Officials identify body found Jan. 5

By MIKE DOWNEY
 Staff Writer

A dead body discovered Jan. 5 in a shallow grave northeast of Big Spring has been identified as Eladio Aleman Zubiate, 56, whose last address was listed at a local motel, according to Justice of the Peace Bobby West, acting coroner in the case.

West said the cause of death was due to a blow to the head. Identification of the body means criminal prosecution can now proceed, West said.

Law enforcement officials had found the body based on a tip from a person whose identity is being withheld. Officers from the Texas Rangers, the district attorney's office, the Howard County sheriff's office and the city police were involved in the exhumation.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said identification had been delayed because of difficulty obtaining dental records of the dead man. Officials have been fairly sure of the body's identity based on the tip that led them to the body in January, Standard said. They believe he had been buried about a year.

Zubiate's identity was established with the aid of Dr. Clyde Snow, a renowned Oklahoma anthropologist who specializes in forensic medicine, Standard said. Dr. Robert Rember of Big Spring, who has been conducting the pathological examination of the body, suggested the second opinion from the doctor, Standard said. The Oklahoma physician was conducting a seminar in Lubbock this week and agreed to aid in the identification of the body, Standard said.

Positive information was needed for any criminal charges to be filed, the sheriff said. A search of three sources for dental charts was relatively unsuccessful, Standard said.

However, with the use of some dental records and X-rays of Zubiate made before his death, the identification was made, he said.

"With the body identified, we can now proceed to investigate the circumstances surrounding the death," Standard said. "We have suspects and the case will be given to the district attorney."

The sheriff said his office planned to have the complaint ready for presentation to the March meeting of the Howard County grand jury.

Rosary for Zubiate will be at 7 p.m. today in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Services are at 9 See Zubiate, page 2-A

BILL FRYREAR
 Field Station director checks wind speed and

CONDUCTS DENSITY TEST
 Fryrear inspects simulated soil cots in test for wind erosion

The world watches local farm station

By MIKE DOWNEY
 Staff Writer

What is going on at the Big Spring Field Station, located out on Interstate 20, that draws scientists from China, France, Tunisia, Nigeria and Egypt?

Actually, the real name of the federal facility is the United States Department of Agriculture Southern Plains Cotton Research Laboratory.

But even that string of titles is misleading and does not explain the function of the station, according to Director Bill Fryrear.

"Our assignment is the study of methods and techniques of combating wind erosion in sandy soils," Fryrear said.

The station determines strategies to control erosion in semi-arid areas such as West Texas, but that will apply in other countries as well, Fryrear said.

Several scientists from Africa and other countries have visited the station to learn about the latest techniques in wind erosion control. Fryrear visited Tunisia last year on a United Nations assignment to teach villagers some of the practices developed in Big Spring.

A secondary aspect of the study is to discover ways to continue crop production in these sandy soils plagued with limited water supplies. Fryrear says the facility is challenged to find ways to not only control erosion, but also aid in crop production.

Fryrear said area farmers are beginning to approach the time when they will have to do something about wind erosion and its debilitating effects on soil.

"I think we're seeing the impact of that now," Fryrear said. "More farmers are using fertilizers now than in the past."

The farm station director said crop rotation would help area soils, but "we haven't found anything to rotate with yet."

Actually, Fryrear says area soils are better suited for grassland, but then "what would you do with all these farmers?"

Israeli defense minister resigns, stays on Cabinet

By JONATHAN IMMANUEL
 Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM — Ariel Sharon agreed today to resign as Israel's defense minister next Monday, yielding to pressure from fellow Cabinet members who voted to accept a commission's finding that he bore responsibility for the Beirut massacre.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's spokesman said Sharon would leave the Defense Ministry on Monday, but Sharon said he would stay on in the Cabinet.

The spokesman, Uri Porat, told The Associated Press that Sharon agreed "that on Monday he's going to say goodbye to Israeli army commanders and Defense Ministry workers, which means he is leaving the office."

Sharon, appearing for a speech in Tel Aviv, told The AP: "There was a reshuffle of portfolios, and that's the end of the problem. I am still in the Cabinet. Begin did not fire me." It was not known what Cabinet role he would assume.

In a speech to the Israeli Lawyers Association, Sharon said he would explain his moves later, "when things calm down."

He was applauded by the lawyers when he joked that he might return to farming. "Even though I'm wearing a tie now, I may take it off, even though there are those who would like to tighten it around my neck," he said.

Israel radio said Moshe Arens, Israel's ambassador to the United States, was Begin's choice to succeed Sharon. But there also was a possibility that Begin would assume the defense portfolio temporarily as he did in 1980 when Ezer Weizman resigned.

ARIEL SHARON
 ...stepped down today

There also was some speculation that Weizman, who broke with Begin, might be tapped to take over the key defense post.

The embattled Sharon, a former general who had been almost a constant target of controversy because of his hard-nosed military policies, told Begin in a telephone conversation that he would leave the Defense Ministry on Monday, a spokesman for Begin said.

Israel radio said Begin disputed charges that his government had contributed to a climate of unrest by taking three days to respond to the commission report.

"How can one make such a painful decision in a hurry?" he was quoted as telling members of his Likud political bloc.

Wholesale prices fall at record rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices plummeted a record 1 percent last month, the government said today. Sharpest-ever drops in natural gas and home heating oil costs, plus plunging gasoline prices, led the way.

Food prices also fell, although at a more modest rate.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes called the new report a "striking confirmation of the progress that has been made in reducing the underlying rate of inflation. This is good news and indicates that the administration and the Federal Reserve, working on the same wavelength, achieved these results."

As for energy prices, which declined a record 4.2 percent overall at wholesale, Labor Department analysts said in releasing today's report that the mild winter was largely responsible for the surprising 2.7 percent fall in natural See Inflation, page 2-A

Mitchell jail flunks test

COLORADO CITY — The Mitchell County Jail flunked an inspection by the Texas Commission on Jail Standards this week.

Joseph Slater of the TCJS cited three areas in which he said the Mitchell County Jail was deficient.

An intercom system does not extend to the detoxification cell, jail rules do not show how to file a grievance, and when 10 or more inmates occupy the second floor, there is no jailer on that floor around the clock.

Slater did say the jail had good sanitary conditions, was well maintained and in good physical condition.

Sheriff Wendell Bryant said he hoped to soon solve the problems and have the jail certified by the TCJS.

"Items one and three can be corrected as soon as the local contractor finishes updating the present intercom system," Bryant said. "Number two can be corrected by paperwork that consists of rules for the Mitchell County Jail."

Water deliveries down

January mining and municipal deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District dropped about 121 million gallons due to the large amount of rainfall during the month, the district said.

CRMWD officials also said total deliveries for the month stood at 1,133,306,890.

Revenues of $842,763 from the sale of water were up by about $38,000, but this was due principally to Midland's rate increase under new contract terms, officials said. The city also used 32 million more gallons during the month than last year, the district said.

Graduation forms needed

Howard County Junior College District students planning to graduate in May of this year need to complete an "intent to graduate" form before Feb. 25, according to the registrar's office.

A graduation fee of $17.50 must be paid when the form is submitted. Commencement will be Tuesday, May 10.

Oil field injury suit settled

The $93,000 oil field injury civil suit set for jury trial yesterday in 118th District Court was settled by the parties in the case shortly before noon Tuesday.

A second suit, scheduled for jury trial, is now set to be heard before Judge Jim Gregg. Ernestine Davis is suing Jerry Lafon for $10,410 for purportedly defaulting on payment in the purchase of various items. A cross-claim suit seeks $20,000 from Ms. Davis.

Chris McCormack of Midland is representing Ms. Davis. Robert D. Miller is representing Lafon.

Lawsuit seeks $19,000

A Big Spring woman is suing the Southland Corp. (owners of 7-Eleven stores) for $19,000 for injuries she says she suffered when a local 7-Eleven employee sprayed water on her.

Alice Susan Smith of 1012 W. 3rd has filed suit in 118th District Court in Big Spring in connection with a July 9, 1981 incident at the 902 Willia store.

The suit states an employee was washing down the driveway and directed a stream of water at Ms. Smith, causing her to injure her left foot.

Wayne Basden is representing Ms. Smith.

Cheese plan full of holes

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Efforts to secure an agency to handle the government's surplus cheese program here have failed.

One agency which had expressed an interest in the project had to abandon plans due to a lack of manpower; however, the Wallace Center will distribute surplus cheese to its senior citizens and the Loraine Senior Citizens' Organization is already doing the same for its group.

Anne Gregory, director of the local Community Action Program, said any organization interested in taking over the project should contact "People for Progress" in Sweetwater.

The surplus cheese was administered last year through the local Community Action Committee, but cutbacks in federal funds this year have reduced manpower.

JP attends seminar

COAHOMA — Justice of the Peace Willie Grant of Precinct 2, Place 1, recently attended a 40-hour Texas justice of the peace training seminar in Huntsville.

The training is required under the Texas Revised Civil Statutes, according to Mrs. Grant.

"The classes were real interesting and it helped me a lot," said the newly elected justice.

"The hours were long — 10½ hours a day."

Mrs. Grant said her office was staying busy in Coahoma and she was "learning every day there, too."

Petition asks directors' recall

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Armed with a petition of 2,400 signatures, C.G. Gilstrap came before the Big Spring school board last night asking for the removal of three members of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District.

The petition named Lila Estes, Billy T. Smith and Roy Watkins. Gilstrap said he and the petitioners do not feel the three appointees of the taxing entities "represent the taxpayers of Howard County."

Following a brief discussion with Gilstrap, the board said it would take the petition under advisement and present it to the district's attorney and act on his advice.

The board also went into executive session last night concerning the employment of school administrators, directors and coordinators.

Upon emerging from the session the board voted to renew the contracts of all district principals, curriculum coordinators, assistant superintendents, the athletic director and other administrative personnel.

In other action the board:

- Approved the hiring of Kathleen Newman as Signal Program instructor for Rannels Junior High and Goliad Middle School.
- Accepted the resignation of Martha Taylor, teacher of the Signal Program at Rannels and Goliad.
- Set the trustee elections for April 2, 1983.
- Okayed a $16,344 bid by Snook and Aderton, Inc. of Lubbock for 12 evaporative air conditioners.
- Approved a bid of $20,371 by Pollard Chevrolet of Big Spring for two ¾-ton pickup trucks.

gas prices and the 9.7 percent drop in home heating oil costs.

Fuel oil costs have also been restrained by the worldwide oil glut, as have gasoline prices, which were off 3.3 percent. The department's "energy price" calculations actually lag a month behind the rest of the index.

Food prices, as reflected in today's Producer Price Index for finished goods, fell 0.2 percent. Pacing the drop were declines in the wholesale cost of vegetables, fish and poultry.

The new report gave a big boost to economists' predictions that inflation at the wholesale level this year might be as low as — or even lower than — the 3.5 percent clip posted for all of 1982.

That was the smallest rise since the 3.2 percent of 1971, when wage and price controls were in effect for part of the year. Wholesale prices rose 7.1 percent in 1981.

Police Beat

Thefts, vandalism reported

Don Clawson of Westbrook told police his 1973 GMC pickup valued at $2,000 was stolen from the parking lot at Cactus Jack's Tuesday. Clawson's daughter had abandoned the vehicle there when it wouldn't run, police said.

Dennis Noggler of 1507A Wood said someone entered his residence through an unlocked front door and took a 30.06 1903 Springfield rifle with a 4-12 power scope, an 8mm Berlin army-issued Mauser 98 rifle and a 30 caliber M-1 carbine with a 15-shot clip.

Glenna Hughes, manager of Creative Decor #12 in Highland Mall, told police someone took her billfold out of her purse while it was in the back room of her store Feb. 8. Reports indicate the billfold contained various credit cards and $300 in cash.

Darryl Adamson of 1807 N. Monticello said someone shot out the windshield, rear glass and passenger window on his 1971 Ford pickup Wednesday night. Police reports show that someone fired a rifle into the vehicle six times at close range.

Byron Harris, manager of the Interstate 20 and FM 350 Texaco Station, told police that someone broke into the bay area of the service station and took two cases of Quaker State motor oil and one case of Texaco transmission fluid worth $120 Thursday night.

Lucinda Morales of 1103 N. Nolan told police someone took her purse containing $100 cash at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Reports indicate Ms. Morales laid her purse on top of her vehicle and drove away. The purse fell off and a person made off with it before Ms. Morales could return and retrieve it.

Bruce Love of 4215 Hamilton reported that someone removed a Plexiglas window from a storage building at his residence and stole a Sharp multi-band radio worth $100 sometime between Feb. 7 and Feb. 10.

Sheriff's Log

Murder suspect moved

Alfredo Torres, 29, is in Howard County jail under bonds totaling $40,000 after his transfer from police custody. Torres, of the Northcrest Apartments, is charged with murder in connection with the Feb. 5 shooting death of Daniel A. Rios of Midland at Fina's Restaurant in Big Spring.

Torres is also being held for bondmen off bond in connection with two other charges: burglary and aggravated assault. Bond were set by Municipal Judge Melvin Daratt and Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Clifford Bart Dunbar, 22, of Butler, Pa., was released to the Mitchell County sheriff's office in connection with grand jury indictments for rape of a child and indecency with a child. Dunbar has been in county jail under $60,000 bond since Jan. 6 in connection with suspicion of raping three Ohio juvenile females.

Robin Blankenbecker, 26, of the Southland Apartments was arrested by sheriff's deputies on a commitment order from Heflin. Blankenbecker remains in county jail without bond. He owes a $206 fine on a previous charge, records show.

White rejected for jury duty

HOUSTON (AP) — It was a bad day Thursday for Gov. Mark White at the Harris County Courthouse. But it was an even worse day for Hilton Jerome Cesar.

White answered a jury summons, but a lawyer rejected him as a juror in an armed robbery case. And while the governor was inside doing his civic duty, his car got a parking ticket.

Cesar, the defendant in the case, had a greater disappointment — he was convicted.

White was one of 45 candidate jurors, who listened to more than two hours of instructions and questions from prosecutor Richard Bax and defense lawyer Matt Leeper during the jury selection phase of Cesar's trial.

When the final selection was made, Leeper rejected White.

"I'm disappointed," White said. "I hoped to have the opportunity to serve on a jury."

"He would have made an excellent juror. A superior juror," Leeper said of White. "But I struck (eliminated) him because of the news coverage. The case would have gotten more publicity than it deserves and that would have adversely affected my client."

White showed up eight minutes late in the jury assembly room and joined a crowd of other latecomers in signing in with the clerk. On his jury form, he listed his occupation as "Governorstate employee."

When State District Judge Ted Poe ordered candidate jury panel of 45, White was given the number 22 and walked with the others across the street to Poe's court.

The governor, and others in the panel, underwent close questioning from Leeper and Bax.

White, a lawyer and a former state attorney general, was asked by Leeper: "You've tried civil suits?"

"Yes," said the governor.

"You understand the burden of proof is more strict in a criminal case?"

White nodded.

Leeper then asked the whole panel, "If Gov. White is on the (trial) panel and you are one of the 12 and after listening to the evidence you decide you're right and he's wrong, would you give in because of who he is?"

None of the candidate jurors responded.

Voter turnout is key factor in Gramm race

By GARTH JONES
AP Political Writer

AUSTIN — Texas Democrats are working hard for a runoff in the 6th Congressional District as their best chance of defeating recently-turned Republican Phil Gramm on Saturday.

PHIL GRAMM
...election Saturday

How many ballots are cast in the special election will probably decide if the nine Democrats and one Libertarian in the race can force the former College Station congressman into a runoff.

Absentee voting has been low. But fair and warm weather was predicted throughout the 14-county district that stretches from Dallas County to the outskirts of Houston.

"We have a chance of forcing Gramm into a runoff but it's going to take a good voter turnout to do it," said State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle.

A spokesman for Gramm said the 40-year-old former Texas A&M economics professor has a "good opportunity" to win a majority vote.

Gramm switched parties Jan. 5 and resigned the congressional seat he won in November, for the third time, to run in the special election as a Republican. Efforts of Democrats to get the election date, set by former Republican Gov. Bill Clements, delayed failed in federal court.

Gramm's best-known Democratic contenders in the campaign are former state Rep. Dan Kubiak, 44, of Rockdale, and John Henry Faulk, 69, former star on the TV show "Hee Haw" and a resident of Austin and Madisonville.

Both say they can force Gramm into a runoff in which Democrats can unify and exert more voting strength.

However, absentee voting has been slow in parts of the district, indicating that Saturday's turnout among the 248,000 voters will be low.

In the November general election almost 97,000 votes were cast in 6th District Congressional race but about 128,000 votes districtwide in the governor's race.

LOW ABSENTEE vote reports came from Montgomery County, which has 36 of its 44 voting precincts in the 6th district, and Dallas County. Montgomery has a heavy Republican vote.

In Dallas County, which has 12 precincts in the district, a turnout of less than 20 percent of eligible voters was expected.

Montgomery County has 22.5 percent of the district's registered voters, Brazos County, 13.5 percent and Dallas County, 8.6 percent.

Thirty-five percent of the district's voters are in the northern tier of counties including Johnson, Ellis, Hill and Navarro.

Other counties in the district are Freestone, Grimes, Hood, Leon, Limestone, Madison, and Robertson.

The other Democrats in the race are: Joseph Agris, 42, Houston plastic surgeon.

Rex L. Carey, 43, self-employed businessman from Midlothian.

George Chamberlain, 34, nuclear engineer from Granbury.

Louis C. Davis, 58, Houston attorney.

Joe R. English, 44, retired serviceman from Granbury.

Carl A. Nigliazzo, 60, economic planner from Hearne.

Bill Powers, 53, businessman from Navasota.

The only Libertarian candidate is Martin Gibson, 40, Duncanville lawyer.

GRIEVING FAMILY — Genaro Garcia and his wife Gregoria sit with the three children, David, 10, Maria, 12 (between her parents), and Nancy, 6. Their eldest son, Genaro Jr., shot himself fatally after he was denied use of the television set.

Dad confiscates TV; teen kills himself

OAKLEY, Calif. (AP) — "I can't stand another day of school and especially another minute without television," the scribbled note said.

It was found next to the body of Genaro Garcia, a lonely, overweight 13-year-old who shot himself with his father's revolver rather than give up the safe world of television for a troubled life at a new school, his family says.

"I know I've been a lot of trouble and I'm sorry," the youth wrote in the note, which was translated and read to his Spanish-speaking parents by a coroner's investigator.

"Please tell my classmates what happened and watch if they are sad or if they laugh. But that's obvious. I never really had any friends."

The boy left the note and killed himself with a single shot to the head on Jan. 26, according to a Contra Costa County coroner's report.

Genaro shot himself just hours after his father had removed the television from his son's room, according to family members interviewed by the San Francisco Examiner.

Genaro Garcia Sr. recalled telling his son to quit complaining about imaginary ailments and go back to school if he wanted the television back.

Garcia said his son was concerned about his appearance — the youngster was 5-foot-6 and weighed 225 pounds.

Genaro's handwritten will, found by his father and mother, Gregoria, left his family the possessions he had most cherished.

"Last will: To whole family. I leave my stereo to Maria, I leave my Atari games to David and Nancy and I leave everything to my parents.

"In my heart I will take my TV with me. I love you."

Police search 'house of horrors' for 13 victims

LONDON (AP) — Police tore up floors, boards, drainpipes and the yard of a "house of horror" today, looking for victims of a mass killer who reportedly strangled up to 16 drifters, then chopped up and boiled their bodies.

Scotland Yard said a suspect was being questioned in the killing of three young men whose chopped and boiled remains were found in a sewer and that a search was on for as many as 13 more bodies. It was the grisliest murder case in Britain since the five-year killing spree of Peter Sutcliffe, the Yorkshire Ripper who was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1981 for the murders of 13 women in northern England.

The suspect, who was not identified, was arrested Wednesday after pieces of three bodies were found in the sewer of a house in the Muswell Hill district of north London. A plumber, summoned by neighbors complaining of a smell, discovered two decomposed heads and other body parts and called police.

plumber Mike Cattran told reporters. "It was all chopped-up flesh, enough to fill four two-gallon buckets."

Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, said the arrested man was a tenant in one of six apartments at the decaying, three-story Edwardian house. It said he was thought to be a security guard and former London police trainee who cared for homeless people.

Shortly after the arrest, police descended on a second house, three miles away in the Kilburn district of north London.

Press Association reported they expected to find 13 more bodies there. It did not say why.

As snow fell, senior officers and forensic experts arrived with shovels, sieves, boxes of equipment and sniffer dogs with which to examine the house, its plumbing and its grounds.

Police believe their investigations could reveal one of Britain's biggest murders in recent times.

Weather Fog reported in Northeast Texas

By The Associated Press
Dense fog covered portions of Northeast Texas and fog was reported along the coastal bend and in South Texas early today.

Skies were cloudy over East Texas and portions of South Texas and some high clouds were reported over central sections of the state. Skies were clear elsewhere.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 40s, ranging from the 30s in the Panhandle to the lower 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies over western and northern portions of the state through Saturday with a warming trend expected to continue over south central and southern areas of the state. A few thundershowers were forecast for extreme South Texas today.

TODAY AND SATURDAY
Fair through Saturday, warmer Saturday. Lows lower 20s Panhandle over snow cover to near 40 extreme south. Highs Saturday mid 50s north to near 70 Big Bend valleys.

American Airlines strike deadline near

ARLINGTON (AP) — American Airlines says it is confident that a new contract will be signed with the Transport Workers Union before a strike deadline set for midnight tonight.

Negotiators for American and the union representing 10,500 of the firm's 35,500 employees met for a sixth consecutive day Thursday trying to reach agreement before a 30-day "cooling off" period expires.

Talks have broken down twice since airline and union negotiators began work on a new contract last July and American spokesman Paul Haney said a strike is possible at midnight Friday when the cooling period required by federal law ends.

The contract expired Sept. 1. American officials would not say whether they would try to operate if the TWU did strike. The union represents employees working in maintenance, baggage service and flight operations.

Haney said he cannot discuss the negotiations because of a news blackout called by the National Mediation Board. TWU officials also declined to discuss the negotiations or whether they plan to strike.

Fired Tye judge vows to stay on bench

TYE, Texas (AP) — "authority and power of the mayor" by asking Municipal Judge Dennis Hodges tore up his letter of termination and vowed to remain on the job — despite a statement by Mayor Jim Snowden that he was fired for alleged negligence and disloyalty.

"I'm the municipal judge here until the City Council says they don't want me," Hodges said Wednesday.

"I have a pretrial hearing set for Friday morning, and I'm going to be there at 9 a.m."

Snowden said he fired Hodges because "it would be a complete disgrace and degrading to the office if I didn't."

In the letter of termination delivered Wednesday, Snowden contended Hodges usurped the Assistant Chief John Mauney for allegedly allowing civilians to ride in police vehicles.

The mayor's critics, who founded the dissident Citizens for Better Government last week, claim Snowden exceeded his authority by firing the officers. Their position was strengthened by an opinion from Texas Municipal League Executive Director Richard D. Brown, who said the mayor is not empowered to fire police officers.

The judge also denied he sought protection for the CBG meeting Monday. And he said said police officers issued receipts for all the money they collected for the court and that the policy was legal.

Hodges said he became a charter member of the CBG because of the organization's stated goal of putting city government back in the hands of the City Council.

"I may be considered disloyal to Snowden because I didn't bow down to him," said Hodges, "but I was not disloyal to the citizens of Tye, whom I expected to represent."

Hodges contends Brown's non-binding ruling

Reader dissents on textbook issue

Dear Editor,

The past few months I have read with growing admiration the editorials of Carol Daniel. She has impressed me with her wit and intellect; and her ability, I thought, to be individualistic in her approach.

Therefore, I was mildly surprised to read her editorial comment in Sunday's paper. She had lost her individualistic approach, in my view. To begin with, her comment was full of reactionary rhetoric. The opening line, "In Texas, children learn in school what Norma and Mel Gabler want them to learn," is an overstatement to say the least.

The educational content (or lack thereof) of textbooks is at the discretion of the authors and publishers. The published texts are then reviewed at the TSTC hearings. When the state established these hearings, they must have realized that in order to stimulate publishers to produce quality texts they had to eliminate publishing house lobbyists who would only give positive reviews. They did this by opening the meetings to critical review by the consumers.

The Gablers fell into this consumer category when they first began attending these hearings because they had school-aged children. As consumers, they objected to some of the texts. Presently, I guess you could say they represent a "consumer group," since they are supported by thousands of Texas parents.

On the other hand, Norman Lear is not a Texas resident. Yet he has managed to engineer his group, the PFAW, so successfully that in less than a year they are able to present legislation which would allow supporters of these publishing houses to voice their opinion.

I question the validity of such a group, which is not expressing the view of a vast group of Texas residents, but is the orchestration of a rich non-resident whose group has the voice of the media.

Doesn't that bring a question to your mind? Another question which comes to mind is, if Mr. Lear is concerned about his children, why hasn't he pushed for an adoption process such as ours in his home state? Surely, this would be less costly than his attempts to organize a group in our state.

Texas shouldn't be the deciding state for the whole nation. The question seems to be a monetary one for the publisher in the final analysis.

I have also been concerned about the quality of texts which the Gablers approved. Therefore I've done a personal research on them, and I've concluded that their main concern is that our children be educated. One history text which they objected to had two pages of "history" on Marilyn Monroe and one paragraph about George Washington. It's no wonder we are graduating illiterates.

Why should time be spent in class discussing values clarification when some of our children can't read a newspaper? I'm with the Gablers — let's stick to the basics! Values will be clarified in the process of aging we all face daily.

Finally, Carol states that there should be an "exchange of ideas." It seems to me that this exchange already exists — between the publishers and the consumers. Whether we support the Gablers or not, we as consumers should still have a critical voice in the text adoption process; and the publishers should have their voice in their texts.

We cannot trust the "good intentions" of these publishing houses since it seems their hearts are in their pocket books.

If they want to criticize the texts, so be it; but they shouldn't be allowed to change the adoption process. If they succeed, I can only ask, whose side are they on — the people's or the publishers'?

They wish they didn't know

This column is about sex. Parental discretion is advised.

The Reagan administration seems to be going ahead with a rule requiring that any organization receiving federal funds for dispensing contraceptives to a minor must notify the parents within 10 days of the request.

The administration's heart is in the right place. Buy trying to put such a rule into effect presents problems. Many parents can't talk with their teen-agers about rock music, much less discuss with them the subject of sex.

Let's assume that the Wallingfords have just received a letter from Planned Parenthood, noting that their daughter Sue Anne has requested a prescription for the Pill.

Both are waiting for her when she comes home from school.

"WHERE WERE you?" Wallingford demands.

"I was in school."

"And what were you doing in school?"

"I don't know. I just went to class, and stuff."

"What kind of stuff?" Wallingford yells.

"You know, just stuff. What are you guys all excited about?"

"Are you sure you didn't sneak off in a clothes closet and do it with some boy?"

"Do what? And with what boy?"

"Any boy," Mrs. Wallingford says. "We know everything," she says waving the letter from Planned Parenthood.

"So what do you have to say for yourself?"

"I knew if I asked you for permission to buy the Pill you wouldn't give it to me."

"You're damn right we wouldn't give it to you. What kind of parents do you think we are?" Wallingford says.

"I know what kind of parents you are. That's why I went somewhere else to protect myself."

"TO PROTECT yourself from what?"

"Having a baby."

"What do you know about having babies?" Mrs. Wallingford says.

"Well, when the male's sperm fertilizes the woman's ovum..."

"That's enough of that kind of dirty talk," Wallingford shouts.

"Relax, Daddy-O. I haven't done it. But if I ever decide to, I want to be protected. They told us at the clinic, it's the woman and not the man who has to take precautions. Men couldn't care less about the consequences."

"I don't believe I'm hearing this," Mrs. Wallingford says.

"We've raised a nymphomaniac."

"You seem to know a lot about sex, young lady," Wallingford says.

"You certainly didn't learn any of this at home."

"I know. That's why I went to the clinic. Every time I brought up the subject you said it was none of my business."

"It isn't any of your business," Mrs. Wallingford says. "You're 17 years old and nice girls don't discuss such things with their parents."

"Well, if it isn't any of my business, how come I can get pregnant?"

"YOU CAN'T get pregnant unless you do it," Wallingford shouts.

"And your mother and I forbid you to do it."

"Anything you say folks. Now can I go?"

"Where are you going?"

"To the basketball game with Jack."

"So that's where you're going to do it," Wallingford cries.

"How am I going to do it at a basketball game?"

"In the parking lot," Wallingford says. "That's where I used to do it."

"I can't take any more of this. Goodbye."

After Sue Anne leaves, Mrs. Wallingford wipes the tears from her eyes. "You know George, I think we both would be happier today if Planned Parenthood had never let us know."

Gone to ashes

Something about the day brought them closer together. Cool and clear, a bright blue bowl of West Texas sky encircled them. Slivers of whipped-cream clouds drifted by on the sides of the bowl.

"I'll kinda miss you," the taller of the two said. "Won't have nobody to go hunting with."

He seemed almost embarrassed, never raising his gaze from his scuffed boots as he spoke.

The two sat side by side on a fallen river-bottom walnut tree which had known most of the joys and anguish in their young lives.

It was here they had played as youngsters, whenever it was possible to sneak off from their parents' protective eyes. It was here they had drunk their first beer and parked with their first girl, although not necessarily in that order.

BUT THE TREE meant more to them, the taller one thought as his friend spoke.

"Yeah, well, I won't be doing that much hunting anymore," the shorter, bearded one said. He studiously avoided his friend's eyes as he spoke.

"I'll get back here once in a while, and we can go hunting then," he continued. "But most of the time I'll be locked up in that office." The tone of his voice said it wasn't a prospect he relished.

He was leaving next Friday, headed for a new opportunity. At least, that was what he told everyone else. But years ago, they had promised to always be honest with each other here.

It was a promise that had served them well.

When one of them said, "Let's go to the tree," it meant something important was up.

They had come here to talk of many things.

When the bearded one had discovered his friend was seeing his ex-girlfriend, they had come here. When the taller one's father had died, they came to the tree. When they had decided to marry, they had made joyful trips to the tree on their bachelor parties.

There had been a sense of urgency in this trip, and the taller one wasn't sure why. His friend had an offer of a job in a big city, his wife liked the idea of going, and he'd make more money — so what was the problem? He knew the bearded one would get to the point eventually, but he wished his friend would hurry.

"Remember the last time we came out here?" the bearded one asked. "I was happy then, and I'm happy now. But this time, I'm scared, too."

His friend understood. The taller one was taking a chance, risking his hopes and ego on uncertain ground, far from home.

"Well, if it doesn't work out, you can always come back," he told his shorter companion. "Just don't let it get to you. It's not the first time you've tried something new."

STILL, HE knew it was different. This time his friend had a wife depending on him.

"She's one of the reasons I'm going," the bearded one said, as if he were reading his friend's mind. "I can't make enough money here for us both and the kid. I like it here, but I've got to find a way to make more money."

"You're committed?"

"Yeah, just like the time you decided to swipe my old girlfriend."

"Hey, she was the one who decided," said the taller one, laughing. "I just went along. If you're committed, you'll go, and you'll like it. So quit griping."

The words were gruff, but the tone was gentle.

"Let's go," said the bearded one. "I've had enough of this serious stuff — let's go have some fun."

They untangled their legs from the limbs they were sitting on, climbed into the truck and drove home.

THE BEARDED one took the job, and it wasn't long before he found it harder and harder to get back. The friendship drifted apart, as time and distance took its toll.

Last year, in the hot, dry summer months when the underbrush was dry and crackling underfoot, the shorter one made it back.

He didn't stop to see his friend, but went to the tree alone. Things were rough in the new city, and he wanted a chance to be alone and honest with himself.

Rounding the bend in the creek, he stopped suddenly.

The tree was gone. In its place were a few charred, blackened embers.

He didn't know why, but he sat down in the trail and cried.

Senate shrugs at abuses

WASHINGTON — The Senate investigation of the Justice Department's misconduct in the ABSCAM case has produced some wild contradictions.

The Senate select committee concluded that the remorseless ABSCAM pursuers and prosecutors had committed serious abuses, including outright perjury and tampering with evidence. Yet the committee insisted that the defendant's rights had not been trampled on.

In other words, the senators decided that the government's hands weren't clean but that it really didn't matter. Their findings of government misconduct are scattered helter-skelter throughout their report — in other words, buried.

HERE ARE just a few of the more flagrant abuses they found had been committed by ABSCAM's investigative and prosecutorial team:

- Convicted swindler Mel Weinberg was the master planner, stage manager and star witness of the sting operation. Yet he shared in the ABSCAM bribes, lied to FBI agents, systematically perjured himself, coached targets and staged taped conversations for the FBI's benefit.
- Weinberg's ABSCAM conversations were supposed to be taped and monitored. Yet he made countless approaches and contacts that he didn't want the FBI to know about. He made sure these phone conversations were not recorded or preserved. By one estimate, as many as 1,000 conversations were not recorded by the FBI's free-wheeling con man. Furthermore, he deliberately created gaps in conversations that he did record.

- Weinberg solicited and received valuable gifts from ABSCAM victims, including gold watches, television sets, electronic equipment, a microwave oven and a video recorder. Then he not only lied to the FBI about his skim-scams but perjured himself in court.
- Weinberg distributed valuables — some as gifts, some as bargains — to agents and prosecutors who were supervising him. They, in turn, let him off the hook when he was accused of fleecing ABSCAM victims.
- Justice Department and FBI officials swore to the Senate committee that ABSCAM was the most closely supervised and monitored investigation in the FBI's history. Yet the evidence is abundant that the officials didn't know what was going on and then tried to cover up the abuses when they found out about them. The coverup is still continuing.
- Chief prosecutor Thomas Puccio and FBI agents Anthony Amoroso and John Good withheld information and submitted false reports to their superiors in Washington. They failed to investigate charges of wrongdoing against Weinberg and were less than candid in their testimony both in court and before Congress.
- The select committee also found that Puccio "was able to hinder the efforts of other prosecutors" involved in the ABSCAM prosecution.
- The committee characterized various explanations of Puccio, Amoroso and Good as "wholly unpersuasive." And FBI spokesman Buck Ravel's testimony was called "far from accurate."

These findings completely confirm my own investigation of the ABSCAM abuses. My associate Indy Badhwar spent several months digging out the details. He taped hours of conversations with Mel Weinberg's tragic wife, Marie, who had watched the ABSCAM sting operation from the inside.

She described skulduggeries that Badhwar checked out and the Senate committee has now confirmed. For telling the truth, she was hounded by her husband and the FBI until she took her own life.

Why did the senators later issue statements that ignored their own evidence? They tend to be a duplicitous but rather timid lot. That is to say, they are ambivalent toward objective truth, but cautious in their derelictions.

Most senators did not want to appear to be defending the ABSCAM culprits, who were caught on camera accepting briefcases stuffed with $100 bills. So the nervous senators focused not on the government misconduct that they were mandated to investigate, but on the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

I married an older man

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Many years ago I did a very foolish thing. I left my first husband and married another man who was much older than I. I hurt an awful lot of people, and now that I am elderly I am very, very lonely, with no one who really cares about me. I wish you would warn young people about the cost of doing foolish things like this..

— G.M.B.

DEAR G.M.B.: I am sorry that you have had to learn through experience that when you break God's laws you end up instead being broken by them. You are — as you know — paying the bitter price for your foolishness and disobedience. My prayer is that your testimony will perhaps touch someone who right now is being tempted to take a similar path. As the Bible says, "Sin pays its servants: the wage is death" (Romans 6:23, J.B. Phillips translation). There is a terrible price to be paid for following the temptations of Satan, both in this life and in eternity.

But I want to say something else very important to you. No, it is not possible to go back and change the past; what is done is done. But has it ever occurred to you that God still loves you, in spite of what you have done? You may feel that God is just like all the people you have hurt, and that he really could not care for you or love you because of what you have done. But that is not true! You have committed many sins — but every one of those sins was placed on the back of Jesus when he died on the cross. He endured the loneliness of the cross so that you could be forgiven of your sins and reconciled to God. Wouldn't it be wonderful to be able to look yourself in the mirror each day and know that you are completely forgiven, and you are a child of God? Wouldn't it be wonderful as you approach the end of your life to know that you have the hope of eternal life in Heaven because of what Jesus Christ has done for you?

It is not too late to open your heart to Jesus Christ, and my prayer is that you will make that commitment today. Christ died for sinners — including you. Accept Jesus' invitation: "Come to me, all you who are weary and burdened, and... you will find rest for your souls" (Matthew 11:28-29).

Texas to feel military pay freeze

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Texas ranks second in the amount of salaries paid to active duty military personnel and would be one of the states most affected by President's Reagan's proposed freeze on military pay, according to Defense Department figures.

Payments to military personnel on active duty in Texas were expected to exceed $2.6 billion for the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30, according to Pentagon estimates.

That's second only to California, where such payments were expected to reach $3.8 billion, and slightly more than Virginia, where they were projected to run about $1.8 billion.

The figures are particularly important for communities built around military installations, whose personnel spend their pay on cars, housing, food and drink, clothing and countless other necessities and luxuries.

Simply put, the president's proposed freeze would cut the amount of Defense Department funds that otherwise might be funneled into Texas next fiscal year.

With the freeze in effect, salaries to active duty military personnel in Texas would total just over $2.4 billion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, according to Pentagon estimates.

Each percentage point increase in military salaries beyond the level recommended by the president would result in about another $24 million being paid to such personnel, much of which would go toward bolstering local economies.

In proposing the freeze last month, Reagan said it was part of an overall program aimed at reducing "the dangerous growth rate in government spending" which he said was threatening economic recovery.

But some members of the Texas congressional delegation immediately expressed concern over the freeze proposal, though their reservations were generally expressed in terms of its impact on the military, rather than on the Texas economy.

Democratic Rep. Mickey Leland of Houston called the president's proposal "absolutely crass," and said, "I think military personnel deserve more than adequate pay."

"A terrible step backwards," is how Rep. Martin Frost, a Dallas Democrat, described the freeze.

Republican Sen. John Tower, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, has introduced legislation that would provide military personnel, with some exceptions, a 4 percent pay increase beginning in April, 1984, halfway through the next fiscal year.

Reagan joins Demos on recession relief bill

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Reagan has changed course and is near agreement with Democratic House leaders on a $4.3 billion recession relief bill that includes federally funded jobs and help for the homeless.

Two of the president's chief advisers, Budget Director David Stockman and White House chief of staff James Baker, offered the plan to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and other Democratic leaders late Thursday.

Republican and Democratic leaders in the Senate, plus some other key House members, must also agree to the plan, but for the moment it appears that a logjam has been broken over jobs legislation to offset the nation's 10.4 percent unemployment rate.

"It's an excellent beginning," said House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas. "It goes a long way."

Reagan labeled a similar bill worth $5.4 billion as "pork barrel" during the lame-duck session of Congress last December. He said what is needed to turn the economy around is patience and trust in the eventual success of his economic program, not new federal jobs programs.

But Republican House leader Bob Michel of Illinois and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee told the president Congress will pass jobs legislation this year.

On Thursday, Wright said much of what Stockman and Baker proposed was "copied right out of our bill," the measure almost approved last year in Congress.

Wright said House Democratic leaders "stopped short" of a firm agreement so they could consult with Senate Democratic leaders and permit White House officials to discuss it with Senate and House Republicans.

Compromise may ease EPA dispute

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The White House, increasingly concerned about the congressional probe of the Environmental Protection Agency, is seeking a compromise that might end at least part of the controversy.

But congressional Democrats were raising new questions, including why paper-shredding machines were recently moved into the EPA office handling the $1.6 billion toxic waste cleanup program that is the subject of the investigation.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Thursday that presidential counselor Fred Fielding was "looking at a number of issues involved in the whole EPA matter," and that President Reagan had been briefed on the controversy.

He also disclosed that Rita Lavelle, the assistant administrator in charge of the cleanup program until she was fired by Reagan this week, was questioned at the White House on Tuesday "to review her departure procedures."

And Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., said he was contacted by White House chief of staff James A. Baker III and told a compromise to the impasse over congressional access to EPA enforcement documents would be proposed today.

A Levitas aide, Mary Jane Norville, said Baker did not say who from the White House would offer the compromise or what it would contain, but that Levitas was willing to talk.

Levitas' subcommittee originated the subpoena against EPA Administrator Anne M. Gorsuch last year that resulted in the full House voting to cite her for contempt of Congress.

That vote came after she refused, on presidential orders, to surrender the subpoenaed documents. The White House is now seeking to avoid criminal prosecution of Mrs. Gorsuch.

But even if that dispute is settled, a host of new controversies have developed around the agency.

By Thursday, five House subcommittees had launched formal investigations of EPA's handling of the "superfund" toxic waste cleanup program, with more possible.

Dear Abby

Man's intentions questioned

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: The woman is 53. She's also a grandmother who dyes her hair jet black, uses too much makeup and wears skirts with big slits up the sides because her hairdresser, Bruce, told her she had nice legs. Anyway, according to her, she is constantly being approached by strange men trying to pick her up on the street, in stores — everywhere she goes.

She said that at a holiday cocktail party, a very attractive gentleman she had never seen before very politely asked her if she "fooled around." She said she just smiled and pretended not to take him seriously, whereupon he gave her his business card and told her to give him a call if she ever wanted to see his arrowhead collection.

I contend that no real gentleman would ask a lady such a question. And if the lady was really a lady, why did she accept his business card?

business card. Maybe she's never seen an arrowhead collection.

DEAR ABBY: "One of Six" wrote: "Two married couples and two singles are going in on a gift. The married couples think the cost should be divided four ways. The singles think it should be divided six ways. Which is the fairest way?"

Abby, I couldn't believe your answer: "Married couples are usually considered 'one' so in my opinion, the cost should be divided four ways."

A married couple is not considered "one". If only one is working, the working spouse should kick in for the mate who isn't.

Everyone married or single, should carry the same load. If they both attend the wedding reception, they aren't expected to divide refreshments to serve one.

Come on be sensible. THREE MARRIED AND ONE SINGLE

DEAR ABBY: As a single person I am tired of being at a financial disadvantage. ("Oh, he's single, he can afford it!")

We bachelors get stuck with more than our share all the time.

In my book, two couples and two singles divide by six — not four. When I entertain them in my home, I don't buy groceries for four. I buy for six!

I'll bet you get a ton of mail on this one.

BACHELOR

DEAR ABBY: Boo! Hiss! For shame! Isn't it bad enough that we single people are discriminated in legal matters (income taxes, etc.)? Why should we be penalized because we're not married?

Bah, humbug! Ten lashes for you with a wet copy of Ms. magazine.

MAD IN PORTLAND
DEAR MAD: I could fill this page with letters from readers who wrote to disagree with my answer. Score (to date, and they're still coming in): Readers, 226, Abby, 0.

All right, individuals are individuals, married or single, so a couple should spend twice as much on a gift as a single person. But let's face it: They rarely do.

Dr. Donohue

Safeguarding your heart

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would it be possible for you to give me an understanding of the letters "A.S.H.D."? At a recent doctor's visit my mother's report came back with those letters on it. As my mother is a nervous person, she didn't think to ask about it. Is this serious? — M.G.

A.S.H.D. stands for arteriosclerotic heart disease, also known as coronary artery heart disease.

It is the most common illness in our population. It means that the arteries that supply blood to the heart's muscle are becoming clogged with fatty deposits. Is it serious? That depends on how clogged the arteries are and what kind of symptoms your mother has, and am I guessing right that she did have symptoms to bring her in for examination?

A.S.H.D. exists in practically every one of us to some degree. It is one of the prices of aging. Is your mother having chest pains — angina? Or does she feel fine? If she is not having symptoms the artery narrowing is not so serious. Yet, any narrowing is bad, and once we've been told we have it we have to take some steps to stop its progress.

There are many ways to help the situation. Here are just six worthwhile rules (for everyone, not just your mother) to follow:

— Quit cigarette smoking.

— Avoid high-fat and cholesterol foods.

— Stay as physically active as you can safely be.

— Take steps to keep blood pressure within normal ranges.

— Control blood sugar, if that is a problem.

— Maintain an ideal body weight.

Here's a final thought. When blood supply through arteries is completely shut off, that's a heart attack.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I read with interest a recent column (attached) on the subject of Guillain-Barre syndrome. According to you, most people have total recovery. Have we missed something in treatment? I was in the hospital for seven months with it. I was totally paralyzed up to and including my mouth, but did not have to go on a respirator.

Today I feel I do not have full use of my arms, hands, legs, and I still have sharp pains in those areas along with weakness in my knees. A friend was hospitalized for six weeks with the problem and still has slight pain and weakness in her legs. I understand there is nothing more I can do for recovery than what was done. — L.W.V.

I am glad I was careful to say that "most" do make a full recovery. About 75 percent do. But less than 10 percent are severely disabled by it. I am sorry to hear that you had such a dreadful time with it.

You must remember, though, that in this illness, nerves are damaged, and as I have mentioned on other occasions, nerve tissue repairs itself only very slowly. And when the damage is great, as yours apparently was, it takes a very long time for the nerves to regenerate — 18 months or longer. So maybe with persistence you will regain full use of your arms and legs. During this time, don't let up on your physical therapy. If you don't continue to exercise your muscles during the time your nerves are healing, the muscle can waste away from disuse.

Waste woes on the rise

Americans use 100,000 acres of land to dump their garbage and trash, and they spend $4 billion a year to get it there. Americans throw away enough organic wastes each year to produce the energy equivalent of 80 million barrels of oil, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A and M University System.

Many new food packaging items are convenient and economical but lead to waste problems.

Sharon Settles named 'Outstanding Nurse'

Sharon Settles, L.V.N., was surprised when Charles Weeg, administrator of Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital, announced she had been chosen Outstanding Nurse for the months of January, February and March at the hospital. The announcement was made during the monthly nursing staff meeting.

A native of Big Spring, Mrs. Settles was educated in Big Spring schools and was a nursing aide at the hospital while in high school. Following graduation, she studied nursing at Howard College. After graduation she worked as an assistant director of nurses for four years at the United Health Care Nursing Inn. She then joined the staff of Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital and has worked there since 1975.

Mrs. Settles resides with her husband, Burr Lea Settles Jr., and three children at 1903 N. Monticello. She has two sons, ages 13 and 12, and a daughter, 9.

The "Outstanding Nurse" program is carried out by the Nurse Recognition Committee each quarter of the year at Hall-Bennett Hospital.

Prospectors' Club officers presented with certificates

Officers of the Big Spring Prospectors Club were presented with certificates of achievement at the club's January meeting. The officers were recognized for completing the cabochon given to them in December. The awardees then donated their stones to the Club's traveling showcase.

Cliff Chapman of Midland Gem and Mineral Faceters Guild spoke on "Ways to Dop Stones." The Show and Tell part of the meeting featured Charles Leek's demonstration of a ring made of Nugold, Vergil Perkins' demonstration of polished dinosaur stone and Jerald Wilson's discription of a Jasper Agate found in New Mexico.

Mike Thorton, jewelry instructor at Western Texas College in Snyder, was a guest. Planning began for the Prospectors Annual Gem and Mineral Show to be held March 5-6 at Dora Roberts Building in the fairgrounds.

Committee chairpersons were appointed as follows: Richard Reagan and Richard Thomas, building and grounds; Charles Leek, shop equipment; Mrs. Ralph Matteson, hospitality; Dan Clark, chaplain; Jerald Wilson, membership; Charles Leek, program; Vergil L. Perkins, Federation; Dixie Powell, historian; Mary Louise Traczyk, publicity; Chic Hale, field trips; and Ralph Matteson, parliamentarian.

Westside Center toured by group

The Sew and Chatter Club met Wednesday in the home of Twila Lomax. A short business meeting was held and the birthdays of Allie Moore and Charlsie Robinson were celebrated.

The group then went to Westside Center, toured the premises, including the kitchen, library and sewing room, and discussed the ways they could help with the programs there.

A remodeling program is to be begun there soon and Westside Center is seeking several items. A Bible story teacher is needed.

The club hosted a Valentine party for the children with punch, cookies, valentines and suckers.

The Sew and Chatter Club met Jan. 26 in the home of Bernice Davis. Club members bought afghans and patterns for other types of crochet, needlepoint and embroidery. Mrs. David displayed a quilt made by her mother, several other quilts and a cochet bedspread of unusual design. Birthdays of Avanel Cook and Twila Lomax were celebrated.

The next meeting will be Feb. 23 in the home of Verma McIlvain.

Former residents announce birth

Former Big Spring residents Kary and Lisa Richardson announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Amanda Renee, on Jan. 26 at Valley Community Hospital in Brownsville.

The infant arrived at 10:53 a.m. and weighed 5 pounds, 13 1/2 ounces. She measured 17 3/4 inches at birth.

Grandparents include Dub and Faye Day of Foran and Cecil and Joyce Richardson of Big Spring. Great-grandparents are T.R. and Ida Camp of Foran and Dewitt and Lee Roy Day of Big Spring.

Garden Club discusses planting bulbs

Mrs. Paul Guy spoke on "Make Your Garden More Beautiful with Bulbs" at the Planters Garden Club meeting in the home of Mrs. J.O. Murphy Feb. 2.

Mrs. Guy said bulbs provide whole groups of flowers for which there are no substitutes. Bulbs provide a month or more of color before the flowering of other plants and shrubs. Many bulbs can be grown indoors and outside.

One of the easiest and most certain types of flower growing is the forced bulb grown inside in pebbles or bulb fiber and water without benefit of soil. Narcissus, hyacinths, colchicums and crocus can be grown this way.

Tulips and daffodils require soil or compost. They can be potted in late fall, stored in the dark at cold temperature, then brought into the house a few at a time to flower. In this manner it is possible to have a bulb garden from January to April.

Most of these bulbs, after being forced, can be transferred to the garden and will establish themselves and flower during succeeding years.

Planting bulbs may be done in the garden from mid-August until the ground is too cold to dig. Choose firm bulbs with smooth, bright skin or coating. Provide good drainage, keep weeds down and provide bone meal every two to three years.

Water abundantly while foliage is growing. During the meeting, a report on the Council and the Johnny Johansen Scholarship fund was given. A young man was awarded $500 from the fund for Howard College Tuition.

Dairy Council urges handbook

The National Dairy Council has urged the federal government to develop a handbook that would list the sodium content of hundreds of foods as a way to assist people on sodium-restricted diets in planning their meals.

NDC President M.F. Brink, Ph.D., suggested that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration use the handbook to replace its sodium labeling proposal. The FDA proposal calls for only foods that presently have nutrition labels to also list sodium content.

"The foods that have nutrition labels are only a small percentage of all the foods in the marketplace," Brink said. "It would be more practical and cost effective to provide sodium information on a wider variety of foods in one handbook."

The handbook would be a useful reference for medical professionals, people who must reduce sodium intake and consumers who just want the information, Brink said.

Many dairy foods already bear nutrition labels because they are fortified with vitamins A and D. Fortification makes the labels mandatory. Dairy foods, along with products such as enriched breads and fortified cereals, would also carry sodium on their labels under FDA's plan. But many other foods — some containing high amounts of sodium — would not.

For example, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, a single dill pickle contains 928 milligrams of sodium. And a cup of chili from a can contains more than 1,000 milligrams. Yet neither of these products have nutrition labels nor would they have to list sodium content. By comparison, a cup of whole milk contains 120 milligrams and a slice of whole wheat bread has about 132 milligrams.

But there's also another side to sodium labeling. Research has linked sodium consumption to high blood pressure in some people genetically predisposed to the disease. But for the vast majority of people, present sodium consumption levels do not appear to adversely affect their blood pressure.

Houston livestock show attracts 55

Fifty-five members of the Howard and Glasscock County 4-Hs will be participating in the 1983 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo Feb. 19 - March 6. With more than 30,000 expected livestock entries, the Houston Livestock Show is once again called the world's largest.

The Houston Livestock show attracts livestock in both the open and junior divisions, said show president E. Norwin Gerhart, and offers more than a half-million dollars in prize money and premium auction prices above market value.

In addition to the livestock show, there is the National Cutting Horse Association World's Championship Finals, a world's championship rodeo, other contests and a rodeo parade to kick things off.

Jeff Clifton, a 16-year old Future Farmers of America member from Big Spring, will compete in the calf scramble.

Jeff will participate in the Feb. 26 performance in the Astrodome. Contestants must manage to catch a calf, halter it and drag it across the finish line. Those who do receive a $600 calf purchase certificate which enables the winner to purchase a purebred, registered heifer that he or she agrees to feed, fit, groom and return to the Houston Livestock show for special showing ring competition the following year.

In addition, the winner agrees to keep monetary records, submit monthly progress reports both to the Livestock show and to the individual sponsor, photographically record the progress of the calf and prepare a 500-word essay on the project.

Those exhibiting market steers from the area include: Joel Halfman, Karen Halfman, Lisa Halfman, Suzie Halfman, Carol Hoelscher, Douglas Hoelscher, Marianne Hoelscher, Curtis Pechacek and Michelle Pechacek (all Glasscock County 4-Hers); Cory Anderson, Dutch Barr, Russ Billingsley, Ron Brooks, Christie Burson, Mike Griffith, Duncan Hamlin, Cole Hunt, Rickie Long, Gregg Miller, Jamie Phillips, Andrea Ray, Darron Ray, Blair Richardson, Shauna Richardson, Lance Robinson, Kneel Stallings and Leigh Anne Wallace (all from the Howard County 4-H).

Exhibitors of market lambs include: Noah Ferguson (Big Spring FFA); Terri Murphy, Stacey Wilkerson, Brenda Havlak, Mandy Havlack, Kristi Jones, Michael Jones and Tavie C. Murphy (all of the Glasscock 4-H); Cory Anderson, Laura Kay Cobb, Gregg Miller, Gregg Newton, Kelly Newton, Jamie Phillips, Blair Richardson, Shauna Richardson, John Roman, Lorri Roman, and Scott Roman (all of the Howard County 4-H).

Exhibiting market barrows are: Curtis Pechacek, Michele Pechacek, Douglas Schaeffer, Courtney Strube, Gina Wilde, Neal Wilde, Richard Batla, Brian Frerich, Karen Halfmann, Lisa Halfmann, Brenda Havlak, Mandy Havlak, Cecilia Hirt, Allen Hoelscher, Carol Hoelscher, Dana Hoelscher, Douglas Hoelscher, Marianne Hoelscher, Kristi Jones, Michael Jones, Darren Jost, Douglas Jost, Jacque Jost, and Tiffany Jost (all of the Glasscock County 4-H).

State rejects program for area housing

Funding proposals for the Permian Basin Regional Finance Corp.'s issuance of low interest tax exempt bonds for single-family housing were turned down last week by the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Pam Hammit, director of personnel and administrative services, said that bonds were distributed based on the date each housing finance corporation's bond agreement was signed during 1982.

Out of 20 applicants for the funds, the Permian Basin organization was 16th in line for the funds, she said. Only the first 12 applications were funded.

However, during the next 40 days all housing finance corporations that did receive funding must obtain commitments on the full amount they were funded.

If, at the end of 45 days any entity has excess funds not committed, it must forfeit them to the state. If this occurs, there is a chance the PBHFC could receive full or partial funding, she said.

Restaurant couple: a family tradition

Jack and Mattie Taylor have continued a family tradition in the restaurant business by opening Jack & Mattie's Cafe at 901-A Third Street. The couple previously owned and operated the Premium Snack Bar for 8½ years.

Mrs. Taylor said the new cafe offers breakfast all day, homemade cinnamon rolls and coffee around the clock.

The restaurant is open from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays and from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday.

The establishment employs four workers. Mr. Taylor is the chef.

COAHOMA ROYALTY — Tommy McDaniel and Pam Riddle were recently selected as Mr. and Mrs. CHS at Coahoma High School's annual talent contest. McDaniel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Winn, and Miss Riddle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Riddle.

Mr., Mrs. CHS talents picked

Tommy McDaniel and Pam Riddle recently were selected as Mr. and Mrs. CHS at the Coahoma High School's annual talent contest.

McDaniel, son of Mrs. and Mrs. W.G. Winn, won with his performance of a rifle routine to the popular song "Working for the Weekend."

Miss Riddle's monologue, entitled "An American Supermarket," enabled her to win first place. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Riddle.

The pair also won the Mr. and Miss Congeniality contest.

Runners up were Vincent Kingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kingsley, and Dana Souter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Souter.

Third place went to Ron Clanton, son of Ronny and Eileen Clanton, and Stephanie Dobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quail Dobbs.

Master of ceremonies was Darren Zitterkopf and Kathi Wallis served as mistress of ceremonies.

Sponsors for the event were Janice Cook, Cheryl Green, Doug Harriman and Kim Nichols.

Farm Bureau president optimistic over future

WACO — S.M. True Jr. of Plainview, the new president of the Texas Farm Bureau, says American farmers and ranchers will survive the current economic agriculture crisis.

S.M. TRUE JR. ... Farm Bureau head

True, who was elected president in December, bases his prediction on the belief that Texas farmers and other state farmers share an optimistic attitude about the future.

The new Farm Bureau president has been farming for 37 years — a career he chose over flying. True has been serving in the Farm Bureau since 1952. He has worked on many agricultural associations throughout the years.

True points to the incentive inherent in family farming as crucial to survival over corporate farming operations. The competitiveness of free enterprise is the stimulus for the family farm, he said. "Whereas corporate farm employees merely seek a salary, the family farmer seeks for both a profit and the challenge of outdoing his neighbor," True said.

Scientists freeze to watch caribou play

By REBECCA R. KIRTLAND
National Geographic News Service
SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Think about it. You're living out of a little tent in the Canadian arctic 140 miles from civilization — and with no radio contact.

The wind blows incessantly across the tundra's glacial landscape and its mournful sound is punctuated at night by the high-pitched howling of hungry wolves.

The scuffling outside your tent may be a curious black bear investigating your campsite. Even the fiercely dangerous polar bears have been known to wander through the region.

"AT FIRST it seems quite eerie. But once you learn to live with the weather and the wildlife, it becomes a virtually stress-free environment," explained Dietland Muller-Schwarze. For three consecutive seasons he and his wife, Christine, have observed the rapidly increasing George River herd of caribou on their spring calving grounds in a remote region of Labrador, Canada.

"There are no distractions here — nothing to come between us and our work," he said. Muller-Schwarze is an animal behaviorist who teaches at the State University of New York here. His wife is a child psychologist, educated in Germany, where training in animal behavior is required for psychologists.

Their work? To evaluate the health of wild caribou herds by observing behavior. They believe science can learn a great deal about herd condition of these deer by using binoculars and spotting scopes rather than hunting and killing the animals for dissection.

Experienced wilderness survivors, they were undaunted by the remoteness of their field work on the George River herd. Once, however, they nearly ran out of food when the helicopter that periodically brought provisions did not arrive.

"When the scheduled day for its helping them stay afloat. Both cows and bulls grow and shed antlers each year.

return came and went — a perfect day for flying — then another day, and another, and still one more, we began to think we might have to walk out," Dr. Muller-Schwarze said.

"It would have been a 140-mile march to the hut of the Labrador wildlife biologist. With no radio, we did not know whether or not the helicopter had gone down, and we had no backup." Radio contact is difficult because there is no base station in the region and "basically there isn't anyone there to talk to," he said.

The couple began eating cotton grass — "tundra salad," they called it — that the caribou feed on.

"We figured if we have to walk out and graze like the caribou as we go, we may as well condition our stomachs to the available forage and start building up the enzymes we need to digest it. We were quite serious about it at the time," Dr. Muller-Schwarze said. But the helicopter, delayed by a medical emergency, arrived after four days.

The Muller-Schwarzes selected the George River herd for study because it had grown dramatically, for an estimated 15,000 animals in 1958 to some 350,000 now. The remoteness of its range from human activity is a factor in the growth rate, at least 13 percent a year. The region is not being developed, native peoples take less than 1 percent of the herd for food, and commercial killing and sports hunting are nearly non-existent.

THE SCIENTISTS chose to observe the calving grounds because they could count on seeing a large number of caribou in a relatively confined space. When spring comes to the tundra, the pregnant females lead the herd to the calving grounds — bleak, windswept uplands where there is less snow, fewer insects, and more isolation from wolves.

There each cow bears one calf — all within a few days of each other in early June when daylight lasts some 21 hours. Last year's progeny, the yearlings, stand sentinel some distance from the calving grounds, providing the first line of defense against wolves.

Within minutes of birth, a newborn caribou, not yet dry, stands on his feet, takes his first meal from his mother and runs off. While the newborns frolic, the Muller-Schwarzes record their activities: how and when they play, how often and for how long they nurse, whether the cows, yearlings, or calves fight and compete for food.

The scientists believe they have established a benchmark for behavior of healthy caribou on the calving grounds. Now they plan to study herds in Alaska and the Northwest Territories, where caribou are threatened by pipeline construction, overhunting, and higher wolf predation.

Although caribou do not easily adapt to man's disturbance of their range, a healthy herd can initiate change. "During the course of our study, they shifted their calving grounds to an area with better vegetation, lower altitude, and higher temperatures. And last year they moved again to a second new area," Dr. Muller-Schwarze said.

"It's very unusual because as long as they've been monitored they were predictable in returning to the same calving grounds — something scientists believed was the one constant in their annual cycle. But this herd seems to be managing its resources by rotating the calving grounds and not overexploiting any one area."

THE RESEARCHERS noticed that behavior changed when the caribou moved to the better calving area. "The newborns played more, nursed more frequently and for longer periods. Generally, the caribou were more active, but fought less for available forage," he said.

Amateurs find ancient burial ground

WACO (AP) — Indian skeletons and artifacts unearthed by amateur archaeologists are about 10,000 years old and may be ten centuries older than the "Leanderthal Lady," previously thought to be the oldest human remains found in Texas.

Members of the Waco-based Central Texas Archaeological Society announced Wednesday that they made the discovery at a site near Waco.

The find marks the second time in two months that Texas archaeologists announced the discovery of remains from the Paleo-Indian Period, which extended from about 12,000 B.C. to 6,000 B.C.

State archaeologists announced in late December the discovery of the "Leanderthal Lady," a skeleton estimated to be 9,000 years old and buried in the Texas Hill Country near Leander, about 100 miles south-southwest of Waco. Although radio-carbon testing is not complete, the "Leanderthal Lady" was thought to be the oldest human remains found in Texas.

However, Baylor University anthropology professor John Fox, who has been involved with the dig near Waco, said tests show the two complete skeletons and artifacts the amateurs found to be about 10,000 years old.

Dr. E. Mott Davis, director of the archaeological studies program at the University of Texas at Austin, said radio-carbon tests were run on the remains and artifacts at laboratories in Dallas, Houston and Austin.

Archaeologists said the skeletons and artifacts were well preserved because they were protected for eons against erosion and moisture by a natural rock shelter.

"Because it's in a cave, the preservation of bone is very good," said Dr. Joel Shiner, a Southern Methodist University anthropology professor who has advised the amateurs. "I think it's one of the most important sites anywhere in the four-state area."

Members of the society have worked and financed the excavation at the site for 15 years. The dig, and the Leander discovery, are thought to be among six known sites of Paleo-Indian remains in North America.

"It (the site) has allowed us to get a lot of information. It isn't just a little bit here, a little bit there — it's a whole lot of stuff that is coming out," said Shiner.

The society issued a press-release Wednesday that said the two skeletons are "the only ones associated with a wide inventory of burial artifacts which provides a rare glimpse of the culture of ice-age man in Texas and his views of the afterlife."

Harte-Hanks' 1982

earnings up over '81

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. reported Wednesday that its 1982 primary earnings were 6 percent higher than the figures for the previous year.

Robert G. Marbut, president and chief executive officer, said primary earnings were $2.78 a share for 1982 compared to $2.62 a share for 1981. Fully diluted earnings were $2.66 a share in 1982 and $2.51 a share the previous year.

"The economic environment in 1982 was the worst Harte-Hanks has faced since becoming a public company 11 years ago. We were able to turn in a solid operating performance by continuously re-evaluating our assumptions about the environment and realistically responding," said Marbut.

"Management at every level concentrated on generating revenues, improving productivity, controlling expenses, and managing assets and people more prudently. Emphasis was also placed on addressing marginal elements. This intense focus on basic operations is being carried over into 1983," said Marbut.

Earnings in 1982 were after goodwill amortization of 53 cents a share, compared with 51 cents in 1981.

Net income in 1982 was $27,297,000, an 8 percent increase over the $25,362,000 reported a year ago. Revenues were $396,903,000, 14 percent higher than the $348,519,000 reported in 1981.

The fourth quarter was the company's 44th consecutive quarter of earnings growth over the same quarter of the previous year.

Primary earnings for the last quarter of 1982 were 86 cents per share, up 9 percent from the 79 cents for the same quarter of 1981. Fully diluted earnings were 81 cents per share in the 1982 fourth quarter, compared with 76 cents the year before.

Net income in the fourth quarter was $8,451,000, up 9 percent from the $7,725,000 in the same quarter of 1981.

Lee evades BSHS upset bid

Harmon's jumper lifts No. 1 Rebels to 48-47 victory

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

It was almost a spectacular way to end the season. But even in losing, their performance revved up a few heartbeats.

Stacy Harmon sank a baseline jumper with 23 seconds to play to lift No. 1 Midland Lee to a 48-47 victory over a scrappy bunch of Big Spring High Lady Steers.

Despite the loss, Big Spring concluded its first winning season since District 4-AAAAA basketball began some six years ago. The Lady Steers finished 14-12 overall and 9-5 in league play, tying defending champion San Angelo Central for third place.

Lee won its 12th straight game and rushed through the 4-5A scheduled with a 13-1 record. Crosstown rival Midland High, 11-3, grabbed the other playoff berth by downing Central 49-39. In other final night games, Odessa ripped Abilene High 56-45 and Permian smashed Cooper 66-39.

For Big Spring, Thursday night's performance was more than gallant. Down 44-40 with 2:28 to play, the Lady Steers displayed their maturity by rallying back into the lead. Two costly turnovers, however, kept them away from ending the season with their biggest upset of the year.

Yshun King fired in a jump shot to put the Rebels ahead by four with 2:58 to play. After trading turnovers, Big Spring battled and battled under their own basket trying to close the game to two points. After four misses, Paula Spears couldn't convert two free shots. Big Spring got the ball back and after another miss, Shell Rutledge hit one of two foul shots to make it 44-41.

Lee missed a try downcourt and the Lady

Steers went to their money player. Rutledge broke free in the lane and laid a shot off the glass. Not only was the shot good but she added a free throw to knot the game 44-44 with 1:40 to go.

Lee turned the ball over and fouled Debra Rubio. Rubio calmly sank both shots to put Big Spring ahead with 1:29 to play. After Lee lost possession again, Spears was fouled. She was able to hit her first try to put BSHS further ahead, 47-44.

Then Midland came back. Chris Bigler scored her only two points of the game to bring her team within a point with 1:07 to go. Big Spring tried to run time off the clock but the cat-quick Lee defense stole the ball from Rutledge with 46 seconds left.

The Rebels worked for the last shot but Harmon surprised everyone with an attempt at 23 seconds. It was all net and Big Spring had to battle back again.

The Lady Steers gave the ball away trying to set up Rutledge for the last shot and the Rebels were able to run out the clock and preserve their winning streak.

"Well, we gave them a run for their money," a sad but smiling first-year coach Annette Fowler said. "I'm pretty sure we held them to their lowest total in district."

It was quick-on-quick all night long as both teams played man defenses. "I think our player-to-player bothered them a little," Fowler said.

Hurling the Lady Steers was the absence of scoring from junior Monette Wise. A model of consistency throughout district play, Wise could not get a shot to fall from the outside. She finished just 2-of-15 for the game.

"She was real tight," her coach said. "She's been so steady, I guess it was her turn to have a bad night."

After falling behind 8-4 early in the game, Big Spring used quick downcourt movement and hot shooting to roar into a 20-10 lead in the second quarter. Lee hit a 12-4 spurt to close the half to cut their halftime deficit to two points.

It was all Lee in the third period as Queen Sanders put her team ahead 28-26 at the 4:46 mark. Midland led by as many as six points on several occasions and entered the final quarter on top 36-31. It was a four-point game until the final two minutes when BSHS made its final charge.

Tris Clemons scored 14 points and hauled in 13 rebounds to lead the junior varsity to a 41-39 victory. The win boosted Elaine Stone's team to a winning for the year at 14-13. The Lady Steers were 6-8 in 4-5A play.

BASKETBALL

• For Big Spring High to get in the state 5-A playoffs, a complicated system of results in the final three nights of District 4-AAAAA play would have to occur. But it's still possible.

The first order of business is for the Steers to win each of their last three games beginning with Midland Lee tonight. Also, Midland would have to defeat San Angelo and Odessa defeat Abilene tonight to keep BSHS hopes alive until Tuesday.

The Steers are at Midland College's Chap Center for an 8 p.m. game with Lee, owners of a 1-10 league mark and 3-24 season record. For any of the complications to take place, Big Spring must defeat Lee.

The Steers won the opener between the team 75-46 in Big Spring. Lee is led by Alvin Henry (8.9 ppg), Tod Brown (8.4 ppg) and Sylvester Johnson (8.0 ppg).

Jerald Wrightsil continues to lead the district in scoring with 26 points a game.

Hawks snap streak, pound NMMI, 108-89

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

"It's nice to win a game." That simple — but long-awaited statement came from Howard College Coach Harold Wilder immediately after his team had pounded New Mexico Military Institute for a 108-89 win.

The win smashed a four-game losing streak for the Hawks and kept alive their hopes in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference race. The victory lifted Howard College to an 18-7 season record.

"I was pleased with the way we played," Wilder said. "We played hard and concentrated on the little things we've been making errors on. We made some tonight, but not as many, so it was sure an improvement."

NMMI, outmanned by the Hawks' outside shooting and worrisome defense, never made a serious challenge at Howard College. The Hawks held a cushioned lead between 10-25 points throughout the contest.

Howard College got another good night from their scoring machine Nate Givens, the leading scorer in the WJAC, who netted 31 points. Not far behind was Dwight Harris with 25 and Leon Issac with 19.

Even with the trios' heavy scoring, Wilder labeled the win an "overall team effort."

"We had had problems from top to bottom, in that every player had played poorly at different times," Wilder said. "But tonight we played well and it was also top to bottom — everyone contributed tonight."

The lose dropped NMMI to 5-18 for the year and to 1-12 in WJAC play. Patrick Elmore scored 30 points in his team's cause.

The Hawks will be in action Saturday night along with the Hawk Queens for a doubleheader with South Plains College. The Hawks finish out their home season stand Monday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum against top-ranked Midland College.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 12, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day to contact persons who have been difficult to reach during busy workweek. Be sure you understand what others expect of you at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find out how you stand with others and do whatever is needed to improve relations. Try to understand views of loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make new acquaintances who can help to enrich your life in many ways. Attend a group meeting that is worthwhile.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take part in new activities that are fine for you but first know all the facts concerning them. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your mate may have a change of attitude, so go along with new ideas for best results. Take it easy tonight and express happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show more interest in civic affairs and gain the respect of others. You can make this a most productive day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve your environment so that it is more inspiring and brings you greater comfort. Strive for increased happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what a good friend has to suggest for greater pleasure ahead. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get rid of whatever is causing disharmony at home and be happier in the future. Put your talents to work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to study a new project well before you put it in operation. Don't take any risks that could prove costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make long-range plans that could give you added income in the future. Come to a better understanding with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are likely to be upset about matters you can't change, so concentrate on whatever brings you inner peace.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can understand both sides of a situation, so teach to stand up for what is right. Success and happiness will surely follow. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

HE JUST NEEDS--

A CHANGE OF WARDROBE

BLONDIE

I'M SORRY BUT HE'S TAKING A NAP RIGHT NOW

PLEASE DON'T TELL EVERYONE I'M NAPPING ALL THE TIME

WHY NOT?

PEOPLE MIGHT GET THE IDEA I'M A LAZY, GOOD-FOR-NOTHING LOAFER

LOLLY

WHAT HAPPENED TO YOUR TAIL? IT WAS STEPPED ON.

BY WHOM? BY ME.

FRANKLIN, YOU'LL HAVE TO GO ON THE WAGON.

SAD BUT TRUE.

LATIGO

LIFE SURE IS FUNNY SOMETIMES, LAST WEEK I WAS BROKE, UNEMPLOYED, AND POVERTY-STRUCK.

AND TODAY I'M A CITY EMPLOYEE WITH MONEY, IN THE BANK, SMOKIN' A CHEAP CIGAR!

MAYBE I HAVEN'T EXACTLY GONE FROM RAGG TO RICHES, BUT THERE HAS BEEN SOME IMPROVEMENT.

USUALLY I GO FROM RAGG TO RAGG.

BUZ SAWYER

I FEEL LOUSY, OFFICER, GOTTA EAT SOON...

LET'S GET INSIDE!

THAT POOR MAN IS REALLY SICK AND HUNGRY...

HE BROUGHT IT ON HIMSELF CHRIS... TRYING TO MAKE IT THE "EASY" WAY!

I HOPE THIS WON'T TAKE LONG— IT SEEMS WE GET SIDETRACKED WHETHER WE GO SOUTH OR NORTH!

GASOLINE ALLEY

Pertsy, honey... I kin explain! I wuz aimin' t' cut you in on th' deal!

I'll listen to no more of your lies! Go!

I was nothing to her! Just a toy to be cast aside!

Now I'll never (Gob) ever see her again!

WHAT YOU NEED IS A CHANGE OF SCENERY, MAW

SOME SCENERY!!

DICK TRACY

HOW CAN CLIMBER HOPE TO GET AWAY WITH THIS?

BUT NO ONE WILL HEAR ME CRY OUT... HE COULD WAIT TILL IT'S OVER, UNTIE ME...

AND IT'LL LOOK ACCIDENTAL— LIKE I WAS WANDERING AROUND OUT HERE AND CAUGHT A ROOKIE'S BULLET!

READY? YESSIR.

WIZARD OF ID

WELL, YOUNG FELLOW, WHAT DO YOU WANT TO BE WHEN YOU GROW UP?

A DOCTOR AND A LAWYER

WHY BOTH?

IN CASE I'M A LOUSY DOCTOR

ANDY CAPP

COULD YOU USE SOME COMPANY, DARLIN'?

SURE COULD

YOU'LL BE SORRY

I'LL CHANCE IT—

THE POSSIBILITY OF MEETIN' SOMEONE YOU KNOW ALWAYS INCREASES WHEN YOU'RE WITH SOMEONE YOU WOULDN'T WANT TO BE SEEN WITH

OH, YES, ONE OF THEM CLEVER ONES

B.C.

I ONLY DO OFFICE WORK

GOOD!... I'VE GOT A JOB FOR YOU SORTING STAPLES

HOW YOU DOING?

I GOT SIX SACKS OF FLOUR, 2 JUICES OF WATER, 4 POTATOES AND A TWINKIE!

Wesley United 'caring church'

By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

When the Rev. W.O. Rucker retires from Wesley United Methodist Church in June, he will be leaving a career he loves and a church "which is really one of the most caring churches I've ever pastored."

Rev. Rucker is taking an early retirement from the ministry because "I'm a heart patient." He explained that his doctor advised him to retire and take it easy for awhile because of his condition. "I'm ready to retire," he says. "But it is upsetting. I've really got seven more years to go until retirement age. I feel like I'm wasting seven years. But the doctor said to get out, so I'm going to get out." Rev. Rucker and his wife will be moving to Ruidoso, N.M., where he will be fishing and taking it easy "to get my health back."

He then began preparing for the ministry and says "It's the only thing I find happiness at." He has been a minister for 28 years. His profession allows him "to help people get over their problems. I feel like I'm being of service to someone."

Rev. Rucker came to Wesley United Methodist Church from Lamesa. He says he enjoys working with Wesley United Methodist Church because "it is a smaller church. The people have a chance to become involved."

Religion briefs

By CAROL HART
Religion Editor

Bible study planned

The Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, is beginning another 16-week Bible study class. The organizational meeting was held Jan. 31. The next meeting date for the class has been set for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Parish Hall, 9th and Scurry.

This class is for anyone in the community who wishes to become better acquainted with the Word of God. Rev. Kohl will use the Bible as his only text.

Areas of study include suffering, life, death, baptism, holy communion and prayer. There are no other obligations involved.

Class members will be given the opportunity to participate in the discussions and to ask questions in an informal setting.

People interested in the course may enroll by calling the church office, 267-7163, from 8:30 a.m. to noon,

MR. & MRS. DAVID SWANN
...to lead seminar

Couple to lead seminar

David and Roxanne Swann, pastors of Faith Christian Fellowship in Clovis, N.M., will lead a seminar Sunday through Tuesday at the Christ Fellowship Church, FM 700 and E. 11th Pl.

The Swanns are both 1979 graduates of Rhema Bible Training Center. Swann worked with Kenneth Hagin ministries in the prayer and healing school as a healing counselor. He says during this time he was called to return to his home town of Clovis, N.M., to begin Faith Christian Fellowship, described as a family church and World Outreach Center.

He says that three families from the church have been called to France and Central America to preach. May overseas trips have been scheduled for church delegations in 1983.

Mrs. Swann is executive director of the church. She oversees the operation of Faith Christian Academy and the Ministry Training School. She is responsible for the execution of the church budget.

The couple has a daughter, Janae, who is 22-months-old.

Swann will be ministering during the evening services at 6 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Mrs. Swann will be ministering Monday and Tuesday at 10 a.m. to women of the church.

Choir to present "Messiah"

The second annual Midland Adult Choir Festival under the direction of Dr. Stanley Engbretson, will be held at the First Baptist Church of Midland Feb. 17 at 8 p.m.

The event is being sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches and the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral. The all-community festival chorus will perform the Easter portion of George Frederick Handel's "Messiah." The performance will feature community soloists and a chamber ensemble of orchestra members.

Participants in the festival are being drawn from Midland church choirs and from other interested individuals. The first rehearsal is Sunday. Anyone interested in participating is asked to call the Symphony office at 563-0921, for more information.

The "Messiah" is based on the scriptures, and begins with Old Testament prophecies and goes through the life of Christ.

JOE WALTON
...new Jets coach

Walton awarded Jets' job

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Walton, the man credited with the dramatic offensive improvement of the New York Jets, has been named the National Football League team's new head coach. He counts himself among those surprised by events leading to his promotion.

Walton Thursday succeeded Walt Michaels, whose six-year tenure ended in an air of mystery 24 hours earlier with a retirement announcement made public by the club.

Jim Kensil, president of the Jets, insisted that Michaels' retirement was just that and that the decision had been unexpected. He shrugged off reports that management had forced Michaels' move because of emotional outbursts by the coach.

"There have been many reports," he said, "I'm commenting on none of them."

But he said there had been no effort on the part of the club to change Michaels' mind and that the former coach would not remain with the organization.

Asked how he felt about Michaels' departure, Kensil said, "There's no point to how I feel one way or another. I'm just glad we could replace him with such a capable person."

That person was Walton, who in two years as the Jets' offensive coordinator had been credited with the maturation of quarterback Richard Todd and the improvement of the team's attack. Todd, who threw 30 interceptions in 1980, the year before Walton arrived in New York, was the third leading passer in the AFC last season, and the Jets had the third best offense in the NFL.

Walton said the turn of events was a surprise to him. He had spent last week in Honolulu with Michaels and said he had seen no indication of an impending retirement.

"He was relaxed and happy," Walton said. "He enjoyed the game and the week."

Joe Gardi, a member of the team's staff for seven years and defensive coordinator for the last two seasons, has been named assistant head coach.

Walton said he will not hire an offensive coordinator to replace himself. "We'll probably hire an assistant on offense," he said. "But I'll be the offensive coordinator. Nothing will change as far as on-the-field operations."

One assistant, Pete McCulley, was dismissed as the receivers coach, but the others were asked to remain.

Walton said his main priority is to keep the Jets competitive. The team reached the AFC championship game before losing to Miami last month.

earlier wins. HC is 4-5 in league play after Monday's 69-62 victory over South Plains in Levelland. Christi Adams contributed a season-high 18 points to follow a 24-point game by Nell Haskins.

Haskins leads the WJAC in scoring with 29 points a game and is rated among the top three in the nation. Susan Cordell has 130 blocked shots for the season.

Lori Gerber, the second leading scorer in the league, had 15 points in Monday's game.

●The Hawks snapped a four-game losing streak in conference play with a 108-89 victory over New Mexico Military Academy Thursday night.

HC is now 5-7 in conference and 18-7 for the season.

South Plains whipped the Hawks 102-84 Monday night despite 18 points by Nate Givens, the leading scorer in the league. Dwight Harris, hampered by a recent injury, returned to form against NMMI, hitting 25 points.

South Plains is paced by Dick Winter's 18 points a contest and stands 19-6 and 9-4.

The Big Spring High boys golf team is in San Antonio for an invitational meet Friday. Leading the BSHS charge over the Riverside Country Club course are seniors Rory Worthan, Scott Underwood and Joe Rodriguez.

Spurs take Break with win

CROWDED CONDITIONS — Houston Rocket Allen Leavell finds himself boxed in by Washington Bullets Charles Davis, left, and Jeff Ruland. The Bullets held off the Rockets 104-100 in the Capital Centre Thursday night.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio coach Stan Albeck and Golden State coach Al Attles both are looking forward to resting their teams during the National Basketball Association All-Star break.

But Attles may be wanting to rest just a little bit more.

His battered Warriors, who came to Texas after a tough 103-98 loss Wednesday to Kansas City, ran out of gas Thursday night as the Spurs ran away with a 128-109 victory.

"Tonight we played a decent first half," Attles said after the loss which dropped the Warriors to 20-30. "In the second half, the Spurs completely outplayed us."

George "Ice Man" Gervin scored 38 points including six during a pivotal 18-4 third quarter run to lead the Spurs. San Antonio widened a 63-60 halftime lead with their biggest run of the night, scoring 12 unanswered points during one stretch.

Gervin, who sat out the fourth quarter, started the deluge with six straight points and San Antonio ran off to a 98-80 third quarter advantage.

The Spurs led by 23, on two occasions before settling for the 19-point margin. Artis Gilmore backed up Gervin with 17 points and Gene Banks finished with 15.

San Antonio traded two draft choices to Detroit Thursday for center Edgar Jones, who played 17 minutes and contributed six points for the Spurs. San Antonio also has added UCLA graduate Mike Sanders to its roster from the Continental Basketball Association. Sanders played 14 minutes and had 14 points.

Joe Barry Carroll and Lester Conner paced Golden State with 16 apiece. Conner's 16 points was his career high.

Bullets 104, Rockets 100

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Houston Rockets fouled the wrong player with the game on the line, but they didn't have much choice.

Ricky Sobers, who has made 27 of 29 free throws since joining Washington, sank three foul shots in the final seven seconds to clinch a 104-100 National Basketball Association victory for the Bullets Thursday night.

"Certainly, we were trying to get him the ball," Washington Gene Shue said of Sobers, who was signed as a free agent on Jan. 24 after sitting out the first three months of the season.

The Rockets, who lost their eighth in a row on the road and have the worst away record in the NBA at 2-22, pulled to within 101-100 on a field goal by Caldwell Jones with 21 seconds remaining.

Sobers sank one free throw after being fouled away from the ball with seven seconds left, and Washington retained possession on the rare call.

Then, with four seconds remaining, Sobers sank two more free throws after another Walker foul.

Sobers, who led Washington with 22 points, had connected on 18 consecutive free throws before missing early in the fourth quarter.

Hagler fights tonight

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — "This is my business and if there is a new product coming up I got to know about it," says Marvin Hagler, part-time baked-bean salesman and full-time middleweight champion of the world.

The new product Hagler will test tonight is a square-jawed Englishman named Tony Sibson.

The test will come in a scheduled 15-round bout for the undisputed 160-pound class title Hagler won when he stopped another Englishman, Alan Minter, in three rounds Sept. 27, 1981.

Hagler is a solid favorite to make his sixth successful defense before a sellout crowd of 13,577 in the Centrum. The fight also will be telecast by Home Box Office at about 10:20 p.m. EST, and will be seen on closed circuit television in England.
