Lebanese pick new leader; Marines to return

By Associated Press
The Lebanese Parliament today elected Christian Amin Gemayel to replace his slain brother as president-elect, and Israel's Cabinet endorsed the planned return of 800 U.S. Marines and other foreign peacekeepers to Israeli-occupied west Beirut.

Israel also proposed a committee of five nations — Israel, Lebanon, the United States, Italy and France — to ensure "the bloody terror will not return" to Beirut, where the Red Cross has recovered 160 corpses from a massacre at two refugee camps in the Moslem western sector.

The Red Cross said it fears hundreds of victims of the slaughter, blamed on Christian gunmen, eventually will be found in the Chatilla and Sabra camps.

In an unusual show of Moslem-Christian cooperation, the 39-year-old Gemayel was elected by a vote of 77-0 in a special session of the 92-member Parliament, held in the Lebanese military academy outside Beirut. Three of the 80 deputies who attended abstained.

His election came one week after his brother, militia commander Bashir Gemayel was killed by a bomb and Israeli troops moved into west Beirut in what Israel said was a peacekeeping move after the assassination.

The new president-elect made a short address to Parliament, pledging to "shoulder the monumental responsibility ... of reuniting and reconstructing Lebanon in the fashion my martyred brother hoped to accomplish."

Amin Gemayel's main rival, 82-year-old former President Camille Chamoun, had withdrawn Monday, saying he was afraid Israel would try to force a new president to sign a peace treaty with Israel as it had done with Bashir Gemayel.

Under world criticism for failing to prevent the slaughter with the troops it sent into west Beirut, the Israeli Cabinet met in Jerusalem early today and a Cabinet spokesman said it endorsed the reconstituted peacekeeping force of 2,100 U.S., French and Italian troops.

The Cabinet rejected President Yitzhak Navon's call for an official inquiry into the camp massacres, but Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor said it would discuss "the manner to conduct an appropriate examination into the facts."

Meridor said, "We intend to take our forces out of Beirut," but did not provide a timetable. He also did not elaborate on the proposal for a multinational committee "to ensure that in the new circumstances the bloody terror will not be renewed."

The new peace force was approved by the United States, France and Italy Monday after a formal appeal by the Lebanese government that the troops come back for at least 20 days.

CARNIVAL'S COME TO TOWN — What's a fair without a carnival? The swirling lights of carnival rides decorate night life at the fairgrounds this week during the 10th Annual Howard County Fair.

Fair opens to 3,000

County residents view circus, enjoy carnival

The Howard County Fair opened with a bang yesterday as almost 3,000 people crowded through the gates to view a myriad of booths, enjoy themselves at the carnival and thrill to the feats of circus performers.

Paul Hopper, 1982 Howard County Fair president, said 2,370 people officially went through the gates yesterday which translates into an increase of over 300 from last year.

Yesterday was especially busy as attendants were hurriedly setting up display booths before the 4 p.m. opening and fair judges were scrambling to finish judging in the women's department, agricultural department and in the flower competition.

Monday fairgoers were also treated to performances of the Shrine Circus which had everything from lions to high-wire acts.

Today's schedule includes a farm tour and agriculture appreciation barbecue sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce from 8 a.m. until noon, a "Sew It With Cotton Contest" slated for 7:30 p.m. and a fiddler's contest also set for 7:30 p.m.

Fair judges found their job to be a tough one yesterday as they waded through many entries in each of the categories listed above. Results in various divisions are now being posted. Some of the results from yesterday's judging follow:

The carnival life

Show's owner pushes clean, honest image

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer
Swirling rides, barking booth tenders, cotton candy, garish lights — all the image of the traveling carnival. But on the flip side is the image of hucksters, empty faces, dirt, runaways.

Ed Burlingame, owner of Pride of Texas Shows, refutes the latter picture of the carnival. Burlingame brought his carnival to Big Spring for this week's Howard County Fair and said he is determined to show Howard County a good — and clean — time.

"It's a serious business with me, not a joke. I want the town to realize the difference in us and a dirty carnival," Burlingame said.

Burlingame looks like a carnival man. He's a burly man, likes to talk and swear and slap people on the back. He ran away from home at 14 years-old to join a carnival. But he is also a business and family man.

"People look me and raised me, I joined the Navy for five years and then I came back and did the only thing I really enjoy," Burlingame said.

Burlingame said he started as a roustabout, then began his own carnival with "three kiddie rides in '79. We were three years old in August."

"That's partly what I'm proud of, I started as a flunkie with a desire to do better than that myself ... I started at $5 a day, working 12 to 16 hours a day," Burlingame said.

"It's hard work, but it's a pleasure when you run into pleasurable people. It's hell when you don't," Burlingame said.

NOW BURLINGAME owns 20 rides that he splits into two carnivals. He has set up 16 rides at the Howard County Fairgrounds and is setting up an additional one. There are numerous booths, too. Food, games and a side show with an "elephant-skinned dog," cobras and a miniature horse.

LONELY STATION — Normally packed with commuters and Amtrak travelers, Union Station in Chicago looked nearly deserted yesterday due to the nationwide locomotive engineers strike.

Paul Hobby campaigns in Big Spring for father

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer
Politics can sometimes become a family affair.

If you don't believe it just ask Paul Hobby, son of Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Bill Hobby. He's campaigning hard to see that his father is once again elected to an office the elder Hobby has held for the past 10 years.

Hobby, a recent graduate of the University of Virginia, was in Big Spring Friday on a West Texas swing through Lubbock, Midland and El Paso.

"I feel super about the whole thing," Hobby said of his campaigning. "It's been excellent meeting people, but after six or seven days on the road the motel rooms get pretty old. I'm mainly here as an ear for my father. If I have questions from people that need answering I call him and we get things straightened out."

Hobby said his father had strong support in West Texas, but that the optimism of the campaign would not keep the young Hobby from doing his best job.

Congress may settle rail strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is asking Congress to quickly approve legislation ordering an end to the crippling strike against the nation's freight railroads.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., called Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis and other witnesses before his House Energy and Commerce Committee today to testify on Reagan's request for congressional action.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, called a separate session of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, which he chairs, to take up the matter as well.

Lewis said the president wants

Congress to approve legislation that would impose on the railroads and striking engineers the recommendations of a special presidential commission established during a 60-day cooling off period that ended Sunday.

Efforts to end the 3-day-old strike by locomotive engineers moved to Capitol Hill when talks between union and management negotiators broke off after a three-hour session Monday.

Lewis, saying "the nation cannot afford a prolonged rail strike," told reporters at the White House after meeting with Reagan that he expected Congress to act by Wednesday at the latest.

Dingell, who met with Lewis and Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan shortly before the talks broke off, pledged cooperation in the House. Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the Senate likely would act on measure by the end of today.

See related story, page 3-A

The main sticking point in the rail talks involves whether engineers should be guaranteed a wage differential so that they would continue to be the highest-paid members of a train crew.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Time change

Q. Why did "Days of Our Lives" change from noon to 12:30 p.m.?
A. Anyone unhappy about the time change can complain to Mr. Carl Rogers, care of KPTX, P.O. Box 6699 ATS, Midland, 79701. He is not responsible for the scheduling, but he can forward your complaint to someone who is.

Calendar: Fair's roping deadline

TODAY
Entries for the Sat. Sept. 25 Howard County Fair roping contests will be taken by phone today and tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Call 294-4231 to enter the calf roping, team roping and girls barrel racing events.
The Big Spring Band Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the high school band hall. All parents of band students are urged to attend.

There will be a Lakeview Head Start Parent Policy meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Lakeview gym.

The Big Spring Steer Booster Club will hold a "Meet the Steers Night" at 7:30 p.m. at the high school cafeteria. Players and their parents will be introduced. There will also be a film of Friday night's game against Levelland and a report on the upcoming game against Abilene.

A class in Small Engine Repair begins at 6 p.m. in room 109 of the Practical Arts Building on the Howard College campus.

The Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees meet at 12:30 p.m. in the Tumbleweed Room of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Marcy Elementary PTA will hold its first meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria to allow parents to meet teachers.

The Coahoma Booster Club meets at 7 p.m. in the Coahoma High School cafeteria to view films of the Coahoma-Tahoka game. Special guests will be the freshman football players and freshman cheerleaders. A Big Lake scouting report will be given also.

Tops on TV: Astros take on Braves

Baseball season's still in full swing. Fans can catch the Houston Astros' battle against the Atlanta Braves at 6:30 p.m. on channel 11. John Ritter stars as a struggling actor who finds a real-life role as a crimefighter in "Hero at Large" at 8 p.m. on channel 7. The attack on Pope John Paul II is studied on the NBC news special "The Man Who Shot the Pope: A Study in Terrorism," airing at 9 p.m. on channel 13.

Outside: Warm

Partly cloudy to fair with temperatures in the middle to low 50s today and tomorrow. Low tonight around 60. Wind from the north-northeast at 5-15 miles per hour.

Strike impact

U.S. could lose $80 million a day

By Associated Press
Commuters braced for a second workday of traffic jams and delays caused by a nationwide rail strike, and freight shipments chugged closer to a standstill today, prompting plant and mine closings — and hopes for a quick settlement.

"If the strike ends in 48 hours, it won't have any effect," said Denise Clark, spokeswoman for Monsanto Chemical Co. in Chicago. "At this point, we're still optimistic the work stoppage will be short-lived."

About 26,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers walked off the job at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, locked in a dispute over pay and a proposed "no-strike" contract clause.

On Monday, only about one-fourth of the trains ran on many of nation's major railroads, most hauling high-priority cargo such as fuel, perishable farm products and mail.

President Reagan asked Congress on Monday to call for a halt to the strike. Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said the House and Senate would begin separate hearings on the request today.

The administration says the walkout could cost $80 million a day.

Passenger traffic in the Northeast was largely unaffected because Conrail is not involved in the dispute, but most everywhere else, train riders used other ways to get to work, were stranded in mid-valuation, or postponed travel altogether.

With supervisors at the controls, enough freight trains moved to allay fears — for the time being — by most U.S. automakers, and many farmers and industries.

But General Motors Corp. closed a truck assembly plant in St. Louis after the day shift Monday and said many plants might have to be shut in 48 hours if the strike continued. About 2,350 workers were laid off after running out of rail-shipped auto parts. In the West Virginia coalfields, Armo Steel announced it was closing eight mines in Raleigh and Boone counties and laying off 1,400 workers because of a lack of coal cars.

Walter B. Vander Veer, Michigan-Ontario division manager for the Chessie System, said he hoped to have his trains running at about 30 percent of capacity.

In California, growers "don't seem too concerned yet because the largest part of the shipments of fresh fruit and vegetables are by truck," said Don Lockhart of California's Market News Service in Sacramento.

A man was shot Monday evening while carrying a picket sign near an office of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad in Evansville, Ind. J.D. Haley, 60, was shot in the neck, police said. A shop steward at the rail yard who refused to be identified said the shooting was strike related. Haley was in fair condition.

On Monday, huge traffic jams developed in Chicago, where 120,000 commuters who normally ride trains were forced to use cars or buses. Traffic flow improved by afternoon rush hour and was slower than usual but "very, very smooth," said Marilyn O'Regan of the Chicago police. Many commuters who were confused in the morning had figured out how to get around by afternoon, she said.

In the Midwest, the Burlington Northern, the nation's longest railroad with 29,000 miles of track, was running at about 20 percent of capacity.

In Nebraska, "there is an enormous amount of cargo" still out there on the lines," Union Pacific Railroad spokesman Joe McCartney said Monday. Union Pacific is completing those shipments, but not starting any new ones with grain, coal or other cargo, he said.

Idle trains — The Chicago skyline looms behind a crowded Burlington Northern rail yard, as trains fell idle yesterday due to the nationwide locomotive engineers' strike.

WATT'S THIS? — It's Interior Secretary James Watt, forced to don a shawl and dance with the squaws after he failed to score in an antelope hunt over the weekend. Indian legend requires the dance with the squaws after a game-less hunt.

Watt doesn't score in antelope shoot

LANDER, Wyo. (AP) — Interior Secretary James Watt, dressed in the garb of a traditional Indian squaw, danced with local Indian women at a victory banquet for the annual Lander One-Shot Antelope Hunt.

But Watt's hunting companions, Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Robert Broadbent and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service chief Bob Jantzen, were accorded the honor of dancing with the braves at the festivities Saturday.

A Shoshone tribal tradition honors those who successfully down an antelope with just one bullet during the annual one-day hunt that attracts celebrities to central Wyoming. "Missers" are required to dance with the squaws.

The event teams three hunters and allows each just one shot to kill an elusive pronghorn. Both Broadbent and Jantzen were successful, but it took Watt, a Wyoming native, two shots, and the kill was not counted.

Winning this year's event was the Outdoor Writers Team, including Bill Quimby, outdoor editor of the Tucson (Ariz.) Daily Citizen; Craig Boddington, executive editor of Peterson's Hunting Magazine; and David Petzal, associate shooting editor of Field and Stream Magazine.

The writers took just 40 minutes, which hunt judge Bill Bush of Lander called "extraordinary." Two other teams got three kills with three shots but required more time to do it.

The Many Moons Team of Colorado hunters, led by former Gov. John Love, took about 90 minutes. He was joined by Denver attorney Dick Wright and Eric Dahl, grandson of the hunt's co-founder, Harold Dahl Sr.

Wyoming Gov. Ed Herscher, host for the event, shot his buck in 26 minutes and led the only other team with three bucks.

190 arrested in PCB-dump protests

AFTON, N.C. (AP) — About 90 demonstrators, including Dr. Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, were arrested Monday after they tried to block trucks from entering a PCB dump site here.

The arrests brought to 190 the number of people taken into custody in six days of demonstrations against the dumping of the toxic wastes.

Lowery was one of the first protesters to be picked up and carried away by highway patrolmen as he led a sit-down protest.

Senate tries again to limit prayer debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate conservatives, still seeking their first victory in a month-long debate over social issues, failed by 10 votes Monday to curtail a filibuster against legislation designed to restore organized prayer to public schools.

The Senate voted 50 to 39 to limit the prayer debate to 100 hours, but 60 votes are required to invoke the procedural move, known as cloture.

But Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and his conservative allies planned to try again this afternoon, and both sides conceded privately they would eventually win cloture. Twenty-one senators were absent for the vote Monday.

Still, time appeared to be on the side of liberals led by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., despite the political popularity of the prayer measure. The legislation urged by Helms would eliminate Supreme Court jurisdiction over the prayer issue, including any law approved by a state legislature or a ruling by lower court.

Liberals said they would use all available parliamentary tactics to avert a direct up or down vote on the issue.

Despite the likely outcome of the cloture vote, liberals have an arsenal of parliamentary weapons still remaining which they can use as Congress winds down toward adjourning for the November elections, probably by early next month.

One of them is time. The prayer measure is attached to a federal debt limit extension, which must be approved by Oct. 1 if the government is to be able to pay its bills routinely and function without disruption.

As that date draws near, the pressure will build against both conservatives and liberals to resolve the issue one way or the other.

Weicker will likely be urged to give up and let the prayer proposal pass the Senate and go to a House-Senate conference committee where the outcome would be uncertain.

Lt. H.P. McKee of the highway patrol said troopers would continue to arrest anyone who tries to block the landfill site.

"We don't want any trouble, we don't want any violence. But we're ready to stop them when we have to," McKee said.

It's Congress' time to waste

For most of us, New Year's Eve comes on December 31. For the federal government, however, it comes on September 30. That's when the federal fiscal year draws to an end.

As is usual at New Year's, extravagance prevails on this occasion. Federal bureaus have a long track record of throwing money away with wild abandon as the old year ticks to a close. Reason: Anything left in the till goes back to the Treasury — and suggests they need less funding in the year ahead.

The result is that federal agencies scramble madly during the last few weeks of the fiscal calendar to dump our money down the nearest rathole: Signing off on control boondoggles, studies, and projects; buying unneeded furniture and other supplies that are packed off to storage; "obligating" funds that are promptly de-obligated after the deadline; buying magazines and liquor.

In recent years, some departments of the government have spent almost half their budgets in the last two weeks of the fiscal year. One year, nearly 60 percent of the federal budget for materials and supplies was obligated in the final 30 days. Such practices cast considerable doubt on the complaint that Uncle Sam is being starved for money. For taxpayers, they add up to a most unhappy New Year.

Metallic sounds

Do not fear. If you have a tin ear. Sing free, sing proud. Just not very loud.

You will notice I am writing this instead of singing it. That is because I am one of those poor people to whom God gave no singing skills.

Some Zip Zap Zero

I have a tin ear. Like millions of others. I love to sing from the bottom of my soul. Unfortunately this really annoying sound comes out.

A rule about Tin Ears: When a Tin Ear begins to sing, others do not join in. When others are singing and a Tin Ear joins in, others...

IN THE WORLD of Tin Ears, I am an alchemist. I can fake my way through. In fact, if you heard me sing you would be horrified to learn that I was in a choir back in high school. It was easy because I could bury myself in back of the tenors and my squeal or whatever would be drowned out.

Of course this sometimes got on the nerves of those around me. We sang the Faure "Requiem" one Easter. There is a passage that, to me and apparently only me, sounds just like the theme from the James Bond movie "Goldfinger." The tenors were supposed to make this humming noise and everytime I hummed it came out like the theme from "Goldfinger."

Very disturbing. There was a beautiful soprano within earshot. One time she whirled around during the piece and hollered, "Will you PLEASE sing the notes!"

I can't. There is something wrong with my ear.

I had a roommate in college who had perfect pitch. All night long he would sit by the radio listening to the Dallas classical music station, gently rocking back and forth as he hummed along. Occasionally he would shake his head in disgust and mutter, "No, you idiot. You're off. YOU'RE OFF!" It seemed to be very painful to him.

For two years he tuned my guitar. I could never get it right, but he would pick it up and in minutes have it sounding like a choir. When I tried to tune it it sounded like a train wreck. Still does.

THIS IS MY cross to bear. It is also why I started listening to Bob Dylan, the patron saint of Tin Ears. Here is a man who couldn't hold his own with a pack of starving cats in a cold alley, but he's made a fortune singing and is now considered by some to be the greatest rock 'n' roll singer ever. He also opened the door for other famous Tin Ears, like Rod Stewart, Tom Petty and Randy Newman.

This should give Tin Ears reason for hope. We should not feel bad about having people fight to stand far away from us when we go Christmas caroling. We should be proud that we make everybody laugh when we sing "Happy Birthday."

Hang in there, Tin Ears.

I have long had the idea of holding a "Tin Ear Sing-along," and this fall may be just the time to make it happen. It will be for all the people who love to sing but have to do it in the shower or driving along deserted back roads.

We will rent out the biggest church in Big Spring, get an out-of-tune piano and sing all our favorites, just the way we hear 'em.

Look out Big Spring! We're gonna shake the rafters. We're gonna rock the neighborhood outside. We're gonna make people's spines quiver and the hair on the back of their necks stand up and stay up for three days.

We're gonna have a whale of a time! And-a ONE, and-a TWO, and-a THREE...

The good doctor's advice

Henry Kissinger has gone into the consulting business with a company called Kissinger Associates. One of his partners is Lord Carrington, the former foreign minister of Great Britain. The minimum charge for Kissinger's services is $250,000.

The question everyone is asking in Washington is, what can someone hope to get for his money?

"I would like to see Dr. Kissinger."

"Who shall I say is calling?"

"Edridge Dresser of Dresser Industries."

The secretary announces the caller. Then she says, "You can see Dr. Kissinger now, but if you speak to him it will cost you $250,000."

Mr. Dresser hands the secretary a certified check.

He goes into Kissinger's office, and finds Henry on the phone. "My advice is to tell the Italian government you'll move to Lourdes if they keep badgering you about your bad loans. Yes, Your Holiness, I'll talk to the finance minister today. Bless you." He hangs up.

"I'm sorry. The Pope has a banking problem I'm trying to straighten out. Please be seated."

"Mr. Kissinger, you are no doubt aware that Dresser Industries is having trouble. Our French company supplied pipeline equipment to the Soviet Union, and President Reagan will not allow us to do any business with France."

"I am aware of the embargo," Kissinger says. "I spoke to Mitterrand this morning."

"What do you advise us to do?"

"The first thing we have to do is set up a lunch with Mitterrand and Reagan."

"Can you do that?"

"Of course," Kissinger says. "But I don't think you should be there. During lunch I'll point out to Reagan that the Soviets are going to build their pipeline with or without American equipment, and an embargo will hurt the United States more than it will the Soviet Union. It could also destroy NATO. On second thought, I'll invite Margaret Thatcher to go to the lunch as well. Reagan is more frightened of Thatcher than he is of Mitterrand."

"Will Reagan listen to you?"

"He has to if he wants me to support his new Mideast policy. Kissinger Associates represent all the major parties who have to go along with it."

"I'm glad I came to you," Dresser says. "My company didn't know where to turn."

"That's what I'm here for, to help the people who have no place to turn," Dresser leaves happily and Henry says to his secretary over the intercom, "Set up a lunch date for me with Reagan, Mitterrand and Margaret Thatcher for next Wednesday. Anyone call?"

"The President of Argentina just telephoned and wanted to know if you had any good news on the Falklands."

"That's Lord Carrington's account. Tell him to call London."

"Indira Gandhi wants to know when she's going to get her nuclear breeder reactor?"

"Did I promise her a breeder reactor?"

"I think you did. You said you could either get her one reactor or the Vale of Kashmir."

"Okay, get me the Department of Defense."

"Taiwan called and wanted to know if you didn't think there was a conflict of interest if you represented both the People's Republic of China and them at the same time."

"The answer is no. What I tell Taiwan is one thing, what I tell the People's Republic is something entirely different. Why do they think I was such a successful secretary of state?"

"One more thing. Menachem Begin called and sounded very angry."

"Why?"

"You advised him if he didn't go into Beirut the U.S. would let him keep the West Bank."

"Hmmm. I guess we're going to have to give him back his $250,000."

How a father shows his love

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a hard time loving my father. He is always very critical and never praises me for anything. Can I do anything about this? — L.D.

DEAR L.D.: This does not mean that your father does not love you, although I am sorry that he does not express his love to you more clearly. But unfortunately, some people (especially men, I have found) find it difficult to express their love for others in an open and direct way. Sometimes a father or mother may not even be aware of how critical they sound to their children, and actually are doing what they do because they want their child to do the best they can and have a happy life.

I don't know whether you can change your father — although it may be that you should speak frankly (but not in anger) with him about this at an appropriate time. As I say, he may not even be aware of how he is coming across to you. But you should pray for your father and your mother, also. Pray that you will have a fresh love for them, and that God will show you definite ways you can express your love for them. Ask him to help you understand them better, and not react in a wrong way against them. God can work in your father's life as well as yours.

But I am concerned about how you will deal with this problem in your own life. I can think of at least three things that could happen in your life if you are not on your guard. For one thing, you could become bitter and angry against your father. But these are always destructive if they are not halted, and they only make the situation worse. Or you could come to believe that you really are not worth anything, and that you can never do anything right. Or you could become more and more alienated from your father.

I hope none of these will happen, and they need not happen if you will let God's love be your example, and realize you are of great value to God, your heavenly Father. "Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger... Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you" (Ephesians 4:31-32).

Swedish deportation drama deepens

WASHINGTON — An anguished father and his 12-year-old son, who had been living quietly in the small town of South Whitley, Ind., suddenly found themselves harried like a pair of most-wanted criminals because they resisted a foreign court edict that the boy be deported to Sweden.

Eric Schieffer, 37, went into hiding rather than give up the son he loves to a Swedish court. He kept my office informed of his tribulations by calling from public telephone booths.

The court action was brought by Schieffer's divorced Swedish wife who charged that he was "living a vagrant lifestyle" and neglecting their son. The truth is that Schieffer and his second wife had established a warm, loving home for the boy.

The son's name is Hans-Eric. Although he is an American citizen, his Swedish mother won a custody decree in Stockholm. Incredibly, the Indiana courts decided against Schieffer without so much as granting him a hearing.

At this point, the charge of vagrancy proved to be self-fulfilling. The father and son went on the lam. Schieffer gave up his regular employment as a musician and bassoon taster in South Whitley. A fugitive, he supported himself and Hans-Eric with occasional music jobs.

Just recently, the law caught up with Schieffer at a New Jersey summer camp where he was teaching music. He was arraigned and posted $500 bond pending a Sept. 27 extradition hearing. But young Hans-Eric, accompanied by Schieffer's second wife, eluded the authorities.

"My son has human rights," Schieffer told my reporter Allan Lengel. "I came back to America to offer him the best. He wants to stay in America."

Hans-Eric confirmed this in a telephone call from his hideaway. "I can't understand why I can't be left alone," he said. "All I really want to do is stay here. I don't want to go there (to Sweden)."

He doesn't mind his gypsy existence. "You get to visit different places and meet new people," he said. But he keeps up his schooling on the run.

Schieffer faces a possible four-year prison term for his defiance of the custody ruling. He is frustrated because Washington seems uninterested in upholding Hans-Eric's rights.

In contrast, the government supported the battle of a 14-year-old Ukrainian boy, Walter Polovchak, against deportation to the Soviet Union. He was granted his wish to remain in the United States with foster parents — though, unlike Hans-Eric, he is not an American citizen and both his parents have returned to Russia.

Schieffer has now retained a Swedish law firm to seek a new hearing on the custody question. He has also enlisted the support of Rep. Daniel R. Coates, R-Ind., and Indiana state Senator Gene Snowden.

"I think the child has a legal right to stay in the United States," declares Snowden. But John Bloom, an Indiana attorney representing the Swedish mother, disagrees. He says of the father: "He's fresh out of rights. He's just a fugitive now."

WATCH ON WASTE: Officials of the Federal Reserve Board, evidently stung by criticism of the way they've been guiding the nation's economy, are taking no chances on similar carping after a nuclear holocaust. They've dug themselves a bomb shelter at the agency's records and communications center in Culpeper, Va.

There, in the lovely foothills of the Blue Ridge, the monetary moguls from Washington will hole up when the bombs start raining down. The Fed's VIP bomb shelter has some special supplies along with the canned water and dehydrated food: well over $1 billion in crisp new currency. The money, a spokesman explained, will be used to "keep the economy going" when the survivors emerge into the postwar world.

GRIM PAREE: The ominous occurrence of terrorist attacks on U.S. diplomats in Paris has prompted a number of intensified security measures for their protection. Obviously, additional personal bodyguards are going to be provided. Additionally, according to State Department cables, Americans in Paris assigned to the embassy will no longer carry special easily-identified diplomatic license plates on their cars.

Non-official American visitors also will be cautioned to be wary because they too may become targets of terrorists.

SENSE SENSE: At the Department of Education, Assistant Secretary Donald Senece has succeeded in sabotaging a popular but unpublicized federal program to spread innovative successful teaching ideas to schools across the nation.

Senece wielded his axe on 13 programs of the National Diffusion Network, an eight-year-old program that costs the taxpayers a comparative pittance — $10 million annually. Yet it has been hailed for helping nearly half-a-million students at every level and involving 20,000 teachers and administrators.

Dr. Donohue

Frozen shoulder painful

Dear Dr. Donohue: I need a quick answer to help me make a decision. I have had a frozen shoulder for some time. It is very painful and I am limited in what I can do as of now. The doctor wants me in the hospital to do whatever has to be done (under anesthetics). I am wondering if I should live with this problem and if it will eventually disappear in time. I have had it for several months. I take care of four grandchildren, and am expecting another one soon. I find it very hard to be of help to the other four, much less one more. — Mrs. D.T.

I can't deal in quick answers, and, of course, neither can your doctor. If you can't get your shoulder moving through an intensive physical therapy program, then manipulating it while you asleep is a reasonable and effective way to do that. Sure, I'd have it done if it were me.

By way of background, a frozen shoulder is one that cannot be moved the slightest degree without pain. When a shoulder is kept immobile, little strands of scar-like tissue begin to form and the condition gets progressively worse.

Ordinarily, daily activity helps break up those strands, but if a person cannot move the shoulder the scar tissue gets denser. Many times, a physical therapy program is needed to break up the strands. But when that fails to help, the passive manipulation under anesthetic is the answer. But even after that, you will continue a physical therapy program of some kind to keep your shoulder limber. I hope all this happens for you before the next grandchild arrives.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I've just read your article on shingles. The timing was perfect. I am in my third week of suffering with this. My doctor explained it the way you did, but he said he didn't think it was contagious. You didn't mention anything about that aspect. My employer (a hospital) said I had to stay home. Who's right? — Mrs. E.O.

As long as the blisters of shingles still have fluid in them, the illness is contagious. The virus that causes the shingles lives in the blister fluid. It is not very contagious, but the possibility exists. And since you work in a hospital, your employers cannot afford to take any chance whatever on your spreading the virus to patients. Once the blisters dry up, there is no virus and you are no longer contagious. Perhaps this is what your doctor meant.

I have to add a word of clarification here lest everyone with shingles thinks he is contaminating the earth. Not so. It is very hard to pass the virus on the someone else. However, in the hospital setting, where there is continuing direct contact with very ill people, no chance, however small, can be taken.

In the ordinary day-to-day world, it is very hard to catch shingles. For reading on the subject, see the booklet "The Facts About Shingles," which other readers can order by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader's questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Center aids disabled workers

ALBERTSON, N.Y. (AP) — Many severely disabled men and women once thought unemployable are joining the work force, reports the head of the Human Resources Center here.

Nowhere is it more evident, says Dr. Edwin W. Martin, president and chief executive officer, than at this national center where more than 5,000 people have gone on to productive employment since its founding in 1952.

In that number, he noted, were men and women who were paralyzed, who had learning or hearing disabilities, were limited visually or who had multiple sclerosis, cerebral palsy or muscular dystrophy.

Traditionally, aiding the disabled in America has followed a pattern of separate rehabilitation centers, separate schools and even people who work separately with industry and labor, Martin points out. What sets Human Resources, a non-profit center, apart is its approach, he adds.

"We know of no other place," Martin explains, "that perceives of itself as a national center for the handicapped that has under one roof our particular constellation of programs."

"We build a network or bridge to deal with the overall problems of the disabled. By doing so, we give people the tools to develop job skills and we find them positions in the work force."

programs for the disabled cover education, rehabilitation, employment demonstration, work with industry and labor, and research.

The center's 16-acre campus, just outside New York City, houses a work demonstration unit known as Abilities Inc.; Research and Utilization Institute; a school, and the National Center on the Employment of the Handicapped. Each conducts a specialized program according to individual needs.

First of the center's units, Abilities was opened 30 years ago in a West Hempstead garage by the center's founder, Dr. Henry Viscardi Jr., who today is an internationally known rehabilitation pioneer.

"By working in Abilities first, the disabled can develop skills and demonstrate that they can hold a job under competitive conditions," says Martin who is a former Assistant Secretary for Special Education and Rehabilitation Services in Washington.

"Abilities is not a sheltered workshop. It pays prevailing wages and insists on the kind of productivity that would be found elsewhere in the job market."

The center's Research and Utilization Institute conducts major national demonstration studies in career education, job placement, independent living, attitudes toward the disabled, demonstration projects, work-site modification, driver training and leisure-time activity.

Since it opened 20 years ago, the school has taught about 4,000 students, with about 70 percent of its high-school graduates entering college.

The National Center on the Employment of the Handicapped, in its fifth year as part of the center, assists communities by bringing together industry, labor and rehabilitation forces to develop employment opportunities.

Its nucleus, the Industry-

Labor Council, is an outgrowth of the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals.

More than 70 major corporations and unions participate in the council as full-time members, along with 280 part-time members.

"Human Resources Center," Martin says, "not only wants to establish handicapped people in the work place by opening up more jobs, but in the long run wants to provide better jobs."

NARVRE group meets at Kentwood center

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees met at the Kentwood Older Adult Center Thursday evening for a pot luck supper. A business meeting followed with H.L. Ross, first vice-president, officiating.

A moment of silence was held in memory of Gilbert C. Ragsdale who died Sept. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Cole and Bob Moore were reported ill. Those present

Dear Abby

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1982 5-A

Husband loses interest in wife

DEAR ABBY: Since the birth of our child three months ago, my husband seems to have lost interest in sex. It started when I was about five months' pregnant. At the time we discussed it, and he admitted that although he knew there was no basis for it, he felt it was "improper" to make love to a pregnant woman. Even after my doctor assured him that it wouldn't hurt either me or the baby, my husband couldn't seem to shake the feeling, so I accepted it, thinking that after the baby came everything would return to normal.

Unfortunately, the baby is now 3 months old and my husband is still turned off. He says he still loves me, but doesn't know why he doesn't want to make love to me anymore. He was with me during the birth of our child, so maybe seeing me give birth has put me in a different light, and he no longer sees me as a lover, but a mother.

I've tried everything I can think of to turn him on again, but nothing works. Before my pregnancy he couldn't get enough of me. Please ask your readers how common this problem is, and what they did to cope with the situation.

WAITING IN BED
DEAR WAITING: What's been turned off can usually be turned on again. I recommend professional counseling for both of you. Your husband may require some psychotherapy in order to restore his former interest in sex. Honest dialogue is of the utmost importance now, and if he loves you as he says he does, he will do whatever is necessary to overcome this problem. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: One of my professors jokingly said, "I wish you'd wear a skirt instead of jeans once in a while so I could see your legs, because if they're anything like the rest of you, they're nothing to be ashamed of."

I took it as a compliment. But when I told my friend about it, she said, "No way, that's sexual harassment!"

Abby, I thought sexual harassment was when a male boss threatened to fire his female employee if she didn't go to bed with him.
So how should I take it? As a compliment or sexual harassment?

OK LEGS
DEAR LEGS: If you consider your professor's remark a "compliment," no harm done. Had you felt that he was out of line or offensive, it would have been sexual harassment.

DEAR ABBY: I don't often write letters, but I have to write this one. I am a 29-year-old single male parent. I've been divorced for seven years and have full custody of my 8-year-old daughter. I'm a marketing consultant for an international concern, so I am by no means stupid.

I'm no Robert Redford, but neither am I a Frankenstein. I am honest, open, loving and have always been completely truthful with the women in my life. I want very much to get married, but where is the woman who wants a man with a daughter?

Are all women turned off by men who have custody of a child? Maybe I've been looking in the wrong places, but I'm too young to give up. Any ideas?

PACKAGE DEAL

DEAR DEAL: I don't know where you've looked but don't give up until you've looked into Parents Without Partners. Also, don't forget your church and PTA.

And if your neighbors, co-workers and relatives don't know that you're in the market for a wife, get the message to them. My mail tells me that there are more women looking to marry decent men than there are decent men to marry. Hang in there!

Party held for couple

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Yater hosted a party to announce the engagement of their children, Cindy Butler and John Yater, Saturday at the Brass Nail Restaurant.

The bride-elect, both mothers and the bridegroom-elect's grandmother wore corsages of white carnations accented with peach rosebuds, presented to them by the groom-elect.

Approximately fifty guests were served a buffet featuring hors d'oeuvres, a fruit plate, chip and dip tray, punch, tea and coffee. The tables were draped with white linen cloths with red napkins.

Special guests included Debbie Davidson, and Anita Butler, Midland, sisters of the bride-elect, and Mrs. L.A. Yater, grandmother of the bridegroom-elect.

Other out-of-town guests included Hank Holder, Steve Sims, John Cowan and Dave Schuhard.

The couple plans to wed Nov. 12 in the First Baptist Church Chapel with Dr. Kenneth Patrick officiating.

U.S. trying to salvage its Mideast credibility

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — By sending 800 American Marines back to Lebanon, President Reagan is attempting to salvage badly eroded U.S. credibility in the Arab world in the wake of the massacre of Palestinian refugees.

Washington believes Israel has to bear much of the blame for what happened in the camps, and U.S. anger at the Israelis also is likely to be translated into new pressures to cooperate with Reagan's Middle East peace plan.

A senior State Department official said Monday the United States had assumed responsibility for the safety of the refugees following the withdrawal of Palestinian guerrillas from west Beirut last month.

He said fear for the safety of the camp inhabitants had been one of the chief reasons the guerrillas didn't want to leave west Beirut, but they finally agreed after the United States gave assurances the refugees would be protected.

"We said, in effect, we will see that their safety is preserved," said the official, who requested anonymity.

He said there have been angry complaints to Washington from Arab nations demanding a forceful U.S. response in the wake of the massacre, which occurred while Israeli troops were outside the camps.

"Our credibility is at stake," he added.

He also said it "strains credibility" to think that Israeli troops did not know that the massacres were under way. Right-wing Christian forces allied with Israel are believed responsible for the killings, although the official said Washington still does not know for certain who did it.

A second senior administration official said he has agonized over whether the administration did the right thing in deciding to withdraw the Marines so quickly after the Palestinian guerrillas had left Beirut.

But in answer to a question on whether the presence of Marines in Beirut could have prevented the massacre, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said: "I don't think so—no."

In addition to shoring up American credibility, the return of the Marines is expected to induce the Israeli troops to leave.

The function of the multinational force is chiefly to back up the Lebanese army as it takes back control of the city from the Israelis.

The Lebanese government requested the sending of the peacekeeping force, which will also include Italian and French troops, as before. The Israeli government was expected to give its formal approval later today, and the troops could land in Beirut within three days.

Approval of all sides is needed, the second senior official stressed, because, "We have no intention of introducing American forces into a conflict situation."

He wanted to squelch any suggestion that U.S. Marines might be confronting Israeli soldiers gun barrel-to-gun barrel in Beirut.

But it was clear that since Reagan announced deployment of the force before the Israeli approval was secured, Washington was telling the government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin that it doesn't want a rejection.

The first senior official told reporters that, in effect, Washington is fed up with the Begin government. At the least, he said, there needs to be more consultation and cooperation by Israel with the U.S. government and an end to Israeli military adventures, such as the one now under way in Lebanon.

Aspirin warning sought by Feds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, concerned about the suspected link between aspirin and Reye's syndrome, wants to put warning labels about the childhood disease on aspirin bottles.

In the meantime, Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker proposed Monday that the government use public service announcements to issue an official warning until labels are ready.

Label changes "take time and we must address products already in retail stores and homes," Schweiker said. "We have to alert parents as quickly as possible."

Available data indicates the risks are greatest for youngsters under 16 who have chicken pox, flu or other viral infections, Schweiker told the House Energy and Commerce oversight subcommittee, which is examining the issue.

Reye's syndrome is characterized by vomiting and lethargy which may progress to delirium and coma in youngsters recovering from viral infections. Between 600 and 1,200 cases occur in the United States each year. Between 20 percent and 30 percent of these cases end in death; many others result in permanent brain damage.

Schweiker's proposal drew immediate criticism from some quarters, although it appeared to be well received by the subcommittee.

Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y. said the announcement "may be based on a flawed study and is clearly premature given the conflicting opinions from scientific and medical experts."

He added that the "American Reye's Syndrome Association and other Reye's groups are on record as opposing the aspirin warning."

Scheuer said these groups contend that giving credence to "the highly dubious theory" of a link may obscure the importance of early recognition, "still the best method of reducing the mortality rate" of the disease.

Dr. Joseph M. White, president of the industry's Aspirin Foundation of America, criticized the data used in developing the proposal as "poorly developed" and "badly flawed."

"There's nothing that would prevent the government from changing its collective mind if the industry were to come up with new data now," said spokesman Bill Griggs of the Food and Drug Administration.

Food and Drug Administration spokesman Bill Griggs told the committee the procedure for implementing the warning-label program — publishing the proposal in the Federal Register, allowing for public comment, printing of the final rules and providing time for the industry to change its labels — probably meant that it would not go into effect until next spring or summer.

The public information campaign, however, could start "right away," he said, noting that the agency already has alerted health professionals about the suspected link.

In addition to aspirin itself, many prescription and over-the-counter drugs — including some popular cough and cold remedies — contain salicylates, or aspirin, and would be subject to the proposed label changes.

For over-the-counter drugs, the proposed label would read:

"Warning: This product contains a salicylate. Do not use in persons under 16 years of age with flu or chicken pox unless directed by your doctor. The use of salicylates to treat these conditions has been connected, with a rare but serious childhood disease called Reye's syndrome."

A slightly shorter version would be used for prescription drugs.

It's official: NFLPA on strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking players and team owners both say they are willing to lose the rest of the National Football League season if it means winning at the bargaining table.

Fans, dismayed by the first regular-season strike in the sport's history, are about to be barraged with Canadian and college football, along with movies, as television networks scramble to fill the air time.

Gene Upshaw, president of the 1,500-member NFL Players Association, announced the strike Monday after the union's executive committee voted unanimously in favor of a walkout. The management engages in good-faith bargaining." He later added the players were ready to hold out "one day longer than management."

But Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, countered that team owners were prepared to "go as long as necessary, including the entire season, to prove their point."

He made his remarks after a Monday night meeting of the owners' executive committee, held in New York.

The first game to be affected by the strike will be Thursday night, when the Atlanta Falcons were scheduled to play in Kansas City against the Chiefs. ABC, which was to televise the game, announced it will instead show Peter Falk in "The Cheap Detective."

It's the second time in just over a year that a strike has interrupted American professional sports. Baseball players struck last summer for 50 days in a dispute over free agency. NFL players staged two training-camp strikes, in 1970 and 1974.

The football strike centers on money and how the NFL's billion-dollar income should be distributed.

Players, who originally sought 55 percent of the gross revenues of the NFL's 28 teams — estimated at $3.6 billion over five years — changed their stand last Friday and asked for 50 percent of the clubs' $2.1 billion television contract, plus a minimum-wage scale based on length of service. The proposed contract would run for four years, as opposed to the five-year pact offered by the owners.

Donlan says owners are "unalterably opposed" to guaranteed percentages and wage scales for the players. They have offered a package containing $10,000-a-year bonuses for veterans, plus base salary hikes.

Both sides have reached basic agreement on how much a new contract should cost — $1.6 billion. The length of the contract, where the money comes from and how it will be divided are the sticking points.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said he hoped the strike "will force the owners to start bargaining in good faith."

Mark Murphy, a member of the union's executive committee and a Washington Redskins defensive back, said it was "vital" for NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle to step into the talks. Rozelle so far has not participated in the bargaining, and Donlan said Monday night that the commissioner should remain on the sidelines.

Negotiations between the management council and the players union broke off Friday and no further talks were scheduled.

"I knew it was coming," said George S. Halas Sr., the Chicago Bears' 87-year-old owner and the last surviving founder of the NFL.

"I'm sorry to see it, of course," he said Monday as he signed the team's last prestrike paychecks. "And so are the players — or so they will be."

Owners, players and fans speculated on how long the strike would last.

"That could be the season," said San Diego Chargers owner Gene Klein, a member of the owners' executive committee.

Russell Erxleben, the New Orleans player representative, advised the Saints Monday night to be prepared to sit out the whole season.

He said he expected his teammates to soon "scatter like quail."

Some fans were angry with the strike.

"I resent the fact they're playing with my days off," said Randy Turley, a credit supervisor from Plum Boro, Pa. "I don't sympathize with either side."

At the Packers-Giants game, a rain-soaked crowd of 68,405 booed the two teams as they met at midfield for a pregame solidarity handshake. A banner at Giants Stadium invoked the memory of former New York football greats with the words, "Tittle, Huff, Gifford and Robustelli... Real Giants Don't Strike."

Some players remained hopeful that the strike could be resolved quickly, possibly in time for this week's games.

"I hope those two gentlemen (Garvey and Donlan) find a nice, dark room somewhere and lock themselves in and get the thing settled in a hurry because the American people don't need a football strike," said Cris Collinsworth of the Cincinnati Bengals.

Strike facts, figures

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are some facts and figures on the National Football League players' strike against the NFL:

ON STRIKE: The 1,500 members of the NFL Players Association against the 28 teams.

EFFECTIVE DATE: It begins Tuesday. The first game to be affected will be Thursday's Atlanta-Kansas City in Kansas City.

NFLPA DEMANDS: A total package of $1.6 billion over four years with $1.06 of that coming from 50 percent of the club's network-television package, plus free agency after three years.

MANAGEMENT'S OFFER: A total package of $1.6 billion over five years, from whatever source the clubs choose.

EFFECTS ON TV COVERAGE: CBS plans to continue coverage of the season, NBC will televise Canadian Football League games and ABC will revert to prime-time programming. Turner Broadcasting of Atlanta has signed a contract for a series of games between all-star teams made up of strikers.

strike began about eight hours later, after the Green Bay Packers beat the New York Giants 27-19 to complete the season's second week.

"At the conclusion of tonight's game, the league will be struck," Upshaw, a Los Angeles Raiders guard, said Monday. "No practices, no workouts, no games will be played until management engages in good-faith bargaining." He later added the players were ready to hold out "one day longer than management."

But Jack Donlan, executive director of the NFL Management Council, countered that team owners were prepared to "go as long as necessary, including the entire season, to prove their point."

NO MORE GAMES — Gene Upshaw, the National Football League Players Association president, announces a strike by NFL players in New York Monday afternoon. The first regular-season walkout in pro football history began today.

LEAVE FIELD FOR SEASON — Players of the New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers leave the field after their NFL Monday night game at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J. This may be the last game of the season as the NFL players are now on strike. Prominent in photo are Gary Shirk (87) of the Giants and John Anderson (59) of Green Bay.

Dickey leads Giant-killing

Pack comes back again

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Green Bay Packers quarterback Lynn Dickey likes a winning season — even if it's only two games.

"If there's going to be a strike, I'd rather be 2-0 than 1-1," Dickey said after the Packers pulled another second-half comeback and thrashed the New York Giants 27-19 Monday night.

When the clock ran out, the National Football League players strike had begun.

James Lofton, whose 83-yard end-round touchdown run late in the third quarter swung the momentum to the Packers, said the players were distracted by the announcement of a strike hours earlier.

Lofton said he was sorry the strike had been announced before the game. "It kind of took some of the air out of us," he said.

Coaches of each team warned their players to forget the strike as they prepared for the game

— the only NFL contest played after the strike was announced.

But players on both sides met at midfield and exchanged union solidarity handshakes just before the game began as the crowd jeered loudly.

"Dickey would not blame the strike for the Packers' slow start.

"There was some mild talk about the possibility of a strike, but it had nothing to do with our performance. Once we got on the field all the talk and joking stopped. We were ready," said Dickey, who completed 13 of 20 passes for 203 yards.

The Packers scored only once in the first half, on Dickey's 7-yard touchdown pass to fullback Jim Jensen.

Before Lofton's late third-quarter touchdown, the Giants had built a 19-7 lead.

The Giants scored on 3- and 2-yard touchdown runs by rookie Joe Morris and first-year Cliff Chatman, respectively, as well as a 37-yard Joe Danelo field goal and a Packers' team safety.

Lofton raced elegantly to the end zone, holding the football high in the air as the Giants scrambled at his heels with 1:37 left in the third quarter.

Eddie Lee Ivery's 11-yard touchdown run pushed the Packers ahead of the Giants, 21-19, and Jan Stenerud completed the score with 37- and 22-yard field goals.

Twice during the game, the power went out at Giants Stadium. Thirty seconds into the second quarter, virtually all the lights went out, bringing a loud and lengthy cheer from the fans.

Giants Coach Ray Perkins' team is now 0-2 after losing 16-14 last week to the Atlanta Falcons.

Four of the 10 Big Spring area football teams again chalked up victories on the third Friday of the 1982 season with the Forsan Buffs getting the first tie, 7-7 at Robert Lee. The biggest win came on the road for Coahoma as the Bulldogs blanked Tahoka 24-0 for their first victory. Other big wins were posted by Klondike (27-6 over O'Donnell) and Sands (34-11 over Smyer).

Richard Gibson (Grady Wildcats): On last week's big rebound victory over Ira — "I was real, real pleased that we were finally able to generate some offense. We had scored zero points in the first and second quarters in our first two games. At one point in the second quarter, we were ahead 34-0 before I put in our freshmen and sophomores and they scored right before the half. I think we found our offense. We threw real well and ran well too." On district toughie Friday night against the Trent Gorillas — "They are 3-0 and have got a pretty good ball club. They have a little bit of speed and quickness and we've got to go back and regroup because we didn't handle it real well against Dawson. If we can get by this one, we could be in good shape."

Steve Park (Stanton Buffaloes): On last week's first loss of the year to the Golden Cranes of Crane — "Our defense played good. We shut down their running game but they had 181 yards passing. They just had 74 rushing. Their kid (Gilbert Ramirez) who had 227 yards last week rushed 22 times for just five yards. But their quarterback (Eugene Morris) did a good job. We had poor coverage. Offensively, we'd get something going and stop ourselves. We had six turnovers. We also didn't convert our third downs." On this week's battle with the Hamlin Pied Pipers — "They've had a lot of injuries up there but they all will probably get ready for us. Their running back (Eddie Bolden) has good size and speed. We will have to execute better. We need to get better on the fundamental stuff that's been hurting us. Ector."

Joe Longley (Greenwood Rangers): On last week's loss at the hands of Iraan — "We just got our tails beat is all. We played a pretty good ballclub and played well in the second half. They had 252 yards rushing in just the first half and we held them to 95 in the second half. We had our opportunities but we just played a better ballclub. We lost our starting guard and linebacker (John Gilliam) with a pinched nerve in neck for the season." On the Rangers' first league game against Sterling City — "They are big and they are physical and play good defense. They run out of the power I and throw the ball well. They have a tailback — Shane Colbert — that's 220 pounds and runs well and a good quarterback in Greg Barr and David Myrick catches the ball well. It's our first district ballgame and we need to get this one."

Jan East (Forsan Buffaloes): On last week's tie with Robert Lee — "It was a pretty good ball game. During the game, we didn't think the kids played that well, but then we looked at the films and they had played better than we thought. Robert Lee just got after us. We took the opening kickoff and drove it 68 yards and scored and thought we'd have some offense, but then they tightened up on us. From the past years — I've been here four years — we hadn't beaten them ... they always get up for us and get after us." On this week's open date work schedule — "We are going to work on a couple of defenses we'd like to put in for district. We're also going to look at some different offenses. But first, we're going to help the JVs with their game Thursday."

Stewart Cooper (Garden City Bearkats): On a surprising loss to Grandfalls Royalty — "We learned what we're going to have to overcome. We weren't ready for this game — the players and the coaches and that means me, too. We can't take things for granted." On meeting Robert Lee which tied Forsan last Friday — "They're solid, big and well-coached. And they're plenty strong. We have to be consistent and maintain a drive. I don't see us breaking a big one on them. We need to get a nickel here and nickel there." On missing two-way starter Billy Kelson — "Someone has to step in and pick up the slack. It's going to hurt us but it's our first district ballgame and we're going to get after it."

Tom Ramsey (Colorado City Wolves): On yet another tough game, this time against No. 11 Denver City — "Denver City has an excellent ballclub and I don't doubt they are No. 11 in the state. What did we get out of the game? A bunch of bruises and little bit of humility." On playing someone their own size in the Wylie Bulldogs this week — "I think it's going to be a good football game. They have a good quarterback and they like to throw the ball. In 50 offensive plays last week, they put the ball in the air 40 times. If we can play good pass defense, I think we can beat them. If we don't, they'll beat us. We need to sustain our drives... be continuous. We are still stopping ourselves with a lot of mistakes."

Larry Hudson (Coahoma Bulldogs): On a big, big victory over Tahoka on the road — "We got started and broke the ice. It took two hours for the fieldhouse to come back down. We started out like a house on fire but then the lights went out for 15-20 minutes and we lost our momentum. We didn't crank it up until half-time. The field goal in the third quarter broke the ice and then Richard Seals broke one. Our defense secondary — Todd Engel, Charlie Martinez, Jimmy Carruthers and Scott Mayhall — did a real fine job. The knocked down passes and intercepted four." On trying to make it two in a row over Reagan County — "Number one, they have probably one of the finest running backs in this country in Greg Fisher. He has been injured but returned against a tough Ozona ballclub and gained 90 yards. And they will hit you. They are very physical. But we can get them if we play a solid football game."

Jim White (Sands Mustangs): On no-so-easy victory Friday over Smyer — "We're still having problems with penalties. I think the kids took Smyer a little too lightly because they played us a real tough game for three quarters. It was 13-3 going into the fourth quarter. Hopefully we learned a lesson there." On hosting hard-hitting O'Donnell Friday — "They are too big and have too many good players to be winless for long... hopefully that won't come against us. We can't take anybody lightly."

Bill West (Klondike Cougars): On last week's victory over fired-up O'Donnell — "It went a little big unexpected. They played a tougher ballgame than we expected. They changed up both their offense and defense and we had to adjust. They've had some injuries so that was part of the reason for the changes. We're old rivals so it was a tough game." On trying for win No. 4 at home against always tough Jayton — "Yes they are always a solid football team. They run kind of like Ohio State, you know, four yards and a cloud of dust. They'll run it right down your throat if you let them. They are the best offensive team we'll have faced so far this year."

Jim Warren (Lamesa Golden Tors): On last week's painful loss to super tough San Angelo Lake View — "They have a fine football team. I certainly don't want to take anything away from them. We had six starters on the sidelines and a couple of those didn't even play (RB Steve Alexander and Chris Wheat did not play). Nothing that will make them miss the rest of the season but bruises and sprains." On getting a much-needed off week before playing Snyder — "The main thing is we're going to try and get some people well. We'll take it pretty light this week and then gradually go back to work."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to put things in the right order, including matters that have to do with your home, and conditions will run more smoothly in the days ahead. You can gain your aims now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to give more thought and attention to home affairs if they are to work out more satisfactorily. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can handle business matters efficiently now by getting an early start. Engage in favorite hobby with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to do important work that will help you get ahead faster. The evening is fine for the romantic side of life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Pursue what is uppermost on your mind and gain the support of associates in a new project.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you try to please higher-ups, you can advance more quickly now and add to present prestige. Show more devotion to loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Personal affairs can be handled early in the day for best results. Evening is the best time to engage in new activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle conditions that are annoying and forget the fun side of life for the present. Sidelstep one who is argumentative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study new moves you want to make where career is concerned. Obtain the information you need from the right sources.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Carrying through with responsibilities you have assumed is fine. Give more attention to loved one who is downhearted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to please an associate who is depending on you now. Plan how to gain your goals more readily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of routine duties early in the day so that you can have a leisurely and happy evening with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contacting those who can help you become more successful is the best way to proceed now. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be instilled with a romantic nature that will be pleasing to others. Send to the right schools so that your progeny will be able to make a fine mark in the world. The theater, politics and selling are all fine here.

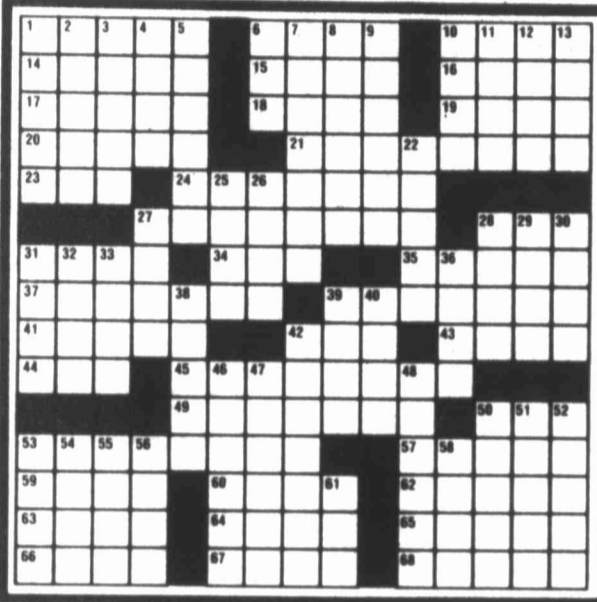

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Rangers destroy Oakland 10-3

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Mike Richardt's three-run homer and Buddy Bell's two-run triple sparked a six-run first inning that carried the Texas Rangers to a 10-3 victory over the Oakland A's Monday night.

Left-hander Frank Tanana, 7-18, snapped a personal five-game losing streak with the victory, allowing solo homers to Rickey Henderson, Kelvin Moore and Mike Heath before getting relief help in the eighth from Danny Darwin.

Jim Sundberg singled with two out and Richardt blasted his third homer, capping the rally and chasing Keough. Richardt added a run-scoring single in the third for a 7-0 lead.

Sample's two-run single added two runs in the fourth and Johnny Grubb's sacrifice fly concluded Texas' scoring in the sixth.

Brewers 4, Red Sox 3
 With two outs and two strikes on their last hitter in the ninth inning, the Milwaukee Brewers looked just about dead.

Then Ben Oglivie brought them to life.

After Oglivie rescued the Brewers, they won it 4-3 in the 11th on Gorman Thomas' sacrifice fly.

Robin Yount beat out a single to open the Milwaukee 11th off reliever Bob Stanley.

Cecil Cooper followed with a single and Ted Simmons' sacrifice moved both runners up. After Oglivie was intentionally walked to load the bases, Thomas, who earlier hit his 38th homer, delivered his game-winning sacrifice fly.

Orioles 3, Tigers 1
 John Lowenstein's two-run homer in the ninth inning lifted Baltimore over Detroit. It was the 27th victory in 32 games for the red-hot Orioles.

Lowenstein's blow, only the sixth hit off Jack Morris, 16-16, followed a leadoff single by Eddie Murray.

Sammy Stewart, 9-7, pitched the ninth inning in relief of Jim Palmer to earn the victory.

Angels 3, Royals 2
 Tim Lincecum's two-out homer in the fifth inning snapped a 1-1 tie and Geoff Zahn won his 17th game as California beat Kansas City. The two teams entered the series with identical 84-65 records.

Zahn, 17-8, gave up eight hits, walked four and struck out two before needing relief help in the ninth from Luis Sanchez, who gained his third save after giving up John Wathan's RBI grounder.

Foli's blast broke up a pitchers' duel between left-handed aces Zahn and Larry Gura, 17-11, giving the Angels a 2-1 lead.

Twins 4, Blue Jays 1
 Randy Bush drove in three runs with two homers to lead Minnesota over Toronto. Bobby Castillo, 11-11, scattered nine hits before needing relief help in the ninth inning from Ron Davis, who recorded his 21st save.

The Twins took a 1-0 lead in the third on a run-scoring single by Kent Hrbek, his 86th of the season, tops on the Twins. Bush made it 2-0 with his third homer of the season in the fourth and added a two-run shot in the eighth, both off loser Luis Leal, 11-14.

Mariners 5, White Sox 2
 Joe Simpson scored once and drove in the go-ahead run with an infield single in the fifth inning as Seattle downed Chicago.

Bryan Clark, 4-2, struck out five over 5-23 innings, getting relief help from Rich Bordi and Ed Vande Berg, who earned his fourth save.

Simpson legged out a bounce between first and second to score Julio Cruz, who had tripled to open the fifth off LaMarr Hoyt, 16-15. Simpson also sparked a two-run first with a single.

Braves drop to three back after loss

HOUSTON (AP) — No matter the outcome of the tight pennant race in the National League West, Atlanta Braves outfielder Dale Murphy is going to have a good time.

Murphy has been on the losing end of the stick with the Braves, and the chance to be a contender is all he needs to keep him happy.

The Braves were not pleased with Monday's outcome, a 4-3 loss to the Houston Astros that dropped them three games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers with 12 games to play.

"This is fun," Murphy said. "We've been 30 games out and that's pressure. This is exciting. In three games we could be tied for first, and in four games we could be a game ahead. This is the kind of pressure you play for."

Atlanta had a 3-0 lead after five innings, but succumbed to a three-run Astros' out-break in the sixth and Dickie Thon's game-winning double in the ninth.

"This was the toughest loss of the season for us," said third baseman Jerry Royster. "It's so late in the season and we had a chance to pick up a half game. We go out and get three runs off (Nolan) Ryan and still lose. It's real tough to take."

Terry Puhl singled off the glove of losing pitcher Gene Garber, 7-9, with one out in the ninth and scored from first on Thon's hit-and-run double to center.

Ryan and winning pitcher Dave Smith, 4-4, collaborated on a five-hitter. Smith gave only one single in his three innings of relief.

The Braves got an unearned run in the first inning on a Ryan wild pitch. Rafael Ramirez' solo home run in the fifth, his seventh of the year, and a run-scoring double by Chris Chambliss upped Atlanta's lead to 3-0.

Houston struck for three runs in the sixth. Thon walked. Ray Knight and Phil Garner singled for the first run, and Alan Ashby's sacrifice fly made it 3-2.

Bill Doran hit an infield single and Royster's throwing error on the play let Garner score from second and tie the game.

"I'd much rather be in our position than the Astros," Atlanta manager Joe Torre said. "They are relaxed and have nothing to lose. We've been picking ourselves up off the floor all season. Any time you lose in the last 12 or 13 games, it's tough. Every loss is monumental and very critical to our pennant hopes."

Cardinals 4, Phillies 1
With 12 games to go, it's possible to start putting the words "St. Louis Cardinals" and "magic number" in the same sentence. But just denly, the magic number is eight.

Behind a combined nine-hitter by Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter, the Cards won their eighth straight eight days ago, the Redbirds were a half game out of first place, having lost seven out of ten games.

National League

Then came the streak. Seven days. Eight games. Eight victories. And suddenly, the magic number is eight. Behind a combined nine-hitter by Joaquin Andujar and Bruce Sutter, the Cards won their eighth straight Cardinal victories and Phillie losses adding up to eight will give St. Louis its first divisional title in history.

"If we win tomorrow, it will put serious pressure on them," Cardinal third baseman Ken Oberkell said of Philadelphia, which has lost seven of nine coming into tonight's game at Busch Stadium. "It's exciting. It will be a big game. The fans are getting revved up. It's like a 10th player on our side."

"Probably our starting pitching over the last nine games has been the best I've ever seen," said Cardinal Manager Whitey Herzog. In their last eight contests, the Cards' starters have given up seven runs.

"I just try to do my best. Right now I'm giving it 200 percent," said Andujar, 14-10, who pitched the first 62-3 innings. Sutter came on in the seventh to post his league-leading 34th save.

George Hendrick's two-run fifth-inning double off John Denny, 0-2, was the game's decisive hit.

"I felt that we had a real good chance of winning a championship. I'm not saying we're out of it yet," Phillie skipper Pat Coralles said. "I've seen strange things happen in this game."

Cubs 3, Pirates 1
Dickie Noles, 9-12, doubled and scored a run to back his own pitching, as he scattered five hits and struck out eight in seven innings of work. Dick Tidrow earned his sixth save as the Cubs won their fifth straight game.

The Cubs' last loss prior to the winning streak was a 15-5 drubbing to Pittsburgh in which Noles was the losing pitcher.

"I told Bo (Cubs shortstop Larry Bowa) I was feeling like part of the team again," Noles said. "I was mostly joking, but I lost the last game this team has lost in a while and it was nice to come back." "He had the best stuff I've ever seen him have, and he's won some big ballgames," said Pittsburgh manager Chuck Tanner.

QB clubs to meet

The Big Spring High and Coahoma High Quarterback clubs will meet tonight.

It's "Meet the Steers Night" for Big Spring as coaches, players and fans meet at 7:30 in the BSHS cafeteria. Varsity players will be introduced and will in turn introduce their parents. Film of Friday's 10-0 win over Levelland and a scouting report on this week's game with Abilene High are highlights. Refreshments will be served.

Coahoma will follow the same agenda at 7 p.m. in the Coahoma High Cafeteria.

Football meet set

Team representatives and persons interested in the Big Spring industrial football league will meet tonight at 7 p.m. in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Netters on road again

Big Spring Lady Steers volleyball teams will hit the road tonight, and the varsity, junior varsity and 9th graders all face out-of-town opponents.

Varsity and junior varsity players will take on Odessa in Odessa. JVs begin play at 6 p.m. and the varsity follows at 7 p.m.

Ninth graders will be competing against Colorado City in Colorado City at 5 p.m.

Goliad A and B teams took victories over Sweetwater last night, with the A team winning by scores of 15-4, 15-4 and the B team winning 15-0, 15-7.

Both teams are 4-0 for the year, and will face Andrews Thursday.
