Black arts highlighted

Heritage celebration is Saturday

A city-wide celebration Saturday of Black Heritage Month will feature a professional dancer from Dallas and performances by local choirs and individuals.

The program begins at 8 p.m. in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium and admission is free. "We'll be highlighting black contributions to the arts," said Dock Voorhies, one of the program directors. "The program will feature dance, music and literature. We hope this will appeal to all segments of the community — black, white and brown. We want this to be a community celebration."

The featured performer will be Pamela Dianne Johnson, a member of the Dallas Black Dance Theater and a former member of the Dance Theater of Harlem in New York City.

A 50-member choir, composed of members of local church choirs directed by Gail Nelson and accompanied by Timothy Weatherspoon and Buster Green, will sing spirituals such as "Pass Me Not," "When All of God's Children Get Together" and "Are You Ready?"

Vincent Walker of Odessa will sing Lionell Ritchie's contemporary hit, "Truly," and Gloria Edgington will sing a blues number, Billie Holliday's "Ain't Nobody's Business."

Three dramatic interpretations will highlight black contributions to literature.

Selections will include an excerpt from James Weldon Johnson's "God's Trombone," performed by Voorhies; Langston Hughes' poem "I am an American, Too," performed by Everett Holliday; and See Black, page 2-A

Jobless rate up 1.8%

By BOB CARPENTER
 Staff Writer

A seasonal economic slump has been blamed for a January jobless rate in Big Spring that rose to 7.7 percent — a 1.8 percent increase over December's unemployment figures.

However, Big Spring was not the only Texas city to see a jump in unemployment. The trend held true for 24 other Texas cities surveyed by the Texas Employment Commission.

In this area, Midland's rate climbed 1 percent from 4.6 to 5.6 percent, and Odessa's job rate went from 6.7 percent to 8.2 percent in January.

"January is generally a month when there's a higher unemployment rate," said local TEC manager Gerald Damm. "It's just a seasonal thing."

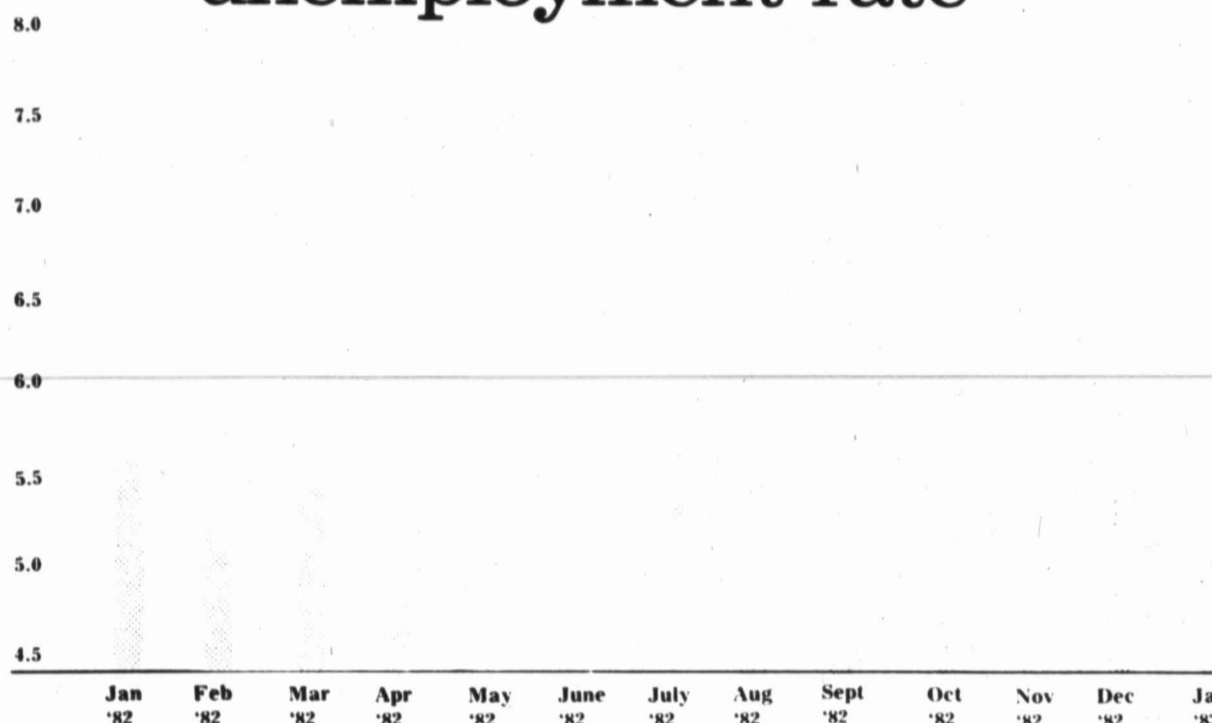

Damm listed layoffs of temporary holiday help by local businesses and Oilfield Industrial Lines' (O.I.L.) furlough of about 150 workers as contributing factors in the rise of the jobless rate here.

He also cited the overall slump in oilfield activity coupled with a slowdown in cotton ginning.

The January labor force in Big Spring totaled 17,956 people, with 16,571 employed and 1,385 still looking for a job, he said.

The unemployment rate for the state and the nation stood at 8.2 percent and 10.4 percent.

Sheriff seeks information in shooting of El Paso man

By MIKE DOWNEY
 Staff Writer

Between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. Wednesday, Robert William Kay of El Paso was with someone who ended his life. Kay was shot at close range in the face with a shotgun.

The Howard County Sheriff's Office is seeking information — anonymous or otherwise — from anyone who might have seen Kay or seen him accept a ride in a pickup before he was murdered north of Big Spring on a country road.

According to Deputy Sheriff Bill Shankles and Texas Ranger Charles Brune, Kay was last seen alive about 3 a.m. Wednesday at Rip Griffin's Truck Center on Interstate 20.

However, law enforcement officers want any information from anyone who might have seen Kay from midnight until his death at approximately 5 a.m.

Officers believe Kay was picked up in the vicinity of Rip Griffin's by a full-size pickup, possibly an off-the-road vehicle with oversized tires.

Kay was a short man — five feet, five inches tall — and described as stocky or husky in build. The morning he was killed, he was wearing glasses with thick "coke-bottle" lenses.

Kay had on a brown Mexican-style serape or poncho as well as a brown floral-design shirt and reddish-brown corduroy pants. He was wearing black western boots

The great EPA cleanup

Two administrators fired, more may be on their way out

By ROBERT PARRY
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, moving to clean house at the troubled Environmental Protection Agency, has fired two more of its administrators and, according to one congressman, more may be on the way out.

As many as a half dozen agency officials might be targeted for removal, says Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y., who heads one of the congressional investigations into alleged mismanagement and wrongdoing at EPA.

Larry Speakes, the chief deputy White House press secretary, confirmed that the two officials were leaving and said that at Reagan's initiative, "we will now proceed with a number of personnel changes designed to strengthen the management" of the environmental agency.

But, he said, the changes were not likely to take the form of "more dismissals or resignations over there." Speakes said that Reagan "absolutely" retained confidence in Anne Burford, the agency administrator, and that she has not offered to resign.

"We're starting with a new slate, a new team, that we think we need to do the job," Speakes said. Reagan demanded and got the

NOW THEY'RE GONE — President Reagan fired two top officials of the Environmental Protection Agency on Wednesday. resignations Wednesday from EPA Inspector General Matthew Novick and Assistant Administrator John P. Horton — both of whom were under investigation for allegedly assigning EPA secretaries personal work to do for them on government time.

On Feb. 7, Reagan fired another assistant EPA administrator, Rita M. Lavelle, who headed the $1.6 billion "superfund" program to clean up the nation's worst toxic waste dumps.

The formal announcement of the Horton and Novick firings and their replacements were expected today.

A White House official, speaking on condition he be granted anonymity, characterized Novick's and Horton's departures Wednesday night as "part of an effort to strengthen middle-level management at EPA, particularly in the superfund area."

He said Mrs. Burford, traveling in Arizona and California, "was fully consulted throughout... and is totally on board."

The EPA's "superfund" program has been the center of growing allegations that the administration granted the chemical industry "sweetheart deals" on costs and manipulated the fund's cleanup schedule for political purposes.

However, Ms. Lavelle denied suggestions Wednesday that she had made "sweetheart deals" with industrial polluters. Ms. Lavelle told Congress that her firing resulted from Mrs. Burford's mismanagement and suspicions.

Questioned by reporters in Tempe, Ariz., Mrs. Burford declined to respond to Ms. Lavelle's testimony, but continued to deny that EPA's decisions were "driven by politics."

New water office to open

The long-awaited municipal annex that will house the water billing office, municipal court and the Housing Assistance Payments Program office opens Monday, City Manager Don Davis said.

Those three departments will be moved into the $108,836 building Friday. Water service problems will be handled that day by personnel in City Hall and municipal court will operate as usual in the police department. The HAPP office in the Airpark will be closed Friday.

Actual cost to the city for the building was $68,836, well under the original $90,000 estimate, Davis said. The other $40,000 cost was absorbed into HAPP and municipal court funds, he said.

The new water office is part of the city's capital improvements program.

Lamesa traffic studied

LAMESA (SC) — The highway committee of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce will meet tomorrow morning to discuss changing the flow of traffic at two intersections.

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. at the chamber office.

Committee members will be studying the intersections of Lynn and Dallas Avenues. Proposals which would eliminate potential dangers at the intersections will be reviewed.

Lamesa players bow tonight

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa Community Players will present their production of Irving Berlin's "Annie, Get Your Gun" tonight at 8 p.m. at the Community Playhouse.

Tonight's performance will be the first of six for the troupe. The play will run Thursday through Saturday, both this week and next.

The box office is open from noon until 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. For reservations and information, call (806) 872-2705.

Teachers attend state meet

The annual Texas Classroom Teachers Association convention, held recently in Austin, attracted several local teachers.

Making the trip to Austin were DeWayne Wallace, local CTA president; Charlotte Irwin, secretary; and Bill Irwin, treasurer. Wallace and Irwin are teachers at Goliad Middle School and Mrs. Irwin is a teacher at Big Spring High School.

Speaking at the convention were Gov. Mark White, House Speaker Gib Lewis and Bill Haley, chairman of the Education Committee.

Items discussed included teacher salaries, longevity pay, sick leave and group health insurance.

During the convention, Betty Pyles of Odessa was re-elected as state president.

Attending the convention were 530 voting delegates representing 21,628 active members in the state.

Odessa council kills 'squel' vote

ODESSA (AP) — City council members have backed away from a referendum on the Reagan administration's controversial "squel" law that requires parents to be notified when their minor children are prescribed contraceptive pills and devices.

A proposal to place the issue on the April 2 city ballot failed by a 3-2 vote Tuesday night.

The city attorney, Texas Municipal League and the Texas attorney general's office all advised against the referendum, citing questions of constitutionality and the possibility of expensive litigation.

Planned Parenthood claims the law would violate constitutional rights to privacy, discriminate against females, and deny potential clinic clients access to services.

Edwin Kurtz, president of Planned Parenthood of the Permian Basin, told the council that the risks of teen-age pregnancy are higher than risks associated with birth control methods.

More teens would become pregnant if the ordinance passed, he said, burdening tax rolls with more welfare cases.

But Allen Cross, pastor of the Southside Church of Christ said, "Planned Parenthood simply is working down our moral fiber."

Jane Christian, Miss West Texas Teen-ager, told the council that Planned Parenthood "drives a wedge between a parent and his child."

Miss Christian said she has friends who are uncomfortable talking to their parents about sex and birth control.

"But given the opportunity, they can and will," she said to cheers, applause and choruses of "amen" from ordinance supporters.

But Rose Katen, 20, said she was afraid to talk to her parents about birth control when she was younger.

Her own father had nothing to do with her, Miss Katen said, and "when I was 15, I couldn't talk to my mother about it. What about the parents who don't have time for their children?"

A man who had turned himself in to the sheriff's office the morning of the shooting is still a suspect in the murder, Sheriff A.N. Standard said. Although the sheriff said the man is now a "lesser suspect," he is still in custody.

An autopsy of Kay's body has been ordered by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin, who is acting as coroner in the case, Standard said. The murder weapon, believed to be a shotgun, has yet to be found, Standard said.

Anyone who had contact with Kay or saw him get into any vehicle can contact the sheriff at the county courthouse. All callers can remain strictly anonymous. Information can also be taken through Crime Stoppers at 263-1151.

A reward will be offered for information leading to an arrest and indictment in connection with this crime, officers said.

Panel backs cutting Social Security benefits

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON — A $165 billion rescue package for Social Security has won approval from a House panel, but the plan that includes reducing benefits and increasing taxes is already drawing fire from all sides.

"This is the first step of a long process," said Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, chairman of the House Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security.

"There is significant support for other approaches, but we have tried to reach an agreement on something that will move this process along," he said Wednesday evening after the Democratically-controlled panel approved the measure in a 7-4 vote along party lines.

The package now goes to the full Ways and Means Committee, which will consider the measure next week.

Meanwhile, the Senate Finance Committee was continuing hearings today on recommendations from the National Commission on Social Security Reform.

The House panel's bill includes a provision, also approved by a 7-4 margin, to ensure Social Security's long-term solvency by reducing initial benefits for new retirees by about 5 percent over eight years starting in the year 2000 and to increase the payroll tax by 0.24 percentage points in the year 2015.

The subcommittee also decided to make the retirement system "fail-safe" by allowing it to borrow from the Treasury with congressional approval if there are economic emergencies in this decade. Any loans would have to be repaid with interest within two years.

The package generally embraces the bipartisan recommendations of the reform commission, which suggested increased payroll taxes, a freeze on cost-of-living increases, a levy on retirees' benefits and mandatory coverage for new federal employees.

Although President Reagan and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., supported the commission's package, bipartisanship cracked during the two days of subcommittee work.

Democrats used their majority strength to muscle the package through in a form they favored and scuttled repeated GOP ef-orts to raise the retirement age, make deeper benefit cuts and eliminate tax increases.

Pickle tried to play down the problems, saying, "The minority was simply expressing preferences, some of which I could agree with."

But there was no denying the difficulties ahead.

The reform commission left it to Congress to decide how to eliminate the one-third of Social Security's long-term deficit not covered by its recommendations.

Weather

Showers possible in West Texas

By The Associated Press
Mostly fair skies were the rule across Texas today as forecasters expected scattered showers to return to the weather picture tonight.

Light fog was noted along the coast before dawn. Southerly winds pushed pre-dawn temperatures above seasonal norms. Most readings were in the 40s and 50s.

The forecast called for increasing cloudiness tonight with a chance of showers through Friday over West Texas and western sections of South Texas. Afternoon highs were expected to reach the 60s and 70s.

SHOWERS CONTINUED in the Pacific Northwest early today and cloudy skies spread across the Great Basin into the Northern Plains.

Skies also were cloudy in much of the Mississippi Valley.

But for the most part, states in the South and along the mid-Atlantic and Gulf coasts had clear skies.

More rain was forecast for Southern California today.

A mixture of rain and snow was expected in the mid-Mississippi Valley and lower Ohio Valley.

Sunny skies were predicted from the Northern Plains through the central Rockies to New Mexico.

Temperatures around the nation at 1 a.m. CST ranged from 10 degrees at International Falls, Minn., to 71 in Key West, Fla.

TODAY AND FRIDAY

West Texas — Mostly fair with increasing cloudiness tonight. Scattered showers across the area Friday. Highs 38 Panhandle to 73 Big Bend valleys. Lows near 30 Panhandle and mountains to 45 southeast and extreme south. Highs 52 north to 68 Big Bend valleys.

SATURDAY THROUGH MONDAY

West Texas — Partly cloudy with a few showers Saturday, becoming mostly sunny Sunday and Monday. No important day to day temperature changes with highs in 60s in the Panhandle to 80s in the Big Bend. Lows in the 30s in the Panhandle to the 40s in the Big Bend.

Nationally televised open heart surgery called publicity stunt

By ARTHUR H. ROSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. — A retired insurance salesman opened his eyes and wiggled his toes less than 90 minutes after a nationally televised heart operation that inspired some viewers but was labeled a "publicity stunt" by another surgeon.

Bernard Schuler, 62, from Elmwood, Wis., underwent the two-hour operation Wednesday night and was in stable condition today in the cardiovascular intensive care unit at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Dr. Edward B. Diethrich, head of the five-member surgical team, said he expected Schuler's "total rehabilitation" with no post-operative complications. He termed the operation "pretty much a straightforward triple coronary bypass."

Two hours after the surgery, Diethrich said a chest X-ray of Schuler looked "very satisfactory." He said the patient probably would be taken off a respirator today.

Scores of public television stations across the country broadcast the operation live — competing with the Grammy awards — while others planned to air the program on a delayed basis.

"The response was overwhelmingly positive," said Bill Hanley, producer of a local phone-in show aired on KTCA-TV in St. Paul, Minn., immediately after the surgery.

A spokesman for WGBH-TV in Boston said, "Some people thought it was a disgrace to have on television. That was the minority. Others, conversely, thought it was reassuring and very interesting."

After the operation, Diethrich told reporters that he had received no response from colleagues. He said he had no ethical problems with televising the operation.

But several physicians were critical of the live telecast. "I think the idea of Ted (Diethrich) deciding to give one isolated 'show' on heart surgery is strictly a publicity stunt," said Dr. Burt S. Strug, a heart surgeon in Tucson, Ariz., decrying "a general deterioration of medical ethics."

Strug said the show "degrades the medical profession to the level of a used-car salesman."

The American Medical Association, based in Chicago, has no policy on such a telecast, a spokesman said. But the chief of cardiovascular surgery at UCLA Medical Center said before the operation that a live telecast of the surgery was unacceptable, because millions of viewers would get "a false impression of this whole field" if anything went wrong.

But viewer Rob Brown, 45, who said he had a triple bypass two weeks ago, said the program persuaded him to take better care of himself.

Accused of running Braniff out of business

American Airlines calls suit unjustified

DALLAS (AP) — Government charges against American Airlines involving an alleged price-fixing plan with Braniff Airways are "entirely unjustified," American Airlines' chairman says.

The Justice Department filed the antitrust suit here Wednesday, asking the court to remove American President Robert Crandall from his post for two years.

The suit alleged that Fort Worth-based American tried to drive Braniff out of business by trying to fix airfares three months before Braniff grounded its fleet, said Elliott Seiden, chief of the transportation section of the department's antitrust division.

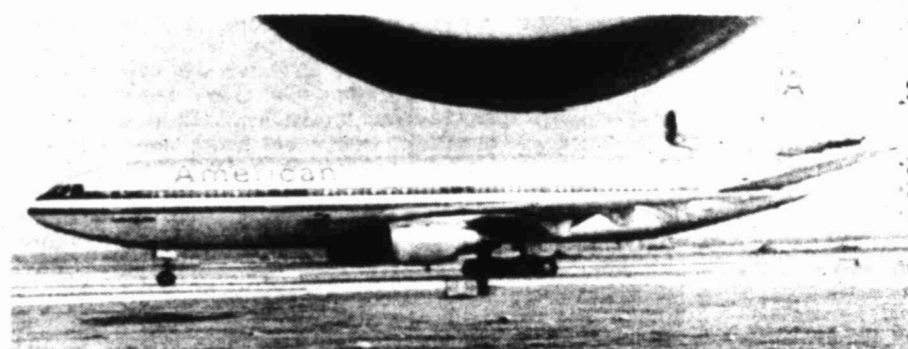

American Airlines Chairman Albert V. Casey, called the complaint "entirely unjustified" and predicted the government's case would be "soundly repudiated" in court.

The suit, which followed a 10-month grand jury inquiry, quoted from a telephone conversation between Crandall and Braniff President Howard Putnam, in which Crandall allegedly said if Braniff raised its fares 20 percent, American would follow "the next morning."

A separate inquiry into allegations American had unfairly used its computerized reservation system was "continuing in a civil context," Seiden said. Braniff has charged — and American has denied — that American used its computers to play "dirty tricks" against its founding competitor.

Braniff, which was not charged, declined comment. Putnam was out of town and Philip Guthrie, vice president, would say only that Braniff had been told the lawsuit would be filed. The civil lawsuit did not say how the Justice Department obtained the alleged text of a Feb. 1, 1982, conversation between Putnam and Crandall.

Slaying victim possible witness against Mafia

DALLAS (AP) — The FBI and the Justice Department are looking into the possibility that a Brooklyn man killed in a Dallas hotel on Valentine's Day to keep him from testifying against organized crime figures, a Dallas newspaper has reported.

The Dallas Times Herald, in a copyright story Tuesday, said Alfonso DiMola, 33, had been in hiding in Dallas since December, a month after his arrest in a $42 million insurance fraud case.

DiMola had agreed to testify for the prosecution and was prepared to implicate members of the Mafia in a fraud trial scheduled to begin early next month, the newspaper said, quoting sources it did not identify.

The sources said federal authorities paid DiMola $900 a month and relocated him in Dallas because they feared he would be killed before he could testify, the Times Herald reported.

DiMola had moved out of his apartment and hysterically revealed his identity to a girlfriend on Feb. 11, telling her he feared the Mafia had located him and that his life was in danger. He said the Mafia had placed a $250,000 contract on his life.

DiMola's nude body was found about 5 p.m. on Feb. 14, sprawled across a bed in a hotel room that chain-been dead about 12 hours, but there was no evidence of foul play.

Despite an autopsy and preliminary toxicology tests, the Dallas County medical examiner's office has been unable to determine whether DiMola committed suicide, died of a drug overdose, died from natural causes, or was murdered, the newspaper said.

Three days earlier, he told his girlfriend someone had gotten into his apartment and found government documents revealing his identity, she said.

"He started crying and talking like I wasn't going to see him anymore," said the girlfriend, who the newspaper said asked not to be identified.

DiMola also told her his testimony in the upcoming trial would be the "biggest news ever," she said.

Beefing up math, science education

Both President Reagan in his State of the Union address and the Democrats in their response to it spoke of strengthening mathematics and science education. While the administration has reduced education funds, there is some basis for hope that an effort will indeed be made to beef up training in these fields of study.

The need for this has become increasingly clear in recent times as other countries — most notably Japan — have threatened to wrest from us the lead in technological development. The point was given fresh emphasis the other day by Robert E. Marshak, a well-known physicist who is president of the American Physical Society.

Dr. Marshak put forward some shocking figures in a speech at a joint meeting of the Physical Society and the American Association of Physics Teachers. Over the past decade, he told his audience, the number of new science teachers coming into the system declined by 65 per cent and the number of math teachers by 77 per cent. Moreover, he said, only 35 percent of high school physics teachers studied physics as a major or even a minor subject in college.

What is responsible for the rapid drop in the number of science teachers — especially highly qualified teachers — joining public school faculties? One important reason, it seems clear, is that graduates in science are being lured to industry by higher salaries. That suggests an approach to dealing with the shortage of teachers — that of assuring salaries, benefits and prestige which will prove attractive.

The present disquieting state of affairs was aptly summed up by Dr. Marshak. He noted that "at a time when technology is becoming increasingly important, we as a society should strive to increase the general quality of math and science education, as well as single out gifted students for special attention." In contrast, as he observed, "we are facing a crisis — scandal may be a more appropriate word — in secondary school education."

The challenge is clear, and insistent. We concur in the judgment of F. James Rutherford, chief education officer of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, that the decline in the number and quality of science teachers will affect "the future of the entire nation." Steps had better be taken, without delay, to improve matters on a large scale.

Around the Rim

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Roggie, baby

I guess you had to be there. One of the unique features of being in the newspaper business is the opportunity to meet interesting people, go far and distant places and gain valuable experience. Newspapering and the U.S. Army, you see, have a lot in common. But instead of the Army Tuesday it was the Navy; not the Mediterranean fleet but 1964 Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach. Staff writer Cliff Coan and I had the chance — thanks to resident tycoon Grady Cunningham — to fly to Dallas and pick up the former Dallas Cowboys quarterback for the annual Chamber banquet. We really didn't fly to Big D. We rocketed. Boarding a Tiger Charter that looked more like something from NASA, we were soaring over Colorado City before the landing gear was tucked away. The trip took a mere 48 minutes or about the same time it takes to drive to Lamesa via the speed limit.

I HAD THE chance to talk with The Dodger on the return trip and must admit, he's biggest sports name I've ever interviewed. When I was a kid, I had his poster covering a wall in my room. I threw every touchdown pass he did and won two Super Bowls in our living room. We made a great team. Whenever I checked my billfold, however, I never could find the money "we" were supposed to be making. Asking Roger questions was like talking with an old friend. Keeping busy with his growing family and real estate ventures, he hasn't been under the fire of a reporter often recently and seemed to enjoy giving his views of the USFL, Cowboys and dropping oil prices. Somehow his concussions hit the conversation — a topic which I'm sure he'd rather avoid.

After screeching to a halt in Big Spring, we stopped at the Dora Roberts Rehab Center for a quick tour. While most mouths dropped open at the sight of our hero, a voice in the background asked if I — yes, me — were one of his receivers. "Golden Richards, m'am," I beamed. "Since I retired, however, most of my golden has fallen out."

Roger's next appearance was a formal media conference. Actually, it wasn't too formal. Herald photog James Iley brought baby daughter Amanda to the event and while channel 9 TV was taping Roger's answers, Amanda — spying the microphone — babbled in her questions before being retired to the locker-room.

The best question of the day came from KWKI newscaster Lynn Peach. Admitting before the new conference that she didn't know much about sports, her stab at a question went something like, "Would you like for your kids to play pro football?" That's when I whispered to her that four of Roger's children were daughters. Roger fielded the question smoothly, though, saying he didn't think the NFL was the place for daughters. Jeff, his son, maybe. But his daughters, no.

The intrepid reporter turned scarlet as a Washington Redskins.

Staubach let it be known his Roloids spots were a public service...for heartburn. "I use the stuff," he grinned. The dynamic commercials have been so popular, Roger was called back for another season. "They've worked on some new ideas," he warned. "This year I'll hold the microphone in my left hand."

BY THE WAY, BSHS football coach Quinn Eudy was there. Did he have a question for Roger? Sure he did. "Would he consider coming out of retirement to quarterback the Steers for a season?" Watch out, Mojo.

Old "war" stories were retold when Roger spoke to the overflow crowd at the C of C banquet. He even paid tribute to longtime buddy Jack Lambert of the Steelers, an intelligent football player with an IQ up to 60. "And that was on game days when he was fired-up," he joked.

After the banquet was over, Roger shook hands with everyone between San Diego and Daytona Beach, and even with a few people from Big Spring. Finally it was time to whisk back to Dallas with Grady.

Now I can tell everyone, "Yeah, I rubbed elbows with Roggie, baby." And for about four hours Tuesday, I learned just how good life can be when you make your living from oil, black gold, Texas tea. I just wish Grady had misplaced his wallet — preferably in my back pocket, so I could retire for the next 50 years.

Maybe next football season I can talk Mr. C. into jettisoning me to Steer games. It's the only way to fly.

It's only when we're relaxed that the thing way down deep in all of us — call it the subconscious mind, the spirit, what you will — has a chance to well up and tell us how we shall go.

Resurrecting the inflation tax

All the talk in Washington about repealing the indexing portion of the Reagan tax cut carries one unmistakable message: Get ready for another round of double-digit inflation.

Indexing, which prevents taxpayers from being pushed into higher tax brackets by cost-of-living raises, is the latest target in the spurious war against the budget deficit. Daniel Rostenkowski of Chicago, head of the House Ways and Means Committee, says it should be eliminated. Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker agrees.

The idea is likely to be more popular on Capitol Hill than canceling this year's tax cut, because voters may not understand the importance of indexing — at least not until it's too late. But either change would raise taxes. Without indexing, the entire Reagan cut in tax rates would be repealed in only a few years. And scrapping indexing would guarantee soaring inflation.

THE BEAUTY OF inflation in the good old days was the fat dividend it paid the government. As taxpayers got pay increases to keep pace with rising prices, they found themselves in higher tax brackets — leaving them with less in real after-tax income than they had before. The government, at least in theory, got steadily rising revenues without ever formally raising taxes.

But the indexing provision, which eliminated "bracket creep" by adjusting brackets for inflation, scuttled that deal. It ensured that any future tax increases would have to be enacted publicly. The deficit fetishists prefer to keep their dirty habit out of sight — hence the move

Bureaucrat gets his wrist slapped

WASHINGTON — For years, Americans were amused by the television antics of Sgt. Bilko, the scheming Army topkick created by comedian Phil Silvers.

Sgt. Bilko, meet Administrator Bilko of the Environmental Protection Agency. Tall, rugged-looking Peter Bilko bears no physical resemblance to the bald, overweight Bilko, but he seems to have the sergeant's knack for bending government regulations to his own advantage.

Bilko is the EPA regional boss for Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. But his behavior is more like that of a Byzantine satrap than of a mere bureaucrat.

Tipped off by a written complaint from a Bilko subordinate, the EPA's inspector general investigated the official's high living. The IG's still-secret report, obtained by my associates Tony Capaccio and Lucette Lagnado, confirms the allegations.

THE REPORT recommends "that Mr. Bilko be admonished for the use of poor judgment in not following EPA regulations and for inefficient use of government resources." Under this sugar coating, the report lays out this bitter pill of particulars:

— Bilko advanced himself some sick leave to make a three-day weekend visit to Florida last August. — During his first year in office, Bilko was driven 15,000 miles by his government chauffeur, who racked up 220 hours of overtime and $1,200 in per-diem expenses. This included 89 trips between home and office, an apparent violation of rules restricting such service to Cabinet secretaries and a handful of other top officials. Yet the IG report said "no evidence was obtained to show that Bilko used the government car or driver purely for personal reasons."

— Bibko chose to be driven to Washington from Philadelphia on 19 occasions instead of taking a train or plane. Evidently his choice was based largely on the superiority of his car's reading lamps over those provided by cheaper public transportation. "The government vehicle is equipped with reading lamps," the IG report notes, "and Bibko stated that he accomplishes much work while being transported, thus resulting in value to the agency in excess of the cost to the government."

— The IG auditors documented 176 personal phone calls Bilko charged to his government credit card — $708.90 worth. Actually, Bilko admitted having made more than 300 such calls, including 25 from his home telephone. He told the auditors he intended to reimburse the government when he got the billings. — Because his family was still living in Pittsburgh, Bibko wrote a memo stating that he would schedule no trips there on Mondays or Fridays, to avoid "the appearance of personal advantage." Yet six of his 15 trips to Pittsburgh during that first year were on either a Monday or a Friday.

— Bibko took a five-day trip to New Orleans last April at government expense to give a single speech to the environmental law section of the Louisiana Bar Association.

— Though he was entitled by regulations to only 106 hours of annual leave and an equal amount of sick leave, Bibko's records showed that he had actually used 117 hours of annual leave and 140 hours of sick leave as of last September. The auditors found no evidence that Bibko had tampered with his records or ordered them to be altered.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Gerald P. Egan declined to prosecute Bibko "due to lack of evidence of criminal intent." Egan noted sympathetically that "after years of working in the private sector, Bibko... may not have recognized the impropriety of his actions."

So the inspector general recommended that Bibko be admonished and ordered to make restitution for all the personal telephone calls.

Footnote: Through his public affairs office, Bibko declined to comment.

Billy Graham

Don't feel guilty about it

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I broke my hip several months ago and find it very difficult to get around, even with a walker. I feel guilty about not going to church, but it is almost impossible for me to get around. Do you think God understands if I don't go to church? — Mrs. W.M.

DEAR MRS. W.M.: God knows your situation, and he also knows your heart. He knows if you genuinely cannot get to church, and if you sincerely want to worship him. So if you are no longer able to get to church because of this physical disability you have no reason to feel guilty.

I hope you will, however, take advantage of every means possible to grow in your relationship with Christ and to worship him as you should. There are, for example, a number of radio and television programs which center on the preaching of the Word of God — perhaps including your own church's regular service. These should not be a substitute for your own church if you get to the point you can return to it on a regular basis, but God can use them to encourage you and help you.

Then I hope you will do all you can to maintain close ties with your own church. Let your pastor know of your concern; hopefully he and others will be able to come to see you regularly. We also need personal fellowship wherever possible with other Christians — which is one reason why watching a service on television on Sunday morning is not enough. Even when the Apostle Paul was in a Roman prison, he rejoiced in the visits of other believers and knew that he needed that kind of contact.

There is one other thing I would like to stress. It may be that your physical condition is making you feel rather useless right now, because you are not able to do many of the things you used to do — including work in your church. But you should not feel this way. It may be that God has some different type of work for you right now, such as a ministry of prayer. Do you pray for your pastor regularly, and for the people in your church by name? Are you praying for missionaries and evangelists who are proclaiming the Gospel? Your ministry of prayer and encouragement can mean great blessing to other people.

Office surgery

It's making hospital officials sick of patients

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Many surgical patients can shave 60 percent off their medical bills by avoiding hospitals, contends a fledgling society of 200 surgeons which is promoting surgery in the doctor's office.

But hospital officials worry that office-based surgery, if widely embraced, could skim the cream of the patient crop, taking the healthy, short-term patients who are cared for easily. That would leave hospitals with the very ill who stay for weeks and require constant attention. For those patients, costs might increase.

"What this would mean is that those who remain would have to pay a higher share of the hospital overhead that used to be allocated to the easy cases," said Leon Starr, finance director for the Southern California Hospital Council. The cost of running a hospital will stay about the same, even if fewer patients share the cost, so "society hasn't saved anything."

"We are definitely in competition with hospitals," said Dr. Purvis L. Martin of San Diego, president of the Society for Office Based Surgery. "There hasn't been an overt reaction because not enough doctors are in this. But as we grow and more and more office-based surgery takes more away from the hospital's come-and-go (outpatient surgery programs), they're going to react. The reaction is going to be to lower their prices."

He said membership in the four-year-old society is doubling each year.

For the society, office surgery means fully equipped and staffed surgical centers in doctors' offices. Depending on what a doctor contemplates — from simple procedures with a local anesthetic to full-blown operations with general anesthesia — facilities cost anywhere from $2,000 to $50,000.

"We're talking about a tremendous amount of money," San Diego hand surgeon Rodney MacDonald said during the society's recent convention.

"This is a facility that is designed as an operating room, with an appropriate waiting room and an appropriate recovery room and enough equipment to handle any and all emergencies that might develop."

Office surgery is, said Dr. Robert Kotler, a Los Angeles plastic surgeon, the next logical step beyond surgical centers, clinics that do virtually nothing but outpatient surgery, that are increasingly popular.

For many procedures that don't require an overnight hospital stay, Martin said, "you could save approximately one-third by going to a free-standing surgical center and probably two-thirds with an office-based surgical center."

The difference is overhead: An office-based surgical suite is far less expensive to build and maintain than a full-service hospital. The surgeon's fee is the same.

Kotler supplied the following comparison for identical outpatient nasal surgery — nasal septoplasty and bilateral turbinate resection to improve breathing — performed in January 1982.

Total hospital cost was $1,050.60 including $465.75 for operating room use. Total office cost was $453.20 including $265 for the operating room for a difference of $597.40. Neither cost includes doctor fees.

HEADED HOME — John Duckworth III, 3, waves to a crowd gathered outside Children's Hospital in Boston Tuesday while his father, John Jr., holds open the door of a limousine as they prepare to head for their Hudson, Mass., home. The child was hospitalized for three weeks with a blood disease so rare it was named for him.

'Blood Boy' goes home

Child with mysterious disease faces transfusions

BOSTON (AP) — A 3-year-old boy with a rare blood disease got a limousine ride home from the hospital with a police escort, but he still faces daily blood transfusions to stay alive.

John Duckworth III spent seven weeks in Children's Hospital Medical Center where doctors were able to cut his need for transfusions, but they said there is no end in sight to the treatments.

"He has to be watched all the time," said his 23-year-old mother, Cathy Duckworth. "His activities will be limited."

John has a disease called immune thrombocytopenic purpura. His own blood antibodies mistakenly identify his blood platelets — and sometimes his red and white blood cells — as invaders to be attacked and destroyed.

The only way to control "John Duckworth disease," as his family refers to it, is through transfusions of platelets from donated blood.

Because the platelets are the blood's clotting agent, the boy must be watched during all his waking hours so that he won't bump into something or fall hard and begin bleeding.

The hospital tried for six weeks with a treatment in which a process like dialysis was used to clear the antibodies from the boy's plasma.

"But it didn't make a dramatic difference in curing the disease," said his physician, Dr. Diana Beardsley.

Young John wore a protective white helmet Tuesday and was carried by his father John Duckworth Jr., 25. He is the couple's only child.

The youngster had been rushed to the hospital on New Year's Day for emergency surgery to remove a blood clot in his brain.

"He's getting used to it," his mother said of the helmet. "It doesn't get in the way. I'm going to give him magic marker so he can decorate it when he gets home."

"He's going to have to wear it all the time for a long time," she said. "We don't want it to happen again."

The boy also had smiles and waves as he entered a donated limousine for the trip home. A police car was waiting at the Hudson town line to provide sirens and flashing lights along the way.

WAITING FOR HEART — Eleven-year-old Susan Stohler of Anderson, Ind., is wheeled through a department by her father, David Stohler, on an outing with her brother, Joey, 4. Susan is waiting word from Stanford University Medical Center whether she will be accepted as a heart transplant candidate. Doctors say she will not live the remainder of the year without a new heart.

Cocaine seized in Houston raid

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men were jailed today following the seizure of 25 pounds of cocaine in a raid on a west Houston apartment, authorities said. Houston police, U.S. Customs agents and officers of the Drug Enforcement Administration made the seizure about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Information about your changing telephone service from Darlene Gifford, Community Relations Manager

Divestiture, FCC actions to affect cost of local service

Concern is being expressed today in many places that changes taking place in the telecommunications industry are going to create a rapid increase in rates for local flat-rate service.

Unfortunately, that's probably true. We've been saying for years that Long Distance revenues were subsidizing local rates.

Because others were saying just the opposite, the public's confusion was understandable.

Now that the Bell System is being broken up, the handwriting is on the wall. Revenues from Long Distance will no longer be available to Southwestern Bell as they have been in the past to help keep local rates low.

Beginning this year, the company lost another important revenue contribution from the FCC's order that a separate subsidiary (American Bell) be set up to exclusively market telephone terminal equipment.

Southwestern Bell may continue to sell the Bell System terminal equipment it had on hand at the beginning of the year. When it's gone, however, the company won't be able to sell Bell System-manufactured phones, PBXs, etc.

Services will need to be repriced

Therefore, virtually every service Southwestern Bell offers will be repriced to make each contribute sufficient revenue to stand on its own, profit-wise.

Local flat-rate service probably is the most under-priced service we offer, because of the generally accepted public policy that local rates should be kept as low as possible to encourage the development of "universal" service.

Virtually everyone who has wanted telephone service in recent years could afford a basic local service. Public policy has now shifted to de-regulation, with competition expected to provide the impetus to take advantage of the fruits of the ever faster technological race.

Long Distance bargains come in minutes, too

Long Distance service may be the first to realize the benefits of true competition in the industry, with rates almost sure to go down once subsidies for local service are withdrawn.

But Bell Long Distance rates within Texas are already a bargain. Surprisingly, our research indicates most people overestimate the cost of an in-state call.

Do you? Test yourself. What is the rate for the first minute of a Day-rate call dialed direct (1 +) from a non-coin phone, without tax, say from Amarillo to Brownsville? A. 42¢ B. 59¢ C. 73¢. Hint: It's the same from El Paso to Texarkana, Texas.

You don't have to turn the page for the answer. Or even turn the page upside down. It's A. Just 42¢. You can talk as long as you like at 42¢ for each additional minute.

That's one of the nice things about Long Distance. You can virtually tailor-make each call. You can pick the time, type and length of call which suits you and your pocketbook best.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line.

Nurses aides pinned at United Health Care

Eighteen nurses' aides received their pins in a ceremony Friday at the United Health Care Center. The employees completed 18 hours of classroom instruction, three months of active training in caring for geriatric patients and passed the skills check list in compliance with the State Health Department regulations.

Each employee was issued a certificate of training. The employment of these aides range from three months to three years.

Receiving pins were Julia Bihl, Lovina Brumley, Sue Calderon, Virginia Carrillo, Patsy Chavarria and Sandy Cole. Others were Juanita Freelan, Karyn Hale, Peggy Logan, Florence

Moten, Jimmy Paul, Mary Paul and Ann Powell. Yolanda Trevino, Eva Yanez, Teresa Ezell and Nell Barber.

Dr. Donohue

Chelation claims

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you please express your views on chelation therapy? My father is considering this treatment. He is 74 and has arteriosclerosis. A year ago he had bypass surgery to correct an aneurysm. But this did not significantly improve the circulation in his legs. He had difficulty walking. Would chelation reverse or improve his circulation condition? — K.A.

First of all let me paraphrase the stand of the American Heart Association, which says chelation therapy should be used only on an investigational basis, that claims for it are not proven.

A word of explanation is in order for other readers who may never have heard of the idea Chelation means leeching out of a substance. The most prominent use of chelating agents is in certain poisonings. There, certain compounds are used to latch onto the poison molecules in the blood and remove them from the body. There are several proven chelating agents of this kind, depending on the particular poisoning.

Now, the chelating agent to which you refer is EDTA. It grabs calcium, binding it to itself and eliminating it into the urine.

The reasoning behind this therapy goes like this:

Fatty deposits on the surface lining of arteries contain calcium. Take away the calcium and blood flow through the arteries should improve. This is a theoretical way to treat angina, where arteries to the heart muscle are blocked with such deposits.

However, calcium is only one part of the deposits. And there are potential dangers — like kidney trouble — in the treatment. Finally, it has never been proved it works. Statements from patients like, "I feel better," are not proof. Demonstrating increased blood flow is proof. That has not yet been done. Personally, I don't believe this will help correct your father's deficient leg circulation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes lichen planus? My sister has it. How can one tell when one is contracting this problem? Hers started with bluish spots on her arms, which spread to her body. Please discuss treatment. — K.N.

A group of small, flat, glistening spots of violet color appear on the skin, especially on the wrists or thighs. These may be irregular, circular or appear as streaks. They may appear anywhere on the body, and your sister seems to have had the full range of sites (another part of your letter). The genitals can be a place for them to appear also.

Dear Abby

Woman wants to leave lover but can't go

DEAR ABBY: I need some answers fast because I feel like I'm sinking in quicksand. I'm involved with a married man. We have tried to be truthful from the start. He has never promised to leave his wife, nor has he told me any of the lies most married men tell their mistresses. We live one day at a time. This has been going on for 12 years. His wife has caught us together twice, but she's never offered to leave him knowing he sees me daily.

I know he loves me, but I'm no fool. I know he loves her too. So why doesn't he leave one of us alone?

I am 31 and would like a man to call my own, but he's got me under his spell. I know I must sound like a mental case, but I'm really a smart girl. I'm just not strong enough to make the break. Can you help me?

SOUTHERN FOOL
DEAR FOOL: You ask, "Why doesn't he leave one of us alone?" Why should he? He's been eating his cake and having it, too. And should he ever run out of cake, he's got two bakeries going for him.

If you really want a man to call your own, put much distance between yourself and this 12-year habit as possible. Make a clean break. Move and leave no forwarding address. I don't know how far south you are now, but head north until you reach Alaska. Happy hunting, or fishing. It's great for both.

DEAR ABBY: We're always hearing about people who want to lose weight. Well, what about those of us who would love to gain a little?

I don't know what to do, Abby. I'm a 25-year-old woman stand 5 feet 3 inches and weigh 95 pounds. People tell me I am very pretty, but I'm too skinny. I've tried everything imaginable to gain weight, but I can't seem to put on a pound no matter what I eat.

Can you help me? And please don't tell me how "lucky" I am. I feel cheated.

BIRD LEGS
DEAR BIRD LEGS: Please concentrate on your health instead of your weight. See a doctor for a complete physical, and if he or she thinks you should weight more for your frame, he or she will give you a diet.

DEAR ABBY: Here's one for you. We have a new minister who quotes Romans 16:16 — "Greet your neighbor with a kiss." He instructs the entire congregation to stand up and hug and kiss everyone standing near enough to reach. Then there is a lot of hugging and kissing.

Now the problem: My husband and I and some of our best friends have herpes. What do we do now? My husband says we should tell our pastor to stop instructing everyone to hug and kiss one another. Or should we call a meeting for all members?

DISTRESSED IN INDIANA
DEAR DISTRESSED: Tell your pastor of your concern. Ask him to suggest that instead of the traditional kiss, a "token" kiss will suffice owing to the danger of spreading contagious diseases.

DEAR ABBY: The Texans who wear their hats all the time do so for a good reason. The hat covers the holes in their heads and keeps the "macho" from leaking out.

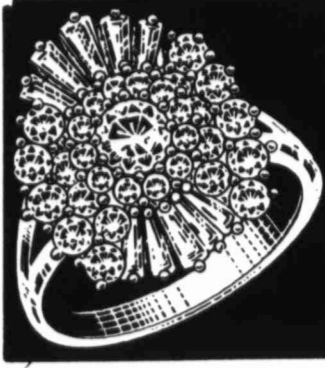

GEORGE GILKESON, CONROE TEXAS

Tejas Cowbelles

The Tejas CowBelles sponsored an Honor America seminar Feb. 19 at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Mickey Nunley, master of ceremonies, introduced guest speaker Rob Walton, the Western United States representative for the Freeman Institute. He has a bachelor and master's degree from Weaver University, where he graduated Magna Cum Laude. He was a Russian linguist for the Air Force during the Viet Nam War, speaks five languages and has lived in eight states and three foreign countries.

The three-hour seminar was entitled "Which Way America?" The main emphasis was on the original American success formula, which calls for the liberation of the U.S. free enterprise economy from governmental strangulation. It also calls for the restoration of the basic ideas set forth in the Constitution according to the original design of the Founding Fathers.

Welfare, social security reform and the Federal Reserve were three areas examined. Theresa Sterling and June Wall were the CowBelle chairmen.

Rook Club

Mrs. Birdie Adams, Mrs. Vernon Kent and Mrs. H.M. Rowe were high scorers at the Rook Club meeting Feb. 18, held in the home of Mrs. C.R. Moad.

The group observed Washington's Birthday. The next meeting will be with Mrs. S.R. Nobles, 406 Washington.

Rosebud Garden Club

Mrs. Floyd Mays spoke on "Birds of West Texas" and showed slides synchronized with a recording of the birds' songs during a meeting of the Rosebud Garden Club at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Mrs. Mays, who participates in the annual bird count held during Christmas week, said one hundred bird species have been seen in the Big Spring area.

Various magazine articles were reviewed by members. Mrs. G.P. Morrison recapped an article from National Wildlife which said a Kansas State University chemist concluded that bay leaves and cucumbers are natural roach repellants. Mrs. Leslie Hershey reviewed "Your Ailing Plants May Need Aspirin," from International Wildlife. Researchers are discovering that aspirin may promote formation of flower and leaf buds, stimulate leaf growth and reduce water intake. Aspirin has been shown to boost a plant's own disease-fighting capabilities.

Mrs. Cleo Carlile reviewed an article that advocated planting tomatoes immediately before or during a full moon.

Mrs. W.H. Christensen presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. Womack will be the club delegate to the District I Spring Convention in Hereford.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas reported that two of the club's civic beautification projects have been completed. Bluebonnets have been planted alongside Farmroad 700 and hedges have been planted at the West Side Center. Future projects include thinning wild grass at the county library and planting seeds in the park.

Mrs. Gil Jones and Mrs. Womack volunteered to make a flower arrangement for the chapel at Big Spring State Hospital this spring.

Guest was Mrs. C.L. Sparkman of Odessa and Mrs. Katherine Mobley.

The next meeting is March 22 at 9:30 a.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

4-Hers' project centers around food, nutrition

Several Howard County 4-Hers have been busy preparing for the Howard County 4-H Food Show March 19 at 2 p.m. at the Canterbury Retirement Center.

The Knott 4-H group met at the County Extension agents office Feb. 15. Peggy Kalina, county extension agent—home economics, presented an experiment on leavening and a demonstration on preparing Banana Oposicles. The group proceeded to the Kopper Kettle. Roxann Rich, owner, presented a demonstration on Chinese cookery.

The Coahoma 4-H group assembled at the Brandin' Iron Restaurant on Feb. 16. Virginia Parker, co-owner, and her staff showed the 4-Hers how dinner rolls and meals are prepared. Mrs. Parker also discussed restaurant management and employer responsibilities.

The Forsan Food group met Feb. 19 at the Elbow Cafeteria. Joan Rock, 4-H leader, discussed the nutritional value of foods with the 4-Hers. Then older members demonstrated various cooking techniques.

The Gay Hill and Lucky Acres Food Groups met Feb. 19. After a lesson on nutrition and measuring, the 4-Hers toured Burger King. Rufus Jordan, owner and manager, explained the computerized equipment. Then each member made their own hamburger for lunch.

The oil glut

How business is coping

BY JAMES R. PIEROBON

Houston Chronicle Energy Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — As each day goes by, and crude oil prices continue to decline, thousands of Texas businessmen are scrambling to reassess how their companies will survive the most dramatic downturn the oil industry has ever seen.

For some firms, an average price for oil of $26 to $28 per barrel currently forecast will cost them their livelihoods. For the majority of oil and natural gas producers and service companies, lower oil prices will mean further personnel cutbacks and a consolidation of plant operations to pare costs to the bone.

"Some people were predicting an upturn for our business about three to nine months out. Not any more. Any optimism has vanished completely," said Philip Burguières, president of Cameron Iron Works Inc., a manufacturer of oil country tools based in Houston.

The January unemployment rate for Houston, unadjusted for seasonal variations, was 9.1 per cent.

As the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries tries to come to grips with the excess supply and weak demand for crude oil worldwide, analysts say new series of chain reactions are bound to sap the oil industry of its ability to replace annual production with newly discovered reserves.

"We're looking at a series of steps. We'll combine operations and make reductions in our work force as the situation dictates," Burguières said. During the past nine months, Cameron has reduced domestic employment by 35 per cent, or almost 3,000 workers.

On Tuesday, Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil producer and the leading member of OPEC, had yet to announce a price cut for its premium crude oil which sells officially for $34 per barrel.

Saudi Arabia has never reduced its oil price. But now, that is practically a foregone conclusion after the government-owned oil companies in Great Britain and Norway reduced their price for oil produced in the North Sea last Friday. In response, Nigeria, an OPEC member desperate for oil revenues, reduced its oil price $5.50 per barrel to $30.50.

World oil analysts believe the Saudis will drop their price at least $4 per barrel and possibly as much as $7.

To some oil men, there's a silver lining to the current wave of oil price reductions.

For large oil companies engaged in the exploration and production of oil, as well as the refining and marketing of oil byproducts, costs continue to decline.

Oil field inflation, which raced ahead at an annual rate as high as 35 percent in some industry segments during 1980 and 1981, has leveled off. In isolated cases, the cost of leasing a drilling rig has actually fallen because too many companies built rigs during the boom years based on projections for $80-per-barrel oil, resulting in an oversupply.

"I'm very bullish on the long-term prospects for this industry. Drilling rigs will operate at a greater efficiency (produce more oil for every rig employed) and fewer people will be working on the best exploration prospects," said Dale W. Steffes, founder of his own economic forecasting firm in Houston.

It's also good news to some oil men that while the shakeout has yet to run its course, the bottom of the downturn is closer and now may be only 12 months away.

History, however, suggests that line of reasoning may be too sanguine. The last time the industry experienced an about-face, in 1956, drilling for oil and gas did not turn back up until 1971. Analysts note that during most of the 1960s, oil was selling for about $1 per barrel, so the forces of supply and demand worked slower than they do today.

The two previous downturns, from 1926 to 1933 and from 1937 to 1943, were shorter in length but were influenced by the Great Depression and World War II.

The consensus among oil forecasters is that oil prices will stabilize later this year but that producers won't be convinced of that until 1984. Exploration and production budgets won't reflect any renewed optimism until 1985. In the meantime, this segment of the Houston economy, which accounts for at least one-third of all local business activity, will continue to stagger. Survival is and will continue to be the buzzword.

For real estate developers, that means slashing the asking price for leased office space by about 20 percent or more. The vacancy rate for office buildings in the downtown business district was 5 percent in December. By next December, the vacancy rate is expected to reach 8 percent to 10 percent, according to Edward H. Cappel, a sales manager of Coldwell Banker Commercial Real Estate Services, Inc. here.

The developers behind two new downtown skyscrapers scheduled to open later this year, Republic Bank Tower and Allied Bank Plaza, have preleased only 40 percent of a combined total of almost 3 million square feet of office space, according to Cappel.

TOWING THE LINE — Children from a church day care center in Victoria are led around the block, each of them secured by a safety line. The rope, loosely tied to the children's waists, prevents them from accidentally wandering off while they are out for exercise.

NO LONGER ENDANGERED — Two preserved specimens of the snail darter fit easily into the palm of a hand. This minnow that stopped construction of a TVA dam for two years is being removed from the endangered species list.

Watt says snail darter minnow no longer endangered species

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The snail darter, the three-inch minnow that prompted a court to temporarily block construction of a $130 million dam, is thriving and about to lose its status as an endangered species, Interior Secretary James Watt says.

The darter, which became an environmental symbol of the 1970s, is in the process of being downgraded from an endangered to a threatened species and eventually could be left without any federal protection, according to Watt.

He said that Fish and Wildlife Service biologists have found darter populations in at least six east Tennessee waterways.

"They found it was not endangered," he told the House Appropriations energy and water subcommittee Tuesday.

"With further biological research and evaluation, it's conceivable they would take it clear off the (protected) list," Watt added.

Asked afterward if the snail darter is thriving, Watt replied, "Oh, yeh."

Ten years ago, the snail darter was discovered in the

Environmentalists feared destruction of what was believed to be the minnow's only natural habitat. They succeeded in convincing a federal court in 1977 that the darter's endangered status mandated a halt to work on the nearly completed dam.

Work was stopped until 1979, when Congress and President Carter agreed on legislation exempting the Tellico Dam from the endangered species law. In the process, some Little Tennessee darters were moved to the Hiwassee River.

Megan Durham, a spokesman for the Fish and Wildlife Service, said the Hiwassee population is just one of six found in east Tennessee by federal scientists.

The other waterways are Chickamauga and Sewee creeks and the Sequatchie, Paint Rock and Little Tennessee rivers, according to Ms. Durham. The darters in the Little Tennessee are downstream of the dam, she added.

Ms. Durham said these populations are doing better than the one in the Hiwassee and are believed to be natural populations, not the result of dam-related relocations.

Gas price cut denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission refused Wednesday to roll back price increases of 15 percent to 40 percent for millions of natural gas customers in the Middle West.

By a 5-0 vote, the commission refused to stop Trunkline LNG Co. and its parent, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Corp. of Houston, from importing high-cost liquefied natural gas from Algeria and passing the costs along to retail distributors.

The commission, partially affirming a ruling last month by an administrative law judge, said opponents of the rate increase failed to show any violation of a government-approved 1977 contract between Panhandle, one of the nation's largest interstate pipelines, and Sonatrach, the Algerian company.

Only two commissioners, chairman Charles M. Butler III and Anthony Sousa, agreed with administrative law judge Curtis L. Wagner Jr.'s opinion that the commission could not nullify the contract even if it wanted to unless one of its conditions was violated.

Instead, the commission cited an article in the contract requiring Panhandle and Sonatrach to renegotiate prices this quarter "based on current economic conditions of the market in the East Coast and Gulf Coast regions" for imported gas and other sources of energy.

Butler said the commission would not tolerate any "footdragging" by Panhandle or Sonatrach on those negotiations.

Charles Moore, the commission's counsel, said the agency expects Panhandle and Sonatrach to have a new price agreement by March 31. Paul Taylor, a spokesman for Panhandle, said negotiations on a new price are under way.

The Algerian gas is being delivered to Panhandle at a price of $6.65 per thousand cubic feet. The price is keyed to a formula recognizing the cost of residential and industrial fuel oil in New York.

Opponents, who include several members of Congress, local utilities and state officials, tried to block the imports, contending that Panhandle could not justify paying that much for imported gas at a time when the average domestic price is $2.49 and many wells are closed because of an oversupply.

Ban sought on sleepwear

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission said Wednesday that it will ask a judge to ban a New York firm from selling children's clothing that doesn't meet federal standards.

The commission said it was filing an administrative complaint against Sun and Sand Imports, Ltd., charging that the company is selling sleepwear that fails to meet flammability standards.

The company has declined to stop selling the garments because it contends they are not sleepwear, according to the commission. Company officials were not available for comment on the complaint.

In question are about 60,000 cotton garments sold over the last three years, the commission said.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas effective March 18, 1983.

The proposed changes in rates will affect all customer classes and are designed to increase the Company's gross intrastate revenues by approximately 15 percent annually.

A complete set of revised rate schedules has been filed with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and is available for public inspection in each of the Company's Business Offices in the State of Texas. A summary of the Company's rate filing has also been sent to the Mayor's Office of each affected Municipality.

Economic valley

Governor visits depressed Rio Grande area

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Local merchants viewed Gov. Mark White's Wednesday visit to the Rio Grande Valley as a "goodwill gesture," but one man said the governor can do little to pull the area's economy out of its current difficulties.

"There's not a hell of a lot he can do," said Archie Williams, vice president of a Brownsville clothing store.

White, making his first appearance in the Valley since taking office, attended a forum with business and political leaders in Brownsville before taking a walking tour of the city's downtown.

Some local merchants, however, said they view the Valley's faltering economy as an international problem caused by Mexico's economic shakeup and the 1982 peso devaluations.

"We need to find some other way of doing business without Mexico," Williams told White when the governor stopped at his shop.

"What the state can do, I don't know," Williams said.

"That's what we're here to try to find out," White said.

In his opening remarks to a packed conference room at the Cameron County Courthouse, White said, "Mexico does not need our sympathy, but it will always have our friendship."

"We have a mutual interest in each other's prosperity," he said.

White said he will be in Washington, D.C. next week to discuss the Valley's economic problems with President Reagan.

Many lawmakers in Washington "think of Texas as an area of prosperity," White said, adding the Valley's unemployment statistics are "as least as high as anywhere in the nation."

During the forum, White was told that Mexican nationals are crossing the Rio Grande in droves, but many are coming illegally and not to buy American goods.

Most of the 14 leaders who addressed White and a group of state lawmakers from Brownsville to El Paso attributed South Texas' economic woes to the Mexican peso's slide from 27 to the dollar last January to about 150 to the dollar today.

Illegal border crossings have increased 63 percent in one year as more and more Mexicans flee their homeland for jobs and better opportunities on the Texas side of the border, said Hal Bolden, director of the Harlingen office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Brownsville has lost $4.9 million in revenues since last year due to the peso devaluations, said Kenneth Lieck, Brownsville city manager.

Mike Begum, a Brownsville clothing store manager, told the governor that the border society is a cultural and economic hybrid.

"If one takes ill, the other gets the symptoms," he said. Retail sales in downtown Brownsville have decreased 70 percent to 90 percent because of the devaluations, he said.

White was to meet with McAllen business leaders Wednesday afternoon.

Schoolgirl friends find they're sisters

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — When Winna Miller and Sandra Campbell attended summer school together in 1977, they thought of themselves only as close friends who looked enough alike to be sisters.

It was not until recently they discovered their resemblance was more than skin deep — they really were sisters.

Mrs. Miller, 24, was even more shocked to learn that she also had a brother, a twin of Mrs. Campbell's.

The reuniting of the three siblings might never have taken place if Steven Akin, the brother, had not sought aid from a local child welfare agency in a search for his unknown sister.

The siblings believe their two sets of adoptive parents went to Amarillo to adopt about the same time in 1961.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Akin adopted Steven and Sandra and Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Dugat adopted Winna.

The two newly formed families returned to Victoria County where they lived for the next 22 years without knowing the family ties that bound them.

The Akins told Steven and Sandra at age 16 that they were adopted but they did not know where their sister lived.

"When we adopted Steven and Sandra we were told about the sister," Mrs. Akin said. "We would have adopted her too, but she was already taken."

Akin, 22, went to Children's Services of Victoria, which determined that he had a sister and that she was alive.

"They wouldn't tell me who she was until she was contacted first," Akin said. "If she would have said no then Sandra and I would have never been able to contact her."

School officials plea for money

AUSTIN (AP) — From Tahoka in the High Plains to Houston on the Upper Coast, school officials told senators Wednesday they needed just one thing — more money.

Several hinted they were ready to support new or increased taxes to get the money.

The testimony came before a combined meeting of the Senate Finance and Education Committees to prepare them for any school financing recommendations they make.

"We want to get an overview of the issues that are related to education and we want to know your priority items," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, education committee chairman.

"We're going to add about 1.5 million more students to our public schools and now is the time to be thinking about them," said Joe Kelly Butler, chairman of the State Board of Education.

"We discharged 600 school employees last year and still had a $12 million deficit," said Robby Collins, speaking for the Dallas Independent School District.

Collins recommended that special "density" exceptions be allowed for the big city school districts in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and Austin because all have been hit hard by booming school populations, desegregation costs, and a change in property tax procedures.

Tahoka School Superintendent Jim Coulston said his district suffered a 20 percent loss of its tax base, part from the property tax changes and part from weather-related crop failures.

"Our school population has dropped 37 percent and we have lost 19 teachers the last two years," he said.

Coulston suggested an increase in the state sales tax might be set aside for school improvements.

For all you sports fans who plan their schedules like this sports writer does, here's what's happening next week.

First comes the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament at Howard College, beginning Wednesday and concluding with Saturday's championship game. Involves HC Queens.

The HC Hawks baseball team hosts McLennan in a single game Friday (2 p.m.) and in a twinbill Saturday (1 p.m.)

Big Spring High opens season at Andrews Tuesday and then hosts the annual 4-5A tourney, playing at 10 a.m. Friday against Abilene High.

HC Hawk basketball team will try for a Region V tourney berth in the WJCAC tournament, to be announced.

Tuesday and Wednesday, BSHS boys host annual 18-hole tourney.

And finally, at 1 a.m. Sunday, see this writer collapse and look like a 120-year-old man.

New Jersey signs star

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks, president and head coach of the New Jersey Generals, didn't try to hide his plans for Herschel Walker.

"We'll just toss him the ball and tell him to head north, I guess," Fairbanks said Wednesday after the Generals had signed the Heisman Trophy-winning tailback to a contract.

On Tuesday, Fairbanks was saying that he had "quite a number of players who would have the ability to play on a National Football League squad."

But he added, "I don't see the superstars right now." It all changed with the signing of Walker, whose attorney says has become the richest football player in history. Walker signed a three-year contract for an estimated $5 million.

New Jersey Generals

The 20-year-old star from the University of Georgia signed just hours after the college announced that he had been found ineligible to play his senior year because he had agreed last Thursday to a deal with the Generals.

The quarterback who will be tossing the ball to Walker and others is Bobby Scott, a backup in the NFL since he was drafted by the New Orleans Saints in the 14th round of the 1971 draft.

Dwight Sullivan of North Carolina State, an eighth-round draft pick of the Dallas Cowboys in 1982, and Maurice Carthon of Arkansas State, the Generals' eighth round selection, are the leading candidates for the fullback position.

Mike Friede, a wide receiver who once played for the New York Giants of the National Football League, said from the Generals' training camp here that he wouldn't mind helping to block for Walker.

"Downfield blocks. If that's what he wants, that's what he'll get," said Friede, battling at least three other wide receivers for a starting spot.

Mark Slawson, another former Giant, former Green Bay Packers wide receiver Walter Tullis and Tom McConaughy, who was cut by in training camp by the Saints and New York Jets, are the other potential starters at wide receivers.

Fairbanks says he's been impressed with four young offensive linemen — rookie tackle Bryan Millard of Texas, first-year guard Troy McMillin of Illinois and Mississippi State rookies Kent Hull, a center, and Wayne Harris, a guard.

On defense, Fairbanks said: "We have a pretty good-looking group of linebackers." The Generals, who will use a 3-4 alignment, will rely on veteran linebacker Rod Shoate, who played for the New England Patriots from 1975-81.

The Generals also have Dan Lloyd, a promising inside linebacker in the NFL for the Giants before he was sidelined two years in a bout with cancer of the lymph nodes. Lloyd, 29, has recovered from the disease and trying to prove he can still play professional football.

James shoots Hawks by NMMI

ROSWELL, N.M. — Willie James came off the bench to score 19 points and lead six Howard College players in double figures as the Hawks bombed New Mexico Military Institute 110-78 here Wednesday night.

The wins boosts Howard to 21-9 on the season and to 8-9 in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference standings. NMMI tumbles to 6-21 and 2-15.

"It was encouraging to have a sube come in and do a job like that," said HC assistant coach Gregg Polinsky. James had scored a previous high of 14 points last week against Odessa College.

No Hawk scored over 20 points but the team's balance was the best of the season. Nate Givens, Reggie Childress and Dwight Harris added 18 points each while Leon Isaac scored 15 and James Barnett 11.

The Hawks won the earlier meeting between the teams 108-89 in Big Spring with James, the 6-10 freshman, getting only six points.

"Willie James played his best game of the year," Polinsky noted.

Sean Schooley scored 19, Billy Rodriguez 16 and Ralph Raby 12 points for NMMI.

Howard will try to even its WJCAC record for the year when it travels to Hobbs for a conference-ending game with New Mexico Junior College. NMJC is tied for third in the conference race (Howard is fourth) but lost earlier in the year to the Hawks.

Late hoop lifts Virginia

By The Associated Press

Clemson, winner of just one of 12 games in the Atlantic Coast Conference this season, almost took the long-shot route to victory over third-ranked Virginia. In the end, however, they were too short to stop 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson.

The Tigers, 9-18 overall, led for much of Wednesday night's game by hitting 12 of 18 three-point shots, including seven in a row by Mark Campbell, who finished with 26 points and now has connected on 14 straight three-pointers.

But Virginia finally prevailed 85-83 in overtime as Sampson, who was guarded for much of the game by 6-6 Clemson center Murray Jarman, scored 29 points for the Cavaliers.

BASKETBALL

•The Howard College try to nail down a home court advantage for the WJCAC tournament tonight when they meet New Mexico Junior College in Hobbs.

HC is 21-9 overall and needs a victory to even its conference record to 9-9. NMJC is deadlocked with Clarendon and South Plains in third place in the league race behind No. 1 Midland College and Amarillo.

The Thunderbirds are the top scoring team in the league with 95 points each game while Howard is second with 90. The Hawks won the previous meeting 98-89 in Big Spring.

Nate Givens, the No. 1 WJCAC scorer with 23.5 points and top rebounder with 13.2 a game, will battle No. 2 scorer Dennis Johnson (21.5).

•San Angelo Central, runner-ups in District 4-A, square off with Plainview, champs of 3-A, at 7:30 p.m. at Howard College in a 5-A playoff game.

The Bobcats are 22-11 overall and led by Lorand White with a 23.6 average while 6-5 Jeff Kasner scores 10.6. Plainview, 16-10 overall but 13-3 in league play, is led by two-time district MVP Gil Wright who pours in 27.3 points.

•The Sands Mustangs play their bi-district game at 7 p.m. Friday in Snyder.

BASEBALL

•The Howard College Hawks, off to a 7-1 start after their weekend debut, meet Wharton College again today in a 1 p.m. doubleheader at the HC ballpark. Former Big Spring High hurler Moe Rubio, 0-0, will go in the opener against Wharton's Mike Holik, 0-0. The Pioneers, 1-5 after 8-7 and 5-3 losses at Ranger, will go with Joey Copycinski, 0-1, in the second game.

•Big Spring High meets Lamesa in a 4 p.m. scrimmage at the BSHS ballpark.

GOLF

•The Big Spring High School Girls Invitational golf tournament completes its first 18 holes today over the Comanche Trails Golf Course. Host Big Spring High joins 15 other teams for the two-day which begins Friday at 8 a.m. at the Country Club.

•The BSHS boys are in Abilene for an invitational tournament. Hoping to give his younger players experience, coach Howard Stewart sent two sophomores and three freshmen to the tournament, the final 18 holes of which will be played at Fairway Oaks.

MEETING TIME

•The Big Spring Cardinals semi-pro team will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at 621 NW 4th. The team opens practice Monday under managers Raul and Frank Rubio.

Cougars clamor for competition

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Cougars don't want to insult other Southwest Conference basketball teams, but they say what the nation's No. 2 team really needs to reach the Final Four again is some good opposition.

"What we needed to do was play a really tough team now in this break," guard Derek Giles said. "Not that these SWC teams can't beat us, but we'd be tougher if we could play somebody tougher."

"Anybody can play in the blowouts. We need some tougher teams," added forward Clyde Drexler, a veteran of last year's 25-8 squad that didn't win the Southwest Conference, but went into the NCAA playoffs anyway and advanced to the national championships.

The Cougars are 22-2 this season and have won 17 straight games, including a 13-0 record in SWC play.

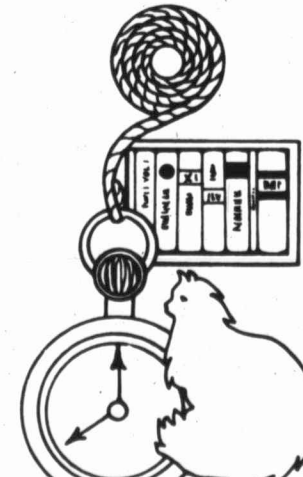

"Right now, we're playing great for this stage of the season," Drexler said. "But last year, we improved tremendously in the last month of the season. We really got serious about things."

Relax tonight someplace special

Get the re-run blues? Do the new TV shows turn you off? No matter what the TV schedule says, you can still relax tonight someplace special - 1490 on the AM radio dial.

Beginning each week-day night at 8, West Texas radio pioneer Luther Kelley returns to the air with your musical favorites. It's Glen Miller, The Dorsey Brothers, Guy Lombardo and all the rest from dark to daylight.

Relax tonight someplace special - 1490 on the AM radio dial, KBST.

1490 is someplace special and we're planning a special night just for you.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 25, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It's advisable that you attend to personal tasks despite the obstacles. Don't put yourself in a position in which delays occur. Unexpected benefits come your way later in the day.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Buckle down to the work that needs to be done and handle it efficiently. Be alert to a new opportunity at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't expect much from friends who are busy with own affairs right now. Make plans to have more abundance in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show more courtesy and thoughtfulness to higher-ups who are under a heavy strain now. Don't neglect any payments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Meet new and interesting persons who can help you in career matters. New situations should be studied with care.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Knowing what higher-ups expect of you makes the going easier and you stay on the right track. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to views and complaints of associates and come to a better accord. Sidestep a foe who is jealous of you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Avoid a co-worker who is in a bad mood right now. Take more time for rest and build up your energies. Be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Not a good day to take any risks. You must use tact to gain acceptance of others at this time. Show others you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you choose your words well with others or there could be a gross misunderstanding. Be more optimistic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care should be exercised in motion today to avoid possible accident. Try not to get drawn into arguments with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Exercise extreme care where monetary affairs are concerned or you could find yourself in a financial bind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of a troublesome situation without delay. Make the effort to improve health and appearance. Be wise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will know what to do in difficult situations, so direct the education along troubleshooting lines for best results. A compassionate nature in this chart. Give ethical and spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Toto tops Grammys

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Members of Toto, who rose from a high school band to soft-rock stardom, led the pack with seven awards — including album of the year — in a glittering 25th anniversary Grammy show filled with nostalgic glimpses of past ceremonies.

Another big winner Wednesday night was composer John Williams, who won three Grammys for his music to the box-office smash movie "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial."

Willie Nelson's wistful "Always on My Mind" also garnered three awards, and Marvin Gaye picked up two gramophone-shaped trophies for his comeback hit, "Sexual Healing."

Also taking home awards from the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences extravaganza at the Shrine Auditorium were the Australian new wave group Men at Work, Melissa Manchester, Lionel Richie, Joe Cocker and Jennifer Warnes, Pat Benatar, John Cougar, Jennifer Holiday and Alabama.

Toto's Grammy haul included album of the year for "Toto IV" and record of the year for their mellow hit, "Rosanna," which also won two arranging awards. The band was also named producer of the year. "Toto IV" earned best engineered recording honors and Toto guitarist Steve Lukather shared the best rhythm & blues song award with Jay Graydon and Bill Champlin for writing the George Benson hit, "Turn Your Love Around."

Toto's Grammys were the first for the 4-year-old Los Angeles band, marking a triumph over sometimes uncomplimentary reviews. "If it were up to the critics, we wouldn't have won," Lukather said.

The nationally televised awards show ran more than three hours. Although the record industry has fallen on hard times lately, the academy pulled out all the stops for its 25th ceremony.

There were a few unexpected touches to the evening: chanteuse Grace Jones presented an award in new wave garb that featured a hat resembling a striped umbrella, and comedian Eddie Murphy made a mad dash from the wings to snatch away Lionel Richie's best male pop vocal Grammy for "Truly."

"Who was that masked man?" Richie joked before Murphy came back with the trophy.

Gaye performed "Sexual Healing" before winning the best r&b male vocal Grammy. Earlier he had collected the best r&b instrumental award for the instrumental version of the same song.

"I've waited a very long time — 20-some years — to win this," Gaye said of his first Grammy.

Cocker and Miss Warnes performed and then won the best group pop vocal Grammy for "Up Where We Belong." The Oscar-nominated theme to the movie "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Nelson, who performed via satellite from Texas, won best country male vocal honors for "Always on My Mind," which won song of the year and best country song awards.

Computers used to color old black and white films

NEW YORK (AP) — The black-and-white film classics of Laurel and Hardy, the Little Rascals and many others will soon be available in color, thanks to a company that hopes to hook a video-oriented generation on the great films.

Using a computer, a company partially owned by Hal Roach Studios has found an economical way to add color when the black-and-white films are copied onto videotape. The studio, whose 2,000-film library includes the "Our Gang" and Laurel and Hardy comedies, hopes to begin selling the new color-enhanced tapes to cable television companies and directly to the public by the end of the year.

"You have a generation that has grown up on color. They don't have an interest in black and white," said Norman Glick, president of H.R.S. Industries Inc. The process, called "computer colorization," was unveiled at a party Tuesday for entertainment industry officials and financial analysts.

In order to convert black-and-white films to color in the past, each frame had to be hand colored — a costly and time-consuming process, Glick said.

In the new process, developed by engineer Wilson Markle for Vidcolor Image Inc., an art director using a computer colors the first frame of each scene. The computer, programmed to follow the scene's movement so the colors are put in the right places, colors the following frames.

In a demonstration Tuesday, scenes from the 1935 Laurel and Hardy films "The Fixer Uppers" and "County Hospital" were shown in color.

RALPH ANSPACH
...Monopoly inventor

Do not pass go Monopoly makers land in crowded block

BEVERLY, Mass. (AP) — Parker Brothers officials are disappointed in a U.S. Supreme Court decision that the company cannot monopolize Monopoly, but say sales of the game probably won't be affected much.

The company has sold 85 million games since buying it in 1936 from Charles Darrow, an unemployed heating engineer who patented it during the Depression. Only checkers and chess are more popular among board games in the country.

"The court's decision will not do us grievous harm," said company spokeswoman Carol City.

Randolph Barton, president of Parker Brothers, a subsidiary of General Mills, said the court's refusal Tuesday to review a lower court opinion stripping the company of proprietary rights to the name Monopoly was a disappointment.

"General Mills and Parker Brothers have consistently held that the Monopoly trademark is a legitimate defensible trademark," he said.

"We continue to believe this is the case and that the Monopoly trademark serves the best interest of consumers, who for generations have associated the name with quality and with Parker Brothers."

The Supreme Court decision upholds a ruling that under trademark law, a registered trademark loses its legal protection when it becomes generic — a "common descriptive name."

The lower court interpreted the test to mean "that when a trademark primarily denotes a product, not the product's producer, the trademark is lost."

Ralph Anspach, an economics professor at San Francisco State University, had challenged the toy company's copyright almost a decade ago after inventing a game, Anti-Monopoly, which he said was designed to be "fun and also teach something about monopolism."

Darrow, who made "Park Place" and "Atlantic Avenue" part of the American vocabulary by choosing street names from Atlantic City, died a millionaire in 1967.

Monopoly sold 3 million games in 1974, but sales had fallen to 2 million a year by 1981. The firm recently began promoting Monopoly with ads and added a computer component to speed play.

Parker Brothers has branched out into the computer toy and video game market.

College hotline staff repairs broken English

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you daunted by dangling participles? Made hyperbense by tense agreement? Stung by spelling bees? Relief may be just a phone call away.

York College, a Queens division of the City University of New York, has set up a grammar hotline to apply first aid to victims of broken English.

Every weekday, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., York College professors and teachers at Queens high schools staff the telephones, taking questions from students and others who dial REWRITE. The area code is 212.

The service was established in September, and now logs 20 calls a day, some from as far as Canada and California. The questions are diverse, ranging from whether on-line has a hyphen to the plural of premise salesman. Premise salesmen? Premises salesmen?

"I told the caller that there was no clear-cut answer, that it was a matter of taste," said David Ignatow, a hotline volunteer who is a poet and president of the Poetry Society of America.

Some questions, says Ignatow, are silly. Some are hard to answer. Not all requests for assistance are granted, including one by a student who sent the hotline a description of a school assignment, along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Julie Baum, an associate professor at York College, said the original purpose of the hotline was to help students gain publicity for York College and garner material for a weekly program on the city Board of Education's radio station.

All of this has come to pass, and more. "We thought we would be attracting a great many students. From the beginning, one of our surprises was that we were getting a lot of calls from business people," Ms. Baum said.

Other calls settle bets or satisfy curiosity. The experts who take the questions sometimes consult other experts (the plural of Ms. is Meses., says Ms. magazine). They use newspaper and wire service stylebooks and a variety of dictionaries to find the answers.

Many callers, it seems, don't know how to use a dictionary. One man puzzled an expert by asserting that his dictionary gave esquire as the feminine version of esquire.

Biographies chosen for literary awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Biographical works on Hannah Arendt and Mabel Loomis Todd have been chosen as the first winners of two new literary awards. Columbia University announced Wednesday.

The awards are the Alfred Harcourt and Ellen Knowles Harcourt awards in biography and memoir. The one named for Alfred Harcourt offers a $10,000 prize for a distinguished work of biography, diaries, letters or memoirs. The award named for his wife carries a $5,000 prize and a $5,000 advance against royalties for a doctoral dissertation about an American woman.

"Hannah Arendt: For Love of the World," by Dr. Elisabeth Young-Bruehl, won the book prize. The author, an associate professor of letters at Wesleyan University, was a student of the political philosopher about whom she wrote.
