Ingrid Bergman dies of cancer

LONDON (AP) — Ingrid Bergman, who won three Academy Awards and whose roles ranged from Humphrey Bogart's estranged lover in "Casablanca" to the prime minister of Israel in "A Woman Called Golda," has died after an eight-year battle with cancer.

One of the last of Hollywood's legendary figures, the Swedish-born Miss Bergman died here Sunday, on her 67th birthday, her daughter, Pia Lindstrom said in New York.

Miss Lindstrom, a journalist, said she was flying to London today. Miss Bergman's son Robertino and twin daughters, Isabella and Isotta, also were reported en route here.

Funeral arrangements were being handled by Harrods. "It will be a very quiet, family affair," said Alfred Jackman, the luxury department store's funeral director. "After cremation her ashes may be taken back to Sweden."

MISS BERGMAN, who became one of America's brightest stars as Bogart's co-star in the movie "Casablanca" in 1943, made a stunning Hollywood comeback after quitting the movie capital in the late 1940s because of criticism of her love affair with an Italian film director.

She had been suffering from cancer since 1974 and had undergone two mastectomy operations.

Her former husband Lars Schmidt, last of her three husbands, was with her when she died, said London theatrical agent Sue Hyman, who made the announcement of her death here today.

Miss Bergman lived in Cheyne Gardens, in London's Chelsea district, where she was last seen in public in May, walking with the aid of friends, her arm in a sling.

Looking back on the string of brilliant films that brought her three Oscars, her three marriages, three divorces and her fight with cancer, Miss Bergman wrote in her 1980 autobiography, "I have always thought that I will go on acting and acting and acting... You need never give up."

Miss Bergman's Academy Awards were for best actress in "Gaslight" with Charles Boyer in 1944 and "Anastasia" in 1956, and for best supporting actress for "Murder on the Orient Express" in 1974.

Her other acclaimed films included "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "Notorious" and "Spellbound" for Alfred Hitchcock, "Inn of the Sixth Happiness," "The Yellow Rolls Royce" and "Autumn Sonata," for her Swedish compatriot, Ingmar Bergman.

Miss Bergman's last role was in the film made for television in 1981, "A Woman Called Golda," in which she played Golda Meir, the tough-minded Israeli prime minister.

MISS BERGMAN was born in Stockholm on Aug. 29, 1915. Both her parents had died by the time she was 12 and she went to live with an uncle and spoke later of how her lonely childhood led her to acting.

A 5-foot-8 beauty, with deep blue eyes, she quickly became a leading lady in Swedish films before producer David O. Selznick invited her to Hollywood in 1935.

Her sweet, innocent image was sullied when she met and fell in love with Italian director Roberto Rossellini in 1948, while still married to her first husband Swedish brain surgeon Petter Lindstrom.

She left Lindstrom and in 1950 gave birth to an illegitimate son by Rossellini, whom she later married.

The affair created an uproar. She was denounced from pulpits and in the U.S. Senate as a "cheap, chiseling female." Movie studios shunned her and despite a decade of triumphs, she quit Hollywood for Europe in 1949.

Actor David Kosoff, who co-starred with Miss Bergman in "Indiscreet" in 1958, said "The film was made during a period in her life when she did for love's sake what many women wanted to do."

"Most women hated her for it, but she came through."

Although the doors of Hollywood were closed, many friends remained constant. Ernest Hemingway volunteered to be godfather to her son. Alfred Hitchcock, Cary Grant and Gregory Peck all visited her in Italy.

Miss Bergman returned to the United States in 1959, when attitudes had changed, and the cream of Hollywood gave her a rapturous welcome at a push-over party. She went on to more successes in movies and on the stage in New York and London.

Arafat leaves for exile

U.S. warships escort PLO leader's ferry

By FAROUK NASSA
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT — PLO chairman Yasser Arafat, his Palestinian legions driven from their shattered Beirut enclave by Israeli troops and scattered through the Arab world, boarded a converted Greek car ferry today and sailed for a new home in exile.

Two American warships escorted the Atlantis out of the Beirut harbor while Arafat, who vowed to carry on the fight against Israel "until we win," stood on deck in his familiar black-and-white checkered kaffiyeh headress, smiling and flashing a victory sign with his hand.

Lebanon's state radio said Arafat was heading for an official visit to Greece at the invitation of Socialist Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu, before going to the Tunisian capital of Tunis. But Arafat and his spokesmen have not said where the guerrilla leader will set up his new base after leaving Beirut, his stronghold for the past 12 years.

Arafat's chief spokesman, Mahmoud Labadi, who left with the PLO chairman, said earlier the ship might stop at Larnaca, Cyprus, on its way to Greece.

Nine warships from the U.S. 6th Fleet and the French Navy were cruising off the harbor as the single-smokestack, luxurious-looking Atlantis put to sea. Lebanon radio said American ships and one French frigate were to escort the ship to its destination.

A throng of well-wishers jammed the port area and a party of at least 30 people, including bodyguards with their faces obscured by kaffiyehs that left only slits for their eyes, accompanied Arafat aboard the ship.

A delegation of Lebanese leftist leaders and former Moslem prime ministers boarded the ship with Arafat to say farewell, but left 15 minutes later. The ship, which appeared to be a well-appointed passenger craft, then set sail.

As it put to sea, 11 cannon salvos boomed in the background, followed by four other rounds to salute the departing guerrilla chieftain as he left his Israeli-surrounded west Beirut redoubt.

"I am leaving the city, but my heart is here," Arafat had said earlier.

He arrived in a black Mercedes under escort by French legionnaires and was greeted by a scene of chaos at the U.S. Marine-controlled port that has been the disembarking point for all but 1,000-2,000 of the PLO fighters trapped by the Israelis in Beirut.

Arafat stepped out of the car and saluted the Palestinian and Lebanese flags held by honor guards, but the surging throng cut short a planned military ceremony.

"I am leaving to continue the struggle so that we can win," he told reporters earlier in a farewell visit to leftist Lebanese leader Walid Jumblatt. "I am very proud because we had the honor to defend this part of Beirut... in spite of 100,000 explosions one day from the air, from the sea, from the land."

Leaving Jumblatt's house, he waved and smiled to the crowd and thrust his hand aloft in a victory sign before being driven away at breakneck speed through the twisting streets.

Earlier, a Syrian army garrison left west Beirut, where they had been trapped by the Israelis along with the PLO. Plumed Italian sharpshooters, part of the 2,100-man tri-national peacekeeping force, escorted the 296-vehicle Syrian convoy out of the city's Galerie Semaan crossing past Israeli lines without incident.

It was unclear whether the garrison, the first of about 3,000 Syrian troops scheduled to leave Israeli-ruled west Beirut, would return to Syria or join other Syrian troops deployed in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

Another battalion of the 85th Brigade, including its commander, Col. Omar Hallal, was to travel to the Syrian border Tuesday.

Lebanese army officers said the Syrians took 10 Soviet-made T-54 tanks and several armored personnel carriers.

Man in woman's garb disturbs Safeway

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

A man dressed in women's clothing disturbed employees at the Safeway store at 1300 Gregg last night. Although the man didn't try to take anything, he fit the description of a man who robbed $1,050 from the store Aug. 6, store manager Frank Brooks said.

Two employees, Dixie Arredondo and Rhonda Gaskin, told police that a man dressed as a woman entered through the north door about 10:30 p.m. and knocked on the office door. The man fled the store when he realized he had been seen, Brooks said.

"We never saw anything, but it was the same thing as last time. It was a man dressed in a blond wig, he knocked on the door... A couple of checkers saw him, he got scared and ran off," Brooks said.

Brooks said the man did not show a weapon or attempt to rob the store.

The employees described the man as 5-feet, 7-inches tall, weighing 170 pounds and wearing a cream-colored lacey blouse, Levi pants, tennis shoes, leather gloves with buckles, sun shades and a reddish-blond, short, curly wig, police said. One clerk said she saw dark brown hair under the wig, police reports said.

The police department took a report "for information only," police Lt. John Wolf said. "Nothing criminal happened, so nothing can be done," Wolf said.

Reagan says he'll win showdown on spending

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — He lacks the votes now, but President Reagan believes winning his newest spending showdown with Congress is "difficult but do-able," a White House official says.

"We start from a position that we have started from many times before, and that's behind," White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said after Reagan ignored advice of Republican congressional leaders Saturday and vetoed a $14.2 billion supplemental appropriation bill.

The measure carried funds for military pay, emergency relief for Lebanon, the administrator's Caribbean Basin foreign aid program and a variety of domestic programs for the remainder of the current fiscal year.

The extra money is needed to pay for items which were added to the fiscal 1982 budget and for items that cost more than originally estimated.

Shuttle delay possible after spending veto

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space agency officials say they still hope President Reagan's veto of a supplemental money bill won't delay the next shuttle mission.

About 3,400 workers, or half the work force at the Johnson Space Center, are employed under civil service law, and spokesman Steve Nesbitt said preparations for the shuttle's scheduled Nov. 11 launch could not continue without them.

Astronauts who are not in the branches of the military are covered by civil service law.

Kennedy Space Center, in Cape Canaveral, Fla., would shut down if forced to lay off its 2,100 federal civil service workers, said spokesman Hugh Harris.

Reagan vetoed a $14.2 billion supplemental bill Saturday that would have provided money to cover cost-of-living raises and promotions not included in the original budget.

In addition to the space center, the veto could affect 27 government offices and the salaries of 3 million military personnel.

Reagan said the supplemental bill exceeded his domestic programs request by nearly $1 billion.

The president's veto "doesn't push us into a furlough situation yet," Nesbitt said Sunday.

"There is still an opportunity for Congress to override the veto, which many believe will be done, or to pass another supplemental bill more to the president's liking," Nesbitt said.

He said that even if they are necessary, furloughs could not be handed out until Sept. 19, to comply with statutory notice requirements. The furloughs would last from three to 10 days.

"The contractor people cannot perform their jobs without supervision of the NASA people who would work with them," Nesbitt said.

He said the shuttle's fifth mission could be delayed one day for every day employees are not working.

Policeman killed in accidental shooting

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Police say they are investigating the death of a 24-year-old off-duty policeman who was killed when a patrolman's service revolver accidentally discharged on a hunting trip.

Three companions of William J. Slaughter, on the trip, all off-duty city employees, were suspended with pay pending the outcome of a police internal investigation, a spokesman said.

Slaughter died at 3:50 a.m. Sunday of a gunshot wound to the head at John Peter Smith Hospital, officials said.

William J. Slaughter, 24, was shot in the head as he was riding in a Jeep along with three other off-duty policemen, according to a prepared statement.

Police said the accident occurred as Slaughter was returning with the other policemen from hunting rabbits south of Arlington in the vehicle driven by patrolman Christian Nussbaumer.

Sgt. Daniel Sustare of the police internal affairs division said that off-duty patrolman Douglas Swantek's service revolver accidentally discharged when he lost his balance after Nussbaumer's vehicle lurched at an intersection.

Slaughter was first admitted to Arlington Community Hospital after he was found slumped over in his seat, said Sustare.

A fourth member of the county's 4-H shooting team, Noah Ferguson, also participated in the tough trap and skeet competition.

Reagan

The fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

In a sternly worded veto message, Reagan accused Congress of trying to sneak through "unwarranted spending increases" he had previously vetoed.

The president said the bill "would bust the budget by nearly a billion dollars. It provides an unacceptable total of $918 million in unrequested and unwarranted increases" in programs for college students, the elderly and the disadvantaged.

In vetoing the bill, Reagan took the unprecedented step of diverting Social Security and income tax withholding money from military paychecks to help come up with the money needed to meet Tuesday's payroll for the nation's military.

Speakes said Reagan expects Congress will act quickly and pass a new supplemental appropriation before the next military payroll Sept. 15.

Without supplementary appropriations, some federal agencies will be unable to meet payrolls and some programs will have to end. In the past, such situations have lasted only a few days until Congress approved more money.

Democratic leaders in Congress lashed out at Reagan's veto over the weekend and promised an attempt would be made to override.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the Democratic Whip, said it would be "difficult to get the two-thirds vote in both houses necessary to override the veto, but I do not deem that to be 'mission impossible'."

Reagan called on Congress to rework the bill and make it more to his liking, but the administration grided for a bitter veto fight when Congress returns from vacation Sept. 8.

The key will be whether Republican members of Congress stand with the president or vote against him for a bill they supported.

The legislation was approved in the House with a solid majority, 348-67, and passed in the Senate on a voice vote.

"Sixty-seven votes in the House provides a small base to start towards sufficient votes to prevent an override," said Speakes.

He said the Senate's voice vote "gives us no clue."

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker had urged Reagan to sign the bill.

Reagan got the same advice from Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., chairman of the appropriations committee, and Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the budget committee and Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, another member of the GOP leadership.

Hatfield is on record as saying he would urge his GOP colleagues to override the president, and Stevens said a veto could be overridden. Speakes said the administration's legislative lobbying team will make preliminary nose counts during the congressional recess and then redouble efforts once Congress returns.

He said the president "will be as involved as necessary."

Less than two weeks ago, Reagan used his persuasive powers in dozens of personal meetings with members of Congress to urge approval of a $98.3 billion tax increase.

Man injured in park shooting

A 27-year-old Big Spring man was injured in a shooting yesterday at Birdwell Park, 10th and Birdwell, police said.

Det. Stapp said he received conflicting reports on how the incident occurred.

Evans told police that about 12:04 p.m. yesterday he was talking to two friends, a male and a female, in the park when the suspect, a black male unknown to him, walked up and asked Evans his name.

Contract talks delay classes

By The Associated Press

Negotiators in the Pittsburgh area met into the early morning hours today trying to avert a school strike, while Butte, Mont., officials hoped to end a contract dispute in time to hold classes later in the week.

A ratification vote was planned Tuesday for Philadelphia teachers, who reached a tentative contract with the city school system on Saturday.

In California, where school starts in two weeks, the Legislature has yet to provide funds considered crucial for school districts to begin talks in earnest with unions representing almost 200,000 teachers.

Talks resumed at noon Sunday in the dispute in the Pittsburgh area, involving teachers, nurses, librarians, counselors and psychologists employed by the Allegheny Intermediate Unit. The unit serves 12,000 handicapped students and provides auxiliary services to 28,000 other students in private and parochial schools.

Barbara Sipler, a spokeswoman for the unit, said classes, which were to begin at various times between today and Sept. 8, would be canceled if there were no contract.

"There's no settlement and I understand they're not even close. There's a lot of issues and a lot of things pending," said Francis Santicola, a field director for the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Bargainers were at odds over class size, length of work day, hospitalization insurance, staff size and seniority.

The Allegheny Intermediate Unit Education Association asked for a 15 percent raise that would increase the average salary to about $18,900. The district offered a 6.6 percent raise.

Dozens evacuated in hospital fire

DALLAS (AP) — Dense, acrid smoke from a three-alarm fire filled a 12-story hospital today and forced evacuation of dozens of frightened patients, including many from cardiac care units.

No injuries were reported, but authorities hurried to move patients and accompanying medical equipment to safe areas of the private Medical City Dallas Hospital, fire officials said.

All but one elevator in the hospital ceased to operate during the emergency.

The fire, reported at 12:09 a.m. today, sent smoke billowing up from the first-floor storage closet through a dirty linen chute to most floors, said Dallas Fire Department Arson Captain Don Howard. The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined, he said.

The smoke was first reported on the 12th floor — a cardiac care facility — and patients were moved to lower floors, Howard said.

Smoke continued to fill the 349-bed hospital and rescue personnel and nurses hurried to protect patients on the fifth floor up from the smoke, officials said.

"We actually didn't get very many of them moved out, but the nurses are helping them up there," Howard said. "We'd have brought them all down here if the elevators were running."

At least 50 patients — most of them clad in bathrobes and several clinging to wheelchairs and intravenous fluid bottles — congregated in the first-floor hospital lobby after walking down from higher floors.

"I smelled the smoke and I thought maybe my cigarette wasn't out real good. Then I went to the hall and it was filled with smoke," said one 10th-floor patient from Dallas who asked not to be identified.

"The smoke was so bad I had to run and get a wet towel to go back down the hall," he said. "I was walking down the 10 flights and I came upon this lady trying to get down holding an IV bottle in one hand and the railing in the other. So I helped her down."

Hospital patient Ed Baker of nearby Richardson said a nurse warned him of the fire, but told him not to leave his seventh-floor room.

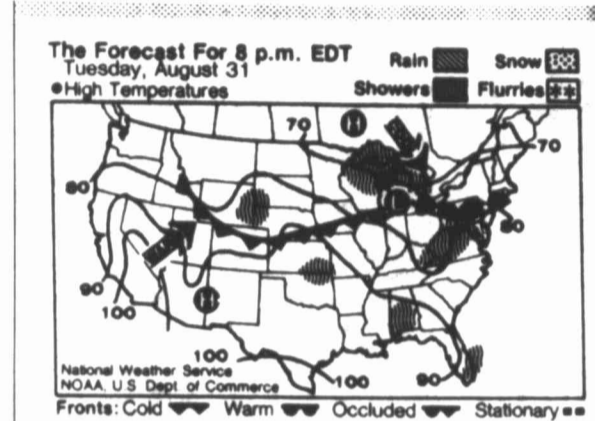

"I smelled a little more of that acrid smoke and said to myself 'I'm getting out of here,'" Baker said.

Fire officials enlisted the aid of bystanders and hospital orderlies to handle the patients. Patients were moved from the fifth, seventh, ninth, 10th, 11th, and 12th floors, but no accurate count of the number of patients moved was available, officials said.

HOSPITAL PARTIALLY EVACUATED — Patients at Medical City Hospital in Dallas return to their rooms early Monday morning. A three-alarm fire on the ground floor caused the partial evacuation of the facility because of heavy smoke that spread to the hospital's upper floors. No injuries were reported according to Dallas fire officials.

Showers forecast across Texas

By The Associated Press

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected over most of Texas late today and tonight.

Forecasts called for clear skies and hot temperatures statewide today.

Highs were to be mostly in the 90s except in Central Texas and Southwest Texas where readings were to be around or slightly above the 100-degree mark. Lows tonight will be mostly in the 70s and lower 80s.

Some isolated showers were reported early today along the lower Texas coast. Elsewhere, skies were mostly clear.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s and 80s. Extremes ranged from a cool 59 at Marfa in the Davis Mountains of Southwest Texas to 83 at Galveston.

Thunderstorms hovered over southern Kansas and the mid-Mississippi Valley early today, pelting wide sections with hail and heavy rain.

A violent thunderstorm with high winds pounded the Wichita area for about 1½ hours Sunday night. Lightning from the storm was blamed for more than 40 fires, authorities said.

Low-lying areas were flooded, scattered power outages were reported and some roads were blocked when trees were toppled by winds gusting to 60 mph, officials said.

FORECAST
West Texas ¼ Mostly fair and continued hot afternoons through Tuesday. Widely scattered late afternoon thunderstorms and evening thunderstorms north and west of the mountains tonight. Highs 90s except near 107 Big Bend valleys. Lows 60s far west, north and the mountains to 70s south.

EXTENDED FORECAST
West Texas ¼ Partly cloudy and turning a little cooler in the Panhandle Friday. Lows mid 60s north to mid 70s extreme south. Highs upper 80s north to mid 90s south to near 100 Big Bend valleys, cooling to low 80s in the Panhandle Friday.

Vodka, newspapers rationed

Polish government prepares for protests

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The government, preparing for protest demonstrations on Solidarity's anniversary, today ordered vodka rationing and newspapers followed up by Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's plea for Poles not to demonstrate Tuesday.

Newspapers said the Trade Ministry was limiting vodka, Poland's favorite drink, to a half quart per Pole per month. There was no indication of how long the order will be in effect. Liquor rationing had recently been lifted and Poles who could afford it could buy any amount.

In another effort to keep crowds out of the streets Tuesday, the second anniversary of the signing of the Gdansk accords in 1980 that recognized workers' rights to independent unions, Polish Television said it will air highlights of the Polish team's play in the World Cup soccer games in Spain earlier this summer.

Newspapers said Poles should avoid street protests, which underground Solidarity leaders are calling for to demonstrate the suspended union's strength.

The Banner of Youth said young people, by staying home, could show support "for common reason, for work, for our economic and political sovereignty, which can be strengthened by common effort, not in street fighting."

The Communist daily Trybuna Ludu said authorities could not "retreat" from enemies of socialism trying to "throw us off the chosen road of agreement into the blind alley of confrontation. At stake in this game is the future of Poland and her truly socialist shape."

"Martial law can be liked or disliked, but it is a law which must be respected," Jaruzelski told cadets at a military school in Poznan, western Poland on Sunday. "Disturbing this law will not be tolerated."

Jaruzelski reiterated a promise to end martial law by the end of the year if the county is calm.

"This (calm) situation is made by people. May people deprived of reason not hold Poland back again. May Aug. 31 not be stained by excesses and irresponsible demonstrations," he said.

The Foreign Ministry summoned Western correspondents and warned them against distortion in their reports on events related to Solidarity's anniversary. Some reporters took the meeting, the first like it in at least two years, as a signal that their coverage could be limited or that they could be expelled.

At the same time, the military prosecutor's office said 27 people had been arrested Saturday for distributing leaflets calling for pro-Solidarity demonstrations. The arrests were the most reported in one day for months, but it was not clear whether they had all occurred in Warsaw.

The hardline army newspaper Zolnierz Wolnosci (Soldier of Freedom) reported that Polish and Soviet troops "were improving their skills" in joint military exercises around Warsaw. It said motorized units, paratroopers and tanks from the Soviet army participated in the exercises in the Warsaw military district, which stretches from Warsaw to the northeast Soviet border.

But underground union activists apparently were not intimidated.

The clandestine Radio Solidarity, in its first broadcast in two months, urged police to cooperate with the union by not arresting people and not placing them under surveillance.

The union grew out of shipyard strikes in the Baltic seaport of Gdansk and became the first trade movement independent of Communist Party control in the Soviet bloc. Before its suspension, the union inspired 16 months of labor unrest and social upheaval in Poland.

Solidarity supporters have been working up to a national demonstration Tuesday with a series of protests earlier this month. On Aug. 13 police crushed violent disturbances in Warsaw, Wroclaw, Krakow and Gdansk, and more clashes occurred between union sympathizers and police in the capital after that.

The maneuvers, and an increase in military police patrols in Warsaw over the weekend, underscored the warning against protests and hinted at a possible crackdown.

According to the state television Friday, union-related violence erupted in the central textile city of Lodz and the police showed massive displays of force in Gdansk and Szczecin, another Baltic port.

Farmers know best management

A common pool of workers from which agriculture, construction and energy draw has been left with no means of support, says Dr. Kary Mathis of Texas Tech University.

The reason? The high cost of money has left these and other industries with pockets turned inside out.

Mathis, chairman of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Texas Tech, said the state of the national and world economies is chiseling away at U.S. production.

Not since the Great Depression have outside forces, other than weather, affected farms and ranches to the extent that they have today.

FINANCIAL MARKETS, energy costs and international politics have the agriculture industry battling for survival.

"Farmers today need to produce twice as much as they did 20 years ago to have the same income from their crops," Mathis said. "But those dollars don't buy as much. To get the same dollar value, farmers must increase the crop size four-fold."

During the past 20 years, farmers and ranchers have been forced to relinquish some independence to gain economic benefits.

Cooperatives have sought to decrease equipment purchasing costs, increase production and merchandising and improve markets.

For some in agriculture, the cooperative effort has not been enough, he said.

Although unemployment in agriculture is not documented by the federal government, Mathis believes the figure is higher than the national 9 percent.

Clamoring for economic relief, farmers and ranchers have been heard in Washington.

"But this is an election year. Any group with economic problems is going to get attention," Mathis said.

WITH A LARGE PORTION of the Texas High Plains economy grounded in agriculture, the area's voters and their problems are being recognized.

"A reduction in interest rates would help everyone tremendously — farmers, ranchers, industry, consumers," Mathis said.

The researcher doesn't see corporate ownership and management as the answer to agriculture's problems. During the late 1960s and 1970s, non-agricultural conglomerates bought farm and feedlot operations. They failed to turn a profit for one major reason — management.

"A great many of those conglomerates tried to manage the farms and feedlots like a wholesale business. There was a lack of flexibility and independent management," he said.

Mathis doesn't have the answer for economically hard-hit farmers and ranchers. Commodity price prospects for 1982-83 do not look good, "except, maybe, for hogs." But, there is one thing of which he is sure.

Production agriculture belongs in the hands of the people who know it best. In Mathis' view, the farmers and ranchers of this country live agriculture and know better than anyone the management required for a successful operation.

New opportunities in the Mideast

WASHINGTON — The Palestine Liberation Organization played a pervasive role in the politics of the Arab world. So the dispersal of its military force and political leadership makes manifest the new opportunities created throughout the Middle East by the Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

The goal now in sight is nothing less than an end to the cycles of wars between Israel and the Arabs. The road to that goal passes, first, through the resurrection of Lebanon, and then, through a resetting of negotiations for a Palestinian homeland in a broader context.

Modern Lebanon emerged as an amalgam of diverse Moslem and Christian communities. The delicate balance was shattered when the PLO, ejected from Jordan in 1970, established itself among Palestinian refugees around Beirut. The PLO drew on Lebanese Moslems for support of operations against Israel. Lebanese Christians balked, and there ensued a bloody civil war. The PLO took over most of wouthern Lebanon, and Syria occupied much of the rest of the country.

A REVERSAL of that process has been initiated by the evacuation of the PLO. The election of Bashir Gemayel by a comfortable majority as new president of Lebanon carries the reversal a step further. President Gemayel, working through the U.S., is in position to negotiate security arrangements with both the Israelis and the Syrians. The Israelis will retain some influence in the south. Syria may influence in the north. Each country can then withdraw its troops, sure the other cannot use Lebanon as a base for hostile actions. There will emerge a Lebanon able to act as buffer between Israel and Syria, and also serving anew as a central meeting ground for the oil states of the Persian Gulf and the advanced countries of the West.

As to a Palestinian homeland, the starting point has to be the territory once controlled by Jordan, and now occupied by Israel, known as the West Bank. The Camp David Accords provided "autonomy" for the West Bank. With wise leadership, the Palestinian Arabs, who predominate in the territory, could have played off the U.S. and Egypt against Israel to move from "autonomy" to some kind of sovereignty. But the PLO set its face against Camp David. West Bank Arab leaders followed suit. So, except for Egypt, did the rest of the Arab world.

A replay of that tragic affair is now possible. The local leaders of the West Bank can take a second look at "autonomy," free from the terror of the PLO. Moderate PLO leaders — including perhaps Yasser Arafat himself — may be induced to accept the existence of Israel in statements that are unambiguous instead of artfully Delphic. They could then come into the negotiations and the way would be clear for King Hussein of Jordan to reenter the picture.

The Israeli government of Menachem Begin, to be sure, has asserted claims to the West Bank. It has expanded the Jewish presence there though popular in Israel now, is not forever. Only a fanatical minority of Israelis share his designs on the West Bank. The majority can easily swallow the fanatics, given the right kind of American pressure and the possibility of a general peace between Israel and the Arab states.

AN INDENT in that direction was made a year ago by Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia. At that time, the Fahd Plan for a peace with Israel worked at cross purposes with Camp David and the Egypt of Anwar Sadat. Arab radicals, led by Syria and including the PLO, easily torpedoed the project at a summit meeting in Morocco.

Since then, Prince Fahd has become King Fahd. Sadat has been replaced by Hosni Mubarak, who has moved to bring Egypt back to the mainstream of the Arab world. Syria has been mauled militarily, and virtually abandoned by its Soviet backers. The PLO is in process of being dispersed. So there is a second chance for the Fahd Plan — perhaps as early as next month at another Arab summit in Morocco. With a general settlement possible, virtually all parties will have an incentive to move on a Palestinian homeland in the context of autonomy within a Jordanian federation.

The realization of those goals, to be sure, is not easy. Still, possibilities only dimly discernible before the Israeli invasion are now in plain view. Radical Arab forces opposed to any settlement in the Middle East have been crushed by Israeli power. Moderate Arab leaders have more room for maneuver. The Israelis, far from being bent on genocide, as claimed by their foes, have shown themselves amenable to restraint. The Soviet Union is discredited, and the U.S., more than ever, holds the high cards.

Billy Graham

Bible is divine book

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why do you restrict your views on God to the Bible? Surely there are a lot of other books that have good ideas about God. —G.H.

DEAR G.H.: If the Bible were only a collection of human ideas about God written by various people, then we would have no reason to give any more weight to it than any other book that contains men's ideas about God. But the Bible does not tell us men's ideas about God, it tells us God's ideas about men! In other words, it is not a human book (although it was written by men), but it is a divine book in a completely unique way.

That is why Christians often refer to the Bible as the Word of God. It did not come about because some people thought up some ideas about God. It came about because God chose to reveal himself to us. "Above all, you must understand that no prophecy of Scripture came about by the prophet's own interpretation. For prophecy never had its origin in the will of man, but men spoke from God as they were carried along by the Holy Spirit" (2 Peter 1:20-21).

Why did God give us his Word? He gave it to us because he loves us and he wants us to know him. We do not need to guess or speculate about God, because God has told us what he is like and how we can come to know him in a personal way. That is why it is so important for us to know what the Bible teaches. Eternal issues are at stake.

I realize that you may not believe right now that the Bible is God's Word. But I want to challenge you to do something. I want you to begin to read it with an open heart and mind, honestly seeing what it has to say and being willing to turn your life over to God if you find that it is true. I suggest you start in the Gospel of John, and ask God to show you if Jesus Christ is really his only Son, sent down from heaven to die for you on the cross and save you from your sins.

Jesus said, "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find" (Matthew 7:7). If you want to know God, turn to the Bible where he has revealed himself. When you do, I am convinced you too will realize that Jesus Christ alone is "the way and the truth and the life" (John 14:6).

Around the Rim

BY BOB CARPENTER

A few minutes...

I'm an Andy Rooney fan. You may be familiar with him. He's the guy who comes on at the end of "60 Minutes," and rounds things out so the show will be 60 minutes long. His primary purpose is to inject levity in to the otherwise serious proceedings on the show.

Mike Wallace or Harry Reasoner will say, "And now, a few minutes with Andy Rooney," and Andy comes on the screen in his cluttered office and usually begins by saying, "Have you even wondered...?" And off he goes on some tangent about junk mail, designer jeans, vacations or any other common thing. Only when Andy looks at something he doesn't see it as commonplace. He sees things with a slightly twisted sense of humor that eases the tension and helps us to laugh at ourselves.

He serves a very important purpose in my opinion. After hearing Mike Wallace report on all the drugs coming into the U.S. or listening to Ed Bradley tell about book banning and burning one tends to get depressed. I mean we all love to see one of the boys give some unscrupulous character the third degree, but that gets heavy after a while. We need Andy to come along and lift our spirits with a bit of laughter so we don't lose our faith in humanity after so much bad news.

Give me a guy like Andy every time. Someone who doesn't mind giving the RULES a challenge from time to time. Someone who can look at a world of routines and ruts and get a chuckle out of it. I read somewhere that a person who can write humor consistently is intelligent. I think in Andy's case he's a genius at spotting every day humor — not the kind of humor that sends you rolling in the floor — but the kind that gives you a small grin or chuckle.

Andy's saying "Hey, you're only human, so you might as well have some fun with it."

Here now are a few of Andy's observations.

On sizes. Clothes are the worst mess of all. I wear a size 8 shoe but I wear a size 11 sock. Does this make any sense? On the same foot?

On new inventions. We need a television set that turns off automatically when a show gets bad enough. If they can make fire alarms that smell smoke, I don't see why a device can't be made that would detect a bad television show.

On signs. Someone's always trying to push us around with the signs they put up aren't they? I mean, what's your reaction when you come up against this sign: "Keep Out." Even if I didn't want to go in, my reaction is always, "The hell with you fella, I'm gomin' in!"

More about signs. A lot of signs are put up too late, of course. Usually by the time anyone puts up "No dumping allowed," people have been dumping there for 10 years.

How to watch football on TV. First, don't watch any pre-game shows. Second, don't watch any halftime shows. Third, don't watch any post-game shows. Try not to watch Howard Cosell at all. It's perfectly possible to anyone who knows the game to watch one without having anyone describe it to him.

On political parties. Republicans think taxes are too high because of the Democrats. Democrats think taxes are too high because of the Republicans.

On apathy toward the United States' future: It's just amazing how long this country has been going to hell without ever having got there.

On vacations: Why do we always have to take off? I mean, let's face it, going somewhere is never easy. It's not always fun, either. Getting there is a pain in the neck and coming back is even worse. For one thing, your clothes don't fit in the suitcase anymore.

Jack Anderson

An 'honorable gentleman'?

WASHINGTON — The rules and customs of Congress prohibit one member from disparaging another. Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., would like to make an exception of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Conte possesses a refreshing contentedness, a rousing hatred for a fellow legislator and all his works that evokes nostalgia in these tepid days of the bland politician.

The irrepresible Conte resents having to operate under what he calls the "Marquess of Queensberry rules" that govern congressional debate. He simply can't bring himself to refer to Proxmire as "the honorable gentleman" or "my distinguished colleague," as parliamentary protocol requires.

The two of them tangled over a $75-a-day tax deduction that Congress voted for itself last year. Conte was an unabashed advocate of this backdoor pay raise. But the parsimonious Proxmire raised such a howl over it that he succeeded in killing it.

Conte began lambasting Proxmire on the House floor as only a man deprived of a tax break can lambaste. From the throne-like leather chair behind the marble rostrum, the presiding referee cautioned that House rules prohibit such personal attacks on members of the Senate.

The unrepentant Conte complained about the sissy rules, but obediently omitted direct references to Proxmire. Instead, he referred to a certain "Mr. X" — which, of course, everyone knew meant "Proxmire."

At one point, Conte produced a bag of peanuts on the House floor and proposed an alternative to Proxmire's famous Golden Fleece Award: a "Nut of the Week Award," with guess—who as the first honoree.

ON ANOTHER occasion, Conte referred to Proxmire's battle against baldness a few years ago. He noted that Mr. X had "deducted his hair transplant and the Internal Revenue turned it down."

At a recent Appropriations Committee meeting, Conte produced a list of $2,151 worth of travel expenses Proxmire had charged to the government for trips around Wisconsin. "Would it be out of order to call him a cheap, irresponsible demagogue?" Conte disingenuously asked Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., the committee chairman. "Yes it would," Whitten replied, amid chuckles from the members.

Conte told his associate Peter Grant that he thinks Proxmire is hypocritical for fighting the congressional tax break while charging home-state travel expenses to the taxpayers and taking in more than $20,000 in speaking fees last year.

Proxmire declined to retaliate at Conte's level of personal vilification. But he got in a sly dig of his own, implying that his opponent was merely a victim of henpecking. House members "were really unhappy about losing that tax break," he explained. "They didn't like it, and their wives didn't like it. He is taking it out on me."

Proxmire pointed out that members of Congress already earn more than 99 percent of Americans earn and don't need a tax break. "I hear senators saying, 'I have two or three kids in college and I'm having a hard time making ends meet,'" he said. "Well, welcome to the club."

Proxmire also defended his home-state travel expenses, noting that he stays only in the cheapest hotels and fixes his own meals rather than eating in restaurants. As for the hair-transplant tax deduction, he claims that his accountant had filed this claim without his knowledge. As soon as Proxmire learned about it, he withdrew it.

Conte, meanwhile, tried to limit the amount of money senators can earn from speaking engagements. He was beaten.

Then he introduced a measure to prevent members of Congress from claiming automatically the $75 maximum per diem for travel, but limiting them to the actual expenses they incur. This is a practice Proxmire follows anyway.

Meanwhile, there is nothing that produces as much exhilaration as an old-fashioned, protracted political vendetta.

EMBARRASSEMENT OF RICHES: Not everyone is suffering from the recession. The National Conservative Political Action Committee's problem is taking in too much money. NCPAC has actually had to give money back to contributors whose zeal for conservative causes exceeded their regard for federal campaign laws.

In fact, NCPAC officials informed the Federal Election Commission, from January 1980 to November 1981, they had returned $20,000 in illegal contributions from overzealous donors.

The law prohibits any individual from giving more than $5,000 a year to any one political action committee. But, as I first reported two years ago, NCPAC fatcats keep trying to evade this legal limitation through various subterfuges.

MRS. PHILLIP DEAN BARBER

Kerby—Barber

Kyna Kaye Kerby and Phillip Dean Barber exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. Friday at College Baptist Church with the Rev. Earl Akin, pastor of the College Park Church of God, officiating.

The couple was wed before a brass archway with brass side pedestals in front of an eight-branched candelabra. The arrangement was encircled by two-heart shaped brass candelabra and two brass spiral candelabra. The altar was trimmed with greenery and fern.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Sam H. Kerby, Rt. 3, and the late Mr. Sam Kerby, and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert D. Barber, 400 Dallas.

Joyce Dean Sanders was organist. Marcie Kerby, cousin of the bride, was pianist. Marcie Kerby, Gayla Paige and Ronda Fowler were vocalists.

The bride wore a white formal-length gown that featured a Queen Anne neckline, a fitted bodice and fitted lace sleeves. The gown was embellished with lace and seed pearls. The chapel-length skirt and train fell from the natural waistline into a cascade of ruffles. The chapel-length veil was edged in lace and held by a lace covered cap accented with seed pearls.

Denise Greenfield, Coahoma, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lana Barber, sister of the bridegroom, Donna Myers, Kristi Wyrick and Ronda Fowler, all of Coahoma. Flower girl was Jill Barber, cousin of the bridegroom.

Best man was Glen Prescott, Lubbock. Michael Kerby, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. Groomsmen were Randy Holman, Lubbock, Danny Ashenbirst, Larry Pyatt, Midland, and Danial Barber, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Bobby Barber, cousin of the bridegroom, Kenny Cobb, Delane Akin, and Sammy Kerby, brother of the bride.

Candlelighters were Andrea Kerby, sister of the bride, Stephanie Kerby, both sisters of the bride, and Mark Barber, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall at College Baptist Church. Serving at the guest registry were Debby Rogers, cousin of the bride, and Jenna Brown, Coahoma.

A four-tiered bride's table accented the bride's table. Four heart cakes encircled the larger cake. The four heart cakes were decorated with pink, orchid and maroon flowers topped with a bride and bridegroom encircled by a heart-shaped pearl arch of flowers. The table was covered with an orchid organza tablecloth and centered with a nine-branched silver candelabrum.

The bridegroom's table was covered by an orchid organza table cloth with two-tiered chocolate cake centered with a horseshoe cake and trimmed with a white love rope.

During the reception, the "Singing Rainbows" of Lamesa, provided entertainment.

The bride attended Coahoma High School in Coahoma. The bridegroom graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Angelo State University in San Angelo. He is the owner and operator of Barber Construction and Contractors.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev., the couple will reside in the Midway community.

Dear Abby

Recipe calls for color

DEAR ABBY: "Cooled Off in Coos Bay" wrote to say her husband was no longer physically attractive because he had gained so much weight. Your answer: "Pretend he's Robert Redford, Burt Reynolds and Paul Newman all rolled into one."

Thanks, Abby, but as an Afro-American lady, I am not physically attracted to these men. Would there have been any harm to have included one black male? Or did "Cooled Off" identify herself as a white female? More to the point, did you simply make the assumption?

Billy Dee Williams, Howard Rollins, Leon Kennedy, Reggie Jackson and Robert Hooks (to name a few) carry just as much appeal for a large segment of your readers as the three Caucasian idols you so readily mentioned.

I, for one, am tired of hearing the "classic" American beauty described as "blond and blue-eyed," and please do not point out that Reynolds is not blond, as this is hardly my point.

Discrimination, no matter how slight, cannot be called by any other name, and it is attitudes such as the one displayed in your column that it thrives on.

I am appalled by your lack of consideration, and think you owe an apology to a very large group of your readers. I hardly expect you to print this, but I hope you got the message...or did you?

BROWN & BURNING

DEAR B. & B.: I got the message, apologize, and plead guilty as charged for reasons of thoughtlessness and insensitivity, not discrimination.

May I add my own recommendations to yours? How about Sidney Poitier, Harry Belafonte, Lou Rawls, Richard Roundtree, Robert Guillaume, Fred Williams and Bobby Short for openers?

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old son just told me that his girlfriend is five months pregnant. She's 16, and they are both very immature for their ages. My son still plans on going to college next year.

We don't know what to do. The girl is just a child herself and doesn't know what she wants to do about the baby. We know very little about her parents. They're divorced, and she lives with her mother.

Who should make the decisions in a case like this? Something has to be done, but we don't know what. Can you help?

IN SHOCK IN ARLINGTON

DEAR IN SHOCK: This is a family matter. Your son, his girlfriend and both your families should meet with a professional counselor—a clergyman, or someone who has had experience in advising families who have found themselves in the predicament. The wishes of the youthful parents—to be should be respected, but cool heads—rather than heated emotions—should prevail.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Smokers may consume more calories

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smokers may consume more calories than non-smokers, reports a medical publication.

According to Internal Medicine News, researchers at Yale University have found that smoking and nicotine may lower the efficiency of calorie storage and/or increase the metabolic rate, which would lead to lower weight in smokers.

Smokers therefore may be motivated to eat more to compensate for the higher rate of metabolism and for less efficient use of calories, the publication reported.

MRS. RAY MEEK

Ellison—Meek

Cheryl Ellison and Ray Meek were wed in a ceremony Aug. 19 in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ellison, Luther.

Ben Neel, pastor of the Vincent Baptist Church, Vincent, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. rite, before an altar adorned with a silk arrangement of apricot carnations, lilies and ferns.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Meek, 1516 Vines.

Ailmae McCormick provided music at the piano, and Malinda Ellison, sister of the bride, was vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an apricot colored chiffon gown with a lace shoulder ruffle and lace inset at the bottom. She carried a bouquet of apricot carnations and tiger lilies.

Suzanna Johnson was matron of honor. Malinda

Dr. Donohue

Generic equivalent

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been taking Inderal and my druggist always tells me there is no generic equal for this drug. I took a column of yours in which you listed propranolol as the generic name for Inderal. He said there is no generic available at this time. I then called other druggists and got the same story. I am completely confused. Any answer to this?—T.H.M.

Propranolol is the generic name for Inderal, but I'm afraid that's not the entire story. Propranolol presently is being manufactured by only one company, the one that discovered and developed it. That company has an exclusive patent on the marketing of the drug. That is why you cannot get a generic equivalent for it at the drugstore. As soon as that company's patent expires you can be sure other companies will begin making and marketing propranolol under other trade names.

That may not seem fair to you. Why can't every drug company make any generically-equivalent drug? Well, I guess the only answer is that it took the company that has the patent enormous sums of money to discover and test the drug before it was approved. In this respect, the company gets the same treatment as any discoverer of a new product: the right to recover expenses through exclusive rights for a reasonable period of time.

This is a case where a general practice of mine created a trap. I always, when possible, list (parenthetically) the generic equivalent of any commercial drug mentioned in this column.

Layoffs threaten western wear industry

EL PASO (AP) — The demise of Texas chic in fashion circles has not affected makers of basic western wear, but the trend's death at the hands of preppies means some workers will lose their jobs in layoffs.

The tight designer jeans, slick satin shirts, fringes, feathers, tassels and glitter that were the trademarks of the urban cowboy are waning from the fashion scene. And with them are going the $5 billion in sales in 1980. Now some of Texas 265 western wear and accessories makers feel neglected.

"What happened is that the urban cowboy went preppie," said Dick DeBryun, an El Paso publicist who handles six major western wear clients, including the nation's largest maker of cowboy hats, Bailey Hat Co. of El Paso.

"I do feel that a lot of western wear companies were really stupid going to capital expansion during the craze," he said.

Indefinite layoffs of 275 Tony Lama Boot Co. employees last week mean a 20 percent reduction of the workforce, said chief executive officer Gene Hosey.

Employees at the plant worked only four-day shifts to cut back production in the last two months, but the orders were not there. More than 100,000 pairs of boots sat in storage while executives wait for the big fall and Christmas orders that already should have come in.

"As the saying goes, Christmas comes every year," said Holmes Till, a Tony Lama vice president and national sales manager. "Traditionally, the orders have come in about now. I think it's running a few weeks late."

The boot inventory has doubled since January, a sure sign that the cowboy craze is over, Hosey said.

"If we would have had this kind of inventory last year, we would have sold them. We just couldn't make them fast enough last year," said Till.

Tony Lama recently built a second factory to handle orders for boots made of exotic hides, such as ostrich belly, for which there is still a one-year backlog of orders. Boots, which at Tony Lama range cost from $120 to several thousand dollars, made up one-fifth of the western wear industry's retail sales in 1980.

Nearly half the total sales were jeans, according to the Western and English Manufacturers Association of Denver, which is surveying the 3,000 cowboy clothes and accessories makers in the United States to determine the impact of the urban cowboy phenomenon.

"Companies that cropped up over night to take advantage of the craze disappeared just as fast, leaving in their wake memories of feathers and frills and, to some, the wrong impression of the western lifestyle," the trade group advised members.

"Now that the flash has flickered and most of the styles have returned to traditional designs, authentic manufacturers and retailers have begun... to erase the 'Urban Cowboy' image and return to steady and normal patterns of growth," the association's newsletter said.

Larry Roquemore of "Daily Advertising" in Fort Worth said sales for conservative western wear — regular blue jeans, simple plaid shirts, and plain straw or felt hats — are increasing, although "not as much during the 'Urban Cowboy' craze."

Pruett jury selection to begin

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — Attorneys are to begin selection today of jurors to hear the capital murder trial of Mississippi death row inmate Marion Albert Pruet, who is accused of the Oct. 12 slaying of a convenience store clerk in Fort Smith.

It is expected to take at least four days to seat a jury in the Crawford County Circuit Court trial Pruet, 32, is charged in neighboring Sebastian County, but the trial was moved across the Arkansas River to Van Buren at the defense's request. The prosecution did not object.

Pruett, originally of Gastonia, N.C., is accused of the shooting death of Bobbie Jean Robertson, 30, of Fort Smith and has pleaded innocent.

Mrs. Robertson disappeared while working the late shift. Police found her body in a wooded area of Fort Smith about 12 hours after she was reported missing. She had been shot three times, authorities said.

Pruett, who has been in the Sebastian County Jail since June 12, faces the death sentence in Mississippi for his conviction for the slaying of Peggy Lowe, a Jackson savings and loan clerk.

Prior to being transferred to Arkansas, Pruet entered a guilty plea in Colorado for the deaths of convenience store clerks Anthony Taitt, 21, and James Balderson, 23. They were shot and killed during armed robberies at 7-Eleven stores in Loveland, Colo., and Fort Collins, Colo.

As part of a plea bargain, Pruet was sentenced to two consecutive life sentences for first-degree murder for the deaths of Taitt and Balderson. In addition, the judge sentenced Pruet to two consecutive 16-year terms for aggravated robbery in Colorado.

In Mississippi, Pruet also was sentenced to 25 years for robbery and life in prison for kidnapping.

Texas authorities arrested Pruet near Stratford, Texas, on Oct. 17. He was returned to Mississippi and tried for the death of Mrs. Lowe.

A season of discontent in the NFL?

Strike date may be set by NFLPA

Raider fans lukewarm to LA home

CHICAGO (AP) — Representatives of the National Football League Players Association could put the heat on league owners in their contract negotiations today by setting a strike date.

Player reps and the NFLPA gather here to discuss the lack of bargaining progress and to decide what they want to do about it.

"I think there is a pretty good chance a strike date will be set," Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said Sunday in a telephone interview from his Chevy Chase, Md., home. He said the most likely time for any walkout would be between now and the fourth or fifth game of the regular season, which starts Sept. 12.

The Association has asked for 55 percent of the gross receipts brought in by the 28 teams, including television revenue anticipated from a lucrative contract recently signed.

"We know the owners are about to put an offer on the table," Garvey said. "They've been talking to some of the players individually about it."

But, he said, some of the player representatives have been dissatisfied with the owners' refusal to bargain.

"They want to see what steps we can take to force bargaining," Garvey said.

Garvey discounted rumors that the Players Association may adopt some strategy aimed at forcing the owners into locking out the players.

"At this stage we're more interested in a conventional approach," he said. "If we go out, we'll shut it down."

There has been some talk of a more selective action, one or two teams going out or a half-dozen or so top players from each team refusing to suit up.

"These alternative approaches put too much pressure on a small group of people," Garvey said. "We believe it's a responsibility everyone should bear."

If the owners locked the players out, it would give the players clear legal freedom to set up an alternate schedule of games outside the control of the owners, Garvey conceded.

The association already has an agreement with Ted Turner's Atlanta-based SuperStation, WTBS, to broadcast an alternative schedule of games if it comes to that.

"We'd be ready to go within two weeks of a strike," Garvey said.

FIRST RETURN — Los Angeles Raiders running back Greg Pruitt (34) returns the first kick-off for the Raiders in Los Angeles as Green Bay Packer Mike Jolly tackles him on the 15-yard line of the Los Angeles Coliseum Sunday afternoon in Los Angeles. The Raiders defeated the Packers in their first game as the Los Angeles Raiders.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Raiders' first outing in their new home was successful on one count and not so successful on another.

The Raiders, with rookie Jack Squirek of Illinois and veteran Rod Martin spearheading a fine defensive performance, whipped the Green Bay Packers 24-3 Sunday night in their National Football League preseason game. But the Raiders' initial home contest in Los Angeles drew a crowd of just 40,906 to the L. A. Coliseum, which has a 70,000-plus capacity.

During the week prior to the game, there had been a substantial amount of complaining by potential Raider fans who were displeased with the seats they had been issued. Team officials said 54,268 tickets had been sold for the contest.

Still, Raiders' managing general partner Al Davis, who led the legal fight against the NFL for the right to move his club from Oakland to Los Angeles, was pleased with the team's debut.

"I think that we put on a great show," he said. "It's the start of a trek toward Pasadena (site of the 1983 Super Bowl)."

Even the many empty seats in the Coliseum didn't discourage Davis.

"It was great to see as many people come out," he said. "But we have a commitment from a lot more people for season tickets and when we get organized, you'll see a lot more people here."

Chris Bahr kicked a 44-yard field goal as time ran out in the half and Frank Hawkins scored on a 2-yard run in the third quarter to put the Raiders ahead to stay. In the fourth period, Marc Wilson threw a 6-yard touchdown pass to Malcolm Barnwell, and Billy Taylor tallied on a 3-yard burst.

The only score by Green Bay, which had won its two previous exhibition outings, was Eddie Garcia's 49-yard field goal in the first quarter.

"I think we're beginning to come together better now," said Raiders' Coach Tom Flores, whose team is 2-1 in exhibition play. "I'm very pleased that we won our first game here."

Wilson, who took over for starter Jim Plunkett in the third quarter, completed five of 11 passes for 66 yards. Plunkett connected on 14 of 19 for 185 yards. Cliff Branch was the Raiders' top receiver with five catches for 94 yards.

Los Angeles rookie Marcus Allen, the 1981 Heisman Trophy winner at Southern Cal, continued his impressive showing in the preseason, carrying nine times for 41 yards and grabbing two passes for 15 more.

Carner takes Henredon win

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — JoAnne Carner caught a cold playing an exhibition last week, but now she has both a cure and a way to pay her doctor bills.

Carner defeated Sandra Haynie in a 5-hole playoff Sunday to win the $165,000 LPGA Henredon Classic on the 6,191-yard, par-72 Willow Creek Golf Club course.

"I don't think I have a cold any more," Carner said after her victory. "It's happened a lot where a player who is sick plays well, but this is a first for me."

While Carner can use her $24,750 prize money to pay her medical bills, Haynie can use her $16,170 runner-up winnings to pay for swimming lessons — something she unexpectedly needed on the decisive fifth playoff hole.

Haynie's tee shot on No. 17, the final playoff hole, landed in a hazard area on the bank of a lake. When she took her second shot, she lost her balance and fell into the water. It was, for all purposes, an $8,580 fall — the difference between first and second place.

"I lost my concentration, composure, and a little bit of everything," said Haynie. "It's hard to concentrate when you're slopping up the fairway. I was wet up to my waist."

Carner, 43, from Palm Beach, Fla., who last week won the World Championship of Women's Golf in Cleveland, made a routine par on the hole. And when a soggy Haynie's third shot stopped on the fringe of the green and she two-putted for bogey, Carner had career victory no. 36.

"I didn't see her go in the water," Carner said. "I didn't realize she was that close."

Carner twice avoided defeat in the playoff, chipping in from 64 feet on the second playoff hole and hitting a 15-foot, par-saving putt on the fourth extra hole.

The playoff became necessary when they tied at 8

MISSED PUTT — Golfer Sandra Haynie, from Carrollton, Tex., reacts as she misses a putt on the fourth green during Saturday's third round of the Henredon Golf Classic near High Point, N.C. At the time, Haynie was leading the pack, but a five-hole playoff gave the win to JoAnne Carner.

under par 280 after 72 holes. Haynie had begun the day with a two-stroke lead but shot a 74 while Carner finished an even par 72.

Kathy Whitworth, Hollis Stacy and Janet Coles tied for third place at 5-under-par 281.

Stadler wins World Series of Golf

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Craig Stadler describes his year, laced with victories in the Masters and World Series of Golf and two other American titles, with one word: fantastic.

"This is very fitting to my year," Stadler said Sunday of his four-hole, sudden death triumph over Ray Floyd in the $400,000 World Series of Golf.

"I figured if I won here, it would make a fantastic year. It has," he said.

The pudgy 29-year-old Californian now has more victories, four, and more money, $428,101, than anyone else on the PGA Tour this year following his $100,000 payday.

Floyd, the PGA champion who surrendered his money-leading position in this elite event, did not take his dramatic loss lightly.

"You're supposed to be happy with second place," said Floyd, who started the cool day with a five-stroke lead. "I am very unhappy with second."

"I played my best golf in the playoff. I guess it was not meant to be."

Stadler conceded he was fortunate to win. He missed three of the four greens in the playoff while Floyd missed just one, the fatal 17th.

Tied at 71, they were in the same area, nestled in the high rough to the left of the green. Stadler knocked his chip shot to within four feet of the cup.

Floyd, with a tougher lie, chipped 12 feet past the hole. He missed the downhill, downhill putt to save par. Stadler then tapped his in for his first World Series triumph.

"Ray had chances every hole," Stadler said. "I didn't play very well in the playoff. My short game came through. He made the first mistake. I just up my scrambling ways."

It marked the third straight playoff hole Stadler had missed the green, only to chip to within a few feet of the hole to stay with Floyd.

"Those chips get a little easier when you have hit three of them that close to the hole," Stadler said. "Besides, Ray had a difficult, little chip. He caught too much of the ball."

Stadler forced the playoff with a five-birdie regulation round of 65. Floyd matched par of 70. They were tied after 72 holes at 278, two strokes below Firestone South's par.

"There's really not much to say about it," said Floyd of his defeat. "Congratulations to Craig. He has to be commended for a great round of golf."

Floyd's $55,000 second-place check dropped him to second place in the money derby at $386,809.

Isao Aoki of Japan closed with a 67 for a third place at 280. He earned $34,500.

Australia Bob Shearer, after recovering from a severe nose-bleed in his early holes, shot 73 and tied Curtis Strange for fourth at 282. Strange had 68.

Jack Nicklaus, despite five double bogeys in four rounds, finished with a 67. It gave him a sixth-place tie with Lanny Wadkins and Tom Kite at 285. Kite and Wadkins had 71s.

Bill Rogers, the defending champion, also closed well with a 67 that gave him 286, eight shots off the lead.

Cubs win second half crown

The Midland Cubs swept a doubleheader from the San Antonio Dodgers to capture the second half championship of the Texas League West Division.

The doubleheader victory Sunday moved the Cubs into the playoffs against the El Paso Diablos, winners of the first half championship in the west. The East Division playoff match the Tulsa Drillers, winners of the second half, against first half champion Jackson.

Don Moore limited the Dodgers to only four hits in the first game as the Cubs took a 3-2 victory. Tom Smith gave up only five hits in the 7-3 victory in the nightcap.

In other Texas League action, Amarillo beat El Paso, 5-3, and Jackson whipped Tulsa, 2-0.

Dan Bilardello had a solo homer for San Antonio in the first game against Midland and Ed Amelung had a two-run homer in the second game.

Jeff Ronk's two-run homer in the eighth was the difference as the Amarillo Gold Sox beat El Paso, 5-3.

Bruce Oliver, 2-2, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Arturo Gonzalez, 3-2.

Orioles hit stride, edge Rangers 3-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore pitching staff seems to have hit its stride just in time for the Orioles to make one of the patented September stretch drives. Mike Flanagan hurled a six-hitter and Eddie Murray drove in two runs as the Orioles edged the Texas Rangers 3-2 Sunday.

It was the ninth victory in 10 games for the third-place Orioles, who remained six games behind first-place Milwaukee in the American League East.

The current streak coincides with a stretch of five complete games in the last eight outings, following only four route-going efforts in 38 previous games.

"The pitching has been good," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "It's the type we've needed all along and we're going to need from here on in. If it continues, we'll have a chance to close the gap."

Flanagan, 11-10 after winning his third in a row, threw only 91 pitches. The pitching chart showed he threw 72 fastballs, a statistic upheld by pitching coach Ray Miller but disputed by catcher Rick Dempsey.

"The Rangers were saying they never saw so many change-ups," said Miller, "but Mike has mastered the art of changing speeds on his fastball. He threw as hard as 88 miles an hour, down to 80, but they were all fastballs."

Dempsey contended that "40 percent of what he thought were fastballs were change-ups," and added: "Nobody knows but me."

Whatever the pitches were, Flanagan had the Rangers swinging off balance throughout the game.

After Buddy Bell doubled with two outs in the first and scored on a single by Larry Parrish, Flanagan retired 12 consecutive batters before Mike Richardt reached on an error in the sixth.

Parrish also drove in the other Texas run with his 11th homer in the seventh. Two of the hits off Flanagan never left the infield.

Parrish went 6-for-15 in the four-game series and is batting .420 in his last 18 games.

Loser Frank Tanana, 6-15, retired the first nine Baltimore batters until a fielding error by third baseman Bell led to an unearned run in the fourth.

Lenn Sakata, who reached on the error, moved to second on a hit-and-run grounder by Rich Dauer and scored on the first of Murray's three hits.

Murray, hitting .377 over his last 13 games, snapped a 1-1 tie with another single in the sixth and Benny Ayala followed with an RBI single to score the eventual winning run.

"What happened to Frank today probably has happened to him 15 times this year," Texas Manager Darrell Johnson said of the losing five-hitter. "He's probably had three bad outings in 26 starts."

"I told him not to lose his sense of humor," Johnson said, "and reminded him that how you handle adversity is what makes a man. He's handled it very well."

"When you get close to 30, they don't care about whether you're doing a good job," Tanana said. "Winning is what counts at this stage of my career. That's what you're judged on."

"I hope somebody likes my pitching," he said, "because I'm sure not getting the wins."

The way Bob McClure was pitching, you could have knocked the Oakland A's over with a feather — or a fastball.

"He threw more fastballs than the last few times out, and that was a big factor," Milwaukee Brewer Manager Harvey Kuenn said after an 8-1 victory over the A's Sunday. "It helped his control, and he has a good enough fastball to throw it by you."

The Milwaukee left-hander is known primarily as a breaking-ball pitcher — so it was a surprise to the A's to see so many hard tosses from him. For instance, in a 5-3 defeat to California last time out, McClure threw only 34 fastballs in 120 pitches. Sunday, he threw 86 fastballs among 125 pitches.

"He's been able to spot the fastball and breaking ball, and the fastball really has helped his breaking ball and change," Kuenn said.

McClure agreed. "I consider it my best full game this year," he said. "It was the second game that I haven't walked anybody, and I feel real good about that."

McClure, 10-6, struck out six as the Brewers took their eighth victory in their last 10 games and kept five and one-half games ahead of second-place Boston in the American League East. The Red Sox kept pace with a 9-3 decision over California.

Cecil Cooper drove in three runs with his 26th homer and a single and Roy Howell lined two RBI singles for the Brewers. Mike Norris, 6-9, was the loser.

Red Sox 9, Angels 3
Wade Boggs, Jim Rice and Dwight Evans hit home runs to account for eight runs and power Boston over California.

Boggs, a rookie hitting over .362 in part-time play, put Boston in front to stay with his third homer of the season, a two-run shot off Steve Renko in the second inning.

Rice, who returned Saturday from a week of traction in a hospital for back muscle spasms, shelled Renko, 10-6, with a three-run blast, his 19th, in the third. Evans walloped a three-run homer, his 23rd, in the seventh.

Dennis Eckersley, 12-10, was the winner while allowing six hits and two runs in six innings. Bob Stanley relieved for his 11th save.

"On my first time at bat, I hit a low, inside pitch," said Boggs. "It surprised me more than anyone. I was very surprised that I hit it so well and even more surprised when I saw it go into the bullpen (in right center), I'm just not an inside ball hitter."

Royals 7, White Sox 4
Amos Otis' two-run double keyed a four-run first inning and Larry Gura gained his 17th victory as Kansas City beat Chicago for its sixth straight victory and its ninth in 11 games.

Gura moved into a tie with the Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela and Philadelphia's Steve Carlton for the major-league lead with his 17th victory in 25 decisions. He gave up nine hits in 8-2-3 innings, striking out five and walking just one before needing last-out relief from Dan Quisenberry, who gained his 31st save.

The victory improved the Royals' lead in the AL West to two games over California.

"The three guys in front of me have been hitting all year," said Otis. "I just put it in play and watch them run."

He referred to Willie Wilson, U. L. Washington and Brett — who shared six hits and three RBI Sunday.

Yankees 8, Blue Jays 2
Dave Winfield drove in four runs with two homers and Lee Mazzilli left a solo shot to back the three-hit performance of left-hander Tommy John as New York whipped Toronto.

Winfield's second homer of the game and 25th of the season, a three-run blast, capped a four-run third inning that gave the Yankees a 6-0 lead and chased Toronto starter Jim Clancy, 11-12.

Twins 6, Indians 3
Randy Bush drove in two runs to lead Minnesota over Cleveland and a sweep of their three-game series.

Bobby Castillo, 8-10, earned the victory. He gave up four hits in the first inning and did not give up another hit until the ninth, striking out six. It was Castillo's third complete game of the season.

Pirates 4, Giants 3
Jim Morrison and Jason Thompson accounted for Pittsburgh's runs with a two-run single and a two-run homer, respectively.

John Candelaria, 12-5, allowed 10 hits in 7-1-3 innings although he ran into trouble in the eighth, when the Giants scored two runs. Rod Scurry got his 12th save.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 2
Bump Willis led a 13-hit Chicago attack against Los Angeles by knocking in two runs with three singles and a sacrifice fly.

Ferguson Jenkins, 10-13, posted his fourth straight victory and 274th of his career. He allowed four hits in six innings.

Phil Niekro, 13-3, worked six innings for his seventh victory in a row, with Steve Bedrosian getting his eighth save.

Atlanta moved into first place in the West, one percentage point ahead of the Dodgers, by winning its ninth game in 10 outings. New York, on the other hand, lost its 13th straight as Glenn Hubbard.

Claudell Washington and Rafael Ramirez each drove in two runs for the Braves.

Phil Niekro, 13-3, worked six innings for his seventh victory in a row, with Steve Bedrosian getting his eighth save.

Expos bunt leads way to Astro loss

MONTREAL (AP) — On the surface, Andre Dawson's two-run home run in a three-run third inning looked like a victory over Houston Astros.

But probing deeper, Montreal Manager Jim Fanning said a play earlier in the inning was probably the turning point.

"The big play was Bryan Little being safe at second when Scott (Sanderson) bunted," said Fanning.

Little had drawn a walk to lead off the second. Sanderson bunted toward first base and first baseman Ray Knight's throw to second was too late to retire the speedy Little. Sanderson was also safe at first, and both runners moved up on Tim Lincecum's sacrifice bunt.

After Joel Youngblood delivered a sacrifice fly, Dawson slammed a 2-0 pitch by Houston starter Bob Knepper, 5-13, for his 18th homer.

The blow gave the Expos a 4-1 lead, a cushion that came in handy when the Astros scored twice in the third inning.

"I was happy to see them go to second base to try and get Bryan," said Sanderson. "I was watching the play, and I knew there was no way they'd get him."

Earlier in the series, Little had used his speed to beat out a bunt, prompting a suggestion by reporters that the Astros may not have had a proper scouting report on the Montreal rookie.

"We don't face Houston at the Class AAA level, so when there are young players down there, they might not know what they can do," said Sanderson. "If they didn't know about Bryan before, they sure know about him now."

"He can do a lot of little things to help you win," Sanderson did his share in earning his eighth victory in 19 decisions. He scattered 10 hits in six innings, and one of the three runs he allowed was unearned.

It came in the third, after singles by Dickie Thon, Knight and Phil Garner produced one run. Knight headed for third on Garner's RBI single, and when center fielder Dawson threw the ball into the Houston dugout, he came all the way home with an unearned run.

The 4-3 lead was extended in the eighth when Tim Wallach led off the inning with his 19th homer.

By that time, reliever Bryn Smith was weaving a spell over Houston batters. After replacing Sanderson to start the seventh, he retired nine of the 10 batters he faced, allowing one hit and striking out four.

"I'm challenging the hitters more," Smith said, trying to account for his success. "Before, when I was getting into games, we were usually four or five runs up or down. Now I'm coming in when the games are closer. They've got some confidence in me."

Sanderson, for one, expressed that confidence after Smith had collected his third save.

"Bryn's been doing the job all year. He's received very little credit for doing one of the toughest jobs in baseball — long and middle relief."

Padres 9-3, Cards 4-5
All of its closest competitors had already won, so the St. Louis Cardinals couldn't afford to lose a doubleheader.

The San Diego Padres bombed the Cards 9-4 in the first game Sunday, cutting their National League East lead to one and a half games, but St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog was able to breathe a sigh of relief after his team won the nightcap 5-3 to push its margin over the Philadelphia Phillies back to two games.

"They gave us all we wanted today," Herzog said. "That was a big win for us. We should have blown it open in the first few innings, but we didn't."

Doug Bair, who won the second game with a brilliant relief stint, said, "We just want to stay consistent and keep that two or three-game lead. As long as we do that, we don't have to be concerned with what the other teams do."

It's going to be an interesting race," Padres Manager Dick Williams said of the East pennant chase. "Montreal, Philly, and St. Louis will all be in there. I'm pulling for St. Louis. For one thing, Montreal fired me. And Whitey and I are real close. We've played and coached together and known each other for 30 years."

The Cards scored twice in the first inning of the nightcap on George Hendrick's RBI single and Salazar's first error, on Willie McGee's grounder.

In the second, loser Andy Hawkins, 2-5, was victimized by Salazar's throwing error before Lonnie Smith hit an RBI single.

The Padres made it 3-2 with runs in the second and third innings on RBI doubles by Salazar and Kurt Bevacqua, but Salazar's third error and a pinch-hit single by David Green gave the Cards a 4-2 lead in the seventh and they held on for the victory.

In the opener, the Padres collected 15 hits, including a three-run double by Rick Lancelotti, his first major-league hit, capping a five-run third inning rally. San Diego had six straight hits off Bob Forsch, 13-8, during the upspring.

Phillies 3, Reds 1
Steve Carlton, after three dismal starts in a row, returned to form with a three-hitter and 11 strikeouts to lead Philadelphia. Carlton, 17-9, who was 0-1 with an 8.10 earned run average in his previous three outings, lost his shutout bid when pinch-hitter Rafael Landestoy hit his first home run of the season in the eighth inning.

Pete Rose walked with the bases loaded and Manny Trillo followed with an RBI groundout to give the Phillies two runs in the third, and they scored again in the sixth on a single by Gary Matthews.

Braves 9, Mets 4
Atlanta moved into first place in the West, one percentage point ahead of the Dodgers, by winning its ninth game in 10 outings. New York, on the other hand, lost its 13th straight as Glenn Hubbard.

Claudell Washington and Rafael Ramirez each drove in two runs for the Braves.

Phil Niekro, 13-3, worked six innings for his seventh victory in a row, with Steve Bedrosian getting his eighth save.
