Chagra acquitted in Wood's murder

JAMIEL CHAGRA
...gives "thumbs up"

By WALTER PUTNAM
Associated Press Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The attorney for Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra, found innocent in the slaying of a federal judge though his wife and the actual hit man were convicted earlier, says he "can't believe" that his client was acquitted.

Chagra, a 38-year-old convicted narcotics dealer and former high-stakes Las Vegas gambler, was acquitted Monday of murder in the 1979 assassination of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. He was convicted on two lesser charges.

The acquittal came although Charles V. Harrelson, whom Chagra was accused of paying $250,000 to kill Wood, already had been convicted of the crime in a separate trial in San Antonio, Texas.

Chagra's wife, Elizabeth, was found guilty at the first trial of conspiring to murder Wood and cover up the crime.

Oscar B. Goodman, Chagra's Las Vegas lawyer, said he figured the odds that Chagra would be convicted were 8-to-5.

"The fact that the jury did what it was supposed to do was incredible in light of the odds," Goodman said. "The verdict speaks more eloquently than anything I could say ... I can't believe it."

The jurors, he said, "were able to See Chagra, page 2-A

The Capitol fire mystery

Alcohol, marijuana found in victim's blood

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — An autopsy shows the man killed in a fire in the Capitol Sunday was drunk at the time of his death and had traces of marijuana in his blood, the Travis County medical examiner said.

Earlier Monday, fire officials said the cause of the blaze, which gutted the lieutenant governor's three-bedroom apartment and for a time threatened the entire statehouse, could have been either smoking materials or a faulty electrical appliance.

Gov. Mark White said he wanted answers on why heat sensors in the apartment did not signal an earlier warning, and called for an investigation into the effectiveness of the sensors.

"It seemed that that fire was almost fully out of control before there was any apparent alarm," said White. "I think it's important to make an inquiry there."

White asked lawmakers for an emergency $7 million appropriation to repair the damage.

MEDICAL EXAMINER Robert J. Bayardo said a preliminary autopsy showed the man killed in the fire, Matt Hansen, 23, a horse trainer from New Caney, died of smoke inhalation and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Hansen was an overnight guest in Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's Capitol apartment. Hobby's daughter Kate, 18, and the couple that Hansen worked for also were staying in the apartment, but escaped the blaze unhurt.

"He (Hansen) had twice the legal limit" of alcohol in his bloodstream, Bayardo said, or 0.21 percent, as well as "a little bit of marijuana."

"If he was in a place where there was a lot of (marijuana) smoke, he might have had this low level of marijuana in his blood," Bayardo said.

Assistant City Fire Marshal Malcolm Light said Monday investigators were certain the fire started in a den where Miss Hobby said Hansen had been watching television. Hansen's body was found on the floor between two beds in a bedroom behind the den.

BAYARDO SAID the alcohol level in Hansen's blood was the equivalent of having eight beers within one to two hours. Bayardo said Hansen might have drunk more over a longer period of time.

Senators met Monday — despite the fact that because of the fire there was no heat or electricity — and passed resolutions thanking firefighters and police for saving lives and the Capitol.

ELBOW COMPUTERS — Students at Elbow Elementary School show different reactions to their new computers. The new computers were installed Jan. 10 and serve 195 students at the school.

Apples for teachers

Elbow students take lessons from computers

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

There's a hum of activity in the quiet surroundings of the Elbow community these days.

You can find it by going in the Elbow Elementary School, making a left and following the hall to a room where students pay attention to the work before them as teachers scurry to and fro lending instruction.

This bustle has been caused by the new arrival of 10 new teaching aids.

The aids are Apple II computers which have rapidly gained the student's interest and the teachers' support.

Every week 195 students in grades one through five get to work on the computer's math programs. They are taught to sign on, select a math lesson, work the problems, and then sign off, leaving the computer ready for the next student. Each student has 15 minutes at the terminal.

The lessons are practically foolproof as the computer tells the student when to go on, when to repeat the lesson or when to ask for help.

When the student makes a mistake, he is simply told to "try again," and if he is correct he receives a compliment such as "good" or "super."

"These are really good programs," said Priscilla

Banks, elementary curriculum specialist at the school. "If a program is too hard for a student it moves down to his level or moves up if he's improving. It forces the students to go through the correct steps to get answers, also."

A committee of teachers and parents chose programs developed by Science Research Associates to suit the student needs at Elbow. Students go through several levels of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division and fractions on the computer.

The student's progress and a class profile are kept by teachers on computer print-outs.

Principal W.R. Cregar said the computer is used as an aid to actual classroom instruction. The student is able to make practical application of the methods he is taught in the traditional classroom, he said.

The computers went into operation on Jan. 10 and Mrs. Baker said students are working through the programs at a steady pace.

"Most all of the students are turned on by it," Mrs. Baker said. "They take to the computers right away with no problem. They just sit down and type their name in and away they go."

The school is now looking for ways to increase the program to include language arts and social studies.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Student cost

Q. What is the cost per student at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf as compared to Howard College?

A. Per student per year is $8,750 — SCWID and $3,769 — Howard, based on the 1981-1982 budget, says Mike Bruner, vice-president for fiscal affairs at the junior college district. However, since SCWID receives no maintenance funding, neither figure includes this cost, Bruner said.

Calendar: PTA meets

TODAY

• The Business and Professional Women's Club will meet at 7 p.m. in the Coronado party room.

• Kentwood PTA will hold its February meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Kentwood cafeteria. The program will be on the "Texas War on Drugs."

• Musign, a deaf dance company, will appear in Big Spring Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for children.

WEDNESDAY

• The Kentwood Center will have a covered dish luncheon at 10 a.m. All Kentwood organizations and guests are welcome.

• The Spring City Dance Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Guests welcome.

Tops on TV: "St. Elsewhere"

"The Winds of War" part 3 continues at 8 p.m. on channel 2. Pug is promoted to captain and attends a high level meeting in Berlin with Hitler. At 9 p.m. on channel 13 "St. Elsewhere" has an episode in which Dr. Armstrong tries to prove a patient has a rare disease, while Dr. Chandler continues to help an amnesiac recall his past.

Outside: Warm

Sunny and warm today with a high temperature in the upper 60s. Low tonight in the mid-30s. Winds from the southwest at 5-10 miles per hour. Tuesday's forecast calls for a high in the mid-60s with partly cloudy skies.

Odessans try to halt rock concert

ODESSA (AP) — British rock singer Ozzy Osbourne, who has bitten the heads off of bats on stage and urinated on the Alamo, probably has a constitutional right to perform here, a county attorney says.

Osbourne's concert, set for March 8 in the county coliseum, has attracted considerable opposition. A group calling itself Odessans for Decency petitioned county commissioners to halt the performance.

But Ector County Attorney Steve Groh told commissioners Monday that he thinks the county is contractually obligated to permit the show. Even if the contract is not binding, he said, constitutional free speech guarantees probably protect Osbourne.

"We, as a county government, cannot discriminate no matter how sacrilegious" a performance might be, Groh told commissioners at the packed meeting.

Counter-petitions have been circulated by the "Ozz Patrol" that advocates individual choice in concert attendance.

Groh suggested the court take advantage of clauses in the contract restricting illegal acts or obscenity on stage.

Commissioners may seek a federal judge's declaratory judgment on whether the county could bar the concert. But Groh said such a move probably would be futile because of the contract.

Building permits for January worth $18 million in construction

City building inspector Dewey Byers last month issued permits for construction worth over $1.8 million.

Permits for two new residences, four new commercial buildings and other construction amounted to over seven times the value of construction in January 1982, Byers said.

The leap in construction expenditures fits Byers' prediction last month that building in the first half of this year should match the figure for all of 1982 — $7.8 million.

The largest amount of dollars was spent on additions to commercial buildings, he said. This included an $806,000 addition at First National Bank and a $500,000 addition at Wal-Mart in the Coronado Plaza shopping center.

Other commercial building permits were issued for a $72,000 Town and Country Food Store at 1101 Lamesa Drive and a $46,000 Sid Smith Enterprises building at 403 Birdwell.

Byers also issued permits for $141,500 in residential construction. These were issued to Jack Barber for a $125,000 home at 1408 E. Fourth, Jim Haller for a $98,500 house at 802 Scott and James Belcher for a $43,000 home at 3229 Duke.

Fees for 31 building permits, sewer and water taps and other permits generated $5,964.70 for the city's general fund.

Farm Bureau honored

The week of Feb. 7 to 12 has been designated as Farm Bureau Week by Howard County Judge Milton Kirby in recognition of the 50th anniversary of the Texas Farm Bureau, according to county Farm Bureau President Paul Hopper.

The week is part of a statewide observance in which county organizations will conduct a membership drive, Hopper said.

"For the first time in its history, the TFB is now the largest state Farm Bureau in the nation," the proclamation says. The state organizations number 216, it says.

Hopper said the Farm Bureau is a general farm organization that seeks to improve the conditions of farm and ranch families. It represents the farmer in local, state and national political bodies.

Letter drive supports SWCID

Sharon Andrews, a former SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf registrar, is soliciting letters voicing support for SWCID to be sent to elected officials.

Ms. Andrews also headed a petition-signing drive in support of SWCID.

"It is easy to write an effective letter to our senators and representatives and only takes approximately 10 minutes of our time," she said, "which we feel is 10 minutes well spent."

"Letters are most important for many reasons," she said. "It gives us a voice in what happens and gives (State Rep.) Larry Don (Shaw) a tangible item to refer to and hold up when the legislation is presented. It also keeps us on his mind daily."

"We don't know what is going to happen to SWCID," she said, "but we can do everything we think of to make sure our concern and efforts do not go unnoticed."

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District, announced recently the school would have to close its doors at the end of the summer if $7 million in funds were not appropriated by the state legislature.

The Legislative Budget Board recommended only $2 million be appropriated for 1984-85 — far short of the $11 million requested by SWCID.

Rattlesnake sign-up over

Registration for snake hunters in the 1983 American Businessmens' Club (AmBucs) — Coors Rattlesnake Roundup had ended, said project chairman Kirk Kirkham.

"We've got all we can take," Kirkham said. The registration this year was limited to only 32 snake hunters, 19 or older, from Howard or the surrounding counties.

The 32 hunters will be allowed to turn in only 100 pounds of snakes apiece due to a depressed rattlesnake market this year, Kirkham said.

With the limitations on hunters and the amount of snakes each hunter can turn in, Kirkham said, producers of the roundup will be able to guarantee hunters $2.25 per pound of snakes for their catch.

Hunters will also be competing for an expanded list of prizes this year, Kirkham said. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in the categories of largest snake, snake with the most rattles and smallest snake.

The roundup, held in the Howard County Fair Barns, will get underway March 25, with weighing in of the hunters' catches.

On March 26 and 27, various displays, exhibits and demonstrations will take place.

Energy fund organized

The Salvation Army has been selected to manage the funds of Texas Electric Service Co.'s new energy aid program in Big Spring.

Energy aid is designed to help people with financial hardships pay their energy bills.

Funding will come from a donation made by Texas Electric and contributions from the company's customers and employees.

The Salvation Army will qualify recipients and act as the disbursing agent in Howard and Glasscock counties and the City of Ackerly. Residents in these areas seeking assistance should apply to the agency at 308 Aylford St. or call 267-8239.

Texas Electric customers who wish to make donations to the fund may do so when they pay their electric bills beginning February.

Donation amounts should be written in the space provided on the upper portion of the bill. This amount should be added to the amount due on one check written to the company.

Cheryl Oren, local TESCO administrative assistant, emphasized that any money donated locally by TESCO employees and customers will stay in the Big Spring area.

All funds designated for energy aid and received by the company will be turned over to the appropriate disbursing agent.

Fire

One resolution commended four police officers for their "heroic and courageous rescue" of Kate Hobby and James and Joan Waterman.

The resolution said four Capitol guards who "dashed into the blazing inferno" to save the visitors "should be placed on any roll call of true Texas heroes."

"You can add the name of the lieutenant governor in capital letters to that one (resolution)," said Hobby.

ONE POLICEMAN and two firemen injured in the fire remained hospitalized Monday. Four others had been treated and released.

"By all accounts," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, the firefighters "saved the entire building from being destroyed. They sacrificed and risked their own lives to see that this building — so symbolic of Texas — be protected."

A third resolution praised workers who "labored tirelessly amid the smoke-charred ruin and rubble" in sweeping out water and removing debris.

More than half of the 31 senators wore topcoats in the darkened chamber, where the temperature was 52 degrees.

Nine senators made plans to move from their damaged third-floor offices to a nearby state office building that opened up when the Animal Health Commission hastily vacated the 10th floor. The senators learned later they would not be able to move back into the Capitol until after the current session ends May 30.

Hansen's father, C.J. Hansen, came to Austin to claim his son's body Monday. He said Hansen aspired to join the U.S. Equestrian Team.

The son had attended a Saturday night horseman's awards ceremony with Miss Hobby and the Watermans, owners of the New Caney stable where he worked.

Hansen said his son would be buried in Tucson, Ariz., where he grew up.

Chagra

face him in the most heinous of charges and do what was right" even though Chagra is serving a 30-year racketeering sentence for narcotics trafficking.

"Thank God for Oscar Goodman," Chagra said as he left the courtroom. "I'm glad I'm in Jacksonville where there are 12 honest citizens."

Assistant U.S. Attorney John Emerson, one of the team of government prosecutors, said, "None of us has any comment."

The jury did convict Chagra of conspiracy to obstruct justice and conspiracy to possess for sale more than 1,000 pounds of marijuana, allegedly to finance an escape from federal prison.

The trial, which began Jan. 10, was moved to Jacksonville because of publicity about the Wood murder in Texas, including the convictions last Dec. 14 of Mrs. Chagra and Harrelson.

Harrelson and Chagra were the first ever to be charged with murdering a federal judge because of his official duties.

The government claimed Chagra, facing serious narcotics charges in 1979, wanted Wood removed from a west Texas narcotics case.

Meanwhile, Harrelson's lawyer, Tom Sharpe Jr., planned to meet with his client in San Antonio today to discuss efforts to have the verdict overturned.

Sharpe said he expects to file more motions on Harrelson's behalf in light of the Chagra verdict. Mrs. Chagra's lawyer also said he will ask for reconsideration of the case against her.

Chagra's brother, Joe, an attorney, has pleaded guilty to conspiracy in exchange for a 10-year sentence, and an agreement that he would not have to testify against his brother.

Wood, 63, was known as "Maximum John" because of his stiff sentences for drug dealers. Prosecutors said Chagra's fear that he would lose an opulent, drug-supported life style of gambling hundreds of thousands of dollars and lavishing a million dollars worth of jewelry on his wife led him to decide to have the judge killed.

On May 29, 1979, the day Chagra originally had been scheduled to go to trial on narcotics charges, Wood was shot in the back outside his San Antonio townhouse.

Testimony showed that Mrs. Chagra delivered a money-bulging briefcase to Harrelson's stepdaughter, Teresa Starr, less than a month later.

Goodman said from the beginning that Chagra would have been foolish to have Wood murdered on a day that would have drawn immediate suspicion to himself.

The briefcase, he claimed, contained extortion money demanded by Harrelson, a man just out of prison in 1978 for murder-for-hire who threatened to falsely implicate Chagra in Wood's death.

"There was no doubt in my own mind that we carried out justice," said jury foreman William T. Johnson, who would not elaborate on the four days of deliberations he termed "a gut-wrenching, arduous process."

U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions, who sentenced Chagra to 30 years for continuing criminal enterprise after Wood's death, tentatively set sentencing for Monday's convictions for March 8.

Probated sentences given

Two persons received probated sentences after pleading guilty in 118th District Court to separate charges of forgery and theft by check.

Terry A. Glidwell, 29, of Birmingham, Ala., received a 10-year probated sentence in connection with a forgery conviction. Billy Dean Martin, 45, of Plainview received a four-year probated sentence in connection with a theft by check conviction.

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested David C. Miller, 27, of the Whip-in Campground for suspicion of theft under $5. Miller was released under $200 bond after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Jury selection eyed in oil field injury suit

A Howard County jury is expected to be picked Wednesday in the $93,000 oil field injury suit brought by an Odessa man in 118th District Court.

Glenn Golden is suing Robinson Drilling Co. of Texas for injuries he says he suffered Dec. 7, 1977 at a Sterling County oil field. Golden, who was working for Red's Casing Crew at the time of the incident, states in the suit he was injured as a result of the company's negligence.

The suit asks for $70,000 for injuries, $21,000 for loss of earnings and $2,000 for expenses. Golden is represented by John Hoestenbach of Odessa. Perry Davis Jr. of Odessa is representing Robinson Drilling.

A eight-woman, four-man Howard County jury is expected to complete deliberations today in the workers compensation case of Johnnie L. Cameron versus American Home Assurance Co.

Marathon nets $9,000

The Immaculate Heart of Mary School's marathon walk Sunday garnered an estimated $9,000 in pledges with 124 persons participating in the event, according to Sister Lucy of the school.

The oldest walker to complete the course was 74-year-old Gladys Cockran, and the youngest finisher was Lori Light, a 6-year-old kindergarten student at Immaculate Heart.

The fastest time for the 11-mile course came from John Deleon who finished in one hour and two minutes. Carlos Rodriguez had the most pledges with 110, and Sister Lucy collected the most money in pledges with about $2,000.

Deadline for walkers to submit their pledge sheets and money into the school is Feb. 15. Final totals will be released at that time.

Weather

Texans enjoying spring-like weather

By The Associated Press

A warming trend was expected to continue across all of Texas today with highs to reach into the 50s and 60s over most of the state.

Skies were to be partly cloudy statewide except for some early morning and evening clouds and fog in South Texas.

The warming trend is expected to continue through Wednesday. Highs were to range from the 40s in the Panhandle to the lower 70s in extreme South Texas. Readings were to reach into the 60s in north, east and southern sections of the state.

Low clouds and fog covered deep southern areas of the state and South Central Texas early today. Skies were mostly clear over the rest of the state.

Early morning temperatures were considerably warmer than Monday's readings. Temperatures were in the 30s and 40s over the northern half of the state and in the 40s and 50s over the southern half. Extremes ranged from 30 at Amarillo to 63 at Brownsville. The 30-degree reading at Amarillo compared with a 10-degree reading before dawn Monday.

HEAVY SNOW and high winds barreled into the Northeast, leaving at least a foot of snow at Brunswick, Maine, 14 inches on the Green Mountains of Vermont and 17 inches at Mount Snow.

The snow spread across the central Appalachians as far west as the lower Great Lakes.

Gusty winds also ushered in a winter storm on the West Coast, driving heavy rains against Oregon and California. Rain and snow also spread across Nevada.

Snow was forecast for later today from northern New York state to Maine, but ending over western New York, western Pennsylvania and western Massachusetts.

Israeli defense minister urged to resign

Massacre inquiry blames Sharon

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM — A special inquiry commission, in a report that could shatter Israel's leadership, today found Defense Minister Ariel Sharon personally responsible for the Beirut refugee camp massacre and called on him to resign.

The panel said Israeli leaders should have foreseen that allowing Lebanese militiamen into the camps might result in needless bloodshed.

It rebuked Prime Minister Menachem Begin for what it called his "indifference" during last September's slaughter of hundreds of Palestinian refugees by Lebanese Christian militiamen. But the commission, composed of two Supreme Court justices and a retired general, recommended no action against the prime minister.

The panel accused Sharon of "blunders" and said it found "the minister of defense bears personal responsibility. In our opinion it is fitting that the minister of defense draw the appropriate personal conclusions ..."

Begin called a Cabinet meeting for this morning, but it was then postponed until 3 p.m. (8 a.m. EST). Israel radio said Sharon was refusing to accept the commission's findings and resign.

The panel said that if Sharon refused to step down Begin should fire him. But the state radio reported Begin met privately with Sharon and told him he would not dismiss him. It was not known Yehoshua Saguy, and harshly chastised Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Brig. Gen. Amos Yaron, the Israeli commander in Beirut during the massacre.

An official Lebanese investigation to find the killers of the refugees has made little headway.

The Israeli commission's report, which is not legally binding but will have great moral weight, comes at a time when the Begin government is under increasing U.S. pressure to conclude negotiations for the withdrawal of its forces from Lebanon and to make new concessions in the search for an overall Arab-Israeli peace.

After Begin summoned his Cabinet for an 11 a.m. meeting to consider the report and its recommendations, it was then postponed for four hours.

Israel radio said the 54-year-old Sharon, a popular ex-general and hero of the 1973 Yom Kippur War, had already been offered an alternate post as minister in charge of the occupied West Bank, but was refusing to accept the commission's recommendations and resign.

The state radio said the National Religious Party, which is senior partner in Begin's ruling coalition, and the Liberal wing of Begin's own Likud Bloc were insisting Sharon be relieved of the Defense portfolio.

The ultra-orthodox Agudat Israel and right-wing Tehiya factions in the coalition wanted him to stay on, the radio said.

whether he asked Sharon to voluntarily resign.

The radio reported a furious debate within Begin's multi-party coalition over Sharon, architect of Israel's June 6 Lebanon invasion.

The commission findings raise the possibility that the entire Begin Cabinet will resign and set an early election. In the past, Begin aides have said the prime minister would step down if any senior Israeli official were blamed in the massacre, but there was no immediate indication whether he stood by this position.

The report also called for the dismissal of Israel's military intelligence chief, Maj. Gen.

SHARON BLAMED — The commission probing Israel's role in the Beirut massacre said Tuesday that Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, top right, bore responsibility and should resign. Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, top left, was also criticized. Two of the generals involved were Maj. Gen. Amos Yaron, lower left, commander of the Israeli forces in Lebanon, and Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan.

Armed guards called

Strife splits environmental agency

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency was split into warring camps Monday, with guards carrying billy clubs standing outside the offices of assistant administrator Rita M. Lavelle. Ms. Lavelle appealed to the White House to save her job, while two of her top aides were fired.

EPA Chief Anne Gorsuch, who began the brouhaha at the agency Friday by demanding Ms. Lavelle's resignation, ordered the woman's offices guarded.

Agency officials would give no reason for the guards, but sources on Capitol Hill said the officers were posted to keep Ms. Lavelle and her aides from removing documents.

Two of Ms. Lavelle's aides — Warren Wood, her chief of staff, and Susan Baldyga, a special assistant — were given their dismissal notices Monday.

Aides to Ms. Lavelle, who headed the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response, said she had not resigned — as had been announced — and was appealing her dismissal to the White House, where presidential counsel Edwin Meese III is a longtime friend.

ing her dismissal to the White House, where presidential counsel Edwin Meese III is a longtime friend.

EPA spokesman Rusty Brashear said the agency was standing by a press release issued Friday in which Ms. Lavelle was quoted as saying she was resigning because she was "ready to get back to California."

Neither Ms. Lavelle nor Mrs. Gorsuch returned phone calls asking for comment.

But congressional and EPA sources, who would talk only on condition that they not be named, gave this account:

Ms. Lavelle was summoned to Mrs. Gorsuch's office late Friday afternoon and reprimanded for a memo questioning the competence of EPA General Counsel Robert Perry.

Mrs. Gorsuch asked for Ms. Lavelle's resignation and then presented her with a press release announcing the resignation, complete with quotes attributed to Ms. Lavelle.

Ms. Lavelle returned to her office where she summoned top aides and tearfully told them she was being fired. However, the aides urged her to stay and fight, contending that as a presidential appointee she could only be fired by the president.

Ms. Lavelle has strong ties to the White House, dating back to President Reagan's tenure as governor of California. She worked on his personal staff or a time and became a close associate of Meese, who attended her swearing-in last April.

Sources said Ms. Lavelle had scheduled a meeting at the White House this week to discuss her future.

Ms. Lavelle had been under investigation by a congressional subcommittee on charges of lying to the subcommittee about efforts to fire an EPA whistleblower.

However, sources said Mrs. Gorsuch was particularly upset about a memo Ms. Lavelle had prepared but not sent which criticized Perry for his enforcement efforts against the business community.

Ms. Lavelle was in charge of the Superfund effort, which is collecting $1.6 billion to spend on clean-up efforts at the country's worst hazardous waste dumps.

State committee approves temporary mental commitments

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — After making a few "housekeeping" changes, a Texas House committee Monday unanimously approved a bill to allow authorities to resume making temporary commitments to mental hospitals.

The bill will go to the full House for approval and then back to the Senate for expected final passage.

A provision in the Texas Mental Health Code allowing people to be detained in a mental hospital for two weeks without a hearing was thrown out recently by a federal district court judge who said the law denied people "due process." His order is effective Feb. 28. On that date, if a new law is not enacted, county judges could not order protective custody of dangerous, mentally ill persons.

The bill, authored by Sens. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, is designed to take solve the problem cited by allowing a person to challenge his detention within 72 hours. It gives the patient a right to a hearing, an attorney and requires proper notification of protective custody orders.

Although the Senate already has passed a version of the bill, the House Judiciary Committee made several clean-up changes to that legislation. One change would guarantee that the hospital will be notified of the results of a probable cause hearing and release the patient if no notice is received.

In the notice for probable cause hearing, the wording referring to the patient was changed from "dangerous" to "presents a substantial risk of serious harm to self or others," matching the language used in other parts of the bill.

Farabee recommended these changes to the committee, said committee chairman Bob Bush, D-Sherman.

The legislation would expire this summer and is expected to be replaced by proposed massive revisions to the Texas Mental Health Code.

Is your heating/cooling system gobbling up too much money?

If electric bills are taking too big a bite out of your budget, consider equipment with a higher energy-efficiency rating. The higher the rating, the less electricity it takes to heat and cool your home. And using less electricity will help hold down your bill.

High-efficiency equipment costs more, but when the equipment qualifies, Texas Electric will give you a bonus check to help pay the difference. So if you're planning to install a room unit, or replace central air conditioning or a year-round heat pump, ask your dealer about equipment that qualifies for a bonus check from Texas Electric.

And put money back in your pocket.

Using cows to prove a point

For the harried economics student, here are some easy-to-remember definitions of the common forms of government:

"Under Socialism a farmer who has two cows gives one to his neighbor.

"Under Communism the government takes both and gives the farmer the milk.

"Under Fascism the government takes both and sells the farmer the milk.

"Under Nazism the government takes both and shoots the farmer.

"Under New Dealism the government takes both, shoots one, milks the other and throws away the milk.

"Under Capitalism the farmer sells one and buys a bull."

On Path to Power

"Not quite cricket."

That's how a British writer summed up his feelings about the unfairness of "The Years of Lyndon Johnson: The Path to Power."

It seems really funny to use such an English phrase when talking about Robert A. Caro's mammoth (870 pages) biography/gossip novel — a book that is much more about Texas' journey into importance in national affairs.

I've never been a big reader of political biographies, and I never thought I'd get through this one. But from the beginning it was fascinating. Whatever you may think of Caro's abilities and motives as a biographer (he won the 1975 Pulitzer Prize for his book about New York builder Robert Moses) you can't fault his writing skill. He could make Exxon's year-end financial statement mesmerizing.

him," Caro is supposed to have said of his subject, which I guess means he ended up hating him. That's what the reader ends up doing; or he ends up hating Robert A. Caro.

Johnson does not make a pretty portrait. According to this book, he's wildly driven toward one goal and one goal only: the Presidency. He's a user both of political allies (House Speaker Sam Rayburn is presented as a saint destroyed by LBJ) and of friends.

He is presented as a man with a big ego. In today's psychology that means he has a very small ego, a very small self-image. This, it seems, would make him a very bad choice as leader of the free world.

When the book was published in part in "Atlantic," there was a section about Johnson receiving large sums of money in plain envelopes. Caro got so much heat for writing this that he dropped it from the first volume. He says it will crop up again.

I read this book in a little over a week. I did so because the book is almost like entertainment. It is so full of emotion and deceit that it really is hard to put down. That makes it a great bestseller — almost like a TV mini-series or soap opera. But does that make it good history?

It's too early to tell, just like it's too early to tell what place Johnson will hold in history.

It's probably too early to write the definitive biography of the man, especially when members of his family are alive.

But this is a monumental endeavor. Sort of like Johnson's drive that led him to the White House. Robert Caro will be a good subject for a biographer some day.

"The Years of Lyndon Johnson: The Path to Power" is published by Alfred A. Knopf Co.

A LOT has been written about this book, because it is much more than a basic biographical work. "The Path to Power" is the first volume of three. We're talking about some 2,600 pages on one guy.

Biographies and histories of that size usually don't come until several generations have passed between the writer and the subject. But Caro is in his late thirties, which means he was likely politically aware during Johnson's term as president.

Since Johnson died within the last 12 years, Caro was able to interview many of his contemporaries. That adds to the detail of the book, but it also lends some emotional power to the interviews and recollections that you don't get by relying on documents and other biographies.

13-year-old wants to pray

Dear Editor,

I am writing to point out an issue in the controversy over prayer in schools which is often overlooked.

Judges over the nation have banned prayer in schools because they believe that it is detrimental to the child to place him in dependence upon a God whom they believe doesn't exist. Have they ever thought of asking the child what he thinks?

As a 13-year-old boy in eighth grade, I can't really see how prayer could hurt us. In fact, I think it would help us.

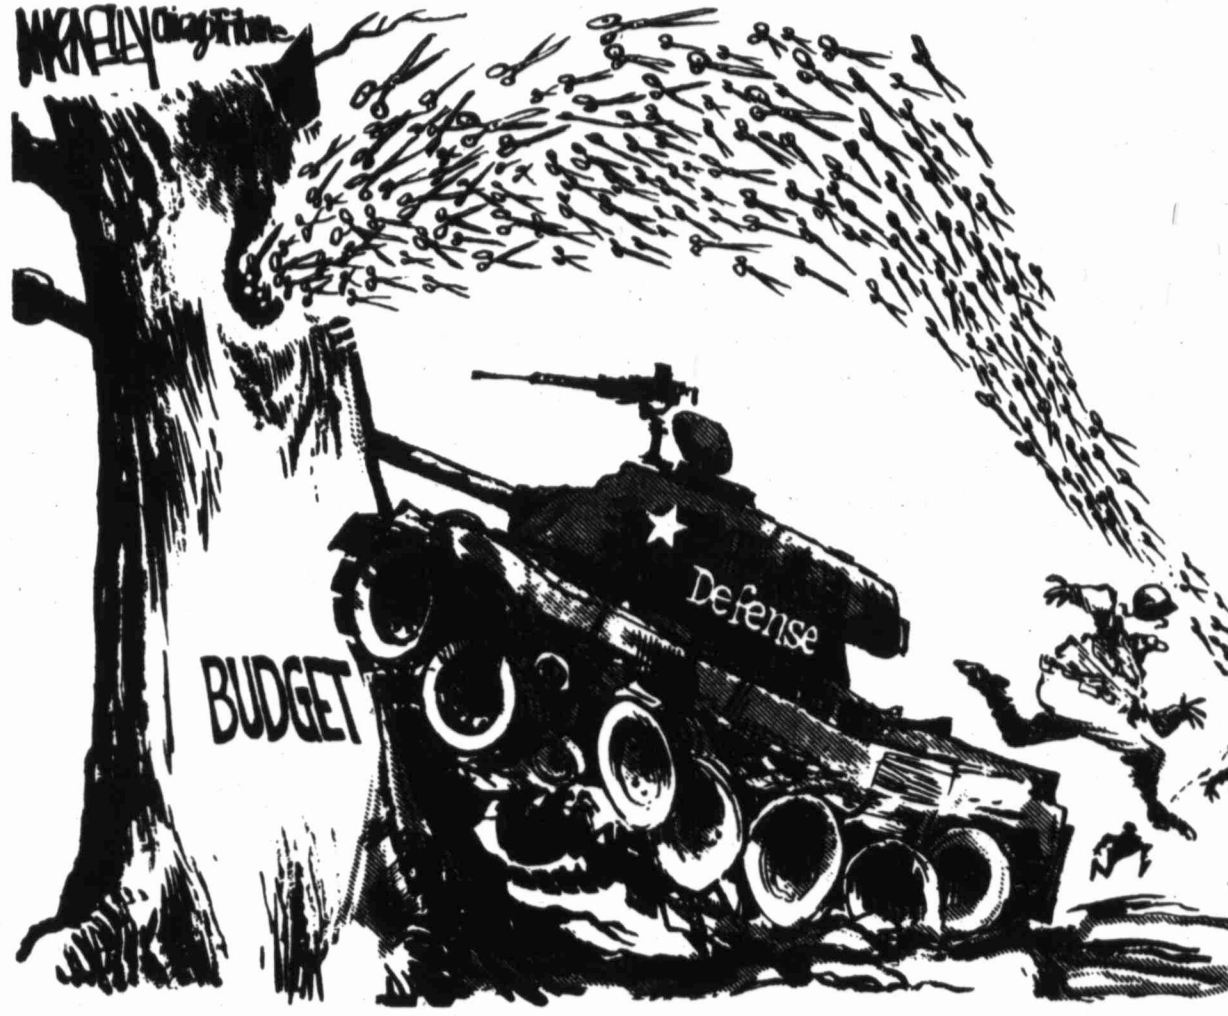

If a nation was founded upon prayer. Why is she departing it now? With the exit of prayer in schools has come a drastic lowering of the standards of education. Kids are graduating now that are hardly able to read or write. The lack of education is hurting us more than being dependent on a God who (supposedly) isn't there.

The judges' ruling against prayer in schools thought that it would discriminate against those that did not believe in prayer. They seem to be more concerned about a neutral attitude toward religion in schools than the well-being of students. This "neutral" attitude is in fact destroying religion by producing kids that do not believe in God.

Our great nation was founded upon God, and unless something is done about the sorry state of our schools, America will crumble. She will not fall because of a nuclear war or military pressure. She will fall because of the increasing immorality and corruption of the kids growing up in schools that teach them there is no God.

I think that judges need to take a close second look at what they've done by banning prayer. Instead of helping us, they are in fact adding to our destruction. The return of prayer in schools would be one step forward in reforming our school system and eventually setting America on her feet again.

Yours truly,
DAVID SPRINKLE

A good news story

WASHINGTON — Larry Speaks, as all presidential press secretaries seem to do when their boss is in trouble, took out after the press the other day. In a speech he complained about coverage of the bad economic news by the media, as opposed to the good news.

When inflation was at 13 percent, he complained, the media reported it. Now that it is 3 percent (that's Larry's figure, not mine) the press has ignored the fact that the Reagan administration licked the country's number one problem.

Speaks also questioned the public opinion polls that indicated the American people considered unemployment the present No. 1 problem.

"And why not?" he asked his audience. "Every night we have seen the unemployed line up and march across the television screen, and I certainly would not make light of the people who are unemployed... But why is it that 10.8 percent is news, but 89.2 percent of Americans who are employed and enjoy the highest standard of living is not?"

Larry posed a good question. Why aren't the news programs covering the employed people instead of the unemployed? And how would they handle it, if they did?

"This is Tom Brokaw in New York. The big news tonight is that 89.2 percent of all Americans who want jobs have them. Irving R. Levine reports on the plight of one of these men in Scarsdale, New York."

"This is Irving R. Levine and I'm standing here with Frank Davis, broker for E.F. Hutton, who is one of the millions of people now employed in the United States. This is the Reagan administration, Davis is just another statistic. But in human terms, he and his family tell the real story of what is going on in America today.

"Frank, this is a lovely house you have."

"Yup. It's worth $250,000. But since I'm working, I'm not about to sell it."

"How much do you make a year?"

"With bonuses about $100,000."

"Then you don't have to depend on food stamps, unemployment insurance or use up your savings to keep going?"

"Certainly not. We eat very well, and we have enough money left over to own a boat, and send our kids to private schools, and go out to a good restaurant when it moves us. If the stock market keeps up the way it is, we might buy a second home in East Hampton."

"Does being employed make you feel any different than being unemployed?"

"Very much so. It makes me feel good. I like to work, and I enjoy being paid for it, and I'm not mad at anybody."

"How does your wife feel about you being employed?"

"She thinks it's just great. She's very supportive, as are the children, that I'm making it during the recession. I don't know what I'd do without them."

"But don't you get discouraged sometimes and say to yourself, 'I'm sick and tired of working, and I'm going to throw in the towel'?"

"I imagine the thought has occurred to me. But my wife and I like nice things, and if I threw in the towel, we couldn't afford them. We're going on a ski trip next week to Vail."

"Then you're not angry at President Reagan because you have a job?"

"Why should I be mad at Reagan? He's not to blame because I'm making a good living."

(Cut to Irving R. Levine standing beside the Davis swimming pool, alone.)

"Frank Davis is an example of one of the 89.2 percent of the American working class, blessed with all the things this country has to offer. Unlike the 10.9 percent who are unemployed, he believes in tax cuts, military aid to foreign governments and an increase in defense spending. He may not represent all the employed people in this country, but his story is worth telling because it gives a true picture of what is really going on in the country today.

"Tomorrow we'll talk to another employed person who is doing very well as a golf pro in Palm Springs, California. This is Irving R. Levine in Scarsdale, New York."

Billy Graham

Cults are for the birds

Dear Dr. Graham: Not long ago two people came to our door to talk to us about their religious beliefs. They almost talked us into joining their church, but how can I know their beliefs are true? — Mrs. J.L.

Dear Mrs. J.L.: There are several cults that specialize in this type of approach, and I think you should be very cautious about being convinced by what they say. (There are also, of course, churches in your community which may seek to make contact with people in this way, and whose beliefs are in line with the historic Christian faith.)

There is only one ultimate guideline for religious truth, and that is God's Word, the Bible. The problem, however, is that you may not know what the Bible teaches, and groups like this (if these people are from one of the cults with which I am familiar) often claim to believe the Bible and act as if they knew its teachings thoroughly.

Let me give three key questions that will usually spotlight a group whose teachings are not Biblical. First, what do they think of the Bible? Very often non-Christian sects will claim to believe the Bible, but they also emphasize the writings of someone else as well, such as their founder. Or they may have their own translation of the Bible which they claim is more accurate — although it is not recognized by any other group of recognized Bible scholars. The Bible, and the Bible alone, is God's Word, and no additional so-called "Scripture" is necessary to understand it or add to it. It is God's complete and final revelation of himself to us.

Then what do they think of Christ? This is ultimately the real issue both for them and for each one of us. Do they see him as a great religious teacher only, or somehow divine but not fully God? The Bible stresses repeatedly that Jesus Christ is God himself, come down from Heaven in human form. Our cry should be that of Thomas after he saw Christ after the resurrection: "My Lord and my God!" (John 20:28).

Finally, what do they teach about salvation? Salvation comes to us as a gift of God's grace through faith in Christ. It is never through Christ and anything else — it is Christ alone who saves us. And that is what you can discover for yourself. You apparently have never thought much about your own spiritual needs but now is the time for you to turn to Christ.

USSR accused of slave labor

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is about to release an official report which will indict the Soviet Union for widespread use of slave labor.

The report is the result of months of study by experts from the White House, the CIA, the Pentagon and the State and Labor Departments. Their findings will come as no surprise to anyone who has plowed through Alexander Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago," but their report will give the U.S. government's imprimatur to disclosures of political and religious persecution throughout Soviet society.

The study was made in response to an inquiry by Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo. He wanted to know if forced labor was being used to build the natural gas pipeline from Siberia to Western Europe.

As it happened, the intelligence on that specific project was scant, and the experts disagreed over exactly what constituted work on the pipeline, sources told my associate Lucette Lagnado. So the interagency group decided to expand its study to include all Soviet slave labor and put the whole issue on the record.

The experts estimate that there are about four million slave laborers in the workers' paradise, a huge drop from the 20 million historians figure were enslaved by Stalin. Although superficial changes have been made in the past 30 years, forced labor is still an important factor in the Soviet economy, and it is still used as a weapon against political and religious dissidents.

The report illustrates the lawyerly techniques used by the authorities to deny civil rights supposedly guaranteed to all Soviet citizens. Free speech, for example, is obliterated by a law making it a crime to "libel" the Soviet system — a blanket term that includes any form of outspoken dissent.

A PARTICULARLY useful Catch-22 is the charge of "parasitism," which is used when a dissident is prevented by the authorities from holding a job and then arrested for not working.

The interagency report documents individual cases of Soviet dissenters railroaded into the labor camps on questionable grounds. Here are a few cited in the report:

— Ilya Zviagin was charged with disseminating two documents that allegedly libeled the Soviet system. He was convicted and sentenced to two years' forced labor — even though the documents in question weren't presented as evidence in court.

— Herbert Murd, an Estonian

Methodist, was convicted for doing church work among young people. He was released after a year at forced labor, but was soon rearrested for failure to pay alimony — a failure that was due directly to his inability to hold a job because the authorities repeatedly had him fired. He was eventually convicted of "parasitism."

— Georgiy Mikhailov was an amateur art collector sentenced to four years for engaging in a prohibited occupation. He was accused of selling art slides to friends, but his real "crime" was patronizing artists the authorities disapproved of. He was convicted even though the prosecution's expert witness refused to testify that Mikhailov had engaged in prohibited activity.

— Ida Nudel, who was both vociferous and persistent in her criticism of the authorities, recently completed a four-year sentence in Siberia. But she is forbidden to return to her home in Moscow, and is forced to wander around the country looking for places to live — a fate that has befallen other political dissidents who manage to survive their stay in the gulag.

— Alexander Paritskiy was an oceanologist sentenced to three years' forced labor on charges of "slandering politics." His real offense was trying to emigrate to Israel.

UNDER THE DOME: It's not unheard of for members of Congress to author a book, with or without professional help. But few lawmakers have the virtuosity of Sen. William Cohen, R-Me. In 1978 he published a book of poetry, "Of Sons and Seasons," which sold 10,000 copies and went into a second printing. His 1981 book, "Roll Call," was an anecdotal account of his freshman year in the Senate. His latest book, "How to Get the Most out of Washington," draws on the experience of nine other senators as well as his own. A one-time college basketball star, Cohen continues to write both prose and poetry. His staff says he writes as a way to relax.

— It was pretty obvious that the Democratic ovation which greeted President Reagan's remark in the State of the Union address — "We who are in government must take the lead in restoring the economy" — was far from spontaneous. But it wasn't realized how well orchestrated it was. House Majority Whip Thomas Foley, D-Wash., spotted the opportunity for embarrassment in his advance copy of the speech and quickly spread the word. With many a chortle, Democratic members scurried around the floor passing along the message to clap.

'Native Texans' standing up for their rights

By JAY JORDEN
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS — So you've arrived in the Sunbelt, your worldly possessions stuffed inside a station wagon and lashed onto the top luggage rack, hoping to land a job to replace the one you lost back East.

Well, don't hope for much sympathy from Native Texans. They're mad as hell — riled about the steady influx of migrants into the Lone Star State that threaten to take away their dwindling supply of jobs, housing and other opportunities.

They're fed up with seeing out-of-state license plates and having to decipher foreign accents. And they're tired of hearing about homesick out-of-staters ganging up to form New York social clubs. One in particular, they say, has an appropriate name: "Damn Yankees."

A native Texan gets the feeling these days in Dallas and other of the Lone Star State's larger cities that he's not in Texas any more. "I Love New York" stickers abound everywhere.

The native Texan's answer: "Love New York? Take Interstate 30 east."

But, unlike the popular image, Texans do not always say what they're thinking.

Now's there is an organization to speak for them.

"We feel like Texas is not getting equal representation, that we are not standing up for ourselves," said Kenneth Kemp of Dallas, a co-founder of the Native Texan Association. "Being from Texas is something to be proud of."

Every week, about 2,000 out-of-state residents arrive in Dallas and Houston searching for a new job and a new start, according to Texas Employment Commission estimates.

TEC officials say out-of-state job applicants have reduced the number of jobs available to Texans in their own state and contributed to unemployment here. Former Gov. Bill Clements once boasted that Texas was recession proof.

"We've had so many immigrants from the east down here, Texans were just sort of mesmerized by all of it," Kemp said. "We feel like that in starting this club, we have ruffled some feathers and that is good."

His partner, Paul Calvert of Dallas, agreed.

"In the opinion of people from other states, we're allowing them to come in and take what we have to offer," Calvert, 28, said. "And we have been acting fat, dumb and happy about it."

But more than 1,000 native Texans have signed up in the newly formed club to change that.

"We are saying that if you are from Texas, your basic Texan is an easy-going individual who has more patience than the average person, and yet at the same time, they are the last persons you want to have on your back," said Kemp, 28. "We are trying to get these people to stand up."

"Not that we are saying, all right, go outside and meet these Yankees in the streets. But we do notice this much: that if you are from Pittsburgh or New York, you don't seem to have a problem telling other people what you think."

So native Texans have taken some stands, made some demands. They say out-of-staters need to carry their own weight in their new home.

"We feel like we would like to have a voice and say to some of these people, that if you are driving down the freeway in a car with New Jersey plates and taking up a space, then go to the trouble of paying your fair share of state taxes and get Texas plates on your car," said Kemp, a consultant.

And not many born-and-bred Texans would have approved of rock star Ozzie Osbourne's urinating on the Alamo last year.

"He should have been run out on a rail," one native Texan said.

Living in Texas demands loyalty to the state.

"Texas is more than a state of mind," said Calvert, a commercial artist. "If you come from somewhere else to live here, come live with us, not against us. We don't appreciate our state being run down."

But native Texans are not totally without heart. Kemp and Calvert are working to establish a halfway house for homeless out-of-staters. The association has entered into negotiations with a real estate investor for a vacant schoolhouse that could serve as shelter for homeless families in a gesture of Texas hospitality. "This would be for all of the people who have been living in roadside parks and makeshift tent cities," said Kemp.

Hester-Robertson can help cut energy costs

Home energy costs are going up fast and it looks as though consumers can expect them to go up higher in the coming months. Hester-Robertson mechanical contractors on N. Birdwell Lane has the equipment necessary and the programs designed to help consumers beat the spiraling costs.

Hester-Robertson offers new energy-saving units such as Carrier, General Electric, Lennox, and Singer. The newer the model, the more fuel efficient and cheaper to operate the unit is.

As an added incentive to use more efficient energy systems, Hester-Robertson wants to remind consumers of the TESCO rebate program now being offered. If you replace your existing unit or heat pump with a high efficiency system with an 8.5 Seasonable Efficiency

Rating (8.0 for heat pumps), TESCO will give you a rebate on some of the costs.

Hester-Robertson services all the equipment they sell. They can price any work they may do. And since it is wintertime it may be the time for you to install a new system or let Hester-Robertson update the system you have.

The friendly staff at Hester-Robertson will be glad to answer any questions you may have. They invite you to come by and pick up one of the free brochures they offer. It will give you all the information you need about the new energy saving systems.

Now is the time to call Hester-Robertson for estimates for spring changeouts and winter heating estimates. Their phone number is 263-8342.

Dr. Donohue

Fatigue

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 17-year-old female. I am always very tired and I am starting to get worried. I have been getting up at 7 a.m., and by 2 p.m. I am falling asleep at school. When I come home from school I feel like I'm going to drop. So I sleep from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Then after supper, I do my homework. I'm usually sleeping by 8:30 p.m. If I stay up later I'm really tired the next day. If I don't take my afternoon nap I fall asleep right after supper (6 p.m.). I usually wake up around 7:30 p.m. and then go to bed at 9 p.m. I always have headaches from being too tired, I guess. What is wrong with me? I know I should see a doctor, but I am scared my parents will know. — W.I.

You're right. You really should see a doctor. But you're wrong. Your parents should know. Why don't you want them to know? I can't tell you what's wrong, but I can tell you it is not normal to be as fatigued as you are.

The reason I can't be more helpful is that fatigue is a common element of so many illnesses. But the picture you paint of your sleep habits points in the direction of some illness — whether physical or psychological, I don't know. I can't even begin to give you a list. But examples of illnesses that might be suspected from the things you tell me are anemia and low thyroid gland function. Both can be readily treated.

That's just scratching the surface. It won't do us any good to go on naming illness after illness. You've got to get to a doctor who can examine you and order proper tests. If for any reason you feel you can't get the help you need from your parents, talk to your school nurse.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 62 years old and my wife is 45. I had a prostate gland operation about six months ago and now our sexual relations are zero. Is there any hope that those days of sexual relations will come back? — M.S.

In the most common kinds of prostate surgery (transurethral resection) there is no threat to potency. In that, the only change is that the seminal fluid travels into the urinary bladder during intercourse. But potency is maintained.

There is a form of prostate surgery where potency is affected. It is called perineal prostatectomy, and it is not often done. In that the gland is reached by the perineal route, just under the scrotum. In this radical surgery nerves to the genital organs must be cut, and potency is affected.

What was the name of your operation? Your doctor will be able to answer these questions for you. Prostate problems are discussed in the booklet "The Pesky Prostate," which other readers may obtain by writing me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

FOR G.B. — Turner's syndrome is a disorder that develops from an error that occurred during fertilization. The gender chromosome was missing, or partly so. The woman looks like a female, but ovaries are only streaks of tissue and devoid of eggs. The female does not menstruate and remains undeveloped unless female hormones are given.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works For You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland. To get a copy enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210 Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Fake number is trouble

DEAR ABBY: "Disgusted With Egomaniacs" wrote to say that she always gave a phony name or telephone number to strange men who came on too strong.

Thanks, Abby, for saying, "What's wrong with looking them straight in the eye and saying, 'No, you may not have my name or phone number because I really don't care to see you again?'"

I wonder if it ever occurs to the person who gives a phony number that the "phony number may actually be someone's real number?"

I have had to change my phone number because apparently some woman had given it out as her own. For weeks I was pestered by the same man at all hours of the day and night. He even called me from another state collect! I refused the call while he kept trying to convince the operator that I was the party he wanted. (This was at 6 a.m. on a Sunday morning!)

Changing numbers is an expensive procedure. It's also time-consuming and a nuisance. So, Miss Van Buren, please inform people who make up phony numbers that they may be giving someone the right to harass an innocent party.

PESTERED IN L.A.

DEAR PESTERED: Read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Disgusted With Egomaniacs" was totally wrong. When a man is told that he may not have a woman's phone number because she doesn't care to see him again, it only adds to the challenge and heightens his interest. And since most of these contests take place in a drinking atmosphere, the scene can get ugly.

Before I grew up, in my tomcatting days, after one such joust with a woman, I finally talked her into giving me her number and felt that I had scored a victory.

When I tried to call her the next day, I got a recorded message informing me of the weekly bus schedule!

Do you think she was trying to tell me something?

BENCHED IN FLAGSTAFF

DEAR BENCHED: Yes. "Hit the road, wise guy!"

Safe product storage and use can prevent poisoning

"Poison Perils" was the topic of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club program during its meeting Thursday.

Mrs. Zula Rhodes, speaker, said all households contain potential poisons in the form of common medicines, cleaning agents and other products.

Poisonous substances enter the body by ingestion, inhalation, injection and absorption. Safe use and storage of products and medicines and the avoidance of potentially harmful plants can help prevent accidental poisonings.

According to Mrs. Rhodes, more than 500,000 children are poisoned each year by common household products, including furniture polish, cleaners, aspirin and pesticides. Ingestion or swallowing is probably the most common way of poisoning, especially with children.

Inhalation is breathing of toxic agents such as gas, fumes, smoke, some glues or cleaning agents. Injection involves direct entrance of the poison into the bloodstream, such as, snake, spider or insect bite. Absorption occurs when the poison passes through the skin into the system, such as contact with pesticide sprays or poison ivy.

Mrs. Rhodes recommends keeping all household products and medicine out of reach of children, locked up and in their original containers. Never store products in cups or soft drink bottles, she says. Read labels completely before using, and never take medicines in the dark.

She said to avoid taking medicine in front of children and also referring to medicine as candy when giving it to a child.

All poisons are not treated the same. If someone is poisoned, she said to call the Poison Control Center Hot Line at (713) 765-1420.

Mrs. Wanda Lee also spoke about energy at the meeting. She said the largest energy user in the home is heating. Heating consumes 29 percent of the electric bill, followed by air conditioning. Air conditioning consumes 18 percent, water heater is 17 percent, refrigeration and lighting are eight percent each, laundry and cooking are five percent each, television uses three percent, and all other miscellaneous appliances combined use seven percent.

The club meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Fowler. Members will furnish 12 dozen cookies to Big Spring State Hospital in April and September.

Members learned that club soda works well for removing grease from double knit fabrics.

The next meeting will be Feb. 17 in Mrs. Ross Hill's home.

Lady Steers bomb CHS

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring Lady Steers took an 18-10 first quarter lead against the Cooper Cougars last night and never looked back in a 53-46 win on the road. "We started out pretty well, but we let one girl score 10 points in the first quarter," said BSHS coach Annette Fowler. The Lady Steers played player-to-player defense until the third quarter.

"Then in the third, I put them back in to a zone," said Fowler. "I thought it was our better defense — they tied the game."

Cooper went into the fourth quarter tied at 40-40.

"Then I put them back in player-to-player and we only allowed six points the fourth quarter," said Fowler. "We've been working on player-to-player, and I thought it worked really well."

Although Fowler said the win was a "good team effort," Big Spring was led by forward Shell Rutledge with 24. Monette Wise added 10 for the Lady Steers.

"I hope it gets us ready for (Midland) Lee," said Fowler. The Lady Steers are still in the running for the runner-up spot in district, but must beat Lee Thursday night in Steer Gym to keep their hopes alive.

"We haven't been beaten by any team in district twice," said Fowler. "I hope we keep that up."

Thursday night's game begins at 8 p.m.

The Lady Steer Junior Varsity under coach Elaine Stone dropped a 47-57 game to the Cougar's Junior Varsity.

"It was a close game until the fourth quarter," said Stone. "In the fourth we were just running out of gas. We had a lot of errors which turned into turnover. That really hurt us. It was probably the most turnovers we had in a game."

The Lady Steers JVs play their last game of the year against Midland Lee in Steer Gym Thursday at 6:15 p.m.

SPC levels Hawks

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

South Plains College took a two-point halftime lead and turned it into a 102-84 win over the struggling Howard College Hawks last night.

"We played well in spurts," said HC assistant coach Gregg Polinsky, "but we couldn't seem to find any consistency."

"Whenever we had a chance to get back in the game, it seemed like we made a turnover," he said. "Whenever we needed to stop them on defense, we didn't."

"They're a pretty solid team," Polinsky said, "and to beat a team like that, when you have an opportunity to with a big play, you need to do it. Last night, we failed to do it and lost the game."

He also added the Hawks seemed to play with a "lack of intensity."

Dwight Harris was high point for the Hawks with 13.

The Hawks play New Mexico Military Institute Thursday at 8 p.m. in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Howard — Maurice Hoskin 21.3; Leon Isaac, 5.0; Dan Grayson, 2.2; Dwight Harris, 5.3; Antoine Morris, 3.2; Reggie Childress, 3.0; James Barnett, 3.2; Willie James, 4.0; Nate Given, 7.4; totals, 36, 14.94.

Queens take SPC

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

A normally good-shooting South Plains College team had a poor night from the field as the Howard College Hawk Queens took a win on the road, 69-62.

"They shot 37.8 percent from the field," said Queen coach Don Stevens, "and that's unusual for them."

The Queens' performance didn't hurt anything, either, as they hit 32 of 64 tries from the field, ending up with a 50 percent rate of baskets.

Howard went into the second half behind 30-32, following what Stevens characterized as a "pretty sloppy game the first half."

"There were a lot of turnovers as both teams pressed," he said.

Steven singled out Christi Adams, a 5'9" sophomore from Forsan.

"Christi Adams played her best game ever in the two years she's been at Howard College," he said. "She scored 18 points and was 9 out of 11 shooting long jumpers. In the first half, when we were trying to keep from being blown out, she got 12 points, five of them consecutive from the deep wing." "Most of the night," Stevens said, "Our offense consisted of Christi from the outside and Nell Haskins from the inside."

Haskins ended up with 24 points. She and Adams were the only Hawk Queens in double figures on the night.

Lori Gerber was high point for South Plains, putting in 15 points on the night.

Both teams were even in the rebounding department, pulling down 37 apiece.

The win moves the Queens' record to 15-8 on the season and 4-5 in conference play.

The Hawk Queens' next game will be Saturday here, a rematch against South Plains. That game gets underway at 6 p.m.

Howard — Andrea Fowler 0.0; Holly Holloway 1.3; Janene Berry 3.2; Kari Robinson 0.0; Nell Haskins, 12.0; Pam Roberson, 4.0; Christi Adams, 9.0; Angela McGraw, 0.0; Susan Cordell, 3.0; totals, 32, 5.0.

South Plains — Theresa Stone, 1.2; Sharon Gerber, 6.0; Joanne Prince, 3.3; Julie Chancellor, 6.0; Lori Gerber, 7.1; Karen Kinnison, 3.0; Tracy Wiley, 2.0; totals, 28.62. Fouled Out Howard Holly Holloway.

NC holds top poll spot

By The Associated Press

North Carolina and Virginia, who meet Thursday in an Atlantic Coast Conference showdown, held the first and third spots today in The Associated Press college basketball Top Twenty, while second-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas lost voter support although it remained the only unbeaten team in the nation. The top-ranked Tar Heels got 44 of 58 first-place votes and 1,116 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. A week ago, North Carolina, now 20-3, was listed No. 1 by 34 of 56 first-place pollsters.

UNLV, 20-0, had 13 first-place votes a week ago and 10 in the poll released today, with 1,042 points.

Virginia was third again with two first-place votes and 1,039 points. Houston, eighth last week, got the other two No. 1 listings and climbed to sixth place with 820 points, behind No. 4 Indiana with 954 and fifth-ranked UCLA with 898.

Indiana and UCLA, like Houston, jumped two places in today's poll compared to last week as St. John's fell from fifth to seventh after a 72-71 loss to Pittsburgh and Memphis

State slipped from fourth to ninth because of a 58-56 defeat against Tulane.

Arkansas moved from ninth to eighth this week, while Missouri maintained its 10th position.

Two teams — Washington State and Georgia — fell out of the Top 20 and they were replaced by Wichita State and Purdue.

Washington State, 18th a week ago, lost to UCLA 89-87 in overtime and 56-49 to Southern Cal. Georgia, No. 19 in the previous poll, lost to Louisiana State 70-59 and 76-59 to Mississippi on Monday night.

Shockers crack poll; still lose

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Wichita State Shockers have cracked college basketball's Top Twenty for the first time this season, but they may be in for a rude shock when next week's rankings come out.

The Shockers climbed into 16th place in today's Associated Press, but the votes were tabulated before they dropped an 85-73 decision Monday night to ninth-ranked Memphis State.

"The turning point came when it was 69 each and we made three turnovers," said Wichita State Coach Gene Smithson. "Then that little Turner did the rest."

Smithson was referring to Memphis State's "Little General," 5-foot-10, 150-pound freshman Andre Turner, who scored 10 of his 22 points in the final three minutes. Turner made two layups and six free throws down the stretch as Memphis State notched its 18th victory in 20 games. Wichita State is 17-3.

Only three other games involved a member of the Top Twenty and one of them, No. 15 Syracuse, was upset by Pitt 85-74. Meanwhile, eighth-ranked Arkansas trounced Baylor 81-66 and No. 11 Louisville thrashed Florida State 89-63.

Top Ten

Wichita State actually outscored Memphis State from the floor by five baskets, but the winners hit 33 of 37 free throws to Wichita's 11 of 20.

"The free throw line has been our friend this season, but tonight it was our enemy at both ends," Smithson said. "We just put them on the line too much and we did not shoot as well as we should have from the line."

Memphis roared to a 22-8 lead, but Wichita cut the deficit to 45-42 at halftime and tied it 69-69 on Xavier McDaniel's driving layup with 3:45 left. That's when Turner went to work.

"We played well in spurts, but that's not enough," Smithson said. "We didn't play for a full 40 minutes, and that's needed to win against a team like Memphis State."

Memphis Coach Dana Kirk said his Tigers "beat a good basketball team. I thought we did some things real well. We started out shooting the ball. We weren't standing."

Like Turner, Bobby Parks had 22 points for Memphis. Aubrey Sherrod led Wichita with 18, but Antoine Carr, the Shockers' leading scorer, played only 26 minutes because of foul trouble and managed just 11 points.

Knicks outlast Indiana 105-99

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Knicks Coach Hubie Brown knew that the Indiana Pacers, despite their 15-33 record, have one of the best offensive rebounding teams in the National Basketball Association.

Led by young stars Clark Kellogg and Herb Williams, the Pacers have outrebounded the opposition 751-685, including a 19-6 advantage Monday night against New York. But 58 percent shooting, balanced scoring and a 19-4 second-half streak by the Knicks enabled them to outlast Indiana 105-99 in the only NBA game on the schedule Monday night.

"They hurt us in the three previous games with offensive rebounding and they hurt us again tonight," Brown said. "But in the second half our bench came in and helped build our lead to double figures. In that stretch, they were hitting shots, forcing Indiana to just one shot, causing turnovers and converting them."

Neither team had led by more than six points for the first 2 1/2 quarters of the game, and Indiana led by one point with 3:55 to go in the third period. That was when New York's streak, during which seven players scored, gave the Knicks an 86-72 lead.

"We stuffed them on defense in the third quarter," said Bill Cartwright, who led six Knicks in double figures with 22 points. "They had been giving us — and everyone — trouble with their quick front line."

Louis Orr added 20 points as New York beat the Pacers for the first time in four meetings this season. Cartwright was 10 for 12 from the field and Orr 8-10.

Paul Westphal had 15 points. Sly Williams 14, Trent Tucker 12 and Truck Robinson 11 for the Knicks, who have won eight of their last nine games after a 14-26 start.

"Having that many in double figures is outstanding," Brown said. "It shows you're getting help from everybody. We hope to get that balance."

Indiana got 24 points and 14 rebounds from Williams.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTEER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, FEB. 9, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An important day and evening for you to tie loose ends together and to make sure that you understand both sides of a dispute. Strive for success and happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good time to complete projects that need work on them and to gain benefits therefrom in the future. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact those who can assist you in getting routine matters working more efficiently. Gain the support you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact higher-ups who can assist you in gaining the backing you need for a worthy project. Show that you have poise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A new set of conditions can make your regular routines more efficient and profitable in the days ahead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to what a business expert has to suggest but use your own good judgment when handling personal responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Cooperate more with associates and gain mutual benefits. Attend social affairs -- evening and have a fine time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Bring your finest talents to the attention of higher-ups who can help you to commercialize on them. Dress in fine style.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put those ideas to work that will give you a chance to express your finest talents. Strive for increased happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to understand the wants of close ties and then you will know how to please them. Avoid a jealous person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contacting regular allies and coming to a better understanding is wise now. Establish more efficiency at work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you take time to study your monetary position well, you will know exactly how to improve it. Use more care in motion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be open to favors from others if they sincerely want to help you. Make sure business matters are handled well.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of understanding the crux of any situation and will know how to find a solution. One who will comprehend the spiritual as well as the practical side of life. Prepare now for a good education.
