

Rail strike settlement

Reagan order leaves room for future negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he signed legislation ordering striking railroad engineers back to work to "protect the jobs of our people," but he still thinks the government should stay out of labor-management negotiations.

Within hours after the decree became law, the first engineers began reporting for work, thus ending a four-day strike that had shut down most of the nation's rail system.

On Wednesday, Reagan signed emergency legislation imposing a settlement on the union and rail industry.

The back-to-work order breezed through Congress

The president's signature came shortly after Congress enacted the joint resolution that mandates an agreement, but leaves for future negotiations the thorny wage differential issue that had prompted the walkout Sunday.

"By far the most important consideration for me is jobs," declared Reagan. "If this strike were prolonged, nearly a million Americans would face a threat of unemployment. We cannot afford such losses."

Rail industry officials said train operations may not be back to full operation until Friday, even though some resumed at midnight.

"It will take one to two days to restore full operations," said Jack Martin, a spokesman for Burlington Northern. But he said some coal trains would run within hours of the signing.

Amtrak announced the majority of its trains would be operating today in the West and South where they had been halted because of the strike.

The first stalled passenger train, the Desert Wind, rolled out of Ogden, Utah, for Los Angeles at 12:05 a.m., six minutes behind schedule, Amtrak officials said.

The back-to-work order breezed through Congress, passing by a voice vote in the Senate and a margin of 383-17 in the House. Yet many congressmen expressed a distaste for intervening in the collective bargaining process.

Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., pushed for an extension of the cooling off period to give the sides more bargaining time. But the proposal was rejected, and, in the end, Florio voted for the settlement decree. He said he feared government intervention in other labor fights, declaring: "You have a loose cannon on the deck now."

Reagan also said he had regrets about imposing a settlement.

"There are many elected officials in Washington and I am one of them who prefer to keep the government out of the collective bargaining process," he said.

But, he continued, "We're also committed to protecting vital national interests. We must protect the jobs of our people and keep both factories and farms at work. Our economy must stay on the track of recovery. If the strike were to continue, it could cost the American economy close to $1 billion a day."

During debate in the House earlier Wednesday one congressman after another expressed concern about the impact of the strike. One said coal mines already had laid off 1,500 workers and would lay off more, another said grain shipments are sitting idle and have to be moved, and a third reminded his colleagues that 5,000 auto workers already had been laid off because of the strike and commuters were stranded in three major cities.

"The health of the American economy is the issue," said Republican leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois. Democrat Jim Wright of Texas, the majority leader, agreed, saying that "while the government must exhibit restraint, it must not exhibit paralysis."

But John Sytsma, president of the engineer's union, said in a statement that the law ordering an end to the strike "by no means solves the basic problems" that led to the strike.

The government order requires the union to agree to a settlement recommended by a special presidential commission and already endorsed by the rail industry and 12 other unions. Both sides already had agreed to a wage hike of 28.8 percent, some of which is retroactive to April, 1981, over the life of the 39-month contract.

But the recommendation puts off the issue of a wage differential between engineers and other members of a train crew, leaving that to further negotiations and stripping the union of the right to strike on the differential question.

The engineers earn an average of $36,000 a year but individual earnings can range widely from one railroad to another, government officials said.

PAIR OF KIDS — Jeremy Smith, son of David and Lynn Smith, walks along with his goat Bandana at the county fair. They won second place in the younger billies competition and first place in most colorful division.

Goats have their day

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

In the show ring goats have never attained the stature reserved for lambs or steers. It could be the goat's image. He is normally depicted as smelly, unruly and as having an appetite for tin cans. Therefore, the goat has been the black sheep, so to speak, of the show ring for a long time.

However, if you were one of the lucky ones attending the annual Howard County Fair Goat Show last night you know that the goat can put on just as good a show as any purebred lamb.

The scene was set at 6:30 p.m. yesterday as people came crowding in the show arena until there must have been a teaming hoard of 50 people nervously awaiting the goats to appear.

When the press appeared to cover the show one man remarked, "Now you're finally writing about something that matters."

Yes, indeed, these people were real goat fans it seemed.

One by one the contestants signed up for the competition with Assistant County Agent Dennis Poole, who could hardly contain his excitement as being chairman of the show.

The field continued to grow as three-year-old Jeremy Smith brought in his goat attired in a red bandana. Tarah Schuelke, also three-years-old, was not to be outdone, as her goat was adorned with pink ribbons and painted pink hooves. It looked like the contestants were playing for keeps this year and pulling out all the stops.

POOLE SIGNED up 10 goats, a monumental figure considering last year's show only had five goats, according to Paul Hopper, fair president. Incidentally, Hopper has worked his way to fair president by paying his dues as goat show chairman.

Hopper had said earlier that last year's entries were so sparse and so bad the only criteria he had for judging was that the goat be alive.

Suddenly it was time to begin as Rep. Larry Don Shaw, who was to judge the contest, walked into the Canterbury Apartments housing units approved

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

The U.S. Congress approved a $2,319,800 loan to build 59 more housing units at Canterbury Apartments, a housing center for the elderly and handicapped, U.S. Sen. John Tower's office said yesterday.

The new units will include 14 efficiency and 45 one-bedroom apartments and will be built a block north of the present apartment building on 1700 Lancaster, said Guilford Jones III, attorney and housing consultant for St. Mary's Episcopal Retirement Homes, Inc.

Jones said plans will be drawn and negotiations with a contractor will begin "almost immediately." The units should be ready to open the "early part of next year," Jones said. A "very great demand" for more housing at Canterbury Apartments prompted the June application for the loan, Jones said. "We've had a waiting list well over 100 since we opened (in August 1979). There's always been 100 to 150 on the waiting list. We just wanted to build it."

Apartment tenants must be 62-years-old or older or handicapped, Jones said. Canterbury tenants are predominantly elderly widows and a few widowers and couples, Jones said.

Housing and Urban Development section 202 provides for direct loans to non-profit corporations to build such housing, Jones said. HUD section 8 authorizes that rent be charged according to the tenant's ability and that HUD "picks up the rest," Jones said.

The original 120 units were constructed with a $3.1 million loan, Jones said.

Fair attendance up

Winners of lamb show announced

Attendance at the 10th Annual Howard County Fair is up 800 from this time last year, according to Fair Association President Paul Hopper.

Attendance to date is 9,981, Hopper said this morning. He also noted the first two days of the school program had seen 1,024 school children visit the fair for free.

Entering into the spirit of things, Hopper rode the mechanical bull last night to fight cystic fibrosis. The fair president garnered $72 in pledges from various people to make the ride. The county 4-H club, the fair association and the bull ride operators joined together in an hour-long fundraiser to combat the disease.

The 1982 version of the Big Spring Lamb Jackpot Show is history now, but some winners will not forget for some time. Bryan Shaw, a 16-year-old Seminole High School student captured the Grand Champion Lamb of the fair with his medium-wool Suffolk lamb.

Shaw takes home the $250 top prize. A six-year veteran of lamb shows, Shaw had the top lamb at the Houston Stock Show two years ago.

Reserve champion honors went to John Roman of the Forsan 4-H club. The 13-year-old took the $100 award with his heavyweight medium wool Suffolk.

Libertarian candidate campaigns in Big Spring

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

Up until Bill Clements, the first Republican governor elected in Texas in over 100 years, was chosen by the voters in 1978 Texas had been largely a state of Democrats. Now that the Republicans have a foothold a third party — the Libertarian party — is attempting to gain the electorate's attention.

David Hutzelman, the Libertarian gubernatorial candidate, was in Big Spring yesterday on a campaign tour that took him to San Angelo, Abilene and Lamesa.

Although the party has little recognition in this part of Texas, Hutzelman said he was "very pleased" with the reception he was getting in West Texas.

"In the big cities the people and press are cynical. If you don't have money or power they don't listen, but out here (West Texas) they'll at least listen to what you have to say," he said.

Hutzelman said he believes people are disenchanting with the two-party system as evidenced by a meager turnout at the polls in the May primary. Figures show only 20 percent of the registered voters bothered

George Strake to visit tomorrow

George Strake, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor will visit Big Spring Friday, according to Polly Mays, a local Strake supporter.

Strake will attend a luncheon at noon at La Posada Restaurant followed by a reception at the courthouse at 1 p.m. where there will be "ice cream, cake and Strake." He will also take a tour of downtown Big Spring. The public is invited to come and meet the candidate.

Strake's Big Spring stop is one of a West Texas tour which will include Monahans, Pecos, Fort Stockton, San Angelo and Midland.

Strake, 47, is a former Texas secretary of state challenging incumbent Bill Hobby for the lieutenant governor's office.

Football fans speak out

By MIKE DOWNEY Staff Writer

With the first regular-season strike in football's history in its third day with no solution in sight, how do Big Springers feel about missing their football? Are they happy with the players? How will they spend Sunday now? Some answers follow.

Mica Drinkard "I don't feel like it's fair them (the players) having a say-so. Other employees don't get a cut off the top ... they're wrong. This is my favorite time to curl up in front of the TV ... I'll mow the grass this Sunday."

Bobby Sullivan "I don't like it (the strike), but I don't feel like players have been treated fairly in the past. They've got the right to strike, but they could have avoided it — they're hurting their fans."

Bob McCracken "I can't stand it ... it's ridiculous. The problem is just one year's difference for the $1.6 billion (players' demand for share of owners' profits). I'm for getting this settled. Of course, the wives like it because they'll get their husbands back."

Adele Tibbs "It feels like we've had a death in the family. I'm just sorry they're striking. We'll just do the same old things this winter we did all summer on Sunday."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Gunfight

Q. Were there any gunfights in Big Spring's early days?
A. According to Joe Pickle's history of Howard County's early years "Getting Started," frontier documentation does not support the "blazing gunfight" idea. An early documented death from gunfire was in 1883 when Sheriff T.W. Morrow fired warning shots at an escaping prisoner. One bullet ricocheted into the man's retreating hip and he died of the wound.

In 1903, Sheriff J.A. Baggett killed E.R. Wheat after Wheat resisted arrest. Baggett took Wheat's gun and had shot him twice already when Wheat got another gun and the sheriff fired the fatal shot.

Calendar: RSVP picnic

TODAY
The Retired Seniors Volunteer Program (RSVP) will hold its recognition barbecue picnic from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the Spring City Center in the Big Spring Industrial Park. Bring a salad, a vegetable or a dessert.

Howard College will sponsor an open house in its adult education department from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. The public is urged to come and view the facility.

Those students who have not picked up their Coahoma High School annuals are asked to bring canceled checks or receipts to room 201 at the high school any weekday afternoon.

FRIDAY
George Strake, GOP candidate for lieutenant governor will be in Big Spring attending a luncheon at La Posada Restaurant at noon followed by a reception at the courthouse at 1 p.m.

The Howard County Library will have a Story Hour for pre-school-aged children from 10:10-11 a.m.

A Downtown Lions Burger-Fest will be held before the Steers' first district game against Abilene. The meal will be at 7 p.m. in the Howard College cafeteria.

Deadline for registration for the American Lung Association of Texas asthma program at Malone-Hogan Hospital set Tuesday Sept. 28. The program is for children aged 7-12. Enrollment is limited and the program is free. Contact Mrs. Reagan at 263-1910 for registration.

The Senior Citizens Dance will be at 7:30 p.m. at the Industrial Park Building #487. Guests are welcome.

Tops on TV: 'Hill Street Blues'

On channel 13 at 7 p.m. "Fame" has an episode in which the school administration deals with Board of Education inspectors, and Leroy tries to get rid of a gun brought home from prison by his brother. At 9 p.m. on channel 13 is "Hill Street Blues." The body of Renko's father is stolen, and Joyce regains some of her faith in the criminal justice system.

Coahoma Bulldog Stadium renamed

In a regularly scheduled meeting Monday night, the Coahoma School Board voted 4-2 to rename Bulldog Stadium in honor of former coach and high school principal Bill Easterling, said superintendent of schools Richard Souter.

Ken Cobb, Bruce Griffith, Ronnie Wood and Donnie Reid voted for the measure, while Warren Jeter and Stanley Phillips voted against, Souter said.

Renaming was apparently on the board's mind Monday, as Souter said the board also read a letter written by Coahoma ex-student Pat Hardison. The letter dealt with the possibility of naming the new elementary building in honor of Mrs. Elenora Garrett, who taught in the Coahoma school system for 38 years.

The board approved two school sponsored dances for 1982-83. The dances will be held at homecoming and the junior-senior banquet. Ronnie Wood, Ken Cobb and Stanley Phillips voted for the dances, while Bruce Griffith and Warren Jeter voted against.

The board also approved field trips and money-making activities for the gifted and talented children's program, Souter said, and approved funding of a future problem-solving program for the program if any of the children qualify.

C. Roy Wright, ex-student association president, asked the board to consider the colors of the school. The traditional colors for Coahoma and the Bulldogs have been red and white. Souter said other colors had gradually drifted in on things such as the annual, band uniforms and the pads underneath the basketball goals. The board reaffirmed by a resolution both the colors and the mascot.

Souter said the board agreed to allow the booster club to use the new elementary cafeteria building for a chili supper on Oct. 22, and approved a request from Coahoma Parents Care to use the old elementary building and Junior High gyms for a Halloween carnival Oct. 30.

The board also:

- agreed to employ Sue O'Daniel as a first grade teacher due to larger class sizes in that grade.
- agreed to hire a special education teacher in elementary to work with emotionally disturbed children.
- employed an additional maintenance person.
- agreed to hire another kindergarten teacher and another full-time aide as funds become available. Details of kindergarten classes will be split and where the additional class will meet will be discussed at a special meeting of the school board Monday night at 7:30.
- agreed to place on the April 1983 election ballot a referendum to decide whether school board members will be elected at large or by places.
- renewed the school board's liability insurance policy with Coahoma Insurance Agency.
- voted to allow Stanley Blackwell, an ag teacher, to purchase a camper shell for the ag pickup.

Carport variances approved

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Four requests for carport variances were discussed when the Board of Planning and Zoning Appeals met.

All four requests were approved by the board.

City Manager Rick Crowley explained the reason the appeals had been brought before the board was because the requests did not comply with a city ordinance; however, board chairman Joe Weaver reports his group voted unanimously for all four requests.

Theft reported at high school

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Between $40 and $50 was reported stolen from the high school field house yesterday morning, according to Police Chief Ed Wheat.

Additional activity from the local law enforcement agency includes the recent apprehension of four juveniles who were damaging local property — some $900 in damage to eight local businesses.

The youths have been turned over to juvenile authorities.

Jackpot roping, barrel racing slated

LAMESA (SC) — There will be a jackpot roping and barrel racing contest Saturday at the Fred Meyers Arena, located two and one-half miles east of the Plainsman Motel in Lamesa.

The event is sponsored by the Dawson Senior Citizen Club.

There will be a washer-pitching event with a 32-team limit, double elimination, with the entry fee $40 per team. Those requesting information on the washer pitching event should call Dan Harp at (806) 489-7916.

There will be two divisions in the barrel racing event, with a 12-year old and under category and an open category as well.

A team roping event will also be a part of the festivities. A silver buckle will be awarded to the winners of each event and there will be a senior concession on the grounds.

For further information, contact Troy Howard at (806) 489-7619.

4-H banquet scheduled

LAMESA (SC) — The Dawson County 4-H Horse Club will be holding their annual awards banquet Monday at 7 p.m.

Participants will be rewarded at this time for their accomplishments during the year.

The event will take place at the Forrest Park Community Center.

Latest inflation tally: 3.3%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Falling food and gasoline prices held inflation to an annual rate of 3.3 percent in August, the smallest rise in four months, the government said today.

Prices moderated across the board, except for medical care, the only component in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index that has risen substantially every month this year.

Largely responsible for August's 0.3 percent seasonally adjusted monthly increase were the 0.1 percent decline posted for gasoline prices and the 0.3 percent fall in food costs.

For the first eight months of 1982, consumer prices advanced at an annual rate of 5.1 percent. If that rate held steady for the rest of the year, the overall increase would be the smallest since the 4.8 percent rise of 1976.

Inflation was 8.9 percent in 1981 and 12.4 percent in 1980.

At the White House, deputy presidential press secretary Larry Speakes said today's announcement indicates "the inflation figure has returned to the excellent performance we had in the beginning of the year."

For the first three months of the year, consumer prices rose 1 percent.

This year's improved inflation forecast is largely the result of the stubborn recession, which has lingered longer than most economists expected.

Today's report said the 0.3 percent decline in food prices was largely the result of lower costs for beef, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Pork and poultry prices rose, while dairy prices were unchanged.

Supermarket food prices overall tumbled 0.6 percent, but prices for meals eaten out of the home and for alcoholic beverages climbed 0.5 percent.

Food prices, which held even in July, last declined in March, when they were off 0.3 percent.

Housing costs rose 0.4 percent last month, less than the 0.5 percent of July and well under the double-digit gains of the previous two months.

Police Beat

Woman arrested on assault warrant

Police said they arrested 34-year-old Helen Linda Phillips of 1707 Purdue yesterday on an aggravated assault warrant.

She was arrested at 4:02 p.m. and transferred to Howard County jail on a $5,000 bond set by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin, police said.

Police reports also showed the following:

- Danny Ray Light, 35, of a Howard House Hotel address, was arrested at 2:36 a.m. today on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. Peace Justice Bobby West set bond at $1,000. Light was transferred to county jail.
- Gilbert Gonzalez Jr. of 1004 Goliad was arrested at 10:30 p.m.

yesterday on suspicion of public intoxication, no driver's license and no liability insurance.

The arrest was made after the Mercury Cougar he drove east bound on the 800 block of Marcy ran off the road and landed in a culvert, police said.

- Bruce Dittmer of Box 3105 said someone stole his 1973 Ford LTD while he was in Betty Lou's Club, 1004 W. Third, about 7:15 p.m. yesterday.
- Police Officer Ed Covington said he confiscated a stop sign from 3309 Abilene about 11:50 p.m. yesterday. The resident of the trailer house, Toby Bryant, told Covington he found the stop sign on a county road about two weeks ago, police reports said.
- A Ford Fairmont driven by Cathy

G. Perez of 1600 Mesquite and a Ford Fairlane driven by Ana N. Stewart of 1209 Lindbergh collided at 8:28 a.m. yesterday at W. Highway 80 and Utah.

Ms. Perez was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital and Ms. Stewart was taken to Cowper Hospital. Both were treated and released, hospital spokesmen said. Police cited Ms. Perez for failure to yield right-of-way from a stop sign.

- A Chevrolet pick-up truck driven by James R. Wright of 606 Bucknell and a Ford pickup truck driven by Rodney D. Harris of 618 Colgate collided at S. Runnels and E. 11th at 2:15 p.m. yesterday. Wrightsil was cited for driving the wrong way on a one way street.

to go to the polls to cast ballots.

"I think people are tired of the campaign Clements and White are waging. I want to know what the issues are, but we don't seem to be hearing them," Hutzelman said.

Hutzelman lunched into three areas he feels are uppermost in the minds of Texans: economy, crime and education.

"In the economy people are worried about unemployment and utility rates. In the past special session the Legislature should have addressed the underlying problems of the unemployment fund rather than just patching it up.

"In the area of high utility rates we should encourage competition into the areas of phone service and electrical and gas power. More competition will drive prices down and create more efficiency in those companies already operating. Lubbock has two power companies at rates that are 15 to 20 percent lower than in other cities," Hutzelman said.

In the area of crime Hutzelman proposed repealing laws against what he called "victimless crimes" which would free police officers to concentrate on crimes against people and property.

"We don't need officers chasing down drug paraphernalia shops or adult book stores. This is not to say we endorse these kinds of places, it's just that officers are needed worse in other areas," he said.

Hutzelman advocates diversity in education. He said today's education system is an outdated assembly line in which students are not receiving a rewarding education.

"The solution I propose is to redirect the funding that each school district gets for each student and give it to parents in an educational voucher they can redeem at a school of their choice whether it be a private school, public school or whatever.

"This allows us to approach each kid in a unique manner and bring forth his needs and talents," Hutzelman said.

State appeals court denies assault mistrial

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A Mitchell County prosecutor's remark suggesting that defendant Ernest Luera could testify in his aggravated assault case did not warrant a mistrial, an appeals court said Wednesday.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the guilty verdict that netted a 12-year prison sentence for Luera, who had a previous felony conviction. Luera, who did not testify, complained that the judge at his trial should have granted his motion for a mistrial after the prosecutor remarked, "Mr. Luera can testify to that."

The judge instructed the jury that Luera was not required to testify. The appeals court said that "a bare allusion to the fact that the defendant can supply a certain fact is not always grounds for a mistrial." The court also noted that an instruction to disregard the remark can make a mistrial unnecessary.

Luera also made several other complaints about his trial, including a charge that the jury should have considered convicting him on a lesser offense. The appeals court disagreed, overruling all of his grounds for appeal.

Elk's Lodge planning chili-cookoff, art fest

A chili cook-off and art festival will be held Saturday, Oct. 23 at the Big Spring Elk's Lodge, 601 Marcy, Elk's Lodge Exalted Ruler Kerby Kees said.

Dubbed "Super Chili Cook-Off Bowl #1," the event will benefit the Elk's handicapped children's hospital in Octane, Tex., Kees said. The non-profit hospital provides free treatment to handicapped children upon recommendation from the Elk's Lodge, Kees said.

A total $500 in cash prizes will be awarded for the best chili and for showmanship, Kees said. The number of contestants is limited to 50, so entries will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis, Kees said.

Entry forms are available at the lodge from 3 p.m. to midnight, Monday through Saturday, Kees said. Entry fee is $10 and deadline is Wednesday, Oct. 15, Kees said.

The cook-off will kick-off at 8 a.m. with judging scheduled to begin at 3 p.m., Kees said. A "big chili feed" will follow from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. — $2.50 for adults and $1 for children — and a live band will provide dance music from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., Kees said.

The Big Spring Artists Assoc. and others will exhibit paintings and ceramics at the festival, Kees said. The lodge may be contacted by phone at 267-5322 for entry information, Kees said.

"We're hoping to make this an annual event," Kees said.

C-City bonfire starts early

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado High bonfire went up in flames prematurely yesterday, which didn't deter the homecoming rally last night.

Plas for more wood and lumber brought quick responses from citizens as pickup loads of donated materials were brought to the fair grounds to make the second woodpile even bigger than the first.

A teenager is thought to have started the first fire during the noon hour yesterday.

With a bigger bonfire, the football team, cheerleaders, band, flag corps, cheering students and automobiles lining both sides of old highway 80, the homecoming rally was termed a success.

It appeared things were going to get off to a rocky start as Shaw, a novice at goat judging, quickly huddled with Poole.

"How do you tell a good goat from a bad goat?" Shaw asked Poole.

"Just have a lot of fun with them," Poole said with confidence born of wisdom.

And off they went to judge.

Young nannies, older nannies, young billies and older billies were pulled, cajoled and paraded for the judge by contestants ranging in age from three to about ten. No one envied the judge surrounded by all forms of cuteness.

There was Jody Carper with his perfectly mannered young nanny called "PeeWee" or Libby Wallace who struggled mightily with her stubborn billie who just wanted to lay down and go to sleep or Lauren Middleton, the smallest competitor, tugging the smallest goat.

"I may need me a fast car to get out of here after this is over," Shaw said as he eyed the field.

As the competition progressed the goats got more stubborn and several of the contestants broke into tears over the antics of their goats. Although the contestants and the goats were getting tired the audience was loving every minute as smiles were abundant in the stands.

Finally it was over, to the relief of Shaw, the exhibitors and the goats.

But deep down inside they all knew they wouldn't have missed it for anything.

Jody Carper and PeeWee walked off with grand champion honors, while Leigh Ann Wallace took reserve grand champion.

The results of the goat show are as follows:

Grand Champion — Jody Carper
Reserve Grand Champion — Leigh Ann Wallace
Young Nannies — 1. Jody Carper; 2. Kim Middleton; 3. Tarah Schulke
Older Nannies — 1. Leigh Ann Wallace; 2. Becky Walker
Young Billies — 1. Dana Driver; 2. Jeremy Smith; 3. Lauren Middleton; 4. Libby Wallace
Older Billies — 1. Robert G. Haberl
Best Dressed — Tarah Schulke
Most Colorful — 1. Jeremy Smith; 2. Libby Wallace
Smallest — Lauren Middleton
Largest — Becky Walker
Showmanship — Jody Carper
Youngest exhibitors — Lauren Middleton, Jeremy Smith

Bomb blast precedes Gemayel's swearing-in in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Amin Gemayel became president today, only one hour after an arms depot belonging to his Christian Phalangist militia exploded, wounding several people and threatening to aggravate Lebanon's bloody strife.

A French detachment of 300 paratroopers raced to arrive by sea in the afternoon as the advance unit of the 3,000-man peacekeeping force reassigned to Lebanon to protect civilians. A massacre last week left hundreds of Moslem refugees dead at two west Beirut camps.

Israel, which invaded Lebanon June 6 to rout the Palestine Liberation Organization, blamed the massacre on its Phalangist militia allies avenging the Sept. 14 assassination of their leader, President-elect Bashir Gemayel, younger brother of the new leader.

Amin Gemayel took the oath of office before Parliament at the Lebanese military academy in suburban Fayyadieh, three miles east of Beirut. His reaction to today's blast was not immediately known.

The number and identities of casualties in the explosion could not be immediately determined, but local radio stations said civil defense workers warned people to stay out of the blast site Al-Abed square as ambulances raced there to rescue the injured.

Phalangist militiamen control the whole of east Beirut and the Christian hinterland in the mountains north and east of Beirut.

Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, who ordered his forces into west Beirut following Bashir Gemayel's death, said Thursday no Israeli soldier or commander took part in the three-day slaughter at the Chatilla and Sabra camps, where most of the residents were Moslems.

Sharon told angry legislators during a debate in the Israeli Parliament or Knesset that the army helped plan and support a Phalangist militia raid into the camps to flush out PLO guerrillas believed hiding there, but never expected "in our darkest dreams" the massacre of civilians.

Estimates of victims range from 300 by the U.S. government to 1,400 by the P.L.O. As of Wednesday the confirmed toll was 293.

In New York, the United Nations General Assembly announced it will meet in emergency session Friday to consider a Palestinian demand for an inquiry into the bloodbath. Lebanon so far has not called for such a probe.

After the massacre, the Lebanese government asked for the return of Western troops to avoid further bloodshed. About 1,800 U.S. Marines left Naples, Italy, on Wednesday aboard the U.S. helicopter carrier Guam and were expected to arrive off the Beirut coast Saturday.

It was not immediately clear how many of the Americans would go ashore, where they are expected to guard the capital's airport and harbor.

Beirut sources said 1,200 Americans would participate. A Pentagon spokesman, Air Force Lt. Col. Mark Foutch, said the number could be "somewhat more" than the 800 Marines involved in the same trination force that supervised the PLO evacuation from west Beirut in late August.

Italian infantrymen, scheduled to arrive Friday, will be posted at Palestinian refugee camps, although it was not immediately clear whether these included the camps where the atrocities occurred, the Beirut sources said. They said the French would help the Lebanese army secure the rest of Moslem west Beirut from withdrawing Israeli troops, now positioned along the five-mile arc of beaches around the city.

In Khartoum, Sudan, PLO chief Yasser Arafat told reporters during a one-day visit that America's honor "wallowed in the dust" because of what he called Washington's broken guarantee to protect Palestinian civilians after the 8,000 guerrillas withdrew.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin managed to defeat an opposition Labor Party motion in the Knesset for an official inquiry into the Beirut massacre by a 48-42 vote. He also defeated a motion condemning Israel's takeover of west Beirut 47-40.

A bitter Knesset debate erupted in pandemonium at times, while elsewhere both Arab and Jewish protesters staged strikes, burned tires and battled security forces to express outrage over the massacre.

Energy Minister Yitzhak Berman and Menachem Milson, civilian governor of the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, resigned to protest Begin's refusal to establish an immediate investigation. Begin's supporters say such a probe would

Black aviators They broke color barrier with WWII heroics

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the German Messerschmitt pilots of World War II, they were "schwarzfliegern" — black flyers.

For many a white bomber pilot in the American Army Air Corps, the painted red tails on the P-51 Mustangs signifying the all-black 332nd Fighter Group meant a guaranteed ticket home. There never was a U.S. bomber shot down while flying under the protection of the 332nd.

That record, according to the commander of the group who was later to become the Air Force's first black general, enabled President Truman to order the desegregation of the military in 1948.

"If you remember, the Air Force desegregated within months after Truman's order," said retired Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr. "Because our people had performed well in combat and demonstrated their ability, the acceptance of desegregation by the masses of whites in the Air Force was made much easier."

"It took the Army until Vietnam to desegregate, and maybe the Navy hasn't done it yet," Davis said.

Looking over a new exhibit on black aviation that opened Wednesday at the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum, Davis recalled being denied entry into flight school when he graduated from West Point in 1936.

"I was told it was because the Air Corps didn't have any black flying units and did not contemplate having any," he said. "It was only a political decision by Franklin Roosevelt in 1941 that directed the War Department to create a black fighter squadron."

The Smithsonian exhibit, titled "Black Wings: The American Black in Aviation," traces the relatively unknown history of black experiences in aviation from Eugene Bullard's service for France in World War I to the black astronauts assigned to the space shuttle.

The French awarded Bullard 15 medals, including the French Legion of Honor. But blacks in America still found themselves excluded from flight instruction solely on the basis of their race. At the outbreak of World War II, there were only 102 black licensed pilots in the United States.

"Blacks played a significant role in aviation but it's a story that's never been told before on such a scale," said Von Hardesty, the exhibit's curator. "Their achievements are even more heroic considering the obstacles they had to overcome."

Clarence D. "Lucky" Lester, a retired Air Force colonel and a member of Davis' group, recalled that the some 200 flyers in the 332nd were respected by white pilots, but that they never socialized together.

"White pilots were replaced after 50 missions, but because we were segregated and didn't have other units to draw from, we had to fly 65 to 70 missions. That meant we got shot at 20 more times, which was sort of tough when you couldn't even go into the officers' club," he said.

Davis said the relatively smooth desegregation of the Air Force "would not have happened" had it not been for the performance of the men in his four-squadron unit in World War II.

"You just couldn't have done it," he said. "Even today, when I meet people, they remember the red tails of the 332nd having permitted their bomber to get back home."

Honduras rebels free 21 of their hostages

SAN PEDRO SULA, Honduras (AP) — The release of 21 hostages from the chamber of commerce building where leftist rebels still hold 60 wealthy men has raised hopes that more might be freed today, the president's spokesman says.

No reason was given for the hostage release late Wednesday, but a government spokesman who requested anonymity denied any deal was struck with the guerrilla gunmen.

Officials said government pressure forced the rebels to reduce demands in exchange for the release of the two Cabinet ministers and 58 prominent businessmen still imprisoned in the cordoned-off building. The crisis entered its sixth day today.

Papal nuncio Andrea Cordero Lanza, one of the government's mediators, led 20 hostages to safety Wednesday night, hours after the leftist guerrillas freed a former Red Cross volunteer.

"I think that what happened today (Wednesday) cheers us and gives us hope that tomorrow the liberation of another large quantity of hostages can be produced," said Amilcar Santamaria, spokesman for President Roberto Suanzo Cordova.

Santamaria earlier said he believed an agreement to end the siege was near but reiterated that government forces surrounding the building did not intend to storm it.

He said the guerrillas had dropped demands that U.S. military advisers be ousted from Honduras and that the nation repeal its so-called anti-terrorism law.

Santamaria also said the rebels seemed less rigid about their key demand — the release of about 60 prisoners they claim are held for political reasons.

The government denies holding any political prisoners. It has also refused to disclose four other demands the guerrillas have laid down.

The heavily armed gunmen, identifying themselves as members of the Cinchonero Popular Liberation Movement, seized the building Friday and threatened to kill their hostages within 24 hours if all demands were not met. The deadline passed without bloodshed and no new one has been set.

More than 100 wealthy officials and businessmen were attending an economic conference in the building when about eight rebels seized it in a hail of bullets that left one guard dead.

About 20 hostages, mostly women, were released or escaped before Wednesday. The remaining hostages are men.

Economy Minister Gustavo Adolfo Alfary, Treasury Minister Arturo Corleto Moreira and Central Bank President Gonzalo Carías Pineda were among those still in the building early today.

The Cinchoneros are one of four guerrilla groups active in Honduras, the poorest nation in Central America. The government contends they are supported by guerrilla groups in neighboring El Salvador and the leftist Nicaraguan government.

Vietnamese say they'll release remains of MIAs

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese authorities say they will hand over some additional remains of American servicemen missing in action early next month, said a private American group which left Hanoi today.

The four-member mission of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia went to Laos where spokesman George Brooks was contacted briefly by telephone. Each member of the team had relatives missing from the war, he said.

Brooks, of Windsor, N.Y., said the league's request for joint missions of American and Vietnamese personnel to search for further remains was being "favorably considered."

He declined to give any further information on the remains to be returned in October, saying his mission wanted to further assess their eight-day visit to Hanoi, and "put things in perspective."

A U.S. official contacted in Bangkok said the remains to be returned probably were five sets retrieved earlier this year in Vietnam and announced by Vietnamese authorities to a visiting delegation of the Vietnam Veterans of America in May and June.

The Vietnamese then said that one of the bodies was identified as Gerald Patrick Frye, killed in 1967 in Ha Nam Ninh province, northern Vietnam, and three additional sets of remains were found at the same crash site, according to that report from Vietnam.

Another set of remains came from the northern Quang Ninh province, the report said.

U.S. officials estimate there are about 2,500 servicemen unaccounted for in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia from the Indochina War.

In July 1981 Vietnam handed over remains of three servicemen, bringing the total handed over to 75 since 1973, according to U.S. officials here.

The remains of Brooks' own son, shot down over Laos in 1970, were brought to Thailand early this year by Lao resistance forces.

Brooks said Lao authorities planned to take his group to the northeastern town of Viengsay Friday to talk with villagers who claimed they previously spoke to American POWs.

While in Hanoi, the mission met Vietnamese Vice Foreign Minister Vo Dong Giang, said Brooks. It also met with Western diplomats and toured the city, including the war museum.

Fearing asbestos, parents yank kids out of school

CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP) — Parents worried about asbestos insulation at an elementary school pulled 132 pupils from class, pledging to keep them home until the carcinogenic substance is removed.

About 35 parents gathered at the Denver School on Wednesday to demand that officials speed up removal of asbestos from the classrooms.

School officials contend that the health threat from asbestos used as insulation at Denver is minimal. But Juan Arambul, a spokesman for the parents, cited an Arizona Republic series last week on the hazards of asbestos which featured a picture of a Denver School classroom.

The school is one of 20 in the Phoenix area where officials reported finding asbestos during inspections requested by the federal Environmental Protection Agency last year.

Parents met with District Superintendent James Perry for an hour on the lawn outside the school before taking their children home.

"There will be no more meetings," said Arambul. "It's Dr. Perry's problem. Our kids aren't coming back until (the asbestos) is gone."

Some classes were interrupted when some of the parents went from classroom to classroom collecting children.

"We just found out about it 18 months ago, and we worked all summer removing the highest-content (asbestos areas) and those most accessible to children," he said. "We had a three-year removal plan, and we're going to finish it in two years."

Marine mission a risky one

It's a risk, but it may be a necessary one. President Reagan's decision to send U.S. Marines back into Lebanon with the peace-keeping force drawn from Italy and France was forced by the frightening events recently in Lebanon.

He is saying that the U.S. is concerned about what happens in west Beirut and Lebanon and intends to see that the bloodshed is no worse.

The decision will be harshly criticized by those who have opposed any action on grounds we are "getting involved," but there are also some who believe that the assassination of president-elect Bashir Gemayel, or the resulting massacre would never have taken place had the multi-national force remained in Lebanon in the first place

Of course, Reagan's action does not guarantee that violence will be held in check. What is wrong in Lebanon has its roots in all of the Mideast and the world political situation.

But the sending of the force shows that the West feels a responsibility and realizes the severe nature of the crisis.

And it also sends a firm message to Israel and Syria — that they must listen to reason and can not expect the United States and others to merely sit back and watch.

It's not an easy task, but this is a start.

Steve Chapman

Public works jobs return

In the middle of a recession, it's not surprising to see Democrats pushing their old panacea, public works jobs. The only surprise is that it's taken them so long. But federally financed make-work has finally raised its familiar head again, and it deserves to be cut off.

The bill passed last Thursday by the House would cost $1 billion and is supposed to create 203,000 jobs for workers currently unemployed. Those hired would be put to work repairing and maintaining bridges, roads, public buildings, public forests and the like. They would be paid "prevailing wages," not to exceed the equivalent of $10,000 a year — a maximum of about $4.80 an hour.

The rationale is to reduce unemployment. "We're not going to sit back while unemployment goes higher and higher," vowed Democratic congressional leaders when they unveiled the plan. Republicans denounced it, but hypocritically, they had offered another, more expensive version, which was defeated.

Anyone who has been trying to make sense of the Democrats' explanation of our economic troubles will have trouble fitting this piece into the puzzle. All along, they have blamed the recession on excessively high interest rates, which they blame on President Reagan's budget deficits. So the logical step for Democrats who want renewed prosperity is to reduce the deficit.

Logical, but not actual. If high interest rates are caused by deficits, then spending another billion dollars to create so-called public works jobs is bound to push interest rates higher still. That would make it harder for people to borrow, forcing businesses to close or cut back and putting employees out of work.

BY THE REASONING used to attack Reagan for the last 18 months, this legislation can best be described as a Democratic effort to destroy jobs. Or is it the Democrats' position that deficits caused by tax cuts produce recessions but deficits caused by spending increases foster prosperity?

They can't have it both ways. Since Reagan took office, they have forsaken their old mentor Keynes, who insisted that deficits are the perfect medicine for hard times. Instead, they have rallied under the banner of a balanced budget, which supposedly would relieve pressure on credit markets and slash interest rates.

This bill suggests that Keynes has been conveniently resurrected. It fits his theory that deficits serve a valuable purpose in a recession by stimulating the demand for goods and services, thus putting companies back in business and workers back on the job. A fine theory, honored by the Democratic party for two generations. The problem is that if deficits were the cure for recession, the economy wouldn't be in one now, and there would be no need for public works jobs.

ALL THAT ASIDE, the bill has plenty of flaws. The first is the premise that the government can create jobs out of nothing. It can't. All it can do is transfer them from the private to the public sector.

There are only three ways the government can get the money to pay its workers. It can print money — but that produces inflation and inevitable economic dislocation. It can tax — but that takes money that would have been spent or invested in the private sector, thus creating private jobs. It can borrow — but that drains money away from private borrowers, again inhibiting investment and spending.

Any jobs in public works come at the expense of private employment. That would be obvious if this bill were aimed at providing jobs for all 10.8 million unemployed Americans. Why don't the Democrats purpose that? Because even they know that the cost would be astronomical and the effect on the economy disastrous. Because this bill is less ambitious, it won't be disastrous — merely harmful.

In any event, its function is almost purely symbolic. If 200,000 new jobs were to be magically created, with no corresponding loss in the private sector, the number of unemployed Americans would be reduced by less than 2 percent, and the unemployment rate would drop by only two-tenths of a percentage point. The jobs themselves are dead ends, lasting for a maximum of 6 months.

But this critique presumes that the Democrats are genuinely interested in reducing unemployment. In fact, given a magic wand, Ted Kennedy wouldn't wave it at the economy at least until after Nov. 2 — and possibly not until two years later. With a Republican in the White House, a sick economy is the Democrats' best friend.

The important thing is that it will put the Democrats on record in favor of more jobs — as if the Republicans want fewer. That may warm the hearts of those voters who get misty-eyed from visions of a revived Civilian Conservation Corps, marching across the countryside humming Woody Guthrie tunes. But it will do nothing to improve the economy, and that is probably the idea.

Goin' bananas

How can people be so prejudiced? Our lazy friends in Hawaii would be disappointed, the nice folks in Ecuador would be dishonored and the natives on many South Pacific islands would start a pot of hot water boiling if they found out what's going on here.

It is truly a disgrace. A travesty. And you all ought to be ashamed. Really.

The source of this emotional upheaval is the blasted watermelon, which Guinness should label as "the most over-rated fruit in the world." Texans are particularly the guilty ones, worshipping this oversized pickle like it was Tom Landry or something.

Where all this attention should be directed, however, is to the poor, maligned banana. Eight inches of the best fruit ever thought up (and I don't mean by Del Monte, either).

"The bananer," yall drawl. "Waaat in ther heck is thaaat? Idn't it thaat long thang under three scoops of iiice cream ya git at tha Dairy Fairy?"

That's true, Cowboy Bob, but it's much, much more. That's what my buddies at the International Banana Manufacturers tell me. And you thought IBM only sold plain paper copies and electric typewriters. Yet another insult.

The fact is bananas are one of the most versatile fruit around. The only fruit that stay even in close competition are apples and oranges. But look at the promotion those fruits get. Adam put on a big advertising campaign for the former while Anita Bryant did all she could to put the latter on your kitchen table.

But the banana. Good for athletes to eat because it contains potassium which keep legs from cramping up. A nice, soft fruit that is easy for the false-teeth set to enjoy because they don't have to chomp, bite or get it stuck in their molars. And it's so handy, often getting mistaken for a telephone receiver and boomerang.

The definition is so pleasant... "a crescent-shaped fruit," the dictionary says. The only thing it says about the watermelon is that it is "a large melon." Gee, that sounds so appetizing. Just like liver, calf brains and eggplant.

Look at all the fun things you can do with bananas. You can lick a banana split. You can make a banana shake. You can cut some banana nut. Kids come for banana gum. I scream for banana cream.

Tell me, what else can you do with watermelon beside cut a half-moon slice and put your whole face into it, slurping and slushing around like a mop on a wet floor. Okay, there is watermelon bubble gum. But I talked to the folks at the gum factory and they said it was just something thrown together at the last minute, figuring to make some bucks off the watermelon-crazed people in our part of the country.

The strange part is the spring and summer rituals of melonheads. They haul in the biggest melons they can get — some that look like atom bombs, sit down cross-legged on the grass and begin to slurp. And slurp. And slurp. And slurp some more. Pretty soon, they look like water-melons themselves.

Then they stay up all night making 14 dozen trips to the restroom.

No one ever gets together for a banana-eating festival. A few brave souls do take the kids to the ice cream shop for a split. It's so much fun to get whipped cream on your nose and propel the little boat around the bathtub when you're through. Much more fun than having your hands stick to everything you touch and find seeds between your toes after you've polished off a five-ton water-filled rind.

And that's another thing (parden me, John Madden). Seeds. All you have to do is peel a banana. And throw the peel on the ground in front of a melonhead carrying his five-ton fruit and not looking where he's stepping. Melons have seeds. Millions of seeds. By the time the seeds are removed, the fruit looks like Swiss cheese. Who can sit around and eat Swiss cheese for three hours?

Here's the clincher. Tell me one product named after a watermelon? Come on. Think. What's wrong, melonhead? Drawn a blank?

That's because there isn't one. You think they would have come out with a Bic Watermelon. No way. Only a...ta da!...Bic BANANA! Who wants to write a letter with a watermelon in their hand. No one.

But you folks get carried away, still. Even at a football game. "Watermelon, watermelon, watermelon rind. Look on the scoreboard and see who's behind." A-ha-ha-ha-ha. That's so clever.

But bananas have been mentioned before, too. "Goin' bananas," is one. "Stick a banana in your ear, buddy," is another. And for all you melonhead sports fans, here's a rhyme... "Have you ever smoked a Cuban cigar, made by Al in Havana; is that your noze I see, my friend, or are you eating a banana."

And there's the No. 1 tunes. "Yes, We Have No Bananas" and "The Banana Song."

So quit monkeying around with bananas. Leave the melons in the patch and eat a banana. Don't look so Doleful, either. Watermelons can be dropped as the national fruit of Texas. Easy. And then it's "Viva la banana, mi Chiquita senorita!"

Oil weapon defused by greed

WASHINGTON — Try to fight back your tears: My sources tell me the Arab oil countries are in deep trouble, and are unlikely to pull out of it anytime soon.

Some analysts even go so far as to predict that OPEC — the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — is on the verge of collapse. A confidential White House memo I've seen put the situation bluntly, and with undisguised satisfaction: "The oil weapon has been laid to rest once and for all. The Cartel is dead. R.I.P."

Rest in peace, indeed. What makes the demise of OPEC's stranglehold on the Western industrial countries particularly gratifying is that it was brought about by the sheiks' insatiable greed.

By using their "oil weapon" as a gun at the head of the industrial nations, the OPEC sheiks not only helped bring on the recession that has cut down on their onetime customers' need for oil; they forced the victims of their monopoly to find alternative forms of energy to run their factories and heat their homes. Fuel-economical automobiles have replaced the profligate gas guzzlers that enriched the desert despots.

THE RESULT HAS been disastrous for OPEC, as illustrated by the sheiks' sales to their most important customer, the United States. In 1977, U.S. oil imports from the Middle East totaled 3.7 million barrels a day, or 20 percent of this country's oil consumption. During the first quarter of 1982, the United States brought only 1.1 million barrels of Middle East oil a day, or 6.9 percent of our oil needs.

OPEC has responded to the worldwide oil glut in predictable fashion: Individual members of the international cartel have broken ranks, selling oil at the best prices they can get behind the backs of their monopoly partners.

The reason, of course, is that they have to. Not only are the OPEC countries in danger of being undercut by non-members like Mexico, which is desperate for revenue from its oil resources, but they need the income themselves almost as desperately. Like Mexico, the Arab sheikdoms have committed themselves to ambitious development programs that were based on the now-untenable assumption that King Oil would reign supreme indefinitely.

Sources told my associate Lucette Lagando that Saudi Arabia is probably the OPEC nation that has been one of the hardest hit by the oil glut. For the Saudi princes, oil revenues spell the difference between rule and ruin.

The Saudi royal family is in a terrible bind. For years it has placated its subjects by sharing some of the desert kingdom's oil wealth in the form of social welfare programs, hospitals and housing. Given the extravagant lifestyle of the Saudi princelings and their retinues, this has been the only way the royal family can stave off revolution and ensure its own survival.

Now the money is no longer coming in at the old rate — but the Saudis must still continue their system of largesse. The Saudi government recently announced its budget for the coming year, and it shows an increase of several billion dollars, even though it is obvious that the country's one source of income — oil — is producing drastically less revenue than it used to. The government doesn't dare to reduce its domestic expenditures, for fear of revolution.

There's an additional, macabre dilemma faced by the Saudis: The Iran-Iraq war poses a threat to the Saudi regime the longer it continues. If Iran wins, its radical Moslem revolution could topple the Saudi regime. Yet supporting Iraq is costing the Saudis more than they can afford, while risking the Ayatollah Khomeini's wrath.

On the other hand, as long as the war continues, the Saudis can sell more oil, relieved of competition from Iran and Iraq, which are too busy fighting to pump oil. In fact, one source said: "If Iran and Iraq were to stop fighting, Saudi Arabia is finished."

In any case, one thing seems clear: OPEC's once-vaunted "oil weapon" is beginning to look more like a cap pistol every day.

Billy Graham

Can't communicate with parents?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a hard time communicating with my parents. We just seem to be drifting farther and farther apart. I know this is a common problem for teenagers, but is there anything I can do about it? — D.V.

DEAR D.V.: This has been, I am sure, a common problem throughout the ages, but there are pressures on families today which make it especially difficult. I am thankful you want to do something about it — it is far too easy to let things gradually get worse until there is little hope.

I want you to know that God is very concerned about your problem, and he wants to help you. First, if you have never given your heart to Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior, I hope you will make that step of commitment. Christ can give you a new love for your parents, and he can give you wisdom in ways to overcome the gap you feel between you. You can accept him into your life by a simple act of faith right now.

Then ask God to help you honor your parents and love them as you should. The Bible says, "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. 'Honor your father and mother' — which is the first commandment with a promise — 'that it may go well with you and that you may enjoy long life on the earth'" (Ephesians 6:1-3). Don't put your parents down, either by what you do or say, but let them know that you respect them and want to honor them.

Also, go to work on practical ways you can increase communication. Learn to be a good listener — there are times to speak, but there are also times to be quiet. Try to understand how your parents' opinions about various things, including decisions you may be facing. But remember that it is often difficult to communicate on larger issues when you have not made the effort to communicate about everyday matters.

Finally, remember that a close relationship develops not just when you talk to others, but when you spend time with them. Take the initiative, for example, to help around the house and show you are concerned about them.

I like dogs because they spill their beans. A dog is no compe of cagey inhibitions. A cat makes no mistakes but a dog starts in to make mistakes the minute you enter the door. He wags without thinking it over.

THE CHRISTIANS OF LEBANON

Their fractiousness adds to the Lebanese violence

By STEVEN K. HINDY
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Amin Gemayel, newly elected president by the Lebanese Parliament, represents but one faction of the nation's Christians, who were united in the 1975-76 civil war but later fell into murderous political and family feuds.

Divisions among the Christians, who have dominated Lebanon politically and economically since it became independent in 1943, are as much a problem for Gemayel's government as the rift between Christians and Moslems.

Christian animosities may have played a role in the assassination of Maronite Christian President-elect Bashir Gemayel — Amin's younger brother — and the massacre of Palestinians at the Sabra and Chatilla camps in Beirut last week.

No one has claimed responsibility for Bashir Gemayel's death. But high on the list of his enemies — along with the Palestinians and Moslems he had battled — were two prominent Maronites, former presidents Camille Chamoun and Suleiman Franjeh.

Gemayel's Phalange Party has blamed Israel's ally in southern Lebanon, rebel Lebanese Army Maj. Saad Haddad, a Greek Catholic, for the Palestinian massacre. Haddad has denied it.

Israel has blamed the Phalangists, while a shadowy group called the "Front for the Liberation of Lebanon from Foreigners" has claimed responsibility.

The Christians earned the adjective "rightist" from their resistance to political change. Under the 1943 National Pact, the president must be a Maronite Christian and the ratio of Christian to Moslem deputies must be six to five. Christians control all government institutions, including the army and the secret service.

The Maronites, the largest Christian group in Lebanon, take their name from a fourth-century Syrian-born monk named Marun, who like the Maronites lived in the Lebanese mountains.

The Maronite Church has been in full union with the Roman Catholic Church since 1736.

There has been no national census since the 1930s, but the Christians are believed by most Western diplomats here to have lost ground in the last 40 years to the growing Moslem community.

In the last count, Christians represented 51 percent of the population. There are 18 different religious sects in Lebanon.

These are the major Christian factions:

THE GEMAYELS

Pierre Gemayel, 77, the tall, ruggedly handsome patriarch of his family, founded the Phalange Party in 1936 after a visit to the Olympic Games in Germany. Established as a youth movement, it became the largest Christian militia, with 8,000 men under arms and massive military support and training from Israel.

The Phalangists — also known as the Kataeb — claim they can rally a force of 25,000 in wartime. Their forces are deployed in east Beirut and the mountains north and east of the capital.

Bashir Gemayel, who was 34, commanded the Lebanese Forces militia which linked up with Israeli invasion forces against the Palestine Liberation Organization this summer. Although he had talked of signing a peace treaty with Israel, Gemayel backed away from the idea after his election.

Amin Gemayel, 39, elected president Tuesday, is more of a behind-the-scenes operator and has kept up contacts with Palestinians and Moslems.

The Phalange dominates the so-called Lebanese Front, a coalition of Maronite leaders that includes Chamoun.

THE CHAMOUNS

Chamoun, 82, has been a member of parliament since 1939, and president of Lebanon from 1952 to 1958. He called in the U.S. Marines in 1958 to put down a Moslem revolt.

Chamoun's "Tigers" militia, named for his father Nimr ("tiger" in Arabic), fielded about 2,000-3,000 fighters during the civil war and put up some of the toughest resistance to a coalition of Moslem leftists and Palestinians.

The Tigers disbanded after being routed by Bashir Gemayel. Chamoun's son, Dany, who formerly commanded the Tigers, is in exile. Before his death, however, Bashir invited Dany Chamoun to return to Lebanon.

Chamoun, who had been regarded as Israel's candidate in the presidential race, withdrew from the race Monday and warned that a peace treaty with Israel would jeopardize Lebanon's economic and political ties with the Arab world.

THE FRANJIEHS

Suleiman Franjeh, from the northern Lebanese town of Zaghorta, was president of Lebanon from 1970 to 1976. It was he who asked the Syrian army to enter Lebanon to halt the civil war in 1976. He was allied with the Gemayels and Chamouns during the war, but his allies became disillusioned with the Syrian presence and finally fought against it.

The alliance dissolved after the murder of his son, Tony, by Phalangists in 1978, in one of the bloodiest incidents of Christian rivalry.

In the spring of that year, Franjeh's men killed a Phalange commander who tried to open an office in Zaghorta in revenge, the northern Phalange commander, Dr. Samir Geagea, led an assault on Tony Franjeh's summer house at Ehdn on June 13, 1978, killing him, his wife and son and 29 body guards.

Suleiman Franjeh blamed Bashir Gemayel, who characterized the massacre as a "social revolt against feudalism."

Franjeh has not supported Amin Gemayel, but his nephew Samir is in touch with Amin.

Franjeh's "Giants" militia, with an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 men, are concentrated in the Lebanese mountains east of Tripoli.

SAAD HADDAD

Isolated from his allies in the north during the civil war, Haddad allied with Israel against the Palestinians. In 1979, he proclaimed his six-mile-deep, 59-mile-long enclave on the Israeli border as "Free Lebanon."

The Beirut government accused him of treason. If the government can assert its control over the whole nation, the new president will have to decide whether to bring the renegade major to trial.

Haddad favors a peace treaty with Israel.

ETIENNE SAKR

Known as Abu Arz, which means "father of the cedar," Sakr commands about 500 "Guardians of the Cedars" militia. The former state security officer is a bitter opponent of the Syrians and the Palestinians, and has no feuds with his fellow Maronites. He currently is allied with the Lebanese Forces, the Phalange-dominated militia of the Lebanese Front.

White raps Clements tactics

Governor reminds voters of White's 1963 DWI arrest

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Texas Attorney General Mark White, the Democratic nominee for governor, confirmed he was arrested on a drunk driving charge 19 years ago but said it was sleazy for his Republican opponent to use that incident in current campaign literature.

A political newspaper called the Texas Spectator ran a story about White's 1963 arrest under the headline "He Showed His Talent Early ..."

The newspaper is prepared by Gov. Bill Clements' campaign staff and financed by the state Republican Party. Wayne Thornburn, executive director of the State Republican Executive Committee, said the newspaper was mailed to 1.2 million registered voters.

"This is the sleaziest campaign tactic I have ever seen," White said in a copyright interview with the Tyler Morning Telegraph. "I feel we should be focusing on the issues of today, but this governor refuses to do that. Gov. Clements has distorted the truth in every regard ..."

Clements, campaigning in El Paso, said, "I had full knowledge of (the report), but I'm not going to talk about it."

Tony Garrett, a Clements campaign worker, said the governor "approved the concept of the publication with the ... stipulation that every item that appeared be true and factual. He did not, however, play editor and check each item piece by piece."

White's press aide, David Lindsey, said the report shows "Clements is what he appears to be — an arrogant, mean, low type."

White, reached in Huntsville, said the 1963 arrest was "a lesson that has had a lasting effect on my life."

Athens police department records reveal White was arrested near the Henderson County Courthouse at 3:10 a.m. April 9, 1963 with partially full bottles of whiskey and tequila in his car, the newspaper said.

Municipal court records show White appeared June 17, 1964 and paid a $50 fine and $15.50 court costs on a reduced charge of public intoxication.

White said he was a 23-year-old Baylor University law student at the time.

"This sort of conduct has never happened on my part again ... one time was enough."

"I regretted it then and I regret it now," he said.

These students dig history

PLANO, Texas (AP) — If you're talking about history, students at the Schimelpfenig Middle School in this Dallas suburb can dig it — with shovels, that is.

More than 350 seventh-graders are sifting through their history lessons on their hands and knees, searching for relics in an archeological dig at an old Indian campsite.

The students started the dig, located in a park behind the school, with the help of teachers Cindy Sandell and Dale Wham.

The experience has prompted Jon Ballantine, 13, to aspire to be an archaeologist.

"I like digging around and looking for things the Indians left over," he said.

"This is more fun than what we do in regular class," said Jeff Monson, 12, as he recorded the finds for the day in his notebook, a class requirement.

The students are required to draw a map of the site and keep a diary explaining what their group has found. Students also are writing stories about what people 3,000 years from now might think if they discovered the remains of their school.

Mrs. Sandell said the kids are learning during their two-week expedition that uncovering history can be fun.

"We wanted the kids to have the experience of setting up a dig," she added, saying the students also will learn mapping and artifact recording skills.

Not all the history students get to go out each day to dig. One-third of the class goes outside to work at the site while the other students stay inside and work on classwork and library research.

During the classroom part of their course, the students study humans, tools and animals during the age when giant armadillos reportedly roamed the area.

Using two shovels, a pitchfork, a gardening spade and two homemade dirt sifters, students outside spend an hour shuffling in the dirt looking for remnants of the past.

So far, the kids have come up with a shard of old glass, several pieces of quartz and two small bones.

"We told the kids they probably wouldn't find anything," Mrs. Sandell said.

The students are divided into two groups — diggers and sifters. The diggers fill buckets with dirt they've scooped up, and the sifters pour the dirt through wire screens and search for artifacts.

"If you can do things like this, it will capture their interest and show them that history is lots of fun," Mrs. Sandell said. "History is all around you all the time, whether it's digging something up or just an old house."

Waco man loses club exclusion suit

AUSTIN (AP) — A Waco dentist who was suspended from his country club as a result of after-hours gin rummy games at the club lost his $1.58 million suit Wednesday in the Texas Supreme Court.

Thomas Lawrence sued Ridgewood Country Club and club directors, who suspended Lawrence for six months and fined him $757.

Lawrence, 35, sued for alleged wrongful suspension, libel and slander and interference with his business relations. He alleged that after the suspension his weekly income dropped from $2,081 to $1,451.

The dentist was among four persons penalized by the club as a result of after-hours gin rummy games at the club in January 1980. In his appeal, Lawrence said one of the other men in the 5-cent to 10-cent-a-point gin rummy games had admitted bringing in a bottle of Scotch and a six-pack of beer on two occasions after the club bar had closed.

The same man, according to Lawrence, had gotten into an altercation with the night watchman.

Lawrence said without any written complaints the club's executive committee recommended to the board of directors that Lawrence be expelled.

He sought $944,505 in projected business losses, $500,000 for damage to his reputation, $100,000 for stress and $25,000 because neither he nor his family could use the club for six months. He also sought his membership fee of $4,000 and $2,400 in dues that he had paid.

The trial court and Waco Court of Appeals rejected Lawrence's plea in summary judgments. The Supreme Court upheld those judgments Wednesday without writing its own opinion.

State high court upholds insurance rate decrease

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans buying credit life insurance could save between $20 million and $40 million in premiums after the state Supreme Court upheld a 1980 rate decrease.

The high court on Wednesday agreed with a lower court ruling that overturned an injunction keeping the lower rates from going into effect.

In 1980, an Austin judge ruled that the State Board of Insurance violated the Administrative Procedures Act when it did not conduct rate hearings on credit life insurance as a "contested action." A Houston automobile dealer, William Deffebach, had sued the board, saying the act would slash his commission on credit life insurance by $9,000 a month.

State District Judge Jim Dear granted Deffebach's request for an injunction, but last March an Austin appeals court reversed that ruling, calling the board's decision "harmonious" with the objectives of the state insurance code.

Time's running out to register to vote

The Nov. 2 general election is 41 days away, but the days remaining to register to vote in that election are only six.

According to election laws, one must be registered to vote 30 days prior to the election. Oct. 1 is the last day the Howard County tax assessor-collector's office will be open to register voters.

Dorothy Moore, tax assessor-collector, says anyone who has moved into the county and doesn't have the orange voter registration card should check with her office to see if they're qualified to vote.

Also, Ms. Moore said, if persons have moved within the county, they need to check with her office to ensure they are in the right voting precinct.

Ms. Moore said volunteer deputies are registering persons to vote at various places in the county. A booth at the Howard County fair this week is open to register persons to vote.

GM recalls Camaro, Firebird

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. will recall 173,000 1982-model Chevrolet Camaros and Pontiac Firebirds to install a reinforcement plate on the base of rear seat belt retractors, the company said Wednesday.

Front-seat belt anchorages are not involved, according to a statement released by GM.

GM said some of the recalled cars may not meet federal standards for seat belt anchorage. Although it has not received any reports of seat belt failure, the company said it is possible that the rear anchorage could pull out during a

Dr. Donohue

Guillaine-Barre syndrome

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please send me any information or answer in your column pertaining to Guillaine-Barre syndrome? I have this virus, but cannot get too much information about it. What is the virus causing it? What is the outlook for patients who get this? Is it fatal? — Mrs. E.M.

We don't know the cause of Guillaine-Barre syndrome, and do not know of any specific Guillaine-Barre syndrome virus, for example.

A virus connection is associated with it, however, for we know that people who develop the syndrome often do so following a virus respiratory infection, a vaccination or an intestinal infection. Once the infection has quieted down, the patient notices weakness in the feet and legs. That can progress to a paralysis, which can creep upward from the legs to affect the breathing muscles. That is an extreme example of Guillaine-Barre, and it is why some people must be placed on an artificial respirator, which does the breathing for them.

So, since Guillaine-Barre is more of a viral infection aftermath, treatment for it is not specific, but one to support the person during the period of paralysis. That may be mild and be limited to the feet and legs only, although the respiratory complications are always carefully watched for.

Most people make a complete recovery, but the recuperation period can be lengthy and involve physical therapy to regain lost muscle strength. Rarely has the disease caused death, and rarely is the paralysis permanent. I hope that by now you are in the recovery phase of the illness and are able to participate actively in your exercise therapy.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read your article about two months ago regarding the heart, in which you said there are two separate hearts. I told some of my friends this and they just cannot believe this. Would you please explain for me? You said one heart pumps blood to the body and the other pumps it to the lungs. — R.J.

You are not the only one who has written about this. In trying to make things medical seem simple, one always stands in danger of totally unexpected misunderstanding.

Here's what I meant by saying you have "two hearts." I meant that you have a right heart and a left heart, but that they are joined together like a duplex house. The right side of this duplex structure pumps blood to your lungs. The left side pumps blood to your body. They could just as easily have been actually separate organs and have worked just as well, but they aren't. You really do have only one heart with two sides, a right and a left.

Beyond promising you that I shall never use such an analogy again without qualifying it, I want to ask you to forgive me for any embarrassment I may have caused you because of this misunderstanding. The booklet "How to Take Care of Your Heart" may help you in further understanding, and is on the way. Other readers who want it can order it by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been taking Meclomen for arthritis. It has helped, but I would like to know more about the medicine, side effects, etc. — Mrs. W.W.D.

Meclomen (meclufenamate) is an arthritis medicine similar to aspirin in effectiveness. It decreases joint inflammation and it is also a pain reliever. How it actually does these things is not really known.

Don't let that surprise you. There are many drugs about whose action we are not entirely clear. They just work.

Sure, this has POTENTIAL side effects. Every medicine does. Those include abdominal pain and diarrhea. It may cause ulcers and anemia. However, if you are taking it under a doctor's watchful eye and taking what he prescribed, don't worry.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Teens escape marked past

DEAR ABBY: You recently publicized a program to remove gang-related tattoos from juveniles. This project was inspired by Dr. Karl Stein, a Los Angeles plastic surgeon, and his attorney wife, Sandra.

As a result of your column, the Steins received more than 1,000 letters. Many young people were found to be good candidates for removal of graffiti-like tattoos and are now free of this gang stigma. Because so many teenagers wanted to get "untattooed," a 15-minute film titled "Untattoo You" was produced by our school district and a local cable TV company. It focused on the dangers of amateur tattooing, and showed how difficult it was to remove small tattoos from hands and faces as well as larger tattoos from backs, stomachs, arms, etc. The "stars" of this film were the juveniles themselves, candidly discussing the reasons they were tattooed and why they wanted to have them removed.

This film won first place in a national cable educational film competition.

We also plan on making the film available for national distribution to other school districts and community-service agencies working with juveniles.

A non-profit foundation is being established to pay for film copying and mailing costs. For information regarding this film, interested parties may write to me directly:

DEAR ABBY: Much has been written in your column about the health hazards of smoking and drinking, but there's another habit I never see mentioned — chewing tobacco! My husband has this habit. The effect on his breath, teeth and gums is awful, not to mention what it must do to his mouth and stomach. (I know he's not supposed to swallow it, but since it's impossible to spit in church or other public places, what else can he do?)

He's a very considerate man, and he doesn't keep six or seven cans around the house to spit in, but every time I want to lean over and give him a big fat kiss, I see a big lump in his cheek, so I lean over in the other direction and forget it. I love him, but when I see him put that pinch between his cheek and gum, I'd like to slug him.

Am I the only woman who feels that way?

TURNED OFF IN TEXAS

DEAR TURNED OFF: I'm sure you're not. But don't be so quick to assume that only men chew tobacco. Some women have the habit, too.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle an argument for me. My friend says anybody who wants to attend a wedding that's held in a church may attend, and nobody can keep him out because a church is a public place. Of course, the wedding reception is something else, and unless a person has been invited to the reception, he can be kept out. What do you say?

CONFUSED BRIDESMAID

DEAR CONFUSED: All churches are open to the public. And unless the wedding is that of a celebrity, the public may attend. However, to protect celebrities and public figures from curiosity seekers, the invited guests are asked to present their invitations at the door. Then ushers are posted at all the doors along with security guards to eliminate the gate-crashers.

People with good manners go only where they're invited.

If you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

First Christian Church site of bridal shower

The parlor of the First Christian Church was the site of a bridal shower honoring Tracy Dykes, bride-elect of Roy Don Beauchamp.

Hostesses for the Sept. 11 event were Mrs. James Averette, Mrs. John Birdwell, Mrs. Darrell Blagrave, Mrs. John Burgess, Mrs. Cleo Carlile, Mrs. (Judy) Kevin Carlson, Mrs. E.H. Cox, Mrs. James Drake, Mrs. Lee Freeze, Mrs. Haskell Holland, Mrs. Collin Reese, Mrs. Billy Sanders and Mrs. Tom Vernon.

Hostesses presented the bride-elect with cookware. Guests were registered at a polished wood table with the Rev. Victor Sedinger officiating.

Corsages of pink and burgundy carnations were presented to the bride-elect, the bride's mother, Mrs. Jeff Alexander, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Walter Beauchamp Jr.

Miss Dykes and Beauchamp will wed Oct. 2 in the First Christian Church with the Rev. Victor Sedinger officiating.

SPECIAL DAY — The Scenic Chapter of American Business Women's Association celebrated American Business Women's Day yesterday. Mayor Clyde Angel presented Mary Ann Davis, right, chapter president, with a proclamation marking the day in Big Spring. Martha Esquibel, in the booth, is selling soft drinks at the Howard County Fair to benefit the chapter's scholarship fund.

Aging parents course topic

"As Parents Grow Older" will be the theme of a six-week course scheduled from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Mondays, beginning Oct. 4, at Malone-Hogan Hospital, according to Emily Ward, director of public relations at the hospital.

The course will be conducted in the private dining room of the hospital, Mrs. Ward said.

The new program is designed to offer information and support to adult children facing for the first time the responsibility for caring for dependent parents.

"It's a myth that the children of elderly parents don't care about them," Mrs.

Ward said.

"It doesn't take very long to find out how little we know about how to help our parents. We experience anger and frustration, then feel guilty about it. We try taking on the parental role, and experience failure. If decisions have to be made about changing living arrangements for our parents, we find we aren't prepared to make them."

"And, oh, how we'd like to do a better job of handling it. For our parents' sakes, and for our own."

The pilot program is sponsored by the social services and nursing services department of the hospital. Co-facilitators for the course are Carolyne Smith, R.N., and Karen Stevens, R.N. Both women underwent extensive training under the auspices of the Texas Association of Home for the Aging.

The program format will combine audio-visuals, films, and informational materials that will be helpful to those who attend the sessions to understand the emotional and physical aspects of aging, the chronic illnesses and behavioral changes associated with age, the loss of sight and hearing, how to make good decisions regarding adapting or changing the home of aging parents, how to use community sources, i.e., nursing homes, home health care, medicare and Medicaid benefits, and housing.

Those interested in attending the sessions may call Malone-Hogan Hospital, 263-1211, ext. 110, and leave their names.

The last session, Nov. 8, deals with the situation of each participant and feelings surrounding it.

The group will be limited to 10 or 12 people. Acceptance into the group will depend upon need, and upon the ability to contribute to the needs of other members of the group, Mrs. Ward said.

Homemakers attend meet

EL PASO — Several members of the Texas Extension Homemakers Association from Howard County participated in the association's annual professional meeting in El Paso Sept. 14-16.

Attending the sessions were three delegates, Hattie Swann of Coahoma Club, Alta Lee Underwood of City Club and Myrl Soles of Elbow Club. Also attending was Frances Zant of City Club.

Approximately 900 members from across Texas participated in the session, the 56th annual meeting of the homemaker organization. Mrs. Billie H. McCraw of Raymondville, president, presided at business sessions.

Among key speakers were Dr. Zerle Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System; Dr. Jennie C. Kitching, Extension's assistant director for home economics, both of College Station; Dr. Wanda Bigham, director of the office of instructional systems in the Department of Education at Morehead State University in Morehead, Ky.; and the Rev. Donald Anderson of San Antonio.

Other highlights included a series of workshops and learning sessions, along with business meetings and tours to historical sites in El Paso-Juarez area.

The Texas Extension Homemakers Association has members in 1,326 clubs in 250 Texas counties. During the past year, members have reached and taught more than 100,000 other homemakers through a variety of educational programs.

No play but networks pay

Weekend without football becoming a reality

"Slip slidin' away; slip slidin' away; you know the nearer you get your destination, the more you're slip slidin' away."

That's borrowed from Paul Simon but it's a tune the Atlanta Braves are humming these days it seems. The magic number is down to eight for the Dodgers and unless the Braves can heap um big evil eye on L.A., Ted Turner will have to go to Hawks basketball practice instead of munching on popcorn at the World Series.

Otherwise, the clutch Cardinals, bat-happy Brewers and amazing Angels are headed towards the divisional playoffs.

What happened at Midland Friday night? Did the real Estacado stand up or is Big Spring for real?

After getting nowhere on offense against the Steers, the Mats roamed the wide-open range in a 23-6 win over the Bulldogs. That dropped Midland to No. 3 in defense.

And guess who's still second? Big Spring. How 'bout that. Permian — by strangling, smothering, choking and otherwise destroying Fort Worth Wyatt — vaulted to No. 1, giving Mojo the top defense and offense in the league.

Jay Pirkle — with his 44 yard average Friday — is back at No. 3 in the league in punting. Not bad for a sophomore.

Steers need to get offense going tomorrow against Abilene High which currently stands at the bottom of the 4-AAAAA heap in that department. Danny Stephen will be back after taking a sidelines vacation at Levelland.

Last year, AHS beat Big Spring in the final minute of play. That minute was turned into 365 days for several Steers. Expect a lot — even more than that — of hitting at Memorial Friday.

Speaking of vacations, that's what the Big Spring Red Sox took recently. Traveling to Ojiwaga, Mexico, the Sox closed their season with a 1-0 and 11-8 doubleheader sweep of a group of all-stars.

Frank Rubio tossed a no-hitter in the first game and Mechie Sarmiento smacked a two-run homer in the second game as the Red Sox finished at 20-3 for the year.

Thanks goes to team spokesman Bill Diaz who kept us informed on Sox throughout the summer.

News comes again from our resident national champion trapshooters.

Mike Coleman finished second and Kelly Rogers third at the South Texas Open Olympic Clay Pigeon Shoot last weekend at Lackland AFB in San Antonio.

Coleman hit for a 185x200 score to finish right behind Randy Gates (186x200) who shoots for the Army and is Coleman's teammate on the U.S. Trapshooting Team. Rogers stayed right up there with the big boys, breaking 184 of 200 targets. He was high overall junior at the shoot.

Don't forget to munch down on a hamburger before the Big Spring-AHS football game. Mesquite-broiled burgers, made by the Downtown Lions, will be fired up from 5-7:30 p.m. at the Howard College cafeteria just for Steer fans. Eat a Steerburger for just $3 for adults and $2 for kids.

And there's the third annual Hawk Walk Saturday at Howard College. Proceeds go to HC athletic teams, rodeo team and cheerleaders. Sign up your sponsors and support HC.

And you golf nuts. Remember the LaJet is coming up soon (Oct. 4-10) in Abilene. The list of golfers committed to playing the Fairway Oaks course include Tom Watson (the pro, not my boss here at the Herald), Ray Floyd, Lee Trevino, Lanny Wadkins, Jody Miller and Tom Kite.

Last year's event was won by Tom Weiskopf who will be back to defend his title. All will be aiming for the $63,000 first prize money.

From the way the weather looked this past week, you couldn't ask for a better way to enjoy a sunny afternoon.

ABC was supposed to telecast a National Football League game tonight. The game won't be played, but the network will pay the league regardless in a move the players' union leadership says is designed to scare striking players.

CBS and NBC also will pay for games this weekend and next even if there is nothing to show. Tonight's Atlanta-Kansas City game was called off Wednesday by the NFL and the rest of the third weekend was in danger of falling victim to the league's first in-season walkout.

"All 28 teams will receive full TV payments for two weeks," Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and a member of the NFL television committee, said Wednesday. "At least two weeks, maybe more, it's open-ended."

But NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that if the strike lasts more than two weeks, the networks would stop paying. He also said that the networks' two-week losses would be recovered next year.

"It is evidence of the league and networks working together to scare the players," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association. "It is part of their effort to weaken the players' resolve. It won't work."

The league will collect $30 million to $32 million from the networks in the next two weeks. Although the NFL was unable to buy strike insurance — as team owners did during last year's baseball strike — it has a $151-million line of credit with a consortium of banks.

The NFL's decision marked the first time in the 63-year history of the league that a game was halted by a strike. The players walked out Tuesday because the union and the club owners were unable to complete a collective bargaining agreement to replace the one which expired July 15.

Negotiations broke off Friday and none are scheduled. The first sign of a possible crack in the solidarity of the union came from New Orleans, where team player representative Russell Erxleben said he was polling members of the Saints to see if they wanted to continue to go along with the union demand for a wage scale.

Jack Donlan, executive director of the Management Council, which handles the bargaining for the club owners, predicted at a news conference Tuesday that many players would tell their leaders that they would settle for the money management had offered and ask the union to drop the wage-scale demand.

"I have already spoken to a number of the Saints and they are behind me about abandoning the wage scale," said Erxleben. "I am still in the process of contacting the team. If the majority is against it, I will call up and say, 'Hey, Ed (Garvey), my team doesn't want it anymore.'"

"I think somebody has got to step out and do something. If the players want the wage scale, fine. But I think there are a lot of people thinking like we do.

"Let's see how gung-ho they (the players) are on the wage scale thing," he said. "I've talked to several player representatives around the league and they're not hung up on it. They want to play ball."

Cincinnati linebacker Reggie Williams supported Erxleben's contention.

"I do not believe in this strike," said Williams. "I do not believe in the wage scale. I did not sign the strike authorization. It would be an easy decision for me to be playing with my current salary and the offer management has on the table. It's better than sitting here unemployed and getting abuse in the community."

A trickle of players defied the union Tuesday in showing up at training camps, but found them closed. No one showed up Wednesday. Several team members did say they would stage workouts on their own.

Gene Upshaw, president of the players association, said he had approved unofficial practices for Los Angeles Rams players, which are being organized by that team's player representative, linebacker Carl Ekern.

"The players can remain in good shape," Upshaw said, "and probably in better shape than they did in training camp. They know what's going to happen when they go back, that things will be tough. They don't want to lose that edge."

Detroit Lions player rep Stan White said members of that team were "going to meet five or six days a week to work out. We've got facilities, both indoor and outdoor, at our disposal. We hope the workouts will be as much like our normal ones as possible, except we can't have any equipment or full contact."

Lamar Hunt, owner of the Chiefs and a founder of the American Football League, said he is confident the 28 teams could round up enough players to resume the season. He estimated that 20 percent of the players on strike would cross pftket lines and the rest of the rosters could be filled out with free agents and players cut in training camps.

"I think there are probably five players on the roster of the average team who won a job in training camp by the skin of their teeth," said Hunt. "I think they'll come in. I think five of the highest-paid players will come in because they're taking the shaft in the wage scale."

If games are played with fill-in players, Cleveland's Ozzie Newsome already has decided what he'll do. "I'd be gone back home to Birmingham and the USFL," said the tight end.

Cowboys united by strike

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Danny White said he's never seen the Dallas Cowboys more united than on the current strike by the NFL Players Association.

The Cowboys have been considered one of the less union-oriented teams in the National Football League, with some people predicting many of its players would break at the start of a strike. But White said that's been proven wrong.

"People talk about the Cowboys being one of the weaker teams. They say we're only united on the football field, but this is the strongest stand I've ever seen this team take off the field on any issue," White said after a team meeting Wednesday that all but two players attended.

The Cowboys met for an hour and 15 minutes Wednesday at the Aerobics Center in north Dallas, which was made available to them at no charge, and player representative Robert Newhouse said, "We had a good, positive meeting."

The only players missing were defensive end Harvey Martin, who told player representative Newhouse he couldn't make it, and wide receiver Tony Hill, whose whereabouts were unknown.

The Cowboys scheduled their first practice for 10 a.m. today at the Cotton Bowl. Only the quarterbacks, receivers, running backs and defensive backs — those involved in the passing game — were expected to attend the informal practice.

White was an outspoken critic of the union last May, but said the owners' unwillingness to negotiate swung him to the union side.

"I'm not a politician. I've pretty much kept my opinion to myself until the last couple of weeks when I became sure of how I felt. There are no breaks in the strength of our team. At this point, we're very unified and solid and realize the strike may last a while," White said.

"I was one of those in May or June who wasn't completely sold on the union concept, but I have become sold on it. I've become convinced the union offer is not the reason for the strike. I'm not necessarily 100 percent in favor of the proposal, but I'm in favor of their attitude and their willingness to bargain."

Texas loses; Cal wins

OAKLAND (AP) — These are the drab days of September for baseball's non-contenders, but there was something special about Wednesday night's game for Oakland A's righthander Steve Baker.

The 26-year-old Baker hadn't won a major league game since May 1, 1979 for the Detroit Tigers against the Chicago White Sox, so he was delighted following a 5-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Baker, 1-1, blanked the Rangers on five hits for seven innings and gave way to reliever Dave Beard in the three-run eighth, a rally featuring Nick Capra's solo homer, his first major league hit.

"It was just a matter of getting back to the majors," said Baker, who was signed by the A's as a free agent this spring and posted a 13-5 record with a 2.48 ERA for Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League.

Baker, still without a complete game after 24 major league starts, was staked to a 30 lead. The A's scored three runs off Mike Smithson, 3-3, in the fourth and chased the Texas pitcher with two runs in the fifth.

Singles by Dwayne Murphy, Jeff Burroughs and Wayne Gross started the scoring and Davey Lopes capped the three-run rally with a triple. Doubles by Rickey Henderson and Mike Davis and a single by Tony Armas made it 5-0.

American League

Angels 8, Royals 5

The California Angels smashed an American League attendance record and possibly the Kansas City Royals' pennant hopes in one fell swoop.

"All I know is that the whole world just saw an 8 1/2-inning doubleheader," said California Manager Gene Mauch following his Angels' 8-5 triumph over the Royals Wednesday night. "That (win) was the difference between three games and one game."

His reference was to his team's three-game lead over the fading Royals in the AL West following a sweep of their three-game series in Anaheim. The teams began their big showdown three days ago tied for first. Both have 10 games left to play, including three against each other at Kansas City next week.

Brewers 3, Red Sox 1

Mike Caldwell pitched a four-hitter and Ben Oglivie drove in two runs with a homer and double to lead Milwaukee over Boston. Caldwell, 17-11, walked one and struck out three as he won his 10th game in his last 11 decisions.

Blue Jays 3, Twins 2

Damaso Garcia, the fourth Toronto batter to walk in the 10th inning, forced home the winning run as the Blue Jays beat Minnesota.

Jim Clancy, 14-14, went the distance for the Blue Jays and allowed just five hits.

Indians 5, Yankees 0

Rick Sutcliffe and Ed Glynn combined on a two-hitter and Mike Hargrove scored three runs and cracked three hits, including an RBI single, as Cleveland blanked New York.

Sutcliffe, 14-6, extended his scoreless-innings streak to 24 and lowered his earned run average to 2.85, best among AL starters, in winning for his third straight game.

Mariners 8, White Sox 4

Bruce Bochte, Manny Castillo and Todd Cruz belted homers, leading Seattle past Chicago.

Right-hander Bob Stoddard, 3-1, and reliever Ed Vande Berg benefitted from three double plays. Vande Berg, gaining his fifth save in his 73rd game, tied the American League record for most appearances by a rookie set by Doug Corbett of Minnesota in 1980.

Abilene High at Big Spring — A clash of two teams that won two of three preseason games...Eagles upset No. 10 rated Longview 20-15 in their last contest while Big Spring blanked Levelland 10-0 for first shutout since 1977...this game last year was a disaster for the Steers...Big Spring No. 1 running back Bobby Earl Williams for the season and then lost the game when Abilene scored in the final minute of play...Big Spring then dropped its six remaining games to finish 2-8...Eagles led by running back Ron Lewis who is second in district rushing with 366 yards and has scored five touchdowns...only comparison to date, Big Spring and Sweetwater played even in scrimmage and the Mustangs upset Abilene in non-district game...Steers have Danny Stephen back for this one to go along with league's No. 2 defense...Big Spring remembers last year and that's the difference. (Game time is 8 p.m.) BIG SPRING 14, ABILENE 10

from the Coogs who are a good team despite standing 1-2...this is an upset special as the Coogs running tandem will do all right but QB Tommy Tarr will toss Cooper to victory. COOPER 21, SAN ANGELO 14

Midland at Permian — What happened to the Bulldogs last week...or better yet, did Estacado rediscover itself...Permian has been awesome in the early goings, flashing its offense around like never before...and then there's the defense which allowed Wyatt little close to nothing...Estacado burned the 'Dogs with speed and Mike Troglin, the league's top rusher, may have a field day...Midland, however, will play Permian its toughest game to date. PERMIAN 21, MIDLAND 7

Midland Lee at Odessa — So much for all I heard about El Paso Eastwood...sorry Rebel fans, I didn't believe this week I do believe...Lee is getting stronger each week but don't underestimate the Broncos, their defense doesn't give much many points...that's why this one should be good...still, the Rebels will rise again, even if it is in Odessa. LEE 17, ODESSA 6

NFLPA says league won't pay salaries

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League Players Association has criticized the league for not paying the salaries of players who were injured when the union called its walkout, it was reported Thursday.

medical bills for the injured players but have refused to pay their salaries, according to the New York Daily News.

"Pete Rozelle is fond of talking about the integrity of the game," the News quoted an unnamed union spokesman as saying. "But where is their integrity now? We don't think it's fair or legal, but looking at the league's record, looking at the number of injury grievances for players who were injured when they were released, we expected such a move from the owners."

The owners have agreed to pay

Hot Astros do it again

HOUSTON (AP) — The Atlanta Braves may be able to start challenging the Los Angeles Dodgers for the National League Western Division title now that they've completed their series with the Houston Astros.

With the help of seldom-used shortstop Craig Reynolds and rejuvenated relief pitcher Frank LaCorte, the Astros defeated the Braves 3-2 for the sixth straight time Wednesday night and seriously jeopardized their chances in the pennant chase.

The Braves appeared ready to break the Astros hold when they took a 2-1 lead into the seventh on a second inning single by Jerry Royster and a fifth inning hit by Rafael Ramirez.

But the Astros mystique against the Braves started in the fifth when Alan Ashby singled and scored on an error by first baseman Chris Chambliss. Houston tied it in the eighth inning on a single by Bill Doran after Jose Cruz had reached base on an error by relief pitcher Gene Garber.

The winner came in the eighth when Reynolds, beaten out by Dickie Thon this season, tripled and scored the game-winner on a single by Phil Garner.

Padres 2, Dodgers 1

San Diego kept Los Angeles from extending its lead in the West as Alan Wiggins' one-out single to center field in the 10th inning knocked in the winning run.

Joe Pittman led off the 10th with a single off Tom Niedenfuer, 3-3, and

National League

Expos 11, Phillies 4

Chris Speier drove in a team-record eight runs with a bases-loaded triple, a three-run homer and a two-run single as Montreal dampened Philadelphia's pennant hopes.

The eight RBI broke the Expos' record of seven, shared by four players. Gary Carter also homered for Montreal, his 29th of the season.

Bill Gullickson pitched a five-hitter and struck out nine to even his record at 12-12.

Giants 2, Reds 0

Renie Martin and Al Holland combined to shut out Cincinnati on two hits, while Milt May and Johnnie LeMaster had run-scoring singles for San Francisco.

Reds starter Mario Soto, 13-12, was saddled with the loss although his nine strikeouts tied Philadelphia's Steve Carlton for the major-league lead with 259.

Mets 5, Cubs 2

Ron Gardenhire collected three hits and drove in a run, Brian Giles homered and Scott Holman earned his first major-league victory as New York broke Chicago's six-game winning streak.

Holman, 1-1, allowed six hits, walked two and struck out two in 7-2/3 innings. Giles hit his homer and Gardenhire singled in a run in the second inning, when the Mets scored three times to take a 5-0 lead.

was sacrificed to second by Broderick Perkins. Wiggins' game-winning single came off reliever Steve Howe.

Luis DeLeon, 8-5, picked up the victory with two innings of one-hit relief.

The Dodgers only run came in the fifth inning on Mike Marshall's solo homer off Padres starter Tim Lollar, who gave up only five hits in eight innings.

Cardinals 2, Pirates 1

Tommy Herr's RBI single with one out in the eighth inning boosted St. Louis past Pittsburgh and gave the Cardinals a 5 1/2-game lead over Philadelphia in the East. Any combination of six St. Louis victories and Phillies losses would give the Cardinals the division title.

Steve Braun's pinch-hit double in the eighth started the Cardinals' winning rally. Tito Landrum pinch-ran for Braun and raced home with the game-winner when Herr laced his hit to left field off Pirates starter Rick Rhoden, 11-13.

Dave LaPoint, 8-3, scattered eight hits in eight innings, and Bruce Sutter pitched the ninth to gain his 35th save.

The Cards' first run came in the third on Ken Oberkell's second homer.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 24, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to take no chances by neglecting routine duties. Pitch in and quietly finish whatever small tasks you have already begun. Make plans to have a more successful life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An early start on those duties ahead of you sees you completing them quickly and efficiently. Become more dynamic.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take time to make yourself more charming for the busy social days ahead. Your surroundings should be improved.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Accumulated tasks at home should be completed first before starting on a new project. Strive for more harmony at home.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get busy on work you didn't have time for earlier in the week. The weekend can be a most happy one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Figure out details connected with a new project you have in mind. Plan a more practical budget for the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyze yourself and your possessions and decide where and how to make any needed improvements. Don't neglect good friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many tasks to handle and this is the right day to get started on them. Show more thoughtfulness for loved ones.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Making new and constructive plans for gaining personal aims brings good results at this time. Sidestep a foe.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good day to become involved in civic work that could add to your prestige. Be wary of newcomers.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new outlet that appeals to you requires more study before putting it in operation. Express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle unfinished tasks before the weekend begins. Avoid a person who likes to waste your valuable time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talks with associates now can help bring a better understanding. Steer clear of an individual who is jealous of you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a wise person who can gain the best of the past in combination with the best of the new, and can be very successful in life. A person who understands the worries and needs of others. Spiritual training is a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta's Al Davis, boss of the Los Angeles Raiders, says the National Football League's owners and players should agree to binding arbitration as a means of settling the 3-day-old strike.

Davis, in Washington to testify before Congress and lobby against antitrust legislation that could return the Raiders to Oakland, said the "system of negotiation is making it tough to reach a settlement," according to a report in today's editions of the Washington Post.

"The idea should not be to defeat the players," said Davis. "What we have is a system in which you have a committee who have hired a negotiator. They have a gag rule which doesn't allow anyone else to make a contribution."

"The commissioner (Pete Rozelle) should get into it now and there should be negotiations night and day. If that doesn't work, both sides should agree to a higher body which would be neutral and objective."

Rozelle was unavailable for comment. A league spokesman said he is monitoring the situation, but has no plans to become directly involved.

The NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining unit, has said it is opposed to binding arbitration. It has proposed the involvement of a federal mediator to the negotiations, but the union has rejected that idea.

No negotiations are scheduled.

Joe Browne, the NFL's director of information, said union demands that Rozelle come to the bargaining table would undercut Jack Donlan's authority as chief negotiator for the owners.

Schoolboy stars shine

Corpus Christi Carroll football Coach Butch Gilliam affectionately refers to linebacker John Trevino as "Wildman."

Following his performance in a 14-0 shutout of Wharton last week, it's easy to see why.

Trevino, a 5-10, 160-pound junior, recovered two fumbles, batted down two passes, had four quarterback sacks and contributed 17 tackles as Carroll held Wharton to 97 total yards.

Trevino's efforts earned him mention in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll. Carroll's victory over Wharton was the team's third straight shutout victory of the season. But there were several close calls.

Other outstanding performances:
-Linebacker John Clifton made 15 tackles and blocked what would have been the game-winning field goal to lead George West to a 7-6 victory over Kenedy.

-Vidor defeated Little Cypress-Mauriceville 21-13 on the double-barreled performances of Tim Hagger, who rushed 124 yards on 20 carries and scored two touchdowns in the first half and Darrell Minton, who rushed 123 yards on 28 carries in the second half.

-Spearman halfback Dennis Randall, rushed 240 yards on 30 carries and scored on a game-winning 77-yard touchdown run in a 14-12 victory over Gruver.

-Sophomore substitute fullback Bvin Hoffman gained 156 yards on 32 carries to lead highly ranked San Angelo Central to a 21-7 victory and knock Bownwood from its No. 1 Class 4A state ranking.

-Safety Mark De la Rozare turned an interception 102 yards for a touchdown to help Coleman roll to a 47-6 victory over Clyde.

-Rafael Morales was a key figure in Laredo Nixon's 14-13 victory over Laredo United. He scored on a 33-yard run, caught a 16-yard touchdown pass, rushed 80 yards on five carries and partially blocked a punt that led to the winning touchdown.

-Corpus Christi Miller's Danny Saenz averaged 49 yards on five punts in a 27-21 victory over Laredo Martin. Saenz' punts went for 41, 47, 62, 55 and 40 yards.

-Monahans' Ricky Boysaw rushed 246 yards on 25 carries and scored on runs of 85, 5 and 24 yards in a 30-20 victory over Andrews. Boysaw now has gained 575 yard in three games.

-Dwight Edmund of San Angelo Lake View rushed 198 yards on 21 carries and scored on runs of 14, 68 and two yards in a 40-0 victory over Lamesa.

Stewart has confidence at Southern Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Payne Stewart, perhaps one of a kind on the pro golf tour, is confident that he can win the $250,000 Southern Open Golf tournament.

"I think my chances are very good," said the 24-year-old Stewart, who in his first full year on the tour has won the Quad-Cities Open.

A high finish in the 72-hole event that starts today would put him well over the $100,000 mark in earnings.

"I enjoy playing this golf course. Maybe because I played well here last year and I'm staying with friends, but I'm excited about playing here this week," said Stewart, who has played many tournaments this year and the Magnolia to win," he said. "Generally, if I'm playing either Saturday or Sunday, I think I've got a chance to win unless somebody is shooting out the lights," he said.

Stewart finished ninth here a year ago after leading going into the final round. On the final day he suffered bogeys on the last, but says that experience taught him how to win.

"That experience was very helpful," admitted the 6-footer who played the Asian tour in 1980-81 before playing 13 tournaments here a year ago, earning $13,400.

"I think my finish here a year ago shows in my play this year," said Stewart, who also won the Magnolia Classic, a non-tour event.

"I came from three shots behind on the final day in both the Quad-Cities tournament and the Magnolia to win," he said. "Generally, if I'm playing either Saturday or Sunday, I think I've got a chance to win unless somebody is shooting out the lights," he said.

Defending champion J.C. Snead heads the list of favorites for the $45,000 top prize over the 6,791-yard, par-70 Green Island Country Club course.

Others in the field include Andy Bean, who has earned $190,000 this year, tops among the entrants, George Burns, Hale Irwin, Larry Nelson and Keith Fergus. Former winners in the field are Green, Mike Sullivan, Ed Fiori, Forrest Fezler and Dewitt Weaver.

Fiddlers at the Fair

Crowds enjoy competition of young and old

CLINT KEYS
Midlander in Over-40 competition

A cool, clear night brought large crowds to Tuesday night's performance of the Howard County Fair. Hundreds of people strolled around the exhibits and grounds, riding rides, playing games, eating cotton candy and listening to the fiddlers' contest.

Under the September skies, Jody Nix of Big Spring fiddled his way to first place in the under forty division of the fiddlers' contest. Nix was followed by Sheronna Kingston of San Angelo, who captured second place, and Debbie Reed of San Angelo took third.

Roy Adams of San Angelo won the forty and over division of the fiddle competition, and Chester Derrick of Odessa captured second. Clint Keys of Midland won third.

Stolen money orders passed stolen Republic Money Orders, police Det. Avery Falkner said today.

Falkner said at least four money orders of under $200 value have been passed to Big Spring merchants in the past three weeks, the most recent on Sept. 21.

The money orders — 5,000 of them — apparently were stolen while being shipped to a 7-Eleven store in Odessa, Falkner said. Others have been passed in the Midland-Odessa-Andrews area, Falkner said.

The culprits apparently are able to validate the money orders — numbered D-88184001 through D-88189000 — themselves, Falkner said. Falkner said three of the four apparently were endorsed by the same person and the other by someone else.

The person passing the money orders is described as a black Cuban female weighing 110 pounds and about five feet tall. She uses identification with the name Juana Nunez Cutino and is accompanied by a taller black male, Falkner said.

HC trustees told of damage to sign

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees acted on a short agenda Tuesday discussing topics such as enrollment, title changes, repairs and the reducing of dental laboratory fees.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the district, told the trustees repairs were progressing on Howard College's electronic sign that was damaged in a June hail storm.

The storm caused approximately $5,000 in damage to the sign — an ironic amount because the insurance deductible on the sign was $5,000.

Hays said the sign's keyboard along with many bulbs and elements are being replaced because of storm's lightning and hail.

Hays also addressed a problem being experienced with the playing surface in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The foundation beneath the playing surface has cracked on the west end and could possibly cause a separation in the playing surface, Hays said. Although no action was taken by the board, Hays said the separation will require the board's attention in the near future.

The board also heard an enrollment report that showed about 1,150 students signed up at Howard College and 111 scholars at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. According to Mary Dudley, Dean of Admissions, enrollment is up 10 percent at HC.

SWCID has fought back from a tuition hike of 2,000 percent for out of state students. Because the school was largely comprised of out of state students last year, first estimates said only 50 to 60 students would be returning to the school. However, school officials were surprised as in state student enrollment picked up to raise figures to a respectable level.

In a move to keep the district's fees on a level keel with other state colleges and universities, the board reduced dental hygiene laboratory fees from $20 per hour to $10 per semester hour.

"It has come to our attention that our fees are higher than any other institution in Texas and we want to keep fees in line with other institutions," Hays said as he asked the board to okay the reduction.

The board also okayed two title changes in yesterday's meeting as Sam Hill, who was acting vice president at the SWCID, had the "acting" dropped from his title and officially became vice president of SWCID.

Also Barbara Holdampf, who was the director of the district's ADN nursing program, was named as director of the district's Allied Health Program.

Young Ackerly resident nominated for FFA degree

SCOTT ROBINSON ... earns nomination

Scott Robinson of Ackerly has been nominated to receive the American Farmer degree, the highest degree presented by the National Future Farmers of America. Robinson was nominated for the honor by the Texas FFA Association.

Robinson's nomination was approved at a recent meeting of the National FFA board in Virginia which virtually assures the awarding of the degree, according to the FFA Convention News Center.

Robinson is one of 751 FFA members across the nation nominated for the American Farmer degree. He will receive the degree in a special ceremony Nov. 11, pending a final vote by student delegates representing more than one-half million FFA members.

Robinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Robinson of Ackerly and is currently attending Howard College. His award was based on exceptional leadership achievements, participation in agricultural activities and contributions to the community through supervised farming.

The youth's FFA advisor and high school vocational agricultural instructor is Lon McDonald of Ackerly.

Qualifications for the American Farmer degree involves a system of degrees in the FFA organization. After the novice Greenhand degree, the local award is the Chapter Farmer award. The third degree of State Farmer goes to two percent of the state's FFA membership. Only State Farmer degree winners are eligible for the American Farmer degree.

Ohio truck driver arrested

Police said they arrested an Ohio truck driver last night on suspicion of attempted theft at Cotton Machinery Company, Inc., Industrial Park building number two.

Gerald Lee Aldrich, 25, of 4292 Center Road, Conneaut, Ohio was arrested at 11:40 p.m. after a security guard reported a suspicious vehicle stopped at the CMC building, police reports said.

The arresting police officer said the suspect's cargo lists for the Kenworth tractor-trailer rig were blank except for the company's name. CMC's manager told police he knew of no one scheduled to pick up equipment from CMC, police said.

Police reports also showed the following:
●George Randall Benz, 32, of 2807 Apache was arrested at 4:40 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of driving under the influence of drugs. He was released on $1,500 bond set by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin.

The arrest was made after the Ford sedan Benz drove collided with a Ford Grand Torino driven by Janice G. Hart of 1500-B Virginia on the F.M. 700 south service road, 400 feet east of S. Gregg. No injuries were reported.

●Everett Horton Simmons, 54, of 507 1/2 E. 17 was arrested at 1:35 p.m. yesterday on suspicion of driving while intoxicated, failure to control his vehicle to avoid an accident and failure to maintain liability insurance.

Simmons is in stable condition, apparently suffering a mild concussion, at Veterans Administration Hospital, a hospital spokesman said. Simmons was arrested after the Chevrolet Impala he drove struck a Cadillac and a pick-up truck parked in a lot on the 600 block of E. Third.

Simmons was taken to city jail and later transferred to the VA Hospital, police said.

●Ila Ann Calverley, 18, of Box 62, Garden City, was arrested at 12:18 a.m. on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and running a red light, 12 miles south of Big Spring on Highway 33. She was released after posting $1,000 bond set by Peace Justice Bobby West.

●Jesse Wright of 1605 Bluebird said someone stole a blue 30-caliber ammunition box half full of socket ratchet extensions worth $250 between 10:30 p.m. Monday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday.

●Michael H. Hall of 1510 Douglas said someone answered his telephone and left the phone off the hook after his mother-in-law called the residence between 5:30 and 9 p.m. yesterday. Hall told police that no one was supposed to be in the house at the time. Nothing else was disturbed.

●Kenneth H. Schaedel of 406 Dallas said a person known to him hit him in the throat at 2712 Cindy at 4:15 p.m. yesterday.

●Larry DeLeon of L&M Fina Station, 400 State, said a juvenile stole a coke machine key from the station at 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

●A Chevrolet pick-up truck driven by Michael P. Newell of 4217 Muir and a Chevrolet Silverado driven by Johnny R. Hash of Sterling City Route collided at E. 11th Place and S. Goliad at 8:17 a.m. yesterday. Police cited Newell for failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

Odessa man hurt in wreck

An Odessa man in Malone-Hogan Hospital after he was involved in a one-car accident Tuesday morning, according to the Department of Public Safety.

James Harold Ellington of 502 N. Dixie in Odessa was the only person injured in the one-car incident two and a half miles west of Big Spring on Interstate Highway 20.

A hospital spokeswoman said Ellington was in satisfactory condition Wednesday morning.

KATIE O'BRIEN services Friday

Katie O'Brien

Mrs. L.R. (Katie) O'Brien, 90, died at 2:20 a.m. Wednesday in a local nursing home following a lengthy illness.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with Rev. A.L. Gatewood, a Baptist minister, officiating and Rev. Mike Patrick, pastor of Baptist Temple Church, assisting. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. O'Brien was born on May 13, 1892 in Calhoun, Ga. She moved as a small child with her family to Cisco and married Lee Roy O'Brien, a Baptist minister, on June 11, 1911 in Cisco. They moved to Big Spring in 1942. He died on Oct. 1, 1970.

She was a charter member of Baptist Temple Church.

She was also preceded in death by three sons, James Harold on Jan. 22, 1933, J. Stanley on April 29, 1934, and Dr. Coleman A. on June 16, 1980.

Survivors include two sons, Roy L. of Big Spring and C.B. of Eastland; four daughters, Jo McLaurin of Tulsa, Okla., Dell Marchant of Kerrville, Jean Graham of Big Spring and Lilah Leaney of Odessa; 18 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

Mrs. O'Brien's grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

714 cases pending in county court

The Howard County court disposed of 54 criminal cases in August to leave 714 cases pending for September, according to the monthly court report from the county clerk's office. The court had 112 new cases filed including 54 appeals from lower courts.

Thirty-one of the criminal dispositions were dismissals while 14 cases resulted in convictions. Nine of the convictions were for jail commitment while five cases were fines only. By comparison, June saw 88 dispositions with 57 of those dismissed. Fourteen convictions yielded four jail commitments and 10 fines.

July's report shows only 29 dispositions with 18 dismissals, 11 convictions and four jail commitments. The court's civil section has 247 cases pending at the end of August following two dispositions. June's report indicated 243 cases pending with three dispositions while July showed 248 cases pending with no dispositions.

A total of 43 probate cases, including mental health cases, were filed in county court in August.

In the juvenile section, four cases were pending after one disposition. One juvenile was certified for transfer to adult criminal court.

Fair association secretary lends recipes

Fair week means a busy week for Geraldine Posey, secretary to the Howard County Fair Association. One of Mrs. Posey's many duties during Fair Week is to make sure the annual event runs smoothly. In an effort to keep an eye on the activities at the Howard County Fairgrounds, Mrs. Posey can be found this week camping out in the Fair Association office in the fair barn. From her headquarters there, she answers phone calls, fields questions, directs traffic and aids the Fair Association directors whenever called upon.

But Mrs. Posey took a breather from busy Fair activities to lend some of her favorite recipes to the Recipe Exchange. Pictured here is her fresh apple pie with caramel topping, one of the recipes included below. Several of her other favorites are also included here.

FRESH APPLE PIE WITH CARAMEL TOPPING

GERALDINE POSEY
7 cups thinly sliced apples
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
2 Tbsp. flour
pastry for two 9" pie crusts

Put one-half of the apples into the pie crust, pack tight. Mix sugar, brown sugar, lemon juice, cinnamon and flour. Sprinkle 1/2 of mixture over apples. Add rest of apples and sprinkle the other half of mixture. Cover with the other crust and pierce several holes with a fork. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes and reduce the heat to 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until brown. Remove from oven and top with topping, following the recipe below.

TOPPING

GERALDINE POSEY
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup oleo
2 Tbsp. light corn syrup
Whole pecans, enough to cover top of pie
Top pie with topping, return to oven for 10 minutes.

BANANA NUT CAKE

GERALDINE POSEY
3 cups sugar
2 sticks oleo (or one cup Crisco)
1/2 tsp. banana extract
4 whole eggs
3 1/2 cups flour
2 tsp. vanilla
2 level teaspoons soda
1/2 tsp. salt
6 small bananas — mashed (be sure skins are dark)
1 cup chopped pecans
Cream shortening, sugar and flavors. Add eggs one at a time. Sift flour, soda and salt together and add alternately with milk. Keep mixing and add bananas. Stir in pecans. Bake in tube pan that has been greased and floured at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

CRAN-APPLE NUT PIE

GERALDINE POSEY
1 unbaked pie shell
1 can cranberry sauce (jelled or whole)
1/2 cup chopped nuts (pecans)
2 apples (chopped fine)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
1 Tbsp. cinnamon
3 Tbsp. flour
2 Tbsp. melted butter
Mix sugar, flour, nuts and spices. Add cranberry sauce, butter and apples. Mix well. Pour into pie shell and bake at 350 degrees until golden brown. Serve with whipped topping.

The flavor of this pie is a very mild mince meat.

FRUIT COCKTAIL CAKE

GERALDINE POSEY
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1/2 tsp. salt
2 cups fruit cocktail (no. 303 type)
Mix all ingredients together until well blended. Pour into greased loaf pan (9" by 13"). Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

ROLLED CHICKEN

GERALDINE POSEY
Mix:
3-oz. creamed cheese (softened)
3 Tbsp. oleo (melted)
Set aside and mix:
2 cups cooked chicken
1/2 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. pepper
2 Tbsp. milk
1 Tbsp. chopped chives
1 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
Add to cream mixture
Take two 8-oz. cans of crescent rolls and use two rolls to form a square-press edges together.
Dip two tablespoons of mixture in the center of square and fold edges together and seal.
Roll each in crushed seasoned crotons (cheese flavored).

Bake in oven at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes.

HOT SHRIMP DIP

GERALDINE POSEY
Chop:
3 banana peppers
3 torridillo chili peppers
1 large onion
2 large tomatoes
ADD TO:
2 lbs. creamed cheese
1 tsp. garlic juice
2 lbs. shrimp (cooked and chopped — pre-cooked ones will do)

Cook all in double broiler and simmer for 1 hour. Serve with corn chips. Serves 40.

LAYERED CHICKEN BREAST

GERALDINE POSEY
1 jar dried beef
6 chicken breast (boned)
1 pkg. dry onion soup mix
2 cartons sour cream
6 strips bacon

Mix onion soup with sour cream. Layer bottom of dish with dried beef. Arrange chicken breast over beef. Pour creamed mixture over this and put strips of bacon across top. Bake in oven at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

RICH STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

GERALDINE POSEY
6 egg yolks
2 cups sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
3 cups milk, scalded

1 Tbsp. vanilla
3 1/2 cups heavy cream
2 pts. strawberries (mashed)

Beat egg yolks, sugar and salt. Stir in scalded milk slowly. Cook over medium heat until mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat and add vanilla — cool. Stir remaining sugar into mashed strawberries and let stand several hours. Add to chilled mixture and pour into

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES GERALDINE POSEY 1 gallon of sliced cucumbers 8 small sliced onions 1 green pepper (cut in narrow strips) 1 sweet red pepper (cut in narrow strips) Add 1/2 cup coarse salt, mix and cover with ice cubes. Let stand for 3 hours and drain. Heat: 5 cups sugar 1 1/2 tsp. turmeric 1/2 tsp. cloves 2 tsp. mustard seed 2 tsp. celery seed 5 cups vinegar Add cucumber mixture and bring to boiling point. Place in hot sterilized jars.

Seal. Makes 8 pints. FRUIT COBBLER GERALDINE POSEY 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk 1 Tbsp. baking powder 1 cup flour

Mix above ingredients. Melt two tablespoons oleo in dish you are to cook in. Pour excess into flour mixture and stir. Pour batter into dish.

Pour on top of batter: 1 large can of fruit with 3/4 cup sugar added.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes or until brown.

SOFT GINGERBREAD GERALDINE POSEY

Thoroughly cream: 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup butter Add: 2 eggs and beat Add: 1 cup molasses (only old-fashioned will do) 2 1/2 cups flour 1 tsp. cinnamon 1 tsp. allspice 1 tsp. ginger Mix well, then add: 1 cup hot water 2 level tsp. soda (dissolved in water)

Make sure to use a large bowl to mix in as soda mixture will bubble up. Batter is very thin. Grease and flour large pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until firm to touch. Leave in pan and cut as needed to keep moist. Very good with butter while hot.

Direct marketing examined

COLLEGE STATION - Direct marketing of popular vegetable and fruit crops is becoming a continuing, rather than seasonal, business in many areas of Texas.

Favorite fall and winter vegetables - such as collards, turnip greens, cabbage, broccoli, squash, onions and others - are expected to be produced in abundance soon, and this will extend the season for growers already using such directing marketing options as roadside stands or "pick-your-own" operations.

Willing workers not so hard to find

COLLEGE STATION - More than 65 million Americans said in a recent survey that they would volunteer to assist with projects they considered to be "worthwhile" if they were asked to do so.

These willing workers should be made aware of the need for their help and the satisfaction which follows as a by-product of volunteerism," says June Cline, organization specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Cline notes that "enthusiasm is the all-essential human jet propeller which elevates workers and creates endless energy, the source of accomplishment." It can help motivate volunteers and also carry over into their orientation to do their jobs to the best of their abilities and skills, she says.

"Pressure volunteerism" is still the most used method for recruiting volunteers. Instead of using that method, Cline suggests that people seeking help from volunteers might want to try the "10 Commandments of Human Relations."

Those are speaking to people, calling people by name, smiling at people, being friendly, being cordial, being interested in people, being thoughtful of the feelings of others, being generous with praise, being thoughtful of opinions of others and being alert to give service.

"Some of the most capable and successful supervisors of volunteers keep charts to show increased knowledge and skills to challenge performance and influence attitudes. Make the job an interesting one, and the volunteer will like it and derive satisfaction. In this instance, satisfaction is the pay check," Cline says.

She suggests that supervisors of volunteers should help build a sense of security. This can be achieved by radiating confidence, being honest and sincere, being fair, impartial and generous, showing sympathy and understanding, and explaining carefully the volunteer job.

Not only should a supervisor of volunteers explain "what" the job is, but also "why" it is important. This should help provide some common goals," Cline says.

Anderson named

Beta Sigma

Phi sweetheart

Beta Sigma Phi-Alpha, Tau Rho met Sept. 13 in the home of Jan Nichols. The meeting was called to order by Arlene White, president.

Mrs. Nichols gave the treasury report, and Cynthia Anderson called role and read the minutes from the last meeting. Cynthia Anderson was selected from a secret ballot as chapter sweetheart. Guest speaker was State Representative Larry Don Shaw. Shaw discussed the importance of voting and told some of the experiences he's had while in office.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned with the closing ritual. The door prize was won by Judy West. The next meeting is Monday.

Baby born to local couple

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Shipman, 1319 Tucson, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Cynthia Nicole, at Malone-Hogan Hospital Sept. 15.

The infant arrived at 6:04 a.m. and weighed 6 pounds, 10 ounces, and measured 20 1/2 inches long.

Cynthia Nicole's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. D.G. Chenault of 3502 Parkway Rd. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gluege, 1811 Ruins.

Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Smith, 2004 Merrily, Mrs. Wally Gluege, Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. V.A. Buckley, De Soto, and Mrs. Elsie Chenault, Brownfield.

Retired teachers meet for luncheon

The Big Spring-Howard County Retired Teachers Association met Monday at Howard College for a luncheon.

Guest speaker was Dr. Larry Backus, psychologist from the Veteran's Administration Medical Center. He directed the group in an activity designed to illustrate some ways in which people react in various situations, the influence of competition, and the motives attributed to people not in one's own group. Six new members were welcomed into the club.

Open for business

The new owners of KHEM and KFNE have taken over from the Bradbury family. The Central Texas Broadcasting Corporation bought these two radio stations and have big plans for expansion and changes. The corporation, headed by RICHARD OPPENHEIMER, owns two radio stations in Austin, one in McAllen, ones in Beaumont, Mobile, Ala., Grants, N.M. and now these two in Big Spring.

DAVID TRUSTY is the general manager of the two stations. The corporation engineer, PAUL DUDACK, has been here for the past two weeks installing, reworking and fine tuning all the sound equipment for increased power, clarity and dependability. GARY BRADBURY has been retained as consultant engineer during the transition period.

Trusty, formerly an account executive for ABC in Honolulu, talked about the plans for the two radio stations which will be given new call letters and a new image very soon. David said that the corporation expects these two stations to be operated with the same concept as the other 6 stations — as community radio stations that places emphasis on the community events. "It will be an entertaining and informing vehicle to enhance the community in a first class way," David concluded.

By the way, Trusty is already getting involved in the community. He became a member of the chamber's business committee and immediately contributed an idea for a new community slogan which has been adopted by the committee for their promotions... WE BELIEVE IN BIG SPRING.

Don't forget the Downtown Lions Club Hamburger Supper Friday night at the Howard College Cafeteria before the Steer game.

SHORT TAKES: Wall Mart will be taking over the old Thornton's building soon. Ribbon cutting will take place Saturday at 1:45 p.m. at the Highland Shopping Center for the Sweet Shoppe owned and operated by Mrs. Joan LaFond. The Industrial Foundation's industrial booklets are fresh off the press to be used for attracting industry into Big Spring and for major companies to use to recruit executives and employees.

The Big Spring Personnel Directors Association has completed their wage and benefits study and the final report is being readied for distribution. The Industrial Committee will meet the second week in October at Fiberflex for a tour of that plant.

NEW FACES IN NEW PLACES: LEA WHITEHEAD joined the HERALD staff in the promotional field. She moved here from Houston where she had worked for 20 years for the prestigious public relations firm of Goodwin, Dannebaum, Littman, and Wingfield as an account executive. NOLAN BEALL has joined PLACES AND PLEASURES as a travel agent.

The ARROYA SECA is a unique facility here in Big Spring aimed at providing training and help for mildly mentally retarded adults to help them become self-supporting and able to cope on their own.

There are 12 to 15 residents who receive training there by the director, J. ERWIN MC CORKLE, and his staff, and are then ready to be placed in on-the-job training situations within the community. During the OJT the salary is kept at the minimum. These adults, ranging in age from 18 up, can do assembly work, housekeeping, yard, maintenance and other type manual skills. They do very well in simple, repetitive type tasks. The primary asset they bring to a job is their willingness to work. For more information about these prospective workers, call McCorkle at 267-3653.

Opportunities abound in Big Spring for self and career development. A few of the upcoming opportunities are listed below. Call me for more information about any of these or about how to register yourself or your employees. All are tax deductible expenses.

SMALL BUSINESS WORKSHOP — meeting every Tuesday and Thursday beginning Oct. 12 and ending Oct. 28 (6 classes) from 3:30-5 p.m. at Howard College. Instructors will focus on financial accounting and management aspects of operating a small business. This is a very important opportunity for those who want to establish a small business or who are already involved in a small business operation. Cost is $18 per person for all six classes. Sponsored by the business committee of the chamber of commerce are:

CUSTOMER RELATIONS SEMINAR which meets for 3 hours on Thursday, Oct. 7, beginning at 9 a.m. Any person who sells a customer product or service or who comes in contact with your clients should be exposed to this training session. Cost is $19.50 per person with a 10% discount for additional employees from the same company.

SMALL COMPUTERS FOR PERSONAL AND BUSINESS USE: workshop on Monday, Oct. 11, from 4:15 to 6:15 p.m., will deal with information about the various types of small computers on the market and what each will do. This is not a sales session and no one computer will be recommended over another except in relation to what you need. It is designed to tell you everything you need to know about computers before you buy... or if you have already bought a computer, it will help you to use it more efficiently. Cost is $12 per person.

GOAL SETTING FOR PERSONAL AND BUSINESS SUCCESS. Meets every Monday night beginning Sept. 27 for ten consecutive weeks. This intensive workshop develops one's life plan to achieve through crystallizing what one wants and then sets up the process to achieve it. It is the essential ingredient to personal and career success. Its value is many times more than the cost of $300.

PUBLIC SPEAKING FOR BUSINESS SITUATIONS. Meets once a week for eight weeks beginning Oct. 5. It involves each participant making speeches and being involved in simulated business situation such as committee meetings, banquet speeches, employee orientation, etc. Cost of the program is $40 per person.

Several other courses are being planned by the business committee. Call me if you have suggestions for course offerings or if you want more information about these. My number is 263-1451.

Call me about your business news and views, too! This column is written by Johnnie Lou Avery, president of Avery & Associates, West Texas Program Bureau, Property Management Systems, and Professional Services Bureau, and co-owner of Yes! Business Services. Her offices are located at 210 Permian Building and her phone number is 263-1451. She welcomes your comments about this column.

Dear Abby Procter, Gamble defended

DEAR ABBY: When I read in your column that someone who described herself as "a good Christian" had labeled Procter & Gamble "a tool of the devil," I was horrified. I know from personal experience that if ever a company had a heart, it is Procter & Gamble.

About two years ago, today, the local Cocoa, Fla. newspaper, ran a story about Michael, a 9-year-old boy who from the time of his birth had been covered with blisters due to a rare, incurable skin disease known as "epidermolysis bullosa." Michael was sent to Sunland Medical Center in Gainesville, Fla., to die. To ease the pain, Michael was covered with Crisco daily and wrapped in gauze. He good-humoredly named himself "The Crisco Kid." Because of the newspaper publicity, well-wishers sent money to help pay the enormous hospital bills. My husband and I sent him a small check and received a beautiful thank-you letter in return.

Then it occurred to me that since Crisco was a Procter & Gamble product, the company might be willing to help the boy, and at the same time publicize the proven purity of its product, so I wrote to P&G suggesting it.

The company responded with a courteous letter saying it could not recommend the product for anything other than the purpose for which P&G's own laboratory had tested it. Then the company sent a handsome donation for an electric wheelchair and special equipment needed to make the boy more comfortable.

The Crisco Kid fought courageously for his life, but eventually his little heart gave out. I will never forget that a big company like Procter & Gamble cared enough to make the last days of an ailing child happier.

That this fine company should be the victim of an organized smear campaign to link it with Satan and the devil is an outrageous injustice.

I live in Cocoa Beach, and you may use my name.

Dr. Donohue

Patient wants diagnosis

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Please give some space to the subject of M.S. (multiple sclerosis). Although I have had no medical tests, I was told by a doctor (for whom a relative works) that it is possible to have M.S. I would like to name my symptoms and have your comment.

I am 32 years old and have not been feeling well for over two years. A little over a year ago I experienced blurred vision for about four weeks. Then it cleared and has not returned. I experience fatigue and extreme weakness in my arms. The worst symptom is facial pain, especially in the orbit of the eye. Just recently I have had pain in the buttocks and in my legs.

I would like to know if you agree with the doctor. I have not seen a doctor yet because of the expense involved with testing, and even if it is M.S. there is no cure for it, anyway. — Mrs. M.F.

Second hand diagnosis, from your friend, her doctor, or me, is not a good way to handle a medical problem like multiple sclerosis — or any other illness, for that matter. I can only tell you what you already must suspect, that your symptoms are very indicative of M.S. It does occur at a relatively young age, and you are in that age group.

Because M.S. is basically a nerve-centered disorder, the symptoms are varied, and they come and go. Sometimes, there are symptom-free periods, and we call those "remissions." It often causes visual problems, such as partial or total loss of sight, with return of vision in a short time. And you can feel eye pain, especially when you move the eyes. In a younger person, such as yourself, facial pain of the kind you describe is most suggestive of M.S. Arms and legs may be weak and uncoordinated, with tingling sensations.

You are right when you say there is no cure. But you're wrong to think that makes no difference whether you find out whether you have M.S. or not. There are many ways today to help those with it — medicine, physiotherapy and development of a program for living with it. So please be examined. The testing is not really expensive.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is cellulitis of the skin? The doctor explained it, but I still don't understand. My daughter had it in the left arm. Also, I want to know if it is contagious or if it can come back, even if it's completely gone. — Mrs. M.G.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My brother had cellulitis in his right elbow last year and he swelled from the wrist to the shoulder. The first time he was in the hospital, and now he takes two potent antibiotics by mouth. How can he prevent another attack? — Mrs. S.S.

Cellulitis is a spreading infection of the skin, caused usually by the strep or staph germ. The term refers to inflammation ("itis") of the cells. Cellulitis often begins at the site of a break in the skin, a break so small that you don't notice it. The germ does, and gains entry through it.

Once the infection gets a toehold, it spreads rapidly. Because the infecting organism is usually one of the two bacterial I mentioned, the condition can be checked quickly with antibiotics. Cellulitis is not contagious.

I cannot speak infallibly here, but once the infection is cured, it remains cured. If there are repeat attacks, the person has to be examined for conditions that can weaken the defenses against infection, such as diabetes.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am a senior citizen who had a health screening blood test. The results went to my doctor and one of the triglycerides, were high. Cholesterol was O.K. He told me that at my age it was not important. They seemed to think at the screening that something should be done. Does this call for care? — E.H.B.

Triglycerides are one form of fatty substances found in the blood. Right now, we don't think that elevation of triglyceride levels is very important in development of heart disease or stroke — at least not like cholesterol is. That's the general rule, to which, of course, there are exceptions.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

What a bright idea!
