Fierce fuel war may further cut oil prices

By The Associated Press

Oil ministers of six Persian Gulf states are expected to meet this week to discuss price cuts by three other oil producing nations, and one authoritative newspaper says the gulf producers already have agreed to slash prices by up to $7 a barrel. Such a cut would drive down even further the price Americans pay for gasoline at the pumps, and would be as much as $3 below the new price announced by break-away

OPEC member Nigeria over the weekend. The price slashing threatens to drive deeper cracks into the once rock-solid Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, the international oil cartel that pushed prices steadily upward in the 1970s. Foreign ministers of Saudi Arabia and tive oil-producing Persian Gulf nations announced no policy changes after a weekend meeting to discuss what they called "joint visualization" of issues including oil

But the authoritative Saudi Arabian newspaper Asharq-Al-Awsat said today the gulf ministers agreed to cut their prices up to $7 a barrel from the official $34 benchmark price for crude

Lower prices would benefit gasoline consumers in the United States, as every $1 cut in the price of crude oil lowers gasoline prices by about 2 1/2 cents.

Oman's minister of state for foreign affairs said today the oil ministers of Saudi Arabia and its five oil-producing partners in the Gulf Cooperation Council are expected to meet "within the next two days."

In a statement distributed by the Saudi press agency in Bahrain, Oil Minister Yousef al-Olwi said the meeting would be aimed at "drafting a plan for the stability of oil prices and for production policies.'

Houston family faces perjury charges in possible abuse case

EDITOR'S NOTE -A child dies and eight family members are charged with lying about the final days of the boy's life. A doctor says the youngster's injuries were "consistent with abuse." The family says he was hit by a car. By PAUL RECER

Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON - Those who were there recall it as a happy gathering of a large and loving family last Thanksgiving at the Eugene Treadwell home on the edge of downtown Houston.

Some 15 people went in and out of the house on that Thanksgiving, and many would remember watching the childish excitement of 1-yearold Carlos Joseph.

Members of the family would say later that the youngster was giggling as he played with his various cousins and uncles and aunts on that festive holiday.

Twenty-four hours later, doctors were fighting for the child's life. They lost.

According to the family, Carlos was found lying face down in a mud puddle in a neighbor's driveway the evening after Thanksgiving. An ambulance was called and attendants were told that the child had been hit by a car.

Ben Taub General Hospital is one of the finest emergency treatment centers in the world. But there was little doctors there could do. Carlos' body was battered and broken from a variety of injuries. On Nov. 27, almost exactly 24 hours after arriving at the hospital, Carlos Joseph's short life ended.

The next day, Dr. Aurelio Espinola, an assistant Harris County medical examiner, performed a routine autopsy on Carlos' body. The pathologist found Carlos' body was a mass of old and new injuries.

The child had a fractured right arm and collar bone, a three-inch, gaping laceration of the liver, and bruises, abrasions and contusions on the face, both arms and forehead. There was also a laceration in the pleura, the membrane enclosing the lungs, and contusions on the lungs themselves. A car, slamming into the child, could have caused these injuries. But there was a problem.

"It (all) doesn't match the time," said Espinola. The boy was found on Nov. 26 and many of the injuries were older than that, the doctor said. The liver laceration, he said, was at least three days old at death and already had started healing

And, more disturbing, there were quarter-inch, circular burns on the chest and right temple - burns which appeared to have been caused by cigarettes, said Espinola's

Council to discuss annexation tonight

By CAROL DANIEL Staff Writer

Big Spring city councilmen are expected to again table a decision on whether to pass a subdivision ordinance at their meeting tonight at 5

The proposed ordinance drew the ire of rural landowners at the last council meeting because it requires the city to enforce standards of land development both inside the city and within five miles outside city

The council tabled the matter after audience members protested it during the public hearing. The proposed ordinance does not change the city's current jurisdiction over land development, but it does update standards to fit technological changes since 1961.

Councilmen said they couldn't decide on the issue because it's unclear whether the state requires or just allows the city to regulate subdivisions outside city limits. See City, page 2-A

The cut came two days after Nigeria's chief rivals for European sales, Britain and Norway, lowered their official North Sea crude prices by $3 to $30.50 a barrel. The developments, resulting from a glutted international petroleum market, threatened to unleash a price war within OPEC, which in the past has avoided cartel-wide price cuts and has kept relatively firm control over international oil prices.

The Saudi newspaper report, attributed to "official sources in the Gulf," said the six countries in the Gulf Coordination Council will announce price cuts of between $5.50 and $7 per barrel "to maintain competitive levels after the North Sea and Nigerian reductions.' The newspaper did not say when the cuts would take

The six countries are Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar — all OPEC members — and Bahrain and the sultanate of Oman. "The present (price) structure has been debilitated after Nigeria violated it in a manner that surpassed all expectations," the newspaper quoted a source as saying. In Los Angeles, Calif., oil analyst Dan Lundberg said in a telephone interview that Nigeria's decision was "a very provocative act" that could trigger a price war among oil-producing countries. However, Lundberg said there was a strong possibility that "the OPEC nations will realize the terrible instability that would result from an out-and-out price war and that their greatest security is in unity.' In Kuwait, a government spokesman said he expected a decision on price rollbacks "within days."

The Bahrain newspaper Akhbar Al-Khaleej said Nigeria was "contemplating a pullout from OPEC." Other Gulf papers warned in headlines of an impending "price war. In Algeria, another OPEC member, the state-run news agency said a price war among the cartel's 13 nations would threaten its survival and "unleash a chain reaction with unforeseeable consequences. Britain and Norway are not OPEC members, but their decision last week to cut prices of North Sea crude was denounced by the cartel as a threat to market stability. OPEC's official benchmark price is $34 a barrel, but actual spot market prices are lower, and oil industry sources say cartel members must cut the base price by at least $4 a barrel to counter the new competitive pressure from Britain, Norway and Nigeria. Such a cut would be the first in the cartel's 22-year

Congress assails Reagan's EPA staff

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan has appointed environmental officials who don't believe in they laws they are supposed to administer, a pair of key congressional leaders from both parties

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press" program Sunday, pointed to President Reagan's appointments in discussing the controversies surrounding EPA, some of its top officials and its hazardous waste cleanup

Hindu tribesmen butcher hundreds in election strife

By GENE KRAMER Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi flew today to the state of Assam to investigate personally reports that up to 1,000 people were slaughtered in one of the latest outbreaks of violence sparked by elections she ordered.

Mrs. Gandhi arrived at Tezpur, 1,000 miles east of New Delhi, under heavy security and was to ride in a helicopter over the sites of some of the worst violence.

Her visit was prompted by reports that Hindu tribesmen wielding spears, hatchets and machetes butchered at least 600 Moslem Bengalis in 17 northeast villages Friday in the Nelli district. Witnesses said most of the victims were women and children and estimates of the killing ranged up to

The government has sent thousands of troops to the district to help police halt nearly three weeks of violence set off by a Hindu boycott of state elections. The district lies just south of the Brahmaputra River, which Indians call "River of Sorrow

In New Delhi, Mrs. Gandhi's government was accused by opposition leader Madhu Dandavate of "Hitlerite tactics" in imposing on Assam "a live election over dead bodies.

Reports of Friday's massacre filtered out of the hilly tea-growing region, almost completely separated from India by Bangladesh, on Sunday. Estimates of the killings varied up to 1,000 and the United News of India reported that about 6,000 survivors poured into three relief camps.

Priest robbed, shot dead in Southeast Texas

AMES, Texas (AP) Sheriff's officers hope that autopsy results on a 68-year-old Roman Catholic priest fatally shot in an "unusual" place will provide clues in his slaying, which has thrown a congregation into "total shock and horror."

Henry G. Bouchie was found dead on the back porch of his church rectory Saturday, dead of a single gunshot wound. Several rooms of the home had been ransacked, and Bouchie's wallet was missing, sheriff's officers said.

Liberty County Sheriff C.L. "Buck" Eckols said that results of an autopsy performed by the Harris County Medical Examiner's office would probably be available today. Capt. John Dominy, investigating officer, said that Bouchie was killed late Friday night or early Saturday. The priest was shot once at close range in an "unusual" location on his body, Dominy said, but declined to elaborate.

"It looked as though there could have been a struggle, but I don't want to make any guesses about the shooting until the autopsy report comes back," Dominy said.

Bouchie, a Boston native and pastor of Our Mother of Mercy Church, was last seen alive Friday night when he performed mass in this community of 1,155

His body was sent to Boston for burial. Memorial services are scheduled for Wednesday at the church here.

The collapse of an empire

"What Rome lacked was the pulsebeat of economic life....Since merchandise was no longer delivered voluntarily, the state itself had to turn manufacturer. In Gaul, Britain and Italy, state-owned arms factories, state-owned weaving mills, dyeing plants and tanneries were set up. All in the hope that the state might take the place of the now defunct trade...

"Everyone produced only what he consumed himself. The coinage was losing its importance, as nobody any longer had any wares to sell. The only trade that still flourished was that in luxuries, because the imperial court itself acted as the buyer. But payment had to be made in gold....

"In vain did the Emperor Diocletian issue price regulations, market ordinances and currency reforms. They were of no avail. Without the merchant class the empire, internally weakened and undermined financially, collapsed under the assault of the barbarians....

"Without commerce, the entire empire crumbled. It was easy enough for the soldiers to confiscate the property of political opponents or to gain exemption from taxes in recognition of their military exploits. But who was to buy the surpluses? Who was to supply the goods the public wanted? Who was to organize the exchange of commodities between different provinces?'

On top of the hill

I like the aging veteran who refuses to believe time isn't on his side. Perhaps his physical skills are diminishing but the mental experience he has accumulated still makes him a formidable opponent.

In today's society where youth is number one and anyone over 30 is on the long slide down, it's gratifying to see these people refusing to be placed in the "over the hill" gang because they've been around a certain number of years.

Athletes come to mind the most quickly. People like Billie Jean King, George Blanda, John Havlicek, who didn't fold when they hit 30 or even 35. And Jimmy Conners who won Wimbledon last year at the ripe age of 30 in a game dominated by 22-year-olds. It warms the old heart.

The wily veteran is not just confined to sports. Look around and spy Ronald Reagan at 72, Tip O'Neill at 70 and the late Eubie Blake who was still active at age 99. There is life after 40 in spite of what all the advertisers of face creams, diet colas and designer clothing say.

FOR ME the greatest aging veteran inspiration is the rock 'n' roll star who's still singing even though he's past the age when a man should jump around on stage with an electric guitar.

The Rolling Stones, the Who, Bob Dylan and others -I grew up with them and continue to follow them hoping they'll never call it quits. There is something eternal about their endurance that gives me hope. Hope that youth is a state of mind.

To hear Bob Dylan at age 41 still singing about injustices in the world, to see Mick Jagger still dancing at 39 makes me see there are many good years ahead and that age, while it is the final victor, can be given a good fight

There are those critics who would like nothing more than for Mick Jagger, Billie Jean King or Ronald Reagan to step aside and let a younger person take over. I hope people like these and all the unsung veterans fail to hear such calls to get off the road.

As long as they can contribute, if nothing more than inspiration, then they should be allowed to stay

OUR SOCIETY is much too quick to condemn and throw away people that aren't as nimble and quick as they used to be. We fail to listen to the wisdom of the aging veteran, to the courage he is extending us to carry on and not become part of the discarded heap.

Our memories are too short. We tend to forget the contributions of these people who brought happiness, courage and inspiration before we were around to appreciate their special gifts. Those gifts are worth remembering.

Let the veteran revel in his place and give him respect, after all he

Arrivederci to an automobile

Here is a news item that should lift the spirits of any American who has ever owned, rented, driven, ridden in or seen an automobile: Fiat Motors is pulling out of the U.S. market. From my vantage point, this is an advance roughly equal in importance to the eradication of smallpox.

Most of my generation, unlike our parents, never had to endure painful but character-building tragedies like depression and world wars. was luckier: my character has been forged in the hottest of furnaces. I once owned a Fiat. The experience was like descending through the nine circles of Dante's Inferno.

HAVE YOU SEEN the joy in the eyes of a new father or a bride on her wedding day? It is nothing compared to the happiness a Fiat owner feels upon becoming a former Fial owner.

Mine was a nifty blue coupe, brand-new but modestly priced, the first car I owned after graduating from college. When I drove it off the dealer's lot, I could not have guessed that I would be driving it back the next day for a repair. Or that it would soon exhibit chronic electrical malfunctions. Or that one section would have to be repainted. In the first six weeks, it was in the shop no fewer than six times.

Those were the pleasant experiences — they were covered by the warranty. After the first month and a half, the pace of breakdowns slowed from a sprint to a brisk lope. But eventually the warranty ran out, leaving me spending more on repairs than some people spend on car payments. That money covered only the problems that could be fixed. The hopeless ones were less expensive.

Anyone who has ever owned a Fiat has probably survived the worst that automobile demons can inflict. Mine spanned the entire

FIRST, THERE was the air conditioner that didn't work. It was treated by an endless stream of physicians, only to be given up for dead in the end. The heater did work, most of the time, for all the difference it made. The temperature at steering-wheel level might be 70 degrees, but if the temperature outside was zero, the temperature on the floorboard was

A midwinter trip from Washington to Chicago nearly cost me not only my toes, but my ankles and shins too. Only a stop en route to buy a pair of fur-lined boots - the wear on an expedition to the North Pole - saved

Fuses blew with monotonous frequency, causing the failure of headlights, back-up lights, overhead lights and turn signals. A cold snap or even a summer rainstorm was a signal to rely on public transportation. The electrical system, one mechanic friend told me, looked "like a bowl of spaghetti.

A YEAR OR SO after I bought it. the seat upholstery began disintegrating like an Alka-Seltzer tablet. The repainted panel soon needed repainting again, though it never got it. The alternator had to be replaced. The car was recalled three times - or was it only twice? Even the jack didn't work - a small point, except that the factoryinstalled Pirelli tires had a habit of

You may dismiss all this as the aberrant experience of a single unlucky owner, and you may be right. But of several dozen Fiat owners I've met, none would ever buy a second one. There's the ones who spread the old joke: Fiat stands for "Fix it again, Tony." Most, I suspect, wouldn't take another one if someone was giving them away

THE LIFE OF my Fiat was nasty, brutish and short. Less than six years and 50,000 miles after I bought it, the car was dead. One day it was running normally; the next, following a 27-below-zero night, it was finished. Weather that cold would stall most cars, but would permanently disable only a Fiat. The mechanic said one cylinder was ruined, giving me a choice between spending $900 for a new engine and getting rid of the car.

I naturally chose the latter, though it wasn't easy. Even junkyard dealers tend to run at the mention of a Fiat - though you'd think the match was made in heaven. The car adorned my street for months, depressing me and annoving my neighbors, until I finally found a kindly fellow willing to give me $50 and a promise I would never see it again.

Despite all his efforts, he found the rear wheels irremediably locked. So he shrugged philosophically the trademark of the Fiat owner hooked the car up to his tow truck, and drove away. The tires shrieked as they left a quarter-mile pair of black stripes down the street. A prize to the end, I said to myself, sitting on the hood of my Volkswagen and wearing a smile as wide as an Interstate.

Billy Graham

I always worry about everything

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian, but I am the kind of person who always worries about everything. I have prayed about this a lot, but don't seem to be making any progress getting rid of my fears. What can I do? - Mrs. M.F.

DEAR MRS. M.F.: Jesus said several things about worry that you need to take to heart and apply in your life. We need to remind ourselves of these words of Jesus, because worry is something that plagues all of us from time to time, unless we take steps to fight it.

First, Jesus said very practically that worry doesn't accomplish anything. In fact, it can be very harmful and can even paralyze us. "Who of you by worrying can add a single hour to his life?" (Matthew 6:27). Has this truth really impressed itself upon you? It is right to plan ahead and think about possible problems that might occur so we can plan properly — but that is not the same thing as dwelling upon the problems and letting them absorb us. Nothing good is accomplished

Jesus also pointed out that very often our worries reflect or point our wrong priorities in our lives. What do you worry about? Probably things like your money, your health, your material security. Jesus said however that these things should not be our priorities in life. Instead, our attention should be on God and his will for our lives. "For the pagans run after all these things But seek first his kingdom and his righteousness" (Matthew 6:32-33).

Then Jesus pointed out - most importantly - that our real need is to trust God, and he is worthy of our trust. That is your real problem you have not learned fully that God loves you and he will take care of you. The proof of that is that he sent his Son to die on the cross. Instead of just praying that God will take away your worry, pray that he will give you a new love and trust in "God clothes the grass field, which is here today and tomorrow is thrown into the fire will he not much more clothe you, O you of little faith?" (Matthew 6:30)

Clinic refund policy knocked

Dear Editor,

I have been a patient of Malone-Hogan Clinic for over 20 years and have never missed paying them. However, I received a notice in the mail saying, "For your convenience, we expect payment at the time of rendering service.

Okay, fine. We tried for years to file our own insurance and pay at the time of service, but were told, 'We can't do that.

At one time our insurance overpaid 'hem and when asked for a credit un' nce, we were told, "Our computer doesn't print a credit balance." BUNK! A computer prints whatever you tell it to!

Furthermore, our insurance company sent them a check about a month and a half ago and I have tried for a month and a half to get a refund. It's amazing isn't it? I guess I'll have to picket the place to get their attention, and to get a refund

I'm wondering how many of your readers have gotten this pulled on them? For their convenience, I'd like to get a refund at the time of such rendering. Sincerely,

The winds of public opinion sity of engagement ran very deep.

WASHINGTON - Almost anything bad that can be said about drama applies with a vengeance to 'Winds of War.'' Still, it not only set new records in the ratings, it also entered deeply into the national dialogue. Why?

Because, I think, it met the need for a special kind of hero. The country wants an undoubted good guy who, without being a prig, preserves the old values amid the rich temptations of modern life. That kind of fellow is hard to find which is why we have an actor as president, while a genuine hero, John Glenn, can barely get his campaign off the ground.

The flaws in "Winds" excited abundant analysis by the television critics. They found it, as I did, long on talk, short on action, and verging on tedium. Most of the characters were typed to the point of unreality. Some gave acting a bad name. As a result, a piece of work meticulous in detailed research rang deeply false. The docudrama, unlike the book, offered a classic example of knowing much and understanding little.

SO THE IMPACT was all the more remarkable. ABC estimates that 140 million people watched some part of "Winds" — the largest audience ever for a series. On average, it captured 38.6 percent of the available TV households, and 53 percent of the possible viewers — just a little behind "Roots," which broke all records back in 1979.

By subjective measure, the inten-

Practically everybody I met in Washington, where I started and finished the week, and in Los Angeles, where I passed a few days, was into "Winds." The book was being read on the plane out and on the plane back. I was asked about it on a talk show supposed to deal with the Russia of Yuri Andropov, and after a lecture on the Middle East. "You can't go to lunch or dinner anywhere," a French diplomat here observed, "without 10 minutes of 'The Winds of War.'

Special reasons for the attraction come easily to mind. Subject, first of all. World War II is a far-off experience for most Americans. It finds substance chiefly in contrast with Korea and Vietnam. Compared to them, it was a "good" war. The enemies were Nazis and Fascists and imperialists - real heavies. Americans were united and fought on the right side.

If the goods and bads were strikingly apparent, however, the contrast was not achieved by the sugarcoated moralism of the original soap operas. On the contrary, life in "Winds" was the liberated life the country managed to put on screen only after the revolution of the 1960s. Women worked. Inmarried sex took place. So did adu. Ty.

"PUG" HENRY, as played by Robert Mitchum, was not your macho, John Wayne hero either. He was full of self-doubt. He was openly tender to his children. He forgave his wife her trespasses.

Though he lived amid the glitter of the great, moreover, he came down in the end for the good and simple values of yore. Given the opportunity for a cushy life with the likes of Roosevelt and Churchill, he preferred commanding a battleship. He believed in country, honor and duty. He put truth ahead of careerism and family loyalties above dalliance. He stayed moral after the greening of America.

One of the few national figures who can also make that claim is Ronald Reagan. He rose to prominence in Hollywood, the American Babylor. But he professes all the old beliefs, in God, country and family. In declared hostility to what became permissible after the 1960s, he is positively

THE SERIOUS question about Reagan is whether he's for real. He often seems to be acting out the presidency. One has the sense that the only true misery he knew was losing his legs in "King's Row." He gives the impression he could play, equally well, the role of Sitting Bull or the role of General Custer.

In sharp contrast is John Glenn, a decorated veteran and the first American in orbit. As much as Reagan, if not more, Glenn embodies devotion to the simple truths. But like most authentic heroes he is not so much Agamemnon as Achilles. He doesn't want to command a battleship, or to lead men. He made his mark riding in space alone, and shooting down planes in solo combat. Indeed, precisely because he is a loner, he has had difficulty translating his personal virtues into a presidential campaign.

The point is not merely that there is a difference between the hero and the leader. The larger point is that many of us admire qualities that have little to do with real life and less to do with being a good president. If many of our recent presidents have proved to be disappointments, the reason lies less in institutional defects than in the winds of public opinion.

For you, A.K., and the other readers who asked, here are the exercises, where large muscle groups are used - like the legs, as in walking, even mild jogging, if you can manage that. People with lung problems tend to become somewhat sedentary and lose muscle tone

But I do want to caution that such exercise for people with lung problems can be hazardous, and has to be tailored to their tolerances. It should challenge but not overtax breathing capability. If your lung disease is so severe that the slightest exertion leaves uou breathless, you may not be able to use this kind of exercise. Please remember this. Check with the doctor.

The second kind of exercise is best taught by respiratory theraists. Pursed-lip breathing keeps the airways open and helps you breathe more efficiently. Postural drainage is another form of therapy best taught by your doctor or a therapist. It helps remove the sticky secretions in the airways. The therapy has to be tailored, but generally it works by gravity, with the person lying on a bed with head and chest bent over the edge, another technique is chest percussion. With cupped hands you softly strike the chest wall to aid in br-

Man disagrees with name change

DEAR ABBY: The "Proud Orlikoffs" were upset because their son (a lawyer) married a woman named Reilly, and instead of her taking his name, Orlikoff, he changed his name to Reilly. His reason: Should he decide one day to run for public office, Orlikoff sounds too Russian; furthermore, people would be more inclined to vote for a "Reilly" than an Orlikoff.

Abby, please advise young Orlikoff to check out some of the names of people who are elected officials before giving up his family name.

Under the circumstances, we came out of it as well as we could," Austin Police Chief Frank Dyson said after the rally Saturday that left 12 people injured.

Eight people were arrested on charges ranging from assault to inciting to riot, and one Klansman was taken into custody for carrying a weapon, police said.

Four officers, six demonstrators, a bystander and a reporter were injured in the melee, but none was hospitalized police tried to move the crowd back. While hecklers near the front were being forced back by the police, people at the rear of the crowd were still moving forward.

EDITOR'S NOTE - Associated Press reporter Ken Herman was injured by a police officer during Saturday's Ku Klux Klan rally at the Texas Capitol. This is his account:

I caught a quick glimpse of an officer heading my way. He came out from a group of several policemen and hit me with the end of his night stick. It hit the left side of my jaw, opening a cut that bled profusely and required six stitches

Brackenridge Hospital officials said most of the injured suffered lacerations and bruises.

The nine people arrested were released from jail early Sunday.

The violence broke out as about 50 Klansmen, surrounded by helmeted police carrying shields, marched to the Capitol from a nearby park. As many as 1,500 hecklers lined the parade route, said DPS spokesman Larry Todd Dyson said the rally, which cost police about $15,000 in overtime for 150 officers, went about as he had expected.

The chief said it would be up to city council members to decide if parade permits should be granted in the future for potentially dangerous rallies.

A jury of friends

Prosecutors says he's disturbed by acquittal of Monahans doctor

MONAHANS - A prosecutor says he may have erred in not requesting that the trial of a physician accused of attempting to murder a patient be moved from this West Texas town, where a jury devoid of the popular physician's patients could not Prosecuting attorney Dennis Cadra admitted Friday following the acquittal of Dr. Juan Perez Valladarez that he probably should have pushed for a change of venue from Perez' adopted hometown.

Perez was charged with trying to kill a barroom shooting victim by injecting air into the mortally wounded man's arm.

Of the 12 jurors who found Perez innocent, 10 were either patients or had family members being treated by the Cuban-the American Medical Association said. Perez never denied injecting 20 cubic centimeters of air into the right arm of Michael S. Hoffman on Nov. 4, 1981, leading some residents here to say they will avoid Perez' future medical services.

"I just don't want him injecting air into me when he decides he's tired," said a Schlumberger oilfield worker. He declined to be identified.

Two nurses testified they witnessed Perez inject air into Hoffman's veins minutes after Perez told emergency room attendants he was tired from a long day of work and wanted to go home. Ambulance driver Jackie Harkey backed up the nurses' allegations and hospital administrator Gary Schreve testified Perez confessed the day after the incident to the incident. Despite the testimony, jurors took two

DR. JUAN PEREZ VALLADAREZ acquitted Friday

Cadra also admitted little surprise by the verdict: "The trial did take place in Perez' back yard," he said.

"Justice was served," countered trial judge Joe Connally, who replaced District Judge Lawrence Fuller because Fuller, too, was the doctor's patient.

Connally said he would have ruled against a request to move the case away from Monahans because he felt enough jurors "could be found here for a fair

Perez said he will remain in town and hopes to practice once again in Ward Memorial Hospital, where Hoffman was wheeled in for emergency treatment for a gunshot blast to the forehead.

Kahl search includes Montana

JAMESTOWN, N.D. (AP) - Officers hunting an anti-tax fugitive suspected in the slayings of two U.S. marshals say there's a "strong" possibility the man may have fled to eastern Montana.

Investigators looking for Gordon Fahl in the Feb. 13 shooting deaths of the two marshals near Medina, N.D., say they are getting "very substantive" tips from a toll-free telephone hotline, but would not

"We obtained some evidence, but as far as discussing the types (of evidence), we're not going to get into it," FBI agent Ben Patty said Sunday from a command post at Jamestown. "Some weapons were recovered. I won't say what they were or how many. We're still conducting fugitive investigations.

"We are also continuing our investigation into the substantive crime — the killing of a U.S. marshal, a deputy marshal and the assault of other officers involved for the purpose of gathering evidence to present to a federal grand jury

Two marshals were killed and three other officers wounded in the Feb. 13 shoot-out. Kahl was wanted for a 1977 probation violation.

Patty said investigators were checking leads that Kahl may have fled to another state, but had no firm evidence.

But acting U.S. Marshal Lou Aleksich said in Billings, Mont., Saturday there was a "strong" possibility Kahl might be in eastern Montana.

Kahl, 63, was a member of the paramilitary tax protest group, Posse Comitatus, and the group is active in eastern Montana, Aleksich said.

Asked if Posse Comitatus members might be hiding Kahl, Patty said: wouldn't comment on the group at all.

Hawks sizzle Sunday; win skein at 6

By GREG JAKLEWICZ Sports Editor

Yogi Berra once said "It isn't over until it's over." A few summers ago, Baltimore Orioles fans came up with the slogan "It isn't over until the Fat Lady sings. Howard College baseball fans never believed in those now-famous quotations more than after Sunday afternoon's first game with Wharton College.

After an 8-6 Hawk lead had been wiped out by Wharton's six-run rally in the top of the seventh, Gary Carr stroked a three-run homer and Stephon Hodge drilled a two-out, two-run single in the bottom of the inning to lift the Hawks to a 13-12 victory over the Pioneers in the first game of a chilly doubleheader.

HC later won its sixth straight game as Mark Warren drove in three runs to spark the Hawks to a 9-4 victory in the nightcap.

Despite 40-degree temperatures and a bone-chilling northerly wind, a large crowd watched the Hawks rally twice in the opener for its second straight heartstopping victory. Billy Mitchell's three-run homer with two gone in the seventh Saturday rallied the Hawks past San Antonio 8-6, giving HC a four-game sweep of the Sunday's comeback was more difficult as Wharton built a 6-1 lead through four innings. Bobby Bensch ignited the comeback in the fifth with a two-run single and Mitchell put the Hawks ahead for the first time with an RBI double in the sixth.

Down 8-6, the Pioneers didn't fold either. David Pierce rapped a one-out single that drove in the tying runs. After Ron Jones singled with two out to load the bases, Bobby Wooten lofted a fly ball to right that rode ne gusty winds out of the park for a grand slam home run. John Morris went down on strikes for the third out but things looked as bleak as the winter sky for Howard.

Things brightened when Warren singled and John Frieshahn walked with one out. Up stepped Carr who had driven in his team's first run with a third inning triple. He blasted a 1-0 pitch from Donnie Myers over the right field fence to bring his team to its feet and within one run of the Pioneers.

Doug Hatch flied out but Kenny Spears lined a single down the right field line to keep the rally going. Mitchell walked and the bases filled when WC third baseman Bubba Holt booted Behnsch's grounder. It was up to Hodge, 1-for-4 on the day and a strikeout victim of Myers the inning before. He let the count stretch to 2-2 before ripping his game-winning single to center.

"I think it was screwball," Hodge said. "The pitch jammed me when I hit it." Had the Hawk shortstop thought his squad could pull out the game? "I thought we could come back.'

Carr was only trying to get a hit when he came to the plate. "I was just trying to get a rally started," he smiled. "I just kinda popped one up."

Morris's two-run single in the first, an RBI double by Jones in the second, Pierce's solo homer in the fourth and an HC error in the fifth had staked the Pioneers to its 6-1 advantage. Starter Mike Holila surrendered just Carr's triple — a single Jones tried to shoestring in right — and two singles in four innings before Howard began its rally in the fifth.

Hodge's hit made a winner out of Bruce Hollander who had given up Wooten's grand slam in relief of starter Brian Robbins.

Wharton led 1-0 in the second game but a single by Carr and Kelly Smith's sacrifice fly in the second put HC ahead to stay. Warren's two-run double in the fourth keyed a four-run inning.

The Pioneers struck back for three runs in the fifth with a two-out rally. Pierce doubled and Jr. Lemons singled him home. Two more runs scored when Mitchell tripped and fell into the outfield wall chasing a high fly ball by Wooten. The ball fell in for a triple to score two runs

How did the Hawks like the cold weather?

The red-faced Carr didn't particularly mind the cold "Once you get in the game, the weather really doesn't bother you. FIRST GAME

"(Valenzuela) also was very happy to hear the news. As usual, he took it calmly. He was happy. He kind of congratulated us."

The decision was one of two made in a player's favor over the weekend. Mookie Wilson of the New York Mets also won a decision that awards him $325,000 for this coming

The two completed this year's total of 30 arbitration cases. Players won 13 of the cases and the clubs won 17. Another 36 players who had filed for arbitration settled their cases before they were heard.

Last year, 23 cases went to arbitration with players winning eight and losing 15. For the first seven years, players won 63 and lost 73 of the cases.

At the Dodgers' training complex, team President Peter O'Malley said, "I'd like to congratulate Tony DeMarco and Dick Moss (Valenzuela's other agent) for what must have been a very impressive case and presentation. We're looking forward to seeing Fernando arrive in training camp.

"I look at it (the arbitration) as a resolution of a problem. It's not a matter of winning or losing," he added.

The Dodgers had offered $750,000; Valenzuela had asked for $1 million. The settlement broke the

Sampson sinks Tigers, 68-53

No such problem for Virginia's 7-foot-4 Sampson. "I've been working on (foul shots) for a period of years now," Sampson said Sunday after leading the Cavaliers, the nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team, to a 68-53 victory over No.12 Missouri at the Brendan Byrne Arena in East Rutherford, N.J. Sampson sank 11 of 12 foul shots in the second half and finished with 21 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots as Virginia raised its record to 21-3.

"It just came down to them fouling me once I was in the lane and I just put them in," said the Virginia senior All-American. The Cavaliers outscored Missouri 18-4 in the final eight minutes, handing the Tigers the second loss of the weekend. Host Oklahoma State beat Missouri 79-93 Saturday.

Steve Stipanovich, Missouri's 6-11 center, hitting mostly from the outside, scored 27 points, had 12 rebounds and five blocked shots.

In another Sunday game, No.6 St. John's, led by Chris Mullin's 19 points and Kevin Williams' allaround play,, defeated DePaul 64-52 at Madison Square Garden. The Redmen are 22-3, DePaul 14-9.

Mullin was held to two field goals the first half which was tied at 31-31. But the 6-6 sophomore hit nine of 10 free throws as the Redmen overcame a 47-46 deficit with seven minutes remaining. Bernard Randolph's 15 points paced the Blue Demons.

Meanwhile, top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas clinched the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title with a 111-78 rout over visiting Utah State Saturday night. Sidney Green scored 23 points and grabbbed 21 rebounds and Larry Anderson added 22 points for the Runnin' Rebels, 24-0 overall and 14-0 in conference

Moore, Spurs down Hawks

SA ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Anzine quietly sparkled in the meantime. tonio coach Stan Albeck says that Spurs' guard Johnny Moore did exactly what he wanted against Atlanta — and more.

"We really wanted Johnny Moore to push the ball up the court," Albeck said after the Spurs' 103-100 win Sunday. "He is starting to shoot the ball with a lot of confidence. I was really pleased on how we finished the game.

Moore scored 10 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter, including seven in the last 2:13. His three-point play with 1:55 left put San Antonio up 97-94.

"I'm used to the booing of the crowd almost every time I go on the floor (since) I play the same every night, although I did have a much better game tonight," Corzine acknowledged after notching 21 points, 19 in a second-half Bulls charge, to spark Chicago to a 124-111 victory over the Dallas Mavericks in National Basketball Association play

Kings 128, Rockets 106

KANSAS CTY, Mo. (AP) - His 48-point rampage staggered the record book and propelled the Kansas City Kings to a 128-106 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets. But Mike Woodson says it was no big deal.

Woodson started the Sunday afternoon game on the bench. But before he was through, he had broken the Kemper Arena scoring mark of 47 set last year by Moses Malone, then of the Rockets: tied a team mark for most field goals made in a game with 22, and hit 17 field goals in a row, shattering the team mark of 14 held by Billy McKinney and Otis Birdsong.

now if you schedule your time and activities well. Relax and be contented in the evening. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take no risks where your health is concerned at this time. Put a special talent you have to work. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study new interests that could prove profitable for you in the future. Take treatments to improve your appearance. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Set up a better system so you can make more progress in the future. Be sure to spend your money wisely at all times today. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study every phase of your monetary affairs and find a better way of handling your finances. Be more self-assured. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more enthused in regular routines and make more progress. Take no risks with your reputation at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact a trusted. adviser who can give you good ideas so that you can advance in career activities. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to concentrate on getting ahead in your line of endeavor. Strive for increased happiness.

complish a great deal. Delve into civic work and gain more prestige. Be wary of newcomers. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go to the right sources for important data you need. A new project needs more study before going ahead with it. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will profit from discipline early in life. The talents here will start to express themselves gradually. Teach to be objective and give the benefit of ethical training. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

NEW YORK - "The Love Boat Goes to Monaco" is one way of describing "Grace Kelly," ABC's pretty but mostly meaningless snoop into the early life of the glamorous movie star who forsook Hollywood to marry a reallife prince.

Just like ABC's "Love Boat,""Grace Kelly" tonight deals superficially with people's lives and affairs of the heart, while, at the same time, it's packaged in a glossy wrapper that offers audiences fantasy glimpses of faraway places and long-ago stars.

The whole exercise has an awe-struck quality. It's played as a flat-out fairy tale, ignoring the unromantic suggestions of some members of the Kelly fami-kisses her hand. ly that Grace didn't marry for love, but eventually

When a scene is supposed to play softer — Prince Rainier's marriage proposal, for example - the accompaniment is a tinkle-tinkle on the piano. Cheryl Ladd, whose husband is one of the project's executive producers, is an elegant Grace. She's capable of recreating the famed actress' refinement and outward composure, but there's never a hint of the fire inside. Her most notable emotional reaction is an overused kittenish laugh.

Grace, from a wealthy. Catholic family in Philadelphia, is seen during the opening credits as a pampered child. When the action begins, it's 1947 and she has made her decision to try an acting career, against the wishes of her old-school father, Jack (Lloyd Bridges).

Jack is a back-slapping type who measures people by their athletic ability. Grace doesn't seem to measure up. Ever. After her first Broadway show, the not-proud-enough papa says the play was a "little heavy.' The need to win her father over is her biggest problem in life, not counting the fact that she didn't have a date for Sammy Cahn's big party. Her acting career starts slowly. "When I look into

That's one bizzare scene. Not only is it strange that Grace easily accepts the motherly interference, but Mrs. Kelly graciously thanks Cassini for the lunch. He then politely

The movie traces Grace's fast-rising Hollywood career through "High Noon" and "Country Girl," for which she wins an Oscar as best actress. "Country Girl" is an important film for the young actress, who had become dissatisfied over being stereotyped in dignified, ladylike roles.

The rest, to coin a phrase, is Hollywood history. Grace meets Prince Rainier of Monaco (Ian McShane) and they have a whirlwind courtship, culminating in a ballyhooed wedding in 1956 that the MGM Newsreel calls a "20th century fairy tale.'

The movie ends with the prince and princess on the palace balcony, a scene reminiscent of the way two networks ended dramatizations of the romance of Prince Charles and Lady

Following the movie, the producers express thanks to Grace Kelly. They say she lent assistance to the film before she died in a car accident last fall. However, when the project was first announced, her immediate reaction was to label it "tasteless."
