New figures show slower jobless rate jump

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The Texas Employment Commission has released updated figures which paint a slightly different economic picture for Big Spring: Unemployment has not grown by as much as was first indicated, but Big Spring's available labor force has grown and total employment has fallen.

The new figures show that unemployment rose by 337 persons in January, not 431 as was reported last week. Also, while the labor force in Big Spring grew by 216, total employment fell by 121.

Unemployment was 1,065 in December of 1980. Previous figures showed it to be 954. In January 1983, 1,385 persons, or 7.7 percent of the work force, were seeking jobs.

According to local TEC manager Gerald Damm, the new figures are based on 1980 census information. Previous figures, which showed an increase in employment of 1,295, were based on information from the 1970 census, he said.

These are the first employment figures to be based on the new census information, Damm said.

"The Bureau of Labor Statistics draws their unemployment statistics from household surveys and the number of unemployment claims filed," Damm said. "But their data base is census information. Obviously, the 1980 census gives a more accurate picture than the 1970 census."

The work force grew from 17,740 in December to 17,956 in January, but total employment fell from 16,692 to 16,571.

The figures indicate that more people are seeking work in Big Spring, but fewer are finding it.

"Employment is subject to seasonal conditions," Damm said. "You normally have more people looking for work around the first of the year. We have also had a some layoffs in the area. The cotton harvest also has an effect."

The work force has been growing steadily here since September, when students left jobs and returned to school, according to the TEC. It has grown by 806, from 17,150 in September to the current 17,956.

Total employment during the same period grew by 520, from 16,172 in September to 16,692 in December. The January employment figure of 16,571 is the first drop since the September low caused by the start of school.

Damm said he could not give a reason for the growth in the work force, other than Big Spring is still seen as an area with a plentiful job supply.

"We've found that people in Big Spring are discouraged by the job situation here," Damm said. "But people from the Northeast and other hard-hit areas say it is better."

"We're not seeing the influx (of job-hunters) we did a year ago," he said. "Before, employers were looking for warm bodies to fill jobs. Now they are being more selective."

Damm said the local TEC office handled 2,109 job applications from October 1982 to January 1983. He called that "a sizeable increase" over the same period last year.

Student projects await scrutiny at Science Fair

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The air is rippling with enthusiasm as entrants anticipate the unveiling of the 1983 version of the Permian Basin Regional Science Fair.

The long hours of work have culminated in a finished project, and now all that's left is the waiting for the fair's fifth annual show set for March 17-18 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Big Spring High School students Angie Lee, Rubicelly Delgado, Dana Kohl and Darla Witte are four of 650 students enduring the wait until at last they can set up their projects on the floor of the coliseum and show off the results of their creativity.

For Angie, a veteran of the fair's four previous contests, the science exhibit isn't just another school event.

"I live for those two days," she said. "That's why I keep coming back — because those are the two most fun days of the year."

One might think the hundreds of hours spent on a science fair project is hardly "fun," but the girls' spirits seem buoyed from all their labors.

"It's fun...it's interesting...it's something neat to try," they said when asked why they're in the fair.

The girls began on their projects at the beginning of school, except for Angie who has been working since last April on her exhibit.

The work involves hours of research, tests, observations, record keeping and exhibit building which culminates in interviews with 10-15 judges the day of the fair.

Rubicelly and Darla, newcomers to the fair, expressed some nervousness at having to face the judges, as one might expect. However, even the veterans, Angie and Dana, have their jitters.

"With the first judge, you're always scared to death," Angie said. "After that you're all right."

"I've been through three fairs and that helps," Dana said.

OPEC facing price war Drop may hurt area economy

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Venezuelan Energy Minister Humberto Calderon Berti met with French Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson today and arranged meetings with officials of other non-OPEC nations in his efforts to avert an international oil price war, officials said.

Saudi Arabia and Venezuela say they have almost succeeded in convincing fellow OPEC members to cut oil prices uniformly. "A majority, not everyone, is agreed to lower price," Saudi Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani said Tuesday.

In Kuwait, the independent newspaper Al-Qabas accused the United States of spearheading a Western war on OPEC "expected to last till 1985, when the price of oil is expected to drop as low as $18 per barrel." It did not say how it arrived at an $18 figure.

An informal meeting of some of the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries members was scheduled for Thursday in London.

Calderon Berti was meeting with Edmond Herve, French minister responsible for energy, today before flying to London for possible talks with Yahaya Dikko, Nigeria's presidential adviser on energy and current president of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Calderon Berti had breakfast with Cheysson, and See Prices, page 2A

HOUSTON (AP) — A steep drop in world oil prices may be good news for consumers, but bad news for companies and banks heavily involved in oil production.

Lower oil prices may mean lower fuel costs for motorists and, eventually, lower prices for products made from petrochemicals.

But for the Texas oil industry, a drop in world oil prices may bring on hard times.

OPEC oil ministers are to meet in Europe this month to set new, and probably lower, oil prices. The postings are expected to dip below the current $30 a barrel. Most predict the price could drop to $27 or lower.

Most Texas bankers and oilmen believe the state's industry could easily adjust to a price of $26 to $27, but a drop to $25 would cause a serious belt-tightening. See Oil Economy, page 2A

Spelling Bee wields wild words

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Abustle people need jasm to do hardanger with crebrity.

What was that again?

Those likely unfamiliar terms are just a sample of the words county students will be attempting to spell March 30 at the Howard County Spelling Bee.

The bee, sponsored by the Herald, will be held at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 4 p.m. Students who have won their schools' spelling bees will be competing for the county title.

"Abustle" and the other words are not in the average dictionary. Words for the National Spelling Bee as well as the regional and local bees are chosen from Webster's Third New International Dictionary. It was published in 1981.

Area students are studying a practice spelling book which contains 1,880 words. However, once a student moves beyond the local competition, words may be drawn from the Webster's dictionary itself rather than the practice speller.

Last year's winner of the Howard County Spelling Bee was Michelle George of Immaculate Heart of Mary School who won after 25 rounds of competition on the word "exchequer." Michelle placed fifth at the regional contest at Lubbock.

Some of the winning words at the 1982 National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C. included eschatology, suzerainty, ravigote and commensurate.

Incidentally, the opening sentence means busily stirring people need energy to do Norwegian embroidery with frequency.

Dallas developer to use coupons in Settles effort

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Dallas businessman Robert Kendall said yesterday he will use "Save the Settles" coupons from the Herald to show potential investors that Big Spring residents will support a Settles Hotel restoration.

About 50 persons returned the coupons, published in the Herald on Feb. 13 and 16, to express their support of the landmark's restoration. Of the respondents, 17 said they are willing to donate time to such a project and six said they would donate organizational ideas.

One person said he would invest $1,000 or more to restore the hotel. Two people said they would donate $200-$500 and 26 indicated they are willing to donate $5 to $100.

Although city officials say they currently are not interested in financing a hotel restoration through municipal bonds, 43 of the respondents said they are in favor of holding a bond election. City officials say an industrial development bond issue, in which no city funds are used, would be a better means of financing the restoration.

Kendall said according to his research it is possible and could be profitable to restore the first few hotel floors to their original state with shops and a restaurant and convert the rest of the structure into offices, apartments and condominiums.

Hospital has an emergency

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Alleged misuse of Root Memorial Hospital's emergency room has the facility's trustees sick with worry.

Hospital administrator Ray Dillard said at a meeting last week new guidelines are needed for emergency room use because of a shortage of nurses and an abundance of patients who do not pay their bills.

The board discussed using the media to inform the public that the facility is for real emergencies only. Directors also proposed guaranteeing doctors' fees when patients are unable to pay.

No official action was taken on the matter, however.

Additional business included an agreement to advertise for bids for a new ultrasonic machine at an estimated cost of $48,000 and a new computer costing approximately $10,000.

Revenues at the facility are up 13.6 percent over last year, while operating expenses are about 12 percent below budget, according to a hospital spokesman.

SWCID receives donation

Oilfield Industrial Lines, Inc. (O.I.L.) has made a donation of $14,000 to the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf's volunteer fund-raising program, according to Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District.

The O.I.L. donation will "help SWCID launch preparations for the volunteer program as 'start up' money," said Chris Christopher, chairman and chief executive of O.I.L.

Christopher also said he believes the money will be an incentive to other corporations and foundations to participate in the fund-raising program.

The program is designed to set up fund-raising groups in most major Texas cities with the help of individuals who are deaf, work with deaf persons and who are interested in deaf education. Hays said. These groups will then raise funds for SWCID and for the SWCID foundation.

"We are very grateful for the O.I.L. donation and are pleased and encouraged to need the continuing support for SWCID and its needs," Hays said.

Bad checks total $16,000

The Howard County Hot Check Department collected nearly $16,000 in bad checks and fees for the month of February, according to Melba Soles of the department.

The hot check department, which works out of the county attorney's office, averaged approximately $13,000 a month last year in hot check collections.

A total of $15,767 was collected for the short month of February, Mrs. Soles said.

She said she will continue to warn merchants to check drivers' licenses when accepting checks. She also suggests avoiding out-of-town checks and two-party checks. Problems have also developed with some payroll checks, she added.

Cycle show tuning up

The Big Spring Road Riders motorcycle club is tuning up for the Crossroads Rally to be held here May 6-7.

The rally, expected to include several hundred motorcyclists from several states, is the first such event to be put on by the local club, according to rally chairmen Chuck Condray and Willie Nichols.

Registration begins Friday evening May 6 with activities continuing all day Saturday. Rally headquarters will be the Old Settlers Pavilion in Comanche Trail Park.

A 65-mile "poker run" is scheduled for Saturday morning. Bikers will travel on roads near Moss Creek Lake and Scenic Mountain. Poker cards will be drawn at each of five checkpoints by participants. The top three poker hands will receive trophies.

Field events are planned for Saturday afternoon. Games will be provided for children in attendance. A catered evening meal is planned for Saturday evening followed by a dance and prize drawings.

The grand prize will be a Honda Passport donated by the club. Other prizes are being given by local businesses. These will be awarded to the oldest rider, youngest rider, top male rider, top female rider and the couple traveling the longest distance to attend the rally.

The club plans to donate a portion of the proceeds to the Kentwood Older Adults Activity Center.

Injury suit seeks $12,720

A Dallas man is being sued in 118th District Court for $12,720 by a Big Spring man for injuries he says he suffered in a automobile accident.

Pedro M. Correa is seeking damages from Joseph Allan Pugh in connection with a traffic collision that took place Dec. 16, 1982 on Interstate 20 in Howard County, according to the suit.

Big Spring attorney Wayne Basden is representing Correa.

On a high note

The music department at Big Spring High School has been making a lot of noise recently. Several members of the band, shown above, won top honors at the University Interscholastic League solo and ensemble competition. And the color guard, Mariah, continued its winning ways last weekend by capturing the Capitol City Color Guard competition in Austin and the Round Rock Invitational Color Guard contest. At right are guardsmen Jay Purser, named outstanding rifle soloist, and Tina Hillier, who placed second in flag solos. The bandsmen are, on the steps (pictured left in descending order.) Rick Lopez, Ramon Arellano, Jimmy Olague, John Turner, Kerry Boothe, Robert Smiley, Danne Hepner, Ben Parham, Alvin McVea, Rory Worthan, Terri Myrick, Louis Dorton and Timothy Green; and, on the porch, Gregg Williamson, Chris Williams, Karen Crandall, Melinda Corwin, Suzanne Tomerlin, Alena Pyles and Teresa Alexander.

Science fair

Dana said. "They ask about the same questions every year, so you know what they'll ask and what they want to hear."

Angie offered one bit of advice for novices: "Don't ever make anything up. They'll know you don't know what you're talking about."
Judges are instructed to look for quality of work and a student's understanding of the project, as well as compare the exhibit to others in the same category.

In the senior high division, where the girls are competing, there are 12 categories for research projects: behavioral and social sciences, environmental, mathematics and computers, medicine and health, earth and space, engineering, botany, chemistry, biochemistry, microbiology, physics and zoology.

The students not only compete for first place in each of these divisions but also several special awards from the Army, Navy, Air Force, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, American Meteorological Society, the Entomological Society of America and other awards yet to be disclosed.

The junior high divisions compete in six areas: biology, chemistry, physics, math, space and environment. Elementary students are limited to physical and life sciences categories.

The students will set up their exhibits Thursday, March 17 from 8 a.m. until noon followed by interviews with judges from 1-6 p.m. The projects are then put on display for the public from 7:30-9 p.m.

Winners are announced in an awards ceremony beginning at 8:30 a.m. Friday, after which the public may once again view the projects.

The winners are not just confined to the top three spots, according to Angie.

"The kids don't do it to get a medal," she said. "They do it because they learn and enjoy it."

Science teacher Joe Reed, director of the fair, agrees. "I'm proud of every student in the science fair. It's something that separates them from the mainstream — they're striving for something special."

Oil prices

discussed "petroleum questions, among them the effects of price cuts," according to a French official who did not give his name — in accordance with French practice.

Venezuelan officials said in London he also would meet with government officials of oil-producing countries who are not members of OPEC — an apparent reference to Britain, the main North Sea producer.

The British have repeatedly denied having contacts with any OPEC members.

Consumers could expect as much as a 2½ cents shaved off the price of a gallon of gasoline for every $1 the oil exporters cut off the base price.

But the price cut would be especially important for OPEC, whose influence has dwindled since it failed in December and January to lower prices or production levels despite a supply glut and sluggish demand.

"The London parley will be the real test for proving or disproving the possibility for success of a proposed OPEC ministerial session," said Ashraf al Awat, the authoritative newspaper in Jidda, Saudi Arabia.

The paper said Yamani would join his colleagues if it seemed that a leader of the most powerful OPEC nation would mean a majority (seven) members of OPEC agreed on a price cut.

Oil economy

financial experts say.

"All bankers I've talked to agree that $25 is a break point," said Tony A. Martin, chairman of the First City National Bank in Midland, Texas. "Below that and even some of the better oil credits will have to have extended payments of existing loans."

Banks and oil companies consider proven oil reserves to be assets that can be used for loan collateral. If, for instance, a company has a million-barrel reserve and oil is priced at $20 a barrel, then the company has at least $30 million to use for a collateral.

But the collateral's value would drop if the oil price drops, and the oil company's line of credit would be reduced.

Oil company executives said a drop in the value of company assets would cause a cutback in the riskiest of the oil exploration activities. Wildcat wells would be less likely to be drilled.

Texas companies that deal in oil well services — drilling, equipment manufacturing, rig operators — would have less work. Workers would be laid off and rigs put into mothballs.

In extreme cases, banks could end up holding worthless loans and find themselves in trouble.

Martin and others say that even a drop to prices of $25 a barrel will not seriously disrupt the state's oil business because most companies and banks have Yamani indicated he favored an OPEC price of $30 a barrel, matching reduced rates announced recently by Norway, Britain and the cartel's renegade, Nigeria. Other countries that would attend the London session were the United Arab Emirates, Algeria, Kuwait, Venezuela, Nigeria and Indonesia, the newspaper said.

Iraq, Qatar, Gabon and Ecuador were almost certain to join the majority of their colleagues, leaving Iran and Libya, the two most radical OPEC members, outside an agreement, observers in Jidda said.

"We will continue our conversations," Calderon Berti said. "If we convene an OPEC meeting soon, it will be because we are certain it will be successful."

The Venezuelan minister was referring to a full, formal meeting of OPEC. Yamani, who described talks this week as "fruitful," said Tuesday such a gathering could take place as early as Saturday.

A member of the Venezuelan delegation said the chances for such a conference are "very good."

In a French television interview Wednesday, Yamani said the meeting could be held Saturday or Monday, most likely in Switzerland.

In Algiers the government daily El Moudjahid said intensive consultations this week have led to a consensus on an overall production level within OPEC, leaving the questions of quotas and price still unresolved.

already made an adjustment. The industry enjoyed boom times in 1980 and 1981, but then rode a "bust" starting a year ago.

"Some drop in price has already been anticipated by the larger companies," said James Dyer, chief economist of Texas Commerce Bank of Houston.

George Mitchell, president and founder of Mitchell Energy Co., said the industry has already gone through a shakedown that forced 80 percent of the inefficient companies out of the business.

"We'll lose the other 20 percent at below $27 (a barrel for oil)," said Mitchell. "You'll shake out a lot of groups who shouldn't have been in it (oil) to begin with."

He said companies that survive "are getting leaner and meaner now."

Mitchell said the costs of drilling has dropped by 25 percent in recent months and good operators can still do well.

The drop in oil prices will cost the state budget about $40 million for every dollar decline in the price for a barrel of oil.

John Moore of the division of tax information of the State Comptroller's Office said that projected oil tax revenues for Texas were based on $29.60 oil. Revenue estimates, he said, have now been revised downward by a billion dollars for the current two-year budget period.

Sheriff's Log

Three Slaton men arrested

Howard County sheriff's deputies arrested three Slaton men and a Lubbock man for suspicion of burglary and public intoxication last night.

Bobby McMeekin, 23, and Rodney Gene Payne, 25, of Slaton were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin in connection with burglary charges. Heflin set bond for the two at $5,000 each.

Minard H. Holland, 39, also of Slaton, and Harry W. Payne of Lubbock were charged with public intoxication. Heflin set their bonds at $200 each.

• Sheriff's deputies also arrested Kathleen Jenks (Lynch), 21, of Monahans and Kenneth W. Barber, 25, of 1708 Johnson in Big Spring for suspicion of public intoxication. Both were released under $200 bond each set by Heflin.

• Ronnie F. Covert Jr., 20, of 1407 Virginia posted $200 bond to be released after his arrest by sheriff's deputies in connection with a county warrant for issuance of bad checks.

• Derrill William Pope, 22, of 1213 E. 17th pleaded guilty in 118th District Court Monday to possession of marijuana. Pope received a 10-year probated sentence and was released.

• Timothy Carl Dunham, 24, of 700 Andree was released from county jail on bonds totaling $15,200. Dunham had been imprisoned since Feb. 25 for suspicion of aggravated robbery and worthless checks. Bonds were set by Heflin.

• Feliciano Morales Jr., 27, of 509 E. 18th posted $1,500 bond to be released after his arrest by sheriff's deputies on a capias bond forfeiture on a possession of marijuana charge.

• Four persons posted bonds to be released after their arrest by city police for suspicion of driving while intoxicated. William Douglas Graham, 43, of 605 McEwen posted $3,500 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West to be released.

James Everett Parton, 44, of 304½ E. 19th; David W. Henderson, 42, of 2626 Fairchild and Johnnie Ray Payne, 25, of 902 Lancaster posted $1,000 bond each to be released.

• Kurt A. Johnson, 29, of 509 Donley posted $50 bond to be released after his arrest by police for suspicion of public intoxication.

Police Beat

Davis gets his man

City Manager Don Davis played policeman yesterday afternoon by stopping the driver of a car that had been weaving down East Sixth Street.

Davis said he was driving behind the car and, when it turned onto Linda Lane, he curbed it. Another driver, a federal prison camp employee, pulled in beside him and took the apparently intoxicated man to the police department, Davis said.

Police say they arrested William Douglas Graham, 43, of 605 McEwen on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

Police reports also show the following:

• Two other men were arrested last night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. The two suspects are Randolph David Henderson, 42, of 2626 Fairchild and James E. Parton, 44, no address available.

• Burglars struck for the second time this week at the Howard College men's dormitory. Donnie Grant told police someone broke into his room last night and stole two stereo speakers from a shelf. A stereo was stolen from another room over the weekend.

• A Payless Shoe Source clerk told police two black females stole two pairs of children's sandals from the store yesterday afternoon.

• Humberto Hernandez of H&A Grocery Store at 201 N.E. Seventh told police someone broke into the building Monday night and stole about $300 in quarters from video game machines.

California belted by stormy weather

Stormy California was hit by more rain, high winds and house-wrecking waves today and parts of Arizona and Colorado braced for up to a foot of snow as the storm pushed inland.

More than 7,000 people fled their homes Tuesday as back-to-back storms that began over the weekend flooded many communities, battered ocean-side houses, blocked roads with mudslides and sent two freak tornadoes crashing through Pasadena and downtown Los Angeles.

Many roads and highways remained blocked today.

The wind and rain stretched the length of the West Coast, from San Diego to Seattle, but the Golden State took the brunt of Tuesday's storm. Nine people have been killed and at least 25 injured in weather-related accidents since the weekend. Two other people were missing.

Winds gusted up to 84 mph, up to 10 inches of rain fell in places, power was knocked out to 210,000 homes and businesses and parts of the Sierra Nevada were smothered by 7 feet of new snow.

Meanwhile, two minor earthquakes rattled the Los Angeles area, adding to the confusion but causing no major damage.

"I understand March is supposed to roar in like a lion, but this is getting a little ridiculous," said Los Angeles police Lt. Dan Cooke.

The weather also delayed Queen Elizabeth II's progress up the California coast, as she canceled today's plans to cruise to San Francisco in the royal yacht in favor of a flight from Long Beach.

The queen and Prince Philip needed a four-wheel-drive vehicle for a steep climb up a flooded lane to reach President Reagan's mountaintop ranch in Santa Barbara on Tuesday for a lunch of enchiladas and tacos.

The National Weather Service today warned beachfront residents to expect 20 foot waves. A flood watch was posted along the coast and a winter storm watch was issued for the mountains.

Parts of the Seal Beach and Santa Monica piers were knocked into the towering surf, which also crashed through windows at Malibu's popular Charthouse restaurant, slightly injuring one customer. Several homes in Carpinteria, near Santa Barbara were destroyed or damaged by the waves.

The storm was moving eastward today, with heavy snow forecast for the southern Rocky Mountains and rain expected for the rest of the nation's western third, the National Weather Service said.

Alex Cunningham, California's director of emergency services, said 2 more inches of rain were forecast today for state coastal areas, with 4 to 6 inches expected in the mountains.

"California is like a sponge at the present time and just simply can't hold any more water," he said.

Floods force 2,000 out

RED BLUFF, Calif. (AP) — The floodwaters that forced up to 2,000 people from their homes in the northern Sacramento Valley were an old story to some residents, who merely "shed a few tears, clean the muck up and help each other."

"It came in fast. We stacked everything we could stack, got in a boat with our suitcases, and my husband pulled us to high ground," said Aletha Himes of Tehama, who fled by boat with her husband and two children after the water rose up to 5 feet deep in their home.

She said it was the third flood at their home in 13 years. The first time, she was pregnant and the doctor came by boat to deliver her baby.

"We are getting used to it. We are survivors up here," she said. "We shed a few tears, clean the muck up and help each other."

More than 2 inches of rain in some areas sent the Sacramento River some 6 feet above flood stage Tuesday, forcing evacuation of up to 800 people in Tehama County, Sheriff Ron Koenig said. Included were nearly all 350 residents of the town of Tehama, 13 miles from Red Bluff.

"We were rescuing people off roofs," said police dispatcher Susan Myers in Red Bluff, a town of 9,500 people where Koenig said 300 homes were flooded. Extensive flooding also was reported in the nearby towns of Los Molinas, Dairy Valley and Antelope.

In Hamilton City, south of Red Bluff, more than 1,000 residents were advised by authorities to seek high ground Tuesday night.

The Red Cross set up evacuation centers at veterans halls in the nearby towns of Orland and Willows, and several churches in Glenn County also opened their doors to evacuees.

The rains continued intermittently today as a series of storms swept California.

Earl Bowler of Los Molinas said it is the second time this year he has been forced from his trailer home by floodwaters. "The only thing to do is sit here until I can walk back into the place and clean up," he said.

In Tehama on Tuesday, children played in the water as their parents ferried personal belongings in boats and volunteers filled sandbags. National Guardsmen also helped out.

"This is the worst I've seen it, and I've lived here 20 years," said Bert Perault as he pulled a canoe.

Tornado hits mid-L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A terrified hospital patient "screamed and screamed" as a freak tornado smashed windows and tore down walls when it cut a three-mile path of destruction through Los Angeles.

"It went black and everything went flying through the air outside — huge pieces of wood," said Patricia Goodman, 52, bedridden at Orthopaedic Hospital after hip surgery. "Just like 'The Wizard of Oz.'"

More than 100 buildings were damaged Tuesday and 25 people suffered minor injuries as a rare California twister careened through the southern downtown area.

"There's a boat in the backyard and we don't know where it came from. I'll take an earthquake any day," said Johnny Bradford, who was visiting his mother just a few blocks from the University of Southern California when the twister hit at 8 a.m. USC is at least 10 miles from the sea.

The howling winds also propelled towering surf into the already storm-battered coastal piers, damaging piers at Santa Monica and Seal Beach and crashing through the windows of a popular Malibu restaurant and slightly injuring one customer late Tuesday, authorities said.

Forty miles away in Pasadena, another twister lifted a car carrying one motorist at least 15 feet in the air, eyewitnesses said, while the National Weather Service said a third tornado may have touched down in Santa Ana.

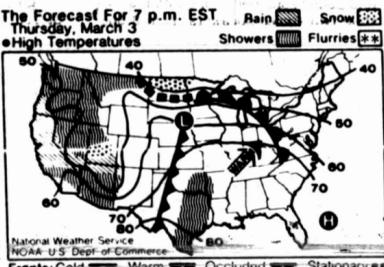

"It's unbelievable," said Gerald Baker, a resident of the tornado-ravaged section of Los Angeles. "You know we worry about earthquakes, but never this."

The Los Angeles twister caused at least $2.5 million in damage as it struck the huge Convention Center roof and Orthopaedic Hospital.

"It looks like a war zone," Police Chief Daryl Gates said.

Although tornadoes occur every year in Southern California, National Weather Service specialist Dieter Crowley said they are rare. "Everything has to be just in the right sequence."

System approaches Texas; may hold rain

By The Associated Press
A storm system approached Texas today, bringing the promise of showers and thundershowers to wide areas of the state tonight and Thursday.

Low clouds and fog covered portions of South and Southeast Texas, reducing visibilities and prompting travel advisories from Houston to Port Arthur.

Mostly fair skies were the rule across the rest of the state. High cloudiness was reported in West Texas in advance of the storm system.

Temperatures at 4 a.m. ranged from 35 at Marfa to 65 at McAllen.

Southerly winds were reported across the eastern half of the state, while westerly winds dominated the west. Wind speeds were generally under 10 mph.

The forecast called for partly cloudy skies with showers spreading from West Texas eastward through Thursday. Temperatures were expected to remain unseasonably warm.

West Texas — Partly cloudy through Thursday. Widely scattered showers and thundershowers most sections through Thursday. High 75 Panhandle and mountains to 85 south and near 90 Big Bend valleys. Lows 45 to 55. High Thursday 88 Panhandle to 79 south and 82 Big Bend valleys.

White opposes natural gas contract changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been asked by the National Governors' Association to pass a law allowing pipeline companies to cancel their contracts with natural gas producers if markets can't be found for the gas.

The proposal was one of several on natural gas made by the NGA on Tuesday, as it adopted by a voice vote changes in its natural gas policy position.

After the vote, Gov. Mark White of Texas, a major gas producing state, called the NGA action "a tragic error" and said it would foster "regionalism and factionalism" between states.

"I think it's a mistake for a national association to adopt a policy that will regionalize the country, and I oppose it," White said.

The NGA asked Congress:
—To prevent increases in natural gas purchase costs from being automatically passed on to consumers.
—To require that the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission hold at least five regional hearings to find ways of insuring the "lowest possible" consumer gas prices.

—To approve legislation including so-called "market out" clauses in natural gas contracts that provide for indefinite price increases or require a pipeline to accept gas whether it pays for it or not.

The "market out" clause would allow the pipeline to refuse to take the gas and renegotiate the contract if there were no market for the gas.

White and governors of several other gas producing states opposed the association's policy position on Monday during a meeting of the NGA Committee and Energy and Environment.

White abstained from voting on the proposal in committee on Sunday. He explained Wednesday that he planned to appoint a special committee in Texas to study the entire immigration issue "and for that reason did not take a position."

by states that are primarily consumers rather than producers of natural gas.

White said Tuesday that gas producing states did not revive the issue before the full NGA membership because "we fought that issue yesterday, and every vote that we had on that position was in that committee."

On another issue, the NGA approved by a voice vote a change in its policy position on immigration. It called for a ban on employment of illegal aliens, a ceiling on immigration and a delay in any program that would legalize the presence of aliens now in the country.

British media tickled over Queen's reception

LONDON (AP) — The British media is tickled by the reception Queen Elizabeth II is getting in the United States, reporting gleefully both her adventures in California and American anxiety over royal protocol.

The British, it seems, expect Americans to behave in a certain way — and the headlines over the monarch's visits to San Diego, Hollywood and Santa Barbara did not disappoint them.

"Howdy Ma'am: A Cowboy Welcome for the Queen" the Sunday People bannered. It said the queen was greeted by "cowboy yells, a 21-gun salute and a red, white and blue blizzard of Union Jacks" held by "thousands of cheering and singing Americans."

"The tumultuous 'hello' was pure Stateside razzmatazz. It was a real superstar welcome," the rival Sunday Mirror said.

Nicholas Ashford of the august Times of London wrote, "For a country proud of having freed itself two centuries ago from Britain's imperial clutches, American interest in British royalty is quite remarkable."

The conservative Sunday Telegraph delighted in reporting how Buckingham

Palace press secretary Michael Shea, giving two news conferences on how to behave in the regal presence, was asked if it was right to address the monarch as "Queen."

"No, that's not our style," he replied, explaining that "Your Majesty" is the right phrase on meeting the queen and "Ma'am" suffices thereafter.

The Sunday Times noted that the queen took English wet weather with her to California, 403 years after Sir Francis Drake claimed it as "New Albion" for his monarch, Queen Elizabeth I.

The tabloid Sunday People expressed pleasure that a planned Irish-American demonstration in San Diego against British rule in Northern Ireland was low-key.

"It was confined to one banner-waving group of about 20 people and was swamped by the wave of goodwill for the queen," the weekly said.

But the Sun, Britain's largest selling daily, objected strongly Tuesday that a television commercial attacking attacking Britain's record in Northern Ireland was shown in the United States Monday.

The commercial, which the tabloid called "the evil voice" of the Irish Republican Army, said Northern Ireland was "occupied by British troops and terrorized by police."

The Sun said the spot was designed to encourage "misguided Americans to act as the paymaster of the IRA."

Some press reports here said today that police in San Francisco were "braced for trouble from Irish extremists when the queen arrives in the city tomorrow." But there was no comment from officials or in editorials about the anticipated anti-British demonstrations.

British journalists reveled in reporting off-the-cuff remarks to the monarch and her husband Prince Philip, and what the royal couple said in reply.

At home, British citizens cannot address the monarch directly until first spoken to, and the press cannot report what's said without permission.

"American reporters wasted no time in breaking the off-the-record rules of the queen's press reception in San Diego and soon there were published reports of her saying she enjoyed her work and would not want to be a pauper," London Daily Telegraph said in a front-page story Monday.

"Light-hearted banter with Prince Philip about his underwear was also reported, despite written and verbal warnings that the reception was off the record," it added.

Thumbs down on Settles Hotel

Dear Editor,

The question: to be or not to be. The subject: the Settles Hotel, the giant building of Big Spring.

It has fought a great fight, it has won the battles of the past, it has stood through the great depressions, and now in the inflation, it reminds me of the great gladiators' fight — will it be thumbs down on the old Settles sky scraper?

I for one would like to see it stand as a giant in the sky as it surely is one for Big Spring. It is certainly a great landmark, and with a great history of great events and ceremonies of the past, it always stood ready for all occasions.

My father's family traveled through Big Spring as a traveling sign painter and painted the big billboard with the picture of the Settles Hotel on it that used to stand east of town several years ago. Also lettered beautiful gold leaf signs on the glass windows of the Coffee Shop in the early days on his way to California to spend the winters.

And me, I came to settle in Big Spring in the 1950's and opened a sign shop and neon service. I kept the big electric sign atop of the Settles lighted up for over 20 years. It was quite a feat to hang onto the structure of the sign with one leg and arm and work with what I had left, and coming down with a handful of broken glass was no easy feat, as there is no ladder there to climb on.

The large metal letters are quite loose now but the structure is pretty sure... yes, I for one would hate to see the old building come down.

The sign itself when lit at night is like a great beam of a lighthouse that guides the boats through the great fogs of our waters and seas, as the lighted sign would surely stand out like a beacon to the travelers during some of our early sandstorms. Yes, we all should salute and give honor to the Settles for which it stood in the years past.

But we don't have the sandstorms like we used to have, we don't have the travelers the way we used to have, we don't have the big dances that we used to have and all the get-togethers and affairs that we used to have in this great historic beautiful structure. We don't wear the same clothes we used to wear, we don't even play the same music we used to play.

It seems that everything we say about this great landmark is that we used to... What does the saying tell us in this day and age? Go west, young men, go west...

I believe now is the time to go forward not backward. We don't even eat like we used to — fast food restaurants, hamburgers by the thousands, in fact millions of them. This sort of thing has taken over.

Fast cars have replaced the Model T Ford. Motels have replaced hump-back trunks, in fact shoulder cases have almost replaced the suitcases for travelers. We are living in a fast generation and in my way of thinking, to replace the Old Settles Hotel would be a step backward. Let's go forward. Go west, go west. We must move with the time, or the times will move away and leave us stranded.

It reminds me of the story about the century plant. You know it only blooms once in every 100 years, that's why they call it a century plant. After it blooms it dies never to bloom again.

A lady saw a man cutting down one of these beautiful plants one day and she asked him why was he cutting it down. The man explained to her what the plant was and that it had bloomed and now it will die never to bloom again. In other words, the old plant had served its purpose in its age. It had reached its peak and purpose for what was meant for it. So it was time to destroy it, now to look forward to a new and greater century of years.

I would like to see a new and modern, more useful structure built on this site. Why? To meet the demands of the new generation, and let this great giant die in peace, as we all know it has served its purpose for its generation.

It has fought a great fight and has won for what it was built for, but now it has lost to the new and growing and fast generation.

So I say thumbs down on this mighty warrior, and let us put our hands to the throttle and look ahead to new and greater accomplishments, for Big Spring.

Blithe spirit

WASHINGTON — With Ronald Reagan, the blithe spirit entered the White House. The president exudes charm, geniality and good feeling.

Even massive inattention to the substance of policy has, with him, a positive side. He walks away from failure — changes policies in the middle of the debacle — in seeming innocence that anything much has happened.

Those thoughts were occasioned by a breakfast given at the White House last week for the 50 print journalists who constitute the group led by Godfrey Sperling of the Christian Science Monitor. President Reagan answered questions for about an hour. Since there was no television, the questions were not calculated to show him up. Nor were the answers designed to show him off. It was just a good news conference.

Reagan looked fit, and laughed easily at his own expense and at ours. In marked contrast to the televised evening news conference of Feb. 16, he seemed poised at all times. In response to a question about whether he would seek reelection, he joked that "there's a 50 percent chance." Apart from a touch of deafness, there seemed no physical reason why he shouldn't go right around him. For example, in response to a question about the economy, the president said: "I'm not sure that anyone has established a solid connection between unemployment and inflation."

That remark flies in the face of an explicit comment made in the President's Economic Report to the Congress which was signed — though apparently not read — by Ronald Reagan. In that report, Reagan said: "The unemployment that many of our citizens are experiencing is a consequence of the disinflation that must necessarily follow the accelerating inflation of the last decade."

At another point, Reagan said he would help secure Israel's northern frontier with Lebanon by enlarging the role of the Multinational Force, which includes American marines. He prefaced that comment by observing that "This is not anything different than has been said before by me, and by several American presidents before me."

But the Multinational Force is a new thing in the world. It came into being only after the invasion of Lebanon by Israel last June. Though Americans went to the Sinai as observers to assure compliance with the Camp David Accords, they said of the episode that Nitze "referred back to us a hint dropped by (Kvitsinsky) but nothing that he had said back."

Numerous accounts of that episode from both sides, however, have Nitze taking the lead extensively, and Kvitsinsky being relatively guarded. If only because Soviet negotiators do not exactly free-lance, it seems hard to believe it was the other way round. Indeed if it was, why was Nitze reprimanded in a written note to the secretary of state from the president's national security adviser, William Clark?

To be sure, it doesn't matter all that much. What counts is that being oblivious to what everybody in town knows serves the president fairly well. To the nation's advantage, and his own, he has recently abandoned, as if it were nothing, positions he once held in opposition to a jobs program and the raising of taxes.

In the same facile spirit the administration offered to buy out all the residents of Times Beach, the Missouri town contaminated with dioxin. "I think that was one of the only fair things to do," the president said at the breakfast.

Maybe. But essentially what happened was that Reagan made a mistake in the treatment of roads. The federal government then stepped in with a total bailout. That's almost the direct opposite of the shrinking role for government preached by the president when he puts on his federalist hat.

What all this says is that Reagan is not nearly as silly as he often sounds. Given the kind of luck he has had with the break in oil prices, his policies will probably not do nearly the damage they ought to do. Indeed, it is not clear to me that the country can do much better in this time of macro-confusion.

Does it pay to be good?

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think it really pays to be good in today's world? It seems like the only way to get ahead is to live for yourself and bend the rules a bit. — C.V.

DEAR C.V.: I know that this often seems to be the case, but there are several things I want you to think about before you decide that this is the way you want to live.

For one thing, it is not always true that this is the way to get ahead in the world. Some of the most successful people I know have been people who had strong moral principles and stuck to them regardless of the situation. Their reputation for honesty and hard work has won the respect of other people, and they have often found people preferred to deal with them because they could be trusted. The Bible constantly exhorts us to be honest, because it is right in God's eyes and we are accountable to him.

Another thing I want you to think about is the fact that those who "bend the rules a bit" very often end up in great difficulty. It may be that they eventually do something illegal and are caught, bringing great heartache to their families and punishment to themselves. But even if this is not the case, whenever we live for ourselves and act in ways that are wrong we will pay for it. There is a strict principle in the Bible which declares that eventually our wrong deeds will create havoc in our lives. The reason is because we have turned our backs on God. The Bible declares, "Do not be one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction" (Galatians 6:7-8).

That is why I want you seriously to consider the claims of Jesus Christ on your life. Christ calls you to follow him. It is not always easy, and most people may not think it is worthwhile. But doing the will of God is the most important thing in life — and the most rewarding as well. Give your life to Christ right now, and learn the joy of following his way every day.

Mortality and M*A*S*H

Hospitals are uncomfortable places to visit because they constantly remind us of our mortality. Everything seems to conspire to indicate the perimeters of our lives.

The majority of hospital patients are often sad reminders of lost youth. The old and the not-so-old suffer — usually due to deterioration or the failure of some function. Despairingly, too many of the people in hospitals are not getting well — they are merely getting by.

Contributing to the general malaise is the atmosphere itself. The quiet is often deafening even as the walls are stupor-like in their blandness. Granted most modern hospitals are more pleasing to the eyes, but nothing will ever change those unique traits.

All in all, to me, hospitals often seem not to be places for the healing of life, but places for the ending of life.

EXCEPT FOR "MASH" ... and those places infused with its spirit.

"MASH" has always railed against the basic unfairness of life — a quality the final show demonstrated well. Stupidity, pain and death are somehow made bearable, somehow made tolerable — the struggle is part of the victory.

The "MASH" characters have gone home, but our fight goes on.

I SPENT THE weekend watching my wife's mother in a Midland hospital, locked in a private struggle with outcome still unknown. Blank walls, piercing silence, achingly-mortal patients — all were made somewhat less terrible by an indomitable spirit that refused — and refuses — to admit defeat.

Few things in life will ever make me prouder than seeing my wife with her mother. Talking, laughing, joking, prodding — Kathy never ceased drawing her mother back into the swirl of living. Despite the odds, despite the pain, despite the fear, she was determined to make every moment count.

Like the near-demented doctors of "MASH," we battle pain and mortality as well. Unfortunately, ours does not end in a two-and-a-half hour finale with all the stories told.

But in shining moments when the darkness is stanchoned and a hospital becomes a haven of hope, these are the times when it all seems worthwhile. Whatever happens within this all-too-real "MASH," one poignant victory has already been claimed.

It is the spirit behind beauty, rather than mere physical perfection itself, which singles a woman out from amongst others of her kind. — Wilder Anthony

Ex-hit man accuses Wilson

WASHINGTON — The murky world of ex-CIA agent Edwin Paul Wilson was one of the constant intrigue and murder-for-hire. His indictment for plotting murders in prison isn't his first encounter with assassination.

According to my own lengthy investigation of Wilson, he ordered the liquidation of at least a dozen onetime associates, including his former business partner, Frank Terpil, himself an ex-CIA man and a flamboyant cutthroat in his own right. "Hit" lists traced to Wilson also included one of my reporters and ex-President Carter's rambunctious kid brother, Billy.

Since he was tricked into the U.S. Marshals' clutches from his Libyan hideout, Wilson has already been convicted of smuggling arms and explosives to Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. He is now on trial for another explosives incident. He also faces charges that he offered $1 million for the murder of a Libyan dissident and $1.2 million for the murder of two federal prosecutors and six former associates who testified against him.

My associate Dale Van Atta, whose own name was on one Wilson hit list, located the man who was supposed to rub out Billy Carter.

The killing, intended to punish Billy for reneging on a deal with Qaddafi, was to have been accomplished by sending the presidential brother a literally explosive oil painting.

Another Wilson enforcer has come forward and traces his ex-boss' assassination orders back to 1975. He asked that his identity be protected, so I'll just call him Hit Man.

He was hired by Wilson to investigate three employees who had disappeared one weekend with some important files. Wilson found dozens of canceled checks indicating embezzlement, and told Hit Man: "Take care of the files, and then I want the S.O.B. dead." He was referring to the ringleader, an elderly man.

So the hired gun, armed with a .38 and accompanied by a sidekick carrying a lead pipe, waited outside the ringleader's Virginia apartment. But the assassins chickened out at the last minute, went to a bar and got thoroughly drunk.

Hit Man then lied to Wilson the next day, telling him they had been unable to find the old man. He subsequently stalled Wilson until the kill order was forgotten.

Hit Man's next target was Douglas Schlachter, whom Wilson once treated like a son, but who apparently got too big for his britches. As Hit Man remembered it, Schlachter decided to "ease out of the operation." Schlachter and a former high CIA official began "talking openly about murdering Ed and taking over."

Hit Man added: "Because I was the one that Ed trusted the most, they wanted me to call him in London and lure him back home so that we could kill him."

Hit Man put through the call, arranged to meet Wilson at Dulles Airport — and promptly told him all about the plot. Wilson, he said, handed him a wad of cash, appointed him his bodyguard and said: "If any of those (explosive deleted) even looks like he's going to do me harm, I want you to blow him away." Wilson promised the hit man protection from the law, saying: "Nothing's going to happen to you. I'll take care of the consequences."

Wilson then set up a meeting with Schlachter at a restaurant in downtown Washington. Hit Man's orders were to wait outside; if the conversation didn't go well, Wilson would signal Hit Man as they emerged from the restaurant, and Schlachter's doom would be sealed.

But when they came out on the street, Wilson glanced in Hit Man's direction and shook his head no. "I don't know what happened between them, but it saved Doug's life," said Hit Man.

Wilson next became disenchanted with Terpil, a friend from CIA days, who had been the original contact with Qaddafi. Several Wilson associates speculated that there may have been nothing specific, that Wilson simply felt compelled "to screw every person who ever became a business partner of his."

At any rate, Wilson told Hit Man to kill Terpil — and for once Wilson would be in on it himself. Hit Man followed Wilson and Terpil as they drove toward Terpil's home near CIA headquarters in Langley, Va. But their car got a flat tire, and Wilson managed to signal the trailing assassin to keep going, that the hit was off. Wilson never released the order.

The macabre footnote to Hit Man's story of aborted assassination is that he and Wilson eventually had a falling-out. The hit man and his family were threatened by Wilson, and his was one of seven names that showed up on a list found on his apparent successor.

Of footdrummers and sandbathers

WASHINGTON — Footdrumming and sandbathing may sound like the latest things since punk-rocking and hot-tubbing, but they're actually an accepted part of the desert lifestyle of some small creatures of the night known as kangaroo rats.

When they're not out hopping about on their hind legs like miniature kangaroos, some kangaroo rats may be seen taking sand baths, others defending their territorial turf by drumming their two big feet.

"They will run up to the tops of their dirt mounds, prop themselves up on their front paws, arch their backs and come down drumming their hind feet in unison. It sounds like muffled jungle drums or deer on the run," said biologist Janet A. Randall, who has spent more than 1,000 hours observing two species of kangaroo rats.

WHEN DR. RANDALL STARTED spending nights out in the Sonoran Desert near the Mexican border in Arizona, she expected to see kangaroo rats sandbathing — "swimming" on their stomachs in the sand to clean their hair or scent-mark the spot. She stumbled on footdrumming.

"One night a bizarre sound woke me," she said. "I didn't know what it was. I couldn't believe little animals could make all that noise. It turned out to be two kangaroo rats having a footdrumming contest," she said.

Dr. Randall is the first scientist to study kangaroo rat footdrumming in the wild.

An assistant professor of biology at Central Missouri State University, she is partly supported in her research by the National Geographic Society. Dr. Randall has two theories about why members of the bannertail species stomp their feet for a few minutes at a time, sometimes for a few hours.

"FOOTDRUMMING IS PROBABLY a long distance warning signal of territorial ownership," she said. "The message that goes out says in effect, 'This mound is mine. It's taken. Keep out.'"

Each bannertail lives alone in its mound, which houses a burrow system and can be 20 inches high

HANGING AROUND — Weighing in at less than 2 ounces, the Merriam is the smallest of kangaroo rats. It isn't harmed by the special animal scale used by biologist Janet A. Randall, who is studying these nocturnal creatures in Arizona. Like tiny kangaroos, they hop about the desert on their two big hind feet.

Black Heritage program good show

Those of you who missed the Black Heritage Program of the Arts Saturday night missed good entertainment. Dock Voorhies put the whole event together and then his wife, Charlene, stole the show with her dramatics from "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow is Enuff". Pamela Dianne Johnson was the special guest artist, a dancer from the Black Theater of the Arts in Dallas. Pamela's mother recently moved to Big Spring which gave us an inside track in scheduling her.

For many, however, the most moving part of the program came when a massed choir, made up of choirs from several churches, sang spirituals.

In case you haven't heard yet, the Malone Hogan Hospital public relations office has a good speakers bureau with programs available on medical and health and health careers topics. Call Emily Ward at 263-1211, extension 110, to schedule a speaker for your club or business.

Advanced Telephone Systems, owned by Robb McKenzie and Gene Moses, has recently expanded to a branch office in Snyder. Robb and Gene just went through a move from their original building on Johnson to larger facilities at the Industrial Park. Jerry Reid, sales manager, now has his hands full trying to train people to work that Snyder territory.

Tom Ament, owner of Computerized Office Systems, has opened an office at 7th and Johnson in the KBST office complex. This company, that helps companies with problems of converting from manual systems to computer systems, will be having a grand opening soon.

Still another store opening is Fred Tatum Custom Jewelers at 120 East Third. Fred taught jewelry design and repair and stone setting at Howard College for several years. His daughter, Janice Shaw, operates the business with him. She designs and makes the wax set-ups for the casting.

Gold Designers, 110 Permian Building, is another similar custom jeweler owned by John Preston and Jay Phinney, which opened a few months ago.

Another good cause will be the Elks Lodge benefit for the Crippled Children's Fund on March 26. Beginning at 12 noon, auctioneers Roy Young and Kirby Kee will begin auctioning items donated by local merchants. Any merchant who wishes to donate items are urged to call Kay Enger at 267-8171.

Eddie Watson, Vice President for Texas Electric Service Co., came to Big Spring from his Fort Worth office last Thursday on a routine visit. At a luncheon, hosted by TESCO District Manager Hooper Sanders, Watson discussed his company's concerns about fuel costs and spoke of the debate raging in Austin now. He pointed out that some misunderstanding or misconceptions by the public have pictured the utility companies as the bad guys unjustifiably. He cited mainly as evidence that stockholders have seen over the past 10 years the market value of their stock drop from $33 to $23 per share and that nationwide fuel costs rose substantially higher than in Texas primarily because the state had locked-in contracts for low-cost natural gas to generate the power plants.

Each citizen owes it to himself to gather the facts and then express that final judgment to our Austin representatives. One source of information is the utility companies which have to supply you, upon request, comparisons of fuel costs between Texas and other states, information on how much and why the fuel costs have risen. Then listen to what is being said before the legislative committee in Austin debating this problem. It's a serious problem with no easy answers and affects every household. Get involved!

Scott McLaughlin is busy planning the grand opening of the big, new facilities of the Saunders Co. on East IS 20. It has been set for April 15 and 16 for customers with the general public being invited on April 17. It will be a major event in the history of this proud company.

Ray Alexander of Robinson Drilling Co. is the booth chairman for the Rattlesnake Roundup coming March 25-27, sponsored by American Business Club and Coors Distributors. There are inside booths ($30) and outside booths ($20) for rent. Call him at 263-4992, or Kirk Kirkham at 263-1995, to reserve a booth.

Did you notice that more than $12 million was spent by the Democratic nominees for mayor of Chicago, making it probably the most expensive race ever for a city job anywhere. Does this seem absurd to anyone else? Something has to be done about campaign spending.

Around the county

By Ricky Hope — 4-H Reporter

4-Hers face busy slate

The Howard County 4-H Council met Feb. 21 at Alberto's Restaurant for a Dutch Treat supper and meeting. The following members were in attendance: Jamie Phillips, president; Wade Carper, Blair Richardson, Cole Hunt, Jay Anderson, Ricky Long, John Guitart, Ricky Hope, and county extension agents Dennis Poole and Perry Kalina. Greg Miller was a guest.

The Council decided to honor the 75th birthday of 4-H at the annual picnic. This event will be held April 12 at 6:30 p.m. All attending will be asked to bring a covered dish. The county food show will be Saturday, March 19 at 2 p.m. at Canterbury Retirement Center. Jamie Phillips will be the master of ceremonies for this event.

There will be a County Round-up on Thursday, April 21 at 7 p.m. in the Texas Electric Reddy Room. This event will help all 4-Hers' planning to be in Method Demonstration prepare themselves for the District Round-up held in Alpine April 29-30.

Howard County's next 4-H Council meeting will be Monday, March 21 at 6:30 p.m. at the Pizza Inn.

Ag secretary says PIK program not perfect

SAN DIEGO (AP) — After U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block told them that the government's Payment-In-Kind program will not be changed although it was a failure last year, the National Farmers Union prepared today to issue a policy statement at the conclusion of a three-day convention.

"I know this is not a perfect program," Block told some 1,200 members of the union Tuesday. "The PIK program came about when we needed a bold, innovative program."

Declaring his intention to continue PIK in 1984, he said, "We are opposed to changing the PIK program and confusing farmers."

The PIK program asks farmers to voluntarily cut down on crop acreages. In return they will be given commodities from the nation's over-stocked supplies.

Block said he will not know how many farmers are volunteering for the PIK program until March 11, when the sign-up period ends.

"I live in fear that farmers will wait and let their neighbors do it," Block said. "Voluntary programs have historically not worked," Robert J. Mullins, legislative director for the NFU, said after Block's speech. Mullins said the NFU advocates mandatory programs for production controls.

It was the farmers' fault the PIK program did not work last year, Mullins said.

"They have to make up in volume what they lack in price," he said after Block's speech. "We have to meet certain fixed expenses. In the long run it hurts everybody, but we have to meet those expenses."

Farmers participating in the PIK program asked whether they should pay income tax on the commodities when they receive them or when they sell them. As the law stands now, farmers would have been required to pay income taxes in the year they received the commodities, in spite of the fact they may hold the supplies for a year to get a better price.

Bordertown blues close El Paso Sheraton

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Authorities say El Paso's downtown Sheraton Hotel closed because business was so severely affected by the economic crisis in neighboring Mexico.

"The peso did it," El Paso research analyst Thomas Lee said of the 120-room hotel's surprise closing. Three devaluations the past year have reduced the value of the Mexican peso from 26.75 to $1 to its current 150 pesos to the $1.

El Paso's unique position as the largest city along the 1,760-mile U.S.-Mexico border now is haunting this community of 450,000.

The Sheraton, one of three major downtown hotels, posted notices on its doors Sunday afternoon explaining that the poor Mexican economy and national recession in the United States forced the closing.

The country's economic problems are forcing commercial travelers and visitors from Mexico to come in fewer and fewer numbers, El Paso Hotel and Motel Association president Ed Rodriguez said.

Last week, Safeway Stores - El Paso's largest grocery store chain - closed one south El Paso store. Safeway executives, too, blamed the Mexican economy and devaluation of the peso for the closing.

El Paso, where Hispanics make up 62 percent of its population, is the nation's most-Latinized city in areas larger than 250,000.

With Juarez, its sister city of 900,000 just across the Rio Grande, the business community's fortunes are as directly linked to Mexico's economy as to the United States, Lee said.

And with both nation's economies in recessionary slumps, El Paso has been doubly hurt, he said.

December unemployment figures released last week by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce showed a local jobless rate of 13.3 percent.

Lee said unemployment figures for local Hispanics show about one-fourth of the workers are jobless, and that half the households in El Paso earn less than $1,075 per month, after taxes.

"Income levels are atrocious in El Paso. Many of those have jobs that pay them at or near the minimum wage level," Lee said.

About 60 workers were laid off when the Sheraton closed down, and hundreds of others have seen similar fates in south El Paso, which gets most of its business from Juarez shoppers looking for American goods in border stores.

In south El Paso, city authorities say about 20 retail and small wholesale businesses have closed down since last August, when the second peso devaluation occurred.

Since summer, inflation has averaged more than 100 percent in Mexico, and Juarez unemployment is about 35 percent, Mexican officials say.

The estimated 130 twin-plant operations based in Juarez but exporting finished goods to their American subsidiaries have profited by the devaluation because of reduced labor costs, Lee said.

But the 45,000 twin-plant workers in Juarez only make up a small percentage of bordertown laborers, and now cannot afford the equally more-expensive American goods sold in south El Paso and El Paso, he said.

Observers say more business closings, but perhaps not on the scale of the Sheraton shutdown, are expected in Texas' westernmost city.

Bridal touches: a bouquet of new ideas

So much time and effort goes into making a wedding day wonderfully memorable — from the biggest advance plans to the tiniest details. To help make this special day one that's filled with special touches as well, handmade wedding treasures to wear and use can be made by the bride herself.

On this day, when every bride wants to look her radiant best, lovely accessories can add extra magic to her appearance. Crocheted cotton gloves and white lace hosiery, for example, are two delicate items that will complete the wedding day ensemble. Don't forget to wear the traditional garter. A pretty "something blue" garter sewn with lace makes a great wedding present for a soon-to-be-married friend. And for the crowning glory, stitching up a flowered headpiece is a beautiful way to add a personal touch.

The only materials needed are three 12-inch wired strips of "silk" flowers and one yard each of several pastel-colored 1/8 inch ribbons. Begin by measuring around the bride's head, adding a two-inch allowance for ease. Trim off the excess and tie slim pastel ribbons to the back of the wreath. Cut them to the desired lengths so that they hang down the back of the headpiece, giving a "streamer" effect.

To keep the bride's dancing feet in tip-top shape throughout the wedding and the reception, the editors recommend that the bride wear white satin ballet flats, decked out with lace trim and fabric flowers. These flats are elegant yet comfortable and can be sewn up in no time. The materials include a needle and thread, four small silk flowers, about half a yard of 1/2-inch lace trim, and white ballet flats. To begin, measure around the top edge of the flat — from the front tie going around to the heel, and then back to the front, near the toe again — and cut two pieces of the lace trim to this exact length. Next, starting at the tie in front of the slipper, stitch one piece all around the top edge of each flat. Then tack two silk flowers to the front of each flat, near the toe, so that the flowers are covering the tie. Bend the wire stems underneath the flowers so that the wire is hidden. The result? A perfectly beautiful pair of bridal slippers.

What better way to dress up a wedding dress than with special jewelry? One nice tradition is for the bride to wear diamonds that have been passed down from someone in the family. Sparkling suggestions include a pair of diamond cluster earrings, a gold heart pendant, and a diamond-studded bracelet — all items that will complement the wedding dress elegantly. As for the blushing bride herself, she may choose soft, pretty makeup colors that will enhance her natural good looks. Avoid makeup that is too strong or heavy.

Friends of the happy couple should not forget to plan for the post-reception send-off. Help the bride and groom exit in grand style by showering them with pretty, pastel rice. To make this festive-looking rice, you'll need one cup water, 1/2 to 1 teaspoon each of the desired food colorings, and 2 1/2 cups uncooked rice. First mix

Test helps transplant surgery

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Are you familiar with the H.L.A. test? I understand it would prove a relationship between people. You see, my cousin (whose mother was my mother's sister) and I feel we may have a closer relationship. We are led to believe that we had the same father, but can't prove anything from records. I was adopted. We would like to know if such a test would help. — Want to Know.

You know about the blood types — A, B, O, etc. Those are markers on the surface of your red blood cells, and they are used to make sure people get transfused with compatible blood. If you got a wrong kind of blood, you would get a reaction. Because those blood types are inherited, they can be used in a limited way to establish a relationship. Or, to be precise, they can be used to disprove paternity — not to prove it, though. They can only be used to establish the fact that a man could not be the father of a child.

Now the blood's white cells also have markers, and they are called human leukocyte antigens (HLAs). The test to identify them is used often in determining just how closely alike two relatives are. From that, it can be predicted how well one will accept the donated organ of the other. The closer to each other the tissue markers, the better chance of good acceptance.

Yes, HLA testing has been done for evidence in paternity suits. But it would be hard to state on the basis of HLA antigen similarity alone that you and your cousin have a half-sister relationship. It would be especially hard since you tell me both sets of parents are dead. If they could be tested you would have a better chance of proving relationships. Under the present circumstances the best you could do would be to establish a probability or possibility of a close relationship with your cousin, but you could not prove half-sistership beyond a doubt.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Will soaking my foot in hot water help my heel spur? — Mrs. L.C.

Soaking may ease the inflammation, which, incidental, is what gives rise to heel spurs in the beginning. The spur itself is an overgrowth of bone thought to arise from inflammation of the tough tissue on the bottom of the foot — the tissue that attaches to the heel bone. You have to rest the foot, pad it properly, take aspirin, then find out why the irritation happened. Then you can proceed to take precaution to prevent further inflammation from that cause.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Appearance affects job interview

"Women applying for jobs need to recognize the importance of proper dress," says Nancy Brown of Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This is especially true for jobs requiring contact with the public. Research shows that the more contact with clients is required by the job, the more emphasis is placed on appearance in the hiring decision.

Clothing creates immediate impressions about the applicants' economic level, educational level, trustworthiness, social position, sophistication and moral character. These impressions influence the hiring decision often within the first two minutes of the interview.

A study of hiring agents shows they judge appearance primarily by neatness, ornamentation or jewelry, and the design, cut and color of clothing. Most say that grooming is equal to or more important than the clothing worn. Hiring agents look for people who can represent the firm and project a good image.

Hiring agents also rank attitudes very high, but when forming first impressions, information about attitudes is typically not available. Clothing and appearance is one thing that the job applicant has control over in the hiring situation.

As more people enter the job market, appearance will become more important in hiring, job retention and promotion among equally skilled candidates.

Members of John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge No. 153 met Feb. 22 for a covered-dish luncheon and meeting. The luncheon was a benefit for the education program and asked for by the Grand Lodge.

The members collected $16 for the education program. Twenty-eight visits to the sick were reported. Twelve dozen cookies will be sent to the Big Spring State Hospital during the week of May 16.

Margaret Beechly was installed by Lucille Brown, deputy marshal, and was presented a Certificate of Perfection by Odell Lettande, noble grand. An amendment affecting recent changes in Lodge work was read.

Flower show judges form study club

The Feb. 17 meeting was the first meeting for the Judges Advanced Study Club of District I after having been accepted by Texas Garden Club Incorporated. Members met in the home of Mrs. C.L. Sparkman of Odessa. Mrs. Sparkman is president of the organization and organized the club.

Membership consists of five levels of Certification of National Council Flower Show Judges A, Student Judges B, Accredited Flower Show Judges C, Life Judges D, Master Judges E, Emeritus Judges and Associate Members.

Officers include Mrs. Sparkman, president; Mrs. O.S. Womack of Big Spring, first vice president; Mrs. M.R. Hurt of Odessa, second vice president; Mrs. R.D. Hardman of Midland, secretary; and Mrs. J. Keith Sommerville of Midland, treasurer.

Mrs. William Braley gave a program on the "Iris." Mrs. Braley displayed paintings of the Iris in different varieties and colors. She showed one painting done by her grandmother who lived in Callahan County.

Mrs. Braley said one can grow many lovely hybrid Iris in West Texas. She also displayed several Iris catalogues and named several nurseries and garden centers where hybrid bearded Iris may be obtained.

Instructions on the type of soil to use when planting Iris was given. To make up the proper soil, combine cotton seed and cotton seed meal (one tablespoon), a teaspoon potash, one cup bone meal, and cotton seed hulls. Make four times the recipe for a two by two plot of ground. The soil builder should last three to five years.

Mrs. Braley displayed the size plants to order. The type of fertilizer to use is 0-20-0 or 0-45-0 ph. Work gently into the soil. Plant in late September, and water fertilizer into soil well. Also you may use powdered milk — the type you can buy from feed stores and that is used for animals. Fish emulsion works well too.

Plant Iris in well-drained soil. To plant, make small mounds of soil, separate and spread rizons apart, point toes of Iris towards mound and plant them shallow. Be sure rizons are covered so the sun will not blister them. Water well. When Iris are packaged and shipped, soak in clorax water (3 part water, 1 part Clorax bleach) then pull apart and dust with sulphur.

A film was presented on many Dykes Medal Winners in shows and top Iris garden in the United States, including some in West Texas, and it showed some new Iris seedlings grown in test gardens. New introductions, Presidents Cup runner-up winners, Franklin President Cups, and Ed Jones Gardens of Odessa also were shown.

Rebloomers were "West Coast," "Bess Burger," "Tall Lavenders," and "Illini" from Barnes Gardens. Good landscape iris are "Lord Baltimore," "Dover Beech," "Sun of Star," "Wedding Vow," and "Blue Mountain."

Dear Abby

Saving one's self for marriage

DEAR ABBY: Many letters in your column have touched me, but none moved me as much as the one from "Holding Out and Proud of It."

Hooray for her! And hooray for you for printing it. More people need to know that there are still some women around who don't jump into bed with every John, Mick and Murray. I know I have lost lots of guys because I wouldn't give in, but it was better to lose them than lose my self-respect.

I, too, saved myself for marriage, and so did my husband. We've been married for 10 years and neither one of us has ever regretted our lack of premarital experience. I'll admit we didn't know much, but we learned together, and our love grows stronger every year.

Tell "Holding Out" to stick to her principles. I hope her letter will prompt more young people to do the same.

HELD OUT AND GLAD I DID

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Holding Out" that she is not alone. I'm also holding out. It hasn't been easy for me because I'm a fairly nice-looking, normal, healthy guy who enjoys an active social life.

I'm into sports and run five miles a day, rain or shine. I regard my body as my "temple," and as such I have never defiled it with tobacco or drugs of any kind. I consider sex habit-forming and choose not to risk falling into that habit until I have found the person with whom I can establish an exclusive lifelong commitment.

Please don't think I'm an oddball. I'm just saving myself for the person I marry. And in case you're wondering — I'm straight, and I'll be 38 my next birthday.

SAVING MYSELF IN SAN ANGELO, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the 27-year-old, "Holding Out and Proud of It," could have been written by me 25 years ago. Not only was I a virgin, I married one. Never in all my years of marriage was I unfaithful, and I had my chances.

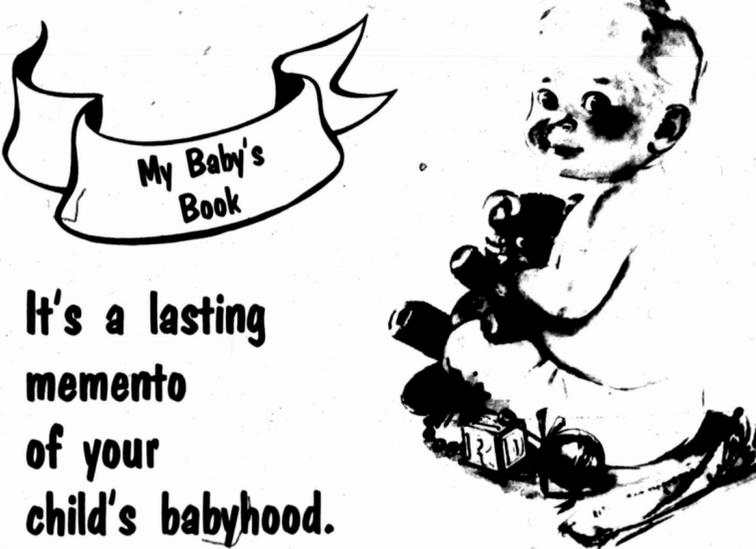

After 23 years of marriage, my husband decided he wanted "out," so he left two years ago. To this day my attitude about sex outside marriage hasn't changed — but my body has! Now, at age 48 I find that I am much more passionate than I was when I was a 23-year-old virgin. I was able to exercise control back then. (I didn't know what I was missing.)

As immature as this may sound, I'm not so sure that I will be able to exercise that control now, so I just refuse to date until my divorce is final and I can marry again.

I feel very corny writing this, but it's a real dilemma because I am a Christian, and the Scriptures are very clear concerning sex outside marriage. However, my sex drive is at odds with those Scriptures! I am not sure how I am going to whip this one. Help me.

HOPING THE DEVIL WON'T MAKE ME DO IT

DEAR HOPING: The devil won't make you do it, but the first man you find irresistible might. Pray for strength and avoid temptation.

Economy starting to recover

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy is turning the corner toward growth with low inflation, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker says.

Hence, the nation's central bank will stick with its cautious interest-rate course to nurture a lasting recovery without reviving inflation, Volcker pledged recently.

"My conviction is that much of the stage has been set for long-lasting, non-inflationary expansion," Volcker told the Senate Banking Committee.

Still, Volcker offered little hope that unemployment and interest rates would decline significantly anytime soon.

The Federal Reserve's official forecast expects the jobless rate to remain around 10 percent this year, and — to the displeasure of several senators — Volcker indicated that interest rates would subside only gradually over the long term as expectations of renewed inflation recede.

And he cautioned that the path toward economic prosperity is still blocked by record federal budget deficits at home and severe economic and financial problems besetting much of the world.

Mortgage plans announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. says it is moving ahead with new services aimed at increasing the amount of money available for home mortgages.

Kenneth J. Thygeson, president of the government-sponsored institution known as Freddie Mac, told reporters Wednesday that two new variable-rate mortgage programs will be started in April and other changes will be made by the agency.

The corporation purchases home mortgages from savings banks and savings and loan associations and resells the mortgages to investors. The banks then use the funds raised to make further home loans.

Thygeson also said Freddie Mac had earnings of $59.9 million last year, a record and well above the $30.9 million of the year before.

He said the corporation plans an issue of preferred stock later in the year as a means of increasing its capital and added that additional emphasis will be placed on mortgages for multi-family residences.

Thygeson also said a new program of three-year and five-year adjustable-rate mortgages will begin in mid-April. The corporation will also begin offering mortgage commitments on a daily rather than a weekly basis.

Single-family home sales up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of existing single-family homes jumped a record 15.5 percent in January.

The National Association of Realtors, a trade group of real estate agents, said Friday it was the fifth consecutive month of rising home resales and brought the seasonally adjusted annual rate to 2.61 million homes compared with 2.26 million in December.

The increase was the sharpest month-to-month gain since the real estate agents started keeping monthly records 16 years ago.

In raw figures, there were 157,000 resales in January compared to 148,000 in December and 116,000 in January 1982.

The sharpest gains were in the South, where sales surged 31.8 percent over December. Resales were up 6.7 percent in the Northeast, 5.3 percent in the West and 5.2 percent in the north central region.

The median price of an existing home in January was $68,300, up 2.9 percent from the $66,400 median price reported for January 1982.

Consumer prices stay steady

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's measure of consumer prices rose only 0.2 percent last month. Housing and food prices were higher but gasoline and heating oil prices dropped sharply.

In its Consumer Price Index, the Labor Department recalculated certain housing prices in an effort to get rid of the distortion caused by wide swings in home prices and mortgage rates. Had the old calculation been used, consumer prices would have held steady last month, the department said.

YOGURT PLUS HAS GRAND OPENING — Yogurt Plus, featuring frozen yogurt, recently opened its doors in the Big Spring Mall. Owners Noyle and Martha Stone offer several flavors of yogurt, as well as a line of conventional soda fountain treats. Mrs. Stone is shown offering Sylvia Franco a sample of the business' tasty delights.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interest rate that savings and loan associations may pay on six-month savings certificates drops to 8.663 percent today from 8.733 percent.

Commercial banks may pay a maximum of 8.413 percent, down from 8.483 percent.

The limits are set one-half point and one-quarter point, respectively, above the four-week average rate on six-month Treasury bills auctioned by the government.

IRS targeted jobs tax break aids employers

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Is it possible to hire an employee and get a sizeable tax credit for doing so?

It is, if one hires a person qualifying for the federal government's targeted job tax credit program, says Gerald Damm, manager of the local Texas Employment Commission.

The program lets an employer have a credit of 50 percent for the first $6,000 in wages paid for the first year of employment, and 25 percent of the first $6,000 during the second year.

"It's such a good program that in some parts of the country some employers are paying applicants $25 to come down and get vouchered (granted eligibility)," Damm said. "I'm not advocating that, but it is a worthwhile program to those who qualify."

Damm said any employer wishing to participate may ask the TEC or any other sponsoring agency serving the program that he wishes to hire targeted workers. The agencies will then send qualified workers to apply for work, he said.

Workers applying for jobs will bring along eligibility vouchers to show prospective employers.

If the employer hires the person, the employer then sends the voucher to the TEC or sponsoring agency saying he has hired the employee.

The sponsoring agency sends the employer a certification form for the worker. The form is the used by the employer to claim the tax credit. Internal Revenue Service form 5584 is used in claiming the credit.

Persons qualifying for the program fall into seven categories: handicapped persons from vocational rehabilitation programs or the Veterans Administration; disadvantaged persons 18-24 years of age who are poor; persons on Supplemental Security Income; and Vietnam veterans under 35 who are poor.

Others eligible for the program are those who have received some sort of public assistance for more than 30 days; youths 16-18 participating in cooperative education programs; and ex-offenders (felons) who are poor and hired within five years after their conviction or prison release.

Damm said the program is helpful for younger, disadvantaged persons trying to break into the job market.

"We see a pretty good percentage of young people having a tough time obtaining work because of their limited skills," Damm said. "Most employers like to hire an older, more experienced worker, but this program helps the younger ones compete in the job market."

As with any tax program there are limitations, according to a government brochure on the targeted jobs.

- An employer cannot claim credit on the employee's wages if the worker is getting assistance from other federal job programs.

- The credit an employer may claim cannot be more than 30 percent of total wages subject to federal unemployment taxes he paid employees during the year.

- The credit is limited to 90 percent of an employer's tax liability after other reductions.
- And the employer's business expense deduction for wages is reduced by the amount of the tax credit.

"There is a lot of paperwork to the program," Damm said. "But if an employer wants to go through it, he can be $3,000 ahead and that's not a bad deal."

Damm said a few local businesses were participating in the plan. And he said that anyone in the targeted group could ask for information on the vouchering program.

"It helps disadvantaged persons get their foot in the door with an employer," Damm said. "If they come in to apply for a job and have the voucher showing the employer he could get a credit for them, then they might have a better chance of getting hired."

More information about the program is available at the TEC or other government agencies that serve targeted workers such as CETA program sponsors, vocational rehabilitation agencies, welfare agencies and Social Security offices.

Nation's business optimism rises

NEW YORK (AP) — Business optimism rose slightly in the first quarter of 1983, according to Dun & Bradstreet Corp.'s latest survey of business expectations.

The upward movement continues a seesaw pattern that has prevailed since 1980, with no more than two consecutive quarters showing the same trend.

Dun & Bradstreet surveyed 1,400 executives in November for the latest survey, which was released Wednesday.

It showed optimism about sales moved up seven points to 37 from the fourth-quarter 1982 reading of 30.

The survey indicated wholesalers had the most confidence, with their index rising 15 points from 21 to 36. Durable-goods manufacturers' index rose nine points to 26. Retailers were more gloomy, with their index dipping five points, from 50 to 45.

Windfall profit tax claims due

All taxpayers who paid 1980 windfall profit taxes on crude oil should file a protective claim by May 31, according to Energy Consumers and Producers Association officials.

The Windfall Profit Tax Act was declared unconstitutional by U.S. District Judge Ewing Kerr of Wyoming, and if the Supreme Court upholds the decision, taxpayers will be due a refund.

Windfall profit taxpayers should use the following 1980 claim deadlines: May 31, 1983 for oil removed by the first quarter ending March 31, 1980; Aug. 31, 1983 for the second quarter ending June 30, 1980; Nov. 30, 1983 for the third quarter ending Sept. 30, 1980; and Feb. 29, 1984 for oil removed in the fourth quarter ending Dec. 31, 1980.

The Internal Revenue Service instructs those filing claims based on the constitutionality of the tax to file Form 843 and write across the top of the form "Protective Claim."

Also in the explanation section of the form state, "Protective claim based on the constitutionality of the windfall profit tax." Under amount, it is only necessary to write

"$1 or more." And do not attach any proofs of claims at this time.

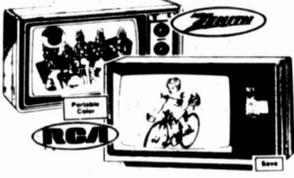

The IRS says a separate Form 843 needs to be filed for each quarter of 1980, but they can all be mailed at one time prior to the May 31 deadline.

It is also recommended that persons should wait until next year to file on 1981 windfall profit taxes according to the same schedule. The reason given is that the Supreme Court may rule on the constitutional question by then and either filing will be unnecessary or a more factual filing will be required for refund purposes.

10 hopefuls search for Region V title

Underdog Queens begin uphill climb

Wednesday Thursday Friday Saturday

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

Nine visitors from throughout North, Central and East Texas have joined host Howard College for the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament. All bring hopes of a championship showing over the four-day event but the process of elimination begins tonight.

The Hawk Queens, defending champs of this tournament by virtue of their 55-45 win over McLennan last year, open play at 6 p.m. against Grayson, fifth place finisher in the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference. Howard won the Western Junior College Athletic Conference a year ago but enters this tournament as the fourth place team from the WJCAC.

Clarendon, fifth in the WJCAC, tries to advance into Thursday's quarterfinals when the Lady Bulldogs test Weatherford in an 8 p.m. game. The Fighting Coyotes were fourth in NJCAC.

Four games are scheduled Thursday. The winner of the Howard-Grayson game meets WJCAC champ Western Texas at 8 p.m. while NJCAC winner McLennan plays the Clarendon-Weatherford winner. Other games find Odessa and Cooke playing at 2 p.m. and Amarillo and Cisco meeting at 4 p.m.

The tournament hits its climax with the 7 p.m. Saturday championship game.

For the Queens to defend their title, a string of four victories must begin against Grayson. Back to lead the charge are 1982 Region V all-tournament selections Nell Haskins and Susan Cordell. HC is 19-9 overall and went through WJCAC play at an even 6-6 ledger. The record includes four forfeits because of an ineligible player.

"I feel better about our chances now than two or three weeks ago," says coach Don Stevens. "They are sincerely eager and have really been anticipating the tournament. I think the players are in a great frame of mind. They've taken it upon themselves...they're a close bunch and have talked among themselves. I've heard them say 'I can't wait to get ahold of Western Texas.'"

The Dusters topped Howard by a point in Big Spring and two in Snyder and the Queens would love nothing more than a third try against Western Thursday night.

Grayson, however, stands in the way.

The Lady Vikings Grayson is led by freshman Sheila Stowe and Sharon Ross. Stowe averaged 18.6 points and 11.2 rebounds a game for Grayson. Ross had a solid scoring effort in the Hawk Queen Classic. Nita Garrison, another freshman, scored 12.6 points and grabbed almost 16 rebounds a game for her team. "They play hard and are a good transition team. They played everyone to the wire in that conference," Stevens says.

Grayson represents a huge turnaround from last year. Under new head coach George Speer, the Lady Vikings went from 3-22 to 15-12 and 10-5 in the NJCAC.

The top teams, of course, are Western and McLennan. The Dusters enter the tournament 26-6 after losing just once in 12 WJCAC games. Inside player Vickie Teal scored 15.2 points each game to pace the No. 1 scoring team in the conference.

McLennan is ranked among the nation's top 20 teams in the latest NJCAA poll with a 23-5 record. The High Lassies won all 14 NJCAC games.

No bones about it Cordell key to Howard's quest

Sports Editor

She's called "Bones" by her teammates. She once made an opponent scream when matched against her 6-6 frame.

She could be the key player in her team's quest for a second Region V championship.

Susan Cordell's her name and intimidating opposing shooters is her game. No player in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference strikes as much fear into the shoelaces of opponents than this 6-6 sophomore post.

As a freshman, she scored seven points and grabbed six rebounds a game. But it was her 110 blocked shots in 27 games that was an indication of things to come. Here was a player with a potential and Howard College coach Don Stevens only had to polish this diamond in the rough.

This year Cordell has become a much improved all-around player. In the latest WJCAC stats, she's rejected 139 shots, boosted her scoring average to 13.5 points and has increased her rebound average to 7.5. Those increases have come despite the opposition coming to the gym especially prepared to neutralize the Hawk Queen post.

Entering today's Region V Tournament opener against Grayson, Cordell and her teammates are beginning a new season. Behind the Queens are a mid-season slump and the loss of four wins because of an ineligible player.

The fresh start has Cordell in an optimistic mood. "I think we're as good as we were last year," she compared the current 19-9 team to last year's Region V champs. Is there more pressure this year? "I don't think it's made much difference," she says of entering the tournament as an underdog versus the favorite's role. "We have different players this year. I don't think playing an extra game is going to hurt us."

Whether the tournament situation is different or not, the Queens have changed since last March. "I think it's because of all the problems we've had this year. We've gotten down and had to get back up. Last year we had to struggle at the start of the year. This year we started on top and then had to struggle."

Cordell says the Queens were under close scrutiny as the season began, mainly because of the No. 1 ranking in the national NJCAA poll. "I think a lot had to do with the national ranking. Then we lost the first two conference games and messed that all up."

Regardless of how they made it — winning the WJCAC title or coming as the fourth place team, the Queens are back in the Region V Tournament and are a force to be reckoned with.

Howard meets Grayson, the fifth place team from the Northern Junior College Athletic Conference, in the first round. Earlier in the year, Grayson won twice and lost once in the Hawk Queen Classic in Big Spring. One of the games they lost was a 97-89 decision to Western Texas. "I've heard they've improved a lot since we played them," Cordell informs, "but I still think we can beat them." What the Hawk Queens are really hoping for is a possible third meeting against WJCAC champ Western Texas.

"We lost to them by one point and then by two points," Cordell recalls. "The second time we played them we were still thinking about the games we had to

Steers drop baseball opener

ANDREWS — Big Spring High committed four errors, left 10 men on base and ran poorly on the basepaths, dropping its season opener 5-3 to Andrews here Tuesday afternoon.

Right-hander Adam Rodriguez limited the Mustangs to only four hits but poor fielding — including one throwing error by the senior hurler himself — allowed the AAAA team to take the victory.

The Mustangs jumped off to a 5-0 lead after four innings but it was the Steers who did the rest of the scoring. Sophomore center fielder Jay Pirkle lined a solo home run in the fifth inning and the Steers rallied for two more runs in the seventh inning.

Alan Trevino led off with a single, Pirkle was hit by a pitch and Danny Arista walked to load the bases. One out later, David Anguiano was hit by another pitch to force in a run and Marty Rodriguez walked to make it 5-3. Tom Cudd struck out and Mark Walker bounced into a fielder's choice to end the threat.

Mustang pitcher Floyd Conerjo tossed six innings and got late relief help from Shay Morris to nail down the victory.

Andrews scored early in the game as Tudy Gonzales collected an RBI basehit and a second run scored on an error by Anguiano at third.

The Mustangs made it 3-0 in the second when Mike Gonzales walked and later scored when Rodriguez threw a chopper to the mound away at first base. The lead stretched to 5-0 in the fourth when a third BSHS error and Bill Morrison's double accounted for two more Mustang runs.

"Our two weaknesses in the game were our errors and our baserunning," coach Frank Ibarra said. "Adam didn't pitch that bad of a game but he walked five. Of the four hits he gave up, only one was a line drive. What hurt him were the errors...he had one himself."

The Steers collected eight basehits but stranded 10 runners. "We also did a poor job of running the bases. We took ourselves out of four innings with poor baserunning. Definitely, we didn't play good defense. We made crucial errors when they had men on base."

Anguino had two of his team's hits.

The Steers open at home at 10 a.m. Friday when the annual District 4-5A tournament begins at two locations across town. The Steers test Abilene High, a team that won 10-3 in this tournament last year.

MIDLAND — Leaping specialist Shell Rutledge and steady guard Monette Wise have been named to the 1983 District 4-AAAAA all-district team, representing Big Spring High School.

Shelia Christian, who averaged 15 points a game in leading Midland High into the state playoffs, was named the district's Most Valuable Player.

Midland Lee won the district title with a 13-1 record but lost to Lubbock Monterey 69-65 in bi-district. Midland, the 4-5A runners-up, topped Plainview 64-51 in bi-district but fell 53-44 to El Paso Eastwood in area action.

The Most Outstanding Sophomore was tie in this year's voting. The two winners were Denise Lanz of Midland High and Leisa King of Abilene Cooper.

McLennan, Western, top teams

Weatherford finished fourth in the WJCAC and absorbed a tough loss to Howard at the WTC tourney. The next night, the Coyotes topped the Dusters. "They're a traditionally guard-oriented team. Not matter what they do during the regular season, they always play tough in regionals," says Stevens.

Clarendon is 13-12 and tied Howard at 6-6 in league play. Paula Dotson and Denise Posey score 11 points each. Although Howard won 81-60 recently, the Queens went to the wire before winning in Big Spring. "They're one of those teams that can win it all if they have a good night," Stevens warns.

After losing to Howard, the Lady Bulldogs romped by second place Odessa 70-59.

Randle hon. mention pick

Rutledge was the team's scorer throughout the season, averaging 13.4 points and grabbing 8.8 rebounds a game. She was unselfish with the basketball, handing almost five assists per game. She scored a high 24 points in district at Cooper and had 22 more in a victory over San Angelo. She scored in double figures in all but four of her team's 27 games.

Wise put her non-district learning experience to good work in league play. She scored in double figures nine times in 14 games, getting 14 against Permian, Abilene and Odessa. Her district average was 10.1 and she was scoring 11.8 points in second half games until hitting a low of four in a near-upset of Lee.

Senior Sylvia Randle was an honorable mention selection. Randle scored 8.2 points a district game and 8.5 over the course of the season.

Coach of the Year — Shirley Stevenson (Midland Lee).

Steers seventh overall

Odessa High fired a 322 and Snyder's Paul Ervin carded a three over-par 75 to take team and individual leads Tuesday at the Big Spring High School Boys Invitational golf tournament.

The Broncos were paced by the consistent play of a trio of golfers during the tournament's first round at Comanche Trails. Jack Garner, Joel Gollimore and Mike Merrell each fired 80's to guide Odessa to a three stroke over Snyder and Permian. Midland High was fourth with a 332.

Big Spring carded a 336 team score with Jaime Hernandez getting a 78. Hernandez, a sophomore, is tied with David Pritchett of Midland High and Jay Erland of Snyder for fourth place in the individual standings.

Ervin has a stroke lead over Jay Young of Permian (76) and a two-shot advantage over Lee's David Hicks (77).

Other Big Spring High scores were Ronnie Martinez next with an 84, John Rodriguez an 86, Rory Worthan an 88 and Jeff Reed a 100. Reed had been the team's top golfer in the San Antonio and Del Rio tournaments.

The Steers second team, trailed the 12-team field. Joe Trevino had an 88, Mark Guterrez a 94, Jason Jiles a 98, Robert Gilbert a 100 and Larry Garcia a 102. Marc Couch, playing only as a medalist, fired a 110.

The final 18 holes began this morning at the Country Club. Defending champion Lamesa entered the final round 12 strokes off the pace, tied with Midland Lee in fifth place.

Clay Everheart was the top Golden Tornado golfer with a 79 Tuesday.

Here are the first day team and individual standings:

Team Standings — 1) Odessa High 322; 2) Snyder and Permian 325; 4) Midland High 332; 5) Midland Lee and Lamesa 334; 7) Big Spring 336; 8) Seminole 340; 9) San Angelo No. 2 350; 10) Stanton 352; 11) Stanton No. 2 374; 12) Big Spring No. 2 380.

Medalist Standings — Paul Ervin, Snyder, 75; 2) Jay Young, Permian, 76; 3) David Hicks, Lee, 77; 4) Jaime Hernandez, Big Spring, David Pritchett, Midland High; and Jay Erland, Snyder, all 78; 7) Clay Everheart, Lamesa; Troy Martin, Lee; and Jeff Wash, Permian, all 79; 10) Mike Merrell, Joel Gollimore and Jack Garner, all Odessa; and Mike Holdorf, San Angelo, all 80.

SA falls to Eastwood

MIDLAND — San Angelo Central bowed out of the Class 5-A playoffs with a 72-67 area loss to El Paso Eastwood here Tuesday night.

Bobcats Lorand White scored 12 of his game-high 32 points in the fourth quarter as Central cut a 60-36 deficit with a high-pressure full-court press.

The Bobcats finish their first playoff season since 1963 with a 23-12 record while the Troopers advance to the Region I-AAAA tournament with a 25-4 ledger.

forfeit. This first time, it was our free throws that cost us.

Howard expected McLennan, winners of the NJCAC, to be a possible second opponent. "We found out we could be playing Western Saturday. I think we'd rather play them. I guess we have sort of a grudge against them."

As Cordell and post teammate Nell Haskins went up and down, so did the Queens go the same direction. "I started out real good and then hit a slump," she said. The Queens did likewise, winning their first 12 games before dropping four of five. "It's real bad when Nell and I both get in them (the slumps) because we don't have a lot of good backup posts. But now I think I'm out of mine and Nell is out of her's."

Are the Queens back to their early-season form? "I think we can be," Cordell predicts. "We've been down a lot but as a team, I think we're better than we were at the beginning. We played really good last week in Clarendon. Everyone is out of their slump and the scoring was real balanced."

For the year, and before having to forfeit four victories, Howard has lost just five games. After that mid-season slump, the Queens lost just once again, to the Lady Wranglers in Odessa.

With a 6-6 post on one side and a post that scores 30 points a game on the other, it's no wonder the Queens depend so much on Cordell and Haskins. They're good to have in the lineup, but it can also lead to problems. "Sometimes, they (Queens teammates) depend too much on us. That's what happened in high school. They would work on throwing it to me all the time in practice. Next year they did better because they didn't have me to depend on."

Playing in the shadow of a potential junior college all-American doesn't bother Cordell. In fact, she's one of Haskins' biggest fans. "A lot of people would be jealous of playing with her," she smiles, "but I'm just glad she's there. She takes up a lot of the slack. If I'm not playing well, she can. If she's not, I can. It really helps not to have all the pressure on one person."

Cordell was a one-player team in high school, scoring 30 points a game. She was so intimidating with her height that once a player lost her cool when she arrived face to knees to the extra tall post. "She turned around and screamed. She dropped the ball and it rolled out of bounds. Everybody started laughing," she recalls.

Although she had the size, Cordell was not a skilled ballplayer coming out of Euleus Trinity High School. "I had no coaching in high school," she admits. Still, she was offered a scholarship to Baylor. "The coach told me I'd be sitting on the bench so they sent me here," she explains. "I liked coach Stevens and I liked it here."

The credit for her remarkable improvement goes to Stevens. "I never would have gotten where I am now if it wasn't for him." Stevens knew there was a good basketball player in that 6-6 frame if she would just work hard. And work her he did. "Coach Stevens to make me cry everyday," she laughs now.

Height runs in her family. Her mother is 5-9 and her father 6-8. "I was 6-3 by seventh grade," she remembers. "I have a sister who is 6-1 and just 13. That's plenty tall for a junior high student...tall at any age for a female. "I don't think of myself as any different. When I'm playing in a game, I don't even think about it. When I look at a video later, then I notice how much taller I am than the other girls."

And being tall is how she got the nickname "Bones." "I got that when I was a junior in high school," she grins. "I was about 6-3 and weighed 120 pounds."

Cordell is a tall order for opposing players to defend. A taller order now is making the trip to Senatobia, Miss. for the national tournament. "That's a very big goal for us. We got so close last year...we did so good in Region and then got beat something like 30 points. I just want to prove we can do it."

SEMINOLE — Stuart Bursleson scored a game-high 29 points but it wasn't enough as the Anton Bulldogs eliminated Greenwood from the state Class A playoffs with a 69-59 victory here Tuesday night.

Anton, now 30-1 and ranked among the state's top 10 teams, sped off to a 19-13 first quarter lead. The Bulldogs lead comfortably until the Rangers rallied to within two points in the fourth quarter. Greenwood, however, could draw no closer.

Greenwood finishes at 24-4 for the season.

"The players are not prepared to address in any meaningful way the current problems of the league and said they were firm on an April 2 strike deadline," David Stern, the NBA's executive vice president for business and legal affairs, said following Tuesday's abbreviated session.

O'Brien said the players' strike threat, delivered officially for the first time Tuesday, was "a stunning and disturbing development."

The commissioner, in a message to the league's Board of Governors, said he had opened the meeting by asking Larry Fleisher, the union's general counsel, to clarify his comments to the media regarding the strike deadline.

"Mr. Fleisher responded unequivocally that the players would not agree to any proposal addressing the league's financial problems which would take effect prior to 1987 at the expiration of the Robertson settlement agreement," O'Brien said in his message to the clubs.

The Robertson settlement gives free agent players the right to sign with any team. Part of the club owners' contract proposal would set a salary cap for each team and would bar any club which exceeds that limit from signing free agents.

"I advised Mr. Fleisher and his colleagues that the NBA would not enter into any new collective bargaining agreement which did not address the league's current financial problems," said O'Brien.

Oriental, French, Mexican dishes

Recently, a reader asked us where some of the recipes which appear in the Recipe Exchange originated. She was referring to those recipes which run without a nameline giving credit to a cook.

Many recipes come across our desks here at the Herald. They are mailed in from news services and food promotional or marketing agencies. Although we prefer to highlight the many wonderful cooks we have right here in the Big Spring area, we also like to share some recipes mailed in from around the nation. When featuring the recipes, we publish only the generic ingredients, not brand names. Publishing brand names would give free advertisement to the food companies.

If a local cook lists a specific brand of a food product to use in his or her recipe, then we publish that brand. The cook may have had better luck with that particular product.

If you have recipes you would like to share with the Recipe Exchange, please send them in to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1430, Big Spring, Texas, 79720. We'll give you a nameline identifying you as the cook. We'd also appreciate any tips on good cooks around the area. We'll contact them and ask them to share their favorites. We're still looking for a roast beef recipe for Martin Clark. Clark has been searching for almost three months for a recipe which calls for the roast beef to be cooked under rock salt. He doesn't know the proper temperature or how long to cook the meat. If you know, please drop us a line.

Today's Recipe Exchange features an international array of recipes such as crepes, Mexican dinner dishes, Chinese dishes and pizza. We hope you enjoy these recipes.

FIESTA CHICKEN SALAD

By Cindy Cole
1 8-oz. jar pasteurized process cheese spread
2 Tbsps. real mayonnaise
1 tsp. chili powder
2 1/2 cups chopped cooked chicken

1/2 cup celery slices
1/2 cup ripe olive slices
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 8-oz. pkg. crispy round tortilla chips
2 cups shredded lettuce
1/2 cup chopped tomato
Combine process cheese spread, mayonnaise and chili powder, mixing until blended. Add chicken, celery, olives and onion; mix lightly. Chill. Add additional mayonnaise before serving, if desired. For each salad, top tortilla chips with lettuce, chicken salad and tomato.
Makes four to six servings.

ORIENTAL OMELET

4 eggs, separated
dash white pepper
1/4 cup water
1/4 tsp. each: salt and cream of tartar
2 tsp. butter
SAUCE:
1 cup water
2 Tbsps. plus 2 tps. each: soy sauce and brown sugar
2 Tbsps. cornstarch
1 Tbsp. plus two tps. vinegar
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1 can (16 oz.) chow mein vegetables, drained
1 1/2 cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. For omelet, beat egg yolks and pepper in a small mixing bowl until thick and lemon-colored. Beat egg whites, water, salt and cream of tartar in a large mixing bowl until stiff but not dry. Fold beaten egg yolks into beaten whites. Melt butter in a 10-inch skillet with heat proof handle until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Turn egg mixture into skillet. Cook over low heat on top of range until puffy and bottom is golden brown, about 5 minutes. Transfer to oven. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Meanwhile, for sauce, combine water, soy sauce, brown sugar, cornstarch, vinegar and mustard in a one-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook two additional minutes. Stir in chow mein vegetables; keep warm. To serve, remove omelet to heated platter. Score down center with a knife, but do not cut all the way through. Sprinkle one cup cheese over bottom half of omelet; spoon about 1/2 cup sauce over cheese. Fold omelet in half and top with remaining cheese. Spoon small amount of sauce over top. Cut into 4 servings and pass remaining sauce.

SZECHWAN CHICKEN AND PEANUTS

1 1/2 tps. cornstarch
2 Tbsps. soy sauce
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 to 1/2 tsp. crushed red pepper
2 Tbsps. vegetable oil
1 1/2 pounds chicken breasts, skinned, boned and cut into bite-sized pieces
3/4 tsp. minced ginger root
1 green pepper, cut into one inch pieces
4 scallions, diagonally sliced into 1-inch pieces
1/2 cup dry roasted, unsalted peanuts
Dissolve cornstarch in soy sauce. Mix together chicken broth, sugar, red pepper and soy sauce mixture. Set aside. Preheat oil in wok at 375 degrees F. Add chicken breasts and ginger, stir-fry until meat loses its pinkness. Remove meat from wok. Add green pepper and onions to wok, stir-fry two minutes. Add peanuts, stir-fry one more minute. Return meat to wok. Add chicken broth mixture. Stir-fry until mixture boils and thickens, about one minute.
Yields about three servings.

QUICK 'N' EASY PIZZA

1 container (8 oz.) refrigerated biscuits (10 biscuits)
1 can (8 oz.) pizza sauce
1/2 cup chopped onion
10 thin green pepper rings
1 cup shredded Colby cheese
2 Tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
2 slices (2 oz.) Mozzarella cheese, cut into two triangles each
1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives

CREPES

3/4 cup milk
2/3 cup flour
3 eggs, beaten
1/2 tsp. salt
Combine milk, flour, eggs and salt; beat until smooth. Let stand 30 minutes. For each crepe, pour 1/4 cup batter into hot lightly greased 8-inch skillet. Cook until lightly browned on one side. Yields 12 crepes.

REGAL BANANA FILLING FOR CREPES

1 8-oz. container soft cream cheese
3 Tbsps. sugar
2 Tbsps. milk
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1 medium banana, sliced hot fudge ice cream topping, heated
6 crepes
Combine cream cheese, sugar, milk and vanilla, beating until light and fluffy. Fill each crepe with about 3 tablespoons cream cheese mixture; roll up with banana slices. Roll up. Spoon topping over crepe. Yields six crepes.

PEANUT BUTTER CREAM FILLING FOR CREPES

1 8-oz. container soft cream cheese
1/2 cup chunk style peanut butter
1/4 cup maple syrup
6 crepes
Combine cream cheese, peanut butter and syrup, beating until light and fluffy. Fill each crepe with 1/4 cup cream cheese mixture; roll up. Top with remaining cream cheese mixture. Garnish with chopped peanuts, if desired. Yields six crepes.

CHEDDAR-TUNA QUICHE

3/4 cup uncooked long grain rice
3 eggs
2 Tbsps. butter, melted
2 tps. chopped parsley
1 1/2 cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 can (6 1/2 oz.) tuna in water, drained and flaked
1 cup milk
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/4 tsp. pepper
6 tomato wedges
Cook rice according to package directions. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Combine rice, one slightly beaten egg, butter and parsley; turn into 9-inch pie plate. Press mixture firmly against sides and bottom of plate, building up outside edge. Sprinkle 3/4 cup cheese over rice crust. Top with half the tuna; sprinkle with remaining cheese. Beat together milk, two eggs, salt, mustard and pepper; pour over cheese-tuna mixture. Sprinkle remaining tuna on top. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Arrange tomato on top. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

GARBANZO-CHEESE SALAD

1 can (15 1/2 oz.) garbanzo beans (chick peas), rinsed and drained
4 ounces Cheddar cheese, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1 cup fresh spinach leaves
1 cup torn romaine lettuce
10 cherry tomatoes, halved
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup frozen peas, defrosted or fresh peas
1/2 cup red onion rings
1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
Alfalfa sprouts
For dressing, combine first seven ingredients. Gently fold in yogurt. Refrigerate, covered, two to three hours to allow flavors to blend. Meanwhile, for salad, combine all ingredients except alfalfa sprouts. Chill, covered, one to two hours. To serve, sprinkle alfalfa sprouts over salad. Toss gently with dressing. Serve immediately.

CUCUMBER YOGURT DRESSING

1/2 cup pared seeded shredded cucumber, well drained
1 tsp. grated onion
1 tsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. sugar

1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. seasoned salt
dash red pepper
1 cup (8 oz.) plain yogurt

SALAD:

3 cups torn iceberg lettuce
1 can (15 1/2 oz.) garbanzo beans (chick peas), rinsed and drained
4 ounces Cheddar cheese, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
1 cup fresh spinach leaves
1 cup torn romaine lettuce
10 cherry tomatoes, halved
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup frozen peas, defrosted or fresh peas
1/2 cup red onion rings
1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
Alfalfa sprouts
For dressing, combine first seven ingredients. Gently fold in yogurt. Refrigerate, covered, two to three hours to allow flavors to blend. Meanwhile, for salad, combine all ingredients except alfalfa sprouts. Chill, covered, one to two hours. To serve, sprinkle alfalfa sprouts over salad. Toss gently with dressing. Serve immediately.

SALAD FIRENZE

1 8 oz. bottle Italian dressing
2 cups mushroom slices
1 cup broccoli flowerets
1 cup red onion rings
1 lb. salami or summer sausage, cubed
2 quarts torn assorted greens
1 6-oz. pkg. natural low moisture mozzarella cheese slices, cut into strips
Pour dressing over vegetables and sausage.

Cover; marinate in marinade. Combine greens, sausage and refrigerator several hours. and enough marinade to cheese; toss lightly. Drain, reserving moisture; toss lightly. Add four.

Food, behavior linked

The statement "We are what we eat" is beginning to take on new meaning as researchers across the country look for links between nutrition and criminal tendencies and other behavior disorders.

A number of nutrition and behavior experts were at the University of Texas at Austin recently to discuss research on how nutrition may affect and modify behavior. Nine hundred participants registered for the Texas Conference on Nutrition and Behavior, making it the largest conference to date on the subject.

Honorary chairman of the conference was Dr. Roger J. Williams. Many years ago he said humans are biochemically unique. While everyone requires the same basic vitamins, minerals and amino acids for health, the amounts each individual needs of those nutrients varies.

"We don't live by simple formulas," he said. "What works for one might not work for another."

Nutrition is becoming increasingly important as a possible factor in delinquency because traditional methods in criminal rehabilitation programs "haven't worked," said Dr. Bernard Rimland, director of the Institute for Child Behavior in San Diego, Calif.

"We have to set brain chemistry straight before we can straighten out behavior," Rimland told conference participants.

He likened the human brain to a computer. Instead of working with a circuitry connected by wires, the brain, which is 85 percent water, depends on chemicals dissolved in that water to carry out its function.

Rimland said that substances can be dissolved in the brain's circuitry that hinder its work, substances like alcohol, mercury and hard drugs. A lack of certain nutrients or an imbalance in their amounts also can affect brain function, often in dramatic fashion.

Alexander Schauss, director of the American Institute for Biochemical Research in Tacoma, Wa., told of the case of Joel, a child diagnosed as having dyslexia. It was later discovered his disorder was related to a hidden food allergy. When a tiny amount of egg yolk was given to Joel, he would write his name upside down and backwards. When egg was withdrawn from his diet, he wrote normally.

Schauss said for individuals with food sensitivity the most common foods causing problems include cow's milk, wheat, corn, eggs, chocolate and cola, the pea family, citrus fruits, tomatoes and artificial food coloring. Often the offending food is the person's favorite. He said that studies have shown repeated juvenile offenders generally have diets made up of junk food, but also lots of milk. This is not to say that milk is bad per se, but for some individuals sensitive to it, milk can upset the brain's chemistry.

"There is no one diet to stop crime," Schauss said, and no single treatment program is a panacea for behavior problems.

"We need a multi-discipline approach" that looks at a person's genetic makeup, metabolic rate, degree of exercise, past diseases, nutritional status, appearance and environment.

Grain elevator inspections will be increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration announced Tuesday it is stepping up inspections of grain elevators while continuing work on a new government safety standard to lessen the risk of deaths resulting from fires and explosions.

Citing 14 such blasts last year alone, in which 12 workers were killed, Thorne G. Auchter, director of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said worker deaths and injuries "can be prevented through better hazard awareness and elimination. That is what we intend to foster now through more inspections, and soon through better enforcement.

Some 200 workers have perished in roughly 400 grain elevator explosions in the country over the last 22 years, government records show.

Last November, five people died following an explosion and fire at the Raymond Co-Op Elevator near Lincoln, Neb. Investigators said at the time they believed the accident happened when propane seeped through a crack in a plastic pipe to the basement and was ignited by a fuel oil heater.

The AFL-CIO's Food and Beverage Trades Department has been pushing the Labor Department for specific grain elevator safety standards, and Auchter has said the agency was working swiftly to issue such rules.

In his announcement, Auchter noted that the heightened inspection of elevators by OSHA enforcement officers "was an interim measure to improve worker protection until the agency can issue new standards specifically designed to reduce fire and explosion hazards" in the grain handling industry.

"We are working to develop new grain safety standards as quickly as possible," he said. "We have already circulated drafts of our proposed regulations to experts in industry, labor and state agencies, for their preliminary review. We expect to propose formal standards for public comment within the next several months."

Auchter also said, however, that OSHA wanted " ... to promote better worker protection at grain elevators now."

"That's why we are increasing inspections in the industry," he added. "We hope that a higher profile by OSHA will prompt greater attention by both managers and workers to possible fire and explosion hazards."

Auchter said details of the government's heightened elevator safety policing efforts were sent to OSHA's various field offices and would probably result in "wall-to-wall" safety inspections of approximately 100 of the nation's largest grain elevators.

But he also said that under the directives sent to the agency's 10 field offices, those inspections will likely be focused only on the largest elevators — or about 10 percent of the nation's 15,000 elevators.

Despite hundreds of such grain elevator blasts in the last two decades, no wide-ranging government safety regulations exist for such facilities.

The Agriculture Department's Federal Grain Inspection Service investigates grain elevator explosions, but has no enforcement authority. It merely compiles reports on such accidents and makes recommendations on ways to prevent them in the future.

Bald men take million to cover their losses

PITTSBURGH (AP) — About 300 bald men have accepted a $1 million settlement in a lawsuit against a clinic that promised to restore their hair, their lawyers say.

"When we were offered $1 million, we couldn't turn it down," said Eugene J. Strassburger, an attorney for the plaintiffs.

United Laboratories, a Pittsburgh clinic which now is closed, made the offer last Thursday after three days of testimony in the suit.

Samuel Fiorenza, 43, of Clarksburg, W. Va., went to the clinic in 1978 to regain hair through the "dermis inversion process." But according to the lawsuit, he ended up with pain and headaches, plus medical bills from doctors he went to correct problems caused by the process.

Fiorenza, who brought suit against the firm in October 1979, testified that he made more than 18 trips to Pittsburgh and spent $3,200 to undergo the process.

The dermis inversion process uses thin nylon threads, dyed to match the patient's hair color, which are inserted into the scalp with a high-powered drill, the lawsuit said.

Fiorenza alleged the technicians who performed the procedure gave him only a weak local painkiller. He said the pain was sometimes so bad that he could not make the four-hour trip back to his home.

Fiorenza said none of the fibers remained in his scalp.

The terms of the settlement have been impounded, and the lawyers would not say how the money might be distributed.

But Howard F. Messer, another attorney for the plaintiffs, said he will ask the court to approve the settlement on behalf of the men.

Texas syphilis cases increase

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A state health official says Texas has "all the ingredients" for an epidemic of venereal disease, and syphilis is the biggest problem.

"In February, Texas reported more total cases of syphilis — 1,206 — than any month in our history of record-keeping, which dates back to the 1930s," Joe Pair, director of Texas Infectious Disease Control Division, Venereal Disease Program in Austin, told the Abilene Reporter-News.

Syphilis can cause blindness, insanity and death in its late stages, and can cause numerous birth defects, including mental retardation, in babies who contract the disease from their mothers while in the womb.

"We have all the ingredients in Texas for a VD epidemic, including a young and mobile population," Pair told the newspaper.

In 1982, Texas reported 6,338 cases, a 19 percent increase from the 5,329 cases in 1981 and a 66 percent increase over the 3,828 cases of 1980.

Tensions mark Pope's Central American trip

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — This capital is aflutter with flags and flowers for Pope John Paul II, but there's also warning in the air that the pontiff's visit might strain taut nerves in politically turbulent Central America.

City employees have been scrubbing San Jose spotless — on their own time, free of charge. But Costa Rica, where the travel-fond pope starts his 11-day visit Wednesday, is one of the calmer countries on his eight-nation tour of this violence-racked part of the world.

From more volatile places on his tour come words to indicate that John Paul's mission of peace might trigger violence.

"Many people will not like what the Pope has to say, many do not want him to come here," said Monsignor Arturo Rivera y Damas, head of the Roman Catholic Church in El Salvador.

The monsignor has quietly halted the printing of a poster which shows the pope embracing Archbishop Oscar Arnulfo Romero, who was slain three years ago as he celebrated Mass. The assassin was suspected of links to rightist death squads there.

Church estimates say some 30 priests have been murdered in Central America.

On Monday, the Salvadoran rebels succumbed to appeals from the Roman Catholic church and announced they'll cease fire for one day — Sunday — when the pope makes a 10-hour visit, his fourth stop.

More than 90 percent of the 25 million people in the countries on the pope's schedule — including the Caribbean nation of Haiti — are Roman Catholic. Thus, Sunday sermons can reach a wide audience.

In El Salvador, for example, rightist leaders generally condemn the religious as too sympathetic to the left, while leftists often criticize church leaders for not speaking out against injustices frequently enough.

Nicaragua.

Despite a papal edict that says priests should not be active in politics, five priests, including Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto and Culture Minister Ernesto Cardenal, hold high places in the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

says the Rev. Bismark Caballo, secretary of the Nicaraguan conference of bishops. "He is a brave man and he will speak clearly."

In Guatemala, where leftist forces are also engaged in a prolonged fight for power, church prelates say they have received anonymous death threats against the pope. They refused to give details.

In Costa Rica, security will be heavy but not airtight.
The Vatican wants people to be able to get close to John Paul, and that request has complicated authorities' job here to protect him.

one in Rome; the other in Fatima, Portugal.

ly does outside the Vatican.

House approves youth job bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, resurrecting a
New Deal idea of a half-century ago, approved an American Conservation Corps program Tuesday to provide as many as 100,000 park and forest jobs for youths.

The bill, approved 301-87, calls for $60 million this year and $300 million for each of the next five years in a program fashioned after the Civilian Conservation Corps that Congress approved early in Franklin
D. Roosevelt's first term as president.

money itself for the program, which is opposed by President Reagan.

Although relatively small in size and very limited in scope, the measure is the first one the Democratic-controlled House has approved this year to combat the recession. A $4.6 billion bill to provide public works jobs and humanitarian assistance is expected on the floor on Thursday and party leaders have promised additional legislation in the future.

"This is real. It is not make-work," Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, said in leading the argument for the American Conservation Corps. Seiberling said officials of the Forest Service and Park Service are pleading for laborers to upgrade facilities, while unemployment is very high among young people and black youths in particular.

Rep. Douglas Bereuter, R-Neb., also said young people who sign up for the corps would do the "back-breaking, unglorious tasks" of preserving federal parklands.

But other Republicans protested vigorously.
"This is a perfect symbol of the 1930s," said Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn. "These aren't permanent jobs and they may not be useful jobs. They're probably the most expensive jobs we've ever had."

Added Rep. Trent Lott, the No. 2 Republican in the House, "It makes good political sense to support it.
But I ask you to look beyond the title and ask if we really can afford a new project."

A similar bill passed the House last year, although it died in the Senate. And administration officials chose not to fight the measure on the floor, leaving Republicans worried about unemployment free to vote without pressure.

House Democratic leaders have promised a string of bills this year to fight the long recession and reduce unemployment of 10.2 percent.

The $4.6 billion "emergency" jobs bill is expected to clear the House easily, although members of both parties have expressed objections.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., acting with at least the tacit encouragement of the Democratic leadership, is expected to seek an additional $200 million for health care programs.

Rep. James Howard, D-N.J., chairman of the Transportation and Public Works Committee, is expected to propose adding $300 million to the $100 million already in the bill for mass transit.

Fatter people live longer, new study shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The Americans likely to live the longest now are slightly heavier than those who had the longest life expectancy in 1959, according to an insurance industry study released Tuesday.

But that emphatically does not mean heavier is better, according to both the publishers of the tables and an American Heart Association doctor.

"Fatter people are able to live longer because other risk factors are being reduced. But that doesn't mean they wouldn't live even longer if they were thinner," said Dr. W. Virgil Brown, chairman of the heart association's nutrition committee and professor of medicine at Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York.

Brown said that many factors influence health and length of life. The ideal weight for many people could be higher or lower than the weight ranges specified in the new study.

A person with high blood pressure, for example, might increase his chances of living longer by weighing less than the weights specified in the study, Brown said.

The new height-weight tables, published by the Metropolitan Life Inurance Co. of New York and based on insurance records, indicate the weight ranges at which people of various heights and builds will live the longest — or, in other words, have the lowest mortality.

A direct comparison of the 1959 and 1983 tables is not possible, because of differences in the way the figures were calculated, company officials said. But the officials did provide some indication of the changes.

For men and women of medium heights, the weights associated with longest life have climbed 5 percent to 7 percent.

The differences were greatest for short people. Between 1959 and 1983, the weights associated with lowest mortality for short people were up 8 percent to 13 percent.

Tall people showed the least change. In their case, the weights were raised only 1 percent to 4 percent.

The weight ranges should not be construed as "ideal" or "desirable," said Dr. Paul Entmacher, vice-president and chief medical director of Metropolitan Life. Those labels had been used in previous tables, but because they gave rise to misinterpretation, they have been dropped.

"They (the tables) do not tell us what the best weight is for turning in a good job performance or for looking your best," Entmacher said.

An official statement released Tuesday afternoon by the American Heart Association said, in part, "When used as guidelines, the new tables will imply that for many Americans putting on weight may actually improve their health. Few health problems are improved by gaining weight."

The Metropolitan Life height-weight tables are the standard used by virtually everyone in the insurance industry and the health professions. The company first devised them in 1942 and 1943. The tables were revised in 1959, and were not further altered until now.

The differences between the 1959 and 1983 tables are probably due to changes in living, Entmacher said.

Such things as greater attention to diet and increased concern with fitness alter many things that affect lifespan — such as cholesterol levels and blood pressure, he said.

The tables were computed from records of 4.2 million people supplied by 25 insurance companies, Metropolitan Life said. They apply only to adults between 25 and 59 years old.

Music for the final minutes

AUSTIN (AP) — It's a rotten toe-tapper, wretched for sing-alongs and a hopeless candidate for the Top 40.

But composer Barton McLean, master of the electronic music center at the University of Texas, is captivating audiences with a new tune. It's a haunting musical composition that is more likely to evoke tears than cheers.

"This piece is something no one ever forgets," McLean said. "It's been played at 10 or 12 concerts, and in several where I could see or hear the audience's reaction, I could actually see people crying."

The work, entitled "The Last 10 Minutes," is McLean's musical interpretation of a nuclear holocaust, the final moments of humanity.

"It's a reflection of the agony of the human spirit," says the composer, who adds he is "not a political person."

His music, McLean said, reflects "the horror and the terror, the poignancy and the sadness" of a nuclear war.

Audiences who have heard "The Last 10 Minutes," which is 11 minutes long, have no trouble understanding the point of the music, McLean said.

"They're not going to hear anything like bomb blasts," he said. "It's a piece of music. But on the other hand, there is no doubt in your mind what it's about."

Low, deep crying, sudden shrieks that rise and then disappear quickly, the ominous thud of something dropping down a deep stairwell, and the winds that, at the end, have nothing left to blow away are some of the sounds in "The Last 10 Minutes."

McLean said he took a year to compose the piece and record the sounds that a computer blends, stretches and contorts.

"We play it in the dark, and we've had small children get frightened," McLean said. "They (the audience) talk about it at the end. A lot of them don't clap much after it. I think that's good. It's not that kind of piece. Usually, they just sit there."

Although McLean says his work is primarily a musical event, he hopes it contributes to the anti-nuclear movement.

"I hope it does something," he said. "I would be delighted if some anti-nuclear organization was interested in it. I would make it available to them."

"The Last 10 Minutes" will be included on an album called "Computer Music from the Outside In," which Folkways Recordings plans to release in late spring.

DALLAS DIVISION COUPON

Textbook resolution hearing set

AUSTIN — The State Board of Education will hold a public hearing on the description of the specific content requirements for textbooks contained in Texas Proclamation #59.

The meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, March 10 in the Joe Kelly Butler Board Room at Texas Education Agency North, 1200 E. Anderson in Austin.

This will be the first time the board has held a public hearing on a textbook proclamation. The board uses the proclamation as its guideline for review of textbooks.

The public hearing is one of a series of recommendations adopted by the board following its extensive review of the entire textbook adoption process.

Individuals or group representatives who want to speak at the hearing must register by 5 p.m. Tuesday, March 8 with the TEA Textbook Division by calling 512-834-4056, or by mail postmarked on or before March 8 and addressed to the commissioner of education at 201 E. 11th St., Austin, Texas 78701.

The board reserves the right to limit the time for oral testimony in order to give all persons who register to testify an opportunity to be heard.

Textbook Proclamation #59 contains specific content requirements for books to be adopted in the following areas: English as a second language, grades 6-12; language and composition, grades, 1-8; vocational agriculture; geometry; trigonometry; algebra I and II; world history; advanced Texas studies; Latin I and II; advanced Latin; French I, II and III; marketing and distributive education; vocational industrial education building construction trades; and vocational industrial education metal trades.

The books are scheduled to be used in Texas public schools beginning in the 1984-85 school year.

Copies of the textbook proclamation are available for review at 20 regional education service centers in the state and at the TEA Textbook Division at 1200 E. Anderson Lane in Austin. Copies of the proclamation also may be obtained from the Textbook Division.

Harte-Hanks head speaks at Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — An advancing technology is blurring the traditional dividing lines between the various media and is a major factor forcing the communications industry to move closer to the consumer and his needs, says the president and chief executive officer of Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc.

Robert G. Marbut, in the keynote address for the 13th annual Mass Communications Week at Texas Tech University, listed technology and several other factors outside the industry's control which must be considered by the media.

The growing sophistication of computers and communications systems has changed the complexion of the industry, Marbut said. The media forms once considered distinct are coming together because of computers, satellite transmission, fiber optics and other technological improvements.

To address the challenges and frustrations of the rapid advance of technology, the communications industry must think "in terms of the need we meet rather than the products we produce," Marbut said. "The closer we get to the customer, the better," he added.

Other factors shaping the communication industry's future are the political environment, the economy, the work force, the consumer, the role of government, the growing need for advertising and the increased competition.

These factors must be considered because the communications industry, which provides information and entertainment, is subject to the same economic laws as other businesses, he said.

The communication industry must "meet a need in the marketplace for a product or a service" and produce a fair return on the investment, he said.

Consequently, more attention and resources must be devoted within the industry to the concepts of marketing and product development.

"We have got to become more comfortable with the idea of product development, innovation and entrepreneurship," he said.

Harte-Hanks, headquartered in San Antonio, owns and operates several newspapers, magazines and television stations, including the Big Spring Herald.

Area briefs

Three Big Spring students were named to the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

They are Carrie Poyner Dunnam, literature senior; Louise Day, accounting junior; and Mark Holdampf, accounting senior.

Mary Ellen Hayes Blankenship of Big Spring received a bachelor of science in nursing degree during winter commencement at Texas Woman's University.

She was one of 554 students to receive degrees at the Denton school's graduation exercises.

David Clinkscles has been named 1983 community chairman for Big Spring by the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

He will serve as a liaison between MDA and residents. He also will recruit groups and organizations to sponsor fund-raising events for MDA.

New era beginning for judicial watchdogs

ROBERT FLOWERS heads new era

AUSTIN (AP) — A new era is beginning for the watchdog commission that keeps track of Texas judges and any of their shortcomings.

On Tuesday, Robert Flowers, 59, former head of the Criminal Justice Division of the governor's office, replaces Maurice S. Pipkin, 74, who has been executive director of the Commission on Judicial Conduct since it was created in 1967.

Then, on March 11, the 11-member commission meets to consider pending legislation designed to open to the public and the press some of its proceedings concerning wayward judges.

In the past, there has been considerable criticism of the secrecy surrounding activities of the little-known state agency that can discipline state judges for anything from senility to stealing. Some critics have said it was like a Star Chamber, an ancient English court known for secret sessions, torture and harsh punishment.

AT PRESENT, only after the commission has proven a judge guilty of a misdeed and levied punishment is there a public announcement, and in some cases not even then — often there is simply a private reprimand, as provided by the state constitution.

But indications are the private nature of the panel may become a thing of the past.

"I have had a change of opinion about when to open up the proceeding," said San Angelo attorney W. Truett Smith, commission chairman.

"I think it is silly when you have a hearing at the courthouse with a guard at the door of the courtroom, and only an idiot would not know what judge is inside. I have come to feel that when we recommend a formal hearing it should be a public trial.

"That is just my feeling; I don't know how others feel," Smith said.

Smith said he believed the commission has plenty of power to start any investigation now. He indicated there would be no change in the commission's past policy of aggressively pursuing judges suspected of misconduct.

"Under the statute we can act on any affidavit before us," he said. "We can act on any matter from anyone. We can proceed and we have done that."

Flowers said he felt the commission would take some action next week on the proposed legislation pending in the House.

"I feel like our investigations should be as quiet as possible until there is assurance there is a case," Flowers said. "If the complaints are aired too early, it could negate the influence of a judge who may be totally innocent."

"We want to prevent any instance where the complaint is filed just to harass a judge," Flowers said. "It is a two-way system to protect judges as much as the public."

The constitutional provision creating the commission says it can remove from office or censure any judge, from a justice on the Texas Supreme Court to a local justice of the peace, for deliberate conduct that is "inconsistent with the proper performance of his duties or casts public discredit upon the judiciary or administration of justice."

A "private reprimand" may be issued if the commission does not think it necessary to take the judge into an official court of inquiry.

THE COMMISSION

ALSO can involuntarily retire a judge or remove him from office for any disability that it feels seriously interferes with his duties.

A proposed constitutional change, and a state law change, by Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman, would open up the court of inquiry like any other public trial.

Book says Harris was 'Sleeping Beauty'

NEW YORK (AP) — Jean Harris was a "middle-aged Sleeping Beauty" when she met Herman Tarnower, but her sweet dream of romance soured when she had to tolerate his "lollipop" affairs, says a new book on the woman convicted of killing the Scarsdale Diet doctor.

"If you're really in love with someone, and he finds himself a little lollipop, a little Tootsie Roll, and that's what he wants — what do you say?" Mrs. Harris said. "I thought I was handling it rather elegantly by being cleverly snide ..."

Shana Alexander's "Very Much a Lady" is the third book on Mrs. Harris to appear since the highly publicized 1981 trial but it is the first to have her cooperation.

Ms. Alexander interviewed the woman many times and says they are now friends. Her book, to be published March 30 by Little, Brown and Co., provides new details about Mrs. Harris, now serving 15 years to life in prison for second-degree murder.

The book tells how Mrs. Harris, 59, has adapted to her new home. The mink jacket she wore when she shot her lover is allowed to remain as a rolled-up bed rest in her cell, and she has turned her prison shirts into preppy button-downs by re-sewing the collars and adding pearl buttons.

Peace is new to the former girls' school headmistress. Her 14-year affair with Tarnower was evidently a tortured battle with her own sexual double standards.

But she learned long ago to control her emotions.

As Jean Struven growing up in Ohio, almost anything could make her cry. The only way she found to hold back the tears was to sing a song to herself in her head. She tried folk songs, show tunes, even hymns.

She finally found the perfect song when she saw Rita Hayworth in "Gilda" smiling provocatively and singing "Put the blame on Mame, boys ..."

At her wedding to James Harris, a carburetor salesman, she later divorced, Mrs. Harris sang the lyrics to herself throughout the ceremony. The song became her secret weapon.

"She got so good at it that ... she was able to sing the song in her head and carry on a conversation at the same time," Ms. Alexander says.

The proper, mannered headmistress was 43 when she met Tarnower, a lifelong bachelor she saw as wealthy, sophisticated and a "wonderful snob."

Mrs. Harris said Tarnower — who would make a housecall for a bee sting if the patient was rich enough — once told her, "If you want to own a rich man, save his life and don't send him a bill."

But it was his womanizing, not social climbing, that hurt.

In Tarnower's world of sexual freedom, the old-fashioned Mrs. Harris was a "middle-aged Sleeping Beauty" unable to adjust her values to his, the author says.

Mrs. Harris finally told her lover she would tolerate his infidelities and that he need not worry about her "rather serious case of love" rubbing off on him. "We've pretty much established that it isn't catching anyway," she said bitterly.

Putting on a front was easy for woman with the magic song, and tears never came in public. But she carried on.

"I think there are probably many women who spend their lives crying themselves to sleep and get up and are very jolly and funny the next day," Mrs. Harris said later. "You just don't talk about it."

The author says Mrs. Harris allowed herself to be a mistress to restore the sense of womanhood she lost as a working mother.

As the head of school and family, Mrs. Harris was boss of "every aspect of her life" except love and welcomed Tarnower's domination, the author says.

JEAN HARRIS ... dreams soured

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YOU SEE, GEORGE? HE DOESN'T REALLY LIE AWAKE NIGHTS THINKING OF NEW WAYS TO ANNOY YOU."

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Ah! My bed! My good ol' friendly bed."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, MAR. 2, 1983

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day for you to seek and gain important information which will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Organize your day so you can utilize your time to best advantage and make progress.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study quietly and come to the right decisions where important matters are concerned. Seek an expert if you need advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If invited to a social affair, make sure you don't become involved in an argument. State your goals to a trusted friend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some work connected with your career is annoying but has to be done. Don't jeopardize your credit by not paying a bill.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A new project needs more study before putting it in operation. Do whatever will improve your career.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Talk over money matters with close tie and avoid misunderstanding that now exists. Don't rely on your intuition at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know exactly what is expected of you by associates and consult with them before making personal plans. Be alert.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Quickly handle obligations awaiting your attention. Use a more direct approach with others. Don't neglect health treatments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show in some tangible way that you appreciate the alliance with associates and add to the goodwill you now enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Give attention to those problems at home that require immediate handling. Show that you are a loyal family member.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being alert in motion could prevent an accident. Think before you speak or you could say the wrong thing today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be mindful not to spend money on foolish things today or you could regret it later. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have personal aims that require a proper perspective if you are to attain them. Take steps to improve your appearance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of fantasy and should be given the right training to permit steady advancement in chosen career. Learning comes quickly here. Education should be directed along government lines for best results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Fighting crime costs Houston a helicopter
HOUSTON (AP) — Fighting crime costs plenty — especially if a helicopter is destroyed in the process. The Houston Police Department Helicopter Patrol found that out the hard way Tuesday.

Officer Martin H. Verhagen and his partner were chasing a motorcycleist about 4 p.m. when they lost power to an engine and landed safely in a field where they had seen the suspect fleeing on it, Verhagen said. The man had run several stop signs and then began speeding to avoid arrest, police said.

"Apparently he'd outrun patrol officers," Verhagen said. "Then a patrol unit pulled up and he turned around and ran right toward me." Verhagen and other officers gave chase and arrested the suspect. But their triumph was short lived. Exhaust from the helicopter had set brush on fire, which ignited the $300,000 aircraft and destroyed it.

Verhagen said the helicopter patrol unit is used mostly to aid patrol units in chase. "Generally we don't try to crash them (helicopters) and catch suspects," he said.

Rich kids appeal found money case
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court will decide whether a South Texas teen-ager is entitled to nearly $500,000 he and two friends dug up from a ranch pasture.

Percy A. Garcia of Alice filed an appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday, claiming the money should not have been taken from him and his buddy, James Dean Bridges. The city of Waco, McLennan County, the state of Texas and the Internal Revenue Service all filed opposing pleas, saying they should get the money.

Bridges, Garcia and a third youth, John Rose, dug up the suitcases full of cash on a ranch owned by Bridges' stepfather, James Hirom, in January 1977. Bridges and Garcia tipped Rose $4,000 and set out for Dallas, where they bought false identification cards saying they were of drinking age and went bar-hopping.

They hired a man to buy a Thunderbird for them in Dallas, giving him $1,000 for his trouble, and decided to head for Chicago. But a navigational error sent them south to Waco, where they were stopped for running a red light. Police who stopped the youths figured the Thunderbird was stolen and confiscated the cash.

Garcia is appealing a ruling by U.S. District Judge Fred Shannon of Waco, who decreed that the money, plus about $200,000 in interest, belongs to McLennan County. The county claimed the money under a state law that provides for the disposition of unclaimed or abandoned property.

Shannon's ruling came after the jury decided the boys had, in effect, stolen the money. Hirom, however, said it wasn't his and legally speaking, there was no known owner. Charles Barrera, Garcia's attorney, argued that Shannon's ruling was based on a false premise. He said Garcia and Bridges were entitled to ownership because they were the last people in lawful possession of it.

Waco said it should get the money because city police confiscated the cash, not county deputies. The county asked that Shannon's ruling be upheld. The state said it should get the money after it has lain on bank deposit for seven years.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The County Auditor will receive sealed bids on March 11, 1983 at 10 a.m. in the office of County Auditor, County Courthouse, Big Spring, Texas for one (1) electronic posting machine for the District Clerk. Published Weekly by the Big Spring Herald

BIG SPRING (TEXAS) HERALD, WED., MAR. 2, 1983

Saturday night Mariah won the Capital City Color Guard Competition in Austin by defeating seven other schools for the title.

Friday night the group took first place at the Round Rock Invitational Color Guard Competition.

Mariah's next competition will be Saturday in San Antonio.

The group will host the Texas State Color Guard Association's Texas Championships Saturday, March 26 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

after shots are fired

Police say reports of gun shots led them to arrest three men last night on the 1100 block of Lancaster.

Robert Dutchover Jr., 22, of 1205 Lamar was arrested on suspicion of unlawful carrying of a weapon and theft by appropriation, police say. The arresting officer said in his report that he found a stolen handgun in Dutchover's possession.

The other two men were arrested on suspicion of public intoxication. They were Adam Vela, 22, of 1107 N. Bell and Joey Robles, 25, of 404 N.W. 11th.

Police reports also show the following:

• A 29-year-old Big Spring man was arrested last night after a two-car accident on Goliad street.

Police say they arrested Miguel R. Delgado of 1105 N. Goliad on suspicion of driving while intoxicated after cars driven by him and Marilyn M. Covington of 3704 Boulder collided on the 200 block of Gregg. Delgado also was cited for failure to control speed.

• Danny Austin, 23, of 500 Young was arrested Saturday on burglary, criminal mischief and assault warrants.

• Jesse Diaz Fierro, 30, of 507 Aylford was arrested yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting pork chops from Giant Food Store.

• Albert Gonzales Jr., 20, of 404 N.E. 10th was arrested yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting a 12-pack of Budweiser from the 7-Eleven at 11th and Johnson.

• Police say they arrested Donna Franklin, 27, of 4009 Dixon Sturday night on suspicion of driving while intoxicated.

• A 21-year-old woman told police yesterday that a man she knows assaulted her, bruising her on the face.

• A 30-year-old woman told police a person she knows kicked her several times Saturday night on the head, face, neck, chest and back. The woman said several witnesses refused to help her.

Dear Abby

Surgery

DEAR ABBY: Why don't gynecologists warn their patients that after they've had a hysterectomy they are no longer sexually desirable?

At age 47, I had a total hysterectomy. I had tumors and was told I should have my uterus removed. But had I known then what I know now, I would have put it off as long as possible, or even taken my chances and not had the operation at all!

After my surgery my husband told me that our lovemaking wasn't the same — that I had lost my appeal for him. Then he found someone else.

The same thing happened to a friend of mine. After her hysterectomy, her husband said she didn't "feel" the same, then he took up with a young woman in his office.

Would I be wise to forget about men? I take Premarin and I haven't lost my sex drive. I'm attractive, neat and clean, and people tell me I look about 40. I need a truthful answer, Abby. Would a man ever be sexually satisfied with me now?

REJECTED

DEAR REJECTED: Yes! In a total hysterectomy, the uterus is removed, which in no way diminishes the sexual satisfaction of lovemaking. A man cannot tell whether his partner has a uterus or not. If he claims he can "feel" the difference, he's either looking for an excuse to look elsewhere, or the problem is not in her body, but in his head!

DEAR ABBY: We're expecting our first child, and we are thrilled. My husband is a health nut. He jogs, watches his diet, takes vitamins and gave up smoking.

When "Bob" learned that I was with child, he insisted that I quit smoking. I promised I would and said I had but I've been sneaking cigarettes whenever possible.

Bob caught me and gave me a long lecture. I told him he wasn't my father, then I asked, "What are you going to do the next time you catch me? Give me a spanking?" He said, "That's a good idea."

I thought he was kidding, but last night he caught me smoking again, so he put me across his lap and spanked me with my hairbrush. I cried.

SPANKED IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR SPANKED: Yes, doctors have agreed that a mother's smoking is indeed harmful to the unborn child. And a New Jersey lawyer can tell you whether spanking is grounds for divorce.

***
Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Society faces busy schedule

The 1983 Easter Seal Society board and committees have met monthly and formulated plans to make this year's fund raising a success. The funds will assist handicapped children and adults in Howard County. Carla Relaford, vice president, said.

The board will ask for community outreach and involvement in its fund-raising campaign.

Ron Logback, athletic director of Big Spring High School, has accepted the "Lily Day" campaign. The high school athletes were posted around town Saturday to collect money for the Easter Seals society.

Mrs. Relaford will organize participation in the Rattlesnake Round-up March 26 and 27. Sharon Andrews will organize and implement a scheduled "hold-up" involving youth organizations throughout the county April 9.

James Dunne is in charge of a community Mexican dinner in May.

The board plans a county-wide Easter Egg Hunt from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. April 2 on the Veterans Administration Medical Center grounds.

Lions discuss Rainbow Project

Child abuse has reached epidemic proportions in the United States and Big Spring has its share of it, the Rev. Victor Sedinger, First Christian Church, told members of the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

He told the group of plans by the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship to sponsor a child abuse shelter — the Rainbow Project. It is located in the former Firehouse 6 near the old Webb Air Force Base entrance. He said numerous individuals and firms have donated work and materials toward rehabilitating the structure leased from the city.

present only the most urgent cases can be cared for by referral to Odessa. There will be dormitory space for boys and girls, for infants, plus those for parents in residence, living and lounge quarters, etc.

He said in the future it is hoped to add counseling services and parenting workshops.

He told the group that at the current rate it may not be many years before child abuse passes cancer and congenital defects as the leading killer of children. He cited cases of neglect and abuse as well as deaths resulting from abuse.

Many individuals, institutions and churches have rallied to the support of the Rainbow Project, he said, but it will take a tremendous outpouring to raise the $60,000 budget. "Some say that may not be enough," he added.

Several churches have included or will include it in their budgets. Some have taken special offerings and others will have a special Sunday to focus attention on the need.

Baby's birth reported

William and Danetta Gressett, Sterling City, announce the birth of a son, William Mark, at 6:58 p.m. Feb. 4 in Malone Hogan Hospital.

The infant weighed 7 pounds, 14 3/4 ounces at birth and was 19 1/2 inches long.

Maternal grandparents are Marck and Dana Schafer, Garden City. Paternal grandparents are William K. and Mary Gressett, Forsan.

Maternal great-grandparents are Gen. Schafer, Big Spring, and Tommy and Evelyn Horton, Ackerly. Paternal great-grandmother is Esther Cathcart, Forsan.

Dr. Donohue
Thyroiditis

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Can you tell me the different causes for thyroiditis? Can it come from a virus infection? Is a bacterial infection a common cause? I have had thyroiditis for a year now. Is it considered chronic after that time? I get a sore throat after eating some foods, and feel pressure in my neck. I am confused by the various kinds of thyroiditis spoken of. Can you enlighten me? — E.R.

This is for you and also for G.K., who writes in much the same vein. It can be confusing.

Briefly, there are four different inflammatory conditions of the thyroid gland — thyroiditis. I'd like to more or less limit this discussion to the two most common types. One is de Quervain's thyroiditis, which is thought to result from a viral infection. It usually occurs after a cold or viral sore throat. The person becomes sluggish, and there is persistent pain in the lower neck or along the jaw and ear area. The lower neck is tender to the touch. Of course, this is the area where the gland is located.

The rest of the story follows the lines of many other viral infections. Aspirin, when it can be used, is the standard treatment, and the inflammation eventually subsides as the virus runs its course.

The second most common form of thyroiditis is Hashimoto's. That is a chronic process that can last many months. The cause of it is the body's production of antibodies against the thyroid tissue. This most often affects middle-aged women. A goiter appears, and eventually there is lessening or complete interruption of thyroid hormone production in the gland. Thyroid hormone medicine is given.

The third and fourth kinds of thyroiditis are not very common. One is from a bacterial infection, and that is treated with antibiotics. The other is Riedel's thyroiditis, and it leads to dense scarring of gland tissue.

I can sympathize with your swallowing discomfort that indicates the inflammation is still there. But with your medicines, that should subside in time. Yes, one year is long enough to place you, E.R., in the chronic category.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband's problem has been diagnosed as Peyronie's disease. What do you know of this? And are there any recent findings or new help for this situation. Don't use my real initials, please! — Mrs. R.R.

There are your new initials. Peyronie's disease is the deposition of tough flat scar tissue within the body of the penis. The deposits cause an abnormal curvature. When the process is extreme, there can be pain upon intercourse.

The cause is yet unknown, but the disease usually runs a two- or three-year course, resulting in minimal curvature and resumption of ability to have sexual relations. Many treatments have been tried to stop the process, and I know of no really new ones. Vitamin E, anti-inflammatory drugs, mpolaba, steroids and ultrasound have all been suggested and tried. In severe cases, surgical procedures have been used to remove the scar deposits.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important and misunderstood gland. To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Mr., Mrs. Martinez announce birth of son

Mr. and Mrs. Israel Martinez Sr., 1209 Utah, announce the birth of a son, Jesse Hernandez, at 10:06 a.m. Feb. 17, in Malone Hogan Hospital.

The infant weighed 5 pounds, 13 3/4 ounces at birth and was 19 inches long.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arnulfo F. Hernandez Jr., 410 N.W. 5th. Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Dolores G. Gonzales, 1209 Utah, and Federico Martinez Jr., Gail Route.

Maternal great-grandparents are Arnulfo M. Hernandez Sr., 508 N.W. 5th, the late Mrs. Victoria F. Hernandez and the late Mrs. Julia Gamboa. Paternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nieves Garcia Sr., Garden City, and Mr. and Mrs. Federico Martinez Sr., Lamesa.

1982 champs head BSHS golf field

Window Shopper, Big Spring Tx, March 2, 1983

Fourteen teams, including defending champion Lamesa, will tee-off Tuesday morning in the annual Big Spring High School Boys Invitational golf tournament.

The first 18 holes are scheduled for Comanche Trails with Wednesday's final round to be played at the Big Spring Country Club.

Joining Lamesa and host Big Spring High will be Midland High, Midland Lee, Odessa High, Permian, San Angelo Central, Seminole, Slaton, Stanton and Snyder. BSHS, Lamesa and Stanton will be represented by two teams in the two-day tournament.

The Golden Tornadoes, state champs in 1981 and district runners-up last spring, fired a 36-hole score of 647 to win last year's event. Lee was second with Permian and Abilene High tied for third. Big Spring finished in a fifth place tie with Slaton, each school firing a 681.

The Steers have never finished among the top three teams in the seven-year history of the tournament.

Returning for the Tornadoes this spring are senior lettermen Wesley Bruce and Clay Everheart. Moving up to the varsity are Charles Kirkland, Wes Addison and Scott Walters. Lamesa finished ninth at the Odessa Invitational — the only AAAA team among the 21-team field, seventh among 14 teams in Lubbock and second in the 14-team Fort Stockton tournament this past weekend.

Albert Pettus
in council race

A fifth candidate in the race for city council was inadvertently omitted from Sunday's paper. Albert C. Pettus will vie with four other candidates for one of two places open for the April 2 at-large election.

Pettus, owner of Pettus Pure Water Co., has lived in Big Spring 50 years and operated Pettus Electric for 25 years before he opened the water company. Wednesday is the deadline to file for candidacy in the City Secretary's office at City Hall. Council members are required to be at least 18 years old and have lived here for two years.

Deaths

C.E. Gardner
DENTON — C.E. (Gene) Gardner, 71, of Argyle, Texas, and formerly of Big Spring died Sunday in Fort Worth. Services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Jack Schmitz and Son Funeral Chapel in Denton with burial in the IOOF Cemetery.

He was born Sept. 11, 1911 in Ti, Okla. He had been a teacher in Big Spring. He was a Presbyterian, a member of Masonic Lodge #217 and a member of the High BEW, an organization of electrical workers.

Survivors include his wife, Viola Scott Gardner of Argyle; one son, Donald Patrick Gardner of Argyle; one daughter, Jan Boudreaux of Dallas; two brothers, F. Lee Gardner of Wilberton, Okla., and Robert M. Gardner of Big Spring; one sister, Winona Thompson of Denton; and five grandchildren.

Sidney Mellinger

TAMPA, Fla. — Sidney Mellinger, 63, a former resident of Big Spring, died last week at his home here. He was for many years the manager of Mellinger's, a men's and boy's store in downtown Big Spring owned by his father, Victor Mellinger.

Survivors include his wife, Helen; a brother, Sam Mellinger of Fort Worth; and two sisters, Ruth and Janice.

Homer Franklin

Homer T. Franklin, 78, died at 3:07 a.m. Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness. Services are pending with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Rister Photography captures memories

Photographers can supply you with beautiful memories of your most beautiful moments.

It's a job Rister Photography, 302 E. 9th, can handle very well. Owned and managed by Mr. and Mrs. Randy Rister, Rister Photography brings 11 years experience with them. They specialize in weddings and portraits; this includes invitations, engagements and candid wedding photos.

But they are more than that. Rister's offers complete photographic services. This includes commercial photos, post cards, business cards and brochures.

Rister is a member of the Texas Professional Photographers Association and Wedding Photographers of America. He has worked for Morgan Photography in Odessa, the Southwest's most prominent studio, for two years, and Alton's Photography, a commercial studio also in Odessa.

He and his wife have operated Rister Photography in Big Spring for 20 months.

"We are constantly looking for ways to upgrade our technique," he said. "We want to offer as complete and professional a service as we can."

To do this, the Risters will be attending the Southwest Photographers Convention in Dallas from Feb. 26-March 1. They will also attend a seminar on senior photography March 13 and 14.

"It's a 'Mom and Pop' studio," Rister said. They have the experience to take beautiful pictures of your treasured moments, either in the studio or in the home or outdoors.

Call Rister today. Their number is 263-0734.

The hours of business are 8:30-5:30, Tuesday through Friday, and 9:30 to 2:30 on Saturday.

Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia 1983 EDITION Volume 1 only 9¢

Volumes 2-29 only $3.99 each

If you've been wanting a good encyclopedia, but figured you would have to spend hundreds of dollars for it, we've got a surprise for you... Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia.

This week we're offering Volume 1 at the incredibly low price of 9¢! Which is our way of introducing you to an encyclopedia that contains over 9,000,000 words in 25,000 articles; more than 7,500 illustrations, many of them in full color. In addition, you'll find over 300 maps, plus up-to-date census revisions for U.S. and Canada and other nations.

You can complete your set as you shop each week. In no time at all, you'll have what you've always wanted: an encyclopedia set that contains a wealth of information. But hasn't cost a fortune.

FREE 2-Volume Matching DICTIONARY

In the shadow of '80 John'

Hetty Wallace keeps ranch, legend alive

By CAROL DANIEL
Staff Writer

Over 100 years ago — back in 1875 — Daniel Webster Wallace escaped the cotton fields of South Texas and began the legend of "80 John," the black cowboy who became a pioneer rancher in Mitchell County.

Years passed — over a century — filled with trail rides, Indian fights, scrimping and saving to establish a profitable 12½-section ranch near the sleepy town of Loraine.

Wallace is gone now, as is most of his family, but the ranch and the legend live on. Forty years after his death, the ranch Wallace sweated for remains, cared for by his 84-year-old daughter, Hetty, and her 86-year-old husband, Travis Branch.

Tended by the aging couple, the ranch doesn't quite live up to its past glory. Where once there were 600 head of prize Hereford cattle, now there are 52, plus Hetty's 15 mother cows. Some of the land is now leased to grow cotton, the crop which drove Wallace from Victoria County.

But the integrity and hard work that history books say made Wallace the trusted friend of many West Texas ranchers were instilled in his children and have, through them, helped others achieve their goals.

Hundreds of Mitchell County children were educated by Hetty and her two sisters because Wallace insisted that his daughters go to college. He also established a school — the D. W. Wallace School for Negro Children — in which his daughters taught.

Although Wallace never finished grade school, he learned that an education is a valuable tool in ranching. When he was 25 years old he returned to the second grade to learn math.

There he met Laura, who had just graduated from high school. Instead of becoming a teacher, Laura married Wallace and became a pioneer woman. She bore them a son and three daughters.

Hetty graduated from Wiley College and then in 1957 received her masters degree in education from the University of Colorado. She also studied social sciences and art at the University of Chicago and the University of Southern California.

Three killed, 2 hurt

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — An early morning shootout that left three men dead and two wounded at a poker game still puzzles police, who said today they are still looking for other players in the high stakes game.

Odessa Police Detective Jerry Smith said the card-players began shooting at each other at about 3 a.m. Sunday at the La Cosita Apartments on the west side of this West Texas city.

"Right now it doesn't make much sense except that we got three people dead over a poker game," said Lt. Rusty Baker. "It's all still very confusing. Sometimes it doesn't take much to cause a shooting."

Smith said police would be trying to piece together more details, including how many guns were involved, when the investigation continued today.

One of the men who was killed was shot once at the game, then ran out of the apartment, apparently pursuing someone, Baker said.

"He went to a nearby house and broke in," Baker said. "We don't know why he picked this particular house, because the people there did n't have anything to do with the game. He just broke down the door at 3-something in the morning, said he was looking for so-and-so and started threatening the lady of the house. "Her husband shot him."

Baker said officers did not yet know how much money was involved in the game, and he was reticent about how much — if any — was found in apartment, saying only officers "probably" found some there.

"There was more than just the five players involved," Baker said. "How many more, I don't know. And there may be one woman involved."

Baker said that police believed several of the people at the game were from out of town.

One dead man found in the apartment was identified as Robert Ntley, either 39 or 40 years old, of Odessa, said police Lt. Rusty Baker. One victim has not yet been identified and the identity of the third is being withheld pending notification of next of kin, Baker said.

Veterans' Outreach rep appointed by Mauro

LORENZO M. SEDENO... veterans' representative

Lorenzo M. Sedeno of Lubbock has been appointed by Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro as area representative for the Veterans Outreach Program in the Panhandle region, which includes the Big Spring-Howard County area.

Sedeno and four other field representatives will visit every county in Texas to establish contact with veterans' groups and their representatives. The object of the statewide drive is to acquaint Texas veterans with the benefits of the land loan program and assist them with problems and questions concerning the loan process.

"For all the success this program has had in the past, it has to be upgraded and updated to meet the current needs of our Texas veterans," said Mauro. "I'm concerned about each and every veteran in this state, especially Vietnam veterans, and I'm concerned about prompt service. This program is going to run like a business and it will be manned by trained professionals both in the central office and out in the field."

Nearly 80,000 veterans have participated in the Veteran's Land Program since it was authorized by the people of Texas in 1946. The loan program operates at no cost to the taxpayers and actually returns money from proceeds. Long term, low interest loans of up to $20,000 can be obtained for a minimum purchase of 10 acres.

Sedeno plans to be in the Howard County Courthouse every two months to answer questions about the program from Howard County residents. He said Texas National Guard members are also to participate in the program.

Howard County has some 5,820 eligible veterans. Lorenzo said, but the area has traditionally been one of low participation in the program.

Sedeno is a native Texan from San Angelo. For three years he was administrative aide to Congressman Kent Hance. In that position he was in charge of veterans affairs and social programs among other responsibilities. Previously he was self-employed as a life insurance underwriter for 14 years.

"I am happy to have person of Lorenzo's experience representing the Veterans Land Program," said Mauro.
