White proposes $3 million budget for SWCID

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
Gov. Mark White today recommended a $3 million two-year appropriation to keep the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf in operation.

Originally, the school requested $11 million. Former Gov. William Clements' budget included no money for the deaf school and the Legislative Budget Board proposed $2 million, far below the minimum $7 million appropriation school officials say is needed to keep the school's doors open.

Howard College would receive $4.1 million under White's plan, $6.1 million under the LBB proposal, and $4.23 million under Clements' budget package.

Texas lawmakers now have in hand the three spending proposals, one each from White, Clements and the LBB.

Legislative efforts to save the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf began Tuesday with the president of the Howard County Junior College District warning budget planners the school will close unless the state chips in $7 million.

Dr. Charles Hays told a House Higher Education Committee budget and oversight panel that the school needs a total appropriation of $7 million, not just the $2 million recommended by the Legislative Budget Board for the state's 1984-85 fiscal year, to stay in operation.

The subcommittee did not act on the request. Its spending recommendations for all state universities and junior colleges will be voted on later this month. Later in the legislative session those recommendations will wind up before the House Appropriations Committee.

Hays and other Howard County Junior College District officials are scheduled to plead the case for an increased deaf school appropriation before the Senate Finance Committee Wednesday.

The Legislative Budget Board's 1984-85 state biennium is $1 million less than the school's current two-year budget of $3 million.

The junior college district, which currently subsidizes the school, will close the operation without the total $7 million appropriation because "we could not offer a quality program," Hays said, adding, "our junior college district has never thought we had the money to fund such a program."

Taxpayers in the junior college district, he said, already have funded subsidies to the school of about $1.6 million since its inception in 1980. That, Hays said, isn't fair to district taxpayers because the school serves students from across Texas.

Hays said state funding for the deaf school would not be nearly as expensive as maintaining the students on the state welfare roll. The difference, he said, boils down to $33,000 for three years at the school versus a lifetime cost of a welfare recipient of about $500,000.

"Educating the handicapped is an expensive business, but it's also expensive if you don't," Hays said.

Of the $7 million, he said, $4.4 million would go for operating costs and $2.6 million for renovation and construction projects, including a new occupation center to help enhance the school's vocation training program.

Currently there are 107 students

Budget reveals some surprises

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White today proposed a $32.9 billion two-year budget including a 24 percent teacher pay hike, a relatively lean appropriation for state prisons and $125 million in construction money for some state colleges.

White's budget message to legislators called for "revenue-stretching" proposals aimed at avoiding increased state taxes. Comptroller Bob Bullock on Tuesday told lawmakers they would have $867.1 million less to spend than he had previously predicted.

"I propose only that which I consider essential," White told the Legislature. "I propose only that which I am willing to fight to achieve."

The proposed "alternatives" to meet the state's financial crunch include: the issuance of state bonds to finance highway construction; increased fees for some state services; and increased "luxury taxes."

White suggested the issuance of state bonds as a revenue-stretcher that could free up to $700 million of general revenue which otherwise might be needed for highway construction.

"A highway bond program would enable us to balance the budget according to the initial estimates of available revenue," he said.

The governor said an additional tax of any kind "is never an inviting prospect."

"But we must face the reality of our fiscal condition. Texas no longer is recession-proof," he said.

If a tax hike is needed, it should be placed on "luxuries which people choose to consume and not on necessities which people need to survive," White said.

The governor said he would "suggest for your consideration" an increase in taxes on tobacco, liquor and amusement machines. He said those tax hikes might be necessary if Bullock again lowers the revenue estimate.

The Texas Constitution forbids lawmakers from spending more than the comptroller's estimates the state will take in.

Here are highlights of White's budget package:

— An "immediate catch-up pay raise" of at least 24 percent for all public schoolteachers. An increase in starting teacher salaries from the current $11,000 to $14,500 this year and to $15,000 in 1984.

— Approximately $170 million in "equalization" aid for poor school districts.

— About $28 million for bilingual education programs.

— A state prison budget of about $664 million, approximately $133 million less than the amount recommended by the Legislative Budget Board and way below the $1.5 billion sought by prison officials. White said he favors the issuance of 20-year bonds to pay for prison construction. He also wants more parole and probation officers.

White said he favors the construction "less costly dorm-style prison units" at the overcrowded state penitentiaries.

— Five million dollars for a pilot program of community-based restitution centers.

His proposal for increased Aid to Families with Dependent Children would raise the average payment from $36 per month per child to $53.

In a letter to legislators, Bullock said Tuesday that "turmoil in the world oil price" forced him to drop his revenue estimate. The Texas Constitution

Gilstrap pleads firemen's case before council

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

Howard County resident Cecil Gilstrap appeared before the Big Spring City Council last night claiming he represented 25 firemen who say they had their civil rights violated by questioning in the police investigation of a fire department employee.

About 35 persons crowded into the council meeting room, including members of the chamber of commerce and relatives of city firemen.

"These men (firemen) have been subjected to Gestapo-type tactics," Gilstrap said. "They have had their jobs held over their heads, they have been grilled like criminals, and have been told they can make voluntary statements, 'but we'll fire you.'"

Several firemen have been questioned by Big Spring police about alleged criminal activities concerning one fireman. City Manager Don Davis, who requested police question the firemen, said last night that results of the investigation would be made public Thursday morning.

"This council is in jeopardy," Gilstrap said. "You cannot force people to give a statement. It violates every civil rights law and can be a criminal offense."

Gilstrap said he had notified the FBI and federal court officials in Fort Worth about the investigation.

"Now either Mr. Davis should resign and the council should take back this city and run it, or we'll take it to the courthouse," he said. "You better get a bunch of lawyers."

"I don't believe you gentlemen (the city council) are involved in this," he said. "This is one of Mr. Davis' ordeals."

Gilstrap asked the councilmen if they knew about the investigation procedures and what they intended to do.

"I'm not under question," Councilman Jack Y. Smith told Mayor Clyde Angel. "That's out of order."

"Mr. Gilstrap," Angel said, "this matter is under investigation and since it is not an item on the agenda, the council will take no action."

Gilstrap had been scheduled to appear before the council to discuss a proposed ordinance which would regulate subdivision development within five miles of the city limits.

He handed the councilmen a copy of Vernon's Statute, a 1963 law which says that cities with populations of 25,000 or less have a one-mile jurisdiction outside city limits.

The council listened to Gilstrap, but refused to act on the ordinance.

"This matter has been tabled by the council," Angel said. "We are awaiting an attorney general's opinion and we will not act on it until then."

The council tabled a decision on See Gilstrap, page 2A

E.T. MEETS COTTON-EYED JOE — Marcy Annex Elementary, to mark Texas Public Schools Week, sponsored a play yesterday featuring E.T. learning about Texas history, legends and culture. E.T. is shown being treated to the "Cotton-Eyed Joe" dance. Over 100 Marcy Annex fifth graders participated in the event.

E.T. visits Big Spring

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

The sequel to Steven Spielberg's monumental blockbuster movie, "E.T.," appeared yesterday at the Marcy Annex Elementary School.

Yes, "E.T. in Texas" premiered right here in Big Spring as the school's fifth graders put on a show about the Lone Star State for the pint-sized extraterrestrial.

E.T. was the featured guest of the school in honor of Texas Public Schools Week slated March 7-14.

The adorable alien was treated to large doses of down-home hospitality as the students carefully explained to the inquisitive creature the history, culture and legends of Texas.

He seemed to feel right at home as pictures of the horned toad, armadillo and javelina were shown to him. And he was given his first glimpses of the tumbleweed and the bluebonnet.

E.T. even took to wearing a cowboy hat as the students danced lively versions of the "Cotton-eyed Joe" and the "Mexican Hat Dance."

E.T.'s ears, wherever they may be located, also heard such Texas classics as "Texas Our Texas" and "Deep In The Heart Of Texas."

The show was so convincing it moved E.T. to proclaim the state as his new home.

Over 100 fifth graders participated in the show that included 26 narrators and 20 dancers. Beth Tevis, teacher at the Annex, wrote and coordinated the show.

Dangerous curb gets 'jiggle bars'

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council last night voted to place traffic control devices called "jiggle bars" before a curve at the intersection of Cedar Drive and Canyon Drive.

However, they also requested a study of the problem confronting a resident who says cars keep missing the curve in question and running onto his property.

According to a report submitted by Public Works Director Tom Decell, there has been a "long standing problem" at the intersection because of drivers losing control of their cars and breaking through a barrier fence on the property of Vernon Baird at 109 Canyon.

Baird appeared before the council last night, saying that the jiggle bars — inch-high bumps designed to "alert" drivers and warn them of the curve — would not solve the problem.

"These jiggle bars won't slow down a drunk a bit," he said.

Baird said the fence — made of half-inch steel cables — had been knocked down seven times. "I've had police officers tell me they wouldn't sleep in my house for no money," he said.

According to City Manager Don Davis, a guard rail and speed bumps were ruled out because of "liability problems."

In other matters, the council:

- Passed on first reading an ordinance accepting the work of Price Construction Co. for improving Wasson Road from FM 700 to the intersection of Randolph Blvd. and Wasson Drive.

Councilmen said they wanted to make sure they were protected on repair work still to be done according to the contract on the work.

- Approved a new fee structure and hours of operation for the Comanche Trail Park swimming pool. New rates will be $1 for children and $2 for adults. That is an increase from the 1982 rates of 50 cents for children and $1 adults.

The pool's morning hours have been cancelled due to lack of participation, Decell said.

Montford leaks state water plan

By LE KILLGORE
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - While most members of the Texas Legislature have been left to predict no water plan will be issued this year, a small, select group of state officials has devised a major state water resources program to be announced shortly.

State Sen. John Montford of Lubbock, vice chairman of the the Senate Natural Resources Committee's water subcommittee, said the plan "will address statewide water resources needs, including bond guarantees, conservation, flood control, agriculture, bays and estuaries and major reservoir development."

Both constitutional amendments and enabling legislation will be included in the massive package which has been, until Wednesday, "the best kept secret in town," Montford said.

The reason the work was done quietly, he said, was that several groups had spent the months intervening between the 1981 Legislative session and the present session researching, studying and designing various water plans, "while our objective was to get everything under one umbrella."

"We wanted to get an organized water resources plan - no, not simply a plan, a program - an organized program for the '80s," he said.

The needs of each and every section of the state were considered and will be a part of the program, he said. The program's designers met late Tuesday afternoon with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, "and the program will have his support," Montford said.

Among the half-dozen people meeting with Hobby in addition to Montford were State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower and State Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

"I am not free to discuss details of the plan as yet," Montford said "because we have not completed our work, but I can tell you that you will see this program come in within the next few weeks."

SCHOOL BUS CRASH - An 18-wheel truck and a school bus collided early today in Southeast Houston, killing one student and injuring at least six others. A enrolled in the school. Also appearing in support of the increased appropriation was state Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring.

Shaw said after the meeting he will file legislation later this week designed to curtail the school's reliance on Howard County Junior College District taxpayers if enough money is approved by the Legislature to keep the school open.

That proposal, he said, would allow deaf school administrators to spend state appropriations on all of the school's operations.

By law, the deaf school is limited to parceling out state money for faculty and operations, but is restricted from spending money on maintenance, student services, food service staff and dormitory personnel.

That monetary obligation currently falls on district taxpayers.

Shaw's proposal would make the school "a comprehensive state-supported junior college" not dependent on Howard County Junior College District support.

the ordinance at its meeting on Feb. 8. When asked about the statute, City Attorney Doyle Curtis said other statutes had been passed since 1963 which suggest that cities under 25,000 have a five-mile jurisdiction outside the city limits.

"That's one reason we are waiting for an attorney general's opinion," Curtis said.

Budget

says lawmakers can't spend more than the revenue estimate calculated by the comptroller.

"Unfortunately, the outlook has worsened," Bullock said in his letter. A $1 drop in the price of a barrel of oil costs the state $40 million in annual revenue, according to Bullock.

Bullock's January estimate, which lopped $1.5 billion off his September prediction, was based on $31.85-a-barrel oil next year, rising to $33.81 in 1985. The new forecast is based on $28.24-a-barrel oil in 1984, and $29.61 in 1985.

"If the price falls below these levels and stays there, we will revise this estimate again," said Bullock.

Police Beat

Police investigating bad checks

Police are warning area merchants to be aware of a black male who may be passing forged checks in the name of Dennie E. Bowerman.

Since Monday police have received four reports of bad checks written on the account which is closed at First National Bank.

Yesterday, police heard from Marigold Milk at 501 E. Second, Big Mike's Farm Store on the Snyder Highway and Safeway at 1300 S. Gregg reporting that they had received bad checks on the account. The other report came Monday from Newsom's grocery.

So far the suspect has passed checks totaling $122.92, according to police reports.

- Police said the Gregg Street Laundry at 1703 Gregg was burglarized last night with thieves taking $3 in quarters.
- Maile Morphis of 1307 Harding told police that at 9:25 a. m. yesterday a subject known to her struck her and her daughter.
- Kay Markham of 2201 Main said someone stole $50 from her purse at Hillcrest Christian School at 2000 FM 700 between 7:30 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. Tuesday.
- Police said Peggy J. Kiser of 1405 1/2 Settles lost control of the vehicle she was driving and struck a pole in the 1400 block of Runnels at 2:21 a. m. today. Reports show she was ticketed for failure to maintain financial responsibility.
- Police said vehicles driven by James P. Stewart of 1402 Princeton and Loney L. Daylong of 810 E. 13th collided yesterday at 8:18 a. m. in the 500 block of Washington. Stewart was ticketed for failure to yield right of way, police said.

Three released on bond

Michael Ray Hinklin, 20, of 1-20 Trailer Court #16, was released on $10,000 bond after being arraigned before Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin on the charge of theft by check.

- Alford Ray Miers, 21, of 704 Creighton was released on $1,000 bond after being charged before Peace Justice Bobby West for theft over $5 but under $20.
- Roy Lee Pierce, 22, of Route 1, was released on $3,500 bond after being arraigned before Heflin on charges of simple assault and disorderly conduct.
- Raymond Puga Nunez, 33, no address available, pleaded guilty in 118th District Court yesterday on charges of probation violations for burglary of a motor vehicle and was sentenced to three years in the Texas Department of Corrections, sheriff's records show.

CHAMBER ARTIST OF THE MONTH - Mrs. Arlys Scott poses with some of her paintings recently displayed at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Scott was chosen as artist of the chamber's program that spotlights a local artist by hanging his or her works in the chamber offices for one month.

C-City doctors rip payment plan

COLORADO CITY (SC) - Four doctors at Root Memorial Hospital asked the facility's board of directors last night to compensate them for emergency room services on a per patient basis.

Dr. Pat Thomas, speaking for himself and for physicians George Lindsey, Tommy Noonan and Bill Jones, said the emergency room is being used largely as an out-patient clinic by persons who fail to pay the doctors. Thomas called the practice by patients "unfair, premeditated and preplanned."

"All we have to sell as doctors is our time," Thomas said.

Lindsey said other hospitals have adopted plans of paying physicians on a per hour basis, but the local doctors say they would like to work out a financial arrangement on a per patient basis.

Board President Bob Reily said, "We're a county hospital chartered to take care of Mitchell County citizens." However, several board members said they feared a board decision to pay the doctors would increase the number of indigent patients.

The board instructed hospital Administrator Ray Dillard to compile additional information prior to meeting again with the physicians.

Drivers escape injury in spectacular crash

COLORADO CITY (SC) - A spectacular two-vehicle crash yesterday afternoon on the Interstate Highway 20 bridge resulted in no serious injuries when an 18-wheel truck and an automobile collided.

The truck flipped over on its side with the cab coming to rest hanging over the bridge toward the Colorado River.

Trucker Russell Moyer of Gilbert, S.C., managed to climb from the cab to safety with the help of several construction workers on the scene. Moyer suffered only a cut on his hand.

The unidentified driver of the automobile, a resident of Artesia, N.M., was not injured, although his vehicle was extensively damaged.

The volunteer fire department hosed down the truck cab and extinguished a small fire. Interstate traffic was detoured for several hours through the downtown area.

Odessan electrocuted working on oil lease

An Odessa man was electrocuted to death yesterday as he worked on a 2,300-volt motor control box on a oil lease three miles south of Big Spring on Interstate 20.

Terry (Buddy) Gallas, 23, an employee of Dixie Electric in Odessa, was pronounced dead at 5:40 p. m. by Peace Justice Lewis Heflin after Gallas had been brought to Malone Hogan Hospital from the site.

A spokesman for the company said Gallas had been working on an electrical motor that controls pipeline flow on the lease when he was electrocuted. The oilfield electrical company was doing contract work for the Mobil Oil Co., the spokesman said.

Deadline nearing for PIK tax compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional negotiators, facing a Friday deadline, are trying to resolve differences between House and Senate bills guaranteeing farmers they won't be unfairly taxed if they agree to swap idled land for free surplus crops.

"This legislation is of the utmost importance to the financial survival of America's 2.4 million farm families," said Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, a primary sponsor of the Senate version.

Farm leaders, both in and out of government, have been pressing for enactment of the bill by Friday, the deadline for farmers to decide whether to participate in President Reagan's payment-in-kind, or PIK, program.

The program is designed to deplete the burgeoning U.S. grain stockpile.

Rep. John Duncan, R-Tenn., said that without tax guarantees, "Farmers will not enter this program, which is a vital part of our agricultural policy."

Both the House and Senate responded to those pleas on Tuesday, passing their own versions of the administration-backed legislation voiding a February Internal Revenue Service ruling that would have forced many producers to pay significantly more federal taxes than usual if they agreed to Reagan's plan.

The only negative vote was that of Rep. Glenn Anderson, D-Calif., who said it was "too much of a Mickey Mouse arrangement — the whole thing."

But differences between the two versions, many of them minor, must be resolved and the compromise re-passed by both houses before the bill can be sent to the president for his signature. Congressional leaders hoped that could be accomplished by Thursday at the latest.

"Farmers may not enter the program and some who are in may come out of the program unless Congress acts quickly," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said.

Administration officials hope PIK and other land-planting schemes can take as much as 30 million acres out of production this year, reducing current supplies so stockpiles can be tapped, market prices increased and federal price support costs reduced.

But, said Agriculture Secretary John Block, "There are still many producers that are waiting for the last week to make a decision, and those producers can have an important bearing on the final outcome of this program."

Initial reports show farmers embracing the PIK program with plans for major production cutbacks this year. Those preliminary indications have also driven up market prices for commodities covered by PIK.

Farmers who already idle 20 percent of their land this year in return for cash and continued price support protection can leave another 10 percent to 30 percent unplanted under PIK.

In exchange for the additional idled acres, they receive free from the government surplus crops equal to 80 percent to 95 percent of what they normally would harvest.

But the IRS ruling would have required farmers participating in PIK to pay federal income taxes on their in-kind grain payments at the time they receive them, not when they sell the grain and receive income.

The legislation makes PIK grain liable for taxes at the time it's sold, just like grain actually produced by farmers. The issue is critical to farmers since recent depressed market conditions are prompting many to hold grain for months and even years in the hope that prices will improve.

The legislation also ensures farmers participating in PIK continued eligibility for special estate tax status and treatment and preserves the tax-exempt status of farm cooperatives with members in the PIK program.

OPEC chiefs nearing agreement

LONDON (AP) — Saudi oil minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani said today that OPEC oil chiefs would "most probably" reach agreement on prices by Thursday.

Hours earlier Iran, in its first gesture of compromise, said it would cut its oil production target by nearly one-third if the cartel abandons plans to reduce its base price of $34 a barrel.

"Our position is for fixation of the $34 price, stabilization of the market, and we would cut our (production) by 1 million barrels per day," said deputy Iranian oil minister Abbas Honardoost.

OPEC has been under intense pressure to cut its base price of $34 a barrel because the world recession has sharply reduced sales and led to an oil glut. The London meetings are aimed at heading off a worldwide price war.

After the 13 OPEC oil ministers broke for lunch, Yamani told reporters: "I think we will reach an agreement no matter what you hear. That's my feeling. I'm not just dreaming. I am telling you my assessment of the situation."

"There are so many problems, but we are solving them," he said. "Most probably, either tonight of tomorrow, we will reach an agreement on prices."

He declined to say what the new OPEC benchmark price might be.

Asked if a parallel agreement on output quotas was a necessary element in any package coming from the London talks, Yamani said: "Yes, we have to (agree production)."

He said Saudi Arabia was producing "well below 4 million barrels a day" and Iran was pushing for lower Saudi output.

Indonesian minister Dr. Subroto said after the morning session, "We're making progress." He hoped an evening meeting scheduled for 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST) would be the last.

Honardoost announced the new Iranian position at the start of the day's talks among ministers of the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries at London's Intercontinental Hotel.

Iran, which has been undercutting the OPEC base price by $8 per barrel and flouting production quotas, has been the major obstacle to a uniform price and production agreement by the cartel.

Without an agreement this week, said Venezuelan oil chief Humberto Calderon Berti, prices might collapse to as low as $25 a barrel within two months.

United Arab Emirates oil chief Mana Saeed Oteiba emerged from a 90-minute meeting of the OPEC ministers Tuesday night rating the odds of success at no better than 50-50 — the same assessment he came up with last week when the talks began here.

In his country, newspapers expressed doubt that any market-sharing agreement would survive conflicts of interest within the cartel.

The leading newspaper Al-Khaleej said the OPEC ministers were "quarreling" over distribution of daily production quotas totalling 17.5 million barrels, although the cartel's actual output has fallen below 14 million barrels daily.

The pro-government daily Al-Wihda said any OPEC agreement on pricing "will not survive long." It called the entire approach taken in London "ill-suited" to resolving the market crisis, which it said could be remedied only through "curtailing production to the threshold of daily needs, despite any resultant stagnation."

Calderon Berti said a majority of the cartel favored a cut in the official OPEC benchmark to a new price of between $28.50 and $30 a barrel.

Nuclear freeze faces close vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. is predicting a "very, very close" vote next week on a nuclear weapons freeze resolution, even though a key panel approved the measure overwhelmingly.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee endorsed a freeze resolution 27-9 Tuesday as opponents and supporters rallied in gray, drizzling weather outside the Capitol.

Meanwhile in Orlando, Fla., President Reagan urged evangelical leaders to speak out against backers of the freeze and "those who would place the United States in a position of military and moral inferiority."

At a Capitol Hill rally, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, predicted, "The American people will have repudiated the freeze-niks" by the 1984 elections.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., on the other hand, said it is "voodoo arms control" for the administration to argue that an arms buildup is needed as a prelude to a meaningful agreement to curb nuclear missiles.

Capitol Police estimated that between 4,000 and 5,000 people heard Kenedy and others at the pro-freeze rally, and between 600 and 700 freeze opponents attended the Falwell counter-demonstration.

Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., a leading supporter of a freeze, said he expected the resolution to be approved when it comes to a vote in the House, possibly next Tuesday.

O'Neill, D-Mass., made the "very, very close" assessment in a meeting with reporters.

Randall Forsberg, a leader of the Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign, told a meeting of supporters earlier this week that the resolution is expected to fall short by 10 votes or less in the Republican-controlled Senate.

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of Foreign Affairs, said the resolution was "the best way of achieving progress at the START negotiations" — the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks being negotiated in Geneva.

"This is not an exercise in congressional boat-rocking or meddling in the affairs of the executive branch," Zablocki said.

Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Ill., however, said, "The resolution by definition rejects START and says 'stop.' I suggest this is politics, not policy."

The resolution calls upon the administration to use the START talks for the purposes of "pursuing a complete halt to the nuclear arms race" and "deciding when and how to achieve a mutual verifiable freeze on testing, production and further deployment of nuclear warheads, missiles and other delivery systems."

Tuesday's vote was little different from one last year in which the committee approved a similar resolution 28-8. That measure failed on the floor, 204-202, on Aug. 5.

Markey maintains enough freeze supporters were elected in November to put the measure over in the House.

At the pro-freeze rally, Kennedy said the United States currently has about 9,000 nuclear warheads while the Soviets have about 7,000.

"Should the Soviet Union have a successful first strike at the United States, which is highly unlikely, we would be able to land some 3,500 nuclear warheads on the Soviet Union, the smallest of which is the equivalent of three Hiroshimas."

Station owners protest gas credit surcharge

By JAY ROSSER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Service station operators jammed a House committee hearing Tuesday in support of a legislation that would outlaw oil companies from imposing a 3 percent surcharge on dealers who accept gasoline credit cards, and the solution may wind up coming from the pocketbooks of cardholders.

The House Business and Commerce Committee referred the proposal, carried by state Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, to a subcommittee for further study.

Berlanga's proposal also would prohibit oil companies from forcing dealers to offer a discount for cash at the pumps.

Several committee members indicated they may attempt to amend the legislation to allow oil companies, for the first time, to begin imposing an annual membership fee on their credit card holders in Texas.

Such a fee would be similar, perhaps not in cost, to an annual charge levied by American Express card holders, committee chairman Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, indicated.

Berlanga called the 3 percent credit card surcharge levied on service station owners by their oil company suppliers an "unfair practice."

The charge currently is assessed dealers of Texaco,

Exxon and Mobile gas.

Dealers complained during the hearing that they are forced to absorb the cost to stay competitive with independent dealers who are not subject to the fee.

"When the dealers are forced to go out of business, where will you go to get your car fixed?" asked Barbara McGee, owner of two Texaco dealerships in Hurst.

"We are here asking you for fair treatment and an opportunity to compete in an equal marketplace," she said.

Oil company representatives, however, have launched an intense lobbying effort on lawmakers urging opposition to the proposal, Berlanga said.

Oil industry representatives cite the high cost of maintaining credit card accounts as the reason for the dealer surcharge. An increase in the cost of gasoline to absorb the administrative cost would be unfair to cash customers, industry representatives have said.

The Texas Consumer Association supports the measure. It drew opposition during the committee hearing from the Texas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, but support from the national League of United Latin American Citizens.

The NAACP, through a resolution, said the bill would force low-income Texans to subsidize credit card holders while a LULAC official said minorities can't afford to pay for the increased price of gasoline caused by the 3 percent surcharge.

Is Don Davis "chief dictator"?

Dear Editor,
After reading the article in Sunday's paper concerning the investigation in the Fire Dept., the report grossly misjudged the question asked to Don Davis.

Rather than being asked about "compromising fire protection by closing the substations," Mr. Davis was asked, "Would it be worth someone's life if the response time was too long from the Central Fire Station? And, pardoning Mr. Davis' "French," his response was, "You're G-D--- right it is."

Obviously, Mr. Don Davis does not put much value on a human life. As a concerned taxpayer, I would hate to think my life was in danger from a house fire, and I would have to wait for a fire truck from the Central fire station, when I live less than a mile from the Wasson Road substation. Why doesn't Jim Ryals make a practice run from Central and a practice run from the Wasson Road substation to my home and compare the response time?

Upon investigation not one of the firemen at Wasson Rd. substation made a practice run to the trailer park mentioned in your article.

Thank goodness the State Board of Insurance stepped in and had the substations re-opened. I would hate to think that a life may have been lost just because the city manager really didn't care.

I can fully understand an investigation into criminal activities, if there is any, but the way Don Davis, Jim Ryals, Carl Dorton and Rodney Phillips are going about it is completely wrong!

These men were verbally abused and threatened with their jobs if they did not sign so-called "voluntary" statements. This was all happening due to the orders of "Chief Don Davis." Did our city hire Don Davis to be a city manager or "chief dictator" of the whole town?

As I recall, Hitler went about the same tactics as Don Davis has been using.

It is high time the taxpayers of our community unite and put Don Davis back in his position, if he even remembers what it is! If he doesn't there are plenty of college graduates as qualified as Don Davis looking for a job that have more concern for human lives. And they probably aren't searching for their own "dictatorship."

I believe the people of Big Spring have a right to know exactly what has been going on at City Hall. If we wait for Don Davis to tell us, his answer would be, "I have no comment at this time."

I want to start all over

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm still a teenager, but I have gotten so mixed-up I'm afraid I've really messed up my life — an abortion, flunked out of school, can't get along with anyone, etc. I'd give anything to start all over again, but I don't think it's possible, do you? — L.H.V.

DEAR L.H.V.: Yes, I do believe it is possible for you to start all over again, and I sincerely hope and pray you will take the steps that are necessary. That does not mean it will be easy for you — but I want to assure you it is worth it. Your life is valuable — not only to you but to God — and it would be tragic for you to keep on the same road you are on because it will destroy you and keep you from true happiness.

The reason it is possible for you to start over again is that God can help you. I suspect you already know that you do not have the strength in yourself to change — but God can give it to you. He can give you a new purpose in life, and by his Holy Spirit he will come into your life and help you change your way of living. How can this happen? It can happen very simply, by opening your heart by faith and inviting Jesus Christ to come into your life. Turn to Christ, and ask him to forgive you and change you.

Does this mean all your problems will vanish? No, not necessarily — but it does mean you will be headed in the right direction, and Christ will be with you. Each day you can turn to him and commit that day into his hands. You can seek his guidance about what you should do.

At the same time, I believe there are several practical steps God would have you take. When you come to Christ, get into a church where Christ is preached, because you will need consistent Bible teaching and the fellowship of other Christians. Then take steps to get away from your old habits. The Bible says, "Submit yourselves, then, to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Come near to God and he will come near to you" (James 4:7-8). If at all possible, get back in school, also. But above all, let Christ's love surround you and change you, so that all you do the rest of your life is in response to his love for you.

People who advertise in newspapers often find themselves winners. A recent survey showed that newspaper advertising is considered more believable than that of any other medium.

Third world test

The summit meeting of the nonaligned movement in New Delhi this week provides a kind of sobriety test for the Third World. A change in the venue and the leadership of the affair facilitates reversal of a recent tilt toward Moscow.

Stringent economic conditions foster a sense of realism. The drift of politics in the developing countries creates opportunities for leaders interested in keeping up the decencies toward Washington.

Havana was the site of the late session of the nonaligned countries back in September, 1979. Fidel Castro dominated the proceedings. A distinctly anti-American tone pervaded the speeches and resolutions. No possible sin of imperialism went unnoticed. But a blind eye was turned toward glaring cases of Soviet troublemaking in Asia, Africa and South America.

INDIRA GANDHI, the host, should be the lead figure this time. She has been put under pressure by the recent riots in Assam to show an instinct for law and order. The Soviet occupation of Afghanistan gives her motives to stand up, for her own behalf and that of her neighbors, to Moscow. So her influence should work toward holding the line against the Kremlin and its proteges in Cuba, Libya, Ethiopia and Syria.

Some wind has already been taken out of radical sails by economic difficulties. Debt problems make several important countries keen to show creditworthiness to the gnomes of New York, London and Zurich. Argentina, which is a new member, and Brazil, Mexico and Venezuela, which are observers on the way to membership, will work to dampen enthusiasm for spitting in the eyes of the hate countries.

Oil-exporting nations now fight for markets in the developed world.

Kuwait and Algeria have come off that famous radical put-on — the call for a New World Economic Order. Indeed, the Algerian leader, President Bendjedid Chadli, in a notable step toward moderation, recently buried the hatchet at a meeting with his strongly pro-American neighbor, King Hassan II of Morocco.

The military rout suffered by the Palestine Liberation Organization in the Lebanese fighting has humbled a main source of radical rodomontade in the Arab world. The Syrians did not show to much better advantage, and the war between Iran and Iraq ties up two more paladins of radical nationalism. Serious regimes with a stake in steady progress toward concrete goals have been benefited in consequence. Egypt stands on the verge of rejoining the Arab world, after the semi-exclusion following Camp David, and President Hosni Mubarak should be a key player at the Delhi meeting. King Hussein of Jordan will cut a figure as the principal arbiter of the Arab-Israeli struggle. So will King Fahd of Saudi Arabia, the major influence in oil price decisions.

Recent political change on the northern shore of the Mediterranean has brought socialist governments to power in Spain and Greece. The Greek leader, Andreas Papandreu, is a particular thorn in the American side. But his interest in New Delhi will be to team up with Felipe Gonzalez Marquez of Spain and the Yugoslavs, who are founding members of the nonaligned movement, in a southern bloc. Together they will at least go down the middle between Washington and Moscow.

CENSURE OF American policies, to be sure, cannot be entirely avoided. Indeed, the Reagan administration could do with a little public shoving on such matters as arms control and a more generous approach toward the financial problems of the developing world. But criticism, this time, should be balanced by pressure on the Soviet Union. Moreover, the anti-American comments will surely be milder at Delhi, 1983, than in Havana, 1979.

The temptation for the Reagan administration, in these conditions, will be to stay the course. The president and his men can fairly argue that a show of firmness paid off. By not currying the favor of the nonaligned movement, Ronald Reagan did far better than Jimmy Carter, who pandered to his opponents. It follows that there is little need for concessions.

A DIFFERENT line of reasoning, however, yields a wiser conclusion. The welfare of the industrialized world, including the U.S., is increasingly bound up with the health of the developing countries. On that ground alone, it makes sense to encourage evolution away from a pro-Soviet ideology toward a more realistic, balanced position.

The more so as this country has much to gain from an easing of ideological battle lines. In a looser atmosphere where allegiance to one camp or another is not absolutely required, several countries now tightening bonds with Moscow, notably Romania and Poland, can edge toward the U.S.

So if the New Delhi session does reflect a sobering up by the Third World, there is reason for Washington to adjust American policies accordingly. Now that basic principles have been reestablished by the Reagan administration, this country's interest lies in a move away from an embattled world.

Sex and porn

Two basic comments concerning pornography exist. One: Porn is OK. Two: I hate porn.

In between these two statements is the conflict that has stirred courts, churches and citizens for much of the last century. Defining what should be considered pornographic is still the central issue.

My New American Handy College Dictionary (circa 1970) defines pornography as "obscene art, writings, etc." "Obscene" is defined by my trusty book as "offensive to modern sensibilities." What is to be considered "offensive" is still the major determination that has to be made.

WHAT'S WRONG with a little porn? Most people enjoy getting a little tingle from a spicy movie, book, joke or even a sly look. Sex is one of the basic functions of life, one of the basic interests of life. Even if sex is just to be considered a baby-producing process, sometimes the process needs a little help.

Of course only an idiot would be unaware of the demeaning aspects of porn. The reduction of women and men into sexual beings alone — with no regard for their intellectual and spiritual composition — is dehumanizing, degrading and stupid.

Women and men are more than sexual animals. They have the ability to rise above their sexual nature, something most pornography ignores.

PORNOGRAPHY is usually targeted by well-meaning groups as potentially damaging to the young. The fear is the pure sexual onslaught will warp and pervert the child's normal sexual drive during his formative years. Once warped, he will remain deviant forever.

Granting that porn is not for the young, any perversion (however that may be defined) usually develops in individuals as a result of sexual ignorance, not from exposure to sex. Certainly anyone over a cretin's intelligence would oppose allowing hard-core pornography to be available to minors.

But adults should be allowed the opportunity to decide for themselves. If we as a society are going to censor anything, we need clearer definitions of what is obscene, offensive and harmful.

Personally, I find repugnant the presentation of sex in those so-called historical romances. Although I am sure my sampling was not scientific, the popular ones I did read are probably representative.

TOTALLY DEVOID of reality, the book began all "acts of love" with rape; all the women were helpless morons controlled by their passions; all the men were brutal Neanderthals not above beating their women to keep them in line.

This is pornography — this is damaging to young and old alike. This warped picture of life, love and sex is on sale in supermarkets and stores everywhere.

Although I would never advocate that pornography is totally innocent of all negative qualities, I think more terrible things exist to spend our energies upon. After all, if one looks on the positive side, good can be found in everything.

Recently, the showing of soft-core pornographic films in the Philippines earned more than $5 million for 10 charitable organizations for the deaf, the blind and the mentally retarded.

Who would take money from a mentally retarded child because of a moral objection to porn?

Shock tactics marred Aging Conference

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration used strong-arm tactics reminiscent of an old-fashioned political machine to keep the 1981 White House Conference on Aging from getting out of hand and embarrassing the president.

They apparently tinkered with the temperature controls in the auditorium, used fake badges to infiltrate committees and plenary sessions, shouted down legitimate delegates and even physically obstructed Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., to keep him from reaching the speaker's platform.

The White House efforts to bully and harass the elderly delegates were outrageous. The grubby details are contained in sworn testimony and supporting documents obtained by the General Accounting Office, which has been investigating charges of improper White House attempts to rig the conference. My associate Indy Badhwar has seen the astonishing evidence. Some examples:

(A) A planned attempt at confusing the final plenary session was apparently manipulating the air-conditioning system," declares a sworn affidavit. "It became unbearably hot... One or two older women had to be medically assisted out of the ballroom because of the heat."

—One particular panel, known as "Committee Two," was regarded with deep suspicion by the president's men. They were afraid it was going to pass resolutions critical of the administration's Social Security proposals. So conference staffers were ordered to print up extra "Committee Two" badges, put them on and infiltrate the committee to manipulate any voice vote.

—A political tactician who reported directly to White House chief of staff James Baker was assigned to the conference as a sort of staff commissar "to assure that the conference was not a political embarrassment to the president."

—Like so many circus performers, "whips" were appointed to keep the supposedly dangerous "gray panthers" under control. The handpicked whips and deputy whips from the conference staff were assigned to various sections and given a list of "troublemakers" in their bailiwicks. Their mission was to position themselves behind the elderly firebrands and shout them down if they tried to speak.

—"It was...greatly feared that the liberals would take over the conference and demand a number of concessions about Social Security from the Reagan administration. The whip system was supposed to squelch any spontaneous or preplanned actions by liberal delegates to turn the conference into a referendum on Reagan's Social Security policies."

One whip was assigned to a particularly dangerous delegate: Pepper, then the 81-year-old chairman of the House Committee on Aging. The whip was ordered to keep Pepper from the podium during one of the debates in the plenary session. "The whip successfully restricted Pepper from getting to the stage for about 15 minutes by blocking his path."

—Whips assigned to committees would keep in constant touch with a secret command post by telephone. The command post was guarded by Brinks security personnel. "In order to get into the command post, one had to be wearing a special lapel pin shaped like an oil barrel. Without the pin, it was impossible to get into the area."

—When reports of political pressure began leaking out, the command post disappeared in a puff of smoke. "Returning to the command post was eerie," one staffer testified. "Just one half-hour before, everything was normal. Now the command post was stripped bare. There was almost nothing left of what had previously been tables of books, documents, phones, typewriters... Within 30 minutes, the entire place had been literally stripped."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: The nation's governors apparently have little interest in the workings of the federal government. After Chief Justice Warren Burger addressed the National Governors Association recently, the chairman opened the floor for questions. None of the governors had any. They even gave the same glazed-eye treatment to the congressional budget czars, Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Rep. Jim Jones, D-Okla.

CHARTER MEMBERS — Three charter members of Prospectors Club were honored with a special charter members pin during a pot luck dinner at Dora Roberts Fair Barn Friday. Letha Lewis, right, pinned her pin on then pinned her husband Martell "Bud" Lewis. The third charter member was unable to attend due to ill health. The organization hosted the dinner for Gem and Mineral Show participants as a break from setting up the show. The Gem and Mineral Show was held Saturday and Sunday. The organization has been in existence 15 years.

Baroque ensemble to perform here

The Texas Tech University Baroque Folk Ensemble will perform Thursday at 8 p.m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church sanctuary, 10th and Goliad. The public is invited and no admission will be charged.

The ensemble of five musicians perform 18th century music on instruments authentic to the time period. The instruments include a harpsichord, viola da gamba, flauto traverso and baroque bassoon. The performers are professors at the university.

Members of the group are Dr. Michael Stoune, Dr. Judson Maynard, Richard Meek, Gladys Maynard and Cathy Crist Talcott. Ms. Talcott will not be performing with the group.

Stoune is a professor of flute at the university. He is a member of the Lubbock and Roswell Symphony Orchestras and a member of the Faculty Woodwind Quintet at Texas Tech. He's studied the art of ornamentation and improvisation in 18th century music. Examples of this ornamentation will be heard on his flauto traverso, a forerunner to the flute.

Maynard is professor of organ and theory at the university. He builds baroque instruments and constructed the viola da gamba that will be used in the performance.

Meek, associate professor of bassoon, is a member of the Lubbock and Roswell Symphony Orchestras. The baroque bassoon which he plays is an original 18th century instrument.

Ms. Maynard is a private music teacher in the Lubbock area. While in the Netherlands with Dr. Maynard, she studied harpsichord, a double keyboard instrument.

Gasping death reports drop as procedure discontinued

CARMEL, Calif. (UPI) — An Oregon hospital that discontinued the use of benzyl alcohol in solutions for flushing intravenous tubes recently reported a significant decrease in the "gasping death" syndrome of premature babies.

Dr. Janet L. Hiller said one-third fewer infants from 1.5 pounds to 2.5 pounds died once the benzyl alcohol solutions were discontinued at the Oregon Health Sciences University Hospital in Portland.

She also told the Western Society for Pediatric Research there was a striking two-thirds reduction in severe forms of brain hemorrhage, often associated with later handicaps among the premature babies who survive.

Larger babies, she said, showed no evidence of benzyl alcohol toxicity.

A report on the experiment said an emergency grant given a year ago by the March of Dimes Birth Defect Foundation enabled the hospital to seek causes for the so-called "gasping death" syndrome.

Dr. Neil Buist, director of the university's metabolic birth defects center, took urine and blood samples from newborns who had died at Portland's nearby Emanuel Hospital and found benzyl alcohol or its byproducts in large amounts, the report said.

Both Emanuel and the University hospital nurseries immediately discontinued solutions usintravenous catheters.

The report said in the three years before the benzyl alcohol flushing was stopped, 67.6 percent of babies born under 2.5 pounds died. From February to November of 1982, after they were stopped, the mortality rate was reduced to 43.1 percent.

Jaundice can occur in babies

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you discuss the kind of jaundice babies our grandson came back from the hospital with it. Doesn't it mean a bad liver? I heard once about the jaundice a nursing infant can get, but not this kind—Mrs. R.R.

Just back up a bit, jaundice is a yellowing of the skin due to a buildup of bilirubin, which is a pigment, a product of the normal regular death of red blood cells. The blood's hemoglobin changes to bilirubin, which the liver get rid of by converting it to another chemical. Blood levels of bilirubin rise when the liver cannot handle the workload. The yellowing occurs as a sign of that.

So, in that sense, jaundice is an indication of something wrong affecting the liver—hepatitis, for example. However, six out of 10 full-term babies, and eight out of 10 premature ones, will develop a degree of jaundice. It's called physiologic jaundice, and all that means is that it is normal. It happens because the infant's liver is not yet up to the chore of handling the bilirubin. The liver just needs a bit more time to adapt to being out in the world on its own. The yellowness begins to wane on the fifth of seventh day. This kind of jaundice is not harmful.

The other jaundice you referred to can occur with nursing infants. The happens to about one in every 200. Some substance in the mother's milk interferes with the bilirubin elimination. It is also harmless, and simply stopping breast feeding for a short time clears up the jaundice; breast feeding can then be resumed. These are the two common and seldom serious causes of jaundice in the newborn.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a laparocopy six months ago and my doctor said I had "P.I.D." My doctor told me I'd have to roll with the punches. However, I still have pain in my lower abdomen area. Is this normal? I also developed milk in my breasts for no apparent reason.—Mrs. V.B.

It's far from normal to have a pain at any time, so let take that pain first. P.I.D. (pelvic inflammatory disease) is an infection of the female organs in the lower part of the abdomen—the tubes and ovaries, for examples. There are many different bacteria that can cause such infections, and, as a matter of fact, often there are two or more different kinds of bacteria involved in a single infection.

So if whatever medicine your doctor is giving you has not been able to clear up your infection, you have to return to him, especially since you are having these persistent pains. Perhaps you need a different antibiotic or combination of antibiotics.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am

22 years old and have been taking Danocrine for endometriosis. I am experiencing several of the side effects, such as edema, mild hair growth on my face, and acne. It's very discouraging. Should I be using this medicine? R.W.

The decision in such cases is based on balancing gains from taking the medicine against the undesirable effects. The gains must outweigh the losses. So the questions to ask are: Is the Danocrine reducing the symptoms from your endometriosis? Is the pain going away?

You should be able to judge that after the months you tell me you have taken it. I can tell you that it has proved helpful in some women with your problem—growth of uterine-like tissue elsewhere in the pelvic area.

Yes, it can cause some fluid retention, and the mild hair growth, but it should be giving your relief also. If all you're getting are the undesired effects, then it could be time to look for other answers. Perhaps it's only a matter of time before the helpful effects become apparent. Your doctor is the best judge of that. Generally, a course of therapy with this medicine is from six to nine months. And when the drug is stopped, the undesired effect go away.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes—and cures—for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, IL 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Abby

Man's obscene phone calls put marriage on line

DEAR ABBY: Never in my wildest dreams did I think I'd be writing to you, but I don't know where else to turn.

To be as brief as possible, my husband and I have been married for 14 years. He's a wonderful husband, father and provider, and has always been a decent, respectable, churchgoing man. We've always been honest with each other and never had any trouble in our relationship. Lately however, he has been embarrassed because of impotency, but I never made an issue of it.

I noticed that every time the phone rang he would rush to answer it — something he never did before. Then I did something I've never done before. I listened in on the extension while he was talking, and, Abby, I nearly passed out! He was talking all this vile, filthy talk to some woman. This went on for about five minutes. I got sick to my stomach and hung up.

After I pulled myself together, I told him I loved him very much and we needed to have a little talk.

He knew I heard his conversation, so he broke down and told me he had joined a telephone club where the members called each other and talked dirty on the phone. I'd never heard of such a thing. He swore he never met any of these women and doesn't plan to. He just does it for kicks.

Can I believe him? I love him, Abby, and can't tolerate this kind of behavior. Please tell me what to do.

HEARTSICK IN MISSOURI

DEAR HEARTSICK: Don't be judgmental. Be compassionate and understanding and reassure him of your love. Tell him that he must get into therapy to find out why he needs this kind of filth in his life. His recent impotency is probably related to this "telephone club." You may also need counseling in order to understand his problem and be supportive. Call your local mental health community service and find out what is available near you. It could save your marriage.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you said in your column that a flower worn over the right ear means "I'm available," and a flower worn over the left ear means "I'm spoken for."

What does a flower worn over each ear mean?

LOVES FLOWERS
DEAR LOVES: "Let's negotiate."

***

DEAR ABBY: "Proud Navy Wife" missed the boat! When that other woman (not military) told her, "Our tax dollars go to pay for your doctor bills," P.N.W. should have informed her that the people in the military also pay taxes.

In the 20 years my husband was in the Army, not only were federal income taxes and Social Security deducted from his pay, in every state we lived we paid property taxes (both county and state) on every home we mortgaged. At the commissaries we also paid a surcharge on the groceries we purchased. My husband is now retired, and his retirement pay is taxed! We raised two fine sons who are now in the service — paying taxes.

My husband served in Vietnam three times while our children were growing up, and any "free" medical care we received was very much appreciated — but I wouldn't call it "free" considering the sacrifices we as a family made. Sign me

Bank hopes to crack 10 percent barrier on mortgages

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Empire of America, a federally-chartered savings bank in New York, Florida, Michigan and Texas, says it will crack the 10 percent barrier on home mortgages to offer one of the lowest rates in the nation.

Empire said its 9 3/4 percent rate on the first year of a new adjustable-rate mortgage is 2.65 percentage points lower than the national average and more than 3 points lower than fixed-rate conventional mortgages.

Empire had been at 12 1/4 percent for a five-year adjustable mortgage.

Under the new program, a family with a $35,000 annual income could qualify for a $73,000 mortgage at Empire, while with a 13 percent mortgage, they would only have qualified for $56,900, the bank said.

The new mortgage, available for terms up to 30 years with 5 percent down, will have its rate adjusted annually based on the one-year U.S. Treasury security index.

The rate can go up or down no more than 2 points a year, Empire said.

The bank said the "unusually low" 9 3/4 rate is an "introductory offer" that is expected to be available only until June 1.

Paul A. Willax, president and chief executive of Empire, said the new mortgage should help stimulate home buying and new construction, and will make it easier for first-time home buyers to qualify for loans.

Daniel J. Devine, an Empire senior vice president in Empire's mid-Hudson region, said the $500 million program, being offered in the four states that Empire operates in — New York, Florida, Michigan and Texas.

Devine told the Poughkeepsie Journal the lower mortgage rate is a result of the bank's success with the new money market deposit accounts.

"We're flush with liquidity, and we want to get the money out," he said.

The bank's money market accounts are currently paying 8.55 percent, which is only 1.20 percent less than the new mortgages will bring in.

Usually, banks seek a spread of at least 2 or 3 percent between the rates they pay depositors and what they charge for loans, in order to cover their costs.

But Devine indicated the one-year adjustment period in the mortgage will allow a shortened turn-around time — compared with 30 years under old fixed-rate mortgages — so that the bank can recover its costs sooner if interest rates rise again.

There is a 2-point charge for the new mortgage — a point equals 1 percent of the mortgage amount — but that is about average for new mortgages. That brings the effective annual rate on the mortgage to about 9.99 percent.

The bank said the mortgage is fully assumable for a 1 percent fee, and contains no pre-payment penalties.

The family industry keeps spoking right along

SPARTA, Tenn. (AP) — Since 1896, through two world wars and the Great Depression, the Tubb family has turned the Cumberland Plateau's white oaks into wagon wheels, lacrosse sticks and what some people think are the world's finest bar stools.

In doing so, the Sparta Spoke Factory helped usher in the automobile age and kept close to a hundred people working during the best and worst of times.

Instead of wagon wheels, Les Tubb today fills orders for plow handles, policemen's billy clubs, Brine lacrosse sticks and bar stools.

The key to surviving the Depression and various recessions has been flexibility, said Tubb, the fourth of his family to operate Sparta Spoke.

"We've specialized in the sense all our products are wood. But beyond that we're completely flexible. We'll make almost anything," Tubb said.

It all started in the mid 1890s when J.R. Tubb Sr.

brought the family from Virginia to Tennessee where the white oaks were tall and plentiful.

After years of supplying wagon wheels to the armed services, a government delegation came to Sparta from Washington to learn what made the spokes so hard and so reliable.

"About all they could figure was that it was the source — the white oaks. The wood around here is some of the best in the country," Tubb said.

In an interview, Tubb recalled stories of his great-grandfather picking a spot in the center of Sparta where he dammed the Calfkiller River for power to drive his sawmill.

There Tubb Sr. made wagon wheels that would finish the days of the horse-drawn carriage and help usher in the automobile age.

Metal shortages in World War I and World War II kept Sparta Spoke busy making wheel parts for wagons, many of which carried cannons across the battlefields of Europe, Tubb said.

"We still have some of those around," Tubb said. "You can't miss them — they're 6 feet tall and good for nothing else."

Tubb Sr. died in 1942, about 10 years after handing the reins of the family business to J.R. Tubb Jr., who instituted kiln-drying to make the hardwood oaks even harder.

"Grandad was more aware of the changes coming," said Tubb. "He knew automobiles wouldn't use wooden spokes for long. Still, with the wars and all, the demand for wooden spokes kept up."

Not until J.R. Tubb III assumed control in 1948 did Sparta Spoke branch out into the furniture field. "The wagon business finally died," Tubb said.

Tubb, who is 33, took over the business in 1982 after finally deciding against a minister's career. "I didn't want to be the Tubb that sank the family business."

Tubb's immediate challenge has been guiding the business through the current national economic slump.

"It's been pretty much the same answer as getting through the Great Depression in the '30s: start with a good cash flow and stockpile until things get better," Tubb said.

"They kept people working making spokes, figuring sooner or later things would get better. We're doing some stockpiling now, hoping things will get better."

Less than 10 of Sparta Spoke Factory's full capacity work force of 85 have been laid off, Tubb said.

"The only thing we won't make is cheap furniture," Tubb said. "Our good reputation has been too hard to earn. Why risk it on any inferior products?"

Rockhounds exhibit talents in kitchen

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor
and
CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

We here at the Recipe Exchange learned last week that members of the Big Spring Prospector's Club are not only accomplished rockhounds but good cooks as well.

The club served about 100 people Friday night in the Dora Roberts building at the fairgrounds. The pot luck dinner preceded their annual Gem and Mineral Show, held Saturday and Sunday. Members brought salads and desserts to complement beef provided by the club and invited the Herald out to see the results. A sampling of the pot luck offerings appear in Recipe Exchange. Notice how the salad recipes were given gem-and-mineral names to reflect the cause behind the supper.

Among rockhounds served at the dinner were people from across Texas, Detroit, Mich., Chicago, Ill., New Mexico and Colorado Dealers and exhibitors spent Friday afternoon setting up for the weekend show and were ready for a good meal Friday night.

If you have any recipes you'd like to share with the Recipe Exchange, or if you're looking for a recipe, contact us and we'll get the word out to our readers. Send recipes and requests to the Big Spring Herald Recipe Exchange, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas, 79720.

Easter eggs have rich history

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — The beauty of brightly colored and decorated eggs has enchanted many cultures from the ancient Persians and Greeks to Europe's Ukrainians. But it is the Pennsylvania Dutch, who revived the glory of the Easter egg, the researchers report. These deeply religious people cherished their traditions and among their contributions to American folklore and practices are Easter egg decorating, egg rolls and hunts, egg trees, and even the Easter Bunny.

Early coloring was a messy and time-consuming process. Natural dyes were made by boiling onion skins to achieve yellow color, alder catkins and hickory for brown, madder root for red, and nuts, roots and berries for various hues.
Other methods were to wrap eggs in bright calico, boiling them so the colors were transferred, or pasting pieces of cloth to the eggs. Still more complicated was pysanky, which involved the use of wax and dyes to create the most intricate of Easter eggs. The technique originated with the Ukrainians, the name stemming from the verb "pysaty," meaning "to write."

By the start of the 20th century, however, Easter egg decorating was becoming a widespread American tradition, thanks to local townspeople. When a five-and-dime chain became a customer, Hinkle's hobby turned into a business, which celebrates its 90th anniversary this year.

Today, egg decorating has become a highly sophisticated craft, with societies and national exhibits that feature beautiful eggs created by talented designers.

Pysanky eggs continue to be the most popular, and designers have developed a simplified way of making them, which produces a pysanky-type egg in less than 30 minutes, rather than the days required for the authentic technique.

Materials needed for the pseudo-pysanky craft include hard-boiled eggs at room temperature, paint on egg dye, cotton swabs and fine-tipped paint brush, beeswax or paraffin, stylus (which can be made by sticking a pin through pencil eraser), slotted spoon with wooden or plastic handle, and cloth or paper towels.

on egg, heat stylus tip on stove burner, then stick stylus into beeswax or paraffin. Apply heated wax to egg. The wax will cool almost immediately and will adhere to egg.

After wax on part of design you want to remain white is set, apply the first color using cotton swabs or paint brush. Before using second color, apply wax over part of eggs you want to remain first color. Then, apply the second color. Layer darker colors over lighter shades. Now, if you were to remove wax, you would have a design in white and two colors, but the number of colors that can be applied is not limited.

To remove wax, heat egg slowly and carefully over stove burner, using slotted spoon. Test every few seconds to see if wax is soft enough to wipe off with cloth or paper towel.

Iron deficiency is nation's leading nutritional deficiency disease

Iron deficiency ranks as the top nutritional deficiency disease in both humans and plants, in terms of the numbers affected, according to a biochemist at Texas A and M University.

Up to 700 million people of the world are estimated to have some degree of iron deficiency; it is secondary only to protein-calorie malnutrition in the world-wide severity of its effects.

Latest estimates are that 20 percent of women in their child-bearing years exhibit some degree of iron deficiency; this ranges from iron depletion to actual anemia, according to the biochemist.

Like many elements, iron is essential to good health; among other things, iron is essential to hemoglobin production in red blood cells.

Work on blood chemistry is gaining attention both in the U.S. and abroad. Some research has examined the chemical reactions that influence food iron availability during digestion.

By extracting iron from foods under conditions that simulate digestion, the scientist and his research team can study in the test tube the processes that occur in the intestine.

Several scientific teams are doing research based on the discovery that it is the digestive chemistry of the whole meal combination that determines the iron availability of the meal and not simply an average of the individual components.

For example, tea, which contains tannic acid, inhibits the absorption of iron from a meal, whereas orange juice and other citrus products, which contain vitamin C, enhance iron absorption.

The bioavailability of iron from foods is receiving increasing attention; advertisements in national magazines suggest serving apple juice along with rice to improve the iron availability of baby foods, and dietary guidelines from extension specialists take vitamin C content of meals into account, along with iron content.

Bates began this line of research in 1975 while in Mexico City presenting a course on iron metabolism and nutrition. A chance meeting with some members of the Mexican National Nutrition Institute led to discussions of how iron uptake studies in children might be aided by parallel chemical studies of food iron.

The results of the chemical research closely paralleled the studies with children and emphasized the value of the new technique.

In a recently published study, one group focused on iron availability from pinto beans since this is a staple component of the Mexican diet, as well as a popular food item in Texas.

"We observed that it is both the citric acid and vitamin C (ascorbic acid) of orange juice that increase iron availability from the beans," said a biochemist.

Meatless meals easy

Most people know that meatless meals would undoubtedly save money. But the question is, how do you go about planning them?

Thick, creamy chowder made from vegetables, fish or shellfish or even fish that is canned or leftover, is a good start. Serve with toasted cheese sandwiches.

Another way to serve a satisfying main dish is to serve milk, eggs or cheese with other plant proteins such as peanut butter or peas, beans or lentils.

Nicklaus' game on par now

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, his game approaching the level he's seeking, makes a rare third consecutive tournament appearance this week in the $350,000 Bay Hill Classic.

"It's obvious, to me, that I need more tournament competition," said Nicklaus, whose final-round 66 pushed him past 27 players and into second place last week in the Honda-Inverrary Classic.

"It was encouraging," he said of that closing effort. "And the way I putted was really encouraging."

Nicklaus, who has not been over par in 17 competitive rounds this year, had a slow start last week with a pair of 72s in the first two rounds.

"I had enough birdies that first day, five, to have a good round. But I also had five bogeys. That tells me I need more tournament competition," said Nicklaus.

"You want to get enough competition to be tournament sharp. That's why I've scheduled so many tournaments on the Florida swing. But, at the same time, you don't want to play so much you lose the desire, get burned out," said Nicklaus, who will take next week off before playing his fourth Florida tournament in the Tournament Players Championship.

Nicklaus, 43, holder of a record 17 major professional championships, has finished eighth or better in his last three starts.

"I've played reasonably well," he said. "In fact, at Doral, I had a good tournament and finished nowhere. It's just becoming that hard to win out here."

"The level of play is amazing to me. Absolutely amazing. We have more good players than we ever had so the overall level is better. And it's better at the top, too."

And Nicklaus will be facing probably the strongest overall field of the year this week in the chase for a $63,000 first prize on Arnold Palmer's 7,089-yard, par-71 Bay Hill Club.

Eight of the top 10 money-winners from this season and all the 1983 title-winners except Johnny Miller are included in the 144-man lineup.

The field includes defending champion Tom Kite, winner of the Bing Crosby and currently on a string of four consecutive finishes at six or better; PGA winner Ray Floyd, sixth or better in his last three appearances; and Tom Watson, the U.S. and British Open champion who is starting the heavy part of his year's schedule.

Others playing here are Masters champ Craig Stadler, host Arnold Palmer and Australian Greg Norman, who won the Australian Masters and the Hong Kong Open in his last two starts.

The 1983 winners, in addition to Kite, include Gil Morgan, who has won twice, Gary Koch, Isao Aoki, Gary Hallberg, Keith Fergus and Bob Gilder. Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC.

Chrissy, Martina head towards showdown

DALLAS (AP) — The world's top two women tennis players, Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd, wasted little time moving a step closer to their anticipated showdown in the 1983 Virginia Slims of Dallas.

The No. 2-seeded Lloyd took just 56 minutes Tuesday night to beat Mary Lou Piatek 6-1, 6-0.

And the top-seeded Navratilova dispatched Sue Barker in only slightly less convincing fashion, 6-1, 6-2, in a match that took the defending tournament champion just 65 minutes.

Lloyd, who is making her first appearance here in four years, said she is gradually regaining the form she reached in the last half of 1982.

"The last six months of last year I played the best tennis of my career," she said. "I'm not at that stage, but I feel better than at this stage last March."

Lloyd broke Piatek's serve in the opening game and led, 2-0. Piatek held serve in the third game, but didn't win another.

"When you play a first-round match, you want to play it and get it over with as soon as possible and get used to the surroundings," Lloyd said.

Navratilova, who said she is in her top form, used six service breaks to stop England's Barker.

"My backhand is better, I'm changing my pace better and I'm not as predictable on my serves," said Navratilova.

"Before, I would hit a shot or two and then start to worry about missing. Now I can blow off a bad shot, because I'm more confident about being able to come back and win the next one or two points," she said.

Navratilova is shooting for her fifth consecutive win in the Dallas leg of the circuit, but she said that was not on her mind Tuesday night.

"You don't think in terms of how many in a row you've won," said Navratilova, who lives in Dallas. "You think in terms of who the opposition is."

She added that her improved game, along with the hometown crowd, which Tuesday numbered over 8,000, should continue to help her relax in the tournament.

"The crowds have been good to me, especially in Dallas. I used to get up tight, but now I can relax. I've got so much more confidence in my game," said Navratilova.

"Besides," she added with a smile, "the other player should be more nervous than I am, right?"

Third-seeded Pam Shriver beat Alycia Moulton 6-3, 6-4. Sixth-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia advanced with a 6-4, 6-4 victory over Diame Fromholtz of Australia, while No. 7-seed Bettina Bunge beat Rosalyn Fairbank of South Africa 6-0, 6-2.

In other action, Claudia Kohde of West Germany defeated Kathy Jordan 3-6, 6-2. Ann Kiyomura beat Sabina Simmonds of Italy 7-6 (7-3), 6-3. Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa defeated Marcela Skuherska of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 6-1.

5 players questioned for rape

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Five Southern University football players have pleaded innocent to aggravated rape charges stemming from an alleged attack on a woman at a New Orleans hotel after last November's Bayou Classic.

State District Judge Dennis Waldron accepted the pleas Monday, and set May 23 for trial.

Conviction carries a possible maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The players from Southern's Baton Rouge campus were arrested after a 25-year-old New Orleans woman complained to a hotel elevator in the Bayou Hotel about 5:30 a.m. on Nov. 28 and forced her into a room, where two others also joined in raping her several times and forcing her to perform oral sex.

She said all five wore Southern University football jerseys.

To achieve certification she completed a training course and passed an examination covering insurance requirements and crop produce in surrounding counties. Federal crop insurance

Experts blame OPEC for market slide

By The Associated Press
Analysts say the failure of OPEC to reach an oil price agreement helped trigger a big Wall Street selloff, even though the chairman of the Federal Reserve says the economy has begun a "non-inflationary recovery."
The stock market retreated across the board Tuesday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had inched up a fraction Monday to cap a 47 percent surge since August, tumbled by 21.96 points and closed at 1,119.78.

The fallback came as a key Arab oil minister said chances had dimmed that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries could agree on a uniform price cut to avoid a global price war. A series of meetings by the cartel's leaders yielded no signs of compromise.

United Arab Emirates oil chief Mana Saeed Oteiba said the ministers would try again today, but he rated the chances of success at no better than 50-50.

It was concern over lower oil prices — and higher interest rates — that triggered the stock market slide, market analysts said.

Federal Reserve Chairman Paul A. Volcker, meanwhile, testified before the House Budget Committee, saying the economy appears to be embarking on "a longer-lasting, non-inflationary recovery."

Volcker cautioned that Congress must make further cuts in federal spending for the upturn to continue.

For the first time in months, Volcker indicated concern with the rapid growth of the nation's basic money supply, known as M1 and representing funds readily available for spending. Volcker said M1 has been "rising higher than compatible" with progress in containing inflation.

On another subject, he was asked whether Congress should rescind the 10 percent tax reduction which takes hold in July.

"I can think of better ways to raise revenue," he said, in part because "people sort of expect" the tax cut to take effect this year. Later, however, he conceded that if the tax cut were not already in the law, he would not urge its adoption in 1983.

In other developments Tuesday:

—International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. reported a 10 percent increase in fourth-quarter 1982 earnings over the same period last year, despite an 11 percent drop in revenues.

Clifton L. Helbert has joined the Colorado River Municipal Water District as an engineer in training. In addition to learning system operations, he may be assigned to special duties in ground water and water quality controls, said O. H. Ivie, general manager. Helbert is a graduate of Texas Tech with a degree in civil engineering.

Linda Patterson of Big Spring recently was presented the Professional Quality Award by the Allstate Insurance Co.

Ms. Patterson was nominated a selected by Allstate's district claim office managers. The award is given in recognition of exceptional claim service.

Ms. Patterson is a graduate of Irving High School and has attended Mountain View Junior College and Texas Tech University.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will sponsor another BIZNET satellite program Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at Holiday Inn.

The program concerns involving small businesses in the world market and will feature several experts in finance, exports and marketing.

The Board of Directors of American Petrofina, Inc. recently declared a quarterly dividend of 80 cents per share on Class "A" and "B" common stock. The dividend is payable March 15, 1983 to shareholders of record at the close of business on March 7, 1983.

Income tax help available in Big Spring

Every Friday from now until April 15, there will be three locations in Big Spring where persons can receive free help in filling out the basic income tax forms: 1040, 1040A and the 1040EZ.

Volunteers who have been trained to assist taxpayers with these returns will be available from 1-4 p.m. each Friday until April 15 at First Presbyterian Church at 701 Rannels; Citizen's Federal Credit Union on FM 700; and at the Howard County Senior Citizens Center in the Industrial Park.

The program is called "Volunteer Income Tax Assistance" and is designed to provide free help to lower income, non-English speaking or handicapped taxpayers.

Volunteers also alert taxpayers to special credits and deductions for which they may qualify.

Persons who wish to have their returns completed at one of the VITA locations should bring the income tax booklet received in the mail, W-2 forms from employers, 1099 forms for interest received from financial institutions, a copy of last year's tax return if available and any other relevant information concerning income and expenses.

Spanish is spoken in each location and income tax assistance for the deaf can be arranged by appointment.

FIDDLE SHOP — Thurman Cleveland stands in the doorway of the little shack where he has been making fiddles for two years. Cleveland, 67, began making fiddles at the age of 65 when he retired from a 36-year machinist job with the railroad and found himself with a lot of spare time.

He's still fiddling around

SILSBE, Texas (AP) — Off Texas 92 and down two nameless, unpaved roads bordered by mammoth pines lives fiddle-maker Thurman Cleveland. In two weeks, he can construct a fiddle that sells for the reasonable rate of $75. Cleveland, 67, began making fiddles at the age of 65 when he retired from a 36-year machinist job with the railroad and found himself with a lot of spare time. He had never worked with wood before, but thought he might like to carve a fiddle. He tried. It took him about three attempts before he built an instrument he wanted to keep. The love of their music caused Cleveland to decide to build fiddles. He has played fiddle since his childhood, after having been given one. Later, he sat down beside it "and just started to make one like it," Cleveland said. "I got a little shack out back where I make fiddles. It's not much, but it's all I need." In the shack, a bare bulb illuminates a rough table where patterns of fiddles lie next to saws and knives and new pieces of wood about to be hewn into a shape similar to the old fiddle. The new fiddles display various colors and types of wood, however. Cleveland uses maple, pine and cypress. Bodies of the fiddles are carved from pine and cypress bought in Silsbee. "I start out with a one-inch board. I don't press the wood. I just shave the wood out with a knife. I like the grain in this wood for the body. It looks prettier than maple," Cleveland said. For the sound, all the necks are made from maple, as are the keys and sides. "I cut down a maple tree in the woods out back, saw it up and split it. Sometimes I also use maple for the fingerboards and bridge," Cleveland said. Past the bridge, the strings tie onto a tail piece. For tail pieces, Cleveland procures beef bones from Hank Wolfe, a butcher in Silsbee.

"I made a five-string fiddle for the butcher and gave it to him for giving me bones," Cleveland said. "He plays fiddle, too. Sometimes we play together." In addition to playing and making fiddles, Cleveland writes songs.

Some of them he markets. He has sent about 15 songs to a national singer who says she may record one. He also repairs violins in his spare time, making bows that he retails for about half the usual price, and paints his homemade fiddles.

Country music cable TV network premieres

PICKIN' AND WAITIN' — Guitarist Chet Atkins picks a little in his dressing room Monday night at the Grand Ole Opry House before the premiere of the country-flavored cable television channel.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music fans nationwide got their first glimpse of a cable television channel produced just for them called the Nashville Network.

A five-hour live show kicked off programming Monday night on the new cable TV network from the stages of the Grand Ole Opry and an Opryland Hotel nightclub in Nashville as well as clubs in New York, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles and Austin, Texas.

"Years from now, people will remember March 7, 1983, just like they do Nov. 25, 1925, the day the Grand Ole Opry went on," said county singer Bill Anderson. "A hundred years from now, they'll be talking about us."

Nashville Network is a joint venture of WSM Inc. of Nashville and Group W Satellite Communications of Stamford, Conn. Officials said 800 cable systems reaching an estimated 7 million homes were initial subscribers to the advertiser-supported network.

The network begins with 21 shows aired 18 hours a day, seven days a week. Expansion to 24-hour-a-day programming is being planned, network officials said.

The shows include a 90-minute nightly live Johnny Carson-style interview show called "Nashville Now" with host Ralph Emery, a country music game show called "Fandango," a situation comedy called "I-40 Paradise," and "Dancin' U.S.A.," a country dance program.

All of the shows are produced in Nashville by WSM Inc., creators of the Grand Ole Opry, the world's oldest continuously produced live radio show.

But for premiere night, country music stars hosted a series of live concerts from around the nation.

At the Opryhouse, Roy Acuff, "the king of country music," was joined by Patsy Cline, Rosanne Cash, T.G. Sheppard were in New York, Janis Paige and Don Williams in Chicago, Lynn Anderson and George Lindsey in Denver, Tammy Tucker and Hoyt Axton in Los Angeles and Bill Monroe and Ernest T. Harris in Austin.

EPA pesticide chief may have destroyed records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of the Environmental Protection Agency's pesticide program may have destroyed or altered appointment books sought by a House committee, according to a congressman who says such an act would be a criminal offense.

Rep. Mike Synar, D-

Okla., chairman of a House subcommittee probing allegations of scandal at the EPA, said Tuesday night he is investigating the allegations he received against Dr. John Todhunter, assistant administrator for pesticides and toxics.

Charles Dempsey, acting inspector general of the EPA, said he began his own investigation after Synar told him of the accusation.

Todhunter has an unlisted telephone number and could not be reached for comment.

EPA spokesman Rusty Brashear said the department is "looking at" Synar's allegations but added, "any other comment is premature."

Todhunter's boss, EPA Administrator Anne McGill Burford, also came under renewed congressional fire Tuesday, with House Minority Leader Robert H. Michel calling for her resignation.

"I don't know a thing about the inner workings of the EPA. All I do know is that the agency has not been managed well and that the administration has already taken steps ... to clean up the mess with the appointment of several top-notch civil service administrators," Michel said in a speech.

"Now all logic dictates that if things were so bad as to bring you to that point, you're eventually going to have to go all the way and make a move at the top," the Illinois Republican said. "Eventually, there's going to have to be new leadership at the very top, along with the new management people recently chosen."

Sen. Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., said Tuesday night that Mrs. Burford's troubles present "an opportunity to change the direction of an agency that could be much more effective than it has been in the past."

Another Republican senator, Alfonse D'Amato of New York, said earlier in Albany, "To get down to doing the very serious business of the people, there should be a new administrator."

Six congressional committees are investigating the EPA's handling of a $1.6 billion "superfund" to clean up hazardous waste sites.

Synar's subcommittee is trying to determine whether Todhunter had improper contacts with representatives of companies regulated by EPA.

It also is investigating whether there was a conflict in the award of a contract by Todhunter's office to a former employer of the assistant administrator.

"The subcommittee has received information alleging that documents requested by this subcommittee, including appointments books kept by Dr. John Todhunter ... have been altered and perhaps destroyed," Synar said in a statement.

"Destruction of government documents is a criminal offense which cannot and will not be tolerated by the Congress."

Mom acquitted in son's death

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A 200-pound woman who said a counseling center urged her to sit on her son to punish him was acquitted of involuntary manslaughter in the boy's death.

Betty Mentry wept as the Santa Clara County Superior Court jury read its verdict Tuesday.

"I'm delighted. I didn't feel there could have been any other verdict," said defense attorney Cyril Ash.

"It's been our contention that what she did was on the direction of her counselor."

Ash has filed a $2.5 million wrongful death suit against the Alum Rock Counseling Center on behalf of Mrs. Mentry, who claims a counselor at the center told her to "use your weight" to control the tantrum-prone boy.

Steven Mentry died May 31 — his ninth birthday — nine days after Mrs. Mentry sat on the child to punish him for playing with matches and taking six pennies from her dresser. The coroner said the boy died of asphyxiation and a lack of blood to the brain.

Radio wars in Big Spring

Big Spring has four very aggressive, competitive radio stations which is unusual for a community this size. This situation is good for both the listeners and the advertisers, as well as the non-profit community groups who must depend on them for public service announcements. The following stories are indicative of their committed, innovative operations and managements.

The newest management team is at KWKI (FM) and KKIK (AM), formerly KHEM and K95. Dick Oppenheimer of Austin owns these stations along with other stations across the nation. David Trusty is the local general manager. Last Friday morning they decided to have a special, just for fun, contest and announced that the 953rd caller (to coincide with the dial position of 95.3) would get lunch in either New York or Hawaii with all expenses paid plus $100. They started taking calls at 8:45 a.m. At 1:30 the 953rd caller was Lisa Huckabee who works at Graumann Oil Service Co. She chose New York, and paying extra to take her mother along, left the next morning via American Airlines, for her lunch date. This is just one of the novel ideas David and his staff have come up with to increase listener interest and attention.

Dick Fields, who bought KBYG in 1981, has recently made two big moves: this week he is moving the station from the Comanche Park site to spacious facilities at the Industrial Park; secondly, he acquired an FM station at Lamesa. With the completion of an 800 foot tower, the Lamesa station will become regional covering the entire Permian Basin. These moves show faith in Big Spring and the Permian Basin.

KBST, owned by Winston Wrinkle, long a pacesetter in news, programming and listener contests, has just garnered another recognition through China Long, news director for the station. China was awarded, for an unprecedented third straight year, the Anson Jones Award for excellence in communicating health information to the public. China's special feature community service programs have done much to educate and inform the public.

Kae McLaughlin, daughter of Ralph and Billye McLaughlin, has just been appointed by State Treasurer Ann Richards to the State Assets and Management Committee. This is an important appointment that could only go to someone with very good credentials. Kae has them as president of the Schwertner State Bank at Schwertner, Texas. Not long ago, Kae had an impressive write-up in the Dallas Morning News and has been pegged as one of the bright young business leaders to watch. She graduated from Big Spring High.

Local resident Barbara Carr recently won a major sales competition award as a representative for Avon. Her award is an all expense paid trip to Hawaii for five days (or an option to choose a cash award instead.) Barbara, by virtue of winning this competition, is considered one of the top 700 Avon representatives out of 450,000 nationwide.

Polly Mays and Mary Joy Cowper hosted a Paean to Spring Thursday afternoon at the Brass Nail for approximately 150 women. The setting, in the Brass Nail Party Room, was impressive, with a large, lavish center table displaying arrangements of fresh vegetables, fruits and greenery. Surrounding the center table were buffet tables laden with food.

T.W. Bailey, coordinator of the restaurant owned by Grady Cunningham, heads a competent staff. A couple of weeks ago, they put together a special luncheon to introduce the services, food and facilities to out-of-town media and special guests to enlist their help in alerting their citizens about the possibilities the Brass Nail offers. People from such places as Sterling City, Stanton and other surrounding communities were shown the advantages of bringing their banquets and special events to Big Spring.

The Scenic Chapter ABWA will be holding a seminar, fashion show and luncheon Saturday from 10 to 2:30 at the Brass Nail. Tickets are $10 which will go toward scholarships to benefit educational opportunities at Howard College for women. The speakers at the seminar will be Guil Jones speaking on legal issues, Cliffa Slate on financing, and Carolyn Reed on stress. A fashion show with 17 models representing 14 clothiers will follow. Door prizes will be awarded during the luncheon. Call Audrey Wilson, 3-7331, for reservations.

The news from the PIK program, with enrollment deadline this week, has caused more controversy and discussion than anyone dreamed possible. First, there was lack of understanding of the new program by farmers and lenders, and the quick sign-up period left little time for public education and study. Then the IRS got into the picture and threatened to hold out taxes when the PIK payments were made and this further confused the issue. As of now, the USDA is working hard to get the IRS stumbling block eliminated. Despite the uncertainties, sign-ups for the new program are progressing satisfactorily and some trends are beginning to emerge. Most farmers seem to think that the PIK program, while not the answer, is at least a "step in the right direction," and many believe that it will be a start toward getting farming back on the road to recovery.

The grassroots campaign to repeal the unfair withholding tax is having its impact in Washington, for taxpayers all across the nation are letting Congressmen know that they oppose advance withholding of income on interest and dividends. Some Congressional offices are receiving from 25,000 upwards pieces of mail. No issue in recent years, they say, has drawn this quantity of public response but despite the overwhelming tide of public opinion against withholding, Financial Chairman Dole and Administration forces are still fighting any change in the tax package. If you have not contacted your Congressman about this, please do so — or re-contact them to urge their continued support. Despite 264 sponsors in the House and 39 sponsors in the Senate, the battle to repeal the withholding tax is still an uphill battle. Any financial institution can furnish you with forms or information about this issue.

Reminder: Lunch and Learn Program Friday at the Howard County Library with speaker Dr. M.A. Porter discussing toxic shock syndrome. Bring a brown-bag lunch. Coffee and tea will be available. Admission is free. Sponsored by the County Extension Service and the Library.

Billy's gun stolen (maybe)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dispute over which of two guns was used to kill famed outlaw Billy the Kid has rekindled after one of the weapons was stolen during a household burglary.

James Roberts said Tuesday that the .44-caliber Remington pistol taken from his home in a burglary Friday was the weapon Sheriff Pat Garrett used to shoot the cattle thief and killer in New Mexico in 1881.

But Jarvis Garrett, an Albuquerque, N.M., resident who is Pat Garrett's only surviving son, said the stolen Remington "without any question of a doubt" was not the gun used by his father.

"The gun that my father held ... was a 44-40 Colt single-action, and the serial number was 55093," he said by telephone Tuesday from his New Mexico home.

The single-action Colt was sold by Garrett to Calvin Moerbe of Round Rock, Texas, five to six years ago, Garrett said. "That is absolutely the only authentic gun in existence that was used by my father when he shot Billy the Kid," Garrett maintained.

Police have break in Graham poisonings

GRAHAM, Texas (AP)

Investigators confiscated 10 gallons of crystallized cyanide from a machine shop and could have a break in the poisonings of a man and his 9-year-old daughter within days, police say.

Authorities have "someone in mind" in the case, Police Chief William A. Paul Jr. said Tuesday. Paul declined to elaborate and refused to label the person a suspect.

William Hill, 52, and his daughter, Brenda, were poisoned Friday when they took prescription antibiotic capsules laced with cyanide, said Paul.

Food and Drug Administration investigators found the poison in five amoxicillin capsules in Hill's house, but they said no cyanide was found in the bulk supply bottle at the pharmacy where the drug was purchased.

Paul said 10 gallons of crystallized cyanide were found in a machine shop where two of Hill's teenage sons work.

A bottle of over-the-counter antacid half-full of cyanide crystals and containing one of the capsules also was found in Hill's home, Paul said.

Paul and investigator Jim Nance declined to discuss a motive for the poisoning. Nance said the case probably would be referred to a grand jury.

Hill was in good condition today at Harris Hospital in Fort Worth and his daughter was in good condition at Fort Worth Children's Hospital.

Ted Rotto, chief FDA investigator in Dallas, said cyanide was identified in five of the capsules taken from the Hill home.

However, Rotto said he had no reason to believe any adulteration of the capsules occurred at the pharmacy or manufacturer. He said authorities were not considering pulling supplies of the drug from any pharmacies.

The pharmacy, however, began checking its records and planned to contact everyone who purchased the drug, Rotto said.

Terrie Hill said the medicine had been prescribed for her husband, but he had suggested giving some to the girl to help her "kick a cold."

Mrs. Hill said her daughter became ill shortly after taking the drug.

"She came down the hall staggering like she was drunk," said Mrs. Hill.

From bale to finished product

Big Spring farmer follows cotton's path

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Morris Patterson of Big Spring always wanted to follow a bale of cotton to a finished product. Recently, he had that opportunity.

Patterson, who has farmed cotton southwest of Big Spring for 42 years, was one of 150 cotton producers from across the nation who traveled to Raleigh, N.C. last month to attend the fourth annual meeting of Cotton Inc.

A national organization, Cotton Inc. works to promote U.S. cotton, Patterson said from his home. The corporation is funded by cotton producers who pay $2 a bale when their cotton is sold, Patterson said.

"It's the only thing cotton farmers have going for them," Patterson said.

At a cotton mill in North Carolina that makes only towels, Patterson was able to follow a bale of cotton to a finished product.

"I didn't know anybody worked as hard as people in a cotton mill," Patterson said. "They process 160 bales (of cotton) a day and get 400 towels a bale."

Patterson said he was very impressed with not only the cotton mills but the entire Cotton Inc. organization. He said he made the trip to the annual meeting to see where his money had been going all these years.

"I wish all farmers could see this," Patterson said. "You'd feel better about where your money is going."

During the three-day meeting which Patterson attended with his wife Winnie, the couple learned of the variety of techniques and products employed by the organization to increase the sale and use of cotton.

"They've raised the amount of cotton being used," Patterson said.

According to recent figures, cotton use in men's apparel has risen from 43 percent in 1975 to 50 percent in 1982. Cotton's share of the jeans market has risen from 77 percent in 1974 to 83 percent in 1982.

HCCTAD will elect two directors to fill posts

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

The three remaining directors of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board will meet Wednesday to elect two new members.

The HCCTAD board was hit with two resignations in the last two months: Jack Watkins on Jan. 12 and board president Roy Watkins on Feb. 9 (no relation).

The board of directors was unable to hold its regularly-scheduled monthly meeting in February due to lack of a quorum.

Wendell Shive of Coahoma was the only person nominated to fill Jack Watkins' spot. Shive was picked by the Coahoma Independent School District — the same taxing entity that elected Jack Watkins to the HCCTAD board.

Two names have been submitted for consideration for Roy Watkins' vacancy. Arnold Marshall of Big Spring, a local businessman, was nominated by the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees. The BSISD board also elected Roy Watkins to the HC-CTAD board.

The Forsan ISD board of trustees nominated Robert L. Roberson. Roberson is the Forsan High School business manager.

According to state law, appraisal district board directors are replaced by election by the remaining board members. The district's taxing entities submit nominees to the board who then elect their new member.

Other action expected to be taken by the HCCTAD board includes appointing an appraisal review board member for a two-year term. Gerald Harris' one-year term has expired. The board is also expected to reduce the two three-member ARB panels back to the original one panel.

The ARB had expanded in September in order to complete the tax protest hearings in time for use on the 1982 tax rolls.

The board is expected to adopt a car-use payment method for district employees. A discussion of liability insurance for the HCCTAD board is also expected.

Subdivision debate

Council will discuss ordinance Tuesday night

By RICHARD HORN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council will again discuss an ordinance Tuesday night which would regulate subdivision development within five miles outside the city limits.

A decision on the ordinance was tabled by the council at its meeting on Feb. 8. The councilmen said it was unclear whether the state requires the city to regulate or just record subdivisions outside city limits.

At that meeting, a public hearing was held in which many rural landowners objected to the ordinance because it restricted their independence. One of those residents, Cecil Gilstrap, is scheduled to appear before the council Tuesday night.

Gilstrap appeared at a meeting of Howard County Commissioners on Feb. 28 to protest the proposed ordinance.

Councilmen decided not to vote on the ordinance at their meeting of Feb. 21 until they had heard an attorney general's opinion on the city's responsibilities.

The preliminary ordinance is a total rewrite of the current ordinance and, according to an executive summary, establishes safeguards for the developer, property owner and city.

The ordinance includes requirements for flood damage prevention, standards for plat drawing, plat processing fees and time tables for the approval process. It also provides for pavement width, street right-of-ways and utility siting.

The council also will:

- Adjourn into executive session to discuss land acquisition by purchase or condemnation, pending litigation and legal matters, and a claim of Arrow Refrigeration for damages to a carpet caused by a water leak.

- Consider soliciting bids for a track loader and trailer for the street department, a sewer jet for utilities, and a 1983 full-size pickup truck for the Airpark.

Although today's parents generally do a good job raising their children, they often don't spend enough time helping the youngsters understand money matters, says a financial expert.

"It's never too early for children to begin to learn the functions of money, its impact on their family's lifestyle and on their own lives," says Connie S.P. Chen, president of Chen Planning Consultants, a financial services company here.

"Although the subject is neglected, money and how to use it is a definite part of a child's continuing total education and an in-calculable asset to his adult behavior."

Ms. Chen favors an early beginning, even when children's time sense is limited to the "now" and they are unable to grasp such concepts as saving for future purposes.

"The main goal should be communicating the idea that money is simply a medium of exchange and how it is used," she says.

She suggests preparing children for some fundamental ideas during their early years. For example, as soon as they have a grasp of numbers they can be given a quarter to pay for candy or a small toy, thus developing the concept that some things cost more than others.

"The next step would be to give them two quarters to spend on one item or another, thus encouraging decision making. However, it is not until the age of five or six that children develop a grasp of the mechanics of exchange."

Members of Alpha Phi Delta of Beta Sigma Phi were reminded of a pizza party at noon at the Pizza Inn, during their chapter meeting March 1 in the home of Cindy Jones and Tammy Worthan.

The group was also reminded that they would host the City Council meeting March 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Coor's Hospitality Room.

The next meeting will be March 15 in the home of Tonita Reid with Robbie Brunson doing the program.

Dr. Donohue

Medications confuse reader

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am confused by the differing opinions regarding my gout and the medicines for it. Isn't there just one medicine to treat all gout? I compared notes with a friend of mine who is being treated for gout by the very same doctor. Yet she has a different name for her medicine than I do. Are the allopurinol I'm getting and her probenecid the same medicines with different names? — Mrs. T.K.

No, the medicines you mention are not the same drugs. And I doubt that there is any conflict in the view the doctor has of each patient. The fact of the matter is that gout has more than one cause.

Generally, the problem is the same, and that is a rise in the level of uric acid in the blood. It is the cause of the rise that can differ from patient to patient. He either makes too much uric acid or gets rid of too little. The doctor can tell which is happening by measuring the uric acid in a urine specimen collected over 24 hours.

If the blood levels are high and there's a lot of uric acid in the urine, it means the person is making too much. Then allopurinol is the best drug to use because it stops the body's production. If the blood levels are high and the urine has little of the acid in it, then the problem is the inability to get rid of it efficiently enough. For this, probenecid helps by making you excrete more of the acid into the urine.

There is even a third variation in drug treatment. If the blood uric acid is only slightly high and if gout attacks are only mild and infrequent, then the doctor may not give any medicine until an attack occurs, perhaps resorting to a drug like indomethacin at that time. You see, not every case of gout is the same.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you explain lumbar lordosis? My 12-year-old boy has this, and his stomach sticks out slightly, but noticeably. I am told there are certain exercises one can do to help this. — C.L.

I trust that you have taken your son in for a physical examination to get this diagnosis and that nothing more serious was found. From the rest of your letter, it would seem to be the problem that is not uncommon — an accentuation of the normal lumbar lordosis. Let me explain that.

In the lower back, the spine has a gentle forward curve — a lordosis. If this curve is pronounced the abdomen will protrude.

You have heard correctly. There are exercises to help flatten the curve, and it takes time and dedication. But it begins with posture. Have your son stand with his back against a wall. If a fist can fit between his lower back and the wall surface then the forward curvature of the spine is too great and needs to be corrected.

As he is standing against the wall, ask him to flatten his back against it. He can do that by trying to raise his hips upward. That is the posture he should attempt to achieve at all times. This will take work and patience, but he should be able to improve things.

One exercise is the sit-up done with the feet and lower legs lying on the seat of a chair. When he sits up with his legs bent like this, the motion will not pull his lower back forward the way it would if he kept his legs straight out on the floor. I mention this tip because he may want to do sit-ups to try to eliminate the abdominal budge. I am sure his doctor will supply you with other specific exercises to correct this problem, ones that would be too complex to try to outline in print.

Mot all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Woman released on bond

Robin Burchinal Allen, 24, of 1511 B Sycamore was released on bonds totaling $2,000 today. She was arrested Thursday on a county warrant of issuance of bad checks. Fire ant controls announced

The continuing fight against fire ants gears up this year with increased quantities of insecticide and government funding available for beleaguered counties.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has appropriated $6 million to support state fire ant control programs.

Currently, the only fire ant insecticide approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is Amdro. The product is expected to be in retail stores throughout the South, according to Cyanamid officials who manufacture the insecticide.

Amdro is a bait that is carried into the mound by worker ants. After killing the queen, the bait is expected to destroy the entire colony within two or four weeks.

According to product officials, the bait presents minimum hazard to humans, pets, domestic animals and wildlife due to low toxicity.

AVEL GALAN (LEFT) AND WARREN DEAN ...experienced mechanics at Car City Auto in Big Spring

Car City Auto: for sales and service

Car City Auto, on FM 700, is much more than a used car lot. They do sell used cars, but they also provide top-notch car repair services - available to both their car-sale customers and the general public. It is the only used car lot in town with this to offer. Owned and operated by Tony Ginnetti and Jim Stewart, Car City Auto has two full-time, General Motors-qualified mechanics on duty. They do work on foreign cars, diesel engines, and all American cars and trucks. Services include tune ups, brake work, electrical service, work on the air conditioning, complete overhauls and transmission service. "We do free estimates before work," Tony Ginnetti said. "We have all the latest engine analyzing equipment to cut out unnecessary replacement of parts. It tells you what's wrong like just like that. There's no hunt and peck." Ginnetti, who was with Pollard Chevrolet for 7 years, said all replaced parts are returned to the customer. In their sales department, Car City Auto handles late-model used cars. They give a 12,000-mile, 1-year warranty and furnish the previous owner's name and address. Car City is open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. It is located on FM 700 between Goliad and Birdwell, next to La Contesa Beauty Salon. The phone number is 267-4151 or 267-4152.
