After almost a year of planning, the Rainbow Project is in full swing. Volunteers are converting the firehouse into a shelter for Howard County's abused and neglected children. A major fund-raising campaign begins next month.

Nine inmates of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp volunteered Saturday to clean the area around the firehouse. Sam Robertson, a local contractor and member of the board, is directing the renovation.

A nine-member board of directors made up of ministers and businessmen has contracted Buckner Baptist Benevolences, Inc. of Lubbock to administrate the project. Gibbons said $300 a month will be paid to Buckner, saving the project about $20,000 a year.

The board of includes president Tim Winn; vicepresident Guy White Jr.; secretary Melinda Hernandez; and treasurer Keith Gibbons. Other members are Victor Sedinger, Dixie Robertson, Sam Robertson, Dr. Louise Worthy and Lanny Hamby.

Gibbons said there is a great need for the shelter.

ed at the proposed shelter because the old firehouse has been vacant several years. Here insulation has fallen through the ceiling in the front room. A local contractor estimated it will take $20,000 to bring the facility up to state standards.

"The thing that has really been driven home to me in the past four months or so is that child abuse is a problem we ignore until it's right next to us,' the minister said. "It's the type of thing you think if you close your eyes it will go away. It won't. "It's amazing to me that as small as town as this has a problem with child abuse," he continued. "But we have. It's very, very important that we reach out and help these kids and also the parents.'

Robertson estimated it will cost $20,000 to bring the building up to state and Department of Human Resources standards. The project depends upon private donations for financing.

The board designated February as their major fund-raising month. Among other things, there will be a benefit racquetball tournament Feb. 11-13 at the YMCA.

Gibbons said the board has collected about $1,300 so far "We need to have a lot more," he said.

Jack Watkins' resignation accepted at disputed appraisal board meeting

By MIKE DOWNEY Staff Writer

Despite conflict over the legality of their called meeting, the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors met in emergency session Tuesday to accept the resignation of director Jack Watkins.

The board also directed Chief Appraiser Gene Pereira to contact the nine taxing entities to suggest nominations to fill the vacancy. Board Chairman Roy Watkins said he had called the emergency meeting "because of the time element involved." Selecting a new member takes a minimum of 15 days, he said. "As small as this board is (five members), you're concerned about a quorum," Watkins said. "That's the sole reason for the meeting." Watkins also said that because

Jack Watkins had threatened to resign before, he was waiting to receive an official letter of resignation before proceeding.

According to the Texas Open Meetings Act, a board or governmental body is required to post only two hours notice before an emergency meeting can be held. What constitutes an emergency is not spelled out in the Act, and the

Armed criminals can get tougher sentences, court rules

By RICHARD CARELLI Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Convicted criminals can be sentenced to extra nces imposed in a single trial, the double jeopardy clause does no more than pn, the Supreme Court ruled today

By a 7-2 vote, the justices reinstated Missouri's "armed criminal action" law that treats the use of a deadly weapon during a crire, a legislature specifically authorizes cumulative punishment under two stati court had ruled that the law violates the Constitution's protection against e prosecutor may seek and the trial court or jury may impose cumulative punishment under such statutes in a single trial." Burger said.

Because the court's opinion was based on a constitutional interpretation, it applies to state and federal prosecutions as well, as long as some law specifically provides for tacked-on sentences.

Joining Burger's opinion were Justices William J. Brennan, Byron R. White, Harry A. Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell, William H. Rehnquist and Sandra Day O'Connor.

Justices Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens dissented.

In a dissenting opinion for both justices, Marshall wrote: "The creation of multiple crimes serves only to strengthen the prosecution's hand. It advances no valid state interest that could not just as easily be achieved without bringing multiple charges against the defendant

In the Missouri case, Danny Hunter was convicted of robbing at gunpoint a Kansas City grocery store in 1978. He was sentenced to 10 years in prison for the robbery and to 15 years under the state's "armed criminal action" law.

His dual sentence was struck down by a state appeals court, but today's decision swept awab that ruling.

Hunter's case focused the high court's attention on the portion of the Constitution forbidding either multiple prosecutions or multiple punishment for "the same offense.

The court's majority said tacking on extra punishment, as provided for in the Missouri law, is not included in the constitutionally forbidden practices.

'Stings' bite elderly men in swindles

Last week two elderly Big Spring men were tricked out of about $3,717 by a two teams of swindlers, police say. They were the victims of an old scam called 'three-card monte' - one more case added to 11 years of tricks documented by police Detective Avery Falkner

Each year Falkner warns residents - especially the elderly - of "sting" operations in Big Spring. There are, he said, three common to Big Spring: three-card monte, pigeon drop and the bank examiner's scheme.

'They'll (the operators) usually try two or three people before they find a sucker," Falkner said. Falkner offered the following scenario of a typical three card monte scam.

The victim, an elderly white male, is approached at the post office by a black male who says he's from outof-town and needs directions to his girlfriend's house. The black male displays a large sum of money and offers the victim a reward if he leads him to the address.

Another stranger, a white male, joins in the conversation and says he knows the address. The white male takes the victim aside and tells him they can play a card game with the black male and win all his money. The three go to another location and play a game involving three cards, one black the other two red. The object is to pick the odd-colored card. In a few minutes, the victim has won all the black male's money.

However, the black male refuses to pay up until the victim shows that he has money to back up the game. The victim withdraws $3,000 from his bank account and goes back to the other two men. They put everybody's money in a sack and give it to the victim.

The swindlers then get in a car driven by a third person and say they are going to take the black male to his girlfriend's house. In the meantime, they have switched sacks on the victim, leaving him with a sack full of paper

The pigeon drop victim usually is an elderly white female who gets into a conversation with another white female at a shopping center. Another woman, usually black, passes by and finds a billfold full of money on the floor

She consults the other two women about what to do with the money. The white female suggests they go to a lawyer she knows

The lawyer discovers gambling slips or some other evidence that the money was obtained illegally and tells the women to leave it with him, along with some of their own good faith money. The victim never sees her money again

In the bank examiner's scheme, the victim gets a phone call from a man posing as a bank president or FBI man who offers the victim a reward to help catch a dishonest bank teller

The victim is instructed to go to a certain teller at his bank and withdraw all his money. The bank examiner contacts the victim and, under the guise of recording the serial numbers, switches the money.

When the victim redeposits his money, he finds only paper inside the bag.

Falkner offers the following clues to a sting operation

Were you approached by a stranger from out-oftown? Did he display a large roll of money? Were you joined by another stranger? Did you get involved in a card game? Were you asked to show good faith money? Did you receive a call from a bank examiner? Did the suspect refuse to accompany you to the bank?

Police break burglary ring; nine arrested

Big Spring police say four men and five boys they recently arrested were involved in two burglary rings in this area. The suspects stole about $20,000 worth of property in the past four months, Lt. Alvis Jeffcoat said

The arrests cleared 29 burglaries, two auto thefts and a felony theft that occurred in all parts of the city, police said. Jeffcoat said they confiscated a variety of stolen property in the arrests. They said there is no pattern to the types of items the ring stole

Those arrested on suspicion of burglary were Robert R. Gonzales, 17, of 907 S. Runnels; Salvador Trevino, 17, of 204 N.E. Eighth; and James St. Clair, 27, of 1515-B Wood.

Pedro Aguilar, 21, of 312 N.E. 10th was arrested on suspicion of auto burglary and was released on a $5,000 bond set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt.

Daratt set Gonzales' bond at $75,000; however District Judge Jim Gregg lowered it to $15,000. Gonzales was released after posting the bond. Trevino and St. Clair were released on $10,00 bond each set by Darat

Magnet policies pull interest

Meetings are now in progress in the Big Spring school district to establish curriculum policies for the new magnet-extended day program at Bauer Elementary

The meetings, being held at all elementary schools, are in response to an agreement reached in November by the school district and the U.S. Justice Department to end traces of segregation in the district.

Bauer was assigned to be a magnet school after the federal government accused the school of maintaining a racial imbalance.

In a settlement with the Justice Department, the district agreed to make Bauer into a magnet school with an extended day program of enriched classes.

HC hires teacher for petro course

A new petroleum technology teacher was hired yesterday by the Howard County Junior College District in a move that will enable inmates at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp to study petroleum technology

Greg Bonner, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Bonner of Big Spring, was hired as a full-time employee by the district for one year to teach petroleum technology at the prison.

President of the district, Dr. Charles Hays, said Bonner's position is funded entirely with federal money, and could be renewed next year depending on need and available money.

The class is part of a plan to help rehabilitate inmates and provide a skill to help them re-enter society. Havs said

In other business the board approved a change to drop the word "associate" from Cheri Sparks' title of vice president for student life.

And the board okayed an auction of surplus property to be held Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Big Spring Industrial Park

The new program is expected to gradually correct the racial enrollment balance at the school.

A steering committee comprised of parents, teachers and administrators is visiting each campus to get input on possible programs of study to be used at Bauer starting in August, 1983, according to Helen Gladden, elementary curriculum coordinator for the district.

Based on input from the meetings the committee will build a program of study to be presented to the school board for final analysis and approval, she said. The committee is scheduled to complete the program by March 15.

Museum board dusts off new year plans

The Big Spring Heritage Museum board of trustees elected new officers recently and agreed on plans for 1983.

The new officers include Wade Choate, president; Fay Reed, vice president; Myra Robinson, secretary; and Neva Green, treasurer. Four members were elected to three-year terms on the 20-member board: Gerri Atwell, Katie Grimes, Fay Reed and Neva Green.

Choate said one priority for 1983 would be the selection of a full-time curator for the museum. Choate said efforts would also begin to seek museum membership renewals.

"We hope to get the museum back on track in 1983," Choate said. "In the past a few things have been allowed to slide that we need to address if we wish to operate the museum efficiently.

In their first action, the board moved to not loan any permanent exhibit from the museum. The only exception would be limited-duration exhibitions that trustees themselves could present to insure their safety.

Whites survive hectic first day in office

By KEN HERMAN Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN - It was moving day for the Whites of Westlake Hills and all went well, despite the rain, hundreds of visitors to their new home and a hectic party schedule.

"Everybody ate the food that was left and no one got sick yet," new Gov. Mark White said of the traditional meal left in the Governor's Mansion by his predecessor, Bill Clements.

With a little help from an inaugural staff that stayed one step ahead of the rain Tuesday, White made good on a campaign promise to open up the mansion to Texans.

Moments after taking the oath on the rain-soaked Capitol steps, the Whites led a procession to the nearby mansion for the grand opening he hhas been promising.

"Texas has open government now, and people are welcome back into their home and their government and their Capitol," White said after using gold-painted bolt cutters to slice through a padlock and chain.

The lock and chain were placed on the gate earlier in the day by a public relations firm hired for the inaugural.

"Come on in!" White shouted to his followers.

He cut the invitation short, however, at the stairs leading to his bedroom.

"We've got to change clothes," White told the visitors.

'It feels great to be at home," a smiling White said as he and his family retired to the privacy of the second floor. Hundreds of visitors filed through the mansion and out the back door, which was held open by Department of Public Safety officers.

Later Tuesday, after a downtown parade, White,

Economy's decline biggest since 1946

By ROBERT FURLOW Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy, crippled by recession from start to finish, declined 1.8 percent in 1982, the sharpest drop since 1946, a new government report indicated today.

Moreover, the economy — as measured by real, or inflation-adjusted, gross national product — was falling even faster, at an annual rate of 2.5 percent, in the just-ended fourth quarter after rising slightly in the previous six months, the report said.

The decline for all of 1982 was more than four times the 0.4 percent drop during the 1980 recession, the most recent previous national business downturn. Real GNP rose 1.9 percent in 1981.

The fourth-quarter dip, though discouraging news on the surface, was mostly discounted in advance by analysts who said the economy is now growing again in the first quarter of 1983.

They said that rather than producing new products, many business managers were selling off burdensome inventory stockpiles in the October-December period, thus setting the stage for production gains to come.

Whatever 1983 brings, today's Commerce Department figures capped a sour 1982 in whichhslow sales and high interest rates caused companies to cut output and lay off millions of workers, pushing the nation's unemployment rate to a 42-year high of 10.8 percent. The year's decline in real GNP — which measures the total U.S. output of goods and services — was the biggest drop since the 14.7 percent of 1946, when the nation's big industry was gearing down from World War II.

Real, or inflation-adjusted, GNP dropped to $1.476 trillion for 1982, today's report said. Before adjusting for inflation — that is, without discounting increases in output value due only to higher prices — GNP rose 4.1 percent to $3.058 trillion, the report said.

The report also said a broad-based, GNPlinked inflation measure — covering everything that goes into the gross national product — rose 6 percent for the year, down from the 9.4 percent of 1981.

In the fourth quarter, the report said, real GNP declined to an annual rate of $1.472 trillion. Before adjustment for inflation, output rose 1.7 percent to a rate of $3.101 trillion.

The inflation measure, called the GNP implicit price deflator, rose at an annual rate of 4.3 percent in the quarter, down from the third quarter's 5 percent. Administration officials have not yet made their official economic projections for this year. But they have been talking in the range of 1.4 percent growth, a rate much slower than in the early stages of previous recoveries.

Most private analysts are estimating at least a bit higher.

Commerce Undersecretary Robert Dederick, sounding more optimistic than some of his administration colleagues, noted on Tuesday that the housing industry is already pushing out of its own long downturn.

He said housing starts have risen 43 percent since October 1981, an increase that "means residential construction will be an important contributor to the general recovery which should be getting under way this quarter."

Tuesday's reports on housing starts and Americans' personal income were less than encouraging, showing 1982 starts at the lowest level since 1946 and income rising at the slowest pace since 1963. But economists said both figures were likely to be better this year as recovery picks up strength.

The recession, by most accounts, began in July 1981. But growth early in that year kept real GNP moving upward 1.9 percent for the year as a whole.

The figure had declined just 0.4 percent in 1980, the year of the most-recent recession. It dropped 0.6 percent in 1974 and 1.1 percent in 1975 during the recession that spanned those years. Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., Jan. 19, 1983 3-A

Barney Clark survives surgery

By BOB KUESTERMAN Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY — Artificial heart recipient Barney Clark slept comfortably overnight following an operation to stop bleeding in his nasal passages, a hospitanderson at the Univaid early today.

Supervisor Lisa Anderson at the University of Utah Medical Center said there were no signs of the stubborn 10-day bleeding that prompted doctors to order Clark's third trip to surgery since his implant.

Doctors said the 2½-hour operation Tuesday afternoon to seal arteries and stop a "gushing" nosebleed was a success. But they said the procedure had dimmed Clark's chances of leaving the hospital by the end of the month.

"His color is better," Dr. James L. Parkin said after he performed the surgery.

Clark's wife, Una Loy, "was very happy because she had seen him suffering a fair amount," largely from the packing in his nose that doctors had hoped would would stop the bleeding, he said.

"He will be more comfortable now — even with the incisions than he was with the packing," said Parkin, an ear, nose and throat specialist who is acting chief surgeon at the University of Utah Medical Center.

Before the bleeding began Jan. 9, doctors had been enthused as Clark's gained strength while recovering from seizures and previous surgery and battling respiratory and kidney problems.

They had said Clark might leave the hospital possibly as early as the end of the month, but now "there is no question that this will delay his recovery," said John Dwan, medical center spokesman.

He said he could not predict when

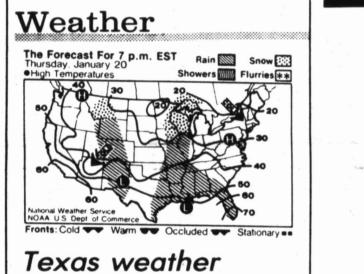

BARNEY CLARK ...resting comfortably

 Clark may be able to leave for a specially equipped home in Salt Lake City.

Clark, a retired dentist from suburban Seattle who turns 62 Friday, remained in serious but stable condition today, his 49th day on the artificial heart. Hospital officials said he was hours from death when surgeons removed his failing heart Dec. 2 and implanted the polyurethane, air-driven Jarvik 7.

Clark must receive anticoagulants all his life to prevent blood clots from forming around the plastic heart — clots that could cause a stroke.

The anti-coagulants contributed to Clark's nosebleeds, Dwan said, and doctors had lowered the dosage — "a risk in itself" — and also tried to control the bleeding by packing the nose.

School prayer

ban no surprise

It is not surprising that the Supreme Court has refused to reinstate a policy allowing students to pray together on the grounds of public schools.

The court had made landmark decisions in 1962 and 1963 striking down prayer in schools, ruling that it violated the Constitutional doctrine of separation of church and state.

Although it does seem unfortunate that children are not allowed to pray in voluntary groups for brief moments before or after school, the denial is but a small price to pay to uphold that great document, the United States Constitution, which gave our country freedom of religion in the first place.

THE CONSTITUTION clearly separated church matters from state matters; our forefathers had that doctrine specifically written in to prevent a "state religion" from being forced down anyone's neck.

And conversely, the doctrine also kept the state from meddling in any church's affairs. Separation of church and state is one of the greatest tenets of our country, and it has allowed religions of many varieties to flourish here.

SO IF SEPARATION of church and state means that children are not allowed to congregate to pray on public school grounds, so be it - there is always the option of meeting elsewhere, of attending private denominational schols where such prayers are not only allowed but encouraged, or of sneaking in individual silent prayers as one pleases.

Freedom of religion has not necessarily been abridged, nor has freedom of choice. The gains are far greater than the fleeting losses.

A poor sense of the role of government in national life lies at the heart of the trouble. President Reagan in particular seems to believe that what his administration does bears only a casual relation to what happens in the country and the world.

Thus he can describe the most painful recession in 40 years as something that happens in "South Succotash." He does not take the trouble to absorb the facts about such serious matters as abortion and nuclear war. Almost every day in short encounters with the press he can be seen first focusing on a problem that is new to him, next misunderstanding it, and lastly laughing off the whole matter as a piece of droll amusement.

On two central issues - raising taxes and easing Social Security indexation — he has shown himself to be articulate and bold where the President is woolly and wary. By setting the pace, Dole is smoking Reagan out, forcing upon him a choice he doesn't want to make - to run or not to run.

Two Cabinet members took their leave without even considering Reagan's preferences. Drew Lewis probably would have stayed in the administration had a bigger job in the Cabinet or on the White House the Cabinet of on the white House staff opened up. But none did, so to the evident displeasure of Reagan, Lewis resigned as secretary of Transportation to take a post as chief executive of a troubled pany in the cable television field.

Richard Schweiker seems to have been mainly concerned about more right. money. He quit as secretary of Health and Human Services to take a lobbying job for a private association. NONE OF THESE events shakes the earth. A resilient government could take them in stride. But the Reagan administration already shows the familiar, telltale signs of bunker mentality. It finds change from past positions an agony, is obsessed by leaks and tries to shut off journalists.

Because they are looking inward, the President and his men have nobody in sight who can begin to fill the shoes of Sen. Baker. The best they could do to head off Sen. Dole was to appoint his wife, Elizabeth. to the Transportation job. They named another woman, Margaret Heckler, who lost her bid for reelection to the Congress, as a replacement for Schweiker. Mom,

Senior citizens need attention

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I wish you would urge churches to pay more attention to older people. There are several of us who are senior citizens in our church, and no one seems to pay us any attention.---Mrs. L.C.

DEAR MRS. L.C.: I am sorry this seems to be the situation in your church; it is not the case in many churches, in part because many churches have discovered the many ways older people can enrich the lives of others.

Let me suggest several things to you. First, I think it would be good for you and others who are in your situation to talk frankly with your pastor about your concern. I suspect he is probably not aware of this, and would very much appreciate your honesty. As you talk with him, don't just complain because you feel that you are left out. Instead, tell him that you want to help in whatever ways you can so that the church can have a more effective ministry with older people. Then it would be important for you to reach out to other older people in the church and see what you can do together to help each other and have fellowship with each other. In other words, don't just leave everything to the initiative of others-think about what you can do on your own as well. I suspect there are many people in your church who are lonely-and not just older people. Be sure you are friendly and reaching out to others. Above all, remember that you have much to give your church, and it is unfortunate that those who are younger tend to forget this. Some of the greatest saints I have ever known were those who had walked with Christ for many, many years and were therefore a great inspira-

What Reagan's generals aren't telling him

WASHINGTON - President Reagan has taken exception to my report that the Pentagon's new weapons are too complicated for our military personnel to operate, so civilians known as "technical mercenaries" must be hired to help keep them in working order.

'I don't think it's true," he told a press conference.

Now, I know the president can't keep track of everything that's going on in the federal government, particularly a military beehive like the Pentagon. So I'll be glad to help the president find out what his generals and admirals aren't telling him.

First, the president should send someone over to Room 3B915 at the Pentagon to pick up a report titled "DOD Use of Civilian Technicians.

The report was prepared for the Pentagon by a Washington think tank called the Logistics Management Institute. The summary "The (Defense Departstates: ment) forces rely heavily upon civilians for technical assistance advice, instruction and training of military personnel in the installation, operation and maintenance of weapon systems and equipment, plus liaison between users and equipment.'

Next, the president might want to send out for an internal Pentagon document, DOD Directive 1130.2, titled "Management and Control of

Engineering and Technical Services.'

My associate Lucette Lagnado obtained a copy, which I'll be happy to show the president if he can't locate it. I think he'll find it a little puzzling. It states clearly that the use of technical mercenaries should be kept to a minimum. It requires the armed services to "achieve inhouse self-sufficiency as early as possible," and states that "the use of contract field services is limited to a period not to exceed 12 months" after military personnel are trained in how to maintain and use a weapons system.

DESPITE THIS official line, the president will find, if he pursues the matter, the Pentagon is using scores of civilian technicians sometimes for years at a stretch to keep some of our most important weapons systems functioning. For example:

Westinghouse has supplied 23 technicians to give operational and maintenance training for AWACS personnel at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma. There are also some civilian technicians with the AWACS planes we sent to Saudi Arabia.

- Our aircraft carriers in the Indian Ocean, according to House Defense Subcommittee investigators, have civilians on board to help maintain the Navy's fighter and attack planes and their weapons systems.

- Even the B-52s, which went into service literally decades ago, still rely to some extent on technical mercenaries. Part of this is due to a continuous modification of the planes over the years. But part of it may also be due to the contractor's desire to assure continued longterm income.

The Navy's F-14 fighter planes, the Air Force's F-15 fighter planes and the Army's Hawk missiles are heavily dependent on civilian technicians — and not just for short-term training of uniformed personnel. The report prepared for the Pentagon states that for these weapons, civilian assistance "is essential throughout the system's life, not just for initial self-sufficiency."

The military's dependence on civilian technicians was dramatically reflected in the response of the commander of Naval Air Forces, Atlantic Fleet, when faced with reductions in the number of civilians in 1979. Such a reduction could "result in jeopardization of ... flight safety, impaired weapon system capability and im-pacted flight training and mission accomplishment objectives," the admiral wrote.

In short, without civilian mercenaries, our expensive weapons won't work. Check it out, Mr. President.

Dear Editor,

tion to others.

Here is a simple proposal that will solve our state of insolvency. It will stop government borrowing, thereby lowering interest rates and keep inflation low.

Cut all government handouts in excess of $3,000 per year by 25 per-cent! This should include .social security, retired military, retired government workers including retired judges, members of Congress and presidents. Then cut back current members of Congress 10 percent as a gesture of good will to make up the last raise slipped through in the closing hours of December.

Sure, there will be howls of woe from those who have become accustomed to the generous largess of government. It was never intended that these benefits be sole subsistence but only a supplement. My social security check is much more than I had ever anticipated even though I had contributed sinced the inception of the law. I will gladly give up 25 percent of mine over the above amount along with all the above mentioned. The result of lower inflation and interest rates could offset lost income.

Many will say that the maker of such a proposal never had to work and scrape and sacrifice. Well he worked through The Depression at $1 per 12-hour day. Then, later at $90 per month, six-day weeks out of which was paid room, board and a monthly payment on school indebtedness. Fifty dollars per month was borrowed for four years to cover all expenses of school. He had no one to tell him he was poor.

If social security is higher than ever intended, then consider the case of government retirees. I have a relative retired from the State Department at age 50 with 20 years of service. She receives 50 percent more than my wife and I, with my retirement at age 67. She also receive in addition $128 in social security for I do not know what.

We must make these cuts NOW plus cuts of fat in the military, elimination of the enormous graft and cuts in the enormous bureaucracy. If not, our young people will be back working for $1 per day or $60 per long month if working at all. Or, we might go down the drain together!

Enlarged nodes not always bad

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am concerned about my 5-yearold daughter, who has enlarged nodes. I first noticed one on the left side of her neck when she was about 18 months old. I have asked her doctor about these nodes on three occasions, and I have taken her to another doctor for a second opinion. Both doctors told me not to be concerned and to "take her home and let her grow up". I hate to sound like an overly-protective mother, but don't I have something to worry about? I read that enlarged nodes are lined to cancer. I am losing sleep over this condition. She shows no other signs of illness, except that she has many colds, ear infections, etc. -Mrs. M.P.

Mom, you can't do more than you've done. Consider the facts. You child has what you determined were large nodes, and she has had them for four years. Two doctors skilled in diagnosing children's illnesses have assured you that she is well. "She shows no other signs of illness" - your own words. Your own words. You've gone the route of a properly-concerned parent. A few words here about nodes in general might permit you to regain your composure and some of those lost hours of sleeping.

Lymph nodes are latoons of biological soldiers standing guard against infection. Those in the neck are there to guard against infections in the throat area. When there's a sore throat or an infected tooth, for examples, the guards show up. They are actively fighting invading germs.

About cancer: Certainly there are cancers of the lymph nodes. And, yes, they would enlarge in such circumstances. But remember, too, that those kinds of cancers do not remain silent for four years. Other signs would have appeared. The child would feel generally ill.

And finally, you have to remember that some neck distinguishing enlargement that signifies serious con-ditions from the kind that is just a normal variation in humans. Those experts are your doctors. Carrying your concern beyond this is counterproductive. Believe the doctors and stop torturing yourself. Don't make yourself and your daughter nervous wrecks.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is Berger's disease, it's cause and cure? - R.B.

Berger's disease (when it's spelled just that way) is a kidney illness. It's usually discovered in young adults from red blood cells present in their urine. It's probably caused by a special kind of antibody that attacks kidney tissue. It's a disease in which the future is uncertain. Steriod drugs have been used to control it, however

I made a point above in stressing the precise spelling you used in your letter. That's because there is another more common, illness pronounced the same way, but spelled with a "u." It's Buerger's disease.

Is that the one you're thinking of? It's a disease of the arteries in the hands, legs and feet. A very common complaint with this condition is severe pain in the arch of the foot while walking. The pain results from an insufficiency of blood supply to the feet. Similar pain may be felt in the calf muscles.

The cause behind it is a clamping down of tiny arteries. The treatment for this illness is total abstinence from smoking, because that is what is causing the arteries to act this way.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can leAd to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-

Dear Abby

Car trouble threat worries woman

DEAR ABBY: You could help a lot of females if you'd answer this question: What does a girl (or woman) do if her car breaks down on the highway and she is alone at night? My mom says I should sit in the car with the windows rolled up and the doors locked, and wait for a police car to stop.

But a friend of mine said I should get out of the car and hide while waiting for the police to come by because if a potential attacker should find you, locked doors and windows would not prevent him from carrying out his intentions. Another friend told me I should try to flag down someone for help, but how long can you wait out in the open in the winter?

I'm an attractive 19-year-old woman who lives in a small Midwestern town. Many friends live in adjacent towns. I am alone on the highway quite a lot at night, and my mom is worried.

I'm really puzzled. What's the safest thing to do should I have car trouble alone at night on a highway? SITTING DUCK

DEAR DUCK: Turn your emergency blinkers on and-or lift your hood to indicate you have car trouble. Then sit in your car with the windows rolled up and the doors locked. If an older couple stops and offers to help, the chances are it would be safe to go with them. If a lone man stops, and he looks questionable, roll your window down just enough to talk to him, but not wide enough for him to get his hand through the window. Ask him to send the police or a tow truck to help you. I wouldn't recommend flagging anyone down or "hiding."

An ounce of prevention: Minimize your chances for "car trouble" by making sure that you have plenty of gas and that your car is in good condition.

Always keep a signal flare and a flashlight in your car. And, of course, if you have a CB radio, you'll never be a sitting duck - you'll be a lucky duck!

ABBY: I have started dating an older man. (I am 22.) He has been married twice and says he wants to marry again, but good sex is important to him and he doesn't want to make the same mistake he made before, so this is his proposition:

He wants me to go away for a weekend with him so he can see how I measure up. He wants to "grade" me on my sensitivity, endurance, responsiveness, willingness to explore, etc. He is by far the most attractive man I have ever met, and I would very much like to be his wife, but this "trial weekend" he suggests turns me off.

I have not had sex with him, and although I am not a virgin - a fact he knows because I was completely honest with him - I do not want to be graded like a side of beef

How can I let him know how I feel without losing him entirely?

PRIME

DEAR PRIME: It's my guess that if you don't take his "test" you will lose him - which is probably the best thing that could happen to you.

Beef Cook-off slated

By TINA STEFFEN Lifestyle Editor and

By CAROL HART Lifestyle Writer Many thanks to Dixie Lee Bond, a Recipe Exchange reader from Prairie Grove, Ark. Mrs. Bond has supplied us with several recipes, and this week she answered a recent request for a Pina Colada Cake. Mrs. Bond's recipe appears below, complete with Pina Colada Frosting.

This week we are featuring recipes from the 1982 national Beef Cook-off. sponsored by the American National Cowbelles, headquartered in Denver, Colo. The local chapter of this national organization is the Tejas Cowbelles, headed by President Lucille Sterling.

The annual Beef Cook-off contest is sponsored each year for non-professional cooks. The contest is judged on taste, appearance, originality, ease of preparation and practicality. Cash prizes are awarded to the top three winners and five honorable mentions.

For those of you interested in participating in the contest, send a typed copy of your best beef recipe, using chuck, round, rump, fresh brisket, plate, shank or ground beef, to the National Beef Cook-Off. 444 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60611. Include your name, address, phone number and a brief statement about the origin of your recipe.

The dish must contain a minimum of two pounds of beef and not more than five. Meat used must be exclusively beef. Cooking time cannot exceed four hours. Recipe must be specific, with no use of brand names, and must state the number of servings and approximate preparation time.

Contestants must be 18 or older, with non-professional food status. Any person who has owned one or more head of beef or dairy cattle (or whose immediate family has owned tomatoes; stir-fry several cattle) in the 12 months preceding Oct. 1, 1983, is minutes. Stir in beef, basil, Legislation to improve the supply of qualified science and math teachers and to reauthorize the Vocational Education Act of 1963 will dominate the education agenda of the 98th Congress. Last year 35 bills were introduced in Congress to improve science and math education, but no action was taken. This year Congress is expected to act. The crisis, as members of Congress see it, is that the United States has a critical shortage of qualified science and math teachers - since 1971 there has been a 77 percent decline in the numbers of math teachers and a 65 percent decline in the number of science teachers.

Bogus police stop eighth EL Paso driver

By RANDALL HACKLEY Associated Press Writer

EL PASO - For the eighth time in as many days, an impostor posing as an El Paso patrolman has stopped a motorist and tried to fool him into paying cash on the spot for a purported traffic fine, officials say We're still being hit by bogus cops," El Paso Lt Eddie Agan said.

Tuesday morning, police said four men in an unmarked car with flashing red lights stopped a motorist. One man displayed a badge in his wallet and told the motorist he was a policeman.

But the motorist, suspecting the man was a phony patrolman, jumped back in his car and drove away, police said

And Monday, for the seventh time since Dec. 23, a man posing as a police officer stopped a driver in this West Texas city and asked for money on the spot for a speeding ticket

When the driver wary because of newspaper and on reports warming drivers to verify percenter's credentials are genuine - asked the end policemen for identification, the suspect fled bonce said

A fresh new taste experience that outshines menthol.

We think maybe there are three suspects in this case." said Agan

Motorists report the bogus policemen have taken $770 in cash since the spree started.

But police also suspect some reports could be covers for other types of losses, such as gambling,

"Maybe one of the guys has been out gambling and has lost some money. Well, maybe he tells Momma he got hit up by the bogus cops," Agan said.

Last weekend, another alert driver reported noticing a phony officer lacked a police badge, and demanded identification. The bogus patrolman jumped back onto his motorcycle and fled, said Sgt. Robert Wiles.

In the second incident, however, a bogus patrolman driving a sedan stopped Alicia Garcia Perez on an alleged speeding violation. The woman, out to buy milk, was charged $10. But she told the phony patrolman she only had $7, so he took the cash and drove off, said Agan

It not only tastes fresher while you smoke. It even leaves you with a clean, fresh taste.

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1983

HAVING A NOSE FOR THE BALL - A lot of admirers say Big Spring forward Jerald Wrightsil (24) can score with his hands tied behind his back. But with his nese? That's the way it looks but in reality, Midland Lee defenders Sylvester Johnson and Tod Brown (35) converge to foul the BSHS senior. Wrightsil scored 26 points - 20 in the second half - to guide the Steers to a 75-46 romp over the Rebels Tuesday night.

Wrightsil and Co. wing by Lee, 75-46

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

It took 11 minutes for Jerald Wrightsil to get his scoring machine off the ground. But once the 6-3 senior's air show did take flight, he and his Big Spring High teammates were off and soaring to an easy win over an outmanned squadron of Midland Lee Rebels.

Wrightsil scored 26 points - including 20 in the second half - and the Steers broke away from Lee's slow-down tactics to bomb the Rebels 75-46 for a District 4-AAAAA victory Tuesday night in the BSHS gym.

The win elevates Big Spring to 3-2 and right back into the league race. For the season, the Steers stand 13-7 while Lee slips to a lowly 3-18 and 1-4 district mark

For most of the first half, it looked as if an aggressive Rebel defense would keep Wrightsil in the hangar all night.

"They were playing a zone and one on me," Wrightsil said of his scoreless first quarter take-off. They were trying to deny me the ball but by the middle of the second quarter, my man started getting tired and lazy. That left me open...wide open sometimes.'

The first wide-open opportunity came with 5:00 to play in the half and Big Spring edging away from the cat-quick Rebels. A Lee turnover left Wrightsil with the ball and the sleek senior gunned his engines, accelerated downcourt and stuffed the ball in mid-flight for his first two points of the game. That slam gave BSHS a nine-point lead and the Steers were finally off in flight.

The district's leading scorer hit two free shots to open the second half and the Steers left the Rebs on the runway. Big Spring shot down Lee 19-8 in the third period and then won a run-and-gun war in the fourth quarter to record its second straight league win.

'We played a lot better," coach Archie Myers said enthusiastically.

"We were playing a team that was on the bottom but our guys went out there with intensity and tried to improve themselves.

Lee was outmanned but seldom outhustled. Tiny point guard Tryone Thurman - not much taller than a fire hydrant - zigged and zagged through a variety of Big Spring zones, dropping the ball off to open teammates under the hoop for easy lay-ins. "They are super quick," Myers nodded his head. "Believe it or not, I was afraid of this team. One thing I've found out so far is that any team can be upset." Shuffling new player in the game was one reason why Lee was able to get its share of layups Myers said.

Big Spring glided off to a 9-2 start as the Rebels were content to run their four-corner offense early in the game. When Sylvester Johnson scored with 2:10 to go in the quarter, it marked only the third Lee shot. Seven turnovers had helped put the Rebels in an early hole

A theft and layup by tiny Tyrone, however, closed the gap to 11-10 before Jimmy Brown scored to give BSHS a 13-10 first guarter lead.

Big Spring moved ahead 23-14 after Wrightsil's bombing run and held that same nine-point margin at intermission. Nine straight points in third quarters propelled the Steers into a 44-24 advantage and the war was almost won.

The last 20-point lead came with six minutes to play but Wrightsil then took over the controls. Scoring 13 points through three quarters, he tallied 13 more in the final period as Big Spring flew off to a 29-point victory.

The game marked the debut of senior Darren Green. Green improved his grades last semester which ended Friday - and rejoined the team for his first game of the season. He scored just four points but will give Myers more depth. "I just wanted to keep my head together tonight." Green smiled after the game. "I took my time and tried to do my best.'

Green was just part of a new look for the Steers. Myers started juniors Jimmy Brown and Jerry Wrightsil at the guard slots and worked in regulars Kevin Watson and Fred Rubio. "I really tried to work on my defense out there," said the younger Wrightsil. "Eventually the offense will come. This was a great win for us. I'm pretty sure this will help us. If we can beat Permian and San Angelo, we'll have the second half."

Big Spring shot 48 per cent from the field (31 of 65) and even managed 72 per cent from the foul line, hitting 13 of 18 tries. After missing his three first quarter attempts, Wrightsil finished with nine makes in 17 tries and added eight of 10 free throws

In the junior varsity game, Alton Davis hit a basket and Victor Brown tossed in a free throw in overtime to help Lee hold off the Steers 47-46. The three Rebel Lees withstood a desperation 45-foot jumper by George Roman - the game's highscorer with 19 points - at the overtime buzzer.

Davis had nine point for Lee which rallied from a double figure deficit to defeat Big Spring.

'Skins, Pokes fans get hostile

WASHINGTON - If you're a Dallas Cowboys fan in Washington this week, you might consider an expensive life insurance policy before announcing your team preference in a public place.

The natives are restless, you might say.

One radio talk show is billing the entire week as "Dallas Hate Week" prior to the game at noon here on Saturday, which as everyone knows pits Washington's Redskins against the Cowboys. The winner goes to the Super Bowl.

You can't turn on the television without hearing one Redskins fan or another shouting into a microphone, 'We want Dallas! We want Dallas!"

"The Cowboys may be America's team," but in the nation's capital they are detested on a par with roaches.

It was bad enough when the Cowboys played in Washington in early December with no Super Bowl at stake. Robert F. Kennedy Stadium shook with a passion so patriotic to the Redskins that it probably registered on the local Richter scales.

If Dallas quarterback Danny White hadn't pulled out of the backfield for a first down on a fake punt, the Cowboys might not have come away with their 24-10 win.

But pity not those isolated Texans in their Alamo-like congressional strongholds. They'll never say die to their Dallas allegience. And in spite of being surrounded by other congressional staffers who have decided after residence in Washington to support the Redskins, they will publicly confess their Cowboys pride even to bothersome television newsmen who insist that they reveal their position on the evening news.

'The longer I live in Washington, the more people think I should like the Redskins," said Anne Jones, a former Dallas resident in the office of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas. "But the more I've been here, the less I like them because (of the) comments. All I have to do is say I'm from Dallas and they give me a growl or two."

"These Washington people don't know what they're in for," said another Cowboys fan, Maggie Stark, the manager of the Texas State Office of State-Federal Relations and formerly from the Panhandle town of Dalhart.

10 16 18 19 3 - 66

"I haven't been very humble about it," she admitted about her support for Dallas. She's been wearing a Dallas Cowboys pin six inches in diameter this week that makes no secret of her support.

"The hogs?" she asked. "Oh yeah, isn't that what they call the Redskins cheerleaders?" In Washington, that's what they proudly call the offensive linemen. Summing up her feelings Stark added: "The Redskins are dead skins."

Both Jones and Stark will host private parties on Saturday for the Cowboys game, preferring to gather Dallas fans at home rather than fighting for rare tickets at the stadium where Redskins fans lined up outside for two days in freezing weather for 2,000 available tickets.

Tors rip Chiefs, 120-43; Buff Queens drop first

LAMESA - Talk about venting your frustrations

Remembering all those tough losses to Lake View in football, the Lamesa Golden Tors let it all loose in a 120-43 thrashing of the Chiefs in a District 2-AAAA game Tuesday night.

Ahead 59-17 at the half, the Tors poured it on as Victor Spencer scored 31 points and sophomore sensation Chris Mason followed with 22. Lamesa hit 100 at 5:58 in the fourth quarter.

The win gave Lamesa a first half cotitle with Snyder, 56-40 winner over Andrews, both teams finishing at 6-1. Lamesa in 17-4 on the season

In the girls game, Lake View claimed a 58-41 over Lamesa, 4-13 and 0-2, despite 12 points by Vera Jones.

Lamesa hosts Monahans Friday hoping to avenge its only district loss.

Free shots nip Forsan

ROBERT LEE - Hitting just 25 per cent from the floor and getting outscore 25-9 at the foul line, the Forsan Buffalo Queens dropped their first game of the season to Robert Lee.

Things weren't any better in the boys game as Forsan hit just one of its 26 first half shots and lost 43-25 to the Steers.

The difference in the girls game was the first quarter. Robert Lee. 17-1 overall and 3-0 in district, hit all 12 of its free shots and built a 20-12 lead. In the foul department, Forsan was whistled 25 times and Robert Lee just 12.

Forsan, now 17-1 and 2-1, hit on only 19 of 72 shots but held a 19-14 field goal advantage over RLHS. Vicky Baggett had 13 points while Sara De Le Pena had 12 for the winners

The Buffs fell to 6-11 and 1-2 with the poor start. Robert Eggleston's seven points led Forsan

G'wood tips Klondike

KLONDIKE - Icy shooting proved fatal for the Klondike as Greenwood ran away with a 51-23 District 11-A win over the Cougarettes.

In the boys game, the Coogs succumbed to the state's No. 3 team in a 13-0 fourth surge, losing 72-60 to the Rangers.

Klondike closely guarded high-scoring Renvy Evans and held her to nine points. Meanwhile, the Rangerettes poured in points from the outside and Klondike could sink just six of 40 (15 per cent) tries for the game, including an 0-for-14 showing in the third quarter.

Tim Cope had 18 points and tight defense by Mike Barkowsky held Stu Burleson to a season low of 12. Jim Lee and Troy Wallace combined for 36 points, however to guide the Rangers.

Thorpe finally honored

GLITS

LOS ANGELES (AP) - "My dad's lifewas like a Greek tragedy," says Grace Thorpe, daughter of the great American Indian athlete, Jim Thorpe. "He went from the bottom to the heights and back down to the bottom again.

On Tuesday, Thorpe's name again rose to the top, nearly 30 years after his death. Juan Antonio Samaranch of Spain, president of the International Olympic Committee, officially returned to Thorpe's family two gold medals he had won in the 1912 Olympic Games but lost a year later when he was stripped of his amateur status.

"The 70-year-old marathon is over," said another daughter, Charlotte, 63, one of six Thorpe children who attended the ceremony.

Thorpe won gold medals in the decathlon and pentathlon at the 1912 Olympics in Stockholm, Sweden. Afterward, he was ordered to hand them back because he had admitted playing baseball for $2 a game for a resort team in 1910. That was an infringement of the strict rules of amateurism on which the Olympic Games were run.

One athlete who competed against Thorpe at Stockholm was Avery Brundage, a 24-year-old American who went on to become a powerful president of the IOC and refused to budge one inch from the Olympic code of amateurism.

Through the 20 years of Brundage's presidency, every plea for the return of Thorpe's medals to his family was futile. Brundage's successor, Lord Killanin, was no more sympathetic.

But under Killanin, and again under Samaranch, the eligibility rules were broadened by stages.

Julian K. Roosevelt, elected to the IOC executive board last summer, finally persuaded the board to return the medals.

One of those who did not try to get the medals returned was Thorpe himself.

"Thousands of people have worked to get dad's medals returned, but not dad himself," said Grace Thorpe, 61, of Tahlequah, Okla. "He didn't even like speaking about them.

Spurs 143, Nuggets 124 SAN ANTONIO, Texas

(AP) - It probably is morethan coincidence that just as second-year forward Gene Banks hits his stride in the National Basketball Association, his San Antonio team starts playing more like a contender.

Banks, who starred in the Atlantic Coast Conference while playing for Duke, fought his way to a career-high 30 points Tuesday night with force and finesse.

And the Spurs, who increased their lead to three games over Kansas City in the Midwest Division, pummeled the sporadic Denver Nuggets 143-124.

The Spurs posted their highest point total of the season with Banks, Mike Mitchell and George Gervin doing most of the scoring. San Antonio blitzed the Nuggets 29-15 during the first six minutes of the third period to gain complete control of the game.

Rockets 100, Bullets 98

HOUSTON (AP) -Houston Rockets forward Joe Bryant knows he wasn't the first or even the second choice to take a spossible game-winning shot against the Washington Bullets.

But Bryant proved equal to the task Tuesday as his driving layup at the buzzer delivered the Rockets their sixth win in 38 games, a 100-98 National Basketball Association triumph over Washington.

Following a timeout, Houston had the ball out of bounds with four seconds left to play. Bryant took the inbounds pass from Wally Walker near the sideline and sailed into the lane with the winner.

Grandmother earns six-figures with novels

By DOUG McCLELLAN El Paso Times

ALAMOGORDO — Aola Vandergriff doesn't consider her books great fiction, but says she does like the checks.

A 62-year-old grandmother who started her career by taking a $3 adult education writing class, Mrs. Vandergriff churns out two, three and sometimes four historical romances a year under her own name and the nom de plume Kitt Brown.

At last count, her novels had sold more than 3 million copies throughout the world, and the numbers keep growing.

The heroines in her books are gorgeous, sultry, strong-willed women who can fill a table for a houseful of cowboys and waltz with aristocrats; the heroes all are honorable, hard-working men who never touch quiche; the villains are sneering and shifty-eyed from the moment they saunter insolently into the plot line. Her characters never just talk. They spit out curses in red-faced anger. They whisper with tears leaking between their fingers. They live italicized lives and ponder fate with looming question marks. They love, of course, although the path to happiness is pitted with cruel happenstance, bitter tears and insurmountable odds that melt away only in the closing chapters.

And they keep Aola Vandergriff in a six-figure income every year.

"I write a good yarn," she said. "I write to order, and I write fast and straight through, and if I change anything, it's usually the first line, first page." As recently as 1966, Mrs. Vandergriff laundered clothes for her six children and thought writers were special people — not like her.

"I used to travel as I ironed and think of all the places I wanted to go and places I wanted to see," she said.

She did not imagine she soon would be writing bestselling novels set in such exotic locales as the Australian outback, the Alaskan frontier, the misty isles of England. And traveling there besides.

Now, she said, "it's sort of like a fairy tale life," but added, "It would have been nice if it had happened a few years ago when I was quite a bit younger."

She said she had always written, even as a child in LeMars, Iowa, and Oklahoma City. But her talent blossomed late in life through a writing class she took in Sacramento, Calif., where her husband, Bill, a contract manager for the government, had been transferred. A daughter brought home a handout about the writing class, and Mrs. Vandergriff paid the $3 tuition and went.

"I came home the first day walking on my toes because I thought, 'I've been a writer all this time," she said.

She began writing confessions — those first-person, unsigned-"testimonials" about people and their flaws. She discovered she could produce them "like popcorn," dashing out 2,500 in six years, plus miscellaneous short stories and articles.

Symbol of 'New Detroit' faces financial mess

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK Associated Press Writer

DETROIT — It was compared to the Colossus of Rhodes and touted as a beacon of hope for one of America's struggling old northern cities.

Unlike the ancient Colossus, which fell victim to an Aegean earthquake in 224 B.C., Detroit's Renaissance Center is in no danger of toppling. But it has fallen on hard times.

The highly publicized complex wallows in at estimated $140 million of red ink. This month, its owners defaulted on a $200 million mortgage when the January payment was not made, even after a 10-day grace period.

The $357 million RenCen, as it is known to local residents, includes a 740-foot cylindrical, glass-walled hotel surrounded by four matching 39-story office buildings. A multilevel shopping mall provides the base for the complex.

The financing was a unique partnership of 51 Detroit-area companies spearheaded by Henry Ford II, who since has retired as chairman of the auto company which bears his name.

It is uncertain just how much

"We have always maintained

some cloak of secrecy," says Richard Routh, a spokesman for Ford Motor Land Development Corp., a Ford Motor Co. subsidiary and owner of 65 percent of the property. "It is a private project."

Ford first proposed the center on Nov. 24, 1971. Eighteen months later ground was broken. The complex opened officially in April 1977, with Ford delivering the ribbon-cutting address.

Amid the optimism, he cautioned that the center itself would have to be a success in order to provide the impetus for a reborn downtown Detroit. Ford's caution was well-founded.

Although the center served as headquarters for the 1980 Republican National Convention as well as the 1982 National Football League Super Bowl game, the complex struggled to attract people.

"I think generally, Renaissance Center has had some positive effects on downtown, but not nearly enough to overcome the absolutely awful economy," says Gary Sands, associate professor of urban planning tat Detroit's Wayne State University. "It brought a lot of people downtown to see it. But apparently not enough have come back."

Last April, nearly five years to the day of the formal dedication, Ford announced the planned sale of Renaissance Center to a group headed by Theodore Netzky, a Chicago attorney and accountant, for $505 million.

The sale has not been completed. Both Netzky and Wayne Doran, president of Ford Land Development, have declined to comment. Published reports persist that the Chicago group is having difficulty arranging financing.

A story in today's editions of the Wall Street Journal quoted real estate sources as saying that the prospective buyer cut the price he is offering by nearly 50 percent in hopes of salvaging the acquisition. Heitman Financial Services Ltd. of Chicago, which Netzky joined as a partner in November, is proposing a price tag of "under $300 million," Heitman's chairman, Norman Perlmutter, told the newspaper.

Center officials are trying to make the shopping area more palatable to traditionally bluecollar residents.

E.T.'s birth is highlight of career

By CRAIG HOWSON The Prescott Courier

PHOENIX, Ariz. – Carlo Rambaldi, the man who created the extraterrestrial being a large number of Earthlings have taken to their hearts and pocketbooks, started out with a dragon.

That was 25 years ago. "I was working on experimenting with movement... an imperfect structure with perfect movement," Rambaldi said during a recent visit for the opening of the Arizona Science Center. "A friend of mine needed a dragon for a film and called me. "We made a model about one meter long and it worked pretty good," he recalled. "I did it for fun, a joke. Then we made a big dragon about 14 meters long."

After the success of the film and his 40-foot monster, Rambaldi found his services to be in great demand among Italian and European filmmakers.

After some 20 years, he and his talents were brought to the United States by Dino DeLaurentis for the remake of King Kong.

Rambaldi shared an Oscar for that film and later won his own for his work on the movie "Alien" Other major credits include "Nightwing" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

But the success of "E.T., The Extra-Terrestrial," is something he says no one could have predicted.

"You look at the script for E.T. and it is very simple — creature comes to Earth, meets three kids, they have a small adventure and then the creature flies away," he said. "You read that script and it doesn't seem like much. None of us knew what we had."

What they had has grossed about $300 million since its release last summer. It has released recently in Europe and promptly began drawing major crowds there, too.

Thousands of people adults as well as children — mimic the creature's gravelly voice. Thousands and perhaps millions of replicas in various sizes have filled store shelves. Thousands more adorn Tshirts, posters, advertisements and score upon score of other graphics.

When originally contacted for the film, Rambaldi was to have 10 months to work on creating E.T., but production demands trimmed that to six months.

"You lose the first month just getting things started, so we actually made E.T. in about five months," he said. "I worked all the time, Saturday and Sunday, too. It was very hard work, but it worked very well.

"They built into the shooting an extra three weeks of shooting to make up for breakdowns in the mechanism, but it never once broke and we finished shooting three weeks early," he added.

E.T. is a complex piece of machinery. The mechanism has 86 points of movement and takes 12 people to operate.

The model 630 of Xerox's Memorywriter line sells for $4,200. It features a removable diskette that holds about 70 pages of typing, - 55 pages more storage capacity than the 627, the next-highest level of Memorywriter

The 630 also contains a 20-character display which shows the material being typed. It can scan a document and revise it by moving, repeating or deleting paragraphs or sections of

The telephone adapter for the 620 series of Memorywriters, selling for $450, will permit communications with computers or other Memorywriters over telephone lines. It will be available later for the 630 series as well.

Xerox introduced its Memorywriter line in November 1981 and holds a 20 percent share of the electronic typewriter market, according to Charles Otto, vice president of marketing for the Xerox Business Systems Group.

Xerox expects to sell about 500,000 Memorywriters this year, said company spokesman Terry Dillman.

California taxpayers may get IOUs

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Nearly 8 million California taxpayers ill get IOUs instead of tax refund checks from the state this year unless state leaders eliminate a huge deficit, the controller's office said Tuesday.

The refunds would be paid in registered warrants, which haven't been used in California since the 1930s. Most state employees would also be paid in registered warrants, as would those who sell goods and services to the state.

Plans for paying tax refunds with the registered warrants were reported Tuesday by the Oakland Tribune and the Long Beach Press-Telegram, and confirmed by Controller Ken Cory's office.

Estimates of the deficit expected by the end of the fiscal year June 30 range from $1.5 billion to $2.4 billion. Gov. George Deukmejian wants to eliminate the deficit with a combination of spending cuts and internal borrowing, a plan Democratic leaders say won't work. Deukmejian has opposed any tax increases.

"If no solution is found to the fiscal crisis we're now in, taxpayers are going to have to get in line with many state employees and vendors who do business with the state and be given registered warrants," John Jervis, a spokesman for Cory, said Monday.

Cory has said some substantial agreement must be reached by the end of this month to avoid paying registered warrants to meet the state's debts by the end of February.

The warrants would pay 5 percent interest until the state redeemed them. Some state employee credit unions have said they would honor the warrants like regular paychecks, and individual banks and savings and loans could choose to do so.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., Jan. 19, 1983

But millions of Californians would have to wait until the number of their registered warrant appeared in a newspaper to indicate that the state treasury was backing it in cash.

Jervis said Tuesday the controller's office estimates it would take 15 to 25 days to redeem the warrants.

The state Franchise Tax Board said Monday that 8 million of California's 11 million taxpayers will receive state income tax refunds this year, averaging $250.

Jervis said those entitled to tax refunds before Feb. 22 or 23 would get regular state checks. The warrants would begin after that.

Hormone

BALTIMORE (AP) - A hormone that regulates sodium content in cells could be responsible for high blood pressure, a genetic disease affecting 40 million Americans, three University of Maryland scientists said Tuesday.

"Increased levels of this hormone raise the blood pressure," said John Hamlyn, a biochemist 'That's the bottom line.

Hamlyn cooperated on a study about the hormone published recently in 'Nature,'' a British science journal with Drs. Avinoam Kowarski and Mordecai Blaustein of the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

'We're dealing with a major public health problem that affects 40- to 60 million Americans. Blaustein told a news conference. "Another 40- to 60 million will develop the disease in their lifetimes and another equal number may be at risk

Some three-fourths of all strokes are caused by high blood pressure, as well as many heart attacks. congestive heart failure and related diseases he added

"It probably is the most important single high-risk factor of major disease in the Western world." Blaustein said.

Blaustein said the trio developed a test which showed an agent in the blood - believed to be the natriuretic hormone behaved as a regulator of sodium in the body

Their research also sup ports the belief that sodium or salt — in the diet also contributes to high blood pressure, they said.

The agent blocks the transport of sodium into the blood from inside cells. which has both beneficial and negative effects, the scientists said.

In the kidneys, blocking the transport of sodium enables the body to throw off excess salt in the urine But blocking the sodium transport system in other cells forces them to retain the chemical, boosting the level of the element within them, they said.

"Especially in artery muscle cells, this (sodium level increase) causes an increase in contractions which narrows the artery so it requires more pressure to push blood through." Blaustein said. "That's the high blood

He said the effects of the suspected hormone are 'most critical in the arteries. In the artery wall, it has a devastating

"We are measuring the hormone's activity," added Kowarski, "which, for the time, is the only way it's identified.'

The study evolved from Blaustein's 6-year-old hypothesis that "in individuals susceptible to high blood pressure wit' a high-sodium diet, the level of the hormone increased.

In their study, the scientists "set up a material that behaves the same as the hormone," Blaustein

West Germans will vote in national elections March 6, with nuclear weapons and rising unemployment the two hottest issues in the campaign.

Voter's are torn between the demands of the NATO defense alliance and fears of nuclear warfare on their soil. Of the 572 new U.S. missiles to be deployed in NATO countries beginning in December, 204 are slated for West Germany. In his four-day visit here, which ends today. Gromyko cautioned that the country would be caught in a heightened superpower confrontation if NATO does not cancel the deployment.

ATARI

The veteran diplomat also made the Soviet Union's first public statements on two key elements in the Kremlin's arms control stance, one of which already had been advanced in private negotiations and relayed to the Western public indirectly. Gromyko said Moscow would be willing to dismantle some of its mediumrange missiles pointed at Western Europe, and to negotiate an agreement for a mutual reduction of tactical missiles with a range of less than 600 miles.

But he set an important condition for those steps: the Western allies must cancel plans for deployment of the 572 cruise and Pershing 2 missiles.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes reaffirmed that the United States "will broceed with deployment" Washington and Moscow are unable to reach an arms control agreement before December.

Gromyko, who arrived in the West German capital Sunday, discussed disarmament at a dinner Mon-

"We have said in the (arms control) negotiations, some of the (médium-range) missiles could be destroyed, others could be transported to other parts of the Soviet Union where they could no longer reach the countries of Western Europe,' Gromyko said at the news conference.

On Monday, he said the Soviets also were willing to "quantitatively limit the tactical missiles" with a inge of less than 600

At the news conference, Gromyko said, "We would like to see West Germany .. maintain its own profile and be guided by its own considerations and interests and not listen to what is being prompted by another side if that prompting does not meet the interests of good neighborly relations between the Federal Republic and the Soviet Union.

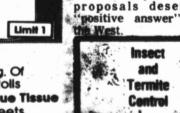

West German leaders has fifterent responses to Grony to's proposals.

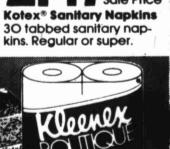

Chancellor Helmut Kohl, a conservative, repeated his., center-right coalition government's support for deployment of all 572 cruise missiles if the Soviets do not scrap all of their medium-range

NRC could limit use of Comanche Peak reactor

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Nuclea Regulatory Commission probably will limit use of the first of Comanche Peak's twin nuclear reactors to 70 percent of full power if the plant is operated before problems with steam generators are corrected, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

8-B

"We believe that there might be a problem above 70 percent," an unnamed NRC source told the newspaper.

Full-power vibrations in the generators could crack steel tubes and release radioactive water and steam, the source was quoted as saying.

Four Westinghouse steam generators at the Comanche Peak plant, located near Glen Rose, are similar to Westinghouse generators used at two plants in North Carolina and South Carolina, where the NRC had limited power generation to 50 percent of capacity. A spokeswoman for the Texas Public Utility Commission said the PUC may allow the plant's primary owner, Texas Utilities Co., to recover 100 percent of costs from customers even if the NRC limits use of the reactor.

The company has not decided whether to begin operation of its first 1,150-megawatt unit before repairs are made, according to David Chapman, a Texas Utilities spokesman.

Texas Utilities had planned to load the unit with fuel and begin test operations this year before placing the unit in service in 1984. Chapman said Tuesday that a final decision will be made after Westinghouse submits a repair proposal Feb. 1.

Ratepayers would be deprived of 30 percent of the potential power the unit was designed to deliver if use is limited to 70 percent, the source said.

By Kneel Stallings - 4-H reporter Local youths attend Odessa show

At the Odessa Steer and Lamb Show there were several exhibitors from Howard County. Taking a lamb was Dane Driver who got sixth and 32nd with his light weight fine wool lambs. Duncan Hamlin won first place with his middle weight steer. Kevin Hamlin won third with his middle weight steer. He also won 19th with his light heavyweight steer. Cole Hunt place 22nd with his heavyweight steer.

The Howard County Junior Livestock Show will be here Jan. 28 and 29. The show will begin on Jan. 28. The sale will be on Jan. 29 at 6 p.m. The livestock that will be shown are barrows, lambs, and steers. All 4-H lamb feeders are encouraged to bring their lambs out to the fairgrounds Jan. 22 at 9 a.m.

Around the County

The lambs will be sheared in preparation for the stock show. If you don't bring your lambs you will be responsible for getting your own lambs sheared. The Howard County Classics will be serving hot chocolate and coffee at the livestock show. Once again, the sale is at 6 p.m. Jan. 29. Visitors are welcome to come and watch the show and sale.

The Westsiders 4-H Club will meet Jan.

25 at 4 p.m. at the Westside Community Center.

There is going to be a Howard County food show on March 19 so you need to start getting your food projects ready.

The Countywide 4-H meeting was held last Thursday at the Fair Barns. The program presented was on how to show your lamb, barrow or steer. Demonstrations were given by Brent Nichols, Jamie Phillips and Blair Richardson, with Dennis Poole commenting on each. Also, the 4-Her's were given advice on what to wear when showing and the necessity of eye contact with the judge.

U.S. debate rages over morality of abortion

By ANN BLACKMAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The debate rages in 1983, as it has for centuries, dividing religions, friends, families. Abortion. Right or wrong?

"It's murder.... It's becoming an acceptable form of birth control today." Paul Brown, the American Life Lobby.

"It is not the moral equivilant of murder. ... It's a potential human being in the body of an adult. It's a question of human responsibility." The Rev. Fay Ellison, Bangor, Maine.

fective Sales to Long before the Supreme Court ruled 10 years ago this week that a woman's right to privacy entitles her to choose abortion, the question of when life begins, its meaning and quality, was being debated by theologians, physicians and philosophers, and by lawyers and politicians.

In the privacy of home and heart, millions of Americans each year face the agony of deciding whether to end a pregnancy.

Pro-life and pro-choice: simple labels for a complex issue that, in the end, demands a simple answer: yes or no.

Is a fetus human life? Is abortion murder?

Whose business is abortion anyway? That of the church? The federal or state government? The mother, father, estranged father, parents of a minor, boyfriend, physician?

Answers, opinions tumble over each other, frequently sparking more questions.

Should a woman abort a child she knows to be deformed? How deformed?

Should a victim of rape or incest abort?

Should a mother abort a child if her own life is in danger?

Should a couple decide against a child it doesn't want or can't afford?

For guidance and solace, many Americans turn to clergy.

Pope John Paul II restated the church's view of abortion two years ago, saying there can be "no genuine respect for human rights as long as abortion is permitted."

"The life of every person, including that of conceived and not yet born, deserves absolute and unconditional respect," the pontiff said. Yet Roman Catholics are divided on the issue. In Chicago, the National Coalition of American Nuns issued a statement last spring stating that "abortion is a matter of conscientious moral choice" and that the coalition opposed efforts of the Roman Catholic Church to curb abortions. "We continue to oppose abortion in principal and practice," said Sister Margaret Traxler, a board member of the coalition, which claims 1,800 nuns. "We are convinced the responsibility for decisions resides primarily with those directly and personally involved."

Frances Kissling, executive director of a Washington-based organization called Catholics for a Free Choice, believes abortion is an individual choice that must take into consideration such factors as a woman's health, economic situation and ability to raise a child.

"The decision to have an abortion is a moral question that must be decided by weighing a complex series of facts and factors," said Ms. Kissling, who was raised Catholic and educated in Catholic schools. "Value judgments aren't formed in a one-dimentional concept." Those who argue that quality-of-life should be an issue in abortion decisions address themselves not only to the life of the unborn but to the lives of all those associated with it, particularly the parents.

The Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights published a statement in 1977 called "A Call for Concern" that was signed by 200 American theologians and ethicists.

The National Abortion Rights Action League reports that since Reagan was elected in 1980, its membership has doubled to 150,000 and its contributions have more than doubled to make up a $4 million annual budget.

better prove to the American people the good intentions of our Japanese trading partners than dismantling Japan's trade barriers. outside the White House the two leaders described their talks as fruitful, cor-560 dial and constructive. Yet they made clear that Japan is unwilling at the moment to go beyond the market-opening steps announced by Nakasone shortly before he left Tokyo for Washington Reagan said he is pleas-"that we have made some imprint on the first steps in the area of trade" and added that the United 565 States is "encouraged" by the measures Nakasone has taken to date "to further open Japan's markets. "I'm aware of the political sensitivity in

Japan on tariff reductions on a number of products as well as the prime minister's decision to conduct a comprehensive 567
