County sets $4.8 million budget

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

After approximately an hour of discussion yesterday afternoon, Howard County commissioners approved the 1982-1983 budget for Howard County of $4.8 million.

The afternoon budget debate began with Commissioner David Barr's opposition to passing a budget without established revenue. Due to the number of valuation protests before the appraisal review board, the county as well as other taxing agencies do not have a certified tax roll to determine a tax rate. The tax rate establishes what operating revenue each entity receives.

"I don't think you can adopt a budget without a tax rate," Barr said. "How can you budget money if you don't have it?" Approving the budget without knowing what funds were coming in is "bad business," he added.

Commissioner Paul Allen argued that the county has "got to have a bottom line on this" before continuing into its fiscal year. The county's fiscal year begins Thursday, Oct. 1. Commissioner William Crooker noted that the commissioners "can always amend the budget."

Barr said the commissioners would lose any influence to set a tax rate. "If we set this (budget) right now, we're not going to have one more thing to say about it. That review board will set the tax rate," Barr said.

Crooker agreed with the loss of power suffered by the county and other taxing entities. He said all taxing entities would lose more money now by using up their surplus finances to finish the year instead of gathering interest. "The in-house appraisal was supposed to save money but it costs the governmental agencies while waiting on the tax roll," Crooker said.

County Judge Bill Tune said the county had to have an adopted budget or the county would "shut down on Thursday." After calling in County Attorney Bob Miller for a legal opinion on the requirement for a budget, Barr moved to approve the budget if it were considered "estimated" and amendable. Commissioners then unanimously approved the $4.8 million budget.

THE BUDGET was also a primary concern when commissioners met with all of the county department heads yesterday afternoon. Commissioners asked the departments to help in holding down expenses until tax revenue is coming in again. No major purchases and operation on "bare necessities" were requested to keep from "having to go on a bond issue," Tune said.

County Auditor Jackie Olson noted long-distance phone calls were one area of reduction while Treasurer Bonnie Franklin added reduced travel to the list. Tune predicted the surplus funds the county had would last five months if everyone conserved. Tax revenue was hoped for by then, See County, page 2-A FATALITY SCENE — The Chevrolet Blazer in which 19-year-old Sabrina Hatfield was killed yesterday uprooted a tree, struck the corner of this 1615 Indian Hills residence and crashed into a fence. Bricks were scattered from the impact, some thrown as far as the wood pile in the back yard. The driver, Johnny Ray Hash of 1504 E. 17th, and two other passengers, David Scott Brooke and Mike Kreuse, remain in Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Local attorney surrenders license

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Fredrick L. Coleman Jr. of Big Spring submitted his resignation as an attorney licensed to practice law in the state of Texas in lieu of disciplinary action Aug. 29, after a committee of the State Bar found him guilty of professional misconduct.

In a concurring motion filed by the District 14-C Grievance Committee of the State Bar of Texas before the Supreme Court of the State of Texas, the committee found that Coleman had failed to disburse funds withheld by him as taxes and title insurance premiums in a real estate transaction; had failed to account to another client for $4,500 of earnest money held by Coleman; and failed to return files upon request by another client.

The Supreme Court of Texas accepted the resignation effective Sept. 10.

According to findings of the committee, Coleman received $3,617.34 from a client, identified as Ms. Gill, on April 4, 1981 as partial payment for the purchase of certain property in Forsan. Coleman was instructed to hold the funds until the real estate transaction was closed and then to give to the seller the net amount after subtracting attorney's fees, taxes Coleman was to pay to the taxing authority and the land title insurance premium.

On July 6, according to the grievance committee's findings, Coleman delivered his check for $2,157.09 to the seller. He retained $200 to pay the city of Forsan taxes, which were not paid, and also retained $184 to pay the land title insurance premium, which was not paid, according to the concurring motion by the grievance committee.

When the seller presented the check for the net amount for payment, it was returned twice by the payee bank with the notation "insufficient funds," the committee found. The check was drawn on an account denominated "Fred L. Coleman, Attorney at Law," and was not drawn on Coleman's trust account, according to the committee.

In addition, the committee found that during September, 1981, Coleman undertook to represent Dr. Howard Wayne Walker in the sale of Walker's house in Munday. The sale from Walker to Mr. and Mrs. George Onstad was agreed to on Sept. 10, 1981, and Onstad delivered a cashier's check for $4,500 to Coleman as the earnest money for the purchase. Coleman cashed that check on Sept. 30, and placed the proceeds in his personal account, rather than a trust account, the committee found. Upon request from Walker, Coleman advised Walker that the check was being held by him on April 16, 1982, a representation that was false, the committee found. Thereafter, Coleman advised Walker the sale of the property could not be closed because the Onstads could not qualify for a loan, another false representation, according to the committee.

According to the committee, Coleman forwarded his check for the earnest money due Walker ($4,450) to Walker on April 22, 1982. Upon presentation for payment, the bank refused with the notation "insufficient funds," the committee found. Coleman failed to respond to requests from Walker to make the check good, according to the committee.

In 1980 and 1981, Coleman undertook to represent Walker in a legal matter involving Walker's income taxes and an incorporation. Coleman also undertook some legal work with regard to certain real estate owned by Walker's parents and to prepare wills for Mrs. Walker's parents. In 1982, according to the committee, Coleman was requested to return to Walker all the files in Coleman's possession relating to these legal matters. As of Aug. 29, Coleman had not returned any portion of the files to Walker, the grievance committee found.

Coleman surrendered his law license and permanent State Bar Card, and resigned as an attorney and counselor at law on Aug. 29.

Attempts by the Herald to contact Coleman for comment were unsuccessful.

Israel to probe Beirut deaths

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli government, bowing to unprecedented public pressure, decided today to set up a full-scale judicial inquiry into the conduct of the government and army during the Sept. 16-18 massacre, which has sent shock waves of guilt and anger through the Jewish state.

The investigating commission will examine "all facts and factors relating to the atrocity," said Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor, reading a communique to reporters.

He said the commission will have "the widest authority" to investigate the Sept. 16-18 massacre, which has sent shock waves of guilt and anger through the Jewish state.

The massacre of several hundred Palestinians at the Chatilla and Sabra camps has been blamed on Lebanese Christian militiamen.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin was to officially convey the inquiry decision to Supreme Court President Yitzhak Kahan on Wednesday. Kahan will appoint the committee members, probably three public figures headed by a judge.

Under Israeli law, a judicial inquiry commission is empowered to subpoena witnesses, swear them in and penalize them for perjury.

At first, the government refused to call an investigation and defeated motions in Parliament to set up a probe of the massacre. As pressure mounted, it decided on an inquiry to be headed by Kahan, but did not include the powers of a judicial inquiry.

Today's decision followed a protest rally on Saturday by 400,000 Israelis, the largest anti-government demonstration Israel has ever known. There have been widespread calls for the resignations of Begin and Defense Minister Ariel Sharon.

The stability of Begin's government was also threatened when two coalition partners warned they might quit if a judicial inquiry was ruled out.

Tax board gets 3 new members

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors, meeting in a rescheduled special meeting, selected three new members to the appraisal review board yesterday.

The board had initially planned to meet last Monday but could not due to lack of a quorum. The new members were asked by the present ARB to help alleviate the crunch of valuation protests and speed up the process.

The new members of the ARB are Jack Shaffer of Shaffer Real Estate, D.A. Brazell of 2617 Crestline and Larry Pick, a Century 21 Realtor. According to HCCTAD Board Chairman Roy Watkins, the new members are to be a sub-committee to the present ARB of Jimmie Ray Smith, J.M. Sterling and Gerald Harris.

The three new members were chosen after HCCTAD board members nominated six men. L.D. Crane, Wendell Shive and Monroe Casey were also considered. The first ballot by the HCCTAD members saw each man receiving two votes. Voting were Roy Watkins, Billy T. Smith, Clay Reid and Jack Watkins. Lila Estes was absent for the first ballot.

Mrs. Estes arrived after Chairman Watkins requested she be contacted. Following the second ballot, Shaffer, Brazell and Pick were selected. Pick and Brazell were nominated by Smith while Shaffer was nominated by Chairman Watkins.

After the meeting, board member Jack Watkins predicted more problems for the ARB due to "personalities involved." Watkins said the ARB had had a "fairly tranquil time so far" but fighting could begin in the ARB. He said there would be "knock-down drag-outs" with the ARB.

Almanac: Mild winter

DUBLIN, N.H. (AP) — The Old Farmer's Almanac, the 191-year-old yellow and black weather bible ready to hang in pantry or privy, predicts a frigid winter for the East and a mild one for the West.

The 1983 edition of the nation's oldest continuously published periodical, issued today, says it makes forecasts based on both "the latest scientific technology" and a secret formula locked in a black box in the almanac's offices.

But Abe Weatherwise — a pseudonym for publisher Rob Trowbridge and editor Jud Hale — cautions that the April 4 eruption of the Mexican volcano El Chichon could throw off this year's forecasts because the almanac went to press before the volcano's effects could be assessed.

TI to lay off 2,600 workers

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Instruments Inc., one of the world's largest makers of semiconductors, is laying off another 2,600 workers this fall, bring the number of employees furloughed in the last two years to nearly 10,000.

Company Vice President Norman Neureiter said the layoffs would be spread among many of the diversified electronics concern's 50 plants worldwide.

Texas Instruments, which employs 80,000 people in 19 countries, had already laid off 7,000 workers since May 1981.

Neureiter said he did not know in what specific categories of workers or cities the layoffs would occur, but 600 of the layoffs will be in the Dallas area where Texas Instruments is based, the Dallas Morning News reported.

"It's pretty generally across the company," he said. "It's a series of actions affecting a number of (plants) in a number of countries."

The recession, falling prices and inroads by foreign competitors have dampened sales of semiconductors for Texas Instruments and other U.S. companies for more than a year.

The furloughed employees will receive partial pay and recall rights for up to six months or severance payments in amounts based on seniority, officials said.

But the company noted that those earnings were matched against depressed results a year earlier, that "any significant general recovery in the coming months" was questionable and that it planned more layoffs.

Carnival booth deadline Oct. 15

COAHOMA — Coahoma Parents Care will sponsor a Halloween Carnival on Saturday, Oct. 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. in the old elementary gym and building.

There is a fee of $10 for a small booth and $20 for a large booth. The fee is charged to pay the utility bills and clean-up expenses.

The elementary building will be open for setting up booths Thursday, Oct. 28, from 6 to 9 p.m.; Friday, 1 to 6 p.m.; and Saturday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. The gym will be available Friday from 3:30 to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Deadline for retaining space is Oct. 15. Type of booth entries will be determined on a first-come, first-served basis.

Anyone interested in having a booth may call Juanita Stonerook at 263-2654 or Lee Ida Rainey at 263-7346 or 394-4749.

Area disaster loans approved

WASHINGTON — Congressman Charles Stenholm today announced that Economic Injury Disaster Loans from the Small Business Administration will be made available to small businesses in 22 counties of the 17th District.

"These are counties which suffered extensive rain and hail damage this June," Stenholm said. "Because agriculture is the foundation of the economy in so much of West Texas, many small businesses in the region find themselves in dire straits through no fault of their own."

The SBA disaster loans will provide assistance to many businesses in the region, including firms such as cotton gins which depend heavily on farmers for economic health, Stenholm said.

Operators of small businesses in the 22 counties should contact the SBA for more details on the loans, Stenholm said. Three SBA offices in Texas will be dealing with the loans and will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The office locations are: 2306 Oak Lane, Suite 110, Grand Prairie, phone (214) 263-9924; 1611 10th St., Suite 200, Regency Plaza, Lubbock, phone (806) 762-7481; and 205 E. Fifth St., room 122, Amarillo, phone (806) 372-2465.

Counties in the 17th District eligible for the SBA loans are Baylor, Borden, Coleman, Crosby, Dawson, Fisher, Floyd, Garza, Haskell, Howard, Jones, Kent, Knox, Lynn, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Shackelford, Stonewall, Taylor, Throckmorton and Young.

BURIED ALIVE — Photo shows where 21-year-old Michael Baucom spent more than five days buried alive before his rescue Sunday. A suspect in the burial is believed to have kidnapped another man, who freed himself and escaped today, officials said.

Suspect in live burial sought for 2nd kidnapping

CONROE, Texas (AP) — A kidnapped firefighter leaped from the trunk of a car being towed by a wrecker early today after his abductor, apparently the ringleader of a group which buried another man alive, abandoned the vehicle and fled on foot, officials say.

Coby Garland Hamilton, a Houston firefighter who has been missing since Sunday morning, pried open the trunk of the car where he was imprisoned and jumped out near George West in South Texas, Montgomery County sheriff's spokesman Ed deForest said.

Live Oak County Sheriff Larry Busby said Deputy Roy Hart found the car about 2:30 a.m. and discovered through a license check that it was stolen. He called the sheriff's office and asked for a wrecker.

"Coby was in the trunk, but he kept quiet and didn't make any noise because he thought maybe the suspect had returned," Busby said. But when the driver began towing the car, Hamilton pried open the trunk lid with a believed to have kidnapped another man, who freed himself and escaped today, officials said.

Police Beat DWL suspect bonded out

Police said they arrested 21-year-old Troy Richard James of 3905 Hamilton yesterday afternoon on suspicion of driving while his license is suspended and speeding. Peace Justice Bobby West set $1,000 and $200 bonds and James was transferred to Howard County jail, police said.

Police reports also showed the following:

- Melissa Stevens of the Wyoming Hotel, 100 Scurry, said someone known to her hit her in the mouth with her hand at Fina's Restaurant, 200 N. Gregg, at 3:30 p.m. yesterday.
- Someone broke into Trinity Family Church, 1008 Birdwell, and damaged a box of chocolate mix at 7:37 p.m. yesterday.
- Wayne Payton of 1103 E. 16th said someone broke into his house between 9 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. yesterday. Payton reported nothing stolen.
- Carl W. Ford of 1104 Pennsylvania said a wall clock and diamond ring were stolen from his residence between Sept. 21 and 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

- A Ford pick-up truck driven by J.B. Lamb of 1516 Stadium and a Lincoln Continental Mark IV driven by Manuel M. Marquez of 905 N.W. Fourth collided at N.W. 12th and N. Aylford at 2:30 p.m. yesterday. Police cited Marquez for failure to yield right-of-way to an oncoming vehicle. No injuries were reported.
- An MGB driven by Melvin R. Heffington of 4111 Muir and a Chevrolet Camaro driven by Belta V. Rodriguez of 1605-A Lincoln collided on the 1600 block of Virginia at 10:45 p.m. yesterday. Police ticketed Heffington for failure to control speed. No injuries were reported.
- A Chevrolet Bel Air driven by Mildred B. Norman of 500 E. 29th, Odessa, and a Chevrolet Impala driven by Windell L. Eggleston of Sterling City Route Box T-8 collided on the 900 block of W. Third at 9:47 a.m. yesterday. Ms. Norman was cited for driving the wrong way on a one-way street. Only minor injuries were reported.

Man sentenced for theft

Michael Bunn McHugh, 32, of North Carolina, was sentenced to three years in prison Monday in 118th District Court, according to the Howard County sheriff's office. McHugh pleaded guilty to felony theft before Judge Jim Gregg. McHugh remains in county jail pending transfer to the Texas Department of Corrections.

Sheriff's records show Anthony Ray Silva, 29, and Karen Silva, 23, both of Oklahoma, were released Monday from custody under the authority of District Attorney Rick Hamby. The Silvas were arrested by city police Sept. 10 in connection with charges of theft over $500, possession of a controlled substance and unauthorized carrying of a weapon, records show. The two had been transferred to the county Sept. 24th.

Troy James, 21, of 3905 Hamilton, posted a $1,000 bond to be released in connection with a charge of driving while license suspended. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Jury selection starts in Wood trial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Jury selection began today in the trial of three people charged in connection with the 1979 contract killing of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr.

Chief U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions summoned the first group of 48 prospective jurors to his courtroom and read the indictment to them.

A total of 500 prospective jurors are available for questioning if needed.

Sessions told the first group of prospective jurors that he had no intention of sequestering the jury in the trial — expected to take four to eight weeks — but issued strong warnings against listening to or viewing radio or television newscasts, or reading newspaper stories about the case.

Jury selection was expected to take at least three days. Lawyers have said that more than 200 witnesses will testify in the trial.

The courthouse is named in memory U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., who was gunned down May 29, 1979, in the first assassination of a federal judge in modern times.

The FBI immediately began a massive investigation that cost $4.7 million and resulted in 214,000 computer entries over a three-year period that ended with indictments on April 15.

Sessions, who refused to disqualify himself although he was a longtime colleague of the slain judge, said that a base panel of 46 prospective jurors must be qualified.

Then, he said, the prosecution and defense will make their strikes to seat a 12-member jury and three alternates.

On trial are Charles V. Harrelson, a 44-year-old convicted hitman who allegedly shot Wood in the back for a $250,000 fee; his wife, Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, 41, a blackjack player already convicted of illegally buying the alleged murder weapon 12 days before Wood was shot; and Elizabeth Chagra, 28, wife of the man who allegedly hired Harrelson to kill the judge.

Harrelson is charged with murder of a federal judge, along with Jamie "Jimmy" Chagra, 39, a high-stakes gambler and convicted narcotics kingpin who faces a separate trial at a time to be announced later.

Jimmy Chagra, the prosecution alleges, wanted

IN OTHER action, commissioners hired a new county extension agent in home economics. Peggy Kalina of Wharton was hired after she was recommended to the commissioners by Roberta Johnson of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Ms. Kalina replaces Nina Mahon, who moved to another position outside the county.

Overdue books was the subject of a meeting with County Librarian Judith Gray. Gray told commissioners 427 people had 1,267 books and 47 records overdue at the library from three to six months. She estimated the replacement cost of the items at $19,000.

Commissioners approved putting "more teeth" into the attorney letter mailed to those having overdue books. Charges of theft could be filed against persons having overdue books that ignore requests to return them, Mrs. Gray said. No more "fine-free" times at the library would be used either, she said.

The week of Oct. 4th through the 8th was approved as Howard County Spirit Week by the commissioners. The proclamation is in conjunction with Howard College's Oct. 5th bonfire in which all county schools are expected to participate. Raising the spirit of the county is the intent of the week, Tunes said.

Guatemala troops, rebels clash

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Twenty-seven guerrillas were reported killed in a clash with army troops Monday, and the government announced it was extending a nationwide state of siege for 30 days because "disturbances of social peace and public order still persist."

The guerrillas were killed in a shootout with government troops in Chimaltenango province about 44 miles west of here, the army said. It said the guerrillas were believed responsible for an ambush on an army patrol Sunday that left one soldier dead.

"The rebels were clad in camouflaged uniforms similar to those the army uses and were carrying a variety of arms and explosives," a statement from the army's public relations office said. No government casualties were mentioned.

Earlier, a presidential spokesman said the state of siege, originally imposed July 1 by President Efraim Rios Montt, would be extended for at least another 30 days.

State of siege measures suspend individual guarantees and give security forces broad powers of search and seizure without warrant. A summary death sentence is ordered for certain terrorist-related crimes.

Four men convicted of terrorism were killed by firing squad earlier this month under the emergency decree. They were identified as members of the Guerrilla Army of the Poor, one of four leftist guerrilla groups fighting to topple the government.

In announcing the 30-day extension, presidential spokesman Col. Manuel Giron Tanchez said the emergency measures "have been beneficial and contributed to the pacification of the country by giving security forces control over subversion and terrorism."

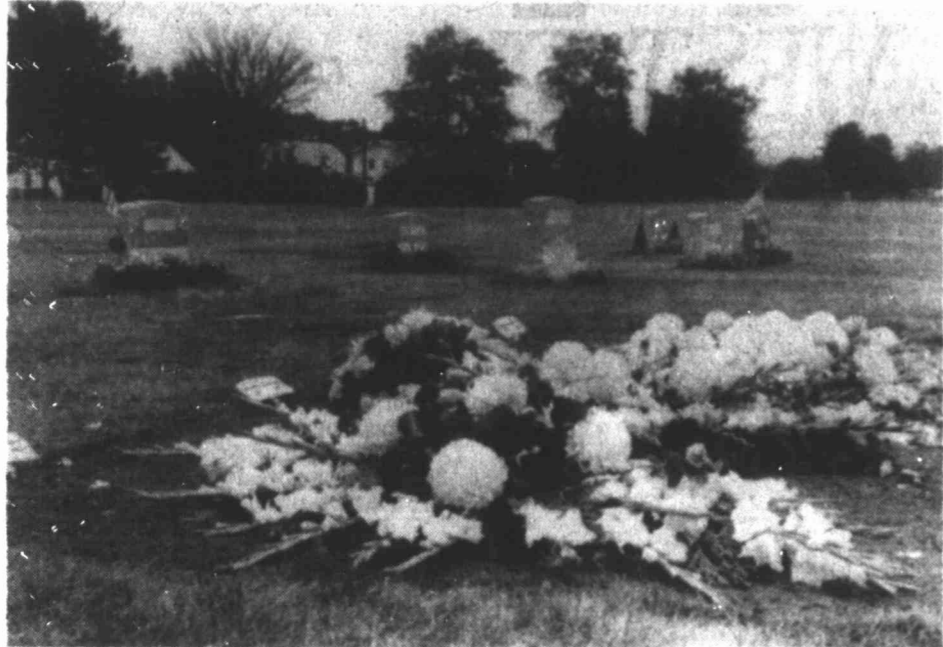

Giron Tanchez added, however, that "disturbances of social peace and public order still persist."

Opposition spokesmen, church workers and refugees fleeing the country have accused the army and paramilitary groups of murdering hundreds of civilians suspected of aiding guerrillas.

In mid-August, Amnesty International claimed 2,186 people, mostly poverty-stricken Indian peasants, had been killed since the March 23 military coup that brought the current government to power.

The Inter-American Human Rights Commission on Saturday ended a weeklong visit, at the invitation of the military regime, to investigate counterinsurgency methods. Members of the commission, an agency of the Organization of American States, declined comment on their findings.

VICTIMS BURIED — Flowers cover the graves in Pennsylvania of some of the victims of a shooting spree that left 13 dead. George Banks is being held as a suspect in the Saturday slayings. Five of the dead were children of Banks, while four of the victims were women who bore the children.

Rampage suspect says his 'life is over' now

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — A prison guard accused of going on a rampage and killing 13 people — five of them his children — believes his own life is over, a friend says.

Late Monday, guard George Banks was visited by Robert Brunson, a friend who helped talk Banks into surrendering. Banks was being held under constant watch after threatening suicide at the Luzerne County prison.

"He said, 'It's all over. My kids are gone. My life is over.' I told him some people still care about him," Brunson told the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader.

Brunson said Banks requested the visit, which lasted about an hour.

Meanwhile, family members prepared for more funeral services today after seven of the victims were buried in private services.

Banks, 40, is suspected of killing five of his own children, the four women who bore them, two other children and a bystander. Another bystander was critically wounded in the rampage, which occurred at two residences Saturday. Banks has been formally charged so far with five of the slayings. Affidavits filed through Luzerne County detective James Zardecki with District Justice Joseph Verespy, of Plains Township, indicated Banks admitted guilt in the slayings.

"I know I killed them," Banks allegedly told Zardecki after a report that his children were alive.

A funeral mass was scheduled today for Raymond Hall Jr., who was gunned down as he left a party at his brother-in-law's house during the shooting spree.

Hall, 24, the father of a 13-month-old daughter, was slain outside a house where eight of the victims were massacred. A companion, James Olsen, 22, was in critical but stable condition with a gunshot wound to the chest.

Private funeral services were scheduled at the families' convenience for five victims. Their burial expenses will be paid from the Luzerne County coroner's fund because the family has no money, deputy coroner Harry Hyman said.

PLANT TO STAY — Faces in a crowd in Springfield, Ohio, reveal pleasure at the news that International Harvester will keep its plant open there. But in Fort Wayne, Ind., it was just the opposite: there the company plans to close down.

One city happy, another laments Harvester plans

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Relieved workers and community leaders raised toasts in taverns and placed thank-you signs in windows as International Harvester Co. ended a two-state tug of war by deciding to consolidate its bus and truck operations here.

"Everyone's happy about it," said Kathy Atchison, an employee of the Harvester Inn near the IH body plant, where workers began gathering at about noon Monday after hearing the city's largest employer declare it would stay.

But it was bitter news for residents of Fort Wayne, Ind., which will lose 2,200 jobs with the decision by Harvester, although the company will retain about 1,900 workers there in non-assembly jobs.

"The decision comes as a harsh blow to thousands of individuals who work for this major employer," said Fort Wayne Mayor Winfield Moses Jr. "I'm not surprised. I am disappointed and I'm deeply concerned about the worry I know this decision will cause."

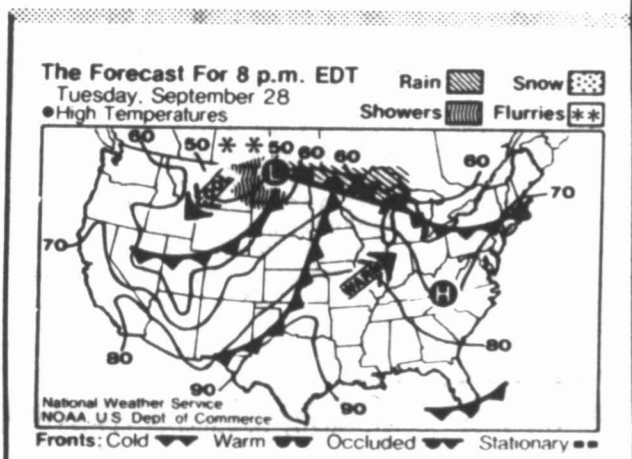

Financially troubled Harvester, which expects to lose $1.5 billion this year, announced in August it would close one of its North American truck plants, prompting a $30 million bidding war between Indiana and Ohio. A third truck plant in Chatham, Ontario, was not involved because of a U.S.-Canadian trade agreement.

However, Donald D. Lennox, Harvester's president and chief operating officer, said Monday the decision to consolidate in Springfield hinged on its more efficient plant, 40 years newer than Fort Wayne's.

IN SPRINGFIELD, a city of 73,000 people in central Ohio, Harvester workers and community leaders gathered in taverns and at private clubs to celebrate. Signs saying "Thanks IH" and "Springfield Loves IH" appeared at businesses.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, in Springfield for the announcement, said, "You know, there's not much of a line between misery and happiness."

Weather

Still summer in Texas

Partly cloudy skies dominated the Texas weather picture today as a trough of low pressure prodded warm temperatures and brisk winds across West Texas.

Some light showers were noted before dawn in the Panhandle.

Small patches of clouds dotted the eastern half of the state as the result of an area of high pressure east of Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s and 70s. Pre-dawn readings ranged from 63 at Lufkin and Marfa to 77 at Brownsville, Galveston and San Angelo.

Winds were from southeast and southwest statewide, at speeds ranging mostly from 10 to 15 miles per hour over the eastern half and 15 to 25 mph over the western half.

The forecast called for warm temperatures and windy conditions statewide. Isolated thunderstorms were possible over West and Northwest Texas. Wind advisories were posted for most lakes.

Tankers burn; town evacuates

LIVINGSTON, La. (AP) — An entire town was ordered evacuated today as derailed tank cars carrying liquid natural gas burned out of control and flames spread to nearby homes, authorities said.

"The flames are tremendous," said Willie Graves, spokesman for the Livingston Parish sheriff's office. "You can stand a half-mile away and hear the roar."

About 2,000 people were ordered to leave their homes as firefighters stood by and watched the railroad cars burn out of control in the middle of town, Graves said.

No injuries were reported in the 5 a.m. blaze, which engulfed four or five cars carrying liquid natural gas and possibly other chemicals, Graves said.

The blaze erupted as a train pulling about 45 cars derailed, said state police spokesman Mike Edmonson.

All residents of the town and a surrounding one-mile radius were ordered to evacuate to nearby high schools as a precaution, Graves said.

Graves said the flames quickly spread to at least two nearby houses and threatened to engulf other railroad cars.

George Wallace counts on blacks to return him to office

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former Gov. George Wallace, who began his political career with the cry "segregation forever," counts heavily on black voters in today's Democratic gubernatorial primary runoff.

But black leaders such as Coretta Scott King and the Rev. Jesse Jackson urged blacks to reject Wallace and vote for his opponent, Lt. Gov. George McMillan, who says he may have drained enough of Wallace's support among blacks to win the nomination.

Wallace, 63, is seeking an unprecedented fourth term as governor. McMillan, 38, is hoping to be the first lieutenant governor to become governor since 1918, when Thomas E. Kilby did.

Both candidates were busy campaigning Monday. McMillan hoppedscotched from Huntsville to Muscle Shoals to Birmingham to Montgomery seeking last-minute support. The wheelchair-bound Wallace was host at a $1-a-plate hot dog supper in Montgomery, where country singer Tammy Wynette wheeled him onto a stage as she sang "Stand By Your Man."

Wallace, who built his political career as a segregationist, was relying on a coalition of blacks and blue-collar voters to give him the right to face the Republican nominee, Montgomery Mayor Emory Folmar and several minor candidates in the Nov. 2 general election.

Wallace drew black votes in heavy numbers in the Sept. 7 primary, leading in every predominantly black county, but McMillan says Alabama voters, particularly blacks, are ready to reject Wallace.

The former governor led in the first primary with 42 percent of the vote to McMillan's 29 percent. A runoff was forced because no candidate got a majority.

The Wallace campaign announced Monday it received the endorsement of E.D. Nixon, an 82-year-old black who is known as the patriarch of the civil rights movement in Montgomery.

The Democratic primary runoff ballot also featured Supreme Court Justice Oscar Adams' effort to be elected to the post to which he was appointed in 1980 to fill a vacancy. If he defeats Public Service Commissioner Jim Zeigler in the runoff and goes on to beat GOP nominee Tom Hayden on Nov. 2, Adams would be the first black ever elected to statewide office in Alabama.

Adams, 57, has the endorsement of Gov. Fob James, who is not running for re-election, Attorney General Charles Graddick and many lawyers' groups. Zeigler, who has indirectly mentioned the racial factor in the runoff campaign, is well-known in Alabama and is given a strong chance of defeating the incumbent, which is rare in the state.

Help prevent voting fraud

The polling place is the heart of our democracy. Here, with a ballot, the people of Texas select the leaders of their government. As voters, they have the right to choose the men and women who make and enforce the laws of the State, levy the taxes, and decide how those taxes should be spent.

The voices, opinions, and influence of the voters of Texas are all recorded at the polls — with their vote.

BUT THEIR VOTE can be stolen, as surely as a thief can steal their property, through an act of criminal vote fraud or coercion. If our elections can be corrupted through fraud or coercion, the valuable freedom of choice we have will be lost.

For the month of October, 1982, the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its statewide "Crime of the Month" on vote fraud and coercion. If you have information on this criminal activity, please call the anti-crime hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS (8477).

CASH REWARDS ARE available for information leading to arrest and felony indictment of those who would, through fraud or coercion, attempt to set aside the voting process. Citizens do not have to reveal their name, just give their information, and they will be given a unique code number for identification purposes.

Help your election officials protect your vote, call 1-800-252-TIPS today.

Untied Nations

That exasperated command was made by the secretary-general to the delegate from Turkey at a Model United Nations Conference I attended in high school.

Its meanings pretty much sum up my feelings about the real turkey delegates up in New York.

At a Model United Nations, students from various high schools play the part of UN delegates. They learn their countries' political needs and vote accordingly on resolutions.

It's play acting that accomplishes nothing of importance to the real world. Sadly, that makes it identical to its model organization.

With the situation in the Lebanon and Poland and with the superpowers distrustful each other more and more, the phrase "world crisis" crops up regularly.

The United Nations was formed in the '40s to make sure that a world crisis does not turn into a world war. Has it accomplished that?

originators wanted it to be a step toward world democracy.

It didn't take long, however, for its members to start tearing away at that purpose. Like a huge game of Risk, the smaller countries with less power gathered forces to get their sort of agenda for problems they felt were important and to hurt those they opposed.

Today, the United States may be the richest and most powerful member of the organization, but it doesn't get to act like it. The United States spends its time apologizing.

I'm not being a jingoist. The U.S. has done and will do things it should apologize for. But in the United Nations there is a polarization between the great majority of members — mostly small Third World nations — and a few selected targets.

The United States and other Western industrialized nations make up one target. South Africa is another. Israel is the biggest.

ANYTIME THE United Nations has tried to place its influence on a situation — like the hostage crisis — it has pulled back, embarrassed at its own lack of influence.

That was the case when Kurt Waldheim, as secretary-general of the UN, visited Iran and was not even heard by either side.

Waldheim is gone now. You can't blame one man for the failure of an organization, but many people are glad he's gone. Waldheim is glad he's gone. He once remarked that the pressures of the job had given him "the temper of John McEnroe."

I wouldn't have minded Waldheim hurling his racket into the General Assembly now and then. The UN only seems able to get in the way of solutions to problems. Their record of finding solutions is pretty bad.

Why? The United Nations was probably a bad idea to begin with. The purpose was to give every nation of significant size a voice in some kind of world forum. The best-intentioned of its

IT IS impossible for the UN to have any influence over Israeli actions — like what they have done in Lebanon — because resolutions condemning Israel are introduced daily no matter what. And a UN condemnation carries about as much weight as a Howard Cosell compliment. Meaningless. Imagine a roomful of statesmen wagging their fingers and saying "Naughty, naughty!"

The United Nations has its well-intentioned programs, especially those which combat world-hunger. But they are poorly carried out because the UN is too splintered to commit to them fully. They are halfway done, just like its "crisis intervention" is often halfway done.

There are repeated cries for the United States to pull out of the United Nations. We provide its main financial support and the organization could fold if we withdrew.

Why would we be going, I'm not sure the world would notice the United Nation's absence.

The NFL tragedy

Of all the recent strikes that have affected Americans, none has been as devastating as the NFL football players' action against the owners.

While we have read about the financial losses to the players and owners, the toll in human tragedy amongst the fans is far greater than anyone imagined.

Here is just one of the scenes that was played out last Sunday in a suburban Washington home.

Sam Spilsky found himself sitting in front of his 25-inch TV set, a six pack by his side, a bag of potato chips in front of him.

His wife said, "What are you going to do, Sam?"

"I'm going to watch the Redskins-Cardinals' game."

"Sam, there is no Redskins-Cardinals' game. The players are on strike."

"You're just saying that because you don't want me to watch television."

"It's in all the papers, Sam."

Sam looked up at his wife. "But it's Sunday. They always give us football on Sunday."

"They can't this week. There is nobody to play."

"It's in the Constitution. They have to give us football on Sundays, and Monday and Thursday nights."

"Don't get mad at me. I'm not on strike."

"But in your heart you were hoping something like this would happen. You always resented me watching football."

"I never resented it. I knew what the game meant to you. It was your life."

"But what am I going to do?"

"Why don't you rake the leaves or wash the car or take a walk?"

"I can't do that. It's Sunday. You're supposed to get four football games on Sunday," Sam said, twisting the TV dials madly.

"Maybe we could have some friends over," Sam's wife said nervously.

"I don't want to see anybody. I want to see football. The Redskins are on a streak. We're 2-and-0 now. We could go all the way to the Super Bowl."

"Sam, would you like to see a movie?"

"I'm going to stay right here. Maybe they'll settle the strike before kickoff time."

"They won't have time to put on their uniforms."

"So they can play in their street clothes. We used to do it as kids."

"Please, Sam, you've got to face reality. There aren't going to be any games this week. Why don't you go out and play touch football with the children?"

"They don't know the plays. How can you play football without a game plan?"

"I wish I could do something for you. Tomorrow you'll feel better."

"How can I feel better tomorrow? There won't be any Monday Night Football. What am I going to do?"

Sam's wife nuzzled up to him. "We could make love."

"Are you crazy? Nobody in America makes love on Monday night."

"Sam, we've never talked this long before on Sunday afternoon, but since we are, I think I should tell you that there is more to married life than watching pro football games."

"The hell you say."

"I'm serious, Sam. Every fall I'm lonely and I feel I've lost you. This is a good test of our marriage. If you can get through this week without having watched a football game, it means that we have something going."

"Like what?"

"It will indicate I mean more to you than Howard Cosell."

"Of course you mean more to me than Howard Cosell. But don't ask me to choose between you and Frank Gifford."

AF again hid true cost

WASHINGTON — Here we go again: In a shocking replay of a 13-year-old embarrassment, Air Force officials hid from Congress the true cost of a controversial cargo plane during months of heated debate on Capitol Hill.

The plane is the Lockheed C-5B Galaxy, a remake of the C-5A, the notorious granddaddy of Pentagon overruns. Back in 1969, the Pentagon brass desperately tried to cover up a $1.36 billion overrun on the original C-5; this year's six-month coverup involved about $1 billion of the true cost of the C-5B.

The Air Force insists that the figure — estimated at $979 million last April — does not constitute an overrun, but merely a price increase caused by inflation. It blamed Congress for causing the price escalation by delaying funding for the plane.

This is word play. An overrun by any other name costs the taxpayers just as much money.

The important point is that the program's cost was the crucial point at issue during congressional debate on the C-5B that began in early May and lasted till the middle of August. The Air Force knew as early as February that the projected cost it had given to Congress was seriously out of date, yet it didn't finally concede this until August, when the C-5B was on the verge of congressional approval.

In other words, throughout the months of debate, Congress didn't have the facts on the key point at issue. The C-5B won a close victory; if Congress had been told that the true cost of the program would be substantially higher, the vote might well have gone the other way.

An Air Force spokesman told my associate Donald Goldberg it isn't clear when the Air Force realized the figures it had given Congress were too low. But internal messages between Pentagon officials and their colleagues at Andrews Air Force Base, outside Washington, D.C. and Wright Patterson Air Force Base, in Ohio, lay bare the Air Force's duplicity.

IN ONE MESSAGE, dated Feb. 23, one Air Force official pointed out that the price escalation rates on which the C-5B program was based were six months out of date. This meant that the actual cost was already $657.5 million more than the Air Force was acknowledging.

"It is not possible to implement the Secretary of Defense's decision to buy 50 C-5 aircraft with the funds as outlined in the message unless they are adjusted," the message warned bluntly.

By April 8, the true cost had risen even higher over the projections the Air Force was still publicly clinging to. "This office may not be able to comply with ... the funding constraints in the ... president's budget," advised an official at Wright Patterson AFB.

An April 21 message from an Andrews AFB official to Air Force headquarters reiterated the warning. While noting that the budget would be adequate for the C-5B if 1980 dollars were used, the official recognized the folly of projecting costs on two-year-old data by stating: "When this profile is escalated using the Jan. 1982 rates, a shortfall of $979 million exists."

But none of this was known to members of Congress as they considered approval or rejection of the C-5B during May, June and July. Critics of the C-5B, who were already arguing in favor of a cheaper alternative, could not get the Air Force to admit that its cost figures were unrealistically low.

Finally, under pressure from Rep. Norm Dicks, D-Wash., and Dina Razor, director of the Project on Military Procurement, a public-interest watchdog group, the Air Force in early August provided figures that showed the C-5B would cost even more than the critics had charged.

By then, the congressional delegation from Georgia, where the planes will be built, had all its ducks in a row. The C-5B was approved despite the new disclosures.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Rev. Jerry Falwell tried to get through the Gates of Heaven and failed. It wasn't the portals guarded by St. Peter, but a stretch of white water on West Virginia's Gauley River. The Moral Majority evangelist's raft threw him off as he was trying to negotiate the turbulent stretch. A spokesman said Falwell thinks the rapid should be renamed the Gates of Hell.

Billy Graham

I need forgiveness

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I keep telling myself that God will forgive me for my sins, but somehow I just can't seem to convince myself of it. I need forgiveness, but I don't know how to go about it. — E.T.

DEAR E.T.: We all need forgiveness, because all of us have sinned against God no matter who we are. The Bible says, "If we claim to be without sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1:8).

But how can we know that God has forgiven us? We cannot know it simply by hoping it is true, or trying to talk ourselves into it. Nor can we know for certain whether or not we are forgiven simply by examining our emotions — saying that if we feel forgiven, then we must be forgiven (or conversely, that if we don't feel forgiven then we must not be forgiven).

There is only one basis or foundation for forgiveness, and that is what God has done for us in Jesus Christ, his only Son. You see, you and I can never do enough to win God's forgiveness and favor. No matter how good we are, we can never cleanse ourselves of the stain of sin. Only God can do that — and he has made it possible in Jesus Christ.

Jesus Christ came into this world to take away our sins. He did this by dying in our place on the cross. He was sinless and perfect, and yet in his love for us he took upon himself the sin and punishment that belong to us. We deserved to die, but he died in our place. When a Christian says "Christ died for me," he means that Christ did for us what we could never do for ourselves — he brought us forgiveness.

Take your sins and lay them at the foot of the cross. Realize that Jesus Christ died to take away your sins. "In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, in accordance with the riches of God's grace" (Ephesians 1:7).

But salvation — including forgiveness, reconciliation, and eternal life — is a gift from God that must be accepted. If I offered you a gift, it would only be yours if you reached out and accepted it.

SURFSIDE BEACH, Texas (AP) — They call it an "open beach" because motorists are allowed to drive along water's edge, park on the sand, and lay a beach blanket right there. You don't even have to take the ice chest out of the car.

It may sound like the ideal set-up, but critics who want to get cars off the beach say the resulting crowds have become so bad that the once-serene gulf shore is no longer safe for sunbathers and children.

Warm-weather weekends attract up to 60,000 people to this tiny coastal village, which has only 567 year-around residents.

While the local merchants enjoy the business, others complain of beer-drinking, pot-smoking youths who fight, curse, speed and leave mountains of trash behind when they leave. Clean-up last year cost $135,000.

"I won't let my kids go there, and it's a real shame when the residents of Brazoria County can't use their own beach," said Sheriff's Deputy Jim Hinton.

vehicles, and the local Save Our Beach Association here has fought for years for a pedestrian-only beach, complaining that traffic hastens erosion.

The beach association was able to push through an ordinance making it against the law to molest a sand dune, but the group managed to get only three-quarters of a mile of the city's five miles of gulf shoreline closed to motorists.

The majority of the city's beaches remain open to vehicular traffic, and Mayor C.T. Smith vowed that's the way it will remain as long as he is in office.

"It's one of the few places we have left that you can go for free, and lots of families down here I know don't have any money," Smith said. "I'd hate to see that taken away from those people to benefit a few beachfront property owners — that's all it would help."

A beachfront property owner and former mayor, Bob Brannan, argued everyone would benefit by an ordinance banning cars.

"Originally we were a family-oriented beach, but in the last five years, that has completely changed," said Brannan, a real estate dealer whose company manages several beach rental houses.

The main reason for the influx of crowds and the misbehavior, he said, was that Galveston, about 30 miles up the coast, outlawed cars on its beaches until four years ago.

"After that, they just moved here. Now we have young people who cruise up and down the beach and drink beer, smoke marijuana and pop pills," said Brannan.

Surfside Beach Marshal Phil Pesses said he and his four deputies are overwhelmed by the weekend crowds. He said about half the weekend crowd are "rowdies," who paid $132,467 in fines last year.

"They get down here and get to drinking and they feel like the can do anything they want," said Pesses, a former Marine who hauls so many offenders to the county jail at Angleton that the jail there has become overcrowded.

More than 200 prisoners are taken to jail on holiday weekends, such as Memorial Day and Labor Day, said Pesses, who only last month acquired a paddy wagon. It holds 16 prisoners.

House takes up DWI bill

Grants would go to states passing tougher laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, determined to get drunk drivers off the nation's highways, is considering a bill aimed at offering states incentive grants if they pass tough alcohol-traffic laws.

The legislation would establish a three-year, $125 million grant program to encourage states to set up comprehensive, coordinated drunk driver control programs.

After the bill was approved by the House Public Works and Transportation Committee, Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., said it would set aside $25 million in fiscal 1983 from the Highway Trust Fund, and $50 million the following two years.

Barnes said the grants would be used as "seed money" to reward states which take recommended steps toward setting up programs to deter drunk driving and to remove the bottlenecks in the enforcement and adjudication systems.

The Senate passed similar legislation last May, but provided for only $75 million over the next two years to states which enact model drunk driving laws.

An aide to Barnes said House and Senate members were working toward a compromise that would include the $125 million grants over the next three years.

The House is hoping to pass the measure today. The Senate was then expected to adopt the House measure before Congress recesses later this week for the campaign season.

The model law, which Congress seeks to get states to enact, includes provisions that a driver have his license automatically suspended for 90 days for failing a chemical sobriety test. Repeat offenders would have their licenses suspended for one year.

An individual whose license had been suspended for drunk driving would have his car impounded for 90 days if he was caught driving.

In addition, the state's program must include the acceptance of a blood alcohol test result of 0.10 percent as evidence to enforce drunk driving laws, and a driver record system capable of identifying repeat offenders.

Ex-CIA agent claims arrest illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for former CIA agent Edwin P. Wilson plan to press their claim that he was illegally arrested even though a federal judge has rejected the argument without comment.

After a four-hour hearing Monday, U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt denied Wilson a hearing on whether the government scheme that lured him from his haven in Libya to an arrest in New York City constituted such misconduct that he should be set free. That claim has been the central thrust of defense efforts on Wilson's behalf so far.

Pratt set Nov. 22 for Wilson's trial on charges that he failed to register as a Libyan agent and that he shipped explosives illegally to a terrorist training school in Libya in 1976 and 1977.

But Pratt granted a defense motion to give Wilson a separate trial at an unscheduled date on charges that he conspired unsuccessfully to assassinate a Libyan dissident living in Egypt. Pratt said the charges were substantially different, and trying them with the explosives charges "may be unduly prejudicial" to Wilson.

Wilson's chief attorney, Herald Price Fahringer, made clear in court that despite Pratt's ruling he still would raise the illegal arrest claim before federal judges in Houston and northern Virginia, where the former spy faces other federal charges.

Wilson's other attorney, John Keats, said later the defense would not appeal Pratt's ruling before Wilson's trial here, but he did not rule out appealing Pratt's decision if Wilson is convicted here.

Wilson, who was in court here for the morning session of the hearing, is being held at an undisclosed location in the New York City area in lieu of bonds totaling $60 million in the three cases.

Fahringer said that Wilson, who was in Libya when he was indicted in April 1980, was persuaded to leave by businessman Ernest Keiser. Fahringer said Keiser represented himself as a consultant to the National Security Council, seeking Wilson's help in setting up an intelligence project in Central America.

Arrests climb PCB protest

AFTON, N.C. (AP) — Police arrested 114 people in a protest against the dumping of PCB-tainted soil at a landfill, bringing the number of people jailed in almost two weeks of demonstrations to more than 350.

Those arrested Monday for blocking trucks carrying the soil included several civil rights leaders and Walter E. Fauntroy, the delegate to Congress from Washington, D.C.

A march and rally were planned for today by opponents of PCB dumping at the Warren County landfill.

About 500 marchers took part in Monday's demonstration as the protests entered their 13th day.

Ann Sheppard Turner, the only white and only woman among the "Wilmington 10," was arrested Monday. The Wilmington 10 were 10 people charged with firebombing a grocery store during racial upheavals in Wilmington in 1971. They were convicted but an appeals court later reversed the ruling.

Also arrested Monday were Nelson Johnson, a leader of the Communist Workers Party; Martha Nathan, wife of a CWP member slain during the Greensboro confrontation with Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis in 1979; and Evelyn Lowery, wife of Joseph Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Ken Ferruchio, president of Warren County Citizens Concerned About PCB, said Mrs. Lowery and seven other protesters remained in jail Monday night. He said landfill opponents planned to march again today.

Dr. Donohue

Track down cause of hay fever

Dear Dr. Donohue: I know this time of year there are thousands of people who are suffering from hay fever. I am one of them. I do not like to depend on antihistamines to attempt to breathe properly. In the long run they seem to compound my problem. Short of seeing a specialist and having to pay an enormous fee, do you have any remedies? Can you help me find a more natural and permanent approach to my problem? — K.E.

My sincerest advice to you is to seek out an allergist. You won't be charged an enormous fee, and in the long run you will not only get relief but save yourself money. For example, you would not need all those antihistamines.

From your symptoms and from the time of the year you have them, the allergist can make a very educated guess about which pollens are troubling you. He will want to confirm his suspicions by taking skin tests. When he's sure of what's causing your trouble he will have a serum made for you. And most often, after the injections with that serum have begun you will notice your symptoms subsiding.

You will be better off in the long run by having appropriate desensitization. It's better than having to spend money on over-the-counter medicines that may relieve your symptoms but do nothing for the underlying allergic condition.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a physical problem that has been bothering me for two years. It was once diagnosed as nervous colitis. I have been told that it is all in my head, that my emotions cause this. I find I have to visit the rest room quite often. I have had both constipation and diarrhea. I also have gas buildup. It can be frustrating. Do you think this originates in my head? — Mr. T.C.

Nervous colitis, or more properly, irritable bowel syndrome, is not all in your head. It's in your digestive tract, although it may be partly affected by what's going on in your head.

The entire digestive tract is normally a peaceful sea, where one calm wave follows another, gently propelling food along through the bowels. In irritable bowel syndrome, the peaceful sea becomes a tempest. Those waves of motion become unpredictable and troublesome. There can be pain and periods of diarrhea alternating with periods of constipation.

The treatment is to try to restore tranquility to the scene. Yes, emotional turmoil can be part of the picture, so everyday stresses should be brought under control. And because the person's digestive tract is more sensitive to small disturbances, any foods that contribute to this touchiness ought to be eliminated.

You can begin by keeping a food and drink diary, noting the substances the seem to cause problems, then eliminating them one by one. Often, foregoing milk and products for a while brings relief. And high-fiber foods are recommended to keep the contents of the digestive tract from drying out. Bran is one of the best.

A two-pronged attack, one that addresses both the emotional and physical factors involved can often bring surprising results. You may want to study the booklet "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Other readers with the problem can order by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you please let me know if there is anything to be done for ozena except washing your nose out every day? — M.L.

Ozena is a very rare and special kind of nose problem and we don't know what causes it. It causes a thick greenish discharge with a very unpleasant odor. Crusts form on the inside of the nose.

I can tell you in a general way what is usually done for this, but for the best advice for your particular case, you should really see an otorhinolaryngologist. There are lubricating ointments that can be used to keep the inside of the nose moist. The crusting is controlled by daily irrigation with salt-water solutions.

Blood vessel dilators, like nicotinic acid, are sometimes employed to bring a better blood supply to the affected area.

Mrs. America applications sought

Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the fairest wife of all?

The Mrs. America Pageant has moved a step closer to providing the answer to the question by announcing it has officially begun accepting applications to its 50 state-wide preliminary competitions, the first hurdle en route to qualify for the 1983 Mrs. America finals which is to be taped for national television on April 15 from the Las Vegas Hilton.

In order to participate in the seventh annual Mrs. America competition, the only major national pageant that doesn't discriminate against married women, a candidate must be a U.S. citizen, a minimum of 18 years old, married for at least one year as of the entry date of her state pageant and a resident of the state she represents for a minimum of six months.

Mrs. America contestants are judged on beauty, poise and personality and participate in swimsuit and evening gown competitions.

As befits her majesty, the new Mrs. America will win a new automobile, a wardrobe of fashions and jewelry, and a year of travel, personal appearances and cash prizes.

Applications for the 1983 competitions are available at all Roffler Family Hair Care Centers nationally or through the Mrs. America Pageant headquarters. For more information on state pageants and the Mrs. America program, contact Mrs. America Pageant, 2001 Wilshire Blvd., Santa Monica, Calif. 90403.

Last year, more than 15,000 married women applied to the Mrs. America Pageant. The 50 finalists ranged in age from 20 to 48 (the average was 32.1), were married and average of 8.7 years, and had an average of 1.8 children. Forty of the 50 finalists were mothers.

Carnival sponsors needed

Fall is in the air and Halloween is around the corner. Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services is busy planning Halloween activities for the patients.

Friday, Oct. 29, Halloween activities will begin with a parade on the hospital grounds at 10 a.m. A carnival will follow in the afternoon featuring game booths and refreshments. Prizes will also be awarded.

Volunteer Services is in need of sponsors for the carnival booths as well as donated items to be used as prizes. Some items that would be useful to the patients as prizes include: hair combs and brushes, small bars of soap, purse size tissues, toothbrushes, gum, fruit, instant coffee, pens and pencils and memo pads.

For clubs and organizations seeking a service project, this is an opportunity that requires little time and effort. Volunteer Services encourages both individual and group participation in the sponsoring of carnival booths and prizes. If interested, call Volunteer Office at 267-8216 ext. 535 for additional details.

Woman demonstrates exercises at meeting

The Sew and Chatter Club met Sept. 22 at Canterbury with Neva Clinkscales as hostess.

The group will meet again Oct. 13 in the home of Avanel Cook.

Verma McIlvain, president, presided. Members were asked to bring cookies Oct. 1 for patients at the Big Spring State Hospital. The club's donation to the Bible Fund was reported paid, and a donation to the March of Dimes was approved.

Pat Johnston met with the group and demonstrated various exercises that can be done sitting in a chair and are especially good for people with heart problems.

Dear Abby

Behavior disturbs parents

DEAR ABBY: One night our son said to his wife, "Go get the book I left in the hall." Although he is not crippled, and she is not mute, she complied without saying a word. Our son is 28 and his wife is 23.

Neither my husband nor I said anything at the time, but later we agreed that it was unpleasant behavior on our son's part, and pathetic behavior on the part of his wife. This wasn't the first time we observed his chauvinism and her meek compliance. Right after their wedding, we dropped them off at the house where they were to spend the night, and she carried their bags while he walked ahead, burden-free.

I think we should say something to our son about his lack of consideration for his wife. My husband says it's none of our business, and to interfere would be tampering with their relationship. Also, he says that perhaps our son needs a "slave" and his wife enjoys the role.

Are there no instances where interference is appropriate? If we saw our son stealing money from his wife or beating her up, would we not feel compelled to say something about it even if his wife were too shy or insecure to complain or defend herself?

DISTRESSED BUT STILL SILENT

DEAR DISTRESSED: As I view it, the only problem here is that you are dismayed with (1) the rude and inconsiderate way your son treats his wife, and (2) her uncomplaining acceptance of it. Although it's unpleasant to witness, as long as he doesn't physically abuse her and she's not complaining, you'd be wise to offer no suggestions.

DEAR ABBY: My friend, Cyndi, is 25, a good dresser, has a nice personality and lots of common sense. She has held well-paying, responsible jobs that involve contact with the public. With all her exposure to the public and bosses, why does she say, "I see him the other day" or, "He don't know nothing"?

Abby, this girl is no dummy, but the way she talks sure makes her come across like one. I know she knows better, but I wonder if she can hear herself, doesn't care, or simply doesn't think it matters that she sounds like a dumb broad. Why does she do this?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Cyndi may "know better," but apparently constant exposure to poor grammar during her early years has made her insensitive to poor grammar. Even with all you say she has going for her, she won't last long in a job that requires her to meet the public unless she cleans up her act. If she's your friend, help her.

If you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Fallout trial: Victims testify

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Cancer victims and their widowers told stories of physical pain and a decade of heartache as a trial on the health effects of atomic test fallout entered its third week.

"It's been 10 years of heartache," said Verlynn Bradshaw, 54, the mother of Jeffrey Bradshaw of Cedar City, Utah, as she testified Monday.

Bradshaw said he contracted Hodgkin's disease — or cancer of the lymph glands — 10 years ago, and it has twice recurred.

Bradshaw is among 1,192 claimants who allege fallout from above-ground nuclear tests in Nevada from 1951 to 1962 caused cancer and other illnesses. They also claim the government knew or should have known the fallout was hazardous, but failed to adequately warn or protect people downwind from the tests.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Jenkins is hearing testimony on 24 representative plaintiffs' cases. Plaintiffs' attorneys hope Jenkins' decision in the cases will let the other claimants obtain settlements out of court.

Plaintiffs' attorneys said seven of the eight remaining representative plaintiffs probably would testify today and the final one would take the stand Thursday. The trial is expected to last until Thanksgiving.

Bradshaw, 28, said he was attending Northern Arizona University on a baseball scholarship when his cancer was diagnosed. He was forced to drop out of school and eventually abandon hopes of a major league baseball career, he said.

"I was going to be a major-league pitcher," he said. "I just felt bad for myself. I was torn apart. I felt like killing myself."

He became addicted to pain-killing drugs because of his cancer and depression, he said.

Bradshaw said he has overcome the addiction and his cancer is under control after a bout in 1979, but he has a related hip disability and must use a cane or crutches to walk.

He and his wife, unable to have children because of the cancer treatments, are attempting to adopt, he said.

"Every time adoption agencies hear I have cancer, they say I'm a bad risk," he said.

Bess Truman keeps alert

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — After a three-week hospital stay for treatment of a bleeding intestinal ulcer, former first lady Bess Truman is alert and nurses are trying to keep her physically active.

Dr. Wallace Graham, her longtime physician, said he and Mrs. Truman's nurses were trying to keep the 97-year-old widow active by helping her stand and walk and by talking to her about events she is likely to recall of her life in Washington.

Mrs. Truman, the nation's oldest former first lady, was admitted to Research Medical Center in Kansas City Sept. 2 with a bleeding ulcer in her small intestine. She returned to her Independence home Friday.

L.A. takes steps to control bad air

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Air Resources Board will take its first step next month toward controlling unregulated cancer-causing chemicals mixed in the smog of urban air, the board's chairman says.

Mary Nichols said Monday the board will act during a public meeting in Sacramento Oct. 27 to begin a program of identifying specific airborne carcinogens and their sources and then requiring industries to "control them to the maximum extent that's practical."

"The idea behind this approach is to develop a basic philosophy for dealing with cancer in the air," Ms. Nichols told reporters, adding that the board plans to set up "a framework for regulating these substances, which until now have been uncontrolled."

The board's proposed "guideline regulations," which will give local air quality management districts the regulatory tools to deal with carcinogens, are recommendations for the districts.

"We think there's an unnecessary risk of cancer caused by substances people are breathing in the air. We want to minimize that risk," she said. "This is a terribly controversial area, with millions of dollars at stake." During the weekend, it was reported that a board study found that concentrations of some carcinogens in the air over Los Angeles County are hundreds of times greater than federal limits for the same substances in drinking water. Among chemicals specifically cited were benzene, carbon tetrachloride, chloroform and vinyl chloride.

Although Los Angeles was the only area studied and no comparisons were made, Ms. Nichols said, "I would suspect if you look at any large city you are going to find similar concentrations."

She said the level of potential risk is undetermined and conceded considerable uncertainty in applying the dangers of water-borne carcinogens to air pollution.

The greatest danger, however, would be to ignore the problem until irrefutable evidence is in, she said.

"We don't want to wait like we did with asbestos workers in the shipyards, and (take no action) until they are dying of cancer" — as thousands of people who worked with asbestos decades ago are now dying of lung cancers and other maladies, she said.

Targeted chemicals will include not only those firmly proven to cause cancer in humans, but also any substance that "is strongly suspected as a carcinogen," she said.

Ms. Nichols said the board, after considering the problem for several years, decided against the traditional regulatory method of setting specific standards — concentrations considered safe and permissible. Scientists, she said, cannot agree whether any exposure by many of the chemicals can be low enough for absolute safety.

By ignoring standard-setting and going directly to industry for the "best practicable control," she said, "this approach will be the first of its kind in California and (it) is different from that being used anywhere else in the United States."

The October meeting should at least rank carcinogens in order of their potential hazard and need for control, she said.

Pecos water decision nears

PECOS (AP) — Texas and New Mexico officials say they hope a recommendation to the U.S. Supreme Court that could come this week will settle a longstanding feud between the states over nearly four trillion gallons of Pecos River water.

Texas sued New Mexico in 1974, claiming its western neighbor has shortchanged Texas by 1.2 million acre-feet of water over the last 20 years, said Jean Breitenstein, a 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals justice appointed special master in the case.

New Mexico controls the source of the river and claims it has apportioned Texas the water fairly.

But officials in this West Texas city say they have received so little water from the river that farmers who use it for irrigation are being forced into bankruptcy while the New Mexico valley is green and thriving.

Breitenstein, who heard arguments in the case six weeks ago, told the Pecos Enterprise this week that he may issue his recommendation as early as this week.

An agreement between the states, called the 1947 Pecos River Compact, established a commission for mediating disputes and set a formula for measuring the river's water flow—a formula the states interpret differently.

The three-member commission, composed of a representatives from Texas, New Mexico and the federal government, has deadlocked on the formula's interpretation. The federal official cannot vote in case of dispute.

Breitenstein said his recommendation will propose new guidelines for a formula if he believes the high court has jurisdiction in the case.

Should the Supreme Court decide it can select a method for measuring water flow, it will determine how much water, if any, New Mexico owes Texas, Breitenstein said.

AT&T to turn over details of Bell contract

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Texas ratepayers may soon learn just what they are charged for under a so-called license contract between Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and its parent company, American Telephone & Telegraph.

After weeks of delay in responding to an Aug. 9 Public Utility Commission subpoena and finally a district court order, AT&T agreed Monday to turn over all subpoenaed material concerning its license contract with Bell.

The material, however, first will go to the two commission examiners in charge of hearing the phone company's record $471.5 million request for an increase in annual revenues. Under that request, residential customers are being asked to pay $4.60 more a month for a one-party line.

In turn, the examiners have agreed to review the documents beginning sometime Tuesday and make public only those portions considered relevant to the rate case.

"I'm not sure how long that will take, but I'll do it as fast as possible," examiner Jacqueline Holmes said.

The examiners also agreed not to release information considered to be trade secrets of Bell or AT&T.

Under Bell's latest rate hike request, Texas customers are being asked to foot the bill on $63 million in license contract payments made to AT&T for various services.

Critics say the information could show that the payments, which are passed on to the ratepayer, subsidize many activities that are of no benefit to the 4.5 million Bell customers in Texas.

Those activities could include research on how to undercut competitors, stockholders meetings and artwork for executives, Bell critics say.

Bell attorneys argue that the license contract payments are legitimate because AT&T provides technology and training that improve telephone service.

Other parties to the rate case, including the utility commission staff, were less than happy with the screening arrangement.

Officials with the Texas Alarm and Signal Association, representing many security and burglar alarm companies in the state, and the Texas Municipal League, which represents dozens of Texas cities fighting the rate hike, said they will press this week for dismissal of the entire rate case.

PUC attorney Sara Cristol said the commission staff is pushing only for dismissal of the license contract portion of the case.

In a dismissal motion filed Monday by the Texas Municipal League, Abilene City Attorney Harvey Cargill Jr. noted that AT&T and Bell have been less than candid in the release of information dealing with license contracts.

One disclosure, he said, lacked the required coding system needed to determine whether Texas ratepayers were billed.

Cargill said Bell has the legal burden of showing that the license contract payments are appropriate and "for the cities to have to disprove expenses is to misplace the burden of proof."

Other disclosures have been not only late but incomplete, he said.

In the commission staff's motion for dismissal of the license contract issues, Ms. Cristol said she can't say whether the many delays have been calculated to waste the staff's time.

Suspect charged in baby kidnapping

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — A 41-year-old Mesquite man was arrested and charged with aggravated kidnapping early today in connection with the Sept. 17 abduction of a bank president's infant son who was released after payment of a $50,000 ransom, authorities said.

Travis Alvie McCann was taken into custody at his residence about 12:20 a.m., said Hunt County Sheriff's Capt. Rickie Click.

Officers recovered $19,711 in cash at McCann's residence, Click said.

McCann was charged with aggravated kidnapping and jailed in lieu of $1 million bond, according to Justice of the Peace Merrick Money.

Click said McCann had been a suspect for "a few days" in the kidnapping of 8-week-old Clay Lewis, who was found unharmed in Mesquite, a Dallas suburb, about two hours after he was abducted at gunpoint from his parents' home.

Five of the 10 Big Spring area football teams recorded victories on the fourth Friday of the 1982 season. The biggest wins were Colorado City's 23-14 decision over Wylie (the Wolves' first win of the year) and Trent's come-from-behind 26-22 victory over Trent in a key district game. Other big wins were posted by Garden City (14-7 over Robert Lee) and Sands (20-0 over O'Donnell).

Richard Gibson (Grady Wildcats): On Friday's thrilling victory over previously unbeaten Trent — "Mercy, it was exciting. We fumbled at their 3 and 10 the first two times we had the ball. We were down 14-6 at the half. We turned the ball over four times between us in the last few minutes. Then with 22 seconds left and the clocking running, we scored on pass on fourth and three. It was a super exciting game between two evenly matched ballclubs. I was pleased with the character our young men had to hang in there tough and come back to win. We're real excited to be 2-0 in district." On third league game against Hermleigh — "I hope we play well early and get on top and maintain the lead. There are three teams (Grady, Lueders-Avoca and Highland) left without a loss in district."

Steve Park (Stanton Buffaloes): On last week's baseball-like 4-0 loss to Hamlin — "We just didn't play well offensively. Defensively, we played well enough to win. Hamlin had some injuries but they were healthy for us. They got their running back back and he makes all the difference in them. They had their confidence back." On defense which has given up one touchdown in four games — "The kids like to hit pretty well. They get after it and take pride in it. Offensively we're going to make some switches so we can get it going." On this week's battle against undefeated Seagraves — "They do the same stuff they've done for the last 30 years offensively and defensively. They run the Wing-T and run five on defense that like to jump around a lot. They've averaged 30 points a game and had only six scored on them. But they haven't been playing all that tough competition."

Joe Longley (Greenwood Rangers): On last week's shutout at Sterling City — "We just got our tails drilled. We had a lot of things go wrong. The wind made the football just a knuckleball. We had some drops. We just stayed in a hole all night. Our offense was rather consistent or it would have been 50-0. They are huge and they just manhandled us." On facing defensive-minded Robert Lee — "They've got a good defensive ballclub. This should be a good football game. Our kids realized we still have got a chance to win. You know we've played one of the top teams in New Mexico and the No. 7 (Wink), 13 (Iraan) and 14 (Sterling City) teams in the state. So you can't say we've had a slouch schedule."

Jan East (Forsan Buffaloes): On Friday's game with O'Donnell after a week's "vacation" — "We saw them last Friday against Sands. They haven't won a ballgame yet but they've got a bunch of young kids that keep getting better each week. I feel like we can win but we'll have to play well." On the work accomplished during an off week — "We put on a new offense and defense. Just trying to do the things that will get us ready for district."

Stewart Cooper (Garden City Bearkats): On last week's comeback performance against a tough Robert Lee team — "We had an outstanding defensive game. We couldn't have asked for any more from our kids. They gave us the ball in good field position all night. We're disappointed we didn't put it in the end zone more — we had six penetrations and scored just on two. But the kids bounced back well. They gave us a good effort and we were tickled to death with that." On meeting Water Valley Friday — "Against Sands (a 34-0 shutout by the Mustangs) they had one back out. They bounced back and beat Loraine 39-14. They're big — 255, 235, 180, 109 — exceptionally big. They have some good athletes. They're the type of team that you're scared to play because they can put it all together against you. This is only their third year in 11-man."

Tom Ramsey (Colorado City Wolves): On first win of the year against Wylie — "It was a good game. We finally got some offense going. The defense had eight or nine quarterback sacks — they had given up just four before that. The secondary did a good job against their pass and the forcing unit put a lot of pressure on them. We're playing a different caliber of folks now." On going for win No. 2 against Clyde — "They've beaten Brady and Rotan. They have a couple of big tackles and a 235-pound fullback. They're not as big overall as they have been. They've got the big tackles but the other guards and center are 170. We should be able to play."

Larry Hudson (Coahoma Bulldogs): On win over

Reagan Co. that evened Bulldogs' record at 2-2 — "I was real proud of our effort against Big Lake. We ran well and we did some throwing, too. We're glad to see that phase of our game come around. We even got our other quarterback John Swinney in there and he threw quite a big. He needed it. John Wilson and Kelly Martin did a good job running the football and James Gilbert did an outstanding job at linebacker. And Jimmy Carruthers got another interception." On facing awesome Denver City — "They beat Colorado City something like 40 points. They are rated No. 9 in the state. They do everything well and have a senior ballclub. They have a junior quarterback and junior tackle and the rest are seniors. They have excellent feet, are fast and are tall. They have two talented running backs in David Hemmeline and Butch Burkhalter. We're going up there though, like a buzzsaw."

Jim White (Sands Mustangs): On victory No. 4 against O'Donnell — "I'm enjoying it. Boy, they sure did get after us. It was another tight game until we pulled away in the fourth quarter. Our defense was bending but not breaking. They ran up and down the field on us but we stiffened up when we had to." On hosting the Lamesa junior varsity Thursday — "We never had a game scheduled with the realignment and I'd rather play a game than stay open. Unless you have some injuries. Their program is really improving over there. They're good size — 175-180 pounds per player — and that's a good size...big enough to hold your own but still have some quickness."

Bill West (Klondike Cougars): On last week's first loss of the season at the hands of Jayton — "They were a real tough team. It was a good offensive game like I expected. But we had eight turnovers and anytime you have eight turnovers, we have to lose a lot of momentum. We drove to the one on our possession and they held us and got back out to the eight. Then we muffed a punt. That was the turning point of the game. We were in our end of the field the rest of the night. If we played them again, we'd beat them by two touchdowns. They were better on defense that I thought they'd be." On traveling out of state to test Jal in New Mexico — "They play like the Dallas Cowboys. They run 25 different formations — a lot of shotgun, single wing with the quarterback and the wishbone. It's kind of hard to defense all that but we'll try to shut down their passing. That's what they do best."

Jim Warren (Lamesa Golden Tors): On what went on in the Tors camp during the off week and on visiting Snyder in first district game. — "We've had a real good week. All our injuries are healed and we should be 100 per cent for Snyder. It will be a very, very aggressive football game. They're a tough ole football team. I expect a pretty tight defensive game. We're going to run right a them."

Martin stays with A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland A's Manager Billy Martin says he's been approached by the New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians about managing those teams, but isn't looking for a way out of his job with the fifth-place A's.

"I'm not soliciting jobs. I have three more years on my contract with Oakland," Martin said Monday night as his team's record fell to 66-90 with a loss in Texas.

"There are only two clubs that have called, New York and Cleveland," Martin added. "Other than that I have no comment."

Before leaving Oakland for the road trip that also will take the A's to Kansas City, Martin said: "I want to stay here. My home is here."

Martin, whose A's won the American League West last season, was raised just north of Oakland, in Berkeley. He reportedly is receiving more than $200,000 a year under his five-year contract with Oakland.

He said Oakland President Roy Eisenhart gave Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and Cleveland president Gabe Paul permission to talk to him about managing jobs.

Martin, 54, managed the Yankees during five seasons. He started in August 1975, replacing Bill Virdon.

Football strike still on; the end is not in sight

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League players strike moved into its second week today with only the technicality of a formal announcement keeping next weekend's 14 games alive.

Negotiators for the NFL Management Council and the Players Association announced Monday that they will meet in Washington Thursday, virtually guaranteeing that the entire league schedule will be called off for the second straight week.

In a television appearance Sunday, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said that unless agreement is reached by Thursday, there could be no games next weekend.

Jim Miller, a Management Council spokesman, said Monday he assumes the games will be called off.

Given the distance between the two sides, it appears unlikely that even around-the-clock talks starting now could save next weekend's games.

A second Sunday without NFL games would extract additional financial costs. Unofficial estimates put the price tag on the first week of the strike at nearly $70 million.

By striking Sunday, NFL players lost somewhere between $8 million and $9 million in salary. The Management Council estimated that the 28 teams lost $29 million in gate receipts and television money, though the television revenue is a point of dispute — the networks are paying their regular fees for the first two weeks of the strike, but owners are counting it as a loss because they say they will have to pay it back next year.

Other losers Sunday were the 14 cities where games weren't played, an estimated $2 million each in hotel and restaurant revenue; and concessionaires, who put their losses at $2 million.

The basic bargaining issue is based on a simple question: Shall players continue to negotiate individual contracts with individual teams or shall there be a wage scale, with players paid according to their seniority in the league?

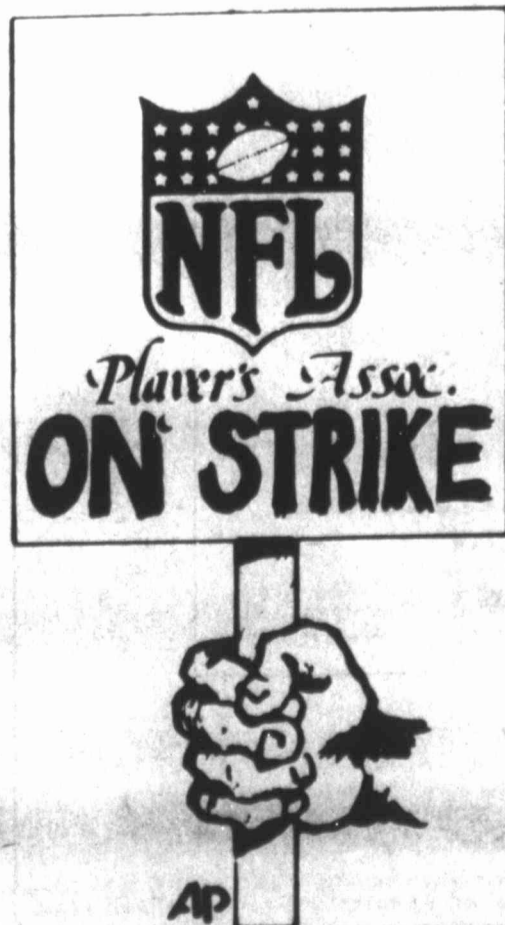

Having moved from its previously unmovable position, a demand for a percentage of league revenues, the union wants the wage scale.

But the Management Council, representing the owners, has so far refused to budge from what until now has been considered an immutable fact of life in professional sports — individual contracts with individual teams.

Following Sunday's six-hour bargaining session at Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y., Jack Donlan, chief negotiator for the Management Council, said the owners were willing to guarantee the $1.6 billion they have offered, "if the union drops its demand for a wage scale."

The guarantee would take the form of a pool from which any money not spent during the five-year life of the contract would be distributed to the players based on a formula to be negotiated.

One source who attended Sunday's session said most of the six hours of negotiations was spent reiterating the basic, long-held positions of both sides.

Astros beat Padres; Cards win title

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Alan Ashby is eligible to become a free agent at the end of the season, but the Houston catcher wouldn't mind being an Astro again in 1983.

"If I can work things out, Houston is where I want to stay," said the switch-hitting Ashby after driving in four runs with homers from both sides of the plate in the Astros' 7-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Should negotiations hit an impasse, Ashby might want to consider any possible offer by the Padres. Of his 12 home runs this year, four have come in San Diego including two in a game Aug. 9.

"I feel like I see the ball really well in this park," said Ashby, who never before had hit home runs from opposite sides of the plate in a major league game.

"I know this is the first time because the only other time I've ever had two homers in the same game was right here and they were both hit lefty."

In August, the blasts came against Padre pitcher John Montefusco, who also gave up Ashby's sixth-inning solo blast Monday night to centerfield, tying the game at 3-3.

Ashby also had a hand in the Astros' go-ahead run in the eighth. His hit-and-run single moved Jose Cruz to third. Cruz scored on Dennis Walling's grounder to Padres first baseman Terry Kennedy, who fumbled the ball for an error.

Singles by Bill Doran and Phil Garner in the ninth preceded Ashby's right-handed blast just inside the leftfield power pole off loser Chris Welsh, 8-8.

"I haven't really worked on hitting from the right side of the plate," said Ashby, who entered the game batting .266 left handed but just .203 from the right side.

"I even had a couple of years early in my career when I hit only left. I've really never played that much against left-handers."

Cruz drove in the Astros' first run in the opening inning, then doubled and scored on Walling's single in the fourth to give Houston a 2-0 lead.

But the Padres scored three times on four consecutive hits in their half of the fourth. With two outs, Kennedy singled and Luis Salazar doubled him home before Joe Pittman and George Hinshaw added run-scoring singles.

Vern Ruhle, 9-13, went the final five innings for the victory after relieving Frank DiPino. Both Houston pitchers allowed five hits and struck out four.

National League

The loss mathematically eliminated San Diego in the National League West race and dropped the Padres back to the 500 level at 78-78. Houston is now three games behind San Diego at 75-81.

But, said Padre manager Dick Williams, "I liked what I saw this year. We gave it our best shot. Maybe we're not quite ready yet."

Houston manager Bob Lillis considers his mid-season takeover from Bill Virdon a success.

"As far as finishing fourth or fifth, that's immaterial now," Lillis said. "Playing .500 ball was one of the goals I set when I took over this team and that's still attainable."

Houston plans to start Bob Knepper, 5-14, against Tim Lollar 14-9, in concluding the season series in San Diego.

Cards 4, Expos 2

And who, pray tell, are the St. Louis Cardinals going to meet in the National League playoffs? Don't ask.

While Whitey Herzog's Redbirds nailed down their first-ever NL East pennant Monday with a 4-2 victory over Montreal, the tight-as-a-drum NL West got even tighter. Phil Niekro, 16-4, hurled a two-hitter as the Atlanta Braves snapped San Francisco's five-game winning streak with a 7-0 victory, while Cincinnati's Mario Soto five-hit Los Angeles 6-1. That put the Braves and Dodgers — both with 85-71 records — into a first-place tie, while the Giants trail by the co-leaders by one game with six to go.

"I want to play the Braves," said Cardinal outfielder Willie McGee. "I don't want to have to deal with the Giants the way they're playing right now."

McGee's three-run, inside-the-park homer off Bill Gullickson, 12-13, highlighted a four-run first inning. Dave LaPoint, 9-3, was the winning pitcher.

"I thought we had a good chance to win it in spring training, but then I started to wonder when we hit a rash of injuries in May," said Herzog, who had won three American League West titles as manager of the Kansas City Royals. "The first one is always the most exciting, but to me they're all good because that's what you're in this game for, to win."

"This is like winning the first leg of the Triple Crown," said Jim Kaat, the Cards' 43-year-old reliever. "We've just won the Kentucky Derby, and now there's two big races to go."

Cubs 8, Phillies 1

Bill Buckner's RBI triple highlighted a four-run Cub third inning. Randy Martz, 11-10, scattered seven hits before being relieved by Dick Tidrow in the ninth, as the Phillies were eliminated from the East race with their loss and the Cards' victory.

"Sure, I'm disappointed," said Phillies Manager Pat Corrales. "I expected us to go into the last week fighting for it (the division title), which we didn't do. It got away from us."

"We weren't that great," said third baseman Mike Schmidt. "We didn't have it together at any point. We were lucky enough to hang close."

"We did have our fate in our hands three or four weeks ago and that's what makes this period of frustration possible."

First baseman Pete Rose added, "You can say we choked but I wouldn't say that. Anytime you go in a slump people say you're tight. I'm not tight. It just wasn't much fun because we were losing."

Mets 4, Pirates 1

Rookie Scott Holman, 2-1, fired a seven-hitter and drove in a run with a fifth-inning single to lead the Mets over the Pirates.

Before the game, the Mets honored retiring Pirates slugger Willie Stargell. And later, Holman ended the game by striking out Stargell with two men on base in the ninth.

"My heart was pumping when I had to face Stargell in that situation," said Holman. "I was hoping to get him to ground out. I was even happier to strike out one of the greatest players in baseball."

Yankees 10, Red Sox 3

New York got six runs in the first inning, capped by Rick Cerone's three-run homer. Jerry Mumphrey added a homer and two singles in driving in two more runs.

Dave Righetti, 11-9, pitched seven innings for New York.

Boston hit into three double plays and has now grounded into 109 twin-killings this season, one short of the American League record set by the Philadelphia Athletics in 1950.

Mariners 8-1, Chicago 4-4

Gaylord Perry, making his first start since serving a 10-day suspension for throwing an illegal pitch, notched his 307th career victory as Seattle won the opener and eliminated Chicago from AL West pennant contention.

Perry is now 10-12 this season. Loser Jerry Kosman, 11-7, had his five-game winning streak broken.

In the second game, Steve Kemp belted a three-run homer while three Chicago pitchers held Texas to six hits.

Jim Kern, 2-1, making his first start of the season, allowed four hits in 6.3 innings. Sparky Lyle permitted two hits in 1.2-3 innings while Salome Barojas finished up for his 19th save.

Rangers win, Angels set for run at pennant

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A Texas rookie battery of pitcher Mike Smithson and catcher Bobby Johnson were the stars of the game, but losing Oakland manager Billy Martin grabbed most of the post-game attention.

Smithson's four-hitter and Johnson's three RBIs led the Rangers to a 4-1 victory over the A's.

And Martin, who arrived at the park shortly before game time, confirmed following the loss that the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians have obtained permission from Oakland ownership to discuss a managerial position.

But Martin said he wasn't seeking a job with either club.

"There is only two clubs that have called, New York and Cleveland, other than that I have no comment to make," he said. "I'm not soliciting jobs. I have three more years left on my contract at Oakland," he said.

Smithson, a 6-foot-8 righthander, struck out five and walked only two.

Johnson, the rookie catcher, slugged a two-run single in the second inning and a sixth-inning RBI double.

Smithson said he doesn't plan to return to the minor leagues next year.

"In the last three years combined I haven't pitched this many innings," he said.

"Since we are not in a pennant race I don't have to look over in the dugout when I make a mistake and wonder if he is going to take me out. That's a big confidence builder."

Texas manager Darrell Johnson agreed. "He is really a bright spot for us come next year barring injury. I don't see any reason why he wouldn't be in the starting rotation when we come out of spring training."

"In seven starts Mike has only one bad outing," Rick Langford, 11-16, took the loss and went the distance despite making his first start in 15 days.

A pair of veterans accounted for the other Ranger run. Pat Putnam doubled to start the fourth inning and scored on a single by Bill Stein, who had three hits.

Smithson faced the minimum 18 batters through six innings, but Oakland scored in the seventh. Darnell Brown led off with an infield single on a dribbler to first base and scored on a double by Mike Davis.

Angels 3, Royals 2

The California Angels know the sweet taste of success.

American League

And tonight, they might sip champagne.

"It's not over yet, but it's just about a situation where we know what's going to happen," said California's Don Baylor after his run-scoring single in the seventh inning Monday night sparked a 3-2 victory over second-place Kansas City that reduced the Angels' magic number to just two in the American League West.

California, which has won eight of its last 10 games, now leads Kansas City by four and one-half games and can wrap up the division by beating the Royals either tonight or Wednesday night. Kansas City has dropped 10 of its last 11.

Baylor's one-out single — his AL-leading 21st game-winning hit — followed an intentional walk to Doug DeCinces.

"They put me on the spot from time to time, and I have to come through," he said. "It's a challenge, there's no doubt about that."

Tommy John, 14-12, scattered 10 hits over eight innings while beating Kansas City for the fourth time this season and running his career record to 14-4 against the Royals.

"To beat Kansas City in its own ballpark and hold them to two runs, I feel I pitched a pretty good game," he said. "We've got to win one more game. I hope we do it tomorrow night, but if not, we've got the games in LA."

John left in the ninth inning after walking pinch-hitter Ron Johnson. Luis Sanchez came in for his fourth save as the Angels, who won the AL West in 1979, moved closer to a second division title.

Kansas City had taken a 2-0 lead on U.L. Washington's solo homer in the first inning and Willie Aikens' run-scoring single in the fourth.

California, held hitless through the first four innings, tied it in the fifth on Juan Beniquez' double, a two-base throwing error by Kansas City third baseman George Brett that allowed Tim Lincecum to reach second and Brian Downing's RBI single.

"That was a tough one. They have all been tough lately," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser. "We played hard again tonight, but just didn't get the job done."

"If I had to put my finger on one key game, it would've been last Wednesday in California," he said, referring to Kansas City's 8-5 loss to the Angels, then the Royals' seventh straight setback.

Said DeCinces: "Their backs are against the wall. If we win one of the next two, it's over. I'm not taking anything away from them. We still have to do it."

Washington still on top in poll

The Pitt Panthers, bounced from the top spot earlier this season despite an unbeaten record, have climbed from third place to second in The Associated Press college football poll, seven points behind top-ranked Washington.

Penn State made the most dramatic move, jumping from eighth to third in Monday's poll after a 27-24 victory Saturday over Nebraska. That dropped the Cornhuskers from second to eighth in the poll.

Three teams — Boston College, Minnesota and Auburn — made the Top Twenty for the first time this season, while Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan dropped out.

Washington, following its 37-21 victory over Oregon, received 25 of 59 first-place votes and 1,114 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Pitt, a 20-3 winner over Illinois, received 19 first-place ballots and 1,107 points.

Last week, with 55 voters responding, Washington led Nebraska 1,045 points to 1,011, with Pitt at 989.

Seven first-place votes went to Penn State, which scored with four seconds left to beat Nebraska. The Nittany Lions received 1,032 points.

Florida rose from fifth to fourth with one first-place vote and 973 points after defeating Mississippi State 27-

17. The Gators swapped places with Alabama, which edged Vanderbilt 24-21 and slipped from fourth to fifth with four first-place votes and 968 points.

Georgia beat South Carolina 34-18 and climbed from seventh to sixth with one first-place vote and 864 points, while Southern Methodist, a 16-13 winner over Texas Christian, dropped from sixth to seventh with 803 points.

Nebraska was eighth with 702 points, followed by UCLA — the Bruins received the remaining first-place ballot — with 662 points and Arkansas, with 607. UCLA, No. 12 last week, moved into the Top Ten with a 31-27 victory over Michigan, while Arkansas edged Mississippi 14-12 and slipped from ninth to 10th.

UCLA's surge pushed Notre Dame out of the Top Ten despite a 28-14 triumph over Purdue. Behind the Irish in the Second Ten are North Carolina, Arizona State, West Virginia, Texas, Southern California, Miami, Boston College, Minnesota and Auburn.

Last week, it was North Carolina, UCLA, Ohio State, Arizona State, West Virginia, Miami, Texas, Southern Cal, Illinois and Michigan.

Boston College raised its record to 2-0-1 by defeating Navy 31-0, Minnesota (3-0) trounced Washington State 41-11 and Auburn (3-0) defeated Tennessee 24-14.

Meanwhile, Michigan dropped out of the Top Twenty by blowing a 21-0 lead and losing to UCLA, Ohio State, No. 3 a week ago, disappeared by losing to Stanford 23-20.

Contest Rules:

Don't miss the fun and profit! Here's all you do to be eligible for the cash prizes: Mark your prediction of the winners of games shown in each ad or legible facsimile, print your name and address plainly, mail or bring to the Herald by 5 p.m. each Friday. Winners will be announced on Tuesday of the following week. Mark predictions with an "X" opposite your choice of team. Pick actual score of game as indicated for TIE BREAKER. Everyone eligible except employees of the Herald and their families. See if you can beat the Herald Football Crystal Ball Forecasters.

As many members of a family may participate as wish to do so, but only one will be eligible for an award in any one week.

Neatness is important — Be sure to mark your SCORES clearly so the judges won't make a mistake. In case of tie in number of games missed, awarding of prizes will be based on the grading of the actual scores indicated in the tie-breaker. The point spread in the scores will be the basis for the breaking.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 29, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is the most beneficial for you so try to be up and about in the morning so you can take advantage of these helpful influences. Be astute in all your dealings.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can visualize your finest wishes in the morning and later you can take care of present obligations. Your intuition is accurate now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use tact in going after information you need, otherwise you might upset one who has power over your affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contacting good friends can help you gain personal wishes more quickly today. Take no risks in travel at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Engage in outside business activities today and gain many benefits. Show that you are efficient and alert.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to please an associate who is vital to your future welfare. Be sure to obtain the data you need from the right sources.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Come to a complete accord with co-workers and gain mutual goals. Use up-to-date systems for getting ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Any creative work is best handled in the morning, since later you may not have the inspiration for such. Be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Attend to important matters early in the day, since some emergency could come up later. Relax in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Spend more time on a creative outlet at which you are most talented but have left dormant until now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to handle affairs at home which could lead to more harmony. Take no risks in handling money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are enthused on how to get ahead in your line of endeavor, so take positive steps to gain your aims. Express happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Schedule your activities well for the day and carry through in an intelligent manner. A business matter needs more study.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need to be taught to accept things as they are and make the best of them, since there is a tendency here to change things. Teach to formulate plans and to carry through to the best of his, or her ability.

Amid a recession, here's a forecast for economic boom

NEW YORK (AP) — As Herman Kahn acknowledges in the preface to his new book, his timing might seem to be off.

The book is called "The Coming Boom: Economic, Political and Social," and it appears at a time when a boom of any sort looks like a distant prospect indeed.

The unemployment rate stands at a post-World War II high of 9.8 percent. When the next government report on the jobless rate is issued on Oct. 8, many economists believe it could climb into double figures.

According to Dun & Bradstreet Corp., businesses are filing bankruptcy petitions at a rate not seen since the 1930s — 85 out of every 10,000 through the first eight months of this year.

At many other companies, earnings are under pressure. Last year, Standard & Poor's Corp. reports, profit margins of a sample of 400 large industrial companies averaged out to a near-record low of 4.86 cents for every dollar of sales.

"As dismal as 1981 was for profit margins, 1982 is likely to prove even worse," Standard & Poor's reported. In short, suggests Raymond F. DeVoe Jr., an investment analyst at the firm of Legg Mason Wood Walker Inc., it is a time when paranoia might be defined as "being in possession of all the facts."

Kahn, chairman and director of research at the Hudson Institute and a prominent "futurist," says something very similar at the outset of his book (published by Simon and Schuster, New York, and priced at $14.95).

Surveying recent economic conditions, he concedes, "some sober concern, if not paranoia, is clearly justified."

Still, in the 228 pages that follow, he lays out his case for "a revitalized America — revitalized in terms of traditional values, of worldwide status and influence, and of citizenship and morale, as well as of economic improvement."

Some of the principal reasons he cites for that prediction: Reduced inflation, new technologies and increased savings to help encourage "a long-term capital boom," improving productivity resulting partly from the maturing of the baby-boom generation, and the prospect that "energy should no longer be a depressing influence on the economy."

Kahn labels himself a "guarded optimist"; he does not assert that the picture he paints is a certainty. As he acknowledges in a footnote, the phrase "barring some perverse combination of bad luck and bad management" appears several times in his discussion.

On the subject of energy, he sees the troublesome possibility of a "self-defeating prophecy. If the energy picture looks too rosy, there may, for example, be a slowdown in U.S. efforts to become less dependent upon foreign oil."

Kahn also says that high technology, with all its promises, could bring problems as well: "We are dealing with new technologies and products and other innovations on a scale and with a variety of possible effects that is genuinely frightening."

With all that, Kahn envisions a future in which poverty, as it is now defined, will "disappear" in this country by the year 2000. A century later, he visualizes a society with per capita income of $50,000 a year in 1980 dollars, which could be in a position to "turn many of its energies away from economic development and increasing affluence and take up other objectives instead."

Kahn is known for "thinking about the unthinkable" (in fact, that is the title of an earlier book) — tackling subjects like nuclear war that don't exactly make for comfortable contemplation. To the many pessimists of today, his "coming boom" may be improbable, but it is nice to think about.

Woolco to close 336 U.S. stores

NEW YORK (AP) — F.W. Woolworth Co. says it will close its 336 Woolco discount stores in the United States and lay off about 25,000 workers next year.

Woolworth, the nation's fourth-largest retailer but which has lagged behind the performance of its competitors in recent years, cited Woolco's persistent losses for the decision to close.

The move was a "very dramatic change in direction," said Edward Weller, a retail analyst with the Wall Street firm E.F. Hutton. He said the company had invested "a lot of time, effort, money and people in trying to turn the division around."

Woolco stores are primarily in the south and central United States. Woolworth said the successful Canadian Woolco chain will not be affected.

Edward F. Gibbons, chairman of Woolworth, said Friday the company would concentrate its resources on its more productive stores, including its 1,300 Woolworth general merchandise stores; Kinney Shoes, the nation's largest shoestore chain; and several specialty apparel chains.

IRS chief warns against tax shelters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger is warning upper-income Americans who invest in exotic tax-avoidance schemes: "Participating in abusive tax shelters can be hazardous to your wealth."

In testimony prepared for a hearing today by a House Ways and Means subcommittee, Egger pledged an all-out campaign against fraudulent shelters.

"I wish to make it very clear to individuals considering investing in tax shelters, and to those thinking of starting one, that the risks are now substantial," Egger said. "We intend to vigorously impose the new fines and penalties enacted by Congress (earlier this year) and, when appropriate, criminally prosecute those responsible."
