Police chief squelches drug rumors

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

Big Spring Police Chief Rick Turner this morning denounced rumors connecting several Big Spring citizens with drug trafficking.

At a press conference in his office, he called the rumors "false" and "sick" and said he hopes a news release he prepared will relieve the deluge of phone calls to his department and local news media. The calls mainly have been from people wondering why the story has been

"There is absolutely no foundation in fact that certain prominent citizens of our community have been arrested, indicted, 'picked-up' or have in any way committed an offense against the laws of this state or of any other state," Turner's news release says

"It is normally the best policy not to stoop to responding to every rumor that circulates in a the Big Spring Police Department, Turner said, small town, but the latest spate of foolish gossip making the rounds in public involves some of our most respected and valued citizens and has reached such a level of vicious intensity that I feel it is more harmful not to speak out," the news release says.

"I have used every means at my disposal to verify that not only is there absolutely no substance to these stories, but that they appear to be, in my opinion, solely the invention of persons with some sort of ax to grind against certain citizens and officials.

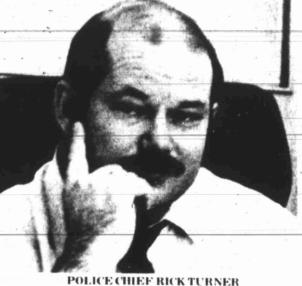

"People don't realize the damage they do to these people, their profession and their families with a careless comment tossed out to the community," the news release concludes.

"These are people, they're there every time the church door opens," Turner said of those mentioned in the rumors. Holding his head in his hands, Turner said,

'I'm very disappointed in the things being said. I have never seen a group of people like this in my life," referring to the community as a whole As to conjectures that the rumor originated in

Desegregation plan okayed

By CLIFF COAN

Staff Writer By a unanimous vote last night, the Big Spring School Board took action to try to solve the district's two-year long desegregation lawsuit with the U.S. Justice Department

School board president Delbert Donelson characterized the agreement, involving enhanced eduational opportunities at Bauer Elementary School, as "a positive, common-sense, practical solution to a long-term pro-

In a special called meeting of the Big Spring trustees, BSISD attorney Guil Jones III presented to the board a plan which he said attorneys for the government had agreed with to settle

"With the exception of one area," Jones said, "this is virtually identical to the one (plan) presented last sum-

That one area, mandatory busing, was the main reason board members turned down a plan which would have ended litigation this summer. Under the new plan:

students' program (Signal) would be relocated from the campus of Runnels Junior High to Bauer Elementary.

• A voluntary transfer program would allow students to transfer from any other school to Bauer, and from Bauer to any other school.

· Bauer would become a "magnet" school. A curriculum to be worked out by March 15 would draw students from throughout the district to Bauer. Among the things which Jones said could be included in an extended day program (from the end of the regular school day until 5:30 p.m.) were art, drama, music (other than band), foreign languages, science, introduction to computers and lifetime sports.

• There would be no mandatory • The district's gifted and talented basing. Students wishing to attend the enhancement program at Bauer will be bused to the school.

"The only thing that's really substantially different," Jones said. "Is the one thing the board found objectionable (last summer)." Under the plan presented last summer, all northern rural students predominately whites - would have been required to attend Bauer - a predominately black and Mexican American school

With this, the northern rural students can continue to attend Washington Elementary," Jones said.

"What we're agreeing to do," Jones said. "Is to do some special educational things at Bauer that have not previously been available anywhere in the district. It's positive. And the whole deal is voluntary - we're not forcing anything on anyone."

In a question-and-answer session involving the audience of about 25 people, Mary Ann Heathington, who said she was a teacher at Bauer, asked, "Will these students (who want to attend the programs at Bauer) be bused there? Won't that cost more money See BSISD, page 2-A

Five Texans carry clout in Washington

But if you want laws changed - if you're an executive raving mad about unfair trade competition from abroad, excessive taxes on oil and gas production, or the decline in housing construction - you need to talk with someone who "runs the place."

Someone like Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Sen. John Tower, Vice President George Bush, House Majority Leader Jim Wright or presidential aide Jim

Those five are Texas' "movers and shakers" in Washington, according to a poll of the state's most powerful men and women.

The Associated Press asked editors and publishers of more than 90 Texas newspapers to identify the most powerful people in their areas. Assuring anonymity, the AP then asked the 168 leaders who emerged on that list to pick the 10 most powerful Texans. Bush could well become the most powerful person in Texas, either if he becomes the Republican nominee for president at some time or if in later years of his administration, President Reagan were to turn over considerable power to his vice president," said one respondent, an Austin attorney.

Baker, "because of his role within the president's inner staff, is a man of great influence," a noted lawyer said. Baker, who joined the Reagan administration after losing a race for Texas attorney general to Mark White in 1978, is one of a triad of Reagan's closest advisers.

Bentsen and Tower "both have loyal statewide followings, both greatly influence national issues and are respected in Congress. And both have key committee assignments that give them power over defense, economic and financial policies," another survey participant said.

Wright was named in a recent survey of House members as the most effective member and the most persuasive speaker. His colleagues say Wright fights hard, but plays by the GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP) - A man and woman apparently waiting for a flying saucer spent a month in a car in the snowy wilderness of northeastern Minnesota before the woman died and the man fell unconscious, authorities say.

Laverne Landis, 48, a registered nurse from St. Paul, Minn., was found dead in the car several hundreds yards away. An autopsy disclosed she had died from hypothermia, dehydra-

Surcharge explained

Southwestern Customers in Big Spring are now receiving bills reflecting the 10 percent surcharge on in-state long distance calls, according to Darlene Gifford, Southwestern Bell community relations manager.

Ms. Gifford said the surcharge will continue for about three months, until Bell rocovers about $16.9 million in additional revenues authorized by a court decision.

The court ruled earlier this year that the compnay is entitled to the addtional money because of an error by the Public Utility Commission in Bell's 1980 rate request.

The PUC recently made the decision that the revenues would be recovered through a surcharge on in-state long distance calls.

Gunman kills himself

Fugitive releases hostages, shoots self at store

By MARK J. KREIDLER Associated Press Writer

TULSA, Okla. - A fugitive from a Florida prison road gang shot and killed himself today after making a statement on television and releasing the last of seven employees he was holding at a Tulsa food store.

None of the hostages was injured during the seven-hour ordeal which began with an attempted robbery, police said.

Joseph Raymond Greer, 40, was found shot in the chest when police entered McCartney's grocery about 4 a.m. after the last four hostages were released. A hospital spokeswoman said he died at 5:40 a.m

According to an agreement between police and Greer, the last four hostages were released as Tulsa's television stations played a taped statement from the gunman.

On the tape, filmed by a police negotiator given hasty instructions on how to operate a portable TV camera, Greer was shown flanked by the four hostages and gesturing toward his right temple with a handgun

"It's going right here," Greer said on the tape as he pointed the .38-caliber revolver toward his

"I can't go back to prison. I've had 15 months of good life out here and now it's gone. I've prepared myself for this. I know what's got to happen when it's over.

Greer escaped from the Niceville Road Camp in the Florida Panhandle on Aug. 24, 1981, a spokesman for the state penal institution said. He had been convicted of first-degree murder and robbery, a spokesman said.

Tulsa police said Greer walked into the store about 9 p.m. Thursday and fired two shots "to scare" a store manager who was able to elude the gunman and summon police. A third shot was fired into the air just outside the store.

Greer herded seven people into a glassenclosed office as police surrounded the place. One hostage, Amy James, was released a short time later after she became hysterical, her

Police said the girl tripped a secret alarm, which prompted the gunman to attempt to leave the building with the store manager.

Mexican students hijack 31 buses in protest

By RANDALL HACKLEY

Associated Press Writer CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico - Agriculture students in this Mexican border town who were protesting a shortage of school funds seized 31 buses and two gas tankers during a 6-hour siege that ended without violence, Ciudad Juarez

Students at the Escuela Superior de Agricultura hijacked the buses early Wednesday, forced hundreds of travelers into the streets and threatened to drive the buses to Chihuahua City in an attempt to set up a meeting with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, officials in this city of 1 million said.

The diesel and gas tankers were released soon after about 20 club-wielding students seized the buses, most of which were traveling northward from Mexico City and Chihuahua, police said. The incident ended Wednesday morning when the school opened and most of the protesters returned to the classrooms. Officials said no one was injured, no meeting was set up with Lopez Portillo and no students were arrested. But one officer who declined to be identified said, "we know who the (dissidents) are.'

Students at the private college have been upset since discovering the school could run out of money by December. The last year, they have sought financial assistance from the state university system in Chihuahua.

WASHINGTON - Republican leaders in Congress are telling President Reagan they will push for a jobs program in the post-election session, but warning they see little hope for moving up the income tax cut to January.

After meeting with Reagan at the White House on Thursday, Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker and House Republican Leader Robert Michel said a jobs program is one of the priorities for the lame-duck session starting Nov.

The congressional leaders, conferring with Reagan for the first time since the Nov. 2 election, said they also told the president he did not have enough support to push up the date of the

"We don't have the votes," Michel said he informed Reagan.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said later the president wanted to discuss the tax cut issue further with his economic advisers. Speakes said Friday Reagan probably would decide in the next few days whether to ask the lame-duck session of Congress to advance the date of the tax cut, but would not try to bring it up during the regular congressional session next Asked whether Reagan was surprised to hear that he doesn't have the necessary votes for the proposal. Speakes replied, "No, we know it's go ing to be difficult

He acknowledged Reagan's advisers were torn over the issue, adding, "The president very often gets conflicting opinions from his advisers.

In addition, the GOP leaders predicted it would be difficult to make further cuts in non-defense spending, despite Reagan's assertion in New Orleans on Tuesday that that is precisely where he intended to cut.

"I think we've cut just about as much as we can cut," Baker said. "We've wrung a lot out of the non-defense side. Now we are going to have to take a look at the defense side

The main purpose of the three-week congres sional session is to pass appropriations bills for fiscal year 1983, which began Oct. 1. The government has been operating under emergency spen-

But on the jobs issue, Baker said he believed Reagan would propose that Congress pass a program to repair highways and bridges financed by a 5-cents-a-gallon increase in gasoline taxes. Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis has said that proposal would create about 320,000 jobs Reagan prefers not to call it a jobs program, since he opposed the public works approach to the unemployment dilemma during the cam-speaker (Thomas O'Neill) and we're going to gin up a jobs bill," Baker said. O'Neill, D-Mass., is the House speaker.

With unemployment at 10.4 percent, Michel said, "The key element is jobs and putting people back to work. The question is, how do you best do that?" Unemployment was a major issue in the November elections in which the GOP lost 26 House seats.

Reagan is considering asking Congress to push up the date of the tax cut - the third installment of his 25-percent income tax reduction over three years — as a way to stimulate the economy.

Under Reagan's proposal, the 5 percent cut in tax rates due Jan. 1, 1984, and the second 10 percent reduction in the amount of tax withheld from worker paychecks, due next July 1, would instead take effect Jan. 1, 1983. The net effect would be a 15 percent cut in tax rates in 1983, rather than 10 percent, and the full reduction would be reflected in paychecks at the start of Advancing the income tax would increase the deficit by nearly $15 billion. The fiscal 1983 deficit is already projected at $170 billion.

Neither Baker nor Michel were enthusiastic 1983 for a typical family of four with an income of

U.S. nuclear policies

WASHINGTON - Undeterred by a White House plea, Roman Catholic bishops are backing a broad-scale denunciation of the use of nuclear weapons, including rejection of some elements of U.S. nuclear strategy

The stance, still to be be formally adopted but strongly supported Thursday by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, moves the 50-millionmember church toward the vanguard of the peace movement

"We have seen that waging peace is a high and big priority of the church of the Prince of Peace in this dangerous time of the 20th Century," said Archbishop Ed-

New water fund push urged

Harte-Hanks News Service COLLEGE STATION - A new program requiring an immense amount of money to fund statewide improvements in water quality. acquisition and waste water treatment is desperately needed, officials at the Water for Texas conference said Thursday. The financing program could come in the form of another state constitutional amendment, the officials said. However, they said supporters of a new amendment would need to convince a skeptical electorate of specific funding needs to prevent a replay of last November's defeat of a proposed $500-million water fund amendment.

The officials were financial experts and representatives of state and local governments on a panel discussing water funding at the conference on the Texas A&M University campus.

State Sen. Ed Howard. D-Texarkana, one of the four panelists, said federal budget cuts will leave a void in funding for state water programs. He said a specific ty must be developed, approved by legislators and then effectively communicated to the voters. Clements' Water Task Force, said that current sources of funding are inadequate. Allan Henry of the Texas Municipal League and bond lawyer Donald L. Howell urged legislators not to repeat past mistakes in pushing for additional fun-

"Any long-range water plan must identify total costs, and it must be specific," said Henry. "We must address more than just water acquisition, but water treatment and sewage treatment. And we've got to show the people how it meets their needs right now.

The much-debated "water fund" proposition that failed last November was designed to avert a water deficit of 8.6 million acre-feet by the year 2030. Henry said some voters had difficulty relating that far into the future.

Jobs programs are in the works

Don't be surprised if adherents of organized labor make another attempt to enact a $1-billion public service jobs bill when Congress returns to Washington for its lame-duck session Nov. 29, particularly if unemployment fails to subside.

The last attempt to pass such a WPA-like bill failed before Congress recessed for the elections. The Senate voted 60-37 to table a bill creating 200,000 jobs lasting six months and payinbg $ an hour.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) says there is plenty of work to do. There are 248,000 bridges, 4,000 miles of interstate highways and rail systems, half the country's sewer and water systems and dams and one of every four prisons — all in need of repairs or rebuilding.

But what would it cost? According to critics who cited an article in U.S. News & World Report, an estimatted $2.5 trillion.

Obviously, the Kennedy proposal for $1 billion is a drop in the bucket — "a spit on the ocean," one critic said.

How many jobs? 200,000? Not if you subtract from $1 billion the cost of materials and administrative expense, according to Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.). He figured perhaps 75,000 jobs.

Withover 11 million out of work, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimated the $1 billion plan would reduced the rate of unemployment from 10.1 percent to 10 percent.

Gas lighting the consumer

The price of natural gas will go up between 20 and 40 percent this winter for the consumer. There is a very good reason for this. But for the life of me I couldn't find out what it was.

I first went to my local gas company, and talked to a very friendly man who anticipated the question.

"It's not our fault," he said. "We just buy the gas from the wholesaler and have to pay whatever he wants to charge us. If he raises his price we have to pass it on to the customer. If you want to know why the price has gone up, talk to the people who sell us the gas." He gave me a free book titled "Cooking With Gas" and showed me to the door.

I went to see a vice president of a wholesale gas company in Houston.
"How come the price of gas is going up by 20 to 40 percent this winter?

'I'm glad you asked that question. We buy our gas from producers, and now with deregulation they can charge us any price they want to, so we have to pass their costs on to the local gas companies we supply. We don't enjoy raising our prices because everyone thinks we're making a lot of money, which we're not.'

"There seem to be an awful lot of Mercedes Benzes out in the parking

"They belong to the people in the gas pipeline end of the business. Perhaps you ought to talk to them." "Where do I find them?

"I believe they're somewhere on this floor. Wait a minute, I'll call my brother Fred. I think he's in charge of our pipeline division. Or perhaps my brother George is in. In any case they both drive Mercedes

George was out buying a new Lear jet for his son's birthday, so I got to

"You can't blame the pipeline people for this winter's big increase," Fred told me. "All we do is ship the stuff for a modest fee which we base on the cost of gas. If the tariff goes up then the shipping costs have to go up, too. It takes a lot of energy to get gas from Texas to Virginia, and somebody has to foot the bill. If you want to know who is jacking up the price, go out and talk to the producers at the wells. They're the guys who know what is going on in the natural gas market ride. There were wells everywhere on his 50,000 acre spread.

I borrowed Fred's Mercedes and drove out to the Casa del Bunkum Oil and Gas Corral.

"You seem to have a lot of gas," I "Too damn much gas," he said. "It makes the whole ranch stink." "How come, if you have so much, the price is going up this winter? I would think you'd have to sell it

"That's true if you want to sell old gas. But nobody's going to sell old gas when he can get a much better price for new gas. I've shut down all my old gas wells until the government will allow me to sell it for the same price as I can get for new gas. Someday Washington will phase out all gas regulations and then I might sell my old gas. But for the moment it's going to stay in the ground until I can make a fair profit on it.

"Then in your opinion it is not the gas producers, but government regulations that are driving up the price this winter?

"Damn right. We barely can feed our families on what we're getting for

I flew back to Washington to talk to the people at the Department of Energy in hopes they could tell me why gas was going to cost the consumer so much more this year.

The man they turned me over to said, "You came to the wrong place. We don't concern ourselves with the price of gas. The faster the government gets out of the gas regulation business the better it will be for all of

"I'm sure of that, but aren't you concerned that a lot of people might freeze this winter when the price goes

Control temper with God's help

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How can I learn to control my temper? I know I ought to be more patient in many situations, but I just can't seem to help losing my temper. — J.H.

DEAR J.H.: I am sure you have discovered by experience just how big a problem an uncontrolled temper can be. It almost never solves anything and usually just makes things worse. The Bible says, "Better a patient man than a warrior, a man who controls his temper than one who takes a city' (Proverbs 16:32). The Bible also tells s, "Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry, for man's anger does not bring about the righteous life that God desires" (James 1:19-20).

But you have also discovered how hard it is for you to conquer your temper, and I believe this is something you can only do with God's help. It is interesting that patience is one of the fruit of the Holy Spirit which God will bring into our lives if we are yielded to him. (See Galatians

How will God help you deal with this? The first thing I need to say is that God will not help you if you do not want his help. Are you willing to open your life to him and let him work in your heart - not just to help you conquer your temper, but to make you into the person God wants you to be? My prayer is that you will turn to God and ask Christ to come into your life as Savior and Lord. Then commit this matter to him, asking him to help you.

Then ask God to help you put aside your selfishness and learn to accept his will in the circumstances you face. Why do I say this? Think carefully about why you get angry in certain situations. I suspect that it is almost always because you want something to happen in a certain way, and when it doesn't you are frustrated and angry. It will not necessarily be easy for you to change this, but you need to realize that your own selfish way is not always best, and you need to accept whatever God sends your way. have learned to be content

WASHINGTON - Campaign dirty tricks didn't leave town with Richard Nixon. Someone tried a rather crude forgery in an attempt to discredit President Reagan and Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., the new Republican national chairman.

Perhaps the forgery was only meant as a joke, but Laxalt and his staff aren't laughing. And the U.S. Attorney's office in Washington is looking into the matter.

The document in question is a letter on what the U.S. Attorney's office says is Laxalt's official Senate stationery, purportedly written on Sept. 9. by the senator to Richard Richards, then-chairman of the Republican National Committee: It is addressed to "Dear Dick" and signed, "Yours,

"I conferred with the President the other day and my assessment coincides with his. The President drew attention to the urgency of taking resolute measures to prevent the election of Liberal Democrats ... including discreditation of their professional and private lives.

'The President noted in particular that the election of Governor Brown to the Senate would harm the Administration politically. Perhaps we should explain to the California electorate why the Governor doesn't marry?"

Richards told my associate Vicki Warren he never received the letter. Laxalt's staff said it is definitely a forgery. They are trying to track down the perpetrator, and so far they suspect that the letter originated in the letter was indeed concocted as a dirty trick to discredit the president, his closet political adviser and Republicans in general, why was it not judiciously leaked or otherwise made public? Though photocopies of the fake letter were circulating on a small scale around Capitol Hill, there was no competent effort made to follow through on the forgery.

The District of Columbia U.S. Attorney's office is investigating the situation. Possible charges include forgery and theft of stationery.

One point remains inexplicable: If.

Perhaps, unlike their Nixon-era

PACMAN GOES TO WAR: Evidently carried away by space-war movies and video games, the Army and Marines are wasting thousands of dollars developing real-life battlefield computer devices that either don't work or perform no discernibly useful function. The brass would do better carrying sacks of quarters to the nearest video-game arcade; this would keep them amused at far less

But the Marines' computerized map reader will require a backpackcarried satellite relay, a centralized battlefield management computer and, of course, a full-color video display unit back at headquarters. The system is still on the drawing board, but Pentagon computer experts told my associate Ron McRae that the continued addition of expensive and useless optional equipment may mean the thing will never get

"We do have a genuine requirement for better battlefield computer systems," said one exasperated officer, "but someone always wants an R2-D2 instead of something that works. We've had to pay contractors to rewrite the system specifications 23 times, and they never get any more realistic." Not to be outdone by a bunch of jarheads, the Army has spent even more on its.computerized battle gadgets. The TACFIRE, for example, is a $100 million computer that's supposed to take the guesswork and human error out of laying down artillery barrages. The central TACFIRE computer collects information by radio from smaller computers at the gun batteries, digests it and then relays aiming instructions back to the gun Artillerymen say such a system might have been helpful back in World War II. But they say the smaller computers provided to the individual batteries can tell the gunners everything they need to know. In short, there's no real need for the cumbersome and costly TACFIRE system.

Properly used, moderen emputers could do as much for the armed services as they already do for the average American household. But so far, the space-age gimcracks have simply gobbled up money like a super-Pacman gone wild.

One reason, according to computer specialists, is that the Pentagon is often penny-wise and pound-foolish trying to hold down costs by hiring inexperienced personnel, skimping on worthwhile projects to plan grandiose systems, and setting unrealistic deadlines for contractors.

When inexperienced personnel botch their jobs, poor planning wastes money and impossible deadlines cause costly foulups, it's the taxpayers who get stuck with the bill.

Federal agents say multimillion-dollar 'speed' ring broken

By MACK SISK Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO - Federal agents say they have broken a ring that was manufacturing and distributing millions of dollars worth of methamphetamines, also known as

'speed," in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico. U.S. Attorney Edward Prado and Chuck Carter, special agent in charge of the Drug Enforcement Administration's San Antonio office, announced that 20 people were accused in sealed indictments and were being rounded up late Thursday

Carter said the drug traffickers called the organization DOPE and Company or "DOPEC," an anagram for Davis, Oberski, Pearson, Epperson and Co. — signifying, he said, the names of the organization's principal Carter said Charles G. Davis, Michael N. Oberski and Norman Richard Epperson were among the defendants arrested Thursday. Names of the other defendants would be withheld until all the arrests were made, he said.

Carter said DOPEC operated since 1978 in Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana and "was formed solely for the purpose of trafficking in the lucrative methamphetamine

"It was a close-knit and highly skilled criminal organization consisting of about 50 members throughout the three-state area," Carter said. "It was a gigantic operation. It did $10 million last year.

Prado said a federal grand jury returned a 33-count indictment against the 20..defendants on Tuesday, but arrests did not begin until Thursday.

Carter said the investigation, which involved undercover activity and "legwork" by DEA agents, resulted in the seizing of illegal South Central Texas drug labs at Wimberley, San Marcos, New Braunfels and Fredericksburg. The organization formerly ran labs in Baton Rouge, La., and Albuquerque, N.M., he said. The ring moved throughout Texas teaching people how to manufacture the drugs in laboratories, he said Carter said two of the defendants, Davis and Oberski, were charged with continuing criminal ennterprise, which carries a maximum sentence of life in prison without parole. Davis was arrested Thursday in Amarillo and Oberski was taken into custody at Wimberley, he said.

Prado said it was the first continuing criminal enterprise indictment retrned in the Western District of Texas since imprisoned narcotics trafficker Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra was indicted on that charge on May 22, 1978.

Chagra will be tried later on charges that he hired convicted hitman Charles V. Harrelson to kill U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. on May 29, 1979. Prosecutors contend Chagra feared Wood would invoke the maximum penalty if he was convicted.

Church continues celebration

By CAROL HART The Centennial Celebration under way now at First Christian Church is the culmination of a year's worth of planning, Victor Sedinger, pastor of the church, said.

"We began in November of last year," Rev. Sedinger says. "We met with all those who were interested in planning the celebration.'

As the months preceded, members of the church began compiling information on the church's history. First Christian Church is the oldest group in the city "to assemble themselves together for communion and worship," church members

Tipping: round two

DEAR ABBY: This is for "One Foot in the Poorhouse," the waitress who came up with the brilliant conclusion that most people don't tip 15 percent because they can't figure 15 percent of the bill

She said she was sick of breaking her back to give excellent service for a measly 10 percent. Then she had the gall to send you a "tip table" for people to carry in their wallets for quick and easy reference!

Where is it written that a person has to tip 15 percent - or 10 percent? Or anything, for that matter?

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for the waitress who sent you the 15 percent tipping chart. As a waitress, I serve people daily whose minds go completely blank when I present the heck. Some don't know what kind of tip to leave. The chart will be useful for them. At least they will know that a 15 percent tip is the going rate for excellent service.

And please stress that we could never make it on the minimum wage paid by the employer. We do this aind of work only because of the tips. WORKING MY BUTT OFF IN

Itz says beware of Soviet 'mood music'

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State George P. Shultz, just back from Moscow, says the United States should not be lulled by conciliatory "mood music" from the Kremlin's new leadership

Shultz said Thursday that if relations between the superpowers are to improve, there must be a Soviet

"We must not in any way allow ... mood music to delude us or take us away from our own convictions that we must do what is necessary for our own defense," he said at his second news conference since taking office last summer. He added that the Reagan administration is ready for a "careful, thoughtful" effort to improve U.S.-Soviet relations if the Soviets are ready to cooperate

While in Moscow for the funeral of Leonid Brezhnev on Monday, Shultz and Vice President George Bush had a 30-minute private meeting with Yuri Andropov, Brezhnev's successor as Communist Party chief.

Shultz said he and Bush were treated "with great courtesy" in the Soviet Union. "Some people say that's a signal and perhaps it is," Shultz said. But I think that the things that we are really looking for, after all the signaling has taken place, is the substance of change in behavior in important matters,"

Signals are fine, and indications that people are willing to sit down and talk seriously are fine, and we have given those signals ourselves," he said.

"We look for changes in behavior...," he said. "I think if you look at the problems that are before us, on the whole they are problems that they created.

Shultz said the friendly gestures by the new Soviet leaders were offset in his mind by a show of military strength in a parade in Red Square immediately following Brezhnev's burial.

"It was quite startling that after the body of Mr. Brezhnev was in the ground it was as if somebody threw a switch and suddenly there was martial music and a long march-by of troops," he said.

"So that was mood music too, I thought Shultz said the possibility of a U.S. Soviet summit meeting was not raised at the meeting he and Bush had

But he added that President Reagan is ready to meet with the Soviet leaders if there is any prospect of meaningful results, a position Reagan has held from the beginning of his presidency. Shultz said the Soviet Union could take the initiative to warm relations at arms control talks now under way in Geneva, at talks in Vienna to reduce East-West troop strength in Europe and at the human rights conference in Those are negotiations "where we would welcome movement," Shultz said.

A withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan would also be "a piece of constructive behavior," Shultz said in

Reagan to favor dense-spacing for MX missile

By TERENCE HUT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - President Reagan is likely to unveil on Monday a long-awaited basing plan for the MX missile that calls for bunching the huge weapons closely together in super-hardened silos to protect them against a Soviet Reagan's address to the nation, at 7 p.m. CST Monday, on arms control and defense issues

An administration official, speaking privately, said the MX decision would be announced at the White House and Pentagon, and then Reagan would refer to it during his speech in the context of the administration's overall arms reduction plan.

The president is expected to say the MX is necessary because of a massive Soviet arms buildup over two decades, the official said.

In advance of his speech, Reagan was due to meet today with the general advisory committee of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Officials at the White House and Pentagon said Reagan probably will follow the recommendation of Pentagon research chief Richard DeLauer and the Air Force that 100 MX missiles be deployed in silos spaced only about 1,800 to 2,000 feet apart.

That plan, known as "dense pack," is based on the theory that the blast and radiation from the first attacking enemy missiles would destroy or disable the trailing missiles in a phenomenon called "fratricide.

Supporters of the plan say the mutual self-destruction of enemy missiles would spare most of the MXs.

Although the White House committed itself to an announcement Monday, there were some indications that the final form of the deployment was still under discussion and that the last wrinkles in the plan might not be ironed out until sometime over the weekend.

Officials who have been working on the MX proposals have been asked to look at varying options for deploying the MX with "deceptive features.

What this means, said officials who asked to remain anonymous, is that consideration still was being given to putting the missiles in varying numbers of underground silos, possibly as many as 300.

This could mean the missiles would be deployed in as many as three separate arrays, not necessarily in the same area, defense specialists said. Defense officials, speaking privately, also cautioned that Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger may have decided on some refinements in the already publicized details of the dense pack plan.

Weinberger has called the dense pack idea "promising." But dense pack has its critics, including Charles Townes, a Nobel-prize winning physicist who headed a special Defense Science Board that studied the strengths and weaknesses of the closely spaced deploy-

Townes reportedly has questioned whether the MX missiles could be deployed in super-hardened launch silos faster than the Soviets could develop technology to neutralize them.

The basing issue has proven to be a politically and militarily troubling decision for the United States, and particularly for Reagan and his predecessor, Jimmy

Although the first MX missile will not be test fired until early next year, the project dates back to 1973. Since then, more than 30 different basing plans have been studied and

$4.5 billion has been spent. After delaying full-scale missile development for two years, then-President Carter proposed deploying the missiles in a grid formation, with 200 missiles spread out among 4,600 shelters in the deserts of Utah and Nevada. Reagan rejected that plan, and his administration has spent two years coming up with its own version. The 190,000-pound missiles, armed with 10 warheads, are supposed to be highly accurate and capable of knocking out hardened Soviet targets, such as military command and control centers.

Regardless of Reagan's basing decision, the MX faces an uncertain future in Congress. A bid by Rep Joseph P. Addabto, D-N.Y. to cut the billion in MX procurement ommittee Tuesday.

answer to a question Shultz indicated that while the United States is watching the recent stepped up contacts between Soviet and Chinese leaders, it believes problems between the two countries are so divisive that a reconciliation will not be

The Chinese, he said, are concerned about the Soviet military presence in Afghanistan and about "the behavior of the Soviet proxy state, Vietnam.

"So, if through their discussions, they can persuade the Soviet Union to get out of Afghanistan and in effect get (the Vietnamese) out of Kampuchea (Cambodia), so much the better," Shultz said.

On another subject, Shultz strongly criticized the Israeli government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin for requiring professors in Palestinian universities to sign pledges not to support the Palestine Liberation Organiza-

As many as 20 foreign professors, including Americans, have been expelled from the universities on the occupied West Bank for refusing to sign.

Shultz called this "not constructive at all," and an assault on "freedom of thought." He compared the Israeli practice to the period during the Cold War in the 1950s when some American university professors had to sign loyalty oaths declaring they were not members of the Communist party He said the United States is still working for a speedy withdrawal of Israeli and other foreign troops from Lebanon, but acknowledged that negotiations to bring this about were "not going quite as fast as we would like." "I just have to say. 'It ain't easy,' but we're working on it," Shultz said.

Typo leads to robber's release

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban refugee was released from jail one day after being convicted of armed robbery because of a one-word error in a written order from a judge, authorities said.

Manuel Jimenez, 27, was convicted Nov. 4 of robbing a grocery store in February. He was freed from the Orange County Jail because a release order from Circuit Judge Lon Cornelius incorrectly used the word "defendant" where it should have said "witness," said Larry Bacon, supervisor of the jail's booking office. The order was meant to authorize release of a defense witness being held to assure his appearance at the trial, Bacon said.

Cornelius could not immediately be reached for comment; he did not return a telephone call Thursday

Smokeout catches fire Most ever quit, but tobacconists don't fear

By BETSY BROWN KRFT Associated Press Writer

More nicotine addicts than ever gave up cigarettes for the Great American Smokeout, say cancer society officials. But a tobacco company spokesman says the Smokeout won't affect sales, which are expected to set a record this year

An estimated 19 million cigarette smokers, or 36 percent of America's 53 million adult smokers, used candy, prizes and plenty of moral support to kick the tobacco habit for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday, the cancer society

"We're ecstatic," said Charles Dahle, a spokesman for the American Cancer Society, which reported 16 million participants in last year's Smokeout. "It's a tremendous jump. We marvel at it.

But David Fishel, a spokesman for R.J. Reynolds Tobacco in Winston-Salem, N.C., said the annual smokeouts have had no impact on cigarette sales.

'We're looking for a record year in terms of cigarette sales this year," he said. Cigarette manufacturers sold more than 600 billion cigarettes last year, and the industry expects demand to be up 1.5 percent this year, Fishel said. Based on a random telephone survey that reached 1,667 smokers across the country, the cancer society estimated that 32 percent of male smokers, and 41 percent of females, tried to quit Thursday.

Those who succeeded were urged to keep resisting the

"If you can do without cigarettes for 24 hours, how about another 24, then another," said Dr. C. William Aungst, a volunteer with the cancer society in Buffalo, N.Y. Dahle said that if Thursday's sixth smokeout was like previous ones, almost 7 percent of those who succesfully abstained for the day will kick the habit for good, meaning about 1.2 million fewer smokers.

A Tulsa, Okla., woman who won a prize from her employer for trying to quit wasn't convinced her lightingup days were over. "I'm not too hopeful," said Patti Wittich-Kelly, but added, "I'll give it a try."

Her employer, a Blue Cross and Blue Shield office, gave prizes including cash, "cold turkeys" and a free night in a Tulsa hotel to smokers who pledged to quit. The toll-free number of the Massachusetts division of

Townsfolk on spirit overflow

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

STANTON - At first glance, Stanton resembles hundreds of other such farming communities that dot the West Texas landscape. But the gayly decorated storefronts and smiles on the faces of its residents tell the visitor something special is a-brewin' in this town.

What's the secret? Only the local high school's first district football championship in 32 years. That's all. But it's enough to turn the 2,314 townsfolk on their collective ear.

"I think it's fantastic," grins Joni Hazlewood as she puts Christmas. flower arrangements together in a downtown flower shop. "It's something we've looked forward to now for 32 years. I can't think of anything that would be greater.

Joni's spirit is reflective of the entire community... Nearly every business windowfront-has been filled with slogans but cheerleaders and pep squad members. Inside, long red ribbons tell the tale of district championship as they hang from cash registers. Framed pictures of SHS Buffaloes can be easily spotted as they are proudly displayed by participating shop owners. Even the local barber will pause from his clippings to brag on his

"I think it's great," says hairtrimmer Stanley Reid. "It's the first time we've won bi-district in 50 years. If we play like we did in the first half the other night, Shallowater will know they had a game.

The spirit was high after the Buffaloes won district but flame of enthusiasm is flickering the lazy autumn clouds since the 44-7 bidistrict victory over Marfa.

"The boys have really worked hard and the coaches have worked hard too," says Glenn Brown inside everyone will be going to the game...in fact, we've told the last person to leave to make sure and turn off all the lights.

"Yes sir, win, lose or draw, they're a fine bunch boys.

Getting a crowd up for the game is no problem. Last week, over 300 fans arrived in Fort Stockton more than an hour before kickoff.

"We're looking forward to a good game this week," says insurance man Paige Eiland. "They have a good team but we do too. They're playing together...there's not one real outstanding star. They're all just doing their job.

'This is the greatest thing that has happened to Stanton," says long-time booster Jimmy Stallings. "In 1950. I graduated from college, got married and Stanton won district. There's been some lean years in between but Stanton has alwasy supported well. But this year the intensity is different.

Stanton had to bounce back from a mid-season slump but Booster Club president Stephen Stallings thinks that helped. "We were picked to win district but then we lost three straight and everyone kinda got down on them But the coaches got the kids up and made some changes and they haven't lost since. They done a lot of hard work.'

Sister Twila - a former SHS cheerleader - stuck her head in the door and said, "There's a lot more unity.

Obviously, unity is the name of the game. Whether it's at the school or downtown. Stanton is fired up and ready for tonight's showdown with Shallowwater.

Hawks outscore Wayland, 100-95

PLAINVIEW - Playing without the services of leading scorer and rebounder Nate Givens, the Howard College Hawks still managed to keep their unbeaten streak alive with a 100-95 victory-over the Wayland Baptist College junior varsity here Thursday night.

The win boosts the Hawks to 6-0 and is one of the best starts under veteran coach Harold Wilder. HC returns to Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Monday night to host the Angelo State junior varsity at 8 p.m.
Sophomore Reggie Childress filled in at the forward position for Givens who missed a workout and did not make the trip. Childress responded with 23 points to lead the Hawk scoring attack. The game stayed tight from tip-off to the final buzzer.

Howard built leads as large as nine points but could never shake Wayland. Wilder still was able to get most of his bench into the game and non-starter Danny Grayson contributed a dozen points and David Lell had 13. Also in double figures for the Hawks were Dwight Harris with 16, Leon Issac with 13 and James Barnett with 11 Only six WBC playes scored in the game but four reach-

Queens, McLennan meet in semifinals

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

Who would have ever thought they'd let a Shawnee into Dodge City? But there Shawnee Cross was, in the lineup of the visiting Kansas junior college. Unfortunately, she had as much luck shooting over Howard College's Susan Cordell as teammate Suzann Stephens and the rest of the Congs Thursday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Combining an aggressive defensive that forced three shot clock violations and an offense that played shoot 'em' up behind Cordell and Nell Haskins, the host Queens set down the law in Dodge City with a 87-43 romp in the winner's bracket of the Hawk Queen Classic

The victory moves HC into a 9 p.m. semifinal game tonight against McLennan. The High Lassies nipped Navarro 71-63 behind Rita Martin's 18 points in another first round match. It will be the second meeting of the season for the two teams, the Queens winning 62-61 earlier in the month at the McLennan Classic in Waço.

In games this morning, Navarro edge Dodge City 73-70 in the 8 a.m. game as Zina Pippin scored 14 points. Julie Burnham had 30 for Dodge. In the 10 a.m. game, Western rebounded to top Grayson 89-78. Ramona Irlbeck had 18 for the winners while Leddy Hensley scored 23 for the Lady Vikings.

In the other semifinal game - set for 5 p.m., Odessa tests pre-tourney favorite Tyler. The Lady Wranglers needed an overtime period to overcome rival Western Texas 75-74 while the Apache Ladies toppled Temple 72-61.

In a tournament that has its share of unusual names, Shawnee Cross seems strangely out of place in Dodge City. But it was Stephens who was in the wrong place when she tried to shoot over the 6-6 Cordell late in the game.

Not used to having to shoot over the Statue of Liberty. the Congs found the going rought inside and stuck mostly with perimete jump shots against the Queens. But Stephens tried a shot late over the HC sophomore with less than a minute to play and her overly-arched shot didn't quite end up like she wanted.

The Dodge City sophomore did get the ball over Cordell's flailing arms. She put too much on the shot and it sailed over the basket and over the backboard, bouncing into the far corners of the Coliseum. While the fans, players and even coach Phil Pettay chuckled over the play, Stephens sped downcourt in a bright shade of red.

The one play summarized the entire game for the Conqs. Even though he shuttled players in and out all night long, coach Don Stevens saw his team play aggressive defense for the entire 40 minutes of the contest. "They really surprised me," he said later. "We usually have a tendency to let up in a game like this but they real-

Beginning with a half-court man defense, the Queens switched to 1-3 and 2-3 zones. Missin from the game plan was the HC press but Stevens didn't see any reason to employ it.

Dodge City hit just 19 of 69 shots from the floor for 28 per cent. Meanwhile, the Queens dropped in 40 of 82 attempts for 49 per cent. In the rebound wars, it was Queens victory also as Haskins hauled in 12 and Holli Holloway 11 to give HC a big 55-29 advantage.

The game was tied twice early but 14-8 was the closest the Conqs would ever get. Beginning with two Pam Roberson free throws, the Queens scored 10 straight points and built a 23-point lead at 40-19 on a turn-around jumper by Cordell with 3:18 left in the half. That lead grew to 27 points at the half as HC took a 48-21 advantage into the

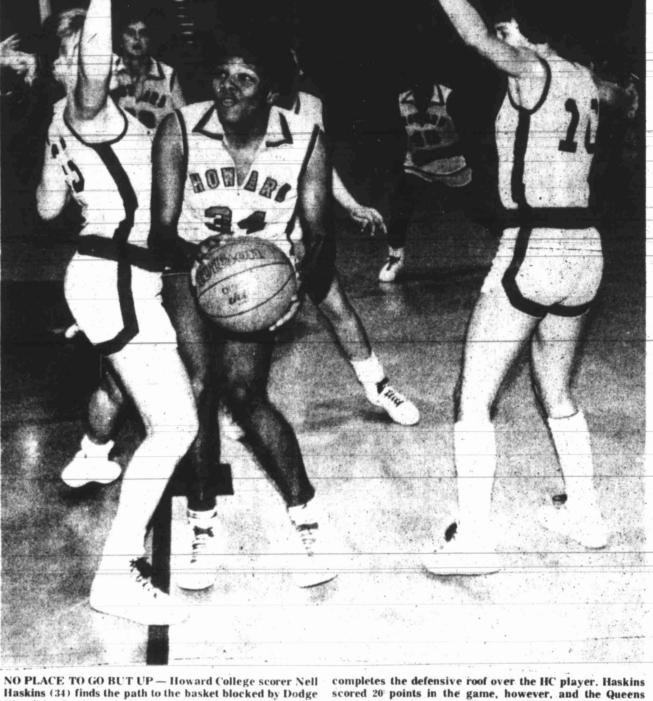

After hitting 51 per cent and constructing such a large spread, it would be easy for a team to coast and play a sluggish brand of basketball in the final half. The Queens. however, kept right on pouring it on, even as Stevens cleared his bench.

After DC closed the score to 56-33 at 13:50 on a jumper by Steph Petraceck, the Queens turned the show over to Cordell. Five straight buckets later by the Queen post, it was 66-33 and the HC lead stretched to 39 points at 76-37 on a rebound basket by Haskins. Kari Robinson's three-point play made it 81-39 with three minutes left.

Haskins and Cordell scored 20 points each to lead the scoring. Haskins has been over 20 points in each of the HC games this year while Cordell has scored 43 points in the last two contests. Despite her embarrassing shot against Cordell, Stephens finished with 13 points to tie Julie Burnham for high-point honors.

The win was the seventh straight for the Queens this season but Stevens looks to McLennan as a stiff challenge. "McLennan is a tough one. It'll be a good matchup but there are several Friday," he said.

Perhaps the most exciting game of the tourney came just before the HC-DC battle as Odessa rallied from a 10-point deficit to overcome Western in overtime

Trailing 62-52, the Lady Wranglers stormed back behind the clutch shooting of Sharon Cain. The Wranglers closed to within a point at 65-64 but it looked as if WTC would staved off disaster when Mary Nell Clayton turned a three-point play Cain swished two free throws to tie the game 68-68 but

WTC's Karen Kuykendall retaliated with two freebies of McLennan also had to come from behind to win as Navarro led 37-35 at intermission. Joining Martin in twin digits for the High Lassies were Debra Degrate with 13. Phyllis Cleary with 12 and Dana Locke with 10. Lloyd Sims had 21 for Navarro

My friend Eunice, who's rubbing elbows with her 45th birthday, gave me a list of things she'll be thankful for next Thurs day. Here it is.

Nieces who stay out of trouble Guarentees that pay you double Girdles when they don't leave ridges, Metrecal and Lloyd

Bridges. Candlelight whenere I Men who favor vintage wine Money enough to pay the bills. Vitamin E and hormone pills. Everyone at Big Spring Chemical wishes you a happy Thanksgiving and invites you to get in on our Long Life Light Bulb and Anti-Freeze Sale -($3.25 a gal.). You'll be thankful you did - and so will we.

Š

DANCE WITH

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 20, 1982

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make sure you get an early start today at whatever is important to your progress and advancement. A time to study a problem that has been perplexing for a long time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Complete work you were unable to handle earlier in the week. Try to reach a better understanding with loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be precise in handling promises to others. Taking an active part in a civic affair now can add to your prestige.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Doing what loved one desires is your best mode of procedure now. Show more consideration of others. Be sensible. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find a better way of expressing happiness with loved one. Cooperate with neighbors who need your help. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get the aid of a family tie for the tasks you have to handle. Find the right solution to an old problem. Think logically. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Arguing with a close tie would only bring bad feelings, so avoid such. Take time for some entertainment later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making improvements to your property is a wise way to spend the day. Strive for more harmony with family members.

SCORPIO (Oct. 28 to Nov. 21) Make sure your appearance is improved so that you can handle upcoming activites in a satisfactory manner. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Look into private affairs and make changes that are needed. Follow the advice of a trusted friend. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to gain personal aims and add to happiness. Think along constructive lines and show that you have much ability. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your property and make plans for improvement. Take needed health treatments and improve your appearance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Obtain the information you need for a new project you have in mind. Come to a better accord with loved one. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who will understand how important it is to organize a plan well before starting the operation. Direct the education along lines of investigative work for best results. Don't neglect ethical training. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

members of the team flew to Foxboro Thursday night to meet with the players.

Garvey spoke for 31/2 hours, explaining the procedure the union and management went through in negotiations and detailing the final agreement.

When he emerged from the closed-door session, Garvey told reporters, "If the rank and file in the league is like they are here, people are going to be in for a jolt."

He said there is no question the Patriot players are dissatisfied with the proposed contract, and that there are other teams in the league with the same feelings. He said, characterizing the current developments, We are well into overtime. Hasselback said the meeting, although emotional, resulted in an agreement by all players to stay in camp and to play Sunday's game against the Cleveland Browns.

But he, and many of the players leaving the meeting, said they doubted the Pats players would vote next Tuesday to ratify the con-

before morning practice

"The coach, Ron Meyer, gave us 15 minutes to hold a meeting and it took about an hour and 20 minutes," Hasselbeck said. "Many players are upset and asked me what they were doing here. All I could do was tell them I'm not totally sure what we're doing here.' Hasselbeck said that the Patriots took a vote on whether to stay or walk out and "it was about 50-50."

The vote was 16 to walk, 13 to stay and 27 abstentions.

"A lot wanted to go home, but everyone realized that if half of us go home and half of us stay here it just wouldn't work," said Hasselback.

'E.T.' star hosts 'Saturday Night'

NEW YORK (AP) - Move over, E.T. Unless you can make a fish face, turn your eyelids inside out or make gurgling noises, it looks like your leading lady, Drew Barrymore, has lost her heart to another.

The precocious 7-year-old actress revealed during a rehearsal Thursday for this week's Saturday Night Live show that cast member Tim Kazurinsky has captured her

"I like all of them," she said when asked who her favorite Saturday Night Live player is. But leaning closer, she whispered, "I can't say who my real favorite is because the others will get jealous." Then after sweeping the room with her eyes to make certain no one was near, she quickly added,

The blonde bundle of energy, who made her film debut as a playmate to the lovable creature from outer space in "E.T.," gave the secret away, however, when she arrived at NBC's Rockefeller Center studio Thursday afternoon and jumped into Kazurinsky's arms the moment she spotted

The granddaughter of actor John Barrymore, Drew is the youngest person to ever host the late night comedy-variety show. In fact, she's younger than the show itself, which is in its eighth season.
