

Jobless rate holds Still at highest level in 4 decades

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate held steady at 9.8 percent in August, matching the highest rate of the last four decades, the government reported today. On the eve of the Labor Day holiday, some 10.8 million Americans are out of work.

Labor Department analysts cautioned against reading any good news in the new figures, which were essentially unchanged from July.

"I wouldn't necessarily use the word 'stable' at this juncture" to describe the unemployment picture, said statistician John Breggar.

Deborah Klein, another analyst with the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said, "I think it's important to keep in mind that, although there appears to be some stability, there are still pockets in the economy that appear very weak."

TEXAS' JOBLESS rate dipped slightly in the latest compilation. For story, see page 2-A.

The repetition of July's 9.8 percent unemployment rate was due largely to the fact that total employment rose by 107,000, while unemployment rose by only 15,000, after the government adjusted the figures to reflect seasonal variations.

Among adult men, the jobless rate edged up to a post-World War II high of 8.9 percent. For other population groups, unemployment remained at record post-war levels. For all full-time workers on business payrolls, the bureau said employment fell by 210,000 in August to 89.5 million — the lowest level since April 1979. The bureau said the cutbacks were concentrated in durable-goods industries, such as autos, which lost 130,000 jobs, and in wholesale and retail trade, which was down 80,000.

In testimony prepared for the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Janet L. Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said, "The unemployment rate for auto workers, which had been moving downward since January, increased sharply in August, to 20.8 percent."

Ms. Klein explained why the overall unemployment rate held steady at 9.8 percent despite the loss of 210,000 jobs.

Each August, some teenagers who had sought summer jobs after the school year ended abandon their search because they have not found work, she said. The bureau adjusts the raw unemployment figures to reflect that seasonal trend.

Before the adjustment process, the number of unemployed teenagers declined by about 300,000 from July to August. With the adjustment, teenage unemployment was recorded as essentially unchanged and that offset the loss of 210,000 non-agricultural jobs.

At this time a year ago, 7.6 million Americans were out of work and the unemployment rate was 7.2 percent.

The August rate marked the sixth consecutive month joblessness has matched or exceeded the previous post-war recession high of 9 percent, set in May 1975, during the business slump brought on by the Arab oil embargo.

Arabs react to Reagan's plans

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Jordan said Friday there were "some positive points" in President Reagan's Palestinian plan and that it will study the proposal in consultation with Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

A government spokesman said it was necessary to consult with the PLO because the guerrilla movement was the sole representative of the Palestinian people.

He said Jordan's attitude was in line with a 1974 Arab summit resolution, making the PLO the only Palestinian organization recognized by the Arabs and stressing that no Mideast solution will be acceptable if the PLO is ignored.

Official sources said Jordan will send its reaction to Washington after the Reagan plan is discussed by the Arab summit conference, scheduled for Monday in Fez, Morocco.

In Riyadh, Saudi government-controlled newspapers called for serious consideration of the Reagan plan at the Fez summit.

Reagan's plan calls for a freeze on Jewish settlement in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan and Gaza Strip and Palestinian autonomy in association with Jordan. Israel has rejected the plan, saying it violates the Camp David peace process.

Jordan has been considered a key link in the Camp David process. In 1972, Jordan's King Hussein proposed replacing his Hashemite kingdom with an integrated Jordanian-Palestinian state, which he called the United Arab Kingdom.

The Israelis rejected the project at the time, mainly because it entailed a Palestinian sector, with Arab Jerusalem as its capital, under the Jordanian crown.

The Palestinians also refused it because, they said, it gave them too little.

The Egyptians and Syrians, close allies at the time, also rejected the Hussein project, which they viewed as a prelude to a separate peace between Jordan and the Jewish state.

SENTENCED TO DEATH — Johnny Frank Garrett is shown inside an Amarillo courthouse where he was found guilty of the slaying of Sister Tadea Benz and sentenced yesterday to die by injection. He was escorted by sheriff's deputies for protection.

Nuns react to death sentence

AMARILLO (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishop of Amarillo says he does not believe a teen-ager convicted in the brutal death of an elderly nun should have been sentenced to die.

Nor do the other nuns who shared a convent with the murder victim.

Johnny Frank Garrett, 18, was sentenced Thursday to death by injection in the stabbing, rape and beating of Sister Tadea Benz, 76, a resident of Amarillo's St. Francis Convent for more than 30 years. But Bishop L.T. Matthiesen, spiritual leader of the Amarillo diocese, said he believes taking a human life is wrong, regardless of the circumstances.

"I believe in respect for life everywhere, even that God-given life that is accused of snuffing out another," the bishop said during an interview with the Amarillo Globe-News. "Instead of condemning the accused to die, we need to address ourselves to the root causes of violence, such as the problems in our society."

"We don't rejoice with that (death sentence)," said Sister Viola Bacca, another resident of the convent. "It's painful to have to hear that sentence."

"I know that if Sister Tadea were alive she would be the first one to forgive and pardon Johnny Frank Garrett," said Sister Bernice Noggler, head provincial of the convent. "I am sure she has done that and therefore, I, too, forgive him and so do all the sisters."

"This person (Garrett) was a victim of the system," agreed the Rev. James Dunn, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Amarillo. "He was allowed to grow up without sufficient personal, intellectual and moral nutrition."

But, during arguments before punishment deliberations, District

Attorney Danny Hill sharply disagreed.

"Johnny Frank Garrett is a perfect example of why the state legislature authorized the death penalty," he told the jury. "For at least a year, he thought what it would be like to have sex with an old, dead woman."

On Wednesday, the jury had found Garrett guilty of breaking into the convent, beating the elderly nun, strangling her until she passed out, then raping her during the early morning hours of Oct. 31, 1981.

Jurors deliberated one hour and 20 minutes before deciding Garrett should be executed. He showed little emotion as the sentence was read, although he and his mother, Charlotte Joe Cameron, wept in each other's arms when the jury retired to begin its deliberations.

Mrs. Cameron said, "I love you, Johnny," then fled the courtroom and did not return to hear the jury's decision.

Another witness, Treva Kogatkiewicz, who said she had known Garrett for years, said Garrett frequently talked about having intercourse with a dead woman.

"Every time the conversation got started about sex, that always came up," she testified.

Big Spring may keep programming Stations to lose KERA, WFAA?

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

A move is underway to prevent the end of KERA and WFAA broadcasts in Midland and Odessa, but Big Spring is not expected to be affected. West Texas Microwave, the company that sends the signals to this area, had an April tariff increase which has forced many cable operations to discontinue the service.

Jim Lancaster, vice-president of Big Spring Cable TV, Inc., said the company had no plans to stop carrying KERA or WFAA at this time. "We have no plans to drop either one," Lancaster said.

George Batsche, of Times Mirror Cable Television who operate West Texas Microwave, will be present to discuss the cable service and alternatives in Odessa Sept. 14 at a public meeting.

Batsche, executive vice-president of the firm operating the microwave service, said the tariff boost was necessary to provide better service for the area. Signals should become more reliable as a result of improvements, he said.

The signal difficulties some cable subscribers have had with KERA and WFAA signals will also be a topic at the meeting to be held at the Ector County ISD building at 1215 West 10th at 1:30 p.m.

Lancaster, who plans to attend the meeting, said he was "glad to see someone else asking West Texas Microwave what their intentions are." Both stations broadcast by the microwave service have been poor in this area, he added.

Crackdown on Polish dissent

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Authorities clamped curfews on Lubin today, closed roads into the city and warned they would use "direct force" to maintain order in the southwestern mining center that had been hit by three days of rioting.

Officials in nearby Wroclaw described Lubin as calm but tense. They said two protesters shot by police Tuesday were to be buried today and expressed fears of renewed demonstrations.

Telephone lines remained cut to the city, about 50 miles from the East German border.

Earlier, sources in Lubin said by telex that police sealed off roads leading to Lubin, and banned public gatherings, sale of gasoline and alcohol, and use of private cars. Authorities also closed restaurants and bars, the sources said, and imposed a 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew on youths under 18 and a curfew of 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. for adults.

The 8 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew also was ordered in Wroclaw, a town about 40 miles to southeast of Lubin that had been one of about 20 Polish cities hit by rioting Tuesday on the second anniversary of the suspended Solidarity labor union.

The riots appeared to be the most violent since martial law was imposed Dec. 13 to end the labor unrest and social turmoil that followed the creation of Solidarity, the first independent trade movement in the Soviet bloc. It was founded Aug. 31, 1980, during shipyard strikes in the Baltic port of Gdansk.

Ag-use notices to be mailed

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

With the Howard County Appraisal Review Board recessing until Tuesday, the tax appraisal district office is preparing agricultural-use valuation notices for mailing that day.

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira said farmers who filed for ag-use valuations in the first four months of the year would receive notices first. Pereira and the ARB had sought a ruling from the state property tax board on whether persons who filed late for ag-use would be entitled to the 20-day period to file an ARB protest.

Pereira said the state board could not decide exactly on ag-use applications filed late, but notices would be sent out on the others. The chief appraiser was not expecting many protests either way on ag-use valuations. "Very few farmers have yelled about what I've put on land," he said. Agricultural-use evaluations allow farmland to be taxed for its productivity value rather than market value, a considerable savings for those who file.

The chief appraiser said "nothing drastic" had taken place at the ARB hearings from the appraisal office's standpoint. "We were a little high on some homes on Scurry Street," Pereira said. "We'll rework it and parts of Gregg, too. Generally our land values have not shocked people."

In many cases, the appraisers have proved their measurements right by reworking homes, Pereira said. The only area the ARB has been giving breaks in on location and in rural areas, he said. Where a home is located is important to a home's value, Pereira added, and "my people just didn't notice or didn't have time on some."

"Generally, taxpayers have been pretty nice when they have come before the ARB," Pereira said. "Nobody

Wrong man

Galveston man freed after another man admits crime

GALVESTON (AP) — The first thing Howard Ware Mosley did after his release from jail was go to church. "Where the Lord directs my path, that's where I'm going to go," said Mosley, 25, freed from the Galveston County Jail for the first time since his February arrest in an attempted murder case.

"Praise the Lord!" Mosley shouted when a court official announced that all charges were being dropped. He left the courthouse, still clad in prison clothes, as a crowd of relatives broke into cheers.

Mosley was convicted and sentenced to life in prison as an habitual offender, but a 26-year-old Houston bus mechanic later confessed to the Jan. 30 slaying of 19-year-old Patty Johnson of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

The woman had picked Mosley out of a lineup and his conviction, along with two other felony convictions, led to the habitual offender sentence.

However, Mosley continued to deny the charge and police cleared him after Coral Eugene Watts led investigators to the scene of the attack on Ms. Johnson and told them details only the assailant could know.

Police say Watts has confessed to 13 killings in Texas, Michigan and Canada.

With that conviction thrown out, Mosley still faced an assault charge as well as revocation of his probation from a 1978 aggravated robbery conviction.

But when the assault case was dismissed last Friday, parole officers decided they had no evidence that Mosley had violated his probation and ordered him released, with no charges pending.

"I knew the Lord didn't bring him this far to leave him," said Mosley's mother, Bertha Ware Mosley.

Mosley's attorney, Robert Hoskins, said, "It would not surprise me" if Mosley filed a civil suit over his mistaken arrest and wrongful conviction.

Police say Watts admitted the assault — as well as the slayings of women in Houston, Austin, Galveston and Michigan — as part of a plea bargain agreement that gives him immunity from prosecution.

Official cites need for state water plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters rejected a state water plan because they thought it was not for them, and a new campaign to win support for water projects is needed, Texas Municipal League President Alan Henry told a state task force.

Adopting a more detailed water program with the slogan "Water for People" was recommended Thursday to the Governor's Task Force on Water Use and Conservation by Lubbock's mayor pro tem.

The new slogan would convince voters the plan is "for that person sitting at home watching the 10 o'clock news," Henry said, rather than for some unexplained "entity."

He also called on the state to work with environmental groups, since their support would be needed for adoption of a water plan.

Last November, voters rejected a constitutional amendment that would have set aside half the state's surplus, up to $500 million, for water projects.

The state should back local water projects to reduce interest rates on bonds and provide for local-option water surcharges to finance regional water facilities, Henry recommended.

Judge stalls work on nuke reactor site

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge has ordered a halt to site preparation for the Clinch River breeder reactor until completion of an environmental impact study.

Thursday night's ruling by U.S. District Judge Marvin Shoob stopped commercial tree harvesting that was scheduled to begin today on a 245-acre tract of the 1,300-acre site 10 miles west of Oak Ridge, Tenn.

His injunction said that site preparation may not begin until an environmental impact statement has been completed by the Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Shoob said the commercial tree cutting would violate the National Environmental Policy Act and EPA regulations and would cause irreparable damage to the eastern Tennessee mountain wilderness.

The lawsuit was filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council and the Sierra Club against the EPA and the DOE. Clinch River, authorized by Congress in 1970, would be the nation's first plutonium-fueled nuclear power plant.

The reactor is called a "breeder" because it would produce more nuclear fuel than it would consume.

Council hears tax response

LAMESA (SC) — The Dawson County Program Building Committee met yesterday morning in the office of County Extension Agent Peggy Robertson to determine the dates for this year's pecan show.

The show will be held in early December, but because of scheduling problems with the judges for the show, it will be a few more days before a definite date will be set.

This year's show will be open to Dawson and surrounding counties.

Pecans exhibited must be from the 1982 crop and must be grown by the exhibitor. The first place winner of the county show will be eligible for the regional show in Midland.

New to this year's pecan show is a food show. There will be six divisions in the food show — appetizers and snacks, breads, pies, cakes, cookies, and candies.

For more information on the show call the Dawson County Extension Office at (806) 872-3444.

3 shot dead in NY

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — Three people were found shot to death Friday in this wealthy New York City suburb, police said.

The victims, whose identities were not released, were described as a middle-aged woman and a teen-age boy and girl.

Police said they received a call at about 10:45 a.m., reporting a shooting death. They said the victims were found in a single-family home on Lincoln Avenue.

Police refused to disclose further details.

Texas jobless rate drops

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' unemployment rate dropped in August to 7 percent, compared with the 7.3 percent in July, state employment officials said today.

The rate is still running much higher than last year but indicates a slight upturn in the state's economy, said Terence Travland of the Texas Employment Commission's economic research division.

The seasonally adjusted rate for August was 6.7 percent, compared with a seasonally adjusted figure of 7 percent in July, Travland said.

This time last year the state recorded a 5.8 percent unadjusted unemployment rate, 5.3 percent seasonally adjusted.

Travland said this month's figures were not surprising.

"Under normal circumstances, we would expect unemployment to decline a little bit, mainly for seasonal reasons as youngsters who entered the job market in the summer leave to go back to school and other activities," Travland said.

Texas' unemployment has been running at historic highs all summer. Figures for June and July were the highest record since the state began keeping comparable records in 1970.

Travland said the August figure is reason for optimism.

"It really kind of suggests the Texas economy may have exhibited slight improvement over the month, at least to the point that seasonal considerations were able to exhibit normal trends on unemployment levels," he said.

Police Beat

Man arrested at club

Police said they arrested 56-year-old John Steelman, no address available, last night on suspicion of disorderly conduct and public intoxication at Nashville Tavern, 112 S. Main.

The arrest was made about 10:50 p.m. after the owner, Gilbert Mancha, told police a customer refused to leave the club when asked and kicked out the front door with his foot, police reports said.

Police reports also showed the following:

- Joe Stanhope, 18, of 1208 Mesquite was arrested at his residence on two traffic warrants at 6:33 p.m. yesterday. He was released after paying $85 bond set by the city.

- Harvey D. Patterson, 34, of 1802 Johnson was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated at 2:10 a.m. yesterday.

- James Howell of 505 N.W. Fourth, apartment 4, said someone broke a window and stole a .22-caliber revolver, a Seiko wristwatch and $5 cash from his residence between 9:45 p.m. yesterday and 2 a.m. today.

- Victor Petty of Route 3 Box 112 said someone stole a demonstrator kit for a King commercial water conditioner from his vehicle between 1 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. today.

Sheriff's Log

Man arrested on alcohol charge

Jeffrey Ralph Murphy, 23, of 1311 Baylor, was arrested by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission in connection with a charge of consuming after hours, according to the Howard County sheriff's office. He was released after paying a $56 fine assessed by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

- Sheriff's deputies arrested Daniel J. Silen, 22, of 2510 Cheyenne in connection with two Scurry County warrants of failure to appear and no lake permit. Silen posted a $200 bond on the failure to appear charge and paid a $31 fine on the lake permit charge, records show.

- Shery Wyle of 1508-B Wood said someone stole $100 in canned goods and unplugged her refrigerator, causing about $150 in meat products to spoil between August 10 and today.

- Sharon Smith of Garden City Route said someone stole her purse from the counter at Skate Palace, Interstate 20 south service road, between 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Wednesday.

- Curtis Adams of 2003 S. Monticello said someone stole a green wine jug filled with $60 to $70 in change from his residence between 2 p.m. August 28 and 7 p.m. Wednesday.

- A Chevrolet Camaro driven by Jaime M. Cuellar of 1305 1/2 Elm backed into a corner of a 7-Eleven building, West Highway 80 and Airport Road, at 10:59 a.m. yesterday. Cuellar was cited for no driver's license in possession and failure to show proof of liability insurance.

- A Mercury Lynx driven by Mary Jo Bertram of 418 Ryon and a Chevrolet pickup truck driven by Dalton K. Ditto of Garden City Route Box 168-A collided at Gregg and 18th at 11:20 a.m. yesterday. Police cited Bertram for disregarding a red light.

- Sheriff's deputies also arrested Jess Osteen, no address listed, on a warrant of issuance of bad checks. Osteen paid a $116 fine via mail, according to sheriff's records.

- The Department of Public Safety arrested Gilbert Martinez, 20, of 1510 Oriole, in connection with charges of no liability insurance and failure to control speed. He posted a $1,000 bond, set by Heflin, and was released.

- Sammy Lee Delgado, 21, of Lamesa was released on a $1,000 bond after being arrested by city police for driving while intoxicated.

were injured in Krakow, 29 civilians and 42 police officers were hurt in Gdansk, and 24 streetcars were "immobilized" in Wroclaw.

It said rioters were being fined from the equivalent of $62 to $180, or sentenced to up to 90 days in jail. The average worker earns the equivalent of about $90 a month. In London, a Polish seaman identified as Lucjan Lalala, 36, was found Thursday hanging from a tree in Gladstone Park near Cricklewood in what a Scotland Yard spokesman said was an apparent suicide.

The victim's landlady, Helena Chelminska, said Lalala, a Solidarity activist, had been "desperate and anxious" about the limited contact he had with his family in Poland since he defected to Britain last December.

The Communist Party Politburo condemned the nationwide rioting in a meeting Thursday and authorities promised punishment for Solidarity supporters and underground leaders who had called for the protests.

The ruling military council ordered a crackdown on members of the now-disbanded Committee for Social Self-Defense, known by its Polish acronym KOR, which played a key role in advising Solidarity during its 18-month tenure.

"Our conscience is clear and we've got nothing to be ashamed of," said KOR member Jan Kielanowski. "We wanted to serve the workers and advise the authorities, but they refused to listen and plunged the country into this situation now."

wants to pay taxes, but I can't control it." The ARB has met with approximately 247 persons during its 11 days of hearings, according to Ruth Mitchell of the appraisal office. The office has received a total of 1,710 protests including 46 since the ARB extended the protest deadline, Mrs. Mitchell said.

If the board continues to meet at the same rate, all protests would be completed Dec. 3rd.

Pereira noted that three to four people a day are canceling their hearings or not showing up at all. "We wish people would call us if they're canceling so we can schedule someone else," Pereira said.

Lamesa City Council hears tax protests

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa City Council met yesterday evening to hear public response to the raising of taxes by 10.12 percent.

The turnout was very low, as only three concerned citizens of Dawson County attended this public hearing.

The mayor of Lamesa, Nelson Hogg, and city council members answered questions from those in attendance as they expressed empathy for those who showed personal dissatisfaction over the increase in taxes.

The mayor said that the rise in city taxes will be around eight percent and is necessary to offset deficits. Hogg said that the city is cutting as much as possible and, in fact, some departments are understaffed due to cuts that have been made. The Mayor went on to say that the public sometimes wants services from the city, yet it costs the city money to provide these services.

Bass tournament slated

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado City's Bass Club will sponsor an open tournament Sept. 11 and 12, according to Walt Staats, chairman of the event.

Tournament headquarters will be at the Lake Colorado City State Park.

Staats adds the tournament will include both Lake Champion and Lake Colorado City and more than $3,000 in cash prizes will be offered.

School's out already

Teacher strikes play havoc with opening day

By Associated Press
Talks between striking teachers and Pittsburgh schools broke off and more walkouts loomed in Michigan as classes for more than 100,000 students nationwide were canceled by teachers' strikes.
Although most schools don't open until after the Labor Day weekend, about 1,000 teachers already are on strike in seven Michigan school districts, affecting 9,250 students.
In Illinois, 2,700 teachers were striking in six districts, leaving 49,000 students at home.
In 10 districts in Pennsylvania, 2,335 teachers were off the job, idling 45,247 pupils.
In two Ohio districts, teachers were on strike but schools were open. In the urban Cleveland district of North Olmstead, however, only 2,900 of the district's 5,600 students attended the second day of classes Thursday. The teachers' association called for parents to keep children at home.

Most disputes were over wages. Many school and union officials, however, have said they did not expect a wave of strikes this fall, some citing low teacher expectations because of slim budgets.
In Michigan, classes began Thursday for 31,000 students in Flint, where teachers are working with a tentative agreement.
In Highland Park, an enclave of Detroit, 6,400 students also began attending classes Thursday while mediation continues.
Despite the settlements, state officials expected more strikes.

"Negotiations are going very slowly," said Faith Bishop, director of the office of negotiations at the state Department of Education.
Slightly more than half of Michigan's 529 school districts have ratified contracts or reached tentative agreements, leaving the most unsettled contracts since the state Board of Education began keeping records in 1974, she said.
Keith Geiger, president of the Michigan Education Association, expected "a long, hard weekend" of talks.
"We're asking our team members to be available all weekend for marathon bargaining sessions," he said.

Weather

Texas gets drenched

By Associated Press
Very heavy thunderstorms roamed South Texas near Del Rio early today following a stormy night across many areas of Texas.
Showers were also reported east of Del Rio early today and isolated showers dotted the area northwest of Austin. Several other areas of the state reported scattered showers and thunderstorms during the night.
Skies were clear to partly cloudy statewide.
Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s, ranging from the 60s in the Panhandle to the lower 80s in South Texas. Extremes ranged from 65 at Amarillo to 82 at Laredo.

WEST TEXAS FORECAST
Widely scattered thunderstorms south today and tonight and mountains Saturday. Partly cloudy north today and mostly fair tonight and Saturday. Highs 88 mountains and Panhandle to 94 Big Bend. Lows 66. Highs Saturday 90.

Body search on after Air Force crash

TELLICO PLAINS, Tenn. (AP) — Low clouds and heavy rain contributed to the crash of an Air Force plane that slammed into a mountain cliff, killing all nine crewmen aboard, officials said.
Continued poor weather Thursday around 4,900-foot Johns Knob also hampered the search for bodies in the debris of the C-141B, which crashed Tuesday afternoon on a low-altitude training mission.
"It hit a solid rock wall. It just cut a groove in it," said Maj. Doug Cossentine, an air security police commander with the Tennessee Air National Guard. "It hit the side of the mountain and just sprayed over."
Asked if remains were found, Cossentine said, "No bodies. Just pieces."
Col. Donald A. Logeais of Charleston Air Force Base in South Carolina, where the plane was based, said the poor weather in the area where the plane was flying contributed to the accident.
The crash occurred in Cherokee National Forest on the Tennessee-North Carolina state line, about 70 miles south of Knoxville.
Col. Chester G. Oehme Jr., the base commander supervising the investigation, said the plane was flying at about 260 mph when it hit the cliff about 70 feet from the top.
The last contact with the plane was at 1:50 p.m. Tuesday, when the pilot talked to Atlanta air controllers. Oehme said investigators believe the plane crashed about 40 minutes later.
A Federal Aviation Administration computer traced the plane to within a mile of the crash site, and ground crews using flashlights found the wreckage late Wednesday.

Hang-gliders' wings get clipped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hang-gliding enthusiasts, who leap from high ground and soar through the air attached to bright, kite-like contraptions, are having their wings clipped by the federal government.
The Federal Aviation Administration published final regulations governing hang gliders and ultra-light motorized aircraft in the Federal Register on Thursday.
The U.S. Hang Gliders Association immediately attacked the regulations, saying the government "has no business regulating an outdoor recreational sport that consists largely of people running and gliding down remote hills and sand dunes."
But Fred Farrar, a FAA spokesman, said the regulations were needed to ensure safety for the sport's participants while keeping the airspace safe at the same time.
The final regulations are aimed primarily at ultralights, the term used for motorized hang gliders, and certain balloons. But they also cover hang gliders powered only by wind currents, gravity and the shifting weight of strapped-in fliers.
The new rules, among other things, bar flying at night in populated areas and in controlled airspace without prior permission. Those rules are "minimum reasonable regulation," Farrar said, adding most hang-gliding groups "realize that there's a need for some regulation here."

Bess Truman hospitalized

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former first lady Bess Truman, who has been in and out of the hospital several times in the past 18 months, was in stable condition in Research Medical Center today with an undisclosed ailment, her doctor said.
Mrs. Truman, 97, was rushed by ambulance from her Independence home to the hospital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, a hospital spokeswoman said.
The widow of President Harry S. Truman was in stable condition, resting and in no pain, said Dr. Wallace Graham, her longtime family physician.

Drunk driving crisis tackled

Drunk driving is the number one traffic safety problem by far today and many things are being done both at the state and national level to combat it.

But there can be no single cure-all for drunk driving. In fact, a simplistic approach can be detrimental to all attempted solutions.

What is needed is a comprehensive, integrated approach involving the efforts of many citizens, from police and educators to judges and state officials. It will require cooperation among them all.

A recent study by the U.S. Department of Transportation shows that due to a lack of complete reporting and inadequate testing of drivers involved in accidents, what is known about alcohol involvement in highway crashes is only the tip of the iceberg.

Around the Rim

By Cliff Coan

Tough memories

Locked away inside their minds, everyone seems to have several moments they would just as soon forget. There is no one so important, no one so cool, no one so lucky who has not been so embarrassed at one time or another that they have considered ripping up the linoleum and crawling underneath.

I certainly have my share of these instants of infamy.

How about the time I decided to show a friend how to jump a motorcycle over a pile of gravel?

I roared up the side of the six-foot gravel pile, popped the throttle as I crested the mound, and sailed into space.

The flight was good — the landing was lacking in character.

Shortly after my back wheel touched down, remnants of my motorcycle and body were scattered over the pavement, too.

My watching friend suffered the most severe injuries — he beat his sides black and blue laughing.

THEN THERE was the time my football teammates, in a burst of weird, exhaustion-inspired levity, tossed me out the fieldhouse door after a workout.

I was wearing a pair of socks at the time.

And, of course, I can't leave out my high school graduation.

We were supposed to walk across the stage maintaining a solemn dignity befitting the occasion in one direction, receive a handshake and our diplomas, and walk back the other way to our seats.

With the unerring directional instincts of a former Boy Scout, I walked the wrong way.

My brother, seated nine rows back in the auditorium, later told me he heard my comment on the snafu clearly.

Once, during my college years, I had tried for weeks to get a date with a certain co-ed. When the appointed night arrived, so did the snow — about four inches of the lousy white stuff covered the ground as I drove to her house to pick her up. "A little frozen water ain't gonna stop this guy," I thought to myself.

Wrong, sponge-brain.

Naturally, during the drive to town from her house, something happened. Absorbed in the process of stunning the girl with my brilliant conversation, I failed to keep a close watch on the narrow road.

Some fool had lost a spare tire in the middle of the snow-covered road. When I stopped flapping my jaws long enough to look at the road, the only option left was evasive action. The evasive action took us off the road (we're skidding on ice and snow, remember) over a curb and into a yard, destroying a small snow-laden mesquite and my right headlight in the process.

Even after she determined she wasn't hurt, the girl wasn't much of a conversationalist the rest of the night — she kept staring at the road.

Later, she apparently took a vow of celibacy to protect herself from foolish men — at least she never saw me again.

APPARENTLY, I'M not alone in my ability to get into situations which result in a red face.

Fellow writer Bob Carpenter related an instance that occurred in the first grade.

It seems his class went outside for the second recess of the day. Seizing the opportunity for a dash for freedom (actually, he thought school was out for the day), Bob left and walked home.

"I got a whipping for it," Bob said. "I think it was for being stupid."

Mike Downey once set fire to an entire football field.

"I was in the seventh grade during the infamous drought in Coleman County," he said. "It was about the 100th day of a 116-day drought."

Naturally, the grass on the football field was, Mike said, "your basic brown." Mike had a handful of matches, and "for some bizarre reason, I wondered how the grass would burn."

Seconds later, he had the answer to his question — like gasoline is how the grass would burn.

Mike and his brother, stomping like crazed Indians, were aided by the football coach in extinguishing the blaze, but not before a 30-yard patch in the middle of the field turned very black.

RICHARD HORN'S big moment came during a Little League baseball game. His team was down by one run in the fifth inning. Richard hit a single to lead off the inning, then, after two strike outs, the opposing pitcher gave up a single. Richard advanced to third.

"I was the tying run," he said, "and I was really excited. I looked up in the stands and there was my Dad with a proud 'That's my boy' look on his face."

But Richard was so excited that he got it into his head the bases were loaded. Actually there were only men on first and third.

"So the pitcher walked the next batter and I thought I would get a force home," Richard said. "I trotted in like Babe Ruth after a home run, and there was the catcher with the ball in his hand and a big grin on his face."

He tagged Richard out. The inning was over. So was the rally. For the Tigers, so was the game.

"The whole dugout groaned," Richard remembers. "My manager always carried a clipboard and when I got tagged out, he threw it to the ground so hard it bounced up to his knees. I looked up at my Dad and he was staring at his shoes."

"After the game my Dad and I got in the car to go home," Richard said. "Instead of giving me a Lifesaver and saying 'That's alright, son,' he said, 'Rick, what happened on that play?'"

Richard said he flooded the car.

Thus endeth a great baseball career.

Greg Jaklewicz had an auspicious debut into the journalism business.

During his first night at the Abilene Reporter-News, Greg had to use the restroom. After finding its location, he proceeded to take care of business at what he thought was a newfangled urinal. Before he was through, the janitor walked in with his cleaning supplies.

Upon seeing Greg, he dropped them all and stared. Greg finished as fast as he could, thinking the janitor might be a little strange. Later he learned he was not using a urinal but the multi-purpose sink.

"I could never face that janitor again," he recalls. "Nor did he want to get close to me."

You can stop lying

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know it is wrong to lie, but I seem to have great difficulty fighting this. Why can't I seem to do what is right? — D.E.

DEAR D.E.: Yes, it is wrong to lie. The Bible says in one of the Ten Commandments, "You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor" (Exodus 20:16). Among the things that the Lord hates most are "A lying tongue ... a false witness who pours out lies" (Proverbs 6:17, 19). You should remember, incidentally, that lying takes many forms, including gossiping about others.

The first thing you need to do is realize that you need God's help with this problem. Perhaps you have never really committed your life to Jesus Christ, and if not I urge you to turn to him for forgiveness and new strength. Perhaps you are a Christian, but you have not sought the strength of the Holy Spirit as you should. Confess your need of his power, and step out in faith that he will grant it if you are open to his will.

Then I want you to think carefully about why this particular problem affects you so much. I do not know your particular situation, of course, but I have found that many people become habitual liars in order to build themselves up in the eyes of other people. In other words, by "stretching the truth" they hope others will be impressed by what they have accomplished or how important they are, and will then come to like them better. Part of the problem with this, however, is that it almost never is true. Once a person becomes known as a liar he or she will usually be held in suspicion by others.

If that is your situation, I want to assure you that Christ can help you. He loves you, and above all you should make it your desire to please him. Don't live a lie by pretending to be something other than what you are. Learn to walk with Christ every day through prayer and reading his Word, and instead of thinking about how others see you, make it your prayer that they will see Christ in you.

Nice guys finish last

I was walking down Pennsylvania Avenue with my wife when a nice fellow came out of this big White House and stuck a 20-dollar bill in my hand.

"What is that for?" I asked.

"It's a tax cut," the man said smiling, friendly as he could be. "I promised you one, and I always keep my promises."

"Take it," my wife said, "and don't ask any more questions."

This nice fellow said, "I'm going to give you one of those every week."

"What for?" I wanted to know.

My wife kept tugging on my arm.

"I don't care what it is," my wife said. "Let's get out of here before the police come."

I stuck the 20-dollar bill in my pocket and hurried down the street.

A few nights later my wife and I were taking a walk around the back of the big White House and a man came out of the shadows and said, "Your money or your life?"

I looked around and much to my surprise it was the nice guy who had given me a 20-dollar bill.

"There is a catch to it somewhere," I whispered to her so he couldn't hear. "No guy who lives in a big White House gives 20-dollar bills away."

"Maybe he's an eccentric and wants to make other people feel good."

"Next year," the nice guy said, "I'm going to give you twice as much as I gave you this year."

"I think the guy has lost his marbles," I whispered to my wife. "Either that or it's some chain letter scam."

THE NICE guy was handing out the 20-dollar bills to everyone walking by.

"I don't care what it is," my wife said. "Let's get out of here before the police come."

I stuck the 20-dollar bill in my pocket and hurried down the street.

A few nights later my wife and I were taking a walk around the back of the big White House and a man came out of the shadows and said, "Your money or your life?"

I looked around and much to my surprise it was the nice guy who had given me a 20-dollar bill.

"What gives?" I said angrily. "A few days ago you were handing out money like there was no tomorrow and now you want to take it away from me?"

The guy smiled. "I made a mistake. I gave away more money than I thought I had. Now I have to get it back."

"Give it to him and don't ask questions," my wife said hysterically.

"You should be ashamed of yourself," I told him.

"I am, but I still want your money."

"All right," I said. "Here's your 20 dollars."

"I need more than that," He was going through my wallet. "I'm flat broke."

"You should have thought of that before you started giving everyone 20-dollar bills."

"One thing has nothing to do with the other," he said. "What I do in front of the house is one thing. What I do in the back of it is another."

"Don't take my Social Security card. I may need it," I pleaded.

The nice guy just smiled. "I wouldn't be too sure of that."

Western bankers burned

WASHINGTON — Mexico isn't our only insolvent neighbor. Fidel Castro's Cuba is in even worse shape financially.

Castro owes a total of nearly $10 billion to foreign creditors. That's about 200 times more than Cuba owes when he seized power in 1959.

Approximately $7 billion of that is owed to Big Brother in Moscow.

But Castro owes $2.6 billion to Western bankers. Of that amount, $1.1 billion comes due for payment in the next 12 months.

International banking sources say Castro has only two choices: rescheduling the loans or defaulting. Either way, Cuba may be cut off from these loan markets.

Some Western bankers, belatedly wising up, now say they won't lend Castro any more money because they can't be sure what it's being used for.

And Castro can't count on a bailout from the Kremlin. Moscow gold is stretched pretty thin these days — what with grain imports, the costly adventure in Afghanistan and bailouts of such other clients as Poland and Vietnam.

U.S. banks are probably the only major international lending source that hasn't been pouring money down the Cuban rat hole. That's because we got stuck early in the game, when Castro expropriated nearly $2 billion in U.S.-owned assets following his revolution. The resulting U.S. embargo applies to American banks as well as other businesses.

Who has been underwriting Castro's extravagant economic, political and military experiments? His foreign loans have come from banks in Libya, Japan, Canada, France, Spain, West Germany, Italy and the Arab countries — even a bank controlled by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

AMAZINGLY, MANY of the Western loans to Cuba were of the "general-purpose" variety, not earmarked for specific projects. This meant that Castro didn't have to tell the lenders what the money would be spent on, unlike you and me when we approach our friendly financier, hat in hand.

The ironic result is that these pillars of capitalism may have subsidized Castro's foreign subversion — a startling illustration of the cynical Leninist prediction that capitalism will supply the rope for its own hanging. Cuban troops by the thousands began deploying in Angola and Ethiopia at about the time of the influx of cash from Western banks.

At any rate, there is no evidence that Castro used the money for the laudable goal he suggested he needed it for: diversifying the Cuban economy. For example, Cuba's faltering export trade is now even more dependent on sugar than it used to be.

And while Castro successfully built up a commercial fishing fleet, records show that in 1957-77 Cuba's fishing activity actually decreased. Those were the years when Castro was sending troops to Africa — using his fishing fleet as transport ships.

The Western bankers are presumably chastened by all this: once burned, twice shy, as they say. The trouble is, they can't pull their fingers from the fire just yet. As financial sources told my associate Jon Lee Anderson, the moneylenders really have no choice but to reschedule Castro's loan payments and hope that eventually they'll get their money back.

Do I detect tears being shed for the international bankers? Surely not.

PLAYING WITH WORDS: The Office of Government Ethics seems to be rewriting the dictionary to save high-ranking officials the embarrassment of disclosing how much money they're actually getting from the taxpayers.

At issue is the requirement in the Ethics Act that officials above a certain rank report the "amount or value of income ... from any source (other than current employment by the United States Government)." The idea is to spot potential conflicts of interest.

Taking the law to mean what it says, the National Taxpayers Union wants to know why some "double-dippers" in civilian jobs at the Pentagon and State Department haven't been reporting the income they get from military pensions — which sometimes run as high as $50,000 a year.

The ethics watchdogs replied that the brass hats' retirement pay doesn't need to be reported on financial disclosure forms. The military pensions are considered "reduced compensation for reduced current services" — on the theory that the retired officers are really still in the military, available for callup to active duty in an emergency. Thus their pensions qualify as income from "current employment" by the government, and need not be disclosed.

A House subcommittee is checking to determine whether the high-level double-dippers are violating the ethics act as well as the English language.

CALL ME MISTER: Poor Gen. Allen Rachel. He's deputy director of the Defense Mapping Agency, a hush-hush intelligence unit that is, unfortunately, 95 percent civilian. In an effort to drum up a little military-style respect, Rachel issued a stern memo last month ordering headquarters personnel to address all senior staffers as "Mister," and the big boss as "General" or "Director" in all written and verbal communications. A spokesman explained that Rachel thinks the headquarters atmosphere is "too informal." Can saluting be far behind?

SPUNKY LADY: Federal whistleblowers have protection against vengeful bosses, but state and local government employees are generally defenseless against reprisals. Ask Marie White of Hazard, in the coal-hollow country of eastern Kentucky.

Mrs. White was summarily fired from her $50-a-month job as payroll clerk for the Perry County school board after she raised serious questions about purportedly falsified vouchers and padded expense accounts.

"I was in a position to know about the misuse of school funds," she wrote me. "On several occasions, I confronted the school attorney and two board members about this corruption. However, I was ignored."

State police and auditors didn't ignore her, though. They found enough substance to her charges to conduct a thorough investigation. The results are expected to be presented to a grand jury shortly.

School superintendent Kenneth Colwell denied that his abrupt firing of White had anything to do with her charges of corruption. But she says he told her, shortly after her dismissal + "Keep your mouth shut. I can fire you anytime."

White, the mother of two, has been out of work since before last Christmas. She claims others in the school system have been forced out because they supported her. "Sir," she wrote me, "I was taught that I, like all Americans, was born with a special gift. That gift is freedom. Without justice, we lose that freedom. I'm just a little old lady with only courage to fight with ... I'm not a glory seeker or trouble maker, but someone that cares for our mountain people."

FOOTNOTES OF WAR: In a Palestinian refugee camp that had been slightly damaged by the passing Israelis, an ancient woman, wrinkled and toothless, asked me in Arabic to fix her roof. Flying Israeli shrapnel had left a hole in it. "It is no problem now," she said patiently, "but when it rains, it will be a problem."

— On the eve of the Israeli surge into Lebanon, the PLO let loose a barrage of Katyuska rockets against the Gashé Azim kibbutz near the Lebanese border. One rocket ruined the decor at a nearby restaurant in the luxurious seaside resort, Club Med. Another rocket burst in a banana grove and splattered bananas over the landscape. No one was hurt.

— Israeli defense minister Ariel Sharon is a bulldozer of a man, a one-man blitzkrieg. His beautiful dark-haired wife is as delicate as he is bruising. Theirs was, she told me, a happy marriage. Her secret: "We never argue. He is home so little that I am just good all the time."

— I spent an evening with the Sharons at their ranch on the edge of the Negev desert. The defense minister had a telephone that kept in instant touch with the battlefield. During our talk, he was interrupted by a call on his "hot line." He negotiated a cease-fire on the spot.

Link between FBI man, robberies investigated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A supervisor at the FBI's Washington headquarters is under investigation by the Justice Department for alleged involvement in a string of bank robberies, according to a published report.

A dispatch from the Washington bureau of the Scripps-Howard News Service published Friday in the Columbus Citizen-Journal quoted unidentified sources as saying the probe also involves an aborted effort to rob the FBI's own credit union and a fencing operation for stolen diamonds and jewels.

The news service said it learned that top FBI officials have known of the supervisor's alleged involvement in a bank robbery ring for almost a year and originally tried to have him fired. The supervisor was not named in the story.

According to the report, the Justice Department has turned the case over to a federal grand jury in Washington for investigation of possible criminal charges.

FBI spokesman Dave Divan, asked about the story, told The Associated Press in Washington Thursday night: "I can neither confirm nor deny what's being said."

U.S. Attorney Stanley Harris, also in Washington, told the AP. "It doesn't ring a bell with me at all." He conceded, however, that such an investigation could be under way in his office without him being aware of it.

The robberies involved banks in Gahanna and Huber Heights, Ohio; Springfield and Carthage, Mo.; Greensboro, N.C.; Southaven, Miss.; and Olathe, Kan., according to the published report.

Pine Bluff, Ark., lawyer M.J. Probst, a former aide to the late Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., is a key witness in the case and is to testify before the grand jury next week, the report said. Probst is a friend of the FBI official under investigation, according to the report.

Probst, 42, was indicted Aug. 17 by a federal grand jury in Little Rock on 14 counts of bank robbery, arson and conspiracy. He has pleaded innocent and is free on $50,000 bond.

He is charged with receiving money stolen from seven banks, in five states, and with conspiracy to defraud an insurance company through claims for a deliberately set restaurant fire.

Meanwhile, The Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock on Thursday quoted unidentified sources as saying that a federal grand jury in Washington is investigating the alleged activities of an FBI employee in a diamond fencing scheme.

Probst has been subpoenaed to testify Sept. 10, the Gazette said.

Probst's attorney, Bart Mullis of Pine Bluff, told the newspaper that Probst is not a subject of the Washington grand jury investigation.

"We have been advised that he is not a target," Mullis said. "We have been instructed not to discuss this case by federal authorities."

Students begin their studies for X-ray tech certification

By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

Students in the ninth class of the School of Radiology at Malone-Hogan Hospital have begun working toward completion of courses needed for their certification as X-ray technologists, according to Valerie Showalter, program director.

Mrs. Showalter explained that the two-year program accepts new students every August. While enrolled in the program, students are trained to take X-Rays and are taught to present the data from the X-Rays to radiologists for interpretation. Students also study nursing arts, bedside manner, and anatomy and physiology, among other courses.

Mrs. Showalter said that the hospital-based program prepares students for the National Registry Exams, similar to the board examinations nurses must take before they can gain a license to practice.

The courses in the hospital-based program are taught by certified X-Ray technologists, by different doctors within the hospital, and by outside guests, Mrs. Showalter said. Paul Ausmus, a professor at Howard College, also teaches several courses.

Students interested in X-Ray technology may go two routes to gain certification, Mrs. Showalter said. In addition to hospital-based programs like Malone-Hogan offers, several colleges offer associate degrees in the field.

Dr. Buerk Williams is medical director of the program, and was the man responsible for establishing the program in 1974. He's been with the school since its inception.

Dr. Williams said he and others at Malone-Hogan saw the need for such a school because "there was no manpower supply" in the X-Ray field at the time the school was begun.

"We knew that in 1975 we would be opening this hospital," Dr. Williams said of the Malone-Hogan facilities, located on FM 700. With the expansion of the hospital at that time, "We were going to need four or five additional technologists, and we had no earthly idea where we were going to get them. The school was established because of a dire need for a dependable supply of competent technologists."

The school is supplying a need in the West Texas area, Dr. Williams said, because "in May of 1980, we canvassed the West Texas area to see how many job openings there were (in X-Ray technology). We covered an area from Amarillo to San Angelo, and Abilene to Odessa. In that area, we found there were 97 unfilled positions for X-Ray technologists at that time.

This gap in positions exists in spite of schools in San Angelo, Abilene, Odessa, Lubbock, Amarillo and Big Spring, Dr. Williams said.

"We are striving to graduate competent technologists for future employers, and students who can pass their National Registry Exam," Dr. Williams said.

Students who pass their National Registry exam "are accepted any where in the world" in their profession. "It is a document of proficiency recognized world-wide."

Since the school first began in 1974, 24 students have graduated from it, Dr. Williams said. Of that number, all but three have passed the National Registry Exam. One of the three has not taken the exam at this time, Dr. Williams said.

In comparing a hospital-based program to the college program, Dr. Williams said "each has its own advantages. The college has more educational resources available in liberal arts programs, etc."

Hospital-based programs are very selective in the admissions of students, Dr. Williams said, because they handle smaller classes. He said he felt hospital-based programs "offer more individual attention to students, because of the small size of the student body...The hospital-based program is more specifically designed to desired results than is the college-based program."

Mrs. Showalter added that hospital-based programs also offer "more on the job training."

Students enrolled in the newest class at Malone-Hogan Hospital include Manuel Ramirez, Lynn Shipman, Frances Thorns, Charlotte Halfmann, Viola Barraza and Sammie Sullivan.

Dear Abby

Jazz musicians planted the seed

DEAR ABBY: How did New York City come to be known as "The Big Apple"? Everyone I've asked has a different version, but nobody seems to know for sure. Do you?

BIG QUESTION

DEAR ABBY: No, but I decided to get to the core of it, so I asked Roger Wood, my editor at the New York Post, who passed the assignment on to his assistant, Sonia Reyes. Here's the juice:

In the early 1930's, American jazz musicians who toured the country playing one-night stands coined the slang expression "apple," meaning any town or city.

Charles Gillett, president of the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau at that time, commented, "There are many apples on the tree, but to play New York City is to play the big time — The Big Apple!"

P.S. If the above turns out to be applesauce, please write to Sonia. (Roger?)

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and female, and haven't done much serious dating, but last weekend at a picnic the son of some family friends started moving in on me, and I let him go further than I should have. (He's 17 and much more experienced than I.) I have to admit I was having fun and didn't put up any resistance.

Since that time, we've talked on the phone but we have yet to go out on a date. Now I'm worried that if we start dating, or if we're alone again, he will expect what he got the first time, and I'm not ready for that. He's a nice, intelligent person, but he could be moving too fast for me.

I know, he would stop if I said "Stop," but I like him so much, it's next to impossible to get that one little word out of my mouth. Are there any alternatives? Please help soon. And don't send a personal reply to my house.

ONLY HUMAN

DEAR HUMAN: The cardinal rule is: Don't set yourself up for any situation you feel incapable of handling. And the next time you're alone together, tell him you have no intentions of repeating your previous performance because you're not ready for it. And say it with conviction and authority, as though you are calling the shots!

Dr. Donohue

Neuropathy: diabetes complication

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain "diabetic neuropathy." If you could shed some light on this diabetes thing, I would appreciate it. As my diabetes improves will this neuropathy improve also? My legs and feet were affected, but I am able to walk fairly well now. — Mrs. M.J.

We automatically think of diabetes simply as the inability of the body to control blood sugar because of a lack of sufficient insulin. That's the bottom line, for sure, but other changes can be involved along the way. One of them is a blood vessel problem in which vessels become occluded with deposits. Another in nerve changes. The blood vessels supplying nerves are occluded, so nerves are deprived of their nourishment.

Like all living tissue, nerves have to be nourished with adequate blood supply. When they are undernourished they begin to wither. When this happens in diabetes it is called "diabetic neuropathy." That results in symptoms like burning pain in the hip that may radiate down the thigh to the knee. Often there is a weakness of the thigh and hip muscles. That's an example.

Recovery from this form of diabetic neuropathy is the rule, but it can take a long time. And the foundation of treatment is to control the diabetes itself. Some physicians give vitamin-B supplements for such nerve complication.

There are other forms of diabetic neuropathy, and recovery varies with each. In an earlier column, I made reference to use of pain medicines for the relief of burning sensations of diabetic neuropathy. A doctor wrote me about use of transcutaneous electrical neural stimulation (TENS). In this, a little device delivers a tiny electrical current to the painful nerve, numbing it temporarily and reducing discomfort. TENS is certainly worth discussing with your doctor. I thank the physician who reminded me of this.

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge travels to children's home

June Wiggins, lodge deputy of Rebekah Lodge No. 284, presented a school of instruction during the lodge's meeting Tuesday evening. Mabel Morrison, noble grand, presided. Forty visits were made to the sick.

Correspondence was read from Lupe Dominguez, chief of volunteer services at Veteran's Administration Medical Center, thanking the lodge for sponsoring Morning Coffee Aug. 11.

Members are urged to participate in the pilgrimage to Corsicana and the children's home Sept. 12.

Members of the September refreshment committee are Candy Andrews, Freda Lansperg, Francis Loftis, Helen Lee, Marion Savell and Gay Smith.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 7. September birthdays will be celebrated with the refreshment committee hosting.

Family holds reunion

The 20th Annual Ben Foster Family Reunion was held Saturday in Lamesa.

The late Ben Foster and Pearl Webb were married Aug. 31, 1929 in Velma, Okla. The couple had six children: Lillie Fay, G.A., Bennie, Leo, Jessie and Jimmie. They also had 16 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Each of the six families were represented in the 102 family members and friends present. Those attending were from Big Spring, Ackerly, Lamesa, Kermit, Midland, Odessa, Andrews, Loop, Stanton, Shriners, Victoria, Duncan, Okla. and Velma, Okla.

Despite tax cut, retail sales sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — Analysts who had been forecasting a turnaround in the retail industry say it will be at least October and possibly even the Christmas season before sales pick up.

The predictions came Thursday as many major retail chains reported sales were sluggish in August, despite an income tax cut that took effect in July and the start of the back-to-school season.

Industry leader Sears, Roebuck and Co. said August sales were up only 1 percent over sales in August 1981. K-mart Corp., the second-largest retailer, said sales fell 4.3 percent, and No. 3 J.C. Penney Co. sales were off 2.2 percent.

"Trends in sales in August indicate a disappointing back-to-school selling season," said Jeffrey Feiner, an analyst who follows the retail industry for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. "They reflect the same lackluster consumer spending attitude that has pressured consumer sales all year."

Chicago-based Sears said August sales rose to $1.539 billion from $1.529 billion in August 1981. For the first 30 weeks of the fiscal year, Sears said sales were up 1.6 percent to $10.86 billion from $10.69 billion.

Sears Chairman Edward R. Telling said better results were expected for the rest of the year because of the 10 percent cut in federal income taxes that took effect July 1 and falling interest rates.

K-mart said sales for the four weeks ended Aug. 25 fell to $1.19 billion from $1.24 billion. For the year so far, sales by K-mart, which has its headquarters in Troy, Mich., are up 3.9 percent to $8.94 billion from $8.6 billion.

J.C. Penney Co., based in New York, said August sales fell to $938 million from $959 million. For the year so far, sales fell 1 percent to $6.034 billion from $6.095 billion. Penney is the third-largest retailer.

However, sales gains were reported by chains with specialty and some discount operations.

Federated Department Stores Inc. said a 31.1 percent rise in sales in its discount division pushed overall sales up 8.9 percent in August. Sales increases of 24 percent from Dayton Hudson Corp.'s discount Target stores and Mervyn's California-based clothing stores contributed heavily to the chain's 15.9 percent overall sales gain.

Federated, the fifth-largest chain, based in Cincinnati, said August sales rose to $561.3 million from $515.6 million. So far this year, sales are up 8 percent to $3.8 billion from $3.5 billion. Federated's department stores include Bloomingdale's in New York and Filene's in Boston.

Dayton Hudson, the seventh-largest chain, based in Minneapolis, said sales rose in August to $423.4 million from $365.3 million. For the year so far, Dayton Hudson sales are up 14.1 percent to $2.7 billion from $2.4 billion.

2-year-old takes a drive

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A 2-year-old boy left in the family car started it up and was heading for a drainage ditch before his mother managed to jump in and steer the car into a tree, police and his mother say.

William Bowen took his drive Wednesday afternoon in a 1976 Oldsmobile after his mother, Jane, delivered lunch at work to his dad, Rodney, police said.

She left the youngster in the car while she went inside to make a phone call. She said she left the keys in the ignition, but applied the emergency brake. A few minutes later, William woke up and started the car, put it in gear and began guiding it down the street, police said.

GARFIELD IS COMING TO BIG SPRING MALL SOON!

No indictments in slaying of town bully

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Federal officials have ended their investigation into the slaying of a reputed town bully without any indictments, but they turned new evidence and the name of a suspect over to local officials.

Ken Rex McElroy, described by residents of Skidmore, Mo., as a bully who terrorized people, was gunned down in broad daylight on July 10, 1981, as he sat in his pickup truck. Although a crowd of people stood in the area, no charges were ever filed.

At a news conference Thursday, U.S. Attorney Robert G. Ulrich said the federal investigation did not find any violation of McElroy's civil rights by local authorities involved in the case.

But he said investigators turned over "significant new evidence" and the name of a suspect to Nodaway County Prosecutor David Baird.

McElroy's 25-year-old wife, Trena, testified before a county coroner's jury and two grand juries that her 47-year-old husband was shot by a local tavern owner. He was never charged or arrested, and Ulrich declined to say whether his suspect was the same man.

Ulrich said the federal investigation will be reopened if any more evidence is turned up.

Baird said the stack of evidence from federal authorities was the size of the "Kansas City Yellow Pages" and his review could take several weeks.

A county grand jury last September decided after eight days of testimony that it could not return an indictment. A federal grand jury then was called in Kansas City but adjourned indefinitely in June without returning an indictment.

Richard McFadin, a lawyer for Mrs. McElroy, said Baird would be under "considerable pressure" to resolve the case.

"There has been a county grand jury, a federal grand jury and yet no one can find the person who murdered Mr. McElroy — in front of 60 to 70 people," said McFadin.

Ford to recall some 1982 vans and trucks

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says the possibility of engine timing problems, causing knocking, has prompted a recall of 7,672 vehicles from the 1982 model year.

In a statement Thursday, Ford said the vehicles are F-series pickup trucks, Broncos and Econoline vans with 4.9-liter six-cylinder engines.

The problem started when Ford began to use a different crankshaft damper on the engine crankshafts, said Ford spokesman Warren LeBaron.

The new damper changed the engine timing mark, which could cause the vehicles to knock when started and damage the engines, he said.

The problem was discovered in an assembly plant test, and there have been no customer complaints or reports of accidents, LeBaron said.

At least half the recalled vehicles were still at dealers, the company said.

Dealers will correct the problem free.

2 die at Coors

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Two men died when they tried to rescue a fellow employee who was overcome by fumes from solvent used to clean a waste tank at a can factory, authorities said. Eight people were injured.

Pam Geist, 32, had been doing routine cleaning Thursday night inside the tank at the Coors Container Co. aluminum can factory when she was overcome by the toxic fumes, even though she wore a respirator, said Coors spokesman Dennis Scheminske.

An employee collapsed while trying to rescue her and a second man then rushed in and managed to save the woman, but was overcome when he tried to save the first rescuer, Scheminske said.

The men, identified as Brian Palka, 28, of Golden, and Mark Olson, 27, of Denver, were reported dead at the scene.

Ms. Geist, six other Coors employees and an ambulance driver were treated and released at Lutheran Medical Center in Wheat Ridge for inhalation of fumes.

The chemical was identified by the Jefferson County sheriff's office as Chlorothene NU, a chlorinated organic solvent used for cold cleaning of metal parts and as an industrial solvent.

THE LIGHT TOUCH
By Sherry Wegner

It is sad to see people squandering money & know you can't help them.

There would be more incentive to be successful if successful people had time to enjoy life.

At twenty, a man thinks he can save the world; at thirty, he just wishes he could save part of his salary; at forty, he wishes he knew at "20" what he knows at "40!"

Regardless of age ... people like good service & that's what you get at Big Spring Seed & Chemical, 602 N.E. 2nd. Items in stock are: computer parts, spray parts, stripper brushes, pumps, roundup, turnip & mustard seed, & a complete line of feed (including Quail & Deer blocks). We can get your Shurflo pumps repaired also. Check with us first for all farm & ranch needs.

Steer herd goes to Snyder

New defense, coach, team

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

SNYDER—It's that time again. Unveiling a new head coach, a new defense and a helmet-full of new players, the Big Spring Steers test the Snyder Tigers here in an 8 p.m. non-district game tonight.

In other District 4-AAAAA games, Wichita Falls Rider travels to Abilene, Cooper and Brownwood meet in their annual grudge match in Brownwood, Lubbock Coronado visits Midland Lee, Midland High is on the road at Lubbock Monterey and Austin Anderson tries its luck against highly-rated San Angelo Central. Saturday night, El Paso Coronado makes the long drive to Mojoiland to take on Permian.

Between these two teams, a total of three games were chalked up in the "win" column last year. Coaches Quinn Eudy of Big Spring and George Byerly of Snyder want to improve on that and tonight's game could serve as a good indicator of things to come in the next few months.

"Snyder and us are real comparable," Eudy says. "Snyder, until two years ago, had between Big Spring about eight straight years. They always get excited about playing us. They have some talented kids up there — not many in numbers — but you know when you go to Snyder they'll be ready to play."

The main problem Snyder is having is finding players to wear varsity uniforms. Continuing a trend that has been going on for some three years now, the Tigers will suit out only 20 players for tonight's game. Local sports editor Bill McClellan says a recent lack of interest in football and Byerly's no-nonsense program have dwindled the numbers.

"The people he's got left want to play football in the worst way," Eudy warns, however. And the players in Tiger uniforms will be talented if not deep in bench strength.

Directing the offense is senior letterman David Nicholson who started last year before breaking an arm and missing the last half of the season. Running with the football on the veer offense will be halfbacks Casey Peterson and David Delce, although several other players will touch the football also.

The Tigers will throw the ball and the Nicholson-to-Glenn Parham connection is one to watch. The duo teamed for two long bombs in a scrimmage win over Brownfield. Of the five touchdowns scored against the Cats, four came through the sky.

"Defensively, we will try to get all eleven people to run to the football," Eudy says. "We are expecting more out of the kids technique-wise."

The Tiger defense will play out of a 5-2 set. The line is very inexperienced with no one having varsity experience except for Parham at the left end slot. Casey Peterson was moved from cornerback to linebacker leaving returning starters Chad Peterson and Britt Vincent in the secondary.

Snyder is in good shape both Eudy and McClellan report but the Tigers may wear out just a little towards the ends of the halves because of the lack of subs.

Eudy wants his team to control the ball on offense. That means "trying not to lay the ball on the ground or have it intercepted. We want to avoid the turnovers," Eudy emphasizes. The Steers can be expected to mix up options to Danny Stephen and Eric Sherman and for quarterback Adam Rodriguez to go to the air on occasion.

The Big Spring coaching staff is anxious to see what the kicking game looks like. Jay Pirkle will punt and Carl Green will handle kicking duties. "We were atrocious last year through nobody's fault, I guess. This year we are trying to get it right," Eudy said.

The Steers are without backup Dean Gartman who has a broken bone in his passing hand. He might be back by district play. Another leader, senior Rod Harris, is lost for the season after knee surgery this past summer.

Last year, the Steers galloped off to a 14-0 lead before needing a muffed conversion attempt by the Tigers to take a 14-13 victory.

READY — Steer linebacker George Bancroft won't take sitting down when Big Spring meets Snyder tonight.

George'll talk to you

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

George Bancroft likes to talk. Off the football field, his favorite topic is football. On the field, it's the same, except that Bancroft lets his talents do the speaking for him.

The Steer linebacker and tailback has had many good things to say about the Big Spring football program which he thinks has turned around into the right direction this year.

"I kind of feel like in the past, we had problems with different players...we just didn't get along," the Steer senior recalls. "This year, we have no problems. Everyone gets along. There's no arguing."

The change in atmosphere has made his job as a team leader a bit easier. "I think a senior is looked on to be a leader but you don't have to be a senior to lead. When I was a sophomore and junior, I thought I should talk out but I didn't feel quite right. Now everyone works well together," he explains.

The Steers have made their change in attitude visible across town already. Why the change in the Big Spring camp, George?

"We haven't been picked high in the books but because of some of the personnel we had, everyone thought we'd do pretty good," he says. "Then things all fell apart, we had 1,800 injuries and it was a long season. This year, we don't know what to expect when all the superstars aren't around. All that's left is the rest of us. We want to see what we can do."

"The Sweetwater scrimmage helped a lot," he continued. "In the spring, we had a lot of seniors come out that hadn't played in awhile. The two-a-days went well and the scrimmage against Sweetwater. There aren't anymore jackasses around. Now, they're all good guys. We're all good friends."

Bancroft predicts the Snyder game will be a real hard-hitter. "It doesn't matter what you hear. When you get out there, they'll hit you. It'll be a real physical ballgame. They don't do a lot of fancy stuff...just run right over you."

The Steer spokesman has played against Tiger teams since seventh grade and is familiar with the team. "I know a lot of the players and know what they do well," he said.

Bancroft has started at middle linebacker the last two years and will play on the strong side of the team's 5-2 set this year. He'll also help out in the offensive backfield, running behind starter Danny Stephen.

"I thought I was going to play more but what I've gotten I've enjoyed. If nothing else, I hope they let me catch the fall on third down. If I can't make a tackle, I'd just as soon catch a pass. Interceptions are even better," he smiles.

Bancroft played junior varsity baseball in the spring but quickly admits football is his first love. "I enjoy baseball but football is what I concentrate on. A lot of things are just past-times to football. I kinda don't know what I'll do when I don't have that anymore."

Away from athletics, Bancroft is president of the boy's portion of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and was junior class president. He's also been in student government.

"I enjoy outdoors stuff and I like girls...a lot," he laughs. "But, then, every 17 or 18-year-old will tell you that. I like to be with my friends best, though. Even more than

Pokes, Oilers prepare for exhibition finale

HOUSTON (AP) — Dallas Coach Tom Landry and Houston's Ed Biles will be far more interested in their respective defenses than statewide bragging rights Saturday when the two teams met in Texas Stadium in the final National Football League exhibition game for both teams.

Landry says the Cowboys still are unsettled at linebacker and strong safety positions vacated by the retirements of D.D. Lewis and Charlie Waters.

The Oilers have been hit the past two weeks with injuries to starting safety Vernon Perry and linebacker Gregg Bingham, who has not missed a game for the Oilers in nine seasons.

It all means close scrutiny for the defenses in the nationally televised contest. "Offensively, we're pretty well set but we're not set in the defensive department," Landry said.

Landry and Biles were interviewed in a telephone hookup.

Landry said he would be looking closely at the strong safety position where Dexter Clinkscales is challenging Benny Barnes for the starting position.

"Guy Brown has played well at linebacker but his problem has always been injuries," Landry said. "We are hopeful that he can stay healthy."

Carter Hartwig has moved into Perry's starting position at strong safety and Ted Thompson will take over for Bingham.

The Cowboys have dominated the intra-state rivalry, winning 11 of 15 preseason games and two of three regular season games.

Landry, for one, says he'll leave getting excited about this year's intra-state game to others.

"I'm sure individual players will get emotional about it," Landry said. "But I don't feel anything even though both of us are in Texas. I respect the Oilers and think it's great to have a rivalry going."

The Oilers defeated Tampa Bay 21-6 last week but three Bucs quarterback pilfered the Oiler secondary for 242 yards passing.

Last week, the Cowboys rolled up 458 yards, 350 on White's and Hogeboom's passing, to beat their second straight American Football Conference foe last week with a 36-21 victory over New England.

McEnroe wins tough opener

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe has won the U.S. Open Tennis Championship three straight times and carries the No. 1 seed this year, but he views his chances in this tournament with something less than glowing confidence.

For one thing, he has been hurting with a severely sprained left ankle and a painful blister on his right foot. For another, it simply has not been a standout year for the controversial 23-year-old from Douglaston, N.Y., who lost his Wimbledon title to Jimmy Connors and struggled before and after that tournament.

McEnroe opened defense of his Open crown with a grueling 7-6, 6-4, 7-5 victory over Tim Gullickson Thursday and showed flashes of his old form in doing it.

In other second-round men's matches, No. 6 Gene Mayer advanced with a 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Sweden's Stefan Simonsson and No. 9 Yannick Noah of France eliminated Brian Gottfried 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Ivan Lendl, seeded No. 3, led Tim Mayotte 6-4, 1-2 before rain forced postponement of the remainder of their match.

The men's draw lost two seeded players in second-round matches with No. 13 Mark Edmondson of Australia defeated by Matt Doyle, 1-6, 7-6, 7-5, 6-2, and No. 15 Raul Ramirez of Mexico losing to South African Schalk van der Merwe 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

In women's play, second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd, a five-time Open champion, advanced into the third round with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Kelly Henry. Evert Lloyd was joined by defending champion Tracy Austin who defeated Beth Norton 7-6, 6-3, while No. 5 seed Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia defeated Australian Sue Leo 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 to advance to the second round.

Barbara Potter, seeded 10th among the women, was beaten by Ros Fairbank of South Africa 6-4, 6-1, and No. 11 Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia was eliminated by amateur Gretchen Anne Rush 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

McEnroe was pleased with his victory but he still saw some gaps in his game.

"I just wasn't concentrating well enough," he said. "I don't know why. That's something I have to work on."

McEnroe and Gullickson started Thursday tied at 3-3 in the first set, a carryover from the previous night when a power failure and rain postponed their match. They went to a tie-breaker and McEnroe dominated that 7-2. But Gullickson stayed with him in the other sets, forcing him to work hard for the first-round victory.

Steer linebacker tops in maturity

girls. I don't get a kick out of Gregg Street. I just like sit around and talk with them."

As to why he's so adept at talking and more mature than most teenagers his age, Bancroft answers, "When I was a little kid, my mom or my dad would have their friends over. I didn't want to go out and play, I wanted to talk with them. I'm terrible in class...I don't think the teachers can stand me because I talk too much. I talk to dad an hour or two a day."

Do they talk football?

"During football, we do a lot. My grandpa comes over and when I get in there with those two guys, they can really get on me," he grins.

Bancroft is highly praised by his coaches for his talents as a leader. No matter the teachers may think, Bancroft will get a lot of attention when he "talks" on the Snyder Tiger football field tonight.

American League

Tigers 6, Angels 3

In another American League game Thursday night, Detroit downed California 6-3 as Lance Parrish homered twice. Parrish's solo homers, his 25th and 26th of the year, broke the Detroit record for homers by a catcher in a season. Bill Freehan held the previous record of 25.

Aurelio Lopez, making his first appearance since being recalled from Detroit's top farm team on Wednesday, hurled six innings of one-hit relief.

Brewers 2-2, Indians 1-4

Von Hayes cracked a three-run, ninth-inning homer as Cleveland ended an eight-game losing streak with a 4-2 second-game victory over Milwaukee for a split of their doubleheader. Milwaukee won the opener, 2-1.

The Cleveland victory spoiled Don Sutton's American League debut. Sutton, acquired from Houston on Monday, took a five-hitter into the ninth.

In the first game, four Brewer pitchers overcame a fine effort by Cleveland's Rick Sutcliffe. Sutcliffe, 11-6, tossed a four-hitter and allowed only one earned run. But the Indians got only Hayes' 11th homer of the year off Milwaukee starter Moose Haas and relievers Dwight Bernard, Rollie Fingers and Pete Ladd.

Haas left with a sprained wrist and Fingers exited with elbow pain.

Wilson out for Coogs

HOUSTON (AP) - Quarterback Lionel Wilson was dispatched to the sidelines for Friday's final pre-season Houston scrimmage, on orders from Cougar head coach Bill Yeoman.

Wilson strained an ankle Wednesday and was ordered held out of contact, although he suited out Thursday and took part in passing drills.

Sophomore running back Patrick Franklin also was told to miss the scrimmage with a bruised shoulder. He should be eligible to return next week, Yeoman said.

A-M names captains

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Three seniors were named Texas A&M football captains Thursday as the Aggies wrapped up preparations for their cable-tevised season opener against Boston College.

Quarterback Gary Kubiak, defensive end Jon van Sant and fullback Earnest Jackson will be tri-captains when the Eagles visit the Aggies at 6:10 p.m. Saturday, said head coach Jackie Sherrill.

Boston College scheduled a Friday arrival in time for a 6 p.m. workout at Kyle Field. The game will be televised over a national cable system originating with station WTBS-TV in Atlanta, Ga.

Freshman Writes Home

That first letter from college to the folks back home is often a masterpiece in controlled emotion. The excitement of new adventure in a strange environment is paramount. But it cannot hide a hint of nostalgia for fond faces and familiar places. The firm resolve to fulfil high hopes is not without a trace of apprehension or anxiety. That is because the freshman as never before is on his own. Being on our own can be the threshold of our greatest spiritual discovery — the realization of God's power and love inspiring us and strengthening us in the face of life's challenges. What we gave the freshman back home—the faith, fervor and fortitude religious training and example cultivated in his soul—these become prime resources when he is on his own.

Patients like family to Butler

DR. LEE BUTLER
...BSSH chaplain

By CAROL HART
Church Editor

Dr. Lee Butler, chaplain at Big Spring State Hospital, is preparing for an interview, only one item of business in a day filled with important appointments. As he prepares, he is interrupted with a phone call informing him that a tragedy has befallen one of the many people he counsels at the hospital.

Dr. Butler is visibly upset by the news. He explains that the people he works with, both patients and staff members, are like "my family." He takes very seriously the hardships which strike them, and tries to help them through counseling and through referrals.

He explains that in his many years as chaplain at Big Spring State Hospital, he has learned "to love these people, their families, and members of the staff." Tragedies in their families affect a wide number of people who form a supportive chain at the hospital, he says.

After working for many years at the hospital, his job "has become a part of me," he says.

Chaplain Butler chose the chaplaincy after almost 20 years in the pastoral ministry. During those 20 years, "People kept coming to me with problems. I really didn't know what to do with them...I wasn't trained in college or in seminary to work with people on a clinical basis."

A desire to help these people led Dr. Butler back into school. "I enrolled in clinical pastoral education, and spent a year in study I interned in a Houston hospital."

His training helped him learn how to "interpret what's going on with people, emotionally, spiritually and physically."

When he completed his training, Chaplain Butler said the best place to do the work he was trained for was in a psychiatric facility.

"The Lord opened doors for me to do hospital work. I really love it."

Chaplain Butler says he sees his job as "helping people to find a friendly faith." Through this, "I continue to learn alot about myself. How to apply my faith to life."

One of the few things which dismays him about his career is the fact that the people he works with "are sick. It hurts to see people in pain, unable to function. Their inability to function affects their families, and ultimately the community."

Dr. Butler said he would like to educate people to realize that "People who are emotionally ill come from all of our families. I would like to help people find a healthy faith while in treatment."

In a breakdown of his duties, Dr. Butler said he is first responsible for providing pastoral care and worship for all BSSH patients. That duty alone is enormous, as BSSH conducts a general protestant worship service on Sunday morning, a Catholic mass Monday afternoons, as well as a "Religion in Life" group on Tuesday evenings. The hospital also has a puppet ministry, and conducts minichapels all week for patients who cannot come to the Tollett All-Faith Chapel, where formal services are conducted. Dr. Butler is aided in this area by several assistants.

"We're not a church," Dr. Butler explained, but "our patients feel like it is church."

We try to tie them into their local church while here, and when they leave."

Dr. Butler is also part of a treatment team. At the hospital, the holistic approach is used, which means "the whole person approach. We feel the spiritual needs are as important as the physical or social needs."

Dr. Butler is also responsible for the on-going education of the public concerning the role psychiatric hospitals play in public welfare.

Dr. Butler also counsels people in the community "on a short term basis. If I can help on a short term basis, I do that." In cases where longer term counseling is called for, Dr. Butler refers people to the out-patient clinic at BSSH or to other mental health care facilities.

Dr. Butler has been director of chaplaincy services at BSSH for 15 years. Prior to that, he pastored at churches in Wingate, Crane, Iraan and Houston, and was involved in ministry work in Phoenix, Az., and Dallas.

His wife, Molly, is director of nursing at the Big Spring State Hospital. The couple has two grown sons, Tommy, who is choral director with Robert E. Lee High School in Tyler, and Terry, who is with Rixon Electronics in Silver Spring, Md. The Butler's also have three grandchildren.

Dr. Butler attended Howard Payne University, Grand Canyon College, Southwestern Baptist Theology Seminary, Pacific Western University School of Religion, Clinical Pastoral Education Institute of Religion and Memorial Baptist Hospital, Houston, and Luther Rice Seminary.

Church Women United meet

The Church Women United of Big Spring held a Get Acquainted Coffee Aug. 27 at 10 a.m. at the First Church of God, 2009 Main St.

The women of the church were hostesses. The event is hosted each year to give area women the chance to get to know one another, and to know something of various churches in the community.

Thirty-six women attended the event Friday. Nine different churches were represented.

All women, whether church affiliated or not, are invited to all of the celebrations and activities of Church Women United.

Scope of revival said potentially risky

The scope of religious revival in China has astonished both the government and religious communities there, says U.S. authority on that country, but he also sees potential dangers to the trend.

Paradoxically, a main threat cited is also a big gain — the rising stream of young people into the churches.

It "poses the greatest potential danger to the church's relations with the state," says Paul Richard Bohr, China expert and executive director of the Midwest China Center in St. Paul, Minn.

With an estimated 1 million young people now publicly attending worship services, he says, government organs have stepped up warnings that "religion must not be allowed to become too attractive to disillusioned youth."

Should it be seen as doing so, he adds, toleration of it could be reversed.

"Already, at least in rural areas, officials are skeptical of 'modernization,' saying it's not a good thing and religion is not a good thing," Bohr said on return last week from his latest trip to China.

Nevertheless, in a 20-page summation of recent religious developments in China, issued by the China Council of the Asia Society in Washington, Bohr says religion in the communist-run country has made a stunning comeback.

"Nowhere is the resurgence of religious life more dramatic than in China's Christian community," he says, adding that it now surpasses the 4 million total members of 1949 when the communists came to power.

In the years of varied restraints and virtual eradication of visible religious life in the "cultural revolution" of 1966-76, Bohr says Chinese Christians attained "psychological maturity."

During that period, he says, "both Protestants and Catholics claim that they acquired a deep understanding of poverty and suffering, patience and faithfulness, which they associated with the original New Testament experience."

"Thousands of Christians are emerging from private worship to profess the faith in the open."

Unification move may hit hitch

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Geographically dispersed, three-ring proceedings among Lutherans across the country next week are expected to launch them toward unification. If any hitch occurs, its likeliest locale is in San Diego, Calif.

That's where the largely Midwestern American Lutheran Church is holding its convention Sept. 6-11, simultaneously with conventions in Ohio and Kentucky of two other U.S. Lutheran bodies involved.

For those two — the Lutheran Church in America, meeting in Louisville, and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches, meeting in Cleveland — indications were the unifying plan was a virtual sure thing.

But some questioning has arisen in the ALC that could cause a snag in the San Diego proceedings, although prospects remain high that the merger plan will get approval in all three arenas.

It calls for a new, united Lutheran church of 5.4 million members by 1988, third in size among American Protestants to the 13.7 million-member Southern Baptists and 9.6 million-member United Methodists.

In any case, San Diego remained the spot to watch for the outcome. The ALC is at a "volatile" stage, says Iowa district Bishop L. David Brown. He says critics may have some influence, but probably not enough to defeat the plan.

Results of the tripartite decision-making are to be announced to delegates of the three conventions in a three-way teleconference at 2 P. M. PDT on Wednesday, Sept. 8.

The Rev. Martin Marty, noted church historian of the University of Chicago Divinity School, is to moderate the joint announcement and ensuing joint news conference among leaders of the three denominations.

About the only organized sign of opposition was in the ALC in which a theologically conservative group of 20 clergy, the Committee for Church Cooperation, has registered misgivings.

The Rev. Duane Lindberg of Waterloo, Iowa, head of the committee, says committee members feel there has not been sufficient discussion of polity differences between the LCA and ALC.

Among differences, he says the LCA is an organization of clergy and congregations.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY ME A BIRTHDAY CARD, MR. WILSON... JUST READ ME ONE AND GIVE ME THE MONEY INSTEAD."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"You'll have to buy me some new cards, Mommy. I've worn the treads off these."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 4, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you can engage in activities you enjoy. Study your environment and make definite plans for improvement. Make positive plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Engage in community activities that will improve your reputation. Express your talents to the right people.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study details of a plan you have in mind and be ready to put it across soon. Do more thinking about the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be most efficient at regular chores and get the right results. Try to improve your surroundings. Be considerate of neighbors.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to clarify your position on a legal matter with associates. Show others that you can be trusted.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go over any outside work and be sure it is done correctly, otherwise improve it. Take health treatments you may need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to be with congenials for fun but don't overspend or you'll regret it. Observe and obey rules that apply to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put new mechanisms in your home so that it's more functional. Contact friends who have the information you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find day for obtaining all the data you need in order to operate more efficiently in the future. Be wary of strangers now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good day to study your accounts and see that they are accurate. Engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Fine day for handling personal matters. Plan how to handle routine tasks with least expenditure of time and energy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what your personal aims are and then initiate steps towards gaining them. Try to improve your surroundings.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get together with good friends and enjoy the sociability. Find out exactly what you want to accomplish in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young persons in constant search of knowledge, so be sure to have newspapers around and send to the right schools that will help develop this talent. Teach good manners early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Brady braces for world goat cookoff

BRADY, Texas (AP) - When Barney McBee slaps half a goat on his barbecue cooker this weekend, he'll be trying for an unprecedented third championship in the Brady World Championship Goat Cookoff.

He's already the only man to ever win the championship twice. Once again, McBee will be using a recipe he discovered at family reunions in Fredonia.

"It'll be about the same. I've added a few (ingredients) and taken away some, trying to perfect it," McBee said Thursday in a telephone interview from his Deluxe Restaurant in Comanche.

The championship was started nine years ago by the Brady Jaycees but since has been taken over by the Chamber of Commerce because of the event's growth.

More than 100 entrants are lined up for Saturday's contest, including 1980 winner Ricky Ashby of Menard and "Cuzin" Homer Page of Temple, winner in 1981. Page is a well-known chili and beef brisket cook, having won numerous other cookoffs in recent years, including contests at Taylor, Llano, San Angelo and Menard.

McBee won in 1975 and 1979 and took second in 1980. Each contestant is provided with half a goat and the one who does the best job of cooking gets $100 and a trophy, McBee said.

The methods vary. Some wrap their goat in foil, others cover it with wet cloths. Some bury the goat meat under mountains of hot coals and ash while others turn the meat on a spit.

"I love it," he said. "It's kind of like venison. You have to cook it really slow. It dries out really easily."

Other cookoff events include the popular Blind Man's Wheelbarrow Race, horseshoe and washer pitching, goat pill flipping, tobacco spitting, egg toss and a bicycle goat roping contest.

Letters to E.T.

NEW YORK (AP) — E.T. phone home. The mailman's waiting.

More than 10,000 letters have arrived for you and your friends since you visited Earth in June. It's all piling up at your new fan club.

You've got a bunch of messages.

Matthew Ross wants you to come to his birthday party in West Bloomfield, Mich. He'll be 4 years old and he says he's your pal. But, he warns, "You'll have to sleep at Grandma Rosie's because my brother is scared of you."

Talia Glimmer, 5, of Skokie, Ill., says she loves you and wants your telephone number. James Oleson, of Beaumont, Texas, would "do almost anything" to meet you.

A lot of the mail is for the guy who created you, Steven Spielberg. Kids — and adults, too — call him a genius. A few ask for acting jobs or just want to help out around his studio.

Allison Silverman, of Gainesville, Fla., says she "made June 23rd Steven Spielberg Day." She adds: "My mother says to tell you I have a very active and creative imagination for a 10-year-old and if you need any ideas just write."

"P.S. I'll give you $150 to be in one of your movies."

There's also a lot of mail for your freckle-faced friend, Elliott, alias Henry Thomas.

Some of the envelopes have so many crayon drawings of Elliott and you that there isn't much room for an address. But they got here, even a few to "E.T. in Hollywood."

FAN MAIL — The E.T. character adorns many of the stacks of fan mail which Steven Spielberg, the creator of E.T., receives each day. As a response, a newsletter will be written for the fans.

The kids color you brown, blue and pink — but all of them color your eyes blue. Mary Ann Newman, of Yardley, Pa., drew one of those pictures but says "I did not do a good job on Elliott." Humans, she says, "are too hard to draw." Mary Ann also sent you some candy, but it's the wrong kind.

Some drawings will appear in "E.T.'s COMMUNICATOR," a quarterly newsletter for your fans being written by Ira Friedman. Friedman is organizing the "Official E.T. Fan Club," with headquarters in New York and a mailing address in Illinois.

He's been opening and trying to answer all your mail, hoping that some fans will want to belong to the club. And he thinks your mail is "quite exciting ...infatuating, really."

Kimberly Ilnat, of Las Vegas, sent a homemade E.T. board game. Vince Linton, of Satin, Texas, sent a home movie and an E.T. comic strip he drew in pencil on notebook paper.

Jim and Jeff Ellis, of Owensboro, Ky., sent you a picture of a papier-mache figure they made — and it looks just like you. Shae Green sent a scrapbook of your newspaper ads and magazine articles.

Paul McGrath liked the movie but says, "I can't stop thinking about it. It's like I have a disease (no offense)."

Most of the big people write Spielberg. A Florida podiatrist says he's seen E.T. 18 times

"and I have no intention of slowing down."

A woman who calls herself a "first-time fan letter writer" says: "I was down, feeling blue, just off cancer surgery and prognosis good, but what a bleak-looking future. 'Til E.T. For this relief, much thanks."

A U.S. Naval Observatory astronomer says Spielberg got the moon's position in the movie all wrong but don't worry. He says he and his 3-year-old liked the movie anyway and "this letter is in no sense an official communication."

Official E.T. Fan Club mailing address: P.O. Box E.T., Dept. 14, Mt. Morris, Ill., 61054.

Martin Sheen sometimes works for free

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In this day of mind-boggling salaries for movie stars, Martin Sheen has worked free on several projects.

He did a small part on the $22 million "Gandhi" in return for a $100,000 donation by the film company to Concern, a group that helps Third World refugees.

For the movie "In the King of Prussia," he worked for free — and donated $5,000 to the project. He did the same thing for public TV's "No Place to Hide."

Sheen, who is currently working on "That Championship Season," said, "If I feel strongly enough about something then I'm happy to give my services freely. But I do it because, in my mind, I have no other choice."

Breaking big the telethon way

NEW YORK (AP) — The wee hours of the Jerry Lewis Telethon aren't the best for money pledges, but they're perfect for new acts, dimming stars and comically vulgar orantangs.

The annual Labor Day fund-raiser for the Muscular Dystrophy Association will run for 21 hours beginning at 8 p.m. CDT Sunday. Traditionally, Monday's final six hours of the live, Las Vegas-based variety extravaganza stimulate as much in money donations as the previous 15.

That peak pledge period and the opening prime-time slot are monopolized by big names who can attract viewers. But the early, early morning can provide the most spontaneous live television.

One year, producer Bob Considine scheduled for late night an orangutang act. These were the same hams who upstaged Clint Eastwood in the movies. "Their manager said he couldn't predict what they'd do," says Considine.

Sure enough, one of them shocked a sleepy audience with a universally recognized obscene gesture. "It was so much fun that I replayed their act throughout the day," says Considine.

Another mainstay of the overnight period are the unknowns. The way that often works is that an agent might offer a star, if a lesser-known client gets some air time.

New talent can pop up at the oddest hours. A dancer in the Andrews Sisters' "Over There" Broadway troupe once caught Considine's eye. It was John Travolta.

Scheduling, haggling with agents, accommodating egos are all part of Considine's Labor Day labor of love, his full-time job. "It's like producing a whole TV season in one night," says Considine, who was named after his second cousin, the famous World War II correspondent and columnist.

"Some agents or performers refuse to follow certain acts," he says. "Another basic problem is that East Coast acts want to go on when the East is watching. Las Vegas acts want West Coast time."

Considine's task is to produce an entertainment show that's good enough to interest viewers, but not so riveting all the time that they won't get up to phone in donations. At the same time, it has to be a moving program without being maudlin.

Considine says he won't schedule an entertainment act right after showing a minidocumentary on the illness. "I'll go right to a boring guy, a corporate sponsor. I don't want people to stop calling because Sinatra is coming on."

"And, if we're coming off a funny act, I won't have Jerry do a spiel with his kids. But, after a nice ballad, I might suggest an appeal. Jerry has great instincts in this. He prefers his poster child to be ambulatory. He says he doesn't want to bend over a wheelchair to raise a buck."

The tireless host for the telethon since it began in 1966, Lewis has been a constant for the muscular dystrophy cause, while his own career has been riding a rollercoaster.

Considine says the telethon never considered replacing Lewis. "It wasn't necessary, as long as he remained a household name."

"Everything about the show has changed except Jerry. With modern production techniques and pacing, it's a show for the '80s. But Jerry's the same man I remember from my childhood."

As a show for the '80s, the telethon faces the same contemporary problems as other businesses. "Last year we suffered a bit because of the economy," says Considine. "The percentage of redemptions on our pledges was down."

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR OIL AND GAS WASTE DISPOSAL WELL PERMIT

Athos Production Company, P. O. Box 4072, Odessa, TX 79760 has applied to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to dispose of produced salt water or other oil and gas waste by well injection into a porous formation not productive of oil or gas.

The applicant proposes to dispose of oil and gas waste into the Wolfcamp Emma F. Davis Estate "A", Well Number 1. The proposed disposal well is located 4 Northwest to Coahoma (Mina) Field, in Howard County. The waste water will be injected into strata in the subsurface depth interval from 6600' to 7500' feet.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Chapter 27 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, Title 3 of the Natural Resources Code, as amended, and the Statutes Rules of the Oil and Gas Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Requests for a public hearing from persons who can show they are adversely affected, or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application, should be submitted in writing, within fifteen days of publication, to the Underground Injection Control Section, Oil and Gas Division, Railroad Commission of Texas, Drawer 12627, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (Telephone 512-465-1373).

Bell seeks rate hike in many states

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers across the country are facing the prospect of sharply higher local telephone bills — in some cases more than a doubling — even before many local telephone companies count the cost of separating from the Bell System.

A survey by The Associated Press has found what appears to be a record dollar amount of rate hike requests now pending before state utility commissions — an estimated $6.2 billion in annual revenues.

Telephone trade groups and regulators believe that's a record total, though such shifting statistics are difficult to tabulate. Rate increases are pending in more than 30 states including Texas, and most were filed without consideration of increased costs that may occur in 1984 when American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will spin off its 22 operating companies.

Many experts expect a new spurt of rate increases then, but consumers won't have to wait that long before paying higher bills. Consider:

The Bell System companies now owned by AT&T have requested or announced their intention to request a total of $4.82 billion in additional annual revenue.

According to AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner, the Bell companies could have rate requests pending at any one time in 48 states plus the District of Columbia. At the end of August, Wagner says rate cases were pending in 31 states.

Two local companies in which AT&T is a minority owner — the Southern New England Telephone Co. and Cincinnati Bell — have rate requests that total $164 million.

The General Telephone & Electronics Corp. (GTE), the nation's second largest telephone company, says its subsidiaries have requested or announced their intention to request $759.7 million in additional annual revenue from consumers in 10 states.

Reports from state utility commissions and from the U.S. Independent Telephone Association indicate roughly $412 million dollars worth of rate hikes filed by other non-Bell phone companies are still pending.

That's despite the approval of an estimated $312 million worth of rate hikes for independent telephone companies during the first six months of 1982, according to Henry Wieland, a spokesman for the independent telephone association.

"We have been saying for some time that the decisions being reached in Washington would result in very, very sharp increases in basic local rates," says John Bryson, the chairman of the public service commission in California. "And that's what is happening."

By allowing other firms to enter the long-distance business, for example, the Federal Communications Commission has not only eroded AT&T's monopoly but disrupted the long-standing system by which AT&T shares long-distance revenue with local companies, Bryson says.

7 Braniff jets up for grabs

DALLAS (AP) — Seven Boeing 727 jets from the Braniff Airways fleet — the first to be put up for resale since the airline suspended operations — are being offered at $11.8 million each.

The fate of the remainder of the Braniff fleet — 53 Boeing 727s and eight McDonnell Douglas DC-8s — awaits a decision on whether the airline will be reorganized or its assets liquidated. Braniff is to present a reorganization plan to the bankruptcy court by the middle of this month.

Jobless claims up across U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of out-of-work Americans filing initial claims for government benefits soared by 621,000 in the week ending Aug. 21, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Thursday. It was the third highest seven-day filing binge this year.

The claims filed with state unemployment offices, which determine people's eligibility for the standard 26-week period of jobless benefit checks, were 13,000 higher than in the previous week, according to the figures, adjusted to take into account seasonal variations.

In only two instances this year were initial claims filed at a faster pace. Approximately 640,000 people made such claims in the week ending Jan. 9, which government statisticians attributed largely to the fact many had put off visiting local employment offices because of the New Year's holiday period.

Some 623,000 Americans filed claims for jobless benefits in the week ending March 20.

By mid-August, more than 4 million people were claiming unemployment insurance benefits under state programs, compared to 2.9 million getting such payments during the comparable period last year.

In the third week of August 1981, the number of initial claims for jobless benefits had totaled 428,000.

The Labor Department will release national unemployment figures for August on Friday and some economists have said they believe U.S. joblessness might reach a new post-World War II.

The seasonally adjusted national unemployment rate was 9.8 percent in July as 10.8 million people were out of work. Even though that was a mere 0.2 percentage point climb from the previous month's 9.6 percent figure, it was enough to register a new high.

Before the current recession set in last fall, the previous post-war unemployment high was 9 percent, recorded at the peak of the 1974-75 business slump that resulted in large part from the Arab oil embargo.

Unemployment was at an annual average of 9.9 percent in 1941 before the government began compiling those figures on a monthly basis. In Thursday's report, the labor statistics bureau also said the rate of insured unemployment — the percentage of jobless people qualifying for benefit payments — climbed one-tenth of 1 percent to 4.6 percent.

Questions surround 'electronic paper'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody knows whether average Americans will ever prefer "reading" their TV sets instead of a newspaper, but the federal government may decide soon how such a system would work.

With little public fanfare, a debate has begun at the Federal Communications Commission that could determine whether electronic information services can be offered by broadcasters as well as cable TV operators and newspaper publishers.

The issue is deceptively simple: Can broadcasters demand that their electronic information services be carried by local cable systems?

The answer may be crucial, however, because broadcasters maintain they can hardly be expected to enter the electronic publishing business if the rapidly growing cable industry can deny them an audience.

The broadcasters suggest a consumer who subscribes to cable is not likely to go to the trouble of erecting or maintaining an antenna just to receive an electronic information service over the air.

An electronic publishing service is one in which information — from news to airline schedules to advertising — is transmitted to the home in written text or graphic form for recall by consumers on their TV sets or personal computers.

There are two different types. If the service is one-way and transmitted by broadcasters on an unused portion of the normal TV signal, it's known as teletext. If the service is transmitted via cable TV or telephone lines and is two-way — meaning consumers can respond to the information they receive by answering questions or ordering merchandise, for example — the service is known as videotext.

The teletext-videotext battle can not get underway, however, until the FCC authorizes teletext service and answers a number of policy issues, including the cable question. Agency officials have begun reviewing written comments submitted earlier this year and a top staffer who asks not to be identified says a ruling should be made before the end of the year.
