FACING SUPPORTERS - Republican Gov. Bill Clements and wife Rita face supporters early Wednesday

after Mark White won the race for governor. Clements said he would make the transition as easy as possible

Clements pledges

By GARTH JONES AP Political Writer

AUSTIN - Texas' present and future governors have agreed there will be a businesslike exchange of administrations next January

"We will leave our state in good hands and with good grace," said Republican Gov. Bill Clements, who suffered a surprise defeat Tuesday at the hands of Democrat Mark White, the state's attorney general.

Clements said his top aide, Hilary Doran, would work for an orderly transition. White named his first assistant, John Fainter, to be his chief transition However, the two did not agree, in separate Wednesday newsconferences, on the cause of the transition. "I think if we do our job well, we maybe will be able to see at least 100 years of uninterrupted Democratic service to the people of Texas," White said.

"We ticket-splitters took a licking," conceded Clements. "but when you take a shellacking, which we did, you lick your wounds and come back for another day. The Republican Party of Texas will rebound. Clements, however, said he would never run again for public office.

"I told all of you before, that this would be my last campaign," he said. "I was not running for any other office and I have no political ambition whatsover.' White 42, was the winner in an avalanche that swept every Democratic statewide candidate to decisive vitories, despite the largest and best-financed

Reports from the National Election Service Wednesday showed an unusually large turnout for non-presidential year elections of more than 3 million voters, compared to the 2.3 million when Clements sprang his political surprise in 1978. The NES' latest figures showed White with 1,683,608 or 54 percent of reported vote, compared to 1,455,020 or 46 percent for White. A happy White called his win "the biggest political victory in the history of

He credited his win mostly to the big turnout and to the "broad-based candidacy" of all statewide Democratic candidates, particularly Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who at times campaigned with White. He also gave thanks to his political mentor, former Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde. Briscoe said Tuesday night that "The Republican Party of Texas is now relegated to where it was 10 to 15 years ago," when Texas was considered a one-But Clements disputed Briscoe's conclusion.

"Surely, we are disappointed," he said. "I thought we not only got beat at the line of scrimmage, but we probably needed another quarterback in the sense that maybe I called the wrong plays.

White's victory is expected to change Washington's attitude toward Texas. observers sav. Clements is a long-time friend and ally of President Reagan, and his ouster could mean fewer administration programs for Texas. White will not have Clements' unique access to the White House It had been easy street (for Texas)," said one Texas lobbyist, who asked not to be named. Clements could call up and say what he liked and what he wanted....It will make a big difference, especially on agriculture.

Shortly before the election, Clements had a 30-minute farm talk" with Reagan at the White House. I can't see Reagan inviting Mark White to the White House tomorrow morning to discuss the farm problem," said another observer.

But White's victory could bode well in the future for Texas, especially if the nation continues to steer away from the Reagan course."

White's eight-point margin of victory must be considered a signal that the Democrats can carry the politically strategic state in 1984

repays the party

AUSTIN — Texas Democrats have been good to Mark White - rewarding him with appointment to his first statewide office — and White paid them back on Election Day by grabbing the Texas governor's mansion back from the Republicans.

White, a 42-year-old lawyer born in the East Texas city of Henderson, was reared in Houston

In 1973, Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe gave White a big political break by appointing him secretary of state. White built his statewide recognition during that stint, which ended with his decision to run an underdog race for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general.

White's term as attorney general has been marked by continued and bitter disagreements with Gov. Bill Clements, who in 1978 became the See White, page 2-A

LULAC pursues Solis' civil rights

> By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

The League of United Latin American Citizens considers the shooting of 11-year-old Johnny Solis by a Big Spring police detective a matter of civil rights, not of discrimination, L.U.L.A.C. District 5 president Henry Guevara told the Herald yesterday.

City officials have expressed concern privately that L.U.L.A.C. requested an FBI investigation into the Aug. 31st shooting because its members believe the police force practices discrimination against Mexican-Americans. However, Guevara said L.U.L.A.C. requested the investigation because Solis "civil rights were violated."

"It's not discrimination we're concerned with and we're not defending what (Solis) had done. Whether he committed a burglary or not, we're not concerned with that. The only thing we're concerned with is defending his human rights." he said

Guevara maintains that police detective Robert Stapp should not have shot Solis - a robbery suspect - as he fl ed the scene of a police stake out and that Stapp should be removed from the police force. "If (Solis) was bigger or taller ... if he had shot at or advanced on the officer it would be different. As it was, I think the boy was just scared and ran away.

As a result of the controversy, Salvation Army Lt. Carroll E. Braun defended Stapp in a letter to the Herald, in which he states Stapp is married to a Mexican-American.

Stapp "has volunteered his personal time to help with our youth group" of which "the majority of non-whites are Mexican American. He has taken his time to show that the policeman is a friend and not the enemy of the youth," Braun wrote

Police Chief Rick Turner also defended Stapp, saying We regret that a juvenile was involved and we regret it when force must be used to subdue someone ... I feel like the officer acted with discretion.

Turner said his department conducted their own investigation of the incident - including psychological

O'Neill predicts compromises

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON - The talk is of compromise but the outlook for confrontation as President Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. lead partisan analyses of a midterm election that offer a mix of triumph and loss for Republicans and Democrats alike

We will extend to him (Reagan) the hand of cooperation," the Democratic speaker said Wednesday At the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, the president pledged in the White House Rose Garden to work with Congress "in a bipartisan fashion to solve the major problems that still have to be solved."

But there is every likelihood the partisan differences of the past two years over how to deal with those problems will continue in the 98th Congress that takes office in January with a markedly more Democratic House but with a 54-46 Republican majority in the Senate holding Democratic National Chairman Charles Manatt told reporters his party's chances of regaining the White House in 1984 were "vastly improved.

"The momentum is ours," he said.

The talk of cooperation Wednesday was reminiscent of statements made immediately after the 1980 election See Elections, page 2-A

Reagan campaigns didn't guarantee win

By MAUREEN SANTINI Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON President Reagan traveled more than 32,000 miles to campaign for fellow Republicans, but a presidential visit did not guarantee success: more than half the candidates lost.

By White House count, Reagan campaigned for 36 Republicans since July 1981. Seventeen won while 191 st.

Reagan's candidates fared better in some states than in others. In North Carolina, for example, all seven congressional candidates for whom the president campaigned appeared to have lost.

On the other hand, in Reagan's home state of California, Republicans won both the Senate and gubernatorial races, much to the president's delight.

In the Rose Garden Wednesday, a reporter asked Reagan whether he would miss poking fun at California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, the Democratic candidate for Senate.

"I am just smiling broadly," Reagan replied. "California, as you might know, was one of the happier moments of the evening for me last

When Reagan was asked whether he thought his visit to Nevada helped Republican Jacob "Chic" Hecht defeat Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon, the president responded, 'Chic Hecht won. I wouldn't take that

There was little discussion at the White House on Wednesday about the value of Reagan's campaign appearances, although deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said the president had not sought out easy

Batting .500 in the big leagues is not bad in this day and age," Speakes told reporters. "We did not draw races to fatten our batting average or hang a scalp on the totem pole.

Other victorious Republicans for whom Reagan campaigned included Sens. David Durenberger of Minnesota, Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming, John Heinz of Pennsylvania, and Orrin Hatch of Utah.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) 🛊 U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater underwent a successful triple-bypass heart operation today, his doctor said, and surgeons found "no surprises." The 73-year-old Arizona Republican was operated on at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was admitted Wednesday. Dr. Ted Diethrich "found exactly what he thought he would find," said Julie Adams, a spokeswoman for the surgeon. "The operation went routinely. There were no surprises. The prognosis is good."

Diethrich, head of the Arizona Heart Institute, had said he expected Goldwater to recover fully from the operation to relieve blocked arteries. In a triple-bypass, grafted veins are used to bypass all three of the coronary arteries that nourish the heart muscle.

"I would anticipate he'll do extremely well," Diethrich said Wednesday. "Overall, he's in very good condition. He's never suffered a heart attack. In fact, he's never had any heart symptoms.

Goldwater, Arizona's senior senator, was the Republican presidential nominee in 1964.

The blockage was discovered earlier in the week during a routine cardiovascular examination, Diethrich said. Goldwater recently had complained of fatigue, his doctor said.

Aides to Goldwater said it was anticipated that he would recuperate at his home in suburban Paradise Valley after he is released from the hospital. An announcement issued by Goldwater's Washington office quoted Diethrich as saying Goldwater was expected to back in Washington by Dec. 1 to participate in the lameduck conressional session.

Goldwater was hospitalized for two weeks in 1981 while his left hip was replaced with a prosthetic device after after a painful buildup of calcium. His right hip was replaced in a similar operation three years ago.

Since Oct. 1, he has been in Arizona during the congressional election recess, speaking on behalf of publican candidates and making other public apmarances.

In Tuesday's elections, the Democrats won 267 seats, with two of them not declared winners in North Carolina and Texas until Wednesday. The Republicans won 165 seats and a Republican who lost his primary won in California's 43rd District as a write-in candidate. obvious - he would seek the Democratic nomination to battle Clements and the incumbent's big money machine

The Democratic primary started as a heated three-man race, the kind of party-splitting Democratic race that Texas Republicans relish. Clements' 1978 success was attributed in large part to the Democrats' unwillingness to reunite after then-Attorney General John Hill upset incumbent Briscoe for the nomination, only to lose to Clements.

But White won the primary by a large enough margin to scare second place finisher Buddy Temple — son of a wealthy East Texas timber family out of a runoff Temple tossed in the towel and threw his support to White. It was the first step in the Democrats' successful unity drive that led to the White win. Late in the campaign, White hit hard on Texas' rising utility rates. In several debates, he blamed Clements for not fighting the fuel adjustment clause that allows utility companies to pass fuel costs on the consumers without review by the government.

Stock market hits record high

A Lot American and the second of the second

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer

NEW YORK - A record one-day surge in the Dow Jones average helped boost the stock market to its highest level in history, and analysts said Wall Street had heaved a 'huge sigh of relief'' that midterm elections produced no shocking surprises

Bouyed by expectations of lower interest rates, the New York Stock Exchange closed Wednesday with the Dow Jones industrial average showing a record 43.41 point gain to a new high of 1,065.49.

Market analysts expected another wild day today as a three-month rally continued.

Ever since the Dow industrials started to rally in August from a two-year low of 776.92, hopes had been mounting that the market could challenge the record reached almost a decade ago on Jan. 11, 1973, when it closed at But few had believed it would happen so quickly.

"It was an incredibly impressive performance," said Edward Yardeni, economist at the firm of Prudential-Bache Securities. "It just tore through that previous Donald Regan, secretary of the Treasury and a former chairman of Merrill Lynch & Co., borrowed from the firm's advertising slogan to declare, "The stock market is bullish on America.' "Since August we have seen a steady rise in market confidence that inflation is under control and interest rates are coming down," Regan said in a statement. 'Today's historic high shows that the seeds of economic recovery planted last year are now bearing fruit."

Amid the euphoria, some observers pointed out that a Dow Jones industrial average above 1,050 now is less impressive than a Dow above 1,050 in 1973 because of Anthony Tabell of the firm Delafield, Harvey, Tabell in Princeton, N.J., calculated recently that if the average were adjusted for inflation since 1966, it would be about 362, not over 1,000.

But the bulls of Wall Street weren't letting any calculations spoil their party.

"We ordered champagne for our stock traders five minutes after the market closed, and we're going for a vintage number," said John A. Conlon Jr., who heads some trading operations at E.F. Hutton & Co.

"There is a feeling of real, real optimism," Jensen said. The upsurge came one day after the midterm elections, in which the Democrats gained about two dozen seats in the House while the Republicans held on to their majority

But analysts said there seemed to be no direct link between the two events. "It's not so much that the market liked the elections, but rather that it liked the fact that the elections are over." Yardeni said.

While the election battles were in progress, he said, the Federal Reserve Board faced political constraints against encouraging interest rates to decline any more than they Now, "there's a feeling that interest rates can come down still further, and stay down," Yardeni said.

"The stock market, in effect, heaved a huge sigh of relief that the elections had something for both political parties and produced no shocking surprises," said Theodore H. Halligan, an institutional salesman for Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood Inc. Some of the figures that went into the record books

Roxanne Pulitzer, holding a white Bible as that he had made love to his daughter, Liza Mrs. I she testified, said she was a church-going Baptist who preferred milk to champagne but married her millionaire husband even though he admitted sleeping with his

Chagra says more than one took part in Wood shooting

By MACK SISK Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO - El Paso attorney Joseph Chagra has told a jury he still believes more than one person took part in the assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. three years ago.

Chagra, 35, has pleaded guilty to murder conspiracy and become a key government witness in the trial of three people charged in connection with the judge's slaying. He testified under cross-examination Wednesday that he believes more than one person was involved in the May 29, 1979, shooting of Wood at the exclusive DiJon

Townhomes here. "It's just my personal opinion from what little I know of the death of Judge Wood," Chagra told defense attorney Tom Sharpe Jr., who represents convicted hitman

Charles V. Harrelson. Sharpe told jurors in his opening statement he would reveal Wood's "real killer." Harrelson is charged with firing the shot that killed Wood, known as "Maximum John" because of the stiff drug sentences he handed out. Chagra's brother, Jimmy, is charged with murder for allegedly paying Harrelson $250,000 to shoot the judge. Jimmy Chagra, who will be tried separately later, had been scheduled to be tried by Wood at the time of the judge's death. Sharpe today continues cross-examining Joseph Chagra - who took the stand and told jurors his older brother and Harrelson both admitted to him their parts in the killing. Sharpe questioned Joseph Chagra at length Wednesday about George Edward "Pete" Kay, a lifelong friend of Harrelson's who testified under immunity earlier. Kay said he had known Jimmy Chagra since the mid 1960s. Sharpe also hammered at the plea bargain agreement entered into by Joseph Chagra, who said he will receive a prison sentence of no more than 10 years and immunity from prosecution in state or federal courts.

During Chagra's lengthy testimony, the government has played seven hours of secret FBI tape recordings for the jury trying Harrelson, his wife Jo Ann, 41, and Jimmy Chagra's wife, Elizabeth, 28. Mrs. Harrelson is charged with obstructing justice and perjury. Mrs. Chagra is charged with conspiracy to murder and to obstruct justice. Mrs. Chagra broke into sobs Wednesday while the jury listened to an FBI tape made during a January 1981 visiting room conversation between the husband and wife at the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal Penitentiary.

When the couple's young daughter, Jackie, was heard interrupting her parents' conversation and saying, "I love you, Daddy. I love you guys," Mrs. Chagra began weeping profusely On the tape, Jimmy Chagra told his wife he suspected the room was bugged, and then forced her to admit she had advised him in spring 1979 to have Wood killed.

"And you said, "I'll leave it up to you," Mrs. Chagra

"And what'd you suggest?" Jimmy Chagra said.
"And I said, 'Yeah, do it," Mrs. Chagra replied. Chagra then laughed and told his wife: "Hey, as it's standing ... you killed Wood." Other tapes of Leavenworth conversations between the two Chagra brothers disclosed they had doubts that Harrelson himself had killed Wood, and thought one of his associates may have fired the shot.

Police officer is defended

Dear Editor,

I was disturbed by an article that appeared in Monday's Herald, in reference to so-called discrimination by our Police Department, and more specifically Officer Robert Stapp.

Mr. Guevara feels that proper punishment was not handed out to Officer Stapp. His opinion was that Stapp should be relieved from duty. He could see no reason for an 11-yearold boy who weighs 70 pounds and is 4 ft. 8 in. to be shot when he's running

My concern is that Mr. Guevara makes no mention of the fact that the 11-year-old boy was out at 12 midnight, or that he was involved in an act of crime. He did mention that the boy was told twice to stop but didn't. I wonder if Mr. Guevara thought about the fact that Officer Stapp, using a 12gauge shotgun, only wounded the boy with 4 pellets. Was his aim off or was he simply trying to stop a criminal

As for the age, weight and height of this boy, I would presume that it would be rather difficult to distinguish all this in the dimly lighted area. I do believe that it was very unfortunate for this boy to be shot, and I believe Officer Stapp feels bad about the age and size of the boy However, suppose this boy would have had a gun and shot Officer Stapp, how would Mr. Guevara react to that.

It also disturbed me, when Mr. Mata was quoted in the paper as saying, "discrimination seems to be the normal mentality of law enforcement officers." The article stated that the meeting revolved around police discrimination and the need to vote.

Well Mr. Mata, I would like to tell you about Officer Stapp and his discriminatory practices. He has volunteered his personal time to help with our youth group. The majority of the members of the group are nonwhite, and the majority of the nonwhite are Mexican-American

He has taken his time to show that the policeman is a friend and not the enemy of the youth. He has given these children a glimpse of police work. They were excited to see how the radio works, the red lights and the siren, and yes, he was well accepted

Officer Stapp along with a group of officers known as The Blue Knights took their personal time to repair used toys for youngsters this past Christmas, and are doing the same this year. The toys are being prepared for all youngsters regardless of their color or national origin.

Yes, I believe we can be proud of Officer Stapp and all our Police Officers, who risk their lives daily for us. He and his fellow officers volunteer their time and talents for many worthwhile community projects. I support them and I believe Big Spring supports its Police Officers.

Oh, just in closing, Mr. Guevara and Mr. Mata, this police officer that you accuse of discrimination, Officer Stapp, did you realize he is married to a Mexican-American?

Thinking about gun control

My hometown of Evanston, Ill., an otherwise pleasant place, is in danger of acquiring the same status among libertarians that Sodom once held among Christians. Always vigilant against the menace of alcohol (though no longer completely dry, it still allows no taverns or liquor stores), the city government recently resolved to eradicate handguns as well.

The Evanston ban dramatizes a growing national mood against handguns, one reflected also in a Nov. referendum in California. But the convergence of prohibitionist sentiment and gun control fervor in Evanston is no accident. Both betray the reflexive impulse to ban what is disliked and misunderstood.

The California proposition is, for pragmatic reasons, less ambitious. It requires the registration of existing handguns while outlawing new ones. Anyone with an unregistered gun would tace a $500 tine; anyone carrying a concealed, unregistered handgun in public would be subject to a mandatory six-month jail term

The proposal is supported by groups like Handgun Control that have endorsed the outright bans enacted elsewhere. If voters approve it, a miscreant caught with an unregistered pistol would face a stiffer penalty than one caught with marijuana. California's respect for the freedom of drug users, though admirable, doesn't necessarily extend to gun owners.

THE EQUATION of handguns with violent crime is rarely examined, much less disputed. But the evidence that handguns foster violence, or that handun controls stifle it, is elusive.

Consider: The U.S. murder rate is about the same today as in 1933, despite a huge increase in the supply of handguns. The rate of robbery has risen by 30 percent since 1971, but armed robbery has grown no faster than unarmed robbery. Some cities with strict laws, like New York and Boston, have very high rates of violent crime - two to three times higher than others, like Houston and Dallas, that don't restrict handguns.

Despite their stringent gun laws, England and Wales saw armed robberies increase nearly fourfold between 1967 and 1975. Northern Ireland, whose gun laws are much more stringent than ours, sometimes has a higher murder rate.

In a massive 1981 study for the National Institute of Justice. sociologists James Wright and Peter of the University of Massachusetts found "little evidence to show that gun ownership among the population as a whole is, per se, an important cause of criminal violen-

The cliche that handguns are too dangerous for even law-abiding citizens to be permitted also dissolves under scrutiny. Guns account for fewer accidental deaths than car suffocation. The number of these deaths from guns has declined since 1960. And most involve rifles and

For comparison, alcohol figures in up to anywhere from 50 to 70 percent of all homicides and at least a quarter of accidental deaths. Guns figure in about 60 percent of all homicides and one of every 58 accidental deaths. Alcohol kills far more people than

So why not ban liquor as wll as handguns? Obviously because we attach some value to the freedom of drinkers, despite the risks they create. Also because we tried Prohibition, restrictions on firearms deny something to the lawful citizen but can't keep it from those willing to break the law. Even strict nationwide laws aren't the answer: a country which can't keep illegal people from being sumggled in can't keep out illegal firearms.

THE FUNDAMENTAL defect of gun restrictions was stated by Rossi and Wright: "Any action taken to deny firearms to would-be criminals will necessarily deny them to a vastly larger group of persons who will never even contemplate, much less commit, a violent criminal act.'

Gun controls penalize the great mass of people who use guns lawfully to get the handful that don't. They enshrine a principle generally rejected by free societies: that the abuse of rights by a minority justifies their abridgment for all. The few gunowners who commit crimes with guns deserve to be punished; those who don't should be left in peace.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think is the greatest moral problem facing the world today? - S.G.

.DEAR S.G.: I'm not sure I would name any one problem as the greatest moral problem of our age, because there are many moral issues that are tremendously important. We live in a time of moral chaos, and we desperately need to see the great moral issues of our time from God's point of view At the risk of missing some of the crucial problems we face today, let me mention just a few of the more critical issues. I think, for example, of the area of sexual morality, and the way we have turned our back on God's clear standards. Related to this is the breakdown in the family, which has such tragic consequences. The issue of abortion on demand is right at the top of the list of moral issues facing our society. I am concerned about issues of war and peace, which I believe are not merely political or social issues but moral and spiritual issues as well, especially since the development of so many horrible weapons of mass destruction. The widespread ruination of many lives through alcohol and drugs must concern every Christian who loves people. The fact that millions of people die each year because of hunger in our world is a heart-rending situation. I could mention others.

But let me suggest that there is a more basic issue morally and spiritually in our world. All of these issues are symptoms of a deeper problem — the problem of the human heart and its rebellion against God. We live in a world which has been scarred by sin, and as long as we try to solve our problems without God and his moral standards we will never have any lasting answer to any of them. Only God can change our hearts - and he will as we turn to Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

Taxpayers saved a bundle

WASHINGTON President

Reagan rightly chided Congress for leaving Washington to run for reelection without passing the money bills that keep the federal government running. He called it "bad economics and bad management Actually, though, it may have been a break for the taxpayers. Judging by one of the two appropriations bills Congress did manage to pass - for funding military construction projects in fiscal 1983 - it's lucky the nonorable members scurried off to the hustings when they did. If they'd passed all the money bills in a lastminute rush, there's no telling how much it would have cost us Consider some facets of the congressional raid on the Treasury: - More than $275 million of the $7 billion approved was for military construction the Pentagon spendthrifts hadn't even asked for. By a not-sofunny conincidence, almost 90 percent of the addditional projects will be members. - Rep. Jack Brinkley, D-Ga., chairman of the military installations subcommittee, managed to have added to the bill $61 million worth of barracks, headquarters buildings and other located in or next to districts of House

Armed Services Committee

facilties for bases in his district. The Pentagon requested $1.3 million to upgrade some existing barracks at Blytheville Air Force Base in Arkansas. But Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., a member of the military construction appropriations subcommittee, got the renovation money replaced with $7.2 million to build new bar-

- Armories are always a favorite pork-barrel item, because they can be used for civic functions as well as headquarters of local National Guard units. Nine new armories were added to the bill at a cost of $11 million. Three of them will be built in or near the district of Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass. A spokesman for O'Neill claimed three new armories were a better deal than renovation of the existing one, which was built in the last century

As the only pork-barrel game in town at the time, the military construction bill sometimes required imagination from those who wanted to play. Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, for example, managed to get $2 million added to the bill, to install airconditioning in three schools in his district. An aide explained to my associate Peter Grant that most of the pupils in the schools are children of military personnel

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, used his considerable clout to prevent a $33 million slash in funds for the lease of 18,000 acres in the Mariana Islands. The General Accounting Office recently reported that the U.S. military currently has use for only 8,000 acres, but thanks to Inouye's intercession, the islanders will continue to collect rent for the entire 18,000.

The members were so busy dipping into the pork barrel that they sometimes lost sight of the original point of the legislation - to provide needed military construction. For example, the House eliminated $12 million to build barracks for a Patriot anti-aircraft missile battalion in Kaiserslautern, Germany. The missile crews might have had to bivouac in tents through the winter. Fortunately for them, the Senate made the House put the funds back in the bill.

Footnote: Members of House and Senate Armed Services Committees clamined the additional projects will be funded with anticipated savings from other military construction pro-

GETTING EVEN: Vengeance is mine, saith Interior Secretary James Watt, lord of the National Parks. His myrmidons are contemplating retaliation against the non-profit groups that sell guidebooks in the parks, because some of them publicly protested when Watt used some of their donated funds to throw two private Christmas parties last year. The money Watt used for his holiday festivities at the Custis-Lee Mansion in Arlington Cemetery came from the "director's fund," which is supported by the non-profit groups to the tune of about $23,000 a year. The fund is supposed to be used for educational purposes, and the non-profit groups cut off their contributions to it after the Christmas-party incident. So the Park Service has notified 47 of the 63 non-profit groups that it may begin charging them for rent and utilities in their government-owned quarters. This is despite the fact that the non-profit groups contribute heavily to the Park Service; last year's donation was more than $2.5 million. These contributions have not been stopped.

The Park Service denies it is seeking revenge for the group's criticism of Watt. And it says it's really only exploring the feasibility of charging them rent and utilities.

Footnote: Watt was ordered to repay $8,800 in misspent funds, but he still hasn't paid up. Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., chairman of the subcommittee on Interior appropriA- @ tions, has threatened to deduct the money from Watt's paychecks if he doesn't come across with the money by Nov. 15.

White's staff is quick to acknowledge the teachers role in his big win. The candidate campaigned heavily on the promise of more emphasis on education

"The teachers did an amazing job," said White spokesman David Lindsey. "I doubt we could have done as well without them.

Although Clements tried to woo the education vote, few teachers group leaders had nice things to say about

"Clements spent four years insulting teachers, opposing teacher pay raises and vetoing bills to provide benefits to teachers," said John Cole, president of the federation, which is affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

"Then, during this campaign, he launched a million-dollar advertising campaign to try to make us forget his record of the past four years. The advertisements could not make us forget our flattened pocketbooks, and they made our people so angry that we worked twice as hard as before."

Through the federation's Beat Bill Clements Clubs, the organization members volunteered 400,000 manhours and made more than 10,000 phone calls to teachers and Democrats, Cole said.

Even retired teachers were rallied to action in getting out the absentee vote, a federation official said. Citizens 65 years or older may vote absentee.

The 95,000-member Texas State Teacher Association ran up an even more impressive tally. They spent 2.2 million hours working for White by Oct. 27, a spokeswoman said. On the eve of the election, TSTA volunteers made 250,000 calls to registered minority voters, explaining "I am a teacher and we've got problems in

"We've never had anything this aggressive in our entire life and TSTA has been around for 103 years," said Annette Cootes, public information officer for TSTA. She was intimately involved with the White campaign election night, managing the newsroom at the watch party at the Driskill Hotel.

Teacher group spokesmen also speculated that teachers drew some of their fervor from former Attorney General John Hill's loss to to Clements in 1978.

When John Hill won the primary, a lot of people automatically assumed he would become the governor. We learned our lesson. Four years of Bill Clements taught us the necessity of marshaling the votes to get out to a general election," Ms. Karp said.

Teachers are now looking forward to a heavy dose of favorable education legislation in the upcoming session of the Texas Legislature, Cole said.

Heading the organization's wish-list will be a statewide health insurance plan for education workers and improvements in teachers pay.

Governors race polls a bit off

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Gov. Bill Clements woke up Tuesday morning, election day, feeling good about his chances for winning a second four-year term. Bolstered by reports from his political pollsters, Lance Tarrance and Associates of Houston, Clements felt confident he would capture at least 52 percent of the vote. A week earlier, one of Democrat Mark White's key supporters said a poll conducted for another statewide Democratic candidate indicated White was losing ground in his effort to unseat his Republican rival. But, as both White and Clements soon discovered, pollsters aren't infallible. And, despite Tarrance's predictions, White will replace Clements in the Governor's Mansion on Jan. 18. In other words, said noted Texas political pollster and consultant George Shipley, "Pollsters make mistakes,

What blew the Clements' prediction, said Tarrance vice president Jan Van Lahuizen, was the unexpectedly high turnout of about 3.1 million voters.

Daily polls conducted for the Clements campaign, he said, assumed voter turnout would be more in line with 1978, when about 2.3 million Texans cast ballots in the

"We sort of got caught with our pants down," he said. "The turnout was very, very different...We were comparing apples and oranges, although we didn't know it as White's pollster, Dick Morris of New York, doesn't buy that explanation. Tarrance and Associates, he said, is just too good a polling firm to make such a miscalculation.

'I really don't believe he would make a mistake like that." Morris said. "I think Gov. Clements just asked him to release the data that he did.

CAMPERS UNDERWATER - Hurricane-force winds, called downbursts, hit the Lower Rio Grande Valley early Wednesday and caused considerable wind damage

Associated Press photo Hardest hit was the community of Port Isabel where this mobile home was destroyed.

Twenty hurt in storm

By CAM ROSSIE

Associated Press Writer PORT ISABEL — Authorities are tallying the damage caused by a "freak" storm that tore through this coastal community, injuring almost 20 people, leaving some people homeless and sending others fleeing inland.

The losses could reach into the millions of dollars, and the damages in Port Isabel alone should total more than $1 million, Mayor Quirino Martinez estimated.

The hurricane-force storm, caused by powerful downdrafts that darted to the ground from high storm clouds, caught coastal residents off guard when it blew through town shortly after 1 a.m. Wednesday.

"We were totally unprepared because no one issued a warning," said South Padre Island Mayor Minnie Solomonson. ''It was just a freak.''

"I thought the building was just going to come crashing down," said Sheila S. Kilgore, who was in a nearby South Padre Island hotel room on a business trip from St. Louis,

She said she was awakened in the middle of the night by what "sounded like a woman's scream," but actually was the wind wailing through her balcony door. Then the hotel began to shake and the lights went out, she said.

Ms. Kilgore said she selected an island hotel because "everybody told me Padre Island was such a nice place." But after the storm, she moved to a hotel in Harlingen about 40 miles inland.

The downbursts, some estimated at near 100 mph at Port Isabel and 81 mph on Padre Island, sent five people to the hospital and injured at least a dozen others.

Dozens of mobile homes toppled into a canal, trees were uprooted and portions of the two communities were swamped. At least 18 airplanes were damaged at area airports and the Confederate Air Force in Harlingen.

The buffeting winds also almost razed one Port Isabel apartment complex, destroyed some homes and damaged resort hotels on the island, according to Ms. Solomonson

About two dozen families from the two communities were homeless, while others from a severely damaged camper park nearby also sought shelter, according to Nita Flewelling of the Red Cross' Brownsville Chapter.

Port Isabel schools were closed Wednesday because of the "commotion" that carried over into morning cleanup efforts, said Ruth Gower of the Red Cross.

"Some people say they took a pretty good shaking from the wind," she said. Three women and two men remained hospitalized today with back, shoulder and rib injuries, and twelve people were treated and released at area hospitals. U.S. Coast Guard Chief Bill Barts, in charge of the Port

Isabel station, said the storm also surprised the Coast The National Weather Service in Brownsville said the storm was triggered by an unusually strong early season cold front that collided with the warm, unstable tropical air in South Texas. Barts said the National Weather Service forecast the Coast Guard received Tuesday called for southeast winds at 17 to 23 mph shifting to northerly 23 to 34 mph as a weather front came through. "That's a piece of cake down here," he said. "But we we didn't know it was going to be as bad as it was.'

Witness contradicts earlier testimony

GALVESTON (AP) - A key witness for the prosecutior in the trial of an inmate accused of killing two prison of ficials says he remembers the events more clearly now than the day they happened, when he made statements that contradict much of his testimony.

Levi Duson, 40, was the only prosecution eyewitness to the shooting of prison farm manager Billy Max Moore and a scuffle that preceded the drowning of Ellis Unit Warden Wallace M. Pack on April 4, 1981.

He was interviewed by authorities twice that day. Eroy Brown, 31, is being retried on a charge of capital murder in Pack's death and also has been charged with murdering Moore. Brown contends he killed the men in

The Waco man's first trial in Pack's death ended with a mistrial March 4 with the jury deadlocked at 10-2 for Duson acknowledged Wednesday that there were discrepancies in the tape-recorded statements he gave the day of the deaths and a written statement he gave to investigators four days later. Duson also said he changed his April 8 written statement after conferring Dec. 1, 1981, with Mike Hinton, then a special prosecutor in the case. 'After Mr. Hinton took the case, that's when we talked about it and things became a little clearer," said Duson, who has since been paroled and now lives in Midland.

Duson testified Friday that he was working in a prison agricultural shop at the Ellis Unit near Huntsville when he saw Pack and Moore put Brown into the back seat of Duson said he saw Brown grab Moore by the shoulder, force him to his knees and shoot him in the head. Pack and Brown then went out of sight down a nearby creek bank where Pack's body later was found, Duson said.

Under questioning from defense attorney Craig Washington, Duson acknowledged he earlier said he had heard "two or three" shots in quick succession as Pack was closing his car's trunk and Brown was approaching the rear of the car.

In his written statement, Duson said he heard only one shot as the trunk was closed and heard the other shots a short time later.

French, Italians join in support of Lebanese army

Associated Press Writer BEIRUT, Lebanon - Four jeeploads of U.S. Marines joined French and Italian soldiers patrolling Christian east Beirut today to support the Lebanese army's effort to establish control throughout the capital.

'This is what we're supposed to be doing, said the patrol leader, Lt. Jim Lariviere of Rochester, N.Y. The Marines' entry was delayed for 24 hours, apparently in a dispute over what areas they would cover.

The American convoy, with the Stars and Stripes flying from radio antennas, rolled out of the Marine base in mostly Moslem west Beirut at 1:05 p.m. (7:05 a.m. CST) and headed to east Beirut. The 14 Marines, accompanied by a liaison officer from the Lebanese army, had completed one swing through east Beirut by 2:20 p.m. (8:20 a.m. CST).

Two of the jeeps carried M-60 machine guns Each Marine was armed with an M-16 automatic rifle and a .45-caliber pistol.

Midway through the patrol, the Lebanese officer, Lt. Saad Sherif, yelled: "It's a good journey" in response to a question shouted by an Associated Press reporter in a passing car.

As the jeeps passed through narrow streets in east Beirut's Furn el-Shubbak neighborhood, groups of shoppers stopped to smile at the

For most of the Marines' patrol, there was no sign of the Christian militiamen who have controlled east Beirut since the 1975-76 civil war. But at on point the jeeps passed a Phalangist militiaman who watched the Marines weave through the heavy noon traffic in the hristian neighborhood of Ein Rummaneh, according to AP reporter Samir Ghattas. Ghattas said the militiaman did not appear to be armed.

Eight-hundred Lebanese soldiers and a number of armored personnel carriers entered east Beirut Wednesday for the first time since the civil war. French and Italian units of the international peacekeeping force also began patrols in the area Wednesday.

President Amin Gemayel asked the trinational peacekeeping force to help his newly regrouped army flex its muscle in east Beirut. The army, backed by the foreign peacekeepers, took over west Beirut in September and October following the evacuation of the bulk of Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas.

Phalangists offered no resistance as the army began moving into east Beirut on Wednesday. Phalangist leaders ordered their men to remain in their barracks and stay off the streets to facilitate the army deployment in seven residential neighborhoods.

The army has threatened to arrest Christian militiaman who refuse to lay down their arms. Phalange militia spokesman Fadi Hayek said Wednesday his men would cooperate, but he would not say if they would give up their weapons

This is a decision to be taken by the president of the republic," Hayek said, referring to Gamayel, a Maronite Christian with close ties to the militias. His slain brother, Bashir, was their commander.

The Marines had been slated to move into east Beirut Wednesday afternoon, but at nightfall they remained at the international airport in west Beirut. The Marines' expanded role was ordered Mon ay by President Reagan at Gemayel's request.

Marine spokesman Lt. Col. Jon Abel said "no execute order was received" because "there were decisions to be made at higher levels." He would not elaborate, but the decisions were believed to concern what area the Marines would cover in their patrols.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said there were no policy hitches or any major problems connected with the delay. They said the decision on deployment was being made by the Marine command in Beirut.

The Pentagon officials also said Gemayel has approved the first stage of a U.S. plan to strengthen the Lebanese army, bringing 16 Lebanese battalions to full strength in the next several months. The army, which disintegrated during the civil war, has been regrouped into a 28,000-man force. Gemayel has said he wants that number raised to 60,000

Pro-Solidarity march scheduled

By THOMAS W. NETTER Associated Press Writer WARSAW, Poland Leaders of the outlawed Solidarity union today called on fellow unionists to join a protest march next Wednesday at the end of a eight-hour planned nationwide strike.

Warsaw Solidarity chief workers to march to the city's grave of the unknown soldier that day — the second anniversary of court-ordered registration of Solidarity as the Soviet bloc's only independent union.

"In case police attack, the demonstrators should disperse and then regather to make sure they reach the grave," Bujak and other local Solidarity officials said in a statement in today's issue of the outlawed weekly Warsaw Solidarity.

Meanwhile, a military prosecutor's office issued a communique today reporting the arrests or indictments of 17 members of Solidarity, which was outlawed by Parliament on

It said four students were indicted in Silesia for participating in a "youth resistance movement of Solidarity," and another 11 for distributing publications from 'committee of social resistance." It was not clear whether all those indicted were arrested or what measures were taken against them.

Solidarity's national leaders had earlier called for the strike next Wednesday as the first in a series of protests aimed at culminating in a general strike in December to mark the first anniversary of Polish martial law. The new call for protest, in defiance of martial law bans on marches and demonstrations, came as Poland's Communist authorities issued new warnings against unrest

Nixon talks Social Security

Ex-president discusses effects of yesterday's elections

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Former President Nixon said today "the most shameless talk" of the election just past was about Social Security and said that people must be made aware it's "better to have some preventive medicine now than surgery later.

Nixon said that to keep Social Security going he would recommend no changes for those now receiving benefits. But he said there must be a new course for people who will become eligible in the future.

'Those members of Congress who refuse to look at the issue are on the wrong side," the former president said.

Nixon appeared on NBC-TV's "Today" show in two segments, one to talk about about the election, the other about foreign

Of President Reagan, Nixon said: "He is not stupid. He'll look at the election results. He'll see that he doesn't have as much support in the House" in the 98th Congress as he did in the last two years in the House, which went along with the major features of his economic program. He also said he thinks Reagan "has not lost his stroke. He's lost it temporarily, some of it. Looking to the future, he is going to be able to govern, and govern effectively.

Nixon said he thinks it is possible conservatives will become even more disenchanted with Reagan in the next two years. Asked to give a one-sentence description of various political leaders, Nixon made these observations -Thomas P. O'Neill, the speaker of the House: "A very astute, tough, ruthless politician, tending toward demagoguery." -Ex-President Carter: "A man with very strong convictions. A man who feels very strongly that he did the right thing ... and will do everything he can to assure his place

—Alexander M. Haig, who served Nixon as chief of staff in his last year in office and later secretary of state under Reagan: "One who rendered enormous service to the country. ... One who had some personality problems in dealing with others ... but one that I think history will treat better than his current contemporaries.

Asked if Haig was the "deep throat" of Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein's Watergate book - an allegation made recently by John Dean - Nixon said:

"That's slightly ridiculous. Al Haig is many things, but he knows nothing about the whole Watergate business, had nothing whatever to do with it at the time it happened. He became my chief of staff, frankly, after we lost that battle.

In the second segment of the interview. dealing with foreign policy, Nixon said the Reagan administration must take more positive control of events in the Mideast.

Nixon said Reagan must become an active participant in formulating Mideast policy and that "once we determine who is right, we must squeeze toward that goal."

Nixon said that Israeli Prime Minister Menachim Begin "has the opportunity to bite the bullet" on the Palestinian cause. Asked, however, whether he sees Begin doing that, Nixon replied, "Not at all." He said Begin must realize he no longer has a blank check on American support and that once he is made to see that he might be amenable to a compromise. The former president said he was not at all disturbed by the fact that U.S. Marines had been sent to Lebanon. "It is far better that we send some troops now on a peaceful missio than to have to send more later," he said.

The former president, who has just written his second book on foreign policy, was asked whether he would have preferred to play a role in recent events in the Nixon said that a former president carries too much baggage for that and probably is not fitted for such a role. He praised Reagan's special ambassador, Philip Habib, as "the best man for the job."

Nixon recently returned from a visit to China 10 years after, as president, he reestablished relations between the two countries. He was asked whether he fears reduced tensions between the Soviet Union said. "If there were a conflict between those countries, it would inevitably spread to world conflict." But he said because "we don't want the

"I think we should welcome it," Nixon the United States must strengthen its economic ties to China. "It is also absolutely essential that President Reagan and Leonid Brezhnev meet to reduce chances of miscalculations.'

Voters choose to spend money

By The Associated Press

Bullet trains in Ohio and a new state capital for Alaska proved too costly for voter tastes, but residents in Missouri, New Jersey and California were persuaded to spend millions for other causes. In Missouri, voters on Tuesday turned back a plan to raise gasoline taxes 4 cents a gallon to 11 cents. The $115 million a year would have been used to build and maintain

But the "Show Me" state agreed to boost sales taxes by a penny on the dollar. That will generate about $300 million a year, with half going to local school districts and half being used to lower local property taxes.

New Jersey voters approved three bond proposals to help build two new state prisons and a home for disabled veterans at a combined cost of $177 million, and to provide $85 million for community development projects in urban

Five bond propositions on the ballot in California passed despite tight money and high unemployment. They will raise about $1.5 billion for schools, new jails, environmental planning, housing and veterans.

Elsewhere, Washington state voters turned down a chance to shift a tax on food sales to corporate profits, and refused to let local governments increase property taxes to finance improvements aimed at attracting private development They also rejected a consumer-backed initiative that would have established a legal interest rate ceiling on bank and retail loans of 12 percent, or 1 percent over the federal discount rate. voters chose not to spend $700,000 to find out whether utility rates would be lower if the community took over Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Opponents said a buyout would cost $1.4 billion. And Oregon voters narrowly defeated a plan to limit property taxes modeled after California's Proposition 13. addition to limiting property taxes to 11/2 percent of market value, it would have rolled back assessments to 1979 levels and required a two-thirds vote of any legislative body to raise taxes.

This year's vote on moving the Alaska capital from Juneau was the fifth in 22 years. Like three others, it was

Warner chairman accused of fraud

NEW YORK (AP) — The board chairman of Warner Communications has denied a federal prosecutor's allegation that he and other executives "schemed to defraud the company" through a secret $170,000 cash Assistant U.S. Attorney Nick Akerman told a U.S. District Court jury Wednesday that Warner chairman Steven Ross designated Solomon Weiss to oversee the 'secret cash fund.

The fund consisted of $170,000 in "bribes, phony invoices, false, fraudulent and misleading documentation and Warner checks for nonexistent services" related to a now-defunct motion picture theater in Tarrytown, N.Y., Akerman said.

Weiss, 53, a Warner assistant treasurer from Hillside, N.J., is on trial on charges of racketeering, fraud, perjury, obstruction of justice and the preparation of false corporate tax returns.

In return for cash bribes, Weiss "and other Warner executives arranged for Warner to purchase stock in the Westchester Premiere Theater," Akerman charged

"Mr. Ross unequivocally denies any authorization, participation or knowledge of any secret cash fund," said Warner attorney Martin D. Payson

Court documents have shown that Ross was a subject of the investigation, but he has not been named as a defendant and no charges have been filed against him.

Weiss' indictment stemmed from an investigation of the bankrupt theater in Westchester County. Several men identified as members of organized crime have been convicted of skimming cash from the theatre and driving it into bankruptcy. Akerman said in opening statements Wednesday that he will prove Weiss accepted a $70,000 cash bribe from theater representative Leonard Horwitz in May 1973. And he said he intends to show that Weiss made a second secret deal a month later to have Warner buy more stock for $100,000.

When the theater could not pay off, Weiss put together a new deal involving Warner issuing checks to the theater totaling more than $150,000 over four years to theater representatives for services never performed, Ackerman

In return, Akerman said, Weiss got a $100,000 kickback. "In essence, the evidence will show that the defendant Weiss assisted other Warner executives in defrauding the corporation's stockholders and then trying to cover it up,'

Consumer Reports judgement set aside

BOSTON (AP) — The 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has set aside a $210,000 award won by a loudspeaker manufacurer that claimed its product was criticized falsely by a review in Consumer Reports magazine.

The court Wednesday reversed a ruling by U.S. District Judge Anthony Julian, who found the magazine liable for an article asserting that the sound of musical instruments heard through Bose Corporation's 901 speaker system "tended to wander about the room.

Julian had ruled that the statement was published with the knowledge that it was false.

In reversing the lower court finding, the 1st Circuit said the Framingham, Mass., company . failed to prove its claim by "clear and convincing evidence.'

'The evidence presented merely shows the words in the article may not have described precisely what two panelists heard during the listening test. CU (Consumer's Union, which publishes the magazine) is guilty of using imprecise language in the article - perhaps resulting from an attempt to produce a readable article for its mass audience. Certainly this does not support an inference of actual malice," the court said in an opinion written by Judge Hugh H. Bownes.

The Consumer Reports story explained the novel design of the Bose 901 speaker, where most of the sound is directed off the wall behind the speakers in an attempt to simulate sound patterns in a concert hall.

The appeals court ruling reversed an award for Bose that included $115,000 in damages plus interest and costs of $95,000. Bose is headed by Dr. Amar Bose, a faculty member at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Dear Abby

Woman encounters hairy ordeal

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old woman who has just undergone an unbelievable experience. I'm a part-time secretary and fashion model. It all started when a male co-worker at the office announced that he was going to grow a beard because shaving irritated his skin. Well, shaving my legs and underarms has always irritated my skin, too, so I decided if a man could stop shaving and be accepted, so could I.

After I stopped shaving, my agent informed me that unless I shave my legs and armpits I was unemployable as a fashion model. My love life changed dramatically. The men I dated stopped asking me out.

I suppose I could have started shaving again, but I didn't because there was an important principle involved, so I threw away my razor.

I have learned two things from this experience: (1) Femininity is not achieved with a razor and cosmetics; it comes from within. (2) A man in our society may choose not to shave and suffer no repercussions. A female does

DEAR LETTING: A woman who wants to be a fashion model (in the United States) knows that shaving her legs shaving you should have anticipated the consequences.

.However, a woman whose love life suffers because she throws away her razor has endured a hair-raising experience. Your relationship must have been very superficial.

Some women shave to please themselves because in our culture we're conditioned to regard body hair on women as unsightly and therefore undesirable.

.But there are men out there who refer women to be entirely natural, hairy legs and armpits included. Hang in there, and keep looking!

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Package Deal," the decent man with an 8-year-old daughter, that if he's looking for a nice woman to marry, he should go to the ballpark. That's where all the single parents (and some of the married ones) find the action in this town.

If Package Deal signed up his daughter for baseball of softball, or volunteered his services as coach, manager, or concession worker, I'll bet that before he could say "Jackie Robinson," he'd be fighting off the women with a not real. As with many other medical conditions, severity and degree dictate the treatment of approach. Carpal tunnel syndrome is a good case in point. For mild cases, putting the mention are not, at this pressure on the nerve. Antiinflammatory drugs, like aspirin, may be all that's needed. Some doctors feel the need to prescribe a water pill for a short time, hoping in that way to reduce tissue fluid pressure in the area. Some, depending on the patient and the degree of severity, opt for use of cortisone. It is injected around the tunnel area where the nerve passes. And, finally, some doctors will see the need to recommend surgery to enlarge the tunnel if that seems tobe the most logical approach. And, for some, surgery may be the obvious answer earlier than for others.

If your car won't start, you first check your battery cables to see if they need cleaning. If that doesn't help, you turn to more radical answers. As in medicine, you are seeking the most conservative approach first, and, if you are smart, you are letting the experts have the say.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor has diagnosed my trouble as angina pectoris. Should I now have a different diet? At present, I eat just about all foods. I am on medicine for the angina and haven't had an attack since.

I'm glad you do have your angina under control. Yes, in a broad sense, you do need to be careful about your diet now that you know you have the problem. The chief concern for you is the further accumulation of fatty deposits in the arteries serving your heart muscle. That blockage is what caused your heart pain to begin with. Those fats are primarily cholesterol. So, in general, the diet for angina is one low in cholesterol and saturated fats (fatty meats, etc.)

And also you should restrict your salt intake. You don't want to ask your heart

Drug traffic moves west from Florida

By KATHY HORAK Associated Press Writer

.LOS ANGELES - An FM radio station relayed the dedication just after midnight: From a listener in Simi Valley to John De Lorean, the rock single "Cocaine" guitarist Eric Clapton's drug hymn that features thousands of concert-goers shouting that one-word refrain.

De Lorean, a former General Motors vice president. was indicted last week by a federal grand jury on charges of drug trafficking and racketeering in a $24 million cocaine smuggling scheme.

His arrest and indictment focused attention on the growing Southern California traffic in cocaine, a market that has gradually moved west from South Florida. "Two years ago (a single seizure of) 35 pounds was a large amount for this area," says federal Drug Enforcement Administration Agent Pat Stewart, "but amounts of 100 kilograms (220 pounds) are occurring regularly

With the federal government's anti-drug task force squeezing the geographically favorable Colombia-to-Florida route, dealers increasingly are importing cocaine direct to Southern California via any transport available.

"It used to be a cross-country Greyhound from Miami was one of the easiest ways to get it here," says one for-mer dealer who requested anonymity. "You're just another passenger - no chance of speeding arrests or traffic accidents and your carry-on bag stayed air-

Every statistic shows an increase in Southern California cocaine seizures.

Los Angeles-based DEA agents stopped 509 p the year ended Sept. 30 — 39 percent more than in fiscal 1981. U.S. Customs grabbed 270 pounds in fiscal 1982, compared with 180 pounds the previous year. Still, the DEA's Stewart says, "It's a losing war. There's a lot of money in L.A. and between the demand and the profits to be made, more people are willing to take the chance. Doctors, lawyers, businessmen. Cocaine's potential profits are uniformly cited as the motivation for involvement. Customs special investigative agent Alan Walls says the biggest money is made by the smuggler, typically a Colombian national, rather than local dealers "who rarely have more than a few grams on hand and keep a lot of it for their habit." A single pound of cocaine in Colombia, where most processing laboratories operate, can be had for $5,000. The pound costs the coca plantation owner financing the lab only $2,800, the former dealer says. "By the time it reaches the border that's worth $60,000 or $70,000," says Stewart. If all 1,000 grams were sold pure at the going rate of $120, that's $120,000 on a $5,000 in-

Authorities consistently estimate they catch only 10 percent of the total shipments, and even with the biggest dealers, "there's always someone to fill the void," says DEA Agent Charles Bullock.

Creationism law back in Louisiana courts

By KEVIN NOBLET Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS - A law saying creationism must be taught along with evolution in Louisiana public schools interferes with the state school board's power to protect academic freedom "from the whims of politics," the school board says.

Lawyers for the state Board of Elementary and Secondary Education went to court Wednesday to ask U.S. District Judge Adrian Duplantier to declare the state law

The law says creationism must be taught in any class where evolution is taught. Creationism is a collection of theories that parallel the Biblical account of creation, such as that the appearance of humans on Earth was a sudden event.

The law, created by the 1981 Legislature but not yet in effect because of an American Civil Liberties Union lawsuit, is the only such statute in the nation. A similar law in Arkansas was thrown out by another federal court last January

The elected Louisiana school board says its power to determine school curriculum is exclusive

The 1973 Louisiana Constitutional Convention gave the board the duty of maintaining and supervising a public school system with "the power to preserve public education and academic freedom from the whims of politics, whether in the guise of a too-powerful governor or a capricious legislature responding to momentary pressures," the board said in its motion.

Proponents of the law disagree, noting other occasions when state lawmakers required certain curricula in the

The board's power over the schools was never intended to be exclusive, said pro-creationism lawyer Wendell Byrd in a response filed for Attorney General William

Duplantier also is overseeing the ACLU's lawsuit against creationism, which the organization calls a thinly disguised attempt to push religion into the classroom in violation of constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state Football season is winding down to its final Friday tomorrow night and the twoteam playoff system begun this year by the UIL has definitely been a plus for keeping interest alive this late in the year.

In District 4-AAAAA, the second place representative is still undecided and could turn out to be quite a surprise.

A team with a 4-3 league mark could go to the playoffs, a fact that probably turns Big Spring coach Quinn Eudy's stomach to knots when he thinks of the Midland Lee game.

Odessa and Midland Lee both are 4-2 in league play but have tough assignments Friday night. Odessa battles No. 1 stateranked and undefeated Permian and it will take a great effort to upend Mojo. Ratliff Stadium will be packed to its rafters with red-clad and black-clad fans.

Permian should win the game which will drop the Broncs to 4-3.

Then there's the Midland-Midland Lee game. Lee has the speed but the Bulldogs have the defense. After an 0-2 debut in league play, the 'Dogs have come back to win three of four behind a solid defense.

This should also be a dandy and this writer think Pat Culpepper's Junkyard Dogs will put it out.

With Odessa and Lee losing, guess who goes to the playoffs? Midland High. What about San Angelo, you say. The Bobcats are 3-3 and a win over Big Spring would put them at 4-3, too. The Orange has lost to both Lee and Odessa but owns a 13-0 win over Midland.

Yes, San Angelo could make the playoffs still.

All of this makes Big Spring fans sick when they think of Lee's storybook finish that knocked the Steers out of the playoff picture two weeks ago. Had Big Spring won that game, Friday night's game would be for a playoff berth. Big Spring defeated both Midland and Odessa and had Lee on the Forget San Angelo because the Steers will knock Central out of the running in Memorial Stadium.

How many people two months ago would have thought Big Spring could have made the playoffs? And yet, if Midland wins, the Steers could have been there.

Before we all go cry in our beer, soft drinks, iced tea or whatever, give the Steers credit for making this the most interesting season since Lindbergh flew across the

It will all be capped by a victory over San Angelo in a little over 24 hours and we sports fans can look forward to a district title from the Steers basketball team.

Around the area, Forsan is in the playoffs and will play No. 5 state-ranked Eden at 7:30 p.m. next Friday in Robert Lee. The Buffs close out their campaign at home against Loraine and should take a 7-2-1 mark into postseason play.

Stanton leads District 7-AA with a 4-0 record but a loss to McCamey, 4-1, could be disastrous. A three-way tie between the Battlin' Buffs, McCamey and Wall could develop and coin-flips would be needed. One team would lose out. Thus, coach Steve Parks' crew will be looking to avoid that situation by defeating McCamey.

Grady is in a similar situation. The Wildcats visit Lueders-Avoca where a victory could set up a district championship battle at home next week against Highland. A loss would knock coach Richard Gibson's crew out of the playoff running. L-A is 4-2 and Grady 5-1. A loss would equal the records and give the Raiders the nod with the better record.

Shoving scene draws UIL notice

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The University Inter-scholastic League has placed Montgomery High School on probation in football for the way its coaches reacted to game officials' calls in a 21-0 victory over Splendora. However, in a rare agreement that one of its rules was vaguely written, the UIL state executive board set the stage for reversal of penalties assessed last week against another school, Irving Nimitz.

The probation for Montgomery, northwest of Houston, will extend through the 1983 football season. The action Wednesday apparently was aimed at discouraging violation of what officials call the "laying Referee Jack Dittmar, Sr. of Houston said Montgomery assistant coach Peter Rayome grabbed him by the arm and spun him around at halftime of the Splendora game in Splendora on Oct. 1.

In the ruling that brought joy to Nimitz, the UIL agreed with Irving officials by a 6-2 vote behind closed doors that a rule used to declare ineligible a sophomore guard who had transferred to Nimitz from another school, was poorly written.

Because of a clerical error, Nimitz officials failed to secure the required written agreement from the school that the player hadn't been recruited.

The District 8-5A committee was expected to meet in emergency session today. Should the committee reverse its decision, based upon the UIL's decision, the six victories and a tie ordered forfeited by Nimitz last week would be restored, giving the school an 8-0-1 record and its first district championship.

"Of course it is still up to the district committee, but personally I don't see any reason why (the ruling) shouldn't be changed," Gene Head, principal of South Grand Prairie High School, the chairman of the District 8-5A committee said.

Dittmar, an official for 34 years, also said head coach Billy Fowler of Montgomery had tried to intimidate him and other officials by saying that he had already protested their calls to UIL athletic director Bill

He said Montgomery coaches called them "no good, lousy officials and a few other things." Written material said the officials were called "outlaws."

The UIL state executive committee heard that Montgomery coaches told their players after a flag had been dropped, "That's OK. The official's wrong, and doesn't know what he's talking about."

Fowler, a 23-year coach with two years at Montgomery, said he was a "little embarrassed and humiliated by all of this."

"I'm a married man and have a family, and I'm not going to put that in jeopardy because of bad officiating, or whatever you call it," Fowler said. "I did think the game was poorly officiated.

Drug charges set against Dolphin

MIAMI (AP) — Former pro football star Mercury Morris, deeply in debt from previous smaller cocaine buys, planned to make up his financial woes with a $12,000 profit from the sale of two kilograms of cocaine to a mystery buyer from New York, a pool contractor has Vincent Cord told a Dade Circuit Court jury Wednesday that he charged Morris $54,000 a kilo for the drugs. Morris' buyer, an undercover agent for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, has said he was paying $60,000 each.

Morris, the Miami Dolphins' elusive halfback during their Super Bowl years a decade ago, prepared to take the stand today as his attorney opened their defense against charges of cocaine trafficking, delivery, sale and possession, as well as marijuana possession.

Defense attorney Ronald Strauss said he expected Morris' testimony to force the state to put on Fred Donaldson, its confidential informant. After Cord agreed to testify, prosecutors decided not to subject Donaldson to the questions of Strauss, who had denounced the informant, Morris' former gardener, as a liar in opening Cord, 42, a co-defendant with Morris and Edgar Kulins until he turned state's evidence on Tuesday, told the jury he met Morris "at a girl's house" in early 1982. Several months later, he said, he met Kulins.

Eventually, he said, he began supplying the retired National Football League player with cocaine, first in grams. Morris didn't pay, but he talked of bigger deals and out-of-state buyers, Cord said.

USFL attracts NFL free agents

Striking National Football League players are talking about jumping en masse to the United States Football

And Chet Simmons, commissioner of the USFL, is beginning to wonder if the NFL is thinking about jumping on the fledgling league.

The NFL Management Council is proposing, in the negotiations to end 45-dayold players' strike, a series of provisions which would, in effect, penalize the new league and any players who might head its way.

A number of player representatives at the years later and retires one negotiation site visited Simmons' midtown office a few blocks away, and said if they became free agents through voided contracts, large chunks of NFL rosters could jump to the USFL, which opens its first season next March.

Don Hasselback, player rep for the New England Patriots, also mentioned that the union will give to the USFL a list of 352 names of NFL players due to become free agents on Feb.1. And Ed Garvey, executive director of the union, said NFL players could legally sign 'futures' contracts with USFL teams, as Larry Csonka and Paul Warfield did in the 1970s with the nowdefunct World Football League.

-Adding mid-round draft choices for the poorer teams in each year's draft (a bottom-of-the-ladder team might get an extra selection in the sixth or seventh rounds, for example), reducing the available pool of talent.

-A year's severance-pay penalty for any player who leaves the NFL for another league and then returns in a subsequent year. (A fiveyear player, for example, who joins another league, comes back to the NFL a few year after that would not get severance-pay credit for that sixth NFL year).

-Additional selections for expansion teams likewise reducing players who might opt for the USFL.

-Expansion from two to five years of the provision which permits a team to retain the rights to a player who either is drafted and goes to another league or leaves a team for another league. (If, for instance, a drafted Washington opted for the

Niekro's three-year, contract expired at the end of the 1982 season, during which he compiled a 17-4 record

Although he was the only member of the National League West championship club eligible to become a free agent, Niekro, a Brave his entire career, never considered going elsewhere

"Yeah, we've agreed. We haven't in the position where if, for some signed the contract, but I think we're going to do that next Monday. Phil will be a Brave next year; he'll always be a Brave," Turner said. Turner refused to disclose terms of the agreement, but the Atlanta Constitution quoted informed parties as placing the agreed-upon salary at $800,000. The newspaper also said the new contract was not thought to include any deferred payments.

Niekro said he only sought a oneyear contract and does not intend to sign any more multiyear agreements. 'I'll be 44 in spring training," he year contract is mutually best. But, Niekro said he did not expect this to be his last contract.

"I could sign six or seven more, but that depends on what we do next year," he said. "If we get in the World Series, maybe it will be my last year. But until we do that, I won't feel as if I've accomplished anything. The idea of getting in a World Series with the Braves still has a pretty good grip on said. "And I don't want to put myself me.

4-AAAAA Picks

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

San Angelo at Big Spring - A very important game for the Steers...Big Spring could finish at .500 with a victory over the Bobcats, its first break-even record in 12 years...defense has fallen to No. 3 but a good night could boost Big Spring back to No. 2... offense has come on in recent weeks, even against Permian and could overhaul Midland...sore spots are linemen Johnny Smithwick and Monty Lamb who had a tough time on the Mojo carpet last Friday...both could play against San Angelo...a frustrating year for the Bobcats...after downing Brownwood 21-7 and moving to No. 4 in the state, Central has lost three times and is virtually out of playoff picture...man to watch is RB Trey Wright who has 658 yards and is fourth in 4-AAAAA...Steer Jay Pirkle averaged 5.4 a carry and has 310 yards in spot duty...receiver Dale Crenshaw was blanked by Permian but is still No. 3 in league...Pirkle is fourth in punting...this is the game the Angry Orange want to scrap because of the opposition...Big Spring will make them pay for the rue remarks. (Game time is 8 p.m.) BIG SPRING 17, SAN

Odessa vs Permian - Odessa is on a roll after mid-season slump and will make the playoffs with a victory...Permian has already locked up the 4-5A title for the third time in the 1980's...Mojo RB Mike Troglin needs 73 yards to go over 1,000 mark for injury-filled year...Permian still ranked No. 1 in both offense and defense...Odessa gave up two scores to San Angelo last week, first time all year...Broncos have quick-strike capability but Permian will go 10-0 with tight game. PERMIAN 24, ODESSA 17

Midland vs Lee - Believe it or not, the same Midland team that needed three safeties to score against Big Spring could make the playoffs...should Odessa fall to Permian (and that's likely) and the Bulldogs beat Lee, Midland is in post-season play...Lee stopped Cooper cold last week but Junkyard Dogs have won three straight with defense...upset special, Bulldogs defense the Rebs and turn Quinn Eudy's stomach upside down by making the playoffs. MIDLAND 14, LEE 10

Cooper vs Abilene - This game has a very differnet tone to it this week...usually the highlight of the season in the Key City, the game is clouded by possible firings of both coaches...combined the teams have won five games this year and both dropped out of the 4-5A contention early...Cooper has more size and Allen Gunter-Michael T. Royals combo...Abilene has Ron Lewis...it's a matter of who wants it more but Cooper will probably remember last year's upset loss and make the Eagles pay. COOPER 28, ABILENE 14

Lapinski, a part-time coach who teaches biology at a high school in Delaware, observed, "I don't think most people are angry. It's a very long, very complicated, very complex story. It would take three hours to explain.

There seems to be a lot of controversy swirling around Lapinski's team, eighth-ranked in the NCAA's Division III and winner of seven games,

NBC drops to third

LOS ANGELES (AP) CBS bounced back to first place in the weekly television ratings with six of the Top 10 shows, while NBC fell back to the cellar again after the end of the World

The baseball games in mid-October had boosted NBC to first place for two weeks in a row as the Series dominated the top ratings, but CBS regular series showed their strength for the week ended Oct. 31.

It was also a week with few specials, and series dominated the top of the ratings compiled by the A.C. Nielsen Co.

The first three places went to CBS. "Dallas" was No. 1, and "60 Minutes" and "M-A-S-H" were tied for second CBS was first overall with a rating of 18.3. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute, 18.3 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to CBS. ABC was in second place with 16.5, and NBC was in third with 13.9.

ABC's prime-time soap opera "Dynasty," tied for fourth place with a special episode of another serial, CBS' "Knots Landing." The premiere of Bob Newhart's CBS comedy, "Newhart," was in sixth place. ABC's long-running comedy "Three's Company tied for eighth place with the "Here Comes Garfield," and "The Fall Guy" was tenth.

Drugs to be made tamper-resistant

WASHINGTON (AP) -The government today formally required that all non-prescription medications be sold in tamper-resistant packages on a phased schedule that will begin in 90 days. The new regulation was developed after seven people died in the Chicago area in late September after consuming capsules of Extra-Strength Tylanol laced with cyanide.

There have been numerous product-tampering incidents since then elsewhere in the country.

JACK BENNETT would 1103 November 4, 1982 days.

Richard S. Schweiker, the secretary of health and human services who announced the regulations, said most non-prescription capsule and liquid products, including eyedrops, would have to appear in the new packages in 90 days. This provision also would extend to cosmetic products such as mouthwashes, which are susceptible to tampering. But it would not cover skin-care products.

Tablets and suppositories, which are considered less susceptible to tampering, would have to have tampers resistant packaging in 180

Manufacturers could choose among various types of tamper-resistant packaging, including seals, shrink bands and bubble or strip packs, but each package would have to highlight the barrier with a special design that would be difficult to duplicate. Each product also would have to display in a prominent place an advisory about the packaging that would tell consumers not to buy or use the product if the seal or barrier was not in-

A label statement and the SIGNED: special design for barriers would be required in 180

Hemochromatosis

The consequences of the extra iron absorption are

Herald Want Ads Will! Phone 263-7331

E.E.G. In hemochromatosis, too much iron is being absorbed into the blood from food in the digestive tract, and it ends up being stored in body organs. Ordinarily, there is an automatic regulation of blood absorption. When the Boll weevil totals up this year

By DAVID FOSTER

County Entomologist The number of boll weevils caught this season by boll weevil traps in both Howard and Martin counties far exceeds any previous year. September totals for trapped weevils totaled 6,217, which is a 6,166 increase over the 51 total for 1981

Weevil-infested fields are located in the Sand Springs-Coahoma, Elbow and Vincent areas of Howard County. Overall, infestations are concentrated in fields east of Highway 87 and south of In-

The percentage of fields infested at this time is up 100 percent from this time last year. This increase follows a four-year period during which weevil infestations generally decreased to very low levels due to unfavorable conditions created by weather. The county-wide adoption of delayed uniform planting date of mid-May or later had further decreased the possibility of serious boll weevil infestations in recent Numerous trap catches in the spring of 1982 indicated more weevils this year. Late-planted cotton was not safe in 1982 since a large number of weevils went into dispause late in 1981 and overwintered to survive until Early detection of weevil infestations came in early-July in Howard and Midland counties and mid-July in Martin County. Late September was the earliest weevils were detected in

As noted, Howard County increased from 1.5 weevils per trap to an average of 159 weevils a trap. Only an average of 5 weevils per trap were discovered in 1980. Martin County went from 1978 to 1981 with no weevils captured in September. However, 1982 found 82 weevils captured in Martin Fields checked in the Sand Springs-Coahoma, Elbow and Vincent areas averaged 50 percent adult weevils, 75 percent grubs and 100 egg and feeding punctures. As cotton matures in the area, weevils are moving across the counties of Martin and Midland in search of food.

What can the agricultural community do to prevent weevils from going into overwintering habitat and thus reducing the emergence of a large boil weevil population in 1983?

Producers can (a) plow up cotton which has little or no potential and/or (b) include an insecticide in their harvest-aide chemical.

Howard County producers, as they have in the past, will rely heavily on the delayed uniform planting date to reduce the damage caused by boll weevils. This planting date will depend on weather conditions this winter, but it is anticipated to be May 23rd, 1983.

Gold Mine: Great

food at budget price

The Gold Mine in College Park Shopping Center has a lot to offer the people of Big Spring. Now they offer free refills on soft drinks to go along with their great food.

The Gold Mine has been famous for sandwiches for some time, and their fried chicken and fried shrimp make their menu

Sandwiches on the menu include hamburgers, cheeseburgers, roast beef, pastrami, corned beef, grilled cheese, hot dogs, barbecue and mouth-watering

To make the meal complete, they have a well-stocked salad bar and sixteen flavors of ice cream. Owners Steve and Amy Lewis, who also own the Rainbarrel Gifts and Candies, have provided Big Spring with an attractive and comfortable eating place. They have found a lot of unusual furnishings that give the restaurant an old-fashioned atmosphere.

Whatever your tastes, The Gold Mine has something for you. They are open from 11-4 Monday through Saturday.

Uncontested pols Clements regrets calling bad plays and JANET WARREN

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN - Republican Gov. Bill Clements, whose plans for another four years in office were dealt a stunning setback Tuesday, found himself playing Monday morning quarterback on Wednesday.

"What is that phrase? Beaten at the line of scrimmage?" Clements joked to reporters. "We probably needed another quarterback in the sense that maybe I called the wrong plays.

Clements cracked one-liners throughout the morningafter news conference in which he vowed to cooperate with Democrat Mark White to achieve an orderly transi-

But, asked if he would continue making gubernatorial appointments through Jan. 18, his last day in office, Clements said: "I'd say that's a safe assumption." Clements said the transition team would be headed by former state Rep. Hilary Doran of Del Rio, now the Republican's executive assistant. Up until Tuesday night, Clements said he believed his pollster's reports that he would win re-election with at least 52 percent of the vote.

But, he said, had he known differently "I would have certainly made an audible at the line of scrimmage...Obviously we did something wrong.

Asked if he is through with politics, he joked: "Are you asking that with a hope or a prayer or what? You know, I don't intend to just ugly away. But, he said, he won't run for another elective office and isn't interested in any political appointments in Washington, D.C. The state's first Republican governor in more than a

Pumpkin pie is not only recipe for vegetable

By TINA STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor

CAROL HART Lifestyle Writer We've had another request

by a reader searching for a recipe. This time, Mrs. Buster Weaver of Route 1 asks for help from the Recipe Exchange in locating a peanut butter pie recipe.

Mrs. Weaver says "My husband ate a slice at a public family outing, and raved over it. I have tried in vain to find who made it, no

STONEY MOUNTAIN. Manitoba — Four rebellious prisoners surrendered peacefully Tuesday and released their two remaining hostages unharmed after a 39-hour siege at the Stony Mountain federal penitentiary, Assistant Warden Russ McGill announced.

He said the four convicts would appear in court in Winnipeg, but a fifth prisoner, previously-believed part of the rebel group, "was not really directly involved."

The siege began Sunday night after a Halloween party at the prison when the convicts herded four guards into a cellblock containing 37 other prisoners and bar-

Two of the guards were released Monday after complaining of headaches. Prison officials said one of the other convicts in the cellblock slashed his arm in an apparent suicide attempt Monday, but they said he was not one of the rebels.

McGill said three officials from the Federal Correctional Services in Ottawa had begun an investigation of the incident and therefore he could not say what demands the convicts made or what concessions, if any, had been made.

He said earlier the rebels were not trying to escape and denied suggestions that overcrowding and understaffing were the cause of the incream, whipped Additional whipped cream

City accepts assistant manager's resignation

AROL DANIEL Staff Writer

g assistant city manager, azelle, resigned yesterday after eight years employment by the City of Big Spring to become city manager of Lamesa. Feazelle's last day in the office will be Nov. 19, according to his letter of resignation.

Davis said "We don't yet know how we're going to handle" filling 'eazelle's position and that he was in hurry because "people on the (city) staff can assume some of his responsibilities. We've got some time to work on that before he leaves. We'll take time to find a qualified person to take his place.

Feazeile said "I hate the thought of leaving Big Spring, but this career opportunity is one I cannot pass up. Feazelle said he feels qualified to be a city manager because he has "been inmy current position four years" and his father was in city management 40 years. "It's been a part of my life all my life." Feazelle was originally employed as administrative assis-

Davis said "I'm very happy and proud of Paul. This is a tremendous career move. Politically, he's got a real good opportunity there. But the flip side is we sure hate to lose someone of his quality and ability.'

The assistant city manager is primarily responsible for city contract services, such as Moss Lake and the tennis center, and for internal administration of city employees, Davis

Lester Roloff killed in crash

By KEN LANTERMAN Harte-Hanks News Service

NORMANGEE - Corpus Christi evangelist Lester Roloff and four women were killed Tuesday morning when the single engine craft Roloff was piloting crashed in a field three miles north of here.

The 68-year-old Roloff, a fire-and-brimstone preacher and owner of three homes for troubled youth, has been in an eight-year licensing battle with the State of Texas over

He and the women were killed upon impact when their 210 Cessna Centurion went down at about 10:30 a.m., according to officials at the scene of the crash, which is about 30 miles north of Bryan.

A Federal Aviation Administration official from Houston, who arrived at the scene late Tuesday afternoon to inspect the wreckage, said he could not comment on the cause of the crash.

A cold front was passing across the state near the time of the crash, but officials would not say immediately that the weather may have affected flying conditions.

The four women reported dead were Susan Lynn Smith, 28, Elaine Wingert, 30, Cheryl Palmer, in her early 20s, and Enola Slade, also in her early 20s, according to Department of Public Safety Communications Officer

NCPAC misses most targets

WASHINGTON - The National Conservative Political Action Committee, which gained notoriety in 1980 for shooting down Senate liberals, missed nearly all its targeted incumbents for 1982 despite a multi-million dollar campaign of negative advertising.

Another well-financed conservative group organized by Republican Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina fared as poorly despite its equally impressive campaign chest, as 15 of 18 endorsed House and Senate candidates went down to defeat and two others were trailing in tight races.

NCPAC - known as "Nickpack" - spent an estimated $4 million to repeat the controversial campaign technique it pioneered so successfully in 1980 - tough political attacks on 34 Senate and House members targeted for defeat.

But the ploy seemed to backfire this time, and even some of the challengers who stood to benefit from NCPAC's independent campaign said their cause wal

Fifteen of the 17 senators on NCPAC's hit list were reelected Tuesday night and one other clung to a narrow lead. Only one target lost — Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada

The story was the same in the House, where 16 of 17targets won re-election and the 17th was leading.

Surviving the NCPAC attacks, easily in most cases, were 13 Democrats: Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Paul Sarbanes of Maryland. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio, Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York and George Mitchell of Maine, Jim Sasser of Tennessee, Donald Riegle of Michigan, Dennis DeConcini of Arizona, Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, John Melcher of Montana and Spark Matsunaga of Hawaii.

Republican targets Lowell Weicker of Connecticut and Robert Stafford of Vermont also were victorious in their re-election bids, while fellow Republican John Chafee of Rhode Island held a narrow

Among the House Democratic leaders to best NCPAC attacks were Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas, Majority Whip Thomas Foley Washington, Appropriations Committee Chairman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, Ways and Means Committee Chairman

Rostenkowski of Illinois and Budget Committee Chairman James Jones of Oklahoma. NCPAC had spent more than $200,000 against Wright and more than $100,000 against Jones. NCPAC, one of the most effective political fund-raising organizations in the country, spent more than $650,000 to defeat Sarbanes and more than $500,000 to oust Kennedy, but each won handily.

In fact, NCPAC's campaign against Sarbanes became a major issue in that race. Sarbanes repeatedly assailed the questionable tactics of an outside political force, while GOP opponent Lawrence Hogan disowned the conservative group, which had endorsed him.

"We were victims of an unprecedented assault by extremist forces which came into this state trying to manipulate the voters," Sarbanes said in his victory speech Tuesday night.
