said.

Mrs. Hutcheson found a health book objectionable because it told junior high students, "As a resident of this planet, you have a part to play in keeping its resources safe for yourself and others."

Objected Mrs. Hutcheson: "...to make seventh graders responsible for keeping the planet safe for himself and others is too much — plus being a socialist-humanist belief not so identified."

She also objected to a health book she said used the World Health Organization definition of "health," by including mental well-being.

The WHO definition of "health" was "reportedly written by a Soviet spy," Mrs. Hutcheson said.

The annual Texas hearings draw national attention, since the volume of books bought by the state's public schools can affect publishers' marketing plans.

At Monday's opening session, the committee heard from Norma Gabler of Longview, a familiar figure at

Parachutist hurt in test jump

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Kenneth Studer, an Army parachutist testing chutes at the Big Spring Airport, suffered neck injuries during a jump Wednesday, according to warrant officer Bob Idhe.

Studer was reported in stable condition in Malone-Hogan Hospital Thursday morning. Studer said he felt "pretty good," but that he wasn't up to a long telephone conversation. Ann Weaver, Studer's aunt, said the injured jumper was in good condition, but having some pain and was groggy from medication.

Studer said his main chute suffered a "partial malfunction." The chute failed to open completely, he said, and rather than take the risk of landing at too high a rate of speed, Studer "cut away" or released his main parachute and opened his reserve chute. When the reserve opened, the jolt apparently injured Studer's neck.

Studer landed about a mile south of Trinity Memorial Park, Idhe said. One of his jumpmates landed near him, and a helicopter picked up the injured jumper. He was taken to Malone-Hogan for X-rays and treated.

"It happens," Idhe said of Studer's mishap. "It's just the law of averages — after so many jumps, something will happen, a line will get tangled or something."

Although Idhe said he expected Studer to be released from the hospital today, he did not feel that Studer would be making more jumps during the testing.

The jumpers have been in Big Spring since Aug. 2, testing the rectangular parachutes for military use. Various planes, including a civilian 727, have been used, and the jumpers have left the planes at altitudes from 8,000 to 30,000 feet.

Idhe said a parachute was lost Tuesday when another jumper cut away from his main chute after a malfunction. The Army is offering a $100 reward for the return of the undamaged parachute, which he said should be somewhere in the South Haven-Elbow area.

Finders of the parachute can call the group's operations base at 263-0287, or if the parachutists have stopped operations by the time the chute is found, call the Industrial Park at 263-1388.

BSSH to hold seminar

Big Spring State Hospital will conduct a substance abuse seminar Friday in the hospital auditorium.

The seminar is being held in conjunction with Howard College.

Melvin P. Sikes, Ph.D., a clinical and counseling psychologist and professor of educational psychology at the University of Texas at Austin, will be the consultant for this day-long seminar. Dr. Sikes has done research and published in the field of alcoholism, where he has over 20 years experience.

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of chemical abuse and to those of the general public who are interested in learning more about this problem. This seminar will be directed toward understanding the intervention strategies. The goal of the day will be to share practical, useful skills and experiences with people who work in this field.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. The general session will begin at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged. An additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive continuing education credits from Howard College will be made. (Persons wishing to receive full credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

Man arrested after disturbance

After receiving a report of a disturbance last night on the 600 block of Bell, police arrested Craig Clifford Johnson of 1700 W. First, police reports said.

The 21-year-old man was arrested at 11:38 p.m. on suspicion of possession of a controlled substance, disorderly conduct and public intoxication, police said. Police officers said they found the subject — intoxicated and possibly in possession of a controlled substance — shouting obscenities at several houses on Bell.

Police reports also showed the following:

• Salvador Trevino Jr., 17, of 204 N.E. Eighth and Salvador Trevino, 38, of 903 N.W. Third were arrested on suspicion of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle after police officer Bob Leahy saw them driving a stolen 1981 Buick Riviera at the Big Spring State Hospital at 12:45 p.m. yesterday. Trevino Jr. was transferred and released from county jail on $15,000 bond. Trevino Sr. remained in city jail this morning.

• Armando Noyola, 20, of 1200 Madison was arrested on suspicion of auto burglary at 4:42 p.m. yesterday after police received a report that at 3:51 p.m. a Mexican male driving a gold Pontiac stole a BB gun, money bag, car registration and proof of liability insurance from a vehicle parked at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Sheriff's Log

Assault suspect freed on bonds

Willie Myles of 1002 N. Main is free on bonds totaling $28,500 after being arrested by city police Sunday. The 45-year-old Myles was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin in connection with aggravated assault, assault on a peace officer and resisting arrest, according to Howard County sheriff's office records.

• Dorothy Adreona Ratliff, 42, and Joyce Clem, 28, both listed as residents of Route 1 in Big Spring, were transferred from Huntsville authorities to Howard County jail. Ms. Ratliff was arraigned before Heflin in connection with an issuance of bad checks warrant and bond was set at $10,000. Ms. Clem also remains in jail in lieu of $15,000 bond in connection with the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

• Jack Kermeth Frechette, 30, of Connecticut is in county jail under $15,000 bond in connection with the unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Bond was set by Heflin.

• Stan Lynn Fraley, 18, of 1506 Stadium, posted bonds totaling $6,000 following arraignment before Peace Justice Bobby West in connection with possession of a controlled substance and possession of marijuana.

• John Huckabee, 46, of 406 San Jacinto, was released from custody after posting a $5,000 bond set by Heflin. Huckabee is charged with theft from a person, according to sheriff's office records.

• Kenneth Achenbrenner, 24, of Kansas, was released after posting a $1,000 bond. West set the bond in connection with a possession of marijuana charge, records show.

• Marcella Lubbers, 21, of Kansas, posted a $1,000 bond in connection with a possession of marijuana charge. Ms. Lubbers was arraigned before West, according to sheriff's records.

For the record

The telephone number for Lakeview Elementary School in yesterday's Herald story concerning school registration was listed incorrectly. The number for the school is 267-7452.

Sunday's Public Records erroneously listed a DWI filing against Doyce Ray Haney under Howard County Court Filings. It should have been listed as a speeding ticket appeal. The Herald apologizes for the error and any inconvenience it may have caused.

Brass Nail restaurant sold

The Brass Nail Restaurant was sold two weeks ago for $15,500 to former operators Jerry Petersen and Johnnie Green, Petersen said.

Moore cited a booming business in satellite and computer sales as reason for the sale, Petersen said. Petersen, 80 percent majority business holder, was hired by Moore to manage the restaurant on "day one," Feb. 8, 1982, he said.

"I had expressed a desire to own my own restaurant last February," Petersen said. So Moore offered the business to Petersen and he and Johnnie Green assumed ownership July 29, Petersen said.

Petersen said he and Green plan to "continue to offer the excellent service and food that we have in the last six months."

The restaurant's kitchen, banquet facilities and dining room are leased from Brass Nail Club owner Dell Austin, Petersen said.

Proposed town to hold election

LAMESA (SC) — This Saturday will be a big day in the future of the Labor Camp located just outside Lamesa. The residents will hold elections and seek to incorporate the place they now live into a certified town.

The 75-acre farm camp has approximately 350 residents. Israel Ybanez and his wife Mary, who live in the camp, are running for mayor and city commissioner, respectively. Both are running unopposed in their quest for leadership of the proposed new city.

Ybanez has stated that he is seeking the election to better upgrade the area known as the Labor Camp and, if things go as planned, Ybanez would like to seek an election to legalize the sale of beer in the proposed new city, which would be named after Ybanez.

According to state law, a city must be in existence for 18 months before it can hold an election to legalize the sale of alcohol. If Saturday's election favors Ybanez, the earliest the Labor Camp could be granted permission to sell alcohol is in early 1984.

Surgeon general calls pot a 'major public health problem'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, concerned that attempts to reduce penalties against marijuana may be confusing the public, says all evidence "justifies serious national concern" about its dangers, especially to adolescents.

"Marijuana use is a major public health problem in the United States," Koop said Wednesday in issuing a statement asking doctors and other health professionals to tell patients about marijuana's effects and urge them to stop using it.

About 25 percent of the American population has tried marijuana, according to estimates.

"Based on scientific evidence published to date, the Public Health Service has concluded that marijuana has a broad range of psychological and biological effects, many of which are dangerous and harmful to health," Koop said.

Asked why Koop chose to issue his statement at this time, a Public Health Service spokeswoman said the surgeon general was worried that the public might be confused by calls for decriminalization of the drug. The Department of Health and Human Services, parent agency for the Public Health Service, does not favor decriminalization.

"He just wants to clarify that this department feels this is a dangerous drug," spokeswoman Shirley Barth said of Koop. "He's just reinforcing the way he feels."

The National Academy of Science's Institute of Medicine issued a report this year that said the long-term health effects of marijuana cannot be fully assessed because too little research has been conducted on the subject.

But Koop maintained that "what little we know for certain about the effects of marijuana on human health — and all that we have reason to suspect — justifies serious national concern."

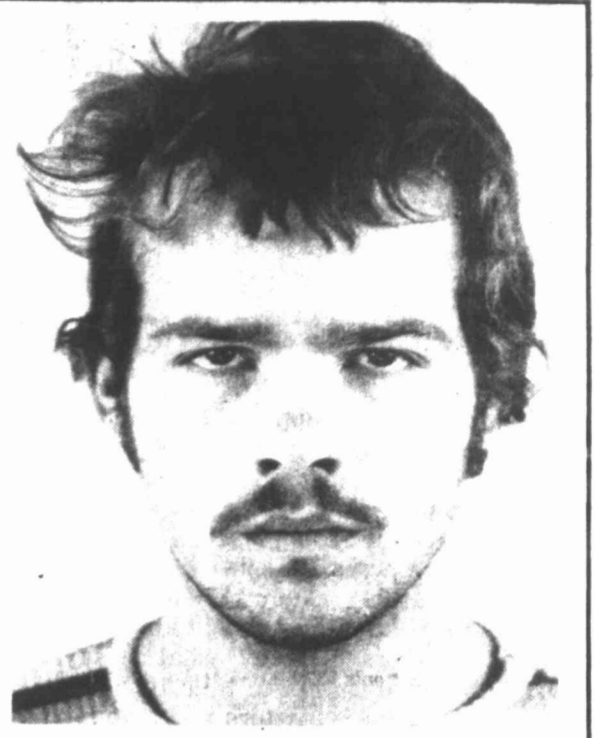

Excessive marijuana use can interfere with perception, with skilled performance tasks such as driving and with complex jobs involving judgment and motor skills, Koop said. Chronic marijuana use also can impair short-term memory, slow learning capacity, impair lung functioning in ways similar to that from cigarette use, decrease sperm count, interfere with ovulation and pre-natal development, interfere with normal heart operation and impair immune response, he added.

Byproducts from marijuana remain in body fat for several weeks. Their storage increases the chances of chronic effects and residual effects from the drug even after the immediate reaction has worn off.

Koop stressed the importance of discouraging adolescent use of marijuana because of what he believes to be the potential for long-term developmental effects. Marijuana use has increased about 30 times among youngsters over the last 20 years, he said.

"In 1978, nearly 11 percent of high school seniors used the drug daily; and although this figure declined to 7 percent in 1981, daily use of marijuana is still greater than that of alcohol among this age group," he said.

LARRY ROBISON
Held in connection with slayings

Police say man admits killing 5

FORT WORTH (AP) — A man arrested while sleeping in a car in Kansas is charged with murdering his Fort Worth roommate and says he killed that man and four other people, including an 11-year-old child, authorities said.

The slain roommate was decapitated and sexually mutilated. The throats of the other four were slashed. Larry Keith Robison told detectives Wednesday "that he committed the murders," but he has not given a signed statement to police, Deputy Police Chief Jack Bicknell said.

Robison, who turned 25 today, was charged Wednesday in the death of 31-year-old Ricky Lee Bryant, whose nude body was found Tuesday in a bedroom of Bryant's secluded cottage near Lake Worth. Bryant's parents said Robison was living at the cottage while looking for a job.

The other four victims were discovered in the house next door when police went there to question neighbors about Bryant's death, police said.

Bicknell said Robison knew all of the victims but gave no motive for the slayings. Robison gave his oral statement to detectives while being flown back to Fort Worth after waiving extradition from Wichita, Kan., Bicknell said.

Wichita police said Robison was taken into custody at daybreak — about 12 hours after the five bodies were found in Fort Worth — because a gun was spotted on the floor of the station wagon he was sleeping in behind a Wichita church. Wichita is about 425 miles from Fort Worth.

Wichita police said they called Fort Worth police after finding on Robison some identification papers belonging to two of the people killed in Fort Worth. Texas authorities issued a "probable cause" murder warrant for the arrest of Robison in connection with Bryant's death.

The other four victims were identified as Georgia Reed, 34, a masseuse; her son, Scott, who would have turned 12 today; her mother, Earline H. Barker, 55; and Bruce M. Gardner, 33.

Deadline nears for tax bill vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite new appeals from President Reagan and concessions from some of his top aides, congressional negotiators writing a $98.9-billion tax increase are still struggling for agreement as their self-imposed deadline nears.

Twenty-six hours before tonight's midnight deadline for completing the deficit-reduction bill, Senate and House conferees ended a day of informal bargaining sessions with no agreement and without setting a time for convening a formal meeting.

Only a few parts of a $17-billion package of spending cuts attached to the tax bill have deadlocked the conference committee — not the tax increases themselves.

The stalemate began Tuesday night over a House effort to increase welfare spending by $325 million over the next three years, but the problem spread into other areas, including proposed cuts in Medicare.

Nevertheless, said Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, "I think they're that close," bringing his thumb and forefinger together, on deciding spending cuts.

Congressional leaders want the conference to wrap up its work tonight so the House and Senate can complete action on the bill next week and then leave for a 2½-week recess.

Reagan, who used a speech in Billings, Mont., Wednesday to whip up public support for the tax increase, sent top aides to Capitol Hill in an unsuccessful attempt to break the stalemate.

Led by Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, the aides met with leaders of the conference and reportedly urged the Republican-controlled Senate delegation to stand tough against the House efforts to boost spending.

In addition, according to sources familiar with the session, the administration gave its blessing to a GOP plan that would attempt to build support for the bill by attaching liberalized unemployment compensation.

Shortly after the lunch meeting, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., pledged to the Senate that the final compromise would include additional jobless benefits.

He offered no details. But one proposal being considered would add an extra 10 to 13 weeks of benefits — for a total of 49 to 52 weeks — for workers who have been jobless so long that they have exhausted the basic 26 weeks of aid and the extra 13 weeks now available in severely hit states.

It also would protect workers in more than a dozen states where the third 13 weeks of benefits now allowed are due to end Sept. 25 under a new law.

Senate Republican leaders view the extra jobless aid as the bait that will allow just enough Democrats to support the tax bill to assure its passage. They reason that no lawmaker from a high-unemployment state can afford to vote against any bill containing extra jobless benefits, no matter how distasteful an election-year tax increase.

In his Montana speech, Reagan summed up his arguments for the bill: "Would you rather reduce deficits and interest rates by raising revenue from those who are not now paying their fair share; or would you rather accept larger budget deficits, higher interest rates and higher unemployment?"

Despite the president's pleas, some of his most ardent supporters are parting company with him on the tax increase.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., chairman of the American Conservative Union, released a survey indicating that 183 of the 435 members of the House oppose or are leaning against the bill. That includes 118 Republicans. Only 25 Republicans and 19 Democrats are siding with the president, Edwards said.

12 arrested in nuke sub protest

PORT LUDLOW, Wash. (AP) — The nation's first Trident submarine sailed into Washington waters today with Coast Guard boats spraying high-pressure hoses to open a path through a rag-tag flotilla of protest boats.

Six people aboard the 38-foot trimaran Lizard of Woz, one of the two flagships for a flotilla of rowboats carrying 47 anti-nuclear protesters, were washed overboard by the blasts of water, but there were no injuries.

The six were arrested along with six others aboard the trimaran for violating the Ports and Waterways Safety Act, said Coast Guard spokesman Doug Bandos. "We're using whatever means necessary to stop them," Bandos said. "They probably were directed to stop and would not."

The Coast Guard then surrounded the second large ship in the protest flotilla, the 54-foot sailboat Pacific

Peacemaker, as the USS Ohio slipped quietly through the water several miles away, surrounded by an escort of eight to 10 Coast Guard cutters.

The Peacemaker released a pod of 10 rowboats filled with protesters moments before it was intercepted by Coast Guard boats. The Coast Guard chased some of the smaller boats but at least one broke through.

Parole denied for Manson associate

FRONTIER, Calif. (AP) — A parole board, calling the even Sharon Tate-La Bianca murders "distorted and demented... incredibly cruel crimes," has refused to set a release date for convicted killer Patricia Krenwinkel and told her not to ask again for three years.

Miss Krenwinkel, the 34-year-old former Charles Manson disciple who confessed to the murders during her trial, was not present Wednesday to hear the board's decision.

"The prisoner is found unsuitable for future projection of rehabilitation," said Robert Ross, chairman of the Community Release Board panel which heard Miss Krenwinkel's request. Her fifth parole hearing since she became eligible for release in 1978.

The prosecutor, Los Angeles County Deputy District Attorney Stephen Kay, reminded the board of the most gruesome details of the slayings — that actress Sharon Tate was 8 months pregnant when she and six others were slain Aug. 9 and 10, 1969, that Miss Krenwinkel complained her hand hurt after stabbing through bones and that after she mutilated one body, she ate food from the victims' refrigerator.

The panel said Miss Krenwinkel, now a lifeguard at the prison swimming pool, is a model inmate without a single disciplinary infraction. But it was the memory of the murders that pervaded the hearing.

"The seven random murders of strangers was so shocking and bizarre as to leave the world incredulous," said Ross.

'Satan suit' agreement

ATLANTA (AP) — The Procter and Gamble Co. and an Atlanta television personality reached a consent decree in P&G's lawsuit accusing the man of passing along a rumor connecting P&G with Satan worship.

Jim Mackey, attorney for TV personality Guy Sharpe, said his client would make a statement regarding the lawsuit in the DeKalb County courthouse.

Mackey would not say what form the statement would take, nor would he say whether Sharpe's statement was a condition of the consent order signed by U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moye Jr. and filed in federal court here. But P&G spokesman G.S. Gendell at company headquarters in Cincinnati said Sharpe, a veteran television weatherman here, was expected to "indicate that there were certainly grounds for the suit. But we haven't told him what to say."

P&G filed suit against Sharpe on July 20, accusing him of urging a boycott of P&G products while addressing a group of retired people.

"At the meeting, (Sharpe) stated that the Procter & Gamble trademark was a satanic symbol and that Procter & Gamble was connected to satanism," the suit said.

New oilfield pumping unit earns praise

ODESSA — A new oilfield pumping unit marketed by Grooves Inc., is proof that man can challenge a computer and win.

The challenger in this case was Del Stork, an engineer at Goodyear's Lincoln, Neb., plant, who specializes in power transmission belts.

Stork was pitted against a computer by Jerry Watson, president of Odessa-based Grooves.

Watson's invention, a belt-driven oilfield pumping unit called "Big Wheels," was rejected when Goodyear checked his concept in its computer.

The Goodyear engineer hit on the idea of matching "Big Wheels" with the new Goodyear Torque Team V-belts that offer minimum stretching and maximum strength.

"I questioned the computer's findings because the capabilities of our new belts far exceed those of conventional belts for which our computer was programmed," Stork said.

Reprogramming the computer, Stork proved that Aramid fiber-reinforced Torque Team plus Joint V-belts could smoothly and efficiently drive Watson's pumping unit.

The first "Big Wheels" unit was installed in late 1980 in an oilfield near Odessa and has operated continuously without any problems. Twenty units are now pumping in the Permian Basin, he said.

Watson lists several advantages "Big Wheels" has over other units.

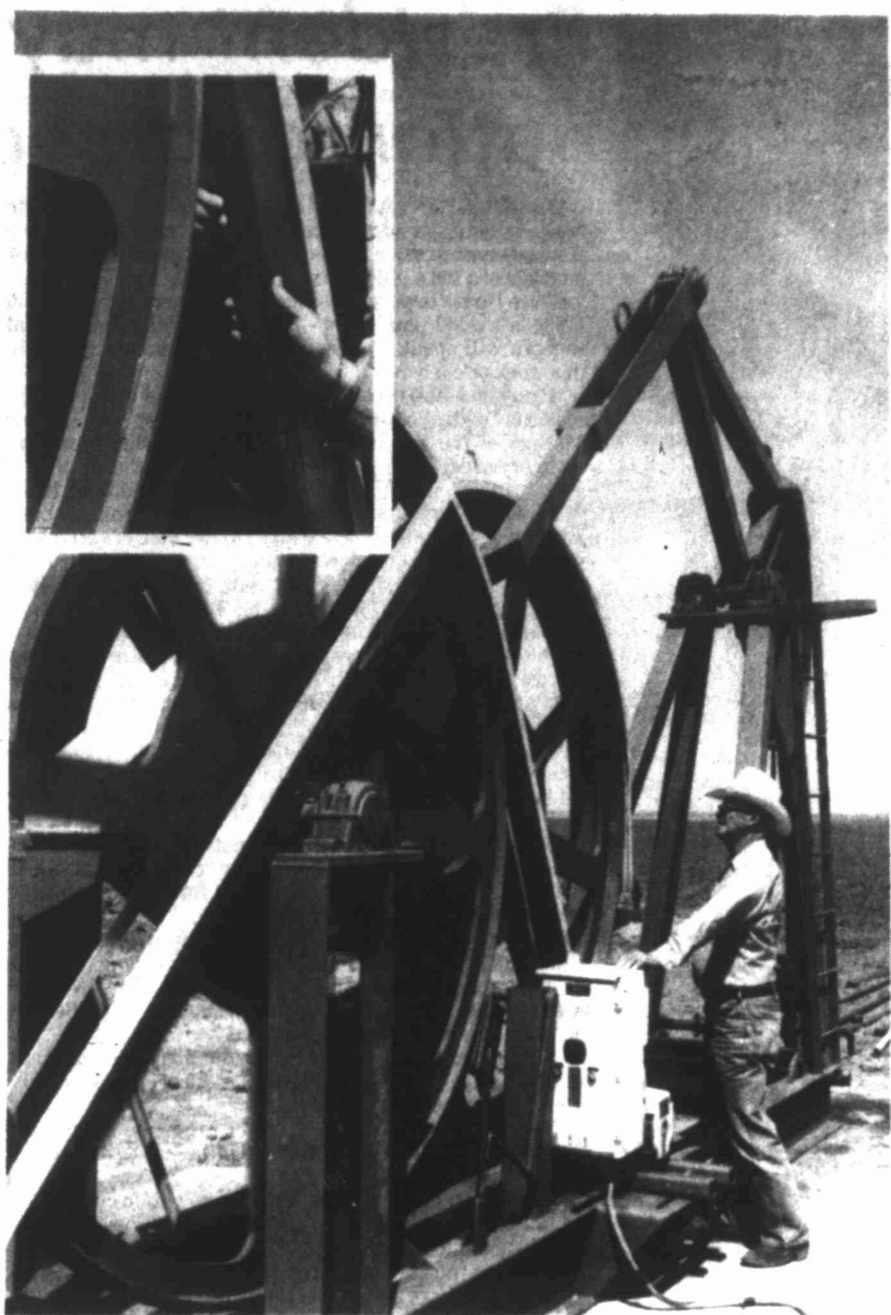

"The initial retail cost is 10 to 15 percent less than a conventional chain- or gear-driven unit," Watson said. "It uses 25 percent less fuel than other units and is simple to operate and maintain."

Watson credits the belt drive for much of the unit's simplicity.

"The simplicity, ease of maintenance and high availability of expendable parts has created international interest in the pumping unit," he explained.

The unit can operate at temperatures from 40 degrees below zero Fahrenheit to well over 100 degrees.

Another plus is the unit's "varying geometry" that provides a slower upstroke and faster downstroke of the rods leading from the unit to the well formation, causing less stress on the rods.

Neither rain nor hail nor nuke blast to stop postman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither nuclear blast, nor fallout, nor mass panic and destruction will stay the Postal Service from completing its appointed rounds in case of atomic attack, a government contingency plan promises.

The Postal Service is prepared to discuss the plan at a House Post Office subcommittee hearing today.

Retired Rear Admiral Gene LaRocque and other critics of President Reagan's civil defense plans are expected to say that the United States can forget about getting the mail if nuclear war breaks out.

The contingency plan, several hundred pages thick, was given to the subcommittee before the hearing and shown to a reporter.

In the deadpan style of military plans, it lists what forces could be used to carry out what tasks in case of either nuclear or conventional war.

Dozens of other agencies are expected to prepare similar manuals.

The Postal Service plan has two goals: to deliver mail during a national emergency "to the extent possible under the circumstances," and to protect postal employees as much as possible.

It sets out a chain of command in case the postmaster general and other postal officials are incapacitated. If all of the Washington officials are unable to continue, the regional postmaster general for each of the five regions of the country would take command of mail service there.

Whatever remained of the Postal Service would concentrate on moving the essential mail and on helping other federal agencies in case of nuclear or conventional war. One task is handing out "alien enemy" registration forms.

The plan said the Postal Service has "emergency change of address" forms ready for those displaced by war. It also has picked five places for storing records critical to the continuity of postal operations: Tupelo, Miss.; Salem, Ore.; Pocomoke, Md.; Greenfield, Mass.; and Elizabethtown, Ky.

Any mail coming from disaster areas will be screened for radiological contamination, the plan said.

Express mail would be suspended and services such as insurance, registered mail and special handling would not be offered, it said.

O.I.L. expansion explained to Lions

O.I.L.'s philosophy is to make things happen. This is behind O.I.L.'s recent expansion of its capability of oil well drilling rig production in the face of a mounting stack of rigs nationwide. According to O.I.L. figures, out of the 29 new rigs made in the first half of this year, 16 were turned out by O.I.L.

Yet O.I.L. is not immune to industry trends or general economic conditions. E. Dean Holland, in charge of contract administration for the company, told the Downtown Lions Club at its Wednesday meeting.

"For instance, O.I.L. has pared its employee total from a peak of 700 plus to around 600 today. Some of this represents a consolidation of operations," some a slackening of the pace, he said. At its peak, O.I.L. had a $12,000 per hour payroll.

"We have not slowed down our production, and we don't intend to," Holland declared. "We are trying to force something to happen, and like all manufacturers we hope to come out with a profit."

The method for making something happen, he explained, is through interests in oil leases, exploration and financing. O.I.L. builds a rig, sells to a drilling contractor, who then is given a 12-month contract to drill on some of the 8,000,000 lease acres in which the energy division of Kidde Corp., the parent company, has an interest.

Since it normally takes about eight years to amortize a rig cost, O.I.L. and Kidde Credit make every effort to keep the contractor-buyer busy, for "We don't want to see any rigs rolling back into Big Spring.

O.I.L. is getting into the foreign market with its rigs, he added, and is showing keen interest in off-shore drilling apparatus. There is no plan to manufacture other items at the Big Spring site, Holland says. There has been some discussion on phasing out at least part of the contract welding force into O.I.L. employees, but if this were to happen, it likely would be phased in with the veteran employees of the company.

Burglars hit Marie Osmond home

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Burglars took furs and silverware from the home of singer Marie Osmond and her husband, according to police chief Swen Nielsen.

The couple had been away for several days and discovered the loss when they returned Tuesday, Nielsen said.

He said the loss was reported by Miss Osmond's husband, former Brigham Young University basketball player Stephen Craig. The couple got married June 26.

Nielsen said a list of the missing items had not yet been made.

He said the burglars got in Monday after undoing a collar around the plastic bubble covering a skylight.

"We are sure there was more than one (burglar), but how many we don't know," he said.

When going gets tough, Reagan does job himself

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is said to have many matters to subordinates. But when something truly matters to him, he goes all out.

And he's been doing just that for more than a week in his quest to convince Congress to pass a bill to increase taxes by $98.9 billion over three years.

This time around, the president went so far as to delay or at least a week the vacation he was to have begun Aug. 1. So instead of riding his beloved horses at his ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif., the president remains in the nation's capital, ushering in his lobbying blitz.

In the past week, Reagan has summoned perhaps 150 Republican congressmen to the White House for some one-on-one arm twisting. Every day several new waves of congressmen meet with the president and listen to him and his aides explain the tax bill. Some of them emerge saying their minds have been changed.

The Reagan style doesn't stop with congressmen, however. He also has met with business leaders who support the bill, such as Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca. And he placed his former political director, Lyn Nofziger, in charge of conducting the lobbying effort even though Nofziger opposed the tax bill a week ago. It was Reagan who convinced Nofziger to change his mind.

The president also may make a nationally broadcast address to the nation on the topic, the same thing he did last July during the White House offensive to win passage of a bill to cut taxes by 25 percent over 33 months.

If he follows the same script he used last year, Reagan will ask constituents to deluge their congressmen with so many telegrams and telephone calls that Congress will be afraid to ignore the message from back home.

Whether he can pull this one off remains to be seen. But he has yet suffer a major loss on economic issues.

By most accounts, Reagan's lobbying manner is low-key. The congressmen say afterward that the president and his aides listen to their questions and provide answers. There are indications that a bit of old-fashioned horse trading also enters the picture.

THOUGH MOST of his sessions with congressmen have been closed to the press, the White House did allow reporters and cameras in briefly during one of three meetings Tuesday.

The photographers entered the Cabinet Room first, took their pictures and left. The television cameras were next. Reagan waited until the cameras were in place before launching into what appeared to be a prepared speech about the need for the tax bill.

"What we're really talking about is the necessity to reduce the deficits and thus get interest rates continue coming down and get the economy moving again," Reagan said. "Those who are opposed to it cannot hide from the fact that they are supporting increased deficit and higher interest rates."

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker told reporters that Reagan should make a televised speech because he is the most effective communicator around.

In addition, Baker said, the lobbying sessions at the White House were working. "I think he's gaining recruits every day, and only the president can do that."

$7.5 billion OK'd for military construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House bill earmarking a record $7.5 billion for military construction and family housing programs is headed for a conference panel where members will try to work out differences with a leaner Senate version.

Approval of the fiscal 1983 measure came on a 332-57 vote Wednesday night. Before the measure passed, the House rejected efforts to cut funds for NATO-related projects and place the House on record as opposed to a Senate provision that would help Honduras upgrade two military airfields.

The bill is $1.5 billion bigger in multi-year spending authority than Congress enacted for the current fiscal year and $1.1 billion larger than the version the Senate approved June 30.

Most of the Senate savings came from a freeze on all new housing construction and other projects deemed "nice to have" rather than critical in a time of budget problems.

But the House bill had something for every state and about two dozen foreign countries among the more than 1,000 projects it authorizes, and none was deleted during the floor consideration.

In fact, members agreed to add $7 million for two more buildings — National Guard armories in Boston and Gary, Ind. — during the four hours they spent on the bill.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., lost by a resounding voice vote when she proposed that the measure be cut by 5 percent across the board, to $7.13 billion.

Much of the House's time was spent debating, and defeating, two amendments that dealt more with foreign policy than with brick and mortar.

Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Ohio, moved to forbid use of $375 million earmarked for the U.S. contribution to constructing facilities shared by the NATO allies in Western Europe if three or more of the allies do not meet their 1978 goal to increase defense spending by an inflation-adjusted 3 percent.

Eckart's measure, which lost 245-151, reflected a growing feeling in Congress that the allies have not been paying their share of the common defense.

PRESIDENT ON THE MOVE — Reagan tells reporters yesterday time is of the essence as he makes his way to airport for a flight to Montana, where he was to push his tax plan.

President may address nation on need for tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is likely to make a televised address to the nation, perhaps before a House-Senate session on Capitol Hill, seeking support for passage of a $98.9 billion tax-increase bill.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said there is a good possibility — but no final decision — that Reagan will speak to Americans about the tax hike late this week or early next.

Meanwhile, the president is resuming his arm-twisting sessions with congressmen today as he lobbies for passage of the tax bill he says is vital to his economic recovery program.

Reagan set aside time to see congressmen during three White House meetings. For days, the president has been working to convince rebellious House conservatives to support the tax bill.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., has invited Reagan to use Capitol Hill as his forum in making an appeal to the public on behalf of tax increase bill.

White House aides say, however, there is a far better chance that Reagan will address the nation about the legislation from the Oval Office, rather than from Capitol Hill.

Administration sources told the Washington Post the president has reached a definite decision to make the public appeal and will probably deliver it during prime time Monday from the Oval Office.

Speaking anonymously, administration officials expressed fears that O'Neill was trying to trap the president politically and pin sole responsibility for an election-year tax hike on Republicans.

Reagan tweeted O'Neill during a trip Wednesday to Billings, Mont., saying Republicans were leading the fight for budget cuts. "Imagine if we had two Tip O'Neills," Reagan told a fund-raising luncheon for GOP Senate candidate Larry Williams.

At a celebration of Billings' 100th birthday, Reagan said he would have to be a magician to fix the economy quickly after "40 years of fiscal irresponsibility."

"You know," he ad-libbed, "that might be more fun: pulling rabbits out of a hat instead of jackasses out of the way in Washington."

For his part, O'Neill said there was no public clamor for the tax bill and that Reagan should address Congress if he really wants the legislation.

"There is no incentive for the Democrats unless he (Reagan) can get a good majority of Republicans,"

O'Neill told reporters in Washington. "The Democrats are very, very reluctant to go along with the tax bill while there's a brigade of Republicans opposing the president and getting all the news."

"Why should we pull their chestnuts out of the fire?" O'Neill asked.

In his speeches in Montana, Reagan portrayed himself as a reluctant advocate of the tax hike and said he endorsed it only as a means of winning support for budget cuts and trimming the deficit.

Reagan said the Democratic-Republican coalition that provided the majority for approval of tax and budget cuts last year could not be put together again "unless we would agree to some increased revenue."

"In order to get $280 billion in reduced outlays over the next three years, we had to agree to the added revenues of $99 billion," Reagan said. "The ratio of reduced outlays to revenues is three-to-one."

"I figure the compromise is worth it," said Reagan.

Death Row numbers 1,018 inmates on hold

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

America's death row population has swollen to 1,005 men and 13 women, with more than 800 of them concentrated in 10 Southern and Western states.

A survey by The Associated Press found that Florida leads the nation with 188 men under death sentence. Texas ranks second with 163 men and two women, followed by California with 109 men, Georgia with 94 men and four women, Alabama with 49 men and one woman, Arizona with 46 men, Illinois with 42 men, Oklahoma with 38 men and one woman, Mississippi with 35 men, and Tennessee with 30 men.

The U.S. Supreme Court paved the way for the reintroduction of the death penalty in 1976 after a pause of nearly 10 years. Because the appeals process can take years, the death row population has grown rapidly ever since. No one faces imminent execution, however.

In 1977, when Gary Gilmore was shot by a Utah firing squad, the count stood at 398. By March 9, 1981 when Steven A. Judy became the fourth man executed in recent years, there were 739 death row inmates.

Convicted murderer Frank Coppola became the fifth Tuesday night when he died in Virginia's electric chair.

Thirty-five states have the death penalty — including New Jersey where Gov. Tom Kean signed a death penalty bill into law Friday. But in three of the 15 states that do not have the death penalty, the issue remains hot.

Massachusetts voters will decide in November whether to adopt a state constitutional amendment which could pave the way for death penalty legislation.

Death penalty proponents in Oregon failed earlier this year to get enough signatures to put a similar measure before voters in November.

New York technically has a statute applying the death penalty to people under life sentence who kill prison guards. But it's generally agreed that new statutes would have to be passed before the death penalty could be invoked in that state. Outgoing Gov. Hugh L. Carey has repeatedly vetoed such attempts.

Besides those three states, the District of Columbia, Iowa, West Virginia, Alaska, Maine, Kansas, Rhode Island, Michigan, Vermont, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and Hawaii do not have the death penalty.

DEATH ROW POPULATION

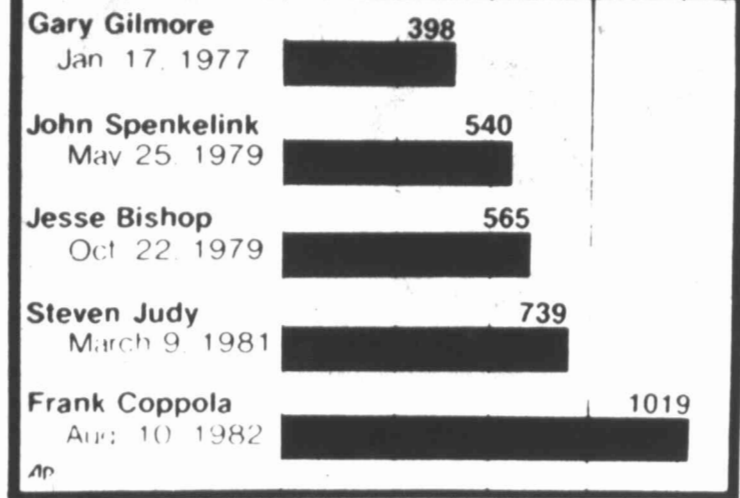

CHART SHOWS POPULATION OF DEATH ROW — Using this chart, one can see how the population of Death Row has risen in the past few years.

Four states have death penalty statutes but no inmates on death row: New Jersey, Connecticut, South Dakota and New Hampshire. The method of execution in 16 states is electrocution. Nine states use lethal gas, three use hanging, and one uses the firing squad. Four states — Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Idaho — use lethal injections. Washington allows a choice of hanging or injection. New Jersey has not chosen its method, but Kean is said to favor injection.

Only a handful of death row inmates have execution dates, and all are in the midst of appeals that will take months or years.

In Texas, Henry M. Porter, convicted of the 1975 shooting death of a Fort Worth policeman, was scheduled for execution on Thursday, but a federal court Tuesday granted him a stay.

Stories about those who were executed

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer

With the electrocution of Frank J. Coppola in Virginia, five men have been executed in the United States since the Supreme Court revived the death penalty in 1976.

Four of those put to death in the past 15 years, Coppola included, suspended all legal appeals. Only John Spenkelink, electrocuted in Florida on May 25, 1979, was executed against his will.

Gary Gilmore was the first person to be executed in the United States in nearly a decade when he went before a Utah firing squad on Jan. 17, 1977. Gilmore had spent 13 of his 36 years in prison for crimes ranging from reckless driving to murder. He had once bragged of stabbing someone 57 times while in jail.

Gilmore refused appeals after being convicted of fatally shooting a hotel clerk and a gasoline station attendant. He went on a hunger strike and twice tried to kill himself before being taken to his death. His final words were "Let's do it."

Spenkelink was the next to die, in Florida's old oak electric chair. He went to his death insisting that the man he had shot twice and beat over the head with a hatchet had forced him at gunpoint to engage in a homosexual act.

The execution ended a six-year legal battle on behalf of the 30-year-old Spenkelink, whose life of crime began at the age of 13.

Spenkelink once sent his mother a drawing from jail of an electric chair painted red, white and blue. He called it "The Spirit of '76."

Jesse Bishop died in the Nevada gas chamber on Oct. 22, 1979. He considered his fate "winning by dying." Bishop had been convicted in the 1977 Las Vegas murder of 22-year-old David Ballard, a newlywed.

Before going to his death, Bishop, 46, put 35 cents in his pocket, and told his family he'd call them "when he got to wherever he was going."

Bishop made no effort to appeal or stop the execution. His family said he didn't want to die but that he realized he had no other viable choice.

It was 17 months before Steven Judy's life ended in Indiana's freshly varnished black oak electric chair on March 9, 1981. Like Gilmore and Bishop, he had resisted efforts to stop the execution.

"I don't hold no grudges. This is my doing. Sorry it happened," he said before walking calmly and unassisted to the chair.

The 24-year-old Judy, convicted of raping and strangling a young mother and drowning her three small children, was given a 2,300-volt charge for 10 seconds and a 500-volt followup charge for 20 seconds.

Pesticide offers hope in war on fire ants

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new pesticide has been developed that "offers hope for defeating the fire ant," a stinging, mound-building insect that has plagued farmers and homeowners in the South for decades, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

The department's Agricultural Research Service said the chemical has been tested and may go on the market next year. It was invented in 1974 by Meyer Schwarz, a chemist at the agency's research center in Beltsville, Md.

But the final product "is the payoff of a team effort" between the department and Stauffer Chemical Co., Richmond, Calif., which has been granted an exclusive license to produce the chemical, officials said.

Fire ants were imported accidentally from Argentina more than 60 years ago and have spread over an estimated 230 million acres in the South. Their bites and stings pose hazards to humans as well as livestock and wildlife.

A number of chemicals have been used to fight the ants, but some of the most effective proved to be harmful or potentially hazardous to the environment.

Called MV-678 by the company, the new chemical scores high on all fronts, officials said.

"It is not only a very promising chemical for controlling fire ants, it fulfills all the criteria that modern pest management and environmental integrity require," Schwarz said.

According to the research agency's report, MV-678 "is not just another temporary fix that kills on contact." Instead, it "slowly disrupts the ants' social system" over a period of several months.

"The compound affects only insect systems — namely, the development and metamorphosis of insect larvae — and kills a very narrow range of insects," it said.

Moreover, the chemical is effective at a low dosage of less than five grams or one-sixth of an ounce per acre. It also breaks down readily in the environment, the report said.

In experiments, the chemical has been most effective when baited with droplets of soybean oil mixed with corn grits.

Mark White's predecessors prefer Clements as governor

AUSTIN (AP) — Four former Democratic state attorneys general said Wednesday they have chosen Republican Gov. Bill Clements over the Democratic nominee, Attorney General Mark White.

"I admire his political guts," said John Ben Sheppard of Odessa, who was attorney general in 1963-67. "I'm speaking as an independent Democrat."

"The attorney general has at his command the entire professional energy of his staff. I don't know what General White has done with the office," said Will Wilson of Austin, who was state attorney general 1957-63 and then received a Republican appointment as assistant U.S. attorney general in 1969.

Waggoner Carr, who was attorney general 1963-67, said he offered Clements his support "in the firm belief he will provide stronger leadership during the next four years in fighting back the forces demanding more and more government spending and higher taxes."

Clements said former Attorney General Gerald Mann of Dallas also endorsed him.

Pioneer feels slumping market for uranium

AMARILLO — Pioneer Corp. announced it has made an after-tax charge of $29.7 million, or about 80 cents per share, to second quarter earnings, in order to provide for an unrealized loss on the uranium properties of subsidiary companies.

On a pre-tax basis, the charge was about $55 million. Because of the special charge, the corporation reported a loss of $13.1 million, or 35 cents per share, for the three months ended June 30, 1982. Without the charge, Pioneer would have earned $16.6 million, or 45 cents per share, in the second quarter.

With the special charge, Pioneer's earnings for the first half of 1982 amounted to $16.8 million, or 45 cents per share. Without such charge, Pioneer would have earned $46.5 million, or $1.25 cents per share, for the first half.

K.B. Watson, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, stated that the past quarter was the first time in 14 consecutive quarters that Pioneer did not have earnings higher than those for the comparable period a year earlier.

A year ago, the Amarillo-based energy resources corporation earned $28.4 million, or 76 cents per share, for the second quarter and $57.6 million, or $1.54 per share, for the first half.

Watson said that three factors led Pioneer to make the special charge: the results of a recently completed study of production costs, the suspension of operations at the Conquista uranium mill in South Texas, and the continuing decline in the market price for uranium.

Pioneer's uranium operations are now limited to the work necessary to consolidate and hold certain leases, Watson said. Beyond that, the corporation does not foresee any further uranium activity, until there is a substantial improvement in the uranium market, he said.

Pioneer had consolidated revenues of $254 million for the second quarter of this year, compared with $308 million for the same period of 1981. Revenues for the first half of 1982 were $557.2 million, compared with $596.2 million last year.

Watson said the main reason for the decline in income, prior to the special charge, was the reduced demand for natural gas, which affected Pioneer companies engaged in gas transmission and production. Watson noted, however, that pipeline sales to special contract customers increased in July, and he said that trend is expected to continue through the rest of the year.

The most profitable Pioneer subsidiaries in the second quarter were those engaged in oil and gas exploration and production, contract petroleum drilling and natural gas liquids extraction, according to Watson.

He also announced that the directors of Pioneer declared Aug. 3 a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share, payable Sept. 2 to stockholders of record Aug. 19, 1982.

Officials probe stock virus outbreak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department investigators are probing a viral disease that primarily affects cattle, horses, swine and sheep.

The officials so far have checked the disease on about 100 farms and ranches in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah.

William Buisch, director of emergency field operations for the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said Monday the disease causes "blister-like lesions" on the animals but is "ordinarily short-lived and not fatal."

Buisch said the department is involved because vesicular stomatitis "cannot clinically be distinguished" from foot-and-mouth disease, a foreign disease which does not now exist in the United States.

"Therefore, USDA officials are investigating the reported cases to be certain that foot-and-mouth does not enter the country unrecognized," he said.

"In dairy herds, the loss of milk production may be a serious economic side effect of vesicular stomatitis and, in some cases, mastitis may follow," Buisch said.

The virus can affect humans through close contact with diseased animals, Buisch told a reporter. At least three such cases have been reported to the agency, he said. Influenza-like symptoms and fever can develop.

Buisch said the disease generally reappears in a region every 10 or 15 years. In 1965, about 250 herds were infected in the four states. The last major outbreak occurred in 1966 in Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Commissioners OK budget

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mitchell County Commissioners approved Monday the 1983 budget, which calls for a deficit of $61,874.

County Judge Bill Carter says the estimated revenues have been set at $1,727,305, while expenses are pegged at $1,789,179. The county plans to make up the deficit by investments by certificates.

Annuals to be handed out

Students at Coahoma and Forsan high schools will be glad to know annuals will soon be handed out, according to school officials.

Forsan students can pick up their annuals Friday, Aug. 20 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the high school in room No. 15. Students need to bring a receipt with them before annuals will be given out.

The Coahoma annuals will be dispersed Thursday, Aug. 19 from 6-8 p.m. at the new elementary school library. According to high school Principal Ronnie Bourland, students will need either an annual receipt or check stub to prove purchase of the annuals.

Lunch prices increased

COLORADO CITY (SC) — After many weeks of discussion, Colorado City school trustees voted last night to increase the prices of school lunches, effective with the 1982 school year.

Mrs. Baird's Bread and Gandy's Dairies won the bids for bread and milk for the lunchrooms.

In other action, the board granted a leave of absence to high school DE teacher Gene Douglas, accepted the resignation of one teacher and hired five new instructors.

Chapter observes fifth anniversary

Members of Tejas Chapter of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century meet in the home of Mrs. Bernice McCreia of Abilene, July 30-31, to observe the fifth anniversary of their chapter's organization. New officers were installed with Mrs. McCreia as president.

Attending the meeting from Big Spring were Margaret Barnett and Helen Dawson Cobean. Joining them was Mrs. Cobean's granddaughter, Jodi Hamby of Guthrie, Okla.

The Texas Chapter was organized in Washington, D.C. on April 15, 1977 with three members and Delila Baird of Rotan as organizing president. Tejas chapter is number 23 of 24 chapters of the national society. The chapter has grown to 37 regular members, five juniors and one associate member.

Membership is by invitation only. Prospective members must be recommended by two members of the society who personally can vouch that she will be a desirable member of the chapter and the national society.

The National Society of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century was organized in Brooklyn, N.Y. and incorporated May 4, 1896. Its objectives are patriotic, philanthropic, educational and historical. Its purpose is perpetuating the memory of brave and hardy pioneers who assisted in establishing the Colonies of America with specified services from May 1607 to December 1699. It's aim is a congenial group of women with similar interests in heritage and philosophy, who can meet together for fellowship and study in activities.

Mrs. Dan C. Gary of Union City, Tenn., the president general of the national society, was guest speaker at the meeting. She spoke on American patriots and importance of knowledge of history and patriotism to the continued growth and existence of our nation.

In appreciation of her visit, Mrs. Gary was presented a check to be applied on her special project during her administration as President General. She was honored at a dinner party by Mrs. Kenneth G. Whisenand of Abilene at the Petroleum Club Room at Abilene National Bank in Abilene, July 30. In addition, Mrs. Gary is the president national of the National Society Women Descendants of the Ancestral and Honorable Artillery Company.

Spicing marinades

Marinades, to be successful, should have not only the right oil and acid balance but should be spiced to enhance the food they bathe.

Phillip Panzarino, consulting chef to the American Spice Trade Association, advises that when you are using leafy herbs they should be crushed between your palms just before adding. Even bay leaves will develop more flavor if they're broken into a few pieces. In beef or lamb marinades use plenty of the lusty spices — black pepper, baby leaf, thyme or rosemary.

For chicken or turkey you might want ginger, marjoram or tarragon in addition to pepper.

Seafood marinades often call for aromatic seeds such as dill, celery or fennel ... or a sprinkling of crushed tarragon leaves. Less marinade will be needed to cover the meat if you use dishes or pans (never aluminum) that are as close to the size of the meat as possible.

Always refrigerate marinating foods so there's no danger of spoiling, and keep tightly covered. Certain foods will absorb marinade more quickly — beef, lamb, pork and fish in particular. To make chicken more absorbant prick the pieces with fork tines at lunch intervals.

Craft is displayed at bank by artist

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer

Mrs. Patricia Richardson of Nashville, Ind., artist, is displaying and selling her artwork of configuration of leaves in the lobby the State National Bank, located at 901 Main St., from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., August 11-13.

Mrs. Richardson has done leaf work consisting of configurations made from pressed leaves for ten years. The unique process was developed by Pansy Stockton of Santa Fe, N.M., but Mrs. Richardson developed the process on her own without the knowledge of Mrs. Stockton, according to her husband, John Richardson.

Mrs. Richardson was invited to display her work at the bank while it was on display at Hotel Galvez in Galveston. Mrs. John Curry, the bank president's wife, saw Mrs. Richardson art work at the hotel and invited her to display her work at the bank when she had a chance.

Following her exhibit here, Mrs. Richardson will return to Hotel Galvez in Galveston for shows in late August and during the fall and winter.

One of Mrs. Richardson's configuration of leaves was bought by an anesthesiologist from North Carolina as a gift for the leading heart surgeon in Poland. It was given to the surgeon in Warsaw, Poland in March 1980.

Mrs. Richardson's art work has been displayed in Santa Fe, N.M., Estes Park, Colo., Galveston, and in many malls throughout the United States. The art work has been bought by people from Europe and the Far East.

Mrs. Richardson take orders and does "request work" from photographs of individuals and pets. Those wishing to talk to Mrs. Richardson can contact her at the bank through Friday or write her at Old State Road 46, Box 724, Nashville, Ind. 47448.

Dear Abby

Car seats for children save lives

DEAR ABBY: "Learned Too Late" lost Tina, her precious 6-month-old daughter in a car accident because the child was not secured in a car seat. She wrote, "If writing this saves only one child, Tina's death will not have been in vain."

I want Tina's mother to know what she has done for me. We have a 7-month-old son, Steven, who has always had the safest surroundings we could provide — except in the car. There, I lovingly placed him in a carrier beside me. Tina's mother made me see that all the love in the world could not keep our precious child safe in a car without a car seat and seat belt.

The awful truth is that I have a car seat, but have never used it. I found all sorts of excuses — too much trouble, Steven fussed and fought it, takes too long, etc. What a selfish, careless mother I've been. But no more! A trip may take a few extra minutes, but Steven's life is worth it!

Thanks to Tina's mom for being brave and selfless enough to tell her story. This mom...

LEARNED IN TIME IN CLOVIS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing the letter from "Learned Too Late." We also learned too late. We didn't lose our child, but our child lost an eye while standing up in a car that came to a sudden stop. He was thrown against an open metal ashtray on the dashboard and cut his little eye so badly it couldn't be saved. Had that child never buckled into a seat belt as he should have been, it never would have happened. We will always feel a terrible sense of guilt because it was our fault, not his.

ALSO LEARNED TOO LATE

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Learned Too Late," I started shaking in my shoes. I had just dropped off my daughter (I'll call her Amy) at the babysitter's. Amy was not in a car seat, nor was she belted in by a seat belt. Why? Because she cried and screamed, "I want to stand up, Daddy!" After reading your column, I made a decision. I would rather listen to Amy scream than never hear her voice again.

First I am going home to pick up our unused car seat, then I will go get Amy at the sitter's. And from now on, she will never again ride without being protected!

Thank you, Abby, for printing that letter. And thank Tina's mother for having the courage to write so that other parents could learn from her tragic loss.

SMARTER NOW IN ILLINOIS

DEAR SMARTER: What a pity Tina's mother will never know how many children her letter will save. My mail showed a tremendous outpouring of love, sympathy and appreciation.

Local PTA members attend workshops

Two members of Big Spring Council of Parents Teachers Association were among 700 PTA members who recently attended the Texas PTA's 1982 summer leadership seminar in Austin. They were Barbara Claxton, president, and Susan Casey, publications chairman.

Participants attended workshops on 19 topics including leadership, volunteer service, instructional television, PTA-school board relations, public speaking, alcohol and drug education, parent peer groups and sexual abuse of children. They received ideas, information and materials for use in their local programs for the coming year.

Connie Miller of Dallas, state president, urged the PTA leaders to return to their communities and make 1982-83 the best year in the association's history.

Training session was at Jester Center on the University of Texas in Austin campus. General sessions were held in Lyndon B. Johnson Auditorium.

Speakers at the meeting included Lewis Timberlake of Austin, authority on motivation, and Mayor Carole Keeton McClellan of Austin, who welcomed participants to Austin. Mary Tippin of El Paso, second vice president, directed the seminar.

Tonsils

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please let me know what the indications are for removal of tonsils? My son, who is 6, had an infection of his tonsils six months ago. They were also enlarged, and he had a sore throat. He was treated with medicine, and it stopped him from coughing. He had been having a bad cough at night. It also cleared up his infection. The problem now is that his tonsils are still enlarged. They even seem to meet in the middle. He doesn't have any pain on swallowing, though. Could he have problems, like heart and lung disorders if his tonsils are not removed? Will they shrink? — P.M.

Your last line makes me think that you and I were born in the era of tonsil phobia, when tonsils were considered evil structures, to be gotten rid of. They were routinely removed. That isn't done anymore.

Enlargement is an indication for removal only if it is so great that it interferes with swallowing or breathing. If your child eats without difficulty and plays without having trouble breathing, then his tonsils are not likely to be a source of present or future problems. Tonsils are normally quite large in a 6-year-old anyway. They may even meet in the middle, as you say, and still cause no problem.

Yes, eventually they do shrink. Your doctor can tell you if your boy's tonsils are a source of trouble. It doesn't sound as though they are. Your boy will not have heart or lung problems if he keeps his tonsils. They are there for a purpose. They help fight infections.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 17-year-old son has been afflicted three times with pinworms, all within the past two years. How does my son get this pinworm infection, and how can I prevent it? — R.S.B.

Pinworm reinfection frequently happens. But often, rectal itching may not be related to pinworm at all. It's best to have a test for worms. They can be identified with a microscope or hand lens.

The major source of reinfection is from contacts outside the family. Here's the whole unattractive story: The egg gets swallowed. The pinworm grows (and each worm can produce from 5,000 to 17,000 eggs). The rectal itchiness follows. Scratching imbeds the eggs under fingernails, setting up a cycle of reinfection should the hands be brought to the mouth afterward.

Pinworm engenders phobias and hysteria. But the problem does not imply uncleanliness in a person or a family. There are about 42 million cases of pinworm every year in this country. And pinworm is an equal opportunity employer. Rich or poor, it matters not. The worm can survive on bedding or clothing, even on dust particles, so infection does tend to become a family affair.

The good news is that it's easily treated with one dose of medicine — mebendazole. The infection may be present in other family members, so all should get a dose. First of all, find out if what your son has really is pinworm. OK? Other readers may be interested in the booklet "Pinworms — The Commonest Pest." To get a copy, write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Transplant patient grateful for new life

By KEN McCracken
Rochester Post-Bulletin
WATERLOO, Iowa — When 37-year-old Darlene Moore Mathern dons her shocking pink jogging suit for her two-mile jaunts around the neighborhood three times each week, she fits right in with the other fitness-conscious people pounding the pavement.

She is just as inconspicuous when she rides her 10-speed bicycle for 45 minutes twice a week. There are hundreds of bikers in Waterloo, a city of 80,000 about 115 miles south of Rochester, Minn., so one more cyclist doesn't stand out.

Mrs. Mathern also is indistinguishable from the others as she roller skates, swims about a half mile in a pool on weekends and exercises 45 minutes each day, making easy work of 50 situps.

But Mrs. Mathern belongs to an exclusive club that places her exercise program in the hard-to-believe realm — she is one of only four surviving heart-lung transplant patients in the world. Since last December, she has been living with the heart and lungs of a 30-year-old California woman stroke victim.

A year ago, Mrs. Mathern was dying. She had made out her will. She had been in a wheelchair for years and then bedridden with an ailment called primary pulmonary hypertension, a lung condition of unknown cause that damages the heart and usually means death.

Mrs. Mathern's first husband, a career soldier, divorced her 12 years ago, and because of the graveness of her illness she granted him custody of their two children.

I wanted them to have both a mother and a father. And I wasn't going to be around, she said. Mrs. Mathern, who later married her present husband, Bob, hasn't seen her children in 11 years. She is now stepmother to Mathern's four children.

Mrs. Mathern thought 1981 would be her last year on earth. Death was only weeks or months away. A mechanical breathing machine kept her alive and 11 milligrams of morphine every three to four hours masked the excruciating pain of her disease.

"Then I was reborn last December when I was given healthy lungs and a heart in a transplant operation at Stanford," she said. "It's miraculous."

Mrs. Mathern's new "birthday" was Dec. 1, 1981, when a transplant team at Stanford University Medical Center in Palo Alto, Calif., gave her the heart and lungs of a woman who had gone into an irreversible coma.

The Stanford team has done six heart-lung transplants since March 1981. Only two patients have died. Mrs. Mathern was the fifth combined heart-lung transplant.

Mrs. Mathern said she was told she was among about 600 possible candidates for heart-lung transplants when she applied for consideration. She was also told she would have to be morphine-free if she was to be considered.

She kicked the morphine she had been taking "cold turkey," suffering agonizing morphine withdrawal for 4 1/2 months, along with the pain of her disease.

"It simply had to be done," said Mrs. Mathern, who served in the Women's Army Corps in Japan as a communications specialist before her illness.

The seriousness of her ailment came to light after she suffered what appeared to be a series of heart attacks in 1969, when she was a telephone operator in Augusta, Ga. But doctors could find no heart problem.

She was later admitted to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., where specialists diagnosed primary pulmonary hypertension, a disease that seriously restricts the flow of blood from the heart to the lungs. It was a death warrant in those days. She was then 22 years old.

Mrs. Mathern's physician, Dr. Thomas R. Karlowski of Waterloo, said attempts last September to treat Mrs. Mathern's condition with drugs had failed, and doctors at University Hospitals in Iowa City had recommended the transplant.

After overcoming her morphine addiction, Mrs. Mathern flew to Stanford with $1,300 raised by Immanuel Lutheran Church of Waterloo. She was in the hospital 25 days and spent another 20 days as an outpatient under daily treatment.

"My doctors said it could be a five-year extension to my life and that was wonderful news when I had been facing death in weeks or months before. I've also been told I could die suddenly and unexpectedly. But that doesn't bother me."

Cracker Jack apologizes to prizeless 9-year-old girl

CARMEL, Ind. (AP) — The makers of Cracker Jack have sweet news for a girl who sue after finding no prize in her box of the candied snack: She'll receive an apology and another box of Cracker Jack free.

A spokeswoman for the Cracker Jack division of Borden Inc. said the company hopes 9-year-old Wendy Potasnik now will drop her legal action.

Wendy filed suit Friday seeking a prize from Cracker Jack and reimbursement for $19 in court costs. In the suit filed in the small claims division of Hamilton County Court, Wendy claimed the company had broken an advertising promise by selling a box of the snack that did not contain a prize.

Borden spokeswoman Betty Garrett, in Columbus, Ohio, said the company sent the girl a coupon for a free box of Cracker Jack on Monday and hopes the matter is closed.

Toys rarely are left out of a box of Cracker Jack, she said, adding that there are three points on the packing line to ensure prizes are included.

"The toy is a very integral part of that product," she said. "We have placed 16 billion toys inside boxes of Cracker Jack since 1912. That's a very important ingredient to that product, and the way the consumer feels about the product is very important to us."

Stuck in the 1950s?

SPIFFED TO THE MAX — It's the 1950s all over for 12-year-old Tammy Randolph of Quanah, Texas. Seen here with burgers and a soda in a 1952 Chevy, she's right out of a drive-in from three decades ago. Actually, she was photographed at an antique car show in Oklahoma. Her father restored the car for her.

Teacher blues

Salaries, societal changes make the job difficult

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Once regarded as highly as the clergy, teachers seem to be caught in a changing society where some say they're now viewed more like field hands. Underpaid and dissatisfied, they're flocking to greener pastures.

"In the past, teachers have felt a commitment to society. Teaching has been viewed as a calling. But as they are treated less and less like clergy, money has become more important," said John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers.

Despite a 26.6 percent pay increase granted by the 1981 Texas Legislature for the 1982-83 biennium, teacher salaries are still so small that many are forced to take second and third jobs just to pay the bills, teacher groups say.

Apparently aware of the teachers' plight, the number of college graduates entering teaching has dropped 47 percent since 1974, according to the Texas Education Agency. And teacher groups say hundreds of established teachers are leaving the classrooms for more lucrative jobs.

A Sam Houston State University survey of Texas public school teachers showed that more than one in three teachers were seriously considering leaving the field. Of those teachers, 46 percent said pay was the reason.

The average teacher responding to that survey had about 12 years experience and made $14,112 annually.

TO HELP bolster the teacher supply, the Texas Education Agency has recommended that the 1983 legislature boost teacher salaries by 23 percent over the 1982-83 biennium.

But teacher groups say they would like to see salaries hiked to the level of accountants and engineers.

"I don't think the TEA proposal even starts to address the problem," said Barbara O'Neal, president of the Texas State Teachers Association. She said the proposed pay hike actually averages out to less than seven percent per year.

"Money cures a lot of evils," Cole said. "But it's like other medicines. You have to apply in the right dosage." And money, he said, is just part of the problem.

Teachers are stymied in their career goals by a "crushing bureaucracy... which has imposed onerous demands on teachers for busy work and pointless procedures that have nothing to do with educating children.

"Teachers find themselves in a factory-type system where they are viewed as the loneliest rung in plant personnel," Cole said.

In many cases, Ms. O'Neal said, administrators don't seek their views on curriculum and policy decisions although teachers are expected to implement them.

ALSO, PARENTS and administrators sometimes don't support teachers when teachers discipline their children, said Jeri Stone, general counsel and associate executive director of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association.

"Teachers feel an obligation to maintain control in the classroom and they wind up with irate parents and an irate administration," Ms. Stone said.

Also, the public's perception of teachers and schools is sagging, Ms. O'Neal said.

"The public is disappointed when the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) scores are low. There's more pressure for teachers to perform," Ms. Stone said.

Also, "there's a lot of students expecting a great deal more than a lesson from their teachers these days on some occasions," she said.

Schools, "the only institution which really reflects a cross section of society," must regularly grapple with societal controversies, such as integration and educating children who don't speak English, Cole said.

"We don't mind, except if they're telling us that we're not only to be an educational institution but an instrument of social change... I'm wondering if we're being paid to do all that," he said.

HOW EASILY can these problems be solved to the satisfaction of the teachers? Some said it's basically a matter of education, making administrators, school boards and the public aware of the problem's gravity.

"The working relations between administrations, school boards and teachers could be more cooperative," Ms. Stone said. "It's detrimental when we see adversary roles developing."

Tower generous with his warchest

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Sen. John Tower, who doesn't face re-election for another two years, has raised $1.3 million in campaign funds, some of which he's giving to Gov. Bill Clements and other southern Republican officeholders, a newspaper said.

The Tower Senate Club, Tower's campaign fund, has given $5,000 to Clements and $2,000 to each of four fellow senators, according to reports filed with the Federal Election Commission, the Dallas Morning News reported.

Tower's press secretary, Linda Hill, said the donation to Clements in June paid for tickets to a recent fundraising dinner for the governor's re-election campaign, according to the newspaper.

U.S. Sen. John Warner, D-Va., was given $2,000 in February and Sens. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. and Pete Domenici, R-N.M., received $2,000 honorariums after attending a January fundraiser for Tower.

An FEC spokesman said large political contributions from personal campaign funds were legal but unusual.

Tower's intent in giving the money was to keep other southern Republicans in office, Ms. Hill said.

"The idea was that by offering an honoraria or a contribution to help them with their campaign, it will allow them to make free fundraising appearances for other candidates later in the year," she said.

"Clements has helped the senator every year and one year was finance campaign chairman. He (Tower) wanted to repay him."

According to Tower's FEC report, he raised $713,779 from individuals in the first six months of this year and $96,208 from political action committees. He raised another $519,741 last year.

The campaign fund had more than $679,000 on hand as of June 30.

Rare missing violin found

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP) — A 259-year-old, $250,000 Stradivarius violin stolen last month after a concert has been recovered undamaged, authorities said.

The violin, owned by an anonymous benefactor of the Concord String Quartet, was taken July 13 from a private home where the group was staying after playing for the Nantucket Musical Arts Society.

The instrument was being used by Andrew Jennings, 33, of Norwich, Vt., the second violinist and an associate professor of music at Dartmouth College, where the quartet is based.

Nantucket police said the Stradivarius was found this week by Russell Rogers, an employee of the Steamship Authority at Martha's Vineyard, during a routine locker check.

WWII PILOT — Against the backdrop of the Imperial Japanese Rising Sun flag of World War II, former Japanese Navy Cmdr. Minoru Genda addresses a recent convention of former WWII pilots. Genda helped plan the aerial attack on Pearl Harbor.

Helping monkeys and apes to survive

ATLANTA (AP) — The forces destroying the muriqui, perhaps the most endangered primate in the world, could destroy all apes and monkeys on Earth by the turn of the century, scientists say.

For the muriqui, it may already be too late. Only 100 of them are left in the jungles of Brazil.

At a symposium on conservation held during a meeting of the International Primatological Society, researchers said the destruction of tropical forests by farmers and loggers is the greatest threat to non-human primates such as gorillas and chimpanzees.

They said primates also are being squeezed out of existence by hunters who seek them as a source of food and by the international primate trade.

International trade may die by the time they reach their destinations or shortly thereafter.

"One animal dealer in Indonesia estimated that 70 percent died," she said.

Many local people still hunt monkeys for food, said Russell Mittermeier, director of the World Wildlife Fund's U.S. primate program, and he said he is pessimistic about changing that practice.

"In many cases, we aren't going to be able to do much of anything," he said.

Banning guns could help by at least making it more difficult to hunt the animals, he said.

Many of the tropical forests are being destroyed by farmers who cut trees in a small area, burn the remaining underbrush, and farm the area for two or three years. When the soil becomes depleted, they move on, cutting more trees and repeating the process.

The destruction of forests by loggers also wipes out primates, but selective cutting can allow some to survive, said Andrew Johns of the Sabah Foundation in East Malaysia.

It would be unwise to suggest that primates in general are resilient animals, he said. Many won't survive even selective cutting, he said.

The international trade in primates, another threat to their survival, "is big business," said Michael Kavanagh of the International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources in England.

"A single shipment can be worth a million dollars," Kavanagh said.

Trade has declined during the last 20 or 25 years since its peak in the 1950s when monkeys were used to test polio vaccine, he said.

At the time, the United States was importing as many as 200,000 rhesus monkeys a year from India alone, Kavanagh said, but now it imports only between 20,000 and 30,000 a year.

Ardith Eudey, a primatologist from the University of Nevada, said that as many as half the primates captured for intervention of former WWII pilots. Genda helped plan the aerial attack on Pearl Harbor.

School budget approved

LORAIN (SC) — Loraine school trustees met last night and officially approved their budget for the 1982-83 school year.

Additionally, the trustees renewed their contract with CPA Joe Morren and also agreed to employ Morren to perform the school's annual audit.

In other action, the board decided to increase its insurance coverage on school property, which increases the premiums from $9,381 per year to $10,661 annually.

Thursday Notes

Ted Turner, Ted Turner what's happened to your team? America wants to know. L.A.'s ahead are the Braves really dead? or is it just part of the show.

A lot of folks in Big Spring are thinking of Mrs. Jeanie Guzman Flores.

Mrs. Flores, wife of local golf enthusiast Sukie Flores, is in M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston undergoing treatment for cancer. To help the Flores family out, two sporting events this weekend will turn over their profits to help with expenses.

The Chicano Golf Association is sponsoring a special Louisiana Draw Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at Comanche Trails. Entry fee — to be turned in that morning before teeing-off — is a minimum of $5 per golfer. Trophies will go to the top three performers on the day.

Before that, the annual washer tournament Saturday at 3 p.m. at Comanche Trails Park will donate its profits to the Flores family. Entry fee for that event — similar to horseshoes — is $30 per two-man team. Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded to the top three teams.

What's an edition of Thursday Notes without something about trapshooter Kelly Rogers.

Rogers has been stockpiling trophies, ribbons and such all summer long and recently added more metal to his collection (where does he put all this stuff?).

A trip to Denver, Colo., for the Mile High Handicap and Southwestern Zone Tournament resulted in a junior championship for the BSHS senior. He blasted 198 of 200 targets to take the honor among junior shooters from eight states.

He also did well in three other events: runner-up in the handicap with 97x100; runner-up in Class A doubles with a 92x100; and junior singles champion with a 98x100.

Next came a trip to Amarillo for a regional singles shoot. There is hit all 200 targets to take the junior title but lost in a 25-target shoot-off (he missed just one) for overall honors. He was second high in the handicap event (96x100).

His recent handicap performances have moved him back one whole yard to 26 1/2 yards. That's just a half-yard away from the limit in the event.

Next on the agenda is the trip to Vandalia, Ohio, for the Grand American Trapshooting Tournament where he was national junior and President's Handicap champ last summer. Then it's off to Fort Benning, Ga., Aug. 22-28 for a tryout in international trap for the U.S. Junior Olympic team.

After all that fun, it's back to school. Sorry, Kelly.

A few football notes from the spike. Reserve tickets for Coahoma High go on sale Monday from 8 a.m.-12 noon and 1-4:30 p.m. at the high school. Reserve tickets are $2.50 a game or $12.50 for the season.

A question about the Cowboys this Saturday. If you had planned to catch the Dallas-Buffalo game on TV, forget it. There's no live broadcast and only a tape-delay Sunday night for Metroplex residents. Diehards should tune in to KRLD (1080) for Verne and Brad on the radio or KESS (93.9) for a Spanish version (boy, do those guys love Rafael!).

And just two weeks away is the Herald's football tab. I hope you'll like it. I think it has something for everyone.

Wait, wait, wait. Summer isn't over yet because there's a softball tournament Aug. 14-15 in San Angelo.

The All-Chicano Softball Tournament will be played at the 29th Street complex in the Concho City. Entry fee is $70.

To enter contact Balde Villafranco at 915-653-6057 or Richard Torres at 915-658-1203 after 3 p.m. on weekdays.

Oilers, Saints to play

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers and New Orleans Saints, matching second-year coaches and second-year offenses, will open their National Football League exhibition seasons in the Astrodome Thursday night.

Saints Coach Bum Phillips, starting his second season as head coach after being fired by the Oilers, will try to build on the youth movement he started last season when 15 rookies appeared on the final 45-man roster.

Oiler Coach Ed Biles, meanwhile, will try again to install the diversified offense that never got off the ground last season because of injuries and an unsettled quarterback position.

"We need to find out how far along we are with our offense and defense too," said Biles, who took the Oilers to a 7-9 finish last season. "I think you'll see a change in our offense this year. We never really got it off the ground last year."

The Oilers ranked 27th among 28 NFL teams last season in total offense.

Gifford Nielsen will start at quarterback for the Oilers but Biles also wants to look at rookie second-round draft choice Oliver Luck of West Virginia.

"We'll probably do it in reverse, the better Gifford plays, the less time he'll be on the field," Biles said. "We want to see what Luck can do, too."

Phillips will give playing time to 12-year veteran Archie Manning and second-year quarterback David Wilson, who started several games last season.

Saints wide receivers Guido Merkens and Jeff Groth will get challenges from No. 1 draft choice Lindsay Scott of Georgia and No. 3 pick Ken Duckett of Wake Forest.

"I do think we'll be throwing the ball more than usual, because we have plenty of receivers and I want to get a look at as many as I can," Phillips said.

Running backs Earl Campbell of the Oilers and NFL rushing champion George Rogers of the Saints, likely will see little playing time.

"We'll look at a lot of people," Phillips said. "We've got good battles going on at several positions and it's important to give these kids an opportunity to show what they can do in game conditions."

"What I want to do Thursday is get both quarterbacks in the game with the same kind of supporting cast. I still don't know how I'll play the quarterbacks. I may wind up playing them by series, not quarters."

Kickoff is at 7 p.m. CDT.

ASU's Weishuhn could start

SMITHFIELD, R.I. (AP) — He's not that big, but he's always around the ball and hitting someone too, say those familiar with Clayton Weishuhn.

And that's earned Weishuhn the right to be a starting linebacker Saturday in the New England Patriots' exhibition opener against Pittsburgh.

The Patriots' third-round draft choice this year, Weishuhn, a 220-pounder from Wall High School and Angelo State University, is given a reasonable chance for a starting spot this season.

Coach Ron Meyer has been impressed with what he's seen.

"He's played well so far. I'm just anxious to see him in a game," Meyer said.

Weishuhn said he wants to be a starter, but knows he's got to earn the job.

"I like being a starter, but my way of thinking is that the job isn't mine until I prove it's mine. There's a job out there I've got to do and I want to do it," he said.

He grew up on a farm near San Angelo, and still rents out 260 acres for himself and his wife, Diane, on which they grow cotton and cattle feed.

While in school, he arranged his class schedules so he could go to school two days a week and farm the rest of the time.

"There was many a day when I'd work the farm all morning until 2 in the afternoon and then head the 22 miles to school for football practice," he said. "I did it the hard way. I didn't have to, but that's the way I wanted it. I figured I had a chance to get an education; play some more football and still farm, so why can't I do it if I try for it?"

He said he was recruited by other schools, but decided to attend college close to home so he could still farm.

Rangers win!!!

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dave Schmidt wasn't sure just what had made him so effective against the powerful Milwaukee Brewers, but the Texas Rangers' 25-year-old right-handed pitcher was confident.

Schmidt pitched 3 1/3 innings of one-hit, three-strikeout relief Wednesday, securing a 6-3 Rangers' victory over the Brewers.

Buddy Bell singled home the go-ahead run in a four-run seventh inning as the Rangers salvaged the final game of the three-game series and stopped a surge of seven victories in nine games by the American League East-leading Brewers.

"I don't know if I bear down and concentrate more against great hitters, or whether my stuff is just good against them," he said. "I mixed up a fast ball, slider and changeup. With power hitters like that, you have to make them conscious of something offspeed. I don't have the kind of fast ball to just blow it by them."

"I don't think he's a bullpen pitcher with that assortment of stuff. He's a kind of guy I would think they'd want for a starter," the Brewers' Ben Oglivie said of Schmidt.

Oglivie's three-run double in the sixth inning had given the Brewers a 3-2 lead, but Jim Sundberg and Mike Richardson singled leading off the seventh against loser Moose Haas, 9-7.

Haas retired the next two batters, but John Grubb singled up the middle to score the tying run. Bell singled to center, his third hit, to chase Haas as the Rangers led 4-3.

Dave Hostetler and Larry Parrish followed with RBI singles off Dwight Bernard to make it 6-3.

The Rangers took a 2-0 lead in the fifth on doubles by Parrish and Lamar Johnson and a single by Richard.

Angels 6, Twins 3
When a key hit is needed, the California Angels almost fall over themselves to get into the batter's box.

It was two outs, bases loaded in the bottom of the seventh when Don Baylor got his turn. The Angel slugger got his fastball on a 3-2 pitch and drove it into the left field stands for his sixth career grand slam and 18th home run of the year, powering the Angels to their win over the Twins.

American League

Mariners 7, A's 4
Left-hander Floyd Bannister scattered five hits to lead Seattle past Oakland. Bannister, 11-7, raised his American League-leading strikeout total to 141 by fanning six and walking four before Bill Caudill came on in the ninth to get his 20th save.

Oakland's Rickey Henderson, who walked in the fifth inning, swiped second and third to bring his stolen base total to 107, 11 shy of Lou Brock's record of 118.

Blue Jays 4, Red Sox 3
The Blue Jays won their sixth straight game to tie a club record and prevented the Red Sox from gaining a game back on the division-leading Brewers.

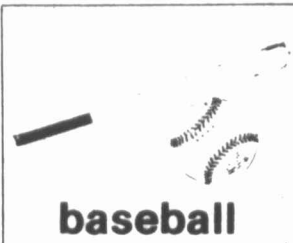

Tigers 3, Yankees 2
Jerry Turner's sacrifice fly to left field scored Lou Whitaker from third base in the 12th inning and gave Detroit its victory over New York.

Oscar Gamble's 14th homer tied the game 2-2 for the Yankees in the ninth.

White Sox 4, Orioles 1
A 14-hit attack, paced by Steve Kemp's two singles and two runs batted in, gave Chicago its victory over Baltimore and a sweep of their three-game series. It was the White Sox' 11th victory in their last 13 games.

White Sox starter Rich Dotson, 6-11, worked seven innings to get his first victory at Comiskey Park since Sept. 20, 1981. He was 0-7 at home this season.

Royals 8, Indians 0
Don Hood hurled five innings of one-hit relief and Amos Otis collected three hits and two runs batted in to lead Kansas City over Cleveland, capping the Royals' three-game sweep of the Indians.
Hood, 4-0, came on in the third when Paul Spittorff's back stiffened up.

Ryan fires gem

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "It was a real strange game," admitted Houston Astros right-hander Nolan Ryan, and those who've followed his baseball career would agree.

Ryan pitched his eighth one-hitter since entering the majors in 1966 and notched his 49th career shutout Wednesday night as the Astros blanked the San Diego Padres, 3-0, to sweep their three-game series.

Ryan, now 12-9 with 172 strikeouts this year, didn't fan a Padre batter until the fifth inning and wound up striking out just six.

But he also didn't walk anyone until the eighth inning and was in no serious trouble until the ninth when a wild pitch and a hit batter put runners at first and second with two out. Ryan struck out Terry Kennedy to end the game.

Kennedy was the lone Padre to get a hit off Ryan, stroking a clean single to center with one away in the fifth.

"The hit came early enough in the game that it didn't upset me not to get the no-hitter," Ryan said.

The final Astro tally came with two outs in the fifth when Terry Puhl, Knight and Phil Garner each rapped singles off Show.

Giants 8, Braves 6
It's getting even time for Reggie Smith.

"The Giants will not be intimidated by anyone," said the San Francisco outfielder on the eve of an important four-game series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Smith has played a big part in the Giants' recent play, which has made them the hottest team in baseball. The Giants have posted the major league's best record since June 27, 28-13.

Counting Wednesday's 8-6, 12-inning victory over Atlanta, the Giants have won 10 straight and moved right into the thick of the National League West battle.

National League

Reds 2, Dodgers 1
Cesar Cedeno doubled home two runs in the first inning and Bob Shirley and Brad Lesley made them stand up with a combined seven-hitter as Cincinnati edged Los Angeles to snap the Dodgers' eight-game winning streak.

Shirley, 4-9, worked into the eighth inning, scattering six hits, one of which was Ron Cey's 16th home run with one out in the second, while walking three and striking out two.

Phillies 4, Pirates 1
Garry Maddox drove in three runs with a pair of singles to lead Philadelphia over Pittsburgh for the Phillies' third victory in their four-game series with the Pirates.

The Phillies scored the winning runs in a three-run eighth inning. Bo Diaz's groundout got one run home before Maddox capped the rally with a two-run single off Kent Tekulve, who relieved Pirate starter Rick Rhoden.

Expos 3, Cubs 0
Gary Carter hit a solo home run and Charlie Lea and two relievers combined on a four-hitter as Montreal stopped Chicago's six-game winning streak.

Lea, 9-6, allowed only three hits before getting relief help one out in the eighth from Woody Fryman. Jeff Reardon bailed Fryman out of a jam in the ninth, posting his 17th save. Lea walked three and struck out six while improving his lifetime record against Chicago to 4-0.

Medich traded to Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George "Doc" Medich says he does not know whether he will stay in baseball next year, but the newest Milwaukee Brewer said he is ready to pitch and help during the 1982 American League pennant drive.

Medich, 33, was purchased Wednesday by the Brewers from the Texas Rangers for an undisclosed sum. Brewer general manager Harry Dalton said it was a straight cash deal, and that a roster move to accommodate Medich would be announced today.

"I've had good stuff since the first six weeks of the season and I'm healthy," Medich said. "I think I've pitched better than my record shows. Maybe a change of climate will bring a change of luck."

Medich, a right-hander, has a 119-101 record and 3.74 earned-run average in 10 major league seasons, having won 19 games for the New York Yankees in 1974.

Rock Hudson's on the comeback trail

ROCK HUDSON
Comeback after heart attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eight months ago, heart bypass surgery to correct a defective valve halted not only Rock Hudson's new acting project but also threatened to end his 33-year career.

"You always think it could never happen to you," the 56-year-old star of stage and screen said in an interview. "Even when I went under, I kept thinking, 'This can't be happening to me.'"

That was November, and for some, the road to recovery is a long, tedious one. Not so, though, for Hudson, whose size and stature prompted his first talent agent to name him after the Rock of Gibraltar.

Declaring the operation a success, the heart throb of the '60s returned to the studios in April to pick up where he left off with work on the upcoming NBC television series "The Devil Connection."

The comedy-action caper stars Hudson as Brian Devlin, a former CIA man who built, then sold one of the world's largest detective agencies for millions of dollars and is forced back into investigation to help a son (Jack Scalia) with his faltering private eye business.

"After 'McMillan,' I thought I would never undertake another series," said Hudson, referring to "McMillan and Wife," in which he starred with actress Susan St. James. "This show is different... I hope the series lasts for five years."

TV news examines itself again

NEW YORK (AP) — Six of every 10 Americans say they favor a law barring TV reporters from questioning people who don't want to be interviewed, and the preference — expressed in an ABC News poll — troubles the network executive responsible for dealing with matters of journalistic behavior.

"It's ridiculous," says George Watson, an ABC News vice president with two decades' experience in the field. "You answer a question, or you don't. Where does the law come in?"

"But the fact is, if enough people who feel like that act in the belief that they can do something about it, it could have a seriously inhibiting effect on reporting the news," Watson says. "We'd better get out and explain to people why we do what we do, what our motivations are."

ABC takes a step in that direction this evening at 10:30 CDT with another edition of "Viewpoint," the network's quarterly analysis and criticism of TV news. Invasion of privacy is the subject of the 90-minute program, which bumps ABC's regular "Nightline" late-night news show.

Ted Koppel, the "Nightline" correspondent, will anchor the show live from the campus of George Washington University in Washington.

Attention to standards and ethics — expressed publicly — has become increasingly important to the TV networks, whose every utterance is witnessed by millions. Criticism of programs or parts of programs is common nonetheless, and more often than not, the complaints come from large corporations or special-interest groups and sometimes other members of the media.

The problem is responding to the criticism — and that's not the same as a desire to answer the legitimate complaint. "Really, it's the age-old problem of how do you talk back to the tube?" Watson says.

One method is the direct response to a specific complaint.

TV Guide said in May that CBS News had been "often arbitrary and unfair" in its handling of a documentary called "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception." The network answered with an internal investigation and a report released to the media com-questionable journalism to illustrate its points. The effect of the program, now a year old, seems to be satisfying to all concerned.

"It's become cliché," Watson says, "but credibility is the most important asset we've got. I would say there is an element of enlightened self-interest in doing the show, and it certainly appears to be the case that you can do well by doing good."

"And," he says, "it's turned out to be more popular than we believed it would be, even exciting at times." The show is done live, and the studio audience is encouraged to participate by questioning the journalists and others present.

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, Thurs., Aug. 12, 1982

Johnnie Lou Avery

Open for business

Would you be interested in having a sailing regatta at Comanche Lake or Moss Creek Lake?

If so, contact Bill Forshee at the chamber of commerce. A chamber-city tourist-convention bureau is considering putting an event together if there is enough interest. Call Bill about the size of your sailboat and give him names of others you know who might be interested in participating. The same committee is now working with Moss Creek Lake manager Jim Byers to plan a carp fishing tournament in the near future. And, of course, you know about the big pro-am golf tournament that is coming up soon.

The domino tournament was a roaring success with many of the annual participants saying it was the smoothest ever. They gave credit to JOHN WEEKS, chairman of the event, RON LOGBACK, and BILL FOR-SHEE. There were 55 teams competing from five states. This brought an average of three people to town for every domino entrant and that means tourism dollars in our pockets!

The Symphony Committee is scheduled to meet tonight to schedule the new season. Watch for information and plan to support this important cultural offering. The Spring City Theater group is now in the midst of adding to its membership. All interested in live theater, either as a participant or a spectator, should call CECELIA MCKENZIE, director.

JACKIE SIMPSON, of the staff development office at the Big Spring State Hospital, has been putting together a conference that is receiving statewide attention. It is a conference on Mexican American Mental Health: A Transcultural Approach and will be held in Big Spring on September 24, mainly for professionals from around the state who work in state hospitals, mental health settings, or continuing education services. If you haven't received a mailing and want more information, call Jackie at 267-8216, extension 365.

Emphasis in the Big Spring Mall will have their ribbon cutting at 10:30 a.m., Thursday. Go by and officially welcome them sometime during the day.

The Highway 87 Association Committee made up of eight from Big Spring and 17 other leaders along the 87 route from San Angelo to Kerrville, presented their case for making Highway 87 the connector route between Lubbock and Interstate 10. This is extremely important to our area development and they were encouraged by their reception at the meeting in Austin last week.

Then, Monday, a letter arrived at the Chamber office from the Director of the State Department of Highways and Transportation, Mark Goode Goode, a state engineer, wrote that after studying the proposal, the commission would make recommendations and take action on the proposal. We can expect to hear on that within 60-90 days.

It may seem early for thinking about Christmas but retail stores have to start planning early for that important season. The following 15 Christmas ideas can help sales. This list was adopted from the July edition of Hardware Age:

- Offer Christmas tree discounts. When the customer purchases a minimum amount of merchandise at your store, you provide him with a certificate good for a $2 discount at a local Christmas tree dealer. The dealer chips in $1 in return for your providing him with a customer; you chip in $1 as the cost of promotion.

- Raffle "mystery boxes." Wrap two gifts, one suitable for a young boy, another suitable for a young girl. Customers enter their names and addresses in a raffle. Before Christmas, the prizes are awarded.

- Feature local sports star in store. Well-known sports star, preferably home-towner, visits your store and signs autographs prior to Christmas. A traffic builder.

- Set up a stocking stuffer table. Select a number of gift ideas that fit into stockings. Display them on a special table; advertise them in your regular ads.

- Send discount certificates to top customers. Do you have a list of customers who have purchased a great amount of merchandise from you? If so, send them each a certificate good toward a discount during the holiday season (or even after). This amounts to a Christmas gift for your best customers.

- Run a "best snowman" contest. Establish an independent jury to review and award prizes for the best snowmen in your town, provided it snows.

- Draw a mascot for the new Big Spring semi-pro football team. Young fans could fill out entry cards at your store and drop them into a box. Winner gets to be the team mascot for a certain number of games.

- Invite Santa Claus to your store. The hooper still packs 'em in. Have a photographer take his picture with the kids.

Hot-check scam operating in city

Merchants beware: You might be burned by a hot check soon. The Hot Check Department of the Howard County attorney's office is warning local merchants that a hot check scam has been operating in the city for several weeks.

Melba Soles of the department said the scam usually occurs on Friday and the weekends after the banks have closed. The individuals, usually two females, write checks for merchandise and then return the merchandise for cash before the check clears the bank, she said.

Merchants are warned to make sure a check clears before returning cash for merchandise, Mrs. Soles said.

Trustee returned to jail

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A trustee who walked off from the Mitchell County jail and was absent for approximately a week has been returned to his cell.

Sheriff Wendell Bryant has identified the man Eusebio Gonzales, who was being held on a burglary charge.

According to Bryant, Gonzales was cleaning an office when he apparently found some keys which enabled him to unlock a jail door and walk out. The escapee was located recently sleeping in a trailer near Ackerly.

Justice of the Peace Jo Ann Merket set Gonzales' bond at $50,000 on a new charge of escape.

BSISD budget hearing tomorrow

The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees will hold a public hearing and approval of the proposed 1982-83 budgets at their regular meeting at 5:15 p.m. Thursday at the senior high school board room.

Also on the agenda are approval of a free and reduced price lunch schedule, review and approval of a contract with a semi-pro football league and renewal of a delinquent tax collection contract.

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back-up generating equipment that is not energy efficient. Try to use energy intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy-saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation.

Dear Abby

Reader chews out teenager

DEAR ABBY: I was disgusted when I read the letter from "Loves to Eat," the teen-ager whose father offered her $100 to lose 10 pounds. She lost the weight, collected the money, then reverted to her piggish ways and gained it all back again.

Her father asked her to return the $100, so she asked you if he was entitled to it. I was disappointed when you said, "No, because it wasn't spelled out when the deal was made."

Abby, the father thought "Fats" would realize how much better she looked after she lost the weight and therefore would keep it off. All fathers want their daughters to be pretty and more desirable for marriage.

When that teen-ager is fat and 40, she'll be lucky if she has a chance to marry a widower with five kids who need a housekeeper and babysitter!

DISGUSTED IN WYOMING

DEAR DISGUSTED: You are obviously coming from the "old days" when girls were taught that all they had to do was look "pretty" and some rich man would marry them and take care of them for the rest of their lives.

Well, times have changed, thank God! Today, young women are learning to be self-sufficient, so they won't have to marry a meal ticket like some of our grandmothers did. (P.S. If you look around, you'll see many women who are fat and 40, fantastically successful, and single by choice.)

Mitchell deputy is injured

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Twenty-nine year old Mitchell County Deputy Sheriff Scott McKnight is in an Abilene hospital in serious condition following a weekend accident.

According to sheriff Wendell Bryant, McKnight was chasing a car on Highway 670 approximately three miles south of Westbrook when he lost control of his vehicle.

McKnight was discovered unconscious by Bryant, deputy Bobby Calloway and DPS trooper Frank Constable.

According to Bryant, "It's a slow process tracking down the vehicle (the one McKnight was pursuing). We do have a partial description from McKnight's call to the sheriff's department, however."

Spice up meals with unusual recipes containing common foods

Are you tired of eating the same old food day after day? Do you want to cook something unique but still use your favorite foods? Here are some recipes that are unusual but use common foods.

COUNTRY PEACH BREAD
1 can (16 ounces) cling peach slices in light syrup (economy pack)
2 1/2 cups flour
3/4 cups sugar
3/2 tps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. allspice
1/4 tsp. tsp. salt
1/2 cup milk
1 egg

3 Tbsps. vegetable oil
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup brown sugar
Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Drain peaches; reserve syrup. Reserve 5 peach slices for garnish, if desired. Puree peach slices. Add syrup to pureed peaches to equal 1 1/2 cups in large bowl, mix pureed peaches, flour, sugar, baking powder, allspice, salt, milk, egg and oil. Beat 30 seconds, or just until all ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into lightly greased loaf pan, 9x5x3 inches. Mix walnuts and brown sugar, sprinkle over top of batter. Bake 60 to 70 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Garnish with reserved peach slices, if desired. Makes one loaf. To store, omit garnish, wrap and refrigerate up to three days. Garnish with reserved peaches before serving, if desired.

CARROT SLAW
1 pound green cabbage, cored and shredded (about 6 cups not packed down)
1 very large carrot, shredded (1 1/2 cups not packed down)
1 medium red Delicious apple, unpeeled and diced (1/4 inch)
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 to 1/4 cup mayonnaise
Toss together cabbage, carrot, apple, raisins and mayonnaise. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

NEW KEY LARGO PORK ROAST
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons oregano
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon lime juice
4-pound about boneless, fresh pork picnic

Shoulder, rolled and tied. Mix together the salt, pepper, oregano and garlic. Insert small amounts of the seasoning mixture as far as possible into the slits at the sides of the roast and rub some over the meaty side. Sprinkle the lime juice over the meaty side. Roast on a rack in a shallow roasting pan in a 350-degree oven to 180 degrees on a meat thermometer about 3 hours.

SPICE PUDDING
2 large eggs
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups coarsely crumbled dry raisin spice cake crumbs
Beat the eggs until foamy, add the milk and sugar and beat to blend. Divide the cake crumbs among six 6-ounce buttered custard cups pour the custard mixture over the crumbs. Place in a 13 by 9 by 2-inch pan and add enough hot tap water to come halfway up the cups. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean — 40 to 50 minutes. Serve warm or cold. Makes 6 servings.

PINEAPPLE SAUCE
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 cup white rice wine vinegar
8 1/4-ounce can crushed pineapple in heavy syrup, undrained

1 large green pepper, seeded and diced (about 1/2 inch)

In a 1-quart saucepan stir together the sugar and cornstarch; gradually stir in the vinegar, keeping smooth. Add the pineapple and green pepper. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until clear and thickened. Makes four 1/2-cup portions to serve with a roast duck (quartered) and rice.

BROCCOLI SOUP
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup chopped celery
Two 10-ounce packages frozen chopped broccoli, thawed enough to separate
2 cups clear fat-free chicken broth
1 cup milk
Salt and white pepper to taste
Thinly sliced scallions, if desired

In a medium saucepan heat the butter; add the onion and celery and cook gently until wilted. Add the broccoli and the broth; quickly bring to a boil. Cover and simmer until broccoli is tender — about 5 minutes. Puree in 2 batches in an electric blender. In a saucepan, stir together the broccoli puree, milk and salt and pepper; heat. Makes about 5 cups. If soup is thicker than you like, add broth or milk and correct the seasoning. Pass a small bowl of the scallions, if you like, as a help yourself addition.

APPLESAUCE COOKIES
1 cup fork-stirred all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 large egg
1-3rd cup applesauce without sugar or preservatives (from a 20-ounce jar)
1-3rd cup chopped (medium) fine walnuts
Stir together the flour, soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cream the butter and sugar; beat in the egg until blended. Add the flour mixture and the applesauce; beat gently until smooth. Stir in the walnuts. Drop by level tablespoons, a few inches apart, on greased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until golden brown around the edges — 8 to 10 minutes. Remove to a wire rack to cool. Makes almost 2 1/2 dozen. Best

TIPS FOR ENERGY SAVERS

How to Save Electricity Before It Comes To You

During late afternoon and early evening hours, the load on the nation's electrical systems usually reaches its peak. To meet the heavy demand, electric utilities often must use back up generating equipment that is not energy efficient.

Try to use energy intensive appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, and electric ovens in the early morning or late evening hours to help reduce that peak load.

This energy saving tip is brought to you by the classified advertising department in the interest of energy conservation. To buy, sell, trade or rent, place your ad in the classified section.

Program on education
Mrs. Mile Skalicky spoke on the topic, "Colonial Women and Education" from Women's life in Colonial Days by Carl Hilday at a meeting of the Richard Hubbell Chapter of National Society of the Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century in the Bridge Room of the Holiday Inn, August 1. Mrs. C. G. Barnett, president, presided at the luncheon and business meeting.

Mrs. Skalicky noted that less than 50 percent of the women in the middle 16th century could sign their names. Men did not consider the education of women as important as the women's place in the home. In the 18th century education became more general, but women lagged behind men in reading and writing for a long time.

The fall workshop will be held at Stage Coach Inn in Salado, September 15, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

NARFE chapter to meet Thursday

Dr. Donald E. Crockett, surgeon at Malone-Hogan Clinic will speak at a meeting of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Chapter 1095, Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the Kentwood Older Adults Activities Center, 2905 Lynn. Dr. Crockett will speak on the topic, "Surgery and the Aging Process."

Miss Howard College to compete in Miss Texas USA Pageant

The eighth annual Miss Texas USA Pageant will take place in San Antonio this summer with live telecast to be aired statewide on August 23. The two hour special will be seen on 18 major television stations at 8 p.m., CST on Channel 7, KOSA, Midland-Odessa.

Representing Howard College in the pageant is Melissa Luna of El Paso. Miss Luna, 20, attended Howard College for two years and was a member of the Hawk Queens during that time. She has now transferred to Texas Tech University in Lubbock where she will be majoring in accounting.

The Miss Howard College Pageant has been the only pageant Miss Luna has competed in. "I was happy and surprised when I won," Miss Luna said.

What made Miss Luna enter the Miss Howard College Pageant? "A lot of my basketball teammates talk to me about it and I didn't want to do it at first. Then the coaches talked to me." Miss Luna said. "I did it with the encouragement of the coaches and my teammates."

What does Miss Luna think about competing in the Miss Texas USA Pageant? "I'm kind of excited. I think it will be fun. I never thought I would be in the Miss Texas USA Pageant," Miss Luna said. "I'm going to try my best for Howard County and hopefully I'll win for them."

Directly affiliated with the Miss USA and Miss Universe Pageant Corporation, the pageant was initiated in 1976 and has grown to be the largest state pageant in the international pageant system. The Miss Texas USA Pageant was created to recognized the poised, intelligent and beautiful young women of today. A record of 106 contestants will compete in the Alamo City this year for the state crown and title.

Current titleholder is LuAnn Caughey of Abilene. Miss Caughey was selected first runner-up in the recently nationally televised Miss USA Pageant.

Staged in the Theater for Performing Arts, the pageant, which has a circus theme and motif, will feature more than 200 persons in the Opening Production Number. The production will feature marching bands, entertaining circus characters and gypsy-costumed contestants.

Returning as television anchor hostess will be Kim Tomes Dutton of Houston, Miss Texas USA and Miss USA of 1977. Master of Ceremonies will be Howell Eurich along with Stevie Real who will be the special entertainer, both of El Paso.

After the telecast's Parade of Cities, the 15 finalists will be announced. The finalists will be determined following the Preliminary Competition, which will be held August 21. The number of finalists will be reduced to the top five finalists. Winner of the pageant will receive approximately $70,000 in prizes, gifts and scholarships. An additional $9,000 in cash scholarships will be awarded to runners-up and semi-finalists.

The newly crowned Miss Texas for 1983 will represent Texas at the annual Miss USA Pageant to be held in the Spring of 1983 and televised nationally by the CBS Network. In addition, she will travel extensively throughout the state and country making personal appearances and tours.

Qualifications for the Miss Texas USA Pageant are interested young women need to be between the years of 18-24, six months residents of Texas, have not been married or given birth to a child.

A highlight of the telecast will be a seven-minute "Fun Film" depicting the history and current sights of San Antonio. Contestants will be featured in such places as the Riverwalk, San Antonio's Botanical Center, Market Place and the Hertsberg Circus Collection.

Contestants for the state title will arrive in San Antonio on August 14 for a full and active 10-day schedule of events.

Entries accepted

The first annual "Summer Miss" will host a Beauty Pageant and Baby Show, August 21, at the Holiday Inn in San Angelo.

The Baby Show begins at 8:30 a.m. Boys and girls will compete in separate divisions for the following titles: Baby Miss and Master, 0-1 year; Toddler Miss and Master, 13 months to 2 years; and Tiny Miss and Master, 3-5 years. The Beauty Pageant Division invites girls to compete for the following titles: Petite Princess, 6-8; Princess, 9-11; Countess, 12-14; Duchess, 15-17; and Queen, 18 and up. All contestants are invited to attend a free modeling session and rehearsal on the evening of August 20.

Girls will be presented in party dresses and boys in dress clothes before the panel of judges and scored on beauty, smile, poise, presentation and total appearance. Scores will be available at the end of the contest. The winner in each category will receive a crown, banner and trophy. First and second alternates will receive trophy. There is an optional Photogenic division for each age group and the winner will be presented with a trophy and banner.

Entries are now being accepted. The deadline for entries is August 18. For more information or entry forms call Arlene McKinney at 915-365-5048 or write P.O. Box 13, Ballinger, Texas 76821.
