Charge added to desegregation suit

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Independent School District's desegregation saga continues.

New developments Friday in the U.S. Justice Department's lawsuit charging discrimination within the BSISD's current school system policies produced both good and possibly bad news for the district.

Friday, the Justice Department filed a complaint in federal court in Abilene, adding to a civil rights suit filed against the district in September, 1980.

The federal government maintains in the original suit that the district has been busing 150 rural students past Bauer Elementary School, a predominately minority school, to Washington Elementary, which is largely white anglo. The Justice Department charges the busing plan was drawn to ensure Washington remains segregated.

The new count added to the suit says the busing arrangement violates the 1974 Equal Educational Opportunity Act which forbids the assignment of a student to a school other than the one closest to his home if it results in greater racial segregation.

Justice Department officials said the group of rural students being bused is about two-thirds white Anglo and one-third Mexican-American. Bauer has about 175 Mexican-American and Black students in grades one through five, while Washington, with about 400 students, is about two-thirds Anglo and one-third Black and Hispanic.

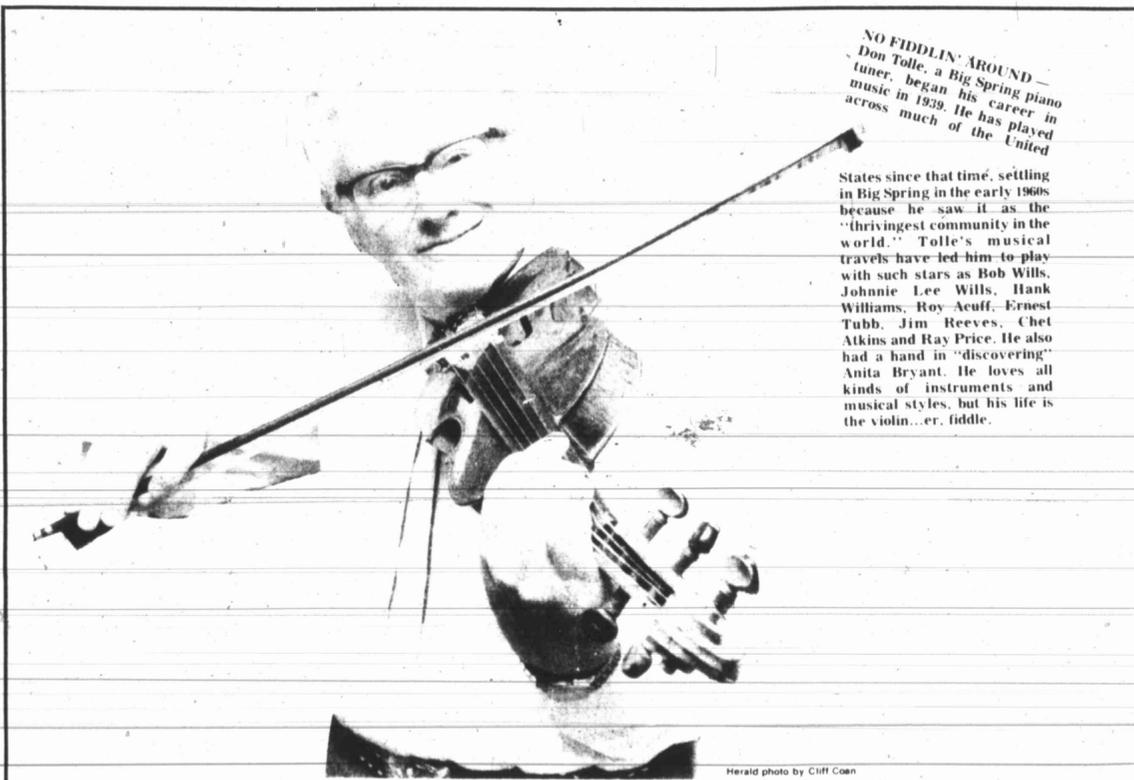

On the heels of the Justice Department's additional charge, BSISD attorney Guil Jones III issued a press release stating the district "had reached a tentative agreement in principle" with the government that would settle current litigation including the new count added Friday.

The new plan calls for the expansion of educational opportunities for students regularly attending Bauer Elementary with no mention of mandatory busing.

Jones said the district's trustees were made aware of

NO FIDDLIN' AROUND — Don Tolle, a Big Spring piano tuner, began his career in music in 1939. He has played across much of the United States since that time, settling in Big Spring in the early 1960s because he saw it as the "thrivingest community in the world." Tolle's musical travels have led him to play with such stars as Bob Wills, Johnnie Lee Wills, Hank Williams, Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb, Jim Reeves, Chet Atkins and Ray Price. He also had a hand in "discovering" Anita Bryant. He loves all kinds of instruments and musical styles, but his life is the violin...er, fiddle.

Fiddling in time

Don Tolle learned music and played with the greats

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

"The first thing I remember was watching my father sit in a chair playing a fiddle," says Don Tolle, a Big Spring piano tuner.

His first memory foreshadowed the direction his life would take from the house in the Seminole, Okla. oil fields where he watched his daddy play.

Tolle's musical talent may have had its roots in his heredity — both his grandfathers played the fiddle, and his mother played the organ in the country church — but it remained to him to pursue that talent.

And pursue it he did, across most of the United States, playing western swing with the greats.

A list of the people he's played with covers many country music stars of the time — Bob Wills, Johnnie Lee Wills, Hank Williams, Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb, Jim Reeves, Chet Atkins, Ray Price, Cowboy Copas, Red Foley, Lefty Frizzel and Webb Pierce, to name a few.

In 1930, Tolle — just six years old at the time — already was playing drums in a grade school band.

"They put me on the back row because I was ugly," he laughs, pointing to a faded newspaper clipping.

During the depression, Seminole was "an oil boom town," Tolle says. "All the prostitutes, gamblers and musicians followed the boom."

His father was a pipeliner for Gulf, and his brother was a jazz guitarist, Tolle says. Drifting musicians were frequent guests at the Tolle house.

"They came from the big bands back east," he explains, "they couldn't hold a job for one reason or another, and they'd come out and play with me and stick around until mamma cooked supper."

From those impromptu lessons at the hands of hungry musicians, Tolle's father — who had designs for his son to become a concert violinist — arranged for his son to take lessons from an organization called the National Institute of Music.

"They were real teachers," Tolle says, "They'd come around to the classrooms after school."

"Of course, Bob Wills moved to Oklahoma in 1934 and screwed up everybody's mind," Tolle jokes. "Until then, everybody who played the FIDDLE was a hillbilly."

Wills' "western swing" was basically "jazz played on a stringed instrument," Tolle says. The music had an immense attraction for him and the rest of the United States.

"My father and I had a terrible argument in 1937," Tolle says, "over my dropping out of classical music to play western swing. I told him I had no place in life to play — I was too good to play with the bad ones (bands) and not good enough for the good ones."

On Valentine's night, 1939, he was offered his first job.

"A guy drove up and asked me if I wanted to play in his 12-piece orchestra," he says. "He told

Who wields Texas power?

Bankers, builders, politicians

By TERRY LEONARD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — All top vote-getters in an Associated Press survey of the most powerful Texans are wealthy businessmen accustomed to bankrolling candidates, champion fundraisers or politicians adept at courting the other two.

The 15 men tied for places in the top ten most powerful Texans included politicians such as Gov. Bill Clements, Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, Vice President George Bush, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

First in a series

Former Govs. John Connally and Allan Shivers made the list as did Houston developer Walter Mischer, construction magnate H.B. Zachary, oilman T. Boone Pickens, timber baron Arthur Temple, shipping and construction tycoon George Brown, super banker Ben Love, Dallas lawyer Jess Hay and chief Aggie H.R. "Bum" Bright.

The survey, completed before the election but withheld so as not to constitute any endorsement, asked editors and publishers at about 90 Texas newspapers to identify the most powerful people in and around their cities.

The 168 people identified by the newspapers then picked the most powerful Texans. They described a mixed bag of politicians and entrepreneurs whose influence stems from position, wealth and forceful personalities.

The survey reflects the opinion of powerful people in every corner of Texas, and because of its subjective nature the results cannot be presented in any order of the first, second or third most powerful. However, 15 men clearly drew enough votes to tie for places among the top ten.

Former Ambassador Anne Armstrong, Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire, Lady Bird Johnson and Houston Post Chairman and Editor Ovetta Culp Hobby were identified as the four most powerful women in Texas, but they were not among the top 10 overall vote-getters.

Although they weren't listed in the top 10, the survey also gave high marks to House Majority Leader Jim Wright, Gov.-elect Mark White, San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, White House Chief of Staff Jim Reagan drops East-West sanctions on trade

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Reagan on Saturday dropped the trade sanctions his administration imposed after the military crackdown in Poland, citing "substantial agreement" with industrialized U.S. allies on a common and more restrictive approach to East-West trade.

The agreement did not meet Reagan's original conditions for lifting the sanctions and France said it was "not a party" to any agreement. The president had said he would not reverse course until martial law had been lifted in Poland, and the military regime there had released all political prisoners and opened a dialogue with the Solidarity trade movement.

"We have agreed not to engage in trade arrangements which contribute to the military or strategic advantage of the U.S.S.R. or serve to preferentially aid the heavily militarized Soviet economy," Reagan said in a nationally broadcast radio

A senior U.S. official, speaking privately, said before the communique was issued that all of the partners in the long negotiating process were in substantial agreement.

BSHS shows top color guard

LUBBOCK — The Big Spring High School twirling, flag and rifle lines outdistanced 31 other teams Saturday at the South Plains Color Guard competition in Lubbock to win the overall sweepstakes award.

The twirling line won first place with a score of 71 points out of a possible 100; the flag lines took top honors in its division with a score of 81; and the rifle line was number one with an almost perfect score of 92.

Dec. 1 targeted as date for certified tax roll

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors learned Dec. 1 was the target date for a certified tax roll from the district office. The board met in regular session Wednesday.

The board also approved the reimbursement of 14 district employees with a Social Security refund. The money was refunded from the government when it was discovered employees were not required to contribute to the fund.

Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira estimated the total refund would be "in the neighborhood of $15,000."

In other action, the board approved the establishment of a Simplified Employee Pension plan for district full-time employees. The HCTAD board also directed Pereira to examine the legality of eliminating part-time employees from the SEP plan. The board also instructed Pereira to proceed with his investment schedule of certificates of deposit in order to have fund when needed.

me if I'd audition, I'd more than likely get the job. I found out later that if you ask a really accomplished musician to audition, it's considered an insult.

"At the time, I didn't even know what an audition was," he says, "so I told him I didn't audition. He said, 'okay, you're hired.'"

Shortly thereafter, Tolle was in high cotton. He was making three dollars a night playing fiddle—at a time when the average income was a dollar a day. Naturally, he was living a life too old for his 15 years.

"I became a full-fledged, pedigreed punk," he says. "At 15, I thought I was the smartest thing I had my own car and all that."

His musicianship carried little weight with his teachers, though.

"My grades ..." he says with a smile, "I just couldn't figure out how knowing the value of pi would help me play that stupid fiddle."

In August of 1941, Tolle received his first invitation to play with Johnnie Lee Wills, brother of Bob Wills. Earlier that same month, he had gone to a nearby Naval recruiting office.

"I didn't think they'd take me," he said, "I was underweight and all."

However, a letter arrived in the mail two days before he was to play for Wills, telling him to report to the Naval office in Oklahoma City.

After a stint in the Navy at places such as Guadalcanal, Komandorski, Wake Island, the Gilbert Islands, the Marshall Islands and the Aleutians, Tolle was diagnosed as having contracted tuberculosis.

"I lost a lung because of that," he says, showing how his left chest inflates and his right doesn't.

He was discharged on Oct. 18, 1944. Tolle played "various local bands" until he went to KGW radio in Portland as a staff musician in 1945.

"One day, Bob Wills came through town and heard us on the radio," he says. "He walked in right in the middle of a broadcast and nearly scared me to death."

Wills offered him a job playing fiddle, but Tolle turned it down because he didn't want to leave the band he was playing in. "So Bob took the whole band to California," Tolle says.

However, Tolle's lung wouldn't take the strain, and he had to quit and return to Oklahoma.

His lung would bother him throughout his career. "I'd work a year or two years," he says. "Then I'd have to take off and rest up. I felt like I was basically intended to be a concert violinist, but because of my health, everytime I'd get a chance for a promotion, I'd have to go back to the hospital."

Tolle worked other bands in various places and was in Amarillo in 1951.

"Johnnie Lee Wills called me and told me to come back to Tulsa," he said. "He needed a guitar man, and he said, 'why don't you move back, and we'll see how we like you and how you like us.'"

Tolle played with Wills for five separate periods over the next 12 years.

"We played everywhere in the U.S. except New England," he said.

When he quit the last time, it was to take a job with KVOO-TV in Tulsa, where he had his own band and his own show.

In a Tulsa drugstore one day, a lady walked up with her teenage daughter. "She said she had a talented daughter who would like to audition for a guest spot on the program," he says.

Tolle didn't control auditions, but he introduced her to the music director, who approved the girl for the show.

The girl was Anita Bryant.

When the television show ended its run, Tolle went back on the road with Johnnie Lee Wills. Big Spring was on the itinerary.

"We were playing the NCO club out at Webb," Tolle said, "just before Christmas in 1960. We were staying in the old Crawford Hotel, and looking out the window at the people on the sidewalk, it looked like a carnival. I thought this had to be the thrivingest community in the world."

The memory stuck with him, and after he returned to Oklahoma and married his wife, Clara Lee, Tolle returned to Big Spring to play with Hoyle Nix in 1962.

Out of the seven men playing for the band in 1962, within a short time, two of the single men were killed and three of the four married men got divorces.

Tolle thought it was time to leave the business. "I grabbed my wife and kids and went into the business of teaching, piano tuning and repairing and selling instruments," he says.

Making the transition from playing the "tonks," as Tolle calls them, to being a private citizen was tough.

"Working in the bands you run into a lot of characters ... riff-raff," he explains. "You tend to forget there are people around, honest people, like Loran Warren, Arnold Lloyd, Dr. Clyde Thomas and Kenneth Patrick ... they've sure done a lot for me."

Tolle even dabbled in the instrument designing business for a while. With the aid of Denver Pettit, a local craftsman, he designed and built a violin—a five string violin with a deeper than normal sound.

The new settlement proposal in a recent executive session. The trustees will meet at 5:15 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18 to vote on the new proposal.

Negotiations were reopened after the board narrowly voted to reject a settlement last summer—which had been approved by government—calling for the busing of the 150 students in question to Bauer instead of Washington where they now attend school.

Jones said the new proposal eliminates the plan of busing the 150 rural students from Washington to Bauer that the trustees and portions of the community found objectionable. And in its place "is a concept that the board members view as a positive step in enhancing the quality of elementary education in Big Spring public schools," he said.

"If adopted, the new plan calls for entirely new educational opportunities to be implemented on the Bauer Elementary School campus for students regularly attending that school," Jones said.

"First, enhanced and specialized instructions will be made available in selected subject areas at Bauer," Jones said. "Second, a so-called 'extended day' program will be added on that campus whereby special courses and activities will be offered from 3-5 p.m. (after regular class hours) to Bauer students."

The special programs will be available only to students regularly assigned to Bauer, however, students in other Baker, computer magnate H. Ross Perot, Dallas developer Trammell Crow, Fort Worth's Perry Bass, former Houston Mayor Louie Welch and the enormously wealthy Hunt brothers, Nelson and Bunker.

The ship of state in Texas, mused one powerful Texan, is a super-tanker. The survey showed that basically only two kinds of people pilot that ship, those with money and those who know how to raise it.

"The business of America," President Calvin Coolidge once said, "is business." And nowhere but Texas is the relationship between government and business so purposefully close.

"If business does well, everybody will do well," said Mischler.

"Our air doesn't smell like cancer," Houston's Welch once said while defending his business-oriented city's environmental record. "It smells like bacon and eggs, jobs, the fresh green smell of money."

It's just that leafy green aroma of wealth that shapes the destiny of Texas and rules the men who, like Shivers, govern it by brokering power quietly or with a flair stereotypically Texan.

"Allan Shivers," said one observer, "... blends charm, logic, persuasion and economic power with such grace that he is universally respected. I have observed meetings of powerful men that would still to hear the quiet voice of Allan Shivers."

But his style contrasts sharply with that of Connally, the consummate Texas wheeler-dealer, or Clements, the tough, abrasive, outspoken and now outgoing governor of Texas.

Bush, survey respondents said, ranks high because of his proximity to the presidency. The same is true for Baker, the Houston lawyer who as White House chief of staff has great influence as a member of the president's inner circle.

Hobby's influence extends from his family's ownership of the Houston Post and from his position as the presiding officer of the Texas Senate, which one survey respondent described as "constitutionally the most powerful elected official in Texas."

Perhaps less widely known are the Texans who from the privacy of the executive suite wield considerable economic power for the benefit of themselves and others in Texas' business community.

"Nothing happens in San Antonio, and not much happens in Texas, without undergoing the purview and approval of Mr. Zachary," one West Texan said of the aging San Antonio construction magnate. "... It is his business to know, and he does know, about who can and who can't produce in state and local governments."

It is the money of men like Zachary, Mischer, Brown and Pickens that exerts extraordinary statewide influence by furthering the political ambitions of candidates in tune with their staunchly conservative philosophy.

Individually the Texans selected by the survey may be polished or brusque, reserved or flamboyant, shrewd or reserved.

Police Beat

Two arrested in drug case

After executing a search and arrest warrant, police arrested Derrill W. Pope, 22, and Cherie L. Pope, 18, both of 1213 E. 17th, for suspicion of possession of marijuana over four ounces at 9:09 p.m. Friday. Police said they discovered three pounds of marijuana at the residence.

The Popes were later released on $10,000 bond each after arraigned before City Judge Melvin Darratt.

Gary Hale reported that someone stole a tailgate from a GMC pickup truck parked at 1101 W. Fourth between 6 p.m. and 9 a.m. Thursday night.

Lydia Juarez reported to police Friday at 9:45 p.m. that Amando Lopez was hit in the head by a person known to her at the house in back of 1217 W. Sixth.

Don Lindsay reported the theft of a AM-FM radio-cassette stereo from his car parked at 11th and Goliad Friday night.

John Michael Davidson told police that a tenant living at No. 13 April Lane in the Crestwood Trailer Court had taken several items of furniture from the dwelling without Davidson's consent.

Sandra Morrison of the Southland Apartments complained to police that at 6:30 p.m. Friday three black females entered her home and struck her about the head, face and shoulders. Ms. Morrison said one of the suspects displayed a knife and threatened her with it.

Danny Pernicario of St. Louis, Mo. told police that between 4 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday someone broke into his vehicle parked on the Homestead Inn parking lot and stole five coats, a Fender amp and miscellaneous carpenter tools.

Wayne De Vore of De Vore's Exxon at Highway 87 and Interstate 20 reported someone had stolen about eight tires between 5 p.m. and 7 a.m. Friday.

Police said a trailer being towed by Arnold Dean Revis of Bastrop struck two traffic light in the 1100 block of Goliad Friday at 3:55 p.m. No injuries were reported.

Police said a Chevrolet Camaro driven by Beryl Quinn Richardson of 1612 Bluebird and a Yamaha dirt-bike driven by Clarence Dewayne Trawick collided at 2:25 p.m. Friday on the south service road of Interstate 20. Police reports show Trawick was possibly injured, but refused treatment.

Soviets to plot new course?

MOSCOW (AP) — Yuri V. Andropov, the new Soviet Communist Party leader, may change his country's foreign and domestic policies despite vows to follow the course set by the late Leonid I. Brezhnev during his 18 years in power.

Related story, page 12-A

Experts believe the Soviet economy is in such poor condition that the 68-year-old former KGB secret-police chief may have little choice but to try experiments in free enterprise and decentralization which Brezhnev resisted.

As for foreign policy, Andropov may prove more willing to compromise — but only if the United States signals it is ready to match any concessions.

If Andropov is looking for any conciliatory signal from Washington, he could find it in the announcement Saturday by President Reagan that the United States is lifting sanctions on the Soviet natural-gas pipeline to Western Europe. Reagan imposed the sanctions in response to Moscow's support for martial law in Poland.

When Andropov first was chosen to succeed Brezhnev as head of the ruling party, he showed no sign of dropping the Kremlin's position that it must continue building military strength.

"We know well that the imperialists will never meet one's pleas for peace," he said in his first speech two days after Brezhnev's death Wednesday. "It can only be defended by relying on the invincible might of the Soviet armed forces."

The Friday address to the Communist Party Central Committee dropped all references to Brezhnev's policy of East-West détente and stressed Brezhnev's practice of "ensuring that the country's defense capability meets present day requirements."

But a top Western diplomat on Saturday warned not to place too much significance in Andropov's first foreign policy pronouncements.

"It's too early to think in terms of specific policy changes," said the diplomat, who asked not to be further identified.

On domestic policy, Andropov said Friday, "it is our prime duty to accomplish" policies set under Brezhnev's leadership.

"One area in which no one expects change is internal dissent. Andropov ran the KGB for 15 years, when virtually all vocal dissidents were jailed, exiled or expelled."

But with the economy expected to show the worst performance since World War II and the nation suffering its fourth consecutive poor grain harvest, Andropov may see the need to at least alter Brezhnev's economic policy.

Diplomatic observers say the system has been plagued by stagnation in decision-making for months because of political uncertainties first raised by Brezhnev's poor health. Many economic managers are said to be disillusioned by the nation's slow industrial growth.

CONFESSED KILLER CAUGHT — Bruce A. Davis waits to board a plane at the airport near Beckley, W. Va. to be returned to a maximum security penitentiary. He escaped Oct. 24.

Man confesses to 31 killings

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP) — A 34-year-old man who "knows he did wrong and thinks he should pay for it" has confessed to killing 31 people, many of them professional men with whom he had sexual encounters, authorities said Saturday.

Bruce A. Davis, a drifter who had been arrested in West Virginia and found to be an escapee from an Illinois prison where he was serving time for two killings, said he killed 30 men from 1969 to 1971, according to Fayette County Sheriff's Cpl. Charles Bryant.

In addition, he confessed to the death of a prison guard, who was found axed after Davis' escape, police said. The total number also includes the two people he was convicted of killing.

Police from Illinois, New York City, Los Angeles, Reno, Nev., and Washington, D.C., interviewed Davis in his Fayette County jail cell and are investigating his confessions of killings in their areas, according to Capt. Terry Delaney of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement.

In addition, Virginia authorities want to question Davis about a killing there, said Fayette Prosecutor Paul M. Blake Jr.

Davis has not been charged in any of the deaths. Authorities have confirmed that 12 of the slayings occurred, Bryant said.

According to Bryant, Davis claimed that he strangled or shot his victims, all of them white, professional males whom he hadn't known previously, in hotel rooms or in woods.

Davis said he had homosexual relations with many of them, according to Sheriff's Cpl. H. E. Hill.

"He wrote on two of the bodies 'death to all queers'" in felt tip pen on their buttocks, Hill said.

"I know this sounds like a Halloween story but it's true," Hill said.

"He said he had sex with them and afterward it just disgusted him," said Bryant.

Hill said Davis "was just a drifter. He would take odd jobs, pick up guys in bars, pick up hitchhikers."

Davis was returned Saturday to Chester, Ill., where he is wanted in the slaying of a worker at Menard Correctional Center, a maximum security facility, from which he escaped Oct. 24 while on a farm detail. The prison farm foreman was found axed to death not far from a farm storage building outside the prison walls, Bryant said.

Davis was being returned to Illinois to face an escape warrant, Delaney said. He said police also would seek a murder warrant against Davis in the death of the foreman, 52-year-old Joseph Cushman.

Mission specialist reported ill

Columbia space walk delayed

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Mission specialist William Lenoir, suffering from nausea, called in sick on Saturday — prompting flight officials to put off for one day the space walk he was scheduled to take early Sunday with another space shuttle crewmen.

Lenoir became the sixth of NASA's first 12 shuttle astronauts to be struck with motion sickness, the malaise of weightlessness. He and Joseph Allen had already unstowed their equipment for the outdoors exercise when Houston sent word of the postponement.

"We looked at it and said let's give them another day and not push it," said flight director John Cox.

The space walk is the only important flight objective remaining for the crew of Columbia before their return Tuesday. Shuttle communicator Jon McBride told the astronauts that Mission Control was taking advantage of flight "flexibility" in hopes Lenoir would be fully recovered for the strenuous, 3 1/2-hour space walk.

"The report we had was he wasn't up to 100 percent yet," Cox said. "Right now he's on the mend."

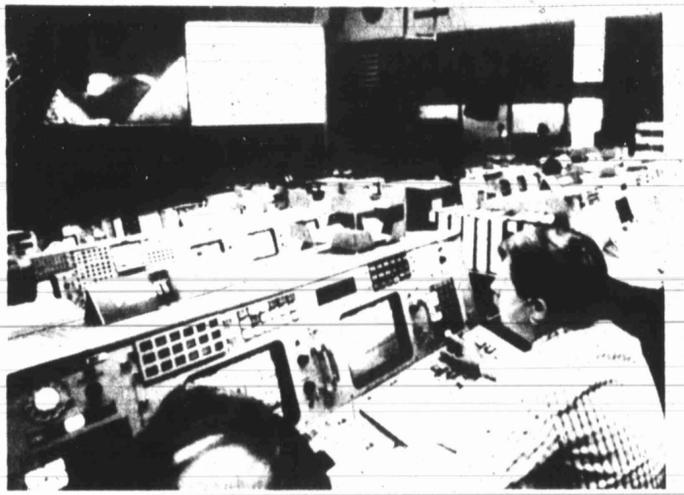

The flight director said that, if it became absolutely necessary, Allen might take the space walk alone. "We would like to do it, and do it with two men," he said, "but we would go ahead with one."

Cox said also that extending the flight by a day — or even two — to get in a two-man space walk "is always an option" but no consideration had yet been given to that. Columbia has enough "consumables" aboard for at least two extra days.

On the shuttle's third flight, bad weather at the landing site caused NASA officials to extend the flight by one day.

Lead director Tommy Holloway said the mission agenda provided "no overriding reason" not to delay the space walk — originally scheduled for 8 a.m. EST. "If it becomes prudent, we will wait," he told reporters.

"We're looking forward to the EVA tomorrow," commander Vance Brand said pointedly on Saturday. Communications with Earth were done for the day before Jon McBride broke the silence to tell Brand the decision to swap Sunday's activities with Monday's.

"That's affirmative," said Brand.

If Lenoir had to be sick, Saturday was a good day for it. So little work was scheduled that the astronauts pressed Houston not once, but twice, for news of home. The headlines hadn't penetrated Mission Control, however, and an official was sent off for an Associated Press summary.

"The biggest news is the new secretary-general of the Communist Party" in the Soviet Union, flight communicator Michael Coats finally told the astronauts. He also read items about Poland's Lech Walesa, the march of Vietnam veterans and the National Football League strike. He ticked off some college games, promising scores later. "Sure appreciate that," said pilot Robert Overmyer. Indianan Joe Allen asked for the Wabash-Delpaw score.

Earlier, Overmyer had offered condolences to the Soviet people for Wednesday's death of Leonid Brezhnev.

"There's a little known story that I'll tell you," he told Mission Control, about "how President Brezhnev ... wearing my silver astronaut pin."

Overmyer was on the Apollo-Soyuz 1975 support crew and made several trips to the Soviet Union. At a Kremlin reception, he recalled, "The Soviet delegation gave the American delegation a number of items. We weren't prepared and I took off my silver astronaut pin" for Brezhnev.

Shultz treated after food lodges in throat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz was treated at a hospital Saturday after a piece of food became lodged in his throat at lunch. The incident forced him to postpone his departure for the Moscow funeral of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

State Department spokesman Joe Reap said Shultz experienced a "coughing fit" during lunch in his dining room at the department and was driven to George Washington University Hospital about five blocks away, away from the funeral.

Shultz, 56, walked into the emergency room where "normal emergency procedures were conducted for an object in the throat," including an X-ray, said Reap. The secretary was sent on his way after doctors succeeded in dislodging the obstruction after about two hours.

Begin seeking American Jewish support

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin sought support from the American Jewish community here Saturday before his first meeting with President Reagan since Israel sent troops into Lebanon.

But he faced strong anti-Israeli sentiment over the Lebanon crisis, and authorities were braced for clashes between Palestinian supporters and militant Jewish groups.

The Committee to Oppose the Begin Visit, a coalition supporting Palestinians, said an end to U.S. aid for Israel would be a key demand of its protest Saturday night outside the Bonaventure Hotel, where Begin was to address 3,000 delegates to the Jewish Federation Council's annual meeting.

Committee spokeswoman Phyllis Bennis said her group also was calling for Palestinian self-determination and complete Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon.

Mordechai Levy of the militant Jewish Defense Organization said he expected about 400 counter-demonstrators to "confront" the pro-Palestinians.

Begin was to appear on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation" on Sunday morning and attend an Israel Bonds dinner Sunday night.

Car bomb kills 8

SHWEIFAT, Lebanon (AP) — Two cars packed with explosives blew up Saturday near the international airport guarded by U.S. Marines, and police said eight Arabs were killed and 16 wounded, most of them in this Israeli-occupied town.

The blasts came as the Tel Aviv command announced that 75 Israelis were killed in the explosion Thursday that flattened the Israeli military headquarters in the southern Lebanese city of Tyre. It was the worst disaster in Israel's history, and Israel declared Monday a day of mourning.

An Israeli military command spokesman in Tel Aviv said altogether 90 people died in the Tyre explosion, including 15 Arabs. Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan, the military chief of staff, said the cause remained undetermined.

Most of the casualties in Saturday's blasts came when a car-bomb shattered a cluster of shops near a Lebanese police station and a pinball arcade in this Israeli-occupied town five miles south of Beirut's center.

Police said seven Lebanese civilians were killed and 13 wounded in the Shweifat explosion. The Marines, encamped about one mile west of the explosion site, were untruffed as they patrolled the airport's perimeter. There were no reports of U.S. injuries.

"It was a car-bomb outside our territory, so there's not much we can react to," said Marine spokesman Lt. Col. Jon Abel of Dumfries, Va.

Asked whether the 1,200 Marines guarding the airport had beefed up their security after the blast, Abel said, "We do not beef up with more people. These (car-bombings) have happened before. We occasionally hear firefights, too. We just maintain our normal watches."

The charred remains of a small brown car, which police said was laden with about 130 pounds of explosives, lay opposite a devastated pinball machine recreation center where most of the casualties occurred in the blast at 1:55 p.m. (6:56 a.m. EST).

Q. I've heard of "The Three C's" — what lenders look at in a mortgage application. One of the C's must be credit, but what are the other two?

A. Credit is the first of the three C's. The other two are Character and Capacity according to the National Association of Realtors. The three C's are self-explanatory (with the possible exception of Capacity, which is your capacity to withstand debt liability). The problem is demonstrating to the lending institution how your particular "Three C's" fare. To do that, the N.A.R. suggests you go prepared with your job history, credit references, a listing of outstanding debts, savings, life insurance policies and proof of your income. All forms of income, including part-time jobs, alimony and child support payments will be considered.

Some facts about drivers who drink

The Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council wants you to know some facts about drunk driving in Texas.

- One half of all traffic accidents involve a driver who has been drinking.
- It is estimated that on any weekday in Texas, one out of 50 drivers has been drinking or is drunk. On weekends, this ratio climbs to one in 10.
- Last year there were 36,774 reported accidents in Texas that were the result of DWI — more than 100 per day.
- Twenty-three percent of all traffic deaths in 1981 involved drunk driving. The 10-year total of DWI related deaths in Texas is 19,000 — more than the population of many Texas cities.

TEXANS SHOULD BE outraged at this senseless destruction by drunk drivers. For too long, society has permitted innocent persons to be killed on our highways, because it is easier to ignore the DWI problem than to face it.

People have been led to believe that DWI is not really a crime, and the drunken driver is not really a criminal, but this is not true.

For the month of November, the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council is focusing its state-wide "Crime of the Month" on DWI. No reward is offered. Instead, the Council urges you to support local and statewide efforts to reduce the number of drunk drivers on Texas highways.

Every Texan must make a personal commitment to help put an end to this tragedy. Together we can prevent the drunk driver from spreading further death and destruction on our highways.

Becoming American

Hunger for Memory: The Education of Richard Rodriguez (Godine, 195 p. $13.95).

"Hunger for Memory" is an account of a life — a 37-year-old Mexican-American writer's — that so far has been neither long nor noisy. However, the book is of interest because, as the author says, it is "necessarily political in the conventional sense, for public issues... have bisected my life and changed its course."

The principal issues in question have been those raised by the Federal Government backing of bilingual education for children whose first language is not English, and affirmative action programs for minority students in higher education.

Rodriguez, although he was born in a Spanish-speaking family and has been the beneficiary of affirmative action, argues against both bilingual schooling and preferential treatment of minority students.

But "Hunger for Memory" is much more than political. It tells a straightforward story with a moving simplicity and in a style that has the lightness of clarity which can only be achieved by a scrupulous care for words. The title is rather arty and represents a tendency that sidesteps the narrative once in a while. But this book is a pleasure to read because it has actually been written — not just poured out of the top of the author's head or chattered out of a typewriter or into a tape recorder.

LANGUAGE. It appears, is Rodriguez's predominant passion; as he says, "the great subject of my life." In this book, the recollections of that life begin with his enrollment more than 30 years ago in the first grade of the Sacred Heart parochial school in Sacramento, Calif.

Six-year-old Rodriguez was the third child and second son of devout, level-headed and hard-working Mexican immigrants. His father and mother are still more comfortable speaking Spanish than English, but when their children were small they deliberately moved from a Chicano neighborhood to live "among gringos," the people they also called "los americanos."

Nowadays, the Rodriguez children are thoroughly American. His older brother is a lawyer, his two sisters are businesswomen. Richard Rodriguez, after two decades of schooling that put a promising university career within his reach, is a part-time writer who lives in San Francisco and takes other jobs only "to support my habit of writing."

UNLIKE HIS brothers and sisters, Rodriguez was not assimilated into the American mainstream without a great deal of uneasy introspection. He says he has the dark skin of a man who has just returned from skiing in the Swiss Alps, and when he was a boy, this troubled him.

He is still troubled by the conviction that he has been educated away from his parents' culture and is therefore inevitably alienated from them. One of his friends complained that his writings have too much of "all that Spanish angst."

But as Rodriguez sees it, that anxiety was the price he had to pay as he moved from what he calls the private world of his Spanish-speaking family to the public world in which he became what he is now — a highly-educated middle-class American.

His father and mother, Rodriguez writes, "are no longer my parents in a cultural sense." Like any separation, this one was painful but he thinks it was necessary. "Only when I was able to think of myself as an American, no longer an alien in gringo society, could I seek the rights and opportunities necessary for full public individuality." He is grateful to the Sisters of Mercy in the Sacred Heart school who required him to become proficient in English as quickly as possible.

BECAUSE Rodriguez is an artist he has managed to tell — in a profoundly analytic memoir — a specific American story in a way that draws easily into the light certain universal truths about the process of growing up.

There is a good chance that "Hunger for Memory" will still be read a century from now. It will have survived, however, not because of some forgotten public issues that once dissected Rodriguez's life, but because his history of that life has something to say about what it means to be an American, a Catholic and a human.

Well, ring my bell

Lynn Hise, Big Spring's superintendent of schools, has always impressed me as an intelligent, unassuming man of quiet demeanor, a wise man who is in perfect control of his job and his life, and a man who diligently serves the community by working in various organizations.

So you can imagine my surprise last week when I discovered he was a musician.

Aren't musicians temperamental, eccentric and a little bit wild? Aren't they alternately moody and flashy — introspective yet craving the limelight?

LAST TUESDAY, several persons including Sam Ainsworth, Jerry Worthy, LeRoy Tillery, myself and others were waiting for a Symphony Association board meeting to begin, when Hise casually mentioned he had worked his way through college by playing the trumpet in a "Big Band."

My ears instantly pricked up, and my doodling pen suddenly had purpose as Ainsworth and Worthy began to pump Hise for more information.

"It was an 18-piece band," Hise said. "You know the old hangar between Midland and Odessa off Highway 80? We used to play there once a month. It was so thick you couldn't stir 'em with a stick. Then the last Saturday of every month we'd play at Odessa Country Club for two years."

HOW MUCH money did he make? "We'd make $12 to $14 apiece," he said. "We really made money during the Christmas holidays. We played 15 dances during one holiday season. I remember we played for a private dance at a ranchhouse out of Marfa from 2 to 5 one afternoon, then drove to Kermit and played there that night."

"During the Christmas holidays I'd make enough to pay my room, board and tuition for the spring semester." He was a student at Sul Ross. He remembered playing at Marfa right after World War II. "A man would come up and pay us $10 apiece to play another hour. He paid us $180." Of his traveling music life, Hise admitted, "I couldn't live like that anymore."

THEN CAME another bombshell that totally destroyed my stereotyped image of Mr. Hise. He had been a band director for 12 years before he went into school administration. "Yes, my bachelor's degree is in music," he said.

"Most music people are looked on as eccentric," he said. "But I believe the training I got as a band director for 12 years helped me become a better administrator."

He recalled one four-year period when the Iraan band which he directed played at the Tri-State Band Festival in Enid, Okla., the Buccaneer Days Festival in Corpus Christi, the State Fair in Dallas, and the Battle of Flowers Parade in San Antonio. "Those four trips took four years off my lifespan," he said.

WHICH GOES to show, a newspaper editor can get her columns from the most unexpected places, even at a symphony board meeting. Better watch what you say when you're around me. I'm all ears.

Was Reaganomics rejected?

Surveying the landscape after last week's election, Ronald Reagan resembles the general who, told that he was faced on every side by superior forces, replied manfully: "Well, they won't get away this time." But the results are not as defeatist an omen for Reaganomics as commonly believed.

Anytime every political pundit in America shares the same opinion, it's bound to be wrong. The latest entry in the catechism is that the Democratic gains were the voters' way of telling the President to scrap his economic policies, which — surprise! — is just what the commentators have been telling him. But, as my mother says, even the devil can quote Scripture.

THOSE WHO SEE a repudiation of Reaganomics are generally vague about exactly which features are being rejected. Is it the tax cut? I didn't hear very many Democrats campaigning on a platform of higher taxes. Is it President Reagan's budget cuts? Reagan's critics hammered away at the deficit, which implies that spending is still too high. Is it monetary restraint? Well, did anyone attack the President for slowing inflation?

The only economic lesson for President Reagan is that voters don't like a 10 percent unemployment rate. On the historical record, though, they exhibit considerable patience with that misfortune.

The last president to enter an off-year election with double-digit unemployment was Franklin Roosevelt. That was 1938, when the Democrats lost 71 seats in the House.

In 1930, as the economy was crashing down around him, Herbert Hoover lost 49 seats. In 1958, a recession cost the GOP 48 members in the House. Reagan, by contrast, escaped with a net loss of only 26 House Republicans.

Reagan's popularity has suffered from the economy's troubles, but not nearly as much as might be expected. NBC News' exit polls showed that across the country, 45 percent of the voters rated his performance "good or excellent" and only 29 percent "poor." In Michigan, which suffers the nation's worst unemployment, 43 percent of those polled gave him the highest rating; in Illinois (12.5 percent unemployment), the figure was 44 percent.

NOR DID supply-siders do badly. Lewis Lehrman came within a whisker of snatching away the governorship of New York, which is hardly a bastion of Reaganism. Carlifornia elected a new senator, Pete Wilson, who criticized Reagan not for cutting taxes in 1981 but for raising them in 1982. Nevada's Chris Hecht, who defeated incumbent Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon, ran at the urging of supply-side gadfly Jude Wanniski. If tax cuts are unpopular these days, somebody should tell the voters.

IN ALL, only one incumbent Republican senator lost. Those who had the closest calls were mostly milk-and-water moderates who had disassociated themselves from Reagan — Danforth of Missouri, Durenberger of Minnesota, Weicker of Connecticut. Staunch defenders of Reaganomics like Williams Roth of Delaware and Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming — not to mention Jack Kemp — won easily.

Despite his losses in the House, Reagan should be able to govern pretty much as before. It's true that he wouldn't be able to get his original economic program through the next Congress, but then again he won't have to. On the matter of taxes, all he has to do is hold on to what he's got. With the GOP controlling the Senate and Reagan wielding the veto, the Democrats probably can't repeal next July's tax cut even if they want to.

If the economy is well on its way to recovery by early 1983, even some Democrats may be hesitant to do anything that might derail it. In any case, it would be foolhardy to let Reagan run in 1984 against "the party that took away your tax cut."

ON SPENDING, Reagan will have more trouble, but that may be a good thing. Having compromised this year on taxes, next year he will have to retreat on defense, something favored all along by true enemies of the federal Leviathan. But with any luck, he can trade those cuts for lower Social Security outlays — both sorely needed.

The betting here is that this election will be remembered as a minor setback for Reagan. Whatever the voters' "message" about his economic policy, they did not repeal it. With the incipient recovery producing a new era of prosperity, look for the President who restored America's economic health to be re-elected — a thundering endorsement of Reaganomics.

Help me with my guilt

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband died a year ago. Now I feel very guilty because I know I was not a very good wife to him and probably made his life miserable. Do you think I should feel this way? — D.H.A.

DEAR D.H.A.: I don't know, of course, whether or not your feelings have any basis in fact. If you did fail in your responsibilities as a wife it is natural for you to feel guilty. At the same time, you need to remember that a traumatic event like the death of a loved one can distort our judgment. You may well have been a much better wife than you believe, especially since your letter suggests that your husband never complained.

The important thing, however, is for you to realize that there is only one way to deal with your guilt — not just for your treatment of your husband but for everything else you have done in your life that is wrong. That answer is to bring your guilt to God for forgiveness. Even if you were not a good wife, there is no way you can make up for what you should have done in the past. That is one thing we easily forget about life — once something is done it can never be erased. Only God can do it — and he will, if we will turn to him in repentance and faith.

The Bible teaches that all of us are guilty before God. You may feel like you wronged your husband, but ultimately our sin is against God. King David committed a horrible sin when he committed adultery with another man's wife and then arranged for her husband to be killed in battle. Finally he had to face the fact that he had sinned — not only against others, but against God. And when he turned to God for forgiveness, he found that God loved him still and forgave him.

"Blessed is he whose transgressions are forgiven, whose sins are covered... I said, 'I will confess my transgressions to the Lord' — and you forgave the guilt of my sin" (Psalm 32:1,5). This is possible because Jesus Christ died to take away your sin. Don't carry a burden you need no longer carry — open your heart to Christ and trust him for forgiveness, as he has promised.

Haunted House helpers thanked

Dear Editor, I would like to thank all the people who made our Haunted House for the March of Dimes the great success that it was.

The high school organizations that helped again this year and were as faithful this year as they have been in the past, The Key Club, FHA, and the Student Council, were super.

I would also like to thank Jimmy and Billy Earnest for all the extra work they put in.

Mr. Bill Mims who donated all the ice that we needed.

A very special thanks to David Garver for taking the time and concern to help during a special time in his own life and congratulations to him and his new bride!

Thanks to the Big Spring Herald, KBYG, and KWKI, KHEM for all the great publicity.

Thank you Greater Big Spring Rotary for your cooperation, and Gene Madison for all the extra energy.

The biggest thanks of all to Tommy Moore — without him we would have fallen apart (at least I would have)! I know I'm leaving someone out, but I would like you to know that everyone that helped in any way was very appreciated and of course all who visited our Haunted House get a great big Thank-You, too!

$62 billion for roads

20-year repair needed, West Texans told

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks News Service

FORT WORTH — Texas needs a multi-billion-dollar 20-year program to stop highway deterioration and build new roads, West Texas legislators and business leaders were told Friday.

The state has 72,000 miles of paved roads that represent an investment of at least $100 billion, A. Sam Waldrop, member of the State Highways and Public Transportation Commission, said.

"That investment is going down fast. It's showing its wear," the commissioner and Abilene furniture company president told a legislative conference of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

He called for a 20-year program to put $62 billion, in 1982-value dollars, into Texas roads.

He didn't propose revenue sources but pointed out that an increase in the present 5-cent gasoline tax would bring in $60 million for each additional penny of tax. He also said dedicating automobile sales tax revenues and reforming the vehicle registration fee system are possible ways to obtain the revenue.

Many of the 30 legislators attending the conference agreed with Waldrop's comments, but they pointed out in panel discussions that the Legislature has only so much money to meet all the state's needs.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls and a Legislative Budget Board member, said the 1983 Legislature faces increased needs for state employee benefits, teacher salaries, higher education costs, prison maintenance and construction, as well as highways.

"It's going to be a very challenging session," he said. Rep. Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, pointed out that legislators must decide early in the session whether to bypass the recently approved Texas Constitutional ceiling on spending. He said he hopes an attempt to get around the ceiling will fail, saving some of the state's projected surplus.

On of the most commonly discussed issues at the conference was the funding of construction at universities outside the Permanent University Fund, or PUF, which is shared by some campuses of the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems.

Rep. Roy English, D-Arlington, called for dividing the PUF among all higher education institutions. But others said that would be neither politically possible nor wise.

Rep. John Gavin, D-Wichita Falls whose district includes Midwestern State University, said the PUF should be spread among all the UT and A&M schools but another source should be found for non-PUF campuses. "I think it would be a horrible mistake to change (the Texas Constitution's) intent to create two quality institutions," he said.

But Gavin called for placing all construction projects, including those at PUF schools, under the state Coordinating Board.

Rep. Tip Hall, D-Ponder, said he thinks legislators are committed to establishing a dedicated fund for the non-PUF schools, such as Midwestern State, Angelo State and Sul Ross universities.

On another matter of West Texas interest, Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, predicted the Legislature will adopt a long-range water plan.

Lewis, who is expected to be elected House speaker in January, said, "I think even those areas such as Houston and some East Texas areas are starting to realize that they also have a water problem."

Rep. Steve Carraker, D-Roby, said the Legislature must be aware of farmers' problems even though most of the solutions are at the federal level. "It is a national and international problem. It doesn't stop at the state line," he said. "The most effective role of the state is an advocacy role with the federal government."

Rep. Dick Burnett, D-San Angelo, said he expects there may be some efforts next year to reduce the effectiveness of the state's electronic surveillance legislation.

Moneymen know no loyalty

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—When the returns started coming in on election night a couple of weeks ago, an Austin journalist noted that some of the lobbyists who had gathered at Gov. Bill Clements' "victory party" suddenly disappeared. Those same people, the reporter noted, turned up to cheer at Mark White's real victory party a few minutes later.

Seldom has the declaration "I'm for the winner!" been more true.

The simple truth is that those who seek to influence laws and legislation must be more practical than philosophical.

After looking over the field and deciding that the incumbent looked unbeatable, the behind-the-scenes-movers-and-shakers generally jumped aboard the Clements campaign and dug deep into the political-action-committee fund to help him realize his re-election dream.

You can imagine their shock when the early returns went to Democratic challenger White and the networks started projecting him as the winner. Early on, it became clear that the election wasn't even going to be close.

Thus, the election-night exodus to the winner—late, but perhaps, not too late. If sports fans were as fickle in their loyalty as lobbyists, the Chicago Cubs wouldn't fill a seat all season.

White's surprise win will be costly for Austin lobbyists, both in bruised egos as political experts and in the pocketbook. The fact of life is simple: It costs more to become a team player after the victory than before.

Thus, after playing out millions on a loser, the Austin in-crowd must dig deeper to get on the winning team, which in the world of politics is everything.

That leaves White and his campaign directors, who took a gamble as big as anything in Las Vegas and borrowed heavily to finance the final days of the campaign, laughing all the way to the bank.

If White had lost, he now would be doomed to a long series of poorly attended low-priced fundraisers in an attempt to pay off his campaign debts. Now, all he has to do is sit back and wait for the money to flow in, just as Clements did after his mostly self-financed 1978 campaign.

Maybe even those of us on the outside can enjoy a chuckle or two in watching the money people suddenly changing course and loyalty to jump on the bandwagon.

It might be even more enjoyable if we didn't know that the transition, although costly, will be smooth and quick. And many of those who would have been on the inside with Clements eventually will be on the inside with White.

WHEN TEXAS liberals were looking for a reason to vote for Mark White on Nov. 2, one popular excuse was "to get rid of David Dean."

Dean is the former Democrat who joined Gov. Bill Clements in 1978 and recently became his appointed secretary of state.

Dean irked civil libertarians by issuing a faulty felons list designed to purge the voter registration list. Much to his and Clements' embarrassment, the list included names of misdemeanor offenders, who are not barred from voting. Shades of Nazi tactics, said the liberals, who will be happy to see Dean exit from officialdom along with Clements in January.

But Dean will leave a legacy of sorts—a state voting-counting system. Until Dean took over this fall, unofficial election returns had been the job of a non-profit group of newspapers.

Veterans parade, dedicate memorial

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Thousands of Vietnam veterans paraded with pride Saturday where anti-war protesters marched a decade earlier, then dedicated a new national monument honoring themselves and their 57,939 missing and fallen comrades.

They marched to the newly lain turf before the gleaming black granite walls of the monument bearing the names of Americans who did not return from Vietnam and — in speech and song and silent reflection — paid homage to the war's victims and the 2.7 million who served and came home to an indifferent welcome from a divided nation.

Some former soldiers were almost overcome by the emotion of the moment. A few wept openly and took comfort from the embrace of their buddies. But it was a joyful occasion for most.

The crowd cheered the marchers and the marchers cheered the crowd.

The day turned cold and windy, and alternately gray and sunstreaked. The mood changed, too: once tearful and somber, a moment later, joyful and triumphant.

U.S. Park Police estimated that 150,000 people took part in the parade and the monument dedication.

In the uniform of the day — olive drab field jackets and blue jeans — and often out of step, about 20,000 veterans marched in their own welcome home parade.

They marched down Constitution Avenue in ragged columns, waving little American flags, and led by white-haired Gen. William C. Westmoreland, wearing a raincoat and carrying two little flags. The old Vietnam commanding general marched with the Alabama contingent at the head of the parade.

One marching ex-GI waved and grinned and shouted, "Thank you, people." And in the crowd, a woman held aloft a sign: "Thanks, yanks."

On the same street in May, 1971, thousands of war protesters fought with police and were felled by teargas in the most violent Washington demonstration of the era. Some carried the yellow and red flag of the National Liberation Front and chanted: "Ho, Ho, Ho Chi Minh; the NLF is going to win."

But the national divisions of hawks and doves were faded memories Saturday.

Veterans walked in state units — hundreds from New York, 20 from Alaska, three legless men in wheelchairs leading Indiana's contingent, men in white shirts and three-piece suits from south Boston, a band from Delaware playing, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again."

In the fading uniform of an Army specialist 4th class, John Chucoski of Ijamsville, Md., marched pushing his son, Stephen, 2, in a baby carriage.

At the dedication, the highest government official present was Everett Alvarez Jr., deputy director of the Veterans Administration and a prisoner in North Vietnam for 8½ years — longer than any other captive.

President Reagan took no part. He visited the Soviet embassy to pay his condolences to Leonid I. Brezhnev, then flew to Chicago for a memorial service for Nancy Reagan's stepfather, Dr. Loyal Davis, who died Aug. 14.

Alvarez recalled the silent indifference that greeted GIs returning from a distant, costly, unpopular war.

"There was a time long past," he said, "when words would have mattered more. But at this place — for all time — it is our hearts that speak. God bless this nation and those who have honored it with their service."

Jan Scruggs, the former infantryman who conceived the idea for a monument, declared, "Now all Americans can agree that Vietnam veterans deserve recognition and appreciation for their sacrifices."

A letter from Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to Scruggs was read at the ceremony: "When your country called, you came. When your country refused you honor, you remained silent. With time, our nation's wounds have healed. We have finally come to appreciate your sacrifices and to pay you your tribute you so richly deserve."

Big Spring native's company grows fast

Bill Norred, who attended Big Spring schools and Howard College, has been making quite a name for himself in the Los Angeles area with his data communications company, Micom.

Norred, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.N. Norred of Big Spring was featured on the cover of a recent issue of "the Executive of Los Angeles."

Micom markets custom-designed and manufactured data communications products and standardized datacom products for small- to medium-sized firms using minicomputers and with a need for short-distance links between terminals and the data processor.

Sales of the company, created in 1973 from a failed venture called American Data Systems, Inc., have leaped to $49.7 million and made the company Los Angeles' fastest-growing publicly traded corporation.

State targets Terlingua mine shafts

By DANA PALMER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Abandoned mining shafts that dot the barren countryside around Terlingua once brought jobs and a little extra money to that sparsely populated area near Big Bend National Park.

But now the state is scrambling for an $83,000 federal grant to help seal and fence off the 25 vertical mining shafts, some of them as deep as 900 feet.

"A 14-year-old tourist was killed there this spring," Railroad Commission staff member Ron Crawford said Monday.

The teen-ager wanted a closer look at the abandoned mercury ore mine and decided to jump down to a wooden landing just inside the mouth of the shaft, Crawford told the commission. "It collapsed and he fell 385 feet straight down," he said.

For the some 200,000 tourists who visit the Big Bend area each year, Crawford said, the unmarked, open shafts are a dangerous curiosity. "Most of the shafts are located at ground level...and it's very hard for someone to detect, especially if they are walking around at night."

One of the shafts is next to the main highway and another is only a short stroll away from where tourists can book raft trips down the Rio Grande River. Unfortunately, some of the shafts have wooden ladders that give the appearance of easy accessibility, Crawford said.

"It's incredible to me that someone down there hasn't put signs around them in both English and Spanish," Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said.

Brewster County commissioners came to the Surface Mining Division of the Railroad Commission looking for help, division Director Jerry Hill said.

Application for the federal grant, which could take about 90 days to process, seemed to be the best solution, Hill said.

Asked by Commissioner Buddy Temple if the commission had some money somewhere to fence the mines off immediately, Crawford explained that state money for mine reclamation work is reserved by law for uranium and coal mines.

"I suspect in that area, there is some uranium," Wallace quipped.

Women disillusioned with Air Force

By PHILIPSWANN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — The Air Force is having trouble keeping a few good women, according to a recent government study.

A U.S. General Accounting Office report says that many women are deciding not to re-enlist because they are dissatisfied with their job assignments and because the service was not what they had expected.

There are approximately 65,000 women in the Air Force, or 11.1 percent. An Air Force spokesman says that, while there are no current figures on the women's re-enlistment rate, it usually is considerably lower than men's.

Women who were less inclined to stay in the service were more likely to say that they had been misinformed at the time of enlistment," the report stated.

In addition, the GAO said the one-time Air Force policy of arbitrarily assigning women to "non-traditional" women's jobs, such as aircraft mechanic, was a mistake. The service, responding to political pressure from women's groups, had sought to obtain the same percentage of women in all non-combat occupations.

But the Air Force decided last year to eliminate the policy because of the high attrition rate. Women can still fill the more physically demanding jobs, the Air Force says, but only if they are qualified.

The GAO predicted that the Air Force policy switch should increase the re-enlistment rate. But the agency also speculated that many women will still decide not to re-enlist because they don't like their jobs. The government report says that women prefer more traditional assignments such as nursing and administrative duties.

Etiquette Notes

ENGAGEMENTS
The engagement is the first step on the road to a wedding, and that is the time, probably more than any other, where we run to the etiquette books. Here are some tips on what's proper for engagements.

Engagements may be announced before a ring is given. It is not necessary to have a ring for the engagement to be official.

When a couple becomes engaged, it is up to the man's family to make the first move to meet the woman's. This is not, however, engraved in stone, and it is acceptable for the bride's family to make the first move if it appears that the groom's family is not aware of the proprieties.

Engagements can be announced by phone, by personal note, or by newspaper announcement, and are often accompanied by parties. The etiquette books say that engagement announcements are a no-no, but if friends or relatives are far-flung it is sometimes more practical to have announcements printed.

Engagements are the first step on the road to a wedding. For all your needs, contact your wedding experts at Blum's.

This year's flu season to be light

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON — If you are suffering now from the fever, aches and misery of the flu, it may be a little comfort to know that you're probably safe from a repeat of the disease for a year or so.

If you're not yet one of the unlucky ones with the disease, it may be encouraging to know that the winter of 1982-83 is expected to be a "light" year for influenza infections. Chances are good you'll escape the ailment altogether this season.

Man's ancient war with the flu bug is in a lull this year, says Dr. Thomas R. Cate, a professor of microbiology and immunology at the Influenza Research Center of the Baylor College of Medicine here.

Cate said there is less than a 50-50 chance that a person will get the flu in any particular year and the odds improve when the flu virus has failed to produce a new strain.

For this winter, "there is no new strain in the offing," he said.

Influenza comes in three different virus types — "A," "B" and "C."

"C" generally is not of major concern, and "B" can cause minor, localized epidemics every two to three years, Cate said.

But "A" is the big troublemaker.

"The 'A' type is the one that is responsible for giving influenza its bad name," said Cate. "It is capable of undergoing changes that leave people susceptible even if they have had flu in the past."

In effect, the "A" type of virus can change so radically that the body has no immunity protection, he said.

"As far as the body is concerned, the 'A' type changes enough to be a new virus," Cate said. The body can establish a lifetime immunity against the unchanging disease organisms, such as measles or chicken pox, but not against the "A" flu virus.

The "A" type of virus changes a little bit each year, said Cate, but every decade or so the little rascal makes a major change that can cause near-worldwide misery.

"Minor changes can lead to local epidemics," said Cate. "But every 10 to 30 years the 'A' makes a major change. Then you have a pandemic (world epidemic)."

Experts on every continent keep up with the gradual changes the flu virus makes and are able to predict roughly when there will be another worldwide outbreak. For this season, said Cate, there is no major concern about a pandemic, and the individual odds of getting the disease are reduced.

If a person does come down with flu this year, Cate added, the chances are the victim will be protected by natural immunity from a repeat of the flu for a year or more. Unless, of course, type "A" makes an unexpected major change.

Despite decades of research, there still is no medical protection against worldwide outbreaks of flu.

"There is simply no way to prevent epidemics with the tools we have now," said Cate. "Prevention techniques now are not aimed at avoiding epidemics, but at preventing deaths in the high-risk groups."

These "high-risk groups" are the elderly or people with respiratory problems or chronic diseases that weaken their resistance. To them, a simple case of the flu could be fatal, often from killing bacterial infections that invade a body already weak from the flu.

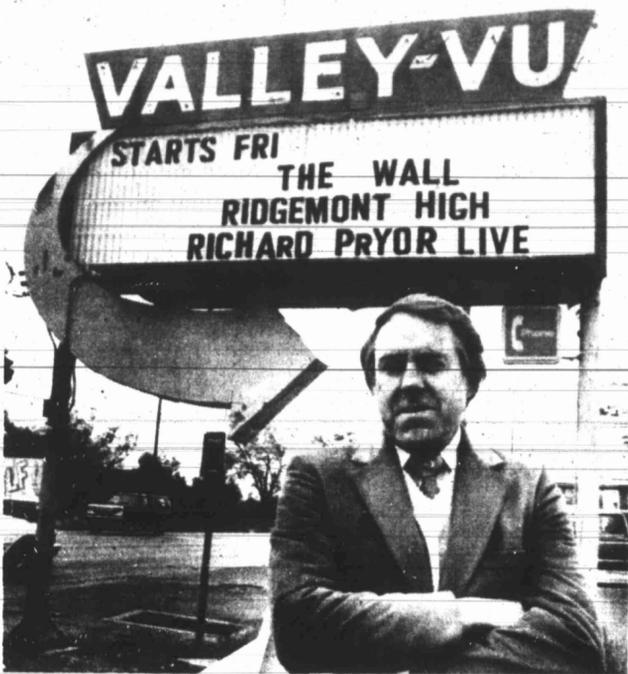

High-risk patients should get annual flu shots in the fall, even when there seems little prospect of major outbreaks, Cate said.

Medical science may have some help on the way for everybody.

An antiviral drug, amantadine, is proving to be effective in blunting or even preventing flu illnesses in many patients. The drug first was released in the 1970s and is gaining widespread acceptance. But Cate said it does have side effects and, while the drug can be effective with many people, it is not the final answer.

Cate believes the best weapon against flu is somehow to trigger the body's natural immunity.

A live virus vaccine under study by the Baylor College of Medicine influenza research group may provide the solution. Cate said the group is in the third round of field trials using a modified organism called a "cold-reassortant" virus (C-R) that is administered in nose drops.

THEATER OWNER — Wes Webb, owner of the Valley-Vu drive-in theater in West Valley City, Utah, stands in front of the marquee advertising R-rated fare. The Valley-Vu is often asked by a city committee to cut scenes of nudity from films.

Utah city commission regulates outdoor theaters

By BOB MIMS
Associated Press Writer
WEST VALLEY CITY, Utah — There was a time when residents snapped their living-room curtains shut when darkness fell and silvery beams from two local drive-in theaters splashed R-rated fare on 40-foot-wide screens.

But nearly two years ago, the state's second largest city, located 10 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, passed a law creating a commission to review restricted films prior to showing.

Now, says one outdoor theater owner, it would be hard to find a truly R-rated film on the screens of West Valley City's two outdoor theaters. They're often either cut to remove objectionable scenes, or shipped back, unshown, to distributors.

"It's a pain to be faced with this, wondering what you can play," said Wes Webb, owner of Valley-Vu Drive-In Theater. "It gives a small element of people the opportunity, whenever they see something on the screen they don't like, to scream it's time to enforce the law."

The Commission on Public Decency, the offspring of a local grassroots petition campaign, targets not only nudity and sex on outdoor screens, but eyes indoor theaters, sale and rental of video cassettes and distribution of adult magazines and books.

"We are reducing most of the R-rated movies to essentially PG-rated movies. We show very few R-rated movies any more," Webb said in discussing the rating system set up by the Motion Picture Association of America.

The MPAA defines PG movies as requiring parental guidance suggested and says some material may not be suited for children. R-rated movies should be restricted, according to the commission, requiring youngster under 17 to be accompanied by a parent or adult guardian.

For the recent run of "Private Lessons," the story of a wealthy teen-ager seduced by the family housekeeper, Webb darkened the screen during scenes the commission thought were objectionable.

"The big thing we've got going for us is our bark, holding a sword over their heads," said City Attorney Ron Greenhalgh. "And the cooperation of the theater people has been great."

"We let the theater owners know we stand behind the commission, and we're not afraid to take legal action," he said. "When we talk about prosecution, we're talking about minors being exposed to the materials."

Greenhalgh said the city could close down an offending theater "in the event of a couple of convictions."

Nine volunteer commission members, soon to be 12, serve one-year renewable terms at the discretion of the city manager. Under the law that created the panel, West Valley City theater owners must notify the city attorney when they are showing R- or X-rated films.

Webb said he complies with the law, but thinks it is "ridiculous, over-restrictive and very inconvenient."

Since most of the films shown are copyrighted and can't be cut, theater operators often return them if they draw the committee's ire, he said.

"If we really wanted to make money, we would challenge the law and overturn it," Webb said. "I still don't think a soft-R picture with an occasional bare breast is offensive to children."

But Steve Allen, chairman of the Commission on Public Decency, said what may be acceptable at an indoor theater where restrictions can be enforced, can often be offensive when shown outdoors.

Marching contest gives good results

Saturday, November 6, the Band attended a marching contest in Odessa. The band received a II rating. Twirlers also received a II rating. Individually, the twirlers' ratings go as follows: Vicky Baggett—II; Debra Holguin—II, and Teresa White—I. Teresa will go to state in June because of her I rating.

Lewis Bocker and Vicky Baggett were named Outstanding Seniors by the Big Spring Optimists Club. Vicky and Lewis received their award Wednesday, November 10.

Varsity and J.V. girls won their scrimmage against Lamesa Tuesday. The freshmen team also played but did not win their game. There will be a girl's basketball scrimmage with Fort Stockton, here, November 16. Basketball season officially starts November 22.

Friday, November 12, there was a Pep Rally held on the practice field for the football players going to the playoffs against Eden.

Report cards will be distributed Wednesday, November 17.

School will dismiss November 24 due to the Thanksgiving holiday. School will resume the 29th of November.

Basketball team kicks off season

Tuesday, November 9, the girls basketball team kicked off their season in a scrimmage against Highland. The girls looked strong but Highland's height dominated the game and the final score was disappointing. In fact, attempts to attain this information were thwarted by reliable sources.

The Junior Varsity also played Tuesday and were also victims of the claws of defeat but nonetheless boasted an impressive score of 24-23. This was a real hangnail puller! The female Kats take their act southward Tuesday, November 16, as they square off with the Big Lake Owls. Good Luck!

As they say, all good things must end. And so we see the second six weeks slipping into the sunset in a fleeting moment that only memories can recapture. Already a riotous crowd is milling around the front steps of the high school in eager anticipation of the A honor roll results. Alright, we know you want us to print this list of elites in a future megaphone.

In a solemn note, we have fallen victim to the industry's greatest problem, the printing of lies. If you will recall with us now, the previous issue of the megaphone gave the impression that Howard College provided a free meal at the career day. However, forthcoming data from a concerned high school counselor namely Hazel Stringer, revealed that the meal was not indeed free, but instead was paid for by the Garden City school system. Fitting with journalistic ethics, we naturally submitted our resignation to Mrs. Theodora, Journalism master. In a clear act of cruel and unusual punishment, Mrs. Theodora has sentenced us to finishing out the year as megaphone writers. A legal appeal is presently under way.

Miss Merry Christmas contest to be held

Every girl would love a chance to be a pageant winner. Well, the junior and senior girls of Big Spring High School are getting their chance. Any junior or senior girl can write a story of 300 words or less on "What Christmas Means to Me." All essays are due on Mrs. Hoover's desk by November 15. The top ten essay writers will be interviewed by a panel of judges. From this group, two runners-up and a winner will be chosen. The winner will receive a trophy, some material for a Christmas outfit, and the honor of being Miss Merry Christmas. The top three essays will also be published in the Big Spring Herald. All three girls will ride on a float in the December 11 Christmas Parade.

The Steer Band held their annual end of marching season dinner on November 9. The following awards were given: John Philip Sousa National Band Award—Alvin McVea; Band Director's Award—Shauni Woodridge; and Best Marching Spirit—Marlyn Spencer. The 10 best marchers were: Teresa Alexander, David Armstrong, Melinda Corwin, Greg Hartfield, Alvin McVea, Glenn Mellinger, Alena Pyles, Robby Roten, Stacey Wood, and Shauni Woodridge.

The Super Steers wrapped up a terrific season of football on Friday, November 5. They played a fantastic game against San Angelo with a score of 15-7. Although the steers did not win, the game was very well played and always exciting. The final record for the season was 4 wins and 6 losses. The winners of the awards for the game against San Angelo are as follows: Conan Award—Johnny Smithwick; Bullet Award—Alan Trevino; Top Steer Award—Scott Griffin; and Golden Spike Award—Eric Sherman and Jay Pirkle. Guys, you did a super great job with our football team this year. We are very proud of all of you. We are also thankful for such a great head coach, Coach Eudy, and all his coaching staff.

The Big Spring Swim team were defeated by San Angelo on Tuesday, November 8. The swimmers placing first were: Speight Grimes, Terry Bordofski, Tim Plew, and Cecil Willey—200 Medley Relay; Tim Plew—100 Butterfly; Terry Bordofski—100 Backstroke; Tim Plew, Terry Bordofski, Speight Grimes, and Cecil Willey—400 Free Relay; Jonna Atchley—Diving; and Rita Fleckenstein—100 Breaststroke. Congratulations to these steer swimmers.

The Student Council met this past Wednesday, November 10, to plan the Veteran's Day Program which they presented over the speakers on Thursday, November 11.

Elections for senior honors to be held

Sherry Rose, a 7th grader, is home and doing very well after an extended stay in Lubbock Methodist Hospital. It is not known when she will return to school, but we understand that she is doing better.

Senior Personalities and Class Favorites will be elected Wednesday the 17th. Tuesday the 16th there will be an F.H.A. meeting at 7:00 p.m.

The Big Red Band marched in a Veterans Day Parade on Thursday the 11th.

This week was Six Weeks Test Week. Grade sheets must be in by Friday noon.

Report cards should be back by Thursday or Friday at the latest.

High school coaches and administrators attended the District 3AAA meeting in San Angelo on Wednesday.

The football season ended for Coahoma on Friday, November 5. The 8th grade played Colorado City at Colorado City on Thursday and won 26-6. The 9th grade trounced Colorado City 9th grade 14-8, while the Coahoma junior varsity took a 14-0 win over Colorado City on the Bulldog home field.

Congratulations to the boys and coaches on a fine season. The girls varsity and junior varsity lost their scrimmages to Sands on Tuesday.

New man tries to control UAW

By ANN JOB WOOLLEY
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — Owen Bieber, chosen to replace Douglas Fraser as head of the United Auto Workers, takes on a union whose ranks have been ravaged by layoffs and demoralized by a 3½-year domestic car sales slump and plant closings.

Bieber, a vice president of the union since 1980, was chosen Friday from among three candidates by the 26-member UAW executive board. The choice was approved by the 346-member steering committee, composed of union members from the United States and Canada.

The committee's recommendation goes to delegates next May at the UAW's convention in Dallas. Traditionally, delegates always have elected the board's nominee.

The 52-year-old head of the UAW's General Motors Corp. department said the top issues of his presidency include unemployment, especially in the auto industry; the union's dwindling membership; future contract talks at GM and Ford Motor Co.; and the 1984 U.S. presidential election.

The UAW, once second in the nation in membership behind the Teamsters, has slipped to third behind the Food and Commercial Workers union.

There are slightly more than 1.1 million UAW members, down from 1.5 million in the late 1970s, and more declines are expected.

Last week, some 252,000 UAW members employed by the five major domestic automakers were reported on layoff with no date for returning to work. Thousands more already have been dropped from the lists because they have no chance of being called back.

The problem is domestic car sales, which have plunged from 8.31 million in 1979 to 6.2 million last year and total just 4.7 million so far this year. The uncertain U.S. economy and competition from imports, particularly the Japanese, are blamed.

LET'S CELEBRATE — United Auto Workers Union Vice President Owen Bieber, 52, holds a beer during a private reception Friday night after he was selected to succeed retiring President Douglas Fraser, 65, as leader of the nation's third largest union.

Ways to encourage your child's reading

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

Children's Book Week, celebrated this year Nov. 15 through 21 is a reminder that children and books go naturally together.

If children are read to before they learn to read for themselves, they will be encouraged to have an interest in and a love for books. According to the National Council of Teachers of English, the more experience a child has with good books and illustrations, the better prepared he or she will be for school. Often after they can actually decipher the words or not.

Parents seen reading daily for pleasure and information will show children the value of reading. Parents can help too by encouraging and praising their child's reading achievements. Regular visits to the library will also provide encouragement to budding readers. A child who has his own library card picks out books for himself and is responsible for their care and prompt return will learn to appreciate books and the knowledge and pleasure they can provide.

For the child who has not been interested in reading, there are books related to popular subjects such as sports, monster movies, cartoon characters that provide an easy introduction to reading. TV-related books like "Little House On The Prairie" or even the TV guide can provide reading experience and encourage fluency.

Reading is a skill that requires practice — but the key is enjoyment.

If a child views reading as a pleasant activity, chances are he or she will be glad to read. A parent can provide abundant encouragement and the Howard County Library can provide a wide variety of enjoyable reading material. So parents bring your children to the library and get them started on a life-long adventure of reading.

Texas Water Resource Board discusses C-City plant

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Mayor Elmer Martin last week reported on a recent Texas Water Resource Board meeting in Abilene which considered proposals for improvements in Colorado City's sewage treatment plant.

Martin voiced optimism the board will approve the city's discharge permit and reported possible notification can be expected in January.

Other council business on the agenda dealt with providing citizens with information on the $634,000 bond issue, the amount deemed necessary for sewage treatment plant renovation in order to bring the plant up to Water Resource Board standards.

According to city manager Rick Crowley,

"Because the city cannot be involved in promoting such a bond election, possibly the best way to inform the public about the issue will be through a fifteen-member committee that will handle informing the public."

Soviet citizens pay last respects to Brezhnev

By DAVID MINTHORN
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — Tens of thousands of Soviet citizens filed past Leonid I. Brezhnev's open casket Saturday in a two-mile line tightly guarded by troops, police, roadblocks and checkpoints.

For the second straight day, Soviets trekked six abreast, silently and somberly paying respects to Brezhnev, whose body lay in state in the downtown House of Unions.

Central Moscow was sealed off. Thousands of police in gray wool overcoats and soldiers in brown uniforms patrolled streets and intersections, turning back all who lacked proper passes.

Only cars with official license plates were permitted to park.

Brezhnev's body lay in state on the second floor of the hall, and a two-story high portrait of the late leader, bordered in black on a red background, hung on the front of the columned building.

The line of mourners snaked past police lines from Mayakovsky Square to the hall on Prospekt Marx, where the open casket lay on red and white flowers, with the leader's medals pinned to red satin at the foot of the coffin.

A band played funeral dirges, and prominent Soviets and "hero" workers took turns standing in an honor guard beside the casket, switching every three minutes.

Mourners entered the side door and had about 30 seconds to view the body, spotlighted under chandeliers draped in black bunting.

The official news agency Tass said diplomats from 112 countries viewed the body Saturday. U.S. Ambassador Arthur A. Hartman was among them.

Outside the city center it was business as usual. Shoppers jammed state stores and traffic cruised normally on roads circling the downtown area.

In Washington, President Reagan announced he was lifting U.S. sanctions against the Soviet Union's natural-gas pipeline to Western Europe in what was seen as an overture to the Kremlin's new leadership for improved relations. Reagan had imposed the sanctions to punish the Kremlin for its support for martial law in Poland.

Earlier, Reagan visited the Soviet Embassy in Washington and signed the condolence book, writing "My condolences to the family of President Brezhnev and the people of the Soviet Union. May our two peoples live in peace in the world together."

Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State

George P. Shultz were heading the U.S. delegation for the burial Monday in Red Square. Government delegations from dozens of countries also were due in Moscow by Sunday.

Communist leaders of several Soviet-bloc countries, including Poland's martial-law leader Wojciech Jaruzelski, Cuba's President Fidel Castro and Afghanistan President Babrak Karmal of Afghanistan also were to attend.

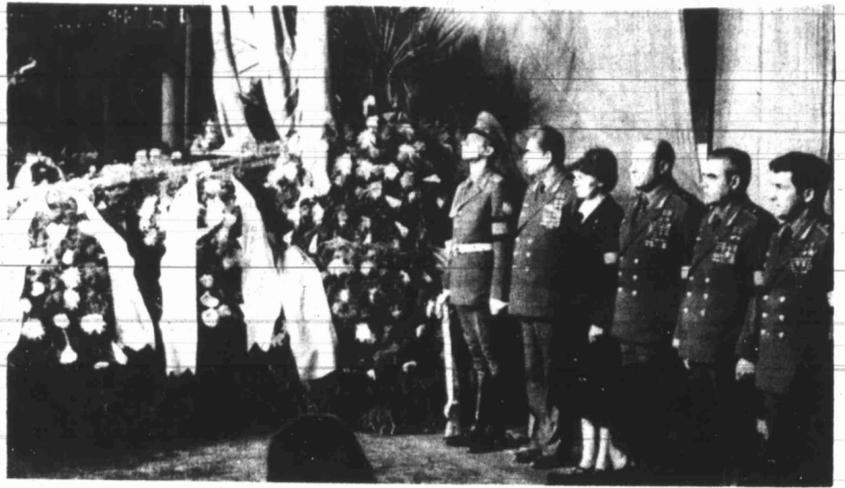

China, which has been conducting talks with the Soviets about improving relations, was sending Foreign Minister Huang Hua. India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was representing her country, and President Mohammad Zia Ul-Haq was coming from Pakistan.

Others coming include West German President Karl Carstens, Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki, French Premier Pierre Mauroy, Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and first lady Imelda R. Marcos of the Philippines.

Western diplomatic sources said delegations have been told by Soviet officials to be in place on a cement platform at 11:30 a.m. Monday on Red Square, 30 minutes before the start of the hourlong funeral.

Brezhnev's remains will be interred in a grave by the northeast area of the Kremlin wall, only the 10th Soviet hero to be accorded the honor. Vladimir I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state, is buried there in a red marble mausoleum. Josef Stalin's grave there is marked with a bust.

The ashes of more than 100 other prominent Soviets are interred in the red brick wall, behind marble plaques.

LIES IN STATE — Soviet cosmonauts, right, line up to pay their respects as the body of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev lies in a casket in the House of Unions in Moscow Saturday.

COMPUTER SHOPPING
(The Eleven Commandments)

Peter A. McWilliams' book, The Personal Computer Book, gives eleven suggestions on how to shop for personal computers, business computers, or word processors. With his permission, we have summarized his "Eleven Commandments" to help you "shop" for your equipment.

1. Make an appointment. Call the computer store and make a specific appointment with the person who knows the most about the kind of equipment you're interested in.
2. Do not be intimidated by jargon. When in doubt about what a word or phrase means, ask.
3. Get some "hands-on" experience. Don't spend a lot of time discussing the philosophy of computing and looking at full-color brochures — sit down at a computer and play with the thing.
4. Ask a friend who knows something about computers to come along to help you evaluate the information you get.
5. Use the computer for what you'll be using the computer for. Different computers are good at different things.
6. Be on the lookout for good salespeople as well as good computers. If you become aware that "your" salesperson doesn't really know as much as someone else, maneuver your way into dealing with someone who does.
7. Make notes. Write down model numbers, prices, salesperson's names, everything. Otherwise things that are clear upon leaving a store will be hopelessly muddled a few weeks and a dozen computer stores later.
8. Trust your intuition. It's important that you feel good about the computer you purchase.
9. What happens if it breaks? Investigate what you'll have to do if the computer does not compute either in or out of warranty.
10. Take your time. Don't try to look at everything in a week.
11. Enjoy yourself. Keep in mind that it's hard to lose. Each product will have something worthwhile to recommend it.

EDSON EMERSON BECKWITH
...missing since mid-October

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP) — The disappearance of a former Braniff International executive was a mystery. But the discovery of his body in a rural pasture in East Texas has only raised more questions, officials say.

A ranch foreman rounding up stray cows Friday stumbled upon the decomposed body of Edson Emerson Beckwith, 51, reported missing almost a month ago.

"We don't have any leads at all right now," said Hopkins County Sheriff J.A. Tittle. "Naturally, I feel there was foul play."

"What we would like to do is establish a motive that would lead us to the killer — if that's what happened," he said. "But we need to establish a motive. Why was he killed — if he was killed."

Beckwith was reported missing by his wife, Jane, on Oct. 14 after he failed to return home from an East Texas business meeting.

His fully clothed body was discovered about 11:30 a.m. Friday, and a wallet in a pocket had a driver's license and credit cards registered to Beckwith, said Hopkins County sheriff's deputy R.H. Shackelford.

"We just can't speculate how long he might have been laying in that pasture," Shackelford said. "We can't even speculate how he might have died."

The pasture is about four miles northwest of Sulphur Springs, about five miles from where Beckwith's car was found abandoned along a highway Oct. 15, Shackelford said.

The body was found in the middle of the pasture, about three miles from a busy state highway, he said.

J.P. Smith, foreman of the A.K. Gillis & Sons Ranch of Sulphur Springs, said buzzards drew his attention towards the body.

"We've got a pasture over there, just past the road," Smith told The Dallas Morning News. "There was some logs on a fence row, and I went down to look. I looked to the right, and saw some buzzards coming up."

Smith said he investigated and found the body, lying face up.

The body was taken to the Dallas County Medical Examiners office Friday afternoon, but a spokesman there refused comment. The office planned an autopsy today.

The Texas Rangers had treated the disappearance as a missing persons case, but Beckwith's wife, Jane, organized search parties and has said she was sure foul play was involved.

Cancer kills hero's grandfather

LA MARQUE — One week after 8-year-old Nolan Hughes rescued his grandparents from their burning house, his ailing grandfather died of cancer, hospital officials say.

Nolan was told of the death Friday, his ninth birthday.

He was staying overnight with his grandparents in Galveston when a fire caused by a bathroom heater began filling the house with smoke.

Heading a fire-safety tip he learned in school, Nolan helped the elderly couple out of the burning house.

The third grader received a recognition certificate from the Parent Teachers Association at Westlawn Elementary School here for his bravery. He also was honored by the Galveston City Council and the Galveston Fire Department.

Morris Hughes, 72, had been bedridden with cancer.

In the fire, Hughes suffered third-degree burns on his hand and legs and was hospitalized at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. But hospital officials told the family that the cancer took his life.

Nolan remembers he woke up Nov. 6, coughing and struggling to breathe. He said he first thought he was dreaming.

Texas shuns vote on sex textbooks

By KATHRYN BAKER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — The Board of Education for Texas, the nation's second-largest schoolbook buyer, on Saturday postponed adopting new health and civics textbooks so publishers can make changes.

Health book publishers were asked last week to revise chapters on drug abuse, and civics book publishers were told to include more information about historic documents, such as the Bill of Rights.

The altered texts must be submitted by Dec. 1, and a vote on adoption will come in January.

The health and civics books drew the largest numbers of protests at the textbook hearings this summer.

The hearings are an annual battle between publishers who want to make a sale in a market second only to California and protesters who use the hearings to air grievances about everything from communism to sexism in schoolbooks.

The Lone Star State's purchases can affect schoolbook marketing nationwide. If a publisher must change a book to sell it to Texas, the changes usually will be included in the book wherever it is sold. And if a book doesn't sell here, it might not be published at all.

Even so, the hearings might not have risen to such national prominence had it not been for Norma Gabler, a Longview housewife who, with her husband Mel, has made a career of protesting textbooks that do not uphold what she calls "traditional family values."

This year marked Mrs. Gabler's 21st annual appearance before the Texas Textbook Committee, which makes recommendations to the board.

Texas' textbooks won more attention last month, when publishers of health books were informed by Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum that they should delete all references to venereal disease.

He said classroom discussion of sexually transmitted diseases should be left to the discretion of local school districts. Bynum later withdrew the directive.

Last year, Bynum withdrew an edition of Webster's dictionary from the school shopping list when the publisher refused to delete seven words the U.S. Supreme Court had deemed unfit for broadcast.

The Board of Education voted Saturday to adopt new textbooks for purchase by public schools in 1983-1984 at a cost of $60.5 million.

Mrs. Gabler said after the vote that she would have to wait and see how publishers rewrite the health and civics books before she could say how successful her efforts have been this year.

Mrs. Gabler, 58, testified that the health books put too much emphasis on legal drugs like liquor, coffee and nicotine and not enough emphasis on the illegality and harmful effects of marijuana.

Many of her objections to civics books criticized attention to social protest instead of support for the government. She also criticized deletion of states' rights advocacy.

Great deal of FBI legwork evident in Judge Wood assassination case

By MACK SISK
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO — The FBI used unlimited personnel and millions of dollars to investigate the first assassination of a federal judge in modern times, and the legwork has produced reams of testimony and hundreds of exhibits in the trial of three people accused in the slaying.

The prosecution's case has been spiked with testimony about purported murder contracts, dope dealing, high-stakes gambling, plots to escape from prison, coverups, jealousy, fear, narcotics addiction, and Charles V. Harrelson's extramarital love affairs.

Harrelson, a convicted hit man, is accused of killing U.S. District Judge John H. Wood in 1979.

On trial with Harrelson are his wife, Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, 41, who already has been sentenced to three years on a 1981 conviction for using a fictitious name to buy the alleged murder weapon 12 days before Wood's death; and Elizabeth Chagra, 28, who allegedly delivered stacks of $100 bills that prosecutors say was the "payoff."

Prosecutors presented 83 witnesses and introduced 281 exhibits gathered in a three-year-long investigation that was estimated to have cost at least $4.7 million by the time the indictment was returned April 15.

The Federal Marshal's Service spent another $3 million protecting other federal judges and prosecutors after Wood was gunned down outside his San Antonio townhome on May 29, 1979.

Cost of the trial, expected to last at least nine weeks with the government paying for lawyers and other expenses of two of the defendants, is expected to drive the total to well over $10 million.

Federal authorities have been reluctant to discuss cost of a trial that FBI Director William Webster said should send a signal to the underworld that killing federal judges will not be tolerated.

FBI agents spent $1 million just for secretly taping the telephone and visiting room conversations of convicted narcotics trafficker Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra at the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary.

Defense attorneys are expected to take up to three weeks countering the massive government case.

Chagra, 39, allegedly paid Harrelson, 44, a $250,000 fee to murder Wood, who was known as "Maximum John" for the long prison terms he meted out to convicted dope dealers.

Chagra's narcotics trial originally had been scheduled to begin in Wood's court the day the 63-year-old judge was shot in the back.

Even before the current trial began, Chagra and Harrelson had been convicted of other crimes and handed prison sentences long enough that they would be old men by the time they would be eligible for parole.

Chagra will be tried separately later because his younger brother refused to testify against him.

Women working out to Bible beat

PLANO (AP) — They're exercising religiously, thumping to the rhythm of that Bible beat, 100 Christian soldiers in the fight against flab.

It's "Believercise," a strenuous aerobic dancing routine devised by 27-year-old Cathi Stout.

The exercise class, which Mrs. Stout started in her living room with one student a year ago, now has about 100 women who work out to rock-and-roll gospel music in local churches.

Mrs. Stout said she began "Believercise" because she was upset by the lyrics she heard at exercise spas.

"The music started to affect my mind. I started to get wild, crazy thoughts, thought patterns I had never had before," Ms. Stout said.

"The words (in rock songs) suggest so much. I'm a pro-family person, and a lot of things were getting away from pro-family, husband-wife relationships."

She put her dance and exercise training to work and made up dance steps to go with swinging gospel music. She has copyrighted the routines and recorded an album.

"Believercise" is spreading, she said. Classes are beginning in California and Oregon.

"Some of the Christian songs have a strong beat nowadays," Mrs. Stout said. "We dance to B.J. Thomas and Leon Patillo, who used to be with the rock group Santana. It's all contemporary."

Her students say "Believercise" is the answer to their prayers.

Austin campus students, alumni celebrate school's centennial

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — A century ago Gov. Oran Roberts stood among 3,000 people on a hill dotted with mesquite, live oak and cactus, looked at a block of limestone and foresaw it as nothing less than the foundation of a "distinctive character — the Texas character."

Wednesday is the 100th anniversary of the laying of that cornerstone of the Main Building of the University of Texas, the largest school in the South, possibly the richest in the nation.

The centennial flag goes up Jan. 28, and before it is lowered Dec. 9, 1983, the eyes of 200,000 Texas alumni indeed will be on UT, or as they call it, "The University."

The university had been in the making since 1839, three years after Texas won its independence from Mexico at the Battle of San Jacinto, but its doors did not open — in the old temporary Capitol — until September 1883.

A state senator's pre-Civil War remark, "Universities are the ovens to heat up and hatch all manner of vice," illustrates what type of mind-set had to be overcome to create a public university.

ROBERTS, TEACHING law, was among eight faculty members. The first class had 221 students, and each had to know Latin and Greek. The fall enrollment at UT-Austin this year is 48,039; the faculty numbers 2,100. The main university has become an academic city, bulging at the seams, and there are branches throughout the state.

What Texans expected the Legislature to do about a state university was embedded in the Texas Constitution of 1876:

... establish, organize and provide for the maintenance, support and direction of a University of the first class, to be located by a vote of the people of this State, and styled, "The University of Texas" ...

Austin was selected as the site over Tyler, Waco, Thorp Springs and other cities.

The goal — "University of the first class" — has, to most minds, never been achieved, and once caused former chancellor Harry Ransom to say, perhaps in exasperation, "A university of the first class" is a phrase which can still be repeated, but idle repetition will wear it out.

Nevertheless, last year UT had enrolled 361 merit scholars, surpassed in the South only by Rice University with 505 and the Georgia Institute of Technology with 404.

A recurrent theme of observers from near and far is that UT is poised to make the kind of leap to academic prominence that the University of California at Berkeley made after World War II and that the University of Michigan did earlier.

"There is a general feeling on campus that things are happening, that there's a sense of direction, of purpose ...," said Dr. Peter Flawn, UT-Austin president. "Because we have some resources and the general level of support in the state is good, and because we have been building for the past 25 years, we are in a position now to realize or capitalize on what we've been doing for the last quarter century. And that is the achievement of real world-class status in terms of the quality and distinction of our faculty and our facilities, the programs that we offer ..."

WHAT UT has to offer may be the best bargain in American higher education, $60 a semester tuition for Texas residents and 6,300 courses from which to choose.

The American Council of Education has ranked four UT programs among the top five in the nation: linguistics, German, Spanish and botany. And it has ranked four in the second five: population biology, civil engineering, classics and geology, which is Flawn's specialty. It has produced over half of all the engineering Ph.D.s in the world.

In the 1970s, UT spent $41 million on a fine arts center, $32.5 million on a special events center, $12 million to enlarge the law school, $6.7 million for a swimming pool, $2.7 million for a baseball park and has under construction or up for bids $85.6 million in improvements.

Next December school officials will commemorate the addition of the five millionth volume to UT libraries, and the Humanities Research Center has acquired the best 20th century collection of British and American manuscripts in the world at a price director Decherd Turner likens to "buying Manhattan from the Indians for a handful of beads." This is a far cry from 1887, when the Legislature failed to appropriate money for the university library and students had to pitch in $1 each for magazines.

With oil and gas revenue piling up in the Permanent University Fund — the PUF — from 2.1 million acres of university lands in West Texas, UT also has lured Nobel Prize-winning physicist Steven Weinberg from Harvard; recruited Marshall Rosenbluth of Princeton, who worked with Edward Teller on the hydrogen bomb, to direct the new U.S. Institute of Fusion Studies; and hired physicist John Wheeler, a former close associate of Albert Einstein, also from Princeton.

Flawn makes $115,000 a year, nearly $30,000 more than Gov. Bill Clements but not much more than UT's "superstar" professors.

The school's alumni include Lady Bird Johnson, Sam Rayburn, John Connally, astronaut Alan Bean, television commentator Walter Cronkite, six Texas governors, 17 chief executives of major corporations, 21 Rhodes scholars, Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell and Tom Landry, who, of course, is "the only coach the Dallas Cowboys ever had."

"It's a can-do university in a can-do state," said Wheeler.

"I feel like to do we have some momentum," Flawn said in a recent interview. "I'm sure it could die very quickly if we ran into some unforeseen problems."

What type of problems? "Well, of course, if we lose the Permanent University Fund, the whole thing could come to a halt," Flawn said. "And that will be a major state decision, public policy decision."

The PUF was valued at nearly $1.7 billion on Aug. 31, and that figure appears low since the land is only carried on the books at $10 million. This already rivals Harvard's endowment, and it is expected to reach $3.3 billion by 1990. Two-thirds of the income from the fund, which is invested in stocks and bonds, is made available each year to UT and one-third to Texas A&M University.

UT-Austin's operating budget this year is $214.6 million, including $29.7 million in PUF interest income. Legislators with other colleges' interests at heart have long cast covetous eyes at the PUF.

"Do you want to maintain a couple of first-class institutions or don't you?" says Flawn. "If you don't and that is the public decision, the price is that we'll lose whatever opportunity that we have for being a world-class institution and might as well admit it."

NOW, HOWEVER, is the time for UT to enjoy its own birthday party, which has three parts: a major fund-raising effort, a centennial commission of 176 people which will make recommendations for UT's future and 200 symbolic celebrations or projects.

The $500,000 the university is spending to throw the year-long event is nothing compared with the value of the presents coming in.

Donors have given or pledged nearly $50 million for supplementing teacher salaries, student scholarships and other endowment funds, such as for libraries. This total already includes $18 million which will be matched out of university funds strictly for teacher salaries, and this dollar-for-dollar matching program could go as high as $70 million.

Two student organizations are even well on their way to raising $100,000 for a larger-than-life bronze longhorn to be placed on campus in honor of the school's mascot.

By September 1983, Flawn said, some 350 professors should hold endowed positions, which would mean 15 percent of the faculty would be getting endowment money in addition to their state salaries.

It was time for the 2:00 AM feeding of Marcus, our oldest son. Allergies had plagued his body so strongly that he had to be fed with an eye dropper every 15 min. Two years later, our 5-week old son, Adam, had undergone two surgeries and was being fed intravenously due to a stomach disorder at birth.

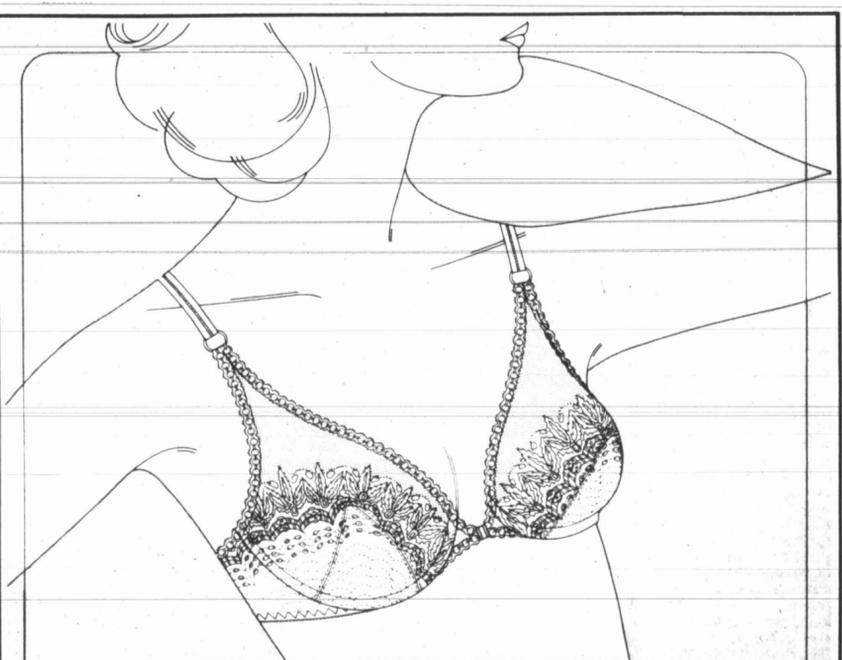

We called on our church family at Hillcrest for special prayer during these difficult times. We believe today that our sons' health, and our strength are due to the wonderful gift of God's love and power that He gives us when things seem to be darkest. We are thankful for a church family that strengthens one another in the strongest way possible ... prayer.

We have continued to grow as a family, physically and spiritually. At Hillcrest we feel that our children are involved with the best teachers, and nursery workers possible. We feel that one of the most important gifts we can offer our children is to be taught God's love as early as possible.

Greg Jaklewicz

Back to the grassroots

Ah, the joys of small-town football. After 10 weeks of watching the Big Spring Steers terrorize opponents, this writer had the opportunity to view an area team in action. It was off to foothills to Robert Lee for the Class A matchup between Forsan and Eden.

The Buffaloes need no introduction. Eden — not to be confused with "The Garden of..." — is located a few miles east of San Angelo. According to confirmed sources, there isn't much in Eden except, of course, the mighty Bulldogs, owners of a No. 5 ranking among size A schools across the state.

There isn't much in Forsan, for that matter. Except a lot of those black things that go up and down and pump black stuff out of the ground. And make some folks very, very rich.

Back to football. On the home side was Eden and the dominant color was blue. Fans were sporting tiny buttons that read "Paw Power" and had a blue pawmark on it. They were pretty excited about the game.

Across the way were the Forsaners. The dominant color was black here. I didn't see any buttons but if someone said something even vaguely anti-Buffalo, they would probably button the abusive lip. They were also pretty excited about the game.

Almost 500 people tried to crowd into the pressbox which was designed to hold maybe 10. The editor of the Eden Echo, the game announcer and Doug Nurse, sports scribe with the SA Standard-Times, surrounded me. All three were puffing furiously on cigarettes and with the pressbox shut tight to keep winter out, it grew quite foggy inside.

One of the highlights of the game was listening to the bands. Eden played the National Anthem and I think five of the bandmen had the wrong music sheets out. F.S. Key would've hardly recognized this version of his tune. At halftime, Forsan's musical entourage played... but just to their fans. I don't how they sounded because — with their backs turned — you couldn't here them on the home side.

I asked Doug about Eden and he told me to slow my vehicle down should I be passing through. "It's a speed trap, man," he warned. Whizzing home after the Eden-Sterling City game, Doug was stopped in the fair city.

"Some sort of emergency, young man?" the patrolman asked. "Sort of, I've got to meet a deadline," Doug offered. "I covered the Eden-Sterling City game tonight."

"Oh yeah," the Eden cop said. "Who won?"

"Eden, of course," the writer, hoping to avoid the penalty.

"Good... now let me see your license," the officer smiled.

Although Robert Lee was supposed to be a neutral site, the announcer definitely favored the team in blue. In fact, I was probably the only person in the pressbox that had a kind word for Forsan. But they still bought me a coke at halftime.

Speaking of halftime, Billy Adams — my constant football companion — overheard a conversation typical to small West Texas towns. The guilty parties were two mid-teen girls.

"Let's go get a blue slush," one girl said, turning towards the concession stand.

"Get a what?" her friend asked.

"A blue slush," she answered.

"I'd rather get a cowboy," her friend returned.

Well, in the end, the Bulldogs got them some Buffaloes. Quickness won out over size but it was mistakes that made the Buffs extinct, as far as the state playoffs go.

On the way home, the snake-like Forsan procession was king of the road except for the deer hunters getting any early start on things. Some of the campers were pulling boats. That puzzled me since it was too cold for deer to be swimming.

Billy and I were talking deer when my headlights brightened the eyes of a good-size doe on the shoulder of the road. With one leg raised, I thought it was about to bolt. Fortunately for my small economy car it didn't.

For Forsan — like most schools around the state — it's off to the basketball courts. But it was nice seeing the Buffs in action and getting back to the grassroots of Texas high school football.

BOEKER FOR A DOZEN — Forsan running back Lewis Boeker (42) is in the check by the swarming Bulldog defense that allowed the state's No. 5 rushes for a good gain in the third quarter against Eden. Boeker was held to claim a narrow 13-7 victory over the Buffaloes in Robert Lee.

Eden no oasis for Forsan

Buffaloes succumb to Bulldogs speed, mistakes 13-6

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

ROBERT LEE — Those mistakes. They'll getcha every time.

Fumbles and crucial penalties provided the deathtrap for Forsan here Friday night as the No. 5 state-ranked Eden Bulldogs pulled out a nervous 13-6 victory over the Buffaloes.

Eden, now 10-0-1, advances a step further in the playoffs, battling Goldthwaite (a 54-0 victor over Rochelle) in Class A post-season play. Forsan, runner-ups in the north zone of District 7-A, closes its season with a 7-3-1 record.

Both teams were generous with the football, setting each other up for touchdowns. A fumbled punt led to the Bulldogs' first touchdown late in the first half while a pass interception gave Mitch Hays a chance to dash 43 yards for a fourth quarter score that tied the game 6-6.

In playoff games, the official stats are most important. Even by tying the game, Forsan was not home-free. Tied in penetrations 2-2 but behind in first downs 10-7, the Buffs needed the extra point kick. Lewis Boeker put a solid boot into the ball but his aim was wide-right and Forsan was still behind in the race even with the score tied.

The Buffaloes had 8:26 left to remedy the situation but Eden said no dice. The Bulldogs marched from their 21 to the Forsan 14, notching four more first downs and a crucial penetration when Benny Robles ran to the Buff 16. A big aid in the drive was a piling on penalty against the Buffs.

Even when quarterback Jeff Rannefeld fumbled on fourth down from the 14, the Bulldogs had done a job on the Buffaloes. Forsan — not known for a potent passing attack — had 85 yards to march and only 3:56 to do it in.

The Buffs never got a chance to make things interesting. After getting one first down, a clipping penalty pushed Jan East's crew back to the 12 and three long passes went incomplete. Eden took over with 1:53 to play — adding another penetration — and scored moments later when end Junior Medders tossed a seven-yard strike to fellow receiver James Nicholas. He added the PAT and the Buffs were in a deep hole.

Forsan never had a chance to climb out. The kickoff was fumbled and recovered by super Bulldog Andrew Lopez. Eden ran out the clock and the season on the Buffaloes.

"We told them all week that they would do that if we turned the ball over," East said of Eden's opportunistic offense. "If we had scored that extra point, it might have been a little different."

The normally rugged Forsan running back was kept in check by the aggressive Bulldog defense. "They started getting in short yardage defenses and stopping our running game. We couldn't throw it," East shook his head.

The Buffs were used to grounding out the yardage and going to the air was something new. Todd East had to pass 11 times — way above the team average — and hit only three tosses for 16 yards. He was close on several long throws but timing with his receiving corps was off.

Eden drove 51 yards on its first possession as Rannefeld dashed 29 of those steps on an option play. Forsan held tough at its 20 and began a march of its own. Flashing some backfield quickness of its own, the Buffs kept the ball on the ground and moved to the Eden 11. Boeker lost three on a bobbed handoff and East was sacked on third down pass attempt.

The sophomore quarterback then tried a 40-yard field goal but his kick barely cleared the line of scrimmage and at 9:40, Eden had dodged a bullet. By keeping Forsan off the board, the Buffs couldn't play its ball-control game.

The 'Dogs didn't go anywhere but when Daniel Bristol lost the ensuing punt to Billy White at his 43, doom was in the air.

Quick-strike Stanton pummels Marfa, 44-7

FT. STOCKTON — The Stanton Buffaloes stamped through the Marfa Short Horn defense here Saturday night for a convincing 44-7 district victory.

The Buffaloes rotated nine running backs throughout the game and rolled up a total of 369 yards on the ground. The Stanton defense was not to be outdone by its offensive counterparts as it held Marfa to 20 total yards and no first downs in the first half. In fact the Short Horn offense didn't rack up a first down until the final play of the third quarter.

Stanton's first score came at the end of an eight-play 56-yard drive when Rocky Barnes rambled for a 13-yard touchdown with 7:10 left in the first period. Scott Church added the extra point to put the Buffs up 7-0.

Stanton's next scoring drive was set up by a short 26-yard Marfa punt that gave the Buff's excellent field position at the Short Horn 44.

Ten plays later, Mark Helms blasted through for a 10-yard run, and Church's kick was true to up the tally to 14-0 with 1:07 remaining in the first period.

The Buffs exploded for three touchdowns with less than three and a half minutes in the second period to turn the game into a rout.

The first TD in the explosive second period came when Stanton's Tony Ramos returned a punt 42 yards to the Marfa 46 to set up a Rocky Barnes' touchdown run of 20 yards with 3:27 left in the first half. Church added the PAT to make the score 21-0.

Oilers topple Texans

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

It's hard to describe the home debut of the Cunningham Oilers. The easiest way — and the simplest — is to say the Oilers defeated the Dallas Texans 18-12 in a game played in a moderate hurricane in Memorial Stadium.

The game — for all practical purposes — was played in the first half. In a wild scoring blitz, the Oilers out-pointed the Texans three touchdowns to two. The second half could have been left in the dressing room.

The highlight of the game was watching Texan receiver Darrell Terrell do his stuff. The 6-3, 195-pound athlete hauled in 13 passes from quarterback Randy Wade for a whopping 261 yards. In the first half alone, he had 10 catches for 210 yards and a 22-yard second quarter touchdown reception.

Wade hit 14 of 27 passes in the first half, most coming when he had the gale-force wind at his back. In the second half, the Texan passer went cold, connecting on just four of 16 tosses. The reasons? The non-existent Oiler secondary had better coverage and the line — particularly Leroy Brown — put more pressure on the Texas QB.

The Oilers scored the first two touchdowns of the game.

An interception by Mark Choate set up the first score. Choate stole a pass at the Texas 30. Billy Rumbaugh hit David Medlock for 15 yards and four plays later, Alvin Odom bulled his way into the end zone for the touchdown. The kick was blocked at 9:28 left in the first period.

With no time left on the clock, Thomas Willis deflected a Wade pass on the line, caught the lame duck and raced 40 yards for a touchdown. The effort was a repeat of the Oilers' only score two weeks ago against Wichita.

The kick try again was muffed but the Oilers were on top 12-0.

With the wind at his back, Wade went to work. He opened things up with a 39-yard bomb to Terrell down the middle and completed an 85-yard drive with a 22-yard pass to his favorite target.

The Oilers couldn't move the ball and the Texans took over again at their 43. A pass to Terrell picked up 43 quick yards and after a run for four, Wade passed 10 yards to James Mason to tie the game.

The Texans had struck twice inside four minutes but it became three touchdowns within five moments later. On the Oilers' first play from their own 16, Wesley High juked, ducked, wiggled and generally boogied down the remainder of the field. Again the PAT try was muffed and the eventually final score stood at 18-12.

The second half had no offense. Both teams ran conservatively against the wind. The Oilers were also conservative with the wind while the Texans were ineffective.

Wade ended the game 18-for-43 and 317 yards passing. High led all rushers with 122 yards, having 119 at the half.

The Oiler defense was tough against the run all night but with several late sacks of Wade, dropped the Texans to a mius 24 evening.

The Oilers play again next Saturday at 7:30 p.m. against Oklahoma City.

Antelopes glide by Red defense

RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Denver City Mustang fans brought a post with them to their bi-district playoff game at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

They stood it up in front of the stands and lashed a white flag to it. A sign hung from it which read: "THIS is a post."

But as full of fire as the Mustangs and their supporters were, they fell short of toppling the favored Post Antelopes, 24-10.

Just barely short. Post had to fight hard for the victory. That's something the now 11-0 Antelopes have not had to do much this year. They have averaged over 440 yards and around 42 points per game. They have been the top-rated 3-A team in Texas since before the season began.

So Denver City gave them the toughest fight of the year. The Mustangs ripped through the Post defense for 375 yards total offense, while holding the Antelopes to a well-below-average 272 yards.

But that's not all. Denver City dominated the first quarter, letting Post have the ball for only five plays, one of those a fumble the pressured Antelopes barely grabbed back for an eight-yard loss.

To complete the picture, the score was tied 10-10 with two minutes to play in the game. The teams were tied in penalties, but Denver City had a firm lead in first downs.

A 14-point victory went to Post, however—a plain fact that says a lot about the Antelopes. Will Kirkpatrick's woke up the slumbering Post offense with a 37-yard burst with 2:24 to give the Antelopes the points needed for victory. Moments later, Milton Williams broke 55 yards for an insurance score that corrales the fired-up Mustangs.

Denver City moved down to the Post 21-yard line on their very first possession. There they ran out of downs. Post took over, but had to punt the ball to the Mustang 33. Denver City then launched their 10-play, 67-yard drive that ended with quarterback Ty Seifek plunging across the goal with just 28 seconds left in the quarter.

The Antelopes must have thought they were in the wrong stadium. They regrouped, however, for a tug-of-war second quarter that was highlighted by quarterback Tim Tannehill's 57-yard punt that Denver City had to take on their own 1-yard line.

The Mustangs could not fight their way out of that hole. They punted from their own 6-yard line, but the kick was a line drive that Kirkpatrick grabbed and ran 30 yards to the Mustang 10-yard line. Tannehill scored a play later from the five to knot the halftime score.

The second half weaved a different tale. Neither team could fire up their offense for most of the third quarter. That changed when Denver City lost a fumble on the Post 28. From there, Tannehill started connecting with passes for the first time in the game. Two picture-perfect passes to Butch Burkhalter—one for 49 yards, another for 20—put the Antelopes at the Denver City 12.

Denver City held tight to force a fourth down. Post's Wade Giddens was on-target with a 22-yard field goal that changed the score to 10-7 for Post.

But not for long. Denver City returned the gesture with a 15-yard field goal from Brent Townsend after the Post defense dug deep to keep the Mustangs out of the end zone.

The score was tied with seven minutes to go in the game and Denver City had a decided lead in statistics.

That knowledge was enough for the Antelopes and Williams—who had been chained to only 13 yards on 18 carries. Right after the Mustang field goal, Williams chalked up 21 yards in four carries. Kirkpatrick then broke free for a 37-yard touchdown run to make the score 17-10 with 2:24 to play.

From that point, Denver City could get off nothing more than a 10-yard pass. Seifek was sacked at mid-field on fourth down. As if to make up for a terrible three quarters, Williams ran 55 yards for a salt-in-the-wound touchdown that gave Post their 24-10 victory.

The Mustangs went home with a 9-2 record and their heads high. Post will continue its playoff march against Amarillo River Road this weekend in Plainview.

They're not hanging a white flag yet.

GRADY'S CANTU CAN DO—Grady Wildcat Lino Cantu (33) gives chase to Highland ballcarrier Ron Swaringin (10) Friday night in Grady. The Hornets, rated No. 1 in the state in six-man football, fought off the stubborn Wildcats 74-28 to win the 2-A title with a perfect 10-0 record. Grady finished 6-1 for the year.

No. 1 Hornets sting Wildcats

GRADY—Grady High coach Richard Gibson is in total agreement with the folks that have rated the Highland Hornets No. 1 in the state.

"They are every bit as good as they as cracked up to be," Gibson said after his Wildcats were stung 74-28 by the No. 1 Hornets in a game called with 5:49 to play by the 45-point rule. Highland was won nine of its 10 games with the 45-point rule.

Blasting off with 36 points in the first quarter alone, Highland dropped Grady to a final season record of 6-4. The Hornets advance into the state playoffs with a 10-0 mark, meeting Southland next Friday in Jayton.

The game was marred by a major injury. Brete Bedwell of the Wildcats broke a collarbone late in the third quarter. The versatile Wildcat will miss half of the upcoming basketball season.

Bedwell left the game with 30 yards rushing on five carries and had completed four of six passes against the Hornets.

Highland scored three times before Grady got on the board. Harold Light dashed 45 and 6 yards and Royce Petty passes five yards to Carry Owens to begin the Hornet scoring blitz. Monty Richburg kicked two PATs.

The Wildcats narrowed the count to 22-8 on an 80-yard kickoff return by Matt McClure. Fred Garza booted the PAT.

Highland added two more scores in the opening quarter as Duane Hyde returned a punt 35 yards and Richburg scooted 11 for touchdowns. Richburg kicked one of two PATs.

Everett Wilson scored on a seven yard run for the Hornets while Dennis Sawyer passed 15 yards to McClure for Grady second quarter points. Highland led 44-14 at the half.

Petty passed to Curt Fullwood for a TD and Ron Swaringin ran 45 for third quarter Hornet scores. Lynn Key tossed a 37-yard scoring bomb to Sawyer for Grady.

Richburg got his second TD for Highland before Jay Billingsley hit McClure with a 25-yard TD pass in the fourth quarter. The game ended with Swaringin went to the air and hit Fullwood with an 18-yard toss.

Richburg had 138 yards on 15 carries for Highland. Key rushed for 58 yards for Grady. Grady passed for 177 yards as its running game was shut down. Sawyer caught five passes for 71 yards, Lino Cantu three for 57 and McClure three for 40.

Lake View quiets Tornados, 31-0

SAN ANGELO—Dwight Edmond scored two touchdowns and Troy Butts hit four extra points and a 38-yard field goal to lead powerful San Angelo Lake View to a 31-0 shutout victory over Lamesa here Friday night.

The Chiefs completed the regular season with a spotless 10-0 record and advance into the Class AAAA playoffs Saturday at 8 p.m. against Lubbock Dunbar (1-AAA runner-up) in Lubbock's Lowrey Field.

Lamesa—which went 0-10 last year—improved to notch to 1-9 this year but went winless in District 2-AAAA play.

Edmond was held to just 38 yards on 10 carries but scored on runs of one and nine yards for the Chiefs.

Whipple passed for 177 yards, hitting 11 of 26 throws in the game.

Lake View held Lamesa to just 95 yards total offense:

Lake View managed only 71 yards on the ground against the Golden Tornado defense.

San Angelo led 10-0 at half on Edmond's first TD and Butts' long second quarter field goal.

Edmond scored again in the third quarter and Jerome Rodgers hauled in a 40-yard scoring pass from Drew Whipple as the Chiefs built a 24-0 advantage.

John Rodgers scored on a three-yard run in the final quarter to close out the scoring.

Gilbert Arrendondo had 36 yards on 13 carries to lead the Tors while Jim Freeman added 27 yards.

LUBBOCK—The Permian Panthers picked up 171 yards total offense and shut down Lubbock Monterey in a 29-6 victory over the Plainsmen last night.

Permian advances in the playoffs to face El Paso Irving this weekend.

The Panthers held the Plainsmen to 128 yards rushing and 25 yards passing. Monterey was scoreless until the third quarter when Jay Douglas broke free for a 59-yard touchdown sprint.

Permian scored early in the first quarter on a 4-yard run by running back Mike Troglin. Troglin also scored in the second quarter on an 18-yard run.

Quarterback Brent Kelly took over the scoring in the second half. He added to Permian's tally on a 1-yard dive across the goal midway through the third quarter. Permian picked up another 2 points on a safety after a bad snap on a Monterey punt.

After Douglas' scoring run for Monterey Kelly scored again on a 2-yard run in the fourth quarter to give the Panthers a winning 29-6 lead.

Southwest holds off ACU in final minutes

SAN MARCOS, Texas (P)—Linebacker Tim Staskus stopped Edward Garner on a two-point conversion run with 1:25 left as Southwest Texas State edged Abilene Christian University 14-13 and clinched their third straight Lone Star Conference championship.

The victory was the 13th in a row for the Bobcats, the defending NCAA Division II champion. It was also the 10th victory for head coach Jim Wacker.

Abilene Christian trailed 14-0 going into the fourth quarter, but quarterback Loyal Proffitt hit Steve Parker with a 3-yard touchdown pass on the first play of the final period.

SWT finished with 206 yards and ACU with 186 in the defensive battle. Proffitt completed 14 of 35 for 153 yards. ACU fell to 5-4-1 for the year.

Ponies gamble to edge Raiders

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Bobby Leach took an across-the-field lateral and ran 91 yards with four seconds to play to give second ranked Southern Methodist an incredible 34-27 victory Saturday over Texas Tech and at least a tie for the Southwest Conference co-championship.

SMU, now 10-0 and 7-0 in SWC play, seemed destined to have their record soured after Ricky Gann's 28-yard field goal with 17 seconds left tied the score for Texas Tech.

But SMU Coach Bobby Collins dug deep into his bag of trick plays.

Blane Smith bobbed the kickoff at the Mustang 10 yard line and kept dribbling the ball around until the entire Tech return team was nearly upon him. He then snatched up the ball, faked a handoff and rifled it across field to Leach, who dashed the distance without being touched by a Red Raider. The play took 13 seconds.

SMU built a 24-10 lead over the scrappy Red Raiders, now 4-6 and 3-4, but Tech refused to quit and tied the game 24-24 on Jim Hart's 16-yard touchdown pass to Buzz Tatom and Anthony Hutchison's 71 yard run.

Jeff Harrell kicked a 23-yard field goal for the Mustangs to up their lead to 27-24 with 4:05 to go but Gann retaliated to set the stage for the trick theatrics. SMU's Eric Dickerson scored on touchdown runs of 28 and 9 yards and rushed for 115 yards on 21 carries. Craig James, the other half of the "Pony Express" tailback tandem, scored on a 16-yard run and had 97 yards in 19 carries.

However, they were both overshadowed by Hutchison, who carved out 206 yards on 39 carries.

Texas 38, TCU 21

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas survived a furious Texas Christian uprising Saturday and Darryl Clark's two second-half touchdowns to a 38-21 Southwest Conference verdict that fanned the flames of a TCU coaching upheaval.

With Coach F.A. Dry's job in jeopardy, the Horned Frogs struck for 18 rapid-fire points and a 21-17 half-time lead that collapsed under a flurry of second-half miscues.

Texas, ranked 20th and still a SWC title contender, drove 72 yards in the third period and Clark bolted the final seven steps for the decisive touchdown.

Texas linebacker Tony Edwards pounced on a TCU fumble in the final quarter and Clark wrapped up a 44-yard scoring drive by bursting in from the 2.

Arkansas 35, Texas AM 0

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Quarterback Tom Jones, benched last week, accounted for three touchdowns and set up another with a fourth down pass completion as 10th-ranked Arkansas crushed Texas A&M 35-0 Saturday night.

The victory set up a Southwest Conference showdown next week in Dallas between the Razorbacks and second-ranked Southern Methodist. The Mustangs are 10-0 and 7-0 in the conference. Arkansas is 8-1 and 5-1 in league play.

With quarterback Gary Kubiak on the sideline, the Aggies could do nothing.

The Aggies did not make their second first down until the final play of the third quarter. When Arkansas took a 28-0 lead five minutes deep in the third quarter on Jones' 1-yard run, the Aggies had run 26 plays and netted 36 yards. In the second quarter, when Arkansas scored 14 points, A&M ran nine plays — including two pass interceptions — and netted 1 yard.

Baylor 35, Rice 12

HOUSTON (AP) — Baylor quarterback Mike Brannan hit 10 of 11 first-half passes, including a 24-yard touchdown shot to Bruce Davis, as the Bears held off a mild third-quarter Rice rally Saturday en route to a 35-13 Southwest Conference football victory.

The Owls have lost 11 straight games since defeating Baylor 17-14 last season and could complete their first all-losing season in 71 years of football Saturday against crosstown rival Houston. Rice finished 0-9-1 in 1982.

Brannan completed his first seven passes of the game and finished the first half with 157 yards as the Bears' took a 21-6 intermission lead.

Rice fought back in the third quarter when quarterback Doug Johnson hit three key passes and ran 2 yards for a touchdown on a quarterback keeper.

The Bears latched on a 7-yard touchdown run by Allen Rice with 5:08 to play and sophomore Broderick Sargent ran 24 yards with 1:45 to go to end any Owl victory hopes.

The Owls got on the scoreboard first with the first of two field goals by Joel Baxter, a 53-yarder in the first quarter. It was only the third time this season Rice had led in a game, and came after defensive tackle Clenzie Pierson recovered a fumble by Baylor's Allen Rice at the Bear 26.

Tigers, Tide latest upset victims

Around the Nation

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Reggie Collier scored three touchdowns and Sam DeJarnette got two and rambled for 152 yards to lead Southern Mississippi to a 38-29 football victory Saturday over Alabama to hand the Crimson Tide its first loss at home since 1963.

Collier, directing the Golden Eagle offense to perfection, paced Southern to a 28-7 halftime lead as his team made good on its first 10 third-down conversions and scored on his first four possessions. Two of those touchdowns came on runs of 22 and 8 yards by the rangy quarterback.

Seventeenth-ranked Alabama, which had won 57 games in a row in Bryant-Denny Stadium, fought back to within six points early in the fourth period, but Steve Clark added a field goal and Southern held off the Tide for the upset.

Florida, back in 1963, was the last team to defeat Alabama in Tuscaloosa, 10-6.

Southern, which was slapped with a probation this week for illegal recruiting, had said it was making Alabama its bowl game. The outcome left both teams with 7-3 records.

Collier got 85 yards on 12 carries and Clemon Terrell got 71 on 19 in addition to DeJarnette's 152 yards as the Southerners ripped through the Alabama defense, especially in the first half when they compiled 219 yards on the ground.

Ricky Moore led Alabama's runners with 109 yards on 10 carries while Tide quarterback Walter Lewis completed 15 of 22 passes for 197 yards.

Craig Turner scored twice for Alabama and Joe Carter and Paul Carruth once each.

Miss St. 27, LSU 24

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Dana Moore kicked a 45-yard field goal in the fading seconds Saturday to lift the Mississippi State Bulldogs to a 27-24 upset of unbeaten and sixth-ranked Louisiana State in a frantic finish to a regionally televised football game.

Moore kicked the winning points with 20 seconds left, breaking the Bulldogs' six-game losing streak after it appeared Louisiana State had rescued a 24-24 tie on fullback Mike Montz' 35-yard touchdown run with 4:52 left.

Montz had scored shortly after Mississippi State went ahead 24-17 when quarterback John Bond and end Danny Knight teamed on a 64-yard pass-run touchdown play with 10:34 left in the fourth quarter.

Louisiana State, shut out of the Southeastern Conference championship earlier in the day by top-ranked Georgia's victory over Auburn, fell to 7-1-1, 4-1-1 in the SEC. Mississippi State is now 4-6 and 1-4.

Tiger quarterback Alan Risher hit 25 of 34 passes for 308 yards and two touchdowns.

The teams battled to a 14-14 tie in the first half, marked by Risher's two touchdown passes. He combined with split end Eric Martin on a 69-yard play in the first quarter and threw 11 yards to tailback Garry James in the second quarter. The two scoring passes gave him 28 for his career and 14 for the season, tying him with Bert Jones for school records in both categories.

Georgia 19, Auburn 14

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — All-American Herschel Walker, soaring past the 5,000-yard-career mark, raced for 171 yards and two touchdowns as top-ranked Georgia trimmed Auburn 19-14 Saturday to capture its third consecutive Southeastern Conference football championship and a berth in the Sugar Bowl.

Walker smashed over from the three with 8:42 remaining to erase a 14-13 lead Auburn had taken five minutes earlier when 170-pound scatback Lionel James streaked 87 yards for a score.

Walker, who also scored on a 47-yard scamper in the second quarter, lifted his career total to 5,091 yards, moving ahead of former Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers of South Carolina into fourth place on the NCAA's all-time rushing list.

Auburn threatened after Walker's go-ahead score.

Sonics win over Spurs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — David Thompson scored 32 points as the undefeated Seattle SuperSonics downed the San Antonio Spurs 107-98 in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night.

Thompson hit 10 points in the final period, in which the Sonics never trailed, and Seattle extended its record to 9-0. Gus Williams contributed 23 points, John Sigma 18 and Lonnie Shelton 10 for the winners.

San Antonio's George Gervin scored 24 points to go over the 20,000 mark for his career. The loss dropped the Spurs to 6-3. A crowd of 14,814, the Spurs' largest home crowd of the season, watched the contest.

reaching the Georgia 14 before being set back by a penalty and two defensive losses, and turned the ball back to the Bulldogs on downs on a fourth-down incompletion at the Georgia 20.

The victory lifted the Bulldogs to 10-0 for the year and 6-0 in the SEC — the 18th conference conquest in a row for Georgia.

Penn St., North-Dame 14

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Todd Blackledge's 48-yard touchdown pass to Curt Warner early in the fourth quarter lifted 5th-ranked Penn State to a 24-14 victory over Notre Dame Saturday and virtually clinched a major bowl bid for the Nittany Lions.

The victory was the ninth against one loss for Penn State, which is idle next week when the bowl bids come out. The Lions close their regular season against Pitt Nov. 26.

Freshman Allen Pinkett's 93-yard kickoff return late in the second quarter gave the Irish a 14-13 lead at the half, but Notre Dame, having lost quarterback Blair Kiel early in the game, was unable to muster a meaningful attack in the second half.

Nebraska 48, Iowa St. 10

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Junior quarterback Turner Gill ran for one touchdown and threw for another as No. 4-ranked Nebraska trounced Iowa State 48-10 in a Big Eight Conference football game Saturday.

Gill scored on a 22-yard run with 11:58 left in the first half to erase a 7-7 tie. Following Doug Wilkening's 9-yard touchdown run with 5:42 to play in the first quarter, ISU quarterback Dave Archer evened the score with a 3-yard run with three seconds left in the period.

Gill hit split end Todd Brown with a 49-yard scoring strike with 1:13 left in the half.

Junior I-back Mike Rozier, the nation's fifth leading rusher, scored on the Huskers' opening drive of the second half with a 5-yard run, capping an 83-yard drive in 11 plays. Rozier, who had 103 yards in 19 carries, left the game in the third quarter with an ankle injury.

Florida St., Louisville 14

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tailback Greg Allen ran for 173 yards and four touchdowns as ninth-ranked Florida State crushed Louisville 49-14 in a nationally televised game Saturday night.

Allen increased his national scoring leadership to 120 points, a 13-point-per-game clip, and broke Florida State's season scoring record of 104 points set by kicker Bill Capece in 1980.

The Seminoles raised their record to 8-1, while the Cardinals fell to 4-6 before 51,233 fans at Doak Campbell Stadium and a cable-TV audience.

Allen, a sophomore from Milton, Fla., scored on runs of 1 yard in the second quarter, 1 and 7 yards in the third period and 4 yards in the fourth quarter.

Clemson 24, Maryland 22

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Reggie Pleasant's fumble recovery with 3:48 left blunted Maryland's fourth quarter comeback and ensured a 24-22 victory for 11th-ranked Clemson over 18th-ranked Maryland Saturday.

Clemson, 7-1-1 after winning its seventh straight, assured itself of at least a tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship with a 5-0 mark. Maryland is 4-1 in league play, and each team has one game left. Maryland, 7-3, scored on a 37-yard pass from Boomer Esiason to Greg Hill and on Rick Badanjek's second one-yard TD of the game in the fourth quarter, and added a two-point conversion.

Pitt 24, Army 6

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Dan Marino threw three short touchdown passes while Pittsburgh's defense shackled Army as the eighth-ranked Panthers methodically marched to a 24-6 victory Saturday in college football.

With scouts from the Sugar, Gator and Fiesta bowls in attendance, Pitt had no trouble rebounding from last week's 31-16 loss to Notre Dame — which knocked the Panthers out of the No. spot — in running its record to 8-1.

Michigan 52, Purdue 21

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan tailback Lawrence Ricks ran the ball 31 times for 196 yards and two touchdowns as the Wolverines clinched the Big Ten football championship and a Rose Bowl berth with a 52-21 victory over Purdue Saturday.

The Wolverines, 8-0 in the conference and 8-2 overall, will represent the Big Ten against the Pac-10 Conference champion in the Rose Bowl game on Jan. 1 regardless of how they fare in their final regular season game against Ohio State next week. Purdue fell to 3-5 and 3-7.

Oklahoma 41, Missouri 14

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Kelly Phelps threw Oklahoma's first touchdown pass of the season and scored on a 38-yard run as the Sooners beat Missouri, 41-14, Saturday en route to a Big Eight title showdown with Nebraska.

Oklahoma became the last of the 97 football teams in its division to score with the pass while backs Marcus Dupree, Stanley Wilson and Steve Sewell rushed for touchdowns.

Ski Ruidoso — home of the Sierra Blanca and Eagle Creek ski experience. Where Rocky Mountain blue skies... crystal clear air... and plenty of white powder make Ruidoso a skier's dream.

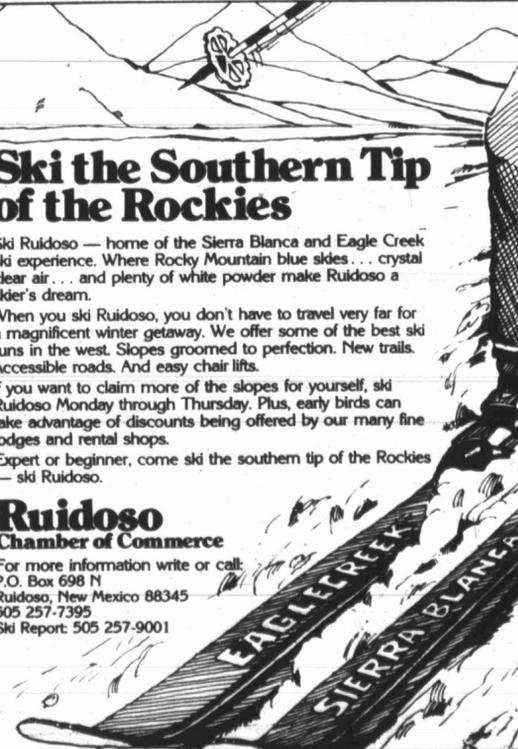

When you ski Ruidoso, you don't have to travel very far for a magnificent winter getaway. We offer some of the best ski runs in the west. Slopes groomed to perfection. New trails. Accessible roads. And easy chair lifts.

If you want to claim more of the slopes for yourself, ski Ruidoso Monday through Thursday. Plus, early birds can take advantage of discounts being offered by our many fine lodges and rental shops.

Expert or beginner, come ski the southern tip of the Rockies — ski Ruidoso.

Card of Thanks 115
 In the midst of our Sorrows, we wish to express our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many relatives, friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the loss of our beloved husband, father and grandfather, Roland H. White. We especially wish to thank Brother Guy White and June for their consoling words, all the donors of the many beautiful floral offerings, the pallbearers, the Singer Dwayne Clawson; the Eagle Lodge 284, and Dr. V.T. Smith for their kindness and the Nalley Pickle Funeral Home for the efficient management of the service.
 Mrs. Roland H. White and Children

Pryor pounds Arguello

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fireworks were set off at the Orange Bowl just before the main event, then quickly were erased from mind by a display of heart and skill performed by Aaron Pryor and Alexis Arguello.

Pryor, thirsting for the recognition as a great fighter, and Arguello, bent on becoming the first man to win four world titles, fought with ferocity, skill and heart Friday night.

When it was over many in a crowd of 23,800 were limp from the excitement, and Arguello was stretched unconscious on the canvas.

At the end of 13 rounds filled with rawling and boxing...and courage...udge Ken Morita of Japan had Arguello leading 127-125 (5-3, with five even rounds).

But referee Stanley Christodoulou of South Africa and judge Ove Ovesson each favored Pryor 127-124 (6-3-4 in rounds).

"I felt I was in control of the fight all long," said the 26-year-old Pryor.

In the 14th he took total control. Early in the round, the 5-foot-6½ Pryor caught the 5-9½ Arguello with a average right to the jaw, quickly allowed by a left. The World Boxing Council lightweight champion and one of six men to win titles in three weight classes staggered across the ring to ropes.

Pryor, called the Hawk, likes to shout, "What time is it?" and have his nourage below, "It's Hawk time."

It was Hawk time. Pryor pounced, trapping Arguello against the ropes and smashing at east 14 blows to the head before Christodoulou jumped in and stopped at 1:07 of the 14th round.

As Christodoulou pulled Pryor way, Arguello slumped unconscious on the canvas where he lie on his back, lood running from an ugly cut above is left eye.

Arguello's handlers and a doctor jumped into the ring and administered aid for several minutes before Arguello could walk from the ring with help. The native of Nicaragua, who lives in nearby King's Bay, left to a thunderous ovation from a crowd that was heavily Latin American.

Arguello passed up a news conference because he was emotionally drained, according to an aide.

Arguello's handlers decided he should go to a hospital and it was announced that he had. But Bill Miller, an adviser, said earlier this morning that instead Arguello had gone home where he had been attended to by his physician.

Before the fight, Pryor had said, "I hope after this fight, the boxing world will recognize my talent and ability as a great champion — 31-0, with 29 knockouts...and I've got to prove myself."

He proved himself...with boxing as well as bawling.

In the first, Pryor, who weighed the class limit of 140 pounds hurt Arguello, 138½ (3½ pounds more than the lightweight limit), with a five-punch flurry to the head and with a seven-punch barrage to the head.

But Arguello showed the poise developed in 80 previous fights of which he had won 76, lost 4 and scored 62 knockouts. He won 19 straight championship fights in becoming the WBA featherweight and WBC junior lightweight and lightweight champion.

Pryor kept the pressure on in the first five rounds, then in the middle rounds began boxing and using his left jab effectively.

"I felt I had to prove to myself that I can box against a fighter who can counterpunch and is a true champion," said Pryor. "He showed me there are fighters with hearts as big as mine when he weathered the storm in the first five rounds."

"He started picking me apart in the middle rounds like I thought he would. Then I stormed him again."

For most of the fight, Pryor threw the most punches, but Arguello's blows seemed sharper and harder. He rocked Pryor several times, but could not put him down.

"He stung me several times, but he never stung me and made me think it was over," said Pryor, who had won six of his previous title fights by knockout, but had been knocked down in the first round in three of them.

It looked as if Pryor might go in the 11th round when he was hurt by a right to the head and left of the body just before the bell.

Then Pryor, who had been into the 12th round only once before, stepped up the pressure in the 12th and held his own in the thirteenth, although he was staggered by a right late in the round.

Most big fights are touched by controversy, and so was this one. A spokesman for Home Box Office, the cable company which televised the fight, said between the 13th and 14th rounds Panama Lewis, Pryor's trainer, could be heard saying to another:

"Don't give me that one (bottle), give me the one with the special mix I made myself."

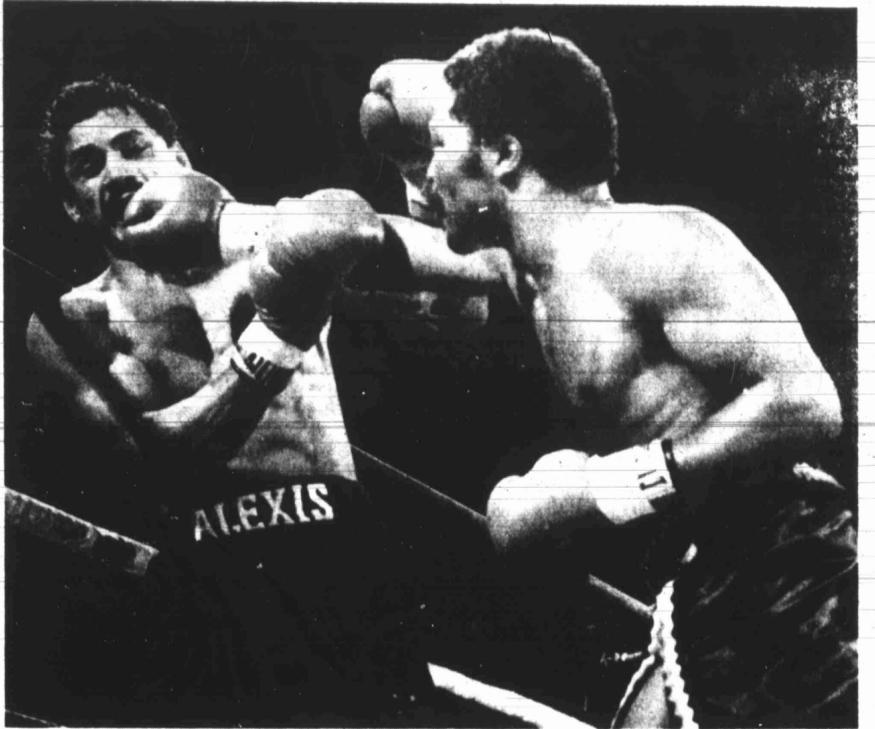

Lewis denied saying it, and said the bottles contained only water.

The knockout was the 24th straight for Pryor, who now surely will get the recognition as a fighter he has sought for so long.

Before the fight, Pryor had talked about fighting fellow-Ohioan Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini of Youngstown, the WBA lightweight champion.

Arguello remains the WBC lightweight champion, and perhaps he will fight Mancini, whom he has beaten once, in a lightweight title unification match. Perhaps he will decide to close his illustrious career.

"If Arguello loses, he's still a champion," Pryor had said. "After this, I'll either be working for a million or $4.95 an hour."

Hays runs for lone FHS score

Like it has all year, Eden took immediate advantage of the mistake. White burst for 13 and Benny Robles for 10 and the Bulldogs were at the Forsan five. Robles scored one play later and Eden led 6-0 with 4:48 left in the half. The pass for two points failed.

Rannefeld fumbled at his 33 with 48 seconds left Forsan had a shot. On fourth down, East was intercepted by Medders in the end zone.

Forsan had all sorts of chances in the third quarter. First, Bristo and Bobby Little blocked a punt at the Eden 41. Two sacks of East turned the ball back over to the Bulldogs at their 39.

Four plays later, Doyle Robles fumbled at the 48. East's pass to Bobby Headrick was incomplete on fourth down. But the third time's a charm. Rannefeld was intercepted by Ramon Miranda at the 45. Two runs gained two yards before East pitched to the speedy Hays. With Eden playing up tight, all Hays had to do was get around the right corner. He did and it was footrace the light-hooved Buffalo won easily.

But the conversion failed — like it did thrice in a three-point loss to Roscoe — and Forsan wasn't much closer to victory. Eden's time-consuming 65-yard drive buried all hope of a Buff win.

"They do anything we weren't ready for," East said in the dressing room. "They played better defense than we had seen them on film. That Lopez is a fine football player. They have a good football team."

Lopez — just a sophomore — is one of two large Bulldogs at 192 pounds. He and Rannefeld — also a defensive end — held the Buffs to 131 yards on the ground. Benny Robles had 68, Rannefeld 57 and Doyle Robles 40 for the lightning quick Eden attack.

Buffaloes defense shuts down Marfa

On the ensuing kickoff Marfa back Mike Rivera fumbled the ball allowing the Buffs to fall on the ball at the Short Horn 25. Seven plays later Koy Blocker scored on a three-yard run. A bad snap foiled the conversion leaving the score at 27-0 with 2:27 left in the half.

Marfa again was struck with bad luck on the ensuing kickoff as the Short Horns failed to field the ball and Stanton's Darren Hagan covered the live ball on the Marfa 25.

With 11 seconds remaining, Robby Barnes bulld over for a one-yard score to put Stanton up 33-0. Church's PAT was good for a 34-0 lead as the half ended.

The second half was purely academic as Church booted at 20-yard field goal with 29 seconds remaining in the third quarter. The Buffs final score came on a Tony Ramos eight-yard run set up by a 38-yard pass play from quarterback Darren Sorley to Tony Esparsa.

Marfa's lone score came on the first play of the fourth quarter on a double reverse pass as halfback Martin Quintinar hit George Colombo with a 55-yard pass. Marco Franco kick the conversion. Stanton record is now 8-3 for the year.

Korean boxer critically hurt

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — South Korean lightweight Duk Koo Kim was described as "just about dead" Saturday night by a neurologist who operated on him after he was knocked unconscious in a fight with World Boxing Association lightweight champion Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini.

"There are no signs of any brain function," Dr. Lonnie Hammargren said after the nearly three-hour surgery. "There are no reflexes, no movement, nothing."

Hammargren said there was no hope for Kim's survival. "What little there is left (of brain function) will stop working after a short while," he said. "The pressure in his head will go up and up and that will be it."

Hammargren said there was a large blood clot on the right side of Kim's brain. He said he did not know whether the blood clot was caused by a culmination of blows or by two vicious shots to the head that knocked the South Korean out at the beginning of the 14th round.

Hammargren said Kim was being kept alive by life support machines. A powerful left-right combination of Mancini to open the 14th round sent the top-ranked challenger sprawling on the canvas beneath the ropes in the nationally televised fight. He staggered to his feet, but fell again and was unconscious as referee Richard Green moved in to stop the fight at 19 seconds of the round.

Dr. Donald Romeo worked on the South Korean for several minutes before Kim was taken from the ring on a stretcher and rushed to the hospital.

The knockout came after a bruising 13 rounds that saw Kim take a beating from the champion but refuse to go down. The challenger won only a few rounds early in the fight and was well behind on the scorecards of the three ringside judges. But his southpaw, clinching style kept Mancini off-balance.

Mancini, defending his lightweight title for the second time since winning it with a first-round knockout of Art Frias last May, seemed confused by Kim's style during the early rounds.

Kim landed several hard overhand lefts to Mancini's head during the bout and attempted to follow up on them with brief flurries. Mancini, however, never seemed hurt during the fight and took the best that Kim had to offer. Kim, 134½, hit Mancini with several apparent low blows and had a point taken away on the judges' scorecards by referee Green in the 10th round.

Mancini, also 134½, began solving Kim's crouching style during the later rounds and set him up for the knockout by landing some 40 straight blows to begin the 13th round.

Kim, from Seoul, South Korea, came back, however, landing a good overhand left and following it with a flurry that made Mancini back off.

But the Youngstown, Ohio, fighter was not to be denied in the 14th round when he came rushing off his stool to catch Kim with the final combination.

Mancini earned $250,000 and ran his record to 25-1 with 20 knockouts. Kim, who was paid $20,000, slipped to 17-2-1 with the loss.

The fight before about 6,500 fans at the newly constructed outdoor stadium at Caesars Palace was televised by CBS-TV.

Denver tips Mavs

DALLAS (AP) — Alex English and Dan Issel lead Denver to a 140-130 victory over Dallas Saturday night in a National Basketball Association game.

English scored 40 and Issel 28 as the Nuggets snapped a 3-game losing streak and extended the Mavericks' consecutive losses to four.

English totaled 12 points in each of the last two quarters and was aided by Bill Hanzlik, who hit 12 of his 18 points in the fourth period.

Denver's 140 points is a record for Reunion Arena, and English's 19 field goals also set a new building mark. The Nuggets, 3-6, led by 12 points in the third quarter.

Stacy Keach lives between 'Blue' and 'Gray'

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — Stacy Keach, whose stage is divided North and South, says he hesitated before donning a Union officer's blue uniform for the television miniseries "The Blue and the Gray."

"I was born in Savannah, Ga., and I'm proud that I was born in the South," he says. "When I was six months ago my family moved to California. But my mother was from Texas and in the summers we'd visit and I remember playing Civil War. Having a father from the North and a mother from the South I always felt caught in the middle."

"So I had a queasy feeling when they told me I was going to play a Union officer in 'The Blue and the Gray.'"

Keach stars as Maj. Jonas Steele in the eight-hour miniseries which CBS will telecast tonight (at 7 p.m. on channel 7), Tuesday and Wednesday. John Hammond also stars as John Geysler, a Southern who becomes an artist-correspondent for Harper's Weekly. Both are fictional characters, but the events they participate in are based on fact.

Steele is a sort of troubleshooter for President Abraham Lincoln and Geysler is a wide-ranging correspondent, so the two characters (plus their two related families, one North, one South) are able to tie all the other characters and events of the Civil War together.

"The Blue and the Gray" is based on the personal views and impressions of Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Bruce Catton, who prepared the original story before his death. Ian McLellan Hunter wrote the screenplay. Gregory Peck makes his television dramatic debut as Lincoln, and Sterling Hayden plays John Brown.

Director Andrew V. McLaglen, experienced in Civil War stories and Westerns, filmed the sweeping epic entirely on location in Arkansas. A number of Civil War reenactment groups participated in the production.

"We went back to Arkansas and showed the film in Fayetteville," says Keach. "Everyone was quiet when it ended. I was expecting a reaction like a Razorback game. We forget the effect the Civil War has had on our lives, particularly in the South. Nearly everyone can point to an ancestor who was in the war."

He says he has been reading a lot of about the Civil War, not only as background for his role, but because he and his brother, James, wrote the post-Civil War movie "The Long Riders" and are now writing a sequel.

"Catton had such a poetic quality and a passion for those events," he says. "His health was failing at the time the project began. Lou Reda (co-executive producer) says Catton felt this could be one of the best means of conveying his findings about the Civil War to the public. More would see this than would ever read about the war."

Keach says after he was cast as Steele he went over the script with his friend Alejandro Rey. "We coach one another for parts," he says.

Keach, who has just completed a starring role in the movie "That Championship Season," says, "All homework, all coaching, is to arrive at being flexible so that you can see the elephant from 360 degrees."

"Jonas is a very passionate, adventurous, chivalrous kind of man. I see him essentially as an essence of the romantic image of the war. He was dedicated to Lincoln and Gen. Grant. I think he goes through an evolution of change when he suffers a personal tragedy. He becomes a better man. He's a survivor."

Keach says he rarely does television because of a bad experience with the series "Caribe." He was attracted to "The Blue and the Gray" because he gets to play a romantic part. He says, "I usually play the heavy. I rarely get the girl. I think this is a wonderful opportunity to expand my career."

T-Bone rocks; Fashion flops

• "TRAP DOOR" — T-Bone Burnett, Warner Bros. With this six-song EP, Texas-born songwriter T-Bone Burnett has blended two very diverse styles — folk rock and New Wave — and come up with his own original and listenable sound.

"Trap Door" is easy-going, yet driving. It's serious, but it has a quirky sense of humor. It's difficult to classify, and it grows more interesting with each listening.

Burnett is an evangelical Christian who, according to rumors, played a large role in the conversion of Bob Dylan, a close friend and musical influence.

But these songs are far from spirituals. "The Lord" gets no direct mention, though the lyrics are certainly concerned with absolute rights and wrongs.

Mostly the album is just a joy to listen to. As a singer, Burnett sounds like Dylan and John Lennon. He's got Lennon's sensitivity and he has mastered Dylan's ability to hold and twist syllables to give them added emotion.

As a guitarist, Burnett, along with his three-piece band (rhythm guitar, drums and bass), alternates between something approaching rockabilly, Police-style rhythms and a tight acoustic-guitar folk sound.

But it's as a songwriter that Burnett shines. The title cut is filled with phrases pointing out life's Catch-22s: "It's a funny thing about humility/When you think you're being humble/You're no longer humble," he sings sympathetically, and follows up with: "It's a funny thing about love/The harder you try to be loved/The less loveable you are."

His emotion-filled chorus — "Tonight, the world looks like a different place. Tonight, the moon is shining on my face... Tonight, we find ourselves alone at last..." — recognizes these traps is at least a small step toward being at peace with yourself.

"Poetry," like Dylan's "Precious Angel," seems to be a love song to both a woman and a spiritual saviour — as if the beauty of the love between God and Man can be felt in the love between man and woman. "I love you more than dreams and poetry," he sings. "I love you more with every breath I draw." It's a love that can transcend our world.

As good as "Poetry," "Trap Door" and another gem, "I Wish You Could Have Seen Her Dance," are, the album's most engaging song is a version of the Ruben and Styne chestnut "Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend."

He shows how good the song is, but takes it places its composers never imagined. "There may come a time when some hardboiled employer/Thinks you're awful nice/But get that ice or else no dice," he sings with a knowing sneer. He closes the verses with the most elegantly understated "Let's rock" you've ever heard.

The whole album rocks — with wit, wisdom and passion. — By RICHARD HORN

• "FABRIQUE" — Fashion, Arista Records What a terrible album. In the words of Moon Zappa "Gag me with a spoon; barf me out." I've heard vacuum cleaners that were more exciting.

This foursome of dubious gender has managed to write the same song nine of ten times — the only exception being "Slow Blue," predictably a slow blues number. What imagination.

Fashion is evidently caught up in THE LOOK since they have obviously devoted much time to just the right hairstyles, clothing and album covers. Even the lettering on the album is peculiar — all of the o's have a slash in them. Their hard-eyed, New Wave look does not help the music at all.

Every cut on "Fabrique" is rendered numbingly boring by the repetitive, dull thud of the rhythm section. That "thump, thump" sounds like a tennis shoe slapping a corpse. Despite some rarely-utilized keyboards, every track plods along its funky course into the brain like a frontal lobotomy performed with a butter knife and ball-peen hammer.

By side two, the funk is driven into the brain like a torpid slug, where it lies lifeless and stupid.

Evidently Fashion — just four white guys — saw themselves as the progenitors of a meld between black soul and funk with the cool economy of New Wave. However, their vacuity of original ideas, coupled with an appallingly unimaginative use of synthesizers, guitars, drums and everything else, has left a wasted hunk of vinyl.

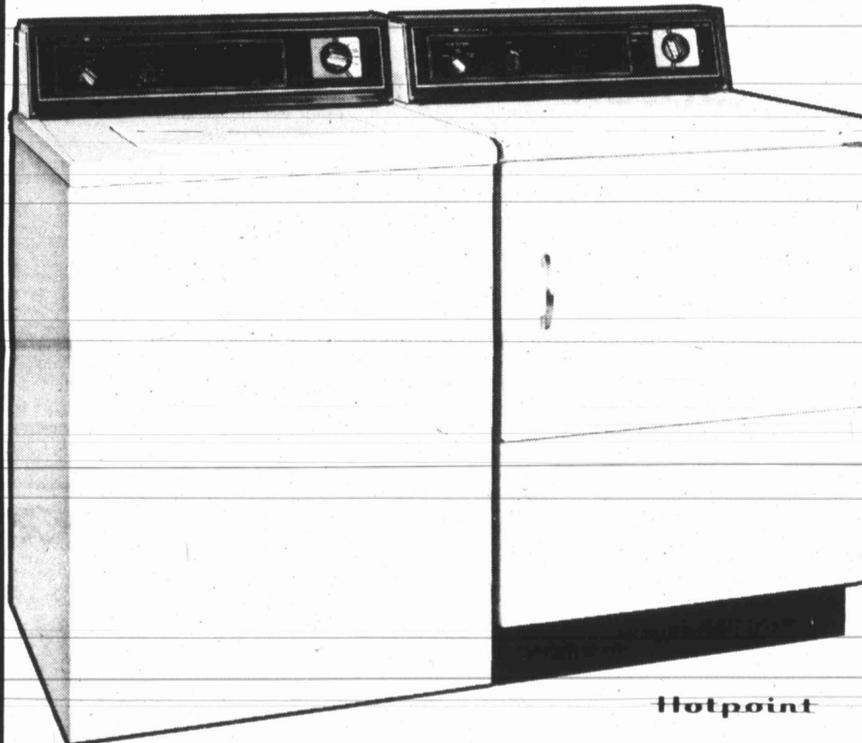

Sadly, everyone needs to stay out of Fashion on this one. — By MIKE DOWNEY

Children's styles featured in Fashion Parade

By TINASTEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

Big Bird, Cookie Monster and Oscar the Grouch will be on hand at the "Fantastic Christmas Fashion Fun Parade" this Saturday. The parade of styles will clue moms (and grandmother, aunts and sisters) in on the latest in children's fashion. The show is presented by the March of Dimes.

The style show will be held at 10 a.m. in Dora Roberts Community Center. Additional special guests will be Miss Piggy, The Rainbow Connection, Santa Claus and Big Spring's First Lady Mrs. Clyde Angel. Mrs. Barbara Holdampf, chairman of the executive committee of the March of Dimes, will be the fashion commentator.

Children's fashions will feature clothes from two-year-old to pre-teen sizes. Fashions will be provided by Spoiled Rotten Children's Boutique, Elegant Elephant, Grandmother's Delight and Miss Texas Shop.

As a special attraction, a "Miss Piggy Contest" will be held with four prizes for the different age groups. The March of Dimes hopes to have many young "Miss Piggies" participating in the contest.

The fashion parade is sponsored by Bill Lasater of Highland Pontiac, Datsun, Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge and Dodge Trucks, Inc. and by H. McMillan of McMillan Printing and Office Supply.

Tickets for the style show are $2 for children and $4 for adults with the proceeds going toward the March of Dimes. Tickets are available in all four children's clothing stores. All children attending must be accompanied by their mothers.

Teaching was never routine for Elizabeth Johansen

By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

Long-time Bible teacher Elizabeth Johansen was once asked "How can you do the same thing every year?" Mrs. Johansen replied, "I don't."

Although she recently had to stop teaching due to a serious illness, Mrs. Johansen, 72, began teaching Bible to local youngsters at Big Spring High School in 1945. And in all those years, the job never became routine, she says. Every year was a different experience.

"I can't think of anything I'd rather teach," she said. "I find it very satisfying to work with young people." Her subject matter remained the same, yet each year she was confronted by a different group of students.

She explains that each student she encountered had a special talent. Each student would ask unique questions and each prepared personal projects to turn in for class assignments. It was because of the students that her job never became routine, she says.

"When I graduated from college, I was trying to decide what I wanted to do with my life. I thought about working as a librarian or as a coach."

"I wanted to do something that would deepen as the years went by. I wanted something that I could never feel like I had finished. I wanted to keep that feeling of enrichment, of depth."

"That has been true here. Teaching has been very satisfying work for me."

Mrs. Johansen was born in Oklahoma and moved to Texas when she was three months old. She graduated from the University of Texas at Austin, and later entered the Presbyterian School of Christian Education in Richmond, Va., in 1938, where she earned a master's in religious education. She then taught Bible in Clinton, S.C., at the Thornhill Orphanage, a home for children ranging from infants to high school age.

IN THE EARLY 1940s, Mrs. Johansen accepted a job as director of Christian education at First Presbyterian Church in Lubbock. In 1945, she was contacted by the Rev. James Moore, the then pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring. Rev. Moore represented the Minister's Fellowship and invited

AWARDED PLAQUE — Mrs. Elizabeth Johansen, center, accepts a plaque of appreciation for her many years of service as teacher in the Big Spring Bible Class. Presenting the plaque are the Rev. Carroll Kohl, left, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Michael Patrick, pastor of the Baptist Temple Church.

Mrs. Johansen to accept the job of teaching Bible to Big Spring students. The class had been organized about two years before her arrival. Teachers prior to Mrs. Johansen included a Webb Air Force Base officer and the wife of a minister.

Members of the Howard County Ministers' Fellowship recently presented a plaque to Mrs. Johansen. The plaque says, "We appreciate the many years of faithful service Mrs. Johansen has given in making the Bible class probably the most outstanding high school Bible class anywhere," said Rev. Carroll Kohl, president of the Fellowship.

The class is operating under newly-appointed teacher Virginia Powers and is sponsored each year by the Howard County Minister's Fellowship. Funds for it are collected through a public drive each year. Kohl said, money is collected from "people who live in Big Spring, and former residents. We get money from all over the United States."

The Bible class is sponsored each year because "the school cannot pay someone to teach Bible. But the state does allow private organizations" to sponsor such classes. The class locally deals with literature of the Bible and is taught as a historical survey. Students enrolled are in it are given one hour's credit for the course.

The Bible class "Gives high school students exposure to the Bible without a denominational slant," Kohl says. Mrs. Johansen said the class offered students a chance to familiarize themselves with the Bible even if they do not attend any church.

Mrs. Johansen accepted the invitation to come to Big Spring and began teaching Bible full-time until the state passed a regulation that World History must be taught on the sophomore level. Since many of her students were sophomores, she accepted a smaller student load and began teaching sophomore English. She remained in both capacities until she resigned.

ACTIVITIES IN the Bible class are designed to "enhance learning facts" about the Bible and to give the teacher a chance to "get acquainted with the students."

During her years as teacher, Mrs. Johansen and her students "made 8 millimeter movies of the lives of David, Moses and Christ. We also presented plays in school assemblies. The group also gave an outdoor nativity pageant one Christmas," she said.

More recently, Bible classes under Mrs. Johansen's tutelage made an electric map of the journeys of the Paul. Students in the class were also responsible for giving devotionals each morning before school and during advisory periods.

Each year, Mrs. Johansen said she took her students on a day trip "where they would learn something and also have a good time." Recently, the classes visited Palo Duro Canyon, the Davis Mountains and Dallas, where they viewed the Miracle of Pentacost, a painting at the Biblical Art Center.

Bible is a course "That everyone needs, no matter what they do in life," Mrs. Johansen said. "The course offers an overall picture of the Bible."

For more serious students of the Bible, students who planned to go on into college and study religion, Mrs. Johansen said she often heard favorable reports about her classes. Students enrolled in college level Bible courses often told her the course helped them in future studies.

Mrs. Johansen met her husband,

Johnny, in 1947. The two were married in 1947, and Johansen went to work as superintendent of public areas for the city. At one time, the couple and their children lived in housing located within the Comanche Trail Park.

The Johansen's children include John, who is working on his degree in family counseling in Denton while teaching as Texas Women's University, Betty Dever, supervisor of the school at the Christ Fellowship Center, and Edward, who with his wife Terri runs Johansen Nursery.

Mrs. Johansen began teaching at the beginning of this fall semester, but was plagued with a severe pain in her shoulders, and consulted local physicians.

After testing here and in Lubbock, Mrs. Johansen was diagnosed as having a form of bone cancer. She went to Scott and White Hospital in Temple to begin immediate treatments.

ALTHOUGH SHE WISHED to continue teaching, Mrs. Johansen says "When you are in a lot of pain, you want to get out of pain. Teaching has been a blessing to me. I'm grateful that I've had the opportunity to teach that many years."

Mrs. Johansen said she was "sorry to miss the adventure of Christian living with this year's Bible students. There were three real promising classes. The students looked so interesting. I hate not being with them."

Mrs. Johansen thanks Big Springers for supporting the Bible class. "There are great people in Big Spring. They must be great to support the Bible class all these years. It wouldn't have continued without their support."

People also have been kind during her illness, she says. She received many cards, flowers and visits from friends and a host of former students concerned about her condition. One card she received was from a student she taught in 1948.

The support "has been helpful, primarily in meeting these first few weeks. It's great to feel like I have such a large family," she says with a smile.

A week of surprises

KENT AND JAN MORGAN held a small party Tuesday evening and celebrated G.C. AND SUE BROUGHTON'S 30-plus wedding anniversary and JERRY WORTHY'S 29-and-holding birthday. From what I've heard, Jan throws great parties.

Speaking of JERRY WORTHY, I also heard that he and wife DR. LOUISE WORTHY, MR. AND MRS. DEE JON DAVIS and DR. AND MRS. JEFF HANNA met in Austin to attend a football game and visit with each of their sons at University of Texas. The Davises and the Hannas are former residents of Big Spring. The Davises now reside in Houston, and the Hannas are in Beaumont.

If you missed the "Command Performance" of the MIDLAND-ODESSA SYMPHONY Thursday evening you missed a nice performance. The concert was sponsored by BIG SPRING SYMPHONY ASSOCIATION. The association's upcoming events include the BROADWAY road tour production of "DEATHTRAP" Nov. 19 and "CHRISTMAS POPS" by the MIDLAND-ODESSA SYMPHONY AND CHORALE. Those that missed the symphony Thursday can still get individual tickets at the door of performances or at the Chamber of Commerce.

The roaming eyes saw the following people at the symphony's performance Thursday evening: LYNN HISE, LEROY TILLERY, LARRY DON SHAW, RICK HAMBLY, JOE AND SUSAN DAWES, JERRY AND LOUISE WORTHY, DREW MOUTON, SUZANNE HANNEY, CHARLES AND JOAN BEIL, RIETTE KIONKA, SUSAN CONRACE, MARTHA POSS, JANICE ROSSON, PAT ROBERTS and MARJORIE DODSON and the BIG SPRING HERALD CATERIE.

The JERRY FORESYTH family is building a new home on MacAuslin. It's just around the corner from one that was just completed and moved into by CPA JOHN WILSON and his wife PEGGY and son JOHN. John is a student at Howard College.

NITA AND BOB TARBET are enjoying having their daughter, CHRISTIE, and son-in-law, LARRY, home for a few days. Larry is a ministerial student in Dallas and is on his mid-term break. Christie works in the credit card department of a large Dallas bank.

Former Lifestyle editor TINA MILLER was in the Herald again Thursday with her round little tummy. Her tummy isn't so round anymore. She had a baby girl Friday morning.

Proud husband DANNY helped her and

DR. LEE PORTER out in the delivery room. After the delivery, he had her folks take a picture of him in his medical garb so his parents would believe he was with her when the glorious moment came. Baby and mom are doing fine...it's the father everyone is worried about, says the new great grandmother MRS. J.O. MURPHY. Tina and Danny named their bundle of joy KRISTEN DANIELLE.

The infant's grandparents are MR. AND MRS. RALPH WALKER, 1900 Runnels, and MR. AND MRS. JOHN MILLER of Haskell, and her great grandparents are MR. AND MRS. J.O. MURPHY, 700 E. 12th, and MRS. VENNIE LYTLE of Haskell.

As CLAUDENE COOPER says, somehow the Lord wasn't watching what He was doing on Nov. 15 when he was passing out babies. However, according to CHARLES CHRISTOPHER and DICK FACKLER the Lord was doing his best work on that day. Charles and Dick were both born on Nov. 15. Charles is chairman and chief executive officer of Oilfield Industrial Lines, and Dick is chief operating officer at O.I.L.

Thinking that they were going to a social for new executives and wives Saturday evening, the two found they were the honored pair at a surprise birthday party. The party was held at Dora Roberts Community Center with approximately 250 friends, company people and others from out of town in attendance. Several flew in from Missouri, Dallas, Houston and Oklahoma City. Poor Claudene...I bet she had a time of it scheduling all the flights for the out-of-towners. Charles will be 37 and Dick will be 46 tomorrow. Happy birthday you two.

HOOPER AND PETE SANDERS, OWEN IVIE, RALPH MCLAUGHLIN and CLAUDENE COOPER were representing Big Spring at the pre-legislative conference of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in the Fort Worth Hilton Thursday and Friday. While there, they attended a reception and dinner Thursday evening. Owen and Ralph are on the board of directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Claudene is the committee chairman of government affairs at our local Chamber of Commerce.

Some secret person and KBYG pulled a surprise on Herald editor LINDA ADAMS Friday. She was presented the KBYG Orchid Award for the day and was presented a beautiful red corsage. Her curiosity is killing her. She's dying to know who nominated her, but KBYG won't let that cat out of the bag.

That is the latest. Until next week...

Local teacher recognized

Joann C. Garcia of the Lakeview Headstart Program has been awarded the Child Development Association Credential in recognition of outstanding work with pre-school children in a group setting.

The credential was awarded by the CDA Credentialing Commission, which is working to improve the quality of care provided for youngsters in child care centers. The Commission represents the early childhood profession through its member national organizations.

Every candidate for the CDA Credential is assessed by a team of four persons including three from the local community. The team members observe the candidate working with children and evaluate the caregiver's competence in six areas. These range from establishing and maintaining a safe and healthy learning environment to advancing the child's physical and intellectual growth.

Parents and caregivers interested in the CDA National Credentialing Program, 1341 G. Street, NW, Suite 802, Washington, D.C. 20005. The toll-free number is 1-800-424-4310.

Danny, Tina Miller announce birth

Danny and Tina Miller, 2404 Runnels, announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Kristen Danielle, Nov. 12 in Malone-Hogan Hospital. The infant arrived at 11:34 a.m. weighing 5 pounds, 10 1/2 ounces and measuring 18 1/2 inches long at birth.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker, 1900 Runnels. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Haskell. Great grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Murphy, 700 E. 12th, and Mrs. Vennie Lytle, Haskell.

Rebekah Lodge plans for guest

Members of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 were advised of an upcoming covered dish luncheon being planned in conjunction with the visit of Myrtle Gring, district 11 deputy president. The meeting is set for Tuesday.

In last Tuesday's meeting, Pauline S. Petty, noble grand, presided. Forty visits to the sick were reported.

Genealogical Society holds meet

The Genealogical Society of the Big Spring met Thursday at the Howard County Library.

Christine Horn presented a program on filing systems for use in categorizing information and correspondence the group receives. The next meeting is slated for Thursday, Dec. 9, in the Howard County Library.

GETTING IT RIGHT — Stained glass restorer Joe Haney checks a piece of stained glass against a 100-year-old window in his Stillwater, Okla., workshop. Haney, one of the few practitioners of a nearly forgotten craft, says the work is so painstaking he can't work on it for more than two hours at a time.

Stained glass windows now endangered art

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Bit by precious bit, the skillful hands of Joe Haney restore a broken, grime-encrusted piece of glassware to the sparkling brilliance it had when first created almost a century ago.

When he is finished, he'll begin work on a second — the matching piece to the stained glass window spread in dirty bits on a workbench.

"You can't work on something like this for more than an hour and a half to two hours at a time," says Haney, who began working with stained glass four years ago. "It's such painstaking work; you get so tired and have to quit."

"Then when you come back later and see what you accomplished, you get all excited and want to get back at it again."

The windows are but the latest restoration work by Haney, one of the few practitioners of a nearly forgotten craft. He's restored windows in Stillwater and nearby communities, working on some at Chuck's Paint and Paper, where he is employed, and others — because they couldn't be moved — in their setting.

"It's always a challenge," the 28-year-old Haney says. "You never know exactly what you're getting into when you start on one."

He points toward the piece he is working on, the 30-inch by 6-foot panel depicting a plant stand and growing roses.

"I call this a learning experience," he says. "We said we'd restore it for $600. That was before I saw how really bad it was. I told the lady who owns them it probably will cost about $1,500 to restore the other one."

Haney estimates the two pieces were constructed "at least 100 years ago. You can tell by the kind of glass that was used that it's real old."

But he can't tell when or where they were made, although he says the style is that of Louis Tiffany, the turn-of-the-century stained glass artist who gave his

Tailored hairstyles suit fall fashions

CHICAGO (AP) — The straighter, simpler lines of fall fashions signal a need for hairstyles with more "tailoring" and less curl than in the past few seasons.

That's the word from the twelve professionals who make up the Helene Curtis Hairstylists Advisory Board. They believe that tailoring in hair, as in new menswear fashions, is the most important new trend.

As an example, a short style with light curl on top and closely layered sides and back, is one shape that complements almost all of the current designer fashions.

For the first time in several years, the stylists give the nod to medium-length hair, from chin to just above the shoulder. In the recent past, fashions favored very short or very long hair. But with daytime hemlines now reeling like yo-yos from thigh to calf, a mid-length cut seems a good, workable compromise, say board members.

A new influence on hair is hats. From floppy fedoras to saucy little berets, they topped off many a fashion look when designers introduced the new fall lines.

According to stylist Jerry Gordon of Chicago: "Hats are important, especially the clothes and other 1920s styles. They're close to the head, and hair has to be designed to fit under the hats. That's why we'll see less volume in hair this fall, and more classic straight looks like the bob."

Gordon also sees marcel-like waves, "but looser and not as contrived" as the originals, as part of the smaller, closer hair look.

The large number of working women who are now the backbone of many fashion designers' markets, and beauty salons' clientele are more important than ever as a source of beauty and fashion trends, board members point out.

"The working-woman hairstyle, something versatile and wearable on a daily basis, is a dominant influence today," says Gerald Haynes, owner of three Detroit-area salons.

Another stylist cites the ever-popular bob or pageboy as an enduring classic that working women request.

Noting a change in attitude, stylist Brenda Longhofer, of Louisville, Ky., says, "Professional arrogance is gone today. Our job is to design the looks that women want to wear, and most women seem to know what they want in a hairstyle."

Rocco Altobelli, in Minneapolis, adds, "If you insist on one look or length, you limit the appeal of your work. For instance, many hairstylists like to show off their technical ability on short styles. But women themselves tend to like longer hair."

Long or short, a key consideration is no-fuss ease: "A whole generation of women has grown up with minimal maintenance hairstyles," says Michael Swiger, Phoenix, Ariz., stylist. "Women are not going to start changing their looks every time they buy new clothes. Easy care is a big reason why perms have been so popular for the past decade."

Fashions rely on color and texture to create moods. Just as tweeds, silks and soft sweaters combine with stained-glass window colors to create a rich, elegant feeling this season, so it is with hair.

For fall, the experts see richly subtle coloring in deep reds and golds instead of brassy, sassy tones. The deep coloring will combine with textured tailoring achieved with cut and perm techniques.

"We'll see multiple texture perms in a single hairstyle," says Darleen Hakola, Portland, Ore. "Natural hair can range from curly to wavy to straight on one head," she adds, "and the new perm looks will have that natural feeling, too."

body waves rather than wild and curly looks.

"Women will still need volume or fullness," says Michael Swiger in Phoenix, "especially for the shorter styles that emphasize height at the crown and forehead."

But board members agree that perms will have an elegant, understated appeal that coordinates with the simple, chic looks of fall fashions.

name to fanciful works. "There's no way to tell if they are Tiffany, though," he adds.

What Haney does know about the pieces is that they were bought at auction in Chicago about 30 years ago. When he finishes work on the glass, which he believes were made to fit on either side of a door, each piece should be worth about $5,000.

One problem in restoring the two windows is their advanced state of deterioration. The lead that separates and holds each piece was as limp as a hot licorice stick.

"That is caused by oxidation," Haney says. "Pollutants in the air attack the lead and make it soft, and then the glass is likely to break. Rain and other moisture seep between the glass and the lead and cause the putty to break down."

Many of the individual pieces of stained glass in the pieces he was working on were broken, some to the point where they had to be replaced. But Haney says that where possible, he uses the old glass, even if it means patching cracks with epoxy glue.

He points to one of the window's red "jewels" — a faceted piece of glass that represents a bloom. "This was covered with some sort of dust," he says. "I tried to get it off and all of a sudden I realized that this 'dust' was 24 carat gold."

"The only way to get the real red glass is to use gold in the process. Apparently, this gold didn't melt completely."

When finished, the windows will be more sturdy than they were originally, and Haney hopes to be able to use only two braces instead of four to hold the windows in place.

Despite the restoration, the windows will still be possible victims of pollution and the weather — the enemies of stained glass. So Haney puts a heavy coat of a good grade of auto wax on each piece of stained glass he finishes.

"That protects it," he says. "If you take care of it, stained glass will last for centuries."

Janet Butts is shower honoree

A wedding shower honoring Janet Butts, bride-elect of Jerry Sloan, was held Oct. 30 in the home of Mrs. John Burgess.

Honoring Miss Butts were Mmes. James Berringer, L.K. Gladdin, Dan Wilkins, James Butts, Michael Pitts, John Burgess, Don Lindsey, Jo Tindle and Auriel La Fond and Miss Kim Barnes. The hostesses presented the bride-to-be with a vacuum cleaner and a corsage of silk burgundy roses accented with ivory and gray.

Corsages also were presented to the special guests, the bride-elect's mother Mrs. Marvin Butts, sister Kristi, and grandmother Mrs. Mary Stiager.

Guests were served from a table covered with a beige linen cloth centered with a basket of silk flowers resting on a silver tray. Servers were Deanna La Fond, Amy Burgess and Kristi Butts.

The couple was married Saturday at Baptist Temple Church. The Rev. Mike Patrick officiated.

Tammy Worthan, Carol Winterbauer and Tammy Strickland.

Each member was assigned a time to work at the Seafood and Steak Sale Saturday at the Highland Mall.

The Service Committee planned a Thanksgiving basket to give to a needy family.

Chapter members plan social

Members of the Alpha Kappa Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Tuesday to discuss the Seafood Sale to be held Saturday at Highland Mall.

The group also discussed the November Social, set at 7 p.m. Friday in the home of Carol Swafford. The social will be a hobo party. Members were asked to bring their food items for the stew sometime before Friday night. Each member also was asked to bring a pan of cornbread and a dessert. Everyone was reminded to bring canned goods, canned juices and fruits to her before Nov. 23. This food will be collected and given as a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family.

Guests at the meeting were Laeretta Ringhoffer, Susan Hester and Louise

Day. The raffle gift was won by club president Barbara Kennedy.

The chapter's next meeting was changed to Tuesday, Nov. 30, due to the Thanksgiving holidays. It will be in the home of Carol Swafford at 7:30 p.m.

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 267-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

It's Beginning To Taste A Lot Like Christmas

... at the Energas Cooking School

What do red velvet, a Yule Log and egg nog have in common? They're all symbols of Christmas and, appropriately, they're also names of marvelous Christmas cakes.

At the Energas Cooking School, you'll find out how to make these and many more scrumptious Christmas cakes. You'll get recipes to delight family and friends, see our luscious confections prepared, and taste the delightful results. Plus, you'll take home craft and decoration ideas to brighten up your home for the holidays.

It's all free, so join us at the Energas Cooking School and find out just how wonderful Christmas can taste.

1970 Hyperions view fashions for Christmas

Members of the 1970 Hyperion Club viewed a program on holiday fashions at their meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. O.H. Ivie. Co-hostess was Mrs. Delbert Donaldson. Mrs. Skipper Driver called the meeting to order, and Mrs. John Key introduced Mrs. Roberta Shive of Swartz, who gave the program. Mrs. Robert (Rip) Patterson modeled several outfits. Suitable for Christmas parties. Mrs. Dwayne Fraser gave details of the club's Christmas party scheduled for her home Dec. 9. Mrs. Robert Haney reminded members to attend the Broadway production of "Deathtrap" on Nov. 19 in the City Auditorium. The event is being sponsored by the Big Spring Symphony Guild. Guest was Mrs. Bradford Glass.

Dear Abby

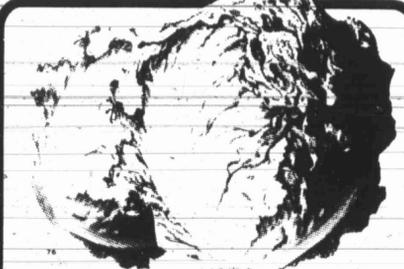

Step-children should not be ignored

DEAR ABBY: Last year my husband, our child and I received Christmas gifts from my husband's sister who lives in another state. She sent nothing for our two other children who are mine from a previous marriage. These children (I'll call them Sally and Bob) are teenagers who are very fond of this step-aunt and would be hurt if they had known about this. I hid the gifts until Sally and Bob left to visit their father for the Christmas holidays. Abby, most stepchildren have a hard enough "row to hoe" without being slighted by the step-family. Their need for tangible proof of affection and acceptance by the stepfamily may be even greater than that of the natural children due to their awkward status. My purpose in writing this is not to chastise, but to plead with step-families to remember these children along with the natural children of the family when it comes to gift giving and other acts of kindness. I'm sure it will make them happier, and I know of at least one parent who would very much appreciate it. I'm certain that there are countless other parents who would feel the same way. HURTING FOR THE CHILDREN DEAR HURTING: Your letter is both timely and worthwhile. Thank you for a suggestion that will surely make Christmas a lot merrier for many step-children. DEAR ABBY: I chuckled at the letter from "Upset," the 25-year-old woman whose mother ("divorced and living alone") asked Daughter to phone before dropping in on her. Daughter would be truly upset were she to drop in unannounced to find Mother in the arms of her lover. Most kids (even at 25) assume that their parents have no interest in sex, much less a sex life. This is simply untrue. "Upset's" mother is most likely trying to ensure her deserved privacy in order to delicately balance her need for intimacy with her desire to protect her daughter's illusion of Mom's "purity." It's a sticky situation, in which we often find ourselves in this 1982 morality. Most 25-year-old daughters living alone would not appreciate an unannounced visit from Mom for the same reason. DIVORCED MOTHER, LIVING ALONE DEAR MOTHER: Right on. Unannounced visits are rarely appreciated — even in families with open minds and closed eyes.

Denise Smith, bride-elect of Jimmy Smith, was honored with a bridal shower Oct. 28 in the home of Mrs. Sherrill Carroll.

Hosting the event were Mrs. Carroll, Mrs. Cecil Garner, Mrs. James Findley, Mrs. Carl Johansen, Mrs. Noel Hull, Mrs. Jane Upton and Mrs. Cliff Balzer. Others were Mrs. Bill Blalack, Mrs. R.L. Luedecke, Mrs. Fred Phillips, Mrs. Pete Hull, Mrs. Chris Showalter, Mrs. H.C. Blackshear, Mrs. D.M. Richardson and Mrs. Dee Worthan. The hostesses presented the honoree with an almond colored mixer.

The bride-elect also was presented with a blue and white silk flower corsage, as was her mother, Mrs. Byron Smith Jr. Guests were served from a table covered with a white cloth and a straw flower centerpiece. The cake was heart-shaped with flowers and the words Denise and Jimmy written in the bride's chosen colors of orchid and blue.

The couple will wed Nov. 20 in College Baptist Church. The Rev. Sam Scott, pastor, and the Rev. Leon Smith, father of the bridegroom-elect and pastor of the Golf Street Baptist Church in Houston, will officiate.

Baby born to Mr., Mrs. Kyle Cook

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Cook of Stanton announce the birth of their first child, a son, Kevin Lendon, at 2:34 a.m. Nov. 10 in Malone-Hogan Hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds, 7 ounces at birth, and was 22 inches long. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jim Trimble of Stanton. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cook of Stanton.

Use precautions when taking certain drugs

Use special precautions when taking prescribed drugs, health education specialists say. Certain medications interact with natural and added chemicals in foods, and this can cause unexpected effects. Ask your doctor when to take prescribed drugs — before, after or between meals, and ask about foods and beverages to avoid. Also be sure to tell the doctor about other medicines you're taking.

Dr. Donohue

High patella may cause problems

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 17-year-old girl who enjoys sports very much. I had been having problems with my left knee. My doctor told me I have a high patella. He says this is a condition I was born with. He showed me X-rays that showed the patella wasn't where it should be. It does not fit into the space where the bones of the leg meet it. Can this be corrected by surgery? — K.N.

A high kneecap is called patella alta, and it is something you are born with. It can cause trouble. The kneecap is supposed to fit nicely into a groove provided for it in the leg bones. If it is too high on your leg, then it jumps out of its groove to one side, and that causes the pain and limits range of leg motion.

If the tendency for the kneecap to get derailed this way is only slight, it can be supported with a knee brace to keep it in line. If it is more severe, than you may need surgery to keep it permanently where it belongs. Your surgeon will advise you on the severity of your patella alta.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For most of my life, my ankles and knees have popped. Everytime I climb stairs, I can be heard for miles around — pop, pop, pop! There is no pain. I feel fine. I have had many physical examinations and an always told I am in great health. So what do these noisy joints mean? — B.L.

You have no joint pain. Your examinations reveal nothing amiss. So the best explanation of your popping joints is the sound emanating from your tendons snapping on themselves or over a bone. This is very common. I have it too. Pop, pop, pop!

movement. Maybe we both need grease jobs.

FOR G.G. — Sure, running is as good for a female as it is for a male. One of the leading women gynecologists states that there is no foundation to the statement that running produces laxity of the ligaments that support the uterus. But it is true that some women who train very hard and as a result lose much of their body fat may become irregular in their periods, or even stop them altogether.

Because you report a change in your periods, you should be examined. You cannot leap to the conclusion that your running is causing the irregularity, although it well might be true in your case. There are too many other reasons for such changes to settle for that in all cases. Yes, I do approve running for women; for men, too.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband is 37, weighs 160 pounds, and is six feet tall.

His health is excellent. Along with being in construction work he also plays softball avidly.

The problem is that his shoulder pops in and out all the time. This condition has persisted for more than a year. He does not know when or where it happened. He is in no pain. What are the choices for treatment? — Mrs. E.C.

Usually, when a shoulder separates so easily and so often, the only real answer is surgery. There are no exercises, for example, to improve the stability of the shoulder. The condition tends to get worse, not better, with time.

I recall that in my Army battalion there was a lieutenant whose shoulder popped out of place every other day. I was pleased that he afforded me an opportunity to learn how to put a shoulder joint back together manually, but I finally had to convince him to have surgery.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland. To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Wedding

MRS. JOHN WESLEY YATER
...formerly Cynthia Gail Butler

Butler-Yater

Cynthia Gail Butler became Mrs. John Wesley Yater as the couple exchanged wedding vows Friday evening in the Chapel of First Baptist Church.

Dr. Kenneth G. Patrick, pastor, officiated at the 7:30 p.m. rite before an altar decorated by an arch candelabrum accented with peach and white flowers. The candelabrum was flanked on either side by tree candelabra also accented with peach and white flowers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James W. Butler, 1305 E. 19th, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L. Yater, Rt. 2.

Mrs. Sandra Waggoner, pianist, Mrs. Joy Grimes, organist, and Leslie Norman, vocalist, provide music for the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore a formal-length gown of white organza fashioned with a deep V-neckline edged with a soft ruffle. The empire bodice was accented with a double band of Chantilly and featured full-length bishop sleeves with deep cuffs of Chantilly lace. A narrow bank of Venice lace encompassed the empire waistline and bridal pearls traced the lace design of the dress. The softly-gathered skirt extended into a chapel-length train, and a double ruffle of organza and Chantilly lace formed the hemline of the skirt and train. Her headpiece was a Chantilly lace-edged fingertip veil of illusion accented with lace appliques.

The bride carried a nosegay of peach roses, stephanotis and babies breath.

Mrs. Jerri Stuart of Fort Worth, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Anita Butler of Midland, Mrs. Debbie Davidson of Lubbock, sister of the bride, and Robin Butler, sister of the bride.

Hank Holder of Lubbock was best man. Tracy Stuart of Fort Worth, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Groomsmen were Les White, Dave Schuhard of Lubbock and Dave Trim of Denver, Colo. Ushers were Steve Sims and Ricky Davidson, brother-in-law of the bride, both of Lubbock.

Following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the church's parlor. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length white lace cloth and was centered with a crystal hurricane globe containing a peach candle and surrounded by a peach floral arrangement. The table held a three-tiered white cake garnished with peach-colored sweet peas and topped with satin wedding bells.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a brown cloth and topped with an ecrû lace overlay. The table was centered with three brass candlesticks with peach candles. It featured a chocolate layer cake garnished with chocolate sweet peas.

Serving at the reception were Sonya Worthan, Louene Green, Kerry Boothe and Nancy LaMorte and Donna LaMorte, both neices of the bridegroom. The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and attended Howard College. She is employed by Kenneth C. Boothe and Company, P.C.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Texas Tech University. He is employed by Oilfield Industrial Lines, Inc.

Following a wedding cruise to the Caribbean Islands, the couple will make their home in Big Spring.

TV sets found in most homes

More than 98 percent of American homes have television sets, family life specialists say.

That number includes homes that do not have indoor toilet facilities.

Watch high clothing costs

The high cost of clothing doesn't always ensure quality. The price of garments often depend on quality of fabric, quality of workmanship and the number of design and construction details.

The cost also depends on the amount and quality of trim used, the brand name or designer label and the prestige of the store selling the garment.

Women should sharpen their finance skills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women, who are entering the job market in greater numbers than ever before, should sharpen their financial skills, advises the American Council of Life Insurance.

Working women need to become familiar with budgeting, keeping of records, investments evaluation, insurance requirements and retirement planning, the council suggests.

MRS. JERRY MICHAL SLOAN
...formerly Janet Lee Butts

Butts-Sloan

Janet Lee Butts and Jerry Michal Sloan were united in marriage Friday evening at Baptist Temple Church. The Rev. Mike Patrick, pastor, officiated at the 7 p.m. rite before an altar flanked by an archway adorned with greenery and burgundy, seashell and grey silk flowers.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lee Butts, 1721 Purdue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sloan, Rt. 3.

Mary Ann Hartin, pianist, provided music for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal-length gown of silk organza that features a Queen Anne neckline, a bodice accented with lace, pearls and sequins, and Bishop sleeves accented with lace. To complete her ensemble, the bride wore a Juliet cap embellished in lace and accented with sequins and pearls. The cap held a three-quarters length veil adorned with lace.

The bride carried a bouquet of silk white carnations and burgundy roses tied with lace and ribbons.

Kristi Butts, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Debbie Butts, sister of the bridegroom and sister-in-law of the bride, and Martha Pitts, sister of the bridegroom. Amy Berringer was flower girl.

Russell Butts, brother of the bride, was best man. Jimmy Butts, brother of the bride, and Mike Pitts, brother-in-law of the bridegroom were groomsmen. Javier (J.B.) Casillas and Kenny Awtry were ushers. Paul Berringer was a candlelighter.

Following the ceremony, the couple was feted with a reception in the church's reception hall. The bride's table featured a four-tiered white cake trimmed in burgundy, grey and white. The bridegroom's table featured a chocolate cake shaped as a horseshoe.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by T.G. & Y. at College Park Shopping Center. The bridegroom is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is employed by Highland Datsun, Pontiac, Dodge, Chrysler and Plymouth Motors.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed location, the couple will make their home in the Midway Community.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Our number is (915) 263-7331.

Door decorations to be made

Carolyn Tindol, chairman of the American Veterans project, asked for volunteers to make door decorations for the Veterans Administration Medical Center during the GFWC Forsan Study Club's meeting Monday. The decorations will be put up Dec. 3-7. Members were also asked to bring cookies to the Dec. 13 meeting to be delivered to the V.A.M.C.

The club met in the home of Eunice Thixton and welcomed new members Martha Martinez, Jeanette Fauver and Lorraine Painter to the club.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs will be selling a different Hummel figurine for the next four terms. This eight year period will bring the Federation to the 1990 Centennial. The molds of the four figurines will be broken after each two year administration. The statues will each cost $26, and may be obtained by calling Eunice Thixton, president, at 263-4874.

Mrs. Key is shower honoree

Mrs. John Key was honored at a baby shower Nov. 3 in the home of Mrs. Ellis Britton.

Hosting the event were Mmes. Ellis Britton, John Middleton, Robert Moore III, John Burgess, Richard Palmer, Richard Atkins, Warren Wise, Jerry Foresyth, Johnny Freeman, Bruce Cox and John McKiski. The hostesses presented Mrs. Key with a high chair, playpen and corsage made of baby socks.

Guests were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth. The centerpiece was a Teddy bear sitting in a basket surrounded by various baby care items.

Special guests attending were Mrs. Key's mother Mrs. Jack Alexander and her mother-in-law Mrs. Travis Key of Mineral Wells.

Baby Key is expected to arrive around Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Thixton urged all members to attend the reporting workshop which was held Saturday at Elbow School. Kerry Kay Cook of Midland and Bobbie Mitchell of Sanderson will present the workshop. All area GFWC clubs are invited.

The club decided to send a donation to the Rainbow Project, a proposed shelter for abused and neglected children.

Becky Vines asked members to turn in by Jan. 10, 1983 the questions they would like to submit to panel members for the Jan. 24, 1983 discussion on wills and estate planning. The program on "International Policy Awareness - Focus on Israel," was presented by Ms. Tindol. She presented the Biblical history from the time of Abraham leading to the constant conflict between Arabs and the Jews. A tape by Doug Parker, government teacher at Forsan, was played, in which Parker discussed Israel.

The next meeting will be a Family Christmas celebration on Dec. 13. Everyone is urged to bring a man's gift and a woman's gift in exchange for a gift marked for their own children for Santa to distribute. A maximum of $5 per gift is requested.

The Alpha Tau Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi surprised Laura New with a baby shower Monday in the home of Arlene White.

Members presented Mrs. New with gifts, and she received a gift certificate from the chapter.

Baby New is expected in December. The next meeting is Nov. 22.

Focus on the Family

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Influences for the holidays

Influences for the holiday are the coming of the romance of the Renaissance, a softer version of the prairie look and the sophisticated tuxedo look.

Silhouettes will range in variety from lots of ruffles and frills to the simple loose styles.

The elegant taffeta has returned! This fabric will be showing up in all forms for the holiday — solids, prints and plaids. We will see blouses, cummerbunds, skirts, dresses, pants, and jackets. The number one item to update a wardrobe with will be something in taffeta.

Metallics will still be shown but toned down from last year's looks. Simple gold or silver thread will be woven into fabric for blouses and dresses. Gold lame and black will give sparkle and sophistication to any holiday look.

Velvets, velveteens, panne, silks, jacquard and tapestries will be prevalent during this season to give the romantic, feminine approach to fashion.

Blouses will have full sleeves — pleated or gathered. Ruffles around the cap of sleeve puts the romance in the prairie look. Bows also add to this look.

Skirts are full or straight, and hem lines go to all extremes — long to short. The bubble shirt will also be making its return.

Sparkling belts in all width will add to the festive air of the season. Cummerbunds made of bright plaids or solids will complete the tuxedo look.

All in all the fashion for the 1982 holiday will be festive and romantic.

No shortage of cognac here

COGNAC, France (AP) — This town in the southwest of France currently holds the equivalent of 1 billion, 50 million bottles of French cognac aging in oak casks.

Many of these casks have been aging for over 400 years, when cognac production was discovered accidentally by alchemists trying to turn non-precious metals into gold.

Variety of warranties should be studied

One week after Christmas, all those fabulous small appliances you received as gifts stop working. The blow dryer doesn't blow, the toaster doesn't toast, and the coffee percolator doesn't perk. Upon retrieving the warranties from the trash container, you discover the manufacturers will only fix the appliances if you send them to authorized service centers. By the time you pay for the postage and labor, which are not covered, you decide it would be cheaper to buy new appliances.

Sound familiar? Because the terms of the warranty can affect the lifetime price you pay for a product, the Better Business Bureau suggests you compare warranties as well as price.

A warranty or guarantee is a promise, made as part of a sale or rental agreement, that a product or service meets a certain standard of quality. There are two types of warranties — express and implied. Any statement of quality, whether it be a fiber content tag or a written promise of performance, is considered an express warranty.

Many businesses will provide a written warranty with their product, although they are not required to by law. If a warranty is provided it must be classified as either Full or Limited.

A Full warranty makes the warrantor responsible for fixing or replacing a defective product at no cost to the owner. The repairs must be made within a reasonable period of time, and the coverage must extend to any person who owns the product during the warranty period, even though he or she is not the original owner. If the product cannot be fixed then the customer has the option of either a refund or a new product.

It should be noted that a Full warranty does not have to cover the entire product. On a television set, for example, it might only cover the picture tube.

Limited warranties, the most common, restrict the liability of the seller or manufacturer.

Extension Homemakers

Three Extension Homemaker Clubs reported having programs dealing with fashion changes and accessorizing garments. The clubs plan to meet individually for Thanksgiving dinners.

ELBOW

The program "Step In Accessories for a Total Look" provided demonstrations and ideas for using fashion accessories with the members' wardrobes during the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club meeting Nov. 4. The meeting was held in the home of Joyce Soles.

The members discussed fashion fads, trends, color, size and shape, line and texture of accessories.

Members planned to have a Christmas party Dec. 2. Two members were enrolled into the club. They are Sandy Bair and Jeanette Fauver.

The club's next meeting will be a Thanksgiving luncheon at La Posada Thursday at 1 p.m.

CITY

Naomi Hunt, Howard County extension agent, presented a slide presentation program entitled "Fashion Revolution — Cutting the Corset Strings" during the City Extension Homemakers meeting Oct. 22.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Jimmy Madry with Mrs. Merle Hodnett and Mrs. Waymon Etchison as co-hostesses.

Following the slide presentation, Ms. Hunt spoke of how people have changed in their eating habits as well as in clothing styles. She passed out "Super Snacker" cookbooks.

Roll call was answered at the meeting's beginning with members answering the question "Why I am a club member." Members were urged to begin planning for the 1983 program of sharing everything club members learn with a person that is not a club member.

Club members were invited by Barbara Creagor to a luncheon in Mentone. Each person attending is to bring a vegetable dish or dessert.

The club's next meeting was a Thanksgiving dinner at Mrs. Doloris Nored's home Friday. It was hosted by Opal Wooten. A menu was planned and each member brought a dish.

CENTERPOINT

During a meeting Oct. 26, each member of the Center Point Extension Homemakers Club demonstrated accessorizing garments by showing a picture of an outfit and suggesting the correct jewelry and items to be used for a total look.

The members met in the home of Ireba Griffith. Mrs. Lucille Petty was a model showing the art of tying bows for the fall look. Mrs. June Iron was program chairman.

The group decided to furnish three cakes to the Big Spring State Hospital for patients — celebrating November birthdays. Cakes will be furnished by Mrs. Hazel McCrary, Mattie Wren and Nannie Garrett. They also voted to give gifts to the patients at a Christmas party in December.

Members answered roll call with "Why I am a club member." The thought for the day was "Ideas are easy but what counts in getting them done." The devotional was read by Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. Griffith.

Guest at the meeting was Bettie Cordes.

Center Point Extension Homemakers met again Tuesday at Bonanza for a Thanksgiving dinner. Patsy Corres presented a program on the various types of jewelry and current jewelry styles. She used Roxana Deandar as a model. She showed different colors of stones and workmanship of gold and silver with a variety of chain lengths.

Roll was called with members telling remembrances of their grandmothers. A short business meeting was held with Lucille Petty, vice president, presiding.

The annual Pecan show will be held at Highland Mall, Dec. 18. Club members were urged to enter food with the requirement being that each recipe must include pecans. A tasting tea will follow the prize awarding.

The club will meet for a Christmas luncheon in December. The date and time will be announced at a later date.

For the record

The names of several hostesses for a baby shower honoring Mrs. Danny (Tina) Miller were inadvertently left out when the Herald ran the article recently.

Hostesses included Melba Robinson, Melba Camp, Mae Mayhall, Frances Swann, Grace Karns, Shirley Paige, Jann Dickens, Connie Fowler, Mary Ann Ross, Susan Walker, Pam Walker, Carla Harrold and Fairy McMahan.

Popular Serving Pieces of Flatware

Lucky you — you've got your basic silver place settings, and now you'd love to indulge in some serving pieces as well. Here at the Accent Shoppe, we suggest brides consider the always useful gravy ladle (shaped like a mini dipper) for stew, soup, and service from deep bowls, as well as for serving gravy. Or, if you're a dessert lover, how about the cake server (shaped like a flat trowel) — to be used for cakes, aspics and frozen desserts? Now whatever you cook, you can serve it up in style!
