Pro-SWCID petition lists 4,543

By CAROL HART
 Staff Writer

Sharon Andrews, a former employee of the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf who is heading up a community support drive for the college, said 4,543 signatures were tallied Friday on petitions circulated in support of the school.

The petition deadline was 6 p.m. Friday but Miss Andrews said she would keep collecting signatures.

"There will be no more going out, but I'm sure there are more petitions out and I'd like people to bring them on in," she said.

Calling the community support "tremendous," Miss Andrews said she had hoped for around 5,000 signatures and said she was pleased with the number of signatures obtained.

Since news came that SWCID was in danger of closing due to a lack of funds, Miss Andrews and several volunteers and staff members of the Howard County Junior College District have been working to drum up both community support and backing in the Texas Legislature.

During the past week, Miss Andrews said she contacted eight organizations, giving small presentations and leaving petitions with each. She estimates that 300 petitions were delivered around the county. Many were run off at her own expense and volunteers helped with the expenses of running off others.

"I feel the response has been tremendous," Miss Andrews said. "People are aware and supportive of SWCID. When I asked them if they had an opportunity to sign the petition, they didn't even ask 'What is it?' They knew."

"When we have the time, people tell me why they want to keep SWCID open," she said. "They give positive reasons. Some have said they want to see it stay open for socio-economic reasons, and others said there needs to be a place where (deaf students) can learn responsibility."

Miss Andrews said she plans to deliver the petitions to the office of State Representative Larry Don

"HAPPY HORSE" — Billy Hughes, on Texas' Death Row for killing a policeman, displays examples of the "Happy Horse" cartoons he draws in prison at Huntsville. "He's in that stall just like I'm locked in all the time," he says.

Death Row cartoons

Drawing comic passes time for inmate

By CHARLES C. HILL
 Associated Press Writer

HUNTSVILLE — Billy Hughes, whose art studio is Cell J-21 on Texas Death Row, says he can identify with the smiling animal who is the star of his "Happy Horse" cartoons.

"He's in that stall just like I'm locked in all the time," said Hughes. "I call my cell a stall instead of a cell. I don't refer to it as a cell because that's kind of cold and hard."

Hughes ran a horseshoeing business in Fairhope, Ala., and delighted in owning, showing and training horses before he was convicted of killing a Texas Department of Public Safety officer in 1976.

"I haven't touched a horse in over six years now and I miss it terribly," Hughes said in an interview in prison.

From his 5-foot-by-9-foot Death Row cell, Hughes, 31, draws his cartoons for horse magazines, directs the publication of a national stable guide, produces illustrations for publications of the Louisiana Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and co-edits a national newsletter for Death Row inmates and their families.

"I do not have enough time in the day," he said. "But if I didn't have these particular things, I would be studying sign language or braille or just sitting and drawing. If I had nothing in my cell but a pencil, I would draw on the walls."

He said he doesn't understand how other inmates can spend their days watching soap operas on television.

"I've always got to have something to do. I would not just sit there and vegetate, watching TV or listening to the radio or something like that," he said. "I like to be a doer, not a talker."

Hughes said one thing he did not do was kill the DPS officer he was accused of slaying near Sealy.

He said he was pulled over by two DPS officers while he was driving through Texas, and that when he reached into his glove compartment for his motor vehicle registration, a gun blast shattered his rear window. Hughes said he sped off and later was arrested and charged with killing the officer.

The inmate, who twice has received stays of execution while his case is being appealed, said he would expand his cartooning and stable guide business if he were freed. He also would be able to try out the guide, which he started three years ago while in prison.

The twice-yearly guide, titled "Travel'n Horseman's Stable Guide," is designed for people who travel with horses and need a place to board

12 hurt in Austin KKK riot

By KEN HERMAN
 Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — A Ku Klux Klan rally turned into a riot Saturday when hundreds of hecklers hurled rocks and debris at robed Ku Klux Klan marchers who circled the state Capitol.

Police arrested nine people. Four police officers, six demonstrators, a bystander and a reporter were injured in the melee. None was hospitalized.

The Klan march came four hours after a peaceful demonstration earlier Saturday by anti-Klan organizations. The Austin City Council granted parade permits for both rallies.

About 50 Klansmen, some with shields and helmets, marched to the Capitol from a nearby park. The short route was lined with hecklers — as many as 1,500, according to Larry Todd, Department of Public Safety information officer.

An Austin policeman, two Department of Public Safety troopers and a Travis County Sheriff's deputy were taken to a hospital after being hit with debris thrown by hecklers.

Brackenridge Hospital officials said all the injured suffered minor wounds, such as lacerations and bruises, and that none had been hospitalized.

Elena de la Garza of Brackenridge Community Relations said she did not know if the demonstrators were injured by debris, other demonstrators or police.

Several people were pushed to the ground and a reporter was struck in the jaw by nightstick-wielding policeman as officers tried to push the crowd back behind a police line.

A police spokesman said those arrested face charges ranging from assault to inciting to riot. He said one person was arrested for possession of marijuana.

ANTI-KLAN ARREST — Austin police subdue an anti-Klan demonstrator who was arrested during the rally Saturday.

The Klan rally on the Capitol grounds was drowned out by the shouting crowd. Klan leader James Stanfield of Channelview, Texas, used a bullhorn, but could not shout the crowd. Hecklers forced their way through the tumult to spit at the Klansmen.

"You can't beat us," Stanfield, clad in a red robe, yelled. "Change sides and join us. Make your mothers proud of you."

"We'll give you whatever you need. Join the Klan, become a man, all you white people. You black people, go back to Africa," he said.

The hecklers followed the Klansmen as they went to the back of the Capitol. Helmeted police — including 150 Austin policemen called in for the day — shielded the Klansmen from the crowd, but not

Khadafy's protestors

Libyans burn effigies of Reagan; threats against U.S. grow stronger

By The Associated Press
Thousands of screaming Libyans demonstrated in Tripoli and other cities Saturday, protesting the "overt terrorist provocations of the U.S. 6th Fleet" and burning effigies of President Reagan, the official JANA news agency reported.
It said the protests erupted in Tripoli, Benghazi, Tobruk, Sebha, Kufra, Jaghoub, Derna, Musurata and Sirte, and that the demonstrators torched pictures and effigies of Reagan, Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Sudanese President Gaafar Nimeiri.
The revolutionary regime of Col. Moammar Khadafy charged, meanwhile, that U.S. spy planes and warships were jamming Libyan communications and it threatened to turn the Gulf of Sidra into a bay of "blood and fire" if the 6th Fleet carrier Nimitz entered its waters.
His government also said Libyan jet fighters intercepted and forced a foreign aircraft to withdraw from skies over Libyan waters. It denied U.S. and Sudanese charges that Libya was massing jets and troops near Sudan's borders.
JANA said U.S. Navy vessels and Airborne Warning and Control Systems "spy aircraft," known as AWACS, started "jamming civil communications" in Libya on Friday.

The dispatch, monitored in Rome, provided no other details of the alleged jamming.
In Khartoum, Nimeiri canceled results of recent elections of the ruling Socialist Union Party, Sudan's only legal party, and fired four party officials, the Sudanese News Agency reported.
It identified one of the dismissed members as former Vice President Abu El-Kassem Mohammed Ibrahim, who had been elected party director in Khartoum, the capital.
The Sudanese dispatch, carried by Cairo's Middle East News Agency, did not give reasons for Nimeiri's actions and it was not clear whether they were related to the tensions with Libya.
On Friday, Sudan's official Radio Omdurman said without elaboration that security agents had arrested members of a revolutionary organization who had received instructions in Khadafy's radical political theories.
Pentagon sources say the United States has four AWACS in Egypt to counter what it says are Libyan threats to Sudan. But the White House, the State Department and the Defense Department declined to comment on the Libyan charge.

13 die in club shooting

No motive found for slayings in Seattle

By LEONARD PALLATS
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE — The slayings of 13 people at a private gambling club shocked Seattle's normally quiet Chinatown.
"I didn't hear anything and neither did my dog," said Richard Scott, who manages the apartments above the Wah Mee club, where the bodies were found early Saturday.
The owner of a cafe a half-block away, who asked not to be identified, described the neighborhood as peaceful — "just as peaceful as any other neighborhood."
"In fact, I think we are safer here than in any other neighborhood. We have been here 25 years and have never been robbed."

CHINATOWN — Police found 13 people dead behind these buildings in Seattle's usually quiet Chinatown area

Neat bundles of carefully wrapped trash stood piled against the walls in Maynard Alley on Saturday morning. The police had finished going through the rooms of the Wah Mee club, halfway down the alley.
Shops, closed since the previous evening, reopened and did a light but steady business. A few neighborhood residents stopped to look. Most whispered a few words to each other, took a glance around and went on about their business on the damp, chilly morning.
The alley, more than wide enough to drive through, is well-lit. Several fluorescent lights are on all night and lights from stores at the edge of the alley also provide illumination.
Through the night, the normally quiet block in Chinatown had been crowded with reporters and cameramen. Photographers took pictures of the club's doors. A few hours earlier, police had pried open those doors after a wounded man was found in the alley. They discovered 12 bodies, all shot in the head, and a wounded person who later died.

The club is housed in a four-story old brick building.
"It's a sound building," said Scott. "But some of the plaster is coming down upstairs."
He said he didn't notice any unusual traffic in the area Friday night, "but I don't know what they usually have because I don't generally go downstairs at night."
Scott said some of his maintenance work had taken him to the part of the building that houses the club and that he had seen a two-way mirror in the entrance area.
Police described the door as having a "panic bar" that provided additional security by automatically locking the door when it was allowed to swing closed.

"It just can't be a robbery," said Doug Chin, who is involved in the district activities and employed with the City's Department of Community Development. He explained that there was probably not enough money among the dead to have justified the 13 killings.
"I imagine that it's a place for the older generation folks who've gambled for a long time and who gamble all over the district," said Chin.
Ed Burke, an architect with Burke and Associates, lives and works in the neighborhood.
"During World War II this was a bar," he said, adding that in recent years the building has been used primarily for storage.
"It's highly likely that some of my friends were in there," Burke said.

Search widens for ex-Midland tax protestor

JAMESTOWN, N.D. (AP) — The weeklong manhunt for a tax protestor wanted in the killings of two U.S. marshals has spread into neighboring states, the FBI said Saturday.
Agent Dan Patty said authorities seeking 63-year-old Gordon Kahl have been following up leads in Montana, South Dakota and Minnesota. He did not elaborate on the nature of the leads or indicate any specific areas of investigation.

Acting U.S. Marshal Lou Aleksich in Billings, Mont., said there was a "strong" possibility that Kahl might be in eastern Montana.
Aleksich noted Kahl has claimed to be a member of the paramilitary tax-protest group, Posse Comitatus, and he said the group is active in eastern Montana. He gave no other reason for believing Kahl was in that state.
Asked about Aleksich's report, Patty said, "We've been conducting an investigation in that area of Montana, but to say there is a good possibility he is there, no."
Meanwhile, Patty said, the federal effort has switched from "a convoy sort of approach" to more conventional two-man teams who "pound the bricks, knock on doors and ask questions."

By "convoy approach," Patty referred to the 100 or so heavily armed officers who earlier in the week stormed Kahl's farmhouse in Heaton. A convoy of officers also surrounded the small town of Ashley after apparently getting a tip that Kahl might be there.
"We're at that point now where we're putting in normal working hours," Patty said.

Conservatives want Reagan in 1984

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservatives loudly cheered a call for the firing of White House staff chief James A. Baker on Saturday and indicated overwhelming support of a second term for President Reagan.
In a survey sponsored by organizers of the Conservative Political Action Conference, 88 percent of those who responded said Reagan should run for re-election in 1984. Twelve percent said he should not.
Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., was the strong choice for the 1984 Republican nomination if Reagan should decide to retire.

Kemp was the first choice of 55 percent of those responding. In second place with 15 percent was Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo. Vice President George Bush was named by 11 percent, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., by 5 percent.
Kemp spoke on Saturday and told his audience that the dissent within the conservative movement was "a sign that we've become the majority."
"We're winning," said the Buffalo congressman. "There is no doubt in my mind that we're winning."

Also appearing Saturday was Interior Secretary James Watt, who told conference participants they would face radicals and other "forces of evil" in the 1984 elections.
Watt said the environmental and nuclear freeze movements "are tools the radical left-wing activists will grab hold of to fight political liberty and spiritual freedom."
In organizations like the Sierra Club and the Audubon Society, two leading environmentalist groups, "these forces of evil ally with innocent people," the secretary said.

Braniff-PSA venture OK'd

FORT WORTH (AP) — A federal judge and the Civil Aeronautics Board approved a plan Friday to return some of grounded Braniff International's planes and employees to the air as part of Pacific Southwest Airlines.
U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon had been reviewing the plan for two weeks. U.S. Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers approved it Jan. 31.

"I am convinced this is the best that can be achieved under the circumstances," Flowers said in approving the plan. "The PSA agreement offers Braniff, its estate and its creditors a deal at least 25 percent better than liquidation and would eliminate lengthy and costly" court proceedings.
He said creditors could expect 9 cents on the dollar if Braniff were liquidated. Under the PSA agreement, creditors could be paid 12 cents for each dollar, even if no profit was made by PSA, Flowers said.

Braniff, faced with debts of about $1 billion, ceased operations May 12 and filed for protection from its creditors the next day in Flowers' court.
Under the proposal, PSA would hire about 2,000 former Braniff employees and lease 30 Braniff jets for a division based at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport.

Following Mahon's ruling, American Airlines, one of the deal's most active opponents, said it would appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Three die in cave-in SEYMOUR, Texas (AP) — Three Louisiana men were killed Saturday when a 12-foot pit they were digging caved in on them.

Witnesses said the men were building a seed cleaning elevator pit at Baylor Milling Co. when one wall of the pit collapsed on top of them.
A fourth man was buried to his shoulders, but was rescued by two other workers.

IRA 10% PENALTY (Not Always Bad)
You may be reluctant to set up an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) because of the 10% penalty that is assessed by the IRS if you withdraw any of the funds before you reach age 59 1/2.

An IRA is attractive for several reasons. You can make tax deductible contributions of $2,000 annually or 100% of your earnings if you earn less than $2,000. A working spouse can contribute an additional $250 for a non-working spouse. Money put into an IRA can be invested in any number of things and grows tax-free until retirement. However, you are penalized if you withdraw your money from your IRA before age 59 1/2. This 10% penalty upon early withdrawal may have kept you from seriously considering an IRA, but look at these figures. If a 50% bracket taxpayer puts $2,000 into an IRA for 10 years in investments that yield 15%, his money will grow to $40,600. If at the end of 10 years he withdraws his money and is under the age of 59 1/2, he will pay a 10% penalty of $4,060 and, at the 50% bracket, $20,300 in income tax. Subtracting this total tax and penalty of $24,360 from the $40,600, he will have $16,240 left.

Without the IRA, the same 50% bracket taxpayer would have had only $1,000 after-tax dollars to invest and because the investment earnings would be taxed at the 50% bracket, his after-tax yield would be 7 1/2%. His $1,000 annual investment would grow to $14,140 in 10 years which is $2,100 less than the $16,240 he'd have with the IRA. If withdrawal before 59 1/2 is not necessary, an individual will be even further ahead with the IRA.

The number of years you have to stay in your IRA to be dollars ahead even with the 10% penalty depends on several factors. These facts do not necessarily make an IRA your best investment, but don't automatically reject the IRA based on the 10% early withdrawal penalty.

A Closer Look

By JIM DAVIS

See Reagan run?

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — While addressing the Society of Professional Journalists here last week, magazine political writer John Mashek asked for a show of hands on whether Ronald Reagan will seek a second term as president. The raised hands were just about evenly matched for yes he will and no he won't.

Mashek, political editor for U.S. News & World Report, said that also matched his view: he doesn't know.

Reagan

"I don't think he has made up his mind," Mashek said of the nation's number one Republican. There are as many signs and theories that he will as that he won't, said the man who spends many hours these days thinking and writing about Reagan, his future and his effect on the nation's political process.

It may seem that Mashek and other political reporters are jumping the gun in thinking aloud about the 1984 elections. But recall that that campaign's first official thermometers — the Iowa caucuses, New Hampshire primary and such — are about a year away.

And these days successful presidential campaigns result from many months of planning and work. You don't wait until the last minute to run or you don't run very far or fast.

Mashek, a special guest at the University of Texas last week, believes Reagan will announce his go or no-go decision around July 4. Several other national political writers believe the president must make his move much earlier than that, one way or another.

Waiting later than mid-summer probably wouldn't hurt the Republicans too much if Reagan's answer is yes. He has all the advantages of an incumbent and at least a few gallons left in that reservoir of popularity that evaporated some during the current national economic woes.

The success of the Republicans if Reagan runs again probably will be determined more on economic news than on the timing of a campaign kickoff. But a long delay by Reagan before deciding not to run could cause the GOP all sorts of problems in trying to replace him.

Several Democratic nomination hopefuls either have been running for two years or are now cranking up campaigns. Whoever ends up on top at the end of the primaries should be a battle-tested veteran with a strong campaign organization.

But possible Republican candidates must nervously try to keep their options open while not showing any signs of challenging the Commander in Chief until the way is clear.

If Reagan toys with the idea of running before stepping aside late in 1983, the GOP's candidate selection process could be a bloody mess.

Vice President George Bush is a strong possibility, but he is distrusted — even hated — by the super-conservative wing of that very-conservative party. The party's Right Wing undoubtedly would offer a strong challenge that could undercut the vice president's attempt to ride a high road into the White House.

Mashek said Reagan may decide to run simply to avoid a bloody GOP fight, because he is a loyal party man. And because he loves his party, Reagan is unlikely to wait until the last minute before stepping aside.

The longer he waits to say what he will do, the more likely he is to run, Mashek said.

A sidelight: Mashek, who wrote for The Dallas Morning News in Dallas and Washington and for U.S. News in Houston before moving to Washington, puts U.S. Sen. John Tower of Texas on his list of possibly endangered Republican senators for 1984.

A lot depends on the economy and who is heading the GOP ticket, and Tower has proved himself a strong politician, he said, but 1984 could be a dangerous year for the Wichita Falls Republican.

Mashek said he'll be watching that one closely because of his prior connections with the state and because: "Texas politics are as hurly-burly and interesting as any."

LULAC to help draft immigration reform

By PHILLIP SWANN
States News Service

WASHINGTON — In an apparent switch in strategy, the nation's largest Hispanic group said last week that it wants to work with congressional supporters of immigration reform to write a bill that would be acceptable to Hispanics.

But it is unclear whether sponsors of the immigration legislation are interested in the offer.

Rep. Romano Mazzoli, D-Ky., and Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., plan to reintroduce an immigration reform bill this week that will be identical to the one that failed to pass Congress last year. The League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and other Hispanic groups strongly oppose a part of the bill that would impose sanctions against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

Arnold Torres, LULAC's executive director, said at a news conference Wednesday that his group will do all we possibly can to "work out our areas of differences with the proponents (of the bill.)"

Torres added: "Despite our posture of last year, despite the reluctance of proponents of this legislation to accept reasonable amendments to improve the obvious shortcomings of the bill, we regard the slate clean and are hoping that this process will allow for reasonable change and improvements."

But spokesmen for Simpson and Mazzoli said the congressmen are "committed" to employer sanctions and would not consider a compromise.

"We welcome a renewed spirit of cooperation (but) you can't have an effective immigration reform bill without employer sanctions," said Mary Kay Wilson, an aide to Simpson.

Steer Baseball is here again

Spring is just around the corner. With the coming of spring also comes Steer Baseball. The boys are fired up and ready to be District Champions again this year. There is a group of girls that are also fired up and ready to support these all the way. They are known as the Home Run Honeys. The baseball team showed off their stuff on Saturday, February 19, with a preview scrimmage against Monahans.

The Boys Basketball teams were in their last week of competition this past week. The Varsity guys took on Odessa Permian this past Tuesday and won with a score of 61-47. Jerald Wrightsil was high scorer with 24 points.

The JV guys also played Permian but were defeated by a score of 58-104. Arthur Jackson was high scorer with 13 points.

Both of these teams traveled to San Angelo on Friday, February 18, to take on the Bobcats. This was their last game of the season. We wish these guys Good Luck!

There was a National Honor Society Meeting on Thursday at 7:00. Old business was read and new business was discussed. A program was presented by two people from the Eye Donation Bank in Midland.

There was also a BASIC Meeting this past Thursday in Coahoma. Milton Kirby came and discussed the obligations he has as County Judge of Howard County.

Garden City

By BRYAN STRINGER

Garden City night draws a crowd

It is no secret. Everyone who is anyone knows that the rivalry between Forsan and Garden City is deep-seated. Boy the Buffaloes pulled along one on us this week. We do not mind that you humiliate us at almost every sporting competition but when you hold your playoff game in Garden City and force a mob of fundamentally deranged Seniors to reopen the dreaded concession stand you really reach the limit! Moans of anguish were emitted from members of the Senior class upon the announcement of the location of the playoff game between Forsan and Robert Lee. We wish both teams continued success in the playoffs but we are giving you fair warning. Watch out next year!

How many megaphone writers does it take to write a Garden City Megaphone? This week due to the extended and excessive amount of stress of the resurrected concession stand, it took three people. In addition to Bryan Stringer and Staci Wilkerson, Brenda Bruton lent her talents. Never mind she did it to skip band, we deeply appreciate her sincere efforts to achieve literary grandeur and to bring some form of respectability to this weekly muchraking journal.

Region Band tryouts held in Forsan

The boys B team was also in action Monday against Andrews Goliad. They lost by a close score of 23 to 21. Their last game was Thursday, against Midland Trinity. The track teams were having tryouts last week. Hard work is necessary to be on the track team, and there is a lot of tough competition. The teams were chosen Friday.

Tips on rape prevention discussed

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian
Sometimes a book starts things rolling.

"How To Say No To A Rapist And Survive," by Frederic Storaska and "Rape: What Would You Do If...?" by Dianna Daniels Booher provided the inspiration that resulted in the rape prevention program that was presented to girls' physical education classes at Runnels Junior High and the girls' and boys' physical education classes at Goliad Junior High.

Because of the interest and discussion in many homes as a result of the junior high programs, it was decided to offer it to the public at 7 p.m., Thursday at the Howard County Library. As with the junior high presentations, the program is aimed at awareness rather than alarm.

Included will be myths about rape, safety precautions, some choices you must make if confronted by a rapist, and emergency room procedure after a rape occurs. The program will be presented by Johnnie Lou Avery of Avery and Associates; Debra Wallace, R.N., Malone-Hogan Emergency Room coordinator; Pat Dunham, Big Spring Police detective; and myself.

Rape is the crime of forcing sexual intercourse upon a person against the individual's will. The victim can be either male or female. It is not an act of love or passion but one of hate in which the rapist must degrade and humiliate the victim in order to feel better about himself.

The Big Spring Police Department averages five rape reports a month. For each of those reported, approximately five to 10 go unreported. Though West Texas is considered a friendly area, that doesn't mean living here makes the inhabitants safe from rape.

If this is a subject you would like to know more about, please attend the program at the Howard County Library, located at 4th and Scurry at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 24.

Mexico prepares for 6-day Washington's Birthday bash

LAREDO (AP) — George Washington never set foot on the Rio Grande, but many Mexicans revere the American leader and have thronged to this border city again this year for a six-day celebration of his birthday.

Officials from Texas and Mexico planned to meet in the middle of the International Bridge this morning to climax the border celebration billed as the biggest and best in the nation.

Washington is held in high esteem in Latin America as a leader who defied the tyrannies of Europe to gain independence for an emerging nation. And since 1898, Nuevo Laredoans from Mexico have made an annual pilgrimage across the Rio Grande for the weeklong birthday party.

Officials have estimated 10,000 visitors will attend this year's celebration, which began Tuesday. Major hotels here were full Friday and motels reported 95 per cent occupancy.

This morning's activities included the solemn International Bridge ceremony, in which Texas Gov. Mark White and other state leaders planned to meet Mexican officials over the Rio Grande to reaffirm commitments to friendship and international cooperation.

Four children from Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, also were to cross the international boundary for a symbolic embrace of future goodwill.

A Mexican-style rodeo in Nuevo Laredo at 11 a.m. was to highlight Mexico's contribution to the celebration.

And U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, was to be honored as "Mr. South Texas" for 1983 at a luncheon.

Friday night, celebrants heated up for the weekend with the Jalapeno Festival — street dancing, tricycle races and the jalapeno eating contest.

The colonial ball and pageant, presided over by "George and Martha Washington," also was held Friday evening. U.S. District Judge George Kazen and Rosalie Goodman of Laredo were the official "first couple" this year.

A cast of characters including "Alexander Hamilton" and "James Madison" and their "wives," portrayed by young men and women from Texas and Mexico, dressed in powdered wigs and colonial-style costumes for the spectacle.

C-City High has a Howl

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Colorado High School students honored their own when the annual "Howl Night" was held Thursday in the school auditorium.

Tom Rees was named Mr. Colorado High School and Janice Glasscock was named Miss Colorado High School.

Named class favorites were seniors Stacey Tarter and Allyson Haggerton, juniors Dennis Rivera and Becky Albin, sophomores Joey Ritchey and Tracy Blackwell and freshman Sammy Rivera and Amy Franco.

Elected to the "Howl Court" were: Gerry Hamilton and Allyson Haggerton — best all-around students; Trey Cade and Teresa Gorham — most likely to succeed; Larry Hamilton and Amy Moore — most dependable students; Tracy Tarter and Teresa Gorham — most academic students; Gerry Hamilton and Ashley Weaver — neatest students; James Blackwell and Laura Baum — friendliest students; Doug Baum and Laura Baum — wittiest students; Dennis Rivera and Kakai Calloway — most talented; Perry Conner and Becky Albin — most courteous; Willie Martinez and Carmon Longley — most handsome and most beautiful; and Stacey Tarter and Pam Wilson — King and Queen Howl.

Named the ten most contributive seniors were Cheryl Bardbury, Stacey Tarter, Allyson Haggerton, Micki Palmer, James Blackwell, Loretta Morris, Tip Chaney, Pam Wilson, Kakai Calloway and Kristi Frizzell.

Entertainment was provided by the Colorado High School cheerleaders, twirlers, the flag corps and a French Horn ensemble from the band.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Try to assist less fortunate persons than yourself and gain their goodwill instead of expecting favors from them.

WHAT DO YOU THINK? — Connie gets her mother's opinion on her selection for a wedding gown, and it looks like mother approves. It is important to choose clothing and colors for your wedding which appeal to you, because it's your day.

ADJUSTING THE VEIL — Dene Sheppard helps daughter Connie adjust the veil on a wedding gown as the two look over a selection of wedding gowns. Opinions of family and friends can be important while trying to make a decision.

Storing gown may lengthen life

Grandma had the right idea on the way to store her wedding gown — in darkness and in a dry place.

Drycleaning experts say the traditional method was sensible, measured by today's scientific standards. Many an heirloom has been carefully wrapped in tissue paper, often blue, and stored in a trunk in the attic. Modern storage experts recommend the tissue paper, but there is no scientific reason for its being blue.

The tissue should be laid between the folds of the garment, thus protecting each layer from the weight of the layer above. Thus the folds are rounded rather than creased.

Creasing over a prolonged period of time causes damage to the fabric.

According to experts, probably the biggest enemy of an heirloom gown is moisture. That's why Grandmother headed for the dry attic, rather than the damp basement. Dampness causes mildew, a fungus that thrives on cotton, linen and rayon.

Perspiration, spilled champagne or even greasy stains from wedding cake may cause hard-to-eradicate stained areas. It is recommended that a gown be sent to the drycleaner as soon after the wedding as possible to prevent ruining a possible heirloom gown.

FROM THIS DAY FORWARD — Connie looks radiant in her wedding gown. With plans completed and the wedding day near, she calmly awaits the march down the aisle.

Engagement policy

We will be pleased to announce the news of your engagement in the Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald from anytime after the engagement is a reality until at least three weeks before the wedding.

We try to use the story on the date you request, but sometimes space does not permit this.

The information must be submitted to us on a form available at the Herald no later than Wednesday noon before the Sunday it is to be published. The form should be signed by the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or parents of either.

We will use a picture of the couple or the bride-elect. The picture must be of a quality that will reproduce well in the newspaper. We prefer a 5 x 7 glossy black and white print.

If the bride-elect, prospective bridegroom or their parents do not now or have never lived in our area, we need to know why you are submitting your engagement to our paper. If only grandparents live in our area, please give their names and addresses.

The information may be brought by the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry, or mailed to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Call us at (915) 263-7331 if we can help with more information or clarification of our policies.

Wedding policy

Weddings are published in the Sunday Lifestyle section of the Big Spring Herald. A wedding form, available at the Herald, should be filled out, signed by either the bride, bridegroom or a member of either family and in our office no later than noon the Wednesday before the wedding.

The information may be accompanied by a photograph either of the bride or the couple. A black and white glossy 5 x 7 inch print is preferred. The picture must be of sufficient quality to reproduce in the newspaper. Pictures may be picked up following publication.

If a wedding writeup is turned in after the wedding, the space allotted to it will diminish according to the length of time that has passed since the wedding.

Forms for wedding stories may be picked up at the Lifestyle Department of the Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry. Writeups may be brought in to the department or mailed to Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720. Please call our office if you have problems or questions. Dear Abby

Woman grieves on birthday

DEAR ABBY: Two months ago, after a very long battle against cancer, my beloved father died. My mother and I were with him until the last moment. When it became apparent that this might happen near my birthday, I quietly and respectfully asked my mother not to bury Dad on my birthday. And although this could easily have been avoided, that's exactly what she did!

The thought of "celebrating" my birthday on the anniversary of my father's funeral depresses me beyond my ability to describe. The normal process of grief doesn't capsize me. At 52, this isn't a new emotion. But never again will I be able to enjoy a birthday knowing it also is the day of my father's funeral.

I cannot imagine why my mother did this to me, knowing how I felt. Whatever I've done to her, she has certainly evened the score — and it wouldn't bother me one bit if I never had another birthday to "celebrate." Perhaps some insight from readers with a similar problem might help.

TEARS FOR MY BIRTHDAY

DEAR TEARS: I think it's important for you to confront your mother with your pain and anger. She may be able to justify her decision. And there's a possibility that in her grief she was not thinking clearly. Don't bear this awful burden alone in silence. Share it with someone who counsels the grieving and depressed. And write again to let me know if you've been helped. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 42-year-old divorced woman with a great job and two wonderful children. The only thing I lack in my life is a nice man.

Men are attracted to me, but I shy away from them. Why? Because I wear a wig. My own hair is baby fine and hard to manage, and wearing a wig has been the answer to my prayers. It's very natural looking and has given me a new appearance and new confidence.

People who haven't seen me in a long time marvel at how "beautiful" I've become.

Abby, I am so afraid a man will be turned off if he ever sees me without a wig. I get permanents regularly and keep my own hair well-groomed, but I'm so concerned about being "found out" I seldom date.

I suppose the only solution is to take my chances, but so far I haven't been able to.

I'VE GOT A SECRET

DEAR SECRET: Go ahead and date, and give a man the chance to know you and appreciate you as a person — not a thing of beauty. After that's accomplished, you can share your secret with him. If he's a man with mature judgment, it won't matter.

I urge you to learn to accept yourself as you are. It may take some psychological counseling, but it will be well worth it. It's not what's on your head, but what's in it that is truly important.

DEAR ABBY: A salesman of religious books was at my house the other day when my sister stopped by. The salesman had a beautiful display of "The Bible Story" set up on my dining room table. I happen to like beer, so I had a can of beer in my hand at the time. After the salesman left, my sister really took me apart. She said, "At least you should have ditched the beer when the salesman was here!"

I told her that I had a right to look at Bible books and drink beer at the same time, and she said I didn't. She said, "Let me out of here, and don't ever tell anyone that I am your sister!" I agreed to that.

I am 52 and she is 53, and this is the first time we have gone for five days without speaking.

Please give me your views.

SISTERLY FIGHT!

DEAR FIGHT: Refer your sister to Matthew 7:1 Judge not, that ye be not judged.

Dr. Donohue

Jogging is painful

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I have noticed that when I jog the first few minutes are painful. It is only during that time. Later, I recover and could jog for miles without any pain at all. Does it take this long for one's muscles to get accustomed to exercise? Please explain this phenomenon. — V.P.

This seeming paradox is built into muscles. You're not imagining it. As you know, our muscles carry around a kind of emergency fuel storage supply. It's the kind of fuel that's there to be called on before we get our aerobic supply system working efficiently; before, that is, we get to the point where our oxygen intake from breathing takes over. That temporary energy supply is in the form of anaerobic energy. It exists there without benefit of oxygen intake.

Now, as you start out jogging, that is the energy your muscles are using. As it is burned up it leaves lactic acid as a by-product. As levels of lactic acid build in muscles, they respond with pain. Once you pass three minutes of exercise, you start producing more efficiently through aerobic processes. The lactic acid residue problem ends. Perhaps if you warmed up by walking around before your jogging your problem might be taken care of.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For the past five years I have kept myself in good shape by running. I have always passed my physicals with no problems, but on my last one my doctor told me my blood pressure was high normal. Lately, I have started sharing my running time with weightlifting and I really enjoy this combination. I have even competed in power-lifting contests. Is there any correlation between my lifting and this suddenly high blood pressure? Can I continue to lift weights? — N.W.

I'm sure you don't intend that I ban or approve your program from this distance. I'm sure you realize that your doctor, who noted this change in your blood pressure, is the one to do that.

I can tell you what I know about weightlifting and blood pressure, and that might be a general guide to you and others. Weightlifting is not an especially good exercise for people with high blood pressure, and for the same reason that any straining kind of exercise is ill-advised. For those with a sustained elevation of blood pressure, it can be harmful.

During ordinary exercise, like running, systolic pressure rises. It's temporary and to be expected. During the straining exercises, both the systolic and the diastolic pressures rise. That means that not only is the pressure of blood being pumped from the heart increased, but the pressure remaining between beats as well. In weightlifting both of these pressures can rise quite high, in fact. If you took a reading of yourself during a power lift, you might be more than a bit surprised.

Now I've never heard of power lifting causing permanent increase in blood pressure, so that's not my real concern. I am concerned about the potential danger such a temporary change can pose for someone who already has elevated pressure.

You are right. Varying one's fitness program the way you have can be very satisfying. But please don't do it at the expense of your health. You have to answer this question for yourself. Was your reading a one-time thing? (Subsequent testing will answer that.) Just how high is your pressure? I would advise you to get some answers from your doctor.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Dancer to appear locally

Pamela Dianne Johnson will be featured during a city-wide celebration in honor of Black Heritage Month Feb. 26 at Big Spring Municipal Auditorium, Dock Voorhies, one of the coordinators of the event, said.

The event, which begins at 8 p.m., is open to the public. Voorhies said. "We hope this program will appeal to all segments of the community," he said. "We want this to be a community celebration."

Ms. Johnson has had an extensive career in dance and theatre, and is currently a member of the Dallas Black Dance Theater. She was also a member of the Dance Theater of Harlem in New York City.

She has also appeared in various productions in El Paso, including serving as choreographer for "Man of La Mancha," "The Stingiest Man in Town," and "The Boyfriend," in El Paso.

Ms. Johnson has also taught ballet at the El Paso School of Gymnastics, the YMCA, and El Paso Community College.

Miss Johnson was also hostess/narrator for "Quadracentennial Historical Minutes" in El Paso in 1981. As hostess, she narrated 18 commercials commemorating El Paso's 400th birthday.

According to Voorhies, the community-wide program will be narrated by Barbara Cooper and Dr. E.S. Morgan. A community choir will provide music.

Bouquets delivered

Valentine bouquets were sent to Mrs. Chloe Mundt and Mrs. Nannie Adkins, the only two charter members who are still in regular attendance at the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of World War I meeting Feb. 12.

Virginia Younger and Max-Auxiliary will be held in Ireland were appointed to Lubbock April 23 and a large number of people from Big Spring are expected to attend.

Directives from the department president, Hattie Box, and national president Pauline Charing, were read by the Veterans of WWI and their secretary.

Income tax time reflects value of dual-earners

Around income tax time many couples start counting up the economic benefits of two salaries.

"But lifestyle benefits may be just as important as economics for many," says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A and M University System.

In these difficult economic times, the wife's income allows many families to have the necessities, keep up with inflation or maintain a desired standard of living.

A second income may also help educate children and support other family members.

The rapid change from single-provider families to dual-earner families in the last decade has been motivated primarily by economic benefits. Both husband and wife now work in about half of all American families.

If present trends continue, the labor force participation of women in 1990 will equal that of men.

According to Welch, survey data indicates that dual earners feel they gain lifestyle benefits from having two incomes.

Husbands express pride in their wife's capacities as an earner. They indicate less personal pressure for being the sole income provider. Husbands also report feeling freer to make job changes, take job risks or increase their education. The wives in dual-earner families report an increased sense of independence, self-confidence and personal fulfillment. They also describe closer, more sharing relationships with their husbands, she adds.

In spite of the benefits, dual-earner marriages can create problems.

Researchers are now focusing their attention on the impact of dual-employment on marital relationships, child development, household management and family stress.

This research in family life education will be needed to help dual-career couples manage their work and family to balance the gains and strains.

Scouts preparing for cookie sale

Girl Scouts officially begin their annual cookie sale at 4 p.m. Friday. This is the thirty-first annual cookie sale for the West Texas Council. Throughout the West Texas Council, which includes 16 counties, cookies will be sold by Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Senior Girl Scouts.

Caramel DeLights, Peanut Butter Patties, Peanut Butter Sandwich, Shortbread, Thin Mints, Assorted Sandwich Cremes, and Nutty Chocolate Chip. The Nutty Chocolate Chip is new in the line up. The cookies are $2 a box.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council will use their portion of the cookie sale money to maintain camping facilities at Camp

Boothe Oaks. Girls from the West Texas Council will be able to attend Girl Scout Wider Opportunities, both national and international, financed in part by cookie sale proceeds. Individual troops also will receive funds for special projects and activities.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a participating agency of the United Way.

Descriptive terms are confusing

The descriptive terms used on the labels of wine and champagne bottles can often be confusing.

For example, the term "extra dry" is actually a designation for one of the sweeter champagne styles.

This came about because at the turn of the century when "extra dry" champagnes were developed, Americans had a preference for the taste of sweeter champagnes. Traditionally, however, dry champagnes had been in fashion and so many Americans said they preferred the flavor of dry champagnes.

History of ABWA recited at banquet

Members of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association attended to several items of business in addition to naming Betty Riley Williams as Boss of the Year at their meeting Tuesday.

Frances Swann, chairperson of the Business Association Banquet Tuesday, gave a brief history on ABWA. She said ABWA was founded in 1949 as an organization for "active, concerned businesswomen to aid in their professional, social and cultural advances."

Scholarships are the main objective of ABWA, said Mrs. Swann. The Cactus Chapter donates money annually to the National Education Fund and also assists local girls who wish to attend college. Since last June, the Cactus Chapter has given $1,100 in scholarships.

Fund raisers for the club include the annual Harvest

Sale and the Cinderella Girl pageant.

Chesley McDonald, a Sterling County Rancher, was the guest speaker at the banquet. McDonald, a 1940 graduate of Abilene Christian University, gave a humorous speech which ended on a more serious note about the importance of friendships.

Citizenship was the theme of the evening.

Mary Holloman was vocational speaker. Mrs. Holloman is bookkeeper for the Medicine Shop.

Vonna Lee Davis, president of the Cactus Chapter, gave "Good Guy" awards to Lowell Davis, Dr. Erian Caplan, and Richard Atkins, three men who have aided the organization in various ways.

McDonald was also given a "Good Guy" award for speaking to the group.

Center, 1100 N. 6th, Abilene, Texas, 79601. Further information is available through Larry D. Danforth, "Media Management Consultants, Inc.," Abilene, Texas, 676-7330.

Differences noted in world health

There is a vast difference in health between the people of developed and developing countries, especially in the area of infant and child mortality.

A child born in an affluent nation is 10 times as likely to reach the age of one year as a child born in a developing country, and 12 to 15 times as likely to reach the age of five. In the very poorest regions of the developing countries, 50 percent of children die during the first year of life. This is attributed largely to the greater prevalence and severity of various diseases. However, this is often combined with inadequate diet and poor nutrition, as well as improper sanitation and hygiene.

Microwave demonstrated held by Mary Jane Club

The Mary Jane Club of Coahoma met Thursday at the Kopper Kettle in the Big Spring Mall for a demonstration on microwave cooking, conducted by Roxanne Rich, Mrs. Larry Nix and Mrs. B. L. Mason were hostesses.

Mrs. Rich prepared a rum cake which was baked 12 minutes in the microwave oven. She demonstrated utensils recommended for microwave use — bundt pans, muffin pans, bacon cookers and colanders. She said round pans or bowls giving the most uniform cooking results. The next meeting will be at the Dance Gallery, 700 Rannels, on March 10, with Mrs. Clovis Phinney Jr. and Mrs. James Coates as hostesses. Members are reminded to wear clothes suitable for exercising.

It's time for the wedding rehearsal and everyone's in place but the bride. Yet this is not unusual. In fact, here at THE ACCENT SHOPPE, we find there is a great difference of opinion on the subject. Some believe it brings bad luck for the bride to take part in the rehearsal: that a stand-in should walk through it for her. Others say such superstition is groundless. Anyway — as this issue isn't likely to be resolved any time in the next century — whether or not you take part in your wedding rehearsal is entirely up to you.

Food safety begins when shopping

Food safety should begin when one goes shopping, reminds Dr. Dymple C. Cooksey, food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System. Buy only quantities of food you can use or store properly to avoid losses due to spoilage.

Doctor gives capsule swallowing advice

If you or your child has trouble swallowing a medicine capsule, take Dr. J. Ace Brown's, Augusta, Ga., advice. Merely tilt your head or upper body forward, and the capsule will float backward where it is more easily swallowed.

Brown notes that this simple method of swallowing a capsule is almost universally unknown. If you do as many people do and put the medication in your mouth with a small amount of water and tilt your head backwards, the capsule will float forward instead of being swallowed.

Etiquette Notes

HIS AND HERS
Whether the bride and groom are leaving their family homes for the first time or are combining two readymade households, there are always cherished items neither wants to part with. Here are some tips for combining "his" and "hers" into "ours".

A hope chest or childhood toy box can be made into a useful and attractive storage piece. Use padding and fabric to make the top a bench; interior could hold sweaters or records.

If there's furniture involved, consider using that armchair in the bedroom or those tables on the patio. If diverse pieces of furniture need to be combined in the same room, paint them to match, or use curtains or wall coverings in colors that are compatible to both.

Too many bureaus? Try putting one in a closet and using it for linens.

Extra bookcases and dressers can be cut down and refinished; they'll do double duty as end tables that way.

For that very special "merger" — your wedding — we're here to help with all your bridal registry and wedding plan needs. Contact us at Blum's Jewelers.
