The first artificial heart 61-year-old's transplant termed success

By GEORGE TIBBITTS
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY — Surgeons removed the failing heart of a 61-year-old man today and implanted a polyurethane device in the first operation to replace a human heart with a permanent mechanical substitute. Doctors called the operation a success.

Barney B. Clark "is being sustained entirely by his new heart," said University of Utah Medical Center spokesman Mark Sands shortly before the operation was completed at 6:35 a.m. MST.

Another spokesman, John Dwan, said he had talked with the head of the surgical team by telephone from the operating room, and the doctor "sounded very tired but very pleased." And the man who developed the heart said he didn't "think it could have gone much better."

Once he recovers, Clark will spend the rest of his life connected by 6-foot-long hoses to an air compressor that sits on a wheeled cart about the size of a shopping cart.

Dr. Chase Peterson described the attitude of the surgical staff as "cautiously optimistic."

The critical period will come over the next two to three days. "We want to be sure we're not developing pneumonia and that the pump is able to work well," he said.

"Mechanically, it's entirely a success now. This thing is doing what it is supposed to. Beyond that, we have no right to say more."

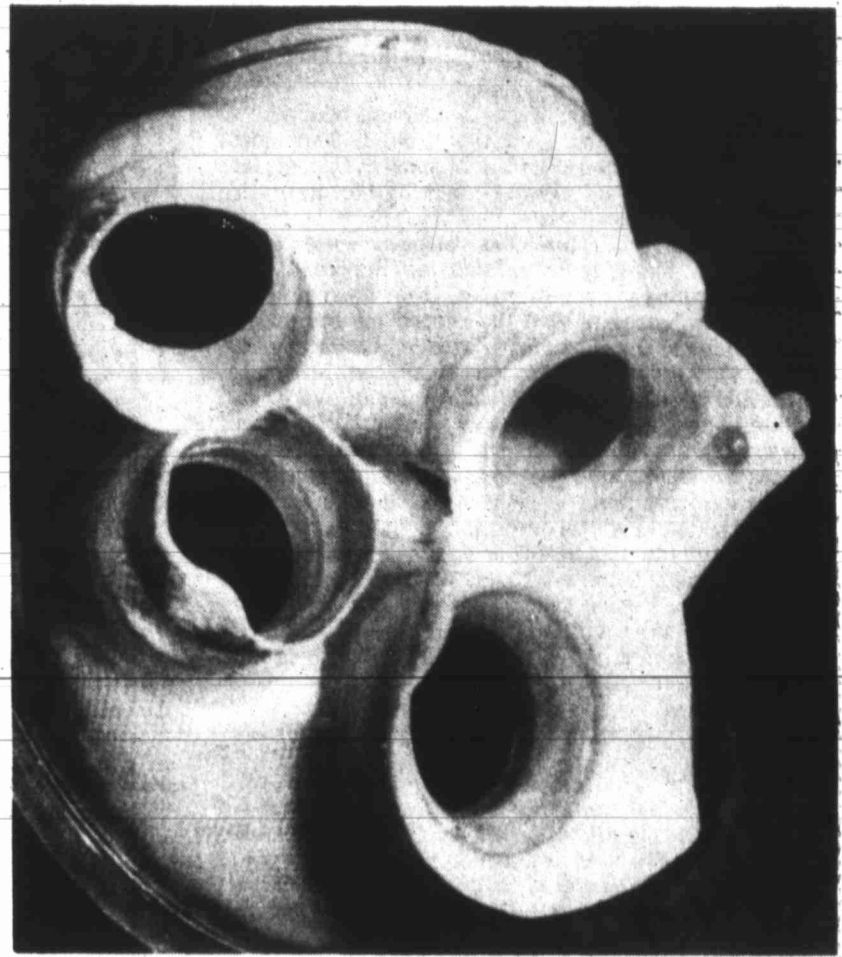

Surgeons had experienced complications in the later hours of the operation while they were weaning Clark from a heart-lung machine and placing him entirely on the new device, powered by air, said Peterson.

He said Clark suffered swelling from the lungs due to an earlier heart failure and there was bleeding in the chest cavity which Peterson attributed to earlier cortisone treatments. He did not say how the swelling and bleeding complicated the operation.

Clark, a former dentist, was taken off the heart-lung machine at 4:09 a.m. The artificial heart sustaining his life makes a soft clicking sound that is audible through his chest wall.

A hospital official who asked not to be identified said surgeons experienced problems with one of the ventricles of the mechanical heart after it was implanted. He said something — possibly tissue — impeded the flow of blood, so the ventricle was replaced.

Experts: Kennedy not responsible

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

A Big Spring psychologist testified yesterday that Raymond Lester Kennedy could not have distinguished between right and wrong when he is said to have murdered his wife.

Dr. Ann Rowland said Kennedy was suffering from a mental disorder at the time of the shooting and had been mentally ill for some time.

Kennedy, 64, is being tried in 118th District Court in connection with the March 28, 1980 shooting death of Lucille Morgan Kennedy about one hour after their divorce. Testimony extended until 8:40 p.m. Wednesday night as two psychologists and a psychiatrist testified concerning Kennedy's mental condition.

Testimony for the defense is expected to conclude this morning. The eight-man, four-woman jury should begin their deliberations before noon today. Kennedy is represented by Wayne Basden.

Mrs. Rowland, a psychologist at Big Spring State Hospital, was on the stand for over three hours as the first witness for the defense. She said she had spent over 12 hours in consultation with Kennedy as well as administering numerous tests and reviewing past evaluations of him during his two stays at the state hospital.

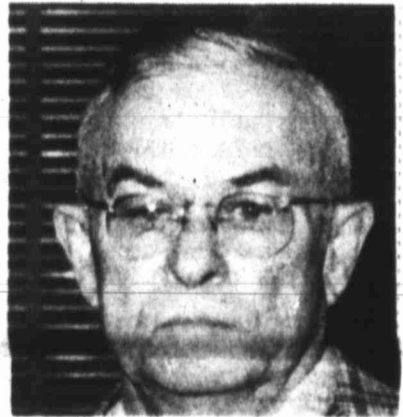

A widely-used intelligence test — the Wechsler Adult Intelligence Scale (WAIS) — had revealed Kennedy was in the lower average range of intelligence, Mrs. Rowland said. The Minnesota Multiphasic Inventory (MMPI) had shown depression, anxiety and strong obsessional features in Kennedy while another test indicated an aggressiveness potential in him, she said.

The Rorschach test showed Kennedy had limited resources for handling problems, Mrs. Rowland said. This test indicates difficulty in choosing alternatives and leads to a desire to maintain the status quo, she said.

"Loss of control is very frightening," Mrs. Rowland said. "Individuals with this kind of personality are like pressure cookers."

When they explode in anger, she said, their fury is fueled by anger at losing control, resulting in a consistent trial, page 2-A

Lauds free market during Brazil visit

Reagan blasts counterfeit revolutions

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

BRASILIA, Brazil — President Reagan, in a two-pronged message to Brazilian business leaders, today denounced what he called counterfeit revolutions in Central America and decried restriction of free trade as "an ugly specter stalking the world."

Reagan sounded a call for economic cooperation between the United States and Brazil — one day after moving to ease the impact of U.S. sugar quotas here and provide a $1.2 billion loan to help Brazil restore its earlier economic growth.

But the president's trip to Latin America is focusing as much on East-West themes and troubled Central America as it is on the special problems of financially ailing Brazil.

In today's address, Reagan turned to a theme he used Wednesday night when he told a dinner audience. "Just as threatening as conventional armies or nuclear weapons are counterfeit revolu-

PRESIDENT REAGAN
...in Brazil today

tionaries who undermine legitimate governments and destroy sources of economic progress."

In remarks prepared for delivery to U.S. and Brazilian business leaders in Sao Paulo, Reagan said: "There is in the world today, a counterfeit revolution, a revolution of territorial conquests, a revolution of coercion and thought control where states rule behind the barrel of a gun and erect barbed wire walls not to keep enemies out, but to keep their own people in."

A White House official said this was a reference to the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Reagan expanded on that Wednesday night, saying insurgents were armed at great expense, by a faraway power aimed at disrupting other governments and economies. "This is aggression pure and simple," he said.

"We stand firmly with the other responsible nations of the Americas in opposing those who with violence and force of arms, try to undermine economic progress and political stability," he said.

The president, on a four-nation, five-day Latin American tour, had some trouble remembering where he was and where he is going Wednesday evening when he asked his dinner companions to join him in a toast to President Joao Baptista Figueiredo — "and to the people of Bolivia — that is where I am going. To the people of Brazil ..."

The president, however, is not going to Bolivia, one of the poorest nations on the South American continent. His next stop, on Friday, is Bogota, Colombia.

Although the president's use of the word Bolivia could clearly be heard, the official White House transcript of his remarks substituted the word Bogota. When this was noted to White House press aides, they refused to correct the transcript, saying the president was thinking of Bogota not Bolivia.

Before flying approximately 500 miles for the speech in Sao Paulo, Reagan visited the U.S. Embassy in Brasilia, where he praised the staff for its devotion to duty and called for its help in "strengthening our relations with Brazil."

Dering charged again, smut count tacked on

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Local authorities have filed a second charge against Rocky Joe Dering, being held in the Mitchell County jail for failure to obtain proper medical treatment for his infant son who died Monday night.

Yesterday, an additional charge of "possessing with intent to distribute obscene material" was filed against Dering, 25, according to Assistant District Attorney Lonnie Markley. Justice of the Peace Charles Ray Watlington set Dering's bond at $25,000 on the charge, bringing to $50,000 the total bonds on the local man.

Dering's wife, Pearl Lee Dering, 25, remains in jail pending bond of $100,000. She was charged with murder in her son's death after she confessed to immersing the 21-month-old child in a bathtub filled with scalding water, according to C-City Police Chief Ed Wheat. Markley said an autopsy later attributed the cause of death to "a blunt trauma to the abdomen of the child."

A San Antonio pathologist who performed the autopsy yesterday found the child had beaten in the past, as well as recently scalded, Wheat said.

The couple's 4-year-old daughter, Dawn, has been placed in the care of the Texas Department of Human Resources, officials said.

Graveside services for the Dering infant, Shawn Joe Dering, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

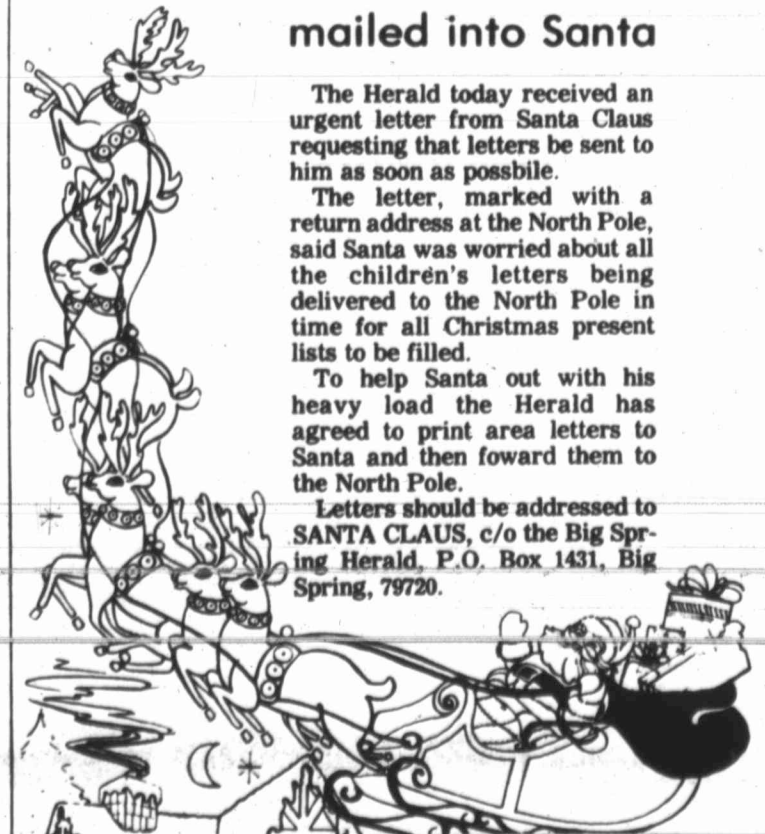

Get those letters mailed into Santa

The letter, marked with a return address at the North Pole, said Santa was worried about all the children's letters being delivered to the North Pole in time for all Christmas present lists to be filled.

To help Santa out with his heavy load the Herald has agreed to print area letters to Santa and then forward them to the North Pole.

Kennedy keeping quiet about who he'll back

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, renouncing a bid for the White House in 1984, is fully prepared to back another contender based on the issues he would have stressed in a campaign of his own, aides say.

Aides said no endorsement is expected for some time, although any of the remaining contenders — Walter Mondale and Sens. John Glenn and Gary Hart among them — presumably would be delighted to receive Kennedy's blessing. Alan Cranston, the Senate Democratic whip, said as much, predicting, "A significant number of Kennedy supporters will now be ready to support me."

Kennedy was keeping his own counsel, refusing to name a favorite or even identify a front-runner. Cranston conceded the current lead to former vice president Mondale and said he ranks Glenn, of Ohio, next.

Others edging into the race, still unannounced, include Hart of Colorado, Morris Udall of Arizona, Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew.

But one Kennedy aide said: "He's going to look and see if these people are consistent" with the themes he would have stressed — a nuclear freeze and changed economic policies chief among them.

Another aide, also asking not to be identified, said that while the Massachusetts senator is "leaving the option open to endorse a candidate in the future," he does not have a favorite at this point. Associates who talked with Kennedy by telephone over the past few days also said he expressed no preference.

"He intends to play a major role in Democratic party politics," one aide said after Kennedy's nationally televised announcement that personal reasons dictated a decision to renounce both a candidacy and a draft for the nomination in 1984.

Although ruling out a race in 1984, the 50-year-old Kennedy said he wasn't renouncing any hopes for the White House in 1988 and beyond, and aides sought to stress his determination to remain a party leader in the interim.

Kennedy himself was providing no details on his political plans. But a key aide — all Kennedy's assistants were asking for anonymity Wednesday — hinted broadly that Kennedy might soon announce a "major domestic initiative" dealing with the economy as one way of indicating his intention to retain his voice as a party leader.

"He played a major political role in this country throughout the 1970s even though he wasn't a presidential candidate," remarked one aide.

"He will have enormous influence on the Democratic party and he intends to exercise it very vigorously," said another. At the time of his withdrawal, Kennedy was the front-runner in the polls among contenders for the presidential nomination.

Presidential endorsements aside, Kennedy associates said the Massachusetts senator has decided to maximize his political muscle by retaining his political action committee, the Fund for a Democratic Majority. Kennedy will use the committee to raise funds as he participates in efforts to restore a Democratic majority in the Senate and solidify it in the House in 1984, aides say.

In addition, of course, Kennedy retains his Senate seat for at least six more years, a forum from which he can easily command media attention to speak out on issues he decides are important.

Kennedy himself discussed those issues briefly at his news conference, saying he intends to stay "extremely active in the national Democratic party," and continue to speak out in the Senate for "economic growth and social justice and a nuclear freeze."

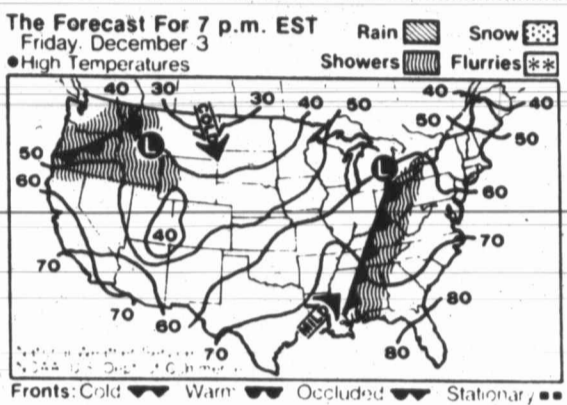

His news conference took on the trappings of an announcement of a White House campaign, not the abandonment of one still being built.

Kennedy was accompanied by his three children, Edward Jr., Kara and Patrick, as well as other family members and dozens of cheering aides as he made the announcement that ended a campaign still being built.

Cold front drops temperatures

By The Associated Press

Skies were cloudy across Texas early today as a Pacific cool front continued to move slowly across the state, dropping temperatures and triggering scattered showers.

Five inches of snow fell Wednesday in the El Paso area. Most of the shower activity had dissipated before dawn, but some rain was noted from the middle coast to Houston.

Temperatures were mostly in the 40s and 50s behind the front, while muggy readings in the 70s were noted ahead of the front in southern portions of the state.

The forecast called for cloudy to partly cloudy skies statewide. Scattered showers were expected in North Central, Northeast and East Texas.

SHOWERS AND thunderstorms spread from northeastern Texas into Iowa today, with large hail, high winds and several tornadoes reported across Missouri, southeastern Kansas and northeastern Oklahoma.

Snow fell in Wyoming, western North Dakota and in the Rockies, but the California coast had fair skies.

Watt wants investigation into starved horses

BROWNSBORO, Texas (AP) — U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt has authorized federal officials to spend what they need for a thorough investigation into the starvation deaths of at least 38 horses "adopted" by an East Texas rancher, a spokesman said.

John Gurnert of the Bureau of Land Management also said authorities are checking out tips placing some of the missing mustangs as far away as Missouri.

"Certainly (the federal horses) are not all accounted for," Gurnert said Wednesday.

Investigators believe some of the carcasses may have rotted away or may be hidden by underbrush, Gurnert said.

BLM officials said 38 horses are confirmed dead. Meanwhile, a ranch sheltering 150 of the surviving, but malnourished horses has been flooded with offers to adopt the mustangs, but the ranch director says the mustangs won't be up for adoption for some time.

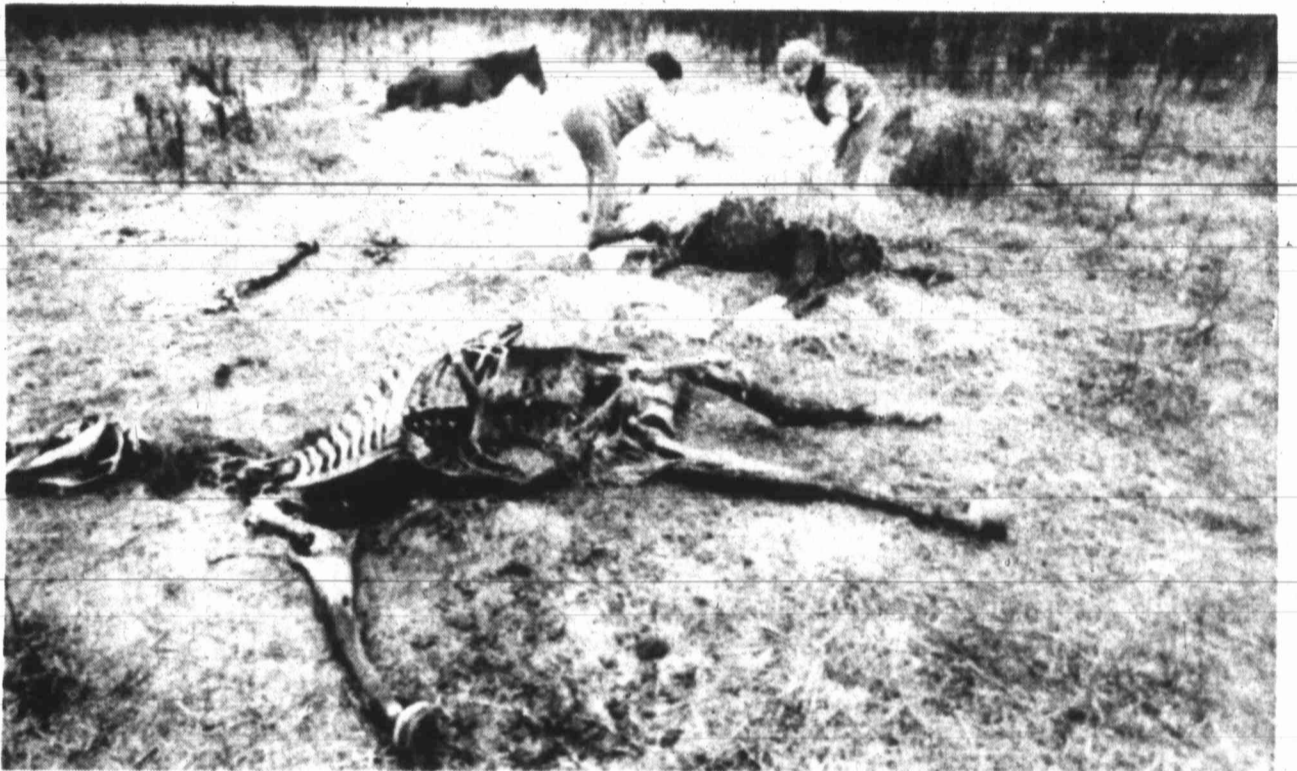

"The response has been tremendous," Black Beauty Ranch director Jerry Owen said. "The phone has been ringing from daylight until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning."

Last week, officials discovered the remains of about 30 dead horses and more than 150 other horses that appeared to be starving. A lost deer hunter reported finding the carcasses in an overgrazed pasture about three miles east of Pittsburg.

"It will be a while before these horses are ready for adoption," Owens told The Dallas Morning News. "But we can use donations of hay and money to care for them."

About 170 horses from Nevada had been adopted under a federal program intended to save wild mustangs from starvation, officials said.

Three investigators from the federal Bureau of Land Management met with the U.S. attorney's office in Dallas Tuesday, to discuss possible federal charges against rancher Joe Corbett, who already has been charged with a state misdemeanor offense of cruelty to animals.

Athens veterinarian John Morton said the entire herd suffers from a serious case of stomach worms. Corbett obtained the wild horses last December under a BLM "Adopt-a-Horse" program to reduce the population of wild horses and burros on federal lands.

Inmate says he will be executed if it's God's will HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Charlie Brooks Jr. says if he is executed as scheduled next week for a Fort Worth murder, his death will be the will of God.

"If God wills that I am to be executed at 12:05 Tuesday morning then I will be executed at 12:05 Tuesday morning. But if it is not God's will that I be executed, then I will not," the Fort Worth man said Wednesday.

"Islam teaches that nothing will happen to me unless it is the will of God," said Brooks, who says he has been preparing himself for death since he became a Muslim while in prison.

His lawyers are planning to go to the U.S. Supreme Court later this week to ask for a stay of execution. A three-judge panel of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals turned down such a request last week in Austin.

His appeals lawyer in Fort Worth, Danny Burns, said the appeal includes a contention that five potential jurors were improperly excluded from the trial because they expressed reservations about the death penalty.

The appeal also contends there was insufficient evidence to prove Brooks guilty of capital murder and that Brooks' trial

Man wired with explosives gives up to police

By JEFF MAYERS
Associated Press Writer

GRAND BLANC, Mich. — A probation violator who wired himself with explosives, then barricaded himself in his parents' home, surrendered early Thursday after police lobbed tear gas into the house, authorities said.

Douglas Perreault, 26, described by a neighbor as a man "who used to blow up a lot of things," had held two police officers hostage on a street for six hours, saying he didn't want to go to jail.

He released one Wednesday and the other escaped, said Capt. Robert Sherman of the Grand Blanc Township police. Both were unhurt.

After the two officers were out of danger, Perreault went back inside his home where his parents and brother were waiting. The mother, Jackie, and brother, David, left the home and were taken into protective custody around 4:30 p.m. The father, William, stayed, said police Capt. Dick Weishuhn.

Shortly after dusk, the girlfriend of David Perreault drove her car past police barricades around the area and entered the home, where she remained with Perreault and his father, said state police Lt. Gary Sauer.

The girlfriend later left the house.

After tear gas was lobbed into the house early Thursday, Perreault walked out of the house — shirtless and without the explosives — at about 1:30 a.m. and got into a waiting police car, said Sauer. He was accompanied by his father.

Sauer said Perreault probably would be taken to a psychological testing facility. Perreault and his father had superficial injuries from broken glass, Sauer said.

Besides the explosives strapped to his body, Perreault had an additional 100 pounds of explosives — including 50 pounds of dynamite — inside the home, Sauer said. If detonated, the explosives in the home could cause extensive damage within 200 feet, Sauer said.

Weishuhn said the explosives, if detonated, would kill anyone within 25 feet of Perreault.

Many of the people in houses in the immediate neighborhood had left their homes, but some remained and police had not ordered an evacuation, he said.

The situation was "stable but it could go unstable at any moment. Obviously he isn't too mentally stable," Sauer said earlier in the day. "I don't think we're dealing with a doper."

Sauer said Perreault's father came out of the house during the afternoon and talked to police briefly about his son. He quoted the father as saying "It's 50-50 whether he'll give himself up."

The incident began when two officers went to the Perreault home in Grand Blanc Township, 10 miles south of Flint, at 8:30 a.m. to serve a probation violation warrant from Texas for a marijuana conviction, and someone fired three shots at the officers, Sauer said.

Perreault's parents said their son was in his bedroom. When the officers entered the room, they found him wearing a belt of explosives and holding two guns, Sauer said.

At 11 a.m. Wednesday, Perreault allowed his parents to leave the house and he emerged with officers and sat on the hood of a patrol car.

Authorities said Perreault had two to three pounds of "jelly-type" explosives strapped to his body with a trigger mechanism around his neck and that he threatened to blow himself up unless the officers remained. He also was armed with a 9mm automatic handgun and a 22-caliber rifle.

Perreault released one of the police officers, Timothy Lintz, 32, at 2:30 p.m., after hours of negotiations and the other officer, Robert Ehrhart, 38, fled the scene minutes later.

A neighbor, Mike Perry, 16, said Perreault was familiar with explosives.

"He used to blow up a lot of things around the neighborhood," Perry said.

Capt. J.D. Paeton of the Harris County Sheriff's Department in Houston said Perreault was sentenced to seven years probation in March 1979 for possession of more than four ounces of marijuana, a felony in Texas. Authorities filed a motion to revoke his probation in May 1981 because he failed to report to his probation officer, Paeton said.

State police were trying to keep people with radio transmitters out of the area for fear of detonating the explosive.

Andropov's true nature

The selection of Yuri Andropov as general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party should come as a surprise to no one: It confirms, for all to see, the actual nature of the Soviet state.

Andropov has served for 15 years as head of the Soviet KGB - Moscow's secret police. Among his previous activities have been major roles in crushing the Hungarian revolution of 1956, the Czechoslovakian uprising of 1968, and the current unrest in Poland. He has also had responsibility for stamping out the dissident movement in the USSR.

Suggestions that Andropov is a "closet liberal" because he is fond of jazz and is charming at cocktail parties are far less significant than this political history. Fixation on such externals by Western analysts is typical of our yen for wishful thinking where the Communists are concerned.

THE TRUTH IS that the Soviet Union is a brutal dictatorship that operates on force. Choosing the head of the secret police to run a Communist police state is an all too logical outcome of the system. We may be sure that Andropov wouldn't be where he is today if his activities at the KGB were not accepted methods of doing business in the Kremlin.

Under Leonid Brezhnev, the Soviets relentlessly expanded their power around the globe and built their war machine. They promoted and funded the communization of Southeast Asia, sponsored aggression in Nicaragua and El Salvador, backed Marxist takeovers in Africa, invaded Afghanistan, and crushed out the spark of freedom in Poland. There is little in that record of comfort to the West.

Given Andropov's background, there is no reason to suppose that Soviet goals or methods are going to change much for the better. If the Communists were ruthless and aggressive under Brezhnev, they should be equally so with a hardened veteran of the KGB at the controls. We can expect the usual talk about "detente" and peace - followed by the usual pattern of aggression.

WHAT IT ALL adds up to is a relentless foe who shows no signs of becoming otherwise. Such a foe cannot be countered by empty rhetoric and conciliation. If we are to protect our freedoms and help our allies to defend themselves, we must refurbish our defenses - and our vigilance.

Shopping ideas

Red alert. Just 21 shopping days until Christmas.

That's only three weeks, you big spenders. And just think, you procrastinators - you can put off holiday shopping for 20 more days yet.

Some people catch the Christmas spirit early and start shopping for the next holiday season as one ends. But that's a totally ridiculous procedure. After all, the present-buying season does not start until the first Ronco commercial appears on television. That, folks, is the official "Go" button. Get out your cash, put on your shopping shoes and prepare for the big push-n-shove.

Unless you really are an 11th hour Santa, your shopping has already begun. As a public service, today's column will aid in your Christmas gift hunting. Don't know what to get that special someone who has everything? Bah-humbug. Look no further than the lines below.

• Deliver to your loved one a Ding-a-ling. That's right, a Ding-a-ling. For years, Sears customers have been trying to find one. The nationwide department store once advertised, "Sears has everything... from a pocketbook to a ding-a-ling." I heard that jingle for the first time as a toddler. Twenty years later I have yet to see one. If you can find one, what a treasure it will be underneath the Christmas tree.

In case Sears says they're all out - which they probably will - try the Big Spring Herald. We have plenty of ding-a-ling here - including the writer of this column. Half-price just for the holidays.

• A unique and handy item is the new Ronco Satellite Dish. That's right, your very own dish to bring in all the programming that can't make it through the mountains surrounding Big Spring. Just plug it in and set it on top of your TV set. It's six inches in diameter and weighs only five pounds. It's a cutie, and goes for the incredible price of $9.99. Available only at all-night convenience stores.

If it doesn't work, fill it up with candy.

• Hey pine cone heads, leave your midnight fantasies behind with the new "E.T.-Moon Zappa Doll."

Two of today's idols combined to create a creature all your friends will want to take home. Pull the cord in back and hear such famous sayings as, "Beeeee awesome," "Toe-ta-lee owwwwwwch" and "Gag me with a phoooonnnne." It's a boy, it's a girl, it's the "E.T.-Moon Doll." Out of this world from Mattel.

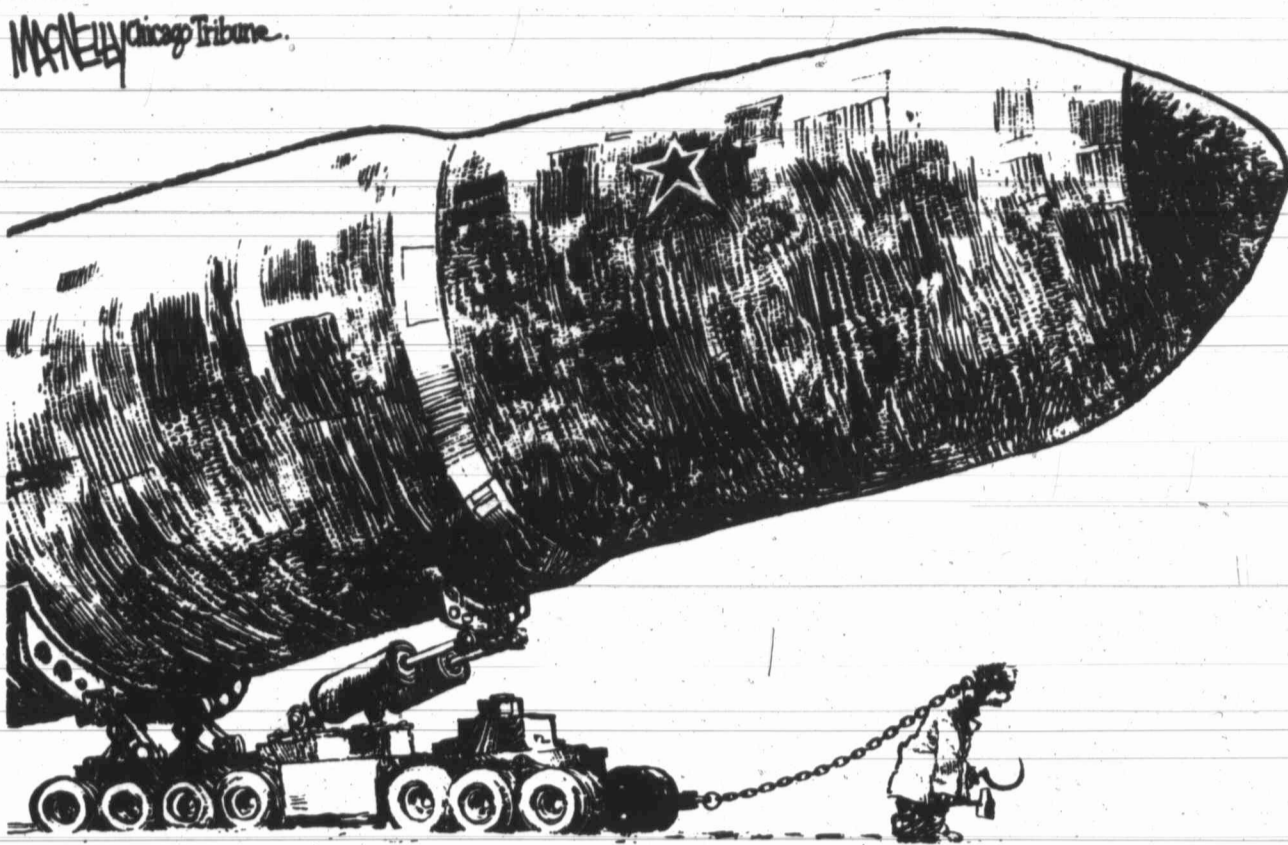

• Don't want to fight the crowds and get mauled in the mall? Pick up a gift certificate for any one of 10,000 things. Now your friends and family will remember you year-round when they buy groceries, order a double cheeseburger (no onions) or secretly call up your girlfriend in Omaha. And if those coupons from Safeway, Whataburger and Ma Bell aren't right for your filthy rich uncle, show him you care with a $1,000 gift certificate for a tooth-filling at his favorite dentist or down-payment on a tankful of gas.

• You wear designer jeans to work, to play, to the sauna? Well, a truck broke down and is parked on the corner of 7th and Ripoff St. More than 1,000,000 pair of jeans by such name makers as Calvin Coolidge, Gloria Hallelujah, Lusitania and Acee-DeeCee have got to go. It's the manufacturer's loss but your gain this Christmas. All half-price, some as low as $59.99.

• What's the rage this happy holiday season? Leg-warmers, of course. Wear them over your jeans, under your jeans, or wear them without any jeans (but the rest of you will get cold). They're available in all the great fall colors, school colors, colors of your favorite football team and even with your phone numbers embroidered in them so the guys might have a chance to stay warm this winter, too. Naughtee Knees of California even has a line of pink warmers for you not-so-guys. Put on a pair to keep out the cold night air.

That's just a few ideas, folks. If those don't fit the bill, how about a solar-powered toaster, electric pipe cleaner or bottle of Mojobreath Cologne. No? Well, you're smarter than I thought because it's usually the companies that get in the last "Ho, ho, ho."

How to cut defense budget

This year, facing a Congress alarmed about growing budget deficits, President Reagan retreated on taxes to save his defense budget. Next year, with a more Democratic Congress still inflamed by the red ink, he will surely have to retreat on defense spending too. The only question is where his extravagant military budget will be cut.

As with most budget decisions, there is a right way and a wrong way. The easiest way to save money right away is to skimp on the necessities - bullets, C-rations, spare parts, training and the rest. It is also the quickest way to sap our real military power.

TO CUT SPENDING without weakening defense, harder choices have to be made. In the long run, that means not only reconsidering the weapons and manpower selected to fulfill particular commitments - defending the Persian Gulf, for example - but also asking whether the commitments themselves are worth the expense. The only way to reduce our defense costs substantially is to reduce our commitments.

Nor does it solve the problem simply to spend less on nuclear weapons. In the first place, strategic weapons account for only 15 percent of all costs. In the second place, scrapping a new system yields only small savings right away (though large ones later). Conventional as well as nuclear forces have to come under scrutiny.

BUT EVEN in the short run, given our current commitments,

The unknown burial controversy

WASHINGTON - The honoring of Vietnam veterans and dedication of their memorial in Washington last month went a long way toward healing the psychic wounds of that war. But another controversy has arisen, marked by the bickering and backstage maneuvering that characterized the conflict and its aftermath.

This unfortunate contest, which involves well-meaning people on both sides, concerns the efforts to buy the remains of an unidentified Vietnam soldier beside those of the two world wars and the Korean conflict at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery.

The problem is the great strides in scientific identification of remains that have been made since earlier wars. Families of men still listed as missing cling to the hope that someday their loved ones will be identified as among the bodies that are now "known but to God" despite the best efforts of the medical experts. Burial at Arlington would leave some families forever in doubt.

But some Pentagon officials want to go ahead and bury a Vietnam unknown anyway. They have four "candidates" for the honor - four sets of remains in Hawaii that they are certain will never be identified.

Leading the charge is Army Secretary John Marsh, a shavetail with the occupation forces in Germany at the end of World War II, a former Virginia congressman and a member of veterans and patriotic organizations. On June 16, Marsh drew up elaborate plans for the selection and burial of a Vietnam unknown, and submitted them in an "Action Memorandum" to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

This was the suggested scenario: - Selection of one of the four sets of remains by a highly decorated enlisted veteran of Vietnam, "preferably a recipient of the Medal of Honor." - The remains not chosen to be buried at sea.

- The Navy to transport the unknown to San Francisco, with a Coast Guard cutter in escort. - The Air Force to fly the unknown to Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington, D.C.

- The Army to take the unknown to the Capitol, where the casket would be placed in the Rotunda for 48 hours. - The burial ceremony at Arlington to be held on Veterans Day.

Weinberger, evidently swayed by the argument that the four sets of remains were not beyond hope of identification, vetoed Marsh's plan. But Marsh persevered. He enlisted the help of Rep. William Goodling, R-Pa., who introduced a resolution asking the White House to change its mind and expedite the honoring of a Vietnam unknown.

A Goodling aide told my associate Donald Goldberg he has been assured by the Army that the remains in Hawaii were beyond recognition. Despite lobbying from 1987, the savings would amount to $188 billion.

And that isn't all that can be done. Most of the Reagan buildup comes from speeding up the acquisition of weapons already planned by his predecessor. Making these purchases over six years instead of five, as former President Ford has suggested, would yield hefty savings.

This plan would cut 1983 outlays by somewhere between $2 billion and $3 billion and budget authority (future commitments) by up to $9 billion. With the above cuts and a slower procurement schedule, Congress could lop off as much as $14 billion from this year's military budget and more than $30 billion from next year's. Moreover, the savings would grow each year.

That leaves us with expenditures of $1.2 trillion over five years, which is still too high. To pare that figure by any significant amount, though, there will have to be changes in this country's view of its international role. The biggest savings would come from requiring our allies to pay more for their defense - NATO alone accounts for more than half the U.S. military budget.

But re-evaluating America's role in the world will take time, if it ever happens at all. In the meantime, the only way to restrain the explosion of federal spending is to make some immediate cuts in defense. Done wrong, it will expose us to needless risk. Done right, it can maintain our strength while easing the strain of the budget on the economy, thus ensuring not only that we can defend ourselves but also that we have an economy left to defend.

Christians act like hypocrites

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm not a Christian, but if I were I don't think I would live like some of the Christians I know. They say one thing, and then act in the opposite way. Don't you think it's wrong for them to be this way? — S.T.T.

DEAR S.T.T.: Certainly it is wrong for them to be this way. I don't think anyone likes a hypocrite who claims to be one thing but lives the opposite. In fact, some of the strongest statements of Jesus were directed against people who claimed to be very religious, but did not actually live the way God wants us to live. He warned people, "Do not do what they do, for they do not practice what they preach" (Matthew 23:3).

But there are two other things I would like to say to you. First, no Christian is perfect. We all sin and do things which are not right. But if a person is a true believer (and not just acting or pretending to be one, as may be the case with some of the people you mention), he will be very sorry for what he has done because he knows that it hurts God, and also hurts his witness with other people. And he will want to turn to God for forgiveness, and for strength to live a better life.

The other thing I feel I must say to you is to ask you to face your own spiritual need of God, and encourage you to turn to God personally. I do not know you, of course, but I have found that many people reject Jesus Christ, only because they do not like what they see of him in those who claim to be his followers. I can understand why they feel this way, but that is not really a valid excuse. What if I refused ever to see a doctor, simply because I knew some people who had been to doctors but had not gotten well because they didn't take their medicine?

It would be tragic if you were to reject Christ without ever looking at him. You need forgiveness for your sins before you can ever go to Heaven, and you need as well God's wisdom and strength in your daily life. Realize that Christ - the only perfect One who ever lived - took upon himself your sin and your imperfection. By faith in him you can become his child, and then begin to live a consistent life for him every day.

ON DISPLAY — This work by Jerry Seagle, a popular Austin artist, will be among the one displayed in the Christmas Show at the Heritage Museum this weekend. The show will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Heritage Museum art show features many popular artists

Marianne Caroselli, one of the more popular Western artists, will be joining other artists and craftsmen this weekend to raise funds for a new sound system at Big Spring's Heritage Museum.

The showing, which will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday, is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Caroselli left the "hustle and bustle of New Jersey in 1972 searching for a better place to live," said Mel Prather, museum director.

They chose Texas. "Caroselli became so inspired with the legends of the state and its heritage, that her art became a serious endeavor," he said. "This same dedication has resulted in many of her paintings being selected to appear on Leanin' Tree Christmas cards, many of which have been among their most popular sellers."

"Her paintings reflect the love of the west and are devoted to creating a mood known to her as 'The Quiet West.' She strives to let the viewers of her work feel the chill of the snow, the warmth of the glowing sky, the hardships the pioneers endured and the peacefulness of nature," he said.

Caroselli began the study of art at age 10. She later received her degree at the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Art.

Her background includes several courses in art and sculpturing and she has won many awards for both. She was also chosen to show at the "Texas Art Classic" in Fort Worth in July.

Only 50 artists are selected from hundreds of applicants received from throughout the United States.

The two-day exhibit at the Heritage Museum also will feature other artists and craftsmen, including Jerry Seagle, one of the state's most popular artists.

A native of Corpus Christi, Seagle was graduated with honors from the University of Texas. Although the semi-abstract artist currently lives in Austin, he continues to do extensive traveling throughout Mexico

Study says TV wrongly blamed for a child's reading problems

By LEE MITGANG
AP Education Writer

NEW YORK — A growing body of research contends television has been unfairly blamed for declining reading scores among American children. Armed with those studies, the television industry is now going on the offensive.

The Television Information Office, an industry-financed publicity arm, this month issued a six-page paper that cites some of that research and argues that only "seekers of a quick remedy for scholastic shortcomings ... claim television is the cause of the problem."

Even some educators who counsel against too much television-watching say hard evidence failed to show what impact TV has on classroom performance, or whether the impact was necessarily bad.

Herbert J. Walberg, a research professor of education at the University of Illinois, likened TV to alcohol. Excessive TV viewing, such as 20 or 30 hours per week, "has a very deleterious effect" on a youngster, he said. But an hour or so a night of good television, sipped and savored, is actually better than no TV at all, according to Walberg's "Impact of Leisure Time Television on School Learning: A Research Synthesis."

TV viewed in such moderation, Walberg said, most often occurs when parents are living up to their responsibility of monitoring programs.

Reading expert Rudolf Fleisch's recent book, "Why Johnny Still Can't Read," stated even more bluntly that "too much TV" is "such a handy scapegoat the educators never fail to mention it." The real problem, insisted Fleisch, was that most schools were inept at teaching reading.

The Television Information Office's paper, "Television and Education: Assessing Academic Achievement," argues that:

—A child's reading scores have more to do with 'socioeconomic factors.' Children of professional parents, for instance, tend to read better than those of unskilled workers.

—Heavy television viewing doesn't cause reading problems but rather is the product of those problems. ... Children having difficulty with classroom study and with homework will turn to television ... precisely because of their reading difficulties."

The report concludes that "intuitive but pervasive negative attitudes" among educators about what television is doing to schoolchildren are starting to die out. "The war between educators and television is becoming a cautious but optimistic alliance," it says.

Not everyone has signed the truce. Bert Briller, who produced the Television Industry Office study, said one reason it was written is that books and articles continue to appear that are highly critical of TV's influence on classroom performance.

Gas tax compromises

Reagan administration may bend plan to get votes

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, seeking votes for its proposed gasoline tax increase, is trying to accommodate members of Congress who want to bend parts of the plan to protect pet projects.

The 5-cent-a-gallon hike in the federal gasoline tax has strong bipartisan support. But wrangling over the plan — aimed at financing $5.5 billion worth of highway, bridge and mass transit repairs — is picking up with legislative action beginning today in the House Ways and Means Committee.

"A lot of heavyweights have a lot of parochial interests in this," said an aide to a congressional leader.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said at congressional hearings this week that up to 13 states might be unable to pay the matching share — averaging 17 percent — required in federally-aided construction projects. That could make it impossible for those states to grant contracts for the repair work.

After learning of that, Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., the ranking Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, told Lewis Wednesday that the measure is "not going to be a job bill if the contracts don't get let."

The administration's response was quick and conciliatory. Later in the day, Tom Blank, a Transportation Department spokesman, said the administration is studying a proposal that would eliminate the problem for states that may be unable to meet their share of the matching funds. Under the plan, the state share of such projects would be small initially, but then rise as a state became more able to bear the cost.

MEANWHILE, REP. Bill Archer, R-Texas, another member of the Ways and Means Committee, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, a member of the Senate Finance Committee, have said they are unhappy that the administration proposal did not provide for the start of new rail systems, such as one sought by the city of Houston.

The administration has opposed new rail systems.

But Blank said Lewis now has notified several members of Congress that the administration will permit the start of new rail systems.

Other problems persist, however.

Several members of the Ways and Means

Committee also have expressed concern that the money might not be distributed fairly.

Lewis acknowledged that 11 states get back less than $1 for every dollar they contribute to the highway fund while several states get substantially more than they pay in.

Archer, whose home state of Texas gets 76 cents for every dollar it pays in, complained "we have been kicked around for too long by these distribution formulas."

Bentsen has said he would like to see a provision in the bill mandating that a state receive at least 90 percent of the money it pays in.

In addition to increasing the gasoline tax from 4 cents to 9 cents beginning next April, the administration is proposing to change the excise taxes on tires and spare parts as well as sales taxes so that the heaviest trucks would pay higher annual taxes.

SOME INDUSTRY representatives have opposed the changes and Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, warned Lewis that the administration might have to accept "a clean bill," containing only the gasoline tax increase.

MX facing new test

WASHINGTON (AP) — The MX missile, a project which has survived years of government indecision and verbal attacks by opponents, is facing a crucial test now that the time has come to decide whether to pay for it.

The House Appropriations Committee, taking up a $230 billion Pentagon spending bill, is being asked by the chairman of its defense subcommittee to delete $988 million earmarked for the intercontinental nuclear weapon.

Both the chairman, Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., and opponents of his move predicted a close outcome, but none was willing to declare victory in advance.

Addabbo said Wednesday he had thought for a time that he had the votes among the 55-member committee for his proposal, but "now I don't know."

His own lobbying efforts had been aided by various church groups and advocates of a joint U.S.-Soviet freeze on deployment of nuclear weaponry.

Pentagon officials, who declined to be identified, said based on their checks within the 55-member committee, they had "a definite chance to win."

In an indication of how seriously the administration regarded the vote, President Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger — both thousands of miles from Washington — reportedly telephoned committee members to urge them to preserve the MX money.

Reagan was in Brazil and Weinberger was attending a NATO meeting in Brussels.

In advance of the vote, a House Republican aide said the high-level lobbying, which reportedly also involved Secretary of State George Shultz and Vice President George Bush, could be crucial because "it is hard for some members to vote against the president."

Last week, Reagan announced he had decided to base 100 of the big new weapons in closely spaced underground silos near Cheyenne, Wyo., the so-called "dense pack" plan.

The decision came nearly 14 months after the president discarded a Carter administration plan to shuttle 200 MX missiles in "shell-game" fashion among 4,600 horizontal shelters spread over a wide stretch of Western desert.

The MX program was conceived almost a decade ago, and more than 30 basing arrangements for it were studied and discarded.

Opponents of the new weapon, which is expected to make its first test flight next month, have opposed it on grounds its projected $26 billion price is too expensive and posed further dangers of nuclear war.

Included in the measure, approved by voice vote, was $55 million for facilities to produce MX warheads, but no objections were heard.

Senator will fight Clements' appointments

By JAY ROSSER

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Urging his fellow Texas senators to "pick their fights wisely," Kent Caperton Wednesday bowed out of an anticipated showdown between the Texas Senate and Gov. Bill Clements over appointment of the Supreme Court's new chief justice.

But the Bryan Democrat vowed to lead the opposition against any appointments the lame-duck governor might make to the University of Texas or Texas A&M University boards of regents.

Caperton was among 14 state senators who wrote Clements last month vowing to "bust" any appointment he made to the court's top spot, urging the selection be left to Gov.-elect Mark White, a Democrat. Clements' response was to appoint Associate Justice Jack Pope who had been scheduled to retire next month.

The Senate, Caperton said during an impromptu news conference, "runs the risk of looking petty, politically," by launching a showdown over the issue.

Two-thirds of the Senate must clear Pope's appointment, which means 11 can block it.

Caperton said the senators' letter made a difference because Clements "did not appoint one of his political cronies." The appointment of Pope, a life-long Democrat and one of the state's most tenured jurists, de-politicized the issue, he said.

However, Caperton said he would lead the fight to block appointments to the Texas A&M and University of Texas boards of regents, no matter the caliber of the choices.

Three positions on each board are scheduled to expire in January. In the case of A&M, the terms of regents H.C. Bell Jr., John Blocker and Dr. John B. Coleman expire Jan. 10, eight days before White replaces Clements.

There is a philosophical difference between the two situations, Caperton said, because regents are appointed and not subject to statewide elections, while Supreme Court justices are.

Caperton's decision to avoid personal involvement in the showdown did not dampen the spirits of his Senate colleagues.

State Sen. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, said he knows of 11 senators still willing to oppose Pope's appointment.

"I think the fight can be won without him," Uribe said of Caperton. "We have at least 11 senators and that's all we need. I generally do not overstate my case. I think this is an excellent fight, it's a fight of principle."

The confrontation could come as early as the second week of the 1983 legislative session that begins Jan. 11, Uribe said.

Rock performer arrested

HOUSTON (AP) — The bass guitarist of the rock band Devo and five others associated with the group were released from jail Wednesday after their arrest on charges of violating city fire code regulations.

The guitarist, Gerald V. Casale, was handcuffed by University of Houston police as a performance before a capacity crowd at the Cullen Auditorium was nearing an end on Tuesday night.

When the crowd screamed their displeasure, Casale was released to permit the band to perform the final 15 minutes of the concert.

Officers then hauled Casale and five others to jail. Also arrested were Gary D. Becker, production manager of Pace Concerts, Jerry D. Bakaliam, Devo's production manager, and three of the band's crew members, Robert G. Richards, Mark B. Robbins and Carl M. Ciasulli. All were charged with misdemeanor fire code violations.

The man who called the fire marshal, Richard Allan Kamin, 25, was arrested on a charge of resisting arrest.

Becker said the fire department was called after a crowd in the aisle blocked a man from his second row seat.

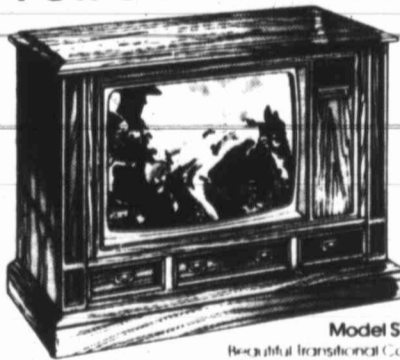

Houston fire inspector James McMichael said he and another inspector, John Coon, along with 10 officers arrived at the auditorium about 11 p.m. Tuesday to find all of the seats, plus the aisles and the foyer in front of the stage jammed with people.

House exempts professionals from FTC exam

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House vote to exempt doctors, lawyers and other state-licensed professionals from Federal Trade Commission antitrust scrutiny is "bad economics and bad law," the FTC chairman says.

"This exemption would place professionals above the laws which apply to all other Americans, laws which protect consumers from deceptive practices, price-fixing, boycott and other anti-competitive conduct," FTC Chairman James C. Miller III said in a statement issued Wednesday by the agency's Office of Public Information.

"All consumers lose out because of what the House did," said Jay Angoff of Congress Watch.

The American Medical Association, which lobbied hard for the exemption and contributed heavily to the campaigns of congressmen who supported it, praised the House action.

"The vote recognizes that the public is entitled to quality professional care and appropriate existing federal and state antitrust regulation," Dr. Joseph F. Boyle, chairman of the AMA's board of trustees, said in a statement. "The vote is strong support for aggressive professional self-regulation and the AMA accepts the responsibility for assuming a leadership role to make that regulation occur."

The American Dental Association said that with its vote Wednesday, the House is "acknowledging that there is already enough regulation of health care in this country and telling the FTC that it has no necessary or special expertise to improve that care." Critics said the exemption would leave consumers unprotected against service boycotts, price-fixing and other deceptive practices. But supporters said it would keep the FTC out of states' rights issues such as the quality of health care and professional qualifications.

The House voted 245-155 to include the ban on FTC antitrust scrutiny of professionals in legislation authorizing continued operation of the agency through September 1985.

The vote followed the narrow rejection of a bipartisan compromise, supported by the Reagan administration, that would have continued FTC jurisdiction over the commercial practices of state-licensed professions while recognizing the responsibility of states to regulate the quality of health care.

Later, the House approved the FTC authorization bill on a voice vote, but only after agreeing to continue Congress' right to veto FTC rules and to reduce the agency's spending authority over the next three years to the levels recommended by President Reagan.

That would cap the FTC's budget at $60 million in 1983, $55.1 million in 1984 and $54.6 million in 1985.

An FTC authorization bill containing a similar ban on agency jurisdiction over the professions has been approved by the Senate Commerce Committee and is awaiting action on the Senate floor.

In view of the House action, Senate sources said, it is unlikely that the authorization bill will be brought to the Senate floor for a vote during the lame-duck session.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, said the Justice Department and state officials still would have the authority to bring antitrust actions against professionals.

It pays to know your health

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
How's your health?
The federal government is encouraging people to ask themselves that question with a quiz designed to help measure the effect of the way you live on the state of your health.

The test was designed by the Public Health Service of the Department of Health and Human Services. Here's how it works:

Read each statement and decide if it matches your behavior "almost always," "sometimes" or "almost never." Look at the numbers following the statements. Circle the first number if your answer is "almost always," the second number if it's "sometimes" and the last number if it's "never." Top score for each part is 10 points.

SMOKING
(If you don't smoke, skip these questions, give yourself a score of 10 and go on to the next category.)

1. I avoid smoking cigarettes. 2. 1. 0.
2. I smoke only low-tar and nicotine cigarettes or a pipe or cigars. 2. 1. 0.

(Suppose you smoke occasionally, but when you DO light up, it's a low-tar brand. Circle the second figure after question No. 1, — a "sometimes" answer — and the first figure — "almost always" — following question No. 2. Your score would be three points.)

ALCOHOL AND DRUGS

1. I avoid drinking alcoholic beverages or have no more than one or two drinks a day. 4. 1. 0.

2. I avoid using alcohol or other drugs (especially illegal drugs) as a way of handling stressful situations or problems. 2. 1. 0.

3. I am careful not to drink alcohol when taking certain medicines or when pregnant. 2. 1. 0.

4. I read and follow label directions when using prescription or over-the-counter drugs. 2. 1. 0.

EATING HABITS

1. I eat a variety of foods each day, such as fruits and vegetables, whole-grain breads and cereals, lean meats, dairy products, dry peas and beans, and nuts and seeds. 4. 1. 0.

2. I limit the fat, saturated fat and cholesterol I eat. 2. 1. 0.

3. I limit the amount of salt I eat. 2. 1. 0.

4. I avoid eating too much sugar. 2. 1. 0.

EXERCISE

1. I maintain a desired weight — neither over nor under. 3. 1. 0.

2. I exercise vigorously for 15 to 30 minutes at least three times a week. 3. 1. 0.

3. I do exercises that enhance my muscle tone for 15 to 30 minutes at least three times a week. 2. 1. 0.

4. I use part of my leisure time participating in activities that increase my level of fitness. 2. 1. 0.

STRESS CONTROL

1. I have a job or do other work I enjoy. 2. 1. 0.

2. I find it easy to relax and express my feelings freely. 2. 1. 0.

3. I recognize and prepare for stressful situations. 2. 1. 0.

4. I have close friends, relatives or other people I can talk to about personal matters and call on for help when needed. 2. 1. 0.

5. I participate in group activities or hobbies I enjoy. 2. 1. 0.

SAFETY

1. I wear a seat belt while riding in a car. 2. 1. 0.

Jane Byrne runs again for mayor of Chicago

By SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO — Four years ago, Jane M. Byrne had no money, no clout and plenty of enemies. But she wanted to be mayor of the nation's second largest city — an ambition so heady that even she had her doubts.

Now, after almost a full term on the fifth floor of Chicago's City Hall, Mrs. Byrne's campaign war chest is bulging, the city's movers and shakers eagerly await an audience and the old-time political insiders have embraced her.

With prestige, power and perks, she is girding for another run for mayor. But it will not be easy.

Mrs. Byrne faces strong primary challenges from Cook County State's Attorney Richard M. Daley, 40, eldest son of the late mayor, and Congressman Harold Washington, 60, the first viable black mayoral candidate in the city's history.

Daley, bearer of the city's most famous political name, normally would be considered her principal rival but some observers say aggressive efforts to register black voters have made Washington the man to beat in the primary.

These factors make the upcoming primary a "very difficult race" for Mrs. Byrne, says Thomas Roeser, head of the City Club and a frequent political lecturer.

Mrs. Byrne's official declaration of candidacy is set for Monday, and is likely to be followed the next day with an endorsement from the Cook County regular Democratic organization, which fought fiercely to keep her from sitting in the mayor's chair.

The Jane Byrne entering the 1983 mayoral race is a sharp contrast to the political novice who took office after the city's biggest election upset in this century.

"She's undergone a number of changes," says Don Rose, the political strategist who masterminded her 1979 campaign.

Foremost among them is style. When she first ran, "she was feisty. She was combative. She went for the jugular," says Alderman Roman Pucinski, a one-time mayoral candidate.

Indeed, Mrs. Byrne, 48, clashed with the media, the unions and other political leaders during the first half of her term. The city stumbled through transit, fire and school strikes within her first year of office, with the mayor sometimes confronting angry striking workers on the picket lines.

The time since then has been considerably more placid. "I think she has become a mayor in the last two years," Roeser says. "She has gained a confidence in herself as well."

But more important than a change in style is the mayor's transition from outsider to insider.

Before she ran for mayor in 1979, Mrs. Byrne was city consumer sales commissioner — a job she got from mentor, Mayor Daley. She also served as co-chairwoman of the county's Democratic Central Committee.

But when she accused Daley's successor, former Mayor Michael Bilandic, of greasing the way for a taxi increase, he dumped her. She became a party pariah.

She then decided to challenge the Democratic organization, prompting its leaders to laugh at the rashness and naivete of the woman who would take on the party's vast army of patronage workers.

"Nobody thought Bilandic could be beaten," Pucinski recalls. But Bilandic bungled attempts to get the city moving after a fierce snowstorm, and Mrs. Byrne capitalized on it. She was elected and soon after formed alliances with those she had denounced during her campaign, including two aldermen she said were part of an "evil cabal." One of them, flamboyant Alderman Edward Vrdolyak, now heads the Democratic organization and is a key Byrne supporter.

"The people she called an evil cabal are now her caballeros," says Roeser.

Such alliances disappointed Rose, who refused an offer to work in the mayor's 1983 campaign. "She overaccommodated the organization," he said.

But Pucinski says fence-mending isn't unusual. "In public office, we all have to eat crow once in a while," he said. "You soon discover it doesn't taste all that bad."

And the party backing, he says, strengthens her.

"This time she has all the advantages ... in terms of staff, fund-raising ability ... and power. She controls 10,500 departmental jobs. She can generate media exposure," Pucinski says.

Spain's first Socialist premier in 43 years takes office today

By SUSAN LINNEE
Associated Press Writer
MADRID, Spain — Felipe Gonzalez takes office today as the first Socialist premier in 43 years, beginning a "time of change" designed to revamp the economy by creating jobs for nearly a million Spaniards.

Spain's first Socialist-majority Parliament gave the former labor lawyer its confirmation for a four-year term after opposition legislators questioned him through the night about his proposals regarding NATO and U.S. use of military bases in the nation.

NATO and renegotiation of agreements on U.S. use of Spanish military bases.

referendum," Gonzalez said. "In no case will we accept that a foreign admiral can order a Spanish admiral around on Spanish territory."

bases because the deal included provisions for integration of Spain into NATO's military command structure.

Gonzalez's victory had been expected since his party holds an absolute majority in the legislature for the first time ever, with 202 seats. A simple majority — 176 votes — is needed to designate a new head of government.

Western leaders hoping to raise military spending

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Western alliance wants to widen defense spending to counter Soviet strength, but military leaders concede the first battle will be with their nations' recession-strapped budgets.

Supreme Allied Commander Gen. Bernard W. Rogers told a private meeting of ministers he was concerned about the ability of NATO nations to meet an existing commitment to modernize conventional forces over the next six years, an official on Rogers' staff reported.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries pledged in 1978 to increase defense spending 3 percent a year beyond inflation. But NATO projections for 1982, issued Wednesday, showed how difficult a time governments are having financially.

Zimbabwe seizes Ian Smith's passport

HARARE, Zimbabwe (AP) — Zimbabwe officials today seized the passport of Ian D. Smith, the long-time minister of white Rhodesia, after Smith criticized record of black government since independence.

Thursday Notes

The 1982 District 4-AAAAA All-District team emphasized the turnaround in the Big Spring High football team this past season.

Defensive honors went to seven Steers, unprecedented in the school's recent history. Long considered the defensive doormat in 4-5A, the Steers proved to be quite hostile against league opponents, handing out its share bumps and bruises this year.

The top defensive honor — Most Valuable Defensive Player — went to BSHS's George Bancroft. Bancroft is not lost for words off the field, but on it, he lets his helmet and shoulder pads do the talking. It was only fitting the team making defense its calling card should be recognized with the league's top player.

Of course, noseguard Pat Burke can't be overlooked either. Buried in the trenches and having to butt heads with opposing centers — most with bad breath, body odor and mean dispositions, Burke made life easier for Bancroft and his buddies by stopping the action before it moved past the line of scrimmage. The only thing quicker than Pat Burke on the football field was Pat Burke getting out of the locker room after the game.

What's her name, Pat?

Back to football, the only disappoint was linebacker Danny Stephen gaining first team status. If the opposition somehow managed to elude Burke and Bancroft, they had their collective bones crunched by Stephen. In fact, most observers would say the only difference in Bancroft and Stephen was their flesh tones. But when you get hit, it really doesn't matter what color of skin is inflicting the punishment. It still hurts.

Stephen should have made first team and he's right to be disappointed. However, his honorable mention on a splendid corps of running backs eased the pain a little.

Two All-D choices — smooth-catching Dale Crenshaw and hard-hitting cornerback Eric Sherman — will be back next year. Speaking of juniors, Odessa High has to get the nod as the team to beat after placing almost an entire lineup of juniors on the honor teams. Defensive standout Britt Hager will be back for Permian, giving Odessa high hopes for 1983.

But maybe "The Steers Break Free in '83."

The forecast is for cool weather this weekend but the action will be hot and heavy inside the Howard County Fair Barn where the HC Boxing Team hosts its first boxing tournament.

It's amazing the progress these young boxers have made in the last year. J.V. Martinez and all his helpers have taken the old YMCA building, turned it into a training gym and produced top quality fighters who have been bringing trophies back by the dozen to Big Spring.

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday event are just $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for kids 6-12. It's a cheap ticket to some good boxing and the proceeds help finance trips to future tournaments for the HC team.

County Commissioners Louie Brown, Dave Barr, Bill Crooker and Paul Allen, along with judge Bill Tune, have played a big role in getting these kids off the streets and inside to an organized activity.

Get your ticket for the Fall Sports Banquet Dec. 10 at Big Spring High. Besides showing your support for the local high school sports program, you can hear former BSHS star and pro quarterback Charley Johnson speak.

Tickets go on sale Saturday. NO, that's NO, tickets will be sold at the door. They're $8. — GREG JAKLEWICZ

Free-agent Garvey negotiates next move

NEW YORK (AP) — The traveling free-agent show that stars Steve Garvey has moved to San Diego with the Padres hoping the former Los Angeles Dodger first baseman would soon become their headliner.

"We have a young club that's developing leadership, but we don't have a veteran hero," Padres President Ballard Smith said.

"San Diego is a town that really doesn't have a sports hero. The closest thing in town would be Dan Fouts (quarterback of the football Chargers)," he said, "and the football strike kind of put damper on that a little bit."

Smith and Garvey's agent, Jerry Kapstein, were scheduled to meet today.

TOUGH COMPETITION FOR BENITEZ — Boxer Thomas Hearn of Detroit goes through workouts in preparation for his World Boxing Council Super Welterweight Championship bout against Wilfredo Benitez Friday night in the Superdome in New Orleans.

Super Bowl champions face must-win tonight

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Linebacker Jack Reynolds, who holds the distinction of playing in the Super Bowl for both Los Angeles and San Francisco, will be on the 49ers' side tonight when they take on the Rams in a crucial National Football League game for both teams.

Reynolds remains bitter about being dropped by Los Angeles after the 1980 season following a contract dispute. He played with the Rams for 11 seasons and led them in tackles several times, including his final year.

Reynolds played with the 1979 Rams, who went to the Super Bowl. After being signed by San Francisco as a free agent last year, he helped the 49ers win last January's Super Bowl over Cincinnati 26-21.

Against the Rams last year, Reynolds made 18 tackles. He gets another chance for revenge tonight in a nationally televised game at Anaheim Stadium. Kickoff time is 9 p.m., EST.

The loser will have an extremely difficult time making the expanded playoffs with eight NFC teams qualifying for post-season action. Both clubs bring 1-3 records into the action, and both will have four games remaining afterwards.

Many wonder why Reynolds was released and he is outspoken in saying he doesn't believe the Rams' management treated him fairly. He says it was the treatment rather than the money that brought the split.

He remains so unhappy that he refused interviews with the Los Angeles media this week.

San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh, who installed Reynolds as his inside linebacker on the strong side, has said, "If there is one key factor or individual that we can point to for our success in 1981, it is Reynolds."

The Rams were forced to switch quarterbacks for this game. Bert Jones aggravated a nerve problem in the team's 20-14 victory over Kansas City last Sunday and the team physician ordered him to stay out of action. So the job goes to Vince Ferragamo, who played on the Rams' Super Bowl team and set several passing records in 1980.

Then, after a contract battle, he went to Montreal of the Canadian League for an ill-fated 1981, but returned to the Rams when a money agreement was reached.

San Francisco swept last year's two games between the clubs, snapping a nine-game Rams' winning string in the bitter intrastate series. Los Angeles had swept from 1977 through 1980, and had reached the playoffs eight straight years prior to its 6-10 finish of last season.

Harder training may aid Benitez

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Boxing comes easily to Wilfredo Benitez. Training is another matter.

The 25-year-old Puerto Rican is one of six men to win three world titles and he has a 43-1-1 record, with 26 knockouts.

Yet, his reputation is of a fighter who doesn't like to pay the price of training, a price he says he has paid for his World Boxing Council super welterweight title defense against Thomas Hearn Friday night.

Also on the Superdome card, which will be seen in this country on pay-per-view and closed-circuit television, will be Wilfredo Gomez' WBC super bantamweight title defense against Lupe Pintor, the WBC bantamweight champion.

The 24-year-old Benitez, whose first championship, at age 17, was the World Boxing Association junior welterweight title, suffered his only defeat when he lost the WBC welterweight title to Sugar Ray Leonard, the only man to beat Hearn.

"I hurt my left hand. He was lucky that day," Benitez said Wednesday about the Leonard fight in which he was stopped with six seconds left in the 15th round Nov. 30, 1979, at Las Vegas, Nev.

But Gregorio Benitez, the champion's father and trainer, said that his son trained only 11 days for the Leonard fight, which was his first in eight months.

Benitez said he didn't learn anything about fighting from the Leonard bout, but his father said, "He learned to be in the gym more often. He learned he's got to be in good shape to beat anybody."

"I told him if he's not going to be in the gym, I'm not going to be in his corner."

"No comment," said the son, who hasn't fought since he scored a unanimous decision over Roberto Duran last Jan. 30 at Las Vegas.

"But for this fight I've been working for four months," said Benitez.

Hearn showed up last weekend in Houston, where Larry Holmes retained the WBC heavyweight title against Randy "Tex" Cobb, to hype Friday night's fight, and he was in a parade here Monday. Benitez missed both.

"We don't come for a parade," said Gregorio. "We come to win the fight."

"This is no vacation," said the champion. "This is my business. That's why we are here."

Yet last Sunday, Benitez got impatient waiting for equipment to be put in a van that was taking him to the gym, and he refused to train.

But while his dedication sometimes has been questioned, despite his success, there are no questions about his boxing ability or his confidence.

"People who are expert in boxing will recognize me as the 'Bible of Boxing' after I beat Hearn and Hagler (Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion)," said Benitez.

The champion also said Friday night would be his last fight in the 154-pound class.

Immediately, his father said, "Sure, we'll fight again at super welterweight."

"Maybe yes, maybe no," said the son.

At this point, Jimmy Jacobs, Benitez' manager, said it would be Benitez' last fight as a super-welterweight only if a match against Hagler can be arranged as the next fight.

Benitez has scored decisions over Carlos Santos and Duran in defenses since winning the title on a 12th-round knockout of Maurice Hope at Las Vegas May 23, 1981. He has won six straight fights since losing to Leonard.

Hearn, who has a 34-1 record, with 32 knockouts, has scored a 10-round decision over Ernie Singletary, a one-round knockout of Marcos Geraldo and an eighth-round knockout of Jeff McCracken last July 25 since losing to Leonard.

"I'm improved a great deal as far as my boxing ability, as far as being able to think in the ring," said the 24-year-old Hearn of Detroit, who had reputation as a boxer as a top and amateur, then developed a reputation as an awesome puncher as a pro.

He showed that boxing ability, which kept him in the fight until he was stopped in the 14th round by Leonard Sept. 16, 1981.

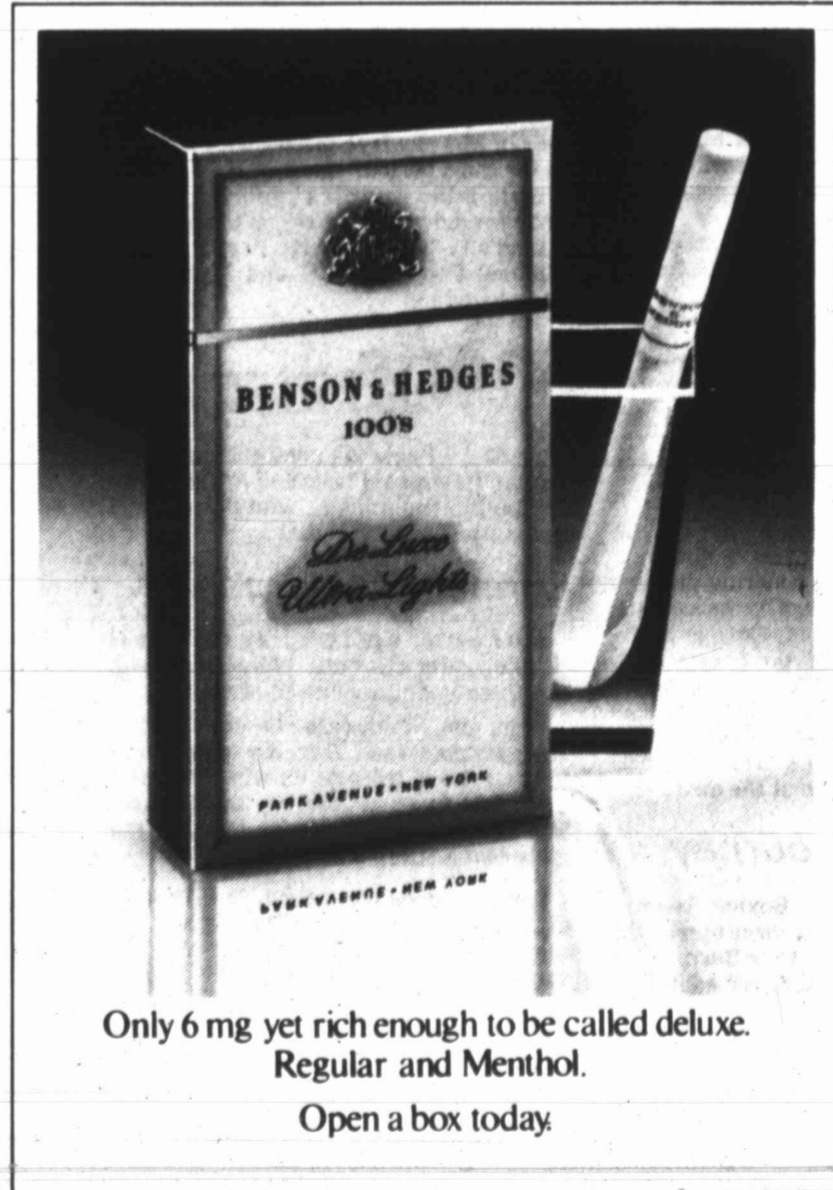

Benitez expects Hearn to try to win early. But Hearn, who is 6-foot-1 and has a 78-inch reach, said, "I'll be moving and sticking from all angles, using my left."

Benitez' reach is listed as 70 inches and his height as 5-10.

"Maybe," he said.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Much care in money matters is required at this time. A family tie could prove difficult but pay little heed and all will be fine.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Quietly do what will change the attitude of close ties so there is increased harmony. Don't be forceful with anyone.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle routine duties tactfully and get excellent results. Not a good day to engage in civic affairs.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A time to be thankful for your blessings instead of feeling sorry for yourself. Cut down on false stimulants.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen more carefully to what friends have to say and increase harmony. Wait until late in the day before making important decisions.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid getting into any arguments with associates today or there could be unpleasant consequences. Sidestep a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you complete your work today instead of putting it off for another day. The evening can be a happy one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep calm if a troublesome situation flares up at home and it will soon blow over. Exercise your talents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your true aims are and the best and easiest way to gain them. Use extreme care in motion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Getting your work organized in such a way that it can become more profitable in the future is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your finances well and know where to put in economy measures wisely. Obey rules and regulations that apply to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Anything of a personal nature could have delays, so be patient and good results will follow. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will likely encounter more problems than others during lifetime, so teach to make right decisions. Be sure to give good spiritual and ethical training early in life. Sports are a must in this chart.

Carol Burnett's childhood idols give tribute

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD — "It's just like the ending of a B movie," exulted Carol Burnett after the idols of her childhood gave her a television tribute.

Stapleton, Lloyd Bridges, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Keenan Wynn and Paul Henreid. There also were some more recent stars of television fame: Loretta Swit, Bonnie Franklin, Loni Anderson and Daniel J. Travanti.

These Variety Club tributes aren't like "This Is Your Life." The guest of honor knows he or she is message from Garry Moore, on whose television show Carol established her name.

Miss Burnett sat in the middle of the festivities at a table with her estranged husband, producer Joe Hamilton, and her three daughters, two of whom flew in from Hawaii.

"That was another surprise," Miss Burnett said afterward. "I thought they were both in school."

might think that Carol is not old enough for a tribute, but neither was Burt Reynolds, last year's honoree by the Variety Clubs.

Other high moments were the salutes from Bette Davis and Lucille Ball. Miss Burnett's television sidekick, Vicki Lawrence, provided a remarkable imitation of Miss Burnett singing the song that made her famous: "I Made a Fool of Myself over John Foster Dulles."

Film crash statements conflict

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It may be necessary to re-interview witnesses or to re-enact the fatal "Twilight Zone" movie helicopter crash to resolve conflicting statements about the accident, a federal investigator says.

Accounts of the crash gathered by National Transportation Safety Board investigators contain different versions of what size explosives were used and where they were placed.

"I am not sure it will help the board determine the probable cause, but if we have to do a recreation to verify a point, then we'll have to do it," said Herb Banks, head of NTSB's field investigations division.

"If there is conflicting testimony that would affect the outcome of the probable cause (of the accident), we will go back and try to resolve those conflicts," he said Wednesday.

Banks made the statements in a telephone interview from Washington with the Los Angeles Herald Examiner.

The crash occurred July 23 as director John Landis was directing a Vietnam war segment of the film.

The helicopter crashed on actor Vic Morrow, 53, and two children, My-ca Dinh Le, 7, and Renee Chen, 6, as they crossed a shallow river, killing all three.

Two weeks after the crash, investigators said evidence indicated the "probable cause" was a special effects mortar in the "fatal number four hut" that apparently shot a metal lid from a five-gallon can into the air, severing the helicopter's tail rotor assembly.

According to transcripts of NTSB interviews published Wednesday by the Herald Examiner, special effects expert Paul Stewart said he warned Landis that explosives placed in a hut "might blow something away," but that Landis went ahead anyway.

Other crew members said they heard Stewart ordering the charges laid after discussing it with Landis, the newspaper said.

In an interview after the excerpts were published, Landis denied he ordered the helicopter to fly lower than planned and said the explosion that crippled the helicopter wasn't supposed to happen.

Brownie troop donates money

Members of Brownie Troop 78 decided to use a recent $110 dollar donation to make other people happy during the Christmas season, troop leader Marianne Brown says.

The troop was given $100 from Advanced Telephone System, and $10 from Home Realty. The girls decided to buy two turkeys and give them to the Salvation Army for their Christmas dinner.

After hearing of the needs of a family whose father had been laid off, the girls decided to provide a Christmas dinner for that family by buying a ham and collecting cans of food for the family.

The troop is at present practicing a Christmas play which they will present Dec. 10 at the Canterbury Senior Citizens Retirement Home.

The troop is made up of first, second and third graders at St. Mary's Episcopal School.

Pecan show Grand Champion shares recipe

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor
and
CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

Barbara Halfmann received Grand Champion honors in the Eighth Annual Glasscock County Pecan Show with her recipe for No Bake Cookie Clusters. We have included her recipe in our recipe exchange for this week.

In addition to Barbara's recipe, we have included more recipes from the Energas Cooking Demonstration held a couple of weeks ago by Diane Calley.

All the recipes are great baking ideas for the holiday season.

If you have a favorite recipe, please share it with our readers by sending it to The Herald Recipe Exchange, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. We would love to print it.

Or if you are looking for a particular recipe, maybe we can help. Send us your request and we will ask readers if they know where you can find that recipe.

NO BAKE COOKIE CLUSTER

By Barbara Halfmann
1 1/2 cup pecan pieces
1/2 cup margarine
1/2 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 1/2 cup wheat germ
1/2 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 1/2 cup oats, uncooked
1 cup chopped dried apricots
1/4 cup seedless raisins
pecan halves
Coarsley chop pecans and set aside. Combine margarine, sugar and honey in saucepan. Boil over medium high heat stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Mix in wheat germ and cinnamon. Stir in oats, apricots, chopped pecans and raisins. Drop by level tablespoon full onto wax paper, shaping into a mound. Top each with pecan half. Chill until firm. Store refrigerated in a tightly covered container. Makes three dozen.

YULE LOG (Buche de Noel)

This is an advanced level recipe. The Yule Log is a traditional cake served in English and French homes on Christmas Eve. It can be decorated with Christmas figurines. It is a very light sponge cake.

Grease 1 1/2 by 10 1/2 inch jelly-roll pan; line with waxed paper; grease and flour waxed paper. Preheat oven 400 degrees F.

Fold yolk mixture into whites. Spread batter in pan. Bake 15 minutes, or until top springs back when touched. Sprinkle towel with cocoa.

Invert cake on towel and peel off paper. Starting at narrow end, roll cake with towel jelly-roll fashion. Place seam-side down on rack and cool. Meanwhile, prepare Mocha Filling and Chocolate Cream. (recipes follow)

Dressing for success

When women gathered recently in Chicago for a Career Conference, one of the highlights was a fashion presentation. It wasn't a tea-sipping peep at chiffons and sequins. These women were shown fashions which depict a well dressed image.

Among points stressed during the show were: If you look good, you feel good. That gives you confidence and confidence is the direct route to success.

A planned, versatile wardrobe can support you up the ladder of success. Fashion specialists urged women to dress according to their own preferences, coloring, figure assets and career requirements. Specialists also pinpointed the importance of the "total look," the finished appearance of a planned wardrobe.

The dress for success program showed that coordination and many combinations can turn versatile styles into great fashion. Ten basic pieces — a dress, two blazers, two skirts, pants, blouses and sweaters — were mixed and matched to create 40 excitingly different looks.

Drug suspect arrested on warrant

Police said they arrested a 32-year-old Brownsville man yesterday afternoon on suspicion of possessing about seven pounds of marijuana. Municipal Court Judge Melvin Daratt set bond at $5,000.

Police officers served a search and arrest warrant about 2 p.m. at a 113 W. 19th apartment and found the packaged marijuana, Police Chief Rick Turner said.

"We anticipate at least one more arrest in connection with this case," Turner said yesterday. However, Lt. George Quintero said this morning that other suspects, apparently Mexican nationals, living at the 19th street apartment have probably left the country. "We haven't given up on it yet, though," Quintero said.

Turner said that "Narcotics here (in Big Spring) is a problem and we're doing our best to alleviate it. We're addressing the problems. This is the second time in two weeks we got over four pounds (of marijuana) at one time."

The marijuana seized yesterday has a street value of about $800 a pound, Turner said.

Police reports also showed the following:

- Chalkie Butler of 408 N.E. 12th said someone busted a window in his car parked at the United Care Center, 902 Goliad, and stole insurance papers between 6:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. yesterday.
- Dora Court of 1400 E. Sixth said someone stole several Avon decanter bottles from her residence between 6:05 p.m. and 9:40 p.m. yesterday.

• Matalio Hilario of 100 N.W. Eighth said an Hispanic male he knows tried to knife him last night at Talito's Hall, 508 N.W. Fourth, after Hilario refused to give the man a free drink.

• Joyce Williford of Gail Route Box 128 said someone stole a 1976 Dodge Colt parked at Gale's Bakery, 1604 E. Fourth, between 6:55 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. yesterday. Ms. Williford said she was in a baking class and left the car keys under the driver's seat of the car.

• Several Hall-Bennett Hospital nurses saw a man break a window of a car parked in the hospital parking lot last night. The nurses scared the man off and he left in a blue four-door vehicle. Nothing was stolen from the damaged car.

• Francis Hock of 1400 Main said someone discharged a firearm into the south wall of her house last Friday night. The bullet burrowed through the outside wall, a closet wall and finally lodged into a bedroom wall.

• A 24-year-old woman was treated and admitted to Malone-Hogan Hospital after she apparently swallowed an overdose of pain pills about 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

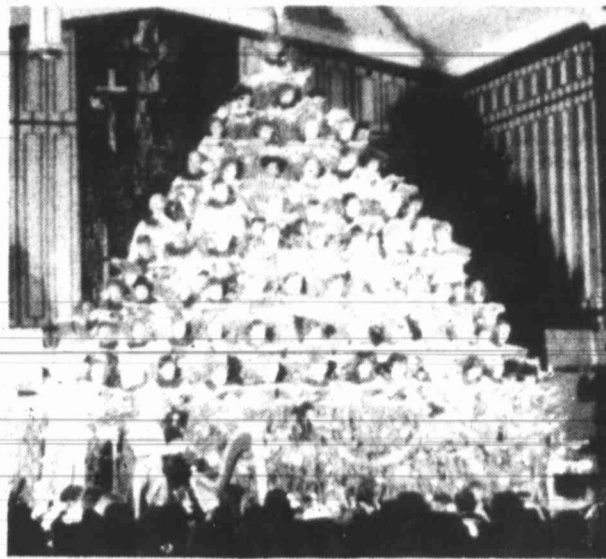

• Three Wood street residents were victims of criminal mischief Monday night. Someone broke windows on two pickups and a car parked on the street.

Court grants time extension

EASTLAND — The 11th Supreme Judicial District Court of Appeals has granted an extension of time to file a legal brief in Hulen Lemon's appeal of a 118th District Court civil judgment against him for nearly one-half million dollars.

Joe Hash of Big Spring was awarded $446,250 by a Howard County jury Jan. 18, 1982 after the jury ruled Lemon, also of Big Spring, was guilty of fraud in his dealings with Hash.

According to Hash's original petition in October 1980, he and Lemon had entered into a partnership as Dave's Well Service.

LIVING CHRISTMAS TREE ...performance set

Living Christmas Tree

performance scheduled

Last year, the "Living Christmas Tree" performance at First United Methodist Church in Big Spring drew so many visitors that people had to be turned away at the door both nights.

This year, the performance has been expanded to three nights. Although admission is still free, this year tickets will be issued in an effort to control the crowd.

The church can seat only 1,000 persons each night.

The Living Tree, now in its fourth year, features 85 singers who are stacked on a 35-foot-high tree, completely decorated with all the trimmings, including lights. The choir is accompanied by a 35-piece orchestra, including 21 professionals from the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

Spectacular lighting and sound effects make this a thrilling performance to behold. Charles Parham, minister of music at the church, is director.

Deal sends savings up in smoke

DEAR ABBY: I am desperate. I am in charge of my mother's money. She had $2,500 in the bank — her life's savings — until I drew it all out last June. I also took $1,500 from the account my husband and I had in the same bank, added it to my mother's money and invested the whole $4,000 in a deal that was guaranteed to triple my money in two months.

Well, I lost the $4,000, and now I don't know what to do.

My mother knows nothing of this and neither does my husband. I was going to surprise them when I tripled the money.

I have prayed to the Blessed Virgin and to St. Jude, but it hasn't helped. I don't know what I will do when my mother and husband find out.

Abby, do you know any rich Catholics who believe in the Blessed Virgin and St. Jude and would be willing to give me $4,000 to help me out? Please tell me what to do.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Please don't look for any "rich Catholics" to bail you out. First, tell your husband and mother what you have done. Then notify the fraud division of your police department. You may not get your money back, but if this was a case of fraud, the police may be able to track down the people who took advantage of you and prevent them from swindling other innocent victims.

Marijuana arrest suspect released

Mark James Smith, 36, of Dallas, was released from Howard County jail yesterday afternoon under $50,000 bond. Smith was arrested Monday by local law enforcement officials who confiscated nearly 350 pounds of marijuana during the arrest.

Smith's initial bond of $100,000, set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt, was lowered yesterday afternoon by 118th District Court Judge Jim Gregg.

• Anita Freeman, 36, 502 S. Bell, was released under $10,000 bond after her arrest in connection with an injury to an elderly person. Ms. Freeman was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

• Jerry Wayne Louis, 21, 1001 N.W. Fourth, was released after posting $5,000 bond in connection with an aggravated assault on a police officer. Louis was arrested by city police at the Dora Roberts Coliseum Monday night, records show. Bond was set by Daratt.

• Douglas Bradley Johnson, 26, 2506 State Park, paid a $75 fine and posted $500 bail after his arrest by sheriff's deputies yesterday at a minor accident at Hickory and Wasson. He was fined for failure to maintain financial responsibility and charged with following too close, according to sheriff's office records. Bond and fine were set by Heflin.

• Curtis Davis, 41, who listed addresses at Motel Nine and Midland, was released under $1,500 bond after his arrest by city police for suspicion of unauthorized carrying of a weapon. Bond was set by Daratt.

C-City couple held in death of son

COLORADO CITY (SC) — A Colorado City man and his wife have been charged in connection with the death of their 14-month-old son yesterday, police said.

The accused are identified by Colorado City Police Chief Ed Wheat as Rocky Joe Dering and his wife, Pearl Lee, both 25, of 625 Locust.

Wheat said Mrs. Dering was charged with murder after she signed a confession stating that she had immersed her baby son, Shawn Joe, in scalding water. Dering was charged with failure to obtain proper medical attention.

According to Wheat, the Colorado City police department was notified by Root Memorial Hospital at 9:13 a.m. yesterday that a dead infant had been brought to the emergency room.

Wheat said an autopsy performed in San Antonio showed the baby had been beaten before the scalding.

Wheat said following a brief investigation at the hospital, he asked District Attorney Rusty Carroll for a search warrant of the Dering's home.

"After talking with the district attorney and his assistant, it was decided to obtain a consent to search ... and to look at the home where the infant resided with its parents," Wheat said. "After we went to the residence, we felt it looked like foul play."

Wheat said the Derings were asked to come to the police department for questioning, where the couple was interrogated by authorities "most of the day."

Mrs. Dering signed a confession at 3:30 p.m., Wheat said. Wheat said

Mrs. Dering's confession stated that "she killed her 14-month-old infant by throwing it in a bathtub of scalding hot water at approximately 10:30 p.m. Monday."

"Then she dried the baby off, put a diaper on it, and put it in its bed," Wheat said. "Then she went in to watch television until her husband arrived home from work. He got home supposedly about 11:30 or 12."

She said they watched television, went to bed and when they got up the next morning (Tuesday) at approximately 8:30 a.m., they discovered the baby dead and took it to the emergency room," Wheat said.

Bond for Mrs. Dering was set at $100,000 by Justice of the Peace Charles Ray Watlington. He set bond for Dering at $25,000.

The Derings have one other child, a four-year-old daughter, Dawn, Wheat said.

When asked for a possible motive in the death, Wheat said, "Nerves."
