

Cyanide

Tylenol recalled after 5 users are poisoned

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today advised consumers nationwide to stop using Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules after officials disclosed a second batch of cyanide-tainted pain reliever had been found. The poison-tainted medicine is linked to as many as five deaths.

Both suspect batches were recalled nationwide by the manufacturer.

Bill Rados, FDA press spokesman in Washington, said the agency acted after officials indicated they could not be certain how many batches of the best-selling over-the-counter remedy have been contaminated. The advisory does not apply to Extra-Strength Tylenol in tablet form, the FDA said.

The manufacturer said the company believed the problem was limited to the Chicago area, where all the deaths occurred.

Cook County investigators said they have found that the Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules taken by the victims had been "pried open" and laced with the deadly poison before being sold.

The Cook County medical examiner's office said it was treating the deaths as possible homicides and trying to determine when the poison could have been put into the capsules.

Lawrence Foster, vice president for public relations for Johnson & Johnson, the parent company of the manufacturer, said the second batch found to contain cyanide, 1910 MD, was made in Round Rock, Texas. The first lot found contaminated, MC2880, was made in Pennsylvania.

There had been reports from Du Page County officials that there might be a third suspect batch, MB2738, because a 31-year-old victim from Elmhurst had Extra-Strength Tylenol bottles bearing both that number and 1910MD.

Foster said the contaminated batch was 1910MD. He said "we have no confirmation ... whatsoever" that cyanide had been found in a third batch.

On Thursday, thousands of drugstores and drug distributors moved swiftly to take off the market the first batch of Extra-Strength Tylenol recalled, MC2880. It was distributed in 34 states.

The nation's poison control centers reported they were swamped by calls from worried consumers.

Two victims were brothers who swallowed capsules Wednesday from a bottle bought at a Jewel Food Stores supermarket in Arlington Heights, west of Chicago, police said. One of their wives also took the capsules and was in critical condition today with brain damage.

A 12-year-old girl from the neighboring community of Elk Grove Village who had a cold died after taking capsules that may have come from another Jewel store.

Cyanide was found in all three bodies, as well as the body of a woman from Elmhurst, who collapsed at work and died Thursday after taking two capsules.

Tunisians learn from Big Springer

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Farmers use camels to plow their fields. Rainfall is sometimes less than an inch a year.

The place is Tunisia in northern Africa, and Bill Fryrear of Big Spring was there recently on a United Nations agriculture assignment.

Fryrear, superintendent of the United States Department of Agriculture Big Spring Wind Erosion and Soil Conservation Unit, recently spent 16 days working in the African country which he said resembles West Texas.

"If we lost about 24 inches of topsoil, that's what Tunisia is like," Fryrear said.

The soil expert worked in the town of Medenine in the southeastern corner of the country. Medenine has a population of 60,000, crammed into an area a quarter the size of Big Spring, he said.

"FARMERS THERE are doing things a little backwards compared to us," Fryrear said. One practice is to wait until rainfall comes to plow the land, he said. "They use their camels to plow a block of land according to the amount of rain received, the more rain, the bigger the block," Fryrear said. The "backward" part is that delaying the tillage causes the land to lose most of the moisture, he added.

BILL FRYREAR
...travels to Tunisia

The practice in West Texas is to plow the land so that it is ready to absorb rainfall when it does come, he noted.

Demonstrating better ways to farm was the primary intent of his United Nations assignment, Fryrear said. He had been in Tunisia for two weeks.

Tylenol in Texas stores

DALLAS (AP) — Bottles of Extra-Strength Tylenol bearing the control numbers of those lots being recalled because of five deaths in the Chicago area have shown up in several cities across Texas.

The first lot contained the control number MC2880 and the second had the number 1910MD.

Lawrence G. Foster, vice president for public relations for Johnson & Johnson, the parent company of the manufacturer, McNeil Consumer Products Co., said the capsule that the fifth victim took was produced in its Round Rock, Texas, plant.

There were reports of bottles of the second lot being found in Waco, San Angelo, Bowie, Gainesville, Amarillo, Tyler and at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

County cools off hot checks

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Nearly a quarter of a million dollars in hot checks has been collected by the Howard County Attorney's Hot Check Department in its two years of existence, according to Melba Soles of the Hot Check Department.

The hot checks and fees collected represent money that would have been lost to the merchants otherwise, Mrs. Soles said. The amount collected this month is the largest amount since the inception of the hot check department, Mrs. Soles said. A total of $20,282.08 was collected, she said.

Mrs. Soles credits the work done by both justices of the peace, Lewis Heflin and Bobby West, and the sheriff's office with the accomplishments in the hot check field. "The sheriff's department is really working (serving warrants)," she said. A joint effort makes for the best results against hot checkers, she added.

The work done by the department has steadily grown in its two years, according to Mrs. Soles. "We were real happy to get $10,000 in a month in the beginning," she said. One trend she has noticed is a shift in where the bad checks are given. "We're seeing more checks from grocery stores and clothing stores — for necessities," Mrs. Soles said.

Mrs. Soles is assisted in the hot check investigations by County Attorney Bob Miller's legal assistant-secretary Jane Overman and County Court Coordinator Mike Barton.

Miller said today the department was "going real good, running smoothly." The county attorney said the merchants are cooperating well with the hot check department.

Also, hot check writers are required to attend a hot check school, designed to cure them of their bad habits.

"It's really too early to tell about its effectiveness," Miller said. He stressed, however, the required school, run by the National Corrective Training Institute of Austin, is not intended as punishment, but as self-education.

Mrs. Overman said the feedback from persons attending the school has been "excellent." The eight-hour course, offered one Saturday a month and two nights a week, is run by NCTI with all fees going to the institute, she said. "People going to the school are not repeating their hot checks," Mrs. Overman said.

Both women stressed that people contacted to go to the school have to attend. "Some ignore our letter, and warrants are brought out for their arrest," Mrs. Overman said. The school teaches the basics of checking accounts and people have been responding well to the school, Mrs. Soles said.

Girl Scouts of America—another United Way agency

Editor's Note: This is the second in a weekly series of articles about local organizations funded by the United Way.

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

"All 400 Girl Scouts in Howard County are members of an immense international family called the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts," said Girl Scout Field Executive Dorrie Cook of Big Spring.

"This is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world — nearly 100 nations are united in friendship through a common ideal expressed in the Girl Scout promise and law."

The Howard County Girl Scouts have close home ties in the West Texas Girl Scout Council, one of 355 councils chartered to administer and develop Girl Scouting in a given jurisdiction. The West Texas Council is composed of sixteen counties in West Texas.

GIRL SCOUTING offers girls from the first through twelfth grades exciting learning experiences, Ms. Cook said. "The program gives every girl an opportunity to learn about the arts, the people around them, the out-of-doors, and especially themselves," she said.

The girls meet in troops (in 1980-81, Big Spring had 36 troops with more than 100 adults working with the girls) and they focus on five areas of interest; the world of the arts, the world of the out-of-doors, the world of well-being, the world of people, and the world of today and tomorrow.

"The program emphasis is on our goals for the girls," Ms. Cook said, "deepening self awareness, developing values, relating to others, and contributing to society."

There are four age levels: Brownie Girl Scouts for first through third graders; Junior Girl Scouts for fourth through sixth graders; Cadette Girl Scouts for seventh through ninth graders; and Senior Girl Scouts for ninth through twelfth graders.

BROWNIES WORK as a group on areas called the Brownie Bs, Ms. Cook said. While earning Brownie B patches and badges, the girls cover things like Be Discoverers, Be Ready Helpers and Be Friend Makers.

Juniors earn proficiency badges on their own, and explore other areas like the Sign of the Sun, the Sign of the Rainbow and the Sign of the Satellite.

Cadettes earn interest project certificates and challenges, while working toward the Girl Scout Gold Award.

Seniors explore career opportunities.

"United Way funds are used to maintain the outbased area office located at 501 Main Street in Big Spring," Ms. Cook said. "The facility is available to leaders and other Girl Scout volunteers to receive information about council activities, check out resource materials and equipment, and to receive training and guidance.

SALUTE — Brownie Girl Scout Melissa Shelton, 7 years old and a Girl Scout for a year, gives the Girl Scout salute. The Girl Scouts are just one of the many local organizations that benefit from contributions to the United Way. Melissa's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shelton of 704 Capri Court.

Firemen putting out the word

The Big Spring Fire Department will recognize the 111th anniversary of the "Chicago Fire" by joining departments nationwide in Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 1-8, Fire Marshall Carl Dorton said.

Fire departments have set aside this week to promote fire safety since Oct. 8, 1871 when a Chicago fire burned 17,450 buildings, killed 250 people and did $196 million worth of damage, Dorton said.

"Our efforts are to get people in their homes and businesses in the mood to think about fire prevention," Dorton said.

Fire Prevention Week begins today with firemen visiting Moss Elementary School at 9:15 a.m. to demonstrate fire safety techniques, Dorton said. Firemen will continue demonstrations at Kentwood, Lakeview, Marcy, College Heights, Washington and Bauer schools through Oct. 8, Dorton said.

Food prices dip .6%

By Associated Press
The end of summer roughness a drop in grocery prices, with bargains at the meat counter helping to cut supermarket bills last month, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

For the second month in a row, retailers offered special promotions on beef items during September, and the AP survey showed lower prices in many areas for hot dogs and hamburgers.

The AP survey was based on a list of 14 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, selected at random and priced at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bill increased last month at the checklist store in six cities, rising an average of 1.6 percent. The bill decreased at the checklist store in seven cities, down an average of 2.4 percent. Overall, the marketbasket bills decreased by an average of six-tenths of a percent last month.

During August, in contrast, the marketbasket bill increased in seven cities and decreased in six cities, with the changes averaging out to a drop of 0.01 percent on an overall basis.

The September decrease was the fourth this year. The marketbasket bill decreased in February and April as well as in August.

Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the marketbasket bill rose at the checklist store in 11 cities, up an average of 5.3 percent, and dropped at the checklist store in two cities, down an average of 2.6 percent. Overall, the marketbasket bill rose an average of 4.1 percent during the first three-quarters of 1982.

The big savings for consumers in recent weeks have come on beef products like the chopped chuck and all-beef frankfurters included in the AP survey.

Prices for all red meat — beef and pork — rose during much of the first part of the year, reflecting generally lower supplies. Weak consumer demand, due in part to the higher prices and in part to the recession which has left people with less money to spend, have caused beef prices to decline, however.

The cattle industry also has launched promotional drives to counter the effect of concern over cholesterol which has led some people to avoid beef in favor of leaner meats.

The AP found the price of chopped chuck decreased last month at the checklist store in seven cities; the price of all-beef frankfurters was down at the checklist store in six cities.

Supermarket News, a trade publication, said that some of the promotions reflect lower prices at the wholesale level, but added that a few retailers have actually cut prices even more in an effort to lure customers to the meat counter.

The good news for consumers — which is bad news for ranchers and producers — is not expected to last. Supplies of meat remain tight and beef prices traditionally rise near the end of the year, reflecting seasonal adjustments.

correspondence with United Nations agriculture specialists and members of the Tunisian Agriculture Department, he added. They suggested the trip, he said.

Since the Big Spring field station does research with wind erosion, a wind tunnel designed by Fryrear had been sent to Medenine to aid in the country's fight against soil loss. Part of Fryrear's task was to assemble the tunnel, Fryrear said. "It was easy to demonstrate how to use the tunnel to help protect land from erosion," Fryrear said.

FARMING IN Tunisia is a "very big contrast to West Texas," Fryrear said. "It's hard to imagine the conditions there." Most of the farming is done by women and children, he said. Camels and donkeys are used for plowing although tractors are available to plow extra land when it rains more, Fryrear said. Rainfall averages six to seven inches a year with dry years yielding three-quarters of an inch, and rare wet years bring 30 inches. "They don't expect a crop every year due to the rain," Fryrear said.

The seed is planted by hand, Fryrear said, "not a drill in sight." The seed is covered by using a harrow, pulled by a camel, he added. "Until the advantage of doing something a different way is shown to them, they'll farm like they have for centuries," Fryrear said.

Fryrear said he felt he accomplished something in his brief stay in Tunisia. "Just to convince them to prepare (the soil) before it rains will make them better off," he said.

STAYING IN a foreign country is often an unusual experience, Fryrear said. "I stayed at the nicest place in town, but there was no hot water. Eating was a surprise everytime," he said. "We ordered the same thing four straight times and it was different every day."

The cook evidently put in the foods what he wanted, Fryrear said. "I didn't know lamb had hair on it."

The homes of the people in the country was a shock, Fryrear said. A rock house held together with mortar would have a palm leaf hut in front for the summer, he said. Roman ruins were everywhere, but largely untended and unmarked, Fryrear added.

Perhaps the biggest excitement for the country took place when he arrived, Fryrear said. A "tremendous mob of people" was gathered at the airport when he got off his plane, the Big Springer said. "They were waiting for Yasser Arafat," Fryrear said. The PLO leader arrived an hour later to make the African country his headquarters, Fryrear said.

5 bombs found at Baytown plant

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — One of five bombs found at a Gulf Oil Chemicals Co. petrochemical plant exploded while being defused, and FBI agents were investigating whether more bombs had been hidden as part of an extortion plot, officials said.

No injuries were reported and four bombs were deactivated with a water cannon without any explosion, said Sgt. W.D. Marsh of the Texas Department of Public Safety. DFS supervisor Wayne Pullen said the four may have been duds.

Gulf and FBI officials refused to comment on news reports that a letter that sparked the search for explosives had demanded at least $15 million and warned that 10 bombs would be exploded unless the money was turned over within 120 hours, or by about noon Sunday.

Crash pilot may have taken off in tail wind

MIDLAND (AP) — The pilot of a plane that crashed into a Midland apartment complex last week had less chance to recover from engine trouble because he took off in a tail wind, a federal investigator says.

The official said Thursday it "isn't recommended" that planes take off with a tail wind. He added that unproven witness accounts of the crash say the pilot also took off from an intersection of the runway, instead of the end of it.

The four people on the plane — including two prisoners from Louisiana — were badly burned in the Sept. 24 crash. A resident of an apartment complex that the plane crashed into also suffered burns.

T.W. Finch, chief of the Fort Worth field office of the National Transportation Safety Board, said pilot Alex Sheets took off from Runway 25 at Midland Air Park on a flight path about "20 degrees to the left of west."

Nine-mile-an-hour winds out of the east were blowing at the time of the crash, according to a spokesman for the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Witnesses told investigators the twin-engine plane, owned by the Louisiana Department of Corrections, was about 50 feet in the air when it seemed to develop engine trouble.

Finch said that even if an engine failed on takeoff, with ideal wind and weather conditions — and if there was no pilot error — the plane should have gained enough altitude for the pilot to correct and land safely.

HEADING TO COURT — Talk show host Phil Donahue testified for the defense in a $10 million damage suit filed against the producers of his TV show.

Donahue

$10 million suit against his producers puts him in court

DENVER (AP) — It could have been a scene from one of his own telecasts — talk show host Phil Donahue discussing the right of a journalist to interview, confidentially, a fugitive child-snatcher.

But he was testifying in court as a defense witness for the producers of the "Donahue" show, who are being sued for $10 million by a woman who says they withheld information about the whereabouts of her ex-husband.

Donahue defended his decision to interview Wayne Anderson, a father who abducted his own young son. The boy was watched by members of Donahue's production staff while the show was taped, and the two departed without leaving a clue as to where they were going.

"My job as a journalist is not to decide who's right or wrong," Donahue told the court Thursday. "It is to do what I can to ensure all colliding interests are heard."

Willow Lynne Cramlet, 36, of Arvada, Colo., filed the damage suit against Multimedia Program Productions Inc., the producers of Donahue's television show.

The case was expected to go to the jury today. Mrs. Cramlet contends the Multimedia staff withheld information about the whereabouts of Anderson, her ex-husband. The couple's son Eland, now 6, was placed in her custody during divorce proceedings but was taken away by Anderson three years ago.

Anderson, in disguise and using an alias, was interviewed by Donahue in segments appearing on NBC's "Today" show April 10 and 11, 1980. NBC, which broadcast the segments produced by Multimedia, is not named in the suit.

Mrs. Cramlet said she recognized Anderson by his voice and details of his account. Donahue, dismissed as an individual defendant in the suit, said he approved a show about child snatching because of mounting public concern about the issue. He said he encouraged his producer, Wendy Roth, to find guests directly involved in a custody dispute.

Donahue said he had not espoused Anderson's views on the morality of child snatching, noting he once interviewed former Nazi leader Albert Speer, "and I can assure you I didn't adopt his views."

Donahue said he was aware of his staff's efforts to protect Anderson's identity, but added, "These connections in no way altered the attempt by law enforcement to apprehend him."

Lawrence Thompson, a University of Denver communications professor testifying on behalf of Mrs. Cramlet, said Multimedia's actions, especially allowing Eland to remain with his father, were "irresponsible and despicable." He likened the circumstances to Donahue asking an aide to hold the stolen money while interviewing a bank robber.

But Donahue said he had no qualms about letting the child leave with his father because Anderson "appeared to be sincerely interested in the welfare of his child."

If the situation had involved a kidnapper holding a child for ransom, Donahue said, he would have called the police.

Fighting to stay in Germany's Schmidt may be replaced today

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Fighting for his political life, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt denounced the liberals who defected from his ruling coalition and teamed with the conservatives in today's parliamentary bid to oust him.

"The voters will not forget this behavior for many years," Schmidt told his opponents in the packed Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament.

"Your way of behaving is legal, but it has no inner, nor moral justification," Schmidt said, referring to the parliamentary vote of no-confidence later today that was likely to see Schmidt, a Social Democrat, replaced by Helmut Kohl, a Christian Democrat with conservative views like those of President Reagan.

Schmidt, 63, said those planning to vote him out of office lacked credibility because they were attempting to change governments without first going to the voters for new elections.

He challenged his opponents' pledge to hold elections next March.

"I think it very improbable that you will dissolve Parliament in January so that the people can vote on March 6," Schmidt said. "Please, tell Parliament and thus the whole people today, without ifs or buts, that we will elect a new Parliament on March 6."

On the eve of the vote, Schmidt sought to reassure West Germany's Western allies, telling a hastily convened meeting of the diplomatic corps in Bonn that "our partners must know that in democratically constituted states, changes in political leadership are normal."

West Germany has been run by the center-left coalition now headed by Schmidt for the past 13 years. It won a new four-year term at the polls in 1980. Schmidt has been chancellor for 8 years and enjoys wide popularity.

Kohl would be the first West German chancellor elected in a no-confidence vote. Under West German law, voters elect the parliament which in turn elects the chancellor to a four-year term.

Schmidt took office in 1974 succeeding Willy Brandt, a former Social Democrat who quit over a spy scandal.

He has been chancellor longer than anyone since conservative Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's first post-war leader. Schmidt's coalition crumbled Sept. 17, when the liberal Free Democrats, junior partners in the ruling alliance, resigned after a year-long wrangle over economic policy.

Schmidt immediately called for new elections on the theory that voters would elect deputies who support him and retain him as chancellor. But Free Democratic leader Hans-Dietrich Genscher and Kohl blunted Schmidt's effort by joining forces to press for parliamentary backing for a new, center-right coalition.

The move was virtually guaranteed success last Tuesday when 34 of the 53 Free Democrats in the Bundestag, the lower house of Parliament, voted to form the coalition with the 225 conservative deputies of the Christian Democratic Party and its Bavarian counterpart, the Christian Social Union.

The new alliance's total of at least 259 of the 497 Bundestag members was 10 more than necessary to oust Schmidt and replace him with Kohl in today's secret ballot.

Kohl, 52, has led the conservative parliamentary opposition for more than a decade. A staunch family man, he has frequently echoed Ronald Reagan's fears of the Soviet military buildup.

"What use is the best social policy when the Cossacks come marching in?" Kohl asked the voters in the 1976 election campaign which won him an impressive 48.6 percent of the vote but failed to gain enough backing to oust Schmidt as chancellor.

Marine's death leads to clamor over troop decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of a U.S. Marine in Lebanon is increasing the clamor in Congress for a greater voice in deciding how long American troops will remain in the war-torn Middle Eastern country.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said President Reagan should "come back to the Congress" at the end of a 60-day time limit spelled out in the War Powers Act.

"The clock began to run when the first Marines landed in Lebanon," Percy said Thursday, a day after Marines entered Beirut for the second time in a month.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said he would "closely review the adequacy" of Reagan's formal notification to Congress.

Percy, Zablocki and other members of Congress are at odds with Reagan over whether the situation in Lebanon puts the Marines in a hostile environment and therefore covered by the time limits spelled out in the War Powers Act.

The act, passed in 1973 over the veto of President Nixon, requires presidents to make periodic reports to Congress whenever combat-equipped troops are sent abroad.

If the troops are going into actual or potential hostilities, the act says the president must withdraw them in 60 days if Congress does not approve their staying longer. However, the president can extend the period for 30 days without congressional approval if he finds an "unavoidable military necessity."

In giving Congress formal notification, Reagan said there was "no intention or expectation" that the Marines would become involved in hostilities.

But Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., the assistant

Democratic Senate leader and a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said, "American forces have been introduced into a very dangerous place where there are very hostile forces facing each other — some of them hostile to us — and I do not think the president should have a blank check."

Cranston and others said they felt this way before the explosion at the Beirut airport Thursday that killed one of the newly arrived Marines and injured three others.

"I don't think the killing of that poor Marine changes it because I thought from the outset the War Powers Act prevailed," said Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del.

Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., a member of the Foreign Relations panel who has opposed the dispatch of troops to the Mideast, said, "It was a serious mistake for the administration to send U.S. Marines into Lebanon under a provision that they were not going into hostile territory."

Zablocki said the explosion that killed the Marine, identified as Cpl. David L. Reagan, 21, of Chesapeake, Va., raised new questions over the administration's reporting to Congress on the Beirut deployment.

"This unfortunate development reinforces my intent ... to closely review the adequacy of the president's report under the War Powers Act in terms of whether the situation in Beirut involves imminent hostilities," he said.

Circumstances surrounding the fatal blast in Beirut were unclear. One report attributed to a Marine spokesman in the Lebanese capital said an unexploded cluster bomb went off. The United States has suspended sales of cluster bombs to Israel in the wake of reports that the anti-personnel weapons were used against civilians.

Congress plans to pass spending bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government was running on empty today, technically broke after Congress went partying rather than staying to meet a midnight deadline for passing a compromise stopgap money bill.

However, Congress was expected to easily approve the omnibus spending bill later today and administration officials said there likely would be no interruption of government services.

House and Senate negotiators reached agreement on a compromise spending bill at about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, but House leaders had decided beforehand that the vote on the package would not come until today, well after the 12:01 a.m. start of the new fiscal year.

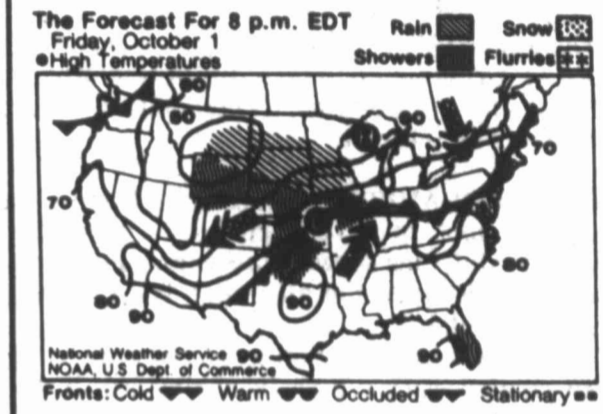

Congress' social agenda for Thursday night included the Democratic Party's

$1,000-per-person fund-raising dinner that many members of Congress attended. And across town, in what amounted to a Republican-dominated counter-event, President Reagan invited the entire Congress to join him for a barbecue at the White House.

Edwin L. Dale, a spokesman at the White House Office of Management and Budget, said no disruptions were likely, as long as the compromise appeared acceptable to Reagan.

There had been no indication from the White House that either the House measure passed last week or the Senate bill.

Weather

Paul gets Texas wet

Cloudy skies and light rain — the remnants of Hurricane Paul — dotted portions of West Texas, the Panhandle and the South Plains today.

Sprinkles also were evident in South Central Texas along with a band of clouds that stretched southward to include the lower coastal plains.

Mostly clear skies were the rule across the rest of Texas.

Heavy rains hit El Paso, stalling hundreds of cars at water-covered intersections Thursday. The National Weather Service said 2.14 inches fell in the city before skies cleared during the afternoon.

Early morning temperatures today were mostly in the 60s and 70s. Pre-dawn readings ranged from 54 at Marfa to 80 at Alice and Corpus Christi.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL

THE GRACE THAT SAVES

Workmen were blasting rock in a quarry. One day after they had attached the fuse and retired to a safe place, they saw a three-year-old child wandering across the open space where danger threatened. Every passing second meant that death was closing in on him.

The workmen called to the child and waved their arms, but he only looked on their strange antics with amusement. No man dared run forward, knowing the explosion was only seconds away. The child most certainly would have been killed, had not his mother appeared at this moment of crisis.

She did not run toward her son or yell to frighten him. Instead, she knelt down, opened wide her arms, and smiled for him to come. Instantly the child ran towards her; when the air shook with the gigantic explosion, he was safe in his mother's arms.

What a picture of the grace of God, and the cross. With outstretched arms, on the Cross, God in Christ gives His gracious invitation: Come to eternal safety.

Lord — With a crooked stick for a cane, I'm limping home. Mocked and maligne'd, stooped and stupid, soiled and shabby. I limp toward You. You could say, "I told you so." You could say, "It's a little too late." You could say, "Wait while I think it over." You could sweep me under the rug — We both know I deserve far less. But when I see the Cross —

Soviet planes buzz U.S. fleet

HONOLULU (AP) — A U.S. naval task force in the Northern Pacific has been buzzed by Soviet warplanes in the past week, according to the commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet.

Admiral Sylvester R. Foley said Thursday the planes had been reconnoitering the ships and simulating air-to-surface missile attacks. He said that such encounters are common during naval exercises.

He added that the encounters have resulted in some "very hairy situations," and that carrier-based F-14 Tomcats have been dispatched to intercept the Soviet planes.

A challenge for Big Spring

With a contribution to the United Way of $10,262, Malone-Hogan Hospital has placed a challenge in front of all of Big Spring.

The contribution, the largest to date to the United Way of Big Spring, marks a generous spirit on the part of Malone-Hogan employees, one which all of Big Spring would do well to imitate.

At present, the United Way has reached only 10 percent of its community goal, and that's a shame.

A CONTRIBUTION TO United Way is nothing more than a loan for the present and an investment in the future — take a look at the organizations which benefit from a gift to the United Way.

Some of those organizations (many of which receive a great deal of their operating funds from the United Way) include the American Red Cross, the Boys Club of Big Spring, the Boy Scouts, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the Girl Scouts, the West Side Community Center, the West Side Day Care Center, the YMCA and the Salvation Army.

A contribution to the United Way may go to help provide emergency services in case of disaster; it might be used to help the handicapped or the less fortunate; or it may be used to help a boy or girl grow up to be a useful member of society.

Put to any of those uses, a contribution to United Way will be returned with interest.

FIRST ORGANIZED IN 1887, the United Way is one of the most efficient of all charitable organizations. The latest available statistics show the average administration, allocation and fund raising cost of all United Ways is under 10 percent of available dollars.

Therefore, a contribution to United Way will go to where it is most needed, rather than becoming lost in the shuffle of administration.

The employees at Malone-Hogan have recognized the importance of United Way — the rest of Big Spring should take heed.

Around the Rim

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Black Sunday

Meet Frank.

He's a 35-year-old, white collar worker, employed in one of those faceless jobs that is still necessary to keep American society humming. He has climbed the promotion ladder predictably but not as quickly as he would have liked. But then again, he certainly has not been a failure.

He and his wife (whom he dated three years in high school and then married) have three children: Trish, age 14, who wants her own phone and is constantly giggling about someone named "Ricky" to all her girlfriends; Marcie, age 11, who isn't so sure she's going to like being called "The Grin" when she gets braces later this year; and Bradley, age seven, who can't understand why E.T. hasn't visited him yet.

They lead a moderate suburban life. Sally is a member of the PTA, the local neighborhood improvement committee and a not-so-enthusiastic member of the Pat Pounds Figure Salon.

There's Frank. Nothing too special but someone Sally has always been able to depend on. He's a member of the Oakwood Country Club where he plays sub-bogey golf on a good day. He's fairly handy with woodwork and is currently building an add-on patio in the backyard. Bradley still impresses his young friends by telling them it was his dad who built that neat treehouse for him last spring.

THEY ALL live in a comfortable three-bedroom home (fireplace in the den and bay windows gazing up and down the Timber Run development) and own a sedan and station wagon. Frank and Sally load up the kids each summer for their annual vacation. The house is almost paid for but two bills replace each one paid and they have resigned themselves to always being in debt to someone.

The most exciting thing that has happened to the household recently is the day Mop (their overstuffed English sheepdog) got loose in the house. In his excitement of touring the foreign land, he crashed headlong into Sally's prized china cabinet. It took two weeks for Frank to quell her tears and a huge chunk of his new golf clubs fund to replace the broken pieces. (Fortunately, Sally later pardoned Mop of his capital offense).

THE ROUTINENESS of it all makes Frank wonder sometimes. He looks at his life. Is this his true idea of high adventure? He looks at his job. Is being a department head of commercial accounts what he really wants to be doing? He looks at his wife. When did that slender body and wavy blonde hair disappear? He peers at his own feet, finding the view partially blocked by his own bulge that's developed. He thinks about his golf game. Why can't he birdie 15 and stay out of the water on eight? And he thinks about his bills. Can they afford new tires for the station wagon this winter?

BUT BEFORE Frank can get too depressed, the weekends come around to revive him. Best of all is Sunday and the routine is always the same: Frank eases into his househoes; gathers up the newspaper and latest copies of Sports Illustrated and The Sporting News; lights up a pipe (never trusting any blend other than Lamphire Gold); pops the tab on his favorite grained beverage; and has Sally fill a bowl full of cheese goldfish, his favorite.

While this regimented procedure goes on, the doorbell chimes to announce the arrival of Ted, Walt and Sid. The initial conversation touches first on Saturday's colleges scores and then chides Frank's lazy nature on these Sunday afternoons. The four some then finds its favorite chairs.

The focalpoint of the day turns to the television set — when it's not on the beers that clutter up all the available empty tabletops (and leave ring stains that Sally despises). Frank bought a new color set last fall, although he would have liked a wide screen model. Instead, he broke down for the remote control which he justified with practicality. Makes it easier to change from game to game, he informed Sally. Her eyes rolled to the clouds and she just smiled.

And so every Fall Sunday, Frank and the boys from the office watch football, particularly the Renegades. Frank leaves his cluttered world behind and becomes the shifty running back he was in high school; he becomes Al Slevik, sports' gift to telejournalism; he becomes Ty Woodall, bullet arm of the Renegades; and he joins coaching forces with Bud Flannery, the only coach the Renegades have ever had.

EVERY SUNDAY football carries him away. But not this fall. That's because the Renegades have joined the other 20 some odd teams in the CFL in a strike against their club owners. They want more money, more security, more publicity. They've gone on on strike and Frank is without his Sunday escape.

Now for the others it's no so bad. Ted has a sailboat he's been wanting to take out to the lake for months now. And Margaret always has a more chore for Walt to do around the house. And Sid? Well Sid usually falls asleep during the game anyway. Sleeping on his own sofa at home won't bother him.

But Frank has nothing to turn to. He doesn't understand all the facts and figures, all the incentives, bonuses and clauses, all the demands, justifications and arguments of the strike. All he knows is the Renegades are not on TV. And he is an unhappy man.

And so Frank frowns to himself and goes outside, grabs a hammer and begins working on the patio. Except this Sunday, he doesn't wear his favorite Renegades T-shirt.

A great sport

I hadn't been on a golf course since I was a kid. The reason was that in my youth I was a caddy, and after carrying around heavy bags filled with irons and woods every weekend, I vowed when I grew up I would never step on a fairway again.

But the other day a friend named Riley, who plays every week, persuaded me to go out with him. "You'll love it," he said. "It's great exercise and the most relaxing sport in the world."

"I'll go along with you," I said, "but I won't play."

So the next morning we showed up at the golf course.

"The first thing we have to do," Riley said, "is rent an electric golf cart."

"Why do you need a golf cart?" "Because they won't let you play here on the weekend unless you drive around the course. If people walk they slow up the game."

"But if you drive around the 18 holes, how do you get any exercise?" "Looking for your ball. They permit you to get out of the cart to look for it. But they don't want you to look too long because the people playing behind you will get sore."

"How long do they let you look for your ball?"

"Three minutes."

"It gives you just enough time to stretch your legs, but at the same time it doesn't tire you out. Here come the other three guys we're playing with. I was introduced to Hal, Chris and George. They each had their own golf cart.

"Why do you each need a golf cart?" I asked.

"We like to race each other up and down the hills," Hal said. "And besides, if you have your own golf cart you can block the view of your ball and kick it to a better lie."

Chris said, "Sometimes if one of the other players gets a real good shot and you can get to his ball first, you can run over it, so he can't find it."

"Frankly," said George, "I find golf cart racing is far more fun than playing the game. It gives the average guy a chance to drive like Evel Knievel."

The foursome teed off and then we all got into our carts and raced to our respective balls. Since I wasn't playing, Riley let me drive his vehicle. "Park as close to the ball as possible," he told me, "so I don't have to walk."

Riley hit his second shot into a sand trap and started cursing. "I knew I should have used a seven iron instead of a five."

"Relax, Riley," I told him. "It's only a five."

It took him three shots to get out of the sand trap, two to get on the green, and three to putt into the hole.

He slammed the bag with his putter, as Hal, Chris and George laughed at him.

"I don't care which one you hit," Riley muttered, "but I want you to ram one of their golf carts."

"But we could hurt somebody seriously."

"So?"

"Look, Riley, I haven't been on a course in many years and I just remembered why. Golf is the most frustrating game in the world. I've never seen anyone on a course who had any fun while he was playing."

"Shut up and drive," he said.

The next 17 holes went about the same way with each player cursing and gritting his teeth after he hit the ball. But for the most part we just kept driving from one shot to another. I figured that if you counted how many steps they took to measure their ball to the flag, each player had actually walked the equivalent of two city blocks for the entire 18 holes. The rest of their exercise came from carrying their golf bags from their cars to the locker room.

I'm not trying to put down golf because I know millions of people play it. Actually it's a great contact sport. It's like auto racing, and it takes a heck of a lot more skill than driving the bumper cars on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City.

Iranians in U.S. harassed

WASHINGTON — Iranians in the United States, who used to live in dread of the shah's secret police, now apparently find themselves in similar fear of Ayatollah Khomeini's goon squads.

Intelligence sources suspect that an undercover campaign of intimidation and harassment against anti-Khomeini Iranians in this country is coordinated, if not directly planned, by Khomeini agents at the Iranian Interest Section in Washington. The interest section, part of the Algerian Embassy, has handled Iranian affairs since President Carter closed the Iranian Embassy three years ago.

Intelligence sources told my associate Lucette Laganado that Iranians living here have contacted the State Department on several occasions to express their fear of the Iranian Interest Section. They are convinced that the interest section is behind some ugly incidents directed at Khomeini's opponents in the United States.

Indeed, Khomeini's minions are believed to be modeling their behavior after the "diplomats" of another dictator, Muammar Qaddafi of Libya. Qaddafi has not shirked from sending assassins into the United States to deal with troublesome exiles.

There is no evidence that Khomeini's secret police have gone to that extreme, at least not yet. But the Iranian Interest Section's methods of harassment have been only slightly subtler. Employees of the interest section have been identified on the fringes of anti-Khomeini demonstrations in Washington. The supposition is that they are there to identify dissidents for future reprisal — if not directly, then against their families in Iran.

In a little-noticed incident last summer, Khomeini's thugs came out of the closet. It occurred at the student center of Southern Methodist University in Dallas. SMU students held a meeting to protest the excesses of the Khomeini regime. The lectures and songs were suddenly interrupted when about 75 hoodlums carrying guns and knives tried to enter the meeting place.

Quick action by local police prevented a major disaster, but not before three anti-Khomeini students were injured. The attack served its purpose: The meeting was broken up and the lesson was driven home that public opposition to Khomeini can be dangerous.

An investigation of the SMU fracas developed the information that many of the pro-Khomeini intruders were from various parts of the country and were considered "pros" who had participated in similar incidents at other colleges.

Intelligence sources believe that the melee in Texas was planned at the Iranian Interest Section in Washington. If so, it demonstrates the thoroughness of Khomeini's surveillance over dissidents in the United States. Not an anti-Khomeini sparrow falls without creating interest at the Iranian Interest Section.

Khomeini's hit squads have not yet made the FBI's list of most dangerous terrorist groups. That dubious honor is shared by Armenian nationalists and Puerto Rican independence advocates, according to FBI sources.

THIS IS scant comfort to Iranian students and exiles living in this country. Where once they feared Savak, the notorious secret police of the late shah, they now fear Svamah, the ayatollah's version.

Footnote: Incidents of terrorism in the United States have made a quantum jump in the past year. As of Sept. 1, the FBI reports, there have been 28 such incidents, in which five persons were killed and 23 injured. In all of last year, one death and four injuries were attributed to acts of terrorism.

I lost my husband, kids

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband has left me and taken our two children with him. I admit I was never a very good wife or mother and I suppose I deserve it. However, I am very miserable and feel like I am losing my mind. What can I do? — L.G.S.

DEAR L.G.S.: Often when I receive letters like yours — and I get many which tell of great heartache and difficulty — I somehow wish I could wave a wand and make everything right again. But life is more difficult than that and especially when we have neglected to do what is right we must face the bitter fruit of our neglect.

Nevertheless, God loves you and he wants to help you in this situation. That does not mean that everything will suddenly be all right again or exactly the way you might wish to have it. But God wants to do something in your life first of all, and you should make it your first concern to find out what it is and pursue it.

What does God want to do in your life? First, he wants you to become his child through faith and trust in Jesus Christ. The rest of your letter (which I have not quoted) suggests that you have never given much attention to spiritual matters on your own relationship with God. Perhaps one reason why God has allowed this to happen to you is so you would begin to think about your need of him, and turn to him. Give your life to Christ without reserve. Confess your sins to him, and trust him to cleanse you and make you his child forever. Then determine that you will follow Christ, putting his will above all else.

Republicans don't brag much

Dear Editor: The Republicans boast that they already have from 90 to 100 million dollars in their party treasury, but I keep receiving mail from Reagan, Bush, Clements and Tower begging for money. Tower is so loaded that he is giving some of his contributions to other Republicans to elect the best Republicans money can buy. One thing seems consistent about Republicans in West Texas. They are so ashamed of Reaganomics that their literature in begging for money does not identify them with any party.

Today, among four solicitations from Republicans, I find Walter Mengden, Texas State Senator, soliciting money for Bill Meier for Attorney General and in no place in the several pages of propaganda do they identify themselves with the Republican Party.

Cockerham, Republican opponent of Big Spring's Democratic candidate Shaw for the Legislature, has not identified himself as a Republican while Shaw is proud of his Democratic candidacy and so identifies himself.

I see Jim Reese billboards all through the area advertising him as a candidate for the State Senate, but I have not seen one that says he is a Republican candidate. I guess he is ashamed of Reaganomics also or possibly he hopes that voters who seek to identify him will not learn of his efforts previously seeking to be the Republican nominee for office and defeated in his own party regularly.

Bankruptcies are the highest number in the last fifty years. Republicans and Reaganomics are causing a steady increase in business failures. Republicans in Congress evidenced they had had enough of Reaganomics and they joined Democrats when the recent Presidential veto was overridden by both Houses in Congress, which in each case required a two-thirds vote.

Sincerely,
D.A. BRAZEL

Stiffer prison terms in Senate-OK'd crime bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, preparing to head home to the voters, has passed anti-crime legislation intended to impose stiffer prison terms on drug pushers, violent criminals and people who repeatedly commit "street crime."

One measure, approved Thursday on a 95-1 vote, calls for important changes in federal sentencing and bail procedures.

"The number one domestic problem in the United States today is crime," said Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., a chief sponsor. "We are failing at every level of government to protect our people in their peaceful endeavors and in their homes."

The bill, which the Reagan administration supports, was sent to the House. But it is still in the House Judiciary Committee where some critics have complained it infringes on civil liberties.

Hoping to recess today for the November election, the Senate rushed through consideration of the massive 232-page crime measure.

The lone vote in opposition was cast by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., who questioned what real value the measure would have.

He said it may prove to be a symbolic gesture unless Congress also approved major new expenditures to expand federal prisons.

The bill is "a budget buster" that would "probably double the population of the federal prisons" if it were enforced, said Mathias.

The Senate also passed, 93-1, a second bill imposing stiff new federal prison terms on some "career criminals."

It would create a new federal offense by providing a term of 15 years to life in prison for anyone convicted for a third time of armed robbery or burglary.

Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., the chief sponsor, said the bill in effect makes "street crime" committed by repeat offenders a federal offense.

He said he hoped the House will consider the measure when Congress returns at the end of November for a lame-duck session.

The bill permits state and local prosecutors to decide whether cases should be referred for federal prosecution.

Specter said the legislation could deter street crime even though only a small number of cases would be brought under federal jurisdiction. He said it would make other repeat offenders think twice before risking a long term in federal prison.

Sen. John P. East, R-N.C., cast the lone opposing vote because he said he had doubts about the bill's constitutionality.

The more sweeping Thurmond bill would, for the first time, allow federal judges to deny bail if they decide the accused poses a danger to the community. Current bail determinations are based on whether the defendant is likely to flee if freed pending trial.

The bill also adopts tougher standards for releasing convicted defendants while they appeal convictions and increases penalties for bail-jumping and drug offenses.

It also would make fundamental changes in federal sentencing by establishing minimum terms without the possibility of parole. The measure would remove discretion from individual judges in favor of a proposed seven-member commission that would set sentencing standards for various crimes.

The provisions only apply to federal criminal cases, not to state and local courts that handle the great bulk of "street crime."

Prospects dim for balanced budget vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is getting the House vote he wanted on a constitutional amendment to ban deficit spending, but says he's worried Democratic leaders still could torpedo the plan with "an 11th hour sleight of hand."

Democratic leaders arranged for votes today on two rival plans — a Republican one and a more vaguely worded Democratic one — to require the government to spend no more than it takes in.

But those on both sides conceded that getting the two-thirds majority needed for either proposed amendment would be difficult.

"I think we'll prevent this raid on the Constitution. I think in the end everything will disappear," said Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., chairman of the House Rules Committee.

House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., conceding some problems of his own with the GOP plan, which he called "a straightjacket of an amendment," declined to predict which way today's showdown would go.

Democratic leaders scheduled the quick vote after Republicans lined up the needed signatures of a majority of the House — 218 members — earlier in the week on a petition to pluck the balanced budget proposal from a hostile House Judiciary Committee and force a floor vote.

That parliamentary coup brought Reagan to Capitol Hill on Thursday to personally thank those who signed the so-called discharge petition.

"Now that a majority of the House of Representatives has called for a vote on the amendment ... it's imperative that the House act on this long overdue measure," Reagan told the reception in a House office building.

But he cautioned: "The leadership of the House may try to sabotage the passage of this resolution by an 11th-hour sleight of hand."

Democratic leaders decided to bring the issue to the floor today rather than delay it until a scheduled post-election session in December. Such a further delay might hand Reagan and congressional Republicans a ready-made campaign theme.

House members will have but two options, both involving proposed amendments to the Constitution:

The Republican plan, similar to one which has already passed the Senate, barring deficit spending except in times of war or by a three-fifth vote by both chambers to unbalance the budget.

Or a hastily assembled Democratic plan offered by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., that would divide responsibility for a balanced budget equally between the president and Congress but would permit deficits in times of "national emergencies." Congress could determine what constituted a national emergency.

The Democratic plan "is all mush and we're going to jump all over it," said Minority Whip Trent Lott, R-Miss.

However, Lott said that even if Republicans can beat back the Democratic plan, getting the two-thirds vote needed for their own plan in the Democratic controlled chamber would be difficult.

And even if one of the two rival plans pass, differences between it and the Senate version would require the Senate to remain in session if a final version is to be produced before the November congressional elections.

Both House and Senate were scheduled to recess tonight until after the elections.

Long arm of the law

OR IS IT THE LONG EAR? — Nearly too tall in the saddle to reach the phone, San Francisco police Officer Robert Freund makes a call while his horse patiently waits for a return to the beat in the city's Fort Mason recreation area.

Jobless fund may need more help

By Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Out-of-work Texans probably scooped out a record $76 million in September from the state's unemployment fund, an official says.

That's about $11 million more than the Legislative Budget Office estimated while designing recent legislation aimed at bailing out the troubled fund.

But other state officials say it's too early to become concerned.

"If that error rate multiplies itself throughout the year, we're in a lot worse shape than they led the Legislature to believe," said a Texas Employment Commission official who asked not to be identified. The agency oversees the fund.

"The legislature was asked to attack a real serious, complex problem in a short period of time. But I'm worried about some of the economic assumptions that underwrote" the legislation, the official said.

"If that error rate continues, we will have to make some serious adjustments during the regular session. Hopefully, something will offset it between then and now."

The Texas Research League is slated to publish an article within the next few days that also questions the economic assumptions used in the bill.

Proponents of the plan adopted earlier this month billed it as a permanent solution.

Gov. Bill Clements called legislators to Austin earlier this month to head off a huge tax increase for Texas employers.

Those tax dollars fuel the fund. The law called for an automatic tax increase whenever the fund dipped below $225,000.

The legislation readjusted the formula so that employers will pay more taxes, but not as much as if the mechanism was left untouched. The commission is scheduled to formally set the 1983 tax rate Friday. Employers paying the minimum tax will see their tax rate jump from $6 per employee to $28. Under the old formula, that tax would have been raised to about $160 per employee.

The legislation also paved the way for Clements to request federal loans to replenish the fund until it is expected to stabilize by 1985.

The plan strikes a delicate balance between estimated benefit pay-outs, tax income and federal loans. It is calculated on projections that foresee an economic upswing in mid-1983.

TEC Chairman Nolan Ward said during hearings on the proposed legislation that its underlying assumptions were optimistic at best and "Disneyland" at worst. He declined comment on the situation Wednesday.

Commissioner Ken Clapp, who was appointed to the board to as a representative of employers, said the legislation shouldn't be judged on one month's figures. "I'm just going to wait and see."

Legislative Budget Office analyst Homer Scaze, who devised the projections used for the legislation, agreed.

"I don't know any more about the coming months than I did a month ago," he said. "When in the regular session, we will know more than we do now. This is what we've said all along."

Clements' legislative liaison, Jim Kaster, said the September pay-out is no cause for concern.

"I don't think one month's pay-outs can be projected to be a continuing error rate throughout the life of the loan," Kaster said.

He said that unemployment is decreasing statewide and that predictions for an economic upturn or leveling in 1983 are probably accurate.

He also noted that the TEC will be under Sunset Review next year when all the agency's procedures and policies can be revised if need be.

Pot sprouts on Fed land

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration's crackdown on drug imports is spurring rapid expansion of the U.S. marijuana crop, especially on federally owned lands, government officials said Thursday.

Bureau of Land Management Director Robert Burford said domestic marijuana producers "have really developed what can be termed one of the most aggressive, progressive processes of agriculture known to man."

Law enforcement agents said they're exploring the possibility of "hard-hitting, high-impact eradication operations" employing military troop helicopters to combat the burgeoning and increasingly violent illegal industry.

"With the continued pressure on foreign sources of marijuana by the vice president's South Florida Task Force, the temptation to the trafficker to seek other sources of supply, especially domestic cultivation, is becoming irresistible," said Frank Monastero, assistant operations chief for the Drug Enforcement Administration.

"There is an increasing tendency to utilize our national forests and other public lands for this purpose," Monastero told the Senate Agriculture forestry subcommittee.

Estimates of the value of America's illicit crop have soared beyond $8 billion a year. The Forest Service says the harvest totaled $2 billion on its 191 million acres last year and Burford says the crop on the Bureau of Land Management's 340 million acres could range as high as $5 billion.

"In 1981, marijuana cultivation had occurred on almost every national forest, and the number of operations on individual forests ranged from minor activity to more than 50," said F. Dale Robertson, associate chief of the National Forest Service.

WITH THAT kind of money at stake, officials said marijuana producers are resorting to violence to avoid detection. Last year alone there were at least 800 confrontations reported between federal employees or visitors to public lands and those involved in marijuana production.

"Employees have not only been threatened with rifles but have actually been shot at," Burford said. "In addition, booby traps constructed with pipe bombs, hand grenades, mines, shotguns and punji stakes have been discovered as have other traps such as fish hooks suspended at eye level."

Robertson said that just this summer a visitor in a California national forest reported a trip-wire across a trail that was set to release a grenade just a few feet away.

"We cannot ignore threats or possible injury to users of the national forests or to our employees," he said in joining other administration officials in urging Congress to divert more financial resources to state and local law enforcement agencies to combat the problem.

But Ed Rosenthal, one of several spokesmen for groups supporting the legalization of marijuana, warned that intensifying enforcement efforts will only lead "to more organized actions by increasingly brazen groups who will be more daring."

Robertson said marijuana cultivation is rising on federal lands because they are remote, located in good growing climates and can not be used by law enforcement agencies to track producers through land ownership records.

WHILE FEDERAL drug enforcement officials are coordinating eradication and suppression operations in 26 states, Monastero said the mountainous and remote terrain that marijuana producers normally pick has prompted efforts to develop more effective operations.

More tents for TDC?

AUSTIN (AP) — More tents might have to be added at state prisons if the inmate population rises to the court-ordered limit, the chairman of the state prison board said Thursday.

T. Louis Austin said he agreed with Gov. Bill Clements that the prisons should not be closed to new inmates — as they were earlier this year — if the limit is reached.

"We are further away from that problem than other people think," said Austin, adding there are about 1,600 available beds in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Austin was here for a meeting of Clements' special commission appointed to look into the criminal justice system.

"We are going to do everything possible to keep from limiting admissions," he told reporters. "We've still got beds down there. We can put up tents and things like that."

TDC began using tents last year to ease overcrowding, Austin said additional tents could be put up "faster than we have more prisoners."

In a Tuesday letter to Austin and the board of corrections, Clements said state prisons must never again be closed to new prisoners. Clements said TDC staff members have warned the prisons could reach the court-ordered limit in November.

The TDC closing earlier this year created problems in overcrowded county jails, many of which also are under court-ordered limits.

Dr. Donohue Cluster headaches

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter has a friend who gets terrible headaches. He has been told these are cluster headaches. He has had them off and on for the past two years. However, now they are more frequent and more intense. He has had CAT scan X-rays, which shows absolutely nothing wrong.

At this point, he is at his wit's end, and he feels now there is nothing to do. It just seems impossible that there is no help for these headaches. It is so sad to see the suffering and how spent he is when the headaches finally pass. He used to find sleep an escape, but the last few times he has been awakened with them in the night. I hope you have some answers. — Mrs. S.R.

First of all, Mrs. S.R., please forgive me for not answering you directly by mail. If it were humanly possible to do so for my readers I certainly would. I hope you can understand why I cannot, except in some very exceptional cases. Now, to your letter.

Cluster headaches have that name because they do just that — come in clusters. They may reappear several times during a day, and very often occur at night, during sleep. The clusters may occur over weeks or months. Then there is a headache-free interval.

The doctors took the X-rays to rule out things like a brain tumor. Usually, cluster headaches are fairly obvious. The individual headache is abrupt in onset and lasts only a short time. It is one-sided and often located around the eye or nose. The skin of the face may redden and the nose and eye water.

As to treatment, the usual pain relievers often help. Or they should help, except that often the headache comes on so fast and lasts for such a short period that pain-relievers may not have time to do their work.

Dear Abby Rest room problems

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I own a small cafe in an area that caters to summer tourists.

We have two nice, clean rest rooms for the convenience of our customers, but because so many people stop in only to use our rest rooms, we decided to put up a sign:

"If you are not a customer, we charge 50 cents for using our rest rooms."

Abby, I wish you could have heard some of the names we've been called by people who have come in only to use the rest room! Some have caused terrible scenes, saying they have never heard of anything so cheap, and they will never set foot in our place again if they are starving!

Don't these people realize that we have to pay for the toilet paper, soap, towels, water (hot and cold), air-freshener, plus the electricity for the lights and the fan that provides ventilation while they are in there? All these things add up.

Abby, do you think we're out of line to charge non-customers 50 cents for the use of our rest rooms?

BAD-MOUTHED IN CASCADE, COLO.

DEAR BAD-MOUTHED: Has the revenue collected since posting the sign compensated for the bad-mouthing and noisy scenes it's created? If not, take down the sign. The tourists will be relieved. And so will you.

DEAR ABBY: While shopping at a very nice supermarket, I came upon something I'd never seen before and wonder if anyone else has ever encountered a similar experience.

I saw a woman take a bottle of ketchup from the shelf, remove the lid, extend her finger down into the bottle, then lick the ketchup from her finger! She continued to do this with several different brands of ketchup, then chose a small bottle that she hadn't opened. I was shocked and a little sick to my stomach thinking that someone was going to buy a bottle of ketchup that this woman had stuck her finger into. She looked to be about 80, was very well dressed, and I doubt that she was hungry.

Needless to say, I don't shop in that store anymore. What would you have done, Abby?

HOLD THE KETCHUP IN HONAKER, VA.

DEAR HOLD: I would have quietly reported the lady to the management.

Everybody needs friends. For some practical tips on how to be popular, get Abby's Popularity booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Woman wins honor

Mrs. Sandra Rhodes, 809 W. 14th, is a new winner of Life Master rank in the American Contract Bridge League.

Mrs. Rhodes has the Gold Card of Life membership for having attained the highest player rank recognized by the ACBL, according to Richard L. Goldberg, executive secretary of the ACBL which governs bridge play in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Bermuda.

Goldberg said Life Master rank is awarded only to players who prove bridge expertise by winning 300 Master Points in bridge contests, with at least 50 points won in demanding regional or continental class competitions. Master Points are awarded in relation to place of finish among the leaders, and to the size and caliber of a competition.

Each Life Master is presented with a golden membership card to symbolize the highest rank. The ACBL is the 200,000 member organization which oversees bridge play at nearly 900 tournaments each year, and at nearly 4,400 clubs each week.

Study finds potential for electronic home information

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-year experiment by The Associated Press and 11 of its member newspapers has shown there is a substantial potential market for electronic home information services, according to a study released Thursday.

The study also shows, however, that the market is still a highly specialized one and says more work must be done to improve the delivery and marketing of the information and to make it easier to use.

The report, by RMH Research Inc. of Fair Lawn, N.J., looked at several aspects of an experiment started in July 1980 by the AP in conjunction with CompuServe, a Columbus, Ohio, company which provides information on a variety of subjects to subscribers via home computers.

Among the key findings:
 • "About one out of six of all consumers nationwide are serious and current prospects for a service like CompuServe."

• The potential market is greatest among young males in the high income group with above-average experience with computers, often as a result of their jobs.

The test was designed, in part, to explore the potential for the electronic delivery of newspapers to the home and the impact such delivery would have on conventional readership habits. It found that in current form, services like CompuServe do not seem to affect readership of newspapers. Nor do they affect radio usage.

he services do, however, cause a decrease in television viewing. (As currently designed, CompuServe requires the simultaneous use of a computer terminal, a television screen for viewing and a telephone to hook up with the central database.)

There were two major groups of participants in the study — regular CompuServe subscribers who paid for the service and a special test panel of approximately 100 households who were given free computer terminals and free use of the service for a limited period. The test panel was selected to represent the public at large from among a group of individuals who had indicated they accepted the concept of information delivered to the home electronically, slightly less than one-third of the test panel decided to continue the service on a paid basis.

The participants had access to more than 150 databases, including games, electronic editions of the newspapers involved, the AP report, business information, personal computing services and shopping materials. The RMH study focused mainly on the use of the informational portions of the service.

RMH researchers said "the desire to be better informed, the novelty value ... and the perceived convenience of electronically delivered information all translate to purchase interest among consumers."

They also said, however, that there are barriers to consumer acceptance, including cost and "the ready availability of low-cost, familiar substitutes to serve the same needs as such a product would offer."

The study showed that newspapers played "an important though minor role" in usage of CompuServe; it found newspapers were important in gaining acceptance of CompuServe although actual usage of them in the system was relatively low and generally declined with time.

RMH found that while CompuServe subscribers generally remain different from the population as a whole, there are signs that acceptance is becoming more widespread and that more recent subscribers tend to differ from early customers. "More recent subscribers are more likely to be female (though most subscribers are still males). They are slightly younger, more likely to have children who use the service and slightly less upscale in terms of household income. More recent subscribers are in occupations that are less technical."

CompuServe subscribers paid $5 an hour for being connected to the electronic database. They gained access to the material available by placing a local telephone call to one of CompuServe's more than 140 offices, then identifying themselves to the computer with a password sequence. Billing was done through bank cards.

Dog treks 2 days to save owner stranded by wreck

BORREGO SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — An injured farmer stranded by a car accident in a desert ravine was rescued after his dog made a two-day trip home and the family realized something was wrong, officials said.

The dog, a black Queensland beeler named Dooley, was bedraggled and barely breathing after the seven-mile trek that ended up saving his owner, Brooks DeKock.

As soon as Dooley arrived home, "We knew something was wrong," said DeKock's mother, Bea Costa.

DeKock, 26, was rescued Wednesday after his mother and fiancée, Janelle Schepe, found his car in the deep ravine and notified authorities.

DeKock, a jalapeno pepper farmer, was flown by helicopter to University Hospital in San Diego, 90 miles southwest of Borrego Springs.

A hospital spokeswoman said he suffered a broken collarbone, facial lacerations and several cracked vertebrae in his neck and lower back, but no paralysis.

DeKock's car plunged off the desert road Sunday night and rolled 300 feet down a rock-strewn ravine off Montezuma Road just west of the winter resort community of Borrego Springs, said Debby Russell, a dispatcher for the California Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Costa said she was sure her son would have died if he had been left in the desert another day.

"I will credit the dog," she said. "He came out of that canyon and he came home. Animals, how do they know? Dooley always stays with Brooks, always, but this time he left ... It took him from Sunday night to Tuesday night, but he came home."

Chicago charges Midland

MIDLAND — You couldn't help leaving the Chicago show here Wednesday night feeling better than when you first came through the doors. Energy is the word for Chicago's performance before 4,700 rock fans in Midland College's Chaparral Center. The audience was most appreciative of the energy released through the group's trademark arrangement of horns, guitars, keyboards and percussion and brought the band out for two encores.

And who said Chicago can't rock-n-roll? Perhaps best known for such tunes as "Colour My World," "If You Leave Me Now" and their recent No. 1 smash "Hard to Say I'm Sorry," Chicago poured on the sound and left their admirers on their feet, clapping and singing along.

Appropriately enough, the show began with "Beginnings" and the group's classic set the tone of the evening when James Pankow blared and bellowed in a trombone solo to conclude the number.

"We can always tell when we're in Texas," Robert Lamm answered the warm greeting by the Chap Center crowd. From old to new, the group went into "Follow Me" from the 16th album which is still positioned in the nation's top 20.

Reversing direction, Peter Cetera reminisced with

ON BASE WITH HIS BASS — Chicago bass player and lead vocalist Peter Cetera sang the group's latest hit "Love Me Tomorrow" Wednesday night before 4,700 fans at Midland College's Chaparral Center. Cetera and the eight-man band are back on tour, riding the success of their latest album, "Chicago 16."

Still not satisfied, the crowd called the group out again and they responded with the non-Chicago numbers "I'm a Man" and "Gimme Some Lovin'," the oldie recently done by the Blues Brothers. As if that wasn't enough, "25 or 6 to 4" followed and still no one had left the arena.

One encore wasn't enough yet and Chicago returned to center stage for "one for all of you," said Pankow. The Beatles "Got to Get You Into My Life" was the final number of the night and the house lights flashed on to remind the crowd they couldn't stay all night.

Comedian Alan Kaye opened the show and after a slow start, entertained the audience with his impersonation of TV shows and commercials.

followed by a jam session of horns and strings alike. The concert was no exception with the session going on and on to the delight of the crowd which now found it hard to stay in their reserved seats.

Pulling away from the mellow with the jam, Chicago continued the energy flow with "Saturday in the Park" and "Feelin' Stronger Every Day." The horns had their day before the stage went blue and Champlin turned balladeer with "Colour My World." His version was soulful but no quite the same as previously done by Terry Kath, the deceased member of the group.

The set ended with a rocking version of "Make Me Smile," a version that included spotlight solos by every musician on stage.

The darkness of the Big Spring High auditorium is shattered by the scream of Sybil Seward. And the high school's stage presentation of Bram Stoker's horror classic, with its umpteen special effects, is truly a scream, if you know what I mean.

"Dracula" opens Saturday night, to be staged once beginning at 8 p.m. and again when the full moon rises Oct. 9 over the BSHS campus.

After winning technical awards the past two years at district competition, director Jimmie Smith approved the staging of "Dracula" despite having to work double or triple time getting all the special effects to work.

Dress rehearsals were held all this week and this writer caught Tuesday's practice performance. The technical ideas — organized by Shot Smith — are devilishly good ideas and more than once do your bones shake and blood boil. The trick, of course, is pulling them all off without a hitch and that's challenge most larger theater groups would have to work hard to accomplish.

Performances to watch in "Dracula" are Angie Lee's Sybil and Joe Murphy's Renfield. Lee's character is irritating from the start. Sybil is lonely and counters with plans to meet her brother's male visitors and too many trips to the liquor cabinet. She's a pain in the neck around the castle and the audience should be glad she's not related to them.

Better Sybil, though, than Renfield who's life revolves around munching the insects that coinhabit his padded cell. Murphy's character crescendos through the play as he drawn under the command of Count Dracula.

The Count, played by Shelley Mahil, is politely Satanic. His charm literally turns the color in women's cheeks and he is one person who's bite is much worse than his bark. "I never dine...in public" is one of several lines he drops throughout the play.

Another good performance comes from the victim, poor Mina (played by Kim Beckman). Her best moments come when she is one moment sweet innocent Mina and the next, a woman possessed by the evil spirit of Dracula.

The cast and tech crew have done an exceptional job, considering further than 15 of the 22 members are only freshmen. The set was painstakingly created and the special effects are dazzling. There's fog, vanishing acts, creaking doors and more.

Don't miss "Dracula." But one word of warning. Keep an eye out for bats.

Car's the star of 'Knight Rider'

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK — With the high cost of gasoline, NBC hopes youngsters will stop cruising on Friday nights and stay home for the bionic car on "Knight Rider."

The indestructible KITT, a computer-driven Trans Am, is a thinking tank, with feelings. It also drives itself, talks, shows off and pouts. This car doesn't need a mechanic; it needs a shrink.

By comparison, the General Lee, the best actor on "The Dukes of Hazzard," is a Model T.

KITT is certainly the star of NBC's new program, which begins its series run tonight. (A two-hour special was broadcast last Sunday.) This flashy car joins the assembly line of TV's thinking transports, including "Mister Ed," "My Mother the Car," and "Herbie, the Love Bug."

The other pretty front end in "Knight Rider" is David Hasselhoff, known for six years as Snapper Foster on "The Young and the Restless." David and KITT bicker like any other TV couple.

In Sunday's episode, Hasselhoff's cop character, David Knight, was shot in the face, with the violence replayed in slow motion three times. A rich, dying benefactor saved Knight's life, gave him a new identity and KITT.

In the series, David will use the car to fight criminals beyond the reach of ordinary law enforcement, proving that "one man can make a difference."

The real difference, of course, is KITT. NBC's strategy is that car enthusiasts (men and kids) will watch CBS' "The Dukes of Hazzard" at 8, then more high-flying stunts at 9. With top-rated "Dallas" emphasizing horizontal action on CBS, "Knight Rider" is bona fide counter-programming.

Mary Martin returns to her public TV job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Actress Mary Martin is back at work, three weeks after a taxi-van collision in which Janet Gaynor was seriously injured and Miss Martin's longtime manager was killed.

Miss Martin, using a walker, returned Wednesday to the set of "Over Easy," the public television series of which she is host. The staff of KQED, where the show is taped, applauded the 68-year-old actress, said Richard Rector, a producer of the series.

Miss Martin broke two ribs and her pelvis Sept. 5 in the accident as she, Miss Gaynor, Miss Gaynor's husband Paul Gregory, and Miss Martin's manager, Ben Washer, 76, were being driven to dinner.

Miss Gaynor, 75, a silent film star, remains in critical condition at San Francisco General Hospital. She broke 11 ribs, her pelvis and collarbone. Gregory, whose legs were broken, has been released from the hospital. Washer was killed.

Police said the cab was rammed by a van driven by Robert Cato, 36, who police say ran a red light. He has been charged with vehicular manslaughter, failure to stop, driving while intoxicated and speeding.

Friday Night Specials

Klondike (3-1) at Jal, N.M. (2-2)

Klondike ran into a tough Jayton team last week and absorbed its first loss of the season...this week the pickin's get no easier as the Coogs travel across the border to face offensive-minded Jal...in an earlier visit to Texas, the Panthers knocked off Greenwood 19-13...Cougars have to cut down on the eight turnovers that hurt in loss to Jayton...throwing of Tim Cope and running of Mike Barkowsky are potent weapons...problem here is experience and overall talent of the Panthers who run 25 different sets on offense...a learning night for the Texans. (Game time is 8 p.m.) JAL 21, KLONDIKE 13

Coahoma (2-2) at Denver City (4-0)

Coahoma evened its record at 2-2 last week with impressive win over Big Lake...two-game winning streak is in serious jeopardy, though, because this week's opponent is deadly Denver City...passing attack joined running as an offensive threat against Owls and defense continued to play well, giving up only its second touchdown in last four games...Denver City is No. 9 in the state and one win was over Kermit which blanked Coahoma 25-0 in season opener...running backs David Hemmeline and Butch Burkhalter lead too much depth and talent for young Bulldogs. (Game time is 7:30 p.m.) DENVER CITY 35, COAHOMA 7

Grady (3-1) at Hermleigh (0-3)

Playing Hermleigh this week is a tougher assignment than one would think...Cardinals are winless but Wildcats are coming off an emotional win, lost Joe Rodriguez (who quit the team) and Benny Stone (injured in an auto accident)...still the Wildcats have big Lynn Key and a trio of quarterbacks that can throw the ball...Cats need to hang onto the ball more this week as Hermleigh tries for first district win and to spoil Grady's spotless 2-0 slate...they'll try but the Wildcats won't let them, however. (Game time is 8 p.m.) GRADY 30, HERMLEIGH 18

Lamesa (1-2) at Snyder (0-3)

Lamesa had an off week and the six starters banged up against Lake View are back and 100 per cent says coach Jim Warren...Snyder is winless in three games and also had an off week to regroup...the Tigers are aggressive on defense and can slip up on a team with their offense...second district game for Lamesa and it should be a pleasant change after having to face tough, tough Lake View...Snyder plays tough at home but Golden Tors will be tougher tonight. (Game time is 8 p.m.) LAMESA 16, SNYDER 14

Stanton (2-2) at Seagraves (4-0)

Stanton's defense?...nothing to question there...the Buffs gave up a touchdown to Crane and that's been it for the year...in four games, opponents have scored 14 points but those numbers have lowered Stanton's record to an even 2-2...coach Steve Park and his staff worked hard on the offense which has gone silent after 15-0 win over Tahoka...Seagraves has four games but against minor opponents...still, an offense that scores 30 points to one that has scored just 22 all year should be the nod...especially at home. (Game time is 8 p.m.) SEAGRAVES 20, STANTON 6

O'Donnell (0-4) at Forsan (1-1-1)

Forsan is rested up after a week's vacation while O'Donnell brings in a 0-4 slate that is much better than first indications relate...the Eagles have been hard on Klondike and Sands in recent losses and the Buffaloes can't afford to take these visitors lightly...Forsan defense looked tough against Robert Lee and offense can move as they showed against Garden City...watch the Buffs go, go if they play to potential. (Game time is 8 p.m.) FORSAN 32, O'DONNELL 12

Greenwood (0-4) at Robert Lee (0-3-1)

Greenwood ran into another powerhouse last week in Sterling City and dropped its fourth game of the season...something's got to give for Joe Longley crew which has too good of an offense to lose many more...Robert Lee played Forsan to 7-7 tie and lost 14-7 to Garden City...it's defense against offense...Forsan visited and had their offense stopped...Steers are hard to beat at home. (Game time is 7:30 p.m.) ROBERT LEE 14, GREENWOOD 13

Clyde (2-2) at Colorado City (1-3)

A lot of frustration was relieved last week when the Wolves wiped out Wylie for first win of the season...after three tough opening games, C-City played a team more in its class and Clyde should be there too...Bulldogs lost a lot of meat from recent strongman teams but have surprised a few folks with 2-2 start...Larry Hamilton isn't big but he rushed for 250 yards in last two games for Wolves...game is in the den and the Wolves are always hungry at home. (Game time is 8 p.m.) COLORADO CITY 20, CLYDE 18

Garden City (2-2) at Water Valley (2-2)

Garden City bounced back nicely from its upset loss at Grandfalls with a big win over stingy Robert Lee team...Richard Batla makes this offense go and has to take up slack in absence of Billy Kelso...Water Valley is 2-2 and lost lopsided game to Sands with several players out...if Garden City has its confidence back, it should get win No. 3 before district play begins. (Game time is 7:30 p.m.) GARDEN CITY 16, WATER VALLEY 6

Steers to visit 'Dogs house

MIDLAND — How do you spell relief? The players, coaches and fans at Midland High School are relieved all right after getting Odessa Permian out of the way in their first district game.

Mighty Mojo, ranked as usual among the state's 10 best 5-A teams, buried the Bulldogs under a 37-0 scoring landslide last week. Now the Bulldogs match up with the Big Spring Steers, also falling in their league opener (20-6 to Abilene High).

"They had five starters out for that game," says Steer coach Quinn Eudy. "But they should be back, that's what coach (Pat) Culpepper says."

"They are a real physical, highly-emotional, intense football team. They really try to intimidate you with that," Eudy continues.

Midland won its first two games, upending Andrews 16-2 in the second game, before falling to speedy Lubbock Estacado 23-6 and then losing to Permian. Estacado has also played Big Spring, winning by a 12-0 count in Memorial Stadium.

The Bulldogs run out of a wing-T offensive set and use the pass to big tight end Chuck Dickenson (6-2, 220) effectively. He leads the league in receptions with nine for 100 yards.

The top rusher on the squad is Alex Mata with 92 yards. Following him with 91 is Kyle Kitto while Raymond Chambers has 87. John Hibbitts isn't too far behind with 76 more. Spelling them are Randall Collins (48 yards) and Earl Phillips (34 yards).

"They are all good, tough, strong runners," Eudy says.

As a team, Midland is last in offense with just 597 yards in four games. Quarterback Mark Page has hit 14 of 40 passes for 178 yards, nine of those going to Dickenson.

On defense, the Bulldogs rank just above Abilene High, falling from the top spot in the league after the past two losses.

"They line up in an eight-man front and they come at you," said Eudy. A lot of teams have done that to Big Spring, although Abilene High fell back into pass protection after grabbing a 14-0 lead.

Eudy says his Steers will stick with their game plan of trying to establish the run and doing that with straight-ahead stuff and the quarterback option to either side. "When Estacado broke the line of scrimmage against them, they had the speed to go all the way. Once they got the ball in the secondary it was Annie bar the door. Against us, when they did get into the secondary, we fortunately made some tackles."

As for what Midland's mood will be like after messing with Mojo, Eudy says, "They'll come back at us real hard and be real intense. They will be excited about playing Big Spring. And I guarantee you, we'll be excited about playing them. This is a big game for us."

The Steers will go into the game close to 100 per cent in available talent. Tight end-defensive end Scott Griffin still has a cast on his left leg but otherwise, all starters are healthy and Eudy has no new lineup changes this week.

Danny Stephen leads the team in rushing with 142 yards on 34 carries (he missed the Levelland game with an injury) for a 4.2 average. Junior Eric Sherman has contributed 131 yards as has quarterback Adam Rodriguez.

Rodriguez has thrown for 257 yards to rank third in the district but has been intercepted five times without hitting a TD pass. His top receiver is turning into shifty Dale Crenshaw who caught four passes for 45 yards against Abilene.

Still at No. 2 in defense, the Steers are grudgingly giving up 98 yards per game on the ground. Ron Lewis, the No. 2 rusher in the leagues, gained only 88 yards last week with 26 coming on a late fourth quarter carry.

Sophomore punter Jay Pirkle is averaging 38.8 yards a kick, third in the league.

Last year, Midland scored a 33-13 win over Big Spring.

CARL GREEN'S GAME PLAN FOR TONIGHT
...spend most of the evening visiting the Bulldog backfield

Big Spring opponents now Green with envy

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Green was the word for Steer defensive end Carl Green.

Playing football for the very first time as a junior and starting on the Big Spring varsity without much playing experience, Carl Green has turned from rookie to pro in just four games. And that's one good reason why Big Spring boasts the No. 2 defense in District 4-A this season.

Green plays out of the defensive end position. For two games he did his job without much notice. Then against Levelland, he spent most of the four quarters in the Lobo backfield chasing quarterback Rodney Caddell from sideline to sideline. Unlike the Texas Rangers, he didn't always get his man but it was a major improvement in his defensive play.

"After Levelland, I worked real hard and got my paths adjusted," he said. "That made it a lot easier for me to get back there now."

But against Abilene High, Green joined noseguard Pat Burke in wrapping up, enveloping, bruising and burying quarterback

Steve Stacy with a fierce second half rush. "I think accomplished a lot against Abilene," Green admits. "I showed what I can do. They double-teamed me and I have always been afraid of that. Now it's a lot easier. That game can prepare me for the rest of the season."

Green has come a long way in just four games and is now playing his end position like a veteran.

"My main job this week is to close off the dive and to pass rush," he says of facing the Midland Bulldogs. "It should be pretty easy for me this week. I'll fake a certain pattern and run another or I'll dip in behind the other pass rushers and try to confuse them. Usually they're not quick enough to pick me up. And pressure from the other side will help."

Green has become valuable on defense but that's not all he contributes to the team. He also placekicks and booted a 36-yard field goal in his debut against Levelland.

"I try to keep my head down and kick the ball in the right spot," he explains of his second job. "I knew I could make it," he

Mustangs charge by Lamesa, 34-0

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

ACKERLY — If Howard Cosell had been at this edition of "Thursday Night Football," he would have called Sands running back Robby Creswell "undoubtedly, the finest running back in football today."

Maybe Howard wouldn't have gotten that carried away but he would have been impressed by Creswell's 136 yards rushing and three touchdowns in the Mustangs' 34-0 victory over the Lamesa junior varsity here last night.

The win boosted Sands to a perfect 5-0 season record, their best start perhaps since the 1960's. The win also gives the Mustangs momentum going into next week's district opener and showdown with the Forsan Buffaloes.

Creswell is not the biggest nor the fastest runner to play the game. But 5-8, 180-pound junior is awfully hard to bring down and gained much of his yardage after breaking tackles or just dragging those would-be tacklers along with him.

Dulling his performance Thursday night was a needless clipping penalty that wiped out a 76-yard burst for a touchdown in the second quarter. Weaving his way into open field from the line of scrimmage, Creswell did show he had another gear to shift into as he glided past the Golden Tor secondary.

The game was not the rout it seemed for at least one half. Sands led just 9-0 at halftime thanks to too many first half penalties. Not only was the long TD run by Creswell called back but the Tors held the Mustangs out of the end zone in the final minute to keep the game close.

The game also featured the aggressive Sands defense. Lamesa couldn't run up the middle, they couldn't run wide and sometimes they couldn't even get out of their own backfield before brown jerseys congregated on the ballcarrier. For the night, the Tors managed a minus 21 yards on the ground.

And that total could have been worse except for one brief offensive punch in the third quarter. After Johnny Gonzales rushed the team's first first down since the start of the game, Kevin Suga bulldozed his way into the Mustang secondary, leaped over a would-be tackler and broke for 26 yards. He finally went down at the Sands 42 but the drive ended right there four plays later.

Sands got on the scoreboard first with 5:51 left in the first quarter when Tor quarterback Michael Schildnecht fumbled a pitchout in his backfield and the ball rolled into his own end zone. Luckily Jeff Brown fell on the loose ball but Perry Wigington fell on him for a safety.

Three minutes later, after forcing Lamesa to punt into a stiff wind, Santos Ybarra hot-stepped it 44 yards into the

Creswell scores three touchdowns

Tor end zone and Chris Wigington booted the PAT to make it 9-0.

The score stayed right there until the third quarter. The Mustangs took the opening kickoff at their own 34 and drove 66 yards in 10 plays. Creswell went the last 26 yards on a sweep to the right side to make it 15-0 with 7:51 left in the quarter.

Sands scored on its next possession as Marshall Long broke for 12 yards and Alden Franco hit end Johnny Rodriguez with a 23-yard gainer to the Tor six. On fourth down, Franco kept the football himself the last five yards to up the score to 22-0 on Wigington's kick.

Stuck at their own six in the fourth quarter, Lamesa punted out only to their 25. Ybarra gained four yards before Creswell swept to the right side the last 21 yards for another touchdown.

Schildnecht was intercepted on Lamesa's next possession and the Mustangs drove into Tor territory. They tried a 50-yard field goal with the hurricane-like wind at Wigington's back but the kick was way short. Fortunately there was a penalty on the play and the drive continued until Creswell swept it into the end zone again from nine yards out.

Ybarra didn't have too bad a night as a secondary runner, gaining 96 yards for the night.

Lady Steers pummel Permian

Shell Rutledge scored five points in the opening set while Paula Spears got six from the service line in the final set. Both were named the top offensive performers of the match by coach Becky Holliday while Sharon McCalister, Monette Wise and Sylvia Randle sparked on defense.

Rallying from a 7-0 deficit in the second set, Big Spring tied the set 11-11 and went on to defeat Permian 15-12, 15-12 in a District 4-AAAAA match Thursday night in the BSHS gym.

The win is the second straight for the Lady Steers after four opening losses. Big Spring closes out the first half schedule Tuesday in San Angelo against the defending league champion Bobcats.

Shell Rutledge scored five points in the opening set while Paula Spears got six from the service line in the final set. Both were named the top offensive performers of the match by coach Becky Holliday while Sharon McCalister, Monette Wise and Sylvia Randle sparked on defense.

The Big Spring turnaround this week is due in part to a lineup change by Holliday. Earlier, Big Spring defeated Midland Lee in Midland in straight sets also.

The junior varsity dropped its third straight league match with a 17-15, 6-15, 16-14 heartbreaking loss to Permian. Sheri Graham had seven points in the opening loss while Tammy Yancey served six winners in the second set victory. The third and final went down to the wire as Jana Matthews scored seven points.

The JV's are now an even 3-3 in district play.

The freshman faced the Permian sophomores and dropped a three-setter, 10-15, 15-11, 15-9. Tami Green scored 15 points from her serve in the three sets. Big Spring is now 9-3 for the year.

Goliad, Runnels win

Goliad split two matches with Lamesa while Runnels completed a sweep of the same opponents Thursday night.

The Goliad A team claimed a 15-9, 15-12 victory, handing Lamesa its first loss of the year. Michelle Tucker was high-point server with 12 while Nikki Rodriguez had six and Katrina Thompson five points.

The B team fell 15-10, 8-15, 15-8 to Lamesa despite six

Shell Rutledge scored five points in the opening set while Paula Spears got six from the service line in the final set. Both were named the top offensive performers of the match by coach Becky Holliday while Sharon McCalister, Monette Wise and Sylvia Randle sparked on defense.

THE LIGHT TOUCH
By Sherry Wegner

During the fair last week, I noticed there were several definite types of spectators. Here's how I classified them:

1. Those who walk swiftly thru as if they were on their way to an important conference.
2. Those who walk at the pace of a 9 mos. pregnant lady carrying twins & absorb every sign, booth, & "freebie."
3. There are the husbands, accompanying the wives, who obviously would rather be somewhere else. The clue is, they linger patiently in the middle of the aisle or near a post while the wife visits the booths.
4. Those who avoid eye contact. They want to look at the displays but do not want any verbal or eye contact.
5. Those who enthusiastically register for the prizes, & those who never register, saying "I've never won anything in my life anyway!"

Speaking of winning, Scott & John Roman both won Grand Champion with their lambs last week. We are really proud because they fed them Evergreen Show Lamb feed from Big Spring Seed & Chemical, 602 N.E. 2nd. You could be a winner too by shopping with us. Congratulations Scott & John.

Orioles gain on Brewers

It's the final weekend of the regular season and the surprise of the two American League races is that the Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Royals are still in them.

All but counted out earlier this week, both the Orioles and Royals stayed mathematically alive in their respective races with pressure victories Thursday night.

The Orioles' victory, coupled with Milwaukee's 9-4 defeat by Boston, left them three games behind the front-running Brewers in the East as the two teams headed into their climactic four-game season-ending series in Baltimore.

The Orioles were losing 5-2 when they rallied to beat the Tigers.

Red Sox 9, Brewers 4

Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski combined for seven hits, and rookie Wade Boggs drove in three runs as Boston beat Milwaukee.

Royals 11, A's 4

Willie Aikens hit a grand slam homer and a three-run shot to power Kansas City past Oakland.

Experience pays for Green

said of the field goal against the Lobos, "but it was my first angle kick. I knew if I got the angle down, I could get in through."

Although he was on the junior varsity last fall, he too has noticed the change in attitude on the Steer varsity this year.

"Last year we depended on certain people to pull us through," he recalls. "If one person got hurt that was real important, everyone got hurt, too. Now everyone has the same talent and if one gets hurt, someone else can come right in and play."

"Once we get excited, we stay excited," he explained of the team's four quarter performances. "I didn't see that last year. If we got scored on, they gave up. This year, if we got scored on, it makes us work harder."

Green is turning into a team leader with the confidence he is gaining each week. "I feel like I'm one of the leaders. They are treating me like I am one and keep telling me I can be better."

Green concentrates on football and hopes to go to college playing the sports. He may also try baseball again this spring, "if they think I can help them out."

Backing him are his four brothers, sister and parents. "They've been to every game so far, out of town and in town. After every game — win or lose — I can relax and get encouragement from them."

He's also proud of the way the community has supported the Steers this year.

"I'm really proud of them...they've been behind us more than anytime in the last few years. They've been behind us like we're champions and we're going to do everything we can not to let them down."

Green certainly is doing his part.

World Communion Sunday and millions of Christians will be joining together to celebrate the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

In a way, the emphasis is on what we can do... and on what God does for us. The Bible is ours to read and learn from every day. But to most Christians the Lord's Supper is a wonderful mystery in which Our Lord comes to us with his forgiving, saving love.

With whatever emphasis of doctrine or reverence you view the Word and Sacrament, make this week at worship a very special event in your family's life. It is a time when we are reminded that the World is God's family.

"Where The Spirit Makes The Difference"

Indian priest adapts easily

By CAROL HART
Church Editor

"I have always had, from the very beginning, a great longing to serve the unfortunate and poor," says Father Lawrence D'Mello, a Catholic priest born near Bombay, India. The Indian priest was recently assigned to Big Spring.

FATHER D'MELLO — Lawrence D'Mello recently relocated to the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church after having worked at parishes in India and Kingston, Jamaica. The priest, who was born in India, says that Texas is one of the few places he's been in the United States.

In his duties with the Catholic church, Father D'Mello has seen many parts of the world and has worked with parishioners in India and Jamaica. His latest assignment brings him to Big Spring as associate pastor at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, working with Father Bernard Gulley.

In a comfortable study in the manse at Immaculate Heart, Father D'Mello outlines the path which brought him to Big Spring. He speaks clearly but with a very definite accent reflecting his background.

"I was born in 1947. I grew up and attended high school in Manglore, a city near Bombay. When I was 15½, I left my city and went to Lueknow, close to Delhi, for seminary studies."

The move took him 1,200 miles from his family, but the youngster adapted to his new school well. While in seminary, he studied English, Latin and other college-level courses.

After three years in Lueknow, "I was sent to Poona (near Bombay) where I continued my philosophy and theology studies at the Papal Athenaeum. I remained there for seven years.

Father D'Mello was 25 years old when he graduated from the Papal Athenaeum and was ordained as a priest. He was then assigned to a diocese close to Nepal. Here, "I worked among the poor peasants in the city and in the outskirts of the city — in the slum areas."

For six years "I taught in the schools, visited the sick, guided young people and looked after the people's spiritual welfare."

When, after some time, Father D'Mello found himself seeking a "different mission, an experience outside of India," he requested a transfer, and asked to be relocated to Jamaica, because he had been told "that's where they needed priests — there was so much pastoral work to do."

Father D'Mello said his Bishop in India was at first hesitant to send him to Jamaica. "He was losing one of his priests, someone trained to work in a particular diocese."

But Father D'Mello obtained the transfer and moved to the Holy Trinity Cathedral in Kingston where "I worked in an area of the city with a high crime rate, much poverty and misery. The Bishop of that diocese could not find a Jamaican priest willing to go and work in that area."

But Father D'Mello accepted the assignment willingly. He said he enjoyed working with people "who needed help badly. There are very few people who will reach out for them."

Still, the area was a dangerous one. "In fact, when I went to the parish, I was warned by the pastor not to venture out in certain areas. I could be robbed or held up. Criminals do not hesitate to do anything for the sake of money."

"Somehow, I found these warnings unbecoming, meaningless, to someone who is supposed to help people, to be one with them."

Before long, Father D'Mello found himself "going about on foot, and talking with people, learning about them, teaching them." This contact "helped me very much because not only did the people come to know me, but I very quickly came to know about people's problems in the slum areas and the way they live, and the causes of their problems."

"Working with such people brought enormous blessings from God because I was not troubled by any criminal. People were kind and friendly. As I walked and visited people, they allowed me to care for them and to love them."

After having served in this diocese for more than three years, Father D'Mello wrote the bishop of the San Angelo diocese because he had heard of a need for priests in Texas and New Mexico.

"I wrote and asked this Bishop if he wanted any help from me," Father D'Mello said. "He said he did want help, and called me to come as soon as possible."

Father D'Mello was assigned to Big Spring on Sept. 8, and says he is glad to be here. There is a great deal of pastoral work to be done in West Texas, he says, and "My great desire is to work for the church, for Christ, for the people in the community. This has been a chance to fulfill that desire."

Texas is one of the few places the priest has been in the United States. "I've been to New York, Brooklyn and some places along the East Coast," he says. He was virtually unfamiliar with Texas, although he had read about the state "in the National Geographic. But I didn't know very much."

He has had no trouble adapting to the area, he says, because working in missions "has helped me learn to adapt easily. I was prepared for anything."

Since relocating here "I have found the people to be extremely friendly, hospitable, generous. They remind me of my own people in India, people who are also friendly, kind and helpful. I've found that basically, people are the same any place I go. They have the same aspirations, hopes, the same troubles and difficulties in life."

One of the benefits Father D'Mello says he has found in working as a priest is that "I have grown to love people. I have gained a better understanding of human nature and different relationships."

The priest was brought up in a Christian home. He comes from a family of six girls and three boys, and is the eldest of the family. His father is a farmer.

His sister also works for the Catholic church in a lay order in India. The priest is the only member of his immediate family who has left India.

Church news briefs

Hillcrest purchases TTY

Hillcrest Baptist Church has purchased a TTY, a telephone-adaptor which will allow the deaf and hearing-impaired to make calls to the church, according to Dr. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the church.

Two different youth organizations at the church raised money for the TTY. They are the Royal Ambassadors, consisting of boys in grades one through 12, and the Girls in Action, consisting of girls in grades one through six.

These two groups undertook various projects during the last year to raise funds for the TTY which was recently installed. The phone number at Hillcrest is 267-1639. Those using the TTY should signal the church upon making the call so the receiver of the phone may be properly inserted into the telephone adaptor.

Church joins Touchdown '82

The First Church of the Nazarene joins more than 100 other churches of the Nazarene in West Texas in a Sunday School attendance emphasis during October.

The theme is "Touchdown '82," with its structure simulating that of the National Football League. The season will be October with division and conference play-offs in November.

"Super Bowl Sunday" will be Nov. 21. Dell McGuire, Christian life chairman, is coach of the Big Spring group. The local group's goal is a 46 percent increase over last year's average Sunday School attendance.
