Tainted medicine: Now it's acid in eyedrops

RIALTO, Calif. (AP) — A woman has been treated for severe eye burns caused by acid-contaminated eye drops in the latest in a series of incidents in California involving the medication, according to the doctor who treated her.

It was also the second case of tainted over-the-counter medication reported in a week. Seven people in the Chicago area have died after taking Extra-Strength Tylenol that had been laced with cyanide.

Carol Sam, 28, of Rialto, went to San Bernardino County Medical Center's emergency room Monday because her eyes began burning from freshly opened Visine A.C. drops she had bought at the Stater Bros. store in Rialto, said Dr. Douglas Gruzd, who was working in the emergency room.

Monday revealed a "dangerous acid solution," but further testing was planned to determine the specific makeup of

There have been similar problems with eye drops bought in Southern California over the last 10 months in which several people complained that the solutions made their eyes burn. There were no serious injuries.

Visine is manufactured by the Leeming Division of Pfizer Inc. of Parsippany, N.J. Pfizer spokesman Robert Wilson in New York City said today that company officials were preparing a statement.

Gruzd said the eye drops Ms. Sam brought to him contained "much more acid than we would expect." He said she was treated at the hospital for burns of both corneas, and patches were placed over both eyes and she was released

"There was more acid than I would ever put in anyone's eyes," the doctor said. "Her vision is severely affected, but with any luck she will recover in two to four days." He said he expected no permanent damage.

He said he turned the drops over to the Rialto police, a town just south of San Bernardino, and that police told him that Stater Bros., a supermarket chain, had pulled all of the drops from shelves in its Rialto store.

Rialto police dispatcher Denise Decker said she could not confirm that report early today. She said the department would not comment on the matter until Chief Raymond Farmer released a statement later today.

There was no answer early today at Stater Bros. offices. Gruzd said Ms. Sam first consulted an optometrist, who suggested she go to the hospital emergency room. He said Ms. Sam "claims the seal was not broken on it."

In the previous problems with eye drops in Southern California, Alpha Beta markets in August ordered its stores in the Los Angeles area to pull eye drops from shelves after sulfuric acid was found in four Murine vials, injuring three people, none permanently.

CARBON PLANT GIVEN TO SHRINERS - The $3 million Cabot Corp. carbon black plant, located east of Big Spring near Cosden refinery, has been donated to the Suez Temple — the Shriners — by the corporation.

Shriners get carbon plant

By MIKE DOWNEY

Staff Writer The abandoned Cabot Corp. carbon black plant near Cosden Refinery may become useful once again through its new owners, the Suez Temple, better known as the

According to Bob Boyd, manager of production for the carbon black division of Cabot Corporation in Atlanta, Georgia, the company donated the property, valued at nearly $3 million, to the Shriners the last of September.

Boyd said approximately 22 acres of the property had been sold to a Midland firm, but the remainder of the land was given to the charitable organization. He estimated the gift covered about 20 acres located on Interstate 20, east of Big Spring, on the North Midway road.

'The Shriners are a worthwhile organization since they do a lot of good work for burned and crippled children,

One major reason for choosing the Shriners was that several former employees at the Big Spring plant belonged to the Shriners, Boyd said.

Boyd said the carbon black plant was "a good piece of property for Big Spring." Although the Cabot Corporation had dismantled the carbon black unit, the warehouses and offices remained, the production manager said. One reason for the delay in the disposal of the property, Boyd said, was the amount of time spent in tearing down

Boyd, a former Big Spring resident and plant manager, said he had been placed in charge of disposing of the property because of his familiarity with the area.

Several agencies had been considered as possible benefactors, including the city of Big Spring, Boyd said. 'We were discussing it with the city for about six months as a pure gift," he said. Apparently the deal fell through because the plant "didn't fit their needs," Boyd

City Manager Don Davis was out of town Tuesday morning and unavailable for comment.

The Big Spring Shrine Club, headed by Verlin Knous, will be in charge of operating the property, Boyd said. Knous declined to comment on the gift after contacting his superiors, confirming only that the donation had taken

Boyd and Knous acknowledged details for a formal announcement were being worked out between the Shriners national headquarters in Florida and Cabot.

ALLEN CLARK

Clark attacks his opponent

By BOB CARPENTER Staff Writer

Allen Clark, GOP candidate for state treasurer, brought his business-like campaign to Big Spring yesterday, boasting his qualifications for the office while attacking his opponent's lack of experience in Clark met briefly with local media yesterday in a press conference at the Industrial Park air terminal. Clark, a former administrative aide for Gov. Bill state treasurer office - an office, according to Clark, she is unqualified to hold.

"The people of Texas deserve a professional money manager. The state treasurer oversees a $25 billion department and he must be trained and qualified. I have a master's in business administration, I'm a former bank vice president and I'm president of three small energy-related companies," Clark said.

If elected, Clark promises to make the state treasurer's office cost-effective by eliminating overlapping functions, realigning staff responsibilities and getting rid of part-time positions. Clark vowed to: do something about uncollected balances banks often carry over from year to year; vary interest rates depending on length of deposit and maturity; and establish a professional working atmopshere in the treasurer's office. "I'm looking forward to creating an atmosphere of viable inter-agency cooperation," Clark said. "The operation efficiency sought will permit the state to earn the maximum amount of interest consistent with prudent management practices." While Clark touted his no-nonsense approach to the treasurer's office, he also attacked Mrs. Richards' lack of business experience for the job.

"She is an political opportunist, using this race to further her career, why she even had to borrow a book on banking when she got into the race," Clark said.

Clark also made frequent references to Mrs. Richards' "partisan, liberal activism" saying she had endorsements from liberal factions such as the AFL-CIO, feminists and gay activist groups

Clark is a West Point graduate and a veteran of Vietnam where he lost both legs below the knees in combat. He was appointed to run for the treasurer's job by the Republican State Executive Committee after Millard Neptune withdrew from the race.

Clark is making up for lost time by bouncing around the state on a hectic whistle stop campaign that included Austin, Dallas, Sweetwater, Big Spring and Abilene Monday. Clark said he feels he is closing the gap between himself and Mrs. Richards.

Polish leaders may ban Solidarity

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Parliament is expected to outlaw the suspended Solidarity union this week and set up a two-year timetable to restructure Polish unions under tight control of the ruling Communist Party.

Excerpts of a draft law obtained Monday by The Associated Press would sharply restrict the right to strike and allow walkouts only as a "final resort" requiring a week's notice. Violators would face stiff penalties including prison terms.

"This law takes effect the day it is enacted," the draft law states. "Registration of trade unions effected before this law ... lose their legal force.' A Polish journalist and longtime union observer said the measure apparently is aimed at fragmenting the labor movement "into myriads of mutually exclusive unions." Solidarity, the first union in the Soviet bloc free of Communist Party control, was formed during August 1980 shipvard strikes in Gdansk. The government suspended it members. Archbishop Jozef Glemp, primate of the nation's powerful Roman Catholic Church, cancelled a visit to the Vatican for the canonization of a Polish saint this week last Dec. 13 following waves of strikes and challenges to party authority. At its peak the union had 9.5 million and a tour of 12 U.S. and Canadian cities later in the month, church officials announced today. Observers said the cancellations reflected Glemp's earlier stated fears of a violent reaction by workers if Solidarity is banned. Solidarity supporters have staged sporadic bloody protests since the government suspended the union and detained its top leaders. The measure provides for a new union structure based on professions and initially limited to the factory level, erasing Solidarity's immense power as a national force. Unions also would be forbidden to tack names like 'Solidarity' onto their titles.

Although trade unions could be established in workplaces, nationwide organizations would be forbidden until 1983. National organizations could form inter-union central boards, or federations, beginning in 1984

Some Western observers said this timetable would allow the Communist Party to monitor union development and guard against the swift, independent growth Solidarity enjoyed.

Parliament, which has always operated under strict Communist Party control, is expected to vote on the proposed union law during a two-day session opening

BEHIND BARS IN POLAND - Solidarity members in a prison yard in Poland were photographed by a man who later was exiled from the country and smuggled his film out in a box of sugar. Polish authorities may ban Solidarity this week.

Workers back at idled Gulf plant

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) - Cars and pickup trucks streamed into Gulf Oil Chemical Co.'s largest refinery today as about one-third of the 1,100 workers idled by a bomb threat last week returned to work.

But spokesman Bill Rinehart estimated it would take at least two weeks for employees to finish bringing the plant back to normal operations.

Gulf ordered the shutdown Thursday after extortionists reportedly threatened to blow up the Cedar Bayou plant if they were not paid $15 million by midday Sunday.

Callers had warned that 10 bombs had been planted in the plant. Five bombs were found and deactivated harmlessly, and the deadline passed without an explosion.

Explosive experts from the FBI, Houston Police Department bomb squad and U.S. Army repeatedly searched the 1,000-acre plant, located about 28 miles southeast of Houston, but no other bombs were found. A Houston television station reported Monday night that the FBI believes there were never more than five bombs in the Cedar Bayou plant, but that the agency is investigating the strong possibility that five bombs were intended for Gulf's Port Arthur refinery as well, but were never put in place.

There were 15 radio-controlled bombs, but only five were planted, all at the Baytown plant, KHOU-TV's Cinny Kennard reported from Durango, Colo., the residence of all four people who have been arrested in connection with the plot. She quoted "sources close to the investigation."

KHOU-TV said the FBI was told one of the people involved in the extortion "got cold feet" and disarmed the other explosives on a back road off Interstate 10 between Houston and San Antonio.

The Cedar Bayou plant is on I-10, eight miles north of Gary Lissotto, the FBI's special agent in charge of the investigation, declined to confirm or deny the account.

Supreme Court to rule on lawmen searches for drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court, in a case reflecting a national effort to scuttle an illicit navy of sea-bound drug runners, may soon spell out when lawmen can search boats they suspect are carrying smuggled drugs.

Opening its 1982-83 term by taking actions in nearly 1,000 legal disputes. the nation's highest court said it will review a ruling that overturned the convictions of two men arrested in the Florida Keys after several bales of marijuana were found on their boat.

A Florida court ruled that officers of the state's Marine Patrol lacked "probable cause" to suspect the boat was carrying drugs — so their search was unconstitutional.

The Florida Supreme Court ordered a new trial for Omar Garcia and Constantino Casal after ruling that the seized marijuana could not be used as evidence against them because it was found in an illegal search.

"That (Garcia and Casal) could not produce a (boat) registration certificate and that, although they said they were going to the Bahamas their icebox did not contain ice, may have been suspicious circumstances but did not constitute probable cause (to search their boat)." the state court

That decision was challenged by Florida prosecutors who said it would hurt efforts to curb drug smuggling in that state.

In other action Monday, the Supreme Court:

• Moved to avert potential disruption of the busy federal bankruptcy system by extending until Dec. 24 its deadline for Congress to rewrite a portion of the 1978 bankruptcy law the justices declared unconstitutional last

· Said it is allowing the Reagan administration to participate in oral arguments over how far Akron, Ohio, and other communities can go in regulating abortions. It will mark the first time since the Supreme Court legalized abortion in 1973 that Justice Department lawyers present their views in an abortion dispute in which the federal government is not a party and no federal law is at issue.

 Agreed to decide whether states can require that juries considering whether to sentence convicted murderers to death or life in prison be told that the states' governor could some day shorten the prison term.

Hunt still on for Tylenol culprits

CHICAGO (AP) — Two dozen suspects in the cyanide poisonings of seven people range from "a young hippie to an old man," say investigators who are trying to find a link between the murders and hundreds of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules dumped in a motel parking lot.

The manufacture of the capsule version of Extra-Strength Tylenol was halted, and the Illinois attorney general said a "black market" had sprung up for the medication, which has been banned in Chicago.

At a press briefing Monday night, Illinois Attorney General Tyrone Fahner said some of the suspects have a history of violent crime. He did not comment further on the people under investigation.

He also said 10 to 12 more officers would be added to a task force of more than 100 people probing the murders of the seven Chicago-area people, who died after swallowing the Tylenol that had been spiked with cyanide.

He also disclosed that preliminary lab tests found no trace of cyanide in the empty Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules and powder discovered in a suburban motel parking lot by two sheriff's deputies on Sept. 28, the day before the first deaths.

The lab results, however, don't rule out a possible link between the poisonings and the discarded capsules, said Fahner, who has called the incident "one of several very substantial leads" under investigation.

"We still don't know why someone would throw out all those pills in a parking lot," Fahner said, adding the material will be tested further.

In a related event, a trade group representing manufacturers and distributors of over-the-counter drugs planned to meet with representatives of the Food and Drug Administration today to discuss safety in packaging.

"We think that perhaps there are ways we could make them (drugs) more secure once they have left the factory or the warehouse and are in fact in a drug or grocery store," said FDA Commissioner Arthur Hill Hayes.

Investigators believe the deaths are the result of one person "salting" store shelves with single bottles containing a few poisoned capsules.

The Proprietary Association, a Washington, D.C., trade group, set up task force to work with the FDA on the Johnson & Johnson said Monday that its subsidiary, McNeil Consumer Products Co., had stopped manufacturing the capsule versions of Extra-Strength Tylenol, which is also available in tablets and liquid. "We're doing it in order to pull ourselves together, to find out where we are and what's going on," spokesman James Murray said.

Murray said the company was debating whether to change the product's packaging and "how to resume, when to resume" marketing the drug. Tylenol's 37 percent share of the market made it the nation's best-selling nonprescription pain reliever.

The leftist newspaper As-Safir today published the statement from Shafik el-Hout, the Palestine Liberation Organization's equivalent the PLO, said it was the first statement by the PLO envoy since he went into hiding last month during Israel's 13-day invasion of Moslem west Beirut.

As-Safir said the statement was ssued by "PLO offices in Beirut," but did not say whether el-Hout was in the Lebanese capital or had taken refuge

Referring to the Sept. 16-18 massacre of Palestinian refugees in the Sabra and Chatilla camps in west

Beirut, the statement said:

"In the wake of the terrible massacres perpetrated by the enemy, we urge the Palestinian population in Lebanon to persevere and be patient especially in the face of inflammatory rumors circulated by the common enemy of the Lebanese and the Palestinians with the aim of terrorizing and creating discontent."

This indicated the PLO was blaming Israel directly for the massacre in which hundreds of men, women and children were slaughtered, while attempting to shift the blame away from the rightist Christian militiamen whom Israel said were responsible for the killings in the Israeli-guarded

El-hout was also quoted in the statement as conveying PLO chief Yasser Arafat's condolences over the death of his arch foe, the late President-elect Bashir Gemayel who was assassinated Sept. 14, one day before the Israelis invaded west Beirut.

The statement said el-Hout had officially contacted the Lebanese Foreign Ministry to request that the Lebanese army hand over the PLO office in the capital to PLO employees now that the Israelis had pulled out.

The statement said Israeli troops had looted the office during their occupation, and it requested adequate protection for el-Hout because of his diplomatic status.

About 8,000 Palestinian guerrillas were evacuated from Israeli-besieged west Beirut last month under a U.S. sponsored withdrawal plan. However El-Hout was allowed to remain as Lebanon's PLO representative. Israel invaded Lebanon June 6 to rout PLO guerrillas hitting Israeli villages from bases in southern

U.S., Russia serious about arms control

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko agree their countries are seriously trying to reach an arms-control accord in Geneva, but there is "a long way to go," says a senior U.S. official.

"It is not thought on either side that this is gameplaying," said the official, who briefed reporters on the condition he not be identified.

Shultz and Gromyko met for four hours Monday, their second meeting here in a week. Though they discussed the range of problems between Moscow and Washington, including the Middle East situation, the senior U.S. official said it was too early to predict results.

"I wouldn't even want to attempt to say whether they moved some of these areas forward or not," he said. "I think we will have to see over time whether that is the

But he said they did cover "some new ground," taking the Geneva arms-control talks as one example. "The judgment of both foreign ministers was that both sides are approaching the discussions in a serious and businesslike way," he said. While such an assessment would seem to indicate optimism that an arms control agreement can be reached, the U.S. official said "there is a long way to go before the positions could be reconciled." "I'm not saying we are either encouraged or discouraged by the Soviet position" in the talks, he said.

In Geneva, the chief Soviet representative to strategic nuclear weapons talks, Viktor Pavlovich Karpov, accused the United States Monday of seeking superiority in strategic arms, and said Washington is pursuing a "onesided approach to the negotiations," which resume Wednesday following a recess.

Discussions are underway on two levels in Geneva, one aimed at limiting intermediate-range nuclear weapons in Europe, the other at reducing strategic nuclear weapons Both Moscow and Washington have made proposals.

The official said the possibility of a meeting between Reagan and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev did not come up. U.S. officials had said earlier that Shultz would not raise this, but they had expected Gromyko to discuss

The Soviet state-run Novosti news agency, reporting from Moscow, restated Soviet interest in a summit just an hour before Shultz and Gromyko met.

Swedes wary of sub near base

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Navy vessels dropped depth charges and blocked channels today in an intensified hunt for an unidentified submarine reportedly lurking near an important base, authorities said.

In a brief communique carried by the Swedish News Agency, naval defense authorities said there were 'suspicions' that a foreign submarine was hiding in Hars bay in the southern Stockholm Archipelagoa because of repeated radar echoes and air-bubble sightings.

Several depth charges had been dropped and the search continued unabated, the communique said. Commander Sven Carlsson of the Naval staff was quoted as saying that the only two outlets from the bay had been blocked and were guarded by Swedish vessels, including a submarine. The new sub hunt has been going on since last Friday, when a suspected foreign submarine reportedly was

Ten-year-old Michael Reighard arrived at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Monday night to a reception committee that also included about 40 reporters, photographers and television cameramer

When Reighard, 32, and his wife, Dang, 33, left with other U.S. forces from Southeast Asia in 1972, they had only two hours notice and had to leave without Michael, who was 3 months old at the time and at his grandmother's Reighard had been trying ever since to get the Vietnamese government to allow his son to join him.

Michael is one of 11 Amerasian children allowed to leave Vietnam Thursday under a program set up in 1979 by eight U.S. volunteer organizations. More children are to come later.

"We haven't been able to sleep. After 10 years, he's finally here. It's just great," Reighard said during a brief airport news conference. Michael sat in a chair nearby, his left hand tightly clutched by his mother and his right hand held by Brian, an 8-year-old brother he was seeing for the first time.

Asked what his son had said to him so far, Reighard smiled and shook his head. "I don't understand that much. His mother will have to be the translator," he

Teacher strike may end soon in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) - Administrators of the Only 7,366 students and 101 teachers showed nation's sixth-largest school district up Sept. 13, the first day of the strike. prepared to open their doors today for the first time in more than three weeks, as teachers decided whether to end a strike that has idled 200,000 students.

"We think that it's a contract we can live with and we intend to recommend it to our membership," John Elliott, president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers, said of Monday's tentative settlement.

Teachers were to vote today on the agreement. If the walkout ends, as expected, the 11,000 teachers would return to classrooms in time for classes to begin after

A ratification vote on the one-year contract, calling for teachers to work under 1981-82 salary levels with other issues resolved by a fact-finder, would come later in the week, Elliott said.

School administrators, confident of approval, issued a statement saying the Detroit schools would open today for students and the 8,000 staff members who were laid off during the strike. The Detroit strike began Sept. 13 after

Monday's agreement came one day after teachers rejected a citizens committee proposal that included a time limit on factfinding aimed at settling 15 contract issues. Teachers wanted a state-appointed factfinder to be given as much time as needed to make binding recommendations in the dispute, while the school board called for a 30-day limit. Monday's agreement allows the factfinder to take more than 30 days. A factfinding process already is under way.

'We're certainly happy that it's over, but we were hopeful that the situation wouldn't arise in the first place," said school board president George Bell. "You can defer wages, but you can't defer children's

The Detroit school year began Sept. 8.

Meanwhile, overnight talks continued today in a strike in Teaneck, N.J., where a judge has threatened to fire teachers if they aren't back in class by Thursday.

Superior Court Judge Sherwin Lester said the Teaneck Board of Education should dismiss the 419 striking teachers today, but if "the board fails to act" by Thursday, "I will act for them."

Teaneck school board attorney Malachi Kenney said the board would balk at firing the strikers. "The cure would be worse than the disease," he said.

The judge said the teachers had 'abandoned" their jobs as public servants by conducting an illegal strike, thus forfeiting

Pianist Gould dies

TORONTO (AP) - Canadian pianist Glenn Gould, one of the foremost performers of the keyboard works of Johann Sebastian Bach and the musical world's most celebrated eccentric, is dead at the age of 50.

Gould, who retired from the concert stage when he was 31 but continued to make best-selling recordings, suffered a stroke on Sept. 27, two days after his 50th birthday. He died Monday at Toronto General Hospital without regaining consciousness, his family said

The funeral service will be private; and a memorial service will be held later, the family announced. Born in Toronto, Gould demonstrated perfect pitch and could read music at the age of 3. He was graduated from the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto at the age of 12, the youngest graduate in its history, made his debut with the Toronto Symphony at 14 and played his first successful U.S. recitals in Washington, D.C., and New York in January 1955, when he was 22.

No verdict in Donahue trial

DENVER (AP) — A new trial may be sought in a $10 million lawsuit accusing the producers of Phil Donahue's television talk show of helping a man who snatched his son from his ex-wife

"Obviously I don't want to just drop it," said Willow Lynne Cramlet of Arvada, Colo., after the jury in the case said Monday it was hopelessly deadlocked and a mistrial was declared.

Mrs. Cramlet had sued the producers of a Donahue segment on the "Today" show, contending they refused to help her locate her ex-husband, who had taken their son even though she had legal custody of the boy.

The husband was a guest on a segment of the show dealing with the abduction of children by parents who do not have legal custody

Cooperative spirit saluted

The American spirit we so often celebrate in the U.S. is that of the individual. The individual carries a host of inviolable rights in this country, and rightly so. We are a country of individuals. There is, however, another American spirit which should be recognized. That is the cooperative spirit. To develop this counry, individuals cooperated with each other to clear land, build ligmes, and to do other things that they couldn't do alone. In America's earliest history, settlers cooperated to settle the wilderness, but mostly they cooperated to survive. Later they get fogether in business organizations to compete with economic forces which threatened their individual economic existence.

Those business organizations are called cooperatives. They enable Americans to work together to help themselves. Since October has been declared Cooperative Month by most governors in the U.S., including Texas' Governor Bill Clements, this is a good time to take a closer look at what cooperatives mean to all of us. Today, sixty million Americans belong to some 40,000 cooperatives across the nation. These members are advocates of the cooperative way to provide themselves and their families with goods and services and to help market much of this country's quality foods and fiber. Owned and operated by the people they serve, cooperatives efficiently and economically meet a broad range of needs — marketing farm products and obtaining farm supplies and services, credit, telephone and electric services, food, housing, health care, and insurance. Here, there, everywhere — in towns, cities and countrysides big cooperatives and little cooperatives are busy serving members, their communities, and the public. They don't put on a flashy show: they are simply building a better America. They deserve a great big hand.

Short take

In the beginning was the Word...and

So thinks Reader's Digest, who, just in time for Christmas gift-buying, has released a condensed Bible. Its revised Revised Standard Edition has spipped about 40 percent of the orginal text. eu'd expect there would be a lot of outeries, but except for Fundamentalists (who admit they spend most of their time crying out about this or that), the reaction has been favorable. Pat Boone, Oral Roberts and Norman Vincent Peale have all praised the new version. Reader's Digest says its goal was to ake the Bible readable to those who neve found it too long or complex.

They've cut out whole chunks of the Old Testament, including the long renealogies. Narratives have been cut the bare minimum and even apter and verse numbers have been aken out to make reading speedier. Their gutsiest move was to cut from ne part in Revelations which warns of ternal damnation to anyone who Ctakes away from the words of the book of this prophecy." That's an indication that Reader's Digest looks upon the Bible as Iterature and a guide for living. Its fords are not as important as its deas. That is in direct conflict with the Fundamentalist view: The Bible is the inspired word of God and is not to e tampered with. ere's a problem with that view right away, since Jesus almost cerfainly never spoke in King James English. To get back to the original words you have to study the ancient

I've only read excerpts from the new book ("The Condensed Reader's Digest Condensed Bible"), but I'm not sure it's aimed at me. I'm certainly not a student of the Bible, but I have studied some of its books.

The Reader's Digest version is aimed at people who have never cracked the Bible because they don't know where to begin. As long as they get people to read the thing, what's the harm?

That's what Reader's Digest asks. They say too few people have read more than bits and pieces of the Bible. Even fewer have read it cover to

But few theology students have read the whole Bible either, and there are even quite a few pastors who have not thoroughly studied it.

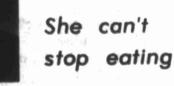

My only problem with the "Reader's Digest Bible" is that it misses the purpose of the Scriptures. For the pastor or theologian, yes, the Bible is something to be carefully studied in a historical and philosophical context. But for the average person it should be something else. It should be a personal guide, a book to be read slowly and reflected

In that case, I don't think there's any need for a condensed version. Why, for instance, cut out half of God's words to Moses out of the burning bush. There is a danger that this revision could boil the Bible down to lessons in positive thinking and so on. It could make an understanding of the Bible very shallow.

If "The Reader's Digest Bible" is used as an introduction, great. But in no way should a reader of this new version think he is reading the Bible. It's just not the same.

graduation and the same of the

Billy Graham

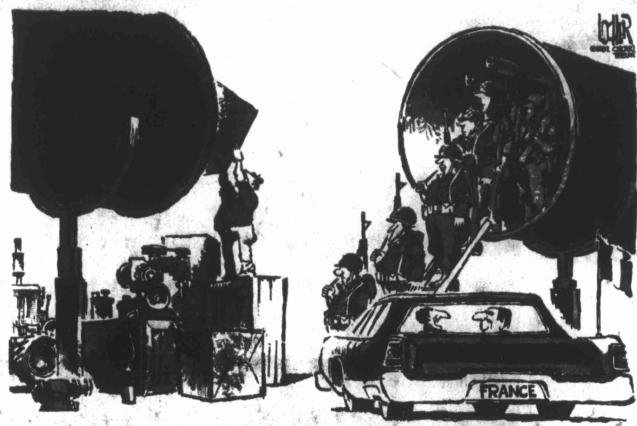

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am greatly everweight, and I hate myself for it. lowever, I just can't seem to stop ating, especially when I get couraged. A friend says that it is basically a spiritual problem. What do you think she means by this? — Mrs.

DEAR MRS. H.N.: I do not know xactly what your friend has in mind ince there are many different easons why a person such as yourself becomes a compulsive eater who has difficulty stopping what they know is parmful to them. However, there is a paritual dimension to many problems this sort, and I want to assure you hat God wants to help you get at the out of this and overcome it.

You need God's strength to deal with this problem; you have discovered that you do not have strength in yourself. You also need Sod's wisdom to get at practical ways g can deal with this problem. That is why I hope you will make it your tirst priority to turn to Christ and cept him into your life as Savior and Lord. You say that you hate yourself for what you do. But God does not hate you - he loves you! He loves you so much that he sent his Son to die on the cross for your sins. And he loves you so much that he does not want you to be trapped by this problem the rest of your life, but come to know real joy and peace.

You need to get at the heart of this problem (as I think your friend is suggesting) by trying to find the reason why you overeat. I would not pretend to suggest the reason in your case; it might be helpful however, for you to look at this with someone you can trust who is a skilled couns such as a pastor or psychologist. For example, some people who continually overeat have a low opinion of themselves, and seem to punish themselves by overeating. Some people overeat because of boredom or personal problems, and it becomes a substitute pleasure for the satisfaction they should get through daily activities. But whatever the reason, Christ can help you. He can show you just how valuable you are to God, and he can help you have new purpose in life as you turn your life over to him.

Shape up, America

"All right, for those of you who just got back from wherever you went, the vacation is over. For those of you who couldn't afford to go away, your vacation is over, too.

'This will be your fall and winter schedule: There will be TV football on Monday and Thursday nights and Saturday and Sunday afternoons right up until '60 Minutes,' which will be shown in its entirety at the completion of the games. The World Series will be available on alternate evenings. You are advised to consult the local paper for the time in your area.

Women will be expected to shape up this fall by following either the Jane Fonda exercise method, or some other approved aerobic plan I want strong, healthy bodies with tight muscles, flat tummies, thin thighs and no flabby buttocks sticking out.

"Because of cuts in funds, school semesters will be shorter and school vacations longer. Teachers will once again be underpaid, but they will be expected to do their jobs even if it means doubling up on their classes. No praying in school until we pass a constitutional amendment.

"Public services will be cut back as Reaganomics trickles down to the people. Sacrifices must be made to get the country's economic house in order, particularly in the urban areas where people are hurting the most. No more federal bailouts can be expected for cities or states that find themselves in financial trouble, except for the three-week period before the November elections. I don't want people on fixed incomes complaining because their money doesn't go as far as it used to. By fighting the cuts, they are only prolonging the recession which was caused by the big spenders in Congress. I expect people to tighten their belts, whether they do it because they can't afford to buy food or go on the Pritikin diet.

"Because of the herpes epidemic, promiscuous sex is out, and I will not permit anyone who engages in it to serve in the armed forces.

'In spite of what I promised you last spring, there is still no mortgage money available for housing, and I want everyone to stay where they are until the interest rates go down another three or four points, which will be unlikely in the foreseeable "Heating and gas bills will go up, as well as telephone rates for local calls. So if you're between a rock and hard place you will have to choose between keeping warm, having hot water or calling someone you love.

"New automobiles of every size and shape will be plentiful, and I expect everyone to go out and look at them, even if they can't afford to buy one.

The banks have informed me they cannot finance cars for the rest of this year until they get their loans paid back by Poland and Mexico.

"The good news is that the new fashions have just come out, and most of the clothes look as if they have been dragged out of the closet. So anything you wear will be in fashion, and no one will be able to tell if it is something just made by a designer or a garment you bought at Goodwill Industries. "The bad news is that medical costs are going up, and if you get sick this winter you are advised to only go to your doctor for a second opinion.

Dear Editor. Citizens and readers have been writing letters to editors ever since the first newspaper was published. It seems to me that a letter to an editor, voicing an opinion is a sacred sort of thing, not to be tempered with.

I agree with Bonnie Proctor The new policy at the Big Spring Herald of rewriting Mailbag letters was begun when Linda Evans took over a couple of years ago, when she was named editor. Prior to that time, the Herald would print 'em "as is," leaving in misspelled words and any or all atrocities committed on the King's English. Letters submitted that were considered "in bad taste," were simply not published. Years ago, comedian Steve Allen did a TV bit on letters to the editor, saying that these persons were believes, an angry letter to the editor is readable, interesting and worth space in the newspaper, no matter how lengthy. Not one word - nay, not even a comma or an asterisk should be

Letter writers, unite. Let us stamp out this insidious force that would undermine our precious freedom, along with Ms. Evans if necessary. AL SCOTT

Editor's Note: Letters to the editor are never rewritten. The words printed are always those of the letter writer. And 9 out of 10 letters are printed exactly the way they are received, word for word.

It is necessary for some letters to be edited, however, because of length, libel or good taste. It has been our experience that long letters are not well read, and so for our readers' convenience, as well as space limitations, long letters are trimmed to an easily read length, always using only the writer's words and always leaving the main essence of his thoughts.

As to libel considerations, a newspaper is responsible for everything it prints and must be prepared to prove the truth of anything it prints, even in a letter to the editor. Occasionally a letter writer makes a statement about a person or an institution which is impossible for us to determine the truth of. Prudent judgment prevents us from allowing a statement to be published which might not be true, which might unand which thus might result in a libel suit against the Herald which it could not win. Therefore letters are edited for libel.

As for good taste, it is the editor's opinion that a good letter shouldn't be withheld simply because a writer got nasty in the last paragraph. Since we are a family newspaper, the offensive paragraph is omitted and the rest of the letter is run, Incidentally, the editor's name is

Adams - not Evans.

Castro snubs former comrade

WASHINGTON — Fidel Castro's ruthlessness toward Cubans who resist their leader's doglike devotion to his Soviet masters is no secret. But his vicious treatment of old revolutionary comrades who have fallen from grace is reminiscent of Josef Stalin at the height of his paranoid purges.

A truly heartrending case is that of Gustavo Arcos. After seven years in Castro's infamous prison on the Isle of Pines, and more years of virtual house arrest, Arcos tried to escape from Cuba last December in a desperate attempt to rejoin his invalid wife and son in Miami. But he was caught and is back in jail. Castro reportedly intends to hand his old friend a 14-year sentence for his "crime.

Arcos was with Castro from the very beginning of what many par-ticipants hoped was a democratic movement to overthrow Fulgencio Batista, the corrupt military dictator of Cuba. Arcos was at Castro's side and was wounded in the successful attack on La Moncada army barracks in Havana on July 26, 1953. He and Castro were captured and spent two years in the Isle of Pines prison.

When the "Fidelistas" were released Arcos and Castro were to released, Arcox and Castro went to Mexico and began preparing the second stage of the anti-Batista revolution. In 1956, when the ship Granma landed Castro and his guerrillas in Cuba for what turned out to be the final battle against Batista, Arcos, still suffering from his wounds, stayed behind to coordinate the ment of arms and supplies to Castro in the Sierra Maestra moun-tains. Arcos' brother Luis was killed fighting with Castro's guerrilla for-

When the rebels finally triumphed in late 1959, Arcos returned to Havana and was named the new regime's ambassador to Belgium and the Netherlands. But in 1965, he was ordered home, where Castro pressured him to join the Communist Party.

When Arcos refused, he was arrested and charged with having said Fidel was crazy, and of having sent part of his salary abroad to emigre relatives. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Arcos obtained a technical divorce from his Ecuadorian-born wife, Fabiola, to enable her to leave Cuba with their two young sons. She got a job as secretary to the president of In 1979, when Mrs. Arcos was found to have a serious cancer condition, she moved to the United States with her two boys in search of medical help. Then, on Dec. 28, 1979, the older son, Gustavo Jr., was run down by a drunk driver in Miami. He has been semicomatose in a hospital ever since, unable to speak, his brain damaged, paralyzed from the neck down.

The $10,000 from the drunk driver's insurance company has long since been used up in hospital bills, and there is still much more to pay. Mrs. Arcos, who has been unable to get treatment for her crippling cancer, has also suffered a stroke. Doctors treating Gustavo Jr., now 21, told my sociate Jon Lee Anderson the one thing that might jar the young man out of his coma and lead to his recovery is the presence of his father.

Arcos applied for permission to leave Cuba, but could make no progress with the Castro bureaucracy. In desperation, he, his brother and his nephew tried to flee Cuba last December. Now they all face prison terms at the hands of Arcos' vengeful former revolutionary including Sens. Charles Percy. R—III., and Edward Kennedy, D—Mass. — have appealed to Castro on Arcos' behalf, his family and friends believe he may never be allowed to leave Cuba. Even if he is, it may be too late to help his wife or son.

BEST BUREAUCRATS: In the lexicon of American politics, 'bureaucrats" is a dirty word. It conjures up a vision of mindless paper-shuffling and indifference to the public. But thousands of government workers are competent, conscientious and compassionate. This column will salute some of these bureaucrats periodically.

My first commendation goes to Julia Chang Bloch, an assistant administrator in charge of the State Department's Food for Peace snd Volunteer Assistance program. In only 14 months on the job, she has galvanized an operation that helps impoverished people around the world. She was described by colleagues as a "human lightning A former Peace Corps volunteer, she is motivatived by her own experience as a penniless refugee brought to this country years ago by her Chinese father, now 93, and her idealistic mother, who worked as a saleswoman and waitress before the family opened a restaurant in San Francisco. Julia won scholarships to Harvard and the University of California, and joined the Peace Corps the day President Kennedy was assassinated

"While my father drilled into me the ethic, 'You must do better,' my mother taught me in doing so, you can still retain warmth and humanity," says Julia Bloch. "Our challenge as a nation lies in furthering the efforts of developing nations to become more self-sufficient and to attain economic stabilty. Our challenge as individuals is to promote better understanding of the importance of this effort amoung our fellow Americans.' WATCH ON WASTE: The Pentagon runs hundreds of commissaries in this country and overseas to give service families a break on groceries and other necessities. Under the law, these government supermarkets are required to be self-supporting; the savings for the customers are supposed to come strictly from the absence of profits.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) Millionaire Peter Pulitzer says he and his young wife staged a tug-of-war between his wishes for a gentle life of sports and family, and her desires for drugs, all-night discos and Looking into the blue eyes of his wife, Roxanne, as if cameras and attorneys weren't present, the 52-year-old publishing heir testified Monday that he tried to rescue the disintegrating six-year marriage from cocaine abuse and her love affairs.

"When did you fall out of love with her?" asked his lawyer, Robert Scott.

"I don't think it was any particular day—just bit by bit," said the soft-spoken international hotelier. "And now it's gone."

Pulitzer was his lawyer's final witness in the 2-week-old divorce trial. His wife's lawyers planned to begin presenting her side after cross-examining Pulitzer today.

The Pulitzers are fighting for custody of their twin 5-year-old boys, MacLean and Zachary, and Mrs. Pulitzer, 31, seeks a share of her husband's fortune.

The tall, blondish woman estimates his wealth at $25 million. Pulitzer, who inherited $2.2 million of his family's newspaper stock in 1964, said he had assets of $2.6 million — $1.5 million less than the day they were married.

On Monday, Pulitzer admitted using cocaine eight to 10 times over two years to stay awake while accompanying his wife as she partied. His wife used cocaine two or three times a "Cocaine use ruined my marriage, it devastated my life and it's the reason I'm sitting here like this," Pulitzer testified. He added he hasn't used drugs since the couple separated in January 1980.

"I never want my little kiddies to do anything that will hurt their lives the way this has hurt mine," he said. "Cocaine is not a social drug or a toy to play with. I know that now.'

Pulitzer's lawyers have alleged his wife had four affairs with men and one with a woman. Their witnesses have described her as a fortune hunter who overindulged on the condiments of jet-set living.

Denying making love to his daughter, Pulitzer looked at his wife and pointed, saying, "That's the sickest thing I've ever heard in my life. No. Never." The daughter also denied it in Pulitzer described the woman he is dating now as a former heroin addict who speaks to church groups about drug addiction, and he denied anyone ever ran naked at his ranch.

Dr. Paul W. Jahnig, the couple's marriage counselor, testified Monday that Pulitzer would be a better parent for the children. He characterized Mrs. Pulitzer as "self-centered and self-serving" and Pulitzer as "more flexible, gracious, bright and considerate ..."

"I loved you. I could have gone on, but you kept saying... 'Yes, drugs. No, drugs.' That's the part I couldn't handle."

Pulitzer said he wants custody of his children because "I know I have the time and love to give those kiddies and they love me. I don't think you can lead the sort of life she leads at night, have guys parading in and out of the house, and be a good mother.'

Mrs. Pulitzer has temporary custody of the Pulitzer said the last straw in their relationship was his wife's affair with Brian Richards of Palm Beach, and that he moved out of their house and onto his yacht when his wife didn't return from a night of merrymaking until late one morning in January 1980.

They reconciled twice after Mrs. Pulitzer promised to "give up Brian Richards and the drugs," but Pulitzer said he moved out again when it became apparent she would not.

Pulitzer looked at his wife sitting two feet away in the chambers of Palm Beach Circuit Judge Carl Harper, who is hearing the case without a jury.

"I loved you," he said. "I could have gone on, but you kept saying, 'Yes, Brian Richards. No, Brian Richards. Yes drugs, no drugs.' That's the part I couldn't handle.

Interrupting, his lawyer said quietly, "OK,

Lung problem with skin symptoms

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I had large red bumps on my Jegs. When I went to my doctor, he ordered X-rays, which I thought was strange. However, they showed I had sarcoidosis there. He says I may need steroids for this. Is this condition contagious? Can it be cured successfully? — M.T.

Sarcoidosis is not contagious and it's a problem that can either be transient and run its course or be chronic and troublesome. It means that granulomas, which are little lumps, have developed in an organ, with the lungs being the usual site. The lumps you had are erythema nodosum, a condition that can be associated with sarcoidosis. The lung problem in some way can trigger such symptoms. But they are separate conditions. And, in fact, the skin symptoms are really a good sign because they often mean that you have the type of problem that may heal spontaneously.

Sarcoidosis most commonly affects young adult women, although it may also be found in children and older persons of either sex. We are not clear about why the granulomas occur.

The illness does resemble tuberculosis because of the lung involvement, but many other organs may be affected if it becomes chronic. Treatment with steroids may become necessary to keep it under control if that happens. I certainly hope your accompanying skin lumps indicate a speedy answer to your illness.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had varicose veins for years, and except for the obvious cosmetic nuisance they represent they have not given me physical problems. In recent months, however, I have had great discomfort and a severe burning where the veins are. Is this an expected consequence, and should I do anything about it? — Mrs. G.K.E.

Yes, you should do something about it. These are new symptoms — the pain and tenderness — and they should be reported. Something else might be going on. Pain and tenderness to the touch can indicate phlebitis (inflammation) and that is something you have to investigate and have taken care of promptly. You will find a discussion in the booklet "How to Deal with Varicose Veins." Other readers may order a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Daughter finds father, lacks truth

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-four years ago I had a daughter out of wedlock. I was 18, and the father was 28. I was in love with him, but he wasn't in love with me (I was "out of his class"), so there was no marriage, but I kept the child. He agreed to pay child support and married a rich girl shortly after. I was deeply hurt and very bitter.

shortly after. I was deeply hurt and very bitter.
When my daughter (I'll call her Betty) was 2, I married a wonderful man who adopted Betty. I had three more children and a good life.

When Betty was old enough to understand, I told her the truth about her birth and adoption. She's married now and recently had a child of her own. Betty wanted to meet her biological father, so she looked him up, hoping he would be happy to know her, too. Well, he wasn't! He told her I had had other lovers, and he wasn't her real father! Betty was crushed and doesn't want to see him ever again.

I don't understand how he could have been so cruel. I am not a vindictive person, but I want to know if I can do anything (legally) to make him tell his daughter the truth. Can she be included as a legal heir to his estate? All she wanted from him was acceptance and friendship, and she got a slap in the face.

CONFIDENTIAL, PLEASE DEAR CONFIDENTIAL: Betty's biological father "admitted" paternity when he agreed to pay child support, but you'll need a lawyer to tell you what Betty's legal rights are.

.. I hope your sad tale will serve as a warning to others who are eager to know their biological parents. An intermediary should contact all parties first to make sure they want to be found. Surprise visits are unfair, and

 ${\bf SAN\,DIEGO\,(AP)-Convicted\,draft\,resister\,Benjamin}$ Sasway, who said he was "ready and willing" to go to jail, was sentenced Monday to 21/2 years in a federal prison

U.S. District Judge Gordon Thompson said he would consider granting the 21-year-old college student bail pending an appeal. But the judge would not let Sasway out of federal custody until the defense lawyer presents a plan to ensure he remains in the San Diego County area.

Sasway was the second man convicted of failure to register with the Selective Service System since the Vietnam War. Enten Eller was convicted Aug. 16 in Roanoke, Va. He was placed on three years' probation and given 90 days to register or face prison.

Sasway's lawyer, Charles Bumer, had asked the judge to sentence Sasway to the time he has already has served in prison since a jury found him guilty Aug. 26. Bumer said he had presented the judge with 1,000 letters and a petition signed by 1,100 people urging leniency for

He noted that his client was not like other criminal defendants in the federal court, "people who committed crimes for greed or violence.'

Before his sentencing Sasway delivered a speech about his reasons for failing to register. He had attempted throughout his trial to put his motivations on the record. Sasway, a resident of Vista, said he disagreed with government policies "which are leading us to the brink of nuclear war," and he said that the decision to register for the draft is a moral one.

He had said earlier he was prepared to serve the maximum sentence of five years in prison. U.S. Attorney Peter Nunez argued "his (Sasway's) actions have been motivated by his political beliefs. Nunez said that allowing Sasway to decide which laws are just means "we would then have to concede that right to every person in the country.

Sasway, who attended Humboldt State University in Northern California, has insisted all along he's not a pacifist. He said he opposed the draft because it was subject to the capricious whim of government.

'When they come into my home and tell me to start packing because I'm going to war whenever they think it's right, that's where I draw the line," Sasway has said.

Draft signups climb to 94%

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 170,000 of the young men who had failed to register for the draft have now signed up, bringing the compliance rate to 94.2 percent, Selective Service officials said Monday. Spokeswoman Joan Lamb said 8,742,000 young men have now registered. That means that an estimated 500,000 eligible men have failed to register, she said, down from 674,000 in the Mrs. Lamb said officials estimate that as many as 100,000 of those who have not registered are members of the reserves and National Guard, thus further reducing the number in violation of the law. Mrs. Lamb attributed the surge in registration to more young men becoming aware of the necessity to comply with the law following a period of confusion over whether the program would be continued President Reagan opposed peacetime registration when was instituted during the Carter administration.

However, Reagan decided to keep the program operating following the imposition of martial law in Poland. He announced that decision in January, and young men were given until the end of February to sign up. Since then, efforts have begun to locate young men who failed to comply with the law, and several prosecutions and convictions have followed. Although there is no actual draft under way, men are required to register at Post Offices within 30 days of their 18th birthday. Failure to do so can result in a fine of up to $10,000 and five years in prison.

Teddy & the Big One

Will Kennedy run for president in 1984?

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the 1984 presidential marathon approaches, Ted Kennedy is like an athlete in training, running hard on the local track and dreaming of the Big One. His hair is shorter, his weight down. He has replaced the old bifocals, which teetered on his nose, with modish aviator-style glasses. And he is spending $2 million on an almost sure-bet re-election race in Massachusetts while crisscrossing the nation, testing anti-Reagan themes in appearances for Democratic candidates. Kennedy insists he has not yet decided whether to run in 1984, but there is no question he is giving the race careful consideration. And if he decides to run, he won't be coy about his intentions. "He feels that in 1980 we weren't prepared," said

Bob Shrum, Kennedy's press secretary. "Too much time went into whether he should run and not enough into deciding how to execute the race if he did. I hope we've learned.

In seeking his fifth term in the U.S. Senate, Kennedy faces Republican businessman Ray Shamie on Nov. 2. He is expected to win, and easily.

He also faces a write-in candidate, Lynn Simone. His Senate campaign includes $850,000 worth of TV commercials which address a problem that plagued Kennedy's 1980 presidential bid: persistent references to the 1969 Chappaquiddick auto accident, his failed marriage and rumors of romantic escapades - "the

His pending divorce from Joan Kennedy, announced the day after President Reagan's inauguration, is described as "coming" by aides. They won't say when.

ATDES SAY that while Kennedy has been spending two-thirds of his pre-Election Day schedule campaigning in Massachusetts, he also is stumping for Democratic candidates in Connecticut, California, Delaware Kentucky Illinois New Jersey, New Mexico and Ohio.

Kennedy also has formed a political action committee, the Fund for a Democratic Majority. "The fund was established to assist Democratic candidates and begin to catch up to the right wing in building fund raising by direct mail," said Jack Leslie, the fund's executive director.

Kennedy is a lightening rod for conservative political groups which sometimes blast him personally to boost their own campaign coffers.

"The right wingers hate him, and it's a deep hatred," Shrum said in an interview. "Even if they think they can't defeat him, they'll kick him as hard as possible. That's one of the real reasons for (Kennedy's character-oriented) television commercials.'

The ads portray Kennedy as a compassionate family man who has not let a series of family tragedies keep him down. In one ad, a constituent alludes to the senator' past troubles by saying, "He's no plaster

Terry Dolan, chairman of the National Conservative Political Action Committee, said the senator boosts their fund-raising efforts because his name is so disliked by most conservatives.

"He's helped us raise at least $500,000 in the last two years," said Dolan, adding that his committee has spent that much trying to defeat Kennedy in November's Massachusetts Senate race.

Richard Viguerie, publisher of the Conservative Digest and direct mail wizard, said that, as of now, he believes Kennedy will be the Democratic nominee for president in 1984. But he also says that could change. "Right now he's a repository for Democrats and liberals and anyone else who is unhappy with the Reagan administration," Viguerie said. "He's a convenient place for people to put their feelings. ... But I'm not real worried about him. Something about Kennedy strikes terror in the hearts of a lot of people." Conservatives aren't the only ones who dislike

KENNEDY OPPONENT - He may seek the presidency in 1984, but he's also trying to return to the Senate. In that race, Ted Kennedy faces a Republican as well as Lynn Simone, pictured here, who is a writein candidate. She carries a gun because she says she's received crank phone calls.

Kennedy. Earlier this month, former President Carter complained, "Even after Kennedy was mathematically defeated, when there was no possibility of his winning the (1980) nomination, he refused to support me and Fritz Mondale."

Ads get vicious on campaign trail

AUSTIN — Incompetents. Eastern liberals. Calloused and out-of-touch incumbents. These and similar images conjured in campaign advertisements this election season make Texas politicians look and sound like a sad lot.

Some experts say it's all part of a trend toward more aggressive campaign advertising in broadcast commercials.

The goal, as it always has been, is to paint a clear picture of the voter's choices: the good choice and the bad choice. But some say the paint brush may be a little more pointed these days.

A nationwide movement toward negative campaign commercials probably began a few years ago when the National Conservative Political Action Committee successfully used those tactics to defeat several congressional candidates, said Ronald Faber, a University of Texas advertising professor.

This election year, NCPAC has set its sights on incumbent U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, linking his voting record to that of Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., and highlighting his more controversial votes. The project that an extreme liberal will not do well in Texas, Faber

Ads by Bentsen's op-ponent, U.S. Rep. Jim Collins, use the same theme. Gov. Bill Clements also has assaulted his opponent. Attorney General Mark White, by labeling him incompetent - a workable approach, said Robert Jeffrey, UT's dean of the college of communications. "People don't want to vote for anyone ineffective or incompetent, especially in his own profession," Jeffrey said, referring to Clements' remarks that White is an incompetent attorney general. "But whether or not White is incompetent, if it is said often enough, people will believe it unless it is effectively countered.'

Texas will try new method of vote counting

DALLAS (AP) — Texas has a new method of tabulating election results — a method that is generating two big

First, will the new voluntary reporting system — to be tested for the first time during the Nov. 2 general election adequately replace the disbanded Texas Election Bureau's network of paid election reporters?

Second, will there be any problems having an election bureau run by a politician? The TEB was organized and run by members of the news media. The new state Election Central will be run by Secretary of State David Dean, who was appointed to office by Gov. Bill Clements.

Election '82

a 1916 the TER has relied on a network of paid reporters in each of the state's 254 counties to call a central headquarters where the votes were added.

Dean's Election Central will rely on voluntary calls from county election officials. Dean has no statutory authority to require county officials to report their results, but Dean said most counties have promised to make periodic calls to Election Central on Nov. 2.

Dean said he will ask next year's session of the Texas Legislature to change state election law so he will have the authority to require reports to his Election Central. Clements has said he will back Dean's efforts to make those changes. The news media still participate in the process.

Dean's Election Central will be funded largely by the media. For example, The Associated Press and United Press International each will pay $8,400 for access to Dean's results and for a direct computer link that will allow the wire services to relay results to newspapers and radio and television stations.

Members of the media also serve on an advisory board that will help run Dean's Election Central.

Dean announced his plans for an Election Central after the TEB suffered major problems during the May 1 Texas primaries. Computer programing errors at Southern Methodist University's computer center caused massive delays in tabulating election results. The election was held on Saturday, and on Tuesday, TEB officials discovered that nearly 40,000 votes, about one-tenth of the total ballots, hadn't been tabulated.

_The additional votes didn't change any winners, but the margin of victory was narrowed in several races.

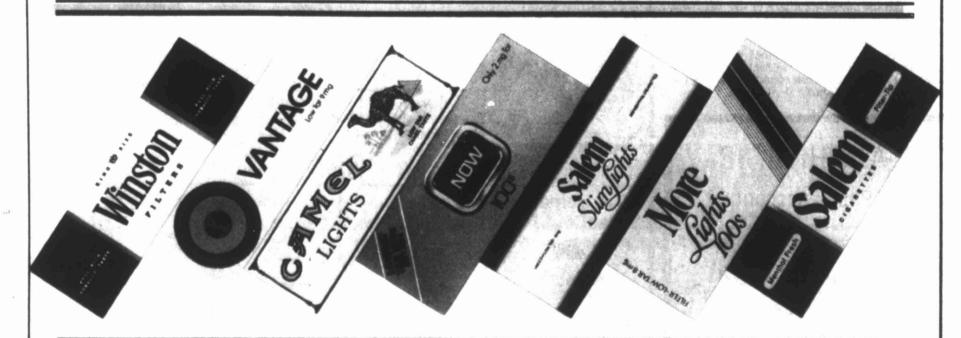

Some members of the media, however, are skeptical of the new method. One news executive told Dean that his running the election tabulation might be construed as "the fox guarding the chicken coop.

Five of the 10 Big Spring area football teams recorded victories on the fifth Friday of the 1982 season. Colorado City won for the second straight weekend (22-8 over Clyde) as did Garden City (24-0 over Water Valley). The biggest win was made by the Greenwood Rangers who got their first victory of the season witha 14-12 decision over Robert Lee.

Richard Gibson (Grady Wildcats): On Friday's highscoring 72-44 loss to surprisingly good Hermleigh— "I was real pleased with our offensive play but we played as poor a game defensively as we have. There was a lot of poor tackling on our part. We generated some points but we spent time in practice on our offense that we obviously should have been spending on defense. I never anticipated the defense would be so weak. Hermleigh played extremely well. They were 0-3 but they had played some tough teams. They'll win some games." On activities planned for off week—"We hope to regroup and workon fundamentals. We're going to work with the new kids on offense and work on the defense. McCaulley is big but not as fast as Hermleigh

Steve Park (Stanton Buffaloes): On last week's narrow 13-10 loss to Seagraves — "We got a little going on offense. We had 17 first downs to their six and 330 yards, 250 of that rushing. But we made mistakes when we got down to scoring position. We had one interception and another offsides that made us go for a field goal. We broke down a couple of times defensively and you can't do that against a good team like Seagraves." On this week's district opener against Eldorado - "They have los three games against some good teams - Rankin, Ozona and Iraan. They have a lot of kids - I think 33 on the varsity - and they have good size. They have one tackles that's 245 pounds. And they do a lot of things offensively and 20 offensive win for us. It helped the confidence of our kids. You know, we can't fault the kids ... they haven't gotten down. When you're in the situation we're in, it takes a lot more character to keep your head up. We had a pretty balanced attack (221 rushing, 134 passing). We had a freshman come through for us (Garrett Mattison), and he was a real asset for us." On this week's homecoming game against Water Valley - "They have some good athletes. Their technique sometimes isn't real good, like ours, but they have a good runningback in Billy Montgomery and Tim Smith is a good noseguard. We'll have a hard time keeping him out of our backfield. They're big, but we might have things going our way now.

Jan East (Forsan Buffaloes): On Friday's victory over the O'Donnell Eagles - "Offensively, we came out in a new set and played pretty good offense. I think we gained 215 yards. On defense, we did a good job. We felt like we needed a good defensive game going into the Sands ballgame." On the meeting the Sands Mustangs in a Class A "Clash of the Titans" — "They play some pretty good football. If we can cause a couple of mistakes and get ahead early, I think we'll be more comfortable. Offensively, Lord, I don't know what we can do. The come at you and do what they do well. We'll just have to line up in our different offensive

Stewart Cooper (Garden City Bearkats): On last week's two straight win, a 24-0 shuout of Water Valley "All and all, we came back and did a good job. We started off a little sluggishly but they did a lot of things defensively that took us a while to adjust to. It was obvious in the second half that we adjusted and we're proud of them for that." On trying to go 3-0 in district play against Irion Co. (Mertzon) Friday - "Again, they're big. But everyone is big compared to us. They're 1-4 and should be 4-1. They've had scoring opportunities but haven't been able to capitalize on them. They've made some personnel changes and it looks like their offense has been solidified. We can't take them lightly or for what their record shows." Tom Ramsey (Colorado City Wolves): On second straight win, this time over Clyde - "It would have hard to describe this game. The kids just went out and did their jobs. We didn't have any turnovers and played well enough to win. Clyde was big as always and had a little speed. It was a physical game but offensively we controlled the football and had 20-something first downs. We kept the ball away from them and that helped." On Friday night's big rivalry with Coahoma "It will be another physical game. Dee Cagle goes at 244 pounds, Jeff Dever at 242 and James Sanders a 215. That's big, especially against us. Their backs aren't big. We can't let them control the ball on us. This is always an emotional game, sort of like Texas and Oklahoma. It's not hard to fire-up the kids, in fact, we usually have to tone them down.

Larry Hudson (Coahoma Bulldogs): On playing a solid game against highly-rated Denver City, losing 27-6. "We played a real fine football team. They were a totally senior ballclub. The big thing I'm proud of is our young men didn't give up as the game went on. Take three plays and that kick return out of the game and we had a completly different game. They didn't hurt us throwing and our quarterback (Todd Engel) did a good job despite getting shellacked all night." On facing their rivals east on I-20, Colorado City — "This is a big game and very big rivalry. They are coming along like a house afire. They do an excellent job with their finese and option football. Their quarterback (Doug Chitsey) throws the ball well and their 6-1 flex defense is hard to work against. They say can throw out all the records and tendencies for this game. It'll be rock-em, sock-em football but we'll try to play our game.' Jim White (Sands Mustangs): On victory No. 5 against Lamesa junior varsity - "We came out in the second half and tried to eliminate the mistakes we had in the first half — the penalties and fumbles — that were hampering us. Both of our backs played consistently and compliment each other well. That's what we need to be effective." On Friday's big, big, big game against Forsan - "It will be the toughest game we've played so far by a long shot. They're big and they're fast and loaded with good athletes. We're going to tell our team that we can't have the mistakes we're had and beat them. If we can prove we can pass, we can keep people from piling up all those guys on the line of scrimmage Bill West (Klondike Cougars): On last week's defensive nail-biting tie with Jal - "It was the best defense team we've played. It was a hard-fought game. Three kids had to be taken to the hospital (one was Cougar Larry Don Sharp but he's back in practice this week). We had two or three chances to score but so did they. Everyone just sucked it up and wouldn't let the other one in. We had a fourth and two in the fourth quarter and I elected to go for it instead of going for the field goal. They got of there and had a field goal try with six seconds to play. They missed it but we had a roughing the kicker call. So with one second, they tried again and missed it." On meetin Roby in first district game - "They are little but have extremely good skill people. Their quarterback (Robby King) has started for three years and nearly killed us in the playoffs when he was sophomore. They have a tailback (Kirk Williamson) who gained 1,000 yard last year. It'll be a tough game.

Jim Warren (Lamesa Golden Tors): On seven-point loss to Snyder in district opener - "It was a good game ...to a point. We played very well for a quarter and a half but didn't do anything after that." What happened, coach? — "I wish I knew. We were ahead 14-0 and they scored two touchdowns late in the second quarter and the momentum swung to their way completely. In the second half, we had one fair drive but didn't get inside the 20." On homecoming battle against the charging Mustangs of Sweetwater -'We've got to get consistent and play four quarters of football, top to bottom. Homecoming? Oh, you never know how those things will affect the game. I hope it would work in our favor.

Playoffs match newcomers, styles

AL could be slugfest

ANAHEIM, Calif. AP) — Milwaukee pitcher Mike Caldwell admits his point of view is somewhat slanted, but he isn't sure he agrees with his manager that the Brewers-California Angels American League Championship Series will be a slugfest.

"I don't think so, but of course I'm one of the pitchers," says Caldwell, named by Manager Harvey Kuenn to start tonight's ALCS opener at Anaheim.

'You do have the two best offensive ballclubs in baseball here, but you also have two suspect pitching staffs that have come along all year and got these two teams where they are now.'

"I don't think so, but of course I'm one of the pitchers,"

Milwaukee starter

Mike Caldwell.

The Milwaukee left-hander, who was 17-13 during the regular season, was named to start against California lefty Tommy John. John was 4-2 with the Angels after being traded from the New York Yankees, where he had compiled a 10-10 record.

"I have no fear about pitching to them," Caldwell says of the Angels. "I know they have weakness, and I'll try to make pitches that will get them out.'

The Brewers led the major legues with 216 home runs this season, including 39 by Gorman Thomas. On the final day of the season, California's Reggie Jackson tied Thomas for the major league lead, giving the Angels 186 homers this year.

"California has a very potent team, and a lot of runs will be scored in this series," Kuenn said at a news conference Monday afternoon.

The first two games of the best-of-five series are scheduled in Anaheim. Tonight's starting time was 5:35 p.m. PDT, and Wednesday night's game was scheduled to begin at 5:15. The rest of the series will be played in Milwaukee, beginning Friday.

The California starting times, arranged for television, prompted questions about whether the Brewers would have trouble hitting in Anaheim Stadium's Twilight Zone, where Nolan Ryan pitched many of his lowhit ballgames.

"There's so much power between these clubs that if a pitcher makes a mistake, he'll get hurt, so I don't think the time of the day will matter," Kuenn said.

Milwaukee escaped near disaster in their season-ending four-game series at Baltimore. The Brewers, who needed only one win to clinch the AL East, lost the first three before winning 10-2 Sunday to win their first division title. The Angels clinched

"As long as we play our game on any field, it doesn't matter who we play.

Each team had physical question marks entering the series. Angels third baseman Doug DeCinces, who averaged .301 with 97 RBI and 30 homers during his best major league season has a pulled groin muscle. He said he would play.
"It's feeling better every day," said

DeCinces, who did not play Sunday.

The Brewers, meanwhile, were not sure if they would have the services of second baseman Jim Gantner, who pulled a back muscle taking infield on Sunday and did not

If Gantner is unable to play, Kuenn said Ed Romero would take his place.

Kuenn said relief ace Rollie Fingers had been placed on Milwaukee's playoff roster. To make room for him, they dropped lefty reliever Jamie Easterly.

Fingers had an earned run average of 2.60 and 29 saves when he tore a muscle in his right forearm. He has not pitched since

"He could be available as soon as tomorrow, for a couple of batters maybe," Kuenn said. "He's along good. He threw in the bullpen yesterday (Sunday), and there was a little tightness, but not too much pain."

Kuenn said his batting order would consist of Paul Molitor, third base; Robin Yount, shortstop; Cecil Cooper, first base; Ted Simmons, catcher; Gorman Thomas, center feld; Ben Oglivie, left field; Don Money, designated hitter; Charlie Moore, right field, and either Gantner or Romero at Mauch had not announced his lineup by late Monday afternoon, but it was expected that in addition to John pitching, the rest of the starters would be Bob Boone, catcher; Rod Carew, first base; Bobby Grich, second; Tim Foli, shortstop; DeCinces, third base; Brian Downing, left field; Fred Lynn, center field; Jackson, right field, and Don Baylor, designated hitter.

Caldwell is 1-1 with a 5.40 earned run average in three starts against the Angels this season, while John pitched an eight-hit shutout in his only appearance against Milwaukee this season.

"I've pitched pretty well against the Angels this year, even though the statistics don't show it," Caldwell said. "They've always hurt me in one inning or late in the game, but this is a new season. None of those other games count anymore.

One of those who could hurt Caldwell the most is Jackson, whose postseason record is unparalleled. Jackson, who left the Yankees via free agency this season, has played for five World Series winners, three in Oakland and two in New York, and he has been on 10 division-winning teams

Jackson, known as Mr. October for his post-season heroics, said earlier this week that he hoped he could live up to his reputation, for the sake of his boss, Gene Mauch. California's AL West title was their first division title. The Angels clinched the AL West on Saturday.

"I could have cared less who won the AL East," Angels Manager Gene Mauch said.

"I pray I can be Mr. October one more time for this guy," he said.

Braves vs. Cards: hurlers' duel

ST. LOUIS (AP) Atlanta's Phil Niekro and St. Louis's Joaquin Andujar - perhaps the league's hottest hurlers over the final weeks of the season — go head-to-head Wednesday in the opening game of the National League Championship Series

While the American League playoff series promises daily barrages of offensive firepower, St. Louis and Atlanta sluggers might find it difficult bunching a few hits together off Niekro and Andujar.

Andujar, 15-10, was chosen as the NL's Pitcher of the Month for September, after racking up five victories against no losses in six starts.

In 442-3 innings, Andujar allowed just four earned runs while pitching two shutouts for the Cardinals. Niekro won the NL Player of the Week honors for the last week of the season for hurling clutch shutouts over the San Francisco Giants and the San Diego Padres.

On Sept. 27, the knuckleballer baffled the pennant contending Giants with a two-hitter in a 7-0 Atlanta victory. And on Oct. 1, with the divisional title on the line, the 43-year-old Niekro beat the Padres on a threehitter. In that game, he also hit his first home run in eight years.

Niekro has not allowed an earned run in his last 24 innings Cardinal players say they are comfortable against most of Atlanta's staff heading into the best-of-five series. But there is no talk of comfort against the knuckleballing Niekro.

"It would be nice to pitch around Niekro and say we're going to win games two, three and four," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog. "But we don't have the luxury to do that.

Niekro finished the year with a brilliant 17-4 record, and his .810 winning percentage was tops in the league. Andujar, the winner of seven straight games, was nearly as torrid in September. The hard-throwing right-hander also will be out for a measure of revenge against Atlanta.

He permitted only nine earned runs in 271-3 innings, but he posted an 0-3 record against the Braves. Tommy Herr and Ken Oberkfell will bat at the top of the St. Louis lineup against Niekro, followed by Lonnie Smith and Keith Hernandez.

Likely to be missing from the Cards batting order is George Hendrick, who drove in a team-leading 104 RBIs, but does not hit well against the knuckleballer. Hendrick will probably be replaced by Dane Iorg in the

The Braves learned Monday that slugging third baseman Bob Horner could be available for the opener. Horner has been limited to only one pinch-hit appearance since Sept. 18, when he suffered a hyperextended elbow in Cincinnati.

After finishing 30 minutes of batting practice Monday, Horner said he will try to be ready for the Wednesday game.

"It's a little sore, but I think I can play with this," he said. "I just can't imagine being in the playoffs and having to sit on the bench. That would be awful."

Torre and Braves pitching coach Bob Gibson agreed after the workout that Horner was swinging the bat much better than he had the two previous days. "If he keeps progressing like he has been the past two days, he'll be ready to play," said Torre.

"I was throwing the ball hard, and he was hitting the ball good," said Gibson, the former Cardinal great who also pitches batting practice for the Atlanta club. Several members of the Braves feel that the insertion of Horner into the lineup could stop opposing pitchers from pitching around slugger Dale Murphy.

Murphy ended the regular season in the middle of his worst slump of the year. Over the last 18 games, he was 12 for 69, with only two home runs.

"Since Horner's been hurt, Murphy's had nothing to hit," said Brave outfielder Claudell Washington. Should Horner in fact be ready to play, he would move Jerry Royster out of third base and into left field, Terry Harper, who hit 349 in Horner's absence, would be benched. August A. Busch Jr., the 83-year-old St. Louis board chairman and chief executive officer, will throw out the first ball at Busch Stadium.

Washington, Pitt and Penn State held onto the top three spots today in The Associated Press college football poll, while Alabama moved back into fourth place, Florida fell from fourth to 14th and LSU made the Top Twenty for the first time in three years.

Washington remained No.1 for the fourth week in a row. The Huskies, who defeated San Diego State 46-25. received 28 first-place votes and 1,082 of a possible 1,140 points from a nationwide panel of 57 sports writers and sportscasters.

Pitt, which scored all its points in the last 11 minutes to erase a 13-0 deficit and turn back West Virginia 16-13, received 15 first-place votes and 1,057 points. Penn State, idle last weekend, received nine firsts and 1,039

Last week, with 59 voters participating, the first-place votes were 25 for Washington, 19 for Pitt and seven for Penn State and the point count was 1,114-1,107-

While Florida was losing to LSU 24-13, Alabama downed Arkansas State 34-7 and climbed from fifth place to fourth with three first-place ballots and 958 points.

Georgia rose from sixth to fifth with one first-place vote and 910 points following a 29-22 triumph over Mississippi State. Southern Methodist, a 38-10 winner over North Texas State, jumped from seventh to sixth with 824

Nebraska, which dropped from second to eighth after losing to Penn State a week ago, climbed to seventh with 755 points after shellacking Auburn 41-7 and knocking the Tigers out of the Top Twenty. UCLA went from ninth to eighth with 745 points by trimming Colorado 34-6. The Bruins received the remaining first-place vote.

Arkansas and Notre Dame also rose one position to ninth and 10th, respectively. Arkansas routed Texas Christian 35-0 and received 655 points, while Notre Dame received 582 points after an 11-3 triumph over Michigan

The Second Ten consists of State, North Texas. Florida. Carolina. Southern California, West Virginia, Miami, LSU, Boston College and Illinois.

Last week, it was Notre Dame, North Carolina, Arizona State, West Virginia, Texas, Southern Cal, Miami, Boston College, Minnesota and Auburn.

Illinois whipped Minnesota 42-24 to get back in The Top Twenty after a one-week absence, while Auburn fell out after losing to Auburn. LSU had not been in the rankings since early in the 1979 season.

NFLPA may drop demand for minimum WASHINGTON (AP)

Negotiators for striking National Football League players indicate they would consider dropping their demand for a minimum wage scale if club owners would accept a maximum wage with incentive and performance bonuses.

But Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, insisted Monday that talk of the union moving away from its minimum wage should not be construed as a major break from its last financial proposal. The Sept. 17 the idea of a maximum wage for $1.6 billion spread over executive director of the four years, included a NFL Management Council. minimum wage scale and during a telephone call incentive and performance Friday night.

"This is not a major breakthrough. The financial package of Sept. 17 .. . has lead us to believe the owners days of futile bargaining. Garvey said the union would consider "private mediation" as a means of getting some movement in the talks. Previously, union officials have rejected management's pleas for third-party intervention saying the talks had not progressed to a stage where a mediator could solve their differences.

As a result of continued opposition to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, both sides now federal mediator is unlikely. Negotiations broke off

The strike, which has the resulted in the postponement of two weeks of the 16-week regular season, has moved into its 15th day.

Meanwhile, union attorneys were in federal court Monday in an effort to head off club attorneys in their efforts to block players from participating in the first of a series of union-sponsored allstar games.

The first game, pitting players from the eastern divisions of the AFC and NFC, is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 10 at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium Washington. The union urged U.S.

District Court Judge John Garrett Penn to issue a temporary restraining order admit intervention by a barring NFL teams from withholding the services of their players.

The NFL contends that agreement with the union, negotiated contracts the league's teams have with their players remain in effect.

On Sunday, the Buffalo Bills obtained a court order from a New York State Supreme Court judge barring 11 of their players scheduled to appear in Sunday's game from either playing or practicing pending a hearing Wednesday.

similar court order, obtained Monday by the Dallas Cowboys, running back Robert Newhouse from working out with the all-stars. Newhouse, Cowboys' player representative, was the lone Dallas player committed to the game.

On Monday, Washington Redskins' quarterback Joe Theismann became the first defection among the 80 players originally said to be committed.

Speaking on his own radio talk show, Theismann said, "I'm not going to play. I have plans with my family next weekend."

The Washington Post, in Today's editions, quoted Roy Jefferson of the NFLPA as saying that "Theismann is the only player we are aware of who is not going to play and he hasn't let us know directly.

And in a television interview today, Theismann, asked about participating in the all-star game, said he would not. "I would hate to tease the fans ... I think if we're going to go, let's go play the full season. Let's give them the product they're used to, with total teams.'

Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer also said he would not play in the unionsponsored games. wouldn't risk $3,000 or $4,000 for than number of games
